$66 BILLION BUDGET IS OFFERED

The Budget Dollar

Increased Federal Spending; No Tax Cuts Included

Higher Spending Said 'In Balance'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower sent to Congress today a budget for this year and next while urging higher federal spending he said would total almost 66 billion dollars in the coming fiscal year.

He said the government could stay in the black in the next 18 months by "giving" margins only if Congress gives him "the utmost cooperation" in holding down spending and awaiting a prudent time for tax cuts.

As long as booming prosperity continues, Eisenhower said, Congress should put at least some reduction of the national debt ahead of tax slashing.

His new spending blueprint allowed for some debt reduction but not for tax cuts. He reiterated that Congress should not keep corporate income taxes at their present levels, rather than allow them to drop as scheduled on April 1 to the levels in effect before the Korean War.

For fiscal 1957, which begins next July 1, Eisenhower proposed that Uncle Sam spend $66,865,000,000. He estimated that federal income in that 12-month period would be $66,300,000,000. If both predictions are achieved, the government will wind up the fiscal year with a surplus of 435 million.

In other main facets of his budget message Eisenhower:

1. Estimated that spending this year will total $64,770,000,000, and that outlays in the next bookkeeping year will top that by $1,595,000,000. It was the first time Eisenhower had pointed spending upward.
2. Predicted that revenues next year will be $1,800,000,000 higher than this year's resulting in a federal surplus this year of 230 million.
3. Proposed to cut the federal debt by 74 million by June 30 to $74,300,000,000 and by the following June 30 to $73,800,000,000.
4. Called for new appropriations of $66,291,000,000 — some 426 million higher than projected spending and 4 1/2 billion higher than appropriations in the current year. This indicated that federal spending may be trending upward for several years.

While he cautioned against any quick tax cut, Eisenhower's budget seemed to leave a loophole which might justify one under his guidelines.

The budget appeared to have underestimated revenues for the second successive year. A year ago

Eisenhower forecast revenues of 60 billion dollars for this year — some 4 1/2 billions less than his new revised estimate.

His estimate for the coming fiscal year forecast an increase of about 1 1/2 billion dollars in individual tax returns. But his estimate for corporation tax returns was unchanged.

Corporation profits have been climbing rapidly. This appeared to leave considerable room for improvement of revenue estimates.

Eisenhower earmarked 803 million dollars, or almost two-thirds of the increased spending he proposed, for national security programs.

He said most of this increase would be used for the latest weapons including guided missiles, which could be brought to bear on an enemy.

He laid new stress on continental defense through a radar fence to catch any attack on the wing, provided for a nuclear-powered Navy cruiser and a sixth giant Forrestal class aircraft carrier.

He spotlighted the administration's soil bank plan for cutting down surplus agricultural production, getting rid of present surplus crops owned by the government and abetting conservation as a major home front program.

He said the soil bank plan would cost 400 million dollars the first year. But he forecast a drop of 12 million dollars in overall agricultural spending, due to a decline of 485 million dollars in crop price support costs. In part, this was attributable to a forecast that the government would realize much more from disposal of its surpluses.

Eisenhower proposed to spend 150 million dollars next year to help the states build new schools. He called for a quick start on his 10-year program to build 40,000 miles of highways, but assigned only a $4-million-dollar increase to indicate he contemplated that the cost of any expanded roads program would be met by higher taxes.

He asked for 58 million dollars to expand the State Department's diplomatic and consular services, and increase U. S. Information Service work abroad.

New foreign aid appropriations amounting to $4,860,000,000 were asked in order to refill the pipeline of foreign aid funds which to contract for items to be delivered in months or years hence.

The budget proposed an 86-million-dollar increase in spending on veterans services, to a total of $4,879,000,000. Any major revisions of veterans services or benefits should await the report of a special Eisenhower said.

He asked Congress to increase postal charges by enough to bring in 350 million dollars additional money in fiscal 1957, but he did not specify what increases he had in mind. His budget counted this 350 million dollars as a decline in government costs. If Congress should not increase postal fees as requested, most of the projected 435-million-dollar surplus for the year would vanish.

He proposed to increase spending on atomic energy development — including peaceful applications — by 230 million dollars, to a record of nearly two billion. He renewed his plea to Congress to authorize a nuclear powered vessel to tour

Star Witness Pleads Guilty To Brinks Holdup Charges

BOSTON (AP) — Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe, 47, pleaded guilty today to armed robbery in the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup largest cash haul in the nation's history.

O'Keefe was held without bail and sentence was deferred.

O'Keefe is expected to be the state's star witness in the trials of nine others of 11 indicted in the same robbery. One of the 11 named died a year ago.

The arraignment took only three minutes in Superior Court where Judge Daniel D. O'Brien presided.

Wearing the same tan gabardine suit and pastel sport shirt that he had on last week when he went before the grand jury which indicted the gang, O'Keefe looked nervous as he was led into the courtroom by Police Capt. Francis E. Wilson and Sgt. John Howland.

Wilson sat beside him and Howland in front of O'Keefe during the arraignment.

Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne opened the arraignment by announcing:

"Your honor, the commonwealth moves for the arraignment of one Joseph J. O'Keefe under an indictment of robbery while armed in three counts."

O'Keefe rose, staring straight ahead as Clerk John Casey asked him:

"What do you say then to these complaints? How do you plead?"

"Guilty," said O'Keefe.

The clerk informed O'Keefe that he could have a mental examination.

"I waive it," O'Keefe said in the same monotone.

Byrne asked that O'Keefe be held without bail and that sentence be deferred to a later date and Judge O'Brien agreed to both requests.

Byrne said he may move to bring the other six now in custody here for arraignment probably tomorrow.

Stanley Gusciora, 36 a seventh defendant, is serving a term in a penitentiary at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Two others, Thomas F. Richardson, 48, and James I. Faherty 44 are still at large.

The 11th man indicted — Joseph Banfield — died a year ago.

The six in jail were picked up by the FBI last Thursday.

Bill Is Ready For Virginia Assembly

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — State Sen. Garland Gray of Waverly planned today to introduce a bill in the Virginia General Assembly providing the next step in a move to permit use of public funds for private education.

Gray's bill would clear the way for the election of delegates to, and set the date for, a constitutional convention to amend Section 141. This is the section which, as presently written, prohibits the issuance of state tuition grants for private schooling.

Groundwork for such a constitutional change was laid last Monday when state voters by a margin of better than two to one, approved the plan in a public referendum.

Gray's decision on whether to introduce his bill today hinged on whether the official canvass of last Monday's results would be completed in time.

Informed observers expected that Gray's bill would contain these features:

1. Provide for 40 delegates to be elected by districts in the same apportionment as the 40 state senators.
2. Set a date probably Feb. 29 or March 1 — for the convention to meet in Richmond.
3. Empower the governor to set the date for electing delegates.

All sources expect the bill to be passed and signed by Gov. Stanley J. C. Lee — certainly not later than Saturday. This would enable Stanley to give 30 days notice of delegating elections to be held Feb. 21.

The question of interposition also is expected to get more than passing attention in the legislature this week. This is a little used method whereby the commonwealth could challenge the Supreme Court's decision on school segregation, contending the high court had overstepped its powers as set forth in the Constitution.

One interposition bill introduced last week by Delegate John B. Boatwright of Buckingham, already is before the House.

Later this week Sen. Harry C. Stuart of Russell County plans to introduce an interposition resolution in the upper house.

On Saturday, Delegate Robert Whitehead of Nelson County said he hoped the governor would administer "the proper rebuff" to a delegation which called on Virginia's Supreme Court's authority in the school segregation decision.

Whitehead who has called the doctrine of interposition "nothing more than a phantasy" referred to a group of 18 men representing 14 states who paid a visit to Stanley Friday. This group urged the Stanley and Virginia to lead the way to the restoration of constitutional government and the sovereign rights of the states.

The Nelson County delegate said the group was asking Stanley to take a step "that will make a laughing stock of the governor, the attorney general, Virginia and the entire membership of the Gray Commission and its counsel."

Criticism Could Bring Secretary Into Campaign Dulles May Be Forced In WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign policy appeared today to be assuming such proportions as a political issue that Secretary of State Dulles may be induced to take to the campaign stump.

He has said he has no present intentions of making presidential campaign speeches, but he may change his mind in the light of a furor over his latest defense of the administration's handling of foreign affairs.

A Life magazine article last week quoted him as having said the nation has looked war in the face in Asia three times and avoided it.

Dulles was roundly criticized by a number of Democrats and by some British newspapers for a quoted statement that "the ability to get to the verge without getting into war is the necessary art."

Vice President Nixon, Adlai E. Stevenson and Harold E. Stassen joined over the weekend in the debate swirling around Dulles' words.

Stevenson, again seeking the Democratic presidential nomination which he won in 1952, accused Dulles of being "willing to play Russian roulette with the life of our nation."

"Deliberate distortion," replied Stassen, Eisenhower's special assistant on disarmament problems. "Accusing Stevenson of having a partisan political end."

Stassen said in a statement that "the Eisenhower Dulles foreign policy cannot fairly be labeled by any thoughtful and responsible American as recklessly playing Russian roulette, and to so label it is harmful to the United States."

Nixon termed criticism of Dulles' remarks a "tempest in a teapot," and told reporters that avoidance of war in crises cited by Dulles

"is to the eternal credit of the President and the secretary of state."

The magazine article said Dulles maintains that by making known to the Communists a U. S. readiness to fight, the administration averted renewed conflict in Korea and involvement in war in Indochina and the Formosa area.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), in an NBC radio-television debate with Sen. Bridges (R-NH), said "We don't want to have a foreign policy that is always going to let us be on the brink of war—some of these days they might fail to get us back."

Bridges replied that if "by the delicate handling of our policy we avoided a great crisis and a war, we should be commended for it rather than be condemned." Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said on another NBC by program it is Dulles' job to keep the country out of war and "that he has done."

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said Dulles wasn't advocating risking war as a policy but merely was recounting that the miscalculations of other nations had brought the United States close to combat.

Round-The-Clock Duty For N. C. Civil Defense

RALEIGH (AP) — Round-the-clock sky scanning for possible enemy aircraft is scheduled to start in North Carolina February first, State Civil Defense Director, General Edward P. Griffin disclosed Sunday.

Griffin disclosed Sunday that the state will have 100 observation posts, and Civil Defense officials throughout the state have been alerted.

North Carolina and other southeastern states will join 27 other states which have been on SKYWATCH duty since July, 1952.

The extended surveillance, anticipated for some time, Griffin said, has been contingent upon information from the Air Force that firm Air Defense Identification Zones (ADIZ) were established. These zones are the air defense perimeters of the nation. In and around them, air defense measures are heavily accentuated to prevent penetration of the United States, by enemy aircraft.

With the information from 35th Air Division that the new ADIZs are now established, the 13th Air Command, Brigadier-General John B. Cary requests that North Carolina GOC start continuous operation, General Griffin stated.

Affecting North Carolina and other southeastern states, Atlantic ADIZ extends from Maine to Florida, inclusive. Within Air Defense Identification Zones, unless the pilot of an aircraft is at the right place at the right time, he is automatically designated as unknown by Continental Air Defense Command system — causing a scramble of jet fighter interceptors to effect positive identification.

Detection of enemy aircraft is a critical phase of successful air defense. Without it, scramble of jet fighters to meet the enemy is impossible and Civil Defense warning cannot be given to our cities to evacuate. For detection and subsequent identification, radar and civilian volunteers in the Ground Observer Corps are essential to aid in the effort to provide the best possible detection. The Ground Observer Corps of North Carolina will work with the United States Air Force in the Air Defense Filter centers located in Charlotte and Durham and in the 487 Observation Posts. Slightly less than 10,000 Civil Defense volunteers have been trained and are members of the Ground Observer Corps.

Apartment Fire Claims 6 Lives In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Flames roared through an old three-story apartment building near City Hall yesterday, taking the lives of four children and two adults.

Firemen used aerial ladders to reach smoke-filled corridors and rescue 22 of the 53 tenants in the structure. Several tenants leaped from windows into rescue nets.

A crowd of 500 people gathered from a second story window right into the arms of a section.

The dead were David Root, 12; Elsie Root, 14; Kay Root, 10; all children of Mrs. Helmer Roscoe, 39; Gerald Osowicz, 12; Martin Jozaczewski, 75; and Mrs. Dorothy Kinney, 26.

Thirteen persons were hospitalized, some in serious condition.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Fire Department official estimated total estate damage at $75,000.

Deadline Today For Filing Of Scales' Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for convicted Communist James Scales must file an appeal for him today, if they are going to.

Today is the deadline set for Scales' lawyers to perfect their appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court. The court last week decided 7-2 as the deadline, but the time was extended.

Scales, who the FBI said was the Communist Party leader in the Carolinas and Tennessee, was convicted and sentenced to six years, including his trial at Greenville, N. C. last April.

He was convicted of violating provisions of the Smith Act which outlaw membership in any organization advocating violent overthrow of the government. Scales' attorneys petitioned for a rehearing of the case but was denied by the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Scales, 42, a native of Greensboro and a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

Home Heavily Damaged By Blaze At Midnight

Fire of undetermined origin badly damaged a home at 808 Pamlico Ave. around midnight last night. The blaze roared through upper portions of the two-story home which is owned and occupied by Odessa Moore, Negro.

Only a small amount of furniture was saved from the burning dwelling.

Flames were leaping from the roof of the house when firemen arrived. High pressure trucks from the main station and the West End substation were quickly thrown into action and the fire fighters battled the blaze with four booster lines from the two trucks.

A heavy hose line was laid to the trucks from a hydrant about a block away.

Firemen ripped weatherboarding from the upper portions of the house to reach the stubborn blaze.

The flames completely gutted the two second story rooms and in portions of the house burned through the ceiling of downstairs rooms, considerably damaging furniture.

Furniture in other rooms also received water and smoke damage.

Fire department records showed that the call to the blaze came in at 12:15 this morning. The blaze was out at 1:15.

Straw Vote For Farmers Of County On Acreage Proposals

The Daily Reflector today begins taking a straw vote among farmers of Wayne County in an effort to determine whether tobacco growers of the county favor the 12 per cent reduction in acreage allotment already authorized, or prefer the proposed 20 per cent allotment cut which has been presented to Congress.

In a survey which appears as a ballot, the farmers of the county will be cutting their preferences for the 12 per cent acreage reduction or the proposed 20 per cent allotment. Votes may be mailed to the Daily Reflector, box 490, Greenville, N. C., or taken at the newspaper office, 100 State Street, Greenville.

Developments of the vote will be reported in the Reflector as they are received and compiled, and the final results of the straw vote in the county will be reported in Saturday's edition of the Reflector.

In addition to the opinion ballot which appears in the Reflector, ballot may be secured by farmers at the newspaper office.

In announcing the straw vote today, Dave Whitehead, managing editor of the Reflector said, "Through this straw vote taken among farmers this week, we hope to get an accurate cross section of the feeling of tobacco growers of Pitt County toward the cut in tobacco acreage allotments for 1956. We urge all the tobacco growers of the county to participate in this straw vote in order that the results of the vote will reflect the feeling of local tobacco growers as accurately as possible."

Votes which are used in the final tally must be received by the newspaper not later than 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

In addition to the Daily Reflector, other newspapers in eastern North Carolina are conducting a simultaneous straw vote in other counties in an attempt to ascertain the feeling of tobacco growers toward the acreage allotment cut for 1956.

The Goldsboro News Argus is taking a straw vote among the farmers of Wayne and Duplin Counties; The Rocky Mount Evening Telegram in Wayne and Edgecombe Counties; the North and Edgecombe Press in Lenoir County; and the Wilson Daily Times in Wilson County.

A combined total of the straw vote in the seven county area will be announced Monday afternoon by each of the newspapers.

The following ballot may be clipped and mailed to The Daily Reflector, box 406, Greenville:

Mark an (x) in the designated space to indicate your preference for the 12 per cent cut in tobacco acreage already authorized, or the proposed 20 per cent cut now pending before Congress for the 1956 tobacco crop.

Council Of Church Women Plan For World Day Of Prayer

The Greenville Council of Church Women met in the First Presbyterian Church on Thursday morning for its annual business meeting. Miss Venetia Cox, president, presided. The subject of the devotional given by Mrs. Bill Sermons was "Steward of Your Time."

After the handling of routine business matters, Mrs. Dink James, a former president of the Council, gave a summary of the aims and purposes of United Church Women. One of the permanent projects of the Greenville Council is the collection of used clothing for shipment overseas. A collection center is maintained at the Jarvis Methodist Church and clothing is accepted at any time. Used nylon stockings are collected by Mrs. E. E. Rawl Sr. These are sent to Japan where they are remade into salable items by over five thousand war widows who do this as their only means of support for themselves and their children. Mrs. Cox stressed the value of extending courtesies to foreign students. At present there is one student from Spain and one from Cuba enrolled at East Carolina College.

Mrs. Sermons, program chairman, announced that Dr. Ray Silverthorne will be the speaker at the World Day of Prayer on February 17. This event is sponsored annually by the United Church Women. It will be in the Jarvis Memorial Church at 11 o'clock and the local merchants will close their businesses during the hour from 11:00 to 12:00.

Grass Roots Opera Here On January 23

Figaro, the Barber, tries to occupy the attention of Dr. Bartolo in order that Rosina and the Count may have a few precious moments together. Don Basilio, center, is soored by the turn of events. Photo by Burnie Batchelor.

Grass Roots Opera, the North Carolina institution that has developed an international reputation, will perform in Greenville in the opera, "The Barber of Seville." This popular troupe was last heard here in "Don Pasquale" last year. Dr. Stanley Walter of the sponsoring organization, the Greenville Music Club, announced the company will appear at McGinnis Auditorium, East Carolina College, on Monday, January 23.

The performance for school children will begin at 2:45 p.m. The regular performance for adults will start at 8 o'clock. So great has grown the reputation of Grass Roots Opera among singers, that over 90 inquiries were received relative to this season's roster, from 21 states, Washington, Arizona, Connecticut and Florida included. One application came in from Italy. It is the only opera company in which singers may sing up to 75 performances in a single season. The company has given over 400 performances of opera, in English, in North Carolina alone.

This past season the company sent out a professional troupe to tour the Southeastern United States under the name of The National Grass Roots Opera Company, which was made up entirely of singers who had received their training in North Carolina. The response was so enthusiastic that a tour twice as long is planned for next spring.

Designers Prove To Be Good Will Ambassadors

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor
Nowadays it seems that some of Uncle Sam's best ambassadors are designers. Nations may disagree on politics, tariffs and disarmament, but the language of fashion and design is universal. So is the problem of making a living and learning a business. Underlying this fact is the current trip of industrial designer Russell Wright, fashion designer Rosette Walker and handicrafts expert Remy Alexander to Southeast Asia under sponsorship of the U.S. State Department. These three American experts are visiting Formosa, Viet Nam, Cambodia, Thailand, Hong Kong and Indonesia to stimulate trade in Oriental handicrafts, to tell the Asian people what kind of things will sell in this country, to suggest ideas and methods to them and try and help to make millions of these people self-supporting. Interviewed in his New York studio shortly before departure of the group, Wright, who is known for his modern designs in furniture and tableware, said: "One of the things hardest to find in America and most valued when it is found is fine handicraft."

Urges Expansion In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan urged Democratic congressional leaders today to expand, rather than curtail, the foreign economic aid program recommended by President Eisenhower. In a telegram to Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.) Williams said he felt compelled to express his "profound disagreement" with Democrats in Congress who have advocated curtailing or ending economic aid. He said he feared such views might be interpreted as "representative of our Democratic party throughout the nation." McNamara, making the telegram public here, said in a statement he agreed with Williams. Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he had no comment. George has advocated cutting economic aid and has taken the lead in opposing Eisenhower's request for authority to enter into a long-range program of helping other nations to strengthen their economies, with commitments of up to 10 years. Sen. Knowland of California the Senate Republican leader said during the weekend he also is opposed to any long-range foreign aid commitment. There were indications the administration already is considering abandonment of the plan in the face of the bipartisan opposition. A decision appeared likely today, and probably will be disclosed when Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. appears at an Capitol tomorrow to testify on foreign aid. A possible solution came in the suggestion of Rep. Richards (D-SC), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, that the bill might contain a statement of principle that the United States expects to "continue this fight against world communism until we win."

Janitor Wins Writing Prize

SUPERIOR Wis. (AP)—Dana Kneeland Aker is a self-educated poet who works as a janitor at Wisconsin State College. At 64, he is looking forward to less washing blackboards and more poetry and short story writing. The Wisconsin Regional Writers Assn. awarded him second place for a short story in a contest which attracted 563 entries. His Ballad of Jean LaFrie is included in a new book on "Wisconsin Folklore" by Professor Robert E. Gard of the University of Wisconsin.

Special Jargon For Enthusiasts

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Members of the Baltimore Local of the Motor Sports Car Assn., like other small car enthusiasts, speak a special jargon that is difficult for the average citizen to understand. A hood is a bonnet a get-together is a rallye and words like tachometer and overhead can split the air. For the uninitiated, however, some of the Baltimore speakers have offered a few handy translations: Here are a few: R.P.M.—Number of repairs per month necessary. M.P.H.—Monthly payments will be heavy. B.H.P.—Basis for the high price of sportscars. P.O.B.—Prices given in French or British currency.

Fred Coley Edwards Succumbs To Illness

Mr. Fred Coley Edwards, 81, died in Duke Hospital in Durham at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning. He had been ill for the past three months. Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Mr. Edwards, son of Mrs. Rena Edwards of near Ayden and the late William Henry Edwards, was born in Craven County. He had spent most of his life in Pitt and Lenoir Counties. He was a farmer and a member of Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Blanche Harris Edwards; a son, Marvin W. Edwards of the home; four daughters, Mrs. Leroy Mitchell of Grifton, Mrs. James Stroud of LaGrange, Mrs. Milford B. Aycock of Kinston, and Mrs. Michael R. Smart of Detroit, Mich.; six grandchildren; his mother; a brother, William H. Edwards of near Ayden; and three sisters, Mrs. Lloyd E. Manning and Mrs. Roy E. Manning of Greenville; and Mrs. Zack Dennis of Grifton. Manchester has the longest platform in the British railway system — 2,194 feet.

Bing Back At MGM After Long Absence

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD (AP)—They were strange surroundings to find Bing Crosby in—the sets and stages of MGM. For more than 20 years he has been as much a part of Paramount as the mountain-peak trade mark. But now he has trundled over to the Culver City lot to make "High Society" with the future princess, Grace Kelly, another baritone, Frank Sinatra, plus Celeste Holm, Walter Pidgeon, Louis Calhern and other high socialites. Actually, it is not a bona fide MGM picture. It is being made with the studio's facilities and for its release by Producer Sol Siegel—the first of such independent films at MGM that are part of the lot's "new look." Bing paused between rehearsals for a song number to comment that this was not his first engagement at the studio. The last was a dilly called "Going Hollywood," which he made when he first be-

Martin County Sheriff Injured In Making Arrest

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (AP)—Martin County Sheriff W. A. Rawls has 15 stitches in his scalp, a broken finger and some cracked ribs to remind him today of a tussle with five assailants. The lawman said he also was narrowly missed by a shot from his own revolver when he attempted to arrest Askew Council, an Oak City Negro, for drunkenness yesterday. Rawls said he saw Council "drunk and cutting up" when he was leaving Oak City with a prisoner being transferred to the jail here. He said he put Council in the car but the Negro jumped out and ran into his house. Rawls caught up with him and was backing out the front door, dragging Council with him, when he was slugged from behind with a rake handle and a piece of pipe, he said. The sheriff said two men and two women plied onto him and during the struggle his gun was taken by Council. Rawls said he went for Council and the revolver discharged just as the sheriff turned the muzzle away from him. Dazed from the pounding, Rawls ordered the prisoner in his car to go for help. The wall of the siren scattered his assailants, Rawls said, as the prisoner returned with other officers. His five assailants were jailed here. Council was charged with public drunkenness, resisting arrest and assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Youth Charged In Collision At City Intersection

An 18-year-old Pitt County youth was cited for no operator's license and crashing a red light last night after his car and a second vehicle collided at the intersection of 14th and Evans Streets. Frank Wilson Everett, 18, of Route 2, was cited after his car struck one driven by Johnnie Ree Small, 20, Negro, also of Route 2. Investigating police estimated total damage at $415. Meanwhile, early Saturday, George W. Godley, 37, of Route 2 was charged with drunk driving after his car collided with two parked vehicles on Ninth Street. Damage to Godley's car and vehicles owned by Burwell H. Dixon, 29, of Route 3, and Martha Oakley Danford, 26, was estimated at $225.

Jailed Following Sunday Brawl

A young Greenville man was lodged in County Jail here yesterday on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct stemming from an early morning fight near Wallace's Store. Russell Whitfield, handcuffed and with several stitches in his head, was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Jack Russell and Jasper Lee Mills. Whitfield apparently became involved in the fracas early yesterday morning. He was picked up by a Martin County Highway Patrolman and taken to a Williamston hospital where his injuries were treated. Later, Whitfield was returned to Greenville by Mills and Russell, examined again at Pitt Memorial Hospital and then jailed. Trial for Whitfield is scheduled for tomorrow in County Court here. Sheriff's department deputies still are seeking others who may have participated in the brawl.

New Furniture Has Functional Note

A STORY IN WOOD... This charming contemporary dining room is of South American berranco, a hard-wood resembling teak. Half-moon drawer pulls are brushed stainless steel, an interesting contrast to natural finish of the medium red-brown wood. Table seats eight comfortably to accommodate larger families. Chairs have foam rubber seats, cane backs. The breakfast includes sliding glass doors above. Designed by Merton Gershum. Shown at Chicago Home Furnishings Show.

AP Newsfeatures NEW WOODS, FINISHES AND colors make contemporary furnishings shown at the Chicago Home Furnishings Show warm, comfortable and cheerful of behold. There is a trend to unusual grains in wood such as berranco, a South American hardwood that resembles teak. It is a medium red-brown, a popular new tone in dining room and living room furniture. Woodland brown birch is another. Ebony, beech, walnut and teak are combined by one designer. Hardware on bureaus and buffets has splurged on every available metal it seems. Stainless steel drawer pulls are now added to the brass, copper, silver and pewter shown last year. Porcelain, glass, and wood also are used. Newer modern furniture is very graceful, offering all the comfort of the old traditional furniture plus an uncluttered pleasing effect to the eye. Foam rubber cushions are on dining room chairs in many lines. Among the new furniture pieces shown are: a reading or eating night table that adjusts to fit over the bed for lovers of late snacks, high revolving chair stools for the breakfast snack bar, an 80-inch rosewood buffet with built-in bread board, a coffee table that can become 96 inches long to hold various cabinet arrangements. Furniture reproductions of period styles include Italian Provincial, the most popular, with French Provincial, Early American and Directoire close on its heels.

Some Credence To Old Legend

BUXTON, N.C. (AP)—Ray Scarborough found the swordfish in a piece of eight-inch piling and thereby lent some credence to an ancient legend. The legend has it that wooden ships sailing into the harbour used to be attacked by swordfish. Sailors would exhibit holes and sometimes bits of the sword to prove their story. The part of the fish left in the piling, Scarborough found is about eight inches long.

No Quest For Good Running-Mates

Immediately following President Eisenhower's September heart attack there was a wave of public opinion in favor of the major political parties paying more attention to the ability of men selected for vice presidential and lieutenant governor posts throughout the nation.

For several weeks newspapers, telecasts and other media of information were full of various reports concerning the matter. Since that time, however, eyes seemed to have focused again on the matter of selecting a man to head the respective party tickets and little has been said in the interim concerning the selection of a second-place man. National party leaders were conspicuous by their silence during the time in which the discussion of the calibre of men which should be considered for the second highest post in national and state government.

Perhaps these national party leaders are relieved that the wave of public sentiment has subsided as quickly as it appeared. Without too much adverse criticism party leaders can now continue their old methods of hand-picking vice presidential candidates on the basis of geography, political expediency and what-have-you rather than selecting for the important job a man who could step into the chief executive position with ability in the event of the death of the head of the government.

But the points which were made when the discussion was at its peak a few months ago should not be so quickly forgotten by the American public. It is indeed time that political parties give thought to the qualifications and abilities of the men selected for the second position on a ticket. It is time that men of the first echelon of ability be placed in the vice presidential slot rather than leaving the position for second rate politicians.

North Carolina was indeed fortunate in having a man with ability as its Lieutenant governor when Gov. Umstead died. How would the nation have fared with Nixon in the White House had the President's heart attack been fatal? Or had the Democrats been in control of the administration, how would the nation have fared with Sparkman in the White House should Adlai Stevenson suddenly been called to his reward?

As the political machinery begins to move into high gear in preparation for a major election year, there still seems to be an utter disregard for the importance of the second place on the party tickets. In neither Democratic nor Republican circles has there been much quest for a strong man for vice president. Unless the American public demands a change of policy, 1956 will not see a major figure receive the vice presidential nomination by either political party.

Certainly the people of the country should impress upon the party leaders the importance of the second highest office of the land and the need for the office to be filled by a man capable of taking over the chief executive post.

Nine Weeks Left To Enter Primary

By LYNN NISBET
TIME — There remains nine weeks for prospective candidates for state and district offices to make up their minds about whether or not they will enter the primary to seek the nominations. After that they will have ten weeks in which they may hope to make up the minds of the voters to support them.

Aspirants to membership in the General Assembly and for the various county and township offices have thirteen weeks to make up their minds and six more to vote in the primary. Legislative and county candidates are confronted with a double-thirteen, because the deadline for their filing notice of candidacy falls on Friday, April 13.

State and district candidates must file before noon on Friday, March 16. The five-day work-week involving closing of nearly all State and many county offices on Saturday led the 1955 General Assembly to advance the deadline one day. For some years the time has been the tenth Saturday before the primary for the big offices, the sixth Saturday for county and legislative filing in the late Legislature changed that to noon of Friday preceding the tenth (or sixth) Saturday before the primary.

Date of the primary was not changed. It remains the last Saturday in May, this year the 26th. If a run-off or second primary is required it will be four weeks later or on June 23. Date of the primary was moved up a few years ago from the first Saturday in June because the run-off sometimes ran afoul of the Fourth of July holiday.

In some states the nominating primaries are held in April. Other states hold them in August. An interesting observation is that in North Carolina, where the main contest is in the primary, the fixed dates allow ten weeks for statewide campaigning and 22 weeks for general election campaigning—which is of no consequence on state level.

CANDIDATES — Actually no person is a candidate in the full legal sense until he or she has signed the required statement and paid the statutory filing fee to the board of elections. There are three other classes of candidates which are usually designated as "potential," "prospective," and "announced." Almost every citizen can be listed as a potential, those who manifest keen interest are counted as prospective, and when they issued statements of their purpose to run they move into the announced class. It still takes the payment of the fee to constitute them legal candidates.

On that basis there is presently one candidate for the United States Senate, Senator Sam Ervin has paid his money. There is one candidate for Judge, J.P. Huskins in the 24th district. There is one candidate for any other general office in the full legal sense.

Alonso Edwards has announced his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor, and there are half a dozen legislative candidates for that office and even a larger number of potentials. It is commonly conceded that is the widest open race in North Carolina.

Several one-time prospects have announced purpose to run for Governor and there is no formal candidate. However, it is about as certain as death and taxes that Luther Hodges will pay the filing fee in proper time and his manifest strength has practically eliminated other prospects, although the potential element remains.

It is assumed that all incumbent members of the Council of State will seek re-election. There is no announced opposition to any of them, although there is prospect of contests for two or three of their positions.

The same thing goes for the Superior Court judges, and for some of the representatives in Congress.

JUDGES — Last summer when Governor Hodges announced appointment of a whole flock of judges it looked like several of them might face opposition in the primary. Disappointed applicants indicated purpose to challenge the Governor's selections. That sentiment has pretty well evaporated. The appointed judges are doing a good job as shown by the court records, and the once disgruntled lawyers have accepted that efficiency record as proof the incumbent judges are doing a good job.

BURDEN — With respect to all offices the burden of proof to show there should be a change rests upon the challengers. Incumbents, whether in the legislative, executive or judicial branches, have distinct advantages. They don't have to announce or campaign early. They can afford to wait. When incumbents intend to get out of the race there is reason to expect an announcement to that effect in time for other candidates to get in. When incumbents expect to continue in office, as seems the case in almost every state and district office to be filed this year, that is necessary is payment of the filing fee before the books close by statutory limitation.

The only announcement necessary is signature on a statement and a check to be filed with the State Board of Elections before noon of Friday, March 16.

Opinions In Brief

BELLINGHAM, WASH., HERALD: "Crawford Greenwalt, president of the duPont company, took a check for $500,000 from Uncle Sam last year. He expressed the fear—citing this example—that high taxes will make it increasingly difficult for young men to enter industry, with a resulting loss in industrial efficiency and consequently a decline in the nation's economy. There are, of course, relatively few men who turn 91 per cent of their take over to the federal treasury alone. They cast few votes. But the economic issue involved cannot be dismissed lightly."

HOLLYWOOD FLA. HERALD: "If union membership is made a condition of employment it is terrifying to think of the power the union would wield over the worker himself. If he refused to vote or act in a manner prescribed by the union, it would be a simple matter to lift his union card and thus make it impossible for the offending member to obtain work anywhere."

PRESTON, IDAHO, CITIZEN: "Unless businessmen who can't be bothered with politics start smartening up and speaking up and fighting for our economic system, the rising curve will meet the reward curve coming down—and there goes free enterprise! We shall then have the welfare state, for which we shall all be working."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
USE A BROOM

At a church meeting a member announced and declared that he had a dream in which he and his fellow Christians had assembled in the meeting house to attend to the business of the church. The subject under discussion was the filthy conditions of the meeting house. How could it be cleaned and who would be responsible for its cleansing? Many wise and intricate plans were advanced until at last a quiet, insignificant-looking fellow arose and suggested that all those who occupied seats in the meeting house would take a broom and sweep immediately around the seat which and his family occupied, the meeting house would soon be cleaned.

When Nehemiah started to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, he laid upon each worker the duty of building that part of the wall which was nearest his own house; and so in 52 days the impossible was accomplished.

If our Christian grace and generosity does not extend to the ends of the earth, then it is not only unworldly character and sentimentality. But the ends of the earth should be the terminus of our activity. The starting place of these activities should be right where we happen to be.

In the church let us sweep around our own pews. In the home, let us reorder the impulses of our wayward hearts. Let Christ and his influence go out from community to nation, and finally to the ends of the earth.

Business Today . . .

How They'll Earn Prosperity

By ELMER ROESSNER
Slightly less than ghostly are problems ahead for the department stores and specialty shops of America. Yet with full realization of these difficulties, merchants were generally optimistic at this week's convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York.

DISCOUNT HOUSES, while 28 per cent of the retailers replying to an association questionnaire said they were meeting the prices of other department stores, only 45 per cent said they were meeting discount house prices. But 74 per cent said discounts were no important factors in their communities.

SALES STAFFS. The need of better sales personnel was frequently mentioned as a prime requisite for maintaining sales volume this year. Thirty-nine per cent of the stores said they plan to increase starting salaries for men and 42 per cent will increase starting salaries for women.

PARKING Lack of parking space, retailers said, is cutting the sales potential of many stores. Of those without parking facilities, 28 per cent said they plan to provide them this year, and of those with facilities, 37 per cent said they are expanding accommodations. In addition, 14 per cent said they were planning to establish branches.

NEVERTHELESS, PROSPERITY RISING EXPENSES. Costs of non-selling departments, transportation, receiving, marking, stock-keeping, maintenance, customer service and occupancy have been increasing.

Despite those worries, 78 per cent of those questioned said they expect to increase sales this year and 86 per cent said they expect to make more money.

Twenty-two per cent expect sales will equal 1955 marks and only 2 per cent foresee a drop. Thirty-eight per cent expect profits to be level with last year and only 4 per cent expect a decline.

Of those expecting sales gains, the majority look for rises of 5 per cent, although some are confident they can go up 20 per cent.

HOW THE L.I. DO IT

Among the way merchants expect to increase sales, they said, are the use of more new and promotable items, adding new departments, increasing self-selection, developing more mail and phone orders, adding branches, selling in the home accepting more trade-ins, using more promotion, especially in newspapers, and placing more emphasis on credit. However, 31 per cent of the stores reported they fear consumer debt has been overextended.

Large gains in sales are expected in sportswear, with 22 per cent of those questioned seeing a rise in that department. Other departments expected to gain include ready-to-wear, men's wear, children's wear, furniture, accessories, piece goods, boys' wear and housewares.

TOOTHPASTE NOW MANY-SPLENDORED THING Remember carborundum, dibasic ammonium phosphate, chlorophyll and all the other things used to sensationally various dentifrices? Well, the toothpaste industry has a new ingredient: fluorides. Four of the leading companies have tested fluoride toothpastes in a number of markets and are about to unleash a promotional bombardment of everybody who has teeth.

Students Might Well Consider

By ROGER BARSON
BARSON PARK, MASS. — You, people who entered college last fall will have a tendency to major in what looks good now. This may be a mistake. I suggest, instead, that they look ahead four years to 1960, and plan accordingly.

MAKE USE OF YOUR ABILITIES BUT . . . The difference between a college graduate who gets promoted on a job, and one who just gets a job, is that the successful climber looks ahead. The student who takes what appears to be a good job now may be sorry later. The careful career planner, on the other hand, finds out where he is going. The first step in career planning is an appraisal of one's interests, abilities, personality and value goals. There is little success or happiness if one does not like the job he is doing. A fellow is just butting his head against the wall if he tries to compete in a job for which he has neither the aptitude nor the personality.

The desire to make money, serve mankind, or lose oneself in research will usually determine success or failure. The successful person is one who develops his asset and does work for which he is fitted, at a job which gives him happiness. Yet, while these steps are essential, they do not go far enough. Seldom, I find, do job hunters include in their search the probable future growth of industries.

A LOOK AT OUR ECONOMY IN 1960
By 1960 our population will approach 150 million. Approximately 68 million will be employed. Our gross national product will also have climbed from a 1946 postwar figure of $209 billion to perhaps $480 billion. With a shorter work week and a more productive work day, our people should receive in wages, interest, and profits about $365 billion per year by 1960.

I predict consumer spending will expand from our $150 billion annual amount of 1950 to about $300 billion, while government expenditures will stabilize around the $75 billion mark. This $300 billion opens great opportunities for those engaged in advertising and sales promotion. These figures, of course, assume that the cold war will not become "hot"; and they assume also a favorable political climate within which business can operate easily.

GROWTH OPPORTUNITIES IN 1960
Since labor costs, both on the farm and in industry, are rising, industries that manufacture labor saving devices such as materials handling equipment, conveyors, farm machinery, construction machinery and office machines will show good growth in the years to come. We need a lot of new roads, new schools, and schools construction must boom. Almost revolutionary developments of new materials will insure the growth of light metals and high-speed alloys. The chemical industry could produce five times faster than any other industry, spurred by continuous research in synthetic fibers, plastics, petrochemicals, drugs, and farm chemicals.

There will be a tremendous increase in the use of electricity, with output increasing 60 per cent—70 per cent by 1960. There will be marked growth in the great unstarred market for electronics applications, and for appliances such as air-conditioners, television, dishwashers, electric heaters, electric blankets, clothes dryers, etc. Engineers will be turning loose on us as never before a stream of new products, new materials, perhaps, as yet undreamed of gadgets.

SALES EXPERTS WILL BE IN DEMAND
It will be the responsibility of the men and women engaged in sales and merchandising to persuade you and me to raise our standards of living. There will be excellent job opportunities for those interested in surviving, as well as in thriving. An individual searching for a new and motivating human wants. And someone will have to finance all this expansion. There will also be an insatiable demand for doctors, nurses, school teachers and preachers. College freshmen should plan now for 1960!

In conclusion, let me again refer to my first paragraphs above. Seek the job in which you will be happiest and for which you are best fitted. Don't be misled by salary offers. But—if you will be happy selling, then enter this activity that cuts across all lines.

Notebook On Life

FBI Chief's Losing Fight

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Of all the lost causes of the 20th Century, J. Edgar Hoover has embarked on the one perhaps least likely to succeed.

The distinguished director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who has had a marked cultural influence on the underworld, thinks respect for law and order would be enhanced if people would quit calling a policeman a cop.

Cop is an ugly word to Hoover. In an editorial in the FBI's law enforcement bulletin he denounced it as derogatory, disdainful and implying scorn.

This may be true at times when it is spoken in a certain tone or inflection. But unfortunately for his crusade, cop is one of those slang terms by which the American language is externally enriched. It is too crisp and descriptive to be dropped from our vocabulary.

Equally unfortunate for Hoover's campaign is the truth that it isn't only underworld characters and snide members of the general public who use the term cop. Cops don't like the average citizen to call them cops. But what do they call themselves when talking to other members of the profession? Cops!

The current issue of the New York policeman's magazine uses the word cop twice. The television program, "Dragnet," put on with the blessings of the Los Angeles Police Department, starts off week after week with, "The Name's Friday. I'm a cop."

A veteran police sergeant here, admitting that members of the force generally referred to each other as cops and that the term had become well high universal, said:

"Underworld characters are supposed to call us names like flatfoot, dick, gumshoe or harness bull, but that's only on TV and in the movies. They call us cops—just like everybody else."

"We actually don't like for civilians to call us cops. We'd rather they addressed us by our rank or used the word 'officer.' We're on Hoover's side, but we think he's fighting a losing battle. It's too much easier to say cop than policeman."

There is some doubt as to the origin of the word cop. Some hold it is merely an abbreviation for

"constable of police," others feel it was coined by London street urchins who mistook the brass buttons of the early British Bobby for copper.

Whatever its etymology, Hoover declared cop has the same unflattering connotation as "quack" and "hack" when referring to the doctor and the journalist.

But, actually, does it? The term is too widely used to be limited to such a meager interpretation. What man in "the long blue line" doesn't take pride in being called "a good cop? What policeman can resent a big-eyed kid who looks up at him and says, "Well, I grow up. I want to be a cop just like you."

Any word can be good or bad, depending on the way it is said. People can be policed but nobody can police a language.

The irony of J. Edgar Hoover's campaign is that his own splendid career has done much to add a new luster of affectionate respect to that down-to-earth word cop. He might as well face the fact now that if he ever steps down from his present high post, newspapers will bloom with 1,000 editorials headed:

"An honest cop retires."

'White House Regency' Is Confident

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The eleven members of the so-called "White House regency" are so certain that President Eisenhower will run again that they are now debating when and how the jubilant announcement will be made. Another question on their political agenda is whether Vice President Richard M. Nixon should be kept on the ticket.

The "regency" group which has held several secret sessions since Ike's Key West statement on his health, consists wholly of GOP liberals. Although Thomas E. Dewey has deliberately absented himself from their strategy meetings, the membership shows that he is the "take charge guy."

Moreover, Dewey has been in and out of Washington for the last few weeks, combining politics with his new role as lawyer for Eastern Airlines. In both capacities, he has seen a great deal of Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr.

IKE—WILL—RUN BELIEVERS

For the first time the names of the Ike-will-run believers may now be published. They are:

Sherman Adams, White House chief of staff; James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary; Secretaries John Foster Dulles and George M. Humphrey; National Chairman Hall and Attorney General Brownell; Thomas Stevens, former White House appointment secretary and campaign field manager; ex-Governor Howard Pyle of Arizona, White House aide; Henry Cabot Lodge, United Nations Ambassador; Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield; Milton Eisenhower, Penn State president and Ike's favorite brother.

There are several significant omissions. Vice President Nixon has not been invited because discussion of his future might prove embarrassing to him. Adams and Hagerty think he should be replaced with somebody like Governor Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts.

'REGENCY' AIMS NO SPOKESMEN for the Republicans in House

Senate was asked to attend the group's secret conference.

The "regency" wants to retain full management of pre-convention and convention machinery, expecting that both the right and left wings on Capitol Hill will close ranks behind Ike upon his mere announcement that he will be the candidate.

To have invited Nixon or any Senator or Representative would have offered Senator William F. Knowland of California, an avowed entry if he had planned to step aside. Besides, fantastic talk that Knowland might replace Nixon on the ticket. He may be needed to placate the Dirksen-Bridges-McCarthy faction, who are not entirely friendly to the "regency's" membership or liberal philosophy.

SIGN OF CONFIRMATION Dulles' presence is taken as confirmation that Ike will run for he will be best fitted to write the foreign policy platform and to carry the campaign on that sector. Secretary Humphrey will be the GOP's mainstay in the field of business, industry, finances, taxes, budget-balancing, etc. which accounts for his attendance.

In fact, should Nixon be sidetracked, he might succeed Dulles, according to highly tentative plans Ike has sent the V.P. around the world to study conditions, and a trip through South America is now under consideration.

KEY WEST DISCUSSIONS? Milton Eisenhower's participation is regarded as confirmation that Ike wants another term. Milton was a close aide of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and they undoubtedly discussed Ike's plans. A former New Dealer, Milton's liberalish ideas were sprinkled through the State of the Union message to the dismay of many GOP conservatives.

Thus, it seems clear that (1) Ike will run again, (2) that he will demand the most progressive platform in GOP annals, and (3) that Nixon may have to fight to stay on the ticket. As of the moment, and unless he can be persuaded to the contrary, Ike favors the 43-year-old California.

Big Farm Problem For 'Iron Curtain'

By RICHARD R. KASISCHKE
 VIENNA (AP) — Two Hungarian peasants sentenced for stabbing their Communist collective farm chairman and their village council chairman.

Czechoslovak peasants accused of killing a Communist farm agitator.

Polish peasants' strike ties up a collective farm.

Hungarian kulaks accused of sabotaging grain collections and new sowing operations.

These and other press and radio reports show there is trouble on the farms of East European countries at a time when their Red rulers are calling for increased production and intensified collectivization in 1956.

Hungary and Czechoslovakia appear to be having the most trouble. The press continually inveighs against "saboteurs" and evil kulak-farmers. In these two countries, especially, the governments are cracking the whip to step up collectivization.

The Polish government appears to have adopted a temporarily milder policy toward its peasants, apparently the result of peasant resistance. A Polish newspaper recently criticized the fact that as many as 400 farmers were in jail for "malevolent nonfulfillment of their delivery quotas" while twice as many more peasants were scheduled for trial on similar charges.

A collectivization drive has been launched in Hungary with the aim of speeding up the objective of socializing more than half the land by 1960. Hungarian agriculture at present is perhaps one-third socialized.

Following the recent Russian pattern, the Hungarian government has sent swarms of Communist agitators to the country to enforce larger sowings and harder work.

Some Hungarian villages have been panicked by wildfire reports of food shortages which caused people to rush the stores for bread to hoard. Extra stocks were laid in and store hours changed to convince the people they wouldn't starve.

Institute To Hear Gore And Hodges

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) and Gov. Hodges will address the North Carolina Press Assn.'s 31st Midwinter Newspaper Institute when it meets on the campuses of the University of North Carolina and Duke University Thursday through Saturday.

A luncheon here Thursday of the North Carolina Associated Press Club will precede the opening of the institute. The speaker will be Franklin K. (Pete) Arthur of New York City. Arthur is the director of AP Newsfeatures.

Hodges will speak at the awards presentation program Thursday night. His address will be carried by WUNC-TV and WUNC-FM. A new Hugh Morton motion picture, "Grandfather of the Blue Ridge," will get its premier showing.

Daily and nondaily paper personnel will meet separately Jan. 20. The annual UNC luncheon will follow. That afternoon James S. Currie of Raleigh will present a study of "The Revenue Structure of the State" and the Journalism Foundation will meet.

Sen. Gore will address the Duke dinner at 7 p.m. He will be introduced by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. of Morganton.

D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville will speak at the Past Presidents' breakfast Jan. 21.

A Press Assn. business session will conclude the institute.

Kefauver Says He's Confident Of Primary Win

LACONIA, N. H. (AP) — Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today wound up a 400-mile New Hampshire campaign swing with a confident prediction that he again will win the first-in-the-nation presidential primary here March 13.

The senator, who visited 18 communities during his three-day automobile tour, planned to board a plane for Washington.

His optimism was not confined to New Hampshire, where he upset President Harry S. Truman in the 1952 primary. Later he lost his first bid for the Democratic presidential nomination at the party's national convention.

"This time things are going to be different," he declared.

"What's developed in four years to convince you that they won't pull the rug out from under you again?" a newsmen asked the senator at a press conference.

"I have been assured by several influential Democratic leaders that they will not place any hurdles in my way at the convention this year."

Asked if the "influential Democrats" include Truman, the senator said "Yes" and added with a grin, "My relationship with Mr. Truman is much more pleasant today than four years ago."

Kefauver said Truman has not endorsed his candidacy.

Describing Adlai Stevenson as "an able man," Kefauver indirectly challenged the party's 1952 presidential nominee to enter the New Hampshire race.

"It would be in the best interest of the Democratic party for all the Democratic candidates to come into New Hampshire," he said.

In his last formal speech here, the Tennessee senator demanded last night that the Justice Department crack down on violators of the anti-trust laws.

He told an overflow audience of 400 at the annual banquet of the New Hampshire Gasoline Dealers Assn. that a steady trend toward business mergers is "building up ever larger and more powerful monopolistic combines, destroying more and more of the smaller and independent businesses."

Projects Talked At Beta Club Meeting

By ANNE HARRIS
 Belvoir-Falkland School

The Belvoir-Falkland Beta Club held its January meeting at the home of Otis Deans, one of the club members.

At this meeting they discussed and adopted a constitution for the club. Plans were also made for a new project which they have undertaken, caring for the teachers' lounge.

Refreshments were served by their host.

At a class meeting on Thursday, the seniors selected the weekend of April 14 as the tentative date for their annual trip to Washington, D. C.

A most fitting motto, "Drive all things, hold fast to that which is good," was chosen to be their guiding principle. Other choices include the gardenias as the class flower and green and white as class colors.

ANNE HARRIS

On Friday morning an assembly was called at which Mr. O. H. Forrest, our principal, and Carolyn Dixon, Student Council president, welcomed the new students to our "halls of learning." Following the assembly a short orientation program was held, at which schedules and special instructions were worked out.

Just for a lark we hit upon the idea of finding out what makes happiness. In order to prove that happiness means different things for different people, we asked a number of students "What would it take to make you happy?" Here are a few of our answers:

Gail Garris—To see my boy friend more often.

Allen Harris—To graduate from State College with a degree in radar engineering.

Sheila Dawn Wooten—To be a college graduate and have a lifetime lease on a certain boy.

Donald Wooten—To be a college graduate and lead a good, normal life.

Shelby James—To marry a rich man and have a life of leisure.

Bobby Teel Harris—To be the heart flame of a certain blonde-haired homemaker.

Jo Ann Harrington—To have wisdom.

Otis Deans—To become an air force navigator and have a sweet, little wife waiting behind the front door.

Also, two of the high school teachers gave us these answers: business teacher Mrs. Dorothy Hardy—To have a new home; Mrs. Lou Nelson—For there always to be world peace and all my English students to make A's.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana leads off the nation's 1956 election parade tomorrow with all five Democratic candidates for governor in step on segregation, strict law enforcement and attracting industry from the North.

The Republicans, counting less than 5,000 of the more than one million registered voters, have bypassed the governor's race to build a two-party system with their first statewide primary since reconstruction.

Although no presidential primary is involved, the election will have national interest. It will show how a Democratic governor in Dixie fares with the voters four years after backing Eisenhower and how another Deep South state votes in the wake of the U. S. Supreme Court school segregation decision.

Gov. Robert Kennon, who narrowly missed delivering Louisiana into the Republican ranks in 1952, cannot succeed himself. He is hitching his political future to dark horse candidate Fred Preuss, his personal friend and former Highway Board chairman, a virtual unknown before deciding to run for his first state elective office.

Arrayed against the administration are former Gov. Earl Long, younger brother of the late Huey P. Long; DeLespess Morrison, the handsome, vote-charming mayor of New Orleans; Francis Grevenberg, the dashing young superintendent of state police who toppled a gambling empire second only to Nevada; and James McLemore, an Alexandria cattleman.

Each of the five regards himself as the candidate with the most business acumen to woo more industries away from the North, with the most judicial knowledge to make sure integration stays in the legal briefs and out of the classroom, and with the most ability to keep gambling out of the state.

All are committed to increased welfare benefits, schoolteacher pay raises, no new taxes, and abiding by the wishes of the Legislature in regard to the 1954 "right to work" law.

Louisiana Leads Election Parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles, who seems to have a sunny nature, is able to look back upon his part in events with pride and contentment although the same events may have left others shaken and gloomy.

It may come as a surprise to the Communists that Dulles, recalling his role in the Indochina war, seems to think he secured the daylights out of them although they won half of Viet Nam.

Life magazine, in an interview with Dulles, quotes him as saying—and he says the quotes are substantially correct—the United States has been brought to the brink of war three times in 18 months, once in Indochina.

Dulles seems to think that getting up to the edge and testing it, is artistic. He said, "The ability to get to the verge without getting into the war is the necessary art."

How he came to think this way needs a little explaining:

After World War II the French, who had held Indochina almost 100 years and exploited it, still refused the people their independence. The revolt which broke out came under the control of the Indochinese Reds.

The rebels were only guerrillas, but in a war which lasted from 1946 to 1954, the French couldn't rally the rest of the Vietnamese. They saw little sense in fighting to perpetuate French colonialism.

While this war was staggering along, the Eisenhower administration in the fall of 1953 announced its "new look" for the military forces: less money for better protection, the administration said.

Dulles on Jan. 12, 1954, attempted to explain the "new look." It was designed, he said, to depend "primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate massively."

This may have scared the Reds—although they kept right on fighting the Indochina war. It certainly scared American allies who had visions of themselves being led into war by this country.

Dulles tried some more explaining. So did other members of the administration. There was a lot of confusion for some weeks. Vice President Nixon said U. S. troops might have to be used in Indochina.

But President Eisenhower said it would be tragic for American forces to become involved there. Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said he could give "categorical assurance" there was no intention of sending American troops to Indochina.

At a foreign ministers meeting in Berlin on Feb. 18, 1954, the French pressured Dulles into agreeing to meet with the British, French, Russians and Red Chinese in Geneva on April 26 to discuss Southeast Asian problems.

At this point, the Indochinese Reds opened an attack on the French at Dien Bien Phu. By March 20 Dulles was badly worried. He said the free world should take "united action" to save Indochina. This was a long way from going it alone.

Since this was his plan for saving Indochina, he hurried to Britain and France. Would they join? Nothing doing.

They wanted to wait to see what happened at Geneva. April about ending the war. Dulles left Geneva while the French let the Reds have half of Viet Nam as a price of peace.

Dulles' Opinion Might Be A Surprise To Reds

$15,461 Loss In Woodland Fires

RALEIGH (AP) — Damage estimated at $15,461 was caused last month by 235 fires in woodlands under protection of the State Conservation and Development Department's forestry division.

The report released yesterday by State Forester Fred Claridge said the fires burned over 2,701 acres of woodlands, and 311 acres of open land. Dry weather conditions have left fire dangers in many areas, particularly the Piedmont, Claridge added.

Church Fund Is $100,000 Short

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — More than $100,000 is believed missing from a Lutheran church account in the Mercantile Bank of Quincy.

The shortage was discovered after the death Nov. 28 of Andrew C. Schnack, treasurer of the Central Illinois District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, and president of the bank.

The exact amount will not be known until an audit is completed in about three months.

The shortage was announced Saturday by the bank. The bank did not estimate the loss, but the Quincy Herald-Examiner learned from church officials that indications were it would run "into six figures."

Near-Victims In Hunting Mishap

HENNESSEY, Okla. (AP) — Two teen-age cousins narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday in a hunting accident near Bismarck, Okla.

Leroy Fuksa, 16, said he was holding the barrel of a .22-caliber rifle and poking at some brush with the stock of the gun when it discharged. The bullet struck Bob Fuksa, 14, in the right hand below the little finger, then hit Leroy on the left wrist, cutting his watchband in two and lodging in his forearm. Both boys were treated at a doctor's office and released.

Airliner Skids From Runway

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Skidding on hard-packed snow during a routine landing, an Eastern Airlines Silver Falcon with 32 passengers and a crew of three left the runway at Huntington Airport last night and narrowly missed plunging 400 feet into a ravine.

The twin-engine plane, en route from Louisville, Ky., to Charlotte, N. C. did drop onto a ledge in scrub growth some 80 feet below the runway, but all aboard escaped injury.

The passengers continued to their destinations on another flight.

Killed 'Proving' He Had No Fear

PRICE, Utah (AP) — Joseph C. Clarius, 18, wanted to prove he wasn't afraid.

Sheriff Albert Paasic says three friends of Clarius told him the youth suggested a game of Russian roulette yesterday. He took his empty, .22-caliber revolver and showed them how to play.

Then, to show he wasn't afraid, he put a single bullet in the gun's cylinder, pointed the weapon at his head and pulled the trigger. Nothing happened. He did it again. Again nothing happened.

Next time, however, the gun fired, sending a bullet into his brain. He died three hours later in a hospital.

Pirates Down Lenoir Rhyne, 70-68, In Final Seconds

Slate Kept Clean In Dramatic Finish

HICKORY—Guard J. C. Thomas sank a layup with 18 seconds left to play here Saturday night to give East Carolina a 70-68 North State Conference basketball victory over Lenoir Rhyne.

The dramatic finish gives East Carolina's eagles an 8-0 record in conference play and a 11-2 overall. The loss dropped Lenoir Rhyne back to fourth place. The Bears now have a 3-3 mark within the league.

Break String

The loss was also the first suffered by the home Bears in the Community Building here in 22 games. East Carolina, incidentally, is the team that beat the Bears last back in 1952.

Reaford Wells, the Bears' great forward, who scored 34 points to lead his club, had his long set shot with 30 seconds left. His team ahead 68-66. Thomas was fouled and made both charity tosses for a 68-68 tie.

Then Thomas hit his timely layup. Lenoir Rhyne tried to get down court with the ball, but Nick Nichols, Pirate forward, stole it and that was the ball game.

East Carolina had trailed much of the game, including a 34-39 halftime deficit. Don Harris' set shot gave the Pirates the lead at 50-49 midway through the second half. They held it until the last four minutes.

East Carolina's Freddie James dislocated his shoulder in the second half and Guy Mendenhall fouled out to place extra pressure on the Pirates. James was bumped hard in a tussle for a loose ball and may be out for the rest of the season.

Tim Smothers, who replaced James, can receive much of the credit for the victory. The big 6-6

Bethany High product hit six straight points in the late stages to keep East Carolina in the game. His rebounding also proved crucial.

Wells Hot

Wells had one of his most brilliant nights, hitting 12 field goals and 10 out of 17 from the free throw line.

Harris paced the ECC scorers with six field goals and seven out of 11 from the line for 19 points. Thomas had 15 points for runner-up honors and James collected 12 before his mishap.

Bob Ortmyer was the Bears' No. 2 man point-wise. The big 6-8 ace dumped 18 points and was the big rebounder. Floyd Propst had 10 for the Bears.

East Carolina's league-leading cagers move on over to Cullowhee and a battle with Western Carolina tonight.

McGuire Hopes East Carolina Swim Team Trazouces Clemson For Sixth Win Of Season

The East Carolina College swimming team marked up its sixth win of the season by defeating the Clemson College swimmers 61-23 in Memorial Gymnasium indoor pool here Saturday afternoon.

The victory evened the two-meet series with the Clemson team, which had taken the first meeting of the Atlantic Coast Conference and South Carolina champions.

East Carolina, coached by Ray Martinez, moved out front early and was never challenged. The Pirate tankmen took a total of seven first places in the rout.

Jim Meads collected two firsts, racking up wins in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle races. Dick Denton, another Pirate ace, grabbed second place honors in the latter. Jack Koebberling and Frank Moore, who have been constant winners in the 200 yards breast-stroke events throughout the season, pulled to another victory against the Clemson poolsters. Koebberling took first place in the contest in 2:44.5 and Moore followed with a close figure.

Graham Anderson took the 200 yard medley relay with a 3:38.8 time and was followed by Bob Sawyer, of ECC, who collected second place.

The 300 yard-medley relay was a clean sweep for the Pirate team of Sawyer, Moore, and McKee, who won with a fine 3:14.6 time. The 400 yard freestyle relay was also a Buccaneer win, as Anderson, Gartman, Denton and West scored with a 3:55.1 time.

The Tar Heels, tied with Duke for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference, play Maryland at home tonight and then the ever-tough North Carolina State Wolfpack Wednesday.

The two contests and Clemson's invasion of South Carolina Wednesday are the only conference games scheduled this week in a slim seven-game lineup.

The Tar Heels bounced South Carolina 75-72 Friday night and then edged Clemson 103-99 in a double overtime Saturday. Both games were played away from home.

McGuire says, "There's no telling how much the home court means, maybe 15 points. It's not the game itself. It's the travel, the food, the strange bed a kid must sleep in."

The crowd has a decided effect, also, McGuire thinks. "When you're behind at home, the fans are still for you. Being behind on the road makes you a bum."

But, he adds, "The psychological edge is more than can be defined in words."

Maryland goes into tonight's game slightly battered after last week's trip which took the Terps to South Carolina, North Carolina State and Duke.

The Terps, who were atop the ACC standings last week, beat South Carolina but lost to North Carolina State and to Duke 62-76 Saturday night. The loss dropped them to fourth in the standings with a 5-3 record. Over-all the Terps are 9-5.

However, with the competition as tough as it is between North Carolina (6-1, 11-2), Duke (6-1, 12-2), State (4-1, 12-1) and Wake Forest (3-2, 8-9), the Terps still have a good chance to pull up in the standings before the season is finished. The AP national ratings last week had State third, Duke sixth, and North Carolina ninth.

The other game tonight has Washington & Lee at Virginia (1-5, 5-7). Three games are set Saturday. After that there will be a lay-off from ACC competition until Jan. 27. Duke, with the longest intermission, is out of action until Feb. 1 when the Blue Devils invade Kentucky.

Wednesday's night clash between Clemson and South Carolina pits the two cellar teams of the conference. The Tigers are 1-6 in the conference and 6-8 overall.

East Carolina Swim Team Trazouces Clemson For Sixth Win Of Season

Ken Midgette swam away with diving honors for the contest, taking a first and Gene Lusk made it a solid East Carolina triumph by clinching second place.

Summary:

300-Medley Relay: East Carolina (Sawyer, Moore and McKee), 3:16.
400 Freestyle Relay: East Carolina (Anderson, Gartman, Denton and West), 3:55.1.
220 Freestyle: Dick Carter, Clemson, 2:30.4, first; Dick Denton, East Carolina, second; Fred Gartman, East Carolina, third.
50 Freestyle: Jim Meads, East Carolina, first, 25.5 seconds; Joel Forcher, Clemson, second; Ken West, East Carolina, third.
200-Medley Relay: Grantham Anderson, East Carolina, first, 2:33.8; Bob Sawyer, East Carolina, second; Louis Ackerman, Clemson, third.
100 Freestyle: Jim Meads, East Carolina, first, 58 seconds; Dick Denton, East Carolina, second; Tick Hendlee, Clemson, third.
200 Backstroke: Dick Carter, Clemson, first, 2:31.2; Bob Sawyer, East Carolina, second; Ronnie Ross, East Carolina, third.
440 Freestyle: Wes Millard, Clemson, first, 5:23.9; Harold McKee, East Carolina, second; W. New, Clemson, third.
200 Breaststroke: Jack Koebberling, East Carolina, first, 2:44.5; Frank Moore, East Carolina, second; Van Ravesteen, Clemson, third.

Official's Decision In Pro Bowl Game Argued

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The sixth annual Pro Bowl football game goes into the books as a thrilling 31-30 victory for the East. But arguments continued to rage today in the wake of an official's decision which may have cost the West two winning points.

The dispute centered on Field Judge Joe Gonzalez and the call he made in the final seconds of this sixth annual postseason all-star duel between top talent from the National Football League.

The West, trailing 31-30, tried a 50-yard field goal by Bob Riechler of the Baltimore Colts.

It was obviously short of its goal and Joe (Scooter) Scudero of the Washington Redskins took the catch.

Enter the controversy.

Did Scudero catch the ball on the two-yard mark, as the servers believe, and then almost casually take a step or two back and ground the ball in the end zone?

Or did he catch it on the goal line, or perhaps he forced his way into the end zone by the momentum of the ball?

Whatever the case, the field judge ruled it an automatic touch-back and the ball was placed on the East 20 a moment before the game ended.

Coach Sid Gillman of the West, as did some of his players right on the spot, argued that the East should have been charged with an automatic safety—and the West given 2 points.

Mike Wilson, superintendent of officials of the National League, issued this brief announcement: "On the last play the field judge said the ball went through the plane (goal line) of the end zone."

The ruling meant that Scudero caught the ball in the end zone. Gillman added that movies of the game would show otherwise.

So the score stands, and Ollie Matson, the fantastic ball carrier of the East, was the outstanding player of the game.

The 210-pound powerhouse of the Chicago Cardinals returned the second half kickoff 91 yards for a touchdown, he ran 55 yards for another over most of the West team, and his 50-yard gallop on a punt return set the stage for a third touchdown.

Other highlights of a rousing affair were:

A 103-yard touchdown run on the opening kickoff by Jack Christiansen of the Detroit Lions.

A 73-yard touchdown pass from Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears to Billy Howton of the Green Bay Packers for the West.

Ram rookie Ron Walker, with one touchdown and 90 yards rushing, was the leading runner for the West.

Key gains were registered by two returning greats of football, Doak Walker of the Detroit Lions and Pete Pihos of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Pihos caught four passes for 45

Roanoke Rapids Quint Play Phants Here Tuesday Night

Roanoke Rapids' AA eagles will invade Greenville tomorrow night to tangle with the league-leading Greenville Phantoms in the high school gymnasium. The contest will be a Northeastern conference affair and will begin at 8 o'clock. A jayvee contest will precede it at 6:30.

After battling a strong East Carolina freshman quintet and suffering a 54-46 loss, Friday night, Coach Bole's Greenville Phants had only one day of drill before meeting the tough Roanoke squad. The home team, however, will be favored to take the visitors by seven points, due to the home-court advantage.

Expected to lead the G-Men will be Harold Edwards and Ike Riddick, two veterans with high-scoring tendencies. Both boys are seniors and have made a reputation for being one of the deadliest one-two combinations in Eastern basketball circles. Both boys are averaging about 20 markers per game.

Tomorrow night's starters will be the same as Coach Farley has been using against recent rivals. The guards will be Riddick and Jerry Drum; Billy Johnson and Ray Hardee will command the forward posts; Edwards will handle center duties. Top reserves will be Mack Roebuck, Charles Smith and Tommy Key Norris.

Coach Farley stated today that he was well satisfied with the squad's showing against the ECC plenty of needed experience. All-Conference Edwards, though unaided by the constant guarding of 6-6 Tim Smothers and 6-10 Joe Plaster managed to score nine tallies on one-handers. He was forced to shoot from outside the average range of center and was not used to the distance. It is thought that the versatile senior will know what to expect from a tall team in the future and will be adequate on long as well as short shots.

With the center clogged up Saturday night, only one fashion of scoring was left to the Phants, and Riddick, a six-footer, made use of it. He racked up 22 points on deep, one-hand push shots, set shots and an occasional hook.

Riddick and Edwards will be expected to carry the brunt of the Phantom scoring attack against the Roanoke Rapids hoopers tomorrow night and Coach Farley has expressed confidence in their ability to do it.

Phil Reavis, a 5-9 sophomore from Somerville, Mass., commanded attention as an Olympic prospect for this year by clearing 6 feet 9 inches in the high jump—only an inch short of the world indoor record.

Ron Delaney, a Villanova sophomore from Dublin, Ireland, jogged confidently to victory in a comparatively slow mile in 4:12.

Charlie Jenkins is the piston-striding Olympic hope from near-by Cambridge and another of the Villanova crew, purged to a winning 1:14 effort in the 600, then anchored his team's winning mile relay unit which defeated Manhattan's crack foursome. The time was 3:20.0.

George Sydnor, still another Villanova sophomore, won the 50-yard dash in 5.4 seconds.

And Don Bragg of Villanova tied with the Rev. Bob Richards, Don Laz and Jerry Welbourn at 14 feet 6 inches in the pole vault.

In other phases of the meet Harrison Dilard won his 18th medal locally in the 45-yard high hurdles (5.7), Horace Ashenfelter won as advertised in the two-mile (9:03.6) and Pvt. Tom Courtney, ex-Fordham, captured the 1,000 (2:14.9).

Pittsburg's two-mile relay team got the only meet record with a 7:39.6 clocking. Previous best was Syracuse's 7:41.9 of a year ago.

New Sports Car Records Sunday

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Betty Shelton of Winter Park bettered four NASCAR sports car speed records in tests over the measured mile on the sands of Daytona Beach yesterday.

The aviatrix driving a new Chevrolet Corvette, averaged 130.838 miles per hour in two-way runs from a flying start and 85.59 m.p.h. in runs from a standing start. The old United States and European records, set with Ford Thunderbirds last year, were 124.633 m.p.h. and 84.666 m.p.h.

The runs were supervised by the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Earl Torgeson Injured In Wreck

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Earl Torgeson, Detroit Tiger first baseman, suffered a seriously cut finger and head cuts when his car turned over yesterday and he was trapped beneath the steering wheel.

The left-handed Torgeson, 32, suffered a cut on the right hand. Patrolman Ray Stewart said Torgeson was charged with reckless driving while drinking and driving without a license in his possession.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Alan spent an hour in his hospital, checking on the situation there, what had been done what was scheduled. Then he went in to see Mrs. Blake, and stood thoughtfully beside her bed. She lay quietly upon the white pillow without pain, or any response to his voice and touch. He must talk to the Captain about his wife. Some decision must immediately be made.

When he finished with his rounds, it was just about eight. Brusquely he turned his car wheels off the main drive, and down the hill to Margaret's little white cottage. Lamplight streamed from the windows. He touched the doorbell and Jim came to answer. "It's Uncle Alan," he screamed. "Did you bring...?" He gulped, and broke off.

Alan put his arm around the child's shoulders, and went with him into the small, bright living room where Margaret was busy with a ribbon she was tying in Ann's hair.

"It's all right," he laughed. "I forgot to bring anybody anything. Even a box of candy for Linda."

"I don't suppose she expected it," Margaret comforted him.

"When you doctor, you doctor!" "I'm afraid you're right." He dropped into a corner of the couch and stretched his long legs. "Why's everybody so dressed up?"

"The twins are stepping out," Margaret announced.

"Kinda late, isn't it? On a school night?"

"There's no school tomorrow. Some sort of teachers' meeting. But I agree that the party is late for little children."

"We're not little," disputed Ann. "The party is for nine to twelve—and we're supposed to be there at eight."

"You're going to be late then."

"It's Ann's beau that's late," declared Jim.

Ann made a horrible face at him. Alan chuckled. "What is all this about?"

"It's Miss Sadie's Valentine party," explained Margaret. She reminded everyone that this party was one of the high spots of Miss Sadie's dancing class, with the boys and girls paired off, escorted to call for their ladies. Alec was to come for Ann, then Jim would stop next door for Lucy. "That Lucy!" cried young Ann, frowning around the room. "She says she's going to wear a long dress!"

"Some of the girls will, I expect," said Margaret, as if the matter had already been considerably discussed. "But I feel—"

"I know I know. Mine is hand-embroidered organdy, and a pale blue sash is pretty on little girls!"

"On pretty little girls," agreed Alan.

Ann grinned at him. He put his arm lovingly around the child, and she snuggled against his shoulder. But she had not forgotten Lucy. Her hated rival and constant nemesis.

"I don't know who Jim likes Lucy Chaney!" she cried desperately. "She can't skate or play ping-pong—"

"She must have something!" teased Alan.

"She sure does," agreed Jim heartily, and Margaret and Alan looked at him, startled.

"Jim sent her a corsage!" said Ann derisively.

Alan's eyebrows went up as he was impressed.

"A tiny one of button mums," Margaret explained. "Rather sweet."

"Oh! Fifty cents," announced Jim.

"Huh!" said his sister. "I'd spit in a guy's eye if he sent me a fifty-cent corsage!"

"You'll never get the chance!" yelled Jim belligerently.

The older ones were relieved to hear the doorbell. Alan rose to answer, and followed young Alec Honeycutt into the room. Miss Little Mae's great-nephew was dressed as was Jim, in blue flannel and white collar; he came bearing a square white box.

"Good evening, Mrs. Giddens," he said. "Here, ma'am—"

His freckles covered with a comprehensive blush, he thrust the box toward Ann; she took it to her mother and together they opened it, to disclose a truly magnificent corsage. A cluster of violets, surrounded by a circle of tiny pink roses, that all bordered by lace, with a dozen fluttery ribbon ends.

Ann gasped with awed pleasure she seized the confection and whirled about the room in dizzy delight; she wagged it under her brother's nose. "Isn't it beautiful?"

It was Jim's turn to be jealous—and vindictive. "Aw," he cried. "I'll bet it's the corsage his sister had for last night. She had one just like that. A second-hand corsage!"

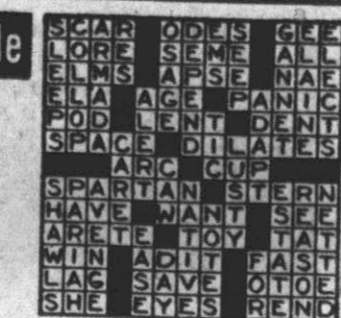

Ann stood stricken, and so did poor Alec. Margaret hastened to their rescue. Ignoring her son she picked up Ann's coat. "I'd carry it till you get to the party, dear," she said gaily. "It's the kind you can carry. Libby may have carried this last night—but she led the cotillion, didn't she? I'd be very flattered to have her corsage!"

It did the trick. Ann and her freckled escort went happily out to the car, but Alan's hand detained Jim for a minute. "Look here, young man," he said sternly. "Real guys don't go around hurting women."

"Ann made fun of my corsage!" "We men are tough and can take a little hurt. The point is, no guy worth a dime is ever un-

Said he took back everything he'd ever said or thought against girls in the Army, that—wait, I'll see if I can quote it. I can't begin to describe the charm these American women have for me. What do you think of that, Alan?"

Alan smiled through the smoke from his pipe. "What am I supposed to think? The kid was glad to see someone from home."

"Not just somebody, Alan. It was girls—and I don't think he was writing as any kid. Do you suppose he's grown up that much, Alan, that—the boy who went away from here—is—is a man, now?"

"What else do you want him to be?" asked Alan comfortably. "He's turned twenty-one."

"Yes, I know. I worry about him so much, Alan."

"Of course you do."

She sat thoughtful in the corner of the couch, gazing into the fire Alan finished his pipe. He wanted—had come to talk to Margaret about Fred Blake, and about his wife Fern, yet his tongue could not seem to shape the words.

"Alan," Margaret said softly, and he glanced at her.

She flushed, and fluttered her small hands. "I want to ask you," she began again, shyly, "if you think I should go on wearing Si's ring the engagements ring he gave me, now that I'm in love with another man?"

Pleasure Flight Ended By Death

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A Sunday afternoon pleasure flight ended in death for four people when their plane stalled while coming in for a landing, crashed and burst into flames.

Witnesses said the Beechcraft Bonanza's pilot, Earl E. Comer, 64, of Tucson, a one-legged World War I flier, veered sharply at tree-top level to avoid another plane.

Two of the dead were tentatively identified as Mr. and Mrs. Horace Moore of Tucson. Mrs. Moore's mother Mrs. Alice Stewart, about 65, was thrown from the plane and killed.

"I guess so," said Jim sulkily. "Well, get along to your party, then—and have a good time!"

"At Miss Sadie's? You crazy?" But he dashed out of the house, and Alan closed the door behind him. He joined Margaret before the fire, shaking his head and chuckling.

"Whatever would I do without you?" she asked.

"Well, I take on a bit of extra authority with the twins," he agreed. "They don't have a dad, and I don't have a son."

Margaret looked at him thoughtfully then she said, "Well, you're certainly a rock of stability for us all, dear. How did the trip go?"

Gravely, he talked of the trip. She already knew his prime purpose in going. He spoke of the people he had met, the good work he'd seen.

"I had a letter from Silas while you were gone," she told in her turn.

Alan took out his pipe. "Good! What did he have to say?"

Margaret laughed. "He had a message—a comment, rather—about you."

"Oh?"

"He said that to be a doctor in the Army, on active duty, a man should be a hundred years old to have acquired all the experience required, but no more than ten to have adequate strength and energy. And Silas' comment was that he guessed you could have filled the bill."

Auto Industry Stealing Business Week 'Show'

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—The auto industry drum-majors the business parade this week—even stealing part of the show from President Eisenhower's budget message.

In the glittering line of march are: a theatrically spectacular display of the cars of tomorrow, the sale to the public of the biggest block of common stock ever offered on one day, an expected report on future expansion plans—and, as an undertone in a minor key, the layoffs of more than 12,000 auto workers.

This two-way stretch between the auto industry's slightly contracted present and its hopes for an expansive future—as well as the state of industry in general—is being aired today before leaders of the nation's business.

General Motors chairman Alfred P. Sloan Jr. and president Harlow H. Curtis invited 400 top industrial bigwigs to luncheon here today. It's an annual affair at which they forecast the prospects of auto production and sales for the new year (they think the pace will be some 12 per cent slower in 1956) and put on public records of their hopes as to how the rest of the nation's business will fare. They also discuss GM's own plans for future expansion.

Later in the week the motor giant will open to the public its array of current models, and the experiments in its laboratories are being toyed with—the whole wrapped up in a Broadway-type revue, dancing girls and every thing.

Then Ford takes the spotlight. In midweek it will offer to the public a block of family-owned common shares of common stock, part of the holdings of the Ford Foundation. Some 1,500 securities dealers will handle the stock offered through 72 underwriting houses.

By the end of the week the nation's biggest family-owned corporation will have become a public-owned enterprise—publicly owned even if still family controlled.

And a new phase of the bitter competitive battle in the auto industry will be under way. All auto companies will be publicly owned—their fiscal affairs equally open to public scrutiny.

All of this week's glitter in New York is against a background of contraction in Detroit.

Sales of 1956 models have proved sticky. The stockpile of new cars in dealers' hands jumped at year's end to more than 700,000 cars. It is the most that dealer have ever had on hand as a new year started.

Detroit has been clipping the length of work weeks and has started pruning payrolls. At the start of this week General Motors' work force had been cut by 3,800 Ford's by 4,600 and Chrysler's by 3,581.

Bad weather gets part of the blame for the drop in sales. Used car sales also have slipped, even though prices on many makes have been trimmed.

"For the first time in history, one-year-old cars are being purchased at 50 per cent of cost when new," according to the Automotive Digest issued by Pacific Finance Corp.

But the auto industry isn't young marksmen bagged raccoons.

PT. KNOX, Ky. (AP)—The raccoons in this neck of the woods—what's left of 'em—must have thought an army of Davy Crocketts passed through Saturday night.

But it was only Brig. Gen. Samuel L. Myers and some 75 pre-draft-age reservists, mostly Easterners who had never been on a coon hunt.

Gen. Myers, commander of the training center, was impressed with a marksmanship score turned in by the 17 and 18-year-olds so he invited their company to hunt coons with him.

The party brought in 15 coons.

By CHARLES MEROER
NEW YORK (AP)—Every day trains, planes and busses bring many youthful hopes to this city.

As the young were drawn to Hollywood in the youth of the movie industry, so the young today are drawn to television in its youth. They feed on the legendary successes of many who preceded them. The fact that the failures far exceed the successes makes no difference.

For there is no more irresistible force than the dreams of the young. Unless it is the irresistible magnet of New York. . . .

Sandra Wirth didn't come here from her home in Miami, Fla., blindly seeking employment. She was spoken for—by ABC-TV. A network photographer who saw her in the Miss America Contest at Atlantic City, where she was among the 10 finalists as Miss Florida, expended about 100 bucks worth of film taking pictures of her.

Investigation of this extraordinary investment in photographic film convinced the brass at ABC that here was a girl to twirl her baton and otherwise grace the weekly festivities on "Super Circus," the Sunday ABC-TV show that attracts the young of all ages. And so she is.

Sandra Wirth has certain advantages. She is blonde, brown-eyed and handsomely sculpted, qualifying under the Atlantic City standards to be called one of the most beautiful girls in America. She also is 19 years old. If that fact is ever an annoyance to her, she can console herself that time will take care of the annoyance all too soon.

With youth and beauty on her side, Sandra is energetically cultivating talent. Besides working on the show she's studying singing, drama and dancing.

Tentative Plans For Leaf Hearing

NASHVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Rep. Harold D. Cooley says public hearings on his bill authorizing a 20 per cent reduction in flue-cured tobacco acreage.

However, he indicated in a week-end interview at his home here, the bill may die before it reaches the hearing stage.

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said much depends on the U.S. Agriculture Department's attitude toward the measure.

An official USDA statement is expected within the next few days, he indicated. If the statement is unfavorable to the 20 per cent bill, he said, the issue will be settled and the proclaimed 12 per cent cut will remain.

But if the USDA says the larger reduction is needed, the bill will be sent to committee and hearings would be held with congressmen from flue-cured districts.

If necessary, Cooley added, hearings also would be scheduled in the tobacco growing areas themselves.

Cooley said no member of Congress has spoken up unmistakably in favor of the 20 per cent reduction. He said he sponsored the measure only at the request of a 15-man beltwide flue-cured tobacco advisory committee and in order to get the Agriculture Department's views.

If Cooley's bill becomes law, tobacco growers would vote on whether to have a 20 per cent acreage reduction instead of the 12 per cent reduction proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson. If such a vote were held and growers voted against the 20 per cent reduction, then there would be no acreage controls on the flue-cured crop this year as things now stand.

counted. GM, Ford and Chrysler chiefs are in accord on one thing at least: agreement that 1956 will be a good year, if less feverish than 1955.

Studebaker-Packard executives base their optimistic hopes on a new three-year labor contract that improves its competitive position.

American Motors officials hold that much of the financial problems that dogged them have been solved now.

All of them will be tooting their horns loud this week.

The little girl lives in one of the biggest family-owned corporations will have become a public-owned enterprise—publicly owned even if still family controlled.

And a new phase of the bitter competitive battle in the auto industry will be under way. All auto companies will be publicly owned—their fiscal affairs equally open to public scrutiny.

All of this week's glitter in New York is against a background of contraction in Detroit.

Sales of 1956 models have proved sticky. The stockpile of new cars in dealers' hands jumped at year's end to more than 700,000 cars. It is the most that dealer have ever had on hand as a new year started.

Detroit has been clipping the length of work weeks and has started pruning payrolls. At the start of this week General Motors' work force had been cut by 3,800 Ford's by 4,600 and Chrysler's by 3,581.

Bad weather gets part of the blame for the drop in sales. Used car sales also have slipped, even though prices on many makes have been trimmed.

"For the first time in history, one-year-old cars are being purchased at 50 per cent of cost when new," according to the Automotive Digest issued by Pacific Finance Corp.

But the auto industry isn't young marksmen bagged raccoons.

PT. KNOX, Ky. (AP)—The raccoons in this neck of the woods—what's left of 'em—must have thought an army of Davy Crocketts passed through Saturday night.

But it was only Brig. Gen. Samuel L. Myers and some 75 pre-draft-age reservists, mostly Easterners who had never been on a coon hunt.

Gen. Myers, commander of the training center, was impressed with a marksmanship score turned in by the 17 and 18-year-olds so he invited their company to hunt coons with him.

The party brought in 15 coons.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Lower prices prevailed in the stock market in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Losses ranged from fractions to around two points with major activity focused on steels and motors.

At noon, the Associated Press 60-stock average was down 20 cents at $177.50. The industrials were off $1.00, the rails 80 cents and the utilities were unchanged.

Trading volume for the day was estimated at around 2 1/2 million shares.

The market was off from the start, showed signs of recovering around midmorning, then slipped to around its low for the session.

Steels and motors were actively traded on the downside.

U.S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were off around two points and Bethlehem around a point.

General Motors and Chrysler were both lower by around a point.

A feature of trading was turnover of an 18,800-share block of Pfizer & Co. down 1/2 at 40 1/2.

Rails, rubbers and coppers were down generally while utilities, chemicals and oils were somewhat mixed.

Losers in about the two-point range included Zenith, DuPont, and Santa Fe.

Down around a point or so were Goodyear, Goodrich, North American Aviation, Kemetco Southern Pacific and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Other losers included U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Radio Corp., American Telephone, Air Reduction, New York Central, Sinclair and Distillers Corp.

Among the scattering of gainers were Douglas Aircraft International Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, Texas Co. and Eastern Air Lines.

Funds Sought To Operate SPA In New Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON—Congress was asked today to provide $1,378,000 to operate the Southeastern Power Administration (SPA) in the year beginning July 1 in the year beginning July 1.

The SPA markets power from seven federal-owned dams in 10 Southeastern states. Eventually the agency will market power from 13 dams.

President Eisenhower's budget request for the next fiscal year is $218,000 more than was asked for the year ending June 30. The additional money is to take care of the transmission fees and for the purchase of firming energy in connection with disposal of power from the John H. Kerr project in Virginia.

As more dams in the system go into operation, an increase is noted in returns to the government. In seven years ending June 30, 1955, the revenue amounted to $9,783,105. For the year ending June 30, 1956, the return is estimated at $12,200,000, and for that ending June 30, 1957, 15 million dollars.

The new budget, following the pattern of recent years, contains no money for new construction.

Power generated at the Wolf creek, Center Hill, Dale Hollow, John H. Kerr, and Allatoona dams, which are under construction, will be sold to the Clark Hill project, is being sold under long term agreements with public bodies, cooperatives, and Tennessee Valley Authority, and private utility companies.

The budget states negotiations which are pending or to be started involve long term agreements for the Clark Hill, Philpott and Old Hickory projects.

Contract negotiations will be continued with various public agencies and private utility companies for arrangements to dispose of power from Jim Woodruff, Cheatham, and Buford dams, the President said.

The budget states that for the year on two new dams, Hartwell and Fort Gaines. Hartwell is scheduled for completion in 1962 and Fort Gaines in 1963.

Held On Charge Of Shooting Rival

MORRIS, Ill.—A 40-year-old nurse has been charged with attempted murder for emptying a pistol at a woman she considered her rival for the affections of S. J. (Jim) Holderman, chairman of the State Industrial Commission.

The other woman, Miss Elsa Kussler, 53, Holderman's secretary, remains in critical condition at Morris hospital from three bullet wounds suffered in the shooting Saturday.

Mrs. Ruth Olson, Grundy County public health nurse, is held on $25,000 bond. Arraignment is scheduled today.

Holderman said he dated Mrs. Olson occasionally but that Mrs. Olson had never been more to him than a casual social companion.

Mrs. Olson in a statement admitting the shooting described the romance as a torrid one and said that she and Holderman had been intimate on a number of occasions.

Holderman, 54, a widower, is also Grundy County chairman of the Republican party.

The shooting occurred in the women's lounge of the Morris Building, where Holderman maintains law office. Only Mrs. Olson and Miss Kussler were present.

Mrs. Olson said Holderman stopped taking her out and began dating Miss Kussler about six months ago.

More Reports On Bangle Day

Reports have been received from two more Negro schools on the results of TB Bangle Day, conducted in the classrooms recently.

M. R. Reeves, principal of the Griffon School and chairman for this phase of the tuberculosis fund drive, announced he has received $33.42 from the Bethel Union School and Sally Branch School, bringing the total collected in the Negro schools to $153.62.

Bethel school contributed $23.27, while Sally Branch gave $10.15.

'Selling' Idea May Be Hardest

RALEIGH—The president of the National Assn. of Travel Organizations said today that selling North Carolinians on North Carolina may be the biggest job facing the State Travel Council.

Robert F. Nelson spoke at the first annual meeting of the North Carolina Travel Council. He said that from his eight years experience as executive director of the Virginia Travel Council, it is clear that the primary function of a successful state council is as the "architect of travel development."

It should not duplicate functions now performed by any other agency, Nelson told the council members. The program included adoption of a constitution and bylaws and election of officers.

J. L. Bossemeyer of Washington, executive vice president of the National Assn. of Travel Organizations, presided over a regional NATO meeting preceding the state session.

Fred Linton, executive vice president of the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce, is president of the state council.

E. L. Rankin Jr., secretary to Gov. Hodges, delivered a message from the governor who is out of the state.

At the afternoon session, the council heard B. T. Davidson former director of the California Visitors Bureau, outline promotion procedures in vogue on the West Coast.

Apply For Help On Wednesday

Farmers and small businessmen in Pitt County who suffered hurriedly to apply for help for property for which they are eligible at the county courthouse Wednesday.

State Civil Defense Director Gen. Edward F. Griffin has announced that representatives from his office will be at the local courthouse all day Wednesday to take applications from those who wish to purchase surplus property, and to render assistance to those who need it in executing the necessary papers.

Gov. Hodges announced recently that farmers and small businessmen who suffered actual damage equipment during the 1955 hurricanes are eligible to purchase this surplus property at ten percent of the cost to the federal government. Price is f.o.b. government storage location.

Invited To Join 'Aviation Week'

An invitation was received today by Mayor Mack L. Lupton of New Bern inviting the entire City Council to attend the activities at the Simmons-Not Airport in New Bern January 26 at 3:00 p.m. to take part in Community Day in connection with the first annual Aviation Week.

Plans for the afternoon include a guided tour of the airport showing commercial aviation and Civil Aeronautics Administration communication facilities. The private flying services and a ground display of executive and private airplanes, military equipment and survival gear will be open to the visitors.

A courtesy ride by National and Piedmont Airlines will be given by the local Board over his home town.

Mayor Lupton, who is also chairman of the Airport Commission, stated that he hoped the Aviation Week idea would help to tell the people of the surrounding area the great advantage aviation is to the people of coastal Carolina, and the visitors would be better informed in order that industry will be attracted to our areas because of a modern transportation system.

The entire week of activity starts on Monday, January 23 when the school children of New Bern will be given a guided tour of the airport. On Tuesday and Wednesday children from the counties and other cities are invited to visit the displays.

Flood Again Is Facing California

SAN FRANCISCO—A mighty torrent rolled down the Feather River in northern California today, threatening the "green" new levee hastily erected at Shanghai Bend after the holiday floods at Yuba City.

Army engineers said the levee was thrown up with mud and other readily available materials.

The region's second big rain storm in less than a month ended last night with clearing skies, but it left raging torrents cascading down the Feather and Yuba River systems to converge on Yuba City, still sodden from Christmas floods that took 33 lives there. The state's total was 62 deaths with an estimated property loss of half a billion dollars. Only two deaths were reported in the latest storm.

Civilian defense evacuated more than 700 persons from ports of Olivehurst and Arboza yesterday when the Bear River backed up seven miles south of Marysville, where it runs into the Feather from the east.

Officials at Yuba City decided against evacuating the remaining residents of that city, at least until they learned the levee's fate. Saturday night they evacuated the southern part of the city and some threatened sections of Sutter County. That order affected an estimated 1,500 persons.

Civilians stopped working on the Shanghai Bend levee last night and 310 men from Beale Air Force Base were put on a patrol from Marysville to the Bear River. The levee was built around the gap through which water poured Christmas Eve to flood the town.

Less serious was the situation at communities along the north coast, where there was lowland flooding from the Eel and Smith rivers and Redwood Creek.

Crumbling cliffs at Bolinas, a small coastal town 30 miles west of San Francisco, gave way and wrecked around 40 homes today. That many families were evacuated from their homes as mud slides pushed them off their foundations.

Flood Control Items In Budget Message Today
