

POLICE INVESTIGATE THIRD WAREHOUSE FIRE

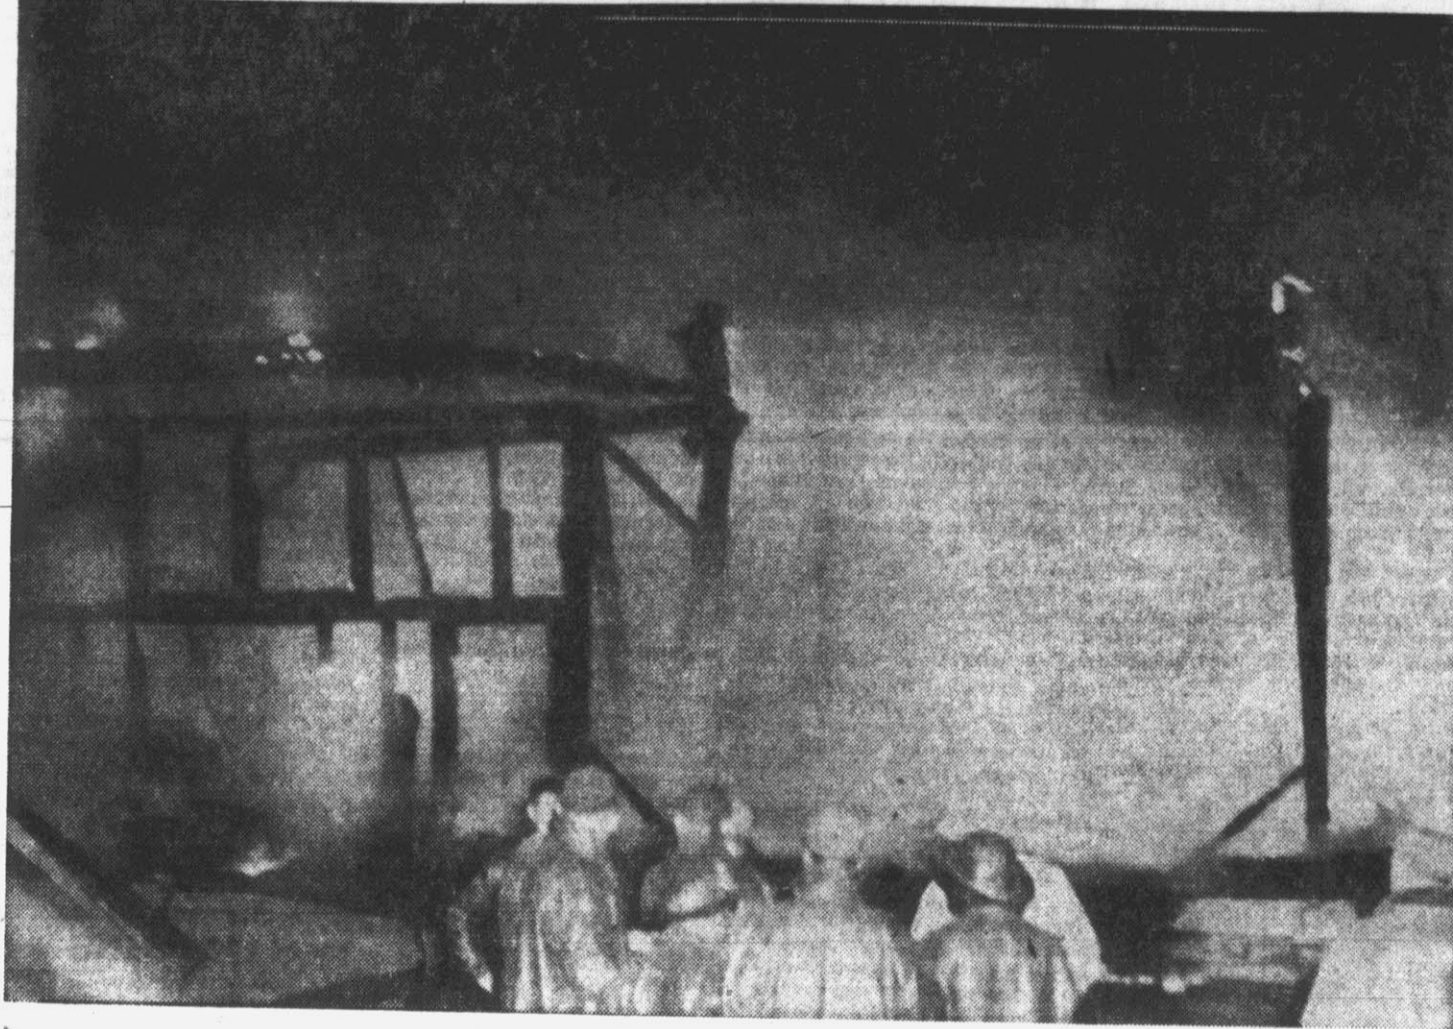

SBI, State Fire Marshal To Help Probe Empire Warehouse Blaze

By ALVIN TAYLOR Chief of Police S. G. Gibbs said this morning that a "full scale investigation" will be conducted to determine the cause of a fire which destroyed the Empire Warehouse last night.

"We are going to conduct a full scale investigation," the chief declared this morning. A night watchman at Garrison Evans Lumber Co. and a police patrol car reported the blaze at approximately the same time last night—around 2:35 a.m.

Firemen reported that when they arrived flames had developed the entire building which was located at the foot of Ridgeway St. The fire fighters pressed three trucks into service. Two were tied in to hydrants while another was left free in case other fires developed in the area.

The big structure was owned by the F. S. Royster Guano Co. of Norfolk and officials at Greenville Fertilizer Co. this morning said the structure was valued at $50,000.

Egyptians Claim Another Ship Sunk By British Bombs

Continue Probe Of Tax Records

CAIRO — Egyptian army headquarters announced today a fishing vessel sunk by British French air bombardment has blocked the southern entrance to the Suez Canal.

Earlier they had captured the Sinai, routing some 20,000 Egyptian troops. Apparently mop-up operations were under way.

Auditors and county tax officials continued their investigation today of county tax records and records of Assistant Tax Collector H. L. Andrews who was suspended late Tuesday afternoon.

That day the Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet for their regular monthly session and a further report from the auditors is expected to be presented the Commissioners during that meeting.

It was the second vessel reported sunk in the 103-mile waterway causing obstruction to navigation. The Egyptian said yesterday the Egyptian warship Akka was sunk near Lake Timsah, midway in the canal, by British-French planes.

The Egyptian President Nasser hinted, however, that the main body of Egypt's forces in the Sinai were being pulled back to defend the Suez Canal and the Nile Delta.

The Israeli Embassy in Washington estimated Egyptian casualties — killed, wounded and captured — at 5,000. "Israeli casualties are relatively light," it added, "including less than 100 killed."

Civil actions instituted by the county late Tuesday impounded records in Andrews' office and charged Andrews with fraud in connection with collections in the county tax office. Andrews had been with the county tax office for 25 years prior to his suspension Tuesday.

Today's communique said three British planes were shot down during 42 raids in the 24 hours up to 8 a.m. today "on thickly populated towns."

The French Defense Ministry said Egypt's air force had been "completely put out of fighting condition" by repeated poundings from British-French air forces.

President John G. Clark of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association announced today the appointment of James S. Ficklen Jr. as "Health Bond" chairman this year.

Dr. K. B. Pace is chairman of the Christmas Seal Sale this year. The Greenville Moose Lodge is sponsoring the Seal Sale. Dr. Howard H. Grady, head of the local health department, said the sale is being held to help bring on the present crisis which Stevenson said threatens the Western alliance against communism.

Admiral Sir John S. Dill, British Chief of Staff, said today that the British air force had been "completely put out of fighting condition" by repeated poundings from British-French air forces.

The 76-nation Assembly, adopting a resolution introduced by the Secretary of State Dulles, also urged that Israel pull her forces out of Egypt and that Britain and France not move theirs in.

Between seven and eight hundred pounds of tobacco was stolen off the farm of Hardy Johnson, Fountain, sometime Halloween night. The theft was reported yesterday morning. Investigation is being made by the Pitt Sheriff's Department.

Stevenson said that "if the President had taken an insistent stand against the shipment of Communist arms to Egypt, I am convinced that the Communists would not have risked arming Egypt as they have." He added: "Had the Eisenhower administration taken a firm stand in the Middle East, had it aided Israel with arms and territorial guarantees, we might, I believe, have been able to prevent the present outbreak of hostilities. And if this government had not alternately appeased and provoked Egypt, I do think we would command more confidence there and in the Arab world."

Tension Grips Budapest As Red Troops Move In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS District attorneys in North Carolina have been ordered to be on a 24-hour alert next Tuesday to guard against voting frauds and corruption.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U. N. General Assembly in an unprecedented emergency session voted overwhelmingly early today for an immediate cease-fire in Egypt.

President John G. Clark of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association announced today the appointment of James S. Ficklen Jr. as "Health Bond" chairman this year.

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD BUDAPEST (AP) — Tension gripped Budapest today in the wake of fresh Soviet troop movements into Hungary.

Firemen poured water on flames from a fire truck. The fire quickly devoured the tall wooden structure and within a short while after firemen arrived the entire structure was collapsing.

Local tobacconist W. Z. Morton said this morning that he had been leasing the warehouse from the Royster Co. for the past ten years. Sales have not been conducted in the warehouse in recent years and its selling time has been transferred to another warehouse Morton said.

Morton noted that around four barns of ungraded tobacco belonging to a farmer was stored in the building. He also said that there was 15,000 to 18,000 pounds of graded tobacco in the structure.

Greenville Fertilizer Co. officials said they lost four trucks in the flames last night in addition to a considerable quantity of tobacco curing equipment. The loss was set at $20,000 to $25,000.

Mid-East Issue Eclipses All Other Political Talk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Middle East crisis eclipsed all other issues today as the Democratic-Republican struggle for the presidency and control of Congress neared its climax.

Stevenson said that "if the President had taken an insistent stand against the shipment of Communist arms to Egypt, I am convinced that the Communists would not have risked arming Egypt as they have." He added: "Had the Eisenhower administration taken a firm stand in the Middle East, had it aided Israel with arms and territorial guarantees, we might, I believe, have been able to prevent the present outbreak of hostilities. And if this government had not alternately appeased and provoked Egypt, I do think we would command more confidence there and in the Arab world."

Stevenson spoke from a studio in Buffalo, N.Y. His speech was advertised as a reply to Eisenhower's nationwide radio-TV talk on the Middle East crisis the night before.

The Democratic standard bearer promised to enlarge on this same theme today in Cleveland and tonight in Detroit.

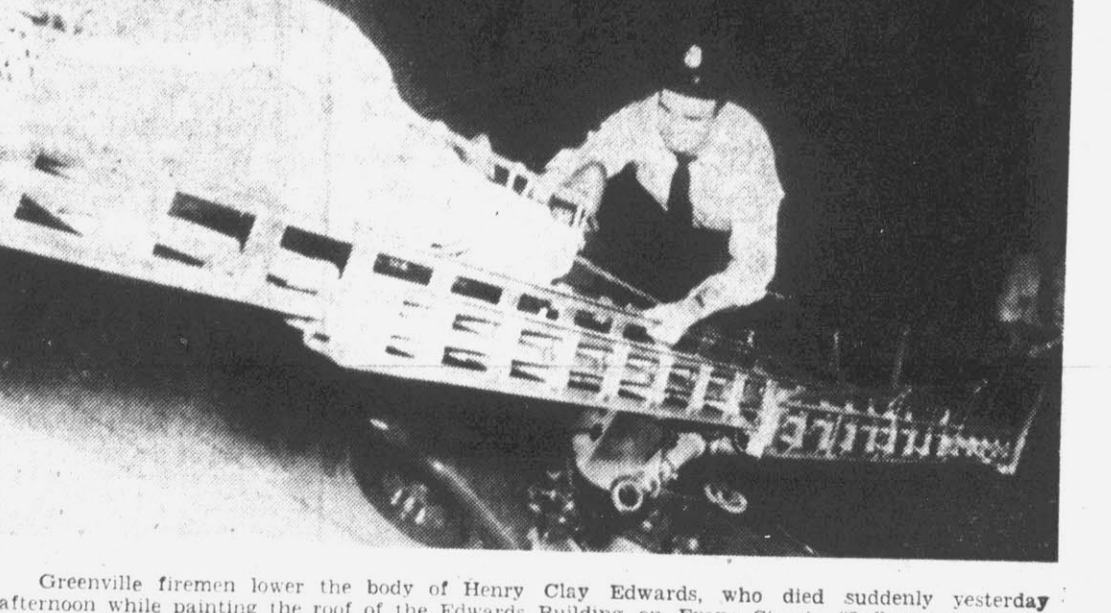

Eisenhower, having pledged no military involvement by the United States, is banking on moves in the United Nations to halt the Middle East warfare.

Adlai E. Stevenson, his Democratic opponent, said in a nationwide television-radio speech last night that the GOP administration failed to take a firm position in the Middle East, and that this helped bring on the present crisis which Stevenson said threatens the Western alliance against communism.

Man Dies While Painting Roof

Henry Clay Edwards, 55-year-old Greenville rural resident, died suddenly yesterday afternoon while painting the roof of the Edwards Building on Evans Street here.

Edwards' 14-year-old son who was helping his father paint the roof saw his father collapse and hurried across the street to a service station to summon aid.

The fire department dispatched a ladder truck to the scene and firemen removed Edwards' body from the top of the two-story building.

During the past few months Edwards had been under a doctor's care because of a heart condition. He was born and reared in Greenville and was the son of Henry Clay and Martha Ann Cox Edwards. He attended Greenville schools and was graduated from Wake Forest College. He had divorced his first wife, Mrs. Edna Edwards, in 1947. He had three children: Mrs. J. C. Edwards Jr., both of Greenville; Mrs. J. C. Edwards Sr., both of Greenville; and Mrs. Edna Edwards, both of Greenville. He was a member of the Eighth Street Christian Church. Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel and burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery. His pastor, Dr. H. G. Haney, assisted by Dr. Perry Case, will conduct the services.

Jo Ann Love, Former Greenville Man Wed

Miss Jo Ann Love of Portsmouth became the bride of a former Greenville resident, Dennis Baum Fleming, in an evening ceremony October 19 at Cradock Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Coleman Love of Portsmouth and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lang Fleming Sr., also of Portsmouth.

The bride's cousin, the Rev. Henry Lee Foster, and the bridegroom's brother, the Rev. Ralph Lang Fleming Jr. of Newport, heard the vows.

Church decorations included tall white baskets of wedding flowers, palms and candelabra holding lighted tapers. Lighted tapers were also placed on each side of the aisle leading to the altar.

Preceding the ceremony a program of organ music was presented by Mrs. F. J. Hornik, Lewis Hudgins of Norfolk, vocalist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of delectable satin designed by Maria Originals. The bodice, dropped slightly at the waist, was overlaid in hand-embroidered chantilly lace in bride's rose and bell. The neckline was fashioned in a sabina cut and the circular skirt swept out into a wide round hem at back.

Her headdress was a coronet of orange blossoms and illusion leaves, draped to knee length in four tiers of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white lilies.

Miss Katherine Branch Christian of Richmond was maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of velvet in cobalt blue. The bodice was torso length and featured short sleeves and cuffed portrait neckline. Her headdress was a matching hairbraided coronet and she carried a cascade bouquet of white and turquoise fuji mums.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Mae Canoles of Norfolk, Miss Mary Caroline Talmage of Petersburg, Miss Elizabeth Ann Gilbert of Drexel Hills, Pa., Miss Katharine Allen Hamilton of Shreveport, La. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Johnson of Portsmouth.

They wore gowns and head-dresses like those of the honor attendant in turquoise blue. Bouquets of the attendants were cascades of white and cobalt blue fuji mums.

Master Joseph Alton Baum, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Charles H. Manning of Greenville was best man.

Groomsmen were Benjamin Braxton Baker, III, cousin of the bride of Richmond; Thomas Allen Whitley, Thomas Edward Johnson, James Edward Reneau and Frank H. McCain, all of Portsmouth.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Love wore a gown of Navy blue with mauve feather hat and purple orchid.

The bridegroom's mother wore powder blue lace with matching feather hat and a purple orchid.

The reception was held at the church social hall.

For traveling, the bride changed into a brown suit with brown mink trim, lizard accessories and a white feather hat.

Upon their return from a Southern wedding they will make their home on Poplar Hill Road, Princess Anne, Va.

Mrs. Rawl Talks To Round Table

The Round Table met with Mrs. H. H. Duncan, Tuesday afternoon. The hostess' living room was decorated with arrangements of chrysanthemums in harmonious fall colors.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Robert Fountain, vice president, presided. Mrs. D. S. Spain, program chairman, presented Mrs. E. E. Rawl, who spoke on the subject "Israel—How the Bible is Building The Country."

Mrs. Rawl's discussion evidenced her thorough research into the findings of archaeological investigation. Quite impressive was her account of the archaeologists basing their investigative procedure on the Biblical descriptions of Solomon's mines, Deuteronomy's "land whose stones are iron," and of Genesis' "oil deposits."

These ancient Biblical world maps are challenging modern adventurers to make excavations which are bringing great rewards to modern Israel, she said. Contemporary soil conservationists have found a water supply in "Hagar's Well" for an otherwise arid country; agriculture consultants using the Bible as a guide on "what grew well in 1400 B. C." are bringing rich returns in thriving olive trees, vineyards and flax. Excavations have substantiated the fact that Abraham's tree did thrive in Israel. As a result, a reforestation program is underway with the planting of two million seedlings.

Said the speaker, "The Israelis can say in the words of Ezekiel, the prophet, 'This land which was desolate shall become again like the Garden of Eden.'"

Mrs. Rawl concluded her talk with details concerning the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Following the program, Mrs. W. E. Marshall for her short topic gave a review of the origin and purpose of the Nobel prizes.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Higgs and Mrs. Charles O.H. Horne, served a party plate of turkey and fruit salad.

Mrs. Leonard P. Bloxam was the special guest for the afternoon.

Raymond W. Lowe Dinner Host To Kiwanis Officials

Raymond W. Lowe was host at dinner at Silo Grill last night to the officers and directors of the Greenville Kiwanis Club at their October meeting. President Ed Waldrop presided.

Plans were formulated for presenting the annual Kiwanis Club's Minstrel Show for the benefit of the underprivileged child committee on December 4, 5 and 6. The Minstrel will be given at Austin Auditorium on the college campus. Ed Bloom is the director and producer of the minstrel. Ed E. Rawl, Jr. is chairman of the Advertising Committee and J. Hicks Corey heads the Ticket Committee.

Greenville City Manager Leonard P. Bloxam and Vocational Guidance Committeeman Kenneth G. Hite lined plans for a proposed technical trade school in Greenville, where men and women could be trained for technical jobs. The speakers said the demand for draughtsmen, electrical and mechanical and automotive and agricultural technicians is steadily increasing, and they declared that good paying jobs are readily available for mechanics with some special technical training. The directors favored the plan and President Waldrop said the matter will shortly be presented to the full club membership.

Those present in addition to the president and the host and the two speakers were Lieut.-Governor John T. Barnhill, Past President Charles V. Wilkerson, Vice-President Charles E. Blair and Secretary John O. Reynolds. Directors, Elbert H. Bennett, James W. Brewer, Dr. Howard H. Gradis, R. E. Rogers, D. A. Blue, W. Riley Cox, Robert L. Elks and Raymond W. Lowe, as host. Other guests were Vocational Guidance Committeeman Joe Waltz, Underprivileged Child Chairman Charles Gaskins and Public Relations Chairman Chester Walsh.

Christian Science Society

Man's real selfhood as the spiritual image and likeness of God, not subject to sin and sickness, will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man" will include the following (Genesis 1:27): "So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

The unchanging perfection of God's man will be brought out in passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following (476:28-32): "When speaking of God's children, not the children of men, Jesus said, 'The kingdom of God is within you'; that is, Truth and Love reign in the real man, showing that man in God's image is unfallen and eternal."

Yesterday Was Achievement Day For Pitt HD Women

By ANNETTE JACKSON
Reflector Woman's Editor

"If statisticians would sit down and figure out how many hours we women work per week, our husbands couldn't afford us," Mrs. Corinne Grimsley, Family Life Specialist from N. C. State College, told Pitt Home Demonstration Club members yesterday.

"We may not get rewarded in dollars and cents but there is nothing trivial about the housewife's job," she declared.

Illustrating her talk with a four-handed housewife on which the day's various activities were tackled, the featured speaker for Pitt Home Demonstration Achievement Day reviewed the tasks of today's homemaker.

She asserted with all the modern-day conveniences, the homemaker has not been left idle. Cooking, laundry, sewing, keeping household records, gardening, canning, nursing, teaching, attending PTA meetings and keeping the family relationships on healthy foundations were some of the areas mentioned by the speaker left to the female domain.

The homemaker of today is called on to be all of these yet more, she said.

"It's not enough to serve a beautifully planned and appointed meal or to keep a spotless house. What is more important than either of these is the spirit with which they are accomplished, she said.

Annual rewards were presented as a highlight of the meeting held in Jarvis Memorial Church Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Albert Bell, secretary of the County Council, recognized 92 club members for perfect attendance records at the monthly meetings. Leading the list was Mrs. D. N. Nobles of the Sweet Gum Grove Club who has a perfect attendance record for 15 years.

Timothy Home Demonstration Club was awarded for having the highest score of the year based on club reports recording attendance, members' participation in club activities and observance of parliamentary procedures.

Littfield, Timothy and Cannon's home demonstration clubs were awarded for having 100% on their yearly accomplishment sheets.

The gavel was presented to Fountain Home Demonstration Club for having the largest percentage of members present for yesterday's occasion.

Mrs. W. B. Satterthwaite presented the special awards.

Mrs. Russell Britt, president of the county council, presided over the program.

Bringing greetings to the group were Vance Perkins, vice-chairman of the board of county commissioners; Mrs. Alton Chapman, chairman of the 22nd district of home demonstration clubs; and Dr. Bessie McNeil, head of the home economics department, East Carolina College.

Special guests recognized included Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian of Sheppard Memorial Library; Mrs. Ruel W. Tyson, secretary for the home agent's office; Home Agent Lillie Little and assistant home agents Miss Lois Jones and Miss Margaret Stevens. Devotional was given by Mrs. Ichabod Allen.

A report of the year's activities was sketched by Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, vice president of the county council. She concluded with a brief resume of her experiences as a representative of the district at the National Citizenship Conference in Washington, D. C.

Delegate Gives Report On Conference

(Editor's Note: Excerpts from a report by Mrs. Wilbur L. Worthington on her trip to the National Conference On Citizenship in Washington, D. C. follow. Mrs. Worthington of Ayden represented this district of home demonstration clubs at the conference.)

It was my happy privilege recently to attend the eleventh National Conference on Citizenship held at the Statler Hotel, Washington, D. C.

The citizenship ceremony at the Washington Monument Grounds on Citizenship Day was a colorful sight. As the band played, the colors from each of the thirteen original colonies were presented by a member of the USMC and a wreath made of the state flower presented by a member of the United States Army was placed at the base of the monument.

A representative from each state and a lady in the costume of the period marched behind the flowers and stood there during the address and music.

As I stood in the warm sunshine listening to the stirring words of the speaker, before that tremendous monument with the Capitol and White House in the distance, my heart was filled with pride and a feeling of gratitude for the many wonderful Americans who have believed in democracy to such an extent that they were willing to die for it and others who have given their time and energy to make sure that America should be free.

Then and there I determined never again to take the privileges and responsibilities of my great American heritage for granted.

Perhaps the most impressive part of the entire conference was the naturalization proceedings which took place on the last day. Sixty-eight men and women, many of them young people, from 24 foreign countries became citizens.

As we listened to a young man from Greece and a young girl from Czechoslovakia tell about where they came from and what it meant to them to finally become citizens of this wonderful land of opportunity where only hardy work is needed to make dreams come true, our eyes filled with tears and our hearts overflowed with a fierce loyalty and pride for this our native land.

The purposes of this conference were to support and strengthen the efforts of the people in maintaining the blessings of freedom and justice and to protect and perpetuate the principles and ideas upon which this nation was founded; to develop a more thorough knowledge of citizenship rights and responsibilities; and to inspire a deeper devotion to citizenship responsibilities.

"The Voting Citizen" was the theme of the conference. Delegates were alarmed to discover that since 1952 less than 60% of our people have gone to the polls. Speakers pointed out that democracy cannot continue to operate on 60% efficiency.

A program of adult education was proposed to arm with the latest information and deepest understanding. The public schools of this nation must cast aside their fear of controversial issues and begin a program of citizenship training that deals realistically with the problems that face the citizen of today. This comprehensive citizenship program should not be carried by the school alone but is the responsibility of the home, church and civic-groups as well.

"We have less to fear from the subversive activity of our enemy than we do from the listless inactivity of our friends," one speaker said.

Women of Pitt County, your country needs your help. Join the crusade to "Get Out The Vote!"

TAKES A FOUR-HANDED HOUSEWIFE—Mrs. Corinne Grimsley, right, family life specialist from N. C. State College, illustrated her talk at Pitt Home Demonstration Achievement Day yesterday with a four-handed housewife surrounded with the daily duties required of today's homemaker. "I wouldn't begin to start with a two-handed one," she quipped. Shown with Mrs. Grimsley above is Home Demonstration County Council President Mrs. Russel Britt. (Reflector Staff Photo.)

State Of The Union' Has Final Performance Tonite

With the popular Broadway and Hollywood actor Jeffrey Lynn in the leading role, "State of the Union" by Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse attracted enthusiastic audiences at performances in the McGinnis auditorium at East Carolina College this week. Closing performances in a series of four is scheduled for tonight at 8 p.m.

Lynn and a student cast of members of the East Carolina playhouse, college dramatic club, merited the high praise received from play-goers from the campus, Greenville, and other localities in Eastern North Carolina.

Lynn, who has been on the campus during the past two weeks for rehearsals with the East Carolina players, came to the college through arrangements with the American National Theater and Academy and played in "State of the Union" under the auspices of the college Entertainment Committee. His appearance in the leading role and his services as consultant to the cast gave members of the Playhouse their first opportunity of working with a professional.

The play, a timely comedy about an aspirant to the Presidency, was well cast. Lynn's portrayal of Grant Mitchell, an idealistic American who wants to be President measured up to the expectations of his fans and gave the verve and the definitive professional touch needed to make the local production a hit.

Barbara L. Harrell of Raleigh, playing opposite Lynn as Mary Mitchell, gave an effective interpretation as Mitchell's charming wife.

Other members of the cast whose contributions to the East Carolina production won favorable response from audiences were Margaret Starnes of Raleigh as the "other woman," Lloyd Bray, Jr., of Greenville and Alice Horne of Tabor

Speaker Talks On TV Station

WNCT-TV was the topic of Mrs. W. P. Moore's talk to the Chatham Book Club meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Moore discussed the television station's physical facilities and the programs which will be brought into the homes. A wide variety of programs will be available to all the people of North Carolina, she said.

She also gave short sketches of Pauline Frederick of New York, Virginia Shottsburg of Miami, Fla., Marjorie King of San Francisco and Lillian Lee of Atlanta, Ga., all news analysts of NBC.

Mrs. Moore was hostess for the meeting at her home in Rock Springs. The hostess greeted members and guests upon arrival. Bouquets of chrysanthemums and other fall flowers decorated the hall and living room for the occasion.

A salad course, cake and coffee were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. W. D. Tucker.

Mrs. E. A. Bendall, president, presided over a short business meeting. Special guests for the occasion were Mrs. William Flanders of New York and Mrs. Morris Brody.

Female Rings Election Bells

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A vivacious Nashville woman has come up with a bell-ringer to stir Americans out of complacency on election day.

Miss Ruby Lee Adams proposes that bells throughout the land be rung once an hour Nov. 6 to "awaken people to their opportunity and chance to vote."

In 1952, she said, only 62.7 per cent of American adults voted in the presidential election.

She first voiced her thoughts in a story published by the Nashville Banner. Copies were sent to fellow members of American Women of Radio and Television. To date, Miss Adams has received hundreds of requests for reprints.

"The reception has been marvelous, so very marvelous," she says.

Briefly, Miss Adams suggests that church bells be sounded in cities and towns, youth groups such as the Boy Scouts press doorbells and radio and television stations ring bells each hour.

How did Miss Adams, a self-employed research specialist, think of her "get out the vote" idea? "I was working in my rose garden when a huckster wagon passed by ringing a bell.

"I wouldn't have been aware of the wagon except for the bell," she said. "I thought what a wonderful thing it would be if we would ring the bells on election day to get out the vote."

Pitt Needs A Strong Farm Bureau

The lagging membership campaign of the Pitt County Farm Bureau is disappointing not only to those who are heading the campaign, but also those in Pitt County who are vitally interested in continued agricultural prosperity in this county.

With four days remaining in the period set for the campaign, only 1,636 memberships have been reported out of the county's quota this year of 4,500. Certainly this response is not a true indication of the interest in the Farm Bureau in a leading agricultural county.

Pitt is the birthplace of the Farm Bureau in North Carolina. Through the years the people of the county have recognized the significance of the work done by the Farm Bureau. They have numerous examples of how the Farm Bureau, by concerting the efforts of thousands of farmers, has been able to bring about favorable consideration of legislation and other matters in government pertaining to agriculture.

In this day when various segments of the nation's economy are becoming more highly organized and their efforts to obtain favorable government consideration more competitive, it is imperative that agriculture not lose the advantage the Farm Bureau has afforded it. A Farm Bureau which can speak for 4,500 farmers in Pitt County obviously can accomplish much more in the interest of agriculture than a Farm Bureau which has in its membership only 2,000 Pitt County farmers.

Pitt County as a leading agricultural county in North Carolina needs the continued efforts of the Farm Bureau to bring about a better economic position for agriculture. Conversely, the Farm Bureau, if it is to adequately represent agriculture in North Carolina, must have adequate support from Pitt, one of the leading agricultural counties of the state.

Though only four days remain in the current membership campaign, it is our hope that sufficient interest will be evidenced in these next four days to put the Farm Bureau membership drive in Pitt County up to its 4,500 quota for this year.

Driver Training Plan Is Worthy Undertaking

A driver training program for school children on a county-wide program in Pitt would pay huge dividends in reducing accident and accompanying injuries and property damage.

The record of accident reduction produced by driver training programs in other states and other counties in North Carolina have shown conclusively the soundness of the program not only from a safety standpoint but from a dollars and cents standpoint.

Under the auspices of the recently formed Pitt County Safety Council efforts are being made to bring about a driver training program in all the high schools of the county. At present there are such programs in the high schools at Ayden, Winterville and Grifton. None of the other high schools of the county have driver training programs.

Even in these schools the programs are being carried on without expense to the county.

The effectiveness of driver training programs at the high school level have been evidenced not only by accident statistics which show reduced accidents where programs are in effect, but also by the fact that insurance companies offer special rates where teenagers have completed driver training programs.

In view of the fact that driver training programs have made a considerable contribution to accident reduction in Forsyth and other North Carolina counties, there is no reason similar results could not be obtained in Pitt with a driver training program.

Through successful efforts to bring about the establishment of driver training in all the high schools in Pitt County, the new safety council will have made a major contribution to better safety records in Pitt. Proposals of the Safety Council for this program deserve careful consideration by school officials as well as the other citizens of the county.

Expect To Continue Tar Heel Tax Study

By C. A. UPCHURCH Jr. RALEIGH — One recommendation of the State Tax Study Commission is almost certain to be that the study be continued.

For 15 months, the Commission has been talking a long, hard look at North Carolina's tax structure — State and local. The size and complexities of the task have convinced the Commission that some group or agency should continue the study.

It will take more than a biennium to put the tax structure—with its many inequities and mixed-up procedure—into the best shape possible taking into consideration all the built-in complications of taxation.

The study was authorized by the 1955 General Assembly. It directed the Commission to present its report and recommendations to the Governor by Nov. 10. Present indications are, that the report will reach Governor Hodges on time, but printed copies for legislators and others interested will not be available for a short time afterward.

DILIGENT — Headed by Brandon Hodges of Asheville and Canton, former State treasurer, the Tax Study Commission has been diligent and hard-working. Even so, it found the field too complicated and broad to arrive at exactly-right conclusions on all the problems and to make workable recommendations within the time allotted to it.

Writing of the report is now in progress, and all the details are not yet completed. However, the Commission is known to have given considerable study to the hedge-podge of taxes in Schedule B, which levies State taxes on the privilege of engaging in certain types of business activities. Schedule B contains 73 sections, most of which have been added a section or two at the time over the last 75 years.

Municipalities and counties also collect privilege taxes under Section B. In order to produce the $7,000,000 in revenue gained under Schedule B, the State must issue more than 215,000 separate licenses. Add those licenses issued by counties and cities, and the total moves up to a half-million—which explains why some business have a good-sized section of wall papered with licenses.

BURDEN — Only about half the classes of business in North Carolina pay these direct license taxes. Sixteen of the class of business in the 73 sections of Schedule B produce more than 82 per cent of the total.

Thus the State gets more of its license tax revenue from theatres, professionals, contractors, hotels and restaurants, vending machines, soft drink bottles and the sale of the soft drinks, laundries and dry cleaners, service stations, automobile dealers, chain stores, tobacco stores at retail, building and loan associations, installment paper dealers and loan agencies.

Some sections levy a tax on economic activity such as gross sales; others levy a flat fee.

Under a flat fee levy, a small business pays as much as a huge business. And there are other inequities. In fact, the Commission has asked itself if it is fair for 16 classes of business to pay over four-fifths of the total Schedule B revenue while many others pay no privilege taxes. That question also has been raised regularly by business forced to pay the tax.

The Commission will point its recommendations for Schedule B toward removal of the obvious inequities, improvement of procedure and a more logical system of license taxation.

OTHERS — Major changes have not been made in North Carolina's tax laws since 1933. Meantime, there have been many broad economic, sociological and technological changes. With this fact in mind, the 1955 Legislature authorized the Tax Study Commission to look into the State's entire tax structure. It particularly charged the Commission to recommend any needed changes that might encourage new business or industry.

Several months back, Chairman Hodges said: "A primary consideration of the Tax Study Commission in its deliberations in whether the tax structure burdens segments of the economy of the State to an extent that will likely jeopardize further growth and ultimately reduce the potential source of the future tax revenues." And he added: "Certainly the taxes should be equitable as possible and the burden as light as feasible, with a minimum of duplication and complexity."

The Commission invites comments and suggestions from all comers. It got about 30 briefs from trade and business associations, through which most of the comments and suggestions were channeled. Few came from individuals.

The Commission heard few complaints about local property taxes. Most squawks concerned income taxes. But kinks also come in about inheritance, gift and franchise taxes. Schedule B, and the sales tax—with the latter drawing complaints mostly from businesses added to the sales tax base by the 1955 General Assembly.

What the Commission will have to say about corporate, intangibles, franchise and the other taxes is, of course a closely-guarded secret. But a spokesman has said that in examining the tax structure to see if it could be made more encouraging and attractive to industrial development, the Commission will not use "any gimmicks, tax cuts or tax relief, as such."

LEGISLATURE — Governor Hodges will relay the Commission's recommendations to the 1957 General Assembly, with members getting copies just as soon as possible after Nov. 10. Legislative action can be expected in all probability in proportion to the vigor with which the newly-elected Governor pushes the recommendations. On this and succeeding phases of the tax study, the ultimate decisions will remain with the Legislature.

Taking Fun Out Of Hallowe'en

The First District Loved It

RALEIGH — The series of Democratic congressional district rallies which began in Asheville on October 2 wound up at Washington last Friday, with a typical rally speech by Senator Kerr Scott.

It was the first chance the junior Senator has had to speak for more than two or three minutes, and he went at it with his old-time fervor, making full use of the homespun wit and biting sarcasm for which he is famed.

Of Eisenhower's promised clean-up crusade, he quipped that the "little tin god has lost his glamor, and the hound's tooth is in need of Pepsodent treatment." Of the plight of the farmers, he said he didn't know how much profit the General was making on his Gettysburg farm, "but there are no gold Cadillac around Haw River." "Up ou, way," he said, "we've left the milk cans out in the rain with lids off — and still can't make ends meet."

At each of the rallies one principal speaker was given major spot, the others being simply introduced. Governor Hodges was headliner in the 12th, 10th, 9th, and 2nd districts. Senator Sam Ervin topped the program in the 8th, 7th, 6th, 5th and 3rd. State Treasurer Edwin Gill highlighted the 11th district and Rep. Harold Colley the 4th. All of these addresses were factual, logical and scholarly, but they lacked the evangelistic appeal that Scott put into his speech.

Tarheel Democrats, at least the ones who attend the rallies, like the "Give 'em hell" Truman type approach. Scott gave them more of that than any of the others. The first districters liked it.

Notebook On Life

What Have You Done Lately?

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — What are you doing to glorify you wife?

European men often say American men foolishly spoil their ladies, and that husbands here virtually practice wife worship. This talk infuriates American wives. Not because it's true—they only wish it were—but because it isn't. They feel that if any husbands are practicing wife worship in this country, it must be a secret vice. They see no public signs of it.

The truth is the complaint the average wife makes most often about her husband is, "He's too inattentive. He takes me for granted, just as he does the furniture. Nobody in America really appreciates what it means to be a housewife — except another housewife."

"The trouble with a husband is that he thinks the courtship ends with the honeymoon," a veteran wife lamented. "After that your day is supposed to be made if he recognizes you and calls you by your first name at breakfast."

"Romance? A husband's idea of being romantic is to send his wife a get-well card on Valentine's Day."

Well, ladies, that may have been before. But now husbands are getting more thoughtful. They're not only praising their husbands in public. They're doing it in print — and paying for the privilege!

Last month in Miami, Harry Jobson surprised his wife on their anniversary with a 12-by-25-foot billboard poster. It showed him kneeling in humble adoration "To a wonderful wife who has borne with me for 20 years."

Recently Mrs. Carl W. Trantham of Springfield, Mo., while scanning the classified ads of her newspaper, was startled to find a public announcement, paid for by her husband, telling what a great gal she was.

The ad, quoting the Biblical proverb, "Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing," said:

"I am responsible for all debts and obligations of my wife, Mildred, both present and future, and am more than happy to be the provider for such a wife who married me 25 years ago today, who has borne me four happy children, all of whom are Christians, and she has manifested continuously such love, patience, understanding, helpfulness, that these have been the happiest years of my life."

In praising a wife, does it pay to advertise? Trantham, a railroad employe, found it sure paid off in his case.

Mrs. Trantham was more pleased by her husband's public proclamation than she was with the silver anniversary gifts he gave her — a silver bracelet and earrings, silver pen, and a chrome silver food mixer. Even strangers called up to congratulate her.

"I received many compliments myself," Trantham reported later. "Also a few howls out from husbands whose wives had read the ad and asked why didn't they ever think of doing something like that."

As a matter of fact, other husbands

You Pay For More Always

By ELMER ROESSNER

Whenever you buy an article, you also buy a lot of other things along with it. You buy paper, string, interest (if it's charged it), delivery (if it's sent), H-bombs (and a million other things with the taxes on every item), and the right to demand your money back if the product is defective.

You also buy two other important and expensive things: processing and distribution.

Suppose you decide you don't want any.

You hand your grocer a dollar and order a pound of butter. "I can't get out of paying for a bag and taxes," you say, "but I don't want any of this processing or distribution."

"Sure," says the grocer. "In that case I'll charge you only sixty cents." He gives you the change.

"But where's the butter?" you ask.

"Oh, it's still cream in a can on the Jensen Farm at Strudel, Wisconsin," he says. "The auto club will give you directions for driving there."

HOW IT WORKS

Whether you buy a scarf, an automobile, a pair of shoes or a chicken, the costs of processing and distribution ride with the sale.

How it does was described in detail for the National Association of Food Chains by Dr. Herrell De Graff, of Cornell University.

His example was a frying chicken for which a Georgia farmer got 25.3 cents a pound live, and which sold pan-ready in Chicago in July, 1955, for 53 cents a pound.

The 25.3 cents a pound live weight was equivalent to 34.7 cents a pound eviscerated.

The wholesaler figured costs on that basis and spent 0.75 cents a pound for hauling the bird to a predecessor and 0.25 cents more for its last meal. The processor paid 3 cents a pound for labor in slaughtering and cleaning, 1 cent a pound for packaging, and 1.25 cents a pound for freight. He added another 1.25 cents for overhead and profit. By this time the chicken had cost 42.2 cents a pound.

The wholesaler then sold the chicken to a retailer, adding on 2 cents for his sales costs, overhead and profit.

MARKET GETS LITTLE

The retailer's buying costs were 0.2 cents a pound. Then he spent 5.2 cents a pound in cutting the chicken, weighing it, putting it in a tray and marking it. Then he spent 2.9 cents more in refrigerating it, displaying it and meeting his overhead costs — rent, light, heat, wages, etc.

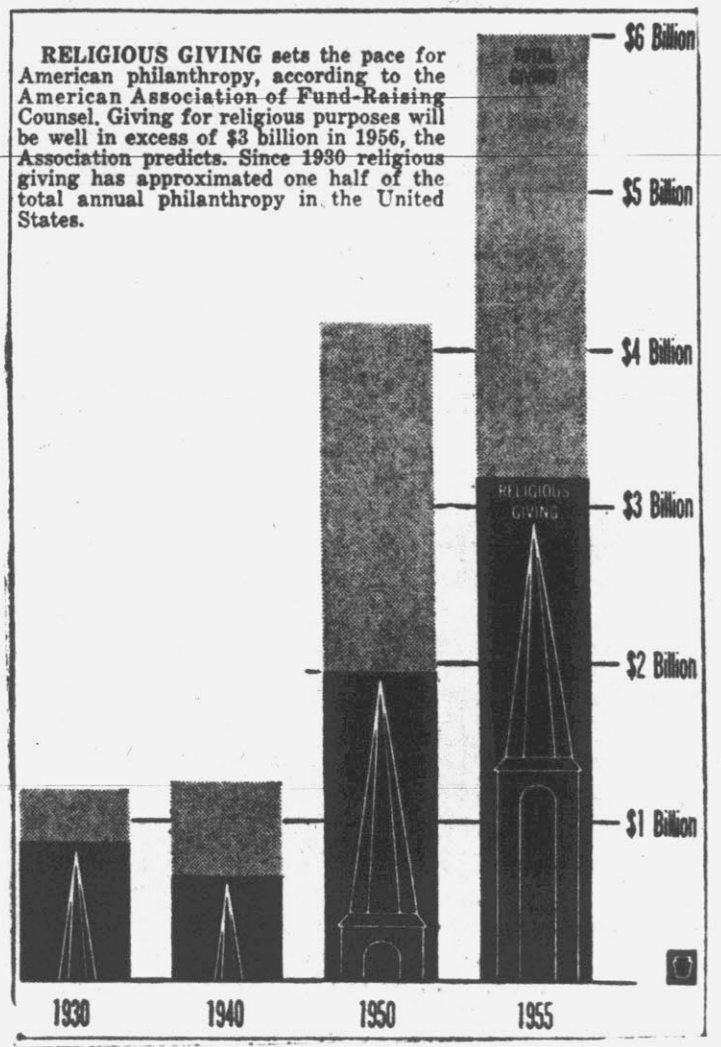

These steps brought the cost per pound to 52.5 cents. The bird went on sale at 53 cents. The net profit was half a cent a pound.

Retailers liked Dr. De Graff's analysis; it corroborates their oft-repeated statement that food retailers make only 1 cent profit on each dollar of sales.

One day next week members of the N. A. F. C. are going to dramatize this narrow net. Members' stores, which are in almost every marketing area, are to be festooned with pennies and bright cents will be handed customers to point over the point.

Opinions In Brief

RIVERTON, WYOMING, RANGER: "Increased reliance on the Federal government for services of every description has led to higher income taxes. These taxes have finally risen to a level where people are encouraged to cheat a little if the opportunity arises. The result, we fear, is a general weakening of the moral fiber of the great American people."

Other Editors Are Saying . . . On Courts And Cameras

(The Birmingham News) Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones in his Sunday column in The Montgomery Advertiser recently wrote that he would continue to allow photographers to make news pictures in his courtroom. He expressed the view he has advanced before, that Canon 35 of the American Bar Association — barring courtroom photography — is archaic.

Judge Jones disagrees with a majority of his fellow members of the Alabama Circuit Judges Association. That group refused at its last meeting to accept a recommendation of a committee to revoke adherence to Canon 35, and to allow courtroom photography. Most judges seem to continue to believe that cameras in court detract from the essential dignity of procedure, and create misconceptions in the public mind. Says Judge Jones: "These conclusions are absurd."

The judge usefully points out that photography for news purposes is permitted in churches; that inaugurations—very dignified procedures of course—are filmed by all types of cameras. The judge cited the coronation of Queen Elizabeth as another example. So, he argues, why is it that a courtroom should be closed to such news coverage?

It is generally known by everyone who has cared to investigate that cameras now are so efficient that the old system of using flashbulbs and so on really is not needed. Judge Jones feels that with his being the case, it is unrealistic to bar cameras.

"The right of the public to know and to see should always be recognized," wrote the Montgomery jurist. "The old Chinese proverb: 'One picture is worth a thousand words,' is but the striking statement of a simple fact."

Public confidence in courts is reduced, he believes, whenever there is denial of the public's wish to know the full story of what goes in them. This paper is glad to see Judge Jones continuing the effort to revamp Canon 35.

Army Generals Protest Cut In Aerial Arm

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON

An organized protest among the Army generals has been set afoot against scheduled cuts in that service's aerial arm under the Wilson-Radford program of greater emphasis on nuclear weapons and "massive retaliation" as a deterrent to large-scale wars. But the movement for keeping and building a mobile land force to put out "brush fires" will be carried on by outside elements not subject to Secretary Wilson's censorship or orders.

The immediate reason for the organized protest against Pentagon policy is based on authentic reports that the 1958 military budget will be slashed by $7.5 billion below the $43 billion which the three services believe to be a basic requirement. The Army would be the principal victim under present plans.

The Administration intends to concentrate on the strengthening of forward bases in Europe and the Middle East, North Africa and Far East. It will rely more heavily on the Strategic Air Command heavy bombers, and intercontinental ballistic missiles. It will continue to make and store nuclear weapons as a practical method of enforcing world peace.

ARMY'S AIRBORNE NEEDS. But with the $7.5 billion reduction there will not be enough money to develop aerially transported Army units—a "fire brigade"—to stamp out "brush fires" and to check regional Communist aggression.

Whereas Army experts want eight airborne divisions, and regard four as the absolute minimum, the Army does not have enough suitable planes to transport even one division and the necessary support for land operations, as in Korea, Indo-China or the Middle East. And neither do France or Britain.

The Association of the United States Army, which recently held a lively three-day convention at Washington, will try to sell the Army's needs in this field to Congress and public, as the Navy League performs that function for the fleet.

ARMY ASSOCIATION The Association has been in existence for one year, but it was reorganized and revitalized at the recent meeting. In the past its pro-Army activities have not been especially effective because its officers and directors consisted of men still in the service. Under censorship restrictions by Wilson and Admiral Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, public protests and Congressional lobbying would have jeopardized their careers.

In fact, scheduled speeches on the Army's plight at the meeting were canceled or diluted at Wilson's orders. But General Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, did warn that "atomic weapons in themselves are ineffectual unless used in conjunction with land operations."

In order to give the Army a more effective voice, and to bypass Wilson and Radford, the Association's top personnel will henceforth be drawn from retired officers, National Guardsmen, reservists and civilian industrialists. The Pentagon cannot censor them. Almost 2,000 attended the Washington reorganization and strategy conference.

INDEPENDENT OFFICERS OF ORGANIZATION In line with this policy, John Slezab, former Undersecretary of the Army, was elected president, and General Matthew B. Ridgway, former Chief of Staff and a severe Wilson-Radford critic, was chosen vice-president. They succeed two men still in the service and subject to Wilson's jurisdiction.

Representative Daniel J. Flood, Pennsylvania Democrat and a pro-Army man on the House Appropriations Committee handling military funds, had no compunction in attacking alleged Army neglect. Urging creation of a "genuine airborne Army" to put out brush fires in all parts of the world, he said:

"TO BRIDGE A GAP 'I am delighted that an association has been formed which will be more effective in taking the Army's message to the people, which will bridge the gap which exists between restraints and the censorship of official Army life on the one hand, and the lack of understanding by many citizens who simply have not been given enough information about what the Army is doing and ought to be doing in the future.'"

"This role of an intermediary between officialdom and ignorance is one that your association is needed to perform."

The Suffering Servant

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buesches

Scripture—Isaiah 52:13-53:12; Matthew 1:18-21.

Isaiah prophesied that when the Messiah came He would be "despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrow, and acquainted with grief."

Isaiah also foretold that He would be beaten and wounded, but by His sufferings we, the sinful ones, would be healed.

Christ would be hated and despised, but by His sufferings we, the sinful ones, would be healed.

When Jesus was brought before Herod, the chief priests and scribes accused Him violently, but Jesus was silent, as Isaiah foretold.

MEMORY VERSE—Isaiah 53:5.

The Suffering Servant

ISAIAH PROPHESES THE COMING OF JESUS AND HIS REJECTION AND DEATH

Scripture—Isaiah 52:13-53:12; Matthew 1:18-21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL CENTURIES before Jesus Christ was born, the prophet Isaiah foretold His coming, and these prophecies are the subject of our lesson today.

Isaiah prophesied, it is thought, between 720 and 710 B.C. in Jerusalem. We read: "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief; and we hid as it were our faces from Him; He was despised, and we esteemed Him not."

Except for the Apostles, the people whom He healed, and a few others, our Lord was indeed "despised and rejected of men," even though, as Isaiah says, those they profess to love. Would we welcome with joy a Messiah such as Christ? Do we listen to those among us who are His followers in spirit and in truth, and who try to guide us into the "straight and narrow path" of righteousness?

"He was oppressed, and He was afflicted, yet He opened not His mouth; He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so He openeth not His mouth."

You will remember that when Jesus was brought before Herod, His enemies, the chief priests and scribes, were vehement in their denunciations and accusations of Him. Christ, however, refused to talk.

"Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise Him; He hath put Him to grief; when thou shalt make His soul an offering for sin, He shall see His seed, He shall prolong His days, and the pleasure of His eyes shall be fulfilled."

MEMORY VERSE

"He was wounded for our transgressions; He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."—Isaiah 53:5.

"Surely He hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows; yet we did esteem Him stricken, smitten of God, and afflicted."

"But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed."

"All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one his own way; and the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." After all the centuries have passed since those words were uttered, we of this generation are sadly, still like lost sheep that have gone astray.

Christ told us to love one another; to forgive our enemies; to do good to those who abuse us, yet the newspapers are full of stories of crimes of revenge. Often those who call themselves Christians are cruel to one another, and even many times to Lord shall prosper in His hand." The last verse of this portion of Isaiah reads like a summary of the foregoing.

"Therefore will I divide Him a portion with the great, and He shall divide the spoil with the strong; because He hath poured out His soul unto death; and He was numbered with the transgressors; and He bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors."

Even on the cross, our Savior made intercession for the transgressors when He pleaded: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

Centuries later the prophecy came true. The Messiah came, born in a manger. St. Matthew tells how an angel of God came to Joseph, telling him that Mary would have a son, "And thou shalt call His name Jesus, for He shall save His people from their sins."

Spectacular Show At Grifton Carnival

By BARBARA TAYLOR Grifton High School Reporter A spectacular Halloween Carnival was held Friday night. The popularity contest was the most widely publicized event. There were three queens—Rhonda Seelby, baby contest; Jo Lynn Hardison, elementary grades; and Dorothy Groat, "Queen of the High School." Peggy Parker was runner-up for the title of high school queen.

Barbara Lane. The cheerleaders and the basketball teams will go to Hookerton November 9 for the first game of the season. The Teen-Age Club is beginning to organize under the direction of Mrs. John Groat. Records are being ordered for the dances which will be held every other Saturday night. An admission of ten cents will be charged. The proceeds will go toward the purchase of records. Officers will be elected at the next high school assembly meeting.

Susan Hayward Turns Producer

By BOB THOMAS HOLLYWOOD—Now it's Susan Hayward, girl producer.

The redhead from Brooklyn is the latest to join the producers' ranks, but she's frank enough to admit that it's in name only. "I couldn't handle the business details," she said. "I can't even count to 10."

She'll hire talent to handle the business end. The reason for becoming a producer? Money, of course. Until now, she has always been under contract to producers, working for a flat salary. "I'll Cry Tomorrow" may have helped her see the light on getting a percentage of the take.

Susan hears that the Lillian Roth biography has grossed between 12 and 14 million, making it MGM's third biggest moneymaker after "Gone With the Wind" and "Que Vadis."

Right now she's happy to be making a comedy — "Top Secret Affair" with Kirk Douglas. "At least I think it's a comedy," she said. "We're doing it in pieces and you can't be sure."

She is negotiating to buy a property for her own company. One project she won't do: the Helen Morgan biography. She had been mentioned for it.

"I turned that down long ago," she said. "Helen Morgan didn't have one tenth the problems that Lillian Roth did, and I've played her."

Producers all over the place! In a nearby dressing room was Kirk Douglas, returned from a luncheon conference with his business associates. He reported a healthy profit on his first production effort, "The Indian Fighter." And he has high hopes for unreleased films, "Spring Reunion" with Betty Hutton and Dana Andrews, and "Lizale" with Eleanor Parker.

Next he makes "King Kelly" and in the summer he'll produce "The Vikings," to be made in Scandinavia for three million dollars. "I asked him if he ever thought he would be spending such millions when he was a waiter in New York. 'No, and I don't want to think about it now!'" he replied.

Artificial Heart For Operation

DURHAM (AP) — A contraption of plastic bags and electric pumps took over heart and lung functions for a 5-year-old Greensboro boy last week, so Duke Hospital surgeons could operate on the lad's heart.

Doctors stopped the heart action of Michael West for 15 minutes, the longest time yet used a technique for heart operations announced at Duke Hospital this summer.

Three Stood To Gain In Crisis In Middle East

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The missing link in the fighting in Egypt is this: Did the British, French and Israelis plan it together? It looks that way. All three stood to gain by what they did.

What the Israelis wanted was to help wreck Egyptian President Nasser, whom all three hated. He was the rallying point for Arabs against Israel. What the British and French wanted was to wreck Nasser and get back the Suez Canal.

But the effects of what the British and French did went far beyond their move to seize the canal. They ignored the United Nations, although pledged to work with and uphold the world organization.

They made American leadership of the free world look as sick as a straw hat in the rain by telling Secretary of State Dulles nothing of their plans to go into the Suez area and then ignoring President Eisenhower's personal plea not to.

They made their move at a time when the West might have profited by the Russian killing of Hungarians in Budapest. Now world attention has been diverted.

The French and British had been angered and frustrated by Dulles ever since Nasser seized the canal last July. They wanted to take military action against Nasser to take back the canal.

Dulles proposed a couple of plans—for negotiating peacefully with Nasser—which didn't work out but managed to forestall military action until now.

The British and French apparently made up their minds he wouldn't block them again. They shut him off from information for 10 days. American ambassadors for that time were not able to see the heads of the French and British governments.

On Monday — when the Israelis marched into Egypt — the British and French ambassadors were absent from Washington. But on that day the British Minister

Confederate Vet Gets Union Medal

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Union Army at last will present a medal to Confederate Walter Williams.

The 4th Army announced it would present the medal Friday to the 113-year-old former forager for Hood's Texas Brigade. He is one of three survivors of the Civil War.

The presentation will be at Williams' farm home near Franklin, Tex.

The 84th Congress authorized the secretary of the Treasury to strike suitable medals in honor of the last surviving veterans of the Civil War.

To Get Married After 81 Years

OMAHA (AP)—William B. O'Keefe, 81 years bachelor, is getting married.

It was an old-fashioned oomb that 70-year-old Mrs. Mable F. Cree wore to a church meeting that started O'Keefe on the way to the altar.

He related, "The comb was coming loose and I was saying to myself 'Shall I tell her or will she think I'm fresh. I decided to tell her.'"

They "dated" for three years before O'Keefe asked, "How about an engagement ring?" Mrs. Cree recalled "I was very elated!"

SYNOPSIS
Casson Duker, a well-to-do amateur detective, is intrigued by Henry Lockyer, a stolid banker, getting drunk before dinner at their club. Casson's curiosity compels him to find out why the normally light-drinking Lockyer is acting in such a manner. After dinner, Casson offers to drive the drunken Lockyer home in hopes of unlocking the secret. Lockyer accepts.

CHAPTER 2
Launceton Street was deserted under the April lamp-light and the squat, Victorian houses had a mellow, contented look. Lockyer was able to walk without assistance to his own front door. Casson had followed him up the short path and the four steps to the door, hoping that the other man would invite him in.

"Thank you," Lockyer said. His speech was just detectably slurred and he swayed slightly. "That was courteous. Come in."

He poured whisky for both of them.

"I read Wilch of Bath," Lockyer said abruptly. "I must tell you I thought it a lot of nonsense. Invented, you know." He paused. Casson held his breath.

"I offer you apologies," Lockyer went on. "I now believe it could be true. I will tell you why." They always do tell Casson thought in secret triumph. In the end everybody tells someone of their hasty crimes or shameful errors.

"Fore I tell you," said Lockyer. "I must make it clear that I tell you in the strictest confidence." Casson nodded. "Some days ago I was in the drawing-room after breakfast. My man Dobbie came in. Said there was a visitor. It was unusual, since I never interview people at my house. However, Dobbie said that he had come to see me in connection with a welfare project I had been working on. So I felt it my duty to see him.

"My scheme is in its final stage of planning. All that remains is to launch an appeal for money. My committee has agreed that he should maintain secrecy until the appeal is launched. We hope thereby to achieve greater effect for our publicity.

"Consequently, very few people know of my scheme. Only the members of my committee, my private secretary, and the technical consultants at the bank.

"I was, therefore, a trifle surprised when this person—a Mr. Bagot he called himself, thought I am not inclined to think that that is his name—wished to interview me on such a matter. I saw him—'fact, I felt that I could not do otherwise—and he turned out to be a crook."

Casson raised his eyebrows. "That is to say," Lockyer hurried on, "he blackmailed me."

Casson whistled softly and leaned forward. "You paid him?"

"Yes."

"You shouldn't. But they nearly always do."

"It was an impossible situation," Lockyer retorted with some vehemence. He finished his glass and refilled it. "It's all very well for you to sit there and be wise. But this person Bagot exhibited what I can only describe as diabolical cunning." Casson sighed at the astonishing simplicity of some business men. "He proposed to blackmail me for something I had not done... he threatened to blacken my reputation."

"For what?"

"I'd rather not discuss it."

"But why on earth did you pay?"

"Bagot said that he wanted a thousand pounds. If I did not pay him at once he threatened to enter an action against me in the courts. He explained that if I had maintained his accusation and no one would believe that I was being blackmailed for something which I hadn't done, I could not prove that I had not done it. If I refused to pay, then he would bring his action and, whether he won or lost, my reputation would be ruined. He himself would be safe because I could not prove that he was blackmailing me."

"He said that, if I paid him and kept silent, I should never see him again."

"And you believed him?"

"Yes. He outlined to me his theory of crime. It was most convincing. He held the view that most criminals are discovered only by repetition. He himself would never blackmail the same person twice. Therefore, once I had paid, I was safe."

"Thereby sealing your presumed guilt?"

"Yes," Lockyer laughed shortly. "We got a taxi. We drove to the bank. I cashed a check for a thousand pounds. I went outside and handed it to him. He put it in a suitcase and vanished. I am a thousand pounds poorer and I have given away my peace of mind."

"Do you want me to find him?" Casson asked.

"No."

Casson shrugged.

"Would you like me to catch this little man—without involving you?"

Lockyer finished his whisky. "You couldn't," he said. "What does he look like?"

"Neat, common, insignificant. I doubt if I could recognize him again."

"There must be something about him."

"Possible, I suppose. I don't know. I am about five foot ten. He was probably forty—or fifty. He was thin and clean shaven and his teeth were normal. He wore a raincoat without a belt, a green hat, and brown shoes. He wore heavy, horn-rimmed spectacles and his hair was dark brown and parted in the middle. He had a trace of accent. He was very clean—face, hands, nails."

"I can only describe it by saying that it sounded rather 'common.' You understand?"

Casson nodded.

"The only noticeable things about him are his spectacles and his hair," Casson mused. "Therefore it is reasonable to assume that they were false. Real but false."

He had darkened his hair, parted it differently, put on the spectacles for the occasion, or put on different spectacles. Without them you might find it hard to recognize him. Have you ever seen him before?"

"No," said Lockyer without hesitation.

"But if you say that you wouldn't recognize him again, why shouldn't you have seen him in the past and not recognized him when he blackmailed you?"

"Possible, I suppose. I don't think so."

"How could he have learned all that about you? About your project in particular?"

"I don't know. How can you catch him? He is a nobody, an unnoticeable little man. Thousands like him."

"No. He's different. He has a brain of a sort, courage of a sort, ambition or greed of a sort. And it is of a compelling sort or he would not turn to crime. He has a personality. No man can disguise his personality. He must betray something. Tell me the story again!"

Casson cleverly constructs Bagot's personality in tomorrow's absorbing installment.

Pitt Prisoner Receives Parole

RALEIGH (AP)—The paroling of 12 prisoners, including one sentenced to life on a murder charge, was announced by the State Board of Paroles today. They were:

Buster McQueen, 50, sentenced to life from Granville in 1933 for accessory before and after the fact of murder, sentence commuted in 1953 to 30-40 years;

Garvis R. Finn, 24, sentenced 1954 to 7-10 years for breaking from Pitt and Halifax counties in entering larceny and conspiracy; W. S. Cribb, 28, sentenced from Columbus Recorder's Court last May to 12 months for abandonment and nonsupport;

Joe B. Davis Jr., 18, sentenced from Wake, April, 1955, to 6-10 years for manslaughter; Franklin D. Moore, 20, sentenced from Cherokee Recorder's Court last April to 12 months for larceny;

Raymond L. Baskins, 22, sentenced from Durham in 1953 to 3-5 years for forgery; Ray Sheppard, 25, sentenced from Halifax last year to 4-7 years for carnal knowledge; Frank D. Weatherman, 36, sentenced from Wilkes in 1954 to 10-18 years for manslaughter;

George Sanford, 42, sentenced from Forsyth last year to 2 years for driving drunk; Bradley Jackson, 35, sentenced from Sampson February, 1955, to 4 years for assault with deadly weapon; Albert Alston, 40, sentenced from Warren last June to 12 months for possession of nontax-paid whisky; and Franklin Brooks, 30, sentenced from Robeson last November to 3-5 years for assault with deadly weapon.

Bereaved Father Offering Advice

Business Looks For Continuation Upward Trend

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — Businessmen and economists — with only a handful of exceptions — are united today in predicting more of what one bank dubs "exuberant prosperity."
 They are doing so for the most part without much hedging on such hazards as the outcome of the national election, the upheaval in Eastern Europe and the strife in the Middle East.
 They appear to see the momentum of good times overriding national and international political turmoil.
 "The outlook is bright" is the phrase that keeps popping up when industrialists — steel, autos, oil, machinery, rail equipment, even some textile executives — report on what has happened in their companies over the last nine months and what they foresee ahead. In many cases they are including the first part of 1957 as well as the remaining two months of 1956.
 "Prosperity today is our biggest problem," says David F. Austin, executive vice president of U.S. Steel. The booming economy is taxing the steel industry's ability to keep up, let alone expand.
 "A straining economy" is what the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York calls it today in its November survey. It sees "demand straining hard against supply in most basic lines and inflationary pressures threatening to gain ascendancy."
 But it finds present conditions mainly favorable, citing a near record for September in total civilian employment, a significant drop in the number of unemployed, a rise in the average factory worker's hourly wage rate, increasing industrial production, and a fairly satisfactory volume of retail trade.
 "These trends in production, trade and employment add up to a condition of exuberant prosperity," the bank's economists report.
 "Momentum from these forces alone would seem a strong indication that business will still be booming at the year's end."
 Noting that businessmen "seem to be very hopeful that activity will be sustained well into 1957, at least," the bank finds it "difficult to quarrel with this view."
 But true to their calling, the bankers then add some notes of caution.
 Foremost they put "the rather unsatisfactory trend of corporate profits."
 If the trend persists, the bankers see the possibility "that plant and equipment spending — now such a conspicuous feature of the boom — might be arrested."
 The other uncertainty that the bank cites is "today's restrictive credit policy." It concedes the chance that tight money could slow down the boom in time.

Big Money Winner Not Changing Way Of Life

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK — Many people believe that if they could only fall into a little dough they'd bake themselves a pleasure cake which would sustain them for the rest of their lives. They believe they'd tear up the patterns of the past and start all over again at something new.
 But when it actually happens, it doesn't always work that way. Take the case of Marian Gibson, 25, a pleasant girl from Brunson, S.C., who has accumulated $35,000 in the course of a few weeks on Break the $250,000 Bank (NBC-TV, Tuesday evenings) by answering questions on football.
 Miss Gibson isn't sure whether she's going to try to go all the way to $250,000, but no matter what happens she's sure of $25,000. On the basis of that amount some people have thrown up their jobs, moved to a new home, and bought all sorts of luxuries.
 But not Marian Gibson. "I'm still living at the YWCA," she said, "the same place I've lived since coming to New York a year ago. I still have my same job as a file clerk (for the Sinclair Oil Co.) I like the Y. I can walk to work from there. I have no plans for giving up my job or moving from the YWCA."
 "No, I haven't bought a lot of new clothes or anything. I bought a few things I needed — but that's all."
 Whatever amount she ends up with she says that she will invest it conservatively for the future. She would like to take some voice lessons — "not to try to be an opera star or anything, but just to see if I have any talent as a singer."
 Miss Gibson says she acquired her vast store of football knowledge from reading the sports pages of newspapers and listening to games on radio as a child.

Hitchcock Has Distinction Of Being Quiet Sex Fan

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — One of his pretty proteges says Alfred Hitchcock, famed as a director of spine-chilling films, merits another distinction — as the leading purveyor of quiet sex in films.
 Lovely Vera Miles is his latest heroine, and she followed a distinguished line of actresses with an un-objectionable sex appeal. We discussed Hitchcock scenes in which quiet sex exploded with memorable results: the kissing match between Cary Grant and Bergman in "Notorious"; the fireworks scene with Grant and Kelly in "To Catch a Thief"; the visit of Kelly to Jimmy Stewart's apartment in "Rear Window." All of these produced more voltage than love scenes with the more obvious of film sirens.
 "I think there is a misconception in Hollywood," she observed. "Some people think sex is a matter of measurements. I don't think that is the case."
 She cited the example of one of the new sirens, whose dimensions are on the incredible side. At a recent industry function, she walked across the floor, attracting all eyes. But the initial reaction was followed by snickers.
 "I guess you would call it quiet sex," Vera said analytically. "It appears that nearly all of his leading ladies have had it. This goes back to his earlier days in England when he directed Madeleine Carroll. He continued in Hollywood with stars like Ingrid Bergman and Joan Fontaine."
 Perhaps the greatest portrayer

Elvis Takes His Lady For Fast 'Cycle Ride

By RUSSELL BRUCE
MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The teenagers' rock 'n' roll idol took his Hollywood lady fair out for a fast whirl on a motorcycle last night.
 Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley, dapper in tight jeans, leather jacket and peaked cap, roared out of his driveway, past a small cluster of fans, and sped away with screen star Natalie Wood clinging behind him on the seat.
 Natalie, the rising young actress who starred in "Rebel Without a Cause" with the late James Dean, and "Johnny Concho" with Frank Sinatra, was whooping with glee. She too wore jeans.
 But what's fun for Natalie and Elvis is a headache for Hollywood producers, who cringe every time a valuable property gets aboard a motorcycle. They think it's dangerous.
 The motorcycle is Presley's pet. His manager's urgent requests that he lay it by, at least until he makes a pile, gets small heed.
 Presley also rates the lovely Miss Wood highly. He calls her his "favorite actress." They dated frequently when he was in Hollywood recently making a picture.
 Natalie arrived Wednesday night to spend a couple of days at the home of Presley's parents.
 "My studio doesn't know I'm here," she said. "But I guess they will find out."
 Natalie's studio did. "She's on vacation," said a spokesman for Warner Bros. last night, "and can do what she wants to."

Poor Third Quarter Pulls Down Profits

NEW YORK — A disappointing third quarter for many companies has pulled high soaring profits down for the first nine months of the year. They are now even with last-year for American business taken as a whole.
 This is still a very high level. But it breaks the stream of year-by-year gains which had characterized corporate earnings since 1952.
 This is the indication today from a survey of the first 502 corporations to report net profits after taxes for the first nine months of 1956. Combined, their earnings this year trail those of the same period in 1955 by 0.5 per cent.
 This is only a preliminary report. Hundreds more will make public their earnings statements in the weeks ahead and the final figure could be different.
 The combined drop so far shows up despite record earnings reported by many companies and despite the fact that two out of three of the 502 corporations show increases over last year's figures.
 The declining third, however — especially those in the auto, steel, farm equipment industries and individual giants in the chemical, electronics and aircraft fields — took a deep enough plunge to outweigh the gainers.
 But many of those who reported smaller profits this time declare that the final months of this year look so good for their business that much of the drop will be erased.
 The steel strike last summer gets much of the blame for poor third-quarter figures which pulled down the gains made in the first of the year. Steel companies, railroads serving them and some of steel's customers suffered.
 The auto industry has had its own sales troubles, but hopes they're over now.
 Declining farm incomes show up in the profit and loss statements of the farm equipment makers and also in those of chemical companies making fertilizers. Building material firms suffered from the decline in home building. But for many corporations the

Rock 'n' Roll Helps Business

LEXINGTON, Ky. — A Lexington chiropractor says dancing to rock 'n' roll music is causing a mild boom in his field.
 "This uninhibited dancing without any rules or special steps is bringing a variety of sprains and displacements," Dr. George Cheatham Jr. told the Lexington Chiropractic Assn.
 It is an "unprecedented risk for even the youngest and most supple citizens," he said. "Young girls come to chiropractors for what can now be diagnosed as 'rock 'n' roll shoulder.'"
 Some also have damaged arm sockets caused by being yanked by the wrists with a sharp, rapid pulling movement, he said, adding:
 "They often wind up on the floor with sacroiliacs as much out of harmony as the music they dance to."

Painted Wrong Political Signs

PARIS, Ky. — A "rocky" political feud of who's for whom led to the arrest of an insurance salesman on a breach of peace charge.
 Deputy sheriff Steve Bacon gave this account after arresting Frank Dalby:
 Democrat farmer Alex Millera found the slogan "Ike '56" painted on two stones on his farm in mid-October. Miller then fixed up two other rocks with a slogan reading "Hoover '56-57."
 Miller's Hoover signs were soon covered with paint. Miller said he got the license number of a car parked near the rocks, and police said the number turned out to be Dalby's.
 The Democrat said Dalby promised to replace the Hoover signs but later refused. Meanwhile, the Ike signs were covered with paint, too.

Blames School For Speed Arrest

OKLAHOMA CITY — It was all the high school's fault, a teenage girl told City Judge James Demopolis as she answered a charge of driving her father's car 70 miles an hour within the city limits.
 She told the judge she could not get served in the 30-minute lunch period at the school cafeteria so she ate at a restaurant three miles away. She said she was hurrying a little to get back before the lunch hour was over.

Keeps Promise Watch Children

MOUNT STERLING, Ky. — When Cathy Ann Carpenter, 7, was told by her parents to take care of her younger sisters and brother, she did just that.
 As flames ate through their three-room home, Cathy led Linda Lou, 5, Coleman, 4, and Peggy Ann, 18 months, to safety.
 Fire chief Edgar Stone said a defective flue probably started the blaze.

Landslide Results In Four Law Suits

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Four women who rode a landslide down Santa Monica's Pacific Palisades Aug. 26 are suing the city for a total of $55,000, contending it was the city's land which slid.
 Mrs. Maude Hankerson, 64, Mrs. Lucille Glenn, 48, Mrs. Eugenie Baughman, 72, and Mrs. Nora K. Hayward, 63, said in their suit that they were injured when a portion of the Palisades Park broke away, dropping time and nearly 12,000 tons of earth — on the Pacific Coast Highway.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S RE-SALE OF FARM LAND

Pursuant to an order of re-sale signed and entered on October 30, 1956, by Honorable H. L. Lewis Jr., Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, in that certain special proceeding pending in said Superior Court and entitled, "J. Lyman Harris and wife, Reva Harris, J. S. Harris and wife, Venetia S. Harris, et al., Ex Parte," the undersigned Commissioner will on Thursday, the 15th day of November, 1956, at 12:00 o'clock, Noon, at the courthouse door in Greenville, N. C. again expose to sale to the highest bidder for cash the following described real estate, to-wit:

First tract: That certain tract of land located on the north side of Tar River, formerly in Greenville Township, adjoining the lands of the late Stanley Moore, J. R. Barnhill, and the other lands of H. C. Harris and others, and beginning on the south side of Cannon Swamp at an agreed line, M. S. Moore's corner, and running with said Moore's line North 17 deg. East 85 poles; thence North 28 deg. East, with said Moore's line, 106 poles to a sweet gum in a pond, thence with said Moore's line, North 10 deg. West, 85 poles to an oak stump, thence North 42 deg. 30 min. East 14 poles to a bay stump, thence North 78 deg. East 20 poles to a stake, thence South 151 3-4 poles to a post oak, thence South 4 deg. West 65 poles, thence South 16 deg. 30 min. West to the agreed line, thence with said agreed line a northwest course to beginning, and containing 83 acres, more or less. For further information see Book T-6, page 285; Z-8, page 156; and S-8, page 534 of the Pitt County Registry.

Second tract: Beginning at a stake on the county road and running with the road in a westerly direction to James Samuel Harris' line; thence in a southerly direction to J. E. Winslow's line and with said Winslow's line to W. R. Harris' and wife, Sallie Harris' and said Winslow's corner; thence northerly, a straight line, to the county road at the beginning and containing 30 acres, more or less, and being the same piece of land willed to Joseph Fenner Harris by his father, H. C. Harris, and being the same tract conveyed to James Samuel Harris by Joseph Fenner Harris, and being the same tract of land conveyed to James Samuel Harris by Joseph Fenner Harris et al. by deed recorded in Book Q-11 at page 44 of the Pitt County Registry.

Excepting, however, the H. C. Harris graveyard of one acre, more or less, together with a permanent right of way or drive and walk to and from said graveyard from the road as conveyed by J. S. Harris to B. Harris et al. in the deed recorded in Book U-24 at page 424 of the Pitt County Registry.

Crop allotments for 1956: Tobacco, 837 acres; peanuts, 6.1 acres; cotton, 5.2 acres; corn, 14 acres.

The above described land will be sold subject to confirmation by the Court, and the proposed purchaser at said sale will be required, then and there, to make a deposit equivalent to 10% of his bid as a good faith deposit.

This 30th day of October, 1956.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — A sharp rise in international oil prices paced the stock market to higher ground in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Oils with big interests in the Middle East advanced 3 points or more. Pivotal issues elsewhere in the list posted gains of fractions to around a point or so.

The market was up from the start and moved higher as a rumor swept Wall Street that President Nasser of Egypt had resigned. Heavy buying of international oils was reported among usually well-informed sources in Switzerland and Amsterdam.

When the Nasser rumor was discounted there was a slight recoil and some losses began to appear as traders took profits. But the market regained strength and prices moved higher again in renewed buying interest.

Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil raced ahead more than 3 points each as brokers reported more investor confidence about the Middle East situation. Amerasia, Texaco and Standard Oil (New Jersey) advanced around a point or more in sympathy. Sinclair rose a major fraction.

Steeles, after their period of wavering, showed gains of a point for Jones & Laughlin and fractions for U.S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown.

Chrysler, which had dipped, picked up a major fraction. General Motors and Ford were up a bit. Studebaker - Packard was steady.

Kennecott Copper, however, remained a slight loser while Anaconda was a fraction higher.

Leading rails wiped out some of their early spottiness as New York Central rose around a point. Santa Fe and Pennsylvania Railroad were up fractions.

Gains of about a point or so were made by Goodrich, Alcoa, Union Carbide and General Electric.

Smaller gains were posted by Goodyear, Du Pont, American Cyanamid, American Tobacco and Pan American World Airways.

U.S. Gypsum added around a point. Johns-Manville a fraction. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at $179.40 with the industrials unchanged, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog markets were steady to mostly 23 higher today. Harris identified the boy as James Earl Mobley, whose mother lives at 319 Center Street. "The boy admitted breaking and entering the Cleaners on the 20th," said Harris. "He also admitted taking the clothes reported stolen."

Mobley admitted taking two pair of pants, one suit coat, a shirt and a top coat. "Everything has been recovered except the topcoat," said Harris.

Mobley was arrested last night around 11 o'clock on Albemarle Avenue, close to where the cleaners building had been entered on the 20th. He was placed in jail and is scheduled to appear before City Court Judge Charles Wheeler today.

East Carolina College students cast 68% of their votes for the Democratic candidates for the Presidency and the Vice Presidency in a campus poll conducted this week on the campus. Stevenson and Kefauver outdistanced Eisenhower and Nixon two to one in the final tabulation.

Approximately a third of the students at East Carolina cast ballots. Democratic candidates received 738 votes; and Republicans, 346. The poll was sponsored by the campus weekly "East Carolinian." James M. Ferrell of Lucama, editor Wiley B. Teal of Wadesboro, senior at the college, was in charge of arrangements.

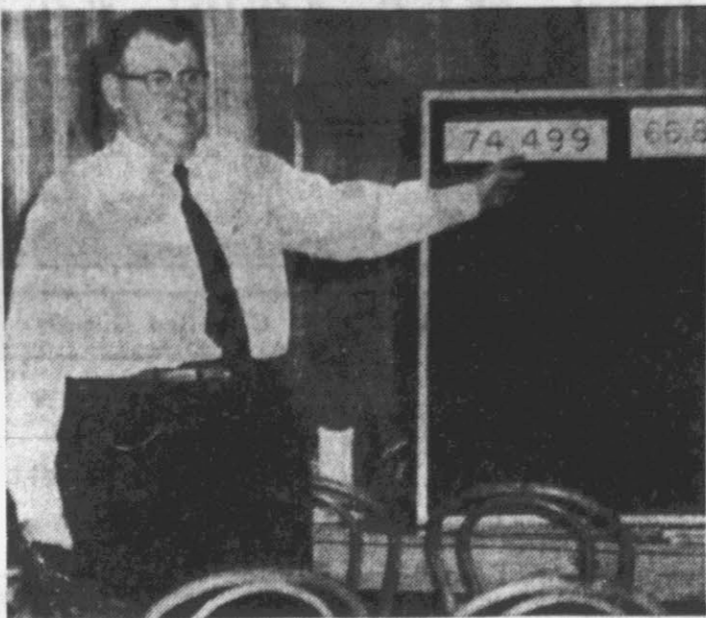

Stevenson received his largest majority from the senior and the sophomore classes. In these groups he chalked up two and a half votes for every one cast for Eisenhower, according to Ferrell. The junior class gave Stevenson a margin of two and a quarter votes to each ballot for Eisenhower.

Stevenson received his largest vote from upperclassmen, many of whom will be eligible to vote in the presidential election next week.

The smallest lead for the Democrats was in votes cast by members of the freshman class. In this group Stevenson and Kefauver outdistanced Eisenhower one and three-fourths to one.

Juniors at East Carolina led other classes in the percentage of student members casting ballots. Ferrell states that 45% of the juniors voted 44% of the sophomores, 33% of the seniors, and 29% of the freshmen.

Safety Expert Speaks

At Point Where Driver Education Is Necessary

By NEIL KING
Reflector Staff Writer

We're at the point now where we ask, can we afford NOT to have Driver Training Programs, said Robert T. Ellett, Jr., to the Pitt County Safety Council at a luncheon yesterday afternoon.

Ellett, Driver Education Manager employed by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, spoke briefly to the gathering concerning the advantage of installing Driver Training Programs in high schools throughout the county.

In 1955, said Ellett, 74,499 persons were involved in traffic accidents in this state. But figures like these will come down as we train high school drivers. To back up this statement, Ellett cited Ohio and Rhode Island as examples. A decrease in traffic accidents has been reported in these two states since Driving Training Programs had been installed.

Ellett brought out that the average cost in the United States to train one student in safe driving is $332. "However," he continued, "last year Forsyth County trained 635 pupils at an average cost of $18.29." Actually it doesn't cost this much because you get some back. For example, if you have a dependent in your family under 25 years of age who drives the family car and has had Driver Training, the rate of your insurance drops 10 per cent. Another example: Should the Safe Driving Program be installed statewide, the accident total will drop considerably in the years to go; hence the insurance rates will drop.

The program itself would consist of 36 hours training per year per student—30 in the classroom and six behind the wheel. "Of course we know," said Ellett, "that six hours behind the wheel won't produce an excellent driver, but those six hours along with the 30 classroom hours, will help develop proper skills and attitudes."

Poor skills, but what's worse, poor attitudes, rub off on children whose parents teach them to drive. That is not true in every case, but it does hold true in a great number. To illustrate this point, Ellett told the following story: "There was a father who stationed his teen-age boy at the rear window of his car to look out for approaching patrol cars. Using this bit of strategy, the father could and did speed unmolested. I ask you now, what kind of a driver will this teen-ager be when he becomes eligible to receive a license?"

Ellett suggested that the classroom technique be taught during the school year and the behind-the-wheel technique be taught during the summer months. Classroom work would be taught by the regular teachers who have taken safe driving courses. Also, during the summer, regular teachers who are looking for summer work could teach the actual driving courses.

For a one year period, it would cost $19,220 to train all the 10th grade students in Pitt County, both white and colored. Actually, it would not cost this much because some of it would be returned in dropped insurance rates and it is hoped, by state aid in the form of a bill to be introduced at the next State Legislature.

Following Ellett's talk, F. B. Johnson, Jr., Chairman of the Pitt County Safety Council, announced indications were made at the last meeting that all the necessary cars, gas and oil would be furnished by some of the local dealers if the program were installed here in Pitt County.

MH Movie To Be Shown Tomorrow
A 29-minute movie on the moldling of a growing boy's character will be shown over WNCN tomorrow morning at 9:30 in conjunction with the annual membership drive of the Mental Health Association.

Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of the Mental Health Clinic, said the film, "Preface to Life," gives insight into the interrelationship of the family. He pointed out that it is being presented as one of the series of educational activities conducted by the clinic.

ECC To Offer New Course During Winter

"Urban Geography" will be offered during the winter quarter at East Carolina as a new course in the department of geography. With Dr. R. E. Cramer of the faculty as instructor, classes will begin at the opening of the quarter Monday, November 26.

In describing the new course, Dr. Cramer pointed out that it will deal with material significant to present-day developments, particularly in city planning.

East Carolina ranks fifth among the nation's colleges and universities in number of students enrolled in courses in geography during 1955-1956. Approximately 2,000 students were enrolled in geography classes at the college during this period.

"Urban Geography" will examine all types of settlement patterns, from the small rural village to the metropolitan center. In addition to examining the distribution of cities in the world, the student will consider the economic base of cities, internal forms and patterns, urban expansion, urban rural fringe, urban tributary areas, land use, and finally an introduction to urban planning.

Courses in urban geography are being introduced in many geography departments throughout the country, Dr. Cramer explained in describing the new course because it has become obvious that a scientific knowledge of urban areas is necessary before intelligent urban analysis and planning are possible.

In the United States today, he continued, approximately two thirds of the population live in urban areas; and in forty years, it has been estimated, 80 to 90 percent of the total U. S. population will live in cities. Most urban centers recognize the importance of planning as cities expand, he said, and it is the function of city planning commissions to look into the future.

Dr. Cramer stressed the fact that such courses as "Urban Geography" often lead to rewarding employment for the student specializing in geography. Many geographers, he said, have found employment in city planning commissions, because their specialized training has proved a definite asset in all phases of research and planning.

Approximately five blocks of Greenville's streets are getting a "sealer coat" of asphalt which city officials say will prevent their further deterioration in the winter months.

City Manager Leonard Bloxam said this morning a one-inch coat of asphalt is being spread on some of the city's streets which contain numerous small cracks. The sealer coat is being applied to the streets to prevent further cracking from rain water, frost and ice during the winter, he said.

Slated for sealer coats of asphalt are Forbes Street between Eighth and Ninth Streets; Ward Street from Contentine to Elizabeth; Latham Street from Fifth to Fourth; and Contentine Street from Ward to Fourth.

Work already has begun on the resurfacing job.

CD Officials Plan Area Meetings
One-day area meetings to clarify procedure for acquiring Federal Government surplus property by city, town and county Civil Defense organizations are scheduled to be held at various places in the state this month.

A meeting is scheduled to be held in Greenville at the Court Room at City Hall November 13 under direction of J. H. Rose. Sessions will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. They will be conducted by Russell C. Nicholson, deputy director of N. C. Civil Defense, and Allison Honeycutt, director of State Surplus Property Agency.

Local Civil Defense officials in all counties and towns have received official information about criteria, procedure and terms.

Outstanding Speakers For Church Convention

Four outstanding leaders in the Christian Churches of the world will be the main speakers at the 112th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches which will be held here November 13, 14 and 15.

The speakers are Mrs. James D. Wyker, past president of the National Council of Church Women, from Mount Vernon, Ohio; Rev. Kenneth Potee, secretary-treasurer of the American Christian Church Mission in India; Dr. Loren Lair, Executive Secretary of the Christian Churches of Iowa, and Dr. William G. West, Minister of the First Christian Church of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Dr. Lair will open the convention when he addresses the ministers of the North Carolina Christian Churches at 1 p.m. on November 13.

Host for the convention in which more than 2,000 delegates are scheduled to take part, is the Eighth Street Christian Church in Greenville. Host Minister is Dr. H. Glenn Haney.

Meetings of the convention will be centered at the Eighth Street Church but several subsidiary meetings and banquets of the convention will be held at other locations in Greenville.

Rev. D. Guy Saunders of Spray, will serve as president of the convention and will preside over many of its sessions.

Several important business sessions will be held during the various convention gatherings and from these sessions will come the plans and proposals to be acted upon by the convention.

One of the proposals will be the continuation of a concentrated program started two years ago to establish new Christian Churches in N. C.

Mrs. Emily Hodges Dies At Her Home
Mrs. Emily Smith Hodges, 77, widow of Mr. Edward (Ned) Hodges, died at 3:15 Thursday afternoon at her home near Grimesland. She had suffered a stroke last July. Funeral services will be conducted Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at her home by Dr. James M. Moudy, pastor of Grimesland Christian Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Hodges spent all of her life in the Grimesland community and was the daughter of the late Bryant and Margaret Evans Smith. She was married to Mr. Hodges in 1898, and his death occurred in 1950.

Surviving are four sons, Floyd S. Hodges of Kinston, Norman Hodges of Chocowinity, Eddie Hodges of Grimesland, and Fodie H. Hodges of Chocowinity; six daughters, Mrs. Ella Griffin, Mrs. Josh Ham, Mrs. Paul Jenkins, and Mrs. Elijah Heath, all of Grimesland, Mrs. Jasper Godley of the home and Mrs. Wilson Buck of Norfolk, Virginia; 30 grandchildren; several great-grandchildren; three brothers, Will Smith of Pinetown, Bryant Smith of Chocowinity, and Ed Smith of Grimesland; and a sister, Mrs. Betty Arnold of Grimesland.

Surviving are one son, Bertram J. Hart, Jr., U. S. Air Force, Goldsboro; his mother, Mrs. Frank Hart, Ayden, R. I.; two sisters, Mrs. B. T. Tripp and Mrs. Veima H. Sanders.

Mrs. Laughinghouse Dies After Illness

Mrs. Virginia Wine Laughinghouse, 90, died in Greenville at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Reba Carroll, at 9 o'clock Friday morning after four weeks' illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilkerson Chapel Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. R. H. Kennedy, pastor of Grace Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Carroll family cemetery near Cox's Mill.

Mrs. Laughinghouse, daughter of the late William and Nancy Hooker Wine, was born and reared in Greene County. She was married to Wallace Laughinghouse and spent most of her married life near Cox's Mill. Mr. Laughinghouse died in 1939, and since that time had made her home in Greenville.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Reba Carroll of Greenville and Mrs. Sam Jones of Garner, and five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Annie Moore Funeral Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Croom Moore, 86, will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel at 11 o'clock Saturday morning by the Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, assisted by the Rev. Leon Russell, a former pastor. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Moore died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Stell, on the Ayden highway, at 11:30 yesterday morning.

Mrs. Moore came to Greenville in 1944 with her family from Charlotte. She was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and the Wesley Philathea Sunday School Class.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Stell; a grandson, Joe Stell of Greenville; three brothers: T. W. Croom of Freeman, O. A. Croom of Bolton, and W. H. Croom of Delco; and a sister, Mrs. Garis F. Pridden of Kelly.
