Win Swine Show Honors

Eighteen 4-H and FFA boys received cash awards for their Pitt County Fair exhibits at the Eighth Annual Junior Livestock banquet last night.

The annual banquet is sponsored by the Agricultural Committee of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

Receiving grand champion award in the Duroc class last night was H. L. Smith. The grand champion award for the Yorkshire class went to Melvin Byrd and the grand champion award for the Hampshire class was awarded to Jerry Whitehurst.

The farm youth last night heard George Abshier, Extension Marketing Specialist of N. C. State College, tell them that "real opportunity" still exists on the farm.

"We may not think so when we are working with these young pigs or working in the tobacco row but there is," he declared. "Farming is a pretty good business."

He said that farming was the only business he knew in which competition is decreasing and markets increasing.

He pointed out that where each farmer was feeding five people some years ago each farmer is feeding 17 people at present.

While the farmer is getting a decreased portion of the farm dollar Abshier pointed out that increased services for which the consumer is willing to pay brings the farmer's share down.

However, the increased services, such as packaging, freezing and better grading sell more farm products, he declared.

Abshier was introduced by E. L. Norton, district farm agent.

The invocation was said by Rev. Clifford R. Lanman, pastor of the Red Oak Christian Church.

Welcoming the youth was Charles O'H. Horne, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce and the response came from Kirk Briley, FFA member of Stokes High School.

Greenville High School students furnished entertainment for the group.

Chambliss Award Again Won By Negro 4-H Exhibit

The Negro 4-H exhibit at the Pitt County Agricultural Fair yesterday was awarded the Norman Y. Chambliss ribbon for best all round exhibit of the fair.

The award carries with it a prize of $25.

Presented by the Fair manager, the Chambliss award is given in addition to the regular ribbons which are presented each year at the fair.

Negro 4-Hers won the special award this year for the third consecutive time.

The 4-H exhibit outlines five steps to good egg production.

It was chosen for the special award by a committee composed of D. J. Wichard, Jr., Ed Harris, and City Manager Leonard Blox-am. Fair Association President Larry Averette reported good crowds at the fairgrounds yesterday. He said there were over 3,000 paid adult admissions during the day which is in line with attendance last year.

In addition yesterday was children's day for Negro school children of Pitt County.

"I have never seen such a wonderful turnout of colored school children," Averette said.

The Fair president said he was pleased with the attendance so far and "within the next few days we hope to break all records."

Averette noted that patrons are visiting and viewing exhibits and the livestock show at the fair.

Fair Manager Norman Y. Chambliss said this morning that the Merrick-round has arrived at the fairgrounds and is now in operation. The ride was delayed when the truck bringing it to Greenville was involved in an accident.

Chambliss said the midway is doing a good business this year. "I'd like to say that the O.C. Buck shows have produced the cleanest concessions that have appeared at the Pitt County Fair since I have been manager," Chambliss said this morning.

The fair is operated under the supervision of the association executive committee composed of: J. Howard Moye, Lester Turnage, Ed Harris, Ford McGowan, Charles S.

British Troops, Police Battle Berserk Hong Kong Chinese Mobs

Second Straight Day Of Rioting; At Least 8 Dead

HONG KONG (AP)—British troops and police battled with riot guns, bayonets and tear gas today against frenzied mobs of Chinese rioting and pillaging for the second straight day on Hong Kong's mainland Kowloon Peninsula.

At least eight Chinese were reported dead in the century's worst outbreak of violence in the British crown colony, packed to the explosion point with refugees from Communist China.

Foreigners, leftists and their property, and police stations were the chief targets of the mob. But there was also considerable indiscriminate looting and pillaging.

Hundreds of persons were injured, including a Swiss couple badly burned when a mob set fire to their taxi. The taxi driver died.

Some of the mobs stopped cars and extorted money from the occupants.

At dusk, the troops and police appeared to be bringing the mobs under control. Acting Gov. E. B. David ordered a curfew for Kowloon's 1 1/2 million people from 7:30 p.m. to 10 a.m.

The order did not apply to the island of Hong Kong, where a million persons live. The island remained free of trouble.

Spotter planes hovered overhead as the British Tommies charged with fixed bayonets against the furious thousands trying to overrun the building.

The rioting began yesterday, finally died down at dawn, and then erupted again about noon in the Sham Shui Po sector of north-west Kowloon.

Eight Britons were hospitalized and dozens of others were given first aid. No Americans were listed among the casualties. The U.S. consulate announced that an earlier report an American lieutenant had been stoned was incorrect. Some 1,750 Americans live in the colony, and it is a favorite leave spot for U.S. military forces in the Pacific.

At the renewal of violence, leaves for all U.S. military personnel were canceled. The crews of the three American Navy ships in the harbor—the destroyers Calvert and Quapaw and the station ship Gardner's Bay—were kept aboard.

Property damage from burning and looting was estimated in the millions of dollars.

The violence apparently was apparently touched off by a minor rioter report an American lieutenant had been stoned was incorrect. Some 1,750 Americans live in the colony, and it is a favorite leave spot for U.S. military forces in the Pacific.

Pro-Nationalist extremists quickly gathered recruits from among the many refugee Chinese who resent Britain's recognition of Communist China and the crowded housing conditions which the tremendous influx from the mainland has brought to the colony.

As the mob swelled and spilled out over the colony, its anti-foreign and anti-Communist frenzy mounted. Two left-wing high schools and Hong Kong's biggest bakery were burned, scores of automobiles were overturned and set afire, stores and food shops were looted and burned and dozens of Europeans beaten or stoned.

At the riot's peak, an estimated 50,000 Chinese were involved.

Hong Kong island, meanwhile, remained calm and its teeming population went about business as usual.

Urge Display Of Flags Tomorrow

American Legion Commander Louis W. Gaylord Jr. today urged all business houses to display their American flags tomorrow.

The flags will be shown as a part of the observance of Columbus Day.

$5.77 Average

Greenville's tobacco market has averaged $51.77 in selling 53,979,916 pounds of tobacco for $28,249,692 so far this season.

Sales Supervisor W. J. Whedbee released the season's figures today. They include 34 selling days through yesterday.

For the first three days of this week the market sold 4,689,458 pounds of tobacco for $24,233,406.17. The average for the three day period was $51.68.

Blue Bloods Draw Banty's Eye

CHECKING THE CHICKS—One of the Court House Square's permanent residents abandoned his own harem yesterday to check a new flock of chicks that moved into his stomping grounds. The Cock of the Walk, a bantam rooster, spent the better part of an hour socializing with the hens entered in a 4-H Poultry Show and Sale while his two faithful wives bustled themselves with digging up his supper. The old boy's efforts were in vain, though—not a single one of the show birds accepted his "let me take you away from all this" invitation. (Reflector Staff Photo.)

Prize Chickens Sold At Auction After Showing

Twelve blue ribbon chickens judged best in a Negro 4-H Poultry Show yesterday were sold for $2.60 in a public auction after the show on the Court House grounds.

B. W. Baker of Pactolus bought the hens, all of which are already in production. From James Milton Gay, 4-H Club member from Fountain, Gay and the other 11 entries in the show started the chickens March 5 as regular projects.

Gray's coop was the only one which brought a blue ribbon from Charles L. Davis, Poultry Extension Specialist from North Carolina A and T College. Davis judged the hens on bases of sexual maturity to determine production qualities, and management techniques used in raising the hens.

Red ribbons were awarded to Barbara Wilson of Grimesland, Dorothy Mobley of Greenville and Louise Langley of Greenville. The red ribbon chickens are in partial production.

White ribbons were awarded to Amy Mills of Winterville; Roberta Bright of Winterville; Elbert Moore, Greenville, Route 5; Marion Hooks, Greenville, Route 5; Bessie Joyner, Greenville; and Dorothy Mills, Winterville. White ribbons chickens, according to Davis, are not yet in production but showed signs of being ready for production within another week.

Buyers of the chickens, in addition to Baker, were J. R. Gladson, Simpson; W. G. Barnes, assistant Negro Farm Agent; Mark Mozingo, Farmville; and Linwood J. Hardy. The hens will be added to existing flocks of the buyer.

Prices paid for the chickens, bought in lots of 12 as they were exhibited and judged, ranged from Baker's high of $2.60 for the blue ribbon winners to a low of $1.55 for a coop of white ribbon winners.

Ike Says 'Everything Possible' Tried To Control Atomic Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower firing back at Adlai Stevenson, said today his administration has done everything humanly possible to bring the H-bomb threat under international control and use atomic power for peaceful purposes.

Eisenhower also told a news conference he regards management of America's internal affairs as the paramount issue of the presidential campaign.

A reporter told Eisenhower that Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, said in an address at Seattle Tuesday night that "Republican politicians, including the President, have little understanding or sympathy with attempts to save man from the greatest horror his ingenuity has ever devised."

Stevenson was talking about the H-bomb and defending his proposal that H-bomb tests be ended, under certain conditions.

In reply to a request for comment, Eisenhower remarks at Seattle, Eisenhower said the record is there and speaks for itself. He then went on to say his administration has done everything humanly possible to get this thing—the H-bomb—under control and use it for peace.

Stevenson's suggestions that H-bomb testing be ended and that the possibility of halting the military draft be explored have turned into two of the hottest issues of the campaign.

He made that remark after be-

Sky Giant With 59 Men Lost

LAKENHEATH, England, (AP)—A U.S. military transport plane with 59 aboard vanished over the eastern Atlantic today. Scores of planes and ships started a far-ranging search.

The missing craft, giant C118 Liftmaster of the Military Air Transport Service, was carrying search planes and 48 Air Force enlisted men back to the United States after duty in England. Also aboard was a nine-man Navy crew of three officers and six enlisted men.

The four-engine plane, military version of the civilian DC6, left this American base, 60 miles north of London, at 6:26 p.m. (1:29 p.m. EST) yesterday on a 1,200-mile leg to Lajes Air Force Base in the Azores.

It was last heard from at 8:36 p.m. (3:36 p.m. EST) when it was approximately 180 miles southwest of Land's End, Britain's most westerly point.

The U.S. 7th Air Division in London said a signal, reported to be an SOS, that was picked up by Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland as possibly coming from the Liftmaster, was a garbled version of a message between freighters discussing the search operation.

The transport was due at Lajes at 12:21 a.m. today (7:21 p.m. EST Wednesday). When it last reported back to base here it still had enough fuel to keep it airborne until 5:30 a.m. today (12:30 a.m. EST).

At 4 a.m., however, American and British military authorities ordered a gigantic search of the entire ocean area from England to the Azores on the presumption that the plane was down.

Normally planes of MATS have three or more life rafts, each capable of carrying 20 men. Passengers aboard also are required to wear lifejackets to sustain them in the water in case of a crash at sea.

An Air Force spokesman said only military personnel was aboard the Liftmaster, which was believed to have arrived in Britain from its U.S. base two days ago.

By noon today the planes engaged in the search had swelled to 20, including three six-engine U.S. B-47 jet bombers flying at high altitude and using radar in an effort to pick up some clue.

Other British, American and Portuguese air force planes from Germany, France, North Africa and the Azores coursed the eastern Atlantic, and all shipping in the area was asked to be on the alert for signs of wreckage or survivors. The search was aided by excellent weather and visibility up to 18 miles. Rescue operations were being directed from St. Magwans, Wales.

An Air Force spokesman said the Liftmaster would have flown on from the Azores to either Westover Field, Mass., or McGuire Field, N.J., depending on the weather.

Greenville Man Charged After Shooting Incident

Robert H. Wiley, 22, alias Dick Wiley of 405 Perkins Avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon by members of the Greenville Police Department and charged with "secret assault with intent to kill."

Marvin Wilson Ross, 31, 2117 South Village Drive, told police that it was Wiley who shot him in the left shoulder around 10 o'clock Tuesday night. He then signed the warrant for Wiley's arrest. Wiley made no other statement than a denial of the charge. No reason was given for the shooting.

Wiley was alleged to have fired five shots at Ross with a small caliber pistol. He was placed in the city jail and is being held there under a $5000 bond.

told by a newsman there have been "widely circulated reports" the Eisenhower administration was considering halting H-bomb tests, but shelved such consideration when Stevenson came up with the idea.

The President said he never had heard any such suggestion within his administration. He added then that he had uttered his last word about that matter and the draft.

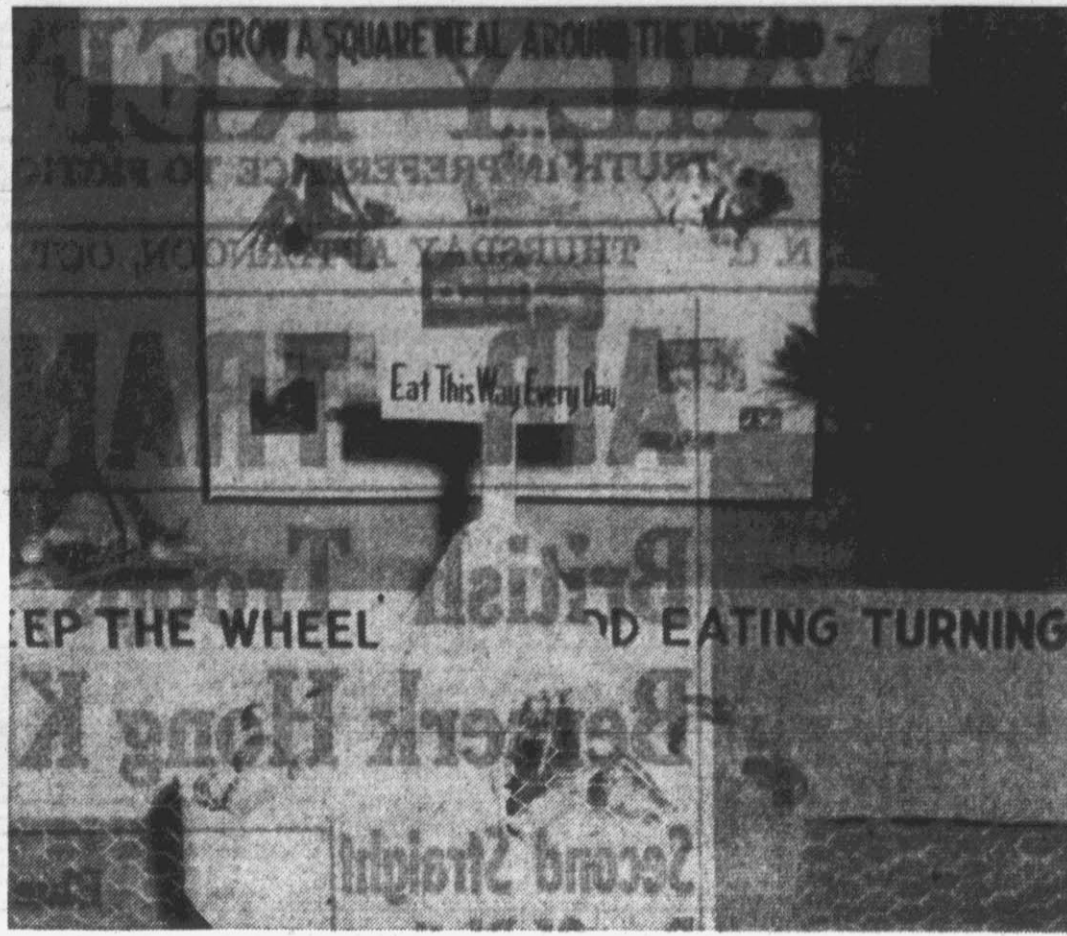

Most of today's news conference, like others of the past few weeks, was devoted to politics.

Eisenhower did say, in response to a question, that he is willing to go anywhere and do anything to help bring about a peaceful solution of the Suez crisis.

He said, however, it must be a peace with justice.

BLUE WINNER—"Raising A Square Meal For The Family" is the theme of the above exhibit prepared by the Pitt Negro Home Demonstration County Council.

ANOTHER WINNER—Awarded a blue ribbon was the Ballards Home Demonstration Club exhibit illustrating importance of growing food necessary to sound nutrition.

Gray-Johnston Vows Said At Parker's Chapel Church

Miss Peggy Louise Johnston became the bride of A-3C Richard Key Gray in a candlelight ceremony at four o'clock September 30 in Parker's Chapel-Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Johnston of Greenville and the late Mr. Gray.

The Rev. W. H. Willis, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony, spoken before a background of white gladioli, pompons, chrysanthemums and bridal greenery. Cathedral candles burned in seven-branched candelabra. Pews were marked with ties of satin ribbon and chrysanthemums.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Roscoe Barnhill, pianist, and Mrs. Joseph Johnston of Kingston, vocalist. Mrs. Johnston sang "Oh Promise Me," "I Love Thee," and a benediction "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Lloyd Johnston, wore an original gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with a Peter-Pan collar outlined in seed pearls and long sleeves tapering to calla points over the wrists. Ending in a chapel train, the bouffant skirt featured front and back panels of lace on which the sequin motifs were repeated.

Her two-tiered veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of stephanotis and white carnations centered with a white hybrid orchid.

Mrs. Floyd Johnston, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Shirley Johnston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Fredrick Switzer, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Lonnie Gray, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, both of Greenville.

Their waltz-length dresses of red nylon net over taffeta were princess styled with full skirts and their tiaras were of matching net.

They wore taffeta mitts trimmed in net and carried crescent bouquets of white pompons and chrysanthemums centered with a large white mum.

Master Billy Johnston was ring bearer and little Miss Desma Logan, flower girl. She wore a floor-length gown designed like the other attendants' and carried a white basket of red rose petals.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs.

Roy Smith, Mrs. Nannette Barnhill, Miss Betty Sue Staton, Miss Gwyn Clark, Miss Joyce Gilbert, all of Greenville, and Miss Mary Edna Hawkins of Stokes.

They wore waltz-length gowns in pastel shades and carried long stemmed matching carnations.

Sam Gray of Stokes served his brother as best man.

Ushers were Lonnie Gray, another brother; Henry Johnston and John Johnston, brothers of the bride; and Gene Harris, her cousin.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johnston chose an afternoon dress of beige crepe with matching hat and brown accessories.

Mrs. Gray was attired in gray with dusty rose and black accessories.

Both wore white corsages.

Following the ceremony, the bridal couple received in the church of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston vestibule.

For travel, the bride changed into a royal blue sheath dress with off-white and black accessories. Her corsage was the orchid-lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Gray is a graduate of Greenville High School and a sophomore at East Carolina College where she plans to resume study.

The bridegroom also graduated from Greenville High School and attended East Carolina College. He is now serving in the United States Air Force.

Following the Gray-Johnston wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnston entertained the wedding party, families and out-of-town guests at a cake cutting.

The event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnston on Sylvan Drive.

Guests were greeted by the hosts. Throughout the home were arrangements of red and white summer flowers.

In the dining room the buffet held an arrangement of white mums and red carnations flanked by crystal candelabra holding white tapers tied with fern. The table was covered with a white cutwork cloth.

From one end of the table, Mrs. Wesley Johnston, mother of the bride, poured punch. The wedding cake, leed in red and white, was served by Mrs. Lucy C. Gray, mother of the bridegroom, after the first slice was cut by the couple.

Guests served themselves decorated mints and nuts.

The bride was presented a corsage of red carnations tied with white ribbon.

Approximately 50 guests attended.

Many Aspects To NC Tax Revision

Industrial leaders throughout the nation are going to be asked, "What's wrong with North Carolina's tax structure?"

The State Bankers Association proposed the idea to the Board of Conservation and Development and the board at its meeting this week adopted the idea.

In conjunction with Gov. Hodges' proposal to revamp the tax structure of the state, this move by the C&D board appears appropriate. The industrial leaders will view the state's tax structure plant sites. Their suggestions in answer to the question should enable North Carolina to develop a tax structure which will be more appealing to industry and therefore afford the state a greater advantage in attracting new industry.

The Reflector has no objection to such a proposal. As a matter of fact we think it is a sound plan as one phase of arriving at a complete revision of the tax structure of the state. We would point out, however, that the opinion of industrial leaders in North Carolina and other states should be only one phase of research in determining what new tax structure shall be built for North Carolina.

Although North Carolina is seeking more industry and is rapidly increasing the proportion of its income which comes from manufacturing plants, it still is by and large a state whose income comes from small business and agriculture.

Has anyone suggested that small businessmen and farmers in North Carolina and other states be asked the same question that is to be put to industrial leaders? We've found few people besides Secretary Wilson who wholly adopt the theory that what's good for General Motors is good for the nation.

In our estimation it follows that what's good for Burlington Mills, General Electric or other big corporations may not necessarily be good for the small businessman who has a dozen employees in a manufacturing business, or the farmer who has a 20 or 30 acre tobacco allotment. What's good for DuPont from the tax standpoint may not serve the best interest of the men who own retail stores.

A complete revision of North Carolina's tax structure is needed and should be had. The revision, however, should be worked out to be in the best interest, so far as possible, to every phase of business and economic life of the state. Not only should it be as liberal as possible toward industry, it should afford benefits to small business and the man who works for a salary.

We have no doubt that a better tax structure can be found for all concerned. We do, however, question whether this better structure for all concerned can be arrived at simply by putting the question to industrial leaders throughout the country.

If North Carolina is to get an overall picture of how best to improve its tax structure, the question "What's wrong with North Carolina's tax structure?" must be asked representative small business, farmers, salaried workers and wage earners, as well as industry.

Is any provision being made to get the views of these groups other than industry?

Opportunity Knocking Again For The Voters

Opportunity knocks only once the adage says. But this year opportunity has knocked twice and is about to knock again for otherwise eligible voters in Pitt County who have not taken the few minutes required to get their names on registration books.

If un-registered citizens miss the opportunity this time, they've had it so far as this eventful election year is concerned.

On Saturday registration books of the 25 precincts in Pitt County open for the third registration period in the past seven months. They will remain open at the polling places during the next three Saturdays, and during the week people will be able to register by contacting the registrar at his home or place of business.

Pitt County has some 20,000 registered voters at the present time. While this is a larger number, it does not by any means represent all the people of the county who are otherwise eligible to vote. There are probably another 3,000 to 5,000 Pitt County residents of voting age whose names are not on the registration books.

In the two previous registration periods of this year, a relatively few people have added their names to the books. Yet in each period a sufficient number of people came forward to register in the precinct in which they live to indicate there are a considerable number of un-registered citizens.

So far as local and most state political contests are concerned, they have been decided already this year. But there is an important national election yet to be decided, and the people of Pitt must help in determining the outcome. In a Democratic government it is the responsibility of each citizen individually to cast a ballot and thus voice his opinion as to who should hold office. The citizen who neglects this obligation is weakening the Democratic structure of the country. Naturally those who do not vote because they have not registered are just as guilty of neglect of their civic duty as those who are registered but fail to go to the polls on election day.

The last chance for those who have not previously registered is at hand. It is our hope that a large portion of them will take advantage of this third opportunity this year.

Each Meeting Has Raised New Issues

By LYNN NISBET
C. & D. — Each meeting of the board of Conservation and Development discloses new problems which often are added to rather substituted for old ones.

Emphasis which has been placed for several years upon the industrialization of the state has led to as much variety and diversity in manufacturing and processing as has always existed with respect to natural resources.

The board was told at its Winston-Salem session this week that more money was invested during the first nine months of this year in metalworking plants than in any type of industry—almost twice as much in textile plants. The board also was told that a recent nationwide survey disclosed that nearly 90 per cent of all lithium resources in the United States are in North Carolina.

A long time trend about which there has been a great deal of criticism is being reversed in some phases of metal activity. The American Lithium Company is importing raw product from Africa and from Canada for processing, at least the first steps, in this state. It had previously been reported that Carolina is the major source to tungsten, which is not processed here, but which is as vital to industry and to national defense as is lithium.

These instances illustrate the expanding responsibilities of the board charged with conserving and developing the natural resources of the state. Another illustration is the growth of investment in paper plants. Investment in paper plants fell only a little below that in metal working. Here again some raw material is imported for processing.

CO-ORDINATION — Efficient development of metal manufacturing depends upon intelligent methods of recovering minerals from the earth. That in turn depends upon knowledge of what the minerals are and what kind. Paper making depends upon wood, and that means trees. So the minerals resources and forestry divisions are definitely connected with industrial progress. It was reported that more than twice as many seedlings had been ordered from State nurseries this year as were ordered last year to comparable date, 43 million against 21 million. Cooperation of private enterprise in producing trees, and especially in fire prevention and intelligent harvesting, has been exceptional.

Al Crant, chief of the commerce and industry division, reported much more enthusiastic cooperation among chambers of commerce and special local industrial promotion groups. Another statewide meeting of specialists in this field is planned for this winter.

CHALLENGE — The progress reports might have occasioned considerable pride and perhaps induced some boasting, but for the other side of the reports. Neighboring states in the southeast have moved farther and faster than has North Carolina. Competition for new industry is keener than ever—witnessed by the increasing number of local and area development committees.

Taxes are recognized as an important factor, but Grant and others agreed the tax item is not as the top of the list. In many instances taxes are not mentioned until half a dozen other matters have been settled. Too often, however, the tax item is the controlling factor.

Governor Hodges pointed out that North Carolina sometimes has to meet unfair competition. Referring to a letter written by a former Governor, without identification of the Governor or the date, Hodges quipped: "We not only face competition below the Mason-Dixon line, but also below the belt."

MODEL — In responding to a short address of welcome by Mayor Marshall Kurfies, Board Member Carl Buchan paid high tribute to the host city. Governor Hodges later endorsed the sentiment that Winston-Salem serves as a model for balanced development. Long recognized as outstanding of the financial and industrial field, Wake Forest College, added to Bowman Gray Medical School, and a half old Salem College and interest in restoring the village of Old Salem, has put the Twin City into prominence as a cultural center.

It was especially noted that these cultural institutions and and nearly all the world-famed manufacturing plants were home-grown—born and developed by local men and local capital. They didn't start big, reminded the Governor, but in the same way that hundreds of little local businesses are being started now all over the state.

Even the entertainment offered the visiting board members was well balanced. A tour of Old Salem and of Wake Forest College campus were arranged so as not to interfere with the business meetings.

The menu of Tuesday's luncheon, sponsored by the Northwest North Carolina Development Association was entirely home-made. It included: Brushy Mountain Apple Cider, Baked Northwest North Carolina Ham, Salad with Baked North Carolina Eggs, Northwest N. C. Baked Apples, Baked Brushy Mountain Apples, Milk, Cheese and Butter.

employed to attempt to enforce the laws on the books that make it a crime to use the speeds that are built into the modern American automobile.

This system does not seem to make good sense. A better way would seem to be to tackle the problem at the source. The source of the problem is the power, size and speed that are built into the automobile at the factory. To solve the problem at the source would mean to build automobiles that are smaller, without sacrificing their efficiency as machines for transportation. It would mean also built-in devices for governing the power and speed of the machine. These things should not be difficult to accomplish, and without diminishing the sales appeal of new models or the profits of manufacturers. It would mean simply a realization and acceptance by automobile manufacturers that they have a primary responsibility for the lives and safety of their customers. Eventually this responsibility must be accepted by the manufacturers and government should direct its regulatory powers in that direction. Engineers have demonstrated that it is easier to build machines with automatic controls than it is for men to control them. Men are men to begin with and when they get behind the wheel of a high-speed automobile,

Sidelights On The Pitt Fair

Fairground observations: The merry-go-round, mainstay of every midway, was not in operation during the first two days of the Pitt County Agricultural Fair. The reason? A truck bringing the ride to Pitt from the Cherokee Indian Fair was involved in a wreck.

A king sized poppa and his son took a ride on those electric cars at the fair. As always happens, a pile-up developed and the father and his young son were jolted. Pop grimaced and his son giggled gleefully.

Reflector Staffer Jimmy Ellis went to the fair on Monday to take photos. Female personnel of the girly shows tried to entice him over for pictures. P.S.: He didn't go, Mrs. Ellis.

A number of kiddie rides are in evidence on the midway this year. Included are a train, boats, planes and of course, the real, live ponies.

Who says the auto races are only for the big fairs? The local Micro racers are staging races tonight and Saturday night on their track within the fairgrounds.

George Abshier, Extension Marketing Specialist from N.C. State College told this one in a speech at the Junior Livestock Banquet last night:

A farmer visited an insane asylum once upon a time. He found an inmate lounging against a tree.

"What do you do?" asked the inmate.

"I'm a farmer," the visitor replied.

"Ever tried being crazy?" the inmate asked.

"No, why should I?" the farmer said.

"Being crazy is better'n farming," came back the inmate.

Back to the fair.

Where Tax Hikes Can Hurt

By ELMER ROESSNER

The big question about state taxes is not whether they will go up—they will—but which levies will be increased the most.

This question is important to individuals, businesses and the states themselves. There's already quite a bit of "shopping around" for favorable tax locations by individuals and companies. This shopping will increase as state taxes rise.

State taxes averages $81.60 per person in the year ended June 30, according to Commerce Clearing House figures. That compares with $64 in the year ended June 30, 1952. Voters clamor for more roads and highways, more recreational lands, more schools, more medical care and governmental hand-and-head holding makes it inevitable that taxes will keep on going up year after year until voters call a halt.

SALES TAXES TO RISE

State officials are aware of the current shopping around, and this will influence their actions in boosting taxes. States that are encouraging the immigration of retired persons will be slow to raise inheritance taxes or to levy taxes on medicals. States seeking new plants will not jump taxes on gross receipts nor apply burdensome levies to payroll. Where residents can easily cross state lines to do their shopping, states will be slow to impose more than nominal sales taxes; if they do lay heavy taxes on sales they will also lay use taxes, with severe penalties for evasion. Use taxes are levies on goods purchased out of the jurisdiction.

It seems likely that new sales taxes will be imposed and present ones often increased.

The sales tax is a lousy tax. It is costly to collect in that it is imposed on billions of transactions, requiring vast amounts of records, forcing heavy expenses on the retailer. Checking all collection points would cost more than the tax brings in, so states use spot-check methods, which encourage cheating. No one knows how much sales tax revenue is knocked down before states gets their share. The tax also restricts trade in a nation whose prosperity depends on sales.

But it has a great charm for politicians—taxpayers don't mind much because they pay the taxes in pennies. Few ever stop to reckon how much they pay a year—or how much better they could live if they were not paying the tax. It hits corporations lightly if at all, and the rates don't increase for the rich; thus it is popular with two important sources for campaign funds, corporations and the wealthy.

Sales taxes are now levied in 36 states, besides 1,312 political subdivisions, according to Prentice-Hall. They are effective also in the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Alaska. Connecticut had the highest rate of 3.5 per cent until October 1, when a half-cent flood-relief surcharge ended. Now the honors go to Washington, with 3.33 per cent.

MORE STATE INCOME LEVIES

More states are expected to impose income taxes. There's a good reason: the long-term prospect is for a reduction in Federal income taxes and states with their own income levies can pick up the "free" money immediately after Federal rates are lowered. However, at present any increases in state income taxes are likely to be small. Most states do not want to drive incomes to other states.

Auto, gas and oil taxes are likely to rise, first because auto taxes are getting more roads and services and, second because rising an existing tax creates no new collection problem.

Alcoholic beverages taxes may go up in many states. State legislators have found that business entertainers and alcoholics will pay almost any tax for the stuff.

On the other hand, there will be few rises in payroll taxes, as distinguished from income taxes.

Other Editors Are Saying... New Autos-Too Big, Too Fast

(Hertford County Herald)

The automobile manufacturers of America are just now introducing their new models, or soon will to the public. The new models are wider, longer, fancier, with greater power, more speed—and higher in price.

Meanwhile the highways and streets throughout the nation are becoming more and more crowded and congested, so that there is not enough room to handle the traffic. At the same time automobile fatalities are mounting daily in number. The speeding automobile has become the number one killer in modern America, exceeding the casualties of war and disease.

Responding to example and the power of suggestion and sales appeals of advertising, youthful drivers compete with each other to get the maximum performance out of the power and speed of the powerful machines. Racing on the highways with shiny new cars, some of them souped up for even greater speeds than was built in by the manufacturer, has become a dangerous criminal sport with youth in many sections of the country.

In a futile effort to control the mounting death rate on the streets and highways, the direct cause of which is too much speed and congestion on overcrowded streets and highways, greater numbers of policemen are being

The Quickest Way To Riches

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The quickest way to wealth is to improve some simple object millions of people buy or use every day.

Example: The man who first thought of putting a crinkle in the old-fashioned wire hairpin — so it would stay in better — made a million dollars.

"When you think of the hundreds of millions of human beings who lived and died trying to have an original idea, it seems odd that none thought of improving the ordinary comb, isn't it?" asked Eric L.H. Cosby.

"But no one really had a new idea in combs for at least 6,000 years. No one, that is, until Cosby brooded.

So he designed a new type comb. It is a flexible comb, fitted into a plastic shell, and bends to fit the shape of the head.

"With each stroke it covers five times the area of the old-type comb," said Cosby, "and it gives the scalp a gentle massage."

It is particularly helpful to men with thinning hair as it glides over the bald spot without scratching. Balding men are physically as well as emotionally sensitive.

"It's the only comb in the world with false teeth," said a loyal conferee of Cosby.

A look of genteel pain spread over Cosby's fine British face, and he murmured in rebuttal: "I wouldn't really call them false teeth, old boy. But when the teeth wear out, you can buy a refill, set it into the plastic shell."

Cosby is full of quaint tidbits of comb lore.

"Cave-men used rude combs made from animal horns," he said. "Cleopatra's came from an elephant tusk, queen Victoria preferred an ivory comb, too. But ivory is going out. Central heating is hard on it."

At 14 Cosby invented a nonskid hard rubber auto tire, but somebody outran him to the patent office. His biggest coup, however, was the development of a brush that dripped perfume into the hair. He's sold a million of them.

His firm markets a lady's brush of wild Siberian boar's hair set in satinwood that carries a $70 price tag, a man's shaving brush of badger hair — get your wife to brood.

BIBLICAL TEACHING ABOUT HELL

What does the Bible teach about hell?

The word "hell" is a translation of the Hebrew word "Sheol," which means the grave, and of a Greek word "Hades," which means the same. Also in the New Testament occurs the Greek word "Gehenna," which was the name of the place outside Jerusalem where rubbish was burned. Only in one place in the New Testament (Luke 16:19-31) Dives and Lazarus is there an indication that hell will involve endless torment. The "everlasting punishment" spoken of in Matthew 25:46 is the translation of a Greek word "kolasis," which means restraint. This word in turn comes from a word the basic

Strange 'Conflict Of Interest' Case

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A strange "conflict of interest" issue involving Senator Warren G. Magnuson of Washington has been injected into his campaign for re-election against Governor Arthur B. Langlie. Eisenhower entry and keynote at the Republican National Convention. He is so anxious for a Langlie victory that he plans a special trip to the Northwest on his behalf, and to aid Douglas McKay in his battle with Senator Wayne L. Morse of Oregon.

Langlie has been hitting hard at Magnuson's generally unknown "business interests." The Governor has made public his sources of income, and has challenged his opponent to do likewise. Magnuson has offered to let the voters examine his books, but so far he has not made them publicly available, according to the opposition.

MAGNUSON OWNS STOCK IN RADIO STATION KIRO

Langlie hopes to show that Magnuson, although chairman of the powerful Senate Interstate and Commerce Committee, owns stock in Radio Station KIRO at Seattle, which currently seeks a television license for Channel 7 from the Federal Communications Commission. Magnuson's committee has exclusive jurisdiction over all radio-television legislation, as well as over FCC appointments. In short, Magnuson is actually a "Federal czar" in this field.

NO LAW VIOLATION It is no violation of law for Magnuson to occupy this dual position. Many Congressmen, Governors, state legislators and public officials have a financial stake in radio and television. But his opponents do charge that "Magnie," as he is affectionately known on Capitol Hill, is offside ethically. In this instance.

The official FCC record in KIRO's television application discloses interesting information on the use and advantages of "political influence" at local and national levels. Although favorable action on KIRO's television request was recommended by Examiner Thomas H. Donahue, the commission and head of its broadcasting bureau took exception to his report, and has ordered a full rehearing. Two other Seattle radio stations—KXA and the Puget Sound Broadcasting Company—have applied for the same TV license.

Magnuson owns 3.24 per cent of KIRO's stock. Principal stockholder is Saul Haas, an important Seattle politician, who owns 62 per cent, with 50 other holding small amounts. How Haas acquired KIRO, as well as his alleged pro-communist sympathies when he owned a Seattle labor newspaper many years ago, is the subject of FCC's current reworked investigation of his qualifications.

INFLUENTIAL NEW DEALER Haas was U.S. Collector of Customs at Seattle from 1933 to 1945, and an influential New Dealer. In 1933, according to FCC testimony, a Charles Thomson, who then owned KIRO, asked Haas to use his influence at Washington in connection with Thomson's tax difficulties. There was also talk about getting a "better wave band" for KIRO. Then, according to Thomson, and Haas does not dispute the testimony, Haas said:

"I can do all these things for you in the way of getting—I have many influential friends at Washington, Senators—and I can get all these things for your station. But, naturally, I have to have an interest in your company, if I am going to do these things, particularly for the broadcasting company."

SHARES OFFERED AT PAR

When Thomson offered to sell Haas 500 shares at $10 per value, Haas protested that the figure was too high. Thomson then sold Haas 500 shares at $1 a share. In March, 1934 Haas phoned Thomson as follows:

"I have some good friends at Washington that I have to take care of, and I want another two hundred shares at one dollar a share."

Haas got what he wanted to "take care of his good friends at Washington." Eventually, his insistent demands to purchase KIRO led Thomson to sell it to Haas in 1935 for $34,000 in view of Seattle's great expansion during and since World War II. KIRO is an extremely valuable property. It will become a "gold mine," if Haas and Magnuson obtain the television franchise.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 15

While Steve set up the recording machine, I went into the kitchen and got something to eat. I had forgotten what a good idea food and drink was. Then I poured a beer for Steve, more milk for me. I was stepping back into the living room just as Steve said he was ready.

He flipped a switch. There was music, soft, sweet music; it was playing a gentle accompaniment of a husky, vibrant, but very female voice.

Steve said, "That's Anita."

Anita: "Take it easy, Kippy darling; don't be impetuous."

I said, "Kippy! That's Wendell!"

Kippy: "Beautiful, the most beautiful."

Anita: "Kippy, your hands aren't being good little hands . . . not at all."

Kippy: "Anita . . ."

Anita: "No, let's have another drink."

Kippy: "That would be a waste of time."

Anita: "Your hands, Kip! Stop it now. You're like a high school kid on Saturday night."

Kippy: "I'm high school! What about you? What are you saving yourself for . . . the Junior Prom?"

Anita: "(Laughing) Kippy, you're cute . . . you're witty . . . talk some more. No . . . talk."

Kippy: "(Angrily) Oh, for God's sake . . . is that why you let me come home with you? To talk?"

Anita: "Were you expecting something else, darling?"

Kippy: "I was expecting what you made me expect. That wasn't dancing you were teaching me tonight."

Anita: "Why, Kippy!"

Kippy: "The hell with it! See you around. You know, there's a name for games like you."

Anita: "Don't be angry, don't go. Kippy: Then make me want to stay."

Anita: "Kippy, you know, I'm a little surprised at you. I thought you were a happily married man."

Kippy: "Where'd you get that impression?"

Anita: "You've talked so much about your wife."

Kippy: "Oh, Thelma's all right."

Anita: "But not where and when you want her to be all right?"

Kippy: "There hasn't been anything like that for years."

Anita: "Don't tell me you're just good friends . . . you have an understanding . . ."

Kippy: "To be honest, she bores hell out of me."

Anita: "Then why do you stay with her?"

Kippy: "Ever hear of money? Thelma's got it. Basful."

Anita: "Aren't you the frank one, though!"

Kippy: "Why else do you think I'd have married her? I showed you her picture. And that one was taken right after she had shaved."

Anita: "Kippy, you're nasty."

Kippy: "Is it any wonder that when I meet a gorgeous hunk of woman like you . . ."

Wendell Kipp's voice was cut off in full flight. The radio music stopped too. Anita had turned off the recorder. The reason was obvious.

"So that's it," I said. "Blackmail."

"Sure, blackmail," Steve said. "If Anita ever played that for Kipp's wife she might not just divorce him. She might tear him to pieces."

"No wonder Kipp was interested in getting into Anita's apartment."

"Sex," Steve said, "is a wonderful thing."

"Yes. What do you mean?"

"Kipp was still taking lessons from Anita even while he was paying her blackmail. He must have still been trying to make the grade with her."

"That Anita," I said. "She was something, wasn't she? Did you think so, Steve?"

"You're better, Connie. Brunette, blonde . . . name it, you're better."

"How better?"

"Looking," Steve said emphatically. "Looking. That's the only comparison I can make. You are 'I'm not accusing you of anything.'"

"I went there to learn to dance. I'm not a Kippy-boy."

"Your voice is rising."

"Excuse it. Shall we play some more tape?"

Steve started the machine. There was no music this time, just Anita and a man talking a duet. The man was a slightly elderly-sounding tenor.

Man: " . . . please, I want you to have it."

Anita: "But you really shouldn't have."

Man: "Tell me, do you like it?"

Anita: "Do I like it? Why, Mrs. Tiffany herself would adore it."

How can I ever thank you?

Man: Well, now . . .

There was a sharp sound in the distance.

Man: What was that?

Anita: Oh, damn, the buzzer.

Man: (Annoyed) You said we'd be alone.

Anita: I wasn't expecting anyone.

Man: Don't answer it.

Anita: Don't be silly. Of course I'll answer it.

Man: Who is it?

Anita: I've no idea.

Man: You expect me to believe that! You know who it is! So you still see him!

Anita: (Delighted) Darling, you're jealous! You're still jealous of little old Obie, Junior!

Man: You said you told him to stay away from you!

Anita: I made it a lot stronger than that! I practically threatened to call the police. Honestly, that boy's ardor is frightening. He even wants to marry me. Isn't that sweet? He says he can't live without me, he'll do something desperate.

The buzzer sounded again. Anita's voice drifted away, and that was all there was to that duet. It was all there was to that spool.

Steve said, "K wonder if Anita managed to keep those two jealous lovers of hers from each other's throats that night."

Steve said, "I wonder if Anita of them . . . the one coming up the stairs. Obie, wasn't it?"

"That's what I heard, Obie, Junior." He spelled it out. "O-B-I-E."

I got out the Crescent School Register and went through it carefully. But it was just wasted motion. Out of no name in the book, of pupil or teacher, could we make an Obie, Junior.

Steve put another spool on the machine and set it spinning. I recognized the man's voice the moment I heard it. He was Jack Waldson and he sounded annoyed.

Jack: . . . love her, of course, I do.

Anita: If she knew you were here with me . . .

Jack: She wouldn't care.

Anita: She loves you too, Jack. That's a two-way romance if ever I saw one.

Jack: Then why is she being so damn stubborn? Look, we're talking about you and me. Anita, I didn't write this telegram. This is a real offer.

Anita: Of course it is. But, Jack, I've never done any dancing except . . .

Jack: Listen, with you, looks who's going to care about our act?

Anita: That's sweet of you.

Jack: I mean it. This Miami engagement will be a springboard for us. Anita, we'll wind up at the Palladium.

Anita: Aren't you the dreamer, through?

Jack: We could go places, you and I.

Anita: I couldn't do it, Jack.

Jack: Think it over.

Anita: You talk to Dottie again.

Jack: It's no use. I've written her off. If she wants to spend the rest of her life teaching in some lousy dancing school . . .

Anita: But you love her.

Jack: It's just occurring to me . . . maybe I don't. She wants me to settle down, for God's sake! Settle down! What kind of talk is that when you're our age? Does she want me to end up like that mousey brother-in-law of her . . . in a crumbly little stationery store? Is that living? Listen, Anita, you've got to team up with me . . .

"It could make Dottie sore."

"But Dottie . . . all about it. She knows that he went to Anita's apartment to try to find the tape . . . in the other lamp that he wanted . . ."

"Something really incriminating."

"Maybe."

Suddenly, voices played from the machine again. Anita was having a tete-a-tete with still another man . . . and this man's voice was Anita: No, don't, it's early yet.

Man: . . . got to be going, really I do.

Anita: No, don't, it's early yet. Mr. Barton . . . darling, why don't I call you Steve.

I yelled, "Steve! You!"

Consideration Cost Him $10

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Consideration for the police cost a Norfolk man $10.

When Patrolmen O. J. Glass and R. W. Straw were called to investigate a disturbance, they found a minor domestic quarrel under way. "We asked them to go back in the house and go to bed," Glass told Police Court Judge Savory E. Amato.

Instead, the husband insisted that he be arrested because the police had gone to all the trouble to answer the call, Glass said. "He got so insistent that we had to arrest him," Glass added.

The defendant admitted as much. The judge fined the husband $10 for disorderly conduct.

SWEPSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. C. P. Thompson, 72, believes in exercising her right to vote. She has voted in every county, state and federal election since the passage of the woman suffrage act 36 years ago.

Boom Matches Soaring Public, Private Debts

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Debt totals — public and private — are soaring to new highs in America this year. The lofty structure worries those who wonder what would happen if something should shake the foundations of the present good times.

But comfort can be found today in a report that the nation's tangible wealth — public and private — is increasing much faster than are its debts. And our national income has been rising in the last 10 years proportionately more than our debts.

Debts, wealth and income, however, are measured today in dollars that have considerably less purchasing power than they had in 1945.

The Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. of Minneapolis estimates the net total of public and private debt owned by the American people will pass the 700 billion dollar mark by the end of 1956.

the year. This will be a whopping 294 billion more than we owed at the end of World War II.

What we own, however — land, buildings, equipment, stocks of goods and other tangible wealth — has increased by 344 billion dollars since 1945. The insurance company's economists estimate that by the end of this year these assets will be worth nearly 1 1/2 trillion dollars — a sum too big for many of us to grasp. And they expect national income this year to be 340 billion dollars, or almost half of the total debt owed.

At the end of 1945 our debts were nearly three fourths as big as our total tangible wealth. Now the debts are only about half as big. In 1945 our debts were 2 times our national income. In both respects we look better off now.

But compare 1933 with the present in the terms of a constant dollar and things look a lot different. The cost of living now is around 117 per cent of the 1947-49 average. In 1933 it was 55 per cent of that average.

If, in other words, prices in 1933 had been as high as they are today the national income then would have been twice what it was. Or, if prices and wages today were what they were then, our present national income would be reckoned at about half what it now appears — that is, only about three times what it was in 1933 in dollars of constant buying power, instead of the seven-fold gain as figured in the varying dollars.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

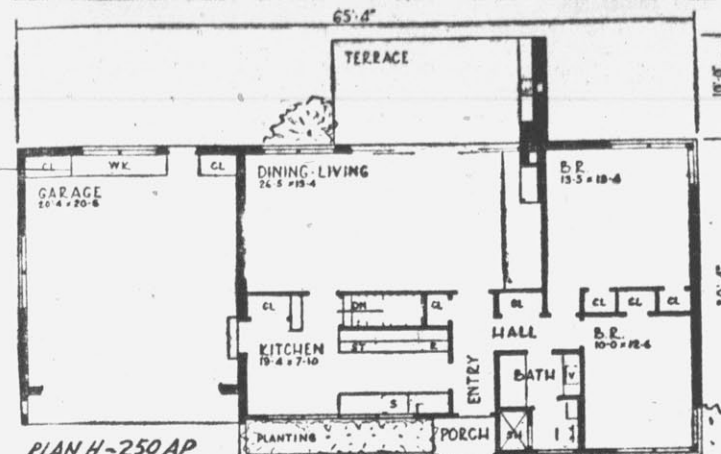

A SMALL FAMILY or retired couple would find this plan both economical and luxurious. Sliding glass doors open on a garden patio which has a barbecue fire-place as shown in the sketch. One massive chimney serves the barbecue, the living room fire-place and the main heating plant, whether you place the latter in a basement or a crawl space.

You can build this house with or without a basement. Space used for the stairs can provide extra storage. The two-car garage also has extra storage closets. Still the garage can be omitted if you choose.

The house alone covers 1,265 square feet, a size that is economical to build and gives you a sound investment. An extra large kitchen allows for ample dinette space in front of its windows. The bathroom has both tub and shower.

This is plan H-250AP by the Homograft Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich.

Feud Over Money Brings 3 Bank Robbery Charges

COLUMBIA (AP) — Two former Columbia cab drivers, whose friendship, police said, developed into a bitter quarrel over money, were in custody today charged with three bank robberies between them in which the total loot was more than $70,000.

A wiled attempt at a fourth bank last Sept. 20 by one of them in which the bandit went in the red $200 led to the arrest of the other. Police said.

Hinkle has been in custody since Sept. 20 after what police said was an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Johnston-Ridge Bank at Johnston.

Chief J. P. Strom of the State Law Enforcement Division said Hinkle not only didn't take any money from the bank, but $200 of his own went into the bag which contained the prospective bank loot.

Wright's apprehension followed intensive questioning of Hinkle after his arrest in Johnston. Strom said Hinkle and Wright are both charged with the $12,157 robbery of the Swansea Cash Depository and the $28,512 Ridgeway Bank robbery. The Ridgeway robbery occurred March 8, 1954, and the Swansea robbery April 27, 1955.

Hinkle also is charged in the $29,664 holdup of the Leesville burn down Hinkle's house in re-

Bank Oct. 6, 1955. In a joint announcement, the SLED chief and the Federal Bureau of Investigation said a little more than $2,000 has been recovered. Some of the bills bore Leesville bank serial numbers.

Strom said the money was located in Hinkle's back yard where it had been stashed in one-gallon glass containers encased in a five-gallon lard pail and buried three feet beneath the ground.

Both men have admitted having parts in the robberies, police said.

Strom said each accuses the other of holding out in a division of the loot. He said Wright claimed Hinkle refused to part with any of the Swansea loot. Wright told police that when he threatened to tallation, the latter told him he'd kill him if he did. Police were told by Hinkle that he got only about $2,100 and that Wright got the rest from the two robberies. Wright, on the other hand, insisted he got only $1,000 and Hinkle the remainder, police said.

Cosby has a free beauty tip for American women. Use more water, fewer glamor skin creams, on their faces.

"There is no substitute for water," he said. "Many men have better complexions than women because they don't cover their faces with makeup. They use a shaving brush and soap and water to stimulate the skin."

"Why do Irish girls have the most beautiful complexions in the world? Simply because there is so much soft rain in their country."

Probe Profit Of Vaccine-Makers

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators summoned federal health officials today for an inquiry into the profits and pricing practices of polio vaccine manufacturers supplying the government.

To date, the government has purchased approximately 27 million dollars worth of vaccine from five licensed drug firms for free public distribution.

In advance of the hearing, investigators said government supply contracts had been let on virtually identical price bids.

Rep. Fountain (D-NC), chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee investigating the situation, said, "Certainly an antitrust question is involved."

"We want to know if there is any violation of the antitrust laws through price fixing," he said in an interview. "And primarily we are interested in knowing whether the government has taken adequate precautions against paying too much for the vaccine."

After the Salk vaccine was proved effective, Congress voted $33,600,000 for the purchase through June 1957 of vaccine for distribution to the states in furnishing free inoculations.

Of this amount, $44,600,000 was exclusively for vaccine purchases and approximately nine millions was for both purchases and defraying costs of administering the program. The government's actual purchases thus far total 27 millions. The licensed suppliers are Eli Lilly & Co., Wyeth Laboratories, Sharp & Dohme, Pittman & Moore and Parke-Davis.

Reject Appeal By 'Gorilla Man'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California Supreme Court has rejected, without comment, the plea of Gilbert F. Collier, 76, convicted "Gorilla Man" slayer, that he be executed to end "this living death" in prison.

The court turned down yesterday Collier's self-composed habeas corpus petition asking that he be hanged or set free after serving 24 years of a life term.

Collier, a muscular San Bernardino blacksmith, was convicted in 1932 of murdering two men. He was called "Gorilla Man" because of his great strength.

"I am old, infirm, ready for death, and tired of this mockery of justice," Collier wrote in his plea. "I want freedom from this living death."

President Urged To Save Carrier

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The USS Enterprise Assn. has petitioned President Eisenhower to save the historic aircraft carrier from the scrap heap and to preserve her as a national shrine.

Bill Rubin of San Diego, association president, said he sent a telegram to President Eisenhower bearing 1,200 signatures of association members. Rubin said the carrier took part in every major World War II sea battle of the Pacific except that of the Coral Sea.

The Navy announced Monday that the Enterprise, now at Bayonne, N.J., is unfit for further naval service and will be sold for scrap.

She Learned To Fly Before Learning To Drive

HIGH FLYING high school senior Jeanette Herring, 17, examines the engine of the plane she learned to pilot—before she learned to drive an automobile.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—An attractive high school senior has taken to the sky as a pilot even before learning to drive an automobile. Seventeen-year-old Jeanette Herring got interested in flying over a year ago. Since that time, she has become a licensed pilot.

The air-minded young miss took her first solo flight in December of last year. Since that time, she has been up alone to sharpen her takeoffs, landings and aerial maneuvers.

To meet the 200-mile cross-country flight requirements for a pilot's license, she flew to Lake Elmo, Minn., near Minneapolis.

Jeanette has tried to drive a car, but says she has trouble because the controls are not as sensitive as those in a plane. So instead of manipulating the wheel, brake and clutch, she takes to the cockpit.

A student at Madison High School, Miss Herring is looking to a sky future — she wants to become an airline stewardess.

Lightning Action For TV Viewers

SANDPOINT, Idaho (AP) — It will take some time for Mr. and Mrs. Max Pierce to get over the lightning storm which struck their house as they were watching television.

No one was hurt, but a bolt hit their electric fence, traveled around the house, peeled the bark from four trees, set fire to a sofa in the yard, blew out the light bulbs and burned out the freezer and the electric roaster.

The Pierces' only consolation: the TV wasn't hurt.

Ex-Alcoholics To Convene Friday

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A band of men and women who know a single drink could doom them to a life of misery gather here tomorrow for the North Carolina Alcoholics Anonymous convention.

The 600 delegates expected from the Carolinas, Virginia, Tennessee, Georgia and Florida will hear eight speakers describe the way of life for an alcoholic.

Then they'll carry what they learn back to their home areas to try to win more alcoholics to sobriety. Convention chairman Jack B. (AA members are identified by first name and last initial only) said that the organization has grown from a small group in Shelby in 1940 to close to 3000 members in the Carolinas. Charlotte alone has 500 members.

And, he said, the significant part of the growth in recent years has been that AA is reaching younger men.

"We're getting them now," he said, "before they've lost homes, families and everything. They're coming to AA sooner with their problems."

The AA movement in the Carolinas started with a drug addict (a physician) in Shelby and spread to Charlotte where it grew into a two-state network that now has 172 groups.

An Orange, N.J., man started the first group here. He had been an AA member in his native state, and when he came to Charlotte he traveled once a week to Shelby to meet with the group there.

Eventually, he and four other men met in a Charlotte hotel to establish the organization here. Alcoholics from both Carolinas were attracted to the subsequent Charlotte meetings, and groups began appearing in localities throughout both states.

This year's convention, which ends Sunday, will be aimed at helping the non-drinking alcoholics stay that way and inspiring them to attract new AA members.

Only the Sunday afternoon session will be open to the public. The Rev. John Van D. of Morris Plains, N.J., will be the speaker. Jack B. said the minister was a Dutch distillery vice president who "drank too much of his own product" before joining AA and eventually the clergy.

Found Antibiotic In Earthworm Study

EXPERIMENTING with antibiotics, 17-year-old Suzan Hopkins studies cultures treated with chemicals she extracted from earthworms.

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE AP Science Reporter IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — At age 17, Suzan Hopkins is experimenting with an antibiotic she discovered herself in earthworms.

Suzan isolated the antibiotic in research carried on in her own home and East High School, Waterloo, Iowa, where she'll be a senior this fall.

This summer she's continuing her research at the State University of Iowa's College of Medicine, at the invitation of Dr. Iam Maclean Smith, assistant professor of internal medicine. The Black Hawk County Medical Society and Waterloo Courier are paying her expenses.

Whether the antibiotic is new, or will have medical uses are still to be determined.

Dr. Smith declares Suzan's "interest and enthusiasm exemplify the scientific curiosity which we know the country needs in young people today."

Suzan has had only one science course, chemistry, but has read extensively in science on her own. She began her research with a simple question: An earthworm digests and eats dirt, which probably contains germs. Does the worm possess some antibiotic or chemical protecting it? She found it does contain an antibiotic that kills growth of at least certain types of germs. Then she extracted the antibiotic.

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — One of Elizabeth City's busy intersections is known as Dog Corner. The name dates back to the 1890's when a popular barroom faced the streets. To pass the time of day, men would move outside where dog fights were held with as many as six canines participating.

Bighorn Hide In Restricted Area

KIOWA, Colo. (AP) — These bighorn sheep aren't so dumb. Rancher Sam Kimsey said a ram and two ewes showed up on his place on Kiowa Creek in rolling, timbered country not usually inhabited by mountain sheep. If they stay put, they'll be safe during the fall hunting season. Kimsey's ranch is in an area closed to bighorn shooting.

Eskimos Enjoy Spaghetti Meal

BOSTON (AP) — Eskimos love spaghetti and meat balls, according to Army Sgt. Francis Petrivelli, home on furlough. While serving near Anchorage, Alaska, Petrivelli became tired of eating reindeer and whale blubber with an Eskimo family. He cooked up a batch of spaghetti and meat balls, he said, and "they loved it."

Skunk Walks In; Customers Go

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Customers at Woody Trigg's bar looked up from their drinks and saw a skunk standing in the doorway.

"All you could hear were the ice cubes rattling in the glasses," Trigg said.

The 19 customers left hurriedly while Trigg and waitress Ruby Day, after an odorous chase, finally trapped the skunk in a rest room.

Authorities who carted the little rascal off to the animal shelter explained that it apparently strolled in from a park across the street.

Russia has nearly 30 million cows an increase of 6 percent over 1955.

Kucks Hurls Yanks To 9-0 Win To Capture Series

Did Alston Error In Starting Newcombe?

By TED SMITS
BROOKLYN — Did Manager Walt Alston make a mistake in starting in ill-fated big pitcher, Don Newcombe, in the final and deciding game of the 1956 World Series?

The answer seems to be that it would not have made any difference who started for the Dodgers because Johnny Kucks pitched three hit shutout ball for the Yankees to sew up the game 9-0, and the series, four games to three.

And there is the additional consideration, as Alston himself pointed out, that "Newk had as good a show as I have ever seen him show. He either struck 'em out or they hit over the fence."

Yogi Berra contributed two over-the-fence efforts, each with a man on base, and Elston Howard added the third to drive Newcombe to the showers, through them, and out of the ball park to his home long before the game ended.

While Kucks was spinning his glittering pitching skein, the Yankees went about winning the big game in brutal, direction fashion.

Hank Bauer led off the first inning with a single to center, and then, after Billy Martin and Mickey Mantle struck out, Berra, with two strikes against him and no balls, belted a high pitch over the right field screen.

In the third, Martin singled with one out, Mantle fanned again, and Berra, with a 2-2 count, slammed the ball over the right field scoreboard to make it 4-0 for the Yankees.

Elston Howard's homer over the right field fence led off the fourth and finished Newcombe.

The big clincher came in the seventh with Roger Carig on the mound for the Dodgers. Martin singled to center, Mantle walked, and, after both runners advanced a base on a wild pitch leaving first open, Berra was intentionally passed.

That brought up Moose Skowron. He hit the first pitch into the left field stands for a grand slam homer—the second of this series (Berra hit one in the second game), and the sixth of all time.

That ended the Yankee scoring, but it was more than enough. As a matter of fact, Berra's first home was more than enough.

Sooners Began Streak Against Texas Gridders

DALLAS — In October, 1953, Oklahoma beat Texas 19-14 and started modern college football's longest winning streak—32 straight games.

The Sooners had lost to Notre Dame and been tied by Pitt but that was the last time for their record to be blemished. Through 1953, 1954 and 1955, including a couple of bowl games, Oklahoma rolled up 30 consecutive victories. This season the Big Red has smashed North Carolina and Kansas State and Saturday it will meet Texas again. The Sooners are prohibitive favorites to knock over the Longhorns and push within three games of the all-time record—the 36 that Pennsylvania compiled in 1896-97-98.

While establishing their record by beating their own record of 31, set in 1948-49-50, the Sooners whipped Texas four times. So the Longhorns feel they have been stepping stones. Texas followers think it has been long enough, too.

But Texas will be the deepest underdog in the history of this storied rivalry which started back in 1900 and which has seen 56 games played. The Sooners are 21-point favorites.

It will be the most inexperienced Texas team ever to appear in this series. There will be five sophomores in the lineup. Twenty of the first string of 33 men are just making their start in varsity football.

Texas has lost two games out of three this season and three times failed to score when inside the opposition's 10-yard line.

PIRATE GUARDS—These husky individuals started the season as regular guards for East Carolina, but will be slated to see action at various positions this week against Western Carolina. From left to right, Paul Popov is expected to run at guard, Bucky Dennis will be a tackle, Ken Burgess, a guard, Dick Monds, a guard, Ed Emory (injured), and Charlie Hoover, a guard. Any of those named may see play as a tackle.

New Faces, Familiar Ones In ECC-W. Carolina Game

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina, working hard this week on their offense against highly-touted-but-underdog Western Carolina, will probably use many new faces and some very familiar ones this Saturday night at College Stadium.

The first unit backfield, as seen in this week's drills, will have little Gary Mattocks at quarterback, Bobby Maynard at fullback, Jim Henderson and Bobby Perry at halfbacks. Perry, a graduate of Greenville high school, has been running as a regular halfback throughout the season and is the top break-away runner and backfield pass-receiver on the team.

Another Greenville product, James Speight, did well against Elon last week, scoring one touchdown and setting up another, and is expected to see quite a bit of action against the visiting Cata-mounts. Speight is a sophomore and, like Perry, is a swivel-hipped type of runner, hard to hold and fast as lightning.

Mattocks Will Run

With the first unit backfield named above, Gary Mattocks can be expected to have the Pirates do plenty of running, Saturday. There are still more names on the list of outstanding runners. Tommy Nash, high school All-America from Monroe, also scored against Elon last week and is also slated for much duty against WCC. Bobby Lilley, a sophomore from Tarboro, who has been running behind Maynard at fullback, has been promising in recent games and in practices this week. He will probably work a lot, Saturday. Walker Hamilton, a pint-sized halfback from up Burlington way, is another runner who may get the nod as a reserve.

In the quarterback line behind Mattocks, Ralph (Squirrel) Zehring and George Turner may be in the Western Carolina game frequently. Stuart Holland, a standout at quarterback for Edenton last season may also see plenty of play.

Line Troubles
The Bucs are still having line troubles. At the first of the season, injuries piled up fast for Coach Jack Boone's boys and several key men have been on the hurt list for the past four games. Jerry Brooks, a star tackle, is still out with a knee injury. Charlie Smith, another tackle, may go against WCC, but his appearance is doubted. Ed Emory, injured in the VPI contest, is not expected to see action at all for the rest of the year. Waverly Chesson, a center, is also definitely out for this week.

Spearheading the forward wall that is rated to make the difference between the two North State teams on Saturday, will be big Algy Faircloth, a 225 pounder from Erwin. Ken Burgess, Paul Popov and Charlie Hoover will work the guard slots. Tackles will probably be Bucky Dennis and Larry (Horse) Howell, the 256 pound giant from Monroe, who also does Pirate kicking. Ends will be Ray Pennington, Bill Helms, Joe Guess, Herb Robertson and Charlie Dyson. Boone expects to shift his line frequently during the game.

Rated to win by one-two touchdowns, the Bucs have been drilling hard this week, hoping to rack up their second conference win. The battle will be their Homecoming affair.

Yankees Blast Four Homeruns To Crush Five Bum Pitchers

By JOE REICHLER
BROOKLYN — At least the end came quick and clean and decisive.

That's the best that can be said for Brooklyn today after its crushing 9-0 defeat by the new world champion New York Yankees in the seventh and final game of the 1956 World Series.

The worst that can be said about the Dodgers' worst humiliation in 44 series games with the Yankees is that it gave further evidence of a possible change in Brooklyn personnel next year.

In sharp contrast, the Yankees demonstrated in the series that they will be stronger than ever—a fruitful thought for the rest of the American League. The splendid work of such young pitchers as Johnny Kucks, Tom Sturdivant, Bob Turley, Don Larsen and, of course, Whitey Ford, practically assures the Yankees of a powerful pitching staff to go along with the team's solid hitting and tight defense. Pitching was the one chink in the Yankees' mighty armor this year.

Young Kucks' brilliant three-hit shutout yesterday climaxed an astounding skein of pitching performances by Yankee hurlers in one of the most amazing turn-about in series history. Unable to turn in four consecutive complete games at any time during the regular season, the Yankee staff which had used up 11 hurlers in the first two games, suddenly came through with five completions by five different pitchers.

In the last three games, Yankee pitching limited the National League champions to seven hits and a grand total of one run. Among them was Larsen's historic perfect performance in game No. 5. It's something the once-famed Dodger sluggers will never be able to explain to the pitchers in their own league.

Brooklyn's once powerhouse array was held to a .195 batting mark in the seven games.

E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, the club's general manager, said:

"You can bet some changes will be made. But we're not going to become panicky. We've got a whole winter to think things out. Fortunately, we've got a fine crop of promising youngsters coming up, some of whom appear ready to step into fast company."

Only Duke Snider, with two singles, and Furillo, with one were able to fathom the curves, sliders and fast balls hurled at the Dodgers by the 23-year-old Kucks. In the meantime, Don Newcombe and Roger Craig, two of the five Dodger hurlers, were pulverized by a ferocious Yankee attack that included four home runs, two by Yogi Berra, another by Elston Howard and a final bludgeoning grand slammer by Bill Skowron.

Newcombe, a 27-game winner, lasted a bit longer than he did in the second game of the series when he was driven from the mound with a barrage of base hits that gave the Yankees a 6-0 lead in less than two innings.

This time big Don lasted three innings. Until he was lifted with nobody out in the fourth, he had been clubbed for five runs on as many hits. Four of them came as a result of Berra's pair of two-run homers. The other was Howard's home run.

Skowron's base-cleaning wallop came off Craig in the seventh after the tall right-hander had filled the bags with two bases on balls and a single to Billy Martin. Berra's four runs batted in gave the sturdy receiver a total of 10 RBIs for the series, bettering the record of nine set previously by Lou Gehrig, another Yankee powerhouse, in 1928.

Kucks struck out only one and ironically, the victim was Robinson whose clutch hit broke up a scoreless duel the previous day. Kucks, however, had the Brooks heating the ball weakly into the dirt all afternoon. Only two balls, both caught by Howard in left field, reached the outfield besides the three singles.

168 Golfers In Western Play

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A bulky field of 168 golfers start today in the $2,500 Western Open where anything can happen over the hilly Presidio course.

Proving that yesterday were two foursomes including crooner Bing Crosby and comedian Bob Hope, who won't be playing today. Bing had an 81 while Hope had a 46 for the first nine and caught a plane after playing 16 holes. Among the other six, however, were U.S. Open Champion Cary Middlecoff, who fired a one-over-par 73, Amateur Ken Venturi who came within a stroke of the course record with a 66, and George Bayer who wound up with an 80 after his long hitting did nothing but get him in trouble.

Awaiting the winner Sunday is a pot of $5,000 but en route he encounters the hills of the course, the wind from the ocean and probably the traditional San Francisco fog.

The weatherman gave the golfers a break with a forecast of clearing weather. It rained yesterday morning but the sun was out by the time the exhibition got underway.

Middlecoff won the Western last year with a 272 for the 72 holes at Portland, Ore. Most of the golfers who shot practice rounds yesterday commented it wouldn't be that low this time. The figured a score of 278 could take it all.

Herb Gullick To Train Gridders

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Herb Gullick, University of South Carolina trainer, will serve in that capacity on the South Carolina Shrine Bowl squad for the game against North Carolina high school seniors in the annual football classic here Dec. 1.

Gullick was assistant trainer at South Carolina from 1950 until 1953 when he took over as head trainer.

J. Albert Sims of Timmonsville, S.C., will be the game umpire and Tom McSwain of Greenville, N.C., will handle the duties of linesman, game officials announced today.

Ayden, Farmville, Rams Face Tough Clubs Friday

Ayden, still leading in the Coastal Conference football race with a 4-0 record, will step outside the loop for the second week in a row, to battle Pamlico.

Coach Bob Lee's Robersonville Rams will travel to Plymouth to tangle with one of the best squads in the Albemarle Conference.

Farmville, on the other hand, will be struggling against Coastal foe Contentnea on the Farmville field.

The Ayden Tornadoes, upset last week 13-7 by a tough Williamston crew in their first defeat of the year, will be on the rebound this Friday night.

Coach Stuart Tripp's squad "is in pretty good shape physically at this time," according to reports. Quarterback Lindy Dunn and Fullback Tommy Edwards are suffering from mild charley-horses, but are still expected to be the big offensive guns in the battle.

In the line, Ayden's standouts against Pamlico are expected to be husky Burt Tripp and Ikey Baldree. Lester Stocks is another who will be expected to shine on both offense and defense.

Coach Tripp stated this morning that Pamlico's team was a big outfit, composed of experienced juniors and seniors. "We don't know much about them except that they defeated Vanceboro 19-0 and we stopped them 27-0. It should be a close, hard-fought game."

Robersonville Journeys Coach Lee's Robersonville Rams will be tangle with what is reportedly one of the strongest squads in the Albemarle loop this Friday night.

Plymouth is a light-but-fast team with a flashy style of play that depends much upon deception for its most effective action. Also, they boast an experienced line, averaging about 160-170 pounds.

Robersonville, running from the single-wing formation, will place their key hopes on tailback Elton Roberson, who has been powerful both as a runner and passer this season. Roberson is a veteran.

In the line, Jimmy Lee Taylor, Mike Roberson and Dick Alexander are the probable leaders.

Red Devils Seek Win Farmville will be seeking that all-important conference victory Friday night when they play host to Contentnea. Irvin Allen, Johnny Dixon and Dave Braxton, who have been having injury troubles, may hold the key to whether the Devils can shine against the visitors enough to capture the game.

Coach Elbert Moyer, who has been trying to perfect a passing attack within the past weeks, will probably resort to the air for much of his yardage Friday night. The Farmville attack has been powerful on the ground earlier, but has sputtered out during the past few weeks.

Fix That Watch? Just Drop It

MCALESTER, OKLA. (AP)—Dr. O. W. Rice found a new way to repair his watch? His 2-year-old watch stopped running and a jeweler told him it would cost about as much to repair it as to buy a new one.

Dr. Rice decided against the operation but several days later he accidentally dropped the watch on the concrete pavement.

When he picked it up, it was running and has been keeping good time ever since.

Mixed Feelings On First Report Cards

By BARBARA TAYLOR
Grifton School Reporter

Grifton students received report cards Monday. Such a time always seems like a day of doom for some students while it is a joyous occasion for others. In any case, the day is a significant one, because it was the first time reports were issued under the new grading system now uniform throughout Pitt County.

In the new system, A's are awarded for grades between 93 and 100, as compared with the old system of 90 through 100. Also, instead of receiving only one conduct grade, students now get a conduct mark for each class. The new system surely makes it harder to get on the honor roll and it looks like there's going to be less talking and more work the rest of the year.

"Work, work, work" seems to be the motto of the annual staff bus. Business managers have been busy selling ads for The Griftonian and it is hoped that this year's annual will be bigger and better than ever.

Much enthusiasm has been displayed in basketball workouts thus far and everyone is getting excited over the prospects. The girls started practice Wednesday, reporting to Principal E. B. Bright. The boys are working out under new Coach Alton Burke who was associated with Dixon School in Onslow County last year.

The band has added quite a few members this year. The newly elected drum majorette, Patsy Burney, is leading the band of 35 members. Work has already begun on the concert which will be presented before the Christmas holidays.

The second in a series of teenage dances was held Saturday night in the school gym. Dancing to the music of the latest records was under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Smith, chaperones. More dances of the series are being planned for the youth of Grifton.

A "sock hop" was enjoyed by members of the Junior Class Friday at the home of Gladys Smith. After checking shoes at the door, the guests were served refreshments of iced drinks, brownies, seafoam, and salted nuts. After the hop, everyone attended the Ayden-Williamston football game in Ayden.

Church Pledges Private Schools If Gap Appears

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—America's largest Lutheran church today was pledged to help establish parochial schools — wherever it believes public schools are falling down on the job.

Delegates to the United Lutheran Convention gave resounding approval to the broad-scale program last night, after a scrappy two-hour floor debate over the merits of public versus church education.

The "total educational experience of the child should be Christian one," declared the Rev. Herbert N. Gibney of Hempstead, N.Y. Public schools, he said, can't provide that approach.

Dr. Armih G. Weng, president of the Chicago Lutheran Seminary, shot back that it's erroneous to hold that mathematics, reading, chemistry or physics can be taught in any "particular Christian context."

That's a "false basis to a false thesis," he said. He added that judging from the church's record in Sunday schools and other educational efforts, he doubted it could do as well as public schools.

In the windup, the convention took a middle-road course, recognizing public schools as "a basic institution for general education," but favoring church schools in special circumstances.

As formally worded, this would be "where local conditions make such action advisable." There was no indication how many communities this might involve.

The Rev. John W. Rilling of Minneapolis, president of the Parish Education Board, explained that the conditions would include: A community atmosphere antagonistic to moral and spiritual beliefs; a predominately non-Christian attitude in schools; over-

Court Rules Deliberate Shot Is Not Collectable

RALEIGH (AP) — If D. C. Jenkins had been accidentally shot and killed by a state highway patrolman, the state could have been sued, the State Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

But since Jenkins was shot deliberately, the court said, Mary Ruth Jenkins is not entitled to collect from the state for the death.

Jenkins was killed in Haywood County June 13, 1953, during a fight with Patrolman Joe E. Murrill after Murrill had arrested Jenkins for drunken driving.

Murrill later was found innocent of a second degree murder charge.

In a claim against the Motor Vehicles department lodged by Mary Ruth Jenkins, the Industrial Commission held the shooting was an intentional act and not an act of negligence. Therefore, said the commission, the state couldn't be sued for damages. The Supreme Court upheld the commission.

Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins wrote in the court's opinion that North Carolina law does not permit recovery from the state "for tortious acts" of its employees.

He added: "Strong and appealing arguments can be advanced why compensation should be allowed in this case, upon the ground that the more grievous the fault on the part of the agent of the state, the more readily the state should compensate for the injury. But the court must construe the act as written. The Legislature has power to change the law. The court does not have that power."

In other opinions the court upheld an $8,000 claim against the State Board of Education for the school bus death of Judy Carol Gardner, 7, in Wilson County. She was killed when run over by a school bus March 18, 1955, and the Industrial Commission was upheld in its ruling that the act resulted from the negligence of the school bus driver.

Granted a new trial to Robert P. Arthur, convicted of peeping in Mecklenburg Superior Court and sentenced to 2-3 years, because of errors during the trial by presiding Judge Hoyle Sims.

Ruled that the General Court of Buncombe can hear a suit filed against Dr. Paul McBee of Marion by Mrs. Pearl T. Waters. She charges the doctor was negligent in treating her and is seeking $100,000 for alleged permanent injuries. The doctor, who had denied the charge, had contented the suit should be heard in McDowell instead of Buncombe County.

Notes Half Of Women Turned Into 'Witches'

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At least half of all women are regularly transformed into tense, irritable "witches" raising hob with their husbands, children, bosses and friends, a gynecologist said today.

every month, and the witch spells last a few to six days. It is known as pre-menstrual tension. The spells end when menstruation begins.

The hormonal changes make their bodies swell with stored water. That apparently produces pressures on nerve centers in the brain. Symptoms include irritability, tension, easy anger, quarrelsomeness, insomnia, headache, depression, nervousness, vague discomforts, swelling of the feet so that shoes feel tight.

Dr. Henriksen, speaking to the American College of Surgeons, said the upsets can be mild or severe. He said "they can be classified as witch one types, witch two, or witch triple A. You can list the symptoms for each category, and the women will tell you which they become."

At all other times, these same women are usually very pleasant with likable personalities. Victims are usually the more intelligent women, usually the perfectionist type who never relaxes.

Dr. Henriksen said the best drug he had found for the condition is neohydrin, a mercurial compound which speeds elimination of excess water.

Kentucky Demo Feud May Give Its Electoral Vote To GOP Candidates

By JACK BELL
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky Democrats are feuding again and unless the signs change the feud may hand over the state's 10 electoral votes to President Eisenhower and a Senate seat to the Republicans.

At this point, Eisenhower appears to have an advantage compared personal popularity, general Kentucky prosperity and strong support among women and young voters.

On the other hand, Adlai E. Stevenson carried the state by 700 votes four years ago. Stevenson is better known now than he was then. He has strong newspaper support. And he is the beneficiary of a seemingly national trend among Democrats to go back to their own party.

This adds up to a battle in which Democratic Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler's hardly concealed animosity toward his party's candidates conceivably could tip the scales toward the Republicans.

Chandler is feuding with Sen. Earle Clement, seeking re-election, and former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby, running for the remaining four years of the term of the late Sen. Alben Barkley.

Although Chandler has announced he will vote the straight Democratic ticket, this obvious low regard for Stevenson has not been lost on the 18,000 state employees and their friends. He has cut off the usual Democratic practice of obtaining "voluntary" contributions from such employees, thus forcing the party to look elsewhere for an estimated $250,000 in campaign funds.

In turn, however, this has stirred the opposing faction of Democrats to greater efforts than before to offset the defection in party ranks which holds out the only prospect for a Republican victory.

Prosperity also seems to be working for the GOP. Pike County is the coal mine area in eastern Kentucky. In 1952, Pike County gave Stevenson 12,761 votes to Eisenhower's 9,778. Four years later the Democrats show some signs of worry about carrying it.

Mrs. Francis M. Burke, who works with her husband, an attorney in the Democratic cause, said she and her husband believe the county is going Democratic again, but she sounded a little uncertain.

Her mother and sister, standing nearby, said they are going to vote for Eisenhower.

Down Highway 460, Mrs. Mary DeWitt, a waitress and a widow, said she is voting for Eisenhower because she thinks he is a "fair man." "Somehow," she said, "Mr. Stevenson just doesn't seem to get through to little people like me. I would vote for Mr. Kefauver because I think he understands us, but I just can't seem to feel that Mr. Stevenson is sincere."

It was Saturday afternoon in Pikeville and the miners and their families were out in force. Side-walks were four deep with men, women and kids.

A random check of five miners turned up no conclusive political evidence; two were for Stevenson, two for Eisenhower and one undecided.

West on 460 a score of miles, a country store clerk sliced off a quarter pound of cheese and ventured the cautious guess that "most of the folks around here seem to be for Eisenhower."

Farther west David Brent, who grows tobacco, said he had to cut his acreage back so much he is depending more on other crops all the time. He said he is striking with the Democrats because he thinks the farmers got a better break under Democratic administrations.

In the white fence country around Lexington are the expansive horse breeding farms. It doesn't always reflect the sentiment of central Kentucky in which it lies.

Lexington is in Fayette County, which gave Eisenhower 17,376 votes to Stevenson's 14,275 four years ago. But the 6th Congressional Dist. in which it is included, went to Stevenson by 10,000 votes.

Democrats claim there will be some changes in Lexington, now that University of Kentucky and Transylvania College students who are 18 or older can vote for the first time this year under a Kentucky constitutional amendment.

Pretty Jean White, a Transylvania coed, said she and most of her friends are voting for Eisenhower because "I think he has been a good president and I don't think Stevenson would do as well."

Republicans have contended that Negro voters are turning to their party this year. This may or may not be true.

Mrs. Ida Burnett, Negro elevator operator in a Lexington hotel, said she is sticking with Ike.

"I think President Eisenhower is a gentleman," she said. "He has added dignity to the office of president and that is why I am for him."

A Negro hotel maid said she always has been a Democrat but is going to vote for Eisenhower "because he's a good man and me and my boy is doing all right."

Eisenhower has whipped up the Republicans with a personal visit to Lexington and may be back in the state again before the election.

On how well he runs here may depend the success of the party's two senatorial candidates, John Sherman Cooper, former ambassador to India, generally is regarded as being ahead of Wetherby for the Barkley short term.

Thurston B. Morton, former State Department official, is not given as good a chance against Clements, who has demonstrated he is a difficult man to defeat in Kentucky.

While Clements and Wetherby contend there is widespread farm dissatisfaction in Kentucky, it is hard to find any sizable indications of it.

Neither does there appear to be any organized and effective labor union opposition to Eisenhower.

Hollywood Is Tackling Controversial Subjects

By Bob Thomas
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In his search for controversy to lure customers to the theaters, the movies are now tackling the touchy subject of the government's loyalty program.

"Three Brave Men," being filmed by 20th Century-Fox, is largely the story of Abraham Chasanow, an executive with 22 years experience in the Navy Department. On July 29, 1953, he was handed a letter that told him he was suspended from duty "in the further interest of national security."

This began a nightmare that lasted more than a year. At a loss to account for the action, Chasanow fought against lies, innuendo and secret procedures before finally winning vindication.

The story is being told with Oscar winner Ernest Borgnine as the wronged official and Ray Milland as his lawyer-defender. Produced by Herbert Bayard Swope Jr., the film is being written and directed by Philip Dunne, son of another literary figure, Peter Finley Dunne of the "Mr. Dooley" stories.

Dunne, scholarly-looking, talented screen writer "How Green Was My Valley," "David and Bathsheba"—turned director—"The View From Pompey's Head"—enthusiased about his new project. "It's not just a tract," he said. "The elements of a human, emotion story are there. Some of the things in the real story are so dramatic that we can't use them."

"For instance, there's the matter of the man's community rallying immediately to his support. That would be too obvious, so we are showing that the Navy instituted a review first, which is actually true."

Dunne said that releases had been obtained from Chasanow, his attorney, Joseph Fanelli, and others connected with the case. But actual names won't be used.

"I think the picture will have a good effect abroad," Dunne declared. "You can't just show America as being perfect. The best way to demonstrate our way of life is to point out a sore spot and then show how democracy heals it over. That's the system I use" when I was making films for the OWI during the war.

"The fact that we can correct our faults is one of the strengths of democracy."

New Insurance Hearing Planned

RALEIGH (AP)—Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold says he will call a public hearing sometime in November on a new hurricane insurance rate increase proposal.

The N.C. Fire Insurance Rating Bureau yesterday presented Gold with the third such proposal since Hurricane Hazel.

The rating bureau's filing proposes a rate increase on extended coverage insurance approximating 11.9 per cent and amounting to $738,000 a year. This compares with the $3,803,000 first asked by the bureau last year and the $1,625,000 to which the bill was whittled after Gold refused the initial request.

Gold objected to a deductible feature affecting radio and TV antennas in rejecting the second proposal.

Demos Face Big Struggle In N. J.

BY RELMAN MORIN
TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — In New Jersey today, the Democrats are like a football team about to take the field against a heavily favored opponent.

They know the betting odds are against them. They know it will take their best effort to win.

And they are confident in any event they can do better than last time. In that contest, four years ago, Dwight D. Eisenhower defeated Adlai E. Stevenson by a whopping 359,000 margin, representing more than 57 per cent of the total vote.

On their part, the Republicans profess to see no reason why they shouldn't repeat.

Today, employment and payroll figures are higher than in 1952. Farm policy is not a big issue here. No other questions seem to be agitating the whole state.

However, doorbell ringing brings out some "X" factors. They could surprise both sides.

Examples—
1. A large percentage of people say they are still "undecided." Of these, many said they voted for Eisenhower in 1952.

That being so, which way will they vote this year?

2. As in other states, a handful out of a sampling of New Jersey voters say they are switching from Eisenhower to Stevenson this time. None was met who talked of switching the other way.

How many of these double-value ballots will be cast for the Democrats?

3. The state has had an estimated 14 per cent population increase since the last census, largely from migration. The Democrats believe they will reap the bigger crop in this new field of votes.

Will they? Or will the people who have moved into predominantly Republican communities vote as their neighbors do?

These are some of the imponderables in the equation. To them can be added some partisan claims.

Registration appears to have increased all over the state in relation to the 1952 figures. Republicans are elated over that, interpreting it as a sign that their get-out-the-vote drive has succeeded.

But they are especially jubilant over the fact that their biggest county, Bergen, is up by an estimated 40,000 to a total registration of 392,000 whereas Hudson, big Democratic county, appears to be down by some 30,000 to 336,000.

On the other side, the Democrats claim their organization is in better shape today than in years. They say the "trend" is toward them. And they watch admiringly as the personable and energetic Gov. Robert Meyner—who is expected to seek re-election next year—gets out virtually every night to battle for the party.

Meyner won the state house by 160,000 votes just one year after Eisenhower's '52 victory. He was the first Democratic governor in 10 years.

Utilities Trying A Cheaper Fuel

The Utilities Commission is running tests on a cheaper coal in an attempt to keep costs down when the price of the fuel goes up.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam told the commission last night that coal is scheduled to rise in price by about 50 cents per ton and the tests are being conducted to determine if a cheaper coal will do the job and thus hold the amount paid for the fuel in line.

The superintendent noted that the coal being tested is "not quite as good in quality as the coal now being used."

"The tests are not complete yet," Bloxam told the commissioners, "but so far we are well pleased with the tests." Bloxam said it is contemplated that Vanceboro will be turned over to Carolina Power and Light some time this week or early next week.

CP&L purchased the Utilities franchise and lines in the Craven County town recently after long hearings before the State Utilities Commission on Vanceboro charges of poor service from Greenville Utilities.

Bloxam told the commissioners that work on the city's new deep well is progressing satisfactorily. The well, first to be used by the city, was recently dug at Washington and 13th Sts.

Bloxam said it is hoped the well will be "pumped off" and samples sent to the State Board of Health for final analysis within the next few days.

Until now the city's water supply has come entirely from the Tar River. Bloxam also reported on the progress of various water, sewer and electric projects.

SMALL GRAINS HELPED
RALEIGH (AP)—Rains in North Carolina last week greatly accelerated the growth of early small grains. The North Carolina Crop Reporting Service said today.

Tried To 'Quiet' Train With Gun

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A 36-year-old Tulsa, who tried to quiet a "noisy" Midland Valley freight train by firing his shotgun, was found guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The jury convicted Alfred A. Diffe but failed to agree on punishment—which could range up to five years. Sentencing was set for Oct. 19.

A 51-year-old railroad car inspector, H. Hopper, was injured by the shotgun blast while standing on one of the freights last June 8.

Diffe admitted he fired the weapon, but said he had no intention of hitting anyone, just wanting to "scare them" from making noise while switching trains close to his back yard.

Students Delve Into Library Operations

By IRENE CAYTON
Grimesland School Reporter

The General Business class has been studying library operations recently and as a part of the course heard a talk by Mrs. O.B. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis told the students about uses of the Reader's Guide, the health of knowledge contained in the World Almanac and the division of the card catalogue, as well as outlining general library operations.

Mrs. Carr, the class advisor, concluded the course with a study of the dictionary and its parts. The next unit to be discussed by the business students will be "filling."

Mascots were voted on by members of the Senior Class October 4 and Lynette Taylor and Douglas Cytton were chosen. Two girls and three boys, all relatives of the seniors, were entered in the contest.

Soreness is a dreaded but popular trouble in Grimesland now. Basketball practice for boys and girls has started and there has been a good turnout for both squads, something that pleases the coaches.

How many germs does a housefly carry—5,000—50,000—or 5,000,000? You are correct if your answer is 5,000,000.

The biology class has been studying insects and learning how to classify them according to the manner in which metamorphosis occurs, types of wings and types of mouth parts. Each pupil has started a collection of insects to help in individual study.

The class is also in the process of making a balanced aquarium.

Mr. James Everette Hudson, a former Air Force captain, is principal this year at Grimesland. During his time in service he was a test pilot and also flew over "The Hump" between India and China.

He graduated from East Carolina with an A.B. degree in 1947 and received his master's degree the following year while serving as an assistant instructor in the Physical Education Department.

Mr. Hudson also attended the University of North Carolina and received a graduate certificate in physical education while doing further work toward a Doctor of Education degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson have three children. He is originally from Thomasville.

Some of our principal's earlier positions include an athletic directorship, a job as a football official in the Northeastern Officials Association, principal of several schools and a football coaching job. As a high school student, Mr. Hudson worked in a shipyard and also in a furniture factory. At the present time, in addition to his school duties, he is a part-time employee of Compton's Picture Encyclopedia Company.

Not Satisfied, So She Ran Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Margaret Sullivan says the reason she failed to appear in a television play Monday night was because she was not satisfied with her rehearsal performance.

The 45-year-old stage and screen star said last night she told the show's producer, Felix Jackson she could not go through with the show.

"I insisted I be replaced," Miss Sullivan said, adding, "The producer apparently did not take me seriously."

Jackson has not been available for comment on Miss Sullivan's statement.

Miss Sullivan stayed away from CBS' Studio One performance of "The Pilot," a play based on the life of a nun, Sister Mary Aquinas. The performance was called off and a kinescope (film) of a previous program was shown.

Kenneth A. Wagg, Miss Sullivan's husband, earlier told newsmen his wife was ill and in a hospital, but would give no further details.

In her statement, issued through her press agent and confirmed by her attorney, Miss Sullivan said "a misunderstanding took place" and she and her husband had been staying with friends, whom she did not identify.

The actress attributed her husband's explanation that she was ill to the fact that he is "a businessman not acquainted with show business."

Strauss Claims U. S. Leadership In Atomic Field

NEW YORK (AP) — Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says the United States is "the acknowledged world leader in every aspect of nuclear power development, both for national defense and for peaceful uses."

Strauss, speaking last night before the New York Board of Trade, criticized a charge by Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, that the United States was lagging behind Britain and the Soviet Union in the development of full-scale atomic power plants.

Until just before President Eisenhower was inaugurated, Strauss said, "the opportunities for private development of nuclear power did not exist."

Within a week after the new atomic energy law was enacted in 1954, Strauss said, "President Eisenhower broke ground for a full-scale power plant at Shippingport, Pa."

"In terms of strictly civilian atomic power, our program includes 30 reactors in operation in the United States — under construction, planned or proposed for experimental or for actual full-scale use.

"Eighteen of these 30 plants will provide commercial power for homes and industries, beginning with the Shippingport plant next year."

Of the 18 plants, Strauss said, "six will be built by industry without depending on the government for any direct financial assistance."

Reporting on over-all atomic progress, Strauss said the United States has built "a total of 82 reactors in this country, and at least 127 more are either already under construction or planned."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — A fairly good stock market advance ran into profit-taking and left prices irregularly higher early this afternoon.

The general advance was peppered with minus signs among pivotal issues but losers were mainly fractional. Numerous stocks held gains of fractions to around a point or so.

The market was higher from the start in active trading. It looked like a partial resumption of the rally of yesterday's last half hour when trading was the most spirited in a week.

But the turnover slackened and prices gradually backed away. Industrial stocks were ahead on average. Rails were mixed. Oils hung to a good front of advances.

U. S. Steel, after a small early rise, dipped to the minus side. Youngstown held most of a 1-point gain. Bethlehem steel was steady.

General Motors, Ford and Chrysler erased slight early gains and backed down a bit.

Among rails, New York Central lost around a point, Santa Fe a fraction. Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central rose by fractions.

American Tobacco was up around a point. United Aircraft was up beyond a point as was American Telephone.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady, farm price 16. POB plant 17 1/2.

Raleigh eggs steady, A large 48; Asheville eggs steady, A large 45-47.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) — Hog prices were mostly steady today. Tops of 15.75 to 16.75 at Rocky Mount; 16.00 to 16.50 at Scotland Neck, Jackson, Bethel, Tarboro, Enfield, Kinston, Benson and New

Doctor Gives 'Fireside Chat' To Civic League

Dr. Andrew A. Best pulled up his chair and talked like a father of the members of the Civic League Tuesday night, after being presented by J. H. Donaldson, chairman of the Program Committee.

He told the group that this community needs to put on an extensive educational program to teach such things as courtesy, politeness, and cleanliness. The speaker made special mention of people failing to take care of their body with plain soap and water, especially when they are going into a crowd.

The speaker told the group that amount of juvenile delinquency, and adult delinquency in this community, and he attributed a great deal of the juvenile delinquency to the lack of training in the home; however, he continued, this does not leave out the church and the schools because it will take all community agencies to rear a child the way he should be. Dr. Best said that most adult delinquency can be traced to some type of mental health problem. He went on to say it is his belief that the lack of wholesome recreation was basically the cause which this community does not afford.

The speaker told the group that it was his opinion that integration

Funeral Here Friday For James C. Tyson

James Clifford Tyson, 89, native of Pitt County and father of Mrs. E. W. Hellen of Greenville, died in Wilmington Wednesday afternoon, according to information received here.

Mr. Tyson spent almost his entire life in Greenville and was well known here, particularly for his intense interest and active participation in affairs of Greenville's Memorial Baptist Church. At the time of his death he was making his home with another daughter, Mrs. George Gornio Jr. in Wilmington.

Funeral services will be held here Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Memorial Baptist Church. The Rev. Percy Upchurch, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Dr. H. F. Jones, a former pastor. Burial will follow in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

State Psychologist Is Here For Two Clinics

Dr. Helton McAndrew, one of five psychologists assigned to the State Board of Public Welfare, will be in Greenville today and tomorrow for a psychological clinic.

The clinic is one of a series sponsored by the State Board to give psychological assistance to school children and adults. Cases handled are referred to the psychologists by local welfare departments.

Eighty-five per cent of the cases handled by the travelling clinics are for children, usually youngsters who have educational problems. Adult cases most frequently handled are those judged by county welfare departments as likely to be eligible for consideration for aid to the permanently and totally disabled or by the Eugenics Board for sterilization. Others may be referred to determine their potentialities for vocational rehabilitation or for assuming the responsibility of caring for children in the case of aid to dependent children grants.

According to Pitt County Welfare Superintendent K.T. Futrell, 25 individual services were rendered to Pitt County Citizens last year by the travelling psychologists. Cases which will be handled by Dr. McAndrew in his clinic today and tomorrow have already been scheduled by the local Welfare Department.
