Miss Ballance, Mr. Carraway Pledge Vows

In a candlelight ceremony at Immanuel Baptist Church, Miss Bernadine Ballance became the bride of Sidney Carraway Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The Rev. Iby B. Jackson officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ballance of Greenville and her husband is the son of A. C. Carraway of Farmville and the late Mrs. Carraway.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Anna Montgomery, organist, and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, soloist, who rendered "Oh Promise Me" by De-Koven, "I Love Thee" by Grieg, and "Oh Perfect Love" by Barnby.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white imported gossamer nylon tulle and rosepoint chantilly lace over lustrous bridal satin. It was fashioned with a long sleeved pointed bodice and scalloped picturesque neckline enhanced by delicate tracings of seed pearls and opalescent sequins. The voluminous skirt, paneled back and front in Chantilly lace, extended into a chapel train.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was draped to a scalloped lace cap accented with pearl and sequins. She carried a traditional wedding bouquet of lilacs-of-the-valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Judy Ballance, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. James M. Smith, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor.

Both attendants wore dresses in ballerina length of peacock blue taffeta, fashioned with molded elongated torsos and full, bell-shaped skirts. Taffeta panels attached at the shoulders and falling to the hemline gave back interest. They wore halo hats and carried arm bouquets of better time roses with matching ribbon.

A. C. Carraway served his son as best man. Ushers were Charles and Douglas Ballance, brothers of the bride. Dr. B. L. Carraway, Dr. Weldon and John Carraway of Burgaw, brothers of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ballance wore a street length dress of Williamsburg blue crepe. Her hat was of matching velvet and her accessories were Navy blue. She wore a purple orchid.

Mrs. James Benton, sister of the bridegroom, wore a beige suit with taupe accessories and a purple orchid.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple left on a wedding trip to Fontana Village in Western North Carolina. For travel the bride wore an imported tweed suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Cake Cutting
Saturday night, immediately following the Carraway-Ballance rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Smith entertained the families and friends of the bridal couple at a cake cutting.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Smith and the honorees.

The house was decorated with fall flowers, using pink and white as the predominating colors. The bride's table was covered by an imported cutwork cloth and held a centerpiece flanked on either side by silver candelabra with pink tapers.

The wedding cake was served by Mrs. P. N. Sandy, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Ballance, mother of the bridegroom, served fruit punch at the other end of the table. Nuts, mints and cheese straws were also served. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Franklin Brown, Mrs. W. G. Pollard, Mrs. Charles May and Miss Linda Whichard. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Brown.

Dinner Party
Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Pollard entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at dinner Saturday night at the Pollard home, 402 Oak Street.

Guests were served tomato juice cocktails upon arrival. The remainder of the three course dinner was served in the dining room.

The bride's table, covered with a cutwork linen cloth, was centered with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums flanked by pink tapers.

Auxiliary tables were centered with pink tapers tied with matching net and ribbons. Pink and yellow chrysanthemums were used in arrangements throughout the house. The bride was presented a corsage of pink carnations and an electric percolator by her hostesses. Twenty-four guests attended.

Mrs. Shonts felicitated the Greenville club for its progressive activity and said she looked forward with interest to attending the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs in Greenville May 8-11.

Mrs. Moya Dail sang Norden's "A Simple Grace," with Mrs. Howard C. Bodkin as accompanist at the piano for the invocation. Mrs. Estelle Striplin recited the history of the Hymn of the Month, "O Worship the King," and the group sang it.

The Woodwin Trio—Mr. Herbert Carter, Mr. Edmund Durham and Mr. Lewis Danfelt—played "Divertiments" by Mozart. Chairman Stanley M. Walter announced that the Grass Roots Opera Company will present "The Secret Marriage" at McGinnis auditorium on East Carolina College campus January 21, matinee and

To Honor Gold Star Mothers

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet on Thursday evening, at 8:00 o'clock with Mrs. W. D. Barbre, 2415 E. Fifth Street, with Mrs. Sam Whitehurst as co-chairman.

Gold Star Mothers will be special guests and the Rev. Robert Crawford will be the speaker.

Christmas shopping is now being done by the members of the Auxiliary in order that sick and disabled war veterans in the Veterans Hospitals will be able to do theirs in December, according to Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, president of the Greenville Unit.

Auxiliary Departments in every state are accumulating huge assortments of gift articles with which to stock the Christmas gift shops which they will operate in the Veterans Hospitals in December.

At these shops everything will be free to the veterans, and Auxiliary volunteer hospital workers will help them select gifts for their families, then wrap and mail the gifts for them. The local Auxiliary Unit has contributed to the gift shops which the Department of North Carolina will operate at Oteen-Swannanoa, Durham, Fayetteville and Solisbury hospitals.

Those who have not turned in their gifts for this worthy cause are urged to bring them to the meeting on Thursday evening.

Why More New Jobs Are Necessary

Two weak spots in a generally impressive report on increased employment in manufacturing in North Carolina during the past year point to the necessity for intensified industrialization efforts in the East.

Tobacco processing plants, though highly seasonal in their operations, provide an important part of the annual income for workers in many communities in the eastern part of the state. Lumbering, while it is not as seasonal as tobacco processing, likewise provides an important part of income in some communities.

In this area where tobacco processing plants and lumbering provide jobs for thousands of people, it is important to note that employment in these two industries showed a decline from September of last year while total manufacturing employment in the state showed a healthy increase.

According to the North Carolina Department of Labor there were 25,000 more people employed in manufacturing plants in the state in September than during the same month a year ago. At the same time, these statistics indicated employment in tobacco stemmeries and redrying plants in September was down 2,700 from the same month last year. The lumbering industry showed a decline of 500 employes in comparing statistics for the two months.

With a smaller crop of tobacco this year than last, it was only natural to expect that the number of people required in stemmeries and redrying plants would be less. Following the same line of reasoning, we must assume that another cut in tobacco acreage for the 1957 crop will mean fewer people will be required in tobacco processing plants next fall.

It should be realized therefore that continued reductions in tobacco acreage will not affect the farm income alone in this part of the state. It will in a very real sense affect the income of people who have found employment even though it has been seasonal—in tobacco processing plants during the years of heavy tobacco production. It will affect the income of people who have been taken from urban communities as day laborers for housing bumper tobacco crops in past years.

There is little reason to assume that further reductions in tobacco production will not be necessary next year and perhaps several years following. We must therefore assume that for the next few years at least fewer people will be required for jobs in the tobacco fields during harvest season and in tobacco processing plants after tobacco sales begin.

If the economy of the section is not to suffer in the face of these changing circumstances, new jobs must be created for these people. Otherwise they will migrate to other areas in search of employment or become burdens on unemployment or welfare rolls.

These new jobs must be created either by attracting industry from other areas or by creating new home grown industries in individual communities. In any event it is apparent that Eastern North Carolina must intensify its efforts to create new jobs for its people. Otherwise it will find itself facing a declining economic situation while the rest of the nation reaches new heights in economic development.

Our College-Goers Can Be Further Increased

Pitt County has every right to be proud of the fact that of the 100 counties in North Carolina it ranks first in the percentage of its white high school graduates who enter college.

The county can also be proud of the fact that it ranks second among the 100 counties in the percentage of its total number of high school graduates, whites and Negro, who enter college.

There is a big reason why Pitt has a higher percentage of its white high school graduates entering college than any other county in the state. That reason is the location of East Carolina College in the heart of the county. Because the college is here, it affords a college education for many Pitt youngsters who otherwise would find it economically impossible to go to college.

But there must be other reasons for the high percentage of Pitt high school graduates entering colleges, as evidenced by the fact that 36.1 per cent of the Negro high school graduates from Pitt enter college, and there is no Negro college within commuting distance.

Adults in Pitt County have played a major part in creating among its youngsters the desire for a college education and a determination to acquire one. Somewhere along the line—at home or in public schools or both—youngsters have been encouraged to further their formal education after receiving their high school diplomas.

On 1955, according to the State Department of Public Instruction, 44.6 per cent of the high school graduates from Pitt County entered college. Among graduates of white high schools the percentage was 48.1 and among graduates of Negro high schools the percentage was 36.1.

While these figures are considerably above the average for North Carolina as a whole—32.3 per cent of high school graduates in 1955 entered college—there is room for improvement. There are still 55.4 percent of Pitt's high school graduates who never get to college in the first place, and a far higher percentage who for various reasons never complete their college education.

They're Talking How To Save State Wealth

More than a thousand people gather in Raleigh this week to discuss North Carolina's important problem of guarding valuable woodland against costly fires and other forms of destruction.

The meeting will also consider important aspects of preserving and restoring timberland in the state, long exploited and neglected.

Timber has become increasingly important to North Carolina farmers in recent years. Extensive reforestation programs have been undertaken in an effort to make up for the decades in which billions of board feet of timber was cut without thought for the future.

The reforestation program has made appreciable progress in recent years, but the ever present hazard of fire in a stand of timber has dealt the program costly setbacks. Each year literally thousands of acres of timber in North Carolina are wiped out or heavily damaged by fires. And most of these fires are caused by carelessness of motorists, campers, hunters and farmers themselves.

Out of the meeting in Raleigh there may emerge a program of sufficient force to impress upon the people of North Carolina the importance of protecting woodland from fires. Such a program is needed in the state.

New License Plates Awaiting Tar Heels

A real Slim Jim came out in 1927 when motorists got a tag measuring a scant four and a half inches high. It was 15 inches long, yet had North Carolina abbreviated.

But the 1956 plates and subsequent issues are stabilized at one size, and one size only. And for good reason, Miss Ingram points out.

Several years ago auto builders approached motor vehicle administrators with a unique idea. "Make us," they said, "a uniform size license plate, and we'll build a receptacle or enclosure recess within the body of the car to hold it."

The states cooperated. This year for the first time in motor-vehicle history every state has issued—or will issue—a standard size plate measuring 6 by 12 inches. North Carolina, as a matter of fact, was a step ahead of other or not everyone is affected (or maybe it should be afflicted) thusly, but I am.

"Buzz, buzz, buzz," whispered friend hair butcher. "No, no," said I. "I can't use anything like that. It's got to be profitable, you know." Evidently he didn't know though because he insisted I print it. "It'll make me real happy," he said. He won't be made "real happy" today.

Greenville is an exciting town for a reporter who covers the police beat. "Everything that happens in a city like New York happens here—just more of it happens there," said a man in the know the other day.

I'm inclined to believe him, to, after hearing a friend tell this story: "A man went into a local furniture store, purchased a few goods and gave the storekeeper a check in payment. He accepted the check and the purchaser loaded up his furniture and left.

Shortly thereafter the purchaser returned and asked to see the check he had just written. The furniture man obligingly handed it over, whereupon the man tore it into little pieces, stuck them in his pocket and took a powder."

Notebook On Life

An Unfrustrated Bald Man

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Ever hear of a bald man who didn't feel frustrated?

Well, meet Yul Brynner, the actor.

For five years his shaven pate has been a gleaming symbol of glamor to millions of women.

It also has become a shining symbol of hope to millions of bald men who'd like to believe they can still say hello to romance even though they've had to say goodby to their hair.

Brynner has cut his hair with a razor so long he now takes his baldness for granted.

"It's quite a prop," he said. "I find it quite comfortable."

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BACK WHERE WE BELONG

One of the great stories of the Bible—or of all literature for that matter—is the story of the prodigal son. And one of the great statements of that story is "When he came to himself, he said, I will arise and go to my father."

"When he came to himself." What does this mean? Was the man crazy? Worse than that—he had actually deserted himself. His real self had moved out of his body. He was a human being without a personality. He was therefore fittingly employed when he was eating husks with the swine. It was a crying shame that a man should be there, but there he was. He had gone out of himself, "the poor fellow chewing on corob pods was one with the lower animals.

But he didn't belong there and he knew it. He had a father and a home which he had deserted. He was still loved, although he had long since ceased to be worthy of love. He had cast his responsibility with the warm love the Father so wants to give him. He becomes a man again when he says, "I will arise and go to my Father." And when he so decides, the Father rushes to meet him with assurance of His love.

Many bald men have to fight down a suppressed desire to grow a beard or moustache. Not Yul.

"I've never had a suppressed desire," he said flatly.

Brynner, whose hobby is the study of philosophy—he is studying for a doctorate degree in it—doesn't believe in being frustrated.

Son of a gypsy mother and a mining engineer who was part Mongolian, he has the traits of both East and West in his temperament—a quicksilver enthusiasm, a grave stoicism.

Raised in Peiping and Paris, he became first a ballad singer—sort of a subdued Gallic Elvis

Presley, complete with guitar—then a circus acrobat, a touring actor, and finally a television director.

He still regards himself as a director first, an actor second.

"Most people don't seem to know that I've directed more than 1,000 TV programs," he said, "ranging from mystery thrillers to cooking shows."

His most painful TV memory: The time he put on "The Light that Failed" on a program sponsored by a light bulb manufacturer.

He feels he has won one distinction during his brief career in Hollywood.

"I think I'm probably the only actor who in his first starring roles appeared within a year in two pictures that cost a total of more than 20 million," he remarked.

The films are "The King and I," in which he plays the Siamese ruler, a role he portrayed 1,500 times in the stage musical, and "The Ten Commandments," in which he is Ramses the Great.

Neither of the roles, he feels, expresses his own personality.

"I don't know whether I could play myself," he said. "I never have. I don't believe an actor should. I feel uncomfortable even when I have to appear on stage as myself during a personal appearance."

One of the things wrong with Hollywood is that too often they take a story outline, then write in the dialogue to fit a particular star. It should be the other way around. They should

Machines Spreading In Offices

By ELMER ROESSNER

Automation in the offices of America seems to be coming pretty fast. Few companies, of course, have need for—or can afford—those gigantic electronic machines that can tell you just how many cummerbunds will be sold in Milwaukee next May. But many companies are installing lesser automatons, such as machines to copy papers, telephone-connected tape machines that serve as stenographic pools, and punch-card devices that vomit the cards of delinquent customers at the push of a button.

Automation is generally favored. It is mechanization that has increased our standard of living, and automation is mechanization with a college education.

However, we ought to recognize the fact that automation in offices is certain to widen the economic gap between large and small business.

SALES UP 15 PER CENT

Prentice-Hall recently reported that sales of the office equipment industry have been running from 9 to 30 per cent higher than last year and that the over-all increase for the year should be about 15 per cent. The greatest growth, it found, has been in high-priced electronic machines, with the most spectacular rise in the computer field. Sales and leases of digital computers this year will reach $450,000,000, doubling sales in 1955.

The dominant reason is competition. The larger a business grows, the more important it becomes for management to know exactly where every order is, what net margin each product carries, and how quickly each order is filled—and paid for. Those are powerful reasons for buying electronic machines.

There is still another: the shortage of girl power. Because of the drop in births during the Thirties, the number of girls entering careers in office work these days is small; because of the high marriage rate, the number of girls leaving office jobs is large. Thus there is a diminishing number of available stenographers, typists, file clerks, accountants, punch-card operators and other office workers—just as the growth of business requires more workers.

HARD ON LITTLE FELLOWS

Assuming a continuation of the present marriage rate, this squeeze will continue on into the 1960's. The girls born in 1947, our first three-million-plus birth year, won't reach 18 until 1965. Sometime before that, the squeeze will get worse.

Big companies are already set for that time, swinging office procedures over to automatic devices and buying machines that do the work of four to twenty girls without even a pause to power a nose.

Small business will constantly move to more disadvantageous positions. Many can afford small duplicating and copying devices, electric typewriters and some of the simpler punch-card systems. But few will be able to afford the vastly complicated machines that will do most of the office work for giant corporations. Big companies also require operators and a certain amount of nonmechanical workers. Small firms will be pressed again, even as they are today, to meet salaries and fringe benefits the big ones can offer intelligent and/or attractive girls.

The number of organizations offering office services to small companies is increasing. A firm can buy typing, stenographic, bookkeeping, accounting, tax, telephone answering, mailing and a variety of other services today.

A small firm often finds it is cheaper to buy a service than to do the work itself. At the same time, the price it pays for a service may be more, on a unit basis, than the same service costs a big company doing the work for itself. This small business will be at a further disadvantage.

Other Editors Are Saying.. Something To Think About

(Washington Daily News)

In a mock presidential election held in Washington High school 614 students expressed their choice for president of the United States.

In a strangely Democratic area these young people, while almost evenly divided, actually gave a four vote majority to the Republican candidate, Mr. Eisenhower.

Offhand, most people will say that such an expression from these young people means nothing. It was merely a mock election, and the young people were just having a little fun along with their work.

Then there are those who might say that the students were voting as their parents vote.

In both cases the argument will not hold water. The election, even of the mock variety, does mean something. And the results show that the students were not necessarily voting as their parents vote.

It means this. The young people in ever increasing numbers are turning away from the Democratic party of their fathers. They are thinking in terms of the candidates.

More than that it shows the complacency of the Democratic party in these parts. We have made such a little effort to educate and acquaint these young people with the meaning, virtues, and programs of the Democratic party. We have made no real effort in our area to attract young people to the party.

It is a mistake which will cost us votes in future days unless we change our ways and our thinking. The older Democrats will not be with us always. The day is coming in the not too distant future when those very young people who participated in this mock election will be voting in the regular elections.

If these young people maintain the same percentages that were prevalent in the school election, any of us with average intelligence can see what will happen. The Democrats have just lost a national election. It is our opinion that the young people over the nation, by and large, voted Republican this time. We speak of the young people who were voting for the first time.

The trend should serve as a warning to all of us. Unless we make some concerted efforts to cultivate the young people and to give them a part in party responsibilities, then the Democratic party will be the loser for it.

The voters in the city of Washington went two to one for the Democratic ticket. The children voted in a mock election with a majority favoring the Republican candidate. Is there not real significance to that fact? Can we afford to ignore what we see?

It seems to us that older Democrats have a challenge before them. We wonder what will be done about that challenge.

Eisenhower's Mandate To Revamp GOP

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—No President in recent years ever had such a strong mandate for writing his own ticket for a Congressional and Republican program as Dwight D. Eisenhower. In the best sense of the word, he is the most powerful political boss, at home and abroad, in modern history.

He recognizes that fact and will react accordingly. He feels that he is no longer bound or limited by the fetters of his Party's reactionary faction, or by the colonial powers within the United Nations. He needs no longer to cater to the isolationist and conservative views of the Dirksen - Duff - McCarthy - Welker faction, or to the Eden-Mollet viewpoint on foreign problems.

Where Republican candidates supported Ike's more liberal philosophy, like Jacob Javits in New York, they defeated influential figures, or lost narrowly. Where they came late and begrudgingly to the President's stand, like Bender in Ohio, Dirksen in Illinois and Duff in Pennsylvania, they lost or barely scraped through victory.

EISENHOWER'S TRIUMPH It is dealing in political superficialities to label Ike's triumph as entirely "personal." It is true that he won so impressively because of the people's trust in his character, his sincerity and his integrity. But a dominant factor was the voters' belief in his ability to make the GOP "the Party of the people," a title of which Adlai E. Stevenson said the Democrats had a mortgage since Jefferson's day.

A post-mortem of the election returns, state by state, city by city, and precinct by precinct, shows how Ike has, at least temporarily, "populized" the Republican Party. He has given the GOP, although out-registered by the Democrats, the same shot in the arm that F.D.R. administered to the weary Democrats back in 1932.

REPUBLICAN VOTE INCREASED IN SEVERAL WAYS In the face of contrary claims and expectations, and for the first time in 24 years, Ike increased the Republican vote among labor, liberal, independent, feminine, colored and youthful elements of the electorate. He carried factory and poverty-stricken wards which no Republican Presidential candidate had won in many years. He swept what had been the Democrats' backyard under Roosevelt and Truman.

If the Republican Party does not react to this revelation and behave accordingly on Capitol Hill during Ike's next four years, it will be exiled again from the places of power as soon as Ike quits the political stage, which he must do on January 20, 1961, unless Congress and the country rescind the constitutional bar against a third term.

LIBERAL TUTOR OF NIXON However, President Eisenhower has four years to impress the meaning and long-range significance of the November 6 results on his Cabinet associates, GOP leaders of Congress and the national organization's local and state leaders. More importantly, he will become the liberal tutor of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

It should not be difficult for Ike, the GOP's greatest heavyweight champion, to commit them to a liberalization and reorientation of the Party in the next four years. They cannot say him nay after the voters' landslide endorsement of his record, and his two-in-a-row successes in the Solid South.

Thus, there are two basic conclusions to be drawn from the 1956 outcome. With Ike's backing, Nixon will be the 1960 candidate. But he can win, and he knows it, as does every other prospective entry, only if he adopts and makes his own the liberal and humanitarian philosophy which won for Ike so devastatingly.

'Eileen' Turns Out To Be Good Comedy

By ANN HIRSHBERG

It's hard to keep a good play down—was our thought after seeing "My Sister Eileen" last night. But that's only because the performance was smooth, fast-flowing, and altogether professional in many respects. There are plenty of wonderfully funny lines and situations—but without a good director and cast they wouldn't have caused the audience to chuckle (and sometimes guffaw) rather continuously for two hours.

And there's still a magic something that comes from live actors that makes us wonder why every town in America can't have its own "grass roots" theater. There's a lot to be said for the mere fun of seeing people you know caper about on the stage. Dr. Ludovico L'Abate, for instance, psychologist at the Mental Health Clinic, in the role of a tough landlord whose only weaknesses are art—and Eileen. He was practically perfect—a wonderful comedian. Claude Taylor of the Guaranty Bank in the role of a drugstore clerk smitten with Eileen, of course—made the most of a small part—in character every minute—a very excellent piece of acting. Claude West of the West Building Co. in the completely daffy part of a rambling wreck from Georgia Tech. Another "amateur" adept at the difficult art of staying in character.

The whole cast was like that—some a little more finished than others, and more innately blessed with the gift of good timing, which seems to be born in one, not acquired.

Lois Garren has that gift of good timing, and of course the play was mainly on her shoulders. Her acid tongue kept things lively, and she moves like the professional rancer that she is. Greenville is fortunate to have her, as well as Lucia Hutchinson with us, because both are more professionals than amateurs, and maybe that's the secret of the success of "My Sister Eileen." Lucia soared to heights of "innocent merriment" in the second act, which is one of the funniest in any recent play.

Credit goes of course inevitably to Bob Furney, the director, who accomplishes much without demanding fanfares or exhibiting fits of temper. He deserves the support of a better audience than was furnished last night.

Greenville people who are willing to pay ridiculous prices for Broadway plays when they get to Broadway are foolish to pass up an opportunity to have a wonderfully relaxing evening in the theater right here at home, as well as a chance to fan the flame of creative drama that should be burning brightly in a town with so much talent and in spite of so much lethargy.

Deadline Nears For 'Golden Deeds' Tribute

Ed Parkinson, chairman of the Greenville Exchange Club Book of Golden Deeds Award, today called to the attention of the clubs and individuals of Greenville that their opportunity to nominate for within or outside their membership for this honor would terminate Thursday.

This award is conducted annually by this club as a public service for the Greenville area and is for the purpose of providing Greenville's citizens with an opportunity to recognize and publicly honor that nominee who has offered greatest service in the past; but has not received suitable recognition.

Parkinson pointed out that there are no restrictions as to age or sex of the nominee and the record of service should be in the city of Greenville but could cover several years.

The successful nominee will not necessarily have made a large contribution in material possessions, but will be one who has given much of himself in community service.

Any club or group desiring to have such a person honored should send a letter stating their nominee and his community service by Thursday to Jack Wallace, Box 599, Greenville. The nominations will be turned over to a secret committee of three prominent citizens who will then select this year's winner.

The person selected by the judges to be honored will have a certificate of service with his picture placed in the club's Book of Golden Deeds, which is permanently on public display. In addition, he will be the guest of honor at a banquet which will be held December 7. At this time a trophy suitably engraved will be presented.

But everything got squared away. The lack of a reception committee was simple. The welcome party was on the commercial side of the airport and Shepherd landed in the military area. The reservations had been made at another hotel.

Sen. Morse Optimistic As To U.S. Bipartisan Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Morse (D-Ore) said today he is more optimistic than before about achieving "a truly bipartisan foreign policy," and that he intends to help in working it out.

Morse, who has been critical of the Eisenhower administration on some foreign policy questions, told newsmen of his more hopeful view after attending a secret briefing yesterday on the international situation.

He was one of 11 members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the session with top administration officials.

The officials included Acting Secretary of State Hoover; Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency; Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Most committee members left the session close-mouthed, although some said they heard little more than "what you read in the papers." But several of the Democrats said it appeared that the administration was placing full reliance on the United Nations to meet every emergency situation now flaring up abroad.

That attitude reportedly would extend even to meeting the situation that would arise if, as one senator put it, the Russians were to move "10,000 or 20,000 volunteers" into Egypt.

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) said any such Soviet move should be met by U. S. military action. He predicted President Eisenhower eventually would make it clear that use of Soviet forces in the Middle East could not go unchallenged.

U. S. reliance on the United Nations was further emphasized with reports that the administration has told Britain and France it opposes any meeting of the Big Three heads of government over the Suez crisis at this time. Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, told newsmen yesterday there are "no plans at the moment" for such a conference.

Morse said that in the past he had felt the Eisenhower administration wants a truly bipartisan foreign policy and the Democratic party has the duty to cooperate.

He said Democrats "should not be rubber stamps" for the administration, and should be allowed to give their ideas in advance rather than be told of decisions only after they are made.

"But once the policy is set," he asserted, "we should all get behind it, and that's what I intend to do."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) said the meeting left with him the impression that in Egypt, the administration plans to rely on the United Nations for a short-term solution but "there doesn't appear to be any long-range foreign policy." He added:

"The purpose seems to be to reach immediate objectives, and then to start looking to the long-range plans."

Chairman George (D-Ga) made it clear after the session he felt silence was the best policy.

"I think the situation over there can and will be worked out" if "all of us don't say anything that will make it more difficult," George said.

Texas Shrimper Fired On By Gunboat; Plead For Aid

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The shrimp boat Pescador of Brownsville radioed from the Gulf of Mexico last night it had been fired upon by a Mexican gunboat, seriously wounding the captain, Tom Wilson.

Radio reports of the shooting were heard all along the Texas Gulf coast. Brad Smith of radio station KRGV at Westlaco, Tex., said he heard the radio operator on the Pescador plead for aid from the Coast Guard, asking, "What shall I do, what shall I do?"

The Mexican gunboat was identified as the G28. She had been mentioned in complaints last month by the Texas Shrimp Assn., which claimed she had stopped Texas shrimpers and demanded money or gifts not to capture them.

Several incidents have been reported this year between Mexican gun boats and Texas shrimpers. The Mexicans have claimed the Texans were fishing in Mexican waters, which the shrimp boat captains have denied.

Charles Wilson, radio operator on the Pescador and a nephew of the captain, radioed an account of the incident to John Santos Carrihas of Brownsville, owner of the shrimper, late last night. The account was given to Smith of KRGV.

Wilson said just before midnight they were still anchored about 120 miles south of Brownsville with the Mexican gunboat anchored about 75 yards away. He said they had taken the three-man crew, including the wounded captain, one at a time to the G28 and demanded that they sign a blank paper.

Wilson said the Texans refused. He said the Pescador was anchored at about sundown "when we saw the gunboat coming up. Our sister ship, the Joyce Carrihas, was anchored nearby. . . We saw the G28 stop and board another trawler. . . We started our motors and started to run farther out into the Gulf.

"The gunboat. . . finally caught up with us. She fired three shots. One bullet hit the cabin door and then struck Capt. Tom Wilson in the back and another bullet apparently hit him lower down, apparently around the kidneys. . . We stopped and they came aboard." The bullets were believed from a rifle.

Coast Guard Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond, commandant of the service, Rep. J. Vaughn Gary (D-Va.) and other Washington officials were on the Coast Guard cutter Sebago, which left Brownsville last night to take over direction of the operation.

The Washington officials were in Brownsville to hear complaints by the Texas Shrimp Assn. about Mexican gunboats.

Marines Employ 'Scatter' Attack

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—Twenty thousand Marines, employing the new scatter-and-attack concept of atomic warfare, pushed inland today to take Camp Lejeune back from a hypothetical enemy.

Operation Readiness, launched by the 2nd Marine Division, is being conducted without U.S. Navy units, withdrawn since the Middle East and Hungarian disturbances.

The five-day operation, being staged over a 200-square-mile area of Camp Lejeune and old Camp Bayliss, emphasizes smaller field units, deployed while attacking to minimize the effect of atomic retaliation.

Blue Devils Set Defense To Stop Wake's Barnes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's Blue Devils, like every other opponent of Wake Forest this season, fully expect to be in for a siege of Barnes-storming at Winston-Salem next Saturday.

Bill Barnes set an Atlantic Coast Conference pass-catching record as a Deacon halfback last year. This season, as a fullback, he needs only 124 yards rushing to break the young conference's total offense record of 983 yards.

Barnes' ability was recognized yesterday in remarks made by Duke Asst. Coach Tommy O'Boyle.

O'Boyle also praised Wake Forest's team spirit and hustle and tabbed as fine players quarterback Charlie Carpenter and line men Ed Moore and George Johnson.

At Wake Forest, Coach Paul Amen warned his squad that the Duke game would be its toughest of the season. Amen showed no ill effects from slight leg injury suffered in the VPI game, took part in the light workout. All injured Deacons are expected to be ready Saturday.

Light workouts also were held at South Carolina and Maryland, who play the week's other intracference game. Gamecock Coach Warren Giese said Bobby Barrett will be his varsity fullback. The Terrapins' fullback Tom Selep and tackle Al Wharton were sidelined by injuries yesterday, and today second-string tackle Don Healy was scheduled for an operation on a torn knee ligament that has put him out for the rest of the season.

Virginia's Coach Ben Martin, whose Cavaliers play Navy at Baltimore, is reasonably sure his boys are in for a hard game. Martin, a Navy alumnus who was assistant Middle coach last year, pointed out that after an indifferent start, "Navy has arrived as one of the very best."

Clemson, which opens the ACC football week Friday night at Miami, Fla., had three regulars absent from practice yesterday. Quarterback Charlie Bussey and fullback Rudy Hayn rested injuries and guard John Gridlian was still in Washington with his wife, who fell ill on the Maryland trip. But tackle Dick Marazza, out with an ankle injury the last two games, was back in action.

North Carolina State's Wolfpack is expected to bowl at full strength in the tussle with the Nittany Lions of Penn State. The Pennsylvania squad, with a 5-2 record, has beaten such teams as West Virginia and Ohio State, while taking narrow defeats at the hands of Army and Syracuse.

North Carolina's Tar Heels turned out early and stayed late in scrimmages for Notre Dame at South Bend. Coach Jim Tatam's squad was effective only briefly in beating Virginia last week, scoring all its three touchdowns in the third period. Tatam also worked the team on defense.

Julius Jones dashed 72 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage Friday night as dogs wound up their 1956 season with a 33-0 win over Potter Academy of Oxford.

After Jones' long run and the following kickoff, Eppes' James Brewington blocked an Oxford punt on the 30 and John Jenkins scored on the next play with a 70-yard end around. In the second half, Jenkins went 64 yards for a TD on a pass from quarterback Lynch. Marvin Outterbridge recovered a blocked punt in the end zone for a touchdown, and Bennie Wilson sprinted 34 yards for a third score. Calvin Gatlin scored two extra points and James Harris scored the third.

The victory gave Eppes a 4-2-1 record in conference standings, good for second place. Raleigh and Kingston tied for first place.

In the second half Oxford never crossed Eppes' 50 yard line. Leading players for Eppes were Kenneth Green, James Teel, Joseph Tyson, Dalton Davis, Mack Wooten, Donald Phillips and William Holliday.

Colleges Apprehensive Over Possible Action

DETROIT (AP) — College athletic officials, mindful of the plight of 11 wayward schools, waited apprehensively today for possible new crackdowns by the powerful council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

The council, policy directing body of the NCAA, was expected to announce any disciplinary action against member schools accused of violating the NCAA code. Penalties against the offending schools could mean probation for one to three years and a ban against participation in all events sponsored by or affiliated with the NCAA.

The council also was expected to act on requests by Texas A&M and the university of Miami to review penalties that would keep their football teams from accepting any postseason bowl bids. Texas A&M and Miami teams are ranked fifth and eighth respectively and both are considered prime candidates for bowl games on Jan. 1. Both are on probation that carry into 1957 for extending unauthorized aid to athletes.

The 16 members of the 18-man council who attended the opening session yesterday heard a report by the NCAA's infractions committee, which reviewed its latest investigation of accused violators of NCAA regulations. Chairman A. D. Kirwan, a faculty representative from the University of Kentucky, delivered the report, which was not made public, Kirwan revealed, however, that

Boardman Gets Roughest Lesson

By RALPH FERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Boardman feels he could lick lightweight champion Joe Brown today but the sensational young fighter from Marlboro, Conn., says he isn't in any hurry for the title fight.

The 20-year-old Boardman says he wants to go on learning lessons like the one he picked up last night in defeating roughhouse Paddy DeMarco. He met one of the toughest tests for a young fighter — how to combat a mauler, a guy who makes you look bad even when you win.

DeMarco, the former lightweight champion from Brooklyn, used every roughhouse trick in the book. He mauled, pushed, grabbed, tackled, hit on the break and charged in his famous "billy goat" style. Referee Dave Beloff took the fourth round from Paddy for attempting to punch at Boardman fell floorward from a push.

Through it all, Boardman kept his head. He smashed DeMarco with rights and lefts from long range and refused to be goaded into fighting Paddy's style. In the fifth round, the hard-punching Boardman caught DeMarco flush on the chin, sending him to the canvas.

As a result, Boardman received the unanimous vote of the two judges and the referee. The point spreads announced were 43-39, 49-41 and 49-39, an easy though perhaps costly victory for the National Boxing Assn.'s top-ranked lightweight contender.

Boardman was cut above both eyes, suffered a cheek slash and badly battered the middle knuckle of his left hand. His handlers said he'll be sidelined about eight weeks, forcing cancellation of a date in Boston three weeks hence.

MONDAY'S FIGHTS By The Associated Press PHILADELPHIA — Larry Boardman, 140, Marlboro, Conn., outpointed Paddy De Marco, 143, Brooklyn, 10. PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Bob Satterfield, 189-4, Chicago, knocked out Claude Chapman, 191, Boston, 7.

Pirates Work On Defense, Richmond Switches Backs

East Carolina College's defense got a thorough workout yesterday as the Pirates moved into their final week of the football season.

Some changes are expected in the defensive backfield for Saturday afternoon's game with the University of Richmond. Most of the men moving into the positions are younger players who are being moved up to take the place of injured veterans.

Despite an open date last weekend, the Pirates are still shackled with injuries in some positions. Quarterback Gary Mattocks and ear Ray Pennington are nursing minor injuries that could limit their action against Richmond.

The Pirates got another look at Richmond's offense yesterday and heard assistant coaches Earl Smith and Jim Mallory describe the Spiders as a "good ball club." Smith and Mallory described for the first time a spread formation used by the Spiders last Friday against George Washington and were told that halfback George Riggs is one of the better halfbacks East Carolina has come up against this year. Riggs is third in the Southern Conference scoring race with 36 points.

In yesterday's drills in Richmond, the Spiders switched quarterbacks, with sophomore Frank Gagliano taking over the first-team job. Joe Rossetti, a freshman who has been starting, will be alternated in an effort to maintain a strong passing attack.

Running with Gagliano in the first-team backfield in yesterday's workout were Riggs, David Ames and Buddy Davis. Riggs and Ames are both 170-pound halfbacks and Davis is a 200-pound fullback. Special attention was given to Richmond's pass patterns in yesterday's drills and Coach Ed Merrick said he expects to have a wide-open game against East Carolina.

The Dodgers return to Tokyo tonight and then fly to the States in two groups, one leaving Thursday, one Friday.

Hungary Raises Olympic Flag Without Fuss

MELBOURNE (AP) — The red, white and green nationalist flag of Hungary was raised at the Olympic village today in an uneventful official ceremony.

The international tensions still threatening the games, scheduled to begin in nine days.

In direct contrast to yesterday's demonstration by Hungarian expatriates during which the Communist Hungarian banner was torn down and slashed with a knife, some 60 athletes and officials stood quietly as the traditional flag went up.

The chief of the Hungarian delegation, Julius Hegyi, had said earlier that the change of flag was ordered before he left his country. At the time, nationalists temporarily were in power and Hegyi said he since had received no instructions to restore the Communist flag.

But while calm surrounded the flag-raising ceremony, there were renewed indications that the International Olympic Committee would be unable to divorce the games from world politics as it had hoped.

There were these developments: 1. A spokesman for Syria's Olympic Committee said the Arab states will ask the IOC to ban Britain, France and Israel from participating in the games on grounds that "Anglo-French-Israeli aggression against Egypt constitutes a serious contravention of international ethics, principals and traditions."

2. A Swedish member of the IOC admitted that five Scandinavian countries—Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark and Iceland—plan a meeting soon to consider a "no war" crisis, but said that as of now they plan to compete.

3. Hegyi, himself, refused to answer questions on the subject of whether Hungarian athletes would that the committee bar Britain, Egypt had suggested recently compete against the Russians. The Syrian announcement was in the nature of confirming that all the Arab states will back the move.

The Swedish announcement followed a story which appeared in Melbourne papers reporting that Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark and Iceland were to meet today to consider withdrawal. Six nations — Spain, Holland, Iraq, Egypt, Red China, and Lebanon — have withdrawn so far. Switzerland announced its withdrawal, when decided to compete.

On the almost forgotten athletic side, part of the U.S. Olympic track and field team went through final preparations for its Australia debut tomorrow. An invitational meet will be held at Geelong, a seaside resort 50 miles west of here, and Jim Kelly, head coach of the U.S. forces, said he would enter men in the high jump, pole vault, shotput, high hurdles, sprint relays and middle distance runs. Among the Americans named by Kelly to participate in the Geelong sports carnival are a flock of world record holders, Olympic champions or both, including shot-putter Parry O'Brien, pole-vaulter Bob Richards, sprinters Andy Stanfield, Leamon King, and Ira Murchison and hurdler Jack Davis.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

A home guaranteed for a lifetime — or at least for the life of a mortgage — may not be very far off. We know a man who got a 25,000-mile guarantee on a new car for $25 by agreeing to have the dealer always service its complex mechanism. No mere 90-day warranty. It's good for two years! We ought to have something like that for houses.

Some time ago the National Assn. of Home Builders was advocating a policy of make-good on structural defects for about a year or so after a home was bought. It was a step in the right direction.

Now a new certificate has come to attention. It is issued by the National Bureau for Lathing and Plastering. On it a contractor pledges that his work is "in accordance with the code of standard practices" established by that bureau.

This is another step in the right direction. It was taken, according to the bureau, to counteract "imitations and substitutes" for genuine lath and plaster.

Joe M. Baker, director of the bureau, says his organization is a joining of hands by labor and management "to educate the public that lath and plaster are permanent construction, fire protection, sound barriers, sanitary, and have lasting beauty."

The bureau comprises the Contracting Plasterers' International Assn., the Wood, Wire and Metal

Mother Accused Of Murder As Kids Watched

ELLSWORTH, Wis. (AP)—Mrs. Jane Marie Spengler, 38, mother of nine children, is charged with slaying her husband with a shotgun before the eyes of their horrified youngsters.

Sheriff Roy Simonson said Mrs. Spengler told him she fired the shot Sunday night during an argument.

Simonson quoted the mother as saying she loaded the 12-gauge gun and her husband Earl, 45, remarked, "Go ahead and pull the trigger, if you want to."

Mrs. Spengler told Simonson she discharged the gun but "didn't mean to shoot him."

Mrs. Spengler was held without bond for a hearing Nov. 20 after arraignment on a first-degree murder charge.

Sheriff Simonson said the nine children, ranging from 6 months to 15 years, would be taken by Mrs. Spengler's parents.

The population of France is 43 million.

Blames Fumes For Lung Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
 ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Most lung cancers are not caused by cigarettes, but instead apparently by fumes and chemicals from our industrial, motorized age, a cancer expert said today.

Dr. W. C. Hueper of the National Cancer Institute said he bases his opinion on worldwide studies by many scientists.

He said this evidence indicates the alarming increase in lung cancer is probably due mostly to fumes, dust, gases and various chemicals in the air we breathe, or to which people are exposed on some jobs.

Smoking seems to play "a definite, while lesser, direct or indirect role," in producing lung cancers, he said. He said the total evidence doesn't support the concept that the great majority of lung cancers, especially in men, are due to excessive cigarette smoking.

Some of the chemicals released into the air by engines and smokestacks, or produced in certain industrial operations, are known to be able to produce cancers in animals, he said.

He said there isn't enough data to estimate the relative role they may have played in the rise in lung cancer.

The jump in lung cancer began before cigarette smoking became commonplace. Hueper, head of the Environmental Cancer Section of the NCI, told the American Public Health Assn.

Ptomaine Struck Down Youngsters

BALTIMORE (AP)—Seven youngsters remained in University Hospital today, one still seriously ill, with an intestinal ailment which killed a 4-year-old brother and made three others sick.

Doctors said they believed the 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown were the victims of "some form of ptomaine poisoning that they got from something they ate or from a carrier in the family."

The parents were not ill.

Darrell Brown, 2, was taken sick last Friday. Yesterday, Rickey 4, became sick died en route to the hospital. A short time later the other nine members of the Negro family complained of feeling sick and Mrs. Brown took them all to the hospital.

Soviet Will Pay For Suppression

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union will be paying through the nose for a long time for suppressing the Hungarian revolution.

Kremlin leaders probably do not yet realize the extent to which their conduct has undermined Soviet international authority and prestige—and perhaps even the basis of their power at home.

Here are some of the consequences no. being reckoned up against the Soviet Communist Party for armed intervention in Hungary:

1. In Western Europe and elsewhere outside the Communist bloc the entire Communist movement has been dealt a very heavy blow. Many Reds are quitting their parties in protest against the massacre of Hungarian workers. Many nonparty members who supported the Reds at the polls can be expected to shift their all glance.

2. Soviet relations with Yugoslav President Tito will inevitably be worsened. The Soviet Communist chiefs will tend to blame the Hungarian rebellion on the "Titoism" — while the Yugoslav Communist will blame them on Moscow's policies.

3. The determination of the National Communists who now control the Polish Communist Party to throw off completely the remnants of Moscow's domination will be greatly increased.

4. Soviet difficulties in maintaining domination over East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania will be greatly complicated. Discontent with Soviet domination, with the presence of Soviet troops and Soviet economic policies can be expected to continue to increase in all the satellites.

5. Inside the Soviet Union, it is reasonable to assume, the authority of the Soviet government over the Soviet people will be damaged. Factional quarrels inside the Communist Party leadership probably will become more acute.

The Soviet leadership may finally learn the hard way — as many other colonial powers before have learned — that attempts to keep discontented and hostile colonies with naked force often cost much more than the colonies are worth.

Rotary Tribute To F.C. Harding

Memorial services for the late Fordyce C. Harding, prominent Greenville attorney for many years, were held last night by the Greenville Rotary Club of which he was a member until his recent death.

Dr. Howard McGinnis who served as secretary of the local Rotary Club while Harding was president in 1929-30 was in charge of the memorial service. Dr. McGinnis termed the late past president of the club "an active and great force in the Greenville Rotary Club," and paid tribute to his services to the local civic club and to the community.

Rotarians J. E. Winslow and Sam B. Underwood likewise paid tribute to Mr. Harding for his outstanding contribution to the people of Pitt County during his lifetime.

A letter signed by members of the Rotary Club was presented to Miss Mary Harding, daughter of the Rotarian for whom the memorial service was held. It said in part:

"Your father, and our friend, Fordyce C. Harding, was a true Rotarian. The years ill come and go, but to those of us who were privileged to know him and to share Rotary Fellowship with him, there will always remain his radiant personality, his courage his belief in those principles which make life worthwhile; and to those who will come after him, he has left a treasured heritage of influence which, like the ripples from a pebble tossed in the lake, reaches out beyond the narrow confines of one life to touch and shape and mold for the better."

Included in the services were excerpts from a recording made for a Rotary meeting by Mr. Harding several months prior to his death.

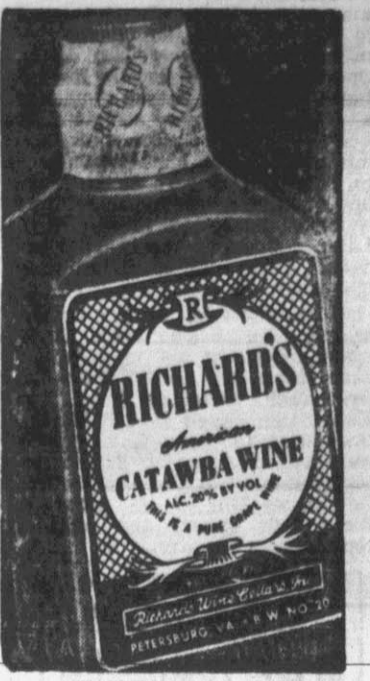

There are now more than 70 million licensed drivers of motor vehicles in the United States.

Propose Seeking Boyle... 4th Dimension

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A team of UCLA scientists has proposed building an electronic brain in the hope of finding the true fourth dimension that may exist all around man.

Dr. Robert Tschirgi, a physiologist at the university's medical school, believes that man, handicapped by a limited ability to perceive dimensions, may actually be unaware of the true shape of things.

He has advanced the concept that by studying the limitations of his brain, man may be able to build a computer that can peer around "the fourth dimensional corner" and translate what it finds there into a language he can understand.

If that occurs, says Dr. Tschirgi, "events which seem now to be unpredictable, and therefore unavoidable, might be foreseeable, and the future would seem less mysterious."

Dr. Tschirgi and his associates, Dr. R. DeKaan and Dr. U. L. Taylor, have been engaged in a theoretical study of dimensional perception during the past year. A report on their theories was released yesterday.

Time is frequently considered to be the fourth dimension. But Dr. Tschirgi proposes the idea that time is essentially a biological factor and is primarily related to a "clock" in man's brain.

"In the world outside of us," he says, "motion may occur in directions which we cannot 'see' and which we must therefore interpret only as a change in time."

start with a good dramatic piece that will stand on its own, then find an actor who can play it.

"Then the actor has a real challenge. He can't grow if all he does is play himself over and over."

Bryner was a trapeze artist in his circus days and right now he is flying high on a new trapeze swing success.

But Yul doesn't think success can be measured by either money or fame.

"Earning a decent living at the work you enjoy while you try to grow up as a human being—that is my idea of success," he said, "and I wish all men had it. Work is such a big part of your life, and millions live by doing work they are indifferent to, I feel sad for them."

Yul said the greatest advice he ever received in life was given by the French writer Jean Cocteau, who told him:

"Never associate with idiots on their own level, because, being an intelligent man, you'll try to deal with them on their level—and on their level they'll beat you every time."

No Longer Dog's Privilege Door

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Damon, an Australian shepherd dog, doesn't use his own special swinging door to enter and leave the home of Mrs. Lou Ella Archer anymore.

Mrs. Archer had a lock put on the little hatch after a thief wriggled through it one night and made off with several hundred dollars worth of jewelry.

The Allegheny turned out to be some 16 inches higher than the huge oak doors of the museum. So rather than dismantle the doors, engineers removed part of the train's superstructure and reassembled it after getting the locomotive inside.

Locomotive Too Big For Museum

SYNOPSIS
Casson Duker, a well-to-do amateur detective, is intrigued when Henry Lockyer, a stolid banker, tells him he had been blackmailed by an ordinary looking little man named Bagot who threatened to ruin his reputation. Bagot promises not to bother him again. One thing distinguishes the insignificant Bagot: He paused to admire a piece of Roman sculpture in Lockyer's house. Casson thinks this interest may trap him. Casson goes to his friend, George Strutt, a police superintendent, for help. Strutt becomes interested in the case. Later, Casson meets another friend, Nigel Willington, an antique dealer, and asks him to check his sales records of Roman sculpture for possible leads. Meanwhile, Strutt has dug up a similar case from the police files—the Creebaugh case, in which the blackmailer called himself Martin. On a visit to Willington's, Casson sees a man answering Bagot's description buy two bronze statuettes. He follows him to his home in Bickersteth Street, and registers a room across the street. He discovers

The gods had been good to him and no moment of their grace must be lost. The metamorphosis had happened. Perry had turned into Bagot, and Bagot was on the hunt.
Perry took the Underground to Knightsbridge and Casson followed. But one thing worried him. Where were the heavy hornrimmed spectacles which had been described both by Lockyer and Miss Martin?
His answer came at Gloucester Road. Almost absent-mindedly Perry took off his gold rimmed spectacles, put them in the breast pocket of his suit, and replaced them by heavier and horn-rimmed ones. The transformation was complete. Casson understood.
Of course Perry would not wear them when he left his house and walked up Bickersteth Street. A neighbour might notice them and comment. They would not notice his mackintosh and his green hat. They were common currency in clothing. Nor would they comment on his unusually parted hair for that was hidden by the hat and was, anyway, only designed for the attention of his victim. But the spectacles they would observe.
In the train Perry took no precautions to see if he were being followed. But, once the two men had emerged from Knightsbridge Underground, his tactics changed. He walked aimlessly down streets and around squares, most of them comparatively unfrequented on this Saturday morning. He avoided thoroughfares. He walked down Hans Crescent into Hans Place, circled the Place—once, walked across into the Brompton Road. He turned north up Montpelier Street. Occasionally he glanced behind him.
In Montpelier Square he seemed to have found the hub of his wanderings. Slowly he walked twice round the Square. He took a circuit round by a back street to the south, returned into the Square, made another circuit up Montpelier Walk to the west and back again into the Square and Montpelier Street, stroking his chin, apparently lost in thought.

Casson stalks the stalker in tomorrow's tense chapter.

leave open the curtains so that he could see what antiques—if any—littered the room behind. Or were the bronze statuettes his only possession?
The next morning Perry did his usual shopping and Casson telephoned to his office and settled the items of business which demanded his personal attention.
He returned to No. 48. The excitement of finding Macfarlane had worn off and he looked forward with boredom to a weekend of profitless watching. He had finished the books which he had brought with him and was reduced to reading Macbeth, which he had found in a school-text edition on the single bookshelf in his room.
Then the pattern expanded again and Casson could have cheered. He was sitting by the window the Leica with its telephoto lens hooded, focused, and aligned, when the front door of Perry's house opened. For a moment Casson stared in surprise at the figure which emerged. It was Perry. It wasn't Perry. He leapt for the camera.
The figure bent to lock the front door and turned. Casson clicked the shutter and wound on the film. The figure put on his hat and looked up at the sky. Casson got another photograph. The figure was off down the street, walking fast and purposefully.
It was Perry. It was Bagot. Two in one Perry had gone into the house with his shopping bag. Bagot had come out. He had come out in the worn mackintosh described by Henry Lockyer. In the moment when he straightened up from locking the door, and before he put on the green pork-pie hat described by Miss Martin of Hatfield, Casson had seen that his hair was darker than usual, dark, glossy, and parted in the middle.
Hurriedly Casson locked away the camera with its precious film, leaned out of the window to see if Perry was far enough up the street for pursuit to be safe, and let himself out of the house.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Aircraft stocks and copper continued to pace the stock market to a higher level today in early afternoon trading.

Turnover was fairly active after yesterday's semi-holiday.

Pivotal issues advanced from fractions to around 2 points and there were few losers.

Economic news of record national production and higher personal income combined with more reassuring news from the Middle East to provide a more confident atmosphere in Wall Street, brokers said.

Individual corporate news also spurred interest in a number of issues.

Lukens Steel continued its starting role, adding around 7 points to its run-up of 9 1/2 yesterday.

Other steels made gains in the wake of the new monthly record for steel output.

Royal Dutch was down around a point but Gulf Oil, another company heavily involved in the Middle East, gained a fraction. Texas Co. was steady.

International Paper gained a fraction following news of a stock dividend and its regular cash dividend.

General Motors was firm. Chrysler eased, Zenith added around 2. General Electric was a 1-point gainer. Westinghouse was up a fraction. Johns-Manville and United Air Lines gained.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 60 cents to $180.40 with the industrials up $1.20, the rails up 90 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices were mostly 25 lower to day. Two Wrecks In Brief Interval

Two wrecks in the Ayden-Orfiston area inside an hour and fifteen minutes resulted in $700 property damage and one indictment.

Jefferson Pugh, Negro, 61, Orfiston, Route 1, was charged with following too closely by investigating highway patrolman Dick Tayloe.

Tayloe said Pugh ran into the rear of a car driven by Frank Hart, 32, Ayden, Route 1, while Hart was attempting to make a right turn off N. C. 11 south in front of Cox Trailer Works. Property damage to the rear of Hart's car was estimated at $150. Property damage to Pugh's car was estimated at $250. Tayloe's arrival on the scene—3 o'clock—was well-timed in that a forest fire was just getting underway. Tayloe radioed the Grifton Fire Department who promptly extinguished the blaze before it spread into something big.

John Edward Smith, 52, Grifton, Route 1, whose pickup truck ran off the Gum Swamp Road north of Grifton and overturned, told Tayloe that he was swatting at a wasp inside the cab of his truck, lost control and ran off the road. The pickup did a half-roll to end up upside-down. Smith was not injured. Tayloe estimated the damage at $300.
