Kinston Minister Elected To Preside At '57 Session

By ANNE SINGLETON Reflector Staff Writer The election of a Kinston minister as convention president for 1957, and the selection of Charlotte as the site for the next session were the highlights of the closing business session of the 112th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches here late this afternoon.

The delegates elected Dr. J. Clinton Bradshaw, Minister of the Gordon Street Christian Church of Kinston, to serve as president of the 1957 convention.

Other officers of the convention elected this afternoon were: Mrs. Harry Shontz of Pfafftown, first vice-president; Warren Harris of Englehard, second vice-president; Mrs. Dan McConnell of Greensboro, secretary; M. C. Todd of Wendell, treasurer; and Mrs. Rudolph Gwaltney of Dudley, Don Ambrose of Washington, and Forest Waller of Kinston, members at large.

The election of Miss Ruth Ingram of Wilmington, as president of the Christian Women's Fellowship for North Carolina, also was announced today.

Charlotte Chosen Charlotte was chosen as the site of the next convention after an invitation had been received from Rev. Paul C. Duncan, Minister of the First Christian Church of Charlotte.

Using as his subject, "Training the Ministry," Dr. William G. West, Minister of the First Christian Church of Chattanooga, Tennessee, told the delegates at last night's college night session that "A century ago it was possible for a man to know almost everything and usually the clergyman was the most informed person in the community."

"Today," Dr. West said, "the best informed minds know only a fraction and the time has come when ministers must be as adequately prepared as men in other professions."

He went on to say that "every minister, if he is to stand before God and Men, should have a broad liberal arts education."

Honored Rural Church At the morning session of the convention today, The Christian Church of Robersonville, was named the "Honor Rural Church of the Year," in North Carolina. Rev. Wilbur Wallace of Robersonville received the honor on behalf of his congregation.

The convention today received a resolution calling on the Christian Churches of the state to double their giving to the operating budget of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

The funds are needed, the delegates were told in the resolution, if the college is to continue to serve the youth of the Christian Churches of the state. The resolution specifically calls for the churches to raise their direct giving to the operating budget of the college to $44,000 a year.

Three Trustees Elected The convention also elected three new members to the board of trustees of Atlantic Christian College and re-elected 10 old members of the board whose terms have expired.

New members named were W. L. Kennedy of Newton Grove and H. Leman Barnhill of Williamston, who will serve two year terms and Rev. Z. B. T. Cox of Farmville, who will serve a three year term.

Old members re-elected to serve a three year term are T. Ed Brown of Wilson, Charles Rouse of Raleigh, E. Leon Roebuck of Washington, M. C. Todd of Wendell, L. A. Tart of Dunn, C. V. Cannon of Ayden, Lawrence Moyer of Maury, Bowden Warren of New-

Sidelights

A forceful, entertaining talk by Mrs. James D. Wyker was a highlight of yesterday's convention session.

Mrs. Wyker has just completed a trip around the world and presented to the 'standing room only' audience a vivid picture of her experiences and observations of foreign missionary work and life in Asia and Europe. "Eighty-five per cent of the women in India can not write," she pointed out. She speaks again tonight.

She is the author of the book "Churchwomen in the Scheme of Things." Last year she served as president of the National Council of Churchwomen. Mrs. Wyker is now affiliated with the Social Welfare Department and the United Christian Missionary Society.

Kenneth Potee has spent the past 35 years as a missionary in India. Mr. and Mrs. Potee befriended many American soldiers during World War II and all three of their children were born in India. He is the secretary-treasurer of the entire mission of American Disciples of Christ in India.

Yesterday afternoon he told the assembly that the "scriptures have opened many doors in India . . . and we have open doors that no man can close." Potee will speak again tonight at the Christian Men's Fellowship Banquet at Respass Brothers' Barbecue.

Outstanding Christian Church leaders from approximately 60 churches in N. C. and two from South Carolina are attending this three day convention at the Eighth Street Christian Church. Around 1,500 delegates have registered.

The Rev. J. D. Waters of Plymouth is one of the oldest delegates attending the convention. He is a retired minister and is 86 years old.

In the Church basement there is a refreshment booth and a bazaar that is sponsored by the Christian Women's Fellowship. The proceeds from these will buy decorations and furnishings for the new education building directly in back of the Church.

The Atlantic Christian College choir sang a selection of songs at the Atlantic Christian College Banquet held at the Moose Lodge last night. The choir also sang "Let Every Tongue Adore Thee," by Bach and "Lamb of God," by Christensen at last night's college session of the convention.

UN Troops Rushed Into Suez To Forestall 'Volunteers' Threat

LONDON (AP)—First units of the U.N. Middle East police force landed in the Suez Canal zone today. They were rushed in on urgent U.N. orders in a move to forestall the threat of Communist "volunteers" being poured into the tense area.

The first Swiss airliner loaded with 45 Danish troops touched down behind the Egyptian lines at Abu Suweir at 9:30 a.m. A second plane carrying 47 Norwegian troops landed at 10:02 a.m.

Abu Suweir is on the west side of the canal near Ismailia. A third plane carrying equipment for the international police force landed 45 minutes later. The Swissair planes were chartered by the U.N. to move the police units and supplies to Egypt.

Word of the planes' arrival was radioed to the U.N. staging area at Capodichino, Italy, near Naples. Swissair officials said the aircraft were making a quick turnaround, but it appeared unlikely that a second contingent could be ferried to the canal zone today.

Later a U.N. spokesman said a second group of about 100 men will leave the staging area tomorrow for Egypt. He said the second contingent would be made up of the first Colombian troops and another party of Norwegians. The command at Capodichino announced that the "technical problems with which we were faced seem now to be solved."

A spokesman added that the shunting of planes between the staging area and the canal zone will be speeded up in the next few days.

Nothing was said, however, about solution of the major political problems of where the force would operate in Egypt and for how long.

Orders for the U.N. peace army to get moving to Egypt were issued last night after an Arab diplomatic source had reported in Moscow that President Nasser had requested Russia to send volunteer forces to Egypt immediately.

Moscow dispatches today said Egyptian diplomatic sources there still declined to discuss the report. There was a complete blackout on information at the Egyptian Embassy there. Requests for confirmation or denial of the report were met by "no comment" or "no one is available" who can discuss this matter.

Before the vanguard's takeoff, the international force at Capodichino had swelled to 467 men of four nations — Denmark, Norway, Colombia and Canada. More are to come, with the force finally totaling perhaps 10,000.

There still was no word of a clear-cut agreement on the exact task of the police force in Egypt. This apparently remained to be worked out by U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, who left New York last night for Rome and Cairo.

Takeoff of the first units had been stalled two days by technical and political difficulties. The departure came on urgent orders from Hammarskjold, who acted shortly after a report from Moscow had asked the Soviet Union to send to Egypt immediately the thousands of Russians who reportedly have "volunteered" to join the Egyptians against the British, French and Israelis in Egypt.

Before leaving New York, Hammarskjold said his mission was "to do what I can to assist setting up and getting going a United Nations emergency force in Egypt."

"It is the first experience of its kind," he told reporters. "It is the first truly international force. Let us hope it will succeed. Let us hope we will succeed in establishing peace and order."

Kremlin Believed Trying Hazardous Gamble For Prize

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is believed to be making a dangerous gamble for very high stakes with its offer of "volunteers" to assist in Egypt's struggle against Britain, France and Israel.

The danger is that large-scale Soviet military intervention in this vitally important area of the world, even through the device of volunteers, could lead to a conflict that would touch off World War III.

President Eisenhower told a news conference yesterday that the United States would back the U.N. in any steps to oppose entry of Russian or Red Chinese "volunteers."

He did not say what precise steps might be contemplated. The U. N., he said, "is not by any manner of means limited to resolutions."

The prize which may be luring the Russians is ultimate domination of the region. The men in the Kremlin may see the present confused and uncertain conditions in the region as an opportunity to try for a strangle hold on the flow of oil, the sea lanes and the air bases that make the Middle East one of the most strategically important pieces of geography anywhere.

Yet the risks are great and some officials here are still of the opinion that the Soviets perhaps are bluffing. They argue that even a Soviet bluff, backed up possibly by token assignments of "volunteers," would serve three large purposes:

1. To present the Soviet Union as the protector and defender of the Arab world and thereby earn Arab good will which would create long-range political influence for Moscow in the area.

2. To frustrate the United Nations peace program, based on putting a U. N. police force into Egypt and getting the British and French out. The underlying aim here would be to keep the Middle East in turmoil as long as possible and see what further opportunities might open up for building Russian strength and influence there, perhaps with less risk than at present.

3. To throw a war scare into the Western nations and thereby divert their attention from Russian brutality in Hungary. A bluff can be called. Even if the Russians did not intend seriously to go through with the offer of "volunteers," they could easily find themselves in a situation where they would have to make good anyway or accept a loss of face that would damage their prestige severely.

PTA Organizes, Elect Officers At GHS Meeting

At the meeting of the newly-formed Greenville High School Parent-Teacher Association last night, between 350 and 400 fathers and mothers elected Mrs. Jonathan W. Overton as president; Mrs. J. F. Arthur, vice-president; Mrs. M. M. Luskin, secretary; and W. P. Landing Sr., treasurer.

Mrs. William H. Taft, who presided at the initial meeting, announced that the next meeting will be held in January, when complete details of procedure will be worked out.

Dr. W. W. Howell of the Business Education Department of East Carolina College reported the slate for the Nominating Committee.

Rev. Thomas M. Davis, who led the devotional part of the program, challenged the parents and teachers to be "thermostats which change the climate" rather than "thermometers which merely register the temperature."

City School Supt. June H. Rose and High School Principal O. E. Dowd expressed their hearty endorsement of the High School Parent-Teacher Association and commended the parents for their loyal response to the challenge a parent-teacher organization offers.

The principal said he was grateful to the faculty and students for their loyal support of the movement to organize a parent-teacher association.

Rev. Leonard Topping installed the officers.

After the installation service, the parents met in grade-level groups for discussions with teachers. Parents were afforded the opportunity to become acquainted with their children's home room teachers and to learn the organization of the school program in the various grades. Parents also had opportunity to write out suggested topics for future study by the organization and to ask questions of Principal Dowd and the teachers.

Warn Of Change In Leaf Supports

RALEIGH (AP)—Blue-cured tobacco growers were warned today that support prices on "undesirable" types of tobacco will be slashed before the 1957 marketing season.

Clarence Miller, head of the tobacco branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Stabilization Service, asserted: "We are going to be forced to discount these undesirable types of tobacco to such an extent that we will not be forced to take it under loan at an unrealistic price."

Miller spoke at the start of a meeting of tobacco industry leaders. The session was called by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to discuss the size of the 1957 flue-cured crop and how much acreage allotments should be reduced.

The group was told that stocks on hand have reached record high levels, making an acreage cut appear inevitable.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson is required to proclaim the 1957 acreage allotment by Dec. 1. Miller said the department is seeking an acreage allotment "that will provide for an orderly dissipation of the surplus."

Miller also warned tobacco growers against relying on the soil bank to bring about the needed reduction through removing allotted acres from production. He said this was "an impossibility."

Last year, Miller recalled, the USDA sought to discourage production of "pale, slick" and "undesirable" types of tobacco through reducing support prices in an effort to "reflect its true market value."

He said this was not successful because the support prices were not reduced sufficiently and still made it possible to grow these types of leaf at a profit.

Several hundred delegates from the five major flue-cured producing states in the Southeast were present for the meeting here.

Only yesterday the manager of the tobacco support program declared in a speech at Moultrie, Ga., "If something isn't done, 1957 will be the last year for the support program to operate."

The speaker was L. T. Weeks of Raleigh, general manager of the Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp., who called for a "realistic" approach to the problem of getting supply in line with demand.

Total Eclipse Of Moon On Sunday

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—Night owls, feathered and otherwise, will have a chance during the wee hours Sunday to see a total eclipse of the moon, cloud conditions being favorable.

The moon will enter the shadow of the earth at 11 p.m. Saturday, but technically, the Morehead Planetarium here explained, the eclipse will not begin until the moon enters the dark center of the shadow at 12:03 a.m. Sunday.

The eclipse will be over at 4:35 a.m.

Hungary's Puppet Boss Rejects Neutrality Role

VIENNA (AP)—Russia's puppet Premier of Hungary, Janos Kadar, today rejected neutrality as a future policy for the nation and refused any negotiations with former Premier Imre Nagy as long as he remains in the asylum of the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest.

Kadar set the policy of his regime in a statement to a workers' delegation, broadcast by Budapest radio, which showed clearly he has no intention of walking out of the Soviet-dominated Warsaw Pact or giving up the close ties with Moscow which set off the three-week revolution.

Kadar said that a neutral Hungary — which Nagy had proposed during his brief tenure as premier — would be "exploited by the imperialists and lead to war." This, he added, does not favor a policy of neutrality.

As for the man the revolt had made premier briefly, Kadar said an agreement with Nagy "could be possible only if he changes his attitude and comes out of the (Yugoslav) Embassy to negotiate."

Nagy took refuge with the Yugoslavs when the Russians poured troops into Hungary and Budapest to suppress the revolution.

In a desperate attempt to end the general strike paralyzing the revolt-shattered nation, Kadar's regime announced a mass purge of former top Communists and the Premier expressed approval of limited "free" elections "at a later date."

Budapest radio said Kadar told the workers' delegation, however, that the only parties which would be allowed to participate in elections would be those which "stand for Socialist principles and serve the interests of the workers."

Early Christmas Party Planned

KINSTON, N. C. (AP)—Plans went ahead today for a Christmas party for 7-year-old Charlie Kennedy, leukemia victim who may not live to be there.

The party is set for Dec. 2 at Our Lady of Atonement Catholic school here. Adrian King, a fourth-grader at the school, originated the idea for the party honoring Charlie.

The boy's doctor says Charlie, a Negro, may not live until Christmas.

Bennie Williams of radio station WPTC, who is arranging the event said he will accept any gifts for the child.

Bans Wiggling By Elvis Presley

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A no-wiggle restriction has been placed on Elvis Presley's appearance here Nov. 25.

Police Chief Carl Heustis said he won't permit "any lewd, lascivious contortions" on the part of the entertainer.

"As you can surmise," the chief said, "I just don't happen to be one of his admirers."

Prisoner Jumps Farmville Chief, But Loses Again

FARMVILLE—A Farmville Negro charged with public drunkenness will face additional charges as a result of an altercation in the municipal jail Tuesday afternoon.

James Green was charged with obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty and assault on an officer after attempting to escape from Police Chief L. T. Lucas.

Chief Lucas said today that Green jumped him as the Negro returned to the jail after taking a bath. The bath had been ordered by the chief who said, "When we brought him in on the charge of public drunkenness he had a terrible odor about him that was especially noticeable inside the jail. I told Green to take a bath and asked one of the town employees to get some more clothes for the man."

After Green had completed the bath and changed clothes he broke away from the chief, ran through a hall into the jail, back out of the jail and then into a hall leading upstairs to the court room. He got behind a steel door between the jail and the court room and Chief Lucas went in after him.

By pushing on the door and Green, the chief was able to get the prisoner from behind the door but fell down on the stairs. Green jumped on top of the chief and attempted to choke him but a city street worker, Blaney Campbell, heard sounds of the scuffle and went to the chief's aid. Green attempted to fight both men, according to Lucas, but they were successful in getting him into a cell and locked him up.

Green is still in jail.

Lakewood Pines Garden Club Names Fair Committee Heads

Mrs. G. R. Trammell of 110 Lakewood Drive was hostess to a morning meeting of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club on Tuesday. Coffee and pound cake were served in the two-story living room, decorated for the occasion with fall-colored dried arrangements brought by Mrs. F. F. Hendrix and Mrs. W. M. Reading.

An additional eye-catcher was a "Japanese" arrangement of nasturtiums and nasturtium foliage prepared by Mrs. Trammell.

With Mrs. R. P. Heller presiding at the regular business meeting, the club voted to make donations to the Tuberculosis Fund and to the Mental Health Foundation in answer to requests from these organizations.

The general policy for future community donations was discussed at length. It was agreed that for the present year requests would be considered individually as they appeared. Members felt that it would be unwise to dig too deeply into funds which had been earned for special garden club projects, such as the landscaping of Elmhurst School.

Before the next fiscal year, a committee will be appointed to survey the requests received and the club's decision on each; and a definite budget of community contributions will be arranged.

It was agreed that members of the Lakewood Pines Garden Club would, whenever possible, contribute house plants for the dish gardens which the Service League prepares for hospital patients.

Plans are well developed and, in some cases, work is already underway for next year's Spring Fair, which will be held shortly before Easter. Mrs. Raymond Lowe, general chairman of the fair, announced the booth chairman and asked members to volunteer for work on the various committees.

Mrs. H. R. Billica, who has already started some plants for the fair in her new greenhouse, will be in charge of the garden booth, and the food booth will be under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Barnhill.

Mrs. R. J. Vetter will be in charge of all the sewing and toy-making, and members were asked to start saving broom handles for the hobby horses, which proved to be one of the most popular items at last year's fair.

Mrs. R. E. Wilfong, chairman of the attic treasures booth, urged members to start collecting "treasures" now. A special effort will be made to have lots of inexpensive articles in all categories for the benefit of children, who turned out in large numbers for the fair last April.

A brief program on the planting and care of bulbs of all types was presented by Mrs. Raymond Lowe. Her talk provoked an informal discussion and an exchange of hints, gleaned from experience, on indoor and outdoor bulb culture.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Heller reminded the members that the Lakewood Pines Garden Club is to decorate the Sheppard Memorial Library at Christmas and she urged everyone to be thinking of ideas and to make suggestions to the committee.

Pitt County Girl Scout Council Holds Meeting

The Pitt County Girl Scout Council Inc. held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. J. K. Proctor, executive director. The meeting was opened by the recitation of the Girl Scout Promise by those assembled.

Mrs. Charles A. White, president, welcomed two new members to the Council: Mrs. W. A. Wright, Service League representative, and Mrs. R. R. Ross, representative from the Brownie Leaders' Club.

Mrs. White also introduced Alton Clements and Walter Murphy, members of the Grifton chapter of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the sponsoring organization for two troops in that community.

Mrs. Proctor reported that seven troops have been organized in Ayden and that all seven leaders are attending a training course she is conducting there. Farmville and Greenville leaders are receiving on-the-job training. Mrs. Proctor announced that by January, 35 leaders in the Pitt County area will have completed a 16-hour training course.

Mrs. Ed Batchelor, chairman of the organization committee, stated that there are now 60 troops in the county with over 600 girls participating. She also requested that the secretary, Mrs. J. H. Thomas, write a note of thanks to the following civic clubs for donating camperships to Camp Hardee last summer: Junior Chamber of Commerce, Junior Woman's Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Service League, Exchange Club, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Moose Club and the Women of the Moose.

Mrs. F. D. Duncan, a member of the camp committee, stated that several Junior Counselors would be unable to return to Camp Hardee next summer and asked each Council member to help in the search for suitable personnel.

Extra help from Council members in preparing the monthly Leader's Bulletin was requested by Mrs. J. T. Cheatham Jr., chairman of the staff and office committee. Several members volunteered their services.

Mrs. J. S. Ficklen, member-at-large, announced that a Girl Scout troop has been organized at St. Raphael's School and that interest among girls and parents is high. They asked for help in organizing troops and training leaders. Mr. Clements and Mr. Murphy stated that a financial drive had been held in Grifton last week, and they asked for help in organizing troops and training leaders. Mrs. Proctor announced that the Council would not meet in December unless some unexpected business arose. At the close of the business session Mrs. Proctor served coffee and cookies to those present.

Christmas parade would be held at 5:30 p.m. on November 28 and that the Girl Scout Organization would be represented in the parade.

It was decided that the Council would not meet in December unless some unexpected business arose. At the close of the business session Mrs. Proctor served coffee and cookies to those present.

30 Years Ago Today

November 15, 1926
Efforts toward preparing to drill for oil on the Westbrook property in this city have received a setback that might lead to abandonment of the project, and there is much speculation today as to what the outcome will be. In an interview with those in charge of the project yesterday it was revealed that difficulties in securing leases on property adjoining the Westbrook estate had been encountered and that unless these could be overcome there probably will be no test well put down here.

After Twenty-Six Years, Teaching Is Still Thrilling

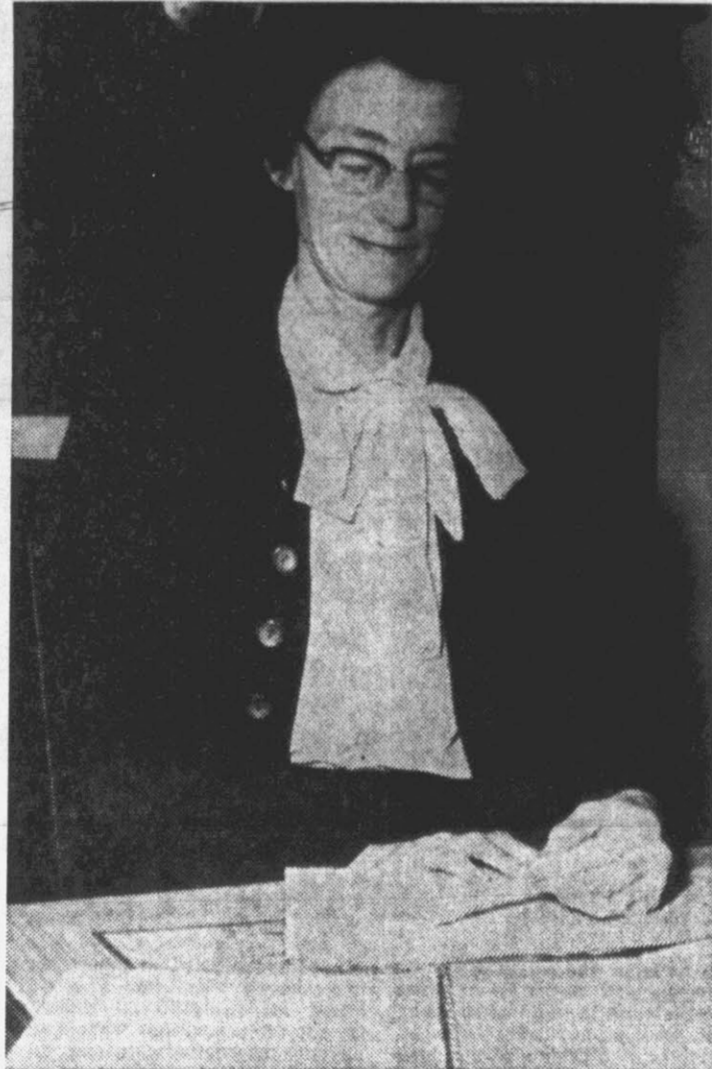

(Editor's Note: First in a series of two features on teachers, marking the observance of American Education Week.)
 By ANNETTE JACKSON
 Reflector Woman's Editor
 Twenty-six years of teaching haven't dulled the enthusiasm Miss Olevia Zahniser has for her job.
 She reports it's just as thrilling today to watch a child make the discovery he can read as it was in 1930 when she first started out. While the satisfactions of teaching remain the same, the veteran teacher of 26 years reports that almost everything else connected with the job has changed.
 When she first began looking for a teaching position, they were hard to get and highly prized, she recalls. Superintendents told applicants they wanted teachers with experience. To this she retorted, "And how do you expect us to get experience without a chance?"

 This cocky young ECTC graduate must have "struck home" with her future boss. He called her the next day to offer her a job as THE teacher in a one-teacher school at Ballards. Miss Zahniser laughs that he must have figured if she took that job she really wanted to teach.
 One-Woman Show
 She took it and thus became principal, janitor and teacher—all rolled into one. It was there in that two-room school house that she launched her teaching career—a career which has seen the products of her first days work grow up to take responsible places in the community and to return to her with their children to teach.

 Many Changes Seen
 She has seen teachers come and go. She has seen teaching undergo changes. Emphasis was placed on the three R's in her early career. While she taught in addition language, health and music, teaching the fundamentals as such did not occasion an explanation.
 Now she teaches in addition to these physical education, safety, social studies and science and dresses the fundamentals up so they are more palatable to her first graders.

 She sees young college graduates today go into teaching better prepared than she but wonders if they are any better prepared to teach the subject matter demanded of the progressive teacher of today than she was prepared to teach in the thirties.
 The children who come to her today in the first grade differ from her earliest students in many ways.
 Less Serious
 Kids today are less serious and are more free and open in their behavior, she says.
 The latter can be accounted for in part by the difference in the method of teaching. Today's teacher believes in giving even first graders freedom, thus allowing them to think and work things out for themselves.

 They're also encouraged to help with the planning and organization of classroom activities and Miss Zahniser subscribes to this "new" theory wholeheartedly.
 Her co-workers now approach teaching more creatively, the veteran says, and she feels that this is good. "Some teachers say we play more now than then but we teach through our play," she says.
 Never Tempted
 Has she ever been tempted by higher out-of-state salaries?
 "Never," she says.
 She's been at Belvoir School for 25 years and this year makes 26. She's been teaching in the same room for 24 years.
 She's completely satisfied with her position and thinks the people in the Belvoir community are the nicest possible ones to work with. Higher salaries don't interest her in the least, she says.
 Miss Zahniser lives now with her sister, Mrs. Elvin Jones, at 707 W. Fifth Street. She commutes by car to Belvoir School each day. This is another innovation she has seen in her years in the classroom. When she first went to Belvoir School, she was required to live in the school teacherage, she laughs.
 In her 26 years of teaching, she has missed 8½ days of school, eight of these due to deaths in the family. She has been out due to illness only one-half day.
 Her enthusiasm and devotion to teaching have caused her to be characterized by a superior as "one of the best first grade teachers I have ever seen."

GRADING PAPERS—Many nights of Miss Olevia Zahniser's twenty-six years of teaching have been consumed with grading homework and laying plans for classroom activities. She is shown above as she gets set for a paper-grading session. She was one of three teachers in the county last year awarded for twenty-five years of teaching. She taught one year prior to this period in a one-teacher school at Ballards. This year marks her twenty-sixth at Belvoir. (Reflector Staff Photo.)

A Truer Reflection Choice Needed

While results of the national election are fresh in the minds of American people this is an opportune vision in the antiquated structure of the electoral college which every four years names a president of the United States.

To be sure the millions of voters across the nation determine who the president is going to be. But the electoral college as now constituted fails to reflect accurately the feelings of millions of voters. The system of winner-take-all in electoral votes of each state does not give sufficient voice to millions of citizens in the 48 states who vote for the losing candidate.

Take the case of North Carolina in the recent general election. About 52 per cent of the voters of the state cast their ballots in favor of the Democratic candidate while the other 48 per cent voted in favor of the Republican presidential candidate. Under the present electoral college system all 14 votes of North Carolina will be cast in favor of Stevenson.

An electoral system which operates in such a manner certainly does not reflect the feeling of the people. Though highly improbable, it is possible that a presidential candidate under the current electoral college system could gain a majority of the popular vote in the nation and still not gain sufficient electoral votes to win the election.

There have been various suggestions for changing the electoral college to a new system which would more accurately reflect the popular vote for president.

Some have suggested a plan whereby the state's electoral vote would be cast according to the percentage of the popular vote each candidate received in that state. Were that plan followed Stevenson would have many more than 74 electoral votes he won in the recent election while Eisenhower's electoral vote of 457 would be reduced. The outcome of this particular election would not be changed, but at least the electoral vote—which actually determines who the president is—would more accurately reflect the will of the people.

Other plans have been offered including the Mundt-Coudert amendment which would have each state choose its presidential electors according to popular vote in congressional districts plus two electors at large which would correspond with the number of senators from each state.

The purpose of all the plans which have been seriously proposed is to form an electoral college to more accurately reflect the popular vote for the presidency.

Congress should not allow another four years to elapse without modernizing the antiquated electoral college system we now have.

Early Salute For N. C. First Edition

(Today's guest writer, Charles J. Parker, State Advertising Director.)

RALEIGH — Even before it comes off the press, fame has spread about North Carolina's 1957 "Variety Vacationland" book. Because it is being printed on paper made in North Carolina (Champion Paper & Fiber Co. at Canton) proofs were sent the paper manufacturer.

"Spectacular," the paper makers exclaimed, viewing the 50 full-color pictures depicting tourist attractions from mountains to coast. The proofs were shipped to the company's advertising department. Reaction was spontaneous. They requested permission to purchase 2,000 copies to be distributed to users of paper and dealers through the United States as samples of fine reproduction on their paper. Since these people take vacations as well as buy paper, North Carolina's tourist industry as well as its famous paper maker will benefit from this advertising.

Delivery of the first edition of 100,000 copies of the new vacation book has been promised in time for first copies to be presented to Governor Hodges and members of the Board of Conservation and Development, meeting in Raleigh January 7.

GETTING LONGER—The 1957 cars aren't the only things that are longer. Tourists are, too. It means money in the pocket of a North Carolina industry that has prospered mightily supplying the tourist industry throughout the nation — Winston-Salem's Butler Enterprises. They are marketing a device to stretch beds up to 10 inches longer in five minutes — while the outside guest is registering, so to speak.

NEVER EXISTED BEFORE—Jobs that never existed before is the way the story could be headlined. First announcement of it will be made in a few days in the public service advertisements being published by members of the North Carolina Press Association. These advertisements keep readers posted on the dynamic new development program taking shape under the leadership of Governor Hodges.

The advertisements in themselves are symbolic of awakened zeal throughout the State toward strengthening its economy, revealed in shocking new statistics to be lagging. Between now and the termination of the series in the spring, North Carolina newspapers will have contributed more than $100,000 worth of space to the State in this public information program.

They are accepting not one penny in payment. It is unique in North Carolina, and without parallel in neighboring states.

UNCOOPERATIVE FISH—Anybody can tell you that channel bass fishing along the Outer Banks of North Carolina is the best in the world, but to the movie camera crew of "World Outdoors" Cape Hatteras fish are the world's most uncooperative.

Other Editors Are Saying.. It Is Like This In November

(Hertford County Herald) November is a marvelous month: a month of sights and sounds to delight even the most hard-hearted of God's mortals. It is the month when nature, with Jacques Frost as her designer, casts aside the now-dreary green of summer and early autumn for the brilliant Scots plaid of late fall.

To those still young enough to appreciate the fireplace, it means the spitting-blue magic of light-wood knots: the slow hissing of heavy oak and the resulting deep-glowing ashes on the hearth.

For the kids it is a time for the roasting of marshmallows and the popping (and scorching) of corn. For grandpa, it's a time for hauling ashes. Late afternoon becomes a time of grey chimney smoke, not spiraling upward, but drifting languidly at rooftop level toward the distant woods.

For the upland game hunter, it's a time for going afield with his pointer while the ring of frost still covers the grey bean fields in hopes of surprising an unsuspecting covey out for an early feeding.

It's the haughty yelp of a packing of running beagles bursting through a reed marsh in hot pursuit of a scampering bunny.

For the waterfowl hunter, it's a cold, drizzly morning on a sound point with a northeaster bringing the rain and the pintails over your blind.

They set up for four days with famous Hatteras Lighthouse as background, waiting for somebody to catch a fish. Bait that had never been known to fall snagged not even a skate. Working on a tight schedule, the movie men had to move on to location in another state—just as word came to Hatteras that channel bass, big ones, were hitting like mad at Topsail Inlet to the south.

There have been many writer and photographer expeditions sponsored by the State Advertising Division that were highly successful in getting their fill of fish at Hatteras and elsewhere along the Outer Banks, but this wasn't the first time the fish simply wouldn't come up to be caught or have their picture taken.

Several years ago the Advertising Division made elaborate arrangements to get a picture story of the Governor of Arkansas and the Governor of North Carolina fishing at Oregon Inlet, south of Hatteras. The Arkansas governor flew over with full tackle. The North Carolina governor greeted him, looking at the beautiful weather, predicted great fishing. Photographers probed their cameras. They fished for two days, got richly sunburned, but nary a nibble.

COOPERATIVE PEOPLE — Fish sometimes are uncooperative, but North Carolina people aren't when it comes to helping advertise their State. The camera crew that went fishless departed with words of highest praise for the hospitality and cooperation of the people of North Carolina and its vacation attractions. They are coming back.

Never before in a single month have so many writers and photographers visited the State on assignment for national publications as they did in October. Simultaneously, Holiday Magazine was covering North Carolina in the photographic essay from the Great Smokies to the coast; Life magazine was covering picture stories along the Blue Ridge Parkway and in Raleigh; Better Homes and Gardens magazine was finishing a story on the Cape Hatteras Seashore; Redbook magazine was doing a coastal story, and a photographer's photographer, Gene Smith, was battling the weather for new pictures of the parabolic-arched arena at the State Fair. The State Advertising Division's news and picture staff was spread thinner than it ever has been before.

NICK OF TIME — Fortunately for North Carolina the crisis in the Middle East didn't boil over until Holiday magazine completed its pictures for a February article on North Carolina. Reason: Photographer Burt Glenn, who spent two weeks in North Carolina during October on the Holiday assignment, has been dispatched to Israel. He was there in September, and because he knows the scene and is one of the world's top lensmen, he was much in demand for an overseas assignment.

For the sports fan November is the cheer of the crowd as it echoes through the rolling hills. It's the opening thump, thump of a basketball from the hardwood floor of a well-lighted gymnasium.

November is a potpourri of sights and smells. Of kunks being tiled, of kids shouting and running out every possible ounce of energy before the coming of the early darkness. Of the heaviest camphor-scented clothing and blankets being brought from the depths of a cedar chest. Of reports cards and PTA meetings. Of frost-covered windshields and the sowing of winter cover crops. Of green rye-planted winter lawns and brown unplanted summer lawns.

Of hot oatmeal steaming on the stove for breakfast. Of iced tea glasses being put away. Of all-too frequent trips to the attic to store summer clothing (including straw hats and brown-and-white shoes).

November is the month which marks the coming of December—the 31-day period given by doctors for the life of 1956. Merchants in particular, apparently resent November, for it is more-and-more being taken as a month which merely interferes with the coming of December (Christmas) business.

Still, November—the month of many moods—is one of the most marvelous periods of the year for many of God's mortals: this writer included.

Guinea Pig For The Dentist

Most folks who read this column know by now that I spend quite a bit of time in the dentist chair. So it wasn't surprising when Dr. Henry Aldridge approached me the other day and said: "Red, I want to try out a new drill and you're the only man I know who will have a cavity available at all times. I'd like for you to take the afternoon off one day and go to Zebulon with me."

Well, I'm interested in anything that will improve the practice of dentistry, so right away I agreed to go.

Let me tell you that things are bad enough when you have to sweat out going to the dentist for an afternoon, but when you have to associate with him all afternoon before he goes to work on your things are really bad. "Yes sir," said Henry on the way up. "This new drill cuts through a tooth like a knife through butter."

I gulped and asked: "Does it ever cut too far, too fast, doc?" "Well they say it's easy to cut through a tooth with it but don't worry about a thing," Henry declared.

We rode in silence the rest of the way.

When we arrived at Zebulon I found a drill the likes of which I've never seen before. The thing lacked all the arms and elbows and drive belts of the conventional drill.

As usual I braced myself as Henry began to drill but that doggone drill was so smooth I soon kind of half-way relaxed. Henry finished the job right up and as far as I know he didn't cut too far. Anyway I'm sold on the thing and I've been after Henry to buy one ever since.

Notebook On Life

Anita Ekberg Has Standards

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP)—"Beauty contests," said Anita Ekberg, "are a terrible evil. I don't like them. I never have."

This sounded almost as heretical as if the late J.P. Morgan were to denounce gold. After all Miss Ekberg's own steppingstone to Hollywood stardom had been the winning of a contest to pick a "Miss Sweden."

"Yes," she admitted, "but it was the only one I ever entered, and I did so only because my mother urged me to. I already was a top model."

What's so evil about beauty contests? "Everything," said Miss Ekberg. "Many of them are such nonsense. They pick a 'Miss Fender of 1955' or a 'Miss Washington of 1956.' But what does it mean?"

"Usually they always look for the wrong kind of girl in beauty contests. They want the—how do you say it—pretty next-door girl, the sweet, innocent, nothing-at-all girls."

"This kind of a girl is ruined by winning a beauty contest. She doesn't have the drive, ambition, talent or courage to make a career."

"But her head has been turned. She is afraid she will drop out of nothing, so she is willing to do anything rather than go back home and live as she did before."

"She listens to men who tell her they can help her get ahead in show business. Often these men have no connection with show business at all. You know what they really want?"

"No, tell me," I said, cupping both hands to my ears to hear her next words better.

"They simply want a date with a pretty girl so they can show their friends what a bigshot they are," said Miss Ekberg. I dropped my hands.

Anita said even beauty-contest winners who land starlet contracts are little better off.

"A starlet gets walk-on parts to save the studio the cost of hiring another extra," she remarked. "But she is also expected to help entertain distinguished visitors."

"She is like a hostess in a restaurant where the girls have to drink with the customers. She is afraid not to do everything the studio asks her to, because she is afraid of losing that $250 a week. But usually she does anyway, and then what is left for her?"

Miss Ekberg, who is known as "The Blonde Iceberg" and has a bigger silhouette than Marilyn Monroe, is a graduate of the starlet system herself.

Her seventh and latest film, "Zarak," produced for Columbia Pictures and costarring Victor Mature and Michael Wilding, gives her the first real opportunity to unveil her statuesque charm. She plays a native dancer who becomes the fourth wife of a tribal chief, "but I hate every minute of it, and then I fall in love with the chief's oldest son, Victor Mature, and—" It's a real life drama.

Miss Ekberg, who thinks a star should act like a star, says the movie fan magazines are mad at her because she won't pose for them in her kitchen or while putting her hair in curlers.

"That isn't what fans want to see," she said. "They want to see the stars in glamorous situations—on a dance floor or at a bar drinking champagne. We should keep up the standard. But some people are tearing it down."

Not Miss Ekberg. With her it's "Noblesse oblige"—or to heck with the whole business.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS ACROSS OUR PATHWAYS

The word "devil" comes from a Greek word which means literally "to throw across." A devil is a slanderer, a traducer, one who throws something across—a lie across someone's fair name, a false estimate of one's worth across the pathway of his progress, a difficulty before the feet of a brother who many, and probably will, be caused thereby to stumble.

Satan, the chief of devils, is the Adversary. He is the one who opposes. He is the one who has his name signifies, keep throwing something across human pathways.

There are a lot of people today who take great intellectual pride in declaring that they do not believe in devils, or demons. But they do have to admit that somebody, or something, is continually casting a stumbling block before their feet. The Bible implies that personality is the essence of the universe's life. The Bible knows nothing about impersonal force. Creation came about not only through a Creator but through the word He uttered. All power is personal.

So don't be too ready to scoff at the devil, and at the big boss of all the devils, Satan himself. Experience teaches us that an adverse force is constantly being exerted against our best intentions. Temptations, impediments, and other evils are being cast before our feet. Satan is the Adversary. Devils are personalities who throw things across—in front.

Sounds reasonable.

Old-Fashioned Campaigning Still Best

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON — Solid, plodding and old-fashioned campaigning, including plenty of newspaper publicity and personal appearances before the curious voters, has not been supplanted by television and radio technique, in the opinion of Republican and Democratic propaganda experts.

President Eisenhower picked up several million votes by his brief but well-timed and well-placed charges throughout the countryside, according to this viewpoint. His victories in supposedly hostile areas, notably New England and the farm states, testify to the efficacy of the "personal touch."

Ike's ruddy warmth and sparkle do not exude on the screen or over the radio. He is not an eloquent speaker, and he frequently became tangled in squirming sentences. He is not an "actor" in the Rooseveltian manner, meaning both F.D.R. and T.R.

Stevenson, of course, read like poetry, for he is a master phrasemaker. But his television performance, possibly because he knew from the start that he had no chance to win, was poorer than in 1952.

Finally, there is the matter of money. Newspapers spend their own funds in "covering" candidates, and it runs into large figures. The two major Parties have to shell out millions for time on TV and radio. Four years hence, they may economize on that item.

Surprisingly, these conclusions on the relative effectiveness of newspaper coverage and personal appearances versus the screen are supported by a prominent TV-radio expert. He is Martin Codell of Washington, D.C., one of the nation's pioneer TV-radio columnists. In his weekly letter to the industry, Television Digest, he says:

"TV is here to stay as a major political campaign medium but it isn't by any means the whole show some people expected it to be. That is the election-eve consensus of two people vitally concerned with the evaluation of TV-GOP Campaign Director Robert Humphreys and Ralph Beck, Assistant Director of the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign."

"TV NO CURE-ALL CAMPAIGNING TECHNIQUE" "The GOP," according to Codell, "found newspapers the most important medium in a 1954 survey, and Humphreys said that he sees no reason to revise that finding."

Selling Service And Food

By ELMER ROESSNER

The grocery industry of America is trying to get the housewife to realize that it is selling her service as well as food. Service in a supermarket? Yes. Not counter service, not delivery service, not credit service. But maid service and chef service.

Two leaders in the industry—Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, and Rites W. Doe, Safeway vice president—recently pointed out in public statements that the average family spends 25 per cent of its income on food, the same portion the average family spent 20 years ago. But if the family purchased the same things the family of 1936 did, it would be spending only 16 per cent of income.

The big difference is the service, built into the package.

In other words, the average family today spends about 16 per cent of its income for food, and almost 9 per cent for preparation, blending, recipe testing and cooking. "Increase," because part of the increase is caused by more imported foods, better cuts of meat and choicer produce.

LOTS OF ATTENTION

These "maid services," performed in food processing plants, cover a wide range. They include shelling peas and limas, squeezing juice, chopping meat, cutting up chicken, dividing food into portions, breading fish, blending ingredients, adding vitamins, making sauces, cooking and even furnishing disposable plates for the meal.

"Take fresh peas," said Mr. Willis. "In New York City their average price has been around 27 cents a pound. But pods and other waste account for 63 per cent of the weight, raising the real cost of shelled peas to 72 cents a pound. At the same time, frozen peas, already shelled, sold at an average of only 33 cents a pound."

Mr. Doe, speaking to the National Association of Food Chains, gave another example: "A nationally advertised ready-for-the-oven pan of cornbread can be purchased for 33 cents for 10 ounces, about 50 cents a pound. A 5-pound bag of cornmeal costs 49 cents, about 10 cents a pound. Thus the prepared item costs five times as much. Mrs. Jones says it is worth it."

THE TIME ELEMENT

Because these days hired girls are almost impossible to come by, short of kidnapping, the Mrs. Joneses must prepare food themselves.

Let's suppose one Mrs. Jones buys an over-ready mixture in a disposable tin for 33 cents. Then suppose another Mrs. Jones takes 10 ounces of cornmeal, costing about 6 cents, adds shortening, an egg, baking powder and salt (items Mr. Doe overlooked) and spends half an hour checking her recipe, measuring, blending ingredients and, later, washing the pan. The second Mrs. Jones has saved about 25 cents—which is a saving only if her time is worth less than 50 cents an hour.

Canned foods may or may not be cheaper than fresh foods, depending on the season. But the preparation and cooking of fresh foods often takes considerable time. A. Edward Brown, vice president of the National Canners Association, recently calculated that if housewives put up the same amount of corn that canners put up for them each year, it would take a total of 494,517,833 hours. A figure so precise in suspect, but the fact remains that the canners have done a lot of maid work for the millions of America.

This is the reason for buying more "help" with the food will undoubtedly continue. First, there is no possibility that hired girls will return in numbers; second, more women are going into jobs and therefore have less time for chores; third, those who aren't working are having more babies than ever, hence haven't time for kitchen work; fourth, the rise in number of autos and television sets makes women more eager to spend time out of the kitchen, and, fifth, with women getting married earlier, few know how to cook to satisfy a man.

The food industry is not only saving hours of time a day for the American housewife—it may also be saving her marriage.

think it is. We are reaching a bigger audience because there are more TV sets, but there is no captive audience and no novelty any more."

TELEVISION ENTERTAINMENT MEDIUM Beck, the Democratic publicist, concurs. "TV is still a medium of entertainment," he says, "but not of communication. It has been disproven that TV is a major force in politics. Word-of-mouth picketing in precinct work is still the basic technique."

The patient and pedestrian cultivation of the voters at close range by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Senator Estes Kefauver, the Democrats' Vice Presidential candidate, seems to substantiate this viewpoint.

The two opponents for the No. 2 place are generally regarded as the coming candidates of their respective Parties for 1960. Kefauver, however, will face opposition from Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

Fourteen students at East Carolina will represent the college at a meeting of the State Student Legislature, meeting in Raleigh November 16-18. They were selected as delegates by the Executive Council of the Student Government Association.

Ragland, Plymouth; David Carson, Williamston; Edward P. Monroe Jr., Woodbridge, Va.; Horace L. Rose Jr., Richmond, Va.; Isaac K. Williamson, Princeton; Delano Driver, Richmond, Va.; and Shirlee Morton Smith, Jacksonville. The East Carolina delegation is now at work preparing bills to be introduced during the session.

Actress Says She May Never Work Again

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Screen star Elizabeth Taylor, suing for second divorce, and producer Mike Todd, who gave her a big diamond, took a Florida break today from film chores. "I may never work again," Miss Taylor said when she and Todd flew to Miami from New York.

Tonight they planned to attend a Southern premiere of "Around the World in 80 Days," a Todd production. They said they hoped to get a "few days of rest" in the Miami area.

Todd, 48, said he did not know when he planned to marry Miss Taylor, 24. "She hasn't asked me yet," he added. He called his gift "a friendship ring."

Miss Taylor sued British actor Michael Wilding for divorce yesterday at Santa Monica, Calif. She charged mental cruelty. The access asked custody of their two children, Michael, 3½, and Christopher, 1½, and $250 a month for their support.

First Hungarian Refugees Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first of some 5,000 Hungarian refugees may arrive in this country by late next week.

This was announced yesterday by White House press secretary James C. Hagerty, who said they will be housed temporarily at the Army's Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Last week, President Eisenhower ordered this country's doors opened for up to 5,000 Hungarians who have fled Soviet oppression.

Hagerty said officials who run the refugee relief law have been "just snowed under" by offers from Americans to provide the Hungarians with homes, jobs and other aid. He said Camp Kilmer has enough barracks and other facilities to handle about 500 refugees in the immediate future. In another month, Hagerty added, the camp will be able to accommodate "several thousand" others. Hagerty said the refugees would be flown from Europe to McGuire Air Force Base, near Camp Kilmer.

Educator Says Integration Won't Kill Negro Colleges

EDITOR'S NOTE: With integration slowly spreading, especially in institutions of higher learning, what is the future of the Negro colleges formed when separate facilities were required for the two races? Here's the answer of one Negro college president.

By PAUL R. JORDAN
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Dr. R.B. Atwood has no intention of presiding over the liquidation of Kentucky's only Negro college—no matter what racial integration may bring.

The president of Kentucky State College says the admission of Negroes to 29 previously all-white colleges in this region has had no real effect on the institution.

Kentucky State actually has kept pace with the general trend and enjoyed annual increases in enrollment since the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in public schools in 1954. This year's 546 total includes six white students in night classes. But despite this stability in the face of widening integration, the 59-year-old Negro educator, who has guided Kentucky State since 1929, predicted a "profound effect is inevitable."

Question Answered
What, then will be the ultimate role of Kentucky State and similar colleges in a completely-integrated system? Dr. Atwood replied:

"I was not elected president of Kentucky State to preside over its liquidation, neither do I intend to do so. The college will, if given adequate support, thoroughly justify its continued existence."

Then he talked of a two-year institute of technology which, if necessary, could supplement Kentucky State's four-year courses in teaching and the like.

Such an institution, he said, would appeal to the "financially uncertain" student and meet the demand for technicians in the expanding fields of air conditioning, heating, refrigeration, building construction and similar industries.

Dr. Atwood described the technician as the "middle man" flanked by the "thinker" and the "doer who works with his hands."

Neglected Field
Few Kentucky colleges provide courses for technicians, he said, and if they do, the training is inadequate. This neglect of the technician, he added, presents an unbalanced picture as colleges and universities turn out the professional thinker and vocational schools mold the craftsman, or doer.

Will Kentucky State make a special effort to lure white students?

Not necessarily, Dr. Atwood replied, at the same time emphasizing that all races are welcome. Kentucky State admitted its first white student in 1954.

The six white students now attending night classes are persons who work in this capital city area and want to learn more about accounting, business law, or dramatics.

He said his Negro students consider a white as "just another student."

As for Negro students, he expressed belief that most feel more at home in a basically Negro college than they do as a small minority at a larger white school, especially during this transition period.

Bugs Struggle For Supremacy

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Insects are keeping pace with man in the battle for survival.

That is the opinion of scientists who attended a southern regional work conference on nuclear energy here. They said the insect population is at its peak and the weight of insects now in the world equals the weight of man.

Dr. Fran. Soda, of Decatur, Ala., said insects in many instances adjust themselves to local conditions and develop immunity to poisons, so that man must constantly devise new methods of eradicating them.

Dr. Eric Rodgers of the University of Alabama reported that insects are far more numerous now than when he was a boy. He said there are even reports of the boll weevil now attacking corn instead of cotton.

Dr. Ralph W. Singleton, professor of biology at the University of Virginia, pointed out that such modern means of transportation as autos and planes have spread insects far and wide, giving them a chance to establish new beach-heads. Success in solving pest control problems will depend largely on a vigorous program of research, say the scientists, who warn that man must wage a continuing fight if he is to keep ahead of the insect.

Relief Supplies Grow And Grow

LONDON (AP)—A veteran welfare worker looked at the small mountain of Hungarian relief supplies blocking the Red Cross office in London and shook her head in wonder.

"It has been a long time since England saw anything like this," she said. "Certainly not since the east coast floods of 1953."

Throughout Western Europe, welfare workers are telling the same story. The free world, they say, is sending the shirt off its back and the ring off its finger to help Hungarian refugees and other victims of last week's Russian repression.

More than 10 million dollars in money has been given or pledged in voluntary contributions, and amount is rising by the hour. Thousands of tons of medicine, food, clothing and other supplies have already been sent to Budapest or points along the Hungarian border. A vast backlog of additional supplies is clogging relief depots throughout West Europe.

Dozens of organizations, ranging from state governments to elementary school classes, have pledged assistance to the wounded and homeless in the revolt-torn nation and to the refugees fleeing across her borders.

Twelve nations have promised asylum to more than 28,000 refugees. In Belgium alone, welfare workers say the number of offers to adopt Hungarian children exceeds the total number of those who have escaped the country.

Contributions have been received from prime minister and pensioner alike. In England, Sir Winston Churchill gave $2,800, French Premier Mollet set next Sunday as nationwide collection day. Street collectors in London told of old women throwing wedding rings into the brimming baskets.

TAX REFUNDS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service has refunded $24,631,474 to farmers for the tax they paid on gasoline and other fuels for use on farms the first half of this year.

A 500-foot tunnel has been built by the Atomic Energy Commission at its Hanford, Wash., plant to "bury" equipment which is too radioactively "hot" to be used longer.

Named Son For Car 115's Driver

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The police radio dispatcher called Car 115 and asked: "Did you escort an emergency O. B. case to the hospital last night?" "Yes," the ficer replied. "What's your full name?" The officer answered "Howard Richard Bennett. Why?" The dispatcher explained "The mother is naming the boy after you."

Long Movie Footage Is Debated, Pro And Con

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The running time of new film epics is the source of controversy in Hollywood today. Do movies run too long? Will the public rebel against sitting three and four hours to watch one movie? Or will people feel they're getting their money's worth?

The footage champ is "The 10 Commandments," which stretches 3 hours and 36 minutes. Close behind is "War and Peace" at a hefty 3 hours and 28 minutes, followed by "Giant" at 3 and 17.

It's downright common for a picture to run two hours or over these days. Until recently, the average length of a picture was 90 minutes, and now, ran 80 and 70.

I found articulate partisans for both sides of the issue. In the pro faction was Edward Dmytryk, youthful looking vet of 33 years in films. He is obviously for long films, since he's directing "Raintree County," which may run four hours.

"I think longer pictures are inevitable," he argued. "If you're going to tackle big subjects, you've got to have the length to present them. Nowadays we're doing a lot of big novels. If you're limited to two hours on the screen you can only take a portion of the book. Then you're fooling the public; they expect to see the whole story."

"The book, 'Raintree County,' covered a man's life. Even with four hours, we can only tell of six years of his life.

Some stories are told best in 90 minutes. But if you're going to tell an epic, you need more time." Taking the con was Dick Powell. Said he:

"I've never seen a long picture that couldn't have been improved by taking 20 minutes out of it. And that includes 'Gone With The Wind.'"

Hopeful Note In Big Enrollments

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Pennsylvania educator said today that huge enrollments foreseen for the nation's colleges may not prove to be such a handicap to the student after all.

Already, said Dean Harold K. Schilling of Pennsylvania State University, mass education "has set in with a vengeance" at the graduate school level of some universities.

"But I doubt very much that the quality of graduate work at these mass-producing institutions has suffered one bit," he said. "The young Ph.D. today is at least as able and as well prepared as his predecessor of 25 or 50 years ago."

Largest single item on U.S. food bills is beef, average annual consumption being over 60 pounds per person.

Won't Get His Wish This Year, But Maybe Next

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Many children going to school today are thinking of what they'll get for Christmas. All 12-year-old Joey like other kids.

Joey won't get his wish this Christmas. But he may get it by Christmas 1957.

He lives at nearby Wilmerding with his widowed mother, a brother and two sisters. Each morning before attending classes at St. Leocadia's Roman Catholic school, he goes to Mass and says a prayer that his operation will "come out okay."

Joey's sort of a frail boy and he's shy. But he's not nearly so shy as he was a year ago when a Lions Club in his community became interested in him, saw to it that he had the finest pair of glasses obtainable and then arranged special eye treatment.

Mrs. Mary Fillar, Joey's mother, said the outlook wasn't good for Joey until the Lions Club came to the family's aid. Her husband died last February after being bedridden five years by arthritis. Joey's right eye was injured at birth. His eyelid sagged pathetically and for years, especially after starting to school, he endured the stares of the curious.

"I took him to the doctor to see if there wasn't something we could do," his mother said last night. "The Lions Club paid for his glasses and for a whole year now he's been receiving treatment at the Pennsylvania Vision Institute in Pittsburgh."

That treatment has so encouraged surgeons that in about a month they'll operate on Joey. He has double vision and is unable to coordinate his right eye with his good left eye but eye training exercises have helped him considerably.

There probably will be a series of operations, a surgeon said. Muscles alternately will be strengthened, then weakened. Joey will receive eye exercises. The entire process probably will take a year and it may not be until Christmas 1957 that Joey can see as well as most boys.

The Lions Club has pledged itself to raise more than $500 for the operation. Mrs. Fillar, whose other children range from 9 to 17, said she keeps the family together on $193 monthly Social Security payments.

Pilot' Hears' With His Feet

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Knoxville pilot, with a name as famous as aviation itself goes one better than the pioneer fliers who "flew by the seat of their pants." He flies by the soles of his feet.

Harold Wright, 29-year-old instructor at Tennessee School for the Deaf, is totally deaf himself. He flies in his stocking feet so he can "hear" the vibrations of the motor in his plane.

"My tootsies have never failed me," laughed Wright, who lost his hearing through illness when he was 17. He has logged 435 hours of flying time.

Wright, incidentally, doesn't know whether the famed Wright brothers were any relation—but they definitely were soul mates.

It took him a long time to convince the Civil Aeronautics Administration, which licenses pilots, that he was capable of flying safely. He first tried to get a license in Idaho, then California, then Texas.

"I knew CAA regulations didn't prohibit my getting a license," the lip-reading Wright said, "but always the officials would say I could fly only when accompanied by a licensed person with good hearing."

Then, about five years ago, he enrolled at Gallaudet College in Washington, D. C.—the only college in the nation for the deaf. He also checked with CAA headquarters in Washington. That was on a Monday.

On Tuesday, he got his long-awaited license, not only to solo but to carry passengers.

Incidentally, Wright didn't choose to teach at the Tennessee School for the Deaf after his graduation from Gallaudet because Island Home Airport is only a block away.

"But it certainly is handy," he said.

Japan's birth rate has dropped faster than that of any other nation in recent times, according to United Nations' reports.

Answer Proved Of Little Help

DALLAS (AP)—The post office informed a woman that a small black and white dog was preventing mailman Houston L. Thomson from delivering her mail and that delivery would have to be held up until it was tied.

The woman's answer didn't help much. "The black dog doesn't belong to us," she wrote. "We've tied up the white dog so please leave the mail now."

President Gave Spelling Lesson

SILVER CITY, N. H. (AP)—The word "college" is spelled with two L's, says J. Clodd Miller, president of New Mexico Western College here.

The statement was prompted by the lettering that appeared recently on the side of the college station wagon.

The lettering on the door of the driver's side spelled "college" with three L's.

OPPOSING RUNNERS—When ECC and Richmond University clash Saturday afternoon at College Field, here, the two husky young men pictured above will be running in opposite backfields. On the left, is Mickey Marinkov, Richmond's shifty halfback who, along with George Riggs, gives the Spiders a speedy ground attack. Bob Maynard, right, will be the starting fullback for East Carolina and will handle most of the heavy-duty running chores for the Bucs.

Bucs Finish Practice For Richmond Battle

By JOHNNY HUDSON
Special To Reflector
Coach Jack Boone finished up the major work for Saturday's big game with the University of Richmond yesterday, as he sent his squad through a session which included plenty of fundamental work for the Richmond battle.

The Pirate head mentor once again stressed defense with his first two units and continued to warn them of the strength of the visitors. Offensive tactics also got attention as the Bucs hope to better their scoring production.

Bob Perry, Bob Maynard, and Bob Lilley took care of the kicking chores as the Bucs worked on their punting game. Punting has been one of the strong points in the ECC attack this fall. Larry Howell, Carlton Matthews, and Joe Guess worked on extra point kicking.

Working on the first unit today were Howard Beale and Joe Guess at ends; Larry Howell and John Baltrush at tackles; Dick Monds and Ed Emory at guards; and James Faircloth at center. Gary Matlocks, out with a cold the first part of the week, directed the backfield, which featured Greenville's Bobby Perry and James Speight at the halves. Working at the fullback slot was Bob Maynard. This is expected to be the opening lineup against the Spiders. It will be the first starting appearance for Beale and Baltrush.

Former ECC Cage Star Has A Son

Charlie Huffman, former All-State basketball player at East Carolina College, has a new son. The seven-pound, ten-ounce baby was born November 13 in the base hospital at Shaw Air Force Base, S. C. The child has been named Charles Eugene Jr.

Huffman, a 1954 graduate of East Carolina, is now a first lieutenant in the Air Force. He is married to the former Carolyn Brady of Raleigh.

Edenton Host To Ayden Friday

EDENTON—Ayden, the Coastal Conference football champions, who last week crushed Wendell 20-0 in the first district playoff, will battle Edenton, here, Friday night for the second round of their attempt to capture the State Class A Crown.

Last week, at Farmville, Tommy Edwards paced the hard-hitting Tornadoes to a near-rout over Wendell, the Wake County Class A champs. Coach Stuart Tripp's charges completely outclassed Wendell, racking up a total of 15 first downs and 374 yards in passing and running.

Tomorrow night, here, at the Edenton high school ball park, the Tornadoes will meet their toughest test of the season. Edenton, boasting a big, fast split T assault, are undefeated.

Ayden, on the way to their position thus far, posted a 5-0 mark in Coastal Conference play. They were unbeaten, untied and unscored upon—and last Friday's battle with Wendell didn't change that, except to add on another victory to the list.

Expected to spark the Ayden attack Friday, are Edwards, R. L. Collins, Lindy Dunn and Hal Worthington in the backfield. In the line, Horton Jolly, Burt Tripp, and Ikey Baldree are expected to pace play.

Washington Set For Friday Night

WASHINGTON—Coach Choppy Wagner, putting the finishing touches on his Washington Pam Pack football team today, stated that the Henderson club that will be facing his boys tomorrow night in Greenville "are an awful good team, with a good defense."

Washington, winners of the Northeastern Conference football crown this season, is now making the long march toward the state Class AA title. They posted a 9-0-1 mark during their season's play, at center: Ward Marslander or Jim Silverthorn at quarterback; Tanner and Houston at fullbacks and Steve Cochran at halfback.

Southern Conference Is Preparing For Top Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Alex Szuch, 170-pound senior from Logan, W.Va., will be at quarterback for West Virginia Saturday when the Mountaineers tangle with Furman in a Southern Conference football game at Morgantown, W.Va.

Szuch, filling in for the injured Mickey Trimark in recent games, has been one of the heroes in West Virginia's last two victories, a 14-0 triumph over George Washington and last week's 13-6 decision over Virginia Military.

Coach Art Lewis said yesterday Szuch would get the call. Bruised Furman had injured halfback Jim Jennings back in pads yesterday. Jennings missed the rough work, however. Billy Weir and Dick Shaw alternated at left halfback, a spot left vacant by the injury to Jerry Penland. Coach John Sauer praised The Citadel's workout after emphasizing pass offense and pass defense in preparation for Saturday's game with George Washington at Charleston, S.C.

"It was a good workout for a Wednesday," Sauer said. Still sidelined with injuries were end Paul Maguire and halfback Mike Siano. Quarterback Bobby Schwarze returned to duty.

William and Mary had quarterback Bob Hardage throwing passes to ends Walt Brodie and Larry Peccatiello, thus indicating the Indians may take to the air at Rutgers Saturday.

Richmond's Spiders, who invade East Carolina Saturday, reviewed their offensive plays and brushed up on aerial offense and defense. Washington and Lee is host to Sewanee in the only other action Saturday. Virginia Military and Virginia Tech are idle until Thanksgiving afternoon and Davidson until the night of Nov. 23.

Friday Expected To Launch Probe Into Probation

RALEIGH (AP)—Consolidated University of North Carolina President William C. Friday was expected to launch an intensive probe today into the reason why the NCAA put N.C. State College on probation for four years.

He was expected to go into conference with State College Chancellor Carey H. Bostian who returned from Washington, where he had stopped off after appearing before the NCAA Council at Detroit.

Meanwhile, Jackie Moreland, the star basketball prospect who Friday says is the bone of contention in the matter, declared State is not guilty of the charges against it.

In a statement released by the college's athletic department, Moreland said yesterday: "I personally know the school is not guilty of what it has been accused. I have violated no rules and neither has the college. I hope the whole mess is straightened out soon. This is all I have to say on the subject."

Without naming names, the NCAA has charged State with giving cash inducements and a five-year unrestricted scholarship to a student-athlete prospect, plus a medical scholarship to a friend of the prospect.

The friend has been identified in some quarters as Moreland's girl friend, Betty Clara Rhea, now a student at Centenary College in Shreveport, La.

Moreland, 6-8, was a widely sought prospect when he starred with the Minden, La., High School basketball team last season. He turned up at State in September after several other colleges had claimed he intended to enroll at their campuses.

In Washington Bostian was quoted as saying the "NCAA must have some evidence which has not been made known to me or other officials of the college."

State's athletic director, Ray Clouton, said, "We presented what we thought was the truth in this thing. I can truthfully say every representative of our school thought we were not in violation of NCAA rules."

Carolina, Irish Seeking To Save Face Saturday

By REESE HART
CHAPEL HILL, N.C.—A year ago football coaches Terry Brennan and Jim Tatum were riding the crest of a successful season, but the picture for them this year has changed to one of gloom.

This time last season, Brennan's Notre Dame team had a 7-1 record and was ranked fourth in the nation. Tatum was coach at Maryland and his Terrapins had won nine in a row, were ranked second nationally and headed for the Orange Bowl.

This Saturday Notre Dame and North Carolina, now coached by Tatum, meet at South Bend, Ind. in an intercollegiate game that will see each coach trying to salvage a victory from a losing campaign.

Notre Dame has a 1-6 record and has lost five in a row. Tatum's Tar Heels have won two, lost five and tied one.

After seven lean years against the Fighting Irish, this may be the year for North Carolina to turn the tables. Saturday's game will mark the end of their current series, but North Carolina will go back on the Notre Dame schedule in 1958.

Notre Dame defeated the Tar Heels 42-6 in 1949 in their first meeting. Since then the Irish have won by scores of 14-6, 12-7, 34-14, 34-14, 42-13 and last season by 27-7.

Trailing by 7-0, North Carolina came back last Saturday with an explosive third quarter offense to defeat Virginia Tech 21-7. Halfback Ed Sutton, a bright spot in the Tar Heel picture, scored all three touchdowns.

Paul Hornung, regarded as a terrific passer, has borne much of the offensive work for Notre Dame. The lone victory for the Irish was over Indiana, 20-6. Losses were to SMU, Purdue, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Navy and Pittsburgh.

On the basis of comparative scores against Oklahoma's Sooners, Notre Dame and North Carolina would be rated about even. Oklahoma blasted Notre Dame 40-and North Carolina 36-0. The Tar Heels will throw a big, strong backfield against the Irish. Sutton, a 200-pounder, runs with power. He is the team's leading ground gainer with 483 yards in 73 carries for a 6.7 average.

Quarterback Dave Reed, who missed the first four games because of injury, has completed 19 passes in 48 attempts for 280 yards and four touchdowns. Fullback Wally Vale, one of the nation's leading punters, has gained 160 yards in 39 carries for 4.1.

Oklahoma Fans In An Uproar

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Tennessee gained 106 yards against Georgia Tech, Oklahoma could gain more than that against the Kremlin.

This was the bitter boost today of an Oklahoma football fan—one of the thousands irate because their high-flying Sooners aren't tabbed the nation's best.

Tennessee, on the strength of a 6-0 victory over Georgia Tech, pushed Oklahoma from atop the Associated Press poll this week.

The furor here has grown daily. State fans feel they were evicted from the top spot without cause, following a 44-0 shellacking of Iowa State last Saturday.

The Sooner players, who have won seven straight games this season to stretch Oklahoma's victory string to 37, aren't as vociferous as the fans. But there's no doubt they are unhappy.

CHAPTER 13

The passing feet never slackened their pace. Casson gave Perry three minutes to get out of sight, then took the van back to its garage and returned to Mount Street.

He changed back into his Bickersteth Street suit and wrote a note. This he gave to Mrs. Baker together with the canister of film. He told her to deliver it to the studio first thing next morning. He wanted it developed like the earlier films, and each print numbered with the day and numeral of its parent consider, and he wanted the whole lot by tea-time the same day. It was a rush job, urgent.

In Bickersteth Street Casson had supper and sat down to write. He sat up till three in the morning, writing the history of the case in detail. The result pleased him.

He did not wait for Perry the next morning but left the house after breakfast and went to Mount Street, taking the history with him. He changed into yet another suit, took a raincoat and umbrella, and drove to Knights-bridge. He parked well away from Montpelier Square.

His purpose was to keep walking, passing the southern end of the Square at twenty-minute intervals in order to keep a regular check on Perry's presence. Perry was there, settled down to his sketching; and he remained in that position throughout the morning.

Casson knocked off at lunch-time for half-an-hour, then resumed his patrol. Each time he passed, Perry was sheltering under a tree, reading a newspaper.

Casson realized that he was wasting his time. Perry would not move in for the kill that day. Disgruntled, he went home to his flat. He had a bath, changed back into his old suit and went into the library to examine the finished photographs. Three of the pictures were no good. But two were excellent.

One was of Perry dressed as Perry, the other of Perry dressed as Bagot. In both the little man was standing outside the front door of his house and, because it was a corner house, the name of the street was low on the edge of the picture.

Casson called Mrs. Baker into the room. "You remember the man we watched in Montpelier Square?" She nodded. "Do you recognize him here?" She looked at the photographs, discarded that of Perry in his ordinary clothes, hesitated over Perry dressed as Bagot.

"I think this is him, Mr. Casson, but I couldn't quite swear to it in a Court of Law, sir."

"Thank you, Mrs. Baker. When she had left the room he picked up a pencil from his desk and bent over the photograph of Perry dressed as Bagot. He worked carefully, intently, for a quarter of an hour. Then he called her back. He gestured to the photograph which he had propped against a vase.

"Try this one, Mrs. Baker. Not too near."

She took one look.

"That's him, sir." His voice was contented. She liked to see her Mr. Casson happy. He was happy. All he had done was faintly to pencil in heavier spectacles than the gold-rimmed ones which Perry had worn when he had emerged from his house and been photographed.

Casson scribbled a name and telephone number on a pad and threw it across to Mrs. Baker.

"Ring this, would you, and tell Nevill to wait till I get there; I'll be ten minutes." He was out of the door, leaving it swinging future of Alan, whom Strutt hoped would go to King's School, Canterbury.

"What's he going to be?" Casson asked.

"Don't know. Too clever to be a copper." Adeline smiled in amused admiration of her husband. Casson agreed with her, having considerable respect for the intelligence of the Metropolitan Police.

"Better let me make him a wine merchant, Casson suggested. Adeline gave him a quick glance and began to clear away the red-and-white patterned plates.

"You men will want to gossip," she said. "I'll call you later when I've made the tea." Casson shrugged.

"Come along," said Strutt, grabbing his arm. "We'll go into the den."

The den was a long slot off the dining room. It was littered with cricket bats, pads, bursting boxes of microscope slides, and piles of newspapers. Strutt sank into an ancient wickerwork arm-chair.

"Now," he said. "Talk."

Tomorrow: Casson faces Lockyer with Perry's photograph.

Montgomery Negroes Vote To End Their Long Bus Boycott

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Negro bus boycott that became a symbol of mass resistance to racial segregation was voted to end last night at the church where it was born 345 days before.

An estimated 5,500-hymn-singing persons crowded into the Holt Street Baptist Church to vote unambiguously for an end to the Montgomery boycott.

The Negroes decided to return to city buses as soon as the U. S. Supreme Court's decision that bus segregation is unconstitutional goes into effect here.

Their leader, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., told the cheering throng that the decision should reach Montgomery courts in several days. He urged calmness and restraint when it comes.

Until then, boycotters at the church and at a similar meeting on the other side of town agreed unanimously they will walk to work or share rides with friends.

On Tuesday a state circuit judge granted the city of Montgomery an injunction stopping the Negroes' car pool that has provided transportation since the boycott city interference with the car pool.

King urged those at both meetings to "be calm and reasonable with understanding, good will and Christian love."

"We must take this not as a victory over the white man but with dignity," he said. "Don't go back to the buses and push people around. . . . We're just going to sit where there's a seat."

King added later, "I wish I could say that when we go back to the buses on an integrated basis that no white person will insult you or that violence will not break out. But I can't say that because I don't know."

"If someone pushes you, don't push him back. . . . We must have the courage to refuse to hit back."

King said return to the buses before the decision takes effect "is a matter that might be used by reactionary elements to plunge us into needless harassment and meaningless litigation."

Manager J. H. Bagley of Montgomery City Lines, Inc., whose bus patronage dropped by more than 30,000 a day during the boycott, said drivers would continue to enforce segregation until formally relieved of the state-prescribed duty.

The Montgomery City Commission has made no comment.

The boycott began the day a Negro seamstress was fined $14 for refusing to move to the rear of a bus.

Attendance at the two meetings was estimated by the two churches' ministers to total more than 10,000. Boycott decisions in the past have been made at such meetings and accepted by the 50,000 Negroes in this first capital of the Confederacy.

Couple Sat Out Wrong Ceremony

BEDFORD, Ind. (AP) — It was the right denomination but the wrong church.

An out-of-town couple arrived by car and asked for the Methodist Church, where they were to attend a wedding.

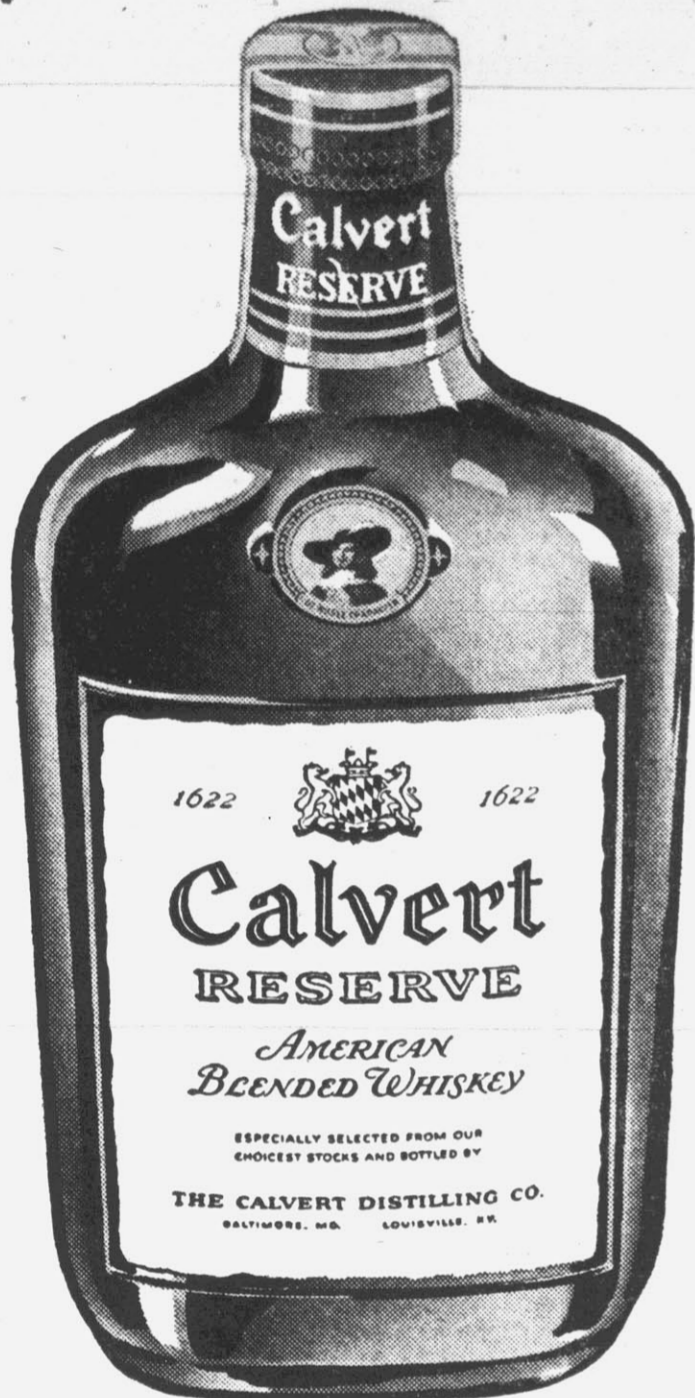

They were directed to First Methodist Church. The wedding started before they realized it was the wrong couple. They couldn't leave without disturbing the services so they sat through the ceremony.

Then they left hurriedly for Trinity Methodist Church, but no one learned whether they got there on time.

To Speak Here

R. G. Carson, Jr., head of industrial engineering at State College, Raleigh, will speak on "The Value of Technical Training For Mechanics and Farmers" at the Greenville Kiwanis Club Friday night at 6:30. Kiwanian A. C. Howard will have charge of the program. The nationally known engineer comes to Greenville upon invitation of Leonard P. Bloxham, city manager and utilities superintendent, who has urged establishment of a technical training school here for mechanics at less than the four-year level.

Buglar Bungles Forced Entry

OMAHA (AP) — The burglar who broke into a packing company here must have had butterfingers. Police investigation disclosed a trail of blood indicating the burglar slashed his hands on broken glass; jammed a door only to find it led to an outside loading dock; tried again and laboriously pried two padlocks free to find they guarded a cooler door; found a quarter of beef too heavy to carry and settled for a small piece of beef cut from the quarter. The stolen meat was of the poorest grade.

Dr. Abrams Addresses College Unit Of NCEA

Education redeems human minds from error, declared Dr. W. Amos Abrams, editor of North Carolina Education, in addressing the East Carolina College unit of the North Carolina Education Association Wednesday evening, in McGinnis Auditorium.

The program, directed by Dr. John G. Navarra, president of the ECC unit, was in observance of American Education Week and was attended by faculty members and college students affiliated with the Future Teachers of America, as well as teachers in the Greenville city schools. The guest speaker was presented by Dr. Navarra. Dr. Abrams declared that the North Carolina Education Association which not only promoted the professional advancement of the teaching profession, but has also aided in creating sentiment for the betterment of the schools and advancing the cause of education in working for the state's most valuable resources, its school children.

Tracing the growth of the organization since its organization in 1856, Dr. Abrams noted that at the present time the NCEA has the largest membership of any professional organization in North Carolina, and that it has developed educational leadership in a democratic fashion.

Reactionary and ultra-conservative groups which have sought to restrain the development of the schools were sharply denounced by the speaker for retarding the progress of public education on one hand, while apathy, political and personality clashes have applied brakes to growth on the other.

Salary increases are due the teachers for their dedication and devotion to a task to which they have set themselves as public servants, Dr. Abrams asserted.

East Carolina College was lauded for its "crusading spirit" in advancing education and its wise administration. Dr. Abrams spoke in high appreciation for the contributions to the public schools by faculty and staff members of the college.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK—Steels and oils paced a narrow advance in the stock market today, with favored issues ahead fractions to around 2 points a share in the early afternoon.

The market got off to a higher start and rolled up some gains of around 3 points before it backed away and then steadied in the second hour of trading.

Brokers said investor confidence was bolstered by the arrival of United Nations forces at the Suez Canal. At the same time, a new bearish note was provided by an increase in bankers' acceptance rates, which tied in with the recent tight money trend.

Volume was running slightly behind yesterday when transactions totaled 2,290,000 shares. Business was brisk near the start, then quieted somewhat as prices settled back.

Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube were up around 2 points and Lukens Steel added around 5. Lukens made a total jump of 15 1/4 points on Monday and Tuesday, then traded unchanged yesterday.

Among the oils, Gulf and Sinclair rose around a point and Amerasia chalked up more than 2 support for oils was attributed in part to reports of no increases in fuel oil prices.

America Sugar was ahead around 3 following a sharp rise in world sugar futures in commodity markets.

High-priced Superior Oil advanced about 7 points, then slipped into the minus column.

Chemicals and rubbers were a shade higher, while motors and aircrafts were mostly off fractions.

International Paper and Du Pont slipped about 2 points, and Douglas around a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 10 cents at noon at $178.90. Industrials were ahead 70 cents, rails up 20 cents and utilities off 30 cents.

Police Rescue Handcuffed Boy

SAN FRANCISCO—Okay, so you find a pair of handcuffs on the sidewalk.

If you are 7 years old, like Sammy Garcia, and on your way home from school, you snap one end around one wrist.

Along comes Ronald Davis, 12, who snaps the other end around a garage door handle.

Sammy yelled for help.

His mother Mrs. Frances Garcia arrived, took one look and called police.

They unlocked Sammy and the garage door, checked the serial number on the handcuffs and found that officer Richard Cullinan had lost them while on patrol.

Reports Truck Stolen, Wrecked

A truck belonging to Ben Robertson, Negro, 416 Hudson St., was reported stolen and wrecked yesterday.

Robertson told police that the truck was parked in front of his residence around 6:30 last night. The vehicle was found in a ditch on Bancroft Ave. shortly after 8 o'clock, Robertson told police. Damage was estimated at $50.

Sgt. Jimmy Cannon investigated.

GOP Scored In Tar Heel Voting

RALEIGH—President Eisenhower came within less than 8,000 votes of defeating Adlai Stevenson in North Carolina in the presidential election Nov. 6.

The State Board of Elections said yesterday that complete returns show that Stevenson carried the state by 15,488 votes out of a total vote of 1,165,592.

Other figures show that Republicans made a net gain of five seats in the North Carolina legislature. Gov. Hodges swamped Republican challenger Kyle Hayes of North Wilkesboro by a margin of more than two to one.

The returns will become official when the elections board meets Nov. 27 to canvass the votes.

The complete figures from the state's 2,055 precincts, as announced yesterday by Raymond Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, show that Democratic challenger Stevenson got 590,530 votes to 575,062 for Eisenhower.

In 1952, Stevenson carried the state by a 95,000-vote margin over the president.

Gov. Hodges got 760,470 votes to Hayes' 375,379.

Reports compiled in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure show that the party lineup in the next General Assembly will be:

In the Senate—47 Democrats and 3 Republicans;

In the House—107 Democrats and 13 Republicans.

In 1952, Legislature's Republican strength was 1 senator and 10 House members.

Baby Killer Gets Prison Sentence

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Baby attendant Virginia Jaspers, her blonde hair awry and her pale face red and tear-streaked, was led from a courtroom yesterday to begin serving 10 to 22 years in prison.

Miss Jaspers, 33, was convicted of the fatal shaking of two of the infants she cared for.

A big woman (she weighs 220 and stands six feet), she entered the courtroom smiling, and joked with attendants.

She sat with her plump arms folded tightly over her blue sweatshirt as a state's attorney read her confession. She heard, in her own words, of the "uncontrollable urge" that made her grasp 11-day-old Abby Kapsnow by both arms, press her thumbs against the tiny chest, and shake the child violently.

That was last August. She did the same to 2-month-old Jennifer Malkin in 1951. Both died. Police said she admitted killing a third in 1948—too long ago to allow prosecution.

She heard her own words, the closest she ever came to offering a motive: "I guess I was angry in my own mind because they wouldn't stop crying."

One of her lawyers called her a "physical misfit in society from childhood," and a "victim of her own size."

The culprit: Stone's young son.

Minister . . .

ton Grove, A. D. Shackelford of Wilson, and Ely J. Perry of Kinston.

Rev. Jo M. Riley

Rev. Jo M. Riley, Minister of the First Christian Church of Wilson, presented the convention sermon at today's afternoon session.

Riley said that "it is for us to be dedicated to the great remaining task that our church will rediscover basic practices of the New Testament Church such as stewardship, vision of the oneness of the church, gift of the holy spirit through prayer, acceptance of people without partiality and committing ourselves to the Way."

Dr. William G. West

Speaking on "Sustaining the Ministry" at this morning session, Dr. William G. West, Minister of the First Christian Church of Chattanooga, Tennessee, said: "Ministers in our time carry endless burdens and responsibilities of the people they serve. In addition, they have their own personal problems. They need the companionship of laymen who sustain them with their encouragement, prayers and financial stewardship."

Evening Session

The 112th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches will end its three-day session here tonight with an evening session at 8 p.m. at the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Mrs. James D. Wyker of Mount Vernon, Ohio, past president of the National Council of Church Women, will deliver the final address of the convention.

Youth Jailed On Assault Charges

A 16-year-old Negro from Grifton, Route 1, was still lodged in county jail today after being arrested yesterday on a charge of assault on a female with a deadly weapon with intent to commit rape.

James Arthur Green was picked up by State Highway Patrolman Richard Tayloe after an intensive search in the Grifton area throughout the afternoon. According to the patrolman's report, Green threatened Rillie Lister, 44-year-old Negro woman of Grifton, as she was fishing in Contentnea Creek south of Grifton around 1:30 p.m. The woman told Patrolman Tayloe she was in a boat in the creek when Green came up on the bank and pulled the boat into the shore. He then jumped into the boat, pushed it away from the bank, put a knife against the woman's throat and told her to keep quiet, according to the woman.

The woman said she screamed and a man who was a short distance up the creek ran to her assistance. Green then ran, the woman said, and she notified the police. Tayloe, Grifton Chief J. R. Parker and Highway Patrolman S. H. Newman of Kinston started a search that lasted until 5 p.m. when Tayloe picked the boy up at his home. Tayloe said the woman positively identified the boy and he was sent to the county jail.

Pedestrian Hit At Intersection

A Negro woman received bruises when she was struck by a car as she was crossing Greene St. near the Fifth St. intersection yesterday afternoon.

The injured woman was identified by police as Anna Lilies of Macclesfield Rt. 1.

Police records show she was struck by a car operated by Mrs. Payne Joyner, 1213 N. Pitt St.

A doctor this morning said the Lilies woman received bruises on the leg and hip. She was treated and released.

No charges were placed as a result of the accident.

Investigating was Sgt. H. H. McGowan.

Will Dedicate New Safety Sign

PACTOLUS—Dedication ceremonies for a safety sign recently erected at the intersection of N.C. Highways 30 and 33 will be held Saturday at 2 p.m.

A complaint box is attached to the sign which permits the public to secretly register their complaints concerning careless and reckless driving.

Farmville Volunteer Fireman Hurt In Answering Call; Crushed By Truck

FARMVILLE—Leonard Joyner, 45-year-old member of Farmville's Volunteer Fire Department, was reported in favorable condition this morning at Pitt Memorial Hospital where he is receiving treatment for injuries suffered in a freak accident yesterday morning.

Joyner was crushed between the side of a Farmville fire truck and the door-facing of the fire station while helping other firemen answer a call. He suffered a fractured pelvis, several fractured ribs and other crushing injuries in the mishap which was caused by the fire truck cutting too sharply as it left the station. Joyner was standing on one of the side boards of the truck when the accident occurred.

The injured man had joined other firemen only seconds earlier to answer a call to the Oakley home about two miles northwest of Farmville near Joyner's Crossroads. Other firemen continued to the scene of the blaze after notifying a physician and leaving someone to care for Joyner. The fire was extinguished after causing only slight damage.

According to Assistant Fire Chief C. H. Flanagan of the Farmville Fire Department, full insurance coverage is provided by the department for the injury.
