On Tuesday evening Mrs. Louise Lane of Gastonia, Great Pocahontas of North Carolina, made her official visit to Withla Council No. 42, Degree of Pocahontas, at the Woman's Club in Greenville.

On arrival members and guests were greeted and welcomed by Mrs. Agnes Landing, Mrs. Geneva Webb and Mrs. Thelma Vincent presided over the register in the hall. The hall and parlors were decorated with arrangements of fall flowers and the mantels were banked with pyracantha.

Preceding the regular meeting, the Great Pocahontas was guest of honor at a banquet in the club dining room. Places were laid for 120 members and guests with individual place cards.

The tables were centered with arrangements of fall flowers, yellow tapers in holders with epergnes of yellow pom poms and ageratum. Council and commercial favors were at each place.

Herman Nobles gave the invocation after which Mrs. Lane was presented an orchid corsage from the council by Mrs. Kathleen Woolard.

Following the roast turkey dinner and all the trimmings, Mrs. Betty P. Nobles, toastmistress, welcomed everyone and Claude Joyner gave the response.

Guests introduced the honor guest, Mrs. Louise Lane of Gastonia, Great Pocahontas of North Carolina, and the following Great Chiefs of North Carolina: Mrs. Faye Sawyer, Great Keeper of Records of Washington, N. C.; Mrs. M. L. Husted of Henderson; (Standing) Mrs. Gladys Crisp, Great Guard of Tepee; Mrs. Lane; Dr. M. L. Guest entertainer for the evening, Dr. Morris L. Husted, minister of City Road Methodist Church, Henderson, and his wife, Mrs. Catherine Husted, were then introduced and the program was turned over to them. A program by Dr. Husted of Skits and Sketches was enjoyed. He kept the members and guests wondering what he would do next.

Mrs. Nobles thanked everyone for their presence and invited all members of the Degree of Pocahontas to remain for the regular meeting which followed and concluded the program with drawing of numbers for many prizes which were given the lucky ones.

Regular Meeting Follows
The council room, where the meeting was held, was decorated with fall flowers and yellow candles.

Officers retired in regular marching formation and everyone went into the parlors for refreshments and a social hour together.

Miss Jean Bright, Pocahontas, presided over the ritualistic opening. The officers were seated by the Guards with an impressive march. After the American Flag was presented the opening ode was sung. The Deputy Great Pocahontas, Lissie Harris, then escorted guests and visitors to the Council Brand where they were introduced, welcomed by Pocahontas, and escorted to seats of honor. Routine business of the Council was then completed.

The Great Pocahontas was escorted to Council Brand, introduced and welcomed by Council Pocahontas after which the officers, in evening gowns with matching bows of ribbon in their hair, honored the Great Pocahontas with a skit "Apples for the Teacher."

They sang "School Days" and presented her a big red apple with an appropriate verse. Mrs. Lane was then escorted to Pocahontas who placed the biggest red apple in her basket, and invited her to preside. She was then presented a gift of silver in her chosen pattern from the council.

Mrs. Lane gave a talk on the precepts of the order—Freedom, Friendship and Charity. The members were reminded of the Fourth District meeting which will be held in Rocky Mount on November 3 at 2 p.m.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Rachel Moore, Miss Barbara Dall, Mrs. Glennie Eastwood and Mrs. Ora Mobley. Mrs. Jennie Stokes had Good of Order. Mrs. Patsy Spain sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer." After ritualistic closing the of-

Christian Science Society How spiritual understanding of God's goodness overcomes evil will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Everlasting Punishment" will include the following selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (S1:15): "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil."

Among the passages to be read from the King James version of the Bible is the following (Isa. 35:10): "And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away."

The Golden Text is from Lamentations (3:39,40): "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins? Let us search and try our ways, and turn again to the Lord."

Democrats have given the State of North Carolina such a good and honest administration during the last 25 years that not even the Republicans wish a change. R. R. (Bob) Reynolds, Democratic speaker, declared last night at a political rally at the courthouse. The meeting was well attended by an audience that was visibly impressed by the speaker. Mr. Reynolds stressed the accomplishments of the Democratic party in power, declaring that during its entire time of control that there has not been a shadow of taint in its conduct of the affairs of the state.

Gay Appliqued Motifs Perk Up Basic Jumper By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor A JUMPER is a schoolgirl's best friend. Easy to sew and easy to wear, it can do the work of several outfits when teamed with different blouses, sweaters and jackets. But since everybody is wearing jumpers these days, it sometimes takes a little ingenuity to keep from looking exactly like the rest of the class. Local sewing center experts suggest a little fancy applique work to lend individuality to a plain jumper. A basic full-skirted jumper, made from a standard pattern, lends itself perfectly to a large, bold applique design on the skirt. The jumper takes about four and a half yards of fabric. Corduroy is a good choice. The blouse requires about two yards of fabric, plus another half yard if you choose to make an applique to match the blouse.

When doing large-scale appliques, do your decorative stitching before gathering the skirt or stitching it to the bodice. Cut your skirt section from the pattern, and do the decorative work before sewing it. To give body to the applique, line it with two layers of Speaker Talks On Mormonism A program on the Mormon religion was given when Mrs. Earl Fleming entertained members of the Semi-Cent Book Club at her home on River Drive. Fall flowers were arranged throughout the living room.

Mrs. Robert Russ presided over a short business session and turned the meeting over to Mrs. Fleming who introduced Dr. N. M. Jorgensen of East Carolina College as guest speaker for the evening.

Dr. Jorgensen opened his talk by commending the club for choosing the topic "Mormon Religion" as one of its subjects of interest for the year.

Dr. Jorgensen began his talk on Mormonism by stating that there are 1,4 million Mormons throughout the world, and that the majority of Mormons are found in the states New York, Illinois, Utah, and Michigan.

The Mormons accept the St. James version of the Bible, but they do not have ministers. Any member of the Church can conduct services if he so desires.

It is generally believed that Mormons practice polygamy, but Dr. Jorgensen disproved this by saying that polygamy is no longer practiced. He further stated that polygamy was practiced in earlier days only because of the shortage of men.

The Mormons emphasize education. They believe that the God of Glory is intelligence, and that it is impossible for a man to be saved in ignorance.

The Mormon Church is financed by its members tithing ten percent of their total earnings. This money is used primarily to build temples. There are nine Mormon Temples, and only members of good standing can enter these temples.

State Nurses School Only Answer

There are a number of considerations of utmost importance as Eastern North Carolina seeks a state supported school of nursing which will alleviate in years to come the drastic shortage of nurses that exists at the present and threatens to reach more drastic proportions if adequate steps are not taken.

It is a foregone conclusion that the only solution is the establishment of more schools of nursing in this area to turn out registered nurses. With that fact established, the matter of the best approach must be resolved.

First there is the problem of cost of establishing the physical plant and facilities necessary for the school or schools.

Second is the problem of acquiring an adequate teaching staff to afford instruction necessary in a school of nursing.

Third is the problem of attracting sufficient students to support the school and afford the area with the additional nurses it needs.

As we see the problem as a whole, it must be resolved by one of two methods. Either a state-supported school of nursing must be established, or a major school of nursing must be established in conjunction with a major hospital in the area. All things considered, the former appears the much more logical approach to the matter.

A minimum initial outlay would be required to establish a school of nursing at East Carolina College which already has the laboratories and scientific equipment for basic science courses which would be required of students. Additional faculty members may be necessary if the school of nursing were established at the college, but for teaching basic courses the number of new teachers would not equal the number which would be required to establish a completely new school.

It is our opinion that a school of nursing in conjunction with East Carolina College would attract more students for the nursing course than an independent school in conjunction with a hospital in this area. A recruiting program for students could readily be worked into the college's existing student recruiting program.

From the economic standpoint of the individual student, it is quite likely that a student would find the total cost of receiving nurses training would be appreciably less than the cost involved in acquiring a teachers degree. In appealing to young women of the East to entering the nursing profession, that would certainly prove an important factor.

After perhaps a year or so of on-campus basic courses the nursing students could be released to hospitals of the area to complete their training under supervision in individual hospitals. Hospitals would probably furnish room and board for such student nurses in addition to paying them a small amount for their services. In return the hospital would be afforded student nurses to help with patients.

Under such a program training and a career as a nurse would be open to many young women for whom it is economically impossible to attend independent schools of nursing or even the state-supported school of nursing at the University of North Carolina.

The problems of physical facilities, adequate teaching staffs and cost of operation which has caused the number of schools of nursing in this area to decrease and have prevented opening of new independent schools of nursing could be overcome by a state-supported school of nursing at East Carolina.

Unless such a state-supported school of nursing is established, it is evident that the shortage of nurses in this part of the state will become more critical as the years pass.

Discussion Continues On New 'Short Ballot'

By LYNN NISBET

SHORT BALLOT — Despite statements by members of the government reorganization committee that they had not considered the topic, and assurance by Governor Hodges that he does not favor a "short ballot" plan for North Carolina, facetious discussion of the matter continues.

The suggestion was made that it would make for better administration if the Governor appointed most of the members of the Council of State, in much the same manner as the President appoints his cabinet. Advocates of the plan have argued that it is more business like, and will be more efficient than the traditional method of having the executive officials elected by the people.

Comes now some fellow with an entirely different approach to the short ballot, but with the same objective in mind. If you want business in government, let's go all the way. Follow the practice of big business corporations, in which the stockholders elect the directors and the directors elect the president and executive managers. Instead of the Governor appointing the Council of State, let the Council of State, which has been elected by the people (stockholders) as their board of directors, appoint the Governor.

That not only conforms to accepted business practice, but is more in line with the process of electing a President of the United States by presidential electors rather than by direct popular vote.

Consensus among students of North Carolina government is it will be a long time before the number of elective officers is reduced. When reduction does come, if ever, it is more likely to provide for selection of executive administrators by boards, such as the board of education, board of agriculture, etc., rather than appointment by the Governor.

COURTS — Superior courts will be going on in several counties the week of November 5, including election day. Some of the counties have sought to get the terms canceled or switched to some other week, so that lawyers and court officials would have more time to give to getting out votes.

The Carteret county bar adopted a formal resolution asking that the November term be postponed until January. Chief Justice Winborne is a former Democratic state chairman and he would like to help out the Democratic party any way possible. Under the law he could not cancel the term for the reasons cited.

General Statutes designate election day as a legal holiday. Whether or not court is kept in session that day will depend upon the discretion of the presiding judge. Chief Justice Winborne has announced that the Supreme Court will not hear arguments on Tuesday, November 6, holding over until later in the week the cases scheduled for that date. The several superior court judges have the same authority to declare a one-day recess. Neither the Chief Justice nor the presiding judge can cancel the whole week.

Judge Q.K. Nimocks at Durham and Judge Malcolm Paul at Clinton recessed their courts so that the court room would be available for the district rallies. That cut out an hour or so off the late afternoon.

Many districts have only two or four terms of court a year, and cancelling one increases the log-jam of cases. The last term of criminal court in Carteret was last June, the next after the November term, is scheduled for June next year. Switching weeks also runs into the problem of available judges for the new date. All of the judges are busy, busier than usual in the early weeks of the spring terms.

EYE-SORE — Democrats in Sampson county attempted to steer visitors to the third district rally at Clinton up the stairs at end of the hall opposite the register of deeds office. They claim that is an unsightly place.

Not so many years ago Sampson county was predominantly Republican. Nearly ever office in the courthouse and in the General Assembly was held by Republicans. Democrats edged in an officer now and then, but not until 1952 was there anything like a complete clean up. Democrats took every county office that year and in 1954, except the register of deeds. Mrs. Elsie Crumpler captured and held that post, only Republican left in the courthouse.

Now all the other rooms in the building display portraits of Stevenson and Kefauver, except the register of deeds quarters. Mrs. Crumpler has the walls, the desk tops, both side of the vault doors, plastered with pictures of Eisenhower and Nixon.

"It looks bad now," complained a staunch Democrat, "but it will look a lot better after November 6. You fellows come back to see us then."

HOOR GLASS — Some of the regular caravan passengers have nick named State Chairman LaVine "Hour Glass." John A. MC of the district rallies he has accomplished the almost unbelievable in holding the meetings to one hour. With a Governor, two United States Senators, at least one Representative in Congress, half a dozen State officials and a flock of local politicians at each meeting, all itching to make it tops, both side of the aisle, to keep schedules without making anybody mad. Papa John does it by calling a little family conference just before the meeting opens and getting everybody to agree to limit participation on the program to fit the time.

Saturday Last Chance To Get Names On Books

Pitt citizens who do not have their names on the county's registration books by sunset tomorrow will not be eligible to vote in the important November 6 presidential election.

Unregistered citizens will just have to sit back on election day and let their neighbors decide who will be president. That may be all right with the individuals who do not care to register. Perhaps they don't care who is elected to the presidency or any other office. But if everyone had a similar attitude, this democracy would not long survive.

The right to vote is jealously guarded by the average American citizen. He looks upon it as a right no man can take away from him. It is a right he will give his life for. Yet, in far too many cases it is a right which too few citizens exercise. Too many people are content with the knowledge that they could register and vote if they really wanted to.

The right to vote, as every other human right, carries with it a responsibility. In the case of voting it is the responsibility of a citizen participating in government by naming men who will hold office and administer the laws of the nation. Too many citizens shirk this responsibility, but none can escape it.

After tomorrow registration books in Pitt will be closed. Citizens who do not have their names on the books will not be allowed to exercise their right or discharge their responsibility of voting on November 6.

The Reflector urges all the otherwise eligible voters in Pitt to see that their names are on the registration books before the registration period closes.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

ALWAYS BE READY

Twenty-six years ago the doctors told Smith Robinson that he would be dead within a year. Fortwith the doomed man began to live each day as if it were his last, trying to make his life count for most in every twenty-four hour period. He is living today in the soundest health one could imagine. Best of all, he has established a pattern of life from which he has never departed. He still tries, as he tried during the time when the death sentence hung over him, to make the most out of every 24-hour period. In the twenty-six years which neither he nor anyone else expected he would live, he has become a devout Christian, a friend of multitudes, and a citizen whose life counts for much in his community. We begin to understand at this point why Jesus urged his followers to watch and wait for his coming. They were to keep their lamps burning and their wicks trimmed as they awaited the approach of the Bridegroom. He could not tell them the exact date on which He would return. For He confessed that neither He nor the angels in heaven knew that that day was, but only the Father (Mark 13:32). But His disciples were to live every day as if it were their last day on earth—as indeed it might be, for no one knows when death comes and no one knows when the Lord will return with power.

So we are to watch and pray, for we know not the day nor the hour.

Choice Opinions On New Cars

Some days some people have something more interesting to say in this space than I do. This is the day and the person is Bob Bright of Falkland. Bob passes along a few choice opinions concerning new cars. Whether or not his opinions are well-founded is up to you to decide. "Somebody is being taken for a ride in a big new, turboaction 300-plus horse-power car. "Trade in your transportation for social prestige, to maintain dignity or for the feel of that new-car surge," say the advertisements. Forget how much it costs, just look at what you're getting, thanks to the ever-present easy-pay plans. "This is not all: Your attention is now aimed at the purchase of a low-cost second car that will preserve your new car so that you make a better trade-in next year. Of course, this makes it easier for the salesman to make an additional profit on your new old (1 year) turbo-action 300-plus horse-power auto. "What a ride. All expenses paid by Mr. John Q. Public to whom is given not only transportation, but social prestige and dignity. In all probability, he now has a car furnished better than his own home. "But fated is the purchaser who gets caught in traffic jams and is unable to exercise his new-found power. And when the driver is on the open roads, his power is still somewhat hampered. "Speed Limit — 55, Speed Electrically Timed," the signs say. "Why this car cruises better at 80," think the man behind the wheel as he from time to time glances at the color TV set on the dash. "Can't even tell I'm moving," his thoughts say as the radius dial of the speedometer trips a light but quick fancy from 55 to 80. "Pay a fine of $25 and costs and surrender your license for 60 days," says the traffic court judge. "Some readers will doubtlessly like to voice their objections to this rather backward look at the new cars with that 'forward look.' If so, you can find me first thing tomorrow morning looking over the newest super-turbo-action auto that costs something better than ten bucks a horse."

Two-Hour Business Breakfast

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Everyone has heard of the three-hour business luncheon, but some tycoons now are going in for two-hour business breakfasts. One of them is William Zeckendorf, head of a real estate firm which hires 70 architects and now has on its drafting boards building projects valued at a billion dollars. To keep tabs on his sprawling enterprises in the United States and Canada, Zeckendorf summons his executives once a week to a breakfast conference in the firm's Madison Avenue penthouse office. I attended one of these unusual sessions recently, and here's how it went.

Zeckendorf, a tank-sized man, and a dozen or so of his top aides briskly waded through platters of ham and eggs and steaming cups of coffee. The aides had pads of yellow paper and sharpened pencils before them. Zeckendorf had a silver bell and an ivory telephone. After a little desultory talk on politics—Zeckendorf wasn't sure Eisenhower was "the right president for me," unless he pitched into the campaign a little harder—the conference got down to business.

Then, 37 minutes late, in came Billy Rose, Broadway showman and entertainment consultant to the firm, looking a bit like an owl roused at noon.

There were a dozen matters on the agenda, but only one came up. That was the question of building an ice rink at Roosevelt Field, a 50 million dollar new shopping center on Long Island. The fur began to fly at once. Herb Silverman, young president of the center Zeckendorf is board chairman, was lukewarm toward the whole idea of an ice rink in a shopping center. At best he wanted a simple outdoor rink that would cost only $250,000.

Rose wanted to enclose the rink, put in concession booths, a restaurant, and finally a bowling alley. "A lame brain idea," said Silverman who thought the area could be put to better uses. "I never have been so put-upon, frustrated and humiliated in my whole life," bellowed Rose. "There are no personalities in this," rumbled Zeckendorf. "No body is to get his feelings hurt."

After it turned out Rose's plan for an amusement area would cost more than a million dollars Zeckendorf said: "I don't want to poor boy this. To do less than the ultimate is to do nothing—to ruin your reputation."

The quarrel between Rose and Silverman went on for more than an hour, each arguing vehemently as Zeckendorf appeared to back first one, then the other. "Nothing happens by itself except failure," he said at one point, and at another: "Our whole philosophy has changed. We're getting down to teaspoonfuls of land. That's the whole art in real estate—to take a bit of land and raise it to its highest possible earning level."

The waiter passed around a box of 60-cent cigars. I took one. By then Zeckendorf had decided Rose and Silverman should go ahead with Rose's plan. He also endorsed the suggestion to add a double-deck parking lot.

The fumes from the expensive cigar and the big money talk began to go to my head. I was about to suggest that they build a stadium for the Brooklyn Dodgers next to the ice rink, but the conference broke up. I felt certain both Rose and Silverman were heading for a bottle of sodium bicarb tablets.

"You see we get something done at these breakfasts, don't you?" said Zeckendorf genially. "And we aren't bothered by the telephone."

As I left I remarked to an executive that I had never before seen a million-dollars spent over a breakfast.

"Oh," he said, "you only saw the first round. This will come up at least half a dozen more times before we really decide what we'll do."

The one sure thing about the breakfast business conference seems to be this: It gives tycoons a chance to get their ulcers activated earlier in the day.

Anti-Adlai Polls Drying Up Contributions

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The rash of anti-Stevenson polls have effectively dried up the contributions needed to finance his last two weeks of campaigning. The D-day dollar subscription drive was a complete failure, and wealthy, conservative Democrats have zipped their wallets because of the Democratic nominee's seeming surrender to the extreme liberal and labor elements of the Party.

Stevenson, for instance, considered his Cincinnati speech on foreign affairs his best effort in that field, but it was broadcast only locally instead of over a national radio or television network. Moreover, the money for even that limited distribution was raised only at the last moment. And he revised his manuscript to such a late hour that it got only scant play in distant newspapers. As a result, he plans to repeat the same talk.

Harry S. Truman made a sparkling speech at a $100-a-plate dinner at Washington a week ago. He was good-natured and humorous. Donning what he called "Eisenhower glasses," he looked upon and analyzed the domestic and Republican scene through "myopic Republican eyes." But, for lack of funds, it was carried over a closed circuit to audiences consisting only of Democrats.

DEMOCRATS BLAME NEWS-PAPER POLLS Stevenson's aides, refusing to admit that he faces probable defeat, blame the financial famine on newspaper polls. Almost every canvass, whether local or national, indicates that, although he is stronger now than he was four years ago, he has not gained enough to defeat President Eisenhower. They are also discouraged over the number of leading newspapers, especially in the South, that support Ike editorially.

These reports show, more particularly, that Stevenson has almost no chance of carrying such electorally important states as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois, Ohio and California. Without these 177 electoral votes, he has no chance of winning.

GLOOMY REPORTS ON STEVENSON'S CHANCES Besides drying up contributions of money, these gloomy reports so near Election Day also affect millions of the so-called "bandwagon voters." Having no definite Party ties or political philosophy, they like to ride with a winner. The large number of "undecided" voters fall into this category.

In fact, thinking historically rather than politically, Stevenson's admirers regret the fact that he has twice forced him to run against such a popular figure as Eisenhower. They believe that their hero could have defeated almost any other Republican who had been mentioned for the nomination before Ike decided to run again.

HOPE TO CORRAL 200 ELECTORAL VOTES In short, the Democrats have, albeit privately, "given up the ghost," save for the congenial optimists. Their main effort now is to corral at least 200 electoral votes, which would be a far better showing than the 89 which Stevenson collected four years ago.

The consensus is, however, that the Democratic nominee will be lucky, if he winds up with as many as 150, or possibly 175. In giving Stevenson this 150 or 175 total, it is figured that he may carry these states which went to President Eisenhower four years ago: Rhode Island, Tennessee, Tex-

Business Within A Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

Almost all of the nation's 3,000,000 employing businesses are members of one or more trade associations, the Department of Commerce says. That means trade associations constitute quite a business themselves.

The Department has just published a "Directory of National Trade Associations, 1956," which, in addition to the names and addresses indicated by the title, gives a picture of the size and scope of association activity.

In 1920, there were 2,000 trade associations; today there are 12,200, Commerce reports. Of these, 4,700 are national and the remainder regional or local. The trade association movement is still growing, the government agency says.

Associations provide many jobs. The 75 largest national organizations have a total of 8,000 employees. The Association of American Railroads, now 65 years old, has the largest staff. It employs 600.

Associations with more than 100 members cost well over $1,000,000 a year to run, according to the directory. A two-employee association can get along on $25,000.

WHAT ASSOCIATIONS DO

The National Association of Retail Grocers has the largest membership; its members operate 110,000 food stores. The 25 largest organizations have a total of 700,000 members.

Commerce finds there are 30 activities trade associations engage in. Among these are: Serving as centers of industry information, issuing bulletins, holding conferences and conventions, conducting government relations and legislative research, studying trade practices, heading industry's products, compiling statistics, conducting market research, directing product research, setting up standardization and certification and arbitrating disputes between members or between members and customers.

Of lesser importance are: promoting and researching foreign trade, credit reporting, offering broad legal advice, helping with insurance and fire prevention, studying freight traffic problems, studying warehousing and packing problems, assisting with patents and trademark protection, providing field services, staging exhibitions, providing exchanges or sale of excess machinery, finding employees, co-operating with foreign trade associations, providing engineering and inspection services and providing co-operative buying and selling.

There is one thing trade associations can't do, under the law: they can't fix prices. Even reporting prices other members are changing may bring Federal anti-trust agents in.

DIRECTORY USEFUL

Trade association management pays well, Commerce indicates. Top jobs in small, national organizations pay from $15,000 to $20,000 a year, and in large organizations pay ranges upward from $40,000.

The directory will find lots of commercial uses among companies selling to trade associations, such as makers of exhibit materials, hotels seeking conventions and guests, speakers' bureaus, commercial movie makers, advertising agencies and others. It will be useful to inventors, manufacturers and thousands of others who would like to get a small notice in an association's bulletin to members.

In short, it ought to be a government best-seller. Copies of the 37-page, paper-bound directory are available for 40 cents from the Department of Commerce, Division of Documents, Washington 25, D.C.

The Shepherd Psalm

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Psalm 23

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures."

"He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake."

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil."

"And I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

MEMORY VERSE—Psalm 23:6.

The Shepherd Psalm

GOD'S PROTECTING CARE REVEALED IN DAVID'S WORDS

Scripture—Psalm 23.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL THIS LOVELIEST of all the psalms reveals to us how in his life King David experienced God's protecting care...

green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake."

Little children love beautiful green pastures and still water in which they can see their faces as well as reflections of the trees, bushes and plants growing on the shore...

Then when illness strikes a member of our family, a dear friend, or ourselves, and we seem to be near to walking "through the valley of the shadow of death," we should "fear no evil," because God is near us in our grief or panic...

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." King David had been a shepherd boy and knew

MEMORY VERSE

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."—Psalm 23:6.

how the sheep must be cared for, led to pasture, and to streams for water; how the shepherd must stay with the flocks day and night and guard them in case of attacks by predatory beasts...

"Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over."

David had experience of God's care when King Saul was seeking to slay him, and he was also anointed by Samuel when Saul was repudiated by God.

In olden times priests and kings were anointed, and in a Jewish home a host poured oil on a guest's head as a welcome.

Lastly, and most comforting of all, is the last verse: "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

I would recommend that the older young people who are greatly troubled by world conditions memorize this beautiful psalm and repeat it to themselves with faith if they are unable to sleep when they lie down to rest, or when they are tempted to do something that is wrong...

CHAPTER 32

I moved the recorder over, beside the phone, found the Stubby number and put it on. After starting the machine, I checked to see if Steve could hear all right over the phone. He said that he could and I started it again.

Anita: Come on, Stubby, let's talk . . . let's have a nice little talk.

Stubby: Don't wanna talk, don't wanna have a nice little talk. Just wanna go to sleep.

Anita: Remember what you were saying at dinner, Stubby? About how you . . .

Stubby: Dinner? We have dinner? Where'd we have dinner?

Anita: At Mariotti's, you remember.

Stubby: That's right, Mariotti's. I got reservations at Mariotti's. Hardest place in town to get reservations . . . but I got them, didn't I? Even tonight, I got them.

Anita: You were telling me about Walter. You hated Walter, didn't you, Stubby?

Stubby: Who says so? Who says I hated Walter?

I stood there, bent over the machine, straining to hear every word. Stubby's drunken mumbling went on. Anita's voice, husky, insidious, leading him further on. There was nothing that I hadn't heard before, nothing that I had forgotten.

Stubby: Don't remember. Don't wanna talk about it. Just wanna go to sleep.

Anita: Sit up, Stubby! Come on, sit up!

Stubby: Stubby's tired . . . very, very tired.

Anita: Listen, Stubby, let's you and me have a drink. That'll wake you up. There's some lovely Scotch in the kitchen.

Stubby: Too late for another drink.

Anita: We'll make it a night-cap, shall we?

Stubby: Too late for a night-cap . . . must be morning. What time is it?

Anita: It's not even twelve-thirty . . . the evening's young yet.

Stubby: Not for Stubby, it's not young. That's cause I'm drunk.

Anita: No, you're not.

Stubby: Sure I am. Very, very

I've got to hear that tape once more. I want to take it down to the office and figure it out."

"Hurry, but be careful."

"Yes, Steve."

I went to the bedroom, peeked cautiously through one of its windows. Across the street, leaning against a furrier's window, smoking a cigarette, looking as debonaire as an Errol Flynn, was my Romeo, Wendell Kipp. A stately, gorgeous model from the models' roosting place, the Barbizon up the Avenue, waited past him. He stepped away from the window, the better to catch her rear view. I felt not the slightest pang of jealousy. I prayed that he would jilt me and follow her for a while.

He settled back against the window, his eyes looked toward our house. He preferred blondes. Back in the living room, I put the tapes in my coat pocket. There was no way I could get out the back of our apartment house; we were completely jammed in by the other buildings. I went down the stairs to the vestibule door. I had a plan of sorts.

I waited, listening, until I heard a bus come up my side of the street. The second its nosed, blocked Kipp's view of our door, I was through it, up the three steps to the sidewalk, racing along beside the bus, keeping it between Kipp and me. Ninety-nine out of a hundred busses slowed down to a stop at this corner. This one didn't. I ran beside it like a mad woman. Just as we reached the corner, it pulled ahead of me. I scooted around the corner and leaned against a wall, gasping.

In a moment I could move again, and in a little while I was running. When I got to Third Avenue I took a thorough look at the block behind me. Kipp wasn't in sight.

I started slowly down the west side of Third Avenue, searching for Steve. I heard him call to me before I saw him. He was standing in the narrow entrance to the cold water flats above a butcher shop. I went to him, stepped into the vestibule and put my arms around his neck.

"Connie, the tape . . ."

"Yes, here they are. Steve, should I come to the office with you?"

"No, you go back to the school. I'll call you there. I think I've got it, Connie, but I might be wrong. Maybe it's nothing, a washout."

"But what is it, Steve? Maybe I can help you figure it."

His head jerked up. He was see-

Micro Races Set For This Sunday Afternoon

The Micro Midget Race Club announced today that the benefit races for the Pitt County Mental Health Fund will be run off Sunday afternoon at 2:00 unless rain prevents them.

Originally scheduled for last weekend, the races were postponed due to a heavy rain that made the 1-8 mile track impossible to use. Cars from all over the state and from Virginia were slated to participate and will again be expected to work this Sunday, weather permitting.

All proceeds of the Sunday event will go directly to the Pitt County Mental Health Fund, which will, in turn, use the money to keep the local Mental Clinic in operating condition.

Slated to participate are racers Yama Bahama, Tex Gonzalez in Garden Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Two eager 23-year-old middleweights will try to elbow past the old favorites into the top 10 of the division tonight in a Madison Square Garden match between Yama Bahama and Tex Gonzalez.

If Bahama, a 3-1 favorite, loses it would be quite a surprise for he had a 23-fight winning streak until he was upset by Pat Lowry at Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 9.

Bahama's manager Bobby Melnick claimed his fighter first was announced as winner but the decision was changed while he was leaving the park. He hasn't fought since.

In 47 fights since 1953, Bahama has a 40-5-2 record with 13 knockouts. He was stopped only once, Gonzalez, who fought two "wars" with Gaspar Ortega during the winter months, has a 23-3-1 record. Although he has knocked out only two, his handlers claim he is a better puncher than his record indicates.

NBC will telecast at 9 p.m. EST.

GHS At Fuquay Springs Tonight

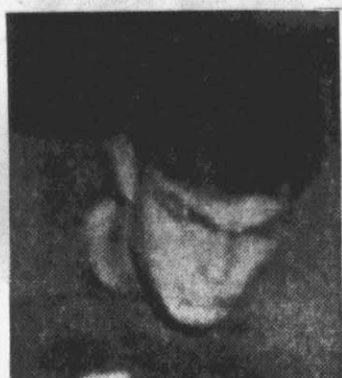

Hard hit by recent academic and injury troubles, Greenville's Phantoms travel to Fuquay Springs tonight for a non-conference contest with the western AA team.

Coach Guy Lewis' boys are rated a two touchdown favorite despite the fact that four key players will be out for the rest of the season.

Reid Everett, Jimmy Kelly, Robin Wilford and Sam Nixon are the absentees.

Leading the Phantom attack will probably be Billy Sermons and Mack Roebuck in the backfield and Edwin Wilkerson, Wade Jordan and Barney Barrett in the line.

Chisox Looking For Successor To Marion Now

CHICAGO (AP)—There was a wave of speculation today as to Marty Marion's successor as manager of the Chicago White Sox but the No. 1 candidate appeared to be Al Lopez.

Marion resigned yesterday after a conference at Comiskey Park with Vice President Chuck Comiskey and other Sox brass.

"They were not happy with my work," said Marty, who moved up from the Sox coaching ranks to replace Paul Richards as Sox skipper Sept. 14, 1954.

There was little doubt that the 39-year-old former St. Louis Cardinal star shortstop stepped down under pressure.

"There were some statements made during the season by Chuck Comiskey that 'White Sox material was excellent'" and that I was doing a "credible job," said Marion.

"Their remarks always were just lukewarm. They never gave me a solid vote of confidence. Actually, I believe I did a good job (the Sox finished third both years under Marion). In fact, I'm proud of the job I did."

Marion, who was the 13th Sox manager since the club last won the pennant in 1919, said he had no definite plans but wanted to remain in baseball. He left Chicago immediately for his St. Louis home.

Marion agreed to resign only after he was assured he would be paid in full for the year remaining in his contract—paid even if he lands another job.

The Sox also will request that all four of Marion's coaches resign—Ray Berres, Don Gutteridge, Del Wilber and George Myatt.

Comiskey said that "at least six or seven fellows" will be considered for the job. While Lopez, who resigned last month as pilot of the Cleveland Indians, would be given consideration he is not necessarily the leading candidate.

Casey Happy To Be 'A Big Man'

By BOB MYERS GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Casey Stengel, a wonderful man who has perfected the oratorical double reverse with a split infinitive and flanker adjective, is duly grateful and honored to be voted the American League Manager of the Year.

He said so today at his home in Glendale, where he is resting up after leading the New York Yankees to their sixth World Series triumph and seventh pennant in his eight years with the club.

Casey scored a lopsided victory in the annual Associated Press poll of members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America — 164 of the 207 votes. This was 150 more than his rival for the honor, Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles.

Casey asked again for the vote and when it was repeated, he grinned from ear to ear: "I'm going to a dinner tonight and I want to know if I can tell 'em I'm a big man."

Richards polled 14 votes. Marty Marion, who parted company with the Chicago White Sox last night, collected 13 votes. Bucky Harris, late of the Detroit Tigers, had 10, and Al Lopez, also late of the Cleveland Indians, had 4. Pinky Higgins, Manager of the Year in 1955 with the Boston Red Sox, got 2.

Undefeated Clemson Eyeing Orange Bowl

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Undefeated Clemson stood atop the Atlantic Coast Conference today with a hopeful eye cocked toward representing the league in Miami's Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

The Tigers pushed across an early first-period touchdown against South Carolina yesterday and then fought off the Gamecocks for a 7-0 victory in the annual "Big Thursday" feature of the South Carolina State Fair at Columbia.

It was Clemson's third conference victory. The Tigers have won four games over all, a 20-20 tie with Florida the only blot on their record.

The Tigers still have five games remaining, with VPI, Maryland, Miami, Virginia, and Furman. Who will represent the ACC against a Big Seven team in the Orange Bowl game remains a moot question but Clemson's victory yesterday placed the Tigers in a favorable position.

Two conference games — North Carolina State at Duke and Wake Forest at North Carolina—are on tomorrow's schedule as well as two nonconference games—Maryland at Tennessee and Virginia vs. VPI at Roanoke.

Quarterback Charlie Bussey climaxed Clemson's first period scoring drive, plunging over from the one. Clemson had its running game going full steam behind halfback Joel Wells who picked up 84 yards in 19 carries. South Carolina countered this with fullback Don Johnson's performance of 95 yards in 13 rushes.

South Carolina Coach Warren Giese said Clemson played "virtually errorless ball," and called Wells "better than his press notices."

Both Duke and N.C. State finished work yesterday for their ACC game at Durham tomorrow with light practices without contact. Each practiced against the other's plays.

Sophomore quarterback Bob Brodhead will start for the Blue Devils but star signal-caller Sonny Jurgensen, who has been bothered with a leg injury, likely will see more action than in previous games.

North Carolina stressed kicking in its work, then held a closed practice working against Wake Forest's plays. The Deacons, anticipating an aerial game in the contest at Chapel Hill, worked on pass defense.

Maryland, which invades Tennessee tomorrow, learned yesterday that the Vols' star halfback, Johnny Majors, is in top shape after injuring a shoulder against Duke four weeks ago. Terp Coach Tommy Mont continued his effort to put together a backfield with a scoring punch. The Terps, hampered by injuries, sickness and service losses, have won only one game out of five.

Elvis' Slugger Fired From Job

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The man who got an Elvis Presley fist in the face was looking for a new job today — fired because of his battle with the teen-agers' rock 'n' roll idol hurt business.

The fist fight with Presley also cost 42-year-old Edd Hopper a black eye, a $25 fine and left him with a slight ringing in his ears — the aftermath of telephone calls from a horde of irate Presley fans.

Clarence Harwell, owner of the service station where Hopper was manager, said he fired Hopper yesterday but let him "stay on a few days" until he can line up another job.

"I asked Harwell not to fire the man," said Presley. "The man has a family. It was just one of those things. We regret it, but it's too late."

Harwell said business at the station had fallen off drastically since the week-old incident. He called at the Presley home yesterday to apologize for the fracas. Hopper declined comment. He got his black eye Oct. 18 at the filling station after becoming irate because a crowd drawn by Presley and his $11,175 car was blocking business at the gas pumps.

Witnesses at the court hearing said Hopper reached inside the auto, slapped Presley on the back of his ducktail haircut, and snapped, "I said 'move on.'" The singer came out swinging.

TYSONE DISTILLING COMPANY
LAWRENCEBURG, KENTUCKY

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Evening Sun said today a new Navy jet fighter, flying at supersonic speed, shot itself down by running into cannon shells it had fired seconds before.

In a story by Donald Bremner, the paper quoted the Navy in Washington that the fantastic accident—first of its type in aviation—occurred last month while a test pilot was test firing new 20mm cannons over the Atlantic Ocean near Long Island.

Bremner said test pilot Tom Attridge was making a series of diving runs Sept. 21 in an F101, a new single-seat carrier-based fighter still undergoing tests by the Grumman Engineering Aircraft Co.

The article said the Navy gave this account: The pilot's mission was to reach a certain speed and test the four cannons at that speed by firing them into the ocean.

He put his jet into a shallow dive at a speed of 880 m.p.h. some 13,000 feet above the water and fired a four-second burst from his cannons. After a pause, he fired another four-second burst.

As he finished the second round of firing, an object shattered the bullet-proof glass in his windshield. Thinking he had rammed a bird, Attridge headed for the field at Peconic River near Calverton, L.I.

But unknown to the pilot, a second shell had pierced his jet engine which died, causing the jet to crash land in a woods a half mile short of the field.

The 33-year-old ex-Navy pilot was hospitalized with a fractured leg and three broken vertebrae. The battered cannon slug was recovered from the jet engine—proof of what happened.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—The stock market pushed ahead for the first time this week in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Leading stocks scored gains of fractions to a point or better. Gulf Oil added about 3/8.

Steels, coppers and rails, losers in recent sessions, went ahead.

Major steelmakers were enlivened by Bethlehem's stated prospects of capacity operation in the first half of 1957. Coppers rebounded despite further price cut and lower production news, apparently well discounted.

The recovery was regarded by brokers as a natural technical comeback in view of the string of declines.

Bethlehem was up over a point following its loss of 1 1/2 yesterday in anticipation of all lower earnings report due to the summer's steel strike. U. S. Steel, which reports on third quarter finances next Tuesday, was up around a point. Youngstown gained a fraction.

Anaconda was up a fraction. Its loss of 3/4 yesterday apparently discounted today's news that it had followed the lead of Phelps Dodge in reducing its domestic copper price and was reducing domestic production. Kennecott and International Nickel were ahead around a point. Magna more than that while Phelps Dodge eased.

Among the rails Illinois Central recovered about a point of its 1/4 loss of yesterday. Southern Railway, New York Central and Santa Fe advanced fractionally.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was up a point or so. Texaco and Royal Dutch gained fractions. Mack Trucks lost around a point following yesterday's news of its stock-split proposal.

Chrysler was up about a point and Ford a fraction. General Motors and Studebaker were steady. Other gainers included Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, International Paper and American Telephone.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 60 cents to $178.40 with the industrials up $1.10, the rails up 10 cents.

Army Predicts Rocket Planes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two top Army specialists predicted today that present military airplanes will be replaced by rocket-driven space ships designed to carry nuclear bombs or fighting men and their equipment.

The forecasts were made in papers prepared for the convention of the Association of the United States Army, a private group, by Dr. Werner von Braun and Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris, chief scientist and commander respectively of the Army ballistic missile agency at Huntsville, Ala.

Von Braun, chief developer of the German V-2 rockets of World War II who since 1945 has been working for the U. S. Army, predicted the launching within four or five years of unmanned space stations.

He said they could "obtain a vast amount of information" through the use of electronic devices and relay it back to the earth.

The original version of his speech distributed before deletions were made at the Pentagon carried a prediction by Von Braun that rockets carrying a dozen men could be launched "in less than six to eight years" to an altitude of 1,075 miles. At that height, he said, the men could erect a space station that would orbit around the earth and from which "bombing could be carried out with unprecedented accuracy."

Medaris said in his prepared talk that "the time has arrived" to consider space missiles as "the most efficient delivery system which can be predicted."

Armitage Attends Safety Congress

Neville Armitage, assistant foreman at the National Carbon Company's Greenville plant, is attending the National Safety Congress and Exposition in Chicago this week.

Armitage is one of 37 National Carbon employees attending the meeting. He is active as a member of a special National Carbon committee meeting to find improved procedures for investigating industrial accidents, work that will help the local National Carbon plant in making a thorough analysis of its safety program in order to determine the greatest hazards and plan its future safety program around the elimination of those hazards.

Balloon-Shaped Radar Antenna

BALTIMORE (AP)—A balloon shaped like a lollipop is the latest thing in radar antennas.

But it's nothing for the kids to play with. It weighs 1,800 pounds and is three stories high. Yet, that is small compared to the 10,000 pounds for metal antennas which will do the same job.

The Westinghouse Co. announced that engineers at plants here and in Lansdowne, Md., developed the collapsible and portable antenna for the Air Research and Development Command.

The idea was supplied by Coleman J. Miller, a Westinghouse engineer from Pasadena, Md. It netted him a special award of $5,000.

Westinghouse said the whole balloon assembly can be packed into airlift containers and air-dropped into tactical areas for use in detecting hostile aircraft.

The innovation is called the "paraballoon antenna."
