Criminal Charges Facing 48 In Florida Mob Riot

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Criminal charges were on file today against 46 persons in connection with a Saturday night riot that required action by the National Guard before order was restored.

Police said "drag race" fans formed the core of a mob of several thousand that sparked the riot. Many persons in the mob were from out of town.

The race enthusiasts were drawn to Daytona by tests held in connection with the two-week racing program sponsored by the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Drag racing is an acceleration speed run from a standing start for measured distance. Two or more autos at a time make the runs.

Guardsmen were called out at 1 a.m. yesterday. They restored order in less than an hour. They were called after milling thousands had defied police authority for nearly five hours, surging through a beach business section and doing extensive but minor damage to property.

After the mob was broke up and several persons arrested, extra police patrols were maintained through the area. The National Guard remained on the alert until 10 p.m. Sunday.

The riot started when police tried to break up impromptu teen-age races on a ramp to the ocean beach at about 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

The youngsters were reported holding the acceleration tests.

While officers were talking to the youths, another police car arrived. Suddenly tires on the police cars were slashed. Windows of one were broken. Rocks began to fly.

Police reinforcements throwing tear gas bombs into the intersection only aroused the anger of the mob and swelled its size.

Police Capt. A. O. Folsom Jr. estimated the crowd eventually numbered between 3,000 and 4,000, plus that many more spectators.

He said about 15 persons were injured, including a policeman with a cut arm and five firemen peppered with rocks when they tried to disperse the mob with water hoses.

There were no serious injuries, but after order was restored two youths were seriously hurt in an early morning race on the beach.

Maj. Gen. Mark Lance ordered the National Guard units mobilized and at the sight of the guardsmen the mob melted.

Capt. R. W. Roper, in command of the platoon of about 30 soldiers that brought order, said he fired one warning shot into the air and his men encountered no resistance.

City and county authorities, helpless against the mob before the National Guard mobilized, then began making arrests. Folsom said more than 85 persons were picked up but only 46 of them were booked, mostly on a general charge of affray.

Father Jailed In Fatal 'Spanking' Of Infant Son

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP)—A Cherry Point Marine sergeant, who told authorities he "blacked out" while spanking his infant son, was held in Carteret County jail today in the death of the child.

Sgt. James R. Houseman, 23, of Joiner, Ark., told Coroner Leslie Springle this story:

His wife, Edith B. Houseman, 22, of Greenville, N.C., has been in Cherry Point Marine Base hospital since the birth of the boy, the couple's second child, four weeks ago. He had had to care for and feed the boy and his 11-month-old sister at night at their home in Newport, then go to his duty assignment during the day with Marine Air Group 14 at Cherry Point.

Last Wednesday night, trying to feed the babies, he became angry and spanked both of them. He didn't know how many times he spanked them, Houseman said, because he "blacked out" when he started punishing them.

A neighbor, Mrs. June King, told authorities she heard the sound of spanking that night. The next day she suggested to Houseman that he take the baby to the Cherry Point Marine Base hospital, where physicians advised him to bring the child back if certain "complications" developed.

Houseman later took the child to a doctor in Morehead City, who notified the Cherry Point infirmary and the boy was taken to Camp Lejeune Hospital, where he died Saturday afternoon.

Coroner Springle said he requested an autopsy, which report said the child had had several heavy blows on the rump, and death was a direct result of a brain hemorrhage when blood rushed to the spine and head.

Springle said a coroner's inquest is set for tomorrow night at the county courthouse.

Peruvian Rebel Taking Refuge

LIMA (AP)—Gen. Marcial Merino, commander of a jungle division which revolted Feb. 16, was reported in refuge today at the Brazilian consulate in the northeast Pesuvian city of Iquitos.

The newspaper La Nacion said Merino had taken refuge there with his wife and daughter. He announced his capitulation Saturday.

Reports said 39 police troopers loyal to the government had arrived at Iquitos, scene of Merino's attempt.

Constitutional rights, suspended at the outset of the revolt, have not been restored.

Ike May Disclose Plans This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower may announce this week whether he will seek a second term—perhaps in "one syllable" which Adlai E. Stevenson says will signal the course of the Republican party.

"This is the first time," Stevenson told Hartford, Conn., Democrats Saturday night, "that one of the great parties has had to wait until it has a candidate to find out where it stands." Regardless of candidates, Democrats stand where they always have stood, the 1952 nominee added.

Eisenhower returned to Washington Saturday from an 11-day vacation in Georgia, possibly with a yes, a no or even a two-syllable maybe fixed in his mind.

But he gave no hint of his thoughts to newsmen, to politicians, or to an airport spectator at Moultrie, Ga. who yelled, "Stand right up there and tell us you're going to run." Eisenhower laughed, but made no answer.

His announcement is generally expected at a news conference tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, but even that rested on speculation.

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif), a close friend of Vice President Nixon, predicted Eisenhower will give a "yes" answer Thursday. He added, in a speech to North Carolina Young Republicans in Charlotte, that "it will be an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket again in 1956."

In Madison, Wis., Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) made no prediction, saying "I have no crystal ball." But he went ahead with plans for his own candidacy in the event Eisenhower does not seek renomination.

Facing a March 2 deadline in Wisconsin, Knowland said a slate of delegate candidates will be filed under his name if Eisenhower "does not make clear his intentions" by that time. He also let pass without action a Saturday deadline for withdrawing his name from the Minnesota presidential primary.

A race in Montana between Stevenson and Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) shaped up for the Democratic presidential nomination. Kefauver announced Jan. 1 he would enter that state. During the weekend, Hugh I. Lemire of Miles City announced formation of a Montana Stevenson-for-president club, and said petitions would be circulated to put Stevenson's name on the ballot.

Kefauver was in Des Moines, meantime, to start a tour through Iowa, Wisconsin and New Hampshire this week.

In his Hartford speech, Stevenson said the Republican party had no fixed policy, but added:

". . . Any minute now the Republicans will get the signal—in one syllable—that will tell them whether this year's Republican model is to be opportunist or reactionary, liberal or conservative isolationist or internationalist."

Many Endorsing Fluoridation

"Every day I'm getting more and more letters from individuals and organizations endorsing the proposed fluoridation program for Greenville," Health Director Walter C. Humbert reported today.

Dr. Humbert, together with Dr. M B. Massey, representing the N. C. Dental Society, and Dr. F. E. Lansche, dentist member of the Pitt County Board of Health, will present a resolution requesting addition of sodium fluoride to the city's water supply for the prevention of dental cavities to the City Council at that body's next regular session March 15.

The program has most recently been endorsed by the Greenville Kiwanis Club, which met Friday night. The plan has also been approved by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society, the Pitt County Board of Health, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Moose Lodge and the Provisional League of Women Voters.

Endorsement has been received in the form of a petition signed by some 75 of East Carolina College's faculty members and administrators, including Dr. John D. Messick, college president.

Personal letters have been written to Dr. Humbert and to the Daily Reflector by a number of local dentists, pediatricians and other physicians. Two letters, one from a local chiropractor, have been received in opposition to the program.

Tomorrow the Reflector will again present a summary of the cases for and against fluoridation.

Planning Board Meets Tonight

The Planning Board will meet in City Hall tonight at 7:30.

The board is scheduled to consider a plat for a new subdivision on the U. S. 264 bypass.

Developer of the subdivision Vance Harrington submitted the plat at the last Planning Board meeting but it was returned for additional information.

Soviet Shuttle Service In Arctic

This picture, one of a series published in the March issue of Naval Aviation News, is described in the magazine as showing a Russian Hound helicopter transport and a GAZ-69 truck shuttling supplies to the Arctic ice floes on which the Russians have established polar floating ice stations. The magazine would not disclose the source of the pictures which they said show life and operations on the various polar floating ice stations. (AP Wirephoto).

Three Other Members Of Family Badly Burned In Sunday Mishap

Gasoline Explosion Fatal For 2

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Two children are dead and three other members of a Negro family badly burned after a gasoline explosion in their tenant farm home about 10 a.m. yesterday.

Jacqueline Peoples, two, burned to death. Her sister, Alice Faye, 11, died this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital where the victims were taken.

Also hospitalized is another sister Miriam, age 8 who received serious burns about the face, and the father of the children, Melvin Peoples, 35, who was seriously burned on the hands, arms and left side.

The mother, Agnes Peoples, 28, received slight burns on the hands and neck. She was treated at the hospital and released.

The father told investigating members of the sheriff's department that he had been working on his automobile in the yard of his home on the Hilton Carson farm located between Wallace's Store and Leans.

He said he poured the gas out of the bucket in which it was contained and carried the bucket into the kitchen of the house where he planned to clean it.

Peoples said he set the container by a wood stove and it suddenly caught fire. The farmer told officers that fire "went all over the room."

He grabbed the bucket and threw it toward the back door but the container hit the edge of the door and bounced back in the room. Finally the father was able to grab the bucket and carry it through the screened-in back porch and into the back yard.

By that time the kitchen of the frame dwelling was in flames.

Neighbors rushed to the scene and using buckets and other containers managed to extinguish the flames in the room.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson credited the quick work by neighbors with saving the dwelling. However, the kitchen of the home was badly damaged by the flames.

The five injured members of the family were rushed to Greenville for medical aid by William Little, brother of the mother.

Jacqueline, who was burned from head to foot, was dead upon arrival at the local hospital. Other members of the family were treated, with all but Mrs. People remaining at the hospital.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said this morning that no inquest into the children's death will be held. He ruled that death was due to accidental burning.

Investigating officers in addition to the sheriff were Duke Andrews and Jack Russell.

New Election Spending Bill Ready To Be Offered Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new elections bill which would permit individual senatorial candidates and their backers to spend from $100,000 up to a maximum of $1,910,000 in their campaigns may be introduced in the Senate this week.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, told reporters he has "every reason to believe we will have complete and wholehearted cooperation" from members of both parties in support of the new bill.

"We are going to insist that action be taken in this session of Congress on a complete, realistic measure encouraging the fullest public participation and the fullest public review of all elections," Johnson said.

"The unrealistic limitations in present statutes will be changed. I have no doubt that a new, modern elections bill will be passed by Congress which will put all contributions under the scrutinizing eye of public opinion. And it will carry the machinery for its enforcement."

Johnson said he has talked to influential House members and believes they will support a bill similar to that he is working out in cooperation with Sen. Knowland of California, Senate GOP leader.

In its present form the bill would raise the present elections law limitation of $10,000 personal expenditures by a senatorial candidate to 30 cents per vote cast in the last previous election, with a minimum ceiling of $100,000.

In New York state, the maximum on the former basis would be $1,910,000. That would cover all committee expenditures in behalf of the candidate as well as those he personally authorized. In states where the 30-cent-a-vote ratio added up to a smaller amount, $100,000 still could be spent in a campaign for a six-year office which pays $22,500 yearly.

House members who are paid the same amount, would be permitted to spend at least $25,000, or more if figured on the basis of 30 cents a vote, in their general election campaigns. They now are limited to $2,500 in personally authorized outlays.

All expenditures for candidates in excess of $100 would have to be reported to the Senate, House and Federal District Court in the candidate's home area.

The Johnson-Knowland bill would not apply to primaries. State laws limiting expenditures to smaller amounts would have priority over the proposed new federal law.

The bill also would raise the present three-million-dollar limit imposed on the Democratic and Republican national committees to 20 cents per vote for the highest vote cast in any of the preceding three presidential elections.

On the basis of the 1952 vote, this would permit an expendiutre of $12,310,000 for each major presidential candidate. But this would have to include not only the national committees but all citizens groups and other committees which might be set up for a candidate.

Johnson previously disclosed the bill would provide for federal tax exemptions for the first $100 political contribution made by any taxpayer.

It also would permit television and radio networks to give free and equal time to federal office candidates whose party polled at least 4 per cent of the popular vote in the previous election or who could present petitions signed by voters representing 1 per cent of that total.

Angier B. Duke Scholarship Won By GHS Senior

GEORGE T. EATON

George T. Eaton, Greenville High School senior, has been awarded an Angier B. Duke scholarship worth $4,000 to Duke University.

Fifteen high school students from the Carolinas and Virginia were announced today as winners of the university's Angier B. Duke and Regional Prizes for 1956.

The awards are worth four years study at Duke if winners maintain high grades. The 15 were selected from 75 finalists. More than 600 students entered the competition.

Eaton, popularly known as "Pete," is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Eaton, Jr. of 312 East 11th Street. His father is a professor in the science department at East Carolina College.

Greenville High School Principal O. E. Dowd described young Eaton this morning as "a splendid person. He has good work habits; he's a reserved individual, an excellent citizen, and has always shown a splendid attitude toward his work and the school."

The scholarship winner participates in numerous activities in and outside of school. At GHS he is associated editor of 'Green Lights,' the school paper, a commencement marshal, a member of the National Honor Society, and a member of the Traffic Committee, an agency of the Student Council.

He is interested in scouting and is a leader in young people's work at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, presently serving as treasurer of the Young People's Service League.

Pete is interested in journalism and says he will probably pursue that course of study in college.

"We think he is a good all-round student and will make a name for himself at Duke," Dowd commented. "We certainly think he deserves the honor."

Dulles Warns Red Goals Unchanged

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles warned yesterday that Russian aims had not changed under a "new look" foreign policy. He said the United States could defeat those aims under a program of continued and expanded economic aid to needy countries.

In a major speech at the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum, Dulles said this country's basic policy is to try to hasten the day when Russia will be governed by "men who put the welfare of the Russian people above world conquest."

He described the "new look" Russian policy as emphasizing "political cooperation with leftwing Socialists, whom they formerly detested," and putting heavy stress on trade and economic assistance for less developed countries.

Stating that this policy had won for Russia "a considerable popular prestige" in some Asian and African countries, the secretary of state declared confidently "we need not be panicked."

Part of the answer to the new Soviet threat, he said, is for Congress to grant authority asked by the administration to commit about 100 million dollars a year for several years towards long-range economic development projects in Soviet target countries.

He said also that the government needs about 100 millions more in new money this year than it obtained last year to help counter the Russian campaign.

In calling anew for greater leeway in U.S. foreign spending, Dulles asserted that without this long-range authority sought by the Eisenhower administration "we take a risk which is quite unjustified having regard to the small cost of avoiding it."

The effort of the President to win congressional approval for long-range foreign spending commitments has met, generally, with disfavor among top leaders.

President Eisenhower already has asked Congress to boost foreign aid expenditures to nearly $1,900,000,000 this year, which would include monies for long-range projects and the added 100 millions Dulles spoke of yesterday.

Fast Flight

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP) — Two Air Force jet fighter-bombers have completed a non-stop flight from California to Langley AFB in 3 hours 34 minutes—apparently record time.

The two FT4's, averaging better than 670 m.p.h., left Norton AFB at San Bernardino, Calif., at 12:50 p.m. yesterday and landed at 4:34 p.m. after covering the 2,400 miles without refueling.

Air Force officials declined to confirm immediately that the speed of the planes was a new record for transcontinental flight, presumably pending a close check of takeoff and landing times.

The planes were piloted by Lt. Col. Robert R. Scott, 35, and 1st Lt. Richard Hill, 25, at altitudes between 31,500 and 41,500 feet.

Scott set the recognized transcontinental record 11 months ago when he flew an F84F jet from Los Angeles to New York at an average speed of 652 m.p.h. for 2,240 miles.

Bethel Approves New Bond Issue

BETHEL—Voters in the Bethel School District passed a $150,000 school bond issue in a special election Saturday.

Two hundred eleven persons favored the proposal, while 21 voters opposed it.

Only 333 of approximately 600 eligible voters had re-registered to vote in the special election. New registration had been required by the county commissioners.

Returns will be canvassed March 5. Following the necessary 30-day waiting period, resolutions for issuing the bonds will be adopted by the county commissioners. Sale of the bonds will follow.

Funds will be used to improve school buildings in the Bethel School District. A tax will be levied upon all taxable property within that district to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds.

Arctic Siege Of Europe Is Easing

LONDON (AP) — Europe's killing four-week cold wave was breaking up today but violent rainstorms and landslides struck terror in Italy.

For the first time in the month-long arctic siege, government meteorologists confidently predicted an end to the freeze.

It has claimed 919 lives and cost an estimated two billion dollars in crop and property damage.

Slowly rising temperatures were reported nearly everywhere though the mercury still hovered around freezing in many regions.

Flood barriers were hastily strengthened against the approaching thaw. U. S. Army Engineers in West Germany were ordered to blast giant ice jams if floods threatened along the mighty Rhine River.

Violent rainstorms hit central and southern Italy, drenching villages snowbound only a week ago. The Pescara River burst its banks, flooding several towns. At Vasto, on the Adriatic, a creeping landslide still edged down on the city of 18,000 at the rate of 20 inches a day.

Other landslides struck at Ortona, on the Adriatic and blocked rail lines in Puglia between Bari and Taranto. A slide at Ortona swept a locomotive into the sea. The engineer escaped. The fireman was injured.

No deaths were yet reported from the slides or floods.

The cold kept a stubborn grip on Yugoslavia, where more light snow fell during the night. The Yugoslav air force bombed ice jams in the Morava River to free rising waters in that north Serbian stream.

Britain basked in comparatively mild weather for the first time in weeks with temperatures ranging up to 45 degrees. West Germany reported seasonal wintry temperatures over most of the country.

The French Riviera for the first time in weeks looked something like the sunshine vacationland advertised in the winter holiday posters. Nice recorded 47 degrees and the mercury was rising.

Jarring ice packs prowled the northern seas, creating a big hazard to shipping.

Four Danish sailors were missing after venturing on an ice floe during a mercy mission. They were members of a naval team trying to rescue 14 fishermen marooned on another ice floe. The fishermen finally were rescued.

A Belgian fishing boat was crushed in the ice at Nieuport. The crew escaped.

The death toll by countries: France 240, Italy 105, Yugoslavia 9', Turkey 72, Holland 65, Britain 62, Germany 44, Austria 42, Denmark 42, Greece 30, Spain 25, Sweden 21, Belgium 22, Portugal 18, Norway 15, Switzerland 14, Poland 8.

Pay Boost For 200,000 Workers

RALEIGH (AP)—Upwards of 200,000 Tar Heel workers will get a pay boost as a result of the increase from 75 cents to $1 an hour in the minimum wage permitted under the federal wage-hour law.

The number affected amounts to about 30 per cent of the state's factory workers.

State Commissioner of Labor Frank Crane said yesterday that the percentage of workers getting raises as a result of the change in the minimum will be heaviest in eastern North Carolina.

Crane said workers in saw mills, needle trades and fertilizer factories will be among those chiefly affected. About 15 per cent of the workers in the cotton textile industry in the southeastern states will be affected.

Rash Of Weekend Auto Wrecks In County Counts Two Injured

A rash of wrecks here this weekend injured at least two persons and did extensive property damage.

Ottis B. Taylor, 11, of 404 E. Gum Road, received a lacerated jaw when the bike he was riding collided with a car operated by Louis M. Wallace, of Route 4 Saturday. The accident occurred at a parking lot beside Pollard's Store on N. Greene Street. No charges were placed.

Cecil Clark, 29, of 106 S. Jarvis Street, suffered head injuries about 10:30 p.m. Saturday when a pick-up truck he was driving collided with two parked cars. Clark was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment following the accident near E. Fifth Street.

A Cotanche and Second Street accident Saturday afternoon resulted in charges of failing to stop at a stop sign against John David Everette Jr., 33, of Route 2, Robersonville.

Everette's car and one operated by James Edward Cogdell, 30, Negro, of Route 4 collided about five p.m. Damage was estimated at $700.

Charges of operating under the influence of alcohol and failure to stop at a red light were filed last night against Robert Freeman, 30, of Route 5 after his car and one driven by Elton Homer Byrum, 40, of 117 Eastern Street collided at the intersection of W. Fifth and Greene.

Damage was estimated at $800.

Perry Barrett, 59, Negro, of Bonner's Lane was cited for driving without a license and following too close after his car struck one driven by Jessie R. Patrick, 20, Negro, of Route 1, Winterville. The accident, which occurred about 6 p.m. Saturday at W. Fifth and Albemarle, resulted in an estimated $150 damage.

A Chestnut Street wreck shortly after 7 p.m. last night did some $700 damage to cars operated by Evelyn M. Jarvis, of 403 Line Avenue and Charles Worthington, 26, of Route 1, Winterville. Worthington was cited by police for failure to keep a proper lookout.

Demos Hear Symington; Larkins Will Not Run

RALEIGH (AP)—Political developments coupled with the annual Jefferson - Jackson Day dinner made it a busy weekend for Tar Heel Democrats.

Party leaders and workers from over the state heard Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) blast Republican defense policies at the $50-per-plate fund-raising dinner Saturday night.

They also heard State Democratic Chairman John D. Larkins Jr. announce that he will not be a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Larkins, Trenton attorney, said he would "continue my services to the Democratic party in whatever capacity I may best serve" rather than enter the already crowded field for the lieutenant governorship.

Before the dinner, Ben E. Douglas of Charlotte launched a fight to unseat the state's only Republican in Congress, Rep. Charles R. Jonas of the 10th District.

Douglas, former director of the State Department of Conservation and Development, paid his filing fee as a candidate for nomination in the spring Democratic primary.

In Charlotte, Jonas welcomed the news. "It should be an interesting campaign" he commented.

State Rep. Henry H. Wilson of Monroe, president of Tar Heel Young Democrats, announced two YDC rallies for the near future.

Wilson said Gov. James Folsom of Alabama will speak at an Asheville rally on March 17, and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York will address a similar gathering in Salisbury on April 21.

John R. Jordan, chairman of the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, reported that the affair would swell the party's war chest by more than $32,000.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force, told the gathering that the Republican administration is making a "desperate effort" to keep facts about the country's preparedness "away from the people."

The Missouri senator charged that production of B52 long range bombers is lagging and said the U.S. "has no stockpile of intercontinental ballistic missiles whatever—and under present conditions won't have any for years to come."

He said this was true despite the recent statement by "a top spokesman for this administration" which referred to "our growing stockpile" of the weapons.

Symington has been named to head a special subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee which will investigate capabilities of the Air Force. Nort Carolina Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr also will serve on the subcommittee.

Japanese Arrangements Topic Of Greenville Garden Club Meet

On Thursday evening Mrs. J. H. Boyce of Rich Square gave an illustrated talk on Japanese arrangements to members and guests of the Greenville Garden Club.

To the traditional Japanese triangular line arrangements of "heaven, man and earth" she added charming spots of color which produced a harmonious blending of the east and west.

Preceding the talk and demonstration a three course dinner was served.

The tables were decorated with arrangements of red and white flowers accompanied by red, white and blue tapers and colorful figurines completing the George Washington motif.

Mrs. Vance Perkins, president of the club, presided. Mrs. N. C. Brooks gave the invocation.

Committee reports were given by Mrs. K. W. Cobb, horticulture chairman, and Mrs. H. R. Rogers, Sheppard Memorial Library garden chairman. Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, conservation chairman, announced Mrs. Charlotte Hilton Greene would be guest speaker April 6. Mrs. Sam Mitchell was appointed chairman of Green Springs Park committee.

Hostesses for the dinner were Mrs. Henry Andrews, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, Mrs. C. M. Jones, Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, Mrs. W. T. Kyzer, Mrs Frank Diener, Mrs. Leonard Topping and Miss Eunice McGee. They greeted guests and members at the front door of the Woman's Club and invited them into the Sally Southall Cotten parlor where tomato juice and cheese straws were served.

New members who were welcomed into the club were Mrs. Travis Kirkland and Mrs. Alfred Kennedy.

Special guests for the evening were Mrs. Brantley Speight, Mrs. H. G. Haney, Mrs. G. E. Staples, Mrs. Margaret Stancil, Mrs. E. B. Fink and Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell.

New Easter Suits To Provide Variety In Jackets

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

THIS IS A SPRING when anything goes in the line of a suit jacket.

The woman who is hard to please should have no trouble finding a flattering jacket style when she goes shopping for her Easter suit. Because practically every possible jacket silhouette is available.

Though skirts are almost uniformly slim, jackets may be loose and boxy, fitted or semi-fitted. They may be the briefest of boleros, waist-length, hipbone length or they may turn into full-length coats. There are fewer tunic-length jackets this spring than last, but otherwise the variety is infinite.

Suits do many tricks often coming in three pieces such as jacket, skirt, bolero and coordinated blouse. The idea in all cases is to make them do double or triple duty and be at home in any weather.

The suits in the 1956 Easter parade will be distinguished by beautiful and varied fabrics, also with some of the new chiffon-weight wools taking top honors. Tweeds that are light as a feather are favorites of the season, coming in handsome heathery tones that look like the traditional tweeds but are light enough to wear well into warm weather.

There are interesting new petit-point weaves in suit wools, popular in pale beige and pastel tones as well as in the important navy.

The perennial men's wear in banker's gray is handsome and butter-smooth as usual, but comes in whisper-weight, adding no bulk to the figure. You'll be seeing flannel suits this spring in beige, brown and navy, also.

BARREL JACKET . . . Important suit silhouette in feather-weight wool tweed with soft jacket, slim skirt, by Monte-Sano.

DEMI-FITTED . . . Unmistakably new is this toreador suit by George Carmel in lightweight beige petit-point wool, with short demi-fitted jacket and slim skirt. Curving welt detail of jacket ends in bow effect at waist. Wide collar also is new.

FITTED SILHOUETTE . . . This trim suit in banker's gray flannel has nipped jacket with Empire feeling, designed by Blotta.

Miss Louise Fleming, daughter of Mrs. J. L. Fleming, who is teaching in Rock Hill, S. C., underwent an operation for appendicitis today. Mrs. Fleming was advised last night of her illness and left immediately to be at her bedside.

The Baptist Woman's Missionary Union of North Carolina will celebrate its fortieth anniversary in the First Baptist Church, Raleigh, next week. The Memorial Baptist Church will be represented by Mrs. H. Frederick Jones, Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. L. A. Stroud. Alternates, Mrs. W. Z. Morton and Mrs. A. C. Holloman.

Glee Club Plans Concert Friday

Greenville High School's Glee Club will present its annual concert Friday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

The program will feature selections by the boys glee club, the girls glee club and the mixed chorus. The program, directed by Miss Ona Shindler, high school music instructor, will include folk songs, spirituals, patriotic numbers, sacred and secular music.

Tickets are on sale now and may be purchased from any member of the glee club. Price is 25 cents for students 50 cents for adults. They will also be on sale at the door Friday evening.

Proceeds from the concert will be used to purchase music and other essentials for the high school music department.

EFFICIENT POLICE

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)—J. N. Biggs got his 1955 automobile back the day after it was stolen, but he had to shell out $18. Along with the car, police presented him with nine old parking tickets he had neglected to pay.

Mr. Bloxam Gives Credit Lesson For Women's Breakfast Club

Greenville Credit Women's Breakfast Club met Saturday morning at the Olde Towne Inn. Mrs. Henrietta Johnsen, president, recognized and welcomed the following guests: Mr. Leonard P. Bloxam, city manager and superintendent of Greenville Utilities Commission, guest teacher; club sponsors John Barnhill of Hendrix-Barnhill Equipment Company and Robert Greene of Best Jewelry Company; and bosses John Clark of Sinclair Refining Company, Julian White of White Chevrolet Company and Lester Turnage of Turnage Insurance Company.

Mrs. Earline Coghill, educational chairman, introduced Mr. Bloxam whose credit lesson was based on a study of "Serving the Customer and Meeting His Needs." He stated that new business can only come from two sources: customers who have never dealt with your firm before, and selling more goods and services to present customers. This rule should be kept in mind at all times when seeking ways and means to increase sales. The importance of the credit department as the sales-getter and increaser, the directing of sales appeal to customers' needs, the determination of neighborhood buying habits and the making of equitable credit terms were emphasized by Mr. Bloxam. He concluded his lesson by pointing out how members could apply these principles to increase business by cooperating with trade events sponsored by local merchants.

President Johnsen announced that the Executive Board members were dinner guests of Mrs. Coghill and Mrs. Callie Rue Williams last Tuesday night. At this meeting plans were formulated for completion of current Reading Course. All members will meet Friday night, March 2nd, at 7:30 in Miss Emma Hooper's college classroom for their second test. A social hour will follow the lesson.

Mrs. Cassie Sawyer, chairman of Sunshine Committee, reported an additional donation of clothing to welfare agency.

Miss Elizabeth Deal, Mrs. Rubelle Crawford and Mrs. Bett Gray will give a program for new members at the next regular meeting.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs Cora Powell, Miss Elizabeth Deal, Mrs. Rubelle Crawford and Mrs. Catherine Stokes.

Car Thefts Now At 'Fad' Stage

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Stealing automobiles has reached the "fad" stage among Louisville teen-agers.

So said police chief Carl Heustis as he called Louisville "the worst city this size in the nation" for car thefts.

He said car thefts by juveniles more than doubled last year—from 380 the year before to 845.

In the first two months of this another 125 per cent over those months last year.

PTA's Conclude Study Courses

The Wahl-Coates School PTA was host Thursday night to the PTA's of the city in the third and concluding of a series of Study Courses. Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, city PTA Council president, presided.

Mr. James Butler, Alumni Secretary at ECC, gave a most inspiring devotional. Mrs. Gordon Sturm introduced Mrs. Eva Williamson, associate professor at ECC, who gave the program for the evening. The subject of her talk was "The Climate of the Home and School."

Dr. Williamson developed in a very interesting manner the results of a study conducted by Dr. Reed Martin, of a survey of some 3,000 homes. She gave as a basis for this study 12 points which make for a favorable home climate. Then in contrast she brought out four points which make for an unfavorable atmosphere. She compared parents to gardeners, and showed the necessity of providing the right climate to bring out the best in children. The program was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

HOME IMPROVEMENT is quite the thing this year. Encouraged by the tremendous campaign organized by industries to persuade us to modernize or at least remodel our homes, we'll be adding a lot of gadgets and — don't doubt it — a lot of good old ideas from Grandpa's house.

The number of oldtime features about a house that have bounced back into favor is amazing when you start to count them. The old-fashioned parlor is back. The family dining room refused to stay in the grave. The pantry is pretending to be one of the latest discoveries in new house plans. The speaking tube — now called an intercom — and the clothes chute. . .

A friend snorted the other day while reading a development builder's advertisement listing a clothes chute among his headline features. "As if he dreamed it up himself!" our friend exclaimed. We recalled one of the many spankings we had was for dropping lighted matches down a clothes chute in a rich man's house. His kids claimed there were rats down there and if we singed one they'd all run away.

Well, in modern split-level houses, where bedrooms often are directly above a laundry, a clothes chute can be a fine convenience.

THERE'S LOGIC in the resurrection of tried and tested ideas. The other day we were admiring a steel basement door hatchway at a building supply yard. It's a nifty unit for covering outside stairs to a basement. The overlapping, weathertight trap doors over the stairs are pitched to shed rain. We used to carry split logs and coal down stairs like that as a boy. But our covering doors were made of wood, rotted away and were eliminated when fuel oil came in.

It took years for people to realize how much valuable space they were wasting in basements for the want of an outside entrance. Now they're making hatchways out of steel for permanence.

THE BIG KITCHEN, where Grandma could supervise her brood while she baked pies and made doughnuts, has staged a real comeback. The stove and sink aren't separated by half a block, but there's plenty of space for the family and the dog and cat to eat congenially. In fact this family room idea has grown to the point where the historic sitting room is with us again. Some new houses even have a fireplace in the kitchen or the family room.

This has restored the parlor. We still call this formal room a living room, but it's getting smaller and less important. In many new homes it includes no fireplace and isn't much bigger than the parlor that was closed off for funerals and the minister's calls. And the family room is getting bigger and more comfortable.

FOR YEARS architects said the dining room was the most expensive room in a house — it was used so seldom. Dinettes, dining alcoves, dining space in the living room became the style. When families wanted a little more table space, a dining el was contrived off the living room. As soon as somebody thought up the room divider, the dining room was back again.

Then the carport made its bow and it needed an outer wall, so a storage wall was designed giving us the good old tool shed that always adjoined old-fashioned homes.

As for speaking tubes, the kind you blew in to sound a whistle, then opened to holler through a pipe — well, talking doorbells and intercoms work better, all right, but the basic idea is there. Of course intercoms can be wired for hi-fi music throughout the house, but wasn't it someone in Grandpa's day who said silence is golden?

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The tenth session of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women will be held in Geneva, Switzerland, during the month of March. The non-governmental women's organizations not only follow the work of the Commission with particular interest, but also actively cooperate with it in various ways. As one of these organizations, the World YWCA is convening in relation to the meetings of the Commission—as it did in 1952 when the Commission previously met in Geneva—a seminar which will be held from March 12 to 17. The seminar will be focussed on the problem of the employed woman, and is open to Christian women whether members of the YWCA or not. The time will be divided between the Palais des Nations, for briefings by U.N. experts and attendance at meetings of the Commission and World YWCA Headquarters for discussions on common concerns. The agenda includes discussions on certain aspects of the spiritual value of work.

Three women's church groups in the United States have made the first three gifts toward the $750,000 headquarters building fund of the World Council of Churches to be erected in Geneva, Switzerland. The first gift, pledged by the Women's Auxiliary of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church, was $10,000 as a memorial to Elizabeth Sibley (Mrs. Edwin Allen) Stebbins of Rochester, New York. Mrs. Stebbins, a life-long champion of the ecumenical movement, had attended many of the great world church assemblies, and had been very active in promoting interchurch cooperation in the local community of Rochester. Some time later, the United Lutheran Church Women took an offering for the building fund and turned over $1,000 to the United Lutheran Church Executive Board. To this the Board will add sufficient funds to make up the church's accepted quota of $13,700. And now the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Church has authorized a gift of $25,000 in honor of their president, Mrs. Frank G. Brooks of Mt. Vernon, Iowa. Mrs. Brooks has presided over the activities of the 1,800,000 women who make up the Division for eight years. This last gift was earmarked for use in the building of the library and designated as the "Laura Jean Brooks Library Fund."

Ex-Truant Officer Ready To Sell Bike

LA JUNTA, Colo. (AP)—C.C Baity, 91-year-old retired truant officer, offered to sell a bicycle cheap after he tumbled from it and broke a hip. Cycling has been a recreation only the past few years for Baity.

Before that he rode the bicycle in hunting truant boys and girls. He wore out one bicycle on his job and was given a new one on his 77th birthday by La Junta teachers

Sets Up Memorial Collection

Dr. Joseph Smith of Greenville (right) and East Carolina College Librarian Wendell W. Smiley examine a volume of new medical ensyclopedia which Dr. Smith has just presented to the college library as part of The Ivy and Nannie Flanagan Smith and Children Memorial Collection, given by Dr. Smith to the Joyner Library at the college.

Dr. Joseph Smith, Greenville physician, has set up a memorial collection of books at the Joyner Library at East Carolina College and, according to plans, will increase the number of volumes from time to time in the future, College Librarian Wendell W. Smiley has announced.

The collection has been named in honor of Dr. Smith's father and mother and members of his family and will be known as The Ivy and Nannie Flanagan Smith and Children Memorial Collection. Emphasis is placed upon books on medicine and related subjects and upon works dealing with personal and family living.

Books already placed in the Joyner Library include approximately 300 volumes from Dr. Smith's personal library. Purchased recently by Dr Smith as an addition to the collection is the fourteen-volume "Cyclopedia of Medicine, Surgery, Specialties," edited by George Morris Piersol and published in 1954.

New Salary Scale At Davidson College Is Put Into Effect

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Davidson College trustees have put into effect a new salary scale for the school which calls for top wages of $8,000 a year. Heretofore the highest paid Davidson professor made $6,500 a year.

President John R. Cunningham also announced that a merit system for pay raises has been put into effect. Previously, automatic increases had been provided.

The new scale: Full professors, $5,500 to $8,000; associate professors, $4,500 to $6,500; assistant professors, $3,500 to $5,500; instructors, $3,000 to $4,500.

"It is high time," Dr. Cunningham said, "in light of the increasing cost of living that the teacher be better recognized in regard to his financial compensation. Indeed, the prestige of the profession is suffering in the minds of its members and in the view of the public at large.

"At a time when a vast increase in the number of men and women is needed in the teaching profession, one of the considerations which will affect the supply will be a more adequate compensation."

Property Owners Are Balked By One Vote

McFADDEN, Wyo. (AP) — Under Wyoming law a bond issue must be approved by both property owners and non-property owners.

McFadden property owners — those who would have to pay the increased taxes — voted 35-20 in favor of a $100,000 bond issue for a new school building.

But the issue was defeated as non-property owners, who wouldn't be affected by a tax increase, cast a tie vote, 26-26.

Adds Emphasis To Plant's Rural Setting

NOWATA, Okla. (AP)—The New York businessman who called the manager of a paint plant by long-distance telephone was given a quick geography lesson.

He asked Ken Keating where the plant was located. "It's out in the country near Nowata, Okla.," replied Keating. "And brother, if you don't think it's out in the country you should be here now. There's a cow looking in the window at me."

They are shown in Hollywood. The princess-to-be has been having fittings for her bridal gown, but she and designer Helen Rose are keeping the details a secret. She'll also spend a couple of weeks shopping in New York before sailing with her family for Monaco April 4. (AP Wirephoto).

Colorful Ciro's Slated To Shutter Its Doors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Owner Herman Hover said today he plans to close down his world-famed Ciro's night club about May 26.

His threat to end the long and colorful history of the Sunset Strip showplace stems, he said, from "corrupt practices" in the entertainment industry. But he declined to elaborate.

"We haven't had a strike," he remarked. "We haven't had labor troubles. We've had more big names than any other night club in the world, and we've had some wonderful parties. But certain practices have made it very difficult to continue in business. I'm not going to fight it any longer.

"But Ciro's is going out in a blaze of glory. Our last acts will be Pearl Bailey, Maurice Chevalier and Martin and Lewis. I expect to close the place down around May 26 or perhaps a little later."

He admitted that he is "leaving the door a little open," but doubts if the situation will alter enough to change his mind about shuttering.

"I don't plan to sell Ciro's," he said. "I have worked too hard for it in 14 years, and I wouldn't want to see it made into something second-rate. I don't contemplate keeping it open as a restaurant only, but I will use it for parties."

Hover said he planned to go into the production and direction of television films.

If he carries out his threat to shut down, it will mark the end of a landmark in Hollywood. The plush nitery has added color, scandal and amusement to the movietown scene.

Many a hot romance has blossomed or faded within its gilded walls. It can boast of as many notable fistic encounters as most arenas in the United States.

Life Quickens On NC Political Front

Almost overnight North Carolina's political scene has changed from one of relative inactivity to one which promises at least a couple of sparkling campaigns to attract interest of voters.

As predicted for months, the race for lieutenant governor has now shaped into the primary contest for state office. For several weeks competition for the office appeared as a rather dull race between Alonzo Edwards of Hookerton and Kidd Brewer of Raleigh.

Now three more prominent political figures have entered the race.

In rapid succession Gurney P. Hood of Raleigh, former state banking Commissioner, Luther Barnhadt of Concord, president of the Senate during the 1955 session of the General Assembly, and R. L. Harris of Roxboro, lieutenant governor from 1941 to 1945, all tossed their weather-beaten hats into the political ring.

With five candidates in the race, it is almost certain that the campaign will go into a second primary. Before three of the five are eliminated from competition, Tar Heels may be assured they will be seeing and hearing a great deal from the candidates for lieutenant governor. Being from the most western point of any of the five candidates, and at the same time from the heart of the populous Piedmont region, Barnhardt, geographically speaking, may have an edge at the present moment. To some extent at least, Edwards, Hood and Brewer will be handicapped by a split of the eastern vote between the eastern candidates.

Whether or not other candidates enter this already crowded political field, Tar Heels may be assured of a vigorous campaign for the state's number two office.

While it will not affect the May Democratic primary, the announcement of Ben E. Douglas of Charlotte as a candidate for Congress from the 10th district give North Carolinians something closer home than the presidential race to watch in November.

Douglas is challanging Rep. Charles Jonas, the state's only Republican congressman, in what can hardly help being a fiery and close contest. Douglas, a former mayor of Charlotte and more recently head of the Department of Conservation and Development, is by all standards a formidable political candidate. Rep. Jonas, despite the handicap his party afiliation gives him in North Carolina, has proved a popular congressman among the people of his 10th district.

Even without a gubernatorial or senatorial race this year, politics in North Carolina promises no dearth of fireworks for the spectators.

'Leadership' Running Counter To The Goal

Summoning a one-hour work stoppage and period of inactivity by a self annointed Negro leader can be classified as one of the inanities of our times. In essence, it is a proposed action which is at variance with the avowed purposes of Negro efforts: namely to bring about a more homogenous social structure in the South.

Such a state cannot be accomplished by force, nor by deliberately alligning (mobilizing, is a better word) race against race. That sort of thing opens the door to agitators and a play upon emotionalism which will inspire prolonged bitterness. Rather than "solving" anything, far worse prospects are raised.

Those who would pit American against American . . . rabblerousers who for demagogic purposes tap the wells of discord and let loose floods they themselves cannot control . . . are the enemies of all Americans.

Why this talk of summoning a "demonstration"?

Well, it was set off by the to-be-expected enforcement of a law against organized boycotting; a law enacted years ago to cope with issues raised in a labor dispute. Its authors were no doubt as surprised as anyone that the law would ever become involved in a quarrel over whosits-where in a bus.

As to this last absurd "issue", it takes a real spellbinder to raise a bus seat to a par with sinking of the Maine as a battlecry; but if there's one thing we have plenty of, it's spellbinders. Promoting conflict is their meat and drink.

And lest we be misunderstood, let it be plainly stated here and now that both races in the Southland have their share of hate-spewers, aided and abetted by sideliners in the North who have little or no comprehension of the stakes involved.

The big thing today is to be able to recognize those false "leaders" and treat them with the disdain they deserve.

That Freshness... Man, It's Getting Like Spring

Buds are budding, fresh green grass is brightening the drab brown of countless lawns, daffodils are in bloom. Despite an occassionally chilly night there are signs of spring.

More days now are clear-skied, and the freshening breezes carry aloft an infrequent kite. There are many birds, among them North Carolina's cardinals, raiding the scattered grass seed and scavenging for food in promising spots.

And have you noticed the sun is rising earlier and sinking into the West a little bit later than was its wont in winter?

This has been a cold winter for many, and we wouldn't want to raise false hopes of an early spring, because obviously there are some chilly days and nights still in store.

But you must admit, all the signs are very, very promising.

Road Building Cost Keeps Going Higher

By LYNN NISBET

GOING UP — Cost of building roads is going up. One considerable item is the impact of the increased minimum wage law on the price of materials, especially steel and other bridge stuff. The current policy is to build good bridges and lots of them. This is in direct contrast with policy under the Scott secondary road program when the goal was as many miles of blacktop as possible with less attention to bridges.

Rights of way every year take a larger cut out of total road building money. The highway commission at its monthly meeting this week informally discussed several legislative proposals for easing the right of way problem.

One suggestion is to give the Highway and Public Works Commission authority to establish building line zones along highways, comparable to the zoning powers now conferred upon municipal governing bodies.

Another is provision for advance acquisition of rights of way, virtually certain to be needed within a few years, before expensive buildings have been constructed on the property.

The zoning plan would not require any money. Advance acquisition will require substantial investment months or years ahead of time of actual need for the property.

Actual instances were cited by Commissioners Maynard Hicks and Henry Buchanan of development along existing highways within the past few months which more than doubled cost of the rights of way for widening the road. Brooks Peters, general counsel, was instructed to investigate legal phases of both plans, and Chairman A.H. Graham said he planned to discuss the problem with the legislative commission charged with studying and recommending improvements in highway commission practices.

PRIVATE CAPITAL — This would seem to be a good place for a quasi-public private-capital corporation to move into the picture. Federal aid funds cannot be charged with any part of the cost of right of way obtained before the particular project is approved and programmed. So if the State acquired the land before approval it would have to pay the full price out of State money.

An outfit somewhat like the Business Development Corporation might be formed to buy land recommended as soon to be needed for right of way by the highway commission, and hold it until such time as needed, with a guarantee of reasonable interest —5 per cent to 7 per cent—a year. This would protect the highway folks against excessive enhancement in values, would assure availability the land with benefit of Federal aid, and would guarantee the investors a fair return. In rare instance the highway folks might get stuck by declining land values. If the plan had been in effect for the past five years it would have saved the State hundreds of thousands of dollars—and a number of lawsuits.

OUT-GUESSED — Members of the highway commission outguessed the Governor again. For a long time it has happened that on the mornings the commission was to meet in Raleigh the Governor had a tight schedule of appointments. Commissioners just dropping in could not get a chance to speak to him, and most of them called—and signed the guest register. This time the Governor kept his morning open, made no previous dates to see anybody else and was ready for the highwaymen. You guessed it. Only one commissioner showed up, Harry Buchanan from way out west, and he got there just ten minutes before his own meeting was scheduled. But the morning wasn't wasted. The Governor got a chance at some much needed desk work.

30-DAY CLUB — Prison Director W.F. Bailey is powerful anxious to get rid of his "30-Day Club." If he can't get rid of it he would like very much to have it set up under different type of management.

Almost one-third of the 10,800-odd people now in State prison camps are serving short terms—30 to 90 days. They must be housed, fed and guarded, and transported to and from the prison camps. And they are not in custody long enough to be fitted into any decent rehabilitation or work program. There are a lot of repeaters among them, but when a 30-day "graduate" comes back for a post-graduate course, the same process of classification must be followed. By the time the process is completed the prisoner is due to leave again.

Most of these very short-termers are "good" prisoners, in the sense that they cause no trouble while in camp. All of them are "bad" in the sense that the time and money required to handle them is all out of proportion to any value received by the prisoners from a rehabilitation training program or by the State in productive labor.

The improved classification policy of the prison system attempts to ease the problems by assignment of short termers to camps where they can best be fitted in. With total facilities adequate to properly care for some 8,500 prisoners and a current population of almost 11,000 an all-time high—assignment of necessity is on basis of space rather than rehabilitation or utility.

The highway commission, the prison advisory council, the highway chairman and the prison director are looking for a solution. Mostly it gets back to money, which puts the problem first up to the Legislature and then to the taxpayers.

Public Forum

Dear Editor:

In recent weeks, the Daily Reflector has carried a series of articles on Fluoridation for our city water supply. These articles have contained information to the effect that sodium fluoride will prevent dental decay and they have also stated that some argument against fluoridation has been that it has harmful effect of human beings. They go on to say that no evidence of such effect has been found according to research (whose research) reports, and no one has been able to show that in areas where water is fluoridated there is an increase in kidney disease, heart ailment, cancer growth or in fractures because of supposed brittleness of bones.

Regarding the possible harmful effects, the following information should be given careful consideration by each and every citizen of Greenville. (These are not my opinions, but the statements of medical and dental authorities on the subject of fluoridation.)

1. A thorough study was made on this subject by the House Select Committee of Congress to investigate the use of chemicals in foods, and after careful consideration of the evidence their conclusion was: "If a community is to err in the adoption of the fluoridation program it is better to err on the side of caution."

A.L. Miller, M.D., a member of the committee, says: "I am convinced that many of the groups who now endorse fluorides in water are merely parroting each other's opinions. They have done no original research work themselves".

2. Speaking in the House of Representatives on March 24, 1952, Dr. Miller said: "A check of the vital statistics of Grand Rapids, Michigan shows that the death rate from heart disease in the year 1944 numbered 585. Four years later, after fluoridation had started, there were 1,059 deaths. There was an increase of 50 percent in the deaths from nephritis. There was an increase of 50 percent, over a period of four years, in the deaths from intracranial lesions. These are official figures contained in the Vital Statistics of the United States".

2. Dr. Alfred Taylor, Research scientist, Biochemical Institute of the University of Texas says: "The fluoridation of public water supplies by the addition of 1 cm enhances the growth of cancer. The data we have indicates that a shortening of the life span is a result. So far as we are concerned, it would mean possibly 3 to 5 years in a human life. At the present time other investigations of the bio-chemical effects of sodium fluoridated drinking water are in progress in our laboratory. It is worth noting that drinking fluoridated water-one part per million fluorine—is associated with adverse physiological reactions".

(Note—On Friday night Feb. 24, 1956, I called and talked with Dr. Miller who conducted above hearings about this information and he said, "these statements still hold true and that Dr. Taylor is a very reliable scientist." He also said, "if you could get the mothers in Greenville to keep the sweets and sugars away from their children, they would do more to prevent tooth decay than anything else."

3. The A.D.A. Journal, February 1952, under the caption "Relation of Endemic Dental Fluorosis to Malnutrition", by Maury Massler, D.D.S., M.S., and Isaac Schour, D.D.S., Ph. D., states: "Malnurished infants and children, especially if deficient in calcium intake, may suffer from the effects of water containing fluorine. Nutritional studies should be included in any comprehensive program of fluoridation of water with special attention to chronically ailing infants and children".

4. Dr. George W. Heard, dentist of Hereford, Texas, who instigated the investigation of good teeth in Deaf Smith County, Texas, has this to say: "Fluoridating drinking water is vicious. Fluorine in water is a deadly poison, inorganic, and cannot be assimilated by the body and poisons the entire organism".

5. Royal Lee, D.D.S., president of Lee Foundation for Nutritional Research, a nationally known authority on nutrition, states: "Fluorine is a poison. Its value as a preventative of dental caries has no relation to the basic causes of dental caries".

More Super Supermarkets

By ELMER ROESSNER

Supermarkets are becoming more super. Each new one brings innovations—more automatic devices, more amazing devices more splendor. Shopping is a many splen—hold it!

Let's take a romp through the newest one—one opened a few days ago (by Kings' Super Markets) in East Orange, N.J. The building occupies 15,000 square feet and it cost $500,000 before it sold its first pound of hamburger. It employs 100 persons.

The store is about as completely self-service as a store could be. All meats and vegetables are prepackaged. However, if a housewife doesn't see what she wants in the block-long meat display, she can pick up a telephone at the edge of the counter and talk to one of the six butchers in the glass-enclosed cutting room.

YOU CAN'T GET LOST

In the front and back of the store are automatic directories. To locate any article, a shopper pushes a button opposite the name of the item—it's a sort of juke-box selector gadget—and a pleasant voice directs the shopper to the right spot on the right aisle.

In each section, wrought-iron lanterns illuminate the name of the kind of goods displayed there and, for those who can't read, the products hang from the lanterns.

The lanterns also hold speakers for the piped-in music that plays constantly; there's also music in the covered area where shoppers may board their bus.

CHECK-OUT MAGIC

The check-out counters are as nearly automatic as the designers could make them. There are 15 counters and an electric eye controls a conveyor that carries the food past the checker. The cash registers show the amount of change due as well as the total charges.

All sorts of supplemental services are offered shoppers. There is a free phone for calling the nearest taxi office, and a spot where patrons may pay gas and electric bills. Checks are cashed with a minimum of fuss; a camera records the transactions so there's little danger from forgers.

Conveyor belts carry packaged foods from basement storage to display areas; produce comes from a packaging center by elevator. The color scheme is pink and blue, illuminated by recess lights.

All this is very wonderful. But next week some even more super supermarket will open some place in the United States and all this will be obsolete.

SALESMEN TO LEARN HOW AGA KHAN FEELS

Fat sales managers have chances for best prizes in a sales contest launched this week by a vacuum cleaner manufacturer. The top man in each of three divisions will receive $1,000 in silver prizes and his own weight in other prizes.

CAN INDUSTRY SEEKS TIN CAN REPLACEMENT

The can industry is working on containers that will replace the tin can as we know it today. William C. Stolk, president of American Can, said a possible shortage of tin was only one of several factors threatening to make the tin can obsolete. The industry is studying methods of welding cans and using plastic cements and synthetic resins. Mr. Stolk indicated that if the can industry did not find the container that obsoletes the tin can, someone else would.

Brighter Side To Being 45

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—I used to worry that when I became 45 years old teen-agers would stop me in the street with the request:

"Old man, say something wise."

I needn't have worried. When you're 45, the average teen-ager doesn't seek you out for your wisdom perhaps because he figures anything you know is already out of date. On the otehr hand, he doesn't bother to laugh at you either. The truth is he doesn't know whether you're alive.

However, somewhat to my surprise, I felt very much alive the other morning when I awoke to find I had reached my 45th milestone.

Unlike on my 40th birthday, a time of true horror, I felt no urge to draw up a new will, or lie cowering in bed, afraid that if I got up I might fall apart by nightfall.

As I shaved myself before the bathroom mirror on my 40th birthday, my hand shook to see the ravages time had wrought. But on my 45th birthday I performed this chore humming, cheered by the fact so much of the old ruin still remained.

Though much had been taken, much abided—particularly around the stomach—though I might not be able to throw a football 50 yards, I sure threw an important-looking silhouette.

There was one big disappointment in the day, however. In earlier years I started the custom of kissing all the girls in the office on my birthday.

On my 45th birthday I got only one kiss. Only one girl showed up — a new girl. All the old girls stayed home from work. I guess there must have been a virus going around, or something.

At 40 a dark tunnel of terror descends on many men. They see the brightness of youth departing and before them only the black nightmare of age.

But by 45 a man can see light at the other end of the tunnel. He makes his compromise with time. He no longer is panic-stricken at the thoughht of being middle-aged. He no longer is wistfully envious of the young. He finds life holds a new freshness in his Indian summer prime.

It is a good thing for a man at five-year intervals to discard the things he no longer needs or has outgrown. At the age of 5 I quit tiddlywinks, at 10 skipping rope, at 15 marbles. At 20 I made a great resolve and gave up women forever, but recanted — the next day.

At 25 I gave up high diving, at 30 baseball. At 35 I started giving up (reluctantly) my hair.

At 40 I damn near gave up hope, but now I do believe I have it back again. There are a lot of things at 45 I perhaps ought to give up, but I finally decided it would be table tennis. Whoever really learned anything lastingly important while batting a ping pong ball around? Gin rummy is far more educating, and is played in a more civilized posture.

At 45 a man finds new consolations. He goes through a change of faith. He loses his confidence in hair restorers but this is replaced by a belief that if he wears a hat at least he won't catch cold in winter.

The old friends he has remain-

Wall Street Bets Eisenhower Will Run

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Although Wall Street agents have been making feverish efforts around Washington to learn whether President Eisenhower will run again, the prevailing belief among bankers and brokers here and in New York is that his answer will be in the affirmative. Their attitude explains and underlies the recent behavior of the stock market.

Their deep concern is understandable, as well as the many inquiries they have been quietly making in high political circles and around the Treasury. Secretary George M. Humphrey, Ike's Georgia host, is regarded as one of the President's principal advisers and confidantes on this all-important subject.

Although "The Street" is divided on the effect of any second-term decision, it is expected that stocks prices will go up a bit in event of a nod from Ike. Nonprofessionals will probably rush to buy, as they hastened to sell after his September 24 heart attack. But if he declines to stand for a second try, it is believed that they will fall slightly and temporarily.

To dealers in large blocks of public and private securities, a small rise or dip, even one or two points, can mean winning or losing many thousands of dollars. Speculative interests, as against more conservative trading groups, have a great deal to lose or gain.

CURIOUS BUT LOGICAL Strange as it may seem, Ike's political friends hope that there will be no spectacular advance as a reaction to his decision to stay in politics. Their reasons are curious but logical.

An spurt responsible to his "I will run" would be a political boon. It would reflect general confidence in him and his policies a desire for more of the same philosophy at Washington, and it could probably be translated into Republican votes next November. It would under-write the GOP's slogan of "Peace and Prosperity."

OPINION OF FINANCIAL EXPERTS But many Administration experts regard the market level as too high and too topheavy at the present moment. The three-year advance, in their opinion, has been too sustained and too unbroken in the face of heavy Government expenditures, assured maintenance of high taxes and uneasy world conditions, especially Britain's fiscal plight.

Should Ike's "Yes" send it soaring to new peaks, there would probably be a sharper reaction during 1956 than if it remains at present levels. Such a decline would be regarded as unfortunate from both the political and economic standpoint, especially if it happened in the midst of the Presidential campaign.

On the other hand, if prices fall because of a negative decision it could harm the GOP. It would be interpreted as a loss of confidence in any other nominee. And since Vice President Richard M. Nixon holds the rail position with Ike off the track, it would be construed as special reflection on him.

PRICES HOPPED UP AND DOWN The market's conduct since Ike's illness and during his convalescence suggests that it will not be rocked violently or permanently, regardless of his determination.

Under hysterical and nonprofessional selling, prices fell after the news of his heart attack. But they advanced to new highs within six weeks although the impression grew that he would quit active politics. For the last six weeks, they have been hopping up and down with no definite trend.

A slight advance and heavier trading followed upon his physicians' favorable report. It lasted for only a few days, however. Then the market rebounded with the statement by Edgar Eisenhower that he thought his brother would seek a second term in order to "finish the job."

NOTHING SPECTACULAR ANTICIPATED Wall Street, it appears, has discounted all Presidential possibilities and nominations, and there is an old saying that "The street never discounts anything twice." In short, the bulls and bears think Ike will run again, are glad of the fact, but anticipate no spectacular stock market movement.

Where To Locate A New Home

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — During these cold winter months, I get many letters asking where to locate to get an easy living. Frankly, I do not know of any such locations.

EVERY STATE HAS ADVANTAGE

Every one of our 48 states and 3 territories has its advantages and disadvantages. The South is very attractive during the winter season; but its summers do not encourage ambition and progress. The Pacific Coast has a wonderful climate; but is becoming overpopulated by job seekers. New England leads in educational facilities; but it is handicapped by high-cost power and by its distance from both raw materials and markets.

The Central West appears to be the surest place to make a living; but it holds few speculative opportunities — not so many as does the Southwest, such as Texas. Two hardy young people with self-control could probably save money easiest in Alaska; while Washington, D.C. would be the most difficult place to lay up savings. Unfortunately the saying "Easy come-easy go" applies to every part of our great country.

WHAT ABOUT BIG CITIES?

I advise young people not to settle in our biggest cities. This advice applies especially to large seaboard cities such as Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Los Angeles, and even San Francisco. Because of the automobile and the trek to the suburbs, these cities are going through changes which are difficult to forecast. Frankly, I believe young people make a mistake in settling therein.

The above advice is wholly apart from the possibility of the big cities being bombed in case of World War III. Although such a war is not now in sight, the best authorities seem to agree it is inevitable sometime. It, therefore, might be unwise now to buy property in one of these big seaboard cities or even in the immediate suburbs. In fact as this belief becomes more general, just the fear of war could depress the prices of such property, even though this fear might also force higher wages. But, what would higher wages amount to if you should be bombed?

WHERE TO INVEST YOUR MONEY

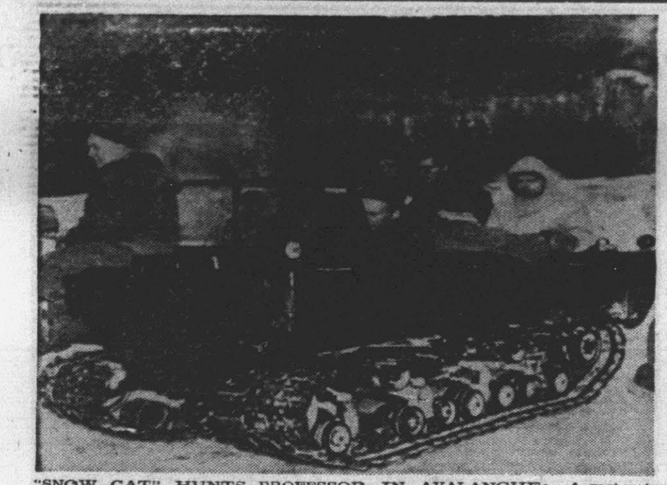
Invest your money in other cities than those mentioned above. In short, I would not invest in the electric or gas companies of any of these big seacoast cities. It may be possible to protect certain of our interior big cities from bombs dropped by airplanes. The billions which we are spending on radar should be very helpful in this respect. No radar, however, has been invented that will detect an enemy submarine suddenly rising to the surface on a dark night 200 miles from New York City and preventing it from throwing an atomic missile into the heart of New York City.

Very few companies are now building new factories in these large cities; instead, many of them are building new factories in interior cities. The most desired locations are in centers with a population of less than 75,000, and even in cities and towns of 10,000 or less. All the above makes me bullish on the small cities and towns of our country. They will get new industries and larger populations, and will enjoy lower living costs. They have all the advantages of the big city, with none of the disadvantages.

STUDY ANNUAL REPORTS

Every company with securities listed on any stock exchange sends an attractive report each year to every stockholder—even the owner of only one share. This report shows where the company's plants or factories are located. If all or most of them are in any large city, this is rather risky, from the standpoint of war risk or labor costs, or from other points of view. I don't like to have "all my eggs in one basket."

In addition to reading the president's report, note the balance sheet and compare it with that of previous years. This means you should keep old reports as long as you hold the stock. Only in this way can you learn whether the company is reducing its debt or increasing it. I especially refer to bank loans and short-term note issues held by by institutions. Long-term bond issues do not bother me, as the owners are scattered all over the country.



"SNOW CAT" HUNTS PROFESSOR IN AVALANCHE:—A motor tractor known as a "snow cat" starts up rugged Mount Washington in New Hampshire to search for Aaron Leve (right), 28, a Northeastern University professor who was trapped in a snow avalanche Sunday. He and four companions on a Sunday afternoon stroll were caught by the snow slide which roared down from a ravine. Leve disappeared in the tumbling mass. The others escaped with minor injuries. Two of the survivors, Charles Fay (center) and Frank Truesdale (extreme right), are in the "snow cat." (AP Wirephotos).

Old African Hand Is Planning TV Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—If all goes well, ABC should have a good weekly half-hour film program ready for the TV screen by next fall.

This is admittedly long - range optimistic forecasting since the idea still is only a gleam in the eyes of an explorer and a top-ranking ABC executive. The explorer is that old Africa hand, Cmdr. Attilio Gatti. The idea is, of course, Africa.

"Hollywood has not done justice to Africa," says Gatti, veteran of a score of expeditions to all sections of the Continent. "They fix up the animals. They always want to get a white girl in the act."

Gatti, who has been making carefully documented movies of Africa many years, hopes to bring some of the true magic and mystery of African life into American homes with a series of films flown back from location in many remote places. He leaves next month for Kenya where he and his expedition of 10 technicians will put together a pilot film on the Mau Mau country, the desolate northern desert, and the teeming game preserves near Lake Victoria.

Then the Italian-born explorer, who now lives near Newport, Vt., will fly back to New York seeking ABC approval of the pilot film. Whether or not the pilot is approved, Gatti is flying back to what he calls "my natural home," Africa. But to everyone fascinated by the continent it will be a big disappointment if the series fails to jell.

If ABC approves, the expedition will be only at the beginning of a long and arduous trek of thousands of miles. It will move down past the Mountains of the Moon to Ruanda Urundi, then up through the Ituri Forest and into the Stanleyville region of the Belgian Congo. Next it will cross over into French Equatorial Africa and the Cameroons, and then swing toward South Africa. Films will be shipped back by air regularly.

Instruction Kits On Fallout Issued

RALEIGH, — Local Civil Defense Directors in North Carolina now have training kits to instruct the public about radioactive fallout, what it is, and how individuals may protect themselves from its ill—effects State Civil Defense Chief Edward F. Griffin disclosed today.

All necessary tools for conducting a simple non-technical, two-hour course of instruction, combined, in one kit, have been sent by the state office to city and county Civil Defense officials.

The material consists of an Instructor's Guide, a film strip, a public booklet "What You Should Know About Radioactive Fallout," and a leaflet "Facts About Fallout." Publicity aids, such as posters, press releases and radio material are included. Leaflets and pamphlets on fallout have been available to local directors for several months, Griffin said.

Further information on the process of distribution to local communities is provided by revised copies of a technical bulletin, "Shelter From Radioactive Fallout." It gives detailed diagrams and instruction about two types of shelter, permanent and emergency, which may be used in providing shelter either for [illegible] families or [illegible] members of people, [illegible] residues from target areas.

"Fallout is an insidious by-product of nuclear explosions," General Griffin stated. "And it constitutes a serious threat — despite the fact that protection from it is simple. No matter how great an effort the federal government and the state may make to give the facts to the general public, unless cooperation is forthcoming from governing authorities in every community, too many people will be uninformed about danger materializes. Those who do not know what fallout is and how to protect themselves from it are the ones that will be hurt."

Korean Republic Still Needs Cash

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Two billion dollars in U.S. taxpayers' money has been spent in military and economic aid to South Korea the past three years. Today it is apparent millions and millions more will be needed if the Republic of Korea is to survivie.

There seems no solution to the little country's problems —especially the economic ones—unless the war-ravaged peninsula of Korea can be unified again. South Koreans are willing to seek that unification by force. The U.S. position is that it cannot agree to a military solution, even though the industrial north may be rapidly becoming a full-fledged vassal of Communist China.

As long as the peninsula remains divided, there are the factors of South Korea's plight:

Its army of 651,000 plus a small air force and navy, is too expensive for its economy.

It is largely agricultural, lacks natural resources and must import to live. It has little to export.

A strong element, led by President Syngman Rhee, blocks cooperation with neighboring Japan.

Its proud lealers reject U.S. economic advice.

South Korean industry clearly lacks a permanent, stable foundation. What will happen to it when foreign aid stops? No one likes to contemplate that. The only answer seems to be: Continuing aid for years.

Business Letter Has High Cost

LOS ANGELES (AP)—What does it cost a business firm to write a letter?

A survey of 200 Los Angeles businessmen indicates the figure is between $1 and $1.25.

This includes dictation, stenographic time, overhead, mailing, stationery, filing and related charges.

The survey was made by Dr. Erwin Keithley of the business education faculty at UCLA, who says few businessmen are aware of the high cost of correspondence.

Gets The Urge To Rob Churches

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man arrested at a church on suspicion of burglary was quoted by police:

"Every time I pass a church, I get the urge. I always break into churches. It's my livelihood. I never rob anything other than churches."

Police said Wesley S. Pond, 38, served a year and a half in San Quentin Prison in 1951-52 for church burglaries and another six months in the county jail last year for the same offense. Since his release Dec. 20, detectives quoted him, he has burglarized 10 more churches.

Salesman Filled Seats Of Church

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Although few of the invited celebrities came, salesman Kenneth Ritchel kept his promise to fill the First Methodist Church for the Sunday evening services.

Ritchel took it on himself to get more people to attend the services. Going on the theory that almost everyone will come to church if someone invites them, he invited members of all denominations, entire clubs and a whole host of celebrities.

He received thanks from such persons as President and Mrs. Eisenhower, Gov. Allan Shivers, State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd and showman Arthur Godfrey.

Ritchel estimated that more than 2,700 persons showed up. If extra chairs hadn't been available, there would have been standing room only.

Nearly everyone in town heard of Ritchel's challenge to himself to pack the church. He used prayer, persuasion, personal letters and invitations.

Newspapers, radio and television helped spread his invitation to "come fill your cup with good fellowship."

The entire congregation sang the Lord's Prayer at Ritchel's request.

Car salesmen along the nearby "automobile row" listened with interest. Earlier, one car dealer had asked passers-by, "Are you going to help fill the church?"

Dr. Robert E. Goodrich Jr., pastor, presented Ritchel with a hymnal. Ritchel thanked everyone for coming, invited them back and said:

"When you tap the resources of God, nothing is impossible."

Teacher To Fly Around World In Light Plane

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Headed for a long, slow look at the world, a school marm from California takes off for the wide plains of Texas today on a flight that will eventually take her around the globe.

Miss Jan Wood, a 34-year-old physical education teacher from Reseda, Calif., flew in for the first overnight stop of her 30,000-mile sightseeing tour.

Accompanied only by her dog, Cindy, Miss Wood plans to stay at private homes instead of hotels so she can "get to know people of the countries I'm going to see."

These will be covered in a meandering course across Europe, Africa, Near East, India, southwest Asia, Australia and South and Central America.

Her tiny Cessna will be shipped across the oceans. She expects to be gone about 11 months and has budgeted $7,000 for the trip.

More than 4,000 seagoing ships were sunk in World War II.

ing he holds doubly dear. The realization that every year there are fewer people in the world who would actually lend him money makes him treasure those still left.

He finds that women have improved tremendously. At 19, he remembers, all the girls he met seemed vain and silly. But now the ones he meets seem charming, witty and full of commonsense information on interesting topics such as how to cure arthritis and what to do about varicose veins. The fact the only girls he meets are grandmothers has nothing to do with it.

Best of all, at 45 a man finds his wife appreciates him more than in the days when he was a young romantic lover.

"Here, you big oaf, I'll move that sofa," she murmurs tenderly. "You might strain your heart. I don't want to have to break in another husband in my lifetime."

She brings him his slippers and a hot toddy, and the big oaf, sitting comfortably reading his newspaper and lulled by the dim slow music of his hardening arteries, wonders idly why a man would ever want to be any age but 45.

MARILYN IS BACK

Dogs Guests At Birthday Party

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Cyrano, Cecil, Clem, Gillie, Harry, Mickey, Molly, Jaycee and Rockett got together for a birthday party yesterday.

Blossom, a basset hound, was 1 year old, and owner Ellen Weisman invited her pet's basset friends to the back yard festivities. The guests also included Blossom's Bonnie, Grock, Max, Duchess and Joie; the parents, Pierre and Bon Bon, and a Chihuahua named Chi Chi.

The only untoward incident occurred when one of the dogs' owners saw her small son sitting at a table, helping himself to some goodies from a paper plate marked "Cyrano."

"David!" she shrieked. "Stop eating that! That's dog food!"

Kennedy Reveals Political Trick

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) used a little-known political trick in an effort to win votes for the Democrats.

He used a taxi to go to Hope High School for a speech and was going to give the driver a substantial tip with a plea to vote Democratic.

"But then I remembered something Sen. Green had told," he said.

Kennedy and Sen. Green (D-RI) both are considered wealthy.

"Instead of a big tip," Kennedy said, "I gave him no tip at all and told him to vote Republican."

No Lack Of Activity For Chicod Student

By IVA LOU BRUNSON
Chicod News

Will you be my Valentine? Those words have just died around here. St. Valentine's day was a big thing at Chicod. The grammar grades all had parties and exchanged valentines. But the main attraction was the big King and Queen of Hearts dance last Wednesday night. The ninth grades sponsored it, and it went over wonderfully. The star attraction of the night was the crowning of the Queen of Hearts. Evelyn Haddock was the pretty queen and Delbert Smith was her handsome king. After the floor show, which included songs by the "Dungaree Dolls," the boys chorus, and the "Farm Girls," there was dancing. The gym was covered with hearts and flowers. We wish to give our thanks to the ninth grades and their advisors, Miss Grace Baker and Mrs. Cozart who worked very hard on the dance.

IVA LOU

Just about the time everyone had settled down after the Valentine Dance the junior class decided to have a "Wing-ding-ding" for our practice teachers. Yes, we really had a good time Tuesday night. After the party a carload of juniors went to see the last of the ball game at ECC.

Now the juniors are pondering over the Junior-Senior prom which isn't far off. They are planning, hoping, and visualizing these important plans. Even though it promises to be hard work they are looking forward to it with great enthusiasm. All the girls are dreaming and talking about that evening dress "poor pop" is going to have to buy.

Macbeth, Macbeth! The seniors are running around here with a literature book in front of them mumbling something about somebody called Macbeth. They have even made booklets on this character named Macbeth. They all walked out of their classroom with a relieved look on their faces. They had just struggled through a test on dear Macbeth. By the way, just who is Macbeth?

While the seniors are battling with Macbeth the juniors are turning poetic as they recite poems by Frost, Lowell, Sandburg, and Nash. They also have been working on booklets but theirs were on poetry. I think everyone is enjoying it.

A contest on parliamentary procedure was held here at Chicod Thursday afternoon for the FFA boys. The winners were Farmville first, Winterville second, Chicod third.

The grammar grades enjoyed a patriotic play Thursday afternoon. It was given by Mrs. Ina Venters' class. Famous birthdays in February was the theme of the play.

Everyone went to the movies Friday morning. No, I don't mean everyone left school. The movie was shown in our own gym. It was alright except for one thing. There was no popcorn!

We have several FHA girls who are working on their State Degrees. They are Betsy Jean Spain, Freddie Cox, Virginia Evans, and Frances Jean Mills.

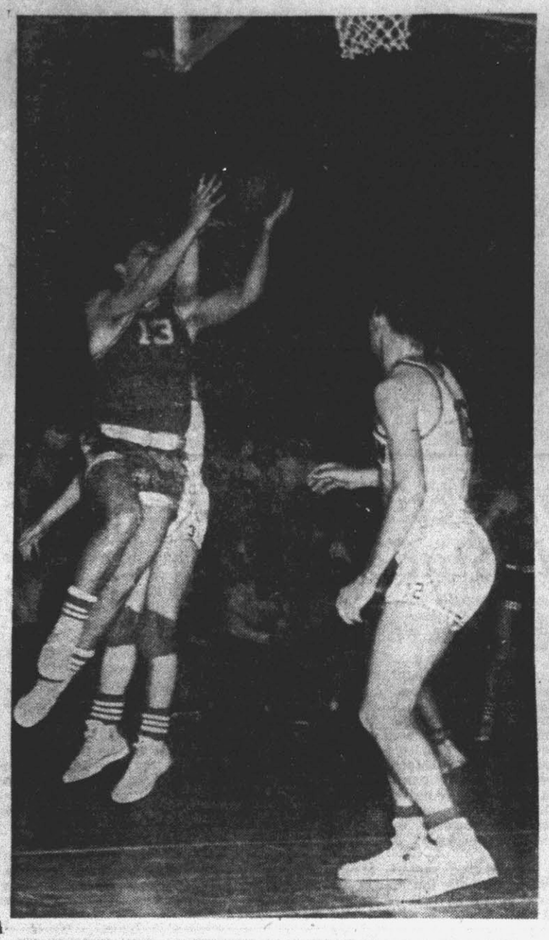
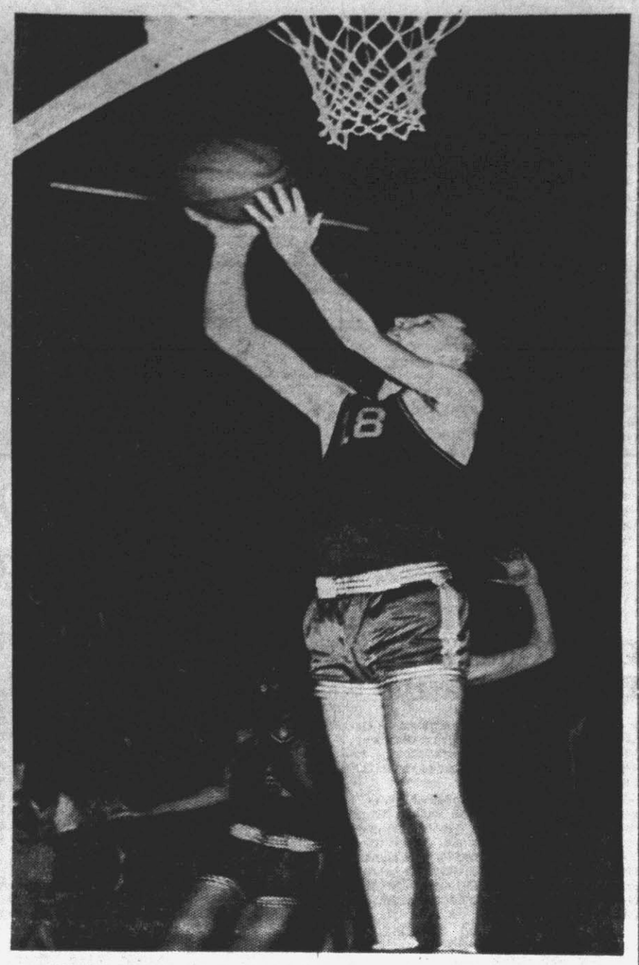
Kinston Quint Tops GHS To Win Conference Crown



GOING UP ANYWAY—Despite the persistant guarding of Kinston's Ally Hart (in the background) and the presence of Big Bobby Stanley beneath the basket, Greenville's Jerry Drum drives in for a bruising lay up, to sink two points. Drum scored 10 points, but he and his Phantom mates bowed 76-72 to the Red Devils in the Northeastern Tourney finals.



JOHNSON ALL ALONE—Billy Johnson, Greenville 6-1 forward, leaps all along to drop in two points in the Northeastern Tourney Championship match Saturday night in Memorial Gym. The Phants rarely had such opportunities as above, and Kinston copped the crown with a 76-72 win. (Reflector Sports Photos by Billy Arnold).

Red Devils Take Hot 76-72 Finale

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Kinston, the defending Class AA State basketball champions, defeated Greenville high school 76-72, Saturday night, to take the Northeastern Conference crown in the finals of the loop tourney at East Carolina College gymnasium.

The two teams, which finished the season in a deadlocked first place with identical 11-1 records, had faced each other twice before and each one had claimed a victory. Saturday night's tilt was to decide which team would go to Inca, North Carolina, for the State playoffs, and Kinston claimed the honor.

Rochelle, Faelton Lead

Kinston's Poo Rochelle and Elon Faelton sparked the Red Devils to an early lead in the first quarter with a combination of accurate push shots from both outside and in close. At the end of the quarter, they held a slim five-point advantage, 14-9.

Coach Boley Farley's Green Men began to find the range in the second period, but the Devils continued to outscore them, pumping in 19 markers to Greenville's 16. Little Ally Hart, Kinston guard, went on a personal scoring spree in the dying minutes of the half to rack up a rash of points sufficient to keep the Phantoms on the losing end of the board.

Phants Outscore Kinston

Second half action got underway with a barrage of points by the Greenville squad that threw a scare into Kinston fans. All-Conference center Hal Edwards and teammate Ike Riddick started hitting from all over the floor and Kinston's margin began to fall rapidly.

Jerry Drum, Billy Johnson and Wayne Eidson added to the Phantom spree and by the end of the period, Greenville had chalked up a tremendous 28 points during the stanza. Kinston, however, had not been idle. The Green seive-like defense had allowed their opponents to collect 24 tallies, enough to maintain a 57-43 margin.

With less than two minutes remaining in the contest, Greenville had narrowed the Kinston lead to a single point. Riddick's long jump shots and Edwards' persistent scoring from around the foul circle had pushed the overflowing arena into a chaos. The battle had to be stopped several times to clear the floor of paper and other debris, which had been hurled by screaming, frenzied fans.

Kinston employed a freeze and collected three pairs of foul shots in the process, making two of them, and the score read 74-70. With only seconds remaining in the tilt, Ike Riddick sank a long push shot to keep Greenville's hopes burning, but another pair of foul shots by the Kinston crew made it 76-72, the final score.

Top Scorers Tied

Greenville's Ike Riddick tied with Elon Faelton for top scoring honors for the night, with 21 points each. Hal Edwards and Poo Rochelle followed in another deadlock with a total of 20 each.

New Bern took the consolation prize of the tourney with a 66-55 win over Elizabeth City.

Ronald Price, EC's prolific scorer, who averaged 24 points per game in tourney play, collected 27 markers to take high honors for both teams. New Bern's Jimmy Lancaster was second with 24 points.

The Yellow Jackets were ahead in the first period and seemed headed for sure victory, but a New Bern surge of scoring in the second quarter put the Bears in front and they stayed there.

Coach J. F. Hockaday's Red crew grabbed the tournament's third place with the 66-55 win, and Elizabeth City fell into fourth.

The boxes:

New Bern	Elizabeth City
Lancaster 24	Haney

Kinston subs: Evans 2, Atkins. Greenville subs: Eidson 7, Norris.

Kinston	14	19	24	19—76
Greenville	9	16	28	19—72

NORTHEASTERN CHAMPS—Kinston's Poo Rochelle and Marshall Happer received the Northeastern Conference Tournament Trophy from Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, Athletic Director of East Carolina College, after their Red Devils had dumped Greenville 76-72, to cop the Tourney title for the second straight year. The defending State AA Champs will represent the league again in the State playoffs.

Elon Places 3 On All-Tourney Team; ECC None

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Elon's champions placed three men on the North State Conference all-tournament team selected by newsmen covering the annual basketball event here Saturday.

Representing Elon on the team were senior guard Ben Kendall and two juniors, forward Ed Juratic and center Dee Atkinson.

Lenoir Rhyne's senior forward Bob Ortmyer was the only unanimous choice, gaining all seven first place votes. Rounding out the first team was Bill Bowen of Western Carolina.

Juratic and Kendall each received six first team votes and one for the second five. Kendall was named the most valuable player in the tournament.

Heading the second team were Raeford Wells of Lenoir Rhyne and Dave Abernathy of Appalachian. Completing the team were Jerry Williams, Atlantic Christian; Floyd Propst, Lenoir Rhyne and Don Harris and Carvel Nichols, both of East Carolina. Harris and Nichols tied for last position, making it a six-man second unit.

Rawls Ekes Out Win Over Dodd

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Betsy Rawls, who held a six-stroke lead going into the finals, needed all of it to edge Betty Dodd by one stroke for top money in the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls shot a 77 yesterday her worst round of the tournament but won $900 with her 72-hole total of 291.

Miss Dodd, of San Antonio, Tex., shot a three-under-par 72 and finished with a birdie on the 18th hole. She won $630.

It was the second winter tour victory for Miss Rawls, the Spartanburg, S.C., pro also won at Tampa.

Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., finished in a tie for third at 296 with Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay. They got $495 apiece.

Riddick, Edwards On All-Conference

Two Greenville high school cagers, Hal Edwards and Ike Riddick, were named to the All-Northeastern Conference Tourney team, Saturday night, during the award presentations that followed the Tourney Championship game, at East Carolina gymnasium.

Coaches voted the following men to the mythical All-Star team:

Poo Rochelle (Kinston), guard
Ike Riddick (Greenville), guard
Harold Edwards, Greenville), center
Ronald Price (Elizabeth City), forward
Bobby Stanley (Kinston), forward

All five of the above were excellent playmakers during the regular season, and four of them were among the top five individual scorers in the league.

Harold Edwards paced the loop with a 22.7 average per game and was one of the big reasons for Greenville's co-championship with Kinston in season play. It was the second year in a row that the 6-4 sharp-shooter has been selected to the All-Conference team. He also led the scorers last season with an 18.4 average.

Ron Price, of Elizabeth City, followed Edwards in regular season scoring, with a 21.0 mark, and was high scorer for the Northeastern Tourney. In three games, he posted 72 points, for an average of 24 tallies per tilt.

Both Ike Riddick and Poo Rochelle were high in regular campaign ratings. Rochelle, upon entering the Tourney, boasted an 18.5 mark and Riddick was hitting for 15.8. Both boys were easily the most important playmakers in the league.

Kinston's Bobby Stanley, a 6-4 forward, earned a berth on the All-Tournament quintet, due to his superb performances in the three matches that secured a Kinston crown. He ranked among the best rebounders in class AA circles and was a consistent scorer in the double figures.

Elon Topples Lenoir-Rhyne In Overtime For NS Crown

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Elon's Christians, proving that maybe coaches know more about the caliber of a basketball team than the standings indicate, today own their first North State Conference basketball tournament title since 1947.

Elon needed an overtime period to defeat Lenoir Rhyne's hustling Bears here Saturday night 71-67 and take the title. For Lenoir Rhyne, it was the second year in a row that they had lost out in the finals of the tourney. They lost last year to Atlantic Christian.

The Christians entered this year's event seeded fourth. But a majority of the North State coaches picked them to win. They made their way into the finals by dumping first-seeded East Carolina. Lenoir Rhyne spilled defending champion Atlantic Christian to earn the other playoff berth.

The regulation time ended with the score knotted 59-59 and with rhubarb growing all over the place.

Elon's Ben Dendall, voted the most valuable player in the tournament by sportswriters, missed a layup just as the buzzer sounded. A follow by teammate Ed Juratic slipped through the hoop.

Officials ruled that Lenoir Rhyne's Bob Ortmyer had been fouled by Kendall. Ortmyer, they said, had foul shots coming and the Elon basket didn't count. The partisans in the crowd of 3,000 rocked the YMCA gym.

A conference of coaches and officials finally produced the ruling that both the basket and the foul came after the buzzer sounded.

In the overtime, Kendall put Elon out in front to stay 67-65 on a pair of free throws.

Dee Atkinson led the scoring for the victorious Christians with 17 points. Frank DeRita contributed 16, Ray Whitley 14 and Kendall 12. Floyd Propst dropped 17 for the Bears. Followed by Ortmyer and Raeford Wills with 15 each.

Elon earned a place in next week's Carolinas District 26 eliminations in the National Ass. of Intercollegiate Athletics Tournament. The NAIA is composed of smaller colleges. The 32-team national tournament will be played March 12-17 in Kansas City.

Injury Sidelines Ronnie Shavlik

RALEIGH (AP) — One of the top performers of the Atlantic Coast Conference will be on the sidelines when the loop's annual basketball tournament begins here Thursday.

A broken left wrist has ruled out further action for Ronnie Shavlik, North Carolina State's valuable center. His loss will be a distinct handicapp for the Wolfpack, heading into the tournament as defending champions.

The injury sustained in Saturday night's torrid game with Wake Forest wrote a sad ending to Shavlik's brilliant career on the N.C. State court. Despite the hurt, Shavlik played out the overtime thriller which the Wolfpack won, 80-78.

Minutes before the fall which fractured the wrist, broken once before when Shavlik was a freshman, he sank the points which set a new three-year record for the college. His total of 1,718 passed the old mark set by Sammy Ranzino.

Shavlik, a 6-8 senior from Denver, Colo., has been averaging 19.5 points per game and snagging rebounds at the rate of 20 per game. He was recently picked unanimously by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn. as a choice for All America honors.

The lanky 20-year-old tried to be philosophical about the unfortunate turn of events.

"Naturally I'm disappointed," he said "but it's just one of those things. I wanted to play in the tournament and had been invited to play in the East-West games in New York and Kansas City. I had even thought about giving the Olympic team a whirl

"Now I don't know. I'll just have to wait and see and take things as they come," he concluded.

Dr. Eugene H. Harer, team physician, said the wrist would have to remain in a cast for six weeks

Case Thinks State Can Win With Two Stars Missing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Everett Case of North Carolina State thinks his Wolfpack can win the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament beginning Thursday in Raleigh despite the loss of stars Ronnie Shavlik and Cliff Hafer.

The opening - day tournament pairings: Wake Forest vs. South Carolina 2 p.m.; North Carolina vs. Virginia 4 p.m.; North Carolina State vs. Clemson 7:30 p.m. Duke vs. Maryland 9:30 p.m.

N.C. State, the nation's No. 6 team, suffered a severe blow Saturday night in winning an 80-78 overtime thriller over Wake Forest. All American candidate Shavlik took a hard spill and fractured his wrist.

Dr. Eugene H. Harer team physician, said the wrist would have to remain in a cast for six weeks.

Hafer, a starting forward, recently was suspended for an honor code violation.

The tournament, said the optimistic Case, "will be an uphill fight, but I think we can do it." His team will have the benefit of playing on its home floor. The three-day tournament will be played at Reynolds Ccliseum in Raleigh.

Before the injury to Shavlik, brilliant center from Denver, Colo., N.C., State had been regarded as the team to beat. Now the tournament shapes up as a four-way Donnybrook among State North Carolina, Duke and Wake Forest.

The tournament, which decides the conference champion and representative in the NCAA tournament, will array the powerful "Big Four" from the state of North Carolina against the rest of the loop.

The regular season run was a hectic four-way battle that needed a drawing after Saturday's finale to straighten out the tournament pairings.

N.C. State had to whip giant-killer Wake Forest in order to wind up in a tie with North Carolina, the nation's ninth-ranked team, for the lead. Conference rules allow the defending champion, the Wolfpack, to take the higher tournament berth in the event of a tie.

Wake Forest dropped into a third-place tie with Duke, 11th-ranked in the national standings, after the loss to State. Virginia and South Carolina ended the season in a sixth-place tie. The only uncontested positions were held by Maryland in fifth place and Clemson in eighth.

Maryland looks to be the only barrier to an all-North Carolina windup in the tournament. The methodical Terrapins wound up the season with a 7-7 ACC record, but one of those victories was an upset of State on the Wolfpack's home court.

NAIA Playoffs Slated To Begin On March 5

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—Jim Hamilton of Lenoir Rhyne College, chairman of the Carolinas District 26 of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, said today that district basketball playoffs will begin Monday, March 5, at Erskine and Presbyterian colleges in South Carolina.

Three of the four places have been filled by the host schools, on the basis of their 7-1 records against NAIA schools, and by Elon College, which won the North State Conference championship by ledefeating Lenoir Rhyne 71-67.

If Erskine or Presbyterian wins the South Carolina Little Four tournament, that will eliminate the other two members of the Little Four from NAIA district competition, and give the fourth place to East Carolina, a North State semi finalist.

However, a win for Wofford or Newberry would give them a place in the playoffs.

The 32-team NAIA national tournament will be played March 12-17 in Kansas City.

Racer Tim Flock Says He Has Daytona Secret

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There's a secret to driving on Dayton's 4.1-mile beach and road race course — but Tim Flock is keeping it to himself.

The 31-year-old Atlanta stock car jockey won his third straight race over the sand and black - topped oval yesterday finishing 57 seconds ahead of Billy Myers of Germanton, N.C., in NASCAR's Grand National championship for late model stock cars.

Friday Flock won a race for sportsman and modified autos. A year ago he won his first Grand National, annual climax to the Speed Weeks program of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Declaring he can get more straightaway speed from a car on the sand than most drivers, the father of five said:

"It's because I have a little secret. It took me a long time driving on this beach to find it. And I'm not telling anybody what it is. Ben Hogan had his secret about golf and didn't tell anybody what it was until he quit. Well, Flock's got his about this beach."

Other drivers were willing to agree.

Tim covered the 152 miles in yesterday's race at an average speed of 90.83 miles per hour despite a big starting field of 78 which crowded the track, rain which made conditions difficult and two laps run at a snail's pace under the yellow caution flag because of crack-ups.

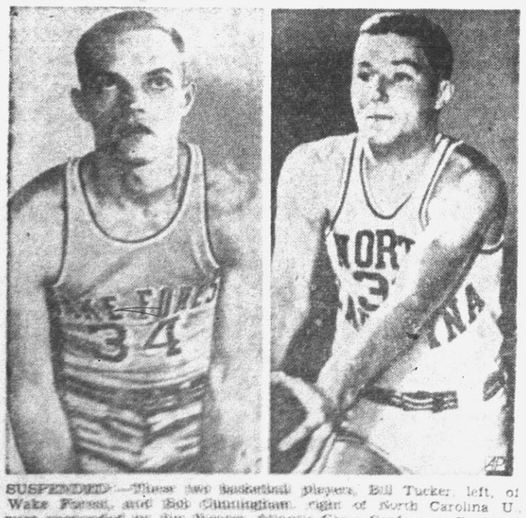
Flock drove a 1956 Chrysler 300B and led every lap except three, when he was in the pits for fuel. His share of the $13,950 purse was $4,025. Myers, in a new Mercury pocketed $2,375.

But perhaps the most surprising element of the race — shortened by eight miles because of an incoming tide—was the third-place finish of Raleb Moody of Dania, Fla. Moody's 1956 Ford flipped completely over early in the race when he hit a rough spot coming off the beach into the north turn.

Jim Lewallen of High Point, N.C., was fourth in an Oldsmobile and Jim Reed of Peekskill, N.Y., was fifth in a Chevrolet.

Despite several accidents, including a six-car pileup in the first lap, only one driver was hospitalized.

Russell Truelove of Waterbury Conn., flipped over six times in his car at the north turn. He walked away from the car but was hospitalized pending an X-ray check for a possible back injury.



SUSPENDED—These two basketball players, Bill Tucker, left, of Wake Forest, and Bob Cunningham, right of North Carolina U., were suspended by Jim Weaver, Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner, for their part in a free-for-all fight following a game between two teams over a week before. The suspension is for an "undetermined period." Cunningham is from New York City and Tucker is from Louisville. (AP Wirephoto).

Archie Moore Again Finding 'Easy Money'

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

Light - heavyweight Champion Archie Moore has figured out the way to beat training camp expenses and earn while he loses weight.

Instead of setting up a camp and hiring the likes of Howie King and Bob Dunlap, the 39-year-old 175-pound king takes them on in regular 10-round fights and picks up some walking around money at the same time.

A week ago, Archie scaled a hefty 197 when he outpointed King in a nontitle 10-rounder in San Francisco.

Tonight Moore picks on oft-beaten Bob Dunlap of Oakland in another overweight 10-rounder in his home town of San Diego. Nearly four years ago, Moore stopped Dunlap in six rounds.

The veteran light heavyweight ruler plans to keep busy in this type of fight until a month or so before his scheduled June 5 title defense against Yolande Pompey in London. By then Archie expects to be a lot closer to the 175-pound limit.

Scrappy little Miguel Berrios, winner of his last two fights on knockouts, meets Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, veteran, in a television (DuMont - TV, 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Berrios, a comer in the featherweight ranks, is from Puerto Rico.

Strapping Johnny Holman, now ranked fourth among the heavyweight contenders following knockout wins over Boardwalk Billy Smith and Bob Satterfield is favored to make it three straight on Wednesday night. The Chicago 205-pounder meets rangy Joe Rowan of Philadelphia in the radio-television feature (ABC-TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST) at Miami's Bayfront Stadium.

Lopez Decides On 'Shake Well' Treatment To Head Off Yankees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians apparently has decided to give his team the "shake well" treatment in an effort to head off the New York Yankees in the American League pennant chase.

He met with his club today in its Tucson, Ariz., camp and announced that Al Smith was the only player on hand who was certain of the job.

"And he doesn't have a set position," added Lopez. Smith, named the Player of the Year by the Cleveland baseball writers last season, played six positions in 1955.

"The young fellows have just as much chance as anyone else of winning a place on the team," said Lopez. "One hustling young player sometimes can give the whole club a lift."

Meanwhile, the Yanks were having their troubles with holdouts. On their first day of spring training, they were faced with the problem of bringing half a dozen top pitchers into line. This is an unprecedented situation and it has the Bomber brass worried.

Ace Whitey Ford and the club still are $5,000 apart. He wants $30,000 and has been offered $25,000. Other holdouts are Tom Morgan, Bob Grim, Jim Konstanty, Don Larsen and Mickey McDermott.

Billy Martin and Irv Noren still are unsigned, but they are not due to report until tomorrow, so they won't be classified holdouts until then.

In the National League, new Manager Bill Rigney of the New York Giants looked over his club on the first day of training and announced:

1. He would pattern his methods after those employed by Leo Durocher, his predecessor.

2. The Giants have as good a chance as anyone of winning the pennant, but . . .

3. The Brooklyn Dodgers "rate" the favorite's role.

Elsewhere around the camps:

Boston Red Sox pitcher Mel Parnell, troubled with ailments the past two seasons, said he feels great "and there's no reason why I shouldn't get 15 victories this year." . . . Kinston Quint Tops GHS To Win Conference Crown

GOING UP ANYWAY—Despite the persistant guarding of Kinston's Ally Hart (in the background) and the presence of Big Bobby Stanley beneath the basket, Greenville's Jerry Drum drives in for a bruising lay up, to sink two points. Drum scored 10 points, but he and his Phantom mates bowed 76-72 to the Red Devils in the Northeastern Tourney finals.

Red Devils Take Hot 76-72 Finale

By BILLY ARNOLD

Kinston, the defending Class AA State basketball champions, defeated Greenville high school 76-72, Saturday night, to take the Northeastern Conference crown in the finals of the loop tourney at East Carolina College gymnasium.

The two teams, which finished the season in a deadlocked first place with identical 11-1 records, had faced each other twice before and each one had claimed a victory. Saturday night's tilt was to decide which team would go to Inca, North Carolina, for the State playoffs, and Kinston claimed the honor.

Rochelle, Faelton Lead

Kinston's Poo Rochelle and Elon Faelton sparked the Red Devils to an early lead in the first quarter with a combination of accurate push shots from both outside and in close. At the end of the quarter, they held a slim five-point advantage, 14-9.

Coach Boley Farley's Green Men began to find the range in the second period, but the Devils continued to outscore them, pumping in 19 markers to Greenville's 16. Little Ally Hart, Kinston guard, went on a personal scoring spree in the dying minutes of the half to rack up a rash of points sufficient to keep the Phantoms on the losing end of the board.

Phants Outscore Kinston

Second half action got underway with a barrage of points by the Greenville squad that threw a scare into Kinston fans. All-Conference center Hal Edwards and teammate Ike Riddick started hitting from all over the floor and Kinston's margin began to fall rapidly.

Jerry Drum, Billy Johnson and Wayne Eidson added to the Phantom spree and by the end of the period, Greenville had chalked up a tremendous 28 points during the stanza. Kinston, however, had not been idle. The Green seive-like defense had allowed their opponents to collect 24 tallies, enough to maintain a 57-43 margin.

With less than two minutes remaining in the contest, Greenville had narrowed the Kinston lead to a single point. Riddick's long jump shots and Edwards' persistent scoring from around the foul circle had pushed the overflowing arena into a chaos. The battle had to be stopped several times to clear the floor of paper and other debris, which had been hurled by screaming, frenzied fans.

Kinston employed a freeze and collected three pairs of foul shots in the process, making two of them, and the score read 74-70. With only seconds remaining in the tilt, Ike Riddick sank a long push shot to keep Greenville's hopes burning, but another pair of foul shots by the Kinston crew made it 76-72, the final score.

Top Scorers Tied

Greenville's Ike Riddick tied with Elon Faelton for top scoring honors for the night, with 21 points each. Hal Edwards and Poo Rochelle followed in another deadlock with a total of 20 each.

New Bern took the consolation prize of the tourney with a 66-55 win over Elizabeth City.

Ronald Price, EC's prolific scorer, who averaged 24 points per game in tourney play, collected 27 markers to take high honors for both teams. New Bern's Jimmy Lancaster was second with 24 points.

The Yellow Jackets were ahead in the first period and seemed headed for sure victory, but a New Bern surge of scoring in the second quarter put the Bears in front and they stayed there.

Coach J. F. Hockaday's Red crew grabbed the tournament's third place with the 66-55 win, and Elizabeth City fell into fourth.

NORTHEASTERN CHAMPS—Kinston's Poo Rochelle and Marshall Happer received the Northeastern Conference Tournament Trophy from Dr. N. M. Jorgenson, Athletic Director of East Carolina College, after their Red Devils had dumped Greenville 76-72, to cop the Tourney title for the second straight year. The defending State AA Champs will represent the league again in the State playoffs.

Elon Places 3 On All-Tourney Team; ECC None

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Elon's champions placed three men on the North State Conference all-tournament team selected by newsmen covering the annual basketball event here Saturday.

Representing Elon on the team were senior guard Ben Kendall and two juniors, forward Ed Juratic and center Dee Atkinson.

Lenoir Rhyne's senior forward Bob Ortmyer was the only unanimous choice, gaining all seven first place votes. Rounding out the first team was Bill Bowen of Western Carolina.

Juratic and Kendall each received six first team votes and one for the second five. Kendall was named the most valuable player in the tournament.

Heading the second team were Raeford Wells of Lenoir Rhyne and Dave Abernathy of Appalachian. Completing the team were Jerry Williams, Atlantic Christian; Floyd Propst, Lenoir Rhyne and Don Harris and Carvel Nichols, both of East Carolina. Harris and Nichols tied for last position, making it a six-man second unit.

Rawls Ekes Out Win Over Dodd

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Betsy Rawls, who held a six-stroke lead going into the finals, needed all of it to edge Betty Dodd by one stroke for top money in the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund Golf Tournament.

Miss Rawls shot a 77 yesterday her worst round of the tournament but won $900 with her 72-hole total of 291.

Miss Dodd, of San Antonio, Tex., shot a three-under-par 72 and finished with a birdie on the 18th hole. She won $620.

It was the second winter tour victory for Miss Rawls, the Spartanburg, S.C., pro also won at Tampa.

Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., finished in a tie for third at 296 with Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay. They got $495 apiece.

Riddick, Edwards On All-Conference

Two Greenville high school cagers, Hal Edwards and Ike Riddick, were named to the All-Northeastern Conference Tourney team, Saturday night, during the award presentations that followed the Tourney Championship game, at East Carolina gymnasium.

Coaches voted the following men to the mythical All-Star team:

Poo Rochelle (Kinston), guard
Ike Riddick (Greenville), guard
Harold Edwards, Greenville), center
Ronald Price (Elizabeth City), forward
Bobby Stanley (Kinston), forward

All five of the above were excellent playmakers during the regular season, and four of them were among the top five individual scorers in the league.

Harold Edwards paced the loop with a 22.7 average per game and was one of the big reasons for Greenville's co-championship with Kinston in season play. It was the second year in a row that the 6-4 sharp-shooter has been selected to the All-Conference team. He also led the scorers last season with an 18.4 average.

Ron Price, of Elizabeth City, followed Edwards in regular season scoring, with a 21.0 mark, and was high scorer for the Northeastern Tourney. In three games, he posted 72 points, for an average of 24 tallies per tilt.

Both Ike Riddick and Poo Rochelle were high in regular campaign ratings. Rochelle, upon entering the Tourney, boasted an 18.5 mark and Riddick was hitting for 15.8. Both boys were easily the most important playmakers in the league.

Kinston's Bobby Stanley, a 6-4 forward, earned a berth on the All-Tournament quintet, due to his superb performances in the three matches that secured a Kinston crown. He ranked among the best rebounders in class AA circles and was a consistent scorer in the double figures.

Elon Topples Lenoir-Rhyne In Overtime For NS Crown

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Elon's Christians, proving that maybe coaches know more about the caliber of a basketball team than the standings indicate, today own their first North State Conference basketball tournament title since 1947.

Elon needed an overtime period to defeat Lenoir Rhyne's hustling Bears here Saturday night 71-67 and take the title. For Lenoir Rhyne, it was the second year in a row that they had lost out in the finals of the tourney. They lost last year to Atlantic Christian.

The Christians entered this year's event seeded fourth. But a majority of the North State coaches picked them to win. They made their way into the finals by dumping first-seeded East Carolina. Lenoir Rhyne spilled defending champion Atlantic Christian to earn the other playoff berth.

The regulation time ended with the score knotted 59-59 and with rhubarb growing all over the place.

Elon's Ben Dendall, voted the most valuable player in the tournament by sportswriters, missed a layup just as the buzzer sounded. A follow by teammate Ed Juratic slipped through the hoop.

Officials ruled that Lenoir Rhyne's Bob Ortmyer had been fouled by Kendall. Ortmyer, they said, had foul shots coming and the Elon basket didn't count. The partisans in the crowd of 3,000 rocked the YMCA gym.

A conference of coaches and officials finally produced the ruling that both the basket and the foul came after the buzzer sounded.

In the overtime, Kendall put Elon out in front to stay 67-65 on a pair of free throws.

Dee Atkinson led the scoring for the victorious Christians with 17 points. Frank DeRita contributed 16, Ray Whitley 14 and Kendall 12. Floyd Propst dropped 17 for the Bears. Followed by Ortmyer and Raeford Wills with 15 each.

Elon earned a place in next week's Carolinas District 26 eliminations in the National Ass. of Intercollegiate Athletics Tournament. The NAIA is composed of smaller colleges. The 32-team national tournament will be played March 12-17 in Kansas City.

Case Thinks State Can Win With Two Stars Missing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coach Everett Case of North Carolina State thinks his Wolfpack can win the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament beginning Thursday in Raleigh despite the loss of stars Ronnie Shavlik and Cliff Hafer.

The opening - day tournament pairings: Wake Forest vs. South Carolina 2 p.m.; North Carolina vs. Virginia 4 p.m.; North Carolina State vs. Clemson 7:30 p.m. Duke vs. Maryland 9:30 p.m.

N.C. State, the nation's No. 6 team, suffered a severe blow Saturday night in winning an 80-78 overtime thriller over Wake Forest. All American candidate Shavlik took a hard spill and fractured his wrist.

Dr. Eugene H. Harer team physician, said the wrist would have to remain in a cast for six weeks.

Hafer, a starting forward, recently was suspended for an honor code violation.

The tournament, said the optimistic Case, "will be an uphill fight, but I think we can do it." His team will have the benefit of playing on its home floor. The three-day tournament will be played at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

Before the injury to Shavlik, brilliant center from Denver, Colo., N.C., State had been regarded as the team to beat. Now the tournament shapes up as a four-way Donnybrook among State North Carolina, Duke and Wake Forest.

The tournament, which decides the conference champion and representative in the NCAA tournament, will array the powerful "Big Four" from the state of North Carolina against the rest of the loop.

The regular season run was a hectic four-way battle that needed a drawing after Saturday's finale to straighten out the tournament pairings.

N.C. State had to whip giant-killer Wake Forest in order to wind up in a tie with North Carolina, the nation's ninth-ranked team, for the lead. Conference rules allow the defending champion, the Wolfpack, to take the higher tournament berth in the event of a tie.

Wake Forest dropped into a third-place tie with Duke, 11th-ranked in the national standings, after the loss to State. Virginia and South Carolina ended the season in a sixth-place tie. The only uncontested positions were held by Maryland in fifth place and Clemson in eighth.

Maryland looks to be the only barrier to an all-North Carolina windup in the tournament. The methodical Terrapins wound up the season with a 7-7 ACC record, but one of those victories was an upset of State on the Wolfpack's home court.

NAIA Playoffs Slated To Begin On March 5

HICKORY, N.C. (AP)—Jim Hamilton of Lenoir Rhyne College, chairman of the Carolinas District 26 of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, said today that district basketball playoffs will begin Monday, March 5, at Erskine and Presbyterian colleges in South Carolina.

Three of the four places have been filled by the host schools, on the basis of their 7-1 records against NAIA schools, and by Elon College, which won the North State Conference championship by defeating Lenoir Rhyne 71-67.

If Erskine or Presbyterian wins the South Carolina Little Four tournament, that will eliminate the other two members of the Little Four from NAIA district competition, and give the fourth place to East Carolina, a North State semi finalist.

However, a win for Wofford or Newberry would give them a place in the playoffs.

The 32-team NAIA national tournament will be played March 12-17 in Kansas City.

Racer Tim Flock Says He Has Daytona Secret

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There's a secret to driving on Dayton's 4.1-mile beach and road race course — but Tim Flock is keeping it to himself.

The 31-year-old Atlanta stock car jockey won his third straight race over the sand and black - topped oval yesterday finishing 57 seconds ahead of Billy Myers of Germanton, N.C., in NASCAR's Grand National championship for late model stock cars.

Friday Flock won a race for sportsman and modified autos. A year ago he won his first Grand National, annual climax to the Speed Weeks program of the National Assn. for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Declaring he can get more straightaway speed from a car on the sand than most drivers, the father of five said:

"It's because I have a little secret. It took me a long time driving on this beach to find it. And I'm not telling anybody what it is. Ben Hogan had his secret about golf and didn't tell anybody what it was until he quit. Well, Flock's got his about this beach."

Other drivers were willing to agree.

Tim covered the 152 miles in yesterday's race at an average speed of 90.83 miles per hour despite a big starting field of 78 which crowded the track, rain which made conditions difficult and two laps run at a snail's pace under the yellow caution flag because of crack-ups.

Flock drove a 1956 Chrysler 300B and led every lap except three, when he was in the pits for fuel. His share of the $13,950 purse was $4,025. Myers, in a new Mercury pocketed $2,375.

But perhaps the most surprising element of the race — shortened by eight miles because of an incoming tide—was the third-place finish of Raleb Moody of Dania, Fla. Moody's 1956 Ford flipped completely over early in the race when he hit a rough spot coming off the beach into the north turn.

Jim Lewallen of High Point, N.C., was fourth in an Oldsmobile and Jim Reed of Peekskill, N.Y., was fifth in a Chevrolet.

Despite several accidents, including a six-car pileup in the first lap, only one driver was hospitalized.

Russell Truelove of Waterbury Conn., flipped over six times in his car at the north turn. He walked away from the car but was hospitalized pending an X-ray check for a possible back injury.

Injury Sidelines Ronnie Shavlik

RALEIGH (AP) — One of the top performers of the Atlantic Coast Conference will be on the sidelines when the loop's annual basketball tournament begins here Thursday.

A broken left wrist has ruled out further action for Ronnie Shavlik, North Carolina State's valuable center. His loss will be a distinct handicapp for the Wolfpack, heading into the tournament as defending champions.

The injury sustained in Saturday night's torrid game with Wake Forest wrote a sad ending to Shavlik's brilliant career on the N.C. State court. Despite the hurt, Shavlik played out the overtime thriller which the Wolfpack won, 80-78.

Minutes before the fall which fractured the wrist, broken once before when Shavlik was a freshman, he sank the points which set a new three-year record for the college. His total of 1,718 passed the old mark set by Sammy Ranzino.

Shavlik, a 6-8 senior from Denver, Colo., has been averaging 19.5 points per game and snagging rebounds at the rate of 20 per game. He was recently picked unanimously by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn. as a choice for All America honors.

The lanky 20-year-old tried to be philosophical about the unfortunate turn of events.

"Naturally I'm disappointed," he said "but it's just one of those things. I wanted to play in the tournament and had been invited to play in the East-West games in New York and Kansas City. I had even thought about giving the Olympic team a whirl.

"Now I don't know. I'll just have to wait and see and take things as they come," he concluded.

Dr. Eugene H. Harer, team physician, said the wrist would have to remain in a cast for six weeks.

Archie Moore Again Finding 'Easy Money'

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

Light - heavyweight Champion Archie Moore has figured out the way to beat training camp expenses and earn while he loses weight.

Instead of setting up a camp and hiring the likes of Howie King and Bob Dunlap, the 39-year-old 175-pound king takes them on in regular 10-round fights and picks up some walking around money at the same time.

A week ago, Archie scaled a hefty 197 when he outpointed King in a nontitle 10-rounder in San Francisco.

Tonight Moore picks on oft-beaten Bob Dunlap of Oakland in another overweight 10-rounder in his home town of San Diego. Nearly four years ago, Moore stopped Dunlap in six rounds.

The veteran light heavyweight ruler plans to keep busy in this type of fight until a month or so before his scheduled June 5 title defense against Yolande Pompey in London. By then Archie expects to be a lot closer to the 175-pound limit.

Scrappy little Miguel Berrios, winner of his last two fights on knockouts, meets Bobby Bell, Youngstown, Ohio, veteran, in a television (DuMont - TV, 10 p.m., EST) 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Berrios, a comer in the featherweight ranks is from Puerto Rico.

The Chicago 205-pounder meets rangy Joe Rowan of Philadelphia in the radio-television feature (ABC-TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST) at Miami's Bayfront Stadium.

Lopez Decides On 'Shake Well' Treatment To Head Off Yankees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians apparently has decided to give his team the "shake well" treatment in an effort to head off the New York Yankees in the American League pennant chase.

He met with his club today in its Tucson, Ariz., camp and announced that Al Smith was the only player on hand who was certain of the job.

"And he doesn't have a set position," added Lopez. Smith, named the Player of the Year by the Cleveland baseball writers last season, played six positions in 1955.

"The young fellows have just as much chance as anyone else of winning a place on the team," said Lopez. "One hustling young player sometimes can give the whole club a lift."

Meanwhile, the Yanks were having their troubles with holdouts. On their first day of spring training, they were faced with the problem of bringing half a dozen top pitchers into line. This is an unprecedented situation and it has the Bomber brass worried.

Ace Whitey Ford and the club still are $5,000 apart. He wants $30,000 and has been offered $25,000. Other holdouts are Tom Morgan, Bob Grim, Jim Konstanty, Don Larsen and Mickey McDermott.

Billy Martin and Irv Noren still are unsigned, but they are not due to report until tomorrow, so they won't be classified holdouts until then.

In the National League, new Manager Bill Rigney of the New York Giants looked over his club on the first day of training and announced:

1. He would pattern his methods after those employed by Leo Durocher, his predecessor.

2. The Giants have as good a chance as anyone of winning the pennant, but

3. The Brooklyn Dodgers "rate" the favorite's role.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Meg, Hearing from an indignant Matilda that Michael was David's lawyer, wondered uneasily if her own attitude had anything to do with it.

When she tackled Michael, he denied it. "Jason persuaded me."

"Jason!"

"Don't ask me why. I don't know myself." He left abruptly, and Meg spent an uncomfortable evening with Jenny.

"I can't believe David's guilty!" She exploded finally. "He wouldn't seduce a—a strumpet, let alone a child like Louise Fenner!"

Jenny was aghast. "But he must have, Meg! No girl would say such a thing if—if . . ." She stammered into embarrassed silence.

There was the rub all right. Who but a devious schemer would publicly abandon virute! Louise was only fifteen years old. It must be true but Meg couldn't believe it anyhow.

She was alone on the next evening. The other women had gone to a church supper. Meg was sewing reluctantly on the simple tasks Jenny had laid out for her and Johnny was sleeping on the sofa. David Lurkins knocked on the door early the hour after the others had departed.

"Why-y, David. Good evening."

He bobbed his head. His hands trembled on the hat he held; he looked shrunken as if his clothes were suddenly too large for him.

"I—I wonder if I could see my—could see Anna?"

Meg had forgotten she was in the house. "Of course. First door at the top of the stairs, third floor."

David did not move. He looked at the stairs, then returned his beaten gaze to Meg. Pity welled in her.

"I'm sorry, David." She put her hand on his arm. "I'm sure nobody will believe . . . When everything's explained they'll be sorry."

His eyes were as dull and hopeless as those of an old dog. "Anna believes it."

"No, no, of course she doesn't." Meg fought her own uncertainty. "The shock naturally—you just go on up and talk to her."

Still he didn't budge. "I — if you'd show me?"

Heavens above, Meg fumed, the man's afraid of his own wife!

"All right. Come along."

Meg hurried up the stairs, conscious of his lagging steps behind her. She tapped lightly on Anna's door.

"Who is it?" Anna's voice was a wrung dishrag.

"Meg Beaumont. You've a visitor." She pushed open the door without delay.

Anna was in bed. Above her plain, high-necked nightgown, her face was gray drained. Looking past Meg, she sucked in her breath noisily.

"Anna!" David came forward, his hands outstretched. "Anna!"

She shrank back on Matilda's fat pillows, her hands thrusting him aside. "Don't you touch me!"

Meg, frozen with horror, came to her senses. She bolted from the room with such haste that she nearly fell headlong down the stairs. In the hall, she clung to the bannisters and began to cry.

"Meg!" Michael was beside her. "Are you ill?"

Presently she could look up at him. "I've — I've drenched you!"

"I'm used to Seattle rains." He watched her worriedly. "What is it, Meg?"

She fished for a handkerchief, blew her nose, blurted out the story. She glanced up the stairs.

"He's still there. Perhaps Anna's changed her mind."

"Maybe. I did. When I talked to him."

"You believe he's innocent, Michael?" Meg was eager. "Why?"

His face clouded. "I don't know. I really don't know. If Louise were ten years older nobody would swallow it. The case coming on the very heels of David's legacy would be a farce. I wouldn't trust Darcy Fenner with a salted mine, but a child like Louise—and she is pregnant, you know. Darcy has a statement from one of Seattle's most respected doctors. Blast it, Meg, people and juries believe children!"

"You'll get David off." Didn't Matilda say Michael was the best lawyer in town?

Michael shook his head. "I doubt it."

With other cases, Michael had been interested but not really involved. Now, in some strange fashion, he was, as Meg herself seemed to be. David's weakness, his humility, was a strong rope about them. Michael left her when she was calm.

Meg waited tensely for David's step on the stairs. At the first sound she hurried to the hall. She did not need to ask questions. Anna's refusal to listen to him was in the lines of his face, the discouragement of his body.

"I'm sorry, David."

He did not answer. He closed the front door carefully, as if he could no longer claim anything as human or as personal as impatience.

Long after she was in bed, Meg thought about him. If Louise were ten years older, Michael said, nobody would believe her story. If Louise were older . . . Suddenly she remembered Louise's penchant for the gray hat, the laughter as she left the Ten Eyck store. Suppose Louise was older than she claimed?

She felt perverse, stubborn. According to Kemp, she was a golden witch. Witches were allowed occasional spells of madness, weren't they? Her mind firmed. Right or wrong she would plan how to select the most unsuitable hat in the Fleur shop and take it as a gift to Louise Fenner.

Meg's plan struck a snag the next day. Jenny had gone to the shop and Meg was about to follow when Nathan Grundy turned up, looking so serious that Meg waited for his first words with a foreboding she told herself must be absurd.

"I've news for Jenny. I don't rightly like to tell her myself. Perhaps you—"

"Her husband?" Meg was certain. Nothing else could be so important to Jenny.

He nodded. "I met a sailor just in from China. Frank Fleur was swept overboard during a typhoon in the China Sea." He shook his head. "Jenny will take it hard."

Meg had clearer intuition. Oh, Jenny would grieve, but there was a dignity, a welcome finality in death, a kindness that desertion did not encompass.

"I'll tell her, Nathan," Meg promised. "You know a lot about all of us, don't you?"

She remembered what Nathan had said when Kemp had first gone away; she was too honest not to admit there was truth in it. Kemp was growing dimmer to her every day.

"Onlookers gather a lot of knowledge, Meg."

"Onlookers?"

"People who don't want much themselves."

Her mind rejected this. "Or tell themselves they don't, Nathan?"

He considered it. "Perhaps you're right Meg. No man — or woman — ever completely stops wanting."

She sensed she had hurt him and was sorry, but she could not waste time in regrets. She had to find Jenny.

Good Ideas Are Brought Out In Suggestion Box

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Keepers of the suggestion box wish that cartoonists would get a new idea. The old standby shows the boss opening the box to find the suggestion: "Drop dead".

Directors of industrial suggestion systems say that oldie rarely turns up but funnier ones do. They cite a recent instance when a company asked employes, What would you do if you got control of this firm tomorrow?" and received this tip: "Sell it."

Suggestions, however, are a serious business for the companies and most employes.

The National Assn. of Suggestion Systems reports that within one year its 800 members received more than a million suggestions from employes, used 260,000, and paid seven million dollars for the ideas.

The association makes no guess on how much money industry saves each year by tips from employes but says it must run into the millions.

Here are examples of the scope of a few individual suggestion systems:

Bernard F. Anderson, vice president in charge of manufacturing of Remington Rand division of Sperry Rand, says employes' ideas on how the business should be run increased both in quantity and quality in 1955. The company, which actively encourage suggestions, received 12,446, used 3,965 and paid $37,867 for them. For the first time suggestions for eliminating red tape and needless paper work topped ideas for improving production methods.

Harry W. Anderson, vice president in charge of personnel at General Motors, says workers offered 228,437 suggestions and GM paid $3,225,741 for the 54,635 it adopted. In the last 14 years the motor company has paid 17 million dollars for tips.

The Ford Motor Co. paid $1,022,228 for 15,749 suggestions accepted from 77,815 submitted—all three figures being records, according to John S. Bugas, vice president-industrial relations.

What ideas win the big money from the boss? D. G. Morse, president of the National Assn., of Suggestion Systems, says that the prize winner in 1955 was Mrs. Emma Gabor of the jet division of Thompson Products, Cleveland, who made good use of her nail polish to earn $6,592. She put the brilliant coating on the edge of the continuous belt used on the high speed polishing machine she operates, to stop its ravelling. The company adopted the idea substituting lacquer for nail polish.

WOMAN LABOR LEADER

MYSTIC, Conn. (AP)—The Connecticut Cabinet Corp. local of the Initrnational Assn. of Machinists has the only woman labor union president in southeastern Connecticut. Mrs. Edna Wallington defeated two men in an election for the office.

Top Sax Man In Religious Order

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Boyce Brown, rated the country's No. 1 Dixieland jazz alto saxophone player 16 years ago, will become a lay brother for the Servite Roman Catholic Order next Tuesday.

Brown, who will take the vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, said he will take his saxophone with him into the order. A convert to the church, Brown will be known as Brother Mathew. He entered the monastery in 1953.

"I'm not trying to impress anyone with my music any more," Brown told interviewers yesterday. "But good clean entertainment is good and can be used to serve God."

Brown, 46, was described at his peak as the world's "best white saxophone player," by a French jazz authority.

Avalanche Fails Stop Ministers

OURAY, Colo. (AP)—An avalanche near this town high in the southwestern Colorado Rockies failed to stop the business of the Lord.

The Rev. J. M. Halloran, Catholic priest at Ouray, set out over 11,000-foot Red Mountain Pass for his parish at Silverton and found the highway blocked. But there, on the other side of the mass of snow, was the Rev. Marvin Hudson a protestant minister, headed the other way.

They swapped cars.

Later, missions accomplished, they met and returned cars.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula, prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene.

Primatene opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms . . . get Primatene, at any drugstore. Only 98¢—money-back guarantee.

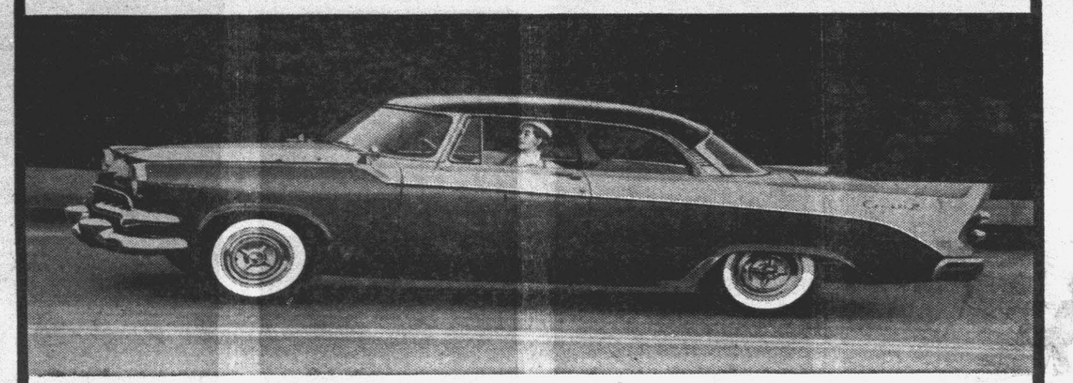
FIGURE IT THIS WAY! For as little as 95 cents a week more than you'd pay for a small hardtop in the "lowest price field"—you can step up to the biggest, best looking, most luxurious hardtop in the "medium price field"... the Dodge Coronet V-8 Lancer!



Your King Size Buy-by far! '56 DODGE Coronet

Here is the value that will change your idea about "price class." The King Size Dodge Coronet actually brings you more length, looks and luxury, more big car roominess and big car ride, than other cars in the "medium price field"—even those costing a thousand dollars more!

Yet, the exciting news is this! For all its size, comfort, performance and style, the King Size Dodge Coronet is priced right down with the lowest. In fact, you can own a Dodge Coronet V-8 Lancer hardtop for only about 95 cents a week more than the same body style in the small car field.

Why settle for a small car when a new '56 Dodge Coronet brings you so much more for so little more! And why settle for a "stripped down" model of one of the medium priced cars when a full-size, full-styled, full-powered Dodge Coronet can be yours for less! There's a full line of Dodge Coronets to choose from: 2-door and 4-door sedans, 2-door and 4-door Lancer hardtops, and a dashing convertible.

Come in and see the Dodge Coronet today.

Size it up with others in the medium price field
Car "B"	Dodge is 6.9 inches longer
Car "M"	Dodge is 5.6 inches longer
Car "O"	Dodge is 7.7 inches longer
Car "P"	Dodge is 6.4 inches longer

More legroom front and rear! More hiproom front and rear! Wider doors! Greater steering wheel clearance! More rear deck space! New '56 Dodge is bigger inside and out! Looks bigger! Rides bigger! Is bigger!

Price it against small cars in the "low price field"
Car "C"	Dodge is 14.5 inches longer
Car "F"	Dodge is 13.5 inches longer
Yet Dodge costs only $4.11 a month more (less than 95 cents a week!)*

*Comparing price of Dodge V-8 Coronet Lancer against average price of same body style of the "low price 3." Price difference based on 24-month financing after ⅓ down payment.

Push-button driving and record-breaking performance! At a touch of your finger, you command the greatest performing car on the road today—bar none! The new '56 Dodge shattered every record in the book—including world records held by foreign cars—in its 14-day official run on Bonneville Salt Flats. The '56 Dodge V-8 holds more records than all other American cars combined!

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market turned down quietly today following a five-session advance.

Prices in the early afternoon were down 1 to 2 points at the most while gains ran to around a point. Most changes were quiet small.

Trading at times hit a good pace that pointed at 2½ million shares for the day. That compares with 2,890,000 shares traded Friday when the market staged a better-than-average advance.

A distinctly lower tone prevaded the steels, chemicals, motors, and the tobaccos. The latter group was under the influence of news that rabbits' ears developed cancer when painted with cigarette tars. No group was definitely higher, although the railroads maintained a rather steady position in the face of quiet selling.

Higher stocks included United Aircraft, RCA (which reported its sales topped a billion dollars last year for the first time), Anaconda Co., Westinghouse Electric, Union Pacific, and Texas Co.

Lower were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith Radio, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, General Electric, American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers, Reynolds Tobacco "B", Standard Oil (NJ), and Baltimore & Ohio.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—Hog prices 25 to 50 higher. RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Central North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady following 1 cent increase, farm price 21, f.o.b. plant 22¾; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 42.

Asheville fryers and broilers steady, farm price 21, f.o.b. plant 22¼; Asheville eggs about steady following decline, A large 39-43.

Suspicion Pays

A 16-year-old Negro was scheduled for trial on bootleg whiskey charges today all because an alert police officer became suspicious of a bicycle.

Willie Mack Wooten, 16, Negro, of 406 Tyson Street, was arrested by officer James W. Jenkins early yesterday morning on W. Fifth Street after the officer searched a pair of saddle bags on Wooten's bike and found a quantity of non-tax paid whiskey.

The youth was charged with possesion of non-tax paid whiskey for sale. He allegedly admitted making a sale shortly before Jenkins became suspicious of his actions and searched the saddle bags.

The bicycle was confiscated.

Violence Claims Lives Of 13 In State Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 13 persons died by violence in North Carolina over the weekend.

An automobile plunged into a creek near Chapel Hill and killed Joseph Baldwin, 27 and Clem Atwater, 35, of Carrboro.

Emanuel Williams, 34, lost his life in an oil stove explosion at his home in Sanford.

Phyllis Parnell, 18, who recently moved to Lumberton from St. Pauls, was fatally injured when a car in which she was riding collided with a truck on U.S. 301 four miles south of Lumberton.

Edward Richards, 22, of Hampton Va., lost his life when his car ran off U.S. 64 near Asheboro and overturned. A state highway patrolman reported Richards apparently had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Vernon Junior Woodell, 23, of Rt. 4, Asheboro, died when an automobile in which he was riding plunged into a creek five miles south of Asheboro.

A gasoline explosion rocked a Negro tenant house near Greenville, fatally burning Jacqueline Peoples, 2. Her parents and two sisters also suffered burns. Officers quoted the father, Melvin Peoples, as saying he had been using gasoline to clean automobile parts. A pail of gasoline exploded in the kitchen.

James Hamilton, 43, was injured fatally in a two-car collision near Sanford.

An automobile struck and killed Purcell Jones 2, at Lumberton. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs Sam Jones.

Frank Smith, 23, Negro of Bayboro, was killed in Pamlico County when he walked in front of an auto; Holston Kennedy, Negro, of Camp Lejeune, was killed when a parking car backed into him at Wilmington; and Wade H. Foster, 54, of Rt. 3 Lexington, was killed and a companion was injured as they walked along Highway N.C. 150 in Davidson County.

The infant son of Sgt. James R. Houseman of Cherry Point died at Camp Lejeune Hospital. An autopsy report said the child died of a brain hemorrhage. Houseman, 23, who told authorities he had spanked the baby, was held pending a coroner's inquest.

Reports Tobacco Tars Have Produced Cancer

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Evarts A. Graham, noted chest surgeon who made the first extensive study of the possible relationship of cigarette smoking to lung cancer, says that painting the ears of rabbits with tobacco tars has produced "very malignant cancers."

He said in a speech last night this disclosure is "additional evidence that cigarette smoke contains a factor that will produce cancer in experimental animals of unrelated species." He and his staff had produced cancers in four strains of mice in recent years.

He said these studies, combined with "strong statistical evidence of a casual relationship between heavy cigarette smoking and lung cancer," constitute "about as strong evidence that cigarettes can cause lung cancer as can reasonably be expected."

"However," he said, "it should be stated that, in exceptional cases, cigarettes are not the cause of the lung cancer but that other factors are operative" and in some cases "the cancer-producing factor in cigarettes may be working with another cancer-producing factor from industrial pollution of the atmosphere.

Dr. Graham made his remarks while accepting the 1955 award for outstanding service to medicine and pharmacy by the Alumni Assn of the St. Louis College of Pharmacy and Allied Sciences.

The cancer in the rabbits was "even more malignant than those obtained in mice," he said. "The cancer spreads to practically all of the organs of the rabbit including the heart, the lungs and the liver."

He said the "first extensive statistical study on this subject" (the possible relationship of tobacco to lung cancer) showed that all but 1.3 per cent of the 605 men with cancer of the lung were cigarette smokers and 97½ per cent smoked more than one pack a day.

He said the statistical relationship was confirmed by 12 other studies in four different countries based on more than 6,000 human cases of lung cancer.

In a study published in 1933, he said cancer was produced in 44 per cent of 81 mice by painting the skin of the back three times a week for one year with tar from cigarette smoke.

State Award For Reidsville Jaycee

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The N.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce has presented its Distinguished Service Award to William R Henderson, Reidsville businessman.

Henderson, immediate past president of the state Jaycees, got the award here yesterday for his leadership in the last year.

The presentation was a highlight of the concluding session of a three-day quarterly board meeting.

Pitt Delegation Attends Public Welfare Session

Pitt County was represented Friday in an all day meeting held in Raleigh of members of county boards of public welfare and of boards of county commissioners.

Held at the invitation of the State Board of Public Welfare, the meeting considered responsibilities of county boards of public welfare, legislative objectives, and suggestions for strengthening welfare services in the year ahead. Many county superintendents of public welfare as well as board members were in attendance.

Taking major parts in the day's meeting were: Frank A. Daniels of Raleigh, chairman of the State Board of Public Welfare, who brought greetings; Wally Dunham, Winston-Salem, president of the State Association of County Commissioners, who presided during the morning session; Edwin N. Brewer, Hope Mills, member, State Board of Public Welfare, who presided during the afternoon; and Dr. Ellen Winston, commissioner of the State Board of Public Welfare.

Representing Pitt County at the meeting were J. Vance Perkins, chairman Welfare Board, and vice-chairman Board of County Commissioners; Alton Gardner representing Pitt County Board of County Commissioners; Vernon Cox and Robert Young, members of Pitt County Welfare Board; and K. T. Futrell, superintendent, Department of Public Welfare.

Perkins continued on to Chapel Hill to attend a committee meeting of the State Association of County Commissioners Friday evening and Saturday.

Crew Escapes In Helicopter Crash

COLUMBIA, N.C. (AP) — A Navy helicopter bound from Florida to its Lakehurst, N.J., base crashed in dense woods a mile north of here yesterday, without injury to its two-man crew.

Lt. Homer W. McKay Jr. and A. D. 1C. Victor Christine reported the motor stopped suddenly and the craft descended into the forest. McKay and Christine found a rowboat nearby and made their way up the Scuppernong River until picked up by Columbia fishermen J. V. Spencer and Grady Simmons.

State Highway Patrolman L. N Waters took them to the Weeksville Naval Air Facility at Elizabeth City from where they were to be returned to Lakehurst.

Window-Breaker Gets Road Term

A Negro man, William Taft, was given a six months road sentence today after being convicted of smashing windows in two Evans Street businesses last night.

Martha Hunter, Negro, and a companion of Taft's, was sentenced to 30 days for interfering with an officer.

The two were arrested last night after city police Sgt. Henry Lawson found them in front of two smashed windows at Tadlock's Insurance Agency and an empty building formerly occupied by V. A. Merritt.

Lawson said he was at Five Points about 11:40 p.m. when he heard breaking glass. He started to run in the direction of the noise and as he did heard glass break again and saw a disturbance in front of the old V. A. Merritt building.

Taft, Lawson said, was unruly and refused to give any reason for breaking the windows. The Hunter woman attempted to interfere with Lawson's questioning of Taft.

Both Negroes, Lawson said, continually "dared" him to strike them.

The two became even more unruly, Lawson continued, when a car containing several more Negroes stopped nearby.

Taft, who has a lengthy police record, was charged with drunk and disorderly in addition to damaging property.

Grease Pit Fire Brings Firemen

A grease pit fire at Brown's Gulf Station at the corner of Tenth and Evans Sts. brought firemen out around 9:30 yesterday morning.

The blaze was out when firemen arrived, however. Damage was negligible.
