wardrobe of six pairs.

For school, hikes and other casual daytime activities, socks are the thing. But for dances and dates, nylons are a must. Girls who like the bare-legged look in summer, even with dance slippers, find in winter that when their tan fades legs look better veiled in nylon.

Hosiery manufacturers, catering to the younger generation, are making more sheer stretch stockings this winter. They're also turning out more sheer knee-high stockings in both plain nylon and stretch varieties. These are for younger girls who don't wear girdles or belts.

The girls prefer seamless stockings, as sheer as possible, with little or no toe and heel reinforcements. These give them a bare-legged look with more glamor. Gift buyers who aren't fully informed on sizes will do well to buy the stretch stockings which come in only three sizes—small, medium and large. They fit all leg lengths and proportions and make gift purchases a breeze.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The Board of Missions of the Methodist Church (150 Fifth Ave., New York City) announces openings for 602 career missionaries for its home and overseas fields in 1957. Of this total the Board's "Woman's Division of Christian Service" is seeking 250 single women for service in its overseas fields and 100 men and women for service in home fields. The women in home fields are deaconesses and the men are home missionaries. The breakdown of overseas needs by vocation shows that the largest numbers of persons are needed in educational work, church and social work and medical work. Smaller numbers are needed in the fields of agriculture, building, engineering, business, commerce, secretarial work and accounting. The total numbers include: 175 young people (23 to 35 years) in educational work—elementary school to college; 130 in church work; 79 in medical work—including doctors, dentists, nurses, technicians; 7 business and secretarial assistants; 5 agriculturists (teachers); 4 builders and engineers.

Mrs. Bobby Andrews was hostess at her home. She served refreshments at the meeting's close.

Board Meeting Highlights Told At Credit Women's Meet

The Credit Women's Breakfast Club held its regular meeting Saturday morning at the Old Towne Inn, with President Callie Rue Williams presiding.

It was voted by the club that the annual Christmas party be given Friday night, December 14, at 8:00 at the home of Mrs. F. G. Copeland, Falkland highway. This party will take the place of the second meeting of the month and will be given for members only.

At this annual event one of the highlights is the revealing of each member's secret breakfast clubber and choosing another for the next six months.

Reports were given on the fall board meeting held in Raleigh Nov. 10-11 at the Hotel Sir Walter for the N. C. Credit Women Breakfast Clubbers and their sponsors. Very brief and informal speeches were given as a summary of the meetings by President Williams, Mrs. F. G. Copeland and Mrs. Cassie Sawyer.

It was also announced that Mrs. Earlene Coghill was elected from the state of officers to fill the position as treasurer for the coming year of the Past President's Club. Eleven members from the Greenville club attended the convention. They were Mrs. Cecil Bilbro, Mrs. Margaret Boykin, Mrs. T. E. Coghill, Mrs. Guy Williams, Miss Barbara Dail, Mrs. Polly Dail, Miss Marguerite Rouse, Mrs. F. G. Copeland, Mrs. Lullah MacGregor, Mrs. Cassie Sawyer and Mrs. L. C. Singleton.

Roll call and minutes were read by Mrs. Lullah MacGregor, recording secretary. All correspondence was read by Mrs. Earlene Coghill, corresponding secretary.

President Williams recognized and welcomed Miss Emma Hooper, a distinguished guest and honorary member of the club. Door prizes were won by Mrs. Ruby Lum, Mrs. James Brady and Mrs. Margaret Purvis.

Chatham Club Program On Mars

"Mars, The Red Planet of Mystery" was the program topic presented by Mrs. C. A. Bowen when the Chatham Book Club met at her home Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Bendall, president, presided over the brief business session during which the club voted to buy a Christmas TB Bond.

Announcements were made of two Christmas Bazaars to be held at St. James Methodist Church and the Home Economics Department of East Carolina College.

"The planet Mars was bigger and brighter and closer to the earth during the first week of September than it has been in 32 years," Mrs. Bowen told club members.

"On Sept. 7 it passed within 35 million miles of the earth. Not until 1971 will it come so close again.

"Much of what is known about Mars has been accumulated slowly over more than three centuries of telescopic observation. Astronomers all over the world teamed up to try to solve the mysteries concerning this planet," the speaker said.

"They organized a photographic patrol to take pictures in India, Egypt, South Africa, Indonesia, Australia, New Zealand, France and three locations in the United States. A continuous record of the planet's spinning surface was made through the six weeks it was near the earth."

Mrs. Bowen pointed out the astronomers cannot report all their findings immediately but rather may not present them to the public until the International Mars Committee meets in June, 1957.

"Then and only then we may know the answers to the questions which have captured the imagination of men for centuries," declared the speaker.

Mrs. Bowen served a salad plate with cake and coffee to members upon their arrival.

Her home on Library Street was decorated for the occasion with fall arrangements of flowers and berries.

Fortunes No Longer Found Only In Large Cities

By DOROTHY ROE

Girls who live in small towns don't have to go to the big city to seek their fortunes, says Dorothy D. Houghton. On the contrary, a small town is a fine starting point for world travel and high renown, she believes.

Mrs. Houghton, a dynamic grandmother, has lived some three score years in the little town of Red Oak, Iowa, whence she has crossed the Atlantic 22 times and has garnered these positions:

President and only woman officer of the U. S. Electoral College; recent national chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon Committee; former national and international president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; current delegate to the intergovernmental Commission for European Migration and member of three United Nations committees; former assistant director of the Foreign Operations Administration, in charge of the U. S. escape program for Europe.

"If I ever write a book," says the beaming, auburn-haired Mrs. Houghton, "it will be just to encourage girls who think they haven't a chance for exciting careers just because they are stuck in small towns." Mrs. Houghton was interviewed in the dismantled headquarters of the Eisenhower committee in New York just before catching a plane back to Red Oak. She is due to return to Washington Nov. 30 to receive a decoration from the German government for her refugee work.

Speaking of her presidency of the Electoral College, she says:

Funeral Tuesday For Major Egbert Lloyd

Major Egbert T. Lloyd, Marine Corps Retired, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at six o'clock Saturday afternoon following a cerebral hemorrhage suffered early Saturday. He was 66. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Mesgr. Charles J. Gable, assisted by Rev. Morris Tew and Rev. Berchman McHugh. The body will be taken to Arlington National Cemetery for burial and the funeral mass will be offered in the Cemetery Chapel at ten o'clock Wednesday. The family requests that no flowers be sent.

Major Lloyd was born in Washington, D.C., son of the late Major Edward Lloyd, U.S. Army Retired, and Mrs. Lloyd, and grandson of the late Commodore Egbert Thompson Lloyd, U.S. Navy. After attending Virginia Military Institute, he received a commission in the Marine Corps in 1913 and served 24 years in the United States and abroad. He was retired in 1936 and had lived in Greenville since. He was a member of the Catholic Church. He was married to Rubie Young of Wilson in 1918 and she died in 1955. He was married to Mary Warren of Greenville, Nov. 24, 1936 and she survives.

"Lots of people don't know much about the Electoral College and its function. Actually when you vote in a presidential election you're voting for electors instead of candidates, and these electors don't actually cast their votes until the following Dec. 17, when they meet in the various state capitals. Then they all go to Washington in January for the inauguration.

Also surviving are a daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Thomas Gucker III of Philadelphia, Pa.; three grandchildren; and a brother, Edward Lloyd of Washington, D.C.

Back Talk In Holiday Modes

New silhouettes and new fabrics change the holiday fashion picture this year. The straight-as-an-arrow sheath silhouette has been given softness and movement by various devices, chief among them the floating back panel.

There's a look of feminine elegance to the dresses that will shine at holiday parties this season, with a new formality. Important in the fashion lineup is a new group of man-made fabrics as well as the standbys, silk, velvet and wool.

Sheer nylon georgette is used in gossamer party dresses often employing permanently pleated skirts or trimmings and sparkled with jewel embroidery. Color-sealed acetate gives new brilliance to colors of festive gowns in such luxurious fabrics as synthetic peau-de-soie, taffeta and crepe.

The most brilliant season in many years calls for important formal dresses to do justice to holiday festivities.

Three Problems For Tobacco Areas

Three problems of the greatest import are facing tobacco farmers and the tobacco regions of North Carolina. Unless adequate steps are taken to meet these problems with solutions, the entire area may find its agricultural economy in a downward trend.

States briefly the problems are these:

1. Tobacco production on the farms must readjust to demands from purchasing companies for a different quality of leaf from that which was most in demand until a year ago.

2. Revisions in the tobacco production controls system must be made to better control the volume of tobacco produced in order that surpluses of tobacco will not become a greater burden to annual new crops of leaf.

3. With the prospect of curtailed production of tobacco continuing at least for several more years, new forms of employment must be found for people who heretofore have been required for housing and processing leaf, but who will not be needed if smaller amounts of tobacco are produced in the next few years.

In the past two years it has become evident that domestic and foreign purchasers of bright leaf tobacco have changed their taste. Where the emphasis formerly was placed on light, mild leaf as the top quality product, the greatest demand is now for more bodied, heavier leaf. These demands on the part of purchasers of tobacco will be reflected in price supports of various grades under the government's crop support program. It is therefore imperative that tobacco growers, if they are to minimize the economic impact of changing conditions in the tobacco industry, must place more emphasis on producing the kind of tobacco which is most in demand and will bring the highest dollar at auction.

Acreage reductions of tobacco in the past two years, while reducing the total number of pounds of tobacco produced on the farms, have not reduced poundage in the same proportion that acreage has been curtailed. It is becoming more apparent with each passing year that a mere acreage system of control cannot effectively control production of tobacco. If the supply of tobacco is not to be allowed to get so far out of line with demand that it will upset the entire economic situation for tobacco producers, reforms must be instituted to make the acreage control more effective in regulating the supply of leaf produced in each crop.

While great emphasis is placed on the average price which a tobacco crop brings, the volume of the crop likewise has great economic importance to this eastern area of North Carolina. The more pounds of tobacco produced, the greater the number of extra laborers which are needed to house the crop, handle it on warehouse floors, and work in processing plants in the area during the selling season.

As total production decreases year by year as it has done in recent years, people who formerly obtained at least seasonal employment in tobacco industry must look elsewhere for a means of livelihood. Unless additional jobs are created in other industries—agriculturally associated or otherwise—these people must either adjust their standard of living to lower incomes or migrate to other areas in search of employment.

The transition which the tobacco industry is going through in Eastern North Carolina is of primary importance to farmers. At the same time, it is in just a real sense of primary importance to all other citizens of the area; for in the final analysis agriculture is the backbone of the entire economy of this area, and tobacco directly or indirectly provides a great portion of the total income of the area.

Reservoirs May Go Under Regulation

RALEIGH — The builders of farm ponds and other impounding reservoirs will have to get construction permits from the State Board of Water Commissioners after next year if legislation proposed by the board is passed by the Legislature.

No agency is authorized under present law to pass upon plans for construction of such reservoirs, since they are upon private property.

Recommendations of the water board in its report last week to Governor Hodges begin to hint of the new concept.

The board points out that no agency is authorized to pass upon the construction of such impounding reservoirs nor to specify the minimum flow which should be maintained in the streams by which such ponds are fed.

Under present practices the flow of the stream can be completely cut off and unless a complaint is filed, no one will know about it. No action can be taken to remedy this except by a costly suit in the courts. Any long-range plan can easily be upset by the construction of one of these unauthorized reservoirs on the water-shed which has a long-range plan for operation.

The water commissioners at the same time asked for legislation to require all well drillers to be licensed and required to furnish records of their drilling operations to state agencies.

Such a law requiring registration of drillers and filing of pertinent information for wells would prevent the loss of valuable data, the board declares.

Unless such methods of obtaining better records are soon adopted, the state may find it necessary to spend as much as several hundred thousand dollars in test drilling to get the required data, says the board.

Many cities and towns have no records of all the details of their ground water supply systems, the report says.

Lack of legal penalties for failure to have a permit for using a stream for irrigation purposes renders the present law on that subject ineffective, according to the board. The next legislature doubtless will be asked to provide teeth in the law.

WORKMAN — North Carolina's venerable Capitol is often the scene of ceremonies honoring big wheels of the law, industry, politics, agriculture and education. Today, in Governor Hodges' office, tribute was paid to a workman who is a champion in his field.

A special ceremony honored Harmon Russell Newton, 21, of Mooresville, who won in open competition, from a 22-man field, the title of North Carolina's champion apprentice bricklayer in 1956.

The young bricklayer went to his job because he laid brick straight, true, strong and fast in the contest held last month at the State Fair.

Trophy cups attesting his high-quality workmanship went to Newton and his employer, the Berger Construction Co. of Mooresville. Newton also picked up a certificate of award and a $100 savings bond. Among the dignitaries present to see the proud laboring man honored were Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, State and Federal apprenticeship officials, officers of the Associated General Contractors and the Brick & Tile Service of North Carolina, Inc.

SPECIALS — Does it ever occur to you that in special days, weeks and months in observance of this and that? You're about right. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has listed over 300 special days, weeks or months for 1957, with many of them overlapping.

Most of the specials are designed to promote something or other in a commercial way, but there also are holidays, religious observances and long-established national celebrations. To help businessmen keep them straight, the Chamber has prepared a 26-page book of large block calendars, that includes a chronological listing of special days, weeks, etc., including "Be Kind to Cats Week."

Average Man Likes His Taxes

By ELMER ROESSNER

The man from Mars, before he took off in his space vehicle last midnight, observed that we Earthlings loved to pay taxes. I thought nothing of the remark at the time, assuming that the last Waltzing Mouse cocktail had spun him. A Waltzing Mouse is made of two parts vodka and one part refrigerator frost.

But looking over the data this morning it seems that the little Martian had good reasons for thinking we love to pay taxes. At least those of us Earthlings who live in the old U.S.A.

Reason 1: In the last election campaign, neither of the two great political parties promised economy in government. Scarcely a word was said in the campaign about cutting the deadwood off the Federal payroll or eliminating unnecessary expenses.

Time was when the cry during almost every election campaign was, "Roust the payroll hogs from the public trough!" This year, nothing was said about those who do nothing on government jobs. Now we understand that money paid to people in useless government jobs is promptly spent, helping to make all of us rich!

THE VOTE FOR TAXES

During the campaign, I made

Things A Columnist Learns

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail — and browse in old bookstores:

That the number of both cars and telephones in the United States is increasing faster than the number of people.

some rough calculations that indicated Adlai Stevenson's program of more cash for the unemployed, the needy, the lazy and the noncompetives would cost $11 billion a year, necessitating a rise in taxes. I didn't write a column about it, fearing that such a column might cost Mr. Stevenson the election.

Maybe I shouldn't have been so cautious.

Reason 2: On election day, voters declared in favor of about $2 billion in state and local bond issues. This borrowed money, plus interest, will cost them about $4 billion more in taxes over the next 20 years. Some voters may have imagined that they were laying off the costs of these bonds on motorists, corporations, the wealthy, shoppers, smokers, gamblers and such. But in the end, all taxes are paid by all citizens, their children and their grandchildren.

Meanwhile, the voters will have helped those in high income brackets. Interest on these bonds is exempt from Federal income taxes, which is a big advantage to the rich and scarcely any help at all to the rest of us. In helping to reduce the taxes of the rich, voters tend to increase their own taxes.

Reason 3: Citizens sometimes vote directly for more taxes on themselves. For instance, voters in Nevada voted for a continuation of the state's sales tax.

In addition, citizens elected many state legislators who declared their intentions of increasing taxes. As a consequence, three state legislatures will give serious consideration to sales taxes next year, Commerce Clearing House reports. The tax may come up in many more of the 45 state legislatures meeting in 1957.

State legislators are in much closer with the people they represent than are U.S. Senators and Representatives. The state lawmakers come from smaller districts and they meet their constituents frequently. Presumably they know what the people want. If they do, then people want higher taxes, because state governments have quadrupled their tax collections since 1940, as V. Judson Wyckoff, DePauw economist, points out in the current Dun's Review. State per capita levies range from a high of $131 a year in Washington to $47 in New Jersey.

So maybe the little fellow from Mars was right. We Earthlings delight in plastering ourselves with taxes. If we didn't, what would we have to complain about?

That only a third of the 70 million Americans licensed to drive cars are women. It only seems like there are more.

Future Is Up To Russians

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—First, let me say that Russia's decision as to the Egyptian situation will be a great factor in the U.S. business outlook for 1957.

IMMEDIATE OUTLOOK FOR 1957

If Israel had not stirred up this trouble, business in 1957 would be fair — with a maximum average decline of not more than 5 percent. The stock market could, however, sell nearer 600. Israel, however, has upset any definite forecast at this time.

If Russia keeps out of the conflict, we can depend upon the above forecast. If, however, the Middle East should flare into a small war and if the United States remains neutral, 1957 could be the busiest and most profitable year we have ever had with all basic commodities going higher.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO DATE?

Israel has apparently already pulled out, regretting that she ever started the row. She now realizes that if it should develop into a real war, she could be wiped out. Certainly Israel is no longer a factor. The United Nations has agreed to police the Suez Canal, but not to police the world's greatest oil reserves nearby. This may "save face" for Britain and France; but the Canal is not much good to these countries if there is no oil to take through it.

WILL RUSSIA REMAIN NEUTRAL?

Thus far Russia has refused to do so and is threatening to help Egypt and the Arab World by contributing to Egypt airplanes, munitions, and "volunteers," as she helped the North Koreans some years ago. This could result in the United States remaining neutral for the present at least. Eisenhower does not want another "Korean" war. If we can long remain neutral, I repeat that United States business in 1957 should be excellent and that most stocks should now be held rather than sold; especially hold the oils.

I cannot now foresee Russia and the United States joining forces even to bring about real world peace. Russia does not want stable world conditions unless she is the "top dog." To this President Eisenhower would never agree even though — as a General — he realizes the hopelessness of any nation winning another war; in fact, he believes all nations engaged therein would lose. Russia surely will not engage in war directly for fear of losing the satellites.

On the other hand, I can understand why President Eisenhower would be willing to see England and France worry for a while. They refused to take the advice of our President and Mr. Dulles. These men both urged England and France to refrain from using force in Egypt. Furthermore, our President is disappointed in the way Western Europe has failed to co-operate in his plans for an economic and military union. He feels that a scare might do them good.

DON'T FORGET THE ARABS

Remember that Eisenhower knows and likes the Arabs, having become acquainted with them during the course of World War II. He knows that their desert lands need only water to be the most productive in the world. He hopes to give them atomic power to irrigate and get this needed water. He knows, too, that the Arabs are fairly close to the Belgian Congo, which the largest producer of uranium in the world.

In closing, let me say that one real goal of Russia and England and the United States is to keep open the Middle East oil fields and retain the good will of the Arab World. I forecast that France is now out of the picture and will lose all of North Africa. Neither Russia nor England can win except by force; but Eisenhower hopes to win by negotiating and by helping Egypt and her Arab friends, through economic aid, to become strong and to build her own and secure atomic power. The Arabs should know by this time that Russian promises are no good.

PEACE OUT OF CONFLICT
Concerning what was said yesterday about a quiet conscience, let us look at the modern emphasis on peace of mind.

This is good, provided we know what we are talking about. There are some people who have complete peace of mind, freedom from all anxiety, because they are filled with a sense of their own self-importance or because they never experience the distress of a troubled conscience. This variety of peace of mind leads straight to the destruction of the soul.

The truth of the matter is that most moral advance begins with a distressed mind. The research scientist searching for a cure for cancer certainly cannot have much peace of mind. He is continually made miserable as he thinks of the mounting deaths and the times without number that he tries this avenue of approach to cure, only to be turned back. The lives of the saints are replete not primarily with a sense of peace but with a sense of conflict and frustration.

Probably the hardest thing we have to face is the grim realization that life is a struggle and that out of this struggle comes everything we hope and work for.

The successful businessman knows this. The mother who has raised a large family knows this. It was the frustrations in Our Lord's life which contributed more to his spiritual triumph. Peace of mind? Yes—but peace that comes out of conflict.

N. C. Girl Wins $300 Scholarship

CHICAGO (AP)—It won't really be big news to a lot of North Carolinians that 20-year-old Ruth Temple's sewing, cooking and canning knowledge and achievements won her a $300 Ford scholarship today at the National 4-H Club Congress.

The Zebulon girl has shown her wares in more than 200 exhibits and 3 demonstrations, 233 talks, 10 radio and television appearances and 125 stories. Her projects include 420 meals served; 100 quarts and 104 packages of frozen foods; 138 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables; 179 garments and 95 articles made; and many others.

Ruth put effort into many projects of running the home and farm — management, electricity, home grooming, but most of all room and home improvement. Plans for completely-crawn plans for remodeling her home are being followed.

She is a sophomore at the Women's College.

Other Tar Heel winners during the weekend were Faye Canada, 12, of Guilford College, who won a $200 scholarship provided by Coats & Clark Inc. in the clothing program; Sue Goforth, 18, of Olin, a $300 Hercules Powder Co. scholarship in entomology; and Miss Clyde Templeton, 17, of Olin, a $300 General Motors scholarship in safety.

Top Bandsman Ray Anthony Diversifies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ray Anthony has taken a tip from big business, he's diversifying.

Diversification is a two-bit word for a practice many big companies have employed in recent years. Instead of putting all their eggs in one basket, the firm get into a variety of enterprises. For instance, we find the O'Neil's of General Tires buying up radio networks, TV station and even RKO studios.

Handsome, able Anthony — he's a ringer for Cary Grant — decided two years ago he needed to do more than merely front a band.

"The band business has changed a great deal in recent years," he reasoned. "In the old days, you could make a lot of money in 'locations' — lengthy stands in big city ballrooms.

"Nowadays there are no locations. You can still make money in the band business, but you've got to keep traveling 52 weeks of the year. The money has to be found in parties and one-night stands."

Such a life might be all right for a youngster of drafty buses and one-nighters. Home has more appeal for him these days. Small wonder, when it contains Mamie Van Doren and their new youngster.

"After I appeared in 'Daddy Long Legs,' I decided I'd better branch out," he explained. "So for two years I took acting lessons, singing lessons, some dancing and even a memory course. That helped me in remembering lines and lyrics; I could memorize music in one reading, but the words of songs escape me."

His studies have paid off. He's now appearing in his own TV show Friday nights over ABC. He recently finished a role in "The Girl Can't Help It" with Jayne Mansfield, Tom Ewell and Edmond O'Brien. Now he's acting in "This Could Be the Night" with Jean Simmons and Paul Douglas.

Sunshine Record For Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Amazing! That's the weather man's word for it.

So far this month, sunshine in Los Angeles has averaged 98 per cent of possible.

"We've had 21 days of 100 per cent sunshine," he exclaimed.

The 98 per cent beats the former record for sunshine in one month — 96 per cent in November 1929.

Four Killed As Auto Is Crushed

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four persons were killed and two injured when a tractor trailer rammed into the rear of a car last night on U.S. 40, about 10 miles east of Baltimore.

Baltimore County police said all those fatally injured were Negroes riding in the automobile.

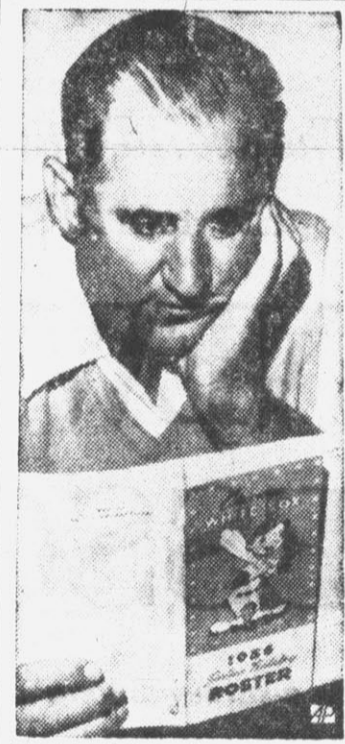

Officers identified the driver of the car as Frederick Foster, 27, of Philadelphia. He was killed along with another man passenger and two women.

Also listed as killed were Ira R. Banks, and Annie Mae Norris, both of Philadelphia. The second woman was not immediately identified.

Treated for shock and bruises at Johns Hopkins Hospital were Arthur Sparks, 27, and Melvin Buchanan, 26, both of (144 Kentwood Ave.) Winston-Salem, N.C. Sparks was driving the truck and Buchanan was riding with him.

Police said the men in the truck had to kick out the windshield to escape when the tractor tipped over into a stream. Officers quoted the truckers as saying the car turned into the highway from a tavern driveway and the truck struck it from the rear.

Band-Aid Bandit Said Captured

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A 35-year-old Army sergeant, identified by police as the "Band-Aid bandit," is facing charges in connection with four robberies here and two in Raleigh.

Police Capt. Emerson Hall said Herbert H. Sarver, a native of Dallas, Tex., stationed at Ft. Bragg, has admitted the six robberies. Hall said $539 was taken from the Western Union office here in two holdups, $33 from the Yarrowburgh Hotel and $93 from the Prince Charles Hotel.

The Raleigh Western Union office was robbed of $96 and a Carolina Hotel in Raleigh of $27. Sarver was taken into custody Saturday night following a dash across town after he was spotted near the Western Union office here by police. Capt. Hall said the man was wearing a band-aid on his lip and dressed in civilian clothes. He was carrying a gold-plated toy pistol.

Police Chief L. F. Worrell said Sarver explained he had used a toy pistol, concealed in a paper bag, so that he would not hurt anyone if anything went wrong.

CHAPTER 21

The next evening Casson was in the Shepley Arms before Perry got there and, as soon as Perry entered, he acted.

He waved at Perry and insisted on buying him a pint. "Let's go and sit down," he said. "I've got some things to show you. They'll interest you." He sat down and carefully opened the flat paper package which he was carrying.

"These engravings of scenes in the Peninsular War, Brutal, but wonderfully drawn. The grotesque in art! Look at this," Perry glanced at the print without interest and started to drink his beer.

Casson had also brought some of his architectural photographs, and these interested Perry more. Casson and the conversation round to the influence of Greek and Roman originals on English architecture and Perry became almost animated, even confessing his desire to visit Rome, a desire which he might have fulfilled, he said, if only he spoke a foreign language.

He recovered himself from this admission of failure by shifting hurriedly to an explanation of his view that specialized knowledge was of no consequence since the compass was by a fraction he mispronounced the word - knew instinctively what was right and what was wrong. He himself never bothered with specializing learning. Casson agreed heartily.

"Furthermore," said Casson, smiling to himself at his own hypocrisy, "specialization is actually dangerous. You will of course remember what Clive Bell wrote?"

Perry made an inconclusive motion of his head.

"He wrote that fine states of mind - that is to say, exquisite and fully vivid states of feeling - are the aim of civilized desire. If that's so, then you must be quite ruthless in your pursuit of those fine states. You agree?"

Perry not only agreed but leaped upon the theory with some fervor. But, as he launched into his own disquisition, Casson drained his tankard and looked pointedly at its emptiness. Perry hesitated, then rose to his feet.

"I should wish to buy a drink," he said.

"That's decent of you," Casson replied.

He brought two pints back to their table.

"You think that one must really be ruthless in winning those states of mind you were talking about?" he asked eagerly.

Casson parried the question.

"Don't you?" he asked in his turn.

"Yes," Perry answered. "Yes, I do think that you are right. A person should be clear-minded about it: what I myself would call skillfully selfish."

Casson told him stories of his rich collector friends, most of them invented, and Perry's interest warmed again. Casson finished his second pint and put down his tankard with a bang on the table.

"Have a chaser with me," he suggested. "I always do when I'm dining in town." Perry shook his head.

"I never touch spirits," he said.

"No, thank you. I really must be going home."

"One for the road," Casson insisted.

Reluctantly Perry accepted. Casson had a whisky and bought Perry a large Amontillado. Perry tried to sip his very slowly, but Casson forced the pace, and when they left the pub together Perry was walking with deliberation.

"You seem to know a lot about works of art," said Casson as they moved off up the road. "Have you done any collecting?"

"I have," he replied. "As a matter of fact I have got quite a nice collection. Would you care to see it?"

"If you're not too busy," said Casson casually.

On the step Perry fumbled for a moment with his latch-key, then opened the door. Casson in a hurry and bolted the door after him. On the walls as they went up the stairs, Casson noticed two engravings, one of Blenheim, one of Castle Howard. They came on to a small landing at the end of the first flight. Perry went ahead into the living-room.

"Wait a minute," Perry called out. "I'm going to light up."

There was the rasp and flare of a match. Casson waited, peering up to the second story, trying to see the shape of the house above them in the darkness.

The living-room began to glow with the light of candles.

"Come in," Perry called. Cas-son went in. The mantelpiece was such as you would expect to find in any house along that street but on it were two silver Georgian candlesticks. Quite good ones.

The fireplace was framed by two high-backed wing armchairs. Definitely Queen Anne. Against the wall opposite the fireplace was a Sheraton sofa-table. Casson went over to examine it, admired its polish, and wondered if the handles on the twin drawers were original. On the sofa-table stood a set of six Bristol glass goblets of a cold, dark, menacing blue. Either side of the table, against the wall, was a mahogany shield-back chair - almost certainly Heppelwhite. It was clear that Perry bought well, though whether it was by luck or good judgment Casson could not yet tell.

The rug beneath his feet was blue-and-gold, threaded through with a motif of gleaming purple, and it looked good, very good. Casson wished he knew something about carpets since he dearly wanted to know what it cost. He estimated the value of the antiques in the room at about four hundred pounds; perhaps more if you included the rug. And bought over several years. Which meant that Perry, to pay his rent and daily bills as well, would need about seven hundred a year. None of course, if he were saving up for his ultimate retirement from crime.

They chatted for some time, mainly about furniture. Then Perry asked a question which startled Casson.

"I suppose you go a lot to Clubs in London?"

"Oh, yes," Casson replied, wondering what the devil he was driving at. "Quite a lot."

"And I suppose most of the members have furniture like this?"

Perry continued, looking round the room.

"Some do," he said. "But not all of them appreciate these things, you know."

"I suppose most of them are rich?"

Perry asked. Casson thought he saw daylight and his heart hammered. Perry was sounding him out, intending to use him as a pointed who would scent and indicate the rich prey in the Clubs.

"I know quite a number of rich ones," Casson replied. "They're an odd lot, very eccentric in many ways; they would interest you."

"Yes, they would," Perry sat in thought, then appeared to be getting drowsy. Casson rose to his feet and stretched.

"I really must be off," he said. "I've got some more writing to do. Thanks for the interesting evening."

Perry saw him out and Casson heard the bolt click after him. He strode across the street, humming. Life was the chase and life was good.

What started Perry on his life of crime? Don't miss Chapter 22 here tomorrow.

Suggests Useful Gifts For Bride

CHICAGO (AP)—A housewares expert says women who are practical in their own kitchens often lose their heads when buying bridal shower gifts.

Lester Olshansky, president of the Independent Housewares Exhibit here, suggests items most useful to a new bride are frying pans, double boilers, roaster, muffin tins, cake pans, bread knife and paring knife, measuring cups and spoons.

He says the simple can opener is probably the most practical item for the new bride who is just starting out and that a matching set of bandages would make the gift more appropriate.

DEMONSTRATION OF PIPE in New York City which can be laid quickly over rough terrain to carry water for fire fighting, city water supply or to pump out flooded areas. This flexible-coupled pipe is stored by the Federal Civil Defense Administration in warehouses throughout the nation for use in emergencies. New couplings allow pipe to be laid without leveling it.

WATER FILTRATION units in the Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse at Seneca, Ill., await use in a possible future disaster. These warehouses filled with vital engineering equipment are located sufficient distance from expected nuclear blasts, and to the west—or usually upwind—from target cities to lessen the chances of blast damage and fallout.

ACTUAL FLOOD at Yuba City, Calif., brought these 1,500 gallon-per-minute pumps out of the Federal Civil Defense Administration's stockpile at Santa Rosa, Calif., to pump out large sections of the city which were inundated when the Shanghai Bend levee of the Feather River broke under heavy pounding. The engineering stockpile at Santa Rosa is one of 34 across the nation containing equipment valuable in any emergency.

BLOOD "EXPANDERS" and albumin—a plasma derivative—stored in the Federal Civil Defense Administration's stockpiles would be indispensable after a large attack to supplement limited supplies of whole blood for millions of casualties in first aid stations such as above. For example, 5,000,000 casualties would require an estimated 7,500,000 pints of whole blood, 2,000,000 bottles of albumin and 5,900,000 bottles of blood "expanders" during the first three weeks after attack. By mid-1957, FCDA expects to have enough blood derivatives and plasma volume "expanders" stored to provide for 4 1/2 million casualties.

MEDICAL STOCKPILE in the Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse in Marshall, Mich., is typical of the 38 stores of bulk medical supplies in the United States. Each medical stockpile, located 20 to 100 miles from major target cities, is determined by the size of the adjacent target.

SURVIVAL 'HARDWARE'

FCDA Stockpiles Would Aid U. S. After Huge Attack

One of the world's largest "hardware dealers" sells no merchandise, has an 80,000-ton "inventory" which is constantly increasing, and hopes that none of the "hardware" will ever be used. This vast stockpile of machinery and supplies, housed in 65 warehouses across the nation, is the Federal Civil Defense Administration's store of items which would be urgently and immediately needed if the United States were ever attacked.

IT INCLUDES such widely diverse items as medical supplies and blood "expanders" (chemicals which augment whole blood), portable emergency hospitals, gasoline-operated pumps, generators and water purifiers, and radiological "survey meters" for detecting fallout.

FCDA warehouses of all types are located from 20 to 100 miles from most major target areas in the nation, the size of the stockpile depending on the size and potential need of the target city.

While FCDA stockpiles are primarily for man-made disaster, they have also played a vital role in some recent floods.

The cities of Easton, Stroudsburg, and Scranton, Pa., depended on emergency pumps and purifiers for their city water in August 1955. FCDA medical supplies and 600 cots alleviated human suffering in Marysville and Yuba City, Calif., in December 1955, while pumps bailed out inundated Yuba City.

STOCKPILE of emergency supplies in Federal Civil Defense Administration warehouse is carefully marked and stored, so that supplies most urgently needed after an attack can be moved more quickly.

One Ambition: To See Parade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The chief nurse at the Emergency Hospital, given a special pin last week by the Municipal Employees Assn. for 30 years' service, has announced her ambition: to see the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's day.

"Every year on Jan. 1 we get a big rush of parade casualties," Mrs. Clara Sieben explained. "Seldom are they major injuries, but it keeps us working. And by the time we're done, the parade is long since ended."

Winter Quarter Begins At ECC

East Carolina College opened today for the winter quarter. Students began registering for their class work at 8 this morning in the Wright building, and enrollment of students will continue through 4 this afternoon. Classes for the quarter will hold their first meetings tomorrow.

Final enrollment figures are not yet available. Registrar Orval L. Phillips stated today, however, that this quarter is expected to compare favorably with the winter quarter of 1955-1956, when the college had its peak winter enrollment.

The beginning of the new quarter followed a four-day Thanksgiving holiday extending from Wednesday at noon until this morning. During this period faculty members prepared their records for the fall quarter, and grades were recorded in the registrar's office and sent to students. The winter quarter will extend from November 26 to noon on February 23. It will include Christmas holidays of two weeks.

Awesome Bomber Flight Proves U.S. Ability To Deliver A-Bombs

By LOUIS PANOS
BALTIMORE (AP)—U.S. air officials pointed today to the awesome flights of eight B52 jet bombers as proof of the nation's ability to deliver a nuclear knockout punch anywhere in the world.

The 14-ton, eight-engine B52s took off Saturday, four from the Air Force base at Castle, Calif., and four from the base at Loring, Maine.

Before landing at various points in the United States yesterday, they had:

1. Completed non-stop flights of up to 17,000 miles over a 32½-hour stretch, more than eight hours longer than any other B52 had ever flown continuously.

2. Circled the North Pole at temperatures of 65 degrees below zero, reached speeds of "nearly 700 miles per hour" and maintained altitudes of "more than 35,000 feet."

3. Simulated drops of deadly bombloads at targets along a course leading from Maine, past Thule, Greenland, to the top of the world, and back by way of Anchorage, Alaska; Seattle, Wash.; San Francisco; Houston, Tex.; Miami, Fla., and Baltimore.

"We had a very successful mission," said Col. Donald E. Hillman, commander of the 42nd Bomb Wing based at Loring.

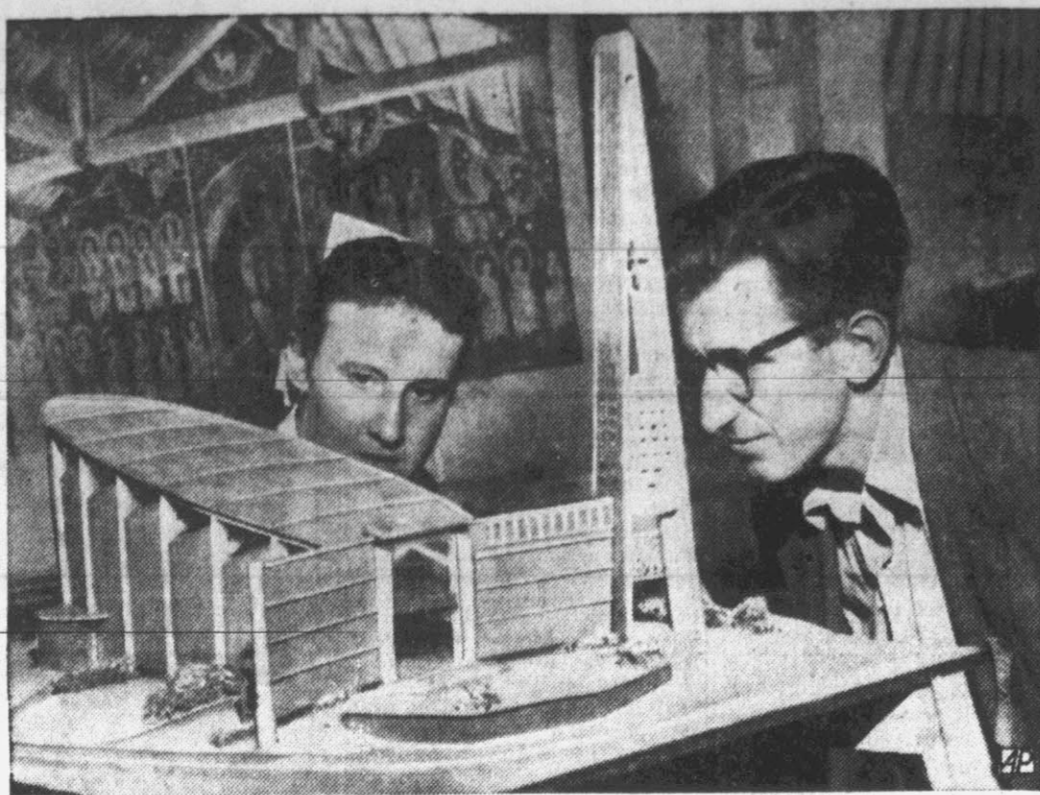

He flew in one of two B52s which were diverted to Baltimore's Friendship International Airport after being scheduled to land at Loring.

The diversion, a Strategic Air Command spokesman indicated, was part of a last-minute plan to dramatize U.S. striking power.

SAC spokesmen said the flights were "a routine mission to demonstrate the capability of the B52 and the men who fly it." They said the B52s, of which the Air Force has more than 500 among 11 wings, refueled in flight with the aid of KC-97 Stratocruisers.

The 32½-hour, 17,000-mile record was set by one of the four Castle Air Force Base planes, its commander, Maj. "Sam" Morris of San Angelo, Tex., landed it at Loring.

Another Castle AFB plane, commanded by Lt. Col. Marcus L. Hill Jr. of Cisco, Tex., landed at Friendship. It was aloft more than 31 hours and traveled nearly 16,000 miles.

Kiwanis Club To Promote Technical Trade School

The Kiwanis Club at its weekly supper meeting last Friday night, approved the proposal to sponsor the establishment in Greenville of a two-year technical trade school for men between the high school and four-year college levels for the benefit of Northeastern Carolina.

Two such technical schools are located in Gastonia and Wilmington. They are providing training for technicians in the textile, automotive, agricultural and other fields.

The N. C. State Board of Education favors such a school in this part of the state. The Kiwanians, upon suggestion of City Manager Leonard Bloxam, will undertake to arouse interest among other Eastern Carolina cities and towns in establishing a technical school in this central location, President Ed Waldrop stated.

Minstrel producer Eli Bloom presented the Kiwanis Minstrel chorus in songs at the meeting. Rehearsals are in progress now for the minstrel to be held at Austin Auditorium, on the college campus December 4, 5 and 6. Members are now selling tickets.

The Kiwanis Club will have a float in the Santa Claus parade in Greenville November 28.

A new song, "Men of Kiwanis," by George Perry of the music department of East Carolina College, was introduced.

Guests were: Francis Davis of Harrisburg, Pa.; Billy James, son of Judge Dink James, A. M. Steadman of Washington, D. C., and Paul M. Jewett of the National Guard, and Don H. Conley, Jr., and Thad Mullis of Lenoir, State College students.

Groom Unable To Remember

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A traffic accident north of here killed a Thanksgiving day bride and left her husband unable to say for certain that he was married.

The California highway patrol said William D. Wales, 26, of Long Beach, Calif., was not seriously hurt but was suffering from shock and loss of memory.

His wife, Phyllis, also 26, was killed Saturday night when the couple's car hit an embankment and was virtually demolished, officers said.

Patrolmen said Wales replied, "I can't remember; I guess I was" when he asked him if he was married.

Had To Retrieve Tread Retriever

EDEN, Wis. (AP)—Firemen sallied forth from Eden to retrieve a retriever who was tread.

Clarence R. Ochs, from nearby Pond du Lac, shot a squirrel which became wedged in branches after it was killed. Ochs ascended the tree and became lodged in the limbs himself, 40 feet above the ground.

A ladder company summoned by Ochs's more cautious companions, dislodged Ochs from his perch.

Gambling House Guttled By Fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—One of Nevada's oldest casinos, the Boulder Club, was gutted by fire last night at a loss estimated by fire chief Elmer Gates at $200,000.

As firemen played hoses on the flames, croupiers hurriedly removed stacks of chips and silver dollars. Money and chips were loaded into a police car and taken

Cheap Food For Expensive Mink

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—What gives mink that expensive look? It's an inexpensive, quick frozen food made out of ground-up fish.

George Lewis, Portland businessman, owns four New England factories that produced 100 million pounds last year out of whiting, and what's left of redfish, or ocean perch, after the filets have been cut out.

He estimate, his plants provide nearly three fourths of the nation's mink farm food requirements.

T V Animated Cartoons Grow Into Big Industry

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—While it's far from being a great or significant development in TV programming, animated cartoon advertising is completing a year of popularity on the home screen. Nearly everybody seems to like the little figures that do and say surprising things while urging you to buy this and that.

Disaster Aid Is Sought In Wake Of Heavy Snow

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Mayor Arthur Gardner today appealed for federal disaster aid in the wake of the near record Thanksgiving Day storm which dumped two feet of snow on this lakeport city of 130,000.

New snowfalls were reported early today on part of a 150-mile snow belt extending along the Lake Erie shore 50 miles west into Ohio and 100 miles east to Buffalo, N. Y. Motorists were urged to stay out of the area. A 2 to 4 inch fall was expected by late afternoon.

Some drifting on roads was predicted in the Ohio lake section. There was little drifting last night in the Erie area but farther east toward Buffalo it was a different matter. Drifts blocked Routes 5 and 20 as fast as snowplows. Routes 5 and 20, the main Buffalo-Cleveland traffic arteries, were reported open west into Ohio and east as far as the New York

Bus transportation resumed in Erie and businesses and industries forced to close by the storm were closed as were the three colleges, the Villa Marie, Mercy Hurst and Gannon. Only a few schools were open in adjoining rural areas as bulldozers and snowplows worked to open secondary roads closed by drifts up to seven feet high.

Mayor Gardner asked Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania to follow through on his appeal for federal disaster relief through civilian defense agencies.

The mayor listed a state of emergency last midnight. Some 500 National Guardsmen, who had pitched in to help the snowbound, remained on duty until noon today. Two Army helicopters remained in service to drop food, if needed, to isolated farm families.

Whether viewed as art (which it is) or as a business (which it definitely is), animated cartoon advertising is worthy of a passing glance. An industry-wide film festival of its best efforts now showing in New York demonstrates that.

As a business, animated cartoon advertising grossed $50,000 eight years ago. This year it will gross in the multi-millions — how many, no two people quite agree.

One of the best-known and most accomplished of animated cartoonists, I. Klein, finds genuine creative satisfaction in animated cartooning.

All animated cartoons are reduced to "frames." There are 1,440 frames in a one-minute advertisement, and the average cost of producing this one minute is $6,750. How come? Nearly everything is complex in television, and here Klein outlines the major steps that lead to the finished animated cartoon advertisement you see on your set.

The general idea for the advertisement is developed on story boards, called "visualizers." Using these, agency representatives confer with representatives of an animation studio.

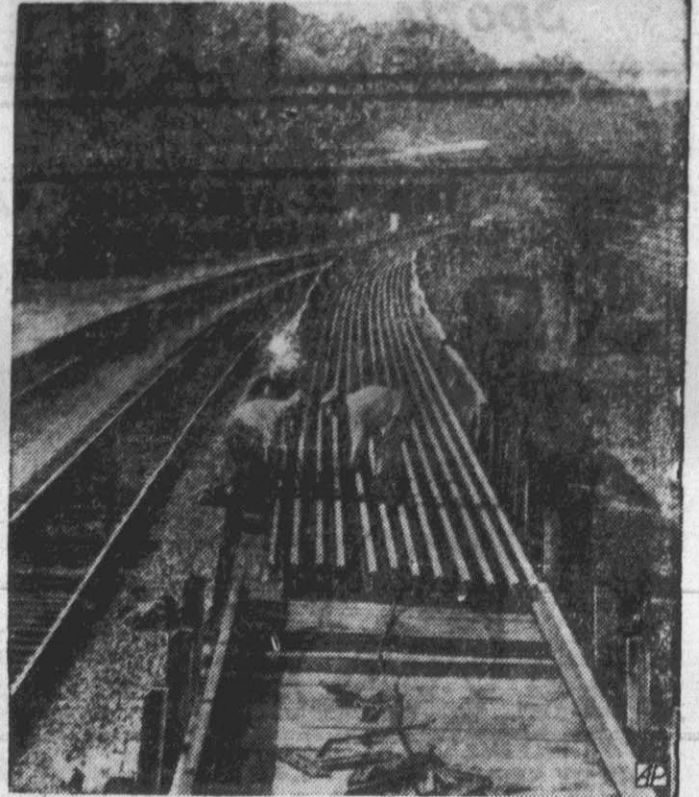

Studio designers then re-work the characters and background for the animated ad. Next actors — the voices of the animated characters — are obtained through auditions. Then a director takes the drawing lay-outs and mathematically coordinates sound and movement.

If you're still with us (serious), nothing is simple in television. The animator and director then go over the entire project to "emotionalize" it. Expressions of characters are discussed and emphasis of sounds sought.

Now the animator really goes to work. ("He's basically a ham," says animator Klein. "He listens the voice or voices of the actors. He mugs in a mirror. He may even get an actor to do a little acting for him so that he can bring life and emotion to his drawings.")

When the animator completes his creative work, other artists clear up his drawings. Then inkers, trace them on celluloid. Finally painters complete the job on celluloid. At last the celluloid is ready for the camera.

All this may not explain why you like animated cartoon advertising — if you do like it. But it does explain why it's expensive to produce.

'Inside Job' Suspected In Big $274,000 Theft From Wall Safe

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Police today suspected an inside job in the $274,000 "push button" wall safe theft at the Oxmoor mansion of capitalist William Marshall Bullitt.

It was the biggest burglary ever committed here. The money — ranging from $10 to $1,000 bills — was stolen from a concealed wall safe in Bullitt's study on the rambling 1,000-acre estate on Louisville's city limits sometime between 11 o'clock Saturday night and 9 a.m. yesterday. A $41,000 check also was reported missing, but later was found.

"Whoever went in there knew what they were doing," County police Capt. Bert Hart said. City Detective Bert Heuser said he believed the burglary was an "inside job with outside connections."

The wife of the 83-year-old sportsman, attorney and onetime solicitor general of the United States also indicated to newsmen the work was done by someone who knew the set up.

County detective Sgt. James Wyatt said it wasn't known how the thieves worked the double combination safe.

The thieves apparently entered the first floor library of the mansion by raising an unlocked window. The detectives said whoever took the money pressed a point on the library wall which opened a door disguised as a bookshelf. Wyatt said when they apparently couldn't find a button — on Bullitt's desk in the study — that opens a section of wall paneling hiding the safe, they forced it open.

The break-in was discovered when a maid told Mrs. Bullitt that a window in the library was open.

Mrs. Bullitt said the library and study were in order when she and her husband retired about 11 p.m. The couple was alone in the house during the night. Their daughter and son-in-law — Mr. and Mrs. and a gardener were asleep in their buildings on the grounds.

The couple heard no unusual noises during the night, police said.

But Wyatt said the gardener, Milburn Price, 65, reported he awoke about 4 a.m. and saw a car on the tree-lined lane that winds about a quarter of a mile from the highway to the house.

He said Price didn't "pay much attention" to the car because the estate attracts sightseers at odd hours.

The home — containing 10 family bedrooms — was built by the Bullitt family about 1780 and enlarged over the years.

The Bullitts' second-floor bedroom in the east wing of the big brick and stone house is about 53 feet from the study in the west wing.

Mrs. Bullitt said her husband brought most of the money home recently from his law office. No reason was given.

Mrs. Bullitt told police thieves might have thought she and her husband were away. They had planned to fly to Boston Friday but cancelled their reservations.

Bullitt served under President William Howard Taft as solicitor general and was a Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate in 1914.

He is the senior partner in the law firm Bullitt, Dawson and Tarrant. During his 61 years at the bar he has been director of numerous banks and financial institutions.

After That, He Has A Flashlight
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Police say a 6-year-old Wayburn Mace used a lighted candle to search under his bed for Indians. The bed caught fire. Firemen extinguished the flames, their equipment blocking traffic on Pacific Coast Highway for a quarter of a mile in each direction.

The boy's father, Ray W. Mace, 30, told police and firemen he'd give his son a flashlight.

Poker Hold-Up Said 'Solved'

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Sheriff Homer Lee Cox said today the case of the full house robbed at a poker game has been solved.

The Davidson County sheriff said he was cleaning up the loose ends following the arrest Saturday of four Kannapolis men he quoted as admitting participating in the Thanksgiving Eve robbery of 13 men.

Cox said the loot was less than $11,000 — figures had varied between $8,000 and $14,000—and $1,430 has been recovered.

Three gunmen held up the card game at a cabin in the nearby Southport section of High Rock Lake after a suspected finger man left.

The sheriff declined to say how the $1,430 was recovered. He added the total haul was uncertain because of the reluctance of the victims to talk.

Those arrested on armed robbery charges and held in jail here are: Earl Meisner, 44, the alleged tip-off man, and J.D. Powell, 34, whose bonds the sheriff set at $15,000 each, and William Franklin Pethel, 24, and Freddy Hampton, 24, whose bonds he set at $10,000 apiece.

The sheriff said the lesser bonds were set for the two defendants who "cooperated," but he didn't elaborate.

The victims were lined up against a wall while two gunmen kept pistols leveled and a third collected wallets and car keys in the sheriff said a date for a preliminary hearing will be arranged shortly.

Made Mudpies With Insecticide

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—One little girl died and two others were in critical condition after they made mud pies with an insecticide which they apparently found in a container in their grandfather's orchard.

Three-year-old Jeanie Peterson was dead on arrival at an Ogden hospital. Two hours later her cousins, Bonnie Kay Christopher, 3, and Sherrie Christopher, 1, were taken to the hospital with similar symptoms. The hospital said their condition was critical.

Will you really enjoy your retirement... or barely scrape along?
You have probably given a lot of thought to how you would like to spend your time after retirement... maybe you have even figured how much income you would need to do the things you want.
Is the amount you can presently count on enough? Think how much peace of mind an extra $100 a month would contribute!
The question is: "Where is this extra $100 coming from?" Maybe you expect to save it. If so, it would take $30,000, invested safely at 4%, to provide a gross income of $100 monthly. Few people have the means to do this.
However, there is a simple, safe and sure way of providing for extra retirement income—a Metropolitan Retirement Program. This also provides Life insurance protection for your family in case something should happen to you before retirement. The cash and loan values in the policy can be used as nest eggs in the event of unforeseen contingencies.
Your Metropolitan Representative will show you how, step by step, you can provide for financial security during your retirement years. He will estimate the amount of retirement income Social Security will contribute, and help you review the possible income from your present policies in the light of your future retirement plans and needs. You might also ask him about a Family Income rider to give added protection to your family.

Tito 'Feeling His Oats' In Tough Talk With Kremlin

By ED CREAUGH
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marshal Tito is feeling his oats.

First the Yugoslav president hurled at the Kremlin the label "Stalinist"—a swear word in the Communist world today. At the same time he called on the Russians to grant all the satellites the sort of freedom Yugoslavia years ago won for itself.

Then Tito accused the Kremlin of kidnaping ex-Premier Imre Nagy of Hungary. Nagy and a group of officials were snatched by Russians as they left the Yugoslav Embassy in Budapest.

And what was the Kremlin's reaction to this tough talk from its off-again, on-again friend Tito? The usual name-calling and threats of reprisal?

Not quite. They took six pages of Pravda to defend themselves on the Stalinism and satellite charges. They did ask Tito to lower his voice lest he play into the hands of "imperialist and fascist elements."

And then, most interestingly, they accused Tito—though in fairly mild language—of spreading the idea that "Yugoslavia's path to socialism is the only true and even the only possible path for socialist development in almost all countries."

How times change.

This is just what Tito was charging the Russians with doing when he broke with them during the Stalin regime. Only he was complaining, of course, that it was the Kremlin which was taking the our-way-is-the-only-way line.

Tito himself came up with some interesting thoughts.

He said the Russians were wrong to intervene in the Hungarian revolt. But he adds in the next breath: "If with their intervention they saved socialism in Hungary, it was necessary and all this will one day become positive."

In other words: You shouldn't have done it but if it turns out all right for our side you did the right thing.

Tito was talking about the first clashes in Hungary, at a time when one Communist regime or another would have held power no matter who won.

He holds the Kremlin was dead right, though, in slaughtering Hungarians by the thousands when it looked as if "reactionaries" were moving in.

You can see his reasoning there, even though you deplore it: If Hungary can get away with de-throning a Communist government what's to stop other countries from doing it, too? Yugoslavia, for example.

Unquestionably there's a rift between Belgrade and Moscow.

Associated Press correspondent Harold Milks reported from Moscow last night that the Nagy affair may have widened the rift "beyond the possibility of immediate reconciliation."

Tito fired a ship-sharp protest to Budapest over Nagy's disappearance.

He sent an almost identical one to Moscow saying he expects the Kremlin to do "everything necessary" to get the safe conduct

Hunting Dog Is A Nervous Wreck

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—Two hunters are hunting the hunting dog that went over the hill.

Frank Grove Jr. of Santa Ana and James Haselton of Garden Grove borrowed an elderly Labrador retriever from Haselton's sister for a Thanksgiving day quail hunt near Lake Matthews.

The first shot unstrung the dog, named Yo-Yo, and he headed into the hills at high speed, the hunters said.

Back home, they learned why: Yo-Yo suffered combat fatigue while serving with the K-9 Corps in World War II. He can't stand the sound of a gun.

THIS IS THE BANK

WHICH YOU BUILT

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF GREENVILLE AND PITT COUNTY

Dear Friends:

After closing hours the other afternoon some of us were looking over our new quarters. There were smiles of pride on our faces. "We've really built ourselves a good looking and efficient banking house," said one of the group. Most of the others nodded in agreement. But one of our younger employees objected. "We didn't build it—the bank's customers did," said this young lady. "And it wasn't built for us; it was built for them."

She's absolutely right. We are proud of State Bank's new quarters, and hope you also like them. But we didn't do it. This is the bank which you built. You, the people of Greenville and Pitt County, are responsible for State Bank's growth. And the work wasn't done for us. It was done to enable us to serve you more promptly and more efficiently in more attractive surroundings.

The bank's primary purpose is to serve you. And our primary purpose is to serve you intelligently—and with a smile.

If you haven't seen your new bank, come down and look it over. We will hold open house on Tuesday, but you needn't wait until then.

No Stabilizing Factor For A 'Free Morocco'

By PRESTON GROVER
RABAT, Morocco (AP) — When this country shakes loose the last remaining threads of French authority, it will begin its life of full independence with a better industrial and governmental plant than any Middle Eastern Arab country.

Despite all this, Moroccans harbor a mass of dislike and distrust for Frenchmen. Nor are the Moroccans well prepared to take over the plant rapidly falling into their hands.

The atmosphere here is better than it was before independence was granted. Terrorism has disappeared. The Sultan has influence and is not the hotbed of the French once considered him. Perhaps he is their best friend in Morocco now, even if an angry one.

Yet the country still presents a rather unhappy picture, not only to visitors, but to many Frenchmen who plan to live here.

Another factor presents itself with increasing force to visiting Americans. This country of almost nine millions is of growing importance to the United States. It lies alongside American communications through the Mediterranean.

An enemy here, having access to the big airbases Americans now occupy, could cut the United States off from the Mediterranean and Southern Europe.

This threat does not look great now. Inquiries disclose no active Communist threat. But experience with Egypt and other Arab peoples shows how quickly things can change.

This is an amazing country. You can ski and pick oranges in the same general area, just as in California. Farm land around Meknes is rolling and rich, like Iowa.

Casablanca looks like a bustling Southern port in the United States, with wharf cranes and palm trees twinkling.

Buildings in Casablanca run up 12 and 14 stories. The Metropolis has two hotels almost as fine as the best in Europe. In other respects there is a Texas oil town atmosphere, with some people making seas of money and showing it off in fine mansions and garages full of big American cars.

There isn't the automatic dislike of white faces there was before independence was granted. White faces no longer represent police and colonial dominance. Just at the moment, America and Americans are fairly popular.

American stock goes up fastest when French stock is going down. Americans are not popular with the French down here. The French and Moroccans share one belief — almost the only one they share — that America is trying to muscle in on Morocco.

So long as the French army remains in Morocco, the Moroccans will feel they aren't independent. But if the army left suddenly, Algeria might go to get more rapidly, and moreover, the French population in Morocco would panic.

And the Moroccans know they must keep a lot of Frenchmen here for a long time to keep industry and the government going.

France's biggest failing in Morocco, and in Algeria as well, was that so few Moroccans were trained for the civil service and for technical jobs.

Despite their differences with the Moroccans, many French businessmen are making money.

Nevertheless you sense that things may have reached a sort of high point, and that a slow descent may follow.

Korean Builds Monument To 11 U. S. Airmen

NAMHAE-DO, Korea (AP) — A granite monument will be unveiled here next Friday to 11 U. S. airmen who died on this South Korean island Aug. 7, 1945—perhaps the only Americans killed in Korea during World War II.

For Kim Kuk Hyung this fulfills an 11-year-old ambition. "It is my way of repaying the United States for its fight against fear, oppression and imprisonment will always be a reminder of the goodwill between America and the Republic of Korea."

Kim's dream was born the day a U. S. B24, returning from a bombing mission on the Japanese-occupied port city of Yosu, hurtled into Namhae Do's Dangwong Mountain, 100 miles southwest of Pusan.

Kim, a minor official on the island, buried the bodies and erected a wooden cross.

For two years he tried unsuccessfully to raise funds for a suitable memorial. Then he entered the pharmacy business and his fortunes improved.

In 1948 and 1949 he tried to take stone masons to the site but was driven off by Communist guerrillas, then harassing the Southern Islands.

When the Korean War broke out in 1950 Communists occupied the island. Kim was imprisoned, but later escaped.

After the war, Kim made a scale model of the monument. Finally the foundation was laid. Today it rises 11 feet high against the green Korean mountainside.

A memorial monument to 11 distinguished U. S. flyers. It has become an epitaph to these Americans, although their bodies were removed shortly after World War II:

First Fatality On New Turnpike

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The new Kansas Turnpike recorded its first fatality early Sunday when Edward R. Fitzpatrick, 48, an international representative of the United Packing House Workers Union at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was killed.

The 236-mile turnpike from Kansas City, Kan., to the Oklahoma line was opened a month ago. Fitzpatrick was riding with Kermit Fry, 47, a district director of the union in Kansas City. Fry's station wagon ripped over a 95-foot length of turnpike guard rail. The right door was torn off and Fitzpatrick was thrown out.

Investigators said Fry apparently fell asleep. He was charged with reckless driving and driving while intoxicated.

Fire Victims

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Eleven fire fighters burned to death last night when they were trapped while battling a hot spot of the 33,000-acre Cleveland National Forest fire, forest supervisor Walter Puhn reported.

He said eight of the men were inmates from the Vejas Honor Farm and the other three were U. S. Forest Service personnel.

Six other fire fighters managed to flee to safety, Puhn said, as lightning-fast flames swept up from the dry San Diego River bed near Eagle Peak, two or three miles above the El Capitlan Reservoir. The scene is about 30 miles northeast of San Diego.

The fire, which started Saturday morning from a trash fire on the Inaja Indian reservation, is one of the worst in recent California history.

On Good Behavior For Education Week

MARTHA JANE PIERCE Greenville High School Reporter Students were on their best behavior last week and the school rooms of G. H. S. were shining and clean.

In the past years the Monogram Club and the cheerleaders have been the only clubs at Greenville High to have monogram jackets. But last week three organizations were added to the ranks of those identified by green jackets.

MARTHA The band and glee club members paid for their jackets individually. The majorettes bought theirs as a group and will hand them down from year to year.

To help all the "cool cats" around the school locate the "sweet chicks" phone numbers, the Student Council Association is sponsoring the printing of student directories.

Serving on the committee in charge of the production are Jeanne Moye, senior and chairman, Martha Pierce, junior, Howard Garner, sophomore, and Vickie Avery, freshman.

Seven talented members of the G. H. S. student body will appear in the annual Kiwanis Minstrel December 4, 5, and 6. This event will take place in the Austin Auditorium of East Carolina College.

Judy Corbett, senior, Lib Rogers and Laverne Easton, sophomores, will take part in the dance numbers. Under the direction of Mrs. Marie S. Wallace, these numbers will include modern jazz and tap. Some of the numbers featured on the program will be modern jazz to the tune of "Dry Bones" which will be accompanied by a quartet directed by Miss Ona Shindler.

In an assembly November 2, the Hasket Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted ten new members. In the traditional candle light ceremony the local chapter tapped three seniors, Laura McArthur, Lois Eaton, and Ann Bryant. Juniors receiving membership were JoAnne Parks, Mary Ann Bryant, Margaret Harrell, and and Martha Pierce. STRANGE CATCH ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Samuel L. Hofawger had no luck fishing until his last cast. He brought in a squirrel which had been swimming. He took the squirrel home and says he will make a pet of him.

Canadians Uneasy Over Influx Of U.S. Capital

OTTAWA (AP)—Never before has there been so much talk in Canada over the influx of investment from other nations, in particular the United States. The talk in some quarters is that Canadians are victims of their own prosperity.

In commodity trade alone, the over-all Canadian deficit — excess of imports over exports — is expected to reach roughly a billion dollars this year, more than double the 400 millions of 1955. Federal economists estimate that exports this year will rise by about 400 millions to a record $4,700,000,000. But imports are expected to spurt ahead by about a billion dollars to a peak of $5,700,000,000.

In other years, a deficit of this size might have forced the government into a batch of foreign exchange restrictions. But the exchange value of the Canadian dollar has shown no signs of weakening. The main reason: the flow of foreign capital, principally from the United States, has been more than sufficient to cover the deficit.

What irks some Canadians is that American capital is flowing into the dynamic segments of industry, such as mining and oil. Stocks of some American-controlled companies are not open to Canadian investors.

Heavy Check For Motel-Visitor

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—A man checked into a motel here, paid for his room and in the middle of the night checked out with the following items: A table-model television set, four sheets, two bedspreads, two lamps, two blankets, four towels, a bath cloth, a small rug, four pillows and four pillow cases. The motel manager valued the loot at $244.75.

Namesakes Are In Traffic Court

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The distinguished names of Benjamin Franklin and Oliver Wendell Holmes grace the traffic court docket on the same day. Franklin failed to show up, and Judge James McWhorter ordered a bench warrant issued. Holmes was fined $36 for speeding, operating a car without lights and running through two stop signs.

Thanksgiving Kept Spotlight At School

By ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

On Tuesday, November 20, the student body enjoyed a Thanksgiving dinner which included turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, snap beans, cranberry sauce, candied yams, rolls and butter, milk, and oranges.

The Senior Class sponsored a closed Thanksgiving dance on last Wednesday night in the Belvoir gymnasium. Approximately 50 people attended and enjoyed dancing in the candlelit gym to the soft music provided by a record player. Capapering the dance were Mrs. Theima Switzer, Mrs. Levi Wooten, Mr. O. H. Forrest, Mrs. Howard Garris, and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tucker.

BFHS had its annual Thanksgiving program on Wednesday, November 21. The program included Shelby James as mistress of ceremonies; songs by the Junior Glee Club, Barbara Baker Dillon Watson, the first graders, and the third graders; devotion and analysis of the Thanksgiving scripture by Shelba Wooten; "What Thanksgiving Means to Me" by Ginger Lewis, Jerry Little, Marie Harrell, and the third graders; "First American Thanksgiving" by the fifth graders; "Thanksgiving in Foreign Countries" by the seventh graders; and Mrs. Glenn Scott and Mrs. Randolph Fleming as the pianists.

ANNE

After the Thanksgiving presentation, Principal O. H. Forrest recognized the program participants and cautioned students against holiday hazards.

Will Keep Her Promise To Both

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (AP)—The woman pulled a heavy gold wedding ring from her finger and insisted it be used to fill her teeth, despite the dentist's assurance there was a cheaper way.

She explained: "I promised my first husband before his death that I'd always wear his ring. I'm getting married next week and the man I'm going to marry has made me promise that I'll wear only his ring. This way, I can keep my promise to both."

SIBERIAN SUPER DUPER OMSK, Russia (AP)—Tests of a new Soviet electric locomotive, 34 per cent more powerful than its predecessor, have begun on the trans-Siberian railway. The engine operates at a rated maximum speed of 100 kilometers per hour.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Shipbuilding issues held wide gains early this afternoon but advances by other stock market groups were pared to fairly active trading.

An early rise by steels, oils and aircrafts lost momentum but the general range of gains throughout the list remained at from fractions to around a point.

There was an increasing number of losers, however.

The market resumed its advance of Friday when it made its only rise of last week. Evidence of increasing demand for steel and oil helped shares of these industries while shipbuilding issues were aided by prospects for building of new bottoms because of the Suez Canal blockage as well as by news that United States Lines had been authorized to solicit bids for construction of a proposed sister ship to the liner United States.

After a delayed opening, New York Shipbuilding sold on a block of 2,000 shares, up 13 at 49. News Shipbuilding, which constructed the present liner United States, was up 2 points. Another shipbuilding firm, Bath Iron Works, was down a fraction after an early gain of more than a point.

Bethlehem Steel, also a big shipbuilder, converted a 1-point gain to a loss of about the same. U. S. Steel dropped its early fractional gain but Republic Steel held a fraction. Youngstown was up around a point and Lukens Steel added 2 to its recent run-up.

Royal Dutch dropped about half of an early 1-point gain and Gulf Oil about half of a 2-point advance. Texas Co. and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were up fractions.

Boeing retained a gain of more than a point. Douglas and United Aircraft rose fractionally.

Most leading rails were steady following the news that Eastern carriers will ask the ICC for 22 per cent freight rate increases. Chrysler dropped a point on news of lags in production and deliveries. General Motors shaded a bit. Du Pont was up around 2 but Allied Chemical off more than a point. Coppers showed little change but Phelps Dodge rose a fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $176.30 with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers steady, following 1 cent decline; farm price 16, f.o.b. plant 17 1/4 to 17 3/4.

Raleigh eggs steady. A large 40-42; Asheville eggs steady. A large 43-45; Charlotte eggs steady. A large 40.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices mostly 25 to 50 lower. Tops of 16.00 at Goldboro and Hillsboro; 15.50 to 16.00 at Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel, Jackson, Scotland Neck, Smithfield and Kinston; 15.25 to 15.75 at New Bern, Benson, Nahant; 15.75 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Lumberton, Elizabethtown, Micro, Mount Olive; 14.75 to 15.75 at Wingate; 15.50 at Blackmans Crossroads, Dunn, Clarkton, Newton Grove, Whiteville, Bailey, Siler City, Shallotte, Mount Gilead and Kenly; 15.25 at Farmville and Castle Hayne.

Drivers of the vehicles were identified by police as Alton Tucker, Negro, of 1211 Battle St. and Lila S. Vaughn, also Negro, of Enfield Rt. 2.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $250.

Investigating were Ptl. W. M. Carr and Ptl. R. B. Eiks.

Sunday afternoon cars operated by Harrel Garris of Greenville Rt. 5 and William Wallace Moore, Negro, of Winterville were involved in a wreck at Dickinson Ave. and Boyd. Damage was estimated at $450.

Moore was charged with having improper brakes.

Investigating were Sgt. J. B. Cannon and Lt. John Piver.

Weekend Sees At Least 19 Die Violent Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Violence in assorted forms took the lives of at least 19 persons in North Carolina during the weekend. They included at least 16 persons in traffic accidents as the highways had one of the bloodiest weekends of the year.

Two persons were the victims of a hit-and-run driver. The Highway Patrol reported that Ashley Hunt, 60, and Al Hunt, 5, both Indians of Rt. 3, Laurinburg, were killed as they walked along a rural road three miles east of Laurinburg.

Johnny Morris Draughton, Rt. 1, Fayetteville, was killed when an auto sideswiped a tractor-trailer on Highway 15A six miles north of Raeford.

Leon Tabert Pace, 36, of near Broadway, was killed on a rural road in Harnett County when an auto rammied into a utility pole.

Bridegroom of one week, June Hamrick, 21, was shot to death as he lay in bed at his home in Morganton. Police said his father-in-law, E. C. Connelly, 68, a Negro, admitted he shot Hamrick because "he was undermining me."

Robert Boyd, 75, a Negro farmer, died in a fire that destroyed his home near Wadesboro.

Rance Roy Moore, 27, of Pineville 10 miles south of Charlotte, was found face down in a shallow creek near Pineville. Police said he apparently was thrown from a car that left a road, jumped the creek, and hit the far bank.

Nina Fortson Furr, 35, of Kannapolis, lost her life when a car ran off a road and overturned near Harrisburg between Charlotte and Concord.

Alonzo Diggs, 9, a Negro, was struck and killed by a car in Laurinburg.

Charles E. Duckworth, 38, of Ft. Bragg, was killed when a car in which he was riding hit a bridge 12 miles east of Raeford.

Murphy Robinson, 16, Negro of Rt. 1, Washington, was killed in a head-on collision of two cars on U.S. 17 about four miles north of Washington.

A car ran off a road and overturned near Level Cross in Surry County, and a passenger, James Monroe Yarborough, 31, of Rt. 1, Roaring River, was killed.

A car-train collision eight miles south of Fayetteville took the life of Naomi McDonald, 48, a Negro of Rt. 2, Parkton.

Johnny E. Williams, 39, a farmer of Lawndale near Shelby, and his son, Johnny Williams, 7, were fatally injured when their automobile collided with another on N.C. 18 between Morganton and Shelby.

A head-on collision of two cars in Caswell County killed Samuel Curtis Cobb, 23, of near Yanceyville.

George Washington Daniels, 19, of Rt. 1, Castalia, was killed when a car in which he was riding hit a tree six miles east of Louisville.

Malcolm Brady, 56, a construction worker, died in a fire in his apartment in Greensboro.

J. R. Wrench, 69, of Rt. 2, Fayetteville, was killed Sunday night when struck by a car on a rural road. The driver of the vehicle was Bennie Carter, 18, of Rt. 2, Fayetteville. No charges were filed, pending an inquest.

'Goatman' Said Near Farmville

The State Highway Patrol reported shortly before noon that North Carolina's wandering "goatman" was a short distance outside Farmville on Highway 264.

The caravan of goats and one wagon has been traveling east on Highway 264 for more than a week. There has been no indication of a final destination of the curious group which travels almost continuously on highways in the state.

Few traffic tie-ups have been reported since the caravan entered Pitt County Saturday. Motorists using Highway 264 have been cautioned, however, to be especially careful when passing the group.

PTA SPEAKER
E. L. Kilpatrick of the Pitt County Health Department will conduct part of the program at the Falkland P. T. A. meeting which will be held at the school auditorium Tuesday night at 2:30 p.m.

Unexpected Progress On New Eppes Gym Reported

NEW GYM—Above is shown the new gymnasium which is under construction at Eppes School. The $180,000 building will seat 1,500 spectators for basketball games when it is completed. It will include facilities for health and physical education instruction. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Work on the Eppes High School gymnasium is "proceeding much more rapidly than was anticipated," Superintendent of City Schools J. H. Rose said today.

It appears now that the 1,500 seat gym will be completed by the end of the school year rather than by next fall as originally planned, the school superintendent stated.

"It's the fastest moving job we've ever had," he declared.

The $180,000 gymnasium will have one long court for regular basketball games and two cross courts for practice and physical education. It will be equipped with shower baths and other facilities for a complete physical education program. Rollaway seats are to be used. Also included in the new building will be class room space for health.

When the new gym is placed in use the old combination-auditorium at the school will be converted into an auditorium. The floor in the old structure will be slanted and permanent seats installed.

Passage ways are to be constructed linking the school with the new gym and the vocational agriculture building with the other structures.

In the future Rose said, a new classroom wing will be constructed on the east side of Eppes School to house science, home economics and commercial departments.

"We now offer these courses but the rooms are not large enough," the superintendent stated.

He said that two science rooms have just been completed in the vocational agricultural building and the equipment in the rooms will be moved to the new wing when it is constructed.

The new wing at Eppes and additional classrooms at Elmhurst will be the next construction projects for the city schools, Rose noted.

Russian Navy Is Rated 'Second'

LONDON (AP)—An authoritative survey says Russia has built a navy second in size only to the United States — but that it lags far behind the Americans in guided missiles and atomic-propelled ships.

The one advantage of the Soviet Union reported in the 1956-57 issue of Jane's Fighting Ships is its great fleet of more than 400 submarines — far more than the United States. Jane's said a large percentage are new, long-range vessels.

The United States in recent years has concentrated on building new types of submarines, some powered by atomic energy, rather than increasing the size of its submarine fleet.

Jane's said Russia and the United States have outstripped all the other navies of the world, including Britain's, in construction and experimental development.

Since the end of World War II, Jane's said, Russia has built more cruisers and more destroyers than all other nations.

Jane's said atomic energy and guided missile weapons already are an actuality in the U. S. Navy and predicted that within 10 years many American ships will have atomic power.

End Walkout At Wilmington Port

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — One hundred members of Local 1426 of the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. returned to work today.

They joined 60,000 others across the nation in moving cargo and ships tied up by their nine-day strike following Saturday's federal court order that ended the walkout and set up a temporary "cooling off" period.

Driver Charged After Accident

Robert Allison Herring of 1512 N. Pitt St. was charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, driving after license was revoked and public drunkness after a wreck on the Stokes-Bear Grass road during the weekend.

Investigating Patrolman D. E. Perry said a car went out of control on a curve and overturned about four miles north of Stokes. The 1951 model vehicle, which was a total loss, came to rest on its wheels, Perry stated.

Herring denied that he was driving the car, the patrolman said.

Public Invited Attend 'Open House' At Bank

State Bank and Trust Company of Greenville will hold open house for people of Pitt and surrounding counties at its newly renovated offices at Five Points Tuesday evening from 5 until 8 o'clock.

The open house is being held by the bank in conjunction with its 25th anniversary being celebrated this year and the completion of extensive renovation which has taken place in the offices of the bank.

"It's a brand new bank at the same old site on Five Points," John T. Marston Jr., president of the bank, said. "Actually we are not having a party. Our purpose is to invite our friends in to see our new quarters and to observe how modern facilities make it possible for us to render more prompt and efficient service to our customers."

Car Demolished In Saturday Skid

A 1950 model car was demolished Saturday night about 8 o'clock when it skidded and went out of control on U. S. 264 about two miles east of Greenville.

Investigating patrolman James W. Boykin identified the driver as William Austin Stokes, Jr. of Greenville Rt. 2. The car skidded on an icy highway, Boykin said.

Stokes received head injuries. No charges were placed.
