Europe Staggers Under Cold Wave

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe's worst cold wave of the 20th Century pushed its toll to nearly 100 lives today and Property damage ran into the millions of dollars Government forecasters said little relief could be expected for the next few days.

Sub-zero gales blasted the coasts and endangered at least two ships. South Greece, just out of the cold belt, was staggered by a disastrous rainstorm. Floods swept away roads and bridges. Hundreds of families spent the night on rooftops or clinging to trees.

France was worst hit with 30 known dead. Britain had 17, Turkey 10, West and East Germany 9, Italy 9, Britain had 17, the Netherlands 4, and Switzerland 1.

Four more, including a woman and a 2-year child, were believed dead aboard a tiny fishing boat trapped by ice off the Dutch coast.

Even the French Riviera, normally a balmy winter spot, reported freezing temperatures. The frost killed an estimated million and a half dollars worth of spring flowers.

The frigid blasts from Siberia had sheeted most rivers of the Continent with ice, halting boats carrying badly needed fuel and food. The cold ruptured water and gas mains and electric power stations broke down under abnormal demands for heat in homes and factories.

The crew of the Swedish ship Roasting took to boats in the storm-tossed Mediterranean near Crete after radioing the ship was going aground on a reef off the Scottish coast.

Helicopters, braving fierce gales which kept rescue ships away, plucked 41 men from the 9,862-ton Norwegian tanker Doverfjell, aground on a reef off the Scottish coast.

Across the Mediterranean, Bone, Algeria, reported its first snowfall in 10 years. Wind gusts of more than 95 miles per hour added to the misery of the shivering population in Trieste.

The Budapest radio reported the Danube River frozen over its entire reaches and said all rail traffic in Hungary was halted by deep snow.

Wins Her Point

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Supreme Court ruled today that a Seventh-day Adventist who lost her job because she refused to work on Saturday is entitled to unemployment compensation benefits.

The court's decision came in the case of Imogene R. Miller, a Salisbury textile worker, who was discharged from her job with Cannon Mills.

The State Employment Security Commission had ruled that her refusal to work on the third shift from 11 p.m. Friday until 7 a.m. Saturday made her "unavailable" for work and hence not entitled to unemployment benefits.

The court's decision was upheld in Rowan Superior Court. The Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Associate Justice Jeff Johnson, said, "We embrace the view that work which requires one to violate his moral standards is not ordinarily suitable work within the meaning of the statute.

And necessarily the precepts of a religious belief to which one conscientiously and in good faith adheres are an essential part of one's moral standards.

"Therefore, where, as here, a person embraces a religious faith, the tenets and practices of which impel her to treat as her true Sabbath the period from sundown Friday until sundown Saturday, it would offend the moral conscience of such person to require her to engage in secular work during such period."

The court sent the case back to the Employment Security Commission with instructions that the unemployment compensation be paid.

Former United States Deputy Marshal Benjamin F. Buck of Grimesland was found guilty in Municipal Court this morning of charges of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, assault on an officer and resisting arrest.

Eden Advises No Fear Of Arguing With Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—British Prime Minister Eden winds up his five-day Washington visit today with this advice to the American people: Never be afraid to meet and argue with the Russians.

Eden made this suggestion in a 15-minute radio-television report to the nation last night on his three-day conference with President Eisenhower.

He emphasized Anglo-American unity, just as he had in his mid-day talks to the Senate and House. Calling his conversations with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles "the most encouraging conference I have ever attended," he said the real accomplishment was to agree to describe the Russian "a spirit of unity" and said holding to it "can mean peace for the world forever."

"I know of nothing like it in the world today," he said. Then he said he wanted to talk to those American who might object to any more talks with the Russians: "To those who may feel amongst you that you should never have contacts with those whose faith is the antithesis of your own, to those who would say I wouldn't myself take up that attitude."

"If you have confidence in yourself, if you believe in your own convictions, if you trust to your own faith, you needn't be afraid, you shouldn't be afraid, to meet and to argue with others."

He said the United States and Britain should continue their no-strings-attached program of economic aid to less developed nations. "Self-government and economic stability are the strongest antidotes to communism," he declared.

In referring to his talks with Eisenhower, he said that the specific mention of differences which developed over such Far East questions as the West's trade embargo on Red China, Britain sought a relaxation but won only a U. S. agreement to review the situation.

But Eden did acknowledge that some differences exist. He pleaded that these should not be ballooned out of proportion into big headlines because, he said, essential Anglo-American unity is genuine and "so much more important."

New Bulgarian Plea Fails

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new appeal from Premier Bulganin failed today to melt U. S. opposition to a Soviet-American "friendship treaty" which this government holds to be needless and perhaps risky.

In a 3,800-word message made public by the State Department late last night, Bulganin urged President Eisenhower to reconsider the 20-year pact, proposed by the Russian Premier last week and promptly turned down by Eisenhower.

U. S. officials said Bulganin's new message was mainly a rehash of previous arguments for the treaty and that he had not advanced persuasive new ideas. Eisenhower, in a letter Saturday, had told Bulganin a treaty between Russia and the United States, merely reiterating peaceful behavior pledges already in the United Nations Charter, "might indeed work against the cause of peace."

He said such a pact could create "the illusion that a stroke of a pen could achieve a result which in fact can be obtained only by a change of spirit."

Bulganin picked up Eisenhower's argument that "deeds not words" are needed to ease East-West tensions, and sought to turn it back on the United States.

Without naming Secretary of State Dulles, he called the secretary's "brink of war" statement provocative. And he said American moves to build up its air bases around the Soviet Union create "fully understandable apprehension" among the Russians.

Bulganin said he thought Eisenhower would agree "that the conclusion of a treaty of friendship and cooperation between the two strongest powers in the world would contribute enormously to a healthier international situation."

He said his letter would be answered in the same courteous vein that has characterized the exchange of almost half a dozen personal messages between the two leaders since the summit conference last July.

Hodges Opines Proposal Will Be Put To Assembly Resolution Of Resentment

RALEIGH (AP)—The next session of the North Carolina Legislature may be asked to adopt a resolution of "strong resentment" over the U. S. Supreme Court's alleged "unjustified usurpation of power" by its school segregation decisions.

Gov. Luther Hodges told a news conference yesterday that in his opinion such a resolution will be presented when the Legislature next meets.

The governor also announced that he expects to "restate my position on the whole segregation matter" in a speech at Leaksville tomorrow.

In other developments touching the segregation issue, Hodges revealed that North Carolina Atty. Gen. W. B. Rodman has asked nine other Southern states to join in an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court to reverse its segregation decisions.

The appeal is in a case in which a Federal Court order opened the doors of the University of North Carolina to three Negro undergraduate students.

Hodges and Rodman also reported that the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), may be taken to court if it does not comply with two state laws relating to corporations doing business in this state.

In a prepared statement, Hodges said that he and Thomas Pearsall, chairman of the Advisory Committee on Education, have agreed that the committee "should consider possible wording" of a resolution tomorrow.

In reply to questions, the governor said he did not regard the proposed resolution as "interposition as such." He added, "Some folks might call it an interposition resolution."

Ex-Deputy Found Guilty, To Appeal

Former United States Deputy Marshal Benjamin F. Buck of Grimesland was found guilty in Municipal Court this morning of charges of operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, assault on an officer and resisting arrest.

Judge Charles H. Whedbee sentenced Buck to 90 days in jail on the driving drunk charge with the sentence to be suspended on payment of $100 and court costs and Buck is not to operate a motor vehicle for one year.

On the assault charge Buck was sentenced to 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted.

Judge Whedbee sentenced Buck to 30 days on the resisting arrest charge, sentence suspended on payment of court costs.

The Grimesland man's attorney, Albion Dunn gave notice of appeal to Superior Court today.

Greenville police officer Caesar Corbett testified that he heard a car crash into a retaining wall at the intersection of Fifth and Albemarle Ave. Jan. 21. He said he went to the scene and the car was pushed off and started down Fifth St.

The vehicle then hit a telephone pole some distance down the street, Corbett testified.

Corbett said he saw no one leave the car until he got to it. When he arrived, he saw the car in the vehicle. Officer C. E. Warren told of arriving at the scene with other officers and experiencing trouble with Buck. Later at the police station, he said, Buck pulled a knife and threatened the officers present.

Milk Missing, One Officer Demoted

By BOB HILLDRUP Reflector Staff Writer A Greenville police lieutenant has been reduced to the rank of sergeant after the disappearance of some 60 quarts of milk from Peoples Bakery here.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs said this morning that officer Johnny Piver, a veteran of more than 20 years service with Kinston and Greenville departments, had been reduced to sergeant. Piver had been promoted to lieutenant last fall.

A complaint, Gibbs added, was filed by Frank Diener, of Peoples Bakery, on Tuesday with city councilman Wesley Harvey. Diener, Gibbs said, told Harvey the missing milk had been taken by officers and an investigation was begun.

Gibbs said, however, that whatever had been taken from the bakery apparently had been done with the approval of the baker, F. R. Wilkerson.

Wilkerson, 65, is crippled and it has been the practice of some officers to take him to work during the night.

Wilkerson, Gibbs said, admitted telling several officers that Diener was checking on the milk shortages. The baker also warned officers not to stop by the bakery any more because he wanted to cause trouble for no one.

He does not deny that he consumed some milk from the bakery, and says that Mr. Wilkerson gave it to him and others. Insofar as our investigation could determine, practically all of the officers interviewed concerning this matter felt that whatever went out was with Mr. Wilkerson's consent and knowledge.

As a result of this complaint and the ensuing investigation, Mr. Piver will be placed in charge of equipment and riding traffic with the rank of Sgt. This change will be effective on the 6th of February, 1956. No announcement is forthcoming at this time regarding any promotion to rank of Lieutenant.

Orders are being passed to all personnel that henceforth no man will accept even a cup of coffee or anything else without payment. If any disciplinary action will be taken in accordance with rules and regulations of the Department: "All officers, whether on duty or not, who shall by any act bring reproach on the Department . . ."

Orders also are being distributed to all police officers that henceforth no one shall accept any item without payment.

The text of Gibbs' prepared statement of complaint was registered by Mr. Frank Diener on Tuesday evening January 31, 1956, regarding a shortage of milk at Peoples Bakery located on Dickinson Avenue.

An investigation into this complaint has revealed that it has been common, although an unwise practice for the night crews over a period of time to pick up the baker, Mr. F. R. Wilkerson, and bring him to work. He is 65 years of age and partially crippled. He has on various occasions, invited different officers to come in and help themselves and with his knowledge some have drunk milk, which, part of them found to not be good and was refused.

Call For Remedy Of Postal Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today recommended $2,973,900,000 in new funds for the Post Office Department. At the same time, it demanded that something be done to curb the growing postal deficit.

The new money allotted subject to approval by the House next week and later by the Senate is for use during the fiscal year starting July 1. It is $26,100,000 less than $27,100,000 requested.

It was included in a $3,618,699,000 appropriation bill to finance also the Treasury Department and the Tax Court. The over-all total was $3,173,000 below presidential requests but $25,119,590 more than the three agencies were given for the present year.

Most of the increase over current-year allotments was for higher salaries voted for federal employees last year by Congress.

The bill was the first of the big annual money measures to emerge from the committee this year.

The new appropriations figures do not include an estimated $20,400,000,000 in permanent appropriations and trust funds largest of which are seven billion dollars for interest on the national debt and $7,300,000,000 in social security receipts which go into the Treasury. The committee noted that the interest on the debt is expected to be 200 million dollars more next year than this year.

Estimating the postal deficit—the excess of operating costs over operating revenues—at 470 million dollars, the committee said "some action must be taken to get postal rates" more in line with the cost of handling the mail. It said existing rates are "woefully inadequate."

Eisenhower who has been advocating higher rates for the last three years, prodded Congress again this week for increases to about 406 1/2 million dollars yearly to postal revenues.

Legislation to boost postal rates has been pending in Congress since last year, but its current prospects are dim.

Almost half—305 million dollars—of the $643,434,000 allotted to the Treasury Department was earmarked for the Internal Revenue Service. It would get $2,850,000 less than the President requested but $24, more than it received this year.

The Narcotics Bureau was given the entire 314 millions requested, an increase of $155,000 over this year to permit employment of 15 more agents.

The Secret Service was given $3,340,000 of the $3,374,000 it requested, the allotment being $380,000 more than current year appropriations to permit employment of 25 more agents and the purchase of 10 more automobiles.

For the Coast Guard a Treasury adjunct, the committee recommended 200 1/2 of the 202 millions requested.

Much was destroyed under Peron it added, but "our country has the necessary elements under a regime of freedom and individual liberties to rebuild the destruction."

The paper was founded by the Paz family in 1869. The last edition under Ganiza Paz was published Jan. 26, 1951. La Prensa was closed by police, expropriated by federal law and turned over to the Peron-founded General Confederation of Labor.

Ganiza Paz was arrested for contempt of Congress in March 1951 but escaped and fled to exile in the United States.

The labor organization published La Prensa as a Peronista organ until Peron was overthrown last September. The newspaper plant was returned to Ganiza Paz by the new government last November.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—La Prensa reappeared today under the banner of the founding Paz family.

Famed editor Alberto Ganiza Paz touched a button starting the presses rolling and moments later was handed the first copy of the newspaper.

Publication was resumed under the guidance of Ganiza Paz 1,833 days after La Prensa's independence was silenced by the regime of deposed President Juan D. Peron. An editorial in the first edition pledged the best efforts of the newspaper to keep dictatorship from ever again seizing control in Argentina.

Very clearly to the greatest measure of compliance we have ever attained."

Gasoline tax collections for the highway fund totaled $7,818,702 last month, an increase of $47,246. For the fiscal year, gasoline tax receipts are $4,171,829 over the same period last year.

A summary of sales and income tax collections:

Sales tax—$7,833,390 last month, up $1,049,687, $43,353,564 for the fiscal year up $1,149,209; income tax—$3,130,941 last month, up $926,265; $17,467,960 for the fiscal year, up $3,841,903.

Truman Says Bipartisanship Has Been Wrecked

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says President Eisenhower's Republican administration has made a "sham bid" of bipartisanship in foreign policy.

Sen Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, an open candidate for the presidential nomination, and Gov Averell Harriman of New York, an inactive candidate, also delivered slashing attacks on the GOP.

"Responsibility for bipartisanship in foreign policy rests squarely on the administration in power—in the White House and nowhere else," said Truman. "It is impossible for anyone else to bring it about."

He said Republicans excluded Democrats from formulation of foreign policy because "they charged the Democrats with treason and they want 'to be in a position to do it again.'"

"We have lost, heavily among the millions of uncommitted people of Asia," he said. "We seem to have no strategy for defending the Middle East against Communist subversion."

He said the Republicans are "desperate" concerning this year's election campaign.

"They know," he said, "they don't have a chance with anyone except Ike, and the pressure they are putting on him to run in spite of everything is just positively insane."

He said the Democrats are "going to give the American people a chance to vote for a president and not a regency or a part-time chairman of the board."

Presbyterian College Trustees Now Face Decision As To Site

RALEIGH (AP)—The board of trustees of the proposed consolidated Presbyterian college today faced the task of deciding in which of 17 eastern North Carolina communities the college will be located.

A delegation from Wilmington last night offered cash support of $1,000,000, a choice of one of five possible sites, a seashore recreation area, and an educational television channel if the college is established there.

The Wilmington presentation ended a series of hearings by the board to give the 17 interested communities a chance to tell what they have to offer.

An announcement of a choice of site is expected from the board by March 6.

Meanwhile, Gov Hodges yesterday had a word of advice for the Pair Indicted In Murder; Outside Interests Rapped

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—A county grand jury yesterday returned murder indictments against two white men in the slaying of a Negro youth. At the same time it rapped what it termed "outside and independent investigators who have attempted to create racial tension and fear."

The shooting occurred Oct. 22 in Gregg and Rusk counties. John Earl Reese, 16, was fatally shot while in a cafe and two Negro girls, 13 and 15, were wounded by bullets fired from a passing car. A Negro residence and a Negro school bus were also riddled with bullets.

A high government source said Nixon had informed Brazil's new President, Juscelino Kubitschek, that the United States is willing to grant Brazil substantial economic aid provided his government take a strong stand against communism.

Mrs. Craven Hughes gave a timely talk on Civil Defense to members of the Delphian Book Club, meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Hughes stated that the main purposes of Civil Defense are to aid in life and property protection, prevent panic and to assist in emergencies. The phase of Civil Defense most important to members as mothers in case of disaster is the care of children and the home. Mrs. Hughes said. Following the speaker's remarks, all members agreed to take a course in First Aid for the home.

The meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Paul Scott Jr., was presided over by Mrs. Herbert Lee. Members were received in rooms decorated with greenery and colorful dried arrangements. Mrs. Scott served a dessert course and coffee.

Garland-Whitehurst Vows Said

BETHEL—Miss Elsie Marie Whitehurst and Herbert H. Garland were united in marriage on Sunday, January 29, at 10:30 o'clock in the Hickory Grove Baptist Church. The altar was decorated with white gladioli, ferns, palms and white burning candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Vond Whitehurst of Whitehurst Station and the groom is the son of Calvin R. Garland and the late Mrs. Garland of Altapass, N. C.

Prior to the ceremony, the pianist Mrs. S. O. Whitehurst, played "A Wild Rose" by MacDowell, "Evening Star" by Wagner, "Liebestraum" by Liszt and the traditional wedding marches were used. Mrs. Sam Keel, soloist, sang "The Cause" and for the benediction "The Lord's Prayer."

The Rev. D. W. Alexander heard the wedding vows.

The bride's only attendant was her maid of honor, Miss Betty Jean Warren of Robersonville. The best man, the bride's brother-in-law, was Mr. Forrest Russell of Raleigh. Ushers were Bobby Whitehurst brother of the bride, and Bill Whitehurst.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple received in the vestibule of the church.

Musically-Filled Period For Our Local Listeners

By GEORGE E. PERRY
January and February, 1956, are two of the most musically-filled months which Greenville will experience in a long time; one concert and sometimes two are scheduled nearly every week (before this week is over there will have been four).

delphia Symphony, the New York Philharmonic, and the NBC Symphony. As a matter of fact, Maestro Arturo Toscanini invariably chose this Choir for his presentations of the great choral works, calling it "his favorite." The Maestro would certainly have been proud of "his favorite" Wednesday evening, for they sang a magnificent program in the manner which has made them the famous group they are. It is traditional with them to produce the most flowing of tone, the sounds being made with the minimum of jaw-movement. In this way the vocal cavity is kept in relatively the same position at all times, producing a tone with unusual carrying power.

To Hold Student Recognition Day

The mood completely changed with the third section, which began with two humorous songs by Grigg, one of which contained no less than the meowing of a cat. A comic "Opera" by Mozart followed in which two prima donnas vied for top honors much to the concern of their impresario. This was close to being musical comedy at its best, and a lot of praise must be given to the three soloists, Carol Hoffman, Sherry Hill, and Marvin Burke, who did an excellent job vocally as well as historically. "Haste Thee Nymph" by Handel brought the first half of the concert to a rollicking close.

ROBT. H. GIBBONS, JR. Will Give Sermon

A most unusual opus followed after the intermission, The American Suite for Solo Piano and Chorus by Warren Martin. Written especially for the Westminster Choir, and based on four well-known American poems, it might come close to being classed as a vocal symphony, with the four movements each in the proper tempo and order. The piano solo was expertly played by Mie Ogiso, of Japan, and though her hands were unusually small, her playing was exceptionally brilliant.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—The Air Force said no, and two Dublin Ind., farm boys won't get the airplane they requested. "They are the property of all the people of the United States."

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—A man finished eating breakfast in a Rawlins cafe, shoved a roll of bills to William Koontz and said: "Give this to the little lady who has been waiting on us." He walked out and Koontz discovered the wad of bills totaled $650.

Now We Try Outwitting Hurricanes

From the beginning of time man has matched his wits against the forces of nature for survival; and though progress has been slow man has fought a winning battle. Man has now progressed to the point where he is ready to tackle one of the mightiest forces nature has put together . . . the hurricane. Prompted by last year's devastating tropical storms which caused two billion dollars damage along the Atlantic Coast, scientists have

Delay By Commission Will Hurt Both Sides

The second round of the Greenville-Vanceboro electric service hearings has ended and the evidence so far submitted does not, in our opinion, substantiate Vanceboro complaints and justify the transferring of the territory in question to Carolina Power and Light Company for electric service.

How the State Utilities Commission sees the situation when all the evidence has been presented remains to be seen.

Nevertheless, evidence which has so far been presented in the hearings points up the fact there are a good many satisfied customers of the Greenville Utilities Commission in the Vanceboro area even if residents of that area did sign the petition presented to the State Utilities Commission. The conflict of testimony of residents of the area tends to indicate trouble which has been experienced with electric service lies somewhere other than in the service being furnished the area by Greenville Utilities.

If the service furnished the Vanceboro area were as poor as the original petition would lead one to believe, it is difficult to imagine any satisfied customers in the area. Greenville Utilities cannot be blamed for poor service caused by faulty or inadequate wiring in homes and buildings in the area.

The Utilities Commission, after recessing hearings here Wednesday, has promised to resume the hearing in New Bern on February 14. In the past there have been a number of delays in the hearings. There was a delay of six months between the first round of the hearing in June and the latest session which ended Wednesday.

In the best interest of all parties involved in the case, the State Utilities Commission should make an effort to conclude the hearings as early as possible and render its decision in the case. The sooner the matter is resolved, the better it will be for all parties involved.

Odd Indeed, That Govm't Is So Very Entangled

It seems all out of reason that huge stocks of government surpluses are sold to private citizens and corporations at a few cents on the dollar of their original cost, and Civil Defense organizations which sorely need all types of equipment cannot acquire them as other public institutions do.

Uncle Sam has spent billions upon billions of dollars stockpiling vital commodities and materials for use in case of national emergency. Great efforts have been put forth to create a Civil Defense organization which can function properly should such an emergency occur. Yet for the most part Civil Defense organizations—particularly on local levels—are merely organizations on paper.

They have little if any equipment to use in an emergency. They have no stockpile of blankets, emergency cooking equipment, generators, or many of the other things which probably would be needed. Literally warehouses full of these items are being disposed of each year by the federal government to private concerns. And the CD organizations do not have access to acquire the equipment they need.

A government policy which does not permit Civil Defense organization to acquire a reasonable part of this government surplus for stockpiling in case of emergency seems ridiculous.

To be effective as desired, Civil Defense units must have equipment with which to work in case of emergency. Because of lack of funds the units cannot purchase the necessary items in the open market. Because of federal regulations and red tape, units cannot acquire these items which are being discarded by the military and other agencies of the government.

Certainly the policy which makes for such a condition should be reconsidered.

Opinions In Brief . . .

HAZARDS OF HOME (Savannah Morning News) It had to happen. For months now, with that irresponsible sadism which causes the average human to laugh uproariously when a fat man slips on a banana peel, we've been waiting. This do-it-yourself rage was certain from the first to have serious repercussions. A researcher at the Rochester University School of Medicine and Dentistry has come up with the alarming statistics we feared. He launched an ambitious program to bring about "perfect hurricane forecasts." Not satisfied with merely predicting the behavior of a hurricane, scientists will also attempt to learn to control and alter the course of such storms to prevent loss of life and property.

An ambitious undertaking indeed it is. Yet, its success could be one of the greatest boons to humanity in many years.

Imagine the life and property which could have been saved if the exact path of Connie or Dianne or Ione could have been forecast 24 hours before either slammed into the Atlantic coast. There would have been staggering losses to be sure, but the losses would not have been as great as those resulting from last year's storms.

To go a step further, imagine the devastation which can be prevented if scientists learn to control the path of a fickle hurricane, to steer it away from densely populated areas even if it cannot be diverted entirely from the coast.

There are many who aver man should not tamper with nature, for fear he will upset the delicate balance of the elements which give and control life. Yet for generations man has tampered with nature for his own survival.

It may be years before the exact path of hurricanes can be accurately predicted. It may be decades before man succeeds in his efforts to control the path of such violent storms. Yet, it is worth the time, effort and money which is required in research. If the cost reaches high into the millions—as it surely will—the country stands to be repaid in one hurricane season if the efforts are successful.

Amateurs Of 1952 Now Experienced

By LYNN NISBET
PROFESSIONALS—Sen. Estes Kefauver got off a bit of political wisdom during his recent visit to North Carolina. A reporter asked him how he rated his chances for the presidential nomination this year with those at comparable stage in 1952. He said they are much better. Most of his supporters then were amateurs in practical politics.

"The amateurs of 1952 are courtiers in 1956," he said. How many of the amateurs turned professional will retain their loyalty only the campaign will show. Many politicians make the mistake of assuming that those who supported them one year for a certain office. Only a few in the hard core of personal friends can be so counted.

In politics as in sports there are different rules for amateurs and professionals. Amateurs play for love and interest in the game. Professionals play to win—and have little patience or sympathy for losers.

Kefauver lost the nomination in 1952, and Adlai Stevenson lost the election. A considerable segment of the professional politicians say "a plague on both your houses." For that reason there is keen interest in the appearance of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri as speaker at the upcoming Jefferson-Jackson Dinner.

DON'T COUNT—Roy Parker, Alcoholic Beverage Control Commissioner, who has been mentioned as a likely candidate for the Legislature from Hertford county, is realistic about the matter. He says he has heard a deal about it from friends over the state, but up to now not a single person who has mentioned it to him can vote in Hertford.

PURKS—Dr. Harris Purks, director of higher education, will have a nice suite of offices somewhere around capitol square. Just where has not been determined, and the problem has George Cherry, superintendent of buildings and grounds, scratching his head.

There are offices available but they are not in keeping with the dignity and prestige of the position. Logical place is the education building, but that is chucked full now, and it will be difficult to shift present occupants without splitting departmental operations.

The problem is accentuated by the fact that while three rooms will suffice for the present, it is expected that within a few months the agency will require additional space.

There are several other agencies and commissions, seeking adequate office space. The Board

A Song For February

(Goldsboro News-Argus) Now is the earliest month of the year. The body and mind are tired from the strain and stress and darkness and cold of December and January. Spring rushes forward on soft and gentle feet of breezes out of the south. One day the wind is raw and pierces like a knife and pulls like some cruel creature and the sun shines and the wind shifts and there is the whisper of far away places and soft smells under tropic nights and one trembles at the foreknowledge of bland and delightful days.

Even now the sun comes out of the east a half-hour ahead of what is kept in the shortest day of the year time and it goes to bed a half hour later.

Visions of gardening fill the mind and gets out the seed catalogue, unfolds it, thumbs it carefully and revels in a delight of color. The time of blossom and bud and leaf is advance by weeks and it is Spring right there in the living room.

There is a stirring on the farm. The tobacco bed is prepared in a sheltered place. Potatoes are being put in. A few hardy vegetables are planted. Tomato and okra seed are planted in a box which is kept on the south side of the kitchen window. By the time the month is out, the hopeful green plants will stand fourth in delicate miniature. A few warm February, and Winter is almost over.

Psychology Courses Worked

It's a good thing that Greenville City Policeman Jim McGee took those psychology courses at East Carolina College.

Working nights at the police station where he is usually assigned desk clerk, all that psychology has come in handy for hustling Jim.

One night not long ago the local patrolman was just getting off duty when he walked a young Negro couple.

Things weren't rosy to say the least. The girl was calling her husband every name in the book, most of which it wouldn't do to print here, what with the laws of decey and all.

"I want to get out a warrant for this no account bum," the girl bellowed at attentive McGee.

"What did he do?" the patrolman asked.

"He beat me up," she replied. "Cap'n," the husband chimed in, "I didn't touch her until she threw the frying pan at me. I was just trying to save myself."

"That ain't so," the girl interrupted. "He's no good. I beat me all over a minute," said City Hall's Solomon. "You two think more of each other than

That stunned them into silence. "If you sign this warrant," he said to the girl, "you'll just regret it in the morning."

As the pair mullied that over, McGee continued: "I want to see you hold hands."

The two broke into big smiles as they took one another's hands. "Now let's see you kiss and make up."

There was a loud smack and the couple turned and left the police station, love birds once again.

The last time McGee saw them was as they walked away into the darkness still holding hands.

Close Shaves Her Business

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—If there is one time the average fellow feels least in need of a woman's advice, it's probably while he's shaving.

"But he's wrong," insisted pretty Rem Schoen, who believes she is the world's only lady barber.

Schoen, a former Pater-son, N.J. grade school teacher, got into the field of pogonometry, the art of shaving, by accident.

While working temporarily as a model, she learned that executives of the Gem Safety Razor Co. were depressed over the fact so few men knew how to get a really good shave.

She sold them the idea of letting her tour the nation and give demonstrations of proper shaving techniques in high schools, colleges, offices and factories.

To prepare for her career Miss Schoen tutored for several months under Elbridge J. Casselman, a Staunton, Va. scientist, who feels Casselman is to pogonometry as Shakespeare is to literature. He's the titan of the beard world.

"He has been studying shaving scientifically for more than 25 years," she said. "A remarkable man—always clean-shaven. I don't think I ever saw him with stubble on his face."

"During her demonstrations Miss Schoen admits she sometimes finds it difficult to get a man to act a guinea pig while she shows off her shaving shaving grace.

"Men seem instinctively distrustful of a woman with a razor in her hand," she said smiling. "But so far I've been lucky. I haven't lopped off a nose or ear yet."

"What mistake do most men make while shaving?" "They are too slap-dash," she said. "The hairs in their beard contain a chemical known as keratin which makes them as stiff as copper wires. This must be dissolved before you can get a good close shave."

Here is her recipe for a good shave: "First, wash the face thoroughly in soap and hot water to get rid of the grime and start dissolving the keratin. This should take at least a minute and a half.

"The lather should be brushed on vigorously for three minutes, to soak the beard thoroughly and dissolve the rest of the keratin. "Keep the razor wet while shaving. Hold the razor at a 20-to-30-degree angle. A flat-topped razor is best. It is set at a 25-degree angle and shave with short firm strokes.

"If you have a tender skin, use cool water in applying the lather. "Always shave toward the chin.

Babies Pose New Boom For 196X

By ELMER ROESSNER
Nobody claims we have completely solved the problem of ups and downs in business. Realism insists we recognize the possibilities—if not the certainties—of dips ahead. But it seems evident that there are the ingredients for a new boom ahead, say in 196X.

The girls did it again. Last year, according to preliminary estimates, they gave birth to more than 4,000,000 babies for the second time in American history. In 1954 there were 3,000,000. But in 1955, the total soared to 3,411,000.

That means that in 1960 and again in 1961 there will be about 4,000,000 six-year-olds in the schools, clothes, furniture and toys. That's about 400,000 more than there were this year.

WEDDING 'LIS AND CASH REGISTERS
The big return in births came in 1946. With the exception of 1943—a little after the draft calls became more persistent—the number of newborns had never exceeded 3,000,000. But in 1946, the total soared to 3,411,000.

So some time in the 60's the war-baby crops will be entering their twenties and thinking of marrying and having babies—and goodness knows where it will all end!

Population itself, of course, does not make booms. If it did, China and India would be the most prosperous countries in the world. But population, plus abundant resources, plus free enterprise can form the basis for rising standards of living.

Our population is increasing. Our resources are still abundant. We have to import iron ore and some other minerals, we depend on other nations for some raw materials. Our reforestation program needs improvement.

On the other hand, we are locating more petroleum deposits than we are depleting. Known oil deposits look sufficient for a few hundred years. Our hydroelectric resources have been lightly tapped, probably 98 per cent of our waterfalls. The types, height in another without turning a generator now.

On top of that is atomic power, a source of energy so great that, if properly harnessed, human needs for more than 32 hours a week.

FOOD FOR GROWTH
And food! Our problem at the moment is that agricultural chemistry has outpaced our appetites. If we could get last year's 4,000,000 babies off pap and on to pork chops and hamburger we might solve part of our food problem. The types, however, are going their best for the cotton crop. Where would Southern planters be now if American crops were 100 per cent of what they are now? (That query assumes that there are 6,000,000 babies less than 18 months old, requiring six changes per day per bottom.)

In addition, there seem no insurmountable difficulties to maintenance of an economic standard of living. It is those who produce better methods better goods and better ideas.

On the whole, there are innumerable materials and incentives to build an even higher standard of living than we enjoy now. While our tax system may sharply limit the number of millionaires, it does not limit grandchildren may enjoy lives far richer in creature comforts, and with much more time for cultural advances than we have.

BOTTLED WATER BARRED AS TAX DEDUCTION
The Internal Revenue Service raised an eyebrow—and the bottles of distilled water lost a million dollars in sales.

The IRS has ruled that a taxpayer who purchases bottled water to avoid the necessity of drinking fluorinated tap water cannot deduct the cost of bottled water as a medical expense.

This ruling is in pattern with rulings on fluorinated city water. Had the ruling been otherwise, bottlers could have increased sales by wide margins advertising their product was tax deductible.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
CONSERVED AMATEUR

Just a few days ago I listened to a great mathematical scholar tell of the work of the late Albert Einstein and of his friendship with the genius. The mathematician declared that he believed Einstein would rank in history with Aristotle and Sir Isaac Newton. It thrilled us to realize that the speaker was talking about one of our former neighbors, a man who walked the streets of this village like all the rest of us. Perhaps when history is written a hundred years from now this man Einstein may well prove to have been the most significant human being of the century.

And it is well for us to recall that when he made his great discovery, known as his Theory of Relativity, he was working as a humble clerk in the Swiss patent office. Albert Einstein did not have an earned academic degree.

He was really a conserved amateur who ended up at last the leader of all the world's intellectuals. He got the idea that some of the accepted theories which had come down from the past were not entirely sound, and he proceeded to prove that this was true.

Einstein as first was looked upon as something of a crackpot. He was one of the outstanding examples of how God frequently accomplishes the great things through people who hold no position of consequence. The first last and the last first!

Favors Showered On Eisenhower Friends

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON With ex-Governor Thomas E. Dewey as the most conspicuous beneficiary the small group of gubernatorial Republicans who sponsored President Eisenhower's entry into politics are collecting handsomely for their foresight.

The splendor of their rewards has provoked some resentment among the Congressional bloc on Capitol Hill, especially within the so-called "Tail faction."

The allegedly one-sided distribution of favors, however, casts a sharp light on Ike's political intentions, in the opinion of political observers. If he does not intend to run again because of the February military report, it indicates his intense interest in a GOP triumph next November.

It suggests that he will intervene actively in the selection of the ticket, if he is forced to step aside and in the writing of the platform. It guarantees that he will campaign as actively as his health permits for the return of a Republican President and Congress.

Party planners breathe easier at the thought. Even if he does not head the ticket, the nominees will seek votes under his aegis and blessing. Their cry can be: "Carry on with Eisenhower."

FRANK RECOGNITION OF "FBI" NDS Not even such professional politicians as F. D. R. or Harry S. Truman showed such frank recognition of "friends" as has the military man in the White House.

In this connection the Federal job is the least desirable and rewarding form of patronage. It is "small potatoes" these days.

Even in that respect, however, the pro-Eisenhower group has not done too poorly. All have been named fine and honorable post-ex-Senator Nixon, ex-Governor Adams, ex-Governor Warren, ex-Governor Stassen, ex-Governor John Lodge, ex-Governor John J. Dulles, and of course, Attorney General Brownell. These are only the most notable of the "small potatoes" men.

DEWEY'S DEMAND GRANTED But these personal gifts are dwarfed by the largesse showered on other non-Capitol Hill members of the "Eisenhower team," which again sponsors Ike, or hopes to name the ticket in event of his retirement.

In partial violation of his "partnership" theory of public power development, Ike granted Dewey's demand that the vast

St. Lawrence River project be turned over to the New York State Power Authority. The same agency, at Dewey's request, may obtain control of the Niagara River undertaking, although that is a matter for Congress to decide.

In the contest between Eastern Airlines and National Airlines for merger with Colonial Airlines, a rich prize, Ike and Brownell held in favor of Dewey's client, Eddie Rickenbacker's Eastern organization. Dewey was obviously brought in for his political talents rather than his experience in aviation law.

The famous Passamaquoddy plan for harnessing the tides of the Bay of Fundy, which Republicans laughed and voted out of existence when F. D. R. advocated it, has White House backing. Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine is for Ike first, last and all of the time.

IKE SPURNED RECOMMENDATIONS Eisenhower spurned the recommendations of two of the most powerful members of the House in filling a judgeship vacancy. He named a man favored by the "state organization" over the candidate of Representatives Daniel A. Reed and

John Taber. Reed is top GOP'er on Ways and Means. Taber on the Appropriations Committee. And Dewey is the "state organization."

On the plea of Governor Christian A. Hilder of Massachusetts, Eisenhower declined to name Hilder to the Presidency if Ike quits, the White House advocates, the reputedly dubious program of Federal food insurance. This idea also has been favored by Pacific Coast executives who leaped aboard the Eisenhower bandwagon early in 1952.

FAVORS? A leading member of the Eisenhower clique, as well as a personal friend, is ex-Governor Dan Thornton of Colorado. On his behalf, Ike favors the Upper Colorado Water Storage Project, although critics contend the most irrigated land will only feed the 83 billion surplus of farm crops.

Many members of Congress regard this distribution of favors as uneven and unfair and have sought to limit the number of the most blameworthy. Sherman Adams Men from the Middle West, the restless South and the average-sheriff-in-the-middle states feel that they have been neglected in the development of natural resources and the solution of regional difficulties.

Parables on Prayer

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 17:20-38:17.

Pharisees demanded that Jesus should tell them when the kingdom of God would come. He said, "The kingdom of God cometh not from observation; neither shall they say, lo here! or lo there! for behold, the kingdom of God is within you."

Jesus told a parable of a judge who cared neither for God nor man. A widow came to him, asking that he avenge her. He refused at first, then agreed because he thought that if he did not she would weary him with the persistence.

Another parable Jesus told was about two men who went to the temple to pray. The Pharisee thanked God that he was not sinful like others. The publican cast down his eyes, struck at his breast, praying, "God be merciful to me, a sinner."

Mothers brought their little children for Christ to touch. The disciples rebuked the women, but Jesus said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God."

CHRIST EMPHASIZES PERSISTENCE AND HUMILITY IN OUR PETITIONS

Scripture—Luke 17:20-38:17.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

OUR LESSON opens with a question from the Pharisees as to when the kingdom of God should come. Jesus answered that it came "not with observation," that is, that it would not come in such a way that we could observe it by external signs. They were not to cry out that it is here or there, for "the kingdom of God is within you." It is a present reality.

Then briefly we must mention Christ's prophecies of the time when He will return. It will not be a happy, moral time, and He refers to the time of Noah in the Old Testament when the earth was flooded. There is also reference to the time when Lot and his wife fled the wicked city of Sodom which was destroyed by fire and brimstone. Of course, we remember that Lot's wife when she looked back at the city, a often as it is needed. The judge was heartless—caring not God nor man. God is love.

For "certain which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others," Christ told the parable of the Pharisee and the publican who went to the temple to pray. The Pharisee thanked God that he was not sinful like others. He fasted when a fast was the order of the day; he tithed his possessions. In fact, he boasted of his virtues to the Lord, who knows all hearts.

The publican dare not lift his eyes to heaven, so, standing with bowed head, he struck himself upon his breast, saying, "God be merciful to me, a sinner."

Which man was the more worthy? Not the self-satisfied Pharisee, but the publican who confessed himself a sinner and asked God to help him.

thing she had been forbidden to do, was turned into a pillar of salt.

"And He spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint." Doesn't that mean to us that when we have problems that seem too difficult to solve, instead of allowing them to overcome us, we should pray for help and then have faith that our heavenly Father will help us to solve them?

Jesus then spoke a parable of an unjust judge to whom a poor widow came asking his help in obtaining justice. At first the judge would not listen to her, but then he decided that he had better help her or she would wear him out with her persistence. God never wears, but gives His help to those who trust in Him as tell the beautiful story of the mothers bringing their little children to Christ that He might just touch them. The disciples rebuked the mothers, probably thinking that Jesus was too busy to be occupied with these little ones, but Jesus called them to Him and said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God."

"Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

So, little children, pray to the Lord when your childish minds are troubled, and He will help you, even as He aids your parents and all the men and women who call upon Him. Jesus set us an example of prayer. He prayed often, sometimes all night.

Pirates Decisively Trounce Atlantic Christian 94-77

Mendenhall And Harris Pace Hot Scoring Display

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
East Carolina's hot-handed pair of Don Harris and Guy Mendenhall staged brilliant scoring shows here last night to lead the Pirates to a decisive 94-77 North State Conference victory over the gritty Bulldogs of Atlantic Christian.

HARRIS HITS—East Carolina's Don Harris is caught in mid-air as he delivers two points over the heads of Atlantic Christian defenders Billy Tomlinson (14) and Billy Widgeon (9). The Laurinburg junior racked up 34 points to pace ECC to a 94-77 win, the 47th straight without a defeat in Memorial gymnasium. (Reflector Sports Photos by Billy Arnold.)

Harris hit pot-shots from all over the court in registering 34 points, a new high for the Laurinburg junior. Mendenhall, the 6-3 Cary sophomore center, fought his way for 28 points and was Little All-American under the backboards.

Spurred by their scoring efforts, Coach Howard Porter's championship-seeking Bucs raced to 56 points in the second half, leaving their arch-rivals from Wilson lengths behind.

The victory, No. 47 in a row in Memorial Gymnasium for the locals, dropped Atlantic Christian to third place in the conference and padded East Carolina's first place nook. ACC's record is 7-3, ECC's 11-1.

The game, billed as the toughest home assignment of the year, was pulsating from start to finish, and only in the last minute was the outcome certain. The contest was tied a total six times and both teams held sizeable leads at intervals along the way.

Atlantic Christian took the initiative in the opening minutes and had a 14-9 margin before some of the 4,000 fans who obtained seats. After 10 minutes, the Bulldogs had their biggest advantage of the night.

But East Carolina got to moving with Mendenhall finding the range on a one-hander from outside the foul circle. The lean sharpshooter hit three consecutive buckets there and the lead was down to 24-23.

Tied It Up
It was Mendenhall's bucket that deduced the game the last time in the fading moments of the first half. His tip-in at the 1:51 mark put East Carolina even at 24-23. Then he connected on a jumping push-shot to send the Bucs out front never to be headed.

Harold Ingram added a last-second basket to send East Carolina down to rest at intermission with a 32-34 advantage.

Mendenhall had a total of 16 points at halftime, seven on field goals and two out of two from the free throw line. He picked up six more field goals in the second for his output.

Dazzling Display
Harris had 13 points at the half-way turn but got even hotter in the final stanza. He pumped in seven field goals, coming on an assortment of hooks, pushes and drives. He made 10 out of 15 from the charity line.

East Carolina started pulling away slowly in the second half. After four minutes of bombardment by Harris and Mendenhall, the Bucs were holding the big end of 47-38 score and the visiting Bulldogs were looking mighty tired.

The locals pushed that to a 11-point margin, 61-50, on Mendenhall's push-shot with 3:41 showing on the scoreboard clock.

The brilliant driving of guard Billy Widgeon kept ACC within challenging distance near the end. The blond bomber got by Buc defenders for four straight field goals and cut the lead to 10 points.

Big John Marley found the going rough with Mendenhall covering him like the number on his back. The Bulldogs' 6-11 center managed to register only 16 points, quite a drop from the 47 he dunked against WCC earlier this week. Mendenhall never gave the giant much a chance to get the ball, moving around fast to intercept passes intended for the big man.

Tomlinson High
Tricky Billy Tomlinson took high scoring honors for Atlantic Christian with 18 points. He had four field goals and 10 out of 10 from the free throw line. Marley's 16 was second and Widgeon's 14 third.

Kim Buchanan, the Bulldogs' heralded pointmaker, was completely bottled up by Nicols. He collected only one field goal against Nicols' fine defensive effort.

Captain J. C. Thomas ran into foul difficulty and sat out the last 13 minutes. Harry Blevins did a fine relief job for him.

East Carolina hit on 40 per cent of its shots from the floor. Atlantic Christian on 32 per cent. ACC had the best free throw accuracy, making 25 out of 32 as compared with ECC's 24 out of 35.

Shining Courage By Skater At Olympics

Editor's Note—The following story on Tenley Albright's battle against pain to win the Olympic gold medal in figure skating was written for The Associated Press by her coach, Mirabel Vinson Owen, herself a former skating champion.

By Mirabel Vinson Owen
CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—Tenley Albright's Olympic crown that she wears today is not only a tribute to her talent but to her sheer courage as well.

To carry the full weight of a country's expectation of victory in such competition as this is difficult enough. But to triumph with a badly injured leg takes the kind of guts not many people have.

Tenley fell and spiked her right leg just below the ankle bone with her left skate two days after the American team arrived here two weeks ago. What is not known and what only her father, her mother and I could know is the close margin by which she was able to skate at all.

If Tenley had not been able to wearing the heavy tape for 15 hours without relief.

Such overexertion in the middle of last week set her back in one sense but helped her in another as she needed mental assurance she could physically make herself go through her full routine when the crucial moment arrived.

And that, in a sense, is the secret of Tenley's greatness as an athlete.

At an early age she found what she set her mind to do she could eventually do. During those two weeks preceding the competition she never let thought of defeat or inability to skate enter her head.

Two days after the accident her father, Dr. Hollis Albright, a well-known Boston surgeon, arrived here and the next day with her foot heavily taped Tenley was back on the ice taking her first strokes.

So much is well known but only we knew that in her impatience to get back in full training she badly over did it several days later, practicing for five hours and

Title-Bound Phants Colliding With Elizabeth City Quint Here Tonight

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer
Tonight, the Greenville Phantoms, currently on an 8-game march toward a Northeastern Conference title sweep, meet Elizabeth City in the GHS gymnasium.

Harold Edwards, Ike Riddick and crew will be favored to top the visitors by a margin of 12 markers. The EC Yellow Jackets, a hustling quintet that boasts a high-scoring forward Ronald Price, now holds down the league's third spot.

In the only meeting of these two teams this season, the G-Men flogged their Coastal foes 72-55, and carried on from there to win seven more loop matches. Their 8-0 slate gives them undisputed leadership in the conference at the present, and gives them the inside track in the race for the crown. Their nearest opponent is Kinston, previously rated the team to beat, which has a 7-1 card.

Home Court Advantage
Greenville's celebrated fast-break

style of basketball will be at its best tonight, if the Phantoms perform as expected. Coach Boley Farley's tactics are of the run-and-shoot-fast brand and the home court offers his boys an added advantage.

Harold Edwards, who seems to have finally hit his stride, will offer the locals another distinct advantage. The big center, the conference's most outstanding candidate for All-State honors, is averaging 23.3 points per ball game. His scoring totals indicate that he is improving with each contest.

The All-Conference cager's 23.3 leads the league. He also led the circle last season with an 18.4 mark.

Riddick, Constant Scorer
Ike Riddick, a senior guard who averages 17 tallies each game, constitutes the other half of a devastating One-Two scoring punch with Edwards. The hoopsters combine their efforts for an average of over 40 points per tilt and are the league's most dangerous twosome.

A 6-foot tall jump shot artist, Riddick is a sure-fire bet for All-Conference rankings this year. He was named to the loop's All-Tourney five in 1954-55 and has excelled in every phase of the game during the present campaign. Besides being a top scorer, he is Greenville's leading playmaker and the commander of the Phantom attack.

The two above-mentioned boys are the only veterans on Coach Farley's squad. The other starters, Billy Johnson, Ray Hardee, and Jerry Drum, have never played first string ball before.

Every man on the starting quintet is playing his final season of basketball for the school, all being seniors.

Shallow Bench
Greenville's bench is shallow and Coach Farley uses his reserves very sparingly. "They just don't have the experience," he has commented.

The substitutes who have seen most action thus far are Tommy Norris (senior), Wayne Eldson (junior) and Mack Roebuck (sophomore).

Tonight's battle will be opened with a 6:30 Jayvee match, with the varsity contest beginning at 8 o'clock.

DeMarco TKO'd In Boxing Upset

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Don Jordan caught Brooklyn's Paddy DeMarco with a clean one-two last night to score a surprise fifth-round Technical knockout over the former world lightweight champion in a scheduled 10-rounder at the Olympic Auditorium. A State Athletic Commission doctor said DeMarco's jaw was broken.

DeMarco kept the fast-stepping California state lightweight champion tied up in the early rounds with a combination of clinching and body punches.

In the fifth the Brooklyn boxer went down for a one-count from a stiff left-right and immediately went down again from a similar combination. Gasping, DeMarco crawled to his corner where Trainer Joe Buonocore took out his mouthpiece.

DeMarco stood up and raised his arms, apparently a signal of defeat. But Jordan swarmed over him and Referee Tommy Hart called a halt at 1:45. DeMarco had turned his back on Jordan and plainly was not in shape for further mixing.

It was a big win for Jordan, who entered the ring a 1-2 underdog. A crowd of 6,322 paid $15,250 to see him stop the former champ. Jordan weighed 139, DeMarco, 140½.

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)
—Toni Saller, the dashing skiing plumber from Austria, completed an unprecedented Alpine "triple slam" today and America's veteran Art Tyler drove his four-man bobsled into championship contention in the Winter Olympic Games.

The 21-year-old Saller, already winner of the giant and special slalom events tore down Mt. Tofana's perilous, ice-crusted course in two minutes, 52.2 second to beat 85 rivals in the men's downhill race.

Americans made a poor showing. Ralph Miller of Hanover, N.H., tumbled on a sharp swerve and Marvin Melville of Salt Lake City, Utah, also fell during his descent. Wallace (Bud) Werner of Steamboat Springs Colo., was far back in three minutes, 5.8 seconds.

The slender, six-foot Saller, however, zipped over the approximately one mile and 1,020 yard strip with wild abandon and nerveless daring. This is a straight downhill swoop unmarked by gates as in the slalom, with the competitors often reaching the speed of mile and minute.

Art Tyler, a 40-year-old Rochester, N.Y., physicist who has been risking his neck for years on the death-inviting bobsled runs of the world, shot his oak and steel machine down Tofana's lightning-fast chute in record-breaking time to finish third behind two Swiss sleds at the half-way point of the four-man competition.

The first two of four runs were staged today with the final two runs tomorrow.

Switzerland's No. 1 sled, piloted by Frank Kapus, was first with runs of 1:18 and 1:17.19 for a total of 2:35.19. He was followed by the No. 2 Swiss sled driven by Max Angst. The Zurich butcher had 2:35.26.

Tyler was third, a bare fraction of a second behind the leaders. He registered 2:35.62 on zooming trips of 1:17.75 and 1:17.87.

In fourth place came the Italian No. 2 sled, piloted by Eugenio Monti, the two-man champion, with 2:35.66.

The second U.S. sled, with Big Jim Bickford of Saranac Lake N.Y., at the helm, went out of contention with two mediocre runs which left him next-to-last. He had a total time of 2:43.44.

Austria's third championship moved the country closer to the leading Russians in the unofficial team standings. The Russians, with no entries in the sled event, have 101 points, with Austria following with 65½.

The United States remained in sixth place with 43½ points, still hopeful of picking up additional scores in the figure skating pairs today and the bobsled finals tomorrow.

Also the ice hockey team winner of its first three games prepared for a 2:30 p.m. (EST) meeting with unbeaten Russia in a game which may determine the championship.

Pictures Taken For Grimesland Annual

By MELVIN BOYD
Grimesland High School

The photographer, Mrs. Hill Horne of the Horne Studio of Greenville, came and took the pictures at Grimesland High for the annual on January 31. We had a cold day outside, but may be the pictures will turn out alright. Many tried to smile but couldn't, for others the word "cheese" didn't help much either.

The pictures will be used in completing the last shipment to be sent off. The yearbook will then be completed.

The librarians are busy working on about one hundred books received this week by the library. They will be ready to go on the shelves in a few days.

The algebra class at Grimesland High being taught by Miss Bowles, a math major practice teacher from ECC and Miss Lewis, had a contest. The class chose sides. They ran a close race throughout the contest. It was on the chapter concerning quadratic equations. The team captains were Amos Hardee and Fred Stokes. Fred's side won with a total of 92 points, two points more than Amos' side had. The contest concerned how well they did boardwork, homework and test. The winning side received a party and the student with the highest individual

Tournament Talk At Grifton High School

By DAWN SMITH
Grifton High School

With the tournament just around the corner there has been much talk recently as to the Pitt County conference standings.

Friday night the Grifton Bulldogs travel to Ayden for the nineteenth game of the season. We want many spectators from Grifton there to fill our cheering section and to bring us luck.

We are sorry to hear that Barbara Jean Taylor won't be with us for a while in basketball. It seems that Barbara is having some "minor surgery" performed on her hands in the form of separate treatments.

Thursday members of the Grifton High School traveled to Greenville for chest x-rays.

Recent business of the Grifton Chapter of the Tri-Hi-Y was to discuss the purchasing of club pins for the members. The pins will be ordered soon.

Among those who are home here in Grifton from college for "after-exam rest" are J. R. Hooten, John Barwick, Gene Barwick, Mac Lancaster, and Argent Tucker.

Purchase 8,500 Acres For Game

RALEIGH (AP) — The Wildlife Resources Commission has purchased more than 8,500 acres in Hyde County for a public hunting area for deer and wildfowl.

Commission Director Clyde P. Patton announced yesterday the commission is buying the 8,573-acre tract for $32,205 from the Pamlico Timber Corp.

The land lies along Pamlico Sound to the east of Swanquarter and close to 7,500 acres previously acquired by the commission and now open to public hunting. Both sites are near Lake Mattamuskeet, the federally-owned waterfowl refuge.

PICTURE TALK

by Charles Bissette

Pictures of your home—inside as well as outside—can provide a way of showing far-off relatives and friends where and how you live, your new decorating scheme, or an album record for your own family of the various places you've lived in.

Home picture-taking is a wonderful way to learn the fundamentals of good picture composition at first hand. In shooting interiors, you soon realize that you can't snap a whole room in one picture. Study the room in the view-finder and you'll find that it's really composed of small units. And each one of these is a picture in itself—or at least a main center of interest for a picture.

Taking snapshots of your home will also be an opportunity for you to practice with different sources of artificial light. As in most indoor photography, flash will probably be the simplest solution. But you may prefer to experiment with flood, too. We'd be glad to help you get started on a picture-record of your home. Drop in.

A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER FORTY

After dinner, and an hour of quiet talk with her parents, Margaret walked down the hill with Alan, Linda having gone on ahead to get the twins into bed. Margaret clung to her brother's arm, and looked up at the stars; in the light from them her face was wistful and sorrowful, but on the whole serene.

"Alan I want you to know—I've no regrets about Fern. I know now more clearly than I did before the operation, that you did the right thing."

"I hoped you'd feel that way," he said quietly.

She walked along, three steps to his one. "Now," she said contentedly, "if ever I may have Fern, it will be with a clear conscience. And I do love him, Alan!"

"Swell guy," confirmed her brother.

"Oh, he! I never thought after Si, that I'd love just that way again. But—well—now if things do work out, and we can marry it's going to be right, and a wonderful, honorable thing. You thought of that, didn't you?"

"I thought of it. But, mainly, I was sure I could help his wife."

"Or course, it seems incredible now that we ever argued the matter."

They were walking very slowly, wanting to complete the conversation before reaching the cottage.

"It seems to me," said Alan, "that a person often can spend time and agony puzzling over a situation, and then when it is settled, resolved in some fashion, perhaps without our doing much of anything, we stand and wonder if there was any cause for all the worry — though, of course, there was some cause! The bruise of our anguish remains—" He was thinking of his months of estrangement from Linda, why their separation had ever occurred, why it had persisted—and why, now, it should be so simply over and done with.

He glanced down at his sister's dark head, wondering if she guessed the trend of his thoughts. But she was thinking still of her own affairs, as she had ever been since the time she had been married. "It will be more wonderful to be with Fred if our happiness can come without hurt to—a helpless and innocent person. Fred and I mean to wait for such a time. I don't know if it will be easier with him away—but if it isn't, I can take that too."

They had come to the door of her home, and Alan bent down to kiss her. Without speaking of it he knew that this chance for her to make her own sacrifice had somehow helped his small sister to survive the loss of her son.

"I hope," he said deeply, "I truly hope you may be happy, darling."

She rested her hand for a moment on his shoulder. "I shall be. Won't you come in?"

"No, I think not." He tipped his head back, turning away from the house back toward the Big House. "I have some housekeeping to do."

"Housekeeping?"

"Yes. I've a mess of stuff—shirts, and cuff links, and such junk—to move across the hall. Linda's been a little busy lately, what with one thing and another, and my stuff's got scattered all over the upstairs. I'm going to collect it and put it back into our room where it belongs. Going to see that it stays there, too."

"It never pays," said Linda the next day, turning away from the telephone. "To say you believe things will settle down now."

"What the twins done?" asked Jasper abruptly.

"They've stirred up something at school," she agreed to Jasper's surmise. "Miss Maggie sent for me instead of Margaret. For Mrs. Giddens she called her."

"Margaret's had a bitter blow," Jasper agreed, "but I don't think she's earned maudlin pity. I'd say she was doing fine."

"She is," said Linda, going toward the coat closet. "Last night she told me that I was to come up here after this week end. She was not going to let herself depend on me."

"A good thing," said the old man dryly. "For Margaret—and for Alan."

Linda smiled at him. "Yes," she said serenely. "You got to go over to the schoolhouse?"

"Yes, Miss Maggie seemed to think so."

"Then you better git, girl!" Miss Maggie had not given any details over the phone but she was waiting, stiff-backed, stern-faced, when Linda came into her office.

"I'm sorry to have to bother you, Mrs. Thornton," said the school principal, "but I'm sure the time has come when a stand must be taken. I intend to speak to Mrs. Chaney as well."

"Oh, oh," breathed Linda. Lucy again.

Miss Maggie nodded, her smile wintry.

"Yes," she agreed. "Ann is inclined to be jealous of Lucy—where I'd hoped she might try to emulate her. I mean her better qualities her tidiness, her pretty manners—"

Linda looked down at her folded hands. Poor Ann.

"Lucy's pretty dress was torn, her hair ribbons—I had to send her home in near hysteria," Miss Maggie continued.

"Well—Lucy managed to defend herself. Ann had a bloody nose—but she in no way had hysterics."

"No. She gets stubborn. What was the fight about?"

"I don't know, Lucy said she'd done nothing. And Ann—well, as you say—she's stubborn."

"I wonder—" Linda pursed her full underlip. "I wonder if I could talk to Ann. I don't mean to condone her fighting. She must stop that! But perhaps if I can find out why, and how..."

"Do you think Ann will tell you?"

"I'm sure she will."

"Well, then. She's in the teachers' room. At the head of the stairs. You'd better go alone."

When she opened the door and went in, Ann was standing at the window, and did not look around. Her small shoulders heaved, and she sniffed a little. Linda went to her, drew the blood-stained face against her bosom, and then led the child to where they could sit side by side on the couch. She waited until Ann had cried for a while—as a boy, or a man, cries, the tears squeezed out hard and bitter. Soon she began to gulp out phrases.

"That old Lucy! I sure beat her up, Aunt Linda!"

Linda waited, and soon the whole story came. "You know what she said to me, Aunt Linda?" Now Ann sat away from Linda, her gray cheeks like red balloons, her gray eyes a-sparkle with anger and tears. "And to Jim, too! I guess he doesn't think so much of goosey-Lucy now! Though course he couldn't beat her up. But I sure did, I really gave her a goin'

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made bare progress today although oil shares were active and strong.

The oil shares gained running to around 2 points while elsewhere both gains and losses were usually small in the early afternoon.

Trading was quiet, as it has been in recent days, and attained a pace right around yesterday's 1,900,000 shares.

Demand was focused on oil because of high earnings of leading companies, plus plans for expansion and mounting sales prospect throughout the industry.

Aircrafts were higher without much activity. Railroads were up a little as a group but most individual rails were unchanged. Steels were steady. Motors were mixed. Chrysler was down between 1 and 2 points as the company announced it would work a four-day week next week.

Ford Motor over the counter closed yesterday at 67 1/2 bid and 64 1/2 offered. Today it started with a bid of 63 1/2 and then improved a shade.

Superior Oil of California, the big board's top-priced stock, hit a new high of 120 up 40 points.

Yesterday's stock market was lower throughout most of the session and then late improvement in motors brought the price level up sufficiently to register a small gain for the day. The Associated Press average of 50 stocks was up 10 cent at $176.40, and today at noon the average gained an additional 30 cents at $176.60.

Governor Doubts Much Done To Help Farmers

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges, who was born on a tenant farm, told the House Agriculture Committee today he does not believe "the present administration in Washington has shown any constructive efforts to help the small farmer."

He added "It's recent protestations to the contrary appear to be both late and unrealistic."

Hodges spoke as the committee, headed by North Carolina Rep. Harold D. Cooley, opened a two-day hearing to explore ways and means of solving the problems of small farm operators.

Hodges pointed out that next to Texas, North Carolina has the largest number of individual farms of any state. He said, "We know, better than most states, just how serious is the economic dilemma facing our small farmers."

Hodges expressed the hope that Congress will do everything possible "within reason and within available revenues to strengthen and protect agriculture—especially by the small farmer."

He told the committee that the problems of agriculture and the small farmer "are far greater than anything we in North Carolina as individuals or as a state can handle alone. It is well recognized that only through a federal farm program can we grapple with the immensity of agricultural needs and agricultural problems."

The governor pointed out that federal loan agencies "should be especially concerned to make more readily available proper credit to the small fellow." He said, "We must see that our farmers receive a fair price for the crops which they produce and that they be helped in difficult times."

Hodges explained he was thinking in terms of the four hurricanes which have hit North Carolina in less than two years.

"The people who 'have advantages which were not dreamed of a decade or so ago and I predict that the trend will continue toward better rural living in the years to come.' He pointed out that he had recommended establishment of more small industries which would make more jobs available for displaced farmers."

Cooley pointed out that a House Agriculture subcommittee has conducted hearings in various parts of the nation looking to improving the plight of small farmers.

The hearing will continue through tomorrow.

Graham Suggests Terms Of Office

RALEIGH (AP)—Should North Carolina replace its highway chairman every four years?

Members of a special highway study committee wondered about this. Highway Chairman A. H. Graham, who has held the post twice, told the committee yesterday he believed it would be a mistake to replace the chairman every four years.

Graham suggested that it would be a good idea to put in a "young man" and let him hold the job long enough to learn it fully.

Asked about terms for members of the Highway Commission, Graham said he would favor staggering their terms.

The Highway Commission now has 14 divisions and 10 commissioners prior to 1953. The committee asked if 14 members make a better commission.

Graham pointed out that the highway program is expanding and commissioners are having to give more of their time to public service. Consequently, he added, there are reasons for a bigger commission.

The committee, headed by Sen. Claude Currie of Durham, traded other views on highway problems with Graham and Highway Engineer W. H. Rogers Jr.

Graham requested that the committee recommend to the 1957 Legislature that it enact a sounder limited access right-of-way law.

He also advocated a 10 per cent increase in the salary of highway engineers, pointing out that the commission has an "acute shortage" of graduate engineers.

"They were so good it seemed a shame to waste them on a movie."

Committee May Call Adlai And Estes To Match Words

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bonner (D-NC) said today Secretary of Agriculture Benson may be called to testify about reported statements which Bonner said stimulated foreign resistance to laws favoring the U.S. merchant Marine.

Renson Nobles News

Bonner is chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, which is now studying the operations of the cargo preference, or "50-50 law." This law requires that at least half of all U. S. aid cargoes be carried in U.S. registered ships.

The committee has been questioning Agriculture and State Department witnesses about a report that Benson, on a recent trip to Europe, said publicly he thought the restriction should be lifted from cargoes of agricultural surpluses the United States is trying to dispose of abroad.

Dwight Garnett, foreign agriculture service administrator of the Agriculture Department, testified Tuesday he had no personal knowledge of such a statement.

Yesterday Dept. Asst. Secretary of State Thornton V. Kalljarvi also said he knew nothing of such a statement by Benson. Under questioning by Bonner, he agreed that if the agriculture secretary did make such a statement it would be likely to "stimulate resistance" to the law in Europe.

Kalljarvi had a brush with some committee members who said he was representing the State Department as undecided on the wisdom of repealing the 50-50 law, while it had gone on record in a statement to a Senate committee.

Kalljarvi finally said the department favored lifting the 50-50 restriction from agricultural surplus cargoes being disposed of under a special law providing for U. S.-assisted sales to other countries. On the cargo preference question generally he said, it has no position.

However, Maritime Administrator Clarence G. Morse said the U.S. merchant marine, especially the tramp fleet, would be seriously hurt if the cargo preference law were repealed. He advocated "continuation of 50-50 without modification."

TOKYO (AP)—A U. S. Marine FJ2 Fury jet smashed into a string of houses in a teeming east Tokyo suburb today, killing the pilot and injuring four civilians, one seriously.

Two houses were destroyed and three others damaged.

The Marines said the plane, based at nearby Atsugi Naval Air Station was on a routine training flight. It was at 30,000 feet in a formation with three other Furies when it stalled and went into a spin.

The pilot's name was withheld.

Quiz Police On Delayed Report

NEW YORK (AP)—Some two dozen policemen have been questioned about the Harlem shooting case involving singer Billy Daniels. Officials want to know why it was five hours before headquarters was informed.

For several hours Tuesday, the day of the shooting, the West 135th Street station in Harlem denied to newsmen that Daniels was involved in the "bottle club" shooting of James Jackson, 33. Both men are Negroes.

At the same time the incident reportedly was common knowledge in Harlem.

Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett quizzed the policemen yesterday about the time lag in reporting the shooting.

Newspapers today said an investigation also was under way into reports that a $10,000 payoff offer to soft-pedal the case was involved.

Jackson a prize fight trainer, was shot in the shoulder. His condition is not considered serious. The wounded man reportedly had refused to tell police who shot him.

Daniels, 40, has a record carrying a gun or doing any shooting. He said he was a bit "woozy" from drink and couldn't remember what happened at the drinking club.

Daniels, accused of assault, and illegal possession of a gun was freed in $2,500 bail and a hearing was set for Feb. 29. The singer took off by plane yesterday to fulfill singing engagements in Palm Springs and Los Angeles, Calif.
