Warehouse Walls Kocked Down

WALLS COME TUMBLING DOWN—Ruins of the Dixie warehouse were still smoldering Saturday morning when a crane went into action to push down the building walls which remained standing after the $225,000 fire. The blaze left sections of the wall leaning at precarious angles and officials decided the walls should be pushed down to eliminate the possibility of their crashing into the street. Investigation Continuing In Fire That Killed 2 Men

Negro Convicted Today On Hit-Run Charge

All 40-year-old Negro Bedlie C. Carter had to say to the hit-and-run charge was a very quiet and humble, "I was going back."

Carter, of Route 2, Greenville, was charged with hit-and-run, drunk driving and operating a car without proper license, after crashing into the side of a car driven by J. T. Braxton, Jr., of rural Greenville, last night on Dickinson Avenue in front of Keel's Warehouse. He was convicted on all three counts by Judge Charles Whedbee in City Court this morning.

Braxton told the judge that he had stopped on Dickinson waiting for the oncoming traffic to pass so he could make a left turn into the warehouse. He said he had his left-turn signal on and had just started to swing in when Carter's car struck him. "Carter kept on going," he testified.

Another motorist gave chase and stopped Carter about two blocks from the scene and held him there until police arrived. No one was injured in either car. Property damage to both cars amounted to $65, reported C. H. Stubbs, investigating policeman.

Carter received a 60-day suspended sentence upon payment of the costs and a restitution fee of around $50 on the hit and run charge. For operating a motor vehicle under the influence, he was handed a 90-day sentence, suspended upon payment of a $100 fine and costs and loss of license for a period of one year. The second sentence is to begin upon the expiration of the initial one. Prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs on the "No operator's license" charge, and he must not operate a motor vehicle without first obtaining a proper permit.

Violence Takes 10 Over Weekend

At least 10 persons died by violence in North Carolina during the weekend.

Two men burned to death in a $225,000 fire that destroyed the Dixie Tobacco Warehouse in Greenville. They were Gus Reesp, 70, operator of a cafe at the warehouse, and Oscar Slade, a Negro employee of the warehouse.

Mrs. Birdie Louise Hayes, 47, of Durham, was fatally injured by a car as she walked along Highway 54 near Morrisville. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Gary Jefferies, Gaffney, S. C. Negro, died when the car in which he was riding left a road near Shelby and hurtled into a small stream.

Gilbert Blackburn, 39, of Whiteville lost his life in a highway accident while he was driving to Fayetteville to visit his sick mother. His car skidded off a wet highway and crashed in the Brights Lake area of bladen County.

A Ft. Bragg soldier, Alfred D. Bruce of Fayetteville, was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding skidded on wet pavement and hit a Fayetteville store building.

Walter Flippen, 75, of German town, was struck and killed by a car as he was walking along a highway near King in Stokes County.

O. C. Williams, 67, of Bladenboro, was struck and killed by a car in Nash County.

William Thomas Patillo, 17, a Negro of Hurdle Mills in Person County, was killed in an automobile accident near Hillsboro.

A head-on collision on U.S. 117 north of Burgaw took the life of Charles E. McLassiter, 30, of Rock y. Injured to Aug. 1, 1955 - 9.333 Mount Negro.

Local police, the Fire Department and the State Bureau of Investigation today were continuing their investigation of the fire which destroyed Dixie Warehouse and took two lives early Saturday morning.

The two who died in the blaze have been tentatively identified as Gus Reesp, a 70-year-old store operator, and Oscar Slade, Negro employee of the warehouse. Both were said to have been asleep in the bunk room upstairs in the building.

Acting Coroner George Wilkerson said this morning that he was ruling that the two men burned to death.

Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs said this morning that searchers had gone over the wreckage of the structure in an attempt to locate other bodies but so far the two bodies already found are the only ones known to be in the building.

Officers have said that other individuals occasionally made use of the basement of the building for sleeping and Chief Gibbs said the whereabouts of those said to have slept in the building in the past are being checked.

Identity of the bodies found in the ashes was established by their location in the ashes. In addition a buckle found near one of the bodies was said to have belonged to Slade.

A third man, Theodore Bailey, escaped from the bunk room by sliding down a rope.

The big fire which struck shortly after midnight threatened other nearby buildings for a time and several buildings caught fire but firemen were able to extinguish the blazes.

Fire fighting equipment from nearby towns was called in to assist in containing the blaze.

Police Report Three Wrecks

Two automobile wrecks were reported over the weekend and one this morning by Greenville city police.

Jessie Bradley, Negro, 39, 442 West 3rd Street, was arrested and charged with driving drunk after police reported that the car he was driving ran into the back end of a car owned by George Saad, owner of the Carolina Grill. The accident occurred where 9th Street intersects with Dickinson Avenue yesterday morning. Both vehicles were damaged to the estimated extent of $100, reported Lt. T. E. Gladson and Patrolman E. G. Cannon, investigating officers.

Policeman John L. Kerr investigated two wrecks during the past 48 hours. Kerr arrested R. E. McLawhorn, 24, Greenville, Route 3, and charged him with driving carelessly and recklessly. The police officer said McLawhorn's car struck a light pole on 5th Street yesterday around noon, breaking it off at ground level.

The other accident investigated by Kerr occurred this morning around 7 o'clock at the intersection of 5th and Elizabeth Streets. Amos Langley, Negro, 34, Greenville, Route 5, was involved in a collision with Bill Harris, Jr., 27, Greenville, Route 5. Property damage was estimated at $225. "The investigation is not yet complete," said Kerr. There were no personal injuries in any of the three wrecks.

Kefauver Warns About Optimism On Polish Revolt

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver cautioned today against overoptimism on the effects of the Polish uprising, saying it is "doubtful" that any successful government "will be democratic in the Western sense of the word."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate said in a statement that "all Americans are praying" for Poland's independence, but added:

"However, at least at this time, I believe that there are reasons why we should place some curbs on our optimism."

He said Wladyslaw Gomulka, Moscow-opposed leader of the uprising, "is a lifelong Communist, and any government organized by him will probably be subject to most of the usual Communist repressions."

"It may be a long time before Poland can be counted in the ranks of the free nations," he stated.

Kefauver's statement on Poland came shortly after he urged President Eisenhower to accept the offer of Soviet Premier Bulganin for a ban on nuclear bomb testing.

"We should talk with Mr. Bulganin about his proposal," the Democratic candidate said yesterday at Bakersfield, Calif. Kefauver's statement said:

"By past experience we have a right to be leery of Soviet proposals. However, this one may have been made in good faith. We have everything to gain and nothing to lose from negotiating with the Soviet on this proposal."

Kefauver had no immediate comment on President Eisenhower's reply to Bulganin. The President called it meddling in a U.S. election campaign.

Both Kefauver and Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson have plugged hard for a ban on nuclear bomb testing. Kefauver said, "It is essential to the very survival of the world."

NAACP Group Asked To Pray

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A Negro leader has called on members of the North Carolina chapters of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People to love their enemies and to pray for "Sen. Eastland, for Talmadge and for others like him."

Mrs. Ruby Hurley of Atlanta, southeastern regional director for the NAACP, told the closing session of the 13th annual convention of the state chapters here yesterday.

"White Citizens Councils, Patriots and the Ku Klux Klan can do as they please but they can't keep us from moving to our goal."

Saying that there is a "new Negro" who is not afraid of intimidation, violence and economic pressure, who will "fight for freedom" and stand fast in the "spirit of love, Mrs. Hurley declared: "It tries my Christianity when they class us with white Citizens Councils. We never advocate violence. They say the NAACP in Alabama paid people to let Negroes in the University of Alabama. They say the NAACP is organizing boycotts in Alabama. I say Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Mrs. Hurley said, "The murder of Negroes in the South, the bestial treatment makes us know that we've got to stand fast and that we must pray if we're to be free. Those who want to intimidate us are so silly that they don't realize that Negroes are not scared of them any more."

Adding that the NAACP should not be classed as "extremists" by the NAACP, she said, "I am disturbed by people in high places saying we're extreme. What is extreme about wanting to live decently?"

Herbert L. Wright of New York, national youth director, said that the National Youth Division of the NAACP has 75,000 members in 401 Youth Councils and 101 college chapters. He added, "Negro schools in North Carolina must prepare their students for living in an integrated society. They must reorganize their curriculum if their students are to be prepared to work in competition with other young people."

New Polish Regime Pledged To Run Country Without Moscow Controls

Belief Grows In Europe That Reds Losing Hold

LONDON (AP)—Belief grew in Western Europe today that the Soviet Communist party suffered a sharp decline in power and prestige in the dramatic political changes in Poland.

The Poles' insistence on a "national" development of their own brand of Communism may overshadow a breakup of the iron Soviet political control over its Eastern bloc, and as a result Nikita S. Khrushchev might be unseated as the boss of Soviet communism, diplomatic informants said.

Comment on the events in Poland emphasized that the Polish leadership remained Communist. But the national development of the Communist ideology — along lines exemplified by President Tito's party in Yugoslavia — seems preferable, in the Western view, to the system of totally puppet parties.

Few would deny that the events marked a division in the ranks of world communism, and commenting on this, England's Liberal Manchester Guardian said "Liberty is not so common that we should hold any of its victories cheap."

Diplomats kept a minute-to-minute check on events in Poland through a stream of coded dispatches from Warsaw, but most were watchfully waiting and withholding comment. So was Moscow.

Moscow radio broadcast a non-committal report on what happened in the Friday and Saturday sessions of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party central committee. It made no mention of the political background. It merely prefixed the title "comrade" to the name of Wladyslaw Gomulka branded and jailed as a Titoist in the Stalin era and now the new first secretary — boss — of the Polish party. This meant Moscow wanted the world to believe it regarded Gomulka as a Communist in good standing.

Poland's experiences led to speculation about Hungary, another restless Soviet satellite, which might now take a similar course. But there were words of caution against over-optimistic thinking.

"Great changes within Poland are afoot," said the Conservative London Daily Telegraph. "The West can take immense comfort from this. But to look for dramatic realignment in the international field would be both naive and dangerous."

The Times of London said Poland's rulers still are Communists, "with no wish to fall into the arms of the West or to end up in the sort of limbo where Poland has so often and so disastrously found herself in the past."

The Conservative Daily Mail noted that what took place in Poland was a revolution, not against Communism, but against Stalinism.

Bulganin Denounced As 'Meddler' In Election

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Russian Premier Bulganin landed in the middle of the U.S. political campaign with a loud thump yesterday. President Eisenhower denounced him as a meddling H-bomb tester.

Bulganin's latest note — endorsing the views of "certain prominent public figures in the United States" who want H-bomb tests halted — drew a stinging reply from Eisenhower and added fuel to the current campaign debate.

Even before Eisenhower's rejection of the Bulgarian letter, Adlai Stevenson put out a statement saying, "The White House seems to have dismissed the Russian offer out of hand . . ."

Stevenson said the Bulgarian letter appeared to contain "nothing new" but "it is encouraging that Russia appears to be still disposed to curb these dreadful weapons."

Stevenson's own proposal — that the United States take the lead in negotiations toward ending H-bomb tests — has been condemned by Eisenhower and other GOP leaders as a threat to national security unless there are foolproof mutual inspection agreements.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) called on Stevenson to "repudiate the unwarranted interference of Premier Bulganin . . . in our free American elections." Knowland said Stevenson should do so "because you have helped create this situation by your unfortunate position on H-bomb tests."

In a statement issued in California, also before Eisenhower's reaction to the Bulgarian note was made public, Sen. Estes Kefauver said the United States has "everything to gain and nothing to lose" by negotiating with Russia on a test ban.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee said it is "necessary to the very survival of the world that we call a halt to these deadly tests."

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) said he agreed the Bulgarian letter was an "improper intrusion" into the American campaign. He said Eisenhower was "entirely correct in rejecting it."

Eisenhower's letter to Bulganin repeated his earlier stand that inspection and control agreements are the first step in any disarmament program, "both of which your government has steadfastly refused to accept."

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Leaders pledged to guide Poland on a new course independent of Moscow have taken the reins of the ruling Communist party and swept the Stalinists from policy-making posts.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, a tough and taciturn 51-year-old Communist who became a national hero by defying Stalin, emerged at the top after a shakeup of the powerful Politburo last night.

Before he officially took power, Gomulka issued a virtual declaration of independence from Moscow. In a fiery speech to the Central Committee, he denounced what he called misuse of the past 12 years.

"There is more than one road to socialism," he declared. "There is the Soviet way. There is the Yugoslav way. And there are other ways."

Gomulka's sweeping victory might herald fateful changes in other parts of the East European Soviet satellite bloc.

Some Polish Communists said they expect Hungary to take a similar course by returning to power former Premier Imre Nagy, who was deposed in 1955 as a rightist. Only yesterday thousands of Hungarian students issued ultimatums to the authorities threatening street demonstrations unless their demands for more freedom and better living conditions are met within two weeks.

Some Polish sources forecast that Gomulka's victory might cost Nikita Khrushchev his job as boss of the Soviet Communist party.

Old Stalinists — supporters of the harsh policies of the late Soviet dictator — are said to feel that Khrushchev's policy of reconciliation with Yugoslav President Tito threatens dissolution of Russia's satellite empire.

Quota Exceeded By Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile went over its quota on its visit to Pitt County last week. Chairman Dr. John L. Watters reported today.

On Thursday, 214 pints of blood were donated during the Bloodmobile's visit to the East Carolina College campus. That was considerably more than the college quota of 140 pints. Fifteen persons were rejected at the college.

Capt. J. M. Crane was chairman of the blood drive at the college and he was assisted by ROTC Cadet Col. Earnest L. McFarland.

Friday, the Bloodmobile collected 53 pints in Bethel where the quota was 110 pints. Of those who visited the Bloodmobile in Bethel 20 were Negro. Eleven persons were rejected.

Thus, the county had a quota of 250 for the two stops in the county and a total of 267 pints were collected.

Julian Smith was chairman in Bethel.

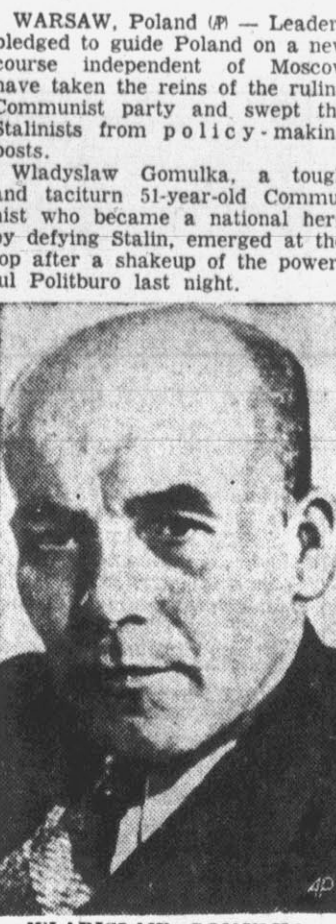

Dr. Watters expressed his appreciation to the chairmen, doctors, nurses and others who participated to make the Bloodmobile visit successful.

Negro Is Injured By Flying Tire

Theodore Wilson, Negro of 618 Parkside Ave., was cut on the face and knocked unconscious when a tire he was changing flew off the run Saturday night.

The accident occurred at Austin Service Station on N. Greene St. Wilson was filling the tire with air when it blew off the rim.

He was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Fire Department rescue truck.

WLADYSLAW GOMULKA . . . New Leader In Poland

Surrounding Gomulka in the streamlined, nine-member ruling group were other men said to favor his demand for disentanglement from Soviet controls. All remained pledged to continued Communist government.

Among the Stalinists tossed out of the Politburo was Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, the Polish-born Soviet army hero installed by Stalin as head of Poland's military forces in 1949 to hold the country in the Soviet orbit.

The election of a new Politburo, with Gomulka in the key post of first secretary, climaxed a three-day meeting of the Party Central Committee. The Soviet Union exerted intense pressure to keep its men in places of authority. Despite tension, and reports of clashes between Polish and Soviet troops, Warsaw remained quiet throughout the meeting.

Russians Send Army To Poland

BERLIN (AP)—Russia has pulled some of her crack motorized divisions out of Communist East Germany and sent them into reverse Poland, a Western source said today.

The informant said the Soviet high command began rushing the divisions across the East German frontier several days ago, after the crisis in Soviet-Polish relations exploded. There was no information as to whether the troop movements were continuing.

The shift of Russian forces was seen here as an effort to pressure the Poles back into line and to reinforce the position of Poland's defense minister, Soviet Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, who was stationed in the Polish Politburo yesterday.

The redeployment could also be a precautionary step to protect Red army supply lines. Russia has about 400,000 troops, including an estimated 22 ground divisions, stationed in East Germany and their main lines of communication run through Poland.

The West Berlin newspaper B.Z. said five Soviet troop divisions already have been moved into Poland from East Germany.

The Western informant said that the number of divisions involved in the redeployment is not yet known but includes "a large number of troops."

Liberace's Unhappy

LONDON (AP) — Liberace, an American pianist against the tabloid newspaper and Connor, who writes under the name of Cassandra. The defendants have three weeks in that to answer.

Under British procedure, the amount of damages sought is fixed by the court if it finds a narrative libelous.

Liberace complained to reporters on a visit to Paris in September that some British columnists had implied he was an "unmanly man." He said attacks in connection with his British concert tour had put his mother, Mrs. Frances Liberace, to bed under a doctor's care.

Liberace's attorney, John R. Jacobs Jr., announced in Hollywood last Wednesday the pianist had instructed him to arrange the suit. He said Liberace told him a Mirror article published Sept. 26 was "just too much for any man to stomach" and added:

"If I didn't have the contracted concert dates in the immediate future, and my appearances depend upon my hands, I would knock Cassandra's teeth down his throat — and I ain't kidding."

Ike To Step Up Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may add several major appearances to his speechmaking schedule in the closing days of his campaign for reelection.

Press secretary James Hager, when asked today whether Eisenhower might undertake "a major campaign swing into several states, or several cities."

But he said the President's plans are not firm and the appearances might be divided into two or more trips.

This left without confirmation a variety of reports that Eisenhower is considering major addresses in Boston, Philadelphia, Dallas and other places.

Young Moderns

BY VIVIAN BROWN

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The mallbag is chock full of: "How can I lose weight" pleas. It seems lack of dates puts a girl in the "take a good look at yourself" mood. After all holiday parties are just a whistle away.
The best way for young girls to reduce is by exercise and reducing the quantity of food eaten, if too much is being consumed, less each day until you find a satisfying norm of a wide variety of foods. Avoid between meal nibbles and unnecessary sweets.

One of the best exercises for reducing is walking, and a good time is in the morning. It will help slim your hips, abdomen and thighs. The point is to walk briskly. Eat breakfast before the walk so that you do not increase your appetite by early morning exercise. A half-hour walk in the morning and a half-hour walk before or after dinner is ideal also.
Good exercises to do at home include these . . .
For the waistline—Stand with feet slightly apart keeping knees straight, bend down from waist, bending right hand to left foot. Repeat bending down placing left hand to right foot.
For the hips—Lie down on the floor. Raise right leg up as far as possible keeping arms outstretched and on the floor. Now swing right leg over left leg as far as possible aiming for the left hand (practically impossible but keep trying). Do this ten or twenty times or work up to it by adding a few extras every day.
A good exercise for the buttocks is this one:
Sit on the floor. Fold arms and then move across the floor by propelling yourself along by moving one thigh and then the other. The trick is to do it faster and faster as you go along.
An exercise for a puffy abdomen is this one:
Lie down on the floor, arms overhead, legs straight. Without moving your legs attempt to sit up, touching your toes with your hands. This is not an easy one to do, but it gets easier as time goes on.
If you do go in for the exercising method of reducing, it's a good idea to be strict with yourself about food. If you think that just because you are exercising you can eat more, that is a mistake. You can only lose if you combine the two: exercise and diet. But make sure the diet is a sensible one.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER
At Bethlehem Community Center, Atlanta, Georgia, a project of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions, there was dedicated recently a new building to house the center's activities. Part of the funds used in construction of the building came from the Methodist Church's Crusade for Christ. The service of dedication was conducted by Bishop J. W. E. Bowen, bishop of the Atlanta Coast Area of the Methodist Church. Organized in 1944, the Bethlehem Center in Atlanta is one of the more than 100 urban centers sponsored by the Woman's Division. The Atlanta center serves an area located near two large housing projects, a public elementary school, and the Carver Vocational School.

During the coming months United Church Women will sponsor across the nation a series of some thirty two-day workshops on human relations. The workshops are possible through a grant of $10,000 made to United Church Women by the Fund for the Republic for "educational work in race relations." The first workshops will be held in New York with the cooperation of the Manhattan Council-of-Church-Women-on-October 24-25. To be held in key communities, the workshops will aim to increase church women's knowledge in the area of civil rights and civil liberties; to unite the strength of church women as they seek to secure justice for all peoples; to help make the total community aware of the implications and dangers in the denial of rights to any person; to provide methods and practices for use in working with others in situations of tension; to help church women to learn how to deal with controversy, how to work with persons who hold a different viewpoint without alienating them; how to create fellowship and understanding among those who hold opposing views.

Mrs. Rogers Is Club Speaker

Mrs. R. P. Rogers, president of District 15 of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, was guest speaker for the Powelleville Woman's Club Thursday evening.

An Executive Board dinner honoring Mrs. Rogers at the Duke of Windsor Hotel in Windsor preceded her address to the club. "Let Us Be Large In Thought, In Word, In Deed" was the topic the speaker developed.

She reminded the group that "the General Federation of Women's Clubs is the largest organization in the world and one of the most influential."
"Our possibilities are so great and our job for service is a tremendous one, indeed," said the speaker.

The objective was pointed out: "The object of the General Federation shall be to unite the Woman's Clubs and like organizations throughout the world for the purpose of mutual benefit and for the promotion of their common interest in education, philanthropy, public welfare, moral values, civics and fine arts."

NC Coast Needs Big Resort Hotel

New talk of a big resort hotel at Morehead City stimulates the imagination to view the yet unexploited tourist potential of North Carolina's fabulous coastline.

There was talk a couple of years ago of building a big resort-convention hotel at Morehead City or

Women Give Up Their Political Back Seat

The women are taking a more active interest in politics this year than we've noticed in the past few years. In our opinion it is a healthy sign.

For years they have been as much in evidence at the polls as men. But heretofore it seemed to us that most pre-election talk and activities were unofficially reserved for the menfolk.

Not this year. The women are playing a major role in the campaign and unless we miss our guess they'll cast just as many if not more votes than the males come November 6.

Remember the national conventions a couple of months ago? The women played a much larger part there than has been the case in past years.

And the Rayburn dinner in Greenville? It looked to us like the fairer sex made up at least one-third of the $15-a-plate audience.

Then too there was the strictly women's rally of the Democratic party here a couple of weeks ago, one of a series held around the state which have evidenced greater interest in politics by the women. On top of that reports of regular district rallies being held in the state say the women are attending in larger numbers than ever before.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that the lady of the house is no longer content to let her participation in politics be limited to tagging along after hubby when he goes to the polls. She's rapidly learning as much about the campaign issues as her husband, and for the first time she's not taking a back seat to him when it comes to talking politics.

The woman's influence in politics is definitely on the upgrade as it has been for a number of years. This year, however, it is reaching a new plateau where it will be a major factor in the outcome of both local and national elections. It will, in our opinion, be an influence which will make good government even better.

Greenville Firemen Did Outstanding Job

Greenville firemen are to be commended for their efforts which prevented the disastrous fire loss early Saturday morning from being worse than it was.

Had it not been for the carefully coordinated efforts of Greenville's fire department and its volunteers, the roaring inferno might have engulfed an entire block of the business district on Dickinson Avenue and also destroyed the Greenville Tobacco Company plant.

Firemen are expected to fight fires, and know how to keep losses to a minimum. That's their job. But as in all other jobs the work of some groups is outstanding while the work of another group may be only mediocre. In the case of the Greenville Fire Department, their successful efforts in holding the fire to the Dixie Warehouse was in our opinion superb. Had firemen with less skill or less determination been called to the task the loss could have been several times what it actually is.

Saturday morning was the second time in three weeks that Greenville firemen have been called to battle a huge warehouse blaze. In each instance there was little they could do to save the structure but they managed to prevent spread of the blaze to other nearby buildings.

A word should also be said about the instantaneous response to the call for aid which came from the fire departments of Ayden, Farmville and Washington. Their efforts in helping to save a portion of the city's business district are likewise appreciated.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
GET TO KNOW YOURSELF

One of life's most harassing fears is the fear many people have of being left alone. Some people are so morbidly fearful in this regard that they would not dare to be left by themselves for a whole day. These are the people for whom a party is the most delightful experience of life. These are the people who gossip endlessly over the telephone with their friends. These are the people who are anxious to find out where men and women are foregathered in order that they may be there and know the excitement of the crowd.

Now all this of course is better than that morbid withdrawal from life in which some people indulge. At least it can be said that the people who do not want to be alone are extroverts and have the good quality of gregariousness. But it is also a virtue to be able to sit down alone with one's self at certain times, and for long periods if circumstances require it, and be content.

It is good to get out and mix with people, but we should have within us a resourcefulness which will enable us to be content when circumstances require us to be alone. If we have enough within our own heads and hearts, and if we have the peace which comes with sound faith and a good conscience, and if we have the disposition to think on the pure, the pleasant, and the lovely things of life, then we can afford to be alone.

Get on good terms with yourself. It is a pleasant experience.

Atlantic Beach. Hopes ran high for a few months, but the talk soon died away. With renewed talk about the dream project, hopes are rising again.

Although North Carolina's coast is by far a better natural resort area than any other state along the central Atlantic seaboard, it has only scratched the surface in attracting tourists.

Last year some ten million tourists visited North Carolina leaving more than $270,000,000 in cash behind them, making the tourist business the third largest industry in the state. The amazing part is that the vast majority of this tourist money was left along the scenic mountain trails and a relatively small part of it was spent along the coast.

Where major resort and convention hotels are fairly numerous in the mountains of North Carolina, such facilities are sadly lacking along the coast. It is unfortunate indeed that many state organizations which want to meet at a coast resort have to go to Virginia or South Carolina for lack of adequate facilities on the North Carolina coast.

With the dream of a 300 mile truly coastal highway through North Carolina slowly becoming a reality, the tourist and convention potential of the coast is vastly improved. A big hotel at Morehead City, capable of handling large conventions would attract not only North Carolina organizations but those from other states as well. Such a hotel could likewise become a tourist stronghold between the rocky coast of New England and the flat strands of Florida.

North Carolina needs a major hotel on the coast. Perhaps the present discussions will bring the results hoped for.

Court Will Decide Speed Of Program

By LYNN NISBET

HIGHWAYS — The speed at which a number of highway projects in North Carolina can be put under construction will depend to considerable degree upon a decision of the State Supreme Court. If the high court rules that the State highway commission has authority to condemn land for controlled access rights of way, half a dozen projects can be let to contract within a few weeks. If the decision is that under present laws the commission does not have that authority, the projects will have to wait for legislation or for long drawn out procedure in Federal courts.

The court heard oral arguments last Tuesday in the case of W. A. Hedrick v. Graham et al and the opinion is expected at an early date. Original action brought in Davidson county Superior Court challenging authority of the highway folks to deny free access of abutting property owners to use of the highway commissioners on Johnson sustained a demurrer by the highway commissioners on the ground the action complained of was not personal, but constituted official act of a State agency, and the State cannot be sued except by its consent.

Hedrick appealed and the appeal was argued last Tuesday. The court's final decision not only will determine whether the highway commission can apply controlled access provisions to the section of US 29 & 70 just north of the Yadkin river, but will govern conditions in hundreds of other places.

One project directly affected is the proposed four-laning of US 70 between Greensboro and England, and acquisition of the right of way for continuing the four-lane route south of Hillsboro to connect with the dual road bypass around Durham.

STYMIED — Chief Engineer W. J. Rogers Jr. said the route south of Hillsboro has been tentatively approved by State and Federal agencies, and a detailed survey is in progress to establish the exact location. When the survey is in progress to establish the exact location. When the survey is completed and approved, negotiations will be conducted for acquiring the right of way.

Right of way for the additional lane on the Greensboro-England link has been acquired, but negotiation is necessary because of tightened restrictions in Federal regulations. The present route has some grade crossings and several temporary private access drives. These must be eliminated under new Federal rules, and in some places the right of way may have to be expanded from 260 to 300 feet.

Rogers said that contrary to popular opinion the Federal rules, and in some places the right of way may have to be expanded from 260 to 300 feet for interstate rights of way. Requirements are absolute for elimination of grade access and crossings, and the right of way must be wide enough to take care of these problems—including lateral service roads leading to the crossings. In some instances this can be accomplished in 220 feet, possibly less, in others it will take at least 300.

Right of way acquisition where controlled access is involved is a sticky right now, pending the North Carolina court decision. If that decision is adverse, negotiations must wait for legislation next spring. And if the Legislature does not come through, the matter will have to go through the tortious processes of Federal courts which might take several years.

There seems little doubt that the General Assembly will give the needed specific authority, which the highway commission now claims by implication in the statutes, unless the issue gets mixed up with a program for reorganizing the whole highway department. Besides waiting for the Supreme Court to render an opinion, the highway folks are waiting for the recommendations of the study commission on reorganization of the whole department.

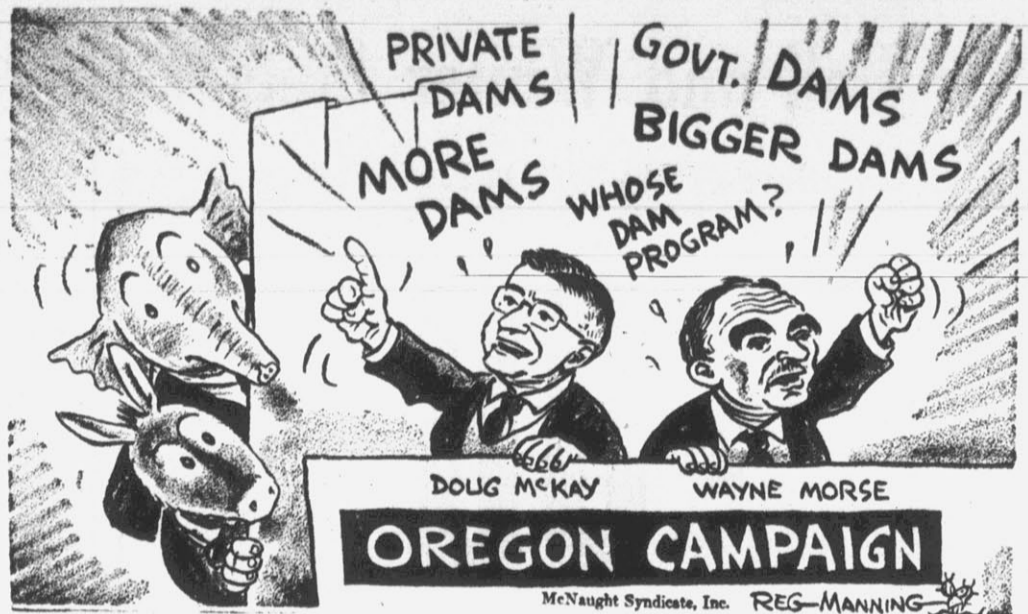

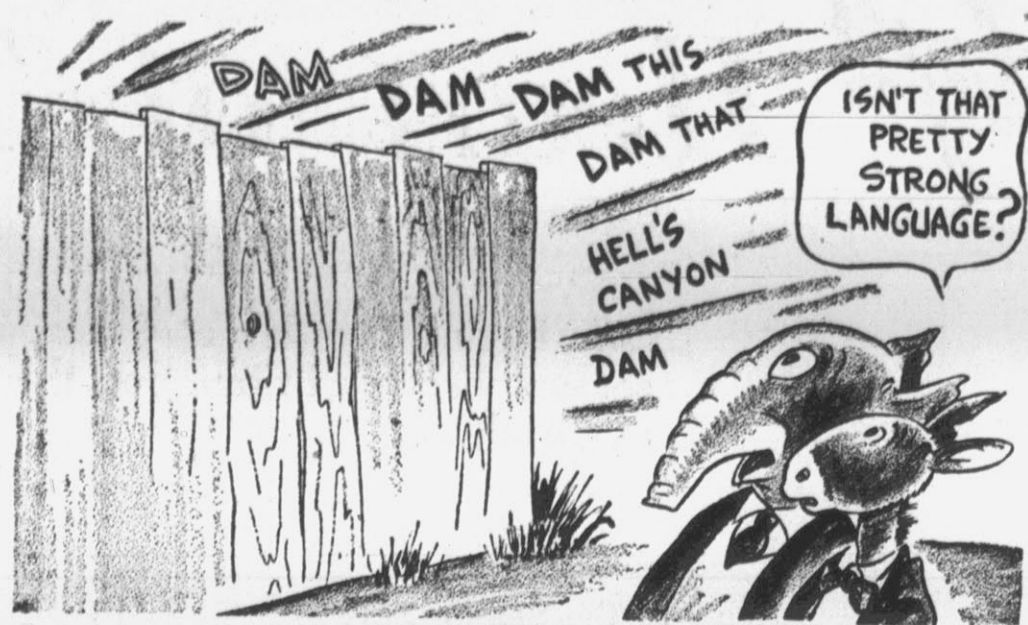

HODGES — Despite the fact he had to wedge a news conference between two major appointments at widely separate places in the state, Governor Hodges met the reporters late Thursday with even more zest and sparkle than he has exhibited at recent sessions with them.

He opened with endorsement of a new executive and legislative office building "equipped with adequate facilities for radio, television and writing reporters." Jay Jenkins of the Charlotte Observer quipped that "Kyle Hayes must be running strong." The Governor replied, "You are nearer right on that than on some other observations." Hayes is the Republican candidate for Governor, and the wisecrack was obviously directed at the Governor, and the wisecrack was obviously directed at the story broken last week by Jenkins that the reorganization committee would recommend a split ballot—a comment which the Governor had previously discounted.

When Governor Hodges offered the suggestion that farm leaders, including tobacco growers, warehousemen and other middlemen, ought to get together and work out a basic formula for reducing tobacco production, a reporter reminded him that Congressman Bill Tuck, former Governor of Virginia, had urged Secretary Benson not to cut tobacco acreage next year. Hodges quipped: "He must be more concerned about his re-election than I am. I know what I'm saying is not popular, but it seems to me essential to continued prosperity in Eastern North Carolina."

When reporters tried to put him on the spot about requests for money pending before the advisory budget commission, he skillfully got off with the statement that "it is possible that some of our people, recognizing the great needs, may be aspiring to more service than our economy will stand."

Developing Business Trends

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are some more business predictions, based not on hunches, omens, or presages, but upon analyses of developing trends and a few advance tips:

Year-end stock dividends will set a new record. Earnings so far have been remarkably high and the anticipated fourth-quarter highs in sales are likely to shove dividends to higher levels.

You'll go crazier if the Chiquita Banana never-pull-bananas-in-the-refrigerator song drove you nuts. United Fruit Co., the top banana importer, is distributing recordings that scream, "Boostabanna! Backabanna! Boombabanna now!"

Deep-sea cargo rates will rise. Two North Atlantic shipping organizations have announced increases starting next February 1, and other conferences are expected to take similar action shortly. Higher wages and fuel costs are causes.

MORE SUEZ CONSEQUENCES You'll pay for Egyptian intransigence. Because the Suez crisis has not yet had serious economic effects, there is a tendency to ignore it at some levels of business. But as long as it remains unresolved, there will be a quiet, steady upward pressure on prices of oil and other international commodities and a similar downward pressure on stock prices.

Reinforced plastics are about to be pushed vigorously. The R. P. division of the Society of the Plastics Industry is about to launch a campaign calling attention to this new wonderkind of the industry. The drive will be aimed at manufacturers, engineers, architects and designers.

Canned fish prices will rise more. Packs of salmon, sardines and shrimp have been light this year in most producing areas of the world.

That highway construction boom may be slowed down. The plant-expansion boom is draining off a lot of steel and concrete—and a lot of construction engineers—so that during the coming year spending for highways may necessarily be less than expected.

More multi-packs are coming. Borrowing from the brewing industry, the National Canners Association experimented with three and six cans of corn packaged together. Sales increased so much, more than 27 per cent, that multipacks of other canned goods are certain to come.

MORE PRICE RISES Men's suits will cost more next spring. Mills have been boosting prices of wool and worsted fabrics and the rise will be reflected in clothing.

A capon drive is due. The capon has been losing ground to small turkeys so capon producers have formed an organization to extol, along with recipes, the glory of the sexless rooster.

A TOUCHING STORY BY THE OLD PROMOTER

The Old Promoter sat in the visitors' chair and pulled his heels up out of his shoes, indicating he planned to stay for a while. We shuffled papers back and forth on the desk, indicating that we were busy. Then he said: "I may have an item for you. This week a lady buyer from Seattle dropped in. Salesmen from six companies took her out on the town—to night clubs, restaurants and fancy spots. She's a big account and they poured the welcome on. But a salesman from the seventh company had a different idea. He took the girl home to meet his mother, who cooked an old-fashioned meal."

"What a switch!" we said. "We suppose the seventh young man landed the biggest order?"

"No," said the Old Promoter. "He didn't make a sale. But he knocked down $200 of his expense account."

Another Big Year For Crops

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — As far as crop production is concerned, American farmers have done an outstanding job in recent years, despite acreage controls and in some sections unfavorable growing conditions. Although I do not look for a record total output this year, it should not be far under the relatively high level of 1955.

SUMMER RESULTS

What did somewhat better this season than last, but the total indicated crop was 16 per cent under the 1945-1954 average of 1,149,290,000 bushels. However, we can get along well enough for a while without billion-bushel wheat crops, since the bread grain at present constitutes one of the major surplus farm commodities. The U.S. carryover last July 1 topped one billion bushels, but much of it was in government hands. The loan program will again siphon a substantial portion of the current crop out of commercial channels. This fact is a favorable sign.

Most of the other summer-harvest crops did fairly well, with oats perhaps the major exception. Although the outlook was the smallest since 1945, total supplies should suffice. Ample supplies of barley and flaxseed will be available for the 1956-1957 season. The barley crop was the fourth, and the flaxseed crop the second, largest of record. Farmers this year produced the third largest hay crop ever, but spot supplies in drought-stricken areas may be tight from time to time. I expect grain and hay prices to average higher over the longer term.

OUTLOOK FOR CORN AND SOYBEANS

There is no question as to the adequacy of corn for the current season. The above-average 1956 crop, plus the large carryover from previous years, spells record supplies. Since the government owns or controls more than 1,000,000,000 bushels, and since I forecast that a sizable portion of the 1956 crop will enter the loan, free stocks need not prove burdensome. While moderate price weakness is likely during heavy shipments this fall, the market should average higher as the season advances.

The U.S. 1956 soybean crop is by far the largest on record, and will exceed total requirements by a wide margin. Just how much downward pressure these heavy supplies will exert on prices remains to be seen. The test should come in government markets at their seasonal peak. The government loan, which averages $2.15 a bushel on the farm, could buttress prices. Growers and processors have discussed the problem of heavy soybean supplies with the government, and further government moves may be made to help prices.

COTTON AND OTHER FALL CROPS

The 1956 U.S. cotton crop, now being harvested, is not burdensome, since indications are that domestic consumption and exports will exceed it. Although the carryover last August 1 was huge—around 14,500,000 bales—a large part of this reserve was in government hands and will not now glut commercial channels. The good present demand, plus the influence of the CCC loan, could strengthen cotton prices.

The indicated dry bean crop is not far from average and should suffice for needs. The rice output is somewhat above average, but need not prove burdensome. I now forecast that prices of both these items will work higher over the longer term. The late potato crop is on the heavy side, but the government's diversion program should prevent any drastic price decline this fall.

A GLANCE AHEAD

The course of farm prices is vital not only to farmers themselves, but to the nation. The trend has been moderately downward for several months, but the drop from mid-August to mid-September was only 0.5 per cent. While further slight near-term weakness is possible, the future is uncertain.

Notebook On Life

A Dollar Bill Started Eartha

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Eartha Kitt, who now earns upward of $200,000 a year, says she built her whole life from a dollar bill.

The dynamic Negro singer and dancing star earned the dollar in South Carolina 21 years ago. "I was seven and got a penny a pound picking cotton," she recalled. "One day I picked a hundred pounds—and I only did it once."

"That dollar was important to me. I built my whole life on it. I kept it for a long time—until we had to spend it for food."

The dollar was a symbol to the young girl that life could be better than she had known it. "I never did have an ambition more poignant than to live a little better than I was," said Eartha, who recently wrote at 29—her autobiography, "Thursday's Child."

"I never had a pointed, definite goal. I still don't. I am a fatalist and go with the tide. I don't believe in making plans, because what is meant for me to do I'll do it anyway."

Eartha tried all kinds of odd jobs before she quit school at 16 and started a career that was to make her an international cafe favorite.

"I mended Army clothes in Brooklyn," she said. "I was a shoe sales girl and a farmette. I was a maid. Lord, did I hate that! I hated it more than anything else. My pride was hurt"—she laughed self-consciously, then grimaced—"my poor little pride."

"And now I get $200,000 to $250,000 a year. Sounds ridiculous doesn't it?"

The long ago symbol of her first dollar has been replaced by two new symbols—the $17,000 mink coat she wears now in her act at the Persian Room in the Plaza Hotel and a new home she bought on the East Side.

"That house is my real symbol of security," she said. "Since the time I can remember, I never had a real home of my own. Now that I have one it gives me a good feeling.

"There's nothing more secure than four walls you can call your own—that you can say, 'This is mine—I earned it.'"

She is having the upper floors of the five-story house converted into apartments and soon Eartha, who lived on tenant farms as a child will become a landlord.

Despite her present success Miss Kitt feels somewhat lonely and lost. She hasn't taken a real vacation in five years.

"More than anything else in the world I want time off for a little privacy," she said. "Now that I'm no longer hungry I want to just be myself for a while again, and get reacquainted with me. Who am I? I've been so busy I no longer am sure."

One thing she said she was sure she wasn't — "The glamorous gold-digger I'm afraid some people think I am. That role is only show world pretense. I've been independent all my life, and I want to stay

Opinions In Brief

JUNCTION CITY, ORE. TIMES: "Voting is more than just a privilege of our citizens—it's a duty and an obligation. And that's something to remember in these coming pre-election days. As individuals, we don't owe anything to these politicians—our obligation is to secure the highest type of good government, at local, state and national level."

JEFFERSONTOWN, KY. JEFFERSONIAN: "Men and women willing to stem the tide of over-spending should not only be encouraged to run for public office, but should be militantly supported once they decide to make the sacrifice. And a sacrifice is what it really means, to oppose well organized pressure groups that are willing to make demands for legislation for their benefit at the expense of the general taxpayer's pocket."

DUBLIN, GA. COURIER-HERALD: "Perhaps government should not be operated as a business, but there are certain principles of economics that ought to be considered in the operation of any division of government. One principle is that when the outgo exceeds the income, something serious is bound to happen."

COME ON FOR LAZY MEN The garden magazine advertiser who offers a special weather proofing paint for garden tools has an approach to his potential customers that we can admire.

For buyers he seeks the self-confessed lazy man who wants to leave his garden tools laying out in the weather and not be injured by his indolence. This pitch to the always weary of well-doing represents a most refreshing departure from advertising's hackneyed appeals to the coveters of success, social recognition, and the like.

In fact the advertisement praises one of our great character defects so honestly and accurately, we just believe we will buy a can.

WASHINGTON — The possible loss of 65 electoral votes and three Senate seats in "Bob" Taft territory—Ohio, Illinois and Indiana—has led GOP managers there to bet President Eisenhower to barnstorm and whistle-stop these states in the closing days of the campaign.

Besides being ultra-conservative and Old Guardish, the voters there have never forgiven the Eisenhower-Dewey forces for the mauling they gave the Middle West's late hero at the 1948 and 1952 conventions. They do not blame Eisenhower so much as the men behind him, especially Thomas E. Dewey, Henry Cabot Lodge, Sherman Adams, Harold E. Stassen and Paul Hoffman.

They also believe that Ike, in preserving and expanding so many New Deal reforms, has betrayed them, and violated his 1952 "Mormonside Heights" agreement with Taft. They resent the prominence and influence which has been accorded so many of Taft's Party enemies in the Administration and in the campaign.

Indeed, there is reason to believe that Vice President Nixon is stronger in this section than Ike himself. The Californian's general philosophy is held to be more akin to Taft's than Eisenhower's principles.

MAJOR BLUNDERS OF GOP Two major blunders by President Eisenhower himself and GOP strategists have transformed this key and historically Republican area into a battleground. Although Eisenhower seems to hold a fairly good lead now, there is no room for overconfidence.

Hoffman's recent magazine article, in which he virtually read five conservative Taft Senators out of the Party, has hurt Ike and the GOP. For it is generally believed that such a White House friend as the former automobile executive would not have dared to write the condemnation without Ike's prior and private approval. In fact, at a recent press conference the President appeared to agree with Hoffman.

HOFFMAN AND DEWEY Hoffman stands for many things which Senator Taft opposed vigorously. As Marshall Plan Administrator, he poured out millions in foreign aid in a manner which the late Senator detested.

As head of the Ford Foundation, he financed causes and movements which are anathema to Midwest conservatives. The demand for ending the tax-exempt status of foundations has been strongest in Taft territory.

Dewey, of course, is hated, personally and politically, a his poor showing in these states in the 1948 election amply proved. His selection to deliver a major speech for Ike will revive bitter memories.

Nor did Dewey endear himself to the disaffected when, in a recent interview, he deprecated the suggestion that Nixon, if re-elected, would become the GOP's real boss, as well as the logical Presidential nominee in 1960.

THREE REPUBLICAN SURVIVORS IN DANGER This survi-

ing idolatry of "Bob" Taft and basic conservatism may not imperil Ike's chances, for he is not blamed so much as the men around and behind him. But the three Republican Senators up for re-election stand in grave danger.

Although a Taft man, Senator Everett McK. Dirksen is jeopardized by the financial and banking scandals involving a Republican state official, Governor Frank J. Lausche. Taft's Democratic supporter, is given an excellent chance to defeat Senator George H. Bender in Ohio. And Senator William E. Jenner's dislike for his Republican colleague, Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana, may hurt the latter's re-election prospects.

Should these three men go down, or even two of them, Republican hopes of controlling the Senate would disappear. And the feud between Eisenhower liberals and Taft conservatives would become more bitter than at any time since the Taft-Dewey duels of 1940, 1944 and 1948, with Ike caught in the middle.

Main Course For That Busy Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor

'BUSY DAY MAIN COURSE'
 Chop some onion and green pepper and cook them in a big skillet along with ground beef. Now raid your pantry shelf and add a can of tomatoes, one of tomato sauce, another of whole-kernel corn and still another of red kidney beans.

Begin to simmer the scramble with salt, pepper, a suspicion of sugar and chili powder—making this Chili Plus as hot as you like. If you use chili powder with a delicate hand, you'll find adding a little tomato seasoning powder will point up flavors beautifully. The powder is a blend of vegetables, spices and herbs that comes in a small jar and does wonders for all dishes containing tomatoes.

Let all the flavors get thoroughly acquainted with each other while the meat and vegetables bubble gently for half an hour or so. About 10 minutes before you're ready to serve, put some prepared packaged biscuits—the ready-to-bake sort—in the oven. When the biscuits are handsomely brown and toplofty, split and butter them. Arrange the biscuits over the Chili Plus and let everyone help himself. The gravy of the skillet dish will taste good over the biscuit. If you serve the Chili Plus as soon as it's cooked, the gravy may be thin; if you refrigerate it and reheat, the gravy will probably thicken.

CHILI PLUS

Ingredients: 1 cup thin strips onion, 1 large green pepper (cut into thin strips), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 pound ground chuck beef, 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce, 1 can (12 ounces) whole-kernel corn, 1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, salt, pepper, sugar, chili powder, 1 or 2 containers ready-to-bake biscuits, butter.

Method: Cook onion and green pepper in 2 tablespoons butter in 12-inch skillet until onion is wilted—about 10 minutes; use low heat and stir several times. Add ground beef; mash with a long-handled kitchen fork to crumble meat; cook until meat loses its red color. Add undrained tomatoes, tomato sauce, undrained corn and undrained kidney beans; mix well. Add salt, pepper and chili powder to taste. Simmer for ½ hour or longer. Bake biscuits according to package directions; split at once and spread with butter; sandwich together again. Place biscuits over meat mixture and serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

No Answer For That Question

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — The telephone rang recently at Montgomery Field, the ball park of the Roswell Rockets baseball team here and a voice asked: "Who's gonna play tonight?" "Pampa, Tex." replied the operator on duty. "Who they gonna play?" the caller asked. In silence the operator replaced the receiver on the hook.

PTA Hears Speaker On Safety

A talk on "Highway Safety" highlighted the Wahl-Coates PTA meeting Thursday night at 8 o'clock in McGinnis Auditorium. Mrs. Lacy Harrell, president, presided.

Mrs. Joyce Zeh's 8th grade had charge of the music and devotional. The program was opened by the group singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." Miss Phyllis Moore read the 13th chapter of Corinthians and the grade sang "Jesus Walks That Lonely Way." Music was under the direction of Miss Beatrice Chaucery.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and these were approved. The treasurer's report was given by Mr. C. E. Steinmeyer.

Mrs. L. W. Herring, membership chairman, reported that 519 parents had joined the PTA and that three grades had reached the 100% membership goal. They are Mrs. Savage's third grade, Miss Pate's third grade and Mrs. Everett's third grade.

Mrs. J. W. Overton reported that the yearbooks were ready for distribution and asked that the members use these books.

The program was then turned over to D. L. Harrell, chairman of the safety committee, who introduced Sgt. John Laws of the N. C. Highway Patrol of Kinston. Sgt. Laws gave a talk on "Highway Safety," a subject about which the entire nation is acutely conscious. Figures that he quoted were startling and he pointed out how each person can do his share to help make highways safe.

Miss Frances Wahl gave a brief outline on what the PTA stands for. This was in answer to a question from the floor.

The president announced that the Ways and Means Committee was completing plans for the Halloween Carnival to be held at the school on Friday night, October 26, from 5:30 to 8:00 p.m.

The success of the District PTA meeting held in Greenville on October 10 was noted by the president.

Mrs. Zeh's eighth grade won the attendance prize.

Speaker Talks On Hinduism

A program on "Hinduism" was given when Mrs. E. W. Larkin Jr. entertained members of the Lector Book Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on Elm Street. Fall flowers were arranged throughout the rooms.

The members and guest, Mrs. Alec White Jr., were served a dessert course with coffee and nuts.

Mrs. Travis Flanagan presided over a short business session and turned the meeting over to Mrs. E. S. Flanagan, program chairman for the afternoon.

Continuing the club's study of the world's great religions, Mrs. Flanagan gave a review of Life Magazine's article on "Hinduism" in the February 7, 1955 issue.

She told how India's people seek the one true reality through an ancient and mystic religion of exotic ritual and pure philosophy.

In theory, Hinduism is the simplest of religions, yet in practice it is very complex.

The object of the Hindu religion is a sublime one, she said: to achieve union with the eternal spirit which the Hindus usually call Brahman, rather than God, and represent by the sacred syllable "om."

The Hindu heavens teem with 330 million gods which philosophic Hindus look upon as the infinite aspects of the one Brahman.

The Hindus are probably the most religious-minded people on earth, the speaker said. Although there are dozens of sects, each following its own beliefs and rituals, all have these common ideals of Hindu ethics: purity, self-control, detachment, truth, nonviolence, charity and compassion to

TV Entertainers Face New Hazard

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—In the cashiers' offices of radio and television it is not considered enough for an entertainer simply to entertain. He also must sell the sponsor's product.

The dimension of salesmanship adds a new hazard to the entertainer in TV. The front office ponderers not only the size, but also the age groupings, of his audiences. For example, it's futile for "Captain Kangaroo" to try to sell motor cars to an audience that in general will not receive its drivers' licenses for a dozen years.

In light of the strongly commercial trends now developing in television it seems clear that entertainers who sell their sponsors' products will be the entertainers who survive—regardless, in some cases, of the audience ratings of their shows.

played their ability to buy recordings.

But what else can the younger generation buy? Sponsor replies: "Every day 10,000 new prospects move into the teen-age market. This year about 750,000 teen-agers got married. The median age of marriage for women is 18. About one-third of all first children in the United States are born to women 20 and under. Obviously, if the late teen-agers are going into house-keeping and raising families, then they also comprise a growing market for appliances, furnishings and cars."

Most youths who tune their radios to rock 'n' roll music these days probably think that it's natural for such a popular type of rhythm to be available at almost any time they turn the dial. Many hep fans probably think of it as virtually a public service.

As long as advertisers believe rock 'n' roll addicts buy their products, there will be rock 'n' roll. If they come to believe there is no commercial return from it, however, its vogue on the air will begin to die.

farm surpluses, acreage controls and the Soil Bank program could prove quite helpful for awhile; but I fear we have not yet found the ultimate solution. I do not know how farmers feel about the coming Presidential election, but I hope they will honor the dictates of their conscience and keep the welfare of the country as a whole clearly in mind.

There is a reflective piece along these lines in the current issue of Sponsor Magazine, a trade publication concerned with TV and radio advertising, in which the question is asked: Can Elvis Presley sell soap? Soap being the commonly accepted term for any advertised product.

In this instance Sponsor is not concerned as much with Elvis specifically as with taking him as the symbol of the many rock 'n' roll entertainers on radio and TV who attract huge teen-age audiences.

It may come as something of a shock to these youths to be confronted by the cold eye of commerce at such tender years. But there it is, the old eye staring at young wallets.

Teen-agers already have dis-

Three Commies Win In Jordanian Vote

By WILTON WYNN
AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—At least three candidates of the Communist-line National Bloc emerged as winners today in Jordan's parliamentary election.

This gives the extreme left its strongest parliamentary position in any Arab country. But the effect on Jordan, where anti-Western sentiment is growing, remained to be seen.

Other leftist parties failed to show strength and the independents appeared headed for the biggest batch of seats in the 40-seat chamber chosen in a calm and apparently free election yesterday. About half the country's 400,000 qualified voters cast ballots.

The moderate but anti-Western National Socialists were emerging as the largest single party. This group, which campaigned on a pro-Egyptian platform and urged abolition of the British-Jordan De-

11,000 New Jobs In September

RALEIGH (AP)—The number of nonagricultural jobs in North Carolina rose to a total of 1,057,000 during September to register a 11,000 gain.

The State Department of Labor reported the largest increase was in federal, state and local government where a gain of 8,600 pushed the total to 138,500.

There was a seasonal rise of 6,900 in tobacco stemmeries and redrying plants, and a gain of 2,000 in retail trade.

Average hourly earnings of the state's 467,300 factory workers dropped one cent to $1.35 for the month. Average weekly earnings were down fractionally to $53.73, although the average factory work week went up slightly to 39.8 hours.

When Eartha was a child in the fields she imagined the cotton she plucked looked like great white eyeballs. Now, during her night club acts, the eyeballs in the audience hauntingly remind her of those distant days amid the cotton.

Nixon Sets Out On Final Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon sets out today on his third and final transcontinental tour of the campaign.

He will devote much of his time this week to helping hard-pressed GOP candidates in congressional and state races.

The schedule will concentrate on three states the Republicans consider crucial — Michigan, Illinois and California.

Nixon already has traveled some 25,000 miles, and will add another 5,000 or so this week, using plane and motor car as well as special train.

His schedule called for flights to rallies at Alpena and Saginaw, Mich. Then he planned to go by train to Lapeer, Imlay City, Pontiac and Flint, all in Michigan.

Tomorrow he will whistle-stops across Michigan and on to South Bend, Ind. Wednesday he will continue his train tour through Illinois. Thursday he will spend in the Chicago area. Friday he flies to the Northwest, with speeches in Montana, Washington and Oregon. Saturday he will be back in California for his third visit of the campaign.

His schedule for the final week of the campaign has not been announced, but he is expected to tour in southern California early in the week, then head East and make appearances in New York state.

Eagle Offense Renders Bucs Helpless In Rout

SLAUGHTER SCENE—These four pictures tell the 28-0 story of the Morris Harvey-ECC battle: (1) Larry Powers, Morris Harvey halfback, plunges into the end zone for the second Eagle score, with ECC's Bobby Perry in pursuit and Charlie Smith (57) in the background. East Carolina College's Pirates, a football team that has spent the better part of the season trying to find a consistent combination, failed to do it again Saturday night. As a result, the Pirates wound up on the short end of a 28-0 score run up by a Morris-Harvey team that was almost tickled to death to find what it's like to score more than once in a single game. If there has been a single game this year when the Pirates were unable to make their offense work, it was Saturday night. Unfortunately, the defense found itself in the same boat and a team that had scored only four times in four previous games went wild. Morris-Harvey was slow getting started in its scoring and did so only on a mistake by the Pirates. A kicking duel occupied most of the first quarter but the Golden Eagles finally started rolling when a Pirate kick rolled out of bounds on the Morris-Harvey 33. Joe Cielenksy, Larry Powers, and Ray Jones powered the drive down to the East Carolina four where Powers was jarred loose from the ball and his fumble was recovered by Lynn Barnett.

First Touchdown
On the Pirates' first play from that point the line jumped off-side and the Bucs got penalized to the one. Quarterback Ralph Zehring elected to try to run the ball out to get kicking room but fumbled on what appeared to be a signal mix-up. Out of the wild melee that followed, Cielenksy appeared to come up with the ball in the end zone and Morris-Harvey had its first TD. John Bielletti kicked the point.

In the second quarter, after another exchange of kicks, the Eagles started a drive on the East Carolina 43. Cielenksy, who has not enjoyed a good reputation as a passer before Saturday night, found Bill Haynes in the clear and the big end carried the completed pass to the seven. John Konstantinos carried to the four and then Powers followed him through the same hole for the second touchdown. Delos Fisher kicked the point.

The third quarter was marked by short drives by both teams but nobody threatened to do much until the final minutes when Konstantinos intercepted a Gary Mattocks pass on the East Carolina 35. Powers carried on three straight plays to move to the 20 and Jones broke through for six yards to the 14. Cielenksy sneaked the ball to the 10 on the last play of the quarter. After changing the ball from one end of the field to the other, Cielenksy lost a yard at tackle and then called on freshman halfback Dewey Ballengee. The husky runner broke over left tackle in an amazing burst of speed and cut to the outside to score untouched. Fisher kicked the point again. On the ensuing kickoff, East Carolina bowed its neck and, with Mattocks carrying the bulk of the load with his running and passing, moved the ball to the Morris-Harvey 14. A pass to Ray Pennington at that point lost three yards and the Pirates had a fourth down situation coming up.

Long Run
Mattocks went back to pass once more and found himself rushed. He moved to his right to find running room but end Jim Wilson stayed right with him and when the Pirate quarterback cocked his arm to throw the big end reached up and took the ball off his hand. Not a hand was put on Wilson as he galloped nearly the length of the field to score. Fisher kicked the point.

The Pirates came back strong after the kickoff to march to Morris-Harvey's four but the drive fizzled again. Two running plays lost eight yards and one of Zehring's passes fell incomplete to wind up the threat. The Pirates started the game as if they were going to chase the Eagles right out of the stadium. They racked up a first down on their third running play of the game but that was their only one of the first half. Morris-Harvey's offense was so tight that East Carolina netted only 15 yards on the ground in the first half and had only 70 for the entire evening.

The Eagles, with Powers, Cielenksy, Jones and Ballengee handling most of the work, ground out 261 yards rushing. Ballengee, a second-stringer, turned out to be the hero with 82 yards in 10 rushes and he would have had more except a penalty nullified one 17-yard run. The victory was Morris-Harvey's third all of which have been by shutouts. They had scored more than once in only one previous game and that was in a 25-13 loss to Marshall College.

The loss was East Carolina's third in six games and wound up the Pirates' home schedule except for a November 17 game with Richmond. This week, the Pirates travel to Boone to meet Appalachian and next week will go to Hickory to play Lenoir-Rhyne.

Scoring summary:
Morris-Harvey 7 7 0 14-28
East Carolina 0 0 0 0-0
Morris-Harvey scoring: Touchdowns: Cielenksy, Powers, Ballengee, and Wilson; points-after-touchdowns: Bielletti, Fisher 3.

Favored Teams Win In Local Bowling Matches

In Greenville bowling last week, Western Auto, National Carbon, the Sinclairettes and the Comics maintained their leads in their respective conferences.

Western Auto copped three wins over the Carolina Dairy, to remain on top of the Industrial League and Walter Bunch was high man with a 82 average. Bob Dash had 176 for the losers.

White Chevrolet took two of three from the Quality Oilers, State Highway won three from Greenville Mills and Gulf Oil took two of three from the Buck Amocos, in that same loop.

In the City League, Pepsi-Cola jumped a notch in the standings.

Lenoir Rhyne Is Still Leading NS

Undeclared Lenoir Rhyne likely will get its major test of the season to date Saturday when it entertains Emory and Henry, also unbeaten in six starts.

The mighty Bears rolled to their sixth straight win of the season with a 35-0 drubbing of Western Carolina College Saturday. It was their 13th straight win and their 16th game without a defeat, an early season tie with Newberry last season the only blot on their record.

While Lenoir Rhyne was winning its third North State Conference game of the season, its nearest rival, Catawba, was upset 14-9 by Elon.

Outside foes defeated the three other conference members. Morris Harvey stopped East Carolina 28-0, Randolph Macon defeated Guilford 20-7 and Emory and Henry edged Appalachian 12-6.

Two conference games and three non-conference games feature this week's card. East Carolina invades Appalachian and Elon is at Western Carolina in the two family games while Emory and Henry is at Lenoir Rhyne, and Presbyterian invades Catawba.

Walter Cornwell scored twice for Lenoir Rhyne against WCC—once an 89-yard kickoff return—and passed for a third.

Elon scored with two seconds remaining in the game to tie Catawba when halfback Kerry Richards passed to Tony Careterra in the end zone. Coach Sid Varney's brother, Glenn, came on to kick the winning extra point.

The records, conference games first then all games: Lenoir Rhyne (3-0, 6-0), Catawba (3-1, 3-2-0), Randolph Macon defeated Guilford 20-7 and Emory and Henry edged Appalachian 12-6.

Stock Cars Were Rained Out This Weekend In N.C.

The stock car race program in North Carolina and neighboring states was rained out over the weekend.

The late model short track race scheduled for the Greensboro Fairgrounds Saturday night has been re-set for Friday night, Nov. 2. This should provide an excellent field of Grand National Drivers, since the late model race at Fayetteville's Champion Raceway is set for Sunday, Nov. 4.

Rainout of a 100-mile convertible race at North Wilkesboro delayed clinching of the title by Bob Welborn of Greensboro, who is just shy of a decisive point lead over runnerup Curtis Turner of Roanoke, Va.

Micro Races scheduled for Sunday, were called off, due to heavy rains, it was disclosed today. The proceeds of the races were to be given to the Pitt County Mental Health fund. Micro officials announced today that a later date for the benefit races will be decided upon this week.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 28

"Why are you so worried about that recording?" I asked Jack Walston.

"You do have it?"

"Yes," I said. "All you did was ask Anita to be your dancing partner in a night club act. Was there something else between you two? Why did she turn off the recorder when she did?"

"I don't know."

"Did she expect you to make a pass at her?"

"Probably. Anita expected every man to make a pass."

"She wasn't disappointed very often. But you didn't make a pass, so she couldn't blackmail you by threatening to queer you with Dotie. What was on that tape that she could use for blackmail?"

"Why do you want to know?"

"You said you were going to stop caring about that."

"Yeah," he said. He blew a long, tired sigh into his cupped hand, then rubbed it all over his crew cut. "All I want is that tape."

"Tell me about it and I . . . maybe I'll give it to you."

He said slowly, "Are you thinking I might have killed Anita because she was blackmailing me?"

I shrugged. It wasn't a very good shrug, but then they don't make shrugs like they used to.

"If I'm thinking bad thoughts about you," I said, "prove to me I'm wrong. Go ahead."

He took another one of those breaths; this was a boy who liked his air. Then he exploded in a rush of words.

"I love Dotie. I'm going to marry her. I want to make some money for the two of us, and not by being a damn dancing teacher."

"You want to run a roadhouse."

"Yeah, that's for me. A combination of being in show business and living in the country. But it takes money to go into any business. A couple of months ago I finally got a chance at the money. Dotie's sister talked her husband into loaning it to me. It was a struggle. Phil . . . that's her husband . . . he had the idea, he still hates it. He's sensible to him show business, night clubs, road houses . . . no. But a butcher or a baker or run a little store like his. He thinks I'm a dope."

"And," I said, "you think he's a dope. It's there on the tape."

"That's it. Can you imagine how little old Phil would feel about loaning me five thousand dollars if he heard that tape? Why, if Dotie's sister heard it, even she wouldn't be on my side anymore."

"That's how Anita was blackmailing you?"

"It wasn't for much. On my salary I can't afford much blackmail. I suppose I was one of the lesser items on Anita's list. But she was a great believer that a buck here and a buck there amounts up."

The arrival of my eight o'clock pupil drove Jack Walston from my studio. But the ferocity of his glare still glances at me now that I owed him a certain amount of recording tape and that he'd be dropping around sometime soon to collect. My eight o'clock pupil felt the tension. He said if I was having any trouble with that fresh crumb, he'd be glad to do something about it for me. I thanked him for being a gentleman and a scholar, but declined his offer.

I gave him a dancing lesson. I gave another lesson after that, and then my day was done. Now I would surely have a chance to locate Steve. As I stepped from my studio, Hooray Rose stepped from hers.

"I'm furious," Hooray Rose said pleasantly. "I'm so mad I could spit."

"Why, Hooray?"

"Just look at this."

She handed me a small sheet of blue paper. It was a memorandum addressed to Miss H. Rose. It read: "That dress . . . need I say more?" It was initialed O.B.

I looked at the dress. O.B. was justified.

Hooray said, "I can see you agree with him."

"Well, yes," I said.

"I never realized," Hooray said happily, "that this dress was so great. Why, I was even considering giving it to the Salvation Army . . ."

"O.B.," I said. "O.B."

"What, Hester?"

"O.B."

"Sure. Oliver Bell."

"Not Obie, Junior," I said. "O.B. Junior."

"I beg your pardon Hester?"

"Does Mr. Bell have a son named Oliver?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then who is O.B., Junior?"

Hooray giggled. "That's what Anita used to call Bob Spencer."

"Bob Spencer?"

"You met him. The teacher that thinks he's such a big shot."

"Yes, of course."

"That's why Anita called him O.B., Junior. To kid him. He's so important. Always making like he owned the place, like he was a little Mr. Bell."

"Thanks, Hooray."

"For what, Hester?"

"Thank you very much."

I traced Bob Spencer to the men's locker room and prepared to ambush him outside its entrance. I stepped into the covering of a phone booth area was reminded at once of something I'd wanted to do for hours.

The phone in our apartment was answered immediately. Steve and I checked on each other's health, then got down to business. He reported first.

He had not been able to locate Harriet Krool or Mrs. Zeigler in any of the bars around 862 West Twenty-fifth Street. He had finally given up and gone back to wait outside the rooming house. About an hour ago the two ladies had come staggering home. He had been able to make them admit they were the ladies he wanted to see. That was all. They had both been too lushed up to be any more coherent than that. There was nothing to do but give them the night to sleep it off. We would call on them in the morning.

I reversed the chronological order of my report. I told him first about Obie, Junior, who was none other than my friend, Bob Spencer. Then I told him about Jack Walston, his hopes and troubles. Then I got to my date with Wendell Klipp.

"He isn't married, Steve! His wife is just a protective character he dreamed up!" Steve didn't react. "Don't you understand?"

"What?"

"Well, Anita wasn't blackmailing him. How could she?"

"Yeah, I see. There wouldn't have been any reason for him to murder her."

"That's right," I said. "Steve, I have to hang up. O. B., Junior. Be home as soon as I can. Wait for me."

I stepped out of the phone booth practically into Bob Spencer's arms. He was startled, then his face broke into a patronizing smile. The pale eyes behind the rimless glasses blinked recognition. He all but patted me on the arm. He said, "Well, Hester!"

"Yes, Bob, could I speak to you?" I was being confidential, personal and very urgent. "Could I speak to you alone some place?"

"Why, of course, glad to oblige. If the conference room is empty . . ."

He chuckled. "What better place to have a conference?"

Tomorrow: Detective Lieut. Bolling comes back—in no mood for hospitality. "I'm going to wrap up this case now!" he says.

Skis In The Sky For Antarctic

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major aircraft company is equipping its giant patrol bombers for duty in the Antarctic with the largest ski gear ordered for a jet-powered aircraft. Measuring 5 feet wide and 16 feet long and made of composite aluminum alloy and steel, the skis will be attached to the two-wheel main landing gear.

Planes, official publication of the Aircraft Industries Ass'n., says a smaller ski will be mounted on the plane's nose landing gear. And to play it safe, provisions are being made for the wheels to remain stationary while the skis can move up or down—thereby permitting landings on either skis or wheels.

Early newspapers had no headlines and no pictures.

Big Backlog Of Support, Popularity For Ike Is Diminishing In Minnesota

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — President Eisenhower's big but diminishing backlog of respect and popularity that may carry him to a repeat political victory in Minnesota. But by no means is it a safe bet that this will happen.

Minnesota still has some unhappy farmers, despite the best corn and soybean crops on record. And Eisenhower's impressive strength of 1952 clearly has been melting away. The presidential race is so tight that Adlai E. Stevenson could very well win the state.

Professional politicians are making the expected claims. Yet the Republicans concede Eisenhower isn't as strong as he was four years ago and that the battle for Minnesota's 11 electoral votes is uncomfortably close.

The Minneapolis Tribune's Minnesota poll, which has a reputation for calling the political turns pretty accurately, reported in late September that the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket was a share ahead of the Stevenson-Kefauver team in what was almost a neck-and-neck race.

The GOP was doing better in smaller cities and towns, the Democrats in the major cities and on the farms.

Four years ago the state went for Eisenhower 763,211 to 698,485. Eisenhower got 55.3 per cent of the votes.

This year, peace, prosperity and what some voters term his "honesty and sincerity" are working for Eisenhower in Minnesota. Few people mention his health as a campaign issue.

The farm issue is the big one. It is in rural areas that Eisenhower's popularity has skidded most.

Farmers tell you hog, cattle and egg prices are better than they were, the corn and bean crops are tops, but they still are in a financial pinch because they have to pay so much for tractors, feed and other items.

Some of them still like Ike. Others definitely are going to switch to the Democrats. It's almost impossible to find one who is switching the other way, from Democratic to Republican.

The county agricultural agent in one normally Republican county in western Minnesota said that, "Yeah, they sure are unhappy enough to jump politically." He pointed to one rural township he said was nearly 2-1 Republican in 1952 but showed something like 13 Democratic votes to every Republican vote in the presidential primary last spring.

But whether there are enough dissatisfied farmers to swing the county to the Democrats is another question. The county agent looked down the business section of the county seat town and commented: "Main Street is more conservative than Wall Street."

John Kirk, Worthington barber who said he gets a pretty good cross section of political views from his customers, said, "It's going to be close," with the town Republican and the farmers Democratic — "although the good farmers will go Republican."

"I'm a rock-ribbed Republican, myself," Kirk added. "I don't like these Democrats. I'd like to put a bounty on 'em."

Dwain Deneu, a mechanic at the garage, ordered his hair cut short, and said he will be casting his first vote for president this time. He didn't bother to vote four years ago but now, "I think Ike is doing a pretty good job."

Mrs. Paulin Brust, a widow with three children, who clerks in a store across the street, mentioned the peace issue which seems to impress many women. "I've got two boys, 14 and 16, coming up," she said.

She said she voted for Eisenhower last time and will do so again because "I think he's doing a good job."

Then there are farmers such as A. L. Van Dorn, with 300 acres a few miles from Pipestone. He throttled down the tractor pulling his corn picker and remarked: "I'm on my feet, although things have been pretty rough. It's the young kids who want to farm who have it really tough."

Van Dorn said he backed Eisenhower in 1952 but this year, "It's Stevenson even though I don't like him. I'd rather have Kefauver."

E. L. Rogers, who has a highway cafe but leases it out, was helping Van Dorn harvest the corn. He's sticking with Ike.

"He won't have any landslide," he said, "and I'm not sure he's going to win. I think he's honest and his ideas are good. What I notice so pronounced is that you hear an awful lot of them around the pool halls and standing on the streets who are for Stevenson. But you get out in the country and you find most of the Republicans at home working."

If economic conditions hurt Eisenhower on the farms, they may help him in normally Democratic labor areas in cities and the iron range country in the north.

While Minneapolis-Moline has shut down here because of big stocks of tractors and other equipment farmers aren't buying, the number of people on payrolls in Minnesota set successive records in August and September.

Nor is the farm picture entirely bleak for the GOP. Farm income in the state was up a bit in the first half of the year as compared with 1955.

In contrast, there are elements in the general political picture about which the Democrats are cheering. They figure they have a good chance of re-electing Gov. Orville Freeman and retaining a 5-4 margin in House seats.

Democratic fortunes began looking up after the 1952 election. In 1954, the party won with Freeman as the gubernatorial candidate and captured six of seven top state offices long held by the GOP.

For the first time in 10 years, Democrats outvoted the Republicans in the 1954 primary. They did it again in the presidential primary this year.

$100 Billion Mark Reached By U. S. Tax Collections

By SAM DAWSON
 NEW YORK (AP)—The total tax take in the United States for one year is at the 100 billion dollar level for the first time in history. That will be $608 for every man, woman and child in the nation. Twenty years ago the take averaged out at $83 per person.

Total collections have risen more than 11 billion dollars in the past year.

Some congressional inquiries are getting under way for a revision of the tax laws. But almost no one expects tax cuts at the federal level—no matter which party wins the election next month. And with the demands on state and local governments for more funds to meet increased needs, the outlook is all for still higher taxes there.

A lot of other things are headed for the stratosphere, too. The total of public and private debts is expected to reach 700 billion dollars by the end of the year, a new high. National income this year is expected to be a record $40 billion dollars. And tangible wealth, public and private, is set at a staggering 1 1/2 trillion dollars.

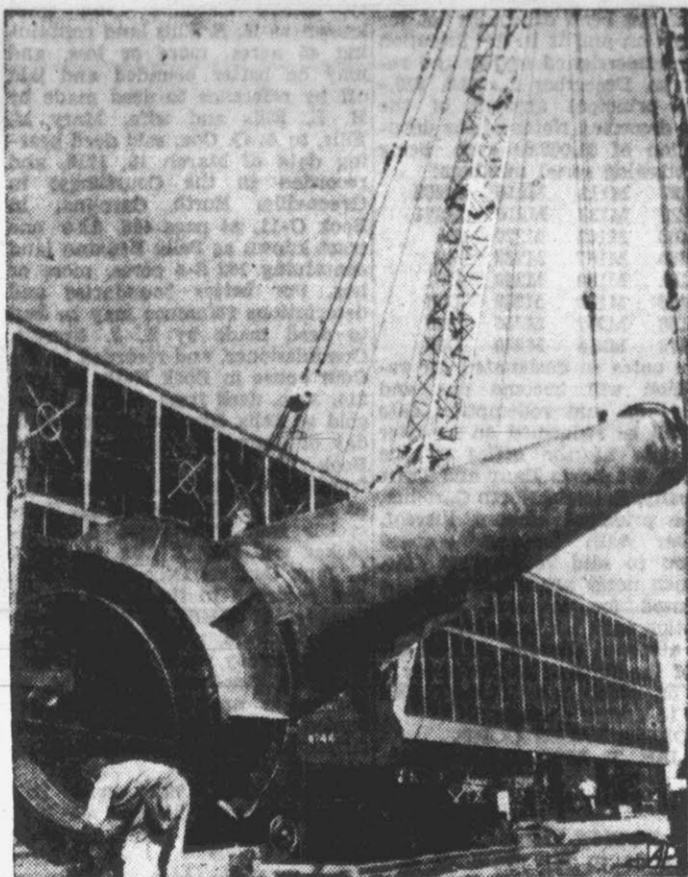

The reason the chance of a federal tax cut is slim is this: the Democratic congressional leaders who control tax legislation are on record as against tax cuts until a treasury surplus of respectable size is sighted. And so are the Republican Administration leaders.

While federal tax receipts are swelling, federal expenditures are too. Few predict more than a very slim treasury surplus in the coming year.

Some advocates of cutting taxes right away without waiting for a treasury surplus argue that lower rates would stimulate business activity enough to let the government take in a greater total in its levy on incomes.

But the Tax Foundation, a non profit organization which every now and then shakes its head sadly over the steady climb of taxes, observes today: "The only real hope for substantial tax reduction lies in insisting that government spend less."

The foundation puts the latest annual tax bite thus: Uncle Sam takes 72 billion dollars, the states 15 billion, and the local governments 13 billion. This is double the total of 10 years ago and nearly 10 times the take of 20 years ago.

Two State Cops Shot In Battle

LINCOLN, ILL. (AP)—Two Illinois state policemen were shot early today and one was reported in critical condition after engaging in a gun battle with four heavily armed men.

Officer Glen Nichols, about 35, was shot three times and critically hurt and officer Robert G. Lightly, about 28, was wounded once in the roadside gun fight on a U.S. Route 66 bypass.

Sheriff William Keys of Logan County said two unidentified men were captured but two others involved in the affray escaped.

Keys said the officers chased a auto carrying the four men after it went through a red light near Lincoln, a central Illinois community.

The car stopped near a restaurant and the four opened fire at the officers drove up. Keys related.

Basic College Course On TV

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Washington University takes its basic freshman mathematics course to television.

All lectures in the one-semester course are shown on TV.

The policemen returned the gunfire, but Keys said he did not know if the two who escaped on foot in opposite directions were wounded. Neither of the captured pair was struck by bullets, he said.

No charges have as yet been placed against the two prisoners.

Traffic Light Is Just A Warning

KUTTAWA, Ky. (AP)—The traffic light seems to be out in the middle of nowhere and motorists spot it from afar as they approach Kuttawa.

And as drivers begin to reduce their speed they also wonder if the light is going to stay red forever.

Which is the whole idea. The signal if only to get motorists to slow down while approaching the city limits. It turns green when the city bound car hits a switch in the pavement.

Three-Man Military Junta Ruling Honduras After Bloodless Uprising

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—A three-man military junta ruled this Central American republic today in the wake of what apparently was its first bloodless political coup in history.

Julio Lozano, 77, was removed as chief of state by the junta led by Gen. Roque J. Rodriguez, leader of the Francisco Morazan Military Academy.

Other members of the junta are Col. Hector Carrascosa, chief of the Honduras air force, which played a leading role in the revolt, and Maj. Roberto Galvez, son of former President Juan Manuel Galvez.

A Honduras broadcast said one of the first acts of the junta was to proclaim illegal the election two weeks ago of a Constituent Assembly for this banana-growing country of slightly over 1 1/2 million population. The broadcast called the election "a national shame" and said it did not represent the popular will.

The Assembly had been called by Lozano to meet Nov. 11 and was expected to elect him president for a full six-year term.

Members of the Liberal party headed by the exiled Dr. Ramon Villeda Morales had assailed the election as a fraud. Twelve persons were killed in election day violence.

Villeda Morales, a 49-year-old obstetrician, won the most votes for president in the 1954 presidential election but failed to gain the absolute majority required for election. He was elected last July on charges of seditious agitation. There was speculation that he would now be permitted to return to the country, along with other exiled Liberal party members.

Lozano, who has been acting president with the title chief of state since September 1954, claimed a clean sweep for his supporters in the election two weeks ago. He heads the National Union party. He declared that his party and the Reformist party, an allied group, won all 56 seats in the Assembly.

There was no report of fighting in connection with yesterday's coup.

Apparently air force planes threatened to bomb the presidential palace and Lozano submitted his resignation.

Joining the air force units were the 1st Infantry Battalion, elements at the military school and military garrisons at San Pedro Sula and La Ceiba.

Some prisoners were taken, but a broadcast over the Honduran radio said all would be released shortly. The radio accounts said complete calm prevailed throughout the country.

Nasser Pushing Two Neighbors To Form New African Alliance

AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser's Egyptian government is bringing heavy pressure to bear on Ethiopia and the Sudan in an attempt to form an "African tier" to counter the Baghdad Alliance. He is having some success in Sudan, but little with the suspicious Ethiopians.

One of the Egyptian purposes is to protect Cairo's interests in Nile waters, which mean life or death to Egypt. The Blue Nile rises at Lake Tana in Ethiopia, joining the White Nile at Khartoum in Sudan. The White Nile, rising in Lake Victoria, has its source in the British-controlled protectorate of Uganda.

But more than the Nile is involved. The pressure obviously is part of the Nasser campaign to drive Western influences from Africa entirely.

Nasser's campaign against Ethiopia began with abuse and graduated to soft wooing. About a year ago the Egyptian radio blasted away steadily at Emperor Haile Selassie's government. It accused Ethiopia of plotting with the British and Americans to establish military bases from which Egypt could be besieged. It accused the Ethiopians of posing as Sudan's friend to lure the Sudanese away from Egypt.

This served only to make the Ethiopian regime even more suspicious. Since then, there has been a change in the political picture in Sudan, with the rise of Premier Abdullah Khalil there. Egypt's propaganda turned once again to the prospect of a working union between Cairo and Khartoum.

For Ethiopia, instead of abuse, came blandishments. Egypt and the Arab press in general began mentioning prospects for a three-way conference of Emperor Haile Selassie, Premier Khalil and President Nasser in November.

If there is to be any such conference in November, the Ethiopians haven't heard of it. Nasser had, indeed, invited the Emperor some time ago for a state visit on Selassie's way home from an Asian tour. But a check in Addis Ababa shows that not only is Selassie avoiding the bloc deal—he has postponed the state visit to Egypt until February.

Recently the Sudanese foreign minister, Mohamed Ahmed Mahgoub, was quoted by the official Egyptian news service as saying he considered a strong African bloc necessary because of joint interests in "liberating the peoples of Africa." This sounded like a direct quotation from the broadcast ambitions of the Nasser regime.

Guided To Safety By 'Copter Noise

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The drooping of a Coast Guard helicopter from Elizabeth City, N.C., led a lost hunter out of Dismal Swamp yesterday.

The helicopter and two ground parties searched most of the day for Charles E. Smith, 45, of Portsmouth. He found his own way out by the sound of the helicopter after spending the night in the swamp.

Father Of Bride Sets An Example

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP)—While the father of the bride is supposed to play a minor role at weddings, it wasn't so at the wedding of Miss Bobby Jean Short and John Ribbee.

Guests wondered if the daughter could cook as well as her father. He baked the huge three-tier wedding cake.

SLOW BUT FINE

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—After receiving three speeding tickets in 14 months, Bob Lyerly decided to slow down. En route to work one night recently he was stopped again and given a ticket for driving 49 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone—a $16 fine for moving too slow.

Mau Mau Leader Finally Caught

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—The almost mythical leader of Kenya's Mau Mau terror gangs fell screaming in the bush yesterday near Nyeri, ending a hunt of three years.

An African policeman fired at a flash of leopard skin and brought down "Field Marshal Sir" Dedan Kimathi, the 35-year-old mastermind of the Mau Mau campaign to drive the white man out of this British East African colony.

Kimathi, deserted by the remnants of his once powerful followers, was clad in a leopard skin and armed with a .38 revolver. He suffered a slight wound in the thigh.

Princess Margaret, now in Kenya on a tour of East Africa, was told of the capture in Nairobi, 100 miles away. She was asleep in a Nairobi hotel when Kimathi was shot. And was given the news when she visited a British military hospital in Nairobi this morning.

Kimathi was charged with carrying a lethal weapon—a capital offense under emergency regulations governing Kenya.

Talks Resumed In N. C. Strike

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Negotiations resumed talks in the 59-day Western Electric strike today more hopeful of a settlement.

Agreement on some issues was reached last week. The striking members of the Communications Workers of America said four issues still are unsettled. They were listed as wages, piece work, a skilled trades plan, and duration of contract.

Some 6,000 union members went on strike at WE plants in Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Burlington. Western Electric is the manufacturing unit of the Bell Telephone System.

Spokesmen said agreement was reached last week on seniority, employe discharge, general arbitration, and a no-strike clause for the duration of any new contract.

Adlai's Sister To Address Rally

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Ernest Ives of Southern Pines, sister of Adlai Stevenson, will speak here tonight at a 9th Congressional District Democratic rally.

A public reception will be given in her honor following her address in the senior high school.

Mrs. Ives will go on to Ashboro tomorrow for an address.

Thief Prefers Their Bicycles

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—The Roger Read family is a little irked because a bicycle thief shirked preference for its bikes.

One owned by a son, Bruce, was stolen while he was visiting his aunt. Another owned by a daughter, Sandra, was wheeled away from its front porch parking place.

CAMPAIGN TACTICS

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Lawrence E. Myers reported to police on election day that someone stole three gift-wrapped bottles of perfume from his pickup truck. In their place, Lawrence said, the thief left a brochure of campaign literature.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market was mixed and trading was slow early this afternoon. Key stocks moved up or down within the range of a point or so. Wall Street after assessing the weekend events in Poland, seemed to be taking them in stride. Brokers saw no immediate effect on the American economy but cautiously awaited further developments.

Meanwhile, copper stocks took losses again as another price cut in copper was announced by a custom smelter.

Leading rails were fairly steady after their rise of Friday.

The market was slightly higher at the start but soon lapsed into irregularity.

As the cut in the copper price became known, Anaconda, Kennecott Copper, International Nickel and Magma Copper dipped around a point or more. But Phelps Dodge, which had a rise last week, remained firm.

New York Central added a point to its gain of last week and was actively traded. Chesapeake & Ohio rose well beyond a point in heavy turnover following a Wall Street prediction that it will have record earnings this year and may hike its dividend.

Baltimore & Ohio and Southern Railway gained fractionally.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were steady. General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and Studebaker - Packard showed little change, leaning slightly to the upside.

Royal Dutch and Amperda lost a little. Texaco and Sinclair nudged ahead fractionally.

International Paper dropped around a point. American Tobacco picked up about a point. Westinghouse and General Electric were barely changed. Boeing Aircraft and Lockheed led to the upside. Douglas Aircraft dropped a fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $179.80 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady to weak, farm price 17, f.o.b. plant 18 1/2 to 19 1/2. Asheville eggs steady, A large 45-47. Charlotte eggs steady, A large 46 1/2.

Jarvis Memorial Fund Now Over $250,000

Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church has given over the $250,000 mark in its Building Fund Campaign, it was announced yesterday to the congregation at the morning church service.

The need for the amount of $300,000 was re-emphasized by E. Hoover Taft, chairman of the Campaign, and Dr. J. D. Messick, chairman of the Building Committee. The final report meeting of the campaign is scheduled for Tuesday night at 9 o'clock in the Fellowship Hall of the Church.

Tuesday night at 9 will be a kind of rally, too. All committee members and workers in the campaign and all members of the church are invited for the final, "Church members will find the final rally interesting and informative," declared Chairman Taft.

It was announced also that Jarvis Memorial has options of two more lots on Greene Street as prospective parking lots, the purchase of which is contingent upon the raising of the $300,000 sum. Dr. Messick and Taft made it clear that furniture and other contingencies will make the $300,000 figure imperative.

Dr. Messick told the congregation that already one contractor has secured a copy of the blueprint and specifications and others would be placed out right away.

At a luncheon meeting following the morning church service the Campaign Committees had a luncheon at which time two additional committees were named. The first to be selected was the Chairman of the Memorial Committee, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell. This committee, it was explained, will have oversight of marking memorials and carrying out the selections of donors. Quite a few memorials have been taken in the course of the Campaign.

The other committee selected was the Collections Committee, which will have charge of collecting pledges due subsequent to the raising of the $300,000 sum. Dr. Messick and Taft made it
