Rivals Appear To Challenge Ervin, Cooley And Deane

RALEIGH (AP)—U. S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., and Reps. Harold D. Cooley and C. B. Deane got Democratic opposition for nomination today as a flock of candidates beat a noon deadline to file their candidacies with the State Board of Elections.

Mayor Marshall C. Kurfees of Winston-Salem filed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator against Ervin.

W. E. Debnam, Raleigh author, radio commentator and former City Council member, filed as a candidate to oppose Rep. Harold D. Cooley for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 4th Congressional District.

A. P. Kitchin, 47, Wadesboro lawyer and former FBI agent for 12 years, filed as a candidate against Deane for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 8th District. Kitchin said he had long wanted to go to Congress and decided just last night to make the race.

Kidd Brewer of Raleigh filed as a candidate for lieutenant governor to bring to five the list of those seeking the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

R. L. Harris of Roxboro, former House speaker and former lieutenant governor, announced he would not enter the race for lieutenant governor.

C. E. Earle Jr. of Charlotte, a food broker, added his name to the list of those opposing Gov. Hodges for the Democratic nomination. The filing made a total of four, including Hodges, who are seeking the nomination for governor.

Debnam indicated that a major reason he decided to make the race was Cooley's refusal to sign a Southern manifesto on the school segregation issue. Cooley had stated that he considered the manifesto "a dangerous document calculated to aggravate the situation." He said he is and always has been in favor of segregated schools.

Debnam said he could see "nothing dangerous" in the document in which more than 100 Southern members of Congress pledged to oppose by all legal means the U. S. Supreme Court decision on segregation.

"I am opposed to forced racial integration," Debnam said. "I regard it as bad for both races. I shall fight it on every front with calmness and dignity. . . I regard the Southern manifesto issued by the Southern representativs in Washington as a calm and effective presentation of what I believe is the feeling of an overwhelming majority of our people."

Kermit U. Gray, 39, of Winston-Salem, justice of the peace and former Coast Guardsman, just beat the deadline to file as a Democratic candidate for commissioner of agriculture.

Lee J. Gree, clerk of court in Columbus County, filed as a candidate for Superior Court judge in the 13th Judicial District to oppose Judge Raymond B. Mallard of Tabor City.

Kitchin said that Deane's failure to sign the manifesto had nothing to do with his filing. He said he did not plan to bring the issue into the campaign.

James R. Rarlow, 43, of Chapel Hill, an attorney, filed as a Democratic candidate for state commissioner of labor.

Fifteen Republican candidates filed with the board in the last-minute rush that saw the board office a beehive of activity. Several of the candidates appeared in person with Ray Jennings of Taylorsville, state Republican chairman.

An Allergy?

GASTONIA (AP)—"Too many American men between the ages of 18 and 26 are allergic to uniforms," the adjutant general of North Carolina's National Guard said here last night.

Maj. Gen. John Hall Manning of Raleigh spoke to about 300 persons at an American Legion barbecue in celebration of the Legion's 37th birthday.

"We have far too many men under 26 who have rendered no military service, and who have no intention of doing so. They are allergic to uniforms and, unfortunately, this allergy is fostered by their parents," Gen. Manning asserted.

"Is a young man worthy of American citizenship who enjoys the protection of a free government but refuses to admit he owes any personal service to its defense? Are any parents worthy of citizenship who encourage their sons to evade their military obligations?"

Gen. Manning said he was encouraged that thousands of young men are taking their training in the National Guard. He is a former commander of the 30th National Guard Division.

N. C.-Sponsored Hurricane Repair Plans To Be Talked

RALEIGH (AP)—A state-sponsored program to repair damage from past hurricanes and minimize effects of future ones will be discussed at Morehead City on March 29.

Gov. Hodges told his news conference yesterday that Col. Harry E. Brown, director of hurricane rehabilitation for the state, will meet with the citizens hurricane advisory panel, the state-federal committee on hurricane rehabilitation, and the North Carolina delegation to the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

While on the Morehead City trip, Hodges said, he will attempt to persuade coastal businessmen to cash in on the "very bright future" in the state's seafood industry.

The governor's reply to a question at his news conference indicated he is in accord with a manifesto on school segregation signed by more than 100 Southern senators and representatives in Congress.

Hodges said he thought the document was "a good thing" and "in agreement with the spirit and language of things we have been talking about—a protest, by legal means" to the U.S. Supreme Court decision that racial segregation in schools is unconstitutional.

However, the governor declined to comment on the fact that three Tar Heel members of the House, Reps. Harold D. Cooley, C. B. Deane and Thurmond Chatham, did not sign the manifesto.

From the Morehead City hurricane rehabilitation meeting, Hodges said he will go to Ocracoke on March 30 to inspect the site of a road to be built on the island. He said he will continue up the Outer Banks by way of Hatteras to Elizabeth City on March 31.

The governor cited a report by William A. Ellison of Belhaven which surveyed prospects for the Tar Heel seafood industry. The report, "officially adopted" after study by a subcommittee of the State Board of Conservation and Development, said shrimp "have the greatest commercial potential." Crab meat and oysters also offer opportunities, it added.

Hodges said he hopes easterners with "some imagination and vision—plus capital" will take a hand in developing the seafood industry.

Terrorists Raid Heart Of Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — French police clamped a midnight to 5 a.m. curfew on Algiers today after masked terrorist gunners staged a daring raid in the heart of the Algerian metropolis.

The terrorists seized a giant French garage, held off the night watchmen with guns, and then set fire to it after pouring a thousand gallons of gasoline over the floor.

The raiders made their escape as the blaze swept through the garage, located below a big French apartment house. The fire destroyed more than 100 cars.

French families in the apartment house fled when a young French soldier spotted the flames and gave the alarm.

The raid, most sensational terrorist outburst in Algiers of the 16-month-old revolt, came only a few hours after the French Parliament in Paris gave Premier Mollet's government the final go-ahead for an all-out fight to smash the rebellion.

The two Moslem watchmen at the garage were unable to identify the raiders. Police assumed they were rebels but did not exclude the possibility they might have been French counterterrorists seeking to provoke stronger government action against the nationalists.

Such counterterrorists were active in French Morocco before France granted that protectorate freedom.

Report Khrushchev Set Stage Against Stalin

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today that Nikita S Khrushchev gave the recent Soviet Communist Party Congress a secret explanation of the desanctifying of Joseph Stalin that made public criticisms of the late dictator during the Congress sound "like milk and water."

The Times report was written by the paper's former Moscow correspondent Harrison E. Salisbury, who said his information came from diplomatic reports reaching the United States from Moscow. He said the Moscow censorship had prevented correspondents there from cabling rumors about the Khrushchev speech circulating in the Soviet capital.

According to Salisbury:

Khrushchev, the Soviet party's first secretary, made his sensational speech at a closed Congress session Feb. 24 from which delegates from foreign Communist parties were barred. The "comprehensive and forthright" address touched on events surrounding Lenin's death in 1924, the great purges of the 1930s and Stalin's last years.

The party's present boss pictured his predecessor as "not himself" in his latter years. Stalin, he said, through much of his career was subject to phobias about the supposed treachery of his associates.

Khrushchev described Moscow in the late Stalin years as a capital "ridden by plots, counterplots and intrigue in which no one knew who might be the next victim."

Many of Stalin's closest associates were unaware of the fate of intimate friends and collaborators . . even the members of Stalin's Politburo (the top party command) were often kept in ignorance of what was happening."

Khrushchev asserted that the treason charges on which Marshal Mikhail Tukhachevsky and seven other top Red army leaders were executed in 1937 were fabricated and a "terrible mistake." Because this deprived Russia of its top military leadership, Khrushchev said, the Red army was almost overwhelmed by Germany's invasion in 1941.

Heavy Damage In Wilson Blaze

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Fireman and volunteers fought a downtown two-alarm fire for about three hours last night. Before it was controlled, substantial damage was done to a market and moderate damage to two adjoining restaurants.

No damage estimate was available early today, nor had it been determined how the fire started.

Most damage was suffered by the City Market, with some losses suffered at the Star Cafe and the Eat Well. All are two-story buildings.

Fire fighters remained at the scene a good part of the night after the fire was controlled. A few suffered minor injuries.

Board Named

Pitt County Board of Elections was appointed today by the State Board of Elections in an 11 a.m. meeting.

Peele and Joyner are Democrats, while Smith is a Republican.

Mollet Is Given OK For Action

PARIS (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet's government got a final go-ahead from the French Parliament today for an all-out fight to smash rebellion in Algeria.

But French colonists in the stormy North African area posed a more immediate problem with a demand that death sentences hanging over some 85 Moslem terrorists be carried out by next Wednesday.

A committee representing virtually every major group among the one million European residents of Algeria said they would shut down all municipal offices and stop cooperating with authorities if their ultimatum was not met.

One veteran observer of the 16-month-old revolt warned in Algiers: "The whole thing could blow up in our faces in a minute."

Four attacks on Frenchmen or pro-French Moslems were reported from the city of Algiers itself while the Council of the Republic, France's Senate, was meeting in Paris to endorse Mollet's program for stamping out the revolt. The reports listed no casualties but said property damage was considerable.

Authorities said French forces killed 37 rebels in 15 scattered actions yesterday in central and eastern Algeria. At least one French soldier was killed and two were wounded.

The Senate gave an overwhelming 294-7 vote of approval to the bill granting the government emergency powers for military, economic and administrative decisions. The measure was approved by the National Assembly earlier this week. Mollet has promised the Algerians that elections will be held within three months after violence is ended.

Speaking just before the vote, Robert Lacoste, minister for Algerian affairs, said: "We are in a veritable race against time in dealing with the rebels. The worst crime of the rebels is that through attacks on innocent people they are creating a chasm between the European and Moslem populations (of Algeria) which can lead out compatriots to Lord only knows what sort of despairing action."

French officials were said to fear that European residents of Algeria might secede from France and take up arms against French forces as well as against Moslems. The colonists bitterly oppose any concessions to the rebels.

City Councilmen Approve Bloxam's Revised Program

New Impetus For Bond Issue

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Long-stalled bond issue proposals last night received new impetus as city councilmen approved a revised program presented by City Manager Leonard Bloxam.

The city fathers authorized Attorney R. B. Lee to proceed with the necessary preliminary legal steps which will lead to approval or disapproval of the bond issue by the Local Government Commission in Raleigh. If the commission approves, the bond issue may be presented to the people for a vote.

Bloxam's new proposals for capital improvements calls for a total bond issue of $275,000. At the last work session held by the council last November the total amount had been lowered, after various cuts were made, to $400,000.

Largest item in the approved bond issue recommendations is $131,500 for various drainage projects within the city.

Set up separately in the recommendations was a $16,000 item for clearing of the right-of-way and opening restricted areas of Green Mill Run from the Tar River to N. C. Highway 11.

Original cost of the project had been estimated at more than $33,000.

Also included in the Department of Public Works bond issue proposals was $15,500 for the purchase of a crawler type tractor with blade, front end loader and back hoe.

For the opening of First Street from Cotanche to Woodlawn, Bloxam included $24,000 in his recommendations. The department had originally requested $45,795.53 but the city manager said city work crews will be able to do a portion of the work with the addition of the proposed tractor.

Also in the proposals was $62,000 earmarked for the Recreation Department. The money will be spent for the purchase of land, development of areas and facilities.

Finally the bond proposals include a total of $26,000 for the fire department. Of that amount $17,000 is earmarked for a 750-gallon fire truck. Some $2,000 would be spent for hose to be used on the new truck and an additional $2,000 would go for replacement hose.

Also included in the fire department total is $5,000 for installation of alarm boxes in new areas of the city.

Bloxam did not concur with the fire department's request for a new sub fire station.

The city manager said that when the bond issue is placed before the public for a vote, the items will be broken down into six separate units and each unit can be approved or disapproved separately in the referendum.

Proposed fire department improvements will be considered as one unit and the Recreation Department will be a separate unit.

Street Department improvements will be voted on in four separate units: (1) the tractor shovel; (2) development of First St.; (3) Green Mill Run; (4) other drainage projects.

Large Number Of Property Owners Protest Adoption

Street Plan Action Put Off 60 Days

Action on a major street plan was deferred by the City Council last night for a 60-day period.

Councilmen deferred action on the ordinance after a large number of persons owning property on affected Third and First Sts. protested the adoption of the proposed plan.

In addition the councilmen removed First and Third Sts. from the plan at the request of City Manager Leonard Bloxam. Bloxam said that further engineering studies will be made in those areas.

Both W. Third and E. First Sts. had been designated boulevards on the proposed map of the plan. Thus they would have required 100 foot right-of-way. The two streets tied in with the other boulevards to form a belt of four-lane drives around the outer edges of the city.

The planners felt that the boulevards will eventually be engulfed by the city and they will then serve as main streets to handle intra-city traffic.

Councilmen heard a large number of property owner on W. Third St. protest the plan. They also heard a number from E. First St. and one property owner on Boyd Ave. enter their protests.

City Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee, speaking for himself, summed up the situation for the affected property owners.

"I'm not opposed to progress," he declared. "And if the master street plan is progress I'm 100 per cent for it."

However, he said, "if the ordinance includes Third St. and is passed, it is designated as a 100-foot boulevard for 30, 40, 50 years into the future and I become a tenant at sufferance.

"If my house burns I have three feet to build on."

Whedbee conceded that the city could condemn any property which it needed. However, he pointed out, if the master street plan ordinance is passed it represents "condemnation without renumeration."

Whedbee, who lives on W. Third St. emphasized that he spoke only for himself and did not represent any of the other property owners along the street.

Mayor W. L. Whedbee informed the group that City Attorney R. B. Lee had written the state attorney general for an opinion on the matter. Thus far, no word has been received from the attorney general's office, he noted.

The entire matter will be taken up again May 10 when the council holds its regular monthly meeting.

British Invoke Tight Curfew In Cyprus Port City

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — British troops isolated the major Cypriot port of Limassol today, clamping on the toughest curfew yet seen on this violence-riddled east Mediterranean island.

The order confining Limasso's 25,000 citizens to their homes said the curfew would continue until "further notice."

British officials said the port 38 miles southwest of Nicosia "has always been a bad trouble spot" and that terrorist incidents had increased there. Authorities launched an intensive search of the city for fugitive terrorists.

The village of Cato Zodhi, near Paphos, also was put under a strict curfew after a stone-throwing incident.

Communist leaders of the biggest labor union called for an end to the general strike protesting the deportation of Archbishop Makarios, leader of the island's movement for union with Greece. But Greek shopkeepers, laborers and clerks so far ignored the union appeal and continued their shutdown, now in its fifth day. Gasoline and fuel oil shortages were reported from some sections of the island.

The spontaneous work stoppage has paralyzed most business activity on the island since Monday and halted construction work at big British military projects. Labor leaders said the walkout may end by Tuesday. Sunday and Monday are religious holidays.

Pro-Greek terrorists continued their bitter fight against British control. A Royal Air Force man was wounded outside an army barracks here. Two policemen were injured in an exchange of gunfire.

A British army officer's wife and 6-year-old child were cut by flying glass when a bomb was thrown into their home.

A military vehicle was the target of a bomb at Famagusta. Another bomb was tossed at a military patrol in the village of Drousha, near Paphos. No injuries were reported in those two incidents.

DENVER (AP)—Convicted in traffic court and sentenced to 90 days in jail, Robert Ray Valdez, 19 of Denver appealed his case to superior court.

There he argued the traffic court had erred in finding him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident, failing to exercise due care for a pedestrian and failing to report an accident.

Superior Court Judge Mitchel B. Johns listened carefully and sentenced Valdez to 270 days.

State Board To Get City's Data On Fluoridation

City Manager Leonard Bloxam was authorized by the City Council last night to forward information on hand concerning fluoridation of the city's water supply to the State Board of Health for that board's recommendation.

Bloxam requested that authority from the city fathers.

He said the matter was presented to him yesterday afternoon too late to appear on last night's agenda.

The city manager told the councilmen that they had no authority to act on the fluoridation proposals until the State Board of Health has acted on the matter.

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, County Health officer, and other local dental and medical authorities have been conducting a campaign recently to have the fluoridation process installed locally.

The addition of flourine to the water supply in small quantities is said to greatly reduce dental decay among children.

Before the councilmen took their preliminary action last night they heard Mrs. B. W. Moseley and Dr. George P. Harvey, local chiropractor, speak out against fluoridation of the city's water supply.

Paroles Board Chairman Acknowledges Criticism; Concedes Big Gamble

By REESE HART

RALEIGH (AP) — Is the State Board of Paroles too lenient in granting paroles?

Dr. Clarence H. Patrick chairman of the three-member board naturally doesn't think so. He regards the board's policy and factors for parole consideration as being "very sound."

Under North Carolina law, a prisoner shall be considered for parole after he has served one-fourth of his sentence. However, that doesn't mean he will be paroled at that time -or ever.

Only a small percentage of prisoners is released on parole when they have served a fourth of their sentence, Patrick said.

The board uses 12 factors as a yardstick in determining paroles. Do the facts on paroles granted bear out the board's policy?

"I think definitely they do," Patrick asserted, "not only in North Carolina but in other states."

The backbone of an effective parole system, Patrick pointed out, is the careful selection of parolees and proper supervision while on parole.

"As far as possible," he declared, "parole selection should take into consideration the total situation of the prisoner. Paroling authorities make the decisions and must bear the responsibility for those decisions. They must remember that their duty is first to society, and second to the prisoner and must avoid any desire to please a destitute family, a friend, an attorney, or anyone else seeking the release of a prisoner on parole. A parole system is sound only if it is based solely on the merits of each ase. Only then can such a system be a protection and benefit to the state."

Patrick emphasized that "A person who is given parole does not go free. At any time while under supervision he may be returned to prison if he does not honor parole or indicates the probability of further law violations."

A parolee is kept under supervision for one to five years.

What percentage of parolees is returned to prison?

About 20 per cent, Patrick said. He added, "We know that out of 100 that we parole, we'll bring back about 20. Ten will be brought back for technical violations of parole. Another 10 will get into minor difficulty. Only a small percentage get into serious difficulty.

"The paroles board has to operate on a percentage basis. Patrick explained. "That is to say, the board gambles on the chance that a prisoner who is qualified for parole can be rehabilitated and returned to society. There is a certain amount of chance or gamble in many things."

Patrick realizes the parole system is the object of criticism. He said "Criticism is wholesome. We don't get too upset over it. We think the majority of the citizens in the state are definitely sold on our parole system. There are two schools of thought about paroles. Some persons feel that prisoners are paroled too soon after they begin serving their sentences. Some feel they are not paroled soon enough."

The 1953 General Assembly created the three-member paroles board to replace the single paroles commissioner. A constitutional amendment approved by voters in the 1954 general election removed the power of parole from the governor and placed it with the paroles board. The governor still has the power of executive clemency in granting reprieves, commutations and pardons.

Patrick, 48, a native of Tennessee but a resident of North Carolina since he was 15, is on leave of absence from Wake Forest College, where he was professor of sociology. He was appointed chairman of the paroles board in 1953 by the late Gov. William B. Umstead. Other members of the board are W. H. Brame, former judge of the Wendell Recorder's Court, and Johnston Matthews of Durham.

The modern day parole system was created by the 1933 Legislature, which laid the legal basis for it.

The three members of the board human character, and Patrick have to have a keen insight into said, "You've got to know something about correctional work."

Patrick outlined the following factors which he said make up the board's policy in determining paroles.

1. The nature of circumstances of the crime for which the prisoner was convicted.
2. The prisoner's previous criminal and court record.
3. His conduct and attitude while in prison.
4. Length of time served.
5. Psychiatric and medical reports.
6. Background information on the prisoner.
7. Community reaction to his release.
8. Impressions of prisoner gained through interviews.
9. Opinions and facts gained by authorities.
10. The work and residence plan proposed for the prisoner upon his release.
11. Indications of need of supervision and willingness and ability of the prisoner to follow supervision.

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (277:29): "Nothing we can say or believe regarding matter is immortal, for matter is temporal and is therefore a mortal phenomenon, a human concept, sometimes beautiful, always erroneous."

The following is among the passages to be read from the Bible (Isaiah 44:9): "They that make a graven image are all of them vanity; and their delectable things shall not profit; and they are their own witnesses; they see not, nor know; that they may be ashamed."

Last Sunday morning at Sunday School the attendance was 261. This coming Sunday it is hoped the attendance will be at least 300. Each member is urged to be present and visitors are always invited. The young married people's class is growing. The nursery is available for parents with small babies. Along with experienced mothers to care for the children, there is also a nurse to help. During the worship service mothers may sit in the nursery with the child and see as well as hear the service. The Sunday School time is 9:45 and the worship service begins at 11:00 a.m. A special service will be held for the ordination of new deacons in the church. The choir will sing "Holy Spirit, Lead Us" after which the pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy will bring the morning message.

The League which is the training service of the church starts at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. Each member should be present on time and prepared to remain for the evangelistic service which begins at 7:30 p.m.

Jimmie Spain, the Sunday School superintendent, has announced that Monday night at 7:30 is time for the Sunday School Council to meet with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bell on Line Ave. Each teacher and officer should be present.

Tuesday afternoon at 4.00 the Good News Club meets at the church. This week there were 48 present in spite of the rain. All boys and girls regardless of age are invited.

[illegible]day evening at 7:30 the Prayer service will be held at the church immediately following, the choir will rehearse.

Use of Iron Lung Explained at Meeting Of Sans Souci Club

The Sans Souci Book Club met Tuesday at noon for lunch with Mrs. J. H. Waldrop on Tenth Street.

It was a dreary, rainy day but a glowing open fire and lovely arrangements of early spring flowers throughout the spacious home banished outside gloom and the home was filled with gaiety and good fellowship as the Sans Soucians came together.

After a most delectable two course luncheon, Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, the president, presided over a short business session. Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, who had charge of the afternoon's program, introduced Mr. Claude Christopher, a member of the city's fire department, who gave the club an interesting and informative talk on the work of the fire department. He had brought with him the new iron lung given the city recently by the Moose organization and the resuscitator formerly used.

Mr. Christopher explained very clearly the use of the "lung" and how it works, showing the equipment used for both adults and children and told of how it can be used in varied cases, such as heart attacks, asthma, drownings and many other ways.

He gave the club much information as to the work done by the fire department other than putting out fires, and assured the members that they were glad and willing to be called upon at anytime when needed.

In addition to thanking Mr. Christopher at the moment for his fine program, Mrs. Cheatham asked the secretary, Mrs. F. M. Wooten, to write a note of thanks and appreciation to the Moose Lodge for their generous gift to the city and also to the fire department for the good work they are doing for the welfare and protection of the community.

At the conclusion of the program, this happy meeting came to an end with a motion for adjournment.

Reedy Branch FWB Announcements

Sunday night, March 11, marked the commencing of a different type of evening services for Reedy Branch Church. One hour, from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m., is now devoted to the Leagues which consist of the folowing: Nursery, Story Hour, Juniors, Intermediates, Seniors, Young Married Couples, and Adults. This new formation of Leagues got well underway with 47 present at the services. Following the Leagues, instead of the regular church services, is the "Pastor's Half Hour," which is an informal worship service with the pastor, Rev. Henry Melvin, in charge. During this unique service on March 11, the pastor had as his guests the twin brothers, Milton and Melvin Worthington, who are now attending Asbury College. Their Christian testimonies were spiritually moving and inspiring. Two other youth, Rev. Jack Paramore and Miss Peggy Mills, who have definitely taken their stand for Christ, rendered special music for the evening service. This service on March 11 is only an example of the many more fine servcies which the pastor will present during the "Pastor's Half Hour." Come out and join us at Reedy Branch in serving the Lord on His day.

The Reedy Branch Sunday School, under the direction of Superintendent Reid McLawhorn, has shown rapid progress in the past two months. The Sunday School has chosen the slogan, "52 in '56," as its goal for the year, 1956—meaning that it is aiming for 52 new members for the year, averaging one new member each week. Already the Sunday School is well on its way to reaching this goal; it has approximately 25 new members so far.

The Reedy Branch choir, which meets each Wednesday night at 8:15, is showing extensive interest in its work under the direction of its leader, Rev. Henry Melvin, and the organist, Mrs. Paul Braxton, who are great assets to the choir. The choir is still practicing Easter numbers, which will be rendered as the Easter season approaches.

Prayer meeting, which is held at the church at 7:30 each Wednesday evening, greatly needs a boost in attendance. All members of the church are urged to take advantage of the opportunity afforded them to learn of Christ and to worship Him at these meetings.

The Mount Olive College Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Paul Braxton, will present a concert of sacred music on Sunday night, March 18, at the church. You will not want to miss this enjoyable program. The chorus is the special feature of the pastor during his "Pastor's Half Hour," which begins at 8:00 o'clock.

A period of open discussion followed.

Mrs. T. M. Watson was hostess to the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. D. Aman on Maple Street.

He had been a resident of Greenville for the past five years, where he was associated with the Proctor Hotel until two weeks ago when he retired and had gone to Florida to live.

Flower Arranging Topic Of Meet

A 40-year-old high-button shoe, painted gold, with ivy planted in it, was one of the many floral arrangements shown to members of the Semi-Centi Book Club Tuesday evening when they met in the home of Mrs. Cliff Taff.

The hostess introduced Mrs. Ruland W. Davenport who spoke on flowers in the home. She urged members to experiment with their own ideas and stated that with a little practice and knowledge of a few basic principles, anyone can make attractive arrangements, whether the flowers come from your yard, the florist or the woods.

Most authorities say it is best to start from the outside and work to the center. Heavy flowers or dark colors should be placed in the middle or at the bottom of the arrangement. Use buds, airy foliage, and smaller, lighter flowers to complete the arrangement.

Have the courage to cut stems, making the longest stem 1½ times the diameter of a low container or 1½ times the height of a tall vase, varying the length of each stem.

Mix colors, but let one color predominate. When using three different colors, use the most of one shade, a little of the second, and just a touch of the third. Never crowd flowers, and if you have any doubts, it is always advisable to take a few flowers out.

Mrs. Davenport had used a child's cereal bowl and cup to hold several red camellias, and she listed other items that can be used as containers; i.e., refrigerator dishes, pickle dishes, ash trays, bottles, goblets. In one crystal container she had planted violets, which would last as long as they bloomed.

Members were interested to learn that all flowers, except carnations, will live as well in one inch of water as in a vase filled to the top.

To make a glass container seem heavier, she suggested adding milk, ink or cake coloring to the water.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. W. H. Renn, Mrs. James M. Smith, and Mrs. Leland Flanagan.

Books were exchanged, and coconut cake, assorted nuts and coffee were served by Mrs. Taff.

30 Years Ago Today

March 16, 1926

Raleigh—After a morning spent in discussion of specific and technical problems of the teaching profession in group meetings, the North Carolina Educational Association in its 42nd annual session, convened here at 2:30 for what was expected to be one of the most important meetings. The legislative committee was expected. This report was to be definitely launched to fight on the part of the teachers for the proposed state-wide minimum eight months school term. The North Carolina General Assembly will be asked to call an election on a constitutional amendment to increase the minimum school terms in North Carolina from six to eight months, if the recommendations of the legislative committee of the N.C.E.A. are followed.

No Big League Opposition To Hodges

There will, in fact, be a contest for governor in this year's Democratic primary, but with former State Sen. Tom Sawyer of Charlotte running against Gov. Hodges, the contest hardly promises the proportion of a pitched battle.

In his initial announcement Sawyer made it clear he will make the segregation issue the key to his campaign for office. This, obviously, affords his only hope for defeating Gov. Hodges who has behind him an outstanding record while filling the unexpired term of the late Gov. Umstead. While Sawyer will garner some votes by appealing to racialism, prejudice and emotionalism, it appears extremely unlikely that he will be able to seriously challenge the position of Gov. Hodges.

Although he is not an unknown in state politics, Sawyer is by no means considered among the top political leaders of the state who some months ago were prospective candidates for the state's chief executive post. He served in the State Senate in 1951 while a resident of Durham, and the following year was an unsuccessful candidate for the Congressional seat of Rep. Carl Durham of the Sixth Congressional district.

From his initial announcement, we gain the impression that Sawyer is hoping to ride the race issue into the governor's office in much the same manner that he used promises of, and demands for, a state bonus for veterans to get elected to the state Senate six years ago.

The filing period for the post of governor is now closed. The contest shapes up between Gov. Hodges and Tom Sawyer.

The Reflector is convinced the thinking people of the state will support Gov. Hodges who has afforded the people of North Carolina leadership of the highest calibre during one of the state's most trying periods of modern times.

Amendment Votes Up To Assembly

By LYNN NISBET

ELECTIONS — Opinion has widely prevailed that unless proposed amendments to the constitution were submitted to the people at the November election this year, they could not be submitted until November 1958. That has been the principal basis for thinking an extra session of the General Assembly might have to be called in time to submit proposals for the general election.

Advisory opinions of the State Supreme Court refute this argument and seem to establish the fact that the Legislature may designate any election as a "general election" at which the constitution may be voted upon. The opinions were issued in connection with the 1933 election on the question of a convention to act upon ratification of the 21st amendment to the U.S. Constitution (actually repeal of the 18th or prohibition amendment) and the 1934 election at which it was proposed to submit an almost complete rewriting of the State constitutionn

Effect of the opinions was to prevent voting on the revision of the State Constitution, because the 1933 election had been declared a "general election", and being the next after the 1933 General Assembly adjourned was the only time the new constitution could be submitted to the people.

Net result was that the 1933 prohibition election was moot because more than the required number of States had acted to repeal the 18th amendment before North Carolina voted; and the people were never given an opportunity to vote on an overall revision of their State constitution.

A bit of a look into legislative journals and court reports of that period discovers some interesting history—and perhaps more interesting political maneuvering.

HISTORY — When the 1933 General Assembly convened Franklin Roosevelt had been elected President on a platform pledging repeal of the 18th amendment. Early in the session Sen. A.D. McLean of Beaufort and Rep. Walter (Pete) Murphy of Rowan introduced different bills providing machinery for North Carolina to participate in the repeal movement.

By joint resolution on March 29 the Senate and House asked the Chief Justice and the Associate Justices for an advisory opinion on the constitutionality of the two proposals. As result of the opinions obtained, the two bills were sort of consolidated into one, calling for the convention question to be submitted at a "general election" in November of that year.

Another advisory opinion was requested, and all the justices thought the act would stand, except Justice Clarkson. He made the point that calling a special election a general election did not make it one. There was general agreement that the issue here involved was largely Federal and maybe it didn't matter whether it was submitted at a special or general election.

The "general election" was called for November and Pete Murphy set up campaign headquarters in Carolina Hotel to promote the convention idea and elect delegates favorable to repeal. Before election day the question was moost—and Murphy never did collect even for some of the stamps he bought. Despite the fact the vote didn't count, Tarheels turned in a majority of almost 185,000 against repeal out of a total of 415,000 votes.

Meanwhile the 1981 Legislature, at instance of Governor Gardner had authorized a commission headed by Chief Justice W.P. Stacy to revise the State constitution. The proposed revisions which were approved by the 1933 General Assembly were passed along to the people at the "next general election." It was commonly understood that meant the November 1934 election at which members of the General Assembly and other officials were elected.

BLOCKED — During the spring and summer of 1934 some people who did not like the proposed revisions raised the point of legality in submitting them that fall, since on "general election" had been held. On September 15 Governor Ehringhaus formally requested another advisory opinion from the Supreme Court Justices They unanimously held (including Justice Clarkson) that the 1933 election was "general" and being the next after adjournment of the 1933 Legislature, the constitutional revision could not be submitted.

POLITICAL — That brief historic summary does not take into account the emotional political atmosphere of the times. There were some who sincerely believed legal prohibition of the sale of alcoholic beverages was the most vital issue confronting the people—and were willing to sacrifice other rights and privileges to maintain that status. It was the depth of the great depression and many folks joined Governor Ehringhaus in his bebelief that maintenance of the public school system and the good credit of North Carolina was of highest importance—even if an obnoxious sales tax had to be enacted to preserve them.

In retrospect it appears that fanaticism of prohibitionists and liquorites (both misnomers) prevented a vote on important constitutional changes.

That is something for the political leaders to think about now. The 1955 regular session submitted three constitutional amendments to the "next general election." If a general election should be called before November 6 these proposals would have to be submitted then.

On the other hand, it would appear from Supreme Court advisories that if the constitution needs to be amended next year the proposals can be submitted by the regular session at a "general election" on any date set by the Legislature.

Door Is Almost Closed On Other GOP Hopefuls

President Eisenhower's latest statement coupled with Nixon's surprising showing in write-in votes in the New Hampshire presidential primary fairly ties up the Republican vice-presidential nomination . . . until convention time, that is.

When members of the GOP gather to actually name their standard bearers for this fall, there is still a possibility that President Eisenhower may emerge with another running mate. At this point, however, it appears unlikely.

Without endorsing Nixon for the vice presidency, the President came as close to an out-right endorsement as possible. He made it clear that he would not shelve his younger running mate for another partner. He likewise closed the door on further discussion of the matter—so far as he is concerned, at least—until the convention. That action will make more difficult an attempt by any other vice presidential hopeful to gain much campaign momentum prior to convention time.

The developments virtually leave in the hand of President Eisenhower the naming of his running mate in 1956. That is, of course, in keeping with the tradition of the two major parties. Nevertheless, it now appears that President Eisenhower holds the situation firmly in his hand. He has not endorsed Nixon outright. Yet he has closed the door on any major bid for the vice presidential nomination by any other candidate. When the time comes for the convention to be named, Eisenhower can pick Nixon or whomever he chooses. It will then be too late for any opposition to develop within the party.

Smiling Russians Pose For The Unwary West

The Geneva smile is becoming an essential accessory to what the well-dressed Russian official is wearing on foreign trips these days.

Smiley Georgi Malenkov has arrived in London with the grin in place of the familiar stern expression he worn in Moscow photographs a couple of years ago. He obviously is following the precedent set by his superiors at he Geneva Conference last summer. With the smile, the former premier of Russia who has been demoted to a deputy premier in charge of power stations will give Britons a preview of what they might expect from Bulganin and Khrushchev next month.

While Malenkov's visit is for the purpose of "seeking knowledge of the British system of public power and operation, he will not overlook the opportunity to drive a wedge between Great Britain and the United States. With the friction which has arisen in the past week between the U. S. and British governments over trouble on Cyprus, Malenkov's visit has come, at least for the Kremlin, at exactly the right moment.

The smile he wears, pleasant as it might seem, cannot gloss over the sinister motives which prompted Malenkov's visit.

Like the Kremlin bosses who will follow him to England, Malenkov will exhibit as widely as possible the smile the well-dressed Russian diplomat is wearing on official foreign visits this season.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Not Material For Parole

(Washington Daily News)

A prisoner should not be granted a parole to come to any county in North Carolina when high officers in that county tell the parole board that they do not consider that man parole material and that they do not want him in the county.

If our information is correct, not only that happened to our officers in Beaufort county, but the sheriff of the county was told in effect that the parole "is nne of your business." Technically, the sheriff might not have any say-so in granting of a parole. But common sense dictates that the sheriff knows a prisoner much better than members of the Parole board, and that paroles are for the purpose of giving a man another chance for better life and not another chance to commit crime.

In the case of Joe Moore, recently arrested in Beaufort county, this man had served more than 11 years in prison on a murder charge. When his application for parole came up, the Parole board was told that he was not wanted in Beaufort county. Not only did Sheriff Rumley fight the parole, but he was joined in the fight by L.P. Wheeler, then chief of police in Washington, and by R.A. Phillips, Superintendent of Welfare in the county.

Joe Moore was paroled over the objections of these three men. And from what Sheriff Rumley says, the parole was granted under circumstances which did not consider the welfare of the people of this county nor the trouble which officers anticipated with him during the tenure of the parole.

Now Joe Moore has beaten a woman severely. He is charged with assault on her. And officers say that he had a fully loaded pistol in his possession at the time.

The Daily News believes in the parole system. But we do not believe in paroling any prisoner to any county which does not want to have that parolee in its midst. We remember all too well in our county another sad experience with a parolee, the late Lafayette Miller.

According to the record told to us, Joe Moore was not parole material. He had been classed once as a C-grade prisoner for refusal to work, we understand. And on two occasions he had tried to escape, we are told.

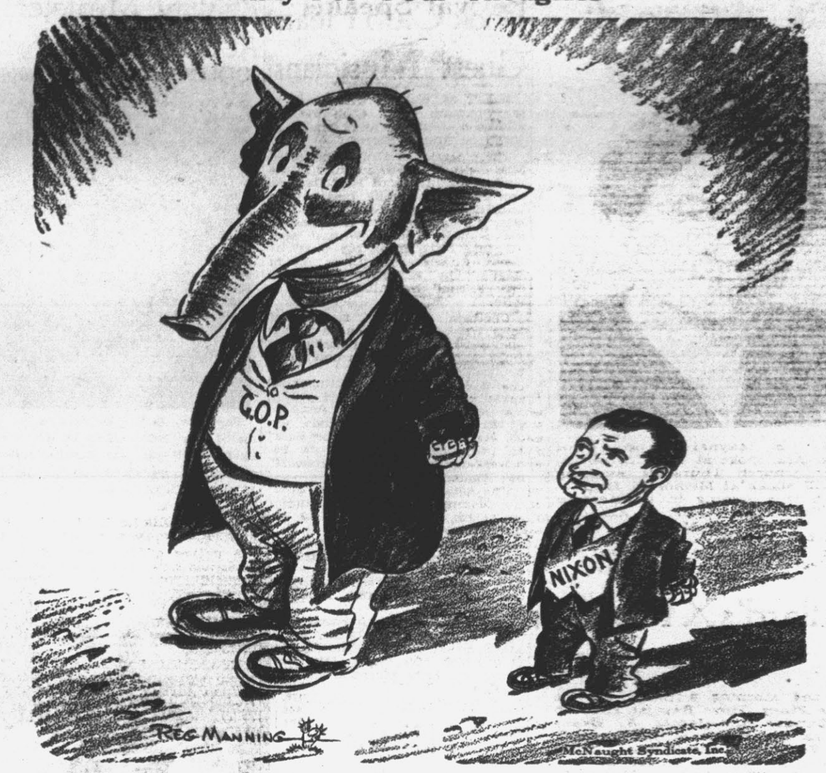

Yet, against the wishes of three high officers of Beaufort county he was sent here on parole. While his murder crime was committed in Martin county, and while in many cases a reciprocal agreement might be working, when officers say that a man is not wanted in a county, he should not be sent there.

Officers make mistakes, but when they say that a parolee is not wanted in Beaufort county, then it is insulting to send him here.

We don't know what will happen to Joe Moore now. If found guilty, he might go back to prison. What has happened in this case can't be remedied. But in the future when high officers of a county are so strongly against sending a parolee to this county, then he should not be sent out against their will.

Some men just can't be rehabilitated. Apparently Joe Moore is one of those persons. Parles are not intended for men of his caliber. They are intended for those who have made mistakes those who have made mistakes and who deserve a better break and another chanc in life.

One Lives With Their Honor

The question of instituting an honor system at East Carolina College has been discussed pro and con on the campus for some time.

Now the Student Legislature has issued a questionnaire "to determine the existing situation at the college concerning cheating."

When we read the questionnaire on the front page of the March 8 edition of the college newspaper, "The East Carolinian," we were stunned by the fact that the student government seems to assume that every student at the college cheats at least sometime on all of the 14 queries concerning a form of academic dishonesty.

Each of the questions is followed by multiple choice answers to be checked by the students. The answers are "often," "occasionally," and "seldom." What about "never"?

Each of the questions is followed by multiple choice answers to be checked by the students. The answers are 'often," "occasionally," and "seldom." What about "never"?

We hope an honor system will be instituted at the college. There will always be some question as to the workability of such a system, but we say it does work if its purpose is not just to keep students from cheating on quizzes or other schoolwork. We are all imperfect, and neither a strict set of rules nor an honor system will correct all our faults. Yet the honor system can be profitable in at least ne respect.

Perhaps we are still a little too idealistic in this modern age, but we like to assume that at least some of our fellow beings are pretty honest. We like to think there are some who copy another's homework or term paper, or steal exams, "never."

Though we are sure the student legislature's intentions are worthy, a representative picture concerning cheating will hardly be obtained by the issuance of the questionnaire. Even if the honest students could answer the questions, they are probably the only ones who would do so.

An honor code gives everyone the opportunity to set up his own standard of values, to determine with out outside pressure the criterion by which we will mild his life.

A person of reasonable integrity and ambition is more likely to shun dishonest methods when the responsibility in the affair rests solely upon his shoulders. A lot of students do not hesitate to cheat because they think the teacher is responsible for their behavior.

Under the honor system, however, entire responsibility for conduct rests with the individual. Surely college students are old enough to be allowed and encouraged to establish their own ideals for behavior and standards for work and achievement.

Of course, there will always be those who will cheat in spite of anything. They are to be pitied, because the rest of the students will have to associate with them only two, three, maybe four years, but they have to live with themselves forever.

Irish Are Giants Tomorrow

Editor's Note — Stirred by his annual admiration of St. Patrick, whose disciples parade tomorrow, one of our Irish-descended reporters offers again a piece that has gone before.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—What is it to be Irish?

On 364 days of the year being Irish isn't visibly different from being French, Italian, Jewish, Serbian, Dutch, or — yes — even English.

Irishman pays his bills, complains against his taxes, does his work, and listens to his wife like the man of any other race.

But on this one day of the year —holy St. Patrick's Day — —the Irishman becomes an Irishman.

And on this day you have to be Irish to know what it is to be Irish.

The outer signs, of course, can't be seen by all. The Irishman overnight grows a foot taller and stalks the earth a giant. All traffic lights turn green before him, and if they don't he sees red.

But this air of majesty is only token evidence of interior change. The men of other races who envy the Irishman has bearing on St. Patrick's Day would envy him far more if they could look inside the Irishman's soul.

What is it to be Irish?

How can you put the wonder of it into words? If a psychiatrist stretched himself out on his own warm couch after his last customer had gone home, and he dreamed of the man he himself would most like to be—well, he might be perfect, but he'd still be only half an Irishman on St. Patrick's Day.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to have an angel in your mouth, turning your prose to poetry. It is to have the gift of tongues, to know the language of all living things. Does an Irishman pause and turn an ear to a tree? It is because on his day he wants to hear what one sleepy bud said to another as it opens its pale green hands to the warm sun of spring.

What is it to be Irish?

Oh, on this day it is music. Not just the cornet in the parading high school band, but the deep,

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

A CREATURE BECOMES A SON

Karl Marx attempted to interpret life on a purely materialistic basis. To him, man was an eating animal. The pie was being unevenly cut; Marx suggested a system by which he believed that it can be more justly divided.

Of course the fallacy of his argument was, first, that man is more than an eating animal; again, that collectivistic schemes kill incentive and therefore ruin production; and last of all, that differences in ability are very real and such differences account for much of the inequality of distribution.

Darwin also regarded man as an animal—a struggling animal seeking survival. There is some truth in such a conception but there are many missing links, as the evolutionist so well knows. Life indeed is a struggle and survival an achievement, but some who do not survive—the martyrs, for instance—are the ones who achieve the most. Jesus of Nazareth who did not survive the malice of his contemporaries, stands as humanity's greatest achievement. History has been dated from his birth, and the whole world and its thinking made different by his words.

The gospel of Christ combines man's highest wisdom and God's revealed truth. It teaches that although man is born a creature he may become a child of God through a spiritual rebirth. The gospel alone answers the basic questions about human destiny.

Antagonized By Stassen's Secret Deals

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Harold E. Stassen's secret deals permitting more extensive and profitable Allied trading with Russia than American firms enjoy, jeopardize Congressional approval of several key points of the Eisenhower Administration's foreign policy. They have antagonized men who once praised Ike's international record and his stanch advocacy of collective security.

Almost as much as the admitted discrimination against domestic interests and the economic aid accruing to Moscow, it is the hush-husy nature of these agreements which investigating Senators, headed by John L. McClellan of Arkansas, resent. He charges that Secretary Dulles and Stassen, with apparent White House backing, refuse to disclose details, even at closed committee sessions.

SILENCED BY FOREIGN REASONS Spokesmen for the Executive Branch say that their lips are sealed because of foreign nations' insistence upon secrecy. For fear of their own peoples' reaction and opposition parties' criticism, they forbid any publicity on these transactions. Still another reason for keeping these matters confidential is foreign resentment against their governments' submission to any kind of "Yankee restrictions" on their trade.

This tender consideration for overseas sentiment does not set well with the men on Capitol Hill, especially in the Senate. They do not like the idea of being denied such important information as a result of commercial agreements made behind closed doors for the economic benefit of competitors and the strengthening of a prospective enemy.

This withholding of vital data, which covers arrangements projecting our interests and influence into faraway places, amounts to a dential of the right of Congress to exercise any control over the conduct of foreign affairs. As many wartime and postwar pacts revealed, it has already been deprived of a great deal of influence in this important field.

ENDANGERS EISENHOWER PROPOSAL The Eisenhower proposal principally endangered by these developments is the scheme to checkmate Russia's new trade-and-peace offensive through long-range pledges of economic assistance to neutral nations. Congress does not believe that it can safely strip itself of the authority to police the contemplated expenditure of more billions abroad.

Senate endorsement of the Bricker Amendment to the Constitution, which would limit Presidential management of foreign affairs, may also result from the Stassen deals. It lost by only one vote at the last session, and the milder version framed by Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois may make it more palatable.

Although it is doubtful if the Ohioan's proposed limitation would affect the negotiation of trade agreements, since they are not an invasion of the Constitution, members hitherto indifferent or hostile might support it simply as a rebuke to the Administration attitude and behavior.

MORE INFORMATION WANTED It was this policy that Representative James P. Richards of South Carolina was hitting at when the Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said that the Eisenhower Administration—he could have included the Roosevelt and Truman regimes—regarded the lower chamber as an "illegitimate child." He wants more rather than less information as a guide to future legislation.

Now that our overseas programs cost us so many billions, also involving questions that must originate, in the House—appropriations, taxes, tariffs, etc.—that body shares the Senate's suspicion of secrecy.

A new and threatening factor has also appeared in debates and committee discussions of foreign aid. It is the growing opposition of such conservative and influential Southerners as Richards, Senators McClellan, Byrd and George. They were once Zealous "internatiinalists."

Seek Mass Production Of Ideas

By ELMER ROESSNER

The most valuable product in business is ideas. Now a way has been developed to mass produce them.

The technique is called "brainstorming." It is being used by Generall Electric, Ethyl Corp. and several other large companies. It is being taught at two universities—Wisconsin and Buffalo.

This is how brainstorming works:

A group of no more than 10 persons are brought together for a 10-minute session to produce as many ideas as possible on a pin-pointed problem. The group is all from the same level "to avoid mixing the brass with the polishers," as the University of Wisconsin puts it.

MAXIMUM IN FLUIDITY

Everyone is encouraged to speak up on every idea that occurs to him. No one is allowed to criticize another's idea or to pass judgment on it. Even discouraging rejoinders are prohibited; no one may say, "We tried that," or "It costs too much," or "It couldn't possibly work," or "It's been done before."

The leader of the group is expected to suppress such "killer comments" and to warn critics to "think up or shut up." No one is allowed writes down ideas as they are suggested.

The ideas, along with those from similar brainstorming groups, are passed on to higher executives for study, research or for action. Often only a small percentage of ideas suggested are of value, but brainstorming produces so many there is always a profitable residue.

SOME OF THE RESULTS

In seventeen minutes, a group of salesmen proposed 104 ideas on how to improve a suit of clothes. Several groups working on the problem of how to recruit employees came up with 180 ideas in 20 minutes.

The University of Wisconsin is teaching brainstorming in connection with a series of plant managers conferences devoted to self-development, automation and plant management, methods for continuing supervisory development, creative thinking, application of management techniques at lower levels, and quality production and lower costs with high worker morale.

At a recent session, brainstorming was taught with the assistance of the Industrial Management Institute by Alex F. Osborn, New York advertising man, and Clayton G. Orcutt, of the Institute staff. A oneday course aroused such interest that a second session was held. In all, 70 plant managers attended and, presumably, all are now conducting "brainstorming" sessions in their own establishments. The Wisconsin conference series will continue until May and may be repeated in the fall.

CONSUMERS MEETING BILLS, SAYS FRB

The Federal Reserve System reports that consumers are paying off their obligations. In January they reduced outstanding charge accounts by 18 per cent, indicating that they were meeting those Christmas charge-its. Instalments outstanding were also reduced 1 per cent in January.

However, charge accounts are still 9 per cent above a year ago and instalment obligations up a fat 20 per cent.

CUES AND CLUES TO BUSINESS TRENDS

Pensions are still pretty small, judging from National Industrial Conference Board figures. The average employee with 30 years' service at $3,600 a year is $78 a month. The board didn't say so, but that looks like barely enough for board, vittles and whisky. . . Business failures among retailers of apparel and accessories have been rising, according to Dun & Bradstreet reports. January-February failures were 224, compared with 180 a year ago. . . . A grand total of 43,099,796 television sets have been shipped to dealers in the last 10 years says the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Association. . . Construction contracts signed in February in 37 eastern states totaled $1,859,737,000, a new record and 18 per cent above the same month last year, reports the F.W. Dodge Corp.

Flowers for the church were given by Mrs. Frances Cassick in love for the Lord.

The spring revival services started Sunday evening with Rev. C. H. Overman the guest minister. These revival sermons are very inspirational and thought provoking. Everyone is invited to them.

The State Convention has designated March and April as mission months. It will be observed in this church Sunday evening, March 25.

The church gave a vote of thanks to Miss Hagar Hart who has so faithfully filled out the church bulletin for the past two years. Miss Hart will make her home in another community in the near future.

Mrs. Carol Modlin will replace Miss Hart in this work for the church.

There were 181 present for Sunday School.

The Young People's League has an average attendance of about 50 on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Frank and Albert Smith of Greenville are visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Mamie R. Holoway, while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, are spending this week in Florida.

Recent visitors of Mrs. Cora Crawford, who is ill at her home, were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Crawford, Mrs. Clara Crawford, Rev. James A. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Humbles, Mrs. Thurman Page, Mrs. Travis Crawford, Mrs. Ethel Crawford and Mrs. Lizzie Vandiford.

Miss Joyce Dildy and Miss Ruth Corbitt of Farmville were Sunday visitors of Miss Alice Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crawford and son Johnnie were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Crawford in Grifton.

Mrs. Hazard May and Mrs. Milton May and little son of Winterville were visitors of Mrs. Mamie R. Holoway last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denton of near Greenville were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. G. T. Tyson.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Worthington and Mr. Charlie Little of Stokes visited Mr. and Mrs. Lester Worthington Sunday afternoon.

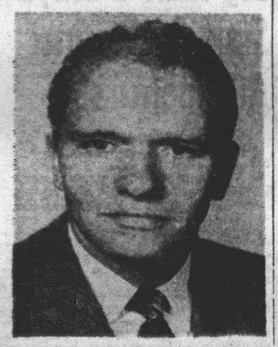

Crudy Bradley, who is working in Goldsboro, visited his mother, Mrs. Mack Ross, Sunday.

Miss Eunice Little of Goldsboro was a weekend visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Little, on Sunday. J. B. Benton of Fremont was a guest.

METHODISTS POLLED

CHICAGO (AP)—The majority of the nation's Methodists, a Methodist opinion poll indicates, believe there should be no racial segregation in the church.

Revival Speaker

The Reverend Earl J. Rogers (above) will be the visiting minister at revival services planned at the Winterville Baptist Church each evening next week, Sunday evening services will be at 7:30 and week-day services at 7:45 p.m.

Rev. Rogers is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Washington, N.C., he is moderator of the South Roanoke Baptist Association. Song leader during the revival will be Miss Helene Vaughn, public school music teacher of the Winterville School.

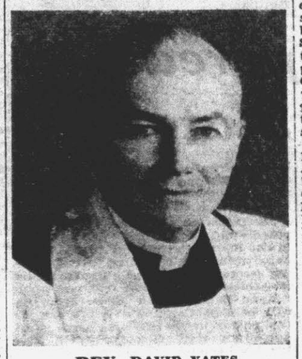

Rev. Edward Cole, pastor of the Winterville church, says the public is invited to these services.

Rev. David Yates In Series Of Lenten Talks At St. Pauls

The Reverend David Yates, an Episcopal clergyman well known in the State and in the southeast, will begin a series of addresses Sunday night at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. His general theme will be THE DRAMA OF SALVATION, or The Five Saving Acts of God. Each night Sunday through Thursday, he will speak upon one of these saving acts.

The occasion of Mr. Yates' visit to Greenville is the Lenten Parish Preaching Mission which has been planned at St. Paul's Church since last fall. Mr. Yates was requested to be the Missioner for this Passion Week series because of his successful conduct of preaching missions in the central diocese, the Diocese of North Carolina. He comes as no stranger to East Carolina and to Greenville because during his eleven years as Rector of the Chapel of the Cross in Chapel Hill many University students from these part have come to know him well.

He is a native of Charlotte and has served as rector in parishes in Tarboro and Durham. He was educated at the University of the South and at the Virginia Theological Seminary. He has held responsible offices in the Diocese of North Carolina and has served several times as a delegate to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church.

REV. DAVID YATES

The services will begin each night with a fifteen minute hymn singing period, from seven-fifteen to seven-thirty. At seven thirty the opening hymn of the mission service proper will be sung. The service will end at eight-thirty.

Beside the mission address there will be a period for the answering of questions from the question box which will be placed at the entrance of the church, and a time for prayers which have been requested by request slips placed in another special box.

Informality will keynote the manner in which these services will be conducted. At times of such missions the Episcopal Church is permitted by church law to depart from the use of its historic Prayer Book. The emphasis in such a mission is upon the preaching of the Word, and in the case of this event in Greenville, a connected story over a period of five days will be given of the Christian Gospel. Such a preaching series has historic precedent in the work of such preachers as St. Augustine, St. Chrysostom and Martin Luther, when over an extended period these great churchmen would expound the Christian message in successive evening services.

The co-chairmen of the St. Paul's Parish Mission commmittee are Mr. J.E. Waldrop and Mrs. D.C. Wade, both of whom are vestrymen. Other committee chairmen are Dr. Dan Wright, Mr. Charles Gaskins, Mr. Robert Hunt and Mr. Kenneth Harris. Mr. Gaskins' committee will have contacted every communicant of St. Paul's before the Mission to encourage attendance at each service in the series.

The Greenville United Lutheran Mission Congregation which uses St. Paul's Church on Sunday evenings has been invited to join with the Episcopal congregation for this mission. The public is cordially invited.

Delayed Start In Practicing Law

SUFFOLK Va. (AP)—H. West Butler is beginning the practice of law at the age of 45 and some 22 years after passing the bar examination. He will take over a law office abandoned by his brother, Frank.

After passing the bar exam, Butler found he was needed in the family's manufacturing business. Then from 1941 to 1946 he was in the Army. But when brother Frank abandoned the law to enter a banking business, West decided to hang out his shingle.

"I've been keeping up with the law books somewhat," he said, "and I think my business experience will compensate for the length of time away from the books."

ECC Nine To Meet Wake Forest

Coach Jim Mallory has announced the addition of two exhibition games to his 1956 East Carolina baseball schedule.

Plans have been made to pit the Pirates against Wake Forest's National Champions on April 10 at Kinston. The Demon Deacons, who blasted everything in sight last season, copping also the Dixie Classic baseball crown, will be another powerhouse this year. The team that defeated East Carolina twice and accomplished all the above-named honors, will be back, with the exception of a single player. The Deacons lost only one man, an outfielder, by graduation, and have already been chosen Atlantic Coast Conference favorites for the 1956 campaign.

A match with the Kinston professional baseball crew is also in the making. According to Coach Mallory, the contest will be played sometime during the second week of April.

The Pirates will open their 23-game schedule next Thursday in Camp Lejeune, against the highly-rated Springfield College nine, from Massachusetts.

A total of 15 North State Conference tilts have been arranged, as the Bucs prepare to defend their loop title.

Gordon Back?

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Unless Manager Bucky Harris changes his mind at the last minute, Detroit's starting lineup against the Pittsburgh Pirates today is to have this line in it:

Gordon, 2b.

Yep, you're right. It will be the same Joe Gordon, a 41-year-old youngster who retired in 1950 from the American League wars, after seven years with the Yankees and four with the Cleveland Indians as a master second baseman.

Maybe it's just to point up Detroit's No. 1 efficiency, or to show the youngsters how, or maybe Harris is just kidding.

"Certainly not," says Harris. "At least I'm going to take a look at him for four or five innings. Who can say he is too old to play until after he has been in there. Sure, he's listed as a coach and that is what he is, but I still want to have a look."

Fites Last Nite

PHILADELPHIA — Jimmy Soo 136½, Philadelphia, outpointed Earl Oilton, 137½ Philadelphia, 8.

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio — Harrison (Kid) Glover, 198, Cambridge, Ohio, knocked out George Cheatem, 201, Warren, Ohio, 1.

SAN FRANCISCO—Esau Ferdinand, 164, San Francisco, outpointed Jim Body, 165, Oakland, Calif., 10.

NEW YORK (Sunnyside Garden) — Johnny Busso, 140, New York, outpointed Frank Ippolito, 139, New York, 8.

LOS ANGELES—Joey Dorando, 146 Los Angeles, outpointed Joe Abasta, 147, Los Angeles, 10.

Santee Running Despite Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)—His court battle to remain an amateur continued until Monday. Wes Santee runs the mile tonight at Cleveland's arena against token opposition and the meet record he set here a year ago.

It will be the third race for the 23-year-old Marine lieutenant since the Amateur Athletic Union's Executive Committee by a 14-1 vote suspended him for life last Feb. 19.

After opening statements in the State Supreme Court in New York yesterday, a recess was declared until Monday in Santee's effort to get a permanent injunction preventing the AAU from enforcing its ban. Meanwhile, a temporary injunction remains in force against the AAU action, which was based on charges Santee took excessive expenses.

Santee's 4:04.6 time here last year was the best in the 15-year history of local Knights of Columbus indoor meets. In the two races he has run since the AAU suspension, he posted 4:10.5 at Milwaukee and 4:13.8 in New York.

There will be two sections of the mile race here, as there were in New York and Milwaukee. Other runners are wary of risking Olympic-year eligibility by competing against Santee until the court decides his case.

Santee probably will run in a second section of the mile against Ed Kirk of Lockbourne air base near Columbus and Bill Taylor, a fellow Marine from Quantico, Va. AAU rules permit servicement to compete against any opposition.

The first section has these entries: Ted Wheeler, Big Ten champion from Iowa; Phil Coleman of the University of Chicago Track Club; Ike Matza of New York University; John Walter, Michigan State graduate student; and Jack Blackburn of Ohio State.

Rigney, Bragan Start Well In Exhibition Game Series

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

Bill Rigney of the New York Giants and Bobby Bragan of Pittsburgh, both managers making their debuts in the major leagues this year, are off to a good start in exhibition games.

Rigney, up from Minneapolis, has seen his team win five of six while Bragan, brought in from Hollywood, has led his charges to three triumphs in five games.

Yesterday, Rigney got neat five-hit pitching from Allan Worthington, Johnny McCall and Hoyt Wilhelm as the Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-1. New York collected 16 hits, including a home run by Daryl Spencer.

The Pirates, a poor last in 1955, continued to show surprising strength in downing the Washington Senators 4-3 on Dale Long's three-run home run in the fifth inning.

Herm Wehmeier, Bob Miller and Saul Rogovin limited the St. Louis Cardinals as the Philadelphia Phillies came away with a 2-1 victory. Willie Jones' solo homer in the fourth inning off Ellis Kinder was the big blow.

The Kansas City A's, behind the five-hit chucking of Art Ceccarelli, Chuck Kowalski and Dutch Romberger whitewashed the Chicago White Sox 1-0. The Athletics got the winning run in the fifth inning while Minnie Minoso dropped an easy fly ball, enabling Jim Finigan to score from third.

Gene Conley, making his first start since suffering an injury last August, fired three hitless innings as the Milwaukee Braves sent the Brooklyn Dodgers down to their fifth setback in six games 6-2. Eddie Mathews whacked a pair of homers for the Braves.

Detroit was held to only four hits by Johnny Kucks, Rip Coleman and Ralph Terry as the New York Yankees clobbered the Tigers 8-2. Bill Skowron drove in three runs for the Yanks with a single and a homer.

In other games, Dick Gernert's triple in the 10th inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs and the Cleveland Indians unleashed a 17-hit attack, led by homers by Al Smith and Hoot Evers, to beat Baltimore.

Buc Trackers Hampered By Weather; 7 Meets Slated

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Writer

Cold and rainy weather are currently hampering the outdoor drills of Coach J. O. Miller's East Carolina track team, as it prepares for its season's opener against Hampden Sidney. The Bucs will visit the HS cinder court on March 21.

At the present, the local trackmen have only seven meets definitely scheduled for the 1956 season, Coach Miller has expressed the probability that other opponents will be added to the list before the campaign is over.

May Busy Month

The schedule indicates that the month of May will be East Carolina's busiest on the cinderpaths. During the second week of that month, the Bucs will compete in the North State Conference Championship Meet, then will journey to Raleigh to tackle all comers in the Carolina AAU Title affair. The site of the North State event is undecided as of this date.

With only seven names on the Pirate card thus far, they already have a tough season ahead of them. They will battle such outstanding opponents as Wake Forest, North Carolina State and the University of Richmond.

Henderson Big Gun

"Injun" Jim Henderson is expected to be the big gun for the Buccaneers this year, following a brilliant season in 1955. The 6-1 Portsmouth, Virginia, athlete tied one North State record and broke two others in last year's Championship matches, and is expected by coaches to be an even better performer during the current season.

The fleet - footed sophomore emerged from the NS action as one of the top tracksters of the league after having tied the 100-yd. dash mark with a 9.9 time, and set new high and low hurdles records. His scores in the latter two events are 14.9 and 24.2 respectively.

This season, besides participating in the above affairs, Henderson will work with the 220 and 440 yard sprints.

Seven veterans return to Coach Miller's squad to add power to the 1956 track crew. Bobby Perry, Eddie Dennis, Bobby Gay, Eddie Hurst, Cliff Buck, Bob Patterson and Bob Maynard will supply the group with plenty of depth, along with several newcomers.

Hometown Boy

Former Greenville high school flash, Bobby Perry is expected to give Henderson some real competition in the hurdle and sprinting departments. The 165 pound speedster is one of the fastest men on the club and was responsible for several Pirate wins last year against top collegiate foes.

Bob Maynard is also a strong man in the low and high hurdles. Newcomers Tommy Scriber and James Speight (another former GHS cinder ace) will add depth to the sprinting ranks.

Cliff Buck and George Bagley will lead the Pirates in the mile run and Charles Bishop will combine efforts with Joe Pond to pace the ECC half-milers.

Joe Dickerson, a freshman, is supposedly one of the best performers in the State in broad and high jump departments. He compiled outstanding records in these two events while an athlete at Henderson high school.

Lynn Barnette and Bob Derring will be East Carolina's answers to the enemy in the discus and shot put meets. Dave Granitz will also try his hand at the discus and is believed by some to be the school's top man in that incident.

Perry will come in to lead the broad jumpers with Speight and Tommy Scriber. Bobby Patterson will handle high jump chores with newcomer Dickerson. These two events will probably have more depth for the Bucs than any others.

Rising Welters With A Punch To Clash Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Two fast-rising young welterweights with a punch, Cuba's Isaac (Kid) Logart and Mexico's Gaspar (Indian) Ortega put their victory-studded records on the line tonight in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden.

Logart, 22-year - old sensation from Camaguey, Cuba, which sent former Champion Kid Gavilan to the top of the welters, has a record of 41 victories, five defeats and five draws in 51 outings. Eighteen of his triumphs were knockouts. He has won his last four, including a Feb. 10 triumph over Ramon Fuentes.

Fifteen knockouts show on Ortega's record of 32 wins and five defeats. The 20-year - old Mexican boxer earned a main event shot by his spectacular performances in recent semi-windups. The night Logart whipped Fuentes, Ortega scored an impressive victory over Tex Gonzales, a tough lightweight in the semifinal.

Catching Shad On Rod And Reel

Pitt Game Protector Joe Teel reported today fishermen in Contentnea Creek near Grifton have been catching white shad on rod and reel.

Teel said it is unusual for white shad to be taken by hook and line in this area although they are reportedly taker in that manner in other areas. The game protector said most of the white shad were being taken by fishermen trolling with spinners and spoons.

Big Rain Delays Start Of Round At Pinehurst

By KEN ALYTA

PINEHURST N.C. (AP)—Rain delayed the start in today's round of the North and South women's amateur golf tournament for two hours.

The first match was set to start at 12:18 p.m. as tournament officials hoped for a let-up in rains that have dumped about an inch and a half here since yesterday, most of it coming since last midnight.

The forecast, however, was for continuing rain through the day.

Meanwhile, all the favored performers still were in the running as players awaited today's call to the tee.

Medalist Barbara McIntire of Toledo, Ohio, and Jane Nelson, former school teacher from Indianapolis, were paired in today's top match, after breezing through yesterday's first round in style.

Barbara was only two over par as she stopped Marge Burns, Carolinas champion from Greensboro, N.C., 4 and 3, and Jane was three over in trimming another North Carolinian, Betty Long of Roxboro, 6 and 5. The performances were good in view of the cold rain that swept the No. 2 course of the country club, a 6,000 - yarder for the girls with par of 74.

They met in the quarter-finals of the National Amateur last August at Charlotte and Miss Nelson, shooting superb golf, was an easy 5 and 3 winner over the Rollins College sophomore. Jane eventually reached the finals before bowing to Pat Lesser of Seattle, runner-up here last year who is not entered this time.

Other upper half pairings today sent Sheila Moss, San Bernardino, Calif., against Anne Quast, Marysville, Wash.; Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Tex., against Anne Richardson, Coumbus, Ohio; and Greta Leone, Chicago, against Wanda Sanches, Baton Rouge, La.

Miss Richardson had the only first round romp, getting by Virginia Ott, Williamsport, Pa., 8 and 7. The others had to go at least 17 holes and Miss Quast was pushed to the 19th before pulling out a 1-70 triumph over Claudette La Bonte of Assonet, Mass.

Heading the lower half after a 7 and 6 victory over Sally Carroll, Wheeling W. Va., youngster, was Canadian Champion Marlene Stewart from Fonthill, Ontario, runner-up for the medal. She drew yesterday's hottest scorer, Ruthie Jessen of Seattle, who was only one over par in the day's easiest victory, 9 and 8, over Mrs. John Gessler, Philadelphia, North and South runner-up 11 years ago.

PRO BASKETBALL (NBA)

Syracuse 82, New York 77 (Playoff for 3rd place in Eastern Division)

Weekend To Pose Upset Questions

Can the Stuffer outscore the Whale? Are the Big Ten champions big enough to slow down the nation's biggest scorers? And how many more of the nation's collegiate basketball powers will be washed overboard by a wave of upsets?

These and other cage questions will be answered over the weekend in the three big postseason college tournaments — National Collegiate Championship, National Invitation Tournament and NAIA.

The far-flung NCAA tourney, with double-headers tonight in Philadelphia, Lawrence, Kan., Iowa City and Corvallis, Ore., gets most of the attention. Tonight's winners meet in the same cities tomorrow night, and the winners of those games converge on Evanston, Ill., next Thursday for the big windup.

The NAIA, after a strenuous week, goes into the semifinals tonight in Kansas City and McNeese State meeting Pittsburg (Kan) and Texas Southern playing Wheaton.

The NIT gets going with double-headers tomorrow afternoon and night in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Getting back to the unanswered questions, the big one is posed at Corvallis. That's where All American Bill Russell of San Francisco, named The Stuffer for continuously ramming the ball down the basket, again runs afoul of UCLA's Willie (The Whale) Naulls. Russell won the last time they met, in New York's Holiday Festival in December, but since then has lost the help of guard K. C. Jones, a second-team All America ineligible for the NCAA Tournament.

Both San Francisco, No. 1 in the nation in the final Associated Press poll with a 25-0 record, and UCLA, No. 8 with 21-5, boast long winning streaks. UCLA has won 17 straight since the December loss to USF, while the Dons boast the all-time major college winning streak of 51.

The somewhat overshadowed second game at Corvallis matches Utah, champion of the Skyline Conference at 22-5 against Seattle (17-8).

Tonight little Morehead of Kentucky will meet Iowa, champions of the Big Ten for the second successive year. Morehead was the nation's highest scoring major team during the regular season with 96 points a game.

The other game at Iowa City also is a David and Goliath affair with little Wayne (Mich.), 17-1 during the regular season and surprise victor over DePaul in the first round, taking on mighty Kentucky.

Southern Methodist, which barely missed being extinguished by the upset wave in the NCAA first round against Texas Tech, puts its 23-2 record and No. 7 national ranking against Houston's 17-5 mark in one game at Lawrence.

Kansas State (15-7), Big Seven titlist, meets perennial NCAA at-large entry Oklahoma City (19-6) in the other game.

At Philadelphia, Temple, 23-3 after knocking off Holy Cross, meets Connecticut (17-9) and Canisius (18-6) plays Dartmouth (17-10). Canisius pulled the upset of the tourney thus far by knocking off North Carolina State No 2 in the nation, in the first round Monday.

Investing in young America . . . a progress report

"TO HELP deserving young men and women obtain a college education . . . to give financial support to a cross-section of American colleges . . ."

FOUR YEARS AGO, the Union Carbide Scholarship Plan was established with those objectives.

Today, the plan provides the complete cost of tuition and fees for 100 four-year scholarships at colleges and universities throughout the country. As an important part of their education, the scholars are encouraged to gain valuable experience in their chosen fields by obtaining jobs in industry during summer vacation.

50 TECHNICAL SCHOLARSHIPS are also available in specific fields of study. They cover the student's tuition and fees for the senior year. In addition, to assist graduate students and to support academic research, Union Carbide offers 60 fellowships and grants-in-aid to universities.

THE PEOPLE OF UNION CARBIDE regard these scholarships as an important contribution to the future and to two of America's priceless assets—its educational system . . . and its youth.

BISSETTE'S DRUG STORE

PICTURE TALK

by CHARLES BISSETTE

It's getting easier and easier to make snapshots in full color thanks to the millions and millions of dollars the manufacturers are spending on research for this purpose. Take the new Kodacolor Film, for example. Not so long ago—in fact, just about yesterday—if you loaded your camera for outdoor color shots you took outdoor shots alone. You couldn't finish the roll indoors unless you took special precautions such as the use of blue flash lamps or a blue filter. Likewise, an indoor color film could be used outdoors only IF you used a special filter. Then, in addition, there were often exposure compensations that had to be made.

Today, the new Kodacolor Film ushers in a completely new era of simplification in color photography. You use the same film, indoors or out, without filters or special flash lamps. And the color snaps you get back when the film is processed and printed are spectacularly brilliant and beautiful. Don't take our word for it. Buy a roll and try it.

Retailers Hope Reserve Board's Estimate Right

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Retailers hope the Federal Reserve Board is right in its finding that Americans plan to go on living it up this year.

Retail sales, taken as a whole, have been running behind the fast pace set in the closing months of last year. Retail inventories, taken as a whole, have been rising.

If the Easter trade doesn't come up to expectations and if the public doesn't loosen its purse strings generously, price cutting could become a significant part of the merchandising scene later on. The food chains have shown the way with some tempting bargains in recent weeks—and the public has responded appreciatively.

The real test of consumer spending is yet to come. Right now the emphasis is largely on spring apparel. Women are expected to dash into the stores between snow flurries and buy new spring outfits for themselves and their children and—if there's any money left over—maybe a new tie or hat for their husbands to sport in the Easter parade on April Fool's Day.

The official arrival of spring next week—and its real arrival somewhat later—is counted upon to increase the yen for a new car, a house in the suburbs, and all manner of furnishings, durable or soft, for present homes.

The federal reserve's survey of the public's spending mood, conducted annually for it by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, indicates that about as many persons this year as last plan to indulge themselves in car, house and appliance purchases.

For the retailer, particularly for those who sell their goods on time, the cheerful part of the survey is that the majority of consumers "are optimstic about their own income prospects and are very optimistic about prospects for general business conditions."

It is out of this optimism that retail sales, particularly installment plan sales, are born.

Basketball Still Big At Grimesland High

By MELVIN BOYD
GRIMESLAND SCHOOL

The students at Grimesland High are still enjoying basketball though the regular season is over.

They are having teams within the school competing with each other to compensate for the loss of a baseball team this year because the ball field couldn't be put into shape and there are not many teams in the county this year.

It is under the supervision of Mr. Bailey, principal, and Mr. Williams, coach.

MELVIN

Five teams and captains were selected from the regular ball team, who are: Stony Evans, Happy Elks, Ormond Earl Williams, Frankie Singleton, Dan Mills. Each captain selected boys out of the whole school who were not in their room or on the varsity team so there would be more competition among the teams. They gave each team a name. They are: Speeders, Little Giants, Comets, Cardinals, and Hot Shots. Each team will play twice a week in the gym at activity period.

The seniors at Grimesland High are beginning their planning for graduation this week. They have chosen the Sunday morning of May 20 for the Baccalaureate sermon. Plans are being made for a chorus to sing which will be under the direction of Miss Oma Bliss Lewis, the math teacher at Grimesland.

The Algebra II class at Grimesland ended a project on curved stitching this week. They used angles drawn on colored construction paper with bright thread sewn on it. They illustrated curves such as parabolas, ellipsses, circles, etc. The bright colored thread on the construction made a pretty bulletin board illustration on curves.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Hardee gave a demonstration on the use of machine attachment and care of the machine, third in a series of Women's Adult Classes in the Home Economics Department, Mrs. Ross is in charge of the classes.

The Mobile X-Ray will be at Grimesland Friday, March 16, for chest X-rays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. People over 15 will be eligible.

The junior class at Grimesland High will sponsor a dance March 17 starting at 7:30 in the high school auditorium. They will sell drinks and candy.

The Beta Club had a call meeting Monday of this week under suggestion from Mrs. Carr, the advisor, and Nancy Scherer, president. They are selling hose at a bargain to make money.

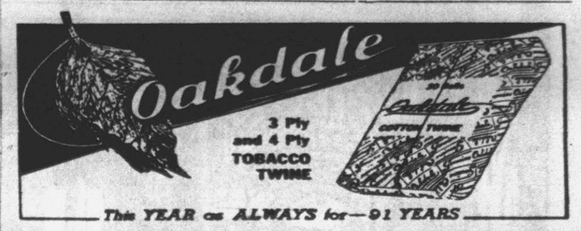

The PTA held its monthly meeting at Grimesland High last Tuesday night.

Dr. Jenkins To Give Address

FARMVILLE—Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, vice president of East Carolina College, will deliver the commencement address at Farmville High School May 24, Principal Sam D. Bundy has announced.

Graduation exercises will begin Sunday, May 20, with Dr. C. W. Robbins, president of Louisburg College, delivering the commencement sermon that evening.

Diplomas will be awarded the following Thursday evening.

Jesus Institutes the Lord's Supper — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 22:1-71.

As the Passover neared the chief priests and scribes pondered on a way to get Jesus into their power that they might kill Him. Judas Iscariot, tempted by Satan, went to them offering to betray Him for money.

Peter and John were sent by Jesus to prepare the Passover. They would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water on his head. Following him to a house, the owner would show them the room in which to hold the Passover.

At table Christ passed the disciples the wine, broke bread and gave it to them, saying the wine was His blood, shed for them; the bread His body broken for them, adding "This do in remembrance of Me."

Jesus declared that one of the 12 would betray Him. Peter vowed he would go to prison or death with his Master, but Christ said Peter would deny Him thrice 'ere the cock crowed.

MEMORY VERSE—I Corinthians 11:26.

Jesus Institutes the Lord's Supper

HE ASKS HIS DISCIPLES TO EAT AND DRINK IN REMEMBRANCE OF HIM

Scripture—Luke 22:1-71.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE FEAST of unleavened bread, called the Passover, was near. It was celebrated in memory of the flight of the Israelites from Egypt after the firstborn of the Egyptians were slain by the Lord, but the children of the Israelites were spared because of the lambs' blood splashed on the lintels of their doors.

Now, the chief priests and scribes plotted to kill Jesus, but they feared the people. Then Judas Iscariot, whom Satan had entered, went to them and told them that he would help them to trap Christ when He was away from the crowd, and they were glad to pay him for the job.

It seems impossible that a man who had been a companion of Jesus for two years or more, could, for a paltry sum of money, betray Him to His enemies. Satan indeed must have taken complete possession of Judas.

Then came the day of the Passover, and Jesus sent Peter and John to prepare the feast. Asked where it would be held, Jesus told the two that as they entered the city they would meet a man carrying a pitcher of water on his head. They were to follow him to a house, where the owner had a large upper room. There would they hold the Passover.

Jesus and the 12 assembled in the room prepared for them and sat at table. Jesus said: "With desire I have desired to eat this Passover with you, before I suffer." In those simple words Jesus instituted what is now called "Communion" which myriads of people all over the world commemorate today.

We have no space to go into the details of the Passover ceremony which Jewish people celebrate, but a few words from the teacher would doubtless interest the classes.

Jesus, of course, knew His time on earth was nearly over; that He would be trapped by His enemies, and He knew too, who would betray Him.

Did the disciples know or sense what would take place and feel sad? We do not know, although they must have noticed how determined these so-called "religious" men of the temple were to slay the Messiah who had been sent to them?

Jesus took the cup of wine, probably tasted it and said: "Take this and divide it among yourselves." And He took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave it to them, saying, "This is My body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of Me."

After supper He passed the second cup of wine, saying: "This cup is the new testament in my blood which is shed for you."

Then Christ said a most startling thing: "Behold, the hand of him that betrayeth Me is with Me on the table. And truly the Son of man goeth, as it was determined; but woe unto that man by whom He is betrayed."

Imagine!—at this dramatic moment the disciples began an argument about whom among them was greatest! Jesus told them he who would be greatest would be the one who served, as He came to earth to serve. He told Peter that He had "prayed for thee that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted strengthen thy brethren."

Peter told Jesus he was ready to go to prison with Him and even to death, but Christ told him that "the cock shall not crow this day, before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest Me."

Jesus then went to the Mount of Olives and the disciples followed. Jesus went aside to pray, saying, "Father, if Thou be willing, remove this cup from Me; nevertheless not My will but Thine be done." An angel from heaven appeared to Him, strengthening Him. Going back to the disciples He found them sleeping, and He told them to "rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation."

Even as He spoke a multitude came, and Judas with them. The traitor went to Jesus and kissed Him as a sign that this was He. Jesus said to Judas, "Betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?"

One of Jesus' ocmpanions cut off the ear of a servant of the high priest with a sword, but Jesus told him to stop and healed the man. Jesus asked His enemies why they came to Him as if He were a common thief, armed with swords and staves? while when He was in the temple daily they raised no hand against Him?

When the mob had taken Jesus to the high priest's house where Peter followed, a maid recognized Peter as being Jesus' companion, but he denied it. Three times he repeated his denial, and then he heard the cock crow, and he went out weeping bitterly.

Christ was beaten, mocked and in the morning He was taken to the council and asked: "Art Thou the Christ"? He said, "If I tell you, ye will not believe." "Art Thou then the Son of God"? "Ye say that I am," Jesus said.

"And they said, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of His own mouth." This was Jesus' first trial by these unbelieving, cruel men in whom there was no sense of right or justice.

Traveling Piano Wasn't Wanted

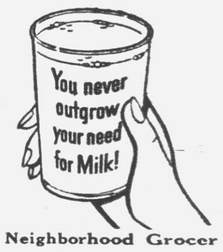

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Composer Lukas Foss didn't like the concert grand piano provided for his solo performance with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

A piano company rushed another from Belleville Ill., 30 miles away. Foss tried it out but said he preferred the first piano after all.

The company moved the second piano back to Belleville at its own expense. "It happens all the time," a company official sighed.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

Michael Dark, in the three days since he had walked down the gangplank of the transport, had found no ease for his restlessness. The Lindens had him to dinner on the second night. Ryerson was there, enlivening the table with outrageous yarns about Swedish rebels.

Only when Charlotte said goodby to him at the door did he recapture a spark of his old love for her. Ryerson and Barclay had retreated to the library, for now Barclay was openly Ryerson's backer in the hotel deals.

"Michael!" Charlotte's hands clutched his. "Michael, I've missed you so."

He wondered if she too was thinking of the last real meeting between them. He felt a reminiscent sting of tea on his cheek. "It's good being back, Charlotte."

Headed down the street away from the Lindens, Michael smiled. Charlotte was a child, a lovely, entrancing child. The old urgent need for her had left him, yet he knew too that he felt for her something different from anything he might feel for another woman. Memories, her very weaknesses endeared her to him.

He thought of Meg. Were memories binding her too? What kind of a man was this husband of hers?

He found opportunity to ask another woman the next day when Inez Smith met him on the street and invited him to her house. It was a very quiet house on a quiet street, and Michael suspected that Inez was rather lonely. Because she owned and operated saloons, good women would shun her. She was not, he decided, a woman who would be friendly with the ordinary Tenderloin madams or their girls.

She left him in her heavily laced and horse-haired parlor and presently returned with brandy in goblets on a carved tray. She put one goblet at Michael's elbow, took the other and sat opposite him.

He lifted his glass to her. "The army was never like this, Inez."

"Neither," she said dryly "was Alaska."

He looked at her and saw strength. Inez was lusty, earthy. She faced facts and didn't try to twist them into what she wanted to see.

"Inez," he said abruptly, "what sort is Kemp Beaumont?"

Her full mouth tucked in at the corners. "A man with blarney bone-deep."

"That I can see for myself. What else?"

Her dark brows arched in thought. "Maybe he went bad in Alaska, Michael. Some do. She going to divorce him, Michael?"

"I don't know."

He thought of Jason. Jason had waited for him in his office and next morning after Kemp turned up, poured out a flood of abuse for him—and left for San Francisco that noon. Michael didn't blame him. No matter what happened, there would be waiting involved. Jason was no good at that.

Inez leaned forward as if to brush away the disturbing thoughts of the Beaumonts. "I guess Ryerson may give Ten Eyck a run for his money. Did you hear that the snow and ice trains are due to start next month?"

"So they've popped up again," Michael said with little interest.

"And half the Middle West with them, I'd say." Inez chuckled "It's good for business. Half those states are dry, if you can believe it, Michael. Makes 'em feel real devilish to walk right into a bar and order a drink."

Michael joined in her laughter. He felt better than he had since he returned. Inez encouraged optimism. Kemp and Meg would probably make out all right.

Nathan Grundy dropped into the hat shop at four that afternoon, his stolid appraisal putting to flight the last of the gossip-hungry women. When they fluttered off Nathan took Jenny into his arms. She leaned against him, sniffling a little. "Nathan, it's been—dreadful."

"I suppose it has. Get your coat, Jenny. I'll walk home with you."

"It's only four o'clock. Do you suppose Meg will have finished talking to—to him?"

"I shouldn't think what she probably has to say to him would take long." Nathan's tone was dry. Kemp Beaumont was lucky if the law or more likely some man he'd skinned wasn't on his trail this minute.

He helped her into her coat, smiling down at her. "Didn't Meg say anything to you about her husband?"

"No. She doesn't, you know. She keeps things to herself."

Jason and Meg were alike in that. Nathan wondered what scheme Jason was forging in San Francisco. It would be a solid one, calculated to make short work of Kemp Beaumont and his presence, Nathan was sure of that.

They were halfway home when Nathan put another question. "If Meg weren't mixed up in this, what would you think of Beaumont?"

"He's pleasant but—but I wouldn't trust him."

"No."

"Yet I can't feel he'd really—do anything. I think Meg could always . . ." She hesitated, obviously seeking words.

"Handle him? You're probably right."

Jenny moved ahead of Nathan into the hall and stopped short. "What's that? Sounds as if Jezebel's in the house and has been—hurt."

Nathan listened and wariness, mixed with odd fear touched him. Of course it was nothing—the cat as Jenny guessed. Yet there had been a queer human sound to that whimpering that bothered him. Holding Jenny's arm, he hurried down the hall and looked into the parlor.

Jenny cried out and swayed against him. He put his arm about her and held her tightly. He stared with horror and amazement at the tableau before him.

Kemp Beaumont lay flat on his back but his head was turned sideways, so that the right side of his face looked almost natural. The flesh of the left side of his face was blown away so much that Nathan did not think he would have recognized him from that vantage point. Blood was all about him.

Meg was kneeling on the floor at Kemp's feet. Her hands and clothes were bloodstained. She looked up at them with unfocused eyes, put her hands over her face and shivered convulsively. From time to time the thin whimper they had heard from the hall came from her half-open mout.

"Meg!" Jenny left Nathan's sheltering arm and rushed forward, knelt beside Meg and put her arms about her. Meg whimpered again, then her eyes rolled up and she fell against Jenny in a faint.

Nathan, his throat constricted, went to them, lifted Meg into his arms and carried her into the dining room. The telephone shrilled into the silence, and Jenny at Nathan's gesture moved to answer it. He was proud of the way she forced her voice under control.

"Come home, Matilda. Kemp Beaumont's—dead."

She didn't say he'd been murdered. But remembering Kemp's face, Nathan knew that no one could delay it long.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market ran into limited profit taking today with prices generally lower in the early afternoon.

The decline came after the market had surged to record heights on five of the last six sessions.

Losses in key issues were under a point in most cases. A handful of specialties was ahead around two points on favorable corporate news.

Volume was running at a somewhat slower pace than yesterday's total of 3,270,000 shares, largest of the week.

Coppers, chemicals and most steels, rails and motors were down a shade, utilities were mixed, and airlines were fractionally higher.

Combustion Engineering, Lukens Steel and Campbell Wyant chalked up gains of around 2 points. Pittsburgh Steel rose more than a point. Combustion Engineering directors proposed a three for one common stock split after the market closed yesterday.

In the motors, Studebaker-Packard was off close to a point in active trading. Ford and Chrysler were lower, and General Motors was holding at about yesterday's close.

Du Pont and Kennecott Copper were down more than two points. Kennecott has been a sharp gainer in recent sessions. Du Pont today cut prices for nylon and filament yarns in an effort to spur sales of synthetic fabric.

Gainers included Standard Oil (New Jersey), Long Bell Lumber, Canadian Pacific, U. S. Rubber, United Air Lines and Eastern Air Lines.

Lower were Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Zenith Radio, Dow Chemical, Southern Pacific and Phelps Dodge.

At noon the Associated Press 60 stock average was off 40 cents at $188.20. Yesterday the average rode up 90 cents to a new peak of $188.60.

Kefauver Favors Repeal Of T-H

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) said last night he favors outright repeal rather than amendment of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

"Then we can start fresh with a clean slate and a clean bill," he told an audience of United Steelworkers. "Labor must be free from the disruptions of labor-management relations which have been the heritage of this act."

Kefauver, subject of an attack by Adlai Stevenson yesterday, told newsmen he would not comment on the episode. The two are campaigning for Democratic delegates in the Minnesota presidential primary Tuesday. Last night Stevenson spoke at Eveleth, 60 miles to the north, while Kefauver was appearing here.

"You will not hear one word from my lips, not one word of criticism of Mr. Stevenson," Kefauver said. "He is a man of high principles."

Stevenson had said at Nashwauk, Minn., he regretted that Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn) and "other Minnesota Democratic - Farmer-Labor leaders should be attacked by my distinguished and respected friend Sen. Kefauver merely because they saw fit to endorse me."

In north central Minnesota yesterday, Kefauver continued to hammer at the Eisenhower farm policies. He reiterated his stand for 100 per cent parity prices for farmers with incomes up to $7,000 per year.

Offers Reward In Gun Killing

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Martha Gunn has offered $5,000 reward for information that will solve the slaying of her husband, Dr. Harrison Gunn.

Dr. Gunn, 63, prominent in Dayton's Negro community, was killed by three bullets fired through the window of his home March 4 while he and Mrs. Gunn sat watching a television program. Dt. Lt Richard Grundish said seven detectives investigating the case have discovered "no motive nor immediate suspects."

Star Fragment For University

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—A star fragment which fell on Alabama and brought fame to Mrs. Hulitt Hodges because it hit her has been given to the University of Alabama.

The nine-pound meteorite plopped through the roof of Mrs Hodges' home near Sylacauga, Ala., Nov. 30, 1954.

As many as 75 offers to purchase the meteorite were made, one as high as $5,000, said Mrs. Hodges. But she decided to give the prize to the university.

Britain, U. S. Agree As To Action In Israeli-Arab War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France apparently have reached basic understanding on the military measures they may take if an Israeli-Arab war breaks out.

That was the interpretation diplomatic quarters here put on British Prime Minister Eden's cryptic reference yesterday in London to his inability to make public any Big Three military decisions because of constitutional differences between them.

The big difference is between the British government's ability to take decisive military steps on its own authority and the power which President Eisenhower may have for action in a crisis.

The American President is commander in chief of the armed forces but Congress has the constitutional responsibility to declare war. Eisenhower has said frequently he has no intention of engaging U.S. forces in military operations abroad without consulting Congress. Precisely how this would apply in the event of an extreme Middle East crisis has never been exactly defined.

Some officials say they privately foresee the possibility of war developing so quickly that the President might be faced with a necessity of almost instant action.

Officials here are reluctant to talk about military planning, but they tend to confirm that plans actually have been worked out for the Middle East.

State Department informants stress however, that the main concern of Washington, London and Paris is to prevent war from breaking out.

In the next few days, it now seems certain, they will propose a resolution to the United Nations Security Council designed to achieve two major purposes—if the Soviet Union does not veto it:

1. To put the Arab states and Israel alike on notice that the U.N. will react swiftly if either side starts a war.

2. To strengthen the U.N. truce supervision group under Canadian Gen. E. L. M. Burns. His force now totals about 40 officers.

There has been speculation that this might be increased to perhaps 1,000 officers. Such an increase would be useful, officials say, only if Israel and the Arab states agreed to let the enlarged staff operate freely in border areas where clashes have occurred.

Construction of a landing on the Tar River was discussed by members of the newly organized Tau Boating Club when they met last night in the City Hall courtroom.

The Site and Construction committee made a report on its progress, and members made suggestions for the type of landing to be built.

It was announced there are now 45 charter members of the organization.

The next meeting will be held March 27.

deep music of living; the low, sad rhythms of eternity. The Irishman hears the high song of the turning spheres, the dim lullaby of the worm in its cocoon. All the world is in tune, and he is in step with the tune, the tune that only he can hear.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to live the whole history of his race between a dawn and a dawn—the long wrongs, the bird-swift joys, the endless hurt of his ancestors since the morning of time in a forgotten forest, the knock-at-his heart that is part of his religion.

What is it to be Irish?

It isn't only the realization that he is descended from kings. It is the realization that he is a king himself, an empire on two feet striding in power, a strolling continent of awe.

What is it to be Irish?

Why on St. Patrick's Day, to be Irish is to know more glory, adventure, magic, victory, exultation, gratitude and gladness than any other man can experience in a lifetime.

What is it to be Irish? It is to walk in complete mystic understanding with God for 24 wonderful hours.

If a modern car were produced by methods used in 1908 it would cost more than $65,000.

Paroles Board . . .

12. Other items which have a bearing on the merits of the case.

The board itself interviews all felons considered for parole. A felon is a prisoner generall convicted of a more serious crime and sentenced to prison. Generally a misdemeanant is a prisoner convicted of a less serious crime and given a road sentence.

Patrick said the board conducts interviews at eight centers throughout the state. Felons considered for parole are brought to the centers by the Prisons Department on Thursday and Fridays. The board makes a visit to each center about every four weeks.

It is rare, Patrick said, for a prisoner to receive a parole before serving a fourth of his sentence. There are extenuating circumstances some times under which this is done, he explained, saying "You may have a man about to die, or a woman about to become a mother."

The board has an average of about 1,600 parolees under supervision each month.

When a prisoner with a term of 12 months or more has completed a fourth of his sentence, his case comes up automatically for parole consideration. If parole is denied, the case is set up for review again at a later date.

Although supervisors interview misdemeanants considered for parole, the board passes upon all paroles granted, Patrick asserted.

Jam Church To Hear Americans

MOSCOW (AP)—More than 2,500 Russians jammed Moscow's small Baptist church last night to hear a sermon and talks by visiting American church leaders.

Most of the Russians appeared to be in their 50s. They wiped tears from their eyes as the Americans spoke, chorused "Amen" repeatedly and nodded vigorous assent as the messages were translated.

As each American was introduced, the congregation rose to chorus "Welcome" in Russian.

The 10-man American delegation is here for conferences with Russian churchmen in an effort to better understanding between American and Russian religious groups.

The speakers last night included Dr. Eugene C. Blake of Philadelphia, president of the National Council of Churches; Dr. Franklin C. Fry of New Rochelle, N. Y., president of the United Luthrean Church of America; Bishop D. Ward Nichols of New York, presiding bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Church; and Vassili Zhidhoff, president of the Council of Evangelical Baptist Churches of the Soviet Union.

Dr. Blake said he brought greetings from the Christians of the United States, who "feel warm, Christian love for you."

Bishop Nichols told the Russians the Negro's life in America "is like that of any other people."
