Governor's School Meets Draw Fire From Legislators

RALEIGH (AP)—A series of closed conferences with state lawmakers on impending segregation legislation, at the halfway point today, has brought complaints from two lawyers.

State Rep. Dan K. Edwards of Durham yesterday refused an invitation to the next conference, scheduled tomorrow at Lexington. "I think the procedure is wrong," Edwards said in a letter to Thomas Pearsall, chairman of the State Advisory Committee on Education.

The committee recommended proposals which will be acted on at a special legislative session convening July 23, and is participating in the conferences leading up to the special session.

John W. Caffey, Greensboro lawyer and former legislator, appealed to Gov. Hodges to take "the people into your confidence" regarding bills discussed at the closed meetings. "The public is entitled to know what these proposals are in detail before it is too late," Caffey said in a letter to Hodges.

The governor, Pearsall and other school and legal officers met with some 30 Southeastern senators and representatives in Kinston yesterday. The first conference was held Monday at a country cabin owned by Pearsall near Battleboro.

The meeting tomorrow will be held at the High Rock Lake home of Rep. Cloyd Philpott of Davidson County. The last of the conferences is set Friday for the home of A. L. Freeland, president of the Dayton Rubber Co., near Waynesville.

Hodges told the group at Kinston that members of the special session will be better informed on the matters at hand than any other General Assembly in history.

In addition to the briefings, he said, copies of bills to be introduced will be mailed to General Assembly members at the conclusion of the conferences.

Edwards, named to replace Rep. Oscar Barker of Durham in the special session, labeled the meeting to which he was invited "the Lexington rump session of the North Carolina General Assembly."

Secret meetings of the state officials and legislators "might be construed as a cloak to hide motives and plans not worthy to be exposed to the light of day," Edwards asserted. "I am sure that the public generally is deeply interested in this matter and would like to participate in all of the discussion from the very beginning," he added.

Legislators attending the conferences are being given an opportunity to suggest changes in proposed bills to put into effect the advisory committee's recommendations. Major provisions would require constitutional amendments which must be approved by a vote of the people.

Pearsall said at least two suggestions made in the Kinston meeting may be incorporated into final drafts of legislation.

Budget Group In Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina was host to the State Advisory Commission today as the group continued its tour of state institutions.

In a round of Durham visits yesterday, the commission heard North Carolina College ask for $5,674,577, and the state hospital at Butner request 11 million dollars for the 1957-59 biennium.

The North Carolina Cerebral Palsy Hospital told the commission it has no requests for capital improvements. It presented the same budget requests as for the 1955-56 biennium.

President Alfonso Elder of North Carolina College said his institution needs $3,645,158 for operational expenses and $2,028,999 for permanent improvements. The latter included a Student Union Building estimated at $642,534 and a dormitory for senior and graduate women students listed at $1,386,465.

Other hospital officials requested 4 1/2 million for renovation of 10 ward buildings, and 5 1/2 million for long range projects and permanent improvements.

Dr. Elder said action of the last Legislature left North Carolina College faced with "three very difficult situations" during the current biennium.

Rain Perks Up Tobacco Crop

RALEIGH (AP) Rains since July 1 may have perked up the Tar Heel flue-cured tobacco crop enough to cut an estimated 20 percent drop in production to 15 percent.

The State Crop Reporting Service, in an estimate based on July 1 conditions, yesterday placed this year's production at 783,625,000 pounds compared with 978,775,000 pounds last year.

The service said the combination of "a late spring and a very hot June held back the crop. Rains over the past week have improved conditions, it noted.

Powerful FBI Forces Enter Kidnaping Case

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Powerful FBI forces tackle the baffling case of kidnaped Peter Weinberger today.

Under federal law the FBI had to hold off officially for seven days after the kidnaping. Government agents could have moved into the case earlier if they had evidence the victim was spirited across state borders. After seven days the law presumes such a crossing.

One week ago a bold kidnaper snatched the tiny boy from his carriage in the patio of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger's home here. Weinberger, 48, is a well-to-do wholesale drug salesman.

The kidnaper grabbed the 5-week-old child in the middle of the afternoon and in full view of five other houses in this fashionable Long Island community.

He left a neatly penciled note demanding $2,000 ransom. Later a man believed to be the kidnaper telephoned the family and raised the demand to $5,000.

Police have found no trace of kidnaper or child. There is no way of knowing whether the infant is still alive. He needed a special formula of milk and a vitamin compound to survive.

Meanwhile, cranks and crackpots have called the heartbroken mother and tormented her with reports that they have the child or know where he is. All such reports have proved false so far.

But the 32-year-old mother, hoping against hope, has repeatedly taken $5,000 in cash and tried to rendezvous with kidnapers who only existed in the cruel minds of hoaxers.

A Westbury pastor said after a visit with her that she made two more futile trips yesterday. Seventeen crank calls were received at the Weinberger home yesterday. All were anonymous. They came from as far away as Chicago and Pontiac, Mich.

A radio network got a call from a woman who said she had the baby and was leaving it in a container at Point Lookout on the south shore of Long Island.

Police rushed to the scene but found no trace of the baby.

All Crewmen Saved As Freighter Sinks

NEW YORK (AP)—Two freighters collided early today in thick fog in the North Atlantic 450 miles east of Boston and one of them went to the bottom about three hours later.

All crewmen of the sunken Panamanian ship Estoril were reported safe aboard the other ship, the Italian freighter Dea Mazzella.

An SOS sent out by the Estoril after the collision with the Dea Mazzella said she was taking on water. The crew took to lifeboats. The Estoril, loaded with iron ore, sank at 4:22 a.m.

The Coast Guard cutter Casco, 117 miles away when the SOS was picked up, arrived at the scene at 9 a.m. She reported to Coast Guard headquarters in New York that the Dea Mazzella said she needed no assistance, and was headed for Halifax, N.S., under her own power. The cutter said the Dea Mazzella declined to give any information as to the number in either ship's crew. No mention was made of any damage to the Italian ship. Sydney, N.S., reported the Estoril carried a crew of 34.

A Coast Guard flying boat from Salem, Mass., also reached the crash scene and reported it had "no visual sight of the Dea Mazzella, but could hear her on radar," indicating fog still was thick in the vicinity.

The Estoril, 7,255 gross tons, of Panama, was loaded with iron ore and was en route to Baltimore. Originally she was scheduled to go to Philadelphia, but was diverted because of the steel strike.

The Dea Mazzella, of 7,931 gross tons, was out of Naples. It was in the news last November when fire broke out as she was 150 miles off Newfoundland in a snowstorm. The crew of 35 battled the flames until the cutter Ingham and two merchant vessels reached her.

It was the sixth Japanese report of a possible nuclear explosion since the United States on May 21 detonated a hydrogen bomb in the Bikini area. That test was watched by U.S. newsmen, but the United States has neither confirmed nor denied the subsequent Japanese reports.

Driver Missing From Mail Truck

GREENSBORO (AP)—A cargo of mail was abandoned in a truck that got stuck in the mud near the Alamance County line yesterday afternoon.

Postal authorities said that they were satisfied that the mail had not been disturbed when the driver apparently left the tractor-trailer with the keys in the ignition. But they said a thorough investigation is underway.

They said he had not been found last night. The truck, which belonged to a private company under contract to the post office to haul mail, was on a trip from Greensboro to Raleigh with a stop at Durham.

Highway patrolmen first noted it about noon. They said postal authorities called about an hour and a half later to report the truck overdue.

Two Are Killed In Auto Crash

MANNING, S.C. (AP)—A head-on collision on a straight stretch of U.S. 301 near here last night killed a South American newspaper publisher and a Norfolk, Va., man. Three other persons were hospitalized.

Coroner Joe Thomas Bradham identified the dead as Luis Eduardo de Manotas, 51, and James Thomas Lord, 36, of 431 N. Hampshire Ave.

De Manotas was a lawyer, and co-owner of El Heraldo at Barranquilla, Colombia.

His wife, Mrs. Emilio de Manotas, was hurt critically.

Methodists Say Door Is Open For Integration

LAKE JUALUSKA, N.C. (AP)—The fifth quadrennial conference of the Southeastern Jurisdiction of the Methodist Church opened today with the College of Bishops endorsing the stand of the Church on racial relations.

"The door is open (for racial integration) but none is compelled to enter," said Bishop Roy H. Short of Nashville, Tenn., delivering the episcopal address. The address had the approval of the eight-man college of bishops of the Southeastern region, comprising nine states and Cuba.

In May the church's General Conference meeting in Minneapolis, Minn., proposed a constitutional amendment which would allow Negro churches and jurisdictions to merge with the administration of the white jurisdictions. The amendment has to be ratified by two-thirds of the 140 Methodist conferences in this country and abroad.

"We commend the proposed amendment to the annual conferences of this jurisdiction for their favorable consideration," Bishop Short said.

However, the bishops called for moderation in the racial question. "The doors of racial brotherhood should be blasted open," Bishop Short said.

"Every section of the church is free to work out its own problems in the light of its situation and under the leadership of the spirit of God," he added.

Further, the address advised: "We cannot rigidly maintain the customs of a dead past, nor dare we embrace the impatient idealism that attempts to solve the problem of race by ignoring the fact of race and refuses to take account of the limitations that confront us in an imperfect world."

"Instead, let us be open-minded, sane in judgments, Christian in our attitudes, constant in brotherly understanding and consideration, and ready to act as may in all good conscience appear best for the common good."

The bishops took note of nationwide racial discrimination. "Tension in the field of race relations is determined by the density of the Negro population," Bishop Watkins said.

The five-day conference opened today with communion. Bishop Costen J. Harrell of Charlotte was the celebrant, assisted by all other bishops present.

Charlotte Man On Trial Again

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Thomas Walter (Shorty) Taylor went on trial today for the second time for his role in the death of a man Taylor claimed tried to break up his home.

A jury of 12 Lincoln County citizens, chosen from a special 149-man venire yesterday, will decide the construction workers fate.

Taylor is charged with first degree murder. The state says he deliberately killed T. A. Parker with a shotgun Jan. 3 at a Charlotte grill.

Taylor admitted that he had been hiding with a shotgun in the trunk of his wife's car as she met with Parker. He testified during his first trial that he heard Parker and Mrs. Taylor kissing and heard Parker urge Mrs. Taylor to have sexual relations with him.

It was then, Taylor declared, that he leaped from the trunk of the car and he and Parker wrestled for possession of the death gun.

Judge J. C. Rudisill sentenced Taylor to 30 years in prison after he was found guilty at his first trial. Taylor appealed and was freed under $15,000 bond.

The State Supreme Court ordered a new trial for Taylor. The high court said remarks and questions by Rudisill tended to impeach Taylor and could have influenced the jury against him.

Taylor was ordered into the custody of the sheriff yesterday pending the date of the trial.

Pitt To Get '24 Killer After New York Trial

James Brooks, alias Edward Wells, 55-year old Negro wanted for a 1924 Pitt murder, will be available to local authorities when further charges against him in Kingston, N.Y. are disposed of, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said this morning.

Brooks is accused of murdering William Allen at a woods camp near Ayden on Sept. 7, 1924. Brooks later left this section.

The old case came to light recently when Kingston authorities arrested Brooks on a charge of striking a woman. They found on his person a switch blade knife and charged him with possession of the weapon. Later a pistol was found on him. Brooks, or Wells, as he is now known, was charged with illegal possession of an unregistered revolver.

Later officers received a call from an unidentified woman who said Brooks killed a man in North Carolina many years ago.

Ballots Counted At End Of An Election Day

COUNT VOTES—Poll holders at the Courthouse box are shown above as they count votes following yesterday's bond and fluoridation election. All phases of the bond issue were passed by the voters. Fluoridation was approved by a small majority. From left to right above are Mary Dunn Beatty, Mrs. Joe Dudley, W. N. Moore and Thurman Dail. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Voters Approve All Bonds, Fluoridation In Election

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor

Greenville voters approved all phases of the $275,000 capital improvement bond issue yesterday and approved by a narrow margin a proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply.

Fire department, street and drainage improvements were passed overwhelmingly by the sparse number of voters who visited the polls yesterday. The vote for recreation funds was closer, however.

The fluoridation vote only squeaked by with 347 voters casting their ballots in favor of the process and 320 voting against it. Under the proposed fluoridation plan the city would mix the chemical in minute quantities in the city water supply. Proponents of fluoridation have presented evidence to show that the chemical reduces dental decay.

However, the fluoridation vote was merely a straw vote designed to guide city fathers in making a final decision on the proposal. The actual vote itself has no legal bearing on whether or not the city will fluoridate the water supply.

Light Vote

All told, 686 of the between four and five thousand registered voters of Greenville cast their ballots at the two polling places yesterday.

Officials feared during the day that the vote would be even lower than that. Rains during the morning apparently kept citizens away from the polls and by noon less than 200 had cast their ballots.

During the afternoon the rains ceased however, and poll holders were beset with large numbers of last minute voters during the late afternoon. The rush continued right up until closing time at 6:30.

The $275,000 bond issue was divided into six portions, each of which could be approved or disapproved by the voters.

Following is a summary of each of the projects, the amounts provided and the vote for and against:

Fire Department — The bond issue provides for the purchase of a new fire truck at a total cost of $17,000. Also included is $4,000 for the purchase of fire hose and $5,000 for extension of the fire alarm system for a total of $26,000. The Fire Department improvements received the largest majority. For, 554. Against, 168.

Tractor-shovel — Some $15,500 was approved in the bond issue for the purchase of a tractor shovel. The crawler-type tractor will include a bulldozer blade, a front end loader and a back hoe for ditching. Plans are to use the piece of equipment for various street work including the opening of First St. For, 459. Against, 209.

Opening of First St. — This phase of the bond issue calls for the installation of an 18-foot fill on First St., installation of drainage, curb and gutter and paving of the street to carry it from its present terminus to Woodlawn. The project costs $24,000. For 464. Against, 206.

Recreation — Approval of $62,000 in bonds for recreation improvements was granted by the voters. Included is money for the purchase of land, additional playground facilities, construction of an activities building at South Greenville Park and other items. For, 370. Against, 305.

Greene Mill Run — Some $16,000 is set up in the bond issue for cleaning and re-working of Greene Mill Run. Most of the funds are to be spent on work between the New Bern Highway and the mouth of the stream at the Tar River. However, a small amount of work is to be done above the New Bern Highway. For, 451. Against, 215.

Drainage — Voters approved the issuing of $131,500 in bonds for the installation of drainage under various city streets. The drainage is expected to alleviate flood conditions which develop during heavy rains with the city. For, 464. Against, 205.

Approval of $62,000 in bonds for recreation improvements was granted by the voters. Included is money for the purchase of land, additional playground facilities, construction of an activities building at South Greenville Park and other items. For, 370. Against, 305.

House Needs Boat

Pitt County's clerk of court found himself in not-so-hot water as a result of the recent rains which covered Pitt County.

The heavy rains left several inches of water in spots in the courthouse basement used by the clerk's office for storing old records. Clerk of Court D. T. House Jr. said none of the county's records were damaged by the water which apparently seeped through the basement walls, but he's still scratching his head trying to determine how to cope with the water problem.

"Maybe the Commissioners will buy us a boat to use in the basement," House quipped.

Institute Boss Denies Report

RALEIGH (AP)—Director Albert Coates of the Institute of Government has denied a statement that the institute prepared a "plan of compliance" with the U.S. Supreme Court's school segregation decision at Gov. Hodges' request.

The statement was made yesterday by Joel A. Johnson of Four Oaks, a Republican candidate for U.S. Senate. Johnson contended that the institute "at the governor's request, set forth with remarkable clarity and persuasiveness a practical plan of compliance."

Johnson said, "This important document was not officially put before the people."

Coates said the institute had never prepared such a plan and had not been asked to do so. A "legal analysis" of the Supreme Court's segregation decision of May 17, 1954, was made, Coates said, at the request of the late Gov. William B. Umstead. But, he added, the report dealt only with "the legal implications" of the ruling and offered no suggestions on methods of compliance.

TIMES ARE ROUGH

PROVO, Utah (AP)—A police officer who gave his wife a parking ticket asked newsmen not to use his name because "things at home are going to be tough enough as it is." The officer said he spotted his car next to a time-spent meter. His wife had driven downtown to shop.

Southern Demos Asked To Meet

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—South Carolina's Democratic party chairman, Neville Bennett, has invited party chairmen from 10 other Southern states to a strategy meeting in Atlanta, Friday and Saturday.

Bennett said foremost among discussion topics at the meeting will be ways to prevent incorporation of a strong anti-segregation plank in the 1956 Democratic platform.

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. reported that his call for Southern solidarity at the party convention at Chicago has drawn favorable response from Govs.

Shoots Father With 31 Bullets

SPARTANBURG (AP)—Thirty-eight-year-old Casper Meadows has admitted to police here that he fatally shot his father with 31 bullets yesterday.

Police said that Meadows gave them no motive for the shooting. The father, Elias Meadows, about 60, was shot while lying in his bed.

The son has been booked on a charge of murder, police said. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Earl Long of Louisiana and J. P. Coleman of Mississippi, and Sen. Richard M. Russell of Georgia.

Timmerman met and talked informally with Southern governors at the recent national governors' conference at Atlantic City, N.J. The meeting called by Bennett is a separate one and is for Democratic chairmen and their party leaders in Southern states.

Bennett said the Atlanta meeting was called as a result of the generally favorable response to Timmerman's unity proposal, which was approved by the South Carolina Democratic Convention. Bennett added that all replies to his invitation have not been received.

Timmerman's office released letters written by Long, Coleman and Russell.

Timmerman has taken a leading role in urging that the South put up a solid front at the national convention.

WINTER GRIPS AUSSIES
SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Wintery weather skipped the Australian states of New South Wales and Victoria today. Sydney was hit by icy winds and heavy rains, while the Blue Mountain area 60 miles west of the city reported its heaviest snowfall in 10 years.

Commission To Bill Well Users

Property owners who drill wells on their land and then pour the waste into the city's sewer-lines must pay 75 per cent of what the water bill would ordinarily amount to for the privilege.

That action was taken by Utilities Commissioners at their regular monthly meeting last night. It was requested by Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam.

The superintendent told the commissioners that one property owner already has his own private well and several others are contemplating drilling their own wells. He said that to measure the water for purposes of charging, meters would have to be placed on the sewer outlet leading into the city's sewer main.

The owners would then be charged 75 per cent of what the bill would amount to on the basis of the measurement of the waste water.

The charge is in line with that of other municipalities in the state. Bloxam told the commissioners that action was taken in lieu of a plan proposed by Bloxam some time ago calling for the closing of the office on Saturday mornings. Bloxam was empowered to work out time off for Utilities construction employees.

Bloxam reported to the commission that the deep well which is now being constructed at the 13th and Washington St. tank is progressing.

Water will be drawn from the 100 foot through 550 foot level. Bloxam said. The well is expected to yield 1,000 to 1,500 gallons of water per minute.

The superintendent also reported on the progress of various other projects now underway. Also last night the commissioners authorized the signing of a contract to begin preliminary engineering on the city's proposed sewage disposal plant.

ECC Conference Friday To Analyze Problems

Problems in personal and family living will be analyzed and discussed at a conference scheduled for Friday at East Carolina College. President John D. Messick of the college has announced. Teachers, school administrators, parents, and others who are interested are invited to attend.

The conference will take place in the McGinnis auditorium on the campus. The program will begin at 10 a.m. and extend through the morning hours. Speakers will include Mrs. Elizabeth Force of Toms River, N.J.; Dr. Messick; and Mrs. Edna Earl Baker, supervisor of Pitt County Schools.

The conference program will focus attention upon the aims and activities of a project now being sponsored by the American Social Hygiene Association. The goal of the project is to aid colleges and universities in preparing elementary and high school teachers in the field of family life education.

Dr. Messick will open the conference with a discussion of the project and its purposes. For the past eighteen months he has served as chairman of the project in the Central Atlantic states. In this capacity he has headed among

FHA Committee Gets New Man

Mr. Bruce E. Garris, Route 1, Grifton, is the new member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee. Ben H. White, county supervisor announced this week.

Garris's appointment became effective July 1, 1956. The committee on which he will serve determines the eligibility of local farmers who apply for Farmers Home Administration loans.

The new committeeman owns and operates several farms in Pitt County. Garris succeeds Judson E. Whitehurst of Stokes.

The other two members are Mr. Mark H. Smith, well known farmer of Pitt County's Bell Arthur Community, and Mr. Xury E. Manning, merchant, farmer and civic leader of Bethel, North Carolina.

Each agricultural county in the country has a similar committee of three members who are responsible for determining loan applicants' eligibility, certifying the value of farms being purchased or improved through Farmers Home Administration loans, and making recommendations on loan approvals and loan servicing actions.

Each member is named for a three-year term and one appointment expires each year. A member completing his three-year term cannot succeed himself. At least two of the members must be farmers.

through college.

Mrs. Force, principal speaker at the conference, will have as her topic "Personal and Family Living in Action." In the Toms River, N.J., schools she serves as director of family life education and has for several years headed a program which has gained national attention for its effectiveness.

Mrs. Baker will speak on "In-service Program of Personal and Family Living."

Nora Stirling. The short drama develops a contrast of ways of handling teen-age problems. Following its presentation Vice President Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina will lead an informal discussion of the ideas developed in the playlette.

Guard Appeals For Assistance

Local business men employing National Guardsmen today were asked to strengthen American defenses by permitting their employees to attend the annual 15-day field training encampment with their units this year with out loss of regular pay or vacation.

Lt. Hubert McGee Jr., commanding officer, Service Battery, North Carolina National Guard, said attendance of all Guardsmen at field camp is vital to the proper training of the National Guard.

"The record of the National Guard's contribution during World War II and the Korean emergency and the continuing uncertain world situation proves the importance of a full-strength, fully trained National Guard," said Lt. McGee.

"Complete training of the National Guard can only be accomplished if every Guardsman rounds out his weekly army training with the intensive full-time experience and training he gets in summer field camp."

Lt. McGee appealed to local businessmen to join the thousands of other far-sighted business firms throughout the nation who are giving two weeks of field training leave and pay in addition to their regular vacations. Some firms make up the difference between the Guardsmen's regular pay and his military pay for the field period.

"Full value for the tax payers' money is not received," he said, "if the Guardsmen do not round out their part-time army training with the intensive full-time 15-day period in the field."

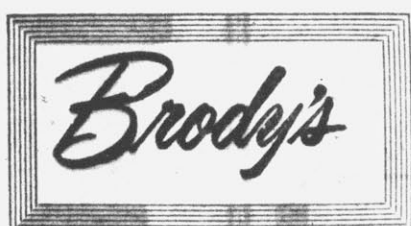

Lt. McGee said that the men of the Greenville National Guard receive approximately $60,000 in yearly salaries alone for the spare-time training during the year and at summer field camp. This substantial sum is spent locally to the great benefit of the entire business community.

Future Teachers Can Borrow Cash

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Students planning to teach in the state's public schools can arrange loans at a 2 1/2 per cent interest rate for study at the University of North Carolina.

Revision in loan fund rules to attract additional future teachers was announced yesterday by Cancellor Robert B. House.

The money will come from $130,000 in the Jesse Knight Dozier student loan fund. The Dozier bequest permits an interest rate below the 3 per cent required on other loan funds.

Loans up to $800 per year will be available. Repayment of the principal will not be required until employment begins after graduation.

Ex-Chancellor Going To Boston

GREENSBORO (AP)—The former chancellor of Woman's College, Dr. Edward Kidder Graham, has been appointed dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Boston University.

The announcement was made yesterday in Boston by Harold C. Case, president of the university.

Dr. Graham, a Chapel Hill native will assume his new duties on Sept. 1.

He resigned his position at Woman's College in May. He had been chancellor since 1950.

New Tax Record

GREENSBORO (AP)—North Carolinians paid $1,663,159,974.40 in federal taxes during the last fiscal year, more than they ever paid before in a 12-month period.

P. K. Saunders, district director of Internal Revenue Service said the previous record was set in 1952-53. Receipts then amounted to $1,611,334,136.30. That mark was topped in the year that ended June 30 by $51,825,838.10.

Congratulations Keep Grandmother Busy

By ANNETTE JACKSON
Reflector Woman's Editor

"They certainly didn't get their brains from me," laughs Mrs. H. A. Bost.

She's referring to her three grandsons who have each won coveted Morehead Scholarships to the University of North Carolina.

"But I'm mighty proud of them even if they did get them from the other branches of the family."

She recalls her student days were somewhat less serious than those of her grandsons. "I went to school for a good time," she reflects, and from the merry twinkle in her eye it follows that she had her share.

The 74-year old widow lives alone now at 109 Rotary Avenue. She says she's about to develop a talent for writing congratulatory letters with three outstanding grandsons taking honors on every hand.

JIM FIRST WINNER

Jim Ekum was the first of the trio to win the Morehead Scholarship which is worth $1,250 per year and is renewable at the end of each year for a total of four years upon completion of satisfactory work.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ekum of Snow Hill, his mother being the former Mary Wall Bost.

Apparently spurred on by his success, Billy Bost of Greenville, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bost, Sr., entered competition and was hailed a "me two-er". Billy is now a rising junior at the University of North Carolina.

Then this spring, Mrs. Bost was forced to get out her writing gear again to congratulate a third grandson, Ashe Bost Ekum, brother of Jim, who too won the Morehead Scholarship thus setting what is believed to be a record for one family. He will enter the university this fall.

OUTSTANDING RECORDS

Both grandsons have made outstanding records since entering UNC. Jim was a candidate for student government president last year and is a member of the Order of the Grail. His marks have been excellent throughout. He hopes to continue his studies as a Rhodes Scholar.

Billy, too, has made an outstanding record, having one of the highest averages in chemistry, according to Mrs. Bost.

So far, with possibilities of a doctor and lawyer, Mrs. Bost now is plugging for a minister. Ashe hasn't made a decision as to what course of study he will follow, but Mrs. Bost hopes "to get a minister out of one of them."

Applicants for the Morehead Scholarship are first nominated by their high school principals. The application is then processed by various committees until the final decision is reached by the Board of Directors of the Morehead Foundation after an interview with the prospective winner.

COLLEGE NOT IMPORTANT

Neither of the students' grandparents went to college, themselves. College just wasn't so important to business success in those days, according to Mrs. Bost. But that's all the more reason that she is "mighty proud of her grandsons."

She recalls that Billy has wanted to be a doctor since he was a tiny tot. With the stimulus that his parents have given him (his father no small success story, himself) and the scholarship, he'll realize that ambition. Mrs. Bost feels very strongly that a person should do what he is best suited to and in this case she's sure about Billy.

The Bost family came to Greenville forty-three years ago with the tobacco market. They've made a prominent place in this community as well as others.

Mrs. Bost, married at 20, is the mother of three children and five grandchildren.

Always an active woman, she now enjoys the TV which employees of her late husband gave them, her church activities and playing cards. She figures these activities are vigorous enough for a 74-year old no matter how tom-boyish a figure she cut in her early days.

Old Makeup Wardrobe Makes Or Breaks Costume

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor.

If you've been wondering why your new hat doesn't live up to your expectations, perhaps it's because of that old makeup.

You wouldn't dream of wearing fashion colors that were popular seasons ago. Why wear makeup that's been kicking around that long?

A new hat and fur stole for instance, certainly justify a new wardrobe of makeup. Most women now also include eye makeup in their regular makeup kit. It has become just as accepted as lipstick and fingernail polish.

The look for warm weather will be the regal one. The hair is short (in spite of what hair-dressers have been plugging) and hats are large and ladylike. The silhouette is slim. Makeup is muted, except for the eyes, which seems to take more obvious decoration each year. The eye line may be just as apparent as you wish without causing undue comment.

The natural lipline is still with us, thank heavens. So lips will not cover the lower jaw or fall into an artificial rosebud for the rest of the season.

Lipstick shades are warm. Pink ones have more depth than ever before. One new shade, a pink fire, is said to be "pinkier than pink". That sums up the new fashion colors from pink to coral to red. Pink takes to navy, beige and gray too.

The lovely thing about pink is that it is becoming to young and old. It gives a youthful complexion a radiance and the older complexion a real lift. A new rose blush foundation is a lovely undertone of pink too for this time of the year.

When applying makeup, don't forget your neck. You'll find if you change to a new makeup skin tone shade your winter neck will show up like a totem pole unless you include it in when you apply foundation and powder.

It's just about time, too, to treat your neck to a good oil bath. Apply a special neck cream, nourishing cream or any other good cream to your neck each night until you finally put it back in the smooth bracket. The after-winter neck takes a lot of hard work.

BLAZING BEAUTY... She's wearing a fiery hot pink lipstick that glows with brilliant color, is right with new spring colors.

Miss Timberlake Fetes Attendants

Miss Jo Ann Timberlake, bride-elect of Sunday, was luncheon hostess to her attendants yesterday at her home.

Guests were greeted by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. John W. Timberlake; and served tomato juice cocktails upon arrival.

The remainder of the three course luncheon was served in the dining room. Assisting in serving were Mrs. F. L. Allen Sr. and Mrs. J. Edward Ricks.

The head table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and held a center arrangement of white summer flowers. Auxiliary tables were similarly appointed.

Shower Honors Angela Santana

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given by Mesdames Dan Barton and K. F. Whiteley at the Whiteley home on Ragsdale Road Friday honoring Miss Angela Santana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Santana of Havana, Cuba.

Miss Santana was presented a corsage and many gifts. After the gifts were opened, refreshments of lime float, bridal cakes, decorated mints and nuts were served to the guests by the hostesses.

Miss Santana is attending East Carolina College as an exchange student. She will be married in Havana to Thomas L. Harris, an engineer with the National Carbon Co. here. They will reside in Greenville upon their return.

Girl's Charm Begins With Her Voice

By HILARY DAVIES
AP Newsfeatures

What—from a man's point of view—is the most attractive feature in a woman?

New York speech consultant Beatrice Desfosses, who has been straightening out people's vocal chords for 22 years, thinks the voice comes first and that women have been missing out for years by worrying more about titivating than about speaking. She points out:

"Many actresses who have a terrific following among men have nothing in the way of looks, but they have fascinating voices—therein lies their secret."

Voice training, says Miss Desfosses, can change the whole personality for the better. It can give self-confidence, help to overcome nervous habits, turn a shy person into a relaxed conversationalist or a recluse into a gay hostess.

Her advice to those who want to improve their own voices is: listen, observe—and then practice. She says:

"Someone trying to improve her own speech must first become a good listener, and analyze the difference between the type of speech she likes and that she doesn't like. She will note that there is a great deal of monotony in the average voice. Listen to the melody and rhythm in a good speaking voice and how important words are brought out and stressed. Try to avoid a dreary all-one-tone manner."

"Observe good speakers and notice how flexible their mouths are, and how they shape sounds. A common fault is talking through clenched teeth, and not using the mouth to form correct sounds."

"Whisper into a mirror, watching if your mouth shapes words correctly. Or do it with another person—try to carry on a conversation by forming words with your lips but not making a sound."

'Camise' Is New Name

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—It's sort of a camisole and kind of a chemise, so glamor designer Ceil Chapman calls it a "camise."

It's the loose-bloused top with camisole straps, usually jeweled or beaded, which distinguished the newest silhouette in the Chapman collection of festive fashions for fall evenings, previewed today for the fashion press.

Though it has somewhat a look of the flapper era, Ceil uses the camise top on a full-length satin gown done in the 1912 manner—heavily beaded lace bodice and hemline border. There also are versions for cocktail and dinner wear, in various lengths from mid-calf to instep.

This designer, noted for fashions which glorify the best features of the female form, goes all out for glitter this fall, using bushels of beads, sequins, jewels and paillettes in after-5 fashions as elegant as Lillian Russell at her most flamboyant.

Equally elegant is the collection of Jo Copeland, the all-American designer who invented the cocktail suit, and who always has had a weakness for sexy styles. She also uses the 1912 look in a series of slender evening dresses of ankle length, such as one in champagne satin encrusted with pounds of beads, and a gold lace confection with a band of black velvet around the above-the-ankle hemline.

An apricot silk brocade dinner dress is short in front, longer in back, with fan-shaped folds adding back interest and ostrich feathers adding the popular pre-war touch to the bodice.

ECC Enrollment May Be Frozen In Near Future

President John D. Messick of East Carolina stated here this week that, unless more classroom space is provided for the college, indications are that enrollment will have to be frozen in the near future to 3500 students.

Dr. Messick based his statement on enrollment figures which show a steady increase in number of students. Classroom space at the college is now being put to maximum use for efficiency in instruction, he explained.

"East Carolina," Dr. Messick pointed out, "has definitely reached the saturation point so far as classroom space, office space, and dining hall space are concerned."

When in 1954 the budget for East Carolina was prepared for the next biennium, he stated, the estimated average enrollment on which it was based was 2700 students. Actually, he continued in 1955-1956 the average enrollment was 3254.

Estimates for the 1956-1957 term place East Carolina enrollment at 3500. "This figure," Dr. Messick said, "is 740 more in average attendance than was predicted just two years ago."

East Carolina, he further explained, has just secured a government loan of $1,425,000 to be used in the erection of a new dormitory for men. This building will provide living quarters on the campus for 512 students.

But, East Carolina's President pointed out, enough classrooms for the instruction of students are essential to the college educational program, and present facilities at East Carolina will not meet the needs of a rapidly increasing number of students.

Military Grabbing Good Farm Land

ATLANTA (AP)—Officials of the National Assn. of Soil Conservation districts say the government is swallowing up too much good farm land for military bases.

At a meeting yesterday, the officials said the $2,132,886,000 military construction bill just sent to the White House represented an increasing land-grabbing trend of the military.

"The military says they always have to have strategic land for bases and land always turns out to be good farm land," said Clair P. Guess Jr. of League City, Tex., program adviser of the association.

"Concrete doesn't grow peaches too well."

Fun In Film For Bigtime Rancher

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP)—The 62-year-old man looked like a cowboy, so he was issued a six-shooter and cast as an extra. Only later, as he clamored before the cameras with 40 other cowboys during filming of a western was his identity revealed.

He is George Cross, owner of the Hugh Cross Ranch and a millionaire.

"I haven't had so much fun since my bronc riding days," he told friends.

Monaco Has 2 Complaints Since Rainier's Marriage

MONTE CARLO (AP)—Monacans have two complaints since Grace Kelly married Prince Rainier. Some argue that Monaco is under too much American influence.

Others moan that Americans are practically ignoring the country. As for Princess Grace, they hardly know what to say. She has appeared in public, with advance announcement, only twice since the wedding—when she returned from the honeymoon, and to go to a special Mass July 4.

Another time she and the Prince stepped onto the balcony of the palace—unannounced but expected—to watch a folklore festival on the big plaza. Most of the time the couple has either remained in the palace or ducked out quietly, sometimes to watch a movie downtown.

The fact that Princess Grace and the Prince chose the Fourth of July for their first official outing ranked Monacans just a little. The fact that the Prince pardoned an American convicted of a plot to use loaded dice at the Monte Carlo casino did not go without notice and some tongue wagging.

Further American influence is cited in the fact that Andre Brun de Pontet, a Wall Street private banker, has been named a technical financial counselor to the Monacan government and a member of the committee which oversees placing of its funds.

Those who complain that Americans are avoiding Monaco were perhaps too optimistic in their expectations of what the marriage would do for the country.

Official figures show 1,058 Americans tourists in May and 1,118 in June. These figures are quite a letdown for the business people who dreamed of Monaco as a main point of interest in Europe. The American arrivals have increased sharply—from 625 and 575 in the same months of 1955—but not enough to satisfy the merchants. And the American visitors haven't been big spenders. Only 5 per cent are visiting the casino.

However, since Americans need no visas to visit Monaco, the Tourist Bureau figures don't count those who drop in for one day or less. And almost everyone can cover all the sights in the 368-acre principality in one day.

The wedding was a success for the Monacan treasury. The expenses were finally totaled up to about $450,000. This was covered by the sale of a special issue of postage stamps, which brought in $371,422.

Outside the postage stamps, the state had little opportunity to cash in on the event. It is reported, however, that Prince Rainier has a private interest in the company which made a color movie of the ceremonies.

If any Americans have the idea of coming to Monaco to see Princess Grace, they would do better to go to a movie in which she is appearing. Palace protocol won't pass anyone except old personal friends. In the next few months, the couple will be traveling extensively. First it will be a trip to Paris, then to the home of Rainier's mother near Paris. In August they will go for another trip in the Mediterranean on the Prince's yacht. In September they plan to leave for the United States.

Navy Expecting Missile Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy expects within a "few years" to begin equipping ships with ballistic missiles armed with "highyield nuclear warheads" and capable of traveling at tremendous speeds.

In testimony made public yesterday by a Senate Armed Services subcommittee, Adm. John Clark said the missile, Jupiter, will be in operation long before the expected perfection of countermeasures against the weapon.

He said it will travel "many times" faster than sound—around 760 miles per hour at sea level. Testimony given last month by Clark, director of the Navy's guided missile program, was made public in highly censored form. He said the fleet ballistic missile, being developed jointly with the Army, will take form in a year and the Navy already studying the types of ships that could use it.

By 1961, Clark predicted, the Navy will have 47 guided missile ships, enough to protect three carrier task groups.

Asked how she would vote in November if Gov. Chandler receives the Democratic presidential nomination and runs against Eisenhower, Mrs. Lawson snapped: "I'm a Democrat." She said she believes, though, that Ike is as much a Democrat as he is a Republican.

Blaze Reported By Passing Chief

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Who turned in the alarm when fire broke out in a cafe here?

Well, everybody in the place was busy helping carry out the cash register and other articles.

Fire Chief Ellis Bauer happened to be driving by. He saw the commotion and rang the alarm. Damage? $1,500 worth.

Smokers Answer Race Challenge

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Aug. 10 has been set as the date for the foot race up Pike's Peak in which Dr. Arne L. Suominen, tobacco-hating hiker from Delray Beach, Fla., has challenged cigarette smokers.

Ron Bierstedt, Colorado College student and cigarette smoker, will race Dr. Suominen.

A radar expert at Kessler Air Force Base in Mississippi, Clayton Krewson, who insists smoking doesn't hamper his mountain climbing ability, said he wants to compete too.

Bare Bear Burns

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Susie the bear did a slow—and painful—burn when somebody tossed a lighted cigarette in her cage.

The cigarette landed on Susie's head, setting her fur afire. Susie, a 25-year-old Kodiak bear who's not as spry as she used to be, managed to put the fire out by rubbing against the cage bars.

British Claim Revolt Broken

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—The man directing British antiterrorist operations on Cyprus believes the backbone of the EOKA extremist campaign is "severely bent" and may soon be broken.

"Once we get Grivas," says Brig. George Baker, "I think the rest will crumble."

He was referring to 58-year-old Greek Col. George Grivas, supposed to be operational leader of the EOKA underground organization which is pressing for immediate union of Cyprus with Greece. The British have offered $28,000 for his capture.

Baker, chief of staff to Gov. Sir John Harding, predicts that by autumn the EOKA will be a "fairly spent force."

"We have evidence that they are running short of arms," he said. "I am more optimistic now than I was three months ago."

He added that "there are also definite signs that EOKA is becoming unpopular" among the island's overwhelmingly Greek Cypriot population.

Taj Mahal Shows Signs Of Aging

NEW DELHI (AP)—India's biggest tourist attraction, the 400-year-old Taj Mahal at Agra, is showing signs of age.

A portion of an outer courtyard wall collapsed recently. The wall, while a part of the general scheme of buildings at the Taj, is 300 yards from the main building, and mausoleum.

In this building, some plaster walls have small cracks and a few pieces of marble inlay are loose.

However, Indian archaeological officials at the Taj said the mausoleum is in no danger and that it is being kept under constant repair.

Pranksters Turn Highway Signs

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Truck drivers following State Route 53 signs complained to police they were winding up in a dead-end street.

Police found jokesters had changed the signs and drivers were winding up in Riverview Cemetery at the end of W. Third St.

Plenty Of Help

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—There were plenty of offers to help two deliverymen when they dropped a bag they were carrying.

The bag, destined for a downtown bank, contained 1,000 silver dollars.

The dollars scattered across the sidewalk and into a gutter. A bank official said most of them were recovered.

Nationals Cop All-Star Tilt 7-3, In Power Display

Mantle, Musial, Mays, Williams Sock Homers

By JOE REICHLER WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1956 All-Star Game, won by the National League yesterday 7-3, furnished proof it is no accident that the Cincinnati Reds are in first place in their circuit.

Furthermore, it is the consensus of Brooklyn Manager Walter Alton, Cincinnati's own pilot Birdie Tebbets, a majority of the writers and the 28,843 spectators that the Reds are going to be tougher than ever.

Alton, who directed the winning National League All-Stars, praised the six Cincinnati players in action, five in the starting lineup.

Noting that three — first baseman Ted Kluszewski, shortstop Roy McMillan and second baseman Johnny Temple — accounted for six of the National's 11 hits, scoring three runs and driving in two more, he said meaningfully:

"Their performance here should help them the rest of the season."

Kluszewski had two doubles in two times at bat and drove in a run. Temple had two hits, one RBI and a stolen base, and McMillan had two singles. In addition, Temple and McMillan executed the only double play of the game to snuff out the American's biggest threat.

"I'm proud of my guys," said Tebbets, the Nationals' first base coach. "A lot of wise-guys snickered when all those men of mine were voted to the All-Stars. After what they did, we don't have to apologize to anybody. This was good experience for my players. It should give them the confidence they need for the second half of the race."

Except for third baseman Ken Boyer of the Cardinals, one of the stars of the game, only McMillan and Temple played throughout for the Nationals. Alton employed 17 players as compared with 21 used by Casey Stengel of the Americans.

As Alton saw it, the key hit in the game that produced the Nationals' sixth victory in the last seven games, and their 10th in the series of 23, was the homer by Willie Mays, a bench warmer until the fourth inning.

The Nationals held a slim 1-0 lead when Mays came up to bat for Gus Bell after Boyer had slashed the second of his three straight singles.

Left-hander Whitey Ford of the Yankees was on the mound, having replaced starter Billy Pierce of the White Sox at the beginning of the inning. Pierce and Bob Friend had waged a fine pitching duel for three innings, Billy yielding the only run that far in the third.

Mays missed the first pitch, then walloped a 400-foot home run halfway up the left-center field bleachers at Griffith Stadium to give the Nationals a 3-0 bulge. The Americans never caught up, although Ted Williams' two-run circuit blow in the sixth, immediately followed by Mickey Mantle's homer, cut the winners' margin to 5-3. The Nationals had tallied single runs in the fifth and sixth.

"Mays' pinch homer was the turning point," said Alton. "It gave us a comfortable lead and put them on the defensive. After that it was just a matter of getting good pitching from everybody.

Boyer Rates Raves For His All-Star Performance

By GEORGE BOWEN WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the All-Star Game, the fans were talking about all those Cincinnati Reds and such sluggers as Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Mickey Mantle.

After yesterday's game, the two rival managers talked about the kid, Ken Boyer.

The half-dozen Reds, Musial, Mantle and Williams came through in style, but the St. Louis third baseman was as much a star as any of them in his first time in the classic.

Manager Walt Alton of the victorious (7-3) Nationals said if he had to single out a player as his best, it would be Boyer.

The 25-year-old major league sophomore from Berkeley, Mo., also evoked words of praise from rival manager Casey Stengel of the Americans.

"Very good boy, very good," declared Stengel, who is noted for not mentioning names. "That third base fellow cut us out of a rally or two."

Stengel meant that Boyer's fielding stopped the Americans three times before they could get going.

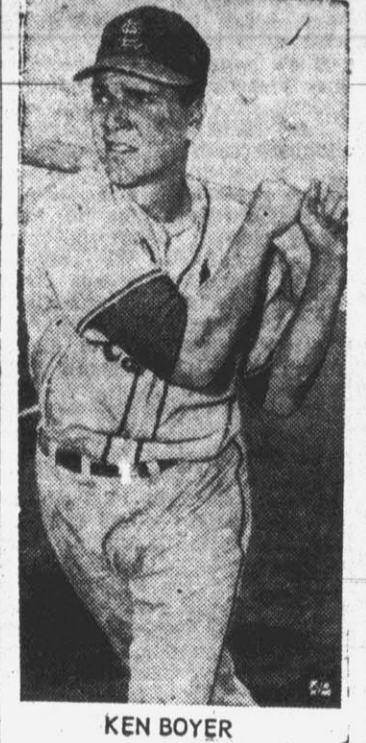

On the first play of the game, Boyer speared a liner off the bat of Detroit's Harvey Kuenn and in the fifth he robbed Kuenn again by knocking down a hard drive and tossing to first.

In the seventh, pinch hitter Ray Boone of Detroit laced one right down the third base line but Boyer caught it to a roar of surprise from the stands.

While his defense was a highlight, Boyer also justified Alton's confidence in giving him the cleanup batting spot over such veterans as the Cardinal's Musial, Gus Bell of Cincinnati and Dale Long of Pittsburgh.

Boyer hit three straight singles and in the fifth batted in what turned out to be the winning run.

Machen To Meet Nino Valdes In Big One Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Young Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., ruled a slight favorite to keep his perfect record intact when he faces Nino Valdes of Cuba in a nationally televised heavyweight fight at the Auditorium tonight.

Machen has won 14 in a row and scored 11 knockouts in his brief but brilliant career and probably will be 7-5 favorite by fight time. He'll be going after his second straight over the 31-year-old Valdes, who apparently reached his peak on Aug. 11, 1953, in this same ring when he beat Ezzard Charles.

Valdes, who started fighting in 1941 in his native Cuba, has had 52 bouts, winning 26 by knockouts and losing 12. Besides Charles his victims include James J. Parker, Archie McBride, Hurricane Jackson and Don Cockell. He belted out Cockell in three rounds and put Jackson away in two.

Last year he lost to Archie Moore, Bob Satterfield and Bob Baker but recently stopped Mike Hammer.

Bobby Gleason, who manages Valdes and predicted a knockout victory for him, said if the Cuban loses and isn't impressive, he will ask the onetime top contender to quit the ring.

Dr. Gould said that for the present Rocky will be given bed rest, heat massage and physiotherapy treatment which will continue for two or three weeks.

If this does not bring relief, the question of surgery will then have to be considered, Dr. Gould said.

Rocky revealed that his back injury is a fresh hurt. He said he first noticed it two weeks ago while he was doing calisthenics on the beach in Bermuda. He and his wife, Barbara, had a vacation there recently.

Rocky said that when he came home he was playing with his daughter Mary Ann when "suddenly I tossed her up in the air and when I caught her coming down I felt a severe twinge in my back. It has hurt me considerably ever since."

Dr. Gould said "this injury is very common in a person of Rocky's age." He said eight out of 10 cases are improved and corrected with treatment plus proper rest.

Dr. Gould said "this condition can be completely cured and a person can return to hard labor without further trouble but likewise there have been and can be recurrences."

Rocky said "I think I will be all right and I hope there won't be any operation. But if I do recover I will not go back to the ring again. My gloves are hung up for good."

VFW Pokes Out North State Win

In the only Little League contest that survived yesterday's heavy rains, the V.F.W. edged the Jaycees in North State play, 4-3.

Owens was credited with the victory, taking over mound chores from V.F.W. starter Stokes in the third inning. He gave up four of the six hits posted by the losers, struck out three, and left 11 men stranded on the bases.

Clapp went all the way for the Jaycees and was charged with the loss. He was tagged for five hits, struck out 11 batters and walked five.

K. Allen was the only V.F.W. batsman to tally more than a single hit. He slammed out a double and a single. Anderson and H. Johnson accounted for two hits each for the losers and Jim Jenkins connected for their only extra-base knock, a double.

Western Tennis Play Ready For Action Now

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Seeded players got down to serious business today in the third round of the Western tennis championships.

Most second round matches yesterday were one-sided, with only two going to three sets and only three sets going to deuce.

Top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia defeated 18-year-old Maxwell Brown of Louisville, 6-3, 6-2, but he had to turn on some extra power after Brown got him down 3-1 in the first set.

Defending Champion Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., seeded second and bidding to retire the Defending Champion Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., seeded second and bidding to retire the trophy with a third victory, breezed past Jack Frost of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1.

Arthur Andrews of Iowa City, Iowa, had to work the hardest as he defeated Paul Massey of Indianapolis, 6-8, 6-1, 8-6.

The top-seeded foreign entrant, Armand Vieira of Brazil, defeated another foreigner, Bob Armstrong of Toronto, 6-2, 6-0.

Janet Hopps of Seattle, seeded No. 1 in the women's singles, dropped only two games in beating two opponents, Mary Ellen Benedeto of Indianapolis and Marilyn Stock of Coral Gables, Fla.

Larry Beck, Ed Justa and Bob Harrison shot par 70's yesterday in the beginning round of the North Carolina Junior Golf Tournament at the Kinston Country Club, to lead a field of 65 linksters.

Beck of Kinston, Justa of Rocky Mount, and Harrison of Fayetteville were four strokes ahead of George Smith of New Bern and Odell Massey of Durham, who posted 74's.

Action yesterday took in 18 holes of the 54-hole tourney. Today will complete the affair, with the top four individual golfers journeying to Fargo, North Dakota, to compete in the national contest in August.

Back also placed first in a driving contest, whacking out a 300 yard, two foot drive.

Greenville boys participating in the events were Bobby Thomas, 86; Marvin Blount, 79; Dick Evans, 81; Buddy Murray, 89.

Two Schools Fight PCC Athletic Code

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California and UCLA have joined forces aimed at suspending athletic eligibility bans imposed by the Pacific Coast Conference and drafting a new athletic code.

Dr. Fred C. Fagg, president of the University of Southern California, started the move yesterday in a sharply worded telegram to Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, chairman of the presidents' council of the PCC. He suggested that the presidents meet within two weeks and agree to suspend all pending bans against athletes. He proposed that the presidents draft a new code governing athletic scholarships and that punishment for past violations be patterned from the new code.

Shortly after Dr. Fagg's telegram was made public, Dr. Raymond B. Allen, chancellor of UCLA who is answerable to President Sproul, issued this brief statement: "I fully indorse and strongly concur in the sentiments expressed in President Fagg's telegram."

Faculty representatives have imposed fines and athletic eligibility bans against Southern California, UCLA and Washington. UCLA was banned from playing in the Rose Bowl football game for three years and Southern California and Washington for two years.

Dr. Fagg said he believes the faculty representatives' interpretation of the presidents' directive of June 18 was in error, but he did not elaborate. The directive urged that penalties be assessed before Sept. 1 and that all cases and penalties be reviewed at one time. "It is certain there is fully equitable treatment between and among cases." Each school was directed to review its own situation and possible changes in the rules governing student aid. The results, the directive said, then would be reviewed by the presidents at another formal meeting.

and it's my opinion they should be looked after better.

"Of course, we had never been there before. Possibly those who have gone from this side year after year know about making arrangements for accommodations. We didn't know what we were going to run into."

Elaborating on the views expressed overseas before his return, Leonard said he, his wife and daughter were supposed to have been booked into the best hotel in Liverpool.

"We had to take what was left. We stayed at a Liverpool hotel which in this country would be condemned. It cost between $10 and $11 a night. It would be worth $3 here."

"Surely the R and A should have enough foresight to know accommodations would be difficult. Besides, why hold a tournament in an area like that? You might as well play any of our big tournaments in the back woods."

"Through efforts of some sporting goods people who heard of our difficulties we got a reservation in a good hotel."

Every third person employed in the U.S. today is a woman, reports the National Industrial Conference Board.

Rocky Suffers Ruptured Disc In His Spine

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Rocky Marciano, retired world heavyweight champion, has a ruptured disc in his spine but for the present no operation will be attempted.

Dr. Nathaniel Gould, orthopedic surgeon at the Brockton Hospital where Rocky has been receiving treatment for a week, made the announcement yesterday.

Dr. Gould said that for the present Rocky will be given bed rest, heat massage and physiotherapy treatment which will continue for two or three weeks.

If this does not bring relief, the question of surgery will then have to be considered, Dr. Gould said.

Swift Death In Grand Canyon Air Crash To Be Lingering Sorrow For Victims' Kin

By BILL BECKER
Associated Press Reporter

For the 124 victims of history's greatest airline catastrophe, death came swiftly in the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

But it will be a lingering sorrow for at least twice that many kin, including some 150 children left fatherless, motherless or both.

Many of the relatives are expected to attend a mass burial service today at Flagstaff.

Whether from California, New Jersey, Ohio or Missouri, most of the passengers aboard the colliding Trans World and United airlines June 30 had growing families broken asunder in a few snatching seconds.

To the breaking of dozens of homes can be added the loss of brilliant careers.

The two planes bore a cross-section of the American public: industrial tycoons, a Wall Street broker, a young mathematical wizard, a scholarship-winning stewardess, a farm agent, a service station operator, engineers, lawyers, Hucksters, housewives and eager kids getting the trip as a summer reward.

For several children and adults, it was the first flight.

At least two servicemen were flying home on emergency leave to be at the bedside of sick relatives. Other young men were getting out of the service or returning from special duty on the West Coast.

One-month old Howard Maag was sitting in his mother's lap aboard the TWA plane. Hugo Pak-ruhn, 83, retired widower aboard the United airliner, doubtless was thinking of the wonderful months he had spent with one daughter in Redondo Beach, Calif. Now he was to spend the summer with another daughter near his home in Steubenville, Ohio.

Dennis Pheasant, 31, a fresh-faced TWA engineer, was especially anxious to get home. He had been working on a net project at San Diego when he received a telephone call from Kansas City that his wife Dorothy, 21, was about to give birth to their second child.

Pheasant would have been in plenty of time if... A 6-pound, 15-ounce girl was born the next morning.

John E. Yaeger, 39, a Tiltonville, Ohio, chemist, was speeding home to his wife and six children via United. On the other plane hurtling through the thunderheads sat William H. Markey, 46, of St. Louis, director of financial services for the Catholic Hospital Assn. He had five youngsters.

Sixteen children perished in the accident. At least two families were wiped out.

Orphaned are the three children of Atty. and Mrs. Wallace Hatcher of Ventura, Calif. Hatcher, 42, was going to Indianapolis for a business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kite of Prairie Village, Kan., were going home with their daughters, Sharon, 10, and Linda Jo, 6, who had realized their dream of seeing Disneyland. The Maag baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Maag of Los Angeles, also were killed.

Another Los Angeles man, Richard H. Payne, changed places with his wife at the last moment. He was taking 14-year-old Dick and 9-year-old Monica for a summer visit on their aunt's Iowa farm.

A Santa Barbara, Calif., divorcee, Mrs. J. K. Robinson, and her sons, Jeffrey, 9, and David, 11, were bound for a Kansas City visit.

The tragedy was the second blow recently for plumber Howard Laxton.

Last Thanksgiving his 3-month-old baby died. His wife Lois and their 6-year-old son Michael were flying to their former home in Cape Girardeau, Mo., to locate living quarters before he joined them. Mrs. Laxton was pregnant.

Both Mrs. Laxton and Bessie Whitman, 36, St. Louis, got aboard on last-minute cancellations. Another late boarder was Andrew Nasalroad, 31, Paoli, Mo., service station operator. His brother had talked him into visiting with his wife and two children in Missouri before they were to come home this week.

Mrs. Marie Braughton and her daughters Linda, 9, and Connie, 6, were to rejoin Daddy in Kansas City.

All these were among the 70 persons on the TWA Super Constellation. Up front sat Capt. Jack Gandy, 41, Mission, Kan., father of four; his copilot Jim Ritter, 31, Fairmont, Mo., father of three; and two flight engineers, Forrest Breyfogle, 37, Kansas City, and Harry H. Allen, 41, Los Angeles, each twice a dad.

Two fathers also sat at the controls of the United DC7 Capt. R. F. Shirley, 48, Los Angeles, and First officer Bob Harms, 36, Burbank, each left a widow and a daughter.

The stewardess — two aboard each plane — were the clear-eyed, smiling, efficient girls you'd expect. United's Nancy Kennitz, 34, was a former Moline, Ill., cheerleader who recently turned down a supervisory job.

TWA's bright Beth Ellis Davis, 25, Richfield Springs, N.Y., had just won her 11th scholarship. She planned to complete work for her master's degree at Cornell University and become a teacher.

Copilot Harms, a friend recalled, recently had summed up flying problems: "Nothing ever happens if you keep your right altitude and stay on course."

MORE

On the United plane was 12-year-old Fred Staecker, whose leg had just mended from a football injury last fall. What fun it would be to fish with Grandpa, Hans Staecker Sr., in Wisconsin on Columbus Lake or any other!

Peter Austin Whyte, 15, member of a prominent Detroit family, was going back to start his first real job after being given a trip to see friends on the West Coast.

Too young for big dreams were Jeffrey Crider, 5, Granada Hills, Calif., and Carol Church, 6, San Diego. The latter died with her grandfather, Albert Vogt, Evanston, Ill.; Jeffrey with his mother.

Mrs. Rosemary Bishop, 50, Camarillo, Calif., mother of three, had only her youngest, Stephen, 3 months, with her. They were going to visit grandmother in Brazil, Ind.

Coincidentally, there was a Stephen Bishop aboard the TWA plane too. Stephen R. Bishop, 19, TWA file clerk, was returning to Kansas City after a Hollywood vacation.

Aboard United, Navy SSC Christopher Balas, 19, was rushing to the bedside of his father who had undergone a series of major operations in Fostoria, Ohio.

On TWA Air Force Pfc. Robert Sontag was flying to his mother's bedside in Little Rock, Ark.

A few seats away Bob Beatty, 23, looked forward to his first glimpse of his second child, only 6 weeks old, in Wichita, Kan. Beatty had just been detached from the Air Force as a staff sergeant.

Aboard the same plane a former Navy commander, John N. Payne, 44, national secretary of the Propeller Club of the U.S., an organization of shipping men.

Payne, father of four, was en route home to Orange, N.J., after a business trip. Shortly before his departure from Los Angeles he reminisced with an old friend, City Editor Agness Underwood of the evening Herald-Express, about a ball he and a former Navy pal had attended with Mrs. Underwood years ago. The friend had been killed just before World War II.

"His plane went into a dive and never came out of it. It nosed right in," Payne said. "Isn't that a hell of a way to die?"

60,000 Drug Addicts Spending $350,000 Millions Every Year

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has tried to make dope-peddling a truly hazardous occupation — and save thousands from the drug habit — by voting to boost the penalties on both selling and possessing narcotics.

President Eisenhower is expected to sign the bill.

For a peddler who sells heroin — the most habit-forming of all the narcotics — to a child under 18 the proposed penalty is toughest of all: death, if a jury brings in that verdict, or life imprisonment, or 10 years to life.

This death penalty may chill the blood of "pushers" or peddlers who do the direct selling to addicts. It remains to be seen whether it scares the big-time operators who sell to peddlers and not to addicts.

In this country there are at least 60,000 addicts — according to government figures — who spend a minimum of $50 million dollars a year on drugs. But more is involved. Since many can't afford the drug they crave, they steal to get the money.

Roughly about 25,000 persons are arrested yearly for narcotics violations.

Harry J. Anslinger, chief of the government's Narcotics Bureau, who calls drug addiction "murder on the installment plan," figures that known addicts under 21 are about 13 per cent of all addicts.

That the dope racket pays off handsomely for the operators can be seen from this picture drawn by an official of the U.S. Customs Service: An ounce of heroin can be bought in Hong Kong for $60. One ounce contains 437½ grains. By the time it reaches the addict here it may have been cut to 5 per cent purity. For one grain of this diluted narcotic the price is $1.

Government estimates early this year listed the 10 "worst" cities for dope addiction as New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, San Francisco, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Antonio.

Congress did not act suddenly.

A Cabinet committee appointed by Eisenhower over 18 months ago to investigate the traffic in narcotics had recommended stiffer penalties.

So did two congressional committees — one from the Senate, the other from the House — which inquired into this racket in nationwide hearings.

These are the proposed new penalties covering heroin, marijuana, opium, morphine or any other drug derived from opium:

For having it: 2 to 10 years for a first offense; 5 to 20 for second offense; and 10 to 40 for a third and all subsequent offenses. In addition, anywhere along the line a judge can impose a fine up to $20,000. There can be no suspension of sentence, parole or probation after a second offense.

For selling it: 5 to 20 years for a first offense; 10 to 40 for each subsequent offense, plus a fine to $20,000 if a judge wants to impose it. For peddlers there can be no parole, suspension of sentence, or probation.

For a person selling to a child under 18 — excluding heroin, which carries a stiffer penalty of its own — the penalty is 10 to 40 years and a fine up to $20,000. This applies to a first and any subsequent offense.

Further, the new bill would require drug addicts and convicted peddlers to register with the federal government if they want to cross the American borders. Violation of this section of the act carries a penalty of a fine up to $1,000 or jail from one to three years, or both.

Tight Rein On Auto Production

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP) — The auto makers are holding a tight rein on passenger car production. They plan to build about one million cars during the July-September quarter.

This sharp restriction on assembly line operation will make a nine-months' output total of about 4,211,000 units. It is designed to make sure that will be no large accumulation of 1956 model cars in dealer stocks when the 1957 models start rolling from the assembly lines.

The further tightening of production schedules raises some question as to whether the industry will be able to make 1956 the third best production year in its history. A final quarter output of around 1,224,000 cars will be needed to achieve that distinction.

The industry has the facilities to build that many units in three months, but it also faces the likelihood of some delay in gaining momentum on new model production. This is likely to be a problem because of the numerous changes reportedly coming in the 1957 models. Sweeping changes always bring manufacturing and assembly line problems at the start of a model year.

But, despite assertions from the car makers that new model introduction dates this year will come at about the same season as they did last year, a substantial volume of production is expected for several weeks before public presentation.

Industry sources hear that Ford will begin shipping 1957 models to its dealers in September. Factory shipments to dealers of the 1956 models began early in September last year with public introduction on Sept. 23. Chevrolet, which announced publicly early in November, got substantial production during the latter part of October.

Chevrolet and Ford Division produce almost 50 per cent of the industry's passenger total. If they can attain sizable production volume early in October this year there would seem to be a good chance that final quarter output will be sufficient to put 1956 through as third best.

West Will Get First Look At Top Female Red

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP) — The West this week gets its first close look at Wlasteria Furtseva, the world's No. 1 woman Communist.

Mrs. Furtseva will head a 16-member delegation on a visit to Britain at the invitation of the British Parliament. The group, which includes members of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), leaves Moscow by plane tomorrow.

Reaching heights no other woman has attained in the Soviet government structure, Mrs. Furtseva is first secretary of the Moscow Communist party group, a Supreme Soviet deputy and a candidate member of the Communist party's powerful Presidium.

Mrs. Furtseva, who looks much younger than her 46 years, took over the post as secretary of the Moscow city party organization March 31, 1954. It is the largest party group in the Soviet Union and the secretary's post is one of the most important jobs in the land. Among those who held it in the past is Soviet party head Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Long active in Communist party circles, Mrs. Furtseva received special prominence on May Day, 1955, when Khrushchev summoned her to join him atop the tomb of Lenin and Stalin on Red Square to review the traditional parade.

Mrs. Furtseva entered the top policy making level with the current Kremlin leaders in the fall of 1954, when she accompanied Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin to Peking for talks with Chinese Communist leaders.

A sturdy, well-proportioned woman, Mrs. Furtseva has light blond hair waving softly away from her face and gathered in a bun at the nape of the neck. She uses no makeup and has sparkling blue eyes.

She also has a lusty sense of humor which she brings into play at official receptions where she always engages Western correspondents in conversation.

Over the past year, marked improvement — by Western standards — has been noticed in her style of dress. Her wardrobe for public appearances now includes a considerable number of well-tailored suits, her usual costume.

Mrs. Furtseva has one daughter by her marriage to the Soviet Union's ambassador to Yugoslavia.

Two ferry boats now operate between Key West, Fla., and Cuba. They can carry several hundred passengers, about 100 automobiles, and if needed, some railroad cars.

All's Well That Ends At 3 A.M.

By JAMES MARLOW
BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — Jim Avis posted two youths as guards for the night at his tavern when he saw a bolt had been removed from a window and figured burglars were preparing for a call.

At 3:00 a.m., pretty late for any burglary work, the guards decided all was well and went home. That's when thieves showed up and made off with seven or eight cases of beer and the cash register, containing a small amount of money.

Sen. George Hopes Close Long Career With Victory

By JOE HALL
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today he hopes to cap his 34-year Senate career with a victory for his proposal to set up a program of Social Security benefits for disabled persons.

George, retiring from the Senate at the end of this year at 78, introduced yesterday the compromise amendment on which the Democrats are pinning their hopes for a Senate triumph on the disability program.

"If we can get this through, then I am ready to go away from the Senate," George said. He told a reporter he does not regard his plan as a final answer to the disability question, adding:

"But it will be liberalized and improved over the years, just as other parts of the Social Security law have been."

George has been either chairman or a member of the Finance Committee, which handles Social Security legislation, through the 20 years the system has been in existence.

The veteran Southerner said he believes his compromise will win the support of most Democrats and also of a number of Republicans, despite Eisenhower administration opposition to the disability program.

The Social Security bill, of which George's proposal would be a part, is one of the major pieces of business remaining for the 1956 session. It now is expected to come up for Senate debate next week.

The disability program is a new concept. The Social Security system heretofore has provided only retirement and survivor benefits.

The House last year voted in its version of the bill to set up payments for persons totally and permanently disabled at age 50 or higher. But this was knocked out of the measure in the Senate Finance Committee this year. The administration objected to the cost and said the program would be extremely difficult to administer.

George's plan, like the House bill, would provide benefits for those disabled at 50 or older. And it would set up a special tax for the payments and segregate revenues in a separate fund.

This would meet the objection voiced by many senators, including some Democrats, that the cost of the disability program is unpredictable and might cause heavy inroads on the trust fund built up for retirement and survivor payments. This fund now exceeds 22 billion dollars.

The tax George proposes would be one-half per cent of payroll, one-quarter per cent each for the employer and employee on the first $4,200 of earnings annually. The rate for self-employed would be three-eighths per cent. This would be added to the 2 per cent each now paid by the employer and employee, and the 3 per cent levy for self-employed.

George said he is confident the new tax would be ample to finance the disability program. It would bring in an estimated 850 million dollars the first year.

The benefits the first year would go to an estimated 250,000 persons, and cost about 200 million dollars.

Bogart's Friends Happy; Jet Makers Already Talking He Is Grumbling, Surly About Doubling Markets

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When I told Judy Garland I was going to pay a call to her neighbor Humphrey Bogart, she said:

"I hear he's growling at people again. That's awfully good news. I went to visit him after he got home from the hospital, and he was very sweet and nice. I said to myself, 'oh, dear, he really is sick!'"

His other pals will be happy to know that Bogart is grumbling and surly once more. When I found him in his den, he muttered, "Well, how is the kpet press?"

But it has been a long haul. On March 1, he underwent major chest surgery. For Bogart, who says he had never been sick before, it was his toughest fight.

He still hasn't recovered. He is slim as a reed at 120 pounds, the months of treatment having destroyed his appetite. But 10 days aboard his yacht had brought his color back.

And he's growling again. "Television!" he snorted. "I don't go out at night, so there isn't much to do but watch television. Most of the stuff is pretty lousy. Stupid stories acted by guys who are trying to be Marlon Brando. Oh, once in a while you see something good, but not very often."

This got him onto a tirade about the new school of so-called realistic acting.

"I'm fed up with this bunch of back-scratching, nose-picking young actors," he declared. "They think that's acting, just to make themselves look repulsive."

About the James Dean craze: "You'd think he was the only actor who ever lived. The fact is that there are a lot of good young actors. There's Anthony Perkins, son of my best friend, Osgood Perkins. Paul Newman's a good man, and Monty Clift is no slouch, when he's working. Not to mention Marlon Brando."

He still has little strength or appetite, but he said he expected to get back to work by September.

"I've got 30 pounds to gain, but I think I can do it by then," he said. "I plan to make 'The Good Shepherd' at Columbia if I can postpone 'Melville Goodwin, USA' for Warner."

By SAM DAWSON
 LOS ANGELES (AP)—Commercial jet plane makers—straining hard to come in first in one of the keenest races the aviation industry has yet known—are talking today about doubling their market in the next five years. And it's still two years before they start deliveries on the 242 now on order.

These orders are unique in themselves.

Some were written on the basis of blueprints alone and the reputation of the maker, others from a prototype that has been flown but is now being improved. The latter is expected to be surpassed in several ways by the first commercial one yet to be assembled.

Jet enthusiasts count on public acceptance of speedier transportation to force airlines to find the money somewhere to double their orders. The financing burden already assumed is heavy, both by the makers and by the airlines that are in a race of their own to capture the jet passenger market.

The makers have agreed to deliver the first ones to each of the lines, as nearly simultaneously as possible, rather than let one line get all its orders delivered ahead of a rival.

Plane makers contend the jets will change the folkways of American businessmen by making a round-trip transcontinental business day feasible. They say this will add new customers to the airways rather than merely draw them away from present planes.

Designers are confident that by the time commercial service starts the noise problem and the need for extra-long runways—both now barring jets from some city airports—will have been licked.

While Boeing, Douglas and Convair race to get their jets into commercial service, Britain has just put its new Comet II in the air. This is England's first jet operation since the Comet I was grounded after a series of crashes in 1954. And Russia has been showing a jet liner for several months.

"Customers won't ride in anything but a jet once they've tried it," predicts William M. Allen, Boeing president, at Seattle. "Jets will take over as fast as they can be produced and airlines can afford them."

Cistercian monks on the isle of Cady, near Wales, add to their modest income by distilling perfume from fragrant lavender blossoms which grow around their monastery.

SE "22"

INSECT ERADICATOR

here's what others say:

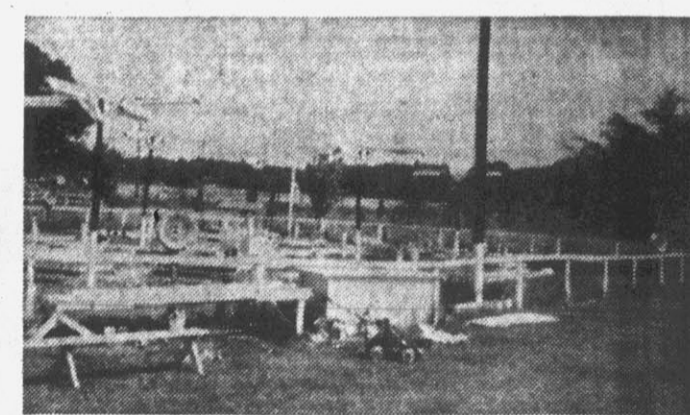

Greenville, N. C. City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam Says:

"After trying the SE "22" around the Water Plant for several weeks I have been more than pleased and AMAZED at the decrease in insects from the use of these units. Although nothing is a cure-all for such a problem, the results from this experiment have proven to be more efficient and effective than any other method tried in the past."

Mr. Albert Webb, prominent farmer of Wilson, N. C. says:

"I wanted to let you know how much I like your new SE "22" Insect Eradicator. I have used the bag type insect trap for three years and was pleased with it and planning to get some more of the same traps until your machine came on the market. After testing your machine beside the bag type trap, I found that the SE "22" with its flying blades was so much more effective that I traded the bag type and bought five SE "22's". I feel that the SE "22" is more efficient than any other light for horn worm and bud worm moths and ten times as efficient as any other light for mosquito and other small insect control.

And here's an invitation from the GREENVILLE GOLF RANGE "Be sure to stop by and see for yourself how the SE "22" controls insects.

General Manager R. E. Jordan of the Lost Colony, Manteo, N. C. says:

"We have installed the SE "22" Insect Eradicators at the Lost Colony and feel that it is doing a very efficient job in helping us control the mosquito problem."

Says Simon Moye, owner of the Greenville Golf Range, "Last season we were compelled to close on account of the insect problem. This year, since we installed the SE "22" Insect Eradicators, we have had no problem with mosquitoes or any other insects."

COTTON CARNIVAL QUEEN

Every year the land of cotton throws a big party. It's a five-day period of pomp, panoply and play reigned over by a king and queen whose lives are rooted in the cotton plantation tradition of the South.

This year's regal lady was Queen Clare of the house of Mallory. The pretty 20-year-old college girl shared the throne with King Oscar of the house of Carr. Clare Mallory is from Memphis, scene of the festivities. She attends Bennett Junior College, Millbrook, N.Y., where she is a senior. Oscar Carr, 32, is a cotton planter from Clarksdale, Miss., and the father of three children.

It begins with the landing of the Royal Barge at Memphis' doorstep on the storied Mississippi River. Amid the spray and crash of fireworks, the king and queen, their court and the prince and princesses of the realm debark from the gaily-decorated barge.

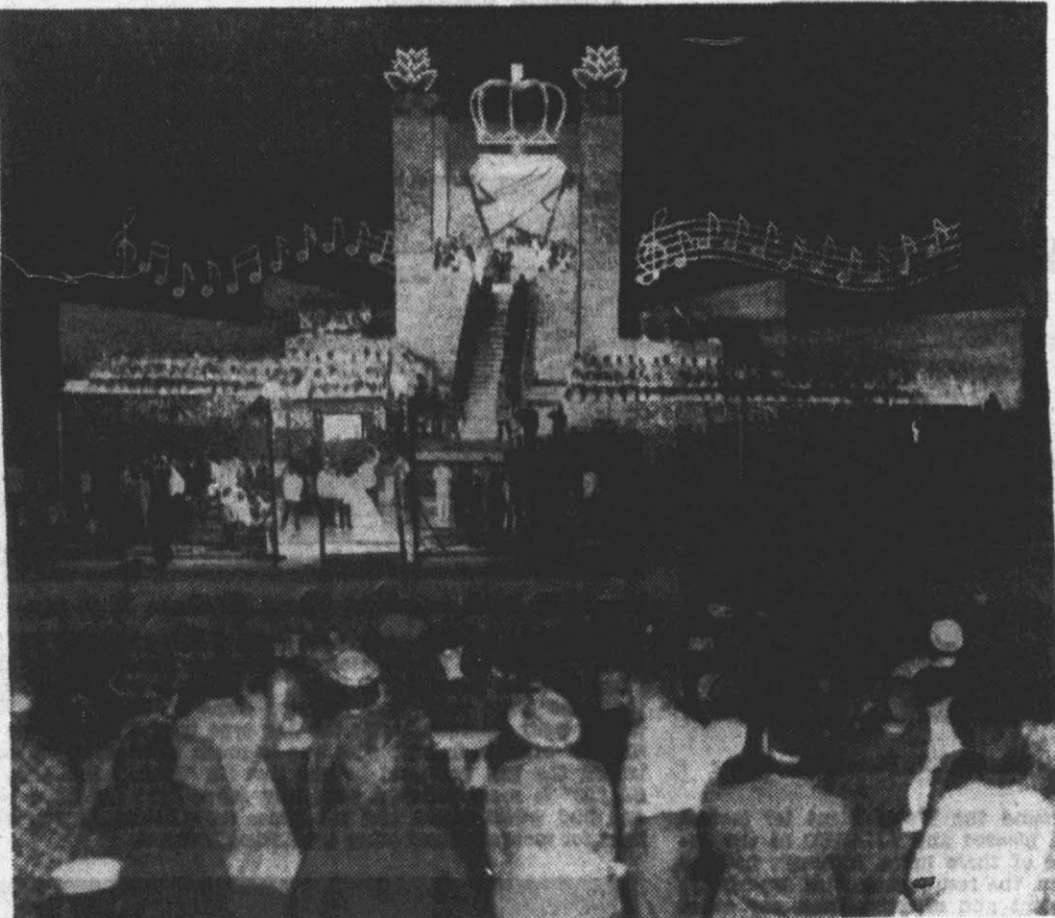

After that, it is a mad whirlwind of parties, dances and a parade in downtown Memphis. The carnival, for the most part, is a gala event in Mid-South society circles. It officially ends with the departure of the Royal Barge, with its very tired royalty, floating down the Mississippi to the strains of "Dixie."

REGAL CURTSY. Maid of Cotton Pat Cowden bows to Queen Clare and King Oscar during festivities on royal barge.

The queen's mother, Mrs. B.L. Mallory, Jr., helps her with getting ready for a day's activities at the carnival.

Cold, Dry Spring Hurts Corn Crop

RALEIGH (AP) — A cold spring and a dry June have taken a bite out of the North Carolina corn crop, with production as of July 1 estimated at 11 per cent below last year.

Rains during the past week may improve prospects. The state Crop Reporting Service said yesterday that the outlook as of July 1 was for a crop of 65,000,000 bushels. This would be a drop of 7 1/2 million bushels below the 1955 crop.

At the same time, the reporting service predicted a 30 per cent decline in the state's Irish potato production, and a 7 per cent drop in the sweet potato crop. It forecast record yields for small grains.

Irish potato production was placed at 4,578,000 bushels, with an average yield of 127 bushels per acre from 35,000 acres. Acreage last year totaled 37,000, while the yield per acre was 155 bushels.

Sweet potato acreage for the year was estimated at 40,000 unchanged from 1955. Total production was estimated at 4,080,000 bushels, with a yield of 102 bushels per acre. Last year's yield was 107 bushels.

The service made the following forecasts for small grains: Wheat—Production of 8,496,000 bushels, 24 per cent above last year and the biggest crop since 1952. Average yield per acre was estimated at 24 bushels from 354,000 acres.

Oats—Record production of 17,686,000 bushels, up 15.5 per cent over last year. An estimated yield of 37 bushels per acre also would be a record.

Barley — Record production of 2,065,000 bushels, 25 per cent over last year. An estimated yield of bushels per acre would be another record.

Rye — Production estimated at 449,000 bushels, 38 per cent above last year.

St. Louis Victims Of Strike Tiring Of Cold Water Baths

By ALLAN MERRITT ST. LOUIS (AP)—A steady diet of barbecued food is hard to take. Dining out with relatives soon becomes tiresome. Cold water baths are the cruelest blow of all.

There was hope today the end may be in sight. An attorney for the 2,200 striking members of Oil, Chemical, and Atomic Workers Union said they would comply with a court order to return to work.

I'm just doing the best I can with water heated in an electric coffee percolator."

Miller Says He's Leaving

ROBURY, Conn. (AP) — Playwright Arthur Miller says that pending contempt of Congress proceedings against him would delay his departure for wrope Friday with his bride, actress Marilyn Monroe.

Yesterday the House Committee on Un-American Activities voted contempt proceedings against him as a result of his appearance before it on June 21.

Miller refused to answer committee questions about persons with whom he attended Communist party writers' meetings in 1939 and 1940.

f the House approves the committee action, the Justice Department will be asked to prosecute, but Miller said at his home here he doesn't expect any legal proceedings for "months to come."

By DOROTHY WOP'FY

SYNOPSIS
Priscilla Paige, who is bored with her job in a New York office and unmarried, grasps at an opportunity to escape her humdrum existence when she is notified of an unexpected bequest from a great-aunt, and naturally her imagination is stirred by what follows. Her older, wiser friend, Rita Lambert, accompanies Priscilla on the auto trip to Apalachicola, Fla., to see the principal item in the bequest—an abandoned old mansion called Lookout House. The girls learn that the house is "haunted" and has a secret passage. The two decide to remain to appear to be just tourists until they know more about why three different men have taken a curious interest in the place and in them. The men are Bill Duval, who says he is a writer; Red Gallagher, a fisherman, and Luis Alvarez, a wealthy yachtsman.

In her first visit to the house, Rita finds $500 in brand-new bills on the floor, and Todd, the attorney for the estate, reveals that Alvarez is interested in buying the house.

The local belle, Peggy Pomeroy, is naturally annoyed that Priscilla has attracted the attention of her two best beaux, Pete Craig and Dick Devereaux. Dick, a doctor, pays a professional call to Priscilla, and now Bill Duval is quizzing him.

CHAPTER 12
The young doctor said, "Look Bill, you've been here a couple of weeks. I've asked no questions because I didn't consider that it was any of my business. But you might accomplish more if you took someone into your confidence. I'd like to know what's on your mind about those two girls."

"You may be right, Doc, about my needing a little help. Maybe I'm on the wrong track."

"Are you really a writer?"

"I've been a newspaperman and done some free-lancing, but let's just say writing is not why I'm here. You'll have to trust me for the time being."

"It has something to do with those two girls?"

"Maybe. I hope not. Could you get a date with the younger one and take me along for—Zerita?"

Dick looked at him and laughed. "You're taking me a little fast. But I find the idea rather appealing. I can try."

As he finished speaking, a shiny black convertible of foreign make slid by the top down. Alvarez behind the wheel. He was driving slowly, his eyes moving from one side of the street to the other.

"He, too, is on my mind," Bill said, watching. "I'm wondering lately if I'm on his."

"Well, you know why he's here?"

He contemplates building a hotel. He's a big fisherman, too, and he's speculating."

They watched Luis Alvarez turn into a parking space across the street and at that moment they saw the green Dodge park alongside, only to back out immediately. The black car also backed out and went in the same direction.

"See what I mean?" said Bill. They watched both cars turn around the long bridge.

Bill got out of Dick's car. "Think I'll follow them."

He walked over to his own car and got in. Dick watched him turn toward the bridge. Bill was a nice fellow, there was no doubt about that. Was he a detective? If so, what was he looking for in a small, peaceful town like Apalachicola?

"It's queer, isn't it, Rita?" asked Priscilla. "Our being here, in this darling little cottage. And just across the street, an old house that actually belongs to me. A week ago I wouldn't have thought all this possible."

"You sort of like it, don't you?" Rita smiled at the younger girl.

"I love it. I have a feeling of belonging. If my mother had never gone away, or if she had lived and brought me back here. . . . Her voice trailed off. A moment later, she said, "Rita, didn't you like Dr. Devereaux?"

"What an abrupt change of subject," Rita said, laughing. "And yes, I liked him. He's so blond and browned and out-of-doors looking. And such white teeth. But don't go getting ideas, Priscilla. You've only seen the man twice. How do you know whether you would like him or not?"

"I know," Rita advised good-naturedly. "You'll probably never see him again."

"I'm being silly, of course. But I did like him," Priscilla changed the subject. "I suppose we should go over to Lookout House and see if there's anything I'd like to keep."

"And it would probably be wise, too, to go ahead and accept Alvarez' offer. After all, the real estate people and Mr. Todd think it is more than you'll be offered again. And more than the property is actually worth."

"I can't help wondering why he's in such a hurry. Perhaps we'd better meet him at Mr. Todd's office and talk it over."

"You're right, Priscilla. I think tomorrow you should tell Mr. Todd to go ahead and close the deal with Luis Alvarez. Like you said, I have a strange feeling about the whole thing, a feeling I can't explain away. But what difference does it make, so long as you get the money? And speaking of money, I'm still disturbed over that five hundred dollars. If not one answers our ad, then I'll turn it over to you."

"No. We'll spend it on the trip," Priscilla added pensively. "Rita, it would be nice, having a little house like this to keep. Oh, a little larger, of course, but a house and a man you're in love with."

"Not still thinking of the young doctor, are you?" Rita teased. She was surprised when Priscilla said seriously, "If I had a chance, I think I could like him. But of course I won't get the chance." She began to talk of something else.

They were both in bed by eleven, and Rita was asleep almost immediately. Priscilla lay quite still in the other bed, hands behind her head, looking out into the still, white night. An indefinable fragrance drifted in on the soft night air. Today had actually been hot, in the eighties.

Should she accept the offer from Alvarez? She thought of Dick Devereaux, he had been so nice. She was feeling a little drowsy now, thinking sleep wasn't far away, when suddenly her mind was jerked back to wide-awake-ness. Had a light flashed from an upstairs window in Lookout House? There it was again! Could it be a reflection? But reflection from what? There were no lights in the neighborhood, no cars passing. She got up and went to the window, and it appeared for the third time—like a signal. It was gone almost immediately. She thought of what Mr. Todd had said about people seeing lights flash there in the night. The house was locked. Who or what was inside? What did the flashes mean? What about the secret passage? She watched a little longer, but the light did not appear again. Should she tell Rita? Rita probably would say she was half asleep and dreaming. She would watch tomorrow night and if the light appeared, then she would awaken Rita and let her see for herself. And tomorrow she would start looking for an opening for that secret passage.

Rockin' Music Tears 'Em Up

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A delegate to the National Piano Tuners Convention says he had seldom seen a bass string on a piano broken until the advent of rock 'n roll music.

O. J. Dodd of New Orleans, related: "I went into a place to tune a piano and it was broken — the bass string — and it's a real thick cord."

"I asked how it was broken and this fellow said it was rock 'n roll music."

Dodd held his hand over his head and dropped it like a hammer.

"That must have been how the piano player hit the keys. He must have hit them like a hammer to break the bass string."

U. G. Jeffers of Charleston, W. Va., vice president of the National Piano Tuners Assn., interrupted.

"I'm an advocate of the master's work," he said. "Rock and roll has a fixed place in society and now because they're some-

Consider Traits One At The Time

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Personality traits should be rated one at a time, and over a period of time, not all at once.

A Michigan State University psychologist, Dr. Donald M. Johnson, says a person may appear to be a mental genius, and you, impressed by this trait, may overlook how he measures up to such things as kindness, courage, usefulness and personal appearance.

Dr. Johnson calls this partial impression the "halo effect" and says it can be reduced by rating traits one at a time and over a period of time.

Texas had about 10 million visitors in 1955.

Excellent TV Dramas With Moral Themes

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—There have recently been some excellent television dramas with basic themes of individual or social morality.

There seldom can be any doubt as to the outcome in such dramas. Right almost invariably triumphs. The problem of the dramatist is how to make it triumph convincingly. The more courageously he and the producers tackle the problem, the more convincing is the triumph.

An outstanding drama came to the home screen last week when the Kaiser Aluminum Hour presented "The Army Game" by Maya Simon and Loring Mandel. If future Worthington C. Miner productions in this series are as good as this first directed by Franklin Schaffner, one would be well advised to tune to NBC-TV every other Tuesday evening (at 9:30 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time).

"The Army Game" concerned a handsome college athlete, strongly dominated by his mother, who connived with her to fake his way out of the army with a Section 8 discharge.

His deterioration of character was delineated realistically, dramatically and ruthlessly. The Army, so often slandered or pettified, was presented just about as it actually is: Tough, but in general fair.

The creators of Danny, the young man who wanted out on any terms, did not dismiss him as simply a coward. They revealed him to be genuinely sick, thereby arousing pity for him. He got his psycho discharge — but when he did, he did not want it. The drama raised many profound questions as to the nature of cowardice and courage, of mental illness and health. In doing so, it did not try to answer all of them. And in that fact lay its strength.

On the same day, by coincidence, the NBC "Matinee Theatre" presented a first rate dramatization of Dorothy Canfield Fisher's "Seasoned Timber" adapted by Elihu Winer.

It was a superbly acted account of the dilemma facing a Vermont town when a wealthy bigot left its "Academy" a million dollars with the provision that only white, Protestant, American-born students could attend it.

"Right" and "wrong" were drawn in white and black. In the end "right" triumphed, but Winer managed to sustain suspense. The moral issues raised were well worth attention and raised the stature of the drama well above the routine level.

Boredom Drives Rats To Rebellion

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A Michigan State University psychologist has concluded that, even as you and I, rats rebel against boredom.

In a study of basic learning processes, Dr. M. Ray Denny, associate professor of psychology, placed food in two arms of a T-shaped runway. It fed more often in one arm of the runway, the rats high-tailed it to the other runway, although the food was the same in both places.

'Press Conference' Is Big TV Success

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP) — When Martha Rountree thought up the idea for "Press Conference," she said she was going to make news. She certainly has.

Just who will be her guest on her weekly NBC-TV program this evening (Wednesday, 8 p.m., eastern daylight time) is unknown at this writing. Presumably Miss Rountree knows, but she's not telling. She seeks the element of surprise. Certainly she'll have to go some to top last week's program.

Last week Miss Rountree brought before the cameras the Attorney General of the United States, Herbert Brownell, who announced that the government would file an anti-trust suit against General Motors, the world's largest manufacturing concern.

To every newsman in the country, as well as to the 16 assembled by Miss Rountree to question Brownell, this was front page news.

Well, "Press Conference" made the front pages all right. But it's doubtful if Miss Rountree expected to make the editorial pages. She did, however. Editorials declared emphatically, that a commercially sponsored TV show is not the place to break important government news.

It's doubtful whether any newspaper-trained viewer is competent to judge whether a press conference provides stimulating interest to the majority of viewers.

It's probable that a majority of "Press Conference" viewers last week failed to realize the importance or implications of what they'd heard until they read the news in their papers. The wave of reporters' questions fired at Brownell engulfed the one piece of hard news dropped.

Possibly the public finds great drama in a group of reporters questioning a national leader. But a press conference can become monotonous. Reporters can bring only so much verve and interest to it. From there on it's up to the individual being questioned. If he continually sidesteps or declines comment it can turn out to be very dull indeed.

In television the best actor may appear to be the best reporter. An interesting fact about "Press Conference" is that it's taking quite a few working reporters to cover the activities of all those acting reporters on the TV screen.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails and chemicals gained but other industrial shares slackened today with the net result of a slightly higher stock market on average early this afternoon.

The gains generally ran from fractions to around 2 points in moderate active trading. There was a scattering of losers, too.

Steels were mixed after leading yesterday's late upturn following definite word that President Eisenhower would seek re-election. Motors backed away following their advance of yesterday. Utilities were mixed.

Among the chemicals, du Pont, American Cyanamid and Allied moved upward around a point. Dow and Union Carbide were fractional gainers.

Union Pacific was up around 2 points and Southern Pacific advanced around a point.

Illinois Central and some other roads edged ahead.

Plus and minus signs in small fractions dotted the steel division. The motors were off in fractions. Caterpillar, which scampared ahead 7/8 yesterday, went through some profit - taking today as it dropped around 2.

Boeing's loss of 1/2 yesterday was stretched to around 1 point today. Douglas and United Aircraft were fairly steady.

EAGLE SCOUT—David Cobb, 13, was presented the Eagle Scout award Sunday at the morning worship service at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Young Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobb of 206 Pitt Street, received the highest award in scouting from Wyatt Brown, Institutional representative, and Bill Drum, scoutmaster. The silver Eagle badge was presented by his mother. The youth has been a scout for two years. He is a member of Troop 30, sponsored by Jarvis Church. He also serves as den chief for a Cub Scout group.

St. James To Celebrate Fourth Birthday Friday

St. James Methodist Church will celebrate its fourth birthday Friday. The birthday party will take the form of a family-style picnic at Elm Street Park at 6:30. "Everybody is invited to bring a covered-dish," Mrs. E.W. Larkin, Jr., president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service explained. The commemorative event will replace the annual Sunday School picnic.

The Rev. J. Malloy Owen, Minister, pointing to the first unit of the church building plant valued at $150,000, stated that the membership of the Church now stands at approximately 400 persons. "Since we are the only major denomination in the eastern third of Greenville, we have an immense responsibility in the community in which we are located" he declared.

The date July 13 is taken as a definite date of the birth of the church since the roll book shows the first members were officially received on that date in 1952 by the first pastor, the Rev. E. L. Earnhardt, now of Washington. The congregation met in Third Street School during most of the first three years, and moved on February 27, 1955, into its own new building on Forest Circle at 200 Sixth Street.

Civic League Hears Minister

"America is too dependent on economic security and that Scripture states that man shall not live by bread alone," were the opening remarks of Rev. Alexander Mosley in his address to the Greenville Civic League last night. He said that when men stepped out without fear great empires were built; but whenever one is too cautious he ceases to live.

The speaker contended that God wants men who will put their lives at stake for the sake of righteousness, and in this connection the minister said that if democracy is to win over communism the American citizen must stake all that he or she has on God and Christianity.

Concluding, the religious leader said that any nation willing to compromise for less than righteousness, justice and freedom is less than a Christian nation. Rev. O.J. Rooks presented the speaker.

Rev. Mr. Mosley of Washington, N.C., is pastor of St. John Baptist Church in New Bern and Union Baptist Church, Tarboro. He is a graduate of State Teachers College Elizabeth City, and of Shaw University.

The following committees reported during the business session of the league:

The Revision Committee headed by Attorney Richard Powell reported on the constitution changes. Through a resolution the name of the Colored Civic League was changed to the Greenville Civic League.

There was also a proviso whereby any person residing in Pitt County may become a member of the Greenville Civic League or Pitt County Civic League.

Last night's meeting was held at York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church.

Report of the Nominating Committee headed by J.H. Donaldson was tabled because it conflicted with the revised constitution and by-laws.

The treasurer, Mrs. Madeline Bradley made her report, and in the absence of the secretary, I.A. Artis, George Jackson served as secretary.

President D.D. Garrett appointed a Membership Committee headed by G.L. Jenkins. Other members of the committee are Richard Leary of Galloway's Crossroad Chester Stocks, Grifton, and Mrs. Ann Ward of Meadowbrook.

Honors List Announced For ECC Spring Quarter

Three lists of students at East Carolina College whose records in academic work during the spring quarter are above average have just been announced.

Thirty-two students made the grade of 1 on each subject taken, the highest mark given at the college. The Dean's List and the Honor Roll include the names of students who did scholastic work considered worthy of special recognition and commendation.

The Dean's List, issued by Vice President and Dean of Instruction Leo W. Jenkins of the college, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two and one half quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. These students did superior academic work.

The Honor Roll, prepared by Registrar Orval L. Phillips and his staff, is composed of undergraduates who made at least two quality points per credit hour on all work taken, with no grade below three. The work completed by these students is well above average.

Pitt County is represented on the honors list as follows:

Highway Group Re-Elects Bass

C. D. Bass was re-elected chairman of Unit Two of the N.C. State Highway Employees' Association at the annual meeting Friday evening.

Also re-elected for the coming year were C. W. Snell, Jr., vice chairman; and E. D. Credle, secretary-treasurer.

The organization includes Pitt, Beaufort, Pamlico, Craven, Carteret, Jones, Lenoir and Greene counties.

Named as delegates to the state convention in Asheville in October were G. A. Taylor, Jr. of Pitt, C. L. Haislip of Beaufort, J. L. Humphrey of Carteret, A. D. Parker of Craven, Sybil Smith of Craven, Alex Wise and John Hinant of Greene.

Special guest for the dinner meeting was Otis Banks, state executive secretary, who gave a talk on what the group might expect from the General Assembly's special session as well as the regular meeting in January.

In the contest to elect candidates for the Miss and Mrs. "Highway Association of 1955" titles, Miss Jean Monet of Lenoir-Jones chapter won over Miss Priscilla Weeks of Pitt and Miss Marjorie Godwin of Craven, while Mrs. David Joyner of Kinston won over Mrs. Inez Wilson of Pitt and Mrs. Sibyl Smith of Craven. They will represent Unit Two at the state meeting in Asheville.

Miss Ellen Bender of Pollocksville, last year's Unit Two contestant, who won the title of "Miss Highway Association of 1955" was guest for the evening.
