Disorders Erupt In Poland While Gomulka Away

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—A Polish newspaper says demonstrations and riots erupted in Poland while Poland's Communist party chief was in Moscow negotiating on future Polish-Soviet relations. The newspaper Express Wieszniom received here today said disorders occurred Sunday at Bromberg. It said students and young workers set fire to the city's radio station and they fought off police and fire brigades. This account of trouble contrasted with dispatches from Warsaw which said the Polish Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka was greeted by cheering crowds on his journey from Moscow back to Warsaw. Political observers here said, however, there was no doubt that riots broke out after the announcement that the new agreement between Gomulka and the Kremlin leadership did not include provisions for the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Poland. The independent Vienna newspaper Neuer Kurier reported "tension and disturbances" throughout Poland due to what it termed Gomulka's "taking the Moscow line." Another Polish paper, the Glos Olszynski, told of an anti-Soviet demonstration by students at Olsztyn (Allenstein), in former German East Prussia. Gomulka, who was restored to the Central Committee of the Polish United Workers (Communist) party last month in a Polish move toward an independent form of communism, returned to Warsaw last night. He told cheering crowds in the Polish capital, "All those things which stood between the friendship of Poland and the Soviet Union have been settled." "The difference between actions and words, which in the past often made our relations difficult, have been liquidated," he de-

Suez Port Of Sunken Ships

Hulks of vessels clog the Suez Canal harbor of Port Said, sunk by Egyptians, according to Anglo-French authorities. A pledge of United Nations agreement in principle to help Egypt clear the wreck-littered canal was extended by UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in completing his peace talks in Cairo. Hammarskjold Reportedly Backs Egyptian Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—subject to negotiation. The secretary general, who returned yesterday from a trouble-shooting trip to Egypt, planned to submit two reports to the Assembly today. A U.N. spokesman said one centered on the operation to clear the canal, in which Hammarskjold agreed the U.N. would help, and the other on the U.N. police force. Egypt has demanded that Britain, France and Israel immediately withdraw their troops from Egyptian territory seized in their offensive. Britain and France have insisted they will pull their forces out of the northern third of the canal zone only if the positions are taken over by U.N. police troops. Israel has indicated it will try to hang on to the Gaza Strip and so far has not moved to withdraw from Egypt's Sinai Peninsula. The U.N. spokesman said clearance of the canal, blocked by the wreckage of two bridges and 47 sunken ships, would be undertaken as authorized by the U.N., with the organization arranging with "a number of firms" to do the work. He added, "The negotiations for the undertaking might also have to cover security arrangements." "The U.N. emergency force will carry out the functions assigned to it by the General Assembly for the supervision of the cease-fire and the withdrawal of the British-French and Israeli forces," the spokesman continued. "In so doing," he said, "the U.N. emergency force will contribute to the re-establishment of conditions in which the clearance of the canal can be carried through successfully. No one can at present forecast exactly how long the operation will take." Earlier estimates have said the clearance job may take six months. Hammarskjold's first conference after his return here included sessions with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister, Christian Pineau. Both were understood to have insisted that their governments will not withdraw their troops from Egypt unless the U.N. force polices the canal area. Egypt in turn stood firm on its demand—that the U.N. troops must take up positions along the 1949

British Reveal Fuel Rationing To Begin Dec. 17

LONDON (AP)—The British government announced today it will start rationing gasoline and oil beginning Dec. 17. There will be a basic ration for all motorists with a limited supplementary allowance for essential purposes. The step was taken to meet the shortages caused by the blockade of the Suez Canal. The main supply route for British oil.

Light Voting

Poll holders reported shortly before noon today that 137 persons had voted in the election today which will decide whether the city will issue $275,000 in bonds for capital improvements. Local voters are casting their ballots for the second time in approval or disapproval of the proposed bond issue. An election held July 10 was voided due to a legal technicality. All the proposed improvements carried in that election. On July 10, 686 of the between four and five thousand registered voters in Greenville cast ballots. Fire department, street and drainage improvements received overwhelming votes of approval at that time. Recreation improvement funds were approved but by a lesser margin on July 10.

U. S. Colony Set Up At South Pole

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—Americans colonized the South Pole today. Eight Navy Seabees and 11 sled dogs are the first residents of the bleak, snow-topped plateau at the bottom of the world, where the temperature is 29 degrees below zero. The party landed just after midnight in two ski-equipped C47 Dakotas. Their safe arrival was reported by radio to this U.S. air base 800 miles away on the coast of Antarctica. The Navy men will set up a camp for American scientists who will spend the black antarctic winter at the pole. Their observations will be part of the U.S. contribution to the worldwide study of the earth and its atmosphere during the International Geophysical Year. First task of the Seabees, commanded by Lt. Richard A. Bowers, a young Navy engineer from Harrisburg, Pa., was to set up survival shelters. Later they are to be joined by 16 more men who will help construct the polar base and Dr. Paul Siple of Washington, D.C. who will head the scientific expedition spending the winter. The men who landed today will be the first in all history to live at the pole. A party headed by Rear Adm. George Dufek, commander of the Navy's Operation Deepfreeze, made the first airplane landing at the pole three weeks ago. That group spent an hour on the rough, windblown snow making observations. No other man had set foot there since the ill-fated Scott expedition 44 years ago. All five members of the Scott party died on the return trip. Lt. Cmdr. Conrad S. (Gus) Shinn of Spray, N.C., who made the first landing at the pole, and Lt. Cmdr. Roy E. Curtis of Keene Valley, N.Y., piloted the two twin-engine planes today.

Berserk Gunman Wrecks Holiday

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Two young wives made funeral plans today for their slain husbands, marking the tragic end to what was to have been a week of Thanksgiving celebration and happy events. A berserk gunman, handling a deer rifle with deadly accuracy, shot and killed State Troopers George E. Lappi, 28, and Bert Lappi, 27, who were called to a family row. Lappi died on the day after his 18th wedding anniversary. His wife is expecting another child in a few days. Pozza died on his wife's birthday. Both have two young children. The families had planned a joint celebration. "We were all going out together," Mrs. Pozza said. "But now..." Another state trooper, Cpl. Robert Esey, was wounded in the ankle during a 45-minute siege before Harry G. Richards, 63, was driven from his home by bullets and tear gas fired by 75 police men. Richards, a retired Flint postal clerk, is a police prisoner at a hospital. He was treated for tear gas effects. Police said he was too incoherent to tell what happened but he quoted his friends as saying he had been deteriorating mentally since suffering a stroke in 1948. His wife said he had been under psychiatric treatment. He became enraged during an argument over "a mere nothing" and struck her in the face with a small coal shovel. She called the troopers. Richards barricaded himself in the house. He ran from window to window firing his rifle to hold off the troopers.

Winds Spreading Big Brush Fire

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—Tiferous winds pushed a spreading brush fire through the foothills of the San Bernardino Mountains today, sending the flames dangerously close to citrus groves and ranch houses. Five homes scattered through the brush have been reported destroyed by the fire in its erratic course over 4,000 acres of hilly terrain. Four fire fighters have been burned, one critically. On one of its flanks, the fire is only half a mile from the black scar left in the mountains by the devastating Lake Arrowhead fire of last September. The fire started yesterday near the community of Highland and was turned almost instantly into a rampaging blaze by the fierce winds that scoured southern California all day. A gust of 100 m.p.h. was clocked on a mountain top, and winds up to 65 m.p.h. kicked up blinding sand and dust storms along desert roads. No communities are believed to be endangered by the flames, but extensive damage has been reported from heat and smoke in the lush orange groves terraced along the lower edge of the foothills.

Goldboro Crash Kills Jet Pilot

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Air Force today identified a lieutenant killed at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base as Robert C. Beattie, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Beattie Sr., of Steubenville, Ohio. Lt. Beattie's widow was listed as the former Betty Boxley. Beattie, pilot of an F86 jet, was fatally injured in an attempted emergency landing. The plane clipped tree tops near the base and struck a bank of the Neuse River several hundred yards from the end of the runway. Beattie was thrown clear and died several hours later at a Goldsboro hospital. He was attached to the 83rd Fighter Wing based here.

Early Start For Yuletide Parties

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—A Christmas party was held last night for the youngsters at the Dr. Patrick J. O'Rourke Children's Center under the sponsorship of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary. An auxiliary spokesman said so many Christmas parties are planned this year that a pre-Thanksgiving, start was necessary.

Okay Two Decks For Big Bridge

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The New Jersey Legislature—after two years of delay—has given the green light to the Port of New York Authority's plan to double-deck the George Washington bridge. The Senate and Assembly suspended their rules last night to approve the authorization. The bill now goes to Gov. Robert B. Meyner. The bill is identical to one approved by the New York State Legislature in 1954.

Holiday

The Reflector will not publish Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving Day. All departments of the newspaper will be closed all day Thursday, but will observe regular hours on Friday when publication will be resumed. Advertisements for Friday's edition of The Reflector must be received not later than noon Wednesday.

No Opposition By U.S. Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—The national committee of the American Communist party says "we do not seek to justify the use of Soviet troops in Hungary's internal crisis on Nov. 4." A letter to party members from the committee adds, however: "Neither do we join in the condemnation of this action. Were there no alternatives? Was it a grim necessity? There are no ready answers and we are in no position to give final judgment on the Soviet action." The committee's 2,500-word letter to members was made public here last night. In a long discussion of events in Hungary, the letter said: "The Oct. 24 decision of the Gerog government to call upon Soviet troops stationed in Hungary to put down the initial popular demonstrations inflamed the situation to a grave crisis. "This was a tragic error for which the Soviet Union must also take responsibility. It disclosed the failure of policy which was not based securely upon the national needs and sentiments of the working class and popular masses in Hungary. "The great prestige that the Soviet Union had won amongst the Hungarian working class by its role in liberating the country from the Nazis and the hated Horthy regime was thereby seriously damaged."

Norstad Takes NATO Command

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther handed over the supreme command of the 15-nation Atlantic Pact forces in Europe today to U.S. Air Force Gen. Lauris Norstad. The new commander said he took over the post "with a firm belief that NATO is, if anything, more important than ever before." "The Soviets have again, and perhaps more wantonly and brutally than ever before, demonstrated that they understand only force," Norstad said. "It is clear that our peaceful aims can be achieved only by maintaining our strength." Troops representing all the NATO nations—except Iceland, which has no armed forces—paraded without arms as the command changed hands at Supreme Allied Headquarters near Paris. Granted a wish, Gruenther said, some people might want to doubt the NATO's military strength, some might want to strengthen it in the political field, and some might wish that Khrushchev would abstain for a while from going to those cocktail parties in the Kremlin. "For his part, he added, he wished the 450 million people of the NATO countries should have an abiding faith in their alliance.

Any Millionaire Will Be Welcome

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles City Council is ready to take applications of millionaires who may wish to give parks to the city. The council's receptive mood followed a suggestion that the city sell 27 tax-deeded lots it owns in West San Fernando Valley and earmark the proceeds for parks. If the city needed such benefactors, the city needed such benefactors, said Councilman Harold Henry, "there might be a considerable response."

Fires Of Revolt Not Yet Quelled

VIENNA (AP)—More Hungarian workers returned to their jobs today, Radio Budapest said. But the revolt against Russian subjection which exploded four weeks ago still lived. Nep Szabadsag, official newspaper of Premier Janos Kadar's government, recognized the popular demand for independence. It expressed the hope the Soviet Union would "respect the oft-expressed wish of the Hungarian people to live independently and according to its own will." Radio Budapest said that four textile works had started production. Several others were idle because of the lack of power or chemicals. In the Dorog mines, northwest of Budapest, 1,000 miners went into the pits today compared with 600 the previous day, the station said. In the Salgotarjan mines 2,370 workers were reported mining coal. Yesterday 1,540 tons of sorely needed coal were mined compared with 10,000 tons daily in normal times, it was reported. Radio Budapest said 10 street-car lines were running. It predicted that all main lines would be running within two or three days. An earlier broadcast said that attempts to restore street-car traffic on one line yesterday was met with threats and attacks on employees. Electricity was the main problem because of the shortage of coal. Brick factories have stopped production because of the coal shortage. There was said to be enough window glass to replace thousands of panes shattered during the fighting. Reliable reports from Budapest said many workers continued to refuse to work while the Russians remained in the city and former Premier Imre Nagy remained a refugee in the Yugoslav Embassy. Nep Szabadsag expressed some misgivings about the Polish-Soviet agreement to maintain Russian troops in Poland. The paper said this development could be "disturbing" since it could "give rise to the fear that the Soviet Union might insist on similar conditions in our case."

Undisappointed By High Court's Refusal To Rush

MONTGOMERY (AP)—The refusal yesterday of Justice Black to speed up official notice of a U. S. Supreme Court decision to end segregation in Montgomery buses brought "no real disappointment" to leaders of the Negro bus boycott here. The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said, "We were optimistic enough to hope for the best, but realistic enough to know it was possible the court would deny the request, and we knew that that was the greater possibility." King is president of the Montgomery Improvement Assn., coordinating body for the boycott that began Dec. 5. Out of it grew a federal suit on which the Supreme Court ruled a week ago that city and state bus segregation laws are unconstitutional. The decision will be formally relayed to U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. of Montgomery about Dec. 12.

Directors Suggest 2 Business Holidays

Directors of the Greenville Merchants Association yesterday recommended two business holidays at Christmas and another on January 1. The recommendation was made after a meeting of the board reported on holiday plans in towns in the surrounding area. The recommendation calls for closing on December 25 and 26 and on January 1. In another recommendation, the directors asked that merchants keep their places of business open until 9 p.m. Monday, December 17, through Saturday, December 22, and until 6 p.m. December 24. C. K. Beatty, Street Department superintendent, discussed garbage disposal in the business district and told the directors that trash was not being handled properly. He explained a new plan the department is considering

Observers Think Eden On Way Out

LONDON (AP)—A. A. Butler, No. 2 man in the British government, presided over a Cabinet meeting today in place of ailing Prime Minister Eden. Eden's doctors have ordered him to rest because of "severe overstrain." The mere fact that Eden was ordered to take it easy at a time when Britain faced some of the hardest questions to come out of the prolonged Middle East crisis led to speculation—without any official foundation—that his time as prime minister is nearing an end. Eden has been under heavy fire ever since his decision to join with France in invading Egypt two weeks ago. The opposition Labour party has vigorously called for his resignation. There have been some minor defections in his own Conservative party. Despite the fact that Eden has won half a dozen crucial confidence votes in Parliament, there have been persistent reports that deep cracks exist in the Conservative ranks. The news of Eden's illness came too late for comment by newspapers which have opposed him at home. But in Paris, the afternoon newspaper France Soir concluded that Eden was suffering a diplomatic illness—often the first step in the removal of a political leader. "This is a major political crisis is opened," France Soir said. It added: "It was not easy for the Conservatives who are opposed to the Premier to overthrow the party's leader. It can be considered now that his succession is opened." Despite all the controversy which has been stirred at home by Eden's Middle East policies, it has never been considered likely here that he would be overthrown as prime minister in a frontal attack. The Conservative government has a 63-vote majority in the 625-seat House of Commons. It was elected in 1955 to serve until 1960 and has comfortably beaten off all no-confidence moves by the Labour party. Any successful attempt to oust Eden would be likely to come from within his own party. Traditionally, this would take the form of back room conversations among party bigwigs to impress the prime minister with the reasons for retirement—followed by the announcement that he had decided to take a rest.

Arkansas Bank Is Destroyed By Big Explosion

DANVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A powerful explosion destroyed the Danville State Bank today, injured two men and caused extensive damage throughout this town of some 800 persons. The blast apparently occurred when cashier Bill Gatlin attempted to light a gas stove, Bob Fisher of the Danville Record said. Gatlin, about 45, and Joe Fohn, about 60, the only two persons in the bank, were hospitalized with serious burns. Fisher said the explosion blew the front of the brick structure "onto the sidewalk," collapsed the roof, set fire to an adjacent building and knocked out windows in other buildings in every direction. "It looks like every window in town was knocked out," he said. The explosion occurred about 7 a.m. Fisher said that everything in the bank except "what was in the vault" apparently was destroyed. There was no immediate estimate of the damage.

Each Past Worthy High Priestess and Past Watchman of Shepherds was paid high tribute for her year of service at the November meeting of the Greenville White Shrine which honored them.

The program was written by Mrs. Ola Dale Wilson.

A short memorial service was held in honor of Sojourner Hazel Scott.

Announcement was made of a state-wide school to be held in the Masonic Temple in Greensboro Nov. 25. This event, sponsored by the state club, will be held at 1:30 p. m. and conducted by Bernice Merrill, SHP.

Parents Protest Social 'Pushing'

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A group of Charlotte parents have set up a program to reverse social trends which the parents say have caused their pre-teen-age children to be "pushed" into abnormally early social life.

The members of the Parents' League—an organization of parents with children in grades 6 through 10—heard a report here last night that children in Charlotte's more prosperous areas are dating, dancing, wearing lipstick and formal earlier than their contemporaries among 11 other cities surveyed in the United States.

Five of the 11 cities—Greensboro, Raleigh, Columbia, S. C., Richmond, Va., and Baltimore—were considered as presenting comparable Southern situations.

The parents blamed themselves for allowing such practices as mentioned in the report: Children pushed socially from the first grade on; boys and girls flabby from riding everywhere because they haven't time to walk; children pouring soft drinks and catsup on each other at adult-type parties for which they're too young; children driving automobiles before the legal age, with their parents' permission.

A panel of five Charlotte mothers made the report on conditions—mostly in the 11 to 13 age bracket—among children here and in other cities.

The reports stated that lipstick begins to be seen in the sixth grade here and is used practically without exception by seventh-grade girls, as compared with girls in most other cities who start wearing it in the eighth and ninth grades.

Charlotte sixth-graders reportedly begin going to weekly ballroom dancing classes that last more than eight months, with tea dances in formal dress given at the dancing schools.

Mrs. Paul Halberstadt said that some sixth-grade girls are left out of the tea dances. "Is it right," she asked, "for a little sixth-grade girl, age 11, to be branded as a wallflower?"

She also reported on private parties given for sixth-graders at which adult activities such as dancing are planned at the children's suggestion. "They degenerate to splashing coles on each other, throwing catsup and end up playing football on the lawn," she asserted. "Have we bred a bunch of ill-mannered Indians or is the system wrong? It's both. The system is wrong and we are wrong for following it."

Keep It Informal
Some of the pleasantest snapshots we've ever seen were group pictures of family get-togethers on Thanksgiving Day. The ones we liked best were of relaxed, informal groups—pictures that show the folks engaged in some kind of activity with their attention completely off the man with the camera.

Stiff, formal poses are as out-of-date as horsecars. Instead of lining up your guests for a picture, shoot 'em as they are—as they're enjoying themselves. The picture taking will be more enjoyable, too—and so will your finished snapshots.

Take pictures of the adults admiring the newest baby . . . the youngsters fascinated by a puppy or kitten. Be sure to shoot the preparations for dinner—pies coming out of the oven, the turkey being basted. Snap Dad as he carves the turkey . . . the guests receiving their helpings . . . and be sure to catch a happy youngster with his drumstick.

Picture opportunities at Thanksgiving are almost endless—be sure you get a goodly share. If you'd like some further tips on your Thanksgiving pictures, just say the word when you stop in for your holiday film supply. We'll be delighted to be of help.

No wonder this slip looks and feels so expensive! It's beautifully shaped in a nylon tricot that's soft as magnolia petals. The winner of the Greenville Exchange Club's "Book of Golden Deeds" award will be announced at the club's annual "Ladies Night" banquet at Moose Temple December 7 at 7 o'clock. President Jack Wallace will preside.

James W. Boykin won the trophy the first year it was presented here, and Mrs. Susie Ragsdale won it last year.

Wallace said the "Book of Golden Deeds" award winner is selected on the basis of votes of various community clubs and groups for the man or woman who has performed outstanding community services.

30 Years Ago Former Resident Feted On Visit Today

November 20, 1926

On Sunday the Immanuel Baptist Church of Greenville, known far and wide as "The Church of the Glad Hand," will be formally dedicated. This occasion has for the last ten years been anticipated with great pride and inexpressible joy.

For some years there was a debt upon the organ of the church which has recently been removed and now with glowing hearts and ready hands the people of the church are preparing for this festive day. Dr. R. T. Vann of Raleigh will preach the dedicatory sermon. The public is cordially invited to be present and share the blessings with the good people of Immanuel Baptist Church.

An informal coffee at the Calvert home was given on Tuesday morning.

Wednesday night Mrs. B. F. Shepherd.

Coffee Hour Saturday Fetes Shirley Clark, Bride-To-Be

Mrs. M. W. Maxwell, Mrs. G. E. Staples and Mrs. W. C. Harris entertained informally at a coffee hour at the Maxwell home honoring Miss Shirley Clark, bride-elect, on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Maxwell greeted her guests at the door and presented them to a receiving line composed of Mrs. John A. Clark, mother of the bride-elect, Miss Shirley Clark, bride-elect, and the other hostesses. Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Staples. Miss Clark wore a large bronze chrysanthemum corsage, a gift of the hostesses.

The home was decorated throughout, the Thanksgiving motif having been chosen as the decorations. Decorative stem and branch forms and bright-colored fruits and berries were in evidence everywhere.

Two dried arrangements, creations of Mrs. Staples, were featured in the living room. Bouquets of chrysanthemums, late roses and exquisite camellia sasanqua, from Mrs. Maxwell's garden, were used, also, enhancing the scene where guests were received.

In the dining room, the table was covered with a cloth of gold. Here the central feature was a big bronze cornucopia, overflowing in a bright length of fruits, nuts and colorful vegetables, suggestive of the beauty and bounty of the season, and over-all candlelight from burning tapers shed its glow.

Seated at one end of the table.

Mrs. John A. Clark poured coffee from a gleaming silver service, and, from a number of garnished trays, the guests served themselves with a variety of party sandwiches, ham biscuits, assorted cookies, salted nuts and creamy mints.

As a wedding gift, the hostesses presented Miss Clark with a large silver serving tray.

Tea Honors Miss Clark

SPRING HOPE — Mrs. John Baker honored Miss Shirley Clark, bride-elect, Friday afternoon from 4 to 5 at a tea.

Mrs. Baker and her daughter, Mrs. Robert Hildreth of New Mexico, greeted the guests at the door. Fall flowers were used throughout the spacious home and in the honoree's corsage.

A white linen cut work cloth graced the dining table. A large silver tureen of white chrysanthemums, with an arrangement of silver canelabra, white tapers and white flowers made up the centerpiece.

About twenty Spring Hope teachers helped themselves to Russian tea, tiny toasted doughnuts, cookies, fancy sandwiches, nuts and mints.

The hostess presented the bride-elect with a large silver sandwich tray.

FINAL PREPARATIONS—Mrs. S. H. Mitchell, left, and Mrs. J. D. Messick assist other members of the WSCS of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in making final preparations for the bazaar which opened in the church fellowship hall this morning. The table appointment shown above is a part of the seasonal decorations for the event being staged today and tomorrow as a service project of the women. Lunch was served today and will be served again tomorrow from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. A turkey dinner will be served tonight from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Tall pink candles were used on the auxiliary tables. The mantel was banked with magnolia and candles and on the buffet an arrangement of pink and mauve chrysanthemums was placed. Guests found their places at the tables marked by bridal place cards.

Dinner was served in two courses for the sixteen guests who included the honored Mrs. J. L. Quinerly, Mrs. H. P. Quinerly, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tucker, Mrs. J. L. Quinerly, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Sugg and Joe Quinerly.

Try Hearty Spaghetti Sauce

By CECILY BROWNSTONE, Associated Press Food Editor. TRY THESE SPAGHETTI SAUCES NOW. Then, if your family likes them, you'll have them to bank on for economical and quick main dishes all winter long.

One of the recipes combines tomatoes and clams—a combination that has been favored fare in many coastal towns and cities for years. But now that there are excellent canned minced clams available, this combination is bound to win inland praise. Put this sauce together quickly and let it cook over low heat for about an hour and a half; you can go about other household chores during this time because the sauce will need no more attention than an occasional stir.

The other recipe is the good old tomato-meat combination — brought up to date with a time-saving canned spaghetti sauce and ground beef. We find that several brands of these meatless tomato spaghetti sauces are very good indeed; shop around and try several until you find the one your family likes best.

Again, when you are shopping for the spaghetti to serve with the sauces, remember that you can get the regular or the thin variety.

SPAGHETTI WITH CLAM SAUCE

Ingredients: 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes, 1 can (8 ounces) tomato paste, 1-4 cup chopped onion, 1-3 cup chopped green pepper, 1 clove garlic (minced), 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon dried crushed oregano, 1 can (10½ ounces) minced clams,

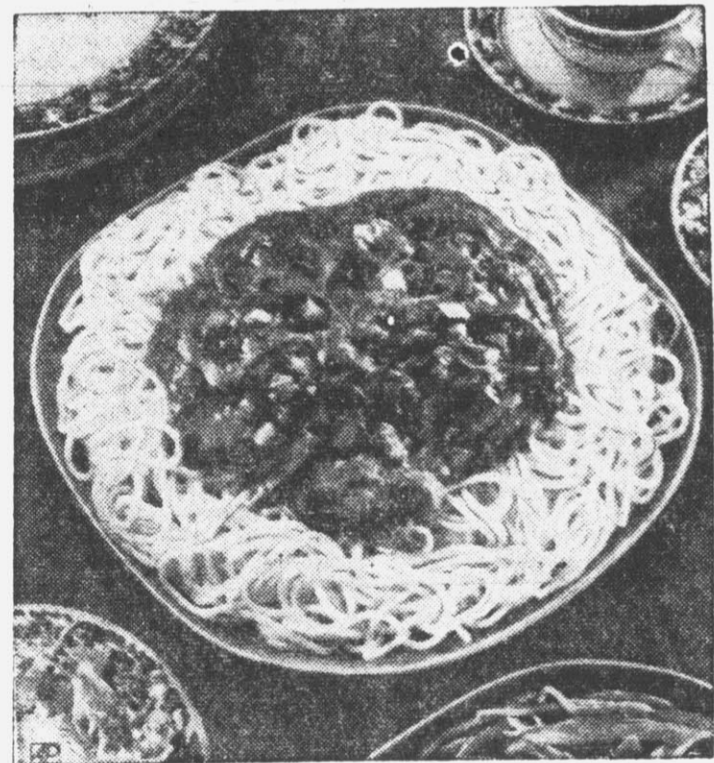

3 quarts boiling water, 1 tablespoon salt, 8 ounces spaghetti. Method: In a saucepan, thoroughly mix the tomatoes, tomato paste, onions, green pepper, garlic, 2 teaspoons salt and oregano. Cook over low heat about 1½ hours, stirring occasionally. (Use an asbestos pad under the saucepan if necessary to keep heat low.) Add clams including liquid in can; heat but do not boil. About 10 minutes before sauce is done, add 1 tablespoon salt to the rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve sauce over spaghetti. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MEAT SAUCE

Ingredients: 1 tablespoon olive oil, ½ pound ground beef chuck, 1 can (10½ ounces) meatless tomato spaghetti sauce, salt, pepper, 3 quarts boiling water, 8 ounces spaghetti. Method: Heat olive oil in saucepan or skillet. Add beef and cook until it loses its red color, mashing with a fork to crumble. Add sauce and salt and pepper to taste; simmer about 10 minutes, stirring a few times. Meanwhile, add 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve sauce over spaghetti. Makes 4 servings.

'Vacationland' Can Use The Fall

North Carolina has placed a great deal of emphasis on its Variety Vacationland in recent years and it has paid off with millions upon millions of tourist dollars from all parts of the nation.

The bulk of this money each year has come in the few summer months. The other eight or nine months of the year the tourist business in North Carolina takes a nose dive. The time is now ripe for North Carolina to emphasize its Variety Vacationland not only from the mountains to the sea, but from January to December instead of June through September.

There are spots in the mountain region that attract tourists during the early fall months, but cold weather of winter virtually shuts these areas off from tourist dollars. There are spots along the coast which also attract tourists during the fall months and sometimes in early spring, but these could be exploited to a much greater degree than is now the case.

From now through March literally thousands of tourists will be passing through coastal Carolina enroute to and from Florida. Some of them may stop for

It Isn't Enough For A Vaccine To Be Offered

There can be no doubt now that polio as an epidemic disease can be wiped out in the United States if full use is made of the Salk vaccine.

A special Associated Press survey shows that the total number of polio cases during 1956 will be about half the total number for last year and less than half the average number of cases for the past five years.

In time, dreaded polio will be relegated to the place of diphtheria, small pox and other diseases which once cast a shadow of peril across the nation and the world. That day will come, however, when use of the preventive vaccine is accepted as widely and as readily as the vaccines for other diseases which have virtually been wiped out.

During the past summer months literally thousands of children and young people in Pitt County were vaccinated against the disease which reached epidemic proportions here. While the total number of youngsters who received at least one shot of the vaccine by the end of the summer ran extremely high, the total number who had completed the full series of three shots was relatively low.

With the vaccination program now going on in public schools of the county, the number of young people who have completed the full series of Salk shots will be much higher by the time the polio season reaches its peak next summer. It is important, however, that the immunization program not be forgotten by parents during this season when few if any cases of the disease are reported.

The vaccine has proved its effectiveness in wiping out polio; but the fact that it is available is not alone sufficient. The vaccine must be used before it does any good. Now that sufficient vaccine is available to meet demands, there is no reason polio should continue to annually threaten lives of literally thousands of people in the United States as it did only two years ago.

How Many More Will Be Killed Before January?

Pitt County's tragic highway death toll has now set a new record for a year. With more than a month left in 1956, the highway death toll already has risen one above the all time record for the county in any one year.

How many more lives will be lost before January?

With as many vehicles as there now are on the highways in this and other counties, it is practically impossible to eliminate accidents altogether. As long as we have accidents on the highways, a percentage of them will result in deaths and injuries. By the same token, as we reduce the total number of accidents in Pitt and other counties, we will likewise reduce the horrible toll now being taken on the highways.

Accident prevention and highway safety is not the business of the Highway Patrol or the Department of Motor Vehicles alone. It is the responsibility of every motorist and every citizen. Until such time as the average citizen takes a greater active interest than he now does in making the highways and streets safer for motorists and pedestrians, there is little hope we can prevent the highway safety program from deteriorating further.

Each year brings more vehicles on the highways and more miles traveled. Safety consciousness on the part of every citizen becomes a more vital part of the total traffic safety program.

With its highway death toll already at a new peak in 1956, Pitt County particularly needs to exert every effort to make the highways and streets in the county safer. It is in the final analysis a responsibility the entire citizenry of the county must assume.

a meal or spend a night in North Carolina, but most of their winter vacation dollars will be spent much farther South. While North Carolina's coastal region might not be able to compete with Florida as a winter vacationland for geographic and climatic reasons, the Tar Heel coast could attract many more tourists if it would properly promote the winter attractions it does have.

Hyde County, for instance, sees few tourists except during November, December and the early part of January. During about 70 days of the year, however, literally thousands of people from North Carolina and other states flock to Hyde County and the area around Lake Mattamuskeet to enjoy goose and duck hunting unsurpassed anywhere. The Currituck Sound area enjoys some of the same benefits from the migratory waterfowl season as does Ocracoke. Other places along the coast haven't been able to turn the winter months into an economically productive season for visitors like these areas have.

With a little promoting most of the coastal areas of the state could make themselves attractive to tourists most of the months out of the year instead of just a few as is now largely the case. Millions of people throughout the nation are familiar of North Carolina's attractions from the mountains to the sea during the summer months. It's time they were told vigorously that North Carolina has a great deal to offer tourists in other months of the year as well.

Tried To Retire, Couldn't Make It

By C.A. UPCHURCH, Jr.
NISBET — Lynn Nisbet, regular conductor of this column, has a padded steel brace on his back and he's now looking at the world through temporary eyeglasses replacing those lost in an auto accident over three weeks ago.

Consequently, he's feeling much better. Nisbet, recovering nicely from a serious back injury, has left the hospital and now is at his home, 2740 Rosedale Ave., in Raleigh.

From the time of his accident near Statesville Oct. 28, Lynn has been cheerful and optimistic about his condition. Now, with the back-brace and spectacles working nicely, he is really feeling his oats, and it's probable he can get back to his job next week.

Today he called the office, issued some instructions, cracked a joke or two, and reported happily that the new specs now enable him to read for the first time since the accident. He described his brace as "a cross between harness used to keep a cow from kicking over the milk bucket and a strait-jacket used to restrain maniacs."

Nevertheless, he's happy over the brace. With the aid of a cane, it is enabling him to walk a little at the time—around his house and garden.

Friends in various walks of life have been subbing for Lynn since his accident. They've been swell.

BROWNING — R. Getty Browning, chief locating engineer for the State Highway Department for more than 30 years and who has handled location of the Blue Ridge Parkway for 22 years, tried to retire last August 1—but he couldn't quite make it. Instead, he now has a new title Federal Parkway Engineer.

It all came about because Mr. Browning didn't intend to quit, anyway. Although he is one of the youngest-appearing and most active men of that age to be found, he is 72 years old by the calendar. That means he can retire and it makes no difference how much salary he draws on any job after that, he can draw his earned retirement, too. But there is a quirk in it that he felt he couldn't meet.

In order to draw retirement benefits and all the salary he could make, too, he had to stay off the payroll for 60 days, and he was right in the midst of a job he couldn't let loose—continuation of important work for the Blue Ridge Parkway. Mr. Browning may find a time when he can let up for 60 days, but it will have to be some period in the future. He is continuing, meanwhile, to handle some vital phases of the Parkway plans.

A native of Maryland and an engineering graduate, Mr. Browning cast his lot with North Carolina in December, 1921. He has had a rich and satisfying experience. His first job was as resident engineer in the Durham Division, under Commissioner John Sprunt Hill. In less than four years he was transferred to Raleigh and the State office to a position later becoming chief locating engineer, and also heading the Right-of-Way and the Claims Departments. As duties increased, the latter two positions were divided, leaving him as chief locating engineer until this year.

Meantime, however the Blue Ridge Parkway matter came up and he took over that work in 1934—and still holds that post under his new title. As is well known, Mr. Browning has tramped over every foot of the 253 miles laid out in North Carolina for the Blue Ridge Parkway, 150 miles of which has been completed and is in use. About 11 miles are under construction and some 80 miles are yet to be improved.

Mr. Browning has handled the expenditure of more than $2,500,000 in surveying and the payment for right-of-way along the parkway, which has a minimum width of 220 feet. Involved in the right-of-way are more than 30,000 acres of land, all of which the State pays for except the mileage embraced in lands owned by the U.S. Government, primarily national forests.

Because of his foot-by-foot knowledge of the North Carolina mountains and his ability to portray vividly the unsurpassed beauty inherent in them, Mr. Browning was able to convince that "Old Curmudgeon," Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes, that he should reverse an earlier decision. In so doing, Mr. Ickes ordered that the Parkway extend southward past Mount Mitchell, and south of Asheville, and then turn westward into the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Otherwise, it would have veered westward into Tennessee around or north of Blowing Rock.

It isn't too well known, but Mr. Browning also convinced Mr. Ickes that a section of the road should be constructed west of Asheville, rather than building it section by section southward and continuously. That was to prevent the highway from being cut off by a return to original plans, reducing the North Carolina mileage to less than half of what it will be.

Other Editors Are Saying.. Here Lies Bela Szabo, Hero

(Charl. News)
The headlines will be rough-hewn, and the words will be crudely inscribed on it. In the language of the deceased will be summed up the story of his brief life.

Bela Szabo
Oct. 25, 1946—Nov. 4, 1956
Killed by a Soviet bullet while fighting for a freedom he never knew

The final resting place of this brave Hungarian youth will be in a secluded wood or off a seldom-traveled road, far-removed from the eyes of the Russian hordes whose brutality snuffed out his life.

For countless other Bela Szabos there will be no decent burial, nor headstones to record their heroic struggle against Soviet oppression. These were the mere children, the teenagers who joined a rebel force in which the minimum age requirement was ten.

David would have had a better chance again. Goliath with his bare fists than did these youths with their Molotov cocktails and brickbats against Soviet tanks. Yet these young Hungarian patriots constituted a substantial part of the rebel forces in the memorable uprising in Budapest.

Why should these children, these teenagers who never knew freedom defend barricades and fight with pathetically inferior weapons against overwhelming enemy force?

The Hungarian revolution, short-lived and ill-fated as it was, has proved once again that it is not necessary for a human being to experience freedom in order to have it. A man may never have had the privileges of liberty, but he knows when he is being oppressed.

The Soviets will do all in their power to prevent news of the true nature of the Hungarian revolt from spreading behind the Iron Curtain, and it will rewrite history in an attempt to prove the revolution was fostered by "Western imperialists."

But the story of the Bela Szabos who shouted defiance in the face of impossible odds will live. It will spread by word of mouth if by no other means, to every corner of the satellite empire, and it will be told and retold until it becomes legend.

And from the revolution which never reached fruition will grow a new hope. For the rebellion in Hungary has proved that one of the mightiest armies and most extensive propaganda machines the world has ever known cannot crush the desire for freedom, even of the young Bela Szabos who have never experienced it.

Freedom is precious to those who have it. To those who do not, it is priceless.

Conservative South's Role

By THURMAN SENSING
Executive Vice President
Southern States Industrial Council
Now that the shouting and the tumult is over and the dust of the election campaign has settled, one fact stands out even more clearly than ever—namely, that the South, as a region, is the most conservative part of the nation.

Many people in other parts of the country assailed the South, even called it dumb on the part of the South, for voting solidly Democratic all during the New Deal and Fair Deal days, especially when the South at the same time claimed to be conservative in its thinking.

What these people overlooked is the fact that had it not been for the coalition of conservative members of Congress from the South with like-minded members from other parts of the country, this nation of ours would have gone just as far down the road to socialism as did Great Britain under its labor Government, if not farther. If all the measures proposed by the Administration from 1932-1952 were listed one after another and studied, any unbiased student of politics would realize that this statement is not open to argument.

And it should not be overlooked either, that it took a great deal of courage for these Democratic Congressmen from the South to vote against their own party leadership. It took no courage for Republican members of Congress from other parts of the country to vote against Democratic administration sponsored measures during these years. But the Southern Congressmen were voting the convictions of the people they represented, thereby placing the welfare of the country above the welfare of the party. This is a standard against which every member of Congress would do well to measure himself whenever his own party administration proposes welfare state measures.

Any student of history can understand why the people of the South continued to vote the Democratic ticket during all the years following the War Between the States—but any student of politics can also readily point out that all during those years the South remained faithful to the fundamental conservative philosophy of local self-government and freedom of the individual.

These principles must be maintained if we are to avoid the centralized government of the welfare state—and there is every danger that the political leaders of both the major parties will reach the conclusion, if they have not already done so, that it is time to turn to the welfare state philosophy which they must espouse if their party is to attain office or remain in office. It is for this reason that the attitude of the South becomes even more important in the years ahead.

That the South will remain true to its historic ideals, however, is pretty well assured by its past and present actions. It is sure that the only states carried by the Democratic party in the recent election were the seven Southern States running in a semi-circle from Missouri to North Carolina. But it is also true that the Republican vote in these states was heavy, and that the States Rights vote—which is the most conservative of all—was considerable in some of them.

Some of what is even more amazing to anyone who understands the traditional adherence of the South to the Democratic party is that nine of the sixteen Southern States ranging from Texas to Maryland, inclusive, voted Republican on the national level. And another thing that should by no means be forgotten is that many of the Democratic Congressmen elected from both the seven states and the nine states will be as conservative as any in the Congress during the coming session.

Why was the vote heavy in these seven states for the national ticket of the Republican party and why did nine Southern States vote Republican so far as the national ticket is concerned? It is in the answer to that question that is revealed the real conservative philosophy of the South; namely, that by comparison the national Republican ticket was considered more conservative than the national Democratic ticket. Again the people of the South placed their traditional party allegiance and voted accordingly. The people of the South are simply not going to vote for any national ticket carried by such liberal left-wing organizations as the ADA, the CIO-AFL, the NAACP, etc.—and politicians of both parties should remember this.

Notebook On Life

Childhood's Myths Exploded

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

One of the dubious rewards of growing older is that you find much of what you learned when young is no longer regarded as true.

The myths you believed in during childhood are exploded one by one.

That is hard enough to face. But even harder to face is the realization that today the making and unmaking of myths has speeded up tremendously.

A thing that is accepted as fact in the morning is rejected as fallacy by nightfall. Today's wonder drug is tomorrow's blunder. "True or false?" This is no longer a game. It is a terrible problem in living. As the scientist learns more and more about less and less, the average man learns less and less about more and more in our new age of enlightened superstition.

Old beliefs are toppled daily and new beliefs set up in their place are immediately challenged. The slogan of truth seems to be: "here today, gone tomorrow."

A few recent examples will show the conflict any guy now has trying to make up his own mind about anything:

Educators denounce rock 'n' roll music as a harmful influence on the young—but an Iowa rapist says it has a beneficial influence on mental patients, even as sung by Elvis Presley. In 1955 every Briton has been proudly sure that Admiral Nelson messaged his feet at Trafalgar. "England expects every man will do his duty." But a 76-year-old British signman now says Nelson wouldn't have wasted time sending such a message, and even if he'd tried it wouldn't have been seen.

A host of physicians have blamed the rise of lung cancer on cigarette smoking—but Dr. W. C. Hueper of the National Cancer Institute now says the main cause is the noxious fumes of a motorized age.

For generations doctors have advised patient suffering from the common cold "to drink plenty of fluids." Now a Mississippi doctor says he gets better results by dehydrating them.

They have come up with new tranquilizers that are supposed

The 'Only Remedy' Carefully Avoided

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Washington's official complacency in the face of new Communist conquests appalls Congressional and diplomatic groups which have access to private information from overseas. But they recoil helplessly from the only action that would check the Soviet's advance on all world fronts—namely, a war against Russia.

Although a counteroffensive before it is too late dominates discussion at the Capital, but not on the official agenda, the fact is that the Western Allies are not strong enough today to wage such a conflict. Our European defense establishment, NATO, has been stripped of its main French and British units for service in the Middle East and North Africa. German, has not reformed.

The United States has neither the forces nor equipment for a "brush fire" affair. And an atomic war would be conducted only on an immediate threat to our national security in dire sense. SYMPATHY FOR EGYPT Some members of the Baghdad Pact and SEATO—organizations that were supposed to contain Russian in the Levant and Southeast Asia—sympathize with Russia and Egypt in the Suez Canal military forces have leaped from the Turkish-Iran-Pakistan defense line by flying troops and arms into Egypt, Lebanon, Jordan and Syria.

The failure of the Anglo-French punitive expedition against Egypt, with Nasser's resounding success, demonstrates vividly the weakness of Allied arms without American reinforcement. And that, President Eisenhower has promised not to send, nor would Congress back him up, if he did.

Moscow, on the other hand, halted the British and French invaders in their tracks by Bulgaria's mere threat to send "rockets" to the Soviet Union. While staging this coup, Russia has made other impressive gains at the expense of the West. She has shattered the unity of the Western "Big Three," and aroused distrust of our friends. She has revealed the United Nations to be only a debating society, whose warnings she flouts and ignores. Moscow has strengthened her position in Middle Europe. She has handled the Polish disagreement with a political reshuffling, and she has launched a Mongolian massacre of the Hungarian people. Her troops at mobilized along her side of the "Iron Curtain." The West cheered the rebels, but did nothing to aid them.

The American attitude has been noble and humanitarian, but ineffective, in the minds of friends and neutrals. It has cost us prestige from Korea to Gibraltar, throughout the European, Asian and African Continents. In a world ablaze, so they think, speculators standing aloof on the sidelines do not make effective freighters.

MOSCOW MAY YET DEPRIVE WESTERN EUROPE OF OIL Even this grim prospect does not begin to measure the greatest extent and gravity of the Russian sweep. Through her active

New Ideas Offered Business

By ELMER ROESSNER
Inenuity and imagination, it often has been said here, are qualities that make American business what it is—and fun to write about. It's time for another roundup of new ideas on the U.S. business scene:

George Farkas, New York merchant, pleaded with other retailers to do something about parking conditions, which he termed "hardening of the traffic arteries." When he failed to get support, he built his own six-deck parking structure in White Plains, with a daily turnover of 10,000 cars and a department store filled with shoppers.

Mutual Insurance of New York is offering free Salk shots to employees under 46. Sam Goody, New York record dealer, gives employees 10-cent-an-hour pay rise when they tell him a baby is coming; when the baby arrives pay goes up another 5 cents an hour.

HAPPY HOGS, HAPPY TOY MAKERS

Farmers have long experimented with playing phonograph music for cows and getting hens up in the middle of the night with electric lights in efforts to increase production. Now Charles and Dick Reish, of South Bend, Ind., have installed air conditioning to increase hog fattening. Hogs are lolling in 65-degree comfort last summer, at less food than normal and put on more weight.

A New York toy maker, Ideal, found a market for 1,000,000 plastic tires originally made for toy autos. It sold them to an apparel manufacturer that used them for buttons for "car coats."

Driven to desperation by Texas handwriting, the American National Bank of Austin has set up three annual scholarships for winners of high-school handwriting competitions. Now Paper Mate, Chicago, is offering to cooperate with other banks to set up similar awards.

NEW VENDORS, COMFORTABLE BUSESSES

The rash of new sizes and shapes of cigarette packs has threatened to blow vending machines out of bus stations and saloons. At the first sign of the trend, National Vending turned a team of engineers loose on the machine that will vend 20 different brands, regardless of size and shape. It is now appearing in vending spots.

Apparently nobody ever thought of it before. But why traffic fell off on New York's Fifth Avenue Coach Lines, John E. McCarthy, the boss, hit upon the idea of more comfortable rides. He ordered wide-aisled, air-sprung buses with lounge seats and is testing air conditioning. Traffic is picking up profitably.

An eastern clothing chain is pointing out that the value of used clothing given to a recognized charity can be deducted on tax returns. It offers to deliver such clothing to charities, and give donors a written estimate of the fair value, presumably, for waving in faces of income tax examiners.

None of the foregoing ideas are copyrighted. Adopt and adapt them as you please.

NEWS WITH CLUES TO BUSINESS TRENDS

With vigorous selling from now on, total home appliance sales can reach $5 billion this year, declares Judson S. Sayre, Norge president. Modern designs appear to have gained 54 percent, but upholstery furniture sales, but are leveling off at that point. A Retailing Daily survey indicates... The butter surplus has been melted. The government inventory has been almost entirely sold or given away and overproduction will not be a problem again before next spring... Shipment of folding paper boxes fell below year-ago levels in September, the Folding Paper Box Association says... Wilmington, Del., department stores report the largest gains in sales over a year ago. Sales from January 1 to October 1 were 12 percent above the first nine months of 1955.

Next is the Duluth-Superior market, up 10 percent. While monthly steel production exceeded 11,000,000 tons for the first time in October, the 30-day month and Thanksgiving holiday may cause November to fall behind a high point during the next few months, Murray Shields, economist, told the American Finance Conference.

Interest rates may reach a high point during the next few months, Murray Shields, economist, told the American Finance Conference.

support of the Arab peoples, and their new hatred of the West, Moscow may yet deprive Western Europe of oil vitally essential for a war machine or peacetime industry.

In short, the "Iron Curtain," which now crosses Europe from the Baltic to the Black Sea, may be extended permanently as far as the Indian Ocean. The Suez Canal, the oil fields and the pipelines would become Communist property. If so, all India would fall into Moscow's grip. And the Soviet has accomplished these historic and strategic aims without undue strain on her military or peacetime economy.

PESIMISM AMONG OFFICIAL DIPLOMATS Only a "massive and preventive" war can force the Communists to retire behind pre-Suez lines. However they avoid such a prospect, or even difficult mention of it, Washington officials and diplomats concede that there is no other remedy. Yet nobody dares to precipitate a nuclear holocaust.

Grifton Pupils Pick Pair For Tribute

By BARBARA TAYLOR
Grifton School Reporter

Patsy Burney and Floyd Smith, two outstanding members of the senior class, were chosen Students of the Month by the student body last week.

Patsy's favorite sport is basketball and she has been a first-string player for the last three years. This year she is co-captain of the girls' basketball team, vice-president of the teen-age club, drum major and editor of the school annual. After graduation she plans to enroll at Medical College in Richmond, Virginia. Floyd, a very lively figure around GHS, has a very high school record and takes part in all activities. During his Junior year he was chief marshal. This year he is vice-president of the Senior Class, secretary of the teen-age club, and business manager of the school annual.

"The Teen-agers Have Their Say" was the topic for the evening at the PTA meeting Tuesday night. A panel discussion was called out with Mr. Chuck Cline acting as moderator. The panel was made up of a number of the school board, Mr. W. A. Gaskins; a Sunday school teacher, Mrs. W. I. Bissette; a business man, Mr. Sam Nelson; a mother of teen-agers, Mrs. H. L. Lawson, Jr.; a teen-age teacher and advisor, Mrs. John Bunch; and a minister, Rev. D. H. McCollough. The teen-agers were represented by members of each class in high school. The group included Judy Hart, Sallie Mewborn, Martha Hart, Nancy Smith, Gilbert Quigley, Bill Goodby, Carey McLawhorn, and Wayne Ervin.

Questions obtained through a question box that had been erected in the high school library during the past week were presented and answered. The panel was asked to answer such questions as "What does the community expect of a teen-ager?" and "What does the teen-ager expect of the community?" Answers brought forth are hoped to help teen-agers and the parents. Later during the evening a dance was held for the teen-agers.

Future Farmers of America held their initiation for new members of the organization last Thursday night at the agriculture building. To start the evening off right a supper of hot dogs and all the trimmings were enjoyed by the group. After the brief business meeting the fun began! The "Green Hands" were then made official members of FFA.

Officers of the club this year are: President, Wayne Edwin; vice president, Floyd Smith; secretary, Larry Benson; Treasurer, Roy Garris; reporter, William H. Cannon; and sentinel, Allan Stokes. Advisor of the club is Mr. Paul Bradley.

High School Assembly was held Friday with a member of the Pitt County Health Department showing a film on "Safety." Thank-giving songs were later sang by the students.

Juniors have been busy in third year English writing their short stories. From the way they are shaping it looks as if we have quite a few authors in the GHS. They will present a variety of them at the next assembly.

Basketball is in the air! The teams of Grifton have played three games this season with the girls winning all three games and the boys winning one. They will travel to Snow Hill tonight to compete with the Snow Hill teams.

The Juniors reported they had a very well-attended Junior play in spite of the dreary weather which prevailed that night. Barbara Lane, student director, presented the director, Mr. Adrian Brown, Jr. with a gift as a token of our appreciation.

The Senior Class is staging a bake sale each Saturday morning in Grifton. The proceeds from this project will help finance their trip at the end of the year.

Everyone is looking forward for Wednesday afternoon at 3:10 when Grifton High School will close her doors for the Thanksgiving holidays. Classes will resume Monday morning.

away. He said seismographs, devices which record movement of earth, would be certain to pick up the explosion in Utah and Nevada.

The Southern Pacific railroad planned the blast to get rock for its 49-million-dollar causeway across the Great Salt Lake. The causeway will replace a 12-mile-long wooden trestle.

Only two nonatomic blasts set off in the United States have been larger. Both were detonated during TVA construction of the South Holston Dam at Bristol, Tenn.

Geologists now believe the crust of the earth runs down about 18 1/2 miles. They reached that conclusion by tracing waves from past explosions. They seek confirmation from this explosion.

Scientists See Huge Explosion

LAKESIDE, Utah (AP)—The nation's third largest explosion—atomic devices excepted—is designed to tear one million tons of rock loose from a cliff on the shores of the Great Salt Lake today.

Teams of scientists from Stanford, the University of California, Utah State Agricultural College and University of Utah were at the scene with complex instruments to record the exact instant 600,000 pounds of explosive were set off. They hope to get it down to the last one-thousandth of a second.

"By knowing the exact time, location and magnitude of the explosion," said Dr. Dan Tocher of the University of California, "we may be able to learn a little more about the thickness of the earth's crust."

Dr. Tocher said he would give better than even odds the blast would be detected by instruments on the West Coast, 700 miles from the East Coast, 700 miles from southern India.

Winners Is Chicod Event Still Smiling

By IVA LOU BRUNSON
Chicod School Reporter

Winners in our King, Queen and Baby contests are still wearing big smiles.

Randolph Hudson was picked as winner in the Baby Contest and students from the primary, elementary and high school departments were named winners in the three divisions of the King and Queen contests. Nell Paramore and Conwell Worthington won titles in the Primary grades, Sarah Venters and David Clark were the elementary winners, and Faye Hadcock and Roger Stancil were picked in the high school.

Revealing the contest winners was a part of our Halloween Carnival. The excitement also included a barbecue supper sponsored by the P. T. A., a musical play directed by Mrs. Frances Madry, and games.

Sock Hops are getting to be quite the vogue in Chicod. The shoeless dances are held in the gym and refreshments are served at each of the affairs.

Members of the Senior Class are working hard putting the year-book in final order. Progress in the typing, cutting and pasting department is moving along satisfactorily and the yearbook is beginning to be a promising publication.

In addition to their regular work, the Seniors are also hard at work on a bracelet-selling project. Proceeds from the sale of the engraved bracelets will be used for the Senior trip to New York and although the group won't leave until March 5, 1957, class members are already getting excited.

Junior Class members are looking ahead to the trip they'll make when they are Seniors. The Class is selling popcorn as a money-making project and will save the proceeds for their Senior trip.

A suggestion that graduation isn't too far away was brought out when the Seniors were called to have measurements taken for caps and gowns. Of course, the Seniors are all realizing that the big day isn't so close that they can stop working right now and still graduate.

The Beta Club sponsored a big review last Wednesday night, complete with big stars and famous people. The review was presented in the school auditorium and was a big success.

Place Problems In Agriculture Dept. Province

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The North Carolina Farm Bureau's tobacco committee believes that the problems of oversupply of the leaf should be solved by the U.S. secretary of agriculture.

The committee recommended in a resolution yesterday that "the secretary of agriculture be authorized to develop and put into operation in 1957 a tobacco program that would bring supply in line with demand over a period of years."

The group, meeting here during the Farm Bureau's 21st annual convention, also called for a program from the secretary of agriculture that "would provide the incentives for producing the qualities of tobacco in demand," and for a referendum next year on whether the program, once begun, should be continued.

The bureau will make final policy recommendations on this and other resolutions tomorrow, when it will elect officers and close the four-day convention.

A round of speakers was to be heard from today, followed by the banquet tonight. Marvin L. McLain, assistant U.S. agriculture secretary, was to be followed on the podium by Rep. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, and Sen. W. Kerr Scott of Haw River.

R. Plake Shaw, the bureau's executive vice president, advised farmers last night to organize into strong forces to fight the loss of farm income.

Shaw told the more than 600 delegates that farmers also should seek ways to cut "those costs, which are making the cost of food so high and which are not caused by farmers but by producers."

Former Slave, Aged 111, Dies DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Winnie Wilson, 111, a former slave in Jefferson County in southeast Texas, died last night.

Dills climbed out an open window and swam to shore.

Federal Mediator Scolds Union And Management Negotiators In Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal mediator has scolded union and management negotiators with a warning to "stop fiddling around" and settle the East-Gulf coast dock strike.

But the paralyzing walkout by 60,000 dock workers moved into its fifth day today with no sign of settlement. From 150 to 200 ships remained idle at deserted piers from Maine to Texas.

Negotiators for the International Longshoremen's Assn. and the New York Shipping Assn. resumed contract talks today.

After a fruitless session yesterday, Robert H. Moore, federal mediator, said he had told both sides they "might as well stop fiddling around."

He said he informed the negotiators he didn't think there would be any immediate government intervention to stop the strike under the Taft-Hartley law.

"I told them there is no government machinery that can do more than delay the inevitable, that they were going to have to reach an agreement sooner or later."

The White House also appealed to both sides to settle their differences.

Meanwhile, on the West Coast, Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union started polling its members to determine their stand on the East-Gulf coast strike. Results are to be announced tomorrow.

The union has already refused to handle ships coming from or sailing for strikebound ports. And yesterday the West Coast longshoremen started a 24-hour walkout to discuss the strike. Waterfront activity on the Pacific Coast dropped to about 25 per cent of normal.

But the West Coast action brought only a scowl from I.L.A. President William V. Bradley in New York.

He sent a sharply worded telegram to Bridges and told him, in effect, to keep his nose out of the IL.A. strike. Bradley said the I.L.A. dollars a day.

"resents the interference of you and your officers."

"These activities don't help us; they embarrass us," Bradley added.

As the contract talks continued the economic pinch caused by the strike grew more painful.

The nation's railroads ordered a halt to rail shipment of almost all export freight to all strike-bound ports. The order was aimed at blocking a massive tieup of freight cars at ports.

The strike was already costing the nation's economy millions of

Hoover Has No Regrets For His Opposing Entry

CHICAGO (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover says he has "no regrets" for a stand he took in 1941 opposing United States involvement in World War II.

Hoover spoke last night at a dinner in connection with the dedication of a new boys' club for Gen. Robert E. Wood, retired chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and president of the Chicago Boys Clubs.

Hoover, now 82, recalled 40 years of friendship with Wood, 77, since they worked together on food problems in World War I.

"We came out of that experience with a profound and justifiable distaste of war and all its aftermaths," he said. "When World War II began to loom up, both of us simultaneously and without any previous collaboration opposed every step of America being involved in that war."

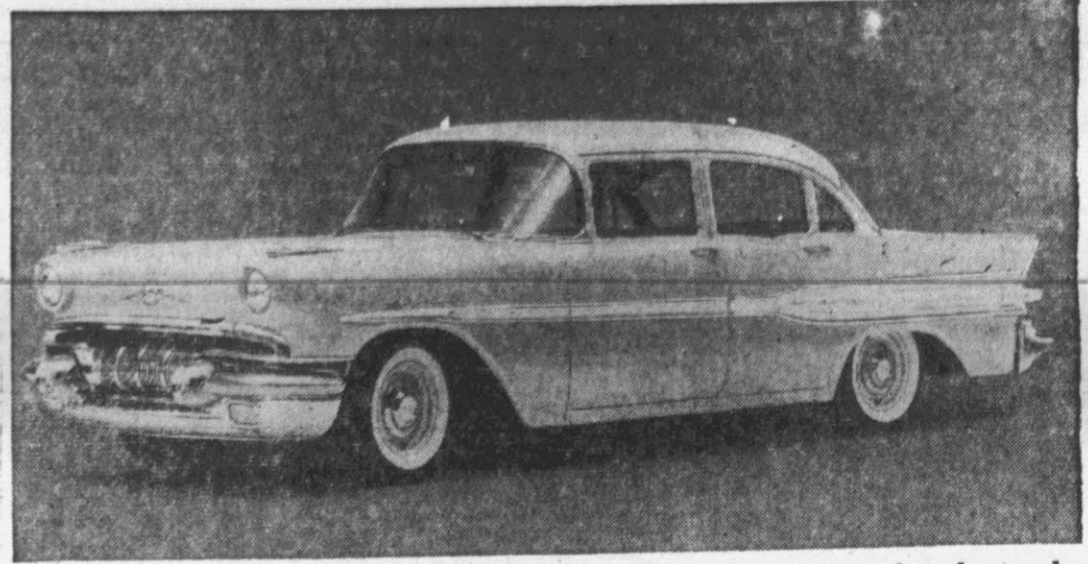

The former President said Wood gave "warm approval" to his speech of June 29, 1941, saying that Britain was "now safe from German invasion due to Hitler's diversion to his attack upon Russia."

"I said the gargantuan jest of all history would be if we should give aid to Stalin in the war," Hoover said. "I said the result would be to spread communism over the world."

"I urged that we stand aside while these two monsters exhausted each other; that if we stood aside the time would come when we could, by our strength, bring lasting peace to the world."

"That was our gospel, and we have no regrets. I know the general, like myself, has slept better for having made the fight against it."

Some 1,000 Chicagoans sponsoring 1,000 boys for membership in the Chicago Boys Club attended the $50-a-plate dinner.

Surprise Source Of UN Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—India and two other Asian neutrals—Ceylon and Indonesia—have unexpectedly backed U.N. moves to make an on-the-spot check in Hungary.

The three nations, which had kept aloof from the Hungarian dispute, put in a resolution calling on Hungary's Communist government to grant Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's request to let in U.N. observers.

Hungary's puppet regime has refused to admit U.N. political observers but has said it would allow relief supplies with U.N. representatives to enter Hungary. However, it has evaded a request from Hammarskjöld that he be admitted as head of the relief mission.

The Assembly yesterday debated Cuba's call for the Soviet Union to stop deportations of Hungarians, but V. K. Krishna Menon of India reportedly asked that the Asian powers be given priority.

Informed sources said the Russians were perturbed over the sudden move by the three Asian nations, whom they had expected to keep silent during the debate.

But Indian Prime Minister Nehru, after insistent prodding by opposition Socialists and some newspapers, told the Indian Parliament yesterday that Soviet troops were camped in Hungary against the wishes of the Hungarian people.

Nehru declared the bitter resistance of Hungarian workers had "powerfully affected" Russia's prestige in Eastern Europe and elsewhere. He said U.N. observers should be admitted to determine the actual situation.

During the debate on the Cuban resolution, Chief U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said the United States had information that Russia has deported 16,000 persons in boxcars from Budapest alone.

"It is inevitable," Lodge declared, "that many of the men will die from cold and exposure—just as the unfortunate victims of the Nazi concentration camps died."

Lodge said these reports made even more urgent the need for compliance with previous Assembly resolutions calling for withdrawal of all Soviet troops from Hungary and U.N. observers on the scene.

Soviet Foreign minister Dmitri Shepilov earlier had accused the United States and other non-Communist nations of touching off the Hungarian crisis. Shepilov and Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath termed the reports of mass deportations "lies."

The Soviet diplomat warned that any move to send a U.N. police force to Hungary would endanger peace. He said the Hungarian situation was returning to normal and that the U.N. should keep its hands off.

Advertisers Set $12 Million Drive

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—A two-year national advertising campaign costing 12 million dollars will begin next spring to educate people on the value of education, it was announced here last night.

Dr. Wilson M. Compton, president of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc., New York, told the annual Presbyterian College Public Relations Conference about the plan.

He said a national advertising agency and the Advertising Council of America will handle the campaign through newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

The aim, Dr. Compton said, is to show the need for money "to raise and maintain the quality of education and not the physical plant."

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—Witnesses continued to parade to the stand today on behalf of John Kasper's contention he is not guilty of stirring anti-integration violence at school opening here this year.

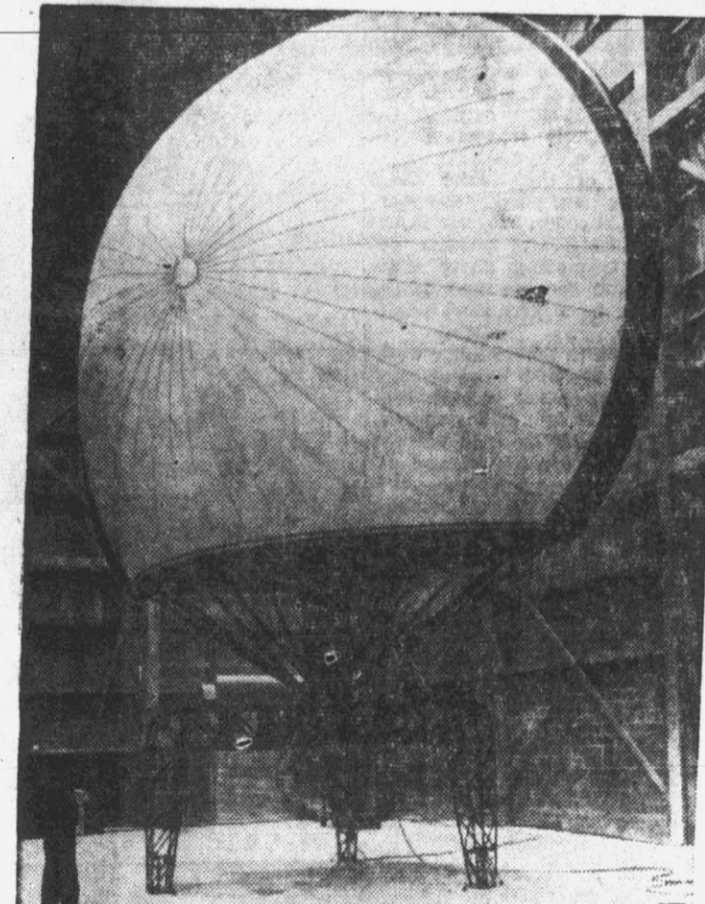

Yesterday, the lawyer defending Kasper on state charges of sedition and inciting to riot, presented 27 witnesses before the Criminal Court jury to support his assertions that:

1. Resentment against federal court orders for admission of 12 Negroes among 800 whites at Clinton High School was widespread long before Kasper came in from Washington, D.C., to urge resistance.

2. The only real violence of the first week of integration was caused by "vigilantes" who used

'Big Boys' Boost Weight In Profit

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the biggest boys are putting on more profit weight this year. And even when their corporate earnings are running behind a year ago, they aren't exactly wasting away.

Fifteen American nonfinancial corporations each have made more than 100 million dollars after taxes so far this year. That is one more than earned that much in the first nine months of 1955, five more than did in the same period of 1954. In prewar 1939 only two of them made that much—the Bell Telephone System and General Motors.

Four of this year's 15 stayed above the 100 million mark although reporting earnings dropped below last year's.

When all of 1956's earnings after taxes are tallied, two more corporations may join the 15. Their nine months profits weren't too far below the mark.

The summer steel strike and the auto sales drop changed the standings of some of the top 15 money makers, and pushed another one out of the list.

Bethlehem Steel, which at this time last year had earned more than 100 million dollars, was just under that figure when the summer quarter ended.

Ford, which at this time last year ranked fourth among the giants of profit, is down to 11th place now after a 58 per cent tumble.

General Motors, despite a 20 per cent drop in earnings so far this year, still holds top rank, however, edging out New Jersey Standard Oil. The Detroit giant made 690 1/2 million dollars, while the big oil company reports its nine months net at 603 million to retain second place. It was a 15 per cent rise for Jersey.

Bell holds onto third position with a gain of 14 per cent, reporting 520 1/2 million dollars net income.

Du Pont has moved into Ford's old place at fourth, although the chemical firm's profits this year are 4 per cent lower than last year, when it was fifth.

U.S. Steel moved up from sixth to fifth, although earnings were off 9 per cent, while the Texas Co. went from seventh to sixth with a 9 per cent increase in profits from its oil activities. Gulf Oil rose even faster, from eleventh to seventh place, on a 42 per cent jump.

Du Pont, big steel, Texas and Gulf were all in the 200 million to 300 million bracket.

Eighth, ninth and tenth positions didn't change, being held by California Standard Oil, Socony Mobil and General Electric, respectively—each better than 150 million dollars.

Kennecott Copper jumped from 16th to 12th this year—from 82 million dollar profit in the first nine months of 1955 to 116 million this time, a gain of 42 per cent.

Indiana Standard Oil retained 13th place despite gaining 12 per cent in earnings this year. Union Carbide & Carbon kept 14th place with a slight profit gain. Shell Oil is the fifteenth, a 17 per cent increase bringing it from 86 million to just above the 100 million mark.

ECC Trustees Approve List Of 77 Candidates For Degrees

East Carolina's Board of Trustees, meeting at the college Saturday, heard reports by college officials on developments in enrollment, instruction and business affairs; approved a list of 77 candidates for degrees who are scheduled to complete their work Nov. 21; and voted for the establishment of local social fraternities among students for a period of one year.

Chairman Arthur L. Tyler of Rocky Mount presided. Nine members of the Board were present for the meeting.

Included on the list of candidates for degrees submitted by President John D. Messick of the college are two for the A. B. degree; 59 for the B. S., or professional degree for teachers; and 16 for the M. A. He called attention to the fact that all November graduates except two are residents of North Carolina.

A review of enrollment figures prepared by Registrar Orval L. Phillips and covering the period from 1945 to the present indicated a steady increase in number of students during this time. From a total of 1049 individual students for the three regular quarters of 1945-1946, the report showed, the number of students reached 3315 in 1955-1956. Summer enrollment during the same period increased from 393 to approximately 1800.

The report indicated an anticipated enrollment of 3500 for the present school year, 3800 for 1957-1958, and 3900 for 1958-1959. Now attending classes taught on the campus, the Trustees were told, are 3267 full-time equivalent students, including 1652 men and 1615 women.

Plans for the use of closed circuit television for instructional purposes at the college are now being discussed, President Messick announced. They provide that the new method of instruction will be first set up on an experimental basis and results evaluated after a period of trial, he said. East Carolina's new high fidelity radio station will begin broadcasts in December, he stated.

Following a report by Dean of Men James H. Tucker on student requests for the establishment of nationally affiliated social fraternities, the Board voted to authorize the organization at present of local social fraternities and to reconsider the question of national fraternities at the end of this period.

With the purpose of encouraging high standards among these new local organizations, the Board approved the presentation at the end of the year of a Trustees' Cup or Plaque to the best managed fraternity on the campus and of a President's Cup to the fraternity, members of which establish the highest record in scholarship.

The trustees accepted several suggestions made by Vice President and Business Manager F. D. Duncan as to slight changes in tuition and other fees and accepted his recommendation that the facilities of the infirmary be made available to day students as well as dormitory students.

Board members were guests at a luncheon at the college and at the East Carolina-University of Richmond football game.

Sixty Refugees On Way To U. S.

VIENNA (AP)—Sixty refugees from Soviet terror in Hungary were on their way to homes in the United States today as American officials worked to speed up to 5,000 across the Atlantic.

The flow of fugitives from Russian suppression of the Hungarian rebellion also continued to other West European countries. More than 6,000 already have found haven in eight countries. Austrian police said 43,808 had crossed into Austria from Hungary since the Russians turned their tanks and guns on the rebels.

A silver, blue and red DC4, chartered by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration, left Vienna's Schwechat Airport early this morning with the first 41 refugees bound for the United States. It collected another 19 Hungarians in Munich and was due at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., near Camp Kilmer, tomorrow.

Another plane was expected to take off today from Linz for the United States. ICEM officials said the airlift would be speeded up sharply this week.

The first group from Vienna included 15 men, 11 women, 13 children under 14 years old and 2 infants. Most appeared calm and thoughtful. Before taking off, they gathered about the plane and sang their national anthem, "God Help Hungary."

Eisenhower offered refuge to 5,000 Hungarians. The State Department said it already has received offers from Americans to help 3,000 of these get homes and jobs.

Most other countries offering homes to the refugees were taking them far faster than the United States.

Slick Thievery Results In Cold

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Nancy Robinson had a cold house, because of some slick thieves.

A few days ago Miss Robinson had a new furnace installed. Yesterday two men came, said they were from the furnace dealer and would have to remove the furnace—the wrong model had been installed.

"They looked like furnace men and seemed to know their business," Miss Robinson told police. She said she became dubious when the men didn't return with a substitute model. Her worst fears had been confirmed by her dealer who said he'd installed the right furnace in the first place.

Fatal Accident With Loaded Gun

AURORA, Colo. (AP)—The accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of his 7-year-old sister killed William Gary Gibson, 5, police chief Spencer Garrett reported.

Garrett said the boy took the weapon from under a pillow on his father's bed and the girl, Carolyn Elaine, was trying to replace it when the revolver fired. The bullet passed through the boy's head.

The boy's father, Sgt. Arlen T. Gibson was on duty at Lowry Air Force Base and his mother was visiting a neighbor, Garrett said.

Explore Market For Atom Power

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Glenn L. Martin Co. has formed a subsidiary company to explore and develop world markets for nuclear-powered electrical generating systems.

The new company, entirely owned by the aircraft company, is called Martin International. George B. Shaw, vice president in charge of procurement for the parent firm, was named president of the subsidiary.

The company announced that preliminary discussions have been held with both private and government sources in the Dominican Republic, Cuba and Brazil.

Coastal Coaches Select 1956 All-Conference Club

Ayden Leads Balloting With Six Stars Named

At an official meeting of the Coastal Conference football coaches, held in Greenville on November 15, the 1956 All-Conference football selections were chosen.

Reds Top Golds 14-6 To Earn Title Berth

In a Friday afternoon game at Elm Street Park, the Red and Gold teams, of the Greenville Mid-South Conference, battled for a berth in the annual Thanksgiving Classic at College Stadium this Thursday afternoon.

The Reds squeezed into the Championship playoff by a 14-6 score.

This Thanksgiving, it will be the Whites and the Reds clashing for the Greenville loop title.

The Whites copped the regular season crown by one-half game earlier.

Thanksgiving's classic tilt Thursday will be sponsored by the Exchange Club and the Recreation Department.

Reds Won, 14-6 In Friday's match, the Reds roared off to an early start and dominated play throughout the first three periods of the game.

Halfback Jimmy Robards was the big man in the Red backfield, so far as scoring was concerned.

Coming back strong in the second half, the Reds scored again, this time on a pass from Robards to Jimmy Jenkins.

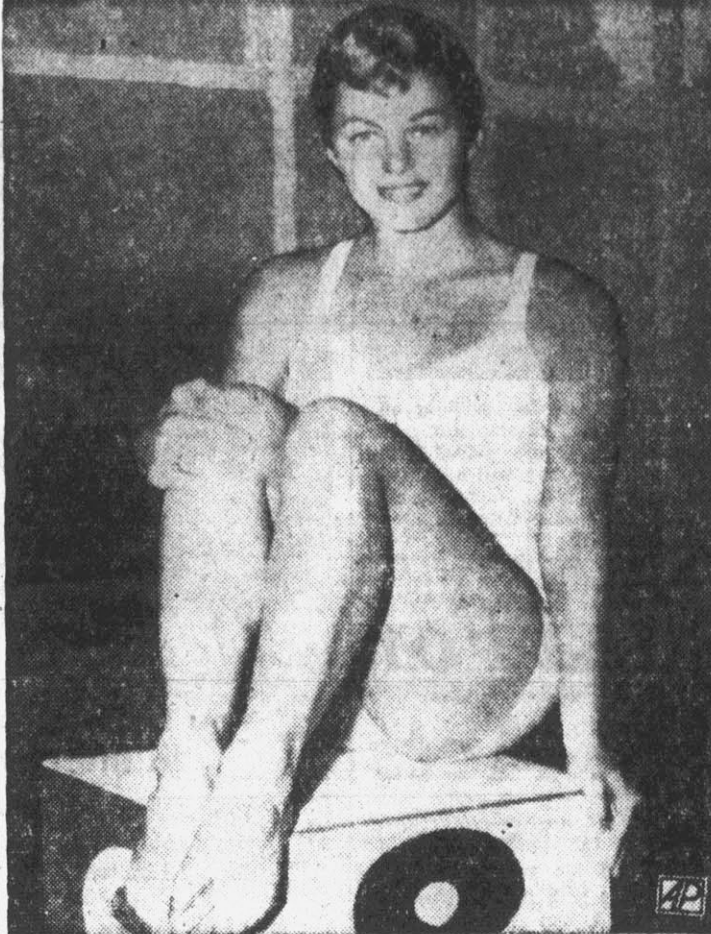

The Golds managed to score late in the fourth period when quarterback Billy Neal James sneaked over from the three.

Outstanding for the winners were Kenneth and Donald Joyner, Jimmy Robards, Jimmy Jenkins, and J. T. Proctor. The entire line played well on both offense and defense.

For the Golds, James, Andresen, Balderre Aycock, Smith and Surles were outstanding.

Reds Won, 14-6 In Friday's match, the Reds roared off to an early start and dominated play throughout the first three periods of the game.

Olympic Charm

If American diver Jeanne Stunyo, of Gary Ind., dives as well as she looks, the Americans should pick up plenty of points in the Olympic games.

Duke Picked Over Carolina Saturday

By HAROLD CLAASSEN. NANTI, Fiji Islands (AP) — Football pickers normally are confused. But it gets worse as you travel toward Australia and cross the date line with today automatically becoming tomorrow.

With those handicaps, here's the week's football winners: Ohio State a tie for the Big Ten title.

Oklahoma over Nebraska: This is getting monotonous. Colgate over Brown: The annual turkey day attraction for New Englanders.

Yale over Harvard: Dennis McGill to give the Harvards a very disagreeable Saturday afternoon.

Georgia Tech over Florida: A Saturday bruiser. Tech gets the edge in belief the Engineers will devise a way to stop Jackie Simpson.

Skipping over the others in a hurry: THURSDAY Penn over Cornell, Davidson over Furman, Maryland over North Carolina State, William & Mary over Richmond, Virginia Tech over Virginia Military, South Carolina over Wake Forest, Washington University over Washington and Lee, Denver over Colorado A & M, Idaho over Montana, Oregon State over Oregon.

FRIDAY Miami over West Virginia. SATURDAY EAST: Boston College over Brandeis, Villanova over Iowa State, Princeton over Dartmouth, Columbia over Rutgers, Pittsburgh over Penn State.

MIDWEST: Iowa over Notre Dame, Michigan State over Kansas State, Illinois over Northwestern, Minnesota over Wisconsin, Purdue over Indiana, Tulsa over Wichita.

SOUTH: Mississippi Southern over Alabama, Auburn over Florida State, Clemson over Virginia, Arkansas over LSU, Duke over North Carolina, Tennessee over Kentucky.

SOUTHWEST: Texas Christian over Rice, Houston over Texas Tech, Baylor over Southern Methodist.

FARWEST: Air Force Academy over Brigham Young, Southern California over UCLA, Washington over Washington State.

Richmond, Indian Game To Be Grudge Affair By The Associated Press The adjectives "grim" and "determined" won't do half justice to the way William and Mary and Richmond will feel Thursday when they square off at Richmond in a Southern Conference football feature.

The fact that this is one of the conference's oldest and most honorable gridiron rivalries guarantees an all-out battle every year. And neither club can be blamed if it wants to win this year's struggle more than any in a long while.

Olympic Group Balks Brundage Amateur Oath

By TED SMITS MELBOURNE (AP) — The International Olympic Committee on the eve of the opening of the 1956 games rebuffed its president, Avery Brundage, and voted down his proposal to include in the oath a promise by athletes that they intend to remain amateurs.

The action at the secret meeting in Melbourne town hall was disclosed by committee members who declined use of their names.

It affirmed a previous decision of the executive committee, Brundage, a champion of amateurism in its purest form, frowns on athletes who capitalize on their Olympic fame by turning professional.

Workmen are still toiling frantically to get the Melbourne cricket grounds in shape for the opening ceremonies Thursday. Painting remains to be done and much debris must be cleaned out.

Best piece of news was a weather bureau forecast that Thursday would be warm and sunny.

The controversy over the Olympic oath has been boiling all year. For a time it appeared many American athletes might refuse to participate because they could not sign the pledge with a clear conscience.

As matters shape up now, the United States is expected to dominate men's track and field, win the basketball championship, and score well in swimming, weightlifting, boxing, and rowing.

Russia should win its first gold medal or two in men's track, clean up in women's track, dominate gymnastics, and show well in weightlifting, wrestling, rowing, shooting and some of the lesser known events.

Hart Is Strong Candidate For Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Garnett (Sugar) Hart isn't quite a new Sugar Ray Robinson at this stage of his career but the 21-year-old Philadelphia welterweight is a strong candidate for Rookie of the Year honors.

Even his latest victim, Hector Constance of Trinidad, had to admit "he's a good boy" after he was stopped for the first time in his 44-bout career last night at St. Nicholas Arena.

Constance and his handlers said Referee Ray Miller was more responsible for the technical knockout in 1:49 of the 10th than Hart.

"I admit it if I am hurt," said Constance. "But in no time was I in trouble. I took pride in my record of never having been stopped. I think Miller was wrong."

Constance, who hails from the British West Indies, said Hart wasn't in the same class as Kid Gavilan and Tiger Jones, two of the better men he has fought.

"Virgil Akins hits harder," said the man who claims he never has been knocked off his feet.

Hart wasn't able to drop Constance although he wobbled him with a solid left hook early in the 10th when Constance had pressed him into a neutral corner.

After Hart continued his barrage, driving Constance across the ring, Miller stopped it.

Because he was cut over the left eye in the seventh, Hart may not be able to keep a scheduled Dec. 17 date at St. Nick's with Gene Johns, a Ray Robinson stablemate.

Queen Of The Orange Bowl

ACC Becoming Painful To Orange Bowl Group

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS It's only been three years now that the young Atlantic Coast Conference has been under contract to supply a team for the New Year's Day football game in Miami's Orange Bowl.

But already the Orange Bowl Committee, with two more Jan. 1 dates to fill under the contract, is being rather painfully reminded that the prosperity of past years cannot be counted upon.

The conference that sent powerhouses from Maryland and Duke to the Orange Bowl the past three years is showing bluish all the way through its pickin'. Clemson, with the ACC's top record, has not particularly impressed the Orange Bowl Committee as an opponent for Colorado of the Big Seven Conference.

So now the committee says it would rather let the ACC weigh its own lightweights and make its own choice.

The ACC itself is putting off the decision until the season ends Dec. 1, which offers the prospect of all-out orange blossom battles this week on the part of the conference's three leading teams—Clemson, Duke and South Carolina.

Clemson is expected to beat Virginia, but must do so handsily to add to its luster. The Tigers worked out lightly yesterday, with center Donnie Burton sidelined by a sprained ankle. His place was taken by guard Dick DeSimone, who in turn was replaced by H. B. Bruntion.

Duke, which meets North Carolina, took a look at Tar Heel yesterday. Coach Bill Murray said he expects his team to be "in the best frame of mind this week than at any other time this season."

South Carolina's Gamecocks, who play Wake Forest on Thursday, at Charlotte, were warned about the Deacons' emphasis on "tough defense."

Coach Warren Giese also told the Gamecocks that Bill Barnes, Deacon fullback, will be one of the roughest runners they have faced this year.

At Wake Forest, meanwhile, Barnes was inactive, his shoulder not yet recovered from the bruising it took against Duke last week. Coach Paul Amen said "We won't know until Wednesday if Barnes will be able to play."

North Carolina also was hurt by an injury, to quarterback Dave Reed. The 6-foot junior, who was sidelined for a month earlier in the season, hurt his knee again against Notre Dame and was back on crutches. The rest of the squad worked out in lively fashion until after dark.

Virginia's Coach, Ben Martin said he was pleased with the Cavaliers' defense against rushing and suggested that the 34-7 loss to Navy was not as bad as the score would indicate. A light workout was held before Martin's lecture and movies of the Navy game.

67-14 Rout Of Missouri Places Sooners On Top

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. The Associated Press For the second time this season, Oklahoma's angry Sooners have climbed back to the top of the national football rankings with one terrific display of power after spending a week in second place.

Earlier in the season, Michigan State took over the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters for one week. Oklahoma cut loose with a crushing 40-0 victory over Notre Dame and regained the lead. Last week Tennessee had a bare two-point edge over the Sooners in the voting. The result was a 67-14 rout of hapless Missouri by Oklahoma.

Today the Sooners were back in front with a 132-point margin over Tennessee's Volunteers. It wasn't because anything happened to the Vols either. They come through Saturday with their eighth straight victory—27-0 over defensively strong Mississippi.

Oklahoma had 111 first-place votes and 1,794 points while Tennessee drew 69 firsts and 1,662 points. The point scoring was on the basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., down to 1 for tenth.

Iowa, knocking off Ohio State 6-0 in its big game and clinching the Rose Bowl invitation, moved into third place in another keen battle of ballots as the whole top 10 lineup shifted around. Iowa drew 1,287 points, Texas A&M and Georgia Tech 1,223.

Iowa was ranked seventh a week ago, the Texas Aggies fifth and Georgia Tech fourth.

Michigan State, rated third last week, barely held 10th place after a 14-13 loss to Minnesota, which moved up from the second 10 into seventh place. Miami of Florida advanced from eighth to sixth after knocking Clemson out of the unbeaten ranks and Syracuse moved up from ninth to eighth.

Michigan State dropped out of the top bracket. The leaders, with first-place votes in parentheses:

Batting Crown To Be Chosen By Appearances

CHICAGO (AP) — Total appearances at the plate instead of official times at bat in the future will determine baseball batting championships.

A new rule under which a batting title will be determined on total appearances was adopted yesterday by baseball's Playing Rules Committee.

The rule supersedes the old regulation requiring 400 official times at bat to qualify for a batting championship.

Had the new rule been in effect two years ago, Ted Williams of Boston, not Bob Avila of Cleveland, would have won the American League title.

Committee Chairman Jim Gallagher read the new rule as follows:

"The individual batting champion shall be the player with the highest batting average, provided he is credited with as many or more total appearances at the plate in league championship games as the number of games scheduled for each club in his league that season, multiplied by 3.1."

"Example: The major league schedules 154 games for each club per season. 154 x 3.1 equals 477. Some minor league schedules 140 games. Multiplied by 3.1 this is 434."

"Total appearances at the plate shall include official times at bat, plus bases on balls, times hit by pitchers, sacrifice hits, sacrifice flies, and times awarded first base because of interference or obstruction."

In 1954, Williams finished with a .345 average in 336 official at bats. Avila had a .341 mark for 553 official at bats. However, Williams had 136 walks, 3 sacrifice flies and was hit by a pitched ball once. Under the new rules he would have had 526 appearances and the batting title.

It Might Pay West To Keep Khrushchev In Good Vodka Supply; He Helps

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are drunks and drunks, as everyone knows.

Noisy. Weepy. Affectionate. Quarrelsome. Just run down the list of your acquaintances. Or look in the mirror, if necessary.

Then there is Nikita S. Khrushchev.

It is no secret that the boss of Russia's Communist party is a handy man with a vodka bottle, though he will settle for champagne or even those effete Western martinis.

He has made an oaf of himself in public more than once.

But he outdid himself last weekend. In two consecutive sentences he revealed much about himself, his confederates and the ruling class of the Soviet Union.

"Red-faced and gesticulating," in the words of an Associated Press story that passed through Red censorship, Khrushchev told a cocktail party audience:

"If you don't like us, don't accept our invitations and don't invite us to come and see you."

"Whether you like it or not, history is on our side. We will bury you."

Let's take that up point by point.

1. Anybody with an ounce of sense knows that, in this world, you have to get along with people you don't like. Those diplomatic get-togethers aren't just an excuse to get loaded. They're part of the machinery of international relations — a sort of global safety valve. If Khrushchev doesn't know that it's time somebody told him.

2. The "history is on our side" dodge is pure Marx and is at or near the heart of everything the Russians do. That is a main source of Soviet strength. Westerners plan and hope and indeed pray that everything will somehow work out all right. The Russians — the Communists, that is — feel in their bones that their system will dominate the world.

And this is true whether a Khrushchev, a Stalin, a Lenin or the Russian equivalent of Joe Smith is running the Kremlin.

There's another Khrushchev remark that may need some pointing up:

"The situation is favorable for us. If God existed, we would thank Him for this."

In other words, in the Russian boss class, God does not exist. Their claim to friendliness toward religion fools some people in this country. You can find people who will tell you: "Why, freedom of worship is guaranteed in their constitution."

So it is — in words.

The fact is, of course, that atheism is at the root of the Communist philosophy and that the new rulers of Russia have actively discouraged religious practices except when — as in World War II — they had to call on the church to help maintain the morale of the people.

Doubtless it would be good for Khrushchev's liver if he gave up vodka sessions.

Still, there's an old Latin proverb about "Veritas in vino," which you can loosely translate as "A man will tell the truth when he has half a skiff."

Maybe it would be worthwhile for the Western people to take up a collection to keep Khrushchev half lit.

India More Concerned For Egypt Than Russian Acts

By EUGENE LEVIN
NEW DELHI (AP) — The official view in India is that Britain, France, Israel and Soviet Russia all have been misbehaving in recent weeks.

Use of Soviet forces to quell the movement for freedom in Hungary, according to the Indian officials, is "intervention," which Webster defines as interference of a state in the internal affairs of another.

Despite the verbal distinction, Nehru and his government have condemned both the aggression in Egypt and the intervention in Hungary. They have asked for withdrawal of foreign troops in both places.

However, the tone of their statements clearly indicates they think aggression in Egypt is much the worse of the two.

That many Indians have this impression is displayed in two ways:

1. There is much more public and press interest — and concern — about the Middle East.
2. Many Indians, especially socialists, have sharply criticized Nehru for showing less concern about Hungary than he shows in Egypt.

Confused Indian Communists appear to have welcomed Nehru's stand on Hungary as a way out of their dilemma. A week ago their organ New Age, criticized Moscow. This week it gave with approval Moscow's views on Hungary — and quoted Nehru to support Moscow.

In private talks, Indian officials say they and Nehru are equally concerned about Hungary and Egypt even if they think what happened in Egypt is worse than what happened in Hungary.

CHAPTER 17 —
The entry in Gordonstoun's notebook was not very informative. Gordonstoun was a soldier of some distinction. His regiment was a "ne one. He had an address in Scotland and another in London — 77, Montpelier Square, S.W.7. His recreation was given as stalking. Casson smiled. His wife had been well and well stalked. But he needed more before he went to see her, so he rang up a friend of his in the Adjutant-General's Department at the war office.

"Gordonstoun," said the voice. "Extraordinary chap, why?"
"Friend of mine was asking," Casson replied. "I think he wants to get his son into the Army."
The voice chuckled. "Well, I'll chivy him around all right. Believe in discipline. Amazing chap. Runs a mile before breakfast. Reads the lesson, church and all that. The troops love him. Just shows, doesn't it?"

"Where's he now?" Casson asked.
"Kenya," said the voice. "Guarding the jolly old empire. Good show."

"Thanks a lot, Dickie..."
Casson rang off. Perry was a good picker. The wife of an aboriginal and martinet general was in no position to withstand a clever blackmailer. But, so far as he knew, she was Perry's first woman victim. Therefore, he might have said something caustic, something that made Casson feel more than fear him. She might have a conscience. She might even help. You never knew with women. That is why Casson liked them.

At Mount Street there was a note from Lockyer with fresh details on Perry.
John Henry Perry had entered Cushman's bank in 1921 at the age of seventeen. His career in the bank had been undistinguished. After thirty years' service he had retired. He was then unmarried and his address had been 17, Elgar Crescent, W.2. A postscript added: "No war service."

One point puzzled Casson. How had Perry dared to blackmail clients of the bank in which he himself had worked for so long? He must have reckoned that they would recognize him, even under his disguise. Unless he had been one of the unseen workers behind the frosted glass wall which separated the public from the private side of the bank, a hidden and humming hive into which even Lockyer might not bother to penetrate.

Casson copied out the particulars and sent them to Strutt. Then he returned to Chiswick. It would not do for him to be absent from the Shepley Arms on the day when Perry had made his pounce.

Perry was punctual. He drank his pint slowly and left at his usual time. Casson leaned on the bar, talking about the neighborhood to Peter, keeping his back to the blackmailer.

He no longer worried about following Perry in the daytime. The blackmailer would not prepare another coup for some weeks, perhaps even for some months. Instead of staying in Chiswick, Casson went up to his office the next morning and dealt with an accumulation of correspondence. At midday he rang Mrs. Gordonstoun. He asked if he could come to see her about some business in which her husband was interested. Her voice was cool and pleasant but distant. She asked him to tea.

When he arrived at Montpelier Square a young maid showed him into the long double drawing-room. Mrs. Gordonstoun was a woman of about thirty-eight. A honey blonde, observed Casson, who only really liked dark brunettes and red-haired girls. He took in the strings of real pearls, the smart, but not startling print dress, the unobtrusive pink nail varnish, and the leather London shoes.

"How do you do, Mr. Duker," she said. "My husband is away and I don't know if I can be of much help."
"In Kenya, isn't he?" Casson replied. "I am sure you can help, Mrs. Gordonstoun."
She sat down while Casson lit a cigarette. He put down on a table the covered photograph of Perry which he had brought with him.

"Before I begin I would like to tell you who I am," he said. She lifted one hand in a slight gesture.
"I am the Director of Manton, Heywood in Vigo Street," he went on, not heeding her. "I was a captain in the Airborne Division at the end of the war. I am a member of Cane's..."

"I think you do," he replied. "In a minute you will need to know that I am a normal — that is to say a fairly normal — and respectable citizen. You see, I have an odd hobby. I am interested in the unusual behavior of my fellow citizens. Of blackmailers, for example."

"She had been playing with the string of pearls round her throat. Her hand clenched on the pale string and twisted it. She could not hide the fear in her eyes."
"Mrs. Gordonstoun," Casson said, "an acquaintance of mine was blackmailed some weeks ago. I shall not, of course, tell you his name, in the same way that I shall not disclose yours to him. I promised to help him. I think you can help me and I think I can be of value to you..."

"Are you a policeman?" she asked quickly.
"No, I am a wine merchant."
"What did you say your firm was?"
"Manton, Heywood and Partner, in Vigo Street."

"She picked up a telephone directory and flipped over the pages. She dialed a number. Casson watched her, amused. She spoke into the phone, then gestured to Casson. "There is an extension in the hall. Please speak to the firm yourself. I shall listen in."

Casson spoke to Trippett and put down the receiver. She came back into the room.
"I apologize," she said. "If you come into my house with a series of peculiar statements, you must expect me to find out if you really exist. I think we had better have some tea."

She made conversation while the tea was brought in on its trolley. She poured for him and offered him a sandwich, which he felt only diplomatic to take. Then she sat down, stirring her teaspoon round and round in her cup.
Casson reached behind him for the photograph of Perry dressed as Bagot, uncovered it, and laid it beside her.

"At twenty-five minutes to eleven yesterday morning that man in the photograph blackmailed you," he said.
"Will Mrs. Gordonstoun help Casson? Find the answer here tomorrow."

Offers Mid-East Picture Report

An illustrated personal report from Israel and Egypt, scene of current world tension, will be given here tonight. The report will be given by the Rev. Firman A. Cuthriell, pastor of Berea Baptist Church at Elizabeth City and who will be sponsored locally by Methodist Men of St. James Church. The report begins at 7:30 p.m. at the St. James Methodist Church.

The 15,000-mile tour taken by Cuthriell was conducted by Dr. Bob Jones Jr., president of Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C. Some forty ministers and laymen of several denominations made the trip some six months ago. The speaker made over 700 pictures and will show many of them to illustrate his report.

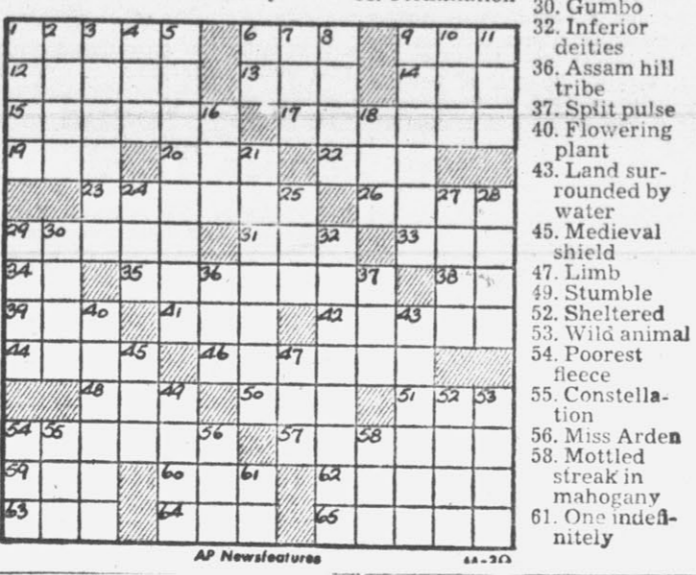

In a joint statement, Graham S. Quinn, president of Methodist Men, and the Rev. J. Malloy Owen, St. James pastor, said, "In view of the war threat posed by the current Suez crisis, we feel that the report is most timely and we therefore open the meeting to the public cordially inviting the people of the county to share with us this first-hand account of conditions in that focal area."

A native of Virginia, the Rev. Mr. Cuthriell worked with the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics during World War II. An alumnus of Bob Jones University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., he has held pastorates in Indiana and North Carolina. Cuthriell has been pastor of the Berea Church for six years.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

GETTING READY for Christmas, every man of experience starts to reconcile himself to the fact that he's going to be broke on the morrow after this year, so why not give the house a Christmas present along with those for Mom and the kids and Santa Claus himself?

Lots of attractive things are on the house list. In addition to those you already have in mind, you might like to know that vinyl floor covering is now being put out in plank style with wood grain pattern as well as in the usual square tile sizes.

This is something. The plank sizes come in 36-inch lengths, 4 inches wide. You get a light color called birch, or a dark mahogany shade. In addition, there's a slight variation in color in each package so you can group the shades from darkest to lightest according to the usual square tile sizes.

By laying two or three planks of the same shade together, you can make the plank effect seem to be six or nine feet long and a regular or monotonous sequence or pattern can be avoided.

End joints of these planks can be staggered in the same way hard wood flooring is laid. And being made of vinyl, the material can go over wood, concrete or plywood. It's flexible, but deserves a smooth underlayment. Floor covering dealers have installation instructions as complete as those for composition floor tiles.

PORTABLE LIGHT controls for dimming or brightening your lamps, the way stage electricians do it, also are now on the market. These little appliances can be placed on any handy table, being about the size of a miniature alarm clock, and come in handy when you want to watch the television or just put down your book and rest your eyes.

You plug this gadget into any convenient outlet and one or two lamps can be connected with it. Like a variable light switch, it lets you turn the lights down lower for conversation, or up for reading or for welcoming others into the room.

A NEW WRINKLE in venetian blinds makes it possible to cut out much more light when the blinds are closed and to admit much more light when they are open. This is accomplished by changing the shape of the slats to a modified S-wave, instead of flat or convex. The S-shape locks out the light, while wider slats spaced farther apart let in more light when blinds are open. The manufacturer claims that the wider slats increase view by 35 per cent. They call the S-shaped slat "the first real innovation in venetian blinds since 1756." That date, 20 years before the American Revolution, is one we didn't learn in school. It's supposed to be the year that tiltable louvers and raisable blinds were first united.

After 23 Years, Sailor Sees U.S.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Jack Thompson, a veteran of 23 years' service in the U.S. Navy, never set foot on the continental United States until recently.

Thompson, a resident of Wahiawa on the island of Oahu, Hawaii, came to San Diego to compete in a navy tennis tournament. A native of American Samoa, he joined the Navy and went through recruit training there in 1933. He was assigned to the famed Pita Pita Guard, a special organization established by the Navy in Samoa in 1901.

After the guard was disbanded in 1951, Thompson and his family moved to Hawaii. He has been stationed there since that time as a member of the regular navy.

Eden Takes Rest After Big Strain

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden, reported worn out by debate over his Middle East policy, is resting at the advice of his doctors.

R. A. (Rab) Butler, lord privy seal and No. 2 man in the Cabinet, is taking over some of Sir Anthony's duties.

No. 10 Downing St. issued this statement: "The Prime Minister is suffering from the effects of severe overstrain. On the advice of his doctors he has canceled his immediate public engagements."

Eden, 59, has been working almost around the clock since last July 26, when Egyptian President Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal began causing concern that England's main artery of trade might be cut.

In the past three weeks the Prime Minister has been under fire from the Labor party and even some of his own Conservatives for his decision to send troops into Egypt. But the decision has been supported by votes of confidence in Parliament, and recently public sentiment seems to have swung in Eden's favor.

The Eden family physician, Sir Rorance Evans, and other doctors have been trying to get the Prime Minister to take a rest.

Evans attended him at No. 10 Downing last night, a few minutes after Eden discussed the Middle East situation with senior Cabinet members. The doctor persuaded him to call off immediate public engagements, including a scheduled appearance in Parliament today to report on the Middle East.

There was no indication how long Eden would have to rest.

Butler, former chancellor of the exchequer, has been mentioned as a possible successor when Eden retires. In Eden's absence he will preside over Cabinet meetings.

Always a hard worker, Eden has been working as much as 18 hours a day since the Suez Crisis. His last vacation was in August 1955.

Loses One Eye To Save Her Life Kept Promise, Returned Checks

BOSTON (AP)—Little Carol Ann Molinaro has lost her right eye to a successful operation. They said the surgeon's scalpel in an effort to check the spread of cancer to her brain.

The 3½-year-old girl's cancerous right eye was removed yesterday in what doctors at Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary called a successful operation. They said there is no indication of a similar growth in the left eye.

Ahead for Carol Ann lies lengthy pathological tests of the optic nerve to determine whether the disease has been contained.

Kept Promise, Returned Checks

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A promise is a promise — even among thieves.

When two gunmen held up supermarket owner Ross Cobbs as he left with the day's receipts of about $400, Cobbs asked if he could at least keep the checks. The men refused, but promised to mail them to him.

Yesterday Cobbs was called to a rural home and the owner gave him the checks. He had found them in his mailbox.

Hollywood Star Bids To Become A Real Actress

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time here was a girl who had something that millions of girls wanted. She was a Hollywood "star" with all the fame and fortune that goes with it.

But she found that being a "star" is not all that it's reputed to be. She wanted to earn the title through her accomplishments as a dramatic actress — and she found that Hollywood was not giving her the chance. So—except for one picture a year—she gave up her lucrative contract and began seeking other things.

Her name is Piper Laurie, a pretty, red-haired young woman who was born in Detroit and became known for barefoot roles in movie sagebrush sagas.

Next Sunday night she takes on her first starring television role in CBS-TV's "The Road That Led Afar." She — and several professional actors — are pretty excited with what she does with the role.

"Although I've been called a 'star,'" she said the other day, "I'm not the most experienced actress in the world. I would like to be, and I found more attention given to my acting on 'The Road That Led Afar' than in most of the pictures I've played."

"See, I have to thank the people at the studio for all they've done for me. But they took me when I was young and said, 'You are a star,' and cast me in certain types of pictures. And the people whose judgments I respect heard I was a star, but they saw the junk I was making—or they didn't bother to see it at all."

"I want to do something in which I can take pride. After seven years in pictures people say about me, 'Isn't she cute? Doesn't she look just lovely?' That's not what I want. I want people to respect me as an actress a little bit. I don't want to make a pretentious debut as a dramatic actress. I want things to be just right."

"I think that television offers me the best experience possible at this time. In this role the directors have given me a sense of freedom in acting for the first time in my life."

In "The Road That Led Afar" Miss Laurie plays a woman who marries a man (Dan Durvey) with four young children and faces the problem of winning their confidence and affection.

to relax you. But — on the other hand, in your case — they may depress you or even make you violent.

Atomic fallout as yet is no real peril to mankind, say some distinguished scientists. But some others, equally distinguished, say we can't be sure.

So it goes in all the realms of knowledge and all the questions of the hour. When the pundits disagree, whom are we poor ordinary mortals to put our faith and trust in?

Once we were told on good authority that Washington never told a lie, that Nero fiddled while Rome burned, that Sir Walter Raleigh spread his fine cloak in the mud for Good Queen Bess to step on. Now we are told these are just historical fictions. Tomorrow they may tell us that kindly Robert E. Lee was a wife beater, someone ghost wrote the Gettysburg Address for Abraham Lincoln, and the Pope knocks on wood when he prays.

Sometimes you kind of envy the child who writes a letter to Santa Claus, or the bald-headed man who is sure the next bottle of tonic he buys will grow hair.

Anyone with faith in anything at least is looking forward and holds hope by the hand.

HOME FOR THANKSGIVING

Bountiful feast draws all members of the family to a New England farmhouse in 1871. Father cuts the meat pie.

Plymouth colonists observed the first American Thanksgiving in 1621. The devout forefathers continued irregular celebrations, but by 1700 it was an annual holiday in many localities. George Washington and other Presidents proclaimed Thanksgivings. But from Lincoln's time it has been an annual holiday. Thanksgiving Day may have been the Puritans' substitute for Old World harvest revelries. They gave the occasion a solemn touch, with gatherings and prayer. Thus, Thanksgiving is a deeply rooted American tradition. In grandfather's day of big families and big houses, it reached a colorful era.

Prospective buyer looking over turkeys was sketched by A. B. Frost in 1890.

Thanksgiving's here — and the bird knows it. Barnyard scene is Artist Jacobs' "Getting Dinner."

What would Thanksgiving be without the pumpkin? A farmer taps one. "Just right," he says.

Cooking began days ahead. The whole family helped. Spicy odors, woodsmoke filled the house.

"Who wants to crack the wishbone?"

Music for the day. Mama accompanied the little ones with their singing.

Gains generally were limited to a point or slightly more while losses ranged off 2, with a few special situations off 4.

Lukens-Steel, up 3 earlier, crossed over to the downside by around 4. Bethlehem up 2 at one time lost about half. U. S. Steel declined a major fraction.

Oils with Middle East resources declined following an announcement by the British government that it would start rationing gasoline and oil for cars beginning Dec. 17.

Motors eased on lower production reports for the last quarter. Down slightly were Chrysler, General Motors and Ford.

Aircrafts lagged however. United gave up more than a point and Douglas eased. Boeing registered a slight gain.

Utilities leaned toward the down side in sluggish trading. Public Service Electric & Gas, and International Telephone were off slightly while Consolidated Edison picked up a fraction.

J. R. Jackson Is Speaker At PCA Snow Hill Meet

SNOW HILL — J. R. Jackson, field representative of the Production Credit Corporation and Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S. C., told farmers from Pitt and Greene counties that tobacco farmers in eastern North Carolina are in a plight due to over-production of tobacco.

Jackson was speaking at the annual stockholders' meeting of the Greenville Production Credit Corporation held here Saturday.

He said that a sound tobacco program must be developed immediately to safeguard the economic welfare of all peoples in eastern North Carolina. He said he believed such a program will eventually be developed.

Jackson told the stockholders that the interest being paid by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank is the source of funds for all the Production Credit Associations throughout the nation, was at its highest since the production credit system was organized in 1933. He stated that the banks is having to pay 3.85 per cent for the last bonds and debentures issued.

F. L. Little Jr., secretary-treasurer, reported on the financial status of the organization. He pointed out that the association has made loans totaling over $3,000,000 this year and the repayment of the money has been "very good."

He noted that the farmers of Pitt and Greene counties own a total of $570,000 in stock and earnings in the Greenville Production Credit Association.

Director E. W. Fleming gave a report on the activities of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee for the past 12 months.

Fleming and Jesse L. Tripp of Ayden Rt. 1 were re-elected to the Board of Directors by the stockholders for terms of three years.

Tripp reported to the stockholders that the association has adopted a program permitting the association to make Intermediate Term loans up to three years.

Director Arch Flanagan of Farmville informed the stockholders that the association has been authorized to issue credit life insurance to the membership. He noted that the insurance is optional.

Director W. F. Welfare Jr. of Snow Hill gave a brief summary of the 1956 Farm Credit Act.

Alton Gardner, president of the Board of Directors and a Pitt County Commissioner presided at the meeting.

SKIMMING ALONG — Britain's Donald Campbell, who piloted his speedboat to new world mark on Lake Coniston, Eng., is just as happy behind a speedboat as he is at the helm.

Two Men Hospitalized Following 2 Auto Wrecks

Two men were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment as a result of two separate automobile accidents near Farmville last night.

Edward Earl Joyner of the Reedy Branch Church community was hospitalized for treatment of cuts and observation after the car which he was driving overturned three miles west of Farmville about 8 o'clock last night. Investigating Patrolman James W. Boykin said Joyner's automobile apparently went out of control as it rounded a curve and overturned. Boykin estimated damage to the car at $500 and added that investigation of the accident is incomplete.

One of six Marines was injured about 3 a.m. today near Farmville when their automobile overturned on highway 258. Boykin said the car driven by Donald J. Kelly, 19, of Camp Lejeune traveled out of control for 472 feet and overturned, rolling for 47 more feet. Vito Maiorana, also of Camp Lejeune, a passenger in the car, was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment. None of the other five people in the car received injuries sufficient to warrant hospital treatment, Boykin said.

The patrolman charged Kelly with reckless driving in connection with the accident.

Property damage estimated at more than $1,100 resulted from an accident seven miles west of Greenville on highway 264 about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Boykin listed drivers of the vehicles involved as William Walton Cratch, 39, of Washington Route 1, and Will Mills, 48-year-old Negro of Grimesland.

Boykin said the accident occurred when Mills attempted to make a left turn while Cratch was in the act of passing. Damage to Cratch's car was estimated at $1,000 and damage to the truck driven by Mills was estimated at $150. Boykin said investigation of the accident is incomplete.

Loose Argument Law Means Only To Show License

RALEIGH — A Chapel Hill restaurateur contends the law says a motorist must show his driver's license to an officer, but doesn't say he must give it to the officer.

Theodore Danziger outlined his contention in an appeal filed with the State Supreme Court yesterday. He wants the court to say whether he or Policeman A. L. Pendergrass was right about a point of law.

Pendergrass demanded to see Danziger's driver's license when he stopped him last January and accused him of running through a stop sign. Danziger showed the license but refused to let Pendergrass take the license from his hand.

Danziger was found not guilty in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court and driving without a license. However, he was ordered to pay the costs for refusing to let the officer have the license. He appealed to Orange County Superior Court and was fined $15.

Six Divorces Granted Monday

DENVER — Drougth-breaking snow swept eastward across the Great Plains today after dumping as much as 18 inches on Colorado's eastern farmlands.

Highway traffic and school schedules were snarled in eastern Colorado, western Nebraska, southeastern Wyoming and northwestern Kansas.

Temperatures in the cold air ranged from near 30 in the northwestern Great Lakes region to near zero in mountain areas and in the 40s in the far Southwest.

Ahead of the cold air, southerly winds brought a general warming trend to extend eastward to near the Atlantic Coast. Skies were partly cloudy along most of the East Coast.

Showers sprinkled areas from the middle Mississippi Valley southward through eastern Texas and Mississippi.

The temperature was down to 20 below zero at West Yellowstone in the big national park near the Wyoming-Montana line, by midnight.
