

Ike To Discuss Fighting On Nationwide Radio, TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will go on nationwide television and radio tonight to discuss the Middle East crisis.

This was announced shortly before noon today by the White House which also reported that the United States is still standing by its pledge to assist any victim of aggression in the Middle East.

Britain is reported to have informed the U.S. government considers the pledge defunct. The pledge bound the United States, Britain and France to work together in the Middle East to preserve peace.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower's talk tonight would be about 15 minutes—beginning at 7 p.m. EST.

All major networks are expected to carry it.

Saying the talk would be "a non-political report," Hagerty added that the President would speak from his White House office and discuss "the developing situation in the Middle East."

Hagerty said further Eisenhower will "outline the American position" regarding the tense situation resulting from the Israeli thrust into Egypt on Monday.

Since that time Britain and France have announced plans to place troops in Egypt, and the two governments joined yesterday in vetoing a U.S. resolution in the U.N. Security Council.

The U.S. resolution called for a cease-fire in Egypt, and for other U.N. member nations to refrain from any use of force in the area.

Hagerty said in response to newsmen's questions that Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Anthony Eden have exchanged additional personal messages regarding the Middle East situation.

The White House announced dispatch of one Eisenhower message to Eden yesterday. In that one, also issued to French Premier Guy Mollet, Eisenhower urged both the British and the French to refrain from use of force in the Middle East.

Asked today whether there was anything to a report that the President had talked to Eden by telephone, Hagerty said there had been no such phone calls.

But he said the President "has received and sent other personal messages" from and to Eden.

Responding to another question, Hagerty said some of those messages were exchanged before the one the White House announced yesterday and some afterward.

Britain, France Use UN Vetoes

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Britain and France used their vetoes twice last night to tie the hands of the U. N. Security Council in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting while they rushed troops toward the Suez Canal zone.

Their actions drove a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States.

The vetoes were viewed as a hard blow to the 11-nation council's prestige, already lowered by 78 Soviet vetoes in 11 years.

The council adjourned only 27 minutes before the 11:30 p.m. deadline set by Britain and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to their proposal to land troops along the waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26.

The two Western powers gave Egypt and Israel 12 hours to stop fighting and draw back 10 miles from the 103-mile canal so that British and French forces could move temporarily into Port Said, Ismailia and Suez to separate the belligerents and to guarantee freedom of transit through the canal. They said if Egypt and Israel did not consent, they would move in anyway. Israel agreed but Egypt refused.

No Goblins Here Tonight Quiet Halloween Expected

Twenty, ten or even five years ago tonight, store windows would be marked with soap, cars would be turned over, window panes would be broken, vandalism would be rampant.

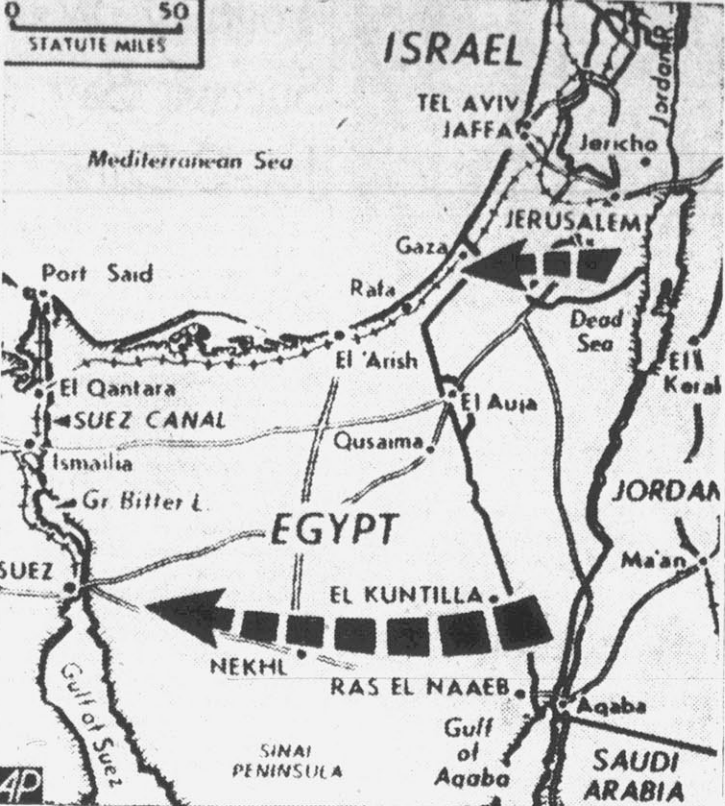

But nothing such as that has happened in the past three years and "it is not anticipated tonight," said S. G. Gibbs, Greenville Police Chief. "There will be no extra patrol cars tonight or will there be added policemen." As far as the Police Department is concerned, everything will be carried out in a routine manner for this Halloween night.

Principal of Greenville High School, O. E. Dowd, stated that the students of GHS had been talked to concerning the 31st. "We have tried to teach them to respect other peoples' property," said Dowd. "Such vandalism as is usually displayed on Halloween night is needless and we hope we have gotten the point across to them."

Elsewhere in Greenville, plans are in the making for projects useful both to the children of the city and to children of foreign countries. Said Mrs. Jake Hadley: "Fourteen churches are participating in a city-wide campaign to raise money for the United Nations' Children's Fund. Children will meet at their respective churches around 5:30 tonight. At 6:30 they will leave, accompanied by an adult, and go from house to house collecting money that will be used to purchase clothes for children of foreign countries. The children will be identified by an orange tag with a little girl drinking milk. The inscription on the tag reads, 'Trick or Treat for UNICEF.' The children will be treated at their churches either before or after the drive through the city. The project is sponsored by the Greenville Council of Church Women and is headed by Mrs. Sam Weeks.

Gordon Goodman, Greenville Recreation head, announced that a Midget football game will be held tonight. Children who go to the game will be given a ticket with a number on it. After the game is over, the ticket stubs will be drawn and the lucky ticket holders will receive telephone calls at their homes and awarded prizes. "The child will be home in order to win," said Goodman.

Where Israelis Struck In Egypt

The large arrow near the bottom of this map traces the advance of Israel's armed forces into Egypt's barren Sinai peninsula for at least 75 miles. Egypt claimed her army halted the drive about 70 miles short of the Suez Canal and started "liquidating" the Israelis. Israel claimed the purpose of the expedition was to clear out bases of Egyptian commandos who have been raiding into Israel. Meanwhile, fighting flared up in the north (small arrow at top) along Egypt's Gaza strip where Israeli forces also crossed into Egypt. (AP Wirephoto Map).

British Warn Civilians To Clear All Airfields

PARIS (AP) — The Defense Ministry tonight announced that combined British-French operations against points in the Suez Canal area began today at 6:40 p.m. Egyptian time.

The Defense Ministry made its announcement on receipt of a military report from headquarters on Cyprus that the combined aerial and naval bombardment had begun.

By EDWIN SHANKE CAIRO (AP) — Britain warned Egyptians to clear out from all Egyptian airfields today — apparently as a prelude to the expected landing of a French-British expeditionary airborne force to seize control of the Suez Canal.

Egypt announced it had put Russian MIGs into operation against Israeli forces on the Sinai Peninsula. Israel claimed the capture of an Egyptian ship in Haifa.

On the canal operation, London newspapers reported waves of troops — carrying planes took off from the Mediterranean base of Cyprus just after dawn, flying toward the canal 250 miles away.

But these reports appeared to have been premature at least. Hours later Egyptian governors at Port Said, Ismailia and Suez along the canal reported all quiet there with no sign of invading forces.

The Voice of Israel, Jerusalem radio station, warned the refugee-packed Gaza Strip that it soon would be cut off from Egypt. It asserted Israeli military operations in the Sinai Peninsula soon would be concluded with the defeat of Egyptian forces.

The Israelis claimed to have destroyed scores of Egyptian vehicles in air attacks on convoys east of Ismailia, and claimed their forces had reached within 10 miles of the Suez Canal, the "ultimatum" line set by Britain and France.

Egyptian military headquarters announced it had sent its Soviet-built MIGs into battle today and that they had knocked down two Israeli planes. The Egyptians admitted the loss of two of their own planes.

The Egyptians said bombers also had gone into action over Israel's territory and had destroyed and damaged Israeli airfields.

The Israelis announced the capture of an Egyptian 1,000-ton frigate, the Ibrahim Awal which was being towed to Haifa, and the surrender of its 250-man crew.

The Egyptians said the frigate was scuttled by its captain in an attempt to prevent its capture. "Successfully completing its mission," the high command said the Ibrahim Awal developed engine trouble during an attack by three Israeli warships and warplanes and the captain was forced to sink her.

Egypt rejected a demand from London and Paris that the Israeli-Egyptian fighting cease by 6:30 a.m. and troops be pulled back 10 miles from each side of the Suez to let the European troops in. The British and French had said they would send their troops into the canal zone "temporarily" to keep it open even if either country rejected the ultimatum.

Reliable Egyptian sources said up to 11:30 a.m. no foreign troops had landed in the canal zone.

The Israeli army reported all quiet on the fighting front in the Sinai Peninsula and claimed it had units 10 miles from the Suez Canal — the line set by the British and French.

The Egyptian army claimed it was in control of the military situation.

Fighting flared, however, at sea and in the air. Just off Haifa, Israeli naval ships and planes attacked a 1,000-ton Egyptian frigate trying to shell the Israeli port. The duel ended in the surrender of the Egyptian ship and its crew of 250.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Adlai Stevenson says the Eisenhower administration dismissed a proposal he made to bring peace to the troubled Middle East — an area certain to figure largely in the last six days of the U. S. presidential campaign.

Israeli military moves into Egypt forced cancellation yesterday of President Eisenhower's own political plans for today and left the remainder of his campaign program in doubt.

Stevenson said in a Philadelphia address last night that he suggested nearly a year ago that the United Nations undertake "patrol duties in the area of tension" to stop bloodshed and violence. "Needless to say," the Democratic presidential nominee continued, "this administration even as they are now dismissing my suggestion that we take prompt steps to stop the experimental ex-

Russians Appear To Be Retreating Out Of Budapest

By GEORGE BOUTWOOD BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The Russian retreat from Budapest appeared in full swing today. Soviet tanks — leaving their dead and wounded headed away under a shower of leaflets from Hungarian air force planes threatening to bomb them if they tarried.

Russian armored forces guarding the Danube River bridges withdrew at dawn. Others fell into the lines of retreat throughout the morning.

The Hungarian army, now completely on the side of the revolution, trucked in fresh platoons to relieve street patrols of the ragged insurgents. The army took over the citadel, a fortress commanding the entire city, and ringed it with antitank guns.

Rebel armor which had been directed against the Russians was channeled entirely for the moment against remnants of the equally detested AVH, the Red Hungarian secret police.

Vengeance hunts for the members of the AVH, which Premier Imre Nagy's government has ordered dissolved, developed all over the revolt-torn city.

Unofficial Hungarian sources said 130 secret policemen, captured yesterday in a battle for Budapest's Communist party headquarters, were hanged by their heels and beaten to death. A precinct party headquarters was a prime target in the street fighting today.

Expunging of Soviet signs was accelerated with the government's Reports still conflicted as to whether Nagy's government or the rebels effected his release.

The Hungarian air force threatened yesterday to attack the Russians unless they left Budapest within 12 hours. The 12 hours expired without such an attack. The leaflet campaign, reiterating the threat, opened at daylight.

The Budapest radio announced most of the Russians have left. It said the population was becoming impatient for the withdrawal of Soviet tanks in the area of the Parliament building.

The announcement of its decision to end the one-party dictatorship and revive the multiparty governmental system that prevailed before the Reds took over in 1948.

The Red army memorial — a statue of a Russian infantryman — was toppled from its stand. Workmen chipped the stone hammer-and-sickle emblems from the Danube bridges. Giant metal red stars, ripped from building fronts, littered the streets.

In all this turmoil, Josef Cardinal Mindszenty returned in triumph to the city where he was condemned by a Communist court in 1949 to life imprisonment as a traitor. Church bells pealed a welcome.

Women knelt in the streets as the Roman Catholic prelate, freed last night from a jail at Felsoepeteny, raised his hands in blessing. Men bared their heads and crossed themselves. Many wept. It was one of the emotional peaks of the eight-day-old revolution.

Hungarian troops escorted the prelate, who appeared in good health, to the palace he had occupied as Hungary's prime minister. Armed guards were posted there.

Bitter fighting was reported in some sections early this morning. The secret police force numbered about 30,000 and some of its members were in hiding in Budapest's slum areas. The insurgents were pressing a house to house search.

A rebel radio broadcast demanded that the Nagy government guarantee withdrawal of Russian troops from all Hungary by the end of December.

The Freedom National Council, whose headquarters have been established at Győr, said it was ready to enter negotiations with the government. The rebel broadcast said a number of Hungarian army units have pledged loyalty to the Council. It also said a general strike still is in progress in some parts of the country and would be continued unless the government meets demands.

Hungary's old traditional political parties began to pick up the threads of their existence after years of Communist-ordered oblivion. Bela Kovacs, former first secretary of the small Landholders party, was reported to have arrived in Budapest.

Nationalists yesterday broke into headquarters of the Communist party on Republic Square, dragged out party functionaries and secret police officers and hanged them on trees.

Informed sources said many secret police officers hoped to find refuge in the Soviet Union.

Telephone and telegraph communications between Budapest and Vienna were restored today.

After the early morning street clashes in the hunt for secret police members, Budapest was quiet with the national guard maintaining order. The Hungarian army was moving extra troops into the city. The citadel commanding the entire capital was in the hands of the army and ringed by antitank guns.

The three were identified by Bethel Chief of Police Walter Gray as Levy James Manning, 16, Irvin Williams Jr., 16, and Bonnie Wilkins, 21.

Russia Offering Sovereignty To All Satellites

By ROY ESSOYAN MOSCOW (AP) — In a major policy shift, the Soviet Union says it wants all the Communist countries to be completely sovereign and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in three of them.

An unusual declaration issued by the government last night was interpreted by diplomatic observers as indicating Moscow was seeking a graceful way out of an increasingly embarrassing situation within the Communist camp.

In conciliatory tones, it promised that the Soviet army will evacuate Budapest "as soon as this is considered necessary by the Hungarian government."

It also acknowledged that "the further presence of Soviet armed units in Hungary may cause even further aggravation of the situation."

The declaration said there are Soviet units in only three of the "peoples' democracies," Hungary, Romania and Poland.

It went on: "With a view to insuring mutual security... the Soviet government is ready to examine with other Socialist countries participating in the Warsaw Treaty the question of Soviet troops stationed on the territory of the above-mentioned countries."

The Soviet troops in Poland, Hungary and Romania are there under terms of the Warsaw Pact, a Russian-commanded mutual defense alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her East European allies.

Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told Western correspondents last night all the pact members would have to agree to the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary, a major demand of the rebels there.

There was no mention in last night's declaration of Soviet troops in East Germany.

The declaration spoke of "the great commonwealth of Socialist nations" and said its members could build their relations on the "principle of full equality, respect of territorial integrity, state independence and sovereignty and noninterference in the domestic affairs of any another."

This, it said, presupposes continued close fraternal ties in economic, political and cultural spheres.

The Soviet Union said it was putting into practice decisions of last February's 20th Soviet Communist Party Congress based on "maintaining the complete sovereignty of every Socialist state."

Wayne Officials Endorse Airport Governing bodies of Goldsboro and Wayne County have reaffirmed their support of the Mid-East Carolina Airport in meetings Monday night.

The resolutions adopted by the Goldsboro Aldermen and the Wayne County Commissioners pledged the groups to continue to work with other Eastern North Carolina cities and counties in an effort to establish a commercial airport. Wilson's commissioners reaffirmed their support last week and officials of Greenville and Pitt County have been committed since budgets were authorized for the present fiscal year.

The Goldsboro and Wayne county officials adopted resolutions endorsing the proposal and pledged financial support, subject to the enactment of necessary state legislation.

The proposed airport would be near Waltham and would serve principally the cities of Goldsboro, Kingston, Wilson and Greenville.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration has indicated it would provide matching funds for a new airport in East North Carolina. The city of Rocky Mount is going ahead with plans for a new airport there for which it hopes to obtain CAA funds, despite the recent actions of other towns in the Eastern part of the state.

Realtors Endorse New Applications The Pitt County Board of Realtors at a semi-weekly business meeting yesterday went on record as encouraging applications for membership from real estate agents in the county who already have the North Carolina state privilege license, but who are not now realtors.

A member pointed out that such prospective members must satisfactorily complete the written examination on technical matters in the field of real estate and also satisfy the board as to their experience and other qualifications. President Jack Wallace presided.

Other officials in the courthouse were surprised and shocked by the action.

The orders and summons were served on Andrews by Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson immediately after they were handed him.

Those who frequent the County Jail expressed shock, dismay and disbelief this morning as they learned of charges of irregularities in Tax Collector Henry Andrews' office.

"I've never been so shocked in my life," one person who knew the long time county employee declared this morning.

"It's incredible. I just can't believe it," another declared.

"We're sick," said someone else. "I won't believe it until Henry Andrews admits it."

"It knocked me off my feet," was another comment.

Numerous persons stopped briefly to peer through the glass of the closed door of the tax collector's office this morning. Inside, county officials and auditors were busy carefully checking the tax collector's records.

Meantime collections went on in a room next door with other county employees temporarily accepting money from those who wished to pay.

One friend of the quiet tax collector summed it up for all this morning as he said "I just be damned if I can believe it."

County Commissioners Meet This Afternoon To Consider Charges

Pitt County Assistant Tax Collector Henry L. Andrews resigned from office late yesterday afternoon minutes after a court order was signed alleging fraud involving "substantial sums."

County officials this morning declined to estimate the amount of funds involved in the alleged shortages.

Smith's Statement W. Jasper Smith, chairman of the County Board of Commissioners who was out of the county yesterday when the action against Andrews was taken, said in a statement this morning:

"In a routine check by the CPA firm which makes our annual audit, certain irregularities in funds turned over to Mr. Andrews by the tax field men showed up.

"The reports of the field men checked out correctly, but the money deposited by Mr. Andrews and reported in his turn-over to the Auditor's Office showed sufficient discrepancies to warrant immediate action.

"These discrepancies have been in small amounts and represent part of penalty or interest. All tax principal has been accounted for and from time to time the audit has shown full and proper accounting for such funds. Those particular reports established a pattern which made necessary the action taken."

Judge Signs Order The court order signed shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon by Superior Court Judge Leland McKeithan asserted the "purpose of this action is to recover from the defendant sums of money collected by him as Pitt County Auditor and fraudulently withheld by the defendant in the cause of this action and unlawfully converted to his own use."

The order further asserted that "substantial sums of money have been had and received by the defendant and wrongfully, wilfully and fraudulently withheld" from Pitt County.

Imprisoned Records Another order also signed by Judge McKeithan in the swift late afternoon action impounded certain "lock boxes, cigar boxes and other containers together with the contents thereof including records of deposits and withdrawals" in the tax office vault.

The action impounding certain records in the county's tax office and leveling the charges against Andrews came late yesterday afternoon following a conference between Harold M. Alred, county tax supervisor, J. Vance Perkins, vice chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, W. W. Speight, county attorney, H. R. Gray, county auditor, and W. H. Hollowell, special auditor who has handled the auditing of county books for 20 years.

Other officials in the courthouse were surprised and shocked by the action.

The orders and summons were served on Andrews by Pitt County Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson immediately after they were handed him.

Special Auditor Hollowell said this morning the alleged shortages come in penalties and interest which has been collected on county taxes. So far, he said, "the pattern indicates irregularities of a few cents on individual transactions." He declined to estimate the total amount which may be involved.

Other County tax and auditing officials today intimated the sums involved in the alleged shortages may not be too large. They pointed to the fact that the record of tax collections in Pitt County has run as high as 98 per cent of the levy in some years and consistently has been several percentage points above total collections in other counties having total levies comparable to that of Pitt.

The check by auditors is continuing and no indication was given as to how long it will take to arrive at a figure for the alleged irregularities which the auditors will certify.

'State Of The Union' Reviewed

By GEORGE E. PERRY
The first East Carolina Playhouse production of the season, "State of the Union," by Lindsay and Crouse, had its opening night last evening in McGinnis Auditorium on the College Campus, when a well-chosen cast of students, headed by the professional actor, Jeffrey Lynn, gave a commendable if not altogether exciting presentation of this Broadway hit. The play got off to a rather slow start; one kept looking for a spark of impetus or propulsion. The reason is two-fold: this work is not an easy one to present, and it does open in somewhat of a slow tempo, with which even an all-professional cast would have trouble. Secondly, the cast, which for the most part was comprised of seasoned amateurs, found the opening of the play difficult into which to sink their teeth. However, by the end of the first scene of the first act, the pitch and tempo of the play had risen, and it remained high throughout the rest of the evening.

rest of the players, didn't exactly start out with a bang, but as the play progressed, one could see him putting more and more of himself into his part, and at the climax in the second scene of act three, his work was exciting and uninhibited. One was also conscious of his awareness of the slowness of pace from time to time, and that he it was noticeably picked up the lag. Certain of his scenes were worthy of comment: the short spot when in the opening of the play he was asked to call his wife, or rather his estranged wife; the scene in which his being placed in the same room with his wife at Mr. Conover's was being discussed; his excellent work throughout act two, with its many diversions; and especially in the last scene of the play when he began to stand on his own two feet, politically speaking. In this scene, too, and in act two, when he and his wife showed the romantic side of marriage, he made a nice switch from the businessman to the reminiscent husband. As his wife, Mary, Bobbie Harrell, did a wonderful piece of work. It was she who had the cleverest of lines, usually, and she knew how to deliver them with full effectiveness. She did an excellent "take" when, soon after her entrance, the news that her husband was considered as presidential timber was thrown in her face. Her solo scene, done in complete silence, in act three, scene two, was short but extremely effective. Her curtain line "I'm a thick quinker" which closed the first scene of act three was expertly delivered—controlled intonation at its best. Her choice of attractive clothes left little to be desired in the way of costuming on her part.

portrayed his role with excitement and good wholesome exuberance without being hammy. Margaret Starnes, as Kay Thorndyke—the other woman in Grant's life—kept her role controlled, and did a fine job as the second female lead. Without detracting from the female lead, Miss Starnes succeeded admirably in keeping her portrayal commanding and important. Alice Starnes and Lloyd Bray Jr., as the couple from the south, gave warm and very convincing interpretations of their roles. All of these players did enviable pieces of acting. Even the minor bits were capably done—especially J. C. Dunn, who would make any rich estate an aristocratic butler. The sets were the best that have been shown here in a long time. In fact, the third dimensional set for act three, showing the bar beyond one arch and the stairway beyond the other, is the first 3-D set that has been on the College Theatre boards—in the past eight years, if my memory isn't faulty. In summary, the slowness of the pace at times should not be misconstrued with the intentional periods of silence which happened from time to time, and which were well-planned, but so often absent in amateur productions. A couple of them were almost ominous. There were occasional slips and gaps which one takes for granted on opening-nights, but which will be ironed out before the play concludes its run on Friday of this week. In view of the fact that this is election year, it would behoove all of the citizens to see this play, for there is some good sound reasoning in it, which we would do well to take to heart at this auspicious time.

Fenner Speaks To Men's Club

Julian B. Fenner, president of the Men's Fellowship of the Albemarle Presbytery, was guest speaker at the October meeting of the Chicod Men's Fellowship Club Thursday night. Fenner's topic was "What Churches Miss By Not Having A Men's Club." He gave the aims of men's work in the club as to have more people accept Christ; to teach men the history, aims, beliefs and programs of the church; and to engage in the work of the church. A good men's club should have a clear-cut statement of purpose, should learn and enjoy Christian fellowship and maintain interest by having good, inspiring programs, he declared. "Men's work is men working. Success or failure depends on each individual," he concluded. Dinner was served to the men in the Chicod School Cafeteria by the Ladies Auxiliary.

More Support For Airport

There should be no question now about the financial backing which is available to the Mid-East Carolina Airport Authority.

Developments of the past few days, on top of previous definite statements from cities and counties of this area should give all the assurance anyone could ask for that the airport will be constructed as a joint project.

On Thursday night the Wilson Board of Commissioners passed a resolution announcing they would support the airport financially by appropriating at the proper time such funds as represented its pro rata share of the joint effort.

Monday, on the heels of Wilson's action similar action was taken by the governing board of the city of Goldsboro and the Wayne County Commissioners,

In the clearest possible terms these local governments have said they expect to support financially the joint airport project. Add to that the fact that previously Greenville and Pitt County have budgeted for this fiscal year their pro rata share of the total funds for one year, Greene County has done likewise as have the municipalities of Fountain, Fremont, LaGrange, Pinetops, Snow Hill, Stantonsburg, Walstonburg, Winterville and Farmville.

With these definite commitments from local governments there can be no question that they intend to build a joint airport to serve the eastern section of North Carolina. Any question of the intent of these cities and towns to participate fully in the project should now have been eliminated.

The Board of Conservation and Development which has endorsed the Mid-East Airport as the area airport for Eastern North Carolina need not fear it will be embarrassed by sticking adamantly to its original resolution which Rocky Mount has asked be altered.

There is no longer room for doubt that the Mid-East Carolina Airport will become a reality as quickly as federal funds can be made available to match funds which will be forthcoming from these local governments.

The situation now boils down to one fine point. Will the Mid-East Carolina Airport receive federal matching funds or will the airport Rocky Mount proposed to build for itself receive the federal funds? The CAA has said it will provide matching funds for one airport in this area, but not two.

By any process of evaluation it seems evident that a joint airport supported by more than a dozen local governments will be of far greater service to all Eastern North Carolina than a single-city airport. It should therefore receive top priority in the matter of matching federal funds for airport construction.

Six-Year Building Record Indicates City's Growth

So you think Greenville's grown in the last six years?

You're right.

Greenville has grown rapidly in the past six years and from all indications it will continue to grow in the years immediately ahead.

A good barometer of the growth of a community is the number of dwelling units and commercial buildings which are erected in any period of time. From the first of 1950 through September 30 of this year a total of 1,188 new family dwelling units were constructed in Greenville. These consisted of 950 homes and 108 apartment houses.

Although all of these may not be occupied, the number of unoccupied dwellings and apartments in the city is small. That of course leads to the conclusion that the city's population has been swelled by more than 1,000 families during the last six years with an average of about four people to a family. On the basis of this figure Greenville has grown by about 4,000 people in the last six years or about 25 per cent above its population of the 1950 census and is now a city of about 20,000 people.

There are other factors which must be used in gauging the city's growth. These construction figures are based on the building permits issued by the city. They include only construction which is done within the corporate limits. Added to these figures must be the number of houses and apartments which were under construction or completed in adjacent areas added to the corporate limits of the city from time to time.

If our guestmates of the city's population growth in the past six years are not too far off, it appears that Greenville during the current decade may equal or surpass its population growth from 1940 to 1950. On the basis of census reports for those two years, Greenville enjoyed a population growth of 31.8 per cent during the decade. It was slightly under the 38 per cent increase in population for the decade from 1930 to 1940, but it was a significant growth.

Greenville's growth continues to be a health economic factor.

Stern Measures Should Be Imposed On Aggressor

With the proverbial "power keg" of the middle east about to erupt into real war, there should be quick and firm action by the United Nations if that organization is to justify its continued existence. All-out war between nations can be prevented if the UN members are sincere in their desires for peace and are willing to band themselves together to preserve it.

The matter between Israeli and Egypt should find its place before the UN at once and full sanctions should be taken against such aggressor as is named. The old League of Nations failed because its members were unwilling to shoulder the responsibility that was plainly theirs if peace was to be preserved. As a result of the failure of firm action by the League of Nations first one and then another aggressor moved forward until the whole world was embroiled in World War II.

If the United Nations organization fails in the present instance to take a firm stand, history will likely repeat itself and in time there will be World War III, a war that could well end civilization as we know it.

The way for the UN to put a stop to the present struggle is to order a cease fire at once and name the nation that will not obey the order as the aggressor. This should be followed by an immediate order to all UN member nations to refrain from any kind of aid, economic or otherwise to the aggressor nation. If this action does not stop the aggression then the combined forces of the UN members should be brought to bear against the aggressor. We can have peace if the combined nations of the world sincerely want it and are willing to take a firm stand to have it.

Increasing Concern Over Highway Plans

By C. A. UPCHURCH, JR.

RALEIGH — Increasing concern is being shown by municipalities and commercial enterprises in North Carolina over the shape the huge Federal interstate highway program is taking.

Both groups see prospects of being hurt unless highway authorities handle their particular problems with sympathy and understanding.

As a result, study committees are being appointed to consult with highway planners, explain their problems, seek advance data on road routings and obtain hearings when they have grievances to air.

Latest group to set up a study committee is the North Carolina League of Municipalities. Earlier, the N. C. Quality Restaurant Association, motel and hotel people, and other interested from a commercial standpoint took steps to find out just what the score now is and what it will be when the blueprints are finished and construction begins.

COMMERCIAL — The restaurants, hotels, service stations, motels, etc., are interested of course in protecting their business and, therefore, their investments. They don't want to see tourists swished through North Carolina so fast they not only will not get a good look at the State but will not have time to spend any money.

The municipalities are concerned with the impact that by-passes, limited-access roads, no-access roads and throughways will have on existing urban facilities, development plans and property values. Thus, from the standpoint of property values, towns and cities also have a commercial interest. This applies also to counties. For instance, if motor courts or service station facilities with a high property valuation are by-passed out of existence, they quit being taxayers on property as well as privilege licenses.

Similarly, some of the commercial groups maintain that a multitude of investments, aggregating big money and probably running into the millions, are being withheld in North Carolina until the prospective investors are satisfied as to where the roads are going and, once located, that the roads will stay put where trade can reach their businesses.

MUNICIPALITIES — Of the 37 1/2 billion dollars the Federal government proposes to expend for highway improvements over the next 13 years, 15 billion dollars are earmarked for urban sections of the interstate system. That means a lot of new construction in and around municipalities.

Officials of North Carolina cities and towns consequently are taking definite steps toward getting with highway officials to exchange thinking on the problems bound to come. If a throughway splits a town, what will it do to street patterns so laboriously worked out? Will it chop off a corner of a cemetery or create expensive problems in traffic, water, sewage, zoning and other municipal responsibilities? What will be the effect of by-passes, limited-access and no-access sections on property values?

These questions are very important to the man and woman who run North Carolina's cities and towns. They are alert to the problems in prospect and they want to consult in advance with highway planners.

RESOLUTIONS — At its recent convention the League of Municipalities — with 640 municipal officials registered from every section of the State — took steps designed to protect the best they can, the interests of cities and towns. One resolution "urgently requested" the State Highway and Public Works Commission "to give full and complete consideration to the traffic and street improvement needs of municipalities in order that warranted projects within municipalities as well as those adjacent thereto may be undertaken to meet the total needs of urban areas in North Carolina." In other words, the municipalities would like to have a say-so in planning for Federal-aid urban improvements based on their most pressing traffic and street problems.

The municipalities are going farther. Their new president, Mayor E. J. Evans of Durham, has been authorized to appoint a special study committee to prepare a report on municipalities' street - traffic problems, their needs and desires, for presentation to a legislative study commission now studying the administration of the highway commission. The League feels, frankly, that "several serious questions concerning policies of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, directly affecting cities and towns, have arisen which require investigation and study."

TOUGH JOB — Trying to satisfy all the diverse elements vitally concerned with the routing of the new highways — with all presenting solid arguments to support their positions — will be a well-nigh impossible job for the highway planners. They, too, have problems and restrictions. The interstate highways must be designed for military use as well as civilian traffic. Limited access to major highways will become increasingly evident, as there's no point in building an expensive highway to facilitate the flow of traffic and then letting a multitude of entrances impede that flow.

The prospect, then, is for considerable heat to be generated by the new highway routes. It will take a great deal of understanding on all sides to bring forth the most equitable solution to the many problems involved.

Other Editors Are Saying... Words From The Wives

(The Daily Oklahoman)

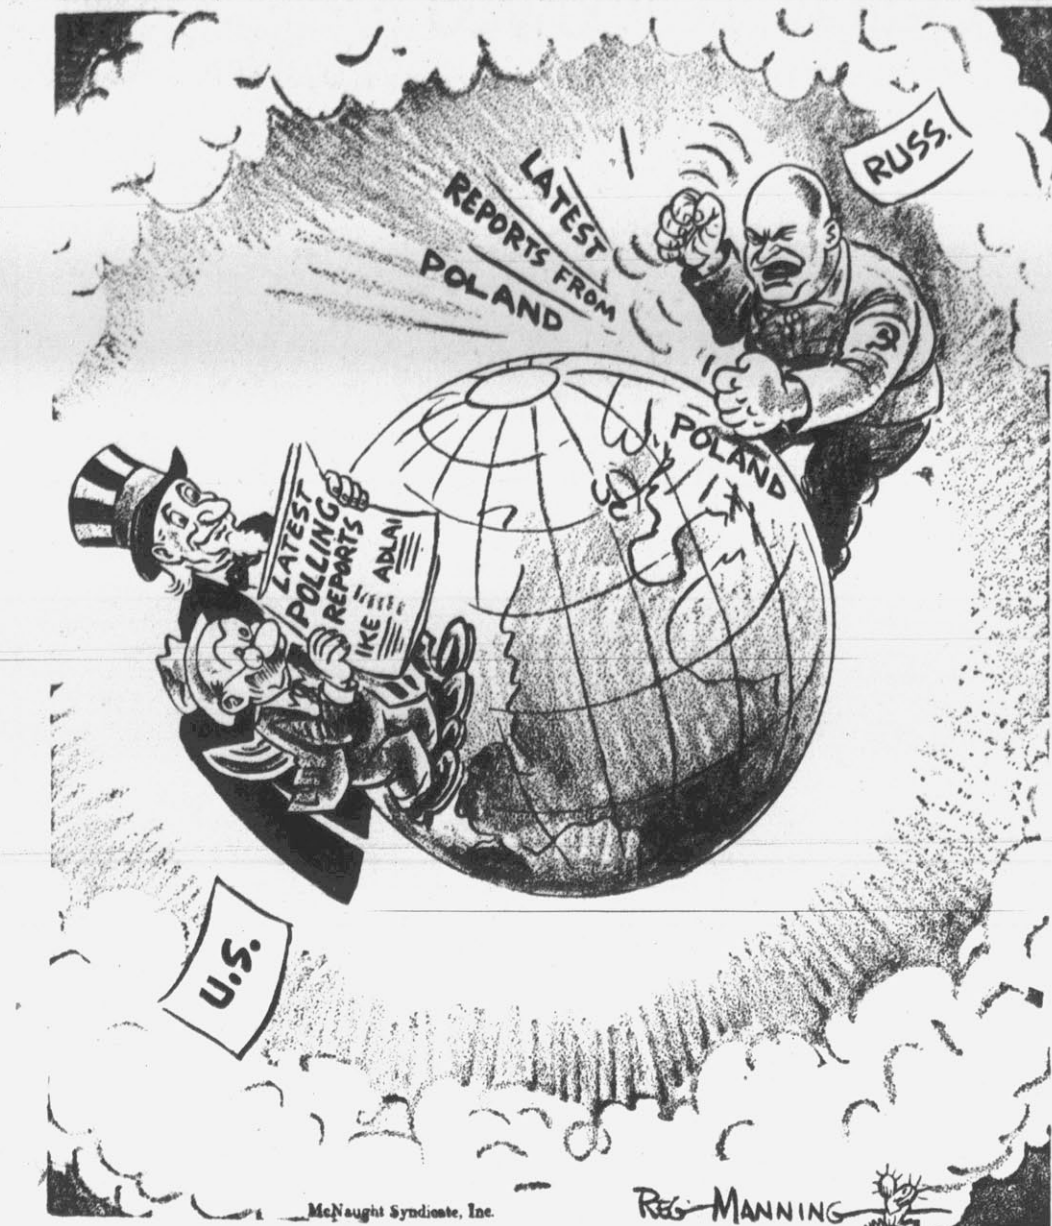

One of the lively current topics in labor circles is how the unions are going to live with automation which apparently is here to stay. The AFL-CIO has been giving thought to the subject and is coming up with proposals that add up to a lot more leisure time for workers. In short the unions are proposing the same pay for a work week ridiculously abbreviated.

Of course the economic justification for the increased use of machinery is lowered production costs. It wouldn't be apparent why any business should spend a lot of money for costly labor saving equipment if most of the resulting economies went for still more paid time off for labor.

But this perfectly valid objection may not be nearly as effective as another one that is coming from unexpected quarters. It seems that the proposals for three-day week-ends and winter as well as summer vacation aren't arousing much enthusiasm on the part of the workers themselves.

This lack of enthusiasm apparently reflects a hostile reception at home to the prospect of still more loafing time for the old man. It seems that the wives don't relish the idea of having their husbands cluttering up the premises for still another day in the week. They'd rather have their husbands comfortably out of the way, preferably on overtime.

A Working Man's Extra Work

My Uncle Luke has worked all his adult life and part of his boyhood days in a machine shop.

He has the usual things to show for his life-long labor, such as a car and furnished home of his own and a complete and thorough working knowledge of a machine shop and all the things that go to make up a machine shop.

Uncle Luke has these things, like any man would probably have had he worked all his life in a machine shop; but in addition to these usual things, he has one more that shines like the morning star.

It's a locomotive — his life's hobby.

Not a large one and not a toy one. It's about eight feet in length and has six driving wheels, each about seven inches high. It runs on tracks approximately two feet apart, and with full power and sand between the rails and the drivers, it'll easily pull a boxcar.

This locomotive, so much a part of Uncle Luke's life and mine too, especially when I was a small boy, is not yet complete. The idea was born over 25 years ago. Each part that has gone into the making of the little powerhouse was fashioned by his skilled machinist's hands. Every minute and dollar he could spare went into the making of the miniature locomotive.

For some years he has had the six-wheeler running, but on compressed air. Although the boiler is finished, it has not yet been put in place because it would have to be inspected and the installation itself is rather expensive — too expensive at the present. But even with compressed air, five-able-bodied men couldn't hold it back. I know. I've seen it tried.

I'll never forget the times, when I was five and six years old, that I sat in the engineer's seat, blew the whistle and rang the bell. Sometimes I even got to work the throttle, but with the guiding hand of Uncle Luke helping me.

Some things in life you never forget. This is one of the things. He hasn't either, because when I talk to him about the little engine, he won't tell me what it means to him, but looking closer, I find that his eyes betray his thoughts.

One man's ambition is money, while another man's is fame. Many men want many things. One man wants a finished locomotive. Someday he'll have it.

Notebook On Life

Comments Of A Pavement Plato

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement

Courting the presidency of the United State, is a lot like courting a girl.

Courtship often has these three stages:
1. The bashful-bean is introduced to a girl everybody says is the belle of the neighborhood, but all he can see is her hair-
2. He discovers she is truly noble, so noble he couldn't possibly ever be worthy of her, so he might as well say farewell.

3. Then he sees another guy ask her for a date, and immediately the bashful-bean becomes a besieging tiger. Now she is not only the most desirable girl in the world—he is sure he is the one lad in the country who can make her happy. And he wants to climb a mountain or swim an ocean to prove it.

And doesn't a political candidate's romance with the presidency sometimes go through the same three stages?

Both Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson went through the bashful-bean stage and the I-ain't-the-guy-for-such-a-great-big-job-stage before 1952, when they finally got down to the third, or brass tacks stage.

Today they're in a brass knucks return engagement. Who would have thought only six years ago that those two fine men, so dubious then even of dreaming for the presidency, would now be clobbering each other for the right to that job, like two kids trying to get the last piece of cake at a birthday party?

It's a mystery to me why anybody even takes the job, many a voter says. "I wouldn't take it for twice the dough."

That's what he says. But if 10 of his neighbors told him he'd make a good president, he'd begin to wonder. If 100 told him the same thing he'd begin to believe it himself. If 1,000 told him this — even as a joke — he'd pawn his motor car to raise funds to launch his campaign.

That's the odd thing about "P-tomac fever." Under the right conditions anybody can be infected by it — for a vegetarian to a general, from a lady reformer to a lawyer.

Just why no one knows. For if courting the presidency is like courting a girl, winning the presidency is like marrying a jealous woman with 169 million in-laws, all of whom think they have a

DIVINE ACHIEVEMENT

Eternal life spoken of in the Bible is at one and the same time both a glorious and a horrifying reality. For the life to which we commit ourselves here on earth is the life which we are going to have to live eternally.

Buddha recognized this and so began a religion which teaches that the thing most to be desired is the attaining to nirvana. This consists of the extinction of the flame of life, man's final emancipation and freedom from the necessity of living on and on. Millions of people have been attracted to Buddhism, but Buddhism is the very opposite of Christianity. Christianity teaches that life goes on without end, but it says that the thing most to be desired is not that we should get out of the stream of life altogether but into a stream of life that will bring eternal satisfaction in the living of it.

Those who have to live with hatred and unappeasable passion and powers broken by a long life of sinning will confront anguish indeed, but those who are ready for the gifts God is more than willing to confer upon them will live lives of significance of which eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither has entered into the heart of man.

Justice and love rule the universe, so we have nothing to fear if we really want to attain to the glory God has promised in His Word. Repentant sin is always forgiven. Holy aspiration is encouraged and fulfilled.

This Is Year Of Vice-Presidential Battle

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON Reversing the historic system under which the No. 2 candidates on national tickets behave as virtual nonentities, the 1956 contest will be recorded as the "battle of the Vice Presidents," actual and potential. Although the Nixon-Kefauver kind of campaign indicates otherwise, it could be a needed and favorable political reform and development.

It is President Eisenhower's two operations, of course, which have thrown a stronger searchlight on the Vice President and his opponent. Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. More than ever before, the voters have been asked to keep in mind that both men are potential Presidents.

Unfortunately, as of today, this concentration on the secondary candidates does not promise permanent and constructive revision of the Method of selecting men for this office. Both Nixon and Kefauver were chosen for practical political reasons, not for their basic qualifications.

SENATOR KEFAUVER'S VOTING RECORD

In choosing Kefauver, and especially in view of the constant difficulties with Russia, the Democratic strategists at Chicago apparently gave no thought to his voting record on numerous internal security measures. It has been raised against him in many sections vulnerable or susceptible to this kind of attack.

It explains why so many Southern politicians and Members of Congress did not favor his nomination, for he lined up almost solidly against the Dixie representation on these questions.

More importantly, he opposed making the House Un-American Activities Committee into a permanent body.

Had his views prevailed, Alger Hiss and other espionage agents might never have been exposed and apprehended. Ironically, Nixon might not be the Vice President today, for it was his prominence in snaring Hiss that won him this honor.

of editors of the Amerasia magazine, who were found to have in their possession hundreds of secret documents bearing on our Far East policy. He opposed the measure to create a Subversive Activities Control Board, which screens seemingly innocuous but possible "communist fronts." When Truman vetoed the bill, Kefauver was one of only 10 Senators to vote to uphold the veto.

Finally, he sponsored the movement to organize the "North Atlantic Union," with a vague idea of creating a "common citizenship" for all the nationalities that would have been fused into the organization. Even such a supporter of international causes as Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, pigeonholed this proposal.

NIXON SUSPECTED OF BEING REACTIONARY Nixon is not under fire for his actual voting record so much as for his personality and his supposed philosophy of government. He is regarded as a political opportunist who gives only lip service to

Sales On Sunday Spreading

By ELMER ROESSNER

A lengthening front is developing in the constant warfare between various groups of retailers. A bitter battle is now being waged over Sunday selling in many sections of the country.

There are many fronts in the ceaseless war for consumer spending. Discount houses are battling regular-price stores, chain outlets are combatting independents, and door-to-door organizations are struggling with other retailers. But when of these competitive fights seems to have the bitterness of the conflict between Sunday sellers and those who want to see all business closed down that day.

The bitterness is deepened by religious and union attitudes.

SUNDAY SELLING SPREADING

As prices weaken in the roll of competition and sales in many lines quaver, the temptation to sell on Sunday increases. More and more retailers are showing an eagerness to promote special "events" on that day. In many metropolitan areas there have been spectacular sales whooped up for Sundays. Groups of merchants have offered special bargains and desirable premiums to induce consumers to give up Sunday driving (it's hazardous, anyway) and to come to town (driving is necessary) to partake of specialties or, as some advertisers will say after they see the word here, whoopertunities.

Many states and cities have laws prohibiting commercial transactions on Sundays. Some ordinances date back to the time of religious fervor when everything except worship on the Sabbath was suspect. Others stem from slightly more recent times when young unions were trying to outlaw the seven-day week. Still other ordinances were in later days when politically-powerful merchant princes wished to still competition at least one day a week.

These laws, many of doubtful constitutionality, are enforced only fitfully. They are rarely applied in sections where residents keep Fridays, Saturdays or other days holy. In general, enforcement is in direct ratio to religious and union feeling in the community.

Even when enforced, these laws usually fail to check Sunday selling. Vendors plead the First Amendment or, more commonly, pay nominal fines and keep on selling. Often an arrest serves to advertise the fact that the culprit stays open Sundays.

THE COUNTERATTACK

Meanwhile, merchants wishing to close Sundays, with the backing of religious and union organizations, are fighting back. Many retail associations have passed resolutions condemning Sabbath sales. Most of these resolves are worded cautiously. The associations do not want to be accused of restraining trade.

In some cities, merchants are demanding stricter enforcement and stricter laws. Some laws, it has been observed, forbid business on the Sabbath but provide no penalties for those who buy and sell on the Lord's Day. In a few cases, merchants who close on Sundays have asked for warrants against those who don't. This strategy, however, is not very effective because the complainant appears to be using religion for his own gain.

Sunday sales in the District of Columbia, where they have become common among discount houses and other aggressive sellers, have been denounced by Senator A.S. Monroney (D. Okla.). He accused Sunday vendors of violating the "American Sabbath," a charge that has basis in religion, but not Constitution. "The very idea that a sale is being held on a Sunday has a tendency to give added urgency and sales promotion impact to the disadvantage of the regular advertisers who observe the Sabbath."

That's true and that's why so many retailers have recently gone in for Sunday sales. Some of those opposed to Sunday selling wish the Senator hadn't brought up that point.

Indiana County Has Mark Of Picking 15 Winners

By IRWIN J. MILLER
EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 20 (AP)—If the people of Vanderburgh County vote the way straw polls say they will and if they continue a trend they started in 1952, President Eisenhower will be re-elected next Tuesday.

These are big "ifs" because straw polls often are wrong and trends often are broken.

Nevertheless, for 15 straight national elections Vanderburgh County has given a majority vote to the winning presidential candidate.

This is a distinction shared by only seven other counties in the nation. So every four years national attention focuses on this southwestern Indiana industrial city and its surrounding farmlands.

Many straw polls have been taken in the county in recent weeks—and they add up to a probable victory for President Eisenhower in the county, but by a greatly reduced margin from his 42,010 to 29,716 sweep of 1952. The consensus of the polls is that his margin will be less than 5,000.

Reasons for the long record of "right" voting puzzle local politicians and observers.

Some say the county has a higher than average percentage of independent voters whose swings of opinion reflect national trends. Others call the county a population cross-section. Several say the record is one of chance and may be broken this year.

"The 'population cross-section' theory has one flaw—the county is much more urban and industrialized than the national average.

The 1950 census showed 128,636 of the county's 160,422 residents lived in Evansville. Percentage-wise, only 14.3 per cent of the county's population was rural and only 3 per cent was classed as farming.

The labor vote is a powerful influence, with nearly 40 per cent of the county's employed persons working in manufacturing. This figure includes executives and office workers. Wholesale and retail trade employ about 22 per cent.

Evansville's chief industry is the making of refrigerators, followed closely by automobile body making and assembling.

Another factor affecting the county's voting is a strong Southern influence in Evansville.

An important shipping terminal on the Ohio River, the city lies farther south geographically than Louisville, Ky., and has drawn a large part of its population from the South. Many of its workers commute from Henderson, Ky., just across the river.

The Negro population of 5.7 per cent is not high considering the city's location. Evansville schools once were segregated, but no longer are.

Henry Gonner, executive secretary of the Evansville Chamber of Commerce, thinks the county may have become a political and it's near the center of population."

However, most observers say it is because of a fairly close division of basic strength between the two major parties, coupled with a good-sized independent vote which goes the way of the national trend.

Orchestra Dates For Teeners Only

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Adults will not be admitted to four concerts to be given for teen agers this season by the Milwaukee Pops orchestra.

"The concerts are being made attractive to teen agers, not their parents," said Mr. Michael MacKanin Jr., chairman, in announcing that no one over 19 will be admitted.

and Mrs. Clayton Davenport.

Fred Matthews of the U. S. Air Force, stationed in Suffolk, England was called home early in October due to the critical illness of his sister Miss Juanita Matthews.

Fred will return in England this week after a visit with his mother, Mrs. George Matthews. He has been in England three and one-half years in February. He, his wife and little daughter, Judith Sue will return to the states where he will serve his remaining three years.

Ministry Becomes Family Tradition

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Presbyterian ministry is a tradition with the Jackson family of the Germantown section.

The Rev. Dr. Ellsworth E. Jackson is pastor of the Market Square Presbyterian Church here. His son, the Rev. Dr. John Calvin Knox Jackson, was recently elected pastor of Faith Presbyterian Church, Baltimore. There he succeeds a cousin, the Rev. James Renwick Jackson Jr., and his late uncle, Dr. Walter T. Jackson.

Young Dr. Jackson has an older brother who is at First Church in Pittsburgh and an uncle, Samuel, at Bedford Church in Brooklyn. In addition, there are several cousins who are pastors.

Hungarian Revolt Hero Is Only 13-Years-Old

By ENDRE MARTON
BUDAPEST (AP)—Michael Mist, a hero of the Hungarian revolution at 13. Thanks to training in the Communist youth movement, he knew how to shoot in the fight against Russian control of his country.

Wounded in the leg by a grenade, Michael is recovering in the children's ward of a Budapest hospital. I found him playing with other children in the ward, a model airplane toy.

Sitting on the edge of the bed, he looked shyly toward the floor when I asked how he got into the fighting.

"Well, you see," he replied, "we were going to play with the others when a car with a flag on it came by. The young gentlemen in it were shouting that anybody who wanted to fight for a free Hungary should join. So we did—who wouldn't? I got a sub-machinegun at first but Lajos, who already is 16, took it away and I was very angry. Then I got only a rifle which I did not like so much."

And how had Michael learned to use the rifle?

"All us kids were trained in the (Communist) party," he replied.

Persons wearing bandages now can be seen on the streets of Budapest and doctors at University Clinic estimated there were between 10,000 and 15,000 casualties in seven days of fighting—mostly wounded.

A carload of correspondents last night entered Budapest's poorest slum area where about 100 rebels were holding out against Russian tanks and armored cars. Most of the insurgents were youths of about 20.

Fighting among the small shabby houses and tenement buildings, the youths were able to withstand the tank unit assaults because they were in action on their home ground. Familiar with every inch of the slum warren, they could vanish into the maze of streets too narrow for tanks when things got too hot. Armed only with outdated rifles, submachineguns and improvised gasoline bombs, they battled at least 100 tanks and armored vehicles.

Asked why they still refused to lay down their arms after repeated offers of amnesty from the Nagy government, they replied: "We are not interested in anything but that the Russians should go home."

Born Yesterday Not Up To Hopes

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Eight people scarcely constitute a quorum for a public opinion poll. But here are the opinions of eight concerning "Born Yesterday" as presented on Hallmark Hall of Fame Sunday evening:

"Two enjoyed it thoroughly. Six, including this viewer, suffered from varying degrees of disappointment with the Garson Kanin comedy.

All the disappointed expressed great admiration for the talents of Mary Martin, who played the part of Billie Dawn. But all felt she failed to equal the role of the dumb-smart, tough-tender dame which Judy Holliday created on Broadway and also played in the movie version.

"The trouble with Mary Martin, though it's not really a trouble," said one woman, "is that she's a lady. And Billie Dawn just isn't—in fact, she ain't no lady."

"The trouble with Mary Martin, and I really like her terrifically," said another woman, "is that she played the part with a Southern accent. Maybe it's just because we live in the New York area that I don't think a Southern accent is funny. I mean I think a Brooklyn accent, such as Judy Holliday had is funny or something."

"You mean," a man said, "that a so-called Brooklyn accent conveys a toughness of spirit and a tenderness of the flesh that's exactly right for the role?"

The woman blinked. "Maybe that's what I meant," she said dubiously.

Only one of the eight tapped (as we say in the poll business) failed to praise Paul Douglas, who brought to television the role of the big junkman, Harry Brock, which he played on Broadway and in the movies.

Hen Establishes New Laying Mark

HONOLULU (AP)—A hen named Hattie of a new Hawaiian breed has laid what her owner believes is an unofficial world's record for eggs.

Hattie, owned by Kazuo Onitsuka of Waipahu, Oahu, laid 403 eggs in the past 12 months.

Two years ago another one of his chickens laid 370 eggs in a year, a figure recognized as a local record.

Onitsuka attributes his hen's success to new breeding techniques that has led to a new registered breed called the Hawaiian Red.

CHAPTER 36

"Don't be so proud of yourself, Steve," I said. "Tell me what it was in the recording that tipped you off that Leone murdered Anita."

"It was all in the Stubby tape," said Steve. "Do you remember what a struggle Anita had to keep Stubby from passing out?"

"Yes."

"At one point, before she'd got him to admit he had killed his partner, she said she had some lovely Scotch in the kitchen. She suggested a drink; she thought that might keep Stubby awake and talking."

"I remember that, yes."

"Did she go and make the drinks?"

"No . . . she couldn't have. She never left the room."

"That's right. The conversation between Anita and Stubby was continuous; she didn't leave him for a second. Yet a few minutes later they each had a drink of that Scotch that was in the kitchen."

"Yes," I said. "Someone else got it for them."

"Stubby was too drunk to realize it, but he and Anita weren't alone in the apartment. Leone was there, listening from a bedroom. And when Anita needed help to keep Stubby talking, she co-operated. She got the Scotch, slipped it to Anita. Then there was something else that indicated a third person . . . the phone call at the end of the tape. It came after Stubby had conked out. Anita answered the phone and said, 'Who is it? Oh, just a minute . . . The caller wanted to speak to someone else . . . Leone Webb.'"

"But how could you be sure it was Leone?"

"That was on the Stubby tape, too. When was that recording made, Connie? What date?"

"No date was mentioned," I said.

"Not directly," Steve said. "You're being proud of yourself again."

"Barton," Bolling said, "it's all right. You can be proud of yourself again."

"Thanks, Well, Leone lived with Anita for a while, so she was obviously vote for the accomplice. But, specifically, Connie, remember what Stubby kept muttering about? Tonight's the night to get drunk, everybody ought to get drunk, their duty. And he said he had reservations someplace, hardest place in town to get reservations that night . . . but he got them. Well, what night's that?"

"New Year's Eve, of course! What else?"

"Sure, and what else do we know happened on New Year's Eve?"

"Of course! Oliver Bell proposed to Leone!"

"Over the telephone, remember . . . shortly after midnight."

"And that's when that recording was made! Anita told Stubby what time it was . . . not quite twelve-thirty."

"Sure. That was Oliver Bell who telephoned. He wished Anita a happy New Year and asked to speak to Leone."

"I understand. If he ever heard that recording he'd know that his lovely bride-to-be was an active accomplice in a blackmailing racket."

"That's right," Steve said. "And when Anita tried to use that to blackmail her old partner, Leone killed her. She wasn't going to lose Oliver Bell . . . not only because she was fond of him, Mr. Bell owns a million dollar business."

"Barton," Bolling said, "you make a very quickly disappearing Martini."

"The kitchen is right . . . I know," Bolling said. "Excuse me."

"Leone and Anita," I said. "A charming pair."

"They started their blackmail racket together," Steve said. "As receptionist at the school, Leone was in a position to steer all the vulnerable-looking, wealthier type students to Anita who took it from there. When Leone had firmly hooked Oliver Bell, she dissolved the partnership. It was all very amicable. In fact, Leone and Anita remained friends until just a few days ago . . . when Anita must have suddenly realized she had an unexpected gold mine in those tapes. She thought she could bleed Leone dry, but she thought wrong. Leone knew too much about blackmail to let herself become a victim. She devised a quick plan for killing Anita in which she thought she'd never be suspected . . . shooting her from the ceiling."

"And blaming it on you, Steve."

"No, that just happened. The first time she had a legitimate excuse to leave the reception room between classes, she took it. She escorted a new student to Bell for an interview . . . that took only a moment . . . then she beat it up to the catwalk. No one questioned her absence from her desk. It was all over, the murderer was obviously Anita's last student, and Leone was safe. Nobody was ever going to blackmail her."

"But could Anita really have blackmailed her? If she'd played that Stubby recording for Mr. Bell, he's know that she was in the racket, too," I said.

"Yeah," Bolling said. He put the pitcher down on the coffee table and stirred his contents. "I talked to Miss Webb about that. Anita pointed out to her that Bell would fire her, that's all. He would never have let it be known that his school had been a recruiting place for blackmail victims. That's bad for business, and that guy Bell likes business. Another Martini, Mrs. Barton?"

"At least," I said.

"These will last longer. There's more of them."

"So that's how it was," I said.

"Was Leone's story to me about a recording of Oliver Bell and Anita true?"

"Not a word of it," Steve said. "She had to explain to you what she was doing at Rhinebeck Place, why she wanted those tapes. She wasn't particularly worried about them after the murder. She knew where they were hidden and she had a key to the apartment. The first chance she got she went down to Rhinebeck Place, but I chased her out before she could get the one she really wanted . . . the Stubby one."

"And when you informed the lady that you had that tape," Bolling said, "you almost cooked your own goose."

"Oh," I said, "yes. She knew I had the means to figure out she was the killer."

"Exactly, Mrs. Barton. She had to get rid of you."

"But she didn't," I said gratefully. "Thanks to you two boys. Please pass the Martini. I'm going to drink a dozen to each of you."

"I doubt it," Steve said. "I'm going to do my best. You deserve it, you two."

I did pretty well. The next time things really got back into focus. I was in the Rosewood Room. I was having a wonderful time celebrating my fifth wedding anniversary. I was even celebrating it with all people, my husband. And we were dancing. That was hard for me to realize . . . that Steve was dancing. Steve and I were dancing. I snuggled closer to him and I closed my eyes. We were dancing.

Then, suddenly, my blood ran cold. Steve was waltzing! People would see him, they would know who he was. I listened for the cry of recognition . . . "The Waltzer!"

I tried to disengage myself from him, but he held me tighter. I opened my eyes. The floor was crowded with couples. The music was a waltz, everyone was waltzing.

Bears Rated 30 Points Better Than ECC Squad

Lenoir Rhyme Is Still Unbeaten In Two Seasons

It will be as 30-point underdogs that East Carolina travels to Hickory this weekend to meet the mighty Lenoir Rhyme Bears.

Coach Jack Boone, Pirate mentor, evaluated the undefeated, untied defending North State champions this way: "From scouting reports we've had so far, Lenoir Rhyme looks like they have a good blocking club, that runs and passes very well. They have three backs that can pass and all four can run well. Of course, their line is strong."

An indication of the Bears' strength can be found in their record. Last week, they dumped previously unbeaten Emory and Henry 25-6 for their 17th victory in a row. It was their 17th win without a loss—a record stretching over two years. The only mar on their state is a 13-13 tie with Newberry last season.

As Boone stated, the Bears have a club that can run and pass. The extent of their running and passing can be seen in still another statistic: Over a stretch of seven games this year, the Hickory Monsters have averaged close to 40 points per ball game. They are, furthermore, the only major small college team in the nation which is still undefeated.

To date, this year, they have blasted Newport News Apprentice School, Wofford, Newberry, Appalachian, Guilford, Western Carolina, and Emory and Henry.

Leading the Bear attack are backs Dean Cline, Walter Corneil and Harold Bullard. Arden "Baby" Ray, a 200 pound Little All-America guard, Allan Lattore, Levo Sperto, Bill Dameron and John Mosse are the outstanding prospects in the forward wall.

Commenting of Coach Clarence Stasavich's Bears, Boone said today that "They are a well-balanced club, made up mostly of seniors, juniors and sophomores. There are no freshmen on their roster, which means that they have plenty of experience and have been playing together for a good while. They've learned to work as a unit."

Boone's Pirates have been concentrating mostly on defense this week in drills. "If we can stop their passing and running, we won't do badly against them," the coach said. "Of course, we'll try to move the ball against them, too, but defense is the thing we're working hardest on."

Expected to be running on the top defensive unit for the Bucs, will be Ray Pennington, Tommy Waggoner, Larry Howell, Jerry Brooks, Dick Monds, Bubba Matthews, Algy Faircloth, Gary Matlocks, James Speight, Bobby Perry and Bobby Maynard.

Back in the lineup after six weeks of rest on the injury list, will be center Waverly Chesson, Charlie Hoover, another injured man, will probably see some action. Ed Emory may see limited duty. Definitely out of the lineup will be Ruell Edwards and Bill Helms, both ends.

Midget Classic Underway Tonite

Midget footballers have a field day tonight in College Stadium, as the City's four tiny grid teams battle in the annual Halloween night Classic, sponsored by the Recreation department and the Exchange Club.

No admission is charged for the big double-game affair, and prizes will be given away to children attending, during the half time ceremonies and after the contest.

The contests will feature the Whites against the Reds and the Golds against the Blues. All four teams are comprised of boys under the age of 14 and are coached by volunteer college boys who are interested in coaching and are qualified to handle the boys.

The objective of the Halloween Night football games, according to Recreation official Gordon Goodman, is to give the youth of Greenville a "worthwhile place to go and things to do." The football games will keep children off the streets and out of the usual

Should rain hamper tonight's scheduled games, Goodman stated that they would be played Friday night. In the case of drawing for the prizes, names would be taken up at each city school in the afternoon, if rain should threaten.

Another drawing, to take place at the Recreation center after the games, will give away still more prizes. When a name is drawn, the child will be called by phone. If he is home at the time of the call (about 9:00) he will be awarded a prize.

Contests get under way tonight at 7:30.

Duke's Carlton Named Top Soph

RALEIGH — A 190-pound Duke halfback who scored two touchdowns in the 42-0 win over North Carolina State was named today as the Associated Press Atlantic Coast Conference Sophomore of the Week.

He is Wray Carlton 19, of Wallace who showed much drive against State, picking up 77 yards in 13 carries. He scored on runs of one and 14 yards.

Only a step behind Carlton in the nominating was Duke halfback George Dutrow, who gained 77 yards in 10 carries. Carlton, who was an outstanding football, baseball and basketball player at Wallace High School, and Dutrow formed a terrific combination on last year's Duke freshman team.

Duke sophomores hogged the spotlight in games last Saturday. Two other Blue Devils who looked good were quarterbacks Bob Broadhead and Pryor Milner, both of whom ran the team well, ending Sonny Jurgensen to rest his injured leg most of the game.

North Carolina halfback Emil DeCantis ran well in the 6-6 tie with Wake Forest. He gained 33 yards in nine carries for a 4.2 average.

Durocher has said previously he would never manage again "just for a salary."

After yesterday's first meeting at the Beverly Hills Hotel, Durocher told newsmen he had to talk to his wife, actress Laraine Day, and several NBC officials.

"We were both sounding each other out," Greenberg said after the first meeting. "I want to find out first whether Leo is really interested and if he is, we'll go on from there."

Greenberg, visiting here with his friend and former Pittsburgh Pirate teammate Ralph Kiner, was not available for comment.

Kiner is now general manager of the Indians' San Diego farm club. A reliable source told the Associated Press that Durocher, now an NBC executive, was offered a fat salary to take over the Indians, who finished second last season in the American League. But, the source said, Greenberg balked when Durocher also demanded a sizeable chunk of the club's stock.

Local Coastal Teams Battling Away On Friday

Farmville, Ayden and Robersonville will all be playing away games this weekend, and only one of them will be a Coastal Conference affair.

Coach Elbert Moyer's Farmville Red Devils will enter into a loop contest with Benvenue at Rocky Mount, Friday night, in their final game of the season. Rated a two-touchdown favorite, the Devils will depend heavily upon quarterback Sonny Mall to direct a T formation running attack against the underdog Benvenue crowd.

Ayden which has already sewed up the conference championship, with an undefeated, untied and unscored-upon season, will journey to Tarboro for a battle that has been called by Coach Stuart Tripp "probably one of our toughest games."

The Tornadoes, having lost only one contest this season, a narrow scrape to Williamston. Their final tilt of the year will be played next week against Beaufort.

Expected to pace the Tornado attack are quarterback Lindy Dunn and runners R. L. Collins, Hal Worthington and Tommy Edwards. Burt Tripp is the probably big gun in the forward wall.

Robersonville travels to Selma for a non-conference battle with the class A Greens. Coach Bob Lee's single wing outfit is rated to trample the Selma crew by 14 points.

Eager Retriever Is Released Soon

HENDERSON, Ky. — An eager retriever that gulped too soon today about any offer he may have to return to baseball and manage the Cleveland Indians.

"Any statement will have to come from Hank Greenberg," said the former New York Giant manager, who met twice yesterday with Greenberg, the Indians' general manager.

Greenberg, visiting here with his friend and former Pittsburgh Pirate teammate Ralph Kiner, was not available for comment.

Kiner is now general manager of the Indians' San Diego farm club. A reliable source told the Associated Press that Durocher, now an NBC executive, was offered a fat salary to take over the Indians, who finished second last season in the American League. Oklahoma, Georgia Tech In Choice Posts This Week

Jack Rabbits Now In Backfield Role

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Victor (Jack) Rabbits finally has stepped into a starting halfback role for West Virginia's Mountaineers.

Rabbits will start at left halfback replacing Bob Snider Saturday when the Mountaineers clash with George Washington's Colonials at Morgantown, W.Va., in a game which likely will decide which of the two clubs gets the Southern Conference football championship.

Not only will Rabbits start the game, but he will be co-captain along with guard Gene Lathey for the tilt. West Virginia Coach Art Lewis said Rabbits earned the starting nod on the strength of his performance last week in the Mountaineers, 16-6 loss to Penn State.

Virginia Military Institute found out yesterday its star guard and co-captain, Carl LeBourdais, will be ready for action again Saturday when the Keydets square off against William and Mary at Lynchburg, Va. LeBourdais has been sidelined four weeks with a heel bruise.

William and Mary was kept indoors by a hard rain, but Coach Jack Freeman said the rest has given some of his players a chance to shake injuries. End Walt Brodie likely will miss the VMI tilt. He has a blood clot in his hip and received a head injury requiring 13 stitches in last week's 16-14 loss to George Washington.

Rain, likewise, kept Richmond's Spiders from taking the practice field. Instead, they checked their defensive assignments for Saturday's scrap at Davidson.

Defense—both ground and air—occupied Davidson. Guard Charlie James was sidelined and Harold not play against Richmond. Harold Westervelt, a second-string end, has recovered from injuries after missing the last two games. Virginia Tech, tied for 15th in the national rankings, polished its passing attack for Saturday's game with unbeaten Clemson, rated No. 13, at Clemson. Dave Ebert replaced the injured Bobby Wolfenden in a halfback slot.

Furman received bad news—that sophomore end Ray Siminski of Chester, Pa., would be out of the lineup for the rest of the campaign with a torn cartilage in his right knee. John Edge will take Siminski's place in the line. Furman staged a workout last night for the homecoming game with South Carolina Saturday.

The Citadel sharpened its offense for Saturday's homecoming test against Presbyterian. A bruised hip limited halfback Angelo Cola to light action.

Lopez Signs As Manager Of Sox For $40,000

CHICAGO — Al Lopez formally signed a one-year contract at a reported $40,000 yesterday to manage the Chicago White Sox and immediately named three-fourths of his coaching staff.

Lopez retained first base coach Don Gutteridge and pitching coach Ray Berres from the Marty Marion regime and said he'll bring with him Tony Cuccinello from the Cleveland Indians.

He said a fourth coach would be named at a later date.

Lopez said after contract signing ceremonies that he would remain in Chicago for several days to confer with White Sox Vice President Chuck Comiskey on possible deals.

One player expected to be mentioned is Cleveland third baseman Al Rosen who is "on the block."

"If we could get him, I'd like to do so," said Lopez. "Rosen is a fine baseball player. He's a sensitive fellow, and it's bothering him to have a few Cleveland fans booing him."

By HAROLD CLAASSEN NEW YORK — The 1957 edition of the Farmer's Almanac is at hand. It predicts a long, cold winter. No matter how cold it gets, the chill won't equal that of last weekend when football teams paid no attention to the script and spilled upsets everywhere.

There were 14 wrong guesses sandwiched among the 34 correct ones, an average of .708. That brought the season's total to 206-63 and .765.

Heading into this week, just as if the almanac promised nothing but sunshine:

Oklahoma over Colorado: Colorado annually gives Oklahoma its hardest Big Seven battle. It still be easy for the Sooners.

Georgia Tech over Duke: Coach Bill Murray says his team has a good chance to disrail the Engineers. The almanac discloses that Tech gets stronger in November.

Tennessee over North Carolina: Primarily because of John Majors, Michigan State over Wisconsin: Clarence Peaks is out for the year but the Spartans have quit reading their clippings.

Texas A&M over Arkansas: One of the many surprises last week was Arkansas' triumph over Mississippi. If the Porkers can stop Jack Pardee and company it will be the upset of the season.

Ohio State over Northwestern: Too many Buckeyes.

Stanford over UCLA: It means the Rose Bowl for the Indians... and they know it.

Texas Christian over Baylor: Jim Swink still with the Frogs. Syracuse over Penn State: Jim Brown gives the Syracuse eleven an edge.

Skipping over the others in a hurry: FRIDAY NIGHT Boston College over Villanova. SATURDAY EAST: Army over Colgate. Holy Cross over Boston University. Columbia over Cornell. Harvard over Pennsylvania. Notre Dame Navy, Princeton over Brown, Yale over Dartmouth. MIDWEST: Cincinnati over Detroit, Indiana over Marquette, Iowa State over Drake, Kansas over Kansas State, Missouri over Nebraska, Purdue over Illinois, Houston over Wichita, College of Pacific over Tulsa, Minnesota over Pittsburgh, Michigan over Iowa.

SOUTH: Georgia over Alabama, Florida over Auburn, South Carolina over Furman, Mississippi over LSU, Kentucky over Maryland, Tulane over Mississippi State, William & Mary over VMI, Vanderbilt over Virginia, Wake Forest over North Carolina, State, Miami over Florida State, Clemson over Virginia Tech, West Virginia over George Washington.

SOUTHWEST: Rice over Utah, Texas Tech over Oklahoma A.&M. Southern Methodist over Texas.

FAR WEST: California over Oregon, West Texas State over Arizona, Montana State over Montana, Oregon State over Washington, Wyoming over Utah State, Southern California over Washington State.

Alberto Beuses of Maracalbo, Venezuela is a member of the Syracuse University soccer team. He's only 5 feet 5 and weighs 148 pounds.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—A heavy burst of selling pounded stock market prices following Prime Minister Eden's statement today but in early afternoon further losses were resisted and there was some slight improvement.

Prices of key stocks skidded 1 to 3 points in active trading after Eden told the House of Commons Britain must protect her interests in the Middle East with or without prior agreement of the United States.

Prices had already begun to wobble in uncertainty over the Israel-Egyptian crisis but a rush to dump stocks occurred after the Eden remarks.

The high-speed ticker tape was three minutes late in reporting transactions but within less than half an hour the tape had cleared and turnover became quiet.

Coppers and aluminum had previously shown some gains but these willed in the selling burst which affected the entire list.

The decline on average represented an estimated drop of about 2 1/2 billion dollars in the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Du Pont was down more than 3 points. Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Texaco lost around 2 apiece. Bethlehem Steel, which had retreated around 2 points, shaved its loss by a point. Gulf Oil, off more than 2 points in the selling wave, trimmed the decline by a point.

While the decline was moderated among many stocks the losses still were severe.

In early trading coppers had been stimulated by a rise in domestic copper prices. Anaconda and Kennecott were up major fractions. Anaconda traded unchanged after erasing its gain and dropping a major fraction. Ken-net cut in half its loss of a point. Douglas Aircraft, previously a 1-point gainer, was down around a point.

Other 1-point losers included Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, U.S. Rubber, Alcoa, American Cyanamid, General Electric, Southern Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio. Union Carbide lost around 2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon declined $2.10 to $176.90 with the industrials down $3.30, the rails down $2.30 and the utilities down 10 cents.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—Hog markets were steady to 25 higher today. Tops at 14.75 to 15.25 at Tarboro and Enfield; 14.50 to 15.25 at Rocky Mount; 15.25 at Hillsboro; 14.50 to 15.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, and Bethel; 15.00 at Goldsboro; 14.75 at Wintgate; 14.25 to 14.75 at Smithfield; 14.50 at Fayetteville, Lumberton, Clinton, Elizabethtown, Micro, Mount Olive and Shallotte; 14.25 at Castle Hayne, Mount Gilead, Siler City, Clarkton, Whiteville, Bailey, Blackmans Crossroads, Dunn, Newton Grove, Kenly, Nabunna, Farmville and Tabor City.

RALEIGH — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers about steady, farm price 15, f.o.b. plant 16 1/4 to 16 1/2; Raleigh eggs steady, A large 48; Asheville eggs steady, A large 44 to 47; Charlotte eggs about steady, A large 45.

Still No Sign Of Lost Man

WILDWOOD, Fla.—Investigators seeking Jesse Woods, 39-year-old Negro who allegedly said "Hello there, baby" to a white schoolteacher, heard reports today that he was hauled out of his city jail cell and severely beaten by a group of white men but was not alive.

Woods has not yet been found. He was taken Sunday from a cell that bore marks of violence, including bloodstains and a broken lock.

Two investigators were questioning men who apparently saw the night violence. One of the witnesses said Woods was flogged but was alive and that he was left on a little-traveled road near here.

Woods was placed in a jail cell at his own request for protection. He had been booked earlier on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, but had been released.

2 Ayden Postmen Retire After Total Of 77 Years

Brief ceremonies were held this morning in Ayden for two retiring postmen who have a total of 77 years service.

Moses C. Phillips, 62, 311 Park Avenue, started to work in 1913 and has had continuous service since that time except for the time he served in World War I and a brief period during 1920-21. Phillips received a letter of commendation from Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield in appreciation of his outstanding service. Phillips was the rural carrier on Route 2.

Edward L. Hill, 66, 307 East 2nd Street, retiring after 33 years service started in 1923. As a reward for outstanding service, Hill was presented with a letter of commendation from H. B. Dean, Director of the 5th Postal Region, Atlanta. Both postmen were presented with Honorary Recognition Certificates.

Safety Council Meeting Friday

Driver Education Manager Robert T. Ellett, Jr. of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, will be the speaker at the Pitt County Safety Council's monthly luncheon meeting Friday at 1 o'clock. The meeting will be at Respass Brothers on the Bethel Highway.

President F. B. Johnson, Jr., said he had sent to the safety executive certain facts concerning our teen-age drivers in Greenville and Pitt County schools. This will enable him to bring a tentative plan tailored to our needs here in Pitt County. Every thinking citizen realizes the importance of the proper training of our young drivers.

There will be no December meeting and it is hoped that the November meeting will have a large attendance in order to keep the safety program moving, Johnson said.

Pitt Historical Meet Tomorrow

The Pitt County Historical Society will be held Thursday night at the Silo Grill. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock. All members of the society are asked to attend the meeting along with others who are interested in Pitt County history.

HD Clubs Meet In Henderson

The Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs of the Northeastern District will hold its 12th annual meeting at the Eaton-Johnson School auditorium in Henderson Thursday morning with registration at 9:30.

President Mrs. Fannie Harrison of Nash County will call the convention to order at 10:30. Rev. O. B. Gibson, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church, Henderson, will pronounce the invocation. S. E. Williams, principal of Eaton-Johnson School, will welcome the home-makers. Mayor Henry T. Powell will extend greetings. The Henderson Institute Singers will present a program of music.

Mrs. L. B. Carroll, district vice-president, will introduce Dr. R. W. Wismer, president of Kirtrell Junior College, as guest speaker.

The afternoon session will be devoted to the business of the district organization and election and installation of officers.

Home Demonstration Club members from Pitt County attending the meeting are Mrs. Arthur Council, Mrs. Rosa Dixon, Miss Martha Barnes, Mrs. Lillian Gatlin, Mrs. Willie Hawkins, Miss Lucinda Atkinson, Mrs. Decie Pollard, Mrs. Estelle Edwards, Mrs. Addie Jane Parker, Mrs. M. R. Williams, Mrs. Fannie Parker, Mrs. Henrietta Ward, Mrs. Alice Modgett, Mrs. Bettie Gay, Mrs. Bertha Holmes and Mrs. Mamie Davis. Mrs. Amelia S. Capehart, Pitt county Home Demonstration agent, reported.

Revoke License Of Johnston Man

RALEIGH —The driver's license of Percy Flowers, well known Johnston County farmer and merchant near Clayton, has been suspended for 90 days.

The Motor Vehicles Department announced the suspension yesterday because Flowers is an "habitual violator." It will be effective Nov. 8 but can be appealed.

The department listed a number of violations which it said were committed by Flowers during the past few years.

Chamber Asked To Join Meeting

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce has been asked to sit in on meetings preliminary to forming a five-county industrial development commission.

Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee Chairman Leonard Bloxam yesterday read a letter from a Kinston group concerning the plans. Bloxam presided over a joint meeting of the Chamber's Industrial Committee and its Small Industries Committee.

The group also reviewed the activities of the Industrial Committee for recent weeks.

Bloxam reported on the activities of a five-man committee appointed to investigate the forming of a Pitt County industrial commission.

He said the plan had been turned over to the County Commissioners and a committee will be appointed at the commissioners' next meeting.

Has Long Talk Over Ham Radio

ROBERSONVILLE — Chief of Police William Smith, one of the three local ham radio operators, made it possible for Mrs. Pearl Everett of Robersonville to carry on a 50-minute uninterrupted conversation with her daughter, Mrs. Grace De Friex, at Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. De Friex is living at Pearl Harbor with her husband, Lt. E. H. De Friex, and their children, Joanne and Harbie. The family has a friend who lives half a mile from their home. A time was set for Smith in Robersonville to contact them. A previous attempt had failed, but last Thursday night their voices were as clear as if they were talking over a local telephone.

Robersonville's other two ham operators are Claude Wilson and Gilbert Smith, who consider this form of recreation an important means of communications during hurricanes or other disasters.

ECC Professor Back On Campus

Dr. Audrey Dempsey, faculty member of the department of business education at East Carolina College, has just returned to the campus from the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Fla., where she conducted installation exercises for the Delta Beta Chapter of Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education fraternity.

Dr. Dempsey is National Organizer for the fraternity, which has chapters in colleges throughout the nation. At East Carolina she is a sponsor of the Beta Kappa chapter, which has twice won a citation as the nation's outstanding chapter.

claim on you.

The president is supposed to hold the most powerful office in the world, but he can't even buy a necktie or drop in to see a movie by himself.

Whenever he gets up to make a speech, can he forget that since 1865 the odds are about 1 to 4 that some lunatic will take a pot-shot at him during his term in office, and about 1 to 7 that the bullet will kill him?

Can he avoid the realization that whether he is wise or stupid, fair or biased, kind or vindictive — whatever he does or doesn't do — nearly every official act he performs may win him friends but is likely to make him enemies?

In a democracy every individual is a pressure unit, and the president is like a puppet, lonely in a vast spotlight, being tugged this way and that by 169 million strings, one for each of us.

The money? It's only $150,000 a year, taxed, plus $40,000 to entertain dull people like ambassadors. Elvis Presley will make a million this year, and folks don't mind if he tried to sing while he works. But can you imagine what people would say if a president sang on the job like Elvis Presley?

From the standpoint of leading a normal carefree human life, the winner in the Nov. 6 election will be the loser, the loser will be the winner.

But the defeated man won't feel that way. Those who have wooed and lost the presidency often are more bitter than those who have merely loved and lost a woman.

"Long ago I proposed that unsuccessful candidates for the presidency be quietly handed, on a matter of public sanitation and decorum," wrote H. L. Mecken. "The sight of their grief must have a very evil effect upon the young."

The suggestion has no merit this year. Hanging won't be necessary. Whether the loser be Ike or Adlai, the prospect is that he will be politically buried, finally and forever.
