'MR. DEMOCRAT' ARRIVES FOR ADDRESS

Tito, Khrushchev Huddle At Yalta

LONDON (AP) — A second Yalta conference appeared in the making today following the arrival of Yugoslav President Tito and Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev in the Black Sea resort.

The presence of Soviet Premier Bulganin and Foreign Minister Dimitri Shepilov at Sochi, another Black Sea resort less than an hour's flying time from Yalta, lent credence to widespread Western beliefs that top-level Communist talks were planned.

Bolstering the speculation in the West was the surprise nature of the flight by Tito and Bulganin from Belgrade to Russia yesterday and the large number of advisers on hand for what was described officially as "a few days rest."

Bulganin and Shepilov previously had been reported on a holiday in Sochi.

Word that Tito and Khrushchev had reached Yalta — site of the last World War II meetings between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin — came from Belgrade radio. An earlier Moscow radio broadcast reported they had arrived in Sevastopol from Yugoslavia and then "journeyed to the south coast of the Crimea where they will be resting."

The Tito-Khrushchev party left Belgrade in a surprise move early yesterday. The Yugoslav group included Tito's wife Jovanka, Vice President Alexander Rankovic and Djuro Pucar, chairman of the state of Bosnia-Herzegovina and a member of the Yugoslav Communist party Politburo.

With Khrushchev were the Ukrainian Communist party head, Alexei Kirichenko, and the Soviet Union's top woman Communist, Mrs. Ekaterina Furteva.

Khrushchev flew to Belgrade Sept. 19 for an equally surprising visit billed officially as a holiday.

The two leaders conferred several days privately on the Adriatic island of Brioni. Foreign observers believed the main subject of their talks was "Tito's independent brand of communism and its relation to the Soviet Union."

Tito was booted out of the old Soviet-led Cominform by Stalin in 1948. Since the current Kremlin leaders got their regime rolling, they have been making concerted efforts to bring Yugoslavia back to the fold. Khrushchev and Bulganin made a trip to Belgrade in June 1955 to make peace with Tito and the Yugoslav president last June made a triumphal tour of the Soviet Union.

On the eve of Tito's June visit to Russia, V. M. Molotov was relieved as Soviet foreign minister. Molotov had played a leading role in the Soviet campaign against Tito between 1948 and 1955.

Prizes Awarded In Junior Leaf Show

Tobacco raised by ten 4-H and FFA club members was sold at auction this morning as the Fifth Annual Junior Tobacco Show and Sale was brought to a conclusion.

Horace Corbitt, Fountain 4-H Club member, was awarded first prize of $50 during yesterday's show for his entry in the event.

Corbitt said he grew 1974 pounds of tobacco on his 8 of an acre. He averaged $62.30 per hundred pounds on today's sale.

Other winners in yesterday's show: second prize, H. W. Mills Jr., Greenville Rt. 1, 4-H Club member; third prize, Harry Ferguson Jr., Washington Rt. 1, 4-H; fourth prize, James Allen Braxton, Greenville Rt. 2, 4-H; fifth prize, Richard McLawhorn, Winterville 4-H; sixth prize, Fanny Braxton, Greenville Rt. 2, 4-H; seventh prize, Arthur Council Jr., Greenville Rt. 6, 4-H; eighth prize, Moye Waters, Winterville Rt. 2, 4-H.

The other two farm youth who entered tobacco in the show and sale were James Earl Stox, Winterville FFA member, and Ward Sutton, Winterville FFA.

This morning the tobacco was sold under fluorescent lights and in an area which was separated from the remainder of the warehouse.

The baskets of tobacco were placed on dollies, hooked together

Pilot Dies As Record Rocket Plane Crashes

EDWARDS, Calif. (AP)—The speed and altitude record-holding Air Force plane X-2, rocketing above 45,000 feet, developed unexplained trouble and crashed yesterday. The pilot was killed.

The needle-nose, swept-wing research craft, which had sped 1,900 miles an hour and climbed to a reported 125,000 feet on previous flights, ended its spectacular career in shattered wreckage on the desert 20 miles east of Edwards Air Force Base.

The body of the pilot, Capt. Milburn G. Apt, 32, still was strapped in the capsule cockpit section. He had apparently made no effort to escape by ejecting himself.

Apt, a 13-year Air Force veteran, died on his first flight in the X-2.

The plane, built by Bell Aircraft Co., was taken up to 30,000 feet suspended from the belly of a B-50 bomber. There it was released and its rockets shot it up in a steep, swift climb.

Following briefly were two Sabrejet "chase planes," one piloted by Capt. Iven C. Kincheloe, who had flown the X-2 to its 125,000 foot altitude record.

The X-2 quickly outsped its pursuers and vanished into the sky. No more was heard from its pilot.

Trouble apparently developed while the plane was between 45,000 and 60,000 feet, Edwards AFB officials said.

The first report of the crash was made by the Air Force in Washington, D.C., and no details of the plane's plunge to earth were given.

The three million dollar plane was one of two X-2's built by Bell for research at supersonic speeds and extreme altitudes. The other was destroyed in an explosion while suspended from a mother plane over Lake Ontario in May, 1953.

Efficiency Expert Will Be Hired For State's Affairs

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Hodges revealed yesterday he is hiring an efficiency expert to put state government on a more businesslike basis.

He also declared that changes in the state's tax structure that will be made by the Tax Study Commission, because of their newness to Tar Heel tax thinking, could be considered "revolutionary."

The governor, who has been stressing the need of luring new industry into North Carolina, said the tax change proposals are designed to meet the state's "changing economy" and get new industry.

Although he didn't indicate whether there would be any relief for individual income tax payers, he reiterated, "It's going to take a tax structure that will attract industry and with which they can live."

The governor's disclosures came in an informal meeting of his department heads following his afternoon news conference.

He told the department heads he had "persuaded a man of high stature" to look at the government and recommend economies.

He later identified the man as E. W. Medbury of Leaksville, N.C., where Hodges himself got his start with the Marshall Field textile interests and later rose to top command.

Medbury, said the governor, has been in management work for years and is highly regarded in his field. He said Medbury would be paid "very modestly" for his services.

The governor said Medbury's study would begin soon and that he hoped to have some recommendations ready for the 1957 General Assembly to act on.

The governor, during his chat with his administrators, criticized budget procedures and called for more businesslike procedures.

He noted that recent budget requests presented to the Advisory Budget Commission for the next two fiscal years added up to $1,010,000,000. The requests, which he said would be trimmed drastically, nevertheless are 915 million in excess of all available and foreseeable funds, the governor declared.

Textile Leaders Hail Conditional Jap Offer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The move to limit Japanese imports of textiles has been hailed by leaders of the cotton textile industry as "an important step which will restore confidence in the industry."

A statement by industry leaders last night said:

"It is reassuring to the industry to know that the U.S. government has taken a firm stand against unfair and inequitable competition from abroad. The government has recognized, by its efforts, that import ceilings should and will be established for cotton goods. This is an important step which will restore confidence in our entire industry."

The statement was issued by F. E. Grier of Greenwood, S.C., president of the American Cotton Manufacturing Institute; Lawton S. Brayton, president of the Northern Textile Assn.; Seabury Stanton, chairman of the association's national committee; Robert T. Stevens, former secretary of the National Textile Assn.; and J. Craig Smith, president of the Avondale Mills, Sylacauga, Ala., and W. Ray Bell, president of the Assn. of Cotton Textile Merchants, New York.

They were attending a meeting of the Northern Cotton Textile Assn. at Portsmouth, N.H.

Sherman Adams, aide to President Eisenhower, addressed the meeting a few hours after Japan disclosed in a note to the State Department its plan to continue voluntary curbs on cotton goods exports to the United States.

Adams said the Japanese agreement should eliminate "misgivings about the future" and be of "stabilizing and long range benefit" to both countries.

Adams, former governor of New Hampshire, said also that the administration is prepared to act to prevent U.S. industry from succumbing to the effects of cheap imports from abroad.

He added that an arrangement with Japan to limit the shipment of Japanese cotton goods to this country is an example of "federal action most certainly to ensue" if domestic industries are threatened with ruin.

The State Department's announcement brought forth mixed reaction in the Carolinas which are heavily engaged in the industry.

N. C. Crime Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI has reported that crime in four categories increased in North Carolina during the first six months of 1956 and decreased in only one robbery.

The report also showed that all crime in North Carolina increased during the six-month period over the same period last year. For the nation, the FBI said the increase was 14.4 per cent. The report was based on figures submitted by cities throughout the nation.

Increases in crime were noted in North Carolina in murder and non-negligent manslaughter; aggravated assault; burglary, breaking and entry; larceny and theft; and auto theft.

The decrease in robbery was from 14 per 100,000 population to 11.8 per 100,000.

The increases were: murder and non-negligent manslaughter, from 4.4 per 100,000 in 1955 to 6.3 in 1956; aggravated assault, 14.5 to 164.5; burglary, breaking and entering, from 181 in 1955 to 200.7 in 1956; larceny and theft, from 461.2 in 1955 to 585.7 in 1956; and auto theft, from 73.2 to 78.7.

Found Dead Of Shotgun Wound

A 31-year-old Negro East Carolina College employee died of a shotgun wound in the chest yesterday morning between eight and ten o'clock.

Allen Gorham, 615 Howell Street, was found dead by his wife, Dorothy, around noon yesterday. Gorham was lying across his bed on his back, the upper part of his body covered with blood.

Gorham's wife said that he had been in bad health for the past 12 or 13 years and had gone to the hospital last January for treatment of an ulcerated stomach. She then produced a note Gorham had written around 10 months ago threatening to kill himself.

The weapon, a three-shot automatic shotgun, was found parallel to his body about a foot from it.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse said that the investigation is not complete.

Slightly Over 2 Inches Of Rain

The Lower Coastal Plain Tobacco Research Farm south of Greenville reported that two and one-half inches of rain fell Wednesday and Thursday.

The rain was a steady drizzling one that soaked into the ground and did not wash away, said the Research Farm.

They also reported that the Tar River is slightly above normal.

Driver Training Program For Greenville Schools Discussed

Several community leaders gathered Wednesday night to hear Robert T. Ellett Jr., former member of the Safety Department of American Motors, discuss the possibilities of establishing a Driver Training Program in the Greenville schools.

Ellett, now employed with the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, outlined several methods for the program installation, but the method that seemed to fit Greenville best was the one wherein classroom work would be done in the school and the actual driving would be done during the summer months.

L.M. Buchanan, President of the North Carolina Mutual Insurance Agents Association, who attended the meeting, said, "the chief difficulty in establishing such a

By JIMMY ELLIS

NEW BERN — House Speaker Sam Rayburn, scheduled to speak at a political rally in Greenville tonight, lashed out at Eisenhower and Benson agricultural policies as he stepped off a plane here at noon today.

Rayburn answered Eisenhower and Benson claims that the Democrats are politicking at the farmer's expense by pointing out that farm income has gone down steadily since Eisenhower has been in office.

"Republicans have failed to meet the needs of farmers with their agricultural program," Rayburn declared upon his arrival here.

As to Democratic prospects in this year's national election Rayburn said: "We're winning this time."

He went on to say that "the South is going solid this time for the Democratic party."

"We're going to get all the border states and some of the big ones," the man who served as permanent chairman of the Democratic convention declared.

Rayburn told the group that met him at the airport here that he had "no doubts" about his home state of Texas going Democratic this year.

"We have a state executive committee now, every member of which is pledged to the Democratic ticket of Stevenson and Kefauver."

Rayburn got an enthusiastic welcome from the crowd of approximately 20 people who met him at the airport.

A delegation of Young Democrats from East Carolina College sang "Eyes of Texas" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas" as the House Speaker stepped onto North Carolina soil and a pretty coed from the Greenville college planted a kiss upon the bachelor's cheek.

Rayburn's plane was two hours late in arriving. The aircraft had been held up in Washington, D.C., and Richmond due to bad weather. He was originally scheduled to arrive shortly after 10 o'clock but the plane landed here at noon.

Among those meeting Rayburn at the airport were Rep. Graham Barden of New Bern, Rep. Herbert Bonner of Washington, N.C., Rally Chairman John Clark of Greenville and a delegation of New Bern city officials.

Rayburn answered a few questions here and posed for photographers. He then left by auto for Washington, N.C. where he was to appear at a television press conference.

Sponsors of the dinner tonight are assured of a crowd of at least 1,000. Ticket Chairman Gilbert Peel and general chairman Clark said today that 25 North Carolina counties are participating in the rally with Pitt County Democrats accounting for 600 of the $15 tickets.

The rally promises to be the biggest in Eastern North Carolina since April 29, 1950, when the late Alben Barkley, then vice-president in the Truman Administration, came to Greenville for a rally sponsored by the Young Democrats of North Carolina. Barkley, speaking in the Wright Building, addressed a crowd of about 3,500.

The gathering is attracting representatives from all over Eastern North Carolina. Thus far, tickets have been sold in Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, Onslow, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Sampson, Tyrrell, and Dare counties.

Almost all of the party's leaders in Eastern North Carolina and many state officials are also expected to be here. The list of distinguished guests is headed by Governor Luther H. Hodges and includes the state's two senators, Sam J. Ervin and W. Kerr Scott. Others who will be here include congressmen Herbert Bonner, Graham Barden and Harold D. Cooley; former U. S. Comptroller General Lindsey C. Warren; and a host of state officials and Democratic party leaders from throughout the state.

Governor Hodges will arrive in Greenville this afternoon and is on the program for "remains" before Speaker Rayburn makes his address.

The rally first came into being August 21 when Representative Bonner completed arrangements with Rayburn to come here. Since the first plans were announced the rally has been designated as a testimonial dinner to Rayburn and a fund-raising project for Eastern North Carolina Democrats.

Rayburn has been Speaker of the House longer than any other single man in the history of the country. He was first elected to the post in 1940 to succeed the late Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama who died in office. Rayburn was re-elected in 1941, 1943, 1945, 1949, 1951 and 1955. He was Democratic leader in the House in 1947 and 1953 when the Republicans were in control of Congress.

Rayburn, a lawyer and native of Bonham, Texas, was first elected to Congress from Texas Fourth District in 1913 to be a member of the 63rd Congress. He has been re-elected 4 to 22 consecutive terms. He is 74 years old and was this year named permanent chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

Because of his unflagging interest in the Democratic Party and a willingness to "go anywhere, anytime" to promote the party's program, he has been tagged "Mr. Democrat."

$1 Million Day

It was another million dollar day for the Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported that the market sold 2,036,106 pounds of tobacco for $1,087,349.15. The average for the day was $53.40.

Prices held firm during the day's sales.

Full sales are expected today and Monday.

Driver Training Program For Greenville Schools Discussed

This could hardly be installed in the Greenville schools because the great number of students would require an instructor whose time would be devoted exclusively to the Driver Training Program," said Buchanan.

Those in attendance at the meeting include: J.H. Rose, City School Superintendent; Joe S. Moye, Chairman, Pitt Board of Education; D.H. Conley, County School Superintendent; F. Badgett Johnson, Chairman, Pitt Safety Council; W.L. Allen, City School Board member; Dan Saleed, President, Chamber of Commerce; Clarke Stokes, Jaycee representative T.J. Wagner, Lincoln-Mercury dealer; Lieutenants Tom Brown, State High

Committees Named At PTA Executive Board Meeting

BELVOIR—Committee appointments were made when officers of the Belvoir-Parkland Parents-Teachers Association met with Principal O. H. Forrest September 21 in the school office for an executive meeting.

It was decided that new handbooks be made and distributed similar to those of the previous year.

Objectives of the P. T. A. were discussed. Mrs. Frank Peaden, vice president, made the motion, and it was carried out that they adopt the same objectives as the previous year and the same theme, "Better Schools for Our Youth" be made permanent. Officers for the new school year are: Mrs. Levi Wooten, president; Mrs. Frank Peaden, vice president; Mrs. Ferner Mathaway, secretary; Mrs. Peter Brown, treasurer; and Mrs. J. L. Harris, reporter.

The following committees were appointed:

Membership, Mrs. Dorothy Hardy, chairman, Mrs. Robert Coggin, Mrs. Howard Harris, Mrs. Annie Bess Lewis and Mrs. Minnie Bullock;

Devotional, Willie Bell, chairman;

Program, Mrs. Lou Nelson, chairman (others appointed by chairman);

Refreshment, Mrs. Dorothy Gurganus, chairman (others appointed by chairman);

Grounds, Eugene James, chairman, Mr. Allen Harris, Mr. Willard Wooten;

Room Inspection, O. H. Forrest, chairman, Mrs. Charlie Harris, Mrs. Floyd Harris, Mrs. Johnnie Peaden and Mrs. Marshall Joyner.

The first P. T. A. meeting has been scheduled for the third Monday evening in October.

Mrs. Lou Nelson requests the executive board to meet with her to plan the programs for the year on Tuesday afternoon, October 2 at 2:10.

Club Says Drive Successful

Appreciation for the generous response to the Clothing Closet appeal was voiced by Mrs. Charles Lewis today, project chairman for the Junior Woman's Club.

"Many garments were given during the drive. We found the people most cooperative, and Mrs. R. D. Harrington Jr., the president, and I want to thank everybody for their help."

"The clothing is being classified and made ready for use so that needy children can begin immediately to have the benefit of it."

Children whose need is known to the county department of public welfare will be aided according to the plan. Clothing given as a result of the drive will enable needy children to be more regular in school attendance and will help children in many other ways.

Mrs. Lewis said that the club would continue to accept clothing even after the drive has ended.

"The drive gave us a good supply but the needs are great and they will continue," she said.

Persons may get in touch with a member of the Junior Woman's Club to donate clothing anytime between now and February 1.

The account of Jehaziel's prophecy and the overthrow of the enemies of Jehoshaphat (II Chronicles 20) will be included in passages to be read from the King James Version of the Bible.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following selection will be among those read (228:25-27): "There is no power apart from God. Competence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

Fighting A Gallant Battle Against Bags And Crowsfeet

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

BEAUTIFUL PROSE and romantic poetry have kept the gleam in many a woman's eye, until finally the calendar ticks off too many summers and the eyes look like they've had it.

What then? The eyes lose their luster, perhaps fade. The under-eye shows puffiness or is etched in dry, fine lines. Crowsfeet are no illusion. They have moved in for the duration.

The aim should be to converge on this area at once with all the knowledge, equipment and energy you can muster, says Jacqueline Cochran, noted aviatrix, beauty expert and candidate for U. S. Senator from California. If you can't improve the condition you can at least arrest it, she says, and offers some advice on how to do it.

It is time for eye-cream, time for insuring 8-hours sleep a night, time for a more nutritious diet perhaps, time for checking the lighting in the home. All these may contribute to prettier and healthier eyes.

The area around the eyes that serves as a frame is helped by nourishing ingredients in eye cream. Women who diet, particularly those who give up fats, are likely to find that the area under the eye becomes dry and lined. Miss Cochran uses at least one teaspoon of butter a day in her diet because she says it helps "plump out the under-eye area," keeping it youthful.

One of the new eye creams may be worn 24 hours a day—while asleep to soothe away lines and wrinkles and under foundation cream to continue its good work during the day. Eye cream is never massaged in, however, as eye tissues are very delicate. It may be patted on gently with the finger tips, then permitted to melt into that area. Eye shadow may be applied over it to offer a dewiness through its color.

Older women are usually better off if they use very little mascara and eyeshadow, particularly if their eyes are showing signs of age. Blue-eyed women may wear it better than brown-eyed types who are likely to achieve a haunted look unless they do a very deft application.

If dark circles persist under the EYE OPENER... All the eye woes are not limited to older women. Eye cream is necessary to maintain the beauty of many a youthful face with tired eyes.

PTA Names Committees

Standing committees were appointed and plans for the annual Halloween party were made during the St. Raphael PTA meeting night before last.

Mrs. J. K. Proctor, guest speaker, talked on the Girl Scouts and the Brownie movement. "The Girl Scouts and Brownie movement," said Mrs. Proctor, "is a supplement to home, church and school and it is the best all around program for character building."

The PTA then voted to sponsor a Brownie Troop.

The standing committees appointed by Mrs. Dan Gordon, president, include:

Membership, Dr. R. V. Zetter; program, Mrs. Aaron Baxter; grade mothers, 1st grade, Mrs. Louis Reeves; 2nd, Mrs. James Moye; 3rd, Mrs. Aaron Baxter; 4th, Mrs. Dan Saled; 5th, Mrs. T. L. Smith; and 6th, Mrs. Tommy Sellers.

The ticket chairman for the Halloween party are Major E. J. Maloney and Dan Saled; prizes chairman, Mrs. John Saled Jr. and Mrs. Aaron Baxter; games chairman, Mrs. William Maxwell. Mrs. Dan Gordon is chairman of the food committee. Cakewalk, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Gibbs. Drinks, Mr. Dan Gordon and Mr. Howard Hogan.

Letter Of Thanks Revealed By Club

The Greenville Junior Woman's Club has made public a letter received from a Pitt County woman expressing her appreciation for help received through the Watson Memorial Fund.

The letter reads in part: "I wish to thank you for your very nice gift. Thank God for friends like you. . . . My son was in the hospital at Duke six weeks. He still can't walk but due to the help of God and my friends, we hope he will some day. . . . I don't know any of you in person but I pray for you and your club. I'm sure no one was any more grateful than I."

The Watson Memorial drive for funds is conducted each year by the Junior Woman's Club. The money raised is used for medical care of children from Pitt County and Greenville, both white and Negro.

The drive this year is scheduled for October 5-6. The fund is named in memory of the late Dr. T. M. Watson, pediatrician of Greenville.

Club Presented Honor Certificate

Certificate of Honor was awarded again this year to the Greenville Woman's Club, on the basis of outstanding work and fulfillment of all requirements of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

The presentation was made Thursday night at the club's annual dinner meeting by Mrs. R. P. Rogers, immediate past president of the club and now president of District 15 of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Rogers praised the club for its fine work and called on them for greater service in the future.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, club president, accepted the award, expressing her appreciation to members for their loyalty and support.

Fair Prospects Look Good Says Pitt County Home Agent

Pitt County Home Agent Little said today she feels there is "more enthusiasm and better participation" being shown this year among home demonstration members for the Pitt County Fair than ever before. The fair is scheduled for October 8-13.

In commenting on the exhibits, Mrs. Little said she wished to encourage everyone to enter some phase, pointing out that last year exhibits in the baking and canned goods division were rather sparse. "I hope these divisions will be better represented this year," she said.

Fair catalogues are now available with complete instructions for entering the competition. Persons who have not obtained a booklet may do so by writing or calling by the county agricultural offices.

Nine home demonstration clubs will enter educational exhibits at the fair. In addition, the Pitt

Home Demonstration County Council will have an exhibit entitled "Mark Your Calendar and Vote."

Titles of the educational exhibits are as follows: "Social Security," "Red Oak Club," "Family Food Supply," "Ballards club," "Highway Safety," "Fountain club," "Well-Dressed at Small Cost," Belvoir club.

"Keep Pitt County On Top," Sweet Gum Grove club; "A Child Needs Both Parents," Seven Pines club; "Old Pictures Look Like New," Renston-Nobles club; "For A Brighter Tomorrow," Littlefield club; "Television," Simpson club.

As space for exhibits is limited, county home demonstration clubs this year are continuing their rotation policy. There are twenty-two home demonstration clubs in the county.

With prices soaring skyward, especially on the better grades of tobacco, the Greenville tobacco market this week sold close to 4,000,000 pounds of the golden weed, bringing the season's total sales close to the 14,000,000 pound mark. There has been a decided advance in prices and growers have expressed entire satisfaction at the result of their sales. Many growers have averaged 60 to 75 cents for their entire load. The Greenville market this year to date has sold more pounds than during the same period of any preceding year in the history of the market.

Stress Shifting In Clothing Unit

High school homemaking courses will not stress clothing construction in years to come as much as they have in the past. With the progress that has been made in the new fabrics and mass production, the ability to select ready-made clothing is making a bid for importance in clothing courses over the state, according to Mrs. Rebecca Smith, vocational homemaking teacher at Greenville High School.

It is the belief of homemaking teachers everywhere and especially in Pitt County, that if you don't have the time or the ability to sew, then buy your clothes by all means.

Pitt County homemaking teachers recently submitted their suggestions for changing the clothing unit to Miss Catherine T. Dennis, State Supervisor of Home Economics in North Carolina.

INCREASE VALUE

If you've been wondering about the costs of remodeling your home, take into consideration how much the value may be increased by the improvements you plan. A five foot space—an unused pantry or closet—may become a new bath or powder room. It's a good idea to locate a new bathroom as close as possible to the existing plumbing system.

Conditions Unchanged In 30 Years

"Registration began at East Carolina Teachers college yesterday morning. Reservations were made for 700 young women. Considerably more than this number have been refused entrance an account of lack of room and teaching force."

Sounds almost like the situation facing East Carolina today, doesn't it?

"Lack of room and teaching force" is a familiar phrase to persons connected with the college. They have to use it time and again in turning away prospective students, begging for additional funds and presenting the college's case to state officials.

The first paragraph of this editorial was from a report in the September 27, 1926, issue of The Daily Reflector. It was brought up the other day when the women's page column, "30 Years Ago" was being written.

That story of 30 years ago goes on to say "President R. H. Wright in his biennial report to the trustees recommended that the next legislature be asked to make appropriation sufficient to increase the capacity of the college to one thousand students."

That goal of the capacity for 1,000 students at the college was in time reached. But by the time it was reached a decade ago, registration already had passed the thousand mark. In the past 10 years East Carolina has been afforded new facilities in its biennial appearances before the General Assembly. But this expansion in facilities has not nearly kept pace with the three-fold growth in the number of students.

For the past 30 years and longer East Carolina has been taking its case to the powers that be in the state. The story of "lack of room and teaching force" has been told so many times in the past 30 years it has become legend. Unfortunately, it was and still is the theme for East Carolina's appeal, for on no occasion since President Wright spoke those words in 1926 has the college had sufficient facilities to meet the demands made upon it by the young people of this section of the state.

How much longer will the plight of "lack of room and teaching force" impede the progress of East Carolina College? How many more years will the college have to turn away applicants from this section because of lack of dormitory space and classroom facilities?

Area-Wide Support For School Of Nursing Plan

It is encouraging to note the momentum being gained by the movement of establishing a school of nursing at East Carolina College to afford a source of nurses to hospitals throughout the eastern part of North Carolina.

Particularly have we noted with interest the attention this most vital project is receiving from newspapers in the East.

In addition to The Reflector, the Washington Daily News has thrown its full editorial support behind the project pointing to the dire need for more nurses in this section if Eastern North Carolina is to have adequately staffed hospitals.

The Goldsboro News-Argus likewise has joined in the cause in an editorial entitled "It's Bound To Come."

In the editorial, veteran editor Henry Belk points out:

"For a lack of qualified and certified teaching and supervisory staffs, the number of schools of nursing connection with county or city hospitals in this section is dwindling.

"The acute shortage of nurses which exists today will grow more serious."

Pointing to other reasons which demand the establishment of a state-supported school of nursing in this section, the News-Argus declares:

"There is no valid reason why this half of the state must be forced to rely on institutions 100 or 200 miles away to train our young people. To force such reliance is to put a millstone around the section and to seriously impede its progress."

With such support from the press in other parts of Eastern North Carolina, it is evident that Pitt County is not the only county in which the need for more nurses is recognized. It likewise emphasized that Pitt is not the only county which is interested in seeing the school of nursing established at East Carolina College through legislative appropriations during the coming year.

Recognizing its collective need for a school of nursing, and channelling its collective strength in support of the establishment of such a school of nursing, the East can bring it to reality through the General Assembly.

Efforts in behalf of such a school should be continued with increasing intensity throughout this section of the state.

How much longer will high school graduates in this section of the state be denied a college education because financially they must attend East Carolina or not go to college; and East Carolina for lack of facilities, must turn them away?

We do not expect East Carolina to be supplied with a surplus of classrooms, dormitory rooms or other facilities at the expense of North Carolina taxpayers. Neither do we want to see young people of this section denied the benefits of a college education because of lack of adequate facilities at ECC.

What we do want to see is an East Carolina College which is given what it needs in the way of permanent improvements and operational budgets by the General Assembly in order that it can properly educate the students who apply for admission. What we want to see in an East Carolina College which will not have to tell qualified applicants, "we'd like for you to come here, but we have no room for you."

To paraphrase the words of Gov. Clements, "How long, oh how long will lack of room and teaching force be the millstone around the neck of East Carolina College?"

Contest Is Between Adlai, Republicans

By LYNN NISBET
STRATEGY — "Don't they know Estes is running, too?" queried a staunch Democrat when he observed a label button on a passer-by. The button read "All the way with Adlai." Then the man pointed to a bumper strip on a parked car which read "Ike and Dick."

Someone explained that maybe the Democrats figured one odd name was enough, that Adlai and Estes were both unusual names in this part of the country, at least, and that Stevenson and Kefauver made the slogan too long. Need for brevity leads Republicans to use "Ike," rather than Eisenhower.

Another fellow suggested that the reason went deeper into campaign strategy. Four years ago the contest was between the Democratic party on the one hand and Eisenhower on the other. Not a great deal was said about Stevenson, and very little about the Republican party.

This year the situation is almost reversed. The contest now is between Stevenson and the Republican party. Democratic publicity has pretty well destroyed the concept that Eisenhower is above party level. He is being identified with the party policy program, while Stevenson has been freed from the onus—if there was any—of previous administrations.

Officially the election will determine whether the Democratic party or the Republican party will control the next administration. Many individual votes will be decided on basis of preference for Stevenson or Eisenhower in the White House—with strong under-current feeling that Stevenson will have a lot more influence over the administration he heads than will Eisenhower, and that as Vice President Nixon will have tremendously more influence than will Kefauver.

So, Democrats are waging their campaign for Adlai, knowing that nobody can vote for him without voting for Estes; while Republicans recognize they must back the team.

WOMEN — BOTH Democratic and Republican parties are making the usual pre-election bid for support and votes of the women folks. This happens every two years in September and October. Then for most part the dear women are forgotten until their votes are needed again. For example, there will be only one woman in the next General Assembly, as there has been only one for several sessions back.

The state of candidates for state and district offices certified by the State Board of Elections after the primary does not include a single woman for either party. For the first time in many years the Democratic convention last May kept faith with the party plan of organization and put an equal number of men and women on the several committees.

All of this is leading up to the announcement that on Saturday of this week the Democratic Women will stage their biennial Women's Day luncheon at the Sir Walter. It will be an all-woman affair, with men as conspicuous for their absence as women are on the ballot for the public offices.

Mrs. Mary Laurens Richardson, state vice chairman, and Mrs. Sallie Baker Everett, national committeewoman, will be in full charge, and Mrs. Corinne Boggs of Louisiana will make the main speech. (Since this is Women's Day the first name of the good women are used, instead of—in some instances—their less well-known husbands). Advance news releases noted that Mrs. Corinne Boggs is the wife of Hales Boggs, Louisiana second district congressman.

Speaker Sam Rayburn of the national House of Representatives will speak in Greenville Friday night and in Albemarle Saturday night. But Saturday noon the Democratic women will take over at Raleigh.

JONES — It is generally known that J. A. Jones Construction Company of Charlotte is one of the biggest firms of its kind in the world. Even so the distribution and diversity of projects reported on in the current issue of company's house organ, The Jones Journal, is almost fantastic. Besides numerous projects in North and South Carolina, ranging in cost from a few thousand to $10 million or more, the company is at work in Alabama, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Washington, Alaska, Ascension Island, Iraq and Newfoundland. There may be others, but these were listed in casual glancing through the little magazine. They range from small landing strips to building ships, installing heavy manufacturing machinery, constructing huge dams and boring tunnels.

Biggest job is one in which Jones has five associates to bore a tunnel through the Rocky Mountains under the Continental Divide and divert water from the Blue River on the western slopes into the Denver reservoir. The project will cost $38 million, will require 400 men working around the clock for 200 days. As described in the Journal the thing is fantastic.

Workers will start from the west end at an elevation of 8,850 feet and from the eastern end at an elevation of 8,671. (This is more than 200 feet higher than Mount Mitchell, but 3,500 below the top of the mountain through which the tunnel runs.) A shaft will be driven 1,000 feet to some nine miles from the western end and women will tunnel both directions from that point. The tunnel is 23.35 miles long. Engineering plans call for the crews to meet 14 miles from the west portal. The tunnel will be 10.3 feet in diameter and will be lined with concrete to carry 788 cubic feet of water per second.

Other Editors Are Saying... Can't Afford Brain Shortage

The Charlotte Observer) Good news for small cultural colleges is the report that American industry is increasing its donations to education, especially to church-connected and women's colleges. Ever since the postwar inflation set in and reduced sometimes by half or more the endowments of these institutions, the financial problem of keeping the classrooms open and the laboratories staffed and equipped has been growing more acute.

Most of the endowments were invested in six-income securities. Though these securities still yield the same number of dollars, the value of United States currency has been reduced by inflation until it now takes two dollars to buy what one would buy before the war. Another aspect of the changing times that has been hard on the colleges is the disappearance of large personal fortunes. In previous years, when one man could own practically a whole industry and have an income of a million dollars a year or more, he could himself build and endow a college.

Such fortunes have all but disappeared. With the expansion of industry, almost every corporation larger than the small business type is owned by hundreds and thousands of stockholders, and rarely does one person own more than one or two per cent of the stock. That and the income tax have made it difficult for individuals to make large gifts to education or to any other eleemosynary purpose.

If the college endowments are to be kept up in the future, therefore, it will have to be done by donations from corporations. Such donations are just as good as those received from individuals, but the law sometimes prevents them. Corporation directors are not allowed to use the company's money for purposes not in the interest of the stockholders. On many occasions in the past a stockholder's suit has prevented the directors from making such an appropriation.

Yet the large corporations are the biggest gainers from good times. Statistics on the subject show that they get more of their executives and technicians from the small colleges than from the great universities. If this source of trained personnel is dried up, the stockholders will find that it was to their interest to support the colleges. Not long ago in New Jersey one stockholder's suit against a donor to education was decided in favor of the collectors. Gradually stockholders are coming to understand that a shortage of college trained personnel can be as disastrous to a business as a shortage of raw materials.

Some Answers Are In Order

Yesterday Jimmy Ellis wrote a column (page 4, columns 6 and 7) and asked a bunch of questions, some foolish and some not foolish.

I shall re-state some of the questions and answer them in my own way.

Question: "Why do people insist on keeping old signs and advertisements in their store windows long after the attraction has passed?"

Answer: For the same reason you keep pictures of yourself hanging on your house walls. It brings back memories of the attraction you once possessed, but it too has passed with your youth.

Question: "Who really owns the ball point pen I'm using?"

Answer: I do. That pen belongs to me just like the untold pounds of cigarette tobacco that I purchased and you turned into ashes.

Question: "Who has the missing football ticket that belongs to the Daily Reflector?"

Answer: The solution to this little problem lies under the stack of shirts belonging to you in your top, left hand bureau drawer. Try looking there.

Question: "When duck season comes in how can I get out of the house to go hunting on a day like this?"

Answer: If you weren't so henpecked (don't deny it, I've heard you admit it) you would get your gun, and shoot your way out.

Question: "Why does Alvin Taylor insist on wearing that

G.I. raincoat?"

Answer: Alvin is currently paying for a car on the easy installment plan. It would really surprise you to know that Alvin can afford nothing to wear under that G.I. raincoat.

Question: "Is there an easy way to wash second floor windows?"

Answer: Yes. First take the windows out from the inside and place them in a dish washer. Add soap and push the starter button. This poses no washing problem at all. The rub comes in having to remove and replace the windows.

Question: "What would Jim Boykin look like in Bermuda shorts, a long sleeve shirt, high socks and pistol belt?"

Answer: I can't imagine.

The Daffy Season Upon Us

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The daffy season is in full swing!

One corporation passed a Manhattan street with soap this week, another made a nationwide offer to buy male beads at $5,000 an ounce.

The two events highlighted a fact little noted by the public—the increasing tendency of big business to adopt carnival-style press agent stunts.

Phineas T. Barnum, father of the circus-type school of promotion in America, today would rank as a piker in the field. Even the fabulous Jim Moran now looms as an amateur. After all, Jim merely performed such toy feats as becoming the first man in history to find a needle in a haystack, sell an icebox to an Eskimo, and hatch an ostrich egg by sitting on it himself.

Neither Barnum—who said "There's a sucker born every minute"—nor Moran had the funds for off-beat promotions now available to a modern corporation.

To launch an old brand soap in a new pink color—an incidentally open the annual civic drive "for a cleaner New York"—Proctor & Gamble donated 100,000 bars of the stuff to pave a block of Rockefeller Plaza.

The soap, enough to wash a family of four for 4,154 years, had a retail value of some $12,000.

It was put down by 40 Hunter College girls, then picked up after a few hours by 30 Boy Scouts as their good deed for the day. The soap then was donated to various charities.

Throughout the strange exhibition many bystanders hoped for a big rain. All were sure the resulting muds would drown the RCA building.

The Ronson Corp. was the other entrant in the business stunt-of-the-week contest. To launch a new electric shaver, Ronson advertised in 28 major cities for men willing to sacrifice their beards—at $5,000 an ounce—on a weekly television program it was sponsoring.

The offer was made only after a preliminary test showed that even Rip Van Winkle beard would tip the scales at less than a full ounce.

Within a day after the ad appeared, hundreds of replies came by mail, phone and wire.

They ranged from a college professor in Philadelphia to a department store's professional Santa Claus, who makes his living in the off-season selling vitamin pills.

"The Santa Claus demanded $50,000 for his beard—said he'd spent 10 years landscaping it," reported Bernard Dwortzan, the company's ad manager.

"A Brooklyn seaman wanted to sell his beard so he could go visit his wife in England. He told us he hadn't seen the girl since 20 minutes after he married her, as he had to leave to catch his

Taxation Must Be Dragon

By ELMER ROESSNER

At the moment, it is hard to tell who is the St. George of small business. Both Republicans and Democrats are charging in and the clank of armour and rattling of swords makes a fearful din.

The dragon, if such it be, is taxation.

Taxation is ruining small business, we hear. Must be so. Taxation is ruining everything else. What is small business that it should be treated differently than anyone else?

All right. We'll calm down. Several weeks ago, a White House committee headed by Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, recommended that the tax on the first $25,000 of corporate earnings be cut from 30 to 20 per cent. It was pointed out here that such proposals on the eve of political campaigns were often suspect.

Then the Democrats—guess they don't read this column—incorporated a plank in their platform favoring a graduated tax on small business. That sure throws dragon fat in the fire.

As was pointed out here, a cut in taxes on the first few thousand dollars earned by corporations would benefit all corporations and it would benefit the most profitable ones most. It's no help to a small corporation that is barely paying the owner's salary and taxes thereon.

It was also pointed out that such a tax system would encourage big business operators, in new ventures, to organize multiple corporations, thereby gaining several tax concessions, in stead of one.

Now Representative Daniel A. Reed (R. N.Y.) makes another point. He says:

"Suppose that one corporation has an income of $100,000 and has ten owners, each having one-tenth of the capital of the business. Now take the example of another corporation with only $10,000 of income but with only one owner. Under the theory of a graduated corporation income tax, each of the owners of the first corporation would be called upon to bear a substantially higher burden of taxation with regard to his share of corporate income than would the single owner of the second corporation, even though the actual dollar amounts of their proportionate share of income are identical.

PENALTY FOR SUCCESS

"Furthermore, the enterprising small businessman who develops a new product and thereby increases his earnings will be immediately penalized by a higher rate of tax. Should he develop more efficient methods of production or marketing, he would immediately pay the price in higher taxes. If he expands his capacity through better machinery or larger plant facilities, he will be punished for his enterprise."

Mr. Reed's vehemence is not solely because he is a Republican discussing a Democratic plank; Mr. Reed is always vehement.

But he has missed one important point:

Personal income taxes are based on the so-called progressive system; the more one makes the higher his rate is. This assumed that the wealthy, or talented, person gets more from the government and that it's a good idea to cut the rich down to the level of the poor.

Whether or not that is fair for individuals, it has practically no application to corporations. Most small businesses aren't incorporated. The amount of earnings has nothing to do with the size of a corporation; a corporation owner by a conglomeration of millionaires and doing millions of dollars worth of business may have a net profit of a few thousand dollars. Why give it "tax relief"? A big corporation (such as A. T. & T.) may be largely owned by little fellows. Why should it not get tax benefits;

West May Minimize The Suez Threat

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Although the current Suez Canal crisis may be resolved without war, the "Big Three" powers contemplate seriously a long-range plan to minimize or avoid entirely the use of the Egyptian waterway. Larger and speedier tankers are under construction or in the blueprint stage, and the extra transportation charges might be absorbed to a great extent.

This development is not designed so much as retaliation against the Nasser regime as it is a recognition of changing and revolutionary conditions in the Middle East and the Eastern Mediterranean. A key factor in the reassessment is the postwar growth of a fierce nationalism feeling and pride.

Moreover, Moscow is determined to make further inroads in this vital territory, despite the Arab peoples' religious prejudice against Communist philosophy. In another World War, the Kremlin could undoubtedly cut off the westward flow of oil, on the Suez Canal itself or in the narrow waters of the Mediterranean. ECONOMIC OFFSETS IN HUGE TANKERS The Suez Canal may become obsolete for handling the huge 30,000-ton tanker now under construction in Japan, and the 100,000-tonners of the heavy Suez Canal tolls, which Nasser might boost under Egypt's exclusive control, and a speedup of peacetime atomic energy projects. And there would be far less than war tolls.

MIDDLE EAST DEPENDS ON WESTERN WEALTH Although sympathizing with Nasser nationally and sentimentally, it is believed that the monarchs of Arabian, oil-producing countries would not cavil at the proposed and eventual bypassing of Suez. They are totally dependent upon the wealth of the West for financing their extravagant and medieval establishments, including their harems and the finest luxuries in royal living.

Ironically, Lord Palmerston, famous British statesman, raised these same objections when Disraeli bought a major interest in the Canal in 1875. As the West is now discovering, the then Prime Minister protested against entrusting England's commercial needs and supremacy to a waterway built entirely on foreign soils. He also feared eventual Russian encroachment in this strategic area.

NECESSITY OF BYPASSING PROPOSALS These bypassing

proposals may become a distinct necessity for the foreign policy of the United States, as President Eisenhower and Secretary John Foster Dulles seem to realize. Permanent reliance on Suez may keep us bogged down in the Middle East indefinitely, as we are now involved in a military and economic way on Formosa, The Philippines, Japan and South Korea.

Recurring controversies with Nasser or future Egyptian managers of the waterway may have an erosive effect on our foreign relations, possibly alienating the Asian, Indian and African peoples permanently. And, as with China, another billion of human beings and vast stores of natural resources essential to a peacetime or wartime economy may be lost to the steadily narrowing western world.

In short, the Suez region could easily join with the Orient in becoming an everlasting threat and seat of global warfare.

The Great Invitation

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 10:13-16; Revelation 3:20; 21:1-22:21.

Mothers brought their little children to Christ that He might touch them. His disciples objected to this and rebuked the mothers for doing so.

Jesus was displeased with the disciples, saying, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me," and He took them in His arms and blessed them.

Jesus stands at the door and knocks. He that hears Him and opens the door, Christ will come in and sup with him, and he with Christ.

In the new Jerusalem, "God shall wipe away all tears, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying." MEMORY VERSE—Revelation 22:17.

The Great Invitation

LITTLE CHILDREN AND ALL HUMAN BEINGS MAY OPEN THEIR HEARTS TO CHRIST

Scripture—Mark 10:13-16; Revelation 3:20; 21:1-22:21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE FIRST part of today's lesson telling of Jesus blessing little children is one of the younger members of the class who really understood and loved. It occurred in February, 30 A.D.

Mothers brought their little children to Jesus that He might touch them, but the disciples seemed not to like this, and they rebuked the mothers.

When Jesus saw this He was displeased and said to the disciples, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not; for such is the kingdom of God. Verily I say unto you, whosoever shall receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."

"And He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them, and blessed them."

I wonder if these children, when they grew up remembered Him and His blessing, and would tell their friends about it as a lovely remembrance of their

but we must do our part and open the door of our hearts to let Him in.

On the Isle of Patmos, where John had his great vision, he writes: "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea."

"And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband."

"And God shall wipe away all of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they shall be His people and God Himself shall be with them, and be their God."

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away." What beautiful, comforting childhood? Did they become His disciples? We cannot know, but of all the stories in the Scriptures of our Lord's life, this is one of the loveliest.

How can people be unkind to little children? Occasionally, we read in our newspaper of a parent who beat a child so severely that the child had to be hospitalized and sometimes died.

The child may have cried long and hard, or been disobedient, but children are sometimes, but the parent's uncontrolled rage was much more of a sin than the child's fault. Could such a parent ever forgive himself or be happy again after such an act?

In the book of Revelation—the last book in our Bible and written during the last decade of the first century—Christ says: "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and he with Me."

This applies to everyone, from the smallest and youngest to the oldest. He wants to help us all.

If you're saving for peace of mind...
...where you save does make a difference
It's a good feeling to have savings for any emergency. And where you save does make a difference—as over 16 million Americans know. They're enjoying important advantages by putting their money into insured Savings and Loan Associations. Excellent returns from your money is one advantage. Another is efficient service from men who know how to make your dollars work harder for you. And, of course, your money is safe. Your savings are protected by sound management and substantial reserves. They are insured up to $10,000 by the FSILC—an agency of the U. S. Government. These are the reasons why Americans are putting more of their savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than anywhere else! Pirates To Meet Catawba Without Cherry Tomorrow

Mattocks To Work As Buc Quarterback

East Carolina will tangle with the rugged Catawba Indians tomorrow night at College Stadium without the services of Little All-America quarterback Dick Cherry. Mattocks, who has been experiencing troubles at his home in Washington, has been unable to attend practices this week and is expected to sit out the Catawba game, while Gary Mattocks handles the Pirate reins.

Due to illness in the Cherry family, Dick has had to be absent from school and drill much of the time during the past two weeks. "The boy definitely has problems and isn't in shape to play football," according to the coaching staff at ECC.

Mattocks Is Ready

Mattocks, a senior who has played in Cherry's shadow for the past several years, has been working regularly this week and seems to be ready for the Indians. He has done well in previous spot performances in the three earlier Pirate games.

Mattocks, like Cherry, is an excellent passer and a daring playmaker. Quite unorthodox, the 170-pounder from Southern Pines is an undependable runner and passer.

Coach Jack Boone, commenting on the senior quarterback, said today, "He's looked good all week in drills and has been throwing that ball well. We think he'll play a good game tomorrow."

In the line, which has been riddled with injuries throughout the early season, several changes have been made. Bucky Dennis, returning after a two-week absence, has been moved to a left tackle position, in the injured Jerry Brooks' place. End Joe Guess, a freshman, has been moved to guard slot to take up the slack left by the injuries of Ed Emory and Dick Mondis. Ken Burgess will handle the other guard post. Ray Overton and Larry Howell will be the right tackles. Bill Helms and Ray Pennington will work out at ends and freshman Ruell Edwards, from Georgia, is slated to see action behind Helms on offense. Jim Faircloth will be the center.

Catawba Is Big

Catawba has the distinction of owning the nation's biggest line. Averaging over 250 pounds from end to end, the Indians boast depth and ample strength in their forward wall.

Their leading linemen are tackle Dick Cassels, All-Conference and former All-Marine performer at Parris Island, and Dick Patry, All-Conference at center last year as a freshman.

Coach Clyde Biggers has fielded a sparkling backfield for tomorrow night's contest. Former All-Marine quarterback Lou Blacchi is one of the state's best passers and fullback Larry Gildersleeve is "the hardest runner I've seen," according to Biggers.

CHERRY AND MATTOCKS—When Catawba's rugged Indians invade College Stadium tomorrow night, East Carolina will face the visitors without the services of their All-America quarterback, Dick Cherry. Cherry, who has been absent from drills this week due to family illness, will not play and may not even dress. Gary Mattocks, who has performed well in spots this season, is expected to take the Buc reins and work them well with his fine passing and play making.

Phantoms Tackle Pam Pack Tonite

Rated a sure underdog by at least four long touchdowns, Greenville high school journeys to Washington tonight, to meet the number one team in the Northeastern Conference.

Bums Can Only Win And Pray From Now On

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brooklyn's world champions, faced a Friend who isn't, go into the final three games of the National League season tonight, knowing all they can do is win and pray.

They need help. No longer can they repeat as pennant winners on their own.

Trailing first place Milwaukee by one game, the Dodgers must sweep their remaining three with Pittsburgh and hope St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves in their wrapup three. That would mean a tie, and a pennant playoff.

A sweep over the Pirates plus two Milwaukee defeats would make them champs again.

Manager Walter Alston said only "we've got to have help. If the Cardinals win one, we'll be all right."

But he added, in that slow, soft manner of his: "I'm not worried about St. Louis. The thing that worries me more is that we have looked lousy ourselves."

"Lousy?" Well, the Dodgers have lost four of their last six games—dropping three of four to the Pirates last weekend, then losing to Philadelphia after Sal Maglie's no-hitter beat the Phils Tuesday night.

The friend they'd rather not meet, is Bob—Pittsburgh's 25-year-old righthander, the All-Star Game winner, a quick-smiling youngster who has whipped the Dodgers in four of five decisions.

Coach Bill Sweet's Pam Pack, chosen to walk off with the 1956 conference football crown, has played two circuit contests thus far. In their opener, they battled to a tight 0-0 deadlock with second-ranked New Bern. Last week, they clobbered Elizabeth City by a 20-6 score, displaying a well-balanced offensive attack.

Greenville, whose loop record is resting uncomfortably at 1-1, has lost to Kinston and won over third-ranked Jacksonville. Still far from being out of the race, the Phantoms are hoping for an upset tonight. The G-Men boast one of the best backfields in the conference, featuring speed, power and passing ability.

Billy Sermons, All-Conference at fullback last season, is running well thus far in 1956, and again is expected to be Greenville's big man in the ground-gaining department. Sermons, however, is not the Phantoms' whole show. Jimmy Kelly and Robert Howell, both fast and shifty runners, have done well at the other halfback post and freshman Robin Wilfong has already drawn praise from opposing coaches for outstanding running and defensive work.

Mack Roebuck, Phantom quarterback, is an able commander behind center and is one of the conference's few triple threats this season. He has passed and run for at least one touchdown in earlier games and has done all the Green punting.

The Greenville forward wall has had its ups and downs in the three contests the Phants have played this year. Largely inexperienced, they were outclassed and outmaneuvered by Goldsboro's AAA line in their season's opener. Against Jacksonville, they completely dominated front wall play. Against Kinston, they played well for one half, then succumbed to a big supply of heavy substitutes.

Officials Named For Horse Show

Mrs. Hugh Winslow, chairman of the 6th annual Greenville Horse Show, sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association, yesterday announced the officials who will have charge of the event.

The show will be staged at Guy Smith Stadium, October 7, Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

The event will be judged by Ed Stalcup of Franklin, Tennessee. The Ringmaster will be L. G. Bachman of New Bern. Sherman Parks of Greenville will preside as Master of Ceremonies, while John Hassell will act as Show Steward.

The show veterinarians will be Drs. Joseph Bateman and Alex Viola. The farrier will be Jim Bains. This year's ribbon girls, who will present the prizes to the winning entries, are Barbara Davis, Judy Jolly, JoAnn Parks and Martha Pierce.

Again this year a portable television set will be given as a door prize. The holder of the lucky ticket stub does not have to be present to win.

Big Games Now At Hand

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

This is it. Forget those past 151 games in the National League season. It's Milwaukee at St. Louis for three, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn for three—and all of them, or any one of 'em, could decide the pennant.

Milwaukee's Braves, holding the lead by one game, need a sweep against the Cards to nail it without worrying about what Brooklyn does.

"It's Bob Buhl tonight, Warren Spahn tomorrow night," says Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "and the whole damn bunch on Sunday!"

The Dodgers, supremely confident all season that they would catch the Braves and repeat as champions, no longer can do it alone. The best they can do is sweep the Pirates and pray St. Louis can take at least one from the Braves. That would leave it a tie—calling for a best-of-three playoff beginning Monday in Brooklyn.

Manager Walt Alston sees his Dodger chances like this: "We've got to have help. If the Cards win one, we'll be all right. We haven't any reason to give up yet," but he added: "I'm not worried about the Cardinals easing up. The thing that worries me is that we've looked pretty lousy lately."

"Lousy" describes a 2-4 record in the last six games—a slump that dumped the Brooks out of the lead.

Cincinnati's chances are more than slim. The Redlegs, fooling everyone and even themselves by hanging on to the final three days of the season, need a sweep of their two games with Chicago beginning tomorrow—and three defeats by Milwaukee and at least two defeats by Brooklyn to hope for a tie.

The Braves, a 1-3 favorite to take the flag (although the same money man will lay you 12 to 5 they don't), have picked Buhl, not effective of late, and Spahn, a 20-game winner who has a 44-34 lifetime edge on the Cards.

Buhl, 28 and a righthander, is 18-8 for the season. But he hasn't pitched a complete game since August 30 (a 1-1 tie with Pittsburgh) and is only 2-3 for the month, winning one in relief against the Dodgers. He's 1-1 vs St. Louis, giving nine hits and three earned runs in 17 innings. Of the 17 home runs Buhl has allowed, only one was socked by a Cardinal—a pinch-hit job by Rocky Nelson that beat the Braves.

Funeral Plans Being Made For Babe Zaharias

By MIKE RATHET
The Associated Press

Football Coach Jim Tatum gets his second chance of 1956 to play the heralded 7-0 upset of Duke, "ole man upset" when his North Carolina Tarheels meet defending national champion Oklahoma tomorrow.

The last time was Jan. 1 when Tatum sent his Maryland forces against the Sooners in the Orange Bowl, only to have Bud Wilkinson's dynasty sweep to its 31st straight triumph and the national title.

Just over nine months later, Tatum, now drawing his diagrams for his alma mater, North Carolina, finds himself sending his season-beaten Tarheels against the Sooners who are primed and ready to lay claim to a second national championship and Notre Dame's untarnished record of 39 victories without defeat.

Elsewhere in the nation, many of the top teams are also opening their schedules this weekend.

Friday night South Carolina, already winner of two games, one the heralded 7-0 upset of Duke, takes on one of the country's top independent's, Miami, while on the west coast Southern California, rated No. 6 in the weekly Associated Press poll clashes with Oregon State.

Saturday's schedule provides a multitude of top games with top national interest centered at Dallas where upstart Southern Methodist, upset conqueror of Notre Dame and the No. 5 team in the nation plays host to the Engineers from Georgia Tech. Tech holds a triumph over Kentucky this season and is presently runner up to Oklahoma for national honors.

The nation's current No. 3 team, Michigan State, opens its season at Palo Alto where Stanford's Indians are supposed to be the cream left on the Coast after the recent scandals.

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—A hometown Babe Didrikson Zaharias never forgot paid final tribute today to the famous athlete who lost her courageous three-year battle against cancer.

It was nearly a quarter of a century ago that the 42-year-old Babe left this southeast Texas oil refining center to gain fame and fortune in the sports world, first in basketball, then track and field, the 1932 Olympics and golf.

The Babe returned home the last time at mid-afternoon yesterday, some nine hours after death came while she slept peacefully in John Sealy Hospital at Galveston.

Only relatives viewed the body last night at Broussard Mortuary but a hundred or more hometown friends called and signed the guest register.

The body will lie in state today at Bethlehem Lutheran Church. Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. C. A. Woytek, the pastor, this afternoon.

George Zaharias, husband of the famous Babe, and relatives will escort the body to Houston tomorrow for cremation, returning here for private graveside rites in the late afternoon at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

SYNOPSIS

Connie Barton's suspicions were aroused by her husband's clumsy excuses for his regular Wednesday night absences. She trailed Steve to a private dance studio and then realized he was taking dancing lessons as a pleasant surprise for her. Keeping herself unnoticed, Connie watched the door of the studio till Steve left, and went in for a private word with his teacher. She found the instructor, Anita Farrell, sprawled on the floor—shot dead. In the corpse's hand was a paper silhouette of herself. Confused, Connie's first thought was to cover up for Steve. She grabbed the silhouette and the appointment book at the unattended reception desk outside and went home to confront Steve. She had to believe his assertions of his innocence.

Police promptly got the names of all Miss Farrell's pupils and began checking to identify the 7 p.m. Wednesday waiter. When Lieut. Bolling asked Steve his lesson time, Steve said 3 o'clock Saturday. From the stolen appointment book Steve took the lesson time of a Ralph Tolley, whom Bolling hasn't contacted yet.

Using the name Hester Frost, and with a plan in mind to save Steve, Connie gets an interview with Oliver Bell, the proprietor of the dance school. She lands a teaching job.

Hester, Miss Leone Webb.

"How do you do, pleased to meet you," we girls said to each other.

"Leone" Bell said, "will you help Hester to become acquainted? She is one of us now. She's taking Anita Farrell's place. Show her to Studio K and explain... well, everything, please."

I saw the receptionist's shoulders stiffen and her head move in protest, but Mr. Bell was already attacking a stack of correspondence. We had been dismissed. Leone Webb looked silently at him for a moment, then beckoned to me. I followed her.

I led me to the locker room and assigned me to a locker. She was no small talker; she was brisk and efficient. She took me through the reception room and down the hall that led to the door marked Studio K. She pushed it open.

I closed my eyes for a second. Yesterday these mirrored walls had shown a thousand figures crumpled on the shining floor, had reflected a thousand blouses growing crimson. Now they mirrored nothing but more mirrored walls. The room was bare, cold and impersonal.

I was suddenly cold, too, with a seeping wave of fright. Perhaps I had been wrong to do this. Perhaps I should have told Steve my plan, so he wouldn't have let me do it.

Leone said, "Is something wrong?"

"No, it's nothing. I'm a little nervous about teaching."

"The first day is tough. After that, you'll enjoy it. I'm sure."

She stepped past me through the doorway and moved quickly across the studio. She stopped before a row of small black dials. Above them was a black grille loud speaker, below them, in a niche, a telephone.

"The music is piped in here," she said. "This dial is for fox-trot, this for rumba, this for waltz, this is for samba."

She touched another dial. "You control the volume here. You understand?"

"Yes," I said.

"The telephone is an inside one... it's connected to my desk. If you should need any help, if there's anything you want to know about, call me. Don't hesitate. It's my job to help you. All right now?"

"All right," I said, "and thanks."

She started for the door, then turned back. "One more thing, and please don't be offended. If I were you, I'd tone down my lipstick a little. You look a bit too provocative."

was forced up and back, so that I was looking at the ceiling. It was uncomfortable, it was painful... then, suddenly, it was fine. It was, perhaps, the answer to my prayer.

In the center of the ceiling was a three-foot square of grillwork. It was evidently the ventilator for this windowless room. I couldn't see through the grill. I couldn't see if there was space enough above it for a person to crouch, to aim a revolver, to shoot a dancing teacher who stood below. But it might be possible; it had to be possible.

BUT IS IT POSSIBLE? Connie's suspicions take a new turn in tomorrow's exciting installment of "The Blonde Died Dancing."

U.S. May Be In Record-Breaking Year For Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may be in for a record-breaking 2½ million major crimes this year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today.

Hoover reported in the bureau's periodical Uniform Crime Reports that such crimes during the first six months of 1956 are estimated at 1,291,120, a 14.4 per cent increase over the same period last year.

Noting this marks a sharp reversal of the slight dropoff in major crimes during 1955, Hoover said if the trend continues, 1956 will be the fifth consecutive year in which more than two million major crimes will have been reported and the first year in which the total will reach the 2½ million mark.

The FBI's data, based on reports from police departments in all parts of the country, showed the largest single crime jump occurred in auto thefts, with 134,320 cars reported stolen in the first half of 1956, an increase of 22.3 per cent over the first half of 1955.

His Yard Nearly A Beaten Path

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP) — Ben Porterfield lives on a sharp curve of Johnstown Road and motorists have been ploughing into his front yard for longer than he cares to remember.

He had worked his way through conventional fences, strong wooden posts, railroad rails and finally a concrete-filled water tank when a car flattened his fence for the 27th time in nine years. Porterfield didn't think it was funny, threatened to sue the Road Commission for not fixing the curve.

Stock And Market Rep

NEW YORK (AP) — Dull trading and lower prices prevailed on the stock market early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to around 2 points were taken by leading issues. Turnover, however, was about as slow as it has been all year.

Trading was fairly brisk at the opening when prices were mixed. But losses soon outnumbered gains as the pace slackened. There was slight improvement later.

The losses spread to all major divisions despite a fairly bullish background which included a forecast of record freight traffic, an increase in store sales and reports of booming cigarette and cigar consumption. On the depressing side was the week's news of higher rates on commercial paper.

The losses were somewhat steeper among aluminum, copper and miscellaneous manufacturing stocks, but there seemed to be no great selling pressure anywhere on the list.

Reynolds Metals was down well over a point, both Anaconda and Kennecott around a point or so and International Paper around 2.

Dresser Industries, which gained yesterday on stock split news, was off around 2 points, as was Du Pont.

Bethlehem Steel dropped around a point. U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown dropped fractions.

General Motors eased and Chrysler erased a fractional gain. Goodyear and Goodrich were steady. Zenith dropped around 2.

Kaiser Aluminum and Aluminum Ltd. lost major fractions. Despite the news on freight prospects, rails were spotty. Santa Fe and Southern Pacific lost fractions.

Royal Dutch dropped around a point and Gulf Oil a fraction. Sinclair was up slightly. U.S. Gypsum and General Electric also were 1-point losers.

The associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 80 cents to $175.00 with the industrials off $1.30, the rails off 80 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — N.C. Fryers and broilers, market unsettled: farm price 17 to 18½, mostly 18, f.o.b. plant 19½; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 48; Asheville eggs steady, A large 50.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog markets were steady to 25 lower today. Tops of 16.50 to 17.50 at Rocky Mount, 16.75 to 17.25 at Tarboro and Enfield, 16.50 to 17.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Bethel; 16.75 at Rich Square, Lumberton, Wingate and Castle Hayne; 16.50 at Fayetteville, MI.

Near-Sightless Six-Year-Old Is To Receive Help

DURHAM (AP) — Luther Mishoe, a cheerful, near sightless 6-year-old whose widowed mother is a South Carolina sharecropper, was to enter Duke Hospital here today where doctors hope to stop his blinding cataracts.

Doctors said that to the plucky first grade student the world can be compared to what a person with normal eyesight would see in peering through a crack in a wall.

Luther's mother is Mrs. Maggie Mishoe, who earns less than $500 yearly by her farming activities and who has four other children to support.

Doctors have told Mrs. Mishoe that it "will be only a matter of weeks" before Luther's sight is gone completely. Luther has remained cheerful despite his troubles, apparently unaware that he is going blind.

ship. "I don't know just how much this think will cost us. Every man in America now seems to be wearing a beard, particularly out West where towns are celebrating their centennials."

Dwartzian has reason to feel worried. James W. Bowser, managing editor of the Barber's Journal, estimates there are at least 140,500 beard wearers in the nation.

"What if a bearded lady shows up?" he said. "We specified male beards, but if a bearded lady showed up and demanded equal rights she could cause us a lot of trouble."

Funeral Held Today For Garfield Sutton

AYDEN — Garfield Sutton, retired jeweler, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herman Newell, Route 1, Ayden, Thursday morning at 11:45.

Funeral services were held at Britt's Funeral Chapel Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. B. T. Cox, Christian minister of Farmville, officiated. Burial was in the Stantonsburg cemetery. He was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Surviving by his first marriage are two daughters, Mrs. Jack Allen of Farmville and Mrs. Herman Newell of Ayden; two sons, John Sutton of Fort Barnwell and Floyd Sutton of Portsmouth, Va.

Surviving by his second marriage are one daughter, Mrs. Carl Harris of Durham; one son, Allen Sutton of Columbia, S.C.; one brother, Ben F. Sutton of Farmville; two sisters, Mrs. Betty Jones of Vanceboro, and Mrs. Sudie Sutton of Farmville. Also surviving are 23 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Begin Building Fund Campaign

Three of the five soliciting teams have been started off on the Building Fund Campaign at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. "B" Committee Wednesday night and "C" Committee last night had their "kick-off" dinners. Dr. J. D. Messick, chairman of the Jarvis Memorial Building Committee, announced Wednesday night that details plans of the contemplated Sanctuary would be given his committee today but that the time and way of presenting them to the congregation had not been worked out at that time.

Speakers Wednesday night were Dr. Messick, Hoover Taft, general chairman of the Building Fund Campaign, Mrs. Ficklen Arthur, immediate past president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the church, J. B. Kittrell and J. H. Waldrop, the last named chairman of the "B" Committee—also presided.

Speakers last night were S. B. Underwood Jr., Joseph Mays, Mrs. Luther D. Moore, Alton Johnson, Mr. Kittrell, and Mr. Taft. Presiding at the "C" dinner last night was their chairman, Mr. Underwood.

The notes of confidence and determination were struck by all the speakers as they spoke of their opportunity to participate in filling the obvious need of expansion and improvement of a large downtown church built around the tradition of Jarvis Memorial. Mr. Taft reminded each group that other churches contemplating new church buildings in the city are watching Jarvis Memorial and they told him their plans would be contingent on the experience of the Methodist congregation.

Prison Officials Absolved In Riot Last Weekend

RALEIGH (AP) — An investigation of the disturbance at Women's Prison last weekend, State Prison Director William Bailey declared yesterday, absolved prison officials of violating any prison laws, regulations or policies.

However, he added, the investigation "indicates that a number of inmates not only violated prison rules and regulations but also state statutes."

Bailey asserted, "This type of conduct will not be condoned" and warned, "Offending inmates will be held responsible for their acts in accordance with prescribed legal procedure."

During the rioting a large number of women overturned food and tables in a mess hall and forced their way into the infirmary and assaulted a matron. Several escaped but they were quickly recaptured. Some of those who escaped have been given additional time.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Stephen Purvis

Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Stephen O. Purvis of Scotland Neck, mother of Misses Lillian and Margaret Purvis of Greenville.

Mrs. Purvis died at her home near Scotland Neck Tuesday night.
