Fire Destroys Big Tobacco Warehouse

Voices Faith In American Future

Loss Expected Go Over $500,000

Fire swept through the New Enterprise Warehouse on Memorial Drive during the early hours this morning leaving damage estimated at more than half a million dollars.

The fire was spotted shortly before 3 o'clock this morning as flames began licking from beneath the eaves of the big structure.

Firemen, who were called to the scene by city police, quickly laid big hose lines to the area to begin a successful battle to save the Planter's Warehouse, located alongside the burning structure.

Police Lt. H. H. McGowan said the blaze was first spotted by a passing motorist who then drove to Dickinson Ave. where he met a police patrol car.

The officers radioed police headquarters and firemen were dispatched to the scene. About the same time a patient at Pitt Memorial Hospital saw the flames and a nurse called the fire department.

McGowan said that when he arrived at the scene the fire was burning in a southwestern corner of the warehouse.

Collapses In Hour

However, in approximately an hour's time the fire had roared through the entire structure and its concrete block walls had tumbled.

As the fire raged, fire fighters pulled hoses into the alley separating the two warehouses on Memorial Drive. The firemen were soon driven from the alley by the intense heat and they moved to the roof of Planter's through a skylight. They managed to extinguish the blazes which broke out on the warehouse and damage to the Planter's was minor.

A steady stream of sparks from the fire threatened other buildings in the area, however, and second blaze broke out in quantity of straw at Dr. Joseph C. Bateman's clinic some distance away but the flames were extinguished before any damage resulted.

In addition to approximately 20,000 pounds of loose tobacco which was in the destroyed warehouse, a large number of tractors

Pres. Somoza Dies Of Assassin's Bullets Today

Nicaraguan Strongman Succumbs

PANAMA (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza, undisputed strongman of Nicaragua for 20 years, died today of an assassin's bullets.

The 60-year-old Central American leader never regained full consciousness after an operation performed Sunday by a surgical team including surgeons sent by President Eisenhower. He died in the U.S. operated Gorgas Hospital in the Panama Canal Zone, where he was flown following the Sept. 21 shooting. He suffered four wounds.

Under Nicaragua law, Somoza's son, Luis, 34, succeeds to the presidency. As president of Congress, Luis was first vice president designate. The Congress made him acting president yesterday.

Somoza's son-in-law, Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Nicaraguan ambassador in Washington, told reporters the body would be flown to Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, today or tomorrow.

The Canal Zone governor, William Potter, ordered flags lowered to half staff.

In Somoza's room at the end were his wife, daughter and President Ricardo Arias of Panama. Gov. Potter and a number of Nicaraguan officials arrived at the hospital just before Somoza died.

Ruler of Nicaragua in fact or in name for 20 years, Somoza liked strong language and strong action, dancing and card playing, beef steaks for breakfast and shooting.

"I just never miss, it seems," he said of his marksmanship.

He was shot down at a party and dance as he was preparing to seek another six year term as president.

The assassin, Roberito Lopez Perez, a 27-year-old Nicaraguan journalist and typesetter, emptied a revolver at the 60-year-old president.

Somoza was airlifted to Managua and then to the U.S.-operated Gorgas Hospital in the Panama Canal Zone where he underwent four operations.

A team of doctors, sent by President Eisenhower and headed by Maj. Gen. Leonard Heaton, chief of the U.S. Army's Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, removed bullets from his thigh and spine and operated on two wounds in his forearm and upper arm. One bullet was left buried in his right shoulder.

The assassin was killed on the spot by Somoza's guards.

The strongman's son, Luis, 34, was named acting president last night by Nicaragua's Congress. He had been running the country since the shooting as first vice president designate.

Announcements earlier this week had said that Somoza was improving and that a paralysis condition in his left side caused by one of the bullets had almost completely disappeared.

Somoza was undisputed ruler of Nicaragua for 20 years. He was president from 1936 to 1947. Then for three years he ruled through his uncle, President Roman y Reyes. The uncle died, and Somoza again assumed the office and was elected for another six-year term in 1951.

He owned many plantations, a shipping line, and enterprises of all kinds such as gold mines and textile plants.

During his rule, the country progressed. He imported tractors to replace oxen in the country's backward agriculture, encouraged introduction of new crops such as cotton and rice, stimulated a land-clearing program, and built many miles of country-to-market highways.

Somoza, a 200-pounder, was graduated from Philadelphia's Pierce School of Business Administration.

When he returned to Nicaragua he ran an automobile agency, promoted boxing and football, worked as an accountant, and became tax collector in Leon, the country's second largest city. His first big political job came when he joined the revolutionary movement that ousted Gen. Jose Maria Moncada in the presidency and was rewarded with the governorship of the Department of Leon.

Fla. Governor 'Sick' At Firing

MONTICELLO, Fla. (AP) — The firing of attractive Dr. Deborah Coggins as county health officer for having lunch with a Negro nurse drew sharp criticism from Gov. Leroy Collins.

The governor said yesterday he was "sick about it" and declared it was a "by-product of the passion aroused by efforts to coerce integration of the races against the will of the people."

Dr. Coggins was expected to get her official notice today from the Jefferson County Commission of its intention to dismiss her.

The decision to fire Dr. Coggins was reached Thursday night at a joint meeting of commissioners of Jefferson, Madison and Taylor Counties all three of which she serves.

"I am sick about it," the governor said. "The action cannot be squared with right and justice and conscience and if I didn't speak up and say so, I feel I would, by my silence, condone an evil act."

"This would never have occurred two years ago—it is a by-product of the passion aroused by efforts to coerce integration of the races against the will of the people."

Commissioner Lester C. Lawrence of Jefferson County said his commission feels that making an example of Dr. Coggins would help in retaining southern traditions and customs.

"It was a hard decision to make and hard to explain why we acted as we did," Lawrence said.

The move to dismiss Dr. Coggins, 32, and Florida's only woman health officer, began when the Madison County Commission asked the state Board of Health in a letter Sept. 5 to terminate her services. No reason was given at that time.

An enthusiastic crowd of 1100 Democrats gathered here last night to eat chicken, rally for their party and agree with House Speaker Sam Rayburn that the blame for "failures in the Republican Administration" should be laid at the President's door.

The group interrupted "Mr. Sam" 19 times to tell him they were with him all the way. They particularly appreciated his remarks about the Republican farm policy, which he claimed had reduced farm income in the country "more than four and one-half billions of dollars in less than four years."

Reflector Photos of the Rayburn Rally are on pages 3 and 7.

He said that President Eisenhower alone is responsible for acts "that have brought disaster, poverty and bankruptcy to many of our farm families."

Representative Herbert Bonner of the First District introduced Rayburn after a short talk by Governor Luther Hodges. Hodges told the group, "I am enthusiastic about our Democratic rallies in North Carolina and I am enthusiastic about a Democratic victory in November. The little people like you and me are turning back to the Democratic Party and are quietly determined to turn a Democratic victory in November."

The House Speaker came to the rally with a prepared address but he neglected it frequently, preferring to address his remarks directly to the audience. The last 10 or 15 minutes of his comments were not included in the prepared speech.

Away From Politics

In those final minutes, Rayburn got almost completely away from politics. "It behooves us all to work and pray that we will not be torn by war again," he said. "I fear if another war comes, our Christian civilization will be no more and, God forbid, the Dark Ages will come again. But there are things worse than war. It would be worse than war for us to have to give up our liberty and freedom, everything dear to our hearts."

He also expressed some personal feelings in the final moments of his address. "I look at the future with hope and optimism," he said. "There is more opportunity today for boys and girls and they are as smart, as clean and as decent as any generation we have ever had. Their shoulders will be broad enough and their hearts keen enough to go forward."

"I'm an old-fashioned man. I believe in the honesty of men and the purity of women. I believe American homes are teaching their children to believe in people, to believe in the future and to believe in God."

"Fewer Friends"

Rayburn also scored the Republican administration for its conduct of American policy. "In 1952,

(the Republicans went over the land railing at the foreign policy of the United States. They indicated they were going to rip the Truman-Acheson policy up by the roots and bring in a great imaginative foreign policy. They have so administered our foreign policy," he said, "that I am said to say I believe we have fewer friends in the world than we ever had before."

In laying the blame for Republican acts in President Eisenhower's lap, Rayburn said, "We can't talk about the President without Republican Chairman Geonard Hall claiming that we're smearing him. But, there is nothing more definite in our Constitution than the truth that the President is the head of this nation and responsible for the conduct of our national government. The buck cannot be passed."

"Four Years ago, Eisenhower was a hero general without a political record. Today, he is President of the United States and he has a record."

Fired Broadside

Rayburn fired a broadside at Republican charges of Democratic "Socialism" and claims of Republican prosperity. "They said of our program of 20 years was leading the country into Socialism. They condemned our programs of rural electrification, farm-to-market roads, and 90 per cent of parity. But after nearly four years I challenge any Republican anywhere to put his finger on any changes they have made."

On the question of prosperity, Rayburn claimed the creation of a sound national economy and the creation of a farm economy were by the Democrats. "After World War I, when this nation was at the highest point of its prosperity, the people asked for a change and got it with a vengeance. Millions went unemployed when we came into power in 1933, and before our administrations closed 6 1/2 million men and women were gainfully employed at reasonable wages and decent working conditions."

"After 12 years under Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, the national income of the United States had sunk to 39 billions of dollars. We were accused of spending the country into bankruptcy, but in the 20 years we were in power, the national income rose to more than 200 billions of dollars."

Full Day

The rally last night climaxed a full day for the balking, 74-year-old Texan. He arrived in New Bern from Washington, D.C., yesterday around noon and went immediately to Washington, N.C., for a televised press conference. After lunch, he came to Greenville for a half-hour appearance with other political leaders on Dr. W.E. Marshall's "Contemporary Government" television program over WNCN. After the afternoon TV show he greeted friends and fellow Democrats at his motel room before going to the Wright Building on the East Carolina College campus for the rally.

Another Million

Another million dollar day—the second of this week—was chalked up by the Greenville tobacco market yesterday.

Sales yesterday totaled 2,044,422 which brought farmers $1,063,458.05 for an average of $52.02 per hundred.

Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee said a full sale is expected on the local market Monday.

Average Farm Prices See Third Slight Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Average farm prices have dropped for the third straight month. But an Agriculture Department official says he expects them to strengthen shortly.

Issuing a monthly report yesterday, the department said farm prices slid downward about one-half of 1 per cent between mid-August and mid-September.

The report also showed that during the same period average farm family and production expenses decreased over-all about one-third of 1 per cent, thus virtually keeping step with the lower level of prices received.

Farm prices figure prominently in current political debate as the Democrats and Republicans battle for the presidency and for control of Congress.

Since mid-June, farm prices have dropped a total of 4 1/2 per cent. During the six preceding months, they had risen a total of 11 per cent.

The price level in mid-September was a shade above a year ago. But it was 24.9 per cent under the record high of February 1951, in the midst of the Korean War.

Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse said the slight decline in the August-September period indicated to him that the market is "very definitely stabilizing during this harvest."

Morse said he is confident that farm prices are "going to hold." And he said he expects the next movement will reflect a "further strengthening of price."

The department's Crop Reporting Board said continued sharp decreases in prices received for most commercial vegetables and potatoes, and lower meat prices were "nearly offset" by higher prices received for fruit, cotton and dairy products.

On the other hand, the report said food prices drops figured as the "most important factor" in the decrease in price paid by farmers.

FCC Approves Radio Station

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C. has granted East Carolina College's application for a 3,000-watt P.M. non-commercial educational radio broadcasting station at Joyner Memorial Library on the college campus.

Librarian Wendell C. Smiley said the transmitting tower will be on top of the library building and 150 feet above ground. The tower and studio are expected to be ready for operation in about 30 days. The application requested the call letters WECOC, but these letters are already in use. The college is to forward five preferred call letters to the commission for approval.

Dr. Smiley said the college broadcasting station will broaden the scope of East Carolina's facilities. The station will offer to the radio public musical programs and all college events. He said the radio station will make available to the general public college activities and special events and render a public service in education.

Farmville Mart Has $52.24 Day

PARMVILLE — Sales totalling 691,530 pounds of tobacco were reported by the Farmville Tobacco Market for yesterday's operations. Buyers paid $361,291.32 for the lot. Average price was $52.24 per hundred pounds.

Tito's Trip Viewed As Effort To Bolster Khrushchev's Hand

By BORIS BOSKOVIC
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito's surprise trip to Russia is viewed here as an effort to strengthen the hand of Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev in a struggle against old Stalinists exerting renewed influence in the Kremlin.

Informed Communist party sources say Lazar Kaganovich, an intimate friend of Stalin, is leading a group inside the Soviet Communist party seeking to halt Khrushchev's policy of de-Stalinization and a more liberal communism.

These sources say Khrushchev pleaded with Tito to return with him to help line up support from elements in the top Soviet officialdom—principally Premier Bulganin and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan.

They pictured Bulganin as a Mikoyan as undecided between the pro-Stalin group and the tiny knot of Khrushchev's supporters.

Tito went with Khrushchev to the Soviet leader's villa at Yalta on the Black Sea without advance announcement Thursday, stirring speculation throughout the world. Khrushchev had spent eight days in Yugoslavia on what was described as a vacation. His visit here also came unexpectedly. Tito's trip to the Black Sea resort also was called a vacation.

Informed sources here said Tito's trip was so urgent that he went despite a strong warning from U.S. Secretary of State Dulles that signs of his possible return to the Soviet camp might jeopardize further American aid to Yugoslavia. They said Dulles' warning arrived during Khrushchev's visit here.

The informants hinted that the reasons that prompted Tito to take his unusual air journey would be explained privately to Dulles by Foreign Minister Koca Popovic, now en route to New York for next week's U.N. Security Council meeting.

Tito and his entourage were guests of Khrushchev at dinner last night, Moscow radio reported. Soviet President Klement Voroshilov and secret police Chief Gen. A. I. Serov also were present.

The Yugoslav sources indicate that Tito will warn both Khrushchev's opponents and friends that any return of Russia to the Stalin line would inevitably result in a "worsening of Yugoslav-Russian relations."

Some Sidelights On Visit By Speaker Rayburn

The Wright building, former home of East Carolina College basketball teams, never heard the like of some of the ovals cut loose last night by the house full of cocky Democrats.

In between chewing their baked ham and gnawing their chicken bones, the party faithful generously applauded their leaders.

Perhaps the biggest of them all, other than the one when Sam Rayburn was presented, was for Lindsay Warren of Washington N. C. The former Comptroller General of the United States and First District Congressman was described by Rayburn as "the most perfect legislator I was ever associated with."

John Clark said, "I know of no man loved better or more respected." Herbert Bonner, who started his own political career as Congressman Warren's secretary, also praised him highly.

The tributes to Warren didn't come from the leaders only. One of the rank-and-file boys testified after the dinner that Warren "was perhaps the most outstanding man ever produced by Eastern North Carolina."

The rally was advertised as an "Eastern North Carolina Rally" and it turned out to be just that. Except for Speaker Rayburn, there were no "foreigners" present and only a few were even mentioned. In fact, the national ticket of Stevenson and Kefauver was not mentioned a single time by any one of the speakers.

After his television appearance yesterday, Rayburn went to a Greenville motel where he met a few friends. After shaking some hands, he was asked to be excused "to rest and nap for about an hour." After he went to bed, a crowd of about 15 or 20 continued to stand outside his room and talk. Chairman Clark took care of that, however, by asking them to move down five or six doors to continue their conversation. "So Mr. Rayburn won't be disturbed."

Rayburn left Greenville this morning for another appearance at a political rally in Albemarle tonight. He will be accompanied to tonight's rally by many of the leaders here last night, including Governor Hodges and senators Sam Ervin and Kerr Scott.

'Rallying' Women On The Scene For Democratic Meet Here

MAKES POINT—Mrs. Curtis Spencer (right) of Black Jack, vice chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, makes a definite point as she talks with National Democratic Committeewoman Mrs. B. B. Everett at the Democratic rally held here last night.

It took a lot of "rallying" among members of the Piney Grove Woman's Auxiliary to serve the Rayburn dinner last night.

Many will feel rewarded by Mr. Rayburn's comment that it was a "fine dinner."

Less than two weeks ago, the Junior and Senior Woman's Auxiliary members of the church assumed responsibility for serving the dinner to the 1,200 Democrats, well aware of how ravenous Democrats can put away food.

Mrs. Ernest Cassick was placed in charge of arrangements for the dinner and she reports it took only one meeting to get approximately fifty-five women organized and busy.

They began arriving at Wright Auditorium on the ECC campus early yesterday, piled high with their handiwork.

To feed the 1,200 Democrats they were expecting they prepared 300 chickens and baked 31 hams. They figured that would give them 2,400 pieces of chicken and 1700 slices of ham.

In guaranteeing that all was genuine, Pitt County home cooking, Mrs. Cassick pointed with pride to the 85 home-baked cakes of various flavors and sizes. She further asserted that "no cake mix was used, either."

It took 70 gallons of potato salad and 125 gallons of tea to feed the determined Democrats. On the tables were 20 gallons of pickles.

Perhaps the bulkiest and toughest assignment was that of making 600 pounds of cabbage into slaw. The planners figured on 1/2 pound per person.

The total menu also included 700 deviled eggs and 270 packages of rolls.

Mrs. Cassick, when contacted this morning, said she was glad it was over and everybody fed. She estimated left-overs would have fed approximately 50 people.

Serving the dinner were some 55 women and 20 college girls.

When the dinner guests arrived they found their plates already served and on the bunting-draped tables. Only the iced tea and rolls remained to be passed at the last minute.

Mrs. Elvy Forrest was in charge of serving the meal.

... And The Ladies Came

The lady Democrats turned out for the dinner last night in sizable numbers. They came bareheaded and in woolen suits; and they came in all the floss and feathers of the new hats. Many were dressed in elegant attire.

From the expressions on many of their faces they enjoyed the "War Talk" as much as their spouses.

Among the distinguished women present was Mrs. B. B. Everett, national Democratic Committee Woman of Halifax, N. C.

Rep. Herbert Bonner paid tribute to Mrs. Everett in his opening remarks, describing her as a "noble, fine woman living off the earth."

Mentions REA

In his speech, "Mr. Democrat" touched on a subject near and dear to the woman's heart: rural electrification. He pointed out development of rural power during the Democratic administrations, saying that it had taken much of the drudgery from the housewife. He found no disagreement on that subject!

Proclamation

Whereas, the Junior Woman's Club is sponsoring the Watson Memorial Hospital of Pitt County Memorial Hospital which cares for underprivileged children, and whereas, it is to the mutual interest of all citizens of Greenville, and

Whereas, all funds received by the Junior Woman's Club will benefit Negroes as well as white children,

September 29, 1926

On Friday afternoon at her home on Fifth Street, Mrs. J. B. James entertained at a pretty rainbow party in honor of Miss Hannah Dixon, bride-elect, and Mrs. J. H. Rose, a recent bride. The music room, reception hall, living room and dining room ensuite were beautifully decorated with roses and other flowers used in abundance. The thirteen tables for rook were marked with large bows in the rainbow shades. As guests arrived, Mrs. A. J. Moore showed them to the pretty sun porch, where Mrs. F. G. James, Mrs. H. A. White, Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. J. L. Little served hot tea and wafers. After the games the guests were asked to cut. Mrs. Dall Laughinghouse cutting high was presented a rose corsage with lace handkerchief. The bride-elect and Mrs. Rose were presented similar corsages and lingerie sets.

Mrs. C. W. Hearne, another summer bride, was remembered with a lingerie set. After the prizes were awarded the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Larry James, Mrs. W. W. Lee and Miss Ada James, served an ice course, the ices being in shapes of roses in different colors and the cakes surmounted with miniature brides. Silver candlesticks with pink candles were used as centerpieces on the 13 tables.

Needed Stream Clearance Review

In spite of the $1.6 million appropriated through the Civil Defense Administration for stream clearance projects in Eastern North Carolina, this section still has not received the attention it deserves in this direction from federal authorities.

The clearance projects, aimed at clearing natural drainage waterways clogged by hurricanes of the past two years, are vital to the protection of millions of dollars worth of property if it is not to be inundated should other tropical storms like Hazel, Diane and Connie sweep through this region.

Earlier this month the Civil Defense Administration announced allocation of funds for approved projects in 20 counties in North Carolina. Oddly enough, this list of counties included many which suffered relatively minor damage during the hurricanes of the past two years while a few of the most severely hit counties like Hyde were not included in the list.

Congressman Herbert Bonner announced this week he has requested the Civil Defense Administration to review all the drainage projects in this area which were not initially approved. In the words of Rep. Bonner, "I've asked Val Peterson (head of the Civil Defense Administration) to revise the requirements for these projects to conform with intent of Congress" in passing legislation which permits the expenditures.

The Reflector commends Congressman Bonner for his continued efforts to obtain federal funds for much needed drainage projects in this area. It is quite clear from a study of the approved projects in this area. It is quite clear from a study of the approved projects that a good many of the natural drainage systems in harder hit areas were passed over in the allocation of funds.

While Eastern North Carolina is gradually overcoming the serious economic setback which hurricanes of the past two years dealt the area, long range measures for preventing extensive flooding must be carried out of protection from future storms. Otherwise many isolated areas, lashed by new storms, might face economic ruin even one or two years hence.

Individual counties must renew their efforts to gain approval for stream clearance projects just as Congressman Bonner has renewed his efforts for a more favorable consideration of the area as a whole in the appropriation of federal funds for stream clearance.

Demos Confident Ballentine Reports

By LYNN NISBET
STRAWS L. Y. Ballentine, commissioner of agriculture, is just back from the national convention of Secretaries, Commissioners and Directors of Agriculture at San Francisco. Membership in the national group is about equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, and attendance at the convention maintained about the same ratio.

Rayburn Rally One Of The Most Successful

Yesterday's Democratic rally in honor of Speaker Sam Rayburn is far and away the most successful political rally of its kind ever held in this section of North Carolina.

The success of the rally was fitting tribute to the great American whom it honored and to the efforts put forth by Democrats of Eastern North Carolina to bolster campaign funds of the national party.

Although it will be a few days before a final report will be available, it appears now that this section of the state will contribute some $10,000 to the national party coffers as a result of the Rayburn dinner. That is by no means a small contribution from this agricultural region and it is indisputable evidence of the support the party may expect from this area.

In a large measure the success of the rally must be attributed to the untiring efforts put forth by the general chairman John G. Clark of Greenville and Congressman Herbert Bonner of Washington. Credit for the success must also be given to the hundreds of men and women throughout Pitt and other counties who bought tickets and attended the rally.

The rally last night is indeed another bright feather in the cap of Pitt County. It brought a great deal of attention to Pitt as one of the leading Democratic counties of North Carolina. It likewise projected this locality briefly into the national spotlight.

All of Pitt County may be proud of the memorable occasion highlighted by the visit of Mr. Democrat himself. We do not think it boastful to say the event will long be remembered by Mr. Rayburn.

Campaign Fund Source Study May Be Fruitful

It will be interesting to see what names and statistics come out of the Senate Elections subcommittee's attempt this year to give the people a true picture of where campaign funds come from and where they go.

Senator Gore of Tennessee, head of the committee, has set in motion plans to present the first current picture of campaign contributions and expenditures early in October. Chairmen of the Democratic and Republican parties have been asked to appear before Gore's committee with detailed statistics of the funds and their distribution. Also called on for similar reports are candidates in the 35 Senate races now being conducted.

Steps taken by Sen. Gore will for the first time give the American people an idea of how the major problem of campaign financing is going during the campaign. In the past this information has been available only after the national campaigns ended, and even then information available has left many questions in the minds of the people.

It is not unlikely that these initial financial reports from major political groups will bear out Sen. Gore's tentative estimate that one percent of the people provide 98 per cent of the funds for national political campaigns. Neither is it unlikely that the preliminary reports will subsequently increase the sources from which the groups will be able to obtain substantial funds from donations in smaller amounts from many who have not in the past put cash into political campaigns.

While the main consideration in formal programs was the mechanics of operating the departments which serve the agricultural interests, and basic policies affecting relationship of State and Federal governments, the commissioners devoted a lot of spare time to partisan politics.

Ballentine recalls that four years ago and two years ago Democrats attending the national convention were somewhat subdued, while Republicans were pretty cocky in their attitude. This time the Democrats appeared confident, but not cocky, and the Republicans seemed to be sort of jittery. That was especially true of attendants from the middle and northwestern states, where party lines are not so closely drawn and the independent vote determines election results.

The Tarheel commissioner thinks that at least a straw indicating direction of the wind is blowing—and will blow in November. Another, perhaps more significant, straw in the wind was the attitude of Oregon and Washington people. The Oregon Republican delegates felt sure that Douglas McKay will defeat Wayne Morse for the Senate, but feared that Governor Langlie would lose his bid for the Senate in Washington. The Washington folks thought Langlie would win, but feared that McKay might lose. Neither group would admit defeat in its own state, but doubted the neighbor could make the grade. The objective view might be more accurate than the one involving personal interest, Ballentine said.

PER CURIAM — Chief Justice Wallace Winborne is continuing the policy inaugurated by Chief Justice Barnhill with respect to decisions handed down by the Supreme Court without identification of the judge who wrote the opinion.

In earlier days long opinions were written by individual members of the court, even if the issue was so clear that unanimous decision was inevitable and a sentence or two would have taken care of the situation. Lawyers generally like the new plan, and reporters who cover the court love it. But it often results in distinct loss to literature. Some of the finest writing to be found anywhere is in the official report of the Supreme Court decision.

Other Editors Are Saying... They Might At Least Be Kept

(The Raleigh Times)
The first round in the struggle between Ike and Adlai for the farm vote is over, and it's got to go to Ike on a narrow point margin. Stevenson did a fine job of promising all this and heaven too, but Ike was more realistic. He didn't promise as much, but he stands a better chance of keeping the promises he did make.

With some of Stevenson's promises, no one could reasonably argue. He wants increased use of surpluses for school lunch and foreign relief programs, and he promised a new food stamp plan for the underprivileged. Though it hasn't worked before, Stevenson might have some new ideas.

But in his major portions, Stevenson's endorsement of rigid price supports is the same old tired Truman program that got the farmer in the mess he's supposed to be in today. This is the program that built up surpluses in Liberty ships, caves and silos to the $6 billion level. It is the program that cost the nation $1 million a day to store food it doesn't want, can't use, and couldn't have if it did want.

Eisenhower administration. Since flexible supports became effective, farm prices have actually risen and surpluses have been reduced.

Though the farmer is indeed getting less of the consumer dollar than he used to, and Stevenson promised to do something about it, we've seen no signs of catastrophe. The farmers who went to hear Stevenson at Newton park in adjacent fields heard the weeping and wailing over their unhappy plight.

Nor did Stevenson offer any concrete answers. The truth is the farmer gets less of the take, but he still gets more than he used to. The people, with more real wages to spend on food than ever before, demand better quality and new variety. They demand processed vegetables and instant steaks, which raises the cost of food without changing the cost to the farmer. In the Southeast, we see, farmers this year have made $154 million more than they made last year.

A Branch Office In Florida?

A letter found its way to my desk this week from a Margaret Congleton of Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Therein was written: "I would like for you to send me all the information you can on Greenville, North Carolina. We are writing compositions and I am writing about your wonderful city."

That is a pretty big order. The writer, I presume, is in high school... but the choice of "your wonderful city" (name-ly Greenville, N.C.) as a composition choice leaves me floored. There are any number of cities scattered broadcast over the land which, at first glance, should have drawn attention from school teachers before focusing on Greenville.

Maybe her teacher is from Greenville. Maybe her father smokes Greenville market tobacco. Maybe she just shut her eyes and hit a map with a pin.

Then again, Miss Congleton may have relatives here. Anyhow, I'm working against time to line up something for the little lady to win her an "A" if not an "E" for effort.

In this, the Chamber of Commerce has been a helpful source of basic information; but something more is needed. Something to illustrate the vibrant growth I've watched since the end of World War II... vacant lots now filled with housing, former croplands boasting new homes... the modernizing of local business buildings... the growth of East Carolina College... the odd mingling of the spirit of tradition and modernity.

The story of how East Carolina Teachers College was located here; the staggering amount of floor space (about 3 million square feet) devoted to the tobacco industry; how one Greenville plant supplies the tiny batteries for those pen-sized flashlights; well, one could go on and on.

Then there's the matter of history that should be covered in any composition that would do justice to Greenville.

Whatever the root for this Florida inquiry about Greenville, the C-of-C should look into the prospects of setting up a branch office in Fort Lauderdale... with Margaret Congleton in charge, of course.

Modern Art Is Here To Stay

By W. G. ROGERS
NEW YORK, (AP) — Modern art is here to stay. Somebody has said that every two or three years since World War I, and like of which no one would say it again.

The proof of it lies not only in the museums and galleries with their paintings of purple cows and blue horses, their sculpture that wigwags its wire arms, and their fur-lined teacups.

It lies also in half a shelf full of books which, as it happens, are being published in just these few days. Even in its title one of them hails the new-until, abstract, nonrepresentational world of the kind which no one ever saw till the contemporary artist recorded it.

The title is "Modern Art USA" (Knopf) and it concludes: "There is no let-up in sight." There is further proof in the jacket designs of these books—the splashes, streaks and blobs of color on "Modern Art USA" suggesting Pollock or Miró; the Mondrian-like shapes on "Art Today" (Holt) by Ray Faulkner, Edwin Ziegfeld and Gerald Hill; the Henry Moore as part of the design on "The Art of Sculpture" (Pantheon-Bollinger) by Herbert Read.

One measure of the extent of the new vision is suggested by Read, who says: "At least nine-tenths of all the sculpture ever carved is devoted to one subject—the human body." Then he looks around at today's sculptors who ignore the body. They find their inspiration, subject matter and sometimes material in the movement of crane and derrick, the motion imparted by motors, and the properties, completely free of any hint of the body, of steel and aluminum, wire and metal plaques and rods. Among them are Gabo's "Kinetic Sculpture," which actually moves; Pevsner's "Dancer," which seems to move; Calder's own personal invention, the mobiles, which move in the wind or at a breath, never so popular as they are now, and never so widely copied.

Perhaps a surer witness to the vitality of modernism is Sheldon Cheney. In 1937 he wrote "A World History of Art." Revised and reissued, it is now called "A New World History of Art" (Viking). Without rereading the old text, but comparing the indices, I find a tacit acknowledgment that modern art may have a long and happy life.

In the 1937 version there were no Leger, no Ozenfant, no Calder, omissions which are now all rectified. Where there was one Rodin illustration there are two; for the two Cezanne illustrations there are now three; for the original two Picassos, three; for Frank Lloyd Wright without any

Strength for the Day

CONSERVATISM OF YOUTH

Get ready for a shock. Almost everyone who knows anything about student life today testifies that students of this generation are vastly more conservative than their parents. They are conservative as regards politics, economics, and religion. They seem to us at times to be riotous and to be kicking up their heels in quite alarming fashion. But student riots are outbursts of otherwise amazingly calm and stable natures. If the truth were fully told, most of the students today look askance at the radical and adventurous philosophies and policies of their elders. The kids today are conservative. Why? We do not know with certainty, but we do know with certainty that they are.

All this should cause the older generation to stop and think. Maybe the oldsters are not as wise as they thought they were. Maybe what they call progress is a reversion to old fallacies. Maybe the oldsters are whistling in the dark to keep up a courage that is not equal to the startling changes of the modern world. Maybe the youngsters are seeing things with more level eyes and more level heads and better balanced judgement than we are accustomed to think.

What are we coming to when the younger generation looks with distrust upon the older generation because the older generation is brash and reckless?

Either A Cause Or A Result

By ELMER ROESSNER
The question of whether the settlement of the steel strike caused another round of inflation may never be answered. Too many factors are involved.

Some economists, in fact, say that what has happened since then is not inflation, but a sort of rolling adjustment of prices and wages. But from this corner, a widespread rise in both wages and prices looks enough like inflation to fill a tire.

Even if we aren't having a swing on the inflationary merry-go-round at the moment, still unanswered is the question about prices. Did the rise in steelworkers' pay and the consequent rise in steel prices ("Nothing is made without steel") produce the general boost in both pay and prices, or would wages and prices have gone up anyhow?

The question will probably never be answered satisfactorily, there are as many answers as there are theoreticians. But whether or not the wage rise caused the general price rise, the steel settlement was certainly the signal, or trigger, for higher prices.

The steel strike settlement provided an increase, over a three-year period of 45.6 cents per hour on a base of $2.47 an hour. That is a large increase but an even more significant economic factor is the direction of the deal. The bulk of the rise was given immediately; the remainder is to come in 1957 and 1958. Thus there is a built-in "ascensorial" factor. "Ascensorial" is a word we just made up to convey the idea that, no matter what else happens to America's commerce, the steelworkers' wages will continue to rise, either pulling other wages and prices with them, or in case of a setback, shearing off from the rest of the economy.

Whether the contract was the cause or only the trigger pull, the rise in prices since the settlement has been high and wide. Steel prices went up automatically, followed closely by things made of steel: appliances, rails, tubes, bars, pipes, etc., and followed less closely by things made with steel, such as chemicals, gasoline, etc.

This led to forecasts that prices of 1957 automobiles would be higher. Manufacturers exercised humanitarian restraint, and did not raise prices more than a few cents. That allowed customers to make mental adjustments for the shocks to come.

Other things that moved higher included petroleum products (but that was by Egyptians, not steelworkers); cement, more chemicals than you can twist a tongue with; television receivers; air conditioners; roller bearings; beef (caused by the trend from grain-fattened to grass fed cattle, not by the steel workers); pork (caused by the high price of beef); scrap metal; tin (caused by Nasser, not McDonald); radio parts; evaporated milk and many other things.

A few prices flew into the electric fan: Douglas fir plywood, some textiles, lard, fowls and a few other items dropped. However, the drop might have been greater if it were not for the steel-wage upward "ascensorial" factor.

This leads to an important question: Where the steelworkers duped into accepting a settlement of only 45.6 cents an hour? It begins to look as if that rise will not pay for the higher costs of things they want to buy. Perhaps the steelworkers were jockeyed into the position to taking the blame for higher prices, without getting wages enough to pay them. Maybe the steel companies should call in the boys, tear up existing contracts, and offer new ones that will increase wages enough to pay the price the higher wages will cause. And maybe this is a tongue-in-cheek commentary trying to show that you can't keep increasing wages faster than productivity without increasing prices.

Opinions In Brief

ARTHUR, ILL., GRAPHIC-CLARION: "We recently ran across an item describing how valuable an objective examination of force and violence."

He was a member of the Herter Committee which paved the way for the Marshall Plan and subsequent programs of foreign aid. He voted for the Roosevelt-Truman Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, and for continuation of Selective Service.

Held against him is his vote for the Taft-Hartley Act and the Subversives Activities Control Act, both of which former President Truman vetoed. In short, from an objective examination of his record in the House, where he had to vote on major issues, Nixon is a minor Eisenhower. They do not disagree on major problems of politics and government. The New Dealers hate and deprecate the Californian in about the same way that American Tories lambasted Andrew Jackson, and his wife, Rachel.

Why Hackles Rise At Nixon's Name

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Many readers have asked me why Vice President Richard Nixon is so disliked by certain elements of the electorate, and why he is labeled as a member of the Republican Old Guard, in contrast to President Eisenhower's program of moderate liberalism.

Answer: In preparation of my answer to this question, I must say that I have examined Nixon's performance and voting record in the House. As Vice President, he does not vote in the Senate except in case of a tie ballot. I must also add that I know Nixon personally, and that I like him. For that reason, if they wish, readers may discount my evaluation of the V.P., although it is based on the record.

OFF-THE-RECORD MEETINGS I think I may be pardoned for introducing a personal note into this discussion of the Vice President. For several years, about 20 Washington newspaper correspondents, radio commentators and television notables used to have an off-the-record luncheon or dinner session with top members of the Eisenhower household.

We talked and dined in the "MacArthur suite" of a downtown hotel. We selected our officials on the basis of their current importance in public problems and the news of the day. It was at such a session, not ours, that Admiral Carney declared that he favored American involvement in the French-Communist war in Indo-China. There are several such off-the-record groups here, and they are extremely helpful to newspaper, radio, television and columnist reporters.

Well, to return to Nixon, the only officials whom we thought important enough to invite were Nixon and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey. NEW DEALERS HATE NIXON Vice President Nixon, in my opinion, is "in bad" because of the organized and prolonged campaign against him by New Deal politicians, liberal newsmen and certain leftist columnists. New Dealers hate him because of his role in exposing the traitorous behavior of Alger Hiss and his associates in the Roosevelt-Truman Administration.

The liberal Democrats berate Nixon for other reasons. Although he praised Truman's resistance to the Communist invasion of South Korea, he charged that Truman and Dean Acheson, then Secretary of State, had hamstrung General Douglas MacArthur in his military operations. He demanded a United Nations embargo on trade with the Chinese Communists. He declared that the State Department, and especially General George C. Marshall, had "betrayed" Chiang Kai-shek to the Communist regime in China. In this indictment, there is an element of historical truth.

Writes On Science In The Elementary School

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

It's time to Break the Record! Sunday 30 has been set aside as the time to break the Record in Sunday School. The highest attendance has been 322. To break the record there must be 223 present. The superintendent, Mr. Jimmie Spain plans to break the record over the preacher's head. Each member of the school and their friends are urged to be at Sunday School this coming Sunday to see this happen. It is also Promotion Day in the Sunday School. There will be a special program by the children who will be promoted to higher classes. At the 11:00 o'clock service the pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy will bring the morning message if he is still able after the record is broken over his head in Sunday School.

As science takes its place as a vital part of the elementary school curriculum, improved methods of evaluating instruction should be found. Dr. John G. Navarra of East Carolina College states in the current issue of "Childhood Education," official publication of the Association for Childhood Education International. Dr. Navarra contends that the present trend in instruction in elementary science is to depart from old methods of equating fact acquisition with evaluation and of holding persistently to the "teach and test" idea. The introduction of science into the elementary school, he states, has tended to free the curriculum from rigidity and dominance by the three R's. Describing elementary science as a "subject of intrinsic flexibility," he says, "The advocates of the modern elementary program recognized in science, an area in which children could be given an important freedom of movement and development."

At the risk of being a bit controversial—but who doesn't like a bit of controversy here and there, just for the spice of it?—we quote from an article in this week's New York Times Magazine, "A South-ern Negro's View of the South," by Charles S. Johnson, who has been president of Fisk University since 1946. Talking about contemporary racial issues, he writes, "Basically, this is a struggle today not between North and South, or whites and Negroes, or between the national and international points of view. It is a struggle between those who believe in democracy and those who do not."

superintendent, Mr. M. B. MacLead, will be in charge. The Ordinance of Baptism will be administered by the pastor, the Rev. Irby B. Jackson, at the worship service tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. Burt and Gordon Aycock, sons of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Aycock, will be baptized. Three young ladies, students at East Carolina College, united with Immanuel Baptist Church last Sunday morning. They were Misses Sue Carol Lassiter of Plymouth, Patricia Ann Lewis of Smithfield, and Nancy Keith of Fuquay Springs.

The pastor has been preaching a series of sermons for the past few Sundays on Christian Stewardship. At the morning worship hour tomorrow his subject will be "Tithing." Recently the congregation adopted its financial budget for the next church year which begins October 1. The total budget will be $39,565.00 exclusive of four special offerings for missions through the Missionary Society and an offering each quarter for the church's Building Fund. Interest and attendance at Immanuel Baptist Church are commendable of late. There were 376 people in Sunday School last Sunday and a larger number is expected for Promotion Day tomorrow.

Coincidence

In the Times Book Review, directly underneath the ad for "A Certain Smile," Francise Sagan's new book about the love affair between a young girl and a man old enough to be her daddy, there: "Love or Perish," by Dr. Smiley Blanton—whose picture seems to fit in right with Miss Sagan's plans, smilingly looking down at him. . . . And while we're on advertising, we'll call your attention to the big offer of a reprint of the series of pictures that first appeared in the Century Magazine between 1884 and 1887 on the Civil War. Called "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," edited by American History Pulitzer Prize winner Roy F. Nichols, the 4-volume edition is offered at $24.95, with a deluxe version coming at $50 the set. If you want one, just ask us. . . .

Coming Up

From the Literary Guild, we hear that "The Wreck of the Mary Deare," by Hammond Innes, will be the selection for November. It's about—you guessed it—a shipwreck, but just where and how it all happens we couldn't gather from the blurb. . . . Not that we're feeling very old, these days, but for those who might be, late next month will come "Horizons for Older People," by Dr. George Gleason, who was Y.M.C.A. secretary for 30 years and Church and Community Coordinator in Los Angeles County. He got his Ph.D. at Columbia when he was 62 years old, incidentally—so there's hope for some of us yet. . . .

The Paperbacks

Since we've talked about them last—six months ago, or so—those editions of books coming out with paper bindings at comparatively low prices have burgeoned out with some new and fascinating titles. . . .

Preparation Sermon At St. James For World Communion

One week from tomorrow, October 7, is "Worldwide Communion Sunday." Christians of many denominations in over fifty countries around the world will receive the "Lord's Supper" on that day. In preparation for this annual memorial to the death of Christ, a special sermon will be preached this Sunday morning at St. James Church.

"The whole service on September 30 will be designed to prepare the worshipper to receive the Sacrament on October 7," Minister Malloy Owen stated today. The celebration of the Lord's Supper or Communion stems from Christ's last supper with His Disciples before His crucifixion, the minister added. "Communion is a Christian Feast of the Atonement, since in it we keep a 'perpetual memory of His precious death until His coming again,' as the ancient ritual of the Church states."

Every person intending to receive the Sacrament on October 7 is urged to attend the service of preparation tomorrow if at all possible, Mr. Owen explained. "The two services go together; there will be no sermon on the day we actually take the Lord's Supper."

Browning Talks To Exchangites

Dr. E. R. Browning, head of the department of Business Education at East Carolina College, presented a general discussion of various phases of business to the Greenville Exchange Club last night.

Dr. Browning said that farms in the United States have the lowest productive acreage since 1880. He also pointed out that stock farmers' income was down 20 per cent for the period in comparison with three per cent for all others.

Speaking of the aluminum business, Dr. Browning said U. S. production alone is three times as much as the rest of the world. The United States produces one and a half million tons of aluminum per year, with Alcoa, Reynolds and Kaiser aluminum companies accounting for 90 per cent of the total production.

Corporations produced 412 billion dollars worth of business, with General Motors accounting for 12 billion. As an example of the size, Dr. Browning said 33 companies the size of General Motors could produce and do all the business in the United States.

Dr. Browning also cited the current Suez Canal situation and pointed out that it was not so much a question of who own the canal but who controls the passageway. He said each ship using the canal saves an average of $46,000 on a trip from Boston to Calcutta.

Dr. Browning was introduced by J. C. Lamm, President Jack Wallace presided.

Some Sidelights

Laughs last night when he answered John Clark's introduction in which Scott's first name was pronounced "Curr." Scott waited until the applause eased and then boomed, "John, we still pronounce that 'Curr.'"

Among the dignitaries introduced by Clark were Ervin and Scott, national committeeman Everett Jordan and national committeewoman Mrs. B. B. Everette, state Democratic chairman John D. Larkin, Rep. L. H. Fountain, Secretary of State Thad Eure, state treasurer Edwin Gill, Insurance Commissioner Charles Gold, Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, state Senator Dr. Paul E. Jones, state Rep. Frank Wooten, state Rep. Walter Jones, Jack Spain, Henry Oglesby, Lindsay Warren, and Tom Pearsall.

Governor Hodges, also introduced by Clark, made a direct appeal for funds to help the party. "We're going to clean house in November," he said, "but it's going to take support from everybody to do it." He especially urged support of the Democrats' "dollar day" in October.

Bonner introduced Rayburn and consumed 25 minutes before he got to the job. He also sported a big "Win in '36 with Adlai and Estes" lapel pin. There were very few lapel pins in evidence.

At least 29 Eastern North Carolina counties had representatives at the meeting. Clark announced last night that 27 had purchased tickets and then had two more come forward after the meeting. The rally committee had started out with hopes of getting representatives from 31 Eastern counties to attend.

Dr. John D. Messick welcomed the Democrats to the college and told them the institution was always ready to help any group anyway it could.

Rayburn exhibited a keen sense of humor throughout the evening but he got his biggest laugh when he was ticking off the state of the nation in 1932, "the last year of the great engineer, Herbert Hoover." He told the group what cows were worth, how much farm products sold for, what the value of beef cattle was in Texas, and so on down the line. The farther out with, the less the value was. He wound up by saying, "In 1932, the poor old pig was worth little more than a squeal."

Except for his rest yesterday afternoon, Rayburn hardly slowed down from the minute he got off his plane at New Bern until late last night. He finally sat down after the rally at the insistence of Bonner who said, "I'm tired. Let's sit a minute."

Shrine Club Hears Talk On AA Works

The Pitt County Shrine Club held its regular monthly meeting September 20 with 30 members present.

The meeting was presided over by President Hoyt L. Naron, and was opened with a prayer by Noble George W. Smith.

Willie Rogers had charge of the program. He introduced Jack Edwards, who spoke on "Christ in Action" and outlined the work that Alcoholics Anonymous is doing.

Noble Ed Ricks reminded the club that he had on hand for sale a large number of tickets to the Oxford Orphanage football game, and invited members to aid him in the ticket sale.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Noble Leslie H. Garner.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

The Greenville Free Will Baptist Sunday School continues to experience growth in numbers and interest. Last Sunday there were 409 present. The superintendent, Mr. Stephen Walters, is interested in keeping the attendance above 400 and that those who attend receive greater helps for living the Christian life. At the 11 a. m. worship the Belfry Quartet will sing the hymn "Christ Died To Save Us All." The Belfry Quartet is composed of Gilbert Windham, Alton Stocks, Connie Hines and William Lloyd. The pastor's sermon topic will be "God's Remedy For The Sin-Sick" (II Chron. 7: 14). The Leagues will meet at 6:15 p. m. under the direction of Mark Case. The fifth Sunday night Community Singing will be held at 7:30 p. m. Many able singers have planned and promised to be present for this service of worship and praise. We urge you to prayerfully attend all these services."

Jumped Before Highway Crash

A 14-year-old rural Greenville boy leaped from his farm tractor moments before it was struck by a bus last night and practically demolished in evidence.

Jasper Ray Hannah, Route 2, was the driver of the tractor. The driver of the bus was Herbert Lee Perry, Negro, 29, of New Bern.

"Both vehicles were proceeding east on the 264 by-pass," said investigating State Highway Patrolman Jim Boykin, "when the bus started to pass and the tractor made a left turn in front of it. The boy jumped just before the collision."

Neither driver was injured. "The investigation is not yet complete," said Boykin.

ONE OF MANY NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—An authoritative appearing sign was noted in the rear window of a car here. It read: Official, U. S. Government Taxpayer.

The word "fossil," an impression of an animal left from ancient ages, means "dug up."

Tar Heel Demos Gather To Hear 'Mr. Sam'

SERIOUS WORDS—Judging by the expression on their faces, serious words are passing between Rally Chairman John G. Clark (left) and Governor Luther Hodges. Gov. Hodges led the delegation of almost a score of state officials who were among the 1,100 party faithful who gathered for the rally.

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER—Speaker Rayburn (left) and Rep. Herbert C. Bonner pause to take a deep breath after a strenuous day of activity climaxed by last night's rally. For Speaker Rayburn the day included an airplane flight from the nation's capital, two television appearances, press interviews, a good bit of handshaking and the major address.

SIGN SETS THE THEME—The big sign which hung over the tables of distinguished Democrats at last night's rally set the theme for the rally and the address by House Speaker Sam Rayburn. More than a score of state officials as well as chairmen of Democratic executive committees from 29 counties occupied the platform. In all, some 1,100 Democrats from Eastern North Carolina forked up $15 a plate for the ham and fried chicken dinner. The rally is expected to net more than $10,000 which will go into the campaign fund of the national Democratic Party.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT—This is a portion of the crowd of more than 1,100 Democrats who paid $15 a plate for dinner last night to honor Speaker Rayburn and raise funds for the Democratic war chest. Tables lined Wright Auditorium as Democrats from 29 counties came for the affair. (Reflector photos by Alvin Taylor).

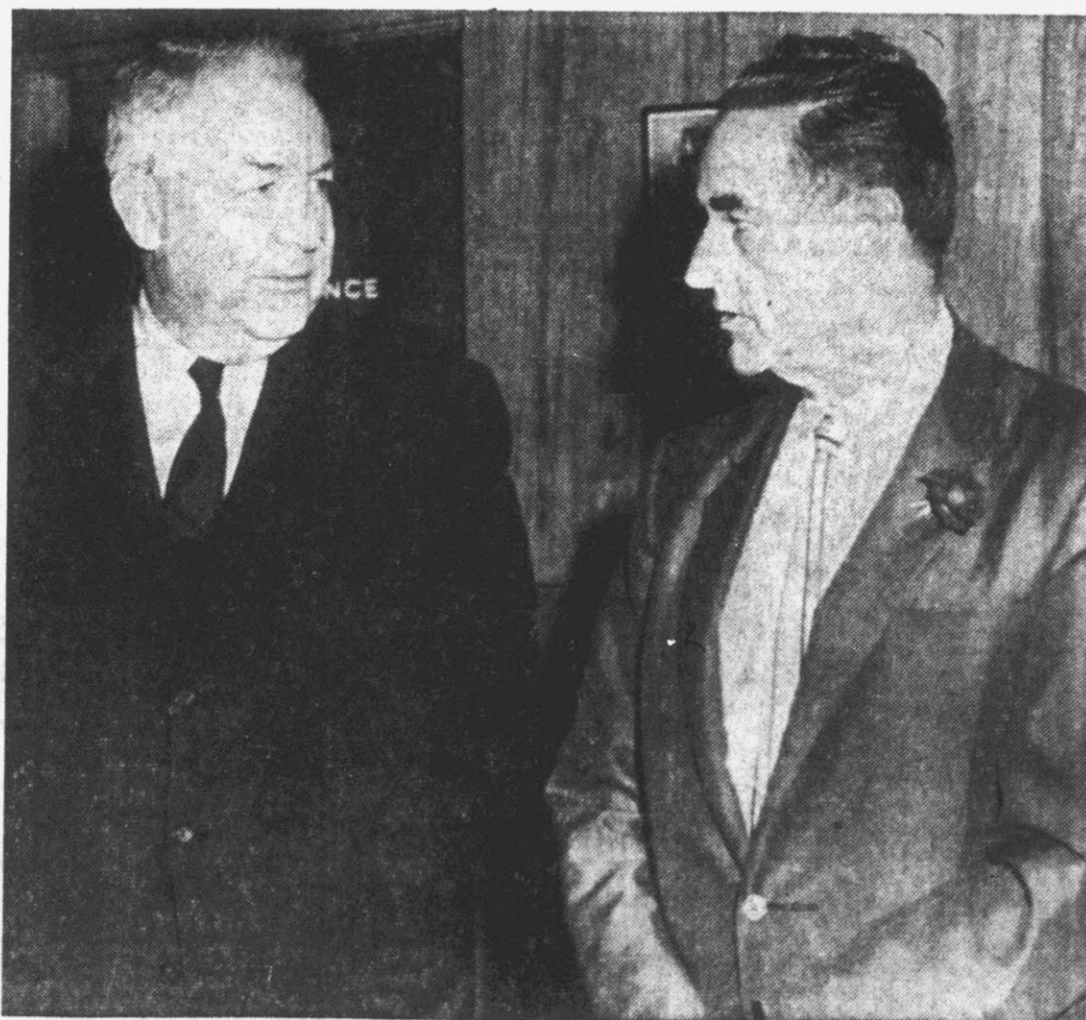

CONGRESSMAN—L. H. Fountain of Tarboro makes a point in one of the many informal discussions which were held yesterday as officials from all over the state gathered here.

SENATORIAL VIEWPOINT—Sen. Sam J. Erwin, Jr., has a word with State Senator Paul E. Jones of Farmville (left) and J. Con Lanier (right) of Greenville.

OLD VETERAN AND YOUNG VETERAN—Former U. S. Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren of Washington (left) honorary chairman of the rally, has a word with Rep. Walter Jones of Farmville who presided at the rally last night.

SENATE CONFERENCE—North Carolina Senators Sam J. Erwin, Jr. (left) and W. Kerr Scott take time out for a brief private talk during the busy day. The two senators were among the host of leading political figures of the state who gathered here yesterday.

PRIVATE CONFERENCE—Speaker Rayburn gets in a few words with Gov. Hodges (left foreground) and Sen. Scott during the meal which preceded Rayburn's address.

the Green 17. Tanner carried to the nine and Marslander then passed to Carl Jones for the second touchdown. Tanner's conversion was good.

Greenville took the kickoff from their own 37 to Washington's 21, where the Pack line held. That marked the end of the first quarter.

From there, Washington sparked down to Greenville's 13 on long runs by Tanner, Bartow Houston and Cochran. Marslander then tossed to Jones again for 15 yards and the third score. Tanner's boot was good. The score was 21-0.

HOUSTON BREAKS AWAY—Washington halfback Bartow Houston is shown cutting down the sidelines toward another Pam Pack touchdown in last night's Northeastern Conference tilt. The 150 pound scabcat set up two scores with long runs. Washington scored seven touchdowns to swamp the G-Men 48-6. (Photos courtesy of the Washington Daily News).

HOWELL ON A PITCHOUT—Phantom halfback Robert Howell (41) takes a pitchout from quarterback Mack Roebuck (10) and begins to skirt his left end behind Billy Sermons (20), who is leading interference. Greenville's only score came when Sermons grabbed a kickoff and scrambled 78 yards to a touchdown. The big red head also played an outstanding game for Greenville on defense at a linebacker slot. The 48-6 loss was Greenville's second in Northeastern Conference play against only one win.

WASHINGTON—Washington's Pam Pack served notice to all that they intend to live up to their number one rating in the Northeastern Conference, as they clobbered Greenville 48-6, here, last night.

Coch Chippy Wagner's charges displayed a tremendous ground offense, rolling over the visiting Phantoms at will. They racked up seven big touchdowns—four of them by the Pack second stringers.

Washington won the toss, took the kickoff on their own 30 yard line, and scored their first touchdown of the night only four plays later.

Steve Cochran returned the kickoff to the Pack 46 and halfback Fritz Tanner reeled off 35 yards around his left end to carry deep into Green territory. Greenville was penalized five yards for offsides, then Tanner streaked through for six more, down to the one yard line. Quarterback Ward Marslander then plunged over for the score. Tanner booted the extra point and Washington had the 7-0 lead in less than a minute's time of play.

Green Fumbles
On the resulting kickoff, Greenville fumbled and the Pack took over again. Stopped on the Green 20, they punted out on the nine and Greenville took possession.

After two incomplete passes, Phantom quarterback Roebuck lateraled to halfback Billy Sermons on an option. Sermons fumbled and Pack End Billy Gilgore recovered on

Sermons Breaks Loose
Action ranged from one end of the field to the other in the remaining minutes of the second quarter and the score stayed 21-0 until half time.

In the third quarter, the Washington attack boomed down to the Green 17 on runs by Houston, Tanner and reserve quarterback Jim Silverthorne. Silverthorne then sneaked through the center of the line for the fourth touchdown of the evening and Skybo Langley kicked the extra point. It was 28-0.

On the kickoff, Billy Sermons took the ball on his own 22, followed his interference to the 25, cut back into the center of the field and zoomed through a host of tacklers, all the way for the only Phantom score of the night. The play covered 78 yards and was the longest single run recorded. The extra point attempt was thwarted.

Three More Scores
Washington scored twice more in that quarter on a six-yard dive by second string halfback Jack Warren, and a one-yard plunge by Dickie Jones. Edwin Wilkerson, Green end, blocked one conversion attempt.

In the final quarter, Jones went again for nine yards and another TD and Langley booted the extra point, to make it 48-6. That's the way it ended.

Greenville's only spectacular plays were pulled by Sermons and Robert Howell on offense, and Wilkerson, Jordan and Sermons on defense.

Indians Favored Though Records Are Identical

Catawba's Indians, boasting the heaviest line in the nation, collides with East Carolina's injured Pirates tonight at College Stadium. The battle will be the first North State tilt for both teams. Catawba will enter the game as favorite although both teams have identical records. The Indians tied Newberry in their opener and then lost to Davidson. ECC lost to Virginia Tech and then tied Stetson. Spearheading the visiting line, which averages 250 pounds per man, will be All-Conference tackle Dick Cassels. Leading the backfield will be the highly-touted quarterback Lou Biacchi. Aiding him will be Larry Glidersieck at fullback.

Bucs Hurt By Injuries
Injuries will hamper the ECC team. On the bench will be Jerry Brooks, Ed Emory, Dick Mondy, Charlie Smith and Waverly Chesson, all linemen.

Dick Cherry, experiencing family illness, will be absent from the lineup also. Gary Matlocks, who sparked the Buc attack against Stetson last week, will handle the quarterback duties and will be expected to pass frequently to ends Ray Pennington and Billy Helms. In the Pirate backfield, Coach Jack Boone will use Jim Henderson and Bobby Perry at halfbacks and Bobby Maynard at fullback. James Speight and Tommy Nash, along with Billy Skeeter, are expected to see action also.

Line play is expected to be led by Algy Faircloth, Ray Overton, and Kenny Burgess.

Catawba Invades East Carolina Tonight

Flag Now Rests On Bums

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

There's just one question left to day in the National League pennant race. Are Brooklyn's world champs really old pros—or are they just old?

The flag rests on the answer. The Dodgers, looking weary and listless while losing four of their last six games, got the big break last night when their crucial series with Pittsburgh was postponed by rain and cold. St. Louis knocked off the first place Braves 5-4.

Now a sweep of the three-game set with the Pirates, beginning this afternoon with a doubleheader, will guarantee nothing worse than a tie for the Brooks—setting up a pennant playoff.

Milwaukee had a chance for a no-fuss title had they swept the Cardinals in three. Now the Braves can clinch the pennant outright only if they take the final two at St. Louis tonight and tomorrow and if Brooklyn loses one. Cincinnati got a reprieve with the Milwaukee defeat, too. Idle yesterday, the Redlegs would have been expelled by a Bra... victory. Now, if they can sweep their remaining two at Chicago, and Milwaukee and Brooklyn each lose two, Cincy will have a tie for the pennant.

The Cardinals' jarring victory, secured on an unearned run in the sixth for the Cards, who then played in the NL. Rain stopped New York at Philadelphia.

In the American, the pennant-winning New York Yankees bopped Boston 7-2 with Mickey Mantle hitting his 52nd home run. Cleveland topped Detroit 2-1 on the four-hit pitching of rookie Hank Aguirre—after the Tribe had clinched second place on Kansas City's 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Baltimore and Washington were idled by rain.

Three singles against relief-loser Taylor Phillips—by Ken Boyer, who chased starter Bob Buhl with a three-run double in the first inning, Rip Repulski and Bobby Del

Joey Leaps For Joy After Dropping Boyd

CLEVELAND (AP)—"What makes Joey jump?" Someone asked last night as Joey Giardello leaped joyfully and high above the canvas of the Cleveland Arena ring where Bobby Boyd lay on his stomach, out cold, with blood flowing from his mouth.

The ringside someone said he could understand all that glee if the knockout assured the 26-year-old Philadelphia Italian a shot at Sugar Ray Robinson's middleweight title. But if such a chance does come, it won't be for months.

But to Giardello, the bad boy battling back, that moment at 2:25 of the fifth round was, in his own words, one of the happiest in his life.

He went against the 22-year-old Chicagoan as a 2-1 underdog, mainly because the bettors wouldn't believe he could get back into top physical condition. Since his brush with the law over a filling station attendant's assault, he had lost two fights to Charlie Cotton of Toledo and his victories were not sufficiently impressive to offset those defeats.

Last night, however, Giardello demonstrated speed and conditioning and held the upper hand all the way on the lanky Boyd rarely behind Gene Fulmer of West Jordan, Utah, as No. 2 contender.

When the nationally televised fight had ended, Boyd wasn't able to talk. His badly battered jaw was to be x-rayed today for possible fracture, Dr. M. H. Lambright, boxing commission physician said. A hard right cross from Giardello displaced a dental bridge in Boyd's mouth, uprooting a tooth to which the bridge was attached.

It was this disarrangement of dentures that accounted for the puzzled expression on the stunned Boyd as he climbed out of the ropes and stood swaying to be cut down by another right to the jaw that left him sprawled flat for more than a full minute.

The crowd of 2,643, along with the judges and referee, were agreed that when the windup came, Boyd was far behind in points. Two straight right crosses had dumped him out of the ring just before the bell ended the first round. Giardello was beating him to the punch consistently and landing often with a right cross and left hook.

Boyd weighed 160, Giardello 159.

New streets opened in Seymour, Conn., are all names for the birds, such as Chickadee Lane, Robin Road and Whippoorwill Drive.

Friday's Stars

PITCHING: Larry Jackson, Cardinals, with one out, one run home and tying run on first, came on in relief in the eighth inning to strike out Joe Adcock, who earlier had homered, and retire Andy Paiko on a foul pop, then went through the ninth inning one-two-three to nail a 5-4 decision over Braves.

HITTING: Ken Boyer, Cardinals, banged a three-run first-inning double and set off a winning, tie-breaking two-run rally with a sixth-inning single to jolt Braves' pennant hopes 5-4.

Eppes Defeats Wilson By 6-0

Eppes high school accounted for its first conference win of the season last night, pounding Wilson for a close 6-0 victory, in Wilson.

In the first half, Eppes pushed deep into Wilson territory on three different occasions and fumbled three times. The fumbles took place on the 10, two and one yard lines.

Their first threat was a 74 yard march to the two, where they fumbled.

In the early minutes of the third quarter, Eppes took the kickoff and marched 65 yards to the only score of the game. Quarterback Virgil Lynch sneaked over from the one. The extra point try was stopped.

Outstanding for Eppes were James Harris, John Jenkins, George Hunt, and William Teel, in the line. Bennie Wilson, Joe Baker, Julius Jones and Lynch were the big guns in the backfield.

Next week, Eppes will play host to the State AA Champion, Wilmington, at Guy Smith Stadium.

Ayden Wins

Ayden's red-hot Tornado grid-ers remained undefeated and tied and underscored upon by defeating Farmville 19-0 last night at Ayden. It was Ayden's fourth victory.

Tommy Edwards scored twice and a pass-lateral play from Lindsey Dunn to R. L. Collins to Harold Worthington brought the other touchdown.

Maryland, Duke In Top Contests

Duke and Maryland, top dogs in the Atlantic Coast Conference until both were upset in last week's opening games, face two hardy league opponents today in a schedule of ACC games that could prove among the highlights of the season.

Every team faced a tough assignment with North Carolina drawing the biggest foe of them all—Oklahoma. The Sooners, the nation's top team last year, opened their season today picked to repeat their undefeated performance of last season.

Carrying a record of 30 straight victories into the game, another would enable them to tie their own modern day record of 31.

Clemson was at Florida and North Carolina State faced VPI at Norfolk, Va., in the others.

Miami handed South Carolina its first defeat of the season, 10-0 in the Orange Bowl last night. Led by fullback Don Bosseler, Miami scored in the first and third periods. Bosseler gained 97 yards in 22 carries, plunging from the one for the first Miami TD. Quarterback Sam Scarneckia sneaked over from the one for the second.

South Carolina tallied in the fourth period after Weems Baskin intercepted a pass. Hayward King went 10 yards for the score.

It was homecoming of a sort for North Carolina Coach Jim Tatum, who coached Oklahoma in 1946. He moved to North Carolina from Maryland last spring.

North Carolina State upset the Tar Heels 26-6 last week, a fact which slightly bothered Oklahoma.

Finds Americans Young In Spirit

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector City Editor

Americans appear "much younger in spirit" than do inhabitants of Formosa.

That's the opinion of Lien-Chih HSI, a soil specialist with the Taiwan Fertilizer Co. of Formosa who is currently on a one-year visit in the United States.

HSI, now on the first leg of his tour of the country, is presently in Greenville. He is studying the work of the Soil Conservation Service with the help of J. B. Newman, Soil Scientist with the SCS area office here.

"My first impression is that the people here seem much younger in spirit than our country," HSI says of the United States. "In Taiwan (Formosa) we try to look like old gentlemen—even the school boy. Here everybody seems always in a hurry and full of speed."

HSI noted that there is a big contrast in the agricultural methods of Formosa, where the land is cultivated intensively, and those of the United States.

He noted that in Formosa, weeds are very carefully removed from the crops whereas here the weeds are "sometimes higher than the main crop."

That is due to the fact that crops are cultivated by hand in Formosa and by machinery in the United States, he noted.

Crops are weeded three or four times each year on Formosa, HSI declared.

The intensive cultivation of the land on Formosa is necessary because of the large population and small amount of available crop land, HSI pointed out.

"All forests are on the mountains and all available land is being cultivated."

HSI said that there are 13,800 square miles on the island of Formosa and only one-fourth of that area is flat.

There are approximately 2,000,000 acres of land in cultivation. With a population of 10,000,000 on the island that means there is about 2 of an acre per person in cultivation.

That compares with 2.5 acres of land in cultivation for every person in the United States, HSI pointed out.

Rice is the leading crop on the island, according to the visitor. Other crops are sugar, sweet potatoes, tea, pineapple and bananas.

The climate of the island is tropical to sub-tropical and the capital, Taipei, is located at about the same latitude as Miami.

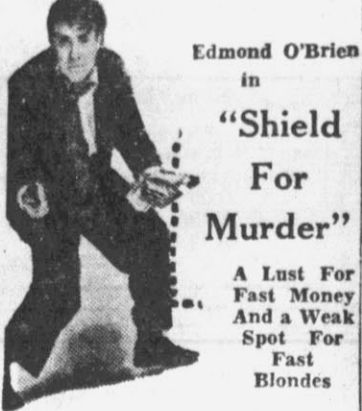

HSI is visiting the United States under the auspices of the International Cooperation Administration, a part of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He arrived in the United States Aug. 30, and he will remain in Greenville until around the middle of November.

His visits while here will be mainly in Pitt, Greene, Martin and Edgecombe Counties.

Prize-Winning In Canning

WINNING JARS—Miss Inell Grimesley, Assistant Negro Home Agent looks over the winning Junior 4-H Club canning products.

Three Pitt County 4-H girls were winners in the annual canning contest sponsored by the Savannah Sugar Refinery Corporation, Atlanta, Georgia.

First place winner Thelma Suggs of Grifton will compete for district honors on her four winning jars of tomatoes and peaches. This is the third year she has won the county award. She has also won the district award once.

Bernice Chapman, second place winner and Elsie Brooks, third place winner, will receive a one year subscription of the National 4-H magazine. Eleven junior 4-H girls participated in the annual contest.

Fifty-four junior and senior 4-Hers have canning as a project for 1956.

Must File Soon For Tax Refund

RALEIGH — Farmers must file claims not later than October 1, 1956, to get a refund of the Federal excise tax on gasoline, according to W. L. Turner, State College extension farm management specialist.

Many farmers entitled to refund of the tax on gasoline purchased after December 31, 1955, and used for farming purposes during the first six months of 1956, have not yet filed their claims, reports Turner.

Under the law authorizing the refunds, claims filed after October 1, 1956, covering gasoline used during the six-month period cannot be paid, and farmers filing late will not receive the amount claimed. In view of the short time remaining before the October 1 deadline, farmers eligible for refunds should submit their claims promptly, warns Turner. You can get a refund of 2 cents a gallon on any gasoline purchased and used on the farm for farming purposes during the period from January 1, 1956, through June 30, 1956. You may also get a refund of the tax on gasoline which was used on your farm by a custom operator or a neighbor.

Turner points out that claims must be made on Form 2240, a brief, easily-prepared refund form containing complete instructions. The forms are available at Internal Revenue offices, county agricultural agents' offices, and many banks and post offices. The filled-in claims should be taken or mailed to the local District Director of Internal Revenue.

The food industry used 41 percent of all glass containers manufactured in the U. S. last year.
