McCarthy And Jenner Attack Administration Foreign Policy

Cite 'Lessons' In Appeasement; Fear World Government Drift

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur last night as "the contemporary George Washington" who never "would have extended the hand of friendship to the Soviet Union as was done last summer at Geneva."

McCarthy spoke before a capacity crowd of 3,000 jamming Carnegie Hall at a rally sponsored by For America, an organization formed for political action.

Another speaker was Sen. William Jenner (R-Ind.), who hit what he called the nation's "drift to world government."

McCarthy, smilingly acknowledging a 90-second ovation when he took the speaker's rostrum, lashed out at more than two decades of U.S. policy in combatting Communism in Asia, saying:

"From Roosevelt, through Truman, to Eisenhower, we have taught the Asian people how to appease communism, how to retreat from communism how to surrender to communism."

Jenner told the rally the United States has lost its sovereignty by participating in the United Nations and in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

McCarthy said there were four ways in which "we might rehabilitate the anti-Communist cause—especially with regard to Asia:"

- 1. "Refuse to give a single cent of American money to nations that trade with Red China" until all American prisoners are out of Chinese Communist hands.
2. No American funds to allies who trade in strategic materials with Iron Curtain countries.
3. Renewed efforts to expose Communist subversion at home.
4. "Our long-term objective must be to encourage free peoples—especially those in Asia with armed forces at their disposal—to attempt to liberate their Communist-held homelands."

Farm Price Support Debate Switches To Senate Floor

By EDWIN B. HAACKINSON
WASHINGTON (AP)—The battle over flexible vs. rigid farm price supports shifted from committee rooms to the Senate floor today.

Sen. Ellender (D-La.) called for a return to higher supports levels as the only means to "put more dollars into the farmers' pockets without delay." But even as he opened debate on the election year farm bill late yesterday, an amendment was offered to continue the present flexible scale.

Ellender pleaded for a final vote early next week, saying passage by both the Senate and the House should be completed by March 15.

The measure also would make a number of other changes in farm laws designed largely to halt a decline in farm prices and farmers' income.

The company told the Federal Power Commission in its application that it would deliver 40 million cubic feet of natural gas daily to the communities involved.

The company said it would build a pipe line from a point near Spartanburg, S.C., where it would hook up with its supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.

According to the application papers, the line would run near Rock Hill, S.C., and then into North Carolina, passing near Monroe, Hamlet, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, and terminate at Washington.

From the main line principal laterals would extend to the Lancaster-Camden-Sumter areas and the Cheraw-Darlington-Florence areas in South Carolina.

In North Carolina the main laterals would run from Transcontinental's main line to Albemarle, the Laurinburg-Lumberton-Wilmington, the Rocky Mount-Wilson, and the Kinston-New Bern areas.

Smaller laterals would serve other cities and industrial customers.

The proposed pipe line would total 840 miles and the project would be financed by the White, Weld & Co. of New York and the Robinson-Rumpley Co. of Atlanta.

Attorneys for Trans-Carolina are J. Melville Broughton Jr. of Raleigh, which is listed as the company's headquarters, and George Grantham of Esley, S.C.

Chester Roush, vice president of the new firm, stated that although other gas projects have been proposed to serve portions of the same area, an interstate pipe line designed to serve the two states would be more feasible economically.

Trans-Carolina said it would begin construction one month after its application was approved and that its facilities would be completely built within 15 months after construction commenced.

Thirteen of the 40 cities Trans-Carolina would serve presently have manufactured gas facilities which would be converted to natural gas.

A division of Trans-Carolina, Carolina Gas Service, proposes to own and operate gas distribution systems in cities without gas utilities. A system will be constructed in each city granting Carolina Gas Service a franchise.

The 40 cities Trans-Carolina proposes to serve are, in South Carolina: Camden, Cheraw, Chester, Darlington, Florence, Fort Mill, Kershaw, Hartsville, Lancaster, Rock Hill, Sumter and York.

In North Carolina: Aberdeen, Albemarle, Benson, Clinton, Dunn, Erwin, Farmville, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Greenville, Hamlet, Kinston, Laurinburg, Lumberton, Maxton, Monroe, New Bern, Raeford, Rockingham, Selma, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Tarboro, Southern Pines, Wadesboro, Washington, Wilmington and Wilson.

all during the 1956 crop year." But Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said in an interview, "We'll be lucky to get a final (Senate) vote by next Thursday or Friday."

Ellender is chairman and Aiken the senior Republican on the Senate Agriculture Committee, which by an 8-7 vote included a return to high, rigid price supports on basic crops in an omnibus farm bill which also would establish a soil bank and acreage reserve system of crop reduction asked by President Eisenhower.

The measure also would make a number of other changes in farm laws designed largely to halt a decline in farm prices and farmers' income.

Sen. Young (R-Ind.) said in a prepared speech that if present flexible supports are continued, they will break most wheat farmers. And they will do nothing, he contended, to reduce crop surpluses.

The amendment to stick with the administration's flexible and lower system of price supports which became law in 1954 was offered by Sen. Anderson (D-NM.) with support from Aiken and Senators Holland (D-Fla.), Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), Schoeppel (R-Kan.) and Williams (R-Del.).

Among others were proposals to limit to $35,000 or $50,000 the amount of crop support loans which could be obtained by any one farm or farmer.

Pipeline Co. Applies For Permission Of FPC Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The newly created Trans-Carolina Pipeline Corp. today was scheduled to ask permission to deliver gas to 40 towns in the Carolinas over a proposed 22-million-dollar pipeline.

The company told the Federal Power Commission in its application that it would deliver 40 million cubic feet of natural gas daily to the communities involved.

The company said it would build a pipe line from a point near Spartanburg, S.C., where it would hook up with its supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.

Billion-Dollar Hoard Offered For Peaceful Projects U. S. Frees Vast Uranium Supply

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's new program for releasing a billion dollars worth of uranium at home and abroad for peaceful atomic projects presented a challenge to Russia today to follow suit.

The President announced late yesterday that the United States will make available 88,000 pounds of atomic material, uranium 235 to pioneer American firms and to friendly nations in a demonstration of "our faith that the atom can be a powerful instrument for the promotion of world peace."

His announcement came just one day after Soviet Premier Nikoia Bulganin had stated that "We communists must fully place the greatest discovery of the 20th century—atomic energy—at the service of... the cause of building communism."

Bulganin pictured Russia as "ahead of other countries" in the peaceful uses of atomic energy, but did not talk of sharing atomic materials.

Actually, Eisenhower barred distribution of any of the 88,000 pounds of U.S. U-235 to the Soviet Union and its satellites, as well as to any other nations presently producing the material.

With those exceptions the President said the supply will be furnished "over a period of years" for research and development purposes and for fueling nuclear power reactors both "at home and abroad."

Half of the supply, 44,000 pounds, will be leased in the United States for civilian purposes "principally for power reactors," Eisenhower said in a statement at his vacation headquarters here.

The other half will be sold or leased abroad for peaceful purposes, mainly research and power reactors. That 44,000 pounds is in addition to 440 pounds already in the possibilities of developing nuclear power for civilian uses.

In an accompanying statement, Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, called Eisenhower's action "the most important step towards peaceful uses of atomic energy since passage of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954." That law authorized distribution of uranium for peaceful atomic projects.

Eisenhower said, "Mankind's hopes and aspirations for peace and greater well-being are closely linked to the world's progress in developing the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

He added that the new program he announced "demonstrates the confidence of the United States in the possibilities of developing nuclear power for civilian uses."

Cosmic Outburst

LONDON (AP)—A startling outburst of cosmic rays from the sun early today was reported by the Royal Greenwich Observatory.

A terse announcement said only that the cosmic ray intensity was more than double for a period of two hours—an increase far larger than ever before.

A spokesman at Greenwich said he could not give any more details about the phenomenon until data has been received from other observatories.

"It is not possible to say more except that this appears to be the largest such increase known," he said.

The largest previous increase in cosmic ray outbursts from the sun about 40 per cent in 1949. Outbursts are fairly common but usually much smaller.

Greenwich reported the latest bursts began about 3:45 a. m. GMT. A major radio fadeout was reported at the same time.

Utilities To Offer Several Solutions

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor
Greenville Utilities tomorrow night will offer several proposals to Grimesland representatives concerning the sale of the eastern Pitt County town's electrical system.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam said proposals will be made at a public hearing on the matter to be held at 7:30 in Grimesland's city hall.

We plan to offer four or five means of reaching a solution to our problem," Bloxam declared.

He declined to comment on the nature of the proposals.

Tomorrow night's hearing will be a sequel to a public hearing held last Jan. 7 at which Grimesland representatives listed the reasons for wanting to sell their municipally operated electrical system to Carolina Power and Light Co.

At that meeting Grimesland attorney Albion Dum told the Grimesland had voted to sell the system to Carolina Power and Light.

He referred to an election held Nov. 30 at which voters of Grimesland approved by a vote of 75 to 50 the sale of its power system to CP & L.

Grimesland's case will be presented by Attorney Lewis Cooper with assistance from Bloxam.

The utilities superintendent said that Grimesland officials have indicated that representatives were present for tomorrow night's public hearing.

Grimesland is attempting to obtain release from its 30-year contract with Grimesland Utilities for the purchase of power in order that the sale of the system to CP&L might be consummated.

The contract has 13 years to run. CP&L has said that it will not purchase the system as long as the Grimesland contract is in force.

However, the private power company has requested that the State Utilities Commission grant it the right to acquire and operate the Grimesland electrical system.

A hearing on that matter has been set for 10 a. m. March 8 in Raleigh by the State Utilities Commission. Grimesland has not indicated whether or not it will intervene in those hearings.

Gurney P. Hood Joins Race For Lt. Governorship

RALEIGH (AP)—Former State Banking Commissioner Gurney P. Hood today tossed his hat into the race for lieutenant governor.

Hood, the second man to file for the post paid his filing fee as the time drew near for at least three other potential candidates to decide whether to enter the race.

State Senate President Luther Barnhardt of Concord said yesterday, "A lot of people have been calling and talking to me about running for lieutenant governor. There are a few matters I have to get straightened out before making a statement about it. I do plan to make a statement very shortly."

A similar statement is expected soon from State Democratic Chairman John Larkin of Trenton.

Meanwhile, J. Vivian Whitfield, veteran legislator from Pender County, issued a reminder yesterday that he, too, is toying with the idea of running.

Europe's Toll To Cold Now At 804

LONDON (AP)—Frozen Europe counted at least 804 dead today in the worst winter in living memory. Even colder weather was forecast for the weekend.

Central Europe—one vast expanse of crusted snow—was anxious to see its food and fuel supplies dwindling as the disastrous freeze-up went into its 24th day.

Huge ice packs floated down the North Sea. Temperatures along Germany's Baltic coast dropped to 4 above zero.

Ice floes paralyzed shipping on Dutch canals and threatened the Netherlands with a serious coal shortage.

A local thaw brought landslides to southern Italy. At Vasto, near Pescara 50 families fled as their homes collapsed on a crumbling hillside. In northern Italy, more snow was forecast.

In southern France, snow 50 inches deep cut off villages and tore down phone and power lines. Prices of vegetables and eggs rocketed as farmers and truck gardeners reported crippling losses.

The weather took a heavy toll of birds and wild animals. Deer walked through the busy streets of Bad Hatzburg, Germany, looking for food. Fifty hungry gulls attacked a fried potato seller's booth in Holland and made off with his stock.

All Dutch planes were ordered to look out for colonies of starving birds.

Reene Korniga, a vaudeville snake charmer, went to the mayor of Bethune, in northern France, for help in warming her eight pythons and five alligators. The mayor provided quarters in the City Hall radiators. Once they were thawed out, Miss Korniga put her pets back in trunks lined with hot water bottles.

Ice packs piled up on the Danube, Rhine, Elbe and Weser rivers, all main streams of European transport.

Street Plan Up For Discussion

GREENVILLE (AP)—A street plan will come up for further discussion tonight when the Planning Board meets at City Hall at 8 o'clock.

Sitting in on the meeting will be members of the Zoning Commission, the Board of Adjustments and the city attorney and the building inspector.

The Planning Board will also receive two sub-division plans for approval tonight.

State Dulles is expected to tell senators tomorrow that vital security interests in the Middle East dictated the U.S. decision to send 18 light tanks to Saudi Arabia.

Officials indicated this line of argument to U.S. Dulles, just back from a 10-day vacation settled down to a quick review of the situation in preparation for critical questioning by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Informants said one issue at which Dulles will take a new look is Israel's request pending since last November for 50 million dollars worth of weapons to counter Egyptian arms purchases from Communist Czechoslovakia.

The high level expenditure in the State Department that appointed are Senators Kennedy of Massachusetts, McClellan of Arkansas and either Mansfield of Montana or Anderson of New Mexico.

Republicans evidently were running up some snags in making up their slate. Efforts reportedly were being made to persuade Senators Bridges of New Hampshire, Bricker of Ohio and Thye of Minnesota to accept assignment.

The appointments are to be made by Vice President Nixon, on the recommendations of Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Knowland of California.

Members of the committee once appointed will elect their own chairman, but informed sources said Gore was virtually certain to be selected.

Gore was going ahead with plans for a broad investigation by the Senate Elections subcommittee, of which he is chairman.

Gore Appears In Line To Head Lobbying Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) appeared today to be in line to head a special committee created by the Senate and given powers to search for any improper or illegal lobbying or campaign financing.

Four Democratic and four Republican senators are to be named to the investigating committee probably later in the day.

Advance word from Senate sources was that, in addition to Gore, the Democrats likely to be appointed are Senators Kennedy of Massachusetts, McClellan of Arkansas and either Mansfield of Montana or Anderson of New Mexico.

Republicans evidently were running up some snags in making up their slate. Efforts reportedly were being made to persuade Senators Bridges of New Hampshire, Bricker of Ohio and Thye of Minnesota to accept assignment.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
February 23, 1926
The Sans Souci Book Club enjoyed a very interesting meeting on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. L. Best. Fifteen members reported to roll call and the club was also delighted to have as guests Mrs. H. L. Rivers, Mrs. N. O. Warren and Miss McKinney. Mrs. Fred Forbes had charge of the program. The hostess served a delicious salad course.
Johnston Dees, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dees of this city, who is a student at Eules Creek, was the only young man out of approximately 300 to get on the first honor roll following the holidays. Mr. Dees averaged more than 95.

Funeral Friday For Mrs. W. H. Mizell

Mrs. Mary Whitley Mizell, 76, widow of W. H. Mizell of Robersonville, died at eight o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond S. Whitehurst of Norfolk, Virginia.
Funeral services will be held at the Robersonville Christian Church Friday afternoon at two o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. J. Wilbur Wallace, assisted by the Rev. J. F. Butler, pastor of Poplar Chapel Christian Church. Burial will be in the Mizell family cemetery in the Poplar Chapel community near Jamesville.
Mrs. Mizell was born in Pantego, the daughter of the late M. J. and Elizabeth Latham Whitley. She attended State Normal and Industrial College, now Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and taught in the public schools prior to her marriage to Mr. Mizell. Her husband died in October, 1928. Mrs. Mizell lived in Robersonville for 45 years but in recent years lived with Mrs. Whitehurst because of illness.
Surviving in addition to Mrs. Whitehurst, are three other daughters: Mrs. H. G. Trotter of Charlotte, Mrs. Ralph B. Draughan of Portsmouth, Va.; four sons: W. H. L. W. and F. C. Mizell, all of Charlotte and J. C. Mizell of Plymouth; nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Cosmetologists Hold Meeting

The Eastern Carolina Cosmetologists Association held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in Edenton at the Joseph Hewes Hotel.
The table was appropriately decorated with a George Washington floral centerpiece. Each attending member was presented a hatchet to be pinned on the lapel.
The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Julia Harris, with the blessing being said by the hostess of the evening, Mrs. Anne Jenkins.
Augusta Williams, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Louise Thomas in the absence of Mrs. Marie Lancaster; treasurer Mrs. Thomas also gave a report on the activities of the unit in connection with National Beauty Salon Week.
After a turkey dinner was served, a movie on Vicky Scott, cosmetologist, was shown and greatly enjoyed by all.
The meeting was then adjourned to meet again on March 27, 1956 in Washington, N. C.
Those attending the meeting from Greenville were Julia Harris, Augusta Williams, Frances Leggett and Lois Twine.

Revolution In Womens Fashion Hit Industry

BY DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
A woman buys a new car as she does a new hat, says George W. Walker, director of styling for the streamlined descendants of the Model T. She bases her choice on color, trimming and silhouette. "She doesn't worry about the motor," says Walker, "because she knows it has to be good. What she wants is a car that will make her neighbor turn green with envy when she sees it going down the street."
And of course what a woman wants in a car is what the general public gets, continues this astute designer, because women buy 85 per cent of all merchandise sold, whether it is a refrigerator, a man's sports shirt or an automobile.
"The revolution in automobile design closely follows the change in women's fashions," says Walker. "Back in the 1920s women hid all their best points in the horrible flapper clothes of the period, and cars were just as bad—built like a buggy without a horse—all straight, square, stubby-limbs."
"Then women began to rediscover the beauty of curves, and so did automobile designers. When women went into high col-

Compete Tonight In Oratory Event

AYDEN—Students from high schools throughout Pitt County will compete tonight in the American Legion Oratorical contest. The contest will begin at 7:30 in the education room of the Ayden Christian Church.
Topic for the talks will be the United States Constitution. Each participant will make a ten to twelve minute speech on a subject related to the constitution, after which each contestant will speak extemporaneously four to six minutes on a phase of the constitution selected the night of the contest.
Winners will be awarded prizes of $25 and $10. The Pitt County winner will compete in the divisional contest Monday at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.
Dr. Clifton Davenport is county contest chairman, and the Rev. C. M. Fogleman, Jr. is chairman for the district.
The public is invited.

HOPED FOR A GIRL
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Comedian Jerry Lewis has a brand new son today—and a whole nursery full of baby clothes for a girl. Hoping for a daughter, Jerry had stocked up on pink hogs. But his wife Patti crossed him up last night by giving birth to their third son. Both Mrs. Lewis and the baby, Scott Anthony, are doing fine.

Hosts Outnumber Party Guests

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. (AP)—The Lashley quadruplets will take a little longer for lunch today.
It's their 15th birthday, and the youngsters are treating their eighth-grade classmates to an ice cream party.
But the hosts will outnumber the guests. There are only seven pupils in the class—the Lashleys and three non-Lashleys.
The quads, Martine, Beulah, Mildred and John, sit one behind the other in a room which also houses the fifth, sixth and seventh grades of the Catholic school here.
Martine and Beulah, who like English best of all, say they want to "be private secretaries, just like Ann Sothern." She is the star of their favorite television show, Mildred is thinking about a singing career.
As for John, he wants to be a farmer, "following in the footsteps of my dad. But there must be some time left for coon hunting."
John gets up at 6 a. m. each morning to feed the cows on the family's 131-acre farm near here. His father Porter helps but is handicapped by an old leg injury.
The elder Lashley, father of 12 children, claims it's 25 times as hard to rear four at once. His wife died in 1944 on the couple's 28th wedding anniversary.
The quads are displaying a growing interest in the opposite sex. And that's grounds for a real quadrangle.
Martine, Mildred and Beulah all have an eye on the same boy. The boy's sister has her eye on John.

Fashion 'Great' Dies In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Hattie Carnegie, who left school at 11 to work as a messenger girl and became one of the greats in the fashion world, died yesterday at the age of 70.
Miss Carnegie came to this country from Vienna with her family early in the century. Her father died shortly afterward and she went to work in Macy's department store.
Lately she and a seamstress friend, Rose Roth, opened a dress shop on East 10th Street in 1909. When death came at her fashionable Fifth Avenue home she was operating a $1½-million-dollar-a-year business, employing more than 1,000 persons.
Her family name was Kanegiser. She changed it to Carnegie in admiration of the late steel magnate and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie.
She was not only a top designer of women's hats and dresses but controlled wholesale garment businesses and a cosmetics firm.
A small lady with boundless energy, she pioneered in adapting Parisian custom styles to American ready-to-wear clothing and hats.

Yuba City To Observe Christmas Saturday

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP)—Flood-damaged Yuba City hopes for clear skies Saturday so it can finally-celebrate Christmas.
Youngsters were cheated Dec. 25 when the Feather River broke through a levee. Rains Sunday and yesterday ruined substitute observances.
A commercially sponsored carnival was deserted yesterday because of rains and a parade was called off.
Still scheduled for Saturday are a parade, a stage show and the distribution of gifts to youngsters.

Death Penalty And the Parole Policy

Many Tar Heel political observers will give good odds that a bill to end capital punishment in the state will be popped into the General Assembly hopper come next year. Few of them, however, predict whether the bill will pass if it is presented.

Recent action by the British House of Commons has stimulated new interest in efforts to outlaw capital punishment in North Carolina and elsewhere. The House of Commons has directed the British government to begin work on a bill ending capital punishment in Great Britain, and there can be little doubt that such a bill will subsequently be enacted into law in Great Britain.

Many of the 48 states already have eliminated capital punishment, and most others—such as North Carolina—have through the course of years reduced appreciably the number of crimes for which a person can be tried for his life. Gradually North Carolina, as well as other states, has moved toward the end of capital punishment.

While we do not predict that North Carolina will pass legislation ending capital punishment during the coming legislative session, it is essential that at such time consideration is given a bill to end capital punishment, attention must likewise be given the paroles system of this state.

If capital punishment were eliminated, the most severe sentence a person could receive for a crime would be life imprisonment. Under current conditions few persons sentenced to life imprisonment in North Carolina actually serve the rest of their natural life in prison. In most cases such sentences are reduced from time to time and the prisoner subsequently allowed to return to society on parole.

We question whether such a policy carries out the intent of the courts or of society which looks to the judicial system and penal system for protection from criminals.

It would indeed be folly for North Carolina to eliminate capital punishment and at the same time continue to follow its present liberal policy toward reducing sentences and paroling long term prisoners.

The question of eliminating capital punishment in the state and the state's present attitude toward paroles for prisoners are inseparable. In fairness to the people of the state, we do not see how the elimination of capital punishment could conscientiously be proposed without carrying with it specific restrictions on paroling long term prisoners and those who are sentenced to life imprisonment in lieu of death in the gas chamber.

Lawmakers Oppose Any Special Session

By LYNN NISBET

One thing seems certain: In North Carolina, the prestige of political power is moving westward with the center of voting population. Tradition die hard, especially political tradition, but it is true now as when Bishop Berkeley said it 250 years ago, "westward the course of empire takes its way."

CAMPAIGN FUNDS — Capitol square folks are talking a lot about Senate investigation of gas lobby contributions. Generally there isn't much criticism of any phase except the secrecy and anonymity. "I'm not going to criticize others for doing the same thing I've done since a boy," said one active political worker. "I've made contributions and solicited them from other friends to help candidates who supported my ideas. Amounts are less, but the principle is the same."

The point has also been pointed out that there isn't a great deal of difference in an oil company offering a senator campaign money and the administration offering job patronage. Each is paying off in the coin he said.

Offering campaign contributions to parties, which is done by every person helping to buy tickets to the Jefferson-Jackson and Lincoln dinners, or contributing to individuals for primary expenses is really different from direct bribery or payment for a special vote.

The possibility of bribery suggested in the natural gas case justifies an investigation, according to Capitol Hill observers. Just as obnoxious and much more obvious was the indirect and secret approach, the attempt to keep the public from knowing who was contributing and who was accepting campaign funds.

Dear Editor:

This letter is directed especially to parents who have a son who is 17 years old or older.

Do you realize that every young man upon reaching his 18th birthday has a military obligation of eight years to fulfill?

We here at the National Guard Armory in Greenville can show you how your son can become a member of "C" Btry, 295th Field Artillery Battalion, finish his education, stay at home, fulfill his military obligation, receive pay according to rank and precedence of drills, be given a two-week all expense paid vacation, learn to face responsibility toward promotions and at the same time be a part of a home town organization of which he can take pride in. Best of all he can remain at home.

Parents owe it to themselves as well as to their sons to investigate the facts which can be presented by the National Guard at the armory in Greenville Saturday. They can get the information either by coming to the armory or by telephoning 5693.

February 25th is proclaimed National Guard Day by John Marshall, Adjutant General structure in command of N. C. National Guard troops, and by Mayor W. L. Whedbee of Greenville.

Parents owe it to themselves to let their children know the Guard has to offer their sons.

Recreation Director Is Needed For This Spring

City officials should lose no time in pressing their search for a new, capable recreation director to replace Warren Carroll who has resigned his duties with the city effective April 1.

A well planned recreation program has become an important phase of municipal government activities in Greenville since Carroll came here in 1951. Its importance to citizens of Greenville demands that the recreation department not be left without an administrator for any longer than absolutely necessary. Like any other department within the city government, it must have a capable head to function properly and fill the needs of citizens of Greenville.

The spring and summer months form the period in which the city's recreation program reaches its peak. To meet the needs of youngsters who are out of school the department has to present a much more intensive program than is offered during the remainder of the year. Certainly it would be ill advised for the city to attempt to go through the coming months without a full-time recreation director.

And while we are discussing recreation, we feel a comment is due on Carroll's accomplishments as head of Greenville's recreation department. When he came here as recreation director five years ago Greenville was sadly lacking in this particular phase of service to its people. The recreation program previously provided by the city was at best a make-shift, off-and-on affair. Under Carroll's direction the city moved into a full time recreation program although the recreation department was, and still is, handicapped for funds to provide the calibre program the city should have.

Starting from scratch, Carroll has directed the acquisition of recreation facilities including parks, playgrounds and equipment. In addition the department under his direction has provided a program which has attracted literally thousands of city's youngsters and adults each year. The recreation program and facilities have cost money, but there can be no question that the city has received full value for every dollar spent on recreation in the past half decade.

The Reflector shares the reluctance of the Recreation Commission in seeing Carroll give up his post with the city. Nevertheless the excellent progress he has made in providing a comprehensive recreation program for Greenville should stand as a challenge to city officials, Greenville's citizens and Carroll's successor.

We Concur, State Has Need Of A New Capitol

The Reflector quite agrees with the writer of the editorial reprinted on this page in the column "What Other Editors Are Saying."

This Henderson Dispatch editorial writer hit the nail on the head in pointing out that a new state capitol is long overdue for North Carolina.

One who has visited the state capitol in recent years is well aware of the crowded conditions in the capitol and the handicaps presented officials whose offices are in the antiquated structure.

While various agencies of the state in the past several years have been provided with brand new buildings and adequate facilities, the major state officials including the General Assembly have had to manage as best they could in the capitol building which has been in use for more than a century. It is certainly time to provide more modern and adequate facilities for these state government officials.

Other Editors Are Saying... New State Capitol Needed

(Henderson Dispatch)

Should plans now in the making to reconstruct the 1957 Legislature authorize construction of a new State Capitol building in Raleigh, it won't come before it is needed. Such facilities are long overdue.

Representative James Vogler of Charlotte says he plans to introduce such a bill in the next Legislature. He would provide adequate quarters for the Senate and House, together with suitable offices for committees and legislative officials. One has only to visit the present 116-year-old structure to appreciate how sorely needed are larger chambers for the lawmakers.

The present Capitol was built, as its designers at the time said, to serve for one hundred years. It has already been in use considerably longer, and is wholly inadequate to meet requirements of modern government. The new building would house the Governor's office and those of other key State officials.

Vogler plans to ask for an appropriation of ten million dollars to do the new job. The cost will probably be all of that, but the State must have more room.

"Not one stone of the present Capitol would be touched," Vogler said. Nor should it be. Too much tradition and history are attached to this ancient structure, and its architectural design is too rare and too much of a relic of bygone years to permit of that. Whatever its use might be it should be retained as it now is for some State purpose.

The Vogler proposal will meet with little opposition. A few decades ago ten million dollars would have been a tremendous item of cost, but in today's biennial budget of the State, running to $600 million or more, such a sum is relatively small.

An entire city block in Raleigh ought to be acquired and if we had the suggestion to make it would be that the new building be patterned after the national Capitol in Washington as to outward design and appearance. It should be one of the entire State could be proud of.

Hypnotizing His Home Folks

A Quick Glimpse Of Royalty

Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Brooks of 102 North Library Street received in the mail this week a personal account of Queen Elizabeth II's visit to Abokuta, Nigeria, on February 11.

The royal visit was described by their daughter, Ernelle, who is a Baptist missionary in that territory.

Miss Brooks wrote: "The Queen arrived on Saturday. Miss Perry, Miss Anderson and I had about the most choice seats in the place. She was supposed to be going from Lagos to Ibadan by train, and stopped for 20 minutes at Abokuta."

"They had made a sort of pavilion where she and the Duke were to go to view the people. There were three sections of seats prepared around the area with covers made of bamboo and palm branches. We were on the third row of the section that was directly in front of the place where she was to alight and about 50 feet from the pavilion itself. The rest of our group were not quite so well situated. The school children had space to stand and watch.

"The train arrived exactly on the minute as it was supposed to. The Queen and Duke first waved from the back to those who were on the other side of the train, and not in the grounds proper. Before their arrival the royal carpet of dark red wool had been spread from the place where they would descend to the pavilion. They had it very carefully hand-brushed after spreading it.

"The Governor met them and presented them to the Duke who in turn escorted them to the pavilion. She was very simply dressed in a green dress which appeared to be bamboo and white accessories. The Duke was in military attire.

"Various individuals were presented to her. For the most part she smiled and shook hands and the Duke took care of all conversation. At the exact proper minute they again boarded the train and went on their way.

"The police band played the National Anthem (though it sounded like "America" to me) while they all joined in and sang "God Save the Queen."

"The visit is really doing what the British had hoped for, I think. The Nigerians are accepting her 100 per cent. They are quite thrilled over her, and it has completely erased that feeling of antagonism that was beginning to arise in some areas. This was certainly a wise step on their part. It has amazed me."

'Someone' Saw And Helped

GEORGETOWN, Colo. (AP)—On a wintry night two years ago one of "The Seven Sisters" struck Leroy Buckley with a mighty white fist of death—but he escaped alive.

By doing so the 28-year-old Korean veteran has become something of a living legend in this old mining town near famous Loveland Pass, high in the towering Rocky Mountains.

Strength for the Day

GOD IN NATURE

"To him who in the love of Nature holds communion,"

He who is fortunate enough to walk or work in a garden in the late fall will do well to look about him and see how Nature cares for its own. Dead foliage falls, but it is not wasted. It acts as cover to keep the frosts of winter from destroying life in tender root or bulb or seed. The foliage in turn decays, but it is not destroyed, merely changed to fertilizing humus in order to nourish another generation.

Marvel with me at the miracle of photosynthesis, whereby the substance of such foliage, bark or wood is built almost wholly from air and water by the energy of the sun. The plant takes up only trace elements and minerals, not substance, from the soil. If

The "Seven Sisters" are seven perilous snowslide areas along the winding road through the pass.

Few persons caught in a major avalanche survive. Leroy is the second member of his family to be caught before the great reaches of the grandson of famed Alice "Maw" Buckley, a real "first lady" of Colorado's fabulous past. This doughty trail pioneer mother raised 13 children of her own, believed hundreds of miners, died triumphantly in 1945 at 85.

In 1915 Raymond Buckley, Leroy's uncle, and two other men were caught in an avalanche while inspecting a mine site. The uncle saved himself by clinging to the limb of a tree that withstood the flooding snow. His companions perished.

Leroy and his father, John, own a garage and auto repair shop. They have rescued hundreds of motorists stranded on the wintry heights.

At dusk on Nov. 24, 1953, Leroy was returning after towing a stranded car over the pass. The Seven Sisters seemed serene in a luminous peace. Then sister No. 6 reached for him without warning.

"I saw a sudden white fluffy cloud before me," Leroy recalled. "And then I couldn't see anything. The glass crashed around me, the front of the cab crumpled. "Snow filled the cab, choking me. How did I feel? There wasn't time to be afraid. I just gripped the wheel and held on. I wasn't even sure what was happening. "In the vast maelstrom of snow, rocks, and splintered trees the light 1½-ton tow truck was helpless as a peanut in a hurricane. It sailed through the air, turning end over end, and landed upright 20 feet below on the roadway, then skidded another 100 feet before coming to a halt.

Some people may regard Congress' pressure on the F&D as part of a conspiracy to cheat housewives, tricking them into buying fruit that is not as ripe as the fruit that is sold. Others think that growers have as much right to color their oranges as manufacturers have to color and scent their soap. The government has always been more lenient with farmers than with manufacturers. American farmers can produce "Swiss" cheese but American dairymen dare not offer "scotch" whisky.

"But one of this is reported as a commentary on the question of whether the coloring matter is safe to eat. No one has raised the question of whether consumers are being deceived.

Workings Of Gov't Today

By ELMER ROESSNER

Following the birthday of one of the great men who helped create this constitution, let's take a look at how it is operating.

Fifty years ago, less a few months, Congress enacted the Food and Drug Administration to prohibit the use of coal-tar dyes in food unless they are proved completely harmless.

So ordered, the F&D prohibited the use of Red No. 32 and two other dyes later, February 15.

And what a squall blew up! WHAT PALE ORANGES?

Red 32, it seems, is the dye used to make the skins of Florida and Texas oranges orange-colored.

There is no convincing evidence that Red 32 is dangerous. In fact, it is one of the most of mice produces irritations that may become cancerous. But few people inject orange peel under their skin; most of them grow, and eat, oranges. So it is used that if the dye in the skins of a dozen oranges were swallowed it would produce less discomfort than the eating of the skin of one orange.

But the law, as written, does not take into account the fact that a coal-tar dye is without danger when used only as a colorant. It has to be completely harmless—and proved so—before it can be used.

The F&D order brought violent protests from Florida and Texas. John T. Lesley, a spokesman for Florida citrus growers, said that noncolored oranges would have only a few days left. He also declared the Florida and Texas growers would be ruined. James A. Haley, Democratic Congressman from Florida, promptly introduced a bill to legalize Red 32. The industry asked an injunction in Federal Court.

THREE-YEAR EXTENSION — Other Democratic Congressmen rallied behind the Haley Bill and hearings were called. And the F&D, dependent on Democratic Congressmen for continued appropriations, laid down and rolled over. It did not oppose the injunction and it told the House Interstate Commerce Commission to prohibit for three years, giving the citrus industry that time in which to prove that Red 32 is harmless to humans.

The Haley Bill was passed and substituted. Several chemical companies are working on the problem and one claims to have devised a safe substitute. It is in quantity production for some time however.

In the present case, the sole issue is whether the coloring matter is safe to eat. No one has raised the question of whether consumers are being deceived.

Some people may regard Congress' pressure on the F&D as part of a conspiracy to cheat housewives, tricking them into buying fruit that is not as ripe

as the fruit that is sold. Others think that growers have as much right to color their oranges as manufacturers have to color and scent their soap. A Guarantee Of Political Hokum Ahead

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON President Eisenhower's appropriation of so many of the Democrats' vote-getting programs at the current session guarantees that the 1956 Presidential campaign will be rampant with political hokum, hypocrisy and hysteria. The pitchmen and hucksters on both sides are peddling their shabby wares already.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, for instance, stands accused of "dragging the Supreme Court into politics" for noting that a Republican Chief Justice handed down the anti-segregation decision in 1957. Roosevelt hinted that at least 25 members of the Federal Judiciary were so "mentally and physically incapacitated"—that is, senile—that they could not perform their duties. Former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, the bill's promoter, had spent many weeks in digging up this information.

F.D.R.'s favorite and cooperative columnists and writers pilloried sitting justices unmercifully based on material supplied by White House "hatchet men"—Thomas Corcoran, James Roosevelt, Benjamin Cohen Joseph D. Keenan. These pundits labeled Justice Butler as a judicial spokesman for the railroads, Justice McReynolds for oil interests, Justice Van Devanter for the cattle, mineral and timber barons. Even Chief Justice Charles talking with tongue in cheek. Although neither Party is guiltless, for both Lincoln and Grant considered "packing" the court to obtain favorable decisions, nobody plunged the tribunal deeper into selfish and partisan politics than F.D.R.

When he proposed enlargement in 1937, Roosevelt hinted that at least 25 members of the Federal Judiciary were so "mentally and physically incapacitated"—that is, senile—that they could not perform their duties. Former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, the bill's promoter, had spent many weeks in digging up this information.

F.D.R.'s favorite and cooperative columnists and writers pilloried sitting justices unmercifully based on material supplied by White House "hatchet men"—Thomas Corcoran, James Roosevelt, Benjamin Cohen Joseph D. Keenan. These pundits labeled Justice Butler as a judicial spokesman for the railroads, Justice McReynolds for oil interests, Justice Van Devanter for the cattle, mineral and timber barons. Even Chief Justice Charles

Evans Hughes was branded as a "corporation lawyer from Broad and Wall Streets."

In rounding up votes for the corrupt machine bosses to apply pressure on wavering Congressional cronies, the Kelly-Nash crowd in Chicago, Hague in New Jersey, Huey Long's in Louisiana, Governor A.B. (Happy) Chandler in Kentucky—all were impurported by the White House hypocritical hysteria.

So, Democratic denunciation of Nixon on this issue may be classified as political hokum, hypocrisy and hysteria.

PHONY QUALITY OF INDIGNATION Democratic indignation over lobbying on the natural gas bill parades of the same phony quality. Both parties are tarred with this brush, although most contributors are not so crude as the oil clique that offered $2,500 in cash to Senator Francis Case of South Dakota.

In any itemization of the expenditures of lobby and influence groups at Washington and elsewhere, the supporters of the incumbent "liberals" would rank at the top. The unions, farm organizations, public ownership associations, TVA proponents, racial cliques, Americans for Democratic Action and other "gimme" factors kick in only secondarily dollars to "friendly" members. Most of them generally favor the Democrats.

Organized labor floods the courts with black and white list spending millions to defeat or elect. In the critical 1954 Congressional election, the unions' cash gifts to Democratic Senator, averaged $20,000 and this sum does not include contributions by local bodies. Labor poured out millions for Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952, and for Truman in 1948.

POLITICS AS IT IS PRACTICE Votes enjoy the same worth as dollars, and only secondarily in American politics. Yet there are only a few Congressmen who do not think first of whether a measure is popular with their constituents, and only secondarily of its effect on the public welfare. Like it or not, that's politics as it is practiced on Capitol Hill in every State Legislature and in every City Council.

Police Ignored 'Legal Holiday'

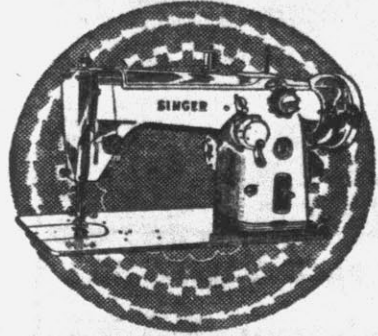

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Is Washington's Birthday a legal holiday—or isn't it?

Dayton police don't seem to think so. They handed out tickets and towed away cars for overtime parking yesterday. The parking meters specifically exempt motorists from paying on holidays.

Lt. R. M. Igleburger, the Police Department's traffic chief, said the department does not regard Washington's Birthday as a holiday because it isn't listed as such in the city code.

When motorists went to the office where they usually pay the tickets, they were greeted with a shuttered window and a sign saying: "Closed, legal holiday."

Witnesses Testify As To Abuse Of 3-Year-Old

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The trial of Mrs. Mary Louise Hottle, charged with five counts of assault on her 3-year-old stepdaughter, continued here today with 17 prosecution witnesses to be heard from.

The child, Debra Hottle, died Christmas Eve, six months after she had come here from Richmond, Va., to live with her stepmother. She was buried Christmas Day.

Coroner W. M. Summerville began an investigation after doctors reported the child had bruises and an old cut scar on her head, plus burn scars on her legs.

Mrs. James T. Jones of Richmond said yesterday that Debra "was a normal, sound, healthy girl when she left to go live with her father and that woman June 22, 1955." A welfare agency had placed Debra with Mr. and Mrs. Jones in 1953.

Other witnesses said Mrs. Hottle had tied the child to a bed, run steaming hot water on her legs, banged her head on a bathtub and stuffed paper down the child's throat until she "turned blue."

Miss Jean Martin said she had seen Mrs. Hottle make the child stand in the bathtub fully clothed for several hours. She testified that she saw the woman running steaming hot water on the child's legs.

On another occasion, the witness said, Debra was tied spread-eagle to the bed, a belt buckled around her neck and tied to the head of the bed. A plastic or oil cloth sheet was put over the bed, which was over a furnace register, Miss Martin said. The witness said human waste was spread on the child's face.

Miss Martin said she learned about Debra's death Dec. 27. She asked Mrs. Hottle why she hadn't let anyone know. "She (Mrs. Hottle) said she didn't consider Debra worth spoiling anyone's Christmas," Miss Martin said.

The witness said she once saw Mrs. Hottle holding Debra by her hair, "banging her head on the bathtub."

A neighbor, Mrs. Ellie Kendall, testified that she had seen Mrs. Hottle shove paper down the little girl's throat until she "turned blue."

Miss Martin said the child was normal when she first saw her. She said she had never seen any of the other Hottle children mistreated. Mrs. Kendall said she had never seen Debra do anything abnormal.

Woman Killed By Runaway Giant

COVINA, Calif. (AP)—A 47-ton National Guard Patton tank went out of control and rolled over a station wagon, killing Mrs. Jeanette Hendricks, 58.

Police said the tank crushed her auto and then jumped a curb, rolled across a lawn and crashed into a brick wall. The four-man tank crew were unhurt.

Tank driver Sgt. Gordon Gray, 25, told officers the vehicle was returning to its unit in nearby Baldwin Park after a day of recruiting in Covina. Officers quoted Gray as saying he was moving too close to the curb and when he tried to straighten out the tank controls jammed.

Ralph Edwards Really Rather Emotional Guy

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—I seem to be about the only person in the country who has no emotional reaction to Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life on NBC-TV."

"This Is Your Life," as you doubtless know, is a very popular program with an enormous audience enchanted each Wednesday evening at seeing an unsuspecting person have his past life unfolded by Edwards with the connivance of the person's friends. In seven years of this arduous labor Edwards has caused all but two of his subjects to weep. And, if you can believe what you read, the tears shed weekly by the TV audience would fill a small reservoir.

"This Is Your Life" also is the program that sometimes throws many astute critics into a rage—an emotion not far removed from tears. "Plain ordinary commercialized sadism" is the way one esteemed syndicated columnist has characterized it.

Well, the other day when Edwards dropped into New York from his Hollywood habitat we had a chat. It was rather an odd interview because Edwards scarcely got a word in. He impresses me as a carefully controlled but basically pretty emotional guy who honestly believes in his program as an instrument of good emotional release.

I told him that his program fascinates me technically but that possibly because of a regrettably low emotional pitch I've never shed a tear while viewing it. I believe, I said, that every subject for one of his profiles must have suffered some traumatic experience, emotional or physical. Edwards didn't altogether agree, but he understood what I meant.

We all bear scars — if only the long absence of a beloved relative. In reunion or recollection we sometimes cry. What's wrong with tears? When I returned from overseas after World War II I met my wife in a crowded railroad station and we both cried. We weren't embarrassed. If we met on This Is Your Life we'd have cried — and the public be damned.

One point of criticism of This Is Your Life seems to be that tears in public are humiliating. What a ridiculous idea! Then let's ban public laughter too.

Another point of criticism is that some memories are too painful to be born. This view is in variance with most of religious and psychiatric teaching which says that man must learn to live with all his memories. This is Your Life may not be the best place to begin learning, but a subject's friends have decided it is at least a place.

Another criticism is that Edwards whoops up the emotions too hard. Could be. But my judgment of the man after talking to him is that he does so honestly because he has tremendous emotional responses himself.

There are about 14,000 wild mountain goats in the United States. Because many Americans read too slowly, many business firms pay for training their employes in faster reading in the interest of efficiency.

CHIEF IS BAKER

NEWTON, Iowa (AP)—The police department has frequent "feeds" at the City Hall. The meat is furnished by Mayor C. C. Harp, who operates a locker plant, and the wives do most of the cooking. But when cakes are served, they are baked personally by Police Chief N. C. (Doc) Shaver.

Free China reports its population is now more than 10 million.

Jap Labor Leader Claims Workers Considered Last

By JAMES CARY
 TOKYO (AP)—Japan again is moving toward economic dominance of Asia — but at the expense of underpaid workers, the nation's top labor leader contends.

Akira Iwai, 34-year-old boss of Japan's big General Council of Trade Unions (SOHYO) says industrial determination to exploit workers is the reason the government opposes SOHYO's unfolding spring campaign for wage increases.

"They have charged we are planning a general strike to overwhelm the government," he said. "That is not true. It is impossible. The purpose is purely economic. We want and deserve a wage increase."

Management, Iwai said, is making good profits, but while foreign trade is approaching prewar levels, it is anxious to keep costs down.

"Japanese industrialists are not like those in America," he added. "Here they always consider the workers last."

The Japan Federation of Employers' Associations denies that industry is making good profits. "There may be several making money . . . superficially," it stated in a recent pamphlet, "but not all. The smaller industries are struggling. We favor individual merit raises, but not across the board. . . . We must accumulate capital. . . . Our costs must be kept low to sell in Asia. There have been several wage increases since the war."

Government statistics show that Japan, broke at the end of World War I was selling its wares abroad at a rate of 190 million dollars monthly at the end of 1955. The prewar export yearly average was two billion dollars. Last year the total was only 20 million dollars under that figure.

But this is the picture union leader Iwai gives.

"The average industrial worker in Japan today makes about 14,500 yen ($38.82) a month. If you include small workshops, the average drops to about 10,000 yen ($27.80). This average worker is a man with a wife and three children. It has been estimated that such a family needs at least 17,000 to 18,000 yen ($50) monthly for a minimum standard of living.

"We are trying to raise that gradually, but right now all we're asking is 2,000 yen ($5.56) increase a month."

SOHYO's wage offensive began last week and is to continue until March 20 in four of what the Japanese call "struggle waves," each stronger than the preceding. At the climax three million workers—half the nation's unionized labor force—will be participating, Iwai claims. There will be no major work stoppages, but many demonstrations, shop rallies, sit-downs and 24-hour strikes.

Air Service At Filling Station

SPENCER, W. Va. (AP)—M.E. Walker and his wife, who operate a service station at Speed, Roane County, looked up to see a helicopter plunk down in a field across U.S. 119 from their station.

While motorists stopped to gape, the pilot hopped out and said, "Fill 'er up."

Mrs. Walker said the aircraft came from Camp Hill, Pa. and is used by a pipeline company to patrol its lines in this area.

Contrary to a widespread popular belief, checks written on Sunday are valid.

LOST TOP
 KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The owner of a 1956 automobile had a shock when he arrived to claim it at a parking lot, and found that the top was down. The car wasn't a convertible.

In the owner's absence, a wall adjoining the lot had collapsed and the car was smashed flat.

Reorganization Of GOC Slated At Friday Meet

A reorganizational meeting of the Greenville Ground Observer executive committee has been called by unit supervisor Jake Hadley. The meeting will be held in Hadley's offices in the Proctor Hotel Building, Friday at 8:00 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting, explains Hadley, is to make the local post function more efficiently. Representatives from a number of Greenville clubs have been invited, and are expected to attend.

Also invited are J. H. Rose, Pitt County Director of Civilian Defense, Jack Wallace, Coordinator of Ground Observer Corps and Civilian Defense and Robert S. Moye, Chief Observer of Ground Observers. Attending club representatives will be designated Assistant Chief Observers.

Bones Of Child Found In Cave

CATLETTSBURG, Ky. (AP)—Coroner Russell Compton reports a human skull, possibly that of a child 7 to 9, was found in a cave about 10 miles from here Monday. He said John Harris found the skull while playing in the cave. After telling of his find, four friends went to the cave and discovered ribs, vertebra and an arm bone. The bones are being studied to determine how long they had been in the cave.

WHISTLED TO SCHOOL GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Children at the Franklin Junior High School don't listen for the school bell because there isn't any. The school uses a steam whistle which school engineer George Bunker made from an automobile exhaust pipe. It can be heard for two miles.

Students at Harrow in England once obtained gunpowder in an abortive plot to blow up a new headmaster, says the National Geographic Society.

that's nearly Two Tons Big

(It's the Buick SPECIAL—and you really ought to try it!)

THIS is the one that's going to town in a BIG way. And you'll know what we mean when you take its measure—by any yardstick you choose.

By the pound and inch, it's the biggest bundle of high-powered action and high-fashion luxury ever offered in Buick's lowest-priced Series.

By the dollar sign, it's a value so big that Buick outsells every other car in America except two of the well-known smaller ones.

But not till you've put this 1956 Buick SPECIAL to the road can you know what a big-time performer it really is.

You'll know it by the instant response and purring might of a 322-cubic-inch V8 engine that's been lofted to new peaks of power and compression.

You'll know it by the flash-away action of a new Variable Pitch Dynaflo* that steps up getaway and gas mileage in normal situations—and zooms to full-power acceleration for a needed safety-surge when you floor the pedal and switch the pitch.

You'll know it by your complete mastery of a big car that handles like a dream—steers like a wish—and rides like a cloud in the blue.

BIG—that's the word for this Buick SPECIAL...

BIG—coming, going, or standing still...

BIG—in its stretch-out roominess—in its sweeping beauty—in its solid steadiness...

BIG, most of all, in the way it makes your money talk...

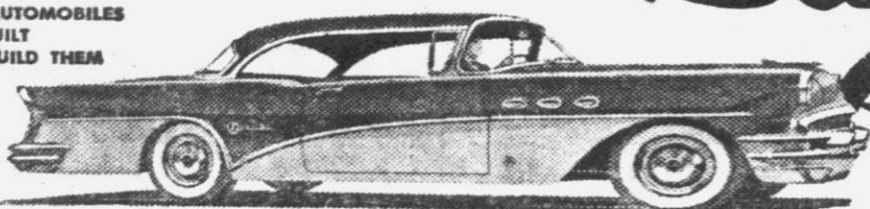

Come in—soon—and let this Buick speak for itself. We think you'll find it sweet listening.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Bucs Win Tourney Opener Over Catawba

Enter Semifinals After 91-70 Win

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
Reflector Sports Editor

LEXINGTON—Led by Don Harris' 24 points, the East Carolina College Pirates defeated Catawba, 91-70, to move into the semi-finals of the North State Conference tournament here.

The victory sends Coach Howard Porter's topseeded Bucs into the semi-finals Friday night meeting Elon College who downed Appalachian in last night's first game 89-74.

The 21-point spread was true indication of this game in which the Pirates commanded the play all the way.

The Bucs shot out front 3-1 on Harris' hook with only two minutes gone and showed that out to 12-5 as Harris hit three more consecutive buckets.

The Laurinburg junior's 34 points took high honors for the opening night round here. He could not miss during one streak in the first half, chalking up 17 points in a matter of 11 minutes.

Catawba, using a loose man-for-man defense, could do nothing to stop the Bucs who played the contest without much help from their captain and floor leader J. C. Thomas.

Thomas did see action, however, and in his brief appearances perked up the attack with nice outside shooting.

The Raleigh senior wasn't expected to play at all. As a matter of fact, he didn't make the trip with the team, but arrived yesterday afternoon to give ECC's hopes a boost.

Harris got a lot of help from Nick Nichols, brilliant sophomore forward. The tri-city blonde collected 24 points and grabbed 15 valuable rebounds.

The entire 12-man squad saw action as the advantage mounted. Guy Mendenhall, 6-5 center, was the only other double figure scorer. He got 14 points and picked off 16 rebounds as he and Nichols monopolized the backboards.

Catawba's porous-shooting Indians had three men getting 11 points each. Donni Hunt, Jerry Earney and Bob Massey.

East Carolina, once taking the lead, continued to pile up a margin.

With Nichols and Harris clicking from outside and Mendenhall clearing the boards, the Bucs ran their advantage to 21-10 with 10:50 showing in the half.

At halftime, East Carolina was safely in front, 38-25.

Catawba's Hunt and Massey kept plugging away but the Bucs lead remained unchallenged. The Tribe of Coach Earl Ruth did pull within 17 points with 3:50 seconds left to play but Mendenhall's tip-in and free throw sent the lead to 20 again.

East Carolina, utilizing a tight pressing game, baffled the Indians at the start and not until the second half got under way did Catawba start to hit.

ECC's final margin was held down by Porter's substituting freely in the late stages of the game. Tim Smothers and Harry Blevins played well in relief for the winners.

East Carolina has two legs more to travel to repeat its tournament championship of 1953-54. Elon, the team picked by most coaches and sports writers to win the tourney, is the big obstacle. The red-hot Christians hit 50 per cent of their shots in humiliating Appalachian.

Thursday night's action sees Lenor Rhyme and High Point meeting at 7:30 and ACC and WCC at 9:30.

New Heavyweight Star Rising In Eddie Machen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The heavyweight boxing ranks boasted a bright new prospect today in young Eddie Machen, who handles his fists and his feet with the speed of a middleweight.

The 22-year-old Redding, Calif., Negro made an impressive national television debut last night, completely befuddling Cuban Julio Mederos in earning an unanimous round decision before a near-capacity crowd at the grand opening of San Francisco Garden. The gross gate was $5,757.

As impressed as anyone with the showing of the youngster, who racked up his 12th victory without a loss, was Truman Gibson, executive secretary of the International Boxing Club.

"He looks ready for bigger game," commented Gibson to Sid Flaherty, Machen's manager. "He showed a lot more than I expected from a kid with that little experience."

Gibson and Flaherty expected to confer on a bout between Machen and Nino Valdes, world's third-ranking heavyweight, currently recovering from a nasal operation. Valdes had been scheduled to face Machen last night, but canceled out because of the nose injury.

Machen, amazingly fast for his 193 pounds, kept a sharp left jab in Mederos' face all night, throwing the Cuban off balance. The young Californian's footwork and bobbing and weaving defense made Mederos miss consistently with a roundhouse right.

Machen said afterward that he was never hurt by a punch, but there was a strong possibility he may have caught cold from the breeze of Mederos' wild swings whistling over his head.

Some scientists believe that warming of the earth will cause melting of enough polar ice to raise the level of the oceans and flood some low coastal areas within the next 50 years.

Phants Get Bye In Opening Round Of Tourney Here

In the first round of the class AA Northeastern Tourney, beginning at East Carolina College tonight, every league team will see action except the Greenville Phantoms.

Coach Boley Farley's team, which ended the season in a first place tie with Kingston, receives a bye, because of a one-game lead they held over the Red Devils at the time the pairings were being made.

Tonight's games will find New Bern (6-6) and Washington (4-8) beginning the affair at 6:30. Kingston battles Jacksonville in the following contest. The Devils had an 11-1 mark and Jacksonville's slate reads 2-10. In the final tilt of the first night, Elizabeth City (7-5) and Roanoke Rapids (1-11) scrap.

Greenville meets the winner of the New Bern-Washington bout tomorrow night.

Fans will be able to see some of the top scorers in the East performed during the three-day tournament. Greenville's Hal Edwards finished the season with a 22.7 average to lead all individual shooting and was closely followed by Elizabeth City's Ronald Price, who hit at a 21.0 clip.

Kingston's Poo Rochelle and Elon Faeltion finished the year at 18.5 and 14.8 marks, respectively, and another Greenville boy, Ike Riddick, grabbed fourth place honors with an 15.8 average.

New Bern's Durwood Hancock and Washington's Ward Marslander have both been constant scorers in the double-figures brackets, also.

Elects Officers

At the first meeting this year of the Eastern North Carolina Ladies Golf Association, in Smithfield, Mrs. John T. Barnhill, of Greenville, was elected president.

Mrs. Henry E. Coleman was voted secretary and Mrs. Harold Thomas was chosen treasurer of the group. Both are Greenville residents. The meeting was held Tuesday.

It was decided by the Association to divide Eastern golfers into 3004 groups, according to handicaps, and to award equal prizes and points in each group. Also, separate groups are to be added for nine hole golfers, to stimulate interest among beginners.

The following schedule has been arranged for the coming season:

March 27—Greenville
April 3—New Bern
April 10—Smithfield
April 17—Wilson
April 24—Kinston
May 1—Washington
Finals, May 8—Greenville

Bethel Forced To Rally In Overtime

SCORES
Farmville 35, Grifton 31 (girls)
Bethel 44, Ayden 41 (boys)

Bethel's boys and the Farmville girls' team virtually made a clean sweep in the finals of the Pitt County Tourney last night, both teams taking the championship of their respective brackets, and both being awarded the new All-Conference Trophy for possessing the best records in conference play this season.

Farmville ended the year with a terrific 31-0 slate and Bethel had a 14-1 mark.

In the opening contest, Farmville edged their Grifton foes, 35-31, in a battle that was close all the way. Jane Joyner, Red Devil shooting ace, twisted a knee and went out of the game in the early minutes of the second quarter, and only fine teamwork and 19 points by Jewell Gardner secured a Farmville championship.

27-28, Third Period
After three blazing quarters, which saw a slight Farmville advantage, Dawn Smith and her Grifton mates came within one point of tying the score at 27-28. Then, Jewell Gardner pumped in two successive field goals, and with only two minutes left in the game, Farmville stayed ahead.

Gardner's 19 was high for both teams and Dawn was next with 13.

Bethel Overtime Win
Bethel's boys grabbed a close 44-41 win and the boys' crown, with an overtime victory in the second affair of the night.

Bryan Latham, big Indian center, pounced in 23 points for high honors and did a fine defensive job on Ayden's Bert Tripp, allowing him only four tallies.

Coach Walter Latham's crew eked out an early lead on the long set-shooting of guards Vance Taylor and Bob Jalk Manning, but the Tornados rose to tie the score at 22-22 by halftime.

Bobby Vandford and Tommy Edwards sparked the Ayden team in the final moments of the third quarter to take the lead for the first time. Bethel stayed several points in front throughout the entire contest, until a jump shot by Edwards made it 39-38 in Ayden's favor. With less than three minutes remaining in the game, Latham knotted the score at 39-39 with a free-throw, and as the final buzzer sounded, it was tied at 41-41.

In a three minute overtime period, Latham again sang a free-throw to give his team a 42-41 lead and Bethel froze the ball. Bob Jalk Manning and Dan Martin dropped in two more gratis shots to finish the tilt at 44-41 and Bethel had snared the Championship.

All-Conference Teams Selected

Between halves of the Championship games, held last night at the Pitt County Conference Tourney, selections were announced to the boys' and girls' All-Conference teams.

Also awarded trophies were Child's boys and Bethel's girls for Best Sportsmanship, and the Bethel boys and Farmville girls for possessing the best team records in conference play.

All-Conference selections are as follows:
All-Conference Boys
Jack Sawyer, Winterville; Bryan Latham, Bethel; Andy Dunn, Ayden; Bert Tripp, Ayden; Vance Taylor, Bethel; William Corey, Winterville; Bill Farris, Farmville; Tommy Edwards, Ayden; Durwood White, Bethel; Mack Holmes, Farmville.

All-Conference Girls
Maggie Castello, Winterville; Nan Williams, Farmville; Dawn Smith, Grifton; Nina Perkins, Stokes; Jane Joyner, Farmville; Barbara Evans, Winterville; Patsy Mills, Choccol; Sue Sutton, Ayden; Hazel Wilson, Choccol; Jean Parker, Belvoir; Faye Bowen, Ayden; Elsie Carrawan, Grimesland.

Veteran Ump Critical Of New 'Pass' Speedup

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A veteran National League umpire is sharply critical of the American League's plan to permit pitchers to give intentional passes merely by informing the umpire of that intention.

"That's going too far with this speedup craze," said Larry Goetz, one of the most respected of senior circuit arbiters. "They're taking something out of the game."

"I've seen a runner steal a base while a pitcher was throwing four wide ones. I've seen a man picked off a base in a similar situation."

Three Games In Start Of Pitt Negro Tourney
Three games were played last night in the H. B. Sugg armistium, in Farmville, as the Pitt County Colored Tourney got underway. Winners were Farmville, Grimesland, and Bethel.

In the first contest, the Farmville girls dumped a highly-rated Bethel crew, 27-15.

Pitt County Training School's girls of Grimesland undefeated this season in conference play, triumphed over Winterville's Robinson Union girls, 27-17.

The final bout was the only one in which boys took part. Trailing at the half, Bethel's boys roared back to take a 47-38 victory.

Tonight, the boys and girls of Bethel Ayden will battle the Farmville teams, and Bethel's boys will meet Grimesland.

The finals will take place Saturday night.

And you'll recall that last year a couple of batters leaned over and got a hit while they were trying to walk them. I'm certainly glad our league didn't go for the change."

Remember when Don Newcombe was suspended last season for refusing to pitch batting practice?

Well, this is another year and the Brooklyn Dodgers' right-hander apparently is turning over a new leaf. Despite a mild virus infection, Newcombe went through a 2½-hour drill in Vero Beach, Fla.

"I feel all right, got no temperature and I want to work," he said. Manager Walter Alston, noting Newk's spirit, nodded approvingly. "If Don feels like working, I'm all for it," he said.

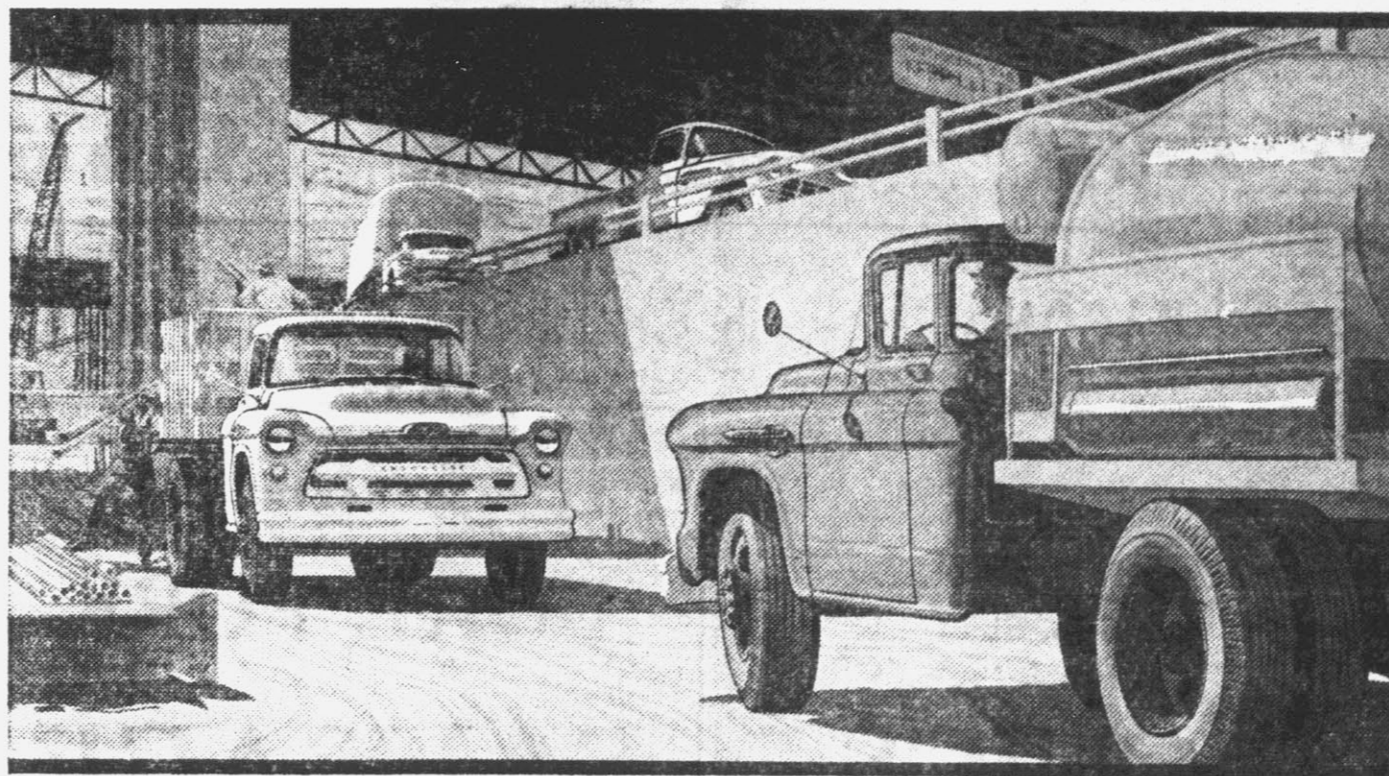

Bruce Edwards, the Brooklyn catcher before Roy Campanella, may have reached the end of the major league trail. He was released by the Washington Senators yesterday. Bruce appeared in only 39 games in 1955 and batted a meager .175.

The New York Yankees' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., was the scene of a six-inning exhibition game in which Ed Lopat's Richmond Virginians beat Freddie Fitzsimmons' Binghamton Triplets 6-2.

Grifton FHA Plans For Annual Banquet

By DAWN SMITH
GRIFTON HIGH SCHOOL

Recently the Grifton chapter of the Future Homemakers of America held its regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Frances Davis. Main business discussed was the report of the Banquet Committee. The committee had decided upon the menu for our annual banquet. The menu was discussed by the members and, with a few alterations, was approved. After the business meeting was over, the program committee took over and gave a comedy skit. Those acting in the skit were Sally Mewborn, Lou Raye Mewborn, Wilma Patrick and Linda Chauncey.

The refreshment committee then served cookies and iced drinks to the attending members.

The "Wedding March" was heard recently by a member of the junior class here at Grifton. Bonnie Faye Monday afternoon, the first of the adult classes, sponsored by the Home Economics department of Grifton High School, was held in the school assembly room. Mrs. Don Casey, department adviser, welcomed those attending and presented Mrs. J. W. Berry of Kinston as guest speaker.

After the program, delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Casey and members of her home economics classes. Those aiding in serving were Peggy Eatman, Ardath Vandiford, Pat Matthews, Elizabeth Lawton and Alice Dixon.

Billy Cox's father, Mr. Fred Cox, is a patient at Sea Level Hospital. Mr. Cox underwent surgery there recently. Latest reports on his condition were satisfactory.

Saturday afternoon, after a long basketball practice, Marvina Hatt gave a little party at her home for members of the ball team. She served delicious cake and frosty bottles of soft drinks. Everyone enjoyed her treat.

EXTRA GOOD because it's NATURAL

This demonstrates the value of sodium to soils (left). The crop was side-dressed with Chilean Nitrate of Soda (26 per cent sodium) at right, no sodium. The extra values—sodium and the minor elements—help account for Chilean's remarkable all-round efficiency.

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

For small grains, corn, cotton, tobacco, pasture, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top-dressings and side-dressings assure lowest costs and extra profitable results. Here's why:

Natural Chilean is extra good for soil and crop because it's natural—the only natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Chilean Soda is the ideal way to feed a hungry crop with life-giving plant food.

Natural Chilean works fast. The nitrogen content is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen—ready to work immediately after application. This assures maximum yields and quality, protection against losses and extra profits per acre.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. 100 pounds produce as much or more crop than 100 pounds of any other nitrogen fertilizer—regardless of nitrogen content. Also, every ton contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone in acid-destroying efficiency.

Natural Chilean fights acidity. Because it corrects acidity and improves potash, phosphate and minor element deficiencies, Chilean Soda is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for top-dressing and side-dressing. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

An instanter capias was issued in police court here yesterday for Johnny M. Harrington, of Route 3, Ayden after he failed to appear for trial on a charge of failing to stop for a red light.

Lobbying Legal As Long As No Influence Bought

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Now that the Senate appears ready to investigate lobbying — it remains to be seen how thorough a job is done — these background questions arise: Who's a lobbyist? What is lobbying? What's wrong with it?

When an individual or a group urges members of Congress to vote one way or the other on a piece of legislation, that is lobbying. Some groups hire individuals or whole staffs to do lobbying for them. These are professional lobbyists. There's nothing wrong with lobbying. It's a right guaranteed by the Constitution whose first amendment says: "Congress shall make no law... abridging... the right of the people... to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

In fact, paid lobbyists can be of a lot of help to Congress when it is trying to learn the facts about a piece of legislation in order to decide how to vote on it. The lobbyists know their particular field and can testify fully why the bill will help or hurt their side. The lobbyists on the opposite side do the same. There are all kinds of lobbies: business, farmer, labor, and peace groups; research, educational, medical associations; government agencies try to get Congress to see their point of view before a bill is passed or killed.

Even the White House does lobbying when its representatives try to persuade members of Congress to the administration's point of view on a pending measure.

What, then, is wrong with lobbying? It's wrong when money is used to influence the vote of a member of Congress. The money can be handed out in various ways. Even that may not be wrong unless bad intent can be proved.

For instance, a lobby may contribute to the campaign fund of a member of Congress or a political party, and the contributor may argue his only reason for doing so was because he admired the senator or representative or the party.

But if money is handed out to influence a vote, it becomes a crime under the Corrupt Practices Act. The intent, of course, has to be proved. There is another law, passed in 1946, which requires lobbyists around Congress to register. They're supposed to report the amount of their income to be used for lobbying.

Lobbying in this country is older than the Republic. Delegates to the first Continental Congress were stopped on their way to Philadelphia by the lobbyists of wealthy men who urged against any "dangerous" ideas about independence.

Giant Aircraft To Be Evicted

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Howard Hughes is going to get an eviction notice for his huge flying boat.

The Long Beach Board of Harbor Commissioners ordered the city attorney yesterday to notify Hughes his craft, the Hercules, must be removed from the terminal Island facilities by April 1. The boat made one brief trial over water in 1948.

Hughes has been paying rent on the city property but Long Beach sent back the last tender of payment.

On March 17, 1954, Hughes sued Long Beach for 12 million dollars for damages to the flying boat sustained when a dyke broke Sept. 13, 1953, and the boat's hangar was flooded with mud and silt.

Paid Freight On His Good Turn

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—When Dog Warden William Custer found a lost dog, he read in a Wheeling Intelligencer want ad that it had been lost by a man from Garnet, Kan. Custer, at his own expense, telegraphed the Kansan he was shipping the dog and took it to the express office in a $20 wooden shipping crate. The other day, Custer got a call that his crate had been returned so he went to pick it up. The crate had been shipped collect and Custer had to pay shipping charges out of his own pocket.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Michael's senses responded to Charlotte's soft seduction. Rage followed. He came to her, pulled her to her feet, kissed her savagely, his fingers digging into her wrist. Her lips stiffened beneath his own, then parted, and he felt surrender in her. Once he had kissed her like this at an Illinois picnic. He pushed her away as abruptly as he had seized her.

She smiled showing no distaste. She came to him, pressing against him, her mouth again lifted to his. Despising his own weakness, he kissed her, aware of her lips, her soft body, her fire and demand. Her yielding restored his tenderness; he murmured to her, holding her gently.

In the corridor beyond his door there was the sound of steps. Immediately Charlotte was out of his arms. She slid into her chair, her fingers busy with her disheveled hair. He looked at her, with shame battling desire. The steps passed his door and died away.

Charlotte smiled at him and got gracefully to her feet. "Come and see me, Michael. I'll be waiting."

Undisturbed by his silence, she sauntered to the door, glanced once over her shoulder, and was gone. After a long time, Michael slammed the door and made for the nearest bar.

The next day at lunchtime Michael was still catering to a hangover worse than the one he'd owned on his graduation from law school. He sought the nearest bar. David Lurkins joined him, mentioning that Anna was at a church affair. "May I join you?"

"Of course," Michael finished his whiskey and ordered a scotch. He put trivial words between him and David. "Isn't that bartender kin to one of your pupils?"

"Darcy Fenner, Louise's brother," David agreed. "Sometimes I'm sorry for the child. She must be off the side of the road, though she's often alone until two in the morning. I'd ask her to meals oftener but Anna's taken an unreasonable dislike to her." He shrugged. "Sometimes I wonder if Anna doesn't resent Darcy's previous acquaintance with my father."

"Your father?"

"Darcy worked for him in San Francisco," Louise mentioned it, thinking I'd be glad to hear about my family." He smiled ruefully. "Father hasn't spoken to me in years. We're not—compatible."

Michael recalled tales he'd heard. David's father was a wealthy man who disapproved of his son's vocation. Families could raise the devil, all right.

He was still lingering over lunch, reluctant to return to law and Eben's silent disapproval, when Tim O'Beirn appeared preternaturally solemn as he ordered a beer.

Alone, Michael studied Darcy Fenner. He was a lean, wiry man with dark eyes, narrow forehead, tight curly hair that sprang in a wide wave from his brow.

Tim returned from buying cigars, and Michael mentioned casually that Fenner knew David Lurkins' father. Tim snorted.

"Probably worked in the old man's kitchen then. The Lurkins wouldn't be knowing bartenders social like."

"Too bad David hasn't some of the family money."

"Let him live long enough, he will," Tim had a talent for acquiring information. "Lurkins won't give him a bit piece while he sticks to music, but no Lurkins ever leaves a son outside the family and David's the only kin."

Michael left the dining room but he did not return to the office. He loafed through the town, dodging business and social invitations. It was evening when he joined Jason on the docks, superintending Ten Eyck cargo going north.

When Jason finished, he turned to Michael. "Drink?"

They fell into step, moving away from the lights into the shadows of the lumber piles.

"Carey much money on you, Michael?"

"Never much to tote. Why?"

"Lots of rolling in the last few weeks. I've been slugged twice myself."

"Lose much?" Michael was sure Jason hadn't notified the police. Like most of Seattle, he settled his own hassles.

"No." He changed subjects. "Meg hear from her husband again?"

"No."

"Probably dead."

"I hope not. If Meg's letter about the child reached him, he may volunteer to get her before spring. The ice is still there."

"Child?" Jason stopped short.

"Yes," Michael couldn't see him in the enveloping darkness. "She expects her second child in May."

He had never heard a more profane silence. Yet when Jason spoke, he was calm. "Michael, you could get her a divorce, couldn't you?"

So Jason's intentions were honorable. Michael was a little ashamed because he had doubted it. And yet less hell's brew might have resulted if Jason didn't want to marry her.

"She'll never ask for a divorce."

"How the devil do you know?" Before he spoke, he heard a thread of sound, half-turned. Weight crashed down on him, pain blazed through his neck and shoulder. He pitched forward, not completely off as his face scraped the rough planks of the dock.

Michael came to, fighting the necessity, rolled painfully on his back heard his own groans. The wind had risen. Rain fell in sheets as a spent, dreary daylight struggled over the stormy waters of the Sound. Boosting himself to his elbows, he managed to struggle upright by degrees, every bone in him protesting the effort. He looked about saw Jason flat on his face.

"Jason! On your feet!"

With Michael's help, Jason made it. His eyes were bloodshot, his face pale and loose. Dried blood angled from an open cut on his forehead; his mouth was bruised, puffed. He fingered the back of his head.

They searched vainly for their hats. Jason felt in his coat pocket. "What the devil did they want with my loading invoices? Well, let's get along to my hotel. No use advertising this, is there?"

"I guess not." The money was gone. They had no notion of the identity of their attackers. Why publicize their poor showing? "Any ideas, Jason?"

"A sneak thief. Or thieves. The town's full of 'em."

They met Clyde Ryerson in the hotel lobby. He nodded to them. Jason brushed past but Clyde halted to stare at Michael. "Brawling? Who came out second-best?"

"We weren't introduced to them," Michael said.

Clyde's green eyes were amused. He waited for Michael's explanation, asked no questions when it was not forthcoming. His smile lingered as he moved on.

"Ryerson mosy?" Jason jammed his key into the lock.

"Hinted he thought you and I had mixed it."

"He knew better! I wonder how much better."

Michael, in the act of peeling off his coat, turned. "Good heaven Jason, you don't think Ryerson robbed us?"

"Maybe he knows who did."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Rising prices predominated in the stock market today in the early afternoon. Many major divisions showed gains of 1 to around 3 points at the best. Losses usually were no larger than major fractions.

Trading was fast. In the first few minutes after the market opening, the tape was late in reporting on the progress of trading. The pace slackened after that, but it still was in the neighborhood of 2 1/2 million shares.

Buying preferences were widely distributed. Special attention was given to the steels, coppers, and the motors together with individual issues affected by corporate news.

At noon, the Associated Press average of 80 stocks was up 80 cents at $178.40. It was ahead 10 cents Tuesday in a rather slow and mixed market. The financial recessed yesterday in honor of George Washington.

Ford Motor traded over the counter at higher prices in sympathy with its counterparts on the New York Stock Exchange. The stock closed Tuesday at 6 1/2 bid and 6 1/2 offered. Today it was quoted as much as a major fraction higher.

Hart, Schaffner & Marx was up between 3 and 4 points at around 36 as directors proposed a 25 per cent stock dividend.

Scherer Corp. was up between 2 and 3 points around 49 on the strength of an earnings report showing 1952 profits equal to $4.71 a share as against 89 cents a year ago.

The common and preferred stock of Kerr-McGee Oil Industries were formally trading for the first time on the New York Stock Exchange today. The common opened at 46 1/2 and the 4 1/2 per cent cumulative convertible prior preferred began at 25 1/2. Both continued trading quietly in that vicinity.

Benguet Consolidated Mining, the most active issue in Tuesday's trading, opened at 1/4, unchanged at 20,000 shares unchanged at 2 3/4.

RALEIGH (NCDA) — Hog prices steady. Tops of 12.00 to 12.75 at Rocky Mount; 12.00 to 12.50 at Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel and Kinston; 12.00 at Rich Square, Castle Hayne and Rocky Point; 11.75 at Lumberton, Clinton, Fayetteville, Mount Olive, Mount Gil-ead, Siler City, Elizabethtown, Mt. Cro, Kenly, Shallotte, Show Hill, New Bern, Benson, Beaufort, Nahunta, Farmville, and Goldsboro. Remaining markets unreported.

RALEIGH (NCDA) — Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers fully steady, farm price 20, no f.o.b. sale reported; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 42. Asheville market report unavailable.

Professor Says Inept Promoted To High School

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — A Texas professor said today the nation's high schools now have thousands of pupils "who would have flunked out of grade school a few years ago."

This situation is a result of the great increase in the percentage of youngsters attending high schools said Dr. J. G. Umstadt, and because society "asks us to serve all children and youth from the moron to the genius."

What's more, said Umstadt, professor of secondary education at the University of Texas. "Momma and Papa American want Johnnie passed each year and sometimes Papa, or even Momma, is on the school board or a friend of the board president; so Johnnie is passed."

Two Natural Gas Lines Seek East N. C. Entry

Eastern North Carolina, long without natural gas service, is now under consideration by two companies for natural gas lines.

Trans-Carolina Pipeline Corporation announced today that it had filed an application with the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C. for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity to deliver 40,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily to 40 cities and towns in the two Carolinas.

Greenville is included among the towns which the pipelines would serve.

Last September Trans-Ohio Gas Co. announced that it was requesting permission to serve a number of towns in North Carolina along with natural gas.

Under the plans of both companies the lines would tap in to Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line, a main line which passes west of Charlotte.

Trans-Carolina's announcement proposes to build a natural gas pipe line from a point of connection with Transcontinental near Spartanburg, S. C. running near Rock Hill, S. C. and then into North Carolina. The line would pass near Monroe, Hamlet, Fayetteville, Goldsboro and terminate at Washington.

A total of 840 miles of welded steel pipe would be needed to serve the area which the announcement describes as "one of the largest segments of eastern seaboard territory presently without natural gas."

In North Carolina the lines would serve: Aberdeen, Albemarle, Benson, Clinton, Dunn, Erwin, Farmville, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Greenville, Hamlet, Kinston, Laurinburg, Lumberton, Maxton, Monroe, New Bern, Raeford, Rockingham, Rocky Mount, Selma, Smithfield, Southern Pines, Tarboro, Wadesboro, Washington, Wilmington, and Wilson.

In South Carolina the lines would extend to: Camden, Cheraw, Chester, Darlington, Florence, Port Mill, Kershaw, Hartsville, Lancaster, Rock Hill, Sumter, and York.

Greenville Utilities Superintendent Leonard P. Bloxam indicated this morning that letter had been received from Trans-Carolina announcing their plans and urging the city to support the proposals.

Bloxam said that Greenville has indicated to both companies that the town is interested in the extension of natural gas lines to this area.

The city is presently served by air mix propane which is shipped in by tank cars.

Bloxam said that the proposed price quoted by Trans-Carolina is "a good price" and "competitive with other natural gas facilities."

He noted that the price is "some lower" than the cost of Greenville's present gas supply.

New Pastor

The Rev. Donald G. Weldon is new pastor of the Mount Pleasant Christian Church, five miles north of Greenville.

The Rev. Mr. Weldon succeeds the Rev. William Clifton as minister of the church.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., he received his Bible college training at Atlanta Christian College. He has served churches near Carrollton, Ga., Whitesburg, Ga., the First Christian Church of Starke, Fla., and the Church of Christ in Sweet Valley, Pa. The minister also served in the mission field in Hawaii in 1953.

He is married to the former Miss Jewell DeLong of Atlanta. They are residing at the parsonage in Greenville, 8 Vance Street.

'Something' Hit Bicyclist; Scalp Badly Lacerated

A young Negro man was hospitalized here last night after he was found near a railroad track between Fifth and Third Streets.

Levi Green, 24, of 1916 S. Pitt Street, was under treatment today for severe scalp lacerations.

Green told officers he crossed Fifth Street on his bicycle and was riding down the railroad toward Third when something hit him.

A Third Street resident found him and took him to the hospital. Officers said there were no signs that anything had struck Green's bike. Green admitted, however, that he and another youth had drunk about two pints of wine shortly before.

THE PHANTOM

No Questions

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP) — Political advice from President Eisenhower's heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, is getting mighty expensive.

The Boston physician, here yesterday for a heart symposium, prefaced a question and answer period with this remark: "The only way I will answer questions about President Eisenhower running again for the presidency is by the person who asks the question coming up here and donating $50,000 to the Heart Fund."

There were no questions.

Meat streamer from a deep and terrible gash reaching from young Buckley's cheek around to the back of his neck. He never even noticed it until he climbed back to the highway. A second torrent of snow loosed by another of the Seven Sisters had blocked the road further down. Leroy had to clamber over it before finding help. A doctor that night took 86 stitches to close his wound.

A medal of St. Christopher the patron saint of travelers, had been torn loose from Leroy's throat. Feeling that St. Christopher had intervened to save his son, Leroy's father decided some months later the medal should be retrieved.

"I thought perhaps if I prayed it would help," said the elderly Buckley, who is devout. "So I got to my knees, and as I finished my first 'Hail Mary,' Leroy reached into the snow and said, 'Here it is, Dad.'"

Buckley blindly paced clear of the imprisoning snow that had kept him from being thrown out of the cab or banged to death inside the cab. The truck was nothing but wreckage. The radiator had been smashed in, the wheels and fenders ripped away.
