Hungarian Government Calls For Free Voting As Fighting Slacks Up

VIENNA (AP)—Hungary's Red government virtually conceded complete victory to the revolutionary forces today and called on the nation to prepare for free elections. Premier Imre Nagy announced the one-party Communist system has been abolished.

The Communist Premier told the nation he has called on the Soviet army command to begin immediate withdrawal of Soviet troops from revolt-torn Budapest.

Nagy proposed in a broadcast over Radio Budapest the formation of a coalition government—meaning one of several parties—similar to that established just after the end of World War II in 1945.

The Peasant party and a moderate party of farmers and businessmen called the Smallholders were among the most popular at that time.

The announcement was broadcast. Fighting slacked off at the Maria Teresia barracks, a rebel stronghold in a week of civil war. Insurgents who had held out against Soviet tank fire marched out defiantly this morning and announced they would not put down their arms until the Russians have left Budapest.

Five Soviet tanks were still parked about 500 yards from the barracks. The government-controlled radio had promised the Russians would start pulling back to their Hungarian bases "after insurgent forces start surrendering their arms."

Nagy, a veteran Red once imprisoned as a Titoist, reiterated a pledge that his government would start at the earliest possible moment to negotiate with the Soviet government for completion of the Hungarian rebellion by the Security Council last week.

Nagy's announcement was viewed as a desperate, last ditch bid to unite the nation behind his government and bring the rebellion to an end.

Immediately after Nagy spoke, Minister of State Affairs, Zoltan Tildy, one of the two non-Communists in the Cabinet, broadcast a demand that preparations start immediately for the holding of free elections in Hungary.

More Charges Made At Marine Training Site

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—A recruit has been fined and put in the brig for falsely accusing a drill instructor of mistreating him; a mess sergeant has been convicted on a charge of mistreating a dozen recruits; and four other recruit mistreatment cases are pending at this marine recruit training depot today.

Pvt. Lawrence L. Walsh, New York City, was sentenced to 25 days in the brig and a $30 fine by an Oct. 26 summary court-martial for falsely accusing a drill instructor of mistreating him.

Staff Sgt. Matthew McKeon was broken to private and sentenced to three months, as well as fined, as a result of a night disciplinary march on which six recruits drowned in Ribbon Creek last April.

Cpl. Richard J. Bille was broken to private and sentenced to two months on conviction of punching a recruit.

Three former drill instructors, Sgt. Alfred F. Schons, Sgt. Robert E. Larvie and Cpl. Edward H. Broadbent, will face a special court-martial in the next 10 days on charges of assault and violation of orders arising out of an incident at the attendant telephone center Sept. 16.

Schons, 22, of Muncie, Kan., is accused of having assaulted Pvt. James P. McAlister, Pensacola, Fla.; Donald E. Wiley of Baltimore, Md.; and Arnold K. Gray of Glen Burnie, Md.

Larvie, of Waterville, Mont., and Broadbent, of Cadiz, Ky., are accused of assaulting Gray in the off-duty incident. All the privates were recruits. Broadbent further is charged with breaking restriction Oct. 23 and with larceny of Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Staff Sgt. Bobby Humeston of Ottumwa, Iowa, is to be tried within a week by a special court-martial on charges he slapped or struck five recruits in his platoon last month.

Egyptian And Israeli Troops Clash As Major Powers Seek Cease Fire

Mid-West Trip Cancelled By Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today canceled his scheduled campaign trip to Dallas, Oklahoma City and Memphis tomorrow because of the Middle East crisis.

Eisenhower sent identical messages to directors who had arranged for his speeches in these states which supported him in 1952. The message said: "The turn of events yesterday leaves me no option—in the interests of working for peace—but to remain at the White House Wednesday to deal with the situation developing in the Middle East."

He said it was "with exceeding regret" that he canceled the talks. Press secretary James Hagerly, who announced the decision, said he did not know whether Eisenhower would be able to reschedule the visits before election day.

Also uncertain at the moment, Hagerly said, is whether Eisenhower will be able to keep his date in Philadelphia Thursday evening for a major address to be broadcast by radio and television at 9:30 p.m. EST.

It appeared this would be easier to fit into the suddenly disrupted campaign schedule, but Hagerly said "everything will be decided on a day-to-day basis."

Eisenhower got the news of the Israeli attack yesterday at the airport in Jacksonville, Fla., just after a campaign speech.

In that address he said America must remain militarily strong and at the same time must "give to our pursuit of peace our entire dedication."

He alluded to efforts in Poland and Hungary to throw off Soviet domination, and added: "At this particular stage of the world's history, where we see a proud people being trampled down by marching regiments, this is no time to stop perfecting our weapons."

That clearly was another crack at proposals by his Democratic rival for the presidency, Adlai E. Stevenson, that (1) the United States take the lead in seeking world agreement to ban hydrogen bomb testing, and (2) thought be given to ending the military draft under conditions consistent with national security.

Earlier—before word came of the Israeli move—Eisenhower told an audience in Miami, Fla., that America must muster its "full moral power" to "direct the purposes of all nations away from conflict—and toward concord" in the Middle East.

After receiving news of the Israeli thrust, Eisenhower flew to Richmond, Va., for his final campaign talk of the day. He told an airport crowd there the word from the Middle East was "not good."

Then he recalled that last weekend he sent two urgent messages to Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion cautioning against any action that would "endanger the peace."

In Richmond, he said the messages amounted to a "solemn warning" to the people of the Middle East that "America and the civilized world expect the peace to be kept."

Back in Washington in the early evening, Eisenhower went immediately into a 90-minute conference at the White House with his top military, intelligence and diplomatic advisers.

After that session Hagerly said in a statement authorized by the President that the United States "has pledged itself to assist the victim of any aggression in the Middle East" and "we shall honor our pledge."

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt and Israel received a stern warning from Britain and France today to cease fighting in the Sinai Peninsula. The Western Powers threatened to occupy key positions in the Suez Canal zone unless there is a cease-fire within 12 hours.

The announcement came as Egyptian and Israeli forces were clashing deep within the Sinai Peninsula, which Israel invaded west of the El Ajaa demilitarized zone.

Prime Minister Eden said Britain and France have asked both sides to keep their forces 10 miles away from the canal.

At the same time, the United States asked the U.N. Security Council to order Israel to withdraw immediately from Egyptian territory.

Egyptian President Nasser was reported to have ordered a general mobilization as the fighting looked more and more like war. Israeli troops were said to have taken place at El Themed, 30 miles inside Egypt from the Kuntilla jumpoff point, and against Israeli troops "before the Egyptian position at Qusama."

The communique claimed Egyptians were engaged in "mopping up operations in the Sinai Peninsula."

Tel Aviv military spokesmen announced that the Israeli air force also had gone into action and had attacked Egyptian convoys.

Earlier, neutral diplomats in Israel had expressed the fear that if the fighting got into the air it would tip the balance toward all-out war. The Egyptian air force lately has been reinforced by the arrival of Soviet jet fighters and bombers. The Israeli air force has French jets.

Israel's 1,800,000 population faced a blackout tonight. It was the Cairo newspaper Al-Messara, which reported Nasser had ordered general mobilization. There was no government confirmation.

Washington estimates are that 150,000 to 200,000 Israelis had been called up. Israel is believed capable of mobilizing an army of about 250,000.

Egypt, according to the estimates of outsiders, might be able to mobilize 500,000 men.

So far neither side had published any casualties in the fighting.

Big British Fleet Moving Into Area

LONDON (AP)—Britain sent a massive fleet churning through the eastern Mediterranean today and began emergency talks with the United States and France on the new fighting in the Middle East.

Both Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Mollet held special Cabinet meetings, and Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau arranged flights to London today to meet with Eden and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

Eden was expected to discuss the Middle East crisis in Parliament later today.

NC Supreme Court Opens Hearings In NAACP Case

RALEIGH (AP)—Arguments on whether two North Carolina laws apply to the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People were scheduled today before the State Supreme Court.

The case came to the high court on an appeal by the NAACP from a ruling in Wake Superior Court last March. Defendants in the action are Secretary of State Thad Eure and former Atty. Gen. W. B. Rodman Jr., now a Supreme Court associate justice.

The NAACP had asked the Superior Court for a declaratory judgment freeing it from requirements of two state statutes. One is a civil statute requiring a foreign corporation to domesticate before doing business in North Carolina. The other is a criminal law which requires a corporation principally engaged in influencing public opinion or legislation to register with the secretary of state.

The NAACP contended it does not do business in North Carolina and therefore should not come under the laws. However, the state filed a demurrer contending the two statutes were unrelated since one involved a criminal offense and the other a civil statute.

Judge Hamilton Hobgood upheld the state's demurrer and dismissed the action on the criminal statute. The NAACP was told to reframe its complaint.

FINE GIFT (AP)—Offenders appearing before Traffic Judge James O'Brien got the usual fine and lecture plus a "gift." The gift was a bumper tag for each offender's car. The tag proclaimed "Slow Down and Live."

10 Civilians Die In Cuban Revolt

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuban police shot dead 10 civilians they described as "insurrectionists" in a gunfight yesterday at the Haitian embassy, where the civilians had taken refuge.

A government announcement implicated the civilians in the assassination Sunday of Col. Antonio Blanco Rico, chief of Cuba's military intelligence. It said the civilians fled to the embassy after Blanco Rico was shot down outside a cafe.

After receiving a tip telephoned from the embassy, police surrounded the building in the fashionable Miramar section of Havana. The Haitian ambassador was absent from the embassy, and none of his staff was hurt.

Brig. Rafael Salas Canizares, chief of the national police, was seriously wounded in the gunfight. He was shot six times.

President Fulencio Batista accused exiled former President Carlos Prío Socarras and leaders of the Havana University Students Federation of ordering Blanco Rico's assassination. In Miami, Prío denied the charge.

Anderson has served as police chief at Charlotte and Winston-Salem, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, and state prisons director. He took over as head of the wildlife commission's law enforcement division on June 21, 1955.

Americans Move Out Of War Zone

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Fear of war in the Middle East today brought the hurried evacuation of hundreds of Americans from cities in the seething area.

Many poured into Beirut. Others arrived in Athens. They were expected to sit it out a few days to await developments following Israel's sudden strike into Egypt. If the border situation goes back to normal, many are likely to return to their foreign residences. Otherwise, they probably will move on to places outside the Middle East.

The U.S. State Department urged Americans in nonessential positions to get out of Israel, Syria, Jordan and Egypt. They have not yet been advised to leave Lebanon. There are some 8,000 Americans in the four countries.

Some 400 American women and children were moved into Beirut from Syria and Jordan. Mostly families of men with U.S. diplomatic and relief missions, they were rushed from those areas by planes and automobiles.

A group of 61 American citizens landed at Athens aboard a U.S. military transport from Tel Aviv. They are relatives of U.S. operations mission members. A second group was expected later today.

An authoritative American source in Athens said the U.S. Embassy there was asking the Greek government to allow the entry into Greece of 1,000 American evacuees. This source said the total number of Americans expected to be evacuated from the Middle East was estimated at 6,000.

Greece's support was closed to international traffic but U.S. authorities there pushed ahead with preparations to airlift American wives and children out of the Egyptian capital to Rome. Children and pregnant women were given first priority.

Ben James Of Williamston Named To Wildlife Post

RALEIGH (AP)—Ben H. James of Williamston will take over on Nov. 1 as chief law enforcement officer of the Wildlife Resources Commission.

He will succeed Walter F. Anderson, whose resignation to enter private business was announced yesterday by the commission.

James joined the Conservation and Development Department's game and inland fisheries division in 1947 and transferred to law enforcement work five years later. After several years work in industry during World War II, James came with the wildlife commission. He has been project leader of the eastern segment of the commission's big game management program.

He is a native of Martin County and a graduate of High Point College.

Anderson's resignation ended a career of more than 30 years in law enforcement work. He will take an executive position as local jobber for the Abundavita Corp. of America, a food supplement concern.

Appeals Conviction On New State Law

THOMASVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The owner of an unused refrigerator, in which a 4-year-old girl accidentally was trapped and suffocated, has appealed his six-month sentence and $500 fine imposed in Recorder's Court here yesterday.

Jack Everhart, 56-year-old, 400-pound apartment house operator, was sentenced by Judge L. Roy Hughes, who offered to suspend sentence if Everhart would pay the child's funeral expenses and meet certain other conditions.

Everhart was convicted by a six-man jury last Friday in the death of Alice C. Watson. The child's body was found Sept. 6 in the refrigerator which Everhart said had been left on his front porch awaiting repairs.

Everhart appealed his sentence to Superior Court, whose next term meets in November. Bond was set at $500.

Court officials believed it to be the first test of a law passed by the 1955 Legislature, making it a misdemeanor for any person to abandon, discard or allow to remain on his premises a refrigerator without first removing doors, hinges or latches.

That Everhart pay the dead girl's burial and funeral expenses and all other bills incidental to her death; that he have a monument costing not less than $100 erected at her grave; that he show compliance with the first two conditions in court Dec. 3; that he be on good behavior and violate no law for three years; that he pay all court costs; and that he set up a $500 fund for prizes to be paid high school students for safety essays.

At the trial, Mrs. Harry C. Watson, mother of the child, testified for the defense.

Rain Continues Into Sixth Day

Rain has been falling locally almost steadily for six days. Weather Observer Mrs. Leland Mizelle reported today.

The rainfall began last Thursday and skies have been overcast almost constantly since.

Mrs. Mizelle reported this morning that the rainfall for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. this morning was 6.9 of an inch.

She said the rains have been blowing rains which do not fully register on the Weather Bureau gauge. Last night, however, there was practically no wind most of the evening, thus the rain fell registered fully.

The Tar River stood at 6.12 foot level at 8 a.m. this morning and was steadily rising. The average depth of the river here is from three to five feet.

No Excitement Provided By Crowd

But the fiery temperament and unique personality of her advance notices did not quite come through in her performance of the title role of Bellini's "Norma."

Associated Press Arts Editor William G. Rogers found her voice "sweet and touching" but lacking in "opulence" and "undernourished"—"a bit less the dramatic soprano than had been imagined."

Others in the top-flight cast were Fedora Barbieri as Adalgisa, Mario del Monaco as Pollione and Cesare Siepi as Orvoso.

There probably never has been a more richly dressed opening night attendance—with velvets, satins and brocades, chinchillas

Metropolitan Opens 72nd Year

By HENRIETTA LEITH NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most opulent crowds in years, attracted by one of the most spectacular opera star buildups in years, saw the Metropolitan Opera begin its 72nd season last night.

It was the Met's biggest opening-night success financially, with seats sold out long in advance and a $75,500 take.

Yet neither the elegantly dressed audience from society, of fullblood and the arts nor the debut of fiery Maria Meneghini Callas provided quite the excitement that had been expected.

Mme. Callas, born in Manhattan but appearing for the first time in the city, had been the subject of more publicity than any new Met singer in a decade.

and minks, top hats and opera capes. A $150,000 collection of diamonds adorned one lady.

But it also was the least obstreperous audience, with the smallest proportion of publicity-seeking patrons, that the venerable opera house has had to contend with in years.

The glittering audience included Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney; dancer Vera Zornina; the former Margaret Truman and her husband, newspaperman Alvin Daniel; United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Mrs. Lodge, New Jersey Gov. Robert Meyner with Miss Helen Stevenson; actress Marlene Dietrich; singer Gladys Swarthout; and actress Katharine Cornell.

Because Of Rate Increase Negroes Threaten Bus Boycott

RALEIGH (AP)—The Utilities Commission was told today that a Negro boycott of Charlotte city buses will be organized unless the commission gives them a chance to be heard on a proposed rate increase.

The commission held a public hearing on the rate boost requested by the Charlotte City Coach Lines yesterday, and no opposition to the increase was heard at the hearing.

That's why Utilities Commission Chairman Stanley Winborne was puzzled at the telegram he received today signed with the name of T. W. Anderson, who identified himself as, director, "Report From Dixie."

The Charlotte bus firm has asked that the price of bus tickets be boosted from 5 for 50 cents to 7 for $1. Other fares would remain unchanged, including the 15 cents single cash fare.

The company told the commission it would be confronted with an operating deficit unless the increase, which would raise about $100,000 a year, were granted.

Winborne said the company had submitted its request to the Charlotte City Council which approved it.

He said the company offered testimony that Charlotte newspapers had carried articles on the proposed increase which gave the date of yesterday's hearing.

"I don't know why they didn't see it," he said. "I think everybody in Charlotte knew about it."

Winborne said he would discuss the telegram with other members of the commission.

The telegram read: "On behalf Charlotte Negroes—thousands—whose economy will not bear increased bus fares here and have had no opportunity to present their protest, request you to delay any decision on raising bus fare in Charlotte."

"We Negroes, who must bear brunt of such bitterly protest and demand hearing. Otherwise, we will organize boycott, I promise you."

Following the usual custom, it was decided that cigarettes would be sent to veterans in the hospitals for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, president, presided over the meeting attended by 27 members and one guest.

The auxiliary met with Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, Mrs. Walter Cherry acted as co-hostess and Mrs. Martha Forrest, Mrs. Quinn Bostic and Mrs. Richard Briley assisted.

She held many offices including that of unit secretary, treasurer and president, and was also district committee woman and a member of the executive board of the Department of North Carolina.

It was voted to contribute $10.00 to the building fund for the State Legion Building in Raleigh, in addition to former contributions.

This building will be dedicated next month.

Reports were given by some of the eight members who attended the Area Meeting in Tarboro and the five who attended the District Meeting in Washington.

Mrs. Ledyard Ross showed her color slides of a trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

AP Newsfeatures

NEATEST TRICK of the season in the sportswear lineup is outdoor clothing that's light as a feather yet warm enough for any winter sport. The secret is a thin "insular" lining that seals out cold, seals in warmth.

The new insulated garments include outfits for both men and women, in nylon, cotton poplin or a suede-like fabric. Women's coats come in various styles, from finger-tip length to shorter jackets.

Styles for men include nylon or poplin plaid jackets and a complete hunting outfit of hooded jacket and pants, all with insulated lining. There's also a vinyl hunting vest and an insulated vest warmer that can be worn under any coat. Some of these styles also are available in boys' sizes.

The new insulated lining is a development that resulted from experiments with insulated footwear designed to protect the feet of fighting men in Korea.

Roy Martin Jr. and Edmund Wilkinson of Greenville attended the state retreat of the North Carolina United Christian Youth Movement, October 27-28. The two-day state-wide meeting held in the Chapel of the Cross Episcopal Church, Chapel Hill, was represented by two youth delegates and one adult delegate from local UCYM Councils and supporting denominations across the state.

Miss Ann Adams of New Bern presided over the meeting planned for the consideration of the organizational status of the State Council of the UCYM. This inter-denominational movement has been led by a provisional committee, and past leaders and officers for some time. Miss Adams, a student at Duke University, has been chairman of that committee.

The assembly voted to re-organize the state council, which will be sponsored by the North Carolina Council of Churches of which the Rev. Morton R. Kurtz of Durham is executive director.

Miss Ann Parrott of Kinston was elected president of the new state council. Miss Parrott is a student at Duke University and is a member of the Gordon Street Christian Church in Kinston. John Conley of Black Mountain, a Presbyterian, was elected vice-president. Miss Shirlee Gaskins of Washington, a member of the Christian Church, was elected secretary. The new treasurer is Mark Rose of Winston-Salem and a member of the Methodist Church.

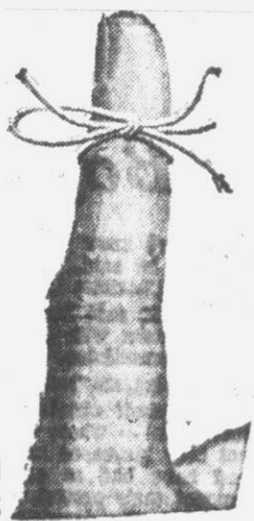

Meeting Cancelled
Announcement has been made by the city recreation department that the sub-teen square dancers will not meet tomorrow night due to the midweek football game. Members are urged to attend the game and to return to the recreation center for their usual meeting one week from tomorrow night.

'Make Home Bright With Light' Urges Home Office

By LOIS JONES
Assistant Home Agent

New light for your home— isn't that what you would like to have? Good lighting is essential for every room in a home. It contributes to beauty, comfort, convenience and most important to safety.

By safety we mean more than lighting that keeps you from falling down the stairs. By safety we mean conservation of eyesight.

Eyes are priceless—only one pair in a lifetime. Sight is by far the most important sense. Of the five senses through which all worldly contacts are made, sight alone is responsible for 87% of all impressions.

How We See
How does one see? Seeing is a partnership of light and sight. We see when light falls on an object or visual task and is reflected to the eyes. Both the eye and task is fixed and cannot be changed, therefore, this leaves only the light that can be controlled.

For example, take the familiar task of sewing or reading. Light from the lamp falls on the cloth or book, making sight possible as the light is reflected to the eyes.

Good Lighting
What is good lighting?

First we must have a quantity of light. The amount of light needed varies with the task—the more detailed the task, the more light is needed.

Second is quality. Diffused light that is free from harsh glare and annoying shadows—both direct and indirect—is needed. The third requirement of good lighting is proper distribution. This means having enough well-designed lamps and fixtures to distribute light over the whole room.

Finally, we need direction. Lamps must be properly selected and placed to direct light on the task or evenly in the room.

To meet these requirements of good lighting your home needs two types of lighting—general and local.

General and Local Lighting
General lighting is provided by the ceiling fixtures, open-top portable lamps or valances. Local lighting is provided by direct downward lighting from floor, table or special lamps. This type light is a supplement to general lighting.

There is a type, size and style of lighting fixture for every room in each home. Today you can choose lamps that are more attractive and more functional than ever before.

When shopping for lamps remember a well-designed lamp for the specific task should be of great importance in your selection. The height of a lamp will determine where it is to be used. The second factor determining the selection of lamps is the shade.

Shade Important Factor
The shade should be white inside to reflect rather than absorb the light. It should be of material dense enough to prevent glare and open-topped so that reflected upward light aids general lighting.

The top of the shade should be at least nine inches across. The shade should be wide enough at bottom to give generous spread of downward light. The bottom should be at least 16 inches across and should be at eye level and in line with bottom of the socket.

GIVES DEMONSTRATION—Pitt Assistant Home Agent Margaret Stevens gives pointers on selection of shades and bulbs in the above photo. "Make Your Home Bright With Light" has been the demonstration topic used throughout the county this month. Home demonstration club members have heard agents tell them, "Good lighting is worthwhile—vital to our way of life. It can add beauty in our homes, conveniences and comfort, safety and—most important—eye sight protection." (Reflector Staff Photo).

Expert Sketches Femme Fatale

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

How will American beauties accept their role, femme fatale 1952 fashion?

"It's not going to be easy," says Guy Nicolet, Paris representative and expert for Elizabeth Arden, now in America on a three-month lecture tour that will take him to Dallas, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Boston, New York and numbers of other cities.

"The new look is a crystal look," he says. "Makeup is pale, the rosebud mouth is pink, eyebrows are naturally heavy. American women, used to smearing their makeup on with a heavy hand, will have a difficult time coping with the idea."

Nicolet says the trouble with American makeup is that women either use nothing, looking washed out, or too much. There is no in-between he says. But that is true of dress also. He explains: "American women are spotted easily in Europe. They are always overly made-up and overly-dressed. At nine in the morning they wear cocktail dresses, furs, jewels, unlike European women who are content to wear simple daytime clothes and a minimum make-up."

Nicolet believes bad taste starts with our youth. Young girls, he says, have too much freedom in America. Parents are not severe, permitting dyed hair and heavy makeup and the emulation of movie stars to the heart's content of the Jeune Fille, ruining their good looks.

European women use makeup discreetly, so that one does not become "suspect of it," he says. They use a thin foundation and put most makeup emphasis on the eyes, which after all is a woman's most captivating area.

They take good care of their complexions, too, unlike American women, who soak up the sun until their skin looks like leather, then with the added burden of foundation cream, emphasize the lines caused by the sun.

"A 25-year-old girl looks old when she is sun-wrinkled. It is the most aging thing a woman can permit—too much sunshine on her face." The rage in Paris hairdos is the loose chignon popular 1910-1913, he says. It is worn at the crown of the head, a youthful hairdo that is catching on in America also.

"This hairdo must not look too studied though," Nicolet advises "it will be a mistake to lose the loose flowing effect of it."

Ivory skin with no rouge and a rose aura at the mouth will be the complexion look, he says. Heavy natural eyebrows will be popular, accomplished with grey eyebrow pencil for everyone but red heads. An eye liner may be used for that 1-4 inch mark at the corners of the eyelids, above and below. Kohl powder, the same as that used by Indian woman for that big-eyed look may be worn just above the bottom lashes to emphasize the eyes. He suggests grey-black or dark blue eyelash makeup.

Even though the up hairdo is popular for daytime wear, hair may be worn during the day in a simple style. Hair will be longer definitely, he says, although he will not go back to the "trailing hairdos of yesterday."

And About Criminal Dockets?

Conditions of dockets of Superior Courts throughout North Carolina should again be scrutinized before the 1957 General Assembly meets.

Two years ago the legislature, aware of the tremendous backlog of cases which jammed dockets throughout the state, authorized creation of additional judicial districts and the appointment of more judges. This action has greatly alleviated the situation which faced the Superior Courts. It did not, however, afford a final answer to the question.

Although more judges were authorized and more judicial districts were created, the legislature neglected to make provisions for additional district solicitors who are just as essential to trying criminal cases as the judges.

Chief Justice J. Wallace Winburne has said the legislature will be asked to take action which will provide "relief" for the heavy burden which has been thrust upon the State Supreme Court. From all indications this relief is needed. At the same time, it appears to us that additional relief is needed to make possible the disposition of more criminal cases on the Superior Court level.

In a number of counties—Pitt is one—it has been necessary for the county to appoint a special assistant to the solicitor to aid in preparation of Superior Court criminal cases. Because of the increased number of criminal terms in Superior Court, solicitors who have parts of several judicial districts do not have the time necessary to adequately prepare cases without assistance.

There is little to indicate the number of criminal cases handled by Superior Courts will decrease in the years ahead. Therefore if the system of solicitorial districts of the state remain as they are now, this temporary assistant solicitor system in individual counties will have to be continued and probably will spread to other counties. Even with this set-up, it is unlikely that the backlog of criminal cases can be kept at a reasonable level.

While the legislature considers "relief" for the Supreme Court, it likewise should consider revamping the solicitorial districts of the state to conform with the new judicial districts which were created two years ago.

Trick-Or-Treaters Have High Purpose This Year

Greenville residents will find a lot of trick-or-treaters at their doors Wednesday night as local children join the ghosts and goblins in celebrating Halloween.

Some of the youngsters will be looking for a piece of candy, an apple or a cookie. Many others, however, will be more serious about their trick-or-treating this year. They'll be thinking about the stomachs of children in foreign countries rather than their own.

Children of the churches of Greenville are joining in a nation-wide effort to raise money for needy children overseas on this Halloween. They will be knocking on doors and ringing doorbells all over town as on other Halloweens. This year, however, they'll have small money containers into which the householder can drop his contribution for the children's overseas relief fund.

Greenville's churches and others of Pitt County who are participating in this Halloween effort through the children are to be commended. It gives the children an outlet for their Halloween spirit, and at the same time gives them a truer insight to the real meaning of the eve of All Saints Day.

Candy and cookies in addition to a coin will not, of course, be refused if they happen to be handy.

Write In Votes Can Be Made In Election

BY LYNN NISBET
WRITE INS—Any voter who goes to the polls on November 6 can write in the name of a candidate for any office, whether any name for that office appears on the ballot or not, and his vote will be counted—except for President and Vice President of the United States.

The voter can write in names for these high offices, too, but under North Carolina statutes there is no way for them to be counted. That is because despite the presence of the names of presidential candidates on the ballot, actual votes for them are cast by presidential electors who have been nominated by recognized political parties and certified to the Secretary of State. Only the names of electors nominated by Democratic and Republican parties have been certified. Therefore no North Carolina vote can be counted for any candidates other than Stevenson-Kefauver, Eisenhower-Nixon.

Deadline for certifying electors of new political parties was August 1. No party other than the regular Democratic and Republican parties had qualified to that date. Last time any other parties had electors on the ticket in North Carolina was in 1948, when Progressive Henry Wallace and States Righter Strom Thurmond got scattered votes. Only time since the Civil War any candidate other than the Democratic nominee got majority of the popular vote in this state was in 1928, when Republican Hoover eased out Democratic Al Smith.

Writer in votes have proven conclusive in some other states, as in the South Carolina senatorial primary two years ago, but never in a statewide or district race in North Carolina. Ineffective as they might be, write ins will be counted for any office except the presidency.

INCONSISTENCY—The man was a bit upset after three or four terms in the Legislature and participation in political propaganda. As a Franklin Roosevelt New Dealer and a Harry Truman Fair Dealer, he was expected to endorse and enjoy Democratic publicity about the Republicans favoring big business and shifting tax burdens to the little folks. And he did.

What upset him was that just as he was reading that pleasing material in Democratic folders, somebody handed him a newspaper with a speculative story about the tax study commission planning to recommend substantial cuts in corporation taxes and make up the difference with new levies spread over more taxpayers. Looks like the Democratic administration in North Carolina is proposing to do just exactly what it is so vigorously criticizing the Republican national administration for doing, he said, make concessions to big folks and sock the little fellows harder.

At that point your reporter as he was reading that pleasing thinking and the man looked startled. "Good gosh," he exclaimed, "I forgot I was talking to a newspaper man. I've got nothing more to say now, and you'd better not write up this conversation. I'm saving my thunder for the Legislature."

Looks like proposed tax revision, along lines tentatively suggested, may not have entirely clear sailing next spring. Intimations have come from other sources that taxation problems facing the next session of the Legislature even more than in 1955 and prior years.

NEWSPAPERS—The Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, has produced a clever piece of propaganda. It is an accordion folder, illustrated with appropriate cartoons, and carrying this message, written by Arthur Brisbane:

"Daisies won't, but newspapers will tell you: What to wear and where to buy, whether prices are low or high; what to eat and what to drink, what to use in the kitchen sink. Who was married, who was born, who got pinched for a honking horn; where to bank and where to borrow; what stores are having sales tomorrow. Where to go for a restful cruise, what to rub on Johnny's bruise, what to put on the bedroom floor, where to buy that new screen door. Where to rent or buy a home, what does it cost to go to Rome, what books to read, shows to see, what to view on the new TV. How to sew and darn and knit, and what's the latest movie hit, where to pray and who will preach, what parents ought to learn and teach. Why to buy that brand new car, how to drop your score to par, whether stocks went up or down, when will the circus come to town. And so it goes—the list is legion, in every market, in every region; that's why people, young or old, enjoy the newspaper every day."

And that is why, adds the advertising bureau, that all advertisers invested three billion, eighty-seven million, eight hundred thousand dollars in newspapers in 1955—more than in TV, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.

As booted as a wet rooster the king mated half of them out the nest to produce something he could understand. They couldn't, and batch by batch, were banished. Finally the last economist stood before the ruler. "Your Majesty," he quavered, "I have reduced the subject of economics to a single sentence. In nine words I will reveal to you all the wisdom to be distilled from all the economists who once practiced in your realm: 'There ain't no such thing as a free lunch!'"

Other Editors Are Saying... Definition Of Economics

(Savannah Morning News)
Thomas D'Arcy Brophy, a New York advertising man, recently gave a definition of economics which is just as vividly true as it is amusing.

A certain fabled king was beset by the economic woes of his people. So he called in all the economists of the kingdom for advice. For all the world like bureaucrats in Washington, or ants in a stirred up bed, the brain boys went to work. Soon they showed up with volumes of graphs, charts and gobblegook.

The Long, Long Tails

By JIMMY ELLIS

A Big Day Coming Next Week

Next Tuesday will be a big day in the life of Gwen and me. We will participate in our first presidential election.

We're looking forward to the occasion, not that we believe so much that the fate of any one office will depend solely on our votes, but, rather, because it's an occasion we have been taught to respect. We have both been rather thoroughly schooled in its significance since the first time we asked our fathers what "election" was.

As might be suspected, Gwen and I have had our little discussions about the issues at stake, the candidates involved and the possible outcomes of the situations facing the American people. The outcome of all the discussions, if nothing else, is that we have at least an understanding of each other's ideas and we know that the other got the ideas through some thought and consideration.

We do not expect to cast our ballots as the best-informed voters in the country. We do expect to be better informed than some and a heck of a lot more enthusiastic than a lot of people we know. We both have rather definite ideas about which candidates we'll select but we also have a rather idealistic attitude and think that we're voting not for personalities but for platforms and ideals.

We regard this election business as a pretty serious thing. Perhaps it's because we're young—which is admitted—and haven't been behind the curtain enough times to get properly jaded about the whole affair. But, we hope and pray that we will never come to the place in life when we don't consider it important enough to take the few minutes necessary to cast one ballot for the idea that we think is right.

Much has been said about the voting situation in the United States. However, we think that one point is worth repeating: In 1952, approximately two-thirds of the eligible voters went to the polls. That was something of a record but it isn't very much to be proud of.

Australia regularly sends something like 95 per cent of its eligible voters to the polls and Great Britain usually hits around 90 per cent even on a bad day.

Seems to us that the United States could at least match those figures. After all, we have more cars, more baby-sitters, more maids, more paved streets and more paid political advertising than any other country. It shouldn't be too much trouble to send more people to the polls.

Notebook On Life

The Easy Way To Tell Women

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Some critics of this civilization say it is one in which men and women are getting too much alike.

There is no doubt the sexes are acting more alike every year as the result of modern woman's compulsion to share every right formerly held by man alone.

They talk alike—if anything men are a bit more interested in household topics, while women lean more to baseball and politics; and often dress alike, particularly in their leisure hours.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
UNDERGIRDING LIFE

A bridge over which I have driven for many years is being repaired. The other day as I drove across it, I noticed that new supports were being built under it. This no doubt was due to increased traffic and to the fact that particularly all traffic today is heavier than it was a decade ago and very much heavier than it was a generation ago.

It seems sometimes as life goes along, that the things we have to bear get heavier. It may be that we are worn down slightly, or that the years may be taking their toll, but it does seem sometimes that it is harder to bear up than in former years.

The two-pants suit may be out of date, but now that wives have discovered the comfort of slacks the two-pants family is right in style.

Worst of all, men and women are even beginning to look alike, most markedly in the younger generation. Only a teenager-to-day can look at another teenager and tell at a glance what gender it is.

Some pessimists say the similarity of the sexes has reached a point where half the time they can't be sure whether they're dealing with a man of a woman.

"It's particularly hard on picnics or a fishing trip," said one. "Then even grandmas dress like grandpas and nobody but their own kids could be sure which is which."

However, there is no reason yet to get hysterical. A careful impartial observer can always distinguish between the sexes.

Here are a few ways in which you can tell whether any human being is a man or woman, no matter what it wears, what it says, or how it cuts its hair:

If it goes through a revolving door without lifting an arm, it's a woman. If it does its fair share of pushing, it's a man. If in a poker game it says, "Cover your cards, dope, I can see them," it's a man. If it can see every card in your hand and keeps right on looking, it's a woman.

If paying its bills gives it a sense of security, it's a man. If running up bills gives it a feeling of freedom, it's a woman.

If it always offers you a cigar, it's a man. If it always is asking you for a cigarette, then waits for a light, it's a woman.

If it sees a fly buzzing in a spider's web and brushes the insect free, it's a man. If, instead, it waits to see how the spider operates its trap, it's a woman.

If it always takes the first seat offered by a restaurant headwaiter, it's a man. If it never ac-

Washington Senate Race Is Magazine Battle

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Senator Warren G. Magnuson's ownership of stock in a Seattle radio station is justified by two trade journals on the ground that "Everybody (in Congress and the Administration) is doing it." The two publications are Broadcasting and Variety, organs of the television and theatrical and movie fields, respectively.

In fact, the Magnuson-Lankile campaign has developed into a battle between magazines. Most of the accusations by Governor Arthur B. Langlie against his Democratic opponent are drawn from certain publications. Roving reporters of conservative sympathies describe the contest a sort of the "dirtiest" in the nation.

In attack Magnuson's 3.24 per cent of KIRO stock, estimated to be worth $40,000, Langlie charges there is a "conflict of interest" because the Senator is Chairman of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. This body has jurisdiction over legislation and appointments affecting the Federal Communications Commission, which has the power to grant or withhold radio and television licenses. CONGRESSMEN WITH TV OR RADIO HOLDINGS Under an article entitled "Politico Fingers in TV Pie," Variety lists the following Capitol Hill and White House figures as having a proprietary interest in radio and television firms.

William H. Jackson, special assistant to the President, KOTV in Tulsa; Howard Pyle, another White House aide, in KVAR in Phoenix and KVOA-TV in Tucson; Dillon Anderson, a national security adviser, in KTRK-TV in Houston; Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton in KHAS-TV in Hastings, Neb.

Although it is not a full list, here are a few of the prominent members of Congress with radio or TV holdings. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's wife, "Ladybird," in KTCB-TV in Austin, and WKTX-TV in Waco; Senator Robert S. Kerr in KOVA-TV in Tulsa; and WEEK-TV in Peoria, Ill.; Senator Clinton P. Anderson in KGGM-TV in Albuquerque; Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney in KFBC-TV in Cheyenne, and in KSTF-TV in Scott's Bluff, Neb.; and Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland in KKLX at Oakland.

The Magnuson holding has been injected into the Washington Senatorial struggle because KIRO now seeks a television license in Seattle. KIRO's principal owner is Saul Haas, important Democratic politician and former U.S. Collector of Customs. RIVALRY CHARGED POLITICAL INFLUENCE When rival applicants charged that Haas had used "political influence" to acquire KIRO in 1955, the FCC ordered a hearing on these complaints.

Although Examiner Thomas H. Donahue gave some credence to the charges, he approved KIRO as the outstanding applicant. His report had the approval of the FCC's Broadcasting Bureau. It was also brought out that a Treasury investigation had cleared Haas of any wrongdoing. During this hearing, Examiner

Price Is Same For Everyone

By ELMER ROESSNER

A woman may persuade her butcher to charge her less than he charges the woman next door. That's okay. But if her husband induces a supplier to charge his firm less than it charges a competitor, it's a Federal case.

Federal laws against price discrimination hold the buyer culpable if he is aware of the discrimination. The Federal Trade Commission has been active in enforcing this phase of the anti-trust laws, so much so that the Bulletin of the National Association of Purchasing Agents recently saw fit to warn buyers to take "reasonable and practical" precautions against getting their companies into a jam with the government. It was written by John W. Norwood, a distinguished authority on interstate commerce laws.

Judge Norwood pointed out that the government cannot crack down on a firm getting a favorable price unless the government can show the price was not justified by differences in cost, changing circumstances, sales by court order or discontinuance of a line, AND that the buyer knew the price was unjustified. KNOW IF IT'S LOADED

On that last point, Judge Norwood noted that just being dumb will get a purchasing agent nowhere—except, perhaps, into a Federal investigation. The courts have held that when a buyer "should have known" a price was discriminatory, violation of the law can be inferred. However, it is still up to the government to prove a buyer "should have known." Furthermore, one court ruled that the law did not prohibit "sturdy bargaining" between buyer and supplier.

To avoid law traps, Judge Norwood suggested eight precautions, which follow. Perhaps you would like to cut them out and paste them on the inside cover of your firm's book of requisition blanks.

1. Avoid submitting figures or statements to your supplier about his costs; let him submit data or a certificate to you if either thinks it is in order.

2. When specifying a desirable price, say "provided it can be justified."

3. See that suppliers' statements, if acted upon, justify, as far as you know, price differences because of costs or of other legal exceptions, or:

4. Be prepared to show you have been offered in "good faith" a lower price by a competitor about the better the price. SOMETIMES ASK SOMETIMES DON'T

5. Check the price difference you are receiving against any cost differences known to you and, if there is a substantial disparity, ask the seller to justify it.

6. Where quantities and services are the same to you as to your competitor, don't go to the trouble of finding what the latter is paying.

7. Where your lower price would not injure or lessen competition, as in the case of plant utilities, small quantities for processing, goods for a non-competitive field or use, and the like, you can buy at will.

8. Periodic checks should be made of purchases that are repeated over a considerable length of time because, even though justified in the beginning by cost differences or price meeting, those conditions may not continue indefinitely.

Opinions In Brief

FAIR QUESTIONS
A letter writer to the Wall Street Journal, Robert E. Bowyer, had something worthwhile to say about the bitter opposition of the major labor unions to the state right-to-work laws. "Do they (the unions) have so little sales appeal or so little to feel that they fear giving a worker the freedom of choice? Can I be true that the only way to keep old members and attract new ones is to use goon squads, special privilege laws and economic blackballing? Is their type of economic monopoly somewhat different from that forbidden other enterprises? Are unions above all moral and civil laws?"

It would be interesting if some union leader attempted to answer clearly and frankly those questions. None has yet.

Star Lynn Didn't Hesitate To Come

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Staff Writer
"You won't starve," was the answer I received from an actor friend of mine when I consulted him about a career on the stage. . . . "and I haven't!"

Jeffrey Lynn fulfilled his urge to follow the footlights shortly after he graduated from Bates College, Maine. This charming, well-known actor, who has appeared on the Broadway stage, on television, and in 25 motion pictures, arrived in Greenville last Monday.

"I usually hibernate the first few days after I begin a new script," he pointed out; so, "I haven't seen any of Greenville except from here to Five Points." Lynn went on to explain his theory that "A town is the people—I know of no other way to judge a place. The people at the college have been most hospitable and friendly."

He is staying at the Mamie J. Jenkins Alumni-Faculty Building on campus. After the play begins tonight, and Lynn has a little more free time, he plans to drive along the coast down to Hatteras and visit other interesting points nearby.

One of Eight
A native of Massachusetts, Lynn comes from a family of eight children. "No one else in my family is an actor—but me," he noted. His wife and two children, a boy and a girl, are now living in New York. His wife was formerly a fashion consultant for a leading newspaper and television network.

He was appearing in "Brother Rat" in Los Angeles when he contacted an MGM agent who gave him a series of tests. These tests were later seen by Warner Brothers and they signed him six months later. They changed his name from Lind to Lynn. Previously he changed his first name from Godfrey to Jeffrey. He made his film debut in "Four Daughters."

His favorite female opposite is Betty Davis with whom he costarred in "All This and Heaven Too." Other actresses whom he admires are Katherine Cornell, "for her grace and manner;" Margaret Sullivan, "for her sensitivity;" and Shirley Booth, "as a comedian."

He reflected that previously Shelly Winters had been cast as a "brassy" character, but in "Hat Full of Rain," a recent Broadway play she stars in, she projected "a great deal of softness and understanding." He added that she gave her best performance in this play.

He was cast with James Cagney in "The Fighting 69th" and commented that "he was most helpful and cooperative." He also included William Holden and Walter Pidgeon in his "favorites." Joseph Schildkraut also gave a top performance in "Diary of Ann Frank," he continued.

During the past summer he scored a success in his first singing role in "Call Me Madam." "All my life I wanted to work in a musical. I thought it would be more play than work," Lynn said with a smile.

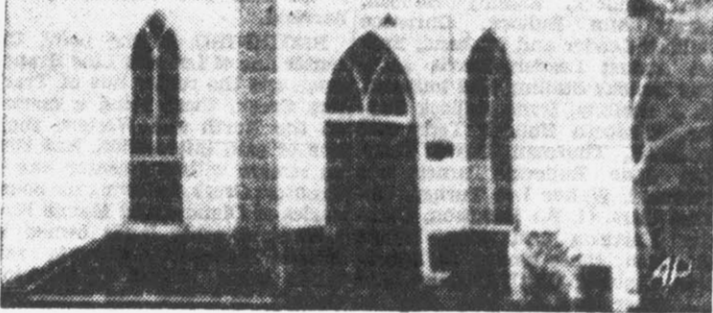

This past winter he started studying music and plans to continue along this vein. He reflected that it was all the fun he had imagined it would be, but "it is more demanding and taxing than straight acting as you have to work so closely with the orchestra. I'll never forget how it felt when the song ended—the music stopped—and my little old voice came out on the still stage. . . it was like being in a deep hole," related Lynn.

As a star of "The Cain Mutiny Court Martial," he played in Australia on tour for three months. He has appeared on several television shows direct from New York including "Kraft Theatre" and "the Robert Montgomery Show." "Each is a good job, but the audience does help me to do my best," he commented when asked his favorite media.

Although he plays a Democrat in "The State of the Union," Lynn is not a party-man. Instead he said "I sometimes vote for the man, sometimes for the policies, . . . but never for the party alone."

To Appear
Although this versatile actor has appeared in numerous productions, he has never played "State of the Union." Thus he spent the majority of last week studying and memorizing his own part.

"It's as if I were a professional football player who was invited to play here with the college football team—it would be terrible if I missed a pass," Lynn said.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Housewives burn up more energy than most huddles do on their jobs, a Cleveland heart specialist says.

Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein of Western Reserve University's School of Medicine said the average housewife burns from three to five calories of energy per minute. This, he said, is more than is burned up by men on most jobs, except such occupations as "foundry workers, farmers, jobs entailing manhandling of materials and dock workers."

West Virginia Republicans Have Best Chance In Years

By HARRY W. BALL
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — For the first time in 14 years, West Virginia Republicans are rated a fairly even chance of sending a senator to Washington. This is in a state that has been heavily Democratic since the Roosevelt sweep of 1932. West Virginians have supported every Democratic presidential candidate since then and have elected Democratic governors.

The only Republican breakthrough in the Senate occurred when Chapman Revercomb, Charleston attorney, defeated Matthew M. Neely in 1942. Revercomb, now 61, is up for the third time to try to regain the Senate seat. He has been unsuccessful in two previous attempts since 1949.

His opponent is William Casey Marland, 38, winding up a four-year term as the youngest governor in the state's history. The two are seeking the remaining two years of the Senate term of the late Harley M. Kilgore, who died unexpectedly last Feb. 28. Marland moved quickly into the situation after Kilgore's death. He named an old college chum, politically unknown William B. Laird III of Fayetteville as "stand-in" senator while he busied himself getting nominated in the May 8 primary.

The primary built up an intra-party head of steam which blew off when former Gov. Okey Paterson apologized in a statewide radio speech for what he said was his poor judgment in backing Marland as his successor. Marland won his own primary race by 13,290 votes but the state-house-backed candidate for governor, Milton Ferguson, lost out to Rep. Robert H. Mollohan, supported by Sen. Neely in a mild party rift.

Democratic politicians made the usual ostentatious motions of binding up the primary wounds, but there have been mutterings about this or that party stalwart "taking a walk."

In fact, there is a full-fledged organization of Democrats headquartered in a Charleston hotel working for the election of President Eisenhower, Revercomb and Cecil H. Underwood, the Republican opponent of Mollohan for governor.

Democrats also are bothered by a public clamor over a so-called "flower fund."

This is a device, acknowledged for the first time publicly in the Democratic primary, by which

Some Democrats privately agree that Marland may be on shaky grounds — he was elected governor by just 27,000 majority — but they are counting on the "ticket" to put him across.

They cite Revercomb's ultra-conservative record during his six years in the Senate, his inability to generate warmth as a campaigner and to inspire wholehearted enthusiasm within his own party.

Rock 'n' Roll Old, According To Fats

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — From a fellow who should know comes the proposition that rock 'n' roll is neither corrupting nor new. The source is Fats Domino, whose free-rolling, hard-bouncing records have sold in the millions. He has also made news by having riots at his concerts.

"But it wasn't the kids that did it," he said. "We've only had two incidents, and both were caused by adults who were drinking. One was in San Jose, where they packed too many people into the hall. The kids were okay, but a lot of the grownups were boozing. Somebody threw a bottle on the floor and then some others did."

Somebody called the cops. "The same thing happened at the naval base in Newport, R. I. Somebody threw a bottle and the trouble started. The music had nothing to do with it."

"When we play to an audience of kids, they don't go wild. They just clap their hands to the beat and bounce a little and enjoy themselves."

He added that rock 'n' roll had gotten a bad name with adults because some entertainers employ dirty lyrics and suggestive movements. "I don't think they're doing it so much any more," he said. "I never would use dirty lyrics. And I don't use body movements either. I just play the piano or I sing and clap my hands."

Domino is 28 and built like his namesake, the late Fats Waller, for whose film biography he has been mentioned. Young fats is a New Orleans boy who made good in a big way, but it didn't happen overnight.

"I'm playing the same music I've been playing for 15 to 16 years," he explained. "It's the same old New Orleans beat they've always played down there."

Why did it become so popular all of a sudden? "I think it's because the young kids got tired of the old bands," he reasoned. "The bands were going in for bebop, and you can't dance to that. It ain't got a beat. Rock 'n' roll has a good, steady beat. When the kids heard it, they liked it."

Washington (AP) — The government is about ready to take its salt water conversion program to the seashore. One difficulty is that the Interior Department's office of saline water has no beach it can call its own.

"We need an experiment station by the sea," said David S. Jenkins, government scientist coordinating research to find an economical method or methods of converting sea water into fresh water for industrial, domestic and specialized agricultural use.

"We have three processes now, and expect to have others developed in laboratories, that we have to take to the seashore where we can have an unlimited supply of sea water to work with. But there is no place to go."

The result is that we are having to beg and borrow facilities. Negotiations now are under way for the use of an industrial plant on the North Carolina coast to house a long-tube vertical evaporator of the type used by the salt industry.

In this case, however, W. L. Badger of Ann Arbor, Mich., has worked out what Jenkins describes as "one of the best looking processes" for use of the evaporator to take salt out of water.

"Badger believes," Jenkins said, "that it is possible to obtain water by his method at a cost of $100 to $125 an acre foot, if only the formation of scale in the equipment can be eliminated."

The prospects are so favorable that the saline water office has allocated $135,000 of its $550,000 appropriation for this year to set up one operating model 30 feet high at a seaside location. More money will be needed next year if this year's tests are successful.

THE BLONDE DIED DANCING

by KELLEY ROOS

CHAPTER 35

I knew what had happened to Anita Farrell. She had said good-bye to Steve after his dance lesson, closed the door behind him. She had turned and seen the cut-out on the floor. Curious, as intrigued as I had been, she had picked it up and, instantly, had died. But the needle in it wasn't poisoned. There was nothing lethal about it. Anita had been shot to death. Then why the silhouette?

I knew why. I had had the answer all along. The grill work in the ceiling was the answer after all. The killer had dropped the silhouette through the grill. Nothing could be less characteristic of its artist than a black cut-out, nothing less traceable to the person who had made it. It hadn't mattered which side it lighted on. The needle in it weighted it enough to make it fall straight down and land beneath the grill. Anita had been shot from up there, shot in the back as she stooped to pick it up. That made the angle by which the bullet entered her body the way the killer wanted it. That made it seem that the murderer was someone who had stood in the room with her, her last pupil, the Waltzer.

The killer was above me now, waiting for me to bend over the silhouette, to move into the position he wanted. I forced my eyes to look into that black checkered square of the ceiling.

I could see nothing behind it but darkness. And yet the killer was up there watching me, waiting for me to touch the trap he had set, waiting to shoot.

But I wouldn't touch it. By now, I suddenly realized, he must know that I had stumbled on the truth, that now I wouldn't touch it. And I understood why he hadn't already sent a bullet crashing down. He was waiting for me to move, to step out from the wall, flattened against it as I was, I was in my range. The size of the grill kept me out of his line of fire. He could probably see no more of me than my feet.

I looked toward the door. To reach it, I would have to pass too close to the grill. I would make myself an easy target for the wall. My eyes circled the room, the shining, mirrored walls, the panel with the black knobs that were the music regulators, the telephone.

The phone was only a few feet from me. I started inching toward it, my eyes fastened on the black knob above. My hand touched the phone's smooth coolness and I raised it to my lips.

"Leone," I whispered. "Leone!" There was no answer. Frantically, I jiggled the hook.

"Leone," I said again. "Leone, please."

The phone on her desk had rung. It buzzed automatically when a studio phone was lifted. Leone was there, she had to be there. It was four o'clock, the classes were changing now. Leone would be assigning new students to studios, calling teachers, scribbling appointments in her book. She was always at her desk when the classes changed, she never left it then.

But there was once when she had.

I remembered that one time and my hand, clutching the phone, fell limply to my side. I remembered sitting in the reception room that evening as the classes changed. I remembered the pupils moving to and from the elevators, the smart, statuesque receptionist escorting a newcomer to an interview and then, a minute later, Steve swinging up the corridor from Studio K.

I knew now why the telephone went unanswered. Leone Webb wasn't at her desk. She was huddled above me, watching me, waiting for me to move.

The sharp sound came from the grill work. I saw a corner of it being slowly forced up, bent backwards. The triangle of cleared space increased . . . and a woman's hand pushed a gun down into the room and turned it toward me.

I plunged headlong for the door, and I saw it open. Steve was coming into the room. Bolling behind him. I shouted, "No, Steve stay back . . ."

There was the crack of a shot, but it was Bolling who fired it from the doorway. I heard a scream and I turned in Steve's arms in time to see the gun clatter onto the studio floor from the small black triangle in the ceiling.

I hears Bolling's voice. "Mrs. Barton . . ."

"Connie's all right," Steve said. "She's fine."

Steve, Lieutenant Detective Bolling and I suspended all talk of murder while Bolling concentrated on executing a miracle of modern parking. He gentled the police car into an impossibly small space in front of the Barton's Lexington Avenue residence and looked to us for approval of his feat. I smiled at him fondly. I smiled at Steve fondly. I was fond of those two boys.

Steve had found the answer to the murder in the tape recordings. He had figured out that Leone Webb was Anita's killer. He had rushed that information to Bolling and proved to him that he was right. Together they had gone to the Crescent School.

When they had not found Leone at her desk in the reception room, they had immediately set out for me and Studio K . . . and here I was, able to smile fondly at those two fine fellows, and there was Leone, in a hospital, with a shattered wrist and with cops in attendance.

Steve helped me out of the car, and I enjoyed the way he held my arm . . . so tightly that it hurt. Mr. Golden, our janitor, came running up out of the vestibule. I had never seen Mr. Golden so excited before; he was hopping.

"Mr. Barton, Mr. Barton, I been phoning all over for you!"

"Why?" Steve asked. "What's happened?"

"A burglar! In your apartment! I caught him! He's in jail!"

"A burglar . . ."

"Yeah!" Mr. Golden guffawed a fine, scornful laugh. "He got himself locked in your bedroom closet, a fine burglar! I heard him pounding and yelling! And the story he told me, ha! What a crazy story!"

"Just a minute," I said, and I never realized how small my voice could sound. "Just a minute . . ."

Mr. Golden went on shouting. "He says Mrs. Barton locked him in the closet! Why, he don't even know Mrs. Barton! He said you were a dancing teacher, your name was Hester Frost or something, he said you were a blonde . . ."

Mr. Golden choked off and gaped at me. He said, "Mrs. Barton, you are a blonde . . ."

"Just a minute," I said again. "This is all very simple. Mr. Bolling, that was no burglar, that was Ralph Tolley. I . . . I had just planned to borrow him for an hour or two . . ."

"Mrs. Barton," Bolling said. He looked as if he were going to say quite a lot more, of rather a serious nature. But he only shook his head and said, "Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Barton."

"I'll write him a nice note," I said. "He was very sweet and cooperative."

"Mrs. Barton," Bolling said a few more times.

Upstairs Bolling used our phone to liberate Mr. Tolley. Steve used our gin and vermouth and added a batch of Martinis. I used our love seat, all five and a half feet of it. I was rather tired, not sleepy, but tired. It had been a busy day.

"Steve," I said, "what was in the recording that tipped you off to Leone?"

Martinis for Steve and Connie tomorrow, as Steve explains all in the final chapter of "The Blonde Died Dancing."

Western, 'Cheyenne', Is One Of Best On TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's put it in the form of a question: Are Westerns improving on television? Not all Westerns, mind you. Just some Westerns. Specifically, let's look at the two hours of Westerns available on ABC-TV every other Tuesday evening. First there comes the hour-length new Cheyenne series followed by a half-hour of Wyatt Earp in his second season and topped off by Broken Arrow, a new weekly series.

Westerns normally just aren't this department's dish. But Cheyenne, starring Clint Walker, as visible on the screen last week, strikes us as excellent entertainment. It alternates with conflict, seen tonight.

The story, with its emphasis on characterization, was several notches above the old-fashioned bang-bang and whoop-de-doo. All supermen eventually become bores — and that's the trouble with the heroes of too many Westerns.

But Cheyenne, as portrayed by Clint Walker, is more human. Yes, he's handy with a gun and good to a horse, but he simply doesn't know all the answers. He's fallible and fumbling and questioning; as a literary type, he's as old as a ballad character of the Middle Ages. He is the perfect counterpoint to the evil and chicanery of the American frontier.

Wyatt Earp, as a character, is more knowledgeable than Cheyenne. One might expect him to become rather a bore in his second season in the way that Gene Autry and Hopalong Cassidy have become bores to critical-minded adults: because they are infallible and know all the answers.

But Wyatt Earp continues to be a good show, better now than it was a year ago. Its quality is maintained by the only thing that can sustain any regular television series: good writing.

Broken Arrow also attempts the new Western emphasis on character. It is excellent in its purpose of treating the Indian seriously and presenting the Apache civilization as something more than a gang of renegades.

Unfortunately the purpose falters in execution. The problem appeared last week to one arm-chair viewer to be a matter of budget. Scenes were skimped and there was an emphasis on interior sets when one wanted to see something of grandeur of the Southwest. Perhaps Broken Arrow is shot on location. Certainly it should be.

These programs indicate that the Western on television is improving.

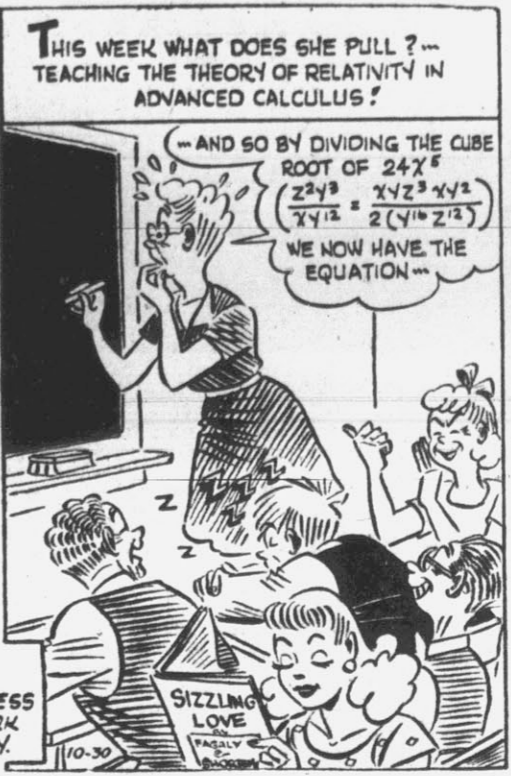

Ezio Pinza was a champ bicycle racer before becoming a Metropolitan Opera and Broadway musical comedy star.

Oklahoma Back In First After A Week Of Exile

By DON WEISS The Associated Press Oklahoma's one-week exile from the top spot in college football is over.

The weekend activities, in which form suffered its worst relapse of the season, drew out the heaviest vote of the year from the nation's sports writers and sportscasters.

Tech was named first on 31 ballots after making Tulane its fifth straight victim 40-0.

Michigan State, which displaced Oklahoma a week ago as the national leader after a 47-14 whacking of Notre Dame, slipped back to fourth place with nearly a top vote.

On the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., Oklahoma wound up with 1,768 points.

Behind them the shuffling continued as a result of Texas A&M's 19-13 victory over Baylor.

Dodd Likes His Midgets Square Linemen As Well Off For Annual Halloween Tilt

ATLANTA (AP)—Georgia Tech's terrific backs have been getting most of the credit for moving the Ramblin' Wrecks into the No. 2 spot among the nation's football powers.

"We've got some fine backs, certainly," Dodd said today, "probably the finest group of backs I've ever had—ever had."

Looking back on the Tulane game while getting ready for Saturday's date with Duke in Durham, Dodd kept talking about his team's blocking at the line of scrimmage.

"On defense, Dodd was particularly proud of Jimmy Johnson, a rousing guard who racked up Tulane ball carriers all day, and center Don Stephenson, who turned in his usual fine job of linebacking."

Dodd said Johnson played one of the finest defensive games at guard he has seen in a long time and he rates Stephenson as one of the finest he's ever had.

Phantoms Expecting A Rough Time At Wilson

The approaching weekend is slated to be a rough one for Greenville high school gridgers.

Coach Guy Lewis' G-Men, having cruised thus far on a 2-5-1 record, will run head-on into a AAA powerhouse at Wilson this Friday night.

Although the Wilson overall record for the season is not a tremendously impressive one (they're 4-4), the Cyclones have been gaining in strength with each game.

At 7:00, the Golds will tangle with the winless Blues in a trial that finds the Golds favored by three touchdowns.

Expected to pace the Golds to a victory are James, Andresen and Aycock.

In the second game, beginning at 8:30, the Whites and the Reds will battle.

The objective of the Halloween contests, as stated by the Recreation department, is to keep Greenville's children off the streets on Halloween night and out of trouble.

In case of rain tomorrow night, Recreation officials stated that the contest would be played Friday night.

Jim Reid Wins Lee Kirby Award

SALISBURY, N. C. (AP)—Jim Reid, veteran sportscaster of Radio Station WPTF in Raleigh, has been chosen by the state's sports writers and sportscasters as the 1956 winner of the Lee Kirby Memorial Award.

Announcement of Reid's selection was made today by Pete DIMIZIO, sponsor of the awards and the Nov. 26 banquet here when Reid will receive the award.

Reid and Quincy were selected after two statewide ballots of men working on sports departments of papers, radio and T stations.

Slight Changes In 1957 State Fishing Regulations

RALEIGH (AP)—A change in creel limit for game fish and regulations to prohibit taking of minnows from public waters for sale are two changes in fishing regulations for the coming year.

The Wildlife Resources Commission held public hearings on fishing proposals yesterday and decided to keep the present regulations in effect with few changes.

The new creel limit will allow a fisherman to keep 25 sunfish and eight bass per day.

Although a fisherman may still net minnows from public waters for his own use, it will be illegal for him to have more than 100 minnows in his possession.

Another regulation change will allow the sale for food purposes of mountain trout grown in commercial hatcheries within the state.

The wildlife commission also heard appeals yesterday from the Currituck County Game Board in allocation of duck hunting blinds in Currituck Sound.

Three appeals were settled by telling the hunters they could shoot from their own property without licensing a point blind.

However, landowners were warned to avoid antagonizing hunters whose blinds are located within 500 yards of the points.

In three other cases, the Currituck game protector was asked to survey to see if blinds requested by the Currituck board could be relocated and licensed before the season opens Nov. 7.

James H. Richardson appealed because two hunters have licensed blinds in ponds he claims are part of his property.

Director Clyde Patton was instructed to ask the Currituck board to grant the next new blind licensed in the Knotts Island area to Walter Ewell.

The Currituck board had interpreted regulations to mean that a man could hunt only from licensed blinds on his own property.

The state commission's decisions ruled against this view.

Big Four Outfits Expecting Tragedy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS "Habitual moviegoers, constantly bombarded by previews of the most supercolossal movie of all-time next week—sometimes get the feeling they're always in the theater a week too soon.

Football players, too, must get the impression that the stadium, no matter how old, was specially built for next Saturday's big game.

There's much justification for the attitude, Duke meets Georgia Tech, one of the nation's best; North Carolina is at Tennessee, which looks stronger with every game; Maryland is home to Kentucky, which gave Georgia Tech a hard time at season's start; Clemson has homecoming with Virginia Tech, winner of six games; N.C. State and Wake Forest, which still haven't hit their stride, play a conference game; and Virginia plays tough Vanderbilt.

Against Fuquay Springs last week, Lewis shifted starting halfback Billy Sermons to fullback and used Johnny Arnold, Charlie Smith, Robert Howell at halfbacks.

With this week's drills hampered somewhat by heavy consistent rains, drill work in the Green camp has been slowed down considerably, but Coach Lewis will have the locals in the best possible shape by Friday.

Wake Forest's defense was in a workout, Coach Paul Amen indicated. He cautioned the Deacons about the effectiveness of N.C. State's multiple offense.

Virginia was expecting a rough time with Vandy, whose quarterback, Don Orr, probably will return to action this week.

South Carolina went through a light two-hour drill and heard scouting reports on Furman. Asst. Coach Weems Baskin picked out Furman runner Jerry Penland as an offensive standout for the Hurricane.

Rams Are Now Using TV Coaching From Sidelines

LOS ANGELES (AP)—First it was short-wave radio coaching of quarterbacks equipped with receivers in their helmets.

Now comes coaching by television to the sidelines.

The professional Los Angeles Rams football team is trying it. The Rams' pass defense coach, Jack Faulkner, explained it this way today:

"It's the Rams' new 'closed circuit' gimmick. With this, an assistant coach, located up in the press box, can diagram plays and make adjustments down onto the field, where they are picked up on a 17-inch monitor.

"The players gather 'round and see' the whole picture in a nutshell—or in a mahogany case, to be exact.

"Not only can the press box coach talk to the players on the field as he diagrams changing coverage, but the players watching the picture as it comes over their T screen can ask questions

"ridiculous" for its roughness. "They decked (center Bill) Russell three or four times, once severely," Tucker said. "Their under-the-basket play was pretty rough."

Tucker, who is on leave of absence as coach of the Phillips 66ers, also a NIBL club, said he was "not asking any favors—we just want a fair shake."

"Most teams think it would be wonderful to knock us off," he added.

"With the pressure on those kids, I think it is an injustice to them for anyone to enter a game and play more roughly than is absolutely necessary."

"Turning again to the Peoria game, Tucker said: "If they were playing Phillips, it would be different. When Phillips goes up there they expect a tough and rough game and that's all right."

ECC Play Opens Tonite With Lynn In Lead Role

By ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Staff Writer

Jeffrey Lynn, popular Broadway and Hollywood actor, will appear tonight through Friday night in McGinnis Auditorium at East Carolina College at 8 p.m. in "State of the Union," a Pulitzer prize-winning play by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse.

Barbara L. Harrell of Raleigh, junior at the college, will play the feminine lead opposite Lynn. Also appearing in the production is a cast of 19 student members of the East Carolina Playhouse, college dramatic club.

This witty play was a Broadway hit a few seasons ago. Presented just before the national elections, the play is a timely one. It deals with Grant Matthews, American citizen who is ambitious to become President yet who finds it hard to reconcile his deals with the ways of "practical" politics. Lynn will take the role of Matthews; and Miss Harrell, that of his wise and charming wife.

Others having important parts include Margaret Starnes of Raleigh, as a newspaper publisher; William C. Dixon Jr. of Kinston, as a reporter; and Robert M. Tyn-dall of Goldsboro as a political boss.

The supporting cast includes: C. Thomas Hull, Durham; Patsy Baker, Greenville; R. A. Benfield, Newton; James H. Walton, Lexington; Alvis B. Carr Jr., Rocky Mount; J. C. Dunn Jr., Pinebluffs; Lloyd Bray Jr., Greenville; Alice Horne, Tabor City; Marcia Forbes, Farmville; Sylvia Rushton, Laurel, Del.; Julius Martin, Robersonville; Henson P. Barnes, Elizabethtown; Larry Craven, Raleigh; Delano Driver, Richmond Va.; and Paul E. Darden Jr., Siler City.

The production is sponsored by the college Entertainment Committee. Lynn will play the leading role through arrangements with the American National Theatre and Academy.

Entertainment Series patrons will be admitted on their season tickets. Others who wish to attend may obtain tickets at the theatre.

13-Year-Old Boy Lives In Cage

FOREST CITY, N.C. (AP)—He is the youngest of 10 farm children, now grown into a strong 13-year-old boy of medium height, with a love for watching television by the hour.

He is emotional and given to angry fits, at which times he has unusual strength.

His name is Colon Plato Guffey. He lives at a farmhouse at nearby Cane Creek, in a cage of heavy wooden planks set in the living room. He is mentally deficient and epileptic. He has lived in the cage "ever since he has gotten some growth on him," says a news-man.

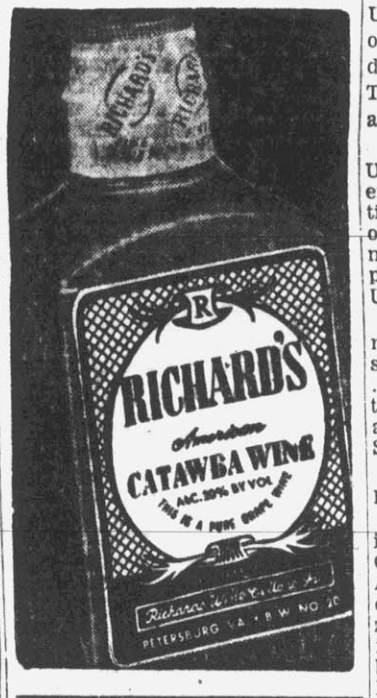

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Colon Guffey, are awaiting word from North Carolina authorities on whether the child can be put in an institution. Authorities say there's a long waiting list of epileptics.

Frank Jeter Jr., editor of the semiweekly Forest City Courier, brought the situation to light yesterday. Mrs. Guffey says she hopes the publicity will help get the boy into a hospital. An application was made for him June 14 for admission to a state hospital.

Already on the waiting list of epileptics June 14 were 47 children and 291 adults, said Dr. James W. Murdoch, general superintendent of the State Hospitals Board of Control.

Little America Residents Get First Mail In 8 Months

By DON GUY
MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica

A group of 73 snowbound American occupants of Little America No. 5 read their first letters from home in eight months today.

Some 50 pounds of mail was flown in yesterday to the base, perched on Ross ice shelf some 300 miles east of the McMurdo Sound headquarters for advance units of America's International Geophysical Year expedition in the antarctic. The mail plane's pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Edward Frankiewicz of Rutland, Vt., said the base where the group spent the subzero winter was so buried in snow it was barely visible. Only the radio towers showed near the station.

The copilot, Lt. Jim Waldron of Chamblee, Ga., said as soon as the plane touched down, a half dozen bearded men rushed up, asking, "Where's the mail?"

The plane brought nine sacks of mail to the isolated base—the first since February.

Among the group greeting the arrival was Cmdr. H. W. Whitney of Arlington, Mass., over-all chief of Navy Seabee bases in Antarctica. Also on hand was Lt. Cmdr. Robert Graham of Bellingham, Wash., commander of the Little America base.

Navy Cmdr. Conrad Shinn, of Spray, N. C., returned here last night from a flight to Beardmore glacier. Shinn landed his plane on a spur of the glacier about 240 miles from the bottom of the world. This is believed to be the nearest to the pole any plane has ever landed.

Shinn made the flight to survey the area for an emergency station for polar flights. Shinn's Dakota damaged a wing tip. But he was able to pull the plane out safely and returned to base with a slightly damaged aileron.

A U. S. Air Force Globemaster planned to fly to the South Pole and drop an automatic weather station in the area. The plane was to carry five Air Force and Navy navigators, including Capt. William Hawkes of Jersey City.

Another passenger was to be Dr. Paul Siple, Washington, D. C., accompanied by the first Byrd expedition. Siple will head the scientific party wintering near the pole as year.

JUROR WITH SICK DOG EXCUSED.—Bus driver Joseph Garibaldi of St. Louis, was excused from jury duty in court last Sept. 21 because his pet dog Snoopy became ill unexpectedly. A Humane Society officer could find nothing wrong with Snoopy but suggested that Garibaldi keep a close watch on her. Joe arranged split shifts in his work in order to be at home much of the time to care for his dog. The other day the "ailing Snoopy" came forth with something that explained it all. She gave birth to nine puppies. (AP Wirephoto).

Accuse Russian Of Bad Behavior

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States has accused the second secretary of the Soviet U. N. delegation of helping to spirit little Tanya Chawstov out of America and has demanded his recall.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate to the U. N., delivered a note to the Russian delegation saying that the actions of Second Secretary Konstantin P. Eki-mov "constitute an abuse of the privilege of his residence in the United States."

The note continued that Eki-mov's actions "were outside the scope of his official capacity" and therefore in violation of the provisions of the headquarters agreements between the United States and the United Nations.

Russia in the past has complied promptly with such requests.

Tanya, 2½ years old and born in America, was taken to England Oct. 3 by her Russian-born father Alexei Chawstov over the protests of her mother, Mrs. George Dieczok of Detroit. Chawstov was trying to take the child to Russia, but a custody suit brought in England by Mrs. Dieczok halted the flight in London. The child is being held there as a ward of the court until the suit is decided.

Going To Court For Hymn Singing

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Nighttime hymn-singing appears headed for a circuit court test. Householders told a county prosecutor their rest was disturbed by singing up to 11:30 p.m. and sometimes till midnight, three times a week, in a West Hollywood church.

The Rev. E. M. Muncy, pastor of the West Hollywood Church of God, said group singing was the manner in which the rites of his church are conducted "throughout the world." Asst. County Solicitor Richard Cory said he would recommend a suit for a temporary injunction to be filed "to stop the singing or bring about some measure of relief for the neighbors."

Ike's Newspaper Makes Small Bet

ABILENE, Kan. (AP)—The Abilene Reflector-Chronicle, which calls its "Ike's real home town newspaper," has offered to make a small bet with the Denison (Tex.) Herald on President Eisenhower's re-election.

The Herald has come out editorially for Adlai Stevenson.

Eisenhower was born in Denison but his parents moved to Abilene when he was about a year old and he was reared here.

Henry B. Jameson, editor and publisher of the Reflector-Chronicle, offered to bet a year's subscription and wired Denison:

"We supported Ike four years ago and are stronger than ever behind him today in the sincere belief his continuing in office is for the best interest of the country."

TRAIN KILLS 8 CHILDREN IN AUTO.—Under sheets beside the railroad track are the bodies of three of the eight children who were killed in the collision of an automobile and a freight train near Sigourney, Iowa. The Rev. James H. Mackin administers last rites for the dead. The children were riding in the automobile driven by their mother, Mrs. Richard Hammes, 38, who was taking the older youngsters to school. The locomotive dragged the car 684 feet. The wreckage still hangs to the front end of the engine. (P Wirephoto).

Marilyn Meets Queen, Finds Her 'Very Warm' Lady

LONDON (AP)—A nervous Marilyn Monroe was presented to Britain's Queen Elizabeth II last night and found the monarch a "very warm" person.

"She radiates a wonderful womanly essence and softness," said the actress.

The introduction came at the annual royal command film performance where members of the royal family met a group of international film stars.

"How do you like living in Windsor?" the Queen asked Marilyn.

The startled actress blinked, said "What?" then hastened to add, "I thought we lived at Englefield Green."

"Oh, we're neighbors," said Queen Elizabeth, explaining that Englefield Green, where the actress and her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, have rented a large manor, is near Windsor Castle.

The Queen and the film star, both 30, also chatted about the film Marilyn is making in England, "The Sleeping Prince."

Queen Elizabeth stopped to talk with each of the stars in the line. She was followed down the row of movie personalities by her sister Princess Margaret.

Marilyn's nervousness was shared by other members of the movie group. Said veteran Joan Crawford: "I've never been so scared in all my life. Anyone want to buy a stomach cheap?"

Victor Mature reported he was so nervous he couldn't remember one thing the Queen said to him.

The movie shown at the performance was "The Battle of the River Plate." It centers on the fight between the German battleship Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the South American coast in 1939.

Brownell Says Will Act In Election Irregularities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today his department is prepared to "act expeditiously and vigorously in every case" of reported election irregularity falling within federal jurisdiction.

"No responsible complaint of discrimination, ballot-box tampering or other possible federal violation will be disregarded," he said in a statement.

"All violations will be dealt with as speedily and as effectively as the law allows."

Brownell said primary responsibility for the conduct of elections rests with the states, and that the federal government has no authority generally to supervise the voting.

However, he asserted: "Where federal jurisdiction does exist, the Department of Justice will act expeditiously and vigorously in every case."

Brownell's statement said: "All United States attorneys have been directed to be particularly vigilant and prepared to act upon any allegations or reports that voters have been intimidated, threatened, coerced, or prevented from voting for nominees of their own choice."

Seek Three Men Missing In Storm

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Three missing men, lost while boating off the North Carolina coast, were sought by boat and plane today as a whipping northeast churned the Atlantic.

The missing were identified as Roy A. Yost of Scott's Hill, believed to have drowned last night off Porter's Neck Plantation; and two Laurinburg men, J. E. Boone and William Sessoms, who disappeared late Saturday in Corncake Inlet.

Yost's disappearance was reported by his two fishing companions, A. D. Davidson and W. D. Ledbetter of Shelby. They said they were taking up a fish net in the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway when a wave almost swamped their boat. In the scramble, they said, the boat overturned.

Boone, 34, and Sessoms, 20, were thought to have had boat trouble. No trace of them was reported by late last night.

Story Of B-52 Told In New Book

NEW YORK (AP)—The B-52, the Air Force's intercontinental jet bomber, was on the brink of cancellation many times during the eight years it took to design and perfect it.

The story of the B-52 is told in "Vision," a new book on aviation by Harold Mansfield. He claims it was only after the Korean War pointed up the need for a long range bomber with speed that the Air Force approved quantity production of the plane.

Payments to American families from life insurance policies totaled $974,200,000 in the first two months of 1956.

Raked Up Cash Blown Off Line

MARSHFIELD, Wis. (AP)—A youngster sent outside to rake leaves returned a short time later and handed her older sister a stack of currency she had picked up in the yard. The find was reported to police.

A bit later, the housewife called the police and said it was her own money. In her absence, she said, the older daughter had washed some draperies and had hung them on the line to dry. The money, about $120, sewed into the hem of the drapes, dislodged and was blown about in the breeze. The younger daughter picked up most of it.

Ayden Homecoming Was A Gala Event

By JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON
 Ayden School Reporter

Homecoming at Ayden High School was a gala event. On Queen Betty Craft's float, sponsored by James Willis, rode her ladies: Ann McGlohon sponsored by R. L. Collins, and Pattie McCay sponsored by Lindy Dunn.

Floats were also entered by Mrs. Manning's Math classes; Mrs. Howard's French classes, a side-walk cafe in maroon and white that won first place; and the Future Business Leaders of America Chapter of AHS under the direction of Mrs. Clark, showed that it would take an adding machine to add the Ayden Tornadoes' score while Contentnea Wildcats' score was added on a clipboard.

A number of pets, bicycles, toy cars, and individuals dressed in costumes added to the Homecoming parade.

The Ayden - Winterville High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Elliott, led the parade. The following football players and their sponsors rode in conversation.

The Ayden Tornadoes won the football game. There was a note of sadness among the senior players—Lindy Dunn, James Willis, Burt Tripp, R. L. Collins, Horton Jolly, Ikey Baldree, Billy Vaniford, Melvin Byrd, R. L. Dorman, and Herb Little, and Ronnie Tripp—and cheerleaders—Betty Craft, Ann McGlohon, and Annette Willoughby—because this was their last football game at AHS.

The Ayden N. F. L. Chapter was host to Washington High, Greenville High, and Grainger High at a forum on Monday night. Seventy-five students participated in the N. F. L. Student Congress, poetry

Theatrical Agent Sues For Share Of Dog's Profits

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Theatrical agent Hugh Hooker filed suit for $750,000 yesterday, charging that he was frozen out of a deal to produce a Rin Tin Tin series on television.

The suit was directed against Herbert Leonard, producer of the films; Lee Duncan, owner of the dog star Rin Tin Tin IV; Screen Gems Inc., the firm which released the pictures; the National Biscuit Co., sponsor; and the American Broadcasting Corp.

Hooker contended in his suit that Duncan told him he had abandoned the project, but that 100 films were later produced, resulting in 1 1/2-million-dollar profits.

Bulganan Didn't Mean To Butt In

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov says Premier Bulganin didn't mean to interfere in the U. S. election with his letter to President Eisenhower suggesting a ban on H-bomb tests.

Shepilov told Western correspondents at a reception: "We did not connect it with the American election. The message raised the question of banning nuclear explosions. I believe that Mr. Bulganin did not think of either the donkey or the elephant."

Adlai Stevenson had been advocating suspension of H-bomb tests when the Bulganin letter arrived 10 days ago. Eisenhower, who opposes ending the tests until an over-all disarmament accord is reached, fired back an answer to Bulganin accusing him of "interference in internal affairs of the United States."

Anyway, Shepilov said, what's said in Russia should not affect the voting in the United States.

POLITICAL CHICANERY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Republican wrote a letter complaining to a newspaper that a "friend" played this trick on him. "He bought my parakeet to say, 'I'm a Democrat.'"

Mrs. Fred Yorke, Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Mrs. Sutor, Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, Mr. R. B. Starling, and Mr. and Mrs. John C. Nobles scored the participants.

"How To Make Good Pictures"

When you take pictures of a child, it's easy to make it a pleasant experience for him. Instead of directly asking him to pose, suggest to him taking a picture of something else—a pet, a doll, or some other toy.

Then ask the youngster to help you take the shot. Get him to do something with the pet or toy. In this way you keep the child from being self-conscious and at the same time get a picture that tells a story.

These are typical examples of the kind of useful picture-taking information you'll find on every page of "How To Make Good Pictures"—a book on picture-taking for beginners that we think is just about the best there is.

It's interesting, easy to read and loaded with fine illustrations. More than 200 fascinating pages, and it costs just $1. Makes a perfect gift, too.

Jack Webb's Wife Files For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Jack Webb, who made a divorce settlement of about half a million dollars on his first wife, is settling with his second for $135,000 cash, an automobile and other items, says her attorney.

Actress Dorothy Towne, 26, filed her expected divorce suit yesterday against the 36-year-old Sgt. Friday of the radio and television Dragnet series. She accused him of causing her mental pain and suffering.

Miss Towne and Webb were married Jan. 11, 1955, in Chicago. Thirteen months earlier he was divorced by singer-actress Julie London, mother of his daughters Stacy, 6, and Lisa, 4.

No Longer Among The Trusty Ranks

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—James Harvey, 62, was considered a model prisoner at the Van Nuys jail where he is serving a 90-day sentence for drunkenness. So police made him a trusty, a transient, he spotted Harvey, a guard said, lying on the jail floor. He was singing and clutching an empty pint whiskey bottle. "Musta been planted on me," Harvey explained. "I'm a toeteeter."

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — The stock market withstood a heavy burst of selling on the Israeli-Egyptian crisis and turned mixed in quiet trading early this afternoon.

The high-speed ticker tape lagged two minutes behind in reporting transactions as traders dumped shares in a follow-through from late yesterday's sell-off but within a quarter hour was back to normal.

Even international oils with big holdings in the troubled Middle East showed small gains as they recovered from yesterday's sharp losses.

A number of steels, motors and aircrafts gained fractions to a point or so as defense issues found favor in view of war fears. Among other pivotal stocks there were losses running to a point or so.

The market was down slightly on average but advances by many stocks not included in the average gave the market a mixed pattern. After the initial excitement had worn off prices wavered up and down in a kind of quiet, see-saw action.

Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch showed surprising resilience, recouping around 2 points each of their losses of around 3 apiece yesterday.

Meanwhile, U. S. Steel gained fractionally as its directors prepared for the third quarter meeting today. Republic Steel and Youngstown were other fractional gainers. Lukens added more than a point.

Chrysler stepped ahead around 1/2 while General Motors eased.

United Aircraft gained around 3/4, Boeing over a point.

Rubbers and chemicals took small losses. Du Pont was off around 2. Miscellaneous manufacturing issues also were on the downside. General Electric was off a major fraction. International Paper about a point.

Caterpillar dropped more than a point. International Harvester a fraction. Allied Chemical and U. S. Gypsum lost around a point or so. Alcoa and Kennecott Copper were other losers in the 1-point zone.

New York Central gained a fraction then lost a bit as it declared a dividend in stock of U. S. Freight Co. Georgia-Pacific dropped 2 1/2 at 28 1/2 on a block of 9,000 shares following expiration of a syndicate offering of 497,100 shares at 32.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 50 cents to $178.80 with the industrials down 80 cents, the rails down 60 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

Rose Attends Polio Meeting

Pitt County Polio Foundation Chairman J. H. Rose attended a three-state polio convention in Charlotte over the weekend to participate in plans-making for the January nationwide polio drive.

It was brought out at the convention, attended by delegates representing North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee, that Pitt County had more cases of polio than any other county in this state and that this was the first year a death has occurred or that Pitt had had paralytic polio.

At present, said Rose there are 88,000 cases of polio in the nation. Pitt County is now paying the expenses for three of these cases at the Polio Hospital in Greensboro and at one time, the local foundation was having to pay the expenses for five cases. Each case costs $18 a day.

Rose announced that a meeting will be held next Wednesday night to make plans for the national campaign on a local basis. State representatives will attend and representatives of seven counties surrounding Pitt will attend.

Patrol Reports County Wrecks

Three Pitt County highway single-car accidents occurred during the past 24 hours, according to Highway Patrolmen D. L. Minshew and Jim Boykin.

Adolphus Jones, Negro, 21, Calico, Route 2, was charged with driving carelessly and recklessly after Minshew reported his car overturned on the left shoulder after sliding 100 feet behind a stopped school bus. The accident occurred on N. C. 222, 1 1/2 miles east of Fountain. The driver, who was not injured, was placed in jail under a $50 bond. The car was a complete loss, said Minshew. Boykin said a car overturned on 43 south at Cox's Crossing about six miles from Greenville this morning. Minshew reported that the car, driven by a person yet to be identified, left the highway, skidded 135 feet, hit a ditch and went 105 feet more, turned over for 54 feet before finally coming to a halt. The total distance the car was out of control amounted to 294 feet. The investigation is incomplete, said Boykin. The car is a complete loss.

Approximately an hour later at 8 o'clock, another car overturned near Farmville. The driver was identified by Minshew as Thelma Detro Dunn of Farmville. The accident occurred around 3 1/2 miles north of Farmville on highway 258. Minshew said the car ran off the road into the shoulder and overturned. Damage was estimated at $800. No one was injured in either of the three accidents, reported the patrolmen.

30 Years Ago Today

October 30, 1926

Unanimous endorsement of the movement for a Community Chest for Greenville was voted by the Rotary Club at its regular bi-weekly meeting last night. The action came following announcement by W. H. Dull, president of the club, of a receipt of an invitation from the Kiwanis Club to meet with that organization and discuss possibilities for the starting of such a movement in this city. The president was instructed to carry to the Kiwanis Club the pledge of the entire membership of the Rotary Club to aid the movement in every way possible.

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in Saturday's Reflector that a wreck involving a car operated by Mrs. Frances Lane Long of Farmville occurred at daybreak Saturday morning.

The accident actually occurred around 6 o'clock Friday evening. Mrs. Lane was uninjured in the accident.

She was charged by the investigating patrolman with operating the vehicle at an unsafe speed for road conditions.

The information appeared under a photograph of the wrecked car on the front page of Saturday's Reflector.

The Reflector regrets this error.

BECAUSE Only Perfection has the thrifty "Midget" Pilot.

BECAUSE Only Perfection has the Regularize Blower.

BECAUSE Only Perfection has the DynaDraft—the AUTOMATIC forced draft.

Burns over 40 HOURS on one gallon of oil. A true pilot, its tiny flame uses LESS oil than the smallest LOW FIRE! A real fuel-saver!

The ONLY automatic blower with a separate heat-sensitive control that assures valve-smooth ALL-OVER comfort — no cold floors, no hot blasts.

Gets MORE heat out of every drop of oil — injects air, burns LESS oil — and chimney troubles forever!

Miss Ricks, grammar grade department, and John Ward of the High School.

A short work period was carried out by a group under the supervision of Miss Vines, Miss Ennis and Mrs. Lang. This period dealt with proper procedures in small business matters.

The next meeting will be held November 20.

Primary teachers of Robinson Union School were at Suggs High School in Farmville recently to hear Mrs. L. S. Herring of Asheville, a reading specialist.

Quotation of the week submitted by Mrs. T. A. Lawrence: "It is better to have tried and failed, than never to have tried at all."

cepts the first seat and is sure another location would be better, it's a woman.

If it always climbs into a taxi ahead of you, it's a woman. If it always pays the cab driver when it gets out, it's a man.

If it asks you to dance, it's a man. If it gets mad because you don't ask it to dance, it's a woman.

If it crosses its legs without noticing whether anyone is looking, it's a man. If it won't cross its legs unless someone is looking, it's a woman.

If it takes off its shoes in a movie, it's a woman. If it takes off its hat in church, it's a man.

If it backs up to you and asks you to fix a stuck zipper, it's a woman. If it sternly and silently solves its zipper problems by itself, it's a man.

If it will give a two-bit hand-out to any sordid tramp, it's a man. But if it gladly spends its whole life cooking and raising kids for a no-good ungrateful bum, it's a woman—every time!

Patrol Reports County Wrecks

Three Pitt County highway single-car accidents occurred during the past 24 hours, according to Highway Patrolmen D. L. Minshew and Jim Boykin.

Adolphus Jones, Negro, 21, Calico, Route 2, was charged with driving carelessly and recklessly after Minshew reported his car overturned on the left shoulder after sliding 100 feet behind a stopped school bus. The accident occurred on N. C. 222, 1 1/2 miles east of Fountain. The driver, who was not injured, was placed in jail under a $50 bond. The car was a complete loss, said Minshew. Boykin said a car overturned on 43 south at Cox's Crossing about six miles from Greenville this morning. Minshew reported that the car, driven by a person yet to be identified, left the highway, skidded 135 feet, hit a ditch and went 105 feet more, turned over for 54 feet before finally coming to a halt. The total distance the car was out of control amounted to 294 feet. The investigation is incomplete, said Boykin. The car is a complete loss.

Approximately an hour later at 8 o'clock, another car overturned near Farmville. The driver was identified by Minshew as Thelma Detro Dunn of Farmville. The accident occurred around 3 1/2 miles north of Farmville on highway 258. Minshew said the car ran off the road into the shoulder and overturned. Damage was estimated at $800. No one was injured in either of the three accidents, reported the patrolmen.

30 Years Ago Today

October 30, 1926

Unanimous endorsement of the movement for a Community Chest for Greenville was voted by the Rotary Club at its regular bi-weekly meeting last night. The action came following announcement by W. H. Dull, president of the club, of a receipt of an invitation from the Kiwanis Club to meet with that organization and discuss possibilities for the starting of such a movement in this city. The president was instructed to carry to the Kiwanis Club the pledge of the entire membership of the Rotary Club to aid the movement in every way possible.

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in Saturday's Reflector that a wreck involving a car operated by Mrs. Frances Lane Long of Farmville occurred at daybreak Saturday morning.

The accident actually occurred around 6 o'clock Friday evening. Mrs. Lane was uninjured in the accident.

She was charged by the investigating patrolman with operating the vehicle at an unsafe speed for road conditions.

The information appeared under a photograph of the wrecked car on the front page of Saturday's Reflector.

The Reflector regrets this error.
