Egypt Says 'No' To Suez Plan By France, Britain

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Egypt today rejected the British-French Suez proposal, but suggested the creation of a negotiating body to seek a settlement of the dispute.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi told the U. N. Security Council that the British and French had merely reintroduced the proposal of the first London conference on the Suez which already had been turned down by Egypt.

"We do not think it wise or profitable to re-introduce proposals which already have been rejected," he said.

The plan, submitted to the Council last Friday by Britain and France, called on the Council to endorse the London recommendations for international control of the 103-mile waterway and urged Egypt to use these recommendations as a basis for negotiation.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles listened intently as Fawzi spoke.

In expressing Egypt's willingness to create a negotiating committee, Fawzi outlined these main objectives:

"1. Establishing a system of cooperation between the Egyptian authority operating the Suez Canal and the users of the canal, taking into full consideration the sovereignty and the rights of Egypt and the interests of the users of the canal.

"2. Establishing a system for the tolls and charges which guarantees for the users of the canal a fair treatment free from exploitation.

"3. Providing for a reasonable percentage of the revenues to be allotted especially for improvements."

While these points made no specific reference to international control, they did call for international cooperation in operating the canal.

The 11-nation council was expected to finish its public debate tomorrow with speeches by Secretary of State Dulles and others, and then begin a series of perhaps three secret meetings.

The council is considering a British-French resolution proposing that it (1) criticize Egypt's July 26 nationalization of the Suez Canal, (2) endorse the 18-nation London proposals for international operation of the waterway, and (3) recommend that Egypt negotiate "on the basis of these proposals," meanwhile cooperating with the new Suez Canal Users' Assn.

Egypt and the Soviet Union have already rejected the 18-nation plan.

The Cairo newspaper Al-Messaa quoted Egyptian President Nasser as telling an interviewer that if the U. N. gives in to demands of "big imperialist countries," it would collapse like the League of Nations.

The official Soviet news agency Tass, in a comment broadcast from Moscow, declared that Britain and France with their resolution wanted the council "to condemn Egypt" and thereby justify their own actions against that country.

However, a British spokesman refused to concede in advance that the Soviets would veto the resolution. "We don't know," he said.

County Fair Opens Today

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair opened this afternoon. Sponsored by the American Legion Posts in Greenville, Ayden and Farmville the fair will be open at the fairgrounds on the airport road until next Saturday night.

President of the Pitt County Fair Association Larry Averette reminded that the main theme of the fair is furtherance of livestock and agriculture in the county and carrying out the fair's slogan, Pitt County on Parade.

He pointed out that the fair is offering to farming interests of Pitt County $4,000 in premiums for exhibits and livestock.

Included in the exhibits will be clothing, arts, floral, farm machinery, livestock, swine and other exhibits. They are being entered by Home Demonstration, 4-H boys and girls, Vocational Agriculture, and Home Economic members.

Norman Y. Chambliss, manager for the ninth consecutive year, described the local fair as "one of the finest agricultural fairs in the State of North Carolina."

"To my own knowledge, the Pitt County Agricultural Fair is offering more money in premiums for exhibits than any other of its size in the southland."

Exhibit Building Filled Chambliss said the exhibit building is filled to capacity with agricultural exhibits. Mrs. Norman Stanley of Pitt County is acting in the capacity of entry clerk, Chambliss said. All exhibits except livestock will remain intact through Saturday night. Exhibitors will be able to obtain their entries after 2 p. m. next Sunday.

As a part of the fair week the Agricultural Committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will stage a banquet Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at Respass Bros. for farm youth who enter livestock in the fair. Prizes will be awarded at the banquet.

J. B. Goodman, assistant county agent will be in charge of the program.

Chambliss noted that Pitt Legionaires will be admitted free to the fairgrounds tonight, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday nights upon presentation of their 1957 membership cards. Auxiliary members will also be admitted free on those nights.

Tuesday will be children's day for white children of the Greenville City Schools. Wednesday all Negro school children of Pitt will be admitted free and Friday the white school children of the County schools will receive free admission.

Chambliss said that 20,000 tickets have been turned over, the Pitt School Superintendent D. H. Conly for distribution to county school children.

Midway Attraction The O. C. Buck shows are providing the midway attractions for the fair with 22 rides, including a new ride "The Scrambler". There will be ten shows and other concessions.

Chambliss noted that school children will be able to ride on the midway rides for a dime on the three school days up to 6 p. m. with the exception of the "Scooter" and the pony rides.

This is the first appearance of the O. C. Buck Shows in Greenville. Pres. Averette said every courtesy will be extended to patrons of the fair. Ample parking facilities under lights are provided, Chambliss said.

All nine of the fair's eating stands are occupied by clubs or individuals this year, he noted. A fireworks display will be held each night during the week except Saturday and midweek races are to be staged on Thursday and Saturday nights at 8:30. There will be no charge for the races but an extra dime will be charged at the main gate on those nights.

Chambliss pointed out that the attendance goal this year is 50,000. All judging of exhibits will be on Tuesday and the livestock and swine show will start at one o'clock on Tuesday.

New Air Force Jets Unveiled

EGLEIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. —The Air Force yesterday took the wraps off the new F102A jet fighter interceptor, making its first public demonstration in flight before a select audience of 5,500.

The delta-winged F102A, "primarily a guided missile platform," was a star of an aerial firepower show at this air proving ground. Operational planes including the B47 medium and B52 intercontinental bombers also performed.

The demonstration was attended by invited military, business, professional and political leaders of this country, and military observers from Great Britain, Canada and South America.

Shown on the ground was the needle-nosed F104A Starfighter, believed to be possibly capable of twice the speed of sound. At sea level the speed of sound is 760 m.p.h.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, who attended the demonstration, described the Starfighter as "the most advanced plane of its type ever developed."

The F102A looks like a tapered stove pipe with a blister for the pilot and razor sharp wings that measure only 7 1/2 feet from wing tip to fuselage. It is 54 feet, nine inches long.

The Starfighter begins cold weather tests in Eglin's climatic hangar today.

The F102A, built by Convair, is designed for interceptions at altitudes of more than 50,000 feet. It was joined in rocket and gunnery demonstrations by two other supersonic fighters, the F100 Super Sabre and the new F101 Voodoo.

Meet To Decide Tobacco Holiday

RALEIGH —A meeting here tonight will determine whether flue-cured tobacco markets in the Carolinas and Virginia will operate only three days this week, taking a holiday Thursday and Friday.

The sales committee of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., which declared the holiday last week, will meet to review its action at the request of the North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt Warehouse Assn.

George A. Myers Jr., president of the Old Belt group, said he thinks the holiday is not needed on that belt.

"General deterioration in market conditions" was cited in the announcement of the two-day halt in sales. The holiday would give buying companies a chance to clear leaf through redrying plants.

Here's a review of prices:

South Carolina - Border North Carolina Belt—Season's average $53.34 per hundred pounds; last week's average $49.16, a drop of $1.82 from the previous week. By states, the average last week was South Carolina $45.83, North Carolina $51.70.

North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt—Season's average $50.06; last week's $49.96, a drop of 27 cents from the previous week. The average by states last week was Virginia $52.07, North Carolina $47.57, Eastern North Carolina Belt—Average for the season $52.19; average last week $51.95, a decline of 71 cents from the week before. About 31 per cent of sales last week went under government price supports, the largest percentage this year.

North Carolina Middle Belt—Season's average $52.19; last week's average $50.88, down $1.77 from the week before.

Building In City Nears Old Record

The year 1956 has become the second highest year in total valuation of new construction with still three months to go before final figures are in.

Building Inspector George Gardner reported today that at the end of September the total value of new construction authorized within the city limits had reached a total of $2,027,300.

Thus 1956 is exceeded only by last year's total of $2,729,800.

Third highest year was 1950 when new construction authorized within the city limits was valued at $1,984,200. Through September 32 dwellings had been authorized with a value of $1,459,100 and 23 commercial buildings had been authorized by the building inspector with a value of $568,200. In addition 32 permits for alterations have been issued with a total value of $114,150.

For the month of September the construction of two dwellings was approved with a value of $22,000. Three commercial buildings valued at $174,000 received the building inspector's approval.

Thus new construction for the month totalled $196,000.

There were also five alterations approved during the month. The cost is estimated at $13,850.

Pitt Has Its Seventeenth Highway Fatality Of 1956

Pitt County chalked up another highway fatality during the week-end and the total killed on the county's highways during 1956 moved to 17. That is only one below the all-time record for Pitt.

Killed yesterday afternoon was Refes Boyd, Negro, of Washington, N. C. Rt. 1. He died of a broken neck and a crushed chest when the car which he was operating went out of control and overturned about one mile south of Grimesland on the Black Jack Road.

Investigating Patrolman J. B. Surles said the accident occurred about 3 p. m. He quoted William Daniels, 22-year-old Negro of Grimesland Rt. 1, who was riding with Boyd when the accident occurred, as saying Boyd had slipped off the steering wheel and the car went out of control. Daniels was uninjured in the crash.

The car overturned and came to rest upside down in the yard of a farm home along the rural paved road.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson assisted in the investigation of the death in the absence of Coroner Griffin H. Rouse who is ill. The sheriff said that on the basis of his investigation he did not believe an inquest will be necessary.

The Clerk of Court will appoint a coroner to act in the case.

Also assisting in the investigation were Patrol Cpl. C. E. Whitfield and Ptl. D. E. Perry.

Two other weekend accident victims were in serious condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning. The two were identified by Ptl. Surles who investigated, as Boston Vines, Jr., 22, Negro, of Greenville Rt. 4 and John Walter Williams, 25-year-old Negro of Fountain Rt. 1. The car in which the two were riding went out of control four miles north of Farmville on the Bruce Rd. and crashed into a utilities pole.

Both men were unconscious when they were brought to Pitt Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred around 11:55 p. m. Saturday night.

Patrol Cpl. Whitfield this morning expressed the opinion that Pitt County would set a new fatality record this year.

Eighteen persons have been killed on the county's highways during the three previous years, including last year.

Whitfield pointed out that "we are headed into the worst season" as far as traffic accidents are concerned.

"There have always been as high as three to five fatalities during the last few months of the year," he pointed out.

Two more traffic deaths will set a record for Pitt County.

Patrolman Surles, who was left standing in the highway, hitched a ride with a hunter in the area and was brought back to Greenville.

There were also five alterations approved during the month. The cost is estimated at $13,850.

Chest Drive Reported At 'Satisfactory' Pace

Greenville Community Chest officials reported today the fundraising campaign moving at a satisfactory pace as the annual campaign entered its second and final week.

General Chairman Ben L. Rouse reminded solicitors of the various divisions that the campaign is to end Saturday and urged all solicitors to make their reports as soon as possible.

W. H. Watson, chairman of the special gifts section and co-chairman of the general campaign, said a few final reports from solicitors have been received, but the majority of the reports are not expected until tomorrow.

"From the reports we have had," Rouse said, "the campaign for Community Chest funds seems to be going well in all the various divisions. We have not yet received a final report from any of the divisions. I would like again to urge all the people of Greenville to make their contributions to the Community Chest during this week in order that the drive may be completed."

"Our goal this year is $14,875 and unless this goal is reached during this campaign the board of directors of the Community Chest have voted to disband the organization. This course would mean that the eight agencies, which look to the Chest for funds to finance their operations would have to sponsor their own drives or do without funds," Rouse added.

All the phases of the campaign now are in full progress and solicitors are contacting citizens for donations.

The new chapter plan instituted in the campaign this year is headed by Milton C. Williamson; Mrs. Robert Forney and Mrs. Kenneth Harris are heading the house to house canvass; W. W. Speight is chairman of solicitations among the attorney's of Greenville and Dr. E. W. Larkin and Dr. M. W. Aldridge are co-chairmen of solicitations among physicians and dentists.

The college division of the campaign is being headed by Dr. John D. Messick and the city schools division by O. E. Dowd. Jim Taylor is in charge of the chain store solicitations and Leonard Bloxam is chairman of solicitations among city employees. Leroy Barnes is chairman of the Negro division of the campaign.

Gambling Raids Picked Up Seven

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS —Men and police arrested seven men in simultaneous gambling raids Saturday on the Gridiron Grill in Greensboro and the Carolina Soda Shop in Burlington shortly before the World Series and college football games.

In Burlington, a Treasury agent said he took bets by telephone while the raid was in progress.

In Greensboro, officers said they found a garbage can with a false bottom containing football cards.

Two men were arrested in Greensboro and five in Burlington, all on charges of violating federal wagering tax laws and accepting bets without purchasing federal gambling tax stamps.

The agents said they seized a large amount of cash from the two men arrested in Greensboro, Henry E. Loman, 40, operator of the Gridiron Grill, and Edward Black, also 40.

They were released in bond of $3,000 each.

Also released in bond pending federal court trial were these five men arrested in Burlington: Robert Presnell McLeod, released in $1,500 bond, and William M. Hollifield, Rufus B. Miller, Ralph S. Smith and Lea K. Isley, released in bond of $500 each.

Authorities said the seven would be tried at an early term of court.

Long Chase Netted Car, Driver, Liquor

A 29-year-old Beaufort County man was released Sunday, under $1,000 bond after being arrested following a high-speed liquor chase Saturday night.

Haywood Dail Mills, f Route 1, Blounts Creek, was arrested after a 40-mile chase and charged with possession and transporting 132 gallons of non-tax-paid liquor, speeding in excess of 85 miles an hour, failure to stop for a siren failure to stop for three stop signs, and reckless driving. He was arrested by newly assigned Patrolman Alfred S. Harris after a 40-mile chase over rural roads in Pitt and Beaufort counties.

Harris said he and Patrolman J. B. Surles were issuing a traffic citation to a motorist when Mills approached them in a pick-up truck. When he saw the officers, Mills put his truck in reverse and began backing away at a high rate of speed, according to Harris.

Harris raced to the patrol car and took off in pursuit of the truck. He left Surles standing in the highway to begin the chase which carried him over rural roads in Pitt and Beaufort counties.

The patrolman had little idea where he was during most of the chase since he had been assigned here only last week but he got some help from Patrol Sgt. Bill Clagon of Washington who came into view as the two approached an intersection. Clagon joined the chase which ended when Mills slowed his truck, jumped out and started running. Harris stopped his own vehicle, took out after Mills and caught him after a short chase.

The confiscated pick-up truck was carrying 22 cases of non-tax-paid liquor and was registered in the name of Mrs. Vera Mills of Route 1, Blounts Creek.

Mills was lodged in Pitt County jail and spent Saturday night and Sunday there.

Patrolman Surles, who was left standing in the highway, hitched a ride with a hunter in the area and was brought back to Greenville.

There were also five alterations approved during the month. The cost is estimated at $13,850.

The dream of oil in Eastern North Carolina will no doubt in the near future develop into a reality and oil in commercial quantities will be produced here as the result of investigations that have been going on for the past few weeks and the estate of Mrs. Jack L. Westbrook in this city. Specimens of the seepage from flowing wells on the place have been analyzed by the State Department of Agriculture and in a letter to Mrs. Westbrook, State Chemist W. M. Allen stated that mineral oil, having the appearance of Crude oil, as it would come from the ground, was found in the samples, and that he was very much impressed with the results of the examination.

Only Action Will Answer Question

There is a critical question facing all of Eastern North Carolina. It is a question which cannot be answered satisfactorily in words alone. It is a question which must be answered by action.

How critical will the shortage of nurses become in this section?

There is and has been for some time a critical shortage of nurses in this part of the state. Its effects have been felt in Pitt and every other county of the East. As the area strives to improve the medical care it can afford its people, the situation becomes more acute. The outlook for the future appears dim indeed if a school of nursing is not established for Eastern North Carolina.

At the present time in Pitt County there are an estimated 85 graduate nurses in active practice. Thirty-four of these are members of the staff at Pitt Memorial Hospital and another 15 are private duty nurses registered with the hospital staff. It is estimated another 36 registered nurses are working in doctors offices, clinics and with the Health Department throughout the county.

Even with its staff of nurses at the present time, five more nurses are needed at Pitt Memorial Hospital. But they are not available. It would be impossible to accurately estimate how many more nurses could be used in clinics and doctors offices and for caring for patients throughout the county.

Within the next five to 10 years, local hospital officials estimate the number of nurses needed to adequately staff Pitt Memorial Hospital will almost double. It must be assumed that the demand for nurses in clinics and doctors offices as well as nurses for private duty will follow a similar pattern.

Where are these nurses coming from if a school of nursing is not established in this section?

As it is now the schools of nursing in other parts of the state are hard pressed to meet the demand for more nurses in their immediate localities. As the demand increases, the East can hardly expect to get even the number of nurses from these schools it has attracted in past years.

There is another factor which must be considered. Each passing year sees a number of graduate nurses retire from active practice for one reason or another. Some moving to other areas, others getting married or having families, leave vacancies which must be filled by new nurses. As an example of the need for new nurses even to maintain the status quo, Pitt Memorial Hospital has a 20 to 30 per cent turnover in its nursing staff annually to replace nurses who go on an inactive basis for various reasons.

This situation which faces Pitt County is repeated to a greater or lesser degree in every county in Eastern North Carolina. It is quite likely that Pitt, because of its growth as a medical center in recent years, does not have an acute shortage of graduate nurses as many other counties of this section. Even so, the situation which exists in Pitt shows the need for more nurses.

If this section is to have the nurses it needs in years to come, it must have the facilities to train its own nurses. The proposed state-supported school of nursing in conjunction with East Carolina College would form a nucleus which could train nurses not only for active practice in hospitals, clinics, offices and on private duty, but also nurses to serve as instructors in other schools of nursing in the area which could later be established.

Eastern North Carolina is not going to get a state-supported school of nursing by just sitting back and waiting. It is going to take a great deal of effort by a great many people. It is going to take concerted action and political pressure. The end in this case justifies the utilization of these means to their fullest extent.

Without a school of nursing Eastern North Carolina cannot hope for its people to have the calibre medical care they deserve in the years ahead.

Some 'Concern' By Firing-Line Demos

By LYNN NISBET

THE GAME — There is some concern among active Democrats at county and precinct levels about whether Governor Hodges understands the game of practical politics as well as many of his big decisions would indicate.

Nearly every speech that was made during the first week of caravan tour paraded party loyalty. Governor Hodges, John Larkins, Edwin Gill and others emphasized that it is impossible to vote for a man without endorsing his political party under the American system of government. They have pleaded earnestly and eloquently for full support of the entire Democratic ticket. Many times it has been said that there should be sympathy, perhaps, but no criticism of Republicans who believe in that party. There should be severe criticism and no sympathy for those who try to play both ends against the middle.

The game of politics is played largely by rules which recognize the Jacksonian philosophy that "to the victors belong the spoils." That means simply that the people who put energy and money into a campaign and win are entitled the jobs and offices in government. Civil service protection for many government employees, and the increasing demand for scientifically trained personnel have combined to greatly reduce the number of patronage positions.

There are still enough such places in both State and Federal governments to afford inducement for effort. The inducement is less attractive in face of so much talk about putting more business methods in government, selecting employees solely on basis of efficiency without any regard to political activity or affiliation.

PAY OFF — The men and women on the front firing line of politics, the precinct workers who are always appealed to at election time to get out and set the votes, are realistic. It is no evidence of lack of integrity or patriotism that they believe they should be paid for time and services—either in money or in jobs. They see nothing at all wrong with charging a candidate or a party the same amount they would receive for comparable work for a dry cleaning plant or a textile mill.

The line of demarcation between government offering concessions for loyalty and business offering special consideration to desirable customers is very fine. When a new group of stockholders acquires control of a bank or a railroad there is usually a substantial turnover in personnel. Some thing happens when the voters change government administrations. Thousands of Republicans are still sore because the jobs they felt they had a right to expect from the Eisenhower administration have not been forthcoming. That is one reason the rank and file of Republican voters are not as enthusiastic as they were four years ago.

Some of the Democratic county chairmen and precinct leaders in North Carolina are fearful they cannot retain leadership for themselves, perhaps not even for the party, without being able to promise something for the efforts of the voters.

Whether this attitude is right or wrong is of no concern for purpose of this report. It does prevail to considerable extent, especially in counties which are almost equally divided in party strength or between factions in one party.

WEATHER LUCK — Joe Dorton's luck still holds, and in this instance gave comfort to the politicians. Democrats and Republicans each had schedules big doings, and early in the morning low hanging clouds threatened to rain out some parts of the program. "It won't rain," emphatically stated a long time observer. "This is the big day of Dr. Dorton's Southeastern States Fair, and he's the luckiest man in the world." Just about time for the Democratic rally and for busy hours at the fairgrounds the sun came out.

Democratic leaders were considerably ruffled with WBTV. The television folks gave a great deal of attention to Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, and main speaker at the Republican rally. The welcoming reception was staged at the TV studio and the big meeting was at the same building—dresses better than the average movie star, and collects expensive Louis XIV furniture. What else could a girl ask for—except maybe a decorative husband?

"I'm in no hurry for one," said Joan, a tall, slender, blue-eyed girl with blonde-tipped brunette hair. "Right now I like my life as it is."

Business Today

More Business Predictions

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more business predictions, based on analyses of developing trends, plus a sprinkling of advance information:

Pork prices will go higher this winter. Farmers are selling heavily now, reducing future supplies. There will be less than last winter.

You'll see a spurge of advertising for canned apple products. What's more, the advertisements will be by a steel company—Jones and Laughlin. The big idea: to sell more steel for cans.

Tuna and sardines may cost more. The Maine sardine catch was disappointing. California tuna packers, with higher costs, may be forced to raise prices despite competition of cheaper Japanese tuna.

BANK'S PROFITS RISING — Bank earnings may set a new record this quarter. Reports now coming in indicate a new third-quarter record; present and expected volume of business is likely to push profits even higher. Expect more imported toys this year. Germany, Japan and Great Britain, bidding for a share of almost incredible American toy market, have been pouring in more toys than ever. Some are darned clever.

A man-made fur boom may be launched. Fur sales haven't been high up and many leaders in the industry are talking up an idea for an industry-wide campaign on a large scale—perhaps at $1,000,000 a year.

Count on a seessaw stock market until after election. Most professional traders expect more sharp ups and downs until early November. It's a kind of market nonprofessionals ought to stay out of, but the market itself is being made by nonpros who are adjusting their holdings to ideas of the election will turn out.

GROCERY STORE SPECTACULAR — A dramatic lesson in economics is in the works. A segment of the food industry is preparing a stunt that will drive home the point that profits are only 1 cent per dollar of sales.

Milk may cost more. Pressures for higher pay are developing among delivery men and other dairy employees; wage boosts will be reflected immediately in prices.

There are good vacuum cleaning new models are speeding obsolescence of many older machines; orders on hand by one manufacturer indicate a 25 per cent rise in sales between now and Christmas.

Home improvement campaigns will continue. The 1956 drive by the Operation Home Improvement committee was so successful sponsors will keep it going another year; two dozen additional makers of home-improvement materials are putting up money to further the drive.

NOTE FOR ADVERTISING COPY WRITERS — It's not "rock and roll," nor "rock & roll," nor "Rock 'N Roll," nor "rock an' roll."

Both the Associated Press and The New York Times, those arbiters of what's literarily right, have decided that it's rock 'n' roll. No quotation marks. No hyphens. No capital R's. And two apostrophes.

On Guard In Buying That Land

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass. — A few final days of my annual vacation here on the "Island of Cape Ann," including Gloucester and Rockport, convince me that the best investment program is not necessarily to continue yourself in stocks and bonds.

GROWTH OF POPULATION VERSUS BROWTH OF LAND

The population of the United States is constantly increasing. Prices, salaries, and wages are also constantly rising. However, the amount of waterfront will be no greater 200, or even 1,000 years hence than exists today. Stocks and bonds can be manufactured indefinitely by stock dividends, stock splits, spin-offs, and other printing-press methods; but it is impossible to increase waterfront property except by dredging.

The above statement applies not only to ocean frontage but also to river and lake frontage. It also applies to close-by interior property with a direct, short right-of-way to the water. This, however, should be carefully protected by proper deeds and restrictions.

WHERE AND WHEN TO BUY

Although the "field" furthest away looks greenest, such waterfront land in the community in which you live, or on land nearby, is usually the safest. You know the "outs" about such property, which you do not know about other property. Although all such land, including well-located house lots, may be attractive, you will profit most by buying land by the acre before it is sold by the foot.

A local real estate broker might advise buying ocean frontage at high tide from the natives, and selling it at low tide to the summer visitors. But I guess this rule is now outdated! Waterfront property in northern and central states can, however, usually be purchased for less during a winter snowstorm than on a beautiful day in summer! Special bargains can often be secured just before subdivisions, shopping centers, and other real estate developments are to be started.

BEWARE OF LAND THAT HAS BEEN OVERFLOWED

When buying waterfront which you do not have a life-long acquaintance, it is well to learn whether it has ever been flooded. This especially applies to lake or river frontage. The best test of such property is to study the character of the buildings nearby, and the trees, shrubbery, etc. It may even be wise to spend a day studying files of the local newspaper covering the last fifty years.

Although it is safe to build only above and beyond the possibility of destructive floods, yet the national and state governments are constantly working on flood control. Hence, it is reasonable to believe that flooding will be less rather than more in future years. This, however, does not apply to ocean frontage. No means have yet been discovered to eliminate ocean storms and hurricanes, but certain nonerosion work now being carried on by the Norton L. Holden Co. of Lake Wales, Fla., is worthy of careful attention.

OUTBOARD MOTORS AND LAND PRICES

Every new outboard motor should add a penny to the value of waterfront property whether ocean, lake, or river. Outboard motor and aluminum boats have been greatly improved during the past ten years. According to my friend William L. Less of 52 Wall Street, New York, great improvements in these outboard motors are on the drawing boards. He will give you amazing statistics relating to this subject. It is rumored that "solid gasoline" or compressed natural gas (600 cubic feet to 1 cubic foot) may some day be purchased to serve as a three months' supply for the average-size boat.

In contrast to the above, every new automobile sold may detract a penny from the value of interior land. Autos are getting so thick and accidents increasing so that people may some day refrain from using them for recreation—especially if they are advised to remain home Sundays and holidays when the roads are closely patrolled.

Going back to my reference to stocks in the first paragraph of this column, I should add that, in most states, you have no taxes to pay on non-income-paying

Fire Prevention Is No One-Week-A-Year Job

Fire prevention is a 365-day-a-year job. The tremendous task of preventing disastrous fire losses cannot be done in a single week or a single month of the year. It's a year-round job for every family.

The special emphasis given to an annual fire prevention week does, however, play a major part in keeping fire losses at a minimum. During that week every community stresses the importance of removing the more obvious fire hazards in the home and in places of business.

Attention is called to the accumulation of old papers and magazines tucked away in some corner of the attic of basement. Oily rags and inflammable liquids left in unsafe places have a way of becoming more obvious during Fire Prevention Week. So do over-loaded electric circuits and the single outlet with half a dozen plugs.

Fire Prevention Week is the one time of year that the household gives special attention to fire hazards in the home. It is the week that firemen pay personal visits to every business house, not only to look for fire hazards but to orientate themselves on the building layout in case they have to answer a fire call there later.

It is impossible to say how many fires are prevented simply because most citizens give special attention to fire hazards during this one week of the year. It is true, however, that fires are prevented by efforts put forth by individuals during this one week of the year.

What about the fire hazard in your house? Will you do something about it this week?

Third Term? GOP Had Better Be Practical

Why this concern at the moment about a third term for a president?

It seems to us that the Republicans for the next few weeks at least would be more concerned with a second term for President Eisenhower than with the question of whether the country should reconsider its decision that a man should not serve more than two terms as chief executive.

Perhaps the GOP strategists are seeking to install an additional amount of confidence in their party workers by talking of a third term at the present time. Perhaps they are attempting by this move to off-set the rising tide of confidence that is swelling within the Democratic ranks and spilling over into the groups of independent voters which have not yet made up their minds which way to mark the ticket in November.

Whatever the motive, the talk about the third term question appears to us to have come at the wrong time for the Republicans. The question of a third term has been resolved, and in spite of President Eisenhower's opinion, we feel that a wise decision has been made. It will do the Republican candidate no good to bring into the campaign even as a sidelight this additional issue.

The trend of the political tide within recent weeks makes it quite clear that the Republicans had better spend their time worrying about a second term.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE HAVE ONLY ONE SECURITY — Jesus of Nazareth amazed the generation to whom he spoke, and he has been amazing every generation since. His teaching cut through those natural tendencies which greatly influence and many times dominate our actions. In a world where power was worshiped, Jesus preached the gospel of love. To a generation eager to acquire goods, Jesus commended a disregard of such earthly goods, which appears to be utterly impractical. He declared that for a person to enter the kingdom of heaven, he must humble himself and become as a little child.

What is back of all this teaching? Nothing less than the unqualified contention made not only by Jesus but by his predecessors and by the apostles who went forth to preach in his name that God's knowledge is perfect and man's knowledge is practically nothing. The only way we learn anything is by putting aside even what little we know and submitting ourselves to the guidance of God. The child may be irked by discipline and may disobey and rebel, but on the whole childhood looks to parenthood for security and finds its deepest happiness in such security. Likewise, we, weak, ignorant, willful, and self-centered, have to put ourselves and our ideas aside and stand humbly before the sovereignty of God asking for guidance and real power. When we do this, we discover that this sovereign power is love, proposing to do for us more than we have the faith or the courage to request. Our only security is our faith.

Bachelor Girl's Success Story

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Grove could well be the heroine of a Hortense Alger success story.

At 28 she can't cook and is afraid of gas stoves. But she is a vice president in a 12-million-dollar a year firm, earns about $50,000 annually herself, and has a wardrobe containing 125 hats.

She also has her own apartment on Fifth Avenue—Jack Gleason is a neighbor in the same building—dresses better than the average movie star, and collects expensive Louis XIV furniture. What else could a girl ask for—except maybe a decorative husband?

"I'm in no hurry for one," said Joan, a tall, slender, blue-eyed girl with blonde-tipped brunette hair. "Right now I like my life as it is."

Miss Grove, daughter of a Detroit auto engineer, was graduated in 1951 from Michigan State University, where she had studied sociology and psychology.

"I had dreamed of becoming a crusading social worker, spending my life helping the needy," she said, "but after looking into the financial rewards of social work, I decided I'd end up being a needy person myself. So I decided to try the business world."

A newspaper ad changed her career. The ad was placed by Larry Mack, dynamic young president of Slenderella, Inc., who the year before had launched a nationwide chain of salons to help American women improve their figures.

Joan, who has an interesting figure herself 33-24-35, skyrocketed right up with the skyrocketing firm, which last year claims to reduce U.S. women four million inches in girth and three million pounds. This has freed in a crowded land a space equivalent to that taken up by 24,000 women weighing 125 pounds, or the area required to park 2,400 cars.

Last year Miss Grove became the youngest of seven vice presidents of Slenderella, and now supervises about 225 employees in 22 salons ranging from here to Canada.

"I like responsibility," she said frankly. "I have tremendous energy. I couldn't be happy as a housewife sitting around brooding about the price of potatoes." Joan had decided opinions on the role of women as business executives, and doesn't hesitate about stating them.

"In hiring," she said, "I look first of all for sincerity. And I don't find it hard to make decisions. I study the facts in a situation thoroughly, but I depend a lot on intuition also.

"There is a lot of nonsense written about feminine intuition. What is intuition really but a mental judgment based on all your previous experience? You have to heed intuition."

She believes any woman who is well-groomed, intelligent and has a well-balanced personality can succeed in business—and compete with men for top jobs.

"But she should be better dressed than most movie stars," Joan added. "She can't afford to look as casual or disheveled in public as well-say-Marilyn-Monroe sometimes does. If clothes make the man, they are even more important to the business woman."

"I am very fond of hats myself, and believe a woman should have a hat for every mood."

Joan, who has some 125 hats doesn't have any $2.90 moods. Her hats cost from 75 to $125 for a neat ermine bonnet.

"No, I can't cook," she said. "I'm actually afraid to light a gas stove. I don't cook because I do not have the time to learn to do it well. I don't like to do anything unless I can do it well."

Eisenhower Trying To Carry Congress

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Completely confident of his own victory by a slimmer margin than in 1952, President Eisenhower has now pitched his campaign so as to return a Republican majority to Congress, especially in the Senate because of the upper chamber's almost exclusive influence in the conduct of foreign affairs.

Even if he is re-elected, and especially if his plurality falls, he believes that his program for liberalizing and reorienting the Republican Party is destined to "fail" unless he can carry Congress with him. The real test between Eisenhower "moderates" in the Hill and GOP conservatives, the Midwest, former Taft men, will be staged on November 6. He must then show his ability to transfer his strength to fellow-candidates.

IKK NEEDS TO CARRY GOP IN TO POWER It is not only that he will need the votes of Eisenhower Republicans for his legislative proposals at the next session, although that is an important consideration. By sweeping into office men of similar philosophy, he would demonstrate that the voters agree with him rather than with his Party opponents on Capitol Hill.

He must carry the GOP into power, not simply Dwight David Eisenhower. Otherwise, it would be regarded as a personal triumph without any special or long-range significance. Another new factor necessitates election of a sympathetic Legislature. Thanks to the anti-third term amendment, he will enjoy almost no political control over Party dissidents at the next session. As a "big boss," he will be on his way out of politics.

Thus, to remake the GOP basically and permanently, to really rebrand the elephant, he must prove that what's good for the goose is good for the Republican Party now and henceforth.

SENATE, HOUSE CHANCES PRE-

ident Eisenhower appreciates that his chances for returning a Republican Senate are only 50-50 at best, and that prospects are even less bright for a friendly House of Representatives. But his new itinerary has been framed so as to spread his coat-tails for Congressional riders to grab.

To regain possession of the Senate, the Republicans must retain all their seats now at stake, and oust at least two Democrats. In that event, the line-up would be 49-47 in their favor, with Vice-President Nixon as safety man in case of a tie, and again provided that Ike and Dick win. It will be almost a miracle, however, if they accomplish such a Senate upset.

REPUBLICANS IN DANGER Here are the Republican incumbents who stand in gravest jeopardy, according to the politicians' off-the-record tabulations: Senator Preston Bush of Connecticut, Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, Senator George H. Bender of Ohio, Senator Everett McK. Dirksen of Illinois, Senator Herman Welker of Idaho, and Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California.

Here are the states where the GOP-ers believe that they have a chance to displace Democrats or elect Republicans, as well as the opposing candidates: New York, Jacob K. Javits against Mayor Robert F. Wagner; Kentucky, John Sherman Cooper against Governor Lawrence Wetherby; and Thurston B. Morton against Senator Earle C. Clements; Washington, Governor Arthur B. Langlie against Senator Warren B. G Magnuson; Oregon, Douglas McKay against Senator Wayne Morse.

Egyptian Cooks Prove A Hazard

PORT SAID, Egypt. (AP)—American pilots are learning the tricks of the Suez Canal fast, but they are wondering when they are going to see another T-bone steak with baked potatoes.

Most of the five pilots who arrived from the United States a week ago have suffered a digestive disturbance common to newcomers — "gippy tummy." They have become sensitive about food.

Nico Hagens of New York, a veteran sea captain, made an effort to teach his hotel's Egyptian chef how to bake potatoes. But they did not show up on the menu.

Walter A. Equils of New Kensington, Pa., started the American contingent by insisting on minute steaks made from the meat of water buffalo. Most beef used here comes from Sudan and Ethiopia and has a slight "equatorial" taste.

Perhaps the worst sufferer gastronomically is Chester Holland of Newport Beach, Calif.

"I usually drink about a gallon of various vegetable and fruit juices a day at home," Holland said. "So far the only juice I have been able to find here are pineapple and tomato."

None of the American expressed any regrets about their decision to become Suez Canal pilots although some have special problems.

Herbert Gunn of Norwalk, Cal., wants to bring his wife to Egypt but she is studying for a master's degree in psychology in California.

Alex Langtry of Staten Island,

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

N.Y., also wants to bring over his family but is worried because there is no English school in Port Said.

Calls For An End To Nose-Pulling

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Peace Justice W. Marion Hendry told two gentlemen of retirement age to stop pulling each other's nose across a fence.

C. V. Richardson had brought neighbor Ernie Lawson into court on a peace warrant, charging Lawson "always wants to fight me."

"He kept reaching over the fence and pulling my nose," Richardson told the court.

Mrs. Lawson stood up, waved her finger at Richardson and said, "you pulled his nose too."

The magistrate continued the case and told the men to try to adjust their differences.

Most Class 1 railroads in the U.S. have a dual system of pay to equalize salaries between freight crews and passenger trainmen. Freight crew salaries are based on 100 miles of 8 hours; passenger crews on 150 miles or 7 1/2 hours.

Freedom Isn't For Everybody

MOSCOW (AP)—Workers in the Soviet Union may now change their jobs, or quit, on two weeks' notice but this freedom of action does not extend to members of the Communist party.

Party Life, monthly theoretical organ of the party's Central Committee, spelled out the distinction in its "letters to the editor" department.

The Soviet government earlier this year removed wartime labor restrictions forbidding a worker to change jobs without express approval of his employer.

Apparently there has been some question as to how this affects Communist party members. A. Afonin, secretary of the party organization of the Lesogorsk machine tractor station in Leningrad, asked Party Life if the Communist party has the authority to force a party member to stay on the job against his will.

"A Communist can move from one job to another only with the consent of the party organization concerned," the editors replied. "Any violation of this regulation is considered a rude violation of party discipline."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Old Baldy" is a bluff, but a very effective bluff.

The pigeons at Memorial Hall stay away from him like poison. They don't care if he is only a stuffed American eagle. Stuffed or not, Old Baldy is not exactly friendly looking with his giant wings spread and a fierce glare in his steely eyes.

Attendants put Old Baldy on the front of the building when the pigeons were claiming it for their own. The bird had been in retirement for years, possibly since Civil War days.

"He's doing a good job," said a janitor. "When the pigeons see him, they don't land. If they land before they see him, they take off like jets."

U. S. Navy Band Will Be In Entertainment Series

The United States Navy Band will open the 1956-1957 Entertainment Series at East Carolina College Monday, October 15, with a concert at 8:15 in the Wright auditorium, Chairman James W. Butler of the college Entertainment Committee has announced.

Eight major events, scheduled from October through April, will be presented on this year's series, he said.

Jeffrey Lynn, stage, television, radio, and screen artist, will appear October 30-November 2 in four performances of "State of the Union." The well-known actor will be cast with members of the East Carolina Playhouse, college dramatic club, and will spend some time on the campus assisting students in staging the play. He will participate in the East Carolina production through courtesy of the American National Theatre and Academy.

Four outstanding music events are included on the Entertainment Series. The Roger Wagner Choral will be presented in concert, Feb. 28; the National Symphony Orchestra, with Dr. Howard Mitchell as conductor and Seymour Lipkin as guest pianist, March 5; Mimi Benzell, Metropolitan opera soprano, April 1; and Carol Glenn, violinist, and Eugene List, pianist, in April on a date still to be announced.

Other events now in the planning stage include the appearance of a guest artist as soloist with the East Carolina Concert Band in its major performance of the year. A nationally known band will be booked to play at a concert-dance, probably in the spring.

Outstanding For Local Teams This Weekend

BOBBY MAYNARD—A 6-foot, 200 pound fullback for East Carolina, helped pace a Pirate attack that upset favored Elon team 19-7, Saturday, at Burlington. Maynard scored one of the three Buccaneer touchdowns and was a constant running threat to the Christians.

MACK ROEBUCK—Handing the play-making duties for Greenville high school this weekend against Selma, Mack Roebuck led his team to a 27-6 victory. Besides doing the Phant passing, punting and signal-calling, Roebuck broke away for a 32-yard touchdown run.

Yankees Capture Two Games To Keep Alive

Sermons Picks Up 118 Yards To Lead

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP)—If the World Series continues at the present pace, with neither team able to win on the road, the Brooklyn Dodgers will repeat as world champions—in seven games.

The series has followed the exact pattern of last year's, only in reverse. New York's 6-2 victory yesterday behind the surprisingly strong pitching of Tom Sturdivant plunged the series into a 2-all deadlock.

Sal Maglie, winner of the opener at Ebbets Field, comes back today for Brooklyn to face Don Larsen, who couldn't hold a 6-0 lead in the second game, also won by the Dodgers. The Yankees won the next two, both at Yankee Stadium.

In 1955, the Yankee won the first two games at home and the Dodgers took the next pair at Ebbets Field. The teams continued to win in their home parks until the final game when Johnny Podres broke the strangle with his brilliant 2-0 victory at Yankee Stadium.

Apparently, a spacious ball park such as Yankee Stadium is not suited to the Dodgers' power, but Ebbets Field is made to order. Except for Duke Snider and Gil Hodges, Dodger hitters are not real long-distance clouters despite their imposing home run record.

In the five series between the two clubs since 1949, Brooklyn hitters have banded 23 home runs in 15 games at Ebbets Field. In 14 games at Yankee Stadium, they've hit only 7, none in the two games this year.

The Yankees have hit 19 in the Stadium and 17 at Ebbets Field in one game less.

Two home runs were hit yesterday — both by the Yankees. Mickey Mantle got his second of the series, a Ruthian 440-footer into the center field bleachers off Ed Roebuck in the sixth inning.

Those runs would have been enough for Sturdivant, who held the Dodgers to six hits, walked as many and struck out seven. His biggest strikeout came in the ninth after the Yankees had scored once, and had him on the ropes with the bases full and only one out.

Yesterday's game was one of the best in the 1956 season.

It was a big win for the Yankees and a bigger one for Sturdivant, a 29-year-old right-hander from Oklahoma City who began his career as an infielder in the Yankee farm system but turned to pitching because as he put it: "I hit only 247 in class B (for Quincy in the Three-I League in 1950)."

Sturdivant, playing deep in left field, couldn't come up fast enough to catch Campy's pop-fly single and a run was home. With the bases still full, Sturdivant struck out Jackson and Gilliam flied out for the third out.

conversion attempt failed. In the second period, the Green defensive team dominated play, holding the Selma crew to very little gained yardage. Both teams battled back and forth on line smashes until the Phants finally got a march started. Moving down to within the 10 yard line, Robin Wilfong finally crashed over for the third Phantom touchdown on the night. He plunged eight yards through the center of the line for the TD. The extra point was good and the score stood 20-0 at the half.

The victory was Greenville's second against three defeats, and was a non-conference tilt. Offensive standouts for the triumphant Green outfit, were halfback Billy Sermons, who galloped for a total of 118 yards and scored the first Phantom touchdown on a 40-yard jaunt; Mack Roebuck, quarterback who also scored, handled the team well as a play-maker, and was the most obviously effective blocker on the field; halfbacks Robert Howell and Jimmy Kelly, who turned in sterling performances with good blocking and running.

After only minutes had elapsed in the opening quarter, All-Northeastern Conference back Billy Sermons took a handoff from Roebuck and zoomed around his own right end, through the Selma secondary, for 40 yards and the first score of the night. The extra point was good and the score was 7-0.

Greenville kicked off and took the ball again on downs, after the Phant forward wall held the visitors. Stopping the Selma offensive cold in the line, were Wade Jordan, Edwin Wilkerson, Angus Duff, Kelly Barnhill and Billy Brown.

The locals pushed forward into deep Selma territory on short, choppy, power plays. Then, Robert Howell took a pitchout and scooted around his left end for 24 yards and a second Phantom score. Throwing the key block that loosed Howell, was Jimmy Kelly. The contest and blocking downfield was impressive.

With a 2-3 record thus far, Phants will put things on the line again next week, as they play host to the Elizabeth City Yellow Jackets for a Northeastern Conference battle.

on three straight plays up the middle to finally get the touchdown from a yard out. Bubba Matthews try for the point was blocked.

After the two teams banged away at each other for the remainder of the first half and almost all of the third quarter, the Pirates got the ball on their own 17 and took off again. James Speight was the big gun in the drive with runs of 17 and 42 yards, the 42-yarder coming on the play after his 17-yard scamper was called by a penalty.

The 42-yard run put the ball on the Elon 24 where Maynard and Perry took over to move it to the eight. Mattocks went for three more to the five where the Pirates were faced with a fourth down, three-to-go situation. Mattocks called for a field goal attempt by Matthews instead of trying to go through the line.

Matthews' kick was a low kick which an Elon back stopped and then threw away. Three or four Pirates took after the ball and one of them recovered on the one. Speight blasted over tackle for the TD and Matthews kicked the point.

Elon roared back with the ensuing kickoff to go 32 yards for their score. Dick Smith, Bob Stauffenberg, and Harry Faust paced the march with Smith scoring from a yard out on a quarterback sneak. Ronnie Kinsley kicked the point.

Most of the game was played in a heavy fog that kept the players from seeing from one end of the field to the other until late in the third quarter when it started to lift. By the time the game ended the fog was all gone and so were most of Elon's hopes of out-running Lenoir-Rhyne and Catawba for the championship.

North State Is Watching Bears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North State Conference football coaches eyed the onrushing steambroller of Lenoir Rhyne today, wondering which of their members can stop the mighty Bears.

Lenoir Rhyne played its first conference game of the season Saturday, swamping Appalachian 32-0. This Saturday the Bears face Guilford, one of the bottom clubs of the league. After that they have conference tilts with Western Carolina, East Carolina, Elon and Catawba, with a non-conference game with Emory and Henry Oct. 27 breaking the lineup.

Catawba, with victories in both of its conference games, appears the strongest foe. The big Catawba team took a 7-0 win over WCC Saturday night in a game played in a light rain and a heavy fog.

Other Saturday results saw East Carolina surprise Elon 19-7 and Hampden-Sydney stop Guilford 27-19.

Lenoir Rhyne now is unbeaten in 14 straight games and has an 11-game streak going after an early season tie with Newberry last year.

The Bears' ace fullback, Harold Bullard, hit his stride Saturday against Appalachian, racking up 136 yards in 17 rushes. He also scored two touchdowns. Another powerful Lenoir Rhyne runner, halfback Walt Cornwell, scored once.

Catawba drove 41 yards in the second quarter for its touchdown with quarterback Lou Biacchi going over from the one. Biacchi left the game in the second half with an injured leg. Lenoir Rhyne end Blythe Gabriel also broke his hand.

In Midget football played last week in Greenville, the Whites defeated the Reds 6-0 in a tight defensive struggle.

Both teams fought back and forth during the first half, punting frequently. Neither scored during the first two periods.

In the third quarter, the Whites connected on a 30-yard touchdown pass to Jackie Merwin for the extra point attempt was no good.

For the Whites, Cox, Sterling and Cozart were the defensive standouts, while Merwin did most of the offensive gaining.

CHAPTER 16

Dottie's sister was smiling at me. Now that she had told me, I could see the resemblance between her and her sister. In a few years, if Dottie didn't heed the scales, she would be a chubby, overflowing bundle of sugar and spice like her older sister. Then I realized she had been speaking to me.

"I'm sorry," I said. "What did you say?"

Dottie's sister said, "Jack." She pointed toward the door.

"Here he is," she said. "Back again."

I looked, and there he was, back again. He was walking around the front of a black, two-door sedan. He had a raincoat over his arm. He came into the store and grinned at Dottie's sister; I could tell he liked her.

"Louise," he said, "I found Phil's raincoat in the car. He might need it tomorrow."

"Thanks, Jack." She took the coat from him. "That was thoughtful of you."

"Sure," he said. "I'm thoughtful who had come snooping around, minding their business.

His face wasn't pleasant anymore. His lips thinned into a hard, tough line. His eyes turned frigid. He looked like a kid who was handy with a switch blade and proud of it. He didn't like me at all. His attitude started the frigid churning inside me.

Louise was saying, "She went to grade school with you, she's been telling me. Grade school!"

"Why, sure, yes!" Jack said. His voice was hearty, playing the big reunion, but his eyes were still frozen. "Sure, little Hester Frost! You sat beside me in Miss Koehler's room. What happened to you?"

"Whatever happened to Miss Koehler?" I asked.

"Say, do you remember Archie Hall?"

"That stinker? Well, it's been well seeing you again, Jack. I'll be running along now . . ."

I started for the door. His hand was around my right arm, just above the elbow. I had no idea dancing teachers were so strong. This was painful.

"What's the rush?" he said. "Let's have a drink down the street . . . for old time's sake."

"Thanks . . . but no."

"Go ahead, honey," Louise said. "It's all right. Dottie's not the jealous type."

"No, really . . . I'm late."

"I'll drive you there," Jack said. "Wherever it is."

"Don't bother, I . . ."

"I'll be a pleasure."

He steered me forcibly toward the door.

"Drop in again, Hester," Louise called after us. "This has been fun."

Jack Walston pulled me into the front seat of the car. He flicked on the headlights and started the motor, his right hand still on my wrist. I never had liked one-arm drivers; I hated this one. At the first corner he turned right. He stopped, parked in the middle of the block. He let go of my wrist. He swung his body around under the steering wheel to face me.

He said, "Hester Frost . . . is that your real name?"

"Of course."

He was silent for a moment.

"You got yourself a job teaching at Crescent . . . the morning after the murder. You got Anita Farrell's job. Coincidence, isn't it?"

"Somebody had to take her place," I said.

"But then you start prying into other people's affairs . . . why?"

I didn't answer him; I couldn't. Again he said, "Why?"

I heard myself babbling something about being a special investigator for the police . . . that the cops wanted to know why he was so interested in Anita Farrell's apartment . . . that if he'd answer a few questions I might consider giving him a break.

He was laughing at me. He wasn't making any noise, but he was laughing.

"Hiya, Blondie," he said. "You're cute."

"Mata," he said. "Mata Hari."

"You answer my questions and I'll let you go."

"You'll let me go?" he asked quietly. "Look, you don't have me. I have you."

"Let's put it this way . . . we have each other."

He said, "Your hands are shaking."

I clenched my hands together, tight.

He said, "They should be shaking. I have a very vicious streak in me. I fight people who bother me . . . and Dottie."

With one of my shaking hands, I jammed down the door handle, shoved against the door with my shoulder. He grabbed a me and missed. I was out on the sidewalk. He got out the door on his side and started around the hood of the car toward me.

I scrambled back into the car, got the door closed and locked.

I lurched across the seat and locked the other door just in time. I turned on the ignition, stepped on the starter. He was shaking the door handle.

The car lurched forward and sent him sprawling. As I turned the nearest corner, I saw him in the rear view mirror. He was on his feet again, his hands on his hips, watching me disappear.

I had got away from Jack Walston. I had learned a thing or two about him and Dottie Hari. I was doing better this evening than I had all day. But I didn't feel better for it.

The Barton family was going rapidly to seed. Mr. Barton was the Walzter, that maniac killer that the police of the world's largest city were seeking. Mrs. Barton was, at the moment, driving the streets of Kew Gardens in a car she had stolen.

I abandoned it at the subway station. I parked it within sight of an honest looking cop and headed for home. I didn't duck under the turnstile. I paid my fare and

WHAT IS YOUR REASON FOR BALDNESS?

All Merrill Clients in the vicinity of Greenville, North Carolina, are invited to appear at Proctor Hotel, on Wednesday only, October 10, 12 noon until 9 p.m. These private individual re-examinations are free of charge and are a part of the established service to our Clients.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 27—In an interview here today, G. O. Abbott, international hair and scalp consultant and Director of Merrill Hair & Scalp Consultants, said: "There are many different scalp conditions that may cause men and women to lose their hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so called cure-all can correct all these different conditions," he explained.

READ WHAT A FEW OF THE MANY SATISFIED CLIENTS HAVE SAID ABOUT MERRILL HOME TREATMENT IN THEIR UNSOLICITED REPORTS: THERE ARE MANY MORE IN OUR FILES:

After using your course of treatment I am happy to report scalp is free of dandruff and does not itch at any time—my hair has more life and also my hair is growing in all areas including the top crown which was balding. You may feel free to use me as a reference at any time.

I believe your products for the treatment of the scalp are the best. My scalp has never felt as good as it has since I started using the Merrill treatment. It is twenty years that I have been bald so I don't expect miracles, but my hair has thickened and come in somewhat. I only wish I had known of your treatments years ago. My supply of products is nearly gone, so I will re-order soon.

Found Soil Test Was Necessary

OXFORD - "It pays to have your soil tested," according to Granville County Agent C. V. Morgan. He says John Long, Route 3, Kittrell, cleared about 100 acres of hybrid corn on the land this year, and used a good high-quality fertilizer. Even by using these good practices, Morgan says, he will still more than get his seed back, because of a deficiency in phosphate.

New FFA Members Initiated Into Club

By ANNE HARRIS Belvoir-Falkland Reporter Basketball season is here again! The BFHS boys had their first official practice Tuesday night, and the girls' first session was Wednesday afternoon. Both teams are practicing in the high school gymnasium.

Sixteen new members of the Future Farmers of America were initiated into the club during the past week. Highlight of the initiation was October 1 when the boys went through the school day with their pants legs rolled up, shirts on backward, wearing lipstick, and similar initiation stunts.

At a regular meeting of the club October 2, the members made further plans for attending the State Fair and a committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of sponsoring a dance. President Donald Wooten presided over the meeting.

Group pictures of the various clubs were taken Wednesday by Mrs. Thelma Switzer, our Senior Class advisor. The pictures are to be used in the yearbook, for which Mrs. Switzer is also advisor.

The Juniors sponsored their second dance of the year Sept. 29 in the Falkland Community Building with a large crowd attending.

One wall of the building was decorated with a blue crepe paper sky with silver stars and a silver moon. Green myrtle bushes beneath the artificial sky gave the effect of an horizon. Door corners and the serving window were decorated with blue crepe paper rosettes with a star twinkling from the center. The serving window also had a dainty arrangement of blue and yellow wild flowers and th. refreshment table was decorated with an arrangement of roses which added to the aroma from cakes and candy which were sold throughout the evening.

Mrs. Lou Nelson, Junior advisor, was chaperone.

Lois James and Charles Whitley have been selected as Senior mascots. They were picket at a meet-

Firemen today began touring local business and industrial buildings to point out fire hazards and familiarize themselves with the structure.

Fire Chief George Gardner said off duty firemen will be making the tours during this week.

The inspection trips are a part of the local observance of Fire Prevention Week which is being sponsored jointly by the Fire Department and the Chamber of Commerce.

Not only will the city's 17 paid firemen point out fire hazards to occupants of buildings but they will also note the location of entrances and sky lights. That will prove helpful in case of fire in the buildings, the chief said.
