Warehouse Ass'n Calls Sunday Session Will Consider Cut In Selling Hours

RALEIGH (AP)—The Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. has scheduled a tentative session here tomorrow to decide on a North Carolina Farm Bureau request to cut sales time on flue-cured tobacco markets.

The bureau's tobacco committee and board of directors, seeking a way to counter dropping prices, voted unanimously last night to request reduction in daily sales time from 5 1/2 hours to 4 hours on The South Carolina-Border North Carolina and Eastern North Carolina Belts, and from 5 1/2 to 4 1/2 hours on the North Carolina Middle Belt.

The cut would take effect next week. J. C. Eagles Jr., of Wilson, a member of the sales committee of the warehouse association said that the meeting date had been suggested by Fred Royster, president of the organization.

The move to cut sales time is designated to relieve crowded processing plants, a condition cited by the Farm Bureau as one reason for leaf price declines in the past week.

But Eagles, the association's Eastern Belt representative, said that he has heard no complaints regarding crowded processing plants. The special Farm Bureau meeting, called by President A. D. Williams of Wilson, asked farmers to do their part by slowing down marketing of tobacco for the next week or so.

block in redrying facilities of a few companies which have been buying large quantities of tobacco is "the generally accepted excuse offered to farmers for this price slump."

Some leaf prices, generally in top demand, have dropped $4 to $8 per hundred pounds in the past week, the meeting was told. Copies of the recommendations will be sent to buying companies along with a request for their cooperation.

General Manager L. T. Weeks of the Flue-Cured Stabilization Corp., which purchases leaf under the government price support program, said there is no congestion in redrying plants handling the corporation's tobacco. "We're in good shape," he said.

Through Thursday, he reported, the corporation had received about 85 million pounds of 1956 crop tobacco, slightly less than 14 per cent of gross sales to date.

Williams had cited crowded conditions of processing plants throughout the belt as a reason for the price decline. Tobacco must be processed soon after purchase and when volume is high, plants are unable to keep pace. Reductions in sales time to relieve the condition have been common in recent seasons.

Another factor in the price drop had been mentioned by Fred S. Royster of Henderson, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn. He pointed out that crop forecasts for Sept. 1 raised 1956 flue-cured production by 20 million pounds. Added to record stocks carried over from last season, the heavy supply had a depressing effect on prices, Royster suggested.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A triple-threat storm of wind, lightning and rain lashed at scattered sections of New England last night causing flash floods, disruption of power and thousands of dollars property damage.

The wind velocity was measured up to 73 miles an hour in Rhode Island and hail stones described as "big as acorns" fell in parts of Maine.

The Boston area had wind gusts measured at 80 miles an hour and sustained winds of up to 55 miles per hour. The rainfall in Boston was so heavy that in just three minutes it measured one-tenth of an inch.

Rushing winds sucked sections of ceiling from a new patient building at the Augusta, Me. State Hospital, a mental institution. A summer house on the grounds was smashed to pieces and several hospital windows were broken. No one was injured.

Western Maine apple growers sued thousands they said would run into thousands of dollars. Two cattle tents were blown down at the Norway, Me., fairgrounds, which an eyewitness said was left "looking like a lake."

Bloodmobile To Visit Greenville On Wednesday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will return to Greenville Wednesday with a quota of 110 pints for Pitt County.

Blood will be collected by trained Red Cross personnel at the Moose Lodge from noon until 6 p.m. Registration for donations are being accepted by Mrs. Welter Taylor, Executive Secretary of the Pitt County Chapter, at local Red Cross headquarters in the City Hall.

Mrs. Taylor pointed out that the blood collected during the visit Wednesday will be for local use only and will not be forwarded to Armed Forces hospitals. She added that during the last fiscal year the local chapter distributed 1,221 pints of blood free of charge despite donations of only 851 pints. The service cost the local chapter $4,910 and recipients of the blood had to pay only physicians' fees for administering the transfusions.

Mrs. Taylor also said the Pitt Memorial Hospital blood bank is stocked with fresh blood from the Tidewater Regional Blood Center in Norfolk, Va. Blood which is not used at the hospital is returned to the center for conversion into plasma and other blood derivatives for combating disease.

Dr. John L. Watters, Greenville chairman for the blood program added that recipients of the blood receive free transfusions because the blood is donated voluntarily. The Red Cross assumes all costs of collecting, processing and readying the donations for transfusions.

Persons interested in participating in the program can register by calling Mrs. Taylor at 4222, appearing at Red Cross headquarters in the City Hall or by going to the Moose Lodge Wednesday.

COURTLAND, Va. (AP)—A baby-faced Ft. Bragg, N.C., soldier who claims he's 14 years old received a preliminary hearing here yesterday in Juvenile Court on auto theft charges.

No results of the hearing held in the chambers of Judge Richard E. Railey were announced. Railey said only that he had received a report from the Department of Public Welfare of Southampton County regarding Richard Gray after inquiries in Gray's hometown of Framingham, Mass.

Gray told officers he had been in the Army two years but Sheriff T. B. Bell said the time was four months. The charges against Gray stem from a wild escapade last month that took Gray from Ft. Bragg into southern Virginia.

The sheriff quoted Gray as saying he took a jeep from Ft. Bragg in which he started his wild trip, wrecking it near Capron in Southampton County.

Sheriff Bell said that Mrs. D. C. Bell took the boy to her home to feed him after the wreck but that Gray fled in Mrs. Bell's automobile, wrecking the car near wooded area following a high speed chase with officers.

Revised Tax Structure To Be Offered To Legislators

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Changes in state tax laws to present a more "attractive and competitive" picture to new industry will be recommended to the 1957 Legislature.

The proposals for "a revision and a revamping" of much of the North Carolina Revenue Act will come from a Tax Study Commission set up by the last Legislature, Gov. Hodges said last night.

The governor spoke at the annual convention of the National Assn. of State Budget Officers. Hodges said the state's tax structure, little changed since the '30s, "may have sufficed when we had very little contest between states and regions for expansion or for new industries looking for new locations."

Now, he added, North Carolina is making efforts "to join our sister states in having a more effective tax structure which will in the long run produce more money, even though at the beginning (it) will doubtless bring in less revenue."

"We can hope for more taxpayers only when our tax structure is attractive and competitive," Gov. Hodges asserted. The state study commission, headed by former State Treasurer Brandon Hodges of Asheville, has worked "diligently" on the recommendations for the next Legislature, Hodges said.

The governor mentioned specifically the income tax on corporations, the state income tax for both individuals and corporations, and the sales tax. "The income tax on corporations, with particular reference to the allocation formula, is being studied, to reflect modern practice in the consideration of various elements," he said.

The state income tax will be related to the federal income tax, "not to embrace completely the federal provisions, but to make the tax more palatable by making our provisions more equitable and feasible," he explained. The sales tax "is encumbered by accumulated rulings by different administrative officials through the years," Hodges said. "It needs revision and modernizing through rewriting and recodifying," he added.

To make state budgeting do its job better, Hodges said, "there is a definite need for improving and simplifying organization" of state government. He also noted a "constant need" for better revenue estimating and "a better job of programming our services."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia remained deadlocked over disarmament today after a new Soviet turnaround of President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan.

The latest Russian rejection of the 14-month-old proposal came in a letter from Premier Bulganin to Eisenhower. The letter was delivered Thursday and its contents were made public yesterday.

Bulganin criticized the Eisenhower plan as designed to obtain "more complete intelligence data" about Soviet resources, and countered with a restatement of Russian proposals for outlawing nuclear tests.

Still Deadlocked On Disarmament

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Russia remained deadlocked over disarmament today after a new Soviet turnaround of President Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan.

The latest Russian rejection of the 14-month-old proposal came in a letter from Premier Bulganin to Eisenhower. The letter was delivered Thursday and its contents were made public yesterday.

Bulganin criticized the Eisenhower plan as designed to obtain "more complete intelligence data" about Soviet resources, and countered with a restatement of Russian proposals for outlawing nuclear tests.

The Bulganin letter was dated Sept. 11—just one day after the Russians set off their own latest reported nuclear test in Central Asia.

The Soviet Premier was replying to an Eisenhower letter of Aug. 4. In that letter, the President said he regretted that so "little progress" had been made in disarmament talks with the Russians. Eisenhower pushed his "open skies" plan, and urged the Soviet Union to take some firm steps toward unraveling critical international problems.

In his reply, Bulganin said that whenever Russia made a concession in the disarmament talks, the Western powers "invariably retracted their own proposals" to prevent agreement.

The Soviet leader said the open skies plan would "increase the mutual fear of the danger of a sudden attack and would engender a war psychosis."

On the other hand, Bulganin said an outright ban on nuclear tests would be "the first important step toward the unconditional prohibition" of atomic and hydrogen weapons of mass destruction.

Bulganin also said the time has come for an agreement to limit the armed forces of Russia, the United States and Red China to 2 1/2 million men each, and those of Britain and France to 750,000 men each.

Eisenhower had spoken in his letter about promises, notably about reunification of Germany, which he said "desperately need to be fulfilled."

Bulganin denounced what he called "remilitarization" in West Germany, an ally of the United States, and said there has been "suppression of the elementary democratic rights and freedoms" of the West Germans.

Traffic On Canal Not Yet Snarled

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Nasser today called the new West-ern plan for running the Suez Canal "a declaration of war." He charged Britain and France were trying to obstruct navigation in the canal, but said their efforts had failed.

Nasser took his adamant stand in a fiery speech two days after Secretary of State Dulles urged Egypt to reconsider its opposition to the international users proposal of the United States, France and Britain.

At the same time, Nasser proclaimed victory over what he termed a French and British conspiracy to snarl canal operations today, the first day that Egypt shouldered the task of running the canal.

Nasser charged France and Britain put pressure on employees of the old Suez Canal Co. to quit, then sent a larger number of ships than usual through the canal, "to complete their conspiracy of obstructing navigation."

But Nasser said 70 Egyptian and Greek pilots were keeping traffic moving smoothly. He said nothing about a token force of Soviet pilots rushed in by Moscow. More than 400 veteran foreign pilots, engineers and technicians quit last night.

They said they were unwilling to work for the Egyptian Canal Authority set up after Nasser nationalized the old canal company properties July 26.

In a speech at Silbels Air Force College north of Cairo, Nasser said the aim of the West's plan "is not peace but war and aggression against the small countries."

Nasser declared he found the U. S. attitude puzzling. He said a peaceful solution but U. S. State Department officials said they were unwilling to work for the Egyptian Canal Authority set up after Nasser nationalized the old canal company properties July 26.

President Eisenhower advocated Department support of the international plan "means the Egyptian help Britain provoke the Egyptian people into a clash with Britain."

Nasser said Britain and France "conspire against their own interests . . . to prove to the world Egypt's inability to run the canal so they must come in and run it themselves."

He said the Egyptian and Greek pilots "courageously resisted all incentives to leave." He announced he was awarding them the medal of merit.

"Today we win in the battle of conspiracy," Nasser said. "The conspirators lose with their aims of international chaos."

Nasser declared England and France had threatened force against Egypt and proclaimed: "An attack on Egypt is an attack on all Arabs."

"We will fight anyone who attacks Egypt. We will wage a bitter, long, and hard war of defense to defend Egypt against attack."

In the waltz of canal employees were about 100 foreign ship pilots. For the first time in Suez history that left the job of getting ships through the Hazardous, 103-mile waterway strictly up to the Egyptians and the few foreign pilots staying on.

LONDON (AP)—The Western Big Three today rushed to get their Suez Canal users plan in operation within two weeks in the face of President Nasser's statement it was a declaration of war.

Benign leaving for Paris, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd announced the Big Three sent invitations to the 15 other nations supporting international control to meet in London Wednesday. U. S. Secretary of State Dulles is flying here Monday to help prepare for the meeting.

Moscow radio announced Russia had accepted Nasser's invitation of 10 days ago for a rival conference. This meeting will seek a peaceful solution of the crisis by setting up an international negotiating group.

No date has been set for this conference. The Egyptian Middle East agency said 20 nations, including India as well as Russia, had agreed to participate. V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian Prime Minister Nehru's trouble-shooter, will be flying to Cairo tomorrow.

The Big Three's invitation to next week's meeting said Egypt's suggestion for a Suez conference would be among the questions to be considered.

'Triple Threat' Storm Strikes New England

Wind-felled trees tore down power lines in many New England communities, leaving thousands without electricity or telephone service for varying periods.

Police Chief F. J. Mazza of Danbury, Conn., estimated some 30 streets were blocked by fallen trees and dangling wires. Several planes were wrecked by the high winds at the Danbury airport. Eyewitnesses said grounded planes were tossed around like toys.

Loss of telephone and electric service was reported in parts of Massachusetts, Connecticut Rhode Island and Maine.

There was mared thunderstorm activity in the Upper and Central Mississippi Valley, with hail in some locations.

Cool air covered the area from the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley eastward through the Ohio Valley, the lower Great Lakes and North Atlantic Coast states.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—North Carolina Young Democratic Clubs announced here yesterday that Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) has accepted an invitation to speak Oct. 5 during the state convention.

Henry Hall Wilson Jr. of Monroe, state YDC president, said, "We are very pleased and happy to announce that Sen. Kennedy will be the principal speaker. He is one of the most promising young Democrats in the country."

Wilson said that Adlai Stevenson had been asked to speak "but his crowded schedule would not permit the visit."

Hearing For 'Baby-Face'

COURTLAND, Va. (AP)—A baby-faced Ft. Bragg, N.C., soldier who claims he's 14 years old received a preliminary hearing here yesterday in Juvenile Court on auto theft charges.

Sheriff Bell said Gray is charged with breaking and entering and auto theft in Surry County.

Somebody Stole 10 Deadly Tubes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Police today sought 10 stolen glass tubes containing a chemical powder they say could give anyone exposed to it a lethal dose of radio-active poisoning.

Investigator Tony Mr. in said yesterday the tubes were taken from the Southwest Products Inc., which makes precision instruments.

He said there would be no danger if seals on the tubes remain unbroken. He said some young boys were believed to have taken the tubes, which have no commercial value.

Police searched the area with Geiger counters. Radio stations broadcast warnings to the thieves not to break the seals.

Such a party, he said, would at least pull the two major parties back toward what he called the "moral" right. Previous third parties, he said, have "all been leftist pinko," pulling the major parties to the left.

Will Write A Platform

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The National States Rights Conference turned to platform and candidate proposals today after roaring approval last night to their keynote call for a new party of the "political and moral right."

Stated for formal endorsement by the 317 delegates from a dozen splinter parties in 25 states were T. Coleman Andrews for president and T. H. Werdel for vice president. The three-day conference closes today.

Andrews, from Richmond, Va., is a Democrat and former commissioner of internal revenue who thinks the income tax should be abolished. Werdel, of Bakersfield, Calif., is a former GOP representative.

Another Clarence E. Manion of South Bend, Ind., former dean of Notre Dame's Law School, attacked both the Democratic and Republican parties vigorously last night in plumping for a rightwing party.

Such a party, he said, would at least pull the two major parties back toward what he called the "moral" right. Previous third parties, he said, have "all been leftist pinko," pulling the major parties to the left.

"We will fill the 'moral' right this fall," he said. "We are going to make history here tonight."

Offers Of Help Reaching Hero

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Charles (Commando) Kelly, winner of the nation's highest military honor for his heroism in World War II, today is looking for a job and a way out of his financial troubles.

And the 35-year-old Medal of Honor holder said he is "overwhelmed" by offers of help that have come from friends and others who have heard of his difficulties.

Kelly's bills began mounting after an operation for appendicitis last Aug. 5. Peritonitis set in and doctors told Kelly he would have to take it easy, at least until October.

A Louisville radio station, WKLO, announced yesterday it will hold a benefit program in Kelly's behalf next Thursday night.

Kelly, seated in the modest government project where he lives with his wife and six children, said he was not seeking "charity" but only a way to earn a living.

A slim, dark-haired man with a perpetual grin, Kelly won the Medal of Honor for single-handedly holding off a German advance in Italy in 1943, killing 40 of the enemy.

At Pittsburg, Pa., Kelly's hometown, Allegheny County Commissioner John M. Walker proposed that Kelly be put on the county payroll. Walker said the proposal was discussed with the two other commissioners and it was decided to ask the Federation of War Veterans for advice.

However, Kelly, who has worked at construction projects here and at nearby Frankfort, Ky., said he "probably" would stay in Louisville.

Jordan Charges New Israeli Raid

JERUSALEM (AP)—U.N. observer teams made an on-the-spot investigation of the latest Jordan-Israeli clash today in effort to stamp out a rash of incidents that threatened to upset cease-fire agreements obtained by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold five months ago.

Reporting the second serious outbreak in three days, a Jordan military spokesman charged that an Israeli force of 1,000 men wiped out the Jordan police post of Gharandal, 12 miles inside Jordan, in a dusk-to-midnight battle Thursday night.

The Israeli armored force was alleged to have used three bombing planes to attack the post with explosive and incendiary bombs.

The Jordan spokesman listed 10 killed, four wounded and four missing. Three of the dead were described as civilians, the rest as police and National Guardsmen.

Earlier, Jordan sources had listed 21 of their soldiers as killed. Israeli spokesmen declined to confirm or deny the Jordan report. But Israeli broadcasts heard in Amman, the Jordan capital, said Gharandal had been attacked in reprisal for the killing of three Israeli Druze tribesmen Wednesday. Jordan infiltrators were blamed by Israel for the killings.

Wealthy Kidnap Victim Says Buried Alive By Two Women

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Wealthy Mrs. Ruth Evelyn Latham, 51, was quoted by police today as saying she was conscious when buried alive and naked by kidnapers.

"I was watching you," they said she told one of two women she has identified as the alleged kidnapers.

"When I was lying there and you were pulling those rocks on me, you thought I was out but I wasn't."

She said she also pleaded with one of the women, Mrs. Beatrice Winn, 57, a former business associate: "Bea, why are you doing this to me?"

The other woman, Mrs. Lucille Whisenand, 36, was identified by Mrs. Latham at the El Centro Hospital, where she is recovering.

Mrs. Whisenand, a U.S. Customs Service clerk of Mexican birth, was brought back to the San Diego city jail, where she and Mrs. Winn are booked on charges of suspicion of kidnaping and attempted murder. Bail of $50,000 was set for each.

Both said they were innocent, and that they themselves had been kidnaped Wednesday by three men and a woman who had talked about getting money from the Lathams.

Police said there was still no clear motive, other than court litigation between Mrs. Latham and Mrs. Winn over their interests in a defunct building supply company.

They said Mrs. Latham, wife of a San Diego investment broker, George Latham, related she was forced by the kidnapers to write several checks against corporations of which she is an official.

She struggled free during Wednesday night and staggered and crawled five miles across the desert to Highway 80, 19 miles west of El Centro. She was sighted by a motorist as she crouched behind a brush.

Remove Puzzles, Return Papers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Some people have been going to Great lengths to save a few pennies, the Daily Oklahoman observes.

HOSTAGE by ARCHIE JOSELYN

CHAPTER 33
Dolf Kinney pushed his cayuse hard across the miles. The night was clear, the air brisk, and anger and outrage spurred him.

Wiry and tireless as an Indian pony is, his horse was close to dropping in its tracks when he rode into the camp shortly after sunset, and Oates, seeing the urgency with which he had ridden, advanced to where Man Walks Alone was already going to meet him.

"What do you mean by taking my woman as a prisoner, and holding her as a hostage?" he demanded. "It is not good."

He could see, impassive as the chief tried to appear, that Man Walks Alone was uneasy. "It was a mistake," the chief replied. "It was the sister of the major we thought to capture."

"I understand," he agreed. "It was this traitor who got you off on the wrong track. He stole rifles from me and delivered them to you as from himself. There is no room for a man who double-crosses his friends."

"That sounds good, comin' from you, Kinney," Oates retorted boldly. "You hired me to work for you, promised to stand behind me if I was caught, and then, when I was, told me to make a try at escape, that you had it all fixed. And you did—get me killed."

"Not giving Kinney time to reply, he swung to the chief. "I have two things to ask you about," he said. "Two matters which you will do well to consider. The first concerns leading your braves on the warpath. Kinney has been giving you guns, telling you that there would be war against the whites. But who is this war to be fought for—for you, or for him? You would kill off the settlers, those who have land that Kinney wants for himself. But what would happen then when the soldiers came after you? Who would profit? He aims to get that land, to grow rich, and he has no care that you would clear the land of the settlers who would then be cleared from it by the soldiers."

"Man Walks Alone knows better than that," Kinney retorted, stung to the truth by the shrewdness of Oates' guess. "He knows that I have given him guns, but have withheld ammunition from the soldiers."

"For as long, and only as long, as he wants," Oates cut in. "Even if he did lick a few of them, Chief, he'd work it to make us lose in the long run, if it was left to him. And I'll tell you why. Because he is a renegade both to the whites and to the red men. He is no friend to the Indian, and he never has been."

"Man Walks Alone knows who had been his friend," Kinney retorted, with more confidence than he felt. "He will know how to deal with this renegade of the forked tongue."

"I said that I had two things to tell you, Chief," Oates went on. "That was one. The other is even worse. You wear a blanket which was given to you by this man who claims to be your friend." He pointed dramatically. "You will remember that this white medicine man took an interest in that blanket one day?"

Man Walks Alone gave no reply, but his eyes showed his interest.

"An Indian, Plenty Horses, died a few days ago," Oates added. "He died from the white man's plague, the smallpox. You know what it is. That had been his blanket while he was sick. And that is the gift which this man, who claims to be your friend, gives you. If you doubt me, ask the doctor—or wait only a few more days until the plague runs from the blanket and like a wildfire among your people, sparing neither young nor old, man or woman!"

The moon was growing old, and its light was on the wane. The usual midnight chorus of coyote voices lifted from the prairie's rim beyond the stockade; a night bird coasted on silent wings. Bill McKinstry, leading the way, checked suddenly in the shadows, then swore softly in sheer amazement. "Helen!" he exclaimed. "What are you doing here — at this hour?"

"Hello, Bill," she retorted, glancing brightly from one to the other. "It's a good question, and could work both ways. How are you? It must be the moon, what there is of it. Or do I sniff conspiracy?"

POINT OF NO RETURN!

More intently than ever the pilot now watches his dials, cocking a sensitive ear to the motors' rhythm. He has reached the point of no return. He dare not turn back. Years of research by scores of scientists have perfected his plane. Hours upon hours have been spent in readying it for the journey. If something goes wrong now, the pilot will know instinctively what to do, because of his long years of training. Like the pilot, you try to prepare for emergencies. You realize that without training beforehand, it is impossible to meet a crisis wisely and adequately. The spiritual knowledge you'll need for these times can be found in the Church. Through its guidance you will learn to meet everyday problems with serenity, and emergencies with confidence. Begin right now to strengthen your spiritual reserves of courage, faith, and hope. TODAY is your point of no return.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The King's Daughters Have State President As Guest

Mrs. Thomas W. Young of Durham, president of the North Carolina Branch of The King's Daughters and Sons, was guest of The Patient Circle of Greenville Tuesday night at their first fall meeting. Mrs. Van C. Fleming was hostess at her home on Second Street.

The president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, opened the meeting with the Prayer of the Order.

Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell presented to the group the Rev. Malloy Owen, pastor of St. James Methodist Church of Greenville, who gave an inspirational message in which he challenged each King's Daughter to stand fast in upholding the teachings of God as found in the Holy Bible.

Mrs. Bowen, president of the local circle, extended greetings to the members present and then introduced Mrs. Thomas W. Young to the group.

A brief business session followed. Summer activities were reported and the group was brought up to date with the work of the Order, locally and state-wide.

An urgent plea was made for more members to volunteer for duty every other Sunday for the Ground Observers Corps.

Mrs. Bowen called attention to the sixty-sixth State Convention which will convene in Wilmington October 2, 3, 4. She urged as many as could to attend.

Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell, R. C. Henry, J. B. Smith, V. C. Fleming and C. A. Bowen were elected as delegates from the Patient Circle.

Following the business session, Mrs. Young gave the highlights of her trip to Des Moines, Iowa in May, when she, together with Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell and two other members from the North Carolina Branch, attended the General Convention of the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons.

She spoke of the devotions given throughout the Convention as being outstanding. They are to be published in The Silver Cross, the official organ of the Order.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Fleming were Mesdames H. T. Smith, J. B. White, J. E. Nobles, E. L. Baker, Martin Swartz and M. J. Moyer.

Moose Women Plan Shower For Student Nurse

Women of the Moose Chapter No. 1308 held its regular meeting Thursday night at the Moose Temple with Senior Regent Louise Carrigan presiding.

Minutes of the chapter and executive board were read by Recorder Mrs. Isabelle Falsey and approved by the chapter.

Two new members were admitted into the defending circle. They were Mrs. Gertrude M. Barbour and Mrs. Barbara Grimsley.

Mrs. H. H. Gratis gave a report on the Student Nurse Project and it was decided that the chapter give the student a shower at the next meeting.

Mrs. S. L. Rowland, chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee, gave a report on the work and aims of her committee.

The chapter also approved a recommendation to aid financially in the Greenville Boosters Club.

After all further business the meeting adjourned in ritualistic form to meet again Sept. 27 at 8 p. m.

Refreshments were served by the publicity committee.

Immanuel Baptist Announcements

About 90 people of the Immanuel Baptist Church will be making a religious survey of the eastern half of Greenville from tomorrow afternoon through the next few days. The cooperation of the residents of the city in this endeavor will be greatly appreciated.

Within the next few years the church will relocate in the Elmhurst residential area, and there is the urgent need of discovering the Baptist potential for the church. A census has never been taken in some of the new residential developments.

Four people united with Immanuel Baptist Church last Sunday. Gordon and Burt Aycock, sons of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Aycock, made their public profession of faith in Jesus Christ. Miss Carol Lee of Gastonia came under the watchcare of the church, and Miss Jo Allen Brown joined with the promise of her letter from Winter Park Baptist Church, Wilmington.

At the service tomorrow night the congregation will be called into business session. Officers and teachers for the next year will be elected, and the financial budget will be adopted.

With the close of the vacation season, interest is greatly revived in activities at Immanuel Church. There were 376 people in Sunday School last Sunday, with some increase over that for the worship service. The return of college students and families of faculty members has boosted the attendance decidedly.

Double services are held each Sunday morning. While the regular services are in progress at the church on Eighth Street, a double service "in reverse" is in progress at Elmhurst Elementary School. The pastor, Rev. Irby Jackson, preaches there each Sunday morning at 9:30, and Sunday School begins at 10:30. Mr. Leonard Bloom is the superintendent of this branch Sunday School of Immanuel Church.

A cordial welcome awaits the public to any of the services at Immanuel Baptist Church.

Piney Grove Baptist Church was filled to capacity with members and visitors last Sunday morning in observance of Homecoming Day.

Address of welcome was given by the Rev. Clarence Little of the home church congregation.

Flowers for the church were given by Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Dickerson, in memory of their son Dallas.

There were 195 present for Sunday School.

Col. Raborg Honored At Coffee Hour

The Pitt County Medical Auxiliary honored Col. W. A. Raborg at a coffee hour Thursday morning in the art gallery at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Colonel Raborg's water colors have been on exhibition at the city gallery for three days ending today.

Sharing honors were Mrs. Raborg and Mrs. John L. Watters, their daughter, in whose home they are visiting.

Mrs. A. M. Mumford, president of the county auxiliary, received at the door of the gallery. Standing with the honored guests in the receiving line was Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, first vice president of the East Carolina Art Society which is sponsoring the show.

Taking a decorative cue from his paintings, the hostesses used a Mexican motif. The Mexican pottery and wooden bowls provided a colorful setting against the dark green cloth on the refreshment table. The center arrangement was of yellow chrysanthemums and Mexican fruit.

Mrs. D. L. Moore and Mrs. E. W. Larkin Jr. poured coffee. Assisting in serving party accompaniments were Mrs. Howard H. Gradis, Mrs. Stephen Bartlett and Mrs. Ray Minges.

Auxiliary members served as hostesses throughout the gallery.

The price this season is about $1.00 per hundred above that of the same period last season. The four sets of buyers on the local market this season have made it possible for the market to stay caught up despite the large increase in the sales over former seasons.

Try English Muffins On Griddle

COOK'S PRIDE... homemade English muffins baked on a griddle.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
TURN OUT A BATCH OF ENGLISH MUFFINS in your own kitchen and you'll swell with pride. When we baked these muffins recently, we couldn't resist eating some of them hot off the griddle. Slathered with butter and homemade preserves, they were mighty satisfying.

When you split these muffins, do so with a fork—using the angel-food cake technique. You spoil their texture if you cut them with a knife.

These muffins are a little richer and more tender than store-bought English muffins. One reason for this is the difference in the flour used commercially and that used in home kitchens.

Know your griddle when you bake these muffins. If it is too hot, the crusts may have a wrinkled look. Wrinkling also results if the dough has stood too long and become over-fermented.

When you cut out the muffins, leave as little space as possible between rounds. Then pull the bits of leftover dough together and pat or roll out again and cut. If you knead the scraps together, the cornmeal on the bottom of the dough will work itself into the muffins proper.

ENGLISH MUFFINS
Ingredients: 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, 1 cup warm (110 to 115 degrees) water, 1 package active dry yeast, 6 cups sifted flour, white of yellow cornmeal.
Method: Scald milk by heating in the top of a double boiler over simmering water until a film appears over the top of the milk. Stir in sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Put warm water into a large bowl; sprinkle in yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Add about half of the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush with a little extra melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in a warm place (free from draft) until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour. Punch down dough; divide in half. Sprinkle a board heavily with cornmeal; roll out one-half of the dough on the cornmeal-sprinkled board so it is about 1/4 inch thick. Cut out rounds with a 3-inch cookie cutter. Roll out and cut the other piece of dough the same way. Cover. Let out-muffins rest on board about 30 minutes. Place on slightly greased medium-hot griddle, cornmeal coated side down. Bake until bottom is well browned, about 15 minutes; turn and bake other side about 15 minutes longer. If possible, use 2 large griddles so most of the muffins can be baked at one time.
Note: If desired, a cake of compressed yeast may be substituted for the package of active dry yeast called for in the recipe. Use lukewarm (80 to 85 degrees) water for softening the compressed yeast.

Salk Shot Program Not Finished

Pitt County has come a long way with its polio vaccine program since the summer polio epidemic spurred local citizens to action.

Pitt still has a long way to go, however, before its young people will have the protection from the disease they should have.

Before the summer epidemic response to appeals for children to be vaccinated against the disease had been spasmodic at best. There was an apparent lack of interest on the part of parents which resulted in the children not receiving their shots. The percentage of children who had received Salk vaccine at the end of the school year was considerably lower than health officials had hoped for.

Then the crippling disease made its appearance in the county. In quick succession it claimed victims in various parts of the county. The response to Health Department clinics for the vaccine was spontaneous. Since July the Health Department has been operating special clinics to administer the vaccine. There has been a steady flow of children through the clinics and so far there is no indication that interest has lagged for in the clinics last week a record number of shots were given for a single day.

Some 23,000 youngsters in the county have received the first of the series of three shots of the vaccine. Only half that many have received their second in the series of shots and little more than 2,000 have completed the full series of three shots.

It should not take another polio epidemic in Pitt to spur parents into seeing that their children complete their series of shots. The scare which we had this summer should be sufficient to make clear the importance of youngsters gaining as much immunity as possible against the disease.

Clear Statement Of U. S. Foreign Policy

Assertion by Secretary of State Dulles that the United States does not intend to shoot its way through the Suez canal is about the clearest statement of American foreign policy we have heard in a long time.

It should serve as fair notice to the British, French and to Nasser that this nation does not think war is necessary to resolve the differences over Suez. While the statement in some circles may be viewed as one of appeasement, it should go a long way toward opening the path to settling the issue through negotiation. It likewise places the blame for any shooting which may occur on shoulders other than those of the United States.

This nation's backing of the proposed users' association and its assertion that it will give financial aid to nations which cannot afford for its ships to round the Cape of Good Hope if passage through the canal is block by Egyptian action makes it clear that the United States is firm in its stand for some sort of international control over the vital waterway.

In effect this two-fold announcement by the Secretary of State sets out a program of economic pressures which the United States expects to put into use to prevent one-man control of the vital international waterway by Gen. Nasser. At the same time it makes clear this nation's position that the matter can be settled short of open conflict.

The announced position of the United States should influence both Britain and France and Egypt, principals in the dispute, for find common ground for a solution to the Suez situation at a conference table.

The People Involved Are Continuing Effort

If the Interstate Commerce Commission is steadfast in its refusal to allow Southern Railway to take over the Atlantic and East Carolina Railway, it will not be the fault of cities, towns and counties along the 90-mile run of the small line.

These local government units have formed an organization whose primary objective is to obtain approval for Southern to acquire the A. and E. C. Like most of North Carolina, the communities along the 90-mile route of the A. and E. C. were surprised and shocked when the ICC asserted it was not in the best interest of the public for Southern to acquire the railroad. Now, the communities along the A. and E. C. have decided to continue their efforts to gain approval for Southern's petition.

For more than two years much of North Carolina has looked forward to the industrial and economic growth which would have resulted from the A. and E. C. becoming a part of the Southern trunk system and opening a rail path from the Tar Heel coast to centers beyond the mountains. Particularly has this been true of the communities along the A. and E. C.

The Reflector commends these communities for joining hands in an effort to obtain from the ICC an agreement which will be a major economic boost to the area. We might suggest there are other communities in this section of North Carolina, not on the Atlantic and East Carolina line, which have a keen interest in Southern acquiring the railroad and would like to become at least associate members in the organization which will seek to gain approval for Southern's acquisition of the 90-mile route.

September 24 has been set as the tentative date on which special clinics will be conducted in Pitt County schools to administer Salk vaccine to children. It will afford an opportunity for those youngsters which have not received any shots to begin their series of inoculations, and it will likewise give others an opportunity to complete the series.

More than 20,000 letters have been sent to parents by the Health Department calling attention to these school clinics. Every parent in the county should make sure that his child takes advantage of the clinics to complete the series of vaccinations against the dreaded disease. He can do so by giving his permission for his child to receive the shots at school clinics.

Pitt has made a great deal of progress toward immunizing its youngsters against polio in the past two months. But more needs to be done before we can be sure that all the children of the county have completed the full series of shots. And that should be the goal for the county.

Big Year Ahead For Va. And N. Carolina

By LYNN NISBET

BIG YEAR — Next year, 1957, will be a big year for Virginia and North Carolina. Governor Thomas B. Stanley is chairman of the National Conference of Governors and Governor Hodges was this week elected chairman of the Southern Conference.

The National Conference will meet at Williamsburg, with Jamestown and Yorktown included in the host group. An important feature is a planned side trip to Roanoke Island, Kill Devil Hills and the Hatteras Seashore National Park Recreation area.

There is a reason and an interesting story back of the plans for this meeting of Governors. Next year will mark the 350th anniversary of the establishment of the first permanent English colony in North America at Jamestown. Nearby Williamsburg was the colonial capital of Virginia, where George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, James Madison and others laid the groundwork for the independence of the American colonies from Great Britain.

Yorktown, just a few miles to the east, was the scene of the surrender of the British armies under Lord Cornwallis which ended the Revolutionary War and confirmed the fact that a new nation was being born.

Roanoke Island was the site of the first real attempt of the English to establish a colony in North America. The scene of history and legend involved the fate of that "Lost Colony." Kill Devil Hills is the proven site of the first flight by heavier than air craft, the recognized birthplace of aviation. Hatteras Seashore National Park Recreation Area is the only thing of its kind in the country.

Jamestown, Williamsburg, Yorktown, Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island, Kill Devil Hills and Hatteras Seashore all have been recognized by the Federal Government for their part in the progress of America.

So much for the reason, historical and sentimental, for choosing the area as the meeting place of the National Governors Conference in 1957. Now for a bit of the current story about it.

MANEUVERING — The hand and voice of the late Governor William B. Umstead of North Carolina was highly influential, if not conclusive, in bringing about the developments. At the Governors conference at Lake George, New York, in 1954 there was a lot of sentiment for Governor Umstead as a member of the executive committee. He actively sought a place on the nominating committee instead, so that he could work for Governor Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia to go on the executive group, thus putting him in line for the chairmanship in 1956.

Governor Umstead had favorites for chairmanship that year, but lost because of dominance of Republicans and Eisenhower Democrats on the committee. He did get Stanley on the executive board, and his plan was carried out with election of Governor

Other Editors Are Saying... Who Will Be Appointed?

(Wilson Times) Much speculation is now going on as to who will get the Supreme court appointment, vacated by Associate Justice Sherman Minton. The appointment will be the third for President Eisenhower. And if it carries a political flavor it will only add fuel to the controversy that has enveloped the court recently.

Senator Sam Erwin, of North Carolina, has some timely suggestions as to the qualifications of a Supreme court judge. He points out the lack of judicial experience of the men now holding appointments on the Supreme court bench.

There is a definite need for the strengthening of respect and support of the highest tribunal in the eyes of the citizens of this country. The last session of Congress saw 70 bills of one type or another introduced into Congress to "improve" or "restrict" the court.

One requirement offered was that to qualify for appointment you must have had five years of judicial experience before you could qualify. If this law were passed Justice Minton would be the only judge who could sit on the present Supreme court bench. And it would have excluded such jurists as John Marshall, Charles E. Hughes and Justice Brandeis.

But there is no doubt in the minds of the public but what the present court is more political than judicial. It is criticized by all segments of the population,

Stanley as chairman at the recent Atlantic City conference, and selection of Williamsburg as meeting place for the conference in 1957.

In the interim Governor Umstead had died, but Governor Hodges gave enthusiastic support to the program and at Atlantic City contributed substantially to the election of Stanley as chairman and for the Virginia-Carolina meeting next year. Virginia will be the primary host, but the North Carolina Legislature will probably be asked to appropriate a few thousand dollars for entertainment of the Governors on occasion of their visit to the real birthplace of English civilization in the New World and the beginning of human flight through the air. Ready response is likely because of Governor Hodges' position as chairman of the Southern Conference.

GUEST — Plans are in the making to invite Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain to attend the conference and to visit the section that for some 200 years played such an important role in the history of English speaking peoples.

SIGNIFICANT — Democrats around capital square and state party headquarters at the Sir Walter were highly pleased at outcome of the Maine election. Many of them, however, attached more significance to results of nominating primaries in other states, especially in Wisconsin.

The old cliché that "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," has been proven false many times in recent years. When all the discontent is figured, Democrats are still happy that their party in Maine reelected a Governor and captured a seat in Congress for the first time in a generation. They think it augurs well for national chances in November.

At the same time, they realize that local conditions and issues, that great personal popularity of Governor Muskie and the price of potatoes probably had as much influence in Maine as did national issues or party lines.

More significant, in opinion of many local Democrats, was the victory of Senator Wiley in the Wisconsin Republican primary. While President Eisenhower declined to inject his name in that race, it is well known that the state Republican organization composed mainly of Eisenhower partisans opposed Wiley. The fact that the President refused to go to bat for a Senator who had stood by him on nearly all foreign and a majority of domestic issues, was cited by Wiley opponents as evidence Eisenhower did not want him renominated. In fact of that, the rank and file of Republican voters gave their vote to Wiley.

In Colorado the Democrats turned down Charles F. Brannon for the United States Senate. As Secretary of Agriculture in the Truman cabinet Brannon promulgated the flexible party plan and made the main point in the Eisenhower administration farm program.

Strange But True

By JIMMY ELLIS

Meat And Potatoes For All

The growing pains of East Carolina College are a familiar story all over the state.

Dr. John D. Messick and other college officials—and the students, too—have done a good job of presenting the school's needs to persons throughout North Carolina. They aren't just whistling "Dixie" up a wind pipe, either. The school needs help and it needs it right now.

East Carolina particularly needs more dormitory space. Perhaps more than that, however, it needs additional classrooms. Dr. Messick has asked, begged, prayed and otherwise gone before the state's money men with the problem. He might get it next year when the legislature meets. With the state treasury holding a big balance, the college may get everything it asks for in the way of permanent improvements—including classrooms—if the legislature reverses its form and considers ECC and the state's other "small" colleges in the same manner it considers the "Big Three" of Carolina, State, and the Woman's College.

The per capita appropriations for the Big Three are many dollars ahead of those for East Carolina, Western Carolina, Appalachian and the other "red-headed stepchildren" in the state's educational system. It would be ridiculous for anybody to say that the Big Three get everything they want. They don't. But when the final figures are released every two years they certainly get more on a per capita basis than the others.

This whole problem was brought back to active thought last weekend on a trip to Chapel Hill. Alvin Taylor and I went there for a conference held on the University campus.

One of the sessions was held in the auditorium of one of the Commerce School's buildings. The building is new, constructed in the last four or five years. I believe. It's a good classroom building... and comfortable. The little auditorium was air-conditioned.

That room had six air-conditioning units in it. Every one was of a different color and looked very nice. But it was a funny feeling that ran through me when I considered how one of the state's schools could have air-conditioning when some of the others—like East Carolina, for instance—has a hard time getting enough classrooms.

The situation reminded me of the old story about the boarding house matron who told one boarder there was not enough for him while giving another a big plate of dessert.

Seems to me that the state should provide meat and potatoes for all its offspring before loading one up with lemon meringue pie.

Notebook On Life

They Lack A Master's Work

By GILBERT FORTI

CREMONA, Italy (AP) — Of all places, in the town where Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis produced more than 1,000 of his legendary violins, you cannot find a single Stradivarius.

A local museum displays a special section devoted to Stradivarius and two local musicians, Claudio Monteverdi and Amilcare Ponchielli. Collected behind glass panels are the manuscripts of the violin maker, the tools, the paper and wood models he used in his long life, but nothing else. The only violins shown are a "false" Stradivarius and instruments built by his pupil, Carlo Bergonzi.

"You can find Stradivarius instruments in Britain and in the United States, even in India," the guide says sadly, "but not here."

Most violins built by Stradivarius left Cremona in his lifetime, ordered by Italian princes and nobles as gifts to foreign courts.

Soon after Stradivarius' death in 1737, bidding started to secure his celebrated instruments, which were re-sold in Brance, Britain, Holland and elsewhere.

In the first half of the past century many false Stradivarius were already on the market, bearing the Latin label, "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis faciebat."

Experts now say that genuine labels often went with false violins and vice versa. This was a sly trick by merchants, who thus sold both label and violin separately.

Newspapers still announced the discovery of an unknown Stradivarius now and then.

"Out of 100 such reports, one may be true," says Pietro Tatar, who teaches violin making at the International School of Violin Making located in the town.

"There is no secret about the Stradivarius," Tatar says, "unless you want to call a secret the painstaking care with which the old magician chose aged wood, applied his techniques and followed each stage of the production. He did not care how much time each instrument required."

"There is an old legend that the old violin maker had a secret recipe for his varnishes, but the same varnishes can be produced today. All details of the instruments have been thoroughly

Britain, France Don't Fully Trust UN

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — "Why are Britain and France," inquires F.T. of Los Angeles, Calif., "so unwilling to entrust the Suez Canal to the United Nations, in spite of Secretary Dulles' reported suggestions that they seek this avenue of relief? Wasn't the U.N. established to handle such threats to world peace?"

Answer: British and French diplomats, who are more hard-boiled and experienced than the American variety, in their opinion at least, do not trust the United Nations as now organized and conducted by its members. It has become a squabbling propaganda forum, they believe, rather than a force for international welfare.

Any solution which the Communists opposed would be vetoed by Russia or its satellites, if the crisis were handled in the Security Council. The U.N. gave us psychological support in Korea only because the Soviet representative had absented himself from the Council out of pique.

Although only the London and Paris statesmen seem to realize it, the expanded General Assembly is approaching the state it may be packed against the Western democracies and the North Atlantic Nations. This results from the fact that, no matter its size or importance, each member nation has only one vote.

Under this arrangement, the Russian bloc is entitled to nine votes. The Arab-Asian faction will have 11 votes, when Morocco, Tunisia and the Sudan are admitted, probably at the session opening in New York on November 12. The Latin-American Republics have 20 votes.

The whole North Atlantic community, including the United States, Britain and France, enjoy less than one-third of the total 79 votes. That will be the number after the new admissions.

THAT TWO-THIRD VOTE Since a two-third vote is required on all important actions and, decisions, it needs only 27 to block any agreement. Having 20 votes, the Communist and Arab-Asian combination must pick up only a few more, especially if there are absences and abstentions, for a majority against the West.

The 20 Latin-American delegates usually side with the West, but our relations with several of them are none too satisfactory, and they might join our enemies at any time. Our own Panama Canal ducks are coming home to roost as a result of the Suez controversy. Thus, the U.S. could easily become a hostile rather than a friendly body from the West's standpoint.

STEVENSON'S EDUCATIONAL CAREER "Recent profiles," writes A. A. F. of Springfield, Mass., "mention that Stevenson is an alumnus of Choate and Princeton, and one says that he obtained a law degree from Northwestern in 1926. I understand that he attended Harvard Law School for two years, and wonder why it is never mentioned. What is the full story of Stevenson's legal education?"

Textile Labeling Bill Seen

By ELMER ROESSNER

No matter what changes in Congress are made in the November election, it's pretty sure that a textile labeling bill will be introduced next year and pushed with considerable vigor.

Such a bill was introduced in the recent Congress by Representative Frank Smith (D. Miss.) and, although it did not reach the floor, it attracted so much favorable attention that a similar bill is expected to be introduced in January. Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N.Y.) heads a special subcommittee of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee studying Mr. Smith's bill. He is continuing to gather evidence during the recess and this evidence will serve as a basis for consideration by the next Congress.

The Smith bill would require manufacturers to list on the label of textiles the name and percentage by weight of each natural or manufactured fiber. Fibers representing less than 5 per cent of the total could be lumped as "other fibers." Fibers would be listed in the order of the pre-dominance and deviations up to 5 per cent would be allowed. Violators would be subject to penalties up to a year imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

WOOL ACT TO STAND Enforcement of the law would be charged to the Federal Trade Commission. The law would not repeal or conflict with the wool labeling nor fur labeling acts.

While this may be more "government interference in business" it has been brought about by faults within business itself—faults that reputable businessmen unsuccessfully have tried to clear up. The situation in wool textiles parallels that in wool before the wool labeling act was passed. Reused wool, other fibers and even hair was passed off as "virgin wool" by unscrupulous manufacturers and dealers to such an extent that a tide of public demand forced action. There have been similar troubles with nonwool textiles, but they have been held somewhat in check by laws against false advertising and unfair competition.

Nevertheless, a number of textile manufacturers, retailer organizations and consumer groups have gone on record in favor of a new labeling act. It has strong support from cotton producers, who feel that synthetics have been passed off as cotton, and that the frequent mention of cotton on labels will build prestige for their favorite fiber.

There is also considerable opposition to the proposed law from reputable firms and persons in the industry. In addition to the fact that the law would be another bit of government interference, they point out it would not give retailers or consumers the assurances they expect. While it would reveal quality, it would not disclose quantity; they point out. A good rayon will wear better than a poor cotton; a good cotton, will perform better than a poor rayon, so percentage figures would mean nothing, they say.

Furthermore the cost of quantitative tests, records, labels and sewing-in labels will increase the cost of every scrap of cloth, they say. Thus the consumer would be paying extra for information that would be of no value—in fact, which might confuse her. Objections have come from another quarter: the Upholstery and Drapery Fabric Manufacturers' Association. It points out that the law also applies to furniture covering and hence data on every bolt or invoice would have to be transferred to every piece of furniture, at no small cost.

Those who feel strongly about the bill one way or another may send their views to Representative Klein, House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

SOME CHES AND CUES TO BUSINESS TRENDS Furniture sales this year will end up to 8 to 10 per cent above last, the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers estimates. Savings of Americans more than quadrupled in the last 10 years, says the United States Savings and Loan Association.

Sales of transistors in the first half of this year were four times those in the first half of 1955 and volume is still rising. Except for cotton, American agricultural exports were at a 30-year high in the year ended July 31.

Justice Dept. Officially Silent On Texas Problem

By BEM PRICE.
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—At the Justice Department, the attitude toward the Mansfield, Tex., integration case is "Let's don't look and maybe it will go away."
"Nobody here will discuss it," a department spokesman said. He meant in public. Quietly it is being discussed by department attorneys ("But don't quote me, I have to eat") as a possible challenge to federal courts.
A federal court in effect ordered the Mansfield school board to admit 12 Negro students to the Mansfield High School. When school opened, a mob gathered, threatening violence.
Gov. Allan Shivers sent six Texas Rangers to Mansfield to help maintain order, instructing them to transfer any students whose attendance "would be reasonably calculated to incite violence." Shivers said this was an exercise of state police powers, not defiance of the federal court.
The Negroes dropped their attempt to enroll. The federal court, having no official notice of the incident thus far, has taken no action.
A Justice Department attorney was asked, "What happens when there is open defiance of a federal court?"
He turned to two well-thumbed copies of U.S. Code sections and said, "There are two nearly forgotten laws on the books. Both were adopted after passage of the 14th (civil rights) Amendment and were designed to meet the problems arising out of the reconstruction and Southern reconstruction."
The 14th Amendment was adopted July 28, 1868.
In 1870 and 1871 Congress took notice of the unrest in the South and the results were two acts, known then as the Ku Klux Klan Acts of 1870 and 1871. Ultimately the Supreme Court in 1876 and 1883 declared parts of these laws unconstitutional, but left two important sections on the books.

Old Time Garden Peas Thrived

COLUMBIA — Claude Jones, Route 3, Columbia, is living at home in a way that has been recommended for a long time. Tyrrell County Agent H. H. Harris says Jones is growing vegetables and a variety of fruits, and he's added one to his garden this year that he hadn't been able to get for a number of years.
One of his friends gave him enough seed to plant a 200-foot row of "old timey" garden peas. Jones says, "These peas grew off fast and produced a high yield."
From the 200-foot row, the Jones family canned 32 quarts of peas and gave neighbors enough for 45 additional quarts. Jones states, "These peas are sweet and have a delicious flavor."

Some Grain With Pasturage Pays

WASHINGTON, N.C. — "It pays to feed grain to dairy cows on pasture," says Nixon McIlwain, a dairyman in Beaufort County. "I stopped feeding grain this spring when the pasture was good and milk production dropped from six to give cans per day," adds McIlwain. Assistant County Agent E.T. Kornegay says McIlwain has started back feeding grain to his cows and his production is back to normal.
The savings and loan industry began in a suburb of Philadelphia in 1831.

Farm Accidents Rising In N. C.

RALEIGH — The number of farms in North Carolina with tractors and other equipment poses a problem, that of safety on the farm.
In 1955, over a billion farm people were injured in accidents! Into $11,000,000.

addition, some 13,000 farm people were killed in various kinds of accidents.

Most people never stop to consider that accidents cause an economic loss, also. For example, if each person injured last year on the farm only lost one day of work, and labor was valued at $1 per hour, the total loss would amount to $11,000,000.

'V-Type' System Is Time-Saver

RUTHERFORDTON — A new V-Type milking barn and milking machine that takes much of the labor out of dairy herd operations has proved highly successful in Green County, Tennessee, according to County Agent F. E. Patton. Two cows are turned into the "milking parlor" at the same time. While one is milked by a mechanical milker, the other is prepared. One man handles the whole operation, including opening the doors for the cows to enter and leave.
Hill says he can now milk seven cows and clean his equipment in less time than it took formerly to milk three cows.

Readying Calves For Feeder Sale

HILLSBORO—Beef cattle farmers in Orange County are getting their feeder calves ready for the annual Feeder Calf Sale to be held at the Farmers Exchange Livestock Market at Hillsboro, Thursday, September 27, according to County Agent Don Matheson. Four hundred head of field inspected and approved feeder calves will be offered at auction.

Exchange Club Is Host To Team

The Exchange Club last night honored members of the Exchange Little League team and the parents of the Little Leaguers.

All but two members of the team were present.

The players were presented gifts of miniature gold cups and were congratulated by Exchange Club President Jack Wallace for the showing they made in Little League competition during the past season.

Coach Neely James was also recognized with a gift.

A hamburger supper was prepared by Youth Activities Committee Chairman Jimmy Wells and his committee with the assistance of James.

President Wallace reminded the members of their obligation to man the Ground Observer Post beginning at 12:01 next Tuesday morning. Time periods for manning the post were assigned at the meeting.

The club heard a letter from Dr. Jac Watters, chairman of the Red Cross Bloodmobile committee, stressing the importance of donors contributing during the Bloodmobile visit to Greenville next Wednesday afternoon. Watters' letter brought out that Pitt County used 200 more pints of blood last year than were donated. He urged everyone to be on hand Wednesday for the Bloodmobile visit.

Law May Affect Many Farmers

RALEIGH—If you own, rent, or work on a farm, 1956 amendments to the Social Security law may affect you.

D.G. Harwood, State College farm marketing specialist, says, "If your gross farm income as a self-employed farmer is not over $1,800, you may report your actual net earnings for social security purposes or two-thirds of your gross farm income, at your option." In cases where gross farm income is over $1,800 with net farm earnings less than $1,200, either actual net earnings or $1,200 may be used. Where gross farm income is over $1,800 and net farm earnings are $1,200 or more.

Under 1956 amendments, the cash or crop shares received by a farm operator from a tenant or share farmer will count for social security purposes if the owner-operator "participates materially" in production or management, Harwood continues.

The 1956 amendments make it clear that if crops or livestock are divided between tenant and landlord, with the share depending on the total production, then the tenant is self-employed for social security purposes.

Under the new law, beginning in 1957, if a farm employer pays a person $150 or more in any one calendar year, or if the person works for a farm employer for each pay on a time basis for 20 or more days during a year, then the earnings will count toward social security benefits.

For additional information concerning Social Security, farmers may contact their nearest social security district office.

'Bridey Murphy' To Be Topic Of Sermon

"Bridey Murphy: In The Light Of Holy Scripture" is the sermon subject at St. James Methodist Church for Sunday morning's 11 o'clock service. The popular story of a Colorado housewife who, under hypnosis, claims to have lived an earlier life as an Irish woman named "Bridey Murphy" in the 18th Century, is the theme of the message.

"The doctrine of the re-incarnation of individuals" says Minister Malloy Owen, "is a part of many oriental religions and has been preached in this country by several California cults." The pastor purposes to examine the doctrine and the story which illustrates it in the light of the Bible. "Because the Bridey Murphy story has aroused the interest of millions of Americans," Owen adds, "Christian people should find out what the Bible says on the subject."

'Fine-o-Meter' Boxes Show Better Returns

Fine-o-Meter use is picking up in Greenville. City Manager Leonard Bloxam said today.

"The city manager said the devices have worked out "a lot better" during the second 90-day period that they have been in use than they did the first 90 days. Bloxam had expressed disappointment in the use of the devices after the first 90-day period. However, he estimated that use of the red deposit boxes has picked up by 50 per cent during the last few weeks.

Bloxam said that he believed reducing parking fines to 50 cents if they are paid within the first 12 hours had helped considerably. Prior to the installation of the Fine-o-Meters, parkers who received violation tickets were required to carry the tickets to the police station where they paid a $1 fine.

Now tickets are issued in envelope form and those who receive the parking violation tickets may place 50 cents in the envelope and drop it in one of the red boxes attached to meter poles on each block. If the parker delays more than 12 hours, however, he must pay the full $1 fine.

Bloxam also said he was well satisfied with the way parking meters are operating in Greenville now.

"The meters are working as smoothly as they ever have since I've been in Greenville," he declared.

A few weeks ago meters were converted from single coin, which would take only nickels, to multiple coin, which will take both pennies and nickels.

Now Anxious To Take $350,000

NEW YORK (AP)—A former Yale University student says he'd now like to have the $350,000 inheritance he turned down last year for "moral and political reasons."

Eugene F. Suter Jr., 24, said in a Surrogate's Court petition yesterday he is "in dire straits and in great and urgent need of medical and psychiatric care and treatment."

Suter said he was suffering from physical and mental illness at the time he rejected his father's bequest. Suter was a senior at Yale when he refused the money. He said then he had "two hands and a head" of his own and wanted no part of the $350,000.

Then a Socialist, Suter had given part of an earlier trust fund from his father to the Socialist party.

Last year, Surrogate William T. Collins "reluctantly" ruled that Suter had a right to reject the money. Collins said that for Suter the gift was "a cup of hemlock which the law cannot force him to swallow."

Collins appeared to leave the way clear for the young student to change his mind, however.

The $350,000 trust has grown to about $385,000 now.

Likes Cotton Poisoning Plan

LUMBERTON — Sam Sanderson, Route 3, Fairmont, states, "I have a new cotton poisoning program and I like it." He poisoned once a week until the youngest bolls were mature. He says, "I have followed this program for tobacco insects for several years, and if it's good for tobacco, it's good for cotton."

With the new weekly application program, Sanderson explains, "I believe the cotton insect control program will be as good as any tobacco spray program." Assistant Roberson County Agent English Jones says, "Less poison is required to control insects if applied frequently." He says if a heavy infestation builds up, it requires heavier applications to get them under control.

Urge Kiwanians Support At GHS

At the Kiwanis Club's weekly supper meeting last night, President Ed Waldrop announced that the club's directors had recommended the club use its influence to restore interest in athletics at the Greenville High School.

Charles P. Gaskins said interest in athletics at the school is at a low ebb and that there is lack of financial support, lack of facilities and an insufficient number of coaches to carry on the seven-sports program.

He urged the Kiwanians to encourage the Boosters' Club and arouse renewed interest in sports at Greenville High. The speaker said Washington, Kinston, New Bern, Jacksonville and other schools had considerably more coaches than Greenville and the money to supplement their salaries is raised by public subscriptions.

Gaskins said none of the taxpayers' money is received for athletics at the school and it must come from other sources. He and Reynolds May said the $10 Boosters' Club memberships include tickets to the ball games, and that $6 of it goes to the Athletic department and $4 is retained by the Boosters Club for better support of the athletic program.

Dr. Ed Carter of East Carolina College put in a good word for the athletic program.

Rev. Richard Hardaway of Newnan, Ga., a former pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, and Dr. Ed Carter, who was away a part of the summer, were welcomed as guests.

Scholarship For Falkland Youth

CHAPEL HILL—A junior student from Falkland, Pitt County, has been awarded the second annual Burlington Industries Scholarship at the University of North Carolina.

The student, Gerald Mack Mayo, is among nine rising juniors in the same number of colleges and universities who were chosen this year for the awards, which provide $500 annually during the junior and senior years.

A total of 16 two-year scholarships are offered by the Foundation under this program. Seven awards were given last year.

Selection of Mayo, an international relations major, was announced by Prof. D. D. Carroll, until recently chairman of the faculty committee on scholarships.

Mayo is the second UNC student to be selected for the scholarship, one of a number of fund grants for education made by the Burlington organization. James D. Montfort of Sylva, now a senior won one of the $1,000 scholarships last year.

The recipients are selected for their leadership, scholarship and financial need, "regardless of their connection, or lack of connection, with the Burlington Industries family."

The award to Mayo will also be matched with an identical gift to the University of North Carolina.

When He Has Time, Farmville's Mayor Is A 'History Bug'

The Mayor of Farmville, Charlie Edwards, relaxes with one of his old books when he puts aside his official duties as a municipal officer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Sales Supervisor of the Tobacco Board of Trade. (Reflector Staff Photos).

The oldest volume in the collection is this 1739 medical book. Most of the treatments prescribed in the book are out-of-date but it was once the most useful volume of its kind in the world.

An 1858 edition of The Bible has the name of its original owner written on the inside cover. The book is still in good condition and is used occasionally by Edwards.

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Charles Edwards is the mayor of Farmville. He's also secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Sales Supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

The very nature of those jobs demands that he think and act in modern, progressive terms. From a professional point of view, "Mr. Mayor" has to believe in progress, push for removal of out-moded ideas, and correct mistakes of the past.

The success of his professional efforts has witnessed all over town. The traditional backwardness of many small towns is being cast off in Farmville. A progressive municipal program of construction and repair is underway, and the tobacco market was the fifth largest on the Eastern Belt last year. Edwards hasn't been personally responsible for all of it, but his leadership has left its influence.

The accomplishments of the major-secretary-supervisor would suggest that he goes through every minute of life living and breathing ideas for the future. The suggestion isn't quite truthful. There's another side to the man.

When he can lay aside his professional duties, Charlie Edwards likes to take a head-long plunge into the past. He's a history "bug" . . . not so much from a scholarly point of view but, simply, "because he enjoys it."

Charlie began "enjoying" history as a boy in the Old Sparta community of Edgecombe County. That old Tar River settlement had a significance, old residents eager to pass their memories of days gone by to younger persons, and a personal history of early days on "the river." That's where his collection of more than 200 books, a couple of boxes of old notes, and a number of old pictures was started.

W. G. Harrell, postmaster at Old Sparta in Charlie's youth, and two spinster sisters, "Miss Ellen" and "Miss Mary" Wells, probably had more to do with kindling the interest of their young neighbor than any other individuals. They were, Charlie remembers, always eager to talk with the farmer-bartender's son who was interested in the past.

The Misses Wells touched off an interest in the Civil War with their memories. Their father and one of their brothers were killed at Gettysburg and a second brother lost his leg there. They knew through personal experience the hardships brought about by battle and the gentleness of a way of life destroyed by the troops of Grant, McClellan, and Sherman.

Harrell was an unusual man for his time. A working man, who kept a store in addition to his post office duties, Harrell had a library of nearly 200 volumes of "heavy" reading & history books, medical works, and very little fiction. He was a well-read man for his day but he had little to do with the type of literature that most modern folk fill their home libraries with.

Most of Charlie's books came from the Harrell library. The oldest is a 1738 edition of the "English Dispensatory of Four Parts." The title page announces in no uncertain terms that the volume is "The Eleventh Edition, Enlarged and Corrected" by John Quincy, M.D. Many of the methods and procedures outlined in the volume are out-of-date, naturally, but in its own time, it was one of the best in the world.

Methodist Hymnal Not all of the books are so out-of-date. In fact, one of them, "The Young People's Hymnal," which has a 1902 publication date, could be made to feel right at home at one of the Methodist youth meetings tomorrow night. The hymnal, published by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, includes such old and familiar favorites as "Rescue The Perishing," "Stand Up For Jesus," "Holy, Holy, Holy," "What A Friend," and "Follow All The Way."

Another book in the collection is a personal history of the War of 1812 which carries a thought we in America still hold to be true: "The lesson we have been taught, which was worth the sum we have paid for the war, is that we are weak in the pursuit of conquest, but all powerful in defense."

The military theme in the collection is extended by a copy of "The Volunteer's Handbook," an 1860-vintage soldier's manual. The name written on the fly-leaf is that of James K. Lee of the First Regiment of Virginia Volunteers and a note written inside the back cover is thought to have been written by him.

The note says, "My Dearest Dear the time draws near when you and I must part you little no grief and two of my pore troubled hart." Edwards, who has examined the book thoroughly thinks perhaps the man who wrote the note was perfecting a message to his wife or sweetheart before sending the final copy.

Little personal notes are also included in the collection. One is an invitation, addressed to Miss Bettie Warren of Greenville, asking her to attend a hop in Farmville, Friday, February 13, 1885. The old invitation was sent to Edwards last year by a man in Norfolk, Va., who found it among some old papers.

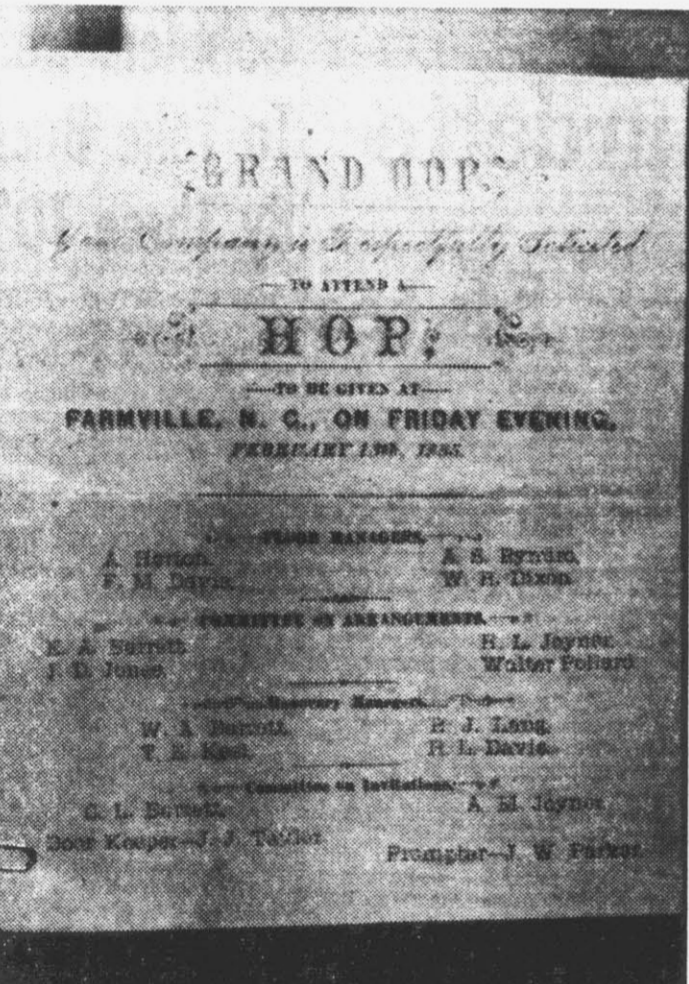

Another personal item testifies that George Howard "Received, Tarboro, May 28, 1838, from Mr. Enos Harrell Two Dollars and Fifty Cents" for a year's subscription to the Tarboro Press.

That same newspaper, in an 1838 edition of which Edwards has only a small piece, includes a report from Washington quoting a Senator. The words used by the Senator to describe an opponent would make some modern politicians blush.

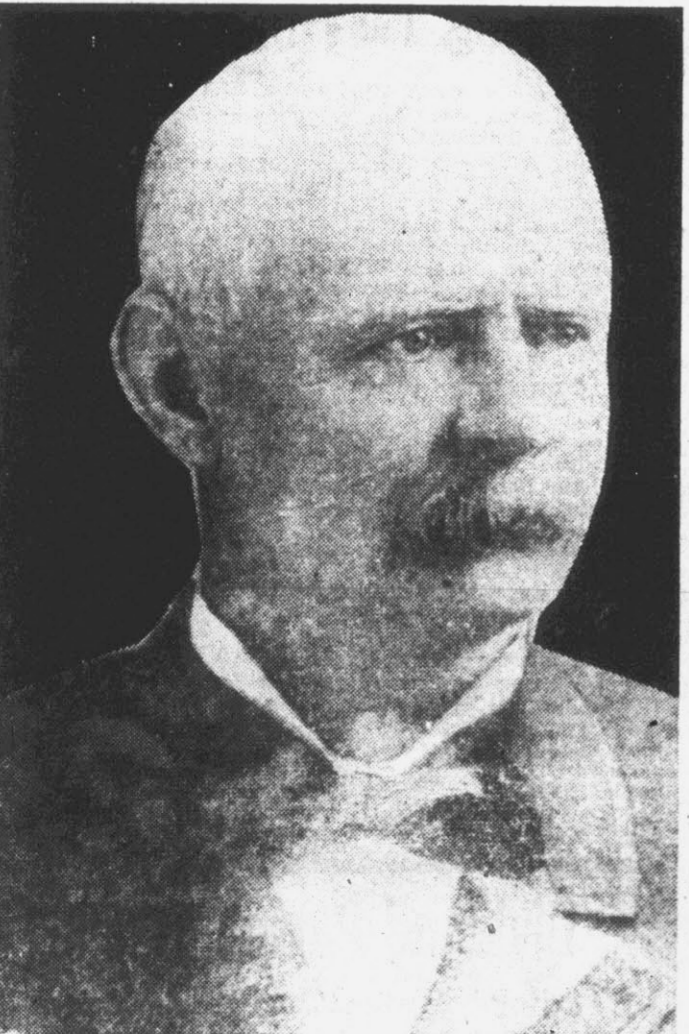

State Papers A more dignified treatment of politics and governments is an 1816 copy of "State Papers" from the Second Session of the 15th Congress. Included in the papers is a resolution directed to President James Monroe "to cause surveys to be made of the points of Cape Hatteras, Cape Lookout, and Cape Fear shoals, to ascertain practicability of erecting light houses, beacons or buoys."

Some other personal items in the collection include a copy of a deed registered October 13, 1853, which certifies that $750 was paid for four-fifths of an acre of land on corner of Goldsboro and Greene streets in Wilson.

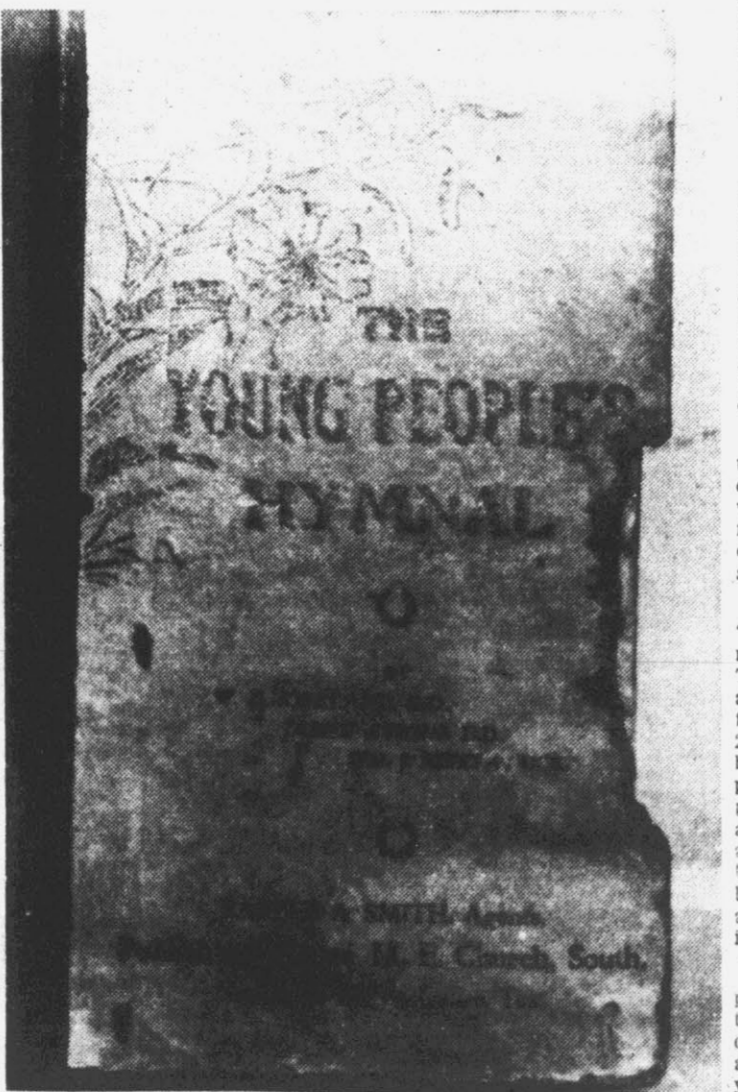

There's also an 1861 statement "James Jones to Kincher Harrell" calling for payment of $5.45. The bill says Jones owes 50 cents as balance on whiskey, 20 cents for two pounds of sugar, $3.00 for 20 pounds of coffee, $1.10 for "one bunch cotton," 95 cents for five pounds of coffee at 19 cents a pound, $2.50 for two pair of shoes at $1.25 a pair, and 65 cents for another pair of shoes. The total amount to $9.90 but $5.25 had been paid on December 1, 1860, and the $3.65 balance had drawn interest amounting to $1.80.

An invitation to a hop in Farmville in 1885 was passed on to Edwards by a man in Norfolk, Va. The invitation was addressed to Miss Bettie Warren of Greenville.

Adlai Stevenson was a candidate for vice-president in 1892. His picture is on an advertising poster included in Edwards' collection.

One of Edwards' books that would be right at home today is this old Methodist hymnal. The book has a 1902 publication date.

One of the first sewing machines ever used in Edgecombe County is this old hand-operated model. The machine still works and at least one representative of a sewing machine manufacturer has offered a fancy price for it.

during his administration.

Travel Tale

One of Miss Ellen's favorite tales was about the train ride to Raleigh for Governor Carr's inauguration but even that couldn't match the tale spun by Dr. Valentine Mott, author of "Travels in Europe and The East," an 1842 volume in Charlie's collection. Dr. Mott was president of the medical faculty at the University of New York and made an extended tour of Europe and Asia which he told about in his book.

No collection of old books would hardly be complete without at least one old spelling book and one old drawing book. Charlie has a pair of them. One was published in 1818 in Georgetown, S.C., and the other, a "blue back" speller, carries copyright dates of 1830 and 1908. Charlie uses the old spellers occasionally to check the changes in word use.

The influence of the old books and personal experiences has affected Charlie in a number of ways. Perhaps the most outstanding was the decision to major in history when he gets wound up with his elementary education at East Carolina State University. "Mr. Mayor" graduated Secretary, and Sales Supervisor. He's not the same man.

You would never know it, though, when he gets wound up with his office duties as Mayor, Chamber Secretary, and Sales Supervisor. He's not the same man.

Raphael's Art Draws Crowds

By RHEINHOLD ENSZ (ADVANCE) BERLIN, Sept. 1 (AP)—One of the biggest drawing cards in Communist East Berlin is a very uncommunist object—a massive painting of a madonna.

It's Raphael's Sistine Madonna, and every week hundreds of persons file into East Berlin's National Gallery for a look at one of the most famous paintings of all time. Reproductions of the picture have adorned religious books for years. Now the Communists are using it to adorn their cultural facade.

They have given it the place of honor in an exhibition of 520 paintings from the Dresden Gallery, a world-renowned collection that was seized by the Russians after World War II, but not returned to Germany until last fall.

The Sistine Madonna has been hung on the second floor of the gallery, at the end of a series of three spacious halls that together measure 163 feet from entrance to end.

A guidebook prepared by the Communists says long-distance viewing is what Raphael had in mind when he painted the Sistine Madonna during the early part of the 16th century.

The painting was created for the monastery church of San Sisto in Piacenza, Italy, where the inner dimensions permitted long distance viewing.

Zimmerman, director of West Berlin's art gallery, and one of Germany's leading art experts.

According to the Communists, the paintings are to be transferred to the rebuilt Dresden gallery soon. A Dresden newspaper has reported the gallery will be completed May 15.

In Berlin, gallery visitors are drawn from all over the globe, since the divided city is still occupied by the victorious Big Four.

of World War II. And the Communists aren't missing a chance to get over a bit of propaganda in guidebooks to the collection. The guidebooks contain an introduction by East German Premier Otto Grotewohl, who lavishly praises the Russians for "rescuing" the paintings during World War II.

"With this act," Grotewohl says, "our German people were given a wonderful example of love for art."

TOUCHDOWN BOUND—Billy Sermons, Greenville's All-Conference full back, who rolled up a total of 250 individual yards rushing, is shown soaring pass Jacksonville tackler Norwood Crawford in last night's 25-13 upset victory. Sermons' play last night, was touted the best individual performance ever to take place in the Cardinal stadium.

80-YARD JAUNT—Sermons sets sail for paydirt in the above photo, on a run that covered 80 yards. The fleet red head grabbed a punt on his own 20, reversed his field, backtracked and rambled through the whole Card team for the score. The puddle of arms and legs in the background was produced by a two-man block by Wade Jordan.

HE TACKLES, TOO—It was Sermons again on this play. The Big Phantom senior is shown putting the halt on Jacksonville halfback Ralph Richardson. The tackle was so vicious that Richardson had to be carried from the game moments after the photo was taken. The final score was 25-13 in favor of the Phants. (Reflector Photos by Billy Arnold).

WILKERSON SCORES—End Edwin Wilkerson is caught by the camera as he pulls in an arial from quarterback Mack Roebuck in the second quarter of last night's tilt. He scampered for a touchdown only seconds after this picture was snapped, on a play that covered 22 yards. Chasing helplessly, is Jacksonville back, Freddy Parcells (15).

JACKSONVILLE—Bottom-ranked Greenville high school went wild here last night, ripping through third-ranked Jacksonville for a 25-13 upset victory in their first Northeastern conference game of the season—and Big Billy Sermons led the way.

Rated to win by two touchdowns, Jacksonville's Cardinals found their hands full with a hard-running Sermons and a hard-charging Phantom line from the opening whistle to the last minute of play.

Sermons, a 175 pound senior halfback, who gained All-Conference honors last season, blasted away for 250 yards in individual rushing honors in that galloping, gyrating style of power-running that has made him one of the most feared performers in the conference. The team as a whole gained only 294 yards rushing.

Sermons started the ball rolling with the first score of the game, and the Phants added three more touchdowns on a pass from quarterback Mack Roebuck to Edwin Wilkerson, a six-yard sneak by Roebuck, and an intercepted pass and an 11-yard return by Jimmy Kelly.

As the game unfolded in the opening minutes, Jacksonville pushed to within the 20 of the Big Green and was staved off by Angus Duff, when he recovered a fumble on the 35. From there, the Phants pushed back deep into Cardinal territory.

Card fullback Edison punted to Sermons on the Green twenty and the powerful red head eluded two tacklers, reversed his field and galloped 80 yards past the entire Jacksonville team to the first score of the game. Wade Jordan cut down two tacklers and Angus Duff laid a key block in the run. The extra point attempt was wide.

Roebuck Passes
Early in the second quarter, the G-Men pushed into the host territory on a series of power plays featuring Sermons, Kelly and fullback Robin Wilfong. At that point, Roebuck leveled a perfect toss to end Edwin Wilkerson from the 22, who scampered to pay dirt. The conversion attempt again failed.

At the half, the score rested at 12-7.

In the third quarter, Greenville battled down to the Jacksonville 10 yard line, only to lose the ball on a fumble. On the first play from there, Card Quarterback Crawford passed. Halfback Jimmy Kelly intercepted on the 11 and ripped into the end zone for the third Phantom touchdown. Duff's conversion attempt was wide again.

60 Yard March
The final Green score came on a 60-yard march from Greenville territory and was climaxed as Roebuck blasted over his left end for the score. Billy Sermons racked up the extra-point for the total 25 points.

Jacksonville added a final touchdown on a pass from Crawford to Garrison for seven yards.

Greenville's forward wall, bolstered by Billy Brown, Wade Jordan, Roy Martin and Angus Duff, outcharged and outfought the heavier Jacksonville line throughout the contest. Duff, a 180-pound tackle, who is angling for All-State honors, at one point, threw the Card offense for three consecutive five yard losses, and played his finest game to date.

Coach Percy Daniels' Blue and White team scored first in the game on a 50-yard touchdown gallop by quarterback Bennie Wilson, after only three minutes of the first quarter.

Rocky Mount, utilizing a powerful ground attack, bounced back quickly and racked up six points. Both missed the conversion attempts and the score stood at 6-6 for the rest of the entire half.

The two teams battled evenly throughout the first and second periods of the contest, with the forward walls carrying the fight. Leading the way during this time were Eppes tackles James Brewington and Ken Green, and guards James and William Teel.

Early in the second half, Eppes scored again and it was Wilson driving over for the touchdown. Joe Baker, Bulldog halfback, intercepted a pass and carried from his own 30 to the 40 of Rocky Mount. Wilson blasted over tackle yards for the TD. The conversion was missed and Eppes led 12-6.

At this point, the host team began to get their high-powered ground machine in gear. They pushed along for some 60 yards for their second touchdown and added an extra point, giving them a narrow 13-12 lead.

Again, they scored on a long march, depending entirely on sheer ground strength, and again they added the extra point. The Rocky Mount school, Booker T. Washington, continued to play top-notch ball and rammed for two final scores, missed both conversion attempts, and ended the game with a 32-12 victory.

Outstanding for the losers were Wilson, Baker, Brewington, Green, the Teel boys, Joe Jenkins and James Harris. Virgil Lynch, a freshman back, also showed up well.

NO CHANGE
GALVESTON, Tex.—The hospital where Babe Didrikson Zaharias is receiving cancer treatment reported yesterday the noted women athlete was resting comfortably. "There are no changes in her condition," a hospital bulletin added.

AYDEN TAKES A 27-0 WIN OVER VANCEBORO TEAM
Ayden defeated Vanceboro 27-0 last night in a Coastal Conference contest at Vanceboro.

Lindy Dunn passed to Stokes for the first score and R. L. Collins ran over the second in first half play. Both extra points were good and at the half, the score stood 14-0.

Worthington went over in the third quarter for the third touchdown of the night, after But Tripp recovered a fumble. After a 57-yard punt return by Dunn in the final quarter, Clarence Mills burst through tackle for the last Ayden score.

Tripp recovered two Vanceboro fumbles and played an excellent defensive game. Key Balder, Melvin Byrd, Dan Bateman were the defensive standouts. Dunn, Mills, Collins and Tommy Edwards were the big guns on offense for the winners.

ECC Meets VPI At Bluefield Tonight

Milwaukee Worried About Buhl, Burdette

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Braves, reduced to one game lead once again in the hectic National League pennant race, had themselves a real worry today. Is this slump by righthanders Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette just one of those things or is it serious?

They can't hope to win the pennant without the help of that pair, yet Buhl, a 17-game winner, has failed to finish his last three starts and has lost 'em all. And Burdette, with 18 victories and seven shutouts, was battered out for the second consecutive time last night as the Philadelphia Phillies maltreated the leaders 13-1.

The Milwaukee loss, coupled with Brooklyn's 4-2 victory over last place Chicago, left the one-two clubs even in games lost.

The fourth place St. Louis Cardinals, who had won six in a row, lost to New York's Giants 3-0. Cincinnati, in third place, and Chicago were idle.

In the American League, the New York Yankees, with Yogi Berra setting a record for career home runs by a catcher, snapped Detroit's winning streak at seven 5-1. That reduced the Yankees' "magic number" for clinching the pennant to three as second place Cleveland lost to Boston 4-3 after winning the first game of their two-night doubleheader 10-2.

The Chicago White Sox, a half-game shy of Cleveland, defeated Baltimore 3-2 in 11 innings. Washington defeated Kansas City 4-3.

Burdette lasted just 3 2-3 frames as the Phils scored four in the fourth for a 7-0 lead.

Del Ennis tagged a three-run homer off reliever Lou Slaten, and little Solly Helms then walloped a grand slam homer off Dave Jolly in the sixth. In all, the Phils had 17 hits, plus eight walks.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix, winning his 13th, walked none and struck out five. He gave just six hits including Del Crandall's 16th home run.

SC Teams Opening Slates With Top Contests Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia Tech, which finished next to the top in the 1955 conference race, and Virginia Military, which finished next to the bottom, tonight become the first Southern Conference football teams to see 1956 action.

The Techmen go up against East Carolina's Pirates at Bluefield, W.Va. Meantime, VMI tackles Seton at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Despite injuries which have severely weakened its lineup, Tech is a heavy favorite over East Carolina. The loss of Billy Cranwell, a 1955 star, left Tech without a quarterback tested under fire. Jimmy Lugar, Bob McCoy, Billy Holislaw and freshman Frank Eastman are vying for the position and a good showing might win it tonight for one of them.

VMI has nowhere to go but up and Coach John McKenna hopes his Keydets use Seton as the first stepping stone to better things. The Keydets' No. 1 problem tonight will be to hamper the passing of the Hatters' Jerry Wuenschel and Terry Oswald.

VMI's offense seems well fixed with Bill Nebraska, a freshman sensation in '55, at quarterback; speedy Joe Moody at one halfback; and punting specialist Bobby Jordan at the other; and Sam Woolwine at full.

George Washington's Colonials went through a review drill in preparation for a scrimmage today against an unidentified opponent. Coach Bo Sherman said he expects the scrimmage to indicate just how much he can expect from his team in the regular season.

Davidson's line was put to a stern defensive test while the backfield polished up its offense. Afterward, line Coach Pride Ratteree said the Wildcat forwards "still need plenty of work on our blocking and tackling."

Mike Siano, the Citadel's star sophomore halfback, ran hard for the first time since suffering a foot injury as the Bulldogs held two hours of dummy offensive drills. The team also welcomed back fullback Ed Dzanis, who'd missed Thursday's scrimmage because of an ankle ailment.

Furman ran through plays in a light dummy scrimmage, letting the numerous injured rest in preparation for an all-out scrimmage today.

Washington and Lee labored on pass defense and had a look at some new running plays cooked up by Coach Bill Chipley. William and Mary took time out for "Press Day" with Coach Jack Freeman citing defense as the "Idians' likely strong point this fall."

National Tourney Is Led By Ward, Kocsis

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—The story of two golf clubs and the men who wield them with telling effect was the core of today's final match for the 56th National Amateur Golf Championship.

The clubs were a beat-up old putter which Harvie Ward found in a locker at Tarboro, N.C., 18 years ago, and a No. 5 wood which Chuck Kocsis bought for one tournament five years ago and hadn't used at all since then until this week.

Ward, a keen-eyed 30-year-old automobile salesman, is seeking to become the first player to win two national amateur titles in a row since Lawson Little triumphed in 1934-35. Kocsis, a links veteran at 43, is having his best and what may be his last good fling at a major title.

But for these clubs, the two might not be in today's 36-hole final over the long, windswept Knollwood course.

Ward's hickory shafted putter probably is a good many years older than 18, but it's the only putter he has ever used since taking up the game as a boy. Naturally, his feeling toward the club are more than affectionate.

"I bought that five wood for the National Open at Oakland Hills in 1951, where you had to get long shots up high and still hold the greens. I didn't use it again until this year, but I've been using it a lot here," Kocsis remarked after his 4 and 2 victory over Canada's Gerry Magee in the semi-finals.

Ward outlasted tow-headed Joe Campbell, the brash 20-year-old from Anderson, Ind., who plays golf and basketball for Purdue, to gain a 2 and 1 decision. Two great shots by Campbell made the finish exciting. Harvie, a calm competitor who has won the British as well as the American title, wouldn't weaken when his opponent tossed a hole-in-one and then an eagle at him in the closing holes.

Heading the backfield will be Little All-America candidate, Dick Cherry. "The Blond Bombshell" is expected to give the Gobblers plenty of trouble with his passing attack. Operating in the backfield with Cherry will be a couple of light but fleet halfbacks, Bob Perry and "Injun" Jim Henderson. Both boys run the 100-yard dash in less than 10 seconds. Starting off at fullback will probably be a 215 pounder, Kemp Wickizer.

Maynard III
Fullback became a problem for Boone during the past week when Bob Maynard, Buc starter, was taken to the college infirmary with flu. The second unit fullback, Bob Lilley, also came up with a knee injury in the Navy battle. Both boys are expected to be on hand tonight, but may see only limited action. Starting guard Bucky Dennis will also miss the game due to an injury. Bucky pulled a ligament in his shoulder last Saturday against Norfolk. He is expected to be out for at least three weeks.

Yesterdays Stars
By The Associated Press
PITCHING—Harvey Haddix, Phillies, walked none, struck out five and gave only six hits in gaining his 13th victory in 13-1 breeze over first place Braves.
HITTING—Willie Mays, Giants, smacked his 31st and 32nd home runs to account for all the runs in 3-0 victory over Cardinals.

Gobblers Rated To Take Bucs By Three TD's

East Carolina will get its first taste of Southern Conference football today when the Bucs tackle VPI, top team in Virginia, at Bluefield, W.Va. It will be the official opening game for both teams, although the Pirates met Norfolk Navy in a practice tilt last Saturday.

The spirit has been high in the ECC camp during the past week as Coach Jack Boone has been hard at work preparing his charges for the big scrap.

"We have been working hard to give a good account of ourselves, and are anxiously awaiting the contest," states Boone. "Our spirit is better this year than in any other year since I have been here, so mentally I think we will be ready," continues the Buc's head mentor.

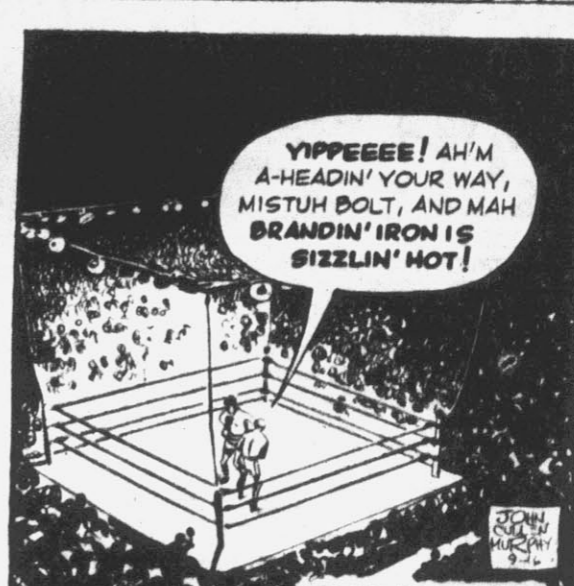

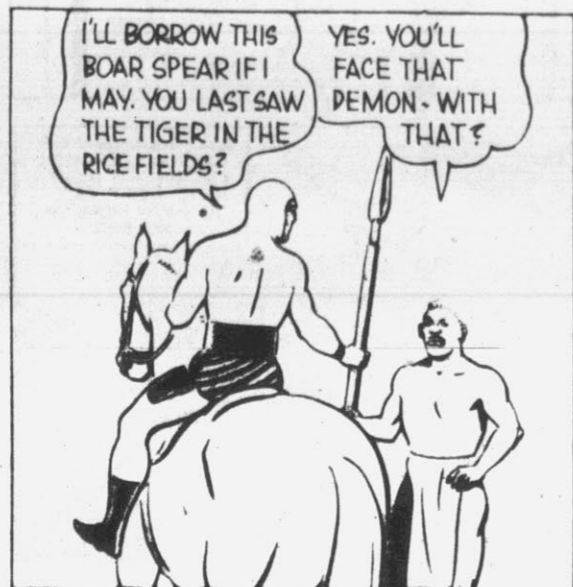

Expected to start on the first unit for the Buccaneers will be Ray Pennington and Bill Helms at ends, Jerry Brooks and Ray Overton at tackles, Ken Burgess and Ed Emory at guards, and James Faircloth or Waverly Chesnut at center.

Heading the backfield will be Little All-America candidate, Dick Cherry. "The Blond Bombshell" is expected to give the Gobblers plenty of trouble with his passing attack. Operating in the backfield with Cherry will be a couple of light but fleet halfbacks, Bob Perry and "Injun" Jim Henderson. Both boys run the 100-yard dash in less than 10 seconds. Starting off at fullback will probably be a 215 pounder, Kemp Wickizer.

Maynard III
Fullback became a problem for Boone during the past week when Bob Maynard, Buc starter, was taken to the college infirmary with flu. The second unit fullback, Bob Lilley, also came up with a knee injury in the Navy battle. Both boys are expected to be on hand tonight, but may see only limited action. Starting guard Bucky Dennis will also miss the game due to an injury. Bucky pulled a ligament in his shoulder last Saturday against Norfolk. He is expected to be out for at least three weeks.

Yesterdays Stars
By The Associated Press
PITCHING—Harvey Haddix, Phillies, walked none, struck out five and gave only six hits in gaining his 13th victory in 13-1 breeze over first place Braves.
HITTING—Willie Mays, Giants, smacked his 31st and 32nd home runs to account for all the runs in 3-0 victory over Cardinals.

Historians' Society Schedules Tour In Beaufort September 23

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The North Carolina Society of County and Local Historians will tour places of historic interest in Beaufort county Sunday, September 23. An interesting trip has been mapped out by those in charge of the program here, and the tour will start at "Elmwood," home of Mrs. E.T. Knott on West Main street at 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning. The group will assemble at Elmwood with a picnic lunch to be enjoyed later. After winding around the city on a conducted tour and viewing pieces of noted interest here the group will journey to Bath for a brief service at St. Thomas Episcopal church and lunch on the grounds at the Glebe House.

Places of interest to be mentioned in Washington are to be the mentioned Elmwood; the home of the Hon. Lindsay C. Warren, former Comptroller General of the United States; the old Warren House; Shepherd-Brown-MacLean House; Rodman House; Fowle House; Havens House; markers-birthplace of Gov. Daniel G. Fowle and home of Dr. Susan Dimock; Beaufort County Court House and town clock; "Bellevue" home of Major Reading Blount; St. Peter's Episcopal Church; Telfaire and Myers Houses; and collection of old Fire Arms and Revolutionary War Cartridge at Pamlico Marine company.

Places to be visited at historic Bath other than St. Thomas church and the Glebe House will be the Vandeviere House on a high bluff overlooking Bath Creek, a well preserved colonial home now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Smith; the noted colonial Marsh House, built about 1744 and one time meeting place for the colonial General Assembly and still owned by the Marsh family; the colonial Bonner House on Bonner's Point overlooking Bath Bay, owned now by the Norman family; Archbell Point, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Archbell, which was known in colonial times as Knight's Landing, home of Tobias Knight and located near the home site of the infamous Edward Teach (Blackbeach). Many historical markers will be pointed out which date in early colonial history. The tour will end at Kirby Grange plantation, home of Christopher Gale, first Chief Justice of North Carolina, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Midyette on Back Creek near Bath.

Everyone interested in North Carolina history is cordially invited to take this tour which starts at the home of Mrs. Knott Sunday morning, September 23, at 9:00 a.m. The tour is sponsored by the

Jack Webb Running Another New Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — The star of the new Jack Webb TV series is not Jack Webb but a handsome lad from New Orleans named Paul Burke.

Webb, that jack of all trades, still produces, directs and stars in Dragnet. But he's only producing and directing Noah's Ark, which makes its debut on NBC next Tuesday. The three principals are Burke, who plays a young veterinarian, Dr. Noah McCann; Vic Rodman, as an older vet; and May Wynne (of "Caine Mutiny" fame), as a pretty receptionist as you'd hope to see.

I watched Webb directing the trio in the Republic lot, where a realistic veterinary hospital has been built. Webb was all over the place, running through the actors' lines for them, correcting every move and giving out orders in his crisp Dragnet style. No doubt about it, Webb is boss.

Since the boss was tied up, I had a chat with Burke, a 29-year-old six-footer who looked as if he could actually be an animal doctor and not just an actor trying to be one. How did he get the job?

"I did a couple of Dragnets a couple of years ago," he explained. "In the meantime I had gone to New York and done a lot of live TV. But Jack remembered me."

Paul is a product of the French Quarter in New Orleans, where his father runs a night club, Marly Burke's, on Bourbon Street. Young Paul got the acting bug early, ushered at the Saenger Theater and later joined the New Orleans Civic Theater as an actor.

After an Army discharge in 1945, Paul came to Hollywood to study acting and landed a few bit roles in pictures. He studied at the Pasadena Playhouse, then knocked around in pictures, stage and TV with middling success. Now he's headed for fame as the modern-day Noah.

Draft-Objector Will Face Trial

WINSTON-SALAM — Richard Eugene Meredith, 24, of Winston-Salem, will face trial next month on charges of refusing to be inducted into military service.

Officers said Meredith, a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses, was classified as a non-combatant by the Winston-Salem selective service office, but refused induction when taken to Charlotte June 13.

U.S. Commissioner Robert L. Scott swore out the warrant charging Meredith. Meredith pleaded guilty yesterday and was placed under $500 bond. He will face trial during the October term of Federal Western District Court.

Italian Socialist Movement Near Reunification

By STAN SWINTON

ROME — The Socialist movement is moving toward reunification in Italy. This may change the whole political picture.

Socialism is a political force in Europe. Italy has been an exception, for its Socialist movement split in 1947 over a "pact of action" tying the party to the Communist party line.

Most European Socialist movements are strongly anti-Communist. So were many Italian Socialists. Under Giuseppe Saragat, a friend of the West, they quit the Italian Socialist party and formed a Social Democratic party. The Original Italian Socialist party under Pietro Nenni continued to work with the Communists.

United, the Socialists would have been Italy's third largest political force after the Christian Democrats and the Communists. Divided they were far less effective.

For a year signs arose that Nenni was regretting his alliance with the Communists. This feeling strengthened after the present regime in Moscow admitted the Communist jungle of Stalin's time.

Last month Nenni and Saragat met in the French Alps. They agreed the time was ripe to discuss reunification.

Negotiations ended with a joint announcement that the two Italian Socialist factions "would consult on anything of common interest."

Both parties say two big strides remain to be taken: a common program, and eventual reunification.

Saragat and the Socialist International insist Nenni must abandon his Communist partnership if he is to work with the Social Democrats. Nenni's own public statements have been equivocal. But Socialist leaders say that privately Nenni has given absolute assurance he will break with the Communists.

Why did Nenni make the break? Socialist informants give these reasons:

1. Nenni feels that united the Socialists could win an election or become powerful enough so that it would be necessary to have them lead a government coalition after the 1958 general election.
2. Nenni is personally ambitious and feels that after reunion he might achieve his lifelong ambition of being prime minister.

Water Tank To Be Put In Use

AYDEN — Ayden's new 300,000 gallon water tank is expected to be put into use next week, Mayor Corey Stokes said today.

Interior and outside painting of the big structure is to be completed Monday or Tuesday, Stokes said, and the tank will be put into use as soon as sterilization is completed.

A coat of red lead primer and another of water gray enamel will be applied to the inside of the ball-type tank. A coat of red lead primer, another of aluminum with blue, and a third of aluminum will be placed on the outside of the tank. After the paint has dried, chemicals recommended by the Health Department will be placed in the tank and the tank filled with water. After a sterilization period, the tank will be drained and refilled for use.

Steel construction on the tank and tower have been completed and painting began this week, Stokes said.

The new tank will replace a 62,000 gallon tank located behind the Town Hall. The old tank will continue to be used on a stand-by basis.

Champion Eater Of Sauer Kraut

FORRESTON, Ill. — In the world of sauer kraut, Richard Boyle, 25, of Rockford, Ill., is king. Boyle ate 2 1/2 pounds of the shredded pickled cabbage in three minutes.

That was too much, and too fast, for Dale Markel of Ridott, Ill., last year's king, who managed to stow only 2 1/2 pounds in the time limit.

It all happened at Forreston's 37th annual kraut festival. Forreston is the place where most of the kraut comes from.

Not Her Fault If Teachers Scarce

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — The teacher shortage is no fault of Mrs. Elizabeth Barton, 91.

Her eight children all are or were teachers and five of them married teachers. Eleven grand-children teach school and six more are studying to become teachers.

Mrs. Barton herself never taught school. But her husband did, and his father and mother did, too.

Sign Up Date For Wheat Acreage Reserve--Oct. 5

The sign up under the Wheat Acreage Reserve phase of the Soil Bank has attracted many Tar Heel Farmers, according to H. D. Godfrey, Administrative Officer for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee.

Wheat farmers are now placing their acreage in the 1957 reserve program because of the fact that wheat planted for harvest next year is seeded this fall. The final date for sign up has been extended to Oct. 5th.

The payment rate for 1957 wheat will be the same as it was this year—$1.33 a bushel, Godfrey said. Payment will be made on the normal yield for the reserve acreage. Payment will be in the form of negotiable certificates which may be redeemed for cash through regular banking channels or they may be exchanged for grain. The certificates will be issued after the County ASC Committee has determined that the indicated wheat acreage reduction has been made and that all other allotments for 1957 have been completed.

Land placed in the Acreage Reserve must not be cropped or grazed during the period of the Soil Bank Agreement; land designated must have previously been used for the production of wheat; the spread of noxious weeds must be controlled on the land, and the ASC County Committee will not permit the designation of irregular sized tracts or "minimum" size tracts that cannot be readily measured.

The 1957 Acreage Reserve Program will be in operation on Tobacco, cotton, corn and possibly peanuts. Date for sign up and program provisions for the other commodities will be announced later since those crops are not planted until next spring, Godfrey said.

"There are other reasons why they are so valuable today. They were among the first 'modern' violins, because Antonius helped develop their present shape; thus their age is a great factor," he points out.

"Stradivarius produced more instruments than anyone of his time, which can explain why so many proved musically excellent," Tatar says.
