Commissioners Side With Pitt Attorney As To Tax Relief Case

Grifton Man Paying Taxes To Lenoir And Pitt Plans To Take Case To Court

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County Commissioners sided with their attorney this morning in a tax relief case presented by a Grifton resident.

That was one of the items of business handled by the commissioners in their morning session. The meeting was scheduled to be continued this afternoon after a lunch break.

The tax relief case involved J. B. Wade, operator and owner of Bright Belt Motor Lines of Grifton. Wade's attorney, Brantley Aycock, told the board his client was having to pay taxes in both Pitt and Lenoir Counties and was asking relief from Pitt County taxes.

Pitt County Attorney W. W. Speight told the board he and Tax Supervisor Harold Allred had investigated the situation. Wade operates his line out of Grifton but maintains storage facilities in Lenoir County, according to arguments presented by Aycock, Wade and Speight.

Speight told the board that on the basis of findings he and Allred had made, Pitt County was proper in assessing Wade Aycock notice of a formal petition to be presented to a civil court.

Chairman W. J. Smith told Wade and Aycock, "The board will have to rely on Mr. Speight's opinion in the matter." He suggested, along with Speight, that Wade, Aycock, Speight, Allred and the Lenoir County Tax Supervisor attempt to work out a satisfactory solution to the problem.

The remainder of the morning session was largely consumed by reports, references and recommendations.

County Auditor Reginald Gray reported the decal proposed for use on county-owned vehicles had been returned by the company working on it and the board approved the final sketch. The detail features a sketch of the courthouse and will include lettering for each of the departments and the county name.

Gray also reported the painting work on the courthouse tower had been completed. One coat of paint was applied to the tower and towers. The question of pigeons continuing to congregate around the tower was discussed briefly before being referred to custodian Grover Leggett for recommendations.

Servicing facilities for county vehicles have been almost completed at the school garage at Winterville, according to Gray, but a wash pit remains to be constructed. At Gray's suggestion, the board voted to request the State Highway Department to improve the road beside the school garage.

The board also voted to accept the recommendations of Gray in a compromise reached for payment of social security and retirement benefits by members of the Sheriff's Department. The payments will be stretched over a 10-month period since they call for back payments of social security from January 1, 1955, and retirement assessments from September, 1956.

A report of sale of Bethel School Bonds by the Local Government Commission in Raleigh was made by Gray.

The board voted to invest $200,000 of county funds in 90-day certificates, and to approve investment of $175,000 of Greenville School District funds in 90-day certificates.

A request by Mrs. R. L. Haddock to have her invalid mother's welfare benefits increased was referred to the Department of Public Welfare.

Canal Users' Group Inaugurated Today

LONDON (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd formally declared the Suez Canal Users' Assn. inaugurated today after 15 nations announced their decision to join it.

Lloyd was presiding over a conference of 18 nations which have pronounced themselves in favor of international control of the Suez Canal, placed under state ownership by Egypt on July 26.

Organization of the association; the powers and relationships of a council comprising a delegate from each member country, an executive group and an administrator, who probably will be a Scandinavian.

Operations; the practical questions concerning relationship with Egyptian authorities, payment and collection of canal dues and the possible by-passing of the second Suez parley last month. "While the ambassadors and their aides wrestle with details of organizing SCUA, foreign ministers of Egypt, Russia, Britain and France are heading for New York for the U.N. Security Council debate Friday on Egyptian President Nasser's nationalization of the canal."

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd planned to leave early, after welcoming the SCUA delegate, to try to win sympathy in the United States for his government's stand against Nasser.

Some Britons feel U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has not backed the United Kingdom strongly enough in its demand for international control of the Suez. The London Observer said Lloyd will attempt to use American television and radio to sway U.S. public opinion toward the British view even though he knows he will be competing for attention with the presidential election campaign.

One of the tasks for the first 10 months of the organization is to approach other governments to join. Countries such as Panama, Liberia, and Belgium are being considered because their shipping and their trade interests depend a lot on having efficient use of Suez.

Ambassadors of the 18 nations sat down to the third international conference to put flesh on the bones of the agreement reached

Gathering At Yalta Grows

PREMIERS OF Russia and Hungary joined President Tito and Nikita Khrushchev in mystery-shrouded talks here today at Yalta, bringing out conflicts in the Soviet circle.

Premier Bulganin and Hungary's Erno Geroe appeared yesterday at the Yalta meeting billed by Moscow radio as a vacation gathering but seen by the west as a crucial phase in a Kremlin power struggle.

Diplomats in London believe Khrushchev has enlisted Tito's support for his campaign downgrading Stalin. Informed sources say the campaign has embroiled the Soviet Communist party boss in a bitter struggle with old Bolsheviks in the Kremlin.

Two veteran Stalinists — former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich — are said to feel Khrushchev's switch to a more liberal brand of communism has weakened Moscow's control of the satellites.

Tito himself was reported disturbed over a letter Soviet leaders sent the satellites warning them against espousing too heartily Tito's avowed independence from Moscow.

Should Soviet-Yugoslav relations go sour again, Tito's government stands to lose more than half a billion dollars in Communist credits and grants. Since relations with Tito began improving three years ago, the Soviet bloc has showered the Yugoslavs with economic benefits to compensate for the 1948 Stalin-inspected boycott.

The uncertain status of Soviet-Yugoslav relations has caused James W. Riddleberger, U.S. ambassador to Belgrade, returned to the Yugoslav capital yesterday after a three-month vacation. He is expected to ask Tito for a fill-in on the Yalta talks when the president gets back from the Crimea.

The whole question of continued U.S. aid to Yugoslavia is under review in Washington. Secretary of State Dulles reportedly has messaged the Yugoslav government that a full return to the Soviet camp would cut off American help to Belgrade.

Western newsmen have been barred from covering the Yalta meeting and the Soviet press has given little hint as to what is going on.

Four bodies were recovered from the smoking, flaming wreckage which littered the airport's "Lucky No. 7" runway for 200 yards. Broadhurst and Howard received minor injuries in their fall of about 300 feet. Parachutes eased them to the ground.

Eyewitnesses and a spokesman for the builders of the Vulcan, the A. V. Roe Co., said the canopy mysteriously came off the plane as it swept in for a landing after its 26,000-mile testing-proving flight to New Zealand and Australia. The nose sagged. Two loud "bangs" signaled the ejector seats sending out the only survivors. And then the big plane whopped down.

"I had just dozed off when it happened," she said. "It nearly knocked me out of bed. When the officers came, I thought they were going to arrest me, but I guess they took in the young fellow instead."

Gerald A. Mapes, 25, was booked on suspicion of drunk driving. Officers said he had just been released after serving a year for forgery.

Supreme Court's New Term Has Many Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court reassembles today to begin a new term with a heavy quota of pending cases besides the problem of deciding what steps to take in overseeing racial integration in public schools.

Three appeals concerned with immediate admission of pupils to white schools in Texas and South Carolina were filed during the summer recess. More are expected during the new term.

In addition, a long list of cases raising a variety of issues affecting Communists and subversive activities awaits consideration.

By long tradition, term-opening day is devoted to brief formalities. The heavy work on a docket of close to 800 cases gets under way next Monday.

For Justice Sherman Minton this week and next will be devoted to winding up his work on the high bench. His retirement, because of ill health, becomes effective Oct. 15. Minton plans to return to his home in New Albany, Ind., where on Oct. 20 he will observe his 66th birthday anniversary.

President Eisenhower announced Saturday he will appoint a New Jersey Supreme Court justice, William Joseph Brennan Jr., as Minton's successor. The White House said a recess appointment will be made formally in about 10 days. The appointment will be subject to senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes next year.

Brennan, like Minton, is a Democrat. He will be the first Roman Catholic to serve on the court since Justice Frank Murphy died in 1949. A native of Newark, he now lives in Rumson, N. J.

In addition to the prospective new member, the court starts its term with a new clerk, John T. Fey, former dean of the George Washington University Law School. Fey succeeds Harold B. Willey, who retired after 32 years.

Court observers await with interest the justices' next steps in school segregation cases. The court in 1955 ordered compulsory segregation ended "with all deliberate speed." At the same time it said U.S. District Courts with their knowledge of local circumstances could best see to it that school boards "make a prompt and reasonable start."

In handling the segregation appeals now pending, and others certain to be filed, the high court will show whether it intends to supervise closely what the district courts have done or will give them a free hand in working out integration.

Three other racial appeals also pending are expected to be acted on early this fall. In two of them the Supreme Court is asked to overturn a lower court decision holding unconstitutional Alabama state and Montgomery (Ala.) city laws requiring segregation of Negroes and whites on buses. (Last term the high court dismissed an appeal from a similar decision which declared unconstitutional a South Carolina bus segregation law.)

In the third appeal, the high tribunal is asked to reverse a lower court decision that Virginia may not lease a state park under any plan that might result in discrimination against Negroes.

Other pending appeals will result in Supreme Court rulings on validity of a section of the Smith Act which makes it a crime to be a member of an organization with knowledge that it teaches violent overthrow of government. The appeals were filed by Claude M. Lightfoot, Chicago Negro who was an official of the Illinois Communist party, and by Junius I. Scales, a Communist party leader in the Carolinas and Tennessee.

Ike Says 'Political Bunk' Thrown Into Campaigning

CLEVELAND (AP)—President Eisenhower accused the Democrats today of having tolerated "the thievery of inflation" and of talking "wicked nonsense" and "political bunk" in the campaign.

Without ever mentioning his Democratic opponent Adlai E. Stevenson by name, Eisenhower fired back at Stevenson criticism in the strongest terms he has used so far in an address prepared for delivery in Cleveland's Public Square.

Eisenhower hit at Stevenson on the farm issue, the cost of living, labor and wages, and on several other points. He said that on the other hand his administration has adopted policies "that have created a tremendous confidence in America's future."

Eisenhower referred to the Democrats as "these men of fretting fear and worried doubt." Then, turning again to his own Republican administration, Eisenhower added:

"We have given to our nation the kind of government that is a living witness to a basic virtue in democracy — public morality, public service and public trust.

"In this administration you cannot find those ugly marks of the past, special favoritism, cronyism and laxity in administration."

Eisenhower traveled here by special 12-car campaign train on an overnight run from Washington. He arranged to go on by plane from Cleveland to Lexington, Ky., for a nationwide television-radio radio address tonight at a GOP rally at the University of Kentucky Coliseum.

Eisenhower's bid for Ohio's 25 electoral votes and Kentucky's 10 came as his campaign pace quickened. The White House announced yesterday Eisenhower will make a 5,500-mile, 48-hour flying trip in mid-October to Minnesota, Washington and Oregon. All are key states in the GOP drive to re-elect Eisenhower and recapture control of Congress.

In today's speech, Eisenhower swatted at Stevenson's statements last week that the cost of living is at an all-time high and that the President has done nothing about it. Without disputing the government index showing living costs at a record high point, Eisenhower directed his emphasis to saying "the cost of living has been remarkably stabilized—only about 2 1/2 per cent increase in 3 1/2 years." Then he added "during the previous (Democratic) administration the cost of living increased 20 times as great."

"Today we have a stable dollar... we have balanced the federal budget, and have started making some payment of our huge national debt," he said.

"The men of the opposition know perfectly well that one of the main reasons they were thrown out of office four years ago was their tolerance of the thievery of inflation. Just in the final seven years of their tenure of office this economic fever had cut the value of the dollar by almost one-third, damaging the livelihood of the aged, the pensioned, all salaried workers.

"The opposition did nothing effectively to stop this economic thievery. And they know it."

Eisenhower added that on the other hand: "The record shows we — not they — have made the most successful fight to stop inflation's robbery of every paycheck," and he continued:

"The record shows this check upon inflation is most vital not for the few who are rich—but for the millions who depend upon salaries and pensions, those who are old, those who are sick, those who are needy."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, his running mate, said he and Stevenson agreed at a talk yesterday "the situation is looking fine, and we are making very good progress."

He cited Eisenhower's expanded speech making schedule as evidence the Republicans are "worried."

Stevenson planned more conferences today. Tomorrow morning he will leave Washington by plane for Morrisstown, N.J., where he will be met by Democratic Gov. Robert Meyner for speaking engagements during the day there, at Newark and at Jersey City.

KYLE HAYES Campaigning

RALEIGH (AP)—Republican nominee Kyle Hayes today stepped up his campaign to unseat Gov. Luther Hodges starting a tour of eastern North Carolina cities.

Pitt Republican executive committee disclosed plans for a brief rally on the Greenville courthouse square tomorrow forenoon.

Hayes, of North Wilkesboro, was to start his eastern campaign in the 1st Congressional District, moving westward during the two-week campaign jaunt.

In a major campaign address at Balls Creek School in Catawba County Saturday, Hayes said he advocates a 20 per cent increase in teacher pay in North Carolina to alleviate the teacher shortage.

Hayes proposed that the increase be paid with a 10 per cent hike in 1957 and a 5 per cent hike in 1958 and 1959.

Hayes, aiming his campaign at school improvement, also reiterated his stand for a state school bond issue, some of the money to be used to provide state supported junior colleges within driving distance of every high school graduate in the state.

British Mystery Plane Crashes

LONDON (AP)—A huge delta-wing plane, one of Britain's secret atom bomb carriers, crashed and exploded in fog and rain at London Airport today before horrified dignitaries welcoming the plane home from New Zealand.

Four bodies were recovered from the smoking, flaming wreckage which littered the airport's "Lucky No. 7" runway for 200 yards. Broadhurst and Howard received minor injuries in their fall of about 300 feet. Parachutes eased them to the ground.

Eyewitnesses and a spokesman for the builders of the Vulcan, the A. V. Stevenson Plans Intensive Drive To Win California

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson disclosed today plans for an intensive campaign next week in California, with speeches in half a dozen cities, and in other far Western states.

In a bid for California's 32 electoral votes — exceeded only by New York's 45 and tied by Pennsylvania's quota — Stevenson plans speeches in Oakland, Richmond, Berkeley, Fresno, Long Beach and San Diego. Earlier that week he will speak in Great Falls, Mont., Boise, Idaho, Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

The Democratic presidential candidate, who returned to his campaign headquarters here early yesterday, attended Unitarian church services and then spent the day working on speeches he will make on an eastern swing starting tomorrow and conferring with aides.

In a speech at Minneapolis Saturday night, Stevenson said he was shocked that President Eisenhower had "brushed off" his earlier suggestions for ending the military draft and limiting H-bomb tests.

"What I am suggesting," he said, "is that we ought to take a fresh and open-minded look at the weapons revolution and the whole problem of recruiting and training military manpower.

"We may very well find that in the not distant future we can abolish the draft and at the same time have a stronger defense and at lower costs."

He said the draft, which he has advocated ending at "the earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety," is "a wasteful, inefficient and often unfair" way of maintaining military manpower.

Stevenson called in members of his campaign command for conferences yesterday at his hotel suite. They included James A. Finnegan, campaign director; Wilson W. Wyatt, personal adviser; Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee; and Matt McCloskey, Democratic national treasurer.

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—Mayor W. C. Divine, 56, dropped dead in his business office here this morning.

Ambulance attendants said the mayor suffered a heart attack. He died before he could be removed to a hospital.

Divine had been mayor of Rocky Mount since December, 1953. He had been a member of the Board of Aldermen for 18 years.

Divine was branch manager of the Imperial Tobacco Co. here. His death occurred in the tobacco company office.

U.S. Military Position In Iceland Is At Stake

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles begins today a round of talks which may largely determine whether the United States will have to pull all its military forces out of Iceland.

Iceland's Foreign Minister, Emil Jonsson, arrived yesterday with words which indicated the possibility of a compromise between his government's demands for withdrawal of U.S. troops and America's efforts to keep them there as a link in the North Atlantic defense system.

Dulles and Jonsson arranged to meet this afternoon for the first Cabinet level talks on the problem which has worried American officials and North Atlantic Alliance military leaders since last March.

The demand for ouster of the troops was supported by Communists in Iceland. Although Icelanders generally would like to have their island to themselves again, the U.S. view is that only the Reds will gain in the long run if the big military base at Keflavik must be given up.

The problem is one of three major issues with which Dulles is concerned this week. The other two:

1. Restoration of United States-British-French cooperation in dealing with the Suez Canal issue as it moves into United Nations debate. Dulles is to confer with British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, who is coming to the United States in advance of the first U.N. meeting on Suez Friday.

2. Development of tentative conclusions on what Yugoslavians Marshal Tito is up to in his conference with the Russians and, consequently, what President Eisenhower should do about continuing aid to Communist Yugoslavia. Congress has ordered the aid program halted unless Eisenhower determines by Oct. 16 that it should be continued.

Like the Yugoslav problem, that of Iceland is related to the changed behavior of Russia in international affairs. Iceland officials have said lessened danger of war makes it unnecessary to keep U.S. troops there.

New Teachers Recognized At Falkland Parent-Teacher Meet

Two new teachers were recognized at the year's first meeting of the Falkland Parent Teacher Association held Wednesday night. They are Mrs. Margaret Brown and Mrs. Barbara Foley. Each was presented gifts from the Ruritan Club and the Women of the Church.

Devotional was given by Elvy Forrest, principal of Belvoir School. He developed the thought of the safety of those who trust in God. He stated "God's divine guidance is helpful in any organization."

Mrs. Baker, president, presided over the business session. She announced the district P.T.A. meeting which will be held in Greenville at the Memorial Baptist Church October 10 and urged each committee chairman to attend. Plans were completed for the P. T. A. supper which was held Friday.

Principal E. N. Warren stressed the importance of school children eating in the lunchroom. Room count was won by Mrs. Tyler's third grade. Mrs. Asa Cannon won the door prize.

A film was shown entitled "Assignment for Tomorrow." The film portrayed how teachers work for a better America.

The parents were invited into the class rooms to see the children's work and to talk with the teachers, following which they were served refreshments consisting of punch, cookies and potato chips from the decorated table.

Two Local Students To Tour With Choir

MARS HILL — Two students from Greenville have been selected for the Mars Hill College Touring Choir.

Included in the fifty-five voice group are: Tommy Bodkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Bodkin of 113 Library Street; and Paula Annette Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wellens Dunn of 1013 West 3rd St., Greenville.

The group makes several appearances throughout Western North Carolina during the school year and plans are being formulated for the annual spring concert tour which usually takes the choir throughout the southeastern states.

Director of the Choir is Rufus N. Norris, a graduate of the University of North Carolina and Columbia University. From 1951 until early in 1953 Norris was a member of Fred Waring's famous choral group, the Pennsylvanians. He joined the Mars Hill College music faculty in September of 1955.

A newcomer to the Mars Hill College music faculty, John C. Christian, will be accompanist for the group. Mr. Christian holds his B. M. and M. M. degrees from the University of Illinois. He is a native of Clinton, Iowa.

HELPS WRONG WAY

FAIRVIEW, Mont. (AP) — A friend advised Mrs. Elmer Martin to keep a light burning in her patch of sweet corn to scare away marauding badgers. "The lights didn't help me any," Mrs. Martin said, but the badgers appreciated them. "They were able to find the corn better than before."

Officers, Committees Introduced At PTA Meet

Officers and committee chairmen were introduced when the Parent-Teachers Association of Wahl-Coates Laboratory School held its first meeting of the year Thursday night.

The meeting took place in McGinnis Auditorium with the president, Mrs. Lacy Harrell, presiding.

Minutes of the previous meeting and recommendations by the Executive Board were read and approved. The following officers and committee chairmen were introduced: Mrs. Gordon H. Sturm, vice president; Mrs. George Lautares, recording secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steinmeyer, treasurer; Mrs. Bill Smith, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. J. W. Overton and Mrs. Gordon H. Sturm, co-chairmen of yearbook committee; Mrs. Percy Cox, ways and means; Mrs. Clay Burnette, room representative; Mrs. L. W. Herring, membership and attendance; Mrs. Claborne Nixon, hospitality; Mr. D. L. Harrell, safety and civil defense.

Mrs. J. W. Tetterton, publications; Mrs. W. C. Hollowell, parent education committee; Mrs. D. L. Moore, pre-school clinic; Mrs. M. P. Hoot, historian; Mrs. Elsie Eagan, mental health; Miss Mary Thomas Smith, legislation.

The meeting was opened with a musical selection by a vocal trio composed of the Misses Bunny, Milly and Dolly Overton accompanied on the piano by their mother, Mrs. J. W. Overton.

Devotional was given by Dr. H. G. Haney, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church. He stated that a child is a most delicate organism greatly affected by surrounding influences. In closing he said that influences of home, school, church and playground should be integrated in the positive and constructive, then the child will become great in the Kingdom of Heaven. "An American Prayer" sung by Miss Milly Overton was a fitting conclusion.

Mrs. W. C. Hollowell announced that the Greenville City Council of the P.T.A. will be host to the annual District Conference of the Parent-Teachers Association to be held October 10 at the Memorial Baptist Church. She urged all parents and teachers to attend.

Miss Frances Wahl, principal of the Wahl-Coates Laboratory School, introduced the teachers after which Mrs. Harrell extended an invitation to those present to an informal reception for the teachers in the school cafeteria immediately following the close of the business meeting.

The table was centered with a large cornucopia overflowing with fruit and vegetables in keeping with the harvest season. Punch was poured by Mrs. J. W. Overton and Mrs. Claborne Nixon. Guests served themselves iced cakes and salted nuts.

Mrs. Nixon, hospitality chairman, and her committee were in charge of arrangements for the reception.

Attendance award was won by Mrs. Blue's fifth grade.

Music Appreciation TV Course Begins This Afternoon

East Carolina College's tenth televised course of study is scheduled to begin this afternoon at 4 o'clock. "Music Appreciation," with George E. Perry of the department of music as instructor, will be presented on Channel 9 in a series of sixty lectures and demonstrations.

The course, offered because of requests from the public, will include five weekly programs, Monday through Friday, extending through December 21. Each class will cover a half hour period.

A large television audience, made up of those enrolled as students and of many others interested in music, is expected to follow discussions and demonstrations during the course.

Content of lectures, according to Mr. Perry, will be "on the layman's level." The purpose of the course is, he says, "to foster in the listener a more intelligent and appreciative understanding of the components of music as well as of the greatest works in the field of music literature."

Mr. Perry's lectures will be illustrated by recordings of symphonic, operatic, and other compositions. He will also appear at the piano as he discusses various works.

Students may enroll in the course on a credit or non-credit basis.

A plastic panel is now being fitted into some umbrellas so you can have a reasonably clear view.

A 'Fair Lady' Now Everywhere

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

THIS IS THE SEASON when every woman becomes a "fair lady" and languishes in the manner of 1912, thanks to an Englishman, Cecil Beaton, who started it all with his costume designs for the Broadway musical hit of the same name.

Observing how the feminine fripperies of 1912, as so charmingly portrayed behind the footlights, were sweeping the current world of fashion, Beaton decided to design his own collection for wear by the women of 1956. Collaborating with Samuel Winston and designer Roxane, Beaton has turned out a group of 12 evening gowns which outdo all the current imitations, and recreate the nostalgic mood of his famous embassy ball scene in "My Fair Lady."

This is Beaton's first excursion into the world of dress designing for the general public, although he is known for his varied accomplishments as a painter, photographer, author, scenic designer, lecturer, interior decorator and costume designer.

He developed his skill as a portrait photographer in London by taking pictures of his two beautiful sisters, and since has photographed most of the famous beauties of the world, up to and including Marilyn Monroe. Perhaps his most widely known photographs are those of the British Royal Family.

Nowadays he has become a trans-Atlantic commuter, shuttling between his studio apartment in London and his Edwardian suite at the Hotel Ambassador in New York, which he has decorated in a nostalgic mood, complete with white wicker furniture, bead window shades and rose-strewn bedroom. Says Beaton: "I like to keep busy. Hate boredom, you know."

Two Steps That Can Benefit State

Gov. Hodges' plan for a top-to-bottom revision of North Carolina's tax structure and the hiring of an efficiency expert to recommend economy measures in state government are measures which hand in hand can bring many benefits to people of the state.

Most North Carolinians agree that the state's tax structure, after 20 years without a major revision, is due to be overhauled. Regulation changes heaped one on top of the other for more than two decades have brought about a complex and confused situation which, in a number of cases, have resulted in inequities which should be corrected.

For several years top officials have generally agreed that the best way to put the state's tax structure back on an even keel is through a complete revision of tax laws. There have been few objections to that proposal. In view of such action, Gov. Hodges has come forward with what is—for the present at least—an ambiguous proposal pointed toward attracting new industry to the state and at the same time designed to meet the state's "changing economy."

The new tax structure will be spelled out in recommendations of the Tax Study Commission which will make its recommendations to the General Assembly. What these recommendations will contain we can only guess from what Gov. Hodges has said. While it should be a structure which will attract new industry and business to North Carolina, it should not be a structure that forces the individual to carry a part of the tax burden which rightly should be assumed by corporations.

It has long since been established that major concerns, looking for plant locations, fully expect to shoulder their reasonable share of local and state taxes. It does not require a give-away program from a tax standpoint to attract sound industries. Certainly North Carolina should not attempt to create such a give-away program as other states have resorted to in the competition for industrialization.

As for the efficiency expert, there is room for more economical operation of the state's government even in view of the economy measures which have been realized in the past two years. If any good is to come out of an efficiency study of state operations, the recommendations which come from the study must not be canned by the politicians.

In the case of the Hoover Commission study designed to streamline federal government operations and reduce waste of tax funds, only a small percentage of the recommendations were ever put into practice because of roadblocks set up by individual agencies and politicians. Many agencies of the government indicated clearly they were much more interested in keeping their own appropriations high than in effecting any major economies.

Will that be the case in North Carolina?

It should not be, but unless such a situation is guarded against, the recommendations for economy in state government may not amount to a hill of beans.

The two major undertakings outlined by Gov. Hodges last week offer unlimited possibilities for putting North Carolina's government on a more business-like basis for meeting the needs of the truly changing times in the state. Recommendations which will be forthcoming, however, will demand the most careful study by officials and the people of the state alike. They must not be accepted blindly. Neither must they be discarded simply because they appear "revolutionary."

Each recommended change must be carefully weighed on its merit.

Commissioners Discuss Shake-Up

By LYNN NISBET
HIGHWAYS — Members of the highway commission here for their monthly meeting devoted most of their off-duty time to talking about the proposed reorganization of the set-up. This was their first get-together since Governor Hodges made public his ideas, based on preliminary reports of the legislative study commission.

The subject was carefully avoided in public discussion, but in conversation among themselves and with newsmen, the commissioners sought to find what the popular reaction has been to the proposals.

They reported almost unanimous approval of the plan to separate prison management from highway administration. There was high degree of favor for modernizing and streamlining departmental accounting and budgeting practices. They had found very little support for the proposal to reduce the number of commissioners and appoint them without regard to divisions. The Governor had proposed a policy making commission of five or seven or nine, with actual administration of highway affairs placed in a full time director.

Highway folks have found that for several years the prison have constituted a major burden beyond their value to road building. They have been dissatisfied for a long time with the archaic accounting system. The commission on its own motion some three years ago employed the engineering firm of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall & MacDonald of New York to make a study of the whole set-up, with particular attention to financing.

The report and recommendations of this firm came out just about the same time Governor Hodges came into office. He didn't think much of it, and it was sidetracked in the 1955 Legislature in favor of a study commission composed of laymen appointed by the Governor.

CENTRALIZATION — This commission has not completed its work, but Governor Hodges said that his recent Asheville speech was based on confidential preliminary reports of findings to date. Almost immediately there began to develop an undercurrent of opposition to the proposal to eliminate regional representation on the highway commission.

Next to public schools public roads use the largest amount of tax money collected from the people. School policy and road policy have moved side by side toward centralization of power in Raleigh. This was considerable resentment of this centralized control, and within the past 20 years there has been a trend toward localized responsibility.

A legislative act in 1937, provided for appointment of highway commissioners from designated geographic divisions, replacing a smaller state-at-large board. In 1942 constitutional amendments were ratified by popular vote providing for a State Board of Education appointed from eight designated divisions, with two appointed at large and three elected ex-officio members.

By custom and practice rather than by law, the highway commission progressively developed into more autonomy for each division, at times almost to the point of destroying the statewide concept. This was a weak place pointed out by the Parsons, Brinckerhoff survey.

By legislative enactment from year to year control of schools was centered in the State Board of Education, leaving less and less power in districts and counties. Until 1955, when under impact of U. S. Court integration decisions, the General Assembly turned back to the counties wide control over assignment of pupils, transportation and other operations.

PARADOX — It is somewhat paradoxical that while the Hodges administration put its whole force behind the movement to send back authority over schools to counties and districts, it is backing a program to further concentrate control of roads in a State agency.

However proud North Carolina may be of its network of primary highways, including the new super-duper interstate four-lane avenues, the fact is that when the average citizen thinks of a public road he thinks in terms of the way to get from his home to his church or school or market place. Something like 75,000 miles of roads in North Carolina, maintained out of State-collected gasoline taxes, do not show on most maps as numbered highways. For the people who live on them and depend upon them to start or end a trip, these unmarked roads are more important than the super-dupers.

The people who depend upon these "little roads" want a sympathetic and understanding hearing with somebody in authority who has personal knowledge of local conditions. Members of the highway commission will tell you that for every hour they devote to primary numbered routes they devote two to three days on county and neighborhood roads.

Kerr Scott sensed that attitude and toyed with the idea of 30 instead of 10 highway commissioners. William Umstead sensed it and got the number of commissioners increased to 14. Governor Scott compromised his 30-commissioner idea for a $200 million secondary road bond issue. Emphasis then was on secondary roads. Emphasis now is on primary highways, and there is much more need for centralized State control.

The members of the highway commission, who have no personal feeling in the matter, because of them know they will be out as of next May in any event, concede the overall importance of the primary highways. At the same time, they have found that people in their areas are still concerned about local roads and want to talk to somebody with understanding and authority over them.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THAT MOST EFFECTIVE WITNESS

Talk is cheap. It is easy to turn a pleasurable word to an acquaintance and to be cheerful with all we meet, but it is a different matter to be willing to sacrifice in a day when sacrifice is needed. We can talk very glibly about our religious beliefs; it is another thing to put these beliefs into practice.

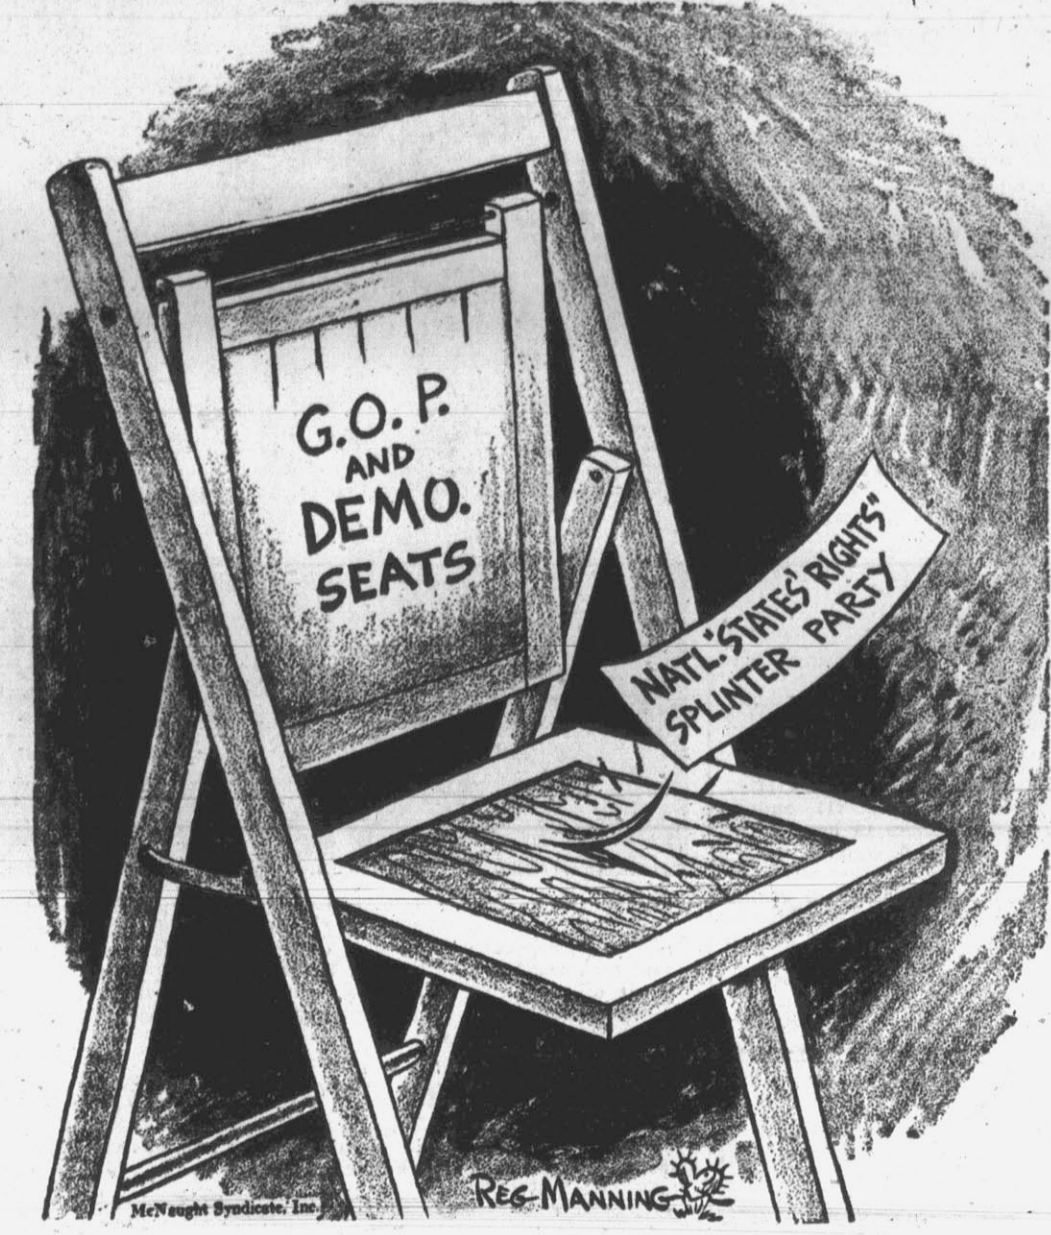

John Bunyan, in one of his books, has a character which illustrates the disposition to talk but not to act. He calls this character Talkative and this Talkative is the son of Say-Well who dwelt in Prating Row. Talkative and Say-Well are with us still. They are the people who talk big and act little. They profess much and deliver so little that they are often ridiculous. They dwell in Prating Row.

The lesson to us all is that we need to keep a bridle on our tongues. If all we have to offer the world is talk, let us offer silent. If the best we can do with reference to religion is to talk about it, let us put ourselves down for what we are—agnostics and unbelievers. The only religion we really have is the religion we use. Everything beyond that is "wasted time, wasted breath. A little faith that works, a simple creed that one uses—these and these alone are of value.

The most effective witness any Christian can make is the witness of a good life.

Business Today

Prosperous Quarter Begins

By ELMER ROESSNER
The quarter year starting Monday is almost certain to be the most prosperous one the United States has ever seen. Production, sales, wage rates and profits probably will be higher than at any other time in the past. Employment may not set a new record, but that will be because of the seasonal slack in outdoor occupations.

The gross national product—the total of all goods and services produced in the nation—may reach an annual rate of $415 billion. It was $408.3 billion in the second quarter and probably dipped a bit in the third because of the steel strike.

Total personal income, which was at an annual rate of $324.5 billion in July, may pass $330 billion and come close to $335 billion.

The reasons for expecting a new peak in the boom are these: Commitments for new plants and equipment in industry are higher than they have ever been. Government expenditures are rising, especially for planes and guided missiles; spending for the new highway program will become sizable.

THE AUTO HYPO
New advances in design of 1957 model autos will keep the industry running at maximum rates through the quarter and far into next year.

New model appliances and the increasing demand for color television receivers will improve sales of durables. The apparel industry, which has been lagging, will make its seasonal comeback and, in the opinion of some observers, do more than that.

Continuation of the Suez dispute will stimulate oil exploration, production and refining, and increase cargoes for American ships. A cutback in oil from the Middle East would increase incomes of independent oil producers by $2,000,000 a day, according to one estimate.

Home building may perk up a little as a consequence of new government assists, but probably won't approach previous highs. An early winter may make gains very slight but even small gains will help the total economy.

And there'll be Christmas. Of course, that business stimulant comes around every year—but never has it come around when total personal income has been so high and still rising.

OTHER BUSINESS FUTURES
Here are some more predictions for business, based as always on analyses of developing trends, plus a few bits of advance information:

More banks will offer free life insurance. Two Chicago banks now offer to double savings accounts in event the depositor dies before his 66th birthday. Because deposits bring banks such high returns these days, other banks are showing considerable interest in the plan and many will adopt it where state laws permit.

You'll see more religious Christmas cards this year. Dealers say there is a trend to reverent cards and one manufacturer (Chapel Art Studios, St. Louis) is making only the religious type this year.

By February 22, you'll wish George Washington never saw a cherry tree. The National Red Cherry Institute, faced with a bumper crop, is whoooping up an enormous cherry pie baking contest for kids between 14 and 21, with state champions staging a bake-off in Chicago February 21. It will be promoted in newspapers, magazines, television, newsreels, stores and so many other places that you'll probably be glad when it's over.

Brooms will be more expensive. The broom corn crop is turning out smaller than forecast earlier and prices of "straw" are rising.

Notebook On Life

Can You Spare 3 Minutes?

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Can you spare three minutes which might help you and your family to live longer?

Yes? Then read on: If this is a normally safe week, 1,788 Americans alive this morning will be dead seven days from today. Needless to say, they will die in accidents, most of them avoidable.

Wouldn't you think in a country odd if it were safer to fight for on a foreign battlefield in wartime than to dwell in during peace?

Well, fellow Americans, that's our happy, prosperous country—the land of the home-hurt free and the car-crashed brave.

During the bloody World War II the United States suffered an average of 65,300 combat dead and 149,000 combat wounded each year. But during peaceful but even more bloody 1955 its accident toll was 93,000 dead and 9,000,000 injured. What other nation in history has managed to be more deadly at work and play than it has been at war?

"The number of Americans killed accidentally last year was nearly triple the number of GI deaths during the entire Korean War," pointed out Kenneth Hawthorne, director of a safety organization called the "Emergencies-Don't-Wait Week Institute."

"The financial cost of these dollars—enough to run the New York State government for the next eight years.

The seventh annual Emergencies-Don't-Wait Week, proclaimed this year by 34 governors and 300 mayors, starts today.

And what will happen during the next seven days, even as safer patterns of living are being emphasized by a nationwide educational program?

Hawthorne predicts 1,788 violent accidental deaths, and gives this partial breakdown of causes:

Eleven hunters will either kill themselves by careless handling of their own guns or be shot to death by companions who mistake them for four-footed game. Among 31 other firearm deaths most of the victims will be children between 5 and 14.

Eighteen do-it-yourself handy-men will be electrocuted doing home repair jobs, because they forgot to turn off the current.

Approximately 381 persons will suffer fatal falls on slippery pavements, in bathtubs, and on highly polished floors.

Fires will take another 121 lives, and many will be smokers who lit their last cigarettes in bed just before falling asleep.

Some 47 will die of leaking gas or poisons taken by mistake, and many will be small children.

And about 731 will be killed in traffic mishaps of all kinds.

What is the best way to keep members of your own household off the obituary list? Hawthorne offered these suggestions:

- 1. Keep poisonous household cleaners out of the reach of children.
- 2. Make sure floors are not slippery or cluttered, and that stairways are well lighted.
- 3. Don't overload wiring, and don't store oily rags.
- 4. Lock up firearms, and don't assume they are unloaded.
- 5. Keep a first aid kit in your

Babson's Outlook For Oil

By ROGER BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Since its high in April the Dow-Jones Industrial Average has fallen from a peak of 521 to 490 recently. The oils have been one of the leaders in this decline. This, however, is only nature's way, they had obviously been among the best performers. I will now discuss some reasons for this decline.

WHAT WALL STREET REPORTS
Wall Street reports to me that the "insiders" are selling,—that is, those who are supposed to be "in the know." You cannot blame these insiders for diversifying, or at least storing up reserves for the payment of estate taxes at the time of their death. They can now buy, at 92, Government 2 1/2 per cent Bonds which will be accepted at par for death-tax payment.

There also is fear—with the present surplus of oil—that the income-tax consideration given oil companies may be taken away. This could easily happen if the price of gasoline increases much more while there is a surplus. The oil companies are also watching what has happened to the coal companies. The feeling is that sooner or later the oil producers may also suffer.

LONG-TERM OUTLOOK FOR OIL

Although oil will have competition from power generated in other ways, oil consumption will increase for many years to come. Demand for electricity is constantly rising, the availability of new hydro-electric sites is decreasing, and the plants generating electricity constantly demand greater fuel supply. Although coal consumption as a whole is declining, the efficiently operated mines near the big power houses are making money. This means that holders of coal stocks should carefully check the operating costs and locations of the mines in which they are interested. Although most coal stocks should probably be sold today, there are doubtless some which should be purchased.

It is reported that more candle-making, more soap-making, and other fuels are being used today than at any time in the past hundred years, notwithstanding the tremendous expansion of electricity for power, lighting, and heating. In fact, I recently heard of a young man who has developed a profitable business supplying hardwood for stoves.

It is reported that more candle-making, more soap-making, and other fuels are being used today than at any time in the past hundred years, notwithstanding the tremendous expansion of electricity for power, lighting, and heating. In fact, I recently heard of a young man who has developed a profitable business supplying hardwood for stoves. Anyone desiring to start a new business chain today might well own a hardwood lot near several large cities and deliver a standard quality of hardwood, under a special trade name which could be nationally advertised! I am willing to forecast that a hundred years from now—perhaps a thousand years from now—people will be burning candles on the dinner tables and hardwood in the fireplaces!

PEACETIME
USES FOR THE ATOM

Privately, I believe that it is the fear of uranium as a source of heat which is causing many investors to take profits on their oil stocks. The possibilities of peacetime uses for uranium are greatly increasing. Ten years ago it was thought there was only a limited amount of uranium. Now we are told the supply is almost unlimited. Therefore, uranium can become a standard source of heat for the production of electricity. In fact, there is a possibility that boilers, turbines, and perhaps dynamos will some day be eliminated. I forecast it will be possible to generate electricity direct from uranium. This, of course, would cause an industrial revolution. When we add to this the possibility of harnessing hydrogen, the results could be fantastic.

I understand that some of the oil companies are already acquiring holdings of land rich in uranium. Furthermore, all oil companies have records of their own drilling and must have drilled through uranium-producing areas. Therefore, do not sell all oil stocks for fear of uranium competition. When uranium becomes a real substitute for oil, some of the oil companies will be able to supply uranium. All oil companies will not be caught unprepared for change, as were most coal companies.

Nixon Beat Walter Reuther To The Punch

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON. — In predicting a four-day week for millions of industrial workers, Vice President Nixon stole a long march on the politico-labor forces supporting Adlai E. Stevenson. It was an example of the typically aggressive and smart strategy—his enemies prefer to refer to it as "sharp"—for which the young Californian is so feared and hated.

Nixon learned in advance that the AFL-CIO "brain trust" had planned to unveil this program later in the campaign, when it would have been to late for the Republicans to counteract its voting effectiveness.

Although the AFL-CIO economic planners intended to advance the four-day week as their own "brain child," the fact that the Meany-Reuther organization backs Stevenson, would have egged him to campaign in the reflected light of this bright vision. He would undoubtedly have worked it into his outline of the "New America."

THAT NIXON FLANK ATTACK
Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's more shrill running mate, reacted sharply by comparing Nixon's promise with Herbert Hoover's pledge of "two cars in every garage and two chickens in every pot," a statement which the former President never made. It was obvious that the Nixon flank attack had upset the Tennesseean.

Walter P. Reuther, AFL-CIO vice-president, did not criticize the Nixon forecast, or deny that the four-day week was one of his major objectives for the next few years. Caught entirely off guard and by surprise, the head of the United Automobile Workers simply demanded that Nixon give firmer assurances that a re-elected Eisenhower Administration would work to this end, even though it may take several years to achieve.

PIONEER JOHN L. LEWIS Ironically, the original author and inspiration of the four-day week was Reuther's severe critic, John L. Lewis, although the United Mine Workers do not belong to the Meany-Reuther group of unions. Nor has Lewis declared whether he will endorse Ike or Adlai.

Lewis has been the pioneer in obtaining shorter working hours, portal-to-portal pay, a vast hospital system, pensions and a welfare fund for his miners. Incidentally, it is understood that all these other benefits are contemplated in the AFL-CIO's new program.

When the coal operators introduced machines into their industry (the beginnings of automation), thereby vastly increasing the per diem output of coal, John L. bargained for and obtained a 35-week-five days at seven hours a day. And he got it with a constantly increasing pay scale. It is doubtful if other industrial workers will work fewer hours, even with a four-day week. LIVELY ISSUE TIPPED OFF

Nixon has also tipped off the GOP strategy of what may become a novel, lively and emotional issue before November 6, Republican orators will emphasize that, with most industrial and business leaders favoring President Eisenhower, labor will stand a better chance of winning these additional benefits under Ike than under Adlai.

As an indication of the plan to use this kind of practical appeal, Eisenhower-Nixon campaigners and literature now contrast the number and length and hardships of major strikes during the Truman Administration with the relatively prompt and profitable settlement of the recent steel dispute.

Nor do they fail to note that the friendly intervention of two Cabinet members—Secretary Humphrey and Mitchell—contributed to management's acceptance of the union's demands.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

SYNOPSIS

Connie Barton's suspicions were aroused by her husband's clumsy excuses for his regular Wednesday night absences. She trailed Steve to a private dance studio and then realized he was taking dance lessons as a pleasant surprise for her. Keeping herself unnoticed, Connie watched the door of the studio till Steve left, and went in for a private word with her teacher. She found the instructor, Anita Farrell, sprawled on the floor—shot dead. In the corpse's hand was a paper silhouette of herself. Confused, Connie's first thought was to cover up for Steve. She grabbed the silhouette and the appointment book at the unattended reception desk outside and went home to confront Steve. She had to believe his assertions of his innocence.

Police promptly got the names of all Miss Farrell's pupils and began checking to identify the p.m. Wednesday waltzer. When Lieut. Bolling asked Steve his lesson time, Steve said 3 o'clock Saturday. From the stolen appointment book Steve took the lesson time of a Ralph Tolley, whom Bolling hasn't contacted—yet.

Using the name Hester Frost, and with a plan in mind to save Steve, Connie got Miss Farrell's teaching job. Connie noticed a ventilator in the ceiling of Studio K—the murder room—and set about exploring the possibility of the gunshot having come from there. While up on a catwalk over the false ceiling, she heard from the studio next to her a man and a girl arguing whether he should chance going to "Rhinebeck Place." That is where the late Miss Farrell lived.

Downstairs again, Connie spots a policeman acquaintance and fearfully ducks into another studio.

CHAPTER 10

The studio was large, used obviously for group lessons, and at the far end of it was a young man. He seemed genuinely anxious to help me. His diffidence, the clear sparkle of his rimless eyeglasses reminded me instantly of a high school history teacher of mine. Mr. Linden's scholarly diffidence and the clear sparkle of his eyeglasses had made him my first intellectual hero. As the young man came across the studio toward me, I wondered for what demure little chick's sake he was learning to dance. Then I realized that if he were a student, he would hardly be so solicitous of my welfare.

"Are you a teacher?" I asked.

He smiled at the surprise in my voice. "Yes, I am."

"Well, so am I! I'm just kind of going around and getting acquainted. This is my first day."

"You're Hester Frost. I've heard about you taking Anita Farrell's place. I'm Bob Spencer."

"How do you do, Bob?"

"We shook hands."

"Welcome to Crescent," he said. "Thanks. Have you been working here long?"

"This is my twelfth year. I started here as soon as I got out of the service." Again he was amused at my reaction. He said, "You're surprised that a man could teach dancing that long. Well, maybe I can surprise you even more. I didn't start working here because I was an actor out of work or a hungry writer or a struggling artist. I took the job because I thought I might enjoy it . . . and I do enjoy it. Furthermore, I'm interested in the business end of this deal. There's a lot of money in dancing."

"I gather the boss has boys at Harvard, Yale and Princeton."

"A lot of money," Bob repeated. "If Mr. Bell doesn't move me up into an executive job in the next few years, I might start my own studio. I've got a few ideas."

"Well, if you start your own place, don't forget me."

"A number of the best teachers here would consider going with me. I get along pretty well with people."

"I'm sure you do, Bob."

"People are my main interest. I've made a study of them. They fascinate me."

The gray eyes behind the professional spectacles seemed suddenly to be delving into my innermost being. I decided that I wouldn't stick around to be analyzed. Some other day, maybe. But right now I had a more urgent matter to attend to. As I turned away from Bob Spencer the realization flicked through my mind that my new acquaintance couldn't have been less interested in the life and death of Anita Farrell. In fact, his indifference to the murder was slightly chilling.

Mr. Spencer had, however, served his purpose. The corridor was empty. I had been able to elude my friend, the policeman. I got down the hall, through the reception room and into an elevator without any further trouble. From a phone booth in the downstairs lobby I called home. Steve was there.

"Connie, what the hell . . ."

"Darling, listen!"

I had some trouble making him listen. But by talking fast, so that he couldn't get a word in edgewise, I told him about my job and why I had taken it. The details, I said, I would fill in later. Then I told him about a man and a girl and Rhinebeck Place.

"Steve," I said, "he might be doing down to Anita's apartment. She lived on Rhinebeck Place. I saw it in the paper. We've got to find out who this guy is and what he wants there."

"Maybe he's been there and gone by now."

"No, I think he's still upstairs. The lesson hour isn't quite over yet."

"All right. I'll come over to the school and we'll follow him . . ."

"Steve, we can't! I don't know him, I didn't see him. I only heard his voice."

"Can't you pick him up outside the studio he's in now?"

"No, I can't go back upstairs. Hankins . . . you know, Bolling's pal, is hanging around. And you stay away from here, Steve. Listen, the only thing we can do is go to Rhinebeck Place and watch for a guy who's interested in Anita Farrell's apartment. Rhinebeck Place is in the Village, isn't it?"

"Off Christopher Street, between Greenwich and Seventh."

"I'll meet you there. Right away."

"Connie, I'll go alone . . ."

"No, I'll meet you there."

"Connie . . ."

"I hung up."

It took me about five minutes to find a cab and I was on my way. Steve would probably take the Lexington Avenue Subway to

FOR WALTZER.

The driver said, "The sooner they get that creep, the better."

"Yes," I said.

"The streets ain't safe with him loose."

"No," I said.

"An out-and-out maniac, that Waltzer," the driver said. "He should be shot on sight like a mad dog."

"The light is green now," I said.

"If this was any place but New York City there'd be a posse out for him. He should be strung up on the first pole, hung."

"The light is green," I said again.

We got moving. Below Pennsylvania Station we broke into the clear and made some time. I got out at Christopher and Seventh, walked the half block east.

Rhinebeck Place was actually a short street with a dead end. On each side of it were narrow, four-story brownstone houses. The blank wall of what seemed to be a warehouse formed the dead end. It had been painted a fresh gray, some ivy was trying desperately to storm its ramparts.

Steve wasn't in sight.

Number 11 was the next to last building on the left. In its vestibule I found the name Farrell under one of the eight mailboxes. Anita's apartment was one flight up the rear half of the parlor floor of this former one family house.

I stepped back onto the sidewalk. There was still no sign of Steve. I started toward Christopher Street to wait for him there. A young man popped around the corner. He was a young man in such a hurry and with a manner so determined I immediately wondered if his could be the voice I had heard planning a trip to Rhinebeck Place.

Tomorrow: Steve baits a trap with Connie. Continue Chapter 11 of "The Blonde Died Dancing" in this newspaper.

IT'S THE '57 'INNER FORD' IN ACTION

Special stretches of tortuous, twisting roads were set aside for testing the 1957 "Inner Ford." The result: A car that hugs a tough road . . . loves a tight turn.

You're seeing why the '57 FORD will take the curve without the pitch

You'll get lots of wonderfully new sensations when you drive the sensationally new Ford!

For instance, what happened to the sway on curves you used to feel in cars? In this new Ford, there's hardly any "tilt" even on tightest turns! Your slightest wish is an instantly obeyed command.

The proved-in-action "Inner Ford" is why!

A new frame that swoops out between the wheels dips down for a lower center of gravity. New rear springs, mounted outside the frame, give wide-stance steadiness. New steering has a built-in "road sense" for handling that's truly true!

And the way this new Ford takes the bumps! Rough roads are millpond smooth. The new "Inner Ford" has logged thousands of tortuous miles to prove it.

Visit your Ford Dealer Wednesday and see how big, beautiful and powerful a low-priced car can be. Learn how much fun it is to drive a car with all the zip you can ever use . . . that handles like a polo pony. It's a thrill you won't soon forget!

OLD
 Time was when cars used to "heel over" . . . tires used to howl whenever you rounded a sharp curve.

NEW
 A lower center of gravity and a host of other new features let the '57 Ford corner as if it were on rails.

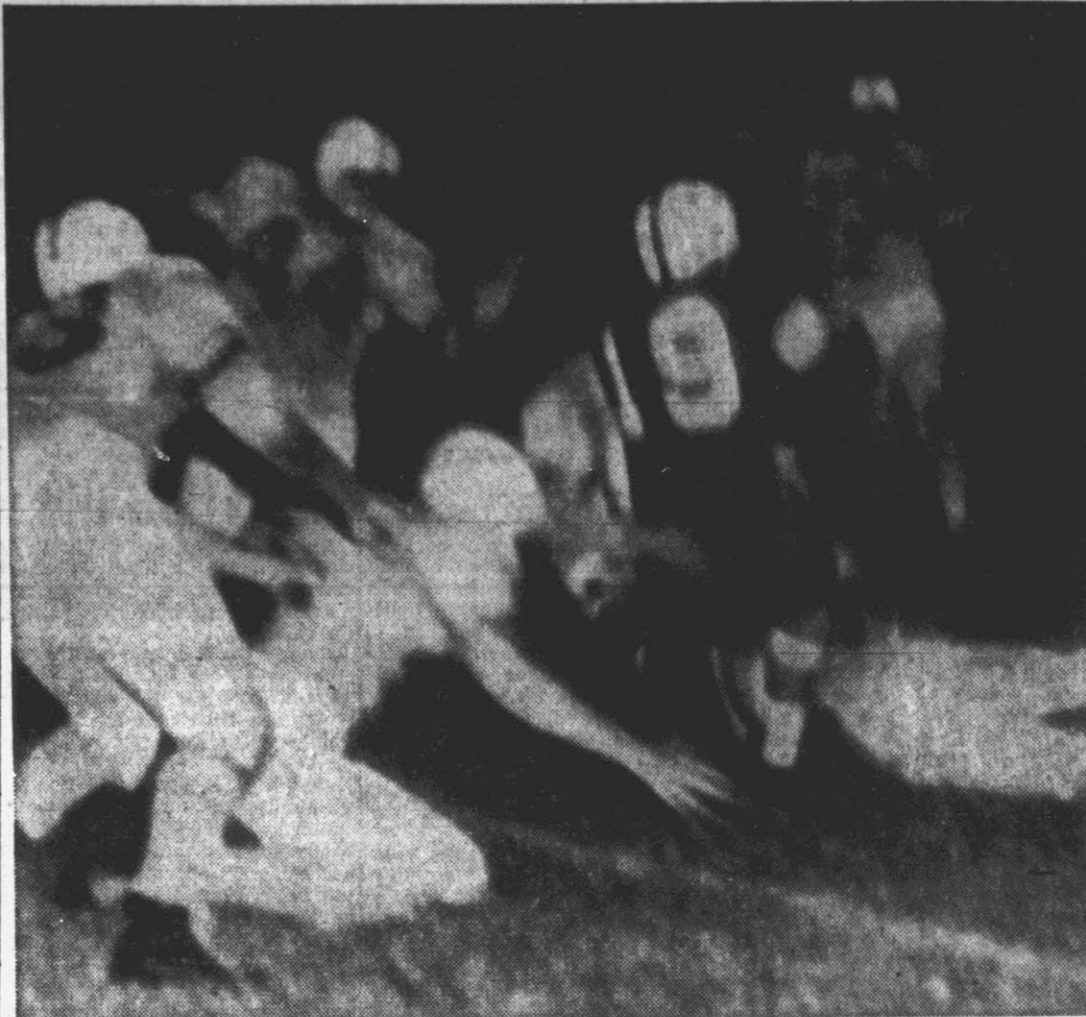

Your tomorrow starts with a New Kind of Ford—see it Oct. 3rd.

Bucs Succumb To Catawba Power By 23-13 Margin

GIANT LINES CLASH—In Saturday night's North State Conference tilt, played at College Stadium, fans viewed the nation's heaviest line, Catawba's Indian front wall, averaging 250 pounds per man, ultimately made the difference between two supposedly equal teams, as Catawba whipped East Carolina 23-13. Shown above, is some of the line action that dominated the game.

STOUT IS STOPPED—Pete Stout, Catawba halfback, is stopped cold in a fury of action by three husky East Carolina linemen. Ruell Edwards (33), Lynn Barnett (44) and an unidentified Pirate put down Mr. Stout as he attempted to round his own left end. Catawba came from behind to cope the North State contest by a comfortable 23-13 score. (Photos by Billy Arnold).

All signs began to point Saturday night to a long cold fall for East Carolina College's football team.

The hungry Pirates ran up a 13-0 lead over Catawba's well-disciplined Indians and then spent the rest of the night trying to get the ball back. They never did, at least not for any appreciable length of time.

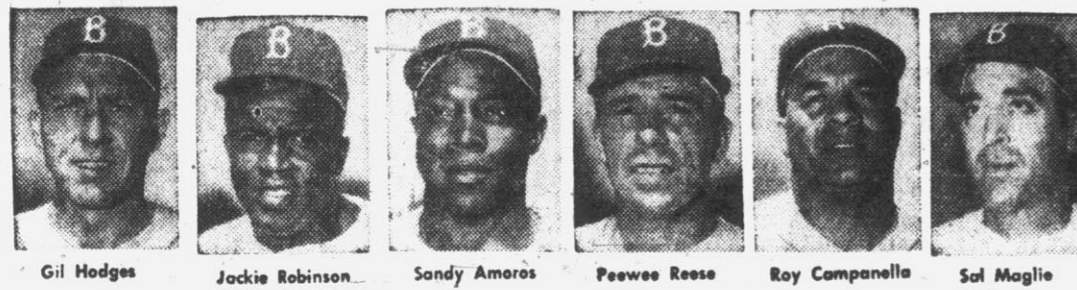

Catawba won the North State Conference opener, 23-13. The Pirates started out as if they were going to kick the nation's biggest line all the way back to Salisbury.

Fast Start
East Carolina really started in high fashion. After stopping Catawba's opening drive on their own 32 and losing three yards on two plays, quarterback Gary Mattocks pitched a perfect strike to Bobby Perry on Catawba's 40. Perry outran the Indians' defense for the rest of the 71 yards and the touchdown.

Bums Sweep Pittsburgh To Win National Flag

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press
A year older, a lot wearier, but still with the knack of winning, the big ones, the Brooklyn Dodgers were champions of the National League today.

Other noteworthy developments of the final day of the season: 1. Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees became the first player since Ted Williams turned the trick in 1947 to win the major coveted triple crown — batting, runs-batted-in and home runs.

2. Robin Roberts failed in his quest for his seventh consecutive 20-game winning season. 3. Red Schoendienst of the New York Giants got the 2,000th hit of his career.

4. The Washington Senators set a record in reverse, finishing the season with 87 strikeouts, breaking a 42-year-old mark. Mantle batted only once in the Yanks' 10-inning, 7-4 loss to the Boston Red Sox, but he knocked in a run. That gave him a batting average of .353, 130 runs batted in and 52 homers.

The Giants licked Roberts, taking the first game of a doubleheader from Philadelphia, 8-3. The Phillies won the nightcap, 5-2, and in that one schoendienst collected hit No. 2,000.

Baltimore won a doubleheader from the Senators 4-2 and 6-3.

PITCHING: Don Bessent, Dodgers, rescued Don Newcombe in the eighth inning when the Dodgers were wavering and held off the Pirates in Brooklyn's pennant-clinching victory.

BATTING: Duke Snider, Dodgers, hit two home runs to set an all-time Brooklyn record of 43 for one season as the Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-6, to sew up the National League pennant.

PITCHEING: Don Bessent, Dodgers, rescued Don Newcombe in the eighth inning when the Dodgers were wavering and held off the Pirates in Brooklyn's pennant-clinching victory.

Local Bowling Leagues Seeing Plenty Of Action

In the Industrial League's bowling action for last week, four teams posted winning marks in three-game series play. They were State Highway, Buck Amoco, Carolina Dairy, and Gulf Oil. High men on the winning teams were Bill Hendrix of the State Highway with 168, Dean Hines of the Amocos with 168, Billy Wells of the Dairy with 181, and Mark Manning of the Gulf Oilers with 156.

The standings are as follows:
Carolina Dairy 5 1
Western Auto 4 2
White Chevrolet 4 2
Quality Oilers 3 3
State Highway 3 3
Gulf Oil 2 4
Buck Amoco 2 4
Greenville Mills 2 4

In the City League for Men Bowlers, National Carbon won three over the Moose Club and N.C. Equipment Company took two out of three from Pepsi-Cola. Top scorers were S. R. Brooks with 161, Col. Partridge with 176, Winton Hill with 166 and Tom Smith with 152.

Ruth Brady led the Luckettes, of the Business Women's League, to two out of three wins over Hall's Opicians. She rolled a 196. Also in that league, the Rollettes won two of three from the Sinclaires, with Grace Newton leading the way. She averaged a 130, while Frances Cassick rolled 171 for the losers.

Greenville Women's League action found the Be-Bops winning one and the Bowlerettes taking two in last week's play. The Pin-Queens ran away with the Comets, taking three victories. Leading bowlers were Cora Lee Midgett and Connie Midgett.

Michigan State had a more difficult time but broke loose from a 7-7 halftime score to whip Stanford, 21-7. The Big 10 title could be on the line as soon as next Saturday when the Spartans meet arch-rival Michigan, a 42-13 winner over penalty-weakened UCLA.

Georgia Tech, back with virtually the same team that beat Pitt in the last Sugar Bowl, won another squeaker — this one 9-7 over a Southern Methodist squad that upended Notre Dame in its opener a week ago. Tech opened the season defeating Kentucky 14-6. If there was a shocker Saturday, it was Tennessee's 35-7 romp over Auburn. Both were rated with Georgia Tech at the top of the Southeastern conference.

Elizabeth City, N. C. An estimated 50,000 persons lined the Pasquotank River here yesterday and saw Danny Foster of Detroit win the International Cup Regatta for the second year in a row. He drove George Simon's Miss U.S. I to victory in 103.053 miles per hour, compared with the record of 104.775 he set last year in bandleader Guy Lombardo's Tempo VII.

The double-engined Miss Wayne, owned and driven by Frank Sallee Jr. of Grosse Point Farms, Mich., was the only other unlimited boat entered. She developed engine trouble during the first heat, and was unable to run during the final two heats of 15-miles each.

A pair of seven litre boats ran against the unlimiteds, but both developed mechanical trouble and were unable to complete the three heats.

James M. Fyle of Baltimore was awarded second place for completing two heats in the International. The Six-Poke, driven by Tom Carter of Drexel Hill, Pa., finished one heat.

Conditions were ideal for the two-day regatta, with the water smooth and the humidity favorable.

Henry Lauterbach of Portsmouth, Va., won the 266-cubic inch inboard class yesterday in 81.595 m.p.h., and the 225-cubic inch in 77.519 m.p.h. He also finished second in the 135-cubic inch class, won by Earl V. Kelly of Richmond, Va., in 70.866 m.p.h.

1956 Scene Resembles Last Season's Action

By DON WEISS
The Associated Press
Where's that difference a year's supposed to make?

Once again, it's the Dodgers and the Yankees in another World Series. Right with them (1955 all over again) are Oklahoma, Michigan State and Georgia Tech, looking for all the world like the powers-to-stay in college football.

Bud Wilkinson's "poor 'til Sooner" from Norman, Okla., have demonstrated enough in one appearance to indicate it will take some doing to dislodge them from the No. 1 national ranking they drew in The Associated Press poll last year and in the first balloting this semester.

Michigan State, the Rose Bowl champion and favorite in the Big 10, made a tidy debut by taking the scalp of the Stanford Indians, considered the best in the Pacific Coast Conference.

As for Georgia Tech and its experienced crew, there is even less change from a year ago. The Engineers have been out twice and twice home a winner in tight games, the kind Tech specializes in winning.

Wilkinson, who said he would be happy with a one-point victory over North Carolina in Oklahoma's opener, got a 35-point bonus from his kids. The 35-0 romp was the Sooners' 31st straight victory, tying their own national collegiate record, set in 1948-1949-1950. One more sets a new mark and it ought to come Saturday against Kansas State.

Jim Tatum, Wilkinson's former tutor and new coach of North Carolina, has little doubt that Oklahoma has it again.

"They're the real national champs," said Tatum, who also lost to Wilkinson with his Maryland team in the Orange Bowl last January.

Michigan State had a more difficult time but broke loose from a 7-7 halftime score to whip Stanford, 21-7. The Big 10 title could be on the line as soon as next Saturday when the Spartans meet arch-rival Michigan, a 42-13 winner over penalty-weakened UCLA.

Friday's Cases In Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

In Police Court Friday, Judge Charles H. Wheeler found two itinerant magazine salesman guilty of soliciting magazine subscriptions without registering with the police.

Robert Payne of Charlotte was taxed with court costs (about $13) and was ordered to pay back to B. B. Laughinghouse $40 he had obtained from him. Testimony was that Payne told Laughinghouse that his wife had subscribed to $40 worth of magazines and asked for payment. Payne cashed the check at a bank before Laughinghouse learned from his wife no subscriptions had been purchased.

Robert Haskins, 23, of Troy, New York, Payne's salesman companion, was found guilty and was taxed with court costs.

Solicitor Ed Bloom said each autumn fly-by-night imposters come into the Greenville area to sell magazines and make their sales by false stories that they are trying to get a college education, become a registered nurse, or something else. The solicitor warned the public to beware of itinerant magazine sellers—male and female.

Johnnie G. Carmon, Ayden and Leroy Hill, Farmville, Negroes, were given 30 days in jail for damaging personal property. Testimony was that they broke windows at the Suburban Cleaners plant.

Disregarding a police signal, Ernest L. Sutton, 2105 S. Village Drive, paid $5. Milton E. Reese, Negro, Baltimore, Md., was called and he failed to answer. An instant capias was issued for him.

Richard Bradley Negro, 1631 S. Pitt street, assault with a deadly weapon, six months on the road, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment provides that he is to pay $45 medical bill for Annie Bradley, Negro, remain of good behavior for two years and not harm the prosecuting witness.

The court found Joe Ebrin, Negro, not guilty of assault with a deadly weapon.

Willie Williams, Negro, 307 East First street, attempted rape, the court found probable cause and bound him over to Superior Court.

Testimony was that he attacked Alice Bruce Riddick, Negro, nine years old.

Speeding, William T. Smith, 1008 West Wright Road, $15; Robert L. Kite, Rt. 3, city, not guilty; Winfred M. Harrison 603 E. Ninth street, Hoyt C. Stepherson, Negro, costs.

Roy Meachum, Rt. 3, city, larceny of a billfold containing $5, case not pressed with leave.

Willie Brown, Negro, failure to stop at a traffic light, $20, costs deducted.

John L. Walters, Negro, paid $5 for gambling.

Bennie Phillips, Negro, 712 Fleming street, assault with a deadly weapon (bottle), the court, taxed the prosecuting witness, Juanita Phillips, with costs for not testifying.

Joseph E. Smith, non-support, six months on the roads, suspended on payment of $5 for support before release and pay $5 a week beginning October 6, 1956, pay $10 medical bill before release and pay the remainder in 30 days.

Careless and reckless driving: Willie J. Freeman, Negro, Rt. 1, city, 30 days, suspended on payment of $50 costs deducted and he is not to drive for 30 days.

Jesse R. Patrick, Negro, Rt. 2, city, 30 days or $50, costs deducted, and not drive for 30 days. He appealed.

No operator's license: Johnny W. O'Neal Washington, paid costs.

NAACP Asks Court Order For Entry In Dallas School

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS (AP)—The National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, now under threat of ouster from Texas where it has scored some of its greatest victories, today will seek a federal court order to admit Negroes to the Dallas public schools.

Today's hearing before Federal District Judge William H. Atwell concerns a suit filed in September 1955 seeking to admit 27 Negro students to Dallas white schools.

When the suit was first heard, Judge Atwell ruled against the NAACP, saying the case was premature. The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals returned the case, telling Judge Atwell to grant a full hearing to the Negro students. The Dallas Independent School District appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court and asked for a stay of judgment pending action on the appeal. The Supreme Court, which denied the request for a stay of judgment, is to consider the appeal at its new term starting today.

If a separate action, a court of inquiry here Saturday conducted by aides of State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd heard five Negroes involved in the suit testify they had not discussed the matter with any attorney and had not authorized any attorney to file suit.

"This hearing is in no way related to the federal suit," Asst. State Atty. Gen. L. W. Gray said. The information gathered from the court of inquiry will be available for possible use in future cases, he said.

Today's hearing is the third within four days in which the NAACP has been a principal.

A hearing on a petition by Shepperd for a temporary injunction to ban the NAACP from operating in Texas began Friday in the court of State District Judge Otis T. Dunagan at Tyler. Dunagan earlier had granted a restraining order directing the NAACP to stop all operations in the state, to file no more school integration suits and to collect no more money.

After two days of testimony, the Tyler hearing was adjourned until Wednesday.

Shepperd has alleged that the NAACP violated the state laws regulating corporations and "exceeded the bounds of propriety and law." Thurgood Marshall of New York chief counsel for the NAACP, who directed the defense at the Tyler hearing, called the court action the greatest crisis threatening the organization.

An NAACP petition for a contempt of court action against two officials of Texarkana Junior College was dismissed by Federal District Judge Joe Sheehy at Tyler Thursday when U. S. Tate, NAACP counsel, disqualified himself after two Negro students testified they had not consulted Tate nor had they asked him to file a suit for them.

Each beautiful stole is marmink (mink-dyed marmot)—prime quality pelts imported from Outer Mongolia. These stoles cannot be compared with genuine mink (which would cost at least $1500 in this size) but they are a serviceable fur which any woman of modest means would be glad to own and wear.

SIMPLY FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES

1. Write a 2-line rhyming jingle about any one of these four brands: LIGHT WHITE—METROPOLITAN—AMERICA'S BEST—MICHIGAN QUEEN something like, "Light White is for the best, I like it better than the rest."
2. Print your entry clearly on a plain piece of paper. Fancy or decorated entries count nothing extra.
3. Be sure to include your name and address.

4. Each time you send in your jingle, attach one trademark picture (or facsimile) from any size sock of one of the above four brands. (No other brands count in this contest.)
5. There are 10 separate weekly contests. Enter each week, if you wish. At the end of each week, after winner is selected, all entries received that week are destroyed. Entries received during each week will be judged for that week's contest only.
6. Mail your entry to: STOLE CONTEST, P. O. Box 1280, Roanoke, Va.
7. Entries and ideas become the property of Roanoke City Mills. None will be returned, nor can we enter into correspondence with any entrant. Winners agree to permit us to use their names and addresses in our advertising.
8. Entries will be judged on originality, uniqueness, and suitability, by an outside advertising staff. Decision of judges is final.
9. This is a limited contest, open only to residents of Virginia, North and South Carolina, and West Virginia. Employees of Roanoke City Mills, or any of our wholesale distributors (or members of their families) may not enter.

Team Of 50 Investigators Still Hunt Kidnap-Slayer

By ED BUTLER
 HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — There's a long, narrow room in Hamden's red brick police headquarters. Men come in and go out all day long. Its lights burn all night.

This room, once used for routine police paperwork, has been borrowed indefinitely by a New Haven County detective and a team of 50 investigators. Their work is costing $1,000 a day.

They are working for a solution to the kidnap-murder of a chubby little infant — week-old Cynthia Ruotolo, daughter of an $80-a-week paint salesman and his wife, who have lost two previous infant children. One died of pneumonia; the other in an accident.

Nearly a month ago, Cynthia was taken from her carriage in a department store and thrown, apparently shortly afterward, into a lake a mile away in this New Haven suburban area.

Three boys found the body five days later, stuffed into a plastic bag, and weighted down with a rock.

An autopsy showed she died of suffocation, but police couldn't tell whether from drowning or from being stuffed in the air-tight bag. She also had a bruise on the left side of her head. But a pathologist said the bruise, suffered before she died, did not cause death.

Police say they have rehashed the case from start to finish repeatedly. Cynthia's mother Eleanor Ruotolo, 33, and a neighbor went to the store Sept. 1 and parked not far from the foyer.

Mrs. Ruotolo put Cynthia in a folding carriage and attached a heavy netting over the top.

She wheeled the carriage into the foyer. Then she and the neighbor, Mrs. Paul Rebutti, went off to shop.

"We went in together and shopped for about 15 minutes," Mrs. Rebutti said. "She got a toy for the baby, plastic bells to hang across the crib."

"After that she checked the baby and we had a hot dog at the snack bar."

Mrs. Rebutti said Mrs. Ruotolo then went to the second floor of the store while she went to the men's department to visit her husband, a salesman there.

"Finally, we went to get the baby and leave. Mrs. Ruotolo pushed the carriage out to the sidewalk. Out there she lifted the netting and we discovered the baby was gone."

"It's pretty confused from that point. She didn't scream, but she became incoherent. She went frantically looking for the baby and she said, 'Where's my baby?'"

Police came shortly afterward and went swiftly through their routine — setting up roadblocks, searching cars, dragging ponds, combing the woods.

Store officials estimate there were 4,000 people that day at the store.

From half a dozen of those people, police pieced together a description of a woman carrying a baby "awkwardly" across the store parking lot or taking a baby out of a carriage. She was dark, short and stocky, they said.

Detective Edmund Flanagan says his 50-man team will question 1,100 people who were at the store Sept. 1. Their names were taken from credit purchase lists or from checks cashed at the store.

Flanagan said the investigators will try everything to solve the case. It may look like a blank wall, he said, but added:

"We're not back where we started from. We've cleared up a lot of angles but we can't say what they are."

Near-Impossible Feat In Airplane

NEW YORK (AP)—A strapping young mechanic with an "urge to fly" and a desire for a nightcap dropped in by plane at his favorite tavern in crowded Manhattan early Sunday.

Thomas Fitzpatrick, 26, skillfully piloted a small plane down between rows of apartment houses and made a perfect landing on St. Nicholas Ave. at 191st St. Then he taxied up the darkened street to the tavern.

Police said he reached the bar in time for a short beer before the 3 a.m. closing.

Officers marveled at the flying mechanic's feat. One said the landing was a 100,000-to-1 shot — "almost impossible."

Police said the odds were also against Fitzpatrick's story that engine trouble forced him down in his "borrowed" plane. They suspected a wager was behind the landing.

So Fitzpatrick was arraigned in felony court on a charge of suspicion of grand larceny. Magistrate Edward J. Chapman set $5,000 bail "as a deterrent to other and fly a plane."

Police said Fitzpatrick had a license to fly. He is an airplane mechanic and lives in Emerson, N.J.

The plane was dismantled and hauled back to Teterboro.

Communist Press Of Europe Sees Big Decline

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
 PARIS (AP)—Every day some 40 Communist and fellow-traveling dailies hit the newsstands of Western Europe despite financial troubles and ideological problems.

Their combined circulation has topped to about one third of what it was in the first postwar years.

Their lot has become more difficult ever since Russia's bosses launched the current de-Stalinization party line. Confusion as to what's going on in the Kremlin was so acute that even L'Humanite, top Communist party organ in France, complained Moscow was not keeping the faithful informed.

L'Humanite — and other Red papers in the West — protested that the first authoritative abstracts of party boss Nikita Khrushchev's anti-Stalin speech to the 20th party Congress came from the U. S. State Department.

Other Communist newspapers for a long time refused to follow Moscow's Pravda in attacking Stalin. Some did it months later, others are still groping.

Lack of advertising and lack of readers plague Western Europe's Red press just as badly as the shifting party line. Every few months one of the smaller papers discovers that it cannot compete with the independent press or the journals of other parties.

Most recent collapse is Vienna's Der Abend.

In Italy, three important Communist dailies collapsed financially in the past two years—in Milan, Florence, Leghorn. The most important Italian Communist daily, L'Unita, is published in Rome, Milan, Turin and Genoa. Its com-

Traffic Deaths In August Rise Toward Record

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic deaths increased in August for the 18th consecutive month and the National Safety Council says the toll for 1956 appears headed for a new record of between 41,000 and 42,000.

Accidents on highways killed 3,600 in August, the council reported today. That was a 2 per cent increase over the 3,530 killed in August last year.

The council said traffic deaths in the first eight months this year totaled 25,350 up 3 per cent from the comparable period of 1955 when 23,460 persons died. The largest recorded toll for the first eight months of the year was 24,467 in 1937.

The all-time traffic toll was 39,969 in 1941. Last year's total was 38,300.

August's 2 per cent increase is the smallest since February 1955. That provides only "slight solace," however, the safety council said.

Mileage figures are available for only seven months, the council said. For that period travel was up 6 per cent and deaths up 9 per cent. The death rate per 100 million miles rose to 6.0 — up 3 per cent from the 5.8 rate for the corresponding period last year.

Eighteen of the 47 states reporting August figures showed increases in the number of deaths. One reported no change and 28 reported increases. The three leading states with fewer deaths for the eight months were: Rhode Island, 31 per cent; Nevada 24 per cent and Tennessee 16 per cent.

In August, 420 cities reported perfect safety records. The three largest were Rochester, N.Y. (132,500); Miami, Fla. (129,000); and Omaha, Neb. (251,000).

Below-Freezing Wave Spreads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Temperatures dropped below freezing in northern Michigan today and chill air spread across the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions.

The central and northern plains reported generally higher readings and the rest of the nation had little temperature change.

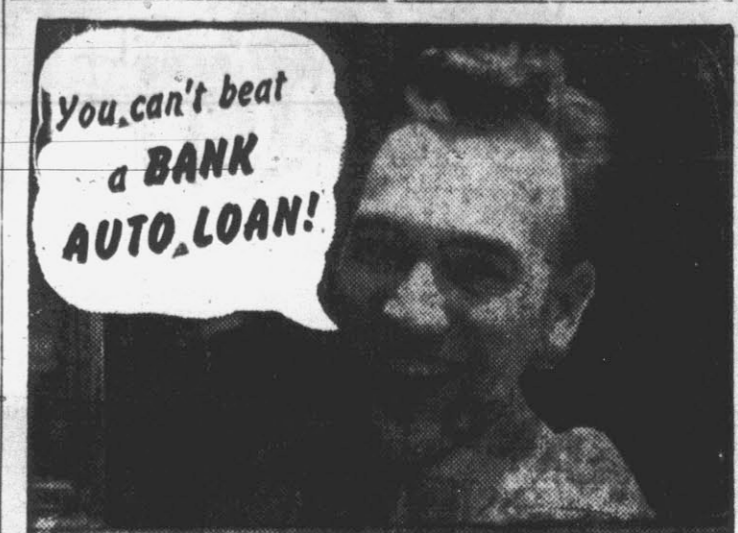

Grand Marais and Pellston, Mich., both recorded 25 degree readings. The Weather Bureau said the nation's high was 90 at Blythe, Calif.

Scattered showers doused sections of the Rockies and New England and a curtain of drizzle and showers hung over Texas and Louisiana. Almost 2.50 inches of rain fell on New Orleans in 24 hours.

Partly cloudy weather was in store for the northern two thirds of the country from the eastern slope of the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast.

The weather bureau said showers would sprinkle the gulf coast and Florida and the rain in Texas and Louisiana would move inland.

The northern plains and Appalachians had some cooling while warmer air moved over the Great Lakes southwest to the central plains.

Esso Research does it again!
 Starting today...

A THIRD BRILLIANT GASOLINE

NEW GOLDEN ESSO EXTRA!

AVAILABLE TODAY IN THIS AREA*

NOT TWO GASOLINES—BUT THREE... WITH THE RIGHT TYPE FUEL FOR EVERY CAR

1. ESSO for the millions of motorists who want a fine gasoline at "regular" price... the most popular gasoline sold in the area served by Esso Dealers.
2. ESSO EXTRA Gasoline now enriched with Vitane®—designed for those who prefer the outstanding performance that only a premium gasoline delivers.
3. New GOLDEN ESSO EXTRA—an entirely new gasoline to power the growing number of high-compression cars which cannot deliver full performance with any gasoline available in this area today. More costly to make—does more for you.

Because thousands of cars demanded it...
 Esso Research brings you the first gasoline specifically designed to make the most of today's new, higher-compression engines. It is the world's finest gasoline for any car... literally the power fuel that skipped the years.

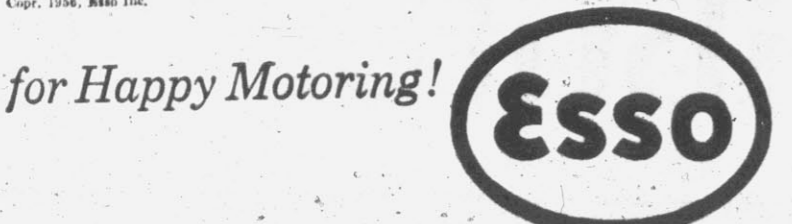

Engine compression ratios have increased so rapidly in today's automobiles that up to now no fuel available in this area could get top power out of these higher-compression engines. Because of this need, Esso Research created new Golden Esso Extra four full years ahead of schedule. Scientifically designed and balanced to provide full power—top mileage—and long life for even the most advanced engine designs. So powerful that drivers who tried it in advance tests reported an immediate improvement in performance.

Of course, many cars will continue to give fine performance on Esso and Esso EXTRA. But we think most motorists will want to find out for themselves how much they gain in performance, acceleration, and power by switching to this new gasoline. We make this suggestion: Try a full tank of Golden Esso Extra. Then decide whether the improved performance is worth the small extra cost to you. One of our three brilliant gasolines is bound to be exactly right for your car and your gasoline dollar, and Esso Standard believes that no motorist should pay for another's power needs. Only you can tell whether it's Esso, Esso EXTRA, or Golden Esso Extra for your car!

Choose the fuel you need without paying a penny for quality you can't use.

Drive in today. Now three brilliant gasolines to choose from—

No one gasoline can economically satisfy the widening power needs of today's cars.
 No two gasolines can give every motorist full value for his gasoline dollar.
 Now THREE gasolines, one of which will give your car the right fuel... at the most economical price!
