Critical Report By Grand Jury

BATTERED WALL—This wall, peeling and faded, is only one of many items criticized by Pitt County's grand jury following its regular inspection yesterday.

By BOB HILLDRUP Conditions in Pitt County court house came under attack yesterday as the grand jury made its regular inspection. The court house, the grand jury said, is "in filthy condition and is not properly cleaned regularly."

Under the General Statutes, County Commissioners are to supply probation workers with "suitable" office area "in or near the court house."

The grand jury, in closing its report addressed to the Hon. Malcolm C. Paul, judge presiding at the current term of Superior Court, requested that "these conditions be attended to immediately and report progress to be made to grand jury at next term of court."

Several requests have been made for new offices by probation employees, one of which asked for space in the Old Tucker Building. That request was denied and the space now is being used as Mental Health offices.

Further, the report said, "several radiators leaking; several leaks in court room roof; shortage of waste paper baskets in many rooms; request for no parking on grass around court house and walls in Sheriff's Office covered with dirt and need plastering."

Grover Leggett, superintendent of buildings and grounds, is in charge of court house maintenance. The jury also reported that the county home was visited and found to be in good condition.

Utilities Hearing Is Concluded

Next Phase To Be Taken Up In New Bern Beginning February 14

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor State Utilities hearings in Greenville on a Vanceboro petition requesting better electrical service came to a close yesterday afternoon.

The commissioners announced that the next series of hearings on the matter will be held in New Bern beginning Feb. 14. It was decided by the commissioners to move the sessions to New Bern after Vanceboro attorney Libby Ward pointed out that the Craven County seat is somewhat closer to the area in question.

Original hearings on the matter were held last June in Raleigh. The commissioners moved to Greenville for this week's sessions at the request of local attorneys who asked for the move for the convenience of the large number of witnesses from the Vanceboro area which they proposed to place on the stand.

Miller said he inspected the wiring in houses and other buildings of individuals who signed the petition which was presented to the State Utilities Commission. The inspections were made at the request of Greenville Utilities Commission, Miller declared.

Employees told him that plans were in the making to install a three-phase circuit in the theatre, Miller declared.

Ward hammered at Miller's methods of inspecting the wiring of the homes he visited. The attorney asked in particular about the time of day at which the voltage tests were taken.

Miller said he did not record the time of day when he made the tests at each of the homes. Following Miller's testimony Greenville continued its stream of customer witnesses who testified that service received from Greenville Utilities has been satisfactory.

Eden, Eisenhower Conclude Talks With Program For Peace

Anglo-American Goals Outlined

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden have endorsed new measures to prevent another Israeli-Arab conflict, warned Red China against "aggressive expansion" and cautioned neutrals about Communist "enticement."

If specific and concrete actions were decided upon, there was no announcement of it. The statement and the policy declaration amounted in general to a reaffirmation of established policies.

An appeal to the United Nations to put a peace-keeping military force into the demilitarized zone between Israel and the Arab armies; policing of the area by forces of the three powers, such as the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean; trade embargoes and economic and financial sanctions.

list of goods which Britain and more than a dozen other countries refuse to sell to Red China. The United States has a complete embargo on Red China trade. Under the compromise the embargo list will not be automatically brought into line with the shorter list applied to Russia but will be reviewed. Some items like rubber may be taken off.

6. Eden and Eisenhower agreed they would continue to seek "a just and lasting peace and a universal and effectively controlled disarmament which will relieve mankind of the burden and the terror of modern weapons."

Punxsutawney Pete Sees His Shadow

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP)—Punxsutawney Pete, a grizzled groundhog, poked his snout into the air atop Gobbler's Knob this morning barked a double-barreled forecast and dived back underground.

Incentive To Voluntary Crop Reduction Considered 'Tobacco Bank' Suggested

By MARGARET KERNDLE WASHINGTON (AP)—A special bill to encourage voluntary cuts in tobacco planting is being proposed by two North Carolina members of Congress.

will be badly hurt yesterday, if not destroyed, by opposition from members of Congress from the blue-cured producing states. The bill would authorize a referendum on a 20 per cent acreage allotment cut. A 12 per cent cut already has been ordered by the Agriculture Department.

Congressmen argued that it is now too late to go through with all the procedure that would be necessary to hold the referendum and make up new allotments.

Weather Bureau Cool Toward Mr. Groundhog

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau today issued its annual statement discrediting the groundhog as a competent forecaster.

"When the east wind toucheth it shall wither" would apply only to the West Coast. But, east of the Rockies, the more applicable proverb would be: "When the wind is in the west the weather is always best."

Rep. Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Sen. Scott, former North Carolina commissioner of agriculture, believe this would induce farmers to reduce acreage.

ECC To Keep Its ROTC Program

The Air Force has decided to maintain its ROTC program at East Carolina College. The announcement reversed the action of the Air Force a few weeks ago when it informed East Carolina along with many other colleges in the country that its ROTC program would be dis-established as of 1957.

"I got in touch with our senator and representatives," Dr. Messick said, "and also wrote to the Pentagon headquarters insisting the program be continued. I do know that the representatives and senators' offices interceded as to their progress in working on the program."

Mother And Five Children Killed

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A mother and five children died in a fire that destroyed their home in a matter of minutes in a suburban area five miles east of here last night.

But the official forecasters were a bit more lenient in their attitude toward other weather proverbs, saying: "The trouble with weather proverbs is not so much that they're all wrong but that they're not all right for all times in all places."

Aspen Grove F. W. B. Church Is Scene Of Langley-Owens Wedding

FOUNTAIN—A wedding of dignity and simplicity was solemnized at the Aspen Grove Free Will Baptist Church, near Fountain, Sunday afternoon, January 29, at four o'clock when Miss Emily Ann Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Curtis Owens of Fountain, became the bride of Mr. Marvin Alton Langley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Langley of Fountain.

Their pastor, the Rev. M. E. Godwin of Dunn, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with greenery and ferns and with baskets of white gladioli and carnations. Lighted tapers in floor candleabra completed the setting.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Harvey Pittman, pianist, played "Liebestraum, Love's Greeting," "If You Could Care," and Chopin's "Prelude." Sidney Carraway of Greenville sang "Because," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used and "To a Wild Rose" was played during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white faille with metallic gold brocade trim, made on princess lines with full skirt. Her hat was of white satin with a short veil of illusion. She carried a satin covered prayer book centered with a purple orchid, showered with white carnations, illusion, and satin streamers.

Her only attendant was her sister Hilda, who was attired in a dress of blue crystaletta made with long torso and full skirt. Her hat was of a matching blue satin and she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Paul Langley, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Lenwood Owens, brother of the bride, and Joseph Gardner, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a suit of navy blue with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Alice Langley, sister of the groom, wore a suite of burgundy wool with avocado accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Langley was graduated from Farmville High School and for the past five years has been employed at R. A. Fountain & Sons in Fountain. Mr. Langley was graduated from Sarasota High School and is engaged in farming.

After a wedding trip the young couple will make their home near Fountain.

Seminole Indians Topic of Program At Round Table Meet

Miss Elizabeth Walker, assistant librarian at East Carolina College, gave a talk on the Seminole Indians at the meeting of the Round Table Book Club when it met with Mrs. E. E. Rawl on Tuesday afternoon.

The Seminole Indians, remnant of the Creek Indians of Georgia and Mississippi, were crowded out and they settled in Florida. Miss Walker told of their life then and today. Especially interesting was her description of the Green Corn and the Hunting Dances held during the Spring and Autumn Festivals.

Mrs. R. B. Lee read a Review of "The Mayflower Award," "The South In American Literature," written by Dr. Louise Greer. It was vividly recalled when Dr. Greer reviewed her own book for the Round Table.

Special guests were Mesdames Elizabeth Walker, Eunice McGee and Mrs. Upchurch.

The glowing fire in the fireplace, the white flowers around the room, the salad plate with coffee served by Mrs. Rawl, made the afternoon one to be remembered.

Shower Honors Recent Bride

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Edwin Webb, former Miss Ernestine Moseley, was honored on Friday evening at a miscellaneous shower, given by Mrs. R. A. Fountain and Mrs. Hardy Johnson.

The recreation room of the Fountain Presbyterian Church was artistically decorated with a variety of cut flowers and potted plants. The refreshment table, covered with an imported cutwork cloth, was centered with an arrangement of white carnations and stock.

Mrs. Webb received a corsage of pink carnations from the hostesses. Serving punch was the bride's mother, Mrs. Ernest Moseley, Miss Martha Hardy Johnson, Mrs. W. R. Harris, Mrs. G. E. Trevathan and Mrs. Philip M. Cory assisted in serving cheese straws, hints, sandwiches, ham biscuits, cookies and nuts to the more than sixty guests who were present.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Julius Webb and Mrs. Hilton Webb of Macesfield and Mrs. Horace Allen of Farmville.

Miss Emily Ann Owens, bride, with her father, Mr. F. Curtis Owens, at the wedding ceremony.

Following the rehearsal for their wedding, the table was covered with a hand-made lace cloth over pink and centered with an arrangement of pink flowers flanked by tall pink tapers. At one end of the table Mrs. Curtis Owens, mother of the bride-elect, served the wedding cake after the honorees had cut the first slice. The cake was four tiered, iced in pink and decorated with pink roses and wedding bells. Miss Alice Langley, sister of the bridegroom-elect, served punch at the opposite end of the table. Mrs. Staniel Dida assisted in serving nuts and mints.

The hostesses served cup cakes, nuts, candy, sandwiches and Coca-Cola. Her many beautiful and useful gifts were displayed on a table.

Mrs. R. A. Bell and Mrs. M. D. Yelverton entertained at a cake cutting at the home of Mrs. Bell in honor of Miss Emily Owens and Marvin Langley Saturday evening.

Joint Hostesses Honor Bride At Coffee Hour

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. James Barker Fountain, a recent bride, was honored at a coffee hour Thursday morning by Mrs. J. A. Mercer, Mrs. E. B. Beasley Jr. and Mrs. E. B. Beasley Sr. in the home of the latter.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Beasley Jr. and presented to Mrs. Beasley Sr., Mrs. Mercer, the honoree, Mrs. Fountain, her mother, Mrs. Walter Jones of Farmville, and Mrs. John Fountain, mother of the groom. Lovely arrangements of greenery and flowers were used throughout the home.

Mrs. J. M. Horton directed the guests through the den to the dining room where Mrs. R. A. Fountain served coffee from a beautifully appointed table centered with pink and yellow chrysanthemums and pink snapdragons. Mrs. M. D. Yelverton, Mrs. R. L. Peele, Mrs. Truett Lang, Mrs. Norman Gardner and Miss Annie Harris assisted in the dining room serving delicious delicacies.

Mrs. G. E. Trevathan and Mrs. Staniel Dida minkled with the guests in the living room, and Mrs. Hardy Johnson bade the guests goodbye from the sun parlor.

Around 85 guests called. The honoree was presented linens.

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 2, 1926

The committee of five appointed by a group from the Ministerial Association and the charitable organizations of the city two weeks ago met in the office of K. T. Futrell, welfare officer, this afternoon, and after considerable discussion as to the advisability of organizing an Associated Charities for Greenville Township, decided that what is most needed is a Community Chest Campaign for all of the charitable organizations now organized and appointed a committee of three to go thoroughly into the matter, make out a tentative budget and submit it to a mass meeting to be held at a later date, at a union service if possible, at which time final arrangements are to be made for the campaign if approved by the people of Greenville Township. The committee of three is composed of K. T. Futrell, Mrs. Richard Williams and W. S. Harden.

New Bern Topic Of Club Meeting

BETHEL—"Historic New Bern" was the topic of the afternoon when the Book Exchange Book Club met on Thursday.

Mrs. Carey Hammond, who was in charge of the program, described the beginning of the city, its homes, beauty and exquiteness. She brought out in her discussion that the recently renovated Governor Tryon's Hotel was opened several days ago and that Governor Tryon's Palace, now being renovated, will be open to the public soon. She stated that there were 130 buildings of interest in New Bern.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. John L. Watson which was decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Hammond was co-hostess.

Mrs. L. G. Manning presided over the short business meeting. During the social hour, nine members served cranberry salad, pickles, date bars, club crackers, toasted pecans and Coca-Colas.

Take A Look At Your Own Problems

By Mrs. Lillie Little
PHH Home Agent

When we analyze the variety of problems that face us daily we find that getting along with other people is the number one problem of the day.

In an effort to help people learn together our high schools and colleges are offering courses in family and community relations. Industry is spending millions on public relations experts and departments. Mental health clinics are being established all over the country.

There is much statistical evidence to point to the fact that Americans are unhappy. For instance:

1. America is the most "married" country in the world—also the most divorced. One-fifth of all American children are members of broken homes.
2. We have a high delinquency rate. This is a symptom not so much of underprivileged but rather of unhappy homes.
3. There is a high incidence of alcoholism, suicides and mental breakdowns. Over one-half of our hospital beds are filled with mental patients.
4. There is an excessive use of aspirin and sleeping pills.
5. There is a growing amount of psychosomatic illness.

Getting along with people is sometimes more important than subject matter.

Individuals Differ
The world is made up of people like you and me. So, of course, how we get along as a family, community or nation depends on what kind of people we are as individuals.

Take a look at yourself. Look at those around you. The physical differences are obvious. Some are tall, others short. Some are thin, others a bit plump.

We are different in other ways, too. Some move fast, others slow. It's a difference in our timing. Some of us have more energy than others. Our intellectual ability differs, too. Some are inward-turning personalities, others outgoing.

James Plant, the psychologist, says, "We differ in our cadence." What does he mean? He means we don't all grow at the same rate physically, intellectually or emotionally.

We have become accustomed to thinking people the same age ought to act the same way. We know this is not true since we do not mature at the same rate.

Basic Needs
Even though we differ in many ways, everybody has three basic needs.

Everybody needs acceptance. We all need to feel that we "belong." We should learn to accept people for their own worth. Minority groups are often unhappy because they feel not accepted.

Everybody needs approval. We need more praise and appreciation and less criticism and fault-finding.

Everybody needs affection. Affection and different things to different people. We have to grow in our ability to give and receive love.

Love sometimes becomes a state of being—as we become emotionally mature we become mentally healthy.

Are You Happy?
How emotionally mature are you? Take a look at yourself. Too many people are just plain unhappy. They don't like their jobs, their neighbors, their marriages, themselves.

What is happiness? It asked 3,000 people who they had to live for. Ninety-four per cent said they were entering the present while waiting for the future.

We all seem to think we'll be happy when we arrive at a certain destination—when we get through school, when we get a better job, when we get married, when the baby is born, when we recover from an illness, when we move into a new house, or when the bills are all paid.

Then to our surprise we discover that life has a way of facing us with new complications as soon as the old ones are settled. We must learn to find happiness where we are or we are likely to miss it.

Our Biggest Problem
We all have problems. What is your biggest problem? It is not your teen-ager, your husband or wife, or your mother-in-law. Your biggest problem is yourself.

Take a look at yourself. What sort of person are you?

Charles Crow in his book, "On Living with Yourself," says: "Accept other people as important. Accept other people by forgetting grudges—try praise and appreciation rather than criticism and fault-finding."

"Accept time in terms of today. Today is all we are sure of. It is important that we use it."

Inter Se Club Holds Meeting

The home of Mrs. E. H. Williford in Brookgreen was the meeting place of the Inter Se Book Club on Tuesday, January 31st.

The hostess, as president, conducted a brief business session and read a letter appealing for volunteers for the ground observer corps which is to be set up in Greenville in the near future.

Then Mrs. Wendell Smiley presented to the club as speaker Mrs. J. O. Derrick, who gave a splendid picture of the observations and development of weather predictions over the centuries since Biblical times. She displayed a wealth of interesting material in charts, quotations and maps, illustrating meteorological progress in recent years made by scientists, military observers and others.

Mrs. Tyson Bilbro, as librarian, distributed the books to the members, and then Mrs. Reynolds May, in presenting her hobby, read a most clever and entertaining apology for not having a hobby in the usual sense of the word. She finished with some lines which showed her to be quite a poetess, in the opinion of her fellow club members.

The hostess served a delicious salad course with coffee.

Thursday night Mrs. H. V. Staton had as her dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bunting of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Bunting of Williamston.

After the invocation, the guests enjoyed a delicious fried chicken supper with ice cream and homemade lemon cake for dessert.

About 8:00 o'clock, Mrs. D. C. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bunting and Z. V. Bunting came over to join Mrs. Staton, their brothers and wives who enjoyed a social hour.

The hostess, assisted by her daughters, Miss Eleanor Ward Staton and Mrs. Robert Weeks, served cake, nuts and coffee before they departed.

The next meeting, scheduled for February 21, will deal with "Arbitocracy-Democracy." Other forums will take place as follows: "Evolution," March 27; "Right and Wrong," April 24; and "Conscious and Sub-conscious," May 1. Speakers on each occasion will be members of the college faculty.

Book Club Hears Talk On Indians

BETHEL—The Rev. T. N. Cooper spoke to members of the Sallie Tucker Book Club on the topic "American Indians" when it met recently.

Tracing various tribes, he discussed the Cherokees near Asheville, the tribe near Lumberton, and pointed out that the Indians who lived in Indian Woods near Windsor left this area to settle in New York. An open forum was held following his address.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Irvin Taylor. The dining room table of the Taylor home was centered with yellow gladioli and flanked by yellow candles in silver holders.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Taylor.

Agriculture Dept. Wanted Too Long

The Department of Agriculture's belated approval of the proposed 20 per cent in tobacco acreage reduction for 1956 comes much too late to alter the tobacco picture as it now stands.

There is obvious opposition to the increased cut among members of the Congressional subcommittee which is handling Rep. Cooley's proposal for the 20 per cent acreage reduction this year. There is likewise opposition to the proposal in the full committee on agriculture in the House as well as voiced opposition in the Senate.

In short, the proposed 20 per cent reduction has for the past few weeks appeared a dead duck. Rep. Cooley who presented legislation for the 20 per cent reduction said as much more than a week ago. The endorsement of the proposal now by the Department of Agriculture comes too late to make much difference.

Lax Housekeeping Has Been Brought To Light

The stinging report of Pitt County's Grand Jury which found the court house in "filthy condition" during its inspection should prompt county officials to take more care in their housekeeping responsibilities.

Pitt citizens have hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in the court house. It certainly should not be allowed to deteriorate from neglect as the Grand Jury asserted is the case in its report made yesterday.

The Grand Jury listed 11 items in calling attention to the need for more care to be taken of the court house. Some of them are serious, others can be classified as minor. Nevertheless, as a whole the Grand Jury findings point definitely to the need for more attention to the court house.

At the outset, the Grand Jury said, the court house is "filthy" and "is not properly cleaned regularly." Certainly there is no excuse for that condition. The report went on to point out ceiling is falling from the ceiling in some rooms, others need a coat of paint, still another room's walls were found to be "covered with dirt," the roof over the court room leaks, the boiler leaks as do several radiators, and floors of the building need scrubbing and waxing.

The County Commissioners and those responsible for maintenance of the county's buildings should give immediate attention to matters pointed out in the Grand Jury report. Had proper attention been given to the court house in the past, the Grand Jury would not have found such conditions as were described in the report.

The Commissioners, as the governing board of the county, cannot escape ultimate responsibility for conditions which were found during the Grand Jury inspection.

It is up to the Commissioners to remedy the deplorable conditions immediately and to see that the court house receives in the future the maintenance attention it should have.

Mercurial Atmosphere In Future Of France

For the 22nd time in the past decade France has a new government which will attempt to lead the country out of the economic and political chaos which has engulfed it since World War II.

The prospects for the new government under Socialist Premier Mollet remaining in power long enough to lend much needed stability to the situation in France are not good. Unless we miss our guess, it will be only a matter of months before the new government goes the way of its predecessors.

Imagine the situation the United States would be in today if this nation had had a change of leadership 22 times since the close of World War II? In slightly more than a decade the United States has had three presidents. Yet in that time there has been only one major switch in political control from one party to another.

In France during the same period, there have been 22 different occasions in which government leadership has changed—an average of a change about every six months. No party has been in control of the French government, for on every occasion it has taken a coalition of several parties to provide sufficient backing for the formation of a cabinet. Such coalitions have had little unity of purpose, and therefore their lack of support of the government has caused one official body after the other to collapse.

With each change has come a change in policies on major problems, a change of program and general confusion. The result has been that the government of no premier of France in the past decade has been allowed the time to present a comprehensive program and follow it through. Until such time as a degree of stability is restored to the French government, there appears little hope that France's domestic and international problems can be alleviated.

Wanted Too Long

Had the Department of Agriculture spoke out earlier on the proposal, perhaps it would have influenced members of Congress as well as tobacco farmers' feelings. Coming now, the announcement of the Department of Agriculture appears more a political maneuver than anything else.

Rep. Cooley informed Secretary Benson last October he would call the agriculture committee together to consider any recommendations from the Department concerning the flue cured tobacco program. The department remained silent. In December Rep. Cooley informed the Secretary he would present legislation which would bring about a 20 per cent acreage reduction for the 1956 tobacco crop. The Department still remained silent until Tuesday when it announced its endorsement of the proposal.

Certainly it should not have taken the Department of Agriculture from October to the last of January to make up its mind. Indeed, it should have had an answer ready when Rep. Cooley offered his proposed 20 per cent reduction in December.

The position of the tobacco farmer in 1956 with only a 12 per cent acreage reduction may not be as good as many advocates of the 12 per cent cut have asserted. On the other hand, we do not believe the condition will be as black as advocates of the 20 per cent cut have maintained it would be if no more than 12 per cent of last year's allotment was removed from production.

It appears to The Reflector the best thing for tobacco sections to do is try in 1956 to produce a crop as nearly as possible to conform with what purchasers want, and be prepared to take a larger acreage reduction in 1957 if necessary. At the same time the tobacco sections should begin intensive local programs to create new jobs for those who may be displaced from the farms by further tobacco allotment reductions next year.

High Court Facing Rather Light Term

By LYNN NISBET
COURT — The State Supreme Court will convene for the spring term next Monday, with arguments on appeals from the 1st, 2nd, 29th and 30th districts scheduled for Tuesday, February 7. Thirteen cases will be heard the first week and twelve (from the 3rd and 28th districts) the second week.

The 25 cases docketed for the first two weeks of this term compare with 37 for the first two weeks of the 1955 spring term when they fell time for filing appeals for the first two weeks has expired.

Friday, February 3, has been set as final "opinion day" for cases heard during the fall. Nineteen remain undecided, and the Court is expected to pretty well clear the calendar Friday. First opinion day in the spring will be February 29.

Clerk Adrian Newton points out that calendars are usually heavier in the fall because of a longer period in which superior courts have to try cases.

200 N. BLOUNT — Perhaps the best known address in the world is No. 10 Downing Street, the official residence of prime minister of Great Britain. A close runner up is 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, official residence of the President of the United States, although that is more often designated as the White House.

HIGH LAKE — The N.C. National Park, Parkway and Forest Development Commission is going ahead with plans for a mile-high-cold-water lake on the Blue Ridge Parkway between Wilson Road Gap and Beech Gap. The State C&D Board and the National Park Service have approved the project in principle.

WILSON ROAD GAP — The other day the development commission, headed by Sen. William Medford of Haywood, appointed a few members to get the project underway. As usual in such matters, money is the big problem. A relatively small amount will be necessary to acquire the land and construct the dam, which will impound water to a lake nearly 600 feet above sea level. It will be the highest lake east of the Rocky Mountains, and when stocked with rainbow trout and other cold water fish is expected to prove a definite attraction for sportsmen from all over.

RIVERS, ETC. — A little publicized but highly important meeting is scheduled for the hall of the House of Representatives in capitol Friday of next week. It will be the first session held in North Carolina by the Southeastern Regional Rivers, Harbors and Ports Congress, of which Avery Thompson of Hallboro is chairman.

Representatives are expected from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and the two Carolinas. Internationally famed specialists will discuss problems of rivers and ports development. What is of more particular interest right now, they will also discuss procedures for preventing hurricane damage along the coast and the dredging of stream channels to improve navigation, prevent flooding and eliminate breeding places for mosquitoes.

BOOSTERS — Your reporter usually spends the first hour or so of the working day looking over the 20 or more daily newspapers for news of advertising. He got bogged down in that job Tuesday, because he was intrigued with two special editions. The Burlington Times-News, a 76-page paper, the seventh annual "City-County Review of Business and Progress."

THE GOLDSBORO NEWS-ARGUS had a 72-page issue, the "Progress and Review Edition."

The Times-News limited its scope mainly to Alamance county, while the News-Argus covers a large part of Eastern North Carolina. Both papers were replete with stories and articles tracing the past history of their communities, especially 1955 developments, and projecting future development. Profusely illustrated with pictures of agricultural, educational and industrial activities, the two papers challenged attention to the relegation of the other 18 or so which came in the same mail.

ADDITION OF ANOTHER HALF MILLION DOLLARS to the tobacco research fund is indicative of the thoroughness of efforts of the tobacco industry to get at the bottom of the question that has been raised about any connection between smoking and health. When this inquiry was started, in the face of the lung cancer scare a few years ago, $500,000 was tossed into the kitty. Later that was supplemented by a similar additional sum, and now still a third like sum.

DR. CLARENCE C. LITTLE, the committee's scientific director and chairman of the Scientific Advisory Board, commented in connection with the latest allocation that his group "believes that with tobacco and health — as with all scientific objects — there is no short cut to the truth," adding that "impartial and objective research will as always provide the answer."

IT WAS SAID at the outset of this investigation that the inquiry would be thorough and that several years would likely be required to arrive at definite conclusions. Procedure thus far indicates that character of the investigation. Within the space of a little more than a year the committee has recommended research grants in excess of $500,000, including $25,800 for fellowships for medical school students. Dr. Little said the board has from the start concentrated in three main areas. These include the physical and chemical composition of tobacco and accompanying products; tissue changes in humans as well as in animals; and smoking and other tobacco habits, and the effects and physical make-up of smokers.

Research grants have been given to 54 scientists in 39 research projects, and in 19 states, and in some instances these have been renewed for continuation of studies begun. The board's purpose is "to see if the proposed work will be of value to the total problem."

The country as a whole, and smokers in particular, along with the tobacco industry, are vitally interested in conclusions that may be arrived at by this investigation. While there is every desire for a speedy solution of the question, an even more important phase of the program is that results will be definite and dependable, and the speculation may be ended once and for all, if possible. A great industry is vitally concerned. Millions of smokers are also anxious to know the actual facts, to the end that they may be able to chart their course for the future with safety, both economically and as to health.

Bipartisan Foreign Policy?

by Bob Hilldrup

Have You Stopped Wishing?

People don't wish enough anymore. Certainly we can't afford to spend all our time in wishing or daydreaming but neither does it seem wise to continually ponder the materialistic problems of our lives.

Everyone has wished at one time or another and some, though years and hardships may have toughened them to the world, still keep their favorite wishes, that they have cherished since childhood.

Like everyone else, I have wishes; things I want to do and want to be and want to have. Some I hope to attain and some

I know I'll never realize. But that doesn't stop me from wishing. Call me a daydreamer if you will, but don't forget that to stop a bit at the end of a hard day and ponder on the brightness that the future can hold seems to improve one's frame of mind.

If only I could own all the wonderful classical music that has ever been written is a favorite wish. Then, too, if I could travel more or just re-live those hitchhiking trips to Nevada, Cuba, Louisiana and Canada.

If I could learn true humility, graciousness and love and combine those things with honesty, fairness and courage. If I could accomplish all these things; learn to do them well, then many of my wishes would be fulfilled. Then, too, if I could live to see the day when human beings (myself included) could learn to treat each other with the kindness and respect that they wish for themselves, then still another wish would be fulfilled.

As a young boy once said to his aged grandfather, "Granddaddy, I want to know everything, do everything, be everything." "Yes, my son," replied the old gentleman but to do that, one would have to be God."

of Howdy Doody. Then usually she walks away, having survived the shock of recognition, and returns to her old friends, her toys.

Ancient cartoons with dubbed-in voices bore her within 30 seconds and she walks away. She also will do this to canned meat if it is put on her plate. She has an unerring appetite for freshness, and likes "Captain Kangaroo" because it is alive.

Both her father and mother also will refuse to follow canned family situation comedies because they are unreal and tiresome, and because canned laughter doesn't make them feel very jolly. Most of their friends who can read without moving their lips feel the same way.

Tracy Ann and her parents enjoy — sometimes more than the show they carry — bright, tuneful illustrated commercials. We hum 'em in our house.

A live show stirs us more than a filmed show, and we'll rove our dial to get one that is alive. There are exceptions — but they only prove the rule.

One of the things that destroys the appearance of monopolistic practices, in short, they forfeit millions to which their enterprise and facilities might have entitled them. It constitutes one of the greatest Government decisions in corporation annals.

Neither of the two great companies, indeed, was pro-Eisenhower professional, although most of their top executives, undoubtedly voted for Ike. But Thomas J. Watson, head of IBM, is a trustee of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, Inc., and of the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Association. He supported the Democratic foreign trade policies enthusiastically.

The agreement to the consent decrees was inspired by economic rather than political motives. They apparently believe that they stand to gain as a result of the release of the free forces of private industry by Eisenhower.

They are willing to take their chance on a fair trial. They did not have that confidence when they were under constant attack, verbal and legal, as "economic royalists" and "greedy Wall Street."

DEMOCRATS ROBBED OF AN ISSUE These consent decrees, too, rob the Democrats of an issue which they have been polishing for years. It constitutes one of the Administration's slanting policies in favor of "big business." It de-legitimizes the Collar-Humphrey-Douglass charge that Washington's distribution of money is squeezing the "little fellows" to the wall.

There is other evidence of "confidence" presently. Industry plans a huge expansion for 1956, despite warnings of a partial slowdown. The Ford offer of stock was obtained by pro-Eisenhower investors, despite premium prices.

The stock market is climbing back to levels achieved before "Kegs" bear attack. Wages, unemployment, and purchasing remain at peaks. Prices are fairly stable. And President Eisenhower will do nothing to destroy them. They are willing to take their chance on a fair trial. They did

Savings To Rise With Your Age

By ELMER ROESSNER
Chances are you'll save more money this year than last year. The reason is simple. You're older.

Every study of the subject has shown that the older people get, the more they are inclined to save. That's natural. Young people figure they have plenty of time to build up funds for later years. Besides, they generally have lower incomes are drained by demands for housing, furniture, social and business advancement and support of the children.

But older people average higher earnings; many of their life's requisites, such as a home, are largely paid for; the time at which they have to depend on every morning.

The average age of income-earning Americans is slowly increasing. For the next five years fewer young people will enter the working force; miracle medicines will keep more older people picking up pay checks. So the chances are that total savings will rise, too.

THE COMPETITION FOR INCOME
There's another big reason for expecting rises in savings. Year in and year out, in good times and bad, there's a big tug-of-war for every dollar earned after taxes. Manufacturers and merchants want the man on the girl with a buck to spend it. Heads of saving institutions want them to save it.

If everybody spent every dollar as fast as it was earned, the nation would be in trouble because there would be no fresh capital to pay for expansion. On the other hand if everyone saved every cent above barest needs, there would be a slowdown of sales, then of production, then of employment and, eventually, of all business. For a healthy economy, there must be some kind of balance between spending and saving.

From 1947 through 1953, people not only saved more, but more of their income. Savings ran high during the war because there was so little to spend (at incomes on an annual basis) and so much to save. In one year — 1944 — Americans tucked away almost $40 billion. After the war there was spending sprees and savings dropped to $2 billion in 1947. Then, except for a little setback in 1949, both the dollars and percentage of savings rose.

In 1953, Americans averaged 7.9 per cent of their income for a total of $19.8 billion. In 1954, the figures were down a bit: 18.3 billion and 7.2 per cent.

Last year, buoyant with confidence and high incomes and tempted by dazzling new autos, appliances, and other goods, Americans spent as they never did before. Savings were never to $15.6 billion or 5.9 per cent of income. The fact that millions of people are now under pension plans and broader Social Security may also have encouraged spending and discouraged saving.

Now another turn may be at hand. People have been buying fewer autos and houses. Money isn't so plentiful, and wages. Even more significant, many banks and other savings institutions are reporting increases in deposits.

And so the battle between sellers and savings managers is entering another phase and it looks as if the nation will have a "spending spree" and will advertise more vigorously than ever.

CLUES TO TRENDS IN FUTURE BUSINESS
Of 1,524 firms questioned by Dun & Bradstreet, 67 per cent said they expected higher sales in the second quarter, but only 50 per cent expect profits to rise. While work on the St. Lawrence Seaway is now pretty well under way, the high water forecast yet. Farmers will spend $5.5 billion in the next five years for electrical equipment and appliances, the Department of Agriculture estimates.

Other Editors Are Saying... More Cash For Research

(Henderson Dispatch)
Addition of another half million dollars to the tobacco research fund is indicative of the thoroughness of efforts of the tobacco industry to get at the bottom of the question that has been raised about any connection between smoking and health. When this inquiry was started, in the face of the lung cancer scare a few years ago, $500,000 was tossed into the kitty. Later that was supplemented by a similar additional sum, and now still a third like sum.

Major Success In Anti-Trust Suits

WASHINGTON The faith and confidence of the nation's business, industrial and financial bigwigs in the Eisenhower Administration was re-emphasized recently in a most practical but spectacular manner. Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A certain prominent writer with a sense of humor always refers to his opponents as "my hair-shirt friends." These people who oppose him are not easy to take. They irritate him, they annoy him, they dream, they deflate his egotism, and they continually interrupt his description of events and correct him in the interests of accuracy.

ECC Prepares For Big Spring Quarter

East Carolina is now making preparations for the opening of the spring quarter February 29. It is expected that the largest number of students ever to register for work on the campus during the spring quarter will enroll, according to Registrar Orval L. Phillips. Applications are being received daily, he states.

More than 200 students not now enrolled at East Carolina are expected to begin work at the college at the beginning of the spring quarter. These will include men and women entering college for the first time, transfer students, readmissions, and others.

A total of 3139 individual students has registered at the college to date during the present school year. Of these 221 enrolled for graduate courses; the others are undergraduates.

Renewed Call For Drive Volunteers

A second call for Heart Fund volunteers to conduct a house-to-house canvass here Sunday afternoon, Feb. 26, was issued today by Jack Marston, Jr., local Heart Fund chairman.

"Although scores of residents of Greenville have enlisted," Marston said, "we still need many more volunteers in order to make certain that this will be the most successful Heart Fund campaign ever."

Marston pointed out that each volunteer will be assigned a few homes in his or her immediate neighborhood, and that in most instances it will be possible for the assignment to be completed in less than an hour.

Volunteers wishing to enroll in the Heart Sunday army may do so by calling Betty Lou Howard or Katherine Davenport at Greenville, Tobacco Co., phone 2191 or by writing to Heart Fund Headquarters, Greenville, Tobacco Co., Greenville.

Underclassmen, both new students and students now attending the college, will officially enroll for the spring quarter February 29. Graduate students may register at any one of three times: on Feb. 29, on Feb. 11 or Feb. 18, or at their first attendance at class.

Plan Home For 'Fallen Angels'

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Symphony Society had filed application to build a $10,000 refuge home for "fallen angels."

Prefectural authorities said the working wasn't specific enough for a building application. Society officials replied that under no circumstances would they use the more usual term.

Compromise was finally reached today: "Fallen angels fleeing history's oldest profession."

Twelve Years To Obtain Bequest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When John Barrymore died in 1942 he left a marble bust of himself, sculptured by Paul Manship, to his son John Jr. It was valued at $12,000.

It has taken John Jr. almost 12 years to obtain his only bequest from the great actor and he's going to have to pay $200 to get it.

The bust was sold to raise funds for the elder Barrymore's creditors. Recently it was found among possessions left by Lionel Barrymore, but Lionel's estate also carried heavy debt. Young John will obtain possession tomorrow.

Bomb Blast In Alabama Stirs Unease As Legislatures Move

ATLANTA (AP) — Ingredients from court and legislature simmered uneasily today in the South's racial cauldron kindled anew by a bomb blast in Alabama.

Virginia legislators voted strong approval to a resolution of interposition which denounced the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling on public school segregation as an "illegal encroachment" on the sovereign rights of a state.

They voiced the pledge that Virginia, where the interposition movement had its recent rebirth, would follow whatever legal and honorable means it could muster to impede the mixing of white and Negro students in the classroom.

The vote yesterday left no doubt as to Virginia's stand: in the Senate the resolution passed 36-2; in the House 90-7.

In Georgia, a House committee approved a bill that would take away the charter of any city that fails to maintain racially segregated facilities. The measure apparently was aimed directly at Atlanta, where a federal court order recently brought an end to segregation on public golf courses.

Alabama was the first state to adopt an interpositionist plan which seeks to hold void the racial rulings of the Supreme Court—and the plan became official and went into effect without the governor's endorsement.

The deadline for executive action on Alabama's nullification resolution came yesterday, and Gov. James E. Folsom said then that he was washing his hands of the matter. Through lacking action by the governor, the bill was not returned to the House, where it originated, and it thereby became an act automatically.

The bomb blast came last night. It was the second set off in 48 hours in Montgomery, onetime capital of the Confederacy and now beset by a drawn-out Negro boycott of city buses.

The bomb exploded in the front yard of the home of E. D. Nixon, a Negro Pullman car porter and former president of the Alabama Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Monday night a bomb was tossed at the parsonage home of the Rev. M. L. King, a Negro Baptist preacher.

Both Nixon and King have been active in directing the boycott of Montgomery buses.

No one was harmed at either explosion. Considerable damage was done to the front porch of King's home; the blast at the Nixon dwelling did only minor damage to a gate post.

Negroes in Montgomery have refused to ride city buses since Dec. 5 in a protest against segregated seating laws.

The issue of the boycott was tossed into federal court yesterday when five Negro women filed a suit in which they asked that segregation be made unconstitutional in public transportation in Alabama generally and Montgomery specifically.

The suit goes farther than the demands of the boycott leaders, who have asked only that seats be available on a "first come, first served" basis. Various city officials were named defendants.

The Virginia interposition resolution holds that the nation's high court went beyond its constitutional bounds in banning segregation in public schools. It says "a question of contested power" between Virginia and the federal government should be settled by a constitutional amendment.

The resolution was milder than the one approved recently by Alabama legislators who termed the court's ruling "null and void."

Georgia legislators have discussed interposition but have taken no official action. Interpositionists hold that the sovereign states can interpose their paramount authority when the national government steps beyond the powers granted it by the states themselves.

Consolidation Of Counties Talked

RICHMOND Va. (AP) — Delegate Fred G. Pollard of Richmond introduced in the Virginia General Assembly today a resolution proposing a study of the feasibility of reducing and consolidating the state's 98 counties.

Pollard's resolution would provide for a two-year study by the Virginia Advisory Legislative Council with recommendations to be made to the 1958 Assembly.

The resolution would have the VALC prepare a map placing the 98 counties into some 30 or 40 groups on the basis of population and geography, among other factors.

The House convened a half hour earlier today and resumed debate on the administration's tax acceleration plan, the key to Gov. Thomas B. Stanley's proposed budget calling for raising a quickie 48½-million-dollar melon for a construction program. The change would mean individual income taxpayers would pay two years of taxes in a five-month period in 1956 and 1957, giving the state two collections within one fiscal year.

Lifted 300 Lbs. To Claim Blame

JACKSONVILLE Fla. (AP) — Joe and William Elbers, brothers were on trial on charges of stealing a safe.

Joe, 34, insisted he pulled the job all by himself and demonstrated by lifting the 300-pound safe to the witness stand in Criminal Court.

"That was about the same height from the ground as the trunk of the car," Joe said.

The jury acquitted William, 42. Joe was convicted of burglary and is awaiting sentence.

Talmadge Hints Replacing Solon

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Former Gov. Herman Talmadge said on a television program that "vigorous representation in the U. S. Senate far outweighs seniority" and suggested that Georgians start considering a replacement for Sen. Walter George, 78.

"If I serve the people for 50 years, I won't ask for a new six-year term," Talmadge added.

NORWEGIAN WINS OLYMPIC TITLE—Sverre Stenersen of Norway is tossed into the air by jubilant fellow-countrymen after he won the Nordic combined skiing championship Tuesday in the Winter Olympics at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy. U.S. Olympic Fortunes See Sharp Turn For The Better

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—United States fortunes in the seventh Winter Olympics took a sharp turn for the better as the games headed into their final four days. On the heels of their sweep of the men's figure skating title yesterday in which Hayes Alan Jenkins gave the United States its first gold medal, the Americans were heavily favored to dominate the women's figure skating finals today with Tenley Albright of Newton Center, Mass., and Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., battling it out for first place. The girl figure skating stars should rack 15 points onto the Yanks' team score and jump the Americans several notches in the standings which currently finds them in seventh place. The unofficial standings are based on the accepted formula of 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the top six finishers in each event. Whatever the U.S. entrants do from here on in, however, the Americans can't hope to catch the Russians, who are way out in front with 94 points, 53 of them in the speed skating competition. Austria is second with 48½, Norway third with 44 followed by Sweden 43, Finland 38, Switzerland 33½ and the United States with 28½. But while the Russians, who have not won a title in two days, are not expected to rack up many more points, the U.S. squad is looking forward to the remaining schedule eagerly. In addition to the 1-2-3 sweep in the men's figure skating yesterday, Art Tyler, the veteran four-man driver from Rochester, N.Y., led bobsledders from 12 nations in trial runs down the Olympic course. His brilliant 1 minute 19.29 seconds made him a prime choice in the four-man heats Friday and Saturday. The games end Sunday with ski jumping. Sixteen Jernberg of Sweden, after two close defeats, finally cracked through today to win the rigorous 50-kilometer cross-country ski marathon. Severest Test Is Facing ECC's Big Winning Skein

East Carolina's 46-game home court winning streak gets its most severe test tonight against Coach Jack McComas' cloud sweeping cagers. Both teams have been barreling toward this meeting, which is the top attraction on the North State bill this week and the biggest home game of the year for Coach Howard Porter's league leaders. The Bucs are slight favorites on the basis of their terrific home court record. East Carolina has never lost a conference game here and hasn't been beaten since UNC did the trick in the 1952 dedication game.

Big Task
ECC will have to wear its best defensive britches to stop the tall visitors. Atlantic Christian, sporting one of the biggest teams in the state, bring a 7-2 conference slate here. The Bulldogs are in a second place tie and hope to feather their nest at the expense of the locals. An ACC victory, however, won't drop Porter's Bucs from the top. East Carolina has a 10-1 mark and would have to lose two games in order for ACC to gain a first place tie.

The Bohunk trophy will also be at stake tonight. The wooden bucket, symbol of athletic supremacy between the two schools, belongs to ECC by virtue of a baseball win last spring. This time last season, ECC had won 30 some games at home and Atlantic Christian came to town bent on snapping the skein. The Bulldogs came close, 82-77, but fell before a brilliant last-minute spurt. The Pirates will have to jump like African bushmen to handle the height advantage held by the Bulldogs. Headed by John Marley, who stands 6-11 and weighs well over 200 and Kim Buchanan, a great scorer who stands spreads 6-7, the Bulldogs boast an air attack unparalleled in the conference. Marley, who just this week tipped in 47 points to set a new school scoring record, is the leading point getter. He is averaging a neat 21.7 points a game. Buchanan is second with a 17.8 mark.

Greenville Golf Club Switches To New Association

Dave Mosier, president of the Greenville Golf and Country Club, announced today that Greenville has withdrawn from the Coastal Golf Association and joined the stronger Carolina Golf Association. Greenville, a member of the Coastal Golf league since it was organized 16 years ago, withdrew at a meeting held in Kinston last night. Both Greenville and Kinston had received invitations to join the senior golf association. Greenville will be in the eight-member league consisting of Rocky Mount, Wilson, Goldsboro, Kinston, Fayetteville, Raleigh and Durham. Greenville, whose team had finished either one or two in the Coastal races each year, will play five home matches and the same number away. It, however, will play only one of the three most distance teams a season. The schedule will open on March 7. All matches will be played on Wednesday afternoon. The Pro-Am and championship matches will be played at Rocky Mount this year, according to Mosier, who will also be the Greenville captain. President of the Carolina Golf Association is Bob Sides, the national lefthanded champion and four-times Rocky Mount city champion.

Carter Unperturbed By Slim Official Decision

CHICAGO (AP)—It was a pleasure to walk into Jimmy Carter's dressing room at Chicago Stadium last night. He had just lost a close official decision to Cisco Andrade 26, a nifty little fighter from Compton, Calif., who has been beaten only twice in 35 bouts. Most of the ringside sports writers at the nationally televised 10-rounder gave Carter the edge. The Associated Press card favored him 97-95. Carter, sitting relaxed on a bench in his quarters, spoke like the champion he once was. Three times he has won the lightweight crown and three times he has lost it.

Phants Play Host Friday To Mighty Elizabeth City

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer
Friday night, the powerful Greenville Phantoms will play host to Northeastern Conference foe, Elizabeth City, in the GHS 6-5-4-3-2-1 tilt. The battle will pit the first place Greenies against one of the better teams of the loop. The Yellow Jackets are currently running in third place, behind the Kinston Red Devils. Coach Boley Farley's team has used its uncanny shooting accuracy and fast-break tactics to rack up a total of eight consecutive league victories since Christmas, without a single defeat. Sparked by the offensive exploits of big Harold Edwards, a 6-4 All-Conference center, the Phants have downed every team in the loop at least once, and have dropped New Bern three times, Washington twice.

Farmville Sweeps Doubleheader

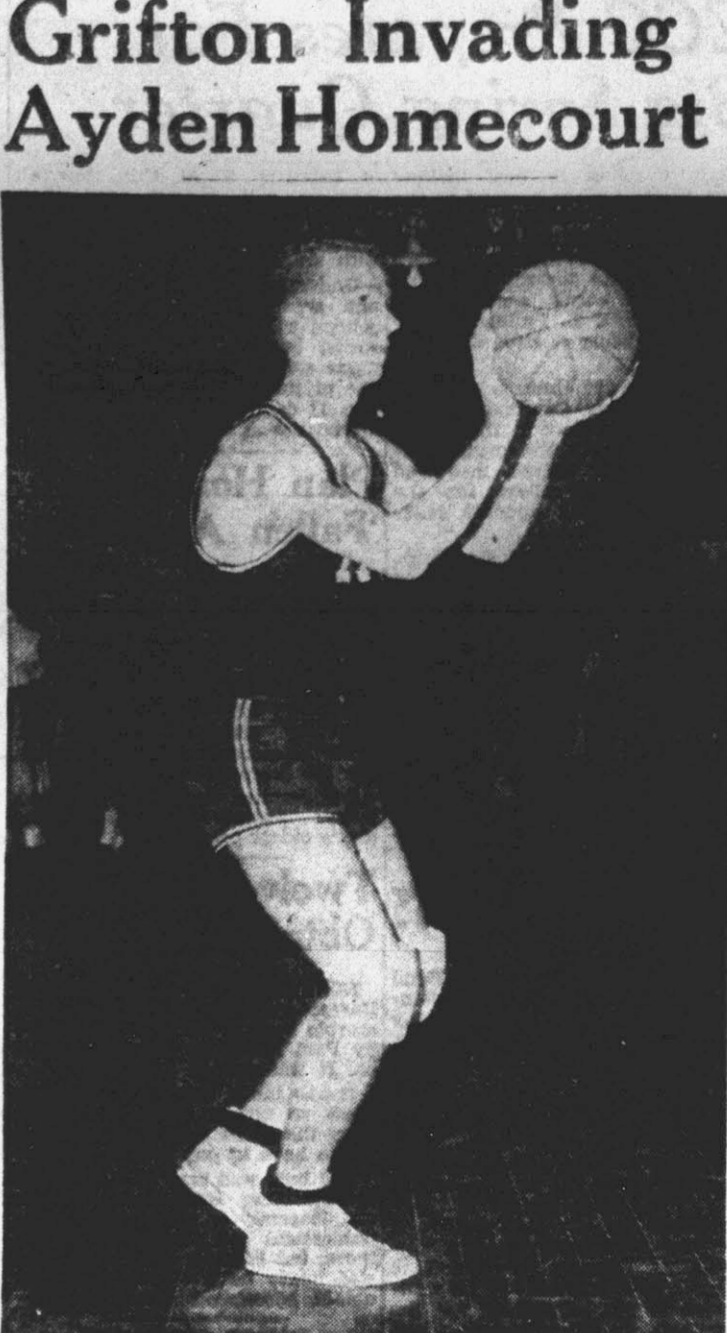

Farmville swept through a Coastal Conference doubleheader Tuesday night, taking both games from Contentnea. The boys racked up a 50-35 win behind the excellent work of Bill Farrior, Norwood Wooten, and Tommy Wainwright. Farrior was high with 12 points. The girls took their 13th straight triumph without a defeat, scoring a 34-24 victory. Jewell Gardner led the scorers with 13 points and was followed closely by teammate Jay Moore, who got 12.

Robinson, Olson To Fight Again

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Promoter Jackie Leonard of the Hollywood Legion Stadium has announced the signing of middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson and Bobo Olson for a rematch April 27. He said the fight would be held at Wrigley Field in Los Angeles or Gilmore Field in Hollywood. Robinson has accepted an estimated $75,000 or 30 per cent of the gate and national TV receipts. Leonard said. He also said the International Boxing Club would not be in the position of copromoter and would figure only in the TV money. Olson, knocked out in the second round by Robinson last Dec. 9 at Chicago, would be reimbursed by 30 per cent of the gate, but without a guarantee of any sum.

Grifton Invading Ayden Homecourt

AYDEN — Grifton will make its first appearance against the Toronado cage teams this Friday night in the Ayden High gym. Lonnie Jackson and Jimmy McLawhorn, averaging 30 points per game between them, have been the big guns on the Grifton boys' team thus far this season. The Bulldogs have compiled an impressive 6-4 conference record, but have dropped all games outside for an overall tally of six wins and eleven losses. Junior pivot man Wayne Ervin should challenge Coach Stuart Tripp's ace backboard men, Bert Tripp and Billy Vandford, in the rebound department. Ervin will be the tallest man on the floor, but will be handicapped by lack of experience, this being his first year playing the cagey game of basketball. Lynwood Branch will be another Grifton standout. Grifton High's girls have had better luck in the conference and out than the boys. Their 8-2 conference mark ranks high in the Pitt standings. Over-all they have an eleven-six record. Senior forward Dawn Smith's 34 points per game is perhaps the team's greatest asset. Leray Mewborn and Pat Stokes complete the strong Grifton forward court. Grifton's four fine guards, Ardath Vandford, Patsy Burney, Joyce Croom and Bet McCarther, will try their hand at stopping Ayden's high scoring Sue Sutton and shifty Carol Lynn Johnson, come game time.

Smith Scores 46 To Spark Victory

Pretty Dawn Smith racked up a total of 46 tremendous points Tuesday night to smother the Winterville girls beneath a 53-43 point spread as Grifton chalked up another conference victory. The prolific sharp-shooter scored all but nine of her squad's 55 markers. Barbara Evans collected 21 for the losers. In the boys' contest, Winterville claimed an 83-66 win behind the 39-point effort of towering Jack Sawyer. Richard Gorman added 14 to the cause and teammate Corey contributed 24. The Winterville men completely dominated the contest from start to finish and Sawyer's fine eye kept them in front.

Tatum Has 4 Of Maryland Staff

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Jim Tatum now has four members of his old Maryland staff to assist him in his new job as head football coach at the University of North Carolina. University Athletic Director C. P. Erickson announced yesterday that Terrapin's John E. Lacey has been appointed trainer for the Tar Heel grid team. Lacey was selected by Tatum. Lacey, a Connecticut native has been an assistant trainer at Maryland since 1951. He will work with R. A. (Doc) White, who will be head trainer in other sports and assist Lacey in football. Lacey served as an assistant trainer at Yale and trainer for three pro football teams: the Chicago Cardinals, the old New York Yanks and the Baltimore Colts.

Traffic Accidents Claimed 38,300 Lives In Past Year

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic accidents killed 38,300 Americans in 1955— one of the heaviest tolls in history. The motor vehicle held its perilous place as the No. 1 killer in accidents.

The National Safety Council today reported that last year:

Accidents of all types brought death to 92,000 persons, injured 9,300,000 and resulted in $10,300,000,000 in financial setbacks—such as equipment and property damage, lost wages and medical expenses.

Traffic accidents alone cost 38,300 lives, approximately 1,350,000 hospital injuries and $4,700,000,000 in terms of cash.

Last year's motor vehicle death toll tied with the 1953 toll for the third highest on record. It was 1669 under the all-time high of 39,969 reached in 1941 and approached closer to the 39,643 registered in 1937, the runner-up year.

The 1955 traffic toll showed an 8 per cent gain over the 35,586 total of 1954.

Traffic deaths rode a steady upward trend last year, and zoomed to record holiday heights during the Christmas period. The December toll of 3,900 was the largest for any month since December 1941.

The growth of population and the increase in travel also figure in comparisons. The 1955 death rate per 100 million vehicle miles was estimated at 6.4. That was 2 per cent higher than in 1954— which had the lowest rate on record.

The number of deaths from all kinds of accidents—92,000—showed an increase of 3 per cent over the 89,432 recorded in 1954.

Motor vehicle fatalities were responsible for the increase. Home accident deaths numbered 27,000, a slight decrease. Accidental deaths at work added up to 14,200, a slight increase. Deaths in public but not involving motor vehicles made a small gain.

The all-accident death toll was substantially under the levels attained in some earlier years. It has topped 100,000 four times since 1934.

And the 1955 all-accident death rate of 66 per 100,000 population was the lowest on record except for the 55.5 mark attained in 1954.

But 1 of each 18 persons in the United States suffered a disabling injury in 1955.

Falls last year cost 19,800 lives, burns 6,100, drownings 6,400, firearms 2,300—each total showing little change from the previous year.

Quiet Move To Head Off Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A quiet move is under way to head off proposed repeal of a law permitting increased acreage allotments for peanuts by types.

Such a repeal provision is said to be contained in the new farm bill before the Senate Agriculture Committee.

W. V. Rawlings of Capron, Va., executive secretary of the Assn. of Virginia Peanut and Hog Growers, told a reporter repeal would "seriously hurt" the Virginia-type growers of Virginia and North Carolina.

"Repeal would completely tie the hands of the secretary of agriculture in assuring an adequate supply of each type," he said. "It would cause the producers of the most desired edible (Virginia) types to lose their rightful domestic markets by default," he added.

Rawlings said he is conferring with a number of senators and representatives concerning the possibility of having the proposed repeal eliminated from the bill before it reaches the Senate floor.

If it reaches the Senate floor, he said, the move to have it eliminated "could be lost in the shuffle." Since the House has already passed a farm bill, he added, States showing reductions in traffic death tolls were listed as Idaho, 23 per cent; Arizona, 11; Minnesota, 10; North Dakota, 4; Kansas, Oregon; Nebraska; New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming 2 per cent each; New Jersey 2 per cent, and Iowa and Maryland 1 per cent each.

At least 207 cities reported reductions. The largest decreases were credited to Syracuse, N.Y., with 37 per cent, Tampa, Fla., with 34 and Seattle and Dallas with 28 per cent each.

The repeal proposal, if passed by the State would then be limited to consideration by a conference committee.

Rawlings said the repeal evidently is backed by "the leadership in one of the Southeastern states" where the runner-type peanut mostly is grown.

Virginia-type growers have pending now before the Department of Agriculture a request—opposed by Southern growers—to increase by at least 14.6 per cent the 1956 acreage for Virginia-type nuts. They contend there is a short supply and that unless the increase is granted manufacturers will turn to imported peanuts to meet consumer demand.

Fair Weather Was Too Easy

LONG BEACH Calif. (AP)—Donald Cassidy, 25, drove without difficulty through last week's flood but yesterday in clear, dry weather he steered his car smack into Los Cerrillos drainage channel.

Police said Cassidy told them he dozed off at the wheel and awoke when water gurgled through his car. He said he rolled down a window, squirmed out and dog-paddled to the surface.

He climbed the muddy banks and walked a mile to the Veterans Hospital for treatment for exposure. Police drove him home. His car is still in the channel.

Gordon Macrae In Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Gordon Macrae has been named defendant in a suit for $125,000 traffic injury damages.

Mrs. Marion Dunn, film studio secretary, alleges she was injured when Macrae's car struck another machine which was pushed into a third car. The third car struck hers. Mrs. Dunn says she alleges Macrae was under the influence of liquor when the accident occurred Dec. 1. Macrae was convicted of mis-

FDR's Letter Delivered To President Eisenhower

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH WASHINGTON (AP)—A famous letter Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote 10 days after the 1941 Pearl Harbor attack to "the President of the United States in 1956" has been delivered at last to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The World War II President's letter asked consideration for "the merits of a young American of goodly heritage—Colin P. Kelly III—for appointment as a cadet in the United States military at West Point."

Young Kelly—then an infant and now a 6-foot, 15-year-old high school sophomore—is the son of Capt. Colin P. Kelly Jr., the United States' first hero of the war, killed in a bombing mission in the Pacific.

Harbor. Colin III lives at Concordville, Pa., near Philadelphia, with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Pedlow. He attends Westtown Friends School, a Quaker institution.

The White House said today that official inquiries, made with the approval of President Eisenhower, indicate the youth "is interested in going to West Point."

But he will have to wait at least another year and a half, when he will be 17, to be eligible for admittance.

Shortly after Roosevelt wrote his letter Dec. 17, 1941, it was sent to the National Archives here for safekeeping.

ditional archivist, Wayne Grover, dug it out of the files and sent it through White House channels to Eisenhower, a 1915 West Point graduate.

In a telephone interview from her home, Colin's mother said the youth—known as "Corky"—does want to attend West Point, and "so far as I know has never thought of anything else."

Mrs. Pedlow discounted the idea that he might decide to go instead to the new Air Force Academy in Colorado.

"Please," she added, "just let him grow up normally. He is entitled to that."

Plans Helicopter Campaign Race

RALEIGH (AP)—A whirlwind campaign for the Lieutenant Governorship in a helicopter is planned by Kid Brewer, a Raleigh insurance man who gained fame as a football player at Duke University.

Brewer declared yesterday, "I plan to be a candidate for lieutenant governor" and unless something unforeseen happens, "my present plans are to pay by filing fee at the time I think proper."

The name "Kid" stuck with him through the years, including a spell as football coach at Appalachian State Teachers College and as secretary to U.S. Sen. William B. Umstead. Recently he had his name legally changed to Kidd Brewer.

"If my plans work out I plan to campaign by helicopter," he declared.

Brewer asserted, "I've been running for a year and a half and I haven't slowed down."

The only other announced candidate for lieutenant governor is State Rep. Alonzo C. Edwards of Greene County.

STRANGLED SELF DETROIT (AP)—Reaching on tip-toe from a chair for a recording of "The Lord's Prayer," 8-year-old Charles Chamberlain caught his head in an overhanging basement clothesline and strangled. The boy wanted to try out a record player his father had just installed.

With recent additional memberships the United Nations now represents countries with a total population of 2,245,542,000.

Heat Cuts Those Grades In School

NEW YORK (AP)—If your youngster's report card is poor, maybe you should blame the heat, not the homework.

Zephir A. Marsh, an expert on heating and father of seven children, told a meeting of educators that overheated classrooms in a majority of the nation's schools are dulling the learning capacity of grade school children.

Marsh, director of school activities for the Minneapolis Honeywell Co. says 20 to 30 youngsters packed into an average classroom will generate enough body heat to warm a five room house in freezing weather. This heat, he says, is the principal cause of overheating which makes pupils drowsy, inattentive and difficult to instruct.

Developments That Will Slow The Price Spiral

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—Prices continue to creep higher. And ahead lie two things that might bring them from creeping to at least the toddling stage.

These are: (1) the rise in the federal minimum wage rate March 1 and (2) the upcoming round of wage negotiations—notably in the basic industry steel.

Consumers may note the result of the first fairly soon. The effects of the second will come along gradually and later.

Iron and steel prices, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, have risen 17 per cent in the last 4½ years. After the wage settlement last summer they went up $7.35 a ton. Since then there have been creeping advances on various steel products, averaging out at around $1 a ton.

This trend continues, with some steelmen predicting prices will advance as much as $2 or $3 a ton more by summer. What will happen then depends on the outcome of the wage negotiations that will get under way in late spring.

The minimum wage hike to $1 hour some four weeks from now will affect mostly industries making goods for consumers buying such as hosiery and clothing. It is estimated that some two million workers will get a raise.

But as one mill owner says, "If I give the man who sweeps out the mill $40 a week, I must raise the skilled and semiskilled workers too or face trouble."

This might mean pay raises for two or three million more workers in the low-wage industries. Some estimate the total cost to industry could reach two billion dollars a year. Unless consumers go on a buying strike, this increased cost is likely to be passed along in higher prices.

For the consumer there is, however, the prospect that food prices will remain fairly steady.

But for the businessman it's different. Prices of industrial materials have been rising steadily. Two thirds of the purchasing agents polled this month reported a continuing rise in prices, the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents say. A long list of metals and other industrial materials are reported in short supply.

The Federal Reserve Board notes that the average prices of industrial materials rose 4 per cent in the last six months of 1954. There is always a time lag between these rising industrial prices and higher prices at the store. They are beginning to appear now in some instances. Offsetting them has been some price cutting by manufacturers of small appliances as a competitive move.

Stolen Souvenir Can't Be Used

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Someone in West Virginia has a souvenir license plate he wouldn't dare use.

License No. 1 was stolen from Gov. William C. Marland's big black car while the governor was attending an industrial development meeting in Wheeling.

State Police Lt. Roy G. Coen, the governor's driver, said it was the first time it had happened in his many years of driving for five West Virginia governors. The state plant has made Marland a new plate.

The average clerical office worker on the West Coast got $64 a week in 1955.

Play-By-Play In Burglary Case

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP)—Police were well informed about burglary committed by Gregorio Guerrero. As he was looking over the house, cutting a window screen and climbing in a window, a State Highway Department employe in an office nearby gave a running account to officers over the telephone.

Guerrero was arrested as he carried household items out the door. He got a year to 18 months.

Calls Fatigue A 'Warning Signal'

Chicago (AP)—Dr. Irvine H. Page, president of the American Heart Assn., says half the annual deaths in the United States result from some form of heart disease. Although it attacks at every age, occupation and income level, the all-too-often occurrence concerns the man who attains a coronary thrombosis along with his success and back account.

He urges moderation in the use of salt, fatty foods, sex, tobacco and alcohol saying:

"I'd like to add that I am for all these things — in moderation," and added:

"Learn equanimity in a world full of stress and strain. Avoid fatigue; it is a warning signal."

BAD SKATE

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP)—Roller-skating seemed to grow on a thief who broke into the Fred Weber home and made off with some shotgun shells and a pair of skates. A week later, the home was broken into again. A second pair of roller skates was taken that time.

A Doctor in the Family

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
The operation upon Fern Blake was a success. Alan knew that it was before he had ever finished in the operating room before the anesthetist had complimented him and before the patient had had a chance to show the first signs of recovery.

Twenty-four hours after the operation he could take Fred Blake to his wife's room, and point to Fern's hand as it lay upon the white spread. The thumb, he explained, was strong—it no longer lay collapsed within the fingers in what was medically called the baby position.

"Then she is—cured?" asked Captain Blake.

The doctor smiled. "To the point where she will be in control of herself and her emotions. I should strongly advise moving her, when she's ready, to a good convalescent home. She is weak now, of course, from surgery. And she may continue to be weak. I removed considerable bony tissue which had been pressing upon her brain. There were clots as well as one cyst. I am afraid she hasn't much in the way of life expectancy. A year—perhaps longer. But she will soon regain consciousness and some strength. I offer you this hope, Fred. Even if memory is not restored to her completely—and you must face and affectionately. Alan went along the fence to open the pasture gate and restrained his impulse to give his father a hand down from the saddle. Jasper's twinkie acknowledged that restraint.

"They talked for a minute or two, both tall men leaning on the fence rail, the buckskin tied at the gate. Jasper hooked a thumb at the frisking colt. "Lindy named him Quill," he told Alan. "He's going to make a good horse. Look at the strength of those hind quarters." "What will you name the new foal?"

"Makes no difference," declared Jasper. "Claimin' horse. They's a power o' difference between bein' an all-right foal and a good one!"

"You can tell that already?"

"I bred this one by the book. Sire and dam all read good—I should-a stuck to Feathers." He meant that he'd bred his mare from an another line.

"You have to get new blood now and then, sir."

"I do. But I should give thought to how that blood shows up—not just rely on its being blood."

Alan smiled, and Jasper acknowledged the implication. "Marilyn's the mother o' this one. She's pretty near all bloodline herself. I took a chance in breeding her to more blood, and the result is a pretty horse that'll read like Burke's Pezage on the book, and not be much else to rely on."

"You see, son, it does work out that way. Horses and people. Us our family. The Thorntons. We've got good blood, but mainly we're a line for strength and endurance. Now you take your mother—she very strongly believes that blood—just what's set down in the stud book—is the strength of a family. It's not that where she's wrong. She could look at her own family—Seretha, your Ma'am is herself strongest of the Merritt line, but her main strength is the way she bears the family. Though—But d'you ever notice, Alan, that the left hand, which is generally the weaker, is better suited to hold the reins than the right one?"

Alan regarded his father with awe.

"Ma'am knows that," Jasper continued. "She knows where her strength lies. Why else, d'you suppose, she's got a power o' strength lately? She has, you know. First, convincin' the girl that she had failed you and the family by not givin' you children, naggin' at her to let you have another chance."

Alan stared at his father, white-faced. He'd known that Seretha was somewhat in the picture but—

"All because," the old man swept on, "she knew that there was real strength in Lindy. Ma'am can't rule her, and she knows too, that it'll be Lindy who will supercede her with a strength that's quite different from Ma'am's strength—that rein-holdin' I mentioned."

Alan looked away now, but still stared, white-lipped. After a bit, the old man put his hand on the leather jacket sleeve. "Why don't you say some of these things to Lindy, Father?" asked Alan.

"I do a power o' talkin' to Lindy. Been able to. She knows what needs to be know. New—she knows."

Alan kicked his shoe into the dead grass under the fence rail.

"I had an idea that Ma'am wouldn't mind too much if Lindy and I—broke up. But I didn't think that she—Oh, Father, I don't want to think such things of my mother! What—what shall I do?"

"Nothin'—now. Won't need to. And Ma'am knows that. You'll have to more trouble from her She's a lady. Alan—a blue-blood. What she did she did because she believed it was best for the family. That comes first with her—as it should, I'm grateful by-and-large for the way she's raised my pups. You and Margaret... What about her, now, Alan?"

"I had to be the one to hurt her—

—and deeply, Father. I hated that, coming on top of losing Elias... Jasper nodded. "She's good stock. She can take hurt."

"I hope you're right," groaned Margaret's brother.

His father walked over to his horse. "I have to be right," he said, almost indifferently. "Or what's going to become of the human race?"

Fifteen minutes before dinner time, Linda and Margaret and the twins arrived at the Big House to share the meal. "To help eat a ham," Jim explained their presence.

Margaret greeted the others gently smiling, and said she'd run up to speak to Uncle Arthur; she'd not be long. Linda helped the twins with their wraps, and watched their manners. She herself spoke formally to Ma'am, smiled at Jasper and flushed pink when Alan kissed her.

With the twins settled she joined the older folk with the soft announcement that Fred Blake had that day received orders. He was being transferred to a camp in New Jersey, and would have to leave before the end of the week.

"Well," said Seretha "that's a relief!" She tossed her head against the glances turned her way. "Certainly!" she said firmly. "I've been afraid that he and Margaret would do something indiscreet and bring disgrace upon the family."

"I believe he is a very good man!" said Jasper, his green eyes a-twinkle. "The way he's acted, the job he's done at the Port—he's got good stuff in him, and they still may marry and have children together. I hope to see them—just as I hope to see the ones Lindy will have for Alan."

Linda blushed in confusion, but excitement shone in the eyes she lifted to his twinkly gaze. Why, she asked herself, should I TRY to decide things for myself? The family was a part to every thing. Ma'am might try to spoil things—but Father—Father won't let her. All I need do is to sit tight.

Alan was watching her, his green eyes as bright as Jasper's, and a slow smile began to fold into his cheeks, to bracket his big mouth, to spray out from the corners of his eyes.

Alan was watching her, his green eyes as bright as Jasper's, and a slow smile began to fold into his cheeks, to bracket his big mouth, to spray out from the corners of his eyes.

Linda blushed in confusion, but excitement shone in the eyes she lifted to his twinkly gaze. Why, she asked herself, should I TRY to decide things for myself? The family was a part to every thing. Ma'am might try to spoil things—but Father—Father won't let her. All I need do is to sit tight.

Alan was watching her, his green eyes as bright as Jasper's, and a slow smile began to fold into his cheeks, to bracket his big mouth, to spray out from the corners of his eyes.

and affectionately. Alan went along the fence to open the pasture gate and restrained his impulse to give his father a hand down from the saddle. Jasper's twinkie acknowledged that restraint.

"They talked for a minute or two, both tall men leaning on the fence rail, the buckskin tied at the gate. Jasper hooked a thumb at the frisking colt. "Lindy named him Quill," he told Alan. "He's going to make a good horse. Look at the strength of those hind quarters." "What will you name the new foal?"

"Makes no difference," declared Jasper. "Claimin' horse. They's a power o' difference between bein' an all-right foal and a good one!"

"You can tell that already?"

"I bred this one by the book. Sire and dam all read good—I should-a stuck to Feathers." He meant that he'd bred his mare from an another line.

"You have to get new blood now and then, sir."

"I do. But I should give thought to how that blood shows up—not just rely on its being blood."

Alan smiled, and Jasper acknowledged the implication. "Marilyn's the mother o' this one. She's pretty near all bloodline herself. I took a chance in breeding her to more blood, and the result is a pretty horse that'll read like Burke's Pezage on the book, and not be much else to rely on."

"You see, son, it does work out that way. Horses and people. Us our family. The Thorntons. We've got good blood, but mainly we're a line for strength and endurance. Now you take your mother—she very strongly believes that blood—just what's set down in the stud book—is the strength of a family. It's not that where she's wrong. She could look at her own family—Seretha, your Ma'am is herself strongest of the Merritt line, but her main strength is the way she bears the family. Though—But d'you ever notice, Alan, that the left hand, which is generally the weaker, is better suited to hold the reins than the right one?"

Alan regarded his father with awe.

"Ma'am knows that," Jasper continued. "She knows where her strength lies. Why else, d'you suppose, she's got a power o' strength lately? She has, you know. First, convincin' the girl that she had failed you and the family by not givin' you children, naggin' at her to let you have another chance."

Alan stared at his father, white-faced. He'd known that Seretha was somewhat in the picture but—

"All because," the old man swept on, "she knew that there was real strength in Lindy. Ma'am can't rule her, and she knows too, that it'll be Lindy who will supercede her with a strength that's quite different from Ma'am's strength—that rein-holdin' I mentioned."

Alan looked away now, but still stared, white-lipped. After a bit, the old man put his hand on the leather jacket sleeve. "Why don't you say some of these things to Lindy, Father?" asked Alan.

"I do a power o' talkin' to Lindy. Been able to. She knows what needs to be know. New—she knows."

Alan kicked his shoe into the dead grass under the fence rail.

"I had an idea that Ma'am wouldn't mind too much if Lindy and I—broke up. But I didn't think that she—Oh, Father, I don't want to think such things of my mother! What—what shall I do?"

"Nothin'—now. Won't need to. And Ma'am knows that. You'll have to more trouble from her She's a lady. Alan—a blue-blood. What she did she did because she believed it was best for the family. That comes first with her—as it

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

DRAMATIC PLANNING features this house. A full view of a 22-foot living room is commanded from the front entrance foyer. Sliding glass doors, comprising large single plates framed in aluminum, open on a garden terrace from living room, dining room and family room. The house is cleverly designed for construction with or without a basement. Cellar stairs are provided off the service entry next to the garage and an outside cellar entrance is indicated below a rear bedroom window. Yet a large walk-in closet behind the chimney provides for a heater room if basement is omitted. This is plan M-949AP by Rudolph A. Malern, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N.Y. The house covers 1,722 square feet.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, Real Estate Editor

HOMES LOST or damaged in floods are just about as completely lost or as badly wrecked as they possibly can be. The recent tragic floods in California, following so closely on the disastrous Connecticut and other Eastern floods (with the usual Midwest spring crop of floods still to come) point up a very serious shortcoming in home protection.

Research is continually turning up precautions for a homeowner to take against fire, hurricanes, gas poisoning and even electric shock, but what about floods? So far you can't even get insurance against floods.

We mentioned this to an insurance man the other day. "Would you take out a policy?" he asked. "No? Because you live on a hill, and so do I, and so do all the other fellows? That's the point. The cost would be prohibitive because only candidates for flood claims would want to buy the stuff."

Well, a homeowner can't be a little Dutch boy at the dike when rivers overflow, but he can do a lot to hedge against the ruinous effects of water. And many of the things he can do apply to most of us, even if we live on hill.

It seems pretty obvious that a man who plans to build a house low in a river valley or on an alluvial plain is flirting with trouble if he bothers with a basement. That's a very controversial statement, because with modern silicone water-proofing compounds, polyethylene membranes and various other techniques, the mud and all street under you. Cover a concrete slab with asphalt tile or vinyl asbestos tile and your floor can defy water and mud.

We asked David Kennedy, head of Kentile, about this and he said: "Hose off the mud and the floor should be as good as new." He claims that such floor coverings laid over wood, which may warp and buckle in a flood, can be removed, washed off and relaid. Sounds like a tough job, but any cleanup after a flood is tough.

CONCRETE and masonry are not damaged by submersion. House footings supported by hard-packed gravel, cinders or clay are much more resistant to washing than plain sand. And if you don't use reinforced poured concrete for foundations and walls, consider concrete blocks. They are the same size as cinder blocks and are less porous. All frame houses, whether in flood areas or anywhere, should have heavy sills bolted firmly to their foundations. Houses that are properly anchored and adequately nailed throughout will defy much more racking in windstorms or floods. They are not so likely to go floating away.

Suspending heating plants from the ceiling of a basement or a ground floor utility room is sensible in flood areas. Sump pumps are useless when submerged.

When any kind of flooding occurs — even rainwater pouring into a cellar window on a hillside due to linted gutters — stay away from electric switches and all wiring until professional inspection is made.

'Recruiting Day' For Nat'l Guard

Major General John H. Manning, State Adjutant General, today announced that all National Guard units in North Carolina will conduct a one-day recruiting drive February 25.

"The purpose of the campaign," he said, "is to help enlist 75,000 new volunteer Guardsmen urgently needed to meet the fiscal year goal set by Congress for the United States, Puerto Rico, Alaska, and Hawaii."

"We hope through a brief but intensive drive to stimulate a broad-based community interest in joining the Guard for a larger National Guard through the democratic means of voluntary enlistment."

"Present strength of the National Guard in the United States and territories is 3,174," he said. "That is an all-time high but it still falls short of what the military planners in Washington have in mind for us."

General Manning said that present strength of the National Guard in North Carolina was approximately 11,000 and that the net increase needed to meet the state's quota for this year was 1,150.

There will be open houses at armories, parades, downtown displays and aerial flyovers by National Guard planes, depending upon the size of the units and the facilities available to them.

After 30 Years She's Repentant

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—A woman walked into the Burke Tarr Furniture Store and placed a large bag on the counter.

"I wish you'd take this to ease my troubles," she said. "Ever since I swiped it off your wall 30 years ago at the other store, I've had nothing but hard luck."

The manager offered the woman as saying also: "I'm really repentant. I'm going to join a church and in order to do that I have to return this clock I stole. Thank you."

Then she walked out.

Fisherman Was Getting Shirts

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A thief, using a four-hook fishing plug, landed 21 dozen work shirts, worth about $400, from a clothing store.

Henry Sear, the store owner, said the man tore a hole in the roof and used a length of stout line to lower the plug repeatedly into a pile of shirts without ever entering the building.

The lure was found on the floor apparently where the thief had dropped it beyond retrieving.

Concedes Truth Was Stretched

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Even the prosecutor was surprised. "Are you telling the truth?" demanded the prosecutor, Paul DeLaney, when the defendant denied at his trial that he had stolen an overcoat.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I'm not," replied the accused man.

"Six months," said Magistrate Gordon Scott.

Big Expenditure Of Money, Effort Foreseen To Develop Atomic Power

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special study group foresees expenditure of "large sums of money and years of effort" to bring about effective and wide use of atomic power on a competitive basis. This was but one of many conclusions reached by the panel of nongovernment specialists yesterday after 10 months spent examining the present and future impact of the peaceful use of atomic energy at home and abroad.

The project was undertaken at the request of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. The panelists were drawn from many fields. They were headed by Robert McKinney, editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican. The special group had access to certain secret material in the course of its study of atomic power and the application of atomic energy to medicine, agriculture and industry.

In its report, the panel urged "high priority" for research aimed at developing as soon as possible the potential benefits of the atom in these fields. It said:

"For the many peaceful application (of atomic energy) to enter into everyday life on a scale sufficient to cause impact much remains to be done. Atomic power must first become economically competitive. Later it may be cheap but not free. Other atomic applications can add to the production capabilities of our farms and factories. New avenues to better health are in prospect.

"More than money and promises are needed, however. It takes time and trained people to stake out the resources of this new technology. Widespread understanding of the difficulties to be overcome — potential hazards, and the necessity for realistic international working arrangements — is an essential element in the realization of these benefits."

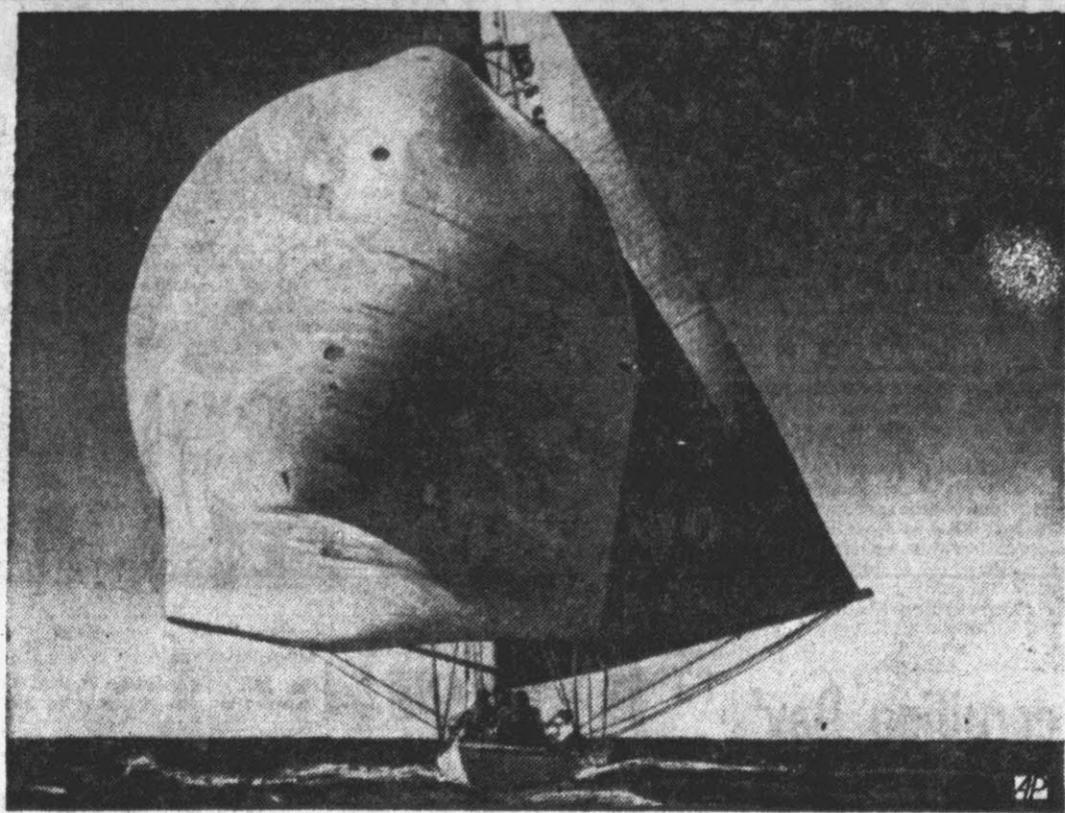

The panel said 1965 shapes up as "the earliest time at which widely competitive atomic power generation is likely to begin in the United States."

The report indicated that such a beginning might occur earlier in countries where conventional power is either costly or in short supply.

The panelists said private enterprise should carry a "substantial part of the burden" of research and development in the power field, including construction and operation of full-scale demonstration reactors. But if private industry doesn't do so they added, the government should build them.

Among other major points in the report:

1. Atomic materials and know-how for construction of generating capacity for at least one million kilowatts of atomic power should be furnished by the United States to other friendly nations by 1960.

SUMMER IN SOUTH PACIFIC — The Tasmanian eight-meter yacht Erica J. with parachute spinnaker billowing in a recent race off Sydney, Australia.

2. All information regarding reactor technology — that is, the science of atomic furnaces — should be removed from the secret list by the Atomic Energy Commission.

And it said the AEC should — within national security limitations — release as much information as possible about research designed to harness H-bomb power for peaceful uses.

3. The potential benefits of the atom to agriculture will not only help the American farmer, but also will give the United States a "dramatic opportunity to lead undeveloped, undernourished countries to higher living standards."

4. Atomic-powered automobiles, trucks and buses apparently will not be feasible in the foreseeable future.

The report said, "Technical prospects for military aircraft with atomic propulsion are considered good," but that "prospects for economically competitive commercial applications seem unlikely until some experience with military prototypes has been acquired."

It said it considered the best possible bet for relatively early commercial application to be atomic-powered cargo aircraft operating over distances of more than several thousand miles.

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WHY NOT revive the old-fashioned playroom?

Make it the spacious kind built just for the kids, popular when grandmother was a girl.

Growing families need more of the same today, what with children outnumbering adults 6 to 2 in some houses. But still parents go on planning and buying houses that look like whistle stops. Dad might argue for a den or a workshop. Mom might express a yearning for a sewing room, although these things might not materialize. But when it comes to the kids—how many can share a small bedroom is the only question in parents' minds.

TIMES have changed. Why don't parents and home builders reconstruct their ideas of home? Little to swarm over the house warned not to touch electric light cords, important lamps, ashtrays, bibelots. They are supervised over waxed floors, protected from television set and fireplace—hazards to small lives, that take their toll in time and effort on Mom's part. They are barred from kitchen and living room furniture and for the most part are prisoners in a home bursting at the seams.

If youngsters had a lobby they'd probably demand a safe and sane play area. One room organized to their growing needs could do it even for small population of lilliputians. If not available the bedroom could be arranged to combine a sleeping and play area.

The result of a sampling of small try about their playroom requirements reveals that a 6-year-old boy would like a slide, roller skates and boxing gloves. A 4-year-old girl would like a doll and carriage, maybe even a set of doll furniture. A boy of 3 would like to have a "thwing." The over-12 set went for a tennis table or a hoop on the wall for a basketball. All would like to have playthings readily available in one spot.

Mom might need steady nerves to withstand the ruckus created by these active bodies. But how much better to have it all in one room instead of over the house? Even the wall can hold skates, boxing gloves, a couple of guns in holsters. Doll and carriage are at another end of the room. Sound-softening rubber tile or vinyl makes a good flooring.

The older child's room might have a minimum of furniture, perhaps just a slim studio bed, pillows for floor sitting instead of a chair, storage shelves for clothes instead of bulky chests. Paint a shuffle board game on the floor, at a hoop up on the wall for basketball practice shots, and a sturdy wall could even be used for handball games. Table tennis and badminton could be played in a large room.

DRIVING FOR TOP YIELDS? YOU NEED CAL-NITRO

Your need for better yields on all crops was never greater... and your crops need more than ever before the best, low-cost source of nitrogen—non-acid forming Cal-Nitro.

In your drive for maximum crop production, you get extra growing power with this prime fertilizer compound, Cal-Nitro, with a 20.5% guaranteed nitrogen content, offers a most effective, completely balanced plant food. It contains in equal quantities the fast-acting nitrate form of nitrogen, and the equally fast-acting, but also long-lasting ammonia nitrogen.

Both types dissolve easily and quickly, and give immediate benefits to your crops. Cal-Nitro is perfectly balanced and non-acid forming, and is easily applied in its free-flowing granular form by both hand and machine.

Ask your neighbors—experience has proven you can't get a better low-cost nitrogen fertilizer compound. Your dealer and county agent will be glad to tell you how it can help give you maximum yields.

Circus To Show Here Feb. 13-14

PACHYDERM AND BEAUTY.—La Francisca, Queen of the Air and Delise, European star of the high wire, with one of the twin baby elephants of the Miller herd of performing elephants. The big Miller Bros. Great Indoor Circus featuring the stars of the circus world and 24 acts will be presented at the Greenville Armory on Feb. 13-14 for performances at 4 & 8 P. M. daily under sponsorship of the National Guard.

The Miller Bros. Great Indoor Circus will be presented by the National Guard in the Greenville Armory for four performances on Monday and Tuesday Feb. 13-14. Performances will be given at 4 P. M. and 8 P. M. daily.

The Miller Bros. is one of the largest Indoor Circuses on tour in the world today and will stop off at Greenville to break a jump.

The big show traveling on a large fleet of trucks will present a hodge-podge of wonderful features such as stellar stars and acts as Capt. Kuhn, America's premier wild animal trainer battling a mixed den of ferocious lions, tigers and bears. The "doughty" Captain puts the fierce animals thru a brisk pace in the big steel arena.

The Miller Bros. head of performing elephants; Tonga, movie and TV chimpanzee star; dog, pony acts, jugglers, balancers, contortionists, highwire artists trapeze stars and an aerial ballet featuring eight lovely darlings of the big top performing death defying feats high in the air.

La Francisca, "Queen of the air", has won world-wide acclaim throughout the world and is the toast of Europe. Many other stars, acts, troupe, international families, features and displays form a glittering two-hour galaxy of all that is amazing and wonderful in spangland.

Lines Drawn For Primary In N.H.

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Final battle lines have been drawn for the first in-the-nation New Hampshire presidential primary elections March 13. On the popularity side of the ballot, President Eisenhower is unopposed as a Republican and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) uncontested as a Democrat. In the balloting for control of the state's delegation to the national conventions, however, both face opposition. The Eisenhower slate will be pitted against one pledged to Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), who approved the move as a "standby" candidate. Kefauver's pledged backers are confronted by a slate favorable to Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Demo-

Begin Deliberating Perjury Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury today begins deliberating the perjury case of Paul M. Hughes, whose claim of being a tool in a political plot has come under heavy fire from prosecution witnesses. In summing up yesterday, defense counsel Martin Erdmann admitted Hughes was "naive, glib and unethical" but said he was the dupe of political foes of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis). U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams, in his summation, termed Hughes' testimony "the mere imaginings" of a "strange, deluded man." Hughes, 35-year-old World War II veteran went on trial Jan. 16 on six counts of perjury stemming from testimony before a federal grand jury probing Harvey M. Matusow, former Communist who turned informer and then repudiated his testimony. Hughes allegedly told the grand jury that Matusow became a turn-about witness after being financially prompted by a number of anti-McCarthyites—including Joseph Rauh Jr., head of Americans for Democratic Action, a pro-New Deal organization and Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Rauh and Fritchey denied on the witness stand that they ever had anything to do with Matusow. But both men admitted being hoodwinked by material submitted by Hughes concerning alleged "illegal activities" of McCarthy while he was chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

cratic nominee. Deadline for filing in the preference poll phase passed at 5 p.m. yesterday. The preference poll is merely advisory for convention delegates.

The deadline for pledged delegate filing is Feb. 11. Neither Knowland nor Stevenson backers have filed complete pledged states but both are expected to do so.

Both Stevenson and Knowland refused to enter the preferential section of the balloting, which Eisenhower and Kefauver won in 1952. Eisenhower's name was entered although he has not yet indicated that he plans to run.

Should he decide not to, this would create an unprecedented situation. Under New Hampshire law, his name must remain on the ballot. The law says he has 10 days to request withdrawal and that period has long since passed.

Overemphasis On Bathing Beauties

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma A&M College Air Force ROTC officers say new "flight" plans had been filed for a recruiting film after a preview showed more bathing beauties than bombers.

Col. Clarence H. Breedlove, director of the Aggie air detachment, said he had no doubt but what the film would stimulate more men to join up for advanced ROTC courses but he wasn't so sure how it would go over with taxpayers and other audiences.

The film was made during the Aggie cadets' trips to such places as Las Vegas, Nev., and other scenic spots. The ROTC had planned to show it to civic groups.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, have promised to "exert every effort on behalf of Greenville." The command's mission is to "facilitate activation of as many military and commercial terminals as may be needed in the event of an emergency," the spokesman said.

Biggest Rooftop Heliport In Tokyo

TOKYO (AP)—The Tokyo Air Terminal Co. today announced it will build the "world's largest" rooftop heliport in the heart of Tokyo's business district.

It is planned to accommodate 80 passenger helicopters airlifting travelers to and from Tokyo International Airport, 45 minutes away by taxi. The $4,000-square-foot heliport will be built atop the 11-story Metropolitan government building this spring. Walnut, pecan and hickory nuts store best in a cool and dry place, say horticulturists at Purdue University.

Three Carolina Cities Considered For Army Post

CHARLOTTE (AP)—An Army spokesman says that three Carolina cities are being considered as possible sites for the Atlantic Terminal Command, presently located in Brooklyn, N.Y. The spokesman said that Charlotte, Greensboro and S.C., are the cities being looked over as possible headquarters for the command. "The selection of a site has not taken place yet and is not expected in the near future," he said. Rep. Charles R. Jonas (R-NC) said he understands that the headquarters will employ 600 to 800 persons and will ultimately be enlarged to 300,000 square feet. The command presently employs 30 officers and 80 civilians. The Atlantic Terminal Command is one of three Army terminal headquarters in the United States. The other two head terminal and loading facilities on the Gulf and West coasts. The Army spokesman said a new site is being sought in line with the Army Department's dispersal policy. Jonas said that the Army is looking for leasing space, but "if they can find it, they might consider a lease-purchase agreement. He said he would do everything possible to get the building for Charlotte. Two South Carolina congressmen, Rep. Robert T. Ashmore and

Bluster And Soft Talk Appears Deliberate Communist Tactics

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Reds have been treating the United States like a donkey, beating it over the head with the stick of bluster, trying to lead it along with the carrot of soft talk.

Since the 1953 death of Joseph Stalin, with his perpetual growl, the Russians have switched from nasty to nice and back again, with assists from the Red Chinese. The Chinese were in the act this week.

The Russians have blown up peace hopes, and deflated them, like a balloon. They have switched so much they seem to play by ear. It might be fatal to assume so.

Georgi Malenkov, who succeeded Stalin as premier, took a softer line than the old dictator. He talked of "peaceful coexistence" and "peaceful economic competition." He was bounced in favor of Nikolai Bulganin Feb. 8, 1955.

That same day Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov took the tough line again: he said the Soviets led the United States in the H-bomb race. He accused the United States of aggression. He warned the United States not to push too hard.

Meanwhile, alternately fierce and moderate, the Soviet leaders eventually joined President Eisenhower in the Geneva summit meeting. There they were so pleasant that the wistful began to think happy days were here again.

Russia dropped the carrot and picked up the stick again when Molotov went back to Geneva for the foreign ministers' meeting. He showed nothing had changed.

Then Bulganin and Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev, just as if there had never been pleasant words at Geneva with Eisenhower, journeyed to Southern Asia, where Khrushchev denounced the West, tried to stir up trouble among the Asians.

Bulganin didn't get nasty. He played straight man to Khrushchev's tough guy. Pretty shrewd arrangement. Whenever the Russians wanted to switch back to being nice, Bulganin, who avoided name-calling, could open up a smile.

The Russians lost some ground from a propaganda standpoint—anyway—when Eisenhower offered at Geneva his aerial inspection plan and the Soviets turned it down. It was almost certain they would when he made the offer.

They tried to offset this last week with Bulganin's offer to Eisenhower of a 30-year friendship treaty, which the President turned down, as the Russians no doubt knew he would.

But on the day Bulganin made his treaty offer Khrushchev, as if to puzzle the West a little more, suddenly began mentioning friendly relations and Eisenhower's good intentions.

The Reds, having failed to budge the United States with the treaty carrot, pulled the stick out from behind the door.

No sooner had Eisenhower rejected the friendship treaty than the Red Chinese got into the act, as they had been doing on and off all year.

Their foreign minister, Chou En-lai, threatened to take Formosa,

'True Communist' Sect In Canada Arouses Neighbors

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP)—A religious sect of "true communists" is prospering in western Canada, and arousing considerable ire from some of their neighbors.

The Hutterite sect has 42 colonies in Alberta, 22 in Manitoba and 6 in Saskatchewan and is expanding constantly.

The Hutterites have a high birth rate and continually need to establish new communities. Their prosperity allows them to offer high prices for land. Some of their Manitoba neighbors say this expansion must halt.

Hutterites' lives are governed by a rigid religious and social system. "We would rather be burned at the stake than go out and live the kind of life being lived in the world today," says the Rev. John Wurz, 77, leader of the sect's 10,000 members.

The sect sprang from the Anabaptist movement in the 16th century and was founded by Jacob Huter, who was burned at the stake in 1536 at Innsbruck, Austria, for his religious beliefs and teaching. The Hutterite way of life has kept them at odds with the rest of the world ever since.

About 75 years ago, 400 Hutterites left Russia to settle in the Dakotas. They refused to bear arms for the United States in World War I and resentment there caused many to move into Canada, where most Hutterites live today.

Colonies average 180 persons. Every able-bodied man must work. The bosses are picked by election. Women work in the community kitchens, laundries, dairies and sewing rooms until they are 50. Men work as long as they are able. Profits are held communally by the community.

The Hutterites wear black—the men denim jackets and overalls and the women ankle-length dresses. They eat in community dining rooms and live in apartments in barracklike buildings. The men never shave after marriage. The church with its daily services is the center of Hutterite life.

Sect members refuse to vote in local and national elections. Only in the past 20 years have they obeyed laws requiring children to attend school and employed outside teachers for the state-prescribed curriculum. To this is added several more hours of instruction in religion and Hutterite history. German is the common tongue.

A few years ago Hutterites in Canada abandoned their primitive farming methods and now their colonies are among the best-equipped large-scale farming operations in the country. The profits are commensurate.

When opponents call his people communist, the Rev. Mr. Wurz says they are right, but "we have the spiritual idea in our organization. The Bolsheviks are tyrants

Girl In Plot To Kill Her Parents

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Authorities said two men plotted with a teenage high school girl to kill her parents and divide their wealth. The girl's mother was shot Monday and is in critical condition. The girl is charged with felonious assault.

Marlene told officers she shot her mother Mrs. Margaret Chomko, 38, in the back and then, with Diana, set out by car in pursuit of the girl's father, who was driving to New York.

Mrs. Chomko was able to reach a telephone, and an operator "heard" her mother went police. The police found Mrs. Chomko on a floor in her home and intercepted Diana and the girl before they could catch up with the father. A revolver was found in their car.

The Chomkos have two younger sons, who were at school during the shooting.

The kestrel is a small falcon found in Europe, Asia and Africa.

Diana, 22-year-old Sicilian immigrant, and John Pitta, 34, whom he said masterminded the plot against the parents of Marlene Chomko, 16.

He said the girl intended to marry Diana and "live happily ever after" in her parents' luxurious home in nearby Taylor. Pitta was to get a truck belonging to her father, a well-to-do trucker.

Needles said all three had signed statements admitting taking part in the plot.

The men have been held on open charges. The girl is charged with felonious assault.

Camera News

This is the type of camera angle which makes for good stereo. However, it didn't do too badly as a straight 35mm color slide. It won the grand prize of a trip around the world for Henrik Krogius, an Air Force veteran of Brooklyn, N. Y. in the Saturday Review's third annual World Travel Photo Contest. It was taken in Allahabad, India.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newfeatures

Lend an ear as I dish out some advice to my son, across the country, on the use of a new stereo camera. I've been a three-dimension fan for some three years now and he's a brand new convert.

Stereo is a specialized field of photography with some limitations in its unique world of depth and color. For most fans, it's still a one-person-at-a-time hand viewing affair with every one else wondering what he's exclaiming about. Sure there are stereo projectors for group viewing but they're expensive, less brilliant, require special viewing glasses with attendant eye-strain and more accurate slide mounting.

As a normal camera fan, it's easy to adjust to stereo shooting. Look for foreground interest which will tie into the background. Instead of shooting broadside at your subjects, aim for a three-quarter light meter. Remember the standard exposure for a sunny day is 1-50th second at f 6.3 with daylight type Kodachrome (ASA 10). With the new faster color film (ASA 32), the standard is 1-60th at f 11.

When you shoot flash indoors, the stereo camera must be set at a speed of 1-25th of a second. That's to make sure the full light output of the flash reaches both lenses. The duration of the flash itself is much less than that, of course, so you'll be able to stop most normal action.

For good indoor color rendition, use Kodachrome Type F film with No. 5 or No. 25 clear flashbulbs. This combination needs no color correction filter and has a guide number of 95. That means that with a little simple arithmetic you can figure out the correct lens opening for whatever distance you are shooting. Divide the distance into the guide number, 95, and that's what the lens is set at. For instance, if your subject is six feet away, divide 95 by 6 and the correct lens opening is f 16. For a 12 foot distance, the lens would be set to f 8, etc.

To save mental arithmetic while taking pictures, print a little chart showing lens openings at various distances and attach it to the back of the flashgun.

Suppose you wanted to shoot some pictures outdoors in daylight while your camera is still loaded with Type F film? You need a pair of conversion filters, 85C. Slip one on each lens before you click away. If you go back to shooting flashbulbs, be sure you remove the filters.

There may be other occasions when you start out with daylight type film and before you finish the roll, the scene shifts and you want to shoot indoors. The simplest method is to have some blue flashbulbs handy, either No. 5 B or No. 25 B. This combination has a lower guide number—of 55—so be sure to do some different figuring.

It's frustrating to attend a party or start shooting at some special event and run short of film or bulbs. . . as I did recently. Now I'm more aware than ever how necessary it is to carry spares in the gadget bag or even in the trunk of the car for emergencies.

Plan Distribution Of $1,482,000

RALEIGH (AP) — The Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. will distribute $1,482,000 to growers in six states about May 1. The money comes from the sale of leaf taken under the government's price support program.

Lloyd T. Weeks, general manager of the corporation, said his organization still has on hand about 487 million pounds of tobacco from the crop years 1952 through 1955.

Weeks said the corporation has sold about 108 million pounds of tobacco in the past month, including all remaining stocks from the 1951 crop.

The 1951 crop, he said, was sold for a net gain of $1,011,953.26, about one-half of this amount will be put back into the stabilization corporation's operating fund. The rest—$485,182.26—will go to 253,684 members who placed 1951 tobacco with the corporation.

The 1952 crop, he said, will be sold for a net gain of $1,011,953.26, about one-half of this amount will be put back into the stabilization corporation's operating fund. The rest—$485,182.26—will go to 253,684 members who placed 1951 tobacco with the corporation.

The 1953 crop, he said, will be sold for a net gain of $1,011,953.26, about one-half of this amount will be put back into the stabilization corporation's operating fund. The rest—$485,182.26—will go to 253,684 members who placed 1951 tobacco with the corporation.

The 1954 crop, he said, will be sold for a net gain of $1,011,953.26, about one-half of this amount will be put back into the stabilization corporation's operating fund. The rest—$485,182.26—will go to 253,684 members who placed 1951 tobacco with the corporation.

State Education Board Approves Big Allocation For School Construction

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Board of Education today approved the allocation of $1,612,999.09 in state funds for school building projects which will cost $3,522,444.24.

The board was told that this brings to $19,776,373.07 the allocations made from the 50-million-dollar school building fund approved in 1953. Some of the new applications were under the recent 25-million formula worked out by a special committee.

The 1953 fund called for the allocation of 10 million on the basis of $100,000 to each county. The other 15 million allocation was based on school attendance. The remaining 25 million was allocated under a special formula.

The biggest project approved today was a new junior high school at Goldsboro also cost $971,500, of which $156,178.55 is in state funds.

The board adopted a general policy on the disposition of lands belonging to the state. An inventory will be made of state-owned lands. In the future, before any land is sold, it will be appraised and one land advertised in a county newspaper and one or two daily newspapers in the state, it was decided.

The feasibility of selling timber on the land and retaining the land for its wealth also will be studied.

The 1955 Legislature authorized the spending of $20,000 to locate and identify state-owned lands.

The board said that the Department of Conservation and Development and the Wildlife Resources Commission will be consulted to solicit the aid of game and fire wardens in locating marginal lands which might belong to the state.

The action will enable the state to tighten down on the cutting of timber on state-owned properties.

The board authorized the Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Wake Forest to award the degrees of bachelor of divinity and master of theology.

The board was told the seminary, which is operating in the same plant used by Wake Forest College has an enrollment of 460 students and expects to increase the number to 750 within five years.

The board was told the seminary is in the process of applying to the American Theological Assn. for admittance.

In other actions, the board voted to increase the state license fees on business colleges and trade school. License renewals will be upped from $10 to $15 and initial license fees will be $25 instead of $10.

J. Warren Smith, state director of vocational education, said the proceeds from the increased fees will be used to make a more rigid inspection of the equipment, buildings and courses at the business colleges and trade school.

The board requested Smith to submit a list of the standards under which the institutions operate. Following is a list of state allocations which the board approved for school building projects:

Alamance county, new Mebane elementary, $89,179.41

Alexander, lunchroom addition to Happy Plains, $31,083.60; lunch room at Taylorsville, $47,537.10

Caswell, new Bartlett Yancey school, $186,561.06

Greensboro, new building at Senior High $61,555.89; new building at Dudley, $210,538.19

Johnston, new building at Meadow, $56,065.43; new building at Selma, $80,000

Jones new plant at Pollocksville elementary $120,496.50

Onslow, new plant at Blue Creek $106,324.88

Person, new plant at Lee Jeffers, $208,636.42

Sampson, new plant at Hobbs $100,000

Planning For Play Day Program

Members of the Play Day Committee for Pitt County's seventh and eighth grades met yesterday to map plans for a field day in the spring. All schools will participate in the event at Guy Smith Stadium. Meeting with the local committee was Dr. Taylor Dodson, seated right, physical education and health director with the State Department of Public Instruction. Committee members are, left to right, seated: Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, Pitt school supervisor; Mrs. Jean Musselwhite, Stokes-Pactolus School; Mrs. Laura Barrier, Stokes-Pactolus School. Standing: Bob Williams, Grimesland; William P. Berry, Bethel Elementary School principal; Arthur S. Alford, Fountain principal; and Edward N. Warren, Falkland principal. Slayer Is Given Prison Sentence

Henry Lee Darden, Craven County Negro, yesterday was sentenced to 30 years for the shotgun slaying of his mother-in-law last July.

Darden, who fled the home near Grifton where the shooting occurred, was finally captured November 15 in Salisbury, Md. by the F.B.I. and returned to Greenville to stand self-styled preacher, Darden was identified by members of the family as the man who fired a .12 gauge shotgun, killing Mrs. Georgianna Williams.

Darden entered a plea of guilty to second degree murder.

Another lengthy sentence — to Jesse Horton, Negro, of 809 Vandenberg Road — was passed out yesterday for incest.

Horton, a warrant signed by his wife charged, committed incest with his 13-year-old daughter sometime last month. He will serve a seven to 10 year stretch.

In other cases, Jessie Holloway was fined $50 and costs for receiving stolen goods. A charge of allowing an unlicensed operator to drive was not pressed with leave for Guy Nichols.

John Frank Darden was sentenced to 18 months for breaking and entering and larceny and forgery.

Elijah Williams was handed a 15 months road sentence for larceny.

John Lilley, of Greenville, paid $100 and costs for breaking and entering and larceny.

Burning Grass Set Wall Of Building Afire

Burning grass set fire to a rear wall of the Plaza Theatre yesterday afternoon and slightly damaged the unused building.

Flames burned through boarding at the rear of the building but foremen were able to prevent the spread of the fire through the big wood building.

Use of the Negro theatre, located on Albermarle Ave. was discontinued some years ago.

The fire was discovered about 5:20 p. m.

Firemen also answered a call to 406 Harding St. yesterday when a heating plant began smoking.

No damage resulted. The house is occupied by James Butler.

Funeral Friday For Bobby Wainwright

Bobby Eugene Wainwright, 19, died at the home of Robert L. Tyson of near Bell Arthur Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Friday afternoon at three o'clock by the Rev. Thomas Spencer, Pentecostal Holiness Minister of Farmville. Burial will be in the Wainwright Cemetery near Ballard's Crossroads.

Bobby was born and spent most of his life in Pitt County and attended school at Kinston, Ayden

CAP Squadron Meets Tonight

Greenville's unit of the Civil Air Patrol will meet tonight at 8 p. m. at the airport. Capt. Walter Bunch announced today.

All senior members, cadets and guests are urged to attend, Capt. Bunch said.

MOTHER FREED, 2 SENTENCED:—Mrs. Gertrude Silver and her husband, Herman (upper left) and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz (lower left) enter court at Philadelphia Tuesday just before Mrs. Silver was freed and the Schwartz couple drew prison terms in the abortion death of Mrs. Silver's heirless daughter, Mrs. Doris Jean Ostreicher. Mrs. Schwartz, who admitted in testimony that she performed the illegal operation which killed the bride of Miami motorcycle policeman Earl M. Ostreicher, was given an indeterminate sentence. Schwartz drew a sentence of 3 to 10 years. Mrs. Silver had been charged with being an accessory before the fact. At right, Policeman Ostreicher enters the court room. The man behind him was not identified. (AP Wirephotos)

Herbert Bonner Pays Filing Fee

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's 1st District congressman Rep. Herbert C. Bonner of Washington, N.C., filed today as a candidate for re-election.

The State Board of Elections entered Bonner's name as a candidate after receiving through the mail his $225 filing fee.

Bonner has represented the 1st District in Congress since 1940.

Stabilization Administration, replied the deeper cut would make the probable 1957 reduction "less burdensome."

The flue-cured area congressmen pointed out that seed beds have been planted, fertilizer purchased and labor arranged on a basis of the acreage allotments announced last year. To cut those allotments now, they argued, would upset the entire economy by forcing revision of planting plans after money had been spent for seed and labor.

The committee that is scheduled to be heard voted Dec. 19 to work for the 20 per cent slash. It represents all phases of the tobacco industry in the five states which grow flue-cured.

The meeting is scheduled for the hometown of Rep. Cooley (D-NC), who heads the House Agriculture Committee. Cooley introduced the reduction bill, but he says now that the Department of Agriculture delayed too long in approving the idea for the bill's proposals to be workable.

BIBLES UNTOUCHED

DALLAS (AP) — Two young bandits last night stole the car of Bible salesman James K. Burns and used it to stage a grocery store holdup that netted them $43. When the car, which they later abandoned, was recovered Burns found none of his 27 Bibles, 24 neckties inscribed with the Lord's Prayer, 15 Bible-story books or numerous crosses had been taken.

Colored News

Selection rendered by the Glee club of C. M. Eppes High School highlighted a program sponsored by the Missionary Circle at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church last Sunday night. Everyone enjoyed the music coming from these 70 voices under the direction of Mrs. Selena Davenport. The lecture on missions by Mrs. Edna Graves was very inspiring and helpful.

The Building Fund Club No. 2 met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Holloway, 307 Planter St. The president, Mrs. Mary Garris, opened the meeting for business; a song was led by Mrs. Velma Allen; scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Martha Cannon, 71 Psalm 9 verse; prayer was led by Mrs. Henrietta Cox. Encouraging words were given by Mrs. Mary King, Mrs. Bernice Moore, Mrs. Nancy Williams and Mr. Roosevelt Hardy. Mrs. Luegenia Holloway served the guests with plates of lettuce, chicken salad, potato salad, cheese twists, cookies, mint candy, salted peanuts, hot chocolate, oranges, apples and grapes.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Velma Allen.

Mrs. Carrie Belle Vines entertained the members of the Cedar Grove Baptist Church Senior Choir and about 30 other guests at her birthday party Monday 7-10 p. m. at her home near the New Bern Highway. Mesdames Agnes Lee, Adelaide Adams, Juanita Carr and Johnnie Daniels assisted the hostesses in serving hot chocolate, homemade cookies, nuts and candy on the arrival of the guests. Later a lovely birthday cake decorated with candy roses and "Happy Birthday to Carrie Belle" was served with ice cream.

Games were enjoyed during the evening after the hostess had opened her lovely birthday gifts and thanked her friends for their kindness.

Ladies Delight Chapter No. 10 Order of Eastern Star will hold its regular meeting Friday at 8 p. m.

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Colored Civic League closed out its January meetings Tuesday night with its annual Emancipation program. Mr. J. P. Battle, of Rocky Mount, was the guest speaker.

One of the main topics of the meeting was the election of officers for the organization. Each of the present officers were re-elected for another year of service. They are Mr. J. B. Garham, senior president; Mr. James Taylor, vice president; Mr. Joe Blount, secretary; Mrs. Mary F. Clark, assistant secretary; Mr. J. Saunders, chaplain.

Other business consisted of the acceptance of two applications for membership, and the presentation of a plan to sponsor a flower and lawn contest, for the improvement and aid of the community.

Mr. Louis Henry Pugh died Monday, 1:30 a. m. in Kings County Hospital, Brooklyn, N.Y., after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday 1:00 p. m. at Piney Grove F.W.B. Church with the Rev. W. L. Jones officiating. Burial will follow in the Pugh cemetery.

Mr. Pugh was the son of the late Mrs. Lydia Pugh of the Piney Grove community. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lydia Olivia Thorpe; four sons, William, John Louis, Bernard and Millard Pugh, all of Brooklyn, N.Y.; one sister, Mrs. Victoria Smith of Kinston; one grandchild and a host of relatives and friends.

The remains will lie in state at the Norcott & Company Funeral and Farmville. He had made his home with Robert Lee Tyson since December, 1954.

Surviving are his father, Theodore Wainwright of Kinston; his mother, Mrs. Nannie Mae Webb of Saratoga; a sister, Mrs. Joyce Webb of Saratoga; and his grandmother, Mrs. Julia Wainwright of near Chocomaity.
