Afternoon Session Concludes Convention

CONVENTION PARTICIPANTS—Shown above are participants in the afternoon session of the Northeastern District NCEA convention held on the college campus yesterday.

Teachers Hear Dr. Messick Call For Close Cooperation

The 34th Annual convention of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina Education Association was brought to a close yesterday afternoon with an address by Dr. John D. Messick, president of East Carolina College.

Dr. Messick outlined the history of higher education in the nation and in North Carolina. The college president pointed out that only four per cent of North Carolina's population graduated from college while the United States as a whole six per cent of the population holds college degrees.

Ranked 45th "The 1950 census shows that North Carolina ranked 45th among the states in the median number of years of education completed by persons 25 years of age or older," Dr. Messick declared.

Officers Elected The following division and department officers were elected during work sessions yesterday: Modern Language: Mrs. Nellie R. White, Greenville; Mrs. Evelyn R. Jones, Rocky Mount; Hugh B. Johnston, Jr., Wilson; Agriculture: F. M. Mellette, Deep Run; C. B. Elks, Panteo; P. T. Long, Engelhardt; Future Teachers: Joyce Duval, Atlantic Christian; Madeline Weeks, E. C. C.; Toni Darden, A. C. C.; Music: Scott Calloway, Elizabeth City; Frances Carawan, Williamston; Frances Smith, Robersonville.

After Desertion Charge Army Turns Boy Loose

MILTON, W. Va. (AP)—Ellis Jun the name Ellis Junior Smith was for Smith, 19, was on his way back home to his farm near here for three years on July 9. It last night after spending more than a month under guard as a suspected Army deserter. But although he tried, he never had joined the Army.

Aid To Egypt Quietly Resumed After Suez Halt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has quietly resumed foreign aid to Egypt after halting shipments briefly because of the Suez Canal crisis.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Directors of Instruction: Ada Jarvis, Washington; Gray Hodges, Washington; Elizabeth Kirby, Lucca; Principals: Gerald James, Edenton; Jasper L. Lewis, La Grange; Wilton G. Joyner, Chocowinity; Superintendents: John H. Moore, Elizabeth City; H. L. Joseph, Beaufort; W. F. Veasey, Washington; Classroom Teachers: Vera Lucas, Williamston; Mrs. Kara Lynn Fenwick, Greenville; Mary Whitley, Williamston.

Morse Denies Charge By Scott

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Scott (D-N.C.) has renewed his charge—that the government "can lose a great deal of money" by storing surplus wheat rotted while stored by a Texas firm in big tents.

Scott first made the statement Thursday at a political rally in North Carolina. Agriculture Department officials and the head of the storing firm replied that what he never stated was that repeated his allegation yesterday.

Heretofore, pathological specimens taken in Greenville had to be sent away for examination in diagnosis of cancer and other diseases or for examination to ascertain the probable cause of death.

Hungarian Border Guards Called To Help Combat Intense Rebellion

VIENNA (AP)—Red Hungary's western frontier guards were reported summoned inland today to help combat swelling rebellion, and border areas fell to anti-Communist Hungarian troops.

Roof to roof fighting went on in the heart of Budapest, where Premier Imre Nagy announced a new popular front government, including several non-Communists, in an effort to appease demands for freedom.

Austrian frontier police crossed the Iron Curtain line for the first time in the postwar period and fraternized with soldiers who said they had deserted to the revolution. The Austrians were embraced and told "We are brothers again."

"This is the most remarkable thing in 12 years," Austrian police said in a border interview. "It seems that the Hungarian Communist control forces have been withdrawn to the interior to help fight the rebels. Their old watch towers are empty. This border appears in control of the revolutionaries."

The Hungarians reported rumors that the Russians were forcing Nagy at pistol point to make his announcements to the Hungarian people, even that he had been arrested and that the Russians had taken over complete command in Budapest.

Nagy's desperate bid to answer Hungarian demands for administrative reforms was broadcast by radio Budapest even as rebel groups told newsmen at the Austrian border the rebels have set up an independent Hungarian government at Győr, a western industrial town 70 miles from Budapest, to coordinate the fight against Soviet divisions and Hungarian units still in action under Red leadership.

A bespectacled former professor of his old party, the once powerful Smallholders, in replacing the Cabinet with hope of winning support of the masses and setting the rebels to surrender. Some, like he himself, are "rehabilitated" purges.

The list included Bela Kovacs, former head of the Smallholders party and a non-Communist who has done time in both Russian and Hungarian prisons for failure to follow the Moscow line. He was named agriculture minister.

Ex-President Zoltan Tildy, another Smallholder under house arrest from 1948 to last summer, became minister of state affairs. The new health minister, Antal Babics, is a university professor publicly known to be a close friend of Peter Gabor, Hungarian security chief now under arrest.

The Defense Ministry, a hot spot now, went to Karoly Janza, a Communist regarded as moderate. Radio Budapest declared in its noon broadcast, "Rebel resistance inside Budapest has been broken."

It said many rebels had surrendered and had been given amnesty. "Russian and Hungarian troops are clearing the streets to liquidate the last resistance," it added. But the Communist broadcast station had made the same declaration several times before while the rebels fought on—in the streets, in the factories, in private homes and from the city's roofs.

One of the leaders of the Singapore shop and factory workers union who is also a member of Singapore's Legislative Assembly, was reported held for questioning.

Ike Enters Walter Reed For Promised Physical

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS President Eisenhower enters Walter Reed Army Hospital today for his promised pre-election physical checkup.

Stevenson's vice presidential teammate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, made a second campaign swing into Pennsylvania yesterday, where he accused the administration of "calloused" promise-breaking on job aid.

The White House said a medical report on Eisenhower's health will be released Sunday afternoon after the President's 24-hour stay in the hospital.

Stevenson, in a speech prepared for one of his West Coast appearances, said Republicans "know they can't persuade the people to trust the Republican party, and so they say, 'Just trust Ike.'"

He said the GOP is "afraid" to ask the people to trust the destiny of the country to Vice President Nixon, "the heir apparent."

The Republicans say, "Trust Ike, and don't ask questions." Stevenson said, and added, "Who are we supposed to trust when Ike isn't there?"

Stevenson's running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, moved into Maryland today after a second swing through Pennsylvania, and said the American people are "having to run faster and faster to stay in the same place" abreast of the cost of living.

In a speech prepared for a rally at Hagerstown, Md., Kefauver said "President Eisenhower's claims to the contrary, your take home pay is simply not keeping up with the galloping prices you must pay for household and living expenses."

Stevenson's California appearances followed speeches in New Mexico and Illinois yesterday in which he described administration policies on the H-bomb as "madness" and spoke of what he called "spectacular larceny" in Illinois GOP circles.

Pitt Memorial Gets Pathologist

Dr. T. S. Wedde extensively experienced pathologist of Goldsboro, is now a regular member of the staff at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville.

He is available for examination of pathological specimens for the hospital and the medical profession and for pathological examinations for the county coroner.

Dr. Wedde, a native of Northampton, Pa., graduated in 1932 from the College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles, Calif. He interned at St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, Pa., and was resident pathologist at Charity Hospital, New Orleans. Later he was resident pathologist at Millard Fillmore Hospital in Buffalo, N. Y., and after that, resident pathologist at Philadelphia General Hospital, and Hahnemann Medical School and Hospital in Philadelphia.

Singapore Rocks Under Violence

By OLEN CLEMENTS SINGAPORE (AP)—Fresh violence flared in Singapore today as British and Malay troops with shoot-to-kill orders tried to quell rampaging Chinese mobs in the third day of anti-government rioting.

Five more Communist-led rioters were shot dead bringing the death total to 13. At least 100 persons—18 of them Europeans—have been injured in the fighting which raged across Singapore Island.

The riots erupted Thursday when police tried to break up a strike of pro-Communist Chinese high school students protesting the government's ban of their student union as a Communist front.

Troops manned roadblocks all over town as mobs roamed the streets pelting European automobiles with stones. Rioters tried to break into a police station but were hurled back.

Police arrested more than 450 riot and union leaders. Many had homemade bombs in their possession.

One of the leaders of the Singapore shop and factory workers union who is also a member of Singapore's Legislative Assembly, was reported held for questioning.

Friday Pledges UNC To Seek High Level

RALEIGH (AP)—The new president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, 36-year-old William C. Friday, says his administration will seek "the greatest level of excellence" in the system's three units.

Friday, elected unanimously by the board of trustees yesterday, said this means that "we must keep always an atmosphere of freedom—responsible freedom—in which our faculties and students may study and work."

Acting president the last eight months, Friday had been recommended for the post by a screening committee which interviewed 124 educators. He succeeds Gordon Gray who resigned last year to become an assistant secretary of defense.

Victor S. Bryant, chairman of the trustee committee which screened applicants for the post, told the trustees the committee's search was complicated by a serious question "as to the future of consolidation" caused by the recent creation of a State Board of Higher Education, by integration problems resulting from the S. N. C.

$16,801 Receipts At Post Office

The Greenville Post Office has reported receipts of $16,801.66 for the report period September 22 through October 19, Postmaster J. K. Proctor said today.

Bulk of the receipts, $8,842.43, came from sale of stamps. Receipts from postage meters were second with $3,200.

Other receipts included non-metered postage, $1,355.54; post office meters, $1,312.21; special requests, $1,005.46; box rent, $960.70; second-class mail, $81.54; bulk mailing fees, $30.00; non-metered application fee, $10.00; correcting mailing lists, $5.00; and excess, $0.80.

Junior Red Cross Opens Campaign

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross has launched its Junior Red Cross membership drive.

The campaign was launched with a tea at Eupes High School. At the gathering, it was pointed out that school children in the county will be given an opportunity to join a nationwide organization with more than 21,000,000 members.

Guiding the students in their projects are 15 teacher-sponsors who have been selected by their principals on the basis of leadership ability and interest in the Junior Red Cross program.

Driver Injured And Arrested

WRECK, INJURY & ARREST—Pictured above is the car wrecked by Frances Lane of Tarboro around daybreak today. Patrolman Delton Perry said she ran off the Prison Camp road, started skidding and lost control. She received slight burns. Perry charged her with operating at an unsafe speed and estimated the damage at $750. (Reflector Photo by Allyn Taylor).

Call For Negro Teachers Less

RALEIGH (AP)—"The demand for Negro teachers is drying up," the chairman of the State Board of Higher Education declared yesterday.

So saying, D. Hiden Ramsey of Asheville added that "strictly in the field of teacher training, Elizabeth City State Teachers College for Negroes 'has no future.'"

The board also mapped plans for legislation it will seek from the 1957 General Assembly and paved the way for bringing certain school laws up to date.

The proposed legislation would establish the board's relationship with community colleges, set up a 10-million-dollar revolving fund for permanent improvements at the state's 12 institutions of higher learning; and implement a proposed teacher scholarship-loan program.

Ramsey pointed out that trustees at Elizabeth City, Winston-Salem and Fayetteville state Teachers colleges have no authority "except to open their meetings with a prayer and maybe close it with profanity."

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 33
I turned back to the roof door of the cold water flat. Then, hastily, I crouched down behind a chimney. I tried desperately to think of what I would say to Wendell Kipp. He was standing just inside the door, peering out onto the roof. He wasn't standing there; he hadn't seen me. He was afraid to come out on the roof and, perhaps, face the Walter. Then he backed away and disappeared.

Wants Cops To Be Well-Adjusted

DETROIT (AP)—A psychiatric consultant says police chiefs should select only well-adjusted applicants for police jobs.
The advice comes from Alan Canty, director of the Detroit Recorder's Court psychiatric clinic. He says there are often secret reasons why a man wants to be a policeman—such as acting out aggressions, or using the job as an outlet for "hostile feelings against society."

LET'S GO TO CHURCH TOGETHER

The good thing about this is that Dan and Betty and those other youngsters too are here, in Church, because they want to be!
No one made them come. No one told them that they had to. No one threatened punishment if they didn't.
Though outside it is a bright sunny day and the woods and fields and streams beckon, they are here, in God's house, at prayer.
They'd like the country and the world to know that despite all this alarming "juvenile delinquency" there are good teen-agers too.
There are teen-agers who have been instructed in the Christian way of life, and who have discovered what the Church can mean to them.

Engagement Announced

Miss Beverly Elaine Peacock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jesse Peacock, of Wilmington, who announce her engagement to Thomas Dorsett Larkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Dorsett Larkins of Greenville. The date of the January wedding will be announced later.

Pitt Medical Auxiliary Meets

The Pitt County Medical Auxiliary held its regular fall meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. T. Williams in Farmville.

Mrs. Charles Fitzgerald and Mrs. John M. Mewborn served as co-hostesses. The auxiliary gave a gift in memory of Dr. Joe Smith to the Memorial Baptist Church building fund.

The Sans Souci Book Club donated $5.00 to the auxiliary and it will be used in buying more books for the hospital library.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. A. M. Mumford and Mrs. S. R. Bartlett read the minutes of the last meeting and the executive committee meeting.

The 1956-57 yearbooks were given out to the 21 members present and will be mailed to those not present.

Mumford spoke on the objectives and the policies of the Medical Auxiliary as stated in the yearbook, after which a prayer was given by Mrs. M. P. Hoot.

The chairman then read and discussed their committee plans for the coming year.

The business session concluded and a coffee hour followed. Mrs. Mumford assisted in the pouring and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Treats To Benefit UN Children's Fund

Young people from the various churches of Greenville will participate in the "Trick or Treat" festivities Wednesday night but they won't be asking for treats for themselves.

The youngsters will be collecting for the United Nations Children's Fund, an organization which collects money through a drive each year to provide the necessities of life for underprivileged children in foreign countries.

The church groups will meet at their individual churches at 6:30 p.m. and will collect until 8:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Greenville Council of Church Women, they hope to get good returns for children overseas who cannot help themselves.

VFW Auxiliary To Celebrate Tenth Birthday On Thursday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will celebrate its Tenth Birthday at a dinner on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the clubhouses. State and district officials of the Department of North Carolina have been invited. Local city and civic officials will be special guests. Charter members and past presidents of the auxiliary will be recognized.

All members of the auxiliary and the post who have paid their dues for the ensuing year will be admitted free. Their guests will be charged a nominal fee. Arrangements for the affair were completed at the regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening held at the home of Mrs. C. B. West Jr., president and presiding officer.

The annual Buddy Poppy Sale will be held in Greenville on November 10. Mrs. H. L. Vincent, chairman, announced tentative plans for the sale and various members volunteered their services in getting the preliminaries accomplished.

Mrs. Vincent reminded the members that the sale is one of the organization's most important programs of the year. She pointed out that proceeds from the sale are used locally to aid needy and disabled veterans and their families; to provide services, gifts and entertainment at the Veterans Hospitals; to support the VFW National Orphan Home; and income for the disabled veterans for assembling poppies.

The group accepted the proposal to operate a TB seals booth in December in cooperation with the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association. Mrs. B. T. Joyner, chairman of the rehabilitation committee, reported that a utility bill had been paid and food and clothing obtained for the needy family of a veteran.

A project to promote observance and use of the flag by local merchants and schools was discussed. Mrs. Kenneth Brown accepted the chairmanship of this project. The second District meeting will be held in Washington, N. C. October 28. An invitation was read from the Washington auxiliary requesting local members to attend a social hour on the preceding evening. Mrs. James S. Allen and Mrs. Kenneth Brown were appointed as delegates to the meeting.

A Caswell Training School request for two razors has been filled. Mrs. West read the general orders from state and national headquarters. Members were urged to vote in the national election on November 6.

The president reminded the group that the membership contest would close at the regular meeting in November at which time prizes would be given to those securing the most new and reinstated members. Door prize was won by Mrs. James S. Allen. At the close of the business session, refreshments were served by the hostesses of the evening during the social hour.

Social Notes

Cmdr. H. P. Streeper of Washington, D. C. is visiting Mrs. L. B. Redditt for the weekend.

Friends of R. F. Bristow, 1402 N. Pitt St., will be glad to learn he is improving after an operation at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Branson Walls, 1201 Myrtle Ave., daughter, Paula Lisa, Oct. 26 at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Brock, 308 Manhattan Ave., a son, Roy Lee Jr., Oct. 26 at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Dink James entertained at a coffee hour yesterday morning honoring Miss Nina Skinner, bride-elect. Miss Skinner will be married November 17 to Roy Wakefield Upchurch Jr. of Durham in an afternoon ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Greeting guests were the honoree and Mrs. James. A color note of yellow and white was observed in the dining room where Mrs. Charles C. Skinner, mother of the bride-elect, poured. The table, covered with an imported linen cloth, held a center arrangement of yellow fall mums flanked by yellow tapers. Elsewhere in the house, fall flowers were used in arrangements. Guests served themselves to party refreshments. Miss Skinner was presented a corsage of yellow mums and crystal in her chosen pattern by Mrs. James. Some 16 guests attended.

Immanuel Baptist Announcements

Excellent messages have been delivered in revival services at Immanuel Baptist Church each evening during this week by the Rev. Charles E. Parker, pastor of the First Baptist Church of New Bern. He will be present through the morning worship hour tomorrow. This service will be broadcast over Radio Station WGTC. Mr. Leonard Bloxam will preach at the evening service Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. The pastor, the Rev. Irby B. Jackson, will begin preaching in a series of evangelistic services tomorrow night and continue through the week at Lakeside Baptist Church, Rocky Mount. The ordinance of baptism will be administered at Immanuel Baptist Church on Sunday night, November 4th.

Next meeting of the club will be November 8.

WSCS Members Plan Wednesday Luncheon

PLAN LUNCHEON—Women of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church have pledged $5,000 to the church's building fund drive now underway. A luncheon planned by the WSCS for Wednesday from 12-1:30 p.m. will be the first scheduled project of the group. Meet that pledge. Pictured above are luncheon committee members who are making last minute plans for the luncheon, designed for shoppers and workers uptown, to take place in the fellowship hall of Jarvis Memorial. They are (seated left to right) Mrs. Sam Weeks, co-chairman with Mrs. C. A. Boone (not pictured); Mrs. D. L. Williams; Mrs. R. O. Fleming; Mrs. Woodrow Flanary; (standing left to right) Mrs. M. P. Hoot, president of the WSCS; Mrs. John S. King; Mrs. John Shannonhouse and Mrs. Hubert A. Coleman. The $5,000 pledge will be raised by the entire 305 members of the WSCS over a five year period. Prayer Week Plans Revealed

The Women of St. James Methodist Church are currently observing their annual Week of Prayer and Self-Denial. During this week, Oct. 25-31, they are uniting their hearts and minds, as well as their means, with those of Methodist Women throughout the United States in special prayers for projects supported by the Woman's Division in the United States, the Philippines, Burma, Sarawak and Sumatra.

On Monday night at 8 o'clock the Spiritual Life Committee of the W.S.C.S. will conduct a program at the church. The work now being done in the various institutions and the critical needs of each of them will be explained, after which a Self-Denial Offering will be received. All women of St. James Church and other interested persons are cordially invited to attend.

30 Years Ago Today

October 27, 1926 At a mass meeting held at East Carolina Teachers College, the student body elected the girls who were to represent them in the various superlatives for the year 1926-27. The eclectic of statistics in the college is one of the most interesting features of the year. Among those chosen were Miss Elizabeth Mayo and Miss Mattie Vines Mayo to represent grace. As the most striking girl, Miss Sarah Burton Jenkins of Shelby was unanimously elected.

Moose Women Send Gifts To Mooseheart

The Women of the Moose, Chapter No. 1308, held its regular meeting Thursday night at the Moose Temple with Senior Regent Louise Carrigan presiding. The meeting was opened in usual form by the Senior Regent. Minutes of the chapter and executive board meetings were read by Mrs. Isabella Falsey, Recorder, and approved by the chapter. Various standing committee chairmen gave monthly and quarterly reports on the committee activities.

Those submitting reports were Mrs. Joyce Smith, Mooseheart; Mrs. Louise Carrigan, senior regent; Barbara Dail, publicity; Mrs. Tense Proctor, child care; Mrs. Mildred Renn, homemaking. Each member also brought a wrapped Christmas present consisting of a toy or piece of wearing apparel. These gifts are sent to Mooseheart as an annual project of the chapter called "Christmas in October."

Following all further business the meeting closed in ritualistic form, to meet again November 8 at 8 p.m.

Greenville F. W. B. Announcements

The Greenville Free Will Baptist Sunday School continues to be in great business for the Lord Jesus Christ. Mr. Stephen Walters, superintendent, invites and welcomes an even larger attendance in Sunday School. At the 11 a.m. worship service there will be a special service of consecration and dedication for the church choir. One of the hymns to be sung by the choir will be "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go." (Ps. 103:1). There will be a group from the church to go to the Colony Home at 3 p.m. for a service. The Free Will Baptist Leagues will meet at 6:30 p.m. under the direction of Mr. Mark Case. At the 7:30 p.m. worship there will be a service of interest and inspiration to all who attend. The Junior Choir will give a musical program under the title "The Light of the World." The Senior Choir will sing the hymn "It Pays To Serve Jesus." The Belfry Quartet will sing different hymns. Mrs. Bill Taylor will give greetings from the Woman's Auxiliary, and Mr. Stephen Walters will give information concerning the building plans and funds and give greetings from the Sunday School.

Monday at 5:30 p.m. the East Carolina College Free Will Baptist Student Fellowship will meet at the "Y" for vesper services and a supper. Monday at 7:30 p.m. the Woman's Auxiliary will meet at the church.

Christian Church Announcements

The junior choir of the Christian Church will occupy the choir space Sunday morning for the worship hour and will sing "I Love To Hear The Story of Jesus" a unison anthem for children by John Holler. The pastor will preach on the theme, "Who Are The Saved?"

The flowers for the chancel Sunday will be provided by Mrs. Mable Lacy Hall in memory of her mother, Mrs. S. C. Lacy. The copies of the Carolina Christian are in the hands of the members of the church which carry the program of the state convention which is to meet in Greenville in the Eighth St. Church November 13-15. Headline speakers of the convention will be Mrs. James Wyker, of Ohio; Loren E. Lair, state secretary of Iowa; Dr. Riley E. Montgomery, president of the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky.; Dr. William West, Chattanooga, Tenn.; and others. The Rev. D. G. Saunders, pastor of First Church, Spray, N. C., is presiding.

Beauty Winner

Miss Deborah Ann Manning, ten-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jarvis Manning of R-1, Greenville, won first place in the Winterville School Baby Contest held last night. The brown-eyed beauty captured the crown against some twenty contestants. Runner-up for the event was Phil Worthington.

The contest was sponsored by the elementary grades and was held in connection with the Halloween Carnival at the school last night.

Little Deborah Ann was awarded a gold picture frame for being first place winner.

The members of the church and their friends are requested to let us know what space they have to accommodate the delegates of the convention. Mrs. Reid Perkins is the local chairman of housing. Also the members of the church are urged to register. Being the host church we should like to have at least 200 registered to help defray the expenses of the convention. The pre-registration fee is $1.

World Community Day will be observed this coming week on Friday November 2 at 10:30 a.m. in the Meadow Brook Presbyterian Church. The speaker will be Mr. Herbert Paschal. Warm clothing for the world's needy people will be the special offering which every one is asked to bring. Blue denim cloth would be very acceptable.

The youth organizations of the church will meet Sunday evening, beginning with the intermediate group at 5, supper at 6, and the Christian Youth Fellowship and the Disciple Student Fellowship after the supper.

Grace F. W. B. Announcements

The superintendent, Mr. Jimmie Spain, particularly urges all members of the Sunday School to be present at 9:45 Sunday morning. All visitors are always welcome! There are classes for every age group from the smallest to the oldest.

The worship service begins at 11:00 A.M. Sunday with the choir singing the "Call to Worship!" The nursery is always open for mothers to take the children there if needed. The pastor, Rev. Rashie Kennedy, will bring the message. The League meets at 6:30 at the church. During the same hour the class on "How to Win Souls" is being taught.

The evening evangelistic service starts at 7:30. There is always plenty of music that everyone will enjoy. The message will be brought by the pastor. The Baptist service will be conducted immediately following the Sunday evening service at Parker's Chapel at 9:00 p.m.

On Monday afternoon the Good News Club meets at 210 N. East-ern Street. All boys and girls are urged to come. Monday evening at 7:30 the Woman's Auxiliary will meet at the church. Every member is urged to be present.

Tuesday afternoon the Good News Club meets at the church at 3:45. Tuesday evening at 7:30 the Official Board meets at the church. Wednesday evening at 7:30 the church meets for its monthly conference. Every church member should feel it his duty and privilege to be present to transact the Lord's work.

During the church conference the Good News Club meets. The choir will rehearse following the business meeting.

City's Newest Garden Club Is Organized In Elmhurst

A group of interested persons gathered at the home of Mrs. James M. Gruike Thursday for the purpose of organizing a garden club.

The new club will be called Elmhurst Garden Club and will be affiliated with the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc.

Prior to the meeting Mrs. George Respass and Mrs. Norman Cameron were selected as a committee to set up the constitution and by-laws of the club, which were approved by the club.

A nominating committee, also previously appointed, composed of Mrs. Woodrow Flanary and Mrs. L. R. Finch presented the following slate of officers which was accepted by the club:

Mrs. Gruike, president; Mrs. Howard N. Wilson, vice-president; Mrs. Robert S. Masten, secretary; Mrs. John Grier, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Cameron, publicity.

For the organizational meeting Mrs. Grier served as temporary chairman and Mrs. James Tucker as recording secretary.

Flower, Color Named Sponsored by the Greenville Garden Club, the Elmhurst Garden Club will have the chrysanthemum as its flower and bronze as the color.

Mrs. Sam H. Mitchell of Greenville, director of the Tenth District of the Garden Clubs of N. C., Inc., met with the group to help organize and to give information on the work of the state organization and national council.

Introduced by Mrs. Grier, Mrs. Mitchell opened her talk by reading the official collect of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc.

She described the organization on the state level, stating that there are ten districts in North Carolina. In the tenth district, of which Pitt is a part, there are twenty counties.

Mrs. Mitchell reported there are about four official state board meetings a year and that Elmhurst's president will be a member of the state board.

She stated the annual convention next year will be held in Winston-Salem and pointed out the newly organized club will be expected to have a representative there.

Projects Discussed

Mrs. Mitchell discussed projects with the group, making specific suggestions for the Elmhurst Club. She told the group the "Butterbug" campaign is a national project and pointed out Gov. Luther H. Hodges has asked co-operation of all garden clubs in this campaign. Program suggestions were also made. Specific suggestions were having garden clinics or workshops on house plants, dried arrangements, regular flower arrangements, landscape design or learning to identify shrubs.

Next meeting of the club will be November 8.

Time To Snip Raleigh Fetters

More local control for local governments is becoming a major issue in North Carolina. Perhaps by the time the 1957 General Assembly convenes the movement for more autonomy on the part of local governments will have gained sufficient momentum to assure some needed legislative changes.

At the meeting this week of the North Carolina League of Municipalities numerous voices were raised in the cry for greater local control over local affairs. At the same time there were appeals for the state government to re-arrange some of the joint state-local programs in which cities are required to play a financial part.

When the legislature was in session last year similar voices were raised. But little change was made to free local government from the fetters imposed over a period of years by the legislative halls in Raleigh. Perhaps the story will be different when the General Assembly convenes in February. Perhaps local governments will be able to muster sufficient strength to free themselves from many legislative apron strings.

Indeed they must if local governments are to do an adequate job of discharging their obligations to local citizens.

Answers Must Be Found For School Question

Although teenagers don't have much voice in the adult world, they often offer worthwhile suggestions which should be given special consideration by their elders.

Comment of a Pitt County high school junior carried in one of the high school columns in the Reflector a few days ago caught our attention. It has been on our mind ever since. The school reporter pointed out that only one student in the high school made the honor roll during the first six weeks marking period under new grading standards.

Asked what courses he would take next year, another student, a junior, commented:

"I might as well skip the senior class and go on to Duke. That's what they're trying to prepare me for."

We can't say what the junior meant by the statement. Maybe he feels the teachers are bearing down too hard on this matter of learning something from school. Maybe he was disgruntled because he didn't make the honor roll. Or maybe, just maybe, that particular student isn't planning to go to college and feels that his high school training is pointed too much at college preparatory work and not giving sufficient consideration to the students whose formal education will end with a high school diploma.

Regardless of what the student meant by the provocative statement, it does raise serious questions for adult consideration.

In this day when college enrollment is soaring, are we neglecting to some extent youngsters who will take up the tools of a trade instead of more text books after receiving a high school diploma?

Have adults failed to properly impress upon school students the important fact that education is a two-way street—the student's responsibility to learn is just as great as the teacher's responsibility to teach?

Answers, satisfactory to both students and adults, should be found to those questions.

Scratch Off Ordinance Make Safer Communities

It's easy to understand the increasing popularity of anti-scratch off ordinances which are being adopted by cities and towns of the state.

Armed with this ordinance, policemen can more easily bring to trial and justice drag racers and speeders who make it a habit of burning rubber every time they get under the wheel. No longer must they rely on speed-limit laws at intersections. Now they can rely on their ears, for most of these ordinances rather than mentioning speed specifically make it against the law to drive in such a manner as to make the tires squeal.

The town of Winterville recently adopted an ordinance of this type which, in our opinion, will contribute appreciably to making the town's streets safer for drivers and pedestrians. Most ordinances of this type are relatively new in North Carolina's municipalities. As a result few careless drivers have been prosecuted under the provisions of the law. As the laws are enforced, however, they should have a healthy influence on some drivers in every community.

Each new step which discourages dangerous driving habits contributes to greater traffic safety. There are few towns indeed which would not profit by a better traffic record.

Governor Hodges recently made known his feeling that county commissioners should have a greater voice in determining the course of the secondary road program in their own bailiwicks. This would be brought into play under his proposals for revamping the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

If local government boards are capable of playing this part in a state-wide program, certainly they are capable of determining what salaries should be paid local government employees and officials without prior approval from the state legislature. Certainly local governing boards should be able to determine what price to pay for new automobiles they are required to purchase without having to await approval from Raleigh for the purchase of any car over $1,500.

If the legislature were to give local governments a free rein in purely local matters, it would weaken the position of many legislators to whom local officials now have to bow down if they want anything done. It is no secret that in many matters of purely local nature local officials have to get approval from their legislator before they can turn a tap. This puts the legislator in a much more influential position in purely local government affairs than he otherwise would be.

It is not surprising, therefore, that many legislators are reluctant to give local governments the freedom of action they should have.

More citizens are beginning to realize that local governments, in order to discharge their responsibilities, must have a greater degree of autonomy in purely local matters. This can come only if local citizens make known to members of the legislature their desire for local governments to have in fact the power to govern.

Will the people of counties and municipalities throughout North Carolina continue to condone this type of dictation from the legislative hall in Raleigh, or will they intensify their efforts for local government authority over purely local matters?

New Registrations Reportedly Heavy

By LYNN NISBET
LOTS OF VOTES Reports from registrars throughout the state indicate heavier than expected new registration of voters for the November election. More citizens of North Carolina will be eligible to mark ballots on November 6 than ever before. Information gathered at the congressional district meetings is that a larger percentage than usual of the registered voters will actually go to the polls. This trend is particularly noticeable in the East where general election participation is traditionally high.

There is evidence, too, that everywhere except in the tenth congressional district, primarily in Mecklenburg county, a preponderant majority of the new voters are Democrats. Some younger women even in Democratic families are inclined to cast their first ballot for Eisenhower. These conditions would seem to justify the prediction that the total number of votes will exceed one and a third million, possibly go to one and a half million. It appears also a safe bet that the ratio will be approximately two to one in favor of the Democratic national ticket, better than three to one for the State officers.

Governor Hodges has forecast a quarter million margin for Stevenson, but has not published his estimate on the total vote. Secretary of State Thad Eure predicts around 1,400,000 total, but has not estimated the majorities. Surveyors who dig into the sentiment of individual discover a good deal of silent support for Eisenhower, the man rather than for the Republican party. Significant point is, it takes some digging to discover this strength. The Citizens for Eisenhower and "I Like Ike" badges which were so prominent four years ago are seldom seen, except in communities having consistently turned in large Republican votes.

COMPLETE — The second district rally at Tarboro was the only of the twelve which drew a full complement of Democratic candidates for State office, except the judges. The list included U. S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr.; Governor Luther H. Hodges; Lieut. Gov. Luther E. Barnhardt; Secretary of State Thad Eure; State Auditor Henry L. Bridges; State Treasurer Edwin M. Gill; Supt. of Public Instruction Charles P. Carroll; Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine; Commissioner of Labor S. Craun; Commissioner of Insurance Charles P. Gold and Attorney General George B. Patton.

Also present were all the officials of the Democratic party organizations: State Chairman John D. Larkins Jr., Vice Chairman Mary Laurens Richardson, Secretary Herman A. Moore, both members of the national committee; B. Everett Jordan and Mrs. Sallie Baker Everett, and Steve Nimocks, YDC president-elect. Though not on the ballot this year, Sen. Kerr Scott was on hand to complete the list of executive and legislative officials for whom the people of the whole state have the privilege of voting. Such a company is rare except at the quadrennial inauguration ceremonies.

Presence of all the officers was due partly to chance, since absences of some on previous occasions was unavoidable. It was due partly to the extra efforts made to attend the rally held in Rep. L. H. Fountain's district. He is one of the most popular members of the Congress, and Governor Hodges took occasion to pay high tribute to his services as chairman of the subcommittee which uncovered the "cheeseburger" scandal and mishandling of the Salk vaccine program by the Eisenhower administration. The Governor said he regretted that time did not permit Fountain to give detailed reports on his committee activities and findings in these and other matters which have been investigated.

BARBECUE — Opinion was unanimous among the faithful riders of the "barbecue circuit" that if the course had been reversed, starting in the East and moving westward, they couldn't have made it. At the district rallies held in Asheville, Spindale, Troy, Taylorsville, Whiteville, Wentworth, Clinton, Tarbor and Washington members of the official caravan and all Democrats present were fed barbecue. At Charlotte the menu was varied to a fish fry and at Durham it was a restaurant meal. No eats were available at the fourth district meeting in Raleigh.

That part of North Carolina embraces in the third, second and first congressional districts is the ancestral home of pig barbecue. There is little kinship, between the barbecue prepared in this area and that served west of the Catawba river. So it was that as the Democrats moved eastward they moved into progressively better barbecue territory, and found it a delight to the palate and the stomach, in spite of the steady diet for three previous weeks of what was called barbecue.

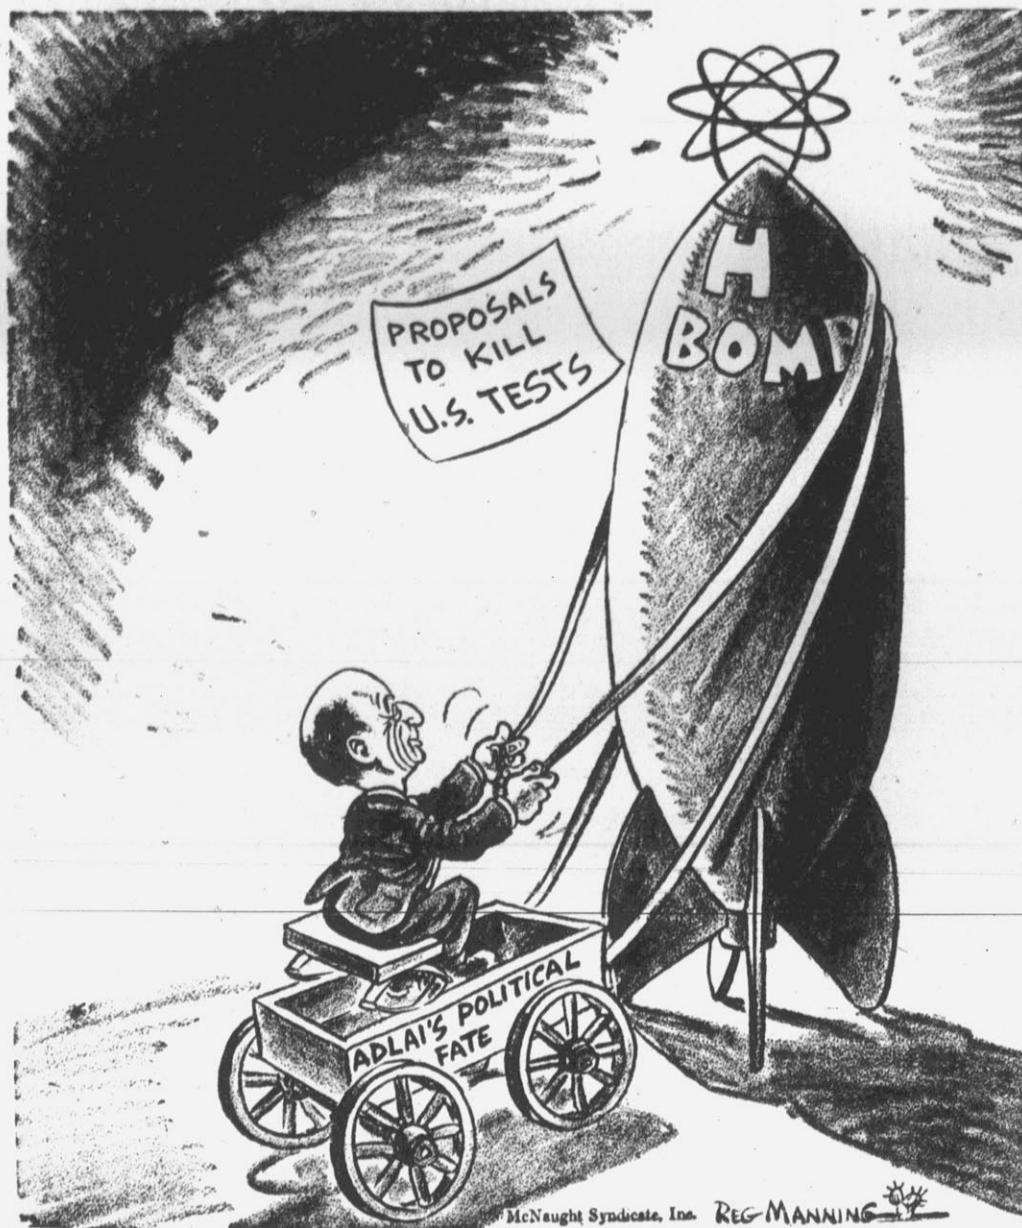

COUSIN WILLIE — Your reporter took time out from the Tarboro rally to visit W. G. "Cousin Willie" Clark. Now in his 70th year, he is confined to his home, but his mind is as keen as at any time during the 20 years he held a place of leadership in the State Senate. He served in every senate from 1927 through 1945, setting a record for continuous legislative service in the state.

Other Editors Are Saying... South Attracting Nation's Best

The Atlanta Constitution Time was when the South reared, educated and then lost most of its best talent. It is good news and highly significant, therefore, to note that the trend is being reversed. The Southern Regional Education Board points out that today for every Southern-educated chemist, physicist or mathematician with a doctorate degree who leaves the South, three to four scientists educated elsewhere come South to work. No longer must Southerners go elsewhere for opportunity but the South has become the land of opportunity for those from other sections who fail to find it at home. It is encouraging to note this sign of continued economic progress, a process which will tend to insure it. Southern economic development was neglected for so long that its finest young men and women left home to lend their talents to other regions. It's good to be rediscovered and to have a climate conducive to progress. Gov. Marvin Griffin was so right in saying in Detroit recently that while Georgia is still a great agricultural state, "The era of mist, julebs, belles and banjos in the moonlight has disappeared. The old cotton and pig which brought wealth and privilege to the few and brought endless hours of toil and travail to the many, has melted away."

Hitching His Wagon

The Miracle Of Modern Drugs

I got a cold! As with quite a few other local folks, changing temperatures and wet weather have brought on the Fall, 1956 drippy nose for me. Between sneezes, watering eyes and just plain old aching bones life is pretty miserable. It all started three or four days ago. One night I went to bed feeling fit as a fiddle and the next morning I woke up with one of those super dooper sore throats.

In a panic I headed for the corner drug store. "Gee me somethin' for a cold," I said. "Yes sir," said the druggist handing me two boxes of pills. "Take these for you cold . . . er, cold . . . and these for your sore throat."

So I went to it. One set of tablets contained something called zinc bacitracin, tyrothricin and benzocaine. That was enough to scare a cold out of a man, I figured. But the second pills were even better. They contained phenadine tartrate and acetophenetidin, not to mention a couple of common ingredients known as aspirin and caffeine.

Auto Makers Facing Difficulty

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor
DETROIT (AP)—The auto industry wide overtime during the week ending Oct. 26, 1956, was the first since the industry's 1955 model production. In some instances the usual production "bugs" on substantially changed design are responsible; in others minor labor disputes are blamed. One result will be that the industry probably will not hit the earlier predicted six million new car assemblies this year. Another will be that new car inventories will present no problem to the retailers at least during the remainder of the year. There has been considerable talk in industry quarters about industrywide overtime during November and December to build up dealer stocks. But even with extraordinary overtime a six million car output this year appears impossible. Styling and engineering details of more than half the different makes of cars from 1957 have been announced. These included Chevrolet and Ford, already on the market and stepping up their traditional battle for the industry's greatest sales volume. Reaching the market this week were American Motors' Nash, Hudson and Rambler models. The week also brought disclosure of the styling and engineering changes incorporated in all the Chrysler Corp. cars and Ford's Mercury line. The various Chrysler divisions will put their 1957 models on the market next Tuesday; most of the remaining General Motors divisions will introduce their new cars early in November. Studebaker will have its several models, including the Hawk sports line, on display Nov. 8, and Ford's Mercury division has deferred its introduction until Nov. 12. Mercury originally scheduled its public presentation for Oct. 24. The nearly three weeks postponement was not explained. However, specifications for the 1957 models show the widest styling and engineering changes in Mercury's history have been made in the new cars. Many other makers also will boast broadest changes in their history. Specifications of the new models show that almost unanimously the car makers have swung to lower and longer profiles, higher powered engines and fin-style rear fenders along with "signal tower" type of rear lighting assemblies. Most car makers also have installed higher output generators. Increasing demands have been made upon car electrical systems in the postwar period. The car makers may be planning to gear production to market requirements, but right now they are striving for the output volume need to adequately stock their retailers.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE IMPORTANCE OF NOW
Yesterday we considered the life of a man who, being told that he was incurably sick, began to make the most of the little life he believed he had left and who has seen twenty-six years pass by since the doctors passed the death sentence upon him. We referred to the way he established a pattern of usefulness which makes him now a conspicuous and beloved person.

What would you and I do if we knew this were our last day? John Wesley once asked that question of his converts. What would we begin doing that we are not doing now? Would we hurriedly "pounce certain things about which we secretly have an Others Say...

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, MINN. DAILY JOURNAL: "Nationalization, a form of socialism under which the government controls basic resources and industries, is a two-way street. . . . The return of a nationalized function to private operation is both possible and feasible. . . . However, it is much easier to scramble than to unscramble. England's conservative government has been finding this out. . . . Since coming into power in 1951, the conservatives have tried to denationalize only two, the trucking and steel industries. Neither effort has been entirely successful."
NOGALES, ARIZ., DAILY HERALD: ". . . To a very substantial degree, the wage gains won by steel labor are sure to be largely offset within a fairly short span of time by higher price tags on the things the worker buys."
LAKE WORTH, FLA., HERALD: ". . . One would hardly be out of line to say that 90 per cent of all traffic accidents are the result of carelessness—often criminal carelessness—on the part of one or both drivers involved."

Business Math Has Paradoxes

By ELMER ROESSNER
There are strange paradoxes in business arithmetic. A $3 increase in costs may require $100 in sales to meet it. At the same time a $100 rise in sales may yield a net profit of $30. These strange equations were touched upon at an American Management Association meeting a few days ago. Thomas J. McDough, manager of Heinz's office services, told other executives that his company is saving the equivalent of $400,000 a year in sales by installing telephone dictation in one department. It saves the equivalent of $450,000 in sales through the reorganization of its janitorial services and the equivalent of $750,000 in sales by conversion of elevators to automatic operation. This is how Mr. McDonough figures it: Heinz makes about 3 cent net profit on sales, therefore $300,000 in sales has about the same effect as a saving of $12,000 in stenographers' salaries. Savings of $13,500 and $22,500 are equivalent to sales of $450,000 and $750,000.

OTHER EXAMPLES
Department stores and food markets average around 2 per cent net of sales before taxes. After their silent partner, Uncle Sam, takes his share the average is around 1 per cent. Therefore, each $2 saved is equivalent to sales of $100 in these fields. Some more fortunate lines have higher net margins, and so their savings are smaller in relation to sales. A company netting 9 per cent of sales—rare, but it has been done—saves the equivalent of $22.22 in sales for each $2 trimmed off expenses. However, it is important to note that savings in expenses are equivalent only to existing sales. When sales increase without corresponding rises in costs, profits tend to increase faster. Let's take the H. Y. Poetical Co. and assume that it has sales of $1,000,000 a year, pays $300,000 for materials and $650,000 for all other costs. That leaves $50,000 profit, which is five per cent of sales. Now suppose that it increases its sales to $2,000,000 a year. The cost of materials will double to $600,000. Other costs will be higher, too: shipping, advertising, insurance, collection costs, commissions, and other pre-unit charges. But if it can produce and market the goods with only a little increase in costs for labor, power and other variable charges—a not unlikely situation in plants that are not operating to capacity—the increase in profit rate will be substantial. If these costs rise from $650,000, then the total costs will be $1,600,000 for $2,000,000 in sales. That will leave a net profit of $400,000, or 20 per cent of sales, or a gain of $35 each gain of $100 in sales.

EXAMPLE DOWN THE STREET
If that example seems complicated (and your reporter has been called the James Joyce of business commentators), let's take one nearer home. At the corner of many blocks in America are "papa and mama" food stores, where you get a smile and a smidgen of credit, if not low prices. Let's suppose one of these stores takes in $1,000 a week, operating on an average margin of 20 per cent. That's $200 for supplies and $100 more for rent, utilities, operating taxes, and other operating expenses, leaving $100 for the owners' profit and labor. Suppose the owners find that by staying open an hour later each evening (or by being friendlier with customers), they can increase sales by $250 a week. Operating costs rise but little—perhaps a few cents more for utilities and bags. On a 20 per cent average margin, the net income has increased 50 per cent, less, of course, the slight added expense.

Opinions In Brief

SULLIVAN, IND., UNION: "While the farm situation will continue as a political question, it is not expected to be an over-riding issue because of the slow but steady rise in farm prices, and the belief the index will be even better in late October. United States Department of Agriculture officials pointed to hog prices, the precipitous slip in which was a major cause of farm unrest a few months ago, as now being upwards of 60 per cent above December 1955 low point."

Bark Worse Than Bite On Business Question

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — "Why are the prominent Democrats so hostile to business?" asks Mrs. T.F. of White Plains, N.Y. "I refer to Stevenson, Kefauver, Truman, Harriman, Mayor Wagner and others too numerous to mention. How would they change the government's policy toward business and industry, if they get into office?"

DEMOCRATS' BARK AT BUSINESS—Answer: The Democrats' bark against business is worse than their bite would be, if they obtained control of the government, with the possible exception of Harry S. Truman. I think he almost believes in his jeremiads against the malevolent men of Wall Street, although he has a heavy stake in the nation's system of private enterprise as a relatively wealthy man. Stevenson and Harriman, I should note, are reputed to be millionaires, and their income depends upon profits. Mayor Wagner has a fairly large fortune by inheritance. If they ever succeeded in carrying out the anti-business policies in office, they would be bankrupt in a short time. Business and industry could not survive for long under the system of spending and taxation which they propose in their campaign speeches.

DANGEROUS IDEAS Although many of Stevenson's labor and radical backers have favored a semi-socialist state, in which the government assumes full responsibility for every individual's welfare, I doubt if the well-fixed Chicago lawyer would tamper with business and industry to the extent which he outlines. He would not dare because (1) he would bring on another depression, and (2) it would damage the Democrats as the 1929 crash exiled the GOP for 20 years.

EUROPEAN UNION "You recently wrote," notes F. L. of Houston, Tex., "that Britain and France are thinking more seriously of a 'United States of Europe' because of their disagreement with us over the Suez Canal trouble. You said that such an organization might be 'injurious to our interests.' It has been my impression that President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles favored and advocated such a union. Can you explain?" Answer: The Eisenhower Administration has urged the NATO nations to form a more integrated political and economic organization. The President and the Secretary of State think that it would strengthen and unite our continental allies against the Russian threat in that area and elsewhere. It would, in a sense, be another brick in the common anti-Communist wall. A "THIRD FORCE" But the kind of unity which the British and French now have in mind, and largely in Egypt and the Middle East, and the Far East, would not be what Washington envisages or wants. It would be a sort of "third force" operating between the Soviet Union and the United States. It would be an effort to keep Western Europe from being squeezed and subordinated by Moscow and Washington. While not hostile to us, it would be more or less neutral and independent. Economically, it might be injurious to us. If the European members of NATO reduce tariffs and other obstacles to trade among themselves, and do not extend the same benefits to us, they would be erecting a barrier against American goods. In fact, such a system would be a reciprocal trade system which Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower have tried to create.

Books & Stuff

By DR. ED HIRSHBERG
Two new southern novelists have just moved into prominence—in the literary world, that is—with books about modern life in the South, dealing with today's people and today's problems, which is something refreshing and unusual for southern writers to be doing. Elizabeth Spencer's "The Voice at the Back Door" is about what happens in Winfield County, Miss., when a new, young and "liberal" sheriff takes over, assuming, for good or evil, that he can stop bootlegging and administer equal justice to white and Negro alike. . . . The other novel is about a young Negro who goes to Washington to study medicine financed by white friends and the G.I. Bill of Rights. It's called "Memphis Jackson's Son" and was written by Mary Beachwood. . . .

HIRSHBERG

And an old timer in the writing business has taken a southern subject that you might have heard of, and made yet another novel—F. van Wyck Mason, in his new, "Our Valiant Few," re-creates, according to the publisher's blurb, "the desperate days when the Confederate Navy struggled so heroically to break the Union blockade—an epic romance from the hands of a master!" . . . The South certainly seems to be supplying plenty of people with plenty to say, these days.

The Guild
From the Literary Guild comes news that their choice for December will be "Stories to Remember," a two-volume collection containing six novels and more than thirty short stories. It's edited by Thomas Costain and John Beecroft, who say that the purpose of their anthology "is to present a collection of stories which will according to the nature of each engross, excite, mystify, please, amuse, charm or satisfy our readers from the front cover of the first volume to the back page of the second." Quite an order, no?

The Fountain Overflows
In January the Guild's choice will be "The Fountain Overflows," Rebecca West's first novel. In twenty years, some of you may remember this column's review of Miss West's "A Train of Powder" a few years back. She's considered one of the most distinguished woman writers of this generation—we approve of the Guild for taking up with her. . . .

For the Birds
We have an extraordinary story from Macmillan about the stationary beacon light atop the Empire State Building in New York. It was put out on September 1 and wasn't put on again until November 1, because each autumn hundreds of birds, attracted by the light, have been crashing against the building, which is said to be located on a migratory route where birds fly south from Canada, New England and N. Y. You'd think they'd have more sense, but that's what they've been doing. And if you want to learn more about the migratory habits of animals, get hold of "The Great Migrations," by Georges Blond, coming out Nov. 13.

On Ballet
With all the ballet dancing being taught in Greenville these days, we'd like to call your attention to a brand new book called "Ballet Technique," by Tamara Karsavina, who is a retired ballerina with many years of professional experience. She discusses fundamental technical and artistic problems in dancing, and shows how the problems can be corrected by the teacher of ballet who knows her business.

The Local Scene
Jeffrey Lynn has arrived safely and now is practicing with all the E.C.C. boys and girls who have parts in "State of the Union," being put on at McGinnis Auditorium as part of the College Entertainment Series on the evenings of October 30-31 and Nov. 1 and 2—that's next week Tuesday through Friday. Tickets are obtainable for all performances at the box-office, we understand. . . . And then a week or so later, on Nov. 12 and 13, comes "My Sister Eileen" on the same stage, starring local celebrities only—such as Lucia Hutchins, Lois Garren and Dr. Luciano L'Abate. . . . And at a local cinema, "Bus Stop," with Mrs. Henry Miller, otherwise known as Marilyn Monroe. We present here with a review of the play, a Fire-side Theatre selection, contributed by Dr. Martha Pingel of the College English Department. . . .

BUS STOP by William Inge New York: Random House, Fire-side Theatre Edition.
It is more than likely that all of us have ridden on a bus. Most of us have probably stopped at a sub-station very much like the one which serves as the background for the play.
In any case, the familiarity of the scene and the warmth and naturalness of the characters we meet in the play, account for its overwhelming appeal to most people.
The scene of the story is a small town restaurant, a stopping off place for the bus on its regular run between Kansas City and points west. As the story opens, the bus is temporarily stranded because of a freak March snowfall. Grace, the wisecracking blond proprietor, and Elma, the loveliest schoolgirl who works for her, lend stability to the changeable nature of the other characters, chief of whom are Cherie (played by Marilyn Monroe in the movie version) and Bo Decker, the explosive, rugged cowboy who woos her. "Bus Stop" is the story of their romance, although the play contains minor stories about Grace and her bus driver, the poetry quoting professor who no longer seems to "belong" anywhere, and Virgil, Bo's friend, who advises Bo on how to get along with women—Cherie in particular. Words cannot describe how colorful a play "Bus Stop" is; it should be read, and above all, seen, to be appreciated.

Waikiki Getting Surf Board Jam
HONOLULU (AP)—Ever see a surf board traffic jam? The Board of Harbor Commissioners says the beach at Waikiki is becoming one big jumble of surf boards and swimmers daily, and it wants the authority to do something about it.
The harbor board now controls the water only to the high water mark. Board officials have asked the governor to extend their control over the beach area as well so they can limit—or, at least regulate—the surf board riders.
The board said it would also like to control the number of beginners taking up the sport—so many of them fall off and their unaccompanied boards are becoming hazards.
Hibernation by certain birds is merely a mechanism for conserving energy, reports a group of University of California zoologists.

Cost Of Living Taking On Triple Significance
NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of living has a triple significance today. Since it started rising last March after a long period of moving side-wise it quickly became a table topic in many a home. The cost of living index means much to millions of workers because their pay scales are tied to its up-and-down movements. But today the index especially interests the politicians. They hope to make some last-minute hay out of it.
The index is actually the Bureau of Labor Statistics' consumer price index, but popularly it is accepted as measuring trends in the cost of living.
It has been widely assailed by critics who doubt if it reflects accurately the cost of living for most folk, or if it is authoritative enough for wage scales to depend upon it. Some complain that on its list of items supposedly purchased by middle income city dwellers are many luxuries and goods bought sparingly, if at all, by many families.
Critics claim the index uses list prices instead of discount or bar-

Just Can't Understand Fuss Over New Baby: It's A Boy

MANTOWOC, Wis. (AP)—Mathew and Julietta Wagner can't understand why anyone should make a fuss over the fact that their new baby is the 13th son in an all-boy family.
Newsmen who called at their big, two-story farm house southwest of the city limits since the birth of 11 1/2-pound Paul Amos last Saturday have come away without much information about the family.
The Wagners have let it be known that publicity is distasteful to them. After the birth of their 12th son, Raymond, a little over two years ago, the family came in for quite a bit of attention in the press and radio. Wagner said it brought a few "crank" letters, and some "ribbing" which he said was particularly unpleasant to the two oldest boys who are in high school.

"Anyway," Wagner said, "this isn't important. But if it had been a girl—" he didn't finish the sentence.
Mrs. Wagner, 41, came home from the hospital when the baby was 5 days old. She began at once to help the older children with the cooking and other household chores, which they handled in her absence.
The parents insisted they had seen a family of 13 sons, no girls, on a television program recently. They couldn't remember the family name or other details.

"So you see," said Wagner, "all we've probably done is tie the record."
The Wagners' eldest son is Peter, 17, a senior in high school. Then comes Mathew Jr., 15, a high school sophomore, followed by Thomas, 13; Anthony, 12; Charles, 11; John, 9; Michael, 8; Nicholas, 7; Richard, 6; Phillip, 5; Joseph, 3; Raymond, 2; and the newest arrival, Paul Amos.
Wagner has a 38-acre farm and the work, he said, "gets done" because "everyone cooperates."

Patriots Adopt New Resolutions

The Pitt County Branch of the Patriots of North Carolina, Inc., in its regular meeting here in Greenville last week, officially adopted observations on the incidence of bastardy in Pitt County and formally proposed legislative measures.

The Patriots commented that the controversy over segregation has brought to light the amazing fact that 20% or more of our Pitt County Negro population is illegitimate and there are no indications that the tendency in this direction is lessening. This naked and unpalatable fact is a terrible indictment of the moral standards of a large segment of the population of Pitt County.

At the meeting last week they proposed the following legislation:

- In order to qualify for public assistance for herself, any woman under the age of 60 years who has given birth to as many as two illegitimate children must first submit to sterilization.
- Any man who has been convicted twice of the willful failure to support an illegitimate child or his illegitimate children shall pay a fine of not less than $500 or be imprisoned for not less than two years. No court shall have the power to remit the fine or lessen the period of imprisonment.

Reader Increase Slow In Library

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The City Library Department complains that while it has gone about greatly increasing facilities, the number of readers has gained only a trickle. The number of libraries increased from 52 to 133 in the decade ending in 1955, while only 7,000 more readers used them, according to the department's records.

Kiwanis Accept Nominations

The Greenville Kiwanis Club at its weekly supper meeting last night unanimously approved a slate of officers and directors for next year submitted by the Nominating Committee.

Charles E. Blair, manager of Blount-Harvey's Department Store, is the only candidate for president. Candidates for vice-president are Dixie McGlohon, Dr. Stephen R. Bartlett, Jr., and H. Franklin Steinbeck. One is to be elected.

Candidates for directors are Bill Corbett, Ed E. Rawl, Jr., Charles P. Gaskins, "Scrap" Proctor, Bill Moore, Dick Forrest, Clyde Hollowell and Jimmie Lanier. Four directors are to be elected. The four hold-over directors are D. A. Blue, W. Riley Cox, Robert L. Elks and Raymond W. Lowe. The board of directors elects the secretary and treasurer.

President Ed Waldrop presided. New officials will be elected next Friday night. They will be installed at the first meeting in January by Lt. Governor John T. Barnhill of Greenville.

The delegates to the recent Carolina's Kiwanis District convention in Charleston, N. C., made their report and felicitated President Ed Waldrop for his influence in having M. E. Gambrill of Henderson elected governor of the Carolina's Kiwanis District.

The Kiwanis Club's officers and directors will be supper guests of Raymond W. Lowe next Thursday night at 6:30.

Reverend Turpin is director of Christian Education for the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church. In connection with those duties, he will conduct a special youth service next Friday night and a special Sunday School service next Saturday night.

The public is invited to attend the revival.

Florida Highways To Blossom Out

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Florida highways soon are to blossom with added color which is supposed to keep tourists from getting lost.

Principal highways will have their own, distinctive marker colors so it'll be harder to lose them at busy intersections.

For example, U. S. highway 27, if first route to be marked, will have its black and white markers replaced by green ones to be put up every 2 1/2 miles from the Georgia line to Miami. U. S. highway I will have red markers and so on.

Exchange Hears Musical Program

The Greenville Exchange Club at its weekly supper meeting at the Women's Club last night had a musical program presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ned Kinsall, Mrs. Ruth Arnold and Barney Brand of Farmville. Jake Hadley had charge of the program.

Mrs. Kinsall sang, with Mrs. Ruth Arnold as accompanist at the piano, and Bland gave a humorous reading, "That Ol' Hound Dog."

Ladies Night Chairman John Leaton reported and Youth Activities Committee Chairman Jimmy Wells distributed programs for the annual Midget football game which will be played at College Stadium on Halloween Night. The Exchange Club and the Recreation Commission sponsor the midget gridiron contest each year.

Dr. Ray Minger, chairman of the Membership Committee, inducted W. G. (Billy) Norman as a member.

President Jack Wallace presided over the meeting and a brief session of the Board of Control.

Little Named As Campaign Leader

Robert G. Little has been named area chairman of the Grimesland, Simpson and Chicod communities for the Mental Health Association's fund campaign.

Appointment of the prominent farmer and lumber dealer was made today by Dr. Ray D. Minger, drive chairman. Little is a member of the Board of County Commissioners and an active lay member of the Salem Methodist Church.

Local Woman Has Sea Shells From All Over The World

During Past Ten Years She Has Collected Over 100,000

By NEIL KING Reflector Staff Writer

There are over 100,000 known species of sea shells.

Mrs. L. A. Stroud of 410 West 5th Street has one hundredth of the known species in her home and over 100,000 shells belonging to 1,000 species.

Each shell is numbered, cataloged and classified according to its species. The patterns of the shells owned by Mrs. Stroud differ greatly, from the flat limpets, which have no spire, to the worm shell, which is rolled into a simple long tube.

Her largest shell, although not the largest, which is the Giant shells are univalves such as the Clam weighing in the hundreds of pounds and from four to five feet across, is the Giant Band. The Band measures about a foot in length. Her smallest can scarcely be seen.

Mrs. Stroud, who has been collecting shells for the past ten years, says her favorite shell is one with a "mended fracture." A shell with a "mended fracture" is one that has been injured and has healed itself. Within a few hours a film has covered the inside of the wound and within a week or two the shell is again hard. The fracture always shows on the outside, but the inside is perfectly smooth.

Seventy-five per cent of sea shells are univalves such as the clam. She used to pick up sea shells when she was a child, but her interest was really sparked about 10 years ago down in Florida. "I was walking along a beach," she recalls, "when I began to wonder how many different kinds of shells I could find. That's how it started. I picked up a few beach-worn shells. They were my first, but now I have shells from all parts of the world. Of course, I've purchased most of them because I've been unable to travel. It's a wonderful way to travel world-wide—through the medium of shells."

The prices of shells are determined not by size, shape or color, but by scarcity. Also, you cannot tell their age by their size, but by their growth rings. Shell sizes are determined by the amount of food they take in.

The most vicious shell is called the King's Crown, which is from one to three inches in length. It can defeat any other shell in battle save the Giant Band which is many times larger. It's crown is shaped like the crown of a king and it sneaks up behind a shell and bores the crown into the unsuspecting victim's muscle, rendering it helpless.

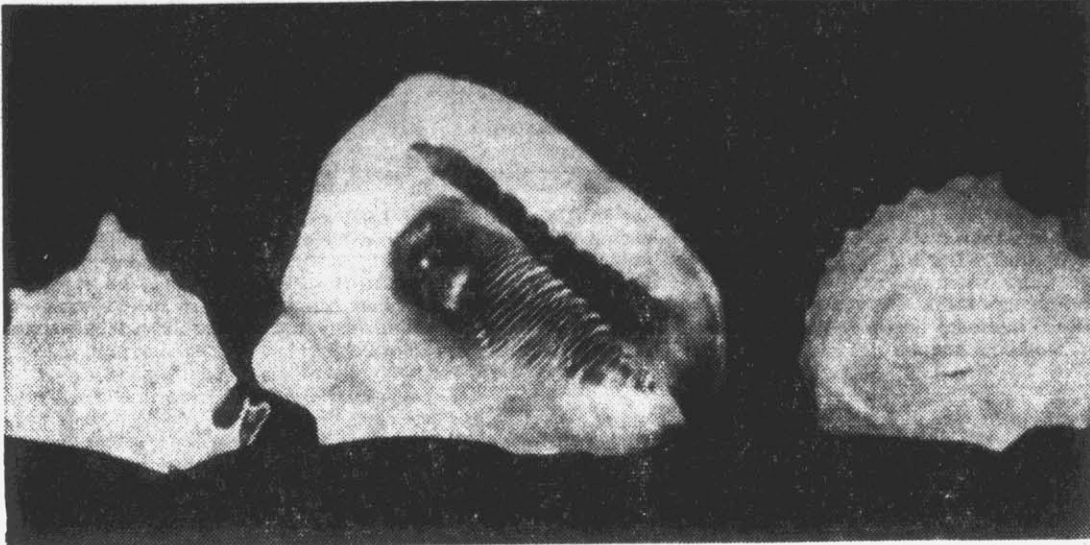

Mrs. Stroud has on hand a few of the near 150 species of Murex shells. In olden days, the Tyrian Royal Purple dyes were obtained from certain of these species, but the Carrier Shell is perhaps the most interesting. This shell picks up and cements to its body dead shells. Authorities surmise they do it for camouflage, although they are not positive. Then there is Venus's Comb. It is said that the Grecian Goddess of Love, Venus, combed her hair with this type of shell. Not to be overlooked is the famed Chambered Nautilus. The Nautilus is the last of its particular species to carry a shell. It is a cousin to the octopus. Scientists say that in a few thousand years the Nautilus will throw off its Chamber as did the octopus in long years past. The Nautilus is one of around 400 of its kind that once had a shell for a home. They all roam the seas free now, except for the "Aristocrat" of the shells, as the Nautilus is known. Someday in the future it too will roam free.

It is most interesting to note that all shells use the same materials to shape and color themselves with, yet some manufacture every color and shade imaginable. Today, the shell industry is one of the world's largest. Practically everything in shells is sold, from the large Oriental Pearl at $10,000 down to the Button Shells from which garment buttons are made. "Since I have started collecting shells," related Mrs. Stroud, "I have formed many friendships, especially people who are also interested. I may happen to pick up a certain shell and immediately I remember a friend who perhaps gave or recommended it to me, such as this one." She picked up a shell, showed it to me and said a Florida night club owner gave it to her. Mrs. Stroud not only receives shells, but gives them away also. She has three in the Smithsonian Institute in Washington.

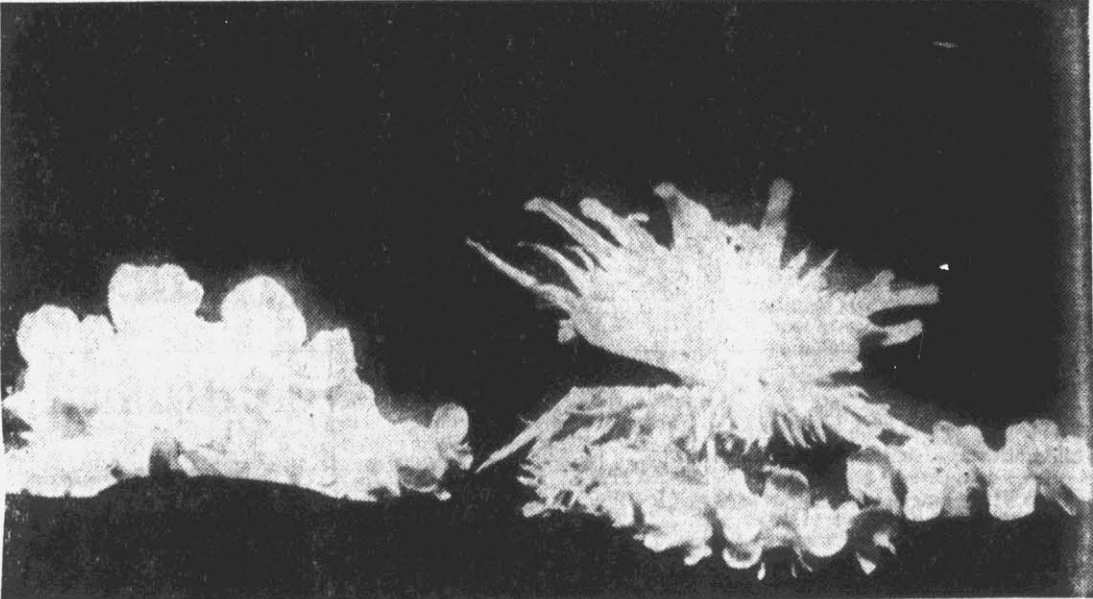

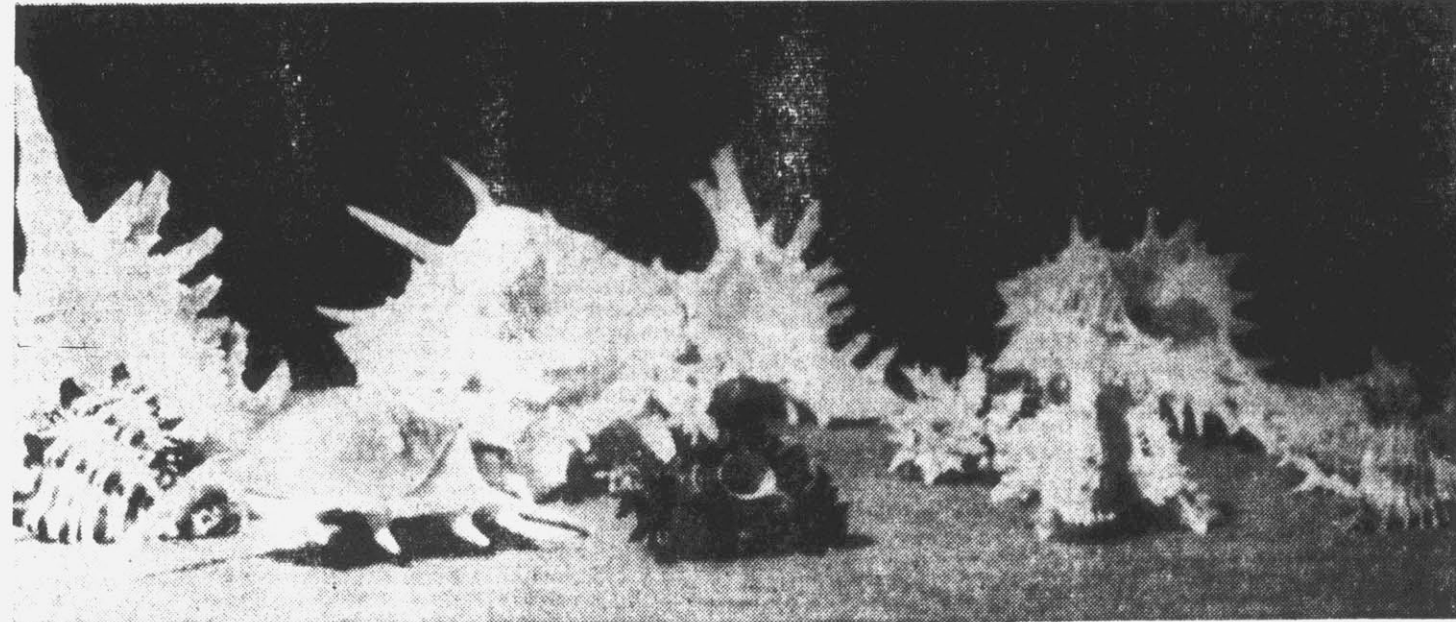

Her favorite shells, she admits, is the deadly, but beautiful Geographus and Textile Cones. They range in size from one to three inches and are quite scarce; hence rather expensive. They display snake-like fangs and the venom their bodies secrete thru these hollow tubes can be fatal to man. It may be surprising to you, as it was to me, to learn that shells are not only used for hobbies and to decorate, but in some South Sea Islands and even in some interior parts of Africa, they are used as money. Shells are Mrs. Stroud's hobby. Of the trillions of shells in the seas of the world, she has one hundred thousand, all beautiful.

Khrushchev Pictured: Man Trying To Recognize Facts

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON — Russia lost her absolute control of world communism before Stalin died in 1953, when Marshal Tito broke away in 1948, and thrived, and the Red Chinese took over China one year later.

Nikita Khrushchev, Red party boss in Russia, and the other heirs of Stalin are being pointed to now as the men who let Russia's iron grip on the satellites slip away.

But when Khrushchev last February, in his speech downgrading Stalin, conceded there are various roads to socialism he was only recognizing a reality and trying to make the best of a depleted inheritance.

This was the reality: The 200 million Russians couldn't hope to make a satellite of the 500 million Chinese whose leaders had fought almost alone for more than 20 years. Tito's successful defiance of Russia was an incentive to others too.

After the example set by Tito and Red China, it was inevitable that sooner or later some of Russia's European satellites, all strongly nationalistic, should try to assert some independence.

As it turned out, the Poles and Hungarians have just made the try.

The irony for the new Kremlin is that—by encouraging nationalism in the non-Communist Middle East to wreck Western influence there—they fanned nationalism in their own satellites.

The events in Poland and Hungary were not identical. And for the time being their importance—in the sense of Russia losing her hold on the satellites—should not be overestimated.

In Poland the Polish Communist leadership decided—for reasons of its own—to proclaim its independence of Russia. One reason may have been to pacify the people's hatred of Russia and their discontent under communism.

But only yesterday the new Red Polish boss, Wladyslaw Gomulka, informed his countrymen Russian troops would remain in Poland as long as the West has military bases in West Germany.

That raises questions about the degree of independence achieved by the Polish Communist leaders.

The one fact that is clear is that Poland is still under communism.

It was different in Hungary, where the people revolted against both their Russian masters and their own Hungarian Communist regime. Russia used her troops to put down the riots and save the Hungarian Communist government.

The Hungarian uprising, no matter how temporary, is not a lost cause. Russian intrusion gives the Hungarians that much more reason to hate the Russians and communism with equal fervor, and revolt again.

But at least the events in Poland and Hungary—to look on the sunny side—may be the foot in the door for further breakaways from Russian control. The Russians certainly suffered a major disaster to this extent:

Their use of troops in Hungary makes a farce of their efforts to convince the neutral and underdeveloped countries that their intentions are unselfish or that their anticommunism is real.

Phantoms, Fuquay Springs Battle To 0-0 Deadlock

Defensive Squads Dominate Contest

FUQUAY SPRINGS—Two hard-working defensive teams battled to a 0-0 tie here last night, as Greenville and Fuquay Springs of defensive units batted their heads against stone walls.

Both Class AA teams, Greenville and Fuquay Springs entered the ball game with similar records and were expected to play similar ball, however, a tie was not looked for. With both squads having a crop of fine runners and offensive backfields, the 0-0 ending came as a surprise even to the coaches.

Close Line Play

For the most part the contest, a non-conference battle for each team was a battle of two evenly-matched lines. Both teams averaged about the same in weight and neither was able to show a definite advantage.

Greenville, unaccustomed to throwing the ball, despite the fine arm of quarterback Mack Roebuck, started out their end of offensive play with a rash of handoffs, pitchouts and quarterback sneaks—all of which gained but did not make much of a dent in the Fuquay line. Doing most of the running for the Phants in the early two quarters of play were Roebuck and halfback Billy Sermons, who was shifted to a fullback position for this particular match.

This shifting process which took place shortly before the game undoubtedly slowed down the Green's offense to some degree. Due to injuries and scholastic difficulties, the Greenville team lost three fullbacks during the past week and Coach Lewis' move to patch up the holes in his team included moving Sermons to a position which he hadn't played all season.

With Sermons and Charlie Smith running the fullback slot, Robert Howell and Johnny Arnold working at halfbacks and Roebuck at quarterback, the Green backfield was actually playing together for the first time in that pose.

Defensive Standouts

For the first three quarters, both the Fuquay and Greenville offenses hammered at each other with direct line plays, fullback bucks, handoffs and occasional end runs, all without avail. For the Phantoms, the defense contained the split T Fuquay attack well, stopping them often deep within Green territory. Both teams were forced to punt frequently and Fuquay gained an advantage in several longer kicks.

Outstanding for the Green on defense were Billy Cox, Edwin Wilkerson, Wade Jordan, Roy Martin, Kelly Barnhill and Barney Barrett. Billy Brown played a fine game at his guard slot. Johnny Arnold and Sermons intercepted passes to lead the Phantom defensive backfield play.

Greenville's longest offensive maneuver of the contest came in the third quarter when halfback Robert Howell broke away for a 45-yard punt to the Fuquay 15. The hosts held afterwards however, and Greenville was able to pick up only six yards in four tries.

In the final quarter, both teams showered the air with desperation passes, but in vain. The visiting Greenies failed to connect on a single throw and Fuquay's 54 yards passing failed to net a touchdown.

At the end of the game, Greenville had the ball on their own 37, still trying to move.

Outstanding for the Fuquay team were Bill Hubbell, senior quarterback and Luther Oliver. Hubbell intercepted two Phantom passes and did the damaging kicking for the hosts.

Next week, the Green will travel to Wilson for a non-conference battle.

Allen's Running Leads Farmville To 14-12 Win

Farmville high school dumped a visiting Windsor team by a narrow 14-12 score last night in a non-conference affair, that was played on a glistening wet field.

Coach Elbert Moye's gridders came through with a safety and two touchdowns to outscore the visitors and turned in a fine defensive show to wrap up the contest.

The safety was taken care of early in the first quarter, when a wild pass back from the center to a Windsor kicker went over his head and into the end zone for the automatic two points.

Windsor came back, however, in the second period, scoring on a 32-yard drive. Windsor halfback Perry carried over for the touchdown.

In the second half, Farmville's red-hot halfback Irving Allen broke away for a thrilling gallop from the 23 yard line and stepped out of bounds on the Windsor three. From there, quarterback Sonny Mall bulled over for Farmville's first touchdown.

Windsor pushed back still in the third period, as Austin grabbed the ball and traveled 60 yards from his own 40 for still another Windsor score.

The hosting Red Devils wrapped it up in the final quarter, as Allen zoomed off for another long run. The score was set up when Devil Billy Eason recovered a Windsor fumble on the Windsor 44 yard line. Allen took the ball on the next play and ran through the whole defensive team for the touchdown, making it 14-12.

Next week Farmville goes to Benvenue for a Coastal Conference tilt, their last game of the season.

Tennessee Scores

Traditionally, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Wake forest are always "up" for games against each other. The Tar Heels entered their game against Wake Forest a slight favorite while Duke rated a two-touchdown pick over the Wolfpack.

After losing four straight, North Carolina bounced back with a big 34-7 win over Maryland. Wake Forest captured its opening game, then dropped decisions to Virginia, Clemson and Maryland before managing a 14-14 tie with Florida State last week.

David Reed is back in the starting quarterback role for the Tar Heels. Coach Jim Tatum credited Reed's performance as a big factor in the win over Maryland.

Barnes has been outstanding in all of his games. His powerful running has been a bright spot in an otherwise dim showing by the slim Wake Forest squad.

Duke was expected to start with sophomore quarterback Bob Brodhead although Coach Bill Murray said he expected to use his ace, Sonny Jurgensen, more. Jurgensen has been bothered with a leg injury for four weeks.

Duke's leading rasher is fullback Hal McElhaney while State could counter with halfbacks Dick Hunter and Dick Christy. The Wolfpack also started with big John Szuchan at left tackle. Szuchan has received raves from opposing coaches for his play this season.

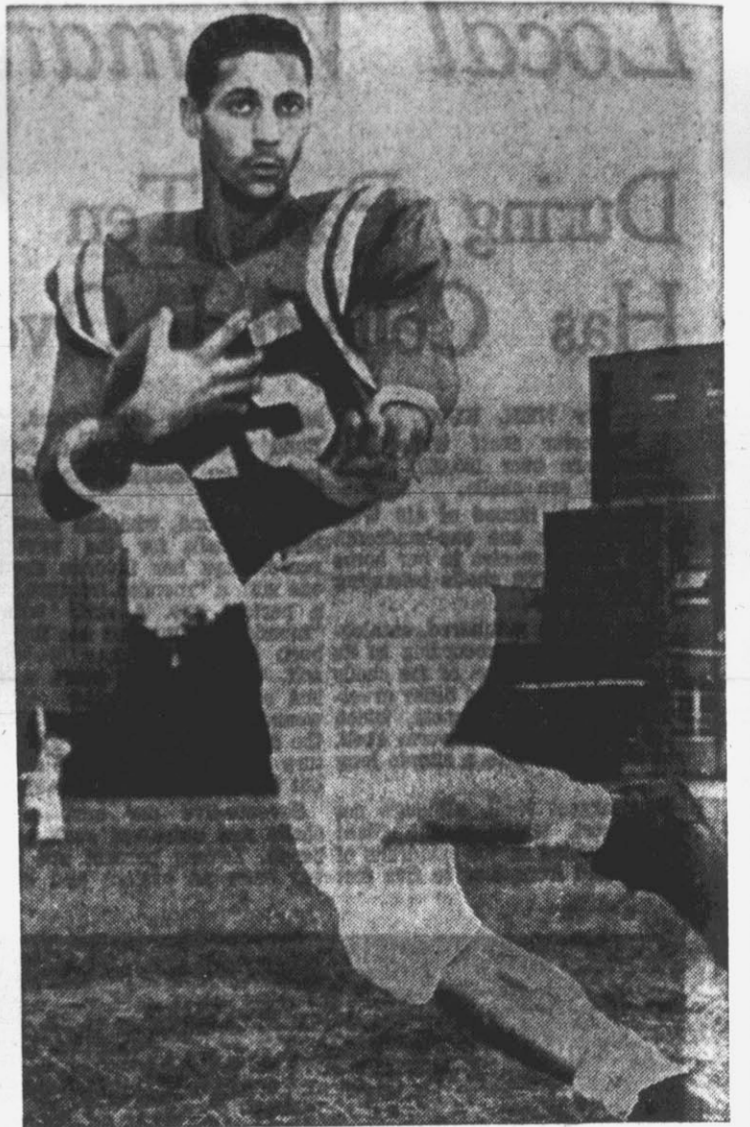

Stopping Tennessee's Johnny Majors appeared Maryland's biggest worry in that game at Knoxville. The Terps have won only one game over five this season while the powerful Vols are undefeated in four starts.

JAMES SPEIGHT—This chunky 170 pound halfback from Greenville, a sophomore at East Carolina, will be in the starting backfield for the Pirates tonight, when they tangle with Appalachian at Boone, in one of their most important tests of the season. Both he and Bobby Perry, another Greenville product, are expected to run first unit tonight.

KEN BURGESS—A third-season man with the Bucs, Burgess was a top high school griddy with Burlington and has become one of the Pirates' most aggressive guards, despite his comparatively small size. Ken stands 5-11 and weighs only 185 pounds. He is one of the fastest linemen in the North State loop and is being groomed for All-Loop honors.

INJUN JIM HENDERSON—Part Cherokee Indian, Jim Henderson will be doing quite a bit of running for the Bucs tonight at a halfback position. The 175 pound senior from Portsmouth, Va., has been a mainstay in the Pirate backfield for three years and is doing some of his best running in this, his final year. The fastest man on the team, he can run the 100 in less than 10 seconds. (Photos by Henry).

Whites, Golds Trounce Teams In Midget Loop

MIDGET STANDINGS

|----------------|---|---|---|

| Red Devils | 1 | 2 | 1 |
| Blue Devils | 0 | 4 | 0 |

In Midget football play this week two games were played with the Whites and the Golds winning handily over the Blues and the Reds respectively.

In Tuesday afternoon's battle between the Golds and the Reds, the former team trounced their opponents by a lopsided 28-0 score. The passing combination of James and Andresen proved too much for the Reds, as the Golds rammed over four touchdowns and a safety. James pitched to halfback Andresen, who passed to Aycock for the first score. Three successive James-to-Andresen passes scored three more touchdowns and the Gold defensive team added a safety for good measure.

Outstanding for the winners were James, Aycock, Andresen in the backfield and the whole Gold line.

For the Reds, Ken Joyner, quarterback, Donald Joyner, Jimmie Robards were outstanding.

47-0 Battle

In Thursday afternoon's battle, which turned out to be even more tremendous in scoring than the above, the Whites blasted the hapless Blues for a terrific 47-0 shellacking.

The Blues fumbled the ball on the opening kickoff, let the Whites recover and never seemed to be able to get out of the hole. The Whites scored almost at will, with Merwin scoring three times, McArthur once, Starling twice and Cozart once.

Needless to say, the White defensive and offensive line work was outstanding throughout the contest.

Six ACC Teams Battling For Records Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six Atlantic Coast Conference football teams took the field in four games today, each bent on salvaging waning prestige in what has been a long and laborious season.

The schedule includes two conference games, North Carolina State at Duke and Wake Forest at North Carolina, and two non-family affairs, Maryland at Tennessee and Virginia vs. VPI at Roanoke.

North Carolina, which won its first start of the season last week against Maryland, faced the prospect of having to stop fullback Bill Barnes, the ACC's leading scorer and probably one of the nation's best runners.

Traditionally, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Wake forest are always "up" for games against each other. The Tar Heels entered their game against Wake Forest a slight favorite while Duke rated a two-touchdown pick over the Wolfpack.

After losing four straight, North Carolina bounced back with a big 34-7 win over Maryland. Wake Forest captured its opening game, then dropped decisions to Virginia, Clemson and Maryland before managing a 14-14 tie with Florida State last week.

On the West Coast, the two big games pit Oregon State against UCLA and Southern California against Stanford, Southern California, UCLA and Washington all are ineligible for the Rose Bowl because of assorted rules infractions. The race for the Rose Bowl has developed into a Stanford-Oregon State battle.

Sooners Playing Big Seven Games Just For Fun

By ED CORRIGAN
The Associated Press

This is an off year in the Big Seven, meaning Oklahoma is playing its schedule for the fun of it.

The Sooners are ineligible for the Orange Bowl under a conference ruling that prohibits a team from playing there two years in a row. Bud Wilkinson's hordes make a hash of Maryland in last New Year's edition of the game.

The perennial also-rans, on the other hand, have a chance this year, and out of the scramble may emerge Colorado. The Buffaloes have four victories and no defeats in league competition. If they get by Nebraska today, they could set up the runner-up spot in the league.

One Big Seven team, Kansas, played yesterday. Kansas, the first team to score on Oklahoma last week, took the measure of Oklahoma A&M, 21-13, with Bob Marshall going 90 yards on a touchdown run.

George Washington defeated William and Mary, 16-14, to go into the Southern Conference lead and Denver turned back New Mexico 20-14, last night.

Oklahoma was a heavy choice over Notre Dame in the TV game of the week—NBC-2 p.m., EST. Whatever chances the Irish had in snapping Oklahoma's 34-game winning streak apparently evaporated in the face of quarterback Paul Hornung's injured thumb.

The Sooners, of course, want to run up a bigger margin than Michigan State's 47-14 decision over the Irish last week. By virtue of that pasting, the Spartans displaced Oklahoma as No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Michigan State appeared to have a clinch assignment against Illinois, while Georgia Tech, the other member of the Big Three of the nation, had no such sinecure in Tulane.

Victory Will Advance Bucs In NS Standings

BOONE—With one foot in the North State graveyard and a determined grasp on the slim possibility of gaining the loop championship, East Carolina tangles with Appalachian State tonight here.

The Pirates, boasting only a 2-1 league record, cannot afford to let tonight's contest slip through their fingers. A 2-2 record would bury them completely, so far as the crown is concerned. Lenoir Rhyne, the defending North State champ, is gliding along the crest of the loop with a 3-0 slate and Catawba is right behind with a 3-1 mark.

A victory tonight would put the Pirates in a second-place tie with Catawba, since the Indians are not playing a league game this week. Meanwhile, Lenoir Rhyne is meeting another non-loop foe in Emory and Henry, which serves to freeze things in ECC's favor. Among the top three teams, only East Carolina can make advancement during this weekend.

Key Men Out

Coach Jack Boone's team will take to the field tonight with several key players on the injured list. Freshman end Ruel Edwards, who had worked his way into a starting berth during the past two

Motorcycle Racer Fatally Injured

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Veteran motorcycle racer Chuck Basney was fatally injured last night when he crashed into a wall at Garden Stadium during a qualifying heat and then caromed back into the path of another racer.

Basney, 41, of Santa Ana, Calif., was run over by a cycle driven by Brad Andres, of San Diego, who suffered a broken leg.

Basney's wife, Dody, and son, Chuck, 14, were in the stands at the time. He also leaves a daughter, Rowena, 21.

Exterminator carried 132 pounds when he won the Laurel Handicap at the age of 7 in 1922.

Despite the injuries, East Carolina is rated a slight favorite over the Mountaineers.

Expected to be the starting backfield against the loop opponents, will be Gary Matlocks, at quarterback; James Speight and Bobby Perry at halfbacks; Bobby Gay at fullback. Others who will do much of the performing in the Pirate backfield will be Ralph Zehring at the signal-calling post, Jim Henderson and Tommy Nash at halfbacks and Bobby Maynard, George Slaughter and Bubba Matthews at fullback.

In the line, Larry Howell, Ray Pennington, Dick Monds, Ken Burgess, Jerry Brooks and Andy Faircloth are expected to be leaders.

Carolina Having Cage Difficulty

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—University of North Carolina basketball Coach Frank McGuire said yesterday two veterans have been dropped from the squad and a promising sophomore suspended from school.

McGuire said Bob Young, 6-6 center-forward of Queens, Long Island, N.Y., and Frank Goodwin of Belleville, N.J., a 6-2 guard, were dropped from the squad for "disciplinary" reasons. Both are seniors.

The sophomore, McGuire said, is Harvey Saiz of Brooklyn who was suspended from school because of "scholastic difficulties." Saiz, a guard, was the high scorer of the freshman team last year, scoring 413 points for a 21.7 average.

Goodwin did not play last year because of a broken back. Young was ineligible a part of last season. All three were expected to see service this year.

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK
HELP PREVENT CRIME
 KNOW YOUR ENDORSER! WHEN YOU CASH A CHECK, BE SURE THE PAYEE IS THE MAN YOU THINK HE IS.

DID YOU ENJOY YOUR BREAKFAST, SPEC?

NOW JIMMY'S GOING TO HIS NEWSPAPER AND I'M GOING TO MY JOB AT THE DETECTIVE BUREAU. YOU STAY WITH HILDA AND BE A GOOD GIRL.

WE WILL GET ALONG JUST FINE, YAH? THIS AFTERNOON WE GO TO THE PARK AND VISIT THE ZOO.

ONCE AGAIN, HONEY, BEFORE I GO, WHAT WAS THE NAME OF THE MAN WHO HELD YOUR HANDS WHEN THE GUN WAS FIRED?

"I" "V". JUST LIKE LAST NIGHT—SHE'S GIVING ONLY HIS INITIALS.

"I" "V". WERE THOSE JUST HIS INITIALS? IS THAT WHAT YOU'RE TRYING TO SAY?

SHAKES HER HEAD "NO". THEN, WHAT WAS HIS NAME?

"I" "V"—THERE IT GOES AGAIN.

I GIVE UP!

MEANWHILE, TRACY AND SAM CHECK A POST CARD FOUND AT THE FRONT DOOR OF THE VACATED APARTMENT.

IT'S ONE OF THE CARDS I SEND TO MY CUSTOMERS, NOTIFYING THEM THEIR REPAIR WORK IS COMPLETED.

A PENDANT WATCH, BROUGHT IN IN A COUPLE OF WEEKS AGO.

YEAH—OPEN THE CASE, SAM.

 HOW'D YOU LIKE A WEEK-END AT VEGAS?
 OH, I.V., I'D ADORE IT!

RUSTY RILEY by FRANK GODWIN

OKAY, KID, I ADMIT I HELD UP THE BANK... GET ME OUT OF THIS BEAR TRAP AND I'LL CUT YOU IN ON THE DOUGH... CHUCK ME THAT BLACK BAG!

THIS BAG?... JEEPERS, LOOK AT ALL THE MONEY!

SURE, KID... AND SOME OF IT'S YOURS... HURRY UP AND GET ME LOOSE AND I'LL MAKE A DEAL WITH YOU.

LOOKS LIKE I'M THE ONE TO MAKE THE DEAL, MISTER!

OKAY, KID... I'LL PLAY BALL... WHAT'LL YOU TAKE FOR YOUR CUT?

I'LL TAKE THIS!

THE TRAP GOT HIM BY THE SHOE, SO HE'S NOT IN PAIN... BUT I DON'T THINK HE CAN GET OUT OF IT!

GOLLY, I DON'T SEE THE BLAZE MARKS I MADE. I HOPE I'M GOING THE RIGHT WAY!

CONFUSED AND IN HASTE, RUSTY STEPS INTO QUICKSAND.

HELP!

MEANWHILE, ON THE NEAR-BY DIRT ROAD, TEX IS STOPPED.

THAT'S NOT HIM!

WE'RE LOOKING FOR A BANDIT WHO HELD UP A JACKSONVILLE BANK!

AND I'M LOOKING FOR A BOY WHO FELL OFF MY TRUCK ALONG HERE!

A MOMENT LATER RUSTY'S CRY DRIFTS FAINTLY FROM THE SWAMP.

HE-E-E-E!

Singer Offers Formula For Releasing Tension

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD — Gordon Macrae has his own prescription for release from nervous tension: Sing!

It's as simple as that. Forget the tranquilizers and self-help books. Just sing.

Macrae realizes his formula sounds revoltingly simple and even a little Pollyanna-ish. But he claims it has worked for him.

"I'll never forget one day when I was a kid. I was singing on my way home," he recalled. "My dad was on the porch and he heard me singing all the way down the block. He told me, 'Son, as long as you can sing like that, nothing can ever bother you.'

"I've always remembered that. When I work too hard and things start getting tense, I start singing. It seems to clear my mind and give me strength.

"Most people sing in the bathtub or the shower. Why? Because they feel good; they're getting a fresh, clean start on the day. If they would sing at other times too I think they could retain that attitude."

He cited his idol Bing Crosby as an example of the therapeutic value of song. One of Hollywood's most relaxed men, Bing is always bursting into song, largely for his own amusement. Another off-stage singer is Perry Como. You can't get much more relaxed than Perry and remain conscious.

But you don't need the vocal talent of a Crosby or Como, Macrae argued. Anybody can do it.

"The trouble is that we've gotten out of the habit of singing," he said. "I suppose that's because we have so much radio and television to listen to. There isn't enough quiet in the house to provide time to sing."

ECC Opens New TV Show Tomorrow On Channel 7

East Carolina College's new weekly television series "Impact" will begin Sunday, October 28, over Channel 7 at 2:30 p.m. Originating from Station WITN, Washington, N. C., the half-hour attraction will present each week a short feature of educational and entertainment value and a program of music.

Dr. John Navarra, faculty member of the department of science at the college, and a group of pupils from the city schools will appear on the initial telecast "Making Science Interesting to Young People." Dr. Navarra is author of several textbooks on science and of numerous articles dealing with the teaching of science in the elementary grades.

Sunday's program will be enhanced with a number of experiments planned to be of interest to both young people and adults and to illustrate some of the basic principles of science. Children participating in the telecast will be Greg Hardy, Brenda Mumford, Marc Christopher, and John Navarra Jr., fifth grade pupils in Greenville schools.

Music will be provided by a quartet representing the Baptist Student Union at East Carolina. They are Gerald and Sara Murphy, China Grave; Carolyn Masingill, Smithfield; and Perry Julian, Salisbury.

"Impact" will be continued Sunday, November 4, at the same hour with a program on "National Political Affairs" with Dr. W. E. Marshall of the East Carolina department of social studies as speaker. Student members of the East Carolina chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national honorary music organization for women, will appear in a group of songs.

Students of the department of health and physical education and their instructor, Nell Stallings of the East Carolina faculty, will give a program November 11 on "Bodily Mechanics," with emphasis on the idea of everyday activities as good exercise. Janelle Lovette of the cellist, accompanied by Ruth Graber, both of the college faculty, will play a group of selections.

Fat Girl Group Getting Bigger

MANCHESTER, Conn. (AP) — A group of women here is getting bigger as the women get smaller.

Seven overweight women who started Manchester's WATES (Women's Assn. to Enjoy Slimming) have grown to 260 women who brag they sloughed off two tons in the last 22 months.

Sixty of them will sweat off some more tonight when they present a musical show—"The 1956 Tons of Fun."

Council Accepts Resignation Of City Manager

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — H. W. (Doc) Zimmerman resigned as city manager last night after a city council meeting had discussed $1,350.42 of municipal funds.

Zimmerman, who had held the position since 1947, said he had repaid the amount. No warrant had been issued for him.

At a meeting of the council, after a considerable discussion, a motion was made and seconded that further consideration of the matter be postponed until the November meeting. The council then adjourned.

Within a few moments, Mayor Ed Cattel called a second meeting of the group. He announced that Zimmerman had submitted a letter tendering his resignation to take effect today. A motion to accept the resignation was approved unanimously.

Kanin Makes TV Debut With 'Born Yesterday'

By CHARLES MERCER
 NEW YORK (AP)—One of the interesting things about one of the better things available on television this weekend is the fact that Garson Kanin, author and director of "Born Yesterday," has chosen that Broadway success for his television debut.

"Born Yesterday," starring Mary Martin and Paul Douglas, will be seen on Hallmark Hall of Fame (NBC-TV) Sunday night in both color and black and white.

At this writing Kanin's status on the program—whether to be listed as director or producer—is up in the air. The Radio and Television Directors Guild says the director's credit should go to one of its members, George Schaefer. But whatever his title on the program, Kanin has been active in directing his work.

Kanin, a slight, mild-mannered, articulate man, is renowned as one of the most creative minds in the theater and motion pictures. Why, then, has he finally decided to try his talents in television?

"It's not a question of how one feels about television," he said. "Television is a fact upon us and those of us in the business of story-telling, the business of communicating ideas and entertainment, have to come to grips with it."

"One who has worked in the theater and motion pictures has adopted his own ways of doing things. Any new form is likely to throw you unless you throw it. There is no question in my mind but that one who writes or directs must come to grips with all methods of literary communication."

"I look like a middle-aged man, but I think of myself as a growing boy. That's why I am trying television."

Kanin hopes to do more television work—"the next time helping to create something specifically for the medium."

East Carolina Artist's Work Draws Praise

Work in ceramics by William Persick, faculty member of the department of art at East Carolina College, has recently received recognition through its inclusion in the Nineteenth National Ceramics Show at Syracuse University and the purchase of a bowl by the Columbus, Ohio, Gallery of Fine Arts for the permanent collection there.

Mr. Persick joined the East

Carolina faculty at the beginning of the fall quarter this year and is conducting classes in art appreciation and ceramics at the college. Examples of his work as painter and ceramist, now on display in the Joyner Memorial Library on the campus, make up part of an exhibition by members of the department of art.

A graduate of the University of Nebraska and Ohio State University, he has studied under Tom Sheffield, Carlton Atherton, Paul Bogaty, and Edgar Littlefield and has exhibited widely in competitive shows in the Midwest. His work is included in the collections at the University of Minnesota, the University of Nebraska, and elsewhere.

Two bowls by Mr. Persick are included in the ceramics show in Syracuse, N.Y., a regional exhibition sponsored by the Syracuse Museum of Art and made up of work by artists in the northeastern part of the country. The example of Mr. Persick's work purchased by the Columbus art gallery is a stoneware bowl entitled "Blue and Gray."
