C-of-C Kicks Off Recruiting Drive

Greenville Chamber of Commerce opened its membership campaign this morning with a kick-off breakfast at Respos Brothers.

In an intensive three-day drive, the Chamber is seeking to add 50 new members to its roster and also to reinstate members who have resigned in recent years. Primary purpose of the campaign is to raise additional operating funds through the dues of new members for the organization's industrial development program. Plans also call for increasing all membership dues by 20 per cent.

This morning president Dan Saieed, Membership Committee Chairman Ben L. Rouse, Campaign Chairmen Charles Horne, Jr. and Dr. M. W. Aldridge and Manager Willard T. Kyzzer met for breakfast with 40 solicitors who will conduct the membership drive. Information kits and membership cards were furnished the solicitors, who will turn in their reports Saturday.

President Saieed has pointed out that the Chamber's increased industrial budget this year is in

Avert Strike In Aluminum Plant

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A last-minute agreement on a three-year, no-strike contract today averted a strike of 15,000 members of the Aluminum Workers International Union at nine plants of Aluminum Co. of America.

The agreement is subject to ratification by a majority of the local unions, who have until Aug. 9 to cast their votes. After he signed the contract, Edward Stahl, president of the union, declared: "My signature on the contract is a recommendation." The settlement, which came in the wake of a 24-hour strike postponement, left this situation in the vital aluminum industry.

The AWIU's contract covering 6,500 workers at 10 plants of Reynolds Metal Co. expired Aug. 1. The union has granted a day-to-day extension with provision for three days notice if a strike is called. Negotiations are continuing at Richmond, Va.

The United Steelworkers continued the strike it called yesterday against both Alcoa and the Reynolds company. The USW represents 18,000 Alcoa workers at 12 plants and about 10,000 at nine Reynolds plants.

Federal mediator William Rose succeeded in keeping negotiations rolling between Alcoa and the AWIU. He secured a 24-hour contract extension, then got both sides together again in a marathon session of meetings which broke up shortly before midnight with the announcement of the new contract.

Stahl, referring to the master three-year contract negotiated in the basic steel industry by the USW, declared: "We believe our contract provides as much or more money than the steel settlement."

In a joint announcement Stahl and Robert K. Heiman, Alcoa's director of industrial relations, said the new agreement called for a package boost totaling 46 cents hourly over the three-year contract period. It calls for a general direct wage increase of 9 1/2 cents an hour the first year, 7 cents the second and 8 cents the third. Under the old contract, the average hourly wage was $2.22.

It's Official; A Baby Expected MONTE CARLO (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco, is going to have a baby in February, the palace announced today.

The Princess, formerly actress Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, was married to Prince Rainier III of Monaco, in ceremonies here April 18 and 19.

By the terms of a treaty with France, this principality on the Mediterranean becomes subject to French taxes, and its men to the French draft, if Rainier dies without an heir.

Woolson Dies Unity Bid By Dixie Democrats

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Albert Woolson, last Union Army veteran of the Civil War, died today and the Grand Army of the Republic died with him. He was 109.

The old drummer boy, who was "scared to death" the first time he fired a cannon, outlived some 2,675,000 of the Boys in Blue.

Woolson died in St. Luke's Hospital where he had been confined several times recently because of lung congestion. Doctors said the congestion was brought on chiefly because of his advanced age.

He lapsed into a coma early Saturday. Since then he had been fed intravenously and had been given oxygen.

Honduran Rebel Move Crushed By Loyal Troops

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Extra troops patrolled the Honduran capital today in the wake of an abortive seven-hour revolt that claimed at least 30 lives. But citizens used to sporadic outbreaks went about their business as usual.

Authorities rounded up 130 suspects for questioning in connection with the attempt against the harassed regime of Honduras' constitutional dictator, chief of state Julio Lozano.

A government spokesman said the revolt began at 1:30 a. m. yesterday when 400 troops stationed at the San Francisco armory attempted to seize the city.

The government brought up infantry and opened fire on the army until the rebels ran up the white flag at 9 a. m. Cleanup squads were sent through the city to run down rebel remnants.

Business returned to normal during the afternoon and pedestrians filled the streets.

One government announcement accused followers of defeated presidential candidate Roman Villalobos of plotting against the state.

Villeda Morales denied the charges in San Jose, Costa Rica, where he has lived since the Lozano regime. He said he last month on charges of plotting against the state.

Villeda Morales added that the outbreak was probably a "trick" by Lozano to postpone congressional elections he said the chief of state has promised would be called for October.

Villeda Morales led the field in Honduras' 1954 presidential election but failed to win a majority. Congress was then to decide the presidency, but the opposition prevented a quorum by boycotting the sessions. Lozano, then acting president, became the country's legal dictator until new elections.

Lozano has been beset by growing unrest in recent months.

Heavy Hail For Bell Arthur Area

The heavy thunderstorm which struck Greenville and other areas of Pitt County around noon brought considerable hail with it.

A heavy shower of hail was reported in the Bell Arthur section but reports of any damage in that and other areas were not available as The Reflector went to press.

Farmers in all sections of the county are in the midst of housing tobacco crops, and considerable amounts of tobacco are still in the field.

Board Members Sworn In Today

While members of their families and other board members looked on, three new members of the State Board of Education were sworn in today at a ceremony in Gov. Hodges' office.

The oath was administered by Associate Justice E. B. Denny of the State Supreme Court. The new members are Charles W. McCrary, president of McCrary Hoisery Mills, Asheboro; Barton Hayes, industrialist of Lenoir; and Charles G. Rose Jr., attorney of Fayetteville.

Britain And France Order Forces To Mediterranean

LONDON (AP)—Both Britain and France ordered precautionary military measures today and, with the United States, put the finishing touches to a plan to call an international conference to place the Suez Canal under international control.

Prime Minister Eden, accusing Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser of "broken faith and broken promises," announced the military moves to cheering House of Commons. He said "certain naval, army and air force units" had been ordered to the Mediterranean from Britain and a limited number of specialized reservists called up. The Transport Ministry was reported to have authorized the requisitioning of passenger ships for troop movements.

The French Navy Ministry disclosed that 15 warships assembled at Toulon have been ordered to be ready to steam to "an unknown destination." Official French sources said the order was in connection with the crisis arising from Nasser's nationalization of the canal.

These moves were made as U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau awaited the final draft of a plan from their experts on the calling of an international conference to guarantee the continued international use of the strategic waterway.

It was reported Egypt and Soviet Russia would be invited to the conference. But there was a question whether Nasser would accept. If he refused, the Western powers would be faced with the prospect of using military force. Both the French and British governments have been under heavy political pressure at home to take decisive action. Dulles, however, is reported to have urged moderation.

Eden told Commons that Britain will accept nothing less than an international authority to operate the canal. He charged Nasser with violating the international pact of 1888 establishing the international character of the canal, and also the 1954 treaty with Britain which recognized its international status. In the 1954 treaty Britain agreed to withdraw her military forces from the Suez Canal Zone.

Eden also expressed doubt that Egypt would be able to carry on expansion work along the canal in the next 10 or 15 years if Nasser pursues his intention to build his Aswan Dam, and he was skeptical of Nasser's promises to maintain navigation rights for all nations and to compensate canal company stockholders.

"In view of Col. Nasser's record about some other projects, how is it going to be done?" Eden asked.

"As the world is today and as it is likely to be for some time to come, the industrial life of Western Europe literally depends upon the continued free navigation of the canal.

"Is it possible for us to believe the word of the present Egyptian government to the extent of leaving it in their power?"

"I truly think we have done everything in our power by our actions, by our treaty, to show our good will. And our reward has been broken faith and broken promises. We have been subjected to a ceaseless barrage of propaganda. This has been accompanied by attempts at subversion in British territories.

"Col. Nasser's action indicated the nature of the regime with which we had to deal."

General Puller Opines Corps Is Regretting McKeeon Trial Order

By BEM PRICE PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—A beamed marine hero, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller, said today he thought the Marine Corps "regrets" the court-martial of S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeeon.

In a voice like a fog horn, the general told the seven-man court-martial panel, "I think from the testimony of Gen. Pate yesterday that the Marine Corps ever ordered that this man be tried."

The Marines' commandant, Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, thought the court yesterday he thought McKeeon merited only a reduction in rank and a transfer.

McKeeon is the former drill instructor who led a platoon of 74 recruits on a night disciplinary march into a tidal marsh where six drowned.

As a result, McKeeon is charged with involuntary manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking on duty.

Puller, chest ablaze with eight rows of ribbons, appeared as an expert on Marine training methods at the trial of the 31-year-old native of Worcester, Mass.

Immediately after Puller's testimony, defense attorney Emile Zola Berman of New York City said, "The defense rests."

The only Marine ever to hold five Navy Crosses and an Army Distinguished Service Cross, Puller spoke in his normal battlefield voice. For his testimony, the microphones were turned off.

Earlier, the high-domed hero was asked by Berman whether he thought the night march led by McKeeon was good military practice "apart from the results."

The general replied: "In my opinion, the reason American soldiers made out so poorly in Korea was mostly due to lack of night training. If we are going to win the next war, in my opinion, 50 per cent of the training time should be allotted to night training."

Berman asked, "Do I take it you consider the march good?"

Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, his open collar glistening with the four silver stars of Marine commandant, testified yesterday. In essence, he said McKeeon could be convicted only of stupidity.

The blue-eyed, sandy-haired general said that in his opinion McKeeon merited a reduction in rank and a transfer. Whether the seven-man court-martial panel, composed of six Marines and a Navy doctor, will agree depends, as the Marines say, "on which way the ball bounces."

Top Prices Of $65-66 Reported For Early Sales Of Tobacco Markets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS OTTO OWENS said the price range at Lumberton was from a top of $55 to a low of $8. The top quality, was not selling quite as well as a year ago. Lowest grades he said, were no better than last year, while middle grades were a little better.

Of 123 piles in the first three rows at Lumberton, 31 went to the Flu-Cured Stabilization Corp. under the government loan program. The price was supported at from $35 to $61 per hundred pounds.

At Fairmont, a government grader estimated the average of the first hour of sales was $49-$50. Most of the tobacco was common and medium. Good and fair lemons on primings, good lemon lugs, low and fair primings ranged from $38 to $63 on the bulk of sales. A low of $5 was reported on a smoked pile and a high of $66 on fine lemon lugs.

Opening prices ranged from $45 to $66 a hundred pounds at Tamm and Lake City in South Carolina. The average was put at around $56, and the volume was called "heavy."

Nondescript varieties, unaffected by government supports, went for as low as $5 at Lake City.

A spokesman for the Twin States Warehouse in Mullins said the government was "getting a right good percentage" of the crop. He said his warehouse had a "full sale" going and also put the top price at about $66.

He described the opening sale as "a fairly good one."

An opening day average of around $55 per hundred pound was predicted by W. P. Hedrick, tobacco marketing specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

The first row sold at Fayetteville, N.C. averaged about $54. Sales Supervisor George Ed Ward reported. The three Fayetteville warehouses reported offerings were somewhat short of capacity.

The crop for both states was described as better in quality than at the same time last year. Much of the crop has not yet been harvested.

When the South Carolina market opened July 28 last year, the first day average price was $57.28. The North Carolina Border markets held their first sales last year on Aug. 3 and the opening day average price was $52.59.

The support price for this year's crop averages 48.9 cents per pound, compared with 48.3 cents last year.

South Carolina markets opening today were Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Hemingway, Kingstree, Lamar, Lake City, Loris, Mullins, Pamplico and Timmonsville.

The North Carolina Border markets are Chadbourn, Clarkton, Fair Bluff, Fairmont, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Tabor City and Whiteville.

The big North Carolina Eastern Belt will start sales Aug. 23 while the state's Middle Belt is slated to open Sept. 4. The North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt will open Sept. 18.

Fired Patrolman To Seek Hearing

RALEIGH (AP)—A state highway patrolman who was fired yesterday for insubordination has indicated he will seek a public hearing.

Patrolman R. A. Calloway, stationed at Granite Quarry, was fired by Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt for refusing to explain or clarify complaints he had made against his superior officer, Capt. W. F. Bailey, commander of Troop D at Salisbury.

The dismissal came during a conference here involving Scheidt, Calloway, Bailey and Col. J. R. Smith, Highway Patrol commander.

Smith said Calloway, with the patrol nine years, made some complaints against Bailey in a letter to himself and Scheidt. Scheidt called a conference, Smith added, to determine "what the charges were."

The patrol commander said, "Calloway's replies were very vague," and finally Scheidt ordered Calloway to relate his complaints. When Calloway refused, Smith said, Scheidt fired him.

Young Mother Is Seventh Polio Victim For County

A 20-year-old mother of two children is Pitt County's seventh polio victim.

The young white woman, resident of the Bell Arthur community, is undergoing treatment for Bulbar polio at Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill. Diagnosis of a local physician was confirmed by the Health Director Walter C. Humbert, said she had not been immunized. Under the priority groups recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and adopted by all the states, the young woman was not eligible for the injections at the Health Department. Current recommendations limit recipients of the Salk anti-polio vaccine in public clinics to those from birth to 20 years of age and expectant mothers.

Dr. Humbert said the special clinics for administering the vaccine to the eligible population will be continued through next week.

The clinics are being held this week from 8:30 a. m. until 4 p. m. every day, through Friday, and from 8:30 a. m. until noon on Saturday from 8:30 a. m. until noon. In Fayetteville, the clinics will be held Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 8:30 to 4:30 and on Saturday from 8:30 until noon.

Yesterday 847 youngsters received the Salk shot at both Health Department clinics, and another estimated 350 got the injections in the offices of private physicians. This brings the total for the past ten days to 3478; with 2,833 of these first injections. Dr. Humbert said that of the approximately 21,000 eligible persons between the ages of six months and 20 years, about 7,500 have been immunized since the program began in April, 1955. He noted the biggest recent gain is in the age group under 10, with some 75 to 80 per cent of these children being vaccinated. However, he said there are still about 2,000 children under 10 who have not gotten their first injection.

Local Rector Leaves For Post At College

Dr. Wallace I. Wolverton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church here for the past four years, left Greenville today to assume duties as professor of Oriental Languages and Literature at St. John's College, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Canada.

He will be succeeded by the Rev. John W. Drake, Jr. of Winston-Salem, who is expected to arrive in the city September 15. In the meantime, supply pastors will fill the church pulpit.

Dr. and Mrs. Wolverton made the move to Canada today after residence in Greenville since April, 1952. While here, Dr. Wolverton also served as a part time associate professor in the department of social studies at East Carolina College.

At St. John's College he will teach courses dealing with the language and literature of the ancient Near East and their bearing upon the Old Testament. St. John's is a college of liberal arts and theology and was one of the founding institutions of the University of Manitoba which now has about 6,000 students.

Prior to coming to Greenville Dr. Wolverton served as a chaplain in the Air Force for 15 years and was retired because of physical disability.

The Rev. Mr. Drake will come to Greenville from St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in the Twin City where he has been rector for the past five years. The minister is Winston-Salem's "Young Man of the Year" and is president of the ministers association. He will also work with students at East Carolina College.

Credit Balance Of $38 Million In General Fund

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges was "very happy" to report today that North Carolina's general fund had a credit balance of about $38 million dollars at the end of last fiscal year.

This compared with a balance of about 15 million at the end of the previous fiscal year. The governor reported the credit balance was "much larger than anticipated" for two reasons: (1) general fund revenues for the year were up more than 19 million dollars and (2) expenditures were seven million dollars less than the total authorized by the 1955 Legislature.

Hodges pointed out that general fund spending for the 1955-56 fiscal year totaled $202,789,224, as compared with $207,789,224 the small drop in spending was due to a reduction in the state's contribution to the employees retirement system and a reduction in spending for debt service.

Pitt Man Found Dead Of Gunshot Wound Yesterday

Mark Caudell, 48, was found dead in his son's home near Bruce yesterday afternoon.

Caudell was said to have died from a gun shot wound believed fired from a .410 shotgun found near his body.

Deputy Sheriff Duke Andrews, who investigated the death, said Caudell was lying face down in a bedroom of his son's home. He had been shot through the left side of his chest, Andrews said.

A younger son of the dead man, Allen, 12, discovered the body around 6 o'clock last night.

The elder Caudell's home is located some distance down the road from the son's home.

Caudell died on the William McLawhorn farm.

Tea Cup: Woman's Best Friend

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON—A cup of tea is a woman's best friend if she is a stranger at a party, says a Washington hostess whose courses in fashion and manners at Southeastern University here have attracted many of the capital's official wives and daughters over the past few years.

Mrs. Gladstone Williams, director of the university's popular finishing and modeling school, advises newcomers to the party-front to head for the tea table when they find themselves at loose ends.

"Aside from giving a person something to do with his hands, a cup of tea can provide an opener in conversation with others, says Mrs. Williams, who with her journalist husband, entertains many of the town's bigwigs in her own home. "You never feel alone as you walk up to examine a painting, or glance over books and bibelots on the hostess's shelves."

"Women of background, good manners and training often are stymied by the rules and regulations governing entertaining here."

Copeland, district director, who reviewed the Club Creed and gave her interpretation of the meaning of the Creed. Members were urged to memorize the creed and prizes will be given members who learn it.

Mrs. Copeland also explained the meaning of the Club Emblem, using the pin ritual. This meeting was part of the orientation course on Club Achievement, the Dixie Council project for the year.

Budget Fashions Star Jersey

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
YOU DON'T HAVE to break the bank to step out in the newest styles for fall. Smart girls can find high fashion at thrifty prices if they set their sights right.

The girl on a budget should make simplicity her goal, look for fine fabrics and flattering lines, and plan a color-coordinated wardrobe, so that one set of accessories can go with several outfits.

A bright star of the fall fashion lineup will be wool jersey, used in many ways by designers in all price brackets, but especially notable in budget lines. It lends itself admirably to the softly molded lines of the new silhouette, and will be a standby of the working girl's wardrobe.

Abe Schrader, who concentrates on fashions that are easy on the pocketbook, uses jersey in various textures and weights for many dresses and costumes. Particularly effective is a youthful two-piece outfit in beige angora jersey with bloused top and slim skirt.

Another is a high-style costume consisting of dark gray jersey sheath dress and cutaway box jacket in matching flannel, with necktie silk scarf and lining.

This designer also uses knit trimming on a number of daytime dresses, and often uses a contrasting tweed jacket with a monotone jersey sheath dress.

Most skirts are slim, with design interest above the belt.

Friday Event To Close Summer Playgrounds

Final plans are underway for the last event on the Greenville summer playgrounds.

Friday morning at 9:30 a Mass-Quarade Party will be held at Elm Street Park. Every child is asked to be in costume and come out to enjoy pony rides, bingo and games including ring toss, throwing caps at floating saucers, knocking over bowling pins with balls, and many others.

After the games there will be a talent show in which any child who has been attending the playgrounds may participate. Prizes will be given for the best talent and costumes.

Judges for the costumes will be Mrs. Norman Cameron, Mrs. Marshall Duval and Mrs. James Lafayette.

Judges for the talent will be Mrs. Marie Wallace, Mrs. Jack Boone and Mrs. W. C. James.

After the awards, all of the children bringing picnic lunches will enjoy a city-wide picnic at the park. The Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company will donate free Pepsi-Colas for the picnic.

The colored playgrounds will have similar activities at Riverside Playground Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Pepsi-Colas will also be given for their picnic.

Attendance on all of the city playgrounds has been good throughout the summer and it is hoped that a big crowd will gather for this event.

Summer Dish Of Salmon Steaks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
SUMMERTIME MEALS HOLD no more delightful main course than steamed fresh salmon served chilled with homemade mayonnaise. If you have fresh dill in your garden, or can get it at your market, it will make a wonderfully delicious addition to the mayonnaise. Just chop it fine and add it to the dressing, then garnish the salmon platter with fronds of the pretty herb. The Scandinavian cuisine often uses this combination.

Another way of serving cold salmon and mayonnaise is to add chilled cooked vegetables so that you have a complete main course. Here we have used mushrooms, along with the vegetables, and the recipe calls for commercially-prepared mayonnaise for quick service. Prepare the salmon and vegetables in the cool of the morning and refrigerate until summertime, then arrange attractively on a large platter.

When we served this combination recently, we preferred it with a cold before-dinner beverage and a Roquefort-cheese spread and crackers. Along with the salmon, for something crisp and crunchy, we had a bowl of watercress and carrots. The carrots were sliced into rounds, their centers cut out, and several sprigs of watercress were drawn through the carrot rings. Good to look at and refreshing to eat! For breadstuff, we had hot buttered toast, but you might provide hard rolls and sweet butter. Dessert was a luscious bowl of fresh whole fruit—Bing cherries, apricots, and clusters of seedless grapes. Strong hot black coffee in demitasse cups made a fine finish.

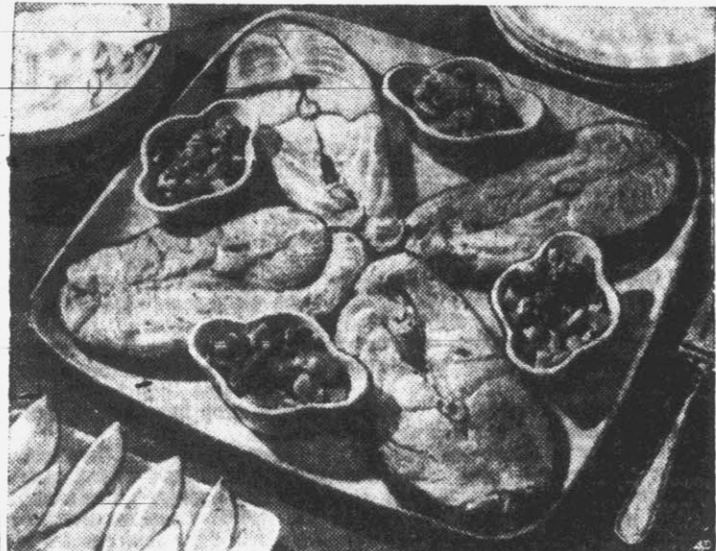

MUSHROOMS

Ingredients: 1 can (3 ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms, water, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 package (10 ounces) frozen mixed vegetables, 1 tablespoon drained capers, 1-4 cup mayonnaise (commercially-prepared), 4 small salmon steaks (poached and chilled), lemon wedges.

Method: Drain mushrooms; add enough water to the mushroom liquid to make 1/2 cup. Put liquid in a saucepan with salt and frozen mixed vegetables; cook according to package directions until just tender; drain and mix with drained mushrooms, capers and mayonnaise. At serving time arrange poached chilled salmon steaks on platter. Spoon chilled vegetable mixture into small individual serving dishes, lettuce cups, or romaine leaves. Serve with lemon wedges.

TO POACH SALMON STEAKS

Four small fresh salmon steaks (weighing 1 3/4 pounds) may be poached in a 12-inch skillet. To do so, put 1 1/2 cups water, 1 small onion (sliced), 1 teaspoon salt, 4 peppercorns, 1 bay leaf, a sprig of parsley and a few celery tops into the skillet. Bring to a boil; simmer for 10 minutes. Place the steaks in the skillet, cover and simmer (do not boil) until tender—about 10 minutes. Remove each steak with two wide pancake turners or spatulas; chill. (If the narrow ends of the salmon should break off, just put them back carefully so the steaks will look whole). Poaching stock may be used as part of the liquid in a cream sauce for other fish.

Presenting Deb No. 5

(Fifth in a series featuring Pitt County Debs).
By ANNETTE JACKSON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Miss Theodora Albritton of Farmville, who will make her debut at the 1956 Debutante Ball, finds school anything but dull. Last year she was first at Marjorie Webster Junior College in Washington, D. C. She will return there in September to enter her sophomore and final year. After that she will be out job-seeking.

Miss Albritton is majoring in speech, radio and television. With this major she takes such interesting sounding courses as acting, ballet, history of drama, mechanics of radio and television production and English composition. Although the college is not affiliated with any commercial company in a field work program, Miss Albritton reports the students tour the large studios in the capital city. They get their real "feel" for the work, however, right on campus where they have a miniature studio set up which is an exact replica of commercial studios.

They produce their shows which they have written in production classes—complete with commercials. It comes as near to an actual situation as the brains on the faculty can imagine.

This summer Miss Albritton has been spending a good deal of her time practicing her speech and trying her hand at television commercials. The latter, she reports, is fun and at the moment her chief interest. She points out, however, that her interest may change before job-hunting becomes one of her major activities. Seems it was only last year that she was carried away with the idea of working for Radio Free Europe.

As "one of the best girl's schools" Miss Albritton will serve as president of the speech department for next year at Marjorie Webster. As president of this department in which some thirty students were enrolled last year, she will also be a member of the Leader's Club.

She describes Marjorie Webster as far as speech is concerned" in the East. She lists among its alumnae such notables as Anne Jeffries and Grace Kelly's sister. Classmates of hers are Pat Priest, daughter of the former U. S. secretary of treasury, and Carolyn Dodd, daughter of Connecticut's senator.

Miss Albritton, a blue-eyed brunette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted L. Albritton. Her activities for the summer include numerous beach trips and a momentous weekend in Annapolis for June Week.

As hobbies she maintains a collection of dolls and keeps them in tip-top shape. She loves music of all kinds—even a uke variety.

Her marshals for the 1956 Debutante Ball will be Tommy Hicks of Walstonburg, Carroll Allen of Farmville and Arch Bynum of Stantonsburg.

Girl Prefers Anthropology

By HILARY DAVIES
AP Newsfeatures

A SWITCHBOARD GIRL who turns professional actress for her three weeks vacation to pay for a course in anthropology at Columbia University sounds like a clear case of schizophrenia.

But, far from needing a psychiatrist, Betsy Holland is a shining example to all women that it is never too late to pursue new interests and gain knowledge.

To anyone who feels that the old enemy time is against any constructive course of study once one is past the 'teens, many-talented Miss Holland offers her own experience as encouragement.

She dependently told a friend it was not worth studying anthropology at night schools because:

"I'll be 40 before I've finished the course." (A slight exaggeration in age for dramatic emphasis.) The friend replied:

"You're going to be 40 anyway, so why not have the knowledge too?"

This outlook so appealed to Miss Holland that she immediately enrolled at Columbia, and, to pay for the first year's tuition accepted an offer to spend her vacation playing Ida, a countess with doubtful morals, in a New England tour of Cole Porter's "You Never Know."

Normally she would have been reluctant to take to the stage again.

A former singer and actress, Miss Holland gratefully retired two years ago to the comparative calm of office routine, and has no desire to return.

Miss Holland's complicated story of conflicting ambitions began way back when she was a schoolgirl in Chicago. She had two interests then: singing and anthropology.

As her family were short of money and college was out of the question, the former looked like a more profitable line for a 17-year-old.

She sang with local bands for several years, then came to New York and in a few years packed in singing, dramatic and dancing lessons, three Broadway shows and a stint on the Kate Smith show.

"Then I decided that either I quit or end my days in a sanitarium, so I quit," she says. "You have to be a bit crazy, conceited and commercial to be an actress."

She is reconciled to the fact that a schedule of working all day in an office, studying all evening, running an apartment and keeping up with her love of cooking is going to be tough, but her aim is sufficiently sure in her mind to spur her on. That aim is to go to Israel to make an anthropological study of the people there, from so many differing backgrounds and cultures, being "smashed into one nation."

30 Years Ago Today

THE DAILY REFLECTOR August 2, 1926

Plans for furthering the advertising campaign of the Greenville Tobacco Market were perfected at a mass meeting at the courthouse last night. The session was well attended by numbers of business and professional men who expressed themselves in an optimistic vein concerning the possibilities of Greenville as a greater bright leaf market and the leading shopping center of Eastern North Carolina. Committees were appointed to make a canvass of business and professional interests to solicit funds for carrying on the advertising campaign. A few voluntary contributions were accepted during the session.

C-of-C Goals Not By Or For A Few

Greenville's Chamber of Commerce is seeking more support from the people of the city.

If the organization is to do the work expected of it by the people of Greenville, it must have more financial support and more members to provide that support.

Today the Chamber of Commerce began its new membership drive. Within the next few days a larger number of businesses and professional people of the city who are not now members of the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to join. A good many, we hope, will respond by becoming members of the Chamber of Commerce. Others, unfortunately, will turn a deaf ear to those who present the case for the Chamber.

Though an increase of members at this particular time, the local Chamber of Commerce hopes to realize a portion of the $4,000 needed for the industrial development campaign planned for Greenville this year. Unless the financial support for the program is realized, the industrial development program will have to be curtailed considerably or abandoned altogether.

It Took A Good Scare To Stir The Parents

With dreaded polio a daily threat, parents of Pitt County have finally been stirred to having their youngsters vaccinated against the disease.

Prior to the outbreak of polio in Pitt County 10 days ago, there appeared little concern over the fact that only 40 per cent of the youngsters of the county had been vaccinated against the disease. Clinics conducted weekly by the health department were drawing little response from parents who wanted their children vaccinated against the disease.

Suddenly the disease was upon the county. In quick succession, it claimed the life of one youngster, crippled three others and left one victim—the only one who had been vaccinated—without paralysis. Almost as quickly the public, which had adopted a passive attitude toward the vaccine, swarmed to physicians offices and Health Department clinics for vaccinations.

The threat of an epidemic of the dreaded disease brought response where months of begging, pleading and urging by physicians and health officials had brought little response.

It is tragic that polio has taken within the past few days the terrible toll which it has in Pitt County. Yet, the outbreak may be a blessing in disguise for the county. Had not the cases erupted, literally thousands of youngsters in the county would have remained unvaccinated indefinitely. A more severe epidemic at a later date may have taken a greater toll.

The county is not yet out of danger. Polio is here and before the outbreak subsides, the dreaded disease may take a dearer toll than it has taken within the past 10 days. Even so there is some comfort in the fact that almost 3,000 children of the county who had not received a single Salk shot 10 days ago now have at least one of the shots which should lessen the severity of polio should it attack them. Each day the number of youngsters who have received at least an initial injection of the vaccine mounts.

Unfortunate as it is, it sometimes take a tragedy and a severe shock to transform an attitude of passiveness into one of action. Such is the case with Pitt County and the Salk vaccine.

TEACHERS—The North Carolina Education Association, composed of some 25,000 white school teachers, has not yet formulated policy with respect to support of the school amendment in the September 8 election.

Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards, executive secretary, said so many of the directors as well as the members are on vacation, it has been impossible to get any sampling of opinion. Pres. O.P. Johnson is out of the state until early next week. It is expected that as soon as he gets back he will call a meeting of the board to determine further action.

Probable course will be to convene the Delegate Assembly, consisting of one representative for every ten members. Action of this body would more accurately reflect opinion of the entire membership than would action by the directors alone. The executive committee of the State PTA has been criticized for purporting to speak for the whole body. It has been pointed out that there isn't a teacher on the committee.

Some individual teachers have expressed opposition to the plan proposed by the extra session. Others have individually announced full support of it. Whether the organization will take a stand will depend upon decision of the directors next week and perhaps the assembly later.

Meanwhile Governor Hodges and his associates are working on campaign strategy to put the amendments across. Letters are being written to several hundred men and women asking for active cooperation in the campaign. While some organized opposition is expected, opinion around capital square is that most established organizations such as PTA and the United Forces for Education will take no official action, leaving each member to determine his or her own position.

FURRINERS—New England manufacturers give as chief reason for permanently closing mills and extending unpaid vacations the competition of Japanese and Southern textiles. The implication is clear they regard both as unfair "foreign" competition. Southern textiles are feeling equal impact of Japanese competition. To date no Southern mill has suggested that New Englanders ought to get out of the textile business, or blamed the Northern mills for the plight of the industry. It has been suggested that New Englanders ought to get out of the textile business, or blamed the Northern mills for the plight of the industry. It has been suggested that the control exercised by labor unions of textile operations in New England is a major cause of trouble for everybody in the business.

CIGARETTES—The 41 States which collected local excise taxes on cigarettes in 1955 garnered a total of $496 million, according to recent report of the Federation of Tax Administrators. This was about $25 million more than collected in 1954. Some of the increase is attributed to reversal of the trend against smoking. Most of it is credited to higher rates levied by the taxing authorities. The report adds that "when tax collection statistics are translated into per capita consumption figures, it appears that smoking has returned to former levels."

Federal, State and local excise tax levies on tobacco products, mostly cigarettes, approximate $2 billion dollars—about double what all the tobacco farmers in America received for all types of tobacco marketed last year. It is apparent that taxes do not curtail cigarette smoking. Whether taxes tend to lower the price paid farmers for raw tobacco has been debated in the Congress and almost every State Legislature without evidence of clear conclusion on the point.

POTPOURRI—Fellow in Charlotte (name not used by request) recently advertised for an old farm bell. The little ad was placed in the Agricultural Review, a weekly publication of the State Department of Agriculture, which carries free want ads for purchase, sale or swap of purely farm stuff—no merchants or professionals allowed. He wrote the editor the other day that he obtained two farm bells. Also, the ad led to a deal whereby he bought a church bell from a Baptist church down east for a Presbyterian church in Charlotte. "Looks like he's gone into the bell business," quipped Mrs. Pauline Decosta of the department staff. "We can't handle any more bells ads for him."

Sponsors of the Pearsall Plan for public schools like what the Christian Science Monitor had to say about their baby. Publication of church paper dubbed it "accommodation—not resistance" to the Supreme Court decisions.

It is true that, very few men find four-leaf clovers? Members of the advisory budget commission were sauntering over a clover patch at one stop and several of them started looking for four-leaves. No luck. Kemp Doughton, Joe Eagles and C.V. Henkel all tried their best search diligently and find nary a four-leaf. Their women folks could walk casually along the same path and garner a handful.

Governor Luther Hodges had a sort of anti-climatic weekend. He left Raleigh early Saturday, happy and proud because the extra session of the Legislature had adopted his school program in to and in one day less time than he had figured. He made a speech Saturday, met and talked with a lot of friends, and planned to get up early Sunday for a fishing trip in the Gulf Stream. He heard before going to bed that his church (Edenton Street Methodist in Raleigh which he attends regularly) had been destroyed by lightning. Then the boat from which he was fishing developed engine trouble, and he drifted around for hours before a small Coast Guard boat came to tow him to port. It wasn't exactly a "Lost Weekend," but it is one His Excellency would like to forget.

Well On Our Way To A New Fatality Record

Pitt County is on its way to an all-time record in traffic deaths for the county in a single year.

It is not a record of which to be proud.

Since records have been kept on highway fatalities in the county, the largest number of people killed in traffic accidents in a single year is 18. Already this year, with five months ahead, Pitt already has suffered 14 traffic fatalities.

It will be slightly short of a miracle if the county manages to get by the next five months with four or less additional fatalities. During the next few months as the pace of business moves to its peak in Pitt County there will be more traffic on the highways. The busy season will overlap the tail end of the vacation season when people are hurrying to and from recreation areas. Then too, the fall will bring worse driving conditions than during the past few months.

There have been several years the record number of 18 people were killed in traffic accidents in Pitt. Up to now, however, the county has managed to get by without setting a new record. This year, unless there is a drastic change in driving habits in the county during the remaining months of 1956, the old record will be eclipsed by an even bloodier traffic record.

The only thing that can keep a new death record from being set this year is for the drivers of Pitt County individually and collectively to resolve to abide by the rules of safe driving. Even then, we may see our death toll go over the 18 mark.

Every driver in Pitt County should make it his personal business to prevent traffic accidents and fatalities during the remainder of the year. True though it sounds, the life he saves may truly be his own.

By comparison of membership numbers, one is led to the conclusion that Greenville's Chamber of Commerce does not receive from businesses of the city the support which similar organizations in neighboring communities have. Greenville's Chamber of Commerce, with only 239 members at present, has the smallest membership of any Chamber of Commerce in a city of comparable size in this area. Other Chambers of Commerce range in membership from 310 in Goldsboro to 609 in Wilson.

Adequate support of the Chamber of Commerce is not the responsibility of a relatively few business houses or professional people of a community. It is the responsibility of every business firm and every professional person of the community. For as the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce bring about a better community, all the businesses, professions and the citizens of the community as a whole benefit.

Greenville's Chamber of Commerce which has meant so much to the city over a long period of years is now asking the community for support in order that the organization may be of greater value to Greenville in the future. We trust the support from Greenville's people will be readily forthcoming.

Other Editors Are Saying ... Does This Step On Your Toes?

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

One of the most unsightly, close examination to be half times even destructive pests in America today appears on close examination to be half human, half insect. It has a striped body, four legs, two hands and a wicked looking face with a patch over one eye. The "thing's" a bad looking and bad acting critter.

It thrives on discarded wrappers, empty bottles and paper cups, cigarette butts, second-hand chewing gum, banana peels, beer cans, paper towels and tissue paper.

It hates barbage cans and disposal bags—too neat and sanitary.

Today it is found nearly everywhere in the U. S. A.—along previously beautiful wooded lanes and rural landscapes, along the highways and byways, along city streets and on otherwise beautiful lawns.

We refer, of course, to the Litterbug pest which has become a number one national nuisance.

How many of us are Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Litterbug? How many of us dump the trash and garbage which litters this beautiful and blessed land of ours and yet carelessly toss out an empty paper cup, soiled tissue or soft drink bottle?

How really conscientious are you about properly disposing of papers and trash while away from home, particularly while riding in an automobile?

The sad truth is that not enough of us care or else the national cost of dealing with trash thrown from car windows in this country would not surpass $30 million each year.

Many people in Rocky Mount—as in all other cities—must now spend a part of every day gathering up the litter from their lawns which has been scattered by day and by night by the ever-growing plague of Litterbugs.

How glad all of us should be therefore that the Rocky Mount Garden Club has mounted a crusade against the litterers. Working in conjunction with the Jaycee "clean-up" campaign and a national organization known as "Keep America Beautiful, Inc." which is spearheading the war on Litterbugs all across the country, the Garden Club here is planning to do its share against this national disgrace.

An educational program, including a huge "Litterbug" in the Children's Museum and convenient litter bags (on sale at H. W. Weeks Store) where the club has its garden center) will implement the local program.

Are we sure the public will join us in reclaiming the good lands for their wonderful work.

How 'The Ripper' Got Took

This is a story of a local gambling shark who isn't a shark anymore.

This fellow wasn't a big time gambler... you know, the kind who puts down a hundred dollars on a horse race. Well, he wasn't one of those kind of gamblers, but when he bet he always won, except one time. I won't tell you his name. I'll just call him Ripper.

It all started like so: This person we'll call Lefty heard the first inning of the New York-Detroit game a couple weeks back and in that first inning Mickey Mantle hit a home run. Lefty knew that Ripper was a Yankee fan like himself, so he goes up to him and starts a conversation about the Bronx Bombers. It went something like this:

Lefty: "I got a feeling our boy Mickey is going to hit one out today in that Detroit game Ripper. He hasn't hit a homer in the last few games and he's due."

Ripper: "I don't know now—his leg hasn't healed yet. He's still limping around a little and he's just not right yet."

Lefty: "Well, I tell you what let's do. Let's place a small wager on it. Okay?"

Ripper: "Okay, Lefty. Let's bet 30 cents."

Of course, Ripper didn't know that Lefty had already heard part of the game and he didn't know that Mantle had already socked a homer.

Ripper heard the radio account of the game that night and—paid off the next morning. When he transferred the money to Lefty, he also transferred a few words concerning Lefty's luck.

In years past, Ripper had pulled off some tricks like that on unsuspecting persons and to say the least he was quite proud of the fact. Matter of fact, his ego was filled to overflowing until he got a letter that afternoon. The bottom fell out of his ego cup when he opened the letter and read:

"Hello Ripper — you have been took — you have been swindled by me and I'm glad. I knew that Mantle had already hit a homer when we made that bet yesterday. I'd love to see your face now but I'm afraid to get that close because I know you'd hit me. Please find 35 cents enclosed. The 30 cents I took from you and 5 cents of mine. It was worth it all just to do what I did to you. Lefty."

Nowadays, Ripper walks around in a daze. He seems to see nothing, or hear nothing. He rarely speaks, but when he does it's a barely audible "I'll get even. So help me, I'll get even."

Notebook On Life

They're Not Invited To U. S.

By STAN SWINTON

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The 12 teen-agers were excited and very happy at the Rome airport.

They peered at their passports, as do all new travelers, and giggled over the photos. The two girls wore pedal pushers and were very proud of them. Giuseppe sported a beanie. Most of the other boys wore blue jeans, some faded and inches too short.

Their pinched faces and narrow chests were a tip-off to poverty and undernourishment. Back home I would have figured them as slum-kids off for fresh air camp.

Giuseppe, who sat beside me in the old two-engine Yugoslav plane, fumbled with his seat belt with growing embarrassment. I offered to help.

"Thank you," he said gratefully. "You see this is my first time in an airplane, although I am president of the Partisan Sons of Termi."

"That's an important job," I said. "Are your friends from Termi, too?"

"No, they are all president of local federations of partisan children. We are going to Bulgaria as guests of the comrades here. We are going to a big vacation camp on the Black Sea for six weeks."

Through coincidence, for the next four hours of chatting with Giuseppe and his friends in the plane, I was to learn a partial answer to a question many Americans ask themselves:

"How are new Communists made in Western Europe by Moscow?"

Giuseppe was taken aback when I told him I was an American newspaperman. Then, as if to let me know he didn't think being an American was too bad, he said:

"Rocky Marciano is an American—an Italo-American."

I asked if he liked sports.

"Oh, yes. Cycling, soccer and boxing. Sking, too."

"You should have seen Toni Sailer win the downhill at the Cortina Olympics," I said.

"Were you there?"

"Yes," I replied.

"The Russians were very strong. They won the Olympics. You must have seen them?"

"They were good in cross-country skiing and hockey," I said. "But nobody wins the Olympics."

He looked at me wisely and said nothing.

By then the youngsters were sky-larking. One kept opening the door to the pilot's compartment so they could watch him at work.

"Other Partisan sons and daughters have been invited to camps in Hungary," Giuseppe volunteered. "The Communist nations are all comrades and they invite us as comrades even if Italy is not as far advanced."

"Maybe you better wait and see Bulgaria before you decide," I said.

"How would you like to visit the United States?"

Giuseppe thought a minute and then smiled.

"I would like to go very much, to see Hollywood and meet Rocky Marciano. However, nobody ever asked us to go to a camp in America. The Bulgarians and Russians ask us."

At Belgrade, the youngsters waved friendly goodbys to me—and headed cheerfully toward the Bulgarian indoctrination camp where they would be told that the America, which never invited them, was a place of evil.

Farmers To Briefly Benefit

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Administration's current program of throwing American farm surpluses into foreign markets will have short-term, pre-election benefits for American farmers. The long-term consequences, however, may not be so good.

In selling enormous amounts of grain, fats and fibers in foreign markets, the government reduces supplies on—or hanging over—the domestic market and thereby boosts domestic prices. This means more income for farmers and more important vote-wise—merchants and small-town workers who share farm prosperity.

There are also psychological advantages. The huge amounts of produce the government has bought are a source of pain to taxpayers. Taxpayers know they have paid for them; they know that in buying them they have increased their own food bills, and they know they are paying for them a third time in warehousing and storage charges. Getting rid of these surpluses is as good as plastic surgery for an unshightly scar.

LATER, PAINFUL EFFECTS

However, world trade is an interlocking, fluid thing, not something that can be neatly compartmentalized. Pushing a lot of American produce into this market at cut prices will tend to reduce other markets and increase the flow of foreign food into the U.S.

The government, for instance, is sending the ingredients for reconstituted milk to Thailand. In itself, that's fine. It will mean more and better milk for Thai babies and children. Thailand is a great rice-exporting country. With more calories in milk, it may be able to sell a little more rice abroad. That might cost the U.S. part of its export market for rice or other foodstuffs.

Whenever we sell food at cut prices, we snatch a market away from some other country. That other country then loses sales, or makes other sales in competition with the U. S. some place else in the world.

WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLIES

The world's food supplies tend to form a huge pool. There is no national "food" in any place. Where dams are raised the flow is held back. When a dam is breached—as we are doing now—the general level tends to rise.

It is as true with prices as it is with supplies. In recent years the U.S. has suspended the law of supply and demand to the extent that we have kept farm prices high. This has influenced prices in all parts of the world.

Here's one way that works:

Polish hams have commanded a premium on the American market. When the government keeps American pork prices high, it increases the price Polish exporters can get for their hams. This increases the return to the Red masters of Poland.

Our domestic price support program has, in the same way, tended to keep up the prices of Dutch and German hams, Irish bacon, French cheeses, Italian and Spanish olive oil and a whole catalogue of other edibles.

SECONDARY EFFECTS ON WAGES

Our farm-price program has abetted the wage spiral. With higher food prices, workers naturally demanded more pay. And since our farm-price program stiffened foreign farm prices, foreign workers also demanded increases. Citreon workers didn't do as good as the GM boys, but their pay moved in the same direction.

Now that the U.S. is staging clearance sales of its farm products, foreign food producers will lose whatever strength they gained from the high American price level. Foreign workers will be under pressure to take pay cuts. With lower food prices they won't lose a thing—except face.

And here at home, because of increased imports of foreign foods, we'll have a brand new problem and we'll be off once again into the wild blue yonder.

Who Sponsored Spending Measures?

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A survey of the recent Congress' record on economy discloses that the Democrats invariably sponsored spending measures, and usually for the benefit of the so-called "special interests." Several individual Democrats bolted their Party, and blocked proposed "raids on the Treasury."

However, in specific cases involving approximately $1.5 billion it was Republicans, and mostly strong Administration men, who labored for the taxpayers. And, as usual, it was the Senate which felt no compunction in throwing the taxpayers' money around to prop up shipping, aviation and industries engaged in production for national defense.

Finally, had any of the attempted "giveaway" schemes reached his desk, President Eisenhower would have vetoed them, even though some of the lobbyists for them once stood high in the GOP hierarchy.

DEMOCRATS BACKED PAN-AM WINDFALL

The proposal to turn over $181,000,000 in hidden subsidies to three large and lucrative airlines, for instance was sponsored by two Democrats—Senator Alan Bible of Nevada and Representative Owen Harris of Arkansas.

The measure would have revised the Civil Aeronautics Act so that money received from sale of equipment would not have been used to reduce subsidies financed through taxes. It would have been a $75,000,000 windfall for only three firms—Pan American World Airways and its affiliate, Panagra, and Braniff.

Airlines not on subsidy which include all the other big companies, especially American, United and Eastern in the domestic field, Trans World and Northwest on international routes, would not have benefited by a cent. Small feeder lines, although recruited by Pan American for the amendment, would have collected only "chickenfeed."

HUSSEINOV'S VICTORY

Despite extraordinary lobby activities and pressure by the hopeful beneficiaries, Representative John W. Heselton, an Eisenhower Republican from the storied town of Deerfield, Mass., scored one of the most amazing one-man victories in recent Congressional annals.

Although the measure passed the Senate by a 59-22 vote, and was favored unanimously by the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, Heselton persuaded the House to defeat it by a 196-143 tally. He was ably assisted by Representative

Walter H. Judd, another Eisenhower man from Minnesota and by Representative Daniel J. Flood, Pennsylvania Democrat.

Representative Emanuel Celler, Brooklyn Democrat and chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, blocked another gift to the great airlines, although the measure was approved by Democrat-controlled committees. It would have required the companies to finance the airlines companies' testing of new equipment, especially engines, at a cost of $12,500,000 a year. Only the giant firms are putting new and novel types of planes into service.

TANKER DEAL SUNK

A talk pushed by Representative Herbert C. Bonner, North Carolina Democrat, was killed by a fellow Democrat—Representative Herbert Zelenko of New York. Bonner proposed that the government buy back 35 tankers for $1,600,000 which it sold for only $950,000 nine years ago, with other losses to Uncle Sam, his bill would have been about $25,000,000 with no commensurate gain.

Despite Democrats' successful and courageous opposition, these three "giveaway" schemes could not have reached the point of passage without the prior approval of Democrat-controlled committees. In a way,

Republican Campaign Leaders Rap 'Irresponsible Action' By Stassen

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—The heads of the Republican Senate and House campaign committees today accused Harold E. Stassen of "irresponsible actions" in seeking to dump Vice President Nixon. The joint statement by Sen. Schoeppel (R-Kan) and Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) came as Stassen began a 30-day leave of absence from his post as President Eisenhower's assistant on disarmament problems. Stassen had requested the leave to push his campaign to replace Nixon on the 1956 Republican ticket with Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts. He announced he planned to open Eisenhower-Herter headquarters here today.

wide preference" for Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate. "So far as we can ascertain," they said, "the leaders of the Republican party and the majority of the American people are 100 per cent in their support of Richard Nixon."

Stassen said he would "persist" in trying to get Herter nominated, even if no Republican leaders joined in his effort. Herter himself has given Stassen no support, agreeing to put Nixon's name in nomination at San Francisco.

The former Minnesota governor indicated he would support the GOP slate, even if Nixon should win renomination.

Schoeppel, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign committee, and Simpson, chairman of the GOP Congressional Committee, said Stassen "has been benched and has apparently withdrawn from the team."

At his news conference yesterday, Eisenhower praised Nixon — as he has done before — but he refused to be pinned down on whether others, including Herter, would be acceptable to him as possible running mates. He said the Republican National Convention in San Francisco later this month will be "open" to anybody who wants to seek the vice presidential nomination.

He also praised Stassen for "a very splendid job" as his disarmament aide, saying Stassen will be welcome back at his White House post after his leave expires. Stassen said he interpreted Eisenhower's news conference remarks as a go-ahead for his plans to try to put across Herter's nomination.

Stassen has indicated he expects to return to the disarmament job and that he sought the furlough to emphasize that his pro-Herter drive is a personal project unconnected with the White House. By the time the 30 days are up, the GOP convention will have made its candidate choices.

Schoeppel and Simpson predicted that Nixon — whom they described as "exceptional" and "trial tested" — will be renominated "by acclamation on the first ballot at the Republican National Convention despite the irresponsible actions of Harold E. Stassen."

They asserted further that "the rank-and-file members of the Republican party have become disgusted with Stassen's antics."

Interviewed on NBC last night, Stassen said he is not conducting a "dump Nixon" campaign. He called it "an elect Eisenhower drive and an Eisenhower-Herter drive."

Stassen, a former Minnesota governor, repeated that an Eisenhower-Herter ticket would run 6 per cent stronger than an Eisenhower-Nixon slate in November. Challenging this contention, Schoeppel and Simpson declared that "the loss of Vice President

Globe Trip Is Becalmed

IRISHMAN Bob Adam, a 23-year-old from Dublin, waits for buyers on the Wooden Shoe II. Five young bachelors intended to take the Dutch fishing vessel on an around-the-world jaunt until they found she wouldn't move with normal breezes in her sails.

By BILL USILTON
GEORGETOWN, Md. (AP)—Dutch-built fishing boats are OK for the Zunder-Zee, the North East, and the North Atlantic, but they're just not the type for a round-the-world sailing cruise.

That is the considered opinion of five young sailors—two Canadians, an Englishman, an American, and an Irishman from Dublin.

And they should know. Their craft, Wooden Shoe II, now lies moored in the snug reaches of the Georgetown harbor, and there's a FOR SALE sign tacked to the rigging. The sailors set off around the globe in their small, single-masted craft.

It turned out the heavy sailed vessel just wouldn't move in normal breezes, and a trip through the calm-breezed Pacific would have been out of the question.

Mel Smith, 26-year-old commercial artist from Hamilton, Ont., was skipper of the becalmed crew. He's back at work. Richard Scott, 28, also a native of Hamilton, is back home working as an electrician.

Disney Target Of Actor's Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kirk Douglas has sued Walt Disney for $415,000 over films showing the actor riding on Disney's miniature train.

Douglas' complaint said Disney violated the actor's right of privacy by taking the films surreptitiously during a social visit he and his family paid to the Disney home last April 4.

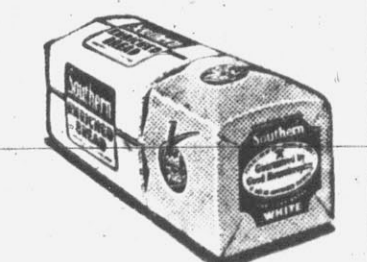

Named with Disney as defendants were the ABC network, which showed the films; three sponsors and three advertising agencies.

Douglas contends his earning power as a movie actor is based on the kind and number of appearances he chooses to make, and the amount of money he receives for such appearances.

MONEY MISSING
LONDON (AP)—A firm which prints money for Britain's colonies reported today that 100,000 new East African pound notes—worth $200,000—have vanished from its London plant. Detectives said they hadn't yet established whether the money was stolen or shipped in error to the wrong address.

Rackets, Gang War In Staid Old London Town

By RAYMOND PALMER
LONDON (AP)—The gangs are at war in London and violence stalks the streets in crepe-soled shoes.

At stake is a glittering prize—a rakeoff estimated at three million dollars a year from a vast protection racket.

Four thugs converge on a man walking alone. They pull nylon stockings over their heads, disguising their features without obscuring their vision.

The victim is jostled into an ill-lit alley.

Old-fashioned barber razors flash. The victim falls, hacked and gashed.

Headlines tell of this underworld war: "Slashers Strike Again . . ." "New Soho War: Billy Hill 'Boy Slashed'." "Another Soho—Razor Slashing." "Police Hurt in Soho Battle."

This is far from the traditional picture of London as a place where unarmed bobbies keep law and order.

Members of Parliament have accused the home secretary, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd-George, of a lack of action to clean up the gangs.

Laborite Anthony Greenwood charged: "Not only are they all linked together by slashings with razors, but linked together by the persons who crop up again and again in these cases."

However, Lloyd-George told Parliament:

"While these men are known to the police, it isn't possible to just round them up like taking straw dogs to a dog's home."

Each incident spreads a net of fear. The London News Chronicle has put it this way:

"The greatest enemy of the criminal investigation department is not so much violence in itself as the fear that drives witnesses to silence, perjury and flight."

There are four major gangs feuding for over-all control. So far, they have worked their own rackets among bookmakers on race courses, prostitutes and cafe, restaurant and club owners.

Scotland Yard undercover agents—members of the "Ghost Squad"—have dropped from sight and are working their way into the underworld. They aim to learn all they can about the rackets and the gangs so they can be broke up.

Two Indonesian Leaders Divided On Nat'l Goals

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno and Vice President Mohammed Hatta fail to see eye to eye on the political future of Indonesia.

Strictly speaking, the two men who fathered Indonesian independence are not the people's choice. There has never been an election for the offices they assumed at the start of the Indonesian revolution in 1945. But their position as the young republic's two dominant political figures is undisputed.

Hatta has announced he will resign when the Constitutional Assembly elected in December 1955 is formally convened sometime next month.

But he will be acting president when Sukarno leaves Aug. 25 for a look-see at the Communist world, including the Soviet Union and Red China.

Sukarno returned early this month from a six-week tour of the West, including the United States. This week in his first report to the Indonesian people on his trip, he said Asians should not envy Americans for their wealth because it was earned through hard work. He called on Indonesia's 82 million people to work hard to exploit their own country's rich resources.

Hatta, 54, an economist educated at Rotterdam University, has been called a "constructive revolutionary." Sukarno, 55, an architect trained in Java at Bandung University, has been called an "emotional revolutionary."

Hatta has been described as wanting Indonesia to concentrate on its economic development, stabilizing its security by bringing in new industry.

The 100 foot tower which will support Ayden's new 300,000 gallon water tank is rapidly nearing completion. Structural steel work on the tower was started last week and the tank is expected to be put in use in the early fall. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Ayden Will See Water Tank In Use This Fall

AYDEN — A 300,000 gallon water tank is expected to be placed in service by the Town of Ayden in the early fall.

The new structure, being built on a 100 foot tower, will replace a 62,000 gallon tank that has served the town since 1918. The old tank, located behind the City Hall on a 70 foot tower, will continue to be used on a stand-by storage basis.

Structural steel work on the new tank started last week and is being done by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Company. The foundation was poured in May but had to age and set before the steel construction could begin.

Cost of the new tank will total $55,196 dollars. The foundation work cost $9,126 and the steel construction cost will total $46,060.

Ayden's water supply is drawn from three deep well sites, two of which have been opened in the past year. The new wells, one in the Western section of town and the other in the Northeastern section, are powered by 500 gallons-per-minute pumps. The older well, in the Northeastern section of town, is tapped by a 350-gallons-per-minute pump.

In addition to the tanks and pump systems, Ayden has a 100,000 gallon storage system in the Northeastern section of town. The storage area supplies water for emergency operations.

A unique feature of Ayden's water supply is a natural fluoridation process. According to a U.S. Government analysis of the chemical and mineral content of a sample taken from one of the town's water lines, the water contains nine-tenths of one part of fluoride in each million parts of water. One part fluoride per million is regarded as "perfect" according to Mayor Corey Stokes who received the report from Federal inspectors.

WANT U.S. ARMS

Capt. Hedgepeth Assigned Robins AFB After Tour At State College

RALEIGH—Capt. O. P. Hedgepeth, assistant professor of air science at North Carolina State College, has completed a three-year tour of duty with the Air Force ROTC Detachment at the college and has received orders to transfer.

In making the announcement, Col. James F. Risher Jr., detachment commander, said Captain Hedgepeth has been assigned to Robins Air Force Base in Georgia and will report to his new assignment August 31 after a 30-day leave.

During his tour at State College, Captain Hedgepeth, a native of Rocky Mount and 1950 graduate of East Carolina College, has served as senior instructor of the Air Science "I" training program, which has an enrollment of approximately 500 first-year cadets. He has also served as test control officer, information services officer, and coordinator of the AF ROTC Deferment Board.

Captain Hedgepeth was commissioned through AFROTC, being a member of the first ROTC class to graduate from East Carolina College. During his senior year there, he was recognized as being one of three students selected as the "Outstanding College Citizen" for the year 1949-50. He was one of East Carolina's representatives in the 1950 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

While stationed in Raleigh, Captain Hedgepeth was a member of the Central Carolina Basketball Officials Association and the National Association of Basketball Officials.

He is married to the former Betsy Ann Flye of Greenville.

'King Of World' Didn't Show Up

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—A man who didn't show up for jury duty in U.S. District Court here was scheduled for a show cause hearing yesterday. He didn't show up for that either.

as "king of the world and provost marshal of the U.S." Hearing dismissed, said Judge Timmerman.

Cracked A Ring Of Young Hoods

TOWSON, Md. (AP)—Investigators claimed today to have cracked an enormous ring of young thieves operating under the direction of a 23-year-old man.

Capt. Gilbert Deyle, chief of the Baltimore County Detective Bureau, said the gang called itself the "Four Aces" and specialized in stealing automobile accessories.

Arthur Lee Hash, 23, was identified by police as the leader and organizer of the gang and was charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. Papers filed in Juvenile Court accused him of giving intoxicants to teenage girls and bringing boys into the court's jurisdiction for disorderly conduct.

Besides Hash, police also arrested four older members of the gang and charged them with the theft of auto accessories. Seven young girls and eight boys were named in Juvenile Court petitions. Police said the organization, originally set up to promote hot-rod racing facilities, had numbered about 2,000 spread over many neighborhoods but had deteriorated into a gang whose principal activities were stealing auto parts, buying whisky and beer and warring with other gangs.

Death Said Due Mother's Care

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A mother's attempt to make her infant daughter more comfortable as they rode in the family auto resulted in the child's death, police said.

Officer Howard Rarick of near-Shoener was driving near her home with 5-week-old Janet Elaine propped on the seat beside her. She noticed the sun glaring into the child's eyes.

As she tried to move the baby, the auto mounted a curb and struck a tree, fatally injuring the child, Rarick said. Mrs. Shoener suffered fractures and cuts.

Nasser Sees Himself And Egypt In Pivotal Point To Reshape Future

By WILLIAM L. RYAN, AP Foreign News Analyst
Gamal Abdel Nasser sees himself — and Egypt — at the center of two vast geographical circles, the Arab world and Africa. Unity of purpose by the nations within those circles, he feels, could play a major role in shaping the future of mankind.

Is Egypt's President an idealist, seeking to throw off all remnants of colonialism — or is he scheming for dictatorial control of a vast area upon which depend the fortunes of Western Europe?
When Nasser released his latest bombshell — nationalization of the Suez Canal — diplomats could seek the answer in Nasser's own words. He wrote down his dreams in a series of brochures published last year as a book: "Egypt's Liberation, the Philosophy of the Revolution." The thoughts it expresses were disturbing enough to cause Premier Guy Mollet of France to call it a new "Mein Kampf" in which an Oriental Hitler laid bare his boldest dreams.

Nasser at 38 is new to politics. A military man since his academy days 20 years ago, he sprang almost overnight from army obscurity to a commanding position in the sprawling Arab world. He has given the Western world one headache after another.

When he seized the canal, he announced: "We shall all of us defend our nationalism and our Arabism and we shall all work so that the Arab homeland may extend from the Atlantic Ocean to the Persian Gulf."

Did this mean he sought to control all the Middle East and North Africa? Did his ambition extend to all Africa? Nasser's own words could be interpreted that way.

The book began as a series of jottings when he was an officer in Palestine, hemmed in by Israel in the sun-baked Faluja Pocket. Concerned with Egypt's history of misery under corrupt regimes, he met and plotted with other young officers who were to overthrow King Farouk in 1952.

The last section of the book, apparently put together long after the revolution, is the one which caused the French Premier's concern. In it Nasser expounded the idea that Egypt was the center not only of the Arab world from Asia to the Atlantic, but also of Africa. He wrote:

"Can we fail to see that there is an Arab circle surrounding us that this circle is part of us and we are part of it? . . . Can we possibly ignore the fact that there is an African continent which fate decreed us to be part of, and that it is also decreed that a terrible struggle exists for its future . . . ? Can we further ignore the existence of an Islamic world with which we are united by bonds created not only by religious belief but also reinforced by historic realities?"

"For some reason it seems that within the Arab circle there is a role wandering aimlessly in search of a hero . . . It seems to me that this role, exhausted by its wanderings, has at last settled down tired and weary near the borders of our country, and is beckoning us to move, to take up its lines, to put on its costume, since no one else is qualified to play it."

Nasser told himself, he wrote, that the region is all one and the enemy — the foreigner — all the same. Thus, "so long as this is true, why do we scatter our efforts?" Realizing this after the Palestine War, he said, he began to plan and make political contacts for unifying a struggle against a common enemy "by whatever means."

One means: to stir rebellion in North Africa against the French. Another: violent broadcasts in the Swahili language against the British in East and Central Africa. He combined with Saudi Arabians and Syrians in violent attacks on the Baghdad Pact. He played the West against the Soviet Union, to make a deal for Russian arms with which to threaten Israel.

'Enemy' Freed By U. S. Justice

WASHINGTON (AP)—American justice has freed a Japanese soldier serving 30 years in a Tokyo prison for the execution of a U. S. Army captain during World War II.

Sgt. Seitaro Fujita was granted a parole July 18 and has been released from Tokyo's Sugamo Prison, where he spent more than 10 years at hard labor for the execution of Capt. Burton C. Thomson, Swca City, Iowa.

Last March, George Cochran Doub, then U. S. attorney for the District of Maryland and now an assistant attorney general with the Justice Department, wrote the U. S. Clemency and Parole Board urging Fujita's release.

Doub prosecuted the government's attempt to retry John David Provo, former Army sergeant charged with treason while a prisoner of the Japanese during World War II.

Provo later won his freedom in Baltimore federal court on several technicalities concerning his trial and long imprisonment. Doub wrote the clemency board:

"Further imprisonment of Fujita, a Japanese enlisted man with only six years' schooling, carrying out in the presence of his superior officer a military order, originating with his battalion commander . . . and provoked by an American prisoner of war, Provo, seems a grotesque travesty of justice . . . Fujita had never even seen Thomson prior to his arrest" and "the fact that Fujita transmitted Provo's charges against Thomson to his superiors was as natural an act as the succeeding reports . . . in the chain of command . . . and was not a war crime."

Capt. Thomson, executed on Corregidor Island in the Philippines May 20, 1942, allegedly had refused Japanese demands for food from a hospital he commanded.

Gastonia, High Point Meet For Teen-er Title

Elizabeth City Faces St. Pauls In Consolation

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Gastonia and High Point were to have squared off this afternoon at East Carolina College baseball field for the North Carolina Teen-er championship, at 2:30.

In the consolation bracket, St. Pauls, who came into the six-team tourney with a bye, was scheduled to meet Elizabeth City at 9:30 a.m.

Yesterday's Outcomes

Gastonia established itself as the team to beat in the big three-day tourney yesterday by walloping Morganton 18-1, in a game that was called in five innings. Teen-er rules state that if any team should have a 10-run lead at the end of five innings, the game would be declared "no contest" and would be halted.

Morganton, making its first appearance in the tourney, used three pitchers, but were unable to curb the hard-hitting Gastonia nine, who had trounced Lenoir 7-1 on opening day. Charlie Taylor began on the mound, was relieved by Bennett Gray in the third, and Larry Reep took over in the fourth. Taylor was the loser.

For Gastonia, Eddie Manning started and was relieved by slender Dellinger, a fiery righthander, der Max Dellinger in the first, came into the contest with the bases loaded, walked in Morganton's only run and promptly fanned the next three batters. He likewise struck out seven of the nine batters who faced him, before he was relieved in the fifth by Derry Harmon. All three Gastonia pitchers held Morganton hitless.

Shortstop Ralph Berrong was the leading Gastonia stick man, with a triple and two singles. Jim Brown and Blair Walker followed with a triple and double respectively.

Gastonia Coach Jack Biggers staff stated yesterday that he intended to use either Dellinger or Manning in the Championship game.

High Point - St. Pauls

In the game, which decided Gastonia's opponent in the championship finals, High Point edged St. Pauls, 2-1 in seven innings.

Ronald Stamey went the full distance for the winners and was credited with the victory. St. Pauls used Luckey Welch and Marvin Richards for their pitching chores. Welch was the loser.

High Point scored once in the second and once in the fourth innings to take the game. Richard Kemp, playing first base, cracked a double and came in on an error by the St. Pauls third baseman for the first score. Kemp also scored the second and winning run on a single by D. Sinquefeld.

Elizabeth City - Lenoir

Elizabeth City eliminated Lenoir yesterday morning, by dropping them 4-2. Lefthander Pat McDowell went the distance for the Yellow Jackets, giving up only one hit. Lenoir used Stan Tuttle, replaced him in the second by Don Carlton in the seventh. Carlton was the loser.

Elizabeth City scored three in the second frame and once in the fifth to dominate the contest. Lenoir pushed across two runs in the third stanza.

The winners scored their first three runs in the following manner: Bradley Raper walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on an error by the third baseman. McDowell walked, went to second on an error, Phil Bates walked and a single by John Lowery brought in both Bates and McDowell.

Elizabeth City - Morganton

In the last game of the day, Elizabeth City eliminated Morganton, with a fifth inning rally and a narrow 4-3 score, earning them a berth in the consolation playoff.

John Lowery began on the mound for C and was relieved in the fourth by McDowell again. The win was McDowell's.

Morganton started for the second time yesterday with Charlie Taylor. Sonny Moore came on in the sixth, but the loss was chalked up to Taylor.

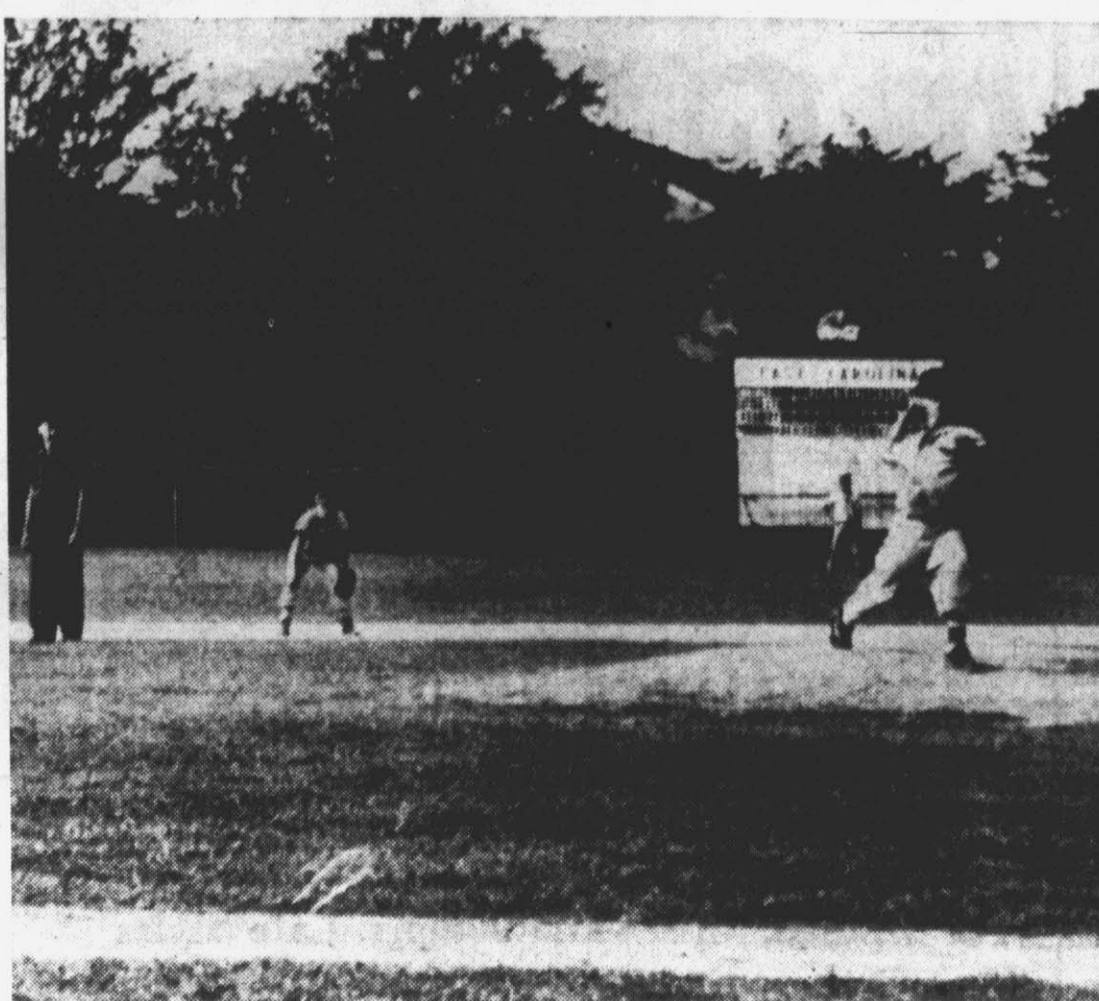

Morganton opened up with a run in the first inning and two more in second, to command an early lead. Elizabeth City broke the game wide open in the fifth when Warren Riggs singled in two runs and John Tatum cracked a double to send in two more.

TATUM HITS—Elizabeth City outfielder John Tatum is shown cracking a long double that sent in the winning run of the 4-3 contest with Morganton yesterday afternoon. Tatum's blast dropped Morganton from the tourney and placed Elizabeth City in the consolation finals, which were played this morning at 9:30. Elizabeth City faced St. Pauls. Mitchell, Maglie Are Winning For Brooklyn

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Brooklyn's Dodgers are winning the big games again in the National League pennant race, but look who's doing it for 'em — onetime nemesis Sal Maglie and Dale Mitchell, who wasn't even in the league two days ago.

The two old pros were the big guns as the third-place Brooks knocked off Milwaukee again 2-1 last night and moved to within three games of the first-place Braves.

Maglie, 39, needed help and missed his 100th victory, but he was the Barber of old. He calmed the Braves on five hits and left seven runners stranded while protecting a 1-0 lead before running out of gas in the seventh inning.

Mitchell, 35, batted in the winning run with a pinch single in his first appearance since being picked up by the Dodgers from the Cleveland Indians.

The defeat left the Braves with a two-game lead as runner-up Cincinnati dropped a 3-1 decision to New York. The Redlegs had just two singles off Ruben Gomez and Marv Grissom.

St. Louis sent Pittsburgh to a seventh straight defeat 4-1. And Boston gave Philadelphia a 10-8 victory over Chicago's Cubs.

In the American, Bob Lemon gained his 14th victory with a six-hitter, stopping New York 5-1 as second-place Cleveland cut the Yankees' runaway lead to eight games. Home runs by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen gave Boston a 5-4 victory over Detroit. Kansas City defeated Baltimore 9-4. Four runs in the 10th handed Washington a 6-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Brooklyn, with cries that Lew Burdette was throwing spitters, got to the right-hander for the payoff run in the eighth. Jackie Robinson singled, took an extra base on Bobby Thomson's bobble, went to third on a sacrifice and highlighted it home as Mitchell beat out his bouncer to third. Duke Snider, who was 0-for-13, homered for the first Brook run, taking the NL home run lead with 26.

Three Singles chased ex-Giant Maglie in the seventh. Clem LaBane came on to win his ninth, although the Braves tied it on Roy Campanella's error before he got out of the inning.

Gomez gave way to Grissom after injuring his shoulder in a slide on his seventh-inning double. He scored the tie-breaking run on Don Mueller's single. He gave up only a third-inning single to Wally Post, but a walk, hit batsman and two flies scored for Cincy in the fourth. Stan Palys punched a single off Grissom.

Rookie Charley Peete's fly ball fell for an RBI triple in the Cards' two-run second against loser Ron Kline. Stan Musial snacked a two-run triple in the seventh. Willard Schmidt won his fifth with a six-hitter.

Jones' grand-slam overhauled a 6-4 Cub lead and gave Robin Roberts his 12th victory in relief. Stan Lopata, 3-for-4, drove in three Phil runs.

The Indians made it two straight over the Yankees with Al Smith's two doubles and Vic Wertz's single and grounder, getting all the runs home for Tommy Byrne's second defeat. Hank Bauer's home run spoiled Lemon's shutout, but he kept Mickey Mantle hitless against the Tribe for the first time this season.

William's 10th homer came with two in the first and Jensen's 12th came with one in the sixth for Tom Brewer's 15th victory. Paul Foytack lost it.

Al Pilarcik drove in three runs, homering for two, for the A's first home victory over Baltimore this season.

Whitey Herzog's double drove in the winning run for Washington and Chuck Stobbs, Jim Wilson lost it.

Little Leaguers Continue Action

The Greenville and Rocky Mount Little League All-Stars battled to a seven inning 5-5 tie yesterday afternoon at Guy Smith Stadium.

These same two teams will play again at 5:00 this afternoon and the game will be a "sudden death" continuation of yesterday's contest.

Dalton Owens was the big gun for the local Little Leaguers with three runs batted in. James Braxton started the game, but gave way to Kroghie Andersen in the third. Jody Blalock pitched the late two innings.

Williamham started for Rocky Mount and went four innings. He was relieved in the fifth by Durant.

Greenville had a 5-4 lead in the sixth inning. A wild throw by the catcher tied the game and the two teams battled one more inning before darkness caught them.

Carolina Dairy Loses 3-2 To Tarboro Team

Carolina Dairy, representing Greenville, was beaten 3-2 by Tarboro last night in the North-East Softball Association double-elimination tournament in Rocky Mount. It was their second loss.

With two out in the last inning and the score tied 2-2 and a man on first, a Tarboro batsman cracked a single to centerfield.

Blaney Moyer tried to make a diving catch, but couldn't quite reach the ball. Rightfielder Harold Ingram, who was backing up Moyer, retrieved the ball and fired a perfect strike from deep centerfield to catcher Bob Dash. The throw was there in plenty of time to get the winning run from first, but in his haste Dash dropped the ball when he brought it down to make the tag.

Leonard Johnson started for Greenville, but gave way to Bill McHallick in the fifth. McHallick was charged with the loss.

Greenville jumped away to a 2-0 lead but couldn't hold it. Tarboro battled back and tied the contest at 2-2 in the fifth.

The locals managed only two hits — one of the infield variety and the other a blooper by Moyer. In the three games that Greenville has played in the tournament they have only had two hits that went out of the infield.

Wilfong, Bynum Homer; Pace Pony Team To Win

Greenville's Pony League All-Stars had a field day last night, dropping Williamston 13-2 in the District seven tourney, at Raleigh.

The locals scored in the second, fourth and fifth innings, and held their opponents to two runs, both coming in the fifth frame.

Husky Robin Wilfong, Green centerfielder took the largest portion of the spotlight last night, by cracking two home runs and batting in four runs. Merrill Bynum jumped on the bandwagon in the fifth inning, by blasting another four-bagger.

Nobles began on the mound for Greenville and pitched close ball until the fifth inning. Puryear came into the game with the bases loaded and proceeded to retire the side, only after Williamston had scored twice.

Green scoring went as follows: In the second inning, Nobles and Wilfong came across on Robin's homer and Cecil Cherry scored on a base hit. Six runs came over in the fourth inning, as Jenkins and Brewer scored on a triple by Moyer and Bass scored later on a double by catcher Harrison. Bynum then scored on a single by Nobles. Nobles and Wilfong added two more rallies to the total on Wilfong's second round-tripper of the evening.

Jenkins came in on a single by Moyer in the fifth, and Moyer and Harrison came in on Bynum's circuit ball.

Lineup for the Greenville team were Randy Bass at second base; Joe Moyer at right field; Aubrey Harrison catching; Merrill Bynum at shortstop; Steve Nobles and Clark Brewer on the mound; Robin Wilfong in centerfield; Cecil Cherry at first base; Bill Jenkins at left field.

Tonight, the Pony All-Stars will tangle with Wilmington. Probable pitchers will be either Bynum or Wilfong.

Ugly Ducklings defeated the Scrubs in two out of three games in their women's series Monday night. Frances Cassick still leads as highest scorer with 197 game and Bessie Mills bowled a 142 high score for the Scrubs.

The Five Sharps lost 2 games to the Rollettes giving them 2 wins out of three. This loss made the Five Sharps drop down out of first place in the standings. Margie Bailey scored 154 highest for the Sharps followed by Annie Mae Haddock of the Rollettes with high score of 132.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

INSECTS SEEM to be running a race with the busiest home builders and the neatest homemakers. They would like to eat us out of house and home. An entomologist, Dr. Harlan R. Shuyler of Kansas City, told us the other day that insects are now causing home damage estimated at four billion dollars a year.

Aside from termites and other bugs that attack the structure of a house, the ordinary flying or crawling whizzit that we all battle at this season, is really eating green stuff right out of our wallets. So if you find a new bug in your house, don't be ashamed of your housekeeping—it happens to everybody—but get a good insecticide and go into action. The bug may be a punkie, a mud dauber, a no-see-um, a fish moth, a bristletail or a boxelder bug.

It's impossible to know all bugs by their family names. There are some 686,000 species, according to the scientists. Man never has eliminated one species. The experts say that one pair of ordinary houseflies, if given perfect conditions, could blanket the earth three feet deep in a few months.

The bug problem has been intensified recently by the widespread building of new homes in outlying areas — on land that had been wild and wooded until the bulldozers came along. Excavation disturbs insect nests and land clearance destroys their food sources. In the three months or so while a house is under construction, workmen eat lunches and the partly framed house stands open over night. So the bugs move in before the happy homeowner.

Even when people move 45 minutes from Broadway or Main Street, they often are surprised to find roaches there ahead of them. "Roaches not only come in on groceries," says Dr. Shuyler, "but they have been known to arrive on lumber. They are the most common household pest, carriers of disease, contaminators of food and destroyers of books, paper, and soiled or starched clothing."

The doctor seems to know the private lives of all the bugs. He heads the Home Insect Control Bureau, a non-profit, public service organization, dedicated to stirring up action against bugs. We told him we had carpenter ants in our house, having found some sawdust on the basement floor.

"Don't worry too much. Your house won't fall down," he said. "Carpenter ants don't really eat wood. They just chisel out enough to building their nest. But you have to get rid of them."

We are planning to put some carbon tetrachloride in a garden spray and get up into wall spaces that way.

"It would work," he said, "but the fumes might do you more harm than the ants are doing to your house. Dieldrin would be better. This compound is many times more powerful than DDT, harmless to humans, yet it leaves a residue like DDT which is fatal to insects crawling across it."

Moths lead all other insects in dollar volume of damage each year, according to Dr. Shuyler. It takes a dim view of moth balls and moth flakes, primarily because people do not use enough of them and do not store their clothing in air-tight containers. A half-dozen moth balls scattered here and there are useless, he says. It takes a couple of pounds to be effective in about eight cubic feet of sealed space.

Cedar closets have some repellent value while they are new and aromatic, he says, but they are rarely constructed tight enough to seal all cracks. His prescription for moths is:

"Have clothing dry cleaned and moth-free before storing for the season. Then store it completely sealed from the air."

But Dr. Shuyler's most important rule in the battle against all bugs is:

"Follow closely the instructions on the label of the insecticide you use. The manufacturer did not put those directions there just to decorate the container."

Cross Burned On College Campus

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Hooded figures burned a 12-foot cross on the campus of Lamar State College of Technology last night.

Witnesses said four to six hooded figures planted the cross and set it afire, then fled in a car. Lamar Tech was ordered Monday by U.S. Dist. Judge Lemar Cecil to open its doors to Negroes this fall.

All Fronts Push Toward Higher Cost Of Living

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A push toward a higher cost of living goes on today on many fronts.

At home it's spurred by the trend toward built-in wage hikes to come along year by year for some time in the future.

Abroad it's the threat of trouble at the Suez Canal and along the Burma-China border that raises prices of commodities that might be affected by Mideast and Far East disturbances.

Price rises in the last two of three days have been announced on such things as tires, washer and dryers, typewriters and advertising rates.

Increases at the commodity level — in the materials out of which future consumer goods will be made — are set for rubber and tin because of fear of disruption of traffic through the Suez Canal.

Price rises for steel and probably for aluminum are awaited as an aftermath to new labor wage pacts.

And on the Paris market the price of gold jumped to a two-year high, apparently out of general uneasiness over the world situation.

The price rises on consumer goods being announced now are the result of past increases in the costs of materials and labor. Those being announced or awaited on metals and other commodities reflect fears over future supplies or expectations of higher production costs.

It is a slow form of inflation — one that Americans have become used to since the war and one that apparently they rather like. They may grumble about the higher cost of living but they like the added income that accompanies or precedes it. Most of them apparently fear and dislike the alternative — deflation.

What rising operating costs are doing to corporate profit margins shows up in the midyear earnings statements of many companies. They report sales higher than a year ago, but net profit after taxes either no higher or a bit lower.

Some corporations are reporting both higher sales and greater profits, but often these are the ones who have been able to pass along their greater operating costs in higher prices. Where competition blocks this, profit margins have narrowed notably.

Cave Drawings Are Center Of Dispute

PARIS (AP) — The speleologists and the archaeologists of France are in a tizzy over some drawings in a cave, and the Paris papers are poking delighted fun at them all.

Speleology is the scientific study of caves. Archaeology is the scientific study of the material remains of past human life — the older the better.

A fortnight ago three archaeologists of excellent reputation announced with great gravity the discovery of drawings on the wall of a cave near Perigieux, in southwestern France. They said the pictures were made at least 20,000 years ago by cave-men.

There were paintings of mammoths and other prehistoric animals, including big two-horned rhinoceroses. "A great discovery," the Pottiers conference of archaeologists was told.

Then the speleologists put in a word. William Martin, former president of the Speleo Club of Peri-gueux, said he spent three years exploring that particular cave 8 to 10 years ago — and that there were no paintings on the walls then.

Some drawings, Martin asserted, were made by a small boy who tagged along behind his party of explorers a decade ago. He used a carbide lamp as a crayon.

The present president of the Perigieux Cave Club, Bernard Pierret, backed up Martin.

The archaeologists refuse to back down. Louis Nougier, professor of prehistoric studies at Toulouse University, and a colleague, Romain Robert, issued a joint statement reaffirming their belief in the authenticity of the drawings.

Some people may have visited the cave "without noticing paintings or engravings," they said, "or they may have seen them without recognizing their value, either from ignorance or incompetence, or even from negligence."

Social Security For Servicemen

All servicemen will come under the Social Security system and benefits will be increased for many survivors of persons who die on active military duty, or as a result of such service.

Signing legislation authorizing this program, President Eisenhower said that "for the first time in many years Congress has given a measure of financial security to the families of our soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines."

The bill also ends, as of Dec. 31, the right of service personnel to $10,000 in free life insurance. And it provides that after that date discharged personnel will no longer be allowed to buy low-cost government life insurance, unless they are disabled.

President Roye Came From Ohio

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Ohio, which prides itself as a mother of presidents, rarely recalls one native son who made the grade. Edward James Roye became president of Liberia, not of the United States. Seven native Ohioans became U. S. chief executives — Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding. Roye was born in Newark, Ohio, Feb. 3, 1815. He worked as a teacher, shopkeeper and sheep trader before sailing for Africa in 1846. There, in Liberia, he became a leading merchant and one of the small coastal republic's richest men. He became president in 1871 after serving as chief judge of the Liberian Supreme Court. He negotiated a loan with Great Britain without consulting the Liberian Legislature.

His countrymen objected to term of the loan. In the dispute Roye attempted to extend his two-year presidential term by edict. The people revolted, overpowered the Roye camp, deposed and imprisoned him. Called to stand trial before the nation's supreme court, Roye escaped in a native canoe but drowned while trying to reach an English steamer anchored off shore.

Recalled 'Telling The Bees' Tale

ADAMS, Mass. (AP) — A strange tradition, from the forgotten rural years when almost every family kept bees, was startlingly recalled after the death of John Zepka. Throughout his life, Zepka had raised, worked with, and loved bees. He became widely known in the Berkshire Hills as a man who "had a way with them." When the cortege reached the grave, mourners found the funeral tent swarming with bees — on the tent ceiling and clinging to floral sprays. They did not annoy the mourners — just remained immobile.

Nothing like it had ever been seen here before. Recalled was the tradition, "Telling the Bees," kept alive in the poetry of John Greenleaf Whittier and Eugene Field. It held that the bees must be told when a member of a family dies — and the hive draped with a shroud of black — lest the bees leave their hive.

Michigan Once A Tropical Area

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Northern Michigan, hardly noted for the sun-warmed waters that produce coral reefs, still has an extensive supply of coral left over from the Silurian Period 300 to 400 million years ago. Geologists speculate the coral formed when warm waters of the Gulf Stream flowed through Michigan and surrounding areas. Vacationers can pick up handfuls of coral around De Tour and Alpena. The coral formations also have a practical interest. Some of the world's best producing oil wells are drilled in old coral formations.

Wheat Surplus Brings Ice Rinks

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The world surplus of wheat is bringing ice rink buildings to about 50 towns on the Canadian prairies—largely at taxpayer's expense.

Nearly all the rinks, designed for skating and the game of curling, are now filled to the rafters with wheat. Eventually skaters and curlers will take over.

Without the wheat congestion, the rinks probably would never have been built. The communities involved simply couldn't afford them.

Southey is a town of 450 persons about 35 miles north of Regina. The rink venture there was explained by Fred McIlmoy, secretary of the Southey Community Grain Storage Cooperative.

The co-op was formed last fall, following a meeting of about 12 farmers and town merchants. It borrowed $46,000.

"We sold shares for $20 cash of $1 and $19 worth of labor and our main object was to get the labor donated," McIlmoy said.

The Saskatchewan wheat pool has guaranteed the co-op 18 months' storage at $1,000 a month and likely will continue the contract beyond that time. The rink shareholders are hoping the pool can keep the wheat in storage long enough to pay for the project. Meanwhile, the youngsters will be skating on frozen sloughs.

Man-Eating Lions Terrorize District

By E. A. JONES

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—The hut shook as a heavy body landed on the roof. A terrified mother heard the thud being ripped to pieces. A lion seized her and leaped with her through the hole he had made. In the morning her half-devoured body was found within 200 yards of the hut.

The man-eating lions of Ankole district, Western Uganda, had struck again. In the last year they have killed 43 persons, all adult Africans.

The raiding of a hut was an isolated instance. Most of their victims have been herdsmen who bring their cattle over the rolling grasslands.

At night the cattle are herded into thorny corrals called bomas. Lions attack the boma, breaking through at a weak point. The cattle form a solid phalanx at the other end. The huge-horned An-kole cattle are a formidable foe. The lions mill round them, trying to panic them into a stampede, when they can select one and bring it down.

In defense of his cattle, the African herdsman knows no fear. Stabbing with his six-foot spear, he tries to drive the lions off. They leave the cattle and go for the man.

Maneaters usually are old or maimed animals, unable to bring down stronger or fleetier game, who turn to human flesh in the extremity of hunger. But this is not the case in Ankole. A lion and lioness in the prime of life, accompanied by a half-grown cub, have been seen leaving a human kill.

"Any American sportsman who wants to shoot lion would be very welcome in Uganda," said Deputy Chief Warden C. R. Owen. "He would have his fill of the most dangerous sport in the world—pitting his wits and courage against maneaters—and he would earn the gratitude of a whole population."

After a year of terror in the Ankole area, the morale of the African population is broken. They refuse to believe that the killers are mortal animals. They are reincarnations of dead chiefs, say the natives, returned to wreak vengeance on those who opposed them in life.

To track a lion down in this terrain is almost impossible. The only way to get to grips with a maneater is to sit up at night over a fresh kill and wait for it to return. But the maneater develops special cunning and often will not return.

Chinese Communist party. It said punishment for trivial infractions on the farms has cut productive efficiency.

"Work in agricultural cooperatives is falling behind more than ever," it said. "It is obvious that cooperatives will soon be ruined if members are continuously punished with these regulations."

The troublesome regulations include:

"One who does not report that his work is delayed must turn out 30 per cent more than his original quota of work."

"Workers who quarrel on the job will be punished."

"One who is absent from a meeting will be punished."

"One who does not express his opinion openly and talks in secret will be punished, and if the violator is a Communist — party member, a member of the Youth Corps, a team leader, or a section chief, he will be doubly punished."

Find Traces Of Lost Mountains

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A "lost" mountain range once raised mighty peaks all across Michigan's upper peninsula.

Geologists uncovered "Rottis" or deformed foundation rocks of the mountains during iron ore explorations. There is evidence the range extended from Minnesota through northern Wisconsin, Michigan and into southern Ontario.

That was an estimated 700 million years ago. Erosion since then has sawn away the Michigan mountains to nothing.

Eleven-Year-Old Is Snail-Raiser

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Jimmy Paulk, 11, says a full-grown snail in good health can go about an inch in 15 seconds. And Jimmy should know. He's in the snail business—sells them for three for a nickel and he has about 400 of them.

Jimmy says snails are used by owners of fish bowls and aquariums because they eat the scum that fish leave.

"They're real easy to raise and no mess or bother, Jimmy said. "You put the male and the female together and they raise eggs."

"Bet you a free shine and haircut you won't," Littrell told Long. Lang took him up on the bet. Littrell lost.

ENCHANTED HARBOR

By DOROTHY WORLEY

CHAPTER 31

When Rita joined Bill at the park a few minutes later, he said, "Who were your friends?" The surprise in her voice was genuine.

"The couple in the gray Packard."

"My! You really do get around, don't you? You weren't by any chance following me, were you?"

"I get around. And I saw them speak to you."

"They did. They asked me the way out of town. Now I'll ask you, who are they and why are you curious?"

"I don't know who they are. Are you sure they left town?"

"Certainly not. I didn't watch them. I was merely being accommodating in giving them information."

"Rita," Bill said abruptly, "I have a job to do tonight. And you can help me—if you will. I don't know whether Alvarez really intends having the breakfast party or not, but if he asks you, please go. And see that the others go, too."

"Can't you tell me why?"

"You'll have to trust me. The party may not develop—things may break before then. It's all red-hot now, but he's wary."

"You ask me to trust you. You haven't acted as though you trust me."

"I trust you now."

Their eyes met. Rita said, laughing a little, "I think you're trying to, Bill. I really do. But I believe there's still a small doubt in your mind, even if you don't realize it yourself."

"There isn't," Bill insisted. "But I do hope you will do as I say. Get a crowd on that boat. And if you happen to see the gray Packard again, tell me. I have someone watching it, but those people are sick."

One of the men from the government boat walked up and said to Bill, "Did you know the gray Packard has gone?"

"Yes," Bill said. "I saw them leave."

"You didn't follow?"

Bill glanced at Rita and said briefly, "They're being followed."

The man said, "I suppose so. A girl in a green Dodge spoke to them as they came out of the hotel. Did you check on her?"

Before Bill could answer, Rita said, "If you mean the stout man in the brown suit and the dark woman, they asked me which way out of town on Highway Ninety-eight. I told them. That was all."

Bill said, "Miss Lambert is O.K., Jeffrey. She's a friend of ours. It's the girl who is with her who inherited Lookout House."

"Oh, I see," the man said. "Glad to know you, Miss Lambert." He raised his hat to Rita and disappeared in the crowd.

Rita said, "I never heard so much mystery in my life. I feel as if I'm sitting on a powder keg."

"You aren't," Bill said, "but Alvarez is."

"And he doesn't suspect?"

"He's always managed to cover his tracks and let somebody else take the rap. Perhaps he has grown overconfident . . . but he's cornered this time."

"I take it you won't be at the dance at all tonight?"

"I may be able to look in sometime during the evening. If so, save me a walk. I'm no good at anything else."

Priscilla's evening dress shimmered in the moonlight.

"Where are you taking me, Bill?"

"You trust me, don't you?"

"If I didn't, I wouldn't have walked off the dance floor and come with you, for destination unknown."

"It's almost over. I told Dick I was taking you away, and for him to go on with the others on board the Silver Song, that you would see him there."

"Is that where we're going?"

"Eventually. Do you know how many people Alvarez has asked to his breakfast party?"

"Twelve. I understand. Did you know it was to be a cruise breakfast? We're going over to St. George's Island and go swimming in the moonlight."

"Have you talked with Alvarez tonight?"

"I danced with him once. He didn't stay long."

"Did he seem quite as usual?"

"Well, I don't know him that well. He always seems a little reticent to me. He's hard to talk to."

"He's mingled with others more today than he has since he came."

"I suppose that's because it's Harbor Day. Everyone's in a festive mood."

"I should have asked you whether you wanted to go with me, before just telling you to come along, Priscilla. I thought it would be a sort of adventure for you."

"Adventure?"

"We're going over to St. George's now—in another boat."

"Really?" Priscilla's voice was trembled with excitement.

"Want to go?"

"I—I suppose so. I'm not afraid, if that's what you mean."

"There isn't any danger, but I had a little difficulty in persuading them to let me bring you along."

"Persuading whom?"

"The government men."

"Oh—we are going on the government boat?"

"No, we're going on a small cabin cruiser they've borrowed from the owner."

"Why are you taking me, instead of Rita?"

"I thought you might get a kick out of it as the owner—my mistake—has the former owner of Lookout House. Thought it might be something for your memory book."

When they boarded the little cabin cruiser Priscilla's heart was beating faster than normal. She felt that she was in an Arabian Nights tale. One of the men said, "We're not expecting any trouble, but be sure you do what Duval tells you to. Presumably, we're just one of the boats going home from the Harbor Day celebration."

Bill, watching her standing there on the little deck in the golden path of moonlight, hands thrust deep in the pockets of the white coat she had brought along, her hair blowing away from her face, thought, she's a sweet kid. She has no idea what this is all about, but she came without question. It had been an impulse, asking her to come. He knew there was no chance of things going wrong now at least not one in a thousand.

"Alvarez had a reason for planning the breakfast party and swim in the surf, didn't he, Bill?"

"He certainly did. He's done everything he could today to throw suspicion away from himself. And this party on his yacht tonight is the climax. It diverts attention from other activities and the real reason he's making the trip to the island. I'm sure this wasn't his original idea, but we've made it a little hard for him to follow through as he had planned."

(To Be Continued)

Finally Shot A Slippery Bear

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A 200-pound black bear was killed recently in the thickly populated Lakewood section about a mile beyond the city's southern limit.

Arthur Rhynes shot the animal with a shotgun as it tried to claw its way into a chicken house.

The bear had been cornered five hours earlier in the back yard of the home of J. V. Tindall, about a mile from the Rhynes house. Tindall advanced with a chair in front of him but the bear slapped the chair away and escaped over a fence.

Schooling For City Policemen

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—Herman Levite probably is in full agreement that a recommended educational training program for city police here should begin immediately.

Levite put a dime in a "nickels only" meter while parking his car, but realized his mistake immediately and left an explanatory note under his windshield.

When he returned, Levite found a familiar blue parking ticket beside his note. A policeman had written: "knuckles only, sir."

Just Too Much For A Marine

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—It was just too much for a conscientious Marine recruiter to stand!

Sgt. Jack Conke, stationed here, had applied for the Armed Forces Radio Service and had been working part time at a local station to gain experience.

And what spot announcement did he have to handle? One on Navy recruiting.

After getting through the Navy recruiting commercial, he ad libbed:

"And folks, the Navy recruiting office is straight across the hall from the Marine recruiting office."

DUE CAUSE

DENVER (AP)—Domestic Judge Joseph E. Cook granted a divorce to Mrs. Sarah Chinn after she complained, among other things, her husband wouldn't let her take a bath "because he needed the hot water for his restaurant." She said her husband, Harry, 69, wouldn't live her more than two meals a day while he ate three at the restaurant.

Social Security Benefits Opened To New Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women between the ages of 62 and 65 and an estimated 340,000 disabled persons 50 and over were made eligible for new Social Security benefits yesterday.

President Eisenhower signed, with some expressed reservations, a bill to lower the retirement age for women and to set up for the first time a system of federal payments to workers totally and permanently disabled at age 50 and above.

The new benefits for women will be reflected in December checks. An estimated 200,000 widows will become eligible for full benefits at 62. Working women and wives of retired workers may elect to draw somewhat reduced benefits at 62 or wait for full benefits at 65. Officials have estimated that about 300,000 in each category will choose the lowered retirement age.

Benefits for the disabled, estimated to average $75 monthly, will not begin until July 1957. To be eligible for payments, a worker must have been disabled for at least three months and meet strict medical tests.

Eisenhower did not mention it, but these two provisions were sponsored by Democrats in Congress and were met with what the President called "serious reservations in their initial form." Both were modified, Eisenhower noted, "and now meet, in part, some of the administration's objections."

He expressed hope that lowering the women's retirement age will not in turn make employers reluctant to hire older women.

To pay for the new benefits, Social Security taxes will go up next Jan. 1, but, as Eisenhower noted with pleasure, only half as much as was originally proposed.

The tax, levied on the first $4,200 of a worker's annual earnings, will go up from the present 2 to 2 1/4 per cent on both workers and employers. The self-employed, now paying 3 per cent, will pay 3 3/4 per cent.

Another provision of the new law, which the administration supported, blankets into the Social Security system an estimated 225,000 persons not heretofore included.

They include lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, optometrists and some related professions but not physicians — the only major group other than government workers not now covered.

Another new provision authorizes a number of states to bring under Social Security various local government employes such as policemen and firemen.

Another boost by 146 million dollars a year grants to states for needy persons. This is expected to mean about $3 or $4 a month more for the needy aged, blind and disabled and about $2 monthly additional for dependent children.

Tallahassee Bus Service Resumes

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Bus service on both white and Negro routes was resumed in Tallahassee today after a monthlong suspension caused by a Negro boycott.

Service was restored on the same segregated seating basis which had led to the boycott. It was reported, however, that more than 900 Negroes had signed petitions for resumption of service.

The suspension came about because of financial losses suffered by the Cities Transit Co. when the boycott eliminated a good part of its patronage.

The Chamber of Commerce spearheaded a "ride the bus" campaign and routes have been tailored to meet demand as indicated in a survey.

A new county ABC store was formally opened for business this morning in the 1800 block of Dickerson Avenue.

The store, one of nine in the county, will replace one in the 800 block of Dickerson Avenue and will be known as store number eight. Store number one, in the 800 block of Dickerson Avenue, will be moved to the old site of number eight, in the 200 block of Evans Street, as soon as repairs to the Evans Street store are completed.

The new store will also have warehouse facilities for the county ABC system. The old warehouse on Clark Street will be closed when all ABC property is transferred, according to J. W. Joyner, chairman of the Pitt County ABC Board.

Joyner opened the new store this morning in a ribbon-cutting ceremony with George C. Elks, supervisor of the county stores.

Also participating in the ceremony were John Harris, manager of the new store, and clerks T. R. Dickson and Kenneth Harris.

The new air-conditioned structure was built by West Construction Company of Greenville and is leased by the Pitt County ABC Board.
