S. C. Governor Warns Of Premature Action

Caution Advised Assembly

COLUMBIA (AP) — Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. cautioned today against any "premature action" in meeting what he called "threats that continue to face us" in the school segregation issue.

He told the South Carolina General Assembly he thinks it is advisable to consider the possibility of joining other Southern states "at an appropriate time in a lawful and formal protest against the effort to destroy our form of government."

Declaring there is "growing evidence of an effort to not only disrupt our public schools but also to relegate to a second class status religious faith and racial heritage," Timmerman deplored statements by President Eisenhower in his State of the Union message Jan. 5.

The President "lent the prestige of his office to the effort to pour all religious faith and all racial heritage into the melting pot of last identity," Timmerman said.

"Never before has a national administration proclaimed as unimportant a person's race or religion."

"How better can a person be judged and measured as to what he is? A man's most priceless possession is his heritage. A man's most priceless achievement is his religious faith."

Timmerman touched, but lightly on interposition, the doctrine of a state setting aside federal law objectionable to it. He had indicated he would discuss the subject in his legislative message but contented himself with pointing to it as a suggestion "for preserving our separate but equal school facilities."

He said interposition was resorted to last year "when the sovereignty of our state was interposed between the central government and local trustees when you wrote into the law that no funds appropriated for school purposes shall be used for any school from which or to which any pupil may be assigned by the order of any court."

This year, he said, "our schools are operating in peace and in conformity with the pattern of racial separation which has made for that peace."

"Not one child has sought to gain admittance to a school for the children of the other race. Many Negro parents living in Washington and other cities to the north of us are leaving their children with relatives in our state so that their children can enjoy the benefits of a Southern climate in segregated public schools."

Timmerman denounced any federal aid to education as "sugar-coated federal taxation" and a "big political hoax." Any claim of an acute shortage of school buildings is "simply untrue," he said, because "more school buildings have been constructed in America within the last decade than during any other comparable period. We have more school houses and better school houses than any other country in the world."

He maintained "the real need is to meet 'the normal increase in school enrollment, a need which can be met by the several states without resort to the central government. In South Carolina, 'we are meeting our construction needs both at the public school level and at the public college level," he said.

Utilities Consider New System For Rural Customers

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

New rural customers who hook on to Greenville Utilities electric lines will soon pay a minimum maintenance and investment charge rather than a tapping fee as at present.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam and Business Manager Larry Brown last night were authorized by the Utilities Commission to work out a minimum charge schedule.

The new plan will affect only new rural electric customers. It will have no effect on present rural customers or local electric users.

New rural customers now pay a set tapping fee when they tap in to Greenville Utilities lines. Under the new system a minimum monthly charge would be set up for which a certain amount of current would be allowed. Beyond that, regular scheduled rates would be charged.

Bloxam said he believed a number of potential electrical customers would be able to afford electrical service under the new plan who cannot now pay the tapping fee.

The commissioners also authorized the completion of plans for a six million gallon water plant construction of which has been under consideration for some years.

Approval was given after Bloxam pointed out that the plans, drawn some years ago, provide for a six million gallon water plant but only three million gallons capacity in the settlement basins and filtering beds of the plant.

The Utilities superintendent reported to the commissioners that painting of metal work at the present water plant filter beds is approximately 50 per cent complete.

Installation of sanitary sewer to Sheridan Place has been slowed due to poor weather, he declared.

Would Need New Crew

Bloxam pointed out that another truck and a "hot wire gang" would have to be added at the local electric plant if a crew which is currently working for Greenville Utilities on a contract basis were dropped.

That was in answer to a query by Commissioner John G. Clark.

However, the superintendent pointed out that the crew is moving to another area temporarily and would not be on Greenville Utilities payroll for a period of two or three months.

Pose Continued Threat To Beach Cottages

Waves Still Batter Coast

KILL DEVIL HILLS, N. C. (AP) — High tides and angry waves continued to pound North Carolina's Outer Banks today, threatening additional destruction to beach cottages.

The storm, part of a huge weather system affecting the entire eastern coast, showed signs of losing some of its fury.

Huge waves battering the beach in the Kitty Hawk area, had destroyed at least four cottages and left another so battered it was considered a total loss. Others were threatened if the angry waves and tides should continue to rise.

Mrs. Orville Baum said her husband had surveyed the beach area this morning and reported that high tides last night and this morning had caused no further destruction since yesterday.

Highway crews and prisoners and others were at work trying to prevent further damage.

Dr. Wallace Mustian whose wife is mayor of Kill Devil Hills, said the highway crews and town workers were using draglines and bulldozers trying to divert to the sound water that has washed in from the ocean and is standing on the Outer Banks highway. He said the water, up to 12 inches deep, covered the road in places along a three-mile stretch. The workers also were trying to shore up threatened cottages.

The Outer Banks area, he said, has had strong winds and high tides for a week or more. Winds have ranged up to 25 or 30 miles an hour with gusts "a little higher."

But the damage, he said, has "all been done by the waves." At Kitty Hawk, he said, a high bank behind the beach has been undermined and crumpled by the waves causing the destruction to the cottages. Where the beach forms a long steady incline, he said, there has been little damage.

In the Kitty Hawk area the ocean has cut to within 40 or 50 feet of the highway in places.

Dr. Mustian said tides last night were still "very high," but the wind had dropped to no more than 15 miles per hour. He said the weather was warm and a light drizzle was falling.

Mrs. Baum said cottages destroyed were owned by Albert Toler of Kitty Hawk, Eugene Webb of Raleigh, a Mr. Linnham and Prince Purdy of Williamston. He said the cottage of Hallett Williams of Norfolk was "half standing" but was a "total loss."

The cottage of Charlie Umphlett of Hertford, he said, is "hanging over the bank at an angle." It has been damaged but she said she thought it would be saved.

She said the cottage of Carroll Price of Elizabeth City was undermined and badly damaged but it was hoped it could be saved from complete destruction.

Young Driver To Appeal Sentence

A former school bus driver was found guilty in County Court here yesterday of speeding in excess of several months, additional points still 90, careless and reckless driving, and racing.

Joseph Donald Arnold, 19, of Route 1, Washington, was handed a 90-day suspended sentence and a $25 and costs fine.

In addition, Judge Dick James recommended that Arnold's operator's license be suspended for 18 months. Arnold gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

The young driver, who was arrested late Sunday afternoon after an 11-mile chase by State Highway Patrolman J. B. Surles, was under $300 bond.

Yesterday, Arnold testified that he did not know a patrolman was behind him until he reached the Greenville city limits, less than a mile from where the chase ended.

Arnold admitted driving "about 60" but claimed he did not remember admitting to Surles that he had been driving 90.

Surles had said that he saw Arnold and another unidentified driver travelling west of the Pacolus highway almost bumper to bumper at a high rate of speed.

The patrolman started in pursuit and caught Arnold. The other driver, however, escaped.

No Relief Seen For Chilly Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Icy winds from a gigantic storm off the coast of Virginia continued to blast southeast Florida today, with no immediate relief was in sight.

Tourists kept to their luxury hotels; residents bundled up and sought any type of heating unit on the market.

The cold, which has hung on since Sunday, reached to Cuba, where temperatures in the 50s were reported.

Damage to tender growing vegetables in southeast Florida was estimated in the millions of dollars, but citrus apparently escaped unscathed.

Miami's high yesterday was 67 and low, 42. The Weather Bureau said it would be about the same today.

Dealers selling permanent heating fixtures reported they were far behind on installations.

Urges Action By Virginia Solons

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Gov. Thomas B. Stanley today asked the Virginia Legislature for action to carry out the first step of a segregated school program.

In an address to the opening session of the 1956 General Assembly, Stanley declared the limited constitutional convention approved in Monday's referendum "should be held as early as practicable."

Voters gave their overwhelming approval to amendment of the state constitution to clear the way for using public funds for a child's private schooling, the governor's Commission on Public Education.

"The people have expressed themselves decisively and I consider their action a mandate to me and to the members of this body," said the governor in his prepared address.

He told the Assembly he will recommend a balanced, no-tax increase budget providing for a general fund total of $22,000,000 for the state's public schools.

To take care of pressing building needs, without imposing any new taxes, he advocated an accelerated tax collection program on personal income and public service corporations to give the state a "windfall" of 48 million dollars.

This was a recommendation of a capital outlay study commission which proposed $100,000,000 million dollars over a six-year period.

The constitutional change is intended to allow for public grants to be used to build new schools to attend integrated schools or to build new public schools if integration is compulsory.

The governor said he was "deferring" the present recommendations made by the education commission until the supreme court decision and the public schools' case would be legislation to implement the proposed tuition grants program to provide for an assignment plan whereby local school boards would assign pupils of individual schools for reasons exclusive of race.

Just Wanted A Happy Marriage

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A man who says he just wanted a happy marriage faced a preliminary hearing in City Recorder's Court here today on charges of kidnapping, car larceny and worthless check charges.

Fred K. Owen, 33, of Charlotte, was turned over to city police yesterday. He was arrested in November in Wayne, Mich., by the FBI on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle.

The officer who handled the investigation, Capt. W. A. McCall, said the much-decorated former Marine's troubles developed this way:

Owen married a Cambridge, Mass. woman in 1945. After they had two children the marriage wound up in divorce and Owen came to Charlotte. On July 12, 1952, Owen married a Charlotte woman in York S.C. They had a child and then separated.

He married another Charlotte woman in Chester, S.C., April 30, 1955. The time between the marriages was spent in the military. He undertook marriage without the formality of a divorce. Wife No. 2, thus, the bigamy charge.

Marriage No. 3 failed to take. On Nov. 13, 1955, Owen took another bride in Concord.

To meet expenses of a honeymoon, police said, Owen took the car of wife No. 3 and $1,391.75 of his employer's money. Then he left Charlotte.

A worthless check, police said, resulted from the purchase of a diamond engagement ring and wedding ring for wife No. 4.

From his jail cell here, tall handsome Fred Owen lamented: "There is always some loss in married life. All I wanted was a happy marriage."

Moscow Applauds 'Porgy And Bess'

MOSCOW (AP) — The "Porgy and Bess" company has ded Moscow to its long list of conquests.

An overflow audience wept clapped and applauded for 82 minutes after the first American opera production since the war, the 1941 Bolshoi production.

Although Moscow could not understand the dialogue of the George Gershwin-DuBoise Heyward opera, the production was a smash hit. The first act was up at the end of the performance and the end of the first act.

New $60,000 Building, Much Equipment Is Lost

Ayden Clinic Burns

By Bob Hillrup
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — A pre-dawn fire roared through the new $60,000 Ayden Clinic here today, severely damaging the building and destroying an unknown quantity of medical equipment.

Both building and equipment were believed insured.

The blaze, which apparently began in the roof near a heating unit, was discovered about five a. m. when one of the clinic's two physicians, Dr. Clifton Davenport, came to the clinic with a patient.

Ayden firemen, who responded with two trucks, fought the fire until about 8:30 when increasing winds forced them to place a call for another truck from Greenville.

Medical records and some furniture was saved from the building but a large quantity of equipment, including an X-ray machine, had to be left behind.

The building, a one story, rambling brick structure was opened late last spring.

All outside walls of the building were still standing when the blaze was brought under control but at least two-thirds of the roof and several interior walls had collapsed.

Damage from smoke and water is heavy also.

The building, located at the corner of N. Pitt and W. Power Streets, apparently caught fire near the middle of the roof.

From there, flames spread to other portions of the roof until it finally collapsed, raining blazing embers, water and debris on equipment still inside.

Firemen were hampered also in having to run high pressure lines from hydrants a block or more away.

The spread of the fire apparently had been arrested by Ayden firemen when a northeast wind sprang up out of the darkness and fanned the blaze into new life.

Neither Dr. Davenport, nor his associate, Dr. Lawrence Alexander, were immediately available for comment concerning the value of the equipment damaged.

The building was completed last spring after months of organizational work by Ayden citizens.

Firemen at first tried to control the blaze by spraying water from the ground but finally were forced to use ladders to reach the roof and the source of the blaze.

Through in service for the past several months, additional fans still called for the completion of an unfinished delivery room.

Spread of the fire was halted shortly after seven a. m., but firemen were still pouring water onto the smouldering rubble an hour later.

AFTER ROOF COLLAPSED — A jagged portion of the clinic roof dangles into a hallway after it gave way from flames that gutted the structure shortly after 5 a. m. today. Damage to medical equipment in the building was feared heavy though the brick exterior was left standing.

AS BLAZE DIED DOWN The collapsed roof of Ayden's new medical clinic smoulders early today after fire raged through the $60,000 building doing heavy damage. Firemen from Greenville and Ayden fought the blaze almost three hours. (Reflector Photos by Bob Hillrup.)

Amazon Jungle Combed For 5 Captive Missionaries

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Planes combed the Amazon jungle today for five Protestant U.S. missionaries believed seized by savage Indians. Air Force reports of a body lying near their plane's stripped skeleton aroused fear for their lives.

A U. S. Army helicopter was dispatched from the Canal Zone today to take part with Air Force planes in the hunt for the men, missing in a remote jungle region of northeastern Ecuador.

The five men flew their small Piper Cub into the bush area last week to do mission work among primitive tribesmen. They were identified as Nat Salm, Huntington Valley, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb; Edward McCully, Milwaukee; Peter Fleming, Seattle, Wash.; James Elliot, Portland, Ore.; and Roger Youderian, Billings, Mont.

The Air Force joined the search after another flying missionary, John Keenan, made a reconnaissance flight over the area and reported seeing the stripped Piper Cub. He said he saw no sign of the missionaries but spotted several Indian canoes heading down the river.

Keenan made his investigation after the mission party radioed it had encountered a group of Indians, then broke radio contact. Soon after the hunt began a Quito radio station relayed a message from a U. S. search plane that it had sighted the Piper Cub — stripped of its fabric and along side it a body pierced with an Indian lance.

However, Air Force headquarters in the Canal Zone said its report from the search pilot placed the body about 300 or 400 yards from the plane and made no mention of a lance.

The Air Force emphasized that this report made no identification of the body, either as that of a white man or an Indian.

The mission party set up its base about a week ago at Shell Mera, an oil company headquarters Saint first flew McCully and Youderian to the jungle clearing, then returned to Shell Mera, where his wife had remained to receive communications from the party.

On Saturday, McCully and Youderian reported friendly contact with the Auca Indians. Saint took off again Sunday with Elliot and Fleming.

Shortly after landing at the scene Saint messaged his wife that he would transmit again at 4 p. m. At that time he began sending another message, then broke off to tell of the approaching Auca. It was his last word.

The Auca, described as the least civilized of Ecuador's Indian tribes, have rarely been seen by white men.

All five men have been in mission work in South America from 3 to 10 years. All were married and had their families with them. Saint has a 10-month-old daughter, Youderian two children, Elliot, a 1-year-old daughter and McCully two small sons. The Flemings have no children.

Youderian was a member of the Gospel Missionary Union and the others of an organization named Christian Missions in Many Lands.

Just As 'Ornery As Ever' At 100

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Granny Burks says she's 100 years old and just as "mean and ornery as ever." At her birthday party yesterday Granny, whose first name is Virginia, is seldom used, gave her recipe for long life:

"Plenty of black-eyed peas, turnip greens, salt pork corn pone, whiskey and snuff."

AMATEUR IS BACK

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Amateur attorney John White argued his own case and won an acquittal in circuit court on a drunken driving charge yesterday.

He was back to police court today, however. White faced a new charge of driving while drunk.

Shackleton's Base Camp In Antarctic Is Found

By SAUL PETT

CAPE ROYDS, Ross Island, Antarctica (AP) — The base camp used by the first man to come close to the South Pole still stands here at the foot of Mt. Erebus on a little hollowed-out shelf over the frozen ice of McMurdo Sound.

It is 47 years since England's Ernest Shackleton made his gallant attempt. Forced to turn back 85 miles short of his goal, he and his parties did much notable exploratory and scientific work in the antarctic.

Looking over his camp almost half a century later gives one the sensation of a macabre movie that stopped suddenly, with all action and life frozen in the last motion. There is the sensation too of being on a spot as dismal and bleak as a crater of the moon must be.

The wooden hut about 40 by 20 feet, has whitened over the years but is still in good condition. Cables criss-crossing over its peak anchor it against the violent antarctic winds. It stands on a slight rise overlooking a saucer-shaped area and the center of the saucer is a groups—hams together, soups too well protected. Black volcanic ash where nothing ever grew rings it. From the seaside comes the squawking of a small penguin rookery. Overhead ugly skuas gulls wait like vultures to pounce on the penguins.

Behind the hut Mt. Erebus rises in an overwhelming white pyramid all the way up to 13,000 feet—the only active volcano in the antarctic.

Scattered around the hut are cans, boxes and boxes. Some are half open, or chewed away by the skuas gulls. They contain hams, soup, marrow, fat, corn kernels, concentrated fruits and other foodstuffs for man and beast. Those that are unopened are still edible.

At first glance the piles appear helter-skelter. But closer inspection reveals the provisions in groups—hams together soups together—where the explorers once stored them in the snow.

Some are marked "British Antarctic Expedition 1908." Others were left by the second expedition in 1917. On that one Shackleton never reached his men here on McMurdo Sound. He took one group to the Wedell Sea, on the other side of the continent. Heavy ice trapped his ship, then carried it hundreds of miles off course preventing the linkup.

It was on the first expedition that Shackleton jumped off from here for the pole, using Manchurian drag sledges along the 800-mile route.

Going Back To Court In Fight To Stop Practice Of Polygamy

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — State child welfare officials are returning to the courts in efforts to make a Short Creek, Utah, couple either give up their children or sign affidavits saying they won't teach them to be polygamists.

A party of welfare workers, led by Glenn Adams, went into the isolated Utah-Arizona border town yesterday to take custody of the eight children of Leonard and Vera Black. They gave up the attempt when townspeople barred their way.

Last night, Director John Farr Larson of the State's Bureau of Services for Children, said he was now in Arizona, a child welfare consultant.

1. Secure complaints against the people who barred the way, charging them with "interfering with an officer in performance of duty."

2. Ask Cedar City, Utah juvenile court to start contempt proceedings against the Blacks.

Utah's attempt to take custody of the Blacks live on the Utah side of the Colorado River. The Blacks live on the Arizona side of the Colorado River.

Many residents of the hamlet are fundamentalists who believe that plural marriage is the law of God. Though they insist this is the true doctrine of the Latter-Day Saints, Mormons, the Church church outlawed polygamy in 1890 and excommunicated members who won't observe the ban.

When Adams and his crew Short Creek armed with the court order, Mrs. Black refused to sign affidavits.

Why should I be required to sign an unconstitutional law by pledge of any oath of any kind in order to keep my children from being honorably brought up in a polygamous household, she asked.

Adams and his party went to Short Creek with the children after several months of legal battles, leading to the room in the Black home where the children were being raised. The children were taken to the court house where they were held overnight.

When the children were taken to the court house, they were held overnight. The children were taken to the court house where they were held overnight.

Girl Scout Tea Is Scheduled Jan. 29

Date for the annual Girl Scout tea has been set for January 29, it was announced at the regular meeting of the Pitt County Girl Scout Council Monday.

Mrs. Charles A. White, president, made the announcement, and members decided that each Pitt County community supporting Girl Scout or Brownie troops should hold its own tea this year. It is at this function that the annual report of the council is presented to the public.

A report from Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, executive director, revealed that Ayden and Grifton have reorganized scout troops and that troop leaders and assistants have been secured.

Mrs. Proctor urged every council member to attend the regional training courses to be given in Rocky Mount January 30-February 3. She pointed out that the courses will be conducted by trained personnel from national headquarters.

Mrs. White announced that Mrs. J. H. Thomas has consented to serve as secretary for the council beginning in February. She also announced that Mrs. J. J. White, Sr. is a new member of the program committee.

The council accepted "with regret" the resignation of the Rev. LaFon Varen of Farmville as chairman of the camp committee, and of Mrs. M. P. Hoot as chairman of the campership committee.

Mrs. Proctor announced that the council has received a gift donation of $100, and the council decided to purchase a typewriter with the funds.

Members discussed the annual cookie sale at some length, finally deciding to increase the order this year from 6,000 to 6,500 boxes and to order two varieties of cookies.

In the regular treasurer's report, Mrs. J. H. Harrell called attention to the fact that the budget for 1956 may have to be curtailed because of the failure of the Greenville Community Chest to reach its goal.

Wellesley-Princeton Graduates Wed In Boston Ceremony

ROBERSONVILLE — In the Church of the Covenant, Boston, Mass., on December 18, 1955, at 4 o'clock, Miss Sheila Anne Gray, daughter of Captain Garland A. Gray, Medical Corps, U.S.N., and Mrs. Gray, quarters H. U.S.N. Hospital, Chelsea, Mass., became the bride of Mr. Philip Harding Jordan Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan of Metedeconk, N. J. The Rev. William Henry Denny officiated.

The church was decorated with white poinsettias and chrysanthemums. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Princess gown of blue silk taffeta with an heirloom lace bertha and a chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil was draped from a cap of taffeta embroidered in pearls. She carried a prayer book topped with camellias, showered with stephanotis and veiled ribbon.

Miss Terry Ann Schabacker of Larchmont, N. Y., maid of honor, wore a Princess dress of Christmas red velvet and a matching cap with camellias at the nape of the neck. Her bouquet was of variegated pink camellias surrounded by holly.

The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Easton of Harwinton, Conn., a cousin of the bridegroom; Miss Lynette Mock, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Diane Dobyns, Washington, D. C.; and Mrs. Orin B. Hammond of Wauwatosa, Wis. Their gowns were similar to the honor attendant's and their bouquets were identical.

Mr. John Jordan of Metedeconk was his brother's best man. The ushers included Messrs. Garland A. Gray Jr., brother of the bride, Lawrence H. Hacksstaff, Thomas N. Maytham and William W. Berghuis.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gray selected a royal blue silk with a matching hat. Her corsage was of mauve cymbidium orchids and heather.

Mrs. Jordan wore an aqua silk dress with a blue hat and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the Commissioned Officers' Club at the Boston Naval Shipyard.

For a trip to Canada the bride chose a red suit, a black and white tweed coat and black accessories.

The bride graduated from Wellesley College in the class of 1955.

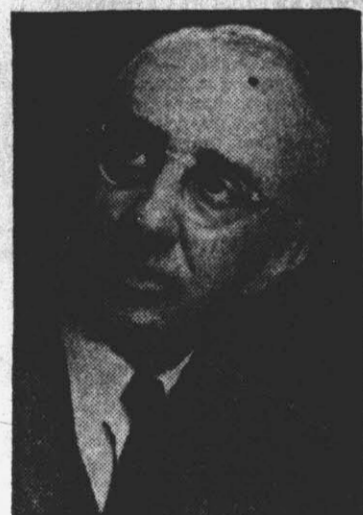

Mr. Jordan, an alumnus of Lawrenceville School, is a graduate of Princeton where he belonged to the Quadrangle Club. He is a member of the Princeton Club, New York. The young couple will make their home in New Haven, Conn. while he is working on a graduate degree at Yale University.

Mrs. Jordan, the granddaughter of Mrs. Betty Gray of Robersonville, has many relatives here.

organization stated. Robert Byrd, professional opera singer and director, directs the Grass Roots Opera.

The Grass Roots Opera is administered by the Extension Division of the University of North Carolina in cooperation with the North Carolina State Opera Company. The opera has grown the reputation of the Grass Roots Opera singers, that over 90 inquiries were received relative to this season's roster from 21 states, Washington, Arizona, Connecticut and Florida included. One application came in from Italy. It is the only opera company in which singers may sing up to 75 performances of opera, in English, in North Carolina alone.

The Grass Roots Opera movement in America was founded by A. J. Fletcher, an attorney and businessman of Raleigh. His aims were to give young singers a chance to perfect their art, to give the public an opportunity to hear opera in English and give the avocational singer an outlet for his talents. In 1951 the movement was integrated with the music courses of the public schools of the state. Material is furnished classroom teachers and the training is followed by a matinee performance. Over 125,000 students have seen the matinees in several operas the company uses school and community choruses to assist in the production.

The Greenville Music Club is sponsoring the opera. A nominal admission fee will be charged. Dr. Stanley Walter of the sponsoring

Seven Prominent Speakers For ECC Religious Emphasis Week

Seven speakers, all outstanding for their work in religion and education, will participate in the observance of Religious Emphasis Week at East Carolina College this month. Dr. John B. Bennett, director of religious activities at the college, has announced. Main events of Religious Emphasis Week will begin Monday, January 23, and will extend through Thursday, January 26. Both preliminary and follow-up programs are being planned.

Sponsor of Religious Emphasis Week at the college is the Inter-Religious Council, made up of representatives of eleven student religious organizations on the campus. Martha M. Johnston of Paw Creek, president of the council, heads a committee of approximately 100 students who are planning the program.

Assemblies, forums, conferences, and informal meetings are included in plans for the week. The theme to be developed is "Revolution and Reconciliation."

Speakers who will visit the campus and make the principal addresses of the week are the Rev. Roger Otmayer of Nashville, Tenn., editor of "Motive," widely used Methodist magazine for youth, and of "Church and Campus," general church publication.

Ladylike Look In Spring Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK — Ladies will look ladylike this spring, whether in slim daytime dresses that fit them like the pants on the wall, or in floating clouds of chiffon after dark.

There are two extremes in the new fashions for spring, as shown this week to some 200 visiting fashion editors representing newspapers throughout the country. One is the straight, narrow, understated column silhouette. The other is the strictly feminine, often full-skirted, actively fluttering cocktail or evening gown.

Roxane, designing for Samuel Winston, revives a gentle and nostalgic fashion in her pleated chiffon short formal dresses. An outstanding example is a dress of gossamer-thin black silk chiffon, its full skirt using yards and yards of tiny pleats, its bodice smoothly fitted with neckline scooped to the back, with a waist-length cape of the same pleated chiffon tied at the neck with narrow silk shoestrings. There is something definitely alluring and utterly feminine about black chiffon, a fact that some designers have overlooked for the past few seasons. Roxane rediscovers it, and uses her discovery with telling effect.

Karen Stark, designing for Harvey Berin, also shows a beautiful and feminine collection accenting slim lines for daytime, full skirts for party wear, and her signature touches such as lace appliques and inserts, delicate embroidery and subtle dressmaker touches.

Editors got a capsule picture of junior styles for spring in a combined showing of youthful styles by Mr. Mort Junior Sophisticates, and Reich-Goldfarb, all of which follow the main lines of the adult mode in slim lines for daytime, frou-frou for evening and distinction in beauty and variety of fabrics.

Coffee Hour Honors Bride

FOUNTAIN — Mrs. James Barker Fountain, a recent bride, was honored Saturday morning at a coffee hour at the Fountain Community Building by Mrs. G. E. Trevathan, Mrs. Hardy Johnson and Mrs. J. M. Horton.

Wrought iron candle holders with green candles, artificial fruit and ivy decorated the large rustic mantel. Burning logs in the fireplace furnished a warm atmosphere inside the recreation room.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Trevathan and presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Walter Jones, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Fountain, by Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Horton directed them to the tea table, covered with an imported cut work cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink snap dragons and carnations. Mrs. R. A. Fountain poured hot speed tea and the guests served themselves to chicken salad puffs, ribbon sandwiches, fruit cake, decorated cookies, cheese straws, assorted pickles and nuts.

Receiving in the house were Mrs. W. C. Reddick, Mrs. Stancil Dilda, Mrs. Leland Flanagan of Greenville, Mrs. Philip M. Cory, Misses Anne Harris and Miss Martha Hardy Johnson.

A gift of linen was presented to Mrs. Fountain.

About 100 guests called during the morning.

Our School Record Pays A 'Dividend'

Pitt County and Greenville school administrative units should have no complaint over their portion of the allocation of the $50 million in school bond funds voted by the state's citizens in 1953.

Allocation of the last $25 million of the bond money brought to a total of $736,643.57 the state funds which have been allotted to the Pitt County and Greenville school administrative units. In the allocation of the last $25 million, a special state committee determined a formula for distributing the money among the counties on the basis of need, daily attendance, daily school membership, local efforts to keep pace with school needs and ability to meet school needs. Of this last allocation the Pitt County School administrative unit received $284,098.22 and the Greenville City Schools received $91,821.71.

The nearly three-quarters of a million dollars schools in Pitt County have received from the state bond issue of three years ago will indeed be a great factor in the county's meeting its need for new classroom space and other school facilities. Particularly will it be an important factor in affording new facilities for Negro schools throughout the county.

Practically all of the state money received by the county administrative unit—$562,836.23—has been earmarked for additions and improvement to Negro schools throughout the county. Only a small portion of the money has yet been spent although plans are being made for new buildings and facilities which will be financed out of the remainder of the funds.

While the school population of Pitt County had a great deal to do with the allocation the county as a whole received from the state bond funds, the fact that Pitt citizens have approved their own school bond issues at every opportunity was certainly evidence of the interest of local people in their schools and their willingness to give financial support to their public schools. The fact that Pitt citizens have not turned down a school bond proposal in modern times certainly was a factor considered by the committee in making the allocation of the funds.

Now that the formula for distribution of the last $25 million of state bond money has been determined and the amount each administrative unit will receive has been arrived at, we trust state officials will expedite work to enable the funds to be released to the individual school units for use.

In Pitt, as in most other counties of the state, there is a pressing need for more school facilities. Knowing the funds from the state will be forthcoming is a confronting thought; but actually the individual units cannot begin construction work on the needed projects until the promised state funds are received.

Courts Can Help Curb Threat To Life And Limb

The manner in which Pitt County roads are being used as race tracks by some drivers is certainly sufficient cause for alarm by all the people of the county.

Racing on public highways already has accounted for one traffic death in Pitt County this year and if the current situation continues unabated there are likely to be other deaths attributable to the same cause before the year is over.

Law enforcement officers are going to great length in their attempt to curb the racing on public roads throughout the county. But with the relatively small number of patrolmen and other officers in the county, they cannot possibly keep vigilance over all the roads of the county every hour of the day and night.

These hot-rod pilots who get a thrill out of seeing the speedometer jump to the 90 or 100-mile-an-hour mark are taking into their hands not only their own lives and the lives of passengers in their automobiles; but they are likewise taking into their hands the lives of other people using the highways and attempting to abide by the laws and follow the rules of highway safety.

Obviously these speed enthusiasts have little regard for their own safety or the safety of others. Equally disturbing is their lack of respect for the lethal force packed by a fast moving motor vehicle.

If the racing on the county's highways is to be stopped, it is going to take special effort by law enforcement officers and subsequent severe punishment at the hands of the court of those who are guilty of such flagrant disregard for law, life and property.

Regardless of the efforts of officers to apprehend these violators of the traffic laws, efforts to curb the highway racing fad will be of little consequence if the courts do not attach sufficient importance to the cases to meet out justly severe punishment.

If the fear of death or injury will not deter racing addicts from engaging in their dangerous pastime, perhaps fear of the courts will have some influence over the pressure they put on their automobile accelerator.

New License Tags Have A Pleasing Appearance

We like the new look of North Carolina's auto license plates for '56.

We wish we could say the same for the Greenville City tags, but the 1956 version of the city tag doesn't strike our fancy. Next year perhaps the City Council will take a little more pains in selecting the type license plate the city will sell to motor vehicle owners.

But back to the state tags. They are becoming quite prevalent now and the more we see of them, the better we like them. Particularly does the use of letters with numbers strike our fancy. No more six-figure numbers to remember. Just a couple of letters and possibly three numbers. In our estimation the 1956 auto license plates look better than any North Carolina has put out in a long number of years.

There's another thing we like about the new license plates. The cost to the state for having them made. This year, with only one tag instead of two for each vehicle, the state cut down considerably on the expense of producing the license plates. That reduction in cost was not passed on to the auto owner directly in reducing the price of the plates, but it has been passed on to taxpayers of the state in terms of less expense in the overall operation of state government.

About And Around A Test Farm Sale

By LYNN NISBET
LAND SALE — The State Board of Agriculture spent more than two hours talking about and around the sale of the old Piedmont Test Farm at Statesville before adopting motions authorizing conferences with the special legislative commission appointed to handle the sale, and requesting a formal ruling from the Attorney General to determine whether they had any business discussing the matter.

L.Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture and six-official chairman of the board, opened the discussion by reading a 16-page prepared statement which reviewed the situation from the time the impact of Statesville's industrial development began to encroach on the farm in the late 30's, through the latest meeting of the Council of State which approved recommendations of the special committee for selling some of the land and setting up methods for selling the rest, but putting the actual selling job back in the hands of the board, all over the protest of Commissioner Ballentine.

Ballentine told the board there was only one question before it: Will you accept the assignment to conduct the sale on the terms outlined by the Council of State, or will you decline the assignment in view of the limitations placed upon you, by the requirement that the best 100 acres be sold at auction in one sale and the less valuable 200 acres be sold later but at one auction?

Board membership was apparently unanimous in opposing these conditions. Board members were reluctant to take a position that might be construed as openly opposing the Governor and the Council of State. Hence the rambling discussion and the inconclusive action.

SENTIMENT — The discussion clearly manifested that every member of the board agreed with Ballentine's general position that the board had been slighted in the legislative action taking the matter out of its hands, and then attempting to put the major responsibility back on the board, with such restrictions that it could not do a good job. It was just as obvious that board members were not willing to be put in the childish position of pointing the finger at the Legislature because they had not been treated with as much courtesy as they felt was their due. The common attitude seemed to be recognition of some responsibility to the people of the whole state, without regard to petty political advantage or the special benefits which might accrue to one community.

At the same time none of the members could understand why they should have to assume responsibility for details of the land sale, because another statutory commission whose members, on the same pay felt it did not have time to do the job. The Legislature assigned them, especially after a special commission had fixed the rule.

The motion for further conferences in order to reconcile differences was made by Miss McCotter and seconded by Ivan Blissett, as a substitute for a shorter motion offered by Glenn Gilmore and seconded by J.H. Alexander to the effect that the special commission be directed to proceed with the sale as directed by the legislative act.

After the McCotter motion was adopted by three or four affirmative and no negative votes, Claude Hall raised the legal question of whether the special commission could delegate its authority to the board or the board accept the responsibility under terms of the act. So the attorney general was asked belatedly to rule on that point. There is a chance at least that the two hours debate was on a moot issue. Certainly before anything definite can be done about selling the land another meeting of the board must be held.

SPECIAL — The situation at Statesville is unique, in that the city is growing so fast it is growing around an old farm. The state land lying frontage on two major highways and intersected by a railroad makes it perhaps the most desirable site for a big industrial community anywhere in the state. Whether the unique situation justifies the special method of handling the property, entirely different from the handling of all other state lands, is a vital question in the current controversy. That issue is enhanced by the emphasis being put upon industrial development, the building of manufacturing plants as contrasted with agricultural, tourist and other phases of the overall economy.

The board of agriculture apparently thinks the Piedmont Farm lands should be treated like all other lands controlled by that agency. But the other members were reluctant to endorse Commissioner Ballentine's obvious feeling that there was something personal in the special handling authorized by the General Assembly. There was general concurrence in the positions taken by Alexander of Sion Point and Griffin of Monroe, the two members geographically closest to Statesville. Alexander said: "I'm here not representing the local chamber of commerce, or even the Department of Conservation and Development. I'm here as a member of the Board of Agriculture to represent the best for the agricultural interests of the whole state."

There was further evidence of belief on the part of the agriculture board members that they were in a better position, from knowledge of the local picture, to determine what is for the best interests of the whole program than one or two local chambers of commerce or a few members of the General Assembly. It boils down to the fact that the board of agriculture made a mistake in setting up a special committee, that the committee once set up ought to follow through and complete the job, but that the board will not duck its responsibility because of petty personal pique.

Wanted: A Wife This Year

Leap Year, with its many advantages for the male of the species, is upon us. Therefore, perhaps even such as I may have a chance. And if I should be so fortunate as to be "caught" by some charming lass, then even Alvin Taylor, the Reflector's most time honored bachelor, might have hopes. Seriously though, I'm in the market for a wife. During Christmas my good parents informed me that, for next Christmas, they would appreciate a daughter-in-law and a grandson. Since I'm an only child, that places a heavy burden of responsibility upon my shoulders and though the former of the two (daughter-in-law) might be obtained on a moment's notice, the latter (grandson) might take a little more time. Assuming, therefore, that there might be some lady interested in marriage, just what have I to offer her? Not too much, I'm afraid. Whereas my appearance doesn't frighten children, there is still a lot of doubt about my looking like a movie star. (Except, perhaps, for Jerry Lewis). Money? Nope, that's out of the question. Intelligence? Well, I flunked seven subjects before finally getting out of high school. Let's stop all this. I'm afraid I just won't work as a prospective husband—even during leap year. And besides, the self-analysis is knocking the devil out of my ego. Still, despite all those drawbacks, if any young lady is willing to take a chance... all correspondence will be received in care of The Daily Reflector. I'm waiting. No reasonable offer rejected.

Biggest 'Sucker' Of Country

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Gurbstone reflections of a pavement Plato: Many a white collar worker today believes he has become civilization's biggest sucker, the forgotten man of the 20th Century. His voice is relatively unheard in the land. Few politicians bother to ask his views or explore his plight. The only people who seek him out are bill collectors, and it is his cash, not his charms, that draws them.

Let us get out our crying towel and listen to the woes of a typical member of the paper clip brigade, which run about as follows: "Every other class in America seems to get something special from the government except the white collar class. Why are we overlooked? When do we get our turn at the public trough? "They talk about a soil bank for farmers. How about a fund to pay for our soiled white collars?"

"Why can't Congress at least vote us some help under the foreign aid program? Certainly no group has been more foreign to government aid than the white collar class." There is at least an ounce of truth within this pound of bitterness. Farmers have a lobby. Veterans have a lobby. Manufacturers have a lobby. The unions have a lobby. So do the railroads, the utilities, the airlines, the shipping interests, even postmen, school-teachers, toy makers and amateur bird watchers have their lobbies.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
IT DEPENDS ON THE expression we often hear on the expression that we get about what is coming to us in life. There is a bit of harshness in a statement of this sort, but there is also a bit of truth in it. Nothing ever happens to us that we in some measure do not bring upon ourselves by an act of folly; we may be only the kind of person to whom such an experience would naturally happen. The thing seeks us out and bruises and hurts us because it has our number on it. We are put here in the world to learn. It is a school. All through the ages hundreds of thousands of people have gone to school and occupied seats and learned nothing. Some learned not because they were stupid, but more often because they did not want to learn, or because they wanted to be gay and busy with something else, or because their minds were far away from their tasks. They did not learn, and so they failed. It is the same in the living of our lives. We may seem to get more of our share of trouble than we deserve, and once in while this is the case. Others may seem to get more good fortune than they deserve. And occasionally this is the case also. But usually it happens that we get what is coming to us, and we are never happy until we face that fact resolutely. Remember—we are here in the world to learn. If we do not learn, we fail and must experience the consequences thereof. But until death comes upon us, we may go forward if we will.

About the only two groups in America who don't have a lobby are white collar workers and widows. They remain largely unrepresented, perhaps, because they can't punish a politician why should he worry about them? Time has passed the white collar man by. That white collar, once a badge of pretended gentility, has become more of a symbol of faceless nonentity. Since no longer pays off at the pay window. It used to be the guys in overalls who stood in line at the loan office seeking to borrow money. Today it's the guys in the dirty-white collars. The average white collar worker now is the greatest prisoner of the installment plan and the finance company. Debts go with his daily bread. (Continued on Page 7)

(Greensboro Daily News) It is good to know that this year's Democratic primaries will have a lively spirited contest for the nomination for lieutenant governor. Veteran Rep. Alonso C. Edwards of Greens County has formally declared his candidacy. Kido Brewer, Raleigh insurance man and entrepreneur, has been in the running for months, although he is yet to make it official. And potential candidates, yet to reveal their intentions, include such Senate or former Senate stalwarts as Adam Whitley of Smithfield, David Rose of Wayne, Vivian Whitfield of Pender and Guilford, and Arthur Kirkman of High Point.

The Daily News hopes they will all come in. Heretofore the second highest office in the state has too often gone by default. It has been overshadowed by other contests, especially the Governor's, with little arousal of interest and until Luther Hodges stirred up the 1952 race to defeat the generally regarded favorite and land himself through Fate's intervention, in the executive mansion, little to choose between. This year's indicated scramble tends to justify the hope that Tar Heel citizenry has belatedly re-

Interposition Doctrine Seen For South

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The ancient Virginia doctrine of "interposition," which was first advocated by Thomas Jefferson and James Madison in protest against the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798, will probably be adopted by eleven Southern states as their final, complete and negative answer to the Supreme Court's edicts against segregation in public schools and parks. "Interposition" means that when a state or group of states believe that the Chief Executive, Congress or the Supreme Court in short, the Federal government, have violated the Constitutional compact or contract, they may refuse to abide by the alleged violation. It does not mean defiance of the Supreme Court according to its proponents because they contend that the Supreme Court is the actual violator.

"INTERPOSITION" PLAN The idea was currently advanced by David Tennant Brvan and James Jackson Kilpatrick, publisher and editor, respectively, of the Richmond (Va.) News Leader. It has swept through the South as the legal remedy for its present predicament. Meetings at Memphis re-presently, representatives of 11 states agreed to support the "interposition" plan through favorable action in their Legislatures. The News Leader has published a tentative draft of a constitutional amendment designed to test this theory. It provides generally that the states agree to surrender their power to maintain segregated schools. It also says that, if three-fourths of the states ratify this amendment, "Virginia agrees that it will be bound thereby." The belief is that such an amendment will not be acceptable to sufficient states to incorporate it in the Constitution. But its submission would permit the segregation question to be settled by constitutional processes rather than by the judicial fiat of only nine men.

Some Tax Cuts For The Votes

By ELMER ROESSNER
Congress will probably cut income taxes—but not very much. Most observers think that, regardless of the position taken by the Eisenhower Administration, there will be some trimming of taxes—a bit of political finger-nail paring. Several leaders in the Senate have declared that taxes cannot be cut until the budget is balanced and a start made on paying off the national debt. (You worked about a week last year to pay your share of interest to bankers and bond holders to whom the national debt is owed.) However—and if this is classified information nobody told you—this is an election year. All of the House and a third of the Senate come up for re-election, and a few other important offices have to be filled. And it will take a lot of guts for a politician to go before the voters of his district and say, "I voted against a tax cut for you."

BOOM SWELLS RECEIPTS
Another reason for expecting a small tax cut is that the high level of business this year with high incomes and high corporate profits, have increased Federal revenue to an unexpectedly large degree. Some Congressmen hold that it will be possible to balance the budget, as pledged by Republicans in the election campaign of 1952, put through a tax cut and make a start toward paying off the public debt. However, almost all agree that the tax cuts and debt payments will necessarily be small.

One field in which some cuts are likely to be made consists of excise taxes, some of which are madness. For instance, the cabaret tax appears to cost the government more than it takes in. Other levies, such as those on light bulbs, restrict business without bringing in any appreciable INCOME. The chief reason for expecting action here is that some of the more serious-minded Congressmen have been making studies of the situation and may be expected to propose changes that will stop beating business without losing too much revenue.

LITTLE FOR PETER, LITTLE FOR PAUL
There also may be a slight reduction in corporation taxes. Congress is on a spot here. Under laws on the books, the rate is 47 per cent. The rate is to be 47 per cent on March 31. Therefore, Congress can't duck the question. It will have to take action to extend the higher rate (or part of it) or let a 5-point cut go through.

The best educated guesses are that Congress will vote for a new rate of 49 or 51 per cent. A 50 per cent rate has some psychological disadvantages; it makes the government seem like a partner in corporate ventures and it creates even more than $2 per cent of the amount of profits the government gets. If corporations get a small cut then—on a basis of previous patterns—small taxpayers will have to get a small benediction. Most interest so far has been in proposals to increase the exemption. Most of these proposals have been to increase it from the present $600 to $700.

This is politically wonderful, because it appears to give the greatest advantage to the low-income groups who have the most votes. And most of the low incomers would regard it as a special blessing for them, with Uncle Sam thumbing his nose at the rich. A little study, however, will show that increasing the exemption would benefit the rich more than the poor. Raising the exemption $200 would save exactly $21 for the head of a family making $4,000 a year. But it would save $91 for the head of a family making more than $300,000 a year. How!

SEX DISCRIMINATION RAISES UGLY HEAD
Decanter bottles were so successful at Christmas that several distillers are considering using special decanters for other gifts. Some are weighing plans for Father's Day decanters but none, as yet, has been willing to tackle proposals for special bottles for Mother's Day.

Camera News

PURR-TV KITTEN by Walter Chandoha brightens "The 1956 Cat Calendar". It's a close-up shot with a portrait attachment on the lens and with a three light arrangement.

By IRVING DESFOR
(AP Newsfeatures)
CAT PHOTOS. I've noticed after writing a camera column for some years, evoke a greater reader response than any other type of photos. Evidently cat lovers are more vocal or ready to take pen in hand to inquire about, praise or condemn an item that concerns their special interest than other people. For them, then, here's the glad tidings:

"The 1956 Cat Calendar" is now available. This spiral bound, weekly date and engagement book is an annual photographic treat. This year it has 56 new photos by Walter Chandoha, the acknowledged specialist in feline photography. Maybe I shouldn't even mention to these cat loving fans that Chandoha has become equally adept at photographing dogs and that there are just as many dogs in this home as there are cats. That's an apologetic way to say that this year there's also "The 1956 Dog Calendar" with photos by Walter Chandoha. Both booklets are published by the Berkshire Publishing Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Undoubtedly, these pictures will inspire some camera fans to take pictures of their own pets at home. Here are some suggestions taken from notes made during a Chandoha demonstration of his technique:

Rub Away Colds
SUFFERING OF
VICKS VAPORUB

Put the pet (could be a baby, too) on a small table about three feet from a plain background. This limits the movement of the subject to a small area which you can keep in focus. Sometimes the pet has a favorite spot like a particular chair, a couch or a corner. Prepare your lights and camera for that spot and you'll be all set for the subject's convenience.

Cats and dogs are small so you have to get close and you have to get down to their level. If you don't have a focusing camera which enables you to shoot sharply at two, three, four or five feet, then you must get a portrait attachment for best results.

Good lighting is an important aspect of Chandoha's formula for good pictures. A single flashbulb-on-camera will give you pictures and stop action but usually lacks the sparkle that comes with a good cross-lighting set-up. A minimum of two lights is recommended and a third is preferred. The basic arrangement remains the same whether the lights are electronic, synchronized flash or electronic speed-lights.

One light is placed at each side of the camera, about four feet from the subject and two feet higher. The third light is the flexible one. It can be used to provide an edge highlight by placing it opposite the camera and angling it up or down on the pet while making sure it doesn't hit into the camera lens. It can also be turned around to illuminate the background behind the subject.

Sound effects are an important part of Chandoha's picture taking technique. His vocal repertoire consists of meows, barks, yips, purrs, whistles and assorted attention-getters at strategic moments. At other times he drums a tattoo on his camera or the reflector with his finger tips. In addition he uses mechanical noise makers. He creates a constant variety of sounds to rivet the subject's attention and to get a reaction which he is prepared to shoot.

Food, of course, is another way to command attention. Chandoha dips his fingers in sardines or cream and gives his cat subject a whiff to keep him interested in the proceedings. Periodic rewards of choice tidbits also help.

Pets, like people, are creatures of temperaments and moods. They have their moments when they are frisky and playful, and other moments when they are sluggish and sleepy. Before meals they are liable to be irritable because they are hungry. Successful picture taking must be geared to the pet's schedule since it depends on its co-operation.

WHAT'S NEW? An 8mm movie camera for the first time has a light meter coupled to the lens setting to assure perfect exposures. This built-in brain is one unique feature of several innovations in the Bauer 38B, one of a line of 8mm movie cameras imported from the West Zone of Germany.

A new system of projecting three dimension slides which eliminates eye strain while making slide adjustments has been introduced. It is accomplished by making the necessary alignments, while the separate images are not polarized. When the adjustments have been made, releasing a button dissolves the double images into a single, three dimensional view. Of course, as with all stereo projectors, polarized glasses must be worn by the viewers to get the three dimensional effect with the new Pola-Matic stereo projector.

A compact and inexpensive synchroflash testing device, originally intended for dealer use only, has now been made available for camera fans. It tests: 1-shutter synchronizations, 2-flash circuits, 3-flashbulbs, 4-batteries and B-C cartridges. Called the Ansoo Synchroflash Tester it measures 2x3 1/4 inches, small enough to be kept handy in any gadget bag.

S. C. Legislature Has Fast Start

COLUMBIA (P)—The new session of the General Assembly has a head start on segregation legislation. With the new session only minutes old yesterday, these proposals had been offered.

To declare the U.S. Supreme Court school integration decision null and void until approved by a constitutional amendment. That's the interposit doctrine.

To create a committee to study disposition of state property whose use might be affected by the integration decision, such as state parks and possibly public schools.

To require teachers to swear they are not members of either the Communist Party or the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

To advise bus companies that the assembly disapproves of mixing white and Negro passengers on intrastate buses.

To require a loyalty oath, such as now taken by state officials, of all state, county and city employees.

To take the recreational areas of state parks away from the state forestry commission and turn them over to the governor for handling. This is due to a pending federal court case against park segregation.

Only 19 per cent of the workers in the United States are self-employed, statistics of the U.S. Census Bureau reveal.

Tallying Data Of Most Profitable Business Year

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (P)—Businessmen are busy today tallying up the records of their most profitable year. The first earnings reports indicate that 1955 set a profit pace which the new year will find hard to beat.

The stock market has been doing considerable second-guessing along this line, as traders assess the prospects of individual corporations to continue their growth rate of recent months, to maintain profit margins in the face of rising operating costs, and to declare dividends that would sweeten present yields.

But whether the future is clouded or fair, the hindsight provided by the earnings statements of business is cheerful indeed.

The annual reports won't start coming in volume till later this month. But some corporations whose fiscal years have ended are reporting on their 12-month profits. Overwhelmingly they show striking gains.

Thirty-four industrial and trade companies have reported so far. Combined, their profits after taxes soar 46 per cent over the previous year. Only three of them showed smaller earnings in 1955 than in 1954, although in each year two companies operated at a loss.

The nation's railroads also made a notable comeback after their lean year in 1954. The Association of American Railroads estimates that the 126 class 1 roads will have a net income after taxes of $15 million dollars. This would be a 34 per cent gain over the previous year.

The utilities have also profited from the fast industrial pace and the increased use of electrical home appliances. Fifty-seven of them have reported on their affairs in the 12 months ending Nov. 30. Only seven show declines in profits after taxes, and in most cases only slight drops.

Combined, the 57 report net earnings of $446,254,028, for an 8 per cent gain over the previous 12 months.

In the communications field, American Telephone & Telegraph officials estimate its earnings in 1955 will run around $13 a share. In 1954 the big phone company, with fewer shares outstanding, earned $11.42 a share. Its record per share profit was $15.72 set on still fewer shares in 1928.

Asks State Aid In Newest Storm

RALEIGH (P)—Mrs. Emily Rustian, mayor of Kill Devil Hills, has asked the state to help protect property from further damage during the storm now raging along the coast.

She reported to the state Civil Defense office yesterday that five houses had been destroyed by raging seas and six others were endangered.

She told R. C. Nicholson, deputy director of CD that the six houses had been propped up but "if they got any more high water, they probably would be washed away."

Nicholson relayed the call for help to the State Highway Commission.

Chief Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr. said he had issued instructions for highway forces to render as much assistance as possible without unduly exposing prisoners.

Mayors Voice Concern Over Long Westinghouse Strike

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Spurred by federal mediators and a plea from the mayors of 18 affected cities, union and company officials resume negotiations today in the three-month-old Westinghouse Electric Corp. strike.

Concerned over a deadlock which has closed 40 plants across the nation since mid-October, the city officials met with both sides in Pittsburgh yesterday.

After separate parleys, they issued a statement strongly recommending continued negotiations "starting tomorrow and carried around the clock without interruption or recess in order to arrive at a final settlement."

Further, they asked for an "interim arrangement" by which some 54,000 striking employees could return to work pending the final agreement.

To this both sides issued replies praising that portion of the statement which each had supported in the past.

The company said it was in favor of the return to work proposal and a union spokesman endorsed the uninterrupted negotiations suggestion.

The mayors expressed their "grave concern about this dispute, and its effects on the company, the employees, our communities and the nation as a whole," but said they "could not and should not (consider) the relative merits of either side's position."

At its last session here, the CIO-AFL International Union of Electrical Workers agreed to a federal mediator's proposal that a three-man board be set up to consider the issues in dispute with the understanding the recommendations would not be binding.

The union added that if Westinghouse would agree to a binding arbitration — in effect, arbitration — it would ask its membership to return to work under the present contract, "modified" by the subsequent findings of the board.

The company declined the proposal even without arbitration and suggested instead that the mediation service conduct a secret poll of the union membership on whether they would accept a company-proposed five-year contract.

The IUE, representing 44,000 strikers, rejected this proposal. Ten of the struck plants are manned by members of the independent United Electrical Workers, which also was represented at yesterday's session in Pittsburgh.

The UE organization director, James Matties announced his union committee also would meet with Westinghouse officials here today.

It was not determined immediately whether a joint session of representatives of both unions, the company and the mediator was planned. Similar points are in dispute in the separate strikes.

The company told the group yesterday the "bedrock issue" is the length of proposed new contracts. The company says its offer of a five-year pact, provides a total increase of 2 1/2 cents an hour and other benefits equal to the contract IUE signed with the General Electric Co., Westinghouse's chief competitor. Only because of this competition, the company said it offered what it termed a very liberal five-year contract.

The strikes were called with another year to run on current two-year contracts when demands for a 15-cent-hourly wage hike were refused by management. Also in dispute was the time study plan. The present average wage was $2.10 an hour.

All-State High School Orchestra To Gather Here

The North Carolina All-State High School Orchestra, including student musicians from more than fifteen North Carolina high schools, will meet at East Carolina College January 26, 27, 28, and 29 for the tenth anniversary meeting of the group.

Plans for meeting have been worked out jointly by Robert Frederickson, president of the orchestra section of the North Carolina Music Education Association, and Dr. Kenneth N. Outhbert, East Carolina College, director of the college department of music and of the East Carolina Orchestra. Dr. Outhbert is in charge of the local arrangements for the meeting.

The orchestra of one hundred and thirty pieces has met in recent years at Chapel Hill, Winston-Salem, and Durham. The meeting at East Carolina College will mark the first time the All-State Orchestra has been held in the eastern part of North Carolina. Students and directors will be housed in Greenville homes and in the college dormitories.

While the students are at East Carolina they will rehearse under direction of Nathan Gottschalk of Oberland College and Boston University, conductor for the 1956 All-State Orchestra. They will have sectional rehearsals under various high school orchestral directors and college instructors.

The All-State Orchestra banquet will be held Saturday in the College Cafeteria. Visiting students and directors will be guests at a dance Friday. The East Carolina Collegians will provide music, and music students at the college will act as hosts and hostesses.

Two concerts will be presented in the Wright Auditorium by the All-State Orchestra. A concert for children attending Greenville and Pitt County Schools is scheduled for Friday, January 27, at 1:45 p. m. The final concert of the All-State Orchestra will be given at 2:30 p. m. Sunday January 29th. The public is invited to attend both programs.

The world is likely to have about a billion people in 50 years says the Population Reference Bureau.

Punishment For Retired Officer

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill.
(P)—A former commanding general of Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., accused of giving preferred treatment to insurance firms for personal gain, has been punished by forfeiture of half a month's pay and a written reprimand.

This punishment for retired Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates, 60, was announced yesterday at headquarters here of the Air Force's Air Training Command. He was ordered to forfeit $500 in pay.

La. Gen. Charles T. Myers, commander of the ATC, imposed punishment under an article of the Uniform Code of Military Justice which provides for nonjudicial punishment if the accused chooses this in preference to a court-martial.

The ATC said Gen. Gates was punished for "wrongfully using his rank, position and influence as commander (at Chanute) by securing private insurance companies in which he had a financial interest."

Gates, a veteran of 38 years in the Air Force retired last June but was recalled Aug. 1 to face charges that he "willfully mismanaged his administration of Chanute Air Force Base for personal gain."

An Air Force spokesman at Chanute said Gates was charged with accepting $7,000 from an insurance company in return for using his influence.

Gates, who lives at Rantoul, Ill., was not at Scott yesterday. He wasn't required under the Uniform Code to enter a plea of guilty or innocent.

In Champaign, Ill., his attorney James H. Wheat declared the decision means Gates "has been found innocent of any legal or moral wrong."

France, Spain Agree To Joint Action On Rebels

LARACHE, Spanish Morocco (P)—France and Spain have agreed on joint action against Riff rebels harassing the French in Morocco.

Lt. Gen. Rafael Garcia Talano, the Spanish high commissioner, and French Resident General Andre Dubois decided at a meeting yesterday their forces would cooperate in suppressing the rebellious tribesmen along their joint frontier.

The four-hour conference in this Spanish sector was the first meeting in three years of the top officials of the two protectorates. Informants said they made progress in reconciling conflicting policies which have caused tension between France and Spain ever since the French threw out Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef in 1953.

Spain charged the ouster was illegal and openly sympathized with the Sultan's nationalist followers who finally forced the French to bring Ben Youssef back. The Spaniards changed their tune when French promises of home rule for the Moroccan brought nationalist demars that the Spanish do the same.

France also accused Spain of aiding the Riff guerrillas, who brought strife to the eastern part of the French zone in recent months. The Spanish denied the charges but took no action against the Riffs.

The bulk of yesterday's discussion reportedly centered on the future of Ben Youssef's "empire," which technically includes the Spanish protectorate and the international zone of Tangier, as well as French Morocco, where he makes his home.

The Moroccan nationalists want both Spain and France to pull out and leave their country united and independent.

Both Spain and France say they favor eventual autonomy for their North African protectorates, but Madrid fears Paris is moving Morocco toward independence too rapidly.

G-Men Crush Yellow Jackets By 72-55

Edwards And Ike Riddick Set Pace

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer
ELIZABETH CITY—Harold Edwards and Ike Riddick, Greenville high school's spectacular one-two scoring punch, staged one of the most impressive performances ever seen in Elizabeth City's new gymnasium last night, as they led their team to a 72-55 loop victory over the Yellow Jackets.

Edwards, displaying the offensive and defensive prowess that made him an unanimous All-Northeastern conference choice last season, pounded the nets for 28 points last night, while under the pressure of a three-man jacket defense that concentrated on him throughout most of the game. Riddick, an eagle-eyed veteran, poured in 25 tallies to take second place honors and was the leading G-Man organizer.

Scoring Duel? Pre-game analysis had it that the contest would be a scoring duel between EC's Ronald Price and the 6-4 Edwards, according to Elizabeth City newspaper reports. Price, a 6-2 forward, entered the battle with an average of 23 points per game, having scored 138 markers in six contests. The duel, however, failed to materialize. The sharp-shooting Price was held to only 13 points, and Edwards and Riddick stole the show for the Phants.

Starting the fray for the Greenies were Riddick and Jerry Drum at guards, Billy Johnson and Ray Hardee at forwards, and Edwards at the center post. Reserves who trickled into action before the final whistle were Mack Roebuck, Wayne Eldson, Tommy Norris.

Coach Boey Farley's crew pushed out an early lead in the opening minutes of the tilt, but seemed off balance due to the fast-moving style of their conference foes. Riddick kept his team ahead of the hustling Jackets during the first period with three field goals and a foul shot. Despite the fact that Greenville had doubled the score and held a 16-4 lead at the end of the quarter, they couldn't seem to get their hands on a rebound.

The next stanza of play found the home team plugging for 15 points, while holding the favored visitors to 17. Billy Johnson, again playing his usual fine game, was controlling the backboard for his squad. Riddick, who turned in an excellent defensive job against Ronald Price, didn't allow the sharp-shooter a single point in the second quarter and held his halftime performance to one field goal. It was 35-24 at the half. Edwards, Riddick Reiga In the last half, Ike Riddick and Harold Edwards reigned as kings of the court, destroying all doubt as to their scoring supremacy. The two prolific G-Men scored 30 of their team's 37 markers for the two quarters, accounting for all but two field goals and three free throws. Most of Edwards' scoring was accomplished with tip-ins, jump shots and an occasional hook. Riddick scorched the nets with a tricky one-hand jump shot from about 30 feet out, breaking up the three-man cage that had hounded Edwards earlier in the game.

Johnson fouled out in the opening minutes of the third period, leaving the Phants with little height. The 6-1 senior accounted for nine points during his action at the forward slot. Tommy Norris replaced him in the lineup.

The final quarter saw Greenville's two scoring giants blast the hoops for 18 points. Edwards dumped in 10, while Riddick scored eight. Only one other Phantom scored during the period, and that was on a field goal by Jerry Drum. Elizabeth City racked up 16 tallies in a last ditch attempt to stave off defeat, but the Green power was not to be stopped. The final score rested at 72-55, giving the visitors a 17-point victory margin.

Last night's win gives the Green team a 3-0 conference record. In earlier league contests, Coach Farley's club downed New Bern (by 33 points), Washington (by 14 points). They rest at the top of the heap in loop standings at the present with an undefeated Kingston team.

EDWARDS GETS 28 Greenville's All-Conference Harold Edwards is shown above, displaying the unstoppable jump shot that accounted for many of the 28 points he scored in last night's 72-55 triumph over Elizabeth City. Gaskins (9), Boyce (8) and Clifton (17) were unable to prevent Edwards' two points in the above action. (Reflector Photos by Billy Arnold.)

... AND RIDDICK GETS 25—Ike Riddick, veteran Phantom guard, punished the corks for a total of 25 points against the Yellow Jackets last night. Riddick's celebrated one-hand-jump shot (above) has made him the top Greenie scorer thus far this season.

Bevo Francis Still Scoring Fairly Well

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Bevo Francis, who had the basketball world buzzing when he played for little Rio Grande College, is still scoring points at a pretty good clip, and his coach says he's a better player.

Francis is averaging 23.4 points with the Boston Whirlwinds, who are touring the country with the Harlem Globetrotters, the Philadelphia Sphas and the Washington, D.C. Generals.

His current average is nowhere near the 50.01 points he averaged at Rio Grande in the 1952-53 and 1953-54 seasons but as Boston Coach Sid Goldberg said in Salt Lake City yesterday:

"His competition against the play for pay boys is much stiffer than at Rio Grande, where he played against many junior college teams. And his whirlwind average has been built up during a back-breaking schedule of more than 300 games in the past two years.

"Bevo was clumsy in college. His 6-9 height and tremendous shooting eye enabled him to score a lot of points, but he was a mediocre defensive player and he lacked floor finesse.

"Now, in addition to being the team's top scorer, he also leads in rebounds and is great at bringing the ball down the floor."

Bevo, who is 23, is willing to learn.

"I plan to play basketball for a living for several years," he said. "And if I want to stay in the game I've got to know everything there is about it."

Baby Phantoms Take 32-15 Win

Sparked by good team play, the Greenville Baby Phantoms smashed the Elizabeth City Jayvees 32-15 last night in Elizabeth City, for their second conference win in three games.

Leading the way for the locals was Little John Wesley Hudson, who racked up nine points and turned in a fine performance defensively. Dick Evans, Greenville's big 6 foot forward, dropped in six points to take second high honors.

The Phantom Jayvees led all the way and outplayed the home squad in both the floor game and the scoring department. Bobby Edwards and Billy Cox, a pair of forwards, did fine rebound work and scored four points each.

Greenville's defensive strength was a great factor in the victory, holding the Baby Jackets to only two field goals for the entire night. Steve Noble, who poured in two points for the Green was strong under both backboards.

Harris Scores 27 Points For Game

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor
HIGH POINT—East Carolina College went to the free throw line here last night to beat High Point College, 80-71, and register its sixth consecutive North State Conference victory.

The host team outscored the league-leading Pirates from the floor but East Carolina's deadly charity shooting provided the margin. The Pirates made 32 out of 40 for 80 per cent. High Point could manage only 21 out of 42.

Let Up Little After surging ahead by 10 points, 28-18, with nine minutes remaining in the first half, East Carolina perhaps let up a little and High Point just about caught up.

The Pirates went down to rest at intermission with a 40-31 advantage but it was anything but comfortable.

Maury Beauchot, a name unfamiliar in conference circles, gave ECC a fit, particularly in the first half. A freshman from Indiana making his second appearance with the team, Beauchot tallied 13 markers, most of them coming on beautiful drives.

In the second half, the home Panthers really made a game of it. They pulled within two just after the second stanza started and kept on the Pirates heels from there out.

Jack Powell, a brilliant player in his own right, tipped in a basket to cut ECC's lead to 47-45 with over 16 minutes left. Nick Nichols of ECC hit a couple baskets to move the Pirates further out front but Powell and Bill Huegele closed it to 53-50.

East Carolina hit a scoring lull midway the second half and the game hung in a three-point margin for a while. Not until the final four minutes did East Carolina pull far enough ahead to relax a little.

Mendenhall Out Guy Mendenhall, the Bucs' big rebounder, went out via the foul route with 4:20 remaining but Tim Smothers, who replaced him, took up the slack admirably.

J. C. Thomas put ECC ahead by 10, 72-62, with four minutes showing. With this advantage, the winners could play it cautious and wait for the Panthers to make the mistake—and they did, enabling East Carolina to hold its margin.

Don Harris, Nichols and Smothers all took trips to the free throw line in the last two minutes. Neither missed and that was the difference.

Harris had one of his best nights dunking 27 points on eight field goals and 11 out of 13 from the free throw line. The spree raised his average to just above 19 points.

Nichols came in behind Harris with 21 markers. Eleven of those came in the second half and at timely instances: He made seven field goals and seven out of eight from the line. Thomas was the only other Pirate hitting in the double figures. He made 15, 13 of those coming in the second half.

East Carolina plays host to Guilford here tomorrow night in a conference game.

Satterfield And Holman Matched

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Satterfield, one of boxing's most lethal punchers, aims for his 31st knockout victory tonight against another slugging Chicago heavyweight, Johnny Holman.

Satterfield, 32, will be spotting from 15 to 20 pounds to his foe in the nationally televised 10 rounder at Chicago Stadium (10 p.m. E-T-ABC). But beating Bob twice clobbered Holman in 1954 and also has taken care of other big boys as Nino Valdes and Bob Baker in compiling a 40-19-3 record.

In his last fight, Satterfield—No. 6 light heavy in the current Ring Magazine rankings—scored a ninth round kayo over Paul Andrews at Buffalo last month.

Duke Can Tie Terps If Clemson Is Overcome

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke's Blue Devils can parlay their racehorse attack into a tie with Maryland for the Atlantic Coast Conference basketball lead tonight if they can outgun Clemson.

The Blue Devils are following on the same path that put the Terrapins at the top of the ACC pack. The Terps took a swing through the southern end of the conference last week and brought home wins over South Carolina and Wake Forest.

Duke took the measure of South Carolina last night, 63-52, and its sixth-place standing in the national rankings should indicate enough power to take unranked Clemson.

Duke has already conquered the Tigers once this season, 97-63, in the opening conference game for both teams. Since then the Blue Devils have piled up a 4-1 conference record. Clemson is 1-4. Maryland has the lead by virtue of a 3-1 ACC record.

Duke will meet a team that is the paradox of the conference. The Tigers have the team scoring lead in the ACC with an average of 82.3. They're also the most scored on team in the loop. Clemson opponents have been averaging 87.8 points a game.

In last night's action, Duke ran up a field goal accuracy of 44 per cent to trim the Gamecocks South Carolina forward Grady Wallace, second among scoring leaders in the ACC, poured in 20 points to lead both teams.

Duke's offensive standout, Ronnie Mayer, was held to 13 points. Guard Bobby Harris hit 15 to top the Devils.

The University of North Carolina, 8th ranked team in the nation, set a new school scoring record last night. The Tar Heels blasted the University of Virginia 101-65. Ace Tar Heel forward Lennie Rosenbluth tallied 26 points the high for the evening. Cavalier forward Austin Pearre hit 19 points.

In the only other game last night involving a conference team George Washington tripped Wake Forest, 78-74. It was the Deacons' second loss to the Colonials, ranked as No. 14 in the nation. Wake Forest is spotted in 18th place. Center Joe Holup scored 28 points to lead GW.

The team rated as the power of the loop—N. C. State—collides with Maryland tomorrow night at College Park, Md. State is the 3rd ranked team in the nation.

The mighty Wolfpack has fallen once this season in 12 games. That was a 68-58 pasting administered by Duke.

No More Glasses For Phil Rizzuto

"No, sir," said little Phil Rizzuto today. "I visited my eye doctor yesterday and he told me that my eyes were stronger than at any time in recent years."

The veteran New York Yankee shortstop, who probably will look like a collegian when he is 70, said his sight was even better than normal.

"Therefore," he added, "I don't need them, not even for reading. So I won't wear them in spring training."

Back In The Groove At Greenville High

By ROSEMARY EAGLES
Greenville High School

The high school crowd is back in the swing again at last! The sophomores have buckled down to making plans for the Coronation Ball which comes in the early spring. The theme hasn't been announced yet.

The annual staff has begun selling subscriptions for the "Tau." A representative checks by each home room every day this week.

Ginger Lang and Margaret Ruffin spent the weekend with Barbara Ann Harrington, Marietta Northrop and Stuart Bost were the guests of Tenys Bowers.

"Saturday night we saw the big fire in Washington," Ginger revealed.

Alice Lee Edwards visited Lindsay Britt over the weekend.

"After the ball game Friday night Lindsay and I took our dates to her home. We all got together and made a cake," laughed Alice Lee. Saturday night they went to the Rec and both Alice Lee and Lindsay spent the night with Ada Ellen Hoell.

ROSEMARY

Of course, basketball is very much a big discussion topic around the halls. Last Friday night a large number of fans went over to Washington's new high school gym to root the Phantoms on to victory. The Pam Pack and the Phantoms have been rivals for many years. One would never have known it after the game was over because several friends spent the weekend there with friends.

Lillian Moye spent Friday night with Barbara Morris, Jane Perkins with Nancy Jean Edwards, Beth Murray with Sally Brinkly, and Ruth Young stayed with Kathy Wiley. Saturday night all of the girls got together at Barbara Morris' home for a slumber party.

December 29 Faye Hardee, Joanne Eagles, and Clara Faye Crawford were in Pinetops visiting. They were the guests of Faye's sister who gave Faye a party that night. About 30 people attended the get-together at the community building. Carolyn Briley was also over for the party. The girls came home Thursday afternoon.

British Working Wives Increase

LONDON (AP)—Tucked away in a quiet corner of a factory yard, 20 children play in a nursery—symbols of a silent revolution that has altered the pattern of British family life.

Before World War II, only 900,000 British wives went out to work. Now nearly 4,000,000 are working. That is a third of all women and girls of working age in the country. Sociologists and child welfare experts are worried. Tens of thousands of babies are taken daily by their mothers to factory and workshop nurseries. Hundreds of thousands of schoolchildren come home to empty houses, letting themselves in with their own keys and preparing the kitchen for their mothers' return.

Full employment in Britain has led to a booming demand for women workers—and the women are cashing in.

John Watson, chairman of London's famous Tower Bridge Magistrates Court, said recently: "A race of children is growing up whom I call 'latchkey children.' Mothers who go to work... are a major cause of juvenile crime."

But Ronald Leiger, who represents industrial Roanoke in Parliament, said, "It is not the bad mother who goes out to work... it is the working mother who is the one prepared to make a sacrifice."

The working wives blame the skyrocketing cost of living. With inflation and a credit squeeze, Britain's shops are stacked with goods far out of grasp of the average family.

Advertised For New Policemen

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Ann Arbor's police department, caught 15 officers short, has advertised under the "male help wanted" section of the Ann Arbor News for patrolmen.

Chief Caspar Enkemann says it was the first time in his memory that the department has ever had to advertise for this purpose.

The department difficulties were increased when 11 men quit because of low pay. It usually employs 66 men.

Council Invited To Attend Meet

STORRS, Conn. (AP)—The University of Connecticut undergraduate newspaper says a student candidate for the infirmary to have a silver of lead removed from his palm, and was hustled onto an operating table where attendants began preparing him for a blood transfusion before he could tell them what he wanted. The student was treated at an emergency case because his white shirt was bespattered with red—strawberry flavoring from the university's ice cream making department.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Old Jasper had caught a cold, and for the first time since Linda had known the big man, he was down in bed, ill.

It had begun with a temperature, and a noisy sneezing head-cold. He complained that he seemed to have a "kitch in his gitalong." Alan suggested the hospital, but the old man balked.

"You have to go to bed until that temperature is down!"

"But it'll be my own bed, dang it!"

He was not dangerously ill, but the "kitch" showed that he could be, if proper care were not taken. He was not an easy patient; he wouldn't take his medicine, nor eat the "slops" which Alan prescribed.

"I'd he weren't my own father, I'd not stay on the case," said Alan. "See what you can do, will you Linda?"

"Why, Alan, I'd love to help him. Poor thing, he just doesn't know how to be sick."

Almost at once silence descended upon the house. Linda went into the narrow, crowded bedroom-office and "managed" the crochety old man, angry that he should be afflicted, frightened that this sort of thing could come to him.

She teased him a little, and talked to him gently. As his fever broke, weakness laid its hand upon him, and he would have been terrified, except for Linda. She stayed with him night and day for a time.

The day came when he sat in the big leather chair, his limbs wrapped in a wool comforter, a shawl about his shoulders. "You're getting well, Father," said Linda.

"I figured I'd hit my deathbed." "Oh, no, you're too much to do. There's Quill to train—and look at your mail!"

He nodded. "Gotta get after that. Tomorrow, Linda—I ain't got much steam up today."

"I know you haven't I'm going to fix you a toddy." "Make it strong?"

She winked at him and went out. When she came back, the old man had dropped the shawl to the floor. She put a stool under his feet, and sat down across from him.

"You been good to me, Linda," he told her, sipping at the contents of his brown mug.

"I love you." "Do you, Linda?" he asked curiously. "Why?"

Her eyes flew wide. "I don't think love is a thing you can explain, Father. But—I guess I love you for the same reasons that made me fall in love with Alan. You're very much alike—if I could have had a son," she mused. "I'd hope he would be like you, too. That's why my disappointment has been so bitter."

"Yet you talked of adoptin' one of the Powder woods colts." "I didn't know they were colts," she said, smiling gently. "Manning was just a nice little boy, and my arms were empty. But you—the family—I realize that an adoption wouldn't do."

"An adoption might do," said the old man, "in some cases. But the Powder boy—that would-a been dead wrong."

"And he wouldn't have looked like a Thornton," Linda agreed, trying to laugh.

The old man started, and drained his mug with a smack of appreciation. "Looks ain't what I'm a-talkin' about!" he cried. "Strain goes deeper'n that, deeper'n looks. I know that for a fact, Linda. I know that in one horse you can get stamina, grit and power—and you take the get of a brother or a sister of that same horse and you lack those things. That goes for people. Take my own get. The handsomest one o' the lot. . . . He broke off, his beard drooping to his chest. He sighed heavily. "And then you take Margaret; she's not much to look at."

"Oh, she's lovely, Father!" Linda protested.

"Pretty sweet—and puny-sized. But she brag fine kids, Lindy. The intangibles of strain—for want of bein' able to put a better word to it, I'll call it noblesse oblige. Margaret had it to hand on to her children. You didn't catch her Silas arguin' whether he ought to go to war—the jest went!"

"I could bring the whole matter down to the democratic obligation which I'd hope will carry on beyond me. Democracy, Lindy! There's the sub of it."

Linda's heart swelled within her breast, warm with such an joy. It was true about Alan! His sense of responsibility was as big as all mankind! And to love such a man, to have him—and not to lose him!

It was Seretha Thornton's way to hold her children to her will and wish by means of many small tyrannies imposed upon them. Thus it was Alan's task to make out checks for Seretha. She did not hesitate to call him away at some very busy time to write a single check, and, like all tyrannies, the task became burdensome. On this particular day she had phoned to Miss Adamant, and said that it was important for Dr. Thornton to come home at noon. So Alan went home at twelve.

When lunch was over, and Alan said that he'd "look in on Father and get on back to work," Seretha's quiet voice asked him to stop in her room before leaving.

He swore beneath his breath and see the check book set out and ready. Then he turned to smile ruefully at his mother. "Why won't you try making them out?"

"Oh, now son, it's such a little thing—just my church dues."

"It's only Thursday. That check can be written any time. Now suppose you sit down and do it with me watching to see if you do it right."

"Don't you want to make it out for me, Alan?"

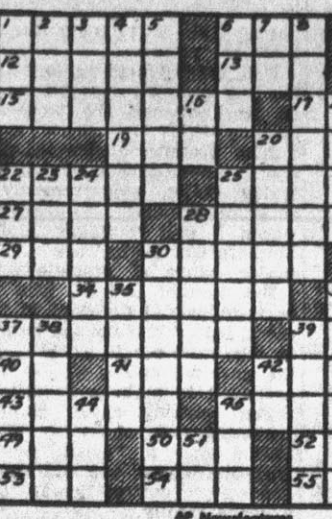

"Oh. . ." he cried, sitting down at the desk. "Hell!" he said dazedly. But he was laughing at himself. And Seretha, settling into the fireside chair, laughed, too, contentedly.

Alan wrote the check, blotted it, turned about, in the small chair to look across at Seretha. "Anything else?"

"No."

the subject, he said, "I'm going to drive to St. Louis for a day or two at the end of the month. So get all your check-writing out of the way."

"Why should you go to St. Louis?"

"Business. My kind of business." He smiled. "You see, they're holding a clinic on brain surgery down at Barnes. And Dr. Cabler is going to demonstrate an operation to correct a condition similar to that of Mrs. Blake's. Captain Blake's wife, you know?" He stood with his hand on the knob of the door which led into his father's dressing room.

"I know Captain Blake," said Seretha, in a tone that finished the man, completely. "But, Alan—"

"Yes, Ma'am?"

"I must tell you, because I am older, and a woman myself that you should not risk leaving, at this time."

"I have to go when the clinic is held."

"What if Linda leaves the house while you are away?"

Alan sighed, his dark head down, his eyes on the hand which held the silver knob. "Then, Ma'am," he said slowly, "she will—leave."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—A fairly vigorous rally brought gains of better than two points in the stock market today.

The steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, metals, chemicals, rails, and oils were among the higher groups in early afternoon. There were gains in other sections of the list as well.

At noon, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead $ .30 at $177.30. In the last two sessions, the average declined.

Woolworth was up around a point on an increased dividend. Mahasco was unusually active and higher. Glenn Martin held its own despite announcement that a large secondary offering of shares from an estate was planned. Cerro de Pasco was up better than two at one time on a stock dividend.

General Motors returned to the plus side after opening lower on a 10,000-share block.

Good-sized gains were recorded by Reynolds Metals, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, Caterpillar, North American Aviation, Boeing, Kennecott, Magna, Allied Chemical, Rayonier, Smith-Douglass, Schering, Aluminum, Standard Oil (N. J.), Union Pacific and Argo Oil.

Grounded Escort Destroyer Free

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The escort destroyer Basilton, grounded off Cape Henry since early last Thursday, was floated this morning and pulled clear.

The salvage tug, Seneca, still is grounded about 100 yards away. The Navy said it had hopes the Seneca would be pulled off today. The Basilton was blown around last Thursday and the Seneca grounded Saturday during the fourth attempt to free the Basilton.

Fear Dangerous 'Trinket' Found

MILFORD, Conn. (AP)—A trinket-sized device with deadly radioactive rays is missing from a construction site here and police fear someone may have picked it up, not knowing its danger. The object is an inch and a half long.

Shortly after the device was reported missing from property of the Connecticut Light & Power Co. yesterday, police issued a public appeal for the person who may have it to dispose of it in a vacant lot, telephone police and report immediately to a hospital.

The shiny device, used by the United Engineers Construction Co. to photograph steel, was left hanging on the end of a card on the construction site yesterday. It was construction site yesterday.

Officials of the construction firm said the invisible rays emanating from the device would not kill instantly but would bring about a deadly illness. The rays kill off white blood corpuscles in the body, they said.

The firm said there was a possibility it could have fallen to the floor of the building in which it was hung. A geiger counter search of the entire area failed to turn it up.

Man Found Dead On Woods Path

A middle-aged man, found dead by relatives on a field path yesterday afternoon, probably died of exposure after suffering a heart attack or a stroke, coroner Griffin H. Rouse said this morning.

The man was identified as Herbert Harrell, Negro, who relative said was about 50 years old.

Harrell lived on the Leonard Taylor farm in the Leans section of Pitt County.

The man's family said he left home Monday afternoon about 6:30 to visit a nephew Harrell apparently walked down the woods path to his nephew's home approximately one mile away. He picked up a bag of potatoes at the nephew's house and presumably was returning home when he was stricken.

Harrell lived with his three sisters who thought he had decided to spend the night with his nephew when he did not return home. Thus it was yesterday afternoon before the family began searching for the missing man. He was found on the woods path by a brother.

Harrell had moved from the nephew's home to the house in which his sisters live only last week.

Members of the family said he had suffered from high blood pressure for some years and had been under the care of a Bethel physician.

Coroner Rouse said no inquest into the death is planned.

Benjamin Franklin Award Presented To Sir Winston

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill today received the Benjamin Franklin award as the man who has done most to promote international understanding since World War II.

Joseph S. Clark Jr., former mayor of Philadelphia, handed the 80-year-old former British Prime Minister the gigantic silver medal and a book of Franklin's letters to commemorate the award in a modest ceremony at the home of Franklin occupied when he was agent here for the American Colonies.

The two men sat in deep armchairs round a little table in what was the drawing room of the Franklin house. A crystal chandelier sparkled over the table and a full size oil painting of Franklin's wife looked down on the room as the two men joked and chatted together.

In a circle around the room, a short distance from Trafalgar Square, sat members of the British Royal Society and heads of academic bodies.

Churchill, wearing a black jacket striped pants and polka dot tie, grinned as Clark presented the medal designed by American-born British sculptor, Sir Jacob Epstein.

Clark told Churchill: "We come here today, sir, to honor you for what you have done to bring the free world together, for your sense of history, for your

Good Reasons For Continued Silence

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower would have some good political reasons for staying mum a while if he has decided not to run again.

He has already indicated he reached some decision because he said his mind is not so fixed that he can't change it.

He'd probably anger a lot of Republicans if he said he won't run now instead of waiting till mid-February when the doctors say whether they think he's able to.

They could say: "The party needs him but he made up his mind even before waiting for the doctors to tell him what shape he's in."

Eisenhower could forestall that kind of complaint by waiting until after the medical verdict is in. He may do that, if he's not going to run.

By the same token he could hardly say he will run until the doctors tell him and the country whether they think he's physically able to.

If he has about decided not to try again he could be waiting a while before saying so, get the maximum mileage out of his program. Right now he is sending the major parts of his program to Congress in special message.

Last week he sent up his State of the Union message, on Monday his farm program. Tomorrow it will be his education program on Monday his budget.

But if he said now he won't run again, attention for his programs almost certainly would go to the wind, and the hub-bub over his announcement.

For days the papers would be full of his decision, the dilemma of the Republican party, speculation on likely candidates, and then perhaps announcements by some of the Republicans who would like to fill Eisenhower's shoes.

By mid-February, when Eisenhower gets the doctors' word on his physical condition, all the major parts of his program should be in Congress' hands.

For at least that long—or as long as the Republicans still have some hope he'll head their ticket again—he can depend on their almost undivided support.

If he says he won't be a candidate, some members of his party in Congress may pull away from him. But it's hard to see many of them doing that.

And for a good reason: Eisenhower's program and their support for it will have to be the main talking point of the Republicans in this year's election campaign. Their chief hope of winning in 1956 is Eisenhower, whether or not he runs, and the claims they can make to supporting him and seeing eye to eye with him on most things.

Claim UNC Has Professionalism

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The Daily Tar Heel, student newspaper at the University of North Carolina, says "professionalism" in athletics has "come home to roost at Chapel Hill" with the hiring of Jim Tatum as head football coach.

In an editorial published in yesterday's edition, the newspaper said, "now that we have that athletic monster of open professionalism in our midst, let's not think naively, that it will fall to dye the whole fabric of athletics at the university."

The paper has opposed big time athletics at the school since its new editorial staff took over last fall. In its latest editorial, it said that "amateur football has suffered acute asthma at this school for two decades."

Tatum was hired away from the return to his alma mater as head coach at a reported salary of $15,000 a year, which is about $3,000 less than his salary as head football coach and athletic director at the University of Maryland (The Daily Tar Heel said it did not believe the football coach should draw a salary larger than the president of the university, who also gets $15,000 a year.

Unoccupied Farm House Damaged Fire burned a hole in the floor of an unoccupied farm house on the Will Cherry farm some time yesterday or last night. Carl Hardee, operator of the farm, reported to the sheriff's department this morning. Hardee said he discovered the hole this morning. He had been working in the house yesterday afternoon. The farm operator said the blaze burned a hole completely through the floor of one room of the house. Sheriff's deputies are investigating.

Learn Parolee Planned Holdup ARKANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—When they arrested Lawrence H. Schulte, 30, for parole violation yesterday, sheriff's deputies said they found a note in his pocket which read: "I have all the money you have. Don't look around, just hand it over. I have a gun." Sheriff James Dill said Schulte orally admitted he had planned to use the note in a bank robbery. But he didn't, Dill quoted Schulte, because someone had stolen the gun from his car.

Offered To Pay Abolished Tax LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Some tax-paying Kentuckians aren't up to snuff on their news, or else they're downright generous. No Law Covered The Situation MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—This city has admitted defeat in its attempt to punish a man who waved a sign warning drivers of a radar speed trap ahead. In the same breath it gave notice yesterday that since Jan. 1 it has had a law on the books that will take care of such situations in the future. The legal twist which Asst. City Atty. Frierson Graves cited says no one can "show any sign which attempts to direct parking or movement of traffic." Graves did not oppose an appeal from a $16 fine. It was filed by J. W. Evans, who was charged with interfering with an officer in the line of duty. Evans aroused police ire by spotting a hidden speed trap on a busy city thoroughfare and posting himself a few blocks above it with a hastily painted warning sign. He did very well until a suspicious cop backedtracked along the street to see what was slowing things down.
