

A Child Is Added To Rising Toll

The body of three-year-old Ronnie Stallings lies covered by a sheet after the child was struck this morning on a county road eight miles northwest of Greenville. The child is the 19th traffic victim of the year for the county. (Reflector Staff Photo.)

Traffic Deaths In Pitt Set Record

Pitt County today owned a new record for traffic fatalities in a single year.

The 19th victim of 1956 was marked this morning at 10 o'clock. Ronnie Stallings, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Stallings of Greenville, Route 6, was killed instantly when he was struck by a car driven by Lehman Sutton, 30, of Greenville, Route 1. The death occurred about eight miles northwest of Greenville on the Gum Swamp Church road.

According to a preliminary investigation conducted by Acting Coroner George Wilkerson and Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry of Bethel, the child was apparently playing on the side of the highway and darted into the path of the car. He was struck on the forehead by the chrome headlight rim and thrown approximately 36 yards by the force of the impact. Sutton was released following the preliminary investigation this morning but was cited to appear at an inquest called for November 27.

This is the first time since 1938 that Pitt County's highway death toll has gone above 18. There were 18 deaths that year, 18 again in 1950, 18 last year and the death of 11-year-old Jerry Alan Arnold ten days ago had raised this year's total to 18.

No End Seen To Carolina Coach Company Strike

RALEIGH (AP) — Operations of Carolina Coach Co. continued to be idled today by a strike of the company's drivers and there were no signs of a settlement of the walkout which has been under way since Nov. 8.

"It looks like this thing will go on for a long time," said Ivey G. Smith, president of the local union of the Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators (AFL-CIO). He added that many of the nearly 300 striking bus drivers have taken other jobs for the duration of the strike.

Spokesmen said that at the time of the walkout the two sides were almost in agreement over regular pay provisions but the negotiations struck a snag on the question of overtime pay.

Onetime POW, Sergeant Serves As Recruiter

By JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer.

Technical Sergeant John K. Gant is an Air Force recruiter. He was one of 17 recruiters who met in Greenville Friday to discuss new techniques in Air Force personnel procurement.

Gant has been on active duty ten years. That put him near the bottom of the concern with the other recruiters but Gant has seen a lot of mileage in those ten years. He has perhaps the most eventful career in the group represented at the meeting Friday.

The career started in 1941 and includes anti-submarine patrols, dive bomber experimentation and cadet training in World War II. It also includes a stretch as a runner on a B-29 in Korea, a 17,000 foot fall in a piece of wreckage when his plane was shot down, a severe head injury, a broken

General Strike In Hungary Ends

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Soviet army and its Hungarian Communist allies today broke the general strike in Budapest, but sullen Hungarian workers immediately resorted to a defiant slowdown strike.

Between 30 and 50 per cent of Budapest's industrial workers reported for work in the city's factories today.

Many of them declared they returned not because they believed the promises of Janos Kadar, the Soviet-imposed Premier, "but because we realize that winter is here, with its misery of cold and hunger."

In the workshops which Western correspondents were permitted to visit they found workers standing around in groups—talking but doing little if any work.

A Vienna report that the Russians were replacing their tank troops in Hungary with 20 fresh infantry divisions lacked confirmation here. No correspondent in Budapest can claim reliably to know anything of the kind.

Of the industrial situation, Radio Budapest said that, although 45 per cent of the working force appeared at some of the nation's major plants, in most cases production could not be resumed for lack of power. It attributed the absence of other workers to "transport difficulties."

Reports from the countryside said workers' councils had posted appeals to farmers to supply food and shelter to the rebels in their wooded retreats.

arm and "875 days and 15 minutes" as a prisoner of war. The long fall, the injuries and the POW status came on April 12, 1951, when Gant was on a bombing mission over the Yalu River. His plane was shot down at 19,500 feet and he didn't get out of the wreckage until it had dropped to 2,500 feet. He was captured almost as soon as he got on the ground, and the POW status lasted until September 3, 1953, when he was repatriated.

Atomic Weapons Cocked

HONOLULU (AP) — The U.S. Pacific fleet, its atomic weapons cocked, is ready to roll anywhere on orders if the Middle East crisis erupts.

Ships operating close to Asia have disrupted the normal rotation schedule and others are speeding to that area in view of the crisis.

Secrecy blankets the movements of many vessels and the Navy has discontinued the practice of disclosing the destination of craft leaving Pearl Harbor.

The Pacific commander, Adm. Felix Stump, recently cancelled a good-will trip to Australia and the Olympics by an aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, eight destroyers and a submarine.

A Stump spokesman said the fleet "is carrying out week-old orders to increase and improve our defense positions through redeployment."

"When there's trouble in any part of the world you try to get in the best position you can. But we are not hysterical. We are not canceling leaves or mobilizing or anything like that.

"We're as ready as can be. And if anyone says we don't have the A-bomb on the ships, they don't know what they're talking about. We always have had."

The spokesman added: "Every aircraft carrier has nuclear weapons."

ing to talk about and what his fellow Air Force men fill-in, the sergeant gave his captors almost as hard a time as they gave him. He was moved at least four times during his period of captivity, spending time in prison camps in Manchuria, Pyongyang and two on the Yalu River. He was in one of the Yalu camps when the Korean truce was signed July 27, 1953.

Hammarskjold Returns To Tell Result Of His Talks With Egypt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold arrived back in New York today to tell the U. N. General Assembly the results of his talks with Egyptian officials on guarding the cease-fire in the Middle East.

He planned to launch arrangements for U. N. help in reopening the blocked S. z Canal — a gigantic salvage job expected to take at least six months.

Before leaving Cairo, Hammarskjold said the Egyptian government had asked for assistance to clear the waterway and he had agreed in principle. He declined to discuss other matters taken up with Egypt's President Nasser before making his report to the Assembly.

Nasser's chief political aide, Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry, said in an interview Egypt would clear the canal with U. N. help. The Egyptians have already protested British clearance operations underway at the north end of the canal as a violation of Egyptian sovereignty and of the cease-fire.

Hammarskjold talked with Nasser and other Egyptian leaders for three days about the duties of the new U. N. police force, which now has more than 500 men standing by at a base in the canal zone, and other details of the cease-fire. The General Assembly ordered 11 days ago between the Egyptians and British, French and Israeli troops.

There was no indication the Egyptians had modified their demand for speedy withdrawal of all foreign troops and stationing of the U. N. forces only at points on the old 1948 armistice line between Egypt and Israel. Sabry said Egypt expects the withdrawal to begin during the coming week if possible, without waiting for the U. N. troops to take over.

One of the British-French conditions in agreeing to the cease-fire was that the U. N. police force should be competent to "secure and supervise" reopening of the canal. They have made clear they expect the U. N. troops to take over occupation of the canal when they pull their own forces out.

The British and French hold the northern third of the waterway. French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau indicated he thought the Egyptian appeal for U. N. assistance meant the U. N. troops would be stationed in the canal zone, despite persistent Egyptian denials. In New York with France's U. N. delegation, Pineau said on a television program: "The United Nations would not be able to clear the canal unless they had their forces on the canal."

Rationing of petroleum products has already begun or is on the way in many countries. Highways in Britain, Switzerland, Sweden and Denmark were practically deserted this weekend as motorists stayed home either voluntarily or by government order. Other countries faced shortages in the near future.

Sabry proposed that the United States cut off Western Hemisphere oil supplies to Britain, France and Israel if the three nations do not pull their forces out of Egypt. He said Egypt had decided not to ask for "volunteers" from Russia and other countries to give the U. N. a chance to work out a peaceful solution.

Israel's Premier David Ben-Gurion last night rejected a Soviet demand that Israel pay Egypt compensation for the Israeli invasion. In a sharp reply to Soviet Premier Bulganin, Ben-Gurion said if anyone was entitled to compensation it was Israel because of Egypt's actions during the past eight years.

The British-French command said the Egyptians fired on their lines 30 miles south of Port Said last night for more than four hours—but that the British and French did not shoot back. There were no casualties.

'We Will Bury You', Says Khrushchev To The West

MOSCOW (AP) — Red-faced and gesticulating, Nikita S. Khrushchev told the West last night: "We will bury you."

For the second consecutive night, the Soviet Communist party boss delivered an anti-Western tirade so bitter that diplomats from Atlantic Alliance nations and Israel left the room. Khrushchev's main themes at a Polish Embassy reception were: Egypt and Hungary.

Obviously speaking to the Western diplomats in attendance, Khrushchev said: "If you don't like us, don't accept our invitations and don't invite us to come to see you. Whether you like it or not, history is on our side. We will bury you."

The Western envoys, including U. S. Ambassador Charles Bohlen, retired to an outer room where one said, "The atmosphere is much more pleasant."

They returned to the hall where the Poles were toasting a joint declaration after Khrushchev finished speaking.

The night before, Khrushchev had denounced "Fascist gangs" in Hungary and "imperialists and their puppets" in the Egyptian war during a Kremlin reception for the Poles.

On that occasion the Western diplomats stalked out and did not return.

Last night's party followed agreement on a joint Polish-Russian statement some Poles considered a virtual declaration of independence — although Poland remains firmly within the Moscow-led alliance of Communist nations.

Khrushchev began calmly: "We are Bolsheviks. We stick firmly to the Lenin precept —

Don't be stubborn if you see you are wrong, but don't give in if you are right."

He said the Communist countries can find solutions to all their problems on the basis of mutual understanding and equality.

But then, seemingly directing his remarks at the Western diplomats, he said: "We say this not only for the Socialist states who are more akin to us. We base ourselves on the idea that we must peacefully co-exist. About the capitalist states, it doesn't depend on you whether or not we exist."

Khrushchev then announced that history was on the Communists' side and that "we will bury you." Other Russian leaders burst into applause.

Of Hungary, Khrushchev said: "We are very sorry that such a situation exists there. We are sure that the Hungarian working class will find the strength to overcome the difficulties. But the most important thing is that the counterrevolution must be shattered."

Of Egypt: "The Western powers are trying to denigrate Nasser. The situation is serious and we are realistic. The fire must be put out. I think the British and French will be wise enough to withdraw their forces and then Egypt will emerge stronger than ever."

On the occasion the Western diplomats stalked out and did not return.

Miss Betsy James, Mr. Staton Pledge Vows

BETHEL — Bethel Methodist Church was the scene November 11 for the 4 o'clock wedding of Miss Betsy Earline James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell R. James, and James Luther Staton Jr., son of Luther Staton and the late Mrs. Staton.

The Rev. C. P. Womack officiated at the double ring ceremony. Vows were spoken before arrangements of white chrysanthemums and gladioli interspersed with greenery and burning tapers.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt, organist, and Mrs. Sam Keel, soloist, who sang "Because," "Through the Years" and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction. The couple, unattended, entered the church together. The bride wore a ballerina length dress of cotton blue with fitted bodice featuring a double berth and full skirt.

Her shoulder length veil was attached to a matching lace Juliet cap with medallions sprinkled with rhinestones. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with a white purple-throated orchid, showered with white net and satin streamers.

Ushers were J. L. Brown and W. A. House, both of Bethel.

Mrs. James, mother of the bride, wore a royal blue dress with navy blue accessories. Mrs. Staton, step-mother of the bridegroom, wore a light blue lace dress with black accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. The dining table was covered with a white cut-work cloth and centered with an arrangement of white chrysanthemums with burning tapers on either side.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Womack presided over the punch bowl while Mrs. Eddie Mathews, sister of the bride of Bethel, served bridal cakes, nuts and mints buffet style.

Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Merriand Mizelle, sister of the bride of Raleigh, Mrs. Paul Weatherford of Rocky Mount, Misses Patricia Whitehurst, Arlene Manning and Beverly Staton, sister of the bridegroom, all of Bethel, Mrs. Clayton House of Bethel and Mrs. George Harris of Williamston.

Guests were greeted at the door of the fellowship hall by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. House.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown made the introductions to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. Russell James, the bride couple, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Staton, Mrs. W. R. Hunnicutt and Mrs. Sam Keel.

Mrs. F. C. Martin, aunt of the bride, presided at the bride's book. Goodbyes were said to Miss Lois Staton and Miss Mattie Staton, aunts of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of Bethel High School, attended East Carolina College and is now employed with the Security National Bank of Tarboro.

Mr. Staton was graduated from Bethel High School, attended East Carolina College and is now employed by the Folger Buick Company of Greenville.

When the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride was wearing a blue suit with iridescent hat, navy accessories and the orchid lifted from her Bible. Upon their return they will make their home in Bethel.

Honored At Party
The bridal couple was honored at a pre-nuptial party given by Mrs. W. A. House and Mrs. J. L. Brown at the fellowship hall of the church.

The hall was decorated with arrangements of mixed flowers and burning candelabra. Covered with a cutwork cloth, the table held a center arrangement of white chrysanthemums flanked with white candles.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Womack presided at the punch bowl and Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Womack Jr. served other party refreshments.

Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. House. A gift of crystal and silver was presented the couple by their hostesses.

Mrs. Caviness Demonstrates Yule Arrangements

Mrs. Roy Caviness of Raleigh was guest speaker for the Greenville Garden Club at its meeting Friday afternoon.

Well known in Garden Club circles, Mrs. Caviness has been first vice president and third vice president of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc. and is widely known for her originality in decorations.

Introduced by Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, the guest speaker gave a demonstration on making Christmas novelties and arrangements.

She created a cookie tree, a weather tree, a tree made from driftwood painted white and sprinkled with snow as well as a tree made from a tin can, usually discarded in the trash heap.

Mrs. Caviness used the frame of a worn-out umbrella to make a delightful Christmas tree.

Door swag was made of Chinese Fir, fruit and ribbon.

Mrs. Caviness pointed out styrofoam plays an important part in helping to make lovely and useful decorations.

She suggested that one decide on a central theme in decorating and carry it out throughout the home.

Following her talk and demonstration, members and guests were invited to examine the articles. Out-of-town guests present for the meeting included those from Grifton, Tarboro, Farmville, Crisp, Windsor, Washington, Williamston and Bethel.

Preceding the meeting Mrs. Caviness was honored at a luncheon given by the Executive Board of the Greenville Garden Club at the Woman's Club.

A short business session was held following the program. Mrs. Moore stated the club is working in conjunction with city authorities to rid the town of squirrels. Anouncement was made of the planting at Green Springs Park Saturday morning and of a work shop scheduled for November 24 at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Vance Perkins.

Announcements were also made of various out-of-town events and invitations issued to local members to attend. Mrs. Sam H. Mitchell, district director, reported Mr. McFarland will give a demonstration in Rocky Mount Nov. 30 at 10 a.m. On Nov. 20 the Wilson Garden Club and guests will visit seven homes to view the Thanksgiving decorations. Washington Garden Club has extended an invitation to a commercial flower show and sale to be held at the American Legion Hut Dec. 3 and Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Greenville Garden Club will sponsor its annual Christmas Show on December 15 and 16 at the Woman's Club.

Club Hears Talk On Islam

Mrs. Herbert Hadley was hostess to the Lector Book Club at its regular meeting Tuesday. Her home was decorated with arrangements of fall flowers.

Upon arrival the members were served a dessert course with nuts and coffee.

Mrs. Travis Flanagan, president, presided over a short business session. The club voted to buy a TB Bond and to send in a nomination for the Golden Deeds award.

It was also decided to help a needy family at Christmas. Mrs. Holly Van Dyke presented the program for the afternoon. Continuing the study of major religions of the world, Mrs. Van Dyke spoke on Islam.

The meaning of the word Islam is "to submit." Moslem means "one who submits." Therefore, believers of Islam are called Moslems. Its founder, Mohammed, was neither savior nor messiah, but only a man through whom God chose to speak, she pointed out.

Islam began in Arabia, birthplace of Mohammed, in the 6th century and overwhelmed the entire Middle East within a few years. Today it is 300 million strong, nearly one-seventh of the total population of the world.

The backbone of the religion is found in the rituals prescribed by Mohammed known as the Five Pillars of Islam. They are:

- (1) Acknowledgment of the unity of God and belief, as expressed in the creed "There is no God but Allah; Mohammed is the Messenger of Allah."
- (2) Prayer—performed five times daily, facing Mecca, the holy city.
- (3) Almsgiving.
- (4) Fasting and pilgrimage to Mecca.

The rituals are preserved in the Koran, holy book of the Moslems. The difference in Islam and Christianity may lie in the different level at which a Way of Life is conceived, the speaker said. If Way of Life means the institution of a routine, a schedule, a pattern, then the prophet Mohammed established this routine in a remarkable way, she continued. But Christ said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life."

A Christian is known for what he refuses to do as well as what he does, she asserted.

After the program, books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Miss Skinner Becomes Bride

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Nina James Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goston Skinner, and Roy Wakefield Upchurch Jr., son of Dr. Roy W. Upchurch of Danville, Va. and Mrs. Lyon-Upchurch of Durham.

The half after four ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. P. Waterhouse, Rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church of Washington, N. C.

A reception followed at the Greenville Country Club.

Preceding the ceremony an organ recital of nuptial music was presented by George Perry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin. The bodice was fashioned with a drop-shoulder neckline and heart-shaped bertha of Rosepoint lace re-embroidered with sequins and seed-pearls; the floor-length skirt ending in a circular train.

The three-tiered veil of French bridal illusion was attached to a chaplet of satin embellished with seed-pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and snow-white roses.

Miss Barbara Durham of Lynchburg, Va. served as maid of honor. She wore a dress of winter brown chiffon, the waist accented with a crushed satin cummerbund. Her matching coiffure band was of pleated satin, with a short veil of tulle, and she carried a bouquet of Tallisman roses.

In bridesmaids' role were Miss Peggy Upchurch of Durham, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. William B. Hight Jr. of Altamahaw; and Mrs. James C. Melvin of Danville. They were attired in identical fashion to the maid of honor and carried bouquets of Golden Rapture roses.

Miss Margaret Cotten Skinner served as junior bridesmaid for her sister. She wore a dress of champagne nylon and her coiffure band was of flower-trimmed Tallisman satin ribbon. She carried a miniature bouquet of Tallisman roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Edward MacDowell Bishop of Richmond, Va. as best man.

Ushers included Joe P. Skinner, brother of the bride, and James T. Cheatham III of Greenville; James C. Melvin, John Victor Nelson Jr. and Hosea E. Wilson Jr., all of Danville, Va.

The mother of the bride wore mink brown lace over taffeta, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Lyon-Upchurch, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of autumn brown satin, with corresponding accessories, and her corsage was a white orchid.

For traveling the bride chose a costume suit of camel's hair. Her accessories were of winter brown, and she wore a corsage of gardenias lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Following their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Upchurch will make their home in Chapel Hill, N. C.

Mrs. Upchurch attended Salem College in Winston-Salem, and Stratford College in Danville, Va. She was presented to society at the Southside Virginia Debutante Ball in December, 1954.

Mr. Upchurch has served two years in the United States Army, and is now completing his education at the University of North Carolina, where he is majoring in Business Administration.

Out-of-Town Guests

Out-of-town guests here for the Upchurch-Skinner wedding included Mrs. C. Dillon Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carr, Miss Sally Carr, Dr. and Mrs. Curtis Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Conway Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dudley III, Miss Sarah Easley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferrell, Mrs. Willis Glass, Miss Nancy Glass and Mrs. Stanley Goodridge.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Hughes, Miss Daisy Keen, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Patterson Jr., Mrs. D. Price Withers and Dr. and Mrs. Roy W. Upchurch, all of Danville, Va.

Mrs. E. MacDowell Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Michaux and Mrs. Adele Turman of Richmond, Va.

Calhoun and Miss Annie Grey Calhoun of Elkin; Miss Suetette Davidson of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Phillips of Tarboro; and C. M.

Mrs. Roy Wakefield Upchurch, Jr.

Entertaining Friday evening in their honor were Mrs. and Mrs. J. T. Little, Mrs. James Ficklen and James Ficklen, Jr.

A wedding breakfast Saturday morning was in their honor at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Hosts for this occasion were Mrs. C. S. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Phillips, Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Carr, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Skinner, Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Scott Skinner and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, Jr.

Artist Returning For Lecture Tomorrow

William C. Fields, artist of Fayetteville and New York, will return to Greenville on Tuesday for a gallery talk at 7:30 p.m.

On display in the gallery at Sheppard Memorial Library are 14 portraits by Fields. Several of his more famous ones are being shown in this collection sponsored by the East Carolina Art Society.

The noted artist has held one-man shows in Rome and New York City.

A spokesman for the art society states the public is invited to the gallery Tuesday to meet the artist and hear his talk.

BUFFET SUPPERS—All the family comes to the buffet suppers held at the Greenville Moose Lodge each Sunday. Events are planned to entertain adults and children. The above photo was shot at a recent dinner.

Buffet Suppers Family Affairs

The "Smorgasbord" or buffet suppers served at the Moose Temple every Sunday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. are truly "family" affairs.

Moose members bring their wives, children, parents, uncles, aunts and even a mother-in-law or two has been seen attending!

These weekly events are the joint projects of two of the L. O. O. M. regular committees, the entertainment and food service committees. Eli Bloom acts as host and greeter (and high-chair locator) while the planning and serving of the menu is handled by the "Chef," George Evans.

The varied menu, displayed on a decorated buffet and steam table, usually contains a choice of three kinds of meat, several vegetables and salads, together with fruits, candies and cookies.

The atmosphere is one of relaxed enjoyment and family get-together. The men talk sports, politics, lodge or what-have-you and women's talk is naturally of children, clothes, children and children. But the real "good time had by all" is in the children's department—they have the freedom of the hall.

For the first time yesterday a film for the children was shown. Plans call for this feature to be continued.

Attendance at these affairs has been steadily increasing. Dr. Howard Gradis, governor of the local lodge, is well pleased with the acceptance of the program by the membership and plans to continue the affairs for the rest of the fall and winter season.

Yule Bazaar Opens Tomorrow

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Bazaar will be held at the Fellowship Hall in the church tomorrow and Wednesday. The event is sponsored by the W. S. C. S. Dried flower arrangements, aprons, hairboxes, Christmas novelties, and holiday food are among the gifts that will be offered for sale. This is a service project.

A luncheon will be served for the shoppers, both days from 11:30 a. m. until 1 p. m. Turkey dinner will also be served on Tuesday from 5:30 to 7 p. m.

There will be a nursery provided for shoppers from 3 to 9 p. m. on both days of the event.

Vary that tossed green salad by adding membrane-free orange segments and paper-thin onion rings. Delectable combination!

Illustrated Talk On Japan Presented

Members of the Beta Chapter of the national honorary geography fraternity Gamma Theta Upsilon heard Thursday night of this week an illustrated talk on Japan by Margaret Lee Stevens, assistant home demonstration agent in Pitt County, whose new officers, and elected nine new members.

Beta Iota is at present the only chapter of the fraternity in any college or university in North Carolina. The active membership last spring included 55 East Carolina students and is expected to increase during 1956-1957. Dr. Robert E. Cramer of the faculty is advisor and sponsor.

Miss Stevens' talk of Japan was illustrated with slides picturing various aspects of life in that country. In 1954 she was one of the National 4-H Exchange students chosen to study in Japan.

A Tidy Nest Egg For Sewage Plant

Greenville Utilities Commission plans for salting away something like a half million dollars with interest to be used for construction of a sewage disposal plant in the next few years is a wise business move.

It may not eliminate altogether the necessity for local citizens digging into their pockets to provide additional funds with which to build the plant, but it will mean less of a financial strain on local citizens than would be necessary otherwise.

When Greenville Utilities Commission sold its Vanceboro and Craven County lines to Carolina Power and Light Company, local citizens were told the $585,000 proceeds from the sale would be used to retire indebtedness of the Utilities Commission. As it has turned out, the only indebtedness the Commission is able to retire with the funds is two per cent REA bonds. Holders of other Utilities Commission bonds which carry higher rates of interest are not willing to have them retired until they come due.

When the Utilities Commission is able to invest the money from the sale of lines to CP&L for an average interest rate of three per cent or better in assured savings and bonds, it seems only logical for the Commission to invest its cash rather than to retire two per cent bonds. In the next few years when construction begins on the sewage disposal plant, the Utilities Commission will not only have the $500,000 or so to begin construction, it will also have interest on the money which accumulates in the meantime.

Together the principal and interest will provide a tidy nest egg to begin the project. In addition to this, the Utilities Commission already has made application for federal funds which are available to municipalities for construction of sewage disposal plants. It is quite possible the city may receive up to 30 per cent of the cost of the plant or a maximum of $250,000 in federal grants by the time the project begins. This, together

CP&L, should give the Commission in hand about three-fourths the anticipated million dollar cost for a sewage disposal plant.

If the money from the sale of the lines is used now to retire two per cent REA bonds, it is quite likely that in a few years the voters will have to be asked to go to the polls and vote a bond issue for a sewage disposal plant on which the interest rate would be considerably above the two per cent which could be saved if the REA bonds are retired now.

We feel the Utilities Commission has made a wise decision in investing proceeds from the Vanceboro-Craven County sale rather than retiring two per cent REA bonds.

Football Games Of The Past In N.C.

(By CARL GOERCH)

RALEIGH—As a general thing, I believe Lynn's readable column features items that border on the political: conduct of state affairs, analysis of current happenings, reports on the work being done by various agencies, and so on.

All of which is intensely interesting and has resulted in quite a following for our incapacitated reporter who, incidentally, is getting along very nicely.

In this particular column, however, we're going to deviate from the usual trend of topics and talk about football. At this time of year many thousands of North Carolinians follow closely the fortunes of our Big Four teams, as well as some of the smaller colleges.

Thus far this season, the fortunes haven't been too good. I've been going to football games for many years, thanks to the boys at Duke, Carolina, State and Wake Forest who issue press tickets. During these years there are several games which still remain very vivid in my memory despite the fact that they were played a long time ago.

Let's see whether you can recall them also.

Remember the game between Duke and Carolina at Chapel Hill in either 1930 or 1931? Maybe it was a year or so before those dates, or a year or so later. Any way, the exact date doesn't make much difference.

It had rained for several days before. The playing field for the most part was covered with water. It was just about as sloppy a proposition as you can imagine, especially after the game started.

A player would tackle an opponent and then they'd both sink through the mire for two or three yards. It wasn't long before the uniforms were undistinguishable; everybody looked like everybody else and players were tackling men on their own side.

A terrible mix-up all the way through, but the fans enjoyed it.

Several years later (I wish I could remember dates) Duke and Carolina were playing and once more the scene of the battle was at Chapel Hill.

Carolina scored in the first quarter. Also kicked the extra point. Score—Carolina 7; Duke 0. Carolina fans were wild with joy and oozing with confidence in connection with the final outcome of the game.

Teams lined up. Carolina kicked to Duke. A chap by the name of Ace Parker caught the ball behind his own goal line. He started running and forgot to stop. He went through the entire field of Carolina players and didn't stop until he had crossed the Carolina goal line.

The score was tied when the extra point was kicked. Duke eventually won.

I think that was one of the greatest runs I've ever seen.

Here's another game I'll never forget, nor will any of the fans who attended.

It was during the latter part of November. Pittsburg was playing Duke in Durham. It started snowing early that Saturday morning and it kept right on snowing until the field was covered. Not only that but the weather was bitter cold. Little things like that couldn't stop the game, however, and it couldn't keep the folks away from Duke stadium. All during the game, the snow kept falling. Fans sat huddled closely together. Some of the most weird costumes imaginable—from duck hunting suits to ski suits—were in evidence. I don't recall ever having seen a frowzier looking bunch of women that those that walked out of the stadium at the end of the game: nor a more bedraggled looking bunch of men who staggered out of the same stadium.

Some of them hunted for hours in an endeavor to find their cars. Snow had covered all automobiles and it was difficult to distinguish one from the other.

We've had some great players among our Big Four teams in the last twenty-five or thirty years. Men like Barclay, Crawford, Bershak, Tipton, Parker, Stirnweis, LaLanne, Preston, Dowdy, Justice, McAfee, Hill and many, many others. Most of these were All-American and helped bring considerable publicity to football in this part of the country. We're not doing so well this season but the general opinion seems to be that the coaches have a building-up program underway and the effects of this will be seen next year.

And one final item, in connection with outstanding football events: most of us never will forget the time Duke played Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl. The score was 3-0, favor of Duke. Less than a minute to play. A crowd of us were listening to the game over radio. Duke had it cinched. We all rose to drink a toast to dear old Duke.

Then the roof caved in. Southern Cal played a forward pass. The pass was caught. The receiver went over for a touchdown. Southern Cal made the extra point. Final score: Southern Cal 7; Duke 3.

We didn't drink that toast, but we drank several of us.

Aluminum Industry's Plans

By ELMER ROESSNER

The United States is now producing, importing and re-exporting aluminum at a rate of about 2,300,000 tons a year. By 1958 the annual total will be about 3,000,000 tons, according to estimates in the industry. By 1975, with plentiful electric power from atomic energy, the total may exceed 5,000,000 tons a year.

Obviously, the industry will have to create many new markets. That's exactly what it is doing today.

In recent years, aluminum panels for building exteriors, aluminum foil for household use, aluminum packaging, aluminum tumblers, aluminum garden tools, aluminum ladders, and disposable aluminum plates have been vigorously promoted. Curiously, aluminum seems to be losing some ground in one of its first big markets, cooking utensils. Copper and stainless steel have been pushing ahead.

ALUMINUM PAINTS TYPICAL. One of the characteristic developments has been the growth in paints. As every householder knows, the "silver" paints of not many years ago were a disappointing product. It was often sealy in appearance and it chipped and peeled after a short time, especially from radiators, which was where most of us daubed it. But today suspensions of aluminum powder in resin bases give a fine, tough, silvery finish.

Similarly, the use of aluminum powders in inks has done much to glamorize printing. Advances in anodizing are helping to sell aluminum. This process toughens the "skin" of aluminum products—even a six-year-old youngster can't smash them—and permanently adds almost any desired color. Anodized aluminum bumpers are being tested on automobiles and soon car buyers may be able to get their choice of colors in the metallic trim as well as on the body.

OVER THE HORIZON Aluminum manufacturers are not resting there. Every big producer maintains an extensive department to research new uses for the metal.

Having established beachheads in the outdoor and kitchen furniture markets, the industry is planning an aggressive bid for furniture in every room. Mississippi Aluminum, an Olin Mathieson subsidiary, is producing "golden-brass" aluminum for headboards that create a completely new effect in beds.

Aluminum tiles have gained acceptance for bathrooms and, not stopping there, Alcoa has developed mosaic aluminum foil coverings that will heat as well as beautify modern home interiors.

One almost incredible achievement—born of this compulsory hunger for new markets—is a fabric of aluminum. It has been created experimentally by Alcoa. Bright foil was laminated between sheets of apricot-gold plastic and the laminated was then slit at high speed into fibers which were twisted into thread and woven into a lame. Jean Desses of Paris was commissioned to design a gown of this material and it is not being press-agented around the country.

Things A Columnist Learns

NEW YORK (AP)—Some things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail—or listen to cocktail parties.

That most pawnbrokers have charged the same interest rate on loans — 17 per cent — since the 17th Century.

That scientists have found they can make a normal cell cancerous by cutting down on its oxygen supply.

That the "realistic budgets" in movies run up their budgets. It costs $5 in Hollywood to create an icicle, $50 for a shell hole, $50 for a rain-splashed window, and $24,000 for a 24-foot model of the Mayflower.

That of the 2,200 accidental deaths by firearms in the United States last year the largest victim group consisted of children between 2 and 14 years old.

PLAIN PATHWAY

There is one aspect of the life of Jesus Christ which frequently is not appreciated by the average Christian believer, namely, the fact of Christ's sinlessness. The Bible teaches that Jesus lived his life through from beginning to end without ever once having committed sin. In doing this he stands out as the only person in human history of whom this claim can be made.

Carpenter of Nazareth, who in a ministry of three years changed the whole life of humanity. There are many reasons why he was able to do this, but the power of a life absolutely free of sin is not usually appreciated as one of the great factors of his immeasurable achievement.

When we transfer that over into our own lives, we are overwhelmed with the realization of what we might be if our lives were not crippled, enfeebled, and distorted by the power of evil. Here was one Man in human history who never once was overcome by evil. His shining and perfect life gives us courage to believe in the power of goodness and offers us a plain pathway upon which we should walk.

That a carpet sweeper manufacturer has started a national campaign to get an 8-hour work day for housewives. The reaction of the average husband: "What wife will stand for working that long?"

That DuPont company engineers asked to name the six inventions most important in forging our civilization, chose: movable printing type, clocks with interchangeable parts, the telephone, the steam engine, the automobile and the airplane.

That words, in their lifetime, often change as much as people do. "Villain" originally meant merely "a farm laborer." "Husband" originally meant "a man who is married."

Dangerous Political Promises

By ROBERT W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Now is the time to read the dangerous promises of all of last week's successful candidates. These promises make more inflation inevitable, due to the Employment Act of 1946. This was a vicious act. Ray D. Murphy, Chairman of the Board of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, has an excellent article in the Commercial and Financial Chronicle of October 11 demanding that this Act be amended. I, however, cannot imagine President Eisenhower and the new Congress making such amendments until it is too late.

WHAT THIS MEANS TO READERS

Until then, those who now receive pensions, life insurance, social benefits for the aged, and social security can be severely hurt. Not only large investors will suffer. Already our own Government Bonds (the 2 1/2's) have declined from 106 to 91.

The banks and insurance companies need not suffer. They receive deposits and premiums in "phony" money, but they will pay out with "phony" money. Wages will increase, but most banks and insurance companies are adopting automation to get on with fewer employees. Certain real estate and some commodities, such as natural resources, may for a while benefit from inflation. But the great mass of honest people will ultimately suffer and President Eisenhower will not prevent it.

THE COST OF LIVING

Readers should be interested only in what their wages, pensions, social security and bank deposits and insurance will buy. We should forget all about dollars and think only of what can be purchased in terms of food, rent, clothing, education, entertainment, etc. I definitely forecast that the cost of living will gradually increase during the next four years of the Republican Administration.

The promise of new highways, slum clearance, and other worthy projects will all cost more than expected. When you go under a new steel bridge on one of these new highways, remember that from 1946, when the Employment Act became law, to the present time, the price of steel has just about doubled. Certainly the automobile industry and the increase in all plant capacity depend on steel. Steel and related industries employ 80 per cent of our mass production workers.

INTERESTING STATISTICS

The expenditures which can depend on government money will continue, but expenditures for products bought on installment may suffer. Here are some more facts to think about: Since 1939 the Government debt has increased from $40 billion to $275 billion resulting in an increase in the money supply from $63 billion to $213 billion and private debt has risen from $125 billion to around $350 billion.

The great surprise to economists is that the cost of living has not gone up more during this period. The main reason is the new inventions and installation of new machinery reducing the need for hand labor. Inventors—not government or bank officials—deserve thanks that the cost of living is no higher than it is today. Nevertheless, I forecast that automation, including electronic and nuclear power, will become great industries. All readers will be greatly interested in George R. Harrison's book, "WHAT MAN MAY BE" and "ATOMS IN ACTION."

WHAT ABOUT STOCKS?

The N. Y. Stock Exchange for the first time in history is urging that savings be put into stocks now instead of into savings banks, life insurance, and other such standard investments. Only the future can tell whether this advice is good. For the past ten years the prices of stocks have been advancing, but how long will this continue? For every person who now buys stocks some other person, equally wise, must be selling these same stocks. What would happen if all persons should decide now to sell instead of to buy?

Finally, let me remind readers

Where, And How, Demo Ranks Divided

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON A clash between Northern and Southern Democrats is assured when Congressional leaders and the increasingly influential group of Governors block out their program and direction during the next Congressional session and ensuing years.

Looking toward 1958 and 1960, when they hope to retain Congress and then recapture the Presidency, the younger and more aggressive Yankees insist upon adoption of a more forward-looking set of principles than the two Texas leaders—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senator Lyndon B. Johnson—have approved. They feel that the two men lean too heavily toward the conservative side in many instances.

personal, sectional or political struggle like the Dixie representation. They admire Rayburn and Johnson, and regard them as extremely able leaders and legislators. But they do contend that it is time to review and revise the Party's basic tenets in accord with changing times and sentiment.

Almost every Northern Member of Congress, as well as Democratic Governors and Mayors, openly opposed the Johnson National Gas Bill, which was lobbied in such a questionable manner that President Eisenhower had to veto it.

EXPECT LIKE TO INCH MORE TO LEFT—The Northern bloc also expected to move even more slightly to the left on basic social and economic problems. In their opinion, the opposition must swing sharply to his left on such questions as tax reduction, Social Security expansion, Federal development of natural resources (water power), broadened labor legislation and greater solicitude for minorities, especially Negroes and immigrant elements.

In pressing these views, they point to the November 6 successes of candidates who generally upheld them—Furcolo in Massachusetts, Javits, a Republican, in New York; Clark in Pennsylvania, Governor Williams in Michigan, Hennings in Missouri, Bible in Nevada, Church in Idaho, Morse in Oregon, and Magnuson in Washington.

THINK DEMOCRATIC PARTY NEEDS BASIC TENETS REVISED Conversely, they note like's victories in Southern and Border states, as well as the election of two "Eisenhower liberals" as Senators from the normally Democratic Kentucky. And the President's second successive sweep of the Rayburn-Johnson balliwick is their clincher.

The Northerners emphasize that they are not engaged in a Forceful Arguments The Rayburn-Johnson forces, however, respond with forceful arguments against this viewpoint, although not bitterly or contentiously. They point out that despite the Eisenhower landslide, the Democrats held the Senate, and increased their hold on the House—a phenomenon which had not occurred since 1848. It was, in their analysis, a triumph of moderation.

The advocates of mild and cautious conservatism, in contrast to the more raucous Stevens, Kefauver brand of extreme liberalism, cite several new factors for their policy. In days of present and prospective prosperity, it is their conviction that the people prefer a middle-of-the-road course rather than dubious experimentation.

Union labor's current high wages incline them in that direction, according to this viewpoint, as like's huge factory vote showed. The same feeling apparently prevails among young people and various racial groups, who feel the need of security, which the taxes and costliness of a "welfare state" might jeopardize.

NO LONGER "SOLID SOUTH"

In fact, they attribute the South's changing voting habits to a conservative trend, based on industrialization, diversification, migration, higher income and even brighter economic prospects for the immediate and far future. That observation applies especially to the four "like states"—Texas, Louisiana, Florida and Virginia. There is no longer an "Old" or a "Solid South."

Probable outcome will be a gentlemanly compromise, based on a "wait and see" attitude. The conservatives have already made one concession in selecting Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana as Senate Whip. He is far more progressive than the man he displaced, Senator Earle C. Clements of Kentucky, who was defeated on November 6 in a startling upset.

No 2 Defeated Candidates Have Ever Tried So Hard

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press New Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — No two men ever tried harder than Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver to climb hand over hand to high office. But the man who never looked more useless than he did in the 1956 presidential campaign.

They put on perhaps the biggest handshaking campaign in political history — thanks to all the ways they had for getting around — and both wound up losing the election, their own states and even their own counties.

If they had never shaken a hand they could hardly have made out worse.

Maybe nothing could have offset the public satisfaction with President Eisenhower, who spent practically no time shaking hands.

Missing Witness Found Murdered

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — The body of a man found in an abandoned dugout north of Burkburnett, Tex., yesterday was tentatively identified as James Black, 35—who disappeared March 7.

The skull was crushed in two places and was found apart from the rest of the bones.

Mrs. Black said articles in the clothing, including a pocketknife, belonged to her husband.

Black, a Negro, was last seen sitting in his parked car talking to two white men.

He was a state witness in the case of Jean Paul Norris, a white ex-convict charged with theft on engine equipment valued at $4,413. Deputy Sheriff Willis Hartley said, however, no link had been established between Norris and the slaying. No warrant had been issued for Norris' arrest.

Norris is out on bond.

with individuals but concentrated on talking in a few speeches to the biggest crowds that could be assembled.

Eisenhower had demonstrated in the New Hampshire Republican primary of 1952, when he beat the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, that a candidate doesn't have to make a single speech or shake hands with one voter if his popularity and prestige are big enough.

He was in Europe during the New Hampshire primary campaign, while Taft tramped the state.

Perhaps next time the Democrats will put less value on personal meetings between candidates and individual voters and more on getting across complete ideas in far fewer speeches to far bigger groups of voters.

It was the Minnesota primary last March—when Kefauver whipped Stevenson—which may have set the Democrats on the course they followed.

A lot of reasons were given for Kefauver's victory in Minnesota. They included his incessant handshaking and that he got around more than Stevenson.

Symphonic Conductor Is Briefly A Child Again

NEW YORK (AP) — A couple of batons flew out of tiny hands—but the music went right on—as a self-possessed 7-year-old boy made his debut as conductor of the Symphony of the Air at Carnegie Hall last night.

But the baton mishaps can't be held too much against Joey Alfidi, billed as the "world's youngest conductor."

Batons sometimes slipped out of the grip of Joey's predecessor Arturo Toscanini, onetime conductor of the orchestra.

Associated Press arts editor W. G. Rogers observed: "It was not a big audience but it was a happy one, and Joey was happiest of all. He knew all the gestures, and he used them all, and the orchestra did right by him."

Joey was on the podium in white suit and white socks, with bare knees. His face was sober as the orchestra — formerly the NBC Symphony—played the overtures to Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" and Rossini's "William Tell" and two symphonies, Haydn's "Surprise" and Beethoven's Fifth.

The concert was a benefit for the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers, N.Y., in which Joey was born. His father Frank Alfidi is a trumpet player.

Stevenson, who had to overtake Kefauver to remain in the running for the nomination, adopted much of the "Kefauver technique" of the handshaking, the meetings with small groups, and some of the Kefauver folksiness.

He won the remaining primaries. Then the two men followed essentially the same pattern in the national presidential campaign.

But it doesn't follow that what works in a primary within the limited area of one state is the medicine for a national campaign. Stevenson and Kefauver made an exhausting campaign.

Kefauver's part may be remembered less for what he said than for his handshaking. Stevenson made as many speeches a day to as many groups as he could.

While doing so, he was making pretty much the same speech over and over. He spent much of his time rephrasing to make the same speech sound better the next time if he had made no more than one speech a day and had gone into details on his criticisms and programs, he might have done better. Instead, he talked mostly in generalities.

Will Write Out Suggestions For New Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special labor-management committee from the construction industry set out today to draft suggestions for President Eisenhower for changing the Taft-Hartley labor relations law as it applies to the industry.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell called the group together as he had promised during the recent political campaign.

It was expected the discussions would deal primarily with proposals to enact special hiring provisions in the building and construction field. Eisenhower previously has proposed that Congress allow employers and unions in the industry to enter into contracts for rehiring and special union shop arrangements.

Any administration proposals for changing the labor law to accommodate the construction industry are likely to be part of the general "overhaul" of Taft-Hartley provisions promised in the Republican party platform.

T-Men Believe Betting Card Business Killed

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Treasury agents said today it's better than even money that they have put football betting card operators out of business here after weekend gambling raids.

Nine men were arrested in raids on a downtown restaurant and a filling station.

Football parlay cards and $6,000 were confiscated.

The men were released in bonds of $500 to $5,000. The next term of Federal Court here is in April. They are liable to up to five years in prison, and fines of $10,000.

They were charged with violating internal revenue laws requiring $50 gambling stamps, and a tax of 10 per cent on gross gambling income.

The crackdown followed similar raids in Greensboro and Burlington last Oct. 7.

Dulles Attacks Red Slaughter of Hungarians

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday Soviet Russia has been guilty of "arrogance and . . . violations of basic principle" in attacking Hungary and interfering in the Middle East.

He said Kremlin rulers "engaged in war on Hungary, with promiscuous slaughter" and that in the Middle East "they have tried to substitute themselves for the United Nations, instead of acting as a cooperative member."

Dulles read a statement on the steps of Walter Reed Army Hospital, where on Nov. 3 he underwent surgery for removal of a section of intestine later determined have been cancerous.

The secretary shortly thereafter flew to Key West, Fla., for several weeks of recuperation. He plans to return to his desk Dec. 3. On his arrival at Key West with Mrs. Dulles, he commented, "That sunshine sure feels good."

As for his own condition, he said before leaving here that his doctors say "that I am making an excellent recovery—and I certainly feel that way."

He said U.N. efforts toward achieving a stable peace in the Middle East are "on the right track" and added:

"It would, however, be a great mistake to believe that stability and tranquility can be permanently established merely by emergency measures to stop the fighting."

"It is necessary to attack the basic problems of the area. The many nations which want peace must also be prepared to struggle for the conditions necessary for a just and durable peace."

Referring then to Russia's actions in that area and in Hungary, Dulles added: "The free nations cannot relax their vigilance in the face of such arrogance and such violations of basic principles."

Cooper, 55, unlike his opponent in the recent election, is not an orator. He talks slowly and halts frequently searching for the right word.

"During the campaign" an associate says, "John must of shook every hand in Kentucky at least once."

Kentucky Republican, often objected to Cooper's voting habits during his two previous short terms. Yet, he is their biggest vote getter. He beat Wetherby by more than 70,000 votes.

As to voting criticism, Cooper doesn't seem to mind it "I'll continue to do what I think is best for my state, my nation and the world," he says.

SERVING DOUBLE PURPOSE—A hollow replica of the planet Earth atop this Caracas, Venezuela, home provides a geography lesson besides serving as the family's water tank.

Kentucky's Sen. Cooper Follows Independent Path

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A Washington cloakroom story relates an encounter between the late Sen. Robert A. Taft and John Sherman Cooper, who has just won a third "short term" to the U. S. Senate from Kentucky.

"Are you a Democrat or a Republican?" asked the Ohio Republican. "When are you going to start voting with us?"

Cooper replied, "If you'll pardon me, I intend to vote as I think best."

Through his voting record the tall, gray-haired mountaineer from east Kentucky earned his reputation as a liberal.

Cooper, a lawyer, entered politics at 26. He served as a state legislator at Frankfort. In 1929 Pulaski County elected him county judge like his father and grandfather before him.

For the next eight years he held that office and today looks back on those lean depression years as the most important period in his life.

"Whatever my views are today," he says, "they were influenced by those years as a county judge."

In 1942 he enlisted in the Army as a private. When he was discharged in 1946 as a captain he returned to Somerset. That same year he was elected to a two-year term in the Senate. He was beaten in 1948 for a full term.

He once served as a delegate to the United Nations General Assembly and as special consultant to Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

In 1955, President Eisenhower appointed him ambassador to India, a post he held until he resigned to run for the Senate against former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby.

Firemen Fast In Their Response

BELL GARDENS, Calif. (AP)—A fire crew was on the job fast when a passerby walked into Los Angeles County fire station No. 39 to report a blaze in a furniture store.

The store was 50 feet behind the station.

Seven county fire companies extinguished the flames.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

In Police Court last Friday, Judge Charles H. Whedbee had an unusually light docket, only six cases were docketed, and two of the defendants were found not guilty.

James Lee Edwards, Negro, 117 Pitt St., assault with a deadly weapon (knife), 90 days on the roads, suspended on payment of $25, costs deducted. The judgment also provides that Edwards shall pay $7.50 to Sadie Mae Whitehurst and not visit her premises or harm or molest her.

John H. Harris, 1717 Smith St., was found not guilty of leaving the scene of an accident and following too closely. Guy Boyd Jr., Negro, 621 Pamlico Ave., was found not guilty of larceny.

Albert Nesson, Negro, Winterville, failure to stop at a traffic light, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $10 costs.

Gilbert Burton, Negro, 611 Wyatt St., paid $10 for being drunk.

Class Of 1899 Stages Reunion

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Twenty six members of the 1899 class of Washington elementary school here held their first reunion yesterday.

It took professor Benjamin F. Cummings III of Brigham Young University two months of research to locate all 26.

And it took a long time to answer the questions: "Where have you been all these years?"

"It's strange," said one. "I've kept in touch with most of them and they don't seem to be getting any older. But those I haven't seen—they're really aging."

New Letters Shed Light On Earlier Life And Thoughts Of Robert E. Lee

LETTERS FROM LEE: Here are a few of the 13 hitherto unpublished letters written by Robert E. Lee as a young officer (1831-1846). Note how the letters were folded so the back became the envelope. Sealing wax kept them closed. The photo of Lee during this period shows him in the uniform of the U. S. Army.

By SYD KRONISH AP Newsfeatures Gen. Robert Edward Lee's reputation as a brave soldier and keen military strategist during the turbulent Civil War is preserved in history. But behind the stiff and serious facade of the soldier lay the warm and witty soul of a man with a zest for life.

But this great man's letters also reveal a charming individual with a keen sense of humor and love for friends and family. Lee makes many affectionate references to his family, calling his children "the dearest annuals of the season" and tells how they play while he is at work.

of a bachelor." The discoverer of these previously unpublished pieces is Charles Hamilton of 513 Madison Ave., New York, a dealer in rare autographs and documents. Hamilton who is always searching for such historical works and who is considered an authority on the subject, says: "Historians as well as fond admirers and readers of Lee (like myself) certainly are glad these new letters have been brought to light."

CHAPTER 16
Disconsolately Casson walked towards Harold's. The opportunity for which he had worked so hard and so patiently had arrived at ripeness and been snatched away from him. Perry had struck too fast.

His chance was gone. God alone knew when it would recur or how many months it would be before Perry decided to strike again. And Casson would have to give up. He could not possibly go on following Perry for that length of time.

It would even be useless to ring Strutt, tell him to find out the woman's name from his list of residents, and have him ring Gamman's to stop them paying her cheque. The bank could scarcely refuse to honor it and if Strutt picked up Perry, both he and his victim would refuse to acknowledge that it was blackmail.

He went into a telephone box and rang Strutt. Strutt's voice was exultant.

"The Martin girl identified your photograph," he said. "It was Perry who followed her about and picked her up . . ."

"I'll want you to pull in a taxi and take a statement from the driver." Casson interrupted.

"Here's the number." Strutt asked. "You sound as if you had a hanger."

"I have," Casson retorted. "That taxi took Perry and his victim to a bank. He beat me to it. I lost him."

"I see." There was a slight pause at the other end of the line. "Hard luck, boy." Strutt's commiseration was clearly sincere. "Never mind," he went on. "We'll get him next time."

"I doubt it," answered Casson. "I'll come in and see you this afternoon."

He returned to Chiswick and sat down by the window to wait. Nearly an hour after he had got back he saw Perry walking down the street. He was wearing his ordinary spectacles and from his right hand swung a brown-paper carrier-bag such as you can buy in the big stores and fold up and put in your raincoat pocket.

Casson looked malevolently at the little man in that paper bag who was how many hundreds of pounds? And some wretched woman, who two hours ago had met Perry for the first time in her life, was now the prey to a constant and nagging fear of the next visit, for she would not believe Perry's assurance that he never taxed his victims twice.

Casson went back to Mayfair. Strutt jumped up when he entered his office and pushed out a chair for him.

"The bloodhound's limping," Casson observed wryly as he sat down. He told Strutt the story, and the fat policeman never interrupted.

"At any rate we know too things," said Strutt when Casson had finished. "We know that Martin and Bagot are Perry and we know where Perry lives. You found that out, and it's good work for an amateur," he added, his little eyes twinkling.

"I wonder," Strutt continued dreamily, "what would happen if we scooped him in this evening. He's have the money on him, wouldn't he?"

Casson shook his head.

"You know he'd say that they were his savings."

"Yes. What about his victim?"

"Who is she?" Casson asked. Strutt pushed across the desk the list of the residents in Montpellier Square.

"No. 77," Casson read. "Mrs. Neil Gordonstoun. Lt.-General Neil Gordonstoun. A senior officer's wife. She's bound to be respectable or Perry wouldn't have picked her. And if she's respectable and a general's wife, she's jolly respectable."

"I was thinking we might call on her," said Strutt, undoing a paper clip. Casson shrugged. "But I was also thinking that you would do it better. The police would frighten her. She wouldn't talk. And we're in a sticky position. We knew she was going to be blackmailed and we never warned her fast."

"I didn't know it was her," Casson broke in.

"She won't understand that. We know so much that we ought to have known all. The police always get blamed."

"You are undoubtedly a twist-er," said Casson. "You pass the buck?"

"I pass," Strutt replied woodenly.

Casson laughed. "Splendid. I want to see her. Come and have a drink?"

"Too early. Now listen," his voice became brisk. "We've run the rule over Perry's mark, that young chap in the bank, what's his name?"

"Macfarlane. James Robert Macfarlane. Known as Jim Macfarlane. Born in Lockerbie, Dumfriesshire . . . Lieutenant in the Territorial Army. Yes."

"What a bore," murmured Casson.

"What's a bore?"

"I'm surrounded. Lockyer this morning to find out about him from the bank."

Strutt chuckled. "We're not so slow as we look," he observed. "We had him followed. Curious place. Lives in a flat in Shaftesbury Avenue. Curious place."

"Suppose the rent's very low. We'll keep him watched."

"You won't get much. He will give his information to Perry at that snack bar in the city. And that will be the only time he operates. You might get the name of the next victim — if you're lucky."

"We'll see," said Strutt. "The next thing is finding out if he was ever connected with Gamman's," said Casson. "Leave him until I ring you."

"Right." The telephone rang. Strutt listened in silence, grunted, and put it down.

"The taxi-man," he said. "The got a statement from him. He identified the fare from your photograph. He took him and a woman to Gamman's."

"Of course," Casson interrupted. ". . . dropped them there and was paid. He saw the woman go into the bank. The man stayed outside. He drove off. That's all. Now I'd like a formal statement from you about this morning and the photographs and how you found Perry."

It took Casson over an hour to write it. He was exhausted when he had finished, and went down to the smoking room which faced across St. James's Street he searched who for Neil Gordonstoun.

Casson visits the troubled Mrs. Gordonstoun in tomorrow's exciting chapter.

Good Neighbors Picked His Corn

MEDORA, Ill. (AP) — The good-neighbor policy was put into action here when 26 farmers moved on Leo Scott's farm with three corn pickers, trucks and tractor-wagons and picked his 40-acre crop of corn.

Scott received this assist when he was confined in the Macoupin Area Hospital with a broken leg he got in a fall. Mrs. Scott and a newly-born infant daughter had just returned from the hospital when the accident happened.

Automation For Office Work Is Hardly For All

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — If your problem is whether to turn to a mechanical brain to do your office work there's a word of warning today.

First make sure just what you need done, what it will cost to do it, how much a saving if any there will be, which machine can do your particular job best, and whether you want to rent or buy one.

Many companies are debating their next step into the electronic age. The advice to make a full, even if expensive, study first is given today in a report by Controltrends Foundation Inc., research arm of the Controllers Institute of America.

The rewards can be large. The report says that for some companies the savings in clerical cost run as much as one million dollars annually. And there are also competitive advantages to be gained, particularly in research and improved management methods.

But a mistake in entering the field can be costly. Mechanical brains can't be had for peanuts. The cost of operating one often is high. If they break down, make sure ahead of time where to turn. And remember that dizzy pace of the electronic industry means constant improvements — or, in other words, rapid obsolescence.

The foundation's study points out that a large scale computer costs from $500,000 to $200,000 a year to operate and the annual cost of a medium scale one is from $125,000 to $200,000. Programming — preparing the data to be fed into the machines — may run as high as $250,000.

Companies turning to mechanical brains have a further problem — to buy or to rent. Tax considerations enter in, also the availability of capital in a tight money era, and sometimes the company's general policy.

The foundation report offers one rule of thumb: "Based on a conservative five-year amortization rate, rental is cheaper than outright purchase on a one-shift operation; purchase is somewhat cheaper than rental on a two-shift basis; purchase is significantly cheaper than rental on a three-shift basis."

If your calculating problems are relatively so small that you couldn't keep the machine busy for even one full shift, there are factors maintained by the big computer makers where firms can rent their usage for a particular problem or for recurring but occasional problems. Programming may easily be the heaviest cost.

Salk Vaccinations Dramatically Cut '56 Polio Rate

By DAVID L. BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures

Now that the traditional mid-fall peak of the polio season has passed there is clear, unmistakable and graphic evidence that crippling polio is on the way out in the United States.

The charts show as words cannot how the cruel profile of polio has been drastically altered this year, cut in half by the immunity supplied through the Salk vaccine to 43 million persons.

The main graph traces the number of polio cases reported to the U.S. Public Health Service week by week. As usual, polio this year slumbered through the early half of the year, with about 100 new cases reported across the United States each week. In recent years, the case number always began a steep climb in early June and reached a tragic climax in August or September — when new case reports flooded into Washington at the rate of 2,000 and more per week.

Total Held Down
This year the flood was stemmed. At its worst, the 1956 polio season produced less than 1,000 new cases a week. The total score for the year — as traced on the inset chart — is leveling off now in the neighborhood of 15,000. This is less than half the total for 1954 and the average of the past five years.

This year was the first in which the Salk vaccine was available throughout the polio season. A limited amount was used in 1955.

Salt For Celery Helps It Grow

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Celery growers faced with the problem of yellowing plants and weak plants susceptible to blight may find a cure at the corner drugstore.

Michigan State University researchers have learned that celery plants often fail to get enough magnesium. So the experts recommend a spray solution of epsom salts, which are a cheap source of magnesium.

MUCH FOR MOOCHERS
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Harve Thorn of Little Rock, an unsuccessful candidate for attorney general, listed $1,500 as his total of campaign expenses.

In a statement, Thorn claimed one of his biggest expenses was $500 for "moochers."

Orson Welles Back In Hollywood...Still Sassy

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After an absence of seven years, Orson Welles is back before the Hollywood film cameras as fat and sassy as ever.

Welles has returned in "Pay the Devil" with Jeff Chandler. Welles plays a cattle baron, Chandler the sheriff.

"But it's not really a Western," Welles cautioned. "It's a modern story, and there isn't a horse in the whole picture. We ride over the countryside in jeeps."

Plainly evidencing a losing battle with the calories, Welles plumped himself on a couch in his U-I dressing room and talked glibly on a variety of subjects. He noted the film success of "Around the World in 80 Days."

"When Cole Porter and I were writing 'Around the World' for the stage a few years ago, we started working with Mike Todd. Then it became apparent that Todd didn't have enough money to produce it, so I took over as producer myself."

"Alexander Korda bought it from me and Todd bought it from Korda. Judging from what people have told me about the movie, Todd used a lot of the stuff from our show. I suppose I will see it eventually, but it would pain me too much to see it now."

Since Welles was one of the great creators of radio, I was interested in his comments on TV. As I expected they were barbed. Among them:

"I'm not watching it as much as I did last season. I am living in an area with poor reception, and I find that a blessing."

"It seems to me television this season is very poor. They have fallen into the same rut as radio. The early days of radio — I don't mean the pioneer days of 'Sam and Hery' and so forth — brought exciting things because people were exploring new fields."

"Then the merchandizing took over. The agencies figured out the best ways of using radio for selling. Merchandizing held the balance over entertainment. The same thing has happened in TV."

Hippocrates, the ancient Greek physician, once wrote a chapter on digestive ailments. He recommended 40 different medicines and 40 different kinds of walking — short walks, early morning walks, etc.

Pilot's Error Is Blamed In Crash

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A young pilot's tragic mistake is believed to have caused the flaming runway smashup of a jet fighter and two parked B47 bombers at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Three men died and seven were injured in the Saturday night accident. Loss in equipment is estimated at nearly eight million dollars.

Lt. Robert L. Young, 23, a University of Nebraska student who recently completed jet training with the Air National Guard, was practicing "touch and go" landings. As he roared out of the dark sky, authorities said, he apparently mistook a taxi ramp for a runway.

Young's F80 rammed the two Strategic Air Command B47s, which were being refueled, turning the ramp into an inferno. The pilot was killed.

The crew chief of one of the bombers and his assistant were also killed. They were A.I.C. John Lawrence Delancey, 21, whose home town is Chicago, and Donald Russell Price, 20, of Easton, Pa.

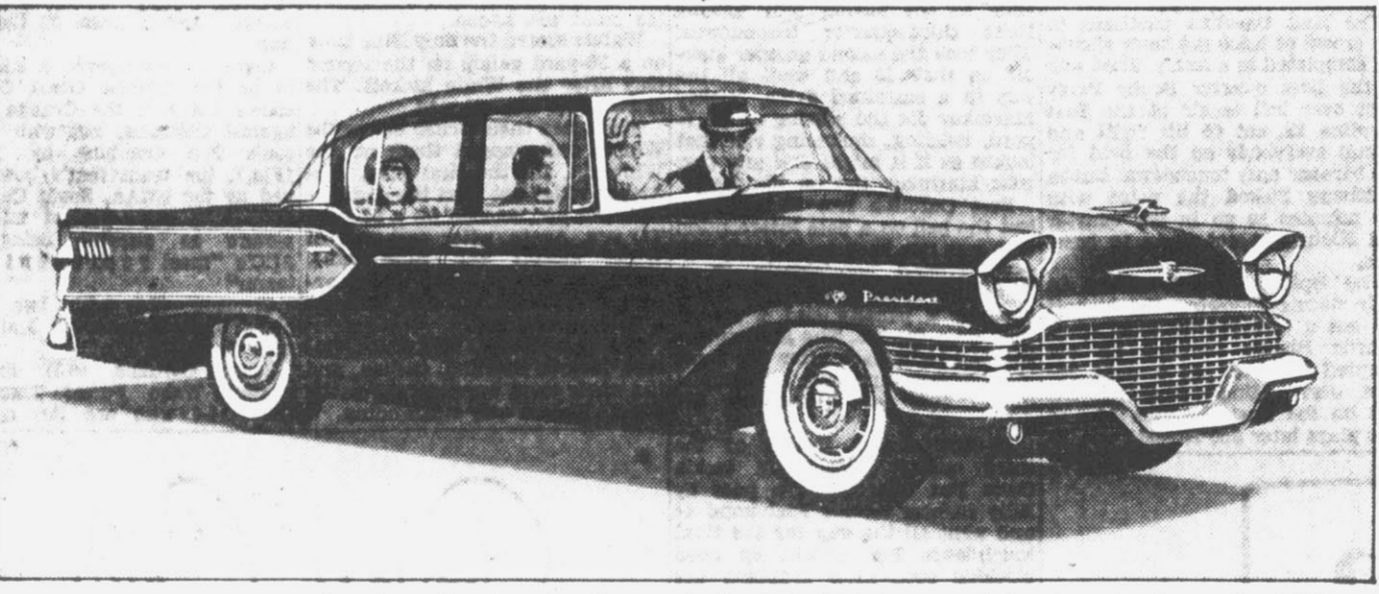

A.2.C. John Strelcher, 19, Paterson, N.J., who was reported in critical condition after the accident, was described as "fair" last night. Three others remained in the hospital with lesser injuries.

Says He Did It 'For The Kids'

CHARLOTTE (AP)—"I did it because of the kids and because I never had any money," police today quoted an employe of the Armored Motor Service Co. charged with stealing $5,246. All but $650 of the money stolen from ABC liquor store receipts was recovered. Police Chief Frank N. Littlejohn said that James Wylie Phillips, 40, admitted the theft and led them to $4,596. It was in two places at his home in Rock Hill, S.C., buried in a fruit jar and hidden in the hubcap of an automobile. Phillips, a former textile worker, was seen employed by the armored car company here for the last 4 1/2 months. He has a wife and four children, and said he earned $13 a week. He said he would waive preliminary hearing, and was released in $1,000 bond posted by a bondsman. Littlejohn said Phillips could account for only about $200 of the $500 still missing. The chief said Phillips told him he used some money for personal expenses, and gave some to his oldest son. Littlejohn gave this account: The theft took place Saturday Nov. 10. The armored car service made its own investigation before turning the matter over to police three or four days later. At first Phillips said he had put the cash in a bank night depository. Later he admitted that instead of throwing it down the chute he had rolled the money bag into a larger bag and took it with him. Another employe with him was not implicated.

Jaycees Affirm Stand Against Klan In N.C.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce has reaffirmed its opposition to the Ku Klux Klan, which has been trying to revive lately. The stand against the Klan was among three resolutions adopted here yesterday at the Jaycees' second quarterly board meeting. It said, "There is no place in our democratic way of life for such organizations." The other resolutions supported higher pay for teachers, and commended the Hungarian freedom fighters, urging the United Nations to back their cause. Leaders of the Klan were sent to jail for night-riding terrorism a few years ago. The organization was dormant until recently. But for the last five Saturday nights it has been holding public rallies and cross burnings around the state. U. S. Rep. L. H. Fountain of Tarboro spoke at the banquet which concluded the Jaycees meeting last night. He urged the Jaycees to do something about crime, which he called "a cancerous growth upon our society and our way of life." He praised Jaycee support of national Crime Prevention Week, and the organization's work for youth. Mike Morrow of Wilmington, formerly of Winston-Salem, was elected a national director. He succeeded Banks Finger of Franklin, who resigned. Durham won the attendance prize for larger clubs and Raleigh for clubs with fewer than 50 members. The meeting attracted 703 Jaycees and their wives from 89 clubs, a record for quarterly meetings.

Larkins' Successor Named By Governor

RALEIGH (AP)—Former State Rep. Joseph Branch of Enfield will serve as liaison and legislative counsel for Gov. Hodges during the 1957 General Assembly, succeeding John D. Larkins Jr. of Trenton. Hodges announced this over the weekend and said Larkins had asked to be relieved of the post because of other responsibilities. Larkins also expressed a desire to give more time and attention to his law practice, Hodges said. The State Democratic Executive Committee recently reelected Larkins as state Democratic chairman for a new two-year term. Larkins also was party chairman when he served as liaison and legislative counsel during the 1955 Legislative session and also the extra session in July. During the last Legislature, some criticism was voiced of the fact that he held both jobs. Branch, 41, acquired his law degree from Wake Forest College in 1938 and has practiced law in Enfield. He served four terms as Halifax County representative in the House. In his new role, Branch will keep in touch with the lawmakers on matters in which the governor is interested and will seek to pilot legislation supported by Hodges through the General Assembly.

Scrap Wood Led To Violent Death

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP)—Police said today that an argument over the use of some scrap wood for firewood led to the pistol death of a man and murder charges against a night watchman at a building supply company here. Jesse M. Strider, 57, of Randleman, was fatally wounded Friday night at the company's plant. Henry Haywood Gaddis of Asheboro, also 57, was charged with murder. Police said Strider, hit by bullets from a .32 caliber pistol, was able to walk to an ambulance, but died an hour later in Randolph County hospital.

The reunion of (Jimmy) Jung Sing Yen with his wife, Lee Hang Tao, and son, Fay, took place at Charlotte's Municipal Airport. The moment culminated a long struggle by Yen to bring his family together. Yen came to the United States in 1937, became a citizen and joined the Army in World War II. After the war he returned to his native Canton and married Lee. Yen came back to Charlotte and began to save to bring his wife here. Meanwhile, the Communists gained strength and took over China. Lee and Fay fled to Hong

Auto Pioneer Declares Drivers Not Improved

AUTOMOTIVE PIONEER, Walter S. Austin, Sr., works out some chess moves. In background is a picture of his Highway King auto, which last was produced in 1918.

By EDWARD J. MARKAITZ
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Cars have come a long way—perhaps too far—says Walter S. Austin Sr., since he stopped producing his Highway King auto in 1918.

The trouble is, says the 89-year-old automotive pioneer, drivers haven't improved as much as the cars.

"I just don't approve of cross-country driving any more—too many people killed," says Austin. "Motoring nowadays doesn't appeal to me."

Austin still works 12 hours a day at his engineering board. Only recently he patented a hydraulic transmission. In his spare time he plays chess.

Austin and his father left auto manufacturing in 1918 in favor of real estate development. Austin recalled that his Highway King satisfied customers although there never was an organized advertisement campaign.

"We didn't believe much in advertising to promote car sales in those days," he said.

Austin and his father, the late James E. Austin, once produced about 50 cars a year from 1901 to 1918 in their Grand Rapids plant.

The late William Randolph Hearst owned two Highway Kings. Mrs. Emma Calve, the opera singer, stopped off on a tour in 1915 and took one back to her native France.

Compared with today's streamlined cars, the Highway King was a formidable auto. Models ranged from a two-seat, six-passenger open sedan ($3,750) to a seven-passenger limousine ($5,250).

Austin himself developed his car's four-speed planetary transmission with a steering post shift; a two-speed axle and a double-cantilever spring.

Asked And Received His Discharge From Navy

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Ex-Navy men won't believe this one.

It's the story of a young lieutenant who went to the admiral, asked for his discharge and three of his men and actually got them.

That's what happened to Dr. Thomas Dooley of St. Louis, a former Navy doctor who has organized his own private medical missionary team in Laos.

Dooley, 29, in "Deliver Us From Evil," wrote the story of his role in helping evacuate Vietnamese refugees from Communist-threatened Haiphong in 1954-55.

Four months ago, he applied for his discharge from the Navy. The chief of naval operations, Adm. Arleigh Burke, agreed to the discharge and also approved Dooley's request for three Navy corpsmen who worked with him at Haiphong. The surprised "volunteers" were released from the Navy a month ago.

The others are Dennis Shepard, 27, of Salem, Ore.; Norman Baker, 21, of Berlin, N.H., and Peter Kessey, 22, of Port Arthur, Tex.

Dooley chose the small village of Vang Vieng, in central Laos, as the first site of what he hopes will be an extensive civilian tour of duty in the mountain kingdom. He will remain there until Christmas, then move on to another village.

Why did he pick Laos? "Because it's so backward medically," he said. "The country is loaded with malaria and congenital diseases. There's plenty of work to do."

Dooley has half a million dollars in medicines and surgical equipment; prints of "Fantasia," "Bambi," and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and a new jeep. All were donated as a result of Dooley's recent tour of the United States.

There are some 25,000 known species of each with its own style of web.

American Market Absorbing More Small, Foreign Autos

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor
DETROIT — The American market is absorbing a steadily growing volume of smaller-type foreign-built automobiles.

During this year's January-September period 63,533 foreign-made cars were registered in the United States. In the same 1955 period 35,745 similar makes were registered. Significant in the figures is the fact this year's nine-month total included 36,737 of the small wheelbase Volkswagens.

In the like 1955 period 18,798 American motorists bought Volkswagens.

Second in line to the Volkswagen is American Motors' British-built Metropolitan. The company says it expects to sell 7,500 of the small, low priced Metropolitan this year and will aim at 20,000 unit sales for 1957.

Whether the total car, be realized, of course, is a matter of speculation. Right now orders for the Volkswagens reportedly outnumber the volume available for delivery. Retail deliveries in the United States this year may go above 50,000 units.

Some sources close to the car import situation say the American market for the smaller type of foreign-built cars will be twice as large in 1957 as it was during the current calendar year.

Low initial cost, relatively low maintenance and high level fuel economy are among the small car features that attract buyers of Volkswagens, metropolitan and other foreign-built autos.

Early last year the makers of the Volkswagen got an option on a New Jersey plant owned by Studebaker-Packard with the idea of building there for the American market. The program was abandoned suddenly, however, and thus far has not been revived. Some sources in the car industry here speculated that manufacturing costs in this country probably would force an upward revision in the retail price of the car and result in a cut in its sales volume.

American car makers are watching the market in this country for the smaller, foreign-built cars. As yet none of the larger volume producers has given any indication of trying to produce a small car to compete with them.

General Motors built an experimental small car immediately after World War II but spokesmen said research had shown the car could not be produced in this country to compete in price with the lowest priced foreign-built cars. They said manufacturing costs would be only slightly below those for the industry's current lower priced full-sized models.

The Volkswagen has a port of entry price of around $1,500. The Metropolitan is priced in the same area.

Science Tackles Arctic Defense

OTTAWA (AP)—Development and defense of Canada's frigid North is being worked out by a group of Canadian scientists tackling problems created by subzero temperatures.

Their work ranges from the development of civilian and military equipment able to operate in arctic and subarctic regions to the design of buildings and clothing necessary to enable men to live and work in extremely low temperatures.

Most of the research is centered in three divisions here of the National Research Council—mechanical engineering, biology and building research. Experiments already have solved many problems.

One recent development is a special oil which can be used to lubricate machinery at temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero.

The biology division is conducting an extensive research program to find a method to permit commercial production of frozen concentrated milk to be marketed like frozen soups.

This division has also discovered why some frozen turkeys and other fowl are so tough. Extensive tests show that the meat of fowl will be tender only if the bird is not frozen until it has been dead 24 hours.

The mechanical engineering division operates two cold rooms in which the temperature can be dropped to 70 degrees below zero. Work now is in progress on methods to enable ground radar installations in the arctic to shed ice. Experiments are also being made on de-icing equipment for aircraft and helicopters and to prevent jet engines from accumulating ice.

Land vehicles are being tested to see how they act under arctic conditions. This includes the development of new brake fluids, greases and fuel systems.

Wrong Lines For Fishermen

Huffed, Puffed, And Blew It Out

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP) — A fire was reported in the carburetor of an automobile.

The fire truck sped across town with its siren blasting.

Pulling to a stop near the automobile firefighters jumped off the truck, ready for action.

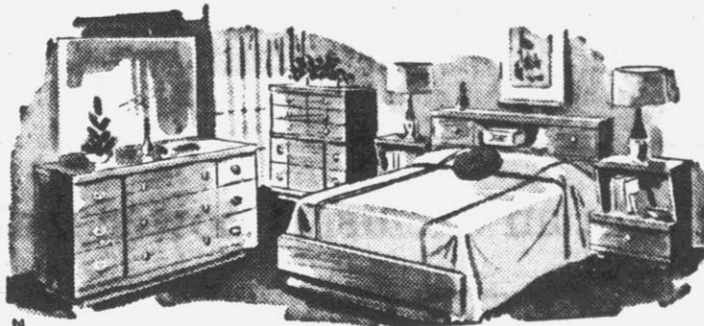

Then Fireman Pete Marssee went into action. He ran to the blaze, huffed, puffed and blew the fire out.

Law Requires Burning Permit Through May

Pitt County Forest Ranger N. S. (Kid) Tyson today called attention to a North Carolina law requiring all persons, firms or corporations who ignite any material in the woods, or within 500 feet of woodland, to first obtain a permit to burn from the State Forester or one of his authorized agents.

The law is in effect from October 1 through the last day of May. There are only two circumstances under which a person may burn wood during the period without a burning permit.

1. A person may burn material in or near woodland at between 4 p.m. and midnight without a burning permit.

2. A person may burn materials in or near woodland at any time without a permit provided his burning is all done within 100 feet of an occupied dwelling. An occupied dwelling is defined as one in which someone lives at the time the burning is done.

If a person burns materials carelessly, thereby allowing fire to escape into woodland, he is subject to penalties of other North Carolina laws whether he has a burning permit or not.

The Pitt county forest ranger said he is not looking for people to prosecute. However, the North Carolina forest laws are among his most valuable tools. He must arrest persons who are careless with fire or indifferent to its use. Persons who are not acquainted with the state forest laws should call County Ranger Tyson at 6504. He will be glad to explain the laws and mail you a booklet containing them. The county forest ranger will visit persons seeking information about preventing forest fires and give instruction for proper burning brush in or near woodland. "But don't burn brush without a permit," he warns.

Permits for burning brush may be obtained from N. S. Tyson, and the Forest Tower, Rt. 2, Greenville; C. J. Satterthwaite, Pactohus; Mrs. Thurman Crawford, Ballard's Crossroads, Rt. 2; Murphey Bros., Grifton; R. G. Little, Grimesland Lumber Mill; W. C. Spencer, Black Jack; Mrs. Linwood Haddock, Rt. 2, Greenville; Blanco Ross, Rt. 2, Greenville; J. W. Crawley, Ayden; O. W. Dall, Winterville; Loyd Manning, County Jail, Greenville; J. Henry Whitehurst, Stokes; E. M. Wooten, Falkland; Earl Lewis and McAlvin Turner, Belvoir; Major James, Bethel; Wilbur Garri, Rt. 2, Ayden; J. H. Bundy, Walstonburg Rt. 3; James J. Edwards, Stokes; William A. House, Rt. 1, Stokes, and A. J. Moore, Rt. 1, Fountain. Permits are free.

Band Remembers Absent Director

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. (AP) — Director Robert H. Greenwell, 30, has been absent from rehearsals of the Baldwin Park High School band since last Monday. That's the day a brain-tumor operation was performed on his 18-month-old daughter Cheryl, who's still on the critical list.

The 93 band members pitched in to win a West Arcadia invitational band review for Greenwell. Rehearsing and competing under drum major Carol Oglesby, 16, they took third place.

They presented their $150 prize money to Greenwell — to help pay for the operation.

Rescuer In Dark As To Victim

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) Clarence Galloway, 23, still is wondering whom he rescued from the Ohio River.

Galloway jumped into the water to save a floundering lad and was aided by a fisherman in lifting the boy to a moored barge.

By the time Galloway, who's not an expert swimmer got onto the barge, the boy had disappeared.

hibit the erection of any building or structure on Boyd Avenue within the "Business District" and/or "Industrial District" nearer than 50 feet to the center line of said Boyd Avenue.

All persons interested are requested to be present and will be given an opportunity to be heard.

This the 8th day of November, 1956.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel and shipbuilding issues advanced in active turnover but the rest of the stock market was lower on average early this afternoon.

The favored stocks scampers ahead 3 or 4 points while losses among other pivotal issues went from fractions to around 2 points. The already booming prospects for the steel industry and hopes for big earnings and dividends in the fourth quarter were lifted still higher by the Suez Canal situation.

An even heavier demand for oil pipe and steel plates for tankers spurred stocks representing these products.

Lukens Steel, the sensation of the group recently, raced ahead another 14 points on the day. Aircrafts and nonferrous metals also made gains. Chemicals, oils, rails and miscellaneous manufacturing stocks were lower.

Lukens, a maker of heavy steel plate, was offered at 200 with 150 bid at the opening and did not open for an hour and a half at 150, up 10 points from the Friday close. Later it added another 4 points.

Bethlehem Steel was up around 4 at one time, later selling with a gain of well over 2. Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin were up a point or better. U.S. Steel a fraction, Youngstown around 3.

On prospects for tanker and warship building, Newport News Shipbuilding was up over 4 and Bath Iron Works over 3.

Boeing and Douglas Aircraft gained fractions. Anaconda, Kennecott Copper, American Smelting and Phelps Dodge gained fractions.

But Alcoa and Aluminum Ltd. were each off around 3 on worsening prospects for the industry.

General Motors, Chrysler and Ford slipped a bit. Studebaker-Packard was steady.

Amerasia, a big domestic oil producer, gained more than a point. Royal Dutch, Gulf Oil and Standard Oil (New Jersey) edged off.

Losers included Baltimore & Ohio and Du Pont, both off 2 following dividend action.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 20 cents to $177.70 with the industrials down 20 cents, the rails down 40 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices were mostly 25 lower today. Tops of 14.75 to 15.50 at Rocky Mount; 14.75 to 15.25 at Kinston, Tarboro, Enfield and Bethel; 15.25 at Hillsboro and Goldsboro; 14.50 to 15.00 at Smithfield, New Bern, Jackson, Nahant, Scotland Neck and Johnston; 15.00 at Fayetteville, Clinton, Lumberton, Elizabethtown, Micro, Mount Olive and Castle Hayne; 14.75 at Rich Square, Blackmans Cross Roads, Dunn, Clarkton, Whiteville, Bailey, Newton Grove, Taber City, Kenly, Shallotte, Wintate, Mount Gilead and Siler City; 14.50 at Farmville.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady, farm price 17. f.o.b. plants 18 1/4.

Raleigh eggs steady, large 40-42, Charlotte eggs steady, A large 40, Asheville eggs steady, A large 43 to 45, mostly 43.

A plane may leave Vienna Wednesday bound directly for Milwaukee, where there is a large population of Hungarian origin.

The United States has offered to provide visas for 5,000 of the nearly 40,000 Hungarians who have fled to Austria since Russia's troops cracked down suddenly Nov. 4 on Hungary's independence movement.

Eleven other countries have offered to provide haven for many of the others; some 6,000 have already left for new homes in Western Europe.

Harassed employees of the U. S. consulate in Vienna have been taking applications and making medical checks for a week. The first American visas still had not been issued this morning. They must be granted by the end of the year, before legal authorization expires.

The Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration plans to charter 70 planes to fly refugees to the United States, mainly to McGuire Field, N. J., near a temporary reception center the Army is making ready at Camp Kilmer.

ed. The plane came over the mountains and dropped down real low over the camp. When it got over the camp the pilot dropped the landing gear, lowered the flaps and revved his engines. He made one pass and then came back over the camp. We knew something was up and there wasn't much sleeping that night.

"We kept expecting some news the next day and got excited when 'Snake Eyes' (the camp's chief political commissar) called us all in the compound at noon. That meeting, though, was just to tell us that two of our boys had been sentenced to a year in jail.

"About 3 p.m., Snake Eyes called us out again and when we were in the compound another gork came in with a big motion picture camera. Snake Eyes told us that the Chinese forces had forced the Americans into a truce and then turned on a big smile for the cameraman.

"We just stood there. No smiles, no shouting, no nothing. Snake Eyes' smile faded and told us to get back into our hut. He was disappointed but, brother, we weren't. We started celebrating by harvesting a tobacco crop (42 plants) we had started after trading soap for tobacco seed and Martel Hardy of Williamson gave it a quick curing in a little mud oven we had built.

"After the truce was announced, prisoner treatment improved and Gant was sent to Kaesong to await repatriation. He crossed the line September 3, 1953, 75 pounds lighter than he had been when he was captured.

Gant stayed in a military hospital until March 1955 when he was sent to Burlington on recruiting duty. Since that time he has spoken to many organizations in the Burlington area and he always repeats at least one part of his talk for every group:

"We feel too secure and smug about our position in the world. What we have to realize is that if we can bomb Russia, she can bomb us. We have to maintain our superiority and supremacy of air power to keep them from jumping on us first."

That's one reason he volunteered for recruiting. To try to get enough men into the Air Force to make sure nobody ever jumps on us.

He's pretty successful, too. Friday he received a plaque from Captain Traynham for exceeding his quota of enlistments by 130 per cent.

ENFIELD, England (AP)—The Rev. Gordon Girling appealed to his parishioners today to baptize their babies sooner—and spare his aching back.

"To have thrust into one's arms at the front a baby weighing anything up to 30 pounds to hold and baptize at the same time is no light thing," he wrote in his parish magazine. The vicar, who is 41, added:

"I shudder to think how I am going to handle such heavy babies in 25 years time."

Airliners To Fly Refugees To U.S.

VIENNA (AP)—Chartered airliners will begin ferrying Hungarian refugees to the United States within the week, U. S. officials said today. The first groups are tentatively scheduled to arrive in time to celebrate Free Hungary Day Sunday.

A plane may leave Vienna Wednesday bound directly for Milwaukee, where there is a large population of Hungarian origin.

The United States has offered to provide visas for 5,000 of the nearly 40,000 Hungarians who have fled to Austria since Russia's troops cracked down suddenly Nov. 4 on Hungary's independence movement.

Eleven other countries have offered to provide haven for many of the others; some 6,000 have already left for new homes in Western Europe.

Harassed employees of the U. S. consulate in Vienna have been taking applications and making medical checks for a week. The first American visas still had not been issued this morning. They must be granted by the end of the year, before legal authorization expires.

The Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration plans to charter 70 planes to fly refugees to the United States, mainly to McGuire Field, N. J., near a temporary reception center the Army is making ready at Camp Kilmer.

ed. The plane came over the mountains and dropped down real low over the camp. When it got over the camp the pilot dropped the landing gear, lowered the flaps and revved his engines. He made one pass and then came back over the camp. We knew something was up and there wasn't much sleeping that night.

"We kept expecting some news the next day and got excited when 'Snake Eyes' (the camp's chief political commissar) called us all in the compound at noon. That meeting, though, was just to tell us that two of our boys had been sentenced to a year in jail.

Pitt School Bus Suffers Mishap; Children Unhurt

A Pitt County school bus was involved in a minor accident this morning on a short distance from the Pictolus school. None of the children on the bus was injured.

Highway Patrolman James W. Boykin who investigated the accident estimated damage to the school bus and the automobile involved at $20.

Boykin identified the driver of the school bus as Betty Lou Eastwood, 17, of Greenville route six. The driver of the automobile was listed by the patrolman as Jack Gibson Edwards, 21, of Pictolus.

Boykin said the bus was traveling a rural dirt road a short distance from the Pictolus school when the car driven by Edwards came out of a drive and collided with the side of the bus. Boykin charged Edwards with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Nehru Sounds A Bit Of Criticism

NEW DELHI (AP)—In his strongest criticism so far of Soviet action in Hungary, Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today Russia's prestige had been "powerfully affected" in Eastern European countries, in noncommunist countries and even among people in the Soviet Union itself.

Opening a two-day foreign affairs debate, Nehru said details of what had happened in Hungary are not clear but "it is evident the government of Hungary is not a free but an imposed government, and the people are not satisfied with it."

"If in the course of 10 years the Hungarian people could not be converted to Soviet ideas," he continued, "it shows a certain failure which is a far greater failure than any military coup."

Nehru said he had "no doubt" that the Hungarian people seeking freedom were "bound to triumph."

He repeated India's call for the withdrawal of French, British and Israeli troops from Egypt and Soviet troops from Hungary.

The Indian government "stand on Hungary has been hotly criticized" by Socialists and some papers as being too lenient toward the Russians.

Nehru complained about the "confusing picture" in both Hungary and Egypt and said "qualified impartial observers" from the United Nations should go to those countries to "bring out the facts and open the window so the world can find out what has happened and what is happening."

He said he trusted the "authorities in the places concerned" would permit this. Hungary's present Soviet-imposed government has already rejected the U. N. General Assembly's request to send observers.

Nehru said the English and French had gained nothing and lost much from their intervention in Egypt. He said it was argued the attack on Egypt had blocked Russia from the Middle East but "it has, perhaps, on the contrary, opened the door for the Russians."

Nehru also said that British and French casualties were "much worse than stated in the press so far," especially in the parachute landings. He did not elaborate.

The season for hunting quail, rabbits, wild turkey and non-native pheasants opens Thursday—Thanksgiving Day. The open season on this game ends January 31.

Pitt County Game Protector Joe Teel today called attention to the danger of woods fires as a result of careless hunters smoking and not extinguishing camp fires.

The bag limit on quail is 8 daily, 16 possession and 100 per season.

Big limit on rabbits is 5 daily, 10 possession and 75 per season. Bag limit on wild turkey is 1 daily, 2 possession and 2 per season.

Non-native pheasant—no shooting in Pitt County without special permit.

Funeral Tuesday For Miss Burtie Walker

Worship services will be held Thanksgiving day at 11 o'clock at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church. The public is invited.

The Fleming Street Parent-Teacher Association at its November meeting elected Mrs. Emma Maye a delegate to the State Parent-Teacher Congress. Mrs. Moore read the report of the Mothers' Club. It stated that the fall festival held Halloween was a success and she thanked the parents for cooperation. The festival netted $70 for the club and Mrs. Moore presented a check for this sum to Miss S. P. Caulter from the Mothers' Club to help get playground equipment for Fleming Street School. President Mrs. Emmr Maye and the members of the P. T. A. urged Miss Sautler to get the needed pieces of equipment and pledged that they will help to take care of the cost.

Mrs. Doris Cox, president of the Mothers' Club "invites other mothers to join in the work of helping the young people to become worthy, healthy, useful and happy citizens."

The Pastor's Aid Club of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Georgia Foreman tonight at 7:30.

Rev. P. H. Mumford, pastor of York Memorial A. M. E. Zion Church requests the trustees, stewards, class leaders and club members to attend a meeting at the church Tuesday night at 7:30. The conference convenes at Jacksonville Wednesday at 10 a.m.

The Ruth Hill Gospel Chorus of Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church tonight at 7:30 for rehearsal.
