

No Backing Down By Britain; Egypt Appeals To UN

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd today told Parliament the proposed new Suez Canal users' association had the "full support" of the United States.

I gave this assurance to the House of Commons an hour in advance of a Washington news conference of Secretary of State Dulles to explain just how far the United States has agreed to go in supporting Britain and France in a showdown with Egypt's President Nasser.

Lloyd charged the Suez users' plan is designed to provoke a war to seize control of the canal.

Lloyd defended by-passing the United Nations originally, in the dispute. He declared it was obvious Soviet Russia would veto any suggestion for international operation of the waterway.

The foreign secretary made plain the Eden government has no intention of backing down in its open feud with Nasser.

"The responsibility is ours and we shall discharge it," he declared. "We are not prepared to let unrestricted control of the operation of this canal pass into the hands of one government or one man. Upon that issue we are not prepared to compromise."

Just before the British House began the second day of an emergency debate on the Suez situation, the French disclosed Premier Guy Mollet had received a personal message from Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin. Bulganin reported ly urged caution in the canal dispute.

Egypt cabled the United Nations in an effort to counter the West's bid for world opinion. Egypt charged Britain and France—who formally advised the Security Council yesterday that Egyptian actions might block free passage—must bear responsibility for any blockade in shipping growing out of a walkout of foreign pilots and technicians.

But Lloyd denied that either the French or British governments had told non-Egyptian experts in Egypt to quit.

"We have in no way sought to influence the pilots to leave," he told the House. "But there really is a limit to what free men can be expected to undergo. As far as I know these men are now working under martial law of another country."

Most pilots and technicians have given notice they will quit this weekend. The walkout could cripple the canal operations.

The users' plan proposed by the Western Big Three is aimed at regulating international traffic through the canal—supplying pilots to guide the ships.

The association would be in the role of a tenant-collecting tolls but paying rental fees for Egypt as the landlord of the canal.

The plan met with mixed reactions in the world capitals.

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt carried her side of the Suez crisis to the U.N. today, charging Britain and France must bear responsibility for any obstruction in shipping resulting from a pending walkout of foreign pilots and technicians.

This appeared aimed to counter the declaration of Britain and France in a letter to the Security Council president yesterday that Egypt's attempt to end the system of international operation might endanger free passage of the canal.

The move was made in a cable to Egyptian Delegate Omar Loutfi in New York as Egyptians denounced a new Western plan for a users' association to run the nationalized waterway as designed to provoke war.

A Foreign Office spokesman announced Loutfi was told to inform U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and U.N. members of the authorization by the old Suez Canal Co., to foreign employees to leave their jobs this weekend. The spokesman described the authorization as an order.

Loutfi also was asked to fill in the U.N. on the announcement of some 400 foreign employees that they are quitting Friday night.

Word from Port Said was that only a half dozen pilots would stay on the job.

"The British and French governments agreed to this order," the Foreign Office said. "In the face of this situation, the Egyptian government is attempting to maintain free navigation through the canal according to arrangements already made. If there is any obstruction in navigation for reasons beyond Egypt's control, however, the responsibility will lie on those parties who tried to obstruct the navigation in the canal—the British and French governments and the former canal company."

The pilots gave notice yesterday shortly before British Prime Minister. Eden, in the House of Commons, and French Premier Guy Mollet, on radio and television, made the new plan public—and claimed U.S. support.

Egyptian President Nasser and his chief political adviser Wing Commander Sabry held a night conference. Afterward the Egyptian Middle East News Agency quoted a "responsible Egyptian source" as saying:

"Egypt does not refuse peaceful settlement of the canal problem, but rejects imposition of any system that would take away the canal from Egypt for the benefit of any other country."

Claims Growers Losing Millions

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Farm Bureau President A. D. Williams said today that "millions of dollars have been lost" on the Eastern North Carolina flue-cured tobacco belt this year because of the lack of competition.

And Williams said that "if prices fail to show an improvement in the next 24 hours I will ask the board of governors of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. to curtail selling hours or to declare a holiday to allow the processing plants to catch up."

A similar situation is reported on the Border Belt, he added.

Williams said he understood that two or more major buying companies in Wilson are glutted with tobacco, and that processors in Greenville, Kingston and Rocky Mount also have more leaf than they can handle.

Farmers are disturbed and they want action, Williams declared.

Pearsall Plan Faces Legal Test

GREENSBORO (AP)—The first legal attack on the statewide Pearsall Plan to continue segregated schools was begun here today.

An action was started in federal court to puncture what Gov. Luther H. Hodges has called "safety valve" school legislation. It came in the form of amended pleadings in a school segregation order pending in Middle District Court.

J. Kenneth Lee, of Greensboro, one of the attorneys for a group of Negro parents seeking to have their children admitted to white schools in Montgomery County, filed a motion for permission to enlarge the scope of the case, bringing into court the Pearsall Plan.

The action attacked every constitutional amendment, statute, order, directive or practice as now constituted, which seeks to maintain racial segregation in North Carolina public schools. Among other things, it seeks to bring into the court the state superintendent of schools, Charles F. Carroll, and members of the North Carolina Board of Education.

Construction Continues Upswing In Two Carolinas

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Construction in the Carolinas is on the upswing. Industry leaders expect this trend to continue through 1956 and to climb even higher in 1957 when the federal highway construction program gets into high gear.

This cheerful report came today from Robert Patten of Charlotte, managing director of the Carolina Branch, Associated General Contractors of America.

He said a group of North Carolina and South Carolina general contractors will elaborate on the construction boom at a national meeting in Milwaukee next Monday through Wednesday.

Patten said that the total national volume of construction for 1956 seems likely to reach 60 billion dollars with new construction accounting for about 44½ billion and maintenance and repair work the remainder.

"The Carolinas," Patten added, "are already credited with more than an average share of that record volume of construction."

"In addition," he said, "both North Carolina and South Carolina are solidly behind an industrial expansion program that will mean more new buildings, public utilities and homes to take care of an expanding population. The outlook is very bright for the Carolinas."

Patten noted that with a rise in construction there will be a corresponding rise in employment. "But there the industry is faced with a problem. There are not enough skilled workmen and engineers to meet the present demand," he said.

"Wages are high. Some bulldozer and crane operators are making more money than college professors, and competition for these specialized skills is growing very keen. Never before have the opportunities of the young man in construction been so bright."

Patten said Carolinas AGC President Frank P. Morris of Greenville, S.C., will head the seven-member delegation to Milwaukee. The others are C. P. Street, Patten and Charles H. Shaw Jr., all of Charlotte; W. L. G. Mackenzie, Spartanburg, S.C.; Irwin Kahn, Columbia, S.C.; and V. B. Higgins, Greensboro.

By JOHN A. SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the United States has no intention of shooting its way through the Suez Canal if Egypt blocks the passage of ships. Dulles told a news conference the United States would favor diverting its vessels around Africa under such conditions, regardless of the extra cost involved.

He said the U. S. government is ready to consider dollar loans to friendly countries who might be unable to withstand such a financial burden.

Dulles appealed to Egypt to reconsider its initial violent objection to a plan for setting up an association of Suez canal users.

British Prime Minister Eden disclosed Britain, France and the United States would organize such an authority in a speech yesterday.

While Dulles' meeting with reporters was still in progress, the Egyptian Embassy announced that Ambassador Ahmed Hussein had called on Dulles a few minutes earlier to give him the urgent message that the scheme which Sir Anthony Eden wants to impose on Egypt is an open and flagrant aggression on Egyptian sovereignty and its implementation means war."

The embassy said the ambassador told Dulles:

"If the United States desires war then she may support this scheme but if she desires peace she must work for a peaceful solution. The scheme has to be abandoned."

Dulles' statement today, apparently had the personal backing of President Eisenhower.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, told reporters at Eisenhower's Gettysburg, Pa., farm that the President had conferred with the Suez crisis with Dulles by telephone before Dulles' news conference. The President was resting at his farm today.

Hagerty announced too that Eisenhower will fly here tomorrow afternoon for a White House conference with Premier Robert Menzies of Australia. Menzies headed the commission which failed to reach agreement with

Kefauver Claims Cynicism By Ike

YORK, Pa. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver accused President Eisenhower today of cynicism about Democratic efforts to maintain a prosperous family-farm economy in rural America.

"In case you missed the newspapers in the past day or two, I bring you the information that Gen. Eisenhower has come out against 'get rich quick' programs for the American farmer," the Democratic vice presidential candidate declared in a prepared address at the York County Fair.

He said Eisenhower made the comment at a press conference Tuesday. Kefauver said:

"Get rich quick! Let Mr. Eisenhower tell his banker friends he's against 'get rich quick' schemes. Let him tell it to General Motors. Let him tell it to the well-heeled gentlemen he invites to those stag dinners at the White House."

"But don't let him tell one of the lowest income groups in the nation that he is opposed to their getting rich quick."

"I believe the farmers of America are ready to turn back to their true friends the Democrats."

In discussing the farm problem with a questioner at his news conference, Eisenhower said:

"I have said time and again there are two things here we must do: we must preserve our most precious asset, our soil and water resources, for future generations and, at the same time, we must work out a program under which the agricultural community can share properly in our unprecedented prosperity."

"Now, if we are going to do that, it is going to take some patience and some working out. And people who get impatient and believe in get-rich-quick cures may disagree."

"My program along this line has been restated time and again. I follow principle, and if that is what they want, that is what I will give."

Kentucky Mayor Will Lead Fight

CLAY, Ky. (AP)—Mayor Herman Z. Clark, outspoken integration foe, said today he personally will lead the community's campaign to rid the Clay school of its only two Negro students.

"I'll not rest until James and Teresa Gordon return to a school where they belong," Clark said in an interview.

"We will follow a policy of passive resistance by keeping our children out of school until the Gordons leave."

The movement started yesterday when all white children in the school (enrollment 500) walked out after the Gordon children entered classes under protection of 500 National Guardsmen and 60 state troopers. The escort slipped into the community before dawn under the command of Adj. Gen. J. B. Williams.

One teacher, Minvil Clark, said he would not return even though "I was threatened with the loss of

Prices Hold Up At Farmville

FARMVILLE—Total sales fell off considerably yesterday on the Farmville Tobacco Market but average held despite the drop.

Sales Supervisor Charles Edwards reported sale of 400,406 pounds of leaf for $209,192.79. The day's average stood at $52.25 per one hundred pounds.

Edwards added that all warehouses operating on the market are full today and full houses are expected for Friday and Monday. Quality of offerings continues to be good.

The minister repeated his promise later in the day to 200 Clay residents who met at Dixon, the county seat, to urge the Webster County Board of Education to honor a petition suggesting all teachers stay out of classes until the Negroes left.

School Supt. Wilbur Collins told the gathering the board would have to follow the law and permit the Negroes to remain.

All was quiet at Sturgis, 11 miles away, where seven Negroes were expected to enter the high school for the fourth consecutive day. Approximately 200 guardsmen are assigned to the school.

Gov. Williams said the troops at Clay and Sturgis will not be moved until the situation is resolved "no matter how long or short it may be."

About 200 people crowded around and on the road leading to the Clay school yesterday morning after the Gordons were safely inside, but only a handful watched them leave in the afternoon.

Area Designated Critical Target

RALEIGH (AP)—Federal Civil Defense officials have designated the Greensboro-High Point metropolitan area as a "critical target," the first area in North Carolina to get the top priority designation. It means the area is a likely mark for initial enemy attack.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Norfolk, Va., were the nearest critical target areas to North Carolina.

Brig. Gen. Edward F. Griffin, state CD director, was notified of the new classification yesterday. The upgrading was due to the area's high concentration of industry and skilled industrial workers, Griffin said.

Refuse Compete In Gas Price War

TAYLORSVILLE, N.C. (AP)—All but one of the dozen or so service stations here closed yesterday rather than compete in a gasoline price war with retailers in other nearby towns.

The Taylorsville station operators posted signs reading: "Closed For Duration of Price War." They had been charging 31.3 cents a gallon for regular and 32.8 for high test. The going prices at Henderson, only 4½ miles down the road, were 23.9 and 24.9.

Improvement For Some N. C. Crops Seen In Forecast

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's crop should weigh in at 1,218,000 tons, based on Sept. 1 estimates, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service.

This compares with 1,238,000 expected on Aug. 1 and 1,267,000 tons harvested in 1955.

In reports on other crops yesterday based on Sept. 1 conditions the service said:

The apple crop is expected to amount to 1½ million bushels, which is slightly better than the Aug. 1 estimate and well over the 10-year average of 1,239,000 bushels. About half the apple crop has been harvested.

Pecan production was set at 2-175,000 pounds, which compares with 350,000 collected last year when the crop was hit by hurricane winds and late freeze.

The fall snap bean crop was estimated at 49,000 bushels of 700 acres, about three times the size of last year's crop which was hurt by hurricanes and heavy rains.

Rescued Buddy In Parachute Jump

PT. BRAGG (AP)—Sgt. Leon L. Peine and Specialist Third Class Roger D. Busch, both paratroopers, jumped from opposite sides of a C-119 Flying Boxcar at 1,000 feet yesterday.

Sgt. Peine's chute didn't open. Busch describes the rescue this way:

"I counted off my four seconds and looked up to check my canopy (parachute). I saw that it was still opening. Then I saw Sgt. Peine. He was hurt by the chute. He hit me in the face. By instinct I grabbed it."

The two landed on a dirt road. Sgt. Peine suffered a head injury and was taken to the post hospital. Busch was uninjured.

Grabbed Girl In Escape Attempt

HAZELWOOD, N.C. (AP)—A Negro honor guard prisoner, who grabbed a teenage white girl in his getaway attempt, was recaptured soon after leaving the Hazelwood Camp last night. The girl was released unharmed.

The prisoner was identified as Russell Williams, 44, of Asheville, serving a 25-40 year term for breaking and entering and attempted rape.

Elderly Bicyclist Collides With Car, Injured

The condition of a 75-year-old Portertown man was described as "not serious" by Pitt Hospital authorities after he collided with the side of an automobile this morning around 11 o'clock.

The man, identified as Eddie Howell of Portertown, was riding a bicycle when the accident occurred. The driver of the car was identified by investigating Highway Patrolman D. L. Minshew as Roy Lee Dixon, 45, Negro, of Route 1, Grimsland.

An eyewitness gave the following account of the accident: "Howell was on the shoulder of the road (State Highway 43 south at Bell Fork) heading south and the car was going in the same direction. Just as the car abreast of the bicyclist, Howell started to cut across the road and hit the right front fender of the car. The car wasn't going fast."

Howell was rushed to the hospital by the Greenville Rescue Squad suffering from lacerations and about the face, head, arms, and legs. X-rays are being taken to determine the extent, if any, of internal injuries.

Club Hears Flower Judge Speak

GRIFTON — Grifton Garden Club members heard Mrs. Paul Borden of Goldsboro, accredited flower judge, speak at their meeting Monday morning.

Each member brought to the meeting an arrangement previously assigned to offer variety in classes and kinds. These were criticized constructively by Mrs. Borden who also showed several arrangements of her own to illustrate points brought out to the members.

Mrs. Clifton Jackson, president, called the meeting to order and recognized several visitors. They included Mesdames Borden and Maxwell of Goldsboro, W. I. Bissette, John Worthy, Joe Goolsby and J. L. Roberson.

Following the business session, luncheon was served buffet style. The table was covered with a dark green linen cloth and held a center arrangement of small yellow marigolds and blue daisies.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. William Daws and Mrs. Don Casey. The meeting took place in the Christian Church basement.

Members present in addition to the hostesses were Mrs. M. B. Hodges, Mrs. M. B. Hodges, Mrs. Dewey Wall, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. Tom Gower, Mrs. G. L. Tucker, Mrs. Thurman Williams, Mrs. W. M. Ruritans Fete Faculty, Wives

PACTOLUS—The Pactolus Ruritan Club entertained the wives of club members and teachers of Pactolus School and Stokes-Pactolus High School at the annual "faculty-ladies night" banquet last Monday evening. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Langley of Raleigh, Mrs. Orville L. Williams of Swan Quarter and the husbands or wives of the teachers present.

Club Vice President Noel Lee welcomed the guests, while Mrs. W. F. Little, a faculty member of Pactolus school, responded. Teachers of Stokes-Pactolus High School were introduced by Principal Jack Edwards and Principal Eugene Morris made the introductions for Pactolus School.

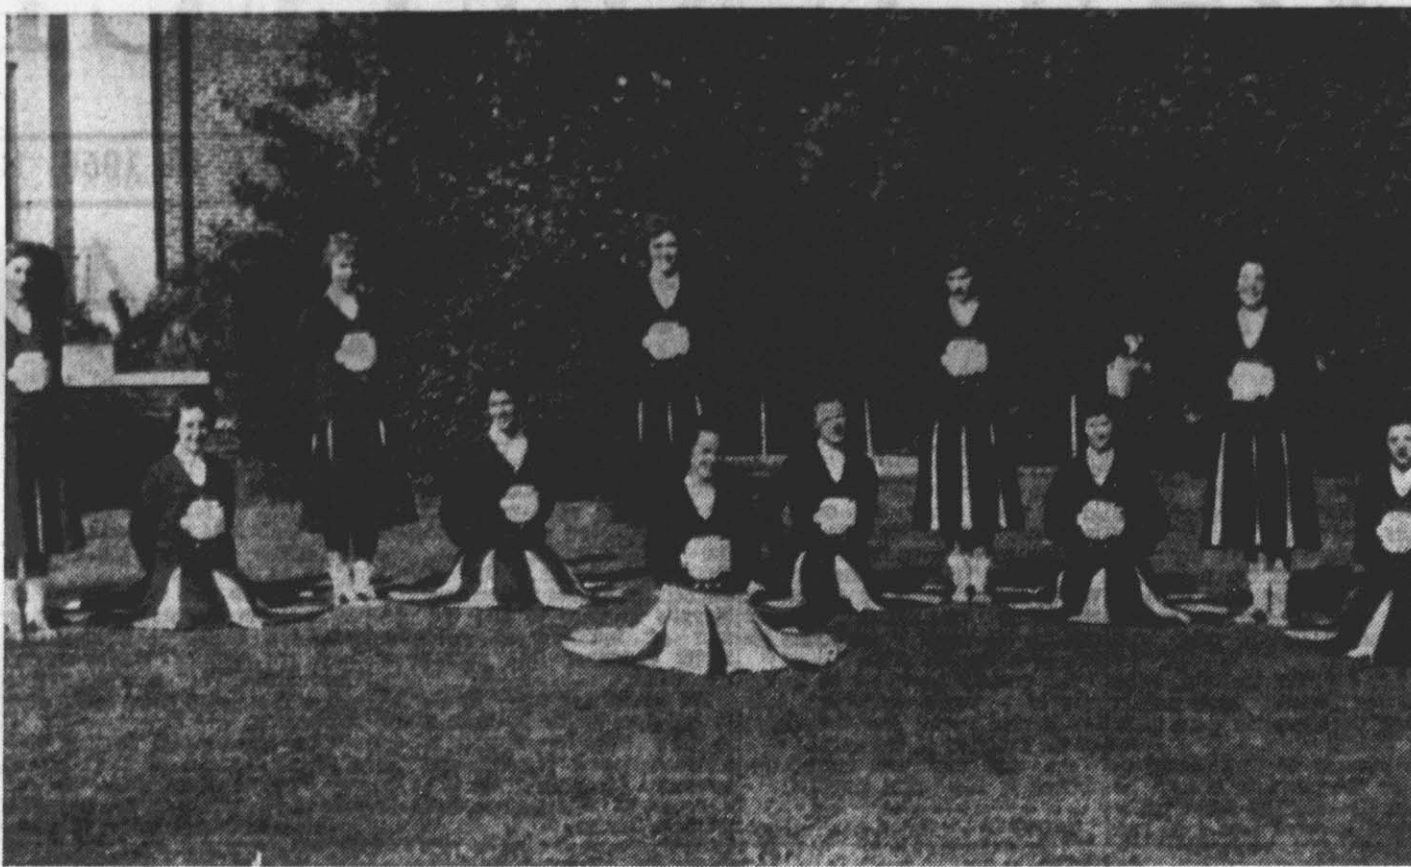

An amusing point in the program came by way of a stunt arranged by the program committee in which several ladies present were called upon to identify their husbands by looking at one knee only. Needless to say, there was a slight mixup.

Highlight of the evening's program was a talk given by Orville L. Williams of Swan Quarter. An attorney and public official of long standing in Hyde County, he interspersed his talk with amusing anecdotes.

President D. R. House appointed a nominating committee to recommend a slate of officers for 1957, this recommendation to be put before the club at the October meeting.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Good Night, Ladies."

Taxpaying Time Brings Awareness

This is the time of year when taxpayers become keenly aware of the fact that it takes a great deal of money to operate local governments just as it does to operate the federal and state government.

Throughout Pitt County some 23,000 taxpayers have received tax notices from the county government totaling more than a million dollars. At the same time taxpayers in the city of Greenville are receiving their city tax notices which amount to another $300,000. Similar notices will soon be going out from other incorporated towns in the county to property owners within those respective municipalities.

Percentage-wise the amount of taxes collected by local governments is relatively small compared with the total tax collected by all levels of government. It is, nevertheless, an impressive figure when one stops to consider it.

In spite of the fact that federal and state governments have taken over a great many of the services once supported entirely by local governments, government at the local level is finding itself constantly faced with more demands for service from the people it serves. In recent years municipal and county governments have been faced with the financial squeeze brought about by limited sources of revenue and these demands for greater service.

In an effort to hold down ad valorem tax rates—the primary source of revenue for local governments in North Carolina—these government units have been forced to operate more efficiently, spread their dollars over a wider area and in general see that a greater return is received for each tax dollar spent. Generally in Pitt County, it is our observation that the value received for each tax dollar has improved in recent years.

That is by no means a reflection on those who have held office in prior years, but rather attributable to the fact that in most cases local government operations have been streamlined to operate more in keeping with the times.

Even with improvements which have been made, there remains room for more efficient operation which will bring taxpayers on the local level more services for their tax dollars.

During the next few months taxpayers in Pitt will pour hundreds of thousands of dollars into local government coffers. Without the money local governments would not be able to operate. With the funds, local governments will be able to carry on the services to their individual citizens. But in addition to paying

Joint Southern Atomic Research Is Laudable

Out of the conference of Southern governors has come a proposal that states South of the Mason-Dixon should ponder and follow with decisive action.

A special committee of the conference has recommended that the several Southern states establish an atomic research center to develop peaceful uses of atomic energy.

In some places in the South—such as State College in Raleigh—such work is being carried on in a very limited degree. But with facilities available at such locations, the scope of research is extremely limited and therefore cannot bring about the development which the committee report anticipates.

The South today is enjoying an industrial revolution the like of which it has never before experienced. There is every indication that the industrial revolution in the south will continue for decades as untapped resources of the area are tapped and their potential realized more fully than they have been in the past.

Despite the fact that the surface has only been scratched in its industrial potential, the South must realize that it is entering the era of atomic energy. As the atomic age becomes more advanced, the importance of research and development in the field will be of increasing importance. And the areas which assume positions of leadership in development of uses for this new source of energy can likewise expect to gain most from the economic changes which such developments bring about.

There is no reason the South should play second fiddle to any other part of the nation in developing peaceful uses of atomic energy. There is no reason the South should take a back seat as various geographical sections prepare to cash in on the new atomic age. The South can train manpower for work in atomic plants of the future just as readily as other sections if the groundwork is properly done. It can be the section which becomes the predominant site for industrial plants that put atomic energy to peaceful uses.

But it cannot assume such a position if it merely sits back and waits.

Establishment of a research center and the ambitious program outlined at the governors' conference cannot be had without large expenditures. But individually and collectively the several Southern states can afford such outlays for the sake of future development. The South has struggled too long in the eddies and backwaters of economic prosperity afforded industrial development. There is no reason the section should not ride the crest of the new wave of development peaceful uses of atomic energy will bring.

his taxes, each citizen has the responsibility to take a special interest in the operation of his local government, exerting whatever influence he can for better, more economical and more efficient operation of his local government.

One Deficit Tar Heels Can Afford To Enjoy

The Lost Colony, longest running outdoor drama in the country and pride of North Carolina has ended another successful year from the standpoint of attendance. As usual, however, the season proved to be unsuccessful financially.

During its 1956 season the Lost Colony played before a total of 42,201 paying guests, more than 8,000 over last year's attendance, and it still showed a loss of $21,000.

This year 55 performances of the drama were given instead of the 50 presentations last year. And as in past years, it attracted countless people to the Manteo section of North Carolina who otherwise would have spent their vacations and vacation dollars in other areas outside North Carolina.

In spite of the fact that gate receipts do not pay the annual bills of the play, the Lost Colony is one of the most successful undertakings ever attempted in North Carolina. It should by all means be subsidized sufficiently to assure its continuance year after year.

For the better part of two decades now the Lost Colony has proved one of the main attractions North Carolina offers to summer tourists from both inside North Carolina and from other states. The deficits shown by the production from year to year has been made up many times over by the additional revenue from tourists attracted to the Manteo and Nags Head area.

The Lost Colony has become as much a part of North Carolina's tourist attractions as the mountains or the sea. It should by all means be perpetuated.

Inaugurations Also Will Be Postponed

By LYNN NISBET

INAUGURATION Ratification of the amendment deferring the convening date of the General Assembly will also postpone the inauguration of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, and perhaps other elective officers. The constitution says that the terms of the executive officers shall begin on January 1 next after their election. The general statutes have provided for years that the Governor should take the oath of office before a joint session of the General Assembly, which did not convene until Wednesday after the first Monday in January.

The 1955 regular session changed the statute to fix the inauguration date on Thursday following convening of the Assembly instead of on the next Tuesday. Regardless of the statute, the Thursday or second day of the Legislature had been inaugurated day for many years.

With respect to other elective officers the 1955 act provides they shall take the oath "as soon as may be." Traditionally all the officers have been sworn in at the same time.

Further provision is that incumbents shall continue in office until their successors have been elected and qualified. In the present in and every officer will continue for the next term. Deferring inauguration till February will not affect them. In the future event of change in personnel, the conflict between constitution and statute might prove embarrassing.

Under present law the inauguration of Governor Hodges and other officers will be held on Thursday, February 7. It is expected that further revision in the statutes, perhaps another constitutional amendment, will be proposed at the next session to avoid possibility of confusion.

CO-OPS — Tuesday was "Co-op Day" in Raleigh. Some 3,000 people, mostly from Eastern North Carolina, and all directly connected with agriculture, attended the annual meetings of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association and the Farmers Cooperative Exchange. They heard financial reports showing that the FCX has total assets in excess of $12.3 million and the cotton group assets of more than a million and a quarter.

They heard Rep. Harold D.

Cooley, chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture, and Senators Kerr Scott of North Carolina and Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, members of the Senate Committee, extolled the benefits of cooperative activity and explain how agriculture has suffered under the Republican regime.

Johnston was especially caustic in criticism of the way the Federal government has handled the crop surplus and parity programs. Cooley said agriculture has no great champion in the executive department at Washington. He said, however, he would not waste time condemning Secretary Ezra Benson. He is waiting for the farmers to do that with their votes in November.

Johnston pointed out that all the alleged losses in the crop support program amounted to a small fraction of the more than $50 billion the government has spent in subsidizing industry since the war. Magazines and newspapers which prate so much about "handouts" to farmers are themselves the beneficiaries of $250 million a year in postal subsidies, he said.

The audience which comfortably filled the municipal auditorium contained several hundred Negroes. There was no enforced segregation in the building or at barbecue tables outside, but the groups fell naturally into congenial separate lines.

POTPOURRI — M. G. Mann, presenting Sen. Kerr Scott at a breakfast honoring Sen. Olin Johnston, said some mighty nice "that the name is Kerr." Emmett Kerr, vice president of American Trust Co., was at the table. He pronounces his name like Kerr, and Mann indicated he didn't want to offend the banker. "He's the one who makes the mistake," quipped the Senator.

Opinions In Brief

MARION, IOWA, SENTINEL: "This writer used to work a 48 hour week on the section for $18. Now a section man gets this much in little over a day. The union can get much of the credit for this. . . . But all of us need to study the problems involved to see that everyone gets his fair share, but to avoid killing the goose that lays the golden eggs."

Other Editors Are Saying... Local Government On Decline

(Hertford County Herald)
The fact that local governments are gradually being squeezed out of existence is pointed up vividly by the drastic change which has taken place in the overall tax picture of the nation in the last two decades.

Twenty years ago local governments were collecting 56 per cent of the total which was being collected by the federal government. State governments two decades ago had 21 per cent of the total tax taken for their share.

Today a total of 71 per cent of all taxes collected in the United States go to the federal government. Local government which 20 years ago collected 56 per cent of the taxes today receive only 15 per cent, and the state's share of the take has dropped from 21 per cent to 14 per cent.

Through the reduction in percentage of taxes which each level receives, state and local governments have been forced to hand over to the centralized federal government various programs which formerly were entirely the responsibility of local governments. When the federal government took over the financing of the programs, it likewise took over control of the programs lock, stock and barrel. Uncle Sam gets the policies, says how the programs shall be run, and leaves the counties the yeoman's task of writing checks.

If a local government doesn't approve of the federal government methods of handling the program, its only alternative is to give up its share of federal aid which today carries most welfare and other programs.

The distressing fact is that the centralized state each year is encroaching farther into the territory of responsibility and accompanying jurisdiction that formerly belonged to local governments. If the present trend continues, local government officials will be reduced to mere "yes" men for Washington bureaucrats. Indeed, in many phases of local government this is already the case.

Local government is the grass roots and foundation of American democracy. The American people have real reason to fear for the future and the democratic system they have established if the centralized state eventually saps all governing power from the local units.

The Colored Child Asks—

By LYNN NISBET

A Lesson In N.C. Geography

RALEIGH — There are a lot of "funny" things about the geography of North Carolina. Most people, from sixth grade school children up, know that Murphy, the county seat of Cherokee, is closer to the capital cities of five other states than to Raleigh. But—

Did you know that Wilmington is west of Rocky Mount and south of Spartanburg?

Did you know that Marion is further west than Mountain City, Tennessee?

Did you know that Fayetteville is south of North Carolina and west of Raleigh?

Did you know that a dozen or more counties in three congressional districts in North Carolina are south of the northern border of Georgia?

Did you know that Southport is almost due east of Atlanta, and further south than Athens, Georgia, and Columbia, South Carolina?

Did you know that Dare county is one of the biggest counties in the state within outside borders, and that it is almost twice as far from Hatteras to the courthouse at Manteo by the shortest possible route by car than from any point in any other county to the courthouse? Did you know the Neuse at Oriental is the widest river in the United States, with possible exception of the Potomac (depending upon course of current at time of measurement)?

Did you know the Neuse is the longest stream with the same name in the state?

Did you know that the Cape Fear is the only North Carolina river of consequence to flow directly into the Atlantic ocean?

Did you know it is farther from Nag's Head to Pontana than from Nag's Head to New York City?

Notebook On Life

Youth Runs Reptile Garden

ELDON, Mo. (AP) — As far as 100 miles from this village in Ozark hills, motorists begin meeting gaudy signs imploiring them to visit "Max Allen's Reptile Gardens," here.

"The World's Greatest Reptile Gardens," boasts one of more than 250 such signs along U.S. Highway 52 and 54.

Those tourists who are lured into a one-story building along Highway 54 are likely to find two surprises—the big collection of snakes and the snake keeper.

The keeper, or herpetologist if you want to be formal about it, is Max Allen Nickerson, an 18-year-old fresh out of high school. Max, a tall youth with glasses, was captain of his high school basketball team last season, is blessed with a gift for gab and an amazing knowledge of reptiles.

Entry into a curio shop which fronts the gardens is free, but if you want to see the snakes, Max takes you on a guided tour at 75 cents per adult head.

"Here we have the giant python," says Max as he starts his spiel by calmly walking into the cage and giving the 7-foot snake a sharp pat. The python remains oblivious to it all.

"The Big Yellow weighs close to 150 pounds," Max continues. "And he's all muscle. He eats his dinner only eight or 10 times a year. The chicken you see here will be his next dinner. He won't touch anything that isn't alive."

"You mean that thing is going to eat the chicken alive?" demands a woman visitor. "Don't worry, m'am," soothes Max. "The chicken dies as quickly as if someone had wrung its neck."

And so goes the pitch, as Max leads the tourists through the gardens, lined with cages of snakes, alligators, gila monsters and other reptiles.

Max usually steps into a pit of deadly copperheads and lifts one with a pole so the visitor can get a better look at it. But, his most harrowing experience came in the python's cage. Max accidentally stepped on the "Big Fellow's" tail one day.

"He knocked me down and wrapped himself around my legs so tight I couldn't move," says Max. "It took two men to uncoil him from me."

Max first became interested in snakes at the age of 12 while visiting a reptile garden in Louisiana. Since that time, he's read 30 volumes on reptiles, and plans to enter college this fall to continue his study of the subject.

Permanent Farm Subsidy In Spotlight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Do American farmers want to remain on a permanent Federal subsidy, whose terms and benefits will be subject always to the whims and calculations of politicians and bureaucrats at Washington? Or do they prefer to return to normal trading and a supply-and-demand market, with Uncle Sam intervening on their behalf only in a grave emergency or wartime?

These are the fundamental questions which President Eisenhower will ask when he starts his re-election campaign with an invasion of the Middle West agricultural areas within a few weeks—a dozen states which could be the decisive factors in the November outcome.

Like we make clear that he favors gradual reduction of price-depressing surpluses even at the cost of temporary losses, as against the continued accumulation of stocks which burden the market, and would keep the Government in the commodity business forever. The Democratic platform declares in favor of the high and rigid price and supports which have resulted in the present $8 billion surplus.

DISPOSAL POLICY OF WHEAT.

President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson have implemented the disposal policy within the last few weeks. On September 4, they turned the full purchasing and exporting of wheat to private traders. Exporters now buy wheat for shipment abroad direct from the farmers instead of from the Commodity Credit Corporation, as in the past.

The exporters will be paid in kind—wheat—instead of receiving cash as a price subsidy, which has hitherto enabled them to meet world competition. It will then be up to them to dispose of this subsidy wheat overseas through private channels of commerce.

EXPECTED TO STIMULATE FOREIGN SALES Although the main purpose of this procedural change is to extricate Uncle Sam from the grain business, it is expected to stimulate foreign sales. With wheat instead of cash as their subsidy payment, exporters will labor under a greater incentive to develop new markets overseas.

Even before this revision, more intensive marketing methods and crop failures abroad had combined to increase exports. The amount sold in July was 44,000,000 bushels, as against only 27,000,000 in July, 1955. If this rate continues, the annual shipment would be more than 500,000,000 bushels, whereas the annual total has been about 340,000,000 bushels.

RECORD PEACE TRANSACTION In arranging to sell and grant 3,500,000 tons of wheat and 200,000 tons of rice to India, Benson's foreign sales agency negotiated Agriculture's greatest disposal transaction since World War II. Benson expects to conclude similar agreements with other lands, thus increasing good will in many foreign countries.

The foreign currency payments for these commodities will be deposited abroad to the credit of the United States for financing our diplomatic, economic, agricultural and military expenditures, as provided by law. The result will be a commensurate reduction in appropriations.

PROSPECT BRIGHTER Although the agricultural millennium is not yet in sight, the prospect for curtailing Government surpluses—the major farm dilemma—has improved. The current wheat surplus, for instance is about one billion bushels, with the current crop estimated at about 900,000,000 bushels.

Excise Tax Rules Also Considered

By ELMER ROESSNER

In addition to the regular hassle over income tax rates, the 85th Congress probably will engage in a broad reconsideration of income tax ground rules and of excise taxes. One reason for thinking so is that considerable pressure is building up for correction of some of the more glaring inequalities under present laws. Another reason is that Congress makes best progress in tax affairs when it is not subject to exemptions and politics of election years.

Congress itself is preparing for considerable change in existing rules. Senator Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, has directed its staff to study fifteen areas of the tax situation.

Two important areas: effect of present income and estate taxes on small business, and income tax treatment of capital gains and losses. The staff is also studying loopholes in the present law, life insurance company taxation, inequities in excise taxes and—praises be!—simplification of the income tax return.

ACCOUNTANTS JOIN BATTLE. Meanwhile, the American Institute of Accountants charges that there are 100 loopholes in present tax laws and urges appointment of a nonpartisan commission to make studies and recommendations.

To some, this action may seem semi-suicidal. Accountants grow rich helping clients squeeze through loopholes and if tax laws were made simple, uniform and fair, the Institute might have to set up its own unemployment relief committee.

Nevertheless, the Institute is asking for reform and a committee headed by J.S. Feldman, New York C.P.A., has completed a study of points that seem to call for correction. By this time, the committee's findings are probably in the hands of the Byrd committee.

There are many inequalities cited by the accountants. For instance: the law gives an allowance to the blind, but not to the deaf, dumb, paralyzed or incurables. A composer who spends a year writing a symphony (A year? That would probably be a quickie!) must pay ordinary income taxes on his profits, but a man fattening a steer is taxed at only the capital gains rate. And if farmers raising livestock get benefits of the capital gains, why shouldn't poultry men, or those who raise grain, cotton and other crops? But all farmers get this break over city mice: Their profits in food and lodgings are not taxed.

THE EXCISE SITUATION. Almost all retail trade associations are fighting for changes in the excise taxes. Late in the last session, Representative Richard Simpson (R-Pa) introduced a bill eliminating the excise tax on articles in every-day use.

Among articles that would be freed are: silver plated tableware; fur trimmed articles other than coats, jackets, scarves, stoles, wraps and the like; jewelry, watches and similar articles costing less than $5 at retail; handbags, wallets, key cases and luggage; and anti-perspirants, deodorants, sunburn preventatives, petroleum jellies and aromatic cauchous. Cachous are aromatic breath-sweeteners (as distinguished from mint and chlorophyll preparations). Only one product now carries the tax: Sen-Sen. This tax was first enacted back in the days when Congressmen thought that any man whose breath did not smell of whiskey and chewing tobacco was effeminate.

Meanwhile, businessmen and their trade associations are talking to their Congressmen, now in hom. districts, and their opponents in the coming election to determine their position on various tax matters.

If one of the tax bites itches you, you might ask House and Senate candidates in your district and state on how they stand. Congressional candidates always answer mail in the fall of even-numbered years.

Firearm Safety Measures Urged By N.C. Board

RALEIGH — The opening of the hunting season in North Carolina drew a sharp reminder from safety specialists of the N.C. State Board of Health to guard against accidental deaths and injuries from firearms.

Dr. Charles Cameron, Jr., accident epidemiologist of the Board of Health, cited the 50 deaths from firearms in 1955 and the 83 deaths in 1954 as a grim warning of the dangers associated with the handling and use of firearms.

"Throughout the United States 1955 over 2,150 persons lost their lives from the careless handling of pistols, rifles, and shotguns," Dr. Cameron said. "Over half of these accidents occur in the home and can be traced to improper storage of weapons."

The physician placed particular emphasis on the tragically high toll of firearm accidents among children, adding that over 25 per cent of victims of these accidents are under 15 years of age.

"Guns have great attraction to children, particularly boys," Dr. Cameron said. "Parents sometimes forget that the child cannot differ between a toy gun and the real thing."

The Board of Health passes on these ten commandments of gun safety:

1. Treat every gun with the respect of a loaded gun.
2. Always unload a weapon before putting it away and then store it in a place inaccessible to children.
3. Always carry a gun so that the direction of the muzzle can be controlled even if the hunter should stumble.
4. Be sure of the target before pulling the trigger.
5. Never leave a gun unattended unless you unload it first.
6. Never climb a fence or tree with a loaded gun.
7. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.
8. Never point a gun at anything you don't want to shoot.
9. Gunpowder and alcohol make a lethal mixture.
10. Adherence of these rules, agreed to by sportsmen's groups throughout the country, may prevent needless deaths and injuries which could turn your hunting party into a funeral party, Dr. Cameron concluded.

Sheriff Boasts 3-Way Power

By NORMA NIKRANT

MASON, Mich. (AP)—A fugitive doesn't stand much chance in Michigan's Ingham County, where the sheriff has his own army, navy and air force.

When a prisoner "goes thataway" from the county jail, Sheriff Willard P. Barnes can call on his unique military forces to give chase.

Because he has made full use of his power to swear in deputies, Barnes has at his disposal a 25-man mounted sheriff's posse and an air force made up of nine volunteers with private planes.

The navy in land-locked Ingham County is one smartly uniformed deputy, Earl Robinson, in an outboard motorboat. He cruises lakes and rivers searching out hot rod boat operators.

The plane owners, all duly sworn in deputies, help in drowning cases and in searches for escaped prisoners or lost children.

The 25-man group of riders in the sheriff's posse drills once a week. They wear western type sombreros with their uniforms and often make appearances around the state.

The riders also do practical law enforcement work. Says Sheriff Barnes: "There's nothing to beat a man on horseback for controlling crowds. And they can get through rough country where search parties on foot would have a tough time."

Largest number of visitors to Turkey today are those from the United States and Greece.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures
"BIRD PHOTOGRAPHY is a challenging activity for a camera fan which can be pursued through all seasons of the year in every section of the country."

That's Torrey Jackson talking. He's an expert New England bird photographer from Marblehead, Mass.

"To start with, it takes keen observation of nature. That, and the ability to make the most of your camera equipment and your opportunities—often, right in your own backyard."

Torrey ought to know—he's given about 40 lectures per year for the past few years on "Wild Bird Portraits."

The unusual aspect of this advice, in case you weren't around last week when we first met Torrey

Jackson, is that it comes from an expert who is barely 19 years old. He is the only teen-ager who has given a lecture at an annual convention of the Photographic Society of America. He did it a year ago in Boston at the age of 18.

Torrey's reputation is based on the excellent pictures he has taken of birds in their natural habitat starting when he was only 12 years old. But before that, his mother and father passed on to him a love and knowledge of wild life which has grown and flourished through the years.

To get good bird pictures, you must know bird habits and the characteristics of different species. If you set up a camera and make a fuss near a nest, some birds are likely to desert their nest and abandon the eggs. That would be terrible for the birds and produce no pictures anyway. This is more likely to happen during the first half of the incubation period than during the latter part, depending on the type of birds.

Torrey's photography, therefore, consists of a major period of preliminary scouting and keen observation before he sets up a camera and shoots pictures.

"In the last stages of incubation and once the eggs are hatched," Torrey says, "fear is overshadowed by maternal instinct in the mother bird. She will return and tend to the little ones until they're ready to fend for themselves.

"The trick is to be prepared to construct a blind just before, or at hatching time. In the case of owls, for instance, you'll be able to take pictures of the young for three or four weeks after hatching."

"However, this won't work with pheasants, most shore birds or waders. Their young can get up and run within a few hours of hatching!"

"You have to take special precautions when taking pictures of some owls when they have young birds in the nest. The saw-whet owl, though only six to eight inches high, is mighty aggressive. I wear a fencer's mask to protect my face.

"Once, when photographing the newly arrived family of a great horned owl whose nest was 75 feet up a tree, I had to add a chest protector as well. This bird is two feet high and has powerful talons which he doesn't mind using, if you're not wary. If you face these owls and keep an eye on them, they'll stay away; turn away and concentrate your attention on your camera and they may attack."

Close-up bird pictures are usually made by constructing a blind or shelter near the nest or a feeding station. This should blend with the surroundings and have openings for shooting in various directions. After a couple of days, birds accept a blind as part of the local scenery. However, they may still be wary of people who enter a blind so a simple bit of deception is practised. This is the "walkaway" act. The photographer and a partner enter the blind together. In a short while, the other person leaves the blind. The uneasy bird, hovering nearby, is relieved and returns to its duties at the nest. As one bird might say to another, "Who counts?" This failure in simple arithmetic leaves the photographer in position to shoot.

Bird close-ups are also obtained by setting up the camera in a strategic spot near the nest and running a lengthy wire to a less conspicuous hideaway for the photographer. With keen eyesight or with the aid of binoculars he spots the instant to make his exposure by remote control. Then the film must be advanced, the camera reset and the photographer must settle back under cover for the next shot.

"Sometimes it was a long wait between shots," Torrey recalls, "as much as eight to nine hours."

The patience of this youth hasn't been in vain. His bird photos have been exhibited in international salons; have been published in encyclopedias, books and magazines; have won prizes in national photo competitions and have now won him the Grafton Press Fellowship for 1956.

This award to a youth of character, ability and promise, will bring him to New York City to experience photo-journalism at first hand. He will accompany staff photographers of a major newspaper on their regular assignments and can shoot his own pictures.

The switch from nature to human nature ought to make an interesting photographic comparison for Torrey Jackson. After covering some of the people who make the news in a big city, his comment might well be: "What queer birds!"

Ruins Another Churchill Myth

LONDON (AP)—One of Sir Winston Churchill's oldest friends has debunked the legend of Churchill's imperturbable in World War II. Lord Brabazon of Tara says Churchill was vile-tempered, heaping abuse on those who worked with him. He tells the story in a new autobiography, "The Brabazon Story."

Brabazon, aviation pioneer and sportsman, was minister of aircraft production for a time in one of Churchill's wartime cabinets. Writing of the stormy meetings of the Battle of the Atlantic Committee, Brabazon says: "They were the most unpleasant meetings I have ever attended. The issue was grave, but the way Churchill treated everyone was almost unbearable. He usually appeared after his early afternoon sleep in the vilest of tempers. He behaved as if he were a bullying schoolmaster. Everyone, in his opinion, was a half-wit; and if anyone said anything he was jumped on and snubbed." Even accounting for the strain under which the Prime Minister labored, Brabazon says, "the general cursing everyone got was not the best way of inspiring incentive and imagination."

Brabazon emphasizes, however, that he bore no malice towards his wartime friend and colleague.

EXPENSIVE PASS
NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A delivery truck driver had to pay $25 for passing the orange juice. He was passing it unsqueezed—orange by orange—from his truck to a friend in a tractor trailer as they drove side by side down Granby Street. The court said that was reckless driving.

No Peashooters Allowed In Town

EGG HARBOR CITY, N.J. (AP)—If you get caught using peashooter in Egg Harbor City, you may wind up with a $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

An ordinance adopted by the city council prohibits use of any device through which one can project projectiles. The measure actually was adopted with guns, rifles and the like in mind. But the peashooter also happens to fit the case.

IOWA HEADHUNTERS
DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—Mrs. A. G. Glantz complained to police that a gang of headhunters apparently is operating in Davenport. She said someone stole a head from her yard—off a small statue.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market shied away from an early advance and became mixed early this afternoon.

Leading issues fluctuated from fractions to around a point or so. Trading was very quiet after a fairly active start.

Wall Street went into a spell of extreme caution in anticipation of the press conference with Secretary of State Dulles. When Dulles said the United States does not intend to shoot its way through the Suez Canal, the stock market had no immediate reaction.

Earlier, however, pivotal issues had risen as much as 2 or 3 points as steels, aircrafts and some oils advanced.

These gains were cut to the bone in the case of leading steels and aircrafts. International oils, with interests in the Middle East, had their gains trimmed but some still remained ahead by a point or more.

Bethlehem Steel, an early 2-point gainer, dropped back to a fractional advance. Youngstown lost practically all of a gain that went beyond a point. Republic and U.S. Steel were virtually unchanged after small gains earlier.

Douglas, which had paced aircrafts with a 1-point rise, slipped to a fractional loss. United Aircraft was unchanged after a fractional gain. Glenn L. Martin clung narrowly to the upside.

Leading rails were depressed as Santa Fe was off around a point. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Missouri-Pacific were other losers.

Chrysler, Studebaker - Packard and Ford were steady while General Motors edged off. In the mixed chemicals group, Du Pont, Allied Chemical and Air Reduction lost some ground. American Cyanamid and Union Carbide rose.

Coppers, mail orders and utilities were mixed. A 10,000-share block of Burlington Industries was traded at 13, up 1/4.

John W. Lowe Dies Here Wednesday

Mr. John W. Lowe, 84, died at the home of his daughter, Miss Velma W. Lowe, a member of the business department of East Carolina College, Wednesday afternoon. The body will be shipped to Athens, Tenn., where funeral services and burial will be held.

Mr. Lowe, a native of Athens, spent most of his life there and was a retired businessman. Since the death of his wife in 1947, he had been living in Atlanta, Ga., with his daughter. He was a member of the Christian Science Church and the Athens Masonic Lodge. For the past several months he had been visiting his daughter, Miss Lowe.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Velma W. Lowe of Greenville and Mrs. Franklin E. Wesson of Atlanta, Ga.; and three grandchildren.

ECC Marching Band Organizes

With Robert Crumpler of Goldsboro as president, East Carolina College's 100-piece marching band has organized for the 1956-1957 term, selected its majorettes and drum majors, and initiated plans for a series of programs during the school year.

Herbert L. Carter of the college music faculty, director of bands at East Carolina, stated this week that this year's ensemble is the largest in the history of the college. Personnel was chosen through exacting tryouts. Members, representing six states, he said, include many of the most talented instrumentalists on the campus.

New uniforms, provided by the Student Government Association, contribute to the attractive appearance of the group this year.

In addition to Crumpler, officers of the marching band include Roy Knight, Sanford, vice president, and Helen Loutrel, Asheboro, secretary-treasurer.

Six women students, selected for their skill and attractive appearance, have been announced as majorettes for 1956-1957. They are Betty June Davenport, Tarboro; Carolyn Baxter, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Lena McLemore, Henderson; Ellen Sturkie, Rockingham; Earlene Cullipher, Elizabeth City; and Gayle Davenport, Portsmouth, Va.

Robert Elwanger of Rockingham, popular with spectators at athletic contests here last year as a twirler of fire batons, and William Sturkie of Roanoke Rapids are drum majors of the marching band.

Among engagements announced by Mr. Carter for the organization will be participation in the Rally in honor of House Speaker Sam Rayburn on his visit to Greenville Sept. 28 and an appearance at the fall meeting of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association at East Carolina Oct. 26.

Basilio Captures Crown In 9th Round Knockout

By MURRAY ROSE
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Carmen Basilio, apparently as tough and destructive as ever, wore the welterweight crown again today after annihilating Johnny Saxton "for the sweetest win of my life."

"This was the one I wanted to win more than any other," said the craggy-faced, 29-year-old Basilio after his technical knockout in 1:31 of the ninth round over the cocky, 26-year-old defending champion in War Memorial Auditorium last night.

"I beat him in Chicago and got robbed. This was my answer. If he wants to fight me again, I'm willing. I fight for money. I'll fight Ray Robinson too for the middleweight title if Saxton has had enough. I agreed to give Saxton a return fight and he can have it anywhere but in Chicago."

Even with his lopsided triumph last night, Carmen still is burning over the unanimous but controversial decision which Saxton scored over him in Chicago last March 14 for the title.

"I want the fight and I'll beat him the next time," said Saxton through swollen lips. A white bandage covered the left side of his mouth where nine stitches were required to sew up a wide laceration that had spurted blood during the one-sided fray.

"I fought his fight — not mine," the dethroned New Yorker said bitterly. "The booing of the crowd upset me. Instead of boxing him like I did the last time and like I planned to do again, I went out and slugged with him. I wanted to show those fans. Next time I'll fight for Johnny Saxton and win my way."

Gaunt and with his ribs showing through his taut skin, the 166-pound local pride took charge in the third round with a slashing body and head attack that had the sleek New Yorker bloody, reeling and helpless in the ninth round when referee Al Berl halted the massacre. Saxton had not been down, but he was heading for the canvas, so relentless was Basilio's furious assault.

Looking perfectly conditioned at 145½, Saxton was only in contention for the first two rounds when he surprised the near capacity crowd of 8,546 and countless television viewers by meeting Basilio in midring and exchanging punches. He drew blood from Carmen's nose and the fans cheered the unexpected early fireworks from the usually backpedaling jabber.

In the third Basilio started to take his toll of the 7-5 favorite with his strength-sapping lefts and rights to the body and his switching jolts to the head. In the fourth, the rout was on. Saxton began to bleed from the mouth and near the end of the round, he was staggered by a long left and right to the jaw. The cool, poised Basilio was in complete command after that.

Basilio's share of the record Syracuse gross gate of $134,939 (net $117,067) and the $75,000 radio-TV pot was $37,662. Saxton, collecting 40 per cent to Basilio's 20, earned $75,324.

Rocky Mount Is First On Eppes Football Slate

Tomorrow night, the Eppes high school Bulldogs journey to Rocky Mount for their opening game of the season.

Coach Percy Daniels is looking forward to a tough game. He has stated that "We have had our biggest trouble in the past at the first of the season. If we can get off to a good start, we'll do fine this year."

Daniels will have the materials to do fine with. This year's turnout for the Bulldog team was the biggest in the history of the school, due to a large body of freshman candidates. According to the coach, the newcomers will play a large part in the outcome of the 1956 Bulldogs. A total of 28 freshmen have been added to the roster.

With All-State quarterback Freddy Outerbridge lost by graduation, Daniels has had that key position to fill. Virgil Lynch, a freshman, is the probable starter in that slot tomorrow night, although the definite lineup has not been announced as yet.

One of the bright spots in Daniels' forward wall is expected to be a 265-pound All-State tackle, James Brewington. The big boy was an offensive and defensive stalwart last season and should be stronger in the coming campaign, with another year of experience under his belt. Daniels foresees a good year for Brewington.

Also, Joe Tyson, a regular center last year, will be back to bolster the forward wall. Two freshmen, Dalton and Alton Davis, have also been hailed by Daniels as potential stars in front line positions.

Rocky Mount is expected to be strong this season. They have been reported powerful in such key positions as quarterback, ends and fullbacks. Their line has received little publicity, but their ground attack (featuring the quarterback and fullback) is expected to be their big attraction.

GHS Meets Cardinals In Conference Game Friday

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Greenville high school will journey to Jacksonville tomorrow night for their first Northeastern Conference contest of the 1956 season against one of the top-rated teams in the loop.

The Cardinals, entering this season under the guidance of a new coach, were picked by the preseason coaches' poll in the top three position of the conference. Though fairly inexperienced, the Cards are known to feature a fine passing attack and a crafty split-T ground attack.

Letterman Norwood Crawford, in the featured quarterback slot, has proven himself one of the league's best passers and is expected to hit the Cardinals with a well-developed air assault.

Scattered Veterans

Only three others on the starting Jacksonville eleven are veterans. Halfback Alvin Lanier, tackle Glenn Worrell and guard John Hewitt are back for duty with plenty of experience beneath their belts and will be counted upon by Coach John Eddy to bolster the offensive and defensive play.

Reports have it that Lanier received ankle and head injuries in last week's game with Wallace, but will see action against Greenville. The Cards have already played two games against non-conference foes. They topped Jones Central 7-6 and lost to Wallace 13-6.

Seeking Win

Greenville's team, which was walloped 31-0 last week by a powerful AAA Goldsboro team, will be seeking an entrance into the win column tomorrow night. Too, they will be working harder due to the fact that the contest will be a conference affair.

The Big Green was rated the bottom team in the loop by the aforementioned coaches' poll and Coach Guy Lewis has stated that his boys "are determined to play good ball this year and prove that prediction wrong. They have plenty of fire and spirit—the best I've ever seen."

Expected to be the Big Gun in the Phantom ground attack is All-Conference fullback Billy Sermons. Billy ran from a halfback position in the opener and was the leading Greenville gainer and an outstanding tackler on defense.

His mates in the backfield will include quarterback Mack Roebuck, halfbacks Robert Howell and Jimmy Kelly and fullback Robin Wilfong.

Lewis has stated that he intends to use an air attack, with Roebuck on the throwing end. The junior quarterback passed well last year and has done Green kicking both last and this year.

Line Is Fast

Boostered by veterans in end, guard, tackle and center positions, the Phantom line is expected to make a good showing against the Cardinals. They charged well against Goldsboro last week, but were outweighed as well as outmanned. Coach Lewis expects them to do a good job against the lighter Cardinal forward wall.

The ends will be Billy Cox and Edwin Wilkerson; tackles will be Angus Duff and Roy Martin; guards are expected to be Kelly

Barnhill and Billy Brown; Wade Jordan will be the center.

Ward Displays Title Material

BY HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Defending champion Harvie Ward, one down after 15 holes of his fourth round match in the National Amateur golf championship, was lining up a difficult 15-foot putt when Billy Joe Patton whispered: "Right here, and on the next two holes, is where you'll learn the difference between a champion and a golfer."

Ward imperceptibly stroked his putt into the cup and his opponent, 20-year-old Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla., jabbed at a four-footer and missed. Patton whispered again: "See what I meant?"

On the next hole Ward poked a four iron shot off the tee within a foot and a half from the pin and won with a conceded deuce after Boynton had three-putted from across the green. And the Florida collegian, who had been three up after the first five holes, saw his last hope vanish with a shot that went into a trap on the 18th.

It was truly a champion's finish yesterday when a lot of really good golfers couldn't win. But it left Ward, seeking to become the first repeater in 21 years in this tournament, in a peculiar position.

Braves Top Bums By 8-7

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Milwaukee Braves call it "the biggest one yet."

The Brooklyn Dodgers kiss it off with a "so what?"

"They both could be right about that humdrum of a comeback 8-7 victory the Braves grabbed from the Dodgers at Ebbets Field yesterday, regaining undisputed possession of first place in the National League race.

If any club was hurt by the decision, it was Cincinnati. The third-place Redlegs fell three games behind while being held to just three singles by Johnny Antonelli in an 8-0 loss to the New York Giants.

The Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 3-0 in the only other NL game scheduled.

The New York Yankees and the Kansas City Athletics, walloping three between them, erased the American League's one-season home run record set in 1950 at 973 as the A's beat the league leaders 7-4.

Early Wynn helped set the mark, slugging his first home run of the season for his 17th victory as second-place Cleveland beat Baltimore 2-1.

Boston took third place from Chicago, defeating the White Sox 4-1. Detroit made it six in a row, beating Washington 3-2.

Billy Bruton, a 268 disappointment with only 46 runs batted in for the Braves, and a regular Dodger tormentor, drove in five runs between them as Bob Buhl, one of 11 pitchers in the game, came back in relief after losing 4-2 Tuesday night to gain his 17th victory.

Bruton's eighth-inning single cracked a 7-all tie, driving in Adcock to beat reliever Roger Craig. His two-run triple shelled 23-game-winner Don Newcombe in a four-run second inning, after the Dodgers had taken a 3-0 lead in the first while knocking out Lew (18-9) Burdette.

Adcock's 37th home run, with a man on, broke a 4-all tie in the sixth. Roy Campanella hit his 18th for the Braves and Del Crandall smacked No. 15 for the Braves, who wound up with a 12-10 edge in the season series between the two clubs.

Antonelli, beaten four times previously by the Redlegs, struck out three and walked none while facing just 29 men for his 16th victory. Jack Brandt and Daryl Spencer homered for the Giants, Spencer's a two-run, inside-the-park job, to beat Joe Nuxhall.

Sam Jones bagged the Bucs on four hits while the Cubs got eight off loser Vern Law and three relievers, one Walt Moryn's 22nd home run.

Ex-Yankee Eddie Robinson drove in four runs for the A's and his homer gave the AL a record total of 974. It came off reliever Maury McDermott in the fifth inning and followed earlier shots by Yankee Hank Bauer and A's rookie Lou Skizas. Wally Burton, former Yankee farmhand, won it with six innings of shutout relief. Tom Sturdivant lost it.

Vic Wertz also homered for the Tribe, held to five hits by Hec Brown and Mike Fornieles, with Wynn's breaking a 1-1 tie. It was No. 28 for Wertz, a one-season high for the big guy who was hit by polo last year.

Boston, now half a game up on Chicago, rode in as Frank Sullivan tossed a five-hitter for his 13th victory. Jackie Jensen, with two RBIs, hit his 19th home run among Boston's 11 hits.

Rocky Mount is expected to be strong this season. They have been reported powerful in such key positions as quarterback, ends and fullbacks. Their line has received little publicity, but their ground attack (featuring the quarterback and fullback) is expected to be their big attraction.

The starting lineup for tomorrow night will include an all-veteran line and three veteran backs. The ends will be Harris and Jenkins; tackles will be Brewington and Green; guards will be William and Al Teel; center will be Tyson; Lynch will run at quarterback; Baker and Wilson will work at half backs and Jones will handle fullback chores.

Greenville's team, which was walloped 31-0 last week by a powerful AAA Goldsboro team, will be seeking an entrance into the win column tomorrow night. Too, they will be working harder due to the fact that the contest will be a conference affair.

VPI Rated 28 Points Better Than Pirates

With only a few days left before their second game, the spirit in the East Carolina camp is at a high peak. The Pirates have been preparing all week for their contest with V.P.I., a Southern Conference member, in Bluefield, West Virginia.

East Carolina College has been trying for admittance in the Southern Conference for a number of years, but have been refused mainly because the conference has had an equal number of members. ECC has added several Southern Conference foes to their athletic program in swimming, tennis, track, and baseball, but this will be the first time an ECC gridiron eleven has gotten a chance at a Southern Conference foe. The Pirates also meet Richmond University in the final game of the season at Greenville.

Although, the Bucs are being rated a 3 to 4 touchdown underdog, there is no gloom in the Pirate Den as the Bucs prepare themselves for a big opportunity. V.P.I. is rated as the top team in Virginia this fall, and are being given a good chance of taking the South Conference crown.

ECC's No. 1 and No. 2 units have been running through scrimmage sessions with the freshmen during the early part of the week. The freshmen have been running V.P.I. plays and also have been setting up defenses similar to those run by V.P.I.

Looking impressive on defense in the scrimmage sessions were Tackles Jerry Brooks, Ray Overton, and Larry Howell; Ends Ray Pennington, Bill Helms, and Tommy Waggoner; Guards Ken Burgess and Paul Poppy; Centers Waverly Chesson and James Faircloth. Highlighting the running attack were halfbacks Bobby Perry, James Speight, and Jim Henderson. Dick Cherry, ECC's leading candidate for All-America, was also impressive with his passing and running.

The biggest trouble confronting Boone, the Pirate head mentor, will be the fullback position. Starter Bob Maynard was taken into the college infirmary Monday with flu, and No. 2 fullback, Bob Lilley, injured his knee in the scrimmage game against Norfolk Navy last Saturday. Both boys, however, are expected to be back by Saturday. George Slaughter and Kemp Wickizer have been alternating at the position in practice this week.

Coach Boone is quick to admit that this will probably be one of the hardest teams on the Buc's schedule. "We have been working hard to give a good account of ourselves, and we are anxious to meet them," says the Buc head mentor. "Our moral and spirit is great and if we get through the week without too many injuries, I think we will give them a good game," continues Boone.

Hopeful Redlegs Meet Pittsburgh

NEW YORK (AP) — The slightly deflated but still tenaciously hopeful Cincinnati Redlegs open a two-game series in Pittsburgh tonight with one happy thought: The Pirates have no outstanding left-handed pitcher.

"They may beat us, but they have no southpaw to beat us with," Manager Birdie Tebbetts said wryly after his club had waved feebly at the offerings of the Giants' Johnny Antonelli and been blanked 8-0.

"I'll start Hal Jeffcoat against Pittsburgh, and, who knows, if he wins I might start him the second game."

The blanking by the Giants, giving the Redlegs no better than a split in the two-game series, was a bitter pill, and the fact the Milwaukee Braves edged the Brooklyn Dodgers in their game yesterday wasn't a very appetizing chaser.

"When the other contenders play each other you've got to win," Tebbetts said emphatically. "We had our chance Wednesday, and we got beat, that's all. We got beat by a great pitcher, but we'd beaten him four straight times."

CHAPTER 31

"I hate Dolf Kinney just as much as you do," Oates assured Running Fawn.

"Because he will kill you if he can!"

"Not that. Because he sold me down the river. He had me do his dirty work, and promised to back me up if I was caught. Then, afraid I'd tell what I knew about him, he aimed to double-cross me, have me killed." Oates' face took on a repressed savagery to match the gleam in her own eyes. "I'll kill him for that!" he said quietly.

"Maybe you're more of a man than I thought," Running Fawn conceded soberly, eyeing him with new appraisal. "You might even make a pretty good Indian!"

"I sure would, with a little teachin'," he assured her eagerly, and started forward again, but she evaded him lightly, moving around the bush.

"If I call," she warned, "remember that my father is chief, and he will be most angry." "I might like you—after you have proved yourself. Or if you were not all renegade!" She spat the word at him like an epithet.

"Now what do you mean?" Oates demanded, puzzled. "I sure can't keep up with you at all."

"You like me?" she challenged.

"I reckon, being a beautiful woman, you know the answer to that question."

"If you like me," she said tensely, and every word was a warning, "then you like me—just me, only me. Not that white woman at the same time!"

"Oh, that?" Oates relaxed, relieved. This girl was wildly jealous because he'd first captured Narcissa, then had stopped to talk to her.

"No need for you to worry about her," he said. "She don't mean a thing to me. I just wanted to talk to her."

"You lie," Running Fawn assured him calmly. "I was not far off, and I heard. You like her, and when she scorned you, then you turned to me. I don't want any second choice, no castoffs! We give that to the dogs!"

"Maybe I did look twice at the white woman," he conceded. "I have looked many times at the sun, but I also look now and then at the moon—not because it is so bright or good to look upon, but because the run is not there to see. Now that I have seen you, I wouldn't want to look at her again."

"You mean that?" Running Fawn challenged. "That I come first? That you do not care about her—not at all?" she asked him.

Survival May Be Largely Up To Civil Defense Plans

By VAL PETERSON
Federal Civil Defense Administrator

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles written by Governor Peterson for the first observance of National Civil Defense Week. In the series he discusses the organization and purposes of civil defense, and its value as a deterrent to war.)

Last year President Eisenhower requested that Congress provide funds to undertake a National Survival Plan program, to be directed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, and the Congress in two sessions has provided in the neighborhood of $20 million to permit a start on this work, which I feel is the most forward-looking movement ever undertaken in civil defense in the United States, and perhaps in the world.

With these funds, the FCDA is signing contracts with cities and metropolitan areas and with States for studies designed to find out three things which will make it possible to tailor a civil defense program for a specific locality, because the problems of one city are almost invariably quite different from those of another.

What are these three things that we want to find out, very quickly? First, we want to make a study of the highways and bridges and roads and all of the methods of transportation out of the town—motor car, rail, air, and shipping—to determine whether it is feasible to try to evacuate. No one knows positively whether this can be done until it is tried, though most of our cities, every working day, demonstrate their capacity to move out large numbers of people in a short time. In Chicago, for instance, the population of the Loop area—about a square mile—is 910,000 at 4:30 p.m. An hour and a half later it is 85,000. And that is done with incoming traffic and cross traffic permitted, as it would not be in a preattack evacuation.

But it isn't enough simply to get the people out of a threatened city. You have, then, to save their lives from the effects of radioactive fallout. So the second aim of the Survival Plan studies is to survey all existing shelter in private homes, barns, schoolhouses, churches, industrial plants, commercial installations, all of the available shelter within 50 to 100 miles of each large city, to determine what percentage of the evacuees could be provided with reasonably good shelter against the effects of radioactive fallout within that region. This would then indicate the size of the shelter-building program which will have to be undertaken to protect the rest of the people.

The third aim is to determine how many evacuees could be fed and housed within an attainable region or area. These things cannot be determined by guesswork. That is why these survival studies are so essential. They will not only provide the answers to our survival needs today, but shape the course of protective measures which will be required in the future era of the intercontinental ballistic missile.

Survival Plan studies already under development cover more than half the nation. We hope eventually to sign agreements for such studies with anybody and everybody who wants one of them in the United States.

(In tomorrow's article, Governor Peterson will discuss the peacetime role of civil defense.)

Dedicate New Research Laboratory On Tuesday

Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, which operates the National Carbon Company in Greenville, North Carolina, will officially dedicate its newest research laboratory on September 18 in Parma, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland.

The new research center, to be operated by National Carbon Company, a Division of Union Carbide, will concentrate on the fields of chemical and solid state physics, electrochemistry, carbon and graphite research and high temperature refractory compounds.

The new facilities bring to seven the number of research centers operated by divisions of Union Carbide, which in 1955 spent approximately $43 million on research.

"Nuclear furnaces, new high-temperature refractory materials, the miniaturization of electronic equipment, entirely new electrochemical battery systems, and scores of other products of the future cannot be developed without a thorough knowledge of the molecular, atomic, and subatomic make-up of solids," says Adger S. Johnson, president of National Carbon.

"At Parma," he says, "approximately 350 National Carbon employees, in addition to those engaged in clerical and service operations, will be engaged in this important work."

The new laboratory contains approximately 175,000 square feet of floor space, and is located near the center of a 126-acre plot on Snow Road in suburban Cleveland. Designed for extreme flexibility, will provisions for expansion, the main laboratory building consists of 158 laboratory modules, or individual research units, fully equipped with all the usual service lines and, in addition, unusual features such as lines distributing various rare gases.

Tracking Down A Moose On Loose

ORANGE, Mass. (AP)—The state has sent several conservation officers into the northeast section of Massachusetts to try to track down a moose that's on the loose. Residents of Winchendon, Roy-alston and Orange have reported seeing the animal and conservation officer Arthur J. Lovely Jr. has spotted his tracks.

Officials of the State Department of Natural Resources said it is unusual for a moose to be in this area, far south of his natural habitat.

Money Problem Easier In 1900

JENNINGS, Okla. (AP)—School board members here wish they could solve their money problems as easy as the school board did back around 1900.

A member came up with the information from a history of the town that they assessed the saloon keeper $1,000 for a license to operate, then used the money to hire two school teachers.

too much attention to one bundle of old clothing.

However, Mrs. Jackson finally got around to the bundle and opened it.

Out fell $4,000 in cash.

Further search turned up another $2,996 hidden in some trunks.

The money apparently was left by the late Mrs. Ollie Graham. It was turned over to the church.

Gave Up Fight To Weed-Contest

MENDHAM, N.J., (AP)—Gardeners in the Mendham Garden Club have just given up trying to fight nature.

Faced with a lush growing summer, they decided to hold a "biggest weed" contest.

The winner: A 15-foot tall wild lettuce weed grown by Miss Florence Colville.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
Methodist women of nine south-eastern states and Cuba have pledged a record $1,828,350 for missionary work at home and overseas during the next year. The sum is an increase of $136,395 over last year, it was announced by Mrs. B. R. Stout, Knoxville, Tenn., treasurer of the Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service in the denomination's Southeastern Jurisdiction.

A granddaughter of the famed explorer and missionary David Livingstone has given 10,000 pounds ($28,000) to finance the construction of a church for native Christians in Rhodesia. Miss D. Livingstone-Bruce is making possible a structure that will accommodate 1,000 persons inside, but will be expandable enough to allow 2,000 others to listen from the outside.

The Government of India has given a grant of $45,500 to Vellore Christian Medical College for the development of the radiology department for the treatment of cancer. This is expected to aid in building a radium ward with twenty women's and eight men's beds, a radium theater and three private rooms.

Two former Connecticut school teachers, Miss Lillian M. Mansfield and Miss Nina L. Hartin, of Hartford, will return to the classroom in the fall, but far from the familiar halls of the Farmington and Hartford high schools. They will spend the school year teaching at Pierce College in Athens, Greece, a mission school under the sponsorship of the Congregational Christian Churches. The Misses Hartin and Mansfield, in accordance with their own request, will share one teaching post, each having a half-time schedule. The careers of the two Hartford teachers have run parallel courses for many years. They were both graduated from Mount Holyoke College, received their master's degrees at Columbia University, taught in the same schools and applied themselves to summer graduate studies at leading colleges and universities in this country and abroad. Both have held numerous offices and been otherwise active in community and professional organizations of Hartford. Miss Mansfield also taught for a year at Kobe College, Kobe, Japan.

Other than for use in buildings, Vermont marble is also used in toothpaste, paint and rouge.
