Leaders At ECC Reading Clinic

PROGRAM PRINCIPALS—Leaders in yesterday's reading conference at East Carolina College were, left to right: Mrs. Susan Perry, special education teacher Brookgreen School and reading clinic tutor; Mrs. Edna Earle Baker, Pitt school supervisor and clinic coordinator; William J. Waters, principal, Caswell Training School, and consultant in special education; Dr. Keith Holmes, East Carolina College Education Department, director of the clinic and conference; Gareth Thorne, director of training at Caswell Training School who delivered the luncheon address; and Miss JoAnn Flowers, clinical assistant who will teach at Caswell the coming year.

CLINIC WORK—Mrs. Gladys Colie of Spring Hope instructs Jimmy Nethercut and Bobby Edwards (foreground) of Greenville in word attack and silent reading for comprehension and speed at the reading clinic at ECC. Purpose of the clinic is to teach boys and girls to read better. Classes began June 11 and closed today, climaxed by a special conference attended by school administrators, teachers and parents yesterday. Sixteen teachers served as clinical assistants for 25 students at this year's clinic, the third to be held at the college. (Reflector Photos by Edwina Holmes).

200 Teachers Participate In Reading Clinic

More than 200 teachers in North Carolina public schools participated Thursday at East Carolina College in a conference devoted to the improvement of reading skills among children. Lectures, discussions and demonstrations of teaching techniques made up the day's program. Dr. Keith D. Holmes of the college education department acted as conference chairman. Dr. Holmes is director of East Carolina's Summer Reading Clinic, where sixteen teachers and prospective teachers, serving as clinicians, have had practical experience during the past six weeks in instructing twenty-five slow readers, selected from various schools in this part of the state.

Mrs. Susan Perry of the Brookgreen School in Greenville and John Flowers of Elm City, East Carolina graduate of 1956, assisted Dr. Holmes in discussing and demonstrating at the morning session ways to help the slow learner and unsuccessful reader to develop better skills. Dr. Hazel Taylor of the East Carolina psychology department, director of testing at the college, focused attention on methods of improving the reading habits of high school students. Zack Whitford of Vanceboro acted as her assistant.

Gareth D. Thorne, director of training at the Caswell Training School, addressing conference members at a luncheon meeting, focused attention on the atypical child and his problems as a reader. He was introduced to his audience by Dr. J. K. Long, director of the East Carolina department of education.

Mr. Thorne pointed out that teaching reading to the atypical child presents many special problems. Such a child, he said, will progress as a reader at a rate commensurate with his mental age.

Greenville Man To Preside At Fire Convention

Leroy Barnes of Greenville, president of the North Carolina Association of Negro Fire Companies, will preside at the 65th annual convention in Warrenton July 10-12.

Greenville's Ruff and Ready Fire Company, Heber Green captain, will have 17 members at the convention to participate in the parade and reel truck and foot races. Greenville firemen held the state championship belt many times.

Greenville firemen to attend the convention: State President Leroy Barnes, Company Captain Heber Green, Marion Forbes, Bennie Wilton, Grant Wilcox, George Hunt, Leroy Whitehurst, Edmond Love, Willie Wooten, James Hagan, Joe Lee Joyner, Frank Gray, Jack Ray Moe, Reginald Graye, Alfred B. Foreign Aid Bill Slashed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to chop $1,405,955,000 out of President Eisenhower's five-billion-dollar foreign aid money request for this year.

The 28 per cent slash, applying mostly to proposed arms aid for free world countries, went 300 million dollars deeper than previously voted House cuts which Eisenhower said "seriously impair" U. S. and free world security.

Those cuts were made by the House in an authorization bill setting a ceiling on the program. The new measure, subject to House and Senate changes, would provide the actual money.

The committee approval of a $3,665,920,000 bill marked a sharp setback to strenuous administration efforts to win congressional passage of nearly the full amount Eisenhower sought.

The committee voted also a "thorough investigation" of foreign aid, saying there has been vagueness and a lack of information about the program. The House group said the U. S. overseas assistance plans are frequently put together "with little or no consideration of the needs of the country or countries concerned."

It said the new bill plus $6,870,000,000 in previously voted funds still unspent would allow the program to continue another two to three years at its present rate. The committee figured Eisenhower's total appropriations proposal at $5,071,875,000, with new funds of $4,859,975,000 plus $211,900,000 in requested reappropriation of carryover funds. It voted to chop the total to $3,665,920,000 including:

- 1. $1,930,500,000 for military assistance abroad, $1,236,100,000 below the administration-proposed $3,166,000,000. The House had cut the military figure a billion dollars in the authorization bill but, heeding strong administration protests, the Senate voted to restore 600 million dollars of that cut.

The House committee said that along with five billion dollars in previous military aid funds still unspent, the new appropriation would allow continued military assistance spending for about three years at the present rate.

2. 100 millions for economic development in the Middle East and Africa, the full amount Eisenhower requested, and 100 millions for a special "flexible" fund without strings as to where it could be applied.

But the committee turned down a request for another 100 million for an Asian development fund. It said 90 millions was still left from last year's appropriation for the same purpose.

3. $1,128,700,000 for "defense support"—economic aid to bolster defense efforts of countries getting U. S. military assistance.

This was close to the administration request, although there were some changes both up and down in the amounts specified for various parts of the world.

N. C. Bases Receive Supplemental Allocations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today recommended a supplemental appropriation of $1,398,450,000 for military construction projects in the year which began last Sunday. The amount is 357 million dollars above the budget requests. The recommended appropriation includes $1,228,000,000 for the Air Force and $165,000,000 to the Navy. Additionally, the committee proposed that the Navy get 235 million dollars and the Army 193 million dollars in transfers from previously appropriated funds. The Coast Guard is allocated $5,450,000 for LORAN stations. The appropriations recommended by the committee for various projects include: ARMY: Quartermaster Corps, Atlanta General Depot, Ga. $832,000; Columbia QM Market Center, S.C. $98,000. Field forces facilities: Ft. Bragg, N.C. $645,000; Charlotte Induction Station, N.C. $302,000. NAVY:

Navy shipyard facilities: Charleston, S.C. Shipyard $148,000; Charleston, S.C. Minecraft Base, $7,902,000. Aviation facilities: fleet support air stations — Harvey Point, N.C., $4,233,000. Marine Corps air stations: Beaufort, S.C., $14,872,000; Cherry Point, N.C. $650,000; New River, N.C., $143,000. Uproar Over Education Bill Vote Promises Affect Fall Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans and Democrats sought to fix responsibility on each other today for House action burying a federal aid to education program under a 224-194 vote.

It was a defeat for President Eisenhower, who had strongly urged such a program to help ease a nationwide shortage of school classrooms.

Capping a day of rare confusion and reversals, the House yesterday finally killed off the bill which would have authorized $1,600,000,000 in federal grants for school construction in the next five years while denying aid to states which continue to segregate children by race.

The ensuing uproar over who was responsible promised to carry over into the fall election campaign.

Democrats noted they produced a majority for the bill while the Republicans voted against it. Republicans said the Democrats were at fault for not supporting Eisenhower's plan to give weight to the needs of each state in dividing up the proposed grants. The Democratic-sponsored measure would have allocated the money solely on the basis of school-age population in each state.

Northerners blamed a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. And Southerners blamed an anti-segregation amendment and what some of them called a threat of federal control over local school systems.

Before the House knocked the whole measure in the head, it nailed onto the bill 225-192 an amendment by Rep. Powell (D-NY), a Negro, to deny school aid to states failing to "comply with decisions of the Supreme Court."

In a confused situation earlier, it had eliminated a somewhat similar provision, first approved on a tentative vote Tuesday.

That provision had foreshadowed trouble for the bill if it ever reached the Senate, since Southern Democrats had indicated they would talk to death a bill containing any such feature.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a backer of the bill, said House Republicans had "stuck a knife in the back of school aid." A few Republican votes could have saved it, he declared.

Humphrey said that if any school aid bill is to be passed this year, "it will take some presidential political oxygen to revive it."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), senior Republican on the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, told a reporter "it looks very difficult" to get any school legislation this year as result of the House action, although he added he will canvass the chances for reviving it in the Senate.

Those chances look dim, with Congress planning to wind up its session sometime this month.

Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic House leader, declared responsibility for the bill's defeat "rests on the Republican party," saying:

"There were 119 Democrats who voted for passage of the bill, and 75 Republicans. And there were 105 Democrats voted against passage, and 119 Republicans. I think that speaks for itself."

Rep. Halleck of Indiana, assistant GOP House leader, said the Democrats had chosen "to ignore the warning signals." He said they voted "almost solidly against the President's position and his announced policies" — a reference to the administration formula for dividing up the grants.

"By doing this, they must accept their responsibility for defeating this legislation," Halleck asserted.

Seldom has the House embroiled itself in such turmoil as that which ensnared the school measure.

Amid parliamentary confusion that had members clamoring for information from the chair, the House voted for a profusion of proposals that at one time knocked the anti-segregation restriction out of the bill.

This happened when the House adopted an amendment by Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) to require that the federal government each three months return to the states the equivalent of 1 per cent of federal income taxes coming from each state.

But in the course of passing the Gwinn amendment, it eliminated the original Powell amendment from the bill with many members not realizing it.

When this result became generally understood, the House voted back into the bill an emergency Powell amendment to ban funds to states failing to "comply with decisions of the Supreme Court."

Another result of the parliamentary tangle was to scrap Gwinn's plan and restore the $1,600,000, four-year program contained in the bill originally approved by the Education Committee. That was the form in which the measure died.

Last Tuesday, all hands had agreed to fix the amount and timing at 1 1/2 billions and five years. Eisenhower had recommended 1 1/2 billions over five years.

The hectic day began with Chairman Barden (D-NC) of the Education Committee, the bill's floor manager, dramatically abandoning the measure. Barden strongly opposed the anti-segregation amendment.

Kidnaped Child's Father Receives Telephone Call

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP) — The father of kidnaped Peter Weinberger today received a phone call from a person believed to have taken the month-old child. The father informed the caller he was prepared to meet the ransom demand.

Morris Weinberger, the father, received the call at 9:40 a. m. The only further information revealed was that he told the person on the phone: "Am ready to meet your demand, awaiting your call."

It was not made clear just why the response was worded in such fashion.

Weinberger's son was taken from a carriage at the back of their fashionable home here Wednesday afternoon while the mother had stepped into the house a moment.

A note was left, demanding $2,000 ransom.

Police baited a trap for the kidnaper yesterday with packages supposedly containing ransom money but mostly containing paper in bill size.

However, no one showed up to try to take either of two packages placed at spots in the vicinity of the Weinberger home.

Police refused to say after this morning's phone call to Weinberger's home whether they would step out of the case long enough for the family to make a private effort at getting the baby back.

It is now almost two days since the sleeping infant was snatched from his carriage on the patio of the Weinbergers' handsome brick and clapboard ranch house in this Long Island suburb.

For the first time, the words "if he is alive" were used by police in discussing the case.

His father Morris Weinberger, a well-to-do wholesale drug salesman, told police he had real money ready to pay the demanded $2,000 ransom. He said he would go anywhere, do anything to see his tiny son again.

The mother, Beatrice Weinberger, a pretty, 32-year-old brunette, sobbingly implored the kidnaper to "please, please, please call anyone. Leave a note anywhere. I shall see that you get what you want."

She was near collapse as she broadcast a radio and television appeal for the return of her son over a Freeport, N. Y., station. "I am the mother of Peter Weinberger," she read from a written statement that fluttered in her trembling hand. "Whoever you are, please return my baby . . . I assume you are desperately in need of money . . . I am willing to cooperate in any way . . . I am most concerned of all for the welfare of my baby . . . He is only four weeks old."

The next line in the statement was the most vital in the race against time. It contained the infant's formula. But she was unable to read it, and the note floated to the floor.

It was 3 p. m. on the Fourth of July that she last saw her baby. She had given Peter his formula at the prescribed feeding time, gone inside for a fresh diaper and returned to the patio to find him missing.

"Here," she cried to detectives. "You read this. I can't." Then, weeping uncontrollably, she dropped into a chair.

Detective Sgt. Edward Curran of the Nassau County police picked up the note and read the formula. It called for 17 ounces of sterile water, 1 1/2 level teaspoons of sugar, one 13-ounce can of evaporated milk, making a total of 30 ounces, enough for six round-the-clock feedings in five-ounce bottles.

The baby also must have vitamin B-12, five drops a day. Nassau Detective Chief Stuyvesant Pinnell told reporters no progress had been made in the case since the ransom envelopes went unclaimed.

"The family is waiting further instructions from the kidnapers," he said. "We have had several vague leads. All have gone nowhere. The check made on former domestics of the Weinbergers has not been productive so far."

The kidnaper directed in the ransom note that $2,000 in small bills be placed at 10 a. m. yesterday at the intersection of Albee Road and Park Avenue, near the Weinberger home.

New Supervisor Of Instruction For City Schools

Mrs. Ellen Lewis Carroll has been named Supervisor of General Instruction for the Greenville City Schools.

Her appointment by Superintendent J. H. Rose was announced today. Mrs. Carroll is the city's first school supervisor. She will assume her new duties August 15.

The new supervisor is a native of Pitt County and presently resides near Farmville. She received her undergraduate training at Flora MacDonald College and her Master's Degree from East Carolina College. She has done graduate work at Columbia University, Peabody Teachers College and the University of North Carolina.

MRS. CARROLL

She has taught in the elementary grades in the county and has served as principal at Falkland School. Since 1947 she has been critic teacher in a seventh grade at Wahl-Coates Laboratory School.

Mrs. Carroll's new duties will consist of coordinating the work of the various schools from the first grade through junior high school.

Superintendent Rose commented the appointment of the supervisor is "another effort to improve our instruction program. We think Mrs. Carroll will make a very fine supervisor and that she will have the cooperation of principals and teachers, as well as parents. She has already established a name for herself as a fine teacher."

State-Supported Institutions Ask For $20 Millions

RALEIGH (AP) — Eastern North Carolina state-supported institutions and agencies have put in requests for nearly 20 million dollars worth of permanent improvements.

The requests given to the Advisory Budget Commission last week in its biennial round of visits were reviewed yesterday by State Budget Director D. S. Coltrane. Additions and betterments asked by the institutions totaled $401,364, he said.

The Budget Commission will study the requests in drawing up budget recommendations to submit to the Legislature which meets in January.

It will resume its tour next Monday, when it visits the State Hospital, North Carolina State College, and the State School for the Blind and Deaf, all in Raleigh. The tour will cover the state before it ends July 19.

The State Ports Authority asked improvements of $4,035,236 at Wilmington, and $1,050,000 at Morehead City.

Other requests include: State Hospital at Goldsboro, $3,191,840 permanent improvements; $196,814 additions and betterments; and $1,108,807 for renovations; and $550,000 permanent improvements.

operating improvements, and $75,000 permanent funds for each year of the biennium.

Tryon Palace, $17,300 operating funds each year of the biennium. Elizabeth City State Teachers College, $689,500 permanent improvements; East Carolina College at Greenville, $3,597,293 permanent improvements; Fayetteville State Teachers College, $845,000 permanent improvements; $50,000 additions and betterments.

State Training School for Negro Girls, Kinston, $500,000 permanent improvements, $19,510 additions and betterments; Morrison Training School, Hoffman, $318,000 permanent improvements, $6,500 additions and betterments; State Home and Industrial School for Girls, Eagle Springs, $420,000 permanent improvements, $9,500 additions and betterments.

Eastern North Carolina Sanatorium at Wilson, air conditioning request expected later; North Carolina Sanatorium at McCain, $176,200 permanent improvements, $119,400 additions and betterments. Goldsboro Training School, $1,484,626.60 permanent improvements to increase capacity; and Caswell Training School, Kinston, $1,920,000 permanent improvements.

Record School Budget Approved By Board

RALEIGH (AP) — A record high public schools budget of over 12 1/2 million dollars was approved by the State Board of Education yesterday.

At the same time, the board turned thumbs down on the installation of commercial vending machines in public schools.

Another action by the board approved 21 school construction projects calling for $1,663,418.46 in state funds.

The $125,563,771 budget for the 1956-57 fiscal year is $4,345,794 over estimated expenditures for the past fiscal year. A balance of 1 1/2 million was on hand at the June 30 closing of the fiscal year, the board was told.

Special teachers for handicapped children will be raised by 35 to a total of 175 with $110,000 included in the new budget. Salaries for teachers and principals account for $107,858,183, compared with $104,193,621 for the past year.

State appropriations of $3,127,834 for vocational education were approved by the board. This includes: $1,400,252 for agriculture; $1,120,312 for home economics; $387,424 for trades and industries; $104,306 for distributive education; $129,381 for school lunch program; $13,703 for teacher training; and 72,403 for veterans education committee.

The board turned down the request of Charles T. Kivett of Greensboro for permission to put candy, gum and peanut vending machines in schools.

Dr. Charles F. Carroll, state superintendent of public instruction, explained, "If a child eats or drinks sweets he's not likely to indulge in the lunch at school like he should."

The only vending machines for school use should be those selling foodstuffs and beverages in connection with the approved cafeteria program, the board said. These should be operated on a nonprofit basis, it added.

Firemen Called To Wheat Field Fire

Firemen were called to the Harvey Tripp farm one mile west of Red Oak yesterday when a wheat field caught fire.

The flames endangered a nearby barn and packhouse. No damage resulted.

$62,000 Asked For Recreation In Bond Issue Vote Tuesday

Last in a series on improvements planned with the $275,000 in bond issue monies on which the people of Greenville will vote July 10.

The Recreation Commission is asking local voters to approve $62,000 for improvements in the city's recreation facilities when the bond issue election is held Tuesday. That amount will be shown on one of the six ballots which voters will be handed when they enter the polls on election day.

Voters will be able to vote for or against the projects listed on each of the ballots.

The Recreation Commission is asking $2,500 for drainage within Elm St. Park. They are also asking $20,000 for an activity building at South Greenville Park, and $25,000 for a shop and storage building to be constructed at Guy Smith Stadium.

Other items requested include: playground equipment at South Greenville Park, $1,000; playground equipment at Guy Smith Park, $1,000; playground equipment at Meadowbrook, $1,000; playground equipment at Third St., $1,000; lights on tennis courts at Elm St., $4,000; playground shelter and toilet facilities at Hillsdale, $2,500.

Playground shelter and toilet facilities at Woodlawn, $2,500; playground shelter and toilet facilities at Riverside, $2,500; toilet facilities at Greene Springs, $1,500; purchase and develop playground block in Colonial Heights, $7,500; purchase and develop playground block in East Englewood, $7,500; supplemental funds, $2,500.

Miss Margaret Culbreth is the daughter of Mrs. W. J. Clark of Greenville and the late W. F. Culbreth. Her engagement to Kinsey Winstead, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Winstead of Spring Hope, is announced by her mother. The wedding is planned for August 25.

The Lady Has A Dream Job: Every-Day Shopping Spree

DETROIT (AP)—Here's a woman with a job like a dream come true—four million dollars a year to spend and her husband doesn't say a word about it. That's because the money dispensed by attractive Eileen Lane O'Reilly belongs to the Ford Motor Co. Mrs. O'Reilly is the only woman buyer in the huge auto firm's construction purchasing department. She buys construction materials and labor, often seeing a new building through from the architect's blueprint to the final foot of fencing around the completed plant. Mrs. O'Reilly believes women make good purchasing agents "because, by nature, they're rather cold blooded about money. There's nothing as relentless as a woman on the trail of a bargain."

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER Sometimes blindness can be a qualification for service—or at least so it seems in the case of Miss Catherine Hardin, first blind foreign missionary. She will go to Antigua, British West Indies, where she will teach Braille to others who cannot see. This is a pilot project of the Gospel Association for the Blind, and, if successful, will pave the way for other blind workers to serve as foreign missionaries.

The World Federation of Methodist Women will meet at Lake Junaluska, N. C., Aug. 27-31. Theme of this meeting will be "Methodist Women in a Changing World." Speakers include Mrs. Alan Walker of Australia, Mrs. Florence Chen of Formosa, Mrs. Jose L. Valencia of the Philippines and Mrs. Lee King Beng of Malaya. An international tea will be held each afternoon and outstanding popular programs will be presented in the evenings. Women from 34 countries belong to the federation and several other units probably will join at this meeting. It also is expected that this international organization of Methodist women will become an affiliate of the World Methodist Council when it meets during the same week at Lake Junaluska.

An American dramatic soprano has been appointed assistant professor of music at the International Christian University in Tokyo, Japan. She is Miss Frances Cassard of New York City who will begin her three-year teaching assignment in September. Miss Cassard is the daughter of a Methodist minister. Her education and professional experience have been world wide. She received a Bachelor of Arts degree in music from Oberlin College; a Master's degree in sacred music from Union Theological Seminary; and a Master's degree in religious history from Columbia University. Dinner Party Fetes Highway Workers Equipment department employees of the Highway Commission recently entertained at a barbecue chicken dinner for two of their employees who retired July 1. E. L. Tripp was in charge of the dinner. G. C. Phillips, mechanic, a veteran employee with the commission, had nearly 34 years service to his credit while J. F. Phillips, nightwatchman, had approximately 10 years. J. L. McDonald, equipment superintendent, paid high tribute to the fellows and expressed his deep regret at losing them and wished each many happy days in their retirement. G. C. Phillips was remembered with a Cambridge lamp and J. F. Phillips with an occasional chair.

Prospectors Told To Get Gear Out Of Park Canyon

CEDAR BREAKS, Utah (AP)—As two uranium prospectors were standing and admiring the view in southern Utah's Cedar Breaks National Monument, their station wagon, trailer and drilling rig rolled over the rim of the jagged canyon. It came to rest some 475 feet down. Now Vernon P. Parker and Earl Anderson are trying to figure out how to reclaim the wreckage. The park service says it must come out. It's against the law to leave it there. "We had just gotten out of the jeep to take pictures," Parker says, "when Earl yelled that the outfit was moving. I turned around and made a grab for the door as the jeep went by but couldn't get it open. I had to let the whole thing go over the edge."

Contestant

Miss Joanna Hardee of 1901 E. 4th Street is among the first to enter the Miss Greenville Beauty Pageant being staged by the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Nineteen years of age and a sophomore at East Carolina College, the contestant is 5' 5" tall and weighs 115. She has a 33 1/2" bust, 25" waist and 35" hips.

She will sing in the talent division of the contest. The winner will be crowned July 12 and will compete in the Miss North Carolina Contest.

The population of the world is growing at the rate of about 1 1/2 per cent a year.

Late Husband Of Local Woman To Be Honored

A 1900 ton destroyer escort, named in honor of a naval aviation hero of World War II, will be launched July 28 at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's plant on the Delaware River across from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Kathryn Van Voorhis of Greenville will christen the vessel to be named in honor of her late husband, Lt. Cdr. Bruce Avery Van Voorhis, USN.

Mrs. Van Voorhis will be accompanied by her two sons, Bruce Van Voorhis and John Avery Van Voorhis, both students at Greenville High School. Mrs. Roy Lee Johnson of Falls Church, Va. will act as Mrs. Van Voorhis' attendant at the launching ceremony.

In addition to the Medal of Honor and Purple Heart Medal, Lieutenant Commander Van Voorhis was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously for his outstanding heroism under heavy enemy fire.

It was while serving as commander of Bombing Squadron 102 he was killed in action July 6, 1943 off the island, Kapingmarangi Group, in the Asiatic Area.

Mrs. Van Voorhis has been making her home at 400 Elizabeth St. for the past year. The wife of a third son, Lt. (jg) Richard Ward, USN, also lives with her and two sons.

CHRISTEN DESTROYER ESCORT—Mrs. Kathryn Van Voorhis of 400 Elizabeth Street, widow of Lt. Cdr. Bruce Avery Van Voorhis, USN, will christen a destroyer escort named in honor of her late husband July 28 in Camden, New Jersey. The USS Van Voorhis measures 315 feet-in length and has a beam of 36 feet.

Program Of Spanish Dances Applauded By ECC Audience

Teresita La Tana and her company of Spanish dancers won the applause of an audience of approximately six hundred East Carolina students and faculty members and townspeople of Greenville when they appeared Wednesday night at the college.

The program, presented in the Austin auditorium, was sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee as the first of a series of four attractions to be given on the campus during the 1956 Summer Session.

Colorful costumes, pleasing choreography, and the exciting rhythms of the Spanish dance contributed to the attractiveness of the evening's program. Musical background was supplied by pianist Roy Kelegian, who pleased his audience in a group of solos, including works by Albeniz and DeFalla.

Teresita La Tana, who led her company of four assistant artists in a group of varied numbers, proved herself an able exponent of the Spanish dance. She achieved the comic touch in her "Compen-sina" and won marked approval in "Zapateado," with music by Sarasate.

Other numbers on the program included dances by the entire group and a series of presentations by two dancers. "Carmen," presented by the whole company to music by Bizet, made a spectacular and popular finale for the evening's entertainment. Other attractions on the East Carolina Summer Entertainment Series have been announced by James W. Butler, committee chairman, as follows: "Musical Portraits," July 17; Mary Hutchinson in "Thimble Theatre," July 30; and Nina Dova, guitarist, August 6 or 7. All will be open to the public and free of charge.

Doctor Proposes Hospital Where Parents Stay With Jr.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A University of Michigan pediatrician has proposed a children's hospital of the future where Mom and Dad can live motel-style with their child until he recovers.

Dr. James L. Wilson told 200 hospital clinicians, meeting at the university, that hospitals must take time and care in making small children "feel at home" when they come to the hospital.

He said there was a desperate need for a new children's hospital embodying a new concept of child care.

"We hope to have a unit constructed," he said, "in which parents will be able to stay with the child during his confinement."

Each room is planned, he said, with a kitchenette so meals could be prepared by the mother. It would be on ground level so cars could be parked nearby.

"In this respect," he said, "its convenience would resemble that of a motel."

However, he cautioned, "It should be clear that such arrangements would not be suitable for all mothers."

Without facilities of this type, he said, hospitals must take "time, patience and sincere understanding."

"We must start," he said, "by giving the role of handling them to people who like children."

Even people with instinctive understanding, however, must be careful not to let the child get lost in hospital routine.

"The child is usually frightened," Dr. Wilson said, and cannot be expected to stick to the normally rigid hospital routine.

"It is true," he said "some children adapt faster than others but we should not skimp on the amount of time necessary to help any child adjust."

Among the reasons a child will be afraid, he said are:

He has been taken away from his parents; he doesn't recognize anyone around him; he's sick and doesn't feel like his normal self; he has not been given a chance to adapt to his new surroundings.

'Adequate' Fire Protection Needed

(This is the first of three editorials discussing the forthcoming bond issue for Greenville.)

When Greenville voters go to the polls Tuesday for the special referendum they will be asked to decide upon six individual bond issues, any of which may be approved or rejected without having a direct bearing upon the other issues.

The Reflector favors the adoption of all six of the individual bond issues which will total $275,000. The city sorely needs the equipment and improved facilities which the bond issue money will provide. If the voters in Tuesday's referendum vote against the issues or any one of them, they will be placing a handicap upon the proper functioning of the department directly concerned with the particular issue and will be hindering the progress of Greenville.

Let us first consider the proposed bond issue of $26,000 which will provide additional equipment for the Greenville Fire Department.

As Greenville has grown rapidly in recent years facilities of the fire department, while they have been improved, have lagged behind the demands for protection being made upon the department. The lion's share of the $26,000 earmarked for the Fire Department will go for the purchase of a new high pressure truck to replace a dilapidated truck which has been in use by the department for more than 30 years.

Two thousand dollars will be used to purchase hose for the new truck and another two thousand will be used to purchase new hose to replace some of which the department is forced to use at the present although it is in an advanced stage of deterioration.

The other $5,000 in the Fire Department issue would be used in extending the city's fire alarm system to recently developed subdivisions which are not now afforded fire alarm boxes.

Fire underwriters who set fire insurance rates for Greenville and other municipalities have been urging these additions to Greenville's fire protection equipment and system for some time. Unless requirements of the Fire underwriters are met, Greenville cannot hope to maintain its present rating for the Fire Department and likewise its present rates of fire insurance for dwellings and commercial buildings in the city.

There is another factor to be considered. A city the size of Greenville should have adequate facilities to afford fire protection to all its citizens. While Greenville has made progress in this direction, the growth of its fire protection system has not kept pace with the growth of the city. Approval of the $26,000 bond issue for the Fire Department will afford the department more and better equipment to adequately do the job which is expected of it. If the funds are denied by voters who go to the polls Tuesday the margin between the city's growth and its facilities for fire protection will continue to broaden to the detriment of all the people of Greenville.

The city's Recreation Department finds itself in a position not unlike the Fire Department as it approaches this bond election. The department is charged with the responsibility of providing adequate public recreation facilities for all the people of Greenville. Its facilities are grossly inadequate to meet the demands.

Through the proposed $62,000 recreation bond issue the department will be able to fill many of the gaps in its present facilities. The funds will afford sufficient outlays to provide many of the facilities which have been omitted from annual budgets of Greenville.

Of the total amount, $20,000 would be used to provide a recreation building at South Greenville Park. Another $5,000 would provide for a shop and storage building at Guy Smith Stadium for use of the department. Another $15,000 is earmarked for purchase of additional land for recreation areas; $9,000 for im-

Two Deepwater Ports Showing Their Value

It's good to know that North Carolina's two deepwater ports finally have shown a profit to replace some of the red ink on their books.

The fact that both ports are at last showing a profit on their operations will certainly be no handicap to Col. Richard S. Marr as he seeks approval for the $5,185,000 expansion program he proposes for the state-owned facilities.

Marr recently told the State Ports Authority that for the fiscal year which ended June 30 the net profit on the two ports was $65,000. Of that amount $60,000 profit came from the operation of the port at Wilmington and the other $5,000 from operation of the Morehead City port.

Considering the amount North Carolina has invested in its two deepwater ports that is indeed a small profit. Nevertheless the fact that the ports are more than breaking even on operations is a welcome change from the deficit operations the ports have had since they were begun. Now that the two ports have shown a profit for the first time, perhaps they can continue to make their own way so far as operations are concerned.

proving facilities at playgrounds, $4,000 for equipment; $4,000 for lighting tennis courts and $5,000 for other items.

Although the Recreation Department has done well with facilities and equipment at its disposal, it has not been able to furnish the calibre recreation program Greenville should have. With new facilities, expanded recreation areas and additional equipment the bond issue would provide it can give Greenville a much improved program now and in future years.

The program would reach a much larger percentage of the city's population with a better rounded schedule of activities.

Through the bond issue—which certainly should be passed—Greenville can come nearer providing its citizens with a program comparable to that of other cities in this part of the state.

State's Big Farms Keeping Many Busy

By LYNN NISBET

FARMING — The State of North Carolina is a big farmer. The budget bureau lists 26,584 acres in crop and pasture land owned by the State; 62,952.5 acres in woodland, and 1,485 acres in farmsteads, roads, etc. for a total of 91,021.5 acres devoted to "farming." That represents almost one third of all State-owned lands, other than marsh-swamp lands to which title is vested in the State Board of Education—and which has never been accurately surveyed.

Most of the rest of the land owned by the State is dedicated to educational and recreational purposes, game refuges, and such like. And some of that acreage is being indirectly used in tree farming operations.

Let's skip for the moment the 63,000 acres of woodland and consider the 28,000 acres more commonly understood as farmland. That makes State government through its various agencies and institutions by long odds the biggest "farmer" within the geographic boundaries of the state.

State facts and figures will also prove that from viewpoint of dollar profit from farm operations the State is about the sorriest of all farmers.

It is important to remember that most of the State's farming is not for definite dollar profit. It is primarily to furnish employment for persons in State prisons and correctional schools and to afford therapeutic exercise for patients in the State hospitals.

There is very little heavy machinery used on the approximate 5,000 acres farmed by the prison department. The need there is to keep people employed. Any good business man operating the farm at Morrison Training School would fire about 225 of the 240 boys there, along with 40 of the 46 members of the staff and use machinery on cultivated acres and let most of the land grow pulpwood pines. But the boys have to be kept busy and farming is a good way to do that.

INDIRECT — Profits from most of the State farming activities are indirect and long range. In that respect they are comparable to public education, public health and hospitalization and public roads. Education, health, welfare and highways use upwards of 90 per cent of all taxes paid into the North Carolina treasury without returning and immediately recognizable dividends in dollars and cents.

The other 10 per cent of tax money which goes for administration, law enforcement, operation of the courts, et cetera, does not yield immediate cash dividends either.

The State-owned farms are operated for two major purposes. A relatively small acreage is devoted to experimental work, much of which is expected to show a dollar loss, because in these experiments it is just as important to prove how things cannot or should not be done as to find better ways for doing them profitably. Major operations are for mental and physical therapy and to prevent idleness among people who have been taken out of general circulation by order of courts. In both phases immediate dollar profit is secondary to other objectives.

INTER-RELATED — Vistists to the various institutions for the rehabilitation of citizens occasionally a feeling of pride in what North Carolina is doing for its wards. There is also a sense of futility, because the total job is so much bigger than facilities for handling it.

Perhaps even more significant is the feeling that activities of the varied agencies are inter-related rather than fully co-ordinated. Too large percentage of boys and girls committed to the correctional training schools are of such low mental capacity and IQ ratings they are not susceptible to training. So many of the people in the mental hospitals are not amenable to treatment because they are congenitally low IQ's, or are senile, that the hospitals are not capable of doing the best job in curing the mentally ill.

WELFARE — That brings the welfare department right into the middle of the picture. Federal funds from the Hill-Burton act are not available for use at Caswell or the training schools now being built at Butler and Goldsboro. Hill-Burton funds are for hospitals and Federal authorities rate the training schools for mental defectives as welfare custodial institutions rather than hospitals. To considerable degree the same policy applies to care for seniles, who require custodial care but are not responsive to treatment.

If the hospitals could be relieved of custodial care of seniles, and if hospitals and correctional schools could devote attention to treatment and cure of those able to respond instead of spending so much effort on hopelessly low IQ's they could show a much better record of accomplishment. The changeover would impose a tremendously heavier burden on the welfare budget—which many people think already is too high.

Presently all of the admission to Caswell come through county welfare departments. Preponderant majority of admissions to the correctional schools come from juvenile court commitments, which are channeled through welfare departments. All persons discharged from the correctional schools are paroled to the welfare departments of the counties from which they came.

Blaine Madison, state director of correction and training, and the superintendents at the several schools report excellent cooperation on part of local welfare departments. There are enough exceptions to this general cooperative attitude to pose the question of insufficient coordination.

Public Forum

Dr. Walter C. Humbert, Pitt County Health Officer, Greenville, North Carolina.

Dear Dr. Humbert: I am quite interested in your sodium fluoride to your public water supply in the City of Greenville.

It has been my privilege and opportunity to be exposed to the theories and philosophies of many of the outstanding leaders and scientists of our profession since the program of fluoridation of communal water supplies was adopted as one of the major objectives of the American Dental Association in 1933. Since that time our Association has actively and aggressively advocated the program as an aid in reducing the appalling prevalence of decay in our youth of today.

It has been definitely proved by those recognized as qualified to determine the effect on the body, so far as a large majority of the dental profession are concerned, that the addition of one to two parts per million will cause no ill effects on the body, but will be of great benefit to a large segment of our young people by inhibiting, and in some cases preventing, the uncontrollable ravages of decay. So apparent every time you observe the mouth of a patient under fifteen. Our research workers have recorded the benefits obtained in the isolated and controlled areas from 40 to 65 per cent less dental decay and no ill effects on the body have been traced to the fluoride content of the water.

Fluoridation is called a safe and effective measure. Recently, in support of water fluoridation, the National Committee to Protect Our Children's Teeth, was formed in New York City, headed by Dr. Benjamin Spock, of Cleveland, Ohio, one of the Nation's best known pediatricians. This Committee, said Dr. Spock, was formed to spread facts and correct misinformation on water fluoridation. He called water fluoridation "the safest, most effective, and the cheapest way to protect children's teeth," and added that up to ten years of successful use of the procedure by more than 1,100 communities across our country have proved its effectiveness and absolute safety, and no valid evidence has been offered to support claims of dangerous effects. It would be practically impossible to get toxic symptoms from consuming water with only one to two parts per million of fluoride, as you would have to drink four hundred 400 gallons of the treated water to get a dose of slight toxicity, which is extremely doubtful.

New York City has recently added fluoridation to the water supply in one section serving more than 2,000,000 of the population and is now in process of extending the program to the other segments of the population.

Fluoridation is now in operation in twenty-five of the Nation's largest cities, including Chicago, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Baltimore, St. Louis, Washington, D. C., and now New York City.

Fluoridation is not well enough understood by our people whose children would benefit. Public ignorance about these facts is serious. Dental Health affects nutrition. It profoundly influences many aspects of physical and mental health.

I sincerely trust that the campaign for fluoridation in Greenville will be accepted. Sincerely, Paul E. Jones, D.D.S., Farmville, N.C.

The Truth Will Come Out

It's a newspaper's job to print the truth. Every newspaperman gets that drilled into him by higher-ups from the day he enters the journalistic profession.

Those who set policy on today's newspapers are firm in their belief that the truth never hurt anybody. Tell the truth, they say, in a forthright manner and the newspaper will have honestly done its duty to the community.

That's why I just gotta tell how the Reflector's news editor Don Schlenz hurt his finger.

Now Don won't talk much about his hurt finger in spite of the big bandage on it.

Just the other day Billy Arnold asked Don: "How did you hurt your finger?"

"Caught it in the proof press," Don growled.

"Caught it in the proof press?" Billy said quizzically.

"Don't ask so many questions, son," Don roared.

As a newspaperman I considered it my duty to gather the true fact concerning Don's hurt finger. I investigated and this is what I found.

There's a little fan on the cabinet which houses the punching machine which Anne Keziah and Clarice Galloway operate and Don just misses it every time he puts copy on the machine.

"Be careful," Anne told him one day. "You'll get your hand in that fan."

"Ah-h-h," Don came back. "That little fan wouldn't hurt anybody. Look, I'll show you."

With that he stuck a finger in the little blade.

The results were too gory to describe.

Anyway Don's got his finger bandaged and anybody who asks him about it is flirting with danger. Believe me, I know.

Gold Discovery Ruined Sutter

By HAL BOYLE

LITITZ, Pa. (AP)—The discovery of gold in California made some men millionaires. Under a simple marble slab here lies a famous man it ruined.

He was John Augustus Sutter, who once ruled a western empire and was buried broken in spirit and pocketbook.

Sutter, one of the greatest adventurers in the settlement of the West, lived grandly and died mealy.

The story of his success and downfall is one of the more fabulous epics of 19th century America.

In 1834 Sutter failed as a small businessman in Switzerland, largely because of his personal extravagance. To escape debtor's prison he fled the country, leaving his wife and five small children behind.

Migrating to Westport, now Kansas City, Mo., he palmed himself off as a former captain in the Swiss Guards, and started another store. His taste for high living soon caught up with him. Facing another bankruptcy, he hitchhiked to California.

Although he sprang from a peasant ancestry, Sutter had the airs of a court gentleman. He was gay, persuasive, inventive and charming.

His fictional tales of his past military exploits soon won him a grant of 49,000 acres of land from the Mexican governor at Monterey, on condition he fortify it and become a Mexican citizen.

In 1839 Sutter founded a community called New Switzerland on the present site of Sacramento. Other settlers had trouble with the fierce Indians. Not Sutter. A real wheeler and dealer, he made peace with them, soon had the warriors working in his fields.

In the next few years he doubled his holdings. His hospitality and benevolence were legendary. No stranger was turned away from his door. He often entertained as many as 200 at a meal.

"Almost every one of the many hundred of immigrants to California before the gold rush," one historian wrote, "spent some time at Sutter's settlement, and the many testimonies of his benevolence towards these pitiful wanderers are overwhelming."

Other historians also credit Sutter with averting bloodshed in the entrance of California into the union.

Although he was reckoned an immensely wealthy man with the greatest disaster of his life happened. While digging a new mill race his workmen discovered gold. His attempts to keep the news secret were futile.

"My best days were just before the discovery of gold," Sutter mourned later. "Without the discovery, I would now be the richest man on the shores of the Pacific."

The U. S. Supreme Court held his title to 98,000 acres of land.

Strength for the Day

OPPOSITION OF OFFICIALDOM

More than 150 years ago there lived a German physician who suspected that infection in a child's eyes at birth was the cause of much of the world's blindness. He tried to persuade his colleagues of the truth of his theory but had no success. Physicians kept on explaining to parents that their children had lost their sight because of peculiar atmospheric conditions, cold drafts, unbalanced conditions in the alimentary canal, and the like.

Eighty years after the death of the man who had said that blindness came from infection of a child's eyes at birth, another German showed the world how to save the sight of thousands of children annually by dropping a two per cent solution of silver nitrate into the eyes of newborn babes. This is done today in the case of practically every newborn child, and untold misery is thereby averted.

Some of our worst diseases will be eliminated in coming decades, probably, by procedures as simple as this. But the old pattern will go on—many of those who advance new ideas will be cried down or scoffed at. Not only in the field of medicine but in government, those who suggest new ideas will be cried down or scoffed at.

Union Disunity Revealed By Strike

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The unexpected and unwanted steel strike reveals the extent of the disorganization and fierce rivalries that beset the labor movement only one year after the AFL-CIO merger. It depicts the "one big union" as no more than an ineffective paper organization.

With peak wages almost full employment, leaders of many other great bodies of workmen wanted no stoppage of steel production lest it force layoffs and curtailment of work in their related industries. Most concerned, perhaps, was Walter P. Reuther, head of the automobile workers, who have suffered already from overproduction and unsold surpluses of cars.

But David J. McDonald, head of the steel workers' union, dislikes Reuther heartily. Their personalities clash, McDonald being a trade unionist and Reuther seeking the role of politician, philosopher and economist. Moreover, McDonald considered, unsuccessfully, against Reuther for vice-president of the AFL-CIO.

MCDONALD-REUTHER CLASH — The McDonald-Reuther conflict has also halted completely the unionization of many industries, especially in the South, although it applies to numerous other factors. Although several hundred professional organizers are still on the merged body's payroll, they are only twiddling their fingers and doing nothing.

No new dues are flowing in to finance their salaries and expenses. As a result, President George L. Meany has had to dig into his reserves for more than $1,000,000 to pay them. It would not do for the new union to lay them off.

Before the merger the AFL and CIO had about 400 organizers between them. Instead of taking them into the new national organization, Meany planned to distribute them among the various local unions—steel, auto, rubber, textile, etc.

QUARRELS OVER OFFICIAL JOBS — But McDonald would not permit any of Reuther's walking delegates to have anything to do with the steel industry. So many must now support them in idleness. He dare not crack down on the boss of 650,000 highly paid and skilled steel workers.

union of the hierarchy at the top, and they cannot agree on major questions, including foreign policy and domestic politics.

In pre-merger days, the AFL had state, city and county federations, together with officials and executive committees for each separate union. Similarly, the CIO had its local organizations except that they were known as "councils."

None of these groups have been able to amalgamate because none of these federations and councils will give up their jobs and salaries. They are too long away from shop, and factory, and they have grown soft. None wants to become a displaced person, and is forced to go to work with his hands.

ONLY UNIONS SHOWING GROWTH — The only unions showing any growth are A. J. Hayes' Machinists and District 50, which is headed by A. D. Lewis, brother of John L., of the United Mine Workers. District 50 was formed originally to organize workers in industries using by-products of steel, especially steel mills. But now, it is expanding wherever it can.

FCC Plans Cut Sales TV Sets

By ELMER ROESSNER

It's no secret that there has been a lag in sales of television receivers, excepting the small, second sets. Several manufacturers have cut back production; a few others have bowed out of competition.

Public uncertainty is a big factor. People aren't sure whether to buy a new black-and-white receiver or to save for a color set.

Into this unhappy situation, the Federal Communications Commission has tossed a new uncertainty. It has announced that it is considering shifting all telecasting from Very High Frequencies.

That is bringing sales of receivers to a new slow.

JUST MULLING IT OVER — The FCC has made it clear that it is only thinking about the shift, that it will not take any action until it has digested all pros and cons submitted before October 1, and that any shift will be gradual.

Nevertheless, dealers are finding prospects more reluctant than ever to buy sets at the moment. Few wanted to buy a black-and-white set if there was a chance of a broad swing to color; now even fewer want a VHF receiver if there is to be a shift, however slow, to UHF in 1957, 1958 or 1959. And what little buying however slow, to UHF in 1957, 1958 or 1959. And what little buying enthusiasm is left is dampened by the summer misadventure enveloping telecasters. Under these conditions, dealers are not inclined to build up their inventories.

Of the 37,000,000 sets in operation today, about 7,000,000 will receive UHF telecasts. A similar ratio exists among sets in inventory. Manufacturers have shown a reluctance to make UHF or UHF-and-VHF sets unless there is a firm demand. Up to now, equipping sets with UHF reception would be, in many areas, as useless as putting white socks on new cars.

GOOD CASE FOR ULTRA — The idea of shifting all telecasting to higher band may be sound. There is evidence that it is possible to accommodate many more channels, and that reception can be better and sets, eventually, less expensive. Furthermore, channels now used for VHF could be put to other uses, such as educational telecasts, defense, etc.

Some manufacturers, as well as dealers and fans, think the best idea is for a regional test of the upper channels. This, they think, would show whether all the advantages claimed for UHF are real or illusory.

The FCC, however, has resisted similar suggestions for subscription television.

There is a good case for paid television. It might result in better programs. It might make telecasting possible in areas where advertising does not support it—such as in the 92 cities of Texas where channels have been allocated but no one has found adequate revenues to use them.

There are both arguments against it and fears about it. It has been held that paid television isn't practical; that if it works it will impoverish free programs, and that it will force the public to pay for things it is now getting free. The movies fear that it will hurt their revenue; advertising agencies are afraid it will cut their commissions; and the established telecasters, hatch, dread fresh competition.

Arguments range so far afield and are so charged with emotion and, perhaps, aversion, that no sound decision can be possibly made on briefs.

It seems so simple for the FCC to order a regional test of UHF telecasting, a regional test of subscription television and, while the bureaucrats are at it, a regional test of all-color telecasting.

Organizations and media in dozens of cities have been advertising that they are ideal test markets; they would surely cooperate in a genuine test.

But, pending all decisions, the industry will continue to take it on the chin, saleswise.

Jesus Is the Son of God

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 3:13-17; Hebrews 1:1-2:8; 6:1-3.

Jesus came to John the Baptist asking to be baptized. John refused, saying, "I have need to be baptized by Thee, and comest Thou to me?"

Jesus said, "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." John baptized Him and the heavens opened unto Him.

What is man that Thou art mindful of him? Thou makest him a little lower than the angels and set him over all Thy works.

Paul reminded the Hebrews that God had spoken through the prophets of old; later revealed Himself through Christ. MEMORY VERSE—I John 4:10.

Jesus Is the Son of God

HE ALONE IS TO BE WORSHIPED

Scripture—Matthew 3:13-17; Hebrews 1:1-2:8; 6:1-3.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL. IT HAS been suggested that we begin this lesson by asking the younger children if they can name one outstanding character in each century since the Fifteenth, whom they particularly remember.

Our editor of the Notes states that the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews is unknown, but the Bible attributes it to Paul. It is thought to be the only book of the Scriptures that begins with the name of God. The purpose of the epistle is to reveal to Christian Jews of that time and of every age that Christ Jesus is our Lord and Redeemer.

"God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken to us by His Son whom He hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also He made the worlds."

"Who being the brightness of His glory, and upholding all things by the word of His power when He had by Himself purged our sins, and sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

Christ was made better than the angels who are God's servants and messengers. The teacher will study these somewhat difficult passages in Hebrews and try to impress upon the children the glory of Christ that is set forth in them.

In the last three verses assigned to us, Paul writes: "Therefore, leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God."

"Of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of the resurrection of the dead, and of eternal punishment. And this will we do, if God permit."

"Going on to perfection?" None of us can achieve it, but we can all try, with Jesus' help.

At first he refused, saying: "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?" Jesus answered: "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."

Then John baptized Him and as Jesus stepped from the water "the heavens were opened unto Him, and He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him, and lo! a voice from heaven, saying, This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

"Who being the brightness of His glory, and upholding all things by the word of His power when He had by Himself purged our sins, and sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high."

the centuries—Christ Jesus, Son of God and Redeemer. The first Bible reference we are given is a scene that we have studied not so long ago—the occasion of Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist. John, the Baptist—"forerunner of Christ," must have been surprised when He whom John had named as the Messiah came to him and asked to be baptized.

At first he refused, saying: "I have need to be baptized of Thee, and comest Thou to me?" Jesus answered: "Suffer it to be so now; for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness."

Then John baptized Him and as Jesus stepped from the water "the heavens were opened unto Him, and He saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon Him, and lo! a voice from heaven, saying, This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

If you're saving for your independence . . .

...where you save does make a difference

Every advantage counts when you're saving for your "Independence Day." That's why it pays to put your savings in an insured Savings and Loan Association. You benefit by many important advantages. Excellent returns from your money is one advantage. Efficient service from men who know how to make your dollars work harder for you is another. And, of course, your money is safe because in insured Associations your savings are protected by sound management and substantial reserves. They are insured up to $10,000 by the FSILC—an agency of the U. S. Government. These are the reasons why Americans are putting more of their savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than anywhere else! Whether you're saving for an "Independence Day" . . . or a "rainy day" . . . visit your nearby insured Association tomorrow.

Milwaukee's "Jinx" Park Puts Cincinnati Back In Top Slot

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Their own Country Stadium, of all places, is fast becoming a "jinx" park for the Milwaukee Braves, who take over the National League lead on the road, then fall flat at home.

The Braves lost their grasp on first place again last night in a 7-1 defeat by the Chicago Cubs. It was the 12th defeat in their last 18 games at home where they have only a 14-14 season mark and showed the Milwaukee three percentage points behind the Cincinnati Redlegs, who were idle.

In their last home stand, the Braves lost 10 of 15 and tumbled from first to fifth before catching fire with an 11-game winning streak on the road. Now they've lost two of three on the current home stand.

An even worse home record came to an end in the American League as the Detroit Tigers—who had gone through 15 games without a victory at Briggs Stadium—laid the wood to Cleveland and Bob Lemon to win 13-7 and put the third-place Indians 5½ games behind first place New York.

The Yankees, with Gil McDougald banging in four runs with a homer, double and single, defeated Boston 6-1 in a scheduled day-night doubleheader that saw the nightcap postponed by rain. It was the only other game scheduled in the AL, and pushed the Yanks' lead to four games over idle Chicago.

The sixth-place Cubs, who have taken six of their last nine, including three-of-four from the Braves, socked Milwaukee and Ray Crowe with five runs after two were out in the seventh inning. Eddie Miksis' eighth homer started the uprising as six straight hits snapped a 1-1 tie. Don Hoak and Dee Fondy each had RBI doubles in the big frame while Gene Baker sliced a two-run single.

Vito Valentineti, making his first major league start, and Jim Brosnan four-hit the Braves. Brosnan won his second with one-hit ball, over 4 1-3 relief innings, coming on when Valentineti injured his knee covering home plate on a wild pitch that scored the Milwaukee run.

McDougald's three-run shot in the third off loser Bob Porterfield led it for the Yankees as Whitey Ford won his 10th with a seven-hitter. It was his third straight over the Red Sox.

Detroit's Frank Lary was tagged for a first-inning bases-loaded home run by Jim Busby and a three-run shot by Al Rosen in the sixth, but he gave up only three other hits and coasted in as the Tigers rocked Lemon to his sixth defeat with 11 runs in the first three frames. Harvey Kuenn poked a three-run homer and Lary singled two home in a five-run third inning.

PITCHING: Vito Valentineti and Jim Brosnan, Cubs, combined for four-hitter in 7-1 victory over Braves that dumped Milwaukee out of first place with Brosnan giving only one hit in 4 1-3 relief innings after Valentineti pulled a knee ligament.

HITTING: Gil McDougald, Yankees, drove in four runs with a homer, double and single in five trips to beat Red Sox 6-1.

Big Tennis Tournament Gets Underway Today

Robersonville's big Invitational Tennis Tourney starts today, and will extend through Sunday, with some of the top netters in this section of North Carolina participating.

Maurice Everette, who won scores of North State Conference honors during the past season, is top-seeded in the singles and couples with Pirate teammate Gil Underwood as the top-seeded doubles combination.

Wake Forest's Walter Conner, who paced the Demon Deacon squad as captain last season, will head a list of well-known entrees. Another Wake Forest man, Bobby Mann, and Duke's Terry Whitaker will also perform.

Behind-the-verse Everette in the seedings for singles play, will be Atwood Askew of Rich Square. Askew is rated one of the best forehand smashers in the tourney and will give Everette a run for his money, according to reports. Mann and J. W. Browning follow in the seeding positions.

Other Singles Performers
Other boys invited to participate in the first big tennis tourney at Robersonville are Kelly Abeyoumis, of Bethel; Tom Norfleet, of Rich Square; Ned Everette, of Robersonville; Walter Burgess, of Robersonville; Gene Lilley, of Williamston; and Gil Underwood, of Clayton.

Everette, who hails from Robersonville originally, will work with and against several East Carolina teammates in the tournament play. Underwood, Lilley and J. W. Browning have all seen action with the Pirate net team. The former two were members of last year's Buc outfit, along with Everette. Browning was banging away for the 1955 edition of the ECC tennis crew.

Pairings for the first day of play are as follows:
Maurice Everette—Terry Whitaker
Atwood Askew—(bye)
Bobby Mann—Walt Conner
J. W. Browning—Gil Underwood

Billy Neal James, who at last count was leading the Tar Heel League with a .727 batting average, came through at the plate and on the mound yesterday for his Exchange Club team to paste a one-hit 3-0 shellacking on the bottom-pole Elks outfit.

James struck out 10 Elks batters, issued two walks, left 10 opponents stranded on the bases, and held the enemy in the palm of his hand.

At the plate, Billy punched out two singles to pace his club with the bat. Only one other Exchange man, first baseman Boyd, collected a hit.

Rick Sauve, who handled mound duties for the losing Elks, turned in quite a neat game of pitching for his team, also. He managed to hold the first-place Exchange boys to three hits—striking out 15 batters. He was plagued by four errors from his teammates and six bases on balls, on his own part.

Sauve collected the only hit for his side, a single.

The Exchange Club scored all three of their runs in the third inning. The tallies came on a walk and two errors.

Pirates To Hold Pro Tryouts At Kinston Monday

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp at Kinston on Monday and Tuesday, July 9 and 10.

The sessions will be held at Grainger Stadium beginning daily at 9:30 a.m. under the direction of Pirate scouts Rex Bowen and George Pratt.

Players must be at least 16 years old to be eligible to attend. No Junior American Legion player will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any of his Legion activities, and such tryout will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion coach or the Commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

Players are expected to furnish their own baseball shoes, uniforms and gloves with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, with the understanding that all expenses will be reimbursed to those players signed to contracts with Pittsburgh organization clubs.

Ellington Wins
Service Battery pitcher Norm Ellington and his teammates have done it again. After losing all twelve of their games in the first half of play, they have fought back in this half to post their second win — at the expense of the Graniteers, 2-1, last night in the first game at Guy Smith Stadium—in four starts to tighten the softball loop considerably.

Ellington has pitched good softball all year long, but his team hasn't been able to produce any runs for him, that is, until the second half started. His first victory came over Southern Bread a week ago, 6-5. He came on to relieve in the second inning of that contest giving up no runs and only two hits.

The Guardsmen tallied twice in the third and then held on. The Graniteers threatened several times and finally pushed across a run in their half of the sixth. Dan Gordon singled and finally scored on an Ellington wild pitch.

Shortstop Huggins led the winners with three singles in as many trips. Watson-Flye and Strickland also had single base knocks. The Graniteers managed only three bingles. Yogi Nunn, McClanahan, and Gordon got those. Dan Gordon suffered his sixth setback of the season as against nine wins.

Dairy Defeated
In the second game played under the lights last night at Guy Smith, Southern Bread defeated Carolina Dairy, 6-2, to move into a second place tie with Service Battery and to within one game of the front-running Dairy.

Leonard Johnson went the route for the winners giving up seven hits, one a double by third sacker

Brownie Tripp, but kept them scattered well enough to be effective. The Milkmen got two runs, both in the second, and they were on errors. The win was Johnson's sixth of the year against four losses.

Charlie Briggs, who hurled a perfect game last Tuesday night against Service Battery (nobody reached first), gave up his chances of another when he walked the first man to face him, Earl Tripp. The Bakers tallied twice in the first and four more times in the fifth to clinch the win.

Harold O'Kelley, Southern Bread shortstop, had two for four and catcher Bill McRoy also had two for four. One of O'Kelley's hits was a double. Earl Tripp had a triple and two runs scored.

Darby Walker led the Dairy men offensively with two for four. Brownie Tripp had a double in three times up.

Mantle Secures Brace For Bad Knee Protection

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle picked up a brace for his injured right knee today with the prospect of returning to action with the New York Yankees — at least in a pinch-hit role — within "two or three days."

The young slugger planned to rejoin the Yankees in Washington later today. A weekend rest of the knee, injured Wednesday at Boston, will determine whether he will start in Tuesday's All-Star Game.

The blond, 24-year-old center fielder, bidding to break Babe Ruth's record season total of 60 home runs, had an X-ray examination here last night. It revealed sprained ligaments, which team physician Dr. Sydney P. Gaynor indicated were not serious. It was he who set the "two or three day" limit.

None of the ligaments were torn from the bone, as was feared.

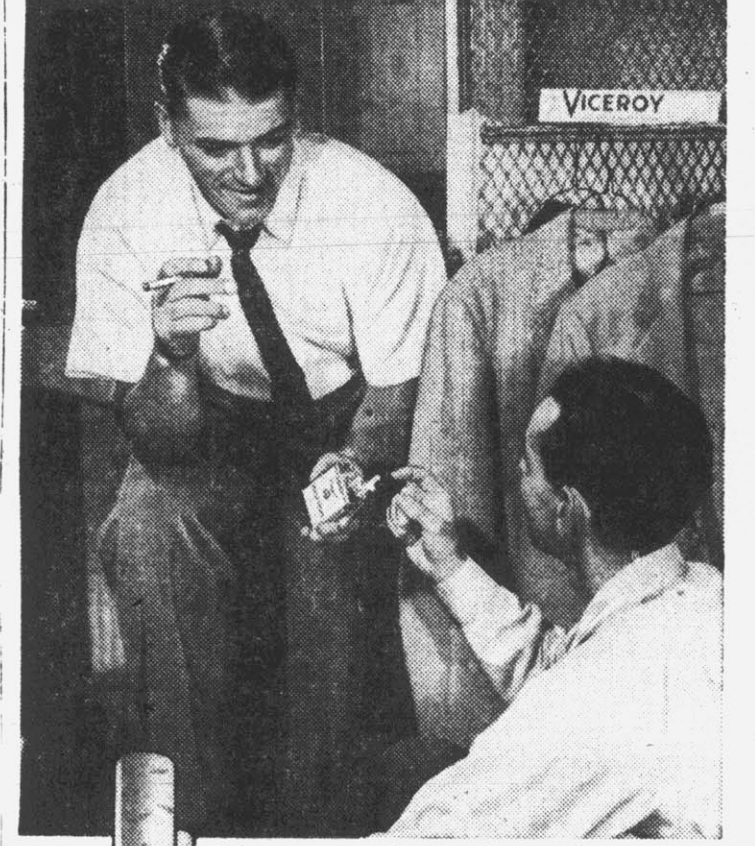

Mantle, a bit glum but able to walk without assistance, said, "I'll throw that brace away as soon as I can."

The single-hinge brace is worn on the outside of the knee. It looks like and moves like a nutcracker.

The Mick, with 29 home runs to date — five games ahead of Ruth's record 1927 pace — has had leg trouble before, and has worn knee braces before.

"I had a different brace a double-hinge they call it (fitted on both sides of the knee), but I couldn't pivot with it on," he said. "They say I'll be able to pivot with this one. But I'll have to try it out first."

DALE LONG, PITTSBURGH PIRATES, DISCOVERS WHY VICEROYS are Smoother!

"If you want a cigarette that's really smooth, try my brand," says Dale Long, the Pirates' record-breaking home-run slugger. "That Viceroy taste is the smoothest taste in smoking!"

Here's why Dale Long finds Viceroy's are always smoother: Only Viceroy has 20,000 filters in every tip . . . twice as many filters as the other two leading filter brands. No wonder they're never wrong. Viceroy gives you the most filters for the smoothest taste!

ENCHANTED HARBOR

By DOROTHY WORLEY

SYNOPSIS
Priscilla Paige is bored with her job in a New York office, yet doesn't want to get married. An opportunity to escape presents itself in a trip to Apalachicola, Florida, to settle the estate left unexpectedly to her by a great-aunt. Priscilla's friend—older, wiser Rita Lambert—drives with her to claim the mysterious mansion. Lookout House, which is rumored haunted and has a secret passage. They decide to keep the purpose of their visit to themselves because three strange men seem curiously interested. They are Bill Duval, who says he is a writer; Red Gallagher, a fisherman, and Luis Alvarez, a wealthy yachtsman. Priscilla takes a midnight drive and finds Bill Duval trailing her. Next morning Attorney Todd takes the two girls to the old mansion.

a modern home. Chandeliers which had held candles in long ago days were dusty and fly-specked; upholstery was faded and worn. There was a huge grandfather clock, old albums, pictures.

They opened drawers, discovering heavy dull silver, good china, yellowed linens.

Rita said, "Let's look around this time, Priscilla. Then decide later what you should do with it. There's no use trying to decide right now. Some of these pieces will bring a lot of money."

They spent almost an hour going from room to room, upstairs and down, and when they were down again, Mr. Todd said briskly, "I'll just lock up. When you decide what you're going to do, we'll come back. You can be thinking about it."

"We won't take any more of your time Mr. Todd," Rita said agreeably. "Leave the key with us and we'll look around a little more. I saw a sign down the street advertising antiques. They might be interested in some of these things."

Mr. Todd's hesitation was so apparent that Rita was sure he didn't want them to have the key. He turned it over reluctantly, suggesting that they drop it by his office, to which Rita made no reply. She did ask if he could send someone to cut the grass and clean the grounds and give the place a better appearance before putting it on the market.

They were still there an hour later when Mr. Todd returned. His voice was worried. "I talked to several boys, but they all turned me down. Word has got around that the place is haunted and it's going to be hard to get any of them to work here."

"Then how can we get the place cleaned up?"

"I'll keep looking, frankly," he hesitated. "If you take my advice, you'll not bother about it. Won't really make any difference when it comes to a sale."

Mr. Todd had been gone only a few minutes when a boy of about fourteen came to the door. He had met Mr. Todd. He said that he would be willing to work outside but wouldn't clean inside, "because it was haunted."

Priscilla laughed, which was a mistake. The boy said evenly, "Tain't nothing to laugh about."

"That's right," Rita said in a friendly voice. "But we don't know much about such things. Won't you tell us why it haunted?"

The boy shifted from on foot to the other, his eyes moving over the gaunt old house. "Don't know 'zactly why. It jes' is. Lights move around in one of those windows upstairs. And people hear voices, whisperin' like."

Priscilla said, "I'll surely accept the first offer. The place is giving me the creeps."

"Power of suggestion," Rita said. "I wouldn't say sell it because it's haunted, but sell because it's the only sensible thing to do. Let's decide what you want to do with the furniture, or better still, why not turn the whole thing over to Mr. Todd to handle with some real estate firm?"

They were preparing to lock the door when Rita said, "Wait a minute, I'm not sure that I locked the back door."

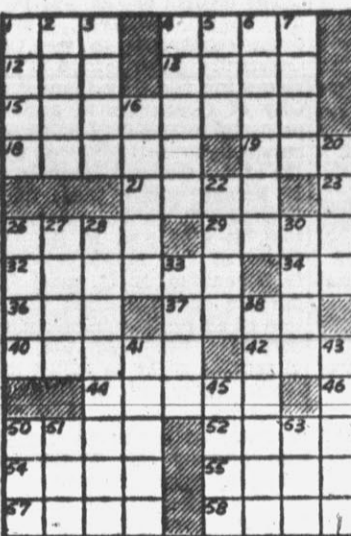

She went back, found the door locked, and had turned to go when she saw a roll of bills on the floor—new, crisp, and shiny. Wonderingly she picked the roll up and examined it. Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills under a rubber band. Had Mr. Todd dropped it there? If so, and he had missed it, he certainly must be upset by now. She would have to telephone him.

"Look, Priscilla, did you drop this?"

Priscilla looked at the roll of bills and gasped. "Heavens, no! I never carry that much cash. Where did it come from?"

Four-Point Buck Strolls To Death

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP)—A four-point buck weighing about 80 pounds leaped to his death from a 3-story business building on Main Street here. The street is at the foot of a slope and the rooftop easily is accessible from a hill at the rear. An eyewitness said the deer walked "nonchalantly" off the roof to a sudden death.

"I found it on the floor by the back door. I wonder why we didn't see it before."

Priscilla giggled. "Well, if the place is haunted with greenbacks, maybe I'd better not sell after all."

"Mr. Todd must have dropped it."

"He must have. How else would it have got there? That's new money—and no one's been inside for a long time, he said. How much is it?"

"Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills."

"Glory be!" Priscilla exclaimed. "Rita, what if Mr. Todd says it isn't his?"

"It has to be his; there's no other explanation. Let's go and telephone him."

The Boss' Eye Catches Loafers

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The Superintendent of Pennsylvania's capitol buildings decided state workers were lingering a bit too long in the capitol cafeteria during the coffee break period.

So Secretary John S. Rice, of the Department of Property and Supply, posted a notice in the cafeteria that tables would be occupied only during a 2-hour breakfast period and a 3-hour lunch period.

Coffee breakers may still get their coffee at the counter but they must take it to their office and sip it under the watchful eyes of their immediate superior.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Chemicals and oils joined aircraft early this afternoon to widen the stock market's advance.

Gains of leading stocks ran generally from fractions to a point or so but a few stocks raced beyond this.

The market was higher from the start in fairly active trading with aircraft showing vigor. The pace quieted soon and chemicals took over the starring role as aircraft subsided below their best. Oils also turned in a string of good gains.

Volume for the day was estimated at around two million shares compared with 2,240,000 yesterday.

Aircraft advanced following the government's freeze on critical steel items, thus allowing aircraft makers to stock up on aircraft quality steel from warehouses.

Steels took fractional losses as the six-day-old steel strike showed no sign of a break despite yesterday's start of mediation talks.

Boeing and Douglas Aircraft, early 1-point gainers, shaded this slightly in later trading. United Aircraft stayed ahead better than a point and General Dynamics slipped a bit but still held a fractional gain.

Among chemical blue chips, Allied Chemical was the leader with a 3-point gain. Du Pont was up around 2 points and Olin-Mathieson a point or so. Union Carbide and Dow Chemical were other gainers.

Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil went ahead a point or more. Texas Co. was a close runner-up while Standard Oil (New Jersey) improved its early fractional gain.

Motors did little, generally, but Ford was up around a point. Rails were mixed. Santa Fe rose more than a point.

Addressograph - Multigraph advanced around a point and Kaiser Aluminum dropped about a point following its recent rise.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 70 cents to $104.90 with the industrials up $1.40, the rails up 30 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Firm Pays Tax Check Totaling Over $28,000

Cash registers of county and city tax collectors rang up a substantial figure when checks dated June 26 totaling $28,283.30 were presented to Greenville and Pitt counties by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

According to Frank Harrington, local manager for the telephone company, payments were made in the month of June in order that the company could avail itself of the discount allowed on ad valorem taxes paid prior to July 1.

The sum paid represents the estimated ad valorem taxes for the city and county and is based on valuation of the company's property in that area as determined by the State Board of Assessments on other than real property and the local valuation of the real property of the company.

The local manager noted that the amount of taxes paid in this city and county exceeded those of 1955 by nearly $7,000.00.

Greenville Man Is Electrocutted

Thaddeus M. Moore, 58, was accidentally electrocuted in front of his home in Bradenton, Florida, at ten o'clock Thursday night when he came in contact with a live power line.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel at 11 o'clock Saturday morning by Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, assisted by the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr., pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Moore, son of Mrs. Cammie P. Moore of Greenville and the late Thaddeus M. Moore, was born and reared in Pitt County. He attended the Pitt County schools and engineering school in New York City. He was employed by the Consolidated Edison Company in New York City from 1917 until his retirement in 1955. He had lived in Bradenton since that time. He was a member of the Baptist Church at Bradenton.

Surviving are his mother; five brothers, David S. Moore of Washington, D.C.; Luther D. and William O. Moore of Greenville; J. Meredith Moore of Greensboro; and F. Ray Moore of Washington, N.C.; and two sisters, Misses Eliza C. and Sonora Moore of Greenville.

The family requests that no flowers be sent.

Handicapped Children Discussed At Clinic

Much can be done to help the handicapped child build a better and more useful life, a group of approximately fifty teachers, parents, and others were told by experienced workers and teachers in the field of special education at an all-day conference Tuesday at East Carolina College.

Speakers at morning and afternoon sessions included Dr. Luciano L'Abate, clinical psychologist at the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic; William J. Waters, coordinator of unit training and instruction, and Elizabeth Brown, psychologist, both from Caswell Training School; H. A. Hendrix, counselor Department of Vocational Rehabilitation State Department of Public Instruction; and Dr. Frances V. Henry of the East Carolina faculty.

Mr. Waters was elected president of the International Council for Exceptional Children at a meeting held during the afternoon. He succeeds Dr. Courtney Stromsta
