Yankees Take 9-0 Win Behind 3-Hit Hurling By Johnny Kucks

BROOKLYN (AP)—The New York Yankees overwhelmed the Dodgers and Don Newcombe with a record-breaking home run assault today and won the World Series, four games to three, with a 9-0 victory.

The Yankees thus duplicated Brooklyn's 1955 feat of winning a seven-game series after losing the first two games. It was the Yanks' 17th World Series victory in 22 attempts since 1921 and their sixth in seven series against Brooklyn.

Berra, who clubbed a bases-loaded homer off Newcombe in the second game, hit over the right field wall the first two times he came to bat against Newk today.

The seven-game series drew a paid attendance of 345,903 with 33,782 fans watching the final game.

The Yankees, who hadn't won a series game in Ebbets Field since Oct. 4, 1933, presented a changed lineup for the final game.

The Leather Coats Star Hoods

AP Newsfeatures THE SPORTS CAR PAD has ushered in a whole new set of fashions for fall and winter. Tops among them are hooded leather coats in all styles.

The leather coat long has been a favorite with sports-minded women of all ages. Now that new tanning techniques make leather a breeze to clean, the vogue is growing by leaps and bounds.

This fall, shops around the country are showing a record crop of leather coats and complete costumes in all styles and colors. The hooded short coat is top choice with the younger set and those who like to ride in open cars. And if it is trimmed in fur it is strictly 1957.

Designer Bonnie Cashin has turned out some hooded leather outfits that are making fashion news all around the country. One is a reversible three-quarter coat in red kidkin lined in racoon, with attached pointed hood. The use of racoon, remembered in college coats of the flapper era, adds new interest to this current fashion. The fur also is used in a hooded cape and as collars on black or brown suede jackets with matching skirts.

Another striking sports outfit consists of a red leather jacket with attached horseblanket plaid hood and skinny pants to match. This is slated for high popularity for campus and winter sports wear.

For girls who take their sports seriously there are black leather coveralls with knit sleeves and hood.

Lakewood Pines Garden Club Has Kinston Judge As Guest

Mrs. L.O. Crawford of 222 Pineview Drive was hostess for the regular meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club on Tuesday morning. Coffee and cinnamon buns were served.

The Crawford living room was festively overflowing with colorful fall flower arrangements brought by more than 27 members to be inspected and discussed by the club's special guest, Mrs. Joe Simone of Kinston.

Mrs. R.P. Heller, president, issued a welcome to the club's newest member, Mrs. Robert Vetter, who will soon make her home on Dogwood Drive.

A report on the erection of caution signs to protect children from motorists in Lakewood Pines was made by Mrs. Robert Vetter. She reported that the city would furnish signs at cost and the community could select the desired speed limit.

The Club voted to appropriate $30.00 for the purchase of signs and it was agreed that a speed limit of 20 miles per hour would probably be most effective.

At the end of the regular meeting, Mrs. Simone, an accredited judge, examined and discussed the arrangements that members had brought.

Although she did not actually judge the arrangements, she displayed each separately, telling how each would be judged and why, and, most important, gave suggestions which would aid in the preparation of arrangements for a bona fide show.

New Industry That Holds Promise

Licensing of Sentinel Insurance Company by the N. C. Department of Insurance yesterday brings one step closer to operation a new home-grown industry for Greenville.

A few months ago, under leadership furnished by several Greenville businessmen, people throughout this section of North Carolina provided some $200,000 in capital and surplus to begin the new insurance company. Now that it has been licensed to do business in North Carolina only a relatively few organizational problems remain to be ironed out in order that the new company may begin its operations as scheduled on January 1.

At the outset, Sentinel Life Insurance company probably will not mean a great deal to the economy of Greenville or surrounding area. So far as the number of people it employs at the outset, it will rank as just another small business. Its impact upon the local economy probably will hardly be discernable as it begins operations.

With its home office in Greenville, however, we must look beyond the initial period. The insurance business in this section of North Carolina has a tremendous growth potential as the economy of the area moves to higher plateaus and the population increases. Like other businesses and industries of the area, Sentinel Life Insurance Company may be expected to share in the growth of the section. As the company grows, the number of people which is required to operate the complicated business will likewise grow. The number of jobs created by this new business and its relative position in the economic life of the community will increase.

Who can say what limitations there are on its potential growth over the years?

The new company is a fine example of what the people of Eastern North Carolina can do on their own initiative to provide themselves with additional businesses, additional jobs and more annual payrolls. Time and again the story is being repeated in communities throughout this section, although the East still has not grasped the enthusiasm for creating home-grown industries that has been evidenced in the Piedmont and Western sections of North Carolina in recent years.

Nevertheless, we of the East are learning and getting the know-how of creating home-grown industries. The rate at which home-grown industries are being established in eastern counties is gradually increasing. It bespeaks of the confidence the people of this section are gaining in their ability to do here what people of other sections of the state have done with success in their own communities.

YDC Demonstrated Political Technique

By LYNN NISBET

YDC — Young Democrats displayed knowledge of political technique in their convention at Winston-Salem which others might envy. For the first time in several years there was a real contest for president and for national committeeman. The contest was mainly along lines of factional division in the whole party. Old designations of conservative and liberal had been outmoded, and for lack of better identification the groups were identified as Hodges and Scott factions.

The rather substantial victory of Steven Nimocks of Fayetteville over Tom Davis of Selma for president does not necessarily mean there were more Hodges than Scott folks in the convention. It means the Nimocks supporters were a little more skillful. They also had the full support of Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, manager of Scott's successful campaign for the Senate in 1954 and recognized as a master strategist in the Scott camp. He could not go back on his fellow townsman.

The much closer race for national committeeman better illustrates the even division of sentiment, and the cross currents of factional support. Candidates Bill Smith of Charlotte and Bill Woods of Winston-Salem had personal following in both factions. The final vote was 406 for Woods, 400 for Smith. Franklin county gets credit for electing Woods. The Franklin delegation passed on the first roll-call. Tabulation of the vote at end of the roll showed a tie of 396 each, with 404 required to elect. On the second call Franklin gave 8 votes to Woods, clinching his election, and the Louisville College club added two more to make the official count 406 to 400 in favor of Woods.

Whatever the motives prompting support of any candidate they were sincere motives of YDC members. None of the visiting and conferences, with high State and party officials, who had materially influenced YDC elections in some other years, was noticed here. The youngsters did their own thinking and choosing.

COMPETITION — Despite competition of mad weather, the world series and the Duke-Tennessee game, attendance at the YDC convention was good. Except at the legislative breakfast Saturday morning.

Only 35 legislators showed up for that occasion—13 incumbents and 22 nominees in the Senate, 22 in the House. The fact that most of the State officials who had been out on the caravan tour were trying to catch up with office work before starting out again this week prevented their attendance.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, perennial master of ceremonies at these breakfasts, Commissioner of Labor Frank Crane and Commissioner of Insurance Charles Gold represented the State official family. Of the Democratic organization personnel only Mrs. B.B. Everett, national committeewoman, and Herron Moore, secretary of the state committee, were on hand. That left the head table about as sparsely filled as the rest of the huge room. Although they recognized the absentees had reasonably good excuses, the YDCers were disappointed.

These breakfasts have been almost as important as the annual banquets, and several times have been the forum from which significant political statements were made. Last year Senator Scott used the occasion to announce his support of Senator Sam Ervin for re-election. This year neither senator showed up, nor any member of their office staffs.

Both senators were on hand for the dinner meeting, and Senator Ervin was facetiously charged by some guests with "grand larceny" for stealing the show with his wit and wisdom. (Regular caravan speaker, have asked reporters not to publish their stories, so they will be new to the next audience.)

BUTLER — The Young Democratic Clubs have accomplished a lot during the past year. They are responsible for bringing to political rallies geographically distributed throughout the state some of the biggest men in the national party. The list includes Paul Butler, national Democratic chairman; Gov. James Folsom of Alabama and Gov. Averill Harriman of New York; Sens. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and John Spaikman of Alabama.

The regular Democratic party organization through its administrative officers has expressed appreciation for this contribution to the overall cause, but also will tell you that YDCers have done a great deal more that does not show up on a clear record to their credit. The younger folks sensed, before the old line leaders, that this year would see a trend back to the Democratic party all along the line. And they stimulated popular interest in partisan activity for all age groups.

POTPOURRI — When Rev. Thomas A. Frazer Jr. included in his prayer opening the convention a petition for divine blessing and guidance of "all political parties", one ardent YDCer said he didn't see why the preacher had to pray for the Republicans.

Reps Kemp Doughton of Allegheny and George Uzzell of Rowan were several times together in impromptu local lobby gatherings. Both are candidates for Speaker of the House in 1957. Doughton is considered the inside track as of now, but prospects are the issue will be carried to the floor of the caucus the night before the General Assembly convenes.

Other Editors Are Saying... Nuclear Pioneering In South

(The Asheville Times) The announcement by four power companies serving the Carolinas and Virginia of the first direct move toward nuclear electricity pioneering in the South is tremendous news for our state and region.

The fact that four separate power companies are uniting forces in a united effort to produce electricity through atomic power has special significance.

It means that while nobody today knows when atomic power may become competitive, private industry is our free capitalistic system will take the lead, and the financial risks, in its development in the world's greatest industrial nation whose requirements for more electric power are increasing at a fantastic rate.

A spokesman for the four companies, emphasizing that the plan is "developmental and not experimental," said the next step will be to find "the best consulting engineers available" to get the project under way. The companies involved are the Duke Power Co., Carolina Power and Light Co., South Carolina Electric and Gas Co., and the Virginia Electric and Power Co. The heads of these concerns

A Career Out Of Fireworks

For 29 years Skippy Hoover has been setting off fireworks at fairs and various festive occasions. He's the man who is making a lot of noise and colored lights at the county fair every night this week.

Late yesterday afternoon he was busily erecting the last of his set pieces for the night's show. Between busy intervals of trying fuses and tying lattice frames to their stands he managed to impart considerable information about his trade.

For instance, arsenic makes the blue light in the firework designs; "red gum" (whatever that is) makes the red colors, and aluminum mixed with red gum makes green.

Little tubes, called "lances" are filled with the desired color material, and all are linked by a fuse that burns at the rate of 60 feet a second... which is pretty fast.

Those shells, which burst into eye-catching patterns high in the night sky, are designed to go up 300 to 500 feet. For about fifteen minutes each evening, here, Hoover has to do a considerable amount of running between shells and set pieces in staging a continuous show.

His biggest worry? "Kids," he says. "It seems they're bound to want to get mixed up with all this stuff," and he waved toward the small maze of explosive materials he was working with.

Needless to say, it's all pretty dangerous stuff for anyone but an expert to handle.

Had he ever had any accidents?

"Yep," he grunted while raising another two-by-four into position. "Been burned several times. 'Bad? Or just burns?' was my query. "Well, I was in the hospital once for four weeks," he answered.

"One of those bombs exploded too close."

Hoover's busy season runs from the last of July to the end of November. The Fireworks Corporation of America, he tells me, has about thirty-five men on the road, traveling from one place to another.

A good display this season is the Ike and Adlai piece.

"I always set off the Republican display first," because they're in the administration," says our expert. "Here in the South you get a few boos. Then I light up the Adlai and donkey piece and draw some cheers. That makes it all fine."

Which goes to show that even the fireworks industry can capitalize on politics.

Winter's Effect On Wines

By ANDREW BOROWIEC PARIS (AP) — Last winter's bitter cold—the most severe to hit Europe in a long time—will be felt many years hence in the world's wine cellars.

But French wine exporters and government experts do not appear particularly alarmed. After all, they say, the French wine industry has survived many bad seasons and this one is not the worst.

No official figures are yet available on this year's crop. A cold, rainy summer delayed the wine harvest about three weeks. It was September sun that finally ripened the grapes and permitted wine growers to start their annual "vendage."

Unofficial estimates, however, say this year's wine production in France will be cut about six or seven million hectoliters—120-140 million U.S. gallons—over one tenth of the country's average output.

The winter's ravages and fear of poor crop had sent wine prices up about 20 per cent earlier in the year. Later, however, expectations of a fair harvest in the Burgundy, Champagne and Alsac regions helped steady the market. Nevertheless, wine prices this year are between 10 to 15 per cent higher.

Hardest hit by snowstorms and frost was the Bordeaux region, largest wine-producing area of France. About a third of the region's vineyards were destroyed. Wine producers admit the quality of this year's Bordeaux will be a "little worse."

It will take at least three years before some winter-ravaged Bordeaux vineyards start producing again. In the meantime, export stocks will not be replaced by Bordeaux wines in the usual quantity. Wine exporters hope to increase shipments from the Champagne and Burgundy regions to offset any Bordeaux shortages.

Although it is said that Champagne and Burgundy suffered comparatively little from last winter's frost, wine growers were disturbed by a government report on Beaujolais—a popular red Burgundy table wine. It said the alcohol content in this year's Beaujolais was very weak and "unless the weather changes, the harvest could be one of the worst in recent years."

French wine exporters are looking to the United States as a "quality wines market of the future."

Strength for the Day

By E.A. L. DOUGLASS HEAVEN

What does the Bible teach about heaven?

The Hebrew word for heaven means "heaved-up things"—the space above us and the accumulated clouds. The New Testament word for heaven is the Greek word "ouranos," which means sky, or air. Later Jewish teaching pictures seven heavens. Paul tells of being caught up, once, into the third heaven (II Cor. 12: 2-4). He called this Paradise, and there he "heard unspeakable words which it is not lawful for a man to utter."

In heaven God's immediate presence is manifested. The redeemed are there. To heaven

Christ ascended after the resurrection, and there he reigns in power. Heaven is pictured in the Bible as a place of peace, joy, and life so abounding that the river of the water of life flows out of the throne of God Himself, and on each side of the river is the tree of life, "bearing twelve manner of fruits, yielding its fruit every month; and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations."

In heaven tears shall be wiped from all eyes, death shall be no more, "neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain any more... And they (the saved) shall see his (God's) face, and his name shall be on their foreheads." Heaven will be a place of eternal light, vibrant living, joy and freedom from all handicaps by which we are bound on earth.

Stevenson Breaks Off Ties With HST

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Adlai E. Stevenson's principal asset in the Presidential campaign is not his self-imposed transformation from an intellectual into an eager and hard-working politician, or the confidence which he has instilled into a Democratic organization that had become lazy and lethargic after twenty years' enjoyment of the political feshpots.

It is the fact that he has broken, quietly but effectively, from Harry S. Truman as completely as if the former President had never held the high office which Stevenson seeks. Although Democratic strategists cannot afford to admit it publicly, they expect that millions of Democrats and independents who voted to get rid of the "mess at Washington" in 1952, will return to the fold on November 6.

Truman's convention opposition to Stevenson's nomination was a godsend, according to this viewpoint. And, although the former President has been permitted to recant and stump for Stevenson, his campaigning is a haphazard thing. His role is secondary to the part which a new generation of Democrats is playing in the Stevenson campaign.

DEAN ACHESON SILENT It is ironic that, although the Democratic nominee concentrates his attack on the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy, Truman's Secretary of State, Dean G. Acheson, has been virtually a silent partner in the Stevenson campaign.

Another Truman Secretary of State, Dean G. Acheson, has been virtually a silent partner in the Stevenson campaign.

ACHESON'S CAMPAIGN ABSENTEE Truman's closest Cabinet confidant, former Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder, is another campaign absentee. In fact, he recently attended a bankers' convention at Washington, but he did not visit Democratic headquarters, and no Stevenson representatives called on him. Voters might recall, if Snyder participated in the Presidential contest, that the Internal Revenue Bureau was shot through with convicted corruptionists during his stay at the Treasury.

Oscar Chapman was the personification of the Roosevelt-Truman-Ickes principle of public power as Truman's Secretary of the Interior. He hopes to return to that office, if Stevenson is elected. But the former Denver lawyer is permitted to serve in his advisory capacity behind the scenes. He was no help to his former fellow Cabinet officer, Brannan, in the Colorado test.

DISAPPOINTED MISSOURI FARMER Although Truman has reversed his attitude toward Stevenson, and is now urging his election, the former President is feeling at this seemingly deliberate neglect, as he has complained, privately and bitterly, over Ike's failure to show any gratitude for favors he received at Truman's hands. In short, the "old Missouri farmer" is a lonely, bitter and disappointed man.

Hearing That Will Affect All

By ELMER ROESSNER

Whoever you are and whatever you do, you have a stake in a hearing that will start in New York City on November 2.

At this hearing a new effort will be made to establish the theory that public utilities are entitled to a profit based on the replacement value—rather than the cost value—of their properties.

The last quarter-century of inflation has increased the replacement value of railroad, telephone, electric and other utility property by billions of dollars.

Therefore, if rates are based on this valuation, utilities will be entitled to vastly higher rates.

The November 2 hearing is of limited direct effect. It will be held by the New York State Public Service Commission to consider an application for fare increases on the Hudson, Harlem and Putnam divisions of the New York Central Railroad. The railroad is using the replacement value theory to support its plea for higher fares.

FAR-REACHING EFFECTS The N. Y. Central is asking for fares that will return 6 per cent on replacement value of property that cost $12,000,000 originally but would cost $50,000,000 to replace.

The idea has been advanced in New York State earlier. The New York Telephone Co. sought a rate rise on a similar theory, but was turned down by the PSC. The Court of Appeals, however, sustained the phone company's argument and ordered a rate-increase, which has not yet been scheduled.

The PSC's decisions in these cases of course will apply only to New York State. Nevertheless, should the PSC grant the increases on the replacement valuation theory, it will have the profit hunger of utilities all over the country. Utilities everywhere will be asking state regulatory bodies to adopt similar conceptions and, eventually, the idea will be pressed on the Federal rate-fixing commissions.

The size of potential rate increases can be imagined only. Railroads, for instance, operate on rights-of-way that were once almost valueless and which are now worth astronomical sums. However, in these instances competitors with trucks and other hauliers will limit rate rises.

IF UP, WHY NOT DOWN? Because the dollar is no longer convertible into gold, the United States faces the constant risk of more inflation. With each twist of inflation replacement costs will rise and the replacement costs become the basis of rates, so will rates rise. Adopting the replacement theory, in fact, will be abandoning one of the checks against further inflation.

However, one question remains: If utilities profits are tied to replacement costs of their facilities, what will happen in event of a recession that reduces replacement costs? Will rates then automatically decline? Or will utilities then seek another base for rates? You get only one guess.

Hitler's Sister Setting Family Record Straight

By WOLF HEYEN
BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (P)—Adolf Hitler's sister said today she is writing her memoirs to set some of the record about her family straight.

"And the readers will forgive me if I abstain from depicting my brother at all costs as wicked character, just for the sake of profit," she told a reporter.

"I must complete these memoirs. I owe it to the memory of my parents to tell the truth. So many distorted stories have been written in the postwar years that I have to set some facts straight about my parents, my youth and my brother."

Paula Hitler, whose name was changed to Paula Wolf on Hitler's orders in 1936, was interviewed at her home in this Alpine resort city.

She said she had been using the name Wolf for some time before 1936 because "I never liked to show off."

"I am a simple woman and I have always lived simply. I never had more than two rooms and a kitchen," the 60-year-old white-haired woman said.

Adolf Hitler probably will be declared dead officially later this month by a Munich court. Miss Wolf said she hoped she will then be allowed to take possession of a trunkful of Hitler keepsakes, including some water color he painted, his World War I decorations and a Nazi party badge. These properties are held by the Bavarian state government.

"I find it disgusting that I have to ask the authorities for these personal keepsakes," she said, "but I hope somebody will handle these matters for me."

Since the war she has lived on a small pension in one room of a drab house here. She said she had been given notice to move out but the tenant who needs the room has agreed she may stay until she has found a new apartment.

"It's the first time in my life that I have been given notice," she sighed, glancing around her simply furnished room. There was no picture of her brother on the walls.

Photos Arrive For Ayden High's Annual

JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON, Ayden School Reporter

The most exciting thing that happened at Ayden High last week, was the arrival of group and individual pictures made some weeks ago by a representative of Delmar Studios. The pictures will be used in the Ayden High annual, "The Wheel." Such expressions as: "My, your pictures are good!" and "Aren't mine awful?" were heard up and down the corridors. The students enjoyed looking at each other's pictures and many were exchanged during the week.

The Executive Council of the Ayden Chapter of Future Business Leaders of America appointed the following committees at a meeting last week: Bulletin Board—Tommy Manning, Evelyn Jones, Mary Allen, Barbara Harris, Liddie Anderson, Career Day—Edward Greene, Fran Cannon, Irene Stancill, Jeannette Loftin; School Savings Program—Jessie McLawhorn, Jayce Stancill, Myrtle Willis, Edna Cannon, Kenneth Greene; Installing New Chapters—Nancy Wingate, Carol McLawhorn, Frances Dorman, Viola Gaskins, Ruth Cavanaugh, Jeannette Harris; Homecoming Float—James Willis, Libbie Thomas, Bonny Rutledge, Henrietta Taylor, Anne Yorke, Jessie Hardee, Jeannette Worthington; and Advertising for Homecoming—Nelson Thomas, Jeannette Loftin, Barbara Harris.

The members of the Ayden Chapter of the National Forensic League made final plans for the N. F. L. Forum to be held at Ayden High School on October 22. Invitations have been mailed to the N. F. L.

naugh: Decorations—Brenda Davis, Tommy Manning, Carl Nobles, Peggy Watkins, Peggy Wingate, Suzanne Taylor, Jeannette Loftin, Sandra McGlohon, Wayland McGlohon; Refreshments—Jeanette Worthington, Sue Sutton, Anne Yorke, Henrietta Taylor; Ice—Tommy Manning, Nelson Cannon; Clean Up—Tommy Edwards, Joe Dunn, Harold Worthington, Carolyn Sumrell, JoAnne Edwards, Mary Ellen Everette, Anne Long; Music—Bob Gagnon.

The Seniors are studying Macbeth. They are planning many interesting projects and exhibits as a part of their study.

Wednesday, Mrs. King, a graduate of Meredith College, spoke to the Seniors and invited guests about the history, poetry, love stories, and short stories found in the Bible. Her interesting and informative talk was enjoyed by all.

Tuesday night, the Ayden High School Chorus had a special practice session, preparing for the choral clinic to be held at East Carolina College during the Northeastern District Teachers Meeting on October 25-26.

The regular meeting of the Ayden P.T.A. will be held on Thursday night, October 11, at 7:30, in the high school auditorium. A prize of ten dollars is to be given to the class with the highest percentage of parents present. Fathers, count two points.

The students in French II have been having a marvelous time the past several days, working on French meals. The students printed the menus in French and brought them to school. Has To Be Right For His Boss

SEATTLE (AP)—John Franco was puzzled by the meticulous care workmen were displaying in putting acoustical material on the ceiling over his bar.

"Why," Franco asked the foreman, "are you being so fussy. It looks all right to me."

"Listen," the foreman replied, "my boss spends most of his time in here. This job has got to be just right."

Getting Shot Is Worth $7,500

PUNTA GORDA, Fla. (P)—Getting shot by mistake for a turkey has proved worth $7,500 to a Miami business man.

A jury awarded that sum last night to Ray Clement, who was hit in the back of the neck by a load of birdshot while hunting in a swamp near here.

The defendant, Douglas Parker, a book store owner of Fort Myers testified he shot Clement, but said Clement's head, decked in a red trimmed hunting cap, bore a great resemblance to a turkey. Clement said he suffered permanent injuries from shot still lodged near his spinal cord.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

I wonder how many other camera fans, beside myself, go along for years using camera equipment under all sorts of conditions without a periodic check or general overhauling? When it comes to my car, however, every couple of weeks the oil, battery, water and tires are checked and every thousand miles the motor gets a tune-up, an oil change and lubricated.

expert appraisal once every couple of years, to put it mildly. Yet it was forcibly brought home to me that I've used an 8 mm magazine movie camera for eleven years and a 2 1/4" x 2 1/4" still camera for seven years without any attention other than its matter-of-fact operation. No wonder I had some trouble with the results from both cameras. And when did I find out? After my vacation, naturally, when the photos couldn't be replaced or retaken.

From the detailed report of an expert repairman it is evident that cameras are in that class of precision instruments that require a few protective precautions and careful handling at all times, and some expert attention to its innards every few years. Even without use, it can collect dust, dirt or moisture so as to impair its operating mechanism.

Magazine movie cameras have been a source of trouble for fans because it depends on almost perfect co-operation of both the camera itself and a separate magazine mechanism which handles the film. The very advantage of instant shooting when the two are linked together makes it imperative that each is operating precisely within its own specified tolerances.

A spokesman for a major manufacturer of film magazines claims that when the movie camera is properly adjusted, less than one magazine out of 200 will fail. When it is not, more magazines fail, depending on the manner in which the camera is out of adjustment as well as the degree it is out.

When a camera is slightly out of adjustment, erratic results may follow. One magazine may give perfect pictures, a second may produce a failure and a third may be partially good. Yet the magazines aren't at fault—it's the camera.

That's because there are minute differences in the different film magazines, even though they are all within the allowable limited tolerances. One may require greater effort to advance film. This would cause a picture failure in the case of a worn pull-down claw. The same claw would work satisfactorily with a magazine in which the film advances easily but when it doesn't, the claw slips out of the perforations without moving the film at all.

"Sometimes a thousandth of an inch variation at a critical measurement may make the difference between good results and failure," said the ex. rt.

However, we must add that film magazines are used, returned, re-filled and reused. That involves a lot of operations that may account for further variations in the magazines that weren't present when they came off the original assembly line.

In view of all that, my movie camera, with its record of eleven years' service, deserves perhaps, a purple heart instead of a dishonorable discharge for its recent performance. It had three partial and two complete casualties in 15 rolls of film. Inspection revealed a bent claw which has been replaced. Its mechanism has been cleaned and lubricated. Its shutter has been refurbished where the protective lacquer was worn off certain critical parts. Now it's back in service, ready to shoot.

My still camera is even more of a veteran. I bought it some 20 years back and last had it checked about seven years ago. It's a compact, folding bellows type camera which springs into position.

On vacation, the infirmities of old age became apparent. It no longer sprang—it had to be urged or pushed into position and even then it didn't seem to stand upright.

An overhauling straightened things out, a new bellows was added and my seeing-eye companion is now back.

All cameras should have leather cases to absorb some of the hard knocks and help keep out some of the dust and dirt. Gadget bags should be turned upside down periodically and thoroughly cleaned. Equipment should be kept out of damp cellars and away from heat.

Unless you've studied camera repairing, never force a part that is jammed or attempt to oil the camera. That's for a specialist. You can make periodic checks for light leaks in bellows, and camera backs. If your pictures start to look fuzzy, make a specific test for rangefinder accuracy by shooting at a brick wall, a billboard or something equally detailed. Keep tabs on your flash batteries by dating them when you get them and keep a sandpaper square handy to freshen the contact on your flash-bulb base.

It takes eternal vigilance, proper maintenance and periodic check-ups by qualified camera service centers to assure consistently high quality on the technical end of your pictures. As for the subject matter—that's another sermon.

WHAT'S NEW? A flash unit with a radically different flatface reflector and a handy flash exposure dial on its back, is now available. The spherical reflector allows a spill-over of light and achieves a "bounce" light quality, it is claimed. The large dial, easy to set, easy to read, provides the proper lens setting at various distances. A deluxe model features a push-button handle and a universal bracket for easy removal when shooting flash off the camera. An extension outlet permits multiple flash firing—up to four units.

Petroleum-Use In N.C. Reaches All-Time High

Petroleum products used by North Carolinians reached an all-time high this year, amounting to more than two billion gallons, or 439 gallons per person, K. H. McCullough, chairman of the North Carolina Oil Industry Information Committee, said today. He noted that this represents a growth of 9 per cent since 1949. McCullough added that the petroleum industry has played an important role in the industrial expansion which has taken place in North Carolina since World War I.

McCullough, Division Sales Manager of Pure Oil Company, Charlotte, based his announcement on a study, "Petroleum's Place in North Carolina's Economy," just released by the American Petroleum Institute. Commenting further on the study, McCullough said that "progressive oil companies, free to compete at every know-how which has made it possible to fill the ever-growing demand for petroleum products."

He said that "the competitive pricing process has made it possible for the oil industry to grow with the growing needs of the public, and to serve them to the fullest in terms of quantities, quality, and the prices of oil products."

As a result of research and product improvement, McCullough pointed out, two gallons of gasoline now do the work of three, yet the price to the consumer remains low. "This is true in spite of the fact that retail gasoline taxes account for 9 cents of the retail price," he said.

According to the study, industrial consumption of petroleum fuels—amounting to 65 million gallons in 1954—has increased by two and a half times since 1949 in North Carolina.

"On the domestic side, nearly 101,000 homes heated by oil burners used over 143 million gallons of heating oil in 1954—almost four times the amount used for this purpose in 1949.

"Farming is an important segment of the state's economy, with tobacco being the most important crop, corn, cotton, livestock, and poultry also contribute to farm income. Over 5,450,000 gallons of motor oil and 184 million gallons of motor fuel were consumed by 182,300 farm automobiles, nearly 86,300 farm trucks, and nearly 125,500 tractors in 1954. In addition, 152 million gallons of liquid petroleum fuels were used by farm households, and for curing and drying of crops, as weed and brush killers, and for brooders."

McCullough noted that the volume of business done by North Carolina's 5,176 service stations, amounting to 245,354,000 dollars in 1954, has grown 75 per cent since 1948. He emphasized that 19 out of every 20 U.S. service stations are independently owned or operated by local businessmen.

According to the API study, about 5,300 men and women make their living in the oil businesses of North Carolina—a growth of 34 per cent above employment in 1949.

McCullough concluded that the 80 million dollars paid in state gasoline taxes by North Carolina consumers helps to fill the state's coffers.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Bill Blackmann Davis Jr. was taking rabies shots today after a bat he preserved in a freezer to show his science class was found to be infected. Davis found the small bat hanging from a tree near his home. It bit him on the right thumb. Davis didn't think about the bite and placed the bat in a jar. It died and the boy preserved it for his class. He sealed the jar and put it in a freezer. Monday the family physician found out about the bite and urged a test. The bat was found to be rabid.

Officers stopped the young drivers and had them open the trunks. Inside one was a tombstone. The other car had two inside. "It gives the car a low-slung look," one 17-year-old driver explained. Police said the stones were taken from a church cemetery. The

The Sports Reflector

By BILLY ARNOLD

Gary Mattocks, East Carolina's new quarterback—that is, new since Dick Cherry dropped out of school—has completely surprised almost everyone with his superb performance against Elon last week and in drills since then.

Coach Jack Boone, however, realized long ago the potential talent of the Southern Pines senior. Said Boone: "Gary has played in the shadow of Cherry for a good while and his abilities as a quarterback were frequently overlooked. Since Cherry left, though Mattocks has improved 100% as a ballplayer."

Ran Well Against Elon

Mattocks was most impressive against Elon last week as a runner, though he is a top-notch passer and punter. Probably the most startling thing about the 5-10 170 pounder's performance against the Christians, was his utter disregard for his own safety.

Modern Day quarterbacks, for the most part, have become somewhat the sheltered individuals, the ones who call plays, throw passes, hand off the ball, and do most of the light, fancy work behind the line of scrimmage. They seldom put themselves in a position to be tackled; in some cases, the coaches demand that they play that way, in order to keep the key man in good condition. But Gary will have none of that style of play.

Against favored Elon, Mattocks did just about as much running as did his halfbacks and fullbacks. One of the most effective plays for the Bucs throughout the game was the quarterback option play, in which Mattocks either ran the ball himself or pitched out to a halfback, depending upon the reaction of the defense. Nine out of 10 times, Mattocks ran the ball himself, taking plenty of bumps and bruises in the process.

Certainly Not Predictable

Though not quite as unpredictable as was Cherry in his earlier days, Mattocks could hardly be called a predictable signal-caller.

He has, at his disposal, a good passing arm (he pitched well against Elon and Catawba) and can kick, and frequently uses his three talents to excellent advantage. With Joe Guess, Bill Helms and Ray Pennington at ends and halfbacks Bobby Perry and Jim Henderson, all good pass receivers, Mattocks is expected to call a wide-open game against Western Carolina this Saturday night at College Stadium.

With Mattocks obviously putting a refreshing spark of life into the 1956 Pirates, the 1-1 North State Conference record posted thus far, could become a threat to Lenoir Rhyne's championship.

New Coach Joining Tatum At Carolina

Secrecy marked the drills for two Southern Conference football teams, West Virginia and The Citadel, as they prepared for tough assignments this Saturday.

For the Mountaineers, tied with South Carolina for 20th in the new Associated Press football poll, it was the first time behind closed gates since they practiced for their opener against Pitt. The charges of Art Lewis dropped that encounter 14-13.

Lewis explained the secrecy surrounding his squad by saying they have "a lot of work to do" before they'll be ready for Syracuse.

For The Citadel, Coach John Sauer said the barred gates were because "we just don't have enough time to get ready for Richmond."

The stress yesterday was on passing and running offenses and defense against Richmond's spread formation in preparation for the Tobacco Festival game at Richmond.

At Williamsburg, Va., the emphasis was on defenses as William and Mary prepped for Saturday's conference game against Virginia Tech. Most of the practice session was spent on pass defense, something Coach Jackie Freeman warned would have to be much better to stop the Gobblers.

Virginia Tech, meanwhile, concentrated on moving its ground attack and then practiced its defense against William and Mary plays.

Richmond underwent an offensive scrimmage, paced by halfbacks Bob Dunington and Mickey Arnsky.

At Virginia Military Institute they keyed held blocking drills and light contact work against the Lehigh defensive system.

Freshman Marvin Starr got off several jump passes while running Wofford plays during Furman's practice session. The linemen did individual contact work.

The defeat that revived Turley's lost faith in his own ability was yesterday's 1-0, 10-inning loss to the Brooklyn Dodgers in the sixth game of the World Series. It made him realize that he still can win in major league competition, something he was beginning to doubt.

Turley was the big man in a multiplayer trade the Yanks negotiated with Baltimore before the 1955 season and he lived up to expectation that season when he won 17 games. But his '56 record dropped to 8-4.

The most important part of the game was that it made me believe in myself again," he said. "I didn't know what was the matter with me all season. I thought maybe I had lost my fast ball and never would have control. But now I know I'm as good as I ever was. I felt real fast, and even my curve was working well. I wasn't bothered by a lack of control and I knew what I was doing all the time."

Robinson's Hit In 10th Ties Series

Weekly Ratings See Wins By Sooners, SMU, Carolina

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS A witness, but apparently improving Tar Heel eleven, how has the benefit of one of Coach Jim Tatum's former staffers who turned to pro football coaching. He is Jack Hennemeir, who worked under Tatum at Maryland, and more recently coached the Calgary team in the Canadian Pro League, returned to his old boss at North Carolina on a "voluntary, informal basis" yesterday.

The Tar Heels take on Georgia of the Southeastern Conference in a homecoming battle at Chapel Hill Saturday.

Tatum told Atlantic Coast Conference writers that Hennemeir came "at my invitation." He added: "I think Jack can help us a lot."

Tatum sent his squad through a full-scale defensive practice without the services of center Ronnie Koes and guard Don Kemper, both potent in defense in early games.

The South Carolina Gamecocks held a long drill that ranged from strengthening pass defenses to a scrimmage. Coach Warren Glesse reported Bob Barrett, hurt in the North Carolina game, and guard Bill Floyd, still recovering from an injury suffered in the Miami game, are on the doubtful list and may not see action in Saturday's game with Virginia.

Coach Ben Martin at Virginia was hopeful at least one of his injured tackles would be ready for the South Carolina game.

Previous games and practices have been rough on Virginia tackles.

Two big junior lettermen, Larson Lawson and John Diehl, were lost before the season opened. Ron Melnik, was put out of action in the Duke game and last week it was Henryavenport.

The Cavaliers brushed up on pass defenses and checked variations of their own pass plays.

Coach Paul Amen of Wake Forest gave the Deacons' aerial offensive—close attention, as the squad went through a long prep session for Clemson.

The Deacons worked until almost dark and the first two units engaged in an offensive scrimmage against freshmen.

The Clemson Tigers scrimmaged for more than an hour but Coach Frank Howard wasn't satisfied with the results. He told his linemen he wanted more general improvement.

"We're going to meet a team Saturday which can run down the middle, around the ends, and right over you. They can pass, too. If you expect to stay undefeated, you're going to have to do better every day, every game," Howard told his squad.

Heavy preparations opened at Duke as the Blue Devils looked to Saturday's homecoming clash with intersectional Southern Methodist. Coach Bill Murray was displeased with the results of a long and bruising workout.

Ace quarterback Sonny Jurgensen was present but did not participate in the drill.

At Maryland, Coach Tommy Mont took time out to defend the performance of quarterback John Fritsch.

Fritsch, a junior from Carnegie, Pa., filled the first string quarterback post of Frank Tamburello who was drafted. Some critics have blamed Fritsch for losses to Syracuse and Baylor.

"I can't find much fault with Fritsch," said Mont. "He has called good games. Our own foolish mistakes have beat us."

The "I" formation was in the spotlight at North Carolina State as reserves tested the Wolfpack defenses in a scrimmage.

The first three units were on defense against the formation as used by Florida State, which plays N.C. State this week.

The squad also worked on covering punts and kickoffs.

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—The home-loving Brooklyn Dodgers were back in business today.

Yesterday's 10-inning 1-0 triumph, featuring a high-tension pitching duel between Clem Labine and Bob Turley, not only squared the World Series at three victories each but made the Dodgers even money to repeat their 1955 success over the New York Yankees.

In the seventh and deciding game, the issue was placed squarely in the hands of Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 27-game-winning veteran, and Johnny Kucks, New York's 18-game-winning sophomore.

This was Newcombe's second series start. The big fellow, who has been accused, justly or unjustly, of not being able to win the big ones, absorbed an awful shellacking in the second game. Newk pitched 1 2-3 innings last Friday and left with an 0-6 deficit after having been racked up for six hits. He was taken off the hook when the Dodgers roared back to outlast the Yankees 13-8. His complete series is 0-3.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees chose Kucks after deliberating between him and southpaw Whitey Ford. He finally decided on the young right-hander rather than risk his ace in "the shooting gallery" that is Ebbets Field.

"The schedule has me this year," Casey moaned. "My left-hander always comes due at Ebbets Field."

Ford pitched the opener, in Ebbets Field, and lasted only three innings, bowing to Sal Maxie 6-3. Kucks has not started a game but he appeared twice in relief, yielding two runs, and three hits in two innings of the first game, and in the second game, he faced one batter, giving up a single to Pee Wee Reese.

Yesterday's game was a scoreless affair until the last batter Jackie Robinson—rocketed a screaming liner over Enos Slaughter's head to score Junior Gilliam from second with two out in the last half of the 10th inning.

Until then, neither Labine nor Turley had permitted a runner to advance beyond second. Labine, pitching the longest game of his major league career, had allowed only seven safeties, no hit longer than a double, walked two and struck out five. Turley pitched the greatest game of his career in defeat. He walked eight, two intentionally, and struck out 11 batters, one more than any other Yankee hurler had fanned in World Series play.

Bullet Bob allowed only four hits, two legitimate and two on the tainted side. The fourth hit sent him down to defeat. It was made in a situation similar to the 26-year-old fireballing right-hander had safely skirted two innings before.

In the last of the eighth, Labine a notoriously weak hitter, opened with a high fly that dropped fair by inches and bounced into the left field seats for a ground rule double. Turley erased the next two batters, issued an intentional pass to the left-handed-hitting Duke Snider and got Robinson to end the inning with an infield popup.

In the 10th Labine popped up, Gilliam walked and Reese sacrificed. Again first base was open and strategy cried for another pass to Snider.

Again Robinson was the batter. Jackie fouled off a pitch and took the next one for a called ball. The third pitch Robinson hit sounded like a shot from a cannon and traveled almost as fast.

The drive completely fooled Enos Slaughter, who started in, and too late, began to backtrack. By that time the zooming ball had shot over his desperately outstretched glove and crashed into the wall directly behind him. There was no use even picking up the ball. It was all over.

For Labine, this marked only his second complete game of the year.

Until the fatal 10th, Labine appeared to have a much tougher

Robinson Wants "One More" Before Leaving

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson, feeling "like a kid again," wants to help Brooklyn win one more National League pennant before pulling down the curtain on his active playing career.

"I feel I've got at least one more good year in these old legs of mine," the superb Negro athlete said after delivering the blow which gave the Dodgers a 10-inning, series-knocking 1-0 victory yesterday in the sixth game of the World Series.

"I want to play one more year. I'm sure I can help them win another pennant. Next year at this time I may feel I'm good for another year. As long as that's the case, it's going to be hard for me to do something softer—like managing."

Robinson is rated top-flight managerial material—although one of his has had a professional team in this country—and his name has popped up as possible manager of Montreal, a Dodger subsidiary.

"Money is not a factor," Jackie said. "I think my wife Rachel would like for me to manage and slow down some. But, to me, I'd be like a fire horse put out to pasture."

Today Robinson is 37. The muscles which made him an all-star athlete at UCLA still ripple over a frame of six feet and 195 pounds. He still has a fierce competitive fire.

Yesterday Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees twice ordered Duke Snider walked to get to Robinson—each time with two out and a Dodger in scoring position at second base. The first time, in the eighth, Jackie popped out to third base. The second time, in the 10th, he lined a hit to left field scoring Junior Gilliam with the run which broke up a sterling pitching duel 1-0.

"The fellows on the bench told me 'They can't get you twice like this,' Jackie and I was pretty confident they couldn't either," Robinson said. And they didn't.

The graying Dodger infielder, completing his 10th season in the majors after becoming the first Negro to cross the barrier, said: "I've slowed up some—a step and a half," he said. "But my legs feel as good as ever. I think my eyes have lost nothing and my coordination is okay. I still have quick reflexes."

"But I have some intangibles. I think they will make me as valuable to the ball club as a player as I was ten years ago."

One of these intangibles, Jackie says, is steadiness under pressure. "I don't worry about situations any more," he said. "Like that situation in this game, I don't go up to the plate tense and dejected. I don't say to myself 'I've got to get a hit. I've got to win the game.'"

"Instead I go up there without a worry or a thought whatsoever. I tell myself I'll do the best I can. If I get a hit, fine. If I don't, why fret? There's another day."

Robinson said this looseness in no way detracted from his desire to win.

The Mormon Church was organized by Joseph Smith in New York state in 1830 before moving to Utah.

Elizabeth City Next Greenville Football Enemy

Fresh from their 27-6 victory over non-conference Selma, Saturday night the Greenville Phantoms will put their record on the line against a Northeastern Conference, here, at College Stadium, Friday.

Elizabeth City, resting comfortably with a 4-1 mark thus far this season, will visit the G-Men for the Phantom Homecoming.

The Yellow Jackets, who were one of the strongest outfits in the loop last season, lost most of their top performers by graduation and can boast only a light but hustling team in 1956. The entire forward wall of last year's Jacket crew (which averaged almost 200 pounds) will be missing, except for Ed and Pete Fearing and tackle Jimmy Wilson. This year's line averages 165.

Coach Honey Johnson's Jacket backfield is rated one of the best in the conference. Back from last year is All-Conference fullback Doug Rogerson and quarterback Nicky Hilgert. Rogerson, however, may not see action against the Phantoms this week, due to an injury suffered last week against Edenton. Claughton Miller, co-captain, will handle one of the halfback slots.

Elizabeth City has played five games thus far, and have taken four of them. Their only loss was a lopsided 40-6 affair to Washington and counted in league standings. They have defeated Roanoke Rapids, Edenton, Roxboro and the Chowan College Jayvees.

Defeat Helped Turley's Hopes

BROOKLYN (AP)—Midway last season, Bob Turley was a discouraged, disillusioned almost-forgone member of the New York Yankees' pitching staff.

But one defeat—yes, defeat—has changed all that and today the 26-year-old right-hander is looking forward to next season with all the confidence in the world.

The defeat that revived Turley's lost faith in his own ability was yesterday's 1-0, 10-inning loss to the Brooklyn Dodgers in the sixth game of the World Series. It made him realize that he still can win in major league competition, something he was beginning to doubt.

Turley was the big man in a multiplayer trade the Yanks negotiated with Baltimore before the 1955 season and he lived up to expectation that season when he won 17 games. But his '56 record dropped to 8-4.

Couple Find 13 Snakes In Home

MUSCLE SHOALS, Ala. (P)—Mr. and Mrs. William Thigpen are recovering from the shock of finding 13 snakes in their home.

Thigpen found the first one while he was mowing the lawn. Then he found one in the bathroom. When he shot another one in the basement, he telephoned for the exterminators.

The exterminating company applied gas after the Thigpens found a place to stay. More snakes came out of hiding to die in the basement.

The snakes were identified as red corn rat snakes, but it does little good to tell the Thigpens they were harmless.

Time To Smile

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—A little girl walked up to M. T. Stark at the parcel post counter.

"Would you please wrap this for me?" she asked.

Stark wrapped it.

"Will you address it for me?" the girl asked.

"Okay, little lady," Stark replied. "What's the address?"

"It's on a slip of paper inside," Stark unwrapped the package, removed the slip of paper, re-wrapped and addressed the bundle.

"That will be 10 cents for mailing, please," he said as he finished tying the knot.

"The money is in the package, mister."

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 12

There seemed to be two doors at the end of the hall. The one on the left was the main one; it had a dainty brass knocker on it. The door on the right side wall had the modest air of a service entrance. It most likely opened into the kitchen. I listened at it first, then I moved past it to the other one and put my ear to the panel beside the brass knocker. Again I listened for the sound of a window pane being raised, footsteps inside, some sign that Steve and I would soon be reunited. But either the door was too thick or Steve was in trouble. I was beginning to wonder how much longer I should wait for him.

Then I heard a sound, but it hadn't come from behind Anita's door.

It had come from behind me.

I started to turn toward it, and there was a sudden rush of motion. I flung back my right hand. It hit something... and something hit me, a walloping blow on the side of my head.

Before I knew anything else, I knew that Steve was with me. I could hear his voice. At first it was far away, very far away, then it came closer and closer. That made me feel some better. When I opened my eyes and saw Steve's face near mine, felt his arms around me, the dimness of my view toward him in Greenwich Village's Rhinebeck Place began to lessen.

"I think I can stand up," I said.

"Take your time."

"I can manage."

With Steve's help, I got to my feet. My surroundings began to register on me. We were in a living room. On the table a lamp was burning.

"Steve!" I said, "the light!"

Someone will see.

"It's all right. There's only a skylight in this room. The window I came through is in the bedroom. Connie, what made you pass out?"

"Pass out? You think I fainted?"

"Well..."

"Steve, somebody knocked me out!" I felt my head; a lump was in its ascendancy. "I got sand-bagged!"

"Who?"

"I don't know. I didn't see him. I just felt him. He came up behind me in the hall."

"He was waiting there in the hall?"

"No, there was no one there."

"Wait."

Steve went through a door. I followed him just far enough to see that he was going into a small kitchen. In a moment he was back.

He said, "There's a service door in there. Someone could have got through it out into the hall. He must have heard me climbing the fence or breaking in the window."

"Yes, he must have been in here. Jack Walston, Wendell Kipp?"

"You think it was a man who hit you?"

"I don't know. When I heard the sound I swung out my arm backwards, like this..." I showed Steve how I had swung, out my arm. "And then..."

I stopped, staring at my right hand. On my glove was a smear of vivid orange lipstick. I looked at Steve.

"It was a woman," I said. "I hit her in the face."

"Dottie Harris?"

"Maybe, but I don't think so. She's so short. I have the feeling it was someone taller."

"Someone else," Steve said slowly. "Dottie Harris, Jack Walston, Wendell Kipp. And now still another person. What is it that's so damned fascinating about this apartment?"

We looked around. The living room took up most of the apartment. It was a large, rather narrow room. The long side wall that held the door to the corridor was lined with waist-high bookshelves, decorated with a series of camera studies of New York City. The opposite end was broken by doors into two bedrooms, one into the kitchen. Between the two bedroom doors was a long, lush modern couch, flanked by modern end tables.

Still examining the room, I sat on the edge of the couch. I needed a little more rest. The end wall to my right was centered by a combination desk and table. To its right was an easy chair, beside it a telephone on a low circular table. The wall at the other end was filled mostly with the giant-sized cabinet of a radio-phonograph. On each side of it was a straight-backed, matching chair. All in all, it was a very pleasant place for a bachelor girl to live.

I looked at Steve and found him staring at the end table at the right of the couch. I stared at it, too. There was a crystal ash tray on it, a cigarette box, a lighter, and that was all... nothing really to stare at. I looked back at Steve. Now his attention was focused on the couch's other end table. It held a lamp, a squat cylinder of pottery with a square wooden base. There was an ash tray, too, and an aluminum dish filled with books of matches.

"Connie," Steve said, "wouldn't you think there'd be a lamp on that table, too?"

"Well, yes," I said. "I guess so. It needs a lamp."

Steve closed in on the table, bent over it.

"Look," he said, "there was a lamp on it."

I looked and I saw the clear shining circle on the table top; the rest of the table's surface was covered with a film of dust.

"That's right. There was a lamp."

He touched the clear circle, then examined his fingers.

"No dust there at all. The lamp's been taken away lately. Maybe even by the person who knocked you out."

"But why? Why would anyone want to steal a lamp?"

"Maybe," Steve said, "she didn't want the lamp. Maybe she wanted something that was inside it. And if she heard me, she wouldn't have had time to get whatever it is out of the lamp. So she took the whole thing. Ripped out the cord and ran."

Steve moved to the other table. "Would you say it's a good bet that the lamps were a pair?"

"Possibly. You can see that the bases were the same size."

Steve removed the shade. It was the kind of lamp where the cord is attached to the bulb socket. He picked it up, tried to unscrew the wooden base from the pottery urn. He succeeded. He lifted the urn off its base.

In the center of the base was a brass spindle. On the spindle were one, two, three reels, about the size of home movie film. Steve slipped one of the reels off the spindle, unwound about a foot of it.

I asked, "Is it a movie film?"

"No."

"What is it then?"

"Recording tape."

"Recording tape... could that be what everybody was looking for?"

"It must have been. And there probably was more of it in that other lamp. We didn't give who ever was in here time enough to get at this one."

"Steve, I'm dying to know what's on that tape."

"I can hardly wait myself."

"There must be a recorder somewhere in the apartment. Let's look around."

"No, I'll pick one up at the of-

Cotton Harvest To Go Over Last Year's Figures

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's 1956 cotton crop is forecast at 365,000 bales, an increase of 14,000 over last year's harvest but 92,000 bales less than the 10-year average.

The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said the forecast is based on reports from growers as of Oct. 1. The yield per acre is estimated at 389 pounds, compared with 350 pounds last year and the 10-year average yield of 321 pounds.

The report stated that with the exception of the rains which accompanied Hurricane Flossy, weather conditions during September were almost ideal for picking cotton. Rains and wind associated with the hurricane damaged the crop in some areas. Yield prospects are much higher in the coastal plain than in the Piedmont. The current yield in the Piedmont was sharply reduced by prolonged dry weather and boll weevils.

TOGETHER?

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Twentieth Century-Fox Studio has disclosed plans to combine the Jayne Mansfield and Elvis Presley assets and talents in a film to be titled "The Love Maniac." It will, says the studio, be a comedy.

Firemen Could Only Stand By

SWAN LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Flames destroyed the frame firehouse and two fire trucks in this Sullivan County village today while volunteer firemen stood by fuming helplessly.

The fire also burned down an empty rooming house.

The flames silenced the automatic fire alarm system. No alarm rang and the volunteer firemen slept on in their homes until it was too late to help.

When the fire was discovered at 5:35 a. m., it was burning fiercely. The frustrated firemen found they couldn't reach their equipment.

The fire also knocked out telephone and power lines. Among those who could not be reached by phone was the fire chief.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Simple Solution, Lower Age Limit

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—The Stanford Daily suggests the problem of under-age students being arrested for drinking in University hangouts could be solved quite simply:

Merely lower the drinking age now 21.

The student newspaper didn't say what the age should be but observed that students were rather mature at 18 or 19.

Four Stanford students have been arrested by state liquor agents in Bistros here in the past two weeks.

Masterpiece Of News Summation

OWENTON, Ky. (AP)—In a masterpiece covering everything from strawberries to mule trading, the Poplar Grove correspondent of the News-Herald summed things up thusly: "Farmers are busy getting their ground in shape for crops. Gardens are late but growing nicely. Fried chicken and fresh strawberries are on the menu in plentiful quantity. However, tobacco plants are not too plentiful. "Work on the road is underway. Bill O'Banion is having an addition built to his barn. Cort Yancey sold his mule, Pete, to Carl Stivers of Squiresville. . ."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market moved ahead a bit early this afternoon but trading was about the same pace as yesterday when volume was the smallest in nearly three years.

Pivotal issues rose from fractions to around a point. There was a good scattering of losers but an upward tendency was apparent among them.

It was a further continuation of the dwindling volume which set in after last week's good rally. The distraction of the World Series had a lot to do with it but even before game time trading was outstandingly sluggish.

While there was a good assortment of bullish corporate news, many investors were on the sidelines awaiting a clearer indication of which way the major trend would go. At the same time there was increasing hesitancy based on the possible outcome of the presidential election.

An exceptional mover was high-priced International Business Machines which rose around 4 points on news of record earnings. American Telephone, however, resumed its retreat, losing a major fraction as its quarterly report disclosed lower per-share earnings.

Industrial stocks rose generally. Bethlehem Steel gained about a point. U.S. Steel and Republic Steel added major fractions.

Anaconda and Kennecott Copper were up fractionally. So were Allied Chemical, Air Reduction and American Cyanamid.

Douglas Aircraft was up around a point. Boeing was steady. Good year and Goodrich inched upward.

General Motors and Chrysler posted fractional gains as did International Nickel and Union Carbide.

Leading rails were narrowly mixed. Illinois Central, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway and New York Central showed very little change.

International Paper and American tobacco nudged ahead. Gulf Oil added about a point. Royal Dutch a major fraction. Johnson & Johnson registered a gain.

The Associated Press averaged 60 stocks at noon was up 40 cents to $17.70 with the industrials up $1.00, the rail down 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—Hog markets were mostly steady to 25 higher today. Top of 15.75 to 16.75 at Rocky Mount; 16.00 to 16.50 at Scotland Neck, Jackson, Bethel, Tarboro, Enfield, Benson, New Bern and Kinston; 16.25 at Lumberton, Wingate and Shallotte; 16.00 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Tabor City, Castle Hayne, Mount Gilead, Siler City, Goldsboro, Farmville, Nahantia, Beula, Micro, Mount Olive and Elizabethtown; 15.75 at Smithfield, Kenly, Newton Grove, Clarkton, Whiteville, Dunn, Bailey and Blackmans Crossroads.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—N.C. fryers and broilers, market firm, farm price 16 to 17, mostly 17. L.0.b. plant 17 to 17.75; Raleigh eggs steady. A large 48; Asheville eggs steady. A large 45 to 47.

NEW YORK — 1 p.m. stocks: Admiral Corporation ..... 16 1/2
Allied Chemical & Dye ..... 8 3/4

'Worm Bill' Has Initial Approval

HIGH POINT, N.C. — Ten resolutions from member clubs have been approved by the board of directors of the North Carolina Wildlife Federation.

Among them is the so-called "worm bill" which would require all fishermen using live bait to hold licenses.

The resolutions will be presented to the entire membership of the federation which convened its 12th annual session here today.

The business session was opened by Ralph Daniels of Durham and he introduced the principal speaker of the session, Clyde Patton, director of the Wildlife Resources Commission.

Poultry Show And Sale Today

Negro 4-H Club boys and girls of Pitt county held a pure-bred poultry show on the courthouse lawn in Greenville this afternoon and offered the prize-winning pullets for sale.

Specialists from North Carolina State College, Raleigh, were judges. All of the birds had been vaccinated against fowl pox, Pitt County Negro Farm Agent James M. Gode stated.

The 4-H Club poultry show and sale enabled farm and urban poultry raisers to buy quality pullets now in production.

The store, in the Proctor Hotel building, has been remodeled, and new equipment has been installed. It will continue to handle the nationally advertised lines carried by Batchelor Brothers and will add others.

During the grand opening days and along with other merchandise special Coffman's is offering a price of $65 worth of merchandise for the price of $50. To participate in a contest, a customer does not have to buy anything and will not have to be present at the drawing.

Church Building Fund Drive Goes Into Final Phase

"To show Him, we, His people, are ready to go ahead on a bigger and better basis" when we build a new sanctuary, declared Judith Ferris, one of the officers of the Jarvis Memorial Youth Fellowship, when she spoke to the "E" committee "kick-off" dinner last night in connection with the Building Fund Campaign being conducted now at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church for the construction of a new sanctuary, ladies parlor, and chapel. The meeting was presided over by Ed Ratcliff, chairman of the "E" Committee.

Speakers besides Miss Ferris last night were Rev. W. M. Howard pastor, S. J. Waters, J. B. Kitzell, K. W. Cobb, and E. Hoover Taft. Taft is chairman of the Building Fund Committee. Cobb, introduced as one of the church's older members, said he was confident of the success of the campaign and urged that everyone cooperate.

The campaign is entering its final phase and will be terminated on October 23 at a final report meeting of all committees. Last night was the setting off of the final committee on their solicitation.

Church Building Fund Drive Goes Into Final Phase

Gov. Hodges and the members of the commerce and industry committee of C&I are committed to a regional airport. They insist they are not interested in immediate location. Developments of the past few months have indicated preference for the mid-eastern project.

The Rocky Mount folks said they did not believe one airport anywhere would adequately serve the whole area between Raleigh, Elizabeth City and Wilmington. They suggested major fields at Rocky Mount, Kinston and Wilmington. (Wilmington already has a class-one airport.)

They further pointed out that Rocky Mount had waited three years to get on the CAA approved list. If they lose that place now it will take three to five years to get back on—even if the Congress should appropriate more money. It will take the new Mid-eastern Authority a like period of waiting, they suggested. Meantime, the area around Rocky Mount might lose its present major flights to the detriment of development all through the section.

The November 15 deadline calls for immediate action, and if it can be met the Rocky Mounters pledged efforts to bring in other communities, including a large part of the Mid-eastern group and others to the northeast, and also to help in developing additional airports to serve the whole eastern part of the state.

Although rating fifth in the volume of purchases of French wines, the United States in 1955 was third in value of its wine imports. At the same time, the United States was the leading purchaser of French alcoholic products, including brandies and liqueurs.

The United States also is the most important buyer of champagne, consuming about a fifth of France's champagne exports.

Generally, however, French wine experts feel the average American has a long way to go to appreciate the place of wine in life.

Belgium, with a population of eight million, imported more French wine in 1955 than the United States with a population of 160 million, said one exporter.

"Many Americans living here learn to appreciate French cuisine and drink wine with their meals," said an official of the Wine Exporters' Assn.

"The trouble starts when they return to the United States. Even if they wanted to drink wine there, it simply wouldn't go with American food."

Action Postponed

1950 to 1953 to organize a regional authority. When these efforts failed, Rocky Mount decided to go on its own and enlarge facilities at the local port.

Last year option was taken on 1200 acres of land five miles north of the city and an application for $50,000 from CAA was made to match up a like amount put up by the community. The CAA funds will revert if the matter cannot be cleared by November 15.

The Rocky Mount folks also have tentative promises from Capital and other lines for big plane service if the larger port can be built. These services will be channeled over other routes unless action is taken soon.

Church Building Fund Drive Goes Into Final Phase

Gov. Hodges and the members of the commerce and industry committee of C&I are committed to a regional airport. They insist they are not interested in immediate location. Developments of the past few months have indicated preference for the mid-eastern project.

The Rocky Mount folks said they did not believe one airport anywhere would adequately serve the whole area between Raleigh, Elizabeth City and Wilmington. They suggested major fields at Rocky Mount, Kinston and Wilmington. (Wilmington already has a class-one airport.)

They further pointed out that Rocky Mount had waited three years to get on the CAA approved list. If they lose that place now it will take three to five years to get back on—even if the Congress should appropriate more money. It will take the new Mid-eastern Authority a like period of waiting, they suggested. Meantime, the area around Rocky Mount might lose its present major flights to the detriment of development all through the section.

The November 15 deadline calls for immediate action, and if it can be met the Rocky Mounters pledged efforts to bring in other communities, including a large part of the Mid-eastern group and others to the northeast, and also to help in developing additional airports to serve the whole eastern part of the state.

Fall Program Of City Recreation Is Started

The Greenville Recreation Department's fall program is now underway, according to the latest Directors' Report submitted by Gordon Goodman, Recreation Supervisor.

Midget football games have been scheduled through November 22 for the four teams that were organized last month. The Exchange Club, which is co-sponsoring the program also purchased new jerseys for the players. Games are played on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

An average of 50 children each Wednesday night are participating in the Sub-Teen Dance Club. "This is a large, enthusiastic group of young people," reported Goodman.

Goodman further reported that "our maintenance workers are now catching up on many needed repairs and problems that arose during the summer when so much time was spent cutting grass, repairing program equipment, setting up for programs and many other things. Most of the inside of the Elm Street Building has been painted except the rest rooms, kitchen and concession stand. New coat racks have been placed on the walls and wooden strips have been placed along the inside of the building to protect the wall from the backs of the chairs. . . six new tables have been made to replace card tables that were in use previously. In the near future the outside woodwork and gutters will be painted, thus putting the building in good shape again."

The Play School, Paint & Putter classes and Thursday morning sewing classes have begun to increase in attendance. The Teen-Age Club now has 270 registered members and plan are underway for a program for handicapped children, according to the report.

The Negro program has been started with a touch football program included. The Teen-Age Club meets each Saturday night at the High School gym and a co-recreational activities program has also been started.

The Recreation Department is working with the teachers at Brookgreen School to provide a recreation period for the boys. "They will come to the Elm Street Building," said Goodman, "on Monday, Wednesday and Friday for forty five minutes of supervised recreation including football, shuffle board, ping pong, checkers, carrom and tables games."
