Tiny Waif Is Bottle-Fed

FEEDING TIME—Little Susie Stocks, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lubie Stocks of 120 Park Drive, feeds her tiny new kitten from a baby's milk bottle. The little kitten was found with others abandoned in a boat on the Tar River. The group of boys who found the kittens brought them home and the one shown above went to Susie.

Eisenhower Said Ready To Give Nixon Clear Track As Nominee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Eisenhower was reliably reported to be ready to give Vice President Nixon a clear track for renomination in the Republican convention opening today.

In the face of a campaign by Harold E. Stassen to dump Nixon, the vice president's associates said they had received assurances Eisenhower will submit neither publicly nor privately any list of men he regards as qualified and acceptable to him as a running mate.

Stassen has pinned his drive to replace Nixon on a hope that Eisenhower would let it be known before the convention's balloting session Wednesday that some others would be equally suitable as a vice presidential nominee.

Stassen, on leave of absence as Eisenhower's disarmament assistant, has been plugging for reluctant Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts. Herter is asking Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., the convention's permanent chairman, to withdrew his name if it is offered for second place on the ticket.

In the absence of any indication from Eisenhower that others are acceptable, Nixon's renomination appeared to everybody—probably including Stassen — as about as certain as the shout of acclamation scheduled to greet the formal offering of Eisenhower's name to the convention by Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana.

The assurance that Eisenhower will not submit a list of names of men acceptable to him as a running mate was described as having come from an intimate presidential associate not in the White House.

It was said by authoritative sources to have come in direct response to an inquiry from a voluntary group of friends set up to work for Nixon's renomination.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, officially opening the party's convention today, said last night that if there was any Eisenhower list of vice presidential eligibles available "I don't know about it and I would."

Nixon team members wanted some confirmation from sources likely to know the President's plans. This group, maintaining close contact with top White House staff members, was organized yesterday to fight for Nixon's nomination on the bare chance that Stassen's campaign results in a serious challenge.

Members said the team will continue on an informal basis to hold itself in readiness for a battle on the convention floor if Eisenhower should change his mind and not remain silent about his running mate.

Eisenhower has said he would be delighted to have Nixon on the ticket with him. But he has said both he and Nixon want an "open" convention. Eisenhower has not publicly foreclosed other candidates, and there had been speculation he might have some further statement after his arrival on the convention scene tomorrow night.

Nixon named Sen. William Knowland of California, the Senate's minority leader, as his floor manager for any convention fight that might develop.

Knowland himself was a presidential aspirant who entered primaries earlier in the year on the basis that he was a candidate if Eisenhower didn't run again.

His designation as floor manager meant Knowland had thrown in his lot with Nixon, switching from his previous political alliance with California's Gov. Goodwin J. Knight. Nixon, who has strong Cabinet backing, also has enlisted William Rogers, deputy attorney general, among his active supporters. Rogers apparently would not be taking this course without the approval of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, one of Eisenhower's chief political advisers.

Through Rogers and others, Nixon's team was reported maintaining close contact with Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's top assistant, and Bernard Shanley, the President's secretary.

Associates said Nixon was maintaining in private conferences the same attitude he took in public appearances—that if Eisenhower should say a number of men were qualified to run with him and the convention picked someone else "I'll be in there pitching for the ticket" in November.

But if there was to be an "open convention with several candidates, friends said Nixon and his team will be ready to fight for his renomination. They said confidential surveys indicated the vice president can count on about 900 of the convention's 1,323 nominating votes in any ballot showdown.

With the Stassen-Nixon affair about the only ripple of controversy, the Republican conveneers took over San Francisco in a gay and holiday mood.

Stassen seemed to be making no headway in an attempt to get the Republicans to replace Nixon with Herter, Knight, Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, former Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey — or almost anybody else.

Stassen said he still expects Eisenhower to throw open the second place nomination.

Some of those Stassen named as possible alternates for Nixon did not share Stassen's air of confidence.

Thornton said he wasn't going to let his name be presented to the convention unless there was a completely wide open race. And he indicated he doesn't think there will be.

Some of McKeldin's friends said the Maryland governor had been asked by Hall to permit his name to be offered as a favorite son and then to withdraw in favor of Nixon before there was any voting. McKeldin said if he went in at all it would be as a serious candidate.

Compulsory Polio Shots Urged By Health Officer

Pitt County's crash program of polio clincis had its second biggest Saturday this weekend and gave rise to a possible request for legislative action to make the program compulsory for school children.

Pitt County Health Director Dr. Walter C. Humbert said today a total of 1,307 shots, 1,046 of them first immunizations, were given by Health Department clinics and pirvate physicians Saturday. The big total, plus the report of 12 cases in Pitt County this summer, also caused Dr. Humbert to announce that he was going to recommend legislative action to make the polio shots mandatory for school children.

Dr. Humbert's announcement for possible legislative action came on the heels of State Health Officer Dr. J. W. R. Norton's statement weekend that he did not feel a compulsory program was necessary. Dr. Humbert said today, "I strongly feel that inasmuch as smallpox and diptheria immunizations are required before a child enters school that our legislature should add polio to that requirement. I am going to recommend that for adoption by the Pitt County Medical Society and if the medical society adopts it I will recommend it to Dr. Paul Jones, State Senator, and Representatives Frank Wooten and Walter Jones for legislative action at the next General Assembly.

"My recommendation is on the basis that volunteer immunizations did not work out in this county and it took 12 cases to get the people stirred up to be immunized. Furthermore, if we go along a couple of years on a voluntary basis and people get complacent then if we should have more polio later we'll have to go through the tremendous job of clinics again.

"These clinics play havoc with the Health Department's regular routine — we have had to drop everything else this summer for them—and it would be a lot simpler to have a law requiring the short. If the people really want to prevent polio they would welcome a law stating that school children must have the shots."

Dr. Humbert added that Dr. Jamilton Stevens, Health Officer for the Asheville-Buncombe County City-County Health Department, is also going to ask his medical society and legislators to sponsor the requirement legislation.

The Pitt Health Director also said, "I am not taking issue with the state health officer. I respect him very much and feel he is one of the best in the United States. But those of us in the 'grass roots' do not feel that the voluntary program of immunization has worked out."

Pitt County's voluntary program moved slowly until the present epidemic was declared by Dr. Humbert. The crash program has gained strength each week and last week a total of 3,264 shots were administered by the Health Department and by private physicians. Of the total number of shots, 2922 were first shots, and 1,554 first shots were given to older children in the 10-19 bracket. The group of older children has been the slowest to respond to the request for all children to be immunized.

Pitt's 12th case, reported Saturday, has a "very good chance of not developing paralytic polio," Dr. Humbert said today. The 13-year-old white youth of Ayden, Route 1, is in Pitt Memorial Hospital where he is being watched closely by Health Department and other physicians. Dr. Humbert Humbert added that while he stands a good chance of not developing paralysis the boy's "next two days will be very decisive."

Clinics for administering the shots are scheduled for every day this week in Greenville and Farmville from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Saturday. In addition, a special clinic has been scheduled for Ayden for Tuesday afternoon from 1:30 until 4:30 and another for Bethel Saturday from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Adlai To Campaign By Train And Plane

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson gave enthusiastic approval today to an airplane and "whistlestop" train campaign embracing virtually every key state in the country.

He booked time Sept. 13 for a 30-minute, nationwide television address in a drive that will continue without letup until the eve of the election. And it will cover full participation by former President Harry S. Truman and Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's vice presidential running mate.

Stevenson's campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, Philadelphia political pro, outlined thes plans, still being formulated, as he conferred with the nominee at his farm home near here.

There also was no formal confirmation here as yet of reports Stevenson will make an even earlier campaign opener with a non-televised Labor Day address at Detroit. There were reports, also unconfirmed, that Stevenson might speak in New York and Los Angeles, prior to his major TV opener.

Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania announced Saturday that Stevenson would speak Sept. 12 at Harrisburg, Pa., at a fund-raising dinner.

Campaigning will be concentrated in states where Democratic prospects for victory appear brightest.

The conferees, at a dinner last night in Stevenson's home, rejected any idea of the campaigners making President Eisenhower's health an issue.

"The average American rebels at the thought of a man's illness becoming a focal point in a campaign," Finnegan told reporters.

"You don't thrust a man's illness in his face. The health question is one for the American people to consider for themselves."

Finnegan said Stevenson's headquarters will be moved to Washington "as quickly as possible" and his entire campaign against Eisenhower will be directed from there in coordination with the National Committee.

"But don't expect Gov. Stevenson to spend much time in Washington," he added. "He'll be out on the stump from the time the campaign starts."

Th Sept. 13 TV address, from a city to be announced later, will be one of six 30-minute major TV talks by the nominee. In addition, Finnegan said, talks by Stevenson and others will be featured in 89 five-minute spot programs to be worked in at the end of popular TV commercial shows.

Participating in the conference were Finnegan, Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee, who probably will head up public relations for the campaign as the counterpart to Eisenhower's James C. Hagerty. Also sitting in the meeting were Wilson W. Wyatt, former Louisville, Ky., mayor; Hy Raskin, deputy chairman of the Stevenson Presidential Primary Committee; William McCormick Blair Jr., Stevenson's law partner and personal aide; George Ball, of Stevenson's New York public relations division, and two other Stevenson law partners, Newton Minow and William Wirtz.

Finnegan said he hoped that Truman's services, like those of Kefauver, "can be utilized to their full capacity all the way down the line." Truman, who made a bitter fight for Averell Harriman in a block-Stevenson drive that got nowhere at least week's Democratic National Convention, has signified his willingness to fight even harder against the Republicans.

Finnegan said he would seek Truman's "advice and counsel."

He foresaw no difference between Stevenson and Kefauver over campaign strategy and said he knew they will "be working in concert."

And he added that he and Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National Committee will reach "solid agreement on every aspect of the campaign."

Speaking engagements will be announced as fast as they are finalized.

Meanwhile, between conferences Stevenson loafed about his farm, or answered questions from a crowd of correspondents. He greeted reporters yesterday in faded blue jeans. They were so short they provided a full view of brown socks that appeared completely out of harmony with his blue canvas shoes and unstarched blue-striped shirt, open at the collar.

He said that he wanted to move headquarters to Washington within a week or 10 days.

"Our first step," Stevenson said, "is to work out plans for a merger of my staff with that of the National Committee."

He said he had "a wonderful night's sleep of nine or 10 hours Saturday night.

During the convention, he said, he didn't get to bed before 3 or 4 a.m. some nights, "and being the country type, I'm not accustomed to living it up that way."

Would he get satisfactory price for his Suffolk sheep, which he raises on his farm?

"The price is never good enough for any farmer," he replied with a smile.

Egypt And West Remain Far Apart In Suez Parleys

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LONDON (AP)—The 22-nation Suez conference reached a showdown stage today with Egypt and the West still miles apart. But some delegates said the danger of a shooting war is fading.

India's V.K. Krishna Menon drew up a climactic compromise bid with the hope of bringing the West and Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser together.

This afternoon's session was delayed 45 minutes while U.S. Secretary of State Dulles met with Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov, presumably to fill him in on the West's firm stand for an international authority to operate the canal.

Egypt already has rejected this.

In a merry-go-round of last minute diplomatic developments before the roll is taken, there were indications the document which would emerge from the conferernce would contain a variety of viewpoints but with a majority of the delegates supporting the Dulles plan.

What ever the immediate outcome of the conference, one Western official said he is convinced military action in the Mediterranean is now remote. He said Prime Minister Anthony Eden is now thinking in terms of moral rather than military persuasion.

Menon, it was reported, has been unable to sell his compromise plan completely to either side.

Menon's compromise plan calls for a two-tier system of managing the canal. At the top would be an Egyptian directorate and underneath an international body, including foreign users of the canal.

While the Egyptian directorate would have the final word of operation of the canal, it would be bound to seek advice of the international group on such questions as development and financing.

The Egyptians were reported to be not particularly receptive to this idea, although not rejecting it outright. Menon was said to feel there might be a possibility of amalgamating his idea with the American proposal.

Delegates held many private talks.

Dulles saw the foreign ministers of Norway Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Turkey, Pakistan and the Soviet Union before lunvh. Then he arrangeb a meeting with Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Punitive Action Taken In Trimming Waistlines Of Soldiers Going Overseas

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP)—Officers and men of the 8th Infantry Division are getting trim waistlines before shipping out for their next duty assignment which will take them to Germany this fall.

Maj. Gen. Thomas M. Watlington, fort and division commander, said today punitive action — including court-martial — is being taken against a "handful" of men who have failed to peel off excess fat as ordered. The program to reduce overweight soldiers was announced by the general a month ago.

Gen. Watlington said about 1,200 men in his command of 25,000 were found overweight when he started his drive under an order from the chief of staff. Of that number, the general said, 800 have lost weight and about 400 are still in the reducing-by-diet program.

He estimated that "less than 20 men" have been brought before court-martial boards or punished by unit commanders for failure to comply.

He said 10 or less had been given reduction in rank or fines by unit commanders under the 15th Article of War. He added that as far as he could recall, no man of his command had been discharged for failure to bring his weight down.

The Denver Rocky Mountain News in a copyrighted story yesterday said Pvt. Donald O'Brien, who draws approximately $80 a month, was sentenced to forfeit $55 a month for the next two months by an eight-man court. He was charged with failing to obey a lawful order by his commanding officer in the diet program.

Farmville Plans Two 'Dollar Days'

FARMVILLE — Farmville merchants will observe "Dollar Days" Thursday and Friday to coincide with the opening of the Farmville Tobacco Market.

Many of the participating merchants have made special purchases for the occasion in an effort to give patrons unusual bargains. This trade promotion is one of two such events sponsored by merchants each year.

GOP Platform Writers Stress Prosperity Across U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Republican platform writers today pitched for the labor vote this fall by pointing to record employment and saying that "the American wage earner . . . can buy more than ever before . . ."

Framing a tentative plank expected to be approved by the GOP National Convention tomorrow, they declared:

"The Eisenhower administration has brought to our people the highest employment, the highest wages and the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any nation."

They also charged that a Democratic-controlled Congress blocked "needed changes" in the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Act, and various administration-sponsored proposals in the health-welfare field.

Meanwhile, the 105-member drafting committee completed its work early today after a four-hour session which produced what Chairman Prescott Bush described as a civil rights plank generally acceptable to both North and South.

Bush, senator from Connecticut, said he anticipates no floor fight when the platform draft comes up before the convention for approval.

The wording was not made public, but it was said to put the party on record as accepting as the law of the land the Supreme Court decision barring racial segregation in the public schools.

Dixie Republicans had threatened a floor battle against any move to endorse the decision outright. Some Northerners fought for a stronger stand on the issue than was worked out at last week's Democratic convention.

The Democrats — avoiding any outright endorsement of the high court's decision — said it had "brought consequences of vast importance" and rejected "all proposals for the use of force to interfere with the orderly determination of these matters by the courts."

The proposed labor plank fit snugly into the Republican campaign theme of peace and prosperity.

So did a plank on "Human Freedom and Peace" released yesterday by the drafting group.

Both claimed accomplishments by the Eisenhower administration in the fields of international relations and domestic prosperity.

Noting that some four million more persons are employed now than in 1952, the labor plank said "the American wage earner today can buy more than ever before for himself and his family because his pay check has not been eaten away by rising taxes and soaring prices."

And it cited an increase in the minimum wage and expanded Social Security coverage — which the Democrats at Chicago last week also claimed as accomplishments.

"All workers have gained and unions have grown in strength and responsibility, and have increased their membership by two millions," the GOP plank said.

The tentative Republican labor plank promised to "overhaul and improve the Taft-Hartley Act" along the lines suggested by President Eisenhower in prior messages to Congress. This compared with a Democratic platform pledge to repeal the law in its entirety.

However, the proposed Republican platform said the Taft-Hartley changes advanced by Eisenhower have been thwarted by a Democratic-controlled Congress through what it called "parliamentary maneuvers."

The Republican labor plank called for extending coverage of the minimum wage law to "as many more workers as is possible and practicable." This compared with Democratic promises to remove all exemptions and boosts the present $1-an-hour minimum wage to "at least $1.25." The GOP platform mentioned no minimum wage increase.

The Republican platform was full of praise for GOP labor policies. It said the administration's hands-off policy, leaving free collective bargaining to take over, had much to do with settling the with the "six months upheaval" during a steel labor crisis in 1952 — when Democrat Harry S. Truman was president.

On health, education and welfare matters, the GOP group said:

"We demand once again, despite the reluctance of the Democrat 84th Congress, federal assistance to help build facilities to train more physicians and scientists."

It stressed administration actions in the fields of education, polio vaccine, disease research, voluntary health insurance and housing.

In their foreign policy statement, the Republicans said the "advance of communism has been checked, and, at key points, thrown back."

It said that under Eisenhower, the Korean War had ended, that numerous global defense pacts had been made, and that far-reaching steps have been taken to eliminate the danger of a third world war."

Light Registration In County For Election On Amendments

Only 32 persons had registered in Greenville and four in Farmville during the first two Saturdays that the registration books are to be open for the September election on constitutional amendments.

That was the word from D. S. Spain, Jr., chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections who surveyed the two towns at noon Saturday. On the basis of the registration in Greenville and Farmvi Spain said the registrars have placed on the books "practically nothing" for the coming constitutional election.

The election, result of a special session of the State Legislature this summer, is set for Sept. 8.

Spain pointed out that those who have registered in the past for state and national elections are not required to register. Persons who must register during the two week period which ends at sundown Saturday include: (1) those who have moved into the state or into a new precinct; (2) those who have reached their 21st birthday; (3) those who are qualified but have not registered in the past.

Spain noted that the registration books have been open for the last two Saturdays. Registrars will be at their voting places next Saturday for the last time to handle new registrations. In addition those who wish to register during this week may do so by contacting their registrars.

R. C. Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, has said he has had no inquiries about registration and reports indicated that the new registration has been very light since the books opened.

Maxwell has said that he does not think the lack of interest in new registration means a small vote on Sept. 8 however. There are enough registered voters to assure a large vote if all go to the polls, he declared.

Inasmuch as the issues to be voted upon are non-partisan and of so great concern to parents, he predicts a much larger turnout than the usual Democratic primaries produce, somewhat less than the normal general election vote for president.

The only issues presented in the special election will be four amendments to the State Constitution. Main interest will center on the amendment authorizing the General Assembly to provide for education grants in aid for pupils to attend private schools and for closing schools in local districts under certain conditions.

Other amendments would change the time of convening the General Assembly from early January to early February; to increase the pay of members of the Legislature; and to clarify the use a wife may make of power of attorney granted by her husband.

Greenville's eight precints, the polling and registration places and the boundries are as follows:

No. 1; Farmers warehouse, north of Tar River; No 2; Court House; Green St. east, Fifth St. north; Jarvis St. west. No. 3; Third St. School; Greene St. west, Fifth St. north. No. 4; West End Fire Station; Fifth St. south, Atlantic Coast Line west, Dickinson Ave north. No. 5; Keels Warehouse, Dickinson Ave. south; Atlantic Coast Line west. No. 6; Main Fire Station, Pitt St. south, Atlantic Coast Line east, Charles St. west. Mo. 7; Elm St. Park Recreation Building; Charles St. east, Fifth St. north. No. 8; Old Hospital; Fifth St. north, Jarvis St. east.

Peggy Ann Cox, Mr. Smith Wed In Washington Church Ceremony

WASHINGTON, N. C.: The marriage of Miss Peggy Cox and James G. Smith III was solemnized Sunday afternoon in a 4:00 o'clock ceremony in the First Baptist Church here. The Rev. Earle J. Rogers, pastor of the church, heard the double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Daisy C. Andreoli of this city and Fred M. Cox of Portsmouth, Va. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Smith, Jr. of Greenville.

Prior to and during the ceremony Miss Bladys Alligood, church organist, presented a program of nuptial music. She used the "Bridal Chorus", Wagner, and "Wedding March," Mendelssohn, as the bridal party entered and left the church. Miss Gretchen O'Neal was first soloist and her selection was "O Promise Me," and as a final benediction James Mitchell, vocalist, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The chancel of the church was banked by magnolia greenery and palms interspersed with branched candelabra holding lighted white tapers. The greenery was accentuated by floor baskets of white gladioli and the scene was centered by the white prayer bench holding matching white satin pillows.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of duchess satin and French alencon lace. The moulded bodice had a scalloped neckline and long sleeves which formed wedding peaks over the hands. Her full flowing skirt of duchess satin was enhanced with diamond shaped lace insertes and a chapel length train and her fingertip veil of imported illusion was arranged from a lace bonnet edged with seed pearls.

The bride carried her personal Bible holding an arrangement of frenched white carnations centered with a white orchid and showered with white satin ribbons and stephanotis.

Miss Emily Wynne served the bride as maid of honor. Miss Wynne wore a princess dress of deep hunter green taffeta. The fitted torso bodice was fashioned with six points at the hipline which gave additional fullness to the afternoon-length skirt. The large back bow of hunter green was accented by white taffeta line and she wore full length white taffeta mits and deep green shoes.

Miss Betty Lou Whitley and Miss Kathryne Watson were bridesmaids and their white taffeta princess dresses were like the honor attendant's with back bow marked by green taffeta line. Their mits and slippers were of a deep green.

The bride's attendants wore white flared net headdresses with seed pearl and crystal bead trim and carried cascade bouquets of deep red roses.

Little Patricia Cox, the bride's half-sister, was flower girl. She wore a dainty floor-length white taffeta dress with basque and bouffant skirt and carried a basket filled with miniature white blossoms.

James G. Smith, Jr. was his son's best man and ushers were James Speight, Wade Jordan, Mitchell Johnson and William Dunn, all of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Andreoli wore a light blue lace afternoon dress marked by navy blue accessories and a lavender orchid corsage. Mrs. Smith, the bridegroom's mother, selected a mist grey matallic cloth afternoon dress, using matching grey accessories and a deep purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. James G. Smith, III

The ceremony was followed by a reception after which Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for Louisville, Ky. where they will make their home. For traveling the bride changed to a pearl grey shantung sheath dress with black and white trim, wore with a matching bolero. Her small black velour hat had a rhinestone clip and short veil and she wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of the Washington High school. Mr. Smith, a 1955 graduate of the Greenville High school, will be with the Belk-Nap Manufacturing company in Louisville.

Reception Follows Wedding

Following the Smith-Cox wedding on Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Daisy C. Andreoli, mother of the bride, entertained with a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Cox on North McNair street.

Upon arriving at the home, guests were greeted by Mrs. W. M. Bell III and presented to the receiving line. Standing with Mrs. Andreoli were Mr. and Mrs. James G. Smith, Jr., parents of the bridegroom, the bride and bridegroom, and the bride's attendants.

The line was formed in front of the picture window and across the spacious room the mantel held a fanshaped arrangement of white asters and greenery, balanced at the opposite end by tall china figurines. On the piano were clusters of magnoli and lighted white tapers, while an auxiliary table held a massive bouquet of white asters.

Mrs. Dukie Watson and Mrs. Wallace of Richmond, the bridegroom's grandmother, invited guests into the dining room.

The central table was covered with a cloth of cream lace and the decorated three-tiered wedding cake formed a side-center decoration. The cake was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom and was cut by the wedding party later in the evening.

Mrs. Woodrow Whitley and Mrs. J. Reynold Toler presided in the dining room, helping to receive and serve lime frappe, decorated cake squares, salted nuts and mints. Also assisting with serving were Misses Lou Warner and Helen Williams.

In the room the buffet held a large arrangement of asters and greenery.

Miss Dorcus Cox invited guests into the gift room where Miss Elizabeth Alligood and Miss Georgia Ann Fuller received.

Miss Weensie Parvin presided at the bride's book placed on the desk.

Mr. Cox, the bride's father, G. Andreoli and H. B. Cox, the bride's uncle, bid good bye to some 150 guests on the rear terrace of the home.

Harmless-Looking Toys May Be Cause Of Children's Accidents

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

The Chambrays were out driving on a warm Sunday afternoon. Nancy spied an ice cream store.

"Daddy, daddy!" cried Nancy, "Look, ice cream—let's have some ice cream."

"O.K. I'd like some myself." And Dad pulled the car into the parking lot.

Nancy and Marty each had a plate of delicious fresh strawberry ice cream and Mom and Dad had lime sherbert. When Dad paid the bill the man at the counted gave each child a balloon whistle.

Nancy was delighted with the present. She blew up the balloon and let it whistle its air out. All the way home in the back seat of the car she played with her new toy, blowing it up and squealing with delight as it shrieked its way flat.

Then she blew it up again but the sound that followed was a strange little squeak. Mother turned around and what she saw terrified her.

Nancy was gasping for breath, she was spluttering, trying to cough but nothing came. In a moment she was blue, then ashen gray. Dad pulled over to the side of the highway and stopped. They dragged Nancy from the car, patted her on the back, turned her upside down—she got bluer and now she was getting limp. Her terrified eyes pleaded with her mother to DO something.

Dad yelled: "Get back in the car." He remembered passing a clinic that had a big sign "Emergency Room." It was only a few blocks away. They dashed over there—but it was Sunday afternoon and the place was closed.

Desperately, they thumped Nancy and finally she gave a big cough and out popped a small metal cap—the cap that had made the balloon whistle.

Slowly Nancy's color came back to normal, and her limp little body regained its usual strength. It was Mother and Dad who were limp now. Dad was so unnerved he couldn't drive the car and Mother, who had risen to the emergency as good mothers do, collapsed in sobs now that Nancy had escaped sudden death.

While the grown-ups were trying to pull themselves together, little Marty, completely ignored during the excitement, patted his sister and said:

"Never mind, Nancy, you can have my whistle," and he handed her his toy.

That brought Dad back to reality.

"No, no," he almost screamed and he grabbed the balloon.

Next day Dad went around to the store which had so good-naturedly given the children the toy that nearly killed his daughter. He told the story. The proprietor was horrified and instantly took the whole batch of balloon whistles and threw them in the trash—he had a little girl just about Nancys' age.

All-Weather Coats For School Are Easy To Make With Felt

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

AN ALL-WEATHER COAT is a back-to-school must. According to today's fashion-minded school girls, versatility is an important factor in their fall wardrobes, and each garment must serve a variety of purposes.

A prize example of such double-duty practicality is a reversible coat, peacock felt on one side and red paisley cotton print on the other, which can sail gaily through any occiasion from a football game to the junior prom. In addition, it's easy to have it waterproofed for protection against rain.

RAIN-OR-SHINE COAT . . . Easy for the young seamstress to make at home in peacock felt on one side, red cotton print on the other. Umbrella to match.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make it yourself, using one of the new easy-to-sew patterns. They chose a design slightly flared to go over suits or full shirts. It has an attraced hood, a button tab closing and perky slashed cuffs.

Made in felt, it offers no trouble to even an amateur home seamstress. Felt is available in a wide range of wonderful colors, and may be cut in any direction. The fabric requirement for a size 14 coat is 2 ⅝ yards.

For easy pattern alterations, use the inch-rules printed right on the pattern pieces.

The finished coat may be waterproofed at home with a new spray, or your dry-cleaner can make it resistant to showers.

For extra protection and a gay ensemble touch, the pattern includes directions for making an umbrella. Get a little ext of the frame of an old umbrella. Spray fram of an old umbrella. Spray the waterproofing solution on the umbrella or hand it over to your cle....er for a professional job.

Open House Fetes Miss Betty Sugg

Mrs. Marvin Sugg entertained at open house at her home on Rotary Avenue Saturday afternoon honoring Miss Betty Sugg.

Miss Sugg, a summer graduate of Greenville High School, will leave August 29 to enter nursing school at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Arrangements of gladioli and roses were used throughout the Sugg home for the occasion.

Some thirty friends called during the afternoon to present her with gifts and enjoy refreshments of punch, mints, nuts, cheese straws and decorated cakes served by Mrs. Sugg.

POTENT SOFT DRINKS

PRINCESS ANNE COURTHOUSE, Va. (AP)—Patrolman R. E. W. Sparrow went into a store to buy a soft drink. He noted several cases of a popular brand sitting beside the cooling machine. Strangely, all seemed to have the tops pressed in.

Investigation showed they were about 90 proof alcohol. Fine was $250.

Miss Brady, Mr. Starkey Wed In Church Ceremony Yesterday

Miss Polly Ann Brady and James Robert Starkey Jr. were united in marriage in the Memorial Baptist Church of Greenville Sunday at four o'clock.

The double ring vows were pledged before an altar decorated with a prie-dieu with white satin bows and organdie cushions on the top and bottom. On either side were single candelabra with sprays of white mums holding tall cathedral candles. The pews were marked with white satin bows and plumosus fern. The church was tastely decoated with emerald, salal, wide leaf camador and plumosus bridal greenery. Large standards of white gladioli and white California mums were used in between seven-branched candelabra with salad greenery and tall cathedral candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Brady of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. H. Gibson and the late Mr. Starkey of Greenville.

Officiating for the ceremony was the bride's pastor, the Rev. Percy B. Upchurch.

Prior to and during the ceremony Miss Janet Watson, organist, played a program of nuptial music. She accompanied Miss Jeannette Moye, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a waltz-length gown of embroidered organdy with a tightly fitting bodice, featuring tiny covered buttons, Peter Pan collar and three-quarter sleeves edged in lace.

She wore mitts of tulle with self-ruffles ending in wedding points at the hands. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a bandeau of seed pearls. She carried a formal bouquet of white orchids nestled in nylon tulle and garlands of stephanotis entwined with narrow bridal satin.

Mrs. George W. Brady of Greenville, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a waltz-length dress of white organdy over pink fashioned like that of the bride's.

Her picture hat was of white net trimmed with pink velvet and matching mitts.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert L. Brady of Chapel Hill, Mrs. James N. Brady of Ayden, both sisters-in-law of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Ann Stancil of Greenville.

They also wore waltz-length dresses of white organdy over pink identical to the honor attendant's with matching picture hat and mitts.

The four attendants carried satin fans of pink with pink sprays of carnations tied with narrow matching streamers.

Miss Carolyn Tucker, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her dress was a miniature copy of the bridesmaids' and she wore a pink bandeau and matching mitts. Her pink basket was filled with rose petals.

Master Michael Brady, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Robert L. Brady of Chapel Hill, brother of the bride, was best man.

Ushers were James N. Brady of Ayden and George W. Brady of Greenville, brothers of the bride; Wyatt M. Tucker of Greenville, uncle of the bridegroom; and Wayne Bishop of Greenville.

Mrs. Brady wore a pink embroidered sateen dress with matching net hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white hybrid orchids.

Mrs. Gibson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue embroidered sateen dress with white accessories. Her corsage was also of white hybrid orchids.

Mrs. James Robert Starkey, Jr.

Mrs. Starkey is a senior at East Carolina College. Mr. Starkey, recently discharged from the Navy, plans to enter East Carolina College this fall.

After the reception, Mrs. Starkey changed to a blue sateen princess sheath dress with matching hat and gloves and other accessories of white. She wore a corsage of white orchids lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home which was decorated throughout with pink and white gladioli and pink and white California mums.

The dining table was covered with a white organdy cloth. In the center was an arrangement of pink roses, and a soft glow of pink candles in crystal candelabra.

A three-tiered wedding cake in pink and white topped with a bride and groom graced one end of the table. This was served by Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Starkey. Assisting them by serving punch were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Whitley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reele directed guests into the gift room.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests for the Starkey-Brady wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Brady of Chapel Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rule, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Holton, Mr. and Mrs. U. F. Cockman, all of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. Setzer Weston of Guilford College; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reele, Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Brown, Smithfield; Mrs. J. H. Sanderson, Smithfield.

After the reception the bridal couple left for a wedding trip South. Upon their return they will be at home at 618 Evans Street, Greenville.

Cake Cutting

On Saturday night following the rehearsal for the Starkey-Brady wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Cox Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Evans entertained for Miss Polly Ann Brady and Bob Starkey at the Cox home on West Eighth St.

Upon arrival, Mr. and Mrs. Al Williams greeted guests and made them welcome. Arrangements of asters, gladioli and zinnias were used throughout the home.

Mrs. Loyd Vincent invited the guests into the dining room.

The refreshment table was covered with an organdy cloth over crocheted medallions. In the center were crystal goblets filled with pink roses, white carnations and white tulle and a soft glow of white candles in crystal candelabra.

A large three-tiered wedding cake decorated in white and pink and topped with a bride and groom graced one end of the table and was served by Mrs. C. L. Brady. Mrs. Mildred Gibson served the wedding cake after the bride cut the first slice. Little Miss Judy Evans, Master Jerry Cox and Mrs. Jim Evans assisted in serving dainty party sandwiches and nuts.

Mrs. Calvin Stokes rendered wedding music during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cox said the goodbyes.

Why Not Groom Tar Heel For Job?

When is North Carolina going to assume a more prominent place of leadership in the machinery of the national Democratic party?

That question has been raised time and again over the past several years and so far has gone unanswered. Lately it has been raised by Editor Henry Dennis of the Henderson Daily Dispatch who asserts the time is ripe for the state to begin grooming one of its native sons for a top spot on a national party ticket.

It seems appropriate that now is the time to kick-off such a movement. It will take at least four years and maybe longer to lay the groundwork, but if the laborous effort which will be required is never begun, it can never bear fruit.

At the 1956 convention, North Carolinians played a more prominent part than usual. Sen. Sam Ervin as a member of the platform committee took a leading role and his efforts did not go unrecognized by people within the party. Likewise Gov. Hodges was in the foreground more than usual for a North Carolinian at the national convention.

As the Henderson Dispatch suggests, there, perhaps, is the place to begin a four-year plan for North Carolina. The state already holds a key position as one of the leaders in the South. Its prominence in national politics has increased gradually over a period of years. Perhaps the time is now ripe for a concerted effort.

The Dispatch suggests this approach:

"When the convention, or at least this campaign, is over, there ought to be a concerted effort by leaders in this state to groom one of its sons for the nomination in 1960. It might take that long for the proper build-up. Of course it might not succeed. But there could be a chance for vice-president.

"This sort of thing is, to our mind, worthy of consideration. But the whole state would have to be able to unite wholeheartedly and enthusiastically.

"North Carolina should have a President from its own soil. Jackson, Polk and Johnson are claimed as natives of the state, but all of them were elected from Tennessee. We are in favor of North Carolina being heard from also, with a native son and resident of the area."

Strongest Possible Ticket For Democrats

Out of the Democratic National Convention has come the strongest possible ticket the Democrats could have put together to challenge the Eisenhower-Nixon combine in November.

Adlai Stevenson, the sure choice of the party even before the convention, is a much stronger presidential candidate now than he was four years ago. His intense work since the 1952 convention in informing himself on world affairs and domestic needs will stand him in good stead in this election year. The knowledge he has gained by his studies will likewise be invaluable to his party and to the people of the nation should the campaign succeed in ousting the GOP from control of the administration.

Kefauver, as the Democratic vice presidential nominee, is no second-rate candidate as so often has appeared in the vice presidential spot. The senator from Tennessee has shown himself presidential timber. The people in the states where he participated in preferential primaries indicated their confidence in his ability to handle the most exacting job on the face of the earth.

On the Democratic ticket voters find two first-rate candidates; two well-known political figures throughout the nation. It is in sharp contrast with previous tickets of either party, and in even sharper contrast with the ticket which will emerge from the Republican convention this week in San Francisco.

The Democratic party this year chose no strong-man, weak-man ticket. It picked the two men in its party with the strongest vote-getting appeal and ability. Both were chosen in wide open session without dictates from any of the figureheads of the party. Both have dedicated themselves to the fighting, vigorous campaign they have proved themselves capable of carrying out.

It cannot be denied that the Democrats have an uphill battle to defeat the Republican nominees in November. But if the goal can be realized, the Stevenson-Kefauver combination is the ticket which can accomplish the task.

This Is The Big Week For Eastern Carolina

It's always a big week in Pitt County when the tobacco market opens. And for 1956, this is the week.

Not only in Pitt, but throughout the eastern part of the state eyes will be focused on Thursday on opening prices for the weed as the farmer who has a packhouse full of tobacco. Both know their economic fortunes, bolstered already by a good crop for this year, will now rise or fall with the price which tobacco brings on the warehouse floors.

There'll be a lot of excitement throughout the county on Thursday. Already the excitement is beginning to build in anticipation of the opening of the market. Loads of leaf are beginning to trickle into warehouses, and by Wednesday the annual procession to the auction floors will be in full progress.

Prices on more southern belts are somewhat lower than people had hoped. There is an indication they will be lower than hoped for on the markets in the big Eastern Belt. Notwithstanding this slightly discouraging fact, this 1956 crop in Pitt County has proved to be one of the better ones. The predominent factors at the outset of the tobacco sales season point in favor of another successful year which will leave farmers and the people of the county generally better off than a year ago.

Opinions In Brief

(The Nashville Tennessean)

The Jaycees of Knoxville, we assume, had their eyes wide open when they traded the Jaycees of Greenville, Texas, two Smoky Mountain black bears for one longhorn steer. All the same, we're curious about the relative values implied by that two-for-one swap.

Pound for pound, the Tennessee traders came out ahead. The steer they acquired for their "Goodwill Zoo" in Knoxville weighs in at 1,300 pounds; the bears weigh 200 pounds each. And in age, it seems to be a standoff. The steer is five years old; the bears are 2½ each.

Still, since when was one Texas steer worth two Tennessee bears? People come from all over the country to see the Smoky Mountain bears, but who goes to Texas just to see longhorn steers? As a matter of fact, you can't even see a genuine longhorn in Texas. The only legitimate longhorn herd now in existence, according to no less an authority than the "swap chairman" of the Greenville Jaycees, is in Oklahoma — and that's where this one now transplanted in Tennessee came from.

Although open to conviction to the contrary, we thus suspect that the Knoxville Jaycees came out on the short end of this longhorn deal. But their friends in Texas may be sorry in due time. The steer, we take it, will thrive on a diet of good — but inexpensive — Tennessee grass and corn. The bears, the Knoxvillians report, have an insatiable sweet tooth that demands endless helpings of soft drinks and cake.

Budget Folks Whip Report Into Shape

By LYNN NISBET

BUDGETS — The directing heads of the agencies, departments and institutions which make up the composite Government of North Carolina" are boning over books and accounts these days—and nights. They are whipping into final shape the material to be presented to the Advisory Budget Commission next month.

The budget folks have scheduled hearings for the first and third weeks in September. The four days following Labor Day—September 4, 5, 6, 7—the administrative departments, independent agencies and non-educational institutions will present their financial needs.

After a week during which the budget bureau staff will tabulate the facts and figures collected, hearings will resume on September 17 with the mental hospitals and the colleges represented by the State Board of Higher Education occupying three days. The final day, September 20, will be devoted entirely to the public schools.

UPPED — It will take a good deal more money to operate State government next year and the next than it has even taken before. In the first place the state is growing, and if there were no rise in unit costs it would take five or six million dollars more to meet needs. Everybody knows that costs have gone up—and are still rising—so that if no expansion were necessary it would take several million more.

Combination of the two factors—a growing state and rising costs—means $15 to $20 million additional will be required just to hold the line. That contemplates no improvement in existing services, no new services no increase in base salaries—no growth at all. While there may be divergent opinion as to relative value of some things for which the State has been spending money, not even the most conservative or "stingy" people are willing for the State to stand still.

"SURPLUS" — The general fund account had an unexpended balance of $38.5 million at close of the fiscal year last June 30. That is another way of saying that during the past few years the State collected from taxpayers $38.5 million more than it spent in service to citizens. Assuming continuance of business prosperity and the level of yield from tax levies, and remembering that appropriations have been set for the current fiscal year, it appears likely that the balance next June 30 will approximate $60 million.

These year-end balances are sometimes miscalled "surplus." The office dictionary defines "surplus" as, "That which remains over and above what is required." The definition of "deficit" is, "A falling off, or deficiency in amount of quantity."

A great many people agree with ex-Governor Kerr Scott that a surplus in dollars reflects a deficit in services. Money in the back assures a comfortable feeling. It is sound business, personal and governmental, to hold spending below income. In the instant case it assures that the State can continue for at least another year without curtailing activities.

At the same time it seems a bit unjust to change that when the officials responsible for administering the services for which the taxpayers have provided the money show a need for larger sums, they are just "shooting at that surplus."

The vital distinction between private enterprise and government is this: Private business is conducted solely for the purpose of making a profit; government exists only for service to the citizens. Private and public business have one thing in common. Real economy does not consist in hoarding dollars. It consists in getting full value for dollars spent. Too little spent may result in wasting that little, whereas an adequate expenditure would pay dividends on the entire amount.

NEED — A wise man once told a young friend who was hesitating about buying additional equipment for his machine shop, "If you really need it, you will pay for it whether you buy it or not. If you just want it for show, maybe you'd better wait awhile." The task confronting the departmental administrators, the budget folks and finally the General Assembly, is to determine the real need and distinguished between frills and luxuries.

The need for more and better trained school teachers and more classrooms is obvious. So is the need for doctors and nurses in mental hospitals. More and better teachers, doctors and nurses will require more money. Up to a certain point the additional money will pay dividends. So will improved health and welfare programs.

The problem is to determine the exact point at which the economic law of diminishing returns becomes effective. No sensible person will deny that there has been waste in educational and health spending. Instances can be cited of tax levies made so high the total yield was reduced.

SYSTEM — The North Carolina executive budget plan seems to afford an efficient method of maintaining balance between real need and ability to meet it. The agency and department heads make up bills of particulars showing what they propose to do with money allotted. These bills go to the advisory budget commission, which sits as a sort grand jury. From the budget grand jury the bills go to the General Assembly, marked "a true bill," "not a true bill," or "without prejudice."

The Legislature through committees first and then as a whole has final authority in making appropriations and levying taxes to meet them. This action is taken only after origina. testimony has been heard from interested parties. The Legislature gives high prestige to budget recommendations, but is not bound by them.

GLORY OF CROSS BEARING

The command of Jesus, "Whosoever would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me," is an injunction the validity of which every Christian would admit.

But when it comes to taking up the cross—that is a different matter. Some delay and say that they will take it up later. Others take it up and groan under it and feel sorry for themselves. A minister remarked recently about the fact that many modern Christians like to bear a light, plastic cross instead of the rough and heavy wooden structure which was laid on the shoulders of our Lord.

When Jesus commanded men to take up the cross and follow him, he did so with the full realization that he was not asking them to do anything easy. He was very decidedly asking them to do something difficult. A cross is not a burden. A burden is something we have to bear whether we want to or not, whereas a cross is something we voluntarily agree to bear in order that someone else may be benefited.

There are no light crosses—none made of plastic. If we really mean business when we say that we are willing to sacrifice in behalf of someone else, then we have to get ready for unpleasantness, sacrifice, and perhaps suffering.

The way of the cross was not easy for Jesus, and it is not easy for us. But his glory came from such bearing, and a like glory awaits us.

For Sunnier Days, Too

Business Today

All Affected By Train Fares

By ELMER ROESSNER

No matter who you are or what you do, you will be affected by the action of six major Eastern railroads in asking an increase of 45 per cent in Pullman fares. You may never ride a Pullman or any of the six lines, you may never leave the old home town as long as you live, but in some way the action will affect you.

The railroads are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Pennsylvania-Reading, and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. The Lehigh Valley and Reading railroads joined the six in asking for a 5 per cent rise in coach fares, but what's a 5 per cent hike these days?

If the 45 per cent rise is granted, these are the probable consequences:

1. Almost all other railroads will ask increases in Pullman fares.

TRAFFIC PATTERN SCRAMBLE

2. More traffic will be pushed toward coach travel, buses and airlines.

3. With fewer passengers, the Pullman company itself will have to raise its prices for berths, meals, drinks and services.

4. This will tend to make first-class travel prohibitive, except for those in fear of bus and plane travel, or who must take more baggage with them than buses or planes permit.

5. The cost of sending buyers to major markets, and of sending salesmen on the road, will be increased considerably.

6. If the rise kills off Pullman traffic completely, railroads will have to charge more of their track maintenance, station facilities, signal system operation, executives' salaries and other operating costs to their freight systems. This will inevitably mean higher freight rates.

7. Higher merchandising costs, plus higher freight rates, will mean higher prices for almost everything you buy. A wife that formerly cost 26 cows will cost 27 cows. (That last sentence is for African editions only.)

RAILROADS IN TROUBLE

The railroads have a good case. Almost no road appears to be making money on its Pullman fares. Some roads might be better off if they handed Pullman applications a coupon good for half price on an airline. Or, if the government permitted, to buy up some airlines.

But the good case for the railroads is clouded by the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission dictates their method of keeping books. For instance, they have to allocate to track maintenance the same amount for one passenger as they allocate for one 150-pound bag of sand. In reality, the roads may be losing a lot less than they think on Pullman traffic—or a lot more.

The nation needs the railroads as a segment of national defense, as the last war showed. We needed railroads as well as trucks to move materiel (gee, how long is it since you've seen that word?) and we needed railroads as well as planes and buses to move fighting men.

If there is another war, the nation will need the railroads even more. It will need them for moving personnel as well as materiel. The answer to the present problem may be the setting up of a system of subsidies, such as is enjoyed by the air lines.

Perhaps that's what the railroads have in mind.

One Might Never Know, But...

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That air conditioning is responsible for a major improvement in American political practices: The hotel room in which party leaders pick a candidate no longer has to be smoke-filled. Presumably this enables them to see the issues more clearly.

That Betty Furness, the pretty lady icebox peddler, took a 30-dress wardrobe to the two national political conventions . . . but not to be oudone, Carl King, huckster for a rival TV network, showed up with 15 suits, 8 pairs of shoes, 36 shirts, 20 ties, 5 belts, 8 tiepins, and 24 sets of BVD's.

That Elaine Malbin, the opera singer, has changed her hair style 38 times this year alone.

That there are only about 125 pounds of steak on a 1,000-pound steer—which explains why most of us have to eat hamburger.

That—male motorists probably won't believe this—two-thirds of the women in America don't drive automobiles. It only seems like the other third all get on the highway at the same time.

That only about 25 per cent of babies born in America now are breast-fed.

That about 30 per cent of the life insurance policy holders in the United States are under 18.

That a columnist in the Missouri State Penitentiary's monthly newspaper—we never knew a well-run prison would board a columnist — observes bitterly, "About the only way for an ex-con to make an impression today is with his fingerprints."

That if a girl doesn't want too much competition while husband hunting her best bet is to go to college. Two out of three of America's 2,400,000 college students are men.

That a young man seeking a wife who can keep him in the style to which he wants to become accustomed will do better to look for an heiress rather than a working girl. Only 40,000 of the 21 million American women who hold jobs outside the home earn $10,000 or more a year.

That, no matter how many headaches the woes of modern life produce, the drug industry is ready to cope with them. Does it comfort you to know there are now machines that can spew out a million tablets in 8 hours?

That two-thirds of the rainfall in America falls in the eastern half of the country—a condition about which Congress has done precious little.

That we may not live as pure lives as our grandparents, but we must be a lot cleaner. The per capita use of water has increased from 600 gallons a day to 1,500 gallons in the last half century.

That only one out of every 10 people who start a diet ever get down to their desired weight—and stick to it.

Chances are one in four you own some U. S. savings bonds.

Unwitting Democrat Boost For Nixon

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON The reasons given by Harry S. Truman for supporting Governor Averell Harriman as the Democratic Presidential nominee have boomeranged in favor of the former President's most hated Republican—Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The Californian's unpopularity among the Democrats has done him more good than harm in GOP circles.

Recalling his own lonely and bitter experiences as Vice President, when F.D.R. treated him as an unwanted orphan wished upon him by the leaders of organized labor, Truman said that the nation could not afford such a luxury as a President who would have to learn through "trial and error."

Truman failed to recognize that Adlai E. Stevenson, as former Gopernor of Illinois and a student of national and international affairs all his life, was far better equipped for the White House than the Missourian was upon his accidental elevation to the Presidency And, so the pro-Nixon argument now runs, he is far better qualified than either Stevenson or Harriman.

UNWITTING BOOST FROM DEMOCRATS Nixon supporters point out that he has all of the qualifications which Truman urged on behalf of Harriman. As a result of his service in House, Senate and the Vice Presidency, as well as his participation in Cabinet and National Security Council meetings, they maintain that he would not have to undergo a period of "trial and error," as Truman did after F. D. R.'s death.

Unlike Governor Christian A. Herter, who has been away from Washington for some years, Nixon has had a major role in national and international events. As if to emphasize this fact on the Republican delegates and politicians assembled at San Francisco, President Eisenhower took pains to invite the Vice President to his discussion of the current Suez Canal crisis with Congressional leaders.

EVIDENCE IKE FAVORS DICK Nixon's presence at that conference at the White House, together with the Truman statement, has been cited by the Californian's supporters as evidence that Eisenhower really favors another "Ike and Dick" ticket.

Governor Frank G. Clement of Tennessee, the Democrats' keynoter, also gave a boost to the Nixon candidacy. By branding Nixon as a "Republican villain," Clement dared the GOP to renominate the Vice President. It is a "dare" which seems likely to be accepted.

ATTACKS INCREASED NIXON'S STATUS In short, Nixon's backers believe that the Democrats' attack on him, in contrast to their failure to pillory Eisenhower personally or bitterly, was an assist. It made him, even more than he has been, a major controversial and exciting figure, whereas candidates for second place on the ticket are usually colorless, neglected and unimportant convention afterthoughts.

Not since "Teddy" Roosevelt ran with McKinley in 1900 has a man in a secondary spot enjoyed so much advertising, good and bad but always catching, as Richard M. Nixon. And few Governors have attracted less attention than Christian A. Herter, in the opinion of GOP strategists.

TRUMAN AND STASSEN'S ADVERTISING HELPED V.P. Finally, the Republicans will need an attraction of the Nixon type, hero or villain, in the forthcoming campaign.

If President Eisenhower keeps to his present program, conducting a mild and quiet campaign, and devoted mainly to television talks in several key cities, the Republicans will have to rely on other figures to arouse interest and turn out the crowds. Few of the Cabinet members or Congressional members are blessed with striking personalities or oratorical talent.

In view of the advertising which the two Harry's—Truman and Stassen—have bestowed upon him, the "Republican villain" may be that necessary man.

Future Consumer Purchases

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass — My grandson, Roger Babson Webber, is much interested in the study and relationship of future consumer purchasing to the books which people now read, the phonograph records they now buy, and the movies they now attend. He feels that these may be good barometers of future business changes. Recently he has been calling to my attention that a best-selling record has been the song "SIXTEEN TONS."

THE "SIXTEEN TON" STORY

This is a song of a man working in the mines, whose job was to dig sixteen tons of "number nine coal" every day and who bought all his supplies at the company store. Although he worked for years, he never could get out of debt. Having taught that all debt should be paid, he prayed to St. Peter to give him more time before "calling me home." My grandson feel that one reason this record has had such a big sale is that it represents the feelings of millions of consumers who are heavily in debt to some store.

Of course, consumers have a perfect moral right to barrow in order to enjoy automobiles, refrigerators, radios, and probably television sets. There is no moral reason why a working man should not be entitled to use credit — as well as his employer — even though this is a custom which did not prevail fifty years ago. Probably modern advertising has been the force to bring about this change; now even conservative banks, which scorned such consumer borrowing a few years ago, are soliciting it.

MOST MERCHANTS MUST GIVE CREDIT

The "Five and Ten-Cent" variety stores have built up a huge business on an all cash, no delivery, and now self-service basis. There will always be field for such stores, but to operate successfully, they must get the benefit of huge buying power through large chains. A great many consumers, however, demand credit, delivery, and more personal attention. Naturally, they must pay for these privileges, and if the local merchant doesn't grant them it is very difficult for him to continue in business. Also I understand that selling on installment tends to bring the customer back to the store every month, thus stimulating further sales.

CONSUMERS MAKE BUSINESS CONDITIONS

Business conditions are not determined by bankers or politicians or even by the leaders in your community. Now, my grandson's important question today is whether consumers are getting tired and want to rest, or whether they are still determined to "keep up with the Joneses." Probably almost every reader of this paper is anxious to do both, and for a time this will continue to be possible, with a further increase in retail sales. If, however, the tide changes and retail sales fall off, the retailer will buy less from the manufacturer, the manufacturer will reduce the number of his employees, and the purchasing power of the country will decline. This could develop into a very serious vicious circle.

I see no sign of this at the present time. In fact, if it should come now, Congress would take immediate steps to check it. Probably the proposed tremendous new road-building campaign is partly to insure continued prosperity, in case there should be a severe slackening in installment sales, new building, and the automobile industry.

WHAT SHALL WE ALL DO?

We should not suddenly abandon installment purchases. But we all — whether merchants or consumers — should avoid getting into the pessimistic mood of the poir fellow digging the "sixteen tons of number nine coal." Certainly our appropriations for advertising should continue, as advertising is the life blood of business. On the other hand, it may be wise for consumers to avoid further debt and for merchants to put more emphasis on cash transactions.

I have often suggested to merchants that they have a price differential between cash and installment sales, but they tell me this is practically impossible. It seems, however, that the merchants associations could prevent the situation from becoming

Miss Sylvester Becomes Bride

RICHLANDS—In an 8 o'clock candlelight ceremony at Trinity Methodist Church here Saturday evening, Miss Henrian Sylvester of Richlands became the bride of Joseph Jordan Allegood of Greenville.

The Rev. Worth B. Cotton officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Durward Sylvester of Richlands. Mr. Allegood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud J. Allegood of Greenville.

Vows were pledged before an altar decorated with two vases of white chrysanthemums and gold candelabra bearing burning white cathedral candles. Cathedral candles trimmed with satin bows marked the pews. Two floor baskets of white chrysanthemums completed the church decorations.

Prior to the ceremony, nuptial music was performed by Mrs. Louis H. Sylvester, aunt of the bride, of Richlands, organist, and Mrs. William Wallace Vincent of Mebane, sister of the groom, vocalist, who sang "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice," Saint-Saens, and "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," Gounod. Gerald Nelson Bryant of Statesville, uncle of the bride, violinist, played "Meditation From Thais," Massenet, and "Berceuse From Jocelyn," Godard.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French hand-clipped lace, featuring a tightly-fitted bodice accented by scalloped lace neckline with embroidered seed pearls and sequins and cupped sleeves. The bouffant skirt fell into an Elizabethan train detailed with pearls and sequins. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a crown of lace with embroidered seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of phelanopsis and stephanotis.

Mrs. Mack Arthur Arnold Jr. of Greensboro attended her sister as matron of honor. Her peacock blue taffeta dress was fashioned along princess lines and had a low V neckline, which ended in a taffeta bow with streamers falling to the hem line. She carried a crescent bouquet of white fuji mums and English ivy.

The bridesmaids, whose gowns and bouquets were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's, were Misses Ruth Brock, Olivia Steed Thompson and Anne Reid of Richmonds; Martha Rae Harris of Albemarle; Anne Nicholson of Charlotte; and Frances Strickland of Burlington.

Carl Allegood of Raleigh attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Richard Sylvester Jr., brother of the bride of Richlands; Leon Moore, Jack Whichard, Graham Flanagan and James Cox of Greenville; and Bill Thompson of Dunn.

Mrs. Sylvester wore a blue lace gown, with scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, long white gloves and matching headdress. A white orchid corsage completed her outfit.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Allegood chose a gray dress trimmed with pink velvet ribbon with lace jacket, matching net headdress trimmed with pink rosebuds and a pink orchid corsage.

For a wedding trip to Paradise Valley in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania, the bride donned a tailored sheath costume suit of beige pure silk, with matching beige waist-length coat featuring covered buttons and Peter Pan collar. She chose brown accessories to match her brown orchid.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Allegood are rising seniors at Duke University and they will return there in September. They will be at home at the Alastair Court Apartments in Durham.

Reception

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home. The bride's table was centered with an antique tiered epergne filled with white chrysanthemums, entwined with pink net and satin spires.

The three-tiered pink and white wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom passing through an archway. A color note of white was observed in the dining room and pink was predominant elsewhere.

Mrs. Louis H. Sylvester served cake, Mrs. Verney Brown served ices in the shapes of wedding bells and slippers and Mrs. Nathaniel Sylvester poured punch.

Others assisting in serving were Mesdames Gerald N. Bryant Jr., James L. Cox, Sylvester Day, W. Bryan Hargett, and Ted Mercer.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon W. Sylvester greeted guests at the front door. Guests were introduced to the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald N. Bryant Sr. and directed to the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Winstead. Mrs. W. Guy Hargett directed them from the dining room to the terrace where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale and Mr. and Mrs. W. Victor Venters, who also said goodbyes.

Mrs. Benjamin W. Brock and Mrs. Carl W. Sutton presided at the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Mills received in the library while Mr. and Mrs. Twiggs Randall entertained throughout the house. Mr. and Mrs. Murrill Boggs and Mrs. Clara Reid presided in the gift room.

Others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Mills, Mrs. John W. Mills and Miss Margaret Ann Brock.

It looks like there'll be a new era in dutch treat.

Summer vacations have taught some girls a lesson about money, and they're not going to forget in a hurry. Take the case of Mary B:

"I worked weekends and after-school for a long while so I could have a good vacation this year with some new clothes and make-up. So what happens? I met a very nice boy at the lake, and he acted so broke that I decided to treat him to a few parties. One picnic alone cost me $5. Now I find out he's been saving his money for a new car, and has a steady girl friend at home."

Another girl became a real chilly-filly when she gave some consideration to her role in the dutch treat club, junior style. Kathy explains:

"My parents gave me their old car when they bought a new one recently. Suddenly, I found I was very popular. But I spent all my allowance on gas. Even boys who used to take me out and pay for the transportation never opened their wallets to fill up the old tank."

Kathy's fixed all that though. Now, when one of her beaux asks for a date, she merely says "there's no gas in the car." They either put up or walk, she says.

You can't expect the boy to pay for everything, the girls agree, although most students have good paying spare-time jobs.

"A football or basketball game invitation where tickets are involved could be very expensive. Sometimes the boy can't afford to ask the girl unless she can pay part of the tab, especially if they plan to eat dinner or lunch out. School dances after the game are likely to run into money too, so the most generous date is likely to need a helping hand," most say.

But maybe dutch treat is created by the female of the species, after all. Joan, an attractive brunette and a popular dater, says she has never spent a sou or a boy and doesn't think it is necessary. She says:

"Girls are so anxious to go out, they'll do anything to get a date. The way I feel about it is this: If the boy can't pay his way and mine too, I'd just as soon stay home. I can do other things with my money and I'm not going to part with it if I don't have to . . . ."

Joan says she's never had a boy actually ask her for money or to pay part of the date expenses, although any number of them have hinted. She adds:

"I just ignore them when they hint. Sometimes if I can tell that a young man is low on funds when I'm out with him, I'll invite him to the house for an evenin, of dinner and dancing. That way he can have another date with me, and we don't need to cop with the dutch treat idea. Girls better get smart or pretty soon when they get married the man will expect them to pay half the household expenses."

Funeral Wednesday For R. L. Gaston Sr.

ASHEVILLE—Robert Lawrence Gaston Sr., 77, of Greenville, N. C. died Sunday afternoon in an Asheville hospital after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Gaston was taken ill while on a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Gladys G. Ingle.

A native of South Carolina, Mr. Gaston was born in Blacksburg on March 15, 1879, the son of the late Dr. David and Victora Mintz Gaston. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Blacksburg.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. at Wilkerson's Chapel in Greenville. Interment will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Gaston attended Wake Forest College and was associated with the Imperial Tobacco Co. for 35 years, retiring in 1950.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Mayme Miller Gaston; two sons, Robert L. Gaston Jr. of Tampa, Fla. and Joseph P. Gaston of Greenville, N. C.; four daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Halderman of Washington, D. C., Mrs. W. B. James of Greenville, Mrs. George Z. Ingle of Asheville and Mrs. Lester Thayer Jr. of Cochabamba, Bolivia; a sister, Mrs. Alice Easterday; and a brother, Ralph T. Gaston, both of Blacksburg, S. C.; and 10 grandchildren.

Furniture Should Be Versatile

AP Newsfeatures

MODERN HOMES, with their feeling of light, space and informality, have inspired a whole new philosophy of furniture design, says Harvey Probber, designer known for his untraditional approach.

Probber believes that a good piece of furniture should have multiple uses—that it should be adaptable to practically any room in the house and even capable of acting as a room divider. Say he:

"The contemporary room should not be a stilted stage set; it should reflect the tastes and activities of the occupants."

Typical of his versatile furniture designs is a group consisting of sectional corner divans and lightweight tables which may be backed up to one side of a divan to form a division between living and dining areas. The table is the same height as the sofa back, and is accompanied by upholstered stools instead of chairs, which may be pushed underneath it.

This, points out Probber, is a practical space-saving device for a small home or apartment. In other plans he makes use of long cabinets teamed with sectional sofas to provide storage space as well as partitions between various areas of a room.

Probber started selling furniture designs to manufacturers at 16, while he was still in high school. He planned to study design at college, but never got around ot it, being too busy selling his designs and later manufacturing his own furniture. He is married to a former actress and is the father of two small sons.

The Probber home serves as a laboratory for trying out new ideas in contemporary furniture, and as a background for the family collection of modern paintings.

Joint Hostesses Entertain At Tea Honoring Miss Spain

Mrs. Marvin Sugg and Mrs. Robert N. Styres of Raleigh entertained at tea Saturday afternoon at the Sugg home honoring Miss Frances Spain, bride-elect of September 1.

Mrs. W. S. Bost received at the front door and introduced guests to the receiving line composed of the hostesses, Miss Spain, her mother, Mrs. Jack Spain, two of her bridesmaids, Miss Bessie Holt of Ervin and Miss Stuart Bost, and Mrs. Robert McKenzie of Washington, N. C.

A pink and white color note was carried out in the dining room in both decorations and refreshments.

The dining table was covered with a white Italian cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink roses and pink gladioli in a silver tureen. Flanking the center arrangement were three-branched candelabra holding pink burning tapers.

White gladioli and roses were used in arrangements throughout the house.

Presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. F. W. A. Mills. She was assisted in serving bridal cakes iced in pink, nuts, mints and cheese straws by Miss Betty Sugg, Miss Ray Lane, Mrs. Gertrude Taylor and Mrs. John Wharton.

White carnation corsages were worn by each member of the receiving line. Mrs. Styres, who will be Miss Spain's matron of honor, and Mrs. Sugg presented the bride-to-be an electric frying pan and a silver vegetable dish.

Peach Cobbler Beverage

SUNSET SALAD

Ingredients: 4 large servings torn mixed greens (bite size), 1 cup (cut in thin strips) cooked smoked tongue, ½ cup (cut in thin strips cheddar cheese, 8 to 16 pimiento-stuffed olives, 2 teaspoons drained large capers, ½ of a large green pepper (cut in thin strips), 4 hard-cooked eggs (cut in eighths or round slices), olive oil, red wine vinegar, salt, freshly-ground pepper, 1 small clove garlic, minced chives and fresh basil (if available).

Method: Arrange greens over bottom of a very large salad bowl. Sprinkle tongue, cheese, olives, capers and green pepper over greens. Arrange sliced eggs on top. (If made a short while before serving, cover tightly and refrigerate.) At the table, make a small space at one side of bowl and in desired proportions add oil, vinegar, salt, pepper, crushed garlic and (if used) chives and basil. Stir dressing well at side of bowl, then toss thoroughly with salad.

Shower Fetes Recent Bride

A shower was given for Mrs. Jessie Thomas Tripp, a recent bride, on August 8 from eight to ten-thirty o'clock.

Mrs. Lloyd B. Whichard and Miss Melissa Whichard were hostesses for the event which took place at their home in Grimesland.

The home was decorated with roses and a mirrored mantel arrangement of white gladioli and greenery.

The bride was presented a white carnation corsage and a Chinese ceramic bowl by the hostesses.

During the evening a progressive game of hearts was played and prizes were won by Mrs. Jimmy Whichard and Miss Ruth Tucker for first and second high score. At the beginning of the game, ice-cold Coca-Colas and nuts were served.

At the conclusion of the game, everyone enjoyed watching the bride open her gifts.

The hostesses served ice cream bridal molds and cake. For this on each table was placed a burning green and white candle.

Twenty-five young people enjoyed the occasion. Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. T. R. Rouse, Mrs. Della Mae Galloway, Mrs. Victor Howell, Mrs. Gladys Galloway, Mrs. A. H. Tucker and Miss Jennie Outlaw.

The bride is the former Miss Patricia Ann Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tucker of Grimesland.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all — results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.® At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

NEW ELEGANT SUITS DISPLAY

FINE FABRIC AND SOFT TOUCHES

The softer suit, the richer fabric and the dressy air — are the style notes that point up fall's suit showings.

From softly-back-bloused styling, or normal belted waistlines or easy-elegant tapered, box stylings!

Suits define a gracious manner in crisp dry worsteds, wool and rabbits' hair blends, wool crepes, wool satins (broadcloth) and ottoman - ribbed silks or wools. Blends of dacron and wool lend credence to the new soft lines, too.

Tweeds are tremendous as the starring light on the suit scene. From classic herringbones to gay, patterned novelties —tweeds appear in silk, rich menswear types, soft, light wooly patterns and tweedy rayons.

Skirts are almost always slim, some with easy-gored hem fullness, or with pleated panels set-in at the hemline.

Shoulders are very subtly broadened with relaxed set-in sleeves that end loosely at mid-arm or just above the wrist with easy grace.

There are wrapped and tied treatments at jacket necklines — or standaway collars; flatback panel treatments; tab-gathered; double-breasted buttoning; Empire detailing at the bodice; novel pocket treatment; embroidery, buttons and bows — all are fascinating signatures on the new-season suit modes.

Spahn's Win Puts Milwaukee Two Games On Top

Brave Ace And Lemon Seeking 200th Victory

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Southpaw Warren Spahn, pitching for a pennant, and righthander Bob Lemon, the ace of a first-rate pitching staff that hasn't been able to fire a second place club, today are within reach of the select 200-victory club in major league ball.

Spahn, coming through in the clutch, pitched Milwaukee back into a two-game lead in the National League race as the Braves defeated Cincinnati 3-1 yesterday. Lemon, who broke in as an infielder, used a five-hitter to get Cleveland started on a doubleheader sweep of the Kansas City Athletics, 5-2 and 2-1, and keep the Indians' meager flag hopes alive in the American League race.

It was the 197th major league victory for each of the 35-year-old veterans.

There are only two active 200-game winners in the business today—and Cleveland has 'em both. Bob Feller, without a victory this season has a 266 total, and Early Wynn, with 14 this year, has 215.

Spahn's 14th victory of the year was the big one of the day, sending the Redlegs back to third place after winning the first two games of the important four-game series at Cincinnati. Brooklyn's Dodgers reclaimed the runnerup spot by seven percentage points with a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia.

Another veteran, Murry Dickson who'll be 40 tomorrow struck out nine and gave just two hits as the fourth place St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-0 in a doubleheader split. The Cubs took the nightcap 3-1. The New York giants, socking six home runs, took two from Pittsburgh, 7-6 and 3-2.

Cleveland's sweep moved the tribe to within 8½ games of first place New York as the two clubs get set for a two-game series in Yankee Stadium starting tomorrow night. The Yankees were trimmed 3-2 at Baltimore. The Chicago White Sox moved into third place, splitting with the Detroit Tigers while Washington was taking two from Boston. Chicago won 4-1 after an 11-inning 3-1 defeat; Boston slipped to fourth on 7-5 and 11-10 losses with the nightcap going 11 frames.

Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the eighth beat the Redlegs as Spahn kept eight hits—including Ted Kluszewski's 31st home run—fairly well scattered. Tom Acker, also giving up Ed Mathews' 27th home run, was the loser in relief of Joe Nuxhall. Danny O'Connell's linedrive struck Nuxhall's left knee and sidelined the southpaw starter in the first inning.

A two - run pinch double by Charlie Neal in the ninth inning broke up aduel between the Dodgers' Don Newcombe, who won his 19th, and the Phils' Curt Simmons, who had won seven in a row. Gil Hodges homered for the other Dodger run. It was his 25th.

Dickson, driving in two runs with three hits, retired 17 in a row before giving a pinch single to the Cubs' Monte Irvin. Don Kaiser was the loser. Stan Musial hit his 21st homer among the Cards' 14 hits. Southpaw Jim Davis and reliefer Turk Lown stopped the Cards in the nightcap except for Rip Repulski's pinch homer. The Cubs got just four hits but rapped loser Vinegar Bend Mizell for two runs in the fourth with Harry Chiti's bases - loaded infield hit getting the deciding marker home.

Daryl Spencer hit two of the Giant homers and Willie Mays socked his 24th. An eighth inning error enabled the winning run to score in the opener. In the afterpiece, Mays brought the clincher home in the sixth—walking, stealing second and scoring on an infield out.

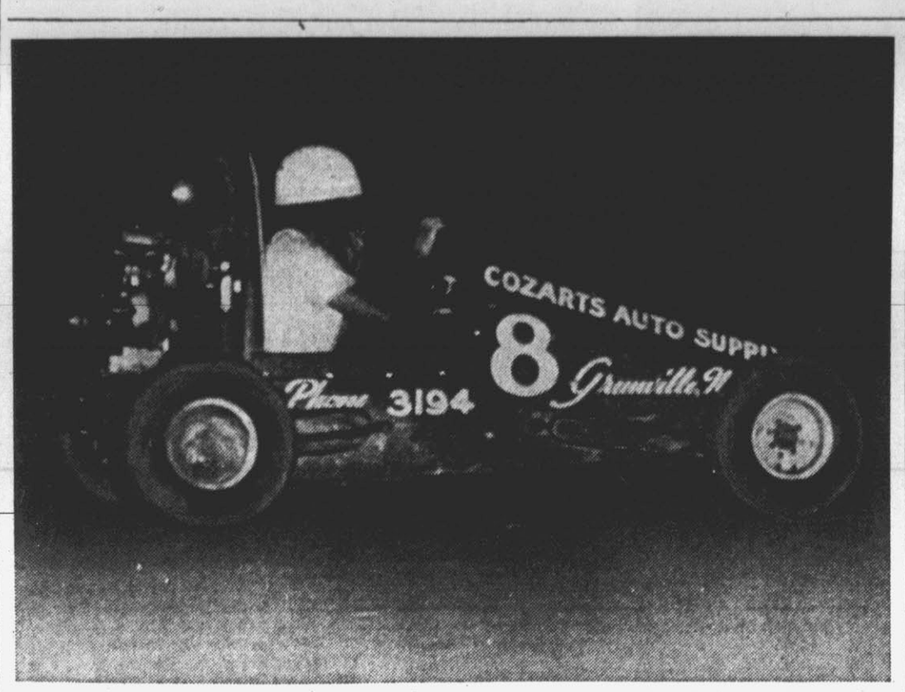
Connie Johnson five - hit the Yankees and struck out seven while blanking Mickey Mantle. The righthander also singled home the winning run in a three-run seventh against loser Johnny Kucks.

Hec Lopez homered for a 2-1 lead against Lemon in the first game, but the Indians scored three in the fourth on five singls to beat rookie Wally Burnette. Both Tribe runs were unearned in the nightcap to beat Art Ditmar. Mike Garcia won it with relief help for a 9-11 record.

Singles by Charley Maxwell and Al Kaline beat the White Sox in the opener as Frank Lary won his 13th. But Chicago bounced back to hand Billy Hoeft his 11th defeat when the lefty wild-pitched two runs home in the first inning. Dick Donovan won the nightcap.

The Red Sox blew 5-5 and 9-5 leads in the nightcap. Roy Sievers' double broke it 70—giving the Senators a sweep in the four-game series and a 13-4 record against Boston this season. Pete Ramos won his 12th in relief. He's 6-0 vs Boston. A five-run fifth inning won the opener for Chuck Stobbs as the Nats battered 16-game winner Tom Brewer. Milt Bolling and Dick Gernert homered among the Red Sox' eight hits.

Man Injured In Saturday Night Micro Races



POLLARD STREAKS HOME—Johnny Pollard, Greenville Micro Racer, speeds toward the checked flag with a win in Saturday night's Midget Race affair at the local Fair Grounds Stadium. Pollard defeated the field in the first heat race of the evening and was a close contestant in the main event, which was won by Norfolk's George Salas.

Spahn's Best Pitch Was Conceived In Self Defense

By JOE REICHLER

CINCINNATI (AP) — A pitch he developed in self defense when it seemed his major league career was coming to an abrupt end has become Warren Spahn's trump card and one which may help him make a 200-game career winner this year.

The identity of the pitch is somewhat clouded. Spahn calls it a sinker but his catcher, Del Rice, insists it is a "scroogie," the players' term for a screwball. Whatever it is, the Cincinnati Redlegs couldn't hit it yesterday as the 35-year-old southpaw cooled off their hot bats in pitching the Milwaukee Braves to a 3-1 triumph.

Spahn permitted the Red eight hits, including Ted Kluszewski's 31st home run.

Spahn, who now has beaten the Redlegs 28 times in 51 decisions and is only three victories shy of 200, got into his worst jam in the ninth. Bob Thurman and Kluszewski, the first two batters to face him, rapped back-to-back singles to send the near-capacity crowd of 25,986 wild. Wally Post, the powerful righthanded-hitting outfielder, who had hit six home runs in the last nine games, was the next hitter.

"Post murders the fast ball," Spahn related later, "so I decided this was as good a time as any to try out this new pitch. I threw him four straight sinkers, or screwballs, whichever you prefer. The first two were away from the plate, but he fouled off the next one and hit the fourth to Mathews for a doubleplay."

Spahn ended the game by fanning the dangerous Ed Bailey on three pitches, a curve, a fastball and the new "scroogie."

"I began working on this pitch several years ago when I learned that my fastball had lost its zip following the operations on both my knees," Spahn said. "I discarded it two years ago, however, when Carl Furillo hit it out of the park on me. But this year, I decided to give it another try."

"And that scroogie wa never sharper than today," observed Rice admiringly.

Smith-Brown Title Bout Heads Action

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

Lightweight champion Wallace "Bud" Smith, beaten in his last three fights, risks his title in New Orleans Friday night against Joe Brown, winner of his last six.

The 26-year-old titleholder from Cincinnati hasn't won since he successfully defended his crown against Jimmy Carter Oct. 19. Smith had captured the championship from Carter June 29, 1955. In three nontitle starts, all this year, Smith lost a decision to Larry Boardman, was stopped by exwelter champ Tony DeMarco and was solidly thumped by Brown in 10 rounds at Houston, May 2.

Brown, an erratic performer for years, is confident he will make it two straight and grab the title. The 31-year old challenger, father of three boys, has a 60-14-8 record. Smith's record is 33-14-5.

The bout, at the Coliseum, will be New Orleans' first title fight in 39 years. The last one was held in 1917 when Pete Herman defended his bantamweight crown against Frankie Burns.

Tony Gonzalez, East orange, N.J., and Italy's Fernando Spallotta, a couple of free-wheeling punchers, hook up in tonight's middleweight 10-rounde at New York's St.Nicholas arena. Gonzalez has a 22-5-1 record. Spallotta's is almost the same, 24-4-1.

Featherweights Flash Elorde of Manila and Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico, are pitted against each other in the Wednesday night headliner at he San Francisco Auditorium Elorde, fourth ranking contender, has a 43-2-2 record. Berrios, ranked 10th, has a 17-6 record.

Welterweight champion Johnny Saxton tunes up for his Sept. 12 title defense against Carmen Basilio with a nontitle 10-rounder against veteran Don Williams at Worcester, Mass., Williams' home town, Thursday night.

Two of the nation's leading, young heavyweights, Willie Pastrano, 20-year-old, fifth ranking contender, and unranked undefeated 24-year old Pat McMurtry, Tacoma, Wash., collide at Tacoma Friday night.

Willie has an unbeaten streak of 18, including two draws. His record is 37-4-5. McMurtry's perfect record in 22 bouts is marred only by a June draw with Bob Albright. The young Irishman whipped former heavyweight king Ezzard Charles in his first start against a "name" fighter.

NCAA States Sites And Dates For Tournaments

DENVER (AP)—The NCAA executive committee, at its midyear meeting, announced sites and dates last night for collegiate sports tournaments for 1956-57.

Among the announcements was the decision to return the 1957 basketball finals to Kansas City, where the tourney was held in 1954 and 1955. Last spring, the tourney was held at Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

The 1957 finals, which will follow a round of regional tourneys, will be held March 22-23.

At-large teams will be selected in first-round tournaments March 11-13. Sites were not named because at-large candidates will be selected on the basis of their play during the coming season.

After first-round play, competition will start March 15-16 at four regional meets with the following host schools: Pennsylvania, Eastern Division; Kentucky, Midwest; Southern Methodist, West; Oregon State, Far West.

Redskins Back Hurt In Twin Auto Accidents

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two stars of the Washington Redskins backfield, quarterback Al Dorow and halfback Vic Janowicz, were under treatment today for injuries suffered in separate weekend traffic accidents.

Both figured prominently in the Redskins 39-21 victory over the Los Angeles Rams in a National Football League exhibition game here last Friday night. Dorow went all the way as quarterback. Janowicz kicked a field goal and three conversion points.

Dorow, 26, complained of a back injury after the accident yesterday near San Bernardino in which his mother-in-law Mrs. Bernardine Allison, about 43, of Ontario, Calif., was killed.

The quarterback was first taken to the San Bernardino County Hospital, then was released to the care of a private physician.

Janowicz, also 26, suffered a severe concussion, cuts and bruises in an accident Saturday and may be lost to the team for a month, General Manager Dick McCann said. The halfback is in Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. The team is training at Occidental College here.

Janowicz was returning from a Redskins victory party early Saturday in a car driven by Miss Barbara Wagoner, 21, student nurse, when it struck a utility pole, police reported. Miss Wagner suffered several broken ribs.

Dorow was riding in a car driven by his father-in-law, James W. Allison, 48, which collided with one driven by Fred M. Fischer, 68, Beaumont, Calif., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Mrs. Allison was thrown out and crushed between the car and a utility pole. Allison and his son, James Jr., 13, suffered minor injuries. Dorow's wife, Wanda, 19, suffered cuts and bruises.

Fischer and his passenger, Oscar B. Clark, 72, Beaumont, were hospitalized for head injuries.

Bears, Forty - Niners Take Exhibitions Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frankie Albert, former San Francisco '49er quarterback, was back in pro football yesterday and pretty happy about it.

Making his coaching debut, Albert, who used to drive opposing linemen dizzy with his hidden ball tricks, pulled the oft-injured Hugh McElhenny off the bench and the Forty-Niners swept to a 28-17 victory over the National Football League defending champion Cleveland Browns.

In other action, the Chicago Bears, sparked by the play of rookie halfback Perry Jeter, defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 31-7 Saturday and the Green Bay Packers came from behind to overcome the Philadelphia Eagles 27-6.

McElhenny, the injury-plagued halfback who is a prime cog in the Frisco offense, sped 80 yards for a touchdown to give the '49ers a 7-3 second quarter lead. Lou Groza had opened the scoring for the Browns with a field goal. Albert's team was never headed.

Jeter, fresh from California Poly, scored one touchdown and ran wild as the Bears beat their crosstown rivals who kept them from winning the division title last year.

In a Shrine charity game, the Packers aided by the arm of Tobin Rote rode to victory over the Eagles. Rote also scored on a 2-yard plunge.

The New York Giants face the Baltimore Colts in tonight's only game at Boston, Mass.

Abandons Golf To Resume His Teaching Duties

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The professional golf caravan today headed for St. Paul, Minn., the next stop on the circuit, without gritty Ed Furgol, winner of yesterday's $35,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament with a blue-chip final round of five-under-par 65.

The 39-year-old St. Louis pro, richer by $6,000 and a new station wagon after posting a 15-under-par 265 in the 72-hole medal tournament at Tripoli, said he had to get back to his teaching duties at the Westwood Country Club.

"I'm sorry I can't go to St.Paul for the Keller Open," the lame-armed Furgol said after accepting his check and the keys to the station wagon. "But, I'd better get back to Westwood. I really can't say which tournament will be my next one."

Furgol, whose left arm is withered due to a childhood accident, was an 11th-hour entry here. Tournament officials had to find a caddy for him. He never had played the tricky, wind - swept 6,380 course.

After carding a course record of seven under par 63 on the first day, the former U.S. Open champion admitted he was playing hooky from his home club.

"I looked over my teaching chart Wednesday," he said, "and saw I only had two lessons scheduled. I figured it was a shame to miss the tournament so I decided to skip school. I'm a guy who likes action and I hope the folks at Westwood will understand."

Going into the final round, Furgol trailed 54-hole leader Jackie Burke, Master's and PGA champion from Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., by two strokes—198 to 200.

Beefy Bill Casper Jr. of Chula Vista, Calif., also had a 200. And, tied at 203, were Gray Brewer Jr. of Cincinnati and Gene Littler of Singing Hills, calif.

Furgol overcame Burke's edge on the front nine with a one-under-par 34 with the aid of a pair of birdies, and then collected four more birdies on the back nine to wrap up the title.

Burke, who like Furgol had a 63 on the first round, finished third with a 270, one stroke back of the 26-year-old Littler.

Postponed

"The Carolina Dairy-Granitier softball contest scheduled for tonight has been postponed until tomorrow night at 7:30," announced Neely James, Industrial Softball League Commissioner.

The present standings show the two teams deadlocked for first place. A victory for the first half champion Granites will sow up the crown for them. Carolina Dairy needs a win in tomorrow night's game to win the second half championship. Should the Dairy win, they will play Paul Rouse's Granitiers for the over-all league title starting Wednesday night at 7:30 in the best two-out-of three series.

A league tournament will be held starting next Tuesday night, August 28. The first place team will meet last place Service Battery and the second place squad will take on third place Southern Bread. The winners of these two contests will play the following night for the tournament title and the losers will play for third place.

Doug Allen Is Hit By Runway Car On Infield

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

What was hailed as their biggest show of the year turned into tragedy for the Greenville Micro-Midget racers, Saturday night, when two Micros locked wheels and crashed into the infield and driver-mechanic Doug Allen.

In the big main event, which was scheduled to run for 40 laps instead of the regular 25, a total of some 20 cars participated. This was the largest number of autos to compete in any Greenville race this season.

As the 22nd lap was in play, cars 00 and 420, driven by L. H. Whitehurst and Earl Venters, locked wheels and crashed over the shallow dirt barrier into the infield, gunning down Allen, who was acting as a pit mechanic and reserve driver.

Hospital Report

Allen was rushed to Pitt Memorial Hospital immediately after the accident with what one Micro Official described as "a sprained ankle, and bruises on his back and head."

Allen's doctor was unavailable for comment this morning as the Reflector went to press, however, the hospital diagnosis stated that his injury was merely a "head injury". Nurses attending the injured Allen stated unofficially that he is "doing very well."

The injured man's full name is Lloyd Douglas Allen. His address is listed as 2403 Dickinson Avenue.

A Big Night

The big Saturday night crowd that filled the Pitt County Fair Grounds Micro stadium was the largest of the season. The stands were completely full and autos were parked around the track three deep in spots.

As an added attraction to the races, Paul Blake, of Rocky Mount, brought four tiny Quarter racers to compete in a separate trial. The Quarter racers are manned with only a 7½ cubic inch motor, usually taken from lawn mowers.

Bruce Bullock, driving number 8½, took top honors in the Quarter races and was given plenty of competition by Paul Blake Jr., Mike Moore and Grant Brodgen.

Heat Races

In the heat races, which determined the starting arrangement in the final main event, Johnny Pollard, of Greenville zoomed to the front in the first trial. In the second heat race, George Salas, of Norfolk, Va., driving the speedy number 25, grabbed the honors by as much as a lap and a quarter. Chuck Cawthorne, of Portsmouth, Va., won the third heat in his streamlined number 9, which was formerly driven by the great Joe Weatherly (a noted stock car racer) in Virginia races.

As the big 40-lap main event rolled around, the three above-named drivers took first positions and a field of 20 cars broke for the lead. Salas, in his vaunted "Special", sped to an early lead after the first two laps and held it throughout the race, despite close competition from Earl Venters and O. B. Bridges.

On the 22nd lap, the accident occured and the main event was closed, due to the fact that an ambulance was not present.

Salas Declared Winner

Salas, who was in the lead at the time, was declared the winner.

Micro publictiy official Pat Patrick stated this morning that the Greenville races "will follow the same procedure as last Saturday night in the coming weeks." Cars from Raleigh, Norfolk, Portsmouth, Greenville, Kinston and Merrill-Lynch, Va., are expected to compete in the races next week and in the future regularly.

SYNOPSIS

In Wild West days, Narcissa Hull traveled by stagecoach to Coyote Creek, Montana, to marry Emil Jacobsen. One passenger became obnoxious in his attentions to her—Dolf Kinney. He bragged of being the richest and most powerful man in the territory, and told her to jilt Jacobsen and marry him. Narcissa found comfort in the presence of Dr. Erd Eklund, who helped her fend off Kinney. When the stagecoach stopped at Coyote Creek, Emil was not waiting for Narcissa. The doctor offered her a ride to Emil's cabin and she gratefully accepted. They found Emil—murdered only minutes before.

Dr. Eklund thought of a haven for Narcissa—a position as housekeeper for Tom Armington and Tom's two wild young orphan daughters.

For hidden reasons, Kinney wants Eklund to replace Philpott, the surgeon at the local Army post who resigned. When Erd declined, Kinney threatened to expose him as a deserter at Chickamauga. Kinney also has an influence over Major Blake, the post commander, and Blake effected the appointment. Performing an autopsy on Emil's body, Erd found a .50 caliber bullet. He rode to Emil's cabin in search of the telltake shell, and there he was fired upon and his horse killed. Erd shot the gunman—Deever, a hireling of Kinney's—and rode Deever's horse back to town. Kinney's next idea was for Erd to take "something" to the restive Indians.

CHAPTER 10

Narcissa was waiting for Erd to take her to Emil's funeral. Soberly clad in black, the smile was gone from her face. The children watched her anxious-eyed, as Eklund lifted her over the wheel and took his place beside her. They did little talking on the short drive. She was remembering that this was the funeral of the man she had come west to marry. A man who, but for the workings of chance, would now be her husband. A man who had been her friend.

If her thoughts ran beyond that to the possibility that she had been saved from a grave mistake, she gave no sign, and Eklund knew that she would resist such notions as disloyal. His own thoughts were sober, and the future had a cloudy look.

Preparations had been completed, the grave dug. Under Harlow Blake, everything moved with military precision. He was honoring the dead man by having a company of soldiers drawn up at attention, and he prepared himself to read the brief burial service. He met the buggy, coldly formal, but it was his sister Helen who came up, looked searchingly into Narcissa's face for a moment, then slipped an arm comfortingly about her waist and drew her down beside her. Helen, in that moment, was a woman, neither fighty nor irresponsible.

"Dust to dust, ashes to ashes—"

Taps, played by the bugler. Then they were back in the buggy, Narcissa riding stony-faced beside him. Half the distance back to the rance had been covered when she swung suddenly to face him.

"Doctor—Erd," she said. "It all seems so terrible—a man shot down the way he was! What could have been the motive for such a brutal killing? If I could just be sure that his killer would be brought to justice—"

"If the knowledge will make you feel any better," he said, "He has."

At her look of surprise, he explained, passing as lightly as possible over the details, particularly where they involved his own danger. She listened breathlessly, her eyes never leaving his face.

"It makes me feel better—and worse," she said, and shivered. "But better, really. To know that his slayer is dead—and that you are safe from him, now. It could so easily have been the other way."

"I was lucky," Eklund said.

"Not only lucky, but skillful, in so many ways," she said, and there was a shine in her eyes that was not from tears. "You're really rather wonderful, you know. But why—why should he want to kill Emil? I can see why he would be after you, fearing what you knew, but the other seems so—so senseless."

"So it does," Eklund agreed, and did not add his own suspicions. Better for her to think it a closed episode. He deposited her at the Armington doorstep, in the care of her now devoted admirers, and drove back to town. A greater worry nagged at his mind. He was anxious to get back to see how Plenty Horses was coming along.

He wondered what Kinney had in mind, and he wasn't long in finding out. Dolf brought it out to the buggy himself, in a big box which he slid under the buggy seat. In the box were four jugs of whiskey.

"For the chief and a few select braves," he explained. "It'll be the best sort of medicine now."

Eklund hesitated, revulsion in him. So this was the way he was to be used!

"You know what army regulations are," he suggested.

Dolf Kinney chuckled. "Who should know better?" he agreed. "But who will make a better messenger than you? The doctor—the army's own doctor—going about his business! This is a free gift, no charge, this time. Just make sure that they know who it's from!"

Plenty Horses was dead. That was shocking, for while the Indian had smallpox, Eklund had not expected that this would move so fast. White man's diseases mowed down the red with terrible devastation, but he had seen sickness among Indians before, not only in the months since he had come to Montana, but elsewhere. It followed a sort of pattern, and here the pattern had been broken.

There was only one thing to do, a chore which he could delegate to no one else. Off by the creek, where the trees grew taller and the earth was soft, he managed a shallow grave. It was not until he returned to the cabin for the dead man that the other thing struck him.

Plenty Horses' blanket was missing.

Every Indian has his own personal blanket. It might be ragged or filthy, and frequently it was, but always he cherished and clutched it to himself with both hands. Plenty Horses had had his blanket the first day that Eklund had discovered him, and he had been covered by it here the other night.

Now it was gone, and the possible implications were grim. The loss of the blanket meant little in itself, or even the fact that it might have been stolen from a dead or dying man. But what it was did matter. It could be as potentially explosive as a stick of dynamite, and far more deadly.

The little that he could do completed, Eklund washed in the creek, hobbled his team, and slept, not far way. The bite of frost was in the air when he awoke, and the land lay vast and empty and somehow lonesome. His tiny cook fire with its thin streamer of smoke, quickly lost in the morning mists, served only to accentuate the immensity. He had not been aware of the loneliness of it until today. This was a country which would be slow in the taming.

He had a double-barreled job to do, and he found both aspects of it distasteful. Again he drove on, heading northwest, and here the flat country was definitely left behind, the slopes long and high, with pine and fir and cottonwood scattered in clumps or groves, a hill country with each crest hinting of mystery of surprise awaiting beyong.

It wasn't so many miles now to an enchanted land, where each new mile did indeed disclose wonders. Half a day of extra traveling would bring him to the twin lakes—two long, narrow bodies of water, the upper of which was cradled by mountains, deep, clear, and wonderfully cold.

Beyond that to the west the Rockies really showed what they could do, their peaks splitting the sky. The Indians had a name for that pass, for those bold enough to climb to the top of the world. "Going to the Sun." Eklund had never taken that trail, but he intended to, one of these days. Back in those mountains were glaciers of eternal snows, and a man who crossed these heights at all did so in deep summer, after the main snows had melted, before the new season's storms blocked the way again with swirling blizzard and drifts many times the height of a man.

Somewhere in these lower foothills, handy alike to lake, to plain and to mountain, the Indians usually had their camp for the summer. He'd known where it was, two weeks ago. Whether it would be there today remained to be discovered. The Indian was a nomad, and a free man, moving when and where his fancy willed.

Eisenhower Schedules An Extra Day At Convention

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—A change in his plans will put President Eisenhower in San Francisco in time to take a personal hand, if he wants, in the designation of his vice presidential running mate. But there was no new indication he plans to do so.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday Eisenhower will leave tomorrow—24 hours earlier than he had planned—for the Republican National Convention. He said Eisenhower wants more time "to visit with many of his friends who are delegates."

A key administration official who asked not to be named said the change in plans was "in no way related" to the second-spot nomination. The nomination is expected to go to Vice President Nixon despite Harold E. Stassen's efforts to keep Nixon off the ticket.

This official said Eisenhower allowed himself an extra day in San Francisco "because he does not want to give any slightest impression of remaining aloof from the convention," and so he can talk with friends.

Under the revised schedule, Eisenhower will leave Washington at noon EDT tomorrow and arrive at San Francisco's International Airport at 6:30 p.m. PDT. The convention will nominate the presidential and vice presidential candidates the following day.

Hagerty called an unusual Sunday news conference to announce the change, but cast no new light on Eisenhower's preference for a running mate. Instead, he referred to earlier Eisenhower news conferences at which the President had said that the convention should be "open" with delegates free to make a choice; Nixon was "perfectly acceptable" to him; and he would have nothing to say about a running mate "until after a presidential candidate is nominated." Eisenhower said that last Feb. 29.

Hagerty said he did not know whether Eisenhower might speak out after his own renomination was made official.

As for reports that Eisenhower would provide the convention with a list of about five "acceptable" running mates Hagerty had this to say:

"I have no knowledge of the President's intention other than what he has said publicly at his press conferences."

In advance of his news conferences yesterday, Hagerty moved fast to deal with a published report—Miami Herald—that Eisenhower now faces another intestinal operation.

Asked for comment, Hagerty reported he had checked with the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, and "I can categorically deny" the report.

The paper had said that Eisenhower, who underwent major abdominal surgery June 9, needs a second "nonurgent" operation which could be postponed safely until after the November election.

The motorist who struck the Tripack car was gentleman enough to leave a note with his address.

Maryland Demos Plan Pick Tydings Successor

BALTIMORE (AP)—The dramatic withdrawal of Millard E. Tydings left Maryland Democrats looking today for a new candidate to oppose Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler in the November elections.

Tydings, who was out to regain the seat he held 24 years before Butler defeated him in a controversial 1950 race, announced last night he was quitting his comeback campaign because of ill health.

Now 66, the tall, spare veteran of clashes with the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) has been suffering from a severe case of shingles.

He was stricken shortly after beating George P. Mahoney, Baltimore paving contractor, by a razor's-edge margin in the May 7 primary.

His successor is expected to be named Wednesday night at a special meeting of the State Central Committee.

Besides Mahoney, those promientnly mentioned as possible replacements included former U.S. Solicitor Gen. Philip B. Perlman; William C. Walsh and Michael J. Birmingham.

Tydings, who had been hospitalized 46 days by the shingles virus which painfully attacks nerve endings, told a small group of political associates at his Havre De Grace home last night that doctors had warned him a strenuous campaign might cause a recurrence.

In preparation for the race he had amassed many documents involving the 1950 campaign. It was after this battle that a Senate elections subcommittee accused Butler aides of using "back - street type" tactics.

The subcommittee was specially critical about the distribution of a fake picture. It was composed of separate photographs arranged against a common background to make it appear that Tydings was engaged in friendly conversation with former Communist party chief Earl Browder.

Butler was helped in that campaign by associates of McCarthy who had accused a Tydings subcommittee of a "whitewash". A Tydings subcommittee had reported it found no basis for McCarthy's charges of disloyalty in the State Department.

Tydings, then chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, denied the whitewash accusation and recently said much of his comeback campaign would be devoted to this issue.

In 1938, Tydings scored one of his most notable victories when he successfully resisted Roosevelt's attempt to purge him because of his refusal to support administrational legislation on social security and other New Deal measures. He defeated D. J. Lewis, the Democratic president's personally endorsed candidate, by 25,000 votes.

Lost His Wife To Florida Sun

CHICAGO (AP)—Candy maker Joseph Leshinski, Jr., 28, made things a little too sweet for his wife, Greta, 25, when he took her for a three week vacation to Florida, only to lose her to the sunshine.

He told his story to Judge John J. Lyons of Superior Court, saying Mrs. Leshinski enjoyed the Florida sunshine so much that she wanted to remain there and did.

When he said he could no afford to buy a $30,000 home she wanted, she packed his belongings and sent him to Chicago, he said. Judge Lyons granted Leskinski a divorce on the grounds of desertion, ending the couple's five year marriage.

Confidence Runs High In HQ Of Richard Nixon

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A distinct air of confidence prevails high atop Nob Hill today in the hustling headquarters of Vice President Nixon.

If Nixon was at all worried about staying on the Republican ticket or facing a GOP challenge for his job, he didn't show it in the least.

Appearing cheerful and relaxed, the vice president who greeted Republican leaders, appeared on television and dropped in on state delegations on the eve of the GOP convention.

With support building up for his renomination, Nixon had no hesitancy in welcoming an "open convention" selection of President Eisenhower's running mate. He said repeatedly he didn't know whether Eisenhower wanted him on the ticket again and would invite other nominations.

Influential party figures helped to blunt the insistent "Dump Nixon" campaign of Harold E. Stassen, who kept on trying just the same.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, telling why he endorsed Nixon, said "nobody has ever done so well as vice president." Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell said he detected strong pro-Nixon sentiment among delegates thronging in for the convention.

The New York and Pennsylvania delegations gave Nixon a rousing welcome when he visited them last night. The Missouri delegation called on him in his hotel after his return.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, GOP leader in the House, intimated his state would support Nixon even though Stassen has been working to shove Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter into his place. Martin said after joining other high-ranking Republicans at breakfast with Nixon:

"If Gov. Herter nominates Mr. Nixon—I am just guessing—I see no reason why the Massachusetts delegation would not follow Gov. Herter and vote for Mr. Nixon."

Nixon denied during the day that Herter agreed under party pressure to nominate him. He said his "good friend Chris Herter" is not the kind of man who yields to pressure.

Nixon spent 38 minutes in private with Herbert Hoover in the former president's Mark Hopkins Hotel suite six floors above his own. He said he looked over the speech Hoover will deliver before the GOP convention Tuesday night. He said they did not discuss the Republican ticket.

The vice president found time, too, to stop in at a reception honoring his wife, Pat. It was given by Mrs. Leonard Hall, wife of the GOP national chairman.

Searchers Comb Hills For Boy

PECOS, N.M. (AP)—Search parties today combed the rain-soaked Pecos Hills and streams for an 11-year-old Santa Fe boy who vanished Saturday while seeking aid for a blind companion.

Bobby Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Martinez of Santa Fe, hasn't been heard of since 2 p.m. Saturday when he and a companion, Albert Gonzales, blind Santa Fe attorney, were caught by a rain storm.

They took refuge under a tree, and Bobby volunteered to run back to the ranch where his parents were staying to obtain transportation for Gonzales. He never reached the ranch.

Gonzales was found and taken to the ranch later.

Federal Reserve Board Could Take New Anti-Inflation Step

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects of brisk economic activity this fall, with no letup in borrowing, buying and prices boosts, raised speculation today that the Federal Reserve Board soon may take another step to curb possible inflation.

Such a move would entail another increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate—the interest rate the reserve banks charge on money they lend to member banks for commercial and personal loans.

As usual, there was no comment or indication from the board itself whether another discount rate hike may be in the offing. However, another government source suggested "there are enough elements of inflationary nature on the horizon to point up the possibility, if not the likelihood, of another increase."

Among these elements this source cited the recent wage and price increases in the steel industry and the chance they may form a pattern for other rises.

President Eisenhower and other top administration officials have expressed concern over possible inflationary aspects of the steel-labor wage settlement and its aftermath, a price increase averaging $8.50 per ton.

Another new factor is the start of the multi-billion-dollar highway building program, involving both immediate spending for construction and placement of huge future orders for steel and other construction materials. And employment, already at record levels, will be given another boost.

Advance forecasts of a third-quarter letdown in economic activity did not materialize.

Five times in the last 16 months the Federal Reserve Board has approved hikes in the discount rate to restrain a resurgent demand by business and consumers for credit.

The first, from 1½ to 1¾ per cent, came in April 1955 when the current business boom was gathering force. Thrice more in 1955, as boom steam pressure rose, the banks hiked their rates ¼ per cent at a time.

Last April the rate a gwannet up, this time to 2¾ per cent in 10 of the 12 reserve districts, and to 3 per cent in the other two—Minneapolis and San Francisco. It was the first time in 22 years the rate had reached 3 per cent.

Another increase would tighten further the conditions under which money is available to business and the public for expansion and credit purchasing. Both have been rising sharply since early 1955 when the nation came out of a 1953-54 dip in its economy.

A discount rate hike normally causes higher interest rates on bank loans, thus discouraging borrowing.

At the moment corporations and businessmen are in the midst of big expansion programs estimated to reach perhaps 35 billion dollars this year. The construction industry is moving along at an annual rate of 44½ billions. Total production and employment have reached new peaks.

Consumer buying and retail store sales have risen to top levels and consumer credit has been expanding at a greater rate than personal income.

Personal income, after setting a record of 303 billions in 1955, has risen to an annual rate of about 325 billions this year. This, plus credit or installment buying, means consumers have and are spending more money, and prices have been rising.

Bagpipes Skirl As Clans Gather

LINVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The skirl of the bagpipe set feet a-jiggin' at the first annual Highland Games and Clan Gathering here yesterday.

An Asheville lass, little red-haired Margaret Fletcher, won the Highland dancing contest. She received a trophy as the best all-around dancer.

She beat out Marilyn MacQueen of Little Rock, S.C., and Flora Maconald of Bolivia.

A crowd estimated at 10,000 was on hand in MacRae meadow at the foot of Grandfather Mountain.

Ronald Patterson, a student at Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone, won the tossing of the caber, a 200-pound log. He sent it spinning end over end for 36 feet, 10 inches.

Julia MacLeod of Salisbury won the novice Highland dancing contest.

The gathering was sponsored by the Clan Donald in the Carolinas, the Clan MacLeod Society, the St. Andrews Society of Charleston, S. C.; the Descendants of William Douglas, clan Stewart, and Cape Fear Clan, Inc. Mrs. Julian Morton of Linville had general supervision.

Goya Painting Goes On Display

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Museum of Art's latest acquisition, a painting by Vincent Goya valued at $150,000, went on display yesterday.

Entitled "The Topers," the painting was the gift of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation of Winston-Salem. It is the museum's most valuable painting.

Cardinal Dies Of Heart Attack

LONDON (AP)—Bernard Cardinal Griffin, archishop of Westminster and Britain's highest Roman Catholic prelate, died early today after a heart attack. He was 57 and had been in poor health the past five years.

The prelate, who had suffered four heart attacks since 1951, died while on vacation in Cornwall.

An announcement from his residence said that after receiving the last sacrament, Cardinal Griffin "died peacefully at 12:25 a.m. this morning, the Feast of St. Bernard."

The prelate offered his resignation to Pope Pius II after a heart attack last November. The pontiff declined to accept it.

The son of a Birmingham City councillor, the cardinal was noted as a scholar, church administrator and authority on canon law. Educated at Cotton College in Warwickshire and in Rome, he was ordained in 1924.

He succeeded the late Arthur Cardinal Hinsley as archbishop of Westminster and leader of Britain's 3½ million Roman Catholics in 1943. Three years later he was elevated to the rank of cardinal.

Convention Aims At TV Audience

By ED CREAGH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of the biggest shows in television history—maybe the biggest of all—opens today. It's called the Republican National Convention.

It's aimed squarely at your TV screen—not primarily at the delegates. They're here to do what is expected of them, nominate President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. Any other result would be a political miracle.

An odd situation developed this year:

Both the Republicans and the Democrats wanted to capture the attention of as many TV viewers as possible, especially in the big population centers of the East. After all, that free TV time is like so much gold in the treasury.

Ahead of time, it looked as if the Democrats had by far the better show to offer. They had a couple of fights in prospect and that made for drama.

Actually, most of the action went on behind the scenes and the Democrats had little to offer in the TV watcher beyond last Friday's rip-roaring battle for the vice presidential nomination.

On the other hand the GOP was faced with the prospect of a cut-and-dried convention that, in itself, couldn't be expected to hold the interest for long of anybody but those odd souls who like to watch such things as the call to the convention being read.

So the Republicans called in professional TV programmers, timed their show to catch the maximum TV audience, dreamed up some still-secret gimmicks to keep the audience awake, and recruited a host of talent from the entertainment world.

In the hope of overshadowing the Democrats' brief presentation of Frank Sinatra, Vaughn Monroe and others, the GOP scheduled big productions featuring Wendell Corey, Nat "King" Cole, John Charles Thomas, Irene Dunne, Dennis Morgan, Ethel Merman, Irving Berlin and lots of other big names.

The television industry and related enterprises, such as the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., have gone all out to bring the Cow Palace doings into your living room.

Equipment to handle 40 TV channels has been installed. A temporary microwave tower has been set up on a hilltop to carry the TV signal across seven miles of San Francisco rooftops.

A new coaxial cable from San Francisco to Los Angeles, and a new microwave relay system from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., are handling their first TV programs.

Not Decided As To Special Term

CARTHAGE, N.C. (AP)—Solicitor M. G. Boyette says he has not decided whether to call a special term for the second trial of a college youth accused of raping a 21-year-old school teacher.

Superior Court Judge F. Donald Phillips of Rockingham ordered a mistrial Saturday in the case of 22-year-old Jack Key after the jury reported it was hopelessly deadlocked, 11-1.

Key, a junior in civil engineering at North Carolina State College when arrested last May 27, is accused of raping Martha Sue Robinson of Biscoe.

It was reported the jury was deadlocked at 11 for conviction of assault on a female with intent to commit rape and one for conviction of rape with a recommendation for life imprisonment.

Judge Phillips ordered Key remanded to jail without privilege of bond. His attorneys were seeking to have him released under bond.

Miss Robinson testified that Key raped her in a car in a wooded area near Robbins the night of May 26 while they were on a date. Key contended she willingly submitted to him.

The next criminal term of Moore County Superior Court is scheduled for November.

Jaycees Endorse Pearsall Plan

GUILFORD, N.C. (AP)—The board of directors of the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the Pearsall Plan to preserve segregated public schools.

The vote at a quarterly meeting here yesterday was 57-19. Delegates from fifteen cities, including Greensboro, Winston - Salem and Ahoskie, refrained from voting on the resolution.

Bob Cox of Chapel Hill, Jaycee president, said he believed the abstentions didn't represent opposition to the plan.

"Some of the chapters felt the whole issue was a local problem," he said, "and there was some feeling expressed that the delegates here didn't want to return home and have their local membership feel that the board of directors had forced the action on them."

The vote followed a speech in which former Atty. Gen. William B. Rodman Jr. called the Pearsall Plan constitutional.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower in the early afternoon in quiet dealings today.

Leading issues were off from fractions to around a point with an absence of any real selling pressure. Gains generally were held to minor fractions.

The market started mixed and then turned lower, continuing the gentle decline prevailing much of last week. Beyond signs of a further restraining of credit in Washington, there were few developments to influence investors.

Trading was estimated at around the same pace as Friday's total of 1,720,000 shares, lightest since July 2.

All major sections were on the downside, except utilities which were mixed.

Off a point or more were Bethlehem, Anaconda, Santa Fe, and Union Carbide. United Aircraft declined about two points.

Down fractions were U.S. Steel, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Boeing, RCA, Kennecott, General Electric, American Tobacco, Baltimore & Ohio, Royal Dutch, Standard Oil (N.J.), and United Air Lines.

Glenn L. Martin bucked the trend and gained a major fraction in heavy trading. Martin was the exchange's most active stock last Friday, gaining 1¼ points.

Also up fractions were International Paper, Eastern Air Lines, Paramount Pictures and American Can.

The Associated Press Average of 60 stocks at noon was off 60 cents at $188, with the industrials off 90 cents, rails off 90 cents and utilities off 10 cents. The average on Friday dipped 20 cents, but more stocks advanced than declined.

Conway Girl Is New 'Miss Flash'

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — Shapely Robin Williamson of Conway held the Miss Flash title today — a title captured over nine of the Carolinas prettiest girls.

Miss Williamson, an eye-filling 38-24-38, won the crown here Saturday night representing Myrtle Beach. Star Starling of Greensboro, N.C., 35-22-36, was a close second.

The field included Ellen Seabrook of Charleston; Margaret Louise Hamilton of Rocky Mount, N.C.; Martha Ann Caldwell of Charlotte; Linda Whichard of Greenville, N.C.; Ann Altman of Florence; Marjorie Allen of Spartanburg; and Mrs. Emily Sheffield of Camden.

Air Power Film Series In Debut

"AIR POWER," a filmed series about the history of human flight, military aviation and the status of air power in the world today, will make its television debut November 11 over the CBS Television Network, it was announced by Staff Sergeant Norman G. Dean, Air Force recruiter for this area.

The 26-week series was produced by CBS Television in cooperation with the United States Air Force, and will be sponsored by the Prudential Insurance Company.

Sergeant Dean, one of the Air Force recruiters located in the Post Office, Greenville, stated that the program would be televised on Sundays from 6:30 to 7:00 p.m. EST with the exception of the first program, which will be an hour long.

In time and content, "AIR POWER" will cover the years from man's first flight to the present era of supersonic planes and guided missiles. The series is expected to highlight many exploits of the Air Force.

Although CBS camera men took some shots for "AIR POWER," most of the series was clipped from 77 million feet of Air Force film and other film gathered from all over the world.

Walter Cronkite will narrate the program. The technical advisor was Brig. Gen. Robert L. Scott Jr., director of the Air Force's Public Information Program.

Probable Cause In Rape Hearing

Magistrate Luther Moore found probable cause of rape against John W. Harrington, 36-year-old Negro of Ayden Rt. 2 in a preliminary hearing at his office this morning.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said earlier in the morning that the case involved a 12-year-old Negro child and Harrington was arrested on a warrant signed by the child's mother, Mildred McCotter, also of Rt. 2 Ayden.

The name of the child was not released by the sheriff.

The sheriff said Moore also sent to Superior Court an assault charge against Harrington. He is accused of assaulting a five-year-old child, according to the sheriff.

Harrington was being held in County Jail, this morning.

Moore said this morning that he would not release information contained in the warrants.

"I'm not going to release information contained in them because of the fact that there are juveniles involved," he declared.

Firemen Gather For Annual Meet

RALEIGH (AP)—Firemen continued to pour into Raleigh today for their annual convention.

Around 200 of the firemen and their wives arrived yesterday for the 697th annual convention of the N.C. Fire Chiefs Conference and the State Firemen's Assn.

More than 1,200 are expected to be here when the convention gets into full swing tomorrow. Gov. Hodges is scheduled to make an address.

Find Skeleton On Lovers' Lane

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)— A skeleton, apparently of a small woman, was found Saturday in a Cumberland County lover's lane area.

Dr. M. T. Foster, county health officer, said it possibly had been there for a year or longer. After reconstructing the skeleton he theorized that it may be that of a teenager, about five feet tall, and that the body may have lain face up.

James L. Morrison, 34-year-old civil service employe at Pope Air Force Base, discovered the bones while on a fishing trip. He said he had hunted in the same area last fall.

The bones were scattered over an area of about 25 square yards. Remnants of women's underclothing, a skirt and blouse, and loafer type shoes were nearby.

Morrison made the grisly discovery in the 71st Township of Cumberland County, about one-half mile north of the Hoke County line. It was some 50 yards from a dead - end access dirt road 3-10ths of a mile east of U.S. 15A, the Fayetteville-Raeford highway.

County Police Chief A. Glenn Buchanan sent the bones and clothing to the State Bureau of Investigation.

The body of Maudie Hall, pretty Indian barmaid, was found on a similar road between Fayetteville and Lumberton, off U.S. 301, on Jan. 28. The case remains unsolved.

Embezzlement At Kinston Bank Leaves Mystery

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — How was the $826,539 embezzled from the First Citizens Bank & Trust Co branch here spent?

That the bank had a shortage was known following the suicide of J. E. (Pete) Peterson last June 18.

In a note to R. P. Holding of Smithfield, president of the banking chain, Peterson took responsibility for the shortage.

However, its size wasn't known until it was divulged over the weekend by Holding, who said the loss was protected by insurance.

Holding said the shortage was in forged negotiable instruments. His announcement did not go into details of how the shortage came done with the funds.

Peterson, 52, was held in high regard by his neighbors who said he lived modestly. He was active in civic affairs and had been executive officer of the Kinston branch for 15 years.

Sponsor Meet On Coming Election

The Greenville League of Wom Voters will sponsor a meeting tomorrow night in the City Hall at which Representative Walter Jones of Farmville will explain the Pearsall Plan and the September 8 special election.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Representative Jones will explain the bills, the recent special session of the General Assembly, and why he voted for the eight bills which will be presented in the special election. He will also answer questions from the audience.

Paratroops Are Poised For Big Airlift Exercise

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — More than 8,000 deployed paratroopers stood poised at dispersal areas in the Carolinas today in the first phase of a gigantic airlift-assault exercise.

Mission briefings were held today for the troops and air crews of planes which will drop them Thursday over this huge Army installation in Operation Pine Cone, an exercise aimed at integrating units of the Air Force Reserve and National Guard with regular forces of the 18th Air Force.

A dry run will be held tomorrow with D-day set for Thursday, weather permitting. A review of the exercise is set Friday for Air Force leaders.

The paratroopers, massed at bases surrounding this airborne training center, will strike simultaneously, dropping with their weapons and equipment from planes of the 18th Air Force, VIII Airborne Corps, 82nd Airborne Division, Air Force Reserves and Air National Guard.

About 200 aircraft, mostly heavy cargo planes, are being used. Military authorities say a number of new techniques will be on trial—use of dispersed air bases, of many drop zones and assault landing strips, and attacking a central area simultaneously from several surrounding points.

Initial planning for Pine Cone was done under the command of Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, 18th Air Force commander at Donaldson AFB, S.C.; and Maj. Gen. Paul D Adams, commanding general of the VIII Airborne Corps here.

Detailed plotting was carried out under command of Brig. Gen Clayton Stiles, who normally commands the 514th Troop Carrier Wing, New York Reserve unit.

Among the many units taking part are the Air National Guard from Charlotte; the 513th Troop Carrier Group; the 314th Troop Carrier Wing from Sewart AFB, Tenn.; and the 302nd Troop Carrier Wing, a reserve unit from Clinton, Ohio.

Cases Heard In Recorders Court

Thirteen cases were disposed of by Judge Dink James in Pitt County Recorder's Court this past week.

Johnny E. Ham, 19, Kinston, Route 1, was given a 90-day suspended sentence and fined $150 for driving drunk and carrying a concealed weapon. He also surrendered his operator's license for 12 months.

Willie James Short, Negro, 32, 204-B Tyson Street, charged with drunk driving, driving carelessly and recklessly, and speeding, 90 days suspended sentence, $100 fine and loss of license for 15 months.

Johnnie W. Streeter, Negro, 29, Winterville, possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, 90 days suspended, $50 fine and two years probation.

William Jackson Purvis, 20, Robersonville, Route 2, speeding, $25 fine and loss of license for 10 days.

The following were convicted of speeding. They paid costs and lost licenses for 10 days.

Joseph Rufus Mizell, 35, Washington, Route 3; Curtis Perkins, 20, 2418 E. 3rd Street; and Lavon Larue Shepard, 32, Richmond, Va.

Richard Ham, 20, Kinston, Route 1, charged with allowing another to drive while under the influence of some intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug and carrying a concealed weapon, case dismissed.

Clifton Newton, 63, Falkland, trespass, continued to.

Haywood Clemmons, Negro laborer, larceny, case quashed at no cost against Pitt County.

David Harold Hancock, 34, 2403 E. 4th Street, speeding, not guilty.

Bruce T. Manning and George P. Haddock, both of Chicod township, charged with violation of a game law, were adjudged not guilty.

PTA Groups Are Urged To Study Pearsall Plan

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's 1,100 local and council Parent-Teacher Assn. presidents have been urged to give careful study to "the implications" of proposed school legislation to be voted on by Tar Heels Sept. 8.

Then, adds Mrs. John Crawford of Raleigh, state president of the Congress of Parents and Teachers, "vote as conscientiously and wisely as possible as you seek the continued preservation of our public schools."

Mrs. Crawford's suggestions are contained in a letter mailed to the local and council presidents during the weekend.

North Carolinians will vote Sept. 8 on proposed amendments to the state constitution designed to maintain segregated public schools. Already passed by the Legislature in special session last month, the amendments would allow local school boards to give tuition grants to private nonsectarian schools for pupils whose parents object to their attending mixed schools, and would give local boards authority to close their schools in "intolerable" situations.

The local and council PTA presidents will receive three letters from the state PTA office. They include copies of a statement of position presented by the state PTA at the special Legislature session; a statement of the philosophy beneath the group's stand on the amendments; and a summary of Mrs. Crawford's annual letter to local and council presidents.

The letter emphasizes the "support of the North Carolina PTA Congress of public schools and education, but does not either propose or promote integration, which is an entirely different matter," the PTA office said.

The statement said that when the state PTA executive committee appeared before the special Legislature session on the school amendments, it was fulfilling "the responsibility given to it by the delegates of the local associations to strengthen and preserve the free, public schools of North Carolina."

Mrs. Crawford and two executive committee members, Mrs. H. S. Godwin of Greensboro and Francis Walker of Durham, spoke against the proposed amendments before the Legislature.

Several Arrests On Liquor Count

Liquor law violations brought a number of arrests by ABC officers and others during the weekend.

Chief Officer J. M. Ward reported that Herman Spencer, Negro, of Ayden Rt. 2 was arrested by ABC officers after illegal whiskey was found in his home. Bond for Spencer was set at $200.

The officers also arrested Eula Blanche Mooring, Negro, of 313 Wade St., Ward reported. The woman poured out a pot of bootleg liquor but officers saved a portion of it, Ward said. The officers also found 72 cans of beer in the house. The woman was released under $400 bond. She will be tried in City Court.

James Edward Sharp, Negro, of Greenville Rt. 4 was arrested for transporting a quantity of liquor. He is being held under bond and his automobile was confiscated, Ward said.

Also during the weekend, Winterville Chief of Police, Chief Curtis Martin and Officer Jin. Buck arrested James Crandell, Negro, of Winterville for possession of bootleg liquor. He was released under $100 bond and will be tried in County Court.

ABC Officer James Ross, Deputy Marvin Coward and Ayden police arrested C. T. Blount, Negro of Ayden early Sunday morning and charged him with transporting bootleg liquor. A 1950 automobile was seized.

Farmville Board Orders Whammy

FARMVILLE—Through traffic that has been using Farmville's city streets as a sort of race track is expected to be slowed down in the very near future. The whammy authorized by the Town Board has been ordered.

Mayor Charles Edwards said today the speed timing device is expected sometime this week. It will be placed in use as soon as possible in an effort to slow traffic using highways passing through the town.

The whammy is a new one which utilizes two cords placed 62 feet apart. Its total cost will be $450.

Other action taken by the Town Board in its last meeting will also effect traffic on the town's streets.

Barrett Street, from Horne Avenue to Church Streets, has been designated a one-way street with traffic moving in south from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The route is the one used by trucks moving tobacco between the two plants of A. C. Monk and Company.

The Board also passed an ordinance making its unlawful for intercity busses to take on or put off passengers anywhere in the city limits except at the bus station. The ordinance was passed in an effort to eliminate safety hazards created by busses stopping on crowded city streets.

Town Clerk Cleveland Paylor was given authority by the Board to purchase tires for town vehicles when replacements are needed.

In the meantime, I throw out the question of what would happen to retail trade, general employment, and our present prosperity if fifty per cent of the families should suddenly get discouraged like our "sixteen ton" friend, and stop buying on installments altogether. Or, what would happen if the banks and merchants started to repossess automobiles, refrigerators, television sets, and other things?
