Protests Resound Over Proposed Spending Hike Tax Cut Demands Dwindle

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower appeared today to have quieted for the present at least demands in Congress for a general tax reduction in this election year.

But his requests for an increase in appropriations drew fire from many Democrats. Republicans, on the other hand, praised his estimates that the budget will be balanced.

For the following year, ending June 30, 1957, he estimated federal income at $66,300,000,000 against spending of $65,855,000,000 for a surplus of 445 millions.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee said he is "disturbed and disappointed" by increased government spending based "on the premise, apparently that the present boom will continue, and this no one can predict."

Outlines Steps To Obtain Industry

Jerry Albright of the small industries division of the U. S. Department of Conservation and Development met with representatives of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Greenville Industries, Inc. yesterday for a discussion of small industry possibilities for the city.

Leonard Bloxam, chairman of the industrial committee of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting.

"Every community in the state can have a small industry if it wants it," Albright told his audience. Small industries, he said, have no deterring effects on the attraction of large industries to a community.

Next, the contemplated industry should be designed to fit the community from the standpoint of labor and a market for the industry's production.

small industry similar to many which have been established in North Carolina can be set up in approximately six months, the speaker said. The investment for industries which have been established range from $6,000 to half million dollars.

Food processing appears the most logical industry for development by communities in eastern North Carolina, Albright declared. Full information on markets, methods of setting up small industries and other material is available to any community which wishes to establish its own industry, he said.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR January 17, 1926

According to reports from Paris, Rudolph Valentino went through an experience which sounds just like a movie plot when Baron Imre Laskalz, Budapest millionaire, swung an angry right at the movie star. Rudy ducked and knocked the Baron cold with a right hook. The Baron, in love with Vilma Banky, was jealous of Rudy's love making with the Hungarian beauty in a film. He challenged the actor to a duel but it was settled amicably.

Mr. L. A. Stroud of Quinn-Miller & Co left today for High Point to attend the furniture show.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

An honored guest at the re-indoctrination of the Hon. William S. Tubman as the president of Liberia, early in January, was Miss Anna E. Hall, of Atlanta, Georgia. From 1905 to 1930 Miss Hall was a deaconess-missionary of the Methodist Church, serving in Garraway, Liberia. For the past 25 years she has been retired as a foreign missionary, but has been engaged in social welfare work in Atlanta, especially among the people of her race. In both nations she has a host of friends, to many of whom she has given of her Christian healing, counselling and teaching ministry. In Garraway, Miss Hall saw for the first time recently the Anne E. Hall Methodist Church named in her honor.

After 35 years of distinguished service as a research associate with the National Council of the Churches and of its predecessor, the Federal Council of Churches, Miss Inez M. Cavert has retired. A linguist in five languages, a graduate major in history, Miss Inez gave most of her life to assisting the churches in understanding international and interracial relations, religious liberty, the plain and economic conditions in South Africa and in many other parts of the world, and in the writing and editing of reports of the World Council of Churches. For the most part her numerous studies were unassigned, but highly influential among Protestants.

ECC Students Hear Minister Vesper Period

The Methodist students had as their guest speaker at the Student Center on East Fifth Street, January 8, Rev. W.M. Howard Jr., pastor of Jarvis Memorial Church. He continued the vesper theme "Making Our Religion Real." His topic was "Making Our Religion Real Through the Church." He pointed out that "there is a need for something concrete to which we can tie ourselves." Included in his talk were many ways that the church serves and just how important the church is. An open discussion followed.

Prior to the vesper service, the women of the Centenary Methodist Church, New Bern, served supper to the students.

Last Sunday night, Miss Gloria Blanton, director of the Baptist Student Union, told the Methodist students about her trip during the Christmas holidays to the Student Voluntary Conference for Christian World Missions at Athens, Ohio. She reported that out of the 3,300 people at the conference, approximately half were from foreign countries and every Christian denomination was represented. "Revolution and Reconciliation" was the theme, and the conference was concerned with spreading the Christian message. Miss Blanton pointed out the vast changes that are going on in the world. "Three-fourths of the people in the world have had their sense of values changed in the last few years. The impact of our western civilization, however, has made these people realize that they don't have to live in such situations and they are rising up and looking for a better way of life," she stated.

Moody Institute Film To Be Seen

The color movie "Time and Eternity" will be shown in its eastern North Carolina premiere in Greenville Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Latest in the Moody science series, the 50-minute film will be presented at St. James Methodist Church, Forest Circle at East Sixth Street. Admission is free.

Produced by Moody Institute of Science, "Time and Eternity" is the seventh in a series designed to show how findings of modern science support faith in the Supreme Intelligence. Described as "factual and startling," the film employs many original and weird camera effects to assist the viewer in visualizing and understanding something of Einstein's theory of relativity. Other films produced by this affiliate of Moody Bible Institute have been shown in thousands of churches as well as in college and high school science classes around the world.

"We have scheduled the showing for Thursday to enable ministers, Sunday School superintendents and teachers from the churches of the area to see this penetrating and thought provoking picture," declared the Rev. J. Malloy Owen, host pastor. Noting the rarity of any movie being given in its area-wide premiere showing in Greenville, local leaders urged wide attendance. A second showing may be scheduled if the church is not large enough to hold the crowd.

Youth Injured As Auto Overtakes

A Greenville Negro was jailed on charges of drunk driving Saturday night after a non-collision accident on the Creek Road which sent another Negro to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Joe Hopkins, 36, Negro, of 1411 W. Fifth Street, was taken into custody by State Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry.

Hopkins alleged to have been the driver of the car which overturned, injuring John Wilcox, 16, Negro, of 1310 W. Third Street. Wilcox was confined to the hospital here with head injuries.

The accident took place about 11 p.m. some nine miles east of Greenville.

Council Frowns On 'Cop' Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Please, the city council urges, don't call 'em cops.

A resolution adopted unanimously yesterday says: "Law enforcement officers, generally, resent being called 'cops' and consider it derogatory and tending to lower the public's respect for their profession as guardians of the public safety."

Councilman Harold Henry, who introduced the measure, said the word "cop" is a Scotland Yard abbreviation for "Constable of the Peace."

TEACHER IS COWED
RICHWOOD, W.Va. (AP)—Mrs. Janet Callaghan, librarian at Richwood High School, had an original excuse when she was late for school. She said the family cow, "Bucky," followed her to school and she had to take it back.

JUST WELLES OR YOUR MONEY BACK—Orson Welles, whose ankle troubles forced the cancellation of performance of "King Lear" in New York, adheres to the stage tradition of "the show must go on" by substituting an "Evening with Orson Welles." A week ago he broke his left ankle and opened in the drama Jan. 12 for his first Broadway appearance in ten years. To add to his troubles, he injured his right ankle. The audience for the Friday night scheduled performance were given their choice of substitution, tickets for a later show, or their money back. Most of them stayed. (AP Wirephoto).

Science TV Course Will Begin Here On Monday

East Carolina College announces that its seventh televised course of study "Science in Childhood Education" will begin Monday, Jan. 23, and will extend through Friday, April 13. Half-hour programs will be presented Monday through Friday each week during this period at 3:30 p.m. over WNCN, Channel 9, Greenville.

Dr. John G. Navarra, faculty member of the science department of the college, will act as instructor. Those who enroll may receive three quarter hours of credit upon completion of the requirements or may audit the course without credit. It is expected that a large number of interested people who do not enroll will follow the televised programs.

The course, Dr. Navarra states, will deal with the development of science content appropriate for the general education of elementary school teachers. Programs are being planned also, he says, to benefit the adult who wishes to become familiar with phases of science having a direct bearing on his life and the parent who wishes to encourage the scientific interests of his child.

The course is open to graduates of accredited high schools. "Formal training in science is not a prerequisite," Dr. Navarra explains.

Before joining the East Carolina faculty last September, Dr. Navarra served as research associate and instructor in the department of natural science at Teachers College, Columbia University. He is author of "The Development of Scientific Concepts in a Young Child" and co-author of "Experimenting in Science," by Craig, Roche, and Navarra, texts which will be used in the televised course of study.

Teachers Late, Classes Started

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Snow and ice caused delays in the arrival of 22 teachers at Sallie B. Rutherford Elementary School yesterday, but classes went on just the same. Their jobs were taken over by 22 11-year-olds, members of the school's "Teachers of Tomorrow" program.

Opening exercises such as Bible reading had been completed and lessons were under way when the teachers arrived, one at a time.

Three Arrested In Liquor Raids On Local Homes

Three Greenville Negroes were arrested Saturday night by ABC officers and ATU agents on charges of possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale.

B.F. White, 39, of 604 McKinley Avenue was taken into custody when officers found three and a half gallons hidden in a "trap" on his back back porch. He was placed under $200 bond.

Alfred Carr, 70, who served a 60 day sentence for a whiskey violation in September, was arrested at 2007 Deck Street when searchers found a half-gallon of illegal spirits in his home.

James "Buck" Langley was recognized for city court after a small quantity of illegal whiskey was found in his home at 1610 S. Pitt Street.

Ridgway Joins Ranks Of Top Generals Who 'Struck Back'

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Old soldiers may fade away but not always quietly.

Three of the most famous generals of recent years — Douglas MacArthur, Omar Bradley and A. Thomas Ridgway — have some critical things to say once they were out of uniform about the way the man in the White House handled the armed forces.

The latest is Ridgway who, in a Saturday Evening Post article out today, makes a slashing attack on the Eisenhower administration's treatment of the Army and plainly implies President Eisenhower misrepresented him before Congress.

MacArthur was the first to sound out, and with the loudest repercussions. After President Truman sacked him, he blasted the President's handling of the Korean War and kept on blasting. That was in 1951.

Any fading he did from the newspaper headlines wasn't noticeable until after the Republicans' 1952 convention where some delegates thought he ought to be president.

The Saturday Evening Post seems to have an affinity for old generals. That is where Bradley, like Ridgway, raised a cautioning voice. But Bradley was far less critical than Ridgway about Eisenhower's ideas on defense.

Bradley had been made chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by Truman. Even though Bradley was an old Army pal of Eisenhower, the new President seemed determined to get rid of as many Truman appointees as possible.

He decided to let Bradley retire at age 60 and replace him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs with Adm. Arthur W. Radford. On Aug. 19, 1953, four days after he had stepped out of military life, Bradley's story appeared in the Post.

Eisenhower, anxious to fill a Republican campaign promise to cut government spending, began cutting into military spending by five billion dollars. Eisenhower argued this was more defense at a less cost.

Bradley cautioned against letting security be endangered by too much economy. He acknowledged he had made a mistake himself in setting defense spending sights too low before the Korean War.

Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson did some of their economizing at the expense of the Army. Ridgway, while still Army chief of staff, protested to Congress about this.

Eisenhower didn't seem to appreciate Ridgway's criticism. He called it "parochial." Ridgway, 60 last year, could have been kept on two years more as chief of staff. Eisenhower let him retire last year.

Now, in the Post article, Ridgway says the administration's cuts in the Army were "almost entirely" for economic and political reasons, not for military ones. He said "pressure" was put on him to persuade him to go along with the cuts.

He says he was baffled when, despite his protests, Eisenhower told Congress the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimously behind his military program, which included cuts in the Army.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A price of $64.50 a share was placed today on tomorrow's vast public offering of Ford Motor Co. stock. The Ford Foundation, Inc., will reap $642,000,000 from the biggest corporate equity financing in history.

The price was reported to the Securities and Exchange Commission as the final legal step required before the 10,300,000 common shares are offered tomorrow morning.

The underwriters — some 722 securities firms across the country — have reported almost unprecedented investor interest in the issue which admits the public into ownership with the heirs of the company founder, the late Henry Ford.

The price was supplied by an amendment to the original Ford registration statement filed with SEC last Dec. 21 as required by law to protect investors.

The commission will meet this afternoon to consider the prospectus. It is expected to clear the issue speedily. The stock then can be listed for trading on the New York, Detroit, and other major exchanges.

The price actually was set late yesterday by the seven co-managers of the huge offering. While the public will pay $64.50 for each of the new shares, the Ford Foundation, owner and seller of the stock, will receive $63 a share. The difference goes into discounts and commissions paid to the underwriters and investment dealers.

The total of such discounts and issue will be $15,300,000 reducing by that much the net return to the sellers. The public will pay a total of $67,900,000.

The Ford Foundation intends to reinvest in other securities so that its income will no longer depend solely on earnings of the Ford Co.

The Foundation is a charitable trust with the stated aim of "advancing human welfare."

The Ford Co. has said its directors intend to declare a dividend of 60 cents a share in the first quarter of this year. If this dividend should be continued quarterly a share of stock would yield the investor $2.40 annually.

Test Pilot Smith Is Back On Job

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Test pilot George Smith has flown an F100 super sabre again.

It was almost 11 months since he'd flown his last one, for on that flight Smith, 31, became the first man to bail out of a plane flying faster than sound and live.

The bailing required six months of hospitalization. Yesterday he flew a super sabre again, and he says he expects to be on regular flight duty from now on.

Nautilus Today Is One Year Old

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—Sharply at 11 a.m. a year ago today a big submarine sailed from a dock on the Thames River and kicked up a wake.

Two minutes later, the signalman on her deck flashed out a message to a submarine rescue vessel off her starboard.

"Underway on nuclear power." The world's first atomic-powered submarine, the Nautilus, worked.

In the year since she pushed down the Thames and into Long Island Sound on her maiden voyage the Nautilus has built up an impressive record.

Part of that record was released by the Navy yesterday. The Nautilus has averaged a dive a day in her first year of operations. She also has:

Traveled 26,231.3 nautical miles on 75 cruises without refueling. Traveled submerged for more than half that distance, 13,140.7 miles.

Visited six ports from Portsmouth, N. H., to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Sailed for 8 days and 14 hours without stopping. Traveled underwater for 3 days, 17 hours and 14 minutes.

Made a 1,300-mile voyage from here to San Juan, Puerto Rico, totally submerged at an average speed of more than 16 knots.

That wasn't all she could do, the Navy said. It added that statistics "that cannot be released for security reasons are far more impressive."

Balanced Budget: If, Can And Maybe

President Eisenhower's assertion that the budget he has presented Congress will put the government's book in black ink rather than red would be much more forceful were not so many big "ifs" included to qualify the assertion.

The President has presented Congress a budget which calls for the expenditure of $66 billion during the coming fiscal year; one and one-half billion more than the budget adopted for the current year. At the same time Mr. Eisenhower has asserted that taxes cannot be cut and that the continued expansion of the nation's economy will produce sufficient revenue to balance the huge budget without tax increases.

Many members of Congress already are committed to tax cuts in this election year. Within the ranks of the President's own party on Capitol Hill there is a wide divergence of opinion on matters called for by the executive branch. At the same time it must be remembered that the Democrats who control Congress likewise have their own views on spending and taxes.

Testing The Trends Of Farmers' Opinions

The Daily Reflector this week is seeking to ascertain through a straw vote the preference of Pitt County farmers to the reduction in tobacco acreage allotments for 1956.

In The Reflector is being printed a straw vote ballot which tobacco growers throughout the county may use to indicate their preference for the 12 per cent tobacco allotment reduction which already has been ordered, or the 20 per cent allotment reduction which has been proposed before Congress. Through this straw vote we hope to be able to learn with reasonable certainty which of the two alternatives tobacco growers of Pitt favor for the 1956 crop.

Five afternoon newspapers in eastern North Carolina are cooperating in a simultaneous straw vote which will cover seven of the largest tobacco producing counties in this section. Not only will the results of the straw vote show the feeling of farmers in the individual counties, but the combined votes being conducted by the five newspapers will give, we hope, an indication of the feeling of tobacco growers throughout this section.

The information from the straw vote will be of interest to farmers of each county, and we trust it will be helpful to members of Congress who are now considering a bill which would authorize a referendum on the proposed 20 per cent reduction for 1956.

The success of the straw vote will depend upon the participation of tobacco growers in the balloting. In addition to the ballots which appear in this newspaper, similar ballots will be available for farmers' use through various county farm offices and business firms. It is our hope that as many tobacco growers as possible will indicate their preference in the straw vote. The greater the participation in the balloting, the more nearly the results of the vote will correctly reflect the feeling of Pitt County farmers toward the proposed acreage cut.

All ballots in the straw vote must be received not later than Saturday morning to be included in the final tabulation of figures which will be announced in Saturday's edition of The Reflector. Ballots clipped from the newspaper can be mailed to The Daily Reflector, box 408, Greenville.

We request and urge tobacco growers in Pitt County to participate in this straw vote which is being taken this week.

Don't Forget, A Bond Issue Is Still Possible

It must be at least a couple of months now since we heard members of Greenville's City Council mention anything about the proposed bond issue that attracted quite a bit of discussion last fall.

What ever happened to the proposed bond issue anyway?

Talk about the bond issue began last summer when the Council was ironing out the final items of the budget for the fiscal year which began last July 1. Action was deferred until after the new budget was officially adopted and put into operation. As we recall original discussions involved something like $40,000 in bonds for items which the Council couldn't get into the budget and still be within the anticipated revenue estimated for the year.

By the time the second round of bond issue discussions came up more items were slipping into the proposal and the total figure topped the $200,000 mark. Then there was another brief period in which the Council sort of let the matter slide for a while. The third round more than a month later found the tentative estimate of items which should be included in a bond issue hovered near the half million dollar mark.

Since then discussion of the proposed bond issue have quieted. The City Council still has the matter under study, but apparently the study is moving slowly while the primary emphasis is placed on finding a new city manager.

Circumstances have apparently forced the proposed bond issue into the background again, but it will indeed be a grave mistake if the work which would be made possible through the bond issue is postponed indefinitely.

The President's assertion that the government can stay in the black for the next 18 months only if Congress gives him the "utmost cooperation" in holding down spending and awaiting a more "prudent" time for tax cuts in itself gives rise to doubts of a balanced budget this year.

Regardless of partisan politics, however, the executive branch and Congress should make every effort to assure that federal government during the coming fiscal year will return to a balanced budget. Obviously there are items in the President's budget which can be trimmed without adversely affecting the nation's economy or its security program. Nevertheless, wholesale slashing of proposed appropriations for either foreign or domestic programs would without a doubt place the nation in an insecure position. From a financial standpoint, on the other hand, appreciable increases in appropriations which throw the budget out of balance would likewise be an unwise policy.

With the nation's economy at a record high it will be inexcusable if concrete efforts are not made to reduce the national debt. While it is highly doubtful that this can be done and at the same time a tax reduction put into effect, it must be realized that many members of Congress attach more importance to tax reduction than to a reduction of the national debt.

There is a suggestion that the President's estimate of revenues from the present tax structure is on the low side. This point, developed further, might give rise to intensified efforts to push through a tax reduction this year. Even so, it appears to us the nation will be better off to hold its present tax structure during the coming year, burdensome as it is, attempt to reduce federal expenditures wherever possible, and apply whatever surplus funds which result to further reducing the national debt.

Nebulous Thread Of Political Thought

By LYNN NISBET
WHO'S AHEAD? — The current situation in North Carolina government and politics has revived the question of whether the conservatives or the liberals are in the point has never been very clear, and it is perhaps more uncertain now than ever before.

One reason for the confusion is the historic difficulty in bracketing officials and party leaders. The terms conservative and liberal are misnomers, though commonly used for lack of better designation.

Only the most naive would identify the late Senator J.W. Bailey as a liberal in the commonly accepted meaning of the political term. Yet he challenged the entrenched Simmons machine to run for Governor in 1924 and defeated the head of that machine for the U. S. Senate in 1930, largely because he received support of the liberal voters in the primary.

In 1932 conservative Ehringhaus was nominated for Governor over liberal Fountain. In the same primary that sent "Our Bob" Reynolds, then rated a rank liberal, to the United States Senate over conservative Cameron Morrison. Came 1936 and conservative Clyde Hoey won the governorship over ultra liberal Ralph McDonald, but by such close margin that some liberals still think McDonald actually had the lead in the first primary.

Subsequent campaigns had some elements of the conservative-liberal rivalry, but next time the issue was clearly presented as in 1948 when liberal Kerr Scott won the governorship over conservative Charlie Johnson. Scott and his supporters heralded that victory as a political revolution and figured the liberals had taken over. The Graham-Smith Senate race in 1950 proved how wrong they were, and the Olive-UMstead campaign in 1952 added evidence that neither faction could claim continued dominance, and the Lennon-Scott race for the Senate in 1954 furnished conclusive proof.

CONFUSING — Further confusion as to propriety of definition was provided when the 1951 Legislature appropriated some $30 million more than the "liberal" Governor Scott had recommended and when "conservative" Governor UMstead outvoted Scott in his recommendations to the 1953 General Assembly, which were in the main adopted by the Legislature and approved by the people.

The budget prepared under direction of Governor UMstead for the 1955 Legislature called for more spending and more new taxes than had ever been proposed in North Carolina. Although subsequently reduced under leadership of Governor Hooper, the 1955-57 budget as finally enacted called for increased spending and taxes above any previous record.

It is understandable that the average citizen should have difficulty in determining who is a liberal and who is a conservative. It is understandable, too, and fairly obvious that the average citizen doesn't care much about these fictitious definitions and brackets. Whether the political lexiconographer defines him as conservative or liberal bothers the average citizen not at all, so long as he can get what he wants from government and what he feels he is able to pay for.

This average citizen of North Carolina through expression of composite will at the ballot box and the tax collector's office has demonstrated amazing capacity to maintain a fair balance. He has ignored with equal nonchalance the warnings of ultra-conservatives that he was taxing himself into ruin, and promise of idealistic liberals that he could tax himself into Utopia.

There is no evidence that Mr. Average Citizen in 1956 will change that traditional policy, although he may have more difficulty in reconciling some elements of the tradition.

GOVERNOR — The Governor rather than a United States Senator is considered the top man in government and in his party organization. Although with a background of big business, Governor Hodges came into political prominence without definite label, although with large support of the liberal element. While he was still Lieutenant Governor there was belief he would run for the No. 1 office as straight out liberal. Later it developed that if anyone entered the race against him the opposition would come from the liberal faction. It appears now very unlikely he will have opposition.

As soon as Atulizo Edwards announced his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor there were heard complaints he is too liberal and the conservatives are impatient.

Edwin Pate of Laurinburg to run for the second place office as straight out liberal. Yet Pate, the conservative in banking and diversified interests, is the man who put the State of North Carolina into the socialist (or self-insurance business party) camp. Edwards served two years ago and Edwards served on the State Board of Education and on the board of conservative Governor Gregg Cherry.

It is apparent that the dividing line between conservative and liberal is as nebulous and uncertain as the division between east and west, with only a small percentage of the people clearly belonging in either bracket.

Other Editors Are Saying ... Putting In Long Hours?

Amhaston (A1-) Star
A survey of 1,000 of larger businesses in France is said to have established that a majority of them start work by eight o'clock in the morning and work 10 hours or more a day. Many work six days a week; some start as early as six a.m., and a significant minority of those polled reported that they worked on Sundays.

Such a study in this country no doubt would yield similar data and in point of fact, the individual is much more likely to get ahead, whatever his milieu, if he is willing to give to the task a hand more of his effort than is typical of the clock-watcher.

It does not follow, however, that commendation is in order in every instance of long hours on the job. For instance, Frenchmen are famous for the lengths to which they will go to evade taxes, and while national production doubtless accounts for extra hours of labor on the part of many "successful" French businessmen.

Indeed, in what a Latin executive had to say recently regarding his overseas dealings, there might even be a lesson for U.S. executives.

But if his letter were addressed to a West German executive, the chances are that within 24 hours after receiving it, the company would arrange for members of its sales organization to call on the potential customer. The salesman likely would arrive on the spot, not only with samples to be examined, but also with purchase contracts under which goods might be bought on credit.

The so-called "miracle" of West Germany's industrial resurgence is, after all, nothing more than an object lesson proving anew that resourcefulness, energy and imagination can be made to show profits.

A Very Hard Man To Please

It pays to advertise! Just last week, in a moment of desperation, I mentioned in a column that perhaps 1956, being leap year, might result in my being chosen as the husband of some charming lass. And, lo and behold, what should follow in the mail but several enticing offers, parts of which are:

Number One—"My dearest Bobbie, these roses are only a shadow of the way my heart felt when I read your advertisement in last night's paper. (Oh, goody!) you may not look like a movie star but I could over look that. And MY bank account will take care of us both and maybe an addition later on."

Number Two—"I go home wild crazy every now and then, at Leap Year. (That's obvious.) But these 30-odd years—Heavens, a spinsters—still find me man-hunting."

Number Three—"I have a very sweet disposition, personality plus. I'm very well built, healthy and sound of mind. (Himm—sounds good.) You may contact me at telephone 4013. Don't keep me waiting, sugarlump!"

Letter Number Three was erroneously addressed to Alvin Taylor, who, along with Jack Whitchard and myself makes the bachelor brethren at The Reflector.

"I am a dirty blond, and about five feet and three hands high. (Sounds kinda horsey.) Well you spoke of money in the ad(d) well don't feel bad who wants to be a millionaire, it would be O.K. just to live like one and speaking of intelligent I'm a brain. (Sounds like it) And that, at this writing, takes care of the fan mail."

Still, it would be nice to have pictures of the young ladies in question but any such things are sure looking up for us bachelors.

Well you spoke of money in the ad(d) well don't feel bad who wants to be a millionaire, it would be O.K. just to live like one and speaking of intelligent I'm a brain. ## Chance To Increase Your Debts

By ELMER ROESSNER
Consumers have more unpaid bills and face more installment payments than ever before. Some authorities in and out of government are so worried about the total that they believe controls are in order.

Nevertheless, you as a consumer will be offered more opportunities to say "Charge it!" or to make installment payments than ever before. If you've had a charge account any time since the last war the chances are that in the next few months you'll get an invitation to come in and use it again. If you've bought anything on installment in the last 10 years you'll get tempting offers to come in and buy something else. And if you're nearing the end of a series of payments or if you owe just a few dollars on a current account, the blandishments to add on another purchase will be almost irresistible.

MORE CREDIT, MORE CARE
If you are an average consumer, terms may be slightly different from last year. You may be asked to make a little longer down payment; you may be asked to pay up over a shorter period. But if you own property or have a good record of pay, a bill you may get as easy terms as you did last year—or perhaps even easier ones.

The chances are that you'll pay a little more for credit, either in interest, credit charges, or higher prices. That's because the Federal Reserve Board, in raising the rediscount rate, has raised the rate of all lendin money.

In any event, you'll get more offers of credit buying than ever before. One of the largest variety chains is launching a credit plan to sell its higher price items. (Remember when they used to advertise, "Nothing over 10 cents!") It's a coupon plan permitting customers to buy up to $100 worth of credit. The head of a New York buying office, is advising retailers to offer teen-agers their own credit. At last week's convention of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, David Braunstein, who is launching a credit plan, was speaking of intelligent I'm a brain. (Sounds like it) And that, at this writing, takes care of the fan mail.

Seizure Of Jurisdiction By High Court

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court's unprecedented seizure of jurisdiction over the judicial and prosecuting processes in several counties and state cases has alarmed and evoked bitter denunciation from Southern members of Congress. They suspect that the tribunal is preparing the way to try to enforce its edict against segregation in public schools and parks.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., has mobilized his agency in the maneuver, including J. Edgar Hoover's Federal Bureau of Investigation. Under Brownell's orders, FBI agents are investigating the method of selecting jurors in Cobb County, Ga. Brownell acted after the Supreme Court had reversed the death sentence conviction of a Negro, partly because no colored people served on the Grand Jury panel or the trial jury.

Four Georgia members, all of whom have served as county prosecuting attorneys, denounce both actions as "unwarranted interference on the flimsiest of grounds." They charge that the grounds amount to an attempt to appease the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which complains that the Administration makes no effort to carry out the 20-month-old anti-segregation decision.

NEW CONCERN OF SUPREME COURT in less publicized cases, the Supreme Court has shown new concern over the judicial conduct and procedure of county and state policemen and judges. It is extending the Federal arm into faraway and questionable fields, in the opinion of many legislators, lawyers and jurists.

In a nine-year-old case, Chief Justice Earl Warren's court ordered the general of Stephen J. Herman, Herman was convicted in 1946 on 30 counts of burglary, larceny, forgery and false pretense in Pennsylvania, and given a ten-year sentence.

DEFENDANTS SOUGHT FEDERAL RELIEF On the ground that Herman had been beaten up by police and not informed of his right to counsel, the Supreme Court ordered a court hearing of Herman's allegations. He was released, if he can convince the county court at this late date of the truth of his charges.

In a Seattle case the Supreme Court upheld a Federal Circuit Court of Appeals order for a hearing of another defendant's charges of police brutality in order to obtain a murder confession.

Both defendants sought Federal relief after they had vainly exhausted all remedies in state courts in delivering his opinion on the Herman matter, Justice Hugo Black announced that the Supreme Court would follow the same procedure in all complaints of this kind.

ASSUMPTION IN PAST In the past acting on the assumption that county and state officials were closer to and more familiar with the facts, the high tribunal has generally refused to intervene in these cases.

In view of the nine-year lapse in the Herman affair, for instance it may be impossible to round up witnesses and police involved in his arrest and trial, especially as he was indicted on 30 counts of four different crimes.

But this detailed checkup and policing of local courts by the Federal government, with the readiness of seeking hands, land, and the opinion of many Congressmen, judges, lawyers and editors in sensitive areas.

It may be the weapon which the Administration will employ against counties and states now engaged in seeking methods to invalidate the Supreme Court's segregation fiat. It also promises to plunge the judiciary, Federal, State and local, deep into political controversies on a national scale.

Fountain News

The Fountain P.T.A. held its January meeting Thursday night, Jan. 12, in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. Carter G. Smith, presiding. Mrs. Smith gave the devotional which was followed by prayer by Rev. Philip M. Cory.

Mrs. Smith introduced the guest speaker, Dr. E. E. Trevaan Jr., of Greenville, who is representing the Pitt County Mental Health Association. He gave a very interesting and informative talk on "Character Building, Mental Health and Children."

At the roll call by the grades, Mr. Arthur Alford's 7th grade room won the attendance prize.

After a brief business session the meeting adjourned.

Recently the students of Fountain School sold garden seeds, the proceeds to be used for the March of Dimes, and last week they went from house to house soliciting for this cause.

Circle No. 2 of Fountain Presbyterian Church met in the home of Mrs. R. L. Eeple Tuesday night of last week with six members present.

Circle chairman Mrs. E. C. Newton was in charge of the program and gave the devotional from Genesis, using six references. Mrs. Ben H. Owens presented an article "Being Christians in Attitudes and Actions."

At the conclusion of the program the hostess, Mrs. Peele, served refreshments.

Monday night of last week at the regular monthly meeting the leaders of the Young People's group of Fountain Presbyterian Church gave a party in the church Fellowship Hall. Games were enjoyed.

Mrs. C. L. Owens and Mrs. J. A. Mercer, hostesses for the month, served refreshments.

TV Network Brass Is Stuck On 8 P.M. Spot

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—The high commands of the television networks long have had a fixed idea that what happens on their respective channels at 8 o'clock of a New York evening determines their strength.

This is an old notion that began in radio and has carried over to television. As Variety, the show business journal, points out, it's currently providing all the inter-network excitement these days. You know the hot spots: Ed Sullivan on CBS Sunday evenings vs. whatever NBC throws against him; Perry Como on NBC Saturday evenings vs. Jackie Gleason on CBS. And so it goes.

Well, I have a couple of questions. To me the whole issue is an interesting example of categorical or rigid mortis—thinking. Maybe I should be selling apples.

At any rate, my first question is: 8 o'clock where? The networks' answer is 8 o'clock in the East and 8 o'clock on the West Coast—via Kinescope. This, at least, is the method employed on several

Interest Runs High In Algebra Projects

By JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON
 Ayden High School

Many of the students in algebra II were seen working in the East Carolina library, Thursday afternoon. They were searching for information about algebra terms, designs including curves, and other information about quadratics. The algebra projects are due today.

Horton Jolly and Ike Baldee are building a suspension bridge showing the catenary curve and the parabola. Bobby Gagnon and Sonny Harrington are making an exhibit showing the designs formed by a swinging pendulum; and other members of the class are planning interesting and informative books, posters, and drawings.

The Beta club met in regular session on Friday, with Kay Braxton presiding. Plans were made for making money for the club treasury.

The Beta club is responsible for the bulletin boards in the downstairs and upstairs halls. The president appointed Tommy Manning and Anne Yorks to help her keep these bulletin boards attractive and up to date during the month of February.

Brownie Harrington, secretary of the local Beta club, was chosen as Ayden's candidate to run for the office of district president. The district officers will be elected at a meeting to be held in Bethel in the spring.

Thursday night a quartet composed of Bonny Rutledge, soprano; Anne Yorks, alto; Herb Little, tenor; and Tommy Edwards, bass, entertained at the Redmen's ladies night with four selections. They were accompanied by their director, Mrs. Rosa Jones Little.

The Ayden High School band under the direction of George Starling, has begun practicing the selections that will be used for the annual spring concert. He urges all band members to be present for every practice on Fridays from 3:30 to 4:30.

The material for the AHS annual, "The Wheel," has been completed and sent to the publisher. The annual staff is composed of: editor-in-chief, Connie Lou Dunn; assistant editor-in-chief, Henrietta Taylor; business manager, Delano Wilson; assistant business manager, Margaret Nichols; literary editor, Carol Lynn Johnson; assistant literary editors, Kay Braxton and Anne Yorks; sports editor, Bobby Johnson; assistant sports editors, Lindsey Dunn and Horton Jolly; art editor, Lorenzo Allen; and assistant art editor, Glenn Bowen. They have worked long hours preparing this annual.

Mrs. Nancy Singleton's French II class is working on projects depicting the story of "Sans Famille," which they have been translating.

At the FHA meeting last week, Mrs. O. C. Stroud talked to the girls about "Making a House a Home." Mrs. Stroud challenged the members to place their club creed and purposes into their everyday lives, and not in a frame on the wall. She insisted that if the youth of today can build homes where love, peace, security and happiness prevail, then the future can be one of peace and security.

The date of the state FHA meeting to be held in Raleigh at the Municipal auditorium was announced for Saturday, April 7. At that time Jeannette Worthington, state FHA vice president, will be installed as state president. More than 3,000 delegates, sponsors, chapter mothers, advisors, supervisors, and friends are expected to attend.

The FFA also held its regular meeting last week. S. F. Peterson, the advisor, spoke briefly concerning the essay contest sponsored by the National Future Farmers of America. The subject this year is: "How Our Farm Surplus Can Win the Battle for World Peace." The winner in the local FFA will receive a medal and have an opportunity to participate in a county contest. The FFA boys would like to announce that they are taking orders for fruit trees. If you will be needing some, contact any FFA member or Mr. Peterson. The department also has for sale registered pigs of almost any breed.

Last Thursday the students at AHS enjoyed an educational show given by a couple who have lived for a time in Scotland. They took us on a short journey through that country with songs and dances. They were dressed in authentic costumes. We enjoyed hearing him play the bagpipe and the fiddle. The highland fling was perhaps the most unusual part of the performance.

At the pep rally last Wednesday, the cheerleaders, Connie Lou Dunn, chief; Betty Craft, Ann McGlohon, Jo Anne Williams, Brenda Davis, Betty Lou Cannon, and Kay Braxton, led the student body in some snappy yells. The girls are working hard to help our teams keep that fighting spirit so necessary for success.

Francine Cannon, an attractive sophomore, was announced Citizen of the Week.

Late Thursday night some of the Ayden teenagers—Carol Faye Harper, Betty Lou Ross, Margaret Wooten, Lou Ella Tripp, Betty Lou Cannon, Bobby Johnson, and Lathen Dennis—went to a late horror movie and stage show. They wanted to prove that they are not superstitious and could not be frightened even on the eve and the early morning hours of Friday the 13th.

Goodness, the marking period ends on Wednesday! Here's hoping everyone will be proud of the records made during the first half of this school year.

Marshall Tripp, a member of the graduating class of '56, is home on furlough. It's good to have you home, Marshall!

Court To Decide On Who's Mayor

RUTHERFORDTON, N. C. (AP)—The Rutherford Superior Court will get the job Monday of deciding who is the rightful mayor of Lake Lure.

Larry M. Pearson Jr. holds the job now, but J. Paul Wilson maintains he was elected to the post last May. A number of votes in the municipal election are in dispute.

Judge Zeb V. Nettles appointed attorney J. Paul Story of Marion to act as referee in the case.

Could Have Been Airplane Theft

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A fugitive from Illinois charged with three car thefts told police it could have been "airplane theft."

Charles Schultz, 18, of Galeburg, Ill., told officers after his capture yesterday he and a man he knew only as "Bill" escaped Wednesday from the Vandavia Penal Farm.

He said each of them tried to take a plane from a small airport near the penal farm but couldn't start them.

Instead, he said, they made their way to Kentucky in stolen cars.

Pitt Tax Rates 14th Lowest In Counties Of N. C.

Figures released yesterday by Tax Supervisor Harold Alford show Pitt as having the 14th lowest tax rate in the state. In other words, 86 other counties out of North Carolina's 100 demand a higher tax payment from their citizens than does Pitt.

These figures, Alford said, are part of a compilation made by the North Carolina Research Institute of Raleigh. Davie County, the report shows, has the lowest tax rate in the state while Pamlico, which charges $2.20 on each $100 of evaluation, has the highest. Pitt's rate is but 90 cents per $100.

The average payment made in county taxes by a Pitt citizen is $9.99 and latest figures show total revenue for the county to have been $637,376 yearly.

And the county is growing all the time. Pitt citizens, an estimated 38,174 white and 29,695 Negro in 1954, had 14,733 lots as of 1955 as compared with 7,111 in 1937.

These lots include both vacant ones and those occupied by structures.

An increase has been noted too, in farm land. Only 379,679 acres were listed in 1937 but more than 597,000 in 1955.

Motor vehicles however, have shown probably the greatest increase of all.

In 1937 only 6324 were registered in Pitt County. The figure jumped to 10,028 in 1952 and last year had skyrocketed to an all-time high of 18,895 registrations.

Decides In Favor Of Ex-Wrestler

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Marie Streb said she didn't mind being knocked down, she's used to that, but when her husband kicked her.

The 3-foot-8 husband of the 4-foot-10 Marie, who was once known around the professional wrestling circuit as "Gypsy Lee," denied he floored her or kicked her. Just a case of mistaken identity, said he.

But Magistrate Simon Schofield gave the decision to the slender 37-year-old brunette. He fined Streb $25.

Mrs. Streb made her last wrestling appearance in July 1954, in Boston.

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Writer Greenville high school puts its undefeated Northeastern conference record on the line tonight as the Green Phantoms play host to a squad of Roanoke Rapids cagers in the GHS gymnasium.

Chocowinity led at halftime by two points, 32-30, and at the end of the third quarter the margin was still the same, 46-44.

Mack Roebuck, a sophomore, and Charles Smith occasionally fill in at guard and forward slots and Joe Wingate is the No. 2 center in the Phantom fold.

Top man in the Greenville camp in the point-making department is senior veteran Ike Riddick. The 6-foot guard is the most constant high-scorer on the squad.

New Little League Set-Up For State

RALEIGH — Plans were mapped here last night for the formation of an independent Little League Baseball League.

A steering committee, headed by Bill White of Greensboro, was drawn up bylay's and a constitution. The group plans to meet here Saturday.

Cities and towns represented last night included Greensboro, Durham, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Jacksonville and Kinston.

White said the league will be modeled after the national organization. Boys between 9 and 12 years of age will be eligible for membership.

Cullowhee Cats Top ECC 73-68

CULLOWHEE — Western Carolina's "jinx" on East Carolina paid off again here Monday night as the Catamounts handed the Pirates their first North State Conference loss, 73-68.

It was WCC's third victory in four years over the Pirates and the third time in four years that WCC has handed East Carolina its first loop defeat.

The loss, No. 1 against eight straight conference wins, doesn't drop ECC from the lead in the conference but enables Elon and ACC to get within challenging distance.

The victory was the third straight within the league for the Cats, who now own a 3-2 conference mark and a 9-6 over-all. ECC's over-all record is 11-8.

East Carolina held only one lead in the ball game, 38-37 with 13 minutes left in the second half. Western Carolina quickly caught up and went out front, 61-45 with 10 minutes left.

With Don Harris and J. C. Thomas hitting, ECC got it down to 63-60 but just couldn't catch up.

East Carolina played without the services of guard Freddie James, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Lenior Rhyme game Saturday.

The home team threw up one of the most effective zone defenses the Pirates had encountered all season.

Center Bill Bowen paced the Catamounts with a 21-point performance. Freshman guard Harris Pryor added 15, 11 of which came on free throws.

Thomas, the Bucs' captain, paced the losers with 17 points. Don Harris and Guy Mendenhall added 16 and 15, respectively.

The Pirates were to arrive home this afternoon and make preparations for McCrary's Eagles in Greenville Thursday night. This will be a non-conference game.

MONDAY NIGHT'S FIGHTS By The Associated Press NEW YORK—John L. Sullivan, 163 3-4, England, outpointed Tony Johnson, 172 3-4, New York, 10.

NEW ORLEANS — Charley Jobb, 152 4, New Orleans, stopped Moses Ward, 162 4, Detroit, 6. SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Irish Wayne Cooke, 128 5, Los Angeles, stopped Baby Comacho 127 5, Mexico City, 1.

Lucy Mark of Sugg and C. Carney led the respective teams with 11 points each. Bethel's boys took Sugg boys in the nightcap, however, 40-29. Bethel controlled the boards and led at halftime, 25-8.

Bennie Harris of Sugg had 14 points and Clemon Hyman led Bethel with 19 points. The Sugg Lions meet Speight High in a non-conference game Thursday night. And on Monday night Sugg will meet a team comprised of former faculty members.

Chocowinity And Chicod Split Bill

Patsy Mills and Hazel Wilson led the Chicod girls to a 72-63 conference win over the visiting Chocowinity girls' sextet last night by dumping in 34 and 35 points respectively.

Chocowinity led at halftime by two points, 32-30, and at the end of the third quarter the margin was still the same, 46-44.

Porter Can Boast Of Outstanding Record

It's the halfway turn in North State Conference basketball and East Carolina has strode lengths ahead . . . where it is likely to stay, barring a total collapse. You'll have to give a lot credit to the players, natch, but without Howard Porter's astute handling the picture wouldn't be the same.

The wise Missourian, coaching in his tenth year here, can boast of one of the finest cage records in the books. Over the past nine seasons, Porter's teams have averaged winning 70 per cent of their games and during the last four seasons have compiled 43 straight home victories.

As for as we know, there isn't a record comparable to the latter anywhere in the country. One of the next longest strings—22—was snapped Saturday night in History. By whom? The Pirates, of course, who beat Lenior Rhyne. East Carolina also was the last team to beat the Bears before the string was instituted.

Incidentally, the Lenior Rhyne game could have proved costly to the Bucs despite the victory. Fred James, spunky little guard, went out in the second half with a dislocated shoulder. If James is lost for several weeks it'll cut down on the Pirates' speed—a rudiment they badly need in lieu of outstanding height.

Of course Porter is proud of his teams, although he may at times appear indifferent. His every concern is the team and the benefits the players get out of the game. Traveling with the club gives you the inside story of player-coach relationships . . . and they couldn't be better on the East Carolina team.

But recalling records once more, Porter's teams have never finished below fifth place during the regular season, and have done that only twice. For the past four years his teams have posted 3-1-1-3 finishes and that is just about as good a record as could be expected of any school or coach.

Bucs Still Have To Face Gritty Bulldogs

Right now it looks like only Elon will contest the Bucs for the No. 1 seeded come tournament time. Elon, however, was murdered by the Bucs in Greenville, 105-69, and that takes some of the polish off the duel. East Carolina has to play the Christians in Burlington, though, and Coach Doc Mathis' boys will be laying for the league-leaders.

Porter and his charges won't breath easily until another couple games we know are in the books. The vibrant ACC fueds are upcoming and when these two ancient antagonists get together the fur flies. ACC home game will be played in Rocky Mount's 2500-capacity gym this season, affording more ECC students a chance to watch.

Western Carolina proved the jinx again last night. The Catamounts tipped the Bucs for their first conference defeat of the season. This same thing occurred two years ago. East Carolina carried a six-game winning streak to the Cullowhee mountains and came back with its first blemish.

How do they do it? There are several possible explanations. The long road trip which amounts to about 800 miles by car isn't exactly the ideal warm-up to a big game and the Catamounts court, not near standard, adds perplexity. Besides, a home team has about a 12-point psychological advantage on a visitor.

East Carolina has one game this week, with the powerful independents, the McCrary Eagles. These are the same Eagles who whipped Elon and Lenior Rhyne. The locals' 43 home court skein will get one of its most severe tests.

ACC Swimming Title At Stake

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference swimming title will be at stake here tonight when the undefeated teams of North Carolina State and North Carolina meet in Bowman-Gray indoor pool.

N. C. State has been ACC champion since the conference was formed, but it will find stiff opposition tonight. The Tar Heels are led by All Americas Charlie Krepp and Dick Baker.

All of the conference swimming records are held by these two schools.

Ted Williams To Train With Sox

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—The Newark Star-Ledger quotes Ted Williams as saying he'll be in spring training with the Boston Red Sox.

Under a contract, Williams, Nelson Benedict, the newspaper's fishing and hunting editor wrote last night.

"When asked about his intention, insofar as 1956 baseball was concerned, Williams laughed and said: 'Right now you can bet I'll play because I need the money.'"

Haik is cloth, usually of coarse hand-woven wool, worn by Arabs, Moors and other Mohammedian peoples.

G-Men Will Rely On Usual Running Game

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville high school puts its undefeated Northeastern conference record on the line tonight as the Green Phantoms play host to a squad of Roanoke Rapids cagers in the GHS gymnasium. A junior varsity ball game will get action underway at 6:30 and the main event will begin at 8 o'clock.

The G-Men's undefeated loop slate consists of wins over New Bern, Washington and Elizabeth City, all three by impressive margins. In over-all action, the Big Green have also taken triumphs over Clinton and Goldsboro (AAA power) and have added another victory over the New Bern club. Coach Bo Farley's boys have suffered defeats at the hands of two AAA teams, Rocky Mount and Goldsboro, and an 8-point loss to the East Carolina College freshmen.

Phantom Tactics
Concerning tonight's contest, Coach Farley has stated, "We don't know anything about the Roanoke Rapids boys, what kind of ball they play, or what individual stars they may have." The veteran Greenville mentor plans to send his team onto the court with the same general tactics that have brought them success thus far.

Their game will be the celebrated Phantom running game, a fast-break style of play, led by the passes of Ray Hardee and Jerry Drum and the shooting of Harold Edwards, Ike Riddick and Billy Johnson. Drum, Hardee and Riddick are the leading floormen on the Phantom aggregation, however, each one is capable of hitting the double brackets as a scorer. Edwards and Johnson are the tallest men on the squad and are the most frequent rebounding aces.

Capable reserves add to the strength of the local team. Tommy Key Norris, a clever floorman, is perhaps the top reserve in Coach Farley's bag of tricks. The scrappy senior alternates with Drum at a guard post and has shared starting duties with him throughout the season.

Constant Scorer
Top man in the Greenville camp in the point-making department is senior veteran Ike Riddick. The 6-foot guard is the most constant high-scorer on the squad, and has not failed to blast his way into the double scoring columns in every single game this year. In nine battles, the push-shot artist has compiled totals of 25, 28, 22, 20, 19, 15, 21, 13 and 12. He is currently averaging 20 points per contest.

A two-year veteran of the Green varsity, Riddick has perfected a difficult one-hand push shot from about 30 feet out that has made him a threat to every Phantom foe. Against the ECC freshmen last week, he pumped in 22 points from outside, while the collectionists were busy keeping the inside well-guarded. Riddick and Harold Edwards,

New Little League Set-Up For State

RALEIGH (AP)—Plans were mapped here last night for the formation of an independent Little League Baseball League.

A steering committee, headed by Bill White of Greensboro, was named to draw up bylaws and a constitution. The group plans to meet here Saturday. The league is being formed by members who have withdrawn from the national Little League organization.

Cities and towns represented last night included Greensboro, Durham, Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Jacksonville and Kinston. An invitation will be extended to cities throughout the state to enter the league.

White said the league will be modeled after the national organization. Boys between 9 and 12 years of age will be eligible for membership. The organization plans to work closely with the North Carolina Recreation Society. White said the statewide organization is being set up because of differences in policy with the national Little League. These, he explained, included having the season end in mid-July and prohibiting night ball. The season, White said, should be longer and not confined to daytime.

Others on the steering committee include Tom Hines and Sam Howard, Raleigh; Nick Warren, Durham; Ed Turnley, Rocky Mount; Joe Morgan, Jacksonville; Tracy Hart, Kinston; and J. W. Emmett, Gastonia.

White said Wilmington, Sanford, Hidsville and Canton are other cities which will be in the league. Play will be at the state level with a state champion. White said a Negro division will be formed if enough interest is shown.

Below are the schedules of the boys midget and mite leagues:

Cullowhee Cats Top ECC 73-68

CULLOWHEE — Western Carolina's "jinx" on East Carolina paid off again here Monday night as the Catamounts handed the Pirates their first North State Conference loss, 73-68.

It was WCC's third victory in four years over the Pirates and the third time in four years that WCC has handed East Carolina its first loop defeat.

The loss, No. 1 against eight straight conference wins, doesn't drop ECC from the lead in the conference but enables Elon and ACC to get within challenging distance.

3rd Straight
The victory was the third straight within the league for the Cats, who now own a 3-2 conference mark and a 9-6 over-all. ECC's over-all record is 11-3.

East Carolina held only one lead in the ball game, 38-37 with 18 minutes left in the second half. Western Carolina quickly caught up and went out front, 61-45 with 10 minutes left.

With Don Harris and J. C. Thomas hitting, ECC got it down to 63-60 but just couldn't catch up.

James Out
East Carolina played without the services of guard Freddie James, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Lenior Rhyne game Saturday. Maurice Everette started in his place.

The home team threw up one of the most effective some defenses the Pirates had encountered all season. They jammed the middle and without James to hit from the outside ECC's offense was ineffective.

Center Bill Bowen paced the Catamounts with a 21-point performance. Freshman guard Harris Pryor added 15, 11 of which came on free throws.

Thomas, the Bucs' captain, paced the losers with 17 points. Don Harris and Guy Mendenhall added 16 and 15, respectively.

The Pirates were to arrive home this afternoon and make preparations for McCrary's Eagles in Greenville Thursday night. This will be a non-conference game.

MONDAY NIGHT'S FIGHTS

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"I did love Si. So much! I thought there never could be another man—but oh, Alan there is! I am in love again, completely, entirely!" Margaret's whole person—her glowing eyes, her eager lips, her trembling intensity—testified to her new love.

"Put Si's ring aside," said her brother sternly. "Put it in your box at the bank, and give it to Ann when she's eighteen; or to one of the boys if he picks the right girl."

"Yes!" said Margaret. "That's a good idea. Oh, Alan—do you think I'm terribly silly?"

"I don't think you're silly at all." "I'm thirty-eight."

He laughed. "You're a sweet, warm woman. At any age there's nothing finer on earth."

He rose, came to her and kissed her "I love you, little sister," he said quietly, "because you are a full woman. It was a lucky man to have had you and the children you gave him."

She clung to his shoulder. "Oh, Alan," she blurted, "I wish that you and Linda..."

He straightened, his dark face stern. "I wish so, too, Margaret. But as much as we want children, Linda is dead wrong in thinking our marriage is a failure because we haven't had them."

"Is that the trouble between you?" asked Margaret her eyes round. "Ma'am says..."

"It's a matter between Linda and me."

"Yes, of course, Alan."

"She puts it to me in a way that I can't argue. She asks if I want children. Of course I say 'Yes.' Then she says she wants them, too—and if after ten years, it seems that we'll not have them..."

He snatched his hat, and slapped it against his thigh.

"She's dead wrong, Margaret! A man loves a woman, and he wants her in his arms—children, yes, if you are so blessed. But for herself, too, if you are not. Doesn't Linda know that?"

"You could tell her."

"I signed. 'I don't seem able to talk to her any more—about anything.'"

"Of course you can talk to her, dear. She's probably waiting for you to do just that."

He smiled wryly, and shook his head. "I hope you're right," he said. "Good night, dear."

He got into his car drove up the hill and sat thoughtfully there for a minute before getting out. He was deeply troubled. He should have talked to Margaret about Fern, but he'd not been able to bring himself to dim her rosy glow. Now, certainly, whatever else he could discuss with Linda, he must talk to her about Fern. Of course, he was also going to try to argue with her about her "conviction." If all that troubled Linda was the fact that she had given him no child, that trouble could be argued out of existence. And if there was something else...

When, at eight the old folks rose to go to their rooms, Rupert Ernst gave every indication of an early departure. After they were gone, he stood before the fireplace, smoking, as if he waited only to put the end of his cigar into the ashes and then say good night.

But, instead, he turned and came over to where Linda sat in the corner of the settee and seated himself beside her, very close. She shifted imperceptibly, but there was no room to move far. She could get up and go over to a chair, but that would seem an awkward and rude thing to do.

She felt her cheeks getting hot, and was angry at herself. Men had always admired Linda, and shown it. Other men showed admiration in their eyes and in their voices, but Rupert's black eyes, clinging to her face, her throat, her bosom—the tone of his voice softening, throbbing, said that he worshiped this woman! Let's see, now...

What was he saying?

"Oh, yes! That she was a wonderful person."

"I sense your feeling of obligation to this family, but I also see you being trapped by their increasing demands upon you. You feel that your duty lies in this home, in this small town—that is why I say you are trapped and urge you to free yourself. Now, don't say that you like doing all the things you do. I sense nothing of the dry and selfless martyr in you, my dear Linda."

"It isn't that..."

"Listen!" He turned a little so that his knee pressed against hers and he took both of her hands in his. Light from the lamp behind them glittered in his black eyes.

"Do you ever do anything because survey your situation."

"But aren't all people slaves, in that sense? Aren't we all bound by love?"

"It is a matter of degree, my darling. I love and admire you for your unselfish sense of duty—but I love you even more than that, and so I urge you to rescue yourself before that self becomes completely smothered. Be yourself, Linda! Assert yourself! You have that obligation too. Don't you?"

She put her hand to her cheeks, and regarded him with wide, dark eyes.

"That right to individuality is your democratic ideal, isn't it, Linda? Each man free, equal to another man, slave to none?"

"It sounds right," she said uncertainly.

"It is right! That is why I urge you to free yourself from this house, from this family—from the tyranny of this small-town aristocracy! Be yourself, my darling Linda! Your fine, your beautiful self!"

She would have laughed again, but with a swiftly arched gesture, she found herself gathered up into Rupert's arms, his mouth hard upon hers, his embrace...

And—for the briefest of seconds—she responded.

In that same brief second, Alan came in through the back door, as was his practice when coming home late at night.

He saw that lights still burned in the small parlor, and took a step that way, another—and stopped.

Against the room's pale wall was a shadow, cast by the lamp behind the settee. It showed the sharply etched silhouette of a man and a woman embracing, kissing.

He stood there, unable to move. The embracing figures parted, and, at that same instant, Seretha's hand fell upon his elbow. He turned to his mother and moved, forcing her backward in the direction of her room. She resisted, her old eyes fierce and accusing.

"Do something!" she hissed at him. He put his hand over her mouth, and led her, still unwilling, to her own door and into her room. Then, and only then, he freed her.

She stood outraged, breathing hard. She was in dressing gown and slippers her white hair in a braid. Her gray eyes were both hard and hot. "Aren't you going to do anything to them?" she gasped.

A very weary man he leaned against the door which he had closed. "What could I say? What could I do?"

"Almost anything to stop that scandal!"

"I'm afraid I am, my dear. You see I come in with fresh eyes, and

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Steels and Motors were active and higher today in a stock market that made moderate progress.

Those two major divisions were under selling fire yesterday when the market suffered some sharp reversals.

Gains today went to between 1 and 2 points in the more favored areas while losses usually were fractional.

Trading activity was fairly well localized and the pace was around two million shares for the day. That compares with 2,260,000 shares traded in yesterday's market.

Both General Motors and Chrysler were heavily traded at times as gains running to between 1 and 2 points.

The greatest interest in the motor line today, however, was in Ford with 10,200,000 shares offered for sale at $64 1/2 a share. The stock will be traded over the counter until it moves to the New York Stock Exchange around March 1.

Steels and motors yesterday were weak in a generally declining stock market. This situation persisted despite announcements of a three-billion-dollar expansion program in the steel industry in the next three years and the spending of a billion dollars by General Motors next year on expansion.

The selling spree itself before the close, however, and that better feeling was in evidence today at the opening when prices moved up.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead 60 cents at $176.80. Yesterday the average lost $2.10.

Pilot Stricken While In Flight

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—The second airplane pilot to suffer a fatal heart attack while in flight in Virginia in a week died upon reaching the hospital here last night.

He was Lacy L. Sutton, 36, of Norfolk, piloting a Piedmont Airlines DC3 from Norfolk to Cincinnati, who became ill between Lynchburg and Roanoke. He took off from Roanoke but almost immediately complained of sharp pains in his chest and requested permission of the tower to return to the field.

After landing and taxiing to the loading ramp, he was driven to a hospital but dropped dead in the emergency ward.

Last Thursday Lt. J. Lawrence John Logan, 40, copiloting a four-engine Navy transport from Key West, Fla., to Norfolk, suffered a heart attack en route, and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Norfolk Naval Air Station dispensary.

Sutton apparently died of acute coronary thrombosis, according to Dr. Charles Irvin, Roanoke medical examiner.

The Norfolk to Cincinnati flight was held up while Piedmont flew another captain here from Winston-Salem, N.C.

Sutton had been with Piedmont seven years and during World War II was in the Air Force.

Surviving are his widow and a 14-year-old daughter. Lt. J. Logan was survived by his widow and a 14-year-old son.

Unhurt As Airliner Suffered Accident

L. Ed Tyler, Greenville businessman, returned here safely yesterday after landing in a commercial airplane on a mountain side in West Virginia about 6:30 Sunday evening.

Tyler was on an Eastern Airlines plane, Flight 175, from Chicago to Greensboro, that attempted to land on a one-runway airfield at Huntington, West Virginia. When the plane tried to land in a blinding snowstorm, one wheel touched ground and smashed and the big plane swerved and appeared to be headed for a cliff.

The pilot reversed his props twice when he saw he would overshoot the runway to avoid going over the hill and the propellers flew off. The plane "belled" to a stop about 150 feet down the top of a hill in an almost perpendicular position, Tyler stated.

None of the crew or passengers was injured.

The passengers and crew left the plane from the nose and clambered up a snowy hill on their hands and knees to the airfield level, Tyler stated. The passengers were sent on their journey by other means of transportation.

Tyler said today that his baggage is still in the plane on that West Virginia mountainside. "but I'm mighty glad to be here."

Glitter Walks For Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The sidewalks here are going Hollywood.

Plans to install brightly colored, glittering sidewalks on parts of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street were approved yesterday by the Los Angeles Board of Public Works.

Sidewalks made of squares of buff and brown cement will be set off by an aquamarine trim. They'll be impregnated with an abrasive material to add sparkle and keep folks from slipping.

The distance from New York to San Francisco via the Straits of Magellan is 13,135 miles, compared to 5,262 miles through the Panama canal.

Believe Nothing Was Stolen

Nothing has been reported missing from Eppes High School, the scene of a break-in Sunday night. City Detective R. T. Rogerson said last yesterday.

The building, Rogerson said, was entered by breaking a window out of the band room. Also entered were the project room and school workshop.

All three rooms had been ransacked but an inventory led authorities to believe nothing was missing.

Dr. Trevathan Addresses Lions

Dr. Earl Trevathan, who was in charge of the evening's program at the weekly meeting of the Greenville Lions Club last night, using as his topic "The parents' responsibility to their children."

Dr. Charles Adams, who was in charge of the evening's program introduced the speaker.

In his talk to the members of the club, Dr. Trevathan said that not only is it important that the parents know the eating habits of their children, but they must be aware of the periods in which a child's growth is more active than others.

The parents' actions and habits around the home, have a direct bearing on the way in which the children are trained as they watch and observe the parents and copy them.

In closing, the doctor said that the parents must spend as much time as possible with their youngsters. Sometimes it will mean giving up something which the parent himself desires to do but the child should come first. A child knows when he is wrong and thus he has a respect for discipline, the doctor said in closing.

Dr. Marvin Aldridge, presided. It was announced that a board of directors meeting will be held following next week's meeting and all members are requested to attend if possible.

Cooley Predicts 'Rough Going'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Cooley (D-NC) yesterday took another pot shot at Secretary of Agriculture Benson and forecast rough going for a proposal that would permit the government to dispose of surplus farm commodities in Communist countries.

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, also said he may ask Congress to set up a nonpartisan board to handle disposal of government-owned farm surpluses.

Cooley told the Women's National Democratic Club here that Benson has done more in the last three years to tear down what has been done for the farmer in the last 20 years than any man in America.

He said, "When you get a man who can't sell it or give it away, it is time for a change." He accused Benson of dragging his feet in finding ways to dispose of surpluses.

On the disposal of surpluses in Communist countries, Cooley said, "That would be a drastic change in policy. I would want to hear not only from Benson but from Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson."

The Tar Heel lawmaker said the nonpartisan board would be appointed by President Eisenhower and be composed of four Democrats and four Republicans, with Benson as ex-officio chairman.

Three million Detroit area residents hadn't experienced such an ordeal before. All three local newspapers—the News, Times and Free Press—never had been shut down at the same time.

It was just 116 stereotypers—men whose essential function in getting out a newspaper was little known to readers—involved at first in the walkout early in December. But other mechanical department employees refused to cross picket lines, and the "back rooms" of the newspaper plants were shut tight. Seven other unions became involved, and 4,900 newspaper employees were affected.

The absence of the big, regular dailies touched the daily life of 1,300,000 subscribers in a hundred different ways.

Coming at the height of the Christmas shopping season, the strike isolated readers from all prepared gift suggestions. Some said they missed the advertisements almost more than the news. Radio and television stations scheduled more and longer newscasts.

Stores look to the air and TV screens to publicize their merchandise offerings. They also used more direct mail circulars than ever before and devised lasting displays inside and outside their stores to "push" certain items.

The Polish Daily News, heretofore a strictly foreign language paper, began publishing an English section and shot up its circulation from 50,000 to 150,000. Striking and nonstriking unions cooperated to start publication of the Detroit Reporter, which claimed a daily circulation of 100,000.

In the absence of death notices, funerals of prominent persons went by almost unnoticed and with sparse attendance. Florists suffered a loss of business as a result.

Police said the lack of publicity—and tips—hampered them in their investigation of several serious crimes committed during the strike.

Among the hardest hit were hospital patients who while away hours with the voluminous local newspapers.

Politicians in Lansing, the state capital, withheld some of their announcements until the strike was over to gain additional sounding boards in the populous Detroit area.

Fewer than 20 per cent of the qualified voters turned out for a special congressional election in Detroit in mid-December and the lack of interest was attributed largely to the newspaper strike.

Out-of-town newspapers shipped into Detroit were snapped up at newsstands and drugstores in a manner reminiscent of wartime cigarette lines.

A society matron at a garden club meeting told of how her husband came home one night during the strike and called out, "Dear I've brought you a present." It was a copy of a Toronto paper.

One man said his dog was disturbed by the lack of a newspaper to bring in from the porch.

people in the suburbs talk about so I could pick my own friends again and lead my own life. Boy am I glad I'm back! When I die I don't even want to be buried in the suburbs. I was buried there long enough. Let 'em scatter my ashes in the city streets.

Many other returned migrants share his views. They feel that, while there are a lot of things wrong with city life, there's nothing wrong with it that a five-year exile to the suburbs won't make look better.

"Culture? How can you have culture when everybody belongs to the same book club?"

"The reason I came back to the city was to get a rest cure and so I could pick my own friends again and lead my own life. Boy am I glad I'm back! When I die I don't even want to be buried in the suburbs. I was buried there long enough. Let 'em scatter my ashes in the city streets."

Too Much Heat For Court Room

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Things really got hot in court yesterday.

Something happened over the weekend to the heating system in a building that houses 10 superior courts. When the judges arrived, the temperature was somewhere in the 120s.

"The doorknobs and railings were so hot we couldn't touch them," said Judge Wallace L. Ware.

Hallway doors and windows were opened and fans turned on. And there were frequent recesses so gasping litigants and jurors could visit water coolers.
