British Leader Of Arab Legion Discharged By Jordan Govm't

Famed Creator Of Crack Army Dismissed To Satisfy Anti-West Bloc

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, dismissed as army commander, was escorted out of Jordan today under guard of 16 tanks. His ouster by King Hussein was a new blow to British prestige in the Middle East.

The British government, which set up Jordan's Arab Legion and has been subsidizing it, said it had assurances friendly relations would continue. But the Foreign Office in London said the "abrupt dismissal of this distinguished officer" brought deep concern to London officials.

Glubb, leader of the Arab Legion in the war against Israel in 1948, was dismissed as chief of the army general staff. Britain pays Jordan $22,400,000 annually for support of the 20,000-man Arab Legion. This is more than half the budget of the Arab kingdom.

In January Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia offered Jordan an annual grant to replace the British subsidy. The last year's grant was $10 million. The offer was to strengthen Jordan against "any Israeli aggression," but Westerners expressed belief a more primary purpose was to strengthen Jordan's rejection of bids to join the Baghdad defense alliance. Conferences to discuss the proposed grant have not been held, so far as is known.

King Hussein, Premier Samir el-Joran and other British officers to satisfy strong anti-Western elements demanding that the Arab Legion come completely under Arab control.

The dismissal ended 30 years of Middle East service for the tough, wiry little 59-year-old soldier who learned the ways of the desert camps and around the Arab world's best army from scratch. His enemies called him "The Uncrowned King of Jordan." King Glubb left by plane with his family for London today. An official announcement said his dismissal took effect yesterday.

The announcement said he would be succeeded by Maj. Gen. Radi Ounabb. To further meet the opposition demands that the army be "Arabized," Hussein also dismissed two senior British officers who had been serving with Glubb. Extreme Arab nationalists long had opposed Glubb. Opposition to him took a sudden upsurge after the British last year tried to force Jordan to join the Western-sponsored Baghdad Pact, setting off a violent reaction from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and other opponents of that alliance.

The opposition said Britain should consider the subsidy as rent for British bases in the country, or Jordan could get the money for her army from Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria.

It came to the Middle East in 1926, resigning his commission in the British army to become administrative inspector to the Iraq government. He transferred to

GOP Will Stress Congress Races

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans confident of winning with President Eisenhower focused their strategy for 1956 today on sweeping congressional candidates to victory with him.

The strategy looks a little into the future, beyond the current two-party sparring over Eisenhower's second-term bid and his health, and beyond current Republican uncertainty over a vice presidential nominee.

The GOP campaign planning will crystallize in more detailed form at a party powwow of members of the national committee, state chairmen and Republican Senate and House members, Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall says it will be called soon probably in Washington.

Such a session is bound to produce more talk about whether Vice President Nixon should again be second man on the GOP ticket. Hall forecast it will again be Eisenhower and Nixon. So did Sen. Knowland of California, a political rival of the vice president in their home state.

Announcing his own availability, Eisenhower declined to say Wednesday whether he wants Nixon as a running mate. He said he will wait to see what the GOP convention does in August. At the same time, he has often done before, he praised Nixon highly.

Still, there is some Republican grumbling that Nixon is such a controversial figure that the party might do better to drop him. Nixon was sitting tight, accepting no calls from reporters.

Blimp's Crewmen Rescued From Sea

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (AP)—Two men thrown into the sea from a partly disabled Navy blimp were rescued yesterday after three hours on a life raft. They apparently suffered no serious injuries.

Seven other Navy men remained aboard the blimp as it returned to its base at the Naval Air Facility near here and landed safely.

Lt. (j.g.) John J. Krochmal, Navy public information officer, said the blimp dipped into the ocean for about 10 seconds some 63 miles east of Kitty Hawk while flying at low altitude. It got back into the air despite a crippled power plant.

The blimp was skimming along the water, as close to the surface as possible, as part of a training maneuver when a hard gust caused it to heel over. The starboard propeller was submerged, sending a severe shock through the craft.

Taken out of the blimp into a relatively calm sea were J. A. Iversen, aviation electronics technician 3 C, Bellevue, Wash., and Donald R. Thorson, airman, of Harlingen, Tex. They were picked up by Coast Guard helicopter from Elizabeth City and placed under observation at the dispensary at Weeksville.

Krochmal said about 15 military aircraft were on the scene when the blimp's trouble developed.

The others aboard, all reported uninjured, were the pilot, Lt. Donald M. Layton, Wooster, Ohio; Lt. Wayne F. Smith, Cleveland, Ohio; Lt. Cdr. Allen G. Roberts, Birmingham, Ala.; Lt. Fred O. Ralston, Monterey, Va.; Lt. (j.g.) Charles Sapp, Concord, N.C.; Larry G. Forney, airman apprentice, Malvern, Calif.; and Edson C. McCulloch, aviation structural mechanic, Concord, Calif.

Worthington, who plead not guilty to the charges, denied all allegations in testimony yesterday afternoon. Arguments to the jury wound up at 10:15 this morning and the jury retired for deliberations. Will Propose Changes In ECC Policies On Student Admission

Administration of entrance tests by East Carolina College in the spring before the opening of college instead of in the fall, as is the present policy, and allocation of dormitory rooms on the basis of ability rather than on priority of application are among changes which will be recommended to the college administration and faculty by a Committee on Admission and Retention of Students recently appointed by President John D. Messick.

Vice President Leo W. Jenkins, committee chairman, and a group of faculty members serving with him began several weeks ago at President Messick's request a study of policies governing admission and retention of students. A preliminary report based on answers to a questionnaire submitted to faculty members was discussed at a staff

Saudi Arabia Asks U. S. To Sell Jets, More Tanks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saudi Arabia was disclosed today to have asked to buy a small number of jet planes from the United States in addition to 18 more tanks. Officials who reported this said the request has not received U. S. approval. They indicated it would get the same "most careful scrutiny" promised for all Middle East arms requests in a Feb. 18 State Department announcement listing a two-day embargo on such shipments.

The embargo was imposed amid controversy over a previous shipment of light tanks. The Saudi request for an undisclosed number of jet planes and 18 M47 Patton medium tanks, officially said, is in addition to seven million dollars worth of U. S. military goods authorized for shipment to Saudi Arabia in the past six months. This represents almost half the 16 millions in arms shipments to the Middle East for which export licenses were granted since August. Of the rest, six million went to Arab countries and five million to Israel, it was understood.

Israel's big request for 63 million in defensive weapons is still under consideration. This figure was revised upward from 50 million as a result of changes made in the arms list first submitted Nov. 16 by Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban.

House Appropriations Committee Recommends New Money

Extra Funds For War On Disease

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted a big boost in funds to fight cancer heart trouble and other diseases as it recommended $8,301,508,041 in new money to finance 24 government agencies.

The money is for use during the fiscal year starting July 1 and is $154,155,841 more than President Eisenhower had requested.

However, the increase was more than accounted for by the committee's decision to add 305 million dollars more than Eisenhower had requested for the Civil Service retirement fund.

The committee said the extra money would help keep the fund on a sound actuarial basis. It noted that the fund technically has a deficit of $13,400,000,000 because the government hasn't been regularly paying its share to supplement the six per cent contributions of federal employees.

One of the sharpest cuts $37,100,000 below the President's request, was made in funds for the Civil Defense Administration, for which the committee voted $68,100,000.

For operation of the National Health Institutes, which conduct research in medicine, the committee voted $135,525,000. This is a million more than Eisenhower requested and $7 million more than the NIH received this year.

The National Cancer Institute was allotted $34,437,000, a boost of 2 million over the President's proposal. The Mental Health Institute $23,749,000, up 2 million, the Heart Institute $25,106,000, a 3-million hike; the dental program $3,471,000, a boost of $500,000; the arthritis and metabolic diseases program $13,845,000, an increase of $500,000, and the neurology and blindness programs $14,196,000, a hike of 2 millions. For microbiology activities the committee voted $8,799,000.

In a report written by Rep. Fogarty (D-RI), the committee voiced optimism over prospects for new tranquilizing drugs for mental cases and for "solid advances" in control of high blood pressure.

The report criticized the Labor Department for what it called slow progress in developing programs to promote employment of older workers, and to train nurses. More than half of the total was voted for the Veterans Administration. The $4,720,280,860 for that agency represented a cut of $785,860 below the budget requested by Eisenhower, but included all money asked for benefit programs for veterans and some increases for rehabilitation of hospitals and facilities.

For operation of the National Health Institutes, which conduct research in medicine, the committee voted $135,525,000. This is a million more than Eisenhower requested and $7 million more than the NIH received this year.

The National Cancer Institute was allotted $34,437,000, a boost of 2 million over the President's proposal. The Mental Health Institute $23,749,000, up 2 million, the Heart Institute $25,106,000, a 3-million hike; the dental program $3,471,000, a boost of $500,000; the arthritis and metabolic diseases program $13,845,000, an increase of $500,000, and the neurology and blindness programs $14,196,000, a hike of 2 millions. For microbiology activities the committee voted $8,799,000.

In a report written by Rep. Fogarty (D-RI), the committee voiced optimism over prospects for new tranquilizing drugs for mental cases and for "solid advances" in control of high blood pressure.

The report criticized the Labor Department for what it called slow progress in developing programs to promote employment of older workers, and to train nurses. More than half of the total was voted for the Veterans Administration. The $4,720,280,860 for that agency represented a cut of $785,860 below the budget requested by Eisenhower, but included all money asked for benefit programs for veterans and some increases for rehabilitation of hospitals and facilities.

'Books and Stuff'

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
March came in cold and clear—is that like a lion or a lamb? Anyway, Spring will be here on the 26th, at 10:21 a.m., the astronomers tell us, and we for one certainly will be glad to see it coming.

Presidential Previews
What with Ike's recent announcement about his future plans, new interest in the probable candidates for his job is being fed by two recent books. . . .

"What I Think"
tells you just exactly that for Adlai Stevenson, regarded by many as Ike's most likely prospect for an opponent. Just published, it is a collection of his speeches and articles composed from 1952 to 1956, and it lets you know just how Stevenson stands on such controversial issues as Federal aid to education—which he is for, incidentally—health insurance, states' rights, business, and foreign affairs. If you want to know how he feels about these things, "What I Think" is the book for you. . . .

Also just out is "My Friend Ike,"
a personal memoir about President Eisenhower by his former mess sergeant, Marty Snyder, who has been on friendly terms with Ike since the days when he was a general. . . . It's supposed to be a highly intimate account of what sort of man he is viewed from behind his Presidential facade.

And then there is "This Is Nixon," coming out in April, about the present Vice President, who also might enter into the coming campaign, in some capacity or another.
. . . It's by James Keogh, an associate editor of Time Magazine, and is billed as a "strictly objective profile" telling just exactly where Nixon stands on every vital issue. We like to know about that, too. . . .

Library Campaign
We've been reading about the campaign of the Public Library to encourage people to get together in their family circles for a good, old-fashioned reading aloud, at definite times in their homes—
with the TV set off, no matter what. . . . The TV set off, no matter what. . . . In fact, enjoy these little reading periods in our own family group very much indeed. Favorable results of their reading aloud campaign in Brooklyn have been increased borrowing of recommended books for reading aloud purposes and enthusiastic applause from distinguished outsiders. . . . Why don't we try that here? Do you think Sheppard Memorial can compete with the TV screen, just for one half hour of reading aloud a week, maybe? Remember what Cornelia Otis Skinner said about it—that it's a "lost art and a lost delight," and that the richness of great literature can be imparted in this fashion more vividly than in any other way. . . .

We've Been Reading. . . .
The March issue of The Atlantic is full of wonderful articles and things, so special that we wanted to let you know. . . . "Ships of Fools," part of a new novel by Katherine Ann Porter, regarded by many as the best living American short story writer, leads in literary interest, with Archibald MacLeish's "Why Do We Teach Poetry?" a close second. . . . "Management in Search of Men," by David Shepard, a Director of Standard Oil of New Jersey, has some encouraging things to say about people in the Liberal Arts, and industry's need for them. . . .
Not that we're getting a commission from The Atlantic, but we've seldom seen a better issue, for us bookish folks. . . .

The Local Scene
Carolina Film Clubbers

please note! The March offering is the Marx Brothers in "Duck Soup," being shown at the usual times on Wednesday evening of this coming week, March 7, in the Library Auditorium. . . . Last week we announced that Dr. Martha Fingel's original musical, "Nothing Ventured," would be put on that same night, but the date has been changed to Tuesday, March 6, at 8 p.m. in Austin Auditorium. . . . And on Monday will be the annual banquet of the E.C.C. Chapter of the A.A.U.P., to which all interested professionals and their friends are cordially invited—speaker will be Professor Emeritus LaPrade of Duke, whom we'll be happy to have with us. . . .

Russian Hearts Are Ailing, Too

MOSCOW (U)—The Soviet Union reports 3 1/2 million persons suffering from heart disease.
This amounts to 43 per cent of all invalids in the U.S.S.R., Minister of Health Mar D. Kovrina says. She gave no figures on the incidence of cancer but said Soviet death rates from heart disease and cancer are lower than those in the majority of capitalist states.
The report said heart ailments can best be prevented by "reduction of the working day, combining rest with work, balancing diet and participation in athletic activities."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wingate, announce the engagement of her daughter, Miss Patricia Ann Nelson, of Greenville, N. C. to Robert E.
Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams also of Greenville, N. C. A late April wedding is planned.

Safety Director Will Speak Here

MAJ. Charles A. Speed, director of the safety division, State Highway Patrol, will address safety representatives and Highway Patrolmen here March 12 in preparation for the National Voluntary Safety Check Program in May.
The program is sponsored nationally and is aimed at improving the overall traffic safety record and correcting as many mechanical defects as possible in motor vehicles.
Last year 15 North Carolina cities participated in the program and one of them—New Bern—was selected as having the best program in the nation.
The March 12 meeting, to be held at Troop A patrol headquarters at 10 a. m., is expected to draw community program coordinators from 27 counties.
Greenville's coordinator is David J. Whitchard, III.
The safety check programs are scheduled for each county in the state. Motorists will be asked to have their cars checked free of charge in order to avoid any serious mechanical breakdowns which might lead to accidents.

After speaking in Greenville, Maj.
Speed will talk to similar gatherings
during the remainder of the week at the other four troop headquarters of the patrol.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

All members of the church and Sunday School are urged to be present Sunday at 9:45. There are

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR
March 2, 1926
Miss Ernestine Forbes was hostess on Wednesday evening to members of her bridge club. The home was decorated with jonquills and other spring flowers, carrying out the yellow and green color scheme.
Miss Hannah Dixon making the top score was presented an attractive apron, while Mrs. Larry Moss, Mrs.
Ed Batchelor and Miss Virginia
Suther, bride-elect, and Mrs. Robert Vaughan of Winston-Salem were remembered with attractive gifts.
During the progressions, the hostess served tea and sandwiches, stuffed dates and candies, and after the games, strawberry shortcake.

Mewborns Hosts To Bridge Club

GRIFTON—On Tuesday night
Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Mewborn were hostess at a party at their home on McRae Street with members of their contract club and invited players as guests.
Bouquets of jonquills and narcissi were used in the living room where the tables were arranged.
On arrival the guests were invited into the dining room for supper.
The table was covered with a linen cut-work cloth and held an arrangement of quince and tall blue candles in silver holders. Crystal candelabra on the buffet held lighted blue candles also. A fried chicken supper was served, followed by blueberry pie with ice cream.
During the games Mr. and Mrs.
Ozell Cobb compiled highest scores for club members and Mrs. George C. Sugg and Clifton Jackson for the visitors. Other players were Mr.
Sugg, Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs.
W. L. Bissett, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Williams and Mr. and Mrs.
M. B. Hodges.

Killed Himself At Funeral Home

PASADENA, Calif. (U)—Police said William H. Rost, 78, drove his car into the driveway of a friend's funeral parlor last night and shot himself in the temple with a .32-caliber revolver.
Officers said they found a note,
reading in part:
"Dear Franklin—
"I'm trying to make it just as easy as possible for everyone.
Consequently I'm making personal delivery to you. . . ."
(Signed) Bill Rost
"P.S. Will you see that the car and gun get back to the house."
Thanks."
Funeral director Franklin Ives said Rost had been despondent since the death of his wife a few months ago.

Shower Given For Mrs. House

GRIFTON—Mesdames Edwin
Reeves, B. C. Troutman, Paul Fisher and W. E. Rasberry entertained on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs.
Reeves on Du Pont Street at a stork shower for Mrs. Joe House.
The home throughout was decorated with early spring flowers.
Four tables were placed for bridge which was played following the dessert course. Each table held a tall white candle tied with pink and blue ribbon in a silver holder.
Ice cream in molds suggestive of the occasion and individual cakes iced in pink and blue with salted nuts were served prior to the games.
Later in the evening iced drinks were served.
Mrs. House was remembered with a variety of gifts from the assembled guests. The high score prizes went to Mrs. Tom Gower and Mrs. G. L.
Tucker and the low to Mrs. Milton
Hart. Other players were Mesdames Mark Phillips, Bill Rae, Larry Pos-sy, C. E. Stokes, Bill Daws, Ed Cas-sey, Hal Waddell, W. M. January,
Sam Nelson, J. O. Carson and James Kilner. Refreshment guests were Mrs. J. B. Haymore and Mrs.

to is on hand, add some strips of it for a garnish.

Two East Carolina Alumni Groups Meet To Observe Founders Day

Two East Carolina Alumni groups meeting this week to observe Founders Day in special programs, were addressed by Alumni Secretary James W. Butler of the college. A series of March meetings by alumni groups in various towns of the state is now being planned, Mr. Butler states.
District of Columbia alumni held Wednesday a "Leap Year Night" dinner in a Washington restaurant.
Chapter President Seth Muse, Washington press photographer, presided. Mr. Butler gave a progress report on college projects.

A program in Durham Thursday night devoted the Founders Day theme. Baxter Ridenhour of Durham, president of the college Alumni Association, and Mr. Butler discussed the series of East Carolina College radio programs now being broadcast from a number of stations in the state and played several recordings used in the series. Mrs. L.
B. Ward of Durham was in charge of arrangements.
Alumni meetings are now being arranged for March in Elizabeth City, Charlotte, Burlington, and other towns in the state. Mr. Butler states. East Carolina Alumni will hold their annual breakfast Friday, March 23, during the North Carolina Education Association convention in Asheville. The Charlotte meeting, scheduled for March 24, will draw attendance from several counties of the South Piedmont
District of the Alumni Association.

United Lutheran Mission

The sermon Sunday evening at the United Lutheran Mission will continue in the Lenten series, "Along the Way With Jesus." As one goes with Jesus toward the cross, the mounting "Jealous Opposition" cannot be overlooked. The sermon by Pastor Frank C. Perry will deal with this subject. The service will be held in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 401 East 4th St., at 7:30 p.m. The public is cordially invited to this service.
Services are being held each Sunday evening preparatory to the coming of a theological student for the summer months and an ordained mission developer in the fall.
Sometime next year the group will be formally organized as a congregation of the United Lutheran Church in America, the largest Lutheran general body in this country.
Prospects for this new Greenville church group are indeed promising,
it was reported by the acting pastor.

DANGER!

It is Dangerous to Neglect
Cough from Common Cold Croupish bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion. It goes into the bronchial system to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, sore, inflamed bronchial membranes.
Creomulsion blends beechwood cresote by special process with other time-tested medicines for coughs. It

Still 'New' Hospital Being Outgrown

How soon must Pitt Memorial Hospital be enlarged to meet the needs of the people of Pitt County?

A foolish question to ask about a "new" hospital which is only five years old and not yet paid for? The question is not as premature as it might appear at first.

This week Dr. Peter D. Ward, representative of the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals, told Pitt Memorial officials, "it is perfectly obvious the need of the community will require additional hospital accommodations in the near future."

Indeed, the assertion behooves officials and trustees

Logical Approach To Hurricane Protection

The hurricane protection plan outlined in a report to Gov. Hodges appears the logical method to approach the tremendous task of providing adequate safeguards against hurricane damage within the state.

It has long been known that North Carolina would be undertaking a great project in seeking to provide protection for its coastal areas from tropical storms. It has been known that the people of individual communities could not rely entirely upon state and federal funds to provide capital for the work which must be done. If there is to be adequate hurricane protection in North Carolina, local governments must be determined to share their portion of the expense.

The creation of special districts to plan and create preventive measures is indeed a logical approach to the problem. Each community, while it may have special needs because of its location, must correlate its efforts with those of the surrounding area if maximum protection is to be realized from the funds which will be spent. While coordination of such affairs may be possible in some instances if left solely to the individual communities involved, more unity of action can be obtained through a district which may cover one, two or several counties in a particular area.

It would certainly be easier to coordinate the efforts of several districts than it would to correlate the various efforts of the many municipalities and counties of the state that will have their individual hurricane protection programs.

There are other considerations which must not be overlooked, not the least of which is the matter of financing. Local governments will have to put some of their own money into the program, and the state will have to supply funds. With so many other things which need attention from government at the state and local government, can we afford the expenditure?

Conversely, perhaps the question should be phased, "can we afford not to make the outlay for adequate protection from hurricanes?"

Most recent estimates set the loss from 1954 and 1955 hurricanes in North Carolina at almost $319 million—some $17 million more than the total state tax levy for the fiscal year 1955-54. Certainly the state and its individual local government units can ill afford not to spend several millions of dollars to prevent such staggering losses in the future.

The protection plan which has been laid before Gov. Hodges has a great deal of merit. Now that a new official has been appointed to head a program to hold down hurricane damage in the state the program should be transformed as rapidly as possible from paper planning to something more tangible.

Fires Taking A Tragic Toll Across County

Three deaths from home fires in a month is a tragic record for Pitt County. It is a record which should make people throughout the county more cautious of their home heating devices during the remainder of the winter.

A two-year-old child, another 8 and a third 11 all perished in flames which engulfed their respective homes. The fire which claimed one of the small victims on February 1 started when an oil stove exploded. The other two youngsters lost their lives Sunday in a gasoline explosion in their home.

It is impossible to avoid all such tragic accidents. Yet with more precautions the number of such accidents can be sharply curtailed.

Often in our concern over highway accidents, drownings and other tragedies, we fail to overlook that home accidents claim more deaths annually than any other one category with the exception of highway accidents. Accident prevention of any kind must begin at home. And certainly the prevention of home accidents begins and ends in the home.

of Pitt Memorial as well as members of the Pitt Medical and Dental Society, the County Commissioners and other local officials to survey carefully the situation and report their findings to the people of the county. If additional hospital facilities will be needed in the "near future" to afford proper medical attention for the people of Pitt, plans should be made and carried out to meet those needs.

The county area served by Pitt Memorial has grown in population during the five years since the hospital opened, and it will continue to grow. The number of patients served annually by the hospital has shown a year-to-year growth since it opened. Despite the fact that the daily patient load of 81 in 1955 was considerably below the capacity of the 120 bed hospital, there were times when the hospital was filled to capacity. It is also significant that the average patient load of the hospital increased from 64 in 1950 to 81 in 1955. A comparable growth in the next five years would put the average patient load near 100.

Like many other things, the capacity of a hospital cannot be increased overnight. Pitt Memorial is only five years old, yet preliminary planning and construction of the hospital took four years prior to the time the hospital opened.

Pitt has become an outstanding medical center in this section of the state. It is essential that the county hold its standing in this important phase of community life. In order to do so, its medical facilities must not be allowed to lag behind the demands upon them.

How long will the facilities at Pitt Memorial be adequate to fill the needs of the people of the county?

County officials should immediately initiate the necessary surveys to determine the answer to that question.

'No Decision' At Washington Bout

By LYNN NISBET

SPARRING — Governor Hodges went to Washington the other day hoping to persuade the National Park Service to employ state prison labor at $4.50 a day for hurricane reclamation and prevention work.

Conrad Wirth, director of national parks, countered with the frank admission he was interested in the cooperative project because he saw a chance for a lot of manpower without cost to his agency.

There followed an hour and a half of good-natured but agile sparring. It seems State law won't permit donating prison labor for such a project, and Federal rules forbid hiring convicts. The State folks also favored construction of a new facility to prevent further encroachment of the sea, while the park people think brush mats and natural dunes provide a better answer.

The bout ended in a draw, no decision, but prospect of return engagements. Lawyers for both groups will see if they can find some way to circumvent current interpretations of executive orders and statutes. Engineers for both will meet at Hatteras next week to plan a work project and final agreement. Then another "summit" conference will be held to get the cooperative undertaking on the road.

Consensus of the whole group as it broke up was that there is definitely a will to cooperate and where there is a will there can be found a way. It will not be Hodges' way or Wirth's way, but some way to get the job done.

CONGRESSIONAL — From the conference with National Park officials the Governor and his party of top level State officials moved to the capital for a luncheon meeting with the entire congressional delegation from North Carolina—except Rep. Jonas (R) of the tenth district.

Purpose of the meeting was to get the delegation to propose and back allocation of some $20 million to North Carolina for repairing hurricane damage and protecting against future ones. He submitted estimates of $300 million damage in this state by three hurricanes, and said we have received only $3 million from regular funds and $80,000 from the President's special fund—contrasted with nearly $75 million for New England.

There was even more sparring appropriated $25 million for the Connecticut River valley and $34 million to repay the army engineers for New England work. There was even more sparring for position at this conference, composed entirely of Tarheels, than at the previous session with the National Park outfit. Surprisingly enough most of the "opposition" to the proposal came from Reps. Herbert Bonner of the first district and Graham Barden of the second.

Barden agreed to introduce a bill, if Hodges would have it prepared. When the Governor said he had no objection, in that line Rep. Harold Cooley of the fourth offered to do the job and Reps. Carl Durham of the sixth and C.D. Deane of the eighth offered to do the job. Sen. Sam Ervin and Kerr Scott when they come over to their side of the capital.

Result was unanimous endorsement of the idea, recognition that further study must be given to details and procedure, and general belief that the burden of getting the legislation through will fall on State officials in North Carolina rather than congressmen in Washington.

EQUALITY — What many North Carolinians cannot understand is why the Connecticut and Long Beach California got River Valley got $25 million and Long Beach California got $34 million in special appropriations, in addition to moneys from regular funds, while this State gets nothing. And why in the permanent long range plan for harbors bill North Carolina gets only 27,100 miles of coast line.

The question was raised about North Carolina "matching" federal funds for disaster relief. Governor Hodges said he had never heard of that kind of fund-matching but he asked no special privilege. He doesn't know where the money will come from, but he tentatively promised to match funds from the same basic California, Connecticut and other states match them for similar purposes.

Shifty Footwork Is Involved

by Alvin Taylor

I can't dance worth a doggone. There's no need of trying to fool anybody. When I get on the dance floor my no. 12's just don't move the way they are supposed to. Of course a person can go all through life without ever becoming a good dancer and probably suffer no serious effects. But, believe me, it takes some tall juggling some time to slip gracefully out of situations which ordinarily call for dancing.

For instance, when I go out on a date I always leave any nickels I might possess at home. You can see what a brilliant idea that is by the following description of a typical date:

"Girl and I enter restaurant, juke joint or some similar establishment after an evening at the movie, basketball game or other entertainment."

"Oh," she bubbles, "There's an automatic coin record machine."

"Not a juke box. She's a high class girl."

"Where?" I ask innocently. "There," she comes back, pointing to the brilliantly lighted device dead ahead.

"Oh, I say. Brief pause. (Yawn.) Well its late. Let's go home."

"Wait," she fairly screams as she drags me toward the infernal machine. "Let's play something."

Then's when my careful preparations come in handy. "Sorry," I reply with a smirk, "Don't have a nickel."

Her big blue eyes (or green, or brown, or watery gray) widen. "Why," she suggests, "the cashier will give you change."

"Quit suggesting," I growl. "It's 9:30. Let's go home."

"Cheap skate," she mutters under her breath. "Any way that's a high class girl. Anyway that proves my point. If you're not a good dancer, don't let it spoil your fun. Just make adequate preparations."

applied for and received the post of night office boy for the Associated Press, then as now the world's largest news gathering organization, for a salary of $4.50 a week. The day office boys got $3.50.

It was a big sacrifice for Johnny. In his heart he really wanted to be a jockey. He was built for it in slimmness of body and a whip-like agility of mind.

Instead he became a typewriter jockey, one of the fastest of his day.

For 40 years he was the news librarian of the Associated Press, filing on cards the history of a generation of news as it was made from day to day.

He also filed in his heart, and when you asked him for it—well, it was there. Johnny was long on loyalty. He was strictly an organization man. He didn't get to travel much himself—there was a family to be raised—but he traveled and suffered in spirit with scores of foreign correspondents.

After nine endless, restless weeks, Johnny heard of a part-time stenographic job in a Wall Street law firm, applied for it and got it.

He found age no handicap in adjusting to a new job technique. He is buoyant again, happy in new loyalties. The name of the firm that gave him this break—Johnny says if I mention it please make him a partner—is Flood, Conway, Walsh, Stahl—and Johnny Crooks.

Johnny, chirpy as a cricket now, says increased as a curse to a long-time working man. He advocates a new start.

"It's a mistake for an employer to look at a man's gray hair and refuse him a job," he said. "Gray matter goes with gray hair—and it's always worth hiring."

Notebook On Life

Bounced Out Of Retirement

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are people who do want to do it in this world—whatever there's to be done—and there are those who don't care.

John R. Crooks always did what was to be done. He always smiled, but he also held behind his smile the fierce pride of true craftsmen have in a job they love.

Last summer, after 52 years in the same old salt mine, Johnny Crooks was put out to pasture on a well-earned pension. But, like many another retired man, he became desperately unhappy.

He cured himself by going out and taking a job in a new field. "The best remedy for retirement blues is work," says Johnny today.

Any man wondering how to whip the "retirement blues" might be interested in Johnny's story. Here it is:

Johnny, a bandy-legged boy of 14, solemn in the dignity of knee britches and bowler hat,

ent. His closest buddy was the late Jim Mills, dean of war reporters in his time, whom Gandhi once said he expected would be waiting for him at the gates of Heaven. They both have reached the gates, since then, but Jim hasn't found a way to get the story through.

When Johnny Crooks, this skinny reservoir of news history, went to pasture last summer there was a big gap left in the office where he had worked for so long. It was a spiritual thing.

Johnny wasn't happy either. He cherished the inscribed gold watch—it was what he wanted—and other rare and precious gifts for more than half a century of service. He had the pension. He also was free now every day to watch the morning workouts at race-tracks where, as a boy, he had dreamed of riding.

But he missed the daily bugle of duty, the active feeling of being long.

After nine endless, restless weeks, Johnny heard of a part-time stenographic job in a Wall Street law firm, applied for it and got it.

He found age no handicap in adjusting to a new job technique. He is buoyant again, happy in new loyalties. The name of the firm that gave him this break—Johnny says if I mention it please make him a partner—is Flood, Conway, Walsh, Stahl—and Johnny Crooks.

Johnny, chirpy as a cricket now, says increased as a curse to a long-time working man. He advocates a new start.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

THOSE IMPORTANT YEARS — Some time ago this column dealt with the necessity of separating children. One of the readers wrote a letter which may reflect feeling that others have regarding this matter.

Said the correspondent: "Love and kindness always predominated our home when I was a child. We were poor—I mean so far as money went, but we had so much love and laughter. There were ten of us and we were taught to play some musical instrument as soon as we were old enough. Religion was given a prominent place in our home. We left for school every day with a song in our hearts. I feel so very sorry for many teen-agers today.

Parents frequently seem to have very little idea of the influence that their moral habits have on children. They should ponder these things. A child's life is largely set by the time he reaches his eighteenth year. We can always change, even to the last day of life, but we seldom do. As we are in childhood, so we tend to remain through the whole of life. Formative years are important.

They seem so forlorn. They are really looking for something they do not have — security and a happy home life. We had plenty of good times in our home, with no liquor ever required. It seems to me that many of the poor youngsters today are in a dense fog all the time."

Truman No Longer Big Political Factor

By RAY TERRY

WASHINGTON—Harry S. Truman's disappearance from the political scene is virtually assured as a result of the enmities and bickerings which serial and book publication of his bitter memoirs has generated. Only the nomination of his favorite candidate, Governor Averell Harriman of New York, will save Truman politically.

Truman was revealing no secret election strategy, an advisor of Truman's says. "Averell E. Stevenson, in his choice of a 1952 national chairman and headquarters, seemed to be trying to 'disassociate' himself from Truman Administration."

Nobody in the world has the right to make us take a dose of medicine—I won't say poison—every time we take a drink of Missouri's water. We are helping many thousands of people in a non-Missouri way. We are especially in the South, they were voting against us."

Sincerely yours, Edward Harris

Truman for Dwight D. Eisenhower. Stevenson's frank conferences with national and regional leaders, in which they reviewed 1952 mistakes in order to avoid repetition for the Senator's television petition next November, must have convinced him of that fact.

SCORN HELP FROM TRUMAN — Senator Estes Kefauver says that Truman is not placing so many roles in his path as he did in the Tennessee.

Truman has never forgiven Kefauver for the Senator's televised "crime investigation," which spat out mud on many Truman appointees and supporters.

Truman will not be a reversed order statesman, an advisor of Sen. a welcome White House guest, if Stevenson or Kefauver land there.

DARK HORSE SYMINGTON — Senator Stuart Symington of

Missouri, whose dark horse chances have been brightened by his selection to head the inquiry into alleged inadequacies in the ballistics and serial development program, has no reason to love Truman.

Truman opposed him openly and enthusiastically in the "national primary" which saw Symington's entry into politics, preferring to throw his influence behind a typical "organization" candidate. The former President boiled when pro-Symington voters repudiated him in his own state.

The Rayburn-Johnson leadership philosophy on two major issues—idle lands and natural gas management. Truman opposed return of the offshore petroleum possessions to the states, most of which voted for him in 1952, and he vetoed the Rizeley Bill relieving natural gas in those same areas of Federal regulation and control.

Citizenship Contests On Horizon

By ELMER ROESSNER

The National Association of Food Chains is conducting a good citizenship contest among chain-store managers. Some 1,500 winners in local contests will be named early next month and 12 national winners will be named at the Association's convention in October.

Judging is based on a questionnaire, and it is this questionnaire that makes the contest significant beyond the food field. Here are the questions, somewhat abbreviated:

1. Are you an active member of any community group, organization or club?
2. Within the past two years have you held office or headed an active committee in such an organization?
3. Did you make any personal monetary contributions during the last calendar year to any welfare organization?
4. Do you take an active part in business or professional organizations?
5. Do you encourage associates and members of your family to take part in community activities?
6. During the past year have you talked to or written a letter of information, approval or protest to your representative in Federal or state government?
7. Within the past year have you written a letter or in any other way tried to influence the policy or decisions of an organization?
8. Have you devoted some of your time beyond attendance at regular services to religious activities?
9. Have you devoted any time to any committees or groups working for the youth of your community?
10. Have you or any member of your family done anything in the past two years to encourage others to vote?
11. State how often you have voted in elections.
12. Do you attend meetings of your local city council, school board or similar governmental bodies?
13. Are you acquainted with the specific policies and programs of the schools in your community?

KNOW YOUR WHO'S WHO?

14. Can you list the major issues currently before the local governing body in which your store is located?
15. Have you or any member of your family within the past three years worked in any local welfare campaigns?
16. Do you know the names of principal governmental officials in your community?
17. Do you keep informed on local, state, national and world affairs?
18. What type of community problems have you actively worked upon with other people?

Most of the questions also call for details to substantiate the answers. The N.A.F.C. does not expect any perfect replies. Chain managers usually put in such long hours that their other time is limited.

The questions are worth this space because every businessman may want to see how many he can answer satisfactorily.

There are prizes for good answers. The man who can answer affirmatively has been advertising his business and making friends who may become boosters and profitable customers.

And the grand prize is the inner satisfaction of being a good citizen and participating in the life of the community.

COALS TO NEWCASTLE? — NOPE! CHEESE TO EDAM — market report on the Dutch cheese market. The N.A.F.C. Department of Agriculture stated: "Although 1955 was generally a favorable year for the cheese trade, current stocks are high. Unless additional markets are obtained, the 1956 season will be considerably less favorable. The Dutch are looking to Russia for increased cheese trade during 1956."

The next day the Department announced that it had sold 31,422 pounds of government-owned cheese for export to Holland.

It's all very simple. The Dutch have so much cheese they don't know what to do with it, so we are selling them more. Is that clear?

Jesus Faces the City

Arriving in Bethany on the way to Jerusalem, Jesus sent two disciples to obtain a colt.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

When Jesus came near to Jerusalem and got His first glimpse of the city, He wept, knowing that in time His beloved city would be totally destroyed by its enemies.

Then Jesus went into the temple and began to cast out the merchants who sold various things to the worshippers, and also those who bought them.

Christ's enemies sent spies to ask Him questions to trick Him. One asked if it was lawful to pay tribute to Caesar.

MEMORY VERSE—Luke 19:42.

Jesus Faces the City

CHRIST WEEPS OVER JERUSALEM WHICH WOULD NOT HEED HIS MESSAGE

Scripture—Luke 19:28—20:47.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. WE ARE now studying the events of Sunday, the beginning of Holy Week that ended in Jesus' death on the cross.

Jesus and His disciples were on their way to Jerusalem. As they neared Bethany, Jesus told two of His disciples to go into the village where they would find a colt tied.

When the disciples returned with the colt, His companions put their garments upon the beast and set Jesus on him.

The Pharisees who had joined the welcoming crowd, told Christ He should rebuke the disciples, but He answered that if He silenced them, the very stones would take up the cry.

When Jesus first glimpsed his beloved city, He wept because He knew that in a matter of years it would lay in ruins from the action of its enemies.

"If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes."

Then Jesus described the horrors to come when the beautiful city of Jerusalem would be destroyed by enemies.

Going into the temple, Christ found it like a bazaar—bargaining, selling, buying going on in the house of the Lord.

Jesus continued to preach daily in the temple, and the chief priests, scribes and principal men sought to destroy Him.

The chief priests, scribes and elders came to Jesus next day, asking Him by what authority He based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

did what He did. He, in turn, asked them a question: "The hapening of John, was it from heaven, or of men?"

They dared not answer that because the people looked upon John the Baptist as a prophet, so they answered that they could not tell.

To show how wicked and vindictive these men of the church were, they set spies, posing as good men, to question Him.

Jesus, of course, saw through their hypocrisy and asked for a coin. "Whose image and superscription hath it?" He asked.

They answered, "Caesars." "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things which are God's," Christ answered, which ended that matter.

Now the Sadducees, who did not believe in resurrection, came to Him asking a very ridiculous question. According to the ancient Hebrew law when a Hebrew died leaving no children, his brother should marry his widow and raise children.

Jesus pointed out that in heaven there would be no marriage relationship. We will have to omit the last verses assigned to our lesson, as we have no more space.

Times have not changed much since Christ's day. We still have insincere people, scoffers of those who are trying to better the world. We can only strive to follow in Christ's footsteps as well as we can, and train the children under our care to do likewise for the Saviour who suffered and died for us.

Sports Reflector

By Bruce Phillips

As if it wasn't powerful enough already, the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) is pushing its weight around among the small colleges.

The NCAA wouldn't give a tumble to small colleges in all their years as members and now that the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) has grown strong the NCAA wants to cut in.

The NAIA, which concerns itself with the athletic affairs of 465 small colleges, including members of the North State Conference, is getting ready to hold its 18th annual tournament at Kansas City. Already the district playoffs have begun in some sections.

The NCAA has decided to conduct its own small college basketball tourney and the NAIA has yelled protest. The NAIA can't match the money power of the bigger association but it is trying to enlighten its schools on NCAA plans contained in a brochure sent to member institutions.

The brochure contains clippings and excerpts of letters from sports writers and college officials criticizing the NCAA decision.

NAIA's future may be at stake. The association was organized 18 years ago "out of protest of the failure of any other organization" to give small colleges a voice in policy making.

Now the NCAA, which has an overlapping membership with the NAIA, plans to step in and pressure the small college organization, at what it says is the request of its small college members. The NCAA plans its first tournament in 1957.

The NAIA is enjoying its most elaborate success, but it wouldn't take the NCAA long to whittle it down. The NAIA has no desire to enter into open conflict with any other organization but has indicated it would fight to keep its members.

Ga. Writer Praises Work of Kittrell

Johnny Hendrix of one of the Atlanta papers recently wrote a complimentary piece on Bill Kittrell, former Greenville coach and a native of Winterville.

Hendrix says Kittrell, who now coaches at Hephzibah, is sincere and has a way with kids who come under his guidance, but is not overly modest.

"You could say that Bill Kittrell is an impressionable person and not have the slightest fear of contradiction. You couldn't call him an introvert by any means and extreme modesty is another trait which isn't particularly noticeable with the 30-year-old North Carolinian who coaches at Hephzibah."

Kittrell, Hendrix went on to point out, accepted his present head basketball job last fall, but two days before he started to work, he found that head football coach had decided not to come so he had the football job, too.

"Right now, he's pretty happy where he is. There has been talk that he might be the next basketball coach at Richmond Academy, but like a lot of other things pertaining to the school during the past few weeks, that's just talk right now."

Kittrell was voted the "coach of the year" for the Central Savannah River Area at the end of the tournament recently. He's aiming at the district B tournament and hopes that will be another winner. The state tournament would be next.

Although he has never seen Georgia Teachers College play a basketball game, he's very much interested in getting one of his Greenville boys at GTC, the article said.

Kittrell was quoted: "Coaching like Riddick gave me one of the greatest thrills I've ever had in coaching. He's a twin who stands six-feet and can do everything. He's a great outside man and one of the best drivers I've ever seen. He's a great ball handler—reminds me of Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia. He would clown a lot in practice, but he never did in a game unless I told him to. I want him down here where I can see him play."

ACC Semis Find UNC-Wake, Duke-NCS Fighting It Out

By REESE HART
RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina and Wake Forest, two bitter rivals whose last game ended in a slugfest which resulted in suspensions and fines, meet in a rematch tonight and top-seeded North Carolina State faces Duke in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament.

The "Big Four" teams of North Carolina, ranked in the top 20 nationally, came through as expected yesterday, but tournament-hardened State and North Carolina had narrow squeaks.

Eighth-ranked North Carolina edged Virginia, 81-77. State had to come from behind to nip Clemson, 88-84. Wake Forest rallied to rout South Carolina, 79-64, and Duke shelved Maryland, 94-69.

Fifth-ranked State and Duke meet tonight at 7:30, with Wake Forest and North Carolina squaring off at 9. The Tar Heels took a 77-73 thriller from Wake Forest Feb. 15 in a Chapel Hill game which ended in a brawl with hundreds of spectators pouring on to the court. The two schools were fined $500 each by ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver, who also suspended the eligibility of two players until March 5. North Carolina's Bob Cunningham and Bill Tucker of Wake Forest.

State built up a 17-point edge in the first half against Clemson last night and seeded headed for an easy win, but the Tigers came back with a determined second-half rally that saw them go ahead 68-66 with 11 minutes remaining.

Clemson built this up to 74-70 but couldn't hold it in the face of the hometown Wolfpack.

State's star center, Ronnie Shavlik, paying with a special brace on his fractured left wrist, saw some action but was at a disadvantage. State Coach Everett Case said he was "not too discouraged" over Shavlik's showing. "It's just one of those things of playing with one hand and being limited by

Reese Feels Good Again At Start Of Fourteenth Year

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press
Harold (Pee Wee) Reese, who got his nickname because he liked to shoot marbles as a youngster, still feels "like a kid" as he prepares to start his 14th season with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Maybe an injury will stop me," he said today. "But a 21-year-old can get hurt too. And barring something of that nature, there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about my ability to have another good year."

Pee Wee batted .282 in 145 games in 1955 and there are some who will argue that he—not Roy Campanella or Duke Snider—was the most important guy for the Dodgers, who swept to their first world championship.

"I'm most content this year than I was last spring," said the 36-year-old shortstop. "I had some serious doubts a year ago. My legs were giving me trouble and one day I told my wife that it looked like the beginning of the end."

He said that when the team reached the North, he looked up Leslie MacMitchell, the retired track star who had been the running coach in the Dodger camp for several years. MacMitchell told him that running over a hard indoor track was the worst possible thing for a ballplayer to do.

"And I had done just that," Reese admitted. "This winter I did no running at all. Just some bicycling to keep my legs in shape. Stan Musial, another guy who knows his way around the National League, was bubbling with advice. He said to go to the "Louis Cardinals" camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I feel better this spring than at any training time I can remember," said the six-time batting champ.

The managers made most of the news in the other camps yesterday.

New York Giants' skipper Bill Rigney named Foster Costelan as his No. 1 choice for the regular second base spot. Pittsburgh pilot Bobby Bragan slapped a midnight curfew on the Pirates, declaring, "Let's do things my way, so I can take the blame."

Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbets reported that 18 of the 37 players on the Redlegs' roster are pitchers.

The lineup ranks were reduced when Gene Woodling of Cleveland, Bob Miller of the Phillies, Chuck Diering of Baltimore and Ford and Irv Noren of the Yankees and Jack Dittmer of Milwaukee came to terms.

last night by Dr. Charles E. Jordan of Duke University, president of the conference.

Dr. Jordan said the conference's executive committee agreed to uphold Weaver's fine, unknown to the public, when it met Wednesday night. However, the fine was not announced to the public until representatives of the conference were notified first, he explained.

Weaver suspended Cunningham basketball eligibility of the Tar Heels' star sophomore, Bob Cunningham, and of Wake Forest reserve Bill Tucker until March 5. North Carolina authorities had appealed Cunningham's suspension. By its suspension action, the executive committee kept Cunningham and Tucker from playing in the conference tournament, which determines the conference champion and representative in the NCAA playoffs. However, the NCAA playoffs begin after March 5.

In the game at Chapel Hill, North Carolina won, 77-73, in a thriller. A slugfest was touched off as the game ended with spectators pouring onto the court.

Weaver suspended Cunningham and Tucker because he held them mainly responsible for touching it off.

ECC Baseball Drills Start

By BRUCE PHILLIPS
About 80 candidates answered Coach Jim Mallory's call for opening baseball practice at East Carolina college yesterday.

Mallory had three weeks to work his over-sized squad into shape for defense of its 1955 North State Conference championship.

The general baseball boss will start whittling the squad down to working size next week but right now wants to give every candidate a chance to show himself.

Only eight out of the 80-some are lettermen from last year's team which posted a remarkable 20-6 season — the best in the school's history.

The veterans include pitchers Billy Loving, Charles Russell, Mack Cherry, infielders Bucky Reep, Jerry Stewart and Nick Smothers, and outfielders Ray Pennington and Gene Turner.

Mallory lost four outstanding players in the Cline brothers, Bill and Gailther, Cecil Heath and Tommy Priddy, who were All-Conference selections and Heath and Pruett made All-State.

But Mallory believes his club will be even better this season. "We should have better pitching with several new boys in camp and have better over-all balance," he said.

"And I believe we'll have a more powerful ball club. We have some newcomers boys who can wallop that ball."

Mallory's new pitching talent includes Tommy Harkey, who, according to the coach, is one of the finest college pitchers in the game. Ben Baker of Wendell, Rob Lilley of Tarboro, A. J. Rose, a returning service-man, Bob Miller of Bessemer and Mike McFerguson of Wilmington.

"Harkey pitched several no-hitters at Campbell College before he went into the service. He is extremely fast and has good control," Mallory pointed out.

"Besides Harkey, I have two other left-handers who should be great. Baker is a good curveball pitcher with precision control and Bob Miller is a big boy with a lot of stuff. Lilley has outstanding speed. He set the Coastal Plain League on fire last summer. He struck out 20 some in a game against Greenville. McFerguson is a curveballer

Bucky Reep and Tommy Harkey get ready to hit the diamond for early baseball drills at East Carolina. Reep is the regular third baseman. Harkey is a brilliant pitcher.

who is a fine prospect. He pitched Wilmington high school to the state AAA finals last year.

Mallory figures his infield is about set. Smothers is back at first. Reep at third and Stewart at shortstop. Only second base is open, and Sandy Sanderson is a stronger candidate there.

Outfield hopefuls

The outfield is not so, however. Only Ray Pennington and Gene Turner return to boost it. Turner is the power man in the outfield. Last year he hit seven home runs to lead the team.

Mallory thinks Bobby Clark and Charlie Cherry will help his outfield and his club considerably. "Clark played with Greenville in a semi-pro league last year and looked real good. Cherry, of Washington, hit around .350 for Williamston in the same league."

With such high-grade talent, Mallory feels confident that his club will make a good showing in a stronger North State conference this spring. "But I doubt if we have another 20-6 season," he said.

Wacky Southern Conference Tourney Moves Into Semis

By ED YOUNG
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The wacky Southern Conference Basketball Tournament in memory moved into the semifinal round here today without a team that anyone would risk calling the favorite.

After the calamities and near calamities that befell the seeded teams in yesterday's openers, nothing at all would constitute a surprise from here on out.

About the only predictable thing that occurred in the first round was the All-America performance of the conference's two-time All-America flash, Darrell Floyd of Furman. Popping picture - book jump shots into the net for a record-setting total of 43 points, Floyd led the Paladins to a smashing 84-70 conquest of third-seeded Virginia Tech in the final game of the opening day program.

But Furman's victory—the Paladins had been seeded sixth—was only the fitting climax to a day in which form took a tremendous lacing. Washington and Lee's Generals, who barely won enough regular season games to qualify for the eight-team tournament and were seeded No. 8, outshot, outsteaded and outdid top-seeded George Washington, 63-60 in the most no-hype shocker.

Davidson's supposed weaklings gave second-seeded West Virginia the fight of its life before eventually yielding to the Mountaineers 59-53.

Richmond pushed around William and Mary 79-62 in the other first-round game, a contest that was supposed to be a hair-raiser but quickly turned into a rout before 10 minutes had passed in the first half.

Tonight's semifinals card finds Richmond facing Washington and Lee at 7:30 and West Virginia tangling with Furman at 9:30. The winners collide Saturday at 8 p.m. for the championship.

Honeybees Take Recreation Title

Forward Kay Kennedy sank four consecutive free throws in the final three minutes of the City Recreation League Tournament at the Training School gymnasium yesterday to give the Honeybees a 13-11 triumph over the Viceroyes and the championship.

In a battle that was close and hard-fought throughout, both teams played a tight defensive game. Alvane Bass and Belinda James did well in holding Viceroy shooting ace Nancy Smith to nine points, and the excellent guarding of Ann Rouse managed to contain Kay Kennedy to a total of 10 markers. It was Kennedy's marksmanship, however, that cinched the title for the undefeated Honeybees.

The Honeybees, on their march for the City crown, met and defeated the Girl Scouts in their opening match, then dropped the Viceroyes twice in succession.

Since the tournament was a double-elimination affair, the first Viceroy loss did not drop them entirely from the running. They bounced back with a 15-11 victory over the Hornets, as Nancy Smith paced the scoring with 10 points.

The Honeybees, from West Greenville school, were the favored sextet and lived up to their rating. The winning squad consisted of Kay Kennedy, Alice Cannon and Belinda James (forwards); Linda Humming, Alvane Bass, Janie Gardner and Kathryn Winchester (guards).

Sports Reflector By Bruce Phillips Reflector Sports Editor

As if it wasn't powerful enough already, the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) is pushing its weight around among the small colleges.

The NCAA wouldn't give a tumble to small colleges in all their years as members and now that the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) has grown strong the NCAA wants to cut in.

The NAIA, which concerns itself with the athletic affairs of 465 small colleges, including members of the North State Conference, is getting ready to hold its 18th annual tournament at Kansas City.

The NAIA can't match the money power of the bigger association but it is trying to enlighten its schools on NCAA plans contained in a brochure sent to member institutions.

The brochure contains clippings and excerpts of letters from sports writers and college officials criticizing the NCAA decision.

NAIA's future may be at stake. The association was organized 18 years ago "out of protest of the failure of any other organization" to give small colleges a voice in policy making.

Now the NCAA, which has an overlapping membership with the NAIA, plans to step in and pressure the small college organization, at what it says is the request of its small college members.

The NAIA is enjoying its most elaborate success, but it wouldn't take the NCAA long to whittle it down. The NAIA has no desire to enter into open conflict with any other organization but has indicated it would fight to keep its members.

Johnny Hendrix of one of the Atlantic papers recently wrote a complimentary piece on Bill Kittrell, former Greenville coach and a native of Winterville.

Hendrix says Kittrell, who now coaches at Hephzibah, is sincere and has a way with kids who come under his guidance, but is not overly-modest.

"You could say that Bill Kittrell is an impressive person and not have the slightest fear of contradiction. You couldn't call him an introvert by any means and extreme modesty is another trait which isn't particularly noticeable with the 30-year-old North Carolinian who coaches at Hephzibah."

Kittrell, Hendrix went on to point out, accepted his present head basketball job last fall, but two days before he started to work, he found that head football coach had decided not to come so he had the football job, too.

"Right now, he's pretty happy where he is. There has been talk that he might be the next basketball coach at Richmond Academy, but like a lot of other things pertaining to the school during the past few weeks, that's just talk right now."

Kittrell was voted the "coach of the year" for the Central Savannah River Area at the end of the tournament recently. He's aiming at the district B tournament and hopes that will be another winner. The state tournament would be next.

Although he has never seen Georgia Teachers College play a basketball game, he's very much interested in getting one of his Greenville boys at GTC, the article said.

Kittrell was quoted: "Coaching like Riddick gave me one of the greatest thrills I've ever had in coaching. He's a twin who stands six-feet and can do everything. He's a great outside man and one of the best drivers I've ever seen. He's a great ball handler—reminds me of Hot Rod Hundley of West Virginia. He would clown a lot in practice, but he never did in a game unless I told him to. I want him down here where I can go see him play."

Fight Costs UNC Deacs $500 Each

RALEIGH (AP)—Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Jim Weaver has fined the University of North Carolina and Wake Forest College $500 each for the slugfest which followed their basketball game at Chapel Hill, Feb. 15.

Reese Feels Good Again At Start Of Fourteenth Year

By BEN OLAN The Associated Press Harold (Fee Wee) Reese who got his nickname because he liked to shoot marbles as a youngster, "like a kid" as he prepares to start his 14th season with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Maybe an injury will stop me," he said today. "But a 21-year-old can get hurt. And barring something of that nature, there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about my ability to have another good year."

Fee Wee batted 282 in 145 games in 1955 and there are some who will argue that he—not Roy Campanella or Duke Snider—was the most important guy for the Dodgers, who swept to their first world championship.

"I'm more confident this year than I was last year," said the 36-year-old shortstop. "I had some serious doubts a year ago. My legs were giving me trouble and one day I told my wife that it looked like the beginning of the end."

He said that when the team reached the North, he looked up Leslie MacMitchell, the retired track star who had been the running coach in the Dodger camp for several years. MacMitchell told him that running over a hard indoor track was the worst possible thing for a ballplayer to do.

Reese admitted, "This winter I did no running at all. Just some bicycling to keep my legs in trim."

Meanwhile, Stan Musial, another guy who knows his way around the National League, was bubbling over with enthusiasm at the St. Louis Cardinals' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I feel better this spring than any training time I can remember," said the six-time batting champ.

The managers made most of the news in the other camps yesterday. New York Giants' skipper Bill Rigney named Foster Castleman as his No. 1 choice for the regular season.

Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbets reported that 18 of the 37 players on the Redlegs' roster are in the holdout ranks were reduced when Gene Woodling of Cleveland, Bob Miller of the Phillies, Chick Diering of Baltimore, Whitey Ford and Irv Noren of the Yankees and Jack Dittmer of Milwaukee came to terms.

last night by Dr. Charles E. Jordan of Duke University, president of the conference.

Dr. Jordan said the conference's executive committee agreed to uphold Weaver's fine, unknown to the public, when it met Wednesday night. However, the fine was not announced to the public until representatives of the schools concerned were notified first, he explained.

Weaver suspended Cunningham basketball eligibility of the Tar Heels' star sophomore, Bob Cunningham, and of Wake Forest reserve Bill Tucker until March 5.

North Carolina authorities had appealed Cunningham's suspension. By its suspension action, the executive committee kept Cunningham and Tucker from playing in the conference tournament, which determines the conference champion and representative in the NCAA playoffs.

However, the NCAA playoffs begin after March 5. In the game at Chapel Hill, North Carolina won, 77-73, in a thriller. A slugfest was touched off as the game ended with spectators pouring out the court.

Weaver suspended Cunningham and Tucker because he held them mainly responsible for touching it off.

ECC Baseball Drills Start

By BRUCE PHILLIPS

About 80 candidates answered Coach Jim Mallory's call for opening baseball practice at East Carolina College yesterday.

Mallory had three weeks to work his over-sized squad into shape for defense of its 1955 North State Conference championship.

The general baseball boss will start whittling the squad down to working size next week but right now wants to give every candidate a chance to show himself.

Only eight out of the 80-some are lettermen from last year's team which posted a remarkable 20-6 season — the best in the school's history.

The veterans include pitchers Billy Loving, Charles Russell, Mack Cherry, infielders Bucky Reep, Jerry Stewart and Nick Smothers, and outfielders Ray Pennington and Gene Turner.

Mallory lost four outstanding players in the Cline brothers, Bill and Gaither, Heath and Tommy Pruett. All were All-Conference selections and Heath and Pruett made All-State.

But Mallory believes his club will be even better this season. "We should have better pitching with several new boys in camp and have better over-all balance," he said. "And I believe we'll have a more powerful ball club. We have some newcomers boys who can wallop that ball."

Mallory's new pitching talent includes Tommy Harkey, who, according to the coach, is one of the finest college pitchers in the game. Ben Wiley has outstanding speed. He set the Coastal Plain League on fire last summer. He struck out 20 some batters in a game against Greenville. McFerguson is a curveballer who is a fine prospect. He pitched Wilmington high school to the state AAA finals last year.

ACC Semis Find UNC-Wake, Duke-NCS Fighting It Out

By REESE HART

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina and Wake Forest, two bitter rivals whose last game ended in a slugfest which resulted in suspensions and fines, meet in a rematch tonight and top-seeded North Carolina State faces Duke in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament.

The "Big Four" teams of North Carolina, ranked in the top 20 nationally, came through as expected yesterday, but tournament-hardened State and North Carolina had narrow squeaks.

Eighth-ranked North Carolina edged Virginia, 81-77. State had to come from behind to top Clemson, 88-84. Wake Forest rallied to rout South Carolina, 78-64, and Duke shelved Maryland, 94-69.

Fifth-ranked State and Duke meet tonight at 7:30, with Wake Forest and North Carolina squaring off at 9. The Tar Heels took a 77-73 thriller from Wake Forest Feb. 15 in a Chapel Hill game which ended in a brawl with hundreds of spectators pouring on to the court. The two schools were fined $500 each by ACC Commissioner Jim Weaver, who also suspended the eligibility of two players until March 5.

North Carolina's Bob Cunningham and Bill Tucker of Wake Forest.

State built up a 17-point edge in the first half against Clemson last night and seeded headed for an easy win, but the Tigers came back with a determined second-half rally that saw them go ahead 68-66 with 11 minutes remaining.

Clemson built this up to 74-70 but couldn't hold it in the face of the hometown Wolfpack.

State's star center, Ronnie Shavlik, playing with a special brace on his fractured left wrist, saw some action but was at a disadvantage. State Coach Everett Case said he was "not too discouraged" over Shavlik's showing.

"It's just one of those things of playing with one hand and being limited by what you can do with the other," he commented.

Duke Coach Hal Bradley, elated over the way his team ripped into Maryland in what was expected to be the closest game of the opening round, said, "We're ready" for State. He told newsmen that with Shavlik out of action the State team may get fired up and take up the slack caused by his absence.

Duke split with State in two regular season games. Bradley and Maryland Coach Bub Milikan agreed that Maryland was off form.

Case yelled so much during his game that he had to whisper to newsmen in the dressing room. He said, "We played good ball during the first half. There's a mental hazard to playing teams that you've beaten before." The Wolfpack walloped Clemson twice during the regular season 100-83 and 105-88.

About 18 1/2 million Americans hold fishing licenses and 14 million hold hunting licenses.

by Charles Bisette

Ever been disappointed—maybe even a little embarrassed—because your flash bulbs didn't fire due to weak batteries? If so, we have the answer for you. It's a special high-voltage flashbulb battery coupled with a condenser—yet goes in the same space that ordinary flash batteries take. With this battery-condenser (B-C) combination, it doesn't seem to matter how weak your battery gets—you always get the picture. This is because the condenser can do two things. It can be charged to full voltage from a battery too weak to flash a flashbulb dependably. Then, it can let that whole voltage go at once—something a weak battery can't do. Result: dependable flash shots every time. If you already have a flashholder, you can convert it to B-C in most cases for as little as $2.95. Or, if you're in the market for a flashholder, B-C can be had in all the new ones, including Kodak's newest, the Kodalite Super-M. It uses the small, inexpensive M-2 bulbs as well as other types. So small it fits into a coat pocket or handbag. And it fits about every camera there is. Come in and let's talk about flash. It's great!

Herter Thinks Nixon Can Get It

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Christian A. Herter (R) says if President Eisenhower wants Nixon again as a running mate "I think he certainly will be nominated."

Herter also told a news conference last night he is "certainly not" going to enter any contest for nomination for Vice President.

"There isn't going to be any contest," he added. "I haven't the vaguest notion how you could have any contest, the convention selects the nominee for Vice President."

Herter was mentioned as a possible presidential candidate by Eisenhower's decision against running. He now is being mentioned in some quarters as a likely choice for the GOP vice presidential nomination.

Stevenson Says Pledges Unkept

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says the Republican administration has failed to keep promises it made about changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

The charge came last night as the Democratic presidential aspirant started a five-day campaign swing in Minnesota.

Stevenson told an estimated 400 persons at an AFL-CIO meeting that, despite Republican assurances about what was to be done for labor, nothing has happened.

"The only changes have been in interpretations of the law by members of the National Labor Relations Board," he said. "And these interpretations have resulted in promissory decisions at a 20-to-1 ratio."

"The late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), co-author of the labor act, himself proposed 17 amendments to it as long ago as 1949. But even his suggestions have not yet been incorporated into law."

Stevenson introduced by Minnesota's Gov. Freeman, said he was not competing against Sen. Keafauer (D-Tenn.), who also has filed a slate of delegates for the state's March 20 presidential primary.

"I like to think that I am running against the Republicans and what has been going on—and what has not been going on—in Washington," he said.

His Explanation: 'Sleep Driving'

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The driver of a mud-stuck automobile told police he must have been "sleep driving."

He had no other explanation for the fact he was clad only in underclothes and shoes.

He said he was all the time sleep-walking but believed this was his first snooze at the wheel.

The man's mother confirmed he was a sleep-walker.

Formal Dance Given Grifton School Group

By DAWN SMITH
Grifton High School

On Saturday night Miss Lou Raye Mewborne entertained a group of high school students with a formal dance at the community building. Refreshments of minis, cookies, punch and assorted salted nuts were served to those attending. Chaperoning the affair were Mrs. Robert Mewborne, Mrs. Tom Gover, Mrs. L. L. Mewborne and Miss Louise Mewborne. Among those attending were Lou Raye, Alice and Donald Cannon, Joyce Batchelor, Lewis Garris, Donald Bennett, Linda Chauncey, Frances Davis, Sally Mewborne, Butch Sullivan, Troy Dennis, Sonny Smith, Barbara Taylor, Delano Wilson, Carol Harper, Lonnie Jackson, Charles Dall, Joyce Jolly, Herbert Furser, Jimmy McLawhorn, Gladys Smith, Fred Taylor, Nancy Smith, Gilbert Quigley, Cecil Dall and I.

The "record player attenders" for the evening were Jane Mewborne, sister of the hostess, and Dorothy Groet.

Sunday morning the GHS chapter of the Tri-Hi-Y attended the Grifton Catholic Church together. This is one of the numerous activities of this religious organization.

Light refreshments were served by members of the home economics class.

Seaman First Class Maurice Cannon has returned to California where he will join his ship, the USS Orca. Recently Maurice has been visiting his parents in Grifton. Friends of his will be interested to know he has re-enlisted for another six years in the Navy.

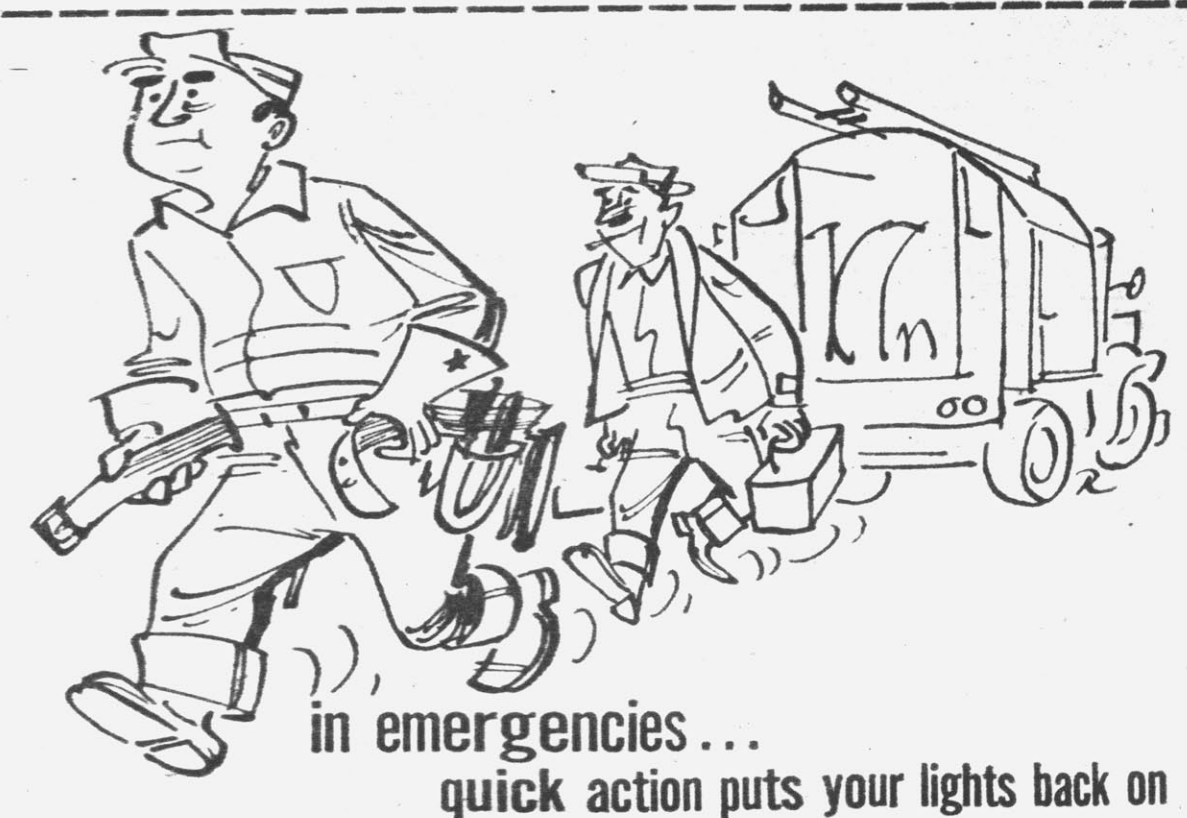

Pfc. Charles A. Wethington, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wethington, is at present stationed in Frankfurt, Germany.

in emergencies... quick action puts your lights back on

A car smashes into a power pole... or a sudden wind storm blows trees across power lines... or perhaps lightning strikes a tree, a power pole, or a transformer.

The lights go off. Suddenly the town—or part of it—is dead. Dead because so many things depend on electric power, every hour.

In emergencies like these, it takes quick action by our crews to get vital electricity flowing through the lines again. It takes skill and split-second decisions. Courage, too, under hazardous conditions.

You have confidence in the ability of our crews to get electricity back on the lines as quickly as humanly possible. For that confidence, for the faith that takes good service for granted, our staff is warmly grateful... and is inspired to do an ever-better job of serving you.

The GOLDEN WITCH

By ZOLA ROSS

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO
In court, Michael often felt that he was defending a ghost, that if he suddenly looked away, he could not look back quickly enough to find David in his chair. Acting for such a client was uncomfortable.

By the end of the fifth day, the jury was chosen. Judge Yankers, a lean, stooping man whose chief traits were melancholy and disapproval, customarily viewed Michael with a distrust born of their inherent differences. This time he leaned backward to allow Michael a choice of jurors. Michael was not elated. If Yankers had believed his client stood an even chance of acquittal, he would of hurried Michael in a dozen ways.

In addition Michael took little joy in the jury. Six and six six benches, six married men. There wasn't a one in the lot who didn't resent this jury duty. Five, to Michael's certain knowledge, had planned to go to Skagway to be on hand for the first spring rush. The emotion of "let's get this over fast" filled the courtroom.

Men looked at David, their thoughts plain. Any man who'd go after that whey-faced child of a girl must be of his character. Let's not clutter up our lives with his troubles. Let's get on with it! The calm of unburied justice wasn't in them. Maybe, Michael decided, it went out with the first news of the Klondike.

Michael offered very little defense to the original statements. He accepted the fact of Louise's pregnancy without demur. It was futile to argue with a medical man as respected as Dr. Carruthers.

Michael watched David uneasily. Most clients, who believed firmly that the best lawyers made the most noise, would have been eyeing defending counsel with irate temper. David acted barely aware of either counsel or surroundings.

When Darcy Fenner was sworn in, Michael's worries increased. He had counted on being able to discount Darcy's testimony. Bartenders weren't the best character references and jurors, though they might be a saloon's best customers did not take too much stock in a bartender's virtue. Michael, who had expected belligerence from Darcy, encountered none. Darcy stated facts, let them sink home. He'd noticed his sister was upset; he thought at first she was worried about her music lessons. She didn't do too well with the piano.

"Lurkins gave her a lot of extra time," Darcy said. "I thought it was right kind of him. I told her to buck up, be patient; then one night I find her bawling and she tells me she's going to have a baby and that the music teacher's the father."

The raw words, spoken in Darcy's harsh tones, slithered through the courtroom. People shifted and ed at the back row of seats, caught a glare from Charlotte Linden. Charlotte hadn't invited him to her home since he took David's case; she had told him that all women were disgusted with him.

"When you defended women from—well, the wrong district, that was different. Now you're going against your own kind."

"All men are tied together by the need of each man, Lotty." "Oh, fiddlesticks! You always did have too many fancy notions, Michael! Why should you throw away your career for a fool like David Lurkins? After this, nobody decent is going to hire you."

"You mean anybody rich, Lotty?" "All right, maybe I do. Why, even the man's own wife thinks he's guilty!" David was his own liability. His withdrawn suffering came across to the spectators as sullen guilt. Michael suspected he would contradict himself in testimony a dozen times. No matter, he would have to go on the stand. The case dragged on. Carrie Walsh, the bones of her new hat bobbing excitedly, testified to hearing Louise crying in her room. "I thought her brother kept her cooped up too tight. Says I, a girl needs a bit of leeway. I was wrong that time. He didn't keep her cooped up tight enough!"

Michael cross-examined, established deftly that Carrie's actual knowledge was nonexistent but he knew he hadn't erased her effect. Darcy's strictness, Louise's lack of other friends drove the matter home to David. Michael couldn't make a liar out of Carrie. She wasn't. She believed everything she said and the jury knew it.

At three in the afternoon, Judge Yankers recessed until the next morning. Michael and David headed home through an abruptly silent crowd, conversation rising behind them like a boat's wake. As they rounded the last corner before the Lurkins house, an accurately aimed tomato whizzed through the air and splattered David's cheek, sliding its crimson trail down his coat.

Michael would have given chase but David grabbed his arm. "Don't bother. You would catch no one and it doesn't matter." He mopped his face, scrubbed his coat. "Children, I suppose. Adults don't throw things, but children act on the reflected attitudes of their parents."

At his back door, David halted. "I'd rather you didn't come in with me tonight, Michael. I'm grateful but—"

"All right."

Michael went back to his office in a blind rage. Eben, after one short greeting looked at him and did not say another word until he left that night. Michael pushed papers around on his desk, fighting a sense of overwhelming defeat. David would be convicted. David knew this too. There had been no word from Tim. Michael phoned Meg at the hat shop. No, she hadn't heard today either. They had been fools, Michael regretted, to believe Tim would come up with anything. The only thing left was to wind it up. The sooner David started serving his sentence, the quicker he'd be a free man.

The arguments were done. Michael, listening to Dan Farmer, the prosecutor, make a brilliant summary, thought bitterly the sentence could have been handed down the first day. Five years was the probable sentence. David had decided not to appeal though Michael urged it. "With a new trial, time would be on our side. People forget."

"No," David was adamant. "It would only delay things." When David was in prison the damage suit would certainly be filed. Michael, defending, knew there was really only one question—how much. David's inheritance was around $15,000. The Fenners would probably sue for at least $50,000, be content with $25,000. Virtue—the young kind—was always assessed high. And there would be request for support of the child too.

The state—concluded. Dan Farmer, a solid, ruddy-faced man in his early forties, had presented the case with less venom than could have been used. Michael didn't think Dan's personal liking for him responsible. Dan was so sure of conviction it wasn't worth while to fire all big guns.

It was two-thirty in the afternoon. Michael knew he could say his few ineffectual words and let sentence be passed. His instincts rebelled. Michael rose and faced the judge.

"I'm afraid I will not be able to conclude my remarks in less than one hour, Your Honor." He ignored the barely concealed groans of the audience saw the same attitude mirrored in Judge Yankers' downcurved mouth.

"In that case," the judge said, irony riding his voice, "the court will recess until tomorrow morning. It will be in recess until ten o'clock."

INVITED THEFT
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The owners of 85 per cent of the 5 1/2 million dollars worth of automobiles stolen here in five years left their cars unlocked for the thieves, Capt. Graham Roland of the police department says. The car thefts, his records show, represented 65 per cent of all property stolen in the city during the five years.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—For the second straight day, the oils today led the stock market moderately higher. Prices were around 2 points throughout the list. Losses were fractional.

As yesterday, the oils had excellent help from the railroads, steels, coppers and chemicals. And once again the motors were neglected by buyers.

Trading at times was brisk and hit a pace around 2 1/2 million shares for the day. That compares with 2,410,000 traded yesterday.

Among gainers were Amerasia Petroleum, Phillips Petroleum, Royal Dutch Petroleum, Shell Oil, Santa Fe Railroad, American Telephone, Magma Copper, Olin Mathieson Chemical, American Hawaiian Steamship, Bethlehem Steel and United Aircraft.

Ford Motor over the counter was steady at 61 3/4 bid and 62 offered. Trading in the stock proceeded quietly.

Warner Bros. was down between 1 and 2 points after starting on $500 shares, but off 3/4 at 22 1/2. The company agreed to sell 750 features and a number of short subjects for 21 million dollars to FRM, Inc.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead 70 cents at $180.90, while the average was up $1.10 on the day.

Budget Requests Asked By State

RALEIGH (AP)—As its first order of business the State Board of Higher Education has notified North Carolina's 12 institutions of higher learning to prepare to submit their budget requests.

The form letters were prepared and sent out soon after Dr. J. Harris Purks assumed his new duties as director of higher education yesterday.

He told the state-supported colleges and the university to file with him by March 15 their budget proposals for new programs.

He asked for permanent improvement request by April 15, and for operating budgets to be submitted by May 15.

He asked for permanent improvement request by April 15, and for operating budgets to be submitted by May 15.

Before assuming his present post, Dr. Purks was acting president of the Consolidated University.

Claims U.S. To Share Burden Of Guatemala Plan

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas says the United States will pay a fifth of the cost of his Central American country's new 250-million-dollar economic development plan.

Castillo Armas told the opening session of Congress he also hopes to get $21,300,000 in International Bank loans for the five-year program. He said the United States will put up $63,800,000 toward the total cost.

The U.S. support is intended to help the Castillo government meet any threat from Communist supporters of former President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman overthrown in an anti-Red revolution 20 months ago.

The five-year plan calls for development of agriculture, health, housing, education, electric power, transportation, communications and social security. It also promises redistribution of land to 45,000 families.

Seek Applicants At Post Office

Open competitive examinations for career or temporary appointment to the positions of substitute clerk, substitute carrier and substitute special delivery messenger at the Greenville post office have been announced by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Atlanta, Ga.

Applications will be accepted from persons who reside within the delivery of the post office or who are bona fide patrons of the office. Persons presently employed in the post office will be considered patrons.

Applications must be received or postmarked on or before March 21. Beginning basic rate of pay is $1.82 per hour. Applicants must have reached their eighteenth birthday on the closing date for acceptance of applications, though the age limit does not apply to persons entitled to veterans' preference.

Necessary forms and further information may be obtained from the U.S. Civil Service Information representative at the post office, or from the Fifth U.S. Civil Service Regional Office, 5 Forsythe Street, N.W. Atlanta 3, Ga.

Father Says His Kids Earn More

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Why should he pay $200 a month alimony and child support, William M. Chapin wanted to know, when his children's television salaries are more than his own?

Seeking to have the payments suspended, Chapin told Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle that his son Billy, 12, earns as much as $1,000 a week as a free lance actor. He said he makes $460 a month as an insurance clerk.

But Judge Doyle denied the petition after Mrs. Chapin testified the children's salaries are sporadic and savings clauses in their contracts keep net earnings at a minimum.

Hand Injured In Auto Accident

A 30-year-old college student received an injured left hand last night when the car he was driving plowed into a parked truck on Boyd Avenue.

Robert Eugene Windham, of Route 4, suffered the injury about nine p. m. when his car struck a parked pickup owned by the R. R. Forrest Roofing Co.

Damage was estimated at $625 but no arrests had been made today pending further investigation.

Bid For Dramatic Honors By Visiting British Girl

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Within a single week NBC-TV is bidding for top dramatic honors with two outstanding dramas. A beautiful, brown-eyed English actress, Claire Bloom, plays the feminine lead in both.

Next Monday night Producers' Showcase presents a 90-minute color and black and white production of George Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra," starring Miss Bloom as Cleopatra.

On Sunday afternoon, March 11, NBC-TV will present the American premiere of Sir Laurence Olivier's British film "Richard III." Miss Bloom plays Lady Anne to Olivier's portrayal of the wicked hunchback Richard in this three-hour color and black and white film.

In short, Miss Bloom is a young lady of great interest to the television audience these days. But if anybody hopes to learn anything here about her romantic interests (none), any personal eccentricities (none), any headline-making views (none), they're doomed to disappointment.

After spending a pleasant hour with her, I can positively report only these things: she is beautiful, restrained to the point of shyness, and wholly dedicated to acting and the theater. Having seen her play Roxane in NBC-TV's production of "Cyrano de Bergerac" last fall, I also can report she's a superb actress.

Born in London in 1931, Miss Bloom was evacuated to this country during World War II and then returned to England. Since she was 15 the theater and movies have been her life. She played the role of the ballet dancer in Charlie Chaplin's last film, "Limelight," and plays the feminine lead in "Alexander the Great," a widely publicized British film which has not yet been released in this country. Her only live appearance before an American audience was in "Cyrano."

Marlon Brando Begins New Movie Adventure

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week that vastly independent young man Marlon Brando embarks on a new film adventure that will take him to Japan to play a wily Okinawan.

Last year at this time, Brando was about to win his long-awaited, long-deserved Academy Award. He remarked that the film he wanted to do next—he was then making a musical, "Guys and Dolls"—was the John Patrick comedy "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Whatever Marlon wants, Marlon gets. MGM was only too happy to meet his terms in order to sign him for the role David Wayne created on Broadway (later played by Burgess Meredith and Larry Parks on the road).

I caught up with Brando before his departure for the Orient. He was lurching at Paramount with George Englund, handsome young producer for Brando's Pennebaker Productions.

"I'm very happy about 'Teahouse of the August Moon,'" Brando told me. "We've got a fine cast. Delbert Mann is a great director, and filming it in Japan should give added value."

"It's a very funny story. But more than that, it says something. It has a lesson in internationalism which I think is valuable today. It should help in promoting understanding."

The picture will be filmed at Kyoto, Narai and other locations. Others in the cast include Glenn Ford as the bewildered occupation officer, Louis Calhern as his superior, Eddie Albert as the psychiatrist and Harry Morgan as the sergeant.

The actor said MGM artists have devised a fabulous makeup to orientalize him for the picture.

Kefauver Shakes Thousand Hands

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) shook a thousand hands last night as he carried his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination into New Hampshire's largest city.

In six hours, the senator also held a news conference, visited an Air Force filter center, spoke to students at St. Anselm's College, walked up and down the city's main street "to meet the voters," and popped up in a furniture store, luncheonette, hardware establishment, department store, City Hall and a social club.

His goal: victory in New Hampshire's March 13 presidential primary, the first test of voter sentiment in this presidential campaign year.

His method: a smile, a handshake and a personal plea for support—the strategy that paid off with an upset victory over President Harry S. Truman in the 1952 New Hampshire primary.

Kefauver made one point crystal clear at his news conference—although he is unopposed in the preference poll phase of this year's primary, his slate of delegate candidates face a stiff battle from a politically powerful ticket favorable to Adlai Stevenson.

At St. Anselm's College, Kefauver told 400 students, "There has been a gradual concentration of economic power in the hands of fewer and fewer people, and most of the nation's business is now controlled by about 170 corporations."

He said he would like to see a new tax rate on corporation and for most of the excise taxes on some consumer goods like autos.

Business will look to Congress this month for at least a hint on what it will do about such important spending items as highways, schools, farm price supports, and foreign aid. There might even be a clearer notion of what's in store for individuals on their income tax rates.

This month sees about two million workers getting a pay raise. The federal minimum wage rises to $1 an hour.

Labor demands may take form this month. Some key industries, notably steel, will negotiate new contracts in the next few months.

Manufacturers are watching for the first signs that the trend in recent months to build up inventories may be due for a reversal. The strength of spring trade, as it gets under way this month, may determine whether merchants and producers want to go on expanding stocks, or start living off them.

The size of the spring pickup may also foreshadow the future of corporate earnings—whether the business boom is going to keep on barreling down the highway, or whether it's starting to coast.

Found 'Missing' Boys By River

A small boy at Third Street school yesterday afternoon saw two more young students sail over the fence behind the school and apparently slide into the river.

Excited he ran back to the school and told authorities that the two youngsters had fallen into the river. Firemen were called. They hauled equipment for dragging the river bottom to the scene. Parents of the missing youths were notified.

Just as operations were to begin, a fireman spotted two boys playing some distance down the river. Yep, case closed. The two proved to be the missing first graders.

Business Should Know Answers By Easter-Time

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Business should have the answer to a number of questions before Easter. Consumers may well pick March to show their hands in several ways:

1. With an early Easter, the business month of March will span the entire pre-Easter sales drive by the merchants.

2. If the month goes out like a lamb, the auto industry may get its first test of how healthy the hoped-for spring pickup in car buying will be.

3. The home building industry, also counting on spring to awaken the urge to own your own home, may find who is right; the one who says a revival in building is due, or the one who says mortgage money will stay tight and buyers chary.

What business will be watching is how strong a tonic March will supply. A seasonal pickup is expected—the usual quickening of the economy through gains in construction, farming and seasonal industries. The question is: Will the pickup be as strong as last year, or will it lack its usual punch?

The consumer isn't the only one who will be showing his hand. Congress has some decisions to make this month. Businessmen are reigned to its continuing for another year the 52 per cent income tax rate on corporation and for most of the excise taxes on some consumer goods like autos.

Business will look to Congress this month for at least a hint on what it will do about such important spending items as highways, schools, farm price supports, and foreign aid. There might even be a clearer notion of what's in store for individuals on their income tax rates.

This month sees about two million workers getting a pay raise. The federal minimum wage rises to $1 an hour.

Labor demands may take form this month. Some key industries, notably steel, will negotiate new contracts in the next few months.

Manufacturers are watching for the first signs that the trend in recent months to build up inventories may be due for a reversal. The strength of spring trade, as it gets under way this month, may determine whether merchants and producers want to go on expanding stocks, or start living off them.

The size of the spring pickup may also foreshadow the future of corporate earnings—whether the business boom is going to keep on barreling down the highway, or whether it's starting to coast.

day afternoon at 5 o'clock. All members are asked to be present.

There will be a pig feet dinner served at the home of Mrs. Mildred Thompson Saturday at 12 noon. Dial 5300. Delivered or served at the house for 50c per plate. Sponsored by Junior Ladies Auxiliary.

"It is work that keeps a man young. It is wonderful to learn new things. I've made a lot of new friends. I'm happier now than I've been in many a year."

Johnny, who has more bounce to the ounce at 66 than many a man half his age, gives this as his personal recipe for keeping pep.

"Don't dissipate. Don't overeat. Do everything in moderation. And attend church regularly."
