HIGHWAY FATALITY NUMBER 9—The body of Robert Lewis McKibbens, Florida Negro, lies beside his overturned automobile which wrecked on a rural paved road west of Winterville early Sunday morning. McKibbens apparently was thrown from the vehicle and killed instantly after the car went out of control during a heavy rain. Arthur Starr, 30, McKibbens' half brother received neck injuries in the accident and was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. McKibbens' death is the ninth highway fatality in Pitt County this year. (Reflector Staff Photo).

State Superintendent Endorses New Plans

RALEIGH (AP)—The state superintendent of public instruction and the president of the Patriots of North Carolina announced their support of Gov. Hodges' plan for preventing integrated public schools in separate week-end state meetings.

School Supt. Charles F. Carroll said he subscribed to the recommendations of the governor's Advisory Committee on Education.

Dr. Carroll added it was up to everyone analyzing and appraising the recommendations to "give of his best toward proposing and submitting a wiser course of action."

He declared it was his conclusion that "the people of North Carolina as a whole are simply not ready for the impact of the (U. S. Supreme) Court's decision" banning discrimination by race in public schools.

Meanwhile, in letters mailed from Greensboro over the signature of W. C. George, Patriots president, editors were informed that the organization would support Hodges and the Legislature "in their efforts to avoid any mixing of white and Negro children" in the public schools.

Gov. Hodges has called the Legislature into special session July 23 to act on the Advisory Education Committee's recommendations.

The committee has called for constitutional amendments which would permit the payment of public funds to individuals so they could attend private schools. Another proposed amendment would permit local school units, by majority vote, to close down their public school systems if conditions become "intolerable."

George's letter said that while the Patriots wish to maintain public schools, "we consider it more important... to preserve the white race..."

House Limits Foreign Aid To Four Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed a compromise bill setting a four-billion-dollar ceiling on the foreign aid program for the 12 months which began July 1. The compromise now goes to the Senate.

The House spent only five minutes on the once hotly disputed authorization measure. Passage came on a scarcely audible voice vote.

House attention shifted to a separate appropriation measure which provides $3,600,000,000 under the terms of the authorization, or ceiling bill.

Both measures are far below President Eisenhower's requests. He asked for about five billion dollars.

House leaders awaited an expected announcement from Eisenhower at Gettysburg, Pa., before deciding whether to make a concerted effort to add some funds to the appropriation bill on the House floor or leave it to the Senate.

Mother Fails To Contact Kidnaper

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Another dramatic, but futile attempt was made last night to make first-hand contact with the kidnaper of the Weinberger baby, police disclosed today.

Mrs. Beatrice Weinberger, mother of the missing child, sat alone for hours in a car parked on a Queens, New York City, street in compliance with instructions of the purported abductor.

But no one showed up to claim the $5,000 ransom she had with her, or return the five-week-old child, Peter.

Reporters saw the mother drive away from home alone at 9:30 last night, and saw her return about 3 a. m., but the reason for her lonely mission was not divulged until after it had proved unavailing.

It was the second time that communications, believed to be from the person who snatched the infant from a patio five days ago, had sent the nerve-wracked mother off alone to try to reclaim her son.

Last night's strange, late-hour vigil in Queens occurred in the midst of a series of new telephone calls to the Weinberger home from that same area.

Three men were picked up in the area after the calls.

Mediators Open Efforts To Ease Big Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Mediation Board said today it will call a meeting of union and management representatives soon in an effort to end the nine-day-old strike of 650,000 steelworkers.

Clyde Mills, assistant director of the board, said a decision will be announced "late today or tomorrow" on where the mediation session will be held and who will be asked to attend.

Mediation was decided upon, Mills said, after "exploratory" talks in Pittsburgh last week convinced the government it would have to take the initiative in scheduling further peace meetings.

Meantime, business is sliding off as the layoffs continue to climb. Steel magazine figures the nation's economy lost 250 million dollars last week. Some 50,000 workers already are laid off in industries dependent on steel, and the effects of the strike will fan out more this week.

Over the weekend the Pennsylvania Railroad placed 7,000 workers on reduced work schedules, resulting in a 10 per cent reduction in pay for each.

Tomorrow thousands more will be idled by the closing of captive coal mines. The captive mines produce coal for steel mill use only.

In Baltimore shipping officials report they expect a sharp curtailment in port business. The Baltimore port's principal import is ore for the nation's steel furnaces.

The strike began at midnight June 30 after a deadlock over length of contract and monetary gains. Industry offered a 32-month contract granting a package which it said amounted to 17-23 cents an hour in the first year. It was valued by the union at about 14 cents. Average pay has been $2.46 an hour.

Representatives To Be Briefed

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—Legislators in the northeastern corner of North Carolina were scheduled to gather here for an afternoon briefing today on the bills which will be introduced at the special legislative session July 23.

The meeting was the first of four scheduled in the state this week. Gov. Hodges headed a list of officials planning to attend the sessions to brief lawmakers on the measures which will deal with the school segregation problem.

A similar meeting will be held in Winston tomorrow afternoon for southeastern legislators. On Thursday afternoon, lawmakers in the Piedmont will be briefed at Lexington. On Friday, a fourth meeting will be held in the western part of the state at a site not yet announced.

Gov. Hodges told newsmen Friday the bills will be shown to the public after Tar Heel legislators are briefed on them.

The bills would carry out recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Education in meeting the segregation issue and would amend the state's Constitution.

The state Supreme Court has been asked for an advisory opinion on whether a general election can be called in September to vote on the proposed amendments.

Jap Scientists Report New Test

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's weather bureau said abnormal earth shock and atmospheric pressure waves indicate the United States may have set off another big nuclear blast today at the Bikini testing grounds.

The bureau said the shock waves were recorded by seismographs 150 miles north of Tokyo at 3 a. m. Japan time today (2 p. m. EST, Sunday).

About three hours later weather bureau stations throughout Japan picked up unusual atmospheric pressure waves, which travel slower than the earth shocks. They came from about 2,400 miles off, in the direction of Bikini, the bureau said.

Meteorologists gauged the strength of the explosion as about equal to one they reported June 26. They also have reported indications of nuclear blasts at Bikini May 21, May 23, June 13 and July 3.

The United States has been conducting a series of nuclear tests at Bikini since early May.

Bond Issue, Fluoridation Election For Greenville Citizens Tomorrow

By EDWINA HAYMES
Reflector Staff Writer

Tomorrow Greenville citizens will go to the polls to decide whether or not the city will have a fluoridated water supply.

Although the straw vote does not legally bind the City Council, it is expected the Council will defer to the public decision on fluoridation.

Pros and cons of the plan, which proposes addition of sodium fluoride in a concentrated form to the city water supply for the prevention of dental cavities in children, have been batted back and forth between proponents and opponents of the issue since it was first recommended some four months ago by Health Director Walter C. Humbert.

ARGUMENTS

Here are summarized the principal arguments which opponents of the measure have advanced and the answers proponents of fluoridation have made to these arguments.

Opponent: Addition of fluoride to the water supply will cause brittle bones, kidney and heart disease and various other chronic illnesses.

Proponent: After exhaustive studies all over the United States, the Committee on Drugs of the American Medical Association, the National Research Council and the Commission of Chronic Illness have stated that one part fluoride to a million parts of water is harmless to human beings. It has further been pointed out that if the measure were harmful to the human body it would not have been endorsed by the Pitt County Medical and Dental Society without a dissenting vote.

HARMS VEGETATION

Opponent: Fluoride in the water will destroy vegetation, grass, flowers and shrubs.

Proponent: At present in the United States there are 1,142 communities fluoridating their water supplies. These communities serve a population of 22,814,898. Twenty-one of these towns are in North Carolina and include Charlotte, Southern Pines, Winston-Salem and Wilmington, some of the most noted beauty spots in the state.

MASS MEDICATION

Opponent: Fluoridation is mass medication and socialized medicine.

Proponent: Doctors and dentists declare this is not true, as fluoridation does not treat a disease, it prevents it in the same sense that chlorine is added to the water to purify it. The American Medical Association and the American Dental Association have stated fluoride in the water is an added nutrient, and water which does not contain fluoride is deficient in an essential mineral.

Opponent: Those who want fluoride can take it, by pills or by topical application by a dentist.

Proponent: These methods are not practical and fluoridation will not reach the great masses of underprivileged who can't afford to go to doctors and dentists. The U. S. Public Health Service has declared the fluoridation of municipal water supplies is the only economical, safe and practical way of giving the public this benefit.

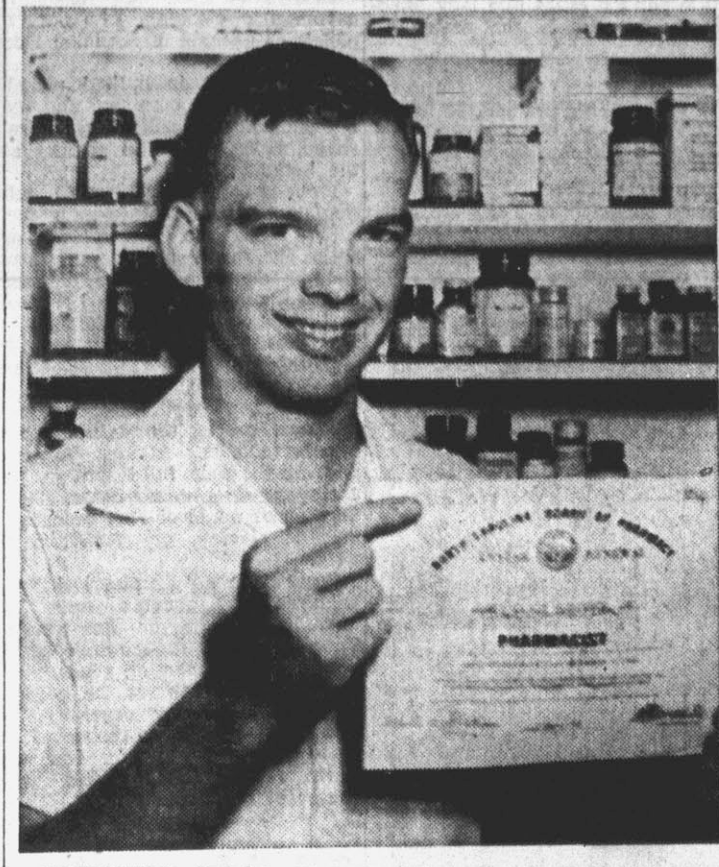

VOLUNTARY PLAN

Opponent: Why should persons who don't want it have to pay for those who do want to take it?

Proponent: All pay for police and fire protection, though some have never needed and may never need it. Fluoridation will cost only about ten cents per person per year. In the long run, it should ease the taxpayers burden by improving the health of the underprivileged who now have to depend on public funds for care.

Opponent: Dental cavities can be prevented if children will not eat so much sugar.

Proponent: Sugar alone cannot be blamed for dental cavities; they are the result of deficient diet and improper oral hygiene. Fluoride in the amount of one part to a million parts of water will, ten year tests have shown, reduce tooth decay in children from 80 to 90 per cent by causing the tooth enamel to become more acid resistant. The studies were made in Newburgh, N. Y., Brantford, Ontario, Grand Rapids, Mich. and Bartlett, Tex. In addition, a seven year study was made in Charlotte. Results of the tests were published in February of this year by the American Medical Association, American Dental Association and the American Public Health Association.

PATRIOTIC—And he can prove it too. Jimmie Robinson, new employee at Bissette's Drug Store, points to the issue number on his pharmacy license. The number is "1776." The number alone would be of little significance had the license not been issued on "July 4."

Violent Acts Take 12 In State Over Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 12 persons died by violence in North Carolina over the weekend.

A young mother from near Asheville was fatally injured when the family automobile collided with a panel truck in a rainstorm near Sylva. Mrs. Betty Sue Cooper, 24, died in a Sylva hospital, and her husband and three children were among the six injured.

A stripped-down 1931 Model A Ford overturned four miles east of Stanley, killing Major Franklin Abernethy, 57, of Rt. 1, Stanley.

A Raleigh Negro died in a fight with a neighbor who officers said had chased the slain man's sister with a hammer. Police said William Gass, 28, was killed by a hammer blow over the heart. The neighbor, Henry Taylor, 30, was charged with murder.

Cpl. James N. Hensel, 19, of the Camp Lejeune Marine Base, was fatally injured when an automobile in which he was riding overturned six miles west of Burgaw. He was the husband of Mrs. Merial Renee Hensel and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kearney R. Hensel, all of Mill Run, Pa.

Clemon Triplett, 47, of Triplett, was shot to death in a fight in a churchyard near Boone. William Oscar Wyatt, 45, operator of a care near Glendale Springs, was held for investigation.

Leatro Smith, about 45, Hickory hosiery mill worker, drowned when his boat overturned in Lake Hickory.

A Negro father and son from New Bern drowned in the Neuse River while swimming at James City near New Bern. They were Manuel Ward, 47, and Martin Lee Ward, 9.

William M. Stanley, 40-year-old Pasquotank farmer, drowned Saturday when his 14-foot speed boat hit a tree growing in the narrow mouth of Newbegun Creek and tossed him into the Pasquotank River near Elizabeth City. Wreckage of the boat was found Saturday, but the body was not recovered until the Elizabeth City Fire Department, using grappling hooks, found it Sunday.

Little Damage From Rain, Wind

The wind and rain storm that hit Greenville and vicinity this morning has apparently done little or no damage.

The top of a car belonging to James Collins, 118 W. 9th Street, was crushed when a tree fell on it. The car was parked on 9th street.

D. C. Martin, Winterville Chief of Police, stated that he had received no report of damage done in or about Winterville.

A ditto report was also received from H. F. Sutton, Ayden police man.

J. R. Parker, Grifton Chief of Police, stated that he had not received any word of damage.

Mayor Charles S. Edwards of Farmville stated, "not too much of a blow—no damage that I know of."

In Bethel, Mrs. C. M. Burton, stated that she had not heard of any damage that had been done. In Greenville, the wind and rain came fast and furious for a few minutes between nine and ten. The tree incident is the only mishap that has been reported so far.

Rainfall in the Greenville area from Saturday night to 10 a. m. today totaled 4.59 inches. Mrs. Leland Mizell, weather and river observer for the U. S. Department of Commerce, reported today.

Tar River at Greenville which had been at its lowest level in many years until yesterday, had risen several feet this morning.

WIND STORM—Heavy winds this morning toppled a tree on a parked car (above) located on W. Ninth St. The top of the car, which belonged to James Collins of 105 W. 13th St., was damaged by the tree. In addition telephone lines were pulled down by the falling tree. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Fall Fashions Sport 1912 Look

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Fashion is returning to the good old days, it was apparent today as New York designers previewed their fall collections for the nation's press.

The 1912 look is the big news of fall fashions, expressed by a return to full-length evening gowns, instep-length dinner dresses, softened Empire lines, greater elaboration and a return to feminine formality.

After exploring the flapper era for several seasons, designers have hit on the period preceding World War I as inspiration for fashions expressing the ladylike look of today. Sensing the fact that women are weary of careless clothes, they usher in a new mode of strictly feminine elegance, with lines clearly drawn between fashions for daytime, the cocktail hour and evening. Although the predominant silhouette is still the sheath, it is softened and elaborated by feminine drapery, floating panels and fine details of trimming. The Empire line is important in all collections, with belts just below the bust in most cases, midriffs slim and waistslines unaccented. Shoulders are natural or sloping, skirts are narrow and hemlines unchanged except for evening gowns, which are long if they carry out the newest look.

Clothes like grandmother used to wear are present in abundance, recognized by their new air of femininity, their formality, the richness of their fabrics, their elaboration of detail and the accessories that set them off — big, important hats, big fur muffs, little pointed shoes and lacy handkerchiefs suitable for dropping.

Mannequins modeling the new fashions usually wear their hair done up in a Psyche knot or a chignon, and they have acquired a new stance — back straight, head erect, chin up, manner haughty. None of the debutante slouch, none of the loose-jointed college girl amble.

Suits for fall have short jackets which manage an Empire look by accent rather than cut. Some have little belts applied just below the shoulder blades in back; some have tabs, seams or other detail just below the bust in front. Waistlines are unaccented, though present, and skirts are slim, sometimes with low-placed interest in back — a pleat, a slit or a detail of trimming just above the hemline.

Dresses soften the austerity of the sheath with soft drapery, asymmetric closings, floating panels or accents of feminine lace or embroidery.

Skirt fullness is limited principally to after-5 costumes, and the newest full skirts have a barrel shape, being drawn in slightly at the hemline.

Evening gowns return to full magnificence and full-length formality with the long velvet or satin sheath in top favor. Satin sheaths sometimes have a deep tailored cuff around the hemline, in the 1912 manner. Chiffon evening gowns often are slim, with elaborate drapery and floating panels at side or back. The camisole top is important for evening fashions, as is the bodice with narrow shoulder straps. Accompanying the new full-length gowns are dramatic evening coats, floor-length and made of rich brocades, velvets, laces or fur-trimmed wool.

Coats have an Empire look too, achieved by accents such as high-placed tabs or half belts. There are more fur-trimmed coats than in a number of years, and for the sports car set the hooded car coat is a new necessity.

The casual look is restricted to sportswear this season. For all town appearances, ladies will dress to the teeth.

SPONGE HAT:—In an effort to bolster the sagging sponge industry at Tarpon Springs, Fla., University of Florida researchers at Gainesville have come up with a sponge hat, designed and modeled here by Verena Fogel. Verena is a costume design student at the university. The hat was created from a type of sponge used in machine shops for cleaning heavy machinery, plus a few feet of red ribbon and two artificial roses. (AP Wirephoto).

Modern Plastics Make Housework Easy

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newfeatures Writer

Plastics have an elegance that appeals to the 1956 housewife. Good looks and utility combine to give her a pretty house that is easy to care for. And that's what she wants.

Into her bedroom have gone chests of drawers topped by melamine plastic laminate that may be washed down, with no fear of being ruined by spilled perfume or nail polish.

She entertains at supper with snack tables that are impervious to food and drink.

And her kitchen may have the easy to wash plastic counter tops. Now in the stores are these and other innovations shown at the spring home furnishings market.

One chair molded of glass fiber and plastic into a lounge shape is upholstered with foam plastic that has a removable fabric contour cover. Another sleek occasional chair in Danish styling has seat and back shields of heavy gauge white vinyl. The sofas and lounge chairs in this line are covered in plastic of decorator shades such as cerulean blue or persimmon.

Molded dining chairs have a charming built-in texture of burlap sealed within glass fibers and polyester plastic resins.

Terrace tables of hard plastic have marble chips buried within.

George Nelson's room divider is a series of horizontal poles on which he has hung styrene plastic bowls to hold growing plants.

Bowls may be taken down for watering.

One charming table top is a harlequin pattern in black and white that would be at home with any decor. Washable upholstery is available as head boards is set flush in exposed wood frames or sprinkled with gold stars. And no end of plastic planning has gone into the nursery. Everything from furniture to bath basins and bathinets offer the easy-does-it theme. Outsize pails and covers of matching plastic are other style notes.

NEW WAY WITH PLASTIC . . . Chairs are molded of glass fiber and plastic with burlap sealed within. Table top is in warm brown woodgrain plastic outlined in brass (left) and (right) reinforced plastic is used in this chair molded in a lounge shape that never needs refinishing. It has foam rubber upholstery and a contour slipcover of tweedy fabric.

Variety Now In Fabrics

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Martha Washington would never believe it if she could view the variety of fabrics available in a modern department store. She wouldn't even know what the fabrics are. And if somebody told her they came out of test tubes she no doubt would swoon from shock.

Martha was an old-fashioned girl. Her dresses were made from cotton, silk, wool or linen. She saw the wool clipped from the sheep, washed, carded, spun into yarn and finally woven into fabric. She saw the cotton picked and knew all about the flax and the silkworm. Fabrics were no mystery in Martha's day. But they were considerably more limited.

Today the miracle fabrics are doing new tricks every day. The latest are to be seen in the new transitional styles which are due to hit the shops about August, for late summer and early fall wear. These fabrics may look like tweed or taffeta, slub silk or worsted—but they probably will turn out to be new treatments of color-sealed acetate and rayon.

The ones that look like tweed turn out to be amazingly airy and light. Textured surfaces fabrics have a soft, luxurious feel. And the fabrics are used in dark town dresses designed to see a woman smartly through the dog days between summer and fall.

Today chemistry and fashion make a winning team, putting high style garments within the reach of the girl on a budget.

Coffee Dessert Extra-Special

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

LIKE COFFEE FLAVOR? Then you'll find this molded dessert a heavenly creation. It's velvet-smooth to the tongue, has an intriguing flavor and looks so pretty when it's turned out of a mold. It's definitely something to put on your list of extra-special company desserts.

Because this sweet calls for four egg yolks we are listing reminders of what you may do with the egg whites you have leftover.

BRAZILIAN CREAM
Ingredients: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/4 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 4 egg yolks, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons instant coffee, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup heavy cream (whipped).

Method: Mix together thoroughly gelatin, sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Beat together egg yolks and 1 cup of the milk; stir into gelatin mixture with the remaining 1 cup milk. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly, about 6 minutes. (Water is lower part of double boiler may touch bottom of top part.) Remove from heat. Add coffee and vanilla; beat with rotary beater just until coffee is dissolved. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into a 4-cup mold or use individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold and if desired garnish with additional sweetened whipped cream (flavored with vanilla) and toasted sliced almonds. Make 8 servings.

TIPSON EGG WHITES
STORING—If you are not planning to use extra egg whites at once, put them in a tightly covered jar and store in the refrigerator.

FRUIT WHIP—Dried apricot puree plus sugar to taste may be folded into stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream for a flavorful ending to a meal.

PIE TOPPING—For a mile-high meringue topping for a pie, use extra egg whites. The usual meringue topping for an eight or nine-inch pie calls for three egg whites and six tablespoons of sugar plus salt and flavoring. Five egg whites may be used with ten tablespoons of sugar. Spread the meringue evenly over the pie filling and brown in a preheated hot (400 degrees) oven for twelve to fifteen minutes.

FISH TOPPING—Broiled fish fillets or steaks may be spread with an egg white mixture. For four servings of fish, fold half a cup of mayonnaise-type salad dressing into a stiffly beaten egg white along with a little well drained pickle relish. Spread the fish, as soon as it is cooked through, with the egg white mixture and put back under the broiler until the topping puffs and browns.

FROZEN DESSERT—You can make all sorts of fresh fruit sherbets with extra egg whites. Easy to prepare and so refreshing! Serve the sherbet with crisp cookies. Sherbets are also fun for company fruit cups: fill sherbet glasses with fresh diced fruit and then put a small scoop of the sherbet in the center. Top the sherbet with a sprig of mint from your garden.

CAKE SPREAD—Meringues, made with white or brown sugar, may be spread over warm cake; and cake pan is then returned to the oven or broiler while the meringue browns lightly. Coconut or chopped nuts may be added to the meringue.

SOUP PUFFS—Heat condensed tomato and green pea soups together, diluting according to the directions on the can. Ladle into small casseroles. Beat an egg white stiff and drop small puffs of it over the soup; brown under the broiler.

Shower Fetes Miss Stokes

Miss Betty Lou Stokes of Route 2, Ayden, whose marriage to Jesse Jones of Ayden will take place in August, was honored at a miscellaneous shower in the cafeteria at Chicod School Friday night.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. James J. Edwards, Mrs. Harvey Roberson, Mrs. W. W. Stokes and Mrs. Thomas Stokes, all of Route 2, Ayden.

The forty guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. James J. Edwards.

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of white carnations. Following games, Miss Stokes opened her gifts.

Guests were served punch, party cakes, nuts and mints. The table was centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli and candles.

Mrs. James J. Mills poured punch and Mrs. Ernest Boyd served cakes. Also assisting in serving were Mrs. Earl Mills and Miss Carol Sue Stokes.

Miss Clark, Mr. Windham Wed

Miss Shirley Jean Clark and Mr. Robert Eugene Windham were married Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the home of the Rev. C. J. Harris, uncle of the bride, who officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Kincheon Belvoir-Falkland High School in Clark of Greenville and Mr. Windham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Marcellus Windham of Falkland.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Mary Gayne Harris and Miss Emily Merlene Clark.

The couple was unattended and for her wedding the bride wore a dress of white lace over Alice Blue Taffeta with matching blue accessories. Her flowers were blue and white bridal pom poms entwined with white lace and ribbon.

The mother of the bride wore a dress of lavender linen for her daughter's wedding with blending accessories and a pink corsage. A dress of blue silk was worn by the bridegroom's mother and her corsage was white.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of Belvoir-Falkland High School, and is presently employed as a secretary for Milton C. Williamson, Greenville Attorney. Mr. Windham graduated from

Man Gets Caught Sneaking In Jail

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Tony Mendaza, 42, got into trouble with police for sneaking into jail. The trouble was that he sneaked out in the first place.

Jailer Jim Bennett said Mendoza, a trusty, sneaked out and got drunk, then tried to crawl back in. He first got into jail for sneaking away from a police compound where he was being held overnight.

Housewife Loses On Clover Charm

SANDSTON, Va. (AP)—Mrs. W. R. Fritchett found 16 four-leaf clovers, five six-leaf and two five-leaf on her lawn which should have brought enough luck for one day. They didn't, though.

After her clover gathering Mrs. Fritchett began her housework and promptly fell through a first floor window she was washing into a prize tulip bed. Main damage was to her belief that multi-leaf clovers have anything to do with good luck.

Foreign Aid Program's Big Questions Expected To Be Answered By Study

By JAMES MARLOW
 Associated Press News Analyst
 WASHINGTON (AP)—By the time the next President Eisenhower or someone else settles down in the White House in 1957 the country should know more about how and why its money is being spent on foreign aid.

The Senate will probably vote $300,000 for its Foreign Relations Committee, with the help of outside experts, to investigate the whole aid program and make a report by next Jan. 31.

When President Truman created the Marshall Plan in 1947 — the first great postwar foreign aid program — it got enthusiastic support.

Europe was flat on its back. Asia was impoverished. The cold war was under way. The greater the distress in any one country or area, the easier a target it was for communism.

This early aid was economic. But after the Korean War started and this country began its military alliances around the world, the nature of the aid changed.

This country began to help arm its allies.

Now the money being spent for military assistance exceeds the economic aid. The program is no longer called foreign aid but mutual security.

But the contest against communism underwent some changes too, especially since 1953 when Stalin died. The fear of Russian attack began to dwindle a bit under the assurances of Stalin's successors that they wanted peace and that their competition with the West would be economic.

In the past year the Russians, who wanted no part of the early Marshall Plan, have arranged to give economic help of their own to nations around their perimeter.

Still, the United States has to be sure the Russians pull no tricks: that the American allies won't be soft-talked into letting down their guard. Therefore, the administration continues military assistance.

But year by year in Congress there has developed a feeling that the allies do not need all the aid they're getting, that they are strong enough economically to do money as possible. Yet, the more for themselves.

This is in addition to a natural feeling of wanting to save as much as possible. Yet, the more for themselves.

Jap Conservatives Win Control Of Upper House

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's Conservative supporters today won renewed control of the upper house of the Japanese Parliament. But Socialists upsets in Sunday's election threatened the government's plans to rewrite the occupation-sponsored constitution to speed rearmament.

Midway in the vote counting, Socialists and one Communist had grabbed 6 of the 11 additional seats the leftists needed to block Hatoyama's chances of retaining the two-thirds majority needed to revise the nation's charter.

The left's gains, including three major upsets, came in races for 75 upper house seats elected by districts. Counting was just starting on 52 additional seats filled by the nation at large, races in which the Socialists were expected to make their strongest showing.

Complete unofficial results for the 75 seats chosen by districts showed 46 Conservative and 29 opposition members elected to the House of Councillors.

With 90 pro-government councillors and 33 opposition members still having three years of their six-year term to serve, the Conservatives' 136 members already were 10 more than the 126 needed to give Hatoyama a majority in the 250-member house. But the Socialist gains raised doubts that the final tabulation would seat the 167 Conservatives needed to amend the constitution.

The Socialists, Communists and other leftists bitterly oppose Hatoyama's plans to remove from the constitution the occupation-dictated clause renouncing war. That provision so far has barred the enlargement of Japan's small defense force which the United States has been urging.

In the last upper house election government held 172 seats. Failure to again win a two-thirds majority would probably postpone rearmament action for at least three years, until the other half of the house comes up for election in 1959.

The turnout of voters was the second lightest in Japan's 10 post-war elections. Only 62.1 per cent — 31,095,869 — of the nation's 51,492,077 registered voters went to the polls.

The Communist elected was Sanzo Nosaka, 64-year-old chief of the Japanese party who emerged last fall after six years underground. Greeted by noisy bannais at Communist headquarters, he proclaimed his return to Parliament "a defeat for America" and said, "I believe it is possible for the party to work through democratic and peaceful means."

Hatoyama's Liberal-Democratic party suffered major upsets in losing one seat to the Socialists in the Yokohama area; one in Kochi prefecture, home of former Conservative Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, and one in Yamaguchi prefecture, 700 miles west of Tokyo and the home of party secretary general, Nobusuke Kishi.

The Socialist gains continued a trend manifested in the last two elections for the more powerful House of Representatives. The Socialists last year boosted their lower house minority strength to one third, enabling them to block rewriting of the constitution's "anti-army" clause. Hatoyama's party was especially anxious to win a clear two-thirds of the upper house since the alignment there can be changed only at election time every three years.

Fight Expected On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bitter fight over civil rights legislation was brewing in the House today, threatening plans of leaders to adjourn Congress by July 28.

The civil rights battle, which comes to a head next week, could take up an entire week of the House's time.

House rules don't permit drawn-out filibusters, but Southern Democrats can avail themselves of parliamentary devices to stall the bill. They say they plan to do just that before letting the measure go to the Senate and almost certain death.

A major item on President Eisenhower's legislative program, the bill would create a commission on civil rights, set up a special civil rights division in the Justice Department, and make it easier to obtain federal court injunctions against infringement of civil rights.

Before getting into that fight, the House hopes this week to dispose of bills authorizing and financing the foreign aid program, financing more than a billion dollars of military construction and providing the death penalty for persons who peddle narcotics to minors. All three measures require Senate approval.

The foreign aid money bill hasn't been considered in either branch and is certain to stir up a fight on both sides of the Capitol.

The Senate's docket for the week is relatively light. After memorial services today for deceased members, it may adjourn until Wednesday (the All-Star baseball game will be played here tomorrow), and then take up some legislative odds and ends.

Local Boys To Participate In Kinston Tourney

Four Greenville boys left today to compete in the North Carolina Junior Golf Tournament in Kinston, which ultimately leads to the National Junior Golf tourney in Fargo, North Dakota.

Bobby Thomas, Wesley Topping, Dick Evans, and Buddy Murray will compete against the top junior golfers in the state during the three-day trials in Kinston. Points will be given to individuals, based on their scores. On Wednesday, the team with the most points is awarded the state team trophy. The four individual players with the most number of points, regardless of their teams, will then be selected to make the Fargo journey as the North Carolina delegates to the National tourney.

Action today includes practice rounds and a Pro-Am tourney, which is for instructional purposes. Today's work will not be effective in the ultimate scoring for the tournament.

Tuesday will find the first recorded action beginning. The tournament is a 54-hole affair and will be played tomorrow. On Wednesday, the final 36 will be played and the awards will be made.

The State Junior Golf Tournament is sponsored by the N.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Everette Sweeps Top Honors In Robersonville Tournament

TOURNEY WINNER—R. B. Lee, Robersonville Athletic Director, is shown awarding Maurice Everette, of East Carolina, the winners' trophy after the husky netter copped the singles crown and teamed with Gil Underwood to capture the doubles title.

East Carolina tennis star, Maurice Everette, a junior from Robersonville, captured the singles title and teamed with Gil Underwood, an EC senior, to take the doubles crown yesterday in the Robersonville Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Everette bumped off Terry Whitener, Tom Norfleet, Robert Monn, and Underwood in capturing first place. In the doubles, Everette and Underwood topped Vince Colombo and Lee in the first round and Norfleet and J.W. Browning in the semi-finals Saturday. In the finals they beat Atwood Askew and Walter Conner to cop the title.

In winning the quarter finals Saturday, Everette stopped Norfleet, 6-1, 6-1. In the semifinals, also played Saturday, he defeated Monn, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, and in the finals he topped EC teammate Underwood 8-6, 6-2.

In sweeping the doubles victory, Everette and Underwood never lost a set. They defeated Colombo and Lee, 6-0, 7-5; took Norfleet and Browning 6-3, 6-1; and stopped Askew and Conner for the championship, 6-4, 6-3.

In winning, Everette added another trophy to his growing collection. Last season, he captured the North State Singles tennis crown. Also, he and Underwood kept their string of victories going. They have never been beaten as a doubles team.

Bob Lee, Athletic Director of Robersonville High, presented the trophies shortly after the tournament was completed.

Holds Edge In All-Star Battle

By JOE REICHLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The once-dominant American League was a surprising 6-5 favorite today to win the 23rd annual All-Star baseball game tomorrow from the power-laden National League, which has won five of the last six.

The expected availability of Mickey Mantle as a starter, a modest pitching edge plus a persistent home park jinx created a feeling that the junior circuit may regain some of its prestige.

Barring a surprise move on the part of the All-Star managers, the opening pitchers figure to be Whitey Ford, New York Yankee southpaw (10-4), for the Americans against Robin Roberts, Philadelphia right-hander (8-10), for the Nationals.

Bob Friend (11-7) of the Pittsburgh Pirates, mentioned as the original choice for the Nationals, came up with a abscessed throat but said in New York, "It's nothing that would keep me from pitching."

directing the Americans for the sixth time, and Walter Alston, in his second venture, insisted they had not yet decided on their pitching plans. That's probably so since six of the 15 All-Star pitchers were used yesterday and six Saturday. That leaves only Ford, Roberts and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee with sufficient rest.

"It could be my guy Ford, or it could be Billy Pierce of Chicago," said Stengel. "I'll have to sleep on it before I make up my mind."

"One thing you can be sure of," Casey added, "Ford will pitch for sure, whether he leads off, relieves in the middle innings or finishes. He's the most rested of all the pitchers. I've kept him out since Thursday."

A week ago Alston was certain of Friend as his starter. Last night he was wavering between the Pittsburgh ace and Roberts.

Unbeaten Boxers Slated To Clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two unbeaten heavyweights with promise for the future meet their big tests on the week's boxing program.

Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., with 22 straight, takes on Nino Valdes of Cuba in a Wednesday rematch at Coral Gables, Fla., and Pat McMurry, who has only one draw to mar a perfect record, boxes ex-champ Ezzard Charles Friday at Tacoma, Wash.

Machen won a decision over Valdes, once a top-ranked heavy contender, in their first meeting at San Francisco in April. The match could be the turning point for both men. Valdes, 31, has lost four of his last six and needs a smashing victory to restore prestige. An impressive score by Machen, who has knocked out 11 of his 14 victims, would boost him above his current No. 10 position.

Charles, still plodding ahead despite many defeats, should answer a number of questions about young McMurry. In his last start Charles stopped Bob Albright, the man who fought the draw with McMurry a year ago, a bout in which the Tacoma, Wash., heavy broke his hand.

Machen-Valdes will be carried on network radio and TV but there will be no TV of the Charles match.

Middleweights top tonight's show at St. Nicholas Arena in New York where Willie Troy of Washington meets Jerry Luedee of New Haven.

Dumont will telecast.

Joey Giambra of Buffalo and Rocky Castellani of Cleveland, two 160-pounders who have ranked near the top of the class, box Friday at Madison Square Garden. There will be network radio and TV.

State Recruits Star Hoopster

RALEIGH (AP)—An all-state center from the Rockford, Ill., two-time state championship basketball team, has accepted a scholarship to North Carolina State College, it was announced today.

John Wessels, a six-seven-pounder from West Rockford High School, made the announcement jointly with his mother and his father in a telephone conversation with Wolfpack Coach Everett Case.

"We are indeed fortunate to have a boy like Wessels come to State," Case said. "He is one of the nation's outstanding high school stars and will be a big help to us."

Over 50 colleges were reported seeking to land Wessels.

Yanks Break Away Again; Things Back To "Normal"

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
The law of averages, the Detroit Tigers and Al Kaline have caught up with the Chicago White Sox and the American League pennant race is back to "normal" today — the New York Yankees lead it by 6½ games.

Chicago had closed to within 1½ games of New York just a week and a half ago, winning 12 of 14 on a home stand. But since then, they have lost 8 of 14. And after what Detroit did to 'em this past weekend, they're only 2-4 for their current home fling.

After just five victories in 22 games and with an 0-6 record against Chicago the Tigers banged 17 hits to beat the Sox 12-8 Saturday — then peppered All-Star pitchers Jim Wilson and Billy Pierce in a 36-hit doubleheader sweep 17-5 and 8-6 yesterday.

Kaline, the AL bat champ of 1955 who has been around the 250 mark with a 2-for-13 record against Chicago, was 9-for-13 in the three games. He got a home run, triple and four singles yesterday to drive in seven runs.

The Yankees padded their lead with an 8-2 job on Washington that swept the three-game set. Mickey Mantle returned to the lineup and singled once in three trips.

Cleveland edged to within two percentage points of Chicago thumping Kansas City 17-3. And Boston, with Ted Williams socking his 39th home run and gaining his 1,500th run batted in, took two from Baltimore 9-0 and 8-4.

In the National, Cincinnati was out 12-4 by St. Louis, but beat the Cards 3-2. That upped the Redlegs' lead to 1½ games as Monte Irvin's ninth-inning grand-slam homer gave the Chicago Cubs a 10-6 decision over second place Milwaukee.

Brooklyn split two with Philadelphia, winning 9-2 as Don Newcombe gained his 10th victory, then losing 3-2. Pittsburgh moved to within one point of fourth-place St. Louis, beating New York 5-2 in the second of two games after the Giants had belted seven home runs — one shy of the major league record — to win the opener 11-1.

Kaline's 12th homer came in a two-run second inning as the Sox with relief help, Herm Wehmeier lost it in relief.

The Cubs scored five in the Tigers scored 14 runs off Wilson and then they packed it away with 11 runs in the seventh. Pitcher Bob Lemon hit a two-run pinch homer in the eighth, then saved Early Wynn's 10th victory.

Boston overhauled a 4-0 Baltimore lead in the second game. All-Star George Kell hit two homers for the Orioles runs. Williams—batting .368—drove in five runs. He got a homer, a double, a single and a bases-loaded walk in the opener as Frank Sullivan won his eighth.

Cincinnati made it when three walks loaded the bases in the seventh. Wally Pate came through with a two-run single that tied it and All-Star Gus Bell then drove in the clincher with an infield out. All-Star Joe Nuxhall won his sixth ninth to beat the Braves, with Irvin's fourth grand-slammer handing Gene Conley the defeat in relief. Gene Baker and Hobie Landrith also homered for the Cubs while Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock, who hit two, homered for Milwaukee. Reliever Turk Lown won it.

Newcombe retired 20 in a row and had a two-hit shutout until the ninth when Stan Lopata doubled and Del Ennis hit his 15th home run. The Phils took the afterpiece when Willie Jones, hitting in his 17th straight game, smacked a three-run double in the bases full.

Sixth after Sal Maglie walked Willie Mays, Earl Spencer and Wes Westrum each homered twice for the Giants in the opener. Dick Groat's two-run double was the big blow in a three-run eighth that won the nightcap.

Ten thousand years ago, men hunted camels in what is now the United States.

NCAC Captured South Carolina Aquatic Honors

COLUMBIA (AP)—The North Carolina Athletic Club and the club from Greensboro, N.C., have taken over South Carolina swimming honors.

The NCAC men's team and the Greensboro women's team won top scoring in the three-day sixth annual Palmetto Open swim meet that ended here Saturday night.

Meet officials claimed 10 new American records during the three days of events, which saw 16 new records set.

Two of the American record claims Saturday night were by the NCAC freestyle relay team in the 440-yard relay event at 4:03.8, and by the NCAC's Charles Krepp in the 440-yard individual medley at 5:42.8.

The 440-yard relay time was faster than the American record for 400 meters, a shorter distance, and meet officials also planned to claim the 440 time as a record in the 400 meters.

Other team scores: Men's events, Greensboro 26, Raleigh, N.C. Recreation 17, Chapel Hill, N.C. Swim Club 11, Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, Pa., 8, and Columbia Swim Club 4.

The NCAC had 186 points, almost three times the total of the other teams combined.

Trailing the Greensboro women's 215 points badly were the Vesper Boat Club with 45 and the NCAC women with 39.

Maurice Everette, Robersonville retained his position as the No. 1 tennis performer at East Carolina College, last week, by turning down Gil Underwood in the finals of a summer championship tourney, sponsored by the College Union Student Board. The score was 6-4, 8-6.

Nancy Rogers, Wilson took the ladies' title by stopping Nancy Bell, 6-1, 6-4.

Going into the semi-finals, Dr. Joseph Steelman met Underwood and Gene Lilley faced Everette. Underwood posted a 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 and Exerette illuminated Lilley, 6-0, 6-0. Rogers topped Marie Vines, 6-3, 6-2 and Bell won out over Eleanor Pierce, 6-1, 6-8, 6-2 in the women's semi-finals.

The tourney got underway on June 23 with 22 eager entrants fighting for the singles titles. Six girls and 16 boys battled for their respective honors. Those who participated included Bill Basden, Everett, Bill Graham, Ron Hodges, Lilly, Gray, Mattacks, Marshall, McLamb, Guy Mendenhall, Dr. George Pastl, Dr. Joseph Steelman, Bob Taylor, Underwood, Wade Ward, Warren Whitehurst, Stewart Wooten, Bob Young, Nancy Bell, Sarah Everette, Eleanor Pierce, Jean Rice, Nancy Rogers and Marie Vines.

Supporting Fluoridation of Greenville's

Water Supply!

The following are letters of endorsement for fluoridation from North Carolina cities which are now using fluoridation to J. W. Branham, Immediate Past President of the North Carolina Dental Society, Raleigh, N. C.

CITY OF CHARLOTTE
February 27, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

So many people have written to ask me what I think of the effectiveness and safety of fluoridation that I have developed almost a stock reply: Its usefulness in preventing dental decay is no longer debated, would I deliberately poison my family, my community and myself had I the least doubt as to its safety?

I am glad, therefore, of this opportunity to join you in advocating fluoridation in the City of Raleigh. May I wish for you success in this venture, and for your people the added blessing of a good caries preventive.

Sincerely,

M. B. Bethel, M. D.
Health Officer

PEDIATRIC CLINIC (Charlotte)
March 5, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

Dr. Freedland asked me to write you my impression of fluoridation.

We are very impressed here in Charlotte. There is absolutely no doubt of the efficacy of the program in preventing decay. One can tell the year of the addition of fluorine to our water supply by families that have two or more children before and after. Even the parents are aware of the differences in these examples.

It is beyond my comprehension how there can be any resistance to so thoroughly documented dental-caries preventive, which is safer than any presently used immunizing biological agent available for the prevention of diseases.

Sincerely,

W. L. Venning, M. D.

ROBESON CO. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH
March 1, 1956

Dear Doctor Branham:

I have received your letter relative to the fluoridation of our city water supply in Lumberton.

We began fluoridating our water two years ago, and up to this time, we have not had a single complaint from anyone about any ill effects of any nature whatever. We feel confident that we will not have any, and that continuous fluoridation of our water supply will prevent tooth decay in hundreds and perhaps thousands of our young children in the future.

Sincerely yours,

E. R. Hardin, M. D.
Health Officer

CONSOLIDATED BOARD OF HEALTH
New Hanover County and City of Wilmington
March 1, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

Fluoridation of Wilmington water supply was started in May 1955; there have been no complaints or adverse reports about this procedure made officially or unofficially to this department since this was started.

On the basis of our experience and that of more than a thousand other communities fluoridating water, we find it difficult to understand why there can be any valid objection to it.

Sincerely yours,

C. B. Davis, M. D.
Health Officer

HALIFAX COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT
February 28, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

In answer to your letter of February 24, it gives me genuine pleasure to report that the fluoridation of the Roanoke Rapids city water supply has resulted in no ill or side effects among our citizens. I have heard of no ill effects among domestic animals.

I have personally examined the pre-school children in Roanoke Rapids since we began adding fluoride to our water supply and in my opinion, the native children are already showing benefits from the fluoride water supply. Dr. R. A. Daniel, outstanding dentist in Roanoke Rapids, did a basic survey of all elementary school children in Roanoke Rapids before we began adding fluoride to our water supply. At the same time (Spring of 1952) Dr. Daniel surveyed the elementary school children in Littleton, North Carolina, where the water supply has a natural fluoride content of approximately one part fluoride per million parts water. The total DMF rate for the baby teeth of the Roanoke Rapids children was 576 per 100 children examined as compared with the total DMF rate of 147 per 100 Littleton children. In approximately another year, we will repeat this basic survey in Roanoke Rapids.

You might be interested in knowing that the only complaints we have had from the citizens in Roanoke Rapids regarding the "fluoridated water supply" were reported prior to the time the fluoride was actually added. In other words, these complaints were based on imagination, after it had been rumored that the fluoride program had begun.

Trusting that this information will be of value to you and with kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

Robert F. Young, M. D.
County Health Officer

Vote YES! for fluoridation

The fluoridation of municipal water supplies in the amount of 1 part sodium fluoride to 1,000,000 parts of water:

1. WILL definitely prevent 50% to 80% of dental decay in growing children.
2. IT IS SAFE . . . Sodium Fluoride in recommended amounts is absolutely harmless to human body, to animals and pets, to vegetation and all living organisms, plant or animals. Reference: American Medical Association and American Dental Association 1956.
3. IT CAN BE CONTROLLED . . . Modern methods of administering Sodium Fluoride to city water absolutely guarantee against overdosing. Reference: Leonard A. Bloxam, Greenville City Manager and Greenville Utilities Superintendent.
4. It is the only practical Public Health Way of Preventing Dental Caries because it reaches both the privileged and the under privileged children.
5. IT WILL NOT, in the prescribed amounts cause brittle bones, arthritis, rheumatism, heart and kidney disease, hardening of the arteries, diabetes, anemia, stomach ulcers, cancer or insanity. Reference: American Medical Association.
6. IT WILL NOT destroy your grass, flowers, shrubs or foliage. Reference: Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Southern Pines and Wilmington, N. C. (These cities have had Sodium Fluoride in the water for several years and take a look at the beautiful gardens, flowers and parks that excel in these cities.)
7. IT WILL NOT RAISE TAXES or water rates the cost per year per person is approximately 10¢. Reference: Leonard A. Bloxam, Greenville City Manager and Greenville Utilities Superintendent.
8. IT DOES NOT ALTER THE TASTE of the drinking water in any way as it cannot be detected for infants formula, drinking, bathing cooking and other personal uses.

Dear Doctor Branham:

Fluoridation of Lenoir City water has been in vogue for nearly three years. There have been no complaints from the public, and no side or ill effects have been reported.

We are very happy with the situation.

DEPT. OF PUBLIC HEALTH — GASTON CO.
March 5, 1956
Dear Dr. Branham:

The City of Gastonia announced through the local newspapers that fluoridation of the Water supply would begin on December 15, 1955. Actually, fluoridation did not occur until February 11, 1956. The purpose of this delay was to allow time for spurious complaints before fluoridation was started.

I have checked with the City Chemist, and with the Complaints Department at City Hall and no complaints have been registered. None have been received in this Department either.

No ill or side effects have been reported nor have we had any reports of illness that might be due to metallic or inorganic poisoning.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Dr. Branham:

The addition of fluorine to the municipal water supply of Rocky Mount, N. C. was begun December 1, 1952. It has produced no undesirable reaction of any kind nor has it brought about any unfavorable response on the part of the public as far as I know.

February 27, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

Dr. M. T. Foster, Cumberland County Health Officer, requested that I write to you in regard to fluoridation of Fayetteville's water supply, in regard to its effect on cattle and other animals in this area.

We have one herd of 85 head of dairy cattle that have been on the city water supply for the past five years and we have noticed no ill effects from it.

In my opinion the fluoridation of the water in our city has had no ill effects in any way on the animal population.

Very truly yours,

W. O. Slappey, D. V. M.

ROWAN COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT
February 27, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

In reply to your inquiry of February 24, regarding the fluoridation of our water supply, I am happy to be able to report to you that we began the addition of fluorine to the water supply on July 23, 1952. To date, there has not been one single incidence of complaint on the part of the people directed to the Health Department, the City Water works, or to any of the dentists or physicians in so far as we are able to determine. Our people seem to have just accepted it in the same manner as they do the additions of other chemicals for the purification of the water.

I regret that I have no accurate figures to give you in so far as beneficial effects and conclusions except statements from a number of dentists whose opinion is that there has been a decided improvement in dental health.

I wish for you all success in your efforts in the City of Raleigh. With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

C. W. Armstrong, M. D.
Health Officer

FORSYTH COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT
Winston-Salem, N. C.
February 29, 1956

Dear Dr. Branham:

I received your letter of February 24th in regard to the fluoridation of city water supplies. I noticed that you are primarily interested in the side effects of fluoridation.

We have been using the fluorides in our City here for a period of several years, and so far as we know, side effects have been negligible. We started fluorine in the water supply a few days before it was announced to the public, and no one was able to detect it by taste or any other method, and there were no complaints from our commercial users of water.

You, of course, are familiar with the statistics so far as prevention of decay of teeth is concerned. Our experience has been very good and similar to other areas where fluorides have been used.

I am turning your letter over to Dr. H. C. Jent, our Health Department Dentist, and instructing him to give you any information that he may have. Either one of us will be glad to furnish more specific details if you desire. Incidentally, a very excellent article on fluoridation was published in the A. M. A. Journal, January 7, 1956.

Sincerely yours,

Fred G. Pegg, M. D.
Health Officer

Statement of the stand of the American Medical Association on fluoridation:

The American Medical Association at its Interim Meeting in 1951 gave this process a qualified endorsement. The House of Delegates had enough evidence to believe it would prevent dental decay but they preferred to wait until several 10-year studies had been completed. Following the reports of the long and detailed studies at Newburg, N. Y., Brantford, Ontario, Grand Rapids, Michigan, Barlett, Texas and Charlotte, North Carolina, the American Medical Association now had sufficient proof that sodium fluoride would prevent dental decay and that it would not harm the human body; THEREFORE, the House of Delegates of the AMA at its regular meeting in June 1955 and again in June 1956 in Chicago now gives FULL APPROVAL of fluoridation and recommends it to every city whose water supply is deficient to one part of sodium fluoride to one million parts of water.

Mothers and Fathers of Greenville Remember This:

All of Greenville's dentists and doctors believe in sodium fluoride for Greenville's water supply. They are willing for they and their families to have this benefit. Keep your trust in your physician and your dentist and do not be persuaded by scare and spurious literature that has flooded Greenville during the past week.

It is up to you to decide whether or not the present and future generations of Greenville's children will not suffer from dental decay and all the ill effects that come from these conditions!

National Park Service Calls For Public Use Of Seashore

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Park Service has called on citizens and governmental agencies to get busy and provide for seashore public recreation.

Areas listed as especially suited for development to public use include:

South Carolina: Walter Island, Bebidue Island, Kiawah Island.

North Carolina: Core Banks, Shackleford Banks, Bogue Banks, Onslow Beach, Federal Point, Smith Island.

Georgia: Ossabaw Island, St. Catherine's Island, Sapelo Island, Cumberland Island.

Virginia: No areas on the mainland, but portions of the offshore islands of Assateague, Farallone and Hog Island.

The department said Saturday that the facts uncovered by a survey are alarming. It added:

"Only a fraction of our long seacoast is left undeveloped for potential public use, and much of this small portion is rapidly disappearing before our eyes."

"The survey will have served its purpose well if public-spirited citizens and local, state and federal governments are stirred to take necessary steps, before it is too late, to preserve this priceless heritage."

The survey showed only 240 miles of the 3,700 miles of general coastline from Maine to Texas are now in federal and state ownership for recreation purposes. About half of this 240 miles embraces three areas of the national park system: Acadia and Everglades National Parks in Florida and Cape Hatteras National Seashore Park in North Carolina.

"The supply of undeveloped seashore is dwindling fast under pressures of a booming market for beachfront holdings," the survey report said, adding:

"The number of persons seeking to acquire seashore property is skyrocketing, and so is the price."

Rock And Roll Dancers Riot

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A thrown beer bottle sparked a riot early yesterday among 2,500 youngsters on a jammed rock 'n' roll dance floor.

Before 75 police got control, 13 persons were hurt badly enough to require treatment and nine others were under arrest.

Police Chief Ray Blackmore said it was "the wildest dance riot in the history of the city." He added, "It's one of those things and you could have arrested 75 or 100. You grab the first ones you see."

Charles Silvia, manager of the building, estimated damage at $3,000. Tables were smashed, the band stand was pulled apart, railings were ripped off.

Silvia said Fats Domino and his eight-piece band arrived late and there was an uneasy air around the place. Suddenly a bottle was thrown and the riot flared.

Mass Funeral For 67 Victims

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Sixty-seven coffins rested in rows among the pines of Flagstaff Cemetery today.

They were brought to the grassy slope to be lowered into the earth at a mass burial service for the people who lost their lives when a Trans World Airlines Super Constellation crashed in the Grand Canyon June 30.

Partial remains of only nine the victims have been identified.

There were 70 persons aboard the plane when it collided with a United Air Lines DC7. The bodies of three TWA victims have been sent to their homes for burial. Separate services are being arranged for the 58 people killed aboard the DC7.

Of the 67 coffins that will rest in the Flagstaff plot, there is one small one. It represents a 3-week-old infant, the unnamed child of Mr. and Mrs. John Maag of Los Angeles, who also died in the crash.

There were about 250 relatives and friends of the crash victims in Flagstaff for today's services. Seventy-eight of them were flown by TWA from Kansas City, destination of more than 20 passengers aboard the Constellation.

Tar Heel Couple On Church Tour

BERLIN (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. W. Sloan of Elon College, N. C., are among the 23 members of a church group on a six-week swing through Europe to talk to persons in all walks of life. The study group representing the Council for Social Action of the Congregationalist Christian Churches, arrived here yesterday.

The party is en route to Russia, where it will spend 10 days in Moscow and Leningrad.

In the group is a blind Negro, convince the Russians the United States is trying to solve its race problem.

Egleston, 31-year-old graduate student at Howard University, Washington, D.C., said:

"By being with this group I will show them that this race problem is being solved by desegregation and people being together."

"While on this trip, I've forgotten that I am a Negro. We've been together in hotels, restaurants, on planes, everywhere, and there has been no discrimination."

Prefers To Sing Rock And Roll

POLK, Neb. (AP)—Donnette Ostberg, 4, didn't seem to like Sunday school singing at the Methodist church.

After several starts, she would plunk her elbows down on her knees and put her head down.

"What's the matter, Donnette, don't you like to sing?" someone asked.

"Yes," came a firm answer, "but I'd rather sing 'The Rock and Roll Waltz'—I know it better."

Effort Made To End St. Louis Gas Strike

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Negotiators made another effort today to settle a nine-day old strike by employees of Laclede Gas Co. and the number of customers reported without gas service climbed to 16,000.

The 2,200 strikers have ignored a state seizure order and punitive court action imposed in an attempt to get them back to work.

Main stumbling block in the contract dispute is a proposed change in company policy under which contractors instead of Laclede employees would make connections between gas meters and appliances.

The company, which supplies natural gas to residents of the city and St. Louis County, said it had received calls from 28 additional areas reporting gas service had been cut off.

Official Defends Commerce Acts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Seaton says he doesn't think the Eisenhower administration has given away any natural resources, but if it has "I'm sure that was an inadvertence."

He said in a television interview that the administration has expanded the national parks and game and wildlife preserves, and "certainly couldn't be the same administration that gave anything away."

Seaton's predecessor Douglas McKay had been the target of Democratic "giveaway" charges based on power policies, permits to drill for oil and gas on game preserves, and other actions.

Seaton conceded that in the month he has been in office he hasn't examined every public lands transaction over the last four years, but said he has found nothing to support the charges.

In response to questions, he said his department has no direct interest in whether New York state or private interests should handle power from a Niagara River water project. Basically, he said, "that is a question for the people in the area to solve."

Press Meeting To Hear Graham

ASHEVILLE (AP)—The North Carolina Press Assn. opens its three-day annual convention here Thursday. Speakers include evangelist Billy Graham.

Also scheduled to address the convention is Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution. McGill will speak at Thursday night's opening session.

Graham, who makes his home in nearby Montreat, will speak at a banquet Friday night.

NCPA President Leslie Thompson will make his report Thursday night.

The Associated Dailies, an affiliate of the NCPA, will meet Friday morning. Dante Germino of the Durham Sun, vice president of the NCPA and president of the Associated Dailies, will preside.

John I. Anderson of the Transylvania Times at Brevard, acting chairman of a temporary group of non-daily publishers, will preside over a meeting of this group, which plans to organize the Associated Non-Daily Newspapers of North Carolina.

Also on the convention agenda are a memorial service, the president's address, committee reports and elections.

Stevenson Backers Expect Nomination On Early Ballot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some supporters of Adlai Stevenson appeared confident today that Stevenson will grab the Democratic presidential nomination at the national convention next month before other hopefuls can find their seats.
Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), Stevenson's 1952 running mate, said there is "a growing possibility" Stevenson will get the nod on the first ballot, and certainly "no later than the second ballot."
Sen. Lehman (D-N.Y.) agreed. "If he's not nominated on the first ballot I'm very confident he will be nominated on one of the early ballots," Lehman added.
But Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, a Democrat with presidential ambitions for himself, said statements of this type are part of a "bandwagon psychology" Stevenson backers are attempting to create.
"Don't sell me short," Chandler, Kentucky's favorite son candidate, cautioned a nationwide television audience. He made it clear he thinks he has a chance if a stand-off develops between the leading Democratic aspirants.
He said he would support Stevenson or any Democrat finally nominated. But he said of Stevenson: "I don't think he's as strong a nominee as I wish we had."
He noted that Stevenson carried Kentucky by only 700 votes in the 1952 presidential election, and said it is entirely possible President Eisenhower might carry the state this year and elect two Republican senators at the same time.
Senators Lehman and Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today they think former President Truman will remain neutral until after the convention. Truman sometimes is reported privately to favor Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.
It was reported in Washington, meanwhile, that the Democratic and Republican campaign committees have concluded separately that control of the Senate is likely to be decided in 11 states in November.
Republicans, who lost control in Congress in 1954, reportedly will concentrate on attempts to unseat Democrats in Kentucky, where there are two races, and in Oregon, Nevada, New York and West Virginia.
Democrats reportedly planned to direct their heaviest fire on Republican incumbents in Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois, Maryland and Ohio.
Both parties continued arrangements for the conventions next month.
Sen. Bush (R-Conn.) invited citizens generally to submit their ideas on the composition of the Republican party platform. Bush is chairman of the Platform Committee for the GOP convention, opening in San Francisco Aug. 20.
Democrats were expected to choose their convention keynote speaker in Washington today. Senators Kerr of Oklahoma and Jackson of Washington were reported strong possibilities. The Democratic convention opens Aug. 13 in Chicago.
Stevenson, who made a 500-mile "listening tour" of the Midwest to sound out farm sentiment, told reporters in Des Moines he thought he "detected a good deal of discontent among the people."
Supporters in Iowa and Nebraska claimed most of the two states' convention delegate votes for Stevenson. The former Illinois governor already is credited by his backers with more than 500 of the 686 needed for nomination.
In Hartford, Connecticut Democrats picked a convention delegation that added another 20 delegates to the Stevenson total.

Inquiry Planned In Judge's Death

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An inquest was scheduled today in the death of U.S. Dist. Judge Ruben M. Hulen, 61-year-old jurist who was found fatally wounded in the back yard of his suburban home.
Judge Hulen presided at the recent conspiracy trial of two former Truman administration officials.
The judge was found Saturday with a bullet wound in his right temple, at a spot in his back yard where he occasionally practiced marksmanship. He died on a hospital operating table less than four hours later.
Coroner Patrick E. Taylor said powder burns were found on the right temple. He said the bullet had passed through the right temple and emerged at the left side of the top of the head.
A 22-caliber automatic pistol, found near Judge Hulen's feet, was taken to the St. Louis police crime laboratory for analysis.
A psychiatrist said he had been treating Judge Hulen since last fall for insomnia and a nervous condition.
Judge Hulen's death raised a question whether another judge who had not heard the trial of Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle could pass sentence on the two men. Motions for a new trial also are scheduled to be heard July 19.
Connelly was appointments secretary to former President Truman and Caudle was former head of the Justice Department's Tax Division. They were convicted of conspiring to defraud the government by stalling the prosecution of an income tax evasion case here.

West Coast Shipping Reaches For Records

By SAM DAWSON
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Even a shortage of shipping can't keep prospering West Coast ports from reaching for new records.
New tonnage is being built in distant yards. Harbor facilities are being increased here for their arrival.
There are problems: labor disputes, rising costs. Western shipping lines have seen their once flourishing coastal trade all but disappear and their routes to Eastern Coast ports shrivel.
But most shipping men feel that if they could lay their hands on more tonnage now their trade to the Orient, Europe, South America and Australia, their importation of supplies for a fast-growing Western population would increase importantly. As it is they are doing mighty well.
Tankers bring hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil to West Coast ports to feed the mounting total of cars. Freighters bring in rubber from the East Indies for the same cars.
And some 7,000 European cars a year come through Los Angeles Harbor to satisfy the appetite of a prospering Western citizenry for foreign makes.
Industrial plants springing up along the coast bring in raw materials and ship out finished products. Lumber from the Northwest's huge forests goes out to sea.
It's part of a worldwide boom in trade, spawned by good times in America and industrial recovery abroad. U.S. exports and imports have increased steadily this year. Department of Commerce officials say imports of commercial merchandise will top last year's record of 11 1/2 billion dollars, and exports better the 14 billion set last year. The National Foreign Trade Council estimates 1956 imports will reach 12 billion and exports 14 1/2 billion.
In San Francisco, R. Stanley Dollar, who has spent a lifetime in the family's shipping and lumbering business, notes that Japan is coming back fast in shipping since the war, and that trade is booming now with Japan and the Philippines.
"The passenger business to the Orient is so great that there is enough for both the air and surface ships," he says.
Officials of the Los Angeles Harbor Department, which spent five million dollars for new facility construction at the port of Los Angeles in the last 12 months, say they must spend 5 1/2 million more in the next 15 years.
The American Bible Society distributed 3,540,770 volumes of scripture in Latin America in 1955.

Florida Negroes Reject Compromise In Strike

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tallahassee Negroes last night again rejected a compromise proposal for ending the bus boycott and reaffirmed their determination to do without public transportation until they get integrated seating.
The Tallahassee City Commission renewed an offer to permit Negroes to sit where they wish on buses except for one three-passenger seat reserved for white patrons.
The Rev. David Brooks, a leader of the Negro Inter Civic Council, reported the commission offer, which was unanimously rejected. He said he understood Negroes would not be required to stand while the white seat remained empty and that if it were occupied by Negroes before whites boarded the bus, the white passengers would have to stand.
Brooks also told some 500 Negroes attending the mass meeting the proposal was presented as a temporary solution.
There were cries that it was the same proposal already rejected by the Negroes several times since their boycott started in May as a protest against segregated seating. The boycott since has resulted in suspension of bus service here.
"We've taken our stand on integration on the buses and that is where we stand," said one woman. "Is it necessary that we vote it down again?"
"What we want here is freedom of our spirits," declared another voice from the crowd. "This thing is greater than a mere seat on a bus. Let's forget about the buses and provide our own transportation."
In addition to rejecting the seating plan, the Negroes turned down a proposal for formation of an interracial council composed of six white and six Negro members.
Several spokesmen told the crowd the City Commission is powerless under state law to grant full integration and the matter should be taken to the courts.
The mass meeting unanimously approved two other City Commission proposals under which bus drivers would show courtesy to all passengers and Negro drivers would be employed for predominantly Negro bus routes within five days.

ENCHANTED HARBOR

By DOROTHY WORLEY

SYNOPSIS
Priscilla Paige is bored with her job in a New York office yet doesn't want to get married. An opportunity to escape presents itself in a trip to Apalachicola, Florida, to settle the estate left unexpectedly to her by a great-aunt. Priscilla's friend—older, wiser Rita Lambert—drives with her to claim the mysterious mansion, Lookout House, which is rumored haunted and has a secret passage. They decide to keep the purpose of their visit to themselves because three strange men seem curiously interested. They are Bill Duval, who says he is a writer; Red Gallagher, a fisherman; and Luis Alvarez, a wealthy yachtsman. Rita finds $500 in brand-new bills on the floor of the house, and Attorney Todd tells her and Priscilla that Alvarez is interested in buying the estate. The girls rent a cottage convenient to the house and now, a new character enters our story.

CHAPTER 10
Peggy Pomeroy lay in the faded old hammock, moving it slowly by one foot barely touching the floor. Her hands were locked behind her head. She lazily watched white clouds moving against the deep azure sky.
Peggy had a sense of well-being, like a contented, well-fed kitten. Peggy felt that way most of the time, being the only child of doting parents, the only grandchild of doting grandparents. She

In Apalachicola only two years, but he was her sort of folks. He was from Tallahassee. She had met him at the Harbor Day dance two years ago. She had flown down each year for Harbor Day. A native Apalachicola just did not miss Harbor Day if it could be helped.
Dick hadn't asked her to marry him, either, but he would if she wanted him to. She was in no hurry to get married. She wanted the least one lazy winter at home. Nothing to do but lie in the hammock in the good hot sun, ride in her convertible, with the sun pouring over her, and think of marriage as something that was waiting for her when she was ready for it. She could anticipate no better future than settling down in Apalachicola, rearing a family and growing old in these familiar surroundings. Peggy was lucky that she could have either of the town's most eligible young men. She wasn't even trying to decide which she liked better; maybe she was just a little in love with both.
A familiar chugging broke into her musings. She knew it was Pete, and she did not move or stop the idly moving hammock when the battered little car shuddered to a stop in front of the house and Pete came up the walk, whistling as usual.
He came up the steps, noted the movement of the hammock. "Oh, there you are! A perfect picture of what a Southern belle should be doing at ten o'clock on a warm November morning—but don't I see a book? Don't tell me you've been exerting yourself enough to read!" He seated himself in a basket chair, stretched his long legs before him.
The only change in position Peggy made was to turn her head slightly. She said in a lazy voice, "Hi! You wouldn't be criticizing me, would you?"
"Does one dare?" Pete grinned.
"Well, for the record, Mr. Peter Craig, if you're hinting that I'm lazy, I admit it. And I'll remind you that it's the first November I've been lazy for four long years. This winter I intend doing just as I please."
"I don't see that that would be any change," Pete said good-naturedly. "How about a date for the Harbor Day dance?"
"That's a week off."
"You sound as if it might be a year. And will you, or won't you? Or has Doc already asked?" I wanted to get my bid ahead of him."
"Then why didn't you ask me a month ago?"
"You're impossible. I've a great mind to take my invitation back." Peggy smiled. "Suit yourself," she said lazily.
Dick hadn't asked her, but he would. All the girls liked to go with Dr. Devereaux. She liked to show them. But last year Dick had received a call when the dance was half over and of course there was a possibility some emergency might develop and he wouldn't get there at all. Doctors were uncertain. Pete was always sure. In the moment these things were going through her mind, Pete said, "Well, make up your feeble mind and make it up now."
"But of course," Peggy smiled lazily. "There aren't so many eligible men around and a girl is wise to take the first chance she has for the Harbor Day ball."
"It's settled, then?"
"I said I would, didn't I?"
"I just wanted to be sure—I don't want you coming up at the last minute and saying, 'But, Pete darling, you misunderstood.'"
Peggy laughed good-naturedly. "If you don't like the way I talk and the way I act, why don't you peddle your charm on some other girl's doorstep?"
Pete looked at her. "That gives me an idea. There's a new girl in town."

"Visitor?"
"You mean you haven't heard about the girl in the red pants?"
"Red pants?"
"I've seen her twice. She had on red pedal-pushers the first time; the next time, she was wearing red slacks. So I just call her 'the girl in the red pants.' Thought at first I was seeing Lauren B. call."
"Oh, I know who you mean. One of those women who rented the little Glass cottage."
"One of them may be a woman. The other looks about eighteen. The older one is quite attractive, too... Didn't Dick tell you about them?"
"He knows. I saw him talking to them in Hicks' Pharmacy this morning."
"That's strange. He called me today, and he didn't say anything about it."
"Does he tell you every time he talks to another girl? He's been to the cottage."

'Hands Off' By HST In Convention Fight

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Lehman (D-NY) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted today that former President Harry S. Truman will keep hands off the national convention contest for the Democratic presidential nomination.
The two senators are supporters of Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who is trying again for the nomination he won in 1952 with Truman's help.
Lehman said Truman's recent statements that he wants to "remain neutral" as between Democratic contenders must be taken at face value.
"There is no question in my mind that Gov. Stevenson will be nominated and President Truman will support him wholeheartedly as he will any other qualified candidate," Lehman said.
Humphrey said he is convinced that Truman, who has been scheduled for a major speech at the Chicago convention opening Aug. 13, will remain neutral.
"That is the feeling I got about his attitude when I talked to him before he went to Europe and that attitude doesn't seem to have changed since his return," Humphrey said.
In supporting Stevenson, Lehman is bucking the aspirations of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the nomination.

New TV Series To Cast Wally Cox As Bullfighter

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can you imagine Wally Cox as a bullfighter? No, I couldn't either. But there he was, the shy little man with spectacles, learning to fling a cape around and stand commandingly before the bull. This was taking place at the Vincent Gomez School of Spanish Culture. His teacher was Luis McManus, a Mexican-Irish ex-matador who instructs movie stars and starlets and others in the art of the bull ring.
"You must stand like this, with your feet together, your stomach out and your head down," he told Cox in the dirt arena behind the school. "You do not say, 'Please come here, Mr. Bull.'"
"Your attitude is always deflated. You say, 'Hey, toro, come here.'"
Fortunately for NBC there was no real bull present to endanger the networks star. The beast was simulated by McManus, who held out a pair of horns and steered past Cox as the latter swung his cape defiantly.
All this was not without a purpose. Cox, you see, is taking a second fling at a TV series. His Mister Peepers expired after a few seasons. Now he's coming back in The Adventures of Hiram Holliday.
After completing his bullfight lesson, Cox explained what the series is all about. He plays a proofreader on a New York newspaper who spies a comma error and saves the publisher a million-dollar libel suit. The boss rewards him with a round-the-world trip and sends a reporter along to record his experiences.
And what experiences! Holliday turns out to be a fellow who can do everything well, despite his meek appearance. And so he proves himself a champion skier, skindiver, bobsledder, bullfighter, etc.
How is all this explained? "Oh, this fellow studies nights," Cox explained. "Sundays too."

THREE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS FOR FATHERS

... the answers are vital to their families

The answers to three simple questions may help show the difference which would occur in the standard of living of a family if a father were not here. These are the important questions:

Question 1. How much does his family spend monthly on groceries, rent, heat and light, clothes, medical expenses and other necessities?

Question 2. How much would the family spend if the father's expenses were eliminated?

Question 3. How much income would the family receive regularly without his pay check?

If the answer to question 3 is subtracted from question 2, one will get the minimum amount of monthly income a father should be planning to provide to protect his family... and a good way to do this is through the Metropolitan Family Income Plan.

Every father should consider these important features of the Metropolitan Family Income Plan:

1. Each father can choose the amount of monthly income needed—$100 a month, $200 or more.

2. If he should die at any time within 20 years, the Metropolitan Family Income Plan will provide this income for his family each month for the remainder of the 20 years, and then a cash settlement equal to the face amount of the policy.

3. If the father should live beyond the 20 years, he and his family can have continuing insurance protection for the full face amount of his policy as long as he lives.

Here is a way a father can help solve the problems of protecting his family today. Ask your Metropolitan Representative to give you the details on the Family Income Plan. It is easy to get in touch with him, for...

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market remained narrowly on the upside early this afternoon.

Leading stocks were ahead from fractions to around a point. There was a scattering of losers.

Rails as a group were off slightly. In most other divisions the plus signs outnumbered minus signs. Steels were a shade higher as a possible strike settlement remained elusive with the walkout in its second week.

A few stocks went ahead for gains beyond the usual range. These included Aluminum Ltd., up 2 points and Owens-Illinois Glass, up more than 3.

A block of 3,800 shares of Owens-Illinois was traded at 79½, up 3½. Boeing and United Aircraft were both up better than a point, but Douglas dropped around a point.

U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel gained fractions. Motors generally showed little change and were inactive. But Ford gained close to a point.

Chrysler was up a fraction. Union Pacific dropped a point. Santa Fe and Baltimore & Ohio shaded off.

Southern Production was up a point or better. Most other oils showed small fractional gains.

Chemicals showed somewhat after their gains of last week but Du Pont was up close to a point and Union Carbide gained a fraction.

Copper stocks were steady. Montgomery Ward was up nearly a point and Sears Roebuck a fraction.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 30 cents to $185.80, with the industrials up $1.10, the rails down 50 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—Hog markets were mostly steady to 25 lower today. Tops of 15.25 to 16.50 at Rocky Mount; 15.75 to 16.25 at Kingston, Bethel, Tarboro, Enfield, Benson and New Bern; 16.25 at Hillsboro; 16.00 at Castle Hayne and Wingate; 15.75 at Fayetteville, Clinton, Rich Square, Lumberton, Smithfield, Goldsboro, Tabor City, Murfreesboro, Nubamba, Beulaville, Farmville, Dunn, Bailey, Newton Grove, Whiteville, Clarkton, Kenly, Elizabethtown, Mount Gilead, Mount Olive, Micro and Siler City.

EDUCATIONAL BUILDING—This new educational building for Eighth Street Christian Church was dedicated yesterday. The structure will house the nursery, kindergarten and junior department of the Sunday School. It is the first unit of a three unit plan for housing the educational departments of the church. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Education Building Dedicated By Eighth Street Christians

A new educational building for Eighth Street Christian Church was dedicated in a simple ceremony yesterday afternoon at the church.

The building, located on the church's rear lawn, is a one story brick structure and will accommodate three departments of the Sunday School—the nursery, kindergarten and junior departments.

Local Naval Unit To Be Inspected

Annual inspection of the Greenville Naval Reserve Unit 6-26 will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Commander F. E. Lamsche, commanding officer of the unit, announced that the annual inspection of the unit will be conducted by Lt. Cmdr. Y. N. Fontenot, commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Training Center, Raleigh. The unit will meet on the second floor of Joyner Library on the East Carolina College campus. Cmdr. Lamsche urges all members of the unit to be present and in uniform for the meeting.

Ayden Farmer Dies At Home Friday

AYDEN—J. Lloyd Tingle, 57, farmer, died at his home here Friday afternoon at 4:30 after a brief illness.

Funeral services were held at Ayden Christian Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. John Goff, his pastor, and Rev. C. C. Ware of Wilson officiated. Burial was in the Ayden Cemetery.

He was the son of the late J. R. Tingle and Nancy Tingle and a lifelong resident of this community. He was an active member of the Ayden Christian Church and a member of the Ayden Masonic Lodge and Sudan Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ruth Calhoun of Virginia; two brothers, W. E. Tingle and J. P. Tingle of Richmond, Va.

According to the Rev. Dr. H.G. Haney, pastor, the building is one unit of a three unit plan for a permanent educational structure for the church.

The present building, which was begun in May, contains five class

Officers Find Liquor Cache

Pitt County ABC officers H. B. Lilley, Walter Taylor and J. L. Ross assisted ATU officer P. A. Lundell and Greene County deputy sheriffs Wayne Lane and J. B. Hill in searching the premises of James Harper Ham, Rt. 1, LaGrange, and locating 123 gallons of bootleg whiskey.

They found 117 gallons in Ham's smokehouse and six gallons in the woods back of his house. Ham wasn't home at the time the search was made.

A Federal Search Warrant was used as authority for going on Ham's premises.

Over the weekend, Pitt County ABC officers arrested Maude Berke, Negro, 502 W. 13th Street, for having in her possession six-fifths of whiskey and two-fifths of gin.

Also, they arrested Ethel Lee Huff, Negro, 302 W. 1st Street, and Mathew T. Morris, Negro, 44, Rte. 1, Grimesland, for possession of a small quantity of non-tax-paid liquor. The whiskey was found on the premises of Huff.

Banking Officials Open Conference At Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — The 20th annual session of the Carolina Bankers' Conference opens today at the University of North Carolina with banking officials from the Carolinas and Virginia conducting the sessions.

The conference is a certificate program requiring attendance at three annual sessions of 25 hours each. To be eligible, a student must display administrative responsibility, potential for executive development and a chance for advancement in the bank if he develops.

Faculty members include Dr. C. H. Kreps Jr., University of North Carolina; Edward A. Wayne, Richmond, Va.; R. P. Holding Jr., Fuquay Springs; Richard C. Buell, Winston-Salem; and Leonel Brunner, Gastonia.
