Battle Aftermath In Port Said

Smouldering wreckage covers a large section of Port Said at the northern terminus of the Suez Canal after fires started by attack of Anglo-French forces. Fighting continued to some degree as agreements were being drawn to withdraw troops if a police army from the United Nations would take over. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London).

Tobacco Meeting Scheduled Tonite

A special tobacco meeting will be held in the County Court House tonight at 8 p.m. Pitt County Farm Bureau President J. B. Speight announced today.

Speight said the meeting is being held "to make available to the farmers of Pitt County all the latest information on the current tobacco situation. In that way they can have a part in helping decide the future of our tobacco program."

Participating in the program will be officials of the Five-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Cooperative, N. C. Farm Bureau and members of the Pitt County Farm Bureau Tobacco Committee.

The position and policy of the State Farm Bureau will be determined on November 21, at Charlotte during the annual convention when all the county voting delegates will have an opportunity to vote for their respective counties. The Pitt County voting delegates to the State Farm Bureau will be elected Monday night. They will need to get the sentiments of the farmers of Pitt-County so as to represent the majority opinion of the county at the state convention. Speight reported that the County Tobacco Committees were called to Raleigh on November 8, to review the tobacco picture at the present time and familiarize the tobacco leadership with the urgency of the present situation.

"All our farmers are interested in maintaining 90% price supports for tobacco, but a sound and stable program is necessary if we are to continue to enjoy this privilege over the other basic commodities," says President Speight.

Based on the current crop report, the 1956 crop is estimated at 1,329 million pounds. Even though harvested acreage, reflecting the 12% reduction in quota and some Soil Bank participation, was down, record yields now estimated at 1,510 pounds per acre have maintained production above the high level of disappearance for last year. Total production for the year will exceed the marketing quota by almost 200 million pounds, based on current estimates. Last year's production exceeded the marketing quota 213 million pounds.

Following this tobacco program, the annual meeting of the Pitt County Farm Bureau will be held. Main items of business are: Election of Officers, Election of Board of Directors, Election of Voting Delegates to State Farm Bureau Convention, and the drafting of resolutions to be presented at the State Convention in Charlotte beginning November 18.

"Suddenly we heard terrific screams from the next door building," Mrs. Walker said. "My father ran down the street and pulled a fire alarm. Meanwhile, the screaming became louder."

"I can still hear those children screaming for someone to save them. Mrs. Clark jumped out and started screaming her babies were in the building. The screaming stopped in a few minutes."

The body of the dead woman was found in the front bedroom of her third-floor apartment. Her five children were on a bed and the floor of a combination bedroom and kitchen.

The other two children were found in a rear third-floor room. Firemen said all died of burns and suffocation.

Asst. Fire Chief Leo Kuhn said the fire apparently started at the foot of a flight of center steps in the basement. The bottom of the stair well was closed off from the rest of the basement with sheet metal.

"The stairway was a funnel for the blaze," Kuhn said. "The fire shot up the stairway, cutting off any escape for the occupants. At each floor the heat broke the glass from door transoms, spreading the flames into living quarters."

"When the skylight broke, it gave the flames the needed draft and the fire roared skyward," Police listed the dead as: Mrs. Edna Dyas, 26, and her five children, John, 10; Beverly, 8; Jocelyn, 5; Arlene, 6, and James, 2; and Terry Jane Clark, 5 and Larry Dell Clark, 13 months.

EXTENDED WEATHER FORECAST FOR N. C. Temperatures will average 2 to 4 degrees below normal. Colder Tuesday night and a chance to be quite cool on Thursday. Little or no precipitation indicated except chance of rain Friday night.

Apartment Fire Takes 8 Lives; 7 Are Children

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fire swept upward from a basement stair well through a three-story apartment here early today, killing eight persons, seven of them children. Three other persons were hurt as they leaped from the burning building.

The dead, all Negroes, included a 26-year-old mother and her five children.

The injured included Mrs. Johnetta Clark, 19, mother of two of the children who perished in the fire.

The apartment is one of a half block square unit of three-story brick buildings. It is atop a hill overlooking Cincinnati's downtown area.

The odor of smoke first was noticed by Mrs. Ruth Walker, who lives next door to the apartment where the fire occurred. She and her father, William Stokes, started a search of their apartment.

"Suddenly we heard terrific screams from the next door building," Mrs. Walker said. "My father ran down the street and pulled a fire alarm. Meanwhile, the screaming became louder."

Agreement Reached With Egypt For Entry Of UN Police Force

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced today agreement had been reached with Egypt for the entry of the U.N. police force immediately. He said the first group would arrive there early this week.

Hammarskjöld said he himself would leave by plane for Cairo tomorrow to be on hand for detailed discussions with the Egyptian government. He said he expected to reach the Egyptian capital Thursday and return to New York by Sunday.

He gave the following statement to a special news conference: "Agreement on the arrival in Egypt of the United Nations force has been reached between the secretary-general and the Egyptian government. The first groups of the United Nations force will go to Egypt early this week."

"It is the intention of the secretary-general to visit Cairo at the very first stage of the operation for discussions of details with the Egyptian government. He will also inspect the staging area for the United Nations force in Italy."

Soviet military action against Hungarian rebels and the British-French and Israeli invasions of Egypt topped a list of 73 subjects awaiting Assembly debate at the 11th annual three-month sitting, perhaps the most crucial in U.N. history.

The Assembly stood ready to take up either crisis whenever Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld could report success or failure in his attempts to get U.N. observers into Hungary and U.N. cease-fire police force into Egypt.

Admission of three new U.N. members and the annual Soviet bid to seat Communist China were expected at the opening meeting this afternoon.

Morocco, Sudan and Tunisia, already recommended by the Security Council for entry into the U.N., were deemed certain to get the necessary two-thirds vote of approval in the Assembly. This would raise U.N. membership to 79.

Other controversial subjects on the Assembly's agenda included the independence movements in French-ruled Algeria and British-ruled Cyprus; the Indonesian claim to Dutch West New Guinea; the continued division of Korea; and the big powers' vain efforts to agree on disarmament.

India asked for a debate on "the peaceful utilization of Atomic Energy." Argentina sought establishment of a system of quick, all-around consultation in any case threatening peace. Spain and Latin American countries proposed amendment of the U.N. Charter to enlarge the council—security, Trusteeship and Economic and Social—to make room for new U.N. members.

The urgency of the situations in Hungary and the Middle East—which brought the Assembly into 10 days of emergency session just concluded Saturday—produced an abridgment of normal procedure for the regular session.

Normally, an item must be listed on the provisional agenda, voted onto the regular agenda by a majority, and be considered at length in committee before it reaches the Assembly floor for final action.

Instead the emergency Assembly voted to pass Hungary and the Middle East on to the regular session as "matters of priority," to be taken up without reference to committee whenever such speedy action seemed called for.

Hammarskjöld pressed the Soviet-backed government of Hungary, meanwhile, to let the U.N. send observers and relief into the country.

He sent a message Saturday asking information on medical supplies, food and clothing needed from abroad. He said he wanted to "discuss with the Hungarian government the best means of providing the assistance required."

Hammarskjöld again asked the Hungarian and Soviet authorities for permission to send in the observers authorized—over Communist objections—by the emergency Assembly. The Red Hungarian regime had ignored two previous requests, but Hungarian Deputy Foreign Minister Istvan Sebes replied within hours that the government was "weighing" the proposal.

Hammarskjöld also announced the appointment of coordinators for relief to Hungary and aid to Hungarian refugees: Philippe de Senes de France, U.N. undersecretary for economic and social affairs, and James M. Read of Philadelphia, acting U.N. high commissioner for refugees.

VIENNA (AP)—The overwhelming power of Russia's huge military machine moved relentlessly today against the last pockets of Hungarian national resistance.

The only major pocket left inside ruined Budapest was at Csepel Island, site of the nation's biggest industrial complex. Workers barricaded themselves in one of the big Danube island factories and continued to beat off determined attacks by Soviet armor.

Other pockets still held out in the Budapest suburb of Ujpest, in Dunapentele (Stalinvaros), south of Budapest.

The last-stand rebels also fought cold, hunger and despair. The puppet Premier installed by the Russians, Janos Kadar, admitted in a speech over Budapest radio that groups of rebels still were holding out in cellars by day, emerging by night in larger groups for hit-and-run attacks. But he said he believed "all Budapest remnants of the counter-revolution will be liquidated" in two or three days.

In the relentless Russian pursuit of the national remnants, rows of workers houses were shattered, a children's clinic was wiped out, hospitals were set afire. To wipe out a single rifleman, the Russians would turn a full barrage from tanks, machine guns and automatic weapons, and destroy an entire building.

Correspondents returning from Budapest said the city was in the grip of indescribable horror, more horrifying even than they had seen in the days of World War II.

By the best available estimates, 20,000—or perhaps more—Hungarians died in the attempt to break the grip of the Soviet Union and communism on their country. Russian dead were estimated at from 4,000 to 5,000. Western correspondents back from Budapest brought these figures, and said the wounded numbered 50,000, Russians and Hungarians.

Hospitals were so crowded that litters carrying the wounded were directed to cellars and garrets, all crammed with suffering humanity. In the Petoefi Hospital, one of Hungary's largest, doctors have been operating for two days without the aid of drugs. The wounded are dying in great numbers because of the lack of antibiotics.

The first intoxicating taste of victory and freedom for the Hungarians a week ago has turned to crushing defeat at the hands of 13 Russian divisions an estimated 200,000 men.

Fighting against impossible odds, the Hungarian resistance had inflicted an initial military defeat on the two Russian divisions which had occupied the country. But a week ago crack Soviet troops poured in.

Of the 1,200 Soviet tanks sent in to attack in the Battle of Budapest, 130 were destroyed by the insurgents, responsible observers reported. They did it with hand grenades and whatever other weapons came to hand. On Csepel Island, fighting workers destroyed 14 Russian tanks by burning gasoline hoses on them and setting them afire.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) says the United Nations should invoke economic sanctions against Britain, France and Israel if they continue to keep troops in Egypt.

"I would recommend that as the next step if they do not comply with the resolutions under the U.N. charter," Knowland said in an NBC-TV interview yesterday.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, is a U.S. delegate to the U.N. General Assembly session opening today in New York.

The three nations have agreed to withdraw their forces from Egypt as soon as a U.N. truce force now being organized is prepared to take over. But Knowland said they should "stop dilly-dallying on this matter of withdrawing their forces."

Ceylon's Ambassador R. S. S. Gunewardene said during another NBC-TV program that the "vast majority" of U.N. members want the forces to leave Egypt "quickly," but two other ambassadors appearing with him said withdrawal before the U.N. force is ready would create a potentially dangerous vacuum in the Suez Canal area.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban said such action would lead to a "new explosion," and New Zealand's Ambassador Sir Leslie Munro said British-French intervention in the Suez was a "stabilizing" influence.

Knowland said he thinks President Eisenhower's actions "had set the matter in motion to bring about the cease fire" in Egypt, and that Russia's talk of sending in volunteers to halt the fighting was timed "to gain some of the credit for bringing about a cease-fire."

The Eisenhower administration is taking "all honorable means" to keep the United States out of the Middle East conflict, Knowland said, but "this is not a peace at any price" policy.

"The Kremlin should not mistake the temper of the American people," he added. "We won't run if a fight is forced upon us."

Representatives from Civil Defense State Headquarters and members from Defense Units in Greenville and other Pitt County towns will meet tomorrow morning in the Court Room of the City Hall at 10:30.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint local defense organizations with procedures in securing government surplus property they have recently made available.

Knowland 'For' UN Sanctions If Troops Stay

UN Commander In Cairo For Talk; Many Questions

LONDON (AP)—The commander of the U.N. Middle East truce force flew to Cairo today for talks which may determine whether and when the shaky cease-fire in Egypt can be made permanent.

Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns said he hoped to conclude his talks with Egyptian President Nasser "in a few days."

Although there was no official Egyptian comment, skippy reports by Cairo radio made clear that major snags must be removed before Nasser would let the 17-nation police force, now assembling in Italy, take up positions in the troubled area.

As Burns flew into Cairo from Israel, the effects of last week's British-French invasion of the Suez Canal zone continued to reverberate around the world.

Both Russia and Communist China issued new threats to send "volunteers" to help Egypt throw out the British and French "aggressors."

At Beirut, the heads of five Arab states met in a top-secret parley to discuss the whole Middle East situation.

Reports said the leaders of Iraq, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia would discuss not only the British-French invasion but the threat posed by the rapid spread of Communist influence in the area.

In New Delhi, Indian Prime Minister Nehru met with the prime ministers of Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon to discuss both the Middle East and Russian repression in Hungary.

Both India and Ceylon are Asian members of the British Commonwealth, which has been split by the British invasion of Egypt.

The biggest snag to the entrance of the U.N. police force into Egypt appeared to be the question of where they would be stationed.

Britain and France made clear in halting their invader that they expected U.N. forces to take up posts in the canal zone. They said they would not withdraw all their forces until U.N. troops arrived.

Egypt apparently expects the U.N. force to be stationed along the Israeli-Egyptian border, from which the Israelis launched their own attack into Egypt several days before the British-French invasion of the Suez. But Egypt's position on occupation of the canal zone has not been announced.

Cairo radio quoted Col. Abdel Kaber Hatem, chief of the Egyptian Information Department, as saying Egypt has received guarantees that the police force will not infringe or violate Egyptian sovereignty. There was no immediate elaboration.

On the Israeli-Egyptian border too there were major problems to be worked out on the stationing of U.N. forces.

Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion has not yet agreed to pull his conquering forces out of the Gaza Strip, which Egypt had occupied since 1948. Meir Argov, chairman of Israel's Parliamentary Security and Foreign Affairs Committee, said flatly that the strip would remain part of Israel.

Radio Free Europe Is Accused Inciting Revolt

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—West German and French newspapers are airing charges that Radio Free Europe stirred up Hungarians to revolt and by promising help from the outside kept the fight going after all was lost.

Frank J. Abbott Jr., of Louisville, Ky., information director of RFE, said the charges were false.

"We have presented nothing but objective news and commentaries," he said. "We never incited anybody and we can prove it."

A West German government spokesman in Bonn said today an investigation has been started of RFE's broadcasts to Hungary during the revolution to see if they were "provocative." Tapes of the broadcasts are being studied.

Radio Free Europe is a giant radio network supported by private American contributions and manned to a large degree by exiles of Communist-ruled countries of Eastern Europe. Its announced goal is to keep telling the truth to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain.

Michael Gordey, correspondent from the Paris newspaper France-Soir, who is just back from Budapest, wrote today:

"We heard a lot of false news about what was going on inside Budapest. We also heard on Radio Free Europe, broadcasting from Munich toward the satellite countries, programs whose impassioned tone and desperate calls to revolt certainly did a lot of wrong."

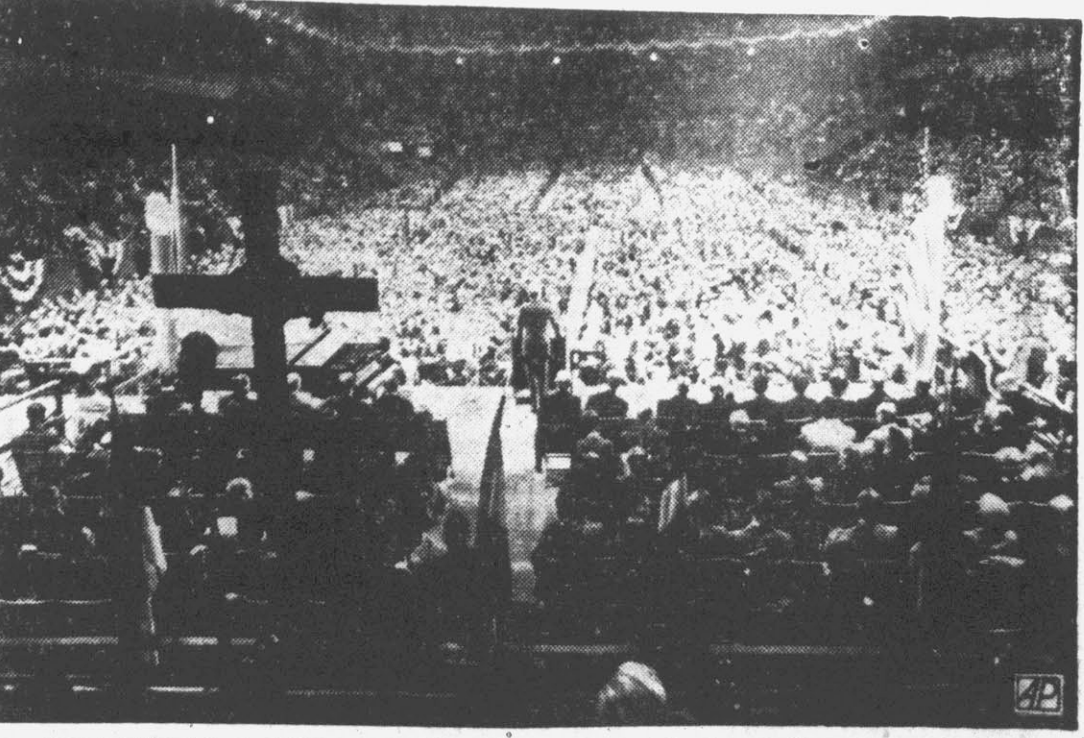

"During those last days, numerous Hungarians told us: 'These broadcasts have provoked bloodshed.'"

Similar criticism came from several West German papers. "We never urged anyone to revolt," Abbott said, "and we never promised outside help."

From time to time, he added, rebel radios in Hungary asked RFE to relay requests to the United Nations and the International Red Cross, and that these requests were relayed and acknowledged on RFE broadcasts.

PROTEST IN ACTION MONTREAL (AP)—About 200 Hungarian Canadians demonstrated yesterday in front of the U.S. consulate here to protest "the unwillingness of the United States to give active help" to the rebels in Hungary.

Rally Against Hungarian Repression

Crowd estimated at 12,000 persons fills Madison Square Garden in New York during "End The Massacre" rally protesting Soviet measures to crush Hungarian freedom movement. Audience cheered at news of President Eisenhower's decision to admit 5,000 refugees from Hungary into the United States and demanded immediate action to aid Hungarian rebels. (AP Wirephoto).

Dean Cites Education Problems, Possible Answers

Dean Leo W. Jenkins of East Carolina College, speaking at a meeting of the North Carolina College Conference in Winston-Salem during the weekend, pointed out some of the drastic changes now taking place in higher education and suggested various means by which institutions of higher learning may meet the challenge of new conditions.

Dr. Jenkins dealt particularly with problems arising from an anticipated tremendous increase in enrollment and a consequent shortage of college teachers. In discussing these problems, he pointed out several factors in educational development which seemed to be certainties.

First, he said, in 1970 there will be 14 million young people of college age as against 8 million today; and, second, it may be assumed that those who attend colleges will expect some type of instruction. One half million new college teachers will probably be needed by 1970, he continued, if we elect to operate under our present system of instruction.

Society expects institutions of higher learning to find solutions to the new problems which are developing because of increased enrollment, he said.

He then presented several suggestions made by various educators and professional journals and others as to how the colleges can meet the problem of increasing enrollment.

Classes in the future, he said, may be larger than those now considered desirable. Instead of classes of 20 or 25 students taught by one professor, the future may bring classes of perhaps two or three hundred students. It is a moot point among educators, he said, whether instruction in the small class is greatly superior to that in larger classes.

New media, such as audio and visual aids in instruction, may in future enable the superior teacher to reach a much larger number of students than at present, he maintained.

The future may bring, he continued, basic revisions of the curriculum as well as the manner in which subjects are scheduled. It is "not unreasonable to expect," he said, that in the future colleges will "maintain a general academic program for those who can profit by it and in turn modify the program for others."

Developing this idea, he suggested that a multi-purpose program including extra-curricula and non-collegiate courses might be expanded and that many of the courses included might be taught by people in the community, students with special training in various areas, as well as in some instances by members of the regular academic faculty. Guided research and correspondence courses might also, he said, help to relieve the situation of a too rapidly expanding number of courses.

Greater effort on the part of students, he continued, must be encouraged if the problems of the future are to be solved satisfactorily. Students should be made to realize that college is "the big league and not a glorified high school." He suggested that ways be worked out by which students should be enabled to "travel at their own speed" and be allowed to terminate their work in a course when they have completed requirements.

Dr. Jenkins suggested also that many strong high school teachers are "fully as capable of teaching many of the college freshman subjects as are many of our present faculty members."

Perhaps, he said, "we should look into the advisability of designating selected teachers in the various communities to teach, on a county or multi-county basis, freshman classes in some . . . subjects and give college credit and admission to advanced standing to students who successfully complete such subjects."

"In many situations the content of a course is determined by what may be found in a particular text book," he pointed out. Investigations, he said, into the relationship between effective teaching and textbook use should be encouraged. Textbooks should be written, he indicated, to satisfy the needs of instruction.

Dr. Jenkins closed his address by insisting that more emphasis should be put on the art of teaching rather than on the teacher's ability to do non-teaching duties. The faculty order, he said, by way of example, should be no more honored than the faculty master teacher.

Dr. Jenkins said he was not sure that more emphasis should be put on the art of teaching rather than on the teacher's ability to do non-teaching duties. The faculty order, he said, by way of example, should be no more honored than the faculty master teacher.

Talk On Informal Entertaining Given By Mrs. Little Friday

Mrs. Little Little, Home Demonstration Agent of Pitt County, gave an illustrated talk on informal entertaining to members of the Home Department Friday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Vance Perkins.

Mrs. Little was introduced by Mrs. Clarence Galloway, program chairman.

Mrs. Little gave important points on how to give a party and enjoy oneself.

Following her informative talk colored slides of table settings for all type parties were shown.

After the showing of the slides, she showed to the group special dishes she had prepared for a buffet luncheon.

She gave the directions for preparing each dish.

Especially attractive were the boned baked chicken roll congealed salad in grapefruit, slaw in a cabbage and ice box strawberry coconut cake.

At the conclusion of the program, guests were invited to the dining room for refreshments.

The table was covered with a cutwork cloth centered with an arrangement of pink and daisy chrysanthemums.

From one end of the table Mrs. W. M. Maxwell poured coffee and Mrs. W. C. Harris served lemon tarts. From the other end of the table Mesdames Lynwood Worthington, J. A. Piver, H. R. Rogers, Vance Perkins and Mrs. Little assisted the guests in sampling the special dishes.

Preceding the program a business session was held with Mrs. Jasper Tripp, chairman of the Home Department, presiding. Mrs. Tripp called on all the committees to make reports.

The Green Springs Park Committee reported a bulb and shrubbery planting will be held Nov. 17 at Green Springs Park between 10 a.m. and 12 noon.

The program chairman, Mrs. Clarence Galloway, announced the next program would be an exchange of Christmas decoration ideas.

Teachers' Day Planned By Club

One of the highlights of the business meeting of the Junior Woman's Club on Wednesday was the discussion of Teachers' Day.

It was decided to observe Teachers' Day by a reception given jointly by the Junior Woman's Club and the PTA Council.

This will be held Nov. 15 at the Woman's Club Building from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. The newspaper, TV and radio will cooperate in the project by urging parents to express their appreciation to the teachers.

The motto for Teachers' Day is: "We can thank today's teachers for our children's bright tomorrows."

At the meeting the club also voted to replace the phonograph at the Watson Memorial Wing of the hospital with a new one, and to send the old one to Caswell

Training School, where there are the facilities to repair it and keep it in working order.

Another record player was donated to Caswell by one of the members.

Mrs. T. R. Jones announced that the club had donated 147 Halloween favors and 319 magazines as well as Christmas cards and Sunday School papers to Caswell Training School.

It was announced that the Watson Memorial Fund had received $315 on Tag Day for underprivileged children. The club voted to purchase a Christmas Seal Bond, send $10 to the Mental Health Clinic and to send towels, wash-rags and powder as gifts to the County Home.

Hostesses for the social hour were Mrs. T. R. Jones and Mrs. Hoyt Naron.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

In Algeria, where, as in other Moslem lands, it is said converts from Islam to Christianity can be counted almost "on the fingers of one hand," three Moslem women recently were baptized into the Methodist Church.

A mother, her daughter and her granddaughter were converted after several years' contact with Methodist missionaries at Les Oudhias in central Algeria, where the Methodist Board of Missions maintains a dispensary and an evangelistic center. The Rev. Lester Griffith, Methodist missionary from Mason, Ohio, conducted the baptisms.

Members of local Woman's Societies of Christian Service and Wesleyan Service Guilds of the Methodist Church participated during the last week of October in the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial for mission projects of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions. This week has been an annual observance since the organization of the Woman's Division and the offerings during these years total over four million dollars. Home and foreign mission projects chosen as recipients of the 1956 offering are Holding Institute, Laredo, Texas, and the training of Christian leaders in Burma, the Philippines, Sarawak (British North Borneo) and Sumatra (Indonesia).

Miss Carol Ann Pierson, of Godfrey, Ill., an active member of Elm Street Presbyterian Church, Alton, Ill., has been elected national president of Future Home-makers of America. She will be chief executive of the organization for a year and will represent junior high and high school home economics students at numerous conventions, forums and meetings. Carol is 17. She is immediate past president of the senior high Westminster Fellowship group at Elm Street Church and teaches in the church school nursery class. She is an honor student in Alton High School.

A contest to choose "Miss Methodist Student Nurse" has been announced by the National Association of Methodist Hospitals and Homes and the General Board of Hospitals and Homes, 740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill. Deadline for entries is January 15, 1957. The purpose of the contest is to select a student in a Methodist hospital school of nursing who will be representative of the caliber of young person who follows a Christian vocation in a church-related institution.

Fine Arts Dept. To Meet The Fine Arts Department of the Woman's Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Woman's Club. The program will be on Art and Mrs. T. Y. Walker will be the guest speaker. Her subject will be "Painting For Fun." Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. H. R. Phillips, Mrs. B. C. Satterfield and Mrs. Robert Lee Humber.

Mrs. C. H. Hagan Gives Program On Family Health

Mrs. C. H. Hagan presented the demonstration on "Your Family Health Plan" at a meeting of the Mount Pleasant Home Demonstration Club Friday.

The meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Hathaway. Devotional was given by Mrs. Gladys Forbes.

The speaker stressed the importance of a regular and early dental and medical health checkup. She also pointed out the necessity for planning for unexpected medical expense and urged participation in community health resources.

Booklets on "Your Family's Health" were distributed to members.

Mrs. J. R. Gowans gave a report on gardening.

Mrs. Hagan, president, presided over the meeting. Plans were discussed for a December turkey supper.

Members voted to contribute $5 to the Red Cross Christmas Seal Sale.

Projects for the Pitt County Progress Program were discussed. The hostess served hot chocolate, cookies and cheese crackers.

Persick To Speak The East Carolina Art Society will present William P. Persick of the EOC Faculty in a program Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the local art gallery, Sheppard Memorial Library.

The speaker's subject will be ceramics. The public is invited to attend.

Funeral Tuesday For Mrs. Rena V. Stocks

Funeral services for Mrs. Rena V. Stocks, 67, will be conducted at the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Henry Melvin. Burial will be in the churchyard. Mrs. Stocks died suddenly at her home in Winterville Friday afternoon at four o'clock after suffering a heart attack.

Surviving are three sons, Ashley Stocks of Elizabeth City, Lloyd Stocks of Morehead City and Hubert Stocks of Oxnard, California; a daughter, Miss Nannie Stocks of the home; five grandchildren; a brother, E. M. Vincent of Winterville; and three sisters, Mrs. Walter E. Johnson of Winston, Miss Stella Vincent of Winterville and Mrs. Callie Tripp of near Winterville.

Jolly Stitches To Meet The Jolly Stitches Sewing Club will meet at the home of Mrs. W. J. Rogers, 1711 Elm Street, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Colored Slides Are Shown At Farmville Garden Club Meeting

FARMVILLE—Mrs. C. H. Mozingo entertained the Farmville Garden Club at her home Tuesday afternoon.

The home was decorated with two dried flower arrangements by Mrs. L. E. Turnage and an arrangement of sasanquas by Mrs. Jesse Hardy.

Mrs. A. C. Turnage, president, presided and a note of appreciation from the Junior Woman's Club was read for the shrubs and bulbs donated by club members for the kindergarten grounds.

The club voted to give $5.00 for the permanent home of National Gardens Clubs. It was voted to have a holiday house open this year instead of several homes open as last year. Part of the admission fee to holiday house will go to the Elizabethan Garden gate.

Several announcements of interest were made: Reginald McFarland will hold a workshop at the Rocky Mount, on November 30, using as his subject "Glitter, Glamor and Know How For Christmas" and Mrs. Roy Caviness will give a demonstration on Christmas decorations in Greenville on November 16; the Washington Garden Club will sell Christmas decorations at the Shelton's Florist Shop on December 5-6 with colored slides of the growing of gladioli and carnations to be shown one afternoon.

Farmville people are invited to attend all of these.

The club decided to do more for shut-ins and the blind, and those in nursing homes which are carrying out the state garden club therapy program. Reports were heard of gifts and visits made by members.

It was called to the attention of the club members that birds are being killed in Farmville despite the fact that the town is a bird sanctuary and the club voted to request the town authorities to do something about it.

Mrs. L. E. Turnage gave poppy seed to all the members from her garden.

For the program the club was taken on a pilgrimage of places of interest by Joe Melton and Ed Nash Warren. Mr. Melton showed colored slides of flowers, lakes and gardens taken on his trip to Niagara Falls, New York and Victoria, Ontario, Canada, Washington, D. C. and Wilmington. One of the most interesting pictures was one of a beautiful Pauls Scarlet Climber rose over the door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Nash Warren.

Mr. Warren showed colored pictures taken by his son Bert on their trip to California. Miss Bettie Joyner, who was program chairman, presented pansy plants to Mr. Melton.

Mrs. Harry Byers was welcomed into the club as a new member.

The hostess, assisted by her granddaughter, Jo Alice Brock, Mrs. Claude Tyson and Mrs. A. C. Turnage, served cake, pickles, nuts and coffee.

Bazaar Plans Are Announced

Plans for a Christmas bazaar have been announced by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The event, a service project, will take place November 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Supper will be served from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. on November 20. The public is invited.

Another added feature of the bazaar will be a well-supervised nursery with planned entertainment for the children.

Bazaar items will include dried flower arrangements and plants, aprons, fruit cakes, novelties, gift articles, cakes, pies, jellies, preserves, pickles, candies and cookies, a religious book display and a white elephant table.

Chairmen for the various sale items include Mrs. W. M. Reading, Mrs. George Staples, Mrs. M. L. Wright, Mrs. J. H. Blunt, Mrs. D. W. Branch, Mrs. Knott Proctor, Mrs. M. B. Massey, Mrs. Kathryn Adams, Mrs. Alton Barrett, Mrs. W. M. Aldridge, Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Miss Nancy Wike and Mrs. Jake Hadley.

Mrs. James Tucker will head the children's room.

General chairmen for the bazaar are Mrs. S. H. Mitchell and Mrs. Ralph C. Tucker.

Garcia-Staton Mr. and Mrs. William Leodias Staton request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Betty Sue to Mr. John Joseph Garcia on Thursday, November twenty-second nineteen hundred and fifty-six at four o'clock Mr. Pleasant Christian Church Greenville, North Carolina. No invitations sent in Greenville.

The Greenville Tobacco Market led the entire state for average price during the month of October, according to the official report of the Department of Agriculture made public today. Greenville's average price for 15,982,960 pounds of tobacco sold during the month was $30.70 per hundred or $1.16 above that of the second highest market in the state. The Greenville market to date has passed the 35,000,000 pounds mark for the season.

Woman's Club To Hold Planting At Green Springs Park
On Saturday at Green Springs Park, bulbs and shrubs will be planted between 10 a.m. and 12 noon.

All four departments of the Greenville Woman's Club are taking part in this project: The Garden Club, Fine Arts, Home Department and Junior Woman's Club.
City Manager Leonard Bloxam and C. K. Beatty are cooperating with the Woman's Club.
Persons who have shrubs or bulbs which they would like to give for this purpose are asked to notify Mrs. Hicks Corey, Mrs. Clarence Galloway Jr., or Mrs. Vance Perkins before Saturday morning.

Smart restaurants are taking a tip from the lovely new dinner hats. Recently, the manager of New York's Colony was seen at John Fredericks salon, getting a preview of the new fashion so that he could redecorate in keeping with the latest style.

Encouragement Helps More Than Punishment

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

DEAR DR. WHIPPLE: We have two children, a daughter aged 11½ years and a son, aged 9½ years. Our son Frank entered school when he was five and his teachers have all found him hard to manage. He is very stubborn, but up until two years ago he was quite smart in school. Now his teacher writes me that neither his behavior nor his school work have improved so far this year.

We have taken away TV and given him extra homework. We have to be very strict with him at all times.

Tonight I found his arm covered with inked cartoons he said he had done during class. He is always resorting to lies and tricks.

His music teacher says he is brilliant in music. Here he is not maverick. For his music he would go without almost anything. We have threatened to take away the music if his schoolwork doesn't improve.

Are we right? Are we wrong? He is not a bad boy but he definitely needs something that he is not getting.

Mrs. F. D. N. DEAR MRS. F. D. N.: First take Frank to your doctor for a thorough check-up. Could he inattention in school be due to failure to see the blackboard clearly? Maybe he doesn't hear as well as he should. Maybe he is tired or maybe there is some other physical reason for his lack of interest in school work.

Since there was some possibility of injury at birth with Frank, ask your doctor to arrange a consultation with a neurologist. Sometimes a brain-injured child will show aggressive, destructive and bizarre behavior.

If no physical defect can be found, the next step is an evaluation of Frank's mental capacities. Maybe he belongs in the 2nd or 3rd grade instead of the 4th. If he cannot understand what's going on in school of course he won't pay attention. He will be quite bored and will resort to all sorts of troublesome behavior to keep himself occupied. If Frank should prove to be a little slow you must ease up on your requirements of him and let him learn at his own rate.

If Frank's I. Q. is up to average then we probably have primarily an emotional problem on our hands.

How often do you compare Frank to his sister and urge him to be like her? This just confirms his feeling that you love her more than you love him. He may feel he never can succeed in doing anything that's approved of, so it's not worth trying.

Should these be the reasons for Frank's bad behavior what that youngster needs is a campaign on his parents' part to make him feel loved and wanted for what he is now. As soon as he can feel sure of his parents' love he will no longer need his bad behavior and it will slowly drop away.

Under no circumstances ever take away his music. It's the one place he does have some sense of competency. Begin your campaign by admiring his music, by showing interest in what he enjoys. Don't urge him on to better and better performances. Accept him—like him and his work right here and now. His feeling of pleasure in your approval is the real stimulus to make him want to do more and better things. When a child wants to learn we can feel he is becoming educated in the best sense of the word.

Th same with other phases of his education. Stop punishing (which you admit yourself is not producing the desired results), show an interest in what he can do. Let him feel you love the little boy he is right now. I am sure you DO love him, but I'm not at all sure he knows it.

Versatile Cranberries

RALEIGH—Cranberries, please the palate as well as the eye, says Ruby P. Uzzle, extension consumer marketing specialist at State College.

You can use chilled cranberry juice as an appetizer for the first course of any meal or as a refreshment. It's good served "as is" or you might like to combine it with other juices, such as pineapple, grape, orange, or grapefruit juice. For a luncheon or dinner meal, try cranberry juice with a dip of sherbet for a party touch.

For a special breakfast treat, explains Mrs. Uzzle, try chopped cranberries added to your favorite muffin recipe or breakfast bread. And the next time you're having ham for dinner, you might try glazing it, when partly cooked, with crushed cranberry sauce and brown sugar.

In fact, there's a never ending variety of foods that can be served using cranberries. Serve tantalizing fresh cranberry dishes the whole year round.

This recipe for CRANBERRY FRUIT BREAD keeps moist for days—and freezes well, too. It's delicious with coffee or tea, or toasted for breakfast.

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

1 cup sugar

1½ teaspoons baking powder (double-acting)

½ teaspoon soda

1 teaspoon salt

Juice and grated rind of one orange

2 tablespoons melted shortening

1 egg, well-beaten

½ cup chopped nuts

2 cups fresh cranberries, cut in halves

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, and salt. Combine orange juice, grated rind, melted shortening, and enough water to make 3-4 cup juice; then stir in beaten egg. Pour this mixture into the dry ingredients, mixing just enough to dampen. Fold in halved cranberries and nuts.

Spoon into greased loaf pan

(9 x 3 x 3 inches) spreading evenly making corners and sides slightly higher than center. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 50 to 60 minutes.

School Aid Chiefly Up To Parents

Schools of North Carolina and the rest of the nation face many serious difficulties which should be brought forcefully to the attention of the American people during this National Education Week.

Many schools have their individual problems, but generally all schools face the serious situation of not enough classrooms, not enough teachers and the lack of a sufficiently deep seated desire on the part of students to gain the most from their years of formal schooling.

These difficulties are evident not only on the public school level but in colleges of the nation as well.

Solutions to the problems are difficult and complicated. They cannot be realized in a few months or a few years. Yet, if the nation is to continue the progress, its young people must be equipped educationally to live in an increasingly complicated society. The educational system of the country today cannot do the job which is required of it unless solutions are found to these problems it faces.

Slow Work By Those Wheels Of Progress

Wheels of progress often turn much more slowly than a good many people want them to. Their movement, slow as it may be, points to better things to come.

Such is the case with Eastern North Carolina as it looks to the day it can enjoy the benefits of natural gas which have been available to the Piedmont section of the state for several years.

Last winter the State Utilities Commission approved the petition of North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation to provide natural gas for 29 cities and towns in the eastern part of the state. Since that time the matter has been tied up in proceedings before the Federal Power Commission as two companies sought to gain the exclusive right to operate in the eastern part of the state. Now the staff of the FPC has filed its report which likewise favors N. C. Natural Gas Corp.

The Federal Power Commission still has to give a final ruling in the case, but it has promised the ruling will not be long in coming. Certainly the people of the 29 communities in the Eastern section of the state hope the decision will not be delayed any longer than absolutely necessary. The longer the decision is delayed, the longer the eastern area will have to wait before it can begin to enjoy the benefits which are expected from natural gas. Even when the decision is announced a year or more will be required for construction of the pipeline which will bring natural gas to the area.

This part of North Carolina logically expects to increase its attractiveness to industry once it has natural gas. With this new source of fuel it may expect to attract industries which are not now interested in locating here. The more the area has to offer industrial prospects, the more rapidly it can expect its industrial development program to progress.

Little wonder then that this section of the state is hoping the FPC will not delay one day longer than necessary to render the decision which will give the green light that will make natural gas available here.

Red Volunteers Hardly Are 'Force For Peace'

Russia can make a real contribution to settling the trouble in the Middle East if she only will.

She can make this contribution by seeing that none of the so-called Russian "volunteers" move into the troubled area as the Chinese Communist "volunteers" moved into Korea by divisions a few years ago.

It is apparent that Kremlin talk of thousands of Russian volunteers wanting to fight for Egypt is a move by the Kremlin to place itself in a position to exploit the Arab nations. It is also apparent that any such move by Russian "volunteers," ordered into Egypt by the Kremlin, will increase rather than decrease the international tension which surrounds the Middle East crisis. Such a move by the Kremlin would only add fuel to the fire. It might well add sufficient fuel to cause another world war.

There is no reason to believe that the United Nations police force composed by troops of the smaller nations can not handle the Egyptian situation. They already have begun their move into the troubled area and in a short span of time should be there in sufficient strength to handle a new emergency should it arise.

If the Kremlin desires to make a contribution toward restoring world peace, it can keep its "volunteers" at home. Otherwise it will be promoting rather than preventing further open conflict in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Where better can we begin to cope with these problems one by one than in each local community? Indeed, where else can we find the answer if citizens of individual communities are not determined to find it?

While educators must shoulder the responsibility for charting the course which will alleviate these problems, the parents of each community must play the major role in seeing that the problems are solved. They must afford the impetus which will transform their tax dollars. They must help provide additional teachers by supporting sound, long range programs which will attract more young people to the teaching profession and retain in the profession many experienced teachers who for various reasons have the classrooms for other jobs. The parents alone have the responsibility for instilling in their children the real desire to learn through hard study.

During this week when every school in Pitt County is holding open house for the parents of its students, parents have an excellent opportunity to learn of the school's needs first hand. By visiting the schools, discussing the many problems with teachers and school officials, parents can gain a better understanding of what must be done. With this information they will be in a better position to help in the mass effort to solve the serious problems which today face American education.

Ex-Reporter Takes A Backward Look

Lynn Nisbet is still hospitalized by injuries received in a traffic accident. In his absence, today's columnist is by Wade Lucas, Information Officer, Dept. of C&D.

RALEIGH — Having been requested by C.A. Upchurch, Jr. who is pinch-hitting for the old master pundit, Lynn Nisbet, to do a guest column, one would think that, being in the business of disseminating information to the public about the aims and objectives of the Department of Conservation and Development, this reporter would naturally write about the State agency that employs him. But he will not in this instance. Instead, it will be about recollections of the years gone by when Lynn and the writer competed in the business of news gathering and writing. Now, neither Lynn nor the writer will ever tell all he knows and there are no earthly reasons why we would. No really decent newsmen ever would.

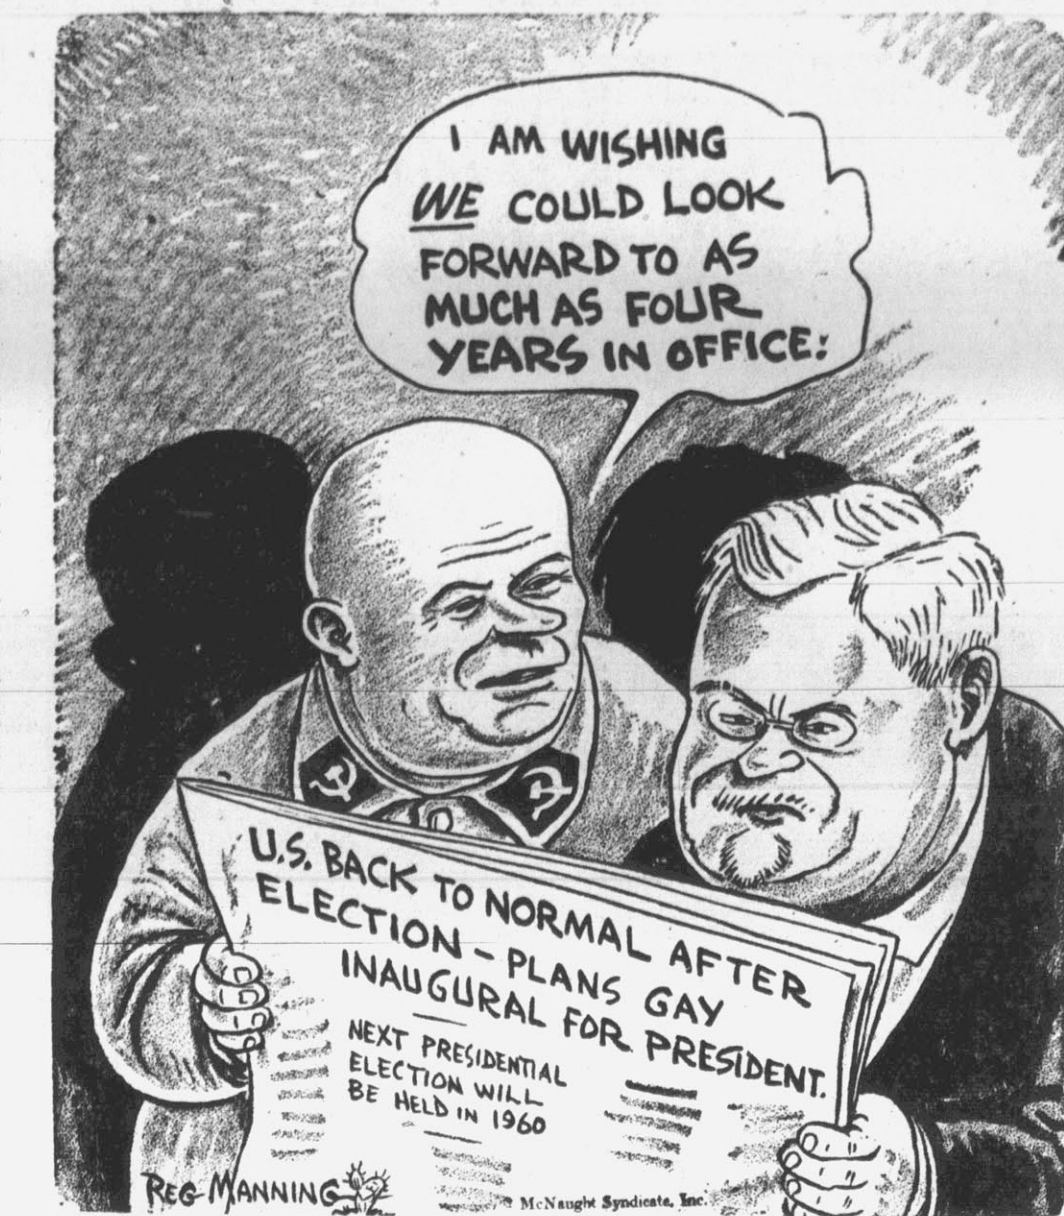

JOB — Readers of Around Capitol Square in so many of our State's bright and interesting afternoon newspapers are naturally missing the profound writings of Lynn Nisbet. As his fans know, Lynn was rather badly hurt in an automobile accident recently while returning to Raleigh from one of his numerous jaunts over the State. His newspaper friends are doing their best to substitute for him as best they can and carry on the time-honored traditions of the Fourth Estate in lending a helping hand to a fellow craftsman when he needs it. The help and very laudable Tom Bost would have delighted in lending such a hand. So would many others who have passed on since this reporter first wrote the late Angus Wilton McLean was Governor.

PERSONAL — All newspapermen as well as those on the staff side naturally like to inject their personal views into some of the articles they write. This is especially true of the very laudable Tom Bost who has been delighted in lending such a hand. So would many others who have passed on since this reporter first wrote the late Angus Wilton McLean was Governor.

It is apparent that Kremlin talk of thousands of Russian volunteers wanting to fight for Egypt is a move by the Kremlin to place itself in a position to exploit the Arab nations. It is also apparent that any such move by Russian "volunteers," ordered into Egypt by the Kremlin, will increase rather than decrease the international tension which surrounds the Middle East crisis. Such a move by the Kremlin would only add fuel to the fire. It might well add sufficient fuel to cause another world war.

There is no reason to believe that the United Nations police force composed by troops of the smaller nations can not handle the Egyptian situation. They already have begun their move into the troubled area and in a short span of time should be there in sufficient strength to handle a new emergency should it arise.

If the Kremlin desires to make a contribution toward restoring world peace, it can keep its "volunteers" at home. Otherwise it will be promoting rather than preventing further open conflict in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Business Today

Big Business Needs An Assist

By ELMER ROESSNER

If this column has been more crotchety than usual lately, it may have been because the writer has been sleeping on the floor. On a mattress, it's true, but without a bed.

A rail of his bed broke one day in July. Made the bed inoperable. On Friday, July 27, he phoned the nearest emporium of the great department-store organization from which he has purchased the bed. He was connected with a most pleasant young lady we will call Miss Schnaps. He told her what had happened and said he wanted to buy a new rail or, if they came only in pairs, two of them. He gave her the number from a tag he found on the remains of the bed and his own phone number. Miss Schnaps said she would call back the next day.

She didn't call, so he phoned the following Monday. Miss Schnaps said she was having trouble getting through to her warehouse, but would call back by the next Saturday.

ON TRACK OF A RAIL

She didn't call back so the following Monday he called at 11 a. m. and was told Miss Schnaps' department did not open until noon. Called at 1:30 p. m. and got told she was out to lunch. Got her on another call at 3 p. m. She said she was busy at the moment but would phone right back.

On the following Wednesday—it was now August 8—having had no call-back, he phoned again. Miss Schnaps was away, so he started all over with another girl, who took full details and said she or Miss Schnaps would call back in an hour.

There being no call-back, on Friday he phoned again. Miss Schnaps said she had mislaid the bed number and the phone number. She was given them again and said she would "get action at once."

Two days later he called again. Miss Schnaps was out but a girl identifying herself as her assistant said Miss Schnaps had written to the factory for a new pair of bed rails.

Almost a month went by. On September 13 he phoned again. Miss Schnaps said she had no word from the factory, and added, with emphasis worthy of the third act of Aida, "I am going to see that you get your bed rails!"

SALESMAN TO RESCUE

A week later, on September 23, he phoned again. Miss Schnaps said she wanted the bed number again because she was afraid she had been writing to the wrong factory. "There's a salesman in the office right now and I can check with him," she said. She returned to the phone after a few minutes and said yes, she had been writing to the wrong factory but the salesman had identified the right factory and she would write right away.

Almost a month later, on October 24, he phoned again. It took an hour to get through to Miss Schnaps because her line was busy and he was thrice cut off by the department store operator. Miss Schnaps said, "I'm having a lot of trouble with that factory. I'll send them a registered letter."

There has been no further word from Miss Schnaps. Last Saturday the writer went to a side-street furniture repair shop not far away. The proprietor sold him two bed rails that match and fit perfectly. He took them right out of stock.

The government spends more than $2,000,000 a year operating a Small Business Administration to help small firms operate more efficiently and profitably. Maybe it ought to spend another $2,000,000 for a Big Business Administration to help large enterprises to operate better and not lose their customers.

Things A Columnist Learns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail or listen to well-read bartenders:

That the average U.S. housewife walks 6 miles a day, but a hospital nurse logs 10 miles.

That a hippopotamus tooth weighs up to seven pounds and formerly was a source of dental ivory for making human false teeth.

That Robert Q. Lewis says a girl in the awkward age when she's "too old for Dave Crockett and too young for Liberace."

That the nation's 20 million fishermen spend two billion dollars and drive 7,700,000,000 billion miles a year in pursuit of their sport. They also drink 280 million gallons of beer while waiting for "the big one" to strike.

That Puerto Rico is the only American flag that doesn't charge a license fee to get married.

That the Pentagon in Washington, D.C., has the largest private exchange switchboard in the country. It is staffed by 200 operators.

That the average life of an eyelash is three months, but a scalp hair lives to the ripe old age of two years.

That a farmer in Manisa, Turkey, set a new national shaving record there by scraping off his five o'clock shadow in just 37 seconds. I don't see how he did it—unless he used a lawnmower.

That a Turkish restaurant menu reads like a striptease act. A meatball dish is known as "lady's thigh." Two favorite pastries are called "beauty's lips" and "lady's navel." A couple of eggplant dishes are titled "the sultan liked it" and "the priest faints."

That a white elephant is not really white. Usually it's a pale yellowish gray, and has pink spots. If one walked into the average bar, every patron would be afraid to admit he could see it.

That singer Lisa Kirk says the reason her young nephew was dropping from progressive school was . . . teacher caught him using an eraser!

That croquet, a nation scandal back in the gay 90's when daring enthusiasts openly played it on their lawns on Sunday, is making a comeback in the Midwest. It was the favorite sport of the late critic, Alexander Woolcott.

That the reason babies aren't scared out of their cribs by the odd faces dotting cribs make at them is that even at the age of a year infants have only about 10 per cent of normal adult vision.

That 22 million Americans—nearly one out of eight—now drink water to which fluoride has been added to prevent tooth decay.

That it costs more than 50 million dollars to clean the nation's primary highways of litter tossed out the window by thoughtless motorists.

That although the Suez Canal wasn't opened until 1869, the idea of linking the Mediterranean and the Red Sea by a waterway was conceived and attempted by the Egyptian Pharaoh Sesostris around 2,000 B.C.

That ancient Egyptians, who first domesticated the cat, made it a religious idol because only cats could keep rats and mice from eating the annual grain crop, the nation's chief food supply.

Conditions And Our Presidents

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—The foreign situation looks serious. It really overshadows the election results, which I will discuss next week. During the 30 years that I have written this column I have learned, however, that conditions make or unmake U.S. presidents, and that U.S. presidents do not make or unmake world affairs. Hence, I feel that every citizen, shopkeeper, manufacturer, and banker should intensively study the world situation before making future plans. THE EGYPTIAN SITUATION For many years Egypt had been under the control of the British Empire through a figurehead ruler. Two years ago there was a revolution instigated by the army. Since then Nasser has served as dictator. This was not satisfactory to England and France, but they took no action until the Suez Canal problem arose.

Because the Western Nations refused the funds to build the big Aswan dam, Nasser retaliated by taking possession of the Suez Canal to get his needed funds from tolls. As 70 percent of the steamships using the canal were British, and as the stock of the canal company was held largely by French bankers, these countries immediately became vitally interested. Although Secretary Dulles hoped to bring about a compromise program, he failed and conditions have become worse.

NOW ISRAEL COMES INTO THE PICTURE

During recent weeks Nasser, the Egyptian dictator, has been stirring up trouble between Israel and Jordan. This irritation finally caused a conflict between Jordan and Israel. The latter invaded Egypt and attempted to break through to Cairo and the Suez Canal. This made the situation very serious. President Eisenhower attempted to get the "hot potato" taken over by the United Nations. But England and France thought it would be unsafe to wait for daily action on the part of the United Nations. Therefore, they took immediate action themselves with which all readers are well acquainted through the American press.

The situation has been further muddled by Russia joining the United States against England and France. This could lead to the possibility of a three-cornered war or at least of the United States and Russia remaining neutral, which I cannot imagine as far as Russia is concerned. The situation must be a great temptation for Russia to step in and take the "plum" which England, France, Israel, and others will be fighting over. The only thing holding Russia back would be the fear of permanently losing some of her satellites, including East Germany. A real war could probably bring about unification of Germany.

THE PRESENT OUTLOOK FOR WAR

As I am writing this column the strategy of England and France has been to take the airfields of Egypt, drop down their parachute armies, and get in a strong position to take over the Suez Canal. But, Russia may either switch to the side of Egypt or else ignore all countries and take over the Suez Canal, the oil fields, and pipe lines herself. This would truly be a major catastrophe which we will treat in a later column as the situation develops. If Russia honestly remains neutral or sides with the United States, the situation need not be serious.

Canada has already refused to ship more airplanes or war equipment to Egypt. This action may be followed by the United States and possibly by Russia and certain other countries. If, however, there is a real war, England and France will also need airplanes and war equipment. This offers a very juicy opportunity for countries which remain neutral, and could even get into our domestic politics. Although our government is urging peace, yet it must be remembered that the United States as well as Great Britain and France have a strong Jewish population. Many financiers in all these countries are Jewish and this may have been a factor in the recent election.

WHAT ABOUT U.S. BUSINESS OUTLOOK

It seems only logical that this situation will put a damper

BE WISE

Tranquilizers!

They have come to occupy a prominent place in medical practice today. Doctors have found that psychic patients—or those actually suffering from severe mental disturbances—can often be helped by such drugs, and the good news is that many people who ordinarily would be out of circulation, and many who have been, are now returned to normal activities. In such cases the tranquilizing drugs appear to confer a real blessing upon people formerly afflicted, and often hopelessly so.

But there is a tendency for many people who are downcast or discouraged to feel that they can whip themselves up, banish their gloom, and be fundamentally transformed by taking a pill.

Many years ago Thomas Carlyle wrote about the people who when they got in any sort of distress immediately began calling for a pill to put them right. Pills no doubt have their use, but that use is never to do for us what we can do for ourselves, and are duty bound to try to do for ourselves. If all we want to do is to keep ourselves cheerful and without worry simply by taking a drug of any sort—be that drug one of the fearful scourges which cause addiction, or a tranquilizer, or some mild sedative designed to make us feel good for the time being, the word is "caution."

Power to rectify our moods lies within ourselves. Drugs bring forgetfulness; the use of our powers brings peace. Be wise.

WASHINGTON The three military services have finally recovered from the sense of inferiority inflicted upon them by untoward happenings in the postwar years. Their uniformed leaders, even the Navy, are now being recognized by the public as the great military forces of the nation.

The incidents which have hurt the Pentagon establishment, in the order of their importance, were: (1) the McCarthyism in the face of opposition from Army, Navy and Air Force civilian heads, and demand for greater recognition at Capitol Hill at the January session.

The incidents which have hurt the Pentagon establishment, in the order of their importance, were: (1) the McCarthyism in the face of opposition from Army, Navy and Air Force civilian heads, and demand for greater recognition at Capitol Hill at the January session.

It is a matter of irony, and a fact on which military men frequently comment when they pour forth their grievances, that this downgrading for the most part occurred in the regime of the first professional service President since Ulysses S. Grant.

REORGANIZED ARMY AS SOCIATION As recently noted here, the United States Army Association has been reorganized so that it may combat more effectively proposed cut in defense appropriations. Its new directors are ex-Pentagon figures no longer in the service, and therefore free of the Wilson-Radford censorship.

The shift resulted from word that the White House and Budget Bureau have ordered the heaviest cut in defense funds since immediately after the World War II demobilization. The three services asked for $48 billion and fixed $44 billion as the minimum requirement. The Administration has pared the figure to $37 billion, with the Army's aerial units suffering most severely.

MILITARY'S PUBLICITY CAM-

PAIGN Whereas officers still in uniform cannot protest publicly without incurring a reprimand, their buddies in the reorganized Army Association will fight their battles before Congress and the American public.

The three services have also begun a publicity campaign to impose discipline by exalting the importance of "rank," including both commissioned officers and non-coms. The Marines especially feel that a postwar letdown in "rank" relations was partially responsible for the fatal maneuver at Parris Island. McKoon's men had become "sloppy."

Periodical speeches, official statements and orders from the higher-ups have recently warned against laxities on the part of both the "brass" and the enlisted men. The carelessness toward regulations was a natural hangover from World War II and Korean conflicts, when soldiers of all ranks must live on more familiar terms.

While these comrades do not refer directly to the McKoon incident, demands for snappier discipline began to issue immediately after his trial.

BORING FOREIGN SERVICE. Many prominent military spokesmen will also support the anticipated Congressional drive to cut down the number and size of our forward outposts now scattered around the world in more than 50 countries.

The men and their dependents dislike foreign service, which becomes boring and wearisome the novelty of a strange countryside wears off. And, as do many members of Congress, they begin to question the need or efficacy of overseas bases and "brush fire brigades" for the long future, in view of Moscow's satellite indigestion.

Like so many civilians and Administration officials, shocked by the Allied split over the Egyptian crisis, the military has responded to "isolationist" and "Fortress America" complexes

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

Boy May Keep Brain Fragments

BRISON CITY, N. C. (P)—Harold Laws has had bullet fragments in his brain for the last 5½ years, but he is as frisky as any 9-year-old.

His teacher says he does about average work in his fifth grade class. He plays tag football and can do anything his classmates can.

The accidental discharge of a rifle with a hollow-nosed, explosive bullet sent fragments into Harold's brain as he played at his home here.

Dr. Harold Bacon decided the boy would have a better chance to live if he didn't try to remove the metal.

The boy's only handicap is that he can't see out of his left eye. His eye was damaged by the bullet as it passed behind it.

Meet Will Begin Organizing PTA Group For GHS

Greenville High School will at last have a parent-teacher organization. This long-expected step forward will be taken Wednesday night at 8 o'clock when teachers and patrons will meet in the school auditorium to initiate such a group.

Principal O. E. Dowd reports a great deal of enthusiasm and close preliminary cooperation on the part of many persons in the community. He said he is confident that the turnout for the Wednesday night's meeting will be large.

One important item on the agenda for the meeting, over which Mrs. W. H. Taft will preside, will be election of officers. Chairman of the Nominating Committee, which will present a slate for the approval of the group is Michael Lusk. Other members are Mrs. W. S. Bost, Mrs. F. D. Duncan, Mrs. Howard Mims, and Ed Ratcliffe.

Another feature of the occasion will be separate meetings of teachers and parents by grade levels. Thus parents will be afforded the opportunity to become acquainted with their children's homeroom teachers and to learn about the organization of the school program in the various grades. Parents will also have an opportunity to write out suggested topics for future study by the organization and to ask questions of Principal Dowd and the teachers, as the programs which have been prepared for the meeting contain blank spaces for this purpose.

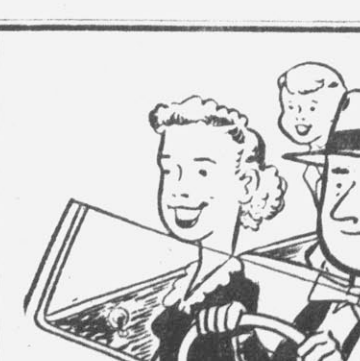

By way of background orientation, Mrs. Taft will speak to the group on "The Value of a Parent-Teacher Organization from the Standpoint of A Parent," and Principal Dowd will discuss the subject from the standpoint of the school.

The complete program: "America," Miss Ona Schindler; devotion, Rev. Thomas M. Davis; welcome, Mrs. W. H. Taft; greetings, O. E. Dowd; nominating committee report, election and installation of officers, and grade level meetings and refreshments.

Quick vegetable dish: Brown tiny cubes of bread in olive oil and sprinkle over piping hot canned stewed tomatoes. Serve in sauce dishes.

Proclamation

With a world-wide struggle now going on between the forces of democracy and totalitarianism, and with our government engaged in an action with other peace loving nations of the world to preserve the democratic way of life, it is appropriate and most imperative for all of our schools to emphasize the important position that education plays in "Government Of, By, and For the People."

This year, the North Carolina Education Association in cooperation with the National Education Association, the American Legion, the United States Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers is making a special effort to emphasize in our schools the responsibilities and obligations of citizenship. This is indeed an appropriate program at any time in our schools, but it is particularly noteworthy this election year. I endorse this program, and I want to urge that all of our citizens join with the teachers of our schools in the ceremonies designed to impress firmly in our minds the true significance of the American Way of Life and the true meaning of "Government Of, By, and For the People."

Therefore, I, W. L. Whedbee, Mayor of Greenville, N. C., do hereby proclaim November 11-17, 1956 as American Education Week.

Signed: W. L. Whedbee

Bugler Fulfills An Old Dream

PARIS (P)—A 61-year-old bugler last night fulfilled a World War I dream to return to France to play taps for his fallen comrades.

By the flickering light of the eternal flame which guards France's Unknown Soldier, Hartley Edwards completed his pilgrimage from Denison, Tex.

He proudly raised the same bugle he played 37 years ago in ceremonies that moved such old soldiers as Gen. John J. Pershing and Marshal Ferdinand Foch.

The intervening years had left their mark on both bugle and bugler. But Edwards stood stiff and proud in a gentle rain as he sounded the call that signals rest for tired soldiers.

About 500 American veterans and an honor guard of French airmen, soldiers and sailors stood at attention around the Arch of Triumph while Edwards played at the annual Armistice Day tribute of Americans living in Paris.

Earlier in the afternoon, Edwards also played taps at the cemetery at Compiegne.

Edwards last played beneath the arch at French Independence Day ceremonies July 14, 1919, when Paris literally exploded with a "victory" celebration. He was a member of the crack 50-man drum and bugle corps Gen. Pershing formed of veteran American soldiers. Marshal Foch was so impressed with the corps he invited them to come back someday.

Jackie Coogan Is Again 'Discovered' By Films

HOLLYWOOD (P)—"It's just like old times," said Jackie Coogan as his career started to take off again.

Jackie is currently enjoying his best role in years—playing Joe E. Lewis' pal, Swiftly Morgan, in "The Joker Is Wild." He had to turn down five other parts because the Frank Sinatra picture will keep him tied up through December.

The story of the Coogan revival goes back a year and a half to a drama he did on the Climax TV show.

When the producer, Martin Manulis, launched his ambitious Playhouse 90 series he thought of Jackie for a role in the first show, "Forbidden Area." Sinatra happened to catch Jackie as the comical Air Force cook, hurriedly phoned director Charles Vidor.

"Turn on your TV set; I've found our Swiftly," Sinatra said. Vidor had been watching the show and quickly agreed.

"It's a real thrill for me," Jackie remarked, "and not merely because it's the best part I've had in a long, long time. My folks lived next door to Swiftly in Chicago; I've known him since I was three years old."

Jackie calculated this is the fifth or sixth time he has been discovered in his 40-year career. He did his first film role at two for the old Essanay studios in Chicago.

He started "The Kid" with Charlie Chaplin at five and finished it at six.

"The Kid" made Jackie the

Nationalists See Attack Danger

TAIPEI, Formosa (P)—The Chinese Nationalists believe the crisis in the Middle East has increased the danger of attack by the Chinese Communists.

To guard against possible attack while the attention of the world is turned on events in Egypt and Hungary, the Nationalist Defense Ministry has announced an intensification of "defensive readiness."

The U. S. 7th Fleet, which patrols the Formosa Strait, also is making what it calls "precautionary redeployments to improve our defensive capabilities" in line with worldwide preparedness measures ordered by the Pentagon.

SYNOPSIS

Casson Duker, a well-to-do amateur detective, is intrigued when Henry Lockyer, a stolid banker, tells him he had been black-mailed by an ordinary looking little man named Bagot who threatened to ruin his reputation. Bagot promises not to bother him again. One thing distinguishes the insignificant Bagot: He paused to admire a piece of Roman sculpture in Lockyer's house. Casson thinks this interest may trap him. Casson goes to his friend, George Strutt, a police superintendent, for help. Strutt becomes interested in the case. Later, Casson meets another friend, Nigel Willington, an antique dealer, and asks him to check his sales records of Roman sculpture for possible leads. Meanwhile, Strutt has dug up a similar case from the police files—the Greenough case, in which the blackmailer called himself Martin. On a visit to Willington's, Casson sees a man answering Bagot's description buy two bronze statuettes. He follows him to his home on Bickersteth Street, and rents a room across the street. He discovers that the suspect frequents the Shepley Arms, a local tavern. The bartender tells Casson that the man's name is John Perry.

CHAPTER 10

Casson had just sat down to write his story of the Bagot case from the night of his meeting with the drunk Lockyer up to his own first pint in the Shepley Arms when the door of No. 51 reopened and Perry emerged. Casson, taken by surprise, dived for the camera but he was too late.

Casson stood there, looking at his wristwatch, giving Perry a minute and a quarter to get most of the way down the street. Then he slipped downstairs and followed.

To Casson, the pattern had altered drastically. Never had he heard of Bagot or Martin being clothed in anything but the same nondescript brown suit that Perry habitually wore. Now he was in a black City coat and striped trousers. He carried a neatly rolled umbrella and wore a bowler hat. He looked like a clerk on his way to the office in Mooregate. But why at half-past eleven in the morning?

Casson followed him to Ravenscourt Park Station and, choosing the carriage behind him, boarded an eastbound train. Perry might be going to his lawyer's, or to some respectable office from which he had retired and to which he returned two days a week in order to keep himself busy. Indeed, the only things against him, the only two threads which linked him to the shadowy Bagot and the still more remote Martin of Hatfield, were his personal appearance and his purchase of antiques. They changed trains at South Kensington and Perry took the eastbound Circle train. Casson followed him. They got out at the Mansion House. Perry walked up Threadneedle Street. Opposite the National Provincial Bank he consulted his watch. Then he went on. Suddenly he turned into a door to his left and was lost.

Casson did not quicken his pace. He marked the doorway and kept his eye on it while he covered the fifty yards to Perry's bolt-hole. He walked past it, glanced inside. The place was about half full.

He walked on, stopped, turned back, and turned into the bar—John's Bar. Perry had his back to the doorway, and Casson went to the counter on his right. Above the shelves on the wall was a mirror. It was tilted forward, and in it Casson could see Perry across the room.

Perry was chewing a sandwich, a glass of beer on the counter before him. He was talking to a young man who was eating veal-and-ham pie. The young man also wore a black and striped City suit.

Casson ordered a chicken sandwich and a glass of white wine.

While he ate he watched. The bar was filled up and the air was becoming pearly from cigarette smoke. Casson felt safe from detection, especially since there was no mirror over the counter above Perry in which he could have had a reverse view of Casson watching him.

The young man was tall, well built, and had fair hair. He had a pleasant, humourous face and seemed to be no companion for a blackmailer. But, from his experiences in Bath, Casson distrusted appearances. During his investigation of the "Witch" one of the nicest old women in the village had displayed a startling aptitude for cruelty.

After half-an-hour the young man looked at his watch, finished his Guinness, and he and Perry left the bar. They walked down Threadneedle Street to the Bank, shook hands, and parted, Perry turning towards the Underground station and the young man continuing westwards.

Without hesitation Casson followed the young man. He wished to trace every tentacle of Perry's outdoor life.

In Poultry the young man turned into a large building. As Casson strolled past he saw that it was Gamman's Bank.

Ecco! And Lockyer was a director of Gamman's. The coincidences mounted into the region of inevitability. Casson's excitement grew. He gave the young man ten minutes, during which time he could have washed his hands and returned to his post in the Bank. Then he went in, walked up the long hall, and asked a question about currency exchange.

While he was waiting for the reply he looked along the counter. At the far end, obviously in the junior position, was the fair hair and pleasant face. Casson waited. The answer came back: 996 francs to the pound sterling, 1,680 lire. Casson thanked the teller and strolled out, glancing as he went at the silver-and-black name-plate before the young man's place. Mr. Macfarlane, it stated. The fair head never looked at him as he passed through the tall swing-doors.

From a call-box Casson telephoned Strutt. The fat Superintendent sounded irritable.

"Have you got him?" he said. "Oh, no," Casson replied. "I'm just amusing myself."

"Well, I'm not," snapped back the voice. "And I will tell you why. Kent is playing Middlesex tomorrow afternoon and I was going to watch. Now I'm not. And I'm not because some blasted burglar called Soap-fingers or Twinkle-toes or some idiot name has pinched a mink coat from some idiot actress and I've got to find him. See?"

"In this weather," Casson observed, "a burglar in a fur coat will look obvious. You should find it easy to catch him. Do you know anything about a Mr. John Perry of 51, Bickersteth Street, W.8?"

Strutt's voice altered.

"Is that Bagot?"

"I don't think so," Casson replied evenly. "But it may be a clue."

"Clue!" snorted the Superintendent. "Clue! You sound like the gutter Press. Why don't you find me a decent fingerprint and then bring me the finger that made it? All right, I'll ring you back."

"I'd rather you sent a note to my flat," said Casson. He had no desire to let Strutt know that he would horn in on the game too soon.

"All right. All right. What about two tickets for the first Test Match?"

"Certainly not," said Casson, who could get them easily. "You should be spending your time guarding honest citizens." He rang off.

In tomorrow's exciting chapter, Perry again resumes his Bagot role.

Ready For Richmond

Reserve quarterback Ralph Zehring is expected to see plenty of action Saturday afternoon when East Carolina College closes its football season against the University of Richmond. The game will mark the first time a Southern Conference team has ever played in College Stadium. The Pirates were idle Saturday and Richmond lost, 32-6, to George Washington Saturday night. Bears Win From Elon, Stretch Streak To 19

MIGHTY Lenoir Rhyne, an impressive string of 19 games without a defeat under its belt, marks

Like Boardman Over Ex-Champ

Larry Boardman, a young lightweight from Connecticut who feasts on champions, old or current, gets another crack at a former titleholder tonight in Philadelphia, where he boxes Paddy DeMarco of New York.

Boardman already has beaten ex-champ Wallace (Bud) Smith and Jimmy Carter and owns a non-title decision over Sandy Sadler, the feather king. Rated the hottest thing in the division with a No. 1 ranking by the national Boxing Assn., Boardman is expected to take care of DeMarco.

Randy Sandy of New York and John L. Sullivan, a willing gent from Preston, England, will do their stuff for the St. Nicholas Arena fans in New York in another show tonight.

Sandy's latest on his "comeback" was a decision over Al Andrews at Las Vegas Oct. 29. Sullivan was stopped by Rory Calhoun in eight rounds at Cleveland Oct. 12.

Du Mont will telecast to some regions.

Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., and Frankie Ryff of New York, two men rated among the top 10 lightweights, meet Wednesday at Miami.

While nothing is definitely settled — and, as they say, a football takes funny bounces — the postseason bowl picture was clarified somewhat today with at least half a dozen teams consulting timetables south or west.

The franchise shoppers reportedly hanging around the nation's capital these days apparently have spotted a good pro football buy.

Washington, like Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, has been the scene of reports of franchise offers from a Louisville, Ky., group, and yesterday the Redskins undoubtedly upped the price tag with a tough, but neat, 18-17 victory over the previously unbeaten Detroit Lions.

The result, coupled with the Chicago Bears' easy 33-14 romp over the visiting Green Bay Packers, left the Lions tied with the Bears for the National Football League's Western Conference lead. Both have 6-1 records with five weekends to go.

While the race was being knotted in the West, the New York Giants were breaking a first-place Eastern tie with the Chicago Cardinals by smothering the Cards' trumpeted offense 23-10 in Yankee Stadium and avenging an early-season 35-27 loss at Comiskey Park.

That puts the New Yorkers at 6-1 and the Cards at 5-2, but looming before the Giants are games on successive Sundays at Washington, with the Bears at New York and again with the Redskins at New York, Washington, the team that put the initial stain on the Cards' record two weeks ago the regular season, here is how the four major bowl games could line up:

Rose—Oregon State vs. Iowa.
Orange—Colorado vs. Clemson.
Sugar—Tennessee vs. Georgia Tech.
Cotton—Texas A&M vs. Syracuse.

Oregon State has virtually assured itself of the Pacific Coast Conference Rose Bowl nomination. It has lost only one game, that to Southern California, which is ineligible along with UCLA and Washington for breaking recruiting rules.

After its uphill 20-19 victory over Stanford Saturday, Oregon State has only two opponents left, weakening Idaho and Oregon.

Iowa is the favorite to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl. The Hawkeyes are in the NCAA doghouse for recruiting violations and their fate will be decided at a meeting in Detroit tomorrow. The conference already has pardoned the school.

Syracuse, the class of the East, appears to have the inside track as the visiting team. The Orange need only to beat Colgate Saturday to finish with seven victories and one defeat.

Here is how the other three major bowls stack up:

Orange—Colorado, which probably will finish second to Oklahoma in the Big Seven race, is No. 1 in line. The Buffs were tied by Missouri Saturday 14-14. Oklahoma, which racked up its 37th straight victory when it licked Iowa State 44-0, is ineligible, having played in the last Orange Bowl game.

Clemson, which was held to a 6-6 standoff by Maryland Saturday, is the best of the Atlantic Coast Conference, which provides the other Orange Bowl team, has to offer at the moment.

Sugar—Tennessee is almost certain to be the host team, wind up undefeated and win the Southern Conference championship. The Vols licked Georgia Tech 6-0 Saturday.

The Sugar Bowl would like to stage a rematch, even though the second-place team (in this case Georgia Tech) usually goes to the Cotton Bowl.

Cotton—Texas A&M has cut a steady swath through the Southwest Conference, capped by its 33-7 victory over Southern Methodist Saturday and has only Rice and Texas blocking its path to its first league title in 15 years.

But the Aggies are in the NCAA doghouse for recruiting violations and their fate will be decided at a meeting in Detroit tomorrow. The conference already has pardoned the school.

Tennessee Touchdown Upsets Tech

Tennessee fullback Tommy Bronson (31) plunges one yard through the Georgia Tech line for the lone touchdown of the game and the one that knocked Tech from the unbeaten list. The tally came in the third quarter of game played in Atlanta and was set up by passes from tailback Johnny Majors to end Buddy Cruise, one for 16 yards and another of 45 yards which put the ball on the Tech one. Bronson then bucked it over for the 6-0 Vol victory. Others identified are: Tech fullback Ken Owen (40), Paul Rotenberry (21), Tech halfback, and Ted Smith (86), Tech end. (AP Wirephoto).

Barnes Sets Conference Rushing Mark, 859 Yards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Barnes, Wake Forest's demon fullback, held the new Atlantic Coast Conference rushing record today as well as his tight grip on the league's scoring race.

Though Wake Forest was stymied 13-13 by VPI Saturday, Barnes gained 103 yards in 21 carries for a 4.9 average and punched over one touchdown.

His rushing yardage, gave him a season total of 859 yards, surpassing the old mark of 782 yards set by Clemson's Joel Wells last season.

Barnes has tallied seven touchdowns and two extra points for a total of 44 points, two better than North Carolina's Ed Sutton in second with 42 points.

Of the five games involving ACC teams Saturday, three ended in ties. Duke and Navy battled to a 7-7 stalemate and Maryland surprised strong Clemson, but did not stop. Clemson's rush for an Orange Bowl trip New Year's Day.

The tie games Saturday, freakish and frustrating, caused Clemson Coach Frank Howard to remark "a tie game is like kissing your sister."

Clemson, undefeated in seven games, has two ties on the record. The other was a 20-20 game with Florida. Duke's tie with Navy was the third tie in the last four years between the two with last year's game ending 7-7. Wake Forest's tie with VPI was the third tie game of the season for the Deacons.

Barnes, being boomed for All America honors, was injured in the fourth period of the VMI game but the official verdict was "muscular spasms in the leg."

Behind Barnes and Sutton in the scoring race are South Carolina's halfback Alex Hawkins with 33 points and these tied for fourth with 24: King Dixon, South Carolina; Joel Wells, Clemson; Charlie Horne, Clemson, and Eddie Rutherford, Duke. Virginia fullback Jim Bakhtiar follows with 23.

North Carolina turned on a fine second half showing to trounce Virginia 21-7 and North Carolina State upset South Carolina 14-7, ending the Gamecocks' Orange Bowl ambitions.

All this action paved the way for the coming weekend which features two ACC games, Duke at Wake Forest and Maryland at South Carolina, and four fine inter-sectional tilts.

North Carolina, which has not beaten Notre Dame in seven previous meetings, probably will have its best chance to do so when the Tar Heels invade South Bend. The Irish, having a poor season, have won one of seven games.

Clemson takes an advance trip to the Orange Bowl Friday night when the Tigers face tough Miami. North Carolina State moves to Penn State and Virginia meets Navy in Baltimore in the others.

The Orange Bowl schedule committee said yesterday it has named Colorado as its preference to face the ACC representative in the bowl game, Oklahoma, the Big Seven leader, is not eligible to play in a bowl this season by conference rules which limits a conference team's appearance in the bowl to every other season.

The Sooners beat Maryland last January.

Bears, Lions Tied For Lead

at Chicago, could really make it up to the Cards with twin triumphs over the Giants. The Cards face only one more team with a winning record, the Bears Dec. 9 at Wrigley Field.

Those boys in the market for a franchise in Pennsylvania had little to get excited about at Philadelphia where the so-so Eagles whipped the lowly Pittsburgh Steelers 14-7. The Eagles, who, like Washington, have rebuffed franchise bids so far, are fourth in the East with a 3-4 mark behind Washington's 3-3. The Steelers, coveted also by a Buffalo, N.Y., group, and as yet uncommitted on a move have a 2-5 slate, the same as the defending champion Browns.

Baltimore's third-place Colts, 3-3 in the West and the only team to knock off the Bears, stopped Cleveland 21-7 yesterday, and in a battle of West Coast titans, the host Los Angeles Rams moved out of the cellar with a 30-6 victory over the San Francisco 49ers (1-6). The Rams are now tied for fourth with Green Bay at 2-5.

While the Cards and Giants are finished sniping at each other, the playoff meetings in the West are still to come. The Bears are at Detroit Dec. 2 and the situation is reversed Dec. 16.

Despite the close score, Washington led Detroit all the way. The Redskins opened and closed the scoring with field goals by Sam Baker, who kicked three, the last with less than two minutes to play. He also did some excellent punting which forced Detroit into an intentional safety in the fourth period. Had they not yielded those two points, the Lions might have won. Quarterback Bobby Layne, who also kicked a three-pointer, guided them to a TD within seconds after Baker's last field goal.

Installation Of Equipment To Begin Next Month In Telephone Building

First installations of equipment are scheduled to get under way in the new long distance telephone building on Pitt and Fifth Streets next month.

According to Frank Harrington, local manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, 24 new switchboard positions, four long distance information positions plus related equipment will go into the new building. These installations will represent an expenditure of approximately $400,000 and are expected to be placed in service during the early part of next summer.

The new long distance facilities will represent an increase of four in the number of toll switchboard positions serving the Greenville area. According to Harrington, the additional positions will enable the telephone company to provide faster, and more efficient service due to the greater capacity efficiency of the new facilities.

When the new equipment is placed in service, the long distance facilities in the existing building

Bus Strike Is Cutting Traffic In N. C. Cities

RALEIGH (AP)—Bus travelers in many sections faced continued frustrations today as a strike of Carolina Coach Co. drivers went into its fourth day.

Sharp curtailment of bus traffic was reported in Raleigh and Durham, two cities served by Carolina Coach. The company has made no effort to operate its buses since the strike began last Thursday midnight.

The drivers represented by the Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (AFL-CIO) went off the job when negotiations failed on pay increases.

Charles C. McCaffrey, national vice president of the union, said the company had offered $7.50 per 100 miles driven by each employee. "That figure would be acceptable on a one-year contract, but not on a two-year contract," he said. A company spokesman had stated that the company offered a "substantial" pay increase which included retirement and disability benefits. A demand by the union for overtime pay also reportedly was an issue.

McCaffrey said any effort by the company to operate or lease its buses would be met by picket lines, which have not been set up thus far.

The strike left much of north-eastern North Carolina without bus service, and lengthy detours over other lines were necessary to reach other points. Reports from Durham said some travelers there were taking to the trains for the first time in their lives.

The Raleigh union bus terminal reported that its bus traffic took a 65 per cent drop when Carolina Coach, a part of the National Trailways bus system, stopped operations. The company operated about 75 of the some 125 daily schedules through the Raleigh station.

Manager M. E. Newton said three of the terminal's 26 baggage and ticket workers have been laid off, while daily hours have been reduced for others.

He said most travelers took the inconveniences in stride. Only a handful of passengers and bus shipments were stranded by the strike, he explained.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

Farmers Least Inclined To Recurring Headaches

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Medical students, a survey shows, are more apt to have recurring headaches than any other occupational group. And farmers are the least susceptible.

This was reported today by a Louisiana doctor in describing one of the most extensive surveys ever made of the causes and distribution of one of mankind's most prevalent disorders. The study showed that "over 60 per cent of the general population have headaches."

And the survey, involving nearly 5,000 persons, showed also that your chances of having recurring headaches are strongest if you are (1) a woman; (2) under 20 years of age; and (3) unmarried.

People who are divorced or separated from their spouses are more apt to have them than happily married folks.

People with no education at all are least apt to be sufferers among groups having varying degrees of education.

Dr. Henry Ogden of Louisiana State University School of Medicine gave results of the study in a scientific exhibit at the opening of the 50th anniversary meeting of the Southern Medical Assn.

Dr. Ogden said freshman and senior medical school students were questioned to get data on the headaches of college students, and it was found that more than 80 per cent of them were victims, topping even business executives, of whom 77 per cent are sufferers.

In subsequent order on the list: professional people (70 per cent), housewives (69); clerks (68); salesmen (58); manual laborers (55); and farmers (50).

Democratic campaigners to change the attitude of the voters. But there is also room for comfort, the normal Democratic majorities were returned for practically every candidate seeking State office, and control of the General Assembly was retained by large majorities. As this is written and the returns are being canvassed it appears that the Republicans gained five seats in the lower House of the General Assembly and probably have achieved majorities which will give them two additional State Senate seats. They will still be heavily outnumbered.

What is the course for the future? Well, the tide of votes took huge segments of the Piedmont and the West into the Republican party on a national basis. The first objective, say some party leaders, will be to get these folks back into the habit of voting the straight Democratic ticket, that is both for National and State nominees. A lot depends, of course, on the nominees of the Democratic party for President and Vice-President and the platform declarations, or the views of the candidates themselves on touchy subjects. If the National party adopts ideas which are bitterly opposed by citizens of North Carolina accustomed to voting the Democratic ticket, that will make the task of the State Democratic organization much tougher.

Hungarian Says War With Russia Is Lost, But Revolution Not Defeated

Editor's Note—Endre Marton, Associated Press resident correspondent in Budapest, assesses in the following story the result of Hungary's historic uprising. A Hungarian national, Marton was released last August after 18 months in prison on a Communist charge of "espionage."

By ENDRE MARTON
BUDAPEST (AP) — The Soviet-Hungarian war comes slowly to its end. The modern military might of a big power has crushed the resistance of 10 million Hungarians equipped with obsolete weapons.

The war has been lost. But the revolution is not defeated.

The present government of Premier János Kádár is only too anxious to emphasize that it has nothing in common with Stalinism and its Hungarian representative, Matyas Rakosi (now believed to be in Russia).

Can the government persuade Hungarians to believe this? The answer is no.

Kádár has made desperate efforts to persuade other politicians — non-Communists as well as Communists — to join his "revolutionary" government. He has had no success so far.

Kádár's Cabinet consists of only six members. It is snubbed by everyone, including Communists and politicians who had been considered most loyal fellow travelers in the past.

There is one reason. Kádár returned "riding a Russian tank," and virtually no one can forgive this.

Neither Kádár nor the half-dozen Communist politicians forming his puppet government are anti-Stalinists although Kádár spent about four years in Rakosi's jail.

When I came out of prison in August and was briefed on the political situation in Hungary, journalists and other well-informed persons told me that Kádár — in spite of imprisonment — remained hostile to every trend of "liberalism."

Kádár became first secretary of the Communist party when Erno Geroe was expelled by the fury of the masses Oct. 25, two days after the revolution began.

Kádár also was a minister of state in Premier Imre Nagy's government until Nov. 1 when, as he said, he and other members of his present Cabinet could not tolerate increasing signs of "white terror."

Nagy and his spokesmen never admitted that Kádár and his adherents defected.

Kádár not only is anxious to stress that his government has nothing in common with the Hungarian version of Stalinism, but he has proclaimed some concessions. Most of these already had been granted by Nagy.

The Russian red star the Rakosi regime adopted in 1949 will be replaced by the traditional Kossuth coat of arms. The Hungarian army will get new uniforms replacing the Russian type. March 15, anniversary of the 1848 revolution against the Hapsburgs, again will be a national holiday. Russian is no longer a compulsory language in the schools.

These would have been wonderful concessions a month ago. They certainly will not satisfy this nation today.

Kádár has asked politicians to join him and form a government "on a wide democratic basis." But this does not answer the question whether he will tolerate other political parties as such.

Three other parties—the Smallholders, the Social Democrats and the National Peasants—were functioning during the three days of freedom before the Russian attacks Nov. 4.

The parties even published their own newspapers. All this vanished when hundreds of Russian tanks began to shell this capital city for the second time in two weeks.

Stock Holders Will See Bumper Dividend Crop

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Stock owners trying to puzzle out what's happening in the post-election market at least can take cheer today from the prospects for a bumper crop of dividends.

A record flow of cash to the share owners so far this year is reported today by the New York Stock Exchange's monthly magazine. The Exchange tallies nearly six billion dollars paid out in the first nine months to holders of common stocks listed on the big board. This is 17.7 per cent more than in the same period last year.

Analysts of the corporate scene are betting that the total will be swelled further by year-end extras, no matter how hesitant the market may be as it eyes the world's trouble spots.

They also see the small investor still adding to his holdings, with his odd-lot purchases topping his sales. Some Wall Street observers predict that 1955 and 1956 together will see odd-lot purchases exceeding sales by more than 20 million shares.

An odd-lot purchase is for any number of shares from 1 to 99. A round-lot is the established unit of trading, 100 shares. It is in the ranks of the odd-lot trader that the small investor is usually found — and his numbers have been growing since the war.

The Exchange takes a look at each breed of trader as revealed in a study of stock transactions on two days considered typical.

The composite odd-lotter turns out to be a man about 43, making $8,700 a year, and purchasing 25 shares of stocks averaging $47 a share — or a total cost of $1,175. Men outnumber women, seven to three, although more women buy odd lots than round lots.

The composite round-lotter is 50 years old, making $16,500 a year. For his 100 share purchase he chooses stocks averaging around $34.50 a share, making the round lot cost him $3,450. Round-lot traders are more prone to buy on margin.

If cash income is the object of either type of buyer, 1956 has been a good year, despite the much discussed drop in yields of blue chips.

The Exchange notes that of 1,079 common stock issues listed on the big board, 573 have paid higher dividends this year than last.

321 have maintained the previous rate, and only 67 paid less, while 118 paid nothing.

The top cash distributors, in dollar volume, were the utilities with a total of more than one billion dollars, petroleum and natural gas with a little less than one billion outlay, and the chemical group with more than one half billion.

The largest numbers of non-dividend payers were 13 automotive common stocks and 12 railroad and rail equipment issues.

Rescued Youth Lost In Sewers

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Firemen and police combined efforts yesterday to rescue an 11-year-old boy who became lost in a maze of underground storm sewers.

Ronald Gene Sprouse told officers he wandered into a sewer outlet in southwest Oklahoma City and darkness caught him inside.

Searchers pried off manhole covers in the vicinity and located the lad by yelling into the sewers.

Difficult Questions On Foreign Aid Await Solons

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of President Eisenhower's biggest problems in 1957 will be foreign aid. How much and for whom? The turmoil in Eastern Europe and the Middle East has heads spinning here.

Congress, increasingly critical, this year chopped a billion dollars off the foreign aid Eisenhower asked. What it does next year depends on the whole uncertain world picture.

It is perhaps the most confused picture faced by an American president since the aid program began.

Since July 1, 1945, this government has shovelled out more than $1 billion dollars, over 14½ billions of it military.

The purpose under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower has been plain enough: to bolster allies, win friends, and help the neutrals and underdeveloped countries for whom the Communists are bidding hard.

But this year the critical mood in Congress showed itself in several ways:

1. Besides cutting a billion dollars off the $4,759,975,000 Eisenhower asked, Congress banned use of the new funds for military aid to Yugoslavia, although aid funds allotted from previous years still could be used.

SCIENTIST—Dr. Harry Wexler, 45, is the chief scientist for the U. S. International Geophysical Year Program to be undertaken in the Antarctic regions during 1957-58.

2. A Senate committee, a House committee and a special committee appointed by Eisenhower are all now busy investigating foreign aid and will be for months.

Both Truman and Eisenhower thought it money well spent to help Yugoslavia which, although still Communist, broke away from Russian control. Congress choked on the idea but still voted economic and military aid until this year.

Then it said no new military aid. Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.), Senate Republican leader, led this fight. He argued that aid to a Communist dictatorship is "disruptive to our whole foreign policy."

Eisenhower thought otherwise. He, like Truman, felt that helping one satellite which broke with Moscow might encourage others to do the same. He still thinks so. And Congress may have to wrestle with this idea all over again.

On Oct. 24, after Poland appeared to have broken at least a little away from Moscow, Eisenhower indicated American readiness to help the Poles or any other satellite people who asserted independence of Moscow and wanted American aid. Right now it isn't clear just how much of a break Poland made.

For a while it also seemed the Hungarians had not only cut loose from Moscow but had overthrown their Communist masters. Then the Russians moved in and slaughtered them. But before this happened Eisenhower offered the Hungarians 20 million dollars in food and other supplies.

Eisenhower has other problems on his hands. For example: The Middle East and Africa—which have received over four billion dollars in American help—are inflamed at the British-French-Israeli invasions of Egypt. Russia is trying to move in as the Arab's friend and benefactor.

It will take months to find out whether more American help in the Middle East will be needed or wasted. By then the Russians may have a firm foothold there.

Meanwhile, the French-British split with this country—their attack on Egypt—may encourage American isolationists to demand an end to aid for them and everybody else. It seems unlikely Congress will listen to that.

Olympians Raise National Banner

MELBOURNE (AP)—The traditional flag of Hungary flew over the entrance of the Olympic village today after the head of the Hungarian squad arrived in Australia and "requested" it be substituted for the Communist banner.

Philip Miskin, commandant of the village where the competing athletes are quartered, said the change was made after a phone call from the Hungarian chief delegation after his arrival in Australia (Northern Australia) to the acting head of the Hungarian delegation now in Melbourne.

Presumably, the order came as a result of the new Communist regime's concession in Budapest that henceforth the official flag of Hungary would be the traditional red, white and green banner with the Kossuth crest.

The change may have cleared the way for Hungarian participation in the games, which began Nov. 22. The athletes here, many of whom fought as rebels against Russian troops, had vowed yesterday that they would not compete under the Hungarian Communist emblem.

Shipping Tie-Up To Greet Visitor

HONOLULU (AP)—Non military shipping may be tied up here beginning Nov. 27 when Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) opens a Senate subcommittee hearing on communism in Hawaii.

"When Eastland comes down here," said longshore leader Harry Bridges in a speech Saturday night, "we plan a welcome for him. We will tell him what we think of him and we won't be working when he's here."

Bridges charged Eastland was out to wreck the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union which Bridges heads.

Founder Of Big Sinclair Oil Co. Dies Of Illness

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Harry P. Sinclair, who gave up a pharmacist's job for the more exciting life of oil prospector and later founded the Sinclair Oil Co., is dead at 80.

He died Saturday at his Flintridge home after an illness of four months.

Sinclair started on a shoeing and was an oil millionaire before he was 35. He was a central figure in the Teapot Dome scandal of President Harding's administration.

In 1949 at the age of 72 he retired from active management of the Sinclair Company and five years later as board chairman.

Sinclair was born at Wheeling, W. Va.—July 16, 1876; was educated in the public schools at Independence, Kan., and took a pharmacy course at the University of Kansas.

He left the pharmacy profession to go prospecting, first in Kansas and then in Oklahoma. He became a lease broker and then an independent producer. In 1916 he established offices in New York City.

In 1927 and 1928 Sinclair was tried on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in the leasing of Teapot Dome, a U. S. Navy oil reserve in Wyoming. He was acquitted on this charge but did spend 6½ months in the District of Columbia jail in 1929 for contempt of court and contempt of the United States Senate.

This failed to stop his career. In 1937 he played a major role in organizing the present Richfield Oil Corp. and took over as chairman of the board of directors, a post he held until his retirement from Sinclair.

Sinclair leaves his widow Elizabeth, a son, Harry P. Sinclair Jr., Beverly Hills, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. David K'divani, Los Angeles.

Curtain Rises On Comedy Tonight

"My Sister Ellen," the Broadway and Hollywood comedy, is being presented by the Greenville Jaycees tonight and tomorrow night at 8:00 p.m. at McGinnis Auditorium with a truly promising all local talent cast.

Assuming leading roles are Lois Garren, Lucia Hutchinson, and Louie L'Abate. In major supporting roles are Warren Aldridge, Gay Gnagay, "Kip" West, Claude Taylor, Faye Leggett, Violet Piet, Tom Marshall, Luck Heller, Mike Luskin, Tom Shaw, Bob Vetter, Miriam Vetter, Ken Harris, and Jim Kohler.

Warren Aldridge is active in many civic enterprises in Greenville and plays the role of the villain roles portrayed at the UNC "Playhouse."

"Kip" West has had much dramatic experience. He has appeared with the Little Theatre in Raleigh and has taught dramatics and speech in Greenville, Asheville and Wilmington. He has directed and produced summer theatre in Wilmington.

Faye Leggett is one of the few really native Greenvilleans in the entire cast. Faye is portraying a woman of doubtful reputation, and her appearances are some of the brightest spots of the play.

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A subscriber of the Ashland, Ky., Independent complained last week the paper should pay the towing charge for his automobile.

The man said his paper boy failed to leave him the Wednesday edition and he didn't see the notice that the city would clean the street in front of his home that night and tow away parked cars.

The paper refused to pay the $3 bill, saying the city didn't depend upon the newspaper notices about street-cleaning schedules.

Died Trying To Save His Dog

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Lonnie Elsterman, 34, died Saturday night to save his dog.

Patrolman Dallas Bowden said Elsterman ran in front of a bus that was bearing down on his pet. He chased the dog to safety but failed to get away himself.

Otto John's Trial For Treason Begins Today

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Otto John, West Germany's former intelligence chief who defected to the Communists and then fled back to the West, went on trial for treason today.

The 47-year-old John, sometimes called the "Man With the Thousand Secrets," was brought into the Supreme Court after nearly a year in prison.

The opening day of the trial was devoted largely to reading of the lengthy charges. With about 100 witnesses to be heard, the trial before five red-robed judges was expected to last a month.

Since West Germany has no death penalty, life imprisonment is the maximum fate, the double turncoat faces. But few West Germans expected such a severe penalty if John were convicted.

John is accused of baring state secrets and denouncing agents of his intelligence office to the Soviets after he crossed into East Berlin on the night of July 20, 1954. He returned 17 months later with the help of a Danish newspaper correspondent and claimed he was drugged and abducted to the East.

John was head of the Federal Office for the Protection of the Constitution, a domestic intelligence agency which spent two million dollars a year to combat Communist and neo-Nazi subversive activities.

The biggest question facing the court was what motivated John on business in the United States for the immediate future. Many expansion plans that have been made will be held up; while radical stock market movements may be expected. Unemployment could become prevalent in certain industries, although the airplanes, oils, and steels may benefit from this unfortunate situation. It seems as if the temptation will be for most of us to take a "do nothing" attitude.

Knowing Europe as I well do, there is one bright side to the picture. This is that it might miraculously bring Europe together and make the United Nations a real force for good. It might bring about an effective agreement as to the H-Bomb and accomplish many other good things which otherwise would not be settled for years. Therefore, like every other cloud it has a "silver lining."

Fracture Failed Stop Wedding

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A broken leg failed to postpone the wedding of photographer Frank Tanner, 50. He broke his leg last Thursday but refused to call off the wedding. So Superior Judge Elmer Doyle performed the ceremony yesterday in Tanner's room at St. Joseph's hospital.

About 30 friends signed Tanner's cast instead of a guest book. The bride, the former Erna Pfaff, 48, returned to her Los Angeles home. Tanner, stayed in his hospital bed.

Control Your Financial Future

... with TODAY'S TOP DOLLAR VALUE IN LIFE INSURANCE PROTECTION!

Now . . . fewer dollars buy more protection for your family and more security for you than ever before! Security Life's new "Top-Protection-Per-Dollar" Whole Life Policy costs so little that you can afford more coverage. Premiums are amazingly low.

See how little you pay! At age 25, for example, the annual premium is only $13.57 for each thousand dollars of insurance. That's dollars less than you would pay for the usual Whole Life Policies. It's only pennies more per month than renewable-term premiums.

How can we do it? There are three reasons for the new low premiums of this special Whole Life Policy. (1) It's non-participating. Instead of waiting for dividends to reduce premiums, you pay less from the start. (2) Risks are selected carefully from ages 10 to 65. (3) Policies are written in amounts of $15,000 or more which reduces selling and bookkeeping costs. All these savings are passed along to you.

Get all the facts! Ask your local Security Life and Trust Company Representative about all the attractive features of this "Top-Protection-Per-Dollar Policy."

Remember, Security Life and Trust Company, organized in 1920, is fast approaching the billion dollar-insurance-in-force mark. You can be sure when you "Face the Future with Security!"

Finnegan Says Adlai Proposals Will Be Adopted

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Adlai Stevenson's campaign manager predicts that many of the defeated Democratic presidential candidate's suggestions during the recent campaign will become law.

James A. Finnegan said in an interview that he believes Stevenson's campaign "established a blueprint" for the solution of many national and international issues. Among the candidate's proposals that Finnegan said he expects to see adopted are those dealing with the aged, health, natural resources, H-bomb tests and the draft.

Finnegan, resting at his home here before taking a vacation, also said that party leaders were "contented for defeat" in the last few weeks before the election, "especially the last week before the election."

He said developments in the Middle East and Europe enhanced President Eisenhower's chances for re-election.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Aircraft, steel and copper prices led the stock market to a small advance early this afternoon.

Key stocks went ahead from fractions to around a point. But trading was dull due to the Veterans Day semiholiday. Banks were closed but security exchanges were open.

Aircraft were heavily traded compared with the rest of the list. Brokers said the outlook for continued col war spending and reports of tests by General Dynamics of a rocket-powered escape seat for jet pilots as part of a multimillion-dollar Air Force program spurred interest.

Steel was up on renewed prospects of booming business while copper got a lift from news of a price rise to United Kingdom consumers.

General Dynamics and Douglas Aircraft gained well over a point while Boeing and Republic rose around a point.

Aviation and Lockheed were up major fractions. But Glenn L. Martin, which hit a new high Friday then closed off a fraction, dropped a point.

Anaconda, Kennecott Copper and American Smelting were all up around a point or so. Phelps Dodge rose a fraction.

Oils with big interests in the Middle East fluctuated uncertainly. Royal Dutch was slightly ahead. Gulf Oil was firm. Sinclair Co. fell around a point. Sinclair and Standard Oil (New Jersey) nudged up.

Most leading rails were steady but Santa Fe dropped a bit.

Chrysler was up a fraction. Other leading motors mainly unchanged.

Chemicals were spotty. American Cyanamid and Dow showed gains while Du Pont, Union Carbide and Air Reduction lost some ground.

U.S. Gypsum dropped around a point. Westinghouse and American Tobacco were up slightly.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $179.10 with the industrials up 20 cents, the rails up 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

N.C. Federation Of Labor Again To Study Merge

CHARLOTTE — Members of the State Federation of Labor, AFL group which rejected merger on the state level with the CIO last August, will be called together to reconsider their decision at a special state convention here Jan. 26.

The tentative date was set here yesterday by the state AFL's executive board, which voted 9-0 for approval of the merger.

CIO members already have okayed the proposal, voting at the simultaneous convention of the two labor groups in Durham in August.

After the AFL group had rejected the first plan, a special AFL committee was named to prepare a new one. The committee finished its work at Durham Nov. 3 and the new merger proposal was approved in Washington last Tuesday by George Meany, AFL-CIO national president.

Dozen Klansmen Conduct 'Rally'

LINCOLN, N.C. — About a dozen Ku Klux Klansmen held a public rally and cross-burning here Saturday night, and some 400 persons who attended heard a robed speaker say public schools in the state will not be desegregated.

It was the fourth Klan meeting in the state in four weeks. Other recent meetings have been held near Hamlet, Concord, and Shandon in Robeson County.

The Klansmen were robed, but unmasked, in accordance with state law.

Wreath Laid At Tomb Unknown Soldier Today

WASHINGTON — A presidential wreath was laid at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery yesterday as the nation's capital observed Veterans Day.

Veterans Administrator Harvey V. Higley represented President Eisenhower at the ceremony. More than 2,000 persons bowed their heads in silent reverence during the sounding of "Taps."

Film star James Stewart, principal speaker at the tomb, called the ceremony a double tribute, to those who died and to those "who returned to serve their country again."

"No one desires lasting peace more than those who know war," added Stewart, a World War II bomber pilot and an Air Force reserve colonel.

The Defense Department announced, meantime, that the World War I shrine will be expanded to honor an unknown soldier each from World War I and the Korean War. Tentative plans have been drawn to complete the change by Memorial Day 1958.

In France last night, 61-year-old Hartley Edwards of Denison, Tex., blew taps for his fallen World War I comrade at the tomb of France's unknown soldier.

About 500 American veterans and an honor guard of French soldiers, sailors and sailors stood at attention while Edwards played at the annual Armistice Day tribute of Americans living in Paris.

The march up the floodlit Champs Elysees at the head of the American Legionnaires and a 30-piece U.S. Army band was the fulfillment of a long wish for Edwards to return to France and play his old World War I bugle.

Earlier in the afternoon, Edwards also played taps at the cemetery at Compiegne.

In Birmingham, Ala., Gen. Mark Clark received the distinguished National Veterans Award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars for giving generously of his time in urging a strong military establishment for defense against Communist aggression. The retired general is now president of The Citadel in South Carolina.

In Lakeland, Fla., the Medal of Honor Winners Society held its first national convention.

To Open Letter Ahead Of Time

SAN FRANCISCO — One of San Francisco's many monuments is to be torn down today and opened up, and a letter sealed in granite in 1925 by a bitter old man will be read.

In 1918 Martin Hanson, an eccentric real estate dealer, lost a battle to keep the city from cutting off some of his property with a street project.

By 1925 he was so furious that he had erected a seven-foot granite monument on a small site near Market Street near Corbett Avenue. He had a plaque set in the shaft which reads:

"A measure of progress. This monument is erected to peace and justice.

"1918 to 1958, a half step in history. What will 50 years bring to mankind?"

"Be just and fear not. Do right, whether it pays or not.

"Immured is a letter to Elva to be delivered Nov. 11, 1963."

Elva, in 1925, was Elva Standen, then 6 years old and according to Hanson the only person in the world who sympathized with him.

Today, with another project in the works to widen Market Street, the monument is being removed and opened 12 years early.

Elva will be there. She's now Mrs. Fred Rust of Orinda, Calif.

Last Rites Held For Ashir G. McLawhorn

Mr. Ashir G. McLawhorn, 69, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rufus D. Cherry, in Elizabeth City Saturday morning at one o'clock. He had been in failing health for the past year but death was unexpected. Funeral services were conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Monday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. John P. Giff, Christian minister of Ayden, assisted by the Rev. Rashie Kennedy, pastor of the Grace Free Will Baptist Church. Burial was in the Ayden Cemetery.

Mr. McLawhorn, son of the late Joseph and Nancy Harrington McLawhorn, was born and reared near Ayden and attended the Ayden Schools. He was married to Dora Robinson of Belvoir in 1910 and they lived in Ayden until 1936 when they came to Greenville. He was a member of the Ayden Christian Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dora Robinson McLawhorn, three daughters, Mrs. Rufus D. Cherry of Elizabeth City, Mrs. Donald L. Cuthrell of Las Vegas, Nev., and Mrs. J. B. Venters of Greenville; six grandchildren; three brothers, Jake McLawhorn of Richmond, Va., Hubert L. and J. Kitchen McLawhorn of Norfolk, Va.; and two sisters, Mrs. W. B. Phillips Sr. of Ayden and Mrs. Hubert Jackson of near Griffin.

Funeral services will be held at the Elizabeth City Baptist Church Tuesday at 3 p.m. Rev. E. S. Coates, Presbyterian minister of Farmville, and Rev. H. L. Davis, Methodist minister of Elizabeth City, will officiate. Burial will be in the Elizabeth City cemetery.

Mrs. Ewell was the widow of Steven Edward Ewell. She was active in the Elizabeth City Baptist Church and taught the Women's Bible Class for more than 25 years.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. George E. Bowdoin of Elkhart, Ind., and one son, Paul K. Ewell of Farmville.

Women Extend Numerical Lead

WASHINGTON — Women have more than doubled their numerical lead over men in this country in the last six years.

The Census Bureau estimated yesterday that females now outnumber males by 1,381,000, compared with 600,000 in 1950. The proportion of men has been dropping steadily since 1910, the bureau said.

It gave two principal reasons—the mortality rate for men is higher, and as immigration declines there are more women than men coming to this country to live.
