Winterville Man Takes Indiana Bride

Miss Ruth Evelyn Taylor became the bride of Charlie T. Kittrell in a ceremony which took place August 25 in the Berean Gospel Temple, Indianapolis, Ind.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Taylor of Indianapolis and Mr. Kittrell the son of Mrs. Retha Kittrell of Winterville and the late Olen D. Kittrell.

The Rev. Ford Porter performed the ceremony before an altar background of palms and floor baskets of white gladioli. Cathedral candles burned in seven-branched candelabra and pews were marked with satin ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of nylon tulle and chantilly lace over satin. Her tiered veil of bridal illusion fell from a headpiece of lace and sea pearls and she carried a white Bible topped with an orchid and staphenotis.

Miss Joyce Taylor attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of white nylon dotted swiss over coral taffeta and carried a white lace fan with pink carnations and white streamers.

Misses Kathryn Fisher, Betty Balch and Frances Kidwell were bridesmaids. They were gowned in white nylon dotted swiss over aqua taffeta and carried fans, like the honor attendant's, decorated with aqua carnations and streamers.

Robert Kittrell attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Ray Jones, nephew of the bridegroom, of Hampton, Va.; Russell Dennis of Indianapolis; and Gerald Smith of Lebanon, Indiana.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Taylor wore a dress of chocolate brown shantung accented at the neck with white applique flowers. Her corsage was of white carnations and her accessories were brown and white.

Mrs. Kittrell, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy crepe dress with matching jacket and accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the church parlor following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Kittrell are at home in Greenville, S. C. where he is attending Bob Jones University. The bride attended college in Fort Worth, Texas and plans to continue her education with her husband at Bob Jones after January 1.

AA Member Gives Program For Book Club

"God grant me the serenity to accept things I cannot change, courage to change things I can, and wisdom to know the difference." This is the daily prayer of more than 175,000 members of an organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous.

A member of this organization presented an educational program to the Semi-Cent Book Club Tuesday evening when they met in the home of Mrs. Joe Stone.

Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other, that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism.

Some 165,000 members have claimed sobriety through A. A. by climbing the twelve basic steps of recovery. Of the 65 million people who use alcohol in this country, 1,500,000 are alcoholics and the number is increasing daily, according to the speaker.

After a discussion period, the hostess invited those present into the dining room where they were served pink lemonade, date bars, sausage rings, assorted nuts and mints.

Arrangements of pink chrysanthemums, blue ageratum and wild poinsettia were used throughout the house.

New books were distributed by the librarian, Mrs. Norman Little, and the meeting adjourned.

Stevenson Salutes Working Women

In a special message to The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, on the occasion of NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK, Adlai Stevenson says:

"I am pleased to have this opportunity to salute the business and professional women of America during National Business Women's Week. I do not need to point out to you the importance that women have attained, and rightly so, in fields that were formerly considered to be the sole domain of men. And I think it is both proper and fitting to observe that this so-called 'invasion' is at least partly the result of the pioneering efforts of the first members of your organization, and the competence and reliability of those who followed.

"I should also like to add a word about the growing importance of women in the area of public service. Many have served their country with distinction, both as ambassadors and as scientists, as economists and food nutritionists, as Congress-women and administrators.

"This is only part of an impressive record. And I think it is only a promising foretaste of things to come. Please accept my personal congratulations — and gratitude."

After Post Commander Gene Mills welcomed the guests, Rev. C. M. Fogleman said the invocation. Mrs. Jack M. Collins, president of the Women's Auxiliary, responded to the welcome.

Dr. Alexander, on behalf of his clinic staff, expressed thanks to

Club Says Need Still Great

Mrs. Charles Lewis, chairman of the Junior Woman's Club clothing drive, said today those persons who were missed last night in the club's house-to-house pick-up effort may still contribute to the drive.

The chairman stated she has received many calls from persons wishing to donate clothes but many of them did not know whom to contact or what type of clothing is acceptable. For the information of all people wishing to give clothing, the plan for collecting them is as follows:

Any usable articles for children or adults would be appreciated. Persons wishing to donate clothing may call 5645 and a member of the club will call for them. Clothing may also be taken to the Welfare Department or 108 North Elm Street.

The drive will continue for two weeks, according to Mrs. Lewis. "Although we have collected many usable garments to date, we will have many children in Pitt County that will lack adequate clothing this winter unless our supply is increased," Mrs. Lewis said.

It's Either One Campaign, Or Eight

Residents of Greenville within the next two weeks will determine whether the local Community Chest lives or dies.

They will decide the fate of the Community Chest by their response to its annual appeal for funds.

Beginning Tuesday a two-week campaign will be held to raise the $14,875 requested by the eight Community Chest agencies in Greenville to meet their operational budgets for the next year. The campaign has been planned to reach as many as possible of the people of Greenville. All will be given an opportunity to donate to the Community Chest and thereby contribute to the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, White and Negro Teen Age Clubs, the Community Service Fund, the charity fund, the Kings Daughters Charity Fund, and the United Defense Fund.

In each of the past three years the Community Chest has failed to meet its goal in the annual fund solicitations. Some months ago the Board of Directors of the Community Chest decided that if the goal is not reached in the forthcoming campaign, participating agencies in the Chest be informed that the Greenville Community Chest will cease to exist after this year and each agency will have to make its own campaign for funds next year.

Reason for such drastic action by the Community Chest board is apparent. They felt the lack of sufficient financial support of the Chest during the past three years was indicative of lack of interest in the Community Chest on the part of the citizens of Greenville. Unless people of the city show more interest in the Chest campaign this year than in the past three years, the Chest cannot fulfill its purpose as the fund-raising organization of eight individual participating agencies. If it cannot fulfill its purpose it should be abandoned, the directors decided.

The citizens of Greenville can ill afford to allow their Community Chest program to be killed by default. Activities of the eight participating agencies touch every phase of community life and afford untold benefits to citizens of the community every year. At the same time the Community Chest, by raising funds for the eight separate agencies makes one money-raising drive take the place of eight.

In one contribution to the Community Chest every person who participates is contributing to all eight of the agencies.

Have the people of Greenville lost interest in the community welfare agencies which help to make this a better community in which to live 12 months a year? Is it that the people of Greenville would prefer eight individual fund-raising campaigns to one solicitation each year by the Community Chest? Is the lack of public interest only temporary and will be overcome with a successful Community Chest campaign during the next two weeks?

Greenville needs the work which is being done by the eight Community Chest agencies. These agencies in turn must have the support of the people of the community if they are to carry on their work for another year. Through the Community Chest they combine their fund-raising efforts for the convenience of the people of Greenville.

When the fund-raising campaign begins next Tuesday the people of Greenville should promptly make their annual contributions to assure that the $14,875 goal is reached and the Community Chest can be kept alive to continue to serve its agencies and the people of the city.

More Than Merely Another Factory

By LYNN NISBET

PHILPOTT—The official opening of the Philpott Furniture Corporation at Lexington was more than just another factory beginning to make china cabinets and dressing tables of high quality. The occasion gave emphasis to an often overlooked phase of the state's industrial development. That is the fact that expansion of home industry and establishment of new plants by home folks is equally important, perhaps more so, than inducing outsiders to locate in the state.

It further demonstrated that where the community spirit is alive, the loss of an industry may be converted from potential disaster to a positive asset. And that where management and workers in the plant and their neighbors in other business accept their reasonable joint responsibility there is no limit to progress.

The foregoing observations are based on the following facts:

The new million dollar Philpott corporation is not a subsidiary or an auxiliary, but is a companion piece to the United Furniture Company, an old business which the Philpott family controls by majority ownership. United Furniture has a fine selling organization and enjoys the highest reputation in the national market. Arrangement is that United buys the entire production of Philpott and sells it under the same label.

The new factory is housed in abandoned Barbel cotton mill building, upon which a heck of a lot of money was spent in remodeling after the textile mill was liquidated. What might have become a skeleton of brick walls is now one of the most modernly equipped furniture factories in the world. It was learned that a few weeks after $950,000 in stock was offered in the new corporation there was considerable complaint around Lexington. A lot of people who wanted to buy stock could not get it because they were too late. It was all gone.

COMMUNITY — The formal opening ceremonies were sponsored by the chamber of commerce, and nearly every business place in Lexington closed for an hour so all the home people could join Governor Hodges in paying tribute to the new firm as an illustration of what home enterprises can accomplish. The high school band was on hand along with several hundred students who had been excused from classes to attend.

In his address, the Governor noted that a great many, perhaps a majority, of the nationally famed manufacturing plants in North Carolina began as small local industries. These original home plants have developed to such extent that North Carolina now leads the nation in production of wood furniture, with annual sales going from $159,000 at the beginning of the century to more than a quarter billion dollars in 1955.

The home-grown aspect was further emphasized by Cloyd Philpott, president of both the companies, when he said that the favorable cooperative "climate" had made the development possible. "These companies," he said, "operated by North Carolina people, manned by North Carolina workers, financed by North Carolina money, are here with dedicated to making a better North Carolina."

Judge Hubert Olive, who served as master of ceremonies, added his testimony to the fine manner in which top management, white collar office employees and overworked workers in the plant had accepted their obligations, and the way the citizenship responded to mutual recognition of community responsibility.

It was "Philpott Day" in Lexington, but your inquiring reporter learned that comparable conditions prevailed with respect to other business and commercial enterprises in the area.

LOCAL OPTION — Along about this time of the year you may expect a "such and such kind of weather, read the old almanacs. As usual, three or four months before the convening date of the General Assembly, there are reports of renewed efforts to get a statewide vote on the legal sale of liquor. Advocates of a referendum which might result in imposing the same type of abolition or control of alcoholic beverages in every county are up against a tougher proposition than ever before.

Many of the people who have most loudly clamored for statewide policy on this issue were most vocative in support of a constitutional amendment, which was ratified, placing larger control of public schools in local authorities. Consistency is a jewel not too often found among politicians of the rank and file of citizen voters.

At the same time, it is not likely that the 400,000-plus voters who turned in majorities in each of the one hundred counties for local control issue will argue that the people in any community are less capable of deciding the method of selling liquor than of operating the schools.

As the law now stands any community can get a vote on selling liquor, or ceasing to sell it, on closing schools, or reopening them upon petition of 15 per cent of the registered voters. There are limitations as to areas involved and time in which elections may be called, but the basic provisions are essentially the same and constitute real local option.

Other Editors Are Saying... Harbinger Of Disaster?

(Rocky Mount Telegram) The Communists have a way of concealing their real ambitions in one area of the world while diverting the West with a crisis in another.

While Moscow stirs the troubled Middle East during the Suez crisis, the Western World would do well to keep a weather eye peeled on Asia, where things have been suspiciously quiet.

We should not forget the lessons we have so recently and so painfully learned at the hands of the Reds.

Only a few years ago, Moscow kept the Truman administration preoccupied with one crisis after another in Europe, including the Berlin blockade, the Greek Civil war and other minor skirmishes. All the while, great and history-shaking events were taking place in China. While we focused our attention and our aid on Europe, all China fell to the Communists. The Korean war which cost 100,000 American casualties followed as night the day.

The situation in Asia now is very disheartening. A small news item recently told a big story of the steady dismantling of American strength by the administration. For months there has been a steady upward movement of American and British Commonwealth strength from Korea and Japan until now in all of Korea there are only 40,000 United Nations troops, mostly American. The defense of Korea now rests with the South Koreans, equipped and trained by the United States.

Whether the expanding South Korean and Japanese forces will be able to stem another Communist aggression in Asia is problematic. Across the military armistice boundary in Korea are Communist forces estimated to include 428,000 North Koreans and 338,000 Chinese troops. On more than 39 new North Korean airfields, built in direct violation of the armistice agreement, nearly 1,000 modern Communist aircraft are poised.

Meanwhile there is no secret about communism's objective. It is the conquest of Japan, the industrial workshop of Asia and the home of Asia's most militant and energetic people. With China and Japan both in the Red embrace, Communist rulers would be able to engulf Europe and Africa with a hostile world.

That's why the little news item telling of the withdrawal of American strength from Asia may be the harbinger of disaster.

Just Sitting And Thinking

Among life's little comments that I have taken a liking to is one that goes something like this: "Sometimes I sit and think. Other times I just sit."

The rainy weather we've had for a couple of days caused me to recall it. In fact, to tell the truth, I thought of it while sitting and chasing little wild ideas across my mind.

Among the little ideas, questions and thoughts I chased (without any degree of success) are these:

I hope I'm in the audience when Elvis Presley beats that guitar to pieces and has to shut up. I'm looking forward to the day when I can pick up a movie magazine and not have to stare at the late James Dean in the face. I wonder if Sam Rayburn is really completely bald or if his pictures just make him look that way. Why do people insist on keeping old signs and advertisements in their store windows long after the attraction has passed? Who really owns the ball point pen I'm using? Who has the missing football ticket that belongs to The Daily Reflector?

When duck season comes in how can I get out of the house to go hunting on a day like this? Why does Alvin Taylor insist on wearing that G. I. raincoat? Is there an easy way to wash second floor windows? When am I going to get a check for those Army Reserve meetings I attended this summer?

What on earth was Howard Mims looking for in the back of his car when the rain was pouring down and soaking him? Do Gwen and I really have a balance in our Columbia bank account or is all our figuring just another example of poor math? Why are some people so cotton-picking proud of their ancestors? When is our son going to come up with his first tooth? What would Jim Boykin look like in Bermuda shorts, a long sleeve shirt, high socks and pistol belt? How come Oklahoma rated first place in the AP football poll when they haven't played a single game? Do people who design women's hats suffer from temporary insanity while working? Why do so many otherwise attractive girls chop their hair to pieces and think it's cute? What ever started me on this wild spree in the first place?

Phil Silvers And His Glasses

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ever wonder why so many comedians wear glasses?

A Broadway cynic might say the reason was "so they can make their audience look larger." But if this were true most comedians would wear hearing aids, too, in order to convince themselves they were getting louder laughs. Phil Silvers says this is why he first started wearing specs as stage props 25 years ago: "I learned people like a sign of weakness in a performer. It makes him seem more human, and gives them more of a fellow-feeling toward him." Phil wore only empty frames when he originally donned his trademark glasses as a young burlesque comic. But now, at 44, he finds it convenient to wear lenses in them. He finds they are a great help in reading the fine print on racing forms—and to see where he is going.

Just where he is going is very much on Phil's agile mind these days.

After 30 hectic years as an entertainer, he feels he is in the position of a sophomore at the moment.

Before the opening of the 1955 television season CBS gambled nearly a million dollars on a new network series called "You'll Never Get Rich," starring Silvers as Sgt. Bilko. They hadn't even lined up a sponsor, but their goal was to end the eight-year reign of NBC's Milton Berle as TV's Tuesday night king. Phil succeeded where Red Skelton, Red Buttons, Gene Autry and Frank Sinatra had failed. He dethroned Milton, because the comedian of the year. But this year?

"I'm a sophomore now," said Phil, wryly. "And the brickbats are sure to come."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

Most of us would not live in a community in which there was a church in which there was a degrading place, unfit for our families and a poor place for an honest man to think of investing his money in real estate.

Yet the Bible tells us that there will be no church in heaven. And there is a definite reason for this, because in heaven it will all be temple. Every place will be hallowed ground. There will be no localizing of God's influence, for the influence will be universal. Here on earth we set aside certain places as shrines. We dedicate sanctuaries, and to these we repair at times in order that we may come into a deeper knowledge of God and his will for us. But not so in that place of ultimate reality which God has prepared for his children. There everything and all things are holy. There men walk in the glory of God and "the lamp thereof is the Lamb." And the nations shall "walk in the midst of the light thereof; and the kings of the earth bring their glory into it."

These conditions are quite different from the conditions under which we live here on earth. The Bible does not tell us a great deal about heaven, but it does assure us that it will be a place of complete emancipation from the limitations and burdens which now afflict us. It will mean true freedom.

The Atom Will Get Into Power Battle

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Although the atom is not a partisan particle, the future and the pioneering development of this unparalleled force for industrial, commercial and agricultural uses, here and abroad, will be determined by the outcome of the November Presidential election.

Ironically, the broad atomic problem, including the ownership, management and application of this great new source of energy, which might pacify Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser and other bargain-basement dictators by irrigating and cultivating their unproductive desert acres and jungles, will not be a major or emotional issue in the Eisenhower-Stevenson contest.

Still more ironically, although understandable, few voters will realize that, in choosing between President Eisenhower and his Democratic opponent, they will be declaring whether Uncle Sam or private utility interests and their associates should build, own and operate atomic plants.

REVIVES 50-YEAR-OLD FIGHT This controversy, although far more important from a long-range viewpoint, revives the 50-year-old duel over the desirability of Federal or private development of conventional water-power resources, such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, Grand Coulee, Bonneville, Hoover Dam, Hell's Canyon, the Niagara River and the St. Lawrence River project.

It envisages a new and fiercer battle between the Roosevelt-Truman believers in a Federal power empire, and President Eisenhower's idea of a "partnership venture," embracing the Federal Government, the states and private companies.

Capitol Hill Democrats have tagged this program as a "give-away" of natural resources, and it has been accepted as campaign dogma by candidates Stevenson and Kefauver, especially by the latter, whose state of Tennessee has benefited so richly from TVA.

DEMOCRATIC VIEWPOINT ON ATOMIC ENERGY The Democrats frankly advocate the application of Roosevelt-Truman concepts on water-power development to atomic energy. Their viewpoint was embodied in Senator Albert C. Gore's bill at the recent session of Congress, which would put the Government in the atomic energy business, and bar private firms from participation except by two Tennessee representatives in Federal permission. Senator Gore is the more able of the two Tennessee representatives in the upper chamber.

The Gore measure did not become law, but the public atomic blow was able to hold up the bill, which would have justified private interests in building atomic reactors and plants on a large scale. They blocked enactment of a proposal for partial Federal reinsurance for damage to life and property caused by atomic explosions and radiation.

These possible disastrous effects have been offset by the Government in construction of the atomic submarine Nautilus because the huge cost of protective shields was no obstacle in creating this amazing underwater weapon. But private atomic firms and private insurance companies cannot afford to underwrite heavy atomic risks.

U.S. NEEDS TO KEEP PACE WITH FRIEND AND FOE The atomic problem will be settled by the next Congress and Administration, even though, curiously, it may not figure as an issue in the campaign. The United States will probably not

Crueler Side Of Inflation

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the cruel things about inflation is that it makes people think they are getting ahead when, in truth, they are standing still or slipping back. And it is easy to slide during a whirl of inflation unless your income is derived from common stocks or a craft with a tough union.

A study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows how rising taxes and inflation erode incomes. Of the two, inflation hits hardest.

The study shows that if a married couple with two children earned $3,000 in 1939, they must earn $6,122 a year now to have the same purchasing power. As the Red Queen said to Alice: "A slow sort of country! Now here it takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place." Sometimes it seems as if inflation has whisked the entire American economy through a looking glass.

HOW BOARD MEASURES IT.

The Board calculates that a family earning $3,000 in 1939 paid only $30 in Federal income and social security taxes, leaving $2,970. To have that purchasing power today, the family would have to gross $6,122, since taxes would take away $669 and loss from depreciation of the dollar would be $2,483.

A $5,000-a-year family would also have to double its income to stay in the same place, the Board calculates. In 1939, it would have paid $59 in taxes and kept $4,941. Now the family needs $10,583 to match it. Of this income, the government takes $1,511 while inflation gobbles up $4,131.

A couple earning $10,000 before the war hasn't held its own unless it is now taking in $22,428, the Board figures. Taxes would have jumped from $269 to $4,562 and the loss from inflation would be $8,135.

In the higher brackets, families have to run even harder to stay in the same place. In 1939, a $25,000-a-year family would have $23,273 after taxes, but for that buying power today it would need an income of $67,727. Of this, $24,998 would go for taxes and $19,456 would be lost through depreciation of the dollar. A pre-war income of $50,000 would equal an income of $159,030 today, which would be shrunk $78,934 by taxes, and $36,471 by inflation.

WHY NO BARRICADES?

Incomes of millions of families have not gone up at those rates. Everyone knows a few families whose earnings have increased considerably more, but they know many more families who are not making two or three times as much as they did in 1939.

Why, then, isn't there great indignation about taxes and inflation? Why aren't wives carrying placards and banners down main streets? Why haven't there been tax strikes or a riot or two? Can we no longer breed Daniel Shayeses and John Browns?

For one reason, many of the 1939 families have been fooled by inflation. Incomes have risen from $3,000 to $5,000, or from $5,000 to $7,000 and they have imagined they were getting ahead although, as the Conference Board figures show, they were falling behind. Members of other prewar families have retired or passed on, and some of the rest are too busy trying to make ends meet to spare time to demonstrate.

For another reason, millions of persons who were too young to work, or who were beginners before the war, are now making large amounts as workers or entrepreneurs. To a youngster who made $6 a week in 1939, this looks like a gold era.

Commerce Department figures show the average disposable income per person was $538 a year in 1939 and $1,630 in 1955. But, with exceptions, this triple rise in income is not going to go to new groups and individuals.

The economy has been growing richer. But many who imagine that moderately higher incomes are giving them a larger share of the wealth have been fooled by taxes and inflation.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. RAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

DRY WALLS — The builder's term for interiors that are not finished with wet plaster—include everything from pine board paneling through hardwood veneers on plywood, fiber boards and gypsum wallboards, the latter of which are a virtually prefabricated sheets of plaster.

All of these walls present some decorating problems. In cases of paneling, the proper handling of joints is important—to keep them just loose enough for natural movement, yet snug enough to seal crevices. Gypsum wallboards, the latter of which are properly installed, can give you a completely flush surface concealing joints.

Since gypsum wallboard is the most common form of dry wall construction, it is the cause of most of the complaints about decorating—especially when it has been covered with wallpaper in a hurry. After a year or two goes by, new homeowners often notice broad shadows lines and dollar spots in the coloring of their wallpaper.

This is a dead giveaway of shortcuts or plain ignorance in application of the wallpaper. FACING THE FACTS, you must admit that standard wallpaper is a quality product that presented no similar problems on other types of walls. Furthermore, typsum wallboard has proved its mettle over many years, not only by being economical, but also by accepting immediate decoration without a waiting period for drying, and by not showing settlement cracks.

In addition, gypsum wallboard is coated with a sheet of paper. It seems reasonable that it should have an affinity to wallpaper. The trouble seems to be that it has too much of an affinity. The wallpaper sticks to the paper covering of the wallboard and virtually becomes part of it. Where special cements have been used to cover nailhead impressions and taped joints between panels, the wallpaper is sticking to another substance.

The difference between those two backings is what causes the change of color in the wallpaper. The only way to avoid it is to cover all drywalls and ceilings with paint or thorough sizing before applying wallpaper. THE WALLPAPER Information Bureau in New York recommends any good quality sizing to seal wallboard. Your wallpaper dealer can suggest the right type and tell you how to mix it. If you cover walls thoroughly and let the sizing dry, you not only should have a uniform backing for your wallpaper, but also will have the privilege of removing the old paper when you want to redecorate.

Of course, you don't always have to take wallpaper off the walls when you want to hang new paper. If any paper is loose, you can peel it off and feather the edges of the remainder by careful sanding and spackling. But you can't do this forever. The time comes when you want to remove old layers and get a smooth wallpaper job.

This writer has had personal experience with this wallpaper problem on dry walls. If you move into a house knowing that it has dry wall construction, and the wallpaper shows dollar spots and bands of darker color, you can bet that you won't get that paper off by steaming or any other method without damaging the wallboard. The sensible way out is to size the walls thoroughly, or paint them. If a pint does not give you the soft decorative effect you are accustomed to, you can safely hang wallpaper over the paint and it always will be easily removable because the paint will have sealed the walls.

Little Response To Clothes Bank

"We have had only three calls since the Moose Clothing Bank started Monday night," said chairman E. T. Clark. "Just three calls."

The Bank was set up in hopes that the people of Pitt County would deposit their unwanted or unused clothes in order that the less fortunate people, children and entire families, could draw from it.

"Only one phone call has been received by the Lodge," said Clark, "and only two people have taken their clothes to the cleaners. I had hoped that this would be the big week with things tapering off next week. This is the time that most families are unpacking their winter clothes and if we don't get them now we'll have another year to wait."

Anyone in need of clothing is eligible to draw from the Bank. Anyone knowing of a child or family in need of wearing apparel may contact the Moose and they will be immediately taken care of if the Bank has sufficient clothes. "But the way things are going," stated Clark, "it doesn't look as if we can be of much help to them."

"I really can't understand why there hasn't been hardly any response. Perhaps I've failed to sell the idea, even to the Moose members. There are 800 members in the county and we've had only three calls, and I don't know if they were from members or not," repeated Clark. "We haven't heard anything from the other organizations and civic clubs, either."

Continued Clark: "If the response is not better in the next few days I plan to have the city canvassed, but I hope we don't have to go that far. All the people have to do is call the Moose Lodge (telephone 3669) and tell us they have excess clothing. Then drop the clothes on their front porch."

"If they do that we won't have to bother them when we come by. 'Evidently the people don't think there are people in this county who are in need of sufficient clothing, but they'd be surprised at the number who really do,'" said Clark. "Let me illustrate my point with this story:

"Last year I picked up a little five-year-old boy to take to our annual Christmas party. You'll remember that it was very cold. The kid was wearing a thin pair of short pants and an even thinner short-sleeved shirt. I asked him what he'd like Santa Claus to bring him and I didn't get the usual 'electric train' or 'fire truck' answer. This was the answer I got: 'All I want is a coat to keep me warm.'"

Clinic Organized For Exceptional Children

A clinic including twelve exceptional children has just been organized at East Carolina College as part of a graduate course in "Clinical Practice and Procedure in Special Education." The clinic has the twofold purpose of vitalizing and enriching the work of students and of helping young people with special problems.

Prior to the beginning of the present school year the clinic has been offered as part of the course only in summer sessions. This fall for the first time laboratory training experiences with children have been arranged for those enrolled during the regular school year.

The class, dealing with the special problems of exceptional children, is limited to twelve graduate students. All of those now taking the course are teachers in public schools. Meetings are held on Saturdays for the convenience of students and of children attending the clinic.

Dr. Frances V. Henry, who has served for the past two summers as director of the speech and hearing clinic sponsored by the college, is instructor of the graduate course. Formerly a faculty member at the University of Michigan, where she was engaged in teaching and research in special education, she became a member of the East Carolina faculty this fall.

The clinic now in progress includes children from the area extending from Pitt County through Wilmington. At present the group provides opportunities for study of an assistance to the gifted child and the child with defects of speech, deficiency of hearing, cerebral palsy, mental retardation, and other problems.

These plays all deal, in passing, with homosexuality, a subject barred from the regular licensed theaters of London's West End.

The New Watergate Club claims 10,000 members.

The Arts Club last week staged "The Children's Hour" by Lillian Hellman, which the British censor has banned for 20 years. This club claims 15,000 members.

These theater clubs are not composed of toothy juveniles and ardent little theater amateurs. Their actors and actresses are professionals being paid professional salaries.

The Theaters Act of 1843 decrees that a play should receive a license unless it is a danger to "the preservation of good manners, decorum, of the public taste."

That gives the lord chamberlain the right of censorship. He is the Earl of Scarborough, a former governor of Bombay.

Several critics are demanding that the mighty machinery of evasion be eliminated. They want the theater to censor itself.

But this may be difficult, for the Englishman gets almost as much pleasure out of legally evading the law as he may get out of watching some banned plays.

Britons Love To Sidestep Their Theater Censors

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Britons are sidestepping their theatrical censor by joining "theater clubs" which put on shows that the government forbids the public to see in regular playhouses.

By paying a small fee, any person over 18 can become a member of a theater club. Once a member, he can buy tickets for plays his club decides to stage. So far the government has not made a test case out of the clubs' right to stage shows.

The New Watergate Theater Club, recently established, is putting on three plays banned from public performance in England: "A View From the Bridge," by Arthur Miller; "Tea and Sympathy," by Robert Anderson; "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," by

Nation Will Get Full Picture Of Election Outlays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said today he plans to give the nation this year its first current picture of how much money is being spent in a national election campaign and where it is coming from.

Others asked to appear will be officials of Volunteers for Stevenson and Citizens for Eisenhower, of labor, business and youth groups set up by both parties, and of such independents as Americans for Democratic Action, Gore added.

Six Dangerous Convicts In Appalachians Captured

BIG STONE GAP, Va. (AP) — Police breathed easier today in this southwest Virginia community following the recapture of the last of six dangerous convicts who escaped Monday night from a North Carolina road gang.

Police said the pair admitted holding Delmer Sybert prisoner for about an hour yesterday in his Big Stone Gap home. Sybert said he was forced at gunpoint to fetch water but then flung the water into the face of the men and fled.

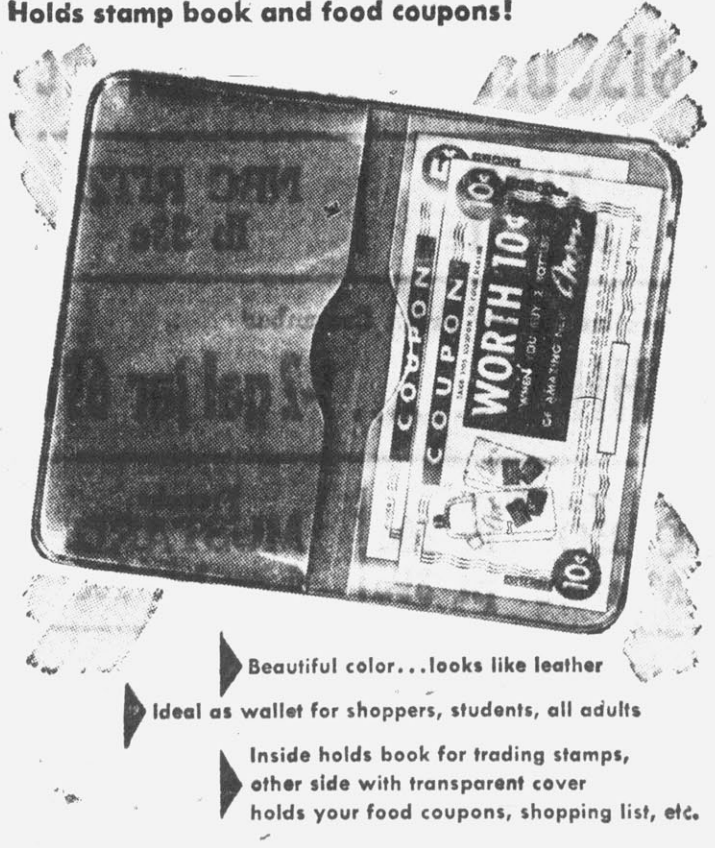

The other three — Carl B. Roberts, 33, of Orlando, Fla., Dayton Watts, 27, of Whiteville, N.C., and Raymond C. Gilley, 30, of Big Stone Gap — were picked up yesterday.

A Believer In Modern Farm Practices

Mr. George C. Moye, of Farmville, believes in using good farming practices. In the above picture he is shown turning under a five foot growth of crotalaria as a soil builder. He is a modern farmer using modern methods of farming. His whole farm can be irrigated. He has over 6,000 feet of underground transit pipe with hydrants spaced right to lay out his laterals in his fields. His source of water is deep wells, and for power to pull his pumps he uses electricity. (Photo by James W. Everett).

U. S. Is Firing Bigger Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has started preliminary firings in its intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) programs with an Army test already made and an Air Force launching expected later this fall.

The Army experiment, reported to have been made last week at the armed forces' missile test center on the Florida coast, is believed to have been an initial test of the behavior of a missile-like object without a warhead or other features of an actual weapon.

The Pentagon declined to discuss the report.

There were reasons to believe that the device was lobbed out some hundreds of miles along the seaward range from Patrick Air Force Base.

The test device climbed on a high trajectory which carried it out of the dense atmosphere of the earth, then brought it back in the "re-entry" phase. The re-entry of an object traveling at thousands of miles an hour into the atmosphere has been one of the major problems of ballistic missile designers. Friction of air creates intense heat.

In this preliminary experiment, the Army presumably was more concerned with studying the efficiency of the fuels, propellant system and the effect of re-entry than in obtaining accuracy.

The Defense Department's specifications call for a 1,500-mile range for the IRBM.

The Air Force is understood to plan for an initial test firing of its Thor intermediate range ballistic missile sometime after October. It probably will also be an experimental device.

Doctor Too Busy To Accept Honor

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Henry W. Godfrey, 79, of Newton, was chosen as "Massachusetts General Practitioner of the Year." But he was too busy with his medical chores to accept the honor in person. Dr. Godfrey explained: "It is my responsibility to see that some 17,000 children, mostly in public schools, get ample protection against polio. I'm right in the middle of the ground phase and I just can't take the time off."

Would Learn Reasons For Unprepared Pupils

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) indicated today he wants to determine why some Washington students are reaching high school without mastering reading and arithmetic.

Williams is a member of a House subcommittee investigating Washington's racially integrated schools.

Teachers and principals have testified that some students were promoted to junior and even senior high school although their mastery of basic subjects was as low as third or fourth grade level.

Badly unprepared students, witnesses said, came largely but not entirely from previously all-Negro schools.

Miss Leila Prince, 10th grade teacher at Eastern High School, showed the subcommittee some of her students' work yesterday. It included a spelling exercise in which were such examples as "beans" for "thief," "caence" for "receipt" and "pena" for "perceive."

Williams said in an interview "the people have a right to know" what produced such conditions.

Williams declined to say whether the administrative heads of the District of Columbia school system were to be called. He said, however, "The committee intends to find out whatever it can that will throw light on this 'wibble situation.'"

Continuing its inquiry into the effects of integration on school academic and disciplinary standards in the last two years, the subcommittee heard from several teachers that they felt more advanced students in their classes were at a disadvantage because so much time had to be spent on the slower learners.

Mrs. James Bernot, health and physical education teacher at Roosevelt High School, said a Negro boy and a white girl there were found to be writing love letters to each other. The girl was moved to another school after the situation was discussed with her parents, Mrs. Bernot said.

Mrs. Myrtle C. McKnew, counselor at MacFarland Junior High School, said a 12-year-old girl was withdrawn from that school because of pregnancy and it was found she had previously had one child.

Haney, Alston Have Two Views Of National Race

By ED WILKS The Associated Press Can the Braves do it? With a one-game lead and three to play, can they sweep their Manager Walter Alston, whose Brooklyn Dodgers were barred from a tie for the lead by Philadelphia and Robin Roberts 7-3 yesterday, says Milwaukee won't do it.

"No dice," says Milwaukee boss Fred Haney. "We're going to win it by Sunday. We won't settle for a playoff."

A three-game sweep is a "must" if Milwaukee wants a neat no-fuss title. Then no matter what Brooklyn does the Braves have it.

The Dodgers, however, can't win it alone any more. They need help from the Cards. One Milwaukee loss could mean a tie. Two could give the world champs a repeat pennant.

Cincinnati? The Redlegs' best hope is a major league home run record (they need two more). They no longer can win the flag without a playoff—and they must sweep their remaining two games starting Saturday at Chicago, and for hope for a Cardinal sweep and two Brooklyn losses for even a tie.

Chicago's last-place Cubs won 3-2 from the Cardinals, who had 15 hits, in 13 innings in the only other NL game scheduled yesterday. Solly Drake's single did it. Old pro Murry Dickson, beaten dispite a five-hitter, not only lost his 11th but also was eliminated as a starter against the Braves. In the American, southpaw Whitey Ford, scheduled to open the World Series for the champion New York Yankees, muffed his chance for a 20th victory with a wild pitch as Baltimore won 1-0 on a four-hit major league debut by right-hander Charlie Beaman.

Detroit, behind Paul Foytack's three-hit, defeated Chicago 4-1; Boston snatched Washington 8-4; and Cleveland downed the Kansas City Athletics 8-4 to clinch at least a tie for second place.

A dropped fly ball by left fielder Sandy Amoros in a three-run second inning and Roberts' five-hit pitching beat the Brooklyn and 26-game winner Don Newcombe. The Phils rapped 10 hits—including a Del Ennis home run, Roy Smalley's two-run double and Willie Jones' two-run single. Newark, with only two days rest, left in the fifth trailing 4-2 for his seventh loss.

Roberts walked one, struck out 10 (his high for the season) and had trouble only with Duke Snider—who hit his 40th and 41st home runs and also added a double—in winning his 19th.

Beaman, 21 and fresh from Vancouver, allowed only singles, two by Ford, and struck out nine while walking seven. Ford, with a three-inning series warmup probably on tap Sunday against Boston, wild-pitched the winning run across after singles by Tito Francona and Bob Nieman in the third inning.

Frank Sullivan won his 14th for the Red Sox, with Ted Williams and Mickey Vernon each driving in two runs. Williams, 2-for-4, now has a .350 average compared to Yankee Mickey Mantle's .354 (Mick needs nine more at bats in the closing three-game set at Yankee Stadium for the necessary 400 in the league bat race.)

Washington's Jim Lemon broke Vince DiMaggio's major league mark of 134 strikeouts with the Boston Braves in 1938. Lemon's 135th came with the bases loaded in the seventh.

Bill Tuttle homered, doubled and singled for the fifth-place Tigers, who have 80 victories for the first time since 1950.

Herb Score chalked up his 20th victory for the Indians as Vic Wertz paced the eight-hit attack with four consecutive doubles and a single and drove in five runs. The four doubles tied a major league record held by 26 others.

Braves Seeking Three Victories

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The magic number is 3 for the confident Milwaukee Braves as they await the opener of their final three-game series with the St. Louis Cardinals tomorrow night.

"The combination is 3," said Manager Fred Haney, "three Milwaukee victories. We're not counting on Brooklyn losing. We've got to win 'em all."

"There has been no question in our minds but that we feel we can do it. And we're not ready to settle for any tie or playoff. We want to win it outright."

Haney huddled with Charley Root, his pitching coach, to study charts of pitching performances against the Cardinals before naming his pitching selections. Bob Buhl was expected to work the opener, probably followed by Warren Spahn Saturday night.

The Braves, who have displayed no great surface enthusiasm down the stretch, had discussed Brooklyn's defeat by Robin Roberts and the Phillies which gave them a one-game edge.

"I never thought I'd be rooting for Roberts," said shortstop Johnny Logan. "And how about that 'Senor' shortstop Roy Smalley of the Phils, an ex-Brave who delivered a timely hit against the Dodgers."

"We're in good shape," said catcher Del Crandall, "but we've still got to win our games." "It probably will go right down to Sunday," said Warren Spahn, the Braves' 20-game winner and star of their stretch drive. "I think it's better to go into a series right off a hot pennant race."

RALEIGH—Fullback Don Hafer of North Carolina State was an outfielder on Art Hoge's pennant-winning baseball team last summer in a Nova Scotia semi-pro league. He hit eight home runs during the season.

Babe Zaharias Is Dead After Long Bout With Cancer

Babe Succumbs In Quietness Of Hospital Room

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete the world has known, died today after a stubborn battle with the one competitor she couldn't beat—cancer.

Early this morning before her death, George Zaharias, her husband, said:

"She's had enough agony, sadness and pain. And so I'm losing my wife, partner and love. God's will be done. I know she'll live forever in the hearts of millions."

Into her 42 years, she packed athletic triumphs that began with AAU basketball tournaments, included AAU track, then the Olympics and finally the golf courses of the nation.

Almost from the start she was known as "The Babe," a tag hung on her by her family.

She showed versatility early. She could kick an kid in the back, won a marble tournament, and was first-place winner in a harmonica contest.

Cancer struck in 1953 just after she won the golf tournament named for her—the Babe Zaharias Open in Beaumont.

After she underwent surgery that time she came back to win seven golf tournaments.

She died in the quiet of a hospital room, far from the crowds of frenzied sports fans that cheered her every accomplishment.

The Babe never lost consciousness. She never sank into a coma. She slipped off into death during her sleep.

George was in the room. "She died in her sleep," Zaharias said. "It was real nice and peaceful, as peaceful as a baby. She just floated away. It's been a long battle and The Babe fought it the way she knows how."

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson's second straight victory over Bob Baker moved the New Yorker into line for a crack at the heavyweight title. The assurance comes from president Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club.

"Hurricane certainly deserves consideration," said Norris, after Jackson, 25, roared to his 23rd victory in 34 fights last night in a grueling 12-round nationally televised bout with Bob Baker at Forbes Field.

"He (Jackson) made a creditable showing," said Norris, "and I think he rates a shot at either Archie Moore or Floyd Patterson, but the Patterson-Moore fight comes first."

Both Moore and Patterson have agreed to a title fight but it is still unsigned.

Bucky Resigns DETROIT (AP)—Bucky Harris resigned today as manager of the Detroit Tigers baseball team, effective at the end of the season, Sept. 30.

The resignation ended the 59-year-old manager's second term at the Tiger helm.

Tiger President Walter O. Briggs accepted the resignation. Harris mailed his resignation Sept. 5 while the Tigers were in Kansas City. He asked that it be released today.

Daniels is expecting top shows from halfback Bennie Wilson and freshman quarterback Virgil Lynch in tomorrow night's game.

Washington Is Host To Injury-Riddled Phantoms

Broken Nose—Wilkinson

Edwin Wilkinson, senior end who has been a defensive and offensive standout throughout the early season for Coach Guy Lewis' G-Men, suffered a broken nose in the Kinston encounter. The break, though it blackened both of Wilkinson's eyes, was not enough to keep the rugged 145 pounder from drills this week. He has been actively taking part in practice sessions—including contact work—and is expected to hold down his regular end slot tomorrow night against the Pam Pack.

Angus Duff, Greenville's 185 pound defensive standout at tackle position, came down with a fractured jaw, as result of last Friday's run-in with Grainger high school in College Stadium. The husky lineman was taken from the field twice during the contest, returned both times to see further action, despite the fracture. Duff, too, has been seeing action in Phantom drills this week and will probably be in his regular tackle position Friday night.

Jordan's Arm Injured Center Wade Jordan suffered trouble with a swollen arm after the Kinston game, that has persisted for several days this week. He has, however, attended drills, taken treatment for his condition, and is expected to be ready for play when the opening whistle sounds tomorrow night at Washington ball park. Jordan is a letterman and senior.

Halfback Billy Sermons, who was Greenville's workhorse in the Kinston contest, has experienced some trouble with his back. In the game, last week, he was tackled once near the Phantom sidelines and thrown into a wooden bench, landing upon his back. He continued to play the full game but was hampered by the injury. He is expected to be in good condition for the Washington tattle.

Other assorted cuts, bumps and bruises were acquired in last week's game, but none serious. Coach Lewis is expected to field his regular first string unit tomorrow night.

Roebuck Is Ready Phantom quarterback Max Roebuck, who played an outstanding game against Grainger and has been both a passing and running threat to opposing teams throughout the season, is in top condition and will direct the G-Men from the key position tomorrow. His halfbacks will be Sermons and Robert Howell or Jim Kelly. Robin Wilfong will handle fullback duties.

At the end positions, Wikerson and Billy Cox will work both offense and defense. Tackles will be Angus Duff and Roy Martin. Benny Barrett, Billy Brown and Kelly Barnhill will work at guard posts. Jordan will be the center.

Require Permits To Burn Trash

Beginning October 1, all people who desire to burn trash, brush fields and other rubbish within 500 feet of wooded areas must have a burning permit.

In reminding persons of the state law regarding such fires, County Ranger N. S. Tyson said such permits must be obtained before the fire is started. Failure to obtain a permit makes the offender liable to fines up to $50 and imprisonment up to 30 days. He added that permits are not needed to start fires between 4 p.m. and midnight.

Tyson also pointed out that 85 per cent of the forest fires in Pitt County last year were caused by carelessness. "We can keep the number of fires down this year," he added, "by being extremely careful with fire, by promptly reporting any fire observed to the Greenville fire tower, and by assisting when called up to help control fires."

Tyson and other persons throughout the county are authorized to issue the permits which are issued without charge. Persons who are authorized to issue the permits include Tyson, at Greenville, Route 2; the North Carolina Forest Fire Tower, Greenville, Route 2; C. J. Satterthwaite, Pactolus; Mrs. Thurman Crawford, Greenville, Route 1 (Ballard's Cross Road); Murphy Brothers, Grifton; R. G. Little, Grimesland (lumber mill); W. C. Spencer, Greenville (Black Jack);

Mrs. Linwood Haddock, Greenville, Route 2; Blanco Ross, Greenville, Route 2 (Highway 43); J. W. Crawley, Ayden (Amoco Station); O. W. Dail, Winterville; Lloyd Manning, Greenville (county jail); J. Henry Whitehurst, Stokes; E. M. Wooten, Falkland; McAlvin Turner, Greenville (Belvoir); Major James, Bethel; Wilbur Garris, Ayden, Route 2; James J. Edwards, Ayden (Stokes Town); William A. House, Stokes, Route 1; A. J. Moore, Fountain, Route 1; J. H. Bundy, Walstonburg, Route 3; and Carl Lewis, Belvoir.

Fatherhood Just Proved Too Much

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Luigi Caruso, 21, became a father for the first time and after a look at his newborn son, fainted. When he was revived, the exuberant Luigi put his hand through a glass telephone booth in the hospital corridor.

When police came to see what the noise was all about, Luigi, who doesn't speak English, feared he was in trouble and ran up to the hospital roof. He refused to come down until the police went away.

When he came down, doctors gave him a sedative and he was sent home to calm down.

Mother and son were doing much better, the hospital reported.

Small Estate Is Left By Lugosi

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Once wealthy actor Bela Lugosi, who died Aug. 16 at 74, left an estate worth $2,900.

His will, filed in Superior Court for probate, left everything to a son, Bela Jr., 18. Under California community property law, the son must share the property with Lugosi's widow, Mrs. Hope Liniger Lugosi, to whom he was married Aug. 24, 1955. The will was dated Jan. 12, 1954.

Chimney Moved By Mistake

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Henry O. Erbland noticed something missing from the roof of his home. The chimney was gone. His wife said a man had been walking on the roof all day and making a lot of noise. Under questioning by Dr. Erbland, the roof-walker—a mason—discovered he was supposed to be working across the street.

Easy Credit Or Costly Money 'Cure' Debated

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Builders and bankers are sharply divided today on which would revive the home building boom: easier credit or costlier money?

The government is making it a little easier for folk to swing a deal for the cheaper houses. But some builders doubt that it will cause many more homes to rise. They contend that mortgage interest rates will have to be hiked if home buyers are to find funds in this tight money market to close the deal.

The light pump priming by Washington led some stock traders to believe other relaxations were on the way—particularly the much talked-of lowering of bank reserves to make more money available to borrowers.

On the chance that the authorities were in a mood to let the inflation camel get its nose under the tent again—so goes the story in Wall Street—some traders bid up stock prices Friday. When this possibility looked dimmer Monday, stock prices eased again.

Home builders have been the loudest in complaining about tight money, with small businessmen runners-up. Housing starts this year are trailing last by 200,000. Builders insist there is still a big demand for new homes but that it's getting harder all the time to find investment funds for the mortgages.

Interest on those backed by the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration is fixed at 4 1/2 per cent. Builders note that people can get more for their money on other investments. Builders want Congress to raise the limit on these mortgage loans and say that otherwise home building will continue to trail.

Some bankers question this, thinking the slowdown in building is more likely due to increased building costs and to less demand for smaller homes. They stress that the trend this year is toward larger and more costly houses.

Yellowknife Runs Into New Boom In Uranium

YELLOWKNIFE, Northwest Territories (AP)—When gold was discovered here 22 years ago, Yellowknife became a Klondike-style boom town. Today far richer finds in uranium and base metals have changed the place into a streamlined modern community.

Part of old Yellowknife still remains—a sprawl of prospectors' shacks, stores and warehouses now mainly a headquarters for bush pilots and raver men of the Canadian Northwest.

But around it a new town has grown. Here a modern water system links the homes and business of its 3,000 inhabitants. A gleaming new federal building and town hall outshine those boasted by most prairie towns. Some 500 cars, buses and trucks travel over 75 miles of new road.

"This is a young man's country," says Mayor Fred Henney, former labor organizer who came here in 1947 and stayed to become a successful businessman.

Mining experts say gold is a mere nugget in a vast treasure house of minerals which covers more than a quarter of Canada. As yet, prospectors and mining companies have barely scratched the surface in the 1,305,000 square miles of the Northwest Territory.

future of the area are the Pine Point zinc-lead deposits on the south shore of Great Slave Lake. It is believed to contain more than 60 million tons of the minerals, and will be mined as soon as a railroad is built from the south. But the pace of exploratory work is slow. Distance, climate, transport and power are all problems. Mining authorities believe the problem of heating and power in this land of long winters might eventually be solved by "portable" atomic power plants.

James Dean Cult Isn't First Or Last In History Of Films

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — A year ago next Sunday, James Dean's life was snuffed out on the highway, ending at 24 what promised to be a notable acting career.
 The posthumous cult for Dean has not been equaled in film history. The reasons have been expounded in magazines and news articles — the identification of today's youth with Dean's film portrayals and his own mixed-up life, etc.
 But I believe a prime factor is also the sentiment aroused because a star died before fulfilling his promise. In that, Dean was not unique. History has often repeated the tragedy of stars who were erased from the film scene by sickness, suicide or sudden death before the prime of life.

 Wallace Reid comes to mind. He won overnight fame for a fight scene in "Birth of a Nation." He starred in picture after picture, usually as the all-American boy. When he fell ill in 1922, his studio explained it was a case of "over-work and Kleig eyes."
 But the ugly truth came out: Wally Reid had become a morphine addict. His waste-body gave up life on Jan. 18, 1923, and the scandal rocked the film industry to its foundations.
 The greatest after-death cult of a film star before Dean was that of Rudolph Valentino. A superbly handsome Italian immigrant, whose real name was Rodolfo Guglielmi, he enjoyed five years of stardom as the great lover of the screen. He died at 31 on Aug. 23, 1926, of complications following a stomach ulcer operation. But, as with Dean, his legend lives on.
 Dorothy Dell was a New Orleans girl who started toward fame as Miss Universe of 1930. She starred with newcomer Shirley Temple in "Little Miss Marker" and was on her way toward a bright film career. But sudden death in a car crash ended her life at 19 on June 8, 1934.
 On Sept. 2 of that year, another promising career came to an untimely end. Russ Columbo had ridden the top of the crooner craze with hit records like "You May Call It Madness" and "Prisoner of Love."

Week Offered Bright And Dark Side Of TV Effort

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK — The best half-hour filmed series of action and romance in this new television season has made its debut on NBC-TV. It is "Sir Lancelot" which concerns the knights of King Arthur's Roundtable many centuries ago.
 Doubtless designed primarily for younger viewers, "Sir Lancelot" actually appeals to anyone of any age who enjoys watching heroic action. Filmed in England, this program unrolls a magnificent pageant of knights and castles, of jousting and broad swords. The producers appear to have spared no effort in recapturing the authentic details of the days of chivalry.
 The worst new comedy situation series of the season follows "Sir Lancelot" on NBC-TV. It is cial Announcement", might have been more interesting.

 As the wealthy collector, Bob Cummings gave a convincing performance which showed he has assets other than light comedy. In his breathless desire to withhold the reason why Cummings was going to burn the precious document, the drama went into a long series of flash-backs. The obvious reason—that the collector wished to bring attention to the spirit of the document by burning it—seemed apparent from the beginning. So why didn't they play the story line straight and let its natural dramatic values carry it?

Some 'Logis' In Arrest Reports

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Police Sgt. Ernest Nelson says one can learn a lot about logic from arrest reports.
 He cited a few instances:
 A man arrested for drunk driving said, "I won't take that test (intoximeter) because it will show I've been drinking."
 A driver involved in a collision with another car said, "I hit him because he didn't drive fast enough for me."
 Three persons served warrants for non-payment of traffic fines commented in succession: "I paid it," "I forgot it," and "I knew you were coming for me I wouldn't have been here."

FAMILY AFFAIR

PRATT, Kas. (AP)—When Arlene Johnson was wed to H. Dean Johnson at the Pleasant Hill church recently, the ministers who read the vows were her father, the Rev. Calvin Johnson, and her grandfather, the Rev. Levi Johnson. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Johnson, were among those present.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

SYNOPSIS
Connie Barton's suspicions were aroused by her husband's clumsy excuses for his regular Wednesday night absences. She trailed Steve to a private dance studio and then realized he was taking dancing lessons as a pleasant surprise for her. Keeping herself unnoticed, Connie watched the door of the studio till Steve left, and went in for a private word with his teacher. She found the instructor, Anita Farrell, sprawled on the floor—shot dead. In the corpse's hand was a paper silhouette of herself. Confused, Connie first thought was to cover up for Steve. She grabbed the silhouette and the appointment book at the unattended reception desk outside and went home to confront Steve. She had to believe his assertions of his innocence.

Police promptly got the names of all Miss Farrell's pupils and began checking to identify the 7 p.m. Wednesday waltzer. When Lieut. Bolling asked Steve his lesson time, Steve said 3 o'clock Saturday. From the stolen appointment book Steve took the lesson time of a Ralph Tolley whom Bolling hasn't contacted—yet.

With a plan in mind to save Steve, Connie is about to be interviewed by Oliver Bell, the proprietor of the dance school.

man whom elderly ladies probably doted upon, matrons admired and ingenuos adored. I could see why the Crescent School of Dancing was such a tremendous success.

He smiled at me. "You wish to join our faculty?"

"Yes, Mr. Bell."

"And your name is . . ."

"I didn't bother him with the detail that I was Connie Barton, the Waltzer's wife. I had a big, black tie all ready for him."

"I said, 'My name is Hester Frost.'"

"Hester." He sounded relieved, as though he had been afraid that all of my type blondes would be named Bubbles St. Clair. "Are you married, Hester?"

"I lowered my eyes. 'Not yet, sir.'"

"How old are you, Hester?"

"I raised my eyes defiantly. 'Twenty-three.'"

He seemed to believe me; I began to like him. He said, "Have you had any experience in teaching dancing?"

"Well," I said, "to be perfectly honest, very little." I smiled modestly. "But I have four brothers and I taught them all to dance and they're all wonderful dancers. At least, everybody raves about their dancing, to be perfectly honest."

"That's a good recommendation." He shot me two ounces of his sedate charm. "Many of our students are brothers," he said, twinkling.

I laughed. But gently, to show him that, although I had enough sense of humor to appreciate his, I was also very well bred.

He said, "You know, Hester, I like to think of us as a family institution . . . all brothers and sisters, fathers and mothers, aunts and uncles, all learning to dance for our pleasure and health."

He stepped to a pane on the wall and turned a knob over the words FOX TROT. Must, secreted into the room. He came to me. "Shall we dance?" he said.

"Why, I'd love to, Mr. Bell." This was hardly true. This was one dance that I would have given years of my life to sit out. But I rose and did my best to float into his arms.

We danced. We fox-trotted. Mr. Bell switched the music dial and we salted. Then, after another flick of the dial, Mr. Bell was leading me through a rumba. By the time, I had regained enough poise to realize that I was indeed dancing with a dancing master.

"Mr. Bell," I said, "you dance divinely!"

"Thank you," he said. His voice took on an inspirational tone. "And you know, I had to learn! Many people ask me if I were born dancing. No, I had to learn . . . and I didn't learn until I was an adult."

"One is never too old," I said bitterly, "to learn to dance."

"Exactly. And when my wife saw the pleasure dancing afforded me, she insisted on three sons learn. But we couldn't afford that."

Mr. Bell chuckled. "Mrs. Bell said it would be cheaper to start a school of our own and so we did."

"Seriously?"

"No, not seriously. But it was Mrs. Bell who inspired this school."

"She must be a wonderful woman."

"Yes, she was."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"It was a long time ago. How proud she'd be of our three boys. They're all grown up and in college now."

"All three in college? Where?"

"Harvard," Mr. Bell said, "Yale, and Princeton."

"Well! And where did you go to school, Mr. Bell?"

"Arthur Murray's," Mr. Bell said.

Now we were waltzing, again, and I began to feel that I had surely made the grade and the job was mine. Mr. Bell seemed to be enjoying himself too much. He didn't have to hold me this time. This cheek-to-cheek business for instance . . . and then, really, after all!

I put one foot behind his heels and gave him a push. He was surprised indeed. But before I could speak the words of a woman-outraged, he was smiling at me and he and his sedate, charm were back once more on their feet.

"Lester," he said, "you have passed both tests. Not only the dancing test, but the character test. I am sure that you will keep any overly amorous pupil in his place. I'm sure that you would never encourage this sort of thing."

"No, sir, not during business hours," I said, and added quickly, "nor after business hours. Emphatically, Mr. Bell."

"Fine. This is one of our most important rules here. We never, no matter how much we are urged, make dates with our students. We never see them except in the studio. That applies also to the faculty members of the opposite sex. We remember that this is a place of business, not a social club for boys to meet girls. Romance is a beautiful thing, Hester, and I approve of it heartily. But it can undermine and demoralize a business institution such as this one."

"I promise," I said, "not to fall in love with any pupil or teacher."

"Fine." Then his charm evaporated and he was a troubled man. "You undoubtedly know," he said, "about our tragedy of last evening."

"I read about it," I admitted.

"A terrible thing. My school in all its eighteen years has never been touched by even the breath of scandal. I have guarded its reputation with all my strength. And that, Hester, has been the key to my success."

"Yes, sir."

"I am fortunate in having an uncanny ability to judge character. I know, for instance, that you are exactly the sort of person we want on our faculty."

"I'm sorry I proved it to you so violently. Did I hurt you?"

"Not at all, and please don't apologize. It was gratifying to me that you have so much strength of conviction. I have never before been knocked completely off my feet. Now . . . where was I?"

"You have an uncanny ability to judge character."

"Yes, I do. I interview every single person who wishes to enroll with us as a student and my only slip in all these years was when I accepted the monster who was Miss Farrell's pupil last evening at seven o'clock."

"The monster?"

"Miss Farrell's murderer. I failed to detect in him the depravity which he displayed here at seven o'clock."

"Oh, you mean it was . . . an act of passion?"

"What else?"

"My goodness!"

"And I failed to detect that in my interview with him."

"Oh," I tried to keep my voice steady. "You remember interviewing him, then? You . . . remember who he is?"

Tomorrow, in the arms of a dancing partner, Connie spots a promising clue. Don't miss the next installment.

Bathtubs Rate Second To TV Set

LOS ANGELES (AP)—As mothers of dirt-tinged little boys have long known, the bathtub runs a poor second to television in popularity.

"There are now more TV sets than bathtubs in American homes," Robert S. Bell, executive vice president of the Packard-Bell Co., said yesterday.

U. S. manufacturers in eight years have produced 49 million TV sets, he told a National Television Week meeting of industry representatives.

Miss Hutchinson will play the title role of Eileen. Mrs. Garren will play the role of Ruth, Eileen's sister, and L'Abate will play the role of the landlord Mr. Appopolous.

Major supporting roles in the production will be played by Faye Leggett, Cora Lee, Claude West, Lyle Gnagey, Sam Fleming, Claude Taylor, Bea Chauncey, Elizabeth Savage, Jim Pret, Dick Heiler, Norm Pierce, Bob Kirkland and Miriam Vetter.

Ed Hirschberg will act as assistant director for the play and Diane Pret will be rehearsal assistant.

Little Interest In Queen's Swans

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Queen Elizabeth of England can just keep her swans.

Seems she had offered her swans to this city which always has gone in for the big birds as sightseeing attractions.

It would cost about $300 to get the swans over. A drive was started to raise the money.

Only $7 was raised so the project was dropped.

Third Avenue in New York City, a gloomy, dark street before the elevated railway was recently torn down, now has fluorescent lights which make it 40 times brighter than moonlight.

NEW YORK — The stock market remained ahead by a narrow margin in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Leading stocks were up from fractions to around a point. A few specialties made larger gains.

General Motors, Chrysler and Ford were steady or a bit higher as the outlook brightened for the 1957 model year. But the business news background was rather mixed, including reports of layoffs by some appliance makers and inventory problems in the farm equipment field.

Aluminums and oils showed gains running to around a point or so. Leading chemical issues had fractional gains and aircrafts were up fractions to a point or more.

The performance looked like a moderate continuation of yesterday's late rally.

Another Opening For Jamboree

Dr. Ed Carter of Greenville, Pitt District, Boy Scouts of America Jamboree chairman, has announced that the Ayden Lions Club has reserved a place for an Explorer Scout to attend the fourth annual Jamboree.

The Ayden Lions Club sponsors Explorer Post No. 334. John L. Herzig is leader of the unit and Hall Miller is assistant leader. There are 15 young men who are members of the unit. Their ages range from 14 through 17.

Dr. Carter announced that the reservation for the Ayden Lions Club make a total of nine from Pitt county to date. He urged others using the scouting program to contact him concerning reserving a place for a scout of their unit.

responsibilities of leadership."

MILTON—Eisenhower was even more emphatic in commenting on Stevenson's contention that the administration, through the President's brother Milton, appeased the Peron regime in Argentina.

On the matter of loans to the Argentine, Eisenhower told news men with some heat not to come to him with that. He said it was under the Truman administration that 130 million dollars in loans to the Peron government were authorized. That was in 1951, he said, and it wasn't a Republican government, it was a Democratic government.

Eisenhower said his administration has established 160 million dollars in credit for the new Argentine government, set up after Peron was ousted, and has studied ways of effective cooperation with it.

His brother Milton, Eisenhower said, helped news agencies regain facilities and operations in Argentina. And he said his brother-in-law had acted except on the request of the State Department and through it.

Eisenhower said he had asked the department for a report on his brother's operations and would put it out without comment when it becomes available.

The Moose Lodge gave a press party for representatives of the three organizations last night. From left to right above are: D. J. supreme self-confidence of the ordinary Harvard sophomore, in whom all wisdom is said to repose, feels his role as the fast-talking Sgt. Bilko will last for several golden years.

"We are planning pretty far ahead, so the audience won't get tired of him," he said. "For one thing we don't intend to keep Bilko in the Army forever. Eventually we'll convert him into a civilian, where we can put him into new comedy situations."

Right now Bilko takes all Phil's waking hours—and many hours he should be sleeping, too. He has to learn, rehearse and film a new 75-page script every week.

"I never left a show in my life," he said, "and I'll stay with this one until its gone."

His new fame and financial success—he can afford to buy a solid gold "welcome mat" for his door if he chooses—doesn't impress Phil. He has known it before.

"I had an unusual beginning in show business—I started at the top," he recalled.

He was a vaudeville star earning hundreds of dollars a week in his teens. He also became a Broadway musical star, and in between these peaks spent some less happy years making 23 movies.

Like most comedians, Phil suffers from insomnia—he writes most of his letters from 4 to 5 a.m.—and is a brooder. The one thing he misses most in his life is the normal childhood most people have had.

"At 14, when other kids were out playing stickball," he remarked recently, "I was arguing with the drummer about the music for my act."

"But at the time that's what I thought I wanted. I don't blame anybody but myself."

Funeral Friday For Mrs. Martha Harris

Mrs. Martha Ann Harris, 88, of Plymouth, died early Thursday morning. Funeral services will be conducted at the Plymouth Methodist Church Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock and burial will be in the Plymouth Cemetery.

Mrs. Harris was born and reared in the Parker's Chapel Community and was the oldest member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are a son, Dr. Claudius McGowan of Plymouth; three brothers, H. B. G. H. and R. W. Harris, all of Greenville; a sister, Mrs. Jane Whitehurst of Williamston; two grandchildren; and three great grandchildren.

Start Series Of Departmental Meets

East Carolina students attended Thursday night's first of a series of departmental meetings sponsored by the fourteen departments of instruction at the college for their majors. The campus-wide series, the first to be staged on the campus, had the purpose of bringing faculty members and students together for discussion of departmental activities and review of problems of instruction.

Similar meetings have been announced by Vice President Leo W. Jenkins for November 28, February 11, March 12, and May 7.

Disputed Possession Of Auto Highlight Of Court

John Nicholas Sideris, one of the defendants in the civil case brought by Wachovia Bank & Trust Company, Goldsboro Branch, was allowed by a Pitt Superior Civil Court jury to keep the automobile allegedly belonging to the Bank.

In their complaint filed against the defendants Sideris, 202 Centennia Street and McNeil, Grif-ton, Wachovia said that the automobile purchased by Sideris from the Kinston Motor Company, Incorporated, had previously been purchased by Kelly and that he still owed $179.63 on it, therefore, the car did not rightfully belong to Sideris.

In Sideris' answer to the complaint, he said that when he bought the car from the Kinston Company, which burned down after the purchase, he had no knowledge of a lien attached. He therefore refused to relinquish the car when Claim and Delivery Proceedings were issued by Wachovia.

In answer to the plaintiff's charges, Kelly replied that he had never purchased the car and did not execute a promissory note or conditional sales contract. Kelly also replied that he did not pay to Wachovia two monthly payments and that the signatures of his name appearing on the note and contract were forged, although Lieutenant L. T. Kelly, a hand-writing expert with the Mecklenburg County Police, testified that signatures appearing on the two documents belonged to Kelly.

William F. Taylor, salesman for Kinston Motors at the time of the alleged purchase by Kelly, in his testimony denied that the signatures were forged. He also testified that when he sold the car to Sideris he knew there was a lien on it and was going to clear it, but never did.

Wachovia gave notice of appeal to Supreme Court to presiding Judge Chester R. Morris.

The jury's final ruling on the three-day-long case was that the plaintiff was not owner of the automobile and that they recover nothing of Kelly and that the automobile, valued at $1800, belonged to Sideris.

In other civil cases this week, Judge Morris granted two divorces and issued an order.

Nellie Boyd Smith, Negro, was granted an absolute divorce from Clinton Smith, Negro, on the grounds of two years separation.

Mandola H. Stanley was also granted a divorce, upon two years separation, from Gerald Howard Stanley.

Judge Morris ordered that the case J. A. Elks, plaintiff, versus W. A. Jones, defendant, be moved to Franklin County.
