Syrian And Iraqi Tensions Nearing 'Breaking Point'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The drumhead tension between Syria and Iraq mounted today. The feeling grew that some sort of break—either in Damascus or Baghdad — might come within days.

Informed circles saw the likelihood of an open coup by the army clique that has taken control of Syria in recent weeks. The army faction, pro-Soviet although non-Communist, is led by Col. Aboul Hamid Saraj.

There were increasing signs of unrest. A Baghdad dispatch quoted a government statement as saying two civilians were killed and a number of policemen and civilians hurt in a demonstration at Najaf, a Moslem holy city in southwest Iraq. It did not say what set off the trouble.

Damascus dispatches quoted an Iraqi who claimed to be a refugee as saying Iraqi army officers had attempted a "mutiny" against the present regime in Baghdad. He said this occurred 12 days ago in protest against permitting British planes to refuel to Habbaniya air base near Baghdad. The refugee claimed demonstrations flared in Baghdad and other cities when the people learned the officers were arrested, and that "dozens" of people were killed and wounded.

The Syrian-Iraqi crisis built up in a continuing exchange of bitter charges. Jordan's decision to cut its ties with Britain and consider closer relations with Russia underlined the possibility of deeper Soviet penetration into the fermenting Middle East.

Iraq accuses Syria of conducting a subversive campaign against the government of Iraqi Premier Nuri Said, an opponent of Soviet moves to extend its middle east influence.

Syria charges Iraq with seeking to destroy the governments of both Syria and Jordan.

The latest blast came in a Damascus radio broadcast which claimed a delegation of Iraqi politicians had called on King Faisal to dismiss Nuri Said's government.

The official Syrian radio said the delegation urged Faisal to appoint a government "responsive to national demands concentrated on the withdrawal of Iraq from the Baghdad Pact."

There was no confirmation from Baghdad of the report. Both Iraq and Lebanon previously have accused Syria's radio and press of airing false stories and spreading untruths designed to alienate Iraq and Lebanon from the West.

The Baghdad Pact, prime target of Syria, Egypt and Russia, links Iraq, Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Britain in an alliance designed to meet the threat of Communist aggression.

The Soviet Union, which is reported to be pouring arms into Syria, kept up its role of protector of Arab nations antagonistic toward the West with a charge that the United States is trying to provoke Turkey and Iraq into an attack on Syria.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda declared all "peace loving nations" would support Syria in defending her freedom and independence.

Adding to Western fears of another explosion in the crisis-ridden Middle East was the announcement from Jordan that it planned to end its alliance with Britain and consider closer relations with the Soviets.

Premier Suleiman Nabulsi told Jordan's new Parliament he was moving to cut Jordan free from its 35-year alliance with Britain and liquidate British military bases in the little kingdom south of Syria. Nabulsi said his government was studying the establishment of diplomatic, cultural and economic relations with Russia.

He said Jordan would seek financial aid from neighboring Arab countries to replace the annual 33-million-dollar subsidy and assistance grant from Britain, Jordan's main source of income.

Unconfirmed rumors have circulated in Jordan that the Soviet Union has offered to assume payment of the British subsidy on certain conditions, acting through Syria.

$4 Billions In Foreign Aid Planned

Request Will Raise U. S. Outlays To Over $50 Billions Since 1948

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Eisenhower administration is tentatively planning to ask Congress for slightly more than four billion dollars to continue foreign aid for a 10th straight year.

Such a sum would boost to more than 50 billion dollars the amount of money the United States has granted for food, raw materials, weapons and technical assitance to more than 40 nations since the Marshall plan was launched in 1948.

The new program, now being drafted by officials, would cover the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

President Eisenhower, who may officially disclose its size in his budget message in January, still must give final approval to the sum tentatively agreed upon.

The State and Defense Departments and the International Cooperation Administration, which operates the foreign aid program, have agreed on a figure of slightly more than four billion dollars and have submitted it to the Budget Bureau, an arm of the White House.

The sum is about 900 million dollars less than the administration sought from Congress this year. Congress cut about a billion dollars from the administration program, voting $3,766,000,000.

Officials said the sum to be asked in new money would make it possible to maintain spending for both economic and military aid at current levels. This spending now totals about $4,200,000,000 annually —$2,700,000,000 of it for military aid.

One big unresolved question at present, informants said, is what to do about foreign aid to the war jittery Middle East. Economic aid programs have been suspended for Egypt, Israel, Jordan and Syria.

Planners are holding off a decision on funds for the Middle East in the hope that outlines of a peaceful settlement of present tensions may become clear.

Some officials advocate that the U. S. government underwrite such projects as Jordan River development, Arab refugee resettlement and other projects in the interest of assuring a permanent peace.

But any such proposed spending may be omitted from the foreign aid program with the understanding that special legislation may be sent to Congress later.

The foreign aid program is being shaped with the realization that special committees now studying the problem may drastically influence the scope and direction of the program later.

Senate and House foreign policy committees are now surveying aid projects overseas. A separate group, appointed by Eisenhower, is conducting a similar studying under the chairmanship of Benjamin Fairless, former head of U. S. Steel.

Over 6,000 Acres Of Tobacco May Be Lost To Pitt By Cut

Around 6,269 acres should be cut from Pitt County's total tobacco allotment under the 20 per cent cut announced by the secretary of agriculture yesterday.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Secretary James Meredith said today that the total tobacco allotment for Pitt County this year came to 31,348.21 acres. That, less the 20 per cent cut announced by Sec. Benson, would bring next year's total acreage down to 25,078.56 for the county.

However, Meredith pointed out that nothing official on the cut has been received from the State ASC office.

The cut will be spread equally among the 2,771 farms in Pitt County having tobacco allotments.

Of the total number of farms in the county 758 had under five acres of tobacco allotted this year. Some 1,812 farms in the county have under a 10 acre allotment before the 20 per cent cut is placed in effect.

Equally affected by the cut will be the large farmers of the county. There are only two farms in Pitt with more than 200 acres of tobacco allotment before the cut.

Ten farms have allotments above 100 acres. There are 61 farms with allotments above 50 acres and 519 farms with more than 10 acres tobacco allotment.

Meredith today stressed the importance of farmers returning their marketing quota cards for the present year.

Those who do not return their cards become subject to a further reduction in acreage in addition to the 20 per cent cut announced yesterday, Meredith pointed out.

Anti-American Feeling At New High In Britain Today

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP) — Anti-American feeling soared to new heights today in Britain. Cartoonists lampooned President Eisenhower mercilessly. A denunciation of U.S. policy introduced by more than 100 Conservatives was before Parliament.

Other voices, however, called for renewed efforts to heal the breach with the United States caused by the British-French dilemma in Egypt.

In Parliament, the opposing views were spelled out in motions of the minority Labor and Liberal parties urging reconciliation with Washington and by an influential section of the ruling Conservative party attacking the U.N. Assembly and blaming U.S. Middle East policy for "gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance."

The Conservative motion was signed by nearly one-third of the Eden government's backers in Commons. Seldom in history has so large a segment of the British government party undertaken an attack in this fashion on an allied nation. It said:

"This House congratulates the foreign secretary (Selwyn Lloyd) on his efforts to secure international control of the Suez Canal, and deplores both the resolution of the U.N. General Assembly calling for immediate and unconditional withdrawal of British and French troops from Egypt and the attitude of the U.S.A., which is gravely endangering the Atlantic alliance."

Four separate U.N. resolutions have called on Britain, France and Israel to pull their troops out of Egypt. The United States supported them. The endorsement of the resolution by nearly a third of the Conservative membership of the House promised grave trouble for the government if it began a complete withdrawal.

If the Conservatives hold ranks, they could easily adopt the motion. But the party itself has been split by dissension over the British-French intervention in Egypt, although they closed ranks behind Prime Minister Eden Nov. 23 when he left for Jamaica suffering from overstrain.

Opposition motions urging the Conservative government to try to restore the close understanding of previous years with the United States were filed by a group of Laborites and also by the tiny, middle-of-the-road Liberal party.

In France, too, public opinion mounted against the United States as a result of the Suez crisis. The United States was blamed for not moving faster to supply Europe with petroleum to replace the cut-off Middle East supplies.

But French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said: "Despite our bitterness, we cannot renounce American friendship nor the Atlantic Alliance."

Pineau told the Council of the Republic, upper House of the French Parliament, that the Atlantic Alliance and American friendship are France's only safeguards "from a fate similar to Hungary's."

The London Daily Mail said Britain may buy oil from the Soviet Union.

Not Surprised By Leaf Acreage Cut

RALEIGH (AP)—Tar Heel agricultural leaders were not surprised by the 20 per cent cut in next year's flue-cured tobacco acreage proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson yesterday.

"It's about what I expected," declared L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Flue-cured Stabilization Corp. "In view of the supply situation," he added, "I don't think the cut was any too large."

Carl T. Hicks of Walstonburg, chairman of the State Farm Bureau's tobacco committee, said, "None of us like to be cut, but we're going to have to reconcile ourselves to it." He said Benson did "about the best he could do under the law."

Fred S. Royster of Henderson, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Assn., said, "In my opinion a wise decision has been made and we will support it."

Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine said perhaps the situation should be reappraised when all the figures are in on this year's big crop. The reappraisal, he said, should "determine whether the 20 per cent cut should stand and whether other means can be used to effect an acceptable reduction without putting it all on an acreage basis."

Ballentine said he meant by "other means" that a limit on the number of tobacco plants set per acre might be considered.

He estimated a 20 per cent cut would reduce North Carolina's income from flue-cured tobacco by about 100 million dollars next year.

Dr. D. W. Colvard, dean of agriculture at N.C. State College, said a committee from the school is studying the problem of how the state can overcome its prospective loss in tobacco income. This committee was formed long before the 20 per cent cut was announced.

Harry B. Caldwell of Greensboro, State Grange master, said spacing or poundage restrictions, or possibly both, should be added to the acreage allotment program.

Predicts Sharp Cut In Support For 'Off-Types'

RALEIGH (AP) — A sharp reduction in support prices for "neutral" or "off-type" flue-cured tobacco is about to be announced, a high Washington official says.

Clarence L. Miller, director of the tobacco division of the Commodity Stabilization Service, told the News and Observer yesterday:

"We're going to take the most drastic measures available to us at this time to curtail the production of 'neutral' types and kinds of leaf, whether they be the result of seed varieties used or of cultural practices followed."

He said a sharp reduction in support prices for this type of weed would be announced soon, well in advance of plant bed seeding time in the Georgia - Florida belt.

The reduction, he said, will be specified in percentage "and possibly also in dollars and cents."

EXTENDED WEATHER FORECAST FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 5 to 8 degrees below normal and precipitation one-fourth to one-half inch Thursday through Monday. Normal temperature extremes: 31 to 53 in mountains, 37 to 56 in Piedmont and 39 to 62 in coastal plains. Cold throughout period, but somewhat colder beginning Thursday night. Preciptation will occur mostly over weekend.

Eisenhower Fills Several Key Posts

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today picked Dr. Lawrence Gridley Derthick, now superintendent of schools at Chattanooga, Tenn., to be U. S. Commissioner of Education.

At the same time, the President appointed Jack Z. Anderson former member of Congress and now an assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson, to serve as a White House liaison man with Congress. He will specialize in tending to farm legislation, as he has in the agriculture department.

In the education post, Derthick, who will be 51 Dec. 23, succeeds Dr. Samuel M. Brownell, brother of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell. The job has been vacant since Sept. 1, when Samuel Brownell resigned to become superintendent of schools at Detroit. It pays $14,800 a year.

The President's choice of Derthick, announced at his vacation headquarters here, is a recess appointment subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January.

The selection of Anderson as a White House liaison man with Congress is an outright Presidential appointment which does not require Senate confirmation.

Derthick, a native of Hazel Green, Ky., is a former principal of the City-County School at Clarksville, Tenn., and he was superintendent of schools at Nashville, Tenn., from 1939 to 1952.

He has been school superintendent at Chattanooga since 1942.

Anderson is a former Republican member of Congress from California. He served in the House from 1939 through 1952. He will work with retired Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons, who heads up the Presidential staff dealing with Congress.

The position Anderson fills has been vacant since Fred A. Seaton was named Secretary of the Interior earlier this year.

Selection of Derthick and Anderson was announced as Eisenhower started the second full day of a golf-and-work vacation.

The President flew here Monday afternoon for up to two weeks of relaxation while still keeping a watchful eye on the tense international situation.

His headquarters announced yesterday that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles will review that picture at a conference Sunday. Dulles will stop at Augusta for a few hours en route to Washington from Key West, Fla., where he has been recuperating from an operation for intestinal cancer.

School Strife Erupts Again

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Racial strife, more or less dormant since outbreaks at the time Clinton High School admitted 12 Negro students in August, has broken into the open again.

The flareup came yesterday when two white boys threw eggs at three Negro girls attending the school, and two Negro boys left the school after telling Principal D. J. Brittain Jr. they were "tired of being molested."

Brittain said he had asked police to patrol streets at the school to halt further incidents. A U.S. District Court injunction prohibits activities aimed at preventing Negroes from attending the school.

The principal described yesterday's incidents as "part of a pattern of intimidation and harrassment against the Negro children that has been building the past three weeks."

Clinton High admitted the Negro students Aug. 27 under order of U.S. District Court in Knoxville, 20 miles southeast of here, to end litigation which lasted five years.

Following admission of the Negroes, violence erupted and was brought under control only after Gov. Frank Clement sent in National Guardsmen and state troopers.

Farmville Mart Had $51.17 Year

FARMVILLE—Final reports on 1956 operations of the Farmville Tobacco Market show the market disposed of 26,765,810 pounds of tobacco at an average price of $51.17 per hundred pounds.

Sales Supervisor Charles Edwards said the total sales on the market amounted to $13,696,031.01. Poundage, total receipts and averages here below last year's record-breaking totals, Edwards said. Last year the market sold nearly 30 and a half million pounds of tobacco at an average of about $52.50 per hundred pounds.

Burke Sanitary District Ruled Illegal By Court

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Supreme Court today ruled that a sanitary district authorized in Burke County was illegally created by the State Board of Health.

In vacating the lower court judgment, the high court ruled in favor of a group of Burke taxpayers who sought to enjoin the holding of a referendum last May 26 on the issuance of $91,000 in water bonds for the Enon Sanitary District.

The civil action was brought by Gilbert Deal, Cesar Peyronel, L. O. Deal and several others against the Burke County commissioners and the commissioners of the Enon Sanitary District.

The Supreme Court said the group of taxpayers should have been granted injunctive relief as they requested. Associate Justice Carlisle Higgins dissented from the majority opinion.

A petition signed by more than 51 per cent of the residents requested that a sanitary district be set up to provide a water supply. The district is near Valdese.

The Supreme Court said that in creating the new district, the State Board of Health lopped off some of the boundaries as outlined in the petition. This, the court held, was illegal.

Associate Justice William H. Bobbitt, in writing the majority opinion, said, "If the excluded territory is taken out of the original boundaries, the result will be a sanitary district in which ad valorem taxes necessary to provide the Enon water system will be heavier than a sanitary district created and established in accordance with the original boundaries."

Superior Court Judge Frank Huskins refused to issue an injunction at a hearing in Caldwell Superior Court last May.

BURLEY SALES

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The Asheville burley tobacco market, opening in freezing temperatures yesterday, sold almost 600,000 pounds of the leaf at an average price of $59.91 per 100 pounds, highest opening day average in the market's history.

A total of $356,105.87 was paid for the 596,762 pounds sold at five warehouses here.

Malenkov Said In Budapest

BUDAPEST (AP)—Former Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov was reliably reported today to be in Budapest to bolster the government of Russian-installed Premier Janos Kadar.

An excellent source, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Malenkov, now a deputy Soviet premier, arrived in the Hungarian capital, Nov. 23.

This source said it was Malenkov who advised Kadar to change his lenient attitude and resort to harsh measures against still striking Hungarian workers.

Advise No Action In Child's Death

A coroner's jury last night recommended no criminal action be brought in a November 19 accident that took the life of three-year-old Ronnie Earl Stallings.

The child died after being struck by a car driven by Lehman Sutton, 30, of Greenville, Route 1. In its ruling, the jury said that Ronnie died of a head injury after being struck two miles west of Highway 11 on the Gum Swamp Road.

Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry of Bethel, investigating officer, presented the majority of testimony offered at the inquest called by acting coroner George Wilkerson. The child's mother, Mrs. Wayland Stallings of Greenville Route 6, did not take the stand. She was at the family home near the scene of the accident at the time it occurred.

Ronnie was struck around 10 a.m. on November 19 and Wilkerson said at the time the child was thought to have died instantly. The death was the 19th traffic fatality in Pitt County this year.

Bunker Named New Ambassador

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today chose Ellsworth Bunker, retiring president of the American Red Cross, to be ambassador to India.

Bunker, a Democrat, will participate in talks the President and Prime Minister Nehru of India will have in this country Dec. 16-20, Eisenhower's vacation headquarters here said.

The President gave Bunker, who also has served as ambassador to Italy and Argentina, a recess appointment which is subject to Senate confirmation.

He succeeds Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) who resigned earlier this year to make his successful bid for election to the Senate.

Fear Hundreds Lost In Gales

MANILA (AP)—Hundreds of Asian seamen were missing and the crew of an American freighter was reported abandoning ship today as storms continued to sweep the South China Sea and the Western Pacific.

Globe Wireless intercepted a message from the 8,292 - ton freighter Charles E. Dant saying the captain had ordered his 46 crewmen off in Lingayen gulf, on the west coast of Luzon Island.

The U.S. Navy ship Muskingun had been standing by and presumably took the men aboard.

The Dant took a bad list when the cargo of copper concentrates it was hauling from the Philippines to Tacoma, Wash., shifted in heavy seas.

Hope dwindled for hundreds of Malay and Chinese fishermen missing off the east coast of Malaya as more bad weather grounded British Air Force planes and kept Royal Navy ships out of the area.

A gale early Monday smashed 80 fish traps off Johore State. Built of poles driven in deep water and fitted with nets, the traps each had up to a half dozen men living in small huts on them.

Johore police said between 200 and 300 men—"maybe more or less"—were believed missing.

Investigation Of Dorsey Death Kept Open By Greenwich Police

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Greenwich police haven't closed their investigation into the death of band leader Tommy Dorsey, and Police Chief David W. Robbins says a note the famed trombonist left his wife "is important to our case."

The statement from Chief Robbins came even after the medical examiner, Dr. C. Stanley Knapp, signed a death certificate which listed the death as accidental asphyxiation.

The note Robbins referred to was not one given out by Dorsey's personal manager, Tino Barzie, shortly after the body was found in the palatial Dorsey home here Monday.

Robbins said the note Barzie released never was written by Dorsey.

"Barzie told me he didn't find any note in the Dorsey's bedroom," Chief Robbins said. "Barzie said he released his statement (to newsmen) to relieve the pressure on Mrs. Dorsey."

The purported note read by Barzie was affectionate in tone. Barzie said it was addressed to Mrs. Dorsey.

In New York Barzie declined comment on Chief Robbins report o the note.

Chief Robbins refused to disclose what Dorsey's actual note to his wife said.

Mrs. Dorsey, the former Janie New, is the band leader's third wife. She was suing for divorce and a hearing on her motion for temporary alimony and support for their two small children was to have been held today in Superior Court at Bridgeport.

Robbins said that the note in possession now of police left no indication Dorsey intended to take his life.

He declined to discuss the nature of the note.

Dr. Knapp said after an autopsy that Dorsey, the bespectacled member of the band - leading Dorsey Bros. choked to death in his sleep on food particles which lodged in his throat after he apparently became ill.

Vital organs taken from the body were sent to the State Health Department in Hartford for an examination by toxicologists.

Dorsey went to bed about 9 p.m. Sunday after eating a heavy Italian meal with his wife and her mother at the Dorsey home.

Hazards Of Tranquilizer Pills Are Noted At AMA Session

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

SEATTLE (AP) — Are the tranquilizing drugs robbing Americans of the tension, alertness, worry and fear which traditionally sharpened their ability to defend themselves in danger and shaped the country's progress?

There are signs that such a possibility lurks in the unscientific use of the "happiness pills," says two psychiatrists who have observed 8,200 people taking tranquilizers.

Although the pills themselves are not at fault and are potentially of great use in medicine, there is evidence they can cause undesirable effects which constitute danger to both the individual and to society, Dr. Herman A. Dickel and Dr. Henry H. Dixon told the American Medical Assn., yesterday.

Dr. Dickel and Dr. Dixon, from the University of Oregon Medical School, told the scientific section of the AMA they found among the 8,200 people these hazards:

1. Danger to the health and even the lives of persons who react "abnormally" to the drugs.

2. Danger to the patient's philosophy of morals and emotions.

3. Danger to the physician and to medicine generally because doctors are being subjected to enormous pressure to prescribe the pills.

4. Danger to society because it is being led to believe that no one ever should have to be afraid or to feel anxiety.

The hazard to health and life comes in people who develop unusual reactions to the drugs, said the psychiatrists. About 80 of the 8,200 became depressed enough to attempt suicide. Others developed types of mania which require more serious treatment and hospitalization. About 400 of the 8,200 patients had these reactions, Dr. Dickel said.

About 1,700 of the 8,200 were "precipitated into serious psychoneurotic difficulties" because the physicians who first gave them the drugs misinterpreted things that happened afterward to the patients.

Another group of 126 felt so good after taking the pills that they failed to follow up with other medical measures and became much worse than before.

The danger to society, the psychiatrists said, involves the traditional belief that Americans are a selfreliant lot, able to hold their own against adversity. On the other hand is a growing belief that no one should get upset about anything.

Diogenes Can Stop Long Search: An Honest Man

Clarence Johnson of Hollowell's Drug Store has found the honest man that Diogenes of mythical fame has been spending the ages hunting.

Johnson purchased a $65 watch yesterday to send to his mother. He had it wrapped for mailing and laid it down on the counter in the drug store while he waited on a customer. When he returned to the counter to get the packaged watch it was gone.

While Johnson was waiting on his customer, Mrs. Bill Moore had been waiting on another customer, later identified as William J. Telfair, a Negro, who lives five miles out of town on the Washington highway. Telfair made two purchases, had them packaged and left the store.

As soon as the watch was discovered missing, Johnson and Mrs. Moore started a search for Telfair. They called in a policeman who, in turn, called two detectives. The policemen were not able to come up with any leads and told Johnson they were afraid he would have to write the watch off as a total loss.

This morning, Telfair returned to the store, identified himself and told Johnson he had picked up the watch by mistake when he picked up his other two packages. He did not discover the extra package, he said, until he got home and his children opened it. He returned it as soon as he could this morning, he said.

Johnson gave Telfair a reward for returning the watch.

Mrs. Winstead had for her program a guest speaker, Tom McMillan, whose subject was "Dark Africa." Mr. McMillan brought many thought provoking facts pertaining to existing conditions in Rhodesia, from which he has recently returned.

Mrs. S. M. Crisp, club president, presided over a short business meeting at which time the club voted to care for a needy family at Christmas time.

Guests for the luncheon were Mesdames S. T. White, Helen White Hawes, Hannah Richardson, J. B. White and Mr. McMillan.

Upon arrival of the members and guest, Mrs. Topping served a salad course with nuts, dessert and coffee.

She was assisted in serving by Mrs. N. S. Beard and Mrs. J. C. Lanier.

Kids Say Parents Are Problems

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Parents are problems in the young people's world of today, says Ruth Stafford Peale, wife and partner of the famous Protestant minister, Norman Vincent Peale.

"One third of all the mail we receive," says she, "is from young people between the ages of 11 and 20, asking in various ways, 'What are we going to do about our parents?' "

Mrs. Peale, a charming youthful-looking woman, modern to her fingertips, speaks with authority as the mother of two daughters and a son, and as co-author with her husband of a regular magazine feature inviting readers to discuss their problems.

"There's no doubt that a great many of today's young people are troubled and confused," she says. "The problems of almost all who write to us boil down to one complaint—'Our parents don't understand us.'

"Sometimes they feel the household is too strict, sometimes that parents are too busy or indifferent. Some say there is too stern a religious attitude in the home, others says there isn't enough attention to religion.

"From observation I have found that a great many of today's problems with the younger generation stem from the fact that parents think if they provide a good home and good schools for their children, the youngsters should feel secure. There is too much stress on material things.

"Actually children can get a feeling of security only from a close and understanding relationship with their parents. They want to know what their parents are thinking about. They need to feel confidence in the integrity and ultimate fairness of their parents, and they must have a safe, warm and welcoming haven in a home."

The Peales have a daughter just out of college, a son in college and a 14-year-old daughter in high school.

We Must Act To Meet Leaf Cut

Now that Secretary Benson has made official the 20 per cent reduction in tobacco acreage for next year, Eastern North Carolina should turn its attention to coping with the economic problems this acreage cut could bring about.

For Pitt County the 20 per cent reduction means something like 6,000 acres of farm land planted in tobacco this year will have to be diverted to other crops for the 1957 growing season. While the acreage reduction may not mean a 20 per cent drop in income from tobacco during the coming year, it does mean in all probability that gross farm income from tobacco next year will not amount to as much as it has this year.

In the face of this additional acreage reduction—which was not unexpected—agricultural counties like Pitt must look to other supplemental cash crops to help keep the farm income from slipping below its present level. At the same time farmers must put forth more effort to produce on the reduced number of acres the quality tobacco which will command the highest possible average price on auction markets next year.

There are other factors to be considered.

The avreage reduction, which also means a reduction in total poundage of leaf next year, will bring with it a decrease in the demand for workers on farms during the harvest season and probably a decrease in the number of man-days required to redry and process the crop after it is sold on auction floors.

Not only will the reduction mean more people being pushed off the farms for lack of a sufficient crop to earn them a livelihood, it will mean fewer jobs for those people who are accustomed to finding seasonal employment in tobacco fields and tobacco processing plants.

Unless new jobs are created in the tobacco region of Eastern North Carolina many people may have to migrate elsewhere in search of work. Accelerated industrial development in this area is an important part of the answer to this problem of the greatest import to this section.

Whether the industries be home-grown or attracted from other areas, whether they be connected with agriculture in some way or completely divorced from agriculture, they are needed and needed badly in this section of the state.

Fortunately Eastern North Carolina has made progress in its industrial development during the past year. There are indications the overall industrial development program of the region is gaining momentum and producing results in the form of new jobs. In the face of continued downward revisions of tobacco allotments from year to year, it has become evident that diversification of agriculture and the development of industry in this area must be further accelerated if the economy of the East is even to maintain its relative position with that of the remainder of the state.

Sec. Wilson Seems To Be Doing Something

There has been more talk and less action about the term "unification" in the armed forces of the United States in recent years than any other one subject we can think of.

Defense Secretary Wilson's move to clip the sprouting air wings of the Army at least gives us something to get our teeth into. Maybe, after years of talk, we are at last going to get real progress in this "unification". Lest we get our hopes too high, we must remember that promising action has been initiated before, only to be submerged in political and military red tape.

There is little reason for each branch of the armed forces to be carrying on a fully developed guided missile research program as appears to have been the case. Unification in the armed forces and the definite fixing of responsibilities to the various branches of the service can and should eliminate that sort of wasteful duplication of effort. Secretary Wilson's move appears to us to be a step in the right direction although we fully expect to hear it denounced by some political as well as military leaders.

The Army, the Navy and the Air Force each may have its individual needs for different type missiles, but it seems that one well coordinated development program could provide these various types much more efficiently and certainly much cheaper than a separate program carried on by each branch of the armed forces. As long as separate development programs are to be continued, it is certainly reasonable that specific areas of development be assigned to each one by the Secretary of Defense.

Scott-Hodges Clash Would Be Spectacular

There are a great many people in North Carolina who think Gov. Luther Hodges is going to be a candidate for the Senate in 1960. And apparently Sen. Kerr Scott is one of them.

Sen. Scott the other day used what he called "the sorry showing the Democrats made in the election" to announce that he intends to seek re-election to his Senate seat four years from now and already has his campaign underway. Sen. Scott went on to say that "I'm for Luther Hodges, but I'm not for Luther Hodges taking my place in the Senate."

Having observed Kerr Scott in the higher echelons of North Carolina politics for a number of years, we can't quite believe he's really afraid of any Republican who might run for office in this state. We can understand how the prospects of a fight with Luther Hodges for the Democratic nomination would cause him concern.

If the prospects for a Hodges-Scott battle for the Senate nomination in 1960 develop, it should afford North Carolinians one of their most colorful political spectacles in several decades.

Still Studying The Election Outcome

By LYNN NISBET

RALEIGH — Tarheel Democrats are still trying to figure what hit them on November 6. At his latest news conference Governor Hodges stressed the necessity for giving the party organization a shot in the arm —if not more drastic internal medication. Rank and file members of the party have long complained that they were not accorded proper recognition by the relatively small clique which had run the business for many years.

There has been from top level to precinct more effort on part of the inner circle to retain control than to encourage popular participation. The inevitable result is the currently bemoaned lack of interest on part of the young people.

Analysis of the November voting shows that while some former Democrats voted Republican, especially for President, the real trouble was that tousands of old timers did not vote at all and a large percentage of new voters felt no party obligation. The chickens hatched in the Roosevelt regime and trained to vote for the man instead of the party are coming home to roost. The Republicans have in Eisenhower the same sort of popular idol the Democrats had in Roosevelt. The belated pleas for party regularity could not overcome this hero worship.

Furthermore, while appealing for support of the party line, nothing was being done to make the party attractive. There has been no material revision of the party plan of organization in this State since World War I. Minor changes gave proper recognition to women voters and to the YDC organization, without according them the equality in practice which the plan contemplated in its text. A committee headed by Wade Bruton, assistant attorney general, is now working on revising the plan prior to the 1958 campaign.

The executive committee more than two years ago authorized a full time executive secretary or assistant to the chairman who would keep in touch with county organizations throughout the year. That position has not been filled. One result was that substantial sums distributed by the State Committee to congressional districts and counties was not wisely spent. The control committee lacked full information on conditions and needs in the communities. Many party workers join the Governor in belief that the Democrats cannot hope to hold North Carolina with six weeks campaign activity every two years.

Although regular Republican Candidates fared relatively better in the recent election, the real threat to Democratic supremacy is not the Republican party. It is the increasing number of independent voters — not true independents, but those who do not hesitate to bolt the party after participating in the primary. The trend in North Carolina is toward a no-party, rather than a two-party, system. That situation calls for a different approach than a campaign between two recognized parties. Party regularity pleas have no effect on voters who refuse to recognize any party. And the fact is that some of the voters who have been most insistent upon party loyalty have themselves ignored party lines in many instances. Party integrity requires at least a degree of discipline, a system of rewards and penalties. The party worker who sees his deflecting neighbor rewarded with appointment to a political job is apt to be deaf to loyalty appeals.

The lack of liaison between state and local organizations which results in places of honor in the state party going to those who have been repudiated at local level does not make for a cohesive working force. Here is another place a full time field-man would serve to strengthen the party at both state and local levels.

It should not have surprised anybody that majority of the Negro voters, especially in North Carolina, went back to the Republican party or stayed at home. From reconstruction days to the New Deal era the Negro vote was insignificant in this state, but was conceded to the Republicans. Same was true in the northern cities, where a larger percentage of Negroes voted.

The New Deal made a direct play for the Negro vote and gave the Negro more recognition than he had ever enjoyed. In the elections of 1936, '40, '44 and '48 the Negro vote was predominantly Democratic. There was some shifting in 1952 but nothing like the turnover of this year. National Republicans claimed political advantage from the Supreme Court segregation decisions, and in North Carolina the Democratic leadership alienated Negro support by seeking every possible way to delay or avoid integration. Many Negroes who did not want integration resented the attitude and the public statements of officials.

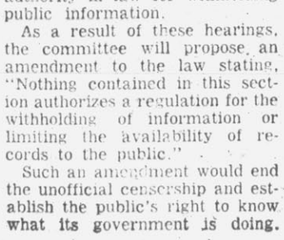

The Pearsall Plan had bi-partisan support, Republicans voting for the effectuating amendment as strongly as Democrats. Because it was sponsored by the Democratic administration, the Negroes held that party responsibile — and voted against its candidates.

Conclusion seems inescapable that the Democrats in North Carolina, waged the 1956 campaign on issues and with party machinery more than 25 years out of date. Lack of response on part of the voters, especially the younger group, plus the idol-worship of Eisenhower, resulted in the closest margin in many years.

It is obvious that new issues and new policies must be adopted if the Democrats hope to recover their dominant position.

Teeth, Lessons And Caravan

I have been asked to report that The Young Man who runs our little home with an iron fist and an overpowering scream now has six teeth.

Those teeth are sharp, too. Especially at 6 a.m. when he decides to see how his daddy's ribs taste through a pajama shirt. The teeth also make little marks, even through a pajama shirt.

While on the subject of babies, I have a proposal for City Editor Alvin Taylor's brothers: For a small sum, I will teach that bachelor the fine art of handling wee infants properly.

However, I will have to insist that the lessons be given at my convenience. I believe that with a few lessons Alvin can be made into a wonderful 2 a.m. handler of infants. And with the proper instruction I believe he can even learn how to carry one from house to car without fear of breakage or leadkage.

It might be a good idea, though, if the proposal is accepted, that old Alvin keep that G. I. raincoat handy. It is useful on occasions.

I wonder just how many of Greenville residents took time out to visit the curious caravan of the "goatman" when he was passing the city yesterday.

I stopped to see him Monday while returning from a visit to Farmville. A large crowd had had gathered at his camp beside a creek near Ballard's Cross Roads and the bewhiskered gentleman was doing a brisk business selling post cards and pictures of his goat herd.

I made an unsuccessful attempt to take a picture of him for The Daily Reflector. The full story of the unsuccessful attempt can't be told here. However, I will repeat it before select audiences for a slight consideration.

The affair wound up with him telling me that I talked ugly. I did not tell him, however, that he smelled bad. I still didn't get the picture, though.

I wonder, too, if the good citizens of Beaufort County know that he's headed for their neck of the woods for a three-day visit? It would be a good time for them to make an out-of-state visit they've been planning.

Notebook On Life

If The Red Man Had Guns

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One by one the myths about the old Wild West are being exploded.

It has been shown pretty convincingly, for example, that the ordinary oldtime cowboy, far from being deadly in a gun fight, was usually lucky if he could hit the side of a wall in a saloon brawl.

Most revolver fights between cowboys shed more ammunition than blood.

But one belief the Western fiction fan has stubbornly clung to—that the average Indian was a lousy shot compared to the average U.S. cavalry trooper.

Alas, it turns out this is a fable, too. It seems that, gun for gun, the noble redskin of the plains was usually more than a match for the blue-clad soldier foe. And if there had been more Indians with more guns we might all be speaking Sioux today and living in low-cost tepee projects instead of mortgaged homes.

Proof that the Indian was no slouch as a marksman — when he could get a rifle — is given in the current issue of "Guns" magazine by Stanley Vestal, a University of Oklahoma professor and noted Western authority.

He quotes a report to the secretary of war made by Gen. George Crook in 1876:

"I have seen our friendly Indians, riding at full speed, shoot and kill a wolf, also on the run; While it is a rare thing that our troops can hit an Indian on horseback, though the soldier may be on his feet at the time."

Vestal also compiled a box score of 12 major engagements in which a total of 10,356 Indians fought 5,249 whites. The results: Indians 69 killed, 28 wounded; whites 383 dead, 102 wounded.

"Other than the astonishingly low number of casualties on either side," Vestal said, the battles "reveal an important trait of the Sioux campaigns.

"The Indians, like Napoleon, fought as a rule only when they had the advantage of numbers. The Sioux killed about five times as many white soldiers as they lost Indians killed, and wounded approximately four times as many Whites

"They did this with hardly half enough guns to go around under the best conditions, and with no cannon at all."

It has often been claimed that the reason a force of 1,000 Indians was able to wipe out 204 cavalry troopers in Custer's last stand in the battle of the Little Big Horn in 1876 was that renegades had supplied them all with repeating rifles.

"A fantastic yarn," said Vestal. "After the greatest effort, only about half of Sitting Bull's warriors were able to obtain weapons. Of these, many had old flintlocks, condemned muskets, muzzle-loaders, smooth bores."

Army ordance reports bear Vestal out. When the Indians later surrendered their weapons, 160 of the 284 long guns they turned in were old-fashioned muzzle-loaders and the rest were gener-

THE DIVINE WORD

What is the Bible?

We might define it as 66 books dealing with religious matters. But this would be amost inadequate definition. The Church has held from the beginning that the Bible is the word of God. It is a great collection of fine literature, but it is vastly more than this. Most people do not realize the significance of "word" as used in the Bible. It was by His word that God created the world. It was God's word that came to the prophets and made them the moral leaders of all ages. According to the Bible, God's word is something more than an uttered sound or a few letters put together. It is a force of such illimitable power that worlds come into being at its utterance.

This word of God with its power comes to us in two forms. First, it comes as a book in which are revealed God's nature, His attitude toward us, and His will regarding our lives. But even more important is that in the fullness of time, God caused His powerful Word to become flesh in the person of Jesus and to live, teach, dwell, die, and be raised from the dead, that our eternal salvation might be achieved.

As we read the Bible, let us always be conscious of the immeasurable potency of the divine world. This word is the divine agency of creation. This word is God's salvation come to to the restoration of our souls.

Other Editors Are Saying.. Unofficial Press Censorship

(The Charlotte Observer)

The continuing battle to get unreasonable restrictions on government news removed has at last brought a promise of action from a Congressional subcommittee on Government Information.

This committee has heard testimony from more than 100 newspapermen, lawyers, and scientists on regulations that make it possible for government officials to keep news from the people.

The chief obstacle to freedom of information in Washington is the law allowing each bureau to issue its own regulations on the custody, use, and preservation of its records. The language in this law is so broad that the "custody, use, and preservation" of records can be stretched to mean a strict censorship. Many bureaus are using it for just that purpose.

Under the guise of regulating the custody of records, they can prevent newspaper reporters from seeing them. Making rules about the "use" of such records can be used for the same purpose. And in some cases they are being used to cover up public matters that the officials wish to conceal.

Even the courts, the committee was told, have interpreted this law in such a way as to justify a censorship of government news by officials who have no other authority in law for withholding public information.

As a result of these hearings, the committee will propose an amendment to the law stating, "Nothing contained in this section authorizes a regulation for the withholding of information or limiting the availability of records to the public."

Such an amendment would end the unofficial censorship and establish the public's right to know what its government is doing.

Crisis Bolstered Position Of America

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has behaved since the November 6 vote of confidence as if he had never heard of the anti-Third Term Amendment that is supposed to make him a "lame duck" Chief Executive.

In both foreign and domestic affairs, he has shown a positive and bold leadership which he never assumed during his first four years in the White House. He has dared to rebuke our major European Allies for what he regards as a breach of faith in their attack on Egypt. In linking Israel in the condemnation, he chanced antagonizing an influential bloc of voters.

IKE GAVE NEW STRENGTH TO U.N. When the United Nations seemed to be tottering because of their disregard of the Charter's provisions against aggression, Ike imparted new strength to the international organization. Next to the U.N.'s decision to resist the Communists' invasion of South Korea, the agreement to co-operate in patrolling the Israeli-Egyptian front marks that body's most courageous action since it was created in 1945.

In short, and diplomats throughout the world concede it, if a World War III is prevented, the major credit will fall to the military man in the White House.

PRESIDENT'S ADROIT MOVE. Due only to his stand on the Egyptian crisis, the United States was enabled to take the lead in condemning Russian barbarism in Poland and Hungary, and throughout the "Iron Curtain" area generally.

Had Ike not opposed Britain and France so stubbornly, the West would have been in no position morally or politically, to indict the murderers in the Kremlin. Both democratic and Communist hands would have been "unclean" before the bar of world opinion.

AFRICAN — ASIAN NATIONS RALLY TO WEST CAUSE More importantly, and for the first time in the "cold war" struggle, he has forced the Asian and African nations to rally behind the West's fight for freedom of Russian satellites. When the non-committed bloc headed by India's V. Krishna Menon did not vote against Moscow in the U.N. Assembly, they abstained in a critical and sullen silence.

It is understood that this reversal of the Asian and African attitude causes more concern in the Kremlin than any other recent development on the international scene. The downgrading of Stalin and the friendlier atmosphere at Moscow, which are partially responsible for the Communists' current difficulties, were designed to win over the neutral countries of these two continents.

EISENHOWER'S BOLD LEADERSHIP If there was a "dangerous drift" to American foreign policy under the Dulles-Hoover management, as Adlai E. Stevenson reiterated during the campaign, it has been replaced by the kind of bold and daring leadership for which free peoples everywhere have waited and prayed. It ranks with Harry S. Truman's decision to fight rather than to surrender South Korea to the Communists.

Moreover, the President moved into the crisis over considerable opposition at State Department and on Capito' Hill. Numerous Dulles advisers urged against an open break with Britain and France. Certain Republicans in Congress cautioned against placing too great faith in the United Nations. But Ike waved aside their objections in this experiment on behalf of a victory for the free world.

Headache Time For Retailers

By ELMER ROESSNER

This (tra-la and jingle, jingle!) is the time of year that retailers pile up most sales and make scads of money — or at least break even with losses during the first 10 months.

It is also the time of year that they pile up headaches. From now until Christmas retailers will eat more aspirin, develop more ulcers, beat more wives and display other symptoms of frustration than in any other season.

Here are their most anguishing problems:

Personnel: It has been increasingly difficult to get competent sales extras at Christmas. Some companies have been resigned to hiring warm bodies. In any case, a merchant who has not yet signed on the extra help he'll need in the next three weeks is dead — saleswise, that is.

PROBLEM OF HUMAN FRAILTIES

Shoplifters: Customers with sticky fingers love crowds and confusion; some only work during the Christmas season. This compels retailers to step up store protection services — hiring more floor detectives who, in turn, increase the crowding. Some merchants say they suffer half their annual losses during the Christmas season.

Pilferage: It's difficult to check temporary employees thoroughly. Shoplifting gangs often try to get one member on the payroll of large stores to spot easily lifted goods or to create seemingly innocent diversions when a big lift is in process. This is on top of the common temptations that cause otherwise honest employees to take things home. Souvenirs, perhaps.

Paperhangers: Passers of worthless checks also love crowds and confusion. Setting up rules for cashiers is a difficult problem. It is hard to screen out crooks without offending honest shoppers. A merchant who goes through the Christmas season without a bad-check loss has probably lost thousands of dollars in sales by scrutinizing good checks too closely. Yet once a merchant lowers the bars, check passers pass the word and all their associates move in with worthless scraps of paper.

HAZARDS OF SELLING

Fires: There's probably no retailer living who does not harbor a fear of a store fire or, worse, of some idiot who causes a panic by shouting 'Fire!" Today, danger of fire is almost nonexistent. Management has reduced hazards and fire departments check constantly. But in some cities, there's always the annoyance of being forced to dismantle an entire display because a fire inspector thinks a bit of ribbon or a shred of paper constitutes a hazard.

Accidents: The large number of customers increase chances of mishaps. Rushing shoppers catch others' feet in revolving doors and temporary stock clerks run down customers with their carts. Most retailers check their liability insurance and then hover around doors, aisles and other danger points at rush hours.

Fallers: This is another type of dishonest operator that emerges this time of the year. Fallers slip on imaginary spots of water, tear clothes on invisible splinters, tumble down escalators — and send their lawyers around in the morning.

Customer misunderstandings: Here is probably the greatest dollar loss to most merchants, and they cannot take insurance against it. In the hurly-burly of holiday shopping, customers are waited on out of turn, they take offense at the way a temporary employee chews gum, they misread advertisements, they get directed to wrong departments, their toes get stepped on by rude persons, they find the articles they wanted out of stock, they have to wait to get into the powder room — and they take their trade someplace else.

The only comfort a merchant can have is all this evens up; for every customer he loses a competitor will lose one to him.

Grandson Of Founder Presides At Tyson-May Family Reunion

FARMVILLE—The thirty-sixth annual reunion of the Tysons and Mays was held in the Major Benjamin May Chapter House, D. A. R., on the day after Thanksgiving with Lawrence T. Tyson of Buckhead, Ga., a grandson of the late Grigg T. Tyson, founder of the Tyson Reunion in 1920, presiding.

A joint reunion was formed some years later with the Mays on the occasion of the 63rd anniversary celebration of the wedding of Mary Tyson and Major May.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox, pastor of the Christian Church, and a welcome extended by Mayor Charles S. Edwards.

The president spoke briefly of the organizations of the Tysons and of the first meting at Tyson's Church September 28, 1920, with 200 in attendance. He called attention to the coats of arms displayed on one of the colonial mantels. Miss Margaret Hardy of LaGrange, secretary-treasurer, gave her report.

Mrs. Bernice B. Turnage, lyric soprano, was soloist and Miss Elizabeth Lang was accompanist. Patricia Ann Tyson, three-year-old daughter of the president, and Mrs. Tyson sang a selection.

J. W. Joyner introduced the guest speaker, Hugh B. Johnson Jr., instructor in modern language at Atlantic Christian College of Wilson, genealogist and collector of books and data relating to the Civil War period.

Mr. Johnson spoke informally of his interest and experiences in gathering data and of the requisites of a good genealogist.

The genealogy report was given by Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti, who later assisted members in finding their branch on the family tree, which in its present form covers three sides of the banquet hall of the Chapter House.

The memorial service was conducted by the Rev. L. B. Manning, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church of Fountain.

During the business session, Mrs. G. Alex Rouse presented the names of Mrs. H. B. Baker and Mrs. A. T. St. Amand of Wilmington and these descendants were elected to the offices of first and second vice presidents.

Following adjournment, a basket lunch was enjoyed.

Miss DeVisconti headed the reception committee; Mrs. C. A. Mozingo was registrar; Mrs. A. C. Monk and Mrs. C. R. Townsend were on the decoration committee; Mrs. John B. Wright Jr., Mrs. C. H. Mozingo, C. A. Mozingo Jr. and Mrs. Rouse served on the food committee.

FLOOR PLAN

When shopping for new furniture it's a good idea to take along a pencil sketch of room dimensions, windows, wall area, stairs, doors, etc. that break up the room. That way you may be able to fit the pieces in more easily.

AIDS CANCER CLOSET—Mrs. Josephine Dees, president of Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, is shown above presenting Pitt County Welfare Supt. K. T. Futrelle bed linens to be used by needy cancer patients in the county. The gift included 12 sheets and 12 pillow cases and will be added to the Welfare Department's Cancer Closet maintained to help bed-ridden cancer cases. One of the first service projects of the relatively new local sorority chapter, Mrs. Dees states that plans call for this project to be continued with regular contributions. In accepting the gift, Supt. Futrelle voiced the need of absorbent cloths for the Cancer Closet in addition to bed linens. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Miss Lena Dey Humber, who will be married to Mr. Lindsey Dawson Smith Thursday morning, was guest of honor at a delightful party given by the members of the Philathea Class of Memorial Baptist Sunday School Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Fleming on Greene Street. The home was attractively decorated with autumn berries and long leaf pine. After several spirited games Misses Margaret Fleming and Ernestine Forbes served an elegant salad course with hot tea. The bride-elect was presented a jade bracelet and the table prizes, novelty evening handkerchiefs, were awarded Misses Elizabeth Jones and Myrtle Brogden and Mrs. Guilford Smith. While the excitement was high over the prizes, little Miss Elizabeth Gates appeared riding in a miniature automobile decorated with wedding bells and filled packages. The packages contained a beautiful miscellaneous shower for the bride-elect.

Pirate Cagers Are Prepping For Opener

By JOHNNY HUDSON

East Carolina College hoopsters and Coach Howard Porter will take on a great challenge when the Pirate team opens its 1956-57 home schedule by taking on the McCrary Eagles December 5. Facing the Bucs this season is a 48 homegame winning streak dating back to 1951. This win streak is considered one of the longest in the nation.

Only in the dedication game of Memorial Gym in 1951 when the University of North Carolina edged out a win has an ECC five lost on home territory. Since that time 48 foes have bowed in succession.

The Pirates, rated as one of the pre-season favorites in this year's North State Conference race have been hard at work since October 1. ECC makes their opening debut away from home when they play Guilford at Guilford College December 1. They then return home to resume defense of their winning streak by taking on the McCrary Eagles and Catawba in succession.

Coach Howard Porter begins his 11th season as head mentor of ECC with a squad of 10 lettermen returning from his 1955-56 team, which carried the Bucs to the regular season North State crown. Porter, better known as "the fox" around the North State circuit, will also be seeking his eleventh winning season at ECC. The Missouri native has never suffered a losing season since entering the coaching business, but is reluctant to talk about it.

Concerning the coming season, Porter will not go out on the limb making predictions, but he feels his Bucs will make a good showing with only one man gone from last year's team.

"We have added depth with some fine freshmen prospects, plus a lot more of experience among our veterans. The biggest question mark at the present time is Nichols (Nick), a regular forward for the past two season, who is out with a shoulder injury. Nichols played well last season and can make a big difference on our club this year," states Porter.

Gone from last year's team, which racked up a 13-3 mark in capturing loop honors, is Captain and Guard J. C. Thomas, a Raleigh native. The All-Conference nominee was a big asset last season with a 16 point average and some outstanding defensive work.

Back to carry the load for experience-loaded Bucs are four regulars, Don Harris, Freddy James Guy Mendenhall, and Nichols. Other lettermen returning for duty are Marion Hales, Harold Ingram, Waddell Soloman, Maurice Everette, Tim Smothers, and Joe Plaster.

Expected to be the big gun in the Pirate attack this season is senior Don Harris, an All-Conference forward for the past two seasons. The Laurinburg native has also been ECC's top scorer for the past two campaigns, recording 467 points and a 18.7 average last season despite an ankle injury which slowed him down during the home stretch.

Closely behind Harris in the scoring department is junior forward, Nick Nichols. Nichols is out at the present time with a shoulder injury and must be considered as a question mark until he resumes action. The Leaksville boy averaged 15 points a contest as a sophomore plus being one of the top rebounders on the team. He came into his own during the latter part of the season, as he hit above the 20 point mark in four of the last five contests.

Another starter who hit in double figures last season is Center Guy Mendenhall. The lanky Cary native ended up the season with a 11.2 average, hitting 28 points on two occasions. He is considered as one of the most improved men on the club this season.

The other starter returning is Guard Freddy James, a former All-State prep star. The scrappy junior was out half of last season with a broken shoulder, but has been looking "better than ever" this season according to Porter.

Charlie Adams, a sharp-shooting transfer from the University of North Carolina, is holding an inside track on the other starting guard position. Also battling for the vacant position are a couple of freshmen, Ike Riddick and Roy Dennis, along with veterans Wadwell Soloman and Maurice Everette.

The Bucs boast probably the best "sixth" and "seventh" men in the conference with the presence of Harold Ingram and Marion Hales, both juniors. Also high on Porter's list is Tim Smothers, considered one of the best freshmen in the loop last season. Smothers has been running on the first unit in the injured Nichols' slot.

Although Porter feels his team could be stronger than last year if Nichols returns to the lineup, he is quick to note that the Pirates are in for a rough schedule with an improved North State loop plus the increased pressure of the home-game-winning streak.

The "Fox" feels that Western Carolina, Lenoir Rhyne, Catawba, and arch-rivals, Elon and Atlantic Christians should give the most trouble in the loop this season.

Bethel, Chicod Split Two Tilts

Chicod and Bethel split two Pitt County conference tilts last night at Chicod.

The Chicod girls took a 78-62 victory over the visiting girls. They jumped off to an early first period lead and held it throughout the contest.

Bethel, as predicted, walked away with the boys contest, 82-44. Vance Taylor was high man for the winners with 31 points. Jimmy Fornes scored 22 for Chicod.

Bill Barnes Is Leader In All-ACC Balloting

RALEIGH (AP)—Bill Barnes, the Wake Forest fullback who rushed to a new Atlantic Coast Conference record, showed his heels to the field again today in the annual all-conference football selections announced by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn.

Wake's 185 - pound cocaptain from Landis was the only unanimous choice on the team picked by writers, radio, TV and college publicity men of the two Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The versatile Barnes heads a backfield which also includes halfbacks Joel Wells, Clemson, and Ed Sutton, North Carolina, and fullback Jim Bakhtiar of Virginia.

It's a combination of speed and muscle, chosen with a line to match. Jack Davis, veteran Maryland guard, was the leading vote winner in this all-conference line: Ends, Buddy Frick of South Carolina and Buddy Bass, Duke; tackles, Mike Sandusky, Maryland, and Sid DeLoatch, Duke; guards, Davis and Jim Jones, guards, Davis and Jim Jones, orth Carolina; center, Jim Keyser, Virginia.

Barnes collected the maximum 250 points. He was a first-team choice on all of the fifty ballots cast. Points were awarded on the basis of five of a first-team vote and three for second team.

Davis received 45 first - team votes and Wells, top ground gainer for Clemson's ACC champions, got 44.

Bass, Duke captain, won a first-team end position by a margin of 10 points over John Collar of North Carolina State. Sam Deluca, South Carolina tackle standout, gave the first-stringers a similar hot chase in the balloting by polling 144 points.

Collar and Dalton Rivers of Clemson are the second-team ends in a line which has Deluca and John Szuchan of State at the tackles, John Grdijan of Clemson and Duke's Roy Hord at guards, and Eddie Moore of Wake Forest at center.

Three quarterbacks wound up in the second-string backfield as the result of voting without regard to position. They are Sonny Jurgensen of Duke, Mackie Prickett of South Carolina, and Clemson's Charlie Bussey. Hal McElhaney, Duke fullback, also made the second team.

Four first-team choices are re peaters from last year's all-conference team picked up by the writers' association. They are Barnes, Sandusky, Davis and Wells.

The press, radio and TV boys disregarded team records in their 1956 selections. They named two players each from Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina. Virginia won three games during the season and the two other teams two each.

Duke, with a winning 5-4-1 record, also placed two players on the team. The league's top winners, South Carolina 7-3) and Clemson 6-1-2) had to settle for one berth each, as did Wake Forest.

Unanimous - choice Barnes became the first ACC player to crack the 1,000-yard mark in rushing in a single season. The Deacon fullback gained 1,010 yards in 10 games.

ECC's Pennington Selected To All-North State Squad

GREENSBORO—In the Greensboro Daily News' annual All-North State football poll among the conference's coaches, East Carolina end Ray Pennington was chosen as a first unit performer.

Lenoir Rhyne, Conference champions, placed three backs and five linemen on the 22-man squad to dominate the selections. Two Bear standouts, seniors Arden Ray and Walter Cornwell, were given the title of honorary captains of the mythical team, since they were the only ones receiving unanimous votes.

For Pennington, a 6-2, 190 pound senior at ECC, it was his second season as an All-Conference performer. The Greensboro lad copped North State honors last year as a key receiver of the passes of Dick Cherry. This fall, without Cherry, Pennington nevertheless was the team's most outstanding pass-snatcher and was excellent as a defensive man. He was injured much of the eason and often played with a bad hip.

The only other East Carolina man receiving attention in the Daily News poll was junior Bobby Perry, a halfback who was given honorable mention.

Chuck Spieser Rated Favorite

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chuck Spieser of Detroit is favored to defeat Germany's Willie Hoepner in a scheduled 10-round meeting of title-conscious light-heavyweights in the Milwaukee Arena tonight.

Spieser, with less action to his credit than Hoepner, is given the edge because of his power and polish. He rates as the No. 1 contender behind Light-Heavyweight Champion Archie Moore. Hoepner is No. 6 in the ratings. The bout will be televised nationally at 10 p.m. EST.

Spieser, a former Michigan State student, is an easy - going right-hander. He'll take an 18-4-1 record into the ring against the German who is making his American debut. Hopener, an edgy lefthander, is 45-10-4. He has 33 knockouts while Spieser has 13.

U S Advances To 18 Gold Medals

By TED SMITS

MELBOURNE (AP)—Uncle Sam's powerful Olympic team boosted it's gold medal total to 18 today with a sweep in the 110-meter hurdles behind surprising Lee Calhoun and Parry O'Brien's record shot put. But Russia's Vladimir Kouts matched Bobby Morrow's double by winning his second distance run.

Calhoun, a lanky North Carolina College student from Gary, Ind., whipped Jack Davis of Glendale, Calif., the world record holder, in a blanket finish. Joel Shankle of Durham, N.C., grabbed the bronze medal for third. It was so close both Calhoun and Davis were clocked in 13.5 seconds, beating Harrison Dillard's 1952 Olympic record of 13.7.

O'Brien did the expected by repeating his Helsinki triumph in the shot put. The young giant from Travis Air Force Base, Calif. shattered his own Olympic record with each of his six tosses and finally settled for a new mark of 60 feet 11 inches. Both Bill Nieder of Lawrence, Kan., with 59-7¾ and Jiri Skobla of Czechoslovakia with 57-10¾ topped the old standard while finishing second and third. So did Ken Bantum of New York, with 57-4 for fourth place.

The U.S. missed a potential sweep in the shot put but the 1-2-3 finish in the hurdles was its fourth of the Olympics, duplicating America's efforts in the 200-meters, 400-meter hurdles and discus.

Russia enjoyed its greatest day with four gold medals for a total of 10 with Kouts' victory in the 5,000-meter, its first sweep in the 20-kilometer walk, Inessa Iaounzen's winning effort in the women's javelin and a come-from-behind success in the modern pentathlon team competition.

In the day's competition, Russia outscored the U.S. 64-44 but the unofficial point table still showed Uncle Sam out front of Russia, 306-214.

Another capacity crowd of 100,000 thrilled to a second Australian gold medal in women's track when Shirley Strickland de la Hunty Skimmed over the 80-meter hurdles in 10.7 seconds, breaking the accepted world record to repeat her Helsinki victory of four years ago. The three American girls had been eliminated in the heats.

Sweden snatched the other gold medal awarded on this brisk day when Lars Hall also repeated his 1952 triumph in the individual phase of the modern pentathlon. The teams and individuals finished the five-event competition with the 4,000-meter cross country run.

The American pentathlon team was second to Russia after leading through the earlier events and George Lambert of Sioux City, Ia. was fifth among the individuals. Bill Andre of Montclair, N. J. was seventh and Jack Daniels of Missoula, Mont. 13th.

Lou Jones of New Rochelle N. Y., America's best bet sped home first in two heats of the 400-meter to qualify for tomorrow's semifinals and finals along with Charlie Jenkins of Villanova and Cambridge, Mass. However, the third American, Jim Lea of San Jose, Calif. was eliminated when he came in fifth in the third heat of the second round. Jones' times were 48.1 seconds and 47.4, about two seconds off the record.

The U. S. team had won 11 of the first 17 events in men's track and field with seven more to go. It has potential winners in the decathlon starting tomorrow, the 400-meters and the two hurdles Saturday. The steeplechase, 400-meters, opening of the decathlon and the first heats in both men's and women's swimming are important events on the Thursday schedule.

America was blanked in points in the two women's events, javelin and 800-meter hurdles and in the 5,000-meter run and long walk for men.

Both members of the Zatopek family from Czechoslovakia, Emil and his wife, Dana, saw their Olympic record broken. Kouts, winning from Great Britain's Gordon Pirie by a quarter of a lap, set a new mark of 13 minutes 39.6 seconds in the 5,000-meters as Pirie and Britain's Derek Ibbotson all bettered Zatopek's old standard of 14:06.6 set in 1952. Dana's javelin record was smashed by Inessa Iaounzem, the Russian girl who threw it 176 feet 8½ inches as compared to Mrs. Zatopek's 165-7 in 1952.

Ed Sutton of Cullowhee, N. C., averaged 7.6 yards per carry during North Carolina's first three football games this fall.

New Car Production Is Below Original Plans

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—The auto makers apparently will carry over into 1957 a sizable backlog of unfilled new car orders.

This somewhat unusual situation results from a new model production volume far below original schedules and a strong market for new cars. When the industry pushed its retail deliveries up to nearly 7,200,000 cars last year, the trade experts quite generally said it was "borrowing" quite heavily from its future market.

The industry is not "borrowing" anything right now from next year's market. If the retailing division could get the cars it could sell more than six million units this year. But it will have something like 5,900,000 or fewer deliveries from the factories. It will wind up the calendar year with more than two weeks' supply of new cars in stock.

That's why manufacturers and many leading retailers throughout the country look for high demand to continue through most of the coming year. Some experts who earlier predicted new car sales would reach 6½ million units next year now are saying the total will come closer to 6,800,000 units.

Authoritative sources estimate the car makers have built about one million of their 1957 models so far. This is nearly 200,000 units short of original schedules. The shortage thus created undoubtedly is a factor in the present strong demand for new cars.

One certainty about the lag in new model production is that there was nothing premeditated about it; the car makers have not deliberately held back their volume to create a shortage.

The new models were the most broadly changed cars the industry ever put into production for a new model year; they required more new dies and other tooling of greatly changed design than any model changeover since world War II. This meant workers had to be retrained in the use of the tooling.

Then there were parts that did not fit. Then came shortages of components purchased from suppliers; the suppliers, in some instances, encountered tooling problems of their own. Here and there in the industry or among its suppliers labor troubles halted production of bumpers or other units.

It all added up to something less than scheduled output volume at the factories and downward revision of scheduled shipments to the retailers around the country.

Statistics show new car sales at the start of the 1956 model year were higher than they were in the traditional peak period of April, May and June.

Manufacturers and retailers are agreed a similar situation is not likely to develop in the 1957 model year.

Pianist Gary Graffman In Concert Here Dec. 6

Gary Graffman, American pianist, will appear in concert at East Carolina College Thursday, December 6, at 8 p.m. in the Wright auditorium.

The artist described as "one of the most superbly gifted of the major young pianists," will play here under the sponsorship of the College Entertainment Committee. The program will be opening number for the winter quarter on the 1956-1957 Entertainment Series.

Though still in his twenties, Graffman has received high praise from critics as a recitalist in this country, Canada, South America, and Europe. He has appeared as soloist with top orchestras, such as the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the Boston Symphony, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony, and others.

Born in New York City, Graffman began his piano studies when he was four. At the age of seven, he won a ten-year scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music, where he studied with Mme. Isabelle Vengerova. A series of three appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra under Ormandy in 1947 launched his career and won him recognition as a brilliant young pianist.

As winner of the 1948 Rachmaninoff Fund Special Award, he was presented in a Carnegie Hall recital. His performance caused the New York Times' Olin Downes to hail him as ' a virtuoso who can give a representative performance before any audience in the world."

In September 1949 he won the award of the Edgar M. Leventritt Foundation, which resulted in three major orchestral engagements in early 1950.

Since then Graffman's North American tours have taken him annually from coast to coast, and he has played in England, on the continent, and in South America.

CHAPTER 23

Strutt paused to take a sip of lager, and then continued to report on Macfarlane.

"Yesterday evening Mac goes out to Putney and collects his fiancee . . ."

"Fiancee?"

"Girl named Jean Shaw. Disraeli Road, Putney. She lodges there. They go out for a walk on t. Heath. They have a row, poor souls. She walks off with her head i. the air, trying not to cry. Mac goes back to his flat in Shaftesbury Avenue. We keep an eye on the joint. After half-an-hour in goes Perry. Three-quarters of an hour out they come. Mr. Perry looking as pleased as anything. They go to a pub. The argument goes on. Macfarlane looks pretty harrassed. He drinks gin, too much gin, but he gets home all right. There you are."

"They've quarrelled?"

"Yes."

"About what?"

"The loot, Crooks always do."

"I think it's the girl. Perry's afraid of her. He thinks Macfarlane might spill to her. He thinks she might go to the Police."

"She wouldn't go to the Police if her boy-friend's mixed up in blackmail," Strutt observed wryly.

"What's the girl's address?" Casson asked.

Strutt gave it to him.

"You're not going to try your deadly charm on her?"

Casson grinned.

"I'll put Mrs. Baker on the job, my housekeeper. She's a friendly old dear and as cunning as you wouldn't suspect. Has Macfarlane got a daily cleaner at his flat?"

"Yes."

"Give me her address too. Mrs. Baker can do her as well as Macfarlane and the girl. Does Macfarlane normally drink?"

"Don't know. Too early to say."

"I'll find out."

Strutt finished his lager and left. Casson went back to Mount Street to instruct Mrs. Baker.

Her reports were tantalizing. The young man and the girl continued to quarrel. A nice, quiet girl, commented Mrs. Bake., Lo land Scots and a decent sort. Macfarlane saw Perry almost every evening, always in a pub. He drank more than Perry and he drank more than was good for him. From his daily cleaner Mrs. Baker learned that her young man never had a drop of drink in the house and, as far as she knew, never drank anyway.

For Casson and Strutt the strain grew. Obviously the moment was approaching ripeness but Strutt counselled delay. Let the plum drop, he urged. Casson was compelled to agree.

Strutt's reports on Perry produced only one new factor. He went to Brighton for the day. He took a room in the same hotel. He stayed in his room the whole time. He travelled back to London in the evening. It was identical with the outing which he had made before he blackmailed Mrs. Gordonstoun.

Later that week Mrs. Baker returned to Mount Street at a quarter to one, smelling strongly of port but completely sober.

"Had a regular do, they did, sir," she related. "Thought I'd better come and tell you. The two gentlemen sat in the saloon bar from seven till half-past ten and had to see each other home. That's to say Mr. Perry saw the your. gentleman home because he wasn't so unsteady, sir. He stays in the young gentleman's flat till a bit before midnight. He comes out and shuts the door. Least, he starts to. He fumbles in his sleeve . . ."

"In his sleeve?"

"In both sleeves. He looks fussed. He hunts in his pockets. He brings a handkerchief out of his trousers pocket, looks at it for a moment, and tucks it up his sleeve. He shuts the door. He goes off to the Underground at Piccadilly. Sober as a judge he was then. Least, that's how he looked."

It seemed as though Macfarlane was breaking at last.

Casson tossed in bed, listening to the wind sighing in Farm Street Gardens. Why was Perry fussed about his handkerchief? He obviously did not want to blow his nose and, if he had left it in the flat he could have got it back from Macfarlane the next day. Unless there was some reason why it shouldn't be left there. What reason? Something had happened.

He woke early and was out of the flat before breakfast. He was heavy with doubt, certain that somehow he and Strutt had miscalculated. He walked quickly to Shaftesbury Avenue, found the apartment house in which Macfarlane lived, and went in.

He stopped on the fourth floor. There was a smell of gas. He sniffed and raced up the last flight. The smell got stronger. He found the door and hammered on it. There was no reply. He bent down to sniff at the keyhole and recoiled. He hammered on the door again, then turned to run down the stairs and fetch the porter.

He got down two flights when he met a stout, red-cheeked woman puffing her way up.

"Are you Mr. Macfarlane's —do you clean for him?" he demanded.

"Yes."

"Give me the key," he said. "Something's happened."

Casson grabbed it and opened the door. He choked.

"Stay in the hall," he shouted behind him, groping his way into a dark room beyong it and switching on the lights. He saw a door ahead of him. He wrenched the handle, opened it and rushed in. He tripped and fell with a crash against the bed, coughing with the cloying intensity of the smell. He staggered into the other room, took a deep breath, and went back into the bedroom, making a rush at the window. He found it, ripped back the flimsy curtains, and flung up the bottom sash. Daylight and fresh air flooded in.

He took one look at the rumpled bed and a second at the fireplace. But the cleaner had followed him, coughing continually, and was lumbering towards the gas fire.

"Don't touch it!" Casson yelled. He pulled his handkerchief out of his pocket, wound it round his hand, gripped the gas-tap by its edges, and turned it off.

"Out of here! Quick!" he ordered the woman.

He turned towards the bed. Macfarlane lay there, fully dressed, his tie pulled down from his throat, tousled, unshaven, sprawling.

Casson bent over him and felt for his heart. He straightened up and walked carefully back to the door. Jim Macfarlane was not only tousled; he was also dead.

Casson is convinced Macfarlane was murdered. Don't miss tomorrow's installment of Small Venom.

Builders Look For Steel Plane

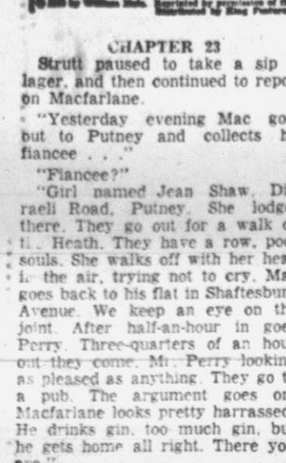

NEW YORK (AP)—Tooling engineers in the aircraft industry are dreaming up new ways to shape and fabricate steel to build an all steel plane capable of breaking the thermal barrier where aircraft must encounter extremely high temperatures.

"Steelways," official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said that at speeds of 2,000 miles per hour, many designers are convinced that steel is the only material known that can withstand the scorching 600 degrees that weakens the structural parts holding the wings stiff and the fuselage together.

The magazine said that it is almost a certainty that future commercial airlines, capable of flying from New York to Los Angeles in 90 minutes, will be all steel.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Advances by steels and aircrafts paced the stock market to slightly higher ground early this afternoon.

Leading stocks showed gains ranging from fractions to more than 2 points as volume increased over yesterday.

But losses o fl or 2 points also appeared among pivotal issues and the rise was a thin one on average. The market was mixed at the start although the steels and aircrafts were ahead from the opening.

Foreign uncertainties, high interest rates and scarce money combined with tax-loss sales as the yearend neared were restraining influences on investors, according to Wall Street observers. But encouragement was lent by favorable fourth quarter economic prospects reported by the Commerce Department.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube advanced beyond 2 points and Bethlehem past a point while U.S. Steel picked up a fractional gain.

Douglas Aircraft retained an early advance of close to 3 points. United Aircraft and Glenn L. Martin rose a point or better. But Curtiss - Wright dropped a point as news came of its higher dividend. It rose 1¾ yesterday, apparently in anticipation.

Aside from New York Shipbuilding which dropped nearly 5 points in further profit-taking after its leap of 18⅞ Monday, other of the recently active shipbuilding shares did little.

Oils with big resources in the Middle East were again depressed as Royal Dutch dropped more than 2 and Gulf Oil a major fraction. Standard Oil (New Jersey) picked up a small fraction.

Pivotal rails showed little change. Southern Railway added a fraction.

Both Kennecott Copper and Anaconda eased a bit as custom smelters cut the price of refined copper for January delivery. But Magma Copper reversed the trend with a gain of more than 2 while International Nickel was up a fraction.

Gainers included American Telephone, Philco, U. S. Rubber, American Cyanamid and Loew's. Motors were steady.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 20 cents to $175.30 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers weak and unsettled, farm price 15 to 16, f.o.b. plant 16¾ to 17½.

Raleigh eggs steady, A large 40-42; Asheville eggs steady, A large 43-45, mostly 43; Charlotte eggs steady following increase, A large 41.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—Hog prices steady to 25 lower. Tops of 15.25 to 15.75 at Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel, Kinston and Smithfield; 15.00 to 15.75 at Rocky Mount; 15.75 at Hillsboro; 15.50 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Castle Hayne, Elizabethtown, Micro and Mount Olive; 15.25 to 15.50 at New Bern, Benson, Bahunta, Scotland Neck and Jackson; 15.25 at Rich Square, Lumberton, Bailey, Blackmans Crossroads, Dunn, Clarkton, Whiteville, Newton Grove, Mount Gilead, Siler City and Kenly; 15.00 at Farmville and Shallotte.

The only sun-cured tobacco market in the world is in Richmond, Va.

Three Gifts For The Art Society

The East Carolina Art Society on Thanksgiving received three gifts from John Scott Thomas of Rocky Mount dedicated "to the East Carolina Art Society with sincere hope that it will become a vital cultural force in our section of the State."

A dozen of Thomas' own World War II drawings of the 93rd USN Constr. Btn. in the Southwest Pacific pictures life from the arrival of the landing craft to the final rest of a row of crosses beside a chapel.

The second of Thomas' gifts is a 200 page illustrated work on Veuillard by Roger-Marx, published in New York in 1946. The book is a critique of one of the less well known French "Moderns."

"Designing Tapestry" by Jean Lurcat, 1950, London, offers 60 pages of text and illustrations of antique and modern tapestries.

One Final Fling Before Leaving

The "goatman" had one final fling in Greenville this morning before shoving off for a three-day visit to Beaufort County.

The wandering heardsman rode into town on a taxi from his camp on the Highway 264 by-pass for a king-size breakfast at Jim's Quick Lunch. He had sausage, a couple of eggs and coffee before returning to his 25 goats. He failed to attract much of a crowd in the restaurant but had to do a lot of talking to get away from a curious group that surrounded him after he left the restaurant.

He returned to his goats via taxi.

Missing Verb Is Worth $14,800

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—A missing verb has netted Luther Reed $14,800.

The verb was omitted in a sentence of the will left by Reed's wife, who died in January. The sentence said: "He did not anything I had so I will him $5."

Orphans Court Judge James Brady ruled yesterday that the will didn't stand because of the missing verb. Reed got $14,805.

Crisis Affects Mission Work

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP)—The Middle East crisis has seriously compromised American missionary work in Egypt. The secretary of the Near East committee of the National Council of Churches says.

Dr. Roland Scott of New York City told a foreign missions conference last night that no U. S. mission has yet closed, however.

Small Hitler?

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion appealed to the world today to "stop Nasser now."

Likening the Egyptian President to Hitler, he said methods applied by Egyptian authorities in expelling stateless Jews and depriving many others of Egyptian citizenship clearly recalls methods used by the Nazis.

Ben-Gurion told Parliament a number of Egyptian cars captured in Sinai bore the swastika marking and that an Arabic translation of "Mein Kampf" was found in the baggage of a number of Egyptian officers taken prisoner by the Israelis.

He presented a resolution, immediately adopted, expressing "profound shock at atrocities perpetrated against the Jews of Egypt by the Egyptian military junta and that country's dictator, who is trampling into the dust the rights of men."

The resolution was supported by deputies of all parties except three Communists.

ally inferior to rifles carried by the U.S. cavalry.

Pointing out that every Indian had to arm himself at his own expense — they had no ordance department — Vestal said it cost 20 buffalo robes or several horses to buy even a breech-loading rifle.

"Only rich Indians could afford repeaters, and rich Indians were no more numerous per capita than rich white men are."

Ammunition was so expensive that Indians with rifles conserved it for battle, and continued to hunt the buffalo with lance and bow and arrow.

Vestal said the Indian threat ended when the cavalry finally came up with rapid-fire Gatling guns and Hotchkiss cannon.

"The warriors could not face artillery, and a good thing, too," he said. "Man to man, too often the Indians matched the whites' firepower superiority with brains, cunning and straight shooting, and won. With the few guns they had, the Indians could shoot well."

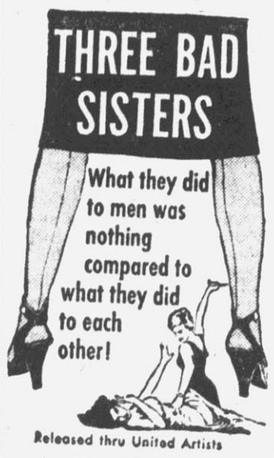

In two world wars and in Korea thousands of Americans Indians also proved that, if anything, they could fight better on foot than their forefathers had on

Two Vehicles In Minor Mishap

A minor traffic accident resulted in an estimated $39 damage to two vehicles on Cotanche here yesterday afternoon.

Investigating officers said a car driven by E. J. Harris, 25, of 1015 Fairfax Street backed into a car driven by Mrs. Janie Jones of 536 Cotanche Street as Mrs. Jones pulled into her driveway. Harris, the officers reported was backing out of a parking space on the street.

Switch Cheaper Than Psychology

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — County Supervisor Joseph N. Appleton made this suggestion during a discussion on the proposed hiring of a $1,104-a-month psychiatrist for the school system:

'It would be a lot cheaper to hire switches for the teachers."

The supervisors made no decision yesterday on the psychiatrist. But they didn't order any switches, either.

Annual Pre-Christmas Concert Set By Orchestra For Dec. 9

The East Carolina Orchestra will present its annual pre-Christmas concert Sunday afternoon, December 9, at 3:30 in the McGinnis auditorium

The fifty-piece ensemble, composed of carefully selected musicians from East Carolina College and various towns in Eastern North Carolina, will play under its conductor Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, head of the department of music at the college, The public is invited to attend.

June Crews, senior from Creedmoor, will be soloist with the orchestra. She will sing "Hear Ye Israel" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio", from Verdi's "La Forza del Destino." Miss Crews last winter was soprano soloist in the annual presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" at the college and the following spring had a leading role in the college production of the popular musical "Oklahoma."

Donald Hayes, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina, will be guest conductor of the concert program and will direct the orchestra in the "Carmen Suite," No. 1, by Bizet. For the past three years he has been concert master with the orchestra. He is a graduate of New York University and of the Army Band School. The program will mark the first public appearance of the East Carolina Orchestra during the 1956-1957 school term. Now in its sixth season under the direction of Dr. Cuthbert, the ensemble has given each year a series of programs on the campus and has played in Washington, Jamesville, Farmville, and eleswhere.

Large Turnout To Inspect Bank

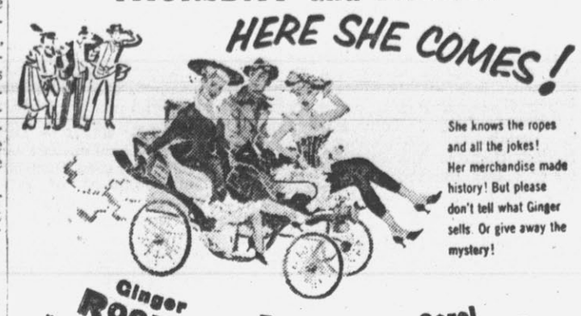

Approximately 1,000 people attended the open house of the State Bank and Trust Company here last night.

The occasion was in recognition of the 25th anniversary of the bank and the formal opening of the renovated, modernistic offices of the bank.

J. T. Marston Jr., president of the bank, expressed his appreciation for those who attended the opening. "We are pleased that so many people from Greenville and surrounding area came by to look at our new quarters," Marston said. "We sincerely appreciate the warm congratulations we have received from so many people of this area."

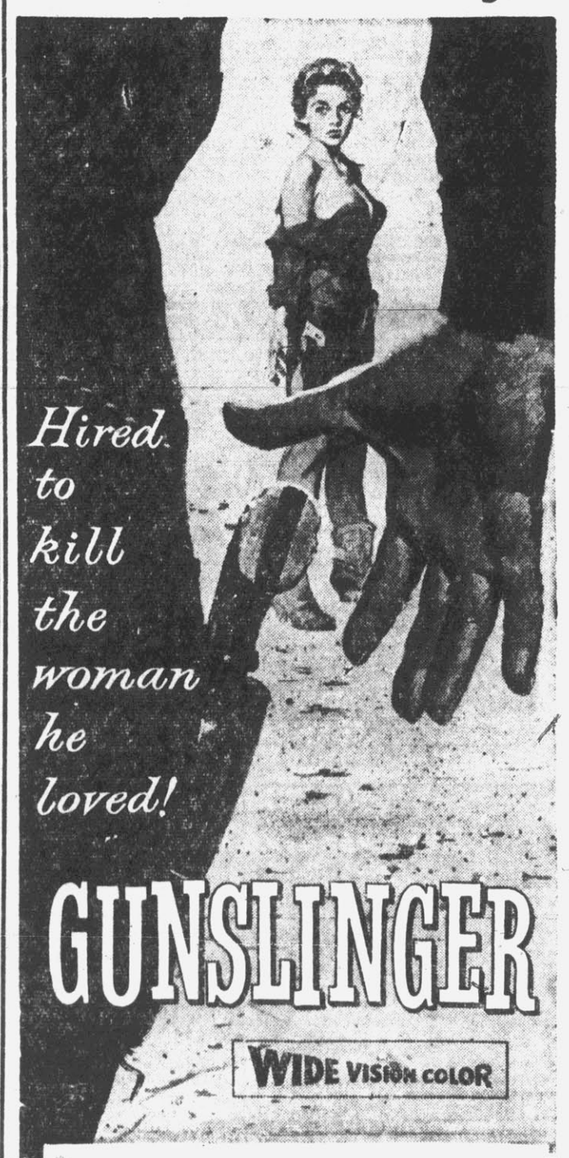

A huge iron chain, each link about three feet in length, was stretched by Washington's forces across the Hudson River to hold back successfully the British fleet in 1778. The links are now preserved at West Point.
