Ike Begins Five-Day Vote Tour

Heads West As Stevenson Continues Talk Ban Of Tests On H-Bomb

President Eisenhower begins his longest tour of the current presidential campaign today, perhaps considering a reply to Adlai Stevenson's latest assault on the administration's H-bomb policies.

The Democratic candidate denied claims of Eisenhower and other GOP leaders that his proposals threaten U.S. security.

Stevenson said the tests unleash "the most dreadful poison in the world" (the atomic fall-out) and "may cause the human race unmeasured damage."

Eisenhower's campaign flight is a five-day vote-seeking foray, expanded yesterday to include California. The 5,850-mile itinerary calls for eight speeches in five Western states.

The original schedule called for midday talks in St. Paul and Minneapolis today, with speeches later in Washington, Oregon and Colorado. This was broadened to include a major address in Los Angeles Friday night.

In filmed remarks nationally telecast last night, Eisenhower made another campaign appeal, asking voters to make their choice on the basis of an "honest judgment" of the administration record.

Eisenhower said at a recent press conference he had said his "last word" on Stevenson's proposals that the military draft might be ended in the foreseeable future, when national security permits, and that an effort be made to halt H-bomb testing.

President's press secretary James C. Hagerty said yesterday he may have more to say on the subject's anyway.

"I am sure," Hagerty said, "that if misstatements are made, particularly in connection with testing, the President will feel he has a duty to keep the record straight."

Assailing Eisenhower's views last night, Stevenson said a world in grave danger cannot afford a "defeatist" approach and "we cannot brush the hydrogen bomb under the rug."

This is one subject on which there cannot be, there must not be, any last word. "Taking issue with point by point criticisms by Eisenhower and other administration spokesmen, Stevenson said:

"It is said that other countries might get the jump on us. The President implied that we would stop our research while others continued theirs. But I have made no such suggestion, and obviously we should not stop our research. We should prepare ourselves so that, if another country violated the agreement, we could promptly resume our testing program."

The President even implied that the proposal would somehow reduce or curtail our power to defend ourselves. It would not. We would give up none of our stockpile. We would even add to it, as needed, from current production. We could continue to develop and test smaller nuclear weapons. We should continue our research and development work on guided missiles, for the defense of our cities and for use in the field."

Eisenhower said last April 25, four days after Stevenson first raised the issue, "research without test is perfectly useless, a waste of money."

Vice President Nixon, campaigning in Ohio, Indiana and New York today and tonight, was reported working on a reply to Stevenson's H-bomb speech. Yesterday, Nixon maintained in a series of talks in Ohio industrial centers that labor never had it so good as under the Eisenhower administration.

Stevenson's running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, scheduled a 30-minute nationwide radio-television speech from New York City tonight.

In a statement in New York, Kefauver said he has found "a housewives' revolt" in progress against the administration because of what he called "the mounting cost of living under the GOP."

These six are among eight counties, scattered across the country, which have voted for the winner in every presidential election for more than 50 years, most of them since William McKinley won in 1896.

Estimates were made by newspaper editors and correspondents in response to an Associated Press inquiry.

Packhouse And Tobacco Destroyed By Fire

PACKHOUSE BURNS—Flames lick at the wreckage of a packhouse which contained approximately 10% barns of tobacco. The packhouse was destroyed on the D. L. Worthington farm located on the County Home road around 9 o'clock last night. The loss was said to be partially insured. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Two Packhouses Destroyed Here By Fire in Night

Two pack houses were destroyed by fire last night, one containing 10% barns of tobacco and the second around 3,600 sticks.

The first fire, which was discovered around 9 p.m., was on the D. L. Worthington farm near the County Home. The second, around 12:30 a.m., was on the Will Hawkins farm about 10 miles east of Greenville on U.S. 264.

Winterville Fire Chief Lloyd Worthington estimated that between 12,000 and 14,000 pounds of tobacco were lost in the blaze at the Worthington farm.

The fire in the big packhouse was discovered around 9 p.m. and Winterville firemen, aided by Greenville firefighters, battled the blaze for approximately an hour.

The firemen and others managed to save some tobacco sticks and trucks from the burning building. In addition they saved several adjoining buildings.

N.C. Crandall, Negro tenant on the farm, said he had just completed working a quantity of tobacco in the pack house in preparation for sale.

Crandall was not at home at the time of the fire.

Worthington said Crandall's wife and child were at home. They told him a passing motorist drove into the yard and told them the pack house was afire.

Worthington said no water shortage developed in fighting the fire. The two Winterville trucks carry approximately 1,700 gallons of water. Greenville's truck returned as soon as the fire was brought under control.

Chief Worthington said there was some insurance on the packhouse and tobacco.

The fire drew a considerable number of sightseers and automobiles lined both sides of the highway in front of the farm as the bright flames lit the sky.

Greenville firemen were called to the Hawkins farm around 12:30 a.m. They reported that the pack house was completely destroyed when they arrived.

It is not known whether the loss was covered by insurance.

Tensions Ease; Iraq Says Troop Movement Held Off

JERUSALEM (AP)—A report that Iraqi troops would not move into Jordan yet tended today to relax tensions on both sides of the Israeli-Jordan border.

But Syria announced she was sending in a gift of heavy weapons to help in the defense of Jordan's frontier with Israel.

Syria's military attache in Amman, the Jordanian capital, told a news conference that a military mission from his country accompanied the weapons to train the Jordanians to use them. He said Jordanian arms consignments from Syria would reach Jordan later this month and early in November.

Syrian Ambassador Fouad Kadmani said the arms shipment began moving into Jordan after midnight and was still coming this morning. He called the weapons an unconditional gift from the Syrian people to help defend Jordan's borders, which he termed the first Arab line of defense against Israeli attacks.

The decision to hold off on the planned reinforcement of Jordan's army by 3,000 Iraqi troops was reported by the Amman newspaper Al Jihad. It helped to clear the atmosphere in Amman, where war fears had mounted after Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion warned his government reserved its right of freedom of action if the Iraqis crossed into the neighboring Arab kingdom.

Al Jihad said that during Monday's talks in Amman between Jordan's King Hussein and Iraq's Crown Prince Abdul Illah, agreement was reached that the Iraqi troops would stay just outside Jordan's borders but would join Hussein's forces in the event of Israeli aggression.

A palace official in Amman said a joint communique on the Jordan-Iraq talks would be issued in Amman and Baghdad tonight.

Earlier, Iraqi plans to send about 3,000 troops to strengthen Jordan's government against collapse reportedly had Western approval. The United States and Britain were said to feel the Iraqis would serve as a stabilizing influence during countrywide elections next Sunday.

Israel, however, saw the move as a direct threat to her.

It also caused alarm in Egypt, where officials appeared to view such action as an Iraqi attempt to take over Egypt's kingdom position in the Arab world, Salah Salim, President Nasser's former propaganda minister, accused Iraqi Premier Nuri Said of engineering a plot to occupy Jordan.

Bloodmobile Visit Set For Thursday

A quota of 140 pints of blood has been set for Thursday's visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile—the third visit in less than a month to the Greenville area.

The visit won't be primarily for townspeople, however, according to Dr. J.L. Watters, chairman of Pitt County's blood program. Instead, the Bloodmobile will visit the campus of East Carolina College under the sponsorship of the college's Air Force ROTC unit.

The Bloodmobile, with its crew of trained Red Cross personnel and volunteer workers from the college, will be at the Wright Building on the campus from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. Thursday. While the bulk of donors are expected to be ROTC cadets and other students, both Dr. Watters and Captain Jean M. Crane of the ROTC staff have issued invitations to Pitt County citizens to take part in the program.

Quotas were exceeded on both of the recent visits of the Bloodmobile. On September 19, 124 pints of blood were donated at the Moose Lodge and on September 20 Dupont employees and Gritton-area citizens added another 111 pints.

Cadet Colonel Ernest L. McFarland of Henderson is serving as chairman for Thursday's visit. Members of the ROTC detachment are in the process of making a schedule for prospective donors.

McFarland, in announcing the drive, said, "For the past three years the East Carolina Air Force ROTC unit has sponsored a visit to the campus by the Bloodmobile and has succeeded each year in reaching the quota. Cadets hope to make the 1956 drive a success also."

Market Strong After Holiday

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market came back strong yesterday after a two-day sales holiday had idled the market since last Wednesday.

Sales Supervisor Charles Edwards reported the market disposed of 710,916 pounds of tobacco for $385,550.15. The average price of $54.23 set a new high for this season.

The market is continuing to attract good grades of leaf and buyers are still competing strongly for the offerings, Edwards said.

Eight Indicted On Gambling Count In City

Eight Greenville men have been indicted for gambling and are slated to appear before Judge Charles Whedbee at next Friday's term of City Court.

Captain Herbert Wooten while checking various policemen's beats, happened by John Flanagan Buggy Company early Saturday morning. He noticed a light and noise in one of the back room offices, tried the door and found it unattached. Wooten, thinking it to be a safe robbery, telephoned for help. Fortunately for the Flanagan Company, it was not a safe robbery, but rather a large card game in progress.

Those arrested include: John T. Hunter, William G. Norman, W. G. Morris, Graham Flanagan, J. G. Norman, Robert Galloway, John Royce Jones and L. A. Whitehurst.

Five Injured

FOUNTAIN — Five of six Camp Lejeune Marines were seriously injured yesterday morning one mile north of here when the car in which they were riding crashed into a tree on US Highway 258.

They were returning to base when the accident occurred.

Investigating highway patrolman D. L. Minshew listed the driver as William R. Collins. Collins was the only member of the party who escaped with minor injuries.

All the occupants were carried to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. Included were: Charles R. Andrews Jr., 19, lacerations of the head and back injuries; Richard C. Bahr, 30, head injuries; John J. Kold, 18, broken back; Raymond L. Byrne, 18, and Richard A. Cavallan, 18, admitted for observation.

Airliner Ditches In Pacific; All Rescued

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A big Pan American plane was forced down on the Pacific Ocean today and broke in half, but the Coast Guard rescued the 31 persons within minutes.

Coast Guard statements moments before said 32 were rescued, but this was quickly revised and 31 is the latest official total.

The Stratocruiser, en route from Honolulu to San Francisco, was forced to ditch about 1,000 miles southwest of San Francisco because of trouble in two of its four engines.

The plane was ditched by Pilot Richard Ogg at 8:16 a.m. PST, and sank in 21 minutes, the Coast Guard reported.

"All survivors rescued," said a reassuring message from the weather ship Pontchartrain. Nobody was seriously injured, but five persons suffered minor injuries, a message said.

The Pan American crew, trained for such emergencies, apparently got the passengers into life rafts. "Four rafts in water," the Pontchartrain messaged soon after the plane went down.

The Pontchartrain then launched its lifeboats and took everyone aboard.

Pilot Ogg circled three hours over the weather ship, awaiting daylight to put his plane down. Trouble with two of the plane's four engines caused the mishap. From San Francisco a seaplane was to leave shortly with a rescue doctor aboard. The Coast Guard said it would take the plane about six hours to reach the scene.

Pilot Ogg had awaited for daylight to set his plane down on a rather quiet sea.

Aboard were 24 passengers and seven members of the crew, Pan American said.

One engine of the four-engine plane was dead and the propeller on another was not functioning properly, Pan American said.

Below was Ocean Station November, a Coast Guard weather station ship approximately halfway between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Pan American said the plane was flight No. 6-13. It had left from the Orient Oct. 13. Its last stop was Honolulu which it left last night. It was due in San Francisco at 7 a.m.

Of the passengers 15 were men, 6 were women and 3 were children, Pan American said.

The pilot was Richard Ogg. Other crew members were: 1st Officer G. L. Haaker, 2nd Officer Richard L. Brown, Engineer Frank Garcia, Purser Patricia Reynolds, Stewardesses Mary A. Daniel and Katherine Araki.

Coast Guard headquarters at San Francisco said Weather Station November is manned by the 255-foot cutter Pontchartrain.

The Navy's Western Sea Defense command at San Francisco directed the Carrier Bennington and the destroyer E. J. Vammen to the scene as well as two other ships, the Frank Petrarca and the Johnson. All were reported "in the area" but no definite locations were given.

Ship within 300 miles of the weather station were asked to listen in and help with radio signals.

At Honolulu, a Pan American spokesman said Pilot Ogg reported one outboard engine "ran away" and he was unable to control it. After he had turned back toward Honolulu, Pan American officials "lost control of his other outboard engine."

The Coast Guard said there were swells in the water from three to five feet and the weather was good for ditching.

Another Vote For City Bond Issue Slated By Council

Greenville voters will have to cast their ballots a second time on the $275,000 in bonds which it is proposed that the city issue.

It has all been done once before—on July 11—but City Manager Leonard Bloxam told councilmen last night that a technicality involving the dating of approval papers for the election made a second election necessary.

City fathers approved Nov. 20 as the date for the new election.

Bloxam told the councilmen that the matter involved the date of approval of the bond issued by W. E. Easterling, secretary of the North Carolina Local Government Commission.

"The city manager said city officials received verbal approval of the plans from Easterling around April 15 and the date of the verbal approval was used in filling out forms. Later it developed that the Local Government Commission secretary approved the bond issue as of the date of receipt of the papers in his office."

Bloxam said that bond attorneys would be willing to accept the election results if Easterling would predate the papers. However, Bloxam said Easterling "won't consider that under any circumstances."

Must Hold Election Second Time

Thus the only alternative is to hold the bond election a second time.

"It's something we are going to have to plough through again," Bloxam told the councilmen. "All other forms comply."

Registrations books for the election will be open from Nov. 2 to Nov. 10 and Challenge Day will be Nov. 17.

As in the July 10 election only those who have not registered for previous city elections must place their names on registrations books during the Nov. 2-10 period.

Persons who failed to vote on July 10 will not be prohibited from doing so in the new election.

Local voters overwhelmingly approved the $275,000 bond issue in July with only the vote for funds for recreation being close.

Following is the amount set up in each section of the bond issue and the vote for and against: Fire Department, $25,000 for 554 against 108; Street Department, $15,500 for 459 against 209; street improvements, $24,000, for 464 against 206; Greene Mill Run, $16,000 for 451 against 215; street drainage, $131,500, for 464 against 205; Recreation, $62,000, for 370 against 305.

Bloxam emphasized that no new bond issues will be involved in the Nov. 20 election.

"The thing I want the citizens to understand is that we are not asking them to vote any more money," he declared this morning. "It's the same thing over again to clear up the date technicality."

Bloxam said that around 60 days has been lost up to now in obtaining ing the bond issue monies.

However he said: "If the people will on Nov. 20 vote this money we can use reserve monies that we have to start work on the projects and pay it back out of the bond issue money after bonds are sold."

The bonds should be sold 30 to 60 days after the election is held, he noted.

A floridation straw vote held along with the bond issue election in July will not be involved in the new election.

Atlantic Search In Final Hours

LONDON (AP)—More than 100 planes, an aircraft carrier and dozens of other ships fanned out over the Atlantic today in search of a U. S. military transport that vanished six days ago, but hope was practically abandoned of finding any survivors among the 59 servicemen aboard.

The U. S. Air Force said the search force would be reduced to a token group by tonight. A communique said:

"Third Air Force authorities and the 9th Air Rescue Group, which has been in immediate control of the search, believe that a large-scale general search is no longer practicable."

The search, one of the greatest in air history, was spurred by the British tanker Navecella's discovery some 370 miles southwest of England of a pair of aircraft wheels and a partially deflated life raft believed to be from the missing C118 Liftmaster.

Hungary Reports Plane-Seizure Effort Blocked

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Hungary's Communist government says two of its secret policemen foiled an attempt by four heavily armed men to seize a Hungarian airliner in flight and head it to West Germany.

In a bloody fight above the clouds, the police officers shot one of the plotters dead and wounded another. The other two surrendered, the Hungarian Interior Ministry said.

The ministry gave this account of the incident:

Police arrested a confederate of the four and learned of the plot shortly before the plane left Budapest Airport yesterday. The aircraft, bound for the Hungarian town of Zalaegerszeg, stopped at Szombathely en route and two armed plainclothesmen got on board.

Kills Rumor Of Appointive Role

RALEIGH (AP)—Rumors of a move to give the governor power to appoint several top state officials now subject to election have been laid to rest by Gov. Hodges.

The governor released a statement yesterday in which he said he has "no desire to change the method of selection of members of the Council of State," composed of high ranking elected state officials. "I am not concerned with more appointive power," Hodges declared.

Furthermore, Hodges said, such a proposal has not been considered by the Commission on Reorganization of State Government.

The statement resulted from news articles last Tuesday in the Charlotte Observer. The reports said the reorganization commission might be asked to recommend a constitutional amendment to make six of the Council of State members appointive rather than elective.

Hodges said the news stories "came to me as a surprise." He said he contacted State Rep. David Clark of Lincoln, chairman of the reorganization commission, who reported that such a proposal had not been before the commission.

Market Reports $52.60 Average

Prices were a little stronger on the local tobacco market yesterday, Sales Supervisor W. L. Whedbee reported.

The market averaged $52.60 in selling 1,574,924 pounds of tobacco for $828,455.32.

Whedbee said good sales are expected today.

Mob Raids Struck Telephone Exchanges, Enforce Blackout

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—A crowd of about 500 persons stormed telephone exchanges in this area late last night, threw rocks and beer bottles at operators and police alike, and put Scioto County under a phone "blackout" again, the state highway patrol reported.

One man was injured when hit in the head with a brick.

Capt. G. A. Unkle, state highway patrolman in charge, said his men had no jurisdiction and could not interfere with the crowd. Unkle said he too was hit on the head with a brick but that he was not hurt.

"The first outbreak occurred at the nearby New Boston Exchange of the struck Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. It spread to the Portsmouth Exchange and the nearly Sciotoville Exchange. The company then closed all exchanges in Scioto County after police evacuated some 50 company personnel and took them to Columbus.

This southern Ohio city of 40,000 on the Ohio River was without phone service for the second time in four days.

The crowd was joined by steelworkers from the Portsmouth division of Detroit Steel Corp.

The crowd threw rocks and beer bottles at the exchange and also threw telephones which they had taken from their homes and business places. The phones were smashed against the exchange building wall and on the street, and piled up on the steps of the exchange, Unkle said.

Later about 200 persons went to the Portsmouth exchange where Col. George Mingle, state highway patrol superintendent, lined up about 24 of his men on the sidewalk in front of the exchange.

Unkle said the crowd threatened to storm the exchange and drag out the personnel inside—nine women and one man. They proceeded to throw missiles at the building.

Portsmouth Police Chief Hugh Ruddy said he called Ray White, secretary to Gov. Frank J. Lausche, and that White had suggested the company also close the Portsmouth exchange. This was done.

Scioto County phone service was blacked out last Friday following demonstrations at company exchanges the night before.

After Gov. Lausche ordered state patrolmen into the area, the Portsmouth exchange where service was resumed Monday afternoon.

'Bellwether' Counties Indicate Victory For Ike

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political soundings from five of six "bellwether" counties indicate a reelection victory for President Eisenhower. A close vote was predicted in the other.

These six are among eight counties, scattered across the country, which have voted for the winner in every presidential election for more than 50 years, most of them since William McKinley won in 1896.

Estimates were made by newspaper editors and correspondents in response to an Associated Press inquiry.

A similar survey in 1952 resulted in a misfire in one county. Then the "bellwethers" numbered 11. Three fell by the wayside when they went for Stevenson against the national trend. In the 1952 survey, they had been tabbed as likely to go for Stevenson.

Those left in 1956 with records intact are Crook County, Ore.; Albany and Laramie counties, Wyo.; Jasper and Palo Alto counties, Iowa; Vanderburgh County, Ind.; and Stratford and Coos (pronounced Co-oss) counties, N.H.

No sampling was undertaken this year in the two Iowa counties, where voters were reported to speak out.

A switch was predicted for Albany County, Wyo., with Laramie as its biggest community. Three out of five newspaper editors and political leaders interviewed seemed to think Stevenson would carry the county. They reported more Democratic party interest than in 1952, a stronger endorsement of Stevenson by organized labor and a weakening of Eisenhower's support among a few ranchers.

In the other Wyoming county—Laramie, site of Cheyenne—four of six interviewed felt that Eisenhower would carry the county again but that his margin would be smaller. Newspaper editors said the end of the war in Korea would be a factor with women.

Four years ago the editors expected

ed Laramie county to go for Stevenson—the one misfire.

Those interviewed in the two New Hampshire counties unanimously predicted Eisenhower would carry their counties again. However, most said the margin of victory would be smaller than in 1952.

Another Eisenhower victory was foreseen in Vanderburgh County, Ind., site of Evansville.

A poll being taken by the Evansville Press indicated Eisenhower would get 63 per cent of the vote around the end of September.

Two newsmen in Crook County, Ore., predicted Eisenhower would carry the county again this year.

Plan Gay Halloween Treats

AP Newsfeatures

WHY NOT have a Tricks and Treats pick-up for hungry little ghosts and goblins after they've filled their sacks for the evening? Make it a repeat that takes place while loot is being divided by the group. Or if they are all on their own, they could meet to compare treats.

Most youngsters organize their own costumes. But little tots will need some assistance from Mom. A witch's hat is easy to make and fun to wear, as any little broom rider knows.

Here's how to make it: Start with a large head-fitting cone from cardboard. Secure edges with tape. Cut a large circle of cardboard about 3 inches wider all around than the base of the cone. Place the cone on the circle, squeezing slightly so that the base becomes oval to fit the head. Trace around it with pencil and cut the oval piece out of the brim with a razor or other implement. Cover the cone and brim with aluminum foil, securing with tape. Fit the cone into the brim and tape the two together. Decorate it with stars cut from black mat paper.

Serve a good hot corn and tomato chowder with some pumpkin crackers. Combine one 303 size can of cream style corn with one 303 size can tomatoes, 1 can frozen potato soup and frankfurters. You can get the tiny ones in the can or cut up the large size hot dogs. Add one soup can of water, heat through and serve the youngsters in mugs. This recipe should make 6 bowls or 8 mugs of soup. Spread round crackers with processed cheese and decorate them with slices of stuffed olives and green pepper. If you have time cut out bits of the olives and peppers to make a pumpkin face over the cheese.

GERM KILLER

A new commercial chemical formula is said to be capable of destroying all known disease-producing bacteria on contact. The formula (Corobex) is being added to plastic, rubber, ink, paper, paint and paraffin and may be added to textiles and leather to make these items permanently self-sterilizing. It is non-toxic and non-allergic to humans, says Dr. Henri Coutinho, developer of the formula, and has passed bacteriostatic tests performed by government approved laboratories.

Lundholm-Johnson Vows Pledged

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Margaret Ann Johnson became the bride of Joseph Gideon Lundholm Jr. in a candlelight ceremony Sunday afternoon at the First Christian Church in Robersonville. The Rev. Wilbur T. Wallace officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Johnson of Robersonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gideon Lundholm of Osage City, Kans.

Prior to the ceremony, wedding music was presented by Miss Jeanine Taylor, organist, and Mrs. Lawrence Eason Lilly, soloist.

The bride was graduated from the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The bridegroom was graduated from Kansas State College and received his Ph.D. from North Carolina State College. At present he is a special lecturer in nuclear engineering in the department of physics at North Carolina State College.

Mrs. Robert James was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a full length dress of emerald green with a large bow in the back and carried a bouquet of yellow pom poms.

Best man was Donald Harris of Raleigh. Robert Sullivan of Williamston, Robert James of Robersonville, George Hunt and Harold Lamonds of Raleigh were the ushers.

After the wedding the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a blue suit with navy and white accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

The bride was graduated from the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. The bridegroom was graduated from Kansas State College and received his Ph.D. from North Carolina State College. College. After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee, the couple will be at home on 1002 Nichols Drive in Raleigh.

Pre-Nuptial Events

The home of Mrs. Jack Munns in Raleigh was decorated with many arrangements of flowers on Friday evening, September 28, when she honored Miss Ann Johnson, bride-elect of Robersonville, at a dessert bridge.

After a sweet course was served, the guests enjoyed three progressions of bridge. Mrs. David Borchart won the first prize and Mrs. Ben Williams had low score. The hostess presented the honoree with a white carnation corsage and silver in her chosen pattern.

Tuesday morning from 10:30 to 11:30, Mrs. Willie B. Everett and Mrs. B. E. Anderson honored Miss Margaret Ann Johnson with a Coca-Cola party and linen shower.

For this occasion the Everett home on Main Street was decorated throughout with fall flowers.

Upon arrival the bride-elect received a purple orchid corsage to compliment her gray dress.

A large box covered with green and white crepe paper and filled with many gift-wrapped packages was presented to Miss Johnson. The eighteen guests then went to the dining room where potato chips, pickles, sand tarts, salted peanuts and Coca-Colas were served buffet style.

Lighting Discussed At HD Meet

"Keep Your Home Bright With Lights" was the demonstration topic given by Pitt Home Agent Lillie Little when the Mount Pleasant Home Demonstration Club met Friday.

Mrs. Little pointed out the importance of having the proper kind of lighting for a specific job. She said general lighting was adequate for overall vision but local lighting is needed for reading or detailed work.

Illustrating her talk with various kinds of bulbs and shades, Mrs. Little also discussed clear, frosted or tinted bulbs and proper heights for lamps.

Present for the meeting was Ed Harris, secretary-treasurer of Farmer's Day, Inc. Harris reviewed program events for next year and the different awards available.

Mrs. Gladys Forbes gave the devotional.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. C. H. Hagan, president. Two new leaders were named for the club. They are Mrs. D. G. Weldon, clothing leader, and Mrs. Herbert Randolph, poultry leader.

Reports were heard from Mrs. Kenneth Hathaway, foods and nutrition leader, who talked on prop-

US Navy Band Performs Before Capacity Crowd

By GEORGE E. PERRY

What an Auditorium was filled to the brim last evening—not only with a capacity audience, but also with a "capacity tone"—when the United States Navy Band made its long-awaited appearance in Greenville.

There are several great bands in professional music, but there is only ONE Navy Band, and the high calibre always associated with the Navy is more than present with this outstanding group of musicians. When I said "capacity of tone" a few lines back, I was not speaking facetiously, but rather complimentarily. It was full without running over, thrilling without being ear-splitting (except possibly twice when the fanfare trumpets played) and excellently blended.

What is the secret of their quality? The most obvious attributes are attack, ensemble, blend and balance of tone, and quality of tone. It was full-bodied, big without being overpowering. No one seemed to have to over-blow, the simple volume being produced instead by proper breath support. If it was a big brassy tone you wanted—the customary band tone—then you were probably disappointed, for in many respects, this band sounded more like an orchestra, the only difference being that clarinets formed the principal choir instead of strings.

Of course a band is only as good as its composite choirs, and every one of them in this band obviously is top-bracket. Twelve clarinets when playing in unison, sounded as one, and when playing in parts, sounded as if a single instrument were playing "double stops," if that were possible on a clarinet. The tuba section certainly deserves special mention for the solid foundation it gave in the ensemble portions, and for some intricate passage work. The percussion section likewise cannot be passed by without comment, the tympani especially being exceptionally well-handled.

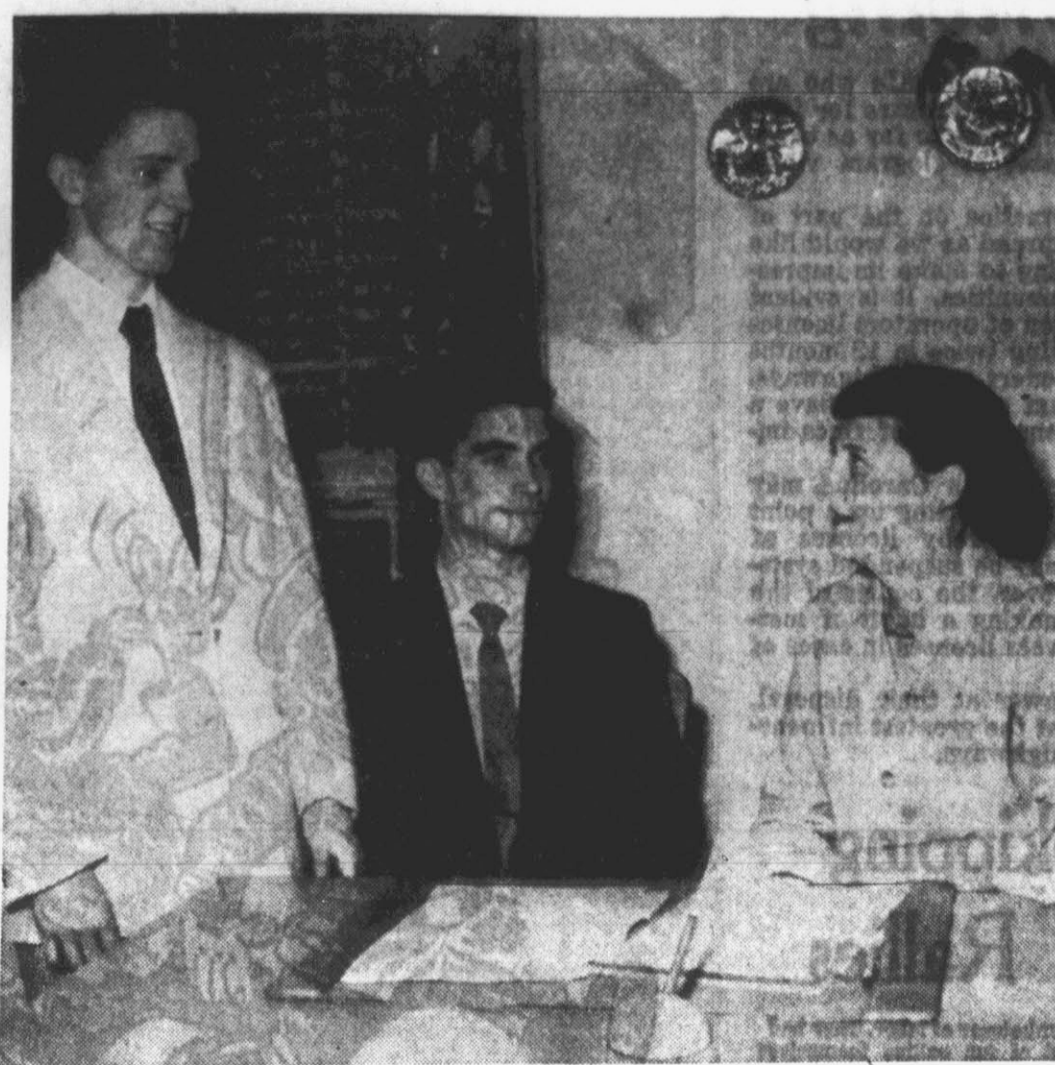

Commander Charles Brendler, the band's eminent conductor, does some remarkable things with his men, as the program proved. From a moderate amount—but enough—of the standard march repertoire, through such standard words as "The Swan Lake Ballet" music by Tchaikowsky, Wagner's "Ride of the Valkyries," Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" in transcription, and into the lighter numbers, the group performed accurately, musically, and with noticeable taste and finesse.

The soloists were certainly outstanding: Lawrence Wiehe, trombonist; Richard Bain, harmonica virtuoso; and Ben Mitchell Morris, tenor. All were called back for encores, incidentally.

From the first precise attack of the concert until the final note of "Anchors Aweigh," the interest of the audience and the performance of the band were at top peak. There were no lags nor top spots anywhere in the program. In fact, it is seldom that an audience in Wright shows appreciation beyond the point of applause, but last night they actually added the use of their vocal chords in showing the band with well-deserved praise.

This review would not be complete without a mention of the fact that East Carolina's own H. L. Carter, director of bands, was invited to the podium by Commander Brendler, and did his customary fine piece of conducting as he led the band in Sousa's "National Emblem March."

The Courts Can Spur Safer Driving

While there are a good many long range safety programs North Carolina can consider for the improvement of its highway safety record, there are things the state can do now on a broader scope than in the past to impress upon drivers the necessity for greater care under the wheel.

For one thing, courts of the state can become more uniform in the practice of suspending for short periods operators licenses of drivers who disregard or violate fundamental highway regulations.

Registered Voters Of Pitt Can Set A Record

Political signs point to a record turnout of voters in North Carolina for the national election this year. The predictions of veteran observers are encouraging. We only hope the voters of the state will manifest sufficient interest in the outcome of the election to make the predictions come true.

After the surprisingly heavy vote in the special referendum on constitutional amendments last month, predictions for November 6 are rising to the one and one-half million mark. That would be about 75 per cent of the estimated total registration in North Carolina and a much higher percentage than four years ago when more than 1,200,000 Tar Heels went to the polls in the presidential election.

It may be that the politicians have raised their sights on the November election because most of them fell short on their predictions in the special election. Even so, North Carolinians can and should make the predictions come true.

With its total vote of more than 13,000 votes in the 1952 national election, Pitt County voted almost 75 percent of its total registration for a much better showing than other counties of the state. If the county is to maintain its standing this year, more than 15,000 of the 19,300 registered voters will have to go to the polls. That may seem like a lot of votes for Pitt, but that many and more voters can cast ballots on November 6 as registration books show. Pitt can set a new record of its own if the registered voters will just take the minute required to go to the polls.

In past years the percentage of registered voters in Pitt who go to the polls on election day has compared favorably with other counties in the state. There is no reason why Pitt should not make just as good a showing this year when the total vote is counted. In order to do so, however, a greater number of its citizens are going to have to take a special interest in getting to the polls November 6.

The Question Is, Will It Pay Off At The Polls

We don't know whether TV executives or politicians thought of the idea of using the last five minutes of network shows for political telecasts. We are sure of two things however.

1. politicians are getting their pitches to a lot more people than they would have by merely sticking to a regular series of programs; and

2. this new innovation in political telecasts is making the blood of a lot of TV fans boil.

And while we are on the subject, there are three groups affected by this new angle that have our sympathy:

1. the TV fans who don't know whether the little old lady wins the money on the last question.

2. the girls on telephone switchboards of local television stations who take the irate calls of outraged TV viewers; and

3. the politicians who lose votes because someone decides it is a good idea for them to interrupt a regular program just as it reaches its climax.

Cutting off the last few minutes of a good TV show is like cutting off the last inning of a World Series game with the score tied, the bases loaded and Mantle coming to the plate.

But don't blame the poor girl who answers the phone at the TV station or the management of the local station. They don't set network policies.

Strength for the Day

BY EARL L. DOUGLASS
THAT FELLOWSHIP OF PEACE

Seventy hundred years ago a Christian named Cyprian, leader of believers in the African city of Carthage, wrote a letter to a friend named Donatus. This is what he said:

"This seems to be a cheerful world, Donatus, when I view it from this fair garden under the shadow of these vines. But if I climbed some great mountain and looked out over the wide lands, you know very well what I would see. Brigands on the high roads, pirates on the seas, in the amphitheaters men murdered to please applauding crowds, under all roofs misery and selfishness and cruelty. It is really a bad world, Donatus, an incredibly bad world. Yet in the midst of it I have found a quiet and a holy people. They have discovered a joy which is a thousand times better than any pleasure of this sinful life. They are despised and persecuted, but they care not. They have overcome the world. These people, Donatus, are the Christians—and I am one of them."

Being able to rise above life—above its troubles, its sinful enticements, its cares, and its despair! From the beginning Christians have been doing just this. Jesus said that He came in order that his followers might have life and might have it more abundantly; and He has made good on every possible syllable of that declaration.

"These people, Donatus, are Christians—and I am one of them."

crease in the number of judges in the state who are making a habit of suspending drivers licenses for five, ten or 30 days. Some judges have gone so far as to invoke short jail sentences in cases of flagrant violations of traffic regulations.

While this attitude and practice on the part of judges has not become as widespread as we would like to see it, the practice is beginning to make its impression on drivers in certain communities. It is evident that the law permitting revocation of operators licenses of drivers found guilty of speeding twice in 12 months has reduced the number of speeders on the highways. This points to the conclusion that most drivers have a greater fear of losing their licenses than of fines imposed by the courts.

Within the next few years North Carolina may follow the pattern of other states in setting up a point system for individual drivers whereby licenses of those with poor safety records may be suspended systematically. Until that time, however, the courts of the state can do a great deal by making a habit of meting out short suspensions of drivers licenses in cases of traffic violations.

Through exercising the power at their disposal, courts of the state can become of the greatest influence for safer driving and safer highways.

Barnhardt Skipping The District Rallies

By LYNN NISBET

ABSENTEE — Every Democratic nominee for State office, except some of the judges, has attended at least one of the six district rallies so far held and has sent greetings to others, except Luther Barnhardt, nominee for Lieutenant Governor. He has not shown in person, or by wire or letter, or authorized personal representative. And his is the only "new" name on the ballot. Every other candidate, including the judges, is now serving in the position he seeks for the full term. The office of Lieutenant Governor is vacant.

WISE CRACKS — Although Rep. Hugh Alexander is not regarded as a wit, he got off a couple of wisecracks at the ninth district rally. "There is as much peace in the Far East as there is prosperity in our Middle West," he said. And, "There are two billion dollar groups in the United States; General Motors made a billion and the farmers lost a billion dollars under the Republican regime."

Sen. Sam Ervin says "Sherman Adams sings tenor and John Foster Dulles sings baritone, but the tune is the same."

W. P. Redmond, manager of Superior Dairies at Statesville, where the caravan stopped the other day for refreshments, was asked who are his main competitors. "Everybody else," quipped the dairyman, "except the dairymen who do the manufacturing plant."

"I don't know anybody who can give a fellow more hell than can Alton Lennon," Sen. Kerr Scott told the seventh district rally at Whiteville. Reference was to the heated primary contest for U.S. Senate two years ago, which Scott won over Lennon by less than 5,000 majority. Scott added: "I got my throat cut in this section two years ago. Now I want you folks to go out and do for the Republicans in the general election what you've been doing to me."

SHORT BALLOT — The suggestion that all State officials except Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor and Treasurer, should be appointed instead of elected occasioned many wisecracks—especially from those now holding the affected offices. "If they'll write a grandfather clause into the constitution and make the appointment permanent, I'll go along with the idea," said Charlie Gold, insurance commissioner.

"The suggestion is rather inopportune," commented Frank Crane, commissioner of labor. Someone asked what he meant by inopportune, and a newsman volunteered the answer. "It means this is a hell of a time to bring up the subject," said the reporter.

Since the caravan bus started the statewide tour the passenger list has included nearly all the candidates, including the Governor. On its final trip last week only three faithfuls were aboard—Thad Eure, secretary of State; Stax Balentine, commissioner of agriculture, and Frank Crane,

Much of the information handed out by the tour conductors was too technical for a layman. One member of the party recently was intrigued by use of "fluoridative tints" for identifying yarns in process. Green, pink yellow and other dyes are used in colors that will easily wash out in cold water when the process is completed.

The home place farm of more than 1,000 acres is stocked with beef and dairy cattle. Jumping horses are raised and trained, and there have been many prize winners. Presently there are only two veterans of prize winning contests in the corral. They are 19 and 27 years old, and Henkel says they have been good to me and I'm going to see to it they live on their old age in comfort.

The family pet is a 4-year-old Boxer named "Mikky" recently out of a long seige in the hospital with a broken leg. "He's one of the best character animals I've ever known," said his master. "He has never bitten anybody an any animal that did not need biting."

Other Editors Are Saying... How Much One Vote Means

(The Asheville Times)

Around election time, some people always grumble about the uselessness of voting: "How can my one little vote mean anything?"

The American Heritage Foundation and The Advertising Council, which are jointly conducting the current nation-wide Get-Out-The-Vote campaign, have some interesting answers to that. Here are a few examples of close elections they've collected—proving that a few votes could, and did, make the difference.

In 1954 Averell Harriman was elected governor by an average margin of less than one vote per election district. Connecticut's Abraham A. Ribicoff, in a balloting of nearly 1,000,000, marched into the Governor's mansion after he topped his opponent by only 3,115 votes.

For that matter, the mayor of the fourth largest city in Minnesota won his election last year by a single vote.

The power of a small number of votes has also been demonstrated in Presidential elections. In 1952, Eisenhower received the entire electoral vote of four states—Illinois, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Tennessee—in which the difference between his votes and Stevenson's was less than 10 per cent of their combined votes. Similarly, Stevenson took Kentucky and South Carolina by 10 per cent of the total vote. In each of these six states, if no more than five persons in a hundred had voted the other way, the state would have gone the other way.

And what happened in Maine, just a short time ago? The two candidates for Representative of the First Congressional District ended their contest with less than 30 votes separating them—out of 115,000 ballots. Almost 105,000 Americans will be of voting age by the time November 6th rolls around. Maybe you think your one little vote won't count that year in renewing your faith in the Day, your one little vote will make the difference.

A Little Out Of Hand?

by DON SCHLIENZ

Not Much Kick In Our Ice

Watching our boy ecstatically crunch the few shards of ice at the bottom of his glass reminds me he may never know the delectable flavor of ice fresh from the deliveryman's truck during the heat of a summer's month.

A pity, too, because this homemade ice from our refrigerator doesn't have much kick to it; and shucking neat little cubes from a tray, while convenient, has become just another prosaic household activity.

One of the treats of bygone years came when the ice truck moved slowly up the block, stopping every hundred feet or so, and bawling "Steve" would dismount from his cab to deftly cut out the right size piece of ice... and briefly disappear up the drive.

Every street had its scroungers; ranging from maybe ten years to two. They'd materialize in little clusters, miraculously at the time "Steve" (good old Steve) was due to arrive.

The wisps of anticipation would grow and grow until the familiar ice truck hove into view. But no one broke ranks... there was a "code".

It seemed, now that the waiting was nearly over, big, methodical, smiling "Steve" was awfully slow... but young patience was always rewarded. The ice man would climb down from his Olympian cab and if he waved a greeting there was assurance in the hearts of his waiting delegation; if there was no greeting, his audience could only wait and hope.

Mounting the rear of his truck "Steve" would throw back the smoking tarp which shielded his precious cargo from the sun, and necks were craned and eyes were sharp to see if perchance a few crumbs or small chunks of ice were available for the taking. If not, a few preliminary pleadings were sounded. (These were just a warm-up, for the real soul-stirring appeals were saved for Steve's return from his delivery.)

Then for a few minutes of a summer's day the heat was forgotten while chips and chunks of ice were greedily eaten. Nectar and ambrosia are pallid terms to describe the delights of those moments. Maybe the tarpaulin or the wood truck bed imparted a secret succulence unmatched by the freezing compartment of today's refrigerator; again it may be all just one of the false dreams of "what used to be".

Boom In Drugs Is Growing

By ELMER ROESSNER

One of the largest and lushest booms is being enjoyed by the drug and pharmaceutical industry. And it looks as if it will get bigger and go on for a long, long time.

The boom started with the development of penicillin, streptomycin, cortisone and the sulpha drugs, each opening vast new markets. Then came the war, with enormous government orders for almost everything any pharmaceutical house could make.

After the war came hundreds of newer antibiotics and other wonder drugs. The drug industry has been bringing out more new products in a year than it did in a decade before the war.

Experiences of doctors and dog-faces during the war speeded postwar acceptances of new medications. It no longer takes 10 years and 10,000 samples to get a new drug recognized. The bare announcement of a new one often creates more orders than a laboratory can fill.

AND NOW, TRANQUILIZERS

Then came the Salk Vaccine. Only a few houses manufacture it, and it has not yet proven a bonanza. However, as techniques are improved more manufacturers will get into the field. Demand will be constant and perpetual.

New drugs have revolutionized the treatment of tuberculosis. Some of the most famous sanitariums in the nation have been closed because patients are usually treated now with wonder medication at home.

A whole series of tranquilizing drugs have been developed. They relieve tension and relax those mentally disturbed. These, known to physicians as "ataraxics," do not quiet users the way opiates do. They do not make the patient drowsy; they leave him alert, in full possession of all faculties, and relaxed and cheerful. Some doctors believe that the use of these drugs may make it possible to treat many more mental patients at home. Mental institutions may diminish the same way tuberculosis hospitals have.

These tranquilizing drugs, some practitioners hope, will not only eliminate symptoms of mental disturbances but also make patients more co-operative in efforts to find the causes.

NO PILLS FOR NAPOLEONS

Meanwhile, the theory that many mental ailments are results of physical disturbances is gaining ground and research is underway to find medicines that, in setting body chemistry aright, free minds from aberrations.

It is too early to hope that giving a patient a pill will cure him of the belief that he is Napoleon. But the time when combinations of medication and psychiatric treatment will restore many of the mentally afflicted may be only a short time away.

The success of reserpine, Miltown, Equanil, Fenquel, Sparine and similar ataraxics suggests the possibilities of even more amazing drugs for imparting health to minds.

Medical authorities warn against casual use of these tranquilizers, at least until more is known about their effects. Taking pills for "relief of every-day tensions" is unsound, the American Psychiatric Society told members in a bulletin.

However, it is possible that these drugs will be found harmless even after long, continuous use. Should that occur, the tranquilizers become purchasable like aspirin, drug manufacturers might have a prosperity that would make today's boom look like a bluster.

Meanwhile, major pharmaceutical houses are spending about 5 per cent of sales receipts for research. They are seeking new drugs to relieve hardened arteries and to treat heart ailments, and pills to substitute for insulin injections.

This research has been paying off. Most manufacturers have increased sales from 5 to 10 per cent with the wonder products of laboratory work.

does not seem to be the kind of a year when war weariness (1932) will shake the political earth—or the voters.

LABOR PUBLICATIONS APPLAUD BRENNAN APPOINTMENT Labor publications rarely have a kind word for Ike or the GOP. But they felt that they had to approve and applaud his appointment of Judge Willis J. Brennan, Jr., to the Supreme Court. Here is typical comment:

"Particularly interesting to unionists is that Brennan's father, who started out as a coal shoveler in a brewery after landing in the U.S. in 1890, later became active in the labor movement around Newark."

"In 1917, he was elected business agent of Local 56 of the Piremen and Oilers. He was elected four times to the Newark City Commission with labor support. Young Brennan is likewise no stranger to labor. He worked in his youth at such jobs as delivering milk, trolleyman and filling station attendant."

T. Coleman Andrews Sets Out On Third Party Drive

By JOHN F. DAFFRON
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — T. Coleman Andrews, who served for three years as chief tax collector of the Eisenhower administration, set out today to present his own presidential candidacy as "a new home for the orphaned members of both the old parties."

The 57-year-old Richmond conservative was designated to carry the states rights-tax reform third party banner at a whooping rally here last night.

Andrews and his running mate, former Republican Congressman Thomas H. Werdel of Bakersfield, Calif., are on the ballots in 14 states. In Virginia, at least, where both major parties regard the outcome of the election doubtful, Andrews' candidacy could tip the result one way or the other. Virginia went for Eisenhower in 1952 by an 80,000-vote margin.

The former tax chief, an Eisenhower Democrat in 1952, told some 3,000 supporters last night he didn't know whether his candidacy would draw strength mainly from President Eisenhower or Adlai Stevenson.

"But I do know it wouldn't make any difference which of the two old parties won because we would have a continuation of socialist government in either case," he said.

Andrews, Werdel and other speakers — notably Clarence E. Manion, former dean of the Notre Dame Law School and co-chairman of the National Andrews-Werdel Committee — received frequent cheers with their sharply worded attacks on Democrats and Republicans alike.

Demands for the federal government to leave the states free to operate their schools as they saw fit won the loudest applause and the heaviest boos went to Chief Justice Earl Warren. Andrews referred to Warren as "the great Republican chief justice and integrationist, Earl Warren."

One of Andrews' sharpest jabs at his former boss, Eisenhower, came after Manion and Dan Smoot, Texas radio commentator and writer, referred to the enderorsement of the President by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Negro Democrat of New York.

Powell was quoted by Smoot as having said in a filmed television speech Sunday night that he had asked Eisenhower what the President would do if a school district refused to obey federal court school desegregation orders.

In reply, the President was quoted as saying: "Mr. Powell, advocate that the federal court should take action with federal swear in deputies if they need them, go out and arrest anyone that refuses to obey their order."

bring them before the court, try them for contempt, and if they're guilty, put them in prison."

Andrews referred to Eisenhower "scooping up" Powell's support and said:

"I wonder how my Democratic friends supporting the Republican candidate feel now after this switch from peaceful persuasion to deputized force to compel compliance with presumptuous sociological dictum."

"Is that some of the 'peace and prosperity' that they propose to forsake their states and friends for?"

Andrews said it was absurd to say nothing could be done about the income tax or that the country needed a 70-billion-dollar budget. He said Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), "who knows more about the budget than anyone in Washington," and the second Hoover Commission had said the present budget could be pared by 15.3 billions. And he noted this amount was about half that realized from the personal income tax.

Andrews resigned from the Eisenhower administration last year to become president of an insurance firm here.

GREENSBORO (AP)—Greensboro College has announced a fund campaign with a goal of $1,500,000 for immediate development of the school. The executive committee of the board will meet soon to map the campaign. Dr. Harold Hutson, president, said.

Gates Of State Fair Are Opened For 5-Day Run

RALEIGH (AP)—The gates swung wide open for the five-day run of the 89th annual North Carolina State Fair.

Participants in the televised formal opening ceremony in the State Fair arena included Gov. Hodges, Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, Dr. J. S. Dorton, State Fair manager, and members of the State Board of Agriculture.

Beauty was well represented, too, with scheduled appearances by Miss Shari Lewis of Daykin, Neb., national Dairy Queen; Miss North Carolina, Joan Melton of Albemarle; and Pat Cowden of Raleigh, national Maid of Cotton.

Fair officials hoped for fine weather during the week, and looked for a new attendance record to break last year's mark of 600,000 visitors.

The Tar Heel dairy industry was spotlighted among exhibits. Special attention to dairying started off with the dedication at noon today of a new dairy bar and milking parlor. Brief speeches were made by Ballentine and Melvin Cording of Wallace, president of the North Carolina Purebred Dairy Cattle Assn.

Eight Tar Heel beauties will compete tomorrow night in final judging for the title of North Carolina Dairy Princess.

First throngs to visit the fair had this choice of exhibits displaying the state's agricultural and industrial life, massive shows of farm equipment, and exhibits of livestock, farm products, and arts and crafts. There was, too, the attractions of the midway, always a big fair feature.

On the entertainment side, television stars Dorothy Collins, Russell Arms and Pat Boone were headliners for shows in the fair arena. Harness races, with more than 60 horses competing, started this afternoon at the grandstand racetrack.

Other attractions included a "Village of Yesteryear," showing handicrafts still practiced by Tar Heels. Visitors watched weavers, whittlers, potters and others at work.

Cars In Collision At Intersection

Property damage estimated at $450 resulted from a two-car collision at the intersection of 11th and Forbes streets last night around 7 o'clock.

Charles Ervin Smith, 17, Route 5, Greenville, and Henry Gibson Edwards, 18, of Princeton, smashed together. Smith stated he did not see Edwards. Neither driver was injured and no arrests were made. Police reported that no traffic control was present at the intersection.

Foreign students from 132 different nations are studying in U. S. colleges and universities.

Italy Says Open Skies Plan Okay

ROME (AP)—Italy after five days of aerial snooping says it has proved President Eisenhower's "open skies" military inspection plan works.

"The results of the practical demonstrations prove aerial reconnaissance is an efficacious method of checking on military preparations," the Italian Defense Ministry announced.

The exercise was an all-Italian operation with no help from NATO or the Western Allies. For five days 50 jets and reconnaissance planes prowled over central Italy taking before- and after photographs of simulated military preparations.

The pilots did not know where to look for the mock installations, and the experts who studied the photographs were not told what sort of buildup was being made.

Under the "open skies" plan, a nation's planes would be allowed by agreement to fly over another's territory to check on "warlike activity or preparations." The plan first was sponsored by President Eisenhower at the Geneva summit meeting in July 1955, as a first step toward world disarmament. The Soviets so far have rejected it.

Seven Pledged By Scholastic Fraternity

Seven students at East Carolina, selected because of their outstanding scholastic records in the department of business education, have become pledges of the national honorary fraternity Pi Omega Pi, according to an announcement by Greenville Banks Jr., of Maple, president of the campus chapter.

Martha Ann Johnson of Benson, vice president, was in charge of the pledge ceremony and will conduct the formal initiation ceremony November 13. Jerry Howell, president of the student body at the Greenville high school, speaking at the pledge service, gave an illustrated talk on his summer experiences in Alaska and the Polar region.

New members of Pi Omega Pi are Jean Hargett, New Bern; Horace G. King, Kinston; Barbara Ann Holiday, Jamesville; Nancy Louise Jackson, Winterville; Johnnie Earl May, Grimesland; Don Leon Ricketts, Portsmouth, Va.; and David Whitman Shearin, Littleton.

Big Bootlegger On Probation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The biggest bootlegger in Tennessee—412 pounds—was placed on probation, but Federal Judge William E. Miller made sugar rationing a condition.

The judge, however, didn't have a reducing diet in mind for J. Alex Goins. The judge's rationing program applies to operation of Goins' grocery store near Lyles, Tenn.

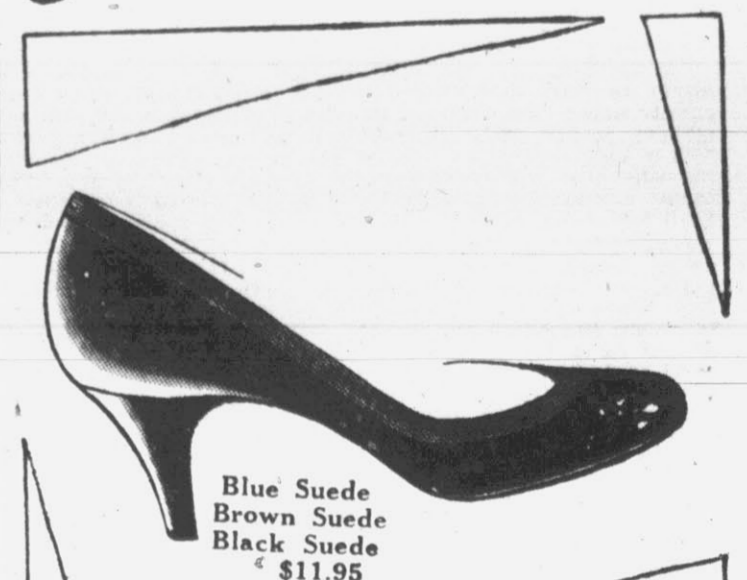

Goins may not sell more than 100 pounds of sugar to any one family in a three-month period.

Radiation Fatal For Physician

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Exposure to atomic radiation in a government laboratory between 8 and 10 years ago has taken the life of a Philadelphia physician, the city medical examiner said.

Medical Examiner Joseph W. Spelman issued his finding after an inquest into the death last July 24 of Dr. Kenneth A. Koerber, 50, of Philadelphia. Dr. Koerber had worked in the Atomic Energy Commission's Brookhaven National Laboratories, Upton, N.Y., between 1946 and 1948. He inspected laboratories to protect workers from radiation.

"We presume," Dr. Spelman said, that Dr. Koerber somehow got a dose of atomic radiation which, 10 years later, caused his death. We have conclusively proved that he was subject to atomic radiation or to the inhalation or to the eating of atomic compounds. At the present time his bones contain 1,000 times the maximum safe concentration of radiation."

Dr. Spelman said the radiation was probably cumulative instead of a single dose.

Dr. Spelman said that from the time Dr. Koerber left Brookhaven until his death he was in failing health.

Town Meeting Broke Up Game

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A town meeting interrupted a bridge party.

Only 143 voters showed up at the special town meeting — 7 short of a quorum.

The town fathers learned a bridge party was in session at a nearby home. They went there and induced the women into attending the meeting.

The meeting voted $10,000 for veterans benefits and granted hospitalization benefits to town employees.

George Washington's political party was Federalist, neither Democratic or Republican.

Ohio Vote Promises To Be Close In November's Presidential Election

Cast Announced For Grifton Junior Play

By JACK BELL
TOLEDO, Ohio—Between the Democratic political strongholds of industrial Cleveland and Toledo U.S. Highway 20 swings southwest to Newark and then stretches like a lean string westward over the flat, fertile Republican farm areas of northern Ohio.

In the slice of about 50 miles of typically rural Ohio traversed by No. 20 before it reaches the Maumee river—and in other areas like it—may be Ohio's verdict on the presidential race between President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson as well as the outcome of a close Senate contest.

For the Democrats depend primarily on what they contend is unrest among the farmers and distress among small businessmen in their campaign to reverse the half-million vote defeat Eisenhower handed Stevenson in the state four years ago.

Another factor is the popularity among Republican voters in past years, at least, of Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche. Lausche is battling Republican Sen. George Bender for a Senate seat which could be decisive in the two-party struggle for control of that body.

William L. Coleman, Democrat state chairman, says Ohio's farmers are "quite incensed" over their economic situation. And he contends the average small town business man is "suffering."

Coleman predicts both the farmer and the store owner in farm-supported communities will vote Democratic in large numbers this year, along with the working man in Ohio's great industrial centers.

Ray Elms, Republican state chairman, concedes there is some farm dissatisfaction. He has not missed the grumbles of some of the small town businessmen. He leans heavily on Eisenhower's popularity to carry the GOP state ticket and Bender into office.

Despite some signs Eisenhower's 1952 majority might be cut in half, Elms displays no outward fear that the state's hefty 25 electoral votes will go to Stevenson.

You find some support for both sides as you roll along Highway 20.

On the outskirts of bustling little Bellevue Clarence Dankelien sells farm machinery.

"Yeah," he said leaning over his counter and picking up a spare part. "The farmers are bellyaching but that's nothing new. They're always bellyaching. Maybe it means something and maybe it doesn't. You can't tell about a farmer. He's liable to talk one way and vote the other."

Bellevue is something of a railroad town and it is not without Democrats.

Out for a morning stroll C. G. Setzler was free with his political views.

"Yes, sir, I'm for Stevenson," he said, whipping out his wallet and extracting his Railway Conductors' Union card. "The only time we ever got anything was under the Democrats. Eisenhower and the Taft-Hartley act repealed but nothing has been done."

"Nixon is the worst man for labor that ever was. As far as I can see and read and hear, Eisenhower never was president."

At the edge of town, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Hunter operate a luxurious motel. They don't depend on local prosperity in their business but are sensitive to what is happening about them.

Pretty Mrs. Hunter said she usually doesn't vote Republican but will this year.

"I want a Republican to be in office more than just one term," she said. "I have voted for Gov. Lausche before but I'll probably vote for Bender."

Westward down No. 20 Harry Kaufman was putting gas in his tractor while his brother George finished up with the chores. Harry is 72 years old and George is 77. Between them they farm 120 acres, mostly in corn, wheat and beans.

Harry pushed his cap back on his head and said he was voting Republican. For three generations the Kaufmans had been Republicans and he wasn't of a mind to change.

"We take in enough money," he said, "but there ain't much of it left when we get through paying our expenses. But, we're getting as good a break as we ever got under the Democrats."

A few miles westward, Richard A. Schiller stopped work on a new potato storage building to observe that "things are a little better" for the farmer now.

"I was pretty disgusted last year and the year before," he said. "In fact the last three years have been miserable ones. But things are a little better now. But I haven't made up my mind yet how I'm going to vote."

In Clyde, further west on No. 20, Clarence Mosier was cutting up chickens for the retail markets in his feed store.

The way farmers were talking, he said he guessed they were divided about evenly between supporters of Eisenhower and Stevenson, though Eisenhower might have a little edge.

"The big thing is," he said, "that Ike's kept us out of war."

Down the street in Clyde, R.G. Rogers runs a restaurant, a motel and an antique shop. A soft-spoken man, Rogers has firm political convictions.

"I've been a Democrat all my life," he said, "but I'm going to vote for Eisenhower and Nixon. I think they have done as good a job as we have had in Washington for years. I think they are more sincere and trustworthy than their opponents."

Rogers said he will vote for Bender, too, because "I never have voted for Lausche—I don't think he's a Democrat."

James Bass was recently married to Marie Fish in North Carolina. But, a good fish story was spoiled because neither came from a fishing family. Bass' father was an electrician and Miss Fish's father was a farmer.

Members of the Junior Class received their play books Thursday, indicating that it won't be too long before they will present the annual Junior Play.

This year's production will be a three-act comedy, "Papa Says No," and will be directed by Mr. Adrian Brown. Barbara Lane will assist Mr. Brown as student director.

The cast includes Mac Chauncey as Alonzo Page, a big business man; Lou Raye Mewborn as Janet Page, Alonzo's daughter; Donald Cannon as Jack Prescott, Janet's fiancé; Ronnie Stallings as Joe, the bellhop; Barbara Taylor as Toots, a cute and flirty elevator girl; Pat Buck as Miss Louella Watts, a meddlesome old maid of about 50; Gladys Smith as Mrs. Helen Carter, a pretty widow; Tommy Suggs as Pete Carter, Helen's son; Jesse Wade as an electrician and Miss Fish's father; and the hotel clerk, Frances Davis as Sallie, the coffee shop waitress; Phyllis Dudley as Liz, another waitress; Judy Hart as Mrs. Hawkins, an odd woman of 40; Kathleen Jones as Genevieve, Mrs. Hawkins' daughter and a "brat"; and Donald Bennette as the detective.

Dorothy Groes, Nancy Smith, Pat Buck, and Faye McCotter have been elected to reign over their grades as Halloween Carnival queens. A contest to select one of the four as "Queen of the High School" has been launched with votes costing a penny apiece. The winner will be crowned on October 26, festival night.

Dr. Joseph Franzoni of the Mental Health Clinic was speaker at the PTA's October meeting last Tuesday night in the school assembly room. He spoke to the members about the relationship between children, parents and teachers and answered questions from the audience.

Elizabeth Lawton and Lou Raye Mewborn, first and second place winners, respectively, in a speech contest sponsored last year by the Smith presided over the meeting and the Rev. D. H. McCollough, Baptist minister, pronounced the invocation and benediction.

Lou Raye Mewborn was selected as Grifton's nominee for FHA State Song Leader at an FHA meeting Friday. She, Emily Nelson, Barbara Taylor and Barbara Lane displayed their song-leading ability to members of the club before the election. Lou Raye's campaign manager is Phyllis Dudley.

Wayne Ervin read an interesting article "The Quitter," at High School Assembly Friday. After the program, which was arranged by the Senior class, a committee to head a student of the month program was selected and nominations for the honor were received. Members of the committee are Wayne Ervin, Sally Mewborn and Larry Benson. Final selection of the honor student each month will be by secret ballot.

Connie Dennis celebrated her 18th birthday by having a party in the school gym Saturday night.

Three Pirates Injured In Catamount Encounter

East Carolina, which came out of its Homecoming weekend with a 20-19 victory over North State opponent Western Carolina, also wound up with three more costly injuries.

Coach Jack Boone disclosed this morning that end Billy Helms, guard Joe Hoover and tackle Bucky Dennis will probably be out of action for the coming Morris Harvey contest at College Stadium this Saturday.

"Dennis has water on his knee and may be ready for the Morris Harvey game, but it is doubtful. The other two are definitely out for at least a week." Both Helms and Hoover have shoulder injuries.

Speaking of last week's contest, Boone commented on the "leadership of Mattocks" and the outstanding work of Greenville's James Speight.

"Our offense," Boone continued, "has been improving with each game and much of that is due to the freshmen boys. They're finally coming through and playing the kind of ball they're capable of."

The Pirate Head Mentor also praised the freshmen defensive standouts. "Our second unit was the only group of boys who could stop Western Carolina when they were driving for the touchdown that would have beaten us, late in the game. Nine of the eleven boys on that unit are freshmen."

Morris Harvey, which will journey to College Stadium this Saturday for an inter-sectional contest with the Blues, are a highly-regarded small college outfit.

Ed King is a good, fundamental man, who stresses straight blocking, tackling and running," Boone offered. "Morris Harvey always ends up as one of the top little teams in the nation and will probably be as strong as any team seen in the local stadium this year."

Looks Like He's Another 'Sugar'

NEW YORK (AP) It's easy to see why they call Garnett Hart "Sugar." He looks like Sugar Ray Robinson of 15 years back and he fights like the slick Robinson when Ray first came up.

That's on the basis of his eye-catching third-round technical knockout of tough, chunky Earl Dennis in a telecast bout at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

It was the slender, 21-year-old Philadelphia's ninth consecutive victory and his 17th in 18 bouts. He has 15 kayos to his credit.

An 11-5 favorite in his New York debut, Hart made it seem easy with his slick moves and wicked wallops.

He has every punch in the book and hits smartly to the body and head.

In the first round he used a left jab and hook to keep off the aggressive 24-year-old New Yorker. In the second he unleashed a hard right and in the third he threw everything. He twice staggered Dennis and dropped him a split second before the bell sounded with a short right.

Dr. Alexander Schiff examined Dennis in the intermission and decided Earl had enough.

It went into the books as a third round TKO.

It was the second time Dennis was stopped. His record is 31-14-5.

Big Ten Football Circuit Warned To 'Mend Ways'

CHICAGO (AP)—In a frank and self-critical report which was meant to be a secret within the Big Ten, a special conference committee ripped into athletic aid practices with a warning that the Western Conference could someday become a farm system for professional sports.

The report, disclosed yesterday, was drafted by a committee set up last December and headed by Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson, and called work-a-day programs for athletes "an invitation to hypocrisy and deceit."

It added that financial help to athletes had reached "staggering proportions."

The two-part, 24-page report was put together by Wilson, Asst. Commissioner Bill Reed, Michigan Athletic Director Fritz Chrysler, Wisconsin Athletic Director Ivy Williamson, and faculty representatives Leslie W. Scott of Michigan State and Verne C. Freeman of Purdue.

Wilson said the report was intended solely for private distribution within the Big Ten and it had been released because of a proposed publication of a paraphrase in a national magazine.

Under the facts section, the report criticizes the "offer" system and runs right on through recruiting and subsidization.

"Each conference school," the report states, "is on a definite 'offer' basis, meaning that the recruitment activity... is accompanied by financial assistance promised work and/or scholarship."

"The scope of financial subsidies to conference athletes, earned and unearned (scholarships), has increased in staggering proportions in the past decade... from $47 in 1948 to $260 in 1955 (average amount of aid per athlete)."

"The work-a-day program has developed purposefully as a subsidization device under the 'offer' system and limitations upon unearned aid... as such it is an invitation to hypocrisy and deceit unless there is complete insistence upon full work for compensation received, and there is not."

Nicaragua is the largest of the six Central American republics, roughly the size of the state of Michigan.

Oklahoma Still Top Team, But Michigan State May Surpass

Clemson Meeting Gamecocks Next

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—Holidays for two football squads in the Atlantic Coast Conference were in order yesterday as Clemson and South Carolina looked ahead for their annual "Big Thursday" game at Columbia, Oct. 25.

The Clemson Tigers came out of their 17-0 victory over Wake Forest last week without injuries and Coach Frank Howard said halfback Jim Coleman, hurt in the N.C. State game two weeks ago, will be ready for action against the Gamecocks.

Up at Wake Forest, Coach Paul Amen praised the Tigers as "the best team we have played so far."

The Wake Forest coach lamented that "our passing game hasn't come up to what we expected after spring practice."

The Deacons face Florida State at Tallahassee this week. The Gamecocks will begin work today for the big game with Clemson during the State Fair. The squad downed Virginia 27-13 Saturday and Coach Warren Giese said no injuries were suffered.

All South Carolina workouts for the Clemson encounter will be closed.

The brown of Coach Tommy Mont took on a few more deep furrows yesterday as four more Maryland Terps joined the ranks of the sick.

Ronald Lanevo, No. 2 center, in University Hospital with what appeared to be yellow jaundice; No. 1 fullback Tom Selep, with a knee injury; No. 1 left end Al Beardsley, with a bad leg, and Ed Cooke, No. 2 right end, with a shoulder injury, were expected to miss action Saturday against North Carolina.

Some changes were made in the first string line at the University of North Carolina by Coach Jim Tatum as the Tar Heels opened drills for the game which Tatum "intends to win" against his former club.

The line held lengthy defensive drills. Two linemen, lost for the season, were lacking at North Carolina yesterday. Henry Spivey, second team tackle, and Larry Cox, guard, were forced to drop out because of injuries.

The Wolfpack went through a warmup drill after viewing movies of the Florida State game.

Coach Bill Murray called his Duke Blue Devils' win over SMU last week "our best effort of the year." He hoped that Sonny Jurgensen, star quarterback, who sparked the 14-6 victory over the Methodists, would be able to start against this week's foe, Pitt.

It appeared that Virginia's team will regain some "lost strength" for Saturday's game with Lehigh.

Notre Dame Is Key To Top Grid Slot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—It's still Oklahoma No. 1 in college football but the Sooners, unmatched record and all, may find themselves lagging at the polls in a few days simply because their chief rival, Michigan State, gets first crack at Notre Dame.

Michigan State, getting its support from those who place schedule over statistics, pulled up to within 25 points of Oklahoma in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters despite the Sooners' winning streak of 33 games.

For Michigan State, a 53-6 winner over Indiana, the result of the new balloting was a gain of 95 points on Oklahoma, which whitewashed Texas 45-0 after thrashings of North Carolina and Kansas State.

In the total standings, with points awarded on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., Oklahoma led with 1,173 to 1,148 for Michigan State. First between them, they drew 112 of 131 first-place ballots, 67 for the Sooners.

Only one major change turned up in the weekly accounting, Michigan moving back into the top 10 at the No. 8 position after routing Army 48-14. Texas A&M gave way, dropping from ninth to 14th.

Georgia Tech held on to third and Texas Christian remainder in the fourth. The rest of the lineup was Ohio State, Mississippi, Tennessee, Michigan, Southern California and Baylor.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses: 1. Oklahoma (67) 1,173 2. Michigan State (45) 1,148 3. Georgia Tech (5) 909 4. Texas Christian (2) 751 5. Ohio State 721 6. Mississippi (7) 552 7. Tennessee (3) 531 8. Michigan 411 9. USC 272 10. Baylor 168

Newcombe Again Has Bad Luck

HONOLULU (AP)—Brooklyn's Don Newcombe had no better luck last night against the Hawaii Red Sox than he did against the New York Yankees.

The semipro Red Sox collected three runs against him on a double, a single and a homer in the second inning of a game they lost to the Dodgers, 7-3, in 10 innings.

Newcombe left the game trailing after four innings. Roger Craig and Ed Roebuck finished, allowing no hits. The Yankees drove Newcombe from the mound twice in the World Series.

Brooklyn beat the Red Sox with four unearned runs in the 10th. The Dodgers outhit the Hawaiian club, 14-3.

Patterson And Moore To Meet

CHICAGO (AP)—Young Floyd Patterson and old Archie Moore will meet in Chicago Stadium Nov. 30 for the heavyweight title vacated by Rocky Marciano.

The International Boxing Club yesterday announced plans for the fight but said financial arrangements will be ironed out here next week.

Jim Norris, president of the IBC, said in New York that negotiations on home television and theater television were under way. The fact that the fight will be on a Friday — one of the two days a week the IBC broadcasts and telecasts network fights — was taken as indication that there will be home television.

Both fighters have already started training, the IBC said, with Patterson at Greenwood Lake, N.Y., and Moore at Lakeside, Calif. Both have agreed to be in Chicago three weeks before the fight to complete their training.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 23

Leone seemed surprised at my approaching her at the reception desk.

"Leone," I said, "I've got to speak to you."

She didn't answer for a moment. Her guard went up. Then she said, "What do you want to speak to me about?"

"I know you know."

"What was that you hit me with, Leone? Honestly, sneaking up behind a girl like that! What would Mr. Bell think of such uncouth behavior?"

"All right," she said. "But this is a busy day."

"Why can't you arrange to have lunch when I do?"

"I don't ordinarily have lunch." She stopped talking. She was looking beyond me and I turned to see what was so intriguing. Immediately, I turned back. Detectives Bolling and Hankins were coming down a corridor toward us. They spurted across the reception room to catch an impatient elevator. I was glad to see them go. Leone didn't seem to miss them either, but I didn't discuss it with her.

I said, "Leone, stretch a point today and have some lunch. I'm sure if Mr. Bell knew about your uncouth behavior."

"All right."

We made a date for lunch. The hour that Leone arranged for us was late; the small restaurant on Forty-sixth off Madison was nearly empty. Leone told the waiter she wasn't hungry, that she would just have a Dubonnet cocktail. I didn't feel in the mood for food either, but I ordered milk and a sandwich. I had a hunch that I should keep my strength at its maximum.

The waiter went away. Leone said, "Why did you get a job at the school?"

"That doesn't matter."

"Is Hester Frost your real name?"

"Leone, I'm not going to answer any of your questions. I'm not really tough, but I'm going to pretend I am. Call these nasty words you like, but if you don't tell me the truth about what I want to know, I'm going to talk to Mr. Bell. And you, Leone."

"What makes you think he'd care?"

"Because . . . as of now . . . he's going to marry you."

Her eyes behind the stylish spectacles opened wide. Her surprise was genuine. That meant Bell had not yet told her about my conference with him. Perhaps he hadn't the opportunity, perhaps he meant not to tell her at all. At any rate, it gave me a chance to shock her some more, and I used that chance.

"I know all about it, Leone. From his proposal to you last New Year's Eve . . . by telephone . . . to your plans to be married this one. I know you don't even want to wait these few weeks, you want to get married now, right away?"

"My God," she said. "Where did you learn all this? Nobody knows!"

"Listen some more, Leone . . . 'Are you with the police . . . no, you'd tell me if you were . . . I'll tell you this much about me before we get on about you. I'm in much worse trouble than you are. That's why I'm behaving in such a . . . shall we say, an unlady-like way? Now it was you who knocked me out last night to keep me from seeing you."

"You don't know that, you're bluffing."

"You didn't want me to see you because you had found something in Anita's apartment . . . some tape recordings hidden in a lamp base. But you didn't get them all. Leone, did you know that? There were some more in another lamp. I got those."

All the fight was out of Leone now. She was no longer the cool, calm, girl-executive. She was a frightened, appealing young lady in trouble. She sat looking at me, waiting. I let her wait while I lit a cigarette. I didn't want I hoped she'd get a little more frightened.

"Leone," I said, "I want the "apes you have."

"I don't have them anymore. I burned them."

"Oh? Really?"

"Yes," she said, her voice low, vehement. "Yes, really. You didn't think I'd keep those horrible things. You know what was on them. Anita Farrell was a blackmailer. She was dreadful, even . . . I didn't even burn all the tapes I found. I burned them all."

"You just played them until you found the one you wanted? Then destroyed them all?"

"Yes."

"I don't think you should have done that . . . burned them. Maybe one of those blackmail victims of Anita's killed her."

"Do you expect me to care who killed Anita? I don't want to see that person caught, punished . . . She broke off as the waiter approached us with our orders. He did his job and scampered back to his own interrupted lunch. Leone drank half of her Dubonnet in one gulp.

She said, "I wish that were a double Martini."

"I'll buy you one."

"No, thanks. Hester . . . or whatever your name is . . . or what you're either trying to find out who killed Anita or else."

She paused and her eyes narrowed as she appraised me. "Or else that's just what you want me to believe. Was Anita blackmailing you?"

I didn't answer her.

"No, of course you wouldn't admit it. But, believe me, Hester, if you were involved in any of the recordings I played before I found the one I wanted, I'm unaware of it. And I did burn them every single, filthy one of them. That's what you've got to do with the ones you have. Then Anita's victim: will be safe. Free. None of them was a criminal."

"There was one who was. A man named Stubby. Did you ever meet him while you were living with Anita?"

"Stubby? No, I don't remember ever hearing that name."

"He . . ."

"No, no, don't tell me what he did! I don't want to know. If he committed a real crime he was the exception. Mostly Anita's victims were men making fools of themselves over her."

"The only exceptions to that I know of, Leone, are Stubby . . . and you."

"You're taking for granted that Anita was blackmailing me."

"Why else would you be interested in the tapes?"

"I suppose I'm going to have to tell you why."

"I'm afraid so, Leone."

"Or you'll go to Oliver Bell."

"Yes."

"It's ironic. It's very ironic . . . as you shall see." She glanced at her wrist watch. "I'll have to talk fast," she said briskly. "Don't interrupt me unless it's absolutely necessary. I'd known Anita for quite a while . . . at the school, but I was surprised when she invited me to share her apartment. I was lonely then, and I was grateful to her, and flattered. Later I found out that she was using me."

"We got along fine together. Actually, I didn't see much of her and pretty soon, after Oliver and I became interested in each other, I saw practically nothing of her. So we got along perfectly. And

Businesslike In His Begging

EL PASO, Tex., (AP)—Police in Juarez, Mexico, just across the border recently arrested a beggar who said he made $15 to $30 a day begging from tourists and Juarez residents.

The 66-year-old beggar, picked up in a routine roundup, carried three money bags. One contained dollars, another pesos. The third was empty and was used to hold the day's "earnings," police said.

A nation's wide poll of 500 fire chiefs shows that parents, rather than children, are more responsible for the billion dollar damages from fires in homes in the U.S. each year.

Football Thrills in Pictures

One of the greatest things about fall is football—and one of the greatest things about football is that it offers so many wonderful picture-taking opportunities.

Opportunities—whether you shoot snapshots or movies—are almost endless: the opposing lines crashing together, long runs, pass plays, touchdowns being scored, bands marching in their complicated patterns, and many more interesting scenes.

And don't overlook off-gridiron activities either. Part of the thrill of the game comes from the surrounding color and activity. So be sure to snap the bands lined up and ready to march, spectators on their feet at the end of an exciting play, the pretty cheerleaders in their bright outfits, and the line of players on the bench.

Of course, you'll want to use color film both for your snapshots and for movies. With new Kodacolor you'll get thrilling prints, and Kodachrome movies are unbeatable for sheer beauty. And color film is as easy to use as black-and-white.

Next time you plan to go to a game, see us first for your Kodak color films.

Couldn't Escape Polishing Brass

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—When Pvt. R.L. Dommershauser came home on leave, appearing before a colonel and being told to shine his brass buttons was about the last thing he expected to do.

Appearing in police court on a minor traffic charge, he discovered that acting superior court judge Carl Flom was a colonel in the Army Reserves and a thorough lecturer on polishing brass buttons.

Judge Flom, however, dismissed the private's case.

What put the magic in the new kind of FORD?

Here's what put the magic in the new kind of FORD!

It all started with the new "Inner Ford." When Ford engineers planned this baby, they didn't just think in terms of new springs, new brakes, new axles. They thought in terms of a car through and through new.

The wheels got smaller. Yes, this new Ford is so new in every detail that even the wheels have changed. Now smaller and broader for a better grip on the road, they help you take off quickly . . . give you a better ride.

The wheelbase got longer . . . so now you can choose between a Ford that's over 16 ft. long—or one that's over 17 ft. long!

The frame got wider. Side rails bow out to give a more stable riding platform . . . a lower, sleeker silhouette.

The ride got smoother. With new suspension, new springing front and rear, the ride this new Ford gives you is the closest you'll ever come to coasting on velvet-covered clouds. And that holds true on back roads, too!

The handling got easier. Poised and balanced like a panther, this car has new swept-back front suspension that works its magic when you need it most.

The power got hotter. This new kind of Ford is packed with Thunderbird GO! It offers a wide range of Silver Anniversary V-8's to fit every horsepower need . . . plus a new version of the famous Mileage Maker Six.

The new Ford Fairlane 500 (118 inch wheelbase). Longer, lower, larger than many medium-price cars, yet lower in price than most of them!

The roof got lower. And it's designed to let you make the easy entries and graceful exits you've always known.

The body got quieter. It's the strongest body ever built for a low priced car. And no car in Ford's field has such generous sound proofing.

The room got bigger. There's head room to spare for a tycoon type hat. There's real stretch-out leg room, too.

The lines got sweeter. Ford gives you the longest, lowest, low priced car ever. Each graceful contour of its sculptured in-steel body says, "Let's go!"

The style got smarter. With this new look Ford you have a car that belongs anywhere! Example: all Fairlane models, including sedans, have the look of a hardtop.

The value got greater . . . and the price is still Ford low. The result—even more promise of buying a car that will keep its value high . . . a car that will stay worth more.

One-Time Blonde Is New 'Miss World'

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Miss Germany, a green-eyed brunette who used to be a blonde, is the new Miss World.

For a moment last night it looked as if Miss United States, 23-year-old Betty Lane Cherry of Orangeburg, S.C., had won the 1956 international beauty title.

When the six finalists filed from the wings of a London theater for the announcement of the title winner, Miss Cherry wore a serene and confident look — plus a sash across her shoulders. The BBC announcer said:

"Oh, Miss United States seems to have won. She's got on the winner's sash."

A contest official quickly whipped the sash off Miss Cherry. "Sorry," the announcer said, "something seems to have happened."

The title was then awarded to the German entrant, 23-year-old Petra Schürmann. Miss Cherry was second in the competition among girls from 23 countries.

Miss Schürmann gasped and then almost swooned as she received the crown. Miss Cherry leaned over and kissed her.

A reporter asked:

"As Miss Germany, shouldn't you be blonde?"

Petra lowered her long eye lashes.

"Frankly," she said, "I was a blonde."

A flowered print bathing suit set off Miss Germany's 36-20-33 figure — and her jet black curls.

Her ambition, she said, is to be a teacher.

Tito Must Give Explanation For Talks In Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito must give a satisfactory explanation of his confidential talks with Russian leaders before he can get promised American jetwarplanes.

President Eisenhower made this clear last night in authorizing only limited military aid to Yugoslavia "until the situation can be more accurately appraised during the days to come."

Eisenhower specifically banned delivery, for the present at least, of more than 200 American Sabre Jet and Thunderjet fighters, as well as howitzers, tanks and other heavy military equipment.

At the same time, he declared Tito's government eligible for full economic aid which has helped prop up Yugoslavia since it broke with Moscow in 1948. But he qualified even this by noting pointedly that the decision would be reviewed constantly to make certain "remains justified in future circumstances."

This double-barreled decision was set forth in a report to Congress, which had called on Eisenhower to rule by today on whether continued aid to Yugoslavia was in the interest of national security.

Diplomatic officials, commenting on the White House ruling, said it served notice on Tito to hurry up with a first-hand report to American officials or his somewhat mysterious diplomatic maneuverings in Eastern Europe during the past month.

The most important explanation sought, they agreed, involves two weeks of secret talks Tito held with Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev and other Russian bosses.

Since Tito returned to Belgrade 11 days ago, American Ambassador James Riddleberger has tried without success to arrange a meeting with him to discuss the Yugoslav-Russian talks and other developments in the Communist world.

The only assurances given top U.S. officials during the past three weeks have come from Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic and lower-ranking members of the Yugoslav Foreign Office. They said Yugoslavia is still determined to remain independent of Moscow.

State Department specialists are inclined to accept these assurances because the information fits in with other data from U.S. intelligence sources. Nevertheless, they want a personal report from Tito.

Eisenhower told Congress:

"The balance of available evidence leads me to find that Yugoslavia remains independent of control by the Soviet Union and desires to continue to be independent."

As a precaution, however, Eisenhower directed that "only small routine and long-planned deliveries" of military aid be allowed. Officials reported this covered spare parts, some infantry weapons and small arms.

Stevenson's H-Bomb Proposals Still Beclouded By Lack Of Straight Talk

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, who spends a lot of time polishing his speeches, sometimes takes the shine off them by dancing around the subject instead of saying in plain language precisely what he means.

This happened with his suggestions on ending H-bomb tests. Last night, after months of talking about it, he made a long speech, trying to explain what he had in mind. It still isn't completely clear.

He's been all over the lot on this subject. President Eisenhower has said Stevenson made several proposals. Stevenson blames the administration for "astounding distortions" of what he said.

In trying to understand him, this was the trouble: Was he suggesting the United States end its tests with or without agreement with Russia to do the same, and then resume the tests if Russia didn't follow suit? Or was he suggesting this country take the lead in proposing an end to the tests but not ending them unless there was agreement?

A look at the chronology of his statements shows why these questions arise:

Last April 21 he said: "I believe we should give prompt and earnest consideration to stopping further tests of the hydrogen bomb. As a layman I question the sense in multiplying and enlarging weapons of a destructive power already incomprehensible."

"Of course, I would call upon other nations to follow our lead, and if they don't, and persist in further tests, we will know about it and we can reconsider our policy."

Nowhere in that statement did he say the United States should go it alone, if necessary, and end the H-bomb tests, although it might seem he meant that since he didn't mention a need for agreement with Russia to end her tests.

Before the American Legion convention in Los Angeles Sept. 5 he said:

"I regret that the administration chose to casually dismiss my proposal last spring to halt further testing of large nuclear devices, conditioned upon adherence by the other atomic powers to a similar policy."

That would seem to mean that this country should stop the tests only if others agreed to do likewise.

Then on Sept. 20, at Silver Spring, Md., he said Eisenhower had "dismissed curtly" his proposal "that the United States take the lead in promoting curtailment by all nations of hydrogen bomb tests."

The phrase "promoting curtailment" could mean the United States should take the lead simply in trying to get agreement on ending the tests or I could mean the United States should take the lead in ending the tests, with or without agreement.

At Minneapolis on Sept. 30 he used still other language: "I have proposed a moratorium on the testing of more super-H-bombs. If the Russians don't go along, well then at least the world will know we tried. And we will know it if they don't because we can detect H-bomb explosions without inspection."

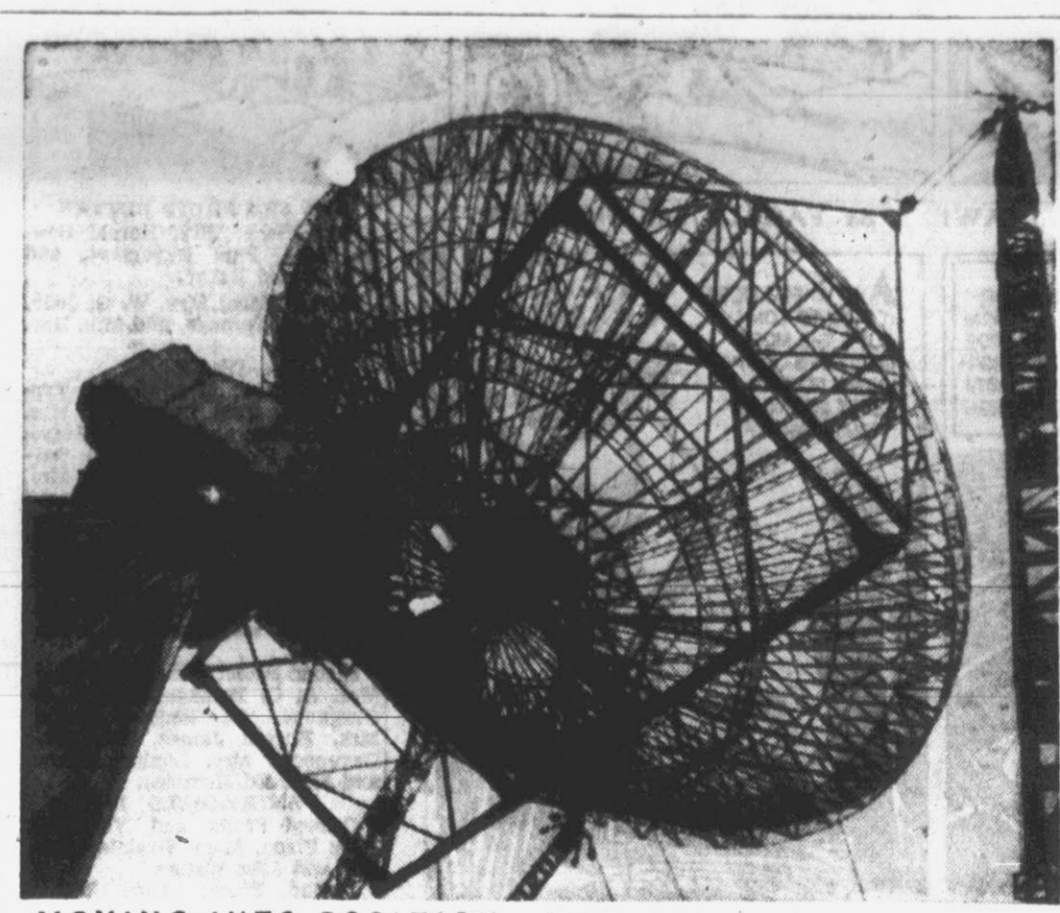

What did this mean? Did it mean a "moratorium" agreed to before any nation ended H-bomb tests? Or did it mean the United States should take the lead, and stop the tests, with or without Russian agreement?

Last night Stevenson said, "It seems to me imperative that a world policy of stopping these tests be established at the very first possible moment." And he added:

"I proposed last April that the United States take the initiative toward this end by announcing our willingness to stop these tests, calling upon other nations to follow our lead, and making it clear that unless they did likewise we would have to resume our experiments."

In the meantime, Stevenson said, "because we cannot rely even on the firm agreement of one bloc of world powers (the Communists) — we will proceed both with the production of hydrogen bombs and with further research in that field."

Was On His Way When Picked Up

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—A local man arrested on a drunk charge, told Judge James McWhorter: "Give me a break, judge, and I'll walk out of town."

The man was brought before the same judge on the same charge five days later. With downcast eyes, he said:

"They picked me up, judge, as I walked out of town."

Told Draw Up Their Discharge

DES MOINES (AP)—A majority of the Des Moines City Council apparently was miffed at the refusal of two men in the city legal department to approve the legality of 11 amendments designed to curtail the appointive powers of the city manager.

The council instructed the two men to draw up a resolution for their own discharge.

Pup's Tail Has A Happy Ending

ST. LOUIS (AP)—It was hard on the pup's owners, but this Dachshund tail has a happy ending.

The four-month-old pup blacked tail-first into a heavy model electric fan — while the family looked on in horror.

The fan lost two of its three blades, but the pup was not hurt.

Wrong Name In Use 35 Years

SALEM, Va. (AP)—A Roanoke College Professor was somewhat stunned when he noted the name on his birth certificate was William Huper Harbaugh Hooker. For 35 years, he'd been using the name of Zebulon Vance Hooker II.

A Roanoke County Circuit Court order set the record straight, making the name Hooker had used through the years his official name.

Hooker attributed the mixup to the fact his father, Zebulon Vance Hooker, died shortly after his birth. Since then, he's gone under the name Zebulon Vance. He didn't discover the error until he received the certificate from the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Richmond.

$200 PER WEEK CAN YOU QUALIFY?
We are not kidding about the above earnings, nor do we want you to take our word for it. You are more than welcome to talk with our salesmen who are making this amount of money right now. Go out with them for a day and watch while they put commissions of $50 or more in their own pockets. If this doesn't convince you, nothing will.

I will hire three salesmen this week. These men will have the following qualifications:
(1) — Ability and willingness to work hard.
(2) — Preferably between the ages of 21 and 45.
(3) — Own a late model car.
(4) — Willingness to learn.

Those selected will be trained thoroughly in the basic fundamentals of salesmanship. Qualified prospects are furnished daily. Accumulative bonus is paid semi-annually. In many instances the annual income from bonus checks alone is as much as the average man earns during the course of a year. If you are dissatisfied with your present income or position, this is a top-flight proposition that merits your sincere consideration. Personal interviews only. Do not tie up the lines with questions. If our offer is not worth a personal visit and a half-hour of your time, you are not the man we want. If it is, this may well be one of the important decisions of your life.

For interview, write — PAUL D. MORTON, BRANCH MANAGER, Box 5446, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C. 13-31

Selected issues showed some fair gains.

While Bethlehem and U.S. Steel eased, Lukens Steel continued its advance of yesterday, adding a point, to string out its recent rise on an excellent earnings report.

Merchant Board Hears Report On State Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association was held last night with President H. L. Hodges Jr. presiding.

J. H. Blount, board member of the N. C. Merchants Association and representative of the local association, reported on the meeting held last month in Raleigh. Blount said State activities included sponsoring distributive educational classes, opposing the increase in charges of common carriers and working with the State's Small Industrial Plans Committee to encourage more small industries. The State Board requested the Insurance Department of the State to provide the public with more assistance in the field of combating unlicensed collection agencies within the state, reported Blount. At the Raleigh meeting they are planned the following meetings: February 24-25, Retailers' Clinic in Chapel Hill; May 19-21, State Convention in Raleigh.

Local business included the treasurer's report, the report from Trade Promotion Fund and the acceptance of a new member, Modern Office Supplies. It was brought to the attention of the local directors that truck drivers must have chauffeurs' licenses in addition to drivers' licenses.

Other business included the announcement by Greenville Recreation Director Gordon Goodman of the Midget Halloween Football game to be held at the college. Goodman said that each child attending would put his name in a box and 30 minutes after the game is over a drawing will be held. If the child with the lucky ticket is at home, he will receive a prize. If he is not at home, his name will be passed over.

Found With Head In Oven Of Gas Stove Yesterday

Elmer Dall of 1310 B Myrtle Ave. was found unconscious in the kitchen of his home yesterday afternoon by his 12-year-old son. An off-duty policeman, Lt. John Piver, was summoned by Dall's son. Piver said he went to the house and found Dall with his head in the oven of the gas stove and the gas turned on.

Rescue workers revived Dall and took him to Pitt Memorial Hospital where he was treated in the emergency room and released. Piver stated that a blanket was hung over the kitchen door and that an empty sleeping pill bottle was found on the top of the stove.

CAP MEETS TONIGHT

The Greenville Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet at the airport tonight at 8 o'clock. Capt. Walter Bunch requests all cadets senior members and friends to attend.

There's Trouble In The Children's Corner

Here's pictorial evidence from near and far that children have their trials and tribulations just like grown-ups. Malcolm Marler (left), one-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Lewis Marler of Selma, Ala., got his head stuck in grillwork while playing on the terrace of his home. His mother phoned friends, neighbors and firemen who freed the youngster. Less than an hour later, Mrs. Marler was back on the phone. "He's done it again," she said in subdued voice. Far across the continent, two-year-old Richard Ramos was having his troubles in Los Angeles, too. Richard slipped off from home for a stroll on a railroad track. A train approached and the boy froze in fright on the track. Policeman Fernando Najera in a patrol car raced ahead of the train, scrambled down a bank, and snatched the child to safety. Officer Najera is telling tearful Richard about the danger of little boys walking on railway tracks. (AP Wirephotos).

At Least 2 Deer Killed In Pitt County To Date

Early reports indicated that Pitt County deer hunters are out in great number and so far their catch has been good.

Two deer were reported killed in the Black Jack area. The first was killed on the Les Buck farm by Elbert Mills and the second was killed by Frankie Rouse and W. Luke Mills.

Only two weeks have been allotted by the Wildlife Commission to the county deer hunters because of the scarcity of the animal. Original plans were to have the season run for several additional weeks, but officials have declared that there are not enough deer for the season to run more than two weeks.
