Daughter Models Returned Rings

Lady Gets Rings Back After Loss Of Month

Mrs. Rogers has her rings back, all $3,525 worth. They were returned June 21 by a Negro youth who collected a $100 reward offered by the company which insured the jewels.

Mrs. Rogers, of 805 Johnston Street and wife of local tobaccoist R. E. Rogers, reported the rings missing last March 28. She told police she missed her coin purse containing the rings about 9:30 a.m. and she believed it to have been lost either in or near the Colonial Store supermarket on Dickinson Avenue.

The purse also contained $47 in cash and some change, which were not recovered.

Jesse Daniels, 22-year-old employee of the Coca Cola Bottling Company here, told Mrs. Rogers when he returned the rings in a penny match box that he had obtained them from a 14-year-old friend of his who had found them in the vicinity of the supermarket.

According to Mrs. Rogers, Daniels told her the teen ager had spent the money and buried the rings.

Daniels said the youngster didn't know who the jewels belonged to, "and I told him I had read about it in the paper. He told me if I'd deliver the rings we'd split the reward."

Mrs. Rogers said Daniels was paid $100 by the insurance company, which also had investigators working on the case. The rings were described as a three-and-a-half carat diamond ring of white gold valued at $1,200; a one-and-a-quarter carat diamond ring of platinum valued at $750; a platinum wedding ring with 10 small diamonds valued at $100; a ring with one large diamond in the center and four to six smaller diamonds around it valued at $350; a princess ring of yellow gold with 21 diamonds valued at $500 and a dinner ring of white gold with seven diamonds valued at $125.

Mrs. Rogers declared that as far as she is concerned "the case is closed. All I wanted was the rings; I thought I'd never see them again."

James E. Manning, 51, Route 1, Greenville, was involved in an accident with G. E. Greene, 28, Rock Springs Road, yesterday morning in front of Bilbro Wholesale Co.

Watch It, Boys, It's That Day: Friday The 13th

Some people believe the Friday the 13th jinx began at the time of the crucifixion, which took place on a Friday after Christ met with his 12 disciples. There were 13 in the room.

Surely that was a black day in history, but what has Friday 13th, 1956, got to do with it? Nothing, unless you try to make something out of it.

According to a Rutgers University sociologist, "if you are convinced that Friday the 13th will be an unlucky day, then watch out. You may 'tighten up' so much you'll be dangerous to yourself."

"The evil attributed to some magical beliefs and practices actually may be brought about by persons who believe in them," he says. "Think of unlucky days, magic numbers, black cats, umbrellas opened indoors, knocking on wood, and the like, and you cannot escape the impression that modern society is not so far removed from beliefs in other than natural causes. The business about Friday the 13th is, of course, bosh."

"But what we cannot overlook is the fact that lots of people believe in and act on that bosh," he said. "To people who are superstitious, this is a serious matter. So serious that they tend to be worrisome, tighten up and actually may be dangerous to themselves."

For those who keep up with the political league standings, there's this bit of information offered by Lonnie Johnson, a Memphis broom salesman, who says that Eisenhower will be re-elected. Here's how he does it: "When three Fridays the 13th come in the same year as a presidential election," says Johnson, "that's significant. It has happened just six times before in history and it has produced a pattern. In the triple Friday the 13th years of 1792, 1804, and 1832 the voters re-elected, respectively, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, and Andrew Jackson."

"In the second cycle of the pattern, new presidents were elected: Abraham Lincoln in 1860; Benjamin Harrison in 1888; Herbert Hoover in 1928."

"So the pattern is clear—everything goes in threes when there are three Fridays the 13th during an election year. The first three times it happened, the occupant of the White House was re-elected. The second three times, a new president was named."

"Obviously, then, the next three will result in re-elections. So it's perfectly clear that Ike will be in again."

Of course, some people may think this to be sound superstitious reasoning, but more people, let us hope, do not. In Denver at least three people consider Friday the 13th lucky and one person considers it to be unlucky. The three, Betty Lou, Joanne, and Karen are the daughters of Lawrence Kaiser, and their birthdays fall on Friday the 13th. The first two have birthdays this month, and little Karen has one in November. Daddy Kaiser, of course, will have to foot the bills. Some may consider this unfortunate, but suppose their birthdays had fallen on another day of the year? He'd still have to foot the bill. Friday the 13th or not, he still can't win.

Gov. Goes West For Final Meeting

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Governor Hodges and his team of advisors on segregation matters headed west today for a final conference with state legislators.

The third in the series of closed-door sessions was held yesterday at a country lodge near here owned by Rep. Cloyd Philpott of Davidson County. It was attended by some 50 Piedmont lawmakers who will sit in a special General Assembly session starting July 23. Senators and representatives from mountain counties will gather tonight at the Waynesville home of A. L. Freeland, Dayton Rubber Co. president, for the final meeting.

Prepared bills being discussed at the closed meetings will be aired publicly tomorrow at news conferences in Raleigh and Asheville.

Gov. Hodges will be present at the Raleigh conference for news media of the state. Thomas Pearsall, chairman of the advisory committee which recommended the steps to meet the school segregation problem, will explain the measures at the Asheville session. The latter is being held in connection with a meeting of the North Carolina Press Assn.

Two amendments to the State Constitution are at the heart of action proposed by the advisory committee. One would allow the state to pay tuition costs in private schools for children whose parents object to integrated public schooling. The other would permit local units to vote on closing public schools when faced with "intolerable" situations.

Legislation being prepared for action by the special session would set an election in September to submit to voters the constitutional changes.

In all, eight bills have been prepared for submission to the special session.

Gov. Hodges, Pearsall, and Atty. Gen. W. B. Rodman Jr. explained the bills at yesterday's Lexington conference. Legislators were told the bills will have the effect of returning more school control to local authorities. In other Southern states, it was pointed out, authority has been centered in state hands as an effort to meet the segregation problem.

They also were assured that legislation for private school tuition grants will have "teeth" to guard against abuses. Obtaining a grant illegally would be made a felony, punishable by either a five-year prison sentence, a $5,000 fine, or political huddle with Eisenhower, both.

Council Adopts Budget Calling For $700,085

By ALVIN TAYLOR Reflector City Editor A tentative budget of $700,085 was adopted by city councilmen last night for the 1956-57 fiscal year. The budget, a record breaker for Greenville, will be met without any increase in the city's $1.32 per-hundred-dollar evaluation tax rate. Councilmen adopted the proposed budget without any changes in the amounts recommended by City Manager Leonard Bloxam. Included in the tentative budget are funds for one additional fireman and three additional policemen, City Manager Leonard Bloxam said this morning. There are also funds for the purchase of more garbage collection equipment and replacement automotive equipment for the police department.

Also included are funds for the city's share of the Mid-East Airport Authority. The big city budget includes $147,529 for administrative and general government. Of that amount $5,300 goes for mayor and city council, $8,560 for city manager, $66,484 for general expenses, $4,000 for engineering, $52,467 special appropriations, and $10,718 contingency.

An appropriation of $22,528 is in the tentative budget for the clerk and treasurer's office. For law and judicial there is an appropriation of $10,905. The Police Department's appropriation comes to $137,405 and the Fire Department's is $72,180.

The Department of Public Works appropriation for the coming year is $209,672. It is broken down as follows: administrative, $19,235; streets, $55,200; sanitation, $60,630; cemeteries and parks, $14,167; street cleaning, $9,640; gasoline and oil, $10,800; capital outlay, $40,000.

Recreation would receive $37,860 under the tentative budget and for health, $16,890 would be appropriated.

Some $45,016 must go to debt service—$43,936 to general dept and $1,080 to school debt.

Revenue On the revenue side the city has $2,528 in the 1956-57 city debt service, $34,396 in the general fund and $8,300 payable in the Powell Bill funds.

Current taxes are expected to yield $301,764 during the year. Other sources of revenue: prior years taxes and penalties, $10,000; poll taxes, $2,500; intangibles tax, $15,000; beer tax, $15,000; Pitt ABC Board, $9,000; privilege licenses $23,000; court costs, $15,000; parking meters, $23,000.

Building permits, $200; rents, $1,620; N. C. Franchise Tax $2,000; Pitt Fingerprint Service, $444; cemetery lots, $11,000; Utilities Commission, $142,500; Powell Bill funds, $62,000; paving fund, $5,833; miscellaneous, $7,000; cemetery fund, $8,000.

The amount totals $700,085.

Owners Protest Zoning Change

City fathers faced a roar of protests from residents of Colonial Heights, Woodcrest and other nearby areas last night at a public hearing concerning the rezoning of several Tenth St. lots as commercial property. The matter was finally deferred for a month after attorneys for the two factions agreed to negotiate.

Floyd McGowan, owner of the lots, asked that his property be re-zoned. He was represented at the hearing by Judge Albion Dunn.

McGowan has said that he was told the lots were not included when the E. Tenth St. area was zoned.

The matter was sent to the council by the Zoning Commission.

Sixteen property owners appeared before the city fathers last night to protest the re-zoning of the McGowan lots which border Tenth St. they were represented by Attorney M. E. Cavandish.

The public hearing was one of six held by the councilmen last night.

The city fathers deferred action on a request for the re-zoning of a lot on the southeast corner of Third and Jarvis Sts. The lot is presently zoned residential.

Other public hearing matters had smooth sailing.

City fathers approved the annexation of a portion of Bancroft Ave., the annexation of Hillsdale subdivision Addition No. 1, the zoning of the Silo Grill property as commercial, and the zoning of Drexelbrook sub-division as residential.

No Action On New Law To Close On Sundays

Councilmen took no action on a proposed new ordinance covering the closing of local businesses on Sunday at last night's monthly meeting.

Nor did the city fathers offer any encouragement to representatives of local service stations who appeared before the council to request that all service stations be required to close on Sunday.

The service station representatives came before the council originally last month. During the month city officials checked existing Sunday closing laws and a new proposed ordinance was prepared to replace old ordinances concerning the matter.

Under present laws service stations cannot legally be required to close on Sunday.

Under the new ordinance proposed by City Manager Leonard Bloxam last night stores which sell newspapers, periodicals, tobacco, petroleum and petroleum products would be exempted from the Sunday closing law. Other businesses which would have been exempted would include drug stores, hotels, boarding houses, cafes, cafeterias, restaurants, and bakeries. Those businesses would have had to close during designated church hours, however.

The new proposed ordinance died for lack of a motion among the city fathers and thus old laws which require closing of service stations along with various other business remain on the books.

There apparently will be no effort on the part of the city to enforce the Sunday law among service stations however. Councilmen gave no such instructions to the Police Department last night. Jimmy Wells, one of the service station operators who appeared before the council was informed that he or any other individual could swear out warrants against service station operators who remain open on Sunday in violation of the law.

Thus the matter was left after a last minute motion by Councilman A. C. Fuffin, seconded by Mayor W. L. Whedbee, that the ordinance be studied further.

The motion failed to carry.

LINES SALE Councilmen also approved the advertisement for public sale of Greenville Utilities electric lines in Craven and Beaufort Counties. That was in line with action taken by the Utilities Commission some time ago.

Also in line with Utilities Commission action the councilmen approved an ordinance regulating use of the city's sanitary system for disposal of water obtained from other than city sources.

City fathers approved the awarding of the contract for the 1957 city license tags to the same company which furnished the plates this year. There will be some minor changes in the tags for

Watch It Grow!

Watch Colonial Heights-Woodcrest grow! A resident of the area appeared before the City Council last night to protest the rezoning of several lots in that section as commercial. He cited the safety of children as a reason.

"We're young people out there," he said. "We've got a lot of children."

Then he added: "... and we're going to have a lot more."

Home Burns In Early Morning

Fire gutted a frame house on Legion St. just outside the city limits in North Greenville during the early morning hours today.

The dwelling was occupied by Willie Ray Worsley, Negro, a North Side Lumber Co. employee. It was owned by Ernest Griffin, also Negro.

Worsley, who lived in the house with his wife and two children, said his wife and children were away last night and he was sleeping in the dwelling along.

He was awakened by smoke shortly after 3 o'clock. Worsley said, and he ran from the burning structure.

The occupant said that the blaze was burning in the rear of the house when he got outside.

Greenville firemen were called to the scene but the dwelling was burning fiercely when they arrived.

Firemen confined their efforts to saving nearby houses which were threatened by heat and sparks from the blazing dwelling.

Worsley said he was unable to save any of his household belongings. His loss was uninsured, he stated.

Griffin said the house, itself, was insured.

HOUSE BURNED—This dwelling was destroyed by fire between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning. The house was occupied by Willie Ray Worsley and owned by Ernest Griffin. The entire structure was ablaze when Greenville firemen arrived at the North Greenville house. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor)

State Bank Names President

John T. Marston, Jr. has been elected president of the State Bank and Trust Company of Greenville to succeed B. B. Sugg, Sr., who has been president of the bank since its organization 25 years ago this month.

The announcement of Marston's election was made today by the board of directors of the bank. Marston will assume his duties as president of the bank effective July 25.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the bank last January, President Sugg announced that he wished to be relieved of the duties of the presidency when he had completed 25 years of service in that office. At that time the board of directors expressed its deep appreciation of Sugg for his "untiring efforts on behalf of the bank" and ordered a resolution of thanks spread upon the records of the bank.

Sugg became president of the State Bank and Trust Company when the bank was organized and opened for business on July 25, 1931. He has served as president since that time. After his resignation as president becomes effective July 25, he will continue to serve on the board of directors of the bank. Marston, formerly a vice president of the First and Merchants National Bank of Richmond, and Trust Company of Greenville, also when he was named executive vice president of the local financial institution.

Nothing New Is Reported In Weinberger Kidnaping

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Today is the ninth day since 5-week-old Peter Weinberger was kidnapped.

Basically, there is nothing new in the situation. The heart-rending personal tragedy of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger continues.

Each time the telephone rings in their home they hope against hope that this is the news of their real kidnaping, with news of their baby and how they can get him back.

With deadly frequency, however, it is some misguided crackpot or sadistic joker who pretends he knows where the child is and cruelly raises the Weinbergers' hopes.

Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell, who has been in charge of the case from the start, yesterday disclosed that the ransom note was signed "Your Baby Sitter."

The Weinbergers have never employed a baby sitter, although they have at times hired nurses. Pinnell also disclosed none of the dozens of callers so far has used the "Your Baby Sitter" tag to identify himself as the kidnaper.

However, it was pointed out that other parts of the note, not yet disclosed, could be used as a positive means of identifying the kidnaper.

Last Friday Weinberger received two calls from a man he was convinced was the kidnaper. There has been no contact since. The Friday caller did not use "Your Baby Sitter" as a code, Pinnell said.

The FBI has been in the case officially for two days. Its operatives have maintained their traditional silence about their activities.

Pinnell declared his office would give out no more information about the progress of the case.

It was indicated there would be a crackdown on crank callers. The baby was snatched on the Fourth of July from a carriage on a rear patio of the Weinberger home, while Mrs. Weinberger, 33, was in the house for a few minutes.

Club Hears Speaker On Ground Observers

M-Sgt. L. S. Scott, United States Air Defense Command, spoke to the Business and Professional Women's Club last evening on the importance of the local post of the Ground Observer Corps. He is pictured above at left with Miss Elizabeth Deal, club president, Jake Hadley, supervisor of local Ground Observer Corps, and Miss Camille Clarke, program chairman for the club. (Reflector Photo by Annette Jackson).

M-Sgt. L. S. Scott, U. S. Air Defense Command, Washington, addressed the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club last night on the importance of the local post of the Ground Observer Corps.

He stated "we must think of the future and realize that while this defense program does not ordinarily make headlines, it observes peace and protects others as well as those who actively participate in its support."

"Participating in the Ground Observer Corps is as important in observing peace as the manufacture and operation of planes," he continued. "Our protection is based on all elements of America working together effectively." There is a real and urgent need, he pointed out, for citizens to help, assist, support and gain volunteers to keep the posts operating.

M-Sgt. Scott was introduced to the club by Jake Hadley, supervisor of the Greenville Ground Observer Corps post. He commended the B.P.W. Club because more than 50% of its membership has served as volunteer observers.

Eight members were given recognition for having served ten or more hours at the local post. They are Miss Elizabeth Deal, Miss Camille Clarke, Miss Julia Fisher, Miss Bert Sutton, Dr. Mildred Southwick, Miss Gladys Stokes, Mrs. Clem Garner and Mrs. Virginia Spencer.

Hostesses for the evening, according to President Deal, were Mrs. J. H. Letchworth, Mrs. Lottie Barnhill and Miss Polly Dall.

Miss Strickland Becomes Bride

Miss Ramona Strickland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Strickland of Wilson and Raymond Earl Luce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Luce of Clearwater, Fla., were married Saturday night at 8 o'clock in the Wilson Salvation Army Church. Captain Willard S. Evans officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Lorraine Evans of Wilson, organist, played a prelude of wedding music, which included "In a Love Call," "Always" and "O Promise Me." Miss Pat Traugher of Greensboro sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Seal Us Lord." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Church Decorations
The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli, carnations and snapdragons, interspersed with palms and ferns, and was lighted by white cathedral candles in seven-branch candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of white lace, taffeta and tulle, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her tiara and fingertip veil were of nylon tulle trimmed with seeded pearls, and her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with ribbon streamers.

Ushers
Ushers were W. C. Smith, brother-in-law of the bride, of Greenville, and Ralph Privette, uncle of the bride, of Gastonia.

For the wedding of her daughter, Mrs. Strickland wore a dress of navy blue lace with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Luce, the bridegroom's mother, was wearing a blue silk faille dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the wedding, the bridal couple was entertained by Mrs. A. F. Collier and Mrs. T. L. Kennedy, aunts of the bride in the home of Mrs. Collier. As they arrived, the guests' names were entered in the bride's book by Mrs. William C. Coker, sister of the bridegroom, of Norfolk, Va.

In the dining room, the table was overlaid with a white lace cloth. On one end was an arrangement of gladioli, carnations and snapdragons, and the other end was marked with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Those Serving
Mrs. W. C. Smith, sister of the bride, of Greenville, cut the wedding cake, and Mrs. O. M. Meeks, Clearwater, Fla., presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Ralph Privette, aunt of the bride, of Gastonia, assisted in serving.

For traveling, the bride wore a charcoal grey two piece linen dress with white lace accessories. Completing her ensemble was the white orchid from her prayer book.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, Mr. and Mrs. Luce will make their home in Lubbock, Tex., where Mr. Luce is with the United States Air Force Band. They will be at home there after July 15.

Education
The bride is a graduate of Charles L. Coon High School and the Salvation Army Training College, Atlanta, Ga. For the last two years she has been stationed in Atlanta, Ga., Greenwood, S.C. and Savannah, Ga. The bridegroom is a graduate of Clearwater High School, Clearwater, Fla., and the Salvation Army Training College, Atlanta, Ga. For the last two years he has been stationed in Aiken, S. C., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Sanford, Fla.

Following the wedding rehearsal Saturday morning, the parents of the bride entertained at a luncheon at 1 o'clock, honoring the bridal couple-elect and out-of-town guests.

Safety Valve, The Lesser Risk

The rising tide of opposition to proposals of the governor's Advisory Commission on Education are destined to make waters choppy when the special session opens; but it by no means looks like the proposals will have rough sailing.

Within the past several days there has been much more criticism of the proposals for local option and state tuition grants for schools than has been heard in the months since the advisory group made public its recommendations. A few legislators have spoken out against the proposals and the series of briefings which have been held for lawmakers.

The North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers have voiced their opposition to making possible the closing of public schools in the state. That organization has expressed the fear that considerations at the special session this month "could very well tear down and undo all that Gov. Aycock did for the schools of North Carolina . . ."

On another front the state chapter of the American Association of University Women voiced opposition to the local option plan whereby individual school districts could close their schools if voters approved such last-ditch action in a referendum.

Saturday, when detailed plans for legislation to cope with North Carolina's problem of public schools and desegregation, are spelled out to the public, opposition to the measures will take one of two courses. Either it will swell, or it will diminish. Even so, it will take a tremendous change in public sentiment throughout the state to prevent passage of the measures which Gov. Hodges will ask the General Assembly to enact in its special session.

Most of the state's legislators already have been briefed on plans for legislation. They have been given an opportunity to study in detail the proposals, consider them and ask questions. Surveys of legislators throughout the state indicate an overwhelming number of those who will make the decision in Raleigh later this month are in accord with the proposals.

It must be remembered that the governor's advisory commission devoted months to the study of the question and to finding a workable solution which would assure preservation of the state's public school system. As Chairman Pearsall has reiterated time and again since his committee's report was made public, the committee seeks through its recommendations to provide a "safety valve" which will prevent destruction of the school system.

If the proposed safety valve is provided through a local option plan and tuition grants, it is not outside the realm of possibility that the device may be used in some isolated instances to close a few individual schools of the state. Yet, without a safety valve such as has been proposed, it is not outside the realm of possibility that the entire public school system of the state might be cast upon the rocks in one fell swoop.

There are few indeed in North Carolina who want to see the public school system destroyed. There are great multitudes of citizens in the state who, realizing that public schools are essential to the well being of North Carolina, will exert every measure to see them preserved. The Reflector is confident that with the adoption of the proposed safety valve measures, the state's public school system will be preserved.

Dix Hill Is Oldest Of State Hospitals

By LYNN NISBET

DIX HILL — Oldest of the State hospitals for treatment of mental diseases was established more than 100 years ago in the southwest section of Raleigh. Officially designated State Hospital at Raleigh, it is more commonly known as "Dix Hill," in honor of Dorothea Dix, a New England crusader of the middle 19th century, who spurred the North Carolina Legislature to do something for the mentally ill.

The institution owns 2,185 acres of land, including Lake Raleigh (a reservoir for the city's water supply), of which about 1,100 acres are in crops and pasture. The budget book valuation of the entire property is slightly above $18 million, but reasonable appraisal fixes actual value in excess of $31 million. The current operating budget appropriation is $3,307,74 for about 2700 patients.

Dix Hill got $10,262,159 from the legislative appropriations of 1947 and 1948 and the issue of 1953 for permanent improvements. Requests filed with the advisory budget commission on occasion of its biennial visit for additional improvements amounted to $3,463,662, of which about $2.5 million is rated "A priority," meaning it is needed now. The other million fits into the five-year program.

The money is needed for the following purposes: Patients' housing (additional hospital beds) $1,786,056; personnel housing (homes and apartments for staff members and employees) $645,000; service and utilities $922,628; farm facilities $31,976.

If the requested improvements are authorized by the General Assembly the institution can care for some 3,200 patients. Inasmuch as this is one of five units in the State hospital system, some of the budget folks questioned the amounts suggested. Hospital spokesmen offered evidence in support of their requests.

PROGRESS — The battle against mental disease has not been won, but the discovery of new drugs, adoption of modern methods of treatment, and facilities provided during the past ten years, have enabled the mental hospitals to make a great deal of progress.

Records show that during the calendar year of 1955 the Dix Hill unit admitted in the mental section alone 439 persons under 60 years of age and 108 over 60. It released, not all "cured" but all able to go back home, 314 under 60, or 71.43 per cent of admission. In the group over 60 releases were 50, or 46.34 per cent of admissions. Of course, few of those released were the same as those admitted, but the record proves that the institution is operating as a hospital rather than as an asylum for the custodial care of the hopeless. It also emphasizes the increasing problems incident to care of the aged.

Dr. W. A. Sikes, resident superintendent, supported by Dr.

J. W. Murdoch, general superintendent of the system, said many of the older people are finding haven in nursing homes throughout the state. That relieves the hospitals of purely custodial cases, and also relieves the State of the full expense, because in nursing home the Federal and county governments share in the cost—in cases where the families cannot pay the bill.

Dix Hill differs from Butler and Morganton units and epileptics are sent here. Also all inebriates—alcoholics and drug addicts—except volunteers for the special treatment course at Butler. There is a waiting list of epileptics, but there are fewer alcoholics than any time in 20 years, Dr. Sikes said. Drugs which are not toxic when taken alone but become deadly poison when mixed with alcohol enable the hospital to discharge alcoholic patients earlier. Follow-up with family physicians, both in mental and alcoholic cases, prevents necessity for readmission.

DRUGS — Drugs have been developed within the past few years which have the effect of calming mentally disturbed patients and making them less combative. Many families are entirely willing to accept responsibility for relatives with delusions and illusions, said Dr. Sikes, so long as they remain docile.

The thorough classification permitted by the admissions hospitals and the follow-up with family doctors back home when patients are released, leads authorities to believe the turnover will be rapid enough that, despite increasing demands for readmissions, the planned facilities will enable the hospitals to keep abreast of the needs.

PERQUISITES — The request for personnel housing was seriously questioned. The trend in industry has been away from the feudal system of housing employees, and toward the idea of home ownership. Hospital records show that employees housed on the premises stay on the job longer and do better work, reducing turnover and increasing efficiency. That is 100 per cent true of those employees who are subject to call at all hours, and about 65 per cent true of others.

The budget folks reluctantly admitted the force of this evidence, but insisted that more accurate adjustment should be made in salary scales for those furnished homes and other perquisites as contrasted with employees who received no benefits other than pay checks. It was reported that the budget department are working on these problems now. Hope was expressed that a more equitable basis might be established.

The desired goal is to pay all employees for what they do, what they get in housing, laundry, meals, etc. That goal seems still a good piece off.

Another War Story From Red

(Editor's note: The following tale has been carefully checked to verify details. Despite the findings, it has been released and cleared as genuine War Story, first class.)

During army days when I visited Japan, a friend of mine, Stanley Larson of Seattle, and I visited the relatives of a Japanese friend of Larson's.

The Kawaminamis, as the family was called, were one of the top industrial families of Japan. Mr. Kawaminami owned two ship building yards and a steel mill in addition to other industrial holdings. He had also owned a shipbuilding yard in North Korea before the Communist took over.

Anyway, the Kawaminamis went all-out to make Larson and myself feel at home. They invited us to supper, took up to the emperor's palace in Tokyo and showed us dozens of other places.

They did everything possible to make our stay a pleasure. And to a couple of soldiers far away from home their efforts were highly appreciated.

One day Mr. Kawaminami was showing us the city when we came to a park. The interior of the park was beautiful and right in the center was a big, lovely lake.

Near a pier leading into the lake sat an old woman selling selling wooden trays filled with some type of Japanese delicacy.

Mr. Kawaminami bought two trays and handed one to Larson. "What is it?" Larson asked.

"It looks like black walnut meats," I replied.

Larson popped one in his mouth and quickly grimaced as he spat it out.

As he did I looked up to see Mr. Kawaminami who had walked out on a pier, calmly tossing the contents of his tray into the water.

As we found out, the lake was filled with tropical fish and the trays were filled with bits of dried fish which were sold to spectators to feed to the tropical fish!

Growth Of Business Continues

By ELMER ROESSNER

At this very moment there are probably more businesses operating in the United States than ever before.

There were 4,282,000 firms in operation at the start of the year, a new high, according to a Department of Commerce study. The growth trend seems to have been continuing and it is a sound assumption that the number of firms is now at a new high.

The business population has fluctuated greatly. When men and materials were scarce during World War II, the number of firms dropped and by December, 1943, there were only 2,839,100 in operation. The total rose a little during the last days of the war and shot up with peace, with the greatest increase in 1948. The trend slowed up a bit, and in 1953 and 1954 there was almost no increase. It resumed last year, and the 1955 gain was only slightly under that of 1944.

MANY STARTS, QUITE A FEW STOPS

During 1955, some 374,000 new firms were established and about 311,000 discontinued, for a net gain of 63,000. Of those discontinued, only 10,969 were bankruptcies. Some of the others may have been ended at a loss. Retirement, death, mergers, fire, flood and other disasters were factors in other closures.

During the year, 321,000 going concerns were purchased by new owners. Except where this led to mergers, it did not affect the total number of businesses in operation.

The rise in the number of businesses is encouraging. The total generally increases with rises in population and spending power. Furthermore, new businesses make more business, since each requires plant, warehouse, sales space, fixtures, machinery and other equipment, and a large number of services. New firms increase employment.

FLAWS IN THE FIGURES However, rounded though they may be, Commerce figures may be a bit fuzzy around the edges, as the Department itself will probably concede. Some business stops and starts are probably missed by the Department. Often this may be just as well.

Take my friend Gideon Dilge, a carpenter. He has opportunities of, for he takes home repair contracts, which puts him in business. When he cannot land any he goes to work for a builder, which puts him out of business. If Commerce kept track of the stops and starts by all the Gideons Dilges, the number of new businesses and closures might each be 100,000 higher a year. While technically more accurate, such care would distort the true situation.

On the other hand, the Commerce figures probably lists things that aren't individual businesses at all. Consider these situations:

1. New York prohibits individuals from paying usurious rates of interest. So loan sharks have compelled desperate people to incorporate as businesses to borrow money at high rates.

2. After a discount house is enjoined from selling a branded product at cut prices, owners sometimes set up a new corporation and "sell" the old corporation's assets to it. This looks like one (1) new business and (1) closure, whereas it is only one (1) dodge to get out from under an injunction.

3. Real estate holding companies frequently incorporate each property to reduce liabilities and gain other advantages. Thus a single business may appear on records as 10 or 20, and every new purchase becomes a "new business."

4. Actors and other top-income professional people frequently set up corporations to handle their affairs, to reduce liabilities and to gain tax benefits, although these constitute no real new businesses.

5. Corporations sometimes create dozens of subsidiary corporations for management simplification and other purposes, but dividing one business into smaller parts does not necessarily create new businesses, although the records may show it does.

6. Speculators and others sometimes create corporations in not-always-legal efforts to convert income into capital gains for tax advantages.

He recently said that he did not plan to ask the sitting St. Louis Grand Jury, which indicated Matthew Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle to consider any new matter. But on the very next day, he notified Federal Judge Moore at St. Louis that he would decide soon on whether to continue the inquiry of alleged tax violators. Since the Grand Jury's term expires in a few weeks, if Brownell decides to go ahead, any new prosecution would coincide with the Presidential contest.

Brownell's timing of his anti-trust suit against General Motors sharpens the opposition's distrust. They think the action against Secretary Wilson's former firm is designed to refute charges that the Administration favors "Big Business."

'Freezing' Enrollment At ECC Is Unthinkable

Is it less important that we provide adequate facilities for affording youngsters of North Carolina a college education that it is that we provide adequate facilities for their grammar school and high school training?

Most North Carolinians realize the necessity of providing more classroom space in public schools of the state. The number of school children has increased rapidly and if they are to be provided with an education, adequate facilities to accommodate them must be had.

What most people are prone to overlook is the fact that the number of youngsters who want a college education is increasing at a rate higher than the rate at which the number of high school graduates of the state is increasing. Just as more space must be provided for the lower levels of education, so must more space be provided for higher education.

President John D. Messick of East Carolina College has said quite frankly that unless more classroom space is provided for the college the enrollment of ECC will have to be frozen in the near future at near the 3,500 mark.

If the enrollment of East Carolina is frozen at such a figure, the result will be that many young people in this section of the state who want a college education will not get it simply because they will have no place to go to college.

It is just as unthinkable to "freeze" the enrollment of ECC or any other state-owned college for lack of classroom space as it is to freeze the enrollment of North Carolina's public schools at a specified number.

With each passing year there are in eastern North Carolina an increasing number of high school graduates who want to go to college, and more specifically want to go to East Carolina. If the doors of East Carolina are closed to these youngsters for lack of classroom space on the campus, a larger portion of them will not be able to go elsewhere to college. Thus efforts to attain for the people of this section a higher level of education will be thwarted.

While North Carolina thinks in terms of providing more classrooms for its overcrowded public schools, it most likewise consider seriously providing more classroom space for its over-crowded state-owned colleges.

When the General Assembly meets next year it must not fail to provide additional classroom facilities for East Carolina College. The Legislature's failure to provide such facilities would, in a very real sense, be the same as closing the door to higher education for many youngsters in Eastern North Carolina.

Other Editors Are Saying... Men And Beds

Columbia(S.C.) The State

It seems, after all, that we hadn't seen everything. Now comes a little magazine with an article entitled, "What Men Like in Beds."

That, as the saying is, might sound like a leading question—leading to factious rebuttal. But it seems that it is playing it straight and means to speak literally. In 1955, what kind of sleeping accommodations does the average American male incline, or upon what type does he prefer to recline.

It is pointed out that the average man spends the equivalent of 125 days a year in bed. Four thousand men in 25 cities reported to Pageant not only on what type of bunk they prefer but their ideas about pillows, blankets, what they consider the most important thing in their beds, the kind of bedroom they like, and how long they stay bedded down every day.

If we have aroused the curiosity of any readers as to what was said they might be interested to know that king size beds and more of them was the top answer all over the country. The Hollywood bed, the four-poster (but why can't it be king size too?) the old-fashioned bedstead, foam rubber slab and convertible followed in that order of popularity. Of those quizzed 74.4 per cent said they slept in double beds and 25.6 per cent in twin beds. They reclined on inner-spring mattresses, foam rubber and as many ways as there are to cook eggs—soft, medium and hard.

Now, at first blush, this might seem like a trivial or at least an academic discussion. However, we see in the blasting of a great American tradition. Apparently no one male expressed a preference for curling up in a blanket with a saddle for a pillow by a fire of prairie-chick. —America is going soft!

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE CAN BE RESTORED

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness."

Man is a combination of the human and the divine of the earthly and the heavenly. The most depraved criminal bears upon his soul the divine imprimatur. We are all part of God; we are like Him; his stamp is upon us. What a glorious and overwhelming conception upon us every day to keep from marring that image by sin.

We see in Jesus Christ the perfect combination of human and divine. We are the creatures of God. Our personalities correspond to his divine personality, our souls are similar in essence to his soul. Jesus came and lived out a life in which divine truth was demonstrated with such simplicity that men everywhere could comprehend it. In creation, God established in mankind a spiritual affinity between humanity and Himself, like Him, we have personality, will, and the capacity to love and be loved. In the life of Christ, we see that dual life perfected, through his Spirit we can try to attain that perfection which characterized his every thought, word, and act.

Jesus Christ restores what has been lost through human sinning.

him higher in public esteem than either Lassie or Gene Autry. If an executive could also sing like Elvis Presley, nothing could keep him from the White House.

In dozens of recent plays, books and TV dramas the businessman has been built up as a rugged, resourceful tough—fighting hero with a two-fisted mind. He is portrayed as a kind of Roy Rogers or Hopalong Cassidy with a brief case. He is brisk, brusque and competitive. He never rides to head off the rustlers at Eagle Pass, but he is willing at any moment to sacrifice everything else in life for "the good of his company."

He invariably is tall with strongly chiseled features, and works feverishly late at night at his office to complete his plan for building a better bridge or drafting a new sales campaign to market a better mouthwash. Modern business is pictured as jungle fierce—only the strong can survive.

Just how does this literary portrayal of our new-type hero compare with the average real-life executive?

Well, fairly close. That is, if you take the executives' own word for it—and assume they haven't seen so many TV business dramas themselves that they have unconsciously patterned themselves after the video heroes of office and factory.

The ordinary working man has perhaps an ineradicable belief that the average executive has an easy life—that he gets most of his chores done on the golf links or during three-hour, four-martini lunches.

But what about the price they pay for their prominence? The mental urgency of their

Civilians Blamed For Military Cuts

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — It is not the military men in the White House who are chiefly responsible for the cuts in national defense funds now under Democratic attack. It is two civilians in whom President Eisenhower has great confidence—namely, Treasury Secretary Humphrey and Defense Secretary Wilson.

In discussions within White House and National Security Council circles, the Detroit automobile manufacturer and the Cleveland steel magnate emphasize the need for maintaining an impregnable domestic economy. They point out that, in a World War III, the United States would have to carry the burden of the Allied struggle even more fully and laboriously than in the recent conflict. He agrees.

It is their belief that we would have to finance, feed, arm, clothe and transport, by planes and ships, millions of embattled men and their weapons on fronts more remote and extensive than ever before. Even our major associated power, Britain, is in severe financial straits now. DISTURBANCES IN REDS' REALM Humphrey and Wilson have other reasons for insisting that the nation's economy should not be too heavily within the Soviet realm, and reported rivalries within the Kremlin itself, seem to reinforce their arguments.

In their opinion, Russia will not be able to wage a victorious war for many years, if ever. She is totally deficient in every basic requirement—food, raw materials, transportation facilities, national unity and patriotism.

For many years, her people and especially satellite populations, will fear and distrust their leaders. If the Soviet shifts to a consumer goods economy in order to appease the citizenry, it will weaken her militarily. Otherwise, there will be crippling internal sabotage, as there was in the last war until Hitler decreed a reign of brutality against anti-Stalin rebels.

COLD MILITARY FACTORS There is another and more compelling reason for the Humphrey-

Wilson confidence. As mass production geniuses, they cannot conceive of a situation under which the American industrial giant can be laid low, even in an atomic age.

Numerous military men, including Ridgway, Le May and Twining, have dissented from this attitude in appearance before Congressional committees. It is true, as they conceded, that they were thinking of the two nations' status in the future rather than today. But they are concentrating only on cold, mathematical military factors, which is their responsibility. They do not deal in economic, industrial and allied potentials.

These contrasting approaches to the problem of defense serve to explain the great debate now stirring Washington and which will be carried throughout the Presidential campaign. They account for the strange fact that a military expert in the White House is being given more defense money than he has requested by the 500-odd civilians on Capitol Hill.

Jesus Is the Saviour of Men

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 4:39-42; Hebrews 2:9-5:14.

The woman of Samaria to whom Jesus talked told others about Him and what He said, so they asked Him to stay awhile with them, and He stayed two days.

After listening to Jesus many believed, telling the woman, "Now we believe, not because of thy saying, for we have heard Him ourselves and know that He is the Christ."

Paul, writing to the Hebrews, reminds them that Jesus Himself was tempted as we are, but was without sin. He can understand our temptations and help us overcome them.

Though Jesus was the Son of God, He offered up supplications to His Father, becoming the author of eternal salvation to all that obey Him.

MEMORY VERSE—Hebrews 5:9.

Jesus Is the Saviour of Men

SUPERIOR TO MOSES, JOSHUA AND AARON, HE IS OUR GREAT HIGH PRIEST

Scripture—John 4:39-42; Hebrews 2:9-5:14.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE SAMARITANS of Jesus' time were what we would call now a "minority group." They were a mixture of races...

but resisted temptation and was without sin, but through the experience He can understand our temptations and help us overcome them.

There were many strong, fine men in the saga of the Jewish people. There was Moses who led his people out of Egypt...

There was Joshua, the great warrior, and the conqueror of Israel's enemies in Palestine. He brought Israel across the Jordan and led them in the settlement of the land.

There was Aaron, the great high priest, but Jesus was superior to him, also.

awhile, so they could hear Him themselves.

"Seeing, then, that we have a great high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need."

When Christ was on earth He "offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears unto Him that was able to save Him from death. . . . Though He were a Son, yet learned He obedience by the things which He suffered."

If Christ could pray for help and strength when He was on earth, surely we can turn to Him and His Father for help in our struggle to be like Him and to bear our temptations and sufferings.

Secretary's News Meeting Hints Some Disagreement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles apparently is seeking to improve U.S. relations with neutral India and abate a worry storm over the American attitude toward neutrality.

(D-Tenn) saying that since the Republicans took over, "almost every action of the United States in that area of the world . . . has served to alienate the friendship of India."

ing any significance to his earlier speech.

In substance, he said nations which have joined the United Nations—as India has—are expressing a concern for the rights and the independence of other states and in this sense are not neutral within the meaning of his speech.

When a reporter noted that by this definition there would be few if any countries in the world which could be said to be following an "immoral" neutrality policy, Dulles agreed that was so.

That, at least, is the impression created by his news conference comments yesterday — one of which indicated some slight disagreement with Vice President Nixon.

Describing Cooper as "a good and distinguished ambassador," Kefauver said President Eisenhower's request that Cooper relinquish his post to run for the Senate is a move "to cap all the mistakes we have made in dealing with India."

Dulles later conferred with the retiring U.S. ambassador to India, John Sherman Cooper, an advocate of substantial U.S. assistance to India's long-term development. Cooper told reporters afterwards he wants to get "some decisions" on an economic aid to India before he steps out, probably at the end of next week, to campaign for the Senate for Kentucky.

Dulles did not discuss this country's sometimes irritated relations with India and with Prime Minister Nehru specifically at his meeting with newsmen. However, he did talk about statements which Nixon made during a trip, ended yesterday, to six allied countries in the Far and Middle East.

Cooper declined to comment on a Senate speech by Sen. Kefauver. Arthur Dempsy, superintendent, 11:00 a.m.—Services 4th Sundays, 7:45 p.m.—Services 2nd Sundays

It was while on this trip that Nixon said countries which follow a neutralist policy toward communism run "almost the certain risk" of becoming Red satellites.

PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS Winterville Rev. Ola Porter, minister, Sunday School each Sunday, Mr. Walter Brill, superintendent, Morning worship services 1st and 3rd Sundays

Nehru called Nixon's views undemocratic, declaring that tolerance of different viewpoints is the basis of democracy. Nixon replied that Nehru is entitled to his opinion but that his speech was not undemocratic.

STOKES METHODIST Rev. Arnold Pope, pastor, 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School, Worship 1st and 3rd Sundays

Nixon took the position, however, that the United States in some cases should continue to give assistance to countries which also accept help from Russia.

HOPEWELL PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS Black Jack & New Bern Highway Rev. W. A. Crawford Jr., pastor, 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School, Mr. Charlie Harris, superintendent, 11:00 a.m.—Worship Service, 6:30 p.m.—Youth Society, 7:30 p.m.—Worship Service, 7:30 p.m. Wed.—Prayer Service

Nehru has accepted help from both Russia and the Western Powers while consistently declining to be drawn into alliances with either side.

GRIMESLAND PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS Rev. Billy McKee, pastor, 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School, Mr. Leighton Davenport, superintendent, 11:00 a.m.—Worship Service, 6:30 p.m.—Youth Service, 7:30 p.m.—Evangelistic Service, 7:30 p.m. Tues.—Prayer Service

Dulles, asked what he thought about Nixon's idea of continuing to help countries which accept aid from the Communists, said he was "in general . . . quite in accord with it." It is established U.S. policy to continue helping such countries as India.

PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS Shelburne Rev. M. D. Freedman, pastor, 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School, Mr. Horace G. Harde, superintendent, 11:00 a.m.—Services 1st and 3rd Sundays, 6:45 p.m.—Youth Service, 7:30 p.m.—Services 1st and 3rd Sundays

Then Dulles was asked what he thought about the idea that a country which accepts Communist help runs the risk of offending a rope around its neck. Dulles said he thought Nixon was quoting someone else to that effect. A check showed Nixon had quoted the remark but also indicated full agreement with it.

PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS Farmville Rev. T. M. Spehcr, pastor, 10:00 a.m.—Sunday School, Mr. Tommie Young, superintendent, 11:00 a.m.—Worship Service, 6:45 p.m.—Youth Service, 7:30 p.m.—Evangelistic Service, 7:30 p.m. Wed.—Prayer Service

Dulles made clear he did not fully agree. He said there is risk to countries which accept Communist aid because it is given for political purposes, but he did not wish to say that "in every case the taking of Soviet aid would involve a great danger."

If this seemed designed to mollify Nehru, a similar interpretation was even more apparent in Dulles' discussion of neutrality.

In a speech a month ago Dulles had called neutrality "immoral" except in "very exceptional" cases. In explaining yesterday that he meant, he modified that view to a point virtually eliminated.

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Stalin has been downgraded but not entirely wiped out in Bucharest, where for years Communists venerated him as "liberator."

His big statue still stands in Stalin Square. In the National Art Gallery he has been purged. A year ago this gallery was so full of Stalin portraits and statues that visitors had the feeling that Big Brother was peering over their shoulders. Now the only statue left is in a wing showing Soviet art and culture.

This one is apparently too heavy to move.

And the canners say that their August and April price slashings to meet foreign competition and the lower prices on unadvertised brands has given their profit margins a shave too close for comfort.

Harold F. Carey, manager of the American Tunaboat Assn., estimates the domestic catch came to 290 million pounds last year, a sharp drop from the 322 million the year before. He puts total imports from Japan at 144 million pounds last year, compared with 126½ million in 1954.

Tuna Industry Isn't Suffering Like Last Year

SAN DIEGO (AP)—The tuna industry isn't hurting as badly this summer as last and that should be good news for satad-and-sandwich devotees.

Prices are lower—both on what the fishermen catches and what the canner sells—but production is higher, consumption in the United States continues to rise, and for the first time in five years there hasn't been a big annual jump in the amount of canned and frozen fish the Japanese sell in this market.

New money is coming into the industry too—much of it, surprisingly enough from land-locked Kansas City—to finance the building of new clippers.

Also, the canners haven't, as yet anyway, much felt the potential competition from the fairly new canneries in Puerto Rico, along the U.S. Gulf Coast, and as far away as Pago Pago in American Samoa.

This doesn't mean that the fishermen and the canners are real happy. They aren't.

They deeply resent the Japanese inroads. If it isn't lower either, James B. Lane, president of Westgate—California Tuna Packing, feels the leveling off of imports is due more to bad fishing luck than to any change of heart by the Japanese.

Boat owners complain of higher operating costs. For one thing insurance on the fishing clippers rose 25 per cent after a series of fishing boat sinkings when the industry was in the doldrums a year or so ago and much of the fleet was idle for weeks at a time.

And the canners say that their August and April price slashings to meet foreign competition and the lower prices on unadvertised brands has given their profit margins a shave too close for comfort.

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—Stalin has been downgraded but not entirely wiped out in Bucharest, where for years Communists venerated him as "liberator."

His big statue still stands in Stalin Square. In the National Art Gallery he has been purged. A year ago this gallery was so full of Stalin portraits and statues that visitors had the feeling that Big Brother was peering over their shoulders. Now the only statue left is in a wing showing Soviet art and culture.

Braves Topple Brooklyn; Yankees Widen Loop Lead

Buhl, Adcock Pacing Assault On Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
If the Milwaukee Braves should win the National League pennant, it will be because of the spectacular success enjoyed by pitcher Bob Buhl and first baseman Joe Adcock against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rarely, if ever, have two players from one team overpowered a club the way Buhl and Adcock have done against Brooklyn this season. For Buhl, this complete domination of the Dodgers is something new but it is old hat to Adcock, who has hit 25 of his 100 big league home runs against Dodger pitching. Buhl was only 3-5 against the Dodgers before this season.

AAU Suspension Has Been Lifted From Trackers

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) has lifted the suspension it imposed earlier this year on the William and Mary track team for competing in a meet with West Santee.

Athletic Director Jackie Freeman said last night he was informed by John T. Core, chairman of the Virginia AAU's track and field committee, that the lifting of the suspension was retroactive to July 1.

William and Mary's entire track team was banned from AAU competition after the Indians competed against the Quantico Marines committee, that the lifting of the suspension was retroactive to July 1.

runs he needed for his 10th success against four defeats. Pittsburgh climbed into fourth place with a sweep of its doubleheader from Chicago 2-1 and 5-4 as the St. Louis Cardinals dropped into fifth place by half a game despite their 5-3 victory over the last-place New York Giants.

The pace-setting New York Yankees won their American League lead over Chicago and Cleveland to 7 1/2 games, their biggest bulge of the season, by conquering the Indians 9-5 in connection with Boston's victory over the White Sox 3-1.

In other American League games, Detroit defeated Washington 4-2 and Baltimore blanked Kansas City 4-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Bill Wight.

Buhl's brilliant record against Brooklyn is all the more remarkable in view of Milwaukee's record of six victories and five defeats against the Dodgers in half a season. The rest of the Braves' pitching staff has turned in only one triumph over the Braves.

The Phils scored five runs in the top of the ninth to overcome a 3-2 deficit. Marv Blaylock's bases-loaded double and Elmer Valo's two-run single against reliever Bud Freeman gave Harvey Haddix his seventh victory. Art Fowler lost it.

Stan Musial hammered home three runs with his 16th home run and a single to lead the Cards to victory. A pair of ex-Giants — Alvin Dark and Don Liddle — also contributed to the victory against their former teammates. Dark had a double, single and sacrifice fly. Liddle pitched runless ball for 2-3 innings to receive credit for the win.

Dale Long hit his first home run since June 9 and also added a triple to drive in four runs in Pittsburgh's second-game victory over Chicago. Bill Virdon's four-bagger helped Ronnie Kline chalk up his eighth victory in the opener.

A grand slam home run by Hank Bauer, his first in eight years with the Yankees, proved to be the big blow in New York's triumph over Cleveland.

Johnny Kucks, despite rough going, was credited with his 12th success and Bob Lemon was charged with his seventh defeat despite a three-run homer by Al Smith that ran the outfielder's hitting streak through 22 consecutive games.

Jimmy Piersall was practically a one-man gang as the Red Sox came from behind to nip the White Sox. His two-run homer in the ninth off Jack Harshman was the deciding blow after Boston tied the score 1-1 in its half of the eighth.

Dairy, Graniteers Clubs Post Identical 7-3 Wins

Carolina Dairy and the Graniteers, both favored in last night's Industrial softball contests, came through to post victories over the Service Battery and Southern Bread clubs, at Guy Smith Stadium. The scores of both battles were an identical 7-3.

In the first match, the Graniteers capitalized on seven costly Southern Bread errors and backed up pitcher Dan Gordon with hits when they were needed.

Catcher Bobby Nunn and second baseman McClanahan paced the winning outfit with a total of two hits each. Hobgood, Conway and Smith added singles to the cause to make it a seven-hitter for the Graniteers.

They committed three errors. For the Southern Bread crew, Leonard Johnson handled mound chores, but had a rough time of it behind the seven-error, six-hit performance of his club. Collecting the hits were E. Tripp, Ingram, Johnson, P. Tripp and McRoy. The Graniteers scored in the first, third, fourth and fifth frames, while the Southern Bread team tallied in the fourth and sixth innings.

Dairy Triumph
Carolina Dairy roared over their opponents in much the same fashion as did the Graniteers in the first game. They stopped the Service Battery, 7-3, behind the three-hit pitching of Mahalich.

Bill Boyd, Dairy rightfielder, clouted a home run to further Mahalich's cause in the early innings of the game, and then posted a single. The winners collected a total of 10 hits altogether, with Tripp and Dash contributing doubles. Mahalich came in to relieve Don Carson in the second inning and was given credit for the victory. He fanned nine, walked only one, and gave up two hits in five innings. Carson allowed only one hit in two innings during his performance.

Pitching for the losers was Smith, who gave up 10 hits, walked one and struck out none.

The box:
Southern Bread 000 201 0-3 6 7
Graniteers 302 110 0-7 7 3

Service Battery 111 000-3 3 3
Carolina Dairy 115 000-7 10 0

Plenty Of Play In This Week's Men's Bowling

Evereadys 12
Alley Cats 10
Quality Oilers 7
Buck Amocos 7

In this week's Men's Bowling League contests, the Buck Amocos won two of three battles with the Quality Oilers. Dean Hines was high man for the victorious Amoco team with an average of 156. Connie Hines was the leader on the losing squad with a 174 average.

The three-game series between the Alley Cats and the Evereadys ended up with the Evereadys coping two of them. Bill Wells paced both squads and turned in a fine performance for the Evereadys, posting a 197 average. Jim Patsy averaged 152 for the losing outfit.

The highest single game thus far in the season took place Wednesday night as Billy Wells rolled a startling 224 score and also posted a 592 three-game series, which is the record for the bowling center.

Governor Knight Suggests Change

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A suggestion that the Pacific Coast Conference be dissolved and a California conference of UCLA, California, Stanford and Southern California be formed for athletic competition has been made by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

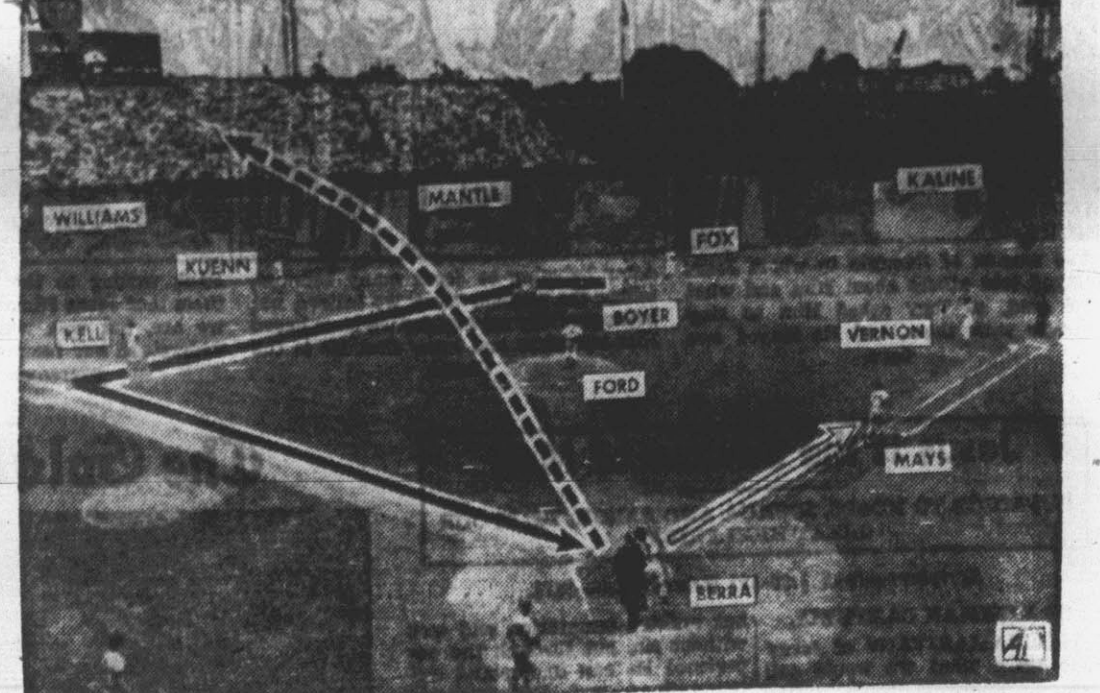

The governor made the suggestion in a letter to Ned Cronin, Los Angeles Times sports writer, who wrote him for his opinion about the athletic scandals that brought fines and bans against schools and athletes in the PCC.

"This whole ivory tower business raises the hackles of my red-blooded American neck, and I join with you in the hope we can do something," the chief executive wrote. "I am wondering if it might not be a good plan to consider the forming of a conference, leaving out the two universities in Washington, the two in Oregon and the one in Idaho."

The governor pointed out that present day booster clubs have been composed of "all the community leaders with whom the professors fraternize and the community leaders from whom they ask university financial support."

He said he played rugby football at Stanford "and I can assure you that if some prominent alumnus had approached me with an offer of modest assistance in my tuition or expenses I would have assumed that this prominent alumnus was a man of character and standing in the community and that this proposition had the tacit approval of those in authority."

Willie Mays' Homer Helps Win For Nationals

Willie Mays of the New York Giants heads toward first base on his pinch hit fourth inning homer that helped the National League defeat the American League 7-3 in the All-Star game at Washington. Ken Boyer, St. Louis Cardinals infielder who was on first base, is now nearing second base. American league players in the field are identified in their various positions. His Tummy Ache Was Team's Too

CINCINNATI (AP)—Brooks Lawrence doesn't have the tummy ache any more and that is one of the reasons why the Cincinnati Redlegs today are in the thick of the fight for the National League pennant.

Tonight Lawrence is due to go after his 13th victory. He hasn't yet been charged with a defeat. Against the Philadelphia Phils he'll be trying to protect Cincinnati's league lead, which was reduced to half a game last night when the Phils scored five times in the ninth for a 7-4 victory.

It would be hard to imagine the husky 31-year-old Negro right-hander of today as the weakened, sorrowing athlete who went to his home in Springfield, Ohio, with a bleeding ulcer at the end of 1954, perhaps washed up.

Into the hospital he went for eight blood transfusions and the beginning of a fight to regain his health.

The St. Louis Cardinals apparently had no faith in his chances. For they traded him to Cincinnati this year after he had a relatively poor 1955 season. In 1954, he had won 15 games and lost 6 for St. Louis.

Jim Piersall Stars As Hitter And Outfielder

BOSTON (AP)—Jimmy Piersall is astride the baseball world today—a clutch hitter for the Boston Red Sox as well as one of the game's finest defensive outfielders.

Four years after his conquest of mental illness, Piersall, 25, has developed the batting skills to become a scrapping, well-rounded player who is top box office.

A fierce competitor, he demonstrated the new heights he has attained by ruing the Chicago White Sox in Boston's 3-1 victory last night.

He smashed a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning off southpaw Jack Harshman to settle the issue. Twice earlier he made run-saving catches which had the distinctive Piersall trademark. That's another way of saying they were next to impossible.

In fact, Piersall started unsettling the cool Harshman. It was Jimmy whose sharp leadoff single in the fifth inning accounted for the first Red Sox blow off Harshman. His batting average soared to .303.

It was almost as if Piersall was following a script. His performance was recorded by movie cameras as part of the film of his life now in production in Hollywood.

The elated Jimmy's family was on hand and he was presented an award from a publication before the contest as the outstanding fielder of 1955.

An intense, nervous young man, Piersall—always a great fielder—was once the madcap ragster whose antics finally landed him in medical hands for treatment. There were bleak days for Jim and his wife Mary. But everyone, including the Red Sox, had faith in the Waterbury, Conn., boy.

BATTING: Jimmy Piersall, Red Sox, slammed a two-run homer in the ninth to give the Red Sox a 3-1 victory over Chicago after he had made two run-saving catches in the first and ninth innings.

PITCHING: Bob Buhl, Braves, shut out Brooklyn 2-0 with six hits for his fifth straight triumph over the Dodgers and boosted the Braves to within a half game of the league-leading Cincinnati Redlegs.

Griffith Stadium in Washington is packed with fans for the 23rd annual All-Star major league baseball game Tuesday. This view is from the left field corner of the doubledeck stands. Neutral Lands Treatment Causes Dulles Discomfort

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—After a month of confusion Secretary of State Dulles has become neutral about neutrality with the same ease he usually shows when what he is saying now doesn't happen to sound like what he said before.

Early last month Congress was growing about continuing American aid to neutrals. India is the world's biggest neutral. If this country can't win India as an ally, the last thing it wants is India as a Russian ally.

President Eisenhower, as if to soothe Congress, strode into his June 6 news conference and, speaking without notes, began defending neutrals.

He didn't stop there, but went on to suggest that if a nation joins a military alliance and is then attacked, other countries may say it got what was coming to it. This was startling. This country had spent time and money trying to win military allies.

It wasn't hard to imagine the effect on those Asian countries which had allied themselves with the United States while India remained aloof. It wasn't long before the White House put out a statement explaining that what Eisenhower meant to say was that some nations are justified in being neutral but they'd be safer as American allies.

Vice President Nixon defended a nation's right to be neutral in a speech the next night. June 7 he said "we must deal" with neutrals "as moral and spiritual equals."

Dulles said just the opposite in a June 9 speech, thus compounding the confusion begun by Eisenhower. Dulles said neutrality is "immoral and shortsighted." This raised a question—just what is America's view toward neutrals?—still unanswered when Nixon later in June set off on an Asian tour which did not include India.

In Manila on July 3 he said the United States can understand nations which remain neutral because they have internal problems. But it has no sympathy, Nixon said, with countries which make "no moral distinction between the Communist world and the free world."

In this speech, less tolerant than the one he gave in June, Nixon made no mention of India. But India's Prime Minister Nehru apparently thought Nixon was aiming at him. He must have already been burned up at Dulles.

In a July 3 news conference, he said the views of Nixon and Dulles "are not wise and they do little good" and they were "undemocratic" to want everyone to think as they do.

He added he didn't like the word "neutrality" and that India's position could best be described as one of "noninvolvement" because it was concentrating mainly on its own internal development.

Nixon had clearly said at Manila this country can understand neutrality in a nation concerned with its own internal problems. This makes it seem possible Nehru hadn't read Nixon's full speech.

Maybe Nehru was confused by this time. But Dulles began to have second thoughts, or so it seems, about the effects of the administration's handling of the word "neutral."

So yesterday he told his news conference that when he spoke of "immoral" neutrality on June 9 he meant the kind of neutrality which is indifferent to the fate of others. That is immoral, he said, and he sticks by what he said.

But then he explained that every country which is a member of the United Nations shows, by its membership, concern for others. India is in the U.N. Practically every other country is in or wants in.

So Dulles was asked: Doesn't that mean practically no nation is immoral in its neutralism? That was right, Dulles said. "I think there are very few, if any." In fact, he said there are practically no neutrals in the world.

Harriman Attack On Eisenhower Assailed By GOP

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Republicans assailed Gov. Averell Harriman today for suggesting that President Eisenhower has helped the Communist cause by crediting the Soviets with peace aims.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) said Harriman's evident intent in a speech yesterday to hang a "soft on communism" label on Eisenhower "is an invitation for Republicans to review again the miserable record of the Truman and Roosevelt administrations on this issue."

Watkins said Harriman's statements are "just a part of a desperate attempt of a presidential aspirant to win a nomination as the leader of the ultraradicals of the Democratic party."

Sen. Thyne (R-Minn) described as "fantastic" Harriman's contention that Eisenhower, by crediting Soviet leaders with peace aims at the Geneva conference last summer, had naively paved the way for great Communist gains.

"This, of course, is without any foundation," Thyne said. "If the Democrats have chosen to make this a campaign issue they will find the people do not believe such rubbish."

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) said Harriman's attack on Eisenhower was "typical of the indications of the bankruptcy of the New Deal party."

"If they have to consider a man of this type as a possible presidential candidate, they have fallen below the normal level of bankruptcy," he declared.

Aides said Harriman would make no specific reply to a call by Sen. Byrd (D-Va) that he spell out what he would do as president to make effective the Supreme Court's order for racial integration in the public schools.

Harriman said yesterday that if he were elected he would use the power of the White House "positively and firmly" to bring about compliance. Byrd, who has advocated "massive resistance" to the court's decision, asked in a statement:

"Will he use force under any conditions whatever to compel compliance? Will he send federal troops? Will he attempt to coerce the Southern states by denial of federal aid to which they are entitled? Does he favor jailing or imposing fines on state or local officials?"

At a National Press Club luncheon yesterday, Harriman said there had been a "smear campaign" against him on the false basis that he would use troops to enforce the decision. He said that was "not the American way."

Dixon - Yates Events Sure To Bear On Fall Presidential Campaigning

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The administration's move to have the courts declare "unlawful" its repudiated Dixon - Yates contract drew taunts today from Democratic senators who said it will be a campaign issue.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.), a bitter critic of the contract President Eisenhower had ordered negotiated with the Dixon-Yates private power interests, said caustically "it will be interesting to hear how the President explains this in the coming election campaign."

"He'll have ample opportunity," Gore said, "because he'll be reminded of it frequently." He said Eisenhower was "personally and officially responsible" for the contract, and "repeatedly advocated it and defended it."

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said in a separate interview he doesn't see how it can be "anything like a campaign issue if it's honestly discussed, and I assume it will be."

"The contract itself was a good contract," Hickenlooper said. But Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the contract "was and is a scandalous thing." He said he hopes the case is settled "prior to this fall's elections."

The comments came after the Justice Department yesterday asked the U.S. Court of Claims to throw out a Dixon-Yates suit against the government. The suit seeks $3,543,778.45 of payments by the government for costs incurred before the contract was canceled last November on the heels of a political fight.

The department asked the court to declare the contract was "contrary to public policy, unlawful, and null and void" because of an alleged dual role played in the negotiations by Adolphe H. Wenzell.

It also advanced other reasons in demanding dismissal of the suit.

The department said Wenzell was a consultant to the Budget Bureau on expansion of electric facilities in the TVA area, and at the same time a salaried vice president of the First Boston Corp. First Boston, a New York investment firm, later became financial agent for the Dixon-Yates interests in the deal. The government said this created a conflict of interests on Wenzell's part.

Gore and some other Democratic senators had made similar accusations regarding Wenzell's role in the negotiations even while the government was going ahead with the contract.

The suit had been brought by the Dixon-Yates interests in the name of the Mississippi Valley Generating Co. They had formed this company to build and run a 107-million-dollar private power plant at West Memphis, Ark., to pipe electric current into the public power lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Eisenhower had ordered the contract negotiated to replace current consumed by plants of the Atomic Energy Commission from TVA lines.

When the administration canceled the contract, it did so on grounds that need for the additional power would be met by a municipal plant the city of Memphis, Tenn., a TVA customer, had decided to build.

Seeking dismissal of the Dixon-Yates suit, the Justice Department argued that the canceled agreement never was "a final, binding and complete contract"; that it was technically faulty; and that it contained some provisions which violated the public utility holding company law.

TV Threatening To Invade Privacy Of Beach, Autos

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Without much fanfare we have entered the era of the portable television receiver. I draw attention to it regretfully but we must keep abreast of trends.

At least two companies now have a portable on the market. Others are on the way. Now it's reported that an official of one of these companies has been driving around with a model plugged to his car battery. Back seat riders in his car had a pretty good view of a program—so long as the car kept a straight course and hills didn't cut off the beam and so forth.

Thanks to the thoughtfulness of the New York State Legislature, it's illegal for a driver to have a TV set on the dashboard. Too distracting, the Legislature thought. But it's okay for back seat riders to watch television. It's okay by the New York Legislature, that is. But it's not okay by me.

As an old back seat driver of many years standing, I don't want a television program chattering up my view of the road ahead. To say nothing of the view on both sides of the road. If I'm going to take a quiet ride in the country, I want to take a quiet ride in the country. If I want to watch television, I'll stay home.

The manner in which television has insinuated itself into our lives is truly amazing. Once the home was inviolate, one's privacy with-in it assured. Then came television, enabling any member of the family to ask in anyone he wished merely by twisting a knob. Well, that's progress, they say.

Granting the right of television to pursue us into the home, it seems right to draw the line somewhere. For now, with the advent of efficient portables, we are pursued out of the home as well as into it.

The other weekend we were invited to the shore. It was my firm understanding that these good friends did not have a TV set in their summer home. But before I could pull on swimming trunks, our host proudly unveiled a new portable TV.

"So you can watch TV," he said. "I've got a long extension cord so we can carry it down to the beach."

All this sounds as if I'm opposed to television per se and in toto. Not at all. I merely object to television pushing into every nook and cranny of my life, intruding on any spare moment and any random daydream.

I insist that television has no place on a beach. A beach is a place of wind and sand and sun and water, of mewing gulls and drowsiness. It has no place in a

Friends Handle Ike's Finances

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Bow (R-Ohio) said today friends handle President Eisenhower's personal investments without telling him what securities they are buying and selling.

He said Eisenhower wants it that way so there isn't "even the possibility of a subconscious bias in favor of any organization in which he had an interest."

Writing in a regular letter to constituents, Bow did not give the source of his information.

He said that among "a few trusted friends" handling Eisenhower's investments is Col. Robert L. Schulz, his military aide, and continued:

"Thus today, aside from the farm at Gettysburg, the President has no personal knowledge of stock ownership. He receives regular reports as to total gains or losses, but no details of the transactions."

Coffee Man Says Stop Price Rise By Not Drinking

NEW YORK (AP)—A coffee processor urged today that Americans "stop drinking coffee" as the only effective way of combatting rising prices.

William Black, president of the Check Full of Nuts Coffee Corp., made the surprising suggestion. The American housewife is "getting the business," Black contended, and a coffee boycott is the only answer.

Coffee prices have risen recently to about $1.10 a pound for coffee in vacuum cans that last summer cost only 87 cents. The same can cost around $1.19 during the 1954 upsurge.

Black said that coffee-producing countries in South America were holding back their supplies. The U. S. Department of Agriculture recently estimated the 1956 coffee crop at over 50 million bags, but South American sources contend the crop will be somewhat smaller.

Spanish Court Rejects Appeal From American

MADRID — Spain's Supreme Court has rejected the appeal of American bullfighter Harry Whitney against a 6-year prison sentence for insulting Spain and its people. It was reported today.

The 31-year-old Whitney, of Del Mar, Calif., was tried on June 5. Officers testified he had been drinking and disputing with police and bystanders when he was involved in an automobile accident a month previously. Whitney denied he used insulting language.

The American Embassy has started informal talks with the Spanish Foreign Ministry in an effort to get a pardon or an expulsion of the apprentice bullfighter on the ground that the sentence was excessive.

Of America's half million music teachers about 300,000 teach piano.

Belafonte Drawing Big Crowds To Show

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A young fellow named Harry Belafonte has been drawing big audiences to Los Angeles' Greek Theater nightly for the past two weeks in one of the most successful one-man shows within memory.

The singer followed another singular showman, Victor Borge, into the outdoor theater. But the delightful Dane stayed a stanza, while Belafonte is lingering for two. His total box office draw for the fortnight may reach a fabulous $145,000.

All this to hear one man sing. Belafonte is both humble and grateful for the reaction.

"This is the first time I have played a one-man show," he remarked.

"I was a little worried at how it would turn out." When he was with "Three for Tonight," Marge and Gower Champion and others were in the show. He had a supporting cast in "Sing, Man, Sing," which recently closed

College Activity To Be Reviewed

RALEIGH (AP)—Activities of the board of the new consolidated Presbyterian college will be reviewed at a meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina at Red Springs July 17-18.

The new college, which will be located near Laurinburg, will be formed by the merger of Flora Macdonald College at Red Springs, Peace College in Raleigh, and Presbyterian Junior College at Maxton.

Dr. Warner L. Hall of Charlotte, chairman of the committee on educational institutions, will review the board's work. In his report on higher education, Dr. Hall will point out that Mitchell College at Statesville has successfully completed a campaign which has netted more than $400,000. This will lead to the establishment of the institution as a municipally operated junior college beginning in 1958-59.

Dr. Hall's report also will point out that Queens College in Charlotte will undertake a campaign in 1957 to raise two million dollars and that Davidson College is continuing to move in the direction of an enrollment of 1,000 students.

Another point in his report will show that the range and Winston-Salem presbyteries, which own and operate Glade Valley High School near Sparta are seeking "the most satisfactory use for the valuable properties at Glade Valley."

Greater Love Hath No Man

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Greater love hath no man than to give himself up like Benny Davenport, 38, did when he bailed out his brother, Leslie R. Wells, 28.

Davenport was held himself, although he completed his original mission, when deputy sheriffs recognized him as the man for whom they had a warrant on file.

'Clean' Convict Has Explanation

DENVER (AP)—Police arrested a purse-snatch suspect who offered the information he was "clean" and had no police record.

At headquarters, when confronted with a 7-page police record showing 59 arrests for drunkenness, the suspect explained:

"Well, what I meant was that I've never been in any penitentiary or concentration camps."

Visiting Texans Receive Lecture

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—Over a headline which read "Situation Means for Dos Tejanos"—which means "situation Bad for Two Texans," the Hobbs News-Sun wrote:

"Note to visiting Tejanos: We New Mexicans take a dim view of hombres who patronize our cantinas, acquire vino, take it outside, tittle in plain sight and become barracho (drunk). As a matter of fact we have laws that frown on this practice and juzgados for those who break the law."

Then it told of the two Texans who were charged with drinking in public and being drunk and both jailed.

ENCHANTED HARBOR

By DOROTHY WORLEY

CHAPTER 14
Peter Craig stopped in the doorway of Maud's, a hand on Peggy's arm. His voice was low. "Do you see what I see?" Noting the storm gathering on her face, he said quickly, "Now be your age, Peggy Pomeroy. And I'll remind you again that Apalachicola means 'friendly people.'"

"I don't feel friendly."
"Well, whether you do or not, Dick is motioning for us to come over, and we'll have to go."
"I don't care anything about meeting those girls. I think it's absurd," Dick and Bill Duval being here with them."
"Nothing absurd about it, and there's nothing wrong with those girls," Pete's voice was a little short. "You can hold your own with them, can't you?"
Peggy could. Peggy looked pretty cute in her flouncy skirt and tight little sweater, her straw-colored hair parted in the middle with buns over her ears. Quaint, but cute. Peggy liked to be different. She had never cut her hair. Pete thought, she's in a class by herself, not one of a pattern. He coaxed, "Come on, Peggy. Be a sport."
Introductions were made and Peggy and Pete were invited to join the others. Peggy wasn't particularly friendly, and after a few minutes she said vaguely that they were meeting some people. When she and Pete had gone on to another table, Priscilla said, "Aren't Southern people supposed to be more friendly? The atmosphere when she was here seemed a little chilly."
Bill met her eyes. "Usually they are. Especially Apalachicola people. Maybe you're trespassing tonight."
"Trespassing?" Priscilla repeated, surprised. Then, seeing Bill's eyes go to Dick Devereaux, she understood. She laughed lightly. "I was afraid of something like that. Doctors are always so popular."
Dick shrugged. "Don't pay any attention to Bill, Priscilla. Peggy has the distant manner at first. She'll be different next time she sees you."
Priscilla wondered if Bill Duval was really warning her or teasing, when he said, "It seems to be a toss-up between Doc here and that fellow she's with tonight. I haven't been here long, but I see her with Doc one night, Pete the next."
"Thanks for telling me. I'll have to see that she doesn't see me with Dr. Devereaux again. I wouldn't want to jeopardize his chances since I won't be here long."

used on the highway or for personal or non-business purposes, is not included.

Spight also stressed that farmers should keep sufficient records to enable the Internal Revenue Service to check each claim.

According to Spight, farmers in Pitt County will benefit about $44,000.00 from this measure, which is more than double the $5.00 membership for 4,000 members.

Spight further added, "This bill was passed mainly due to the efforts of the Farm Bureau organization, which is working constantly in the farmers' behalf, and represents only one of the many measures passed recently to shipstem the rise in farm production cost."

COOL WATER
PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP)—On the day Bay County citizens were to vote on bonds for a county-wide water system, Panama City radio station WDLP kept the issue in everyone's mind by playing no music all day except the song "Cool Water."

The voters approved the water system by a huge majority.

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian Jews, despite heroic efforts to preserve their faith, are waging a losing battle against communism's fundamental hostility to religion.

Three American rabbis said on their return from the Soviet Union. A joint statement they issued on their arrival home yesterday said their experiences in the U.S.S.R. led them to "the melancholy conclusion that Judaism in Russia is seriously threatened with extinction."

The statement added: "While the Soviet regime speaks of religious freedom and has, in fact, somewhat relaxed some of its repressive measures, its policies continue to restrict and strangle Jewish life.

"We were shocked to find that the major institutions of the Jewish religion and the vehicles of expression of Jewish culture had all but vanished, leaving a Judaism that is anemic and moribund."

The three, Rabbi Emanuel Rackman, New York, president of the New York Board of Rabbis; Rabbi David I. Golovinsky, New Rochelle, N.Y.; and Rabbi Dr. Morris N. Kertzer, Rockville Centre, N.Y., spent two weeks in Russia.

The rabbis said "the fears of Jews were far more acute a year and a half ago."

"Many said that had we come two years ago they would not have felt free to talk to us," they added.

The rabbis expressed hope that "this is the beginning of a time that will ultimately make for justice for our coreligionists and help recreate the instruments for the restoration and perpetuation of Jewish life."

Adlai Calls For Economic Stress

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Presidential hopeful Adlai Stevenson says a Democratic administration might decrease what he termed the military emphasis in government and place more stress on economic aid to other nations.

Stevenson, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, also told a news conference last night that President Eisenhower's second illness "undoubtedly" cost him some votes.

He refused, however, to speculate on the number of those votes.

Stevenson was in Burlington to confer with top Vermont Democrats and try to woo Vermont's six delegate votes at the national nominating convention.

His schedule calls for him to be at Conway, N.H., later today, at Camden, Maine, tonight, and in Pemaquid, Maine, tomorrow.

He said he expects the Democrats to select their vice presidential candidate with care because the choice "will be important."

He said Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is an excellent possible candidate, but declined to name any others.

Pravda Rejects Idea Swapping

MOSCOW (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal to swap ideas and information with Communist Russia has been rejected by Pravda as a scheme to establish a chain of American "spy nests" behind the Iron Curtain.

In a sharp editorial the Communist party paper said: "The notorious free movement of ideas means a dissemination of American literature propagating capitalist practices, misanthropy, racism and war."

Eisenhower gave his endorsement June 29 to a proposal of the National Security Council to set in motion an exchange of information and ideas as proposed by the Western nations at the second Geneva conference last October.

Then Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov rejected the suggestion at Geneva.

Pravda's denunciation was even sharper. Referring to Eisenhower's suggestion for opening information centers in each other's capitals, the paper declared: "We well remember what kind of information was gathered in certain East European countries. To all intents and purposes these centers were spy nests."

Forsyth Negro Dies In Chamber

RALEIGH (AP)—A short, husky Winston-Salem Negro was put to death in the state's gas chamber today for the murder of a Winston-Salem grocer in a holdup two years ago which netted about $44.

Robert S. Conner was pronounced dead exactly 15 minutes after the cyanide pellets were released.

Conner was twice convicted and sentenced to die for the pistol slaying of Langston B. Roberts in a holdup, May 24, 1954.

Farmville Man Dies At Home Thursday

FARMVILLE—Jesse Thomas Brann, 50, husband of Fannie Tyndall Brann, died at his home, Rte. 1, Farmville, Thursday afternoon at 4:30. He had been in declining health about 10 years.

Funeral services will be held at the home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Tommy Tyson will officiate. Burial will be in the Brann family cemetery.

Mr. Brann had been actively engaged in farming business nearly all his life. He had been a member of the Seventh Day Church of God 25 years. He was a son of Mrs. Ida Brann and the late Will Brann of Greenville.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Vandford and Mrs. J. C. Willford of Farmville; three sons, Jesse W. Brann, Rte. 1, Farmville, and Billy Brann and Harry Lee Brann of the home; one brother, Alfred Brann, Rte. 1, Farmville; a sister, Mrs. C. C. Young, Rte. 1, Greenville, and 13 grandchildren.

Oklahoma Town Begins Clean-Up

NORTH MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—Residents of this tiny northeast Oklahoma town today began cleaning up operations as the aftermath of a wind and hail storm that whipped in from the southwest at twilight yesterday, injuring two persons.

The wind's violence led some persons in this Ottawa County town of 500 to call it a tornado but the U.S. Weather Bureau at Tulsa said its radar screen showed "good echoes" in the area but not a twister. A tornado smashed a section of Miami, Okla., two miles to the south, last April 3.

A half-dozen homes were nearly demolished and many others hard hit. Several business houses were severely damaged. The state highway patrol estimated 78 homes damaged in this area and at Commerce, a city of about 1,500 five miles north near the Oklahoma-Kansas line.

Commerce, home town of New York Yankee Mickey Mantle, received less damage than North Miami from the winds and there were no reports of injuries there.

Mrs. Oliver Jones, 75, was hospitalized with a broken shoulder and abrasions and suffered shock. Ruth Ester Chapman, 14, was treated for deep lacerations and released.

Religious Sect Gets 3 Elected

TOKYO (AP)—A militant sect threatening death to nonbelievers has succeeded in electing three of its missionaries to Parliament.

The three members of the Soka Gakkai organization polled about 800,000 votes in this week's election. Scores of their campaign workers were arrested on charges of election violations.

Soka Gakkai wants to become the state religion of Japan. The name literally means "Value Creating Academy." Its creed is derived from Buddhism, but its activities are more evangelistic. One slogan is "Let's convert everyone with words and arrows."

Orthodox Buddhists deny any relationship with Soka Gakkai. Many intensely hate the new group, which has a membership of 600,000.

The Value Creators, in 26 churches across Japan and at numerous meetings, conduct Buddhist services sprinkled with their own spiritualistic chants supposed to cast on the listeners a charm against illness and misfortune.

The sect is governed like Japan's old imperial army. It makes converts with a threat that "death and destruction await you in 90 days if you fail to join us." Many members are invalids and old people most vulnerable to such preaching.

During the election campaign, Soka Gakkai missionaries visited the homes of sick persons and preached, "Embrace our faith and your sick will be cured; otherwise, death and destruction will befall you."

Police say some poor people have died without proper medical care as a result of believing this.

Jobs seems to exact a hidden toll in terms of health. A check of 600 corporation executives by two Chicago doctors showed that 55.6 per cent of the men and 64 per cent of the women were suffering from ailments they didn't know they had.

They were afflicted with 25 diseases, including 48 cases of high blood pressure, 37 of heart disease and a case of tuberculosis. Oddly, the checkup showed only a couple of ulcers but a surprising 112 hernias. Now there's a real mystery for a medical detective to solve.

Do you want to become a business executive yourself? Well, now is the time to prepare. The field is full of aging heroes.

It has been estimated that 42 per cent of the executives active today are within 10 years or less of 65, the usual retirement age.

Press Group Hears Billy Graham Tonite

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham will address tonight's banquet session of the 84th annual convention of the North Carolina Press Assn.

Today the delegates attended meetings for daily and nondaily newspapers. The nondaily group was scheduled to form the Associated Nondaily Newspapers of North Carolina. Dante Germino of the Durham Herald-Sun Papers, president of the daily group, presided at that meeting.

In addition the newsmen heard addresses by Glenn McNeil of the Tennessee Press Assn. and Dean Norval Neil Luxon of the University of North Carolina School of Journalism.

Tomorrow the delegates will receive copies of bills aimed at the school segregation problem which will be introduced in the special session of the Legislature opening July 23.

Plans for simultaneous news conferences here and in Raleigh tomorrow at which the bills will be presented and discussed were announced yesterday by Gov. Hodges. Both conferences will start at 11 a.m.

Last night delegates heard Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, say he fears the nation's press has not done a thorough job of informing the public on the segregation controversy.

McGill said he "hesitated to speak of this because I do not by any means see all the papers. But it seems to me we, all of us collectively, have not done a good job in adequately presenting and interpreting the segregation controversy for the simple reason the average person seems so badly informed about it."

McGill did say, however, that he thought the newspapers had helped keep down violence arising from the segregation issue. He added: "I believe we can continue to do this while the processes of time, common sense, religion and Americanism proceed with the slow job of working toward a solution."

Cypriots Are Ready To Reject New Offer

By ROBERT TUCKMAN NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Some Greek Cypriot leaders today were reported ready to reject Britain's new appeal for cooperation in drafting a constitution and developing self-government for Cyprus.

The latest British moves came in a speech to Parliament by Prime Minister Eden and a radio broadcast here by Field Marshal Sir John Harding, governor of this British island colony.

In his appeal to Cypriots to "tackle this problem one step at a time" with patience and common sense, Harding indicated he would prefer to treat with secular Cypriot leaders rather than with exiled Archbishop Makarios and other Greek Orthodox Church officials.

This appeared to be a major barrier. Greek Cypriot leaders repeatedly have demanded that Makarios, leader of the Enosis movement to unite Cyprus with Greece, be brought back from exile to participate in any new negotiations on the island's future.

Eden's statement contained no reference to self-determination for Cyprus, the top demand of Cypriots seeking to end British rule and join the island with Greece. Eden said Britain will press plans for self-government, but not "until terrorism has been overcome."

Also approved was the usual free parking on Dollar Day, Aug. 9. Free parking was approved, too, for the opening day on the local tobacco market.

City fathers voted in favor of the elimination of parking on one side of the Howell and Skinner Sts. The councilmen were told by City Manager Leonard Bloxam that the parking situation on the streets which border the South Greenville Little League park, creates a traffic hazard when games are in progress.

Councilmen approved closing of City Hall on Wednesday afternoons for the remainder of the summer. The Utilities Commission approved that plan for utilities employees recently.

Approval was also granted for the city manager to sign city checks in the absence of the mayor and mayor pro-tem.

City fathers certified returns from the recent bond issue election and approved several tax permit requests.

If You Hustle, You Can Save 50c

Parking violators who hustle will be able to save 50 cents on their parking ticket fines as a result of City Council action last night.

The councilmen approved a plan proposed by City Manager Leonard Bloxam to charge parking violators 50 cents instead of the usual $1 fine if they make payment within 12 hours after the ticket is issued.
