After the Conleys' rented home was burned Dec. 15, news stories started a landslide of contributions from far and near, including about $4,000 cash. Company Plans Revolutionary Aid To School Building

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A revolutionary plan to help the nation's school districts construct buildings at greatly reduced costs, will be put into effect immediately by the Reynolds Metal Co.

J. Louis Reynolds, executive vice president of the huge aluminum company, one of the nation's largest, announced here last night that his firm would establish the program.

"We are ready for business now," said Reynolds at a news conference. "Our organization is ready. Our state organizations will be established to control it at the state level."

Reynolds said that under the program, which he originated, the metals company will act without charge as agent for any school district in the nation which wants to construct a new building.

The company, he said, will arrange for financing, design, construction and equipping the buildings to fit the individual needs of the district. Private sources will finance the construction, he said, and will regain their money by leasing the buildings to the school districts for 30 to 40 years. The district's lease payments will be applied to the purchase price of the buildings until the district eventually obtains ownership of them.

Reynolds said the plan will cost school districts about half as much as they pay under conventional construction bond plans, and will adapt itself to the laws of all states.

He said he first got the idea for the program because fear of racial integration in Southern public schools apparently resulted in defeat at the polls of proposed school construction bond issues in Virginia and Alabama. "Education can't stop," he said. "We don't care who sits next to whom in a classroom. This isn't our worry. Our only interest is providing the facilities for getting education in the heads of white and colored children."

Both integrated and segregated schools will be eligible for the help, said Reynolds. The plan is designed primarily to help public schools, but it may be extended to cover colleges and church-supported schools also.

A member of the University of Virginia faculty, Dr. Robert Chandler, will direct the program.

Acheson Assails 'Hucksterism' In Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson called last night for a revitalized foreign policy, imaginatively and vigorously pursued, and cautioned against conducting foreign affairs by "hucksterism."

The evil of hucksterism, the Truman administration secretary of state said, is that it glamorizes a product while obscuring the fact that there is no product at all.

"This is the era of the huckster," he told some 200 hearers at a dinner given in his honor by the Women's National Democratic Club.

"If we go on as we have been doing we'll come to the ultimate slogan of 'weakness is strength.'"

Acheson said it might be well for this country to reappraise its whole foreign policy in view of a Russian shift in emphasis from political to economic methods of waging the cold war, and what he called the increased attention to uncommitted countries from North Africa across the Middle East to Indochina.

"If we look around us," he said, "we will be hard put to find any area in which events of the past few years have not moved to our disadvantage."

"I do not mean to imply that this administration is entirely responsible. . . . Some things are their fault. . . . Some things are beyond their control."

He said U.S. relations with South America and Canada have not improved, and that Germany is drifting dangerously. France is torn by discord and countries in the Near East have been offended by what he termed "pactomania."

Further, he said, the islands of Quemoy and Matsu in the Formosa Strait constitute a "time bomb" and trouble with Communist China may erupt "at any moment."

Man Wounded Cleaning Rifle

A 22-year-old Pitt County college student, accidentally shot through the right lung with a 22 rifle yesterday afternoon, is in "serious but not critical" condition in a Tarboro Hospital today.

The injured man is George Allen James. The shooting took place at the home of his parents on U. S. 94 west of Bethel.

James is a student at Louisburg College.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said that investigation by sheriff's deputies indicated that James was cleaning a 22 rifle at the home of his father when the gun went off. The bullet struck the man in the right chest, passed through his body and came out his back.

James staggered out of the room and his family came to his aid. He was rushed to the Tarboro Hospital.

The sheriff said the rifle had been used for killing hogs the day before and James was in the process of oiling the weapon when it discharged.

Doctors this morning said James is "doing pretty well." They described his condition as "serious but not critical."

The shooting occurred about 2:30 yesterday afternoon.

Suggests Date To Name Boards

RALEIGH (AP)—State Democratic Chairman John D. Larkin Jr. has suggested that county Democratic Executive Committees meet Feb. 8 to make nominations for county boards of election.

Larkin proposed the date in a letter to county chairmen. He asked the chairmen to mail him their list of nominees by Feb. 17. The complete list is supposed to be filed with the State Board of Election by March 1.

Three Democrats are nominated by each county. The Republicans also submit three nominees from each county. The state board will name two Democrats and one Republican from each county.

Accused Member Of 11-Man Gang Before Grand Jury Today Brinks Case To Grand Jury

BOSTON (AP)—Joseph J. "Specs" O'Keefe, 47, one of 11 men named by the FBI as perpetrators of the fabulous $1,218,111 Brink's robbery six years ago, went into Suffolk County Courthouse under heavy guard today to tell a grand jury what he knows about the nation's biggest heist.

Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne told newsmen he would first address the grand jury himself.

Shortly before 11 a.m., Byrne and his two assistants, Frederick T. Doyle and John F. McAuliffe, walked into the jury room where 19 grand jurors, including three women, were waiting.

Asked if he got a full statement from O'Keefe last night, Byrne made it clear he could not disclose—except to the grand jury—anything O'Keefe said.

O'Keefe had a hearty breakfast at Middlesex County jail in nearby East Cambridge before being taken—hauled—to the courtroom by Boston Police Capt. Francis G. Wilson, Sgt. John Howland and four state troopers.

Byrne said he would ask for indictments against 10 individuals. Six were taken into custody yesterday by the FBI in swift raids. Two others are still at large. O'Keefe and another man are serving prison terms. The 11th member of the group is dead.

The first witness to go into the grand jury room was Thomas B. Lloyd, one of the Brink's workers who was held up the night of Jan. 17, 1950. He was escorted into the room by Capt. Wilson who carried a large manila envelope stuffed with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover yesterday announced "solution" of the case. The robbery has committed and the 11 men allegedly involved.

Shortly before Hoover's announcement, 6 of the 11 were rounded up by the FBI in Greater Boston. Two others already were in prison on other charges, two are still at large and one died last year of natural causes.

Within hours of Hoover's announcement, the six newly arrested men were arraigned before a federal commissioner and held in bail totaling $670,000.

The FBI has been working on the case relentlessly since the men were through six locked doors of the Brink's money-carrying firm. Arrested in yesterday's FBI roundup were: Henry Baker, 49, Natick; Adolph Maffie, 44, North Quincy; Joseph F. McGinnis, 52, Boston; Vincent J. Costa, 41, Pembroke, Mass.; Michael V. Geagan, 47, Milton; and Anthony Pino, 48, Boston.

Still at large are Thomas F. Richardson, 48, Weymouth, and James I. Faherty, 44, Boston. Joseph F. Banfield, 45, Boston, the 11th man named by the FBI, died of natural causes last year.

All 11 have criminal records. Grand jury proceedings against the 10 survivors convicts just five days short of the sixth anniversary of the fantastic robbery in which the men got not only the biggest cash haul but also more than 1 1/2 million dollars in checks, money orders and securities.

O'Keefe was closed with Byrne for more than five hours last night in a secret discussion of the Brink's case.

O'Keefe was one of the men in jail at the time of Hoover's announcement yesterday. He is doing 27 months in Hampden County Jail, Springfield, for violating his probation on a gun-carrying charge.

He was brought to Boston to confer with the district attorney and later was taken under heavy guard to Middlesex County Jail in nearby Cambridge.

The six men arraigned yesterday were placed in Suffolk County Jail, Boston, pending grand jury action.

The other man already in prison is Stanley A. Gusciora, 36, doing 5 to 20 years in Western State Penitentiary, Pittsburgh, Pa., for a sporting goods store robbery.

Barden Plans No School Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—No hearing is planned by Chairman Graham Barden (D-NC) of the House Labor and Education Committee on President Eisenhower's proposal of federal aid to school construction.

The need for hearings was questioned yesterday by Barden in view of the fact that the bill brought out by his committee during the last session of Congress covered most of the same proposals.

Barden said his committee had instructed him to appear before the House Rules Committee to pave the way for House consideration of the Education Committee's bill.

The bill referred to by Barden was introduced last year by Rep. Augustine B. Kelley (D-Pa) and calls for a four-year program of federal aid to school construction. Under it, 400 million dollars annually would be made available for the various states on a matching basis.

Head-On Crash Kills 5 People

KING, N.C. (AP)—A head-on collision near here last night killed five persons and left a sixth critically injured.

The fifth victim, Mrs. Virginia Reid, died in a Winston-Salem hospital this morning.

Other victims in the crash of two cars on U. S. Highway 52 were Zonie Oliver, Marshall 41, of Rt. 5, Asheboro; Cletus Nelson, Rt. 1, Pinnacle; and Mrs. Katherine M. Moore, Winston-Salem policewoman.

Mrs. Moore's 10-year-old son, Keith, also died later in a Winston-Salem hospital.

Mrs. Thelma Parker of Winston-Salem was in a critical condition with a fractured skull and other injuries. Highway patrolmen set up a relay system from Charlotte last night to rush supplies of blood as doctors fought to save her and Mrs. Reid.

Highway Patrolman J. S. Powell said the three women and Keith Moore were in one car and the men in the other. Powell said the men were driven by Nelson, passing him going at a high rate of speed. He said he turned to give chase and saw it crash head-on into the other.

Heart Specialist At N.C. Session

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—President Eisenhower's heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, will speak here Feb. 22 at a statewide scientific heart symposium.

Some 500 doctors from throughout the state are expected for the meeting, sponsored by the Edgecombe-Vaughn Medical Assn.

Dr. White of Boston, was the consulting specialist for the President after his heart attack last year.

Slow Motion On County's Tax Listing Front; Deadline Nears

Pitt County property owners aren't listing for their 1956 taxes as rapidly as they should, County Tax Supervisor Harold Allred said today.

"We are urging people to list now," Allred said, "because it will be easier on both them and us."

Should property owners wait until the last minute, he said, then long lines will probably form and they will be unnecessarily held up. The last minute rush also will place a heavy burden on tax department employees, he said.

At present, the Tax Supervisor reminded, only a trickle of persons are listing.

Last year's figures showed 19,952 persons paying county taxes. This year, Allred estimated, some 21,000 probably will pay.

The deadline for listing, he said, is February 2. And after February 4, he added, all taxes will be subject to a 10 per cent penalty for late listing.

Those who still haven't listed may do so at the listing places in Pitt's 15 townships.

So far, however, only about a third of those who should list in Greenville have done so. The average for rural listing areas is even lower—about one fourth.

Hours for listing in the respective townships, Allred said, are generally from 8:30 a.m. until five p.m.

All real and personal property must be itemized on the tax lists. This includes, building, farm equipment, cars and trucks, animals, including dogs and household furniture, among other items.

A check, Allred said, also will be made with the Department of Motor Vehicles in order to insure that all vehicles registered for Pitt County have been listed on the 1956 tax returns.

Roll tax too, must be listed for 1956 by all males between 21 and 50 years of age.

According to law even a man who owns no property eligible for taxation must still list his poll tax.

Statements of the amount owed, including poll tax, will be mailed to those who listed sometime this fall, Allred said.

Bridges To Fight Bid For Delegation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) today he will fight any attempt to "corner" New Hampshire's Republican delegation for any other candidate if President Eisenhower doesn't run again.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, told reporters that if persons close to the White House attempt to name a slate in the March 13 primary in his state, he may file his own name as a delegate candidate.

"I understand there is to be no slate chosen among the list of candidates for delegate, all of whom will be favorable to President Eisenhower," he said. "If any effort is made to create a slate, I will corner the delegation I probably will become a candidate myself."

Bridges, who is friendly to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), made it clear he is opposed to election of a New Hampshire delegation previously committed to designate if he decides not to seek a second term.

Although he didn't say so obviously was Bridges' belief that Sherman Adams and others in the administration hope for such a result in the New Hampshire primary.

Adams, a former governor of the state, is Eisenhower's No. 1 aide in the White House.

The New Hampshire vote is the first in the nation, Bridges said he expects the same results as in 1952 with Eisenhower sweeping the Republican presidential vote and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee winning in the Democratic contest.

Kefauver's backers yesterday obtained petitions to file his name in the April 17 primary in New Jersey, where no other prominent Democratic candidate has yet indicated an intent to run.

Bridges said yesterday's announcement by Gov. Lane Dwinell that he would file Eisenhower's name in the New Hampshire primary came as "no surprise to me."

"From the information I have," Bridges said, "the President will consent to his name remaining on the ballot either by a statement of acquiescence."

Bridges added, however, that as far as he can see this "doesn't mean anything" in connection with disclosing Eisenhower's plans about a possible second-term race.

The President has indicated he has made a tentative decision but couldn't share his mind. He has not indicated what the decision is.

The 14-vote New Hampshire delegation is elected at the same time as the preference primary. The delegates are not required to support any particular candidate unless they pledged to do so in advance.

A candidate's name may be filed in the preference voting without his consent. He is told if this is done, however, and then has 10 days to request that his name be withdrawn.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday he anticipates that if Eisenhower is notified that his name has been filed, "the notification will be answered by the President."

Edwin Pate Is Considering Race

RALEIGH (AP)—Former State Sen. Edwin Pate of Laurinburg says he is considering entering the race for lieutenant governor this year.

Pate, a farmer and banker, said, "It looks mighty good to me. Of course, it always looks good to me when he wants to do something."

He added that he will make an announcement of his plans about the first week in February.

A C. Edwards, veteran legislator of Hookerton, announced last Saturday that he will seek the lieutenant governorship.

New Atomic Test Series For Spring

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is going ahead this spring with more atomic weapons tests in the Pacific. Apparently heading outcries from abroad however, it will tone down the nuclear bluffs.

In what amounted to an official rejection at this time of demands that all the big powers quit testing nuclear weapons, the Atomic Energy Commission and Defense Department announced last night:

1. Preparations are under way for a series of nuclear tests to begin this spring at the Eniwetok proving grounds in the Marshall Islands of the mid-Pacific.

2. Because there are no "effective international agreements" in effect to limit or control armaments, the United States must continually endeavor "to maintain the most modern, efficient, military strength for the purposes of peace."

The tests will involve use of weapons for which the power will be "substantially below that of the maximum 1954 test." This reference, in a supplementary statement by AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, was to the superpowerful blast of March 1, 1954.

That explosion, unofficially estimated to have been equal to energy released by the detonation of about 17 million tons of conventional TNT brought trouble. Radioactive material falling out from the bomb cloud drifted outside the proclaimed safety zone. It descended on a Japanese fishing boat. The Japanese said the crewmen developed radiation sickness. One died. In nations like India and even in some aligned in common defense with the United States, including England, there were protests against further tests.

The joint AEC-Defense Department announcement said that one important purpose of the new series, while using only "weapons generally smaller" than that of the 1954 test shot, still will be powerful. Only weapons too big for safe use at the continental test site in Nevada are used at the Pacific proving ground.

WILL HE DEDUCT? SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—J. Bracken Lee told a group of college journalism students he will file his 1955 income tax return today. That's the return Lee has promised will include no check to cover taxes due. The Republican governor said last fall he will refuse to pay the money in hopes of winning a court test of Congress' right to tax its citizens for foreign aid spending.

Christ Jesus' healing of the centurion's servant who "was sick, and ready to die" (Luke 7) will be among the accounts of the life-giving power of God to be read from the King James version of the Bible.

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (369-16): "Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and the never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible."

The Inabell Coleman Circle of the Baptist Church met on Monday night with Mrs. Jessie White. There were thirteen members and one new member who was Mrs. Jake Cullifer.

Mrs. Linwood Briley, stewardship and program chairman, opened the program by reading a poem taken from the book "Lullaby of Gold." She read a short verse from Revelation, Chapter 1. Her discussion was taken from the book "Tall" and was entitled "Giving." Six points were brought out in a most interesting manner and stories were used for illustrations. A poem "March for God," was read and Malachi 2:1-10 completed the program. Mrs. Chesson gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. Luskin Presents Program At Lakewood Pines Club Meeting

Mrs. M. M. Luskin presented a double program to members of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club when they met at her home on Pineview Drive Tuesday morning.

In her first discussion on "How to Prepare a Compost Heap," she gave exact details as to the size and content of a heap which would turn into good humus for gardens next year.

The second program was on "Terrariums," and Mrs. Luskin illustrated with three terrariums which she made using materials gathered in the woods. The speaker said that this was an ideal way of having attractive growing plants in the house over the winter months.

She told what type of plants to look for, how to prepare the containers and how to care for the completed miniature woods-garden.

Mrs. R. P. Heller, vice president and program chairman, presided over the meeting in the absence of Mrs. R. W. Lowe. Members turned over to Mrs. F. F. Hendrix spring bulbs which will be donated to the Elm St. School. Mrs. W. M. Reading presented the monthly garden hints.

Designer Brings Romantic Theme By DOROTHY BOE AP WOMEN'S Editor NEW YORK (AP)—It's high time for a romantic era, in the opinion of David Gottlieb, a designer who managed to create a sensation in the New York fashion industry in a comparatively short time.

The cocktail and evening dresses in his spring preview definitely dramatic, planned frankly for allure and designed to make any woman feel like a dream girl. He uses such fragile and delicate fabrics as chiffon, lace, net and tulle.

Other combines lace bodices with clouds of frothy organdie in bouffant skirts, does tricks with lace appliques and sprinkles stardust in the form of sequins.

A highlight of his collection is a short-sleeved dress in navy silk, decorated with wide caplet collars of lace and embroidered organdie with a lavish hand. These collars form dramatic accents to dark costumes, and he froths them with lace edging, elaborates them with appliques and adds them with jeweled bows in double tiers and otherwise concerns himself with frosted frills.

Visiting fashion editors winding up a crowded week of spring fashion previews by New York designers also saw a showing of Gottlieb's clothes today, observed new fashions in eyeless frames and were given a concentrated briefing on the trends in jewelry for 1956—the "precious" look is the thing this year, they were told, and the bold ropes of beads of last season now are passé.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR January 13, 1926

The Board of Aldermen has purchased the automatic traffic signals for Greenville and the same will be located at Five Points.

The Pitt County Medical Society held the first meeting of the new year in Ayden last night, the guests in Greenville with Drs. Eric Fischer and J. Dennis Hardy.

The February meeting will be held in Greenville with Dr. Joe Smith and Jennis Morrill hosts. Dr. C. L. Outland told of the proposed plan for a tuberculosis sanatorium for Pitt, Edgecombe and Wilson Counties. Those attending last night's meeting were: Drs. L. C. Skinner, C. O. H. Laughlin, W. J. Wooten, K. B. Face, C. L. Outland, Malcolm Thompson, R. E. Williams, C. J. Ellen, M. B. Massey, Guy Sumrell, G. G. Dixon, J. C. Greene, B. McK. Johnson, M. T. Frizzelle, Joe Smith, Dr. Whitfield, A. M. Schultz and R. E. Smith.

The Local Sees Fame has been tapping on the shoulders of several of our local folks. Elwood Keister, for example, has been appointed Musical Director of "The Lost Colony" and for this honor we congratulate and felicitate him.

Robert Cramer of the College Geography Department has had an article published in Focus Magazine, a geography journal, called "The Outlook for Rubber," which indicates that he is an outstanding authority in this field.

His TV Course on World Geography, incidentally, is ending next week, and will be followed by a course in Science, to be presented by John Navarra of the Science Department at the College.

Shifting to local entertainment, we'd like to remind you that "Interrupted Melody," one of last year's best movies, will be on at a local cinema for one day this coming Tuesday, January 17, and is worth seeing if you missed it the first time around.

And don't forget—if you've lasted this long—about "The Barber of Seville," coming next Monday, the 23rd, for one day only.

Today's Review Our reviewer is Dr. Walter Krausnick of the College Mathematics Department, and the book is about Big Business.

INDUSTRY COLLEGE RELATIONS by Edward Hodnett, Cleveland: The World Publishing Company, 1955. $3.50.

This little book touches on a surprisingly large list of points of contact between industry and the colleges.

It does not touch on the ticklish problem that has worried many liberals. This is the increasing tendency of industry to try to control some of the colleges through the power of their money; nor does it more than mention the desire of many colleges to get as much money from industry as possible without selling more than small pieces of their souls.

It does devote a small chapter to the great problem of college trustees and their influence on college education. It mentions the excessive overrepresentation of the business interests on such boards, but wisely concludes that this trustee problem needs a much more complete survey than the limits of this book allow.

It tells about the Associate Program—a relation between colleges and a group of industrial concerns which industry pays the college for research and other services.

It goes on to Industry College Conferences, Information Services, Recruiting and Placement, Exchange Programs, Scholarships, and Research Projects and similar topics.

In short, this is a technical handbook for College Presidents and Industry for Personnel men and such people, and is without any deep overtones on the serious problems arising from the influence of industry on the colleges. In this limited field this book is complete and satisfactory, and should be of considerable value to its limited clientele.

Visit To Hawaii Provides Program As Book Club Meets BETHEL—Miss Elizabeth Wilson talked on Hawaii to the Round Dozen Book Club when it met on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. A. Staton.

Miss Wilson, dressed in native costume, showed a variety of souvenirs she acquired on her trip there. Her experiences while on a visit coupled with other facts about Hawaii provided an entertaining afternoon for the members.

Miss Camille Staton conducted such short business meeting followed by the secretary's report. Fifteen members were present.

The members were served aspic, chicken a la king, cheese biscuits stuffed with olives, pickles, banana nut bread topped with whipped cream and coffee.

Other guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Lillian Vandford and Mrs. F. L. Blount Sr. of Greenville and Mrs. T. N. Cooper.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG Let's hope the day goes by without any mishaps for any of you—and let us be thankful that 1956 will contain only two more Friday the 13th's. Which is two too many for us, but still, life can't always be simple.

The Grass Roots Most important event on the culture front next week is the annual one-day stand in Greenville of the North Carolina Grass Roots Opera Company. This year's treat is "The Barber of Seville," and the show will go on twice, in the afternoon for the school kiddies and in the evening for the grownups. The date is Monday, January 23.

The time is 2:45 for the matinee, 8:00 for the evening. The place is McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College, otherwise known as the Training School Auditorium.

The tickets are obtainable at the new Music Arts Store at Five Points at $1.25 apiece if you can get them—they are going fast.

And the show will be terrific, as we can guarantee, since we've seen the Grass Roots Company at work three or four times, and each time they've done better. So put it down in your little black book—"The Barber of Seville" at McGinnis Auditorium, 8 p. m. on Monday, January 23.

Cereal Business We didn't mean to make the little heading above a pun on "serious," but we did want to call your attention to what we think is a wonderful idea being promoted by the Post Cereal Division of General Foods—you know, the folks who put out Post-Toasties, etc.

Opening our package of Post Raisin Bran one morning, we discovered that we could, in return for the box-top and 60c, obtain a copy of a Doubleday Classic, valued in the bookstore at $1.49, which represents a considerable saving.

Doubleday Classics have issued such titles as "Black Beauty," "Huckleberry Finn," " Heidi," and "Robin Hood," among others, and they are the real thing, not comic book editions or Walt Disney condensations.

For thus advancing the cause of good reading we say three cheers for General Foods, and pass me another box of Post Raisin Bran, for goodness sake—and for better or for worse.

Eleanor Rush Case Damages Upheld

RALEIGH (AP)—A ruling that the State Highway Commission must pay damages of $3,000 as a result of the death of Miss Rush in Woman's Prison has been upheld by the State Industrial Commission.

By a 2-1 decision, the industrial commission affirmed Examiner Hugh M. Curran's finding that the woman was the victim of negligence on the part of prison employees.

The Highway Commission, under which state prisons are operated, had appealed Curran's decision to the full industrial commission. A further appeal to the courts is expected.

The death of Miss Rush, an 18-year-old Negro, in an isolation cell the night of Aug. 20, 1954, attracted statewide attention. After creating a disturbance, the girl had been bound and gagged by I. D. Hinton, then superintendent at the prison, and four guards.

Curran, who heard the case first, held that it was "evident that Hinton failed to give Eleanor Rush the protection and care required by the law."

The full commission's order was written by Commissioner Frank H. Gibbs and approved by Chairman J. W. Bean. Commissioner N. F. Ransdell dissented.

Ransdell said in his dissent he found no evidence of negligence on the part of state employees.

"The struggle and violent motions of the deceased herself while alone resulted in the injury...and her death," he wrote.

Even if the prison employees were negligent, the prisoner herself "was guilty of contributory negligence," he added.

The action to recover damages was brought by Geneva Gould of Albemarle, Miss Rush's mother and the administratrix of her estate. A $50,000 civil damage suit against Hinton and other Women's Prison employees is pending in Wake County Superior Court.

Hinton and the other prison employees were cleared of "culpable negligence" by a Wake coroner's jury. This freed them of the possibility of criminal charges in the case.

As a result of the death, several changes were made in prison disciplinary policies. The gag, never authorized, was specifically forbidden.

Gibbs' order amended Curran's decision to add findings of fact stating that: "The death of Eleanor Rush resulted and arose exclusively from, and was proximately caused and produced by, the negligence of said defendant employees..."; and, "There was no contributory negligence on the part of Eleanor Rush."

Those Resolutions Are Short-Lived

By DAWN SMITH
Griffon High School

I suppose all of you are again settled down to the old grind of school work.

I wonder how many of you have made and possibly broken those traditional New Year's resolutions? GHS is booming with them. Some of them are study more, (which I am sure has been broken already); cut the reckless driving; keep room cleaner; get up earlier on Saturday mornings. I imagine all of these will be broken in less than two months.

During Christmas and New Year Griffon boomed with parties. I can think of five different ones off-hand now. All were gala events and decorated as traditional to this season.

Faye McGlohon and Bob McCotter tied the knot in Dillon, S.C. on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. McCotter are residing at the home of his parents at the present time.

Former students of GHS and present college students who were home for the holidays are: Carolyn Davis, John Lewis, Phyllis Jackson, Argent Tucker, Lowell Speight, Mac Lancaster, John Chapman, Buddy Hancock and J. R. Hooten.

Griffon basketball teams will resume their county games tonight when they travel to Grimesland.

School Segregation Fight May Wreck Federal Aid This Year

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter struggle over segregation in public schools may wreck any chance this year for federal aid to get more classrooms built.

Before Congress votes any federal aid it must face and overcome a showdown on this question: Should any federal aid go to states which, contrary to the Supreme Court's ruling, still have racially segregated public schools?

President Eisenhower's program, given to Congress yesterday, called for paying out over two billion dollars in the next five years on federal aid. Many Democrats are in favor of money for new schools too. But there is a sharp division on the segregation issue.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) wants a ban on federal aid in segregated states. It said yesterday Congress has a "moral and legal obligation" to impose such a ban on any money it votes.

Rep. Adam Powell, Negro Democrat from New York, says confidently he has enough votes lined up in the House to make sure any federal aid money voted by that chamber carries a ban on its use in segregated areas.

Leaders seem to think the House will pass a bill with the ban included. That can be done without too much difficulty. There is a limit on debate there.

But in the Senate, where debate is unlimited, Southern Democrats can filibuster against any federal aid bill with the ban attached.

It can be said almost with certainty they would not abandon their filibuster unless a federal aid bill carries no ban. In the meantime senators who call themselves liberals will be on a tough spot.

They're for federal aid. Many of them are also against segregation. How can they reconcile themselves to voting federal aid to states which insist on keeping their schools segregated?

They may try to straddle the question and vote against a ban with this kind of argument: New classrooms are needed by white and Negro children alike. The question of segregation—if insisting on a ban in a federal aid bill means no federal aid at all—can be fought out later and in other ways.

Eisenhower himself avoided the problem in his message to Congress. He never mentioned it.

Step Up Pressure On East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists are stepping up their pressure on the 37,000 East Germans working in West Berlin to quit their jobs and help "constrict socialism" in the East.

Refugees from the East report that "border crossers" are being threatened with forcible removal to remote parts of East Germany unless they give up their West Berlin jobs.

An increasing number of "letters to the editor" in the Red press are demanding that East Germans quit working for "West German rearmament."

A letter in the Potsdam newspaper Miesische Volksstimme accused Communist party member Roman Koceln of "betraying the cause of the working class and our (East German) republic" by working in the West as a painter.

Faculty Research Group Organized

East Carolina College Research Associates, a new faculty group at the college here, was organized this week with more than a dozen members of the staff as participants.

Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, professor of education and psychology at the college, is acting as chairman of the group.

The organization is an informal association of members interested in individual or group research, or both. Meetings will be called at intervals during the school year for discussion of problems of interest in education and other fields and for evaluation of studies, either proposed or under way.

Scholars Taking Tests Saturday

CHICAGO (AP)—A total of 5,078 brilliant high school seniors will take second examinations tomorrow to determine which 2,500 of them will still be in the running for college merit scholarships next fall.

They are the survivors of nearly 60,000 hand-picked seniors who took the first examination Oct. 26 in the National Merit Scholarship Corp. talent search.

The second tests will be given at hundreds of testing stations throughout the nation, but no student will have to travel more than 90 miles.

The 2,500 finalists will be considered by a board of judges. The board will review their scholastic records and their activities records in and out of school. The students will be asked to submit statements of their plans for college and ambitions later.

At least 445 and possibly 500 will be given four-year scholarships to colleges of their choice. They also will get cost of living allowances based on need.

The scholarship program was made possible largely by a grant from the Ford Foundation. Nine major corporations subsequently announced plans to cooperate and increase the number of such scholarships.

Results will be known in about five weeks.

Drought And Demand Affect TVA Output

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Intense drought, plus drastically increased demand, have forced the Tennessee Valley Authority to cut down on power it supplies to a dozen industrial plants in the valley area.

The huge government power agency said yesterday the curtailment will not affect delivery of power to the average consumer, nor to its biggest customer the government atomic plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky.

Affected industries include aluminum, steel alloy and chemical plants.

The Atomic Energy Commission's demand for TVA power has increased 11 times during the past five years. It now uses more than half TVA's output. During four of those years, there has been below-normal rainfall in the seven-state valley.

The power shortage is not so serious as it might seem, however, a spokesman said, since TVA now produces more than half its power through steam generating facilities. The TVA expects next week to produce about 150 million kilowatt-hours of hydroelectric power, about half the normal production for this time of year. In addition, TVA generally has a stored-water potential in its reservoirs of 200 to 500 million kilowatt-hours additional.

The shortage has been aggravated during the past five weeks by a rainfall of less than an inch. Three of TVA's storage reservoirs are at record low levels.

TVA hopes to make up the deficit by recalling into service several retired steam generating plants. In addition, TVA is obtaining power from neighboring power systems.

Something For Everybody Over Weekend Television

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—There's something for everybody — well, nearly everybody — coming on television these next few days.

(All times are Eastern.)

Drama — In "Blithe Spirit" Noel Coward costars in his own play with Lauren Bacall, Claudette Colbert and Mildred Natwick. There's much hilarity when Charles Condomine (Coward), properly married to his second wife Ruth (Miss Colbert), discovers that his mischievous — and dead — first wife (Miss Bacall) has returned as a ghost. Miss Natwick as Madame Arcati, a spiritualist medium, almost stole the play when she appeared in the role on Broadway. Ford Star Jubilee (CBS-TV), Saturday, 9:30 p.m.

History — In one of history's most fascinating crimes four mercenaries bilked the Bank of England of a fortune in the 1870s. In "The Great Forgery" the principal thief is Hal March, who on the $64,000 Question customarily is giving money away. Omnibus (CBS-TV) Sunday, 5 p.m.

Movies — In the steady effort to give daytime TV programs on week days, ABC-TV offers the lists next Monday with a new set of two-hour British films. Tax Bite For Eleven-Year-Old DENVER (AP)—The long teeth of the income tax department has put a small bite on little Sharon Brenner, 11, a sixth grade pupil.

To supplement her allowance, she worked as an usher at several school affairs and received $1.35 a performance.

A tax statement informed her yesterday that as an employee of Denver school district No. 1, 24 cents had been withheld from her wages for Federal income tax and 1 cent for state income tax.

The Year When Congress Must Act

The Administration's farm program has been spelled out, and oddly enough, reaction sounds strangely favorable.

A scattering of criticism was fired off within the first twenty-four hours, but it since had faded into a sort of distant grumble.

In a 7,000-word message to Congress the President outlined a nine-point program designed to take 25 million acres out of production in the next three years; a continuance of the flexible price support plan; new laws to help in disposing of surpluses; a dollar limit of price supports for individual farms; increased rural development work and "war" on the Dust Bowl front; more research; an assurance of continued farm credit and some gasoline tax relief.

With over 500 lawmakers in Washington, to say nothing of political party spokesmen, the future agricultural program is fully as much in doubt as the future budgetary outlays.

Every one of those lawmakers is going to have something to say about the farm program, and most of them (this being an election year) would like to leave their own imprint on the legislation so as to assure their supporters they were not forgotten.

Odds are, that in trying to include so many viewpoints, the finished product will please only red tape manufacturers. And if, by some marvel of democracy in action, a workable farm program emerges from Washington it will still be subject to scornful criticism from the disgruntled.

No matter how Congress goes about it, the operation (for farmers and fellow taxpayers) will not be painless.

There will have to be more land taken out of production, which may well drive more of the population off the farms; there will have to be a decision on how to dispose of overwhelming surpluses without affecting prices on current crops; there should be additional conservation incentive for idled farm land and wastelands; some standard of price support will have to be maintained indefinitely. All of this will cost somebody something. On the other hand, it's costing us a fortune each day these things are not done.

One point well worth remembering: There never has been a proven governmental program for our farm economy. Everything done to date has served to meet a special contingency and out of each "solution" has grown more problems.

The problems confronting Congress this year are not new; they have been batted around for a long time. Pressure for action is now such that surely something will come out of the present session . . . offering relief to hard-pressed members of the farming fraternity.

Because this is an election year, election thinking will color a lot of what Washington says and does. This we regret, for our husky friend with the battered straw hat and sweat-stained shirt needs all the real help he can get to set his house in order.

Insurance Premium Rates Up To Court

By LYNN NISBET

INSURANCE — Final determination of the amount of increases in fire insurance premiums to be paid by North Carolinians very likely will be made by the courts. The matter of premium rates for extended coverage protection—windstorm, tidal wave, etc.—may go the same route.

Clear intimation of court action was given at the hearing before Charles F. Gold, commissioner of insurance, on the petition of the rating bureau for premium rate increases involving an aggregate of approximately $5 million in premium payments.

The petition asked for a 26 per cent increase in premiums on farm property including farm dwellings. No increase was asked on non-farm dwellings of the comparable construction and exposure. Commissioner Gold has previously ruled that there should be no differential in rates for comparable dwellings occupied by farmers and nonfarmers.

Col. W. T. Joyner, attorney for the rating bureau, remarked that some of the questions involving burden of proof required legal determination and said "that will be decided by the courts. If this matter goes to the courts, the implication was clear that another adverse decision by the commissioner would be appealed and Commissioner Gold just as clearly indicated he had not changed his mind on the point. So it seems almost certain the courts will have a chance to act.

COMPLEX — The structure of insurance premium rates is a complicated thing. News reporters, general practice lawyers, and even some insurance agents attending the hearing confessed inability to follow the evidence presented for and against the proposed increase in premium rates.

They recognized distinction between such items as premiums written and premiums earned, losses incurred and losses paid, and the ratio of incurred losses to earned premiums. While recognizing there is a difference they couldn't quite figure what it is.

AVERAGES — It was not difficult to understand that the whole insurance business is based on long term averages. A premium paid in 1954 might be based on earnings in 1955, and loss under the policy might be incurred in late 1955 but not actually paid until 1956. Quite obviously the three years or more must be considered in arriving at any sort of equitable relationship between premiums paid by the policy holder and losses paid by the carrying company. In most instances a five year experience is required and longer periods are generally used for computing the relationship.

CLASSIFICATIONS — It was brought out in testimony that there are 115 different classifications of property as basis for fire insurance premiums, each class carrying a different base rate. Before the insurance laws were re-written in 1947 and the rating bureau made a statutory State agency there were only 26 classifications.

It was also brought into evidence that there are three classifications for unprotected non-farm dwellings and contents, but only one for farm dwellings and contents—and that classification also includes all other farm property—dwellings, barns, farm machinery, growing crops and stored crops, livestock, etc.

Heart of the controversy between Commissioner Gold and the rating bureau seems to be that Gold objects to classifying farm dwellings with barns and crops, when the classification distinguishes between non-farm dwellings and contents or stocks of merchandise.

In support of the present class schedule the rating bureau contends that farm dwellings are an integral part of the whole farm operation, whereas the dwelling of a factory worker or a banker usually is entirely separate from his occupational activities. And the bureau presented figures to show that loss ratio on non-farm dwellings was about 46 per cent of premium collections, whereas the loss on farm dwellings was about 95 per cent. A 50 per cent loss ratio is considered sound insurance practice.

GOVERNOR — Folks along the North Carolina coast, are just about ready to throw away barometers and use Governor Hodges as the surest forecaster. The Governor was out of the state when two or three of last year's storms hit, and he left last Friday for a vacation in Florida just ahead of the current turmoil on the coast. The fact that he isn't having a very good time on his vacation because of unprecedented weather in the far south, doesn't change the belief of some coastal folks that when Hodges leaves the state storm warnings should be hoisted. "He is the best weather vane we've had," quipped an outer-banker.

A glance at the Governor's program for next week indicates he might need some rest ahead of time. He is scheduled to return from Florida next Thursday just in time to deliver the address at the press institute at Chapel Hill that night. Friday morning he will take off by plane for New York to address the Southern Society that night, and attend a luncheon of the Down Home Chapter of the Honorary Tar Heels at noon Saturday. Saturday night he is billed to speak to the North Carolina Society's annual banquet in Washington.

Four major speeches in 48 hours, ending with a travel of some 2,000 miles by train, plane and car is the kind of thing that calls for rest before and after because quite obviously there won't be much rest time during those three days. Also it seems to be the kind of address Governor Hodges gets a kick out of.

When Soviet Embassy Burned

The Grass Only Looks Green

Variety is the spice of life so the story goes.

And for variety News Editor Don Schliez and I struck a bargain the other day. Sitting at his desk littered with papers and clippings, Don looked up and said to me, "I've got an idea for a column."

"Nope," I said. "I've got no good editorial ideas for the last of the week?"

"Nope," I said. "Tell me what I'll do. You write a column for me for Friday and I'll write your editorials for Friday."

Well, that was too good to miss. Trade three editorials for one column. Boy I'd do that most any time. . . particularly since I didn't have anything in mind at the moment for Friday's editorials.

So the bargain was struck and here it is Thursday. Since Tuesday Don has been pulling his hair out for several editorial ideas, and I've been sweating for one good idea for a column. As is usually the case under such circumstances, I have had several ideas for Friday's editorials since the bargain was made; but no column ideas. Don probably has had several good ideas for columns since the bargain was made too, but I'd give you two to one odds he's been scratching for editorial ideas.

Since each of us wants to think he has the better end of the bargain, neither will approach the other on the matter reverting to our old chores for Friday. So we both sweat.

Writing columns, like writing editorials, is usually a relatively easy task for a while. But after the first 30- or 40 most writers find it a little more difficult to find something to write about. After several hundreds of columns or editorials most writers find the difficult thing is selecting the topic about which to write. After a thousand or so, there are not a few days when the old mind fails to promptly come up with a bright new slant on a topic which should be discussed editorially.

And alas, the grass is always greener. The editorial writer looks at the columnist and thinks, "What a snap. There must be thousands of things to write a column about."

Conversely the columnist looks at the editorial writer and thinks, "With so much happening it would be easy to write at least a dozen editorials a day."

Then one day they trade chores. The green grass isn't so green as it looked from the other type-writer.

Next time, I'll think twice before I strike a fast bargain. But one thing sure, I'm going to enjoy reading the editorials in tonight's Reflector.

Notebook On Life

The Budget Is Cumbersome

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal budget is such a complicated affair by now that perhaps President Eisenhower should have chosen Friday the 13th to unveil it instead of waiting till Monday. Carefully and conscientiously as it may have been drawn up, the budget has become so unwieldy over the years that it can't be put in a briefcase. The most honest of budgets is so tricky by now that it's possible to say:

1. After 20 years of social security and similar programs, the Treasury shows a cash balance now only when the regular budget calls for a deficit of two or three billion dollars. No deficit in the regular budget and the Treasury will have a cash surplus.

2. The actual sums the Treasury will spend in the next fiscal year could be considerably more than what Congress is being asked by the President to authorize at this session, and all legal could be less, and all legal.

3. The sums the Congress finally will appropriate also may be more or may be less than the Treasury will actually spend in the next fiscal year. Authorization isn't the same as appropriation and appropriation isn't the same as spending—although sooner or later the government always gets around to spending plenty.

The reasons for these seeming contradictions are these: The cash budget covers all the income the Treasury collects from the public and all the payments it actually makes to the public. This income includes money which isn't counted in the regular budget the President has prepared for the Congress. This money chiefly consists of receipts the Treasury collects for social security and other trust funds. It isn't counted as government income, but the Treasury can and does use it in its daily dealings just like any other cash receipts.

For years now most of these trust funds have been collecting more from the public than they pay out in benefits. For their excess receipts the trust funds get special government securities.

The interest on these securities bring in a billion dollars or more a year to the funds — although the actual cash stays in the Treasury and is credited to the funds.

The interest payment, however, like all the other billions the Treasury pays out on the federal debt is counted as an expense item in the regular budget.

In short, collections on behalf of the trust funds aren't counted as income although treated as cash by Treasury, while interest payments to the funds are counted as expenditures, even if the funds may not see the cash. In this way, the Treasury's cash intake and outgo can be in balance even if the ordinary budget isn't.

The difference between actual spending and the authorization and appropriation of funds by Congress can be just as confusing. The various departments of government often have large appropriations of sums appropriated in former years for their use.

Taxpayers Should All Get Rich

By ELMER ROESSNER

Well, it's this way—Increasing income tax exemptions, as said here yesterday, would benefit a rich man more than a poor one.

Doesn't sound reasonable, does it? But before you take your pen in hand to denounce me as a chousehead please note these two points:

1. I am a chucklehead anyhow. 2. Increasing income tax exemptions nevertheless does benefit a rich man more than a poor alob.

At the moment, there is a lot of talk in Washington about throwing the taxpayers a bone by increasing deductions from net income from the present $600 per person to $700.

MANNA FROM UNCLE SAM Let's see how that would work out. Let's take Mr. and Mrs. Workhappy and Mr. and Mrs. Piper Heidsieck as our examples.

The Workhappys make $5,000 a year. They have $1,000 in deductible expenses, including interest payments, contributions, etc. That leaves $4,000. They have two $600 deductions, leaving a taxable income of $2,800, or $1,400 each. That brings their tax bill to $560.

If the deductions are increased to $700, then they have taxable incomes of $1,300 and their tax bill is $520.

Net savings $40.

The Heidsiecks have an income of $50,000, not counting income from tax-free bonds. It's the Heidsiecks that are putting up the money for our toll roads, kiddies, and they are doing it because the interest is tax free. The Workhappys pay the actual costs, plus that interest, when they pay tolls.

The Heidsiecks' deductions for interest, charity, etc. come to $5,000, leaving a net of $45,000. Subtract $1,200 for personal deductions and you have $44,800, or two incomes of $22,400. The tax on these totals $358,048.

If personal deductions are increased to $1,400, the net income subject to taxes would be $44,800 or two incomes of $22,400. The tax on this would be $357,866.

Net savings, $182.

Net moral: Get rich.

PROGRESSIVE TO WHERE? The system of taxation by which rates rise with income is known as the "progressive" system. That's because the rates "progress" with the total income.

The name may be misleading. Everybody is for progress, of course. So many people find themselves favorable to "progressive" taxes, even though it means taking 52 per cent of corporate income, and then taking 91 per cent of what is left when paid to persons in the top bracket.

The progressive system fosters deceit in another way. It puts a premium on cheating.

The Workhappys may be sincerely indignant about people who judge when reporting income for taxes. They are shocked that anybody would stoop to cheat the government out of a few dollars. If Joe Workhappy picks up $100 painting a garage for a neighbor, of course he'll report it. Think he'd be hurray to find a tax man for a measly $22 in taxes? Risk his freedom for the price of four bottles of bourbon? Don't be silly.

But Heidsieck faces greater temptations. Every $100 he can save means $91 to him. Why not put the balance in the Heidsieck Sickle Co. payroll? Why not make that next trip to Paris a business trip? And why not charge the party for the Van Jones' as business entertainment? Van Jones might give an order some day.

Why not? Law, perhaps. Fear of what the accountants would think. Conscience. Patriotism. But, if Heidsieck pays his full bill, then he is a better man than Workhappy, not because he pays more but because he resists greater temptations.

BAD NEWS FOR BAD BOYS The traditional glass greenhouse may vanish. Studies at the University of Kentucky's Agricultural Experimental Station show that greenhouses made of wooden frames and polyethylene film cost only a sixth to a twentieth as much as conventional greenhouses and only half as much to heat. Some out-of-season flowers and vegetables grow even better than they do in the glass-houses, the University's experimenters found. Polyethylene greenhouses resist rock tossers better, too.

It's Been A Good Week To Stay Home Nights

When you have several days in a row of overcast skies

And half-hearted drizzle; and the wind blows cold enough to chill your bones. Nothing sounds as good as Staying in at night, in your own home.

With the heat turned up and lamps turned low and a Steamy fragrance from the kitchen as dinner cooks. To the cheerful clatter of a homemaker who knows her work.

Again, there'll be no moon tonight and clouds will hide stars

From the window-gazer. Thank goodness there'll be no ice

In the morning; or snow either, for that matter.

But for the present let's look about the room and enjoy

Warmth while the cold of January blusters around Outside. Here, there's comfort . . . a favorite chair

And books and magazines. There's music, too, by radio or phonograph

To say nothing of high drama via TV. Another gust of wind

And the brush of a branch along the rooftop reminds it's a dreary

Night outside. It's great to have an evening at home when Winter acts like winter. The word "snug" comes to mind.

A Realistic View Of Farming

(Kinston Free Press)

In his nine-point program to bolster the economy of the American farmer in this crucial election year, President Eisenhower has taken a realistic view of the situation and issued a challenge to the Congress to measure up to it with legislation which should ease the acute problems without adding a great deal more to the government surplus.

The program calls for a soil bank plan to reduce cropland by 12 per cent and divert acreage to trees, grass and other non-subsidized uses which would strengthen the value of the farmer's holdings.

For disposal of the surplus the President asked for new laws to grant greater freedom to sell surpluses at home and abroad. He asked for specific modification of commodity price supports, with authority to buy more milk and pork, but maintaining the principle of flexible supports. He wants a monetary limit on price supports, so certain large farming concerns will be able to take from $200,000 to half-million in government grants in a single season. Rural development programs were suggested to help low income areas attract new industry and stabilize their economy.

For the great western plains, the President asked an expanding program to combat dust bowl erosion in 10 states. A 25 per cent increase in research funds to seek new uses and new markets for farm products was asked, along with minor administrative credit for farmers and the ninth proposal called for exemption of farmers from the two-cent federal gasoline tax used on farms for tractors and machinery.

Obviously the President's farm message embodies a great deal of thought and is the product of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's thinking and others who have been concerned about the farmer's plight for many months now. It is realistic in view of the fact that it is aimed at giving the farmer a fair share of the national income, without leaving the way open to new and greater surpluses, which outright subsidies invariably do. It is political in a measure, too, and certainly the proposed exemption of the gas tax could be placed in that category. There is more merit in the program than there is in the American economy on the whole.

But by and large the program is worthy of serious consideration by the Congress. If the politicians in the "mean streets" who are helping the farmer this year or in the future they will set down to business now and enact the program legislation and that promptly.

The details should be worked out by Congress, but the outline as advanced by the President, will be difficult to improve on, as the solons get down to business.

GETTING READY FOR ETERNITY

We are safe in an evil world so long as the evil is not in us. A ship is not made to stang for itself, but it must be put into the water. The waves will buffet it about. But water will never hurt a ship so long as the water is not in the ship.

We cannot get away from the fact that we live in an evil world. It has always been evil. The responsibility rests upon us not only to make ourselves as good as we can but to make the world in which we live as good as we can. But after we have done our best, the world will still be a hideously evil place. And we must live in this evil world and we must raise our children and send the m out into this evil world, knowing that, a thousand demons will be clutching at them as they walk along the pathway of life. Our comfort is to be this—evil will never hurt us—or them—so long as it is in the world about us and not in our own hearts. The God who made us will give us power to resist that evil. We are not made for defeat but for victory.

Let us therefore not complain about the world; let us get ourselves ready to take life as it comes, to meet evil as we meet good fortune, to experience triumph as well as defeat. This is part of the process to make us ready for eternal life.

Even such Eisenhower admirers as Senators Russell and George of Georgia, and Byrd of Virginia, seem to harbor the same suspicion. They flatly oppose proposals for increased foreign economic aid. They regard them as an attempt by the Dulles-Stassen-Lodge faction to meet Democratic charges that military containment alone is not sufficient answer to Moscow's new "smiles" offensive.

Eisenhower's Health Will Be A Target

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Adlai E. Stevenson says that President Eisenhower's health will not become a campaign issue, if the two should be the opposing Presidential candidates next fall. But current Democratic moves on Capitol Hill suggest that Ike's physical capacity to perform his full duties forms an uncertain one of opposition strategy.

Despite Stevenson's demurrer, he himself indulged in this flanking maneuver. Expressing admiration for Ike's integrity on a recent television panel, Stevenson questioned the accuracy and frankness of the State of the Union message. In declaring that it was "political in tone," he indicated that in his opinion, it had been framed by ambitious politicians rather than by the President.

STEVENS-ON'S JIBES AT IKE'S MESSAGE Stevenson likewise jibed

at the message's optimistic references to our national defense posture and our situation abroad, as do many Democrats on and off Capitol Hill. From Ike's experiences as a military man and from his dealing with the wily Russians, they feel that Ike would not have subscribed to such rosy statements, if he had been in full command.

Even such Eisenhower admirers as Senators Russell and George of Georgia, and Byrd of Virginia, seem to harbor the same suspicion. They flatly oppose proposals for increased foreign economic aid. They regard them as an attempt by the Dulles-Stassen-Lodge faction to meet Democratic charges that military containment alone is not sufficient answer to Moscow's new "smiles" offensive.

Three Democrats may not be trying to capitalize on Ike's illness deliberately or intentionally, Oklahoma Democrat, ex-Senator Josh Lee, was knocked off CAR in favor of a Dewey Democrat from New York.

Since both the Lees had carried out Eisenhower's declared policy for greater competition on the airways, Monroney maintains that Weeks took unfair advantage of Ike's absence and illness.

SYMINGTON'S SUSPICIONS Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri suspects that Weeks and Adams have also interfered in railroad policy without Ike's knowledge. A year or so ago, they tried to oust J. Monroe Johnson, a South Carolina Democrat and then ICC chairman. Johnson had fought to restrict freight rates discriminatingly against Southern roads and favorable to Northern lines.

Senator Symington promises to subject this and other peculiar ICC episodes to the "goldfish bowl treatment." He shares Monroney's suspicions.

Jesus Calls for Repentance

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 13:1-35.

Some listening to Jesus told Him that there were Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

Jesus told a parable of a man whose fig tree bore no fruit for three years.

While Jesus was teaching in a synagogue on a Sabbath, He saw a woman bowed down with an infirmity.

The ruler of the synagogue was angry because Jesus healed on the Sabbath.

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 86:5.

Jesus Calls for Repentance

THE LORD IS GOOD AND READY TO FORGIVE THEM THAT CALL UPON HIM

Scripture—Luke 13:1-35.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. REPENT YE, Jesus says again and again in today's lesson.

We all sin in one way or another, but most of us repent even our minor sins and try to live lives worthy of Christ and our Father who is in heaven.

Luke tells that there were some people in the multitude about Jesus who told Him that in years gone by, some Galileans had been slain by Pilate.

Jesus asked these people if they considered that these Galileans were sinners above others because they had suffered thus. Then He thou art loosed from thine infirmity." "And He laid His hands on her; and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God."

The chief man of the synagogue became indignant, and rebuked not only Jesus and the woman but all within hearing, saying: "There are six days in which men ought to work; in them therefore come and be healed, and not on the Sabbath day."

The Lord answered, "Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the Sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering? And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham whom Satan hath bound, . . . be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day?"

Luke says that all the Lord's adversaries were ashamed, and the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that Jesus had done.

Jesus likens the kingdom of God to a tiny grain of mustard seed which, when planted, grows into a great tree in a short time.

Or it is like the leaven in bread, which a housewife mixes with answered, "Nay, but except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish."

Jesus also asked these people if, when the tower of Siloam fell because they were wicked? No; that was an accident.

Then Jesus told a parable about a man who owned a fig tree that had not borne any fruit for three years. He told his gardener to cut the tree down.

One Sabbath Jesus was preaching in the synagogue, when He saw a woman who had been suffering from a dreadful disease that had bowed her body so that she could not lift herself upright.

Pirates Flatten Guilford With Crushing 102-66 Win

Reserves Shine In Rout Of Visitors

By BRUCE PHILLIPS

Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina's irresponsible cagers steamrolled over a hapless Guilford College team last night, 102-66, and in doing so padded their hold on first place in the North State Conference.

It was East Carolina's seventh straight conference win and the 43rd successive home court victory. It also marked the second time in a week that the Bucs have hit the century mark.

Maurice Everette, Robersonville-born, rung up the magical number with a free throw at the 1:13 mark. The second team carried the score there after Coach Howard Porter retired his first five with East Carolina leading 74-43.

Big Rout
The game was a rout from the outset. Guilford, who has yet to win a game this season, was never within hollering distance. East Carolina jumped out front 11-3 in the first four minutes and from there on it was just a matter of how much the Bucs could score.

Jumping Don Harris took individual scoring honors with 15 points. He canned five field goals and hit five out of five from the free throw line.

Four of the first five hit in double figures. Captain J. C. Thomas got 14 on six field goals and two charity baskets. Nick Nichols, Freddie James and sub Marion Hales collected an even dozen apiece.

James played an exceptional defensive game while he was in there. The little sophomore intercepted many Guilford passes which resulted in falling fast breaks. Guy Mendenhall, starting center, added nine points but more than made up for his scoring deficiency in rebounds.

First Chance
The reserves, getting their first opportunity to really shine, continued the whiplash until the end. The second liners played the last 10 minutes of the first half and the final 13 of the second.

Besides Hales who had the best night of his college career, Everette, Tim Smothers, Waddell Solomon, Joe Plaster, Harold Ingram and Dick Little played well.

Every man on the squad tallied but Little, Everette had 10 on four beautiful baskets from the floor and two free throws. Smothers had nine, Ingram five and Plaster four.

Plaster, the gawking 6-8 freshman, got his baskets on neat tip-ins. Everette amused the partisan crowd in the fading moments with some fancy dribbling.

Guilford's young club just couldn't get going. Coach Dave Meredith's team has had streaks of luck all year. Two first stringers, who kept the Quakers in the first ECC-Guilford game, recently dropped out of school.

Atlas Led
Bill Atlas, a spunky guard, led his club in scoring with 12 points. Doug Wood had nine and Bill Tudor and Jim Burgess had eight apiece.

The triumph was the 10th against two defeats for East Carolina on the season. This weekend, the Pirates go on a tough two-game road trip, starting Lenoir Rhyne Saturday night and Western Carolina Monday.

GHS Wrestling Team To Meet Norfolk School

Greenville high school's Phantom wrestling team travels to Norfolk, Virginia today to match their grunt-and-grow tactics with the top school in that area. Stanley Jones stated yesterday that several of his boys would be facing Virginia State individual mat champions in the match.

Leading the Big Green roster are Eborn Allen, Billy Sermons, Wayne Polard and Howard King. "Allen," Coach Jones has commented, "will face the Virginia champ in the 113-pound division, and I've heard that they have two more champions on their squad."

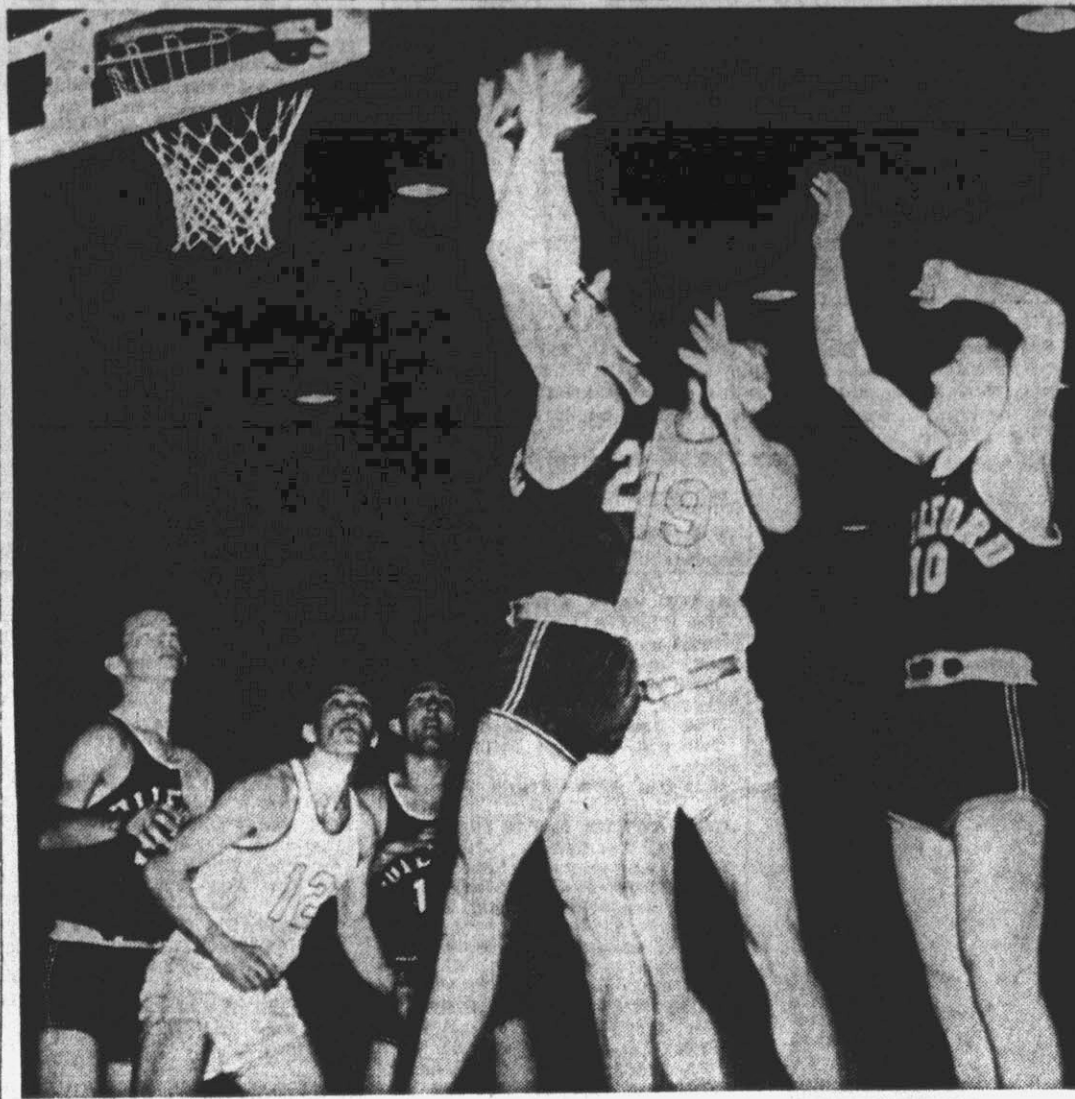

In this, the first season of wrestling in the history of the school, Phantom matmen have seen only one contest prior to today's encounter. They lost to AAA Goldsboro before Christmas, although their performances were, according to Jones, "pretty good for a beginning team with no experience."

PERFECT BLOCK—East Carolina's 6-6 freshman forward Tim Smothers clamps a beautiful block on an attempted lay-up by Guilford's Young (20) in last night's conference battle. Harold Ingram (12) of ECC watches the play as Quaker Brewer (10) tries in vain to help his teammate. The triumph was the seventh win for the Pirates without a defeat and fixed them solidly in first place.

"SCRAP-IRON" SCORES—Freddie "Scrap-Iron" James, East Carolina guard is shown flying through the air to collect a field goal in last night's ECC-Guilford blast. The Bucs copied their 43rd straight home victory, 102-66.

ECC Swimmers To Meet Clemson's Squad Here

East Carolina's swimming team, victorious in its last two starts, will seek revenge against a powerful Clemson team in the college pool tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

Clemson, South Carolina champions, beat the locals 52-32 back in January for one of the Pirates' only two losses. State owns the other.

Good Shape
Coach Ray Martinez says his team is vengeance-bent and will be going all out to get even. The young coach said his boys are ready and in perfect condition.

Clemson got the early victory on the strength of winning both relays. That was 12 points right there. Martinez has been working on these events all week with Clemson in mind.

East Carolina placed or won every other event before and had it won the relays, would have taken the meet easily.

Clemson has one of the highest rated tank teams in the South. Besides being South Carolina champs last year, they whipped such Tar heel schools as Duke and UNC. Only State College dented them.

McKee and Sawyer
Leading the Bucs will be terrific Harold McKee and Bob Sawyer. Both boys took two firsts apiece last week against Davidson. McKee swims the 220 freestyle and the 400 freestyle. Sawyer the 200 free and the 200 back stroke.

Joey Lopes And Lightburn Fight Tonight On Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joey Lopes, needing a victory to stay in contention for a crack at the lightweight crown, goes into the ring tonight a 10-7 underdog against Ludwig Lightburn.

The fight will be televised nationally at 10 p.m., EST — which is the 7 p.m. dinner hour out here.

Lightburn, a flashy straight-in and-hit type of boxer from British Honduras, could drop his Sacramento, Calif., opponent out of 10th place among the 135 pounders.

Lopes lost on points to Carmelo Costa and Frankie Ryff last year on an Eastern tour.

Lightburn is the type of puncher Lopes has looked best against. Lopes primarily is a counter-puncher and needs an opponent who will lead. Lightburn leads.

Lightburn, who is ranked seventh, has a record of 36 victories and six defeats. Of his victories, 15 were by knockouts.

There are 22 victories, 9 losses and 2 draws on Lopes' record, including 11 KO victories.

Ducks And Geese Season Closing

The open season for hunting ducks and geese will close tomorrow — January 14.

The open season for hunting quail, rabbits and wild turkey will close January 31, Game Protector J. O. Teel stated.

The season for hunting possum and raccoons ends February 15.

Colors into the battle are Jimmy Meads, who swims the 100 freestyle and 50 yard free, Frank Moore and Jack Kobberling, undefeated breast stroke team, and Teddy Gartman and Dick Denton, who swim the sprints.

Ken Midgett and Gene Lusk will dive for East Carolina.

Terps Pushed To Fourth In ACC Race; Duke 'Leading'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke held undisputed possession of first place in the topsy-turvy Atlantic Coast Conference basketball race today, but the chances are North Carolina will be along side the Blue Devils tomorrow.

Maryland, which had held first place, was dropped at College Park last night by the ever-potent North Carolina State Wolfpack 73-64. That skidded the Terps to fourth and pushed Duke into first.

Duke has a 5-1 ACC record. North Carolina (4-1) battles South Carolina in Charlotte's spiffy new coliseum tonight and then invades Clemson tomorrow.

The red-hot Tar Heels should win both games. Duke plays Maryland tomorrow in a game that could make or break the Blue Devils, temporarily at least.

North Carolina State, 4-1 in the conference, is not scheduled until next Wednesday when the Wolfpack faces North Carolina.

The N.C. State-Maryland affair was the only game involving ACC teams last night and the North Carolina-South Carolina contest tonight is the only ACC clash scheduled.

Ronnie Shavlik, State's beanpole center, and Bob O'Brien of Maryland each had 22 points to lead their teams. A crowd of 10,400 saw the game, a record basketball crowd for the state of Maryland.

Davidson almost upset Furman in a Southern Conference game but the Hurricane managed a 72-70 victory. Furman's Darrell Floyd, the nation's leading scorer, was held to 18 points, the first time in 38 games Floyd had been held below 20 points.

Davidson's Hobby Cobb was high for the night with 20 points. Center Bob Thomas followed Floyd in the Furman scoring with 18 points.

Belmont Abbey nipped Newberry 57-53 with guard Al Taglieri high for the winners with 16 points. High for the night, however, was Newberry Center Herb Jacobson with 17.

East Carolina won its 43rd straight home court victory with a 102-66 drubbing of Guilford. It was the Pirates' seventh win in North State Conference play against no defeats. Six ECC players hit in the double figures.

McCrory dropped Pfeiffer College 82-65 with the Eagles' Smith Langdon high for both teams with 28 points. Except for the North Carolina-South Carolina game, no North Carolina teams are in action tonight.

Gridiron Powers Will Play Duke

DURHAM (AP)—Duke's future football teams are going to meet some of the nation's perennial gridiron powers, including Notre Dame, Illinois, Baylor and Rice.

Athletic Director Eddie Cameron revealed the Blue Devils' future plans yesterday. He announced a Notre Dame-Duke series to begin at South Bend on Oct. 18, 1956, with the second game to be played at Durham in 1959.

Rice will play at Houston in 1957. The Illinois series begins at Champaign-Urbana in 1958 that same fall. Baylor comes to Durham. In addition, the Duke-Army series which ended in 1954 will be resumed in 1959.

Cameron said these teams will be worked into schedules which include the best teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The 1956 schedule, for instance, includes five ACC teams. The Dukes meet Maryland of the ACC for their first conference tilt next year.

Cameron said the long-range program is in line with Duke's policy to play only the best teams. "We are negotiating with other top teams in the nation and will announce games with them at a later date."

Frank Sullivan of Boston and Frank Lary of Detroit received the poorest fielding support in the American League in 1955. Each had 19 unearned runs scored while they were pitching.

Benefit Game At Memorial Gym

Tonight is the big night for the annual March of Dimes basketball tilt at ECC's Memorial Gymnasium, featuring the Greenville AA high school Phantoms in battle with a crew of big, fast East Carolina freshman cagers. All proceeds from this season's GHS has walloped New Bern by 34 points, Washington by 14 points and Elizabeth City by 17, and doing most of the damage for the G-Men were veterans Ike Riddick and Harold Edwards. In points-scored-per-contest, Edwards is averaging 20, while Riddick is hitting a 19 clip.

Forward Billy Johnson, a 6-1 senior is expected to add to the local high school's strength as a rugged rebounder. He is also butting the nets at a hot pace, averaging 14.2 markers per trial. Ray Hardee, a forward, and Jerry Drum, who will alternate with Tommy Norris at a guard slot tonight, will be the top Phantom floormen.

Coach Earl Smith's mighty ECC freshman quintet holds a 10-point advantage over the Green in pre-game predictions, due to superior height and experience. Tallest man of the Phantom squad is All-Conference center Harold Edwards, who stands at 6-4. Two Buccaneers surpass this mark with inches to spare: Tim Smothers measures 6-6 from his forward post, and Edwards' opposing center, Joe "Yogi" Plaster stretches the tape to the 6-10 mark.

Four New Teams Appear On State Grid Schedule

RALEIGH (AP)—Four new teams, including Penn State and Dayton, are on North Carolina State's 10-game schedule for the 1956 football season.

The other newcomers are Clemson and Maryland, both Atlantic Coast Conference schools of which N.C. State is a member. The four replace Villanova, Furman, Boston University and William and Mary, which were the four teams N.C. State beat in posting its 4-1 record in 1955.

The schedule, Sept. 22 — at Norfolk; Oct. 6 — Virginia Tech at Norfolk; Oct. 13 — Florida (N); 20 — at Dayton; 27 — at Duke.

Nov. 3 — Wake Forest at Winston-Salem, N.C.; 10 — South Carolina (N); 17 — at Penn State; 24 — Maryland.

TRAILER'S WEEK OUT

Celebration Marked New Gym's Opening

By MELVIN BOYD
 Grimesland School News
 That long awaited moment has finally arrived for the students and people living in the area of Grimesland. The opening of the newly completed gymnasium on the night of January 6, was celebrated with a ball game between Grimesland Panthers and the Chocod Hornets. The building was completed by the Dunn Construction Co.

The gym was nearly filled to the brim as many people came to visit the new school addition. The building has showers and rest room facilities and also a booth from which refreshments can be sold. It has a modern tile floor which improves the looks inside the building tremendously. It is equipped with rollaway bleachers on one side with a seating capacity of over 800. The seating capacity can be increased by adding more seats because there is plenty of room.

It was completed at cost of about $90,000. The work was begun on the gym the middle of last year.

The students at Grimesland High had a visitor with a worthy cause. It began Jan. 8, and no date has yet been set for its ending. The visitor was Mr. W. H. Bunch, science teacher and also homeroom teacher of the junior class, who began the March of Dimes campaign by coming around to each room taking up money for the drive. The students participated nearly one hundred percent.

The junior class at Grimesland High is in charge of the annual seed selling campaign which started January 9. It is one of the many money-raising projects that faces every junior class. The juniors have distributed the seeds among the lower grades for sale at reasonable prices. One free pack will be given to those who buy a whole box. Parents should take advantage of this good offer which closes in two weeks.

The annual staff is nearing the completion of the 1956 "Panther" yearbook. The second part of the annual includes class pictures, group pictures and the snapshot pages which will be sent to the printing company for assembling. One more part remains to be mailed which includes superlatives. What a job it is.

A new project was started at the school about a week and a half ago. Everyone who passed the scene wondered and guessed as to what it was. Finally when the tank arrived their minds were relieved. The badly needed tank will replenish the poor water system the school has.

Cash Policy For Young Thieves

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A new pay-as-you-steal plan for thieving youngsters has been worked out in juvenile court. Judge Louis H. Jull said yesterday the youths are going to have to put down cash for everything they steal.

He started his new policy by ordering two 15-year-olds to begin work to earn $108—the value of loot they took from a school break-in.

Autonomy Issue Before Baptists

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The thorny issue of local autonomy among Baptist churches may go before a special meeting of the Baptist State Convention.

Dr. James M. Bulman of East Spencer, chairman of a five-member committee of Baptist ministers, said here yesterday a request for a special meeting was being prepared and would be submitted to the convention's general board in Raleigh Monday or Tuesday. The ministers working with Dr. Bulman met here during a three-day mid-winter Bible conference at the Piedmont Bible School.

Dr. Bulman said the request would be for a discussion on the court testimony given during hearings on the North Rocky Mount Baptist Church case in Nash Superior Court. The case subsequently went to the State Supreme Court, whose ruling, Dr. Bulman said, set a precedent "and goes against the basic Baptist doctrine."

In the North Rocky Mount case, a majority of members present at a congregational meeting voted to withdraw from the Southern and State Baptist conventions, and asked control of the church property. The high court ruled in favor of the minority, however. Bulman said, "We feel a basic principle has been violated in the Rocky Mount case. The committee members and myself want to inform the people—the laymen—that a breach of doctrine has been made." The group believes, Dr. Bulman added, that the property of all Baptist churches is now bound to the Baptist State Convention. The Supreme Court decision bears this out, he asserted. "This is not autonomy. It's completely un-Baptistic," said the Rev. Rev. W. W. Robbins of High Point, a committee member.

Fifteen Dollar Price On Honks

BELGRADE (AP)—It's going to cost drivers $15 now to honk their horns in Belgrade — unless they can prove they had to. The new police regulation is the Yugoslav capital's second move in recent years to control traffic noise.

There was a time when the horn was as important as brakes in Belgrade driving. Drivers used to honk horns to indicate which way they were going — one foot if going through an intersection, two for a right turn and three times for a left turn.

As more and more cars crowded the streets, the clamor became so intense neither drivers nor pedestrians could tell who was honking for what.

Traffic lights were installed to stop that.

Now that the holidays are over, most households are once again settling back into their normal routine. It's a very good time to suggest you try your hand at an album project. Pictures, album, paste pot and a little imagination are the only ingredients necessary for creating a photo album that's fun to make and a delight to own.

You can start from scratch and make simple sturdy covers out of cardboard, wood, leather, or heavy acetate sheets. The pages between the covers can be made of art paper cut to size, or you can buy ready-made album leaves of suitable dimensions. In mounting your snapshots, don't limit yourself to a row-upon-row arrangement. Experiment with various layouts—and don't be afraid of borrowing a bit of technique from your favorite picture magazine.

Some of your more interesting shots can be given added importance through enlargement. The resulting contrast in size lends extra eye-appeal to the page. Of course, if you don't feel ambitious enough to tackle a complete "do-it-yourself" job, there's a wide variety of albums and scrapbooks already on the market to choose from. One that we especially like has transparent envelopes for pages. Come in and see what we have.

A Doctor in the Family

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

On Sunday, when the family returned from church, Alan's bags stood ready in the downstairs hall, reminding the family of his trip to St. Louis. "I'm driving," he replied to an inquiry. "I'll leave as near two as I can get through here."

The doctor and his wife were dinner guests so that the family protests were necessarily on a polite level. Linda, watching Alan, was glad that he was a man able to carry out the requirements of his profession without permitting interference from the older members of his family.

Alan was explaining to the doctor in detail beyond his usual custom why he especially wanted to attend the clinic in St. Louis. "I attend the clinic in St. Louis," he confessed. "This clinic is particularly allied to that subject—and one of the demonstrations is for the relief of bony pressure upon the brain. I happen to have a case like that in hospital—a young woman in her thirties. Some months ago, she was in a bad car accident, and suffered a skull injury which was diagnosed at the time as a crack and concussion."

"She seemed to recover in normal fashion, though she was bedfast for some time because she also had a fractured pelvis and other injuries. But she seemed to progress normally, until—oh, it's a matter of months in which her condition has deteriorated. Her reflexes and mental responses have steadily become weaker. Some doctors think there have been cranial hemorrhages; some think it is the result of severe shock and possible tissue injury at the time of the accident. In any case, she has been reduced to the place where she is completely dependent upon others for care."

"In the six weeks that I have had this case, I've decided that her condition may possibly be due to a depressed skull fracture. At least there is some sort of brain pressure. If I am correct, surgery would certainly relieve her, though cure is problematical. There may be excessive brain-tissue injury which would require the delicate neurosurgery which I shall see demonstrated tomorrow."

"Would you do the operation on your patient?" asked Mrs. Clark. "I'd do it or advise the husband to take her to some brain surgeon and have it done."

"You're talking about Mrs. Blake, aren't you, Alan?" Jasper asked.

Alan laughed. "I mentioned no names."

"Don't need to. Couldn't be anyone else. The Captain comes to services. Reverend. Stationed at the Port."

"Oh, yes, indeed! Captain Blake—but, my goodness I didn't know he was married. Let alone—why, that's a most distressing thing, Dr. Thornton!"

Uncle Arthur leaned across the table toward Alan. "You can't mean that you plan to try that operation on Mrs. Blake?"

Alan's dark face plainly showed his impatience that the subject should be continued. "That was my idea." He looked at his watch.

"Why, I've seen her..." cried Aunt Flora. "And Arthur's right, Alan. That woman would be much better off dead!"

Alan said nothing, coldly and definitely.

"I cannot conceal my surprise to learn that the Captain is married," confessed the doctor. "I'm afraid I've been guilty of a little wishful matchmaking—between him and Mrs. Giddens. It's a little game I indulge in I'm afraid. Mrs. Clark says I anticipate the fee." He laughed, and his cheeks pink with innocent mischief.

"I hope you've not said anything!" chided his wife.

"Well, I hope not. Of course, I have been casting about in Mrs. Giddens' account ever since I first came to this Parish. And the Captain seems such a fine chap."

"He is," agreed Alan. "I'd like very much to help him."

"You won't do it by prolonging his wife's life," cried Aunt Flora. "Margaret is in love with Fred Blake—and if you—" She gulped.

His face sternly black Alan looked again at his watch, pushed his chair away from the table. "Don't let me disturb you," he urged the others. "But I said I'd pick Ernst up at two and I must be on my way. Father—you do what Linda tells you while I'm gone. Good-by, Ma'am." He bent over to brush his lips across Seretha's cheek. He said a general good-by and went out into the hall, Linda following him.

The family heard the front door close, car wheels in the drive—and Linda returned. "You may bring dessert, Jacob," she said softly as she resumed her chair.

Aunt Flora evidently had appealed to the doctor for an opinion on Alan's moral obligation in the Blake affair. Mr. Clark was sidestepping the issue.

"I am sure it takes more than surgical skill to be a doctor. One must have the wisdom of Solomon to handle some of the decisions that arise."

"And the patience of Job," said Linda, "to handle his family."

Rupert Ernst had asked to accompany Alan to the clinic, and Alan had been heartened by the assistance should he decide to operate on Fern Blake; he supposed that why Ernst wanted to go.

The two doctors checked in at a hotel near the medical center, registered for the clinic and received their program. On the same evening a buffet supper was scheduled and Ernst was anxious to attend it. "I suppose you know everyone," he said to Alan.

"Hardly, since the clinic takes in a half-dozen states."

"I meant the big men who will be here."

Alan nodded. "Oh! Yes, I trained here, and I use the staff men

Cablier laughed. "Look, Thornton," he said earnestly, "why not abandon your back fence and come work with me? Here."

"Be a lot easier than what you're doing."

"Taking what you want is always easier."

"You won't do it, then?"

New And Costly Forgery Ruse By Two Men

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Police in North Carolina towns and the State Bureau of Investigation are on the lookout today for two men who have come up with a new and costly forgery ruse.

Detectives Capt. A. E. Garner of Burlington said the routine was worked in Burlington and Winston-Salem. He described the new approach this way:

Two unidentified men appeared at the drive-in window of the Security National Bank here. They deposited checks totaling $825.55 to the account of Paul Thompson, a Burlington contractor.

Then they cashed a check for $488.55 made out to Paul Thompson and drawn on the account of Atwater Builders, Inc., at the Bank of Greensboro. Bank officials said that the Atwater signature had been forged.

Garner said a forged check for $465 drawn on Thompson's account at the Security Bank was cashed in Winston-Salem Tuesday.

HOUSING SHORTAGE

TOKYO (AP)—The Construction Ministry reports that 10 years after the end of the war, 142,000 families still live in bombed-out factories and warehouses. It estimates that there is a shortage of 2,700,000 houses in Japan.

Census figures show that between 1910 and 1950 the greatest drop in jobs in the United States has been in unskilled groups, says the Population Reference Bureau.

No Segregation On Church Board

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—The General Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church today ordered an end to administration of its program on a racially segregated basis.

The board voted to discontinue its Department of Negro Work, announcing:

"The time has come when a special department is no longer needed and it is our desire that the entire staff work with the whole church."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads and chems provided the main brace for the stock market today with prices slightly higher in the early afternoon.

The better gains ran to between 1 and 2 points. There were frequent losses, but they seldom went to as much as a point.

Trading wasn't very active at any time. It maintained a pace somewhat less than the 2,330,000 shares traded yesterday in a higher market.

Motors were fairly steady, although they subsided from their best. Both Chrysler and General Motors announced layoffs at some plants as a result of production cutbacks.

'Tax Telethon' Slated Saturday
The Internal Revenue Service in cooperation with television station WNCN, channel 9, will sponsor a "Tax Telethon" from 2 to 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The personnel of this program will consist of a moderator and a panel of four internal revenue agents.

Any taxpayer having a federal income tax problem may present his question by calling the station between 2 and 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

F. K. Sanders, district director of Internal Revenue, said, "This is a part of the Internal Revenue Service Taxpayer assistance and educational program." Sanders also said it would not be necessary for taxpayers to identify themselves when calling in their questions. Sanders will introduce the program beginning at 2 o'clock.

Grounded Navy Tug Is Freed
CAPE HENRY Va. (AP)—Cape Henry's shore was clear of grounded ships today for the first time in a week, after the refloating of the Navy salvage tug Seneca.

The ship, which struck bottom in rough seas Saturday while assisting in efforts to free the grounded escort destroyer Basilio, was freed from her own sand trap at high tide last night. The Basilio was pulled out a day earlier.

The Rev. J. C. Moye Sr. of Snow Hill, above, has set up an endowment fund for the Mount Olive College library. It was announced by the college today.

The Moye Endowment fund will ultimately reach the sum of $12,500. Already $5,000 of the amount has been invested and the remaining $7,500 will either be given by Moye during his lifetime or will come from his estate, president W. Burkette Raper said in making the announcement.

Income from the endowment is to be used for the advancement of the library, which is to be named Moye Memorial Library. "By endowing the library, Moye is making a contribution to the education of every student who ever studies at the college," the president declared.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Caryl Chessman author of best-seller "Cell 2455, Death Row," received a "final notice" yesterday from the Internal Revenue Service asking for $3,433.62 in unpaid 1954 taxes and interest.

The convict, who still is fighting through courts his 1948 sentence for kidnapping, was advised to "avoid the inconvenience and embarrassment and additional costs that result from further delay."

Seven Children In State Custody

SHORT CREEK, Utah (AP)—A frail, tired woman came home to this desert town today, leaving seven of her eight children in state custody and vowing to fight "with every drop of my blood" to get them back.

Only 4-year-old Vaughn met Mrs. Vera Black on her return. He has whooping cough and could not be turned over to state welfare authorities at Provo yesterday. The State Welfare Commission took custody of the other seven children when Mrs. Black refused to swear in writing, no to teach them polygamy and not to practice it herself. Vaughn will be surrendered to the state when he is well.

Welfare officials pleaded with Mrs. Black for two hours yesterday to sign an affidavit which would enable her to keep her children.

Welfare Commissioner H. C. Shoemaker said Mrs. Black is one of three wives of Leonard Black, who was among a number of Short Creek men convicted of unlawful cohabitation by Arizona authorities two years ago. Black lives on the Arizona side of the two-state settlement, but his wife Vera lives on the Utah side.

The Blacks are members of a "fundamentalist" cult which believes polygamy is God's law. The Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church outlawed polygamy in 1890.

Shoemaker arranged the Provo meeting after officers failed to take custody of the children in Short Creek Tuesday. Black and other Short Creek men barred the review of these brushes with the law today, that airliners have brushes with death an average of four times daily.

"Ever more dangerous conditions in the air can be anticipated... unless some urgent action is taken to provide full-time high-level leadership to the problem of bringing our aviation facilities in line with air traffic growth and the process being made in aircraft development," the study group said.

The eight-man committee was headed by William Barclay Harris, New York investment banker who is a private flyer. Its report was made to Rowland Hughes, director of the budget, who appointed the committee last year to advise him on the long-range aviation outlook.

The "urgent action" which the committee recommended is the immediate appointment of a prominent person to head a complete review of all aviation problems involving the airlines daily.

This section was written by Harold R. Harris, a committee member who has been in military and civilian aviation nearly 40 years.

Harris said that in about a quarter of these brushes with the law, aircraft reported passing within 100 feet of one another. He cited this as an example of "critical airspace congestion" on much of the nation's main airways.

"Our present traffic control system is incapable of handling all the traffic that operates in good weather," Harris said. "It has been roughly estimated that the capacity of the traffic control system in the New York area is less than half that required to handle (fair weather) traffic."

The whole committee said it is convinced "that much of our airspace is already overcrowded, and that in many important areas, the development of airports, navigation aids, and especially our air traffic control system, is lagging far behind."

The committee suggested steps to coordinate the three-billion-dollar air defense radar system being developed by the Defense Department with the approximately 400-million-dollar air traffic control system being developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Free Seed Given For Wildlife Use
A limited quantity of seed which, when planted and grown, will mean extra food for wild game, will be available soon at the County Agent's office.

The seed, packaged in 10 pound bags, will be passed out free of charge to farmers as long as the supply lasts, County Agent S. C. Winchester said.

Each bag will contain about two pounds of combine milo, two pounds of millet, two pounds of cow peas, two and a half pounds of soybeans and one and a half pounds of annual lespedeza.

The mixture has been developed by farm game experts to provide a quick means of establishing food patches for wildlife.

The bags will plant two eighth-acre plots. These plots, Winchester said, should be located near good cover and will require one bag of 6-6 or 4-6 fertilizer.

The Virgin Islands were discovered by Columbus in his second voyage, in 1493, and named Las Virgenes, in honor of St. Ursula and her companions.

Advisory Body Says Airline Danger Is Rapidly Growing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The airways are becoming so crowded and are so inadequately regulated, a special government advisory group said today, that airliners have brushes with death an average of four times daily.

"Ever more dangerous conditions in the air can be anticipated... unless some urgent action is taken to provide full-time high-level leadership to the problem of bringing our aviation facilities in line with air traffic growth and the process being made in aircraft development," the study group said.

Fire Alarm, But No Newspaper
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The woman thought a newspaper popped right out for you when you pulled that lever in the box on the utility pole.

But instead of getting a copy of the Charleston Daily Mail the unidentified woman at Dryden and Bullitt Streets got three screaming fire engines yesterday. The newspaper dispensing bag hangs on a utility pole just below the fire alarm box.

CD Officials In City Wednesday
Representatives from the state civil defense office will be in Pitt County at the courthouse Wednesday to meet with farmers and small businessmen who suffered hurricane damage to property.

N. C. Civil Defense Director Gen. Edward F. Griffin announced today that representatives from his office will be at the local courthouse all day Wednesday. Applications will be taken for government surplus property for which the farmers and small businessmen are eligible.

The representatives will have the application blanks for those who wish to purchase surplus property and will render assistance in executing the necessary papers, Griffin said.

An announcement was made last week by Governor Hodges that farmers and small businessmen who suffered actual damage to equipment during the 1954 hurricanes are eligible to purchase the surplus property at ten percent of the cost to the federal government. Price is f. o. b. government storage location.

Civil defense representatives will also be in Carteret County at the Beaufort courthouse Wednesday for a return engagement, and in Greene and Wayne counties on Thursday. They will be in Kinston Friday.

Face Trial For Refusing Send Two To School
TOWSON, Md. (AP)—A Baltimore County couple has been ordered to stand trial for refusing to send their two young daughters to an integrated school.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. Howard were in Juvenile Court yesterday on charges of failing to send their youngsters to school. Their request for a jury trial automatically moved the case to Circuit Court when granted.

The Howard daughters, 8 and 9 years old, registered last Sept. 8 at the Cockeysville Elementary School near their home. The school was opened to Negro pupils for the first time at the start of the fall semester and the Howards have not attended classes since the first day.

Breaking Up
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The great Atlantic storm that has pumped arctic air into the tropics for six consecutive days is slowly breaking up, but weather forecasters can't see the end of one of the longest sustained cold spells in south Florida history.

In its five-day forecast released this morning, the Miami Weather Bureau said a slow warming trend will begin Sunday but temperatures will continue to be "much below normal" through next Wednesday.

Lowest reading at the midtown Miami bureau during the night was 42. It was several degrees colder in the farming areas away from the coast.
