Coordinator Named To Assist In Hungarian Refugee Relief

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Tracy S. Voorhees, former Undersecretary of the Army, to coordinate the Hungarian refugee program.

French government had indicated willingness to do likewise. A statement of an impending withdrawal from Egypt would provoke a split in the ruling Conservative party.

First Crude Oil Since Suez Shut

LONDON (AP)—The first Middle East oil to be hauled around the Cape of Good Hope since the closing of the Suez Canal reached Britain today.

A spokesman for a British oil company said the additional cost of making the long trip around the Cape was about $5 a ton.

The gasoline shortage became the biggest topic of conversation in this country which starts rationing on Dec. 17.

Industry is already affected. At least two big automobile manufacturers have cut the work week. There is less money in the pay envelopes of thousands.

Owners of other factories say they may have to shorten the work week, or even close.

Dilemma As To U.S. Action On Oil Shipments

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration officials concerned with the petroleum shortages spreading rapidly in Western Europe because of the Middle East crisis are wrestling with a two-pronged problem.

On the one hand, there is deep concern at the widening split with Britain and France and a desire to demonstrate U.S. friendship and support for those U.S. Allies were possible.

On the other, there is fear that if U.S. oil supplies start moving to Europe in great volume the reduced supplies still going to Europe from Arab countries in the Middle East may be jeopardized.

Fresh urgency has been assigned to U.S. plans for oil deliveries from the Western Hemisphere to offset the grave shortage caused by the blocking of the Suez Canal and damage to pipelines which followed the British-French-Israeli attack on Egypt.

However, it is understood that London and Paris have been told that no such program can be set in motion until there is a definite public commitment that all British and French forces will be removed from the Suez Canal area.

This condition, of course, could be removed at any time by President Eisenhower if he should decide that immediate action was needed in the interest of preventing a further rupture in Allied relations.

An indication of Washington's concern over relations with Western Europe came from the State Department yesterday.

A spokesman denied that the United States is giving favorable consideration to any plan by which U.S. forces would be pulled out of North Atlantic Alliance countries in the foreseeable future.

There have been some rumors that this country might agree to such a move if Russia agreed to withdraw troops from her satellites.

Officials said the reason for the denial was that the United States does not want any of its allies to get the idea that American participation in the European defense system has been or will be in any way weakened.

Bureau Appeals To Farm People

"To protect ourselves on the National level in 1957 Farm Bureau membership is a must," Alonza C. Edwards, past president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau told interested Pitt farm leaders last night.

"It is time for farm people of Pitt County, North Carolina and America to sit down and study the economic problems of the segment of our society that produces food and fiber," Edwards declared.

The meeting was called last night to discuss Pitt County's lagging Farm Bureau membership drive. Those attending received a report which showed that only 2,616 members have been written this year. Pitt's quota is 4,500.

"We as farm people, might as well recognize that the over-all picture for agriculture does not look good, but by working together we will have the opportunity to try to solve our own problems," Edwards stated last night.

"We live in a world where all segments are organized, each to protect his own interest. This is self-preservation.

"Collectively we must make up our minds to fight for ourselves or be prepared to accept the crumbs. If we don't get our heads together we will not have a tobacco program in two years. And without a tobacco program you and I can't grow tobacco long."

Edwards pointed out that the North Carolina state quota for this year is 53,000 Farm Bureau members. At last count only 47,000 members had been signed up.

"Unless we can get these additional 6,000 before the National convention we stand a good chance of losing North Carolina's representative on the National board of directors," he declared.

"We would not have been able to keep our tobacco program without the aid of the American Farm Bureau," he continued. "They have supported us all the way through because we have showed them that we had an interest in the overall agricultural program. In unity we will keep that support, but we must have members."

New President Speaks Noel Lee, newly-elected president of the Pitt Farm Bureau, expressed appreciation for the honor bestowed upon him. He asked each Farm Bureau member to pledge his support and cooperation. B. M. Lewis of Farmville was introduced to the group as a recently elected vice-president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau.

Unless the county's quota is met this will be the first year that Pitt had attended a State convention without its quota. To count in the drive, members signed up must be reported by Friday afternoon.

Students Agree Sponsor Family Of Hungarians

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—Davidson College students have voted unanimously to adopt a Hungarian family for their 1956 Christmas Fund project.

The program is aimed at bringing the family to the Davidson community where they would be given security, a home and friends.

These obligations must be met. 1. The college will be responsible for the family's transportation from Camp Kilmer, N. J., to Davidson.

2. The government must be assured that a home has been made available.

3. The government must be assured a job has been procured for the wage earner.

Youth Admits He Set Big Blaze

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Investigators say that an Indian youth has admitted setting a fire which caused 11 deaths and burned over more than 44,000 acres before it was controlled.

U.S. Forest Service investigator Elwood Stone reported that 16-year-old Gilbert Paipa told him: "I just got a crazy idea to throw a match in the grass to see if it would burn."

The fire started on the campsite in the Inaja Indian Reservation where Paipa's family has lived for two generations. Paipa was booked on suspicion of arson.

Friends Of Scouting Honored At District Meet

Tributes were paid lay people in Scouting in a series of addresses and three Green Band awards were announced at the Pitt District annual Recognition dinner, held last night in the Greenville Moose Lodge.

New officers of the district for 1956 were installed, also.

Addressing the assemblage of near 150 adult leaders and Boy Scouts from over Pitt county, the Rev. E. G. Purcell of the Methodist Church, Ashoklee, declared that the Scout movement provides the privileges of a free country in its program of character-building, citizenship and craftsmanship.

"Actually in Scouting, the community is working together as boys, parents and unit leaders," Purcell said. He noted that life is beset by difficulties and disappointments, but life also is conquered by attitudes as well as by actions.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. J. Malloy Owen, minister of the St. James Methodist Church, who described the interest of Scouts in his church-sponsored troop to launch a clothing collection campaign for the relief of Hungarian peoples.

The address followed the installation of new officers with District Executive Carl Knott including Erskine Duff of Greenville as council dinner will be held at the Greenville Moose Lodge on January 16.

In ceremonies conducted by Duff, the Green Band Ward was presented by Wilbur C. Ormond of Ayden, Erzell S. Webb and James W. Butler of Greenville. This award, instituted in the Pitt District in 1954, is the highest recognition to a Scouter on the district level. Assisting in the ceremonies Wednesday night were Lloyd Worthington of Winterville, Wyatt Brown and Sherman Parks of Greenville, previous award winners, and a group of Eagle Scouts, Duff, B. B. Drum of Greenville, and Ed Nash War-

Macedonia Church Scene Of Home-Humphrey Vows Sunday

AYDEN—Macedonia Methodist Church of the Ayden charge was the scene Sunday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Humphrey of Ayden, and Dewey Wilson Horne, son of the late D. L. Horne and Mrs. J. W. Sautler of Kinston.

The double ring vows were pledged before a setting of banked greenery of glazed magnolia leaves and palms, accentuated with floor baskets of white gladioli and fern. White tapers in branched candelabra burned in the background. The four o'clock ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. D. H. Smith of Jacksonville.

Prior to and during the ceremony, Mrs. Berkeley Rutledge, pianist, played a program of nuptial music. She accompanied her daughter, Miss Bonnie Rutledge, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The princess bodice was modeled with hand clipped neckline and the sleeves were full length ending with bridal points at the hands. The bouffant skirt was in tiers of lace and tulle.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a bandeau of pearls. She carried a white Bible, gift of the bridegroom, with a showered purple-throated orchid.

Miss Jeannette Harris of Ayden, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length orchid gown with circular skirt, fitted bodice and off the shoulder neckline.

Mrs. Stuart Smith was bridesmaid. She wore pink over taffeta fashioned similar to that of the honor attendant. Upon her arrival at the chancel, the soloist, Miss Rutledge also wearing pink, stepped into the position of a second bridesmaid.

The attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations, pom-poms and net with stems of chrysanthemum.

J. W. Sautler served as best man. Ushers were William R. Smith and Stuart Smith, both uncles of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a delphinium blue suit, with blue feather hat, black bag and shoes and a corsage of pink carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom wore taupe with brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Granger High School in Kinston. The bride was employed as secretary and bookkeeper for the Ayden Builders and Supply Company, and her husband is a member of the United States Air Force, stationed at Amarillo Air Base, Texas.

For traveling the bride wore a charcoal ensemble with angora trim, white angora hat and black accessories, completed with the orchid from her Bible.

French Student Speaks To Club

Mademoiselle Monique Forge, a French student whose home is in Tunis, Tunisia, Africa, was guest speaker for the Sans Souci Book Club meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Mademoiselle Forge is attending East Carolina College on a scholarship from the International Institute of Education and is assisting with French classes in the foreign language department at ECC.

The speaker stressed the kindness and friendliness of the college campus and also the close relationship between the faculty members and students here as compared to the more formal type education in other countries.

She talked on the "Value of the Foreign Exchange Program in the Modern World." Two aims of this program are to meet and exchange opinions and to promote friendly relations, she said. She also stressed the value of the United States Information Service which has offices in many cities around the world.

The agricultural and economic life in Tunisia was discussed. Dr. Kathleen Stokes of the ECC faculty introduced the guest speaker.

Mrs. J. T. Cheatham, president, presided over the business session. The members voted to give a Christmas box to a needy family.

Two announcements were made concerning the St. James Methodist Church bazaar to be held Dec. 5. It was also announced that the East Carolina Orchestra Concert would be held Dec. 9.

Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. B. B. Sugg entertained the club at Mrs. Wilson's home on East Fifth Street.

White gladioli were used to decorate the living rooms.

WRONG ADDRESS
HOLLINS, Va. (AP)—Hollins College received a six-page announcement from the Navy Department in Washington describing openings for Civil Service positions. Lydia Wooten Class Meeting

The November meeting of the Lydia Wooten Class of Jarvis Memorial Church was held Monday night at the home of Mrs. Walter Cherry. Assisting as co-hostesses were Mesdames Paul Batchelor, John Karsnak, W. J. Bundy, Jack Moye, Francis Anora and J. L. Simmons.

Mrs. Paul Batchelor gave the devotional and used as her theme "Dedication of Self." She read from St. Luke, Chapter 10, Verses 1-9, and from the "Manual of Prayer."

Mrs. M. W. Maxwell reported on dried arrangement made by Mrs. George Staples for the class to present to Mrs. J. C. Wooten for Thanksgiving.

The class was reminded to send a remembrance to Mrs. Emma Bell, a former member who has moved. It was voted that the December meeting would be held on the 17th because of the Christmas holidays.

The president stated that the class would have charge of the devotionals in the sanctuary during the month of February and volunteers were asked for this duty.

The new yearbooks were distributed and Mrs. T. F. Smaw was given a rising vote of thanks for having presented these to the class.

She stated that Mrs. Annie Turner Briley assisted her and the secretary was asked to send Mrs. Briley a card with a small remembrance for her part.

The class voted to buy a reference book to be used in the classroom.

Mrs. Maxwell was appointed to select a Christmas gift for Miss Hooper, the class teacher.

The class voted against serving a dinner on December 5th because of the short notice.

It was decided that a family would be taken at Christmas to be helped and Mrs. J. L. Simmons is to report on this at the December meeting.

Mrs. Batchelor introduced Mrs. P. A. Jordan who gave the program. She brought to the class samples of some of her hobbies which included rug making, china, picture and Toie painting, knitting and needle point.

Refreshments served during the social period were gingerbread with whipped cream, nuts and coffee.

Mrs. W. J. Bundy won the cake made and given by Mrs. Francis Anora.

MAKE BAZAAR PREPARATIONS—Members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Saint James Methodist Church meet to work on items for the church bazaar scheduled for December 5. Describes World Tour For Sappho Book Club Meet

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr. was hostess to the Sappho Book Club at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Upon arrival the members and guests were served Russian tea with party sandwiches, cookies, fruit cake and nuts. The home was decorated with fall arrangements for the occasion.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, who was introduced by the hostess, gave an illustrated review of her trip around the world, emphasizing the island of Bali and India. She brought examples of handicraft that she had bought on her trip and showed slides of the scenery.

"Bali," Mrs. Moore said, "is culturally and economically one of the most important islands of Indonesia. It is largely mountainous and very beautiful. The Balinese are known for their physical beauty and high level of culture."

Examples of their wood carving and weaving were shown.

By showing slides, and Mrs. Moore's own description, the group was taken on a trip through India, visiting New Delhi, the capital; Calcutta, the largest city; and the city of Banaras on the Ganges River, India's leading pilgrimage center. Of particular interest was the view of Sacred Ghat at Banaras where the people go to wash away their sins, cremate the dead, worship and pray at this place where the Ganges has obtained its greatest sanctity.

Following the program Mrs. Aubrey Taylor, president, presided over a short business session. Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned. Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. S. E. West and Mrs. J. R. Jackson.

Murphy-Harper Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Barbara Anne Harper, daughter of Mrs. William Owen Hart of Ayden and Thomas Herman Harper of LaGrange, to Patrick Joseph Murphy III of Norfolk, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Henry Murphy of Astoria, Long Island, New York, took place Nov. 27 at two o'clock in the afternoon at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas J. Walsh, pastor of the church.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, William Owen Hart, the bride wore a waist length wedding gown of white chantilly lace over satin, fashioned with a jacket of lace with long sleeves pointed over the wrists, tight fitting bodice and bouffant skirt.

Her finger ring veil of illusion fell from a crown headpiece of matching lace and tulle and she carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered chrysanthemums.

Miss Cecile Faye Harper of Norfolk was maid of honor. She wore a waist length gown of aqua tulle, fashioned with moulded bodice arranged with a matching net stole and bouffant skirt. She wore an arrangement of fresh flowers in her hair and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

John James Murphy, USA, of Astoria was best man for his brother.

After the ceremony, a reception was given.

Dr. Fuller Clio Speaker

Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell was hostess to the Clio Book Club at her home on Evans Street Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements of flowers were placed throughout her home.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. J. L. Winstead, Mrs. Matt Long, Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mrs. C. J. Goodman, Mrs. T. Y. Wagner, Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. Joe Moyer, Mrs. Jimmy Jenkins, Miss Eliza Moore, and Mrs. Hannah Richardson.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Rose Fambrough, president, at which time a committee was appointed to investigate a Christmas opportunity for the club. Announcements were made concerning bazaars to be sponsored by the St. James Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service on Dec. 5 and the Home Economics Department of East Carolina College on Dec. 6.

In relation to the last program which was on the United Nations, Mrs. Jake Hadley brought to the club's attention a book, "Ride With the Sun," which has been published by the U. N. Women's Guild.

It is a compilation of folk tales and stories from all countries of the U. N. and would be particularly interesting to children. Since all proceeds from this book go for children's work of the U. N., Mrs. Hadley suggested that it would be an ideal Christmas present for children.

Following this, Mrs. James Moyer presented Dr. Frank Fuller, a member of the Department of Education of East Carolina College, who spoke on "Mental Health." Dr. Fuller approached his subject first from a general viewpoint, explaining that good mental health is simply a state of general satisfaction within oneself, that of a productive, well adjusted person.

He pointed out that the extent of mental illness presents a most pressing problem today, giving such statistics as one out of every 12 children born this year will need to spend some time in a mental hospital during his lifetime. After this short general discussion, Dr. Fuller spoke specifically concerning the Mental Health Clinic in Pitt County and the Mental Health Association, giving the function of each of these.

He especially emphasized how fortunate the community is to have the Clinic in Pitt County, and gave four specific things that lay people can do to promote good mental health: (1) Be an active member of the Mental Health Association; (2) Understand and learn more about the growth and development of children; (3) Resolve to understand people's behavior rather than be critical of it; (4) Learn more about good mental health practices and use them.

Mrs. Shackell then invited her guests into her dining room, where, from an appointed table, she was assisted by Mrs. James Moyer, Mrs. Helen White Hawes and Mrs. Rose Fambrough in serving a salad course and coffee.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left by motor for a wedding trip through the mountains of North Carolina. Upon their return they will reside in New York.

Hobbies Topic At Book Club

Mrs. Hazel Jordan was guest speaker at the Semi-Century Book Club when it met at the home of Mrs. Norman Little on Tuesday evening.

"Everyone needs a hobby and you don't have to look far to find it," Mrs. Jordan told the group. The speaker displayed several lovely Bernat Latch Hook No. 1 Frame rugs that she is working on at present. She also exhibited hand crocheted stoles and needlepoint along with china painting and doll painting.

At the close of the meeting the hostess invited those in attendance into the dining room where Mrs. Russ served punch and the guests helped themselves to dainty party sandwiches, cakes and cookies. A holiday motif was carried out in the table decorations.

Mrs. Clay Burnett and Mrs. Charles Hudson presented plans for the club's annual Christmas dinner which will be held on December 8 at the home of Mrs. Ashley Hudson.

At the close of the meeting the hostess invited those in attendance into the dining room where Mrs. Russ served punch and the guests helped themselves to dainty party sandwiches, cakes and cookies. A holiday motif was carried out in the table decorations.

Madrid Fashions Revert To 1600s

MADRID (AP)—To be in fashion in Spain in the winter of 1956—and particularly if it's after five—you have to date yourself circa 1600.

Jose Maria Marbel, young Madrid designer, takes you right back to the universities of medieval Spain by basing his entire collection on the "eslavina," a short cape worn by students here during the middle ages.

Made of velvet and brocade for evening wear and fashioned of tweed, fur or fleecy wool for daytime, the student cape lent an indisputable Spanish flavor to the collection unveiled here recently. Scarcely a dress walked alone without being topped by an adaptation of the "eslavina."

Different in cut from the capes that swept the Paris openings, Marbel's "eslavinas" were cut close to the body in front and flared into fullness in the back. Some of them sported giant, loose collars, lending them the cocoon-type look.

In fact, Senorita Madrid certainly will be cozy and snug this winter if she follows Marbel's advice. Almost every one of his coats and suits were fur-lined and definitely fur-trimmed. Many of his dress-coat ensembles featured hamster fur lining, reminiscent of grandfather's winter coat.

One of the most attractive creations shown was a stone-grey herringbone tweed suit topped with a hipbone-length "eslavina" lined in Black Persian lamb and topped with a square-brimmed fur topper.

The Moorish influence was apparent in Marbel's festive dresses. Adaptations of the harem's skirt appeared in every one of his chifon gowns. All of these were also highlighted by giant roses veiled with the transparent material.

United Nations Work Discussed At Class Meeting

Mrs. Joe Taft was hostess to the members of the Ada Cherry Sunday School Class Monday evening.

Mrs. G. B. Starling gave an interesting and informative program of the United Nations. Mrs. Starling had taken a six-day study tour of the United Nations and she impressed upon the group the vital importance of every department of the United Nations and how it is contributing to world peace and international friendship. She also pointed out things that individuals can do to help promote world friendship and understanding between nations.

Pupils Observe Education Week

Pactolus School observed American Education Week by sending letters of invitation to the parents to visit the school in order to see and understand what the children are learning and at the same time become better acquainted with the teachers.

In some of the grades, the children wrote personal invitations to their parents and received several responses. Posters and drawings were displayed to emphasize the importance of American Education Week, with one large poster being placed in the front hall.

Mrs. Alcorn's seventh grade had a Thanksgiving scene in the display case in the front hall. The background scenery was painted in tempera with the fort and heavily laden table made of cardboard. The foods were made of modeling clay. Dolls representing Pilgrims and Indians were also included.

Open house was held throughout the entire school. Each room had displays showing what was being studied and the projects each child had done.

Notch the edges of thin rounds of raw carrot and cut a tiny round out of each center; pull a small sprig of parsley through the round. Result: Beguiling garnish for appetizers, salads, fish or meats.

The Greenville Patriots Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will plant crane myrtles on the highway leading from Greenville to Farmville on next Thursday. The committee in charge of planting is composed of Mrs. Travis Hooker, Mrs. E. L. Baker and Mrs. Jake Higgs.

On Tuesday afternoon the Round Table Club met with Mrs. Closs Hearne. The club decided to send 20 Christmas stockings to Oteen, also to give library donation now instead of in the spring as usual. The business session was closed and the program turned over to Mrs. W. C. Vincent. Mrs. J. E. Winslow read a very interesting paper on "The Conquest of the Peaks." At the conclusion of the program, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Harris, a guest for the afternoon, served a delicious salad course.

Industrial Development Is Waiting

Early in October representatives of various communities of Pitt County met with representatives of the County Board of Commissioners to discuss possibilities of a county-wide industrial development program for Pitt County. An unanimous request on the part of the communities present was made to the County Commissioners to appoint from the county a committee to study the proposals and make recommendations to the Board of Commissioners.

So far as we have been able to learn no such committee has been appointed by the County Commissioners. Perhaps the matter was overlooked by the Commissioners at their regular November meeting when more pressing matters in the county's tax office required their full attention.

At any rate, the Commissioners should delay no longer than absolutely necessary in appointing their committee to study the matter and make recommendations concerning a county-wide industrial development program. The Commissioners hold another of their monthly meetings on Monday and should consider the matter at that time.

The idea of a county-wide tax supported industrial development program for Pitt County appears a logical approach to the county's industrial development needs provided a sound, feasible program can be worked out. By appointing a representative committee composed of citizens from the various parts of the county, the Commissioners can afford themselves with a group which can investigate such programs which already in operation in North Carolina and at the same time gain a cross-section of the feeling of the people of Pitt toward such a program.

Although the idea of using tax money to promote industry is new in Pitt County, the principle of using tax money to boost the general economic conditions of the county is by no means new. The local agricultural extension program which has meant so much to the economic progress of Pitt for many years has been made possible at least in part by local tax funds.

Is it not logical therefore, that a tax supported industrial development program for the county will bring still further important economic advances to Pitt which will benefit all the people of the county as well as the county government itself?

Speakership Fight Briefly Deferred

By LYNN NISBET
SPEAKERSHIP — The deferred convening date of the General Assembly has relieved the usual tension at this season over the House speakership. The caucus to select the presiding officer of the 1957 House will be held on Tuesday night, February 5, instead of January 8 due to the constitutional amendment ratified on November 6 changing the convening date from Wednesday after the first Monday in January to Wednesday after the first Monday in February.

Because of this extra month the two avowed candidates for Speaker are not campaigning with the intensity usual in the weeks following the election.

The race is between Reps. Kemp Doughton of Allegheny and George Uzzell of Rowan. Each claims sufficient pledges of support to assure election. That means both are counting on some of the same people.

The east-west rotation has been respected for many years in the choice of Speaker. This time the office goes to the west.

Establishment of the State ABC system in 1937 the issue of a state-wide referendum on local option on the legal sale of liquor has been important, if not controlling, in the speakership selection. For a long time the ABC counties were all in the East. They exercised large influence by trading with western counties on election laws. Result of these pre-caucus agreements has been to settle the matter ahead of time. There has not been a real floor fight for Speaker since 1939.

Rowan is an ABC county and Uzzell has consistently supported the local option plan of legal liquor sales. Allegheny is a "dry" county and Doughton is a personal and political "dry." However, he declined four years ago and again in 1955 to introduce or sponsor a state referendum bill. He has recently assured colleagues in the House that while opposed to legal liquor in his own area he is impressed by testimony of ABC county members that conditions in their counties are better under that plan than the non-legal all-boothed day. He will add assurance that he will not "stack" committees or refer bills for the purpose of aiding or blocking action on liquor measures.

Eastern counties have lost some of their bargaining power by spread of ABC through the west. Election legislation retains its trading value. And a new factor has been added. Reapportionment of legislative membership may be a major issue of the 1957 session. That will be essentially a contest between the large fast-growing counties in the Piedmont and the small counties of the east and the mountains. Impact of reapportionment will be heavier in the Senate, but any legislation must have House approval. Make-up of the committees which will handle this item could well determine its fate.

The growing Republican strength in the counties which would gain representation under reapportionment has increased determination of the eastern counties to delay action as long as possible. The long standing sectional jealousy is supplemented by fear of partisan advantage for the Republicans.

The constitution requires re-appointment following every decennial census. The 1951, '53 and '55 sessions ignored this mandate. New effort will be made in 1957, but chances of success are not bright. Opponents point out that another reapportionment will be due in 1961 based on the 1960 count. Further shifts in population are expected and it might be that allocation now on basis of the 1950 census would make further change that soon more difficult. It might serve to perpetuate a greater injustice for another ten years.

Furthermore, it seems quite likely that North Carolina will lose a representative in Congress in the 1960 population count. Reduction of the number from 12 to 10 would require re-shuffling of every district, to some extent affecting every one of the 100 counties.

There are some who believe that because congressional redistricting may be necessary in four years, the reapportionment operation should be performed now. Other contend it will be better to take the patient to the operating room only one time for both. One shock might not be as hard on the patient as two so close together. Whether or not the subject develops a floor fight, it will be much discussed during the session.

SENATE — Even less has been heard lately about President pro-tem of the Senate than about the Speaker. Sen. Robert F. Morgan of Cleveland was first in the field as a active candidate. Sen. Claude Currie of Durham has considerable support for the post and Sen. Calvin Groves of Forsyth is willing.

Usually the office of president pro-tem is almost an empty honor. Only in the event of the death, resignation or promotion of the Lieutenant Governor, who is constitutional president of the Senate, does the post amount to much. The President pro-tem is second in line of succession to the governorship.

When Luther Hodges moved up from Lieutenant Governor to become chief executive, Luther Barnhardt, who had been elected for president pro-tem was elected President of the Senate. He succeeded to nearly all the honors and powers of Lieutenant Governor, except membership on certain boards specified by the constitution.

Barnhardt will preside over the next Senate as Lieutenant Governor, and the body will select one of its members as President pro-tem. Barnhardt will not be a member of the 1957 General Assembly. Whether he will take the oath as Lieutenant Governor prior to February 6 and call the Senate to order in that capacity, or let Secretary of State Thad Eure convene the body and take the oath with Governor Hodges and other officials next day has not been determined.

But Presley's brawls are common in any boozie palace from Boston's Scollay Square to L.A.'s Main Street. They are no classier than Humphrey Bogart's scraps with models over the possession of giant panda dolls.

If Elvis must box, we respectfully suggest that he perform on stage after suitable elimination bouts have been held and television rights have been sold to Ed Sullivan. Already he has the greatest bob-and-weave since Tony Canzoneri. The question is whether those glass hips will go ten rounds.

After The Parade Was Over

It was years ago that some acquaintance told me "this is a parade-loving town; if there's a parade, a crowd will turn out." If it was true then, it is even more so now. After last evening's spectacular show, local sponsors can count on an equally enthusiastic turnout next Yuletide season.

The crowd was composed of all age groups... one is never too young (some young mothers brought babes-in-arms) and never too old (though they must be young in heart) to enjoy a parade. A chill in the air failed to dampen spirits.

I had some secret qualms about staging the parade after sundown. Raleigh opened its Christmas season with an after-dark parade and The Raleigh Times editorially frowned on the results. Seems there was a traffic problem in addition to operating in the dark and the cold. The Times is calling for a morning parade next year.

But my doubts were set at rest; neither the hour nor the low temperatures kept people away. And the dispersal was about as it has always been.

The lead-off band and a couple units rolled on schedule, but there was a long wait for succeeding groups to follow up. After that one break in ranks, succeeding groups maintained close order.

Several years ago there was an unorganized campaign to "Put Christ Back In Christmas." It started rolling with only a modest push along the way and successive Yuletides have seen a growing religious trend. Local consciousness was reflected by several floats with religious motifs yesterday; it seemed more noticeable than in preceding years... or perhaps I was more conscious of it.

Bands make a parade, and we had them. I lost count along the line, but eleven were scheduled to march. Some organizations made a considerable effort to participate and rode quite a distance to entertain our watchers. They added a lot to whatever success can be attributed to the event. And official "thank you's" might well carry with them the unspoken but popular sense of appreciation.

Most oft-heard comment after the parade: "My feet are numb."

Notebook On Life

Utilize That Traffic Delay

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One test of a man's character is what he does during a traffic jam.

Do you remain a fuming prisoner in such a situation? Or do you do this—the mark of the superior man—employ them for self-improvement and thus score a victory over time?

Many busy people complain the day isn't long enough for them to get done half the things they'd like to. They complain often that traffic jams cause them to waste more time than anything else, and usually add, "But there doesn't seem to be anything that can be done about it."

They are looking at the problem from a short-sighted angle. They look for a solution that will end traffic jams, which, since the world is getting more crowded every day, is manifest nonsense.

The dynamic approach is this: "Since traffic jams are here to stay, how can I use wisely the time I spend caught in them?"

Inspect a line of motorists in any traffic jam, and what are they doing? The odds are high that the great majority will be (1) futility blowing their horns, (2) cursing, (3) girl watching, (4) either dozing, listening to their wife, or both.

With the possible exception of girl watching, none of these activities fall into a constructive category. All the rest waste precious time and energy.

One might well ask defensively, "Well, just what do you expect me to do during traffic jams—go through college?"

As a matter of fact, why not? An average of 25 million Americans must waste at least 15 minutes a day in traffic jams. That comes to about 2,281,000,000 lost hours a year. Since a college student spends only about 7,200 hours on his studies in a four-year course, the time wasted by motorists each year in traffic jams would send 316,805 people through college.

Maybe the idea of going through college while your car is stalled doesn't appeal to you. But you can at least study a few correspondence courses on hour to get ahead on your job.

You can also even study for a new career while you are endlessly waiting for the car ahead to start. There are some jobs, of course, you can't practice while sitting in a stalled car—such as piano tuning, or should you yearn to be a lifeguard, the technique of rescuing a drowning person.

On the other hand, there are certain pursuits which can easily be mastered while sitting in a car waiting for the lights to change, e.g., opera singing, clarinet playing, ventriloquism, public speaking, song writing, and cheating at cards.

Traffic jams can also be utilized to improve one's culture. During the 91 hours a year the average man spends in them he can easily read all the books on the best seller list. One man who has to make frequent car trips across midtown Manhattan said that he went through the Encyclopedia Britannica in less than two years in this manner.

If one doesn't mind carrying a small bag, it is also easy to follow one's hobby during traffic jams, whether it be stamp collecting, quilting, or making bird cages.

I have heard of one man, a swimming pool salesman, who says he owes his success in life to traffic jam. Instead of calling at the home of prospects, he merely drives along until he comes to a good traffic jam, then parks, gets out and makes his sales pitch to the stalled motorists.

"They can't get away," he observed, "and you'd be surprised at how many guys caught in an automobile on a hot day jump at the chance to buy a nice cool swimming pool."

Opinions In Brief

Lieutenant General Leslie R. Groves, who headed the wartime Manhattan Project that produced the A-bomb and who has been intimately associated with atomic development ever since, recently had something important and authoritative to say about the atoms for peace program.

He reviewed what is being done in this and other countries to produce electric power with atomic fuel. He said that the Atomic Energy Commission is maintaining our leadership.

Then he advised that we "keep a sharp eye on those domestic politicians who bend their efforts toward keeping private industry out of the atomic field." (Industrial News Review)

Executive Shortage Is Coming

By ELMER ROESSNER
There's no turning back from the enormous business expansion program ahead. Contracts are signed for billions of dollars worth of new plant construction and machinery. Some commitments run for five or more years into the future.

Trying to slow down our industrial program would be like trying to land a jet plane on a small-town airport. Industry is already having serious difficulty in recruiting engineers and draftsmen to carry it on to its goals. Hiring agents hover around colleges. They are so desperate they hire the teachers as well as those they have taught.

Firms raid competitors. Higher salaries have become less of a lure, because they are already at the point where income tax collectors skim off so much. Companies now offer country club memberships and at least one is promising to throw in the Southern California climate.

MORE SERIOUS SHORTAGE
Critical though these shortages may be, an even more serious one is developing. That's the shortage of executive talent. Directors of expanding corporations are actually frightened over the scarcity of managerial talent. It's precious—and often cheap at $50,000 a year. This is especially true when executives must make instant decisions that can gain or lose a million dollars for the corporation.

It's significant that the Small Business Administration recently issued two "Management Aids for Small Manufacturers," dealing with the care and handling of executive talent. One deals with "Surveying and Controlling Executive Time," in which it is pointed out that eliminating time-wasting practices can save many dollars worth of talented time. The other is "Executive Incentives in Small Business." With suggestions for getting more out of present executives. Both leaflets are free for asking the SBA, Washington, D.C.

In another approach to the problem, William B. Given, Jr., board chairman of American Brake Shoe, says that most big companies and many small ones must turn to their own staffs for future managerial talent. "Executive Development, once largely a do-it-yourself affair, has become a top-priority project of progressive managements," he writes in the current issue of the American Management Association's "Review."

THE KEY TALENT
Ability to manage, rather than specialization in a particular field or operation, is key qualification of executives, he points out. A manager should specialize in managing, not in sales, purchasing or finance, he contends.

His own company, in an expansion that meant new plants, new products and new divisions, transferred a divisional controller into a sales management job, an assistant treasurer into director of medical and safety activities, and an engineer to purchasing agent and then to division presidency. Mr. Given's point: the managerial talents of these men were far more important than their specialized knowledge.

In searching for potential executives, he called attention to these qualities:

- Wisdom, also known as common sense.
- Integrity.
- Courage to gamble on a decision, even if it means the executive's job.
- Nerve to gamble on one's own people and to take the consequence.
- A deep interest in people.
- Imagination.

These qualities alone, he added, do not make an executive. "Depth of interest is the final requirement—the focus that bends all energies and all abilities toward a definite goal," he wrote.

If you see anybody like that, better hire or promote him.

FRENCH BOASTING OF BREWING SKILL

Most people think of champagne, vin, cognac, mark and calvados when they think of French beverages. But the French are great brewers. "France Actuelle" would have us believe. This French trade publication says the country has 300 breweries which fill most of the local demand and turned out $7,700,000 worth of export brews last year.

Frankfurter Dissents On A 'Standard'

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, erstwhile New Deal "brain trust" member, has expressed sharp disagreement with President Eisenhower's standards for qualifications of future members of the nation's highest tribunal.

The former Harvard professor's views, although generally unnoted by laymen, have caused a stir—legal and judicial circles. His challenge to President Eisenhower has led to an unofficial study of the bench performance of the contrasting Eisenhower and Frankfurter type of Federal jurists. Although it depends on the viewpoint, the White House wins by the comparison.

Justice Frankfurter, who leapt from a university law school classroom to the Supreme Court as a reward for his services to F.D.R., does not believe that a Supreme Court member should have had previous apprenticeship on a Federal or State court. PRESIDENT'S IDEA OF SUPREME COURT NOMINATIONS. President Eisenhower, apparently in an attempt to upset the Roosevelt-Truman tradition of naming political favorites and liberal ideologists, has declared publicly in favor of men who have enjoyed previous experience in the Federal judiciary or on the highest court of a state.

But writing a eulogy in a recent New York Times magazine section to the late Justice Louis Brandeis on the 100th anniversary of the latter's birth, Frankfurter takes clear issue with Ike's position. As evidence of his attitude, Frankfurter cites the brilliant career of Justice Brandeis, and, inferentially, of his own performance on the top bench.

LAW SCHOLARS VS. EXPERIENCED JUDGES Frankfurter also notes a characteristic of appointees like himself which is recognized by judges everywhere, but which few care to admit to publicly. It is that they cannot submerge their social, economic or political philosophy—in short, their pre-court coloration—and stick to the law and precedents in their decisions. Frankfurter has frequently been criticized in this respect.

A survey of Justice Frankfurter's Supreme Court activities, and this observation applies generally to many judicially inexperienced appointees, shows that they have several traits in common.

For one thing, they have less respect and regard for the validity of laws enacted by Congress and the State Legislatures. They are more inclined to favor a strong and dominant Federal Government, with less considerations for the rights of individuals and the states.

majority of only five have upset decisions by a larger number of judges on lower courts. Frankfurter has lined up with the overriding Stanley Reed, another political selection, had, with ten, more dissents with lower courts.

Ironically, for a Roosevelt New Dealer, Frankfurter also has a poor record in litigation involving civil rights. He stands fifth lowest in that regard. With the exception of former Justice Sherman Minton, the others who had a poorer record in this respect than Frankfurter had enjoyed no previous service on the bench.

Ike's two selections—Justices John Harlan and William J. Brennan—should serve to offset the Frankfurter influence. Both had previous judicial experience, and both have greater respect for laws, precedents and the reserved rights of citizens and the states.

Engine Changed In Record Time

LAREDO AIR FORCE BASE. Tex. — A six-man team of expert mechanics changed a jet plane's engine in less than seven minutes and claimed an official new national record.

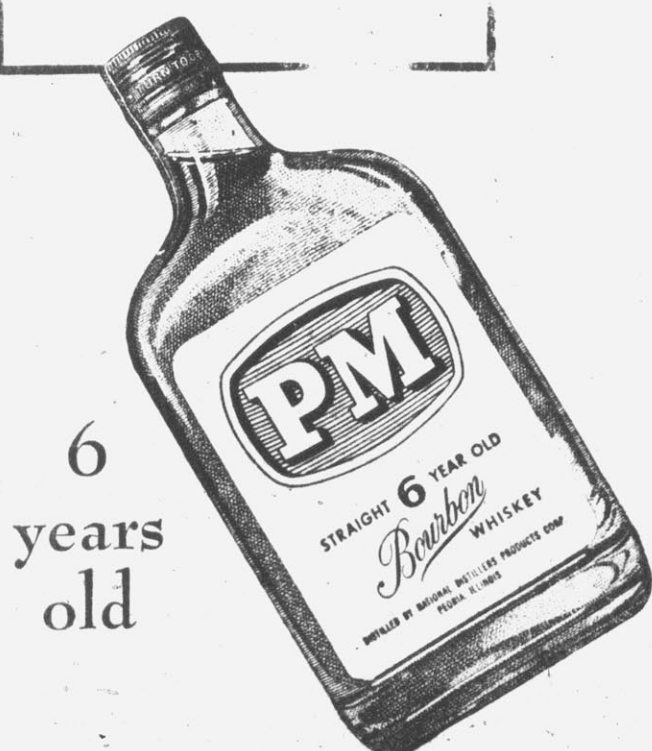

The team, headed by T. Sgt. James E. Ware, went to work the instant the pilot of the Lockheed T-33 trainer turned off his Allison J35 engine. Six minutes, 55 seconds later the same plane started up again with a new engine.

Ware's team placed second at Oklahoma City last September in the national engine change competition, won by a team from Webb Air Force Base, Big Springs, Tex., in a little more than eight minutes.

'Amazing' Drop In Highway Deaths Reported By Nat'l Safety Council

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's traffic death toll has taken a sharp drop—a turn the National Safety Council calls "amazing."

The council reported today that motor vehicle fatalities slumped 12 per cent in October.

It stated that the abrupt downturn halted a rise that had extended through 19 consecutive months.

Completely reversed the normal seasonal trend.

Set up a chance to keep the 1956 total from reaching record heights.

Deaths on the streets and roads in October numbered 3,450. That was 12 per cent under the number who died in October, 1955. And it was the lowest toll for any October since 1949.

"Not since January of 1948," the council said, "had traffic deaths been reduced as much as 12 per cent in any month."

Usually fatalities are higher in October than in any preceding month of a year.

Council statisticians said that, if the rising trend of the first nine months of this year had carried through October, the October death total would have been about 800 higher.

"Credit for this improvement," stated Ned H. Dearborn, council president, "must go mainly to the average driver and pedestrian, and certainly to alert public officials who were alarmed over the fact that the traffic accident problem was getting out of hand."

"We are getting action."

Traffic fatalities in the first 10 months of this year added up to 32,420. The total was 5 per cent higher than in corresponding period of 1955. But at the end of nine months it was 8 per cent higher.

Dearborn said the October improvement had not eliminated the possibility that the 1956 total would top the record of 39,696 killed in 1941. But he added:

"We are almost certain now that the toll will be well under 41,000. A couple of months ago it looked as if it might reach 42,000."

The council noted that the October decrease was spread out through all regions of the country.

Scars Of Forest Fires Spreading

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This year, as every year, great black, ugly scars are spreading farther and farther over the foothills and mountains of southern California.

The area of valuable watershed blackened by fire during this disastrous season now totals more than 70,000 acres and the holocaust proceeds. Every acre of watershed that is burned off adds to the flood danger when the rains come later in the winter.

Professional firefighters agree that California is probably the worst place in the nation for explosive brush and forest blazes. Sometimes sun-baked brush is so lacking in moisture there isn't anything to crackle—and the blazes race with a terrible swiftness and silence against the unwarned firefighter.

Last Sunday a trapped man died fighting a vast blaze in San Diego County's Cleveland National Forest that is still burning. The men were surprised by a wind shift, forced back against a cliff and boxed in.

"There was no confusion," said a survivor, Lionel Wood. "We did not know the fire was coming because it didn't make any noise."

Sudden wind shifts, or heat-produced turbulence called "fire storms," can be as bad. This was the cause of California's most deadly fire in October 1933. Twenty-eight firefighters were trapped and killed in a canyon in Los Angeles' Griffith Park, a large wooded area.

Fifteen men died July 12, 1953, in a Mendocino National Forest fire in northern California when a smoldering section of brush suddenly flared up.

In a survey of firefighters and officials throughout the state most of them emphasized that California, and particularly southern California, is a top fire hazard area because of dryness, wind conditions, widespread vegetation and steep topography.

There have been three major fires in southern California this season—the Cleveland forest blaze and two in the San Bernardino Mountains. One of the latter started Aug. 21, burned over 10,250 acres, and destroyed several structures. The other started Nov. 19, burned across 15,296 acres, razed several homes and structures and cost the life of one firefighter.

Out Of That Disorder Some 'Pure Confusion'

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—"Well," said our friend Percy the bartender, "the international situation looks a bit better today."

We said it didn't look much better to us.

"Why, of course it is," said Percy. "At last they've produced a little pure confusion out of all that disorder."

We asked what did he mean by that?

"Why, for one thing," Percy returned, "the Jordanians have decided to finish with that friendship pact they had with us. So now us British won't have to fight the Israelis in defense of the Jordanians whilst at the same time fighting the Egyptians on the same side as the Israelis. This is a big improvement."

We asked, had he noticed any other improvements?

"Certainly," said Percy, "you take anti-Americanism for instance."

"It used to be the Conservatives and their old colonial types that were putting up America as the world's great defender of freedom."

"At that time the Laborites, who are anti-colonial, were condemning you Yanks as dollar diplomats and enemies of the welfare state."

"This Suez do has changed all that. The Conservatives now say the whole thing was a plot by you dollar diplomats to grab all the oil markets. Meanwhile the Laborites are praising you for telling Britain to get out of poor little Egypt, thus upholding freedom."

"You might say," Percy summed up, "that what you Yanks have lost on the swings you have gained back on the roundabouts."

We asked, did he hear many complaints about the gasoline shortage?

"Quite a few," replied Percy, "but the ones that are complaining the loudest are the ones who couldn't afford to own a motor scooter if an inch of petrol fell daily at high noon, like rain."

"By the way," he added, "do the Americans think Eden has future?"

We said we would prefer not to make any statements which might get us interned as an enemy alien.

"Well," said Percy, "we have three schools of thought on that in the pub right now. Here in the saloon bar one school says Eden has upheld our honor and will come back from Jamaica still prime minister, while a second school says he has bungled everything and will come back from Jamaica as the ex-Prime Minister."

We asked, what about the third school?

"Some of those rough types in the public bar," said Percy, "are saying he won't even bother to come back from Jamaica, especially if it's a cold winter."

Ready To Give In To Vandalism

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Leonard Tunison of Oklahoma City is about ready to throw in the towel.

After vandals poured a mixture of molasses and oatmeal on his porch and parked car he installed a floodlight as a precautionary measure.

Now, he reports, his floodlight has been stolen.

Third Adoption By Jane Russell

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Jane Russell and her husband, former football hero Bob Waterfield, have adopted their third child.

The baby is a boy, as yet unnamed. The couple have a son and a daughter by previous adoptions. Proceedings in Superior Co. 4 were completed yesterday.

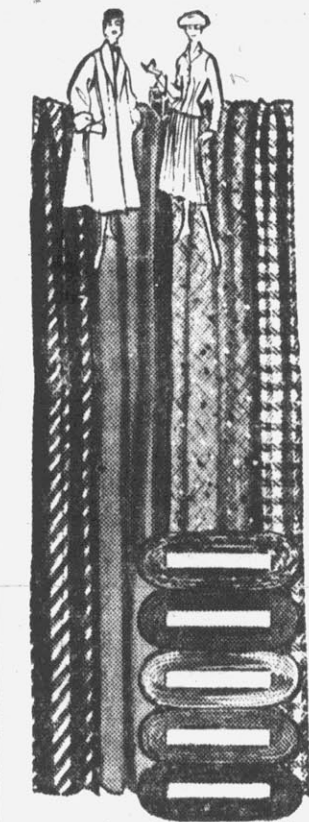

The first white girl born in New England was Elizabeth, daughter of Philip John Alden and Priscilla Mullens. Her grave is in Little Compton, R.I.

Post Office Pen Now Desirable

PITTSBURGH (AP)—How times change!

A few years ago most everyone complained about the scratchy pens in the post offices.

Today, postmaster James Smith of Pittsburgh complained that patrons have swiped 34 of the 200 new ball point pens he's distributed in the past month. Smith suggested it would be cheaper to buy pens because the thieves face a $500 fine or a year in jail if they're caught.

CHAPTER 24
The cleaner was gazing at the awkward heap on the bed. "What's happened to him, sir?" she gasped.

"There's been an accident," he said. "Go downstairs and fetch the porter. I suppose there is a porter?"

"Oh, yes." She sniffed, then started laughing.

"Well, you fetch him," said Casson.

He bent over, the bed and carefully turned the body. He tried to give artificial respiration, his eyes shut and his own breath coming bitterly against the reek of gas in the room, praying that by some miracle life might jump and move in the sluggish, unwieldy limbs. In the end, choking, he had to stop. He groped his way into the living room and sat down, his head bowed between his knees, searching for breath. Then he went back to the bedroom and began all over again. Once hope flared as he thought he saw the muscles of Macfarlane's mouth twitch and contract; but the hope died as quickly as it had come and he had to accept what he had known before — that it was too late.

Tenderly he laid the body back as it originally was, careful not to touch the medicine bottle lying on the bed. He looked round the room to note all the details and impress them on his memory, and went through into the livingroom. He wrapped his hand once again in his handkerchief, lifted the telephone receiver off its cradle, and dialed Strutt's number in Fulham.

"Macfarlane. Dead."
"Dead? How? How do you know?"
"Gas."
"Gassed himself?"
"No."
"Don't speak in riddles. What happened?"
"Macfarlane is dead," said Casson slowly and distinctly. "He did not commit suicide. He was murdered."
There was a pause at the other end of the line. When Strutt spoke again his voice was coldly matter-of-fact.

"Where are you?"
"In Macfarlane's flat."
"You're sure he's dead?"
"Yes."
"All right. I'll get a doctor along. I'll be with you. Don't let anyone in till I come." Strutt rang off.

There was a tapping. Casson went through the apartment and opened the door of the flat. The cleaner was half-turned away from him, talking to a sturdy, bullet-headed man with a red face and large ears. He wore a waistcoat but no jacket.

"Oo are you?" he demanded as Casson came out.

Casson eyed him with some distaste. Slowly he took out his gold cigarette case, selected a cigarette and lit it. Then, once more, he contemplated the truculent, red-faced man before him.

"What is your name?" Casson asked coldly.

The other hesitated.

"O'Connor, I'm the porter 'ere. But what I want to know is . . . 'There's been an accident.' The cleaner lumbered forward. "What is it, sir?" She tried to push past Casson but O'Connor seized her arm.

"Now then, Mrs. Queenleigh," he said sharply. "Don't you go rushing in. There's something fishy go-

The backyard swimming pool is giving air conditioning some lively competition in home improvement glamor. Of course, there aren't as many private swimming pools as year-round air conditioned homes, but the pools are increasing at a rate of about 30,000 per year. And what man can afford both of these luxuries at once?

Each of these modern refinements can cost about the same, although swimming pools usually run higher. You can't argue that it costs less to run a pool until you have tried it. The water cost may be low, but other liquids of bottled varieties seem to be needed. Friends get the idea that you asked them over to get wet both outside and in. The entertainment bill can be rugged.

If you're good with a pick and shovel, it might be possible to build a swimming pool on a do-it-yourself basis. One man built his for less than $200. It's poured concrete and measures 11 by 17 feet. In Alabama you can get a do-it-yourself kit for a pool measuring 20 by 40 feet for $1,475. But made to order pools usually run about $2,000 or $3,000.

This may seem strange, because when you build a house you can figure roughly that the inclusion of a basement will add only about $1 per square foot. This would make a 20 by 40-foot con-

Pool Troubles At Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—This desert resort, which claims to be the world's swimming pool capital with one for every 12 1/2 residents, has been having pool troubles. Examples:

A builder got a traffic citation for moving a "used swimming pool" down a main street, blocking motorists.

A burglar broke into a home via the pool, one of the type that are built half indoors and half out.

A householder reported his pool stolen. A 15-foot portable model, it had been lifted out of his backyard.

crete-lined hole in the ground cost about $800 instead of $3,000. But there are all kinds of pools.

Last spring Esther Williams demonstrated her prefabricated fiber glass swimming pool at the International Home Building Exposition in New York Collegium. Now she is making a personal appearance tour of backyards around the country and might have splashed in yours by this time.

You can have a concrete pool, a steel pool, a plastic pool, or an inflatable type, which is a big brother to the youngsters' wading pool. A big hole in the ground seems to be the one thing you need for this Hollywood touch. Forms for the concrete often are dispensed with. The sides of the hole are cut as straight as possible, welded wire reinforcement is erected, and concrete is sprayed over it by the gunite method.

One contractor with dealers scattered around the country has been offering a pool for about $1,600 with no money down and five years to pay. The craze seems to be so great that there is no worry about repossessing a hole in the ground if your payments go sour.

The shape of a pool — whether it should be round, square, trapezoidal or kidney style — has suddenly become important. A cartoonist recently wisecracked about the millionaire who had no imagination — he had a plain rectangular swimming pool.

Of course, the initial cost is not the whole story. You may start with a pool, but you'll wind up with a terrace, a barbecue, a shaded gallery for spectators, a miniature sandy beach, deck chairs and umbrellas and maybe a cabana — and still you won't be the first person who spent more on his backyard than for his house.

Even if you hold down on the embellishments, you'll have to have a climb-proof fence to prevent tots from wandering back there and falling in. You'll need plenty of liability insurance. You'll need filters and a special vacuum cleaner.

But it certainly must be worth it. A recent issue of Swimming Pool Age estimates that 94 million dollars will be spent on backyard pools before this year runs out.

High Night Life In Warsaw, Too

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—It used to be said that communism fills churches and prisons. In Warsaw, it fills night clubs too.

They open at six in the evening and keep going to six in the morning. How customers can afford it, at first sight, is one of the major mysteries of this strange capital.

Even the rarytas — one of the world's most expensive restaurants — on most nights is packed to the doors.

The rarytas has everything a restaurant should have — good food, platoons of immaculate waiters, soft lights and sweet music. A quiet dinner for two with a bottle of wine sets you back 400 zlotys — a week's wage for a better-paid Pole, $100 for a Westerner in terms of Poland's outrageous exchange rate.

Lower down the social scale but still well up on the price list is the cascada, a smoke-filled cavern where the vodka flows.

By two in the morning the band blares out the local version of Dixieland. The dancing is more exuberant than elegant and the whole dimlit scene makes a rock 'n' roll riot look like a cozy tea party.

The showplace of the city is the Crocodile, a cellar club under Warsaw's celebrated "Old Town" — the medieval city sacked during the 1944 uprising and now rebuilt.

It is a popular haunt of Russian tourists who have been coming in increasing numbers.

Club Changes Its Hour For Party

The Chicod Junior 4-H Club decided to change their party schedule for December 17 from 3:15 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at their Tuesday morning meeting.

Betsy Smith, president, called the meeting to order and the devotion was read by Carol Porter. The minutes were read by Secretary Jackie Dixon after the pledges to the American Flag and the 4-H pledge had been given.

The program consisted of a trio: Mary Smith, Brenda Everett, and Jackie Dixon, singing "Jingle Bells." "Silent Night" was sung by Betsy Smith and Carolyn Miller.

The members then separated into two groups to discuss various 4-H projects. The boys went with Mr. Register and the girls with Miss Margaret Stevens.

Caution Coming Back In Outlook Of Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Most trade and manufacturing concerns are flying high. But caution is coming back into the thinking of a growing number of businessmen today.

It showed up first in the stock market. Daily ups and downs there have been attributed to war scares as they wax and wane. The return to a cold war basis — with the possibility of even worse — has played a large part in the planning of both stock traders and industrialists.

But there is a group in Wall Street — even if a minority as far as sounding off is concerned — who have been wondering about the high price of stocks and the high speed of industry as it climbed to new heights.

In the market, the worry has been over the debated question of whether stock prices have risen faster than earnings and so are now anticipating what industry will be doing well into the future.

In industry the worry is whether another leveling off period may be ahead. Earlier this year industry incomes on average are at a new high. In many places employment is at a record high.

Few, if any, see any marked backing down from these heady heights.

But some are beginning to preach caution. Before they left for Hollywood, Fla., for their annual convention, a number of members of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America were advising their clients to take a cautious approach to common stocks and were praising the virtues of bonds and tax exempt securities.

The uncertainties they see in the outlook include the touchy affairs in the Mid East and in eastern Europe, where others than ourselves have already upset trade routes, piled up problems of getting oil and dollars on the western Europeans — a crisis that some 1,200 American exporters, importers and financiers are worrying with at the convention sponsored by the National Foreign Trade Council here this week.

The uncertainties here at home include the yet to be tested willingness of motorists to buy as many of the new cars as Detroit thinks they should. There is also the general question of higher prices and the consumer's willingness or ability to pay.

The National Assn. of Purchasing Agents say that so far there is no sign that war scares have influenced the buying of its members. But it says they are much more cautious now about buying far ahead — both because of the increased prices and the easy availability of most materials.

Another worry both for industry and for stock traders is the slow but steady shrinking of profit margins. Operating costs have been rising faster than they can be passed along — and it's beginning to show in the earnings statements, although so far it hasn't affected the dividend policies of most companies.

Even the big boom in plant expansion and equipment buying — now at a record high — show some first signs of slowing down. While machine tool shipments are at a high level, new orders aren't pouring in as fast as they once did. And new plant building may top out in the first half of 1957.

THANK YOU!

The officers, directors and staff of State Bank sincerely appreciate the large attendance at the bank's open house Tuesday night, and the warmth of the congratulations we received from so many hundreds of our visitors. It's good to know that you like what we are trying to do.

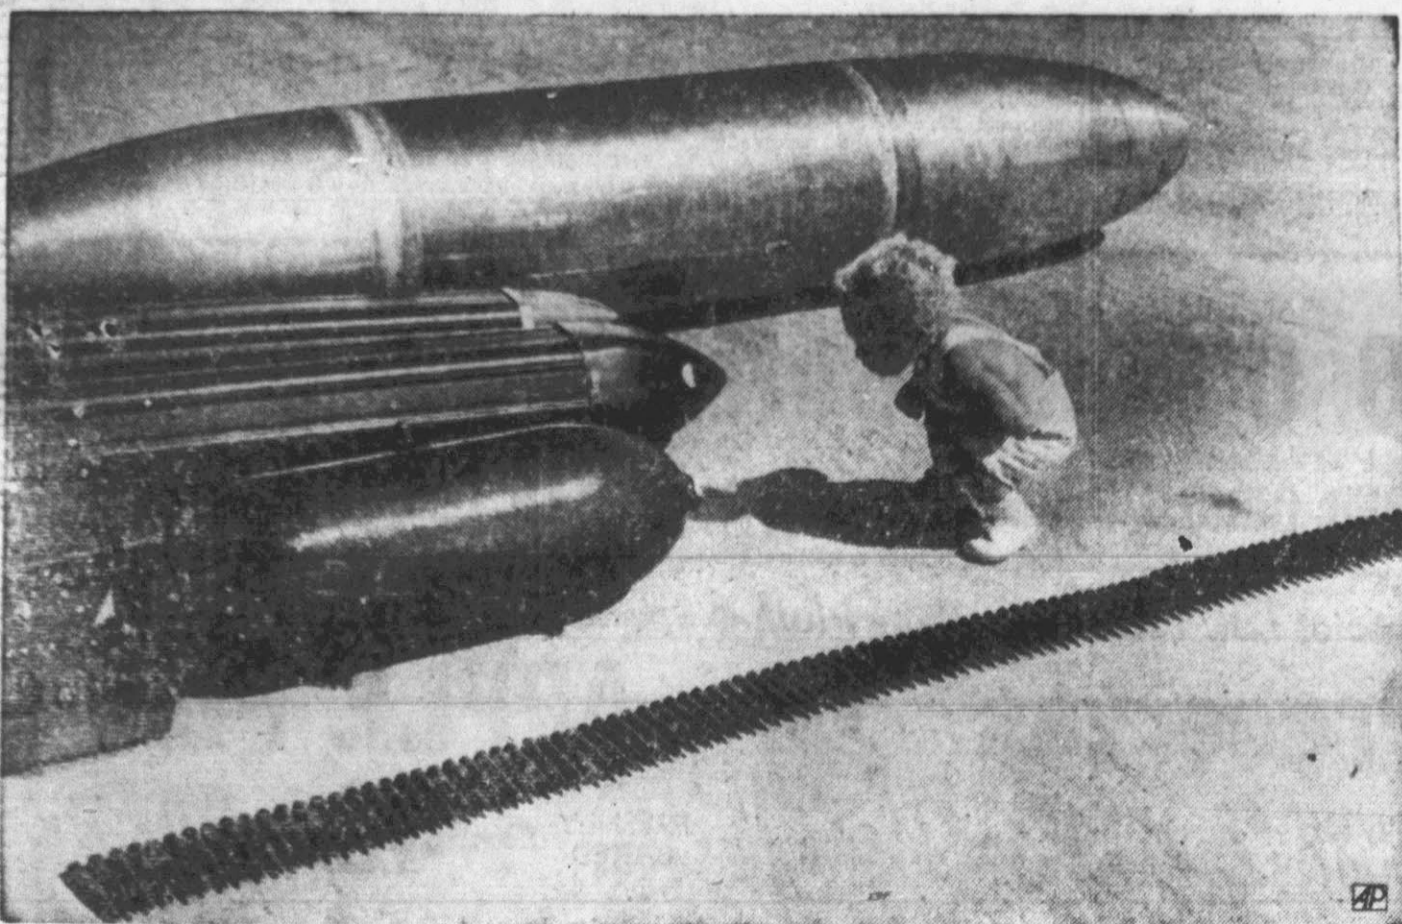

More than a thousand men, women and children went through our new quarters between five and eight o'clock. The flowers we received from so many friends were beautiful. And your approval of our new banking house was well worth all the time and effort which has gone into it.

Incidentally, the television set which was given as a door prize was won by Eugene Savage of 215-B East Third Street, who is a porter for Colonial Stores. After the registration cards had been thoroughly mixed and tumbled, his card was the one drawn by one of the young ladies at the bank this morning.

Again, thank you. And keep coming to see us. Whatever service we can perform is yours to command.

Little Austria Crowded By Hungarian Exile Swarm

By CARL HARTMAN
VIENNA (AP)—You can see refugees from Hungarian communism anywhere in Austria—from the straw-covered schoolroom floor in a border village to the Victorian plush of Vienna's Hotel Sacher.

Nearly 100,000 have come into the country in the last month. More than half still live in camps where relief organizations figure they can be kept and fed for a dollar a day. Those who get to the swank hotels or even into comfortable boarding houses are extremely rare. They have resources of their own, or friends or relatives.

Along the 125-mile border between Austria and Hungary the Austrian villagers have dropped almost everything but the sugar beet harvest to help their Hungarian neighbors.

All of Burgenland Province belonged to Hungary until after World War I, and many of the older people speak Hungarian. There are 10,000 refugees crowded into the thousand-square-mile area.

At Andau, where thousands fled across the "Freedom Bridge" before the Russians blasted it, pink crepe paper streamers still hang from the rafters of the village inn's dance hall. Dozens of refugees bed down on the straw-strewn floor. High school students come down from Vienna to work around the clock, serving black bread, sausage and coffee on the rough tables.

Little knots of lost-looking refugees stand outside in the rain, waiting for buses to take them to slightly more comfortable camps. Some of the men wear the furs, hats and high leather boots of the central European peasant. Many of the women wear the best clothes they couldn't bear to leave behind, muddy now from the long walk across the fields.

One nine-year-old boy arrived without any of his elders, just his schoolbooks and a single pair of socks in a briefcase.

The biggest of the many camps is Traiskirchen, just outside Vienna, in what was once a school for army cadets.

Missions come there from the countries that want to receive refugees — to register and select those they think suitable. Some refugees never get to the camps. Trains sent by Britain, France, Denmark and Belgium back up almost to the border, load the fugi-

Union Challenge Accepted Over Increase In Dues

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A 37-year-old steelworker who earns $6,500 a year said last night he will accept the challenge of possible union disciplinary action in his fight to have the United Steelworkers rescind a $2 monthly dues hike.

The challenge was laid down by David J. McDonald, $50,000-a-year president of the 1,200,000 member union.

Don Rarick, chairman of a self-styled "International Dues Protest Committee" within the union, said in a statement he not only will press his fight for a special union convention to rescind the dues hike but will continue his campaign to get enough support to run against McDonald next February when the USW holds its quadrennial elections.

McDonald wound up a two-day meeting of the USW's 32-member executive board yesterday by saying Rarick and his followers were acting illegally under the USW constitution in demanding a special convention to rescind the dues hike.

Rarick's committee was formed about two months ago in the wake of the US National Convention which authorized that dues be $5 monthly. They were $3. Rarick works at the nearby Irwin Works of U. S. Steel Corp.

McDonald told a news conference the dues increase had been approved overwhelmingly and said no action on the matter could be taken before the 1958 convention.

The union chief threatened possible disciplinary action, against those in the Rarick movement. He said the protesters are creating "confusion, distrust and turmoil" and their action is a step toward "dual unionism."

A source close to McDonald said later if charges of "dual unionism" are proven against a member at a union trial the member could be expelled from the USW.

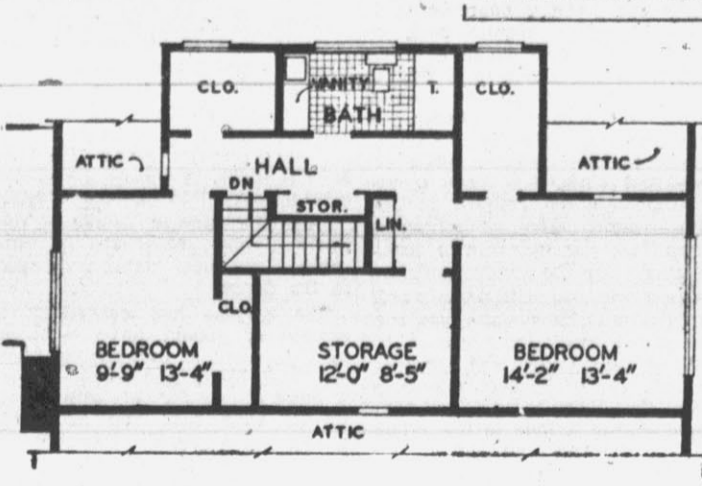

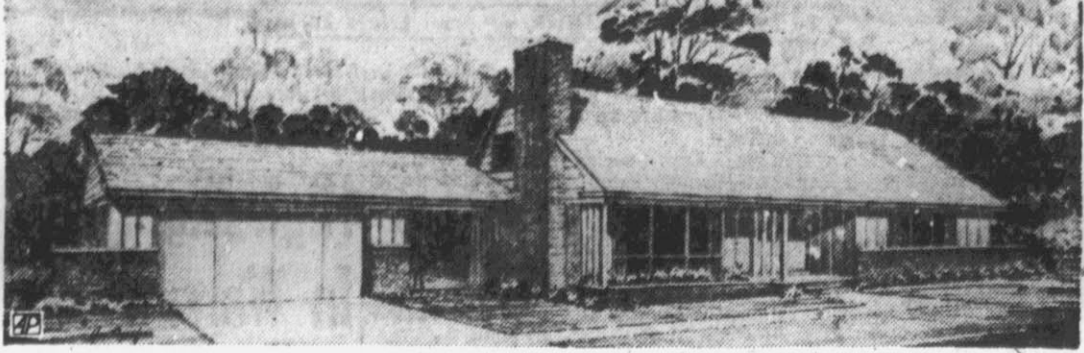

In his statement later, Rarick said he is "acting legally" under the constitution and suggested that McDonald read it.

Rarick claims the international officers must call a special convention if 25 per cent of the approximately 2,700 locals demand it. He claims about 150 locals now have requested the special convention and said resolutions from 688 are necessary.

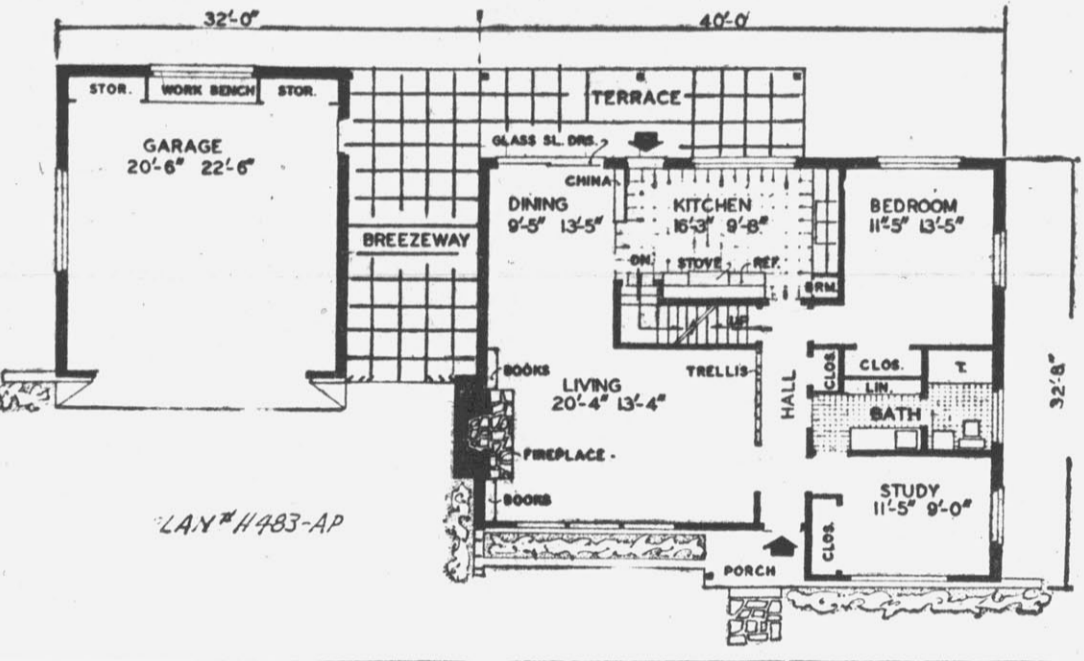

Rarick also said he has 8 locals backing him for president. He must be endorsed by 40 under the USW constitution, to have his name on the ballot.

Glass In Cheese Non-Collectable

CLEVELAND (AP)—An appellate court has ruled that just because a person bites a piece of glass in a chunk of cheese, it's not cause for a damage award.

The ruling was made by the Ninth District Court of Appeals against Mrs. Gladys Tuttle of Cleveland. Mrs. Tuttle had won a $1,500 verdict in Municipal Court here against Meyer Dairy Products Co., of Cleveland.

But the Appellate Court, reversing that decision, said Mrs. Tuttle expelled the glass from her mouth without suffering any cuts or scratches.

Americans Win 19th Gold Medal In Olympic Test

By TED SMITS
MELBOURNE (AP)—America's Olympians stuffed their 19th victory into an already bulging bag of gold, set up another in the demanding decathlon and gave Russia a 30-point whipping in basketball today. But they surrendered the spotlight to the first full-fledged rhabarb of the 1956 games. The 3,000 sleepchase, which usually manages to produce a surprise, came through in king-sized fashion when rank outsider Cris Brasher of England won, lost, then won again after hitting the tape a full 15 yards clear in a record-smashing performance.

The Olympic jury of honor finally awarded Brasher the gold medal after he had first been announced the winner, then disqualified for interference in favor of Hungary's Sandor Rozsnyoi.

A squabble over the result raged long after Villanova's Charlie Jenkins had rushed home first in the 400-meter run, versatile Mitt Campbell and Rafer Johnson had begun opening up a big lead in the decathlon and basketball All-America Bill Russell and Co. had smothered Russia, 85-55.

With the day's finals over, the U.S. led Russia 318 to 219 1/2 in the unofficial totals.

Brasher's victory, and his spectacular clocking of 8 minutes, 41.2 seconds — more than four seconds under the Olympic Mark set by Horace Ashenfelter in his victory for the United States in 1952 — was announced to an almost empty stadium three hours after the race was over.

Rozsnyoi, so close to revictimized Hungary's first gold medal of the games, was second.

The only U.S. entry, Charles Jones of Boyston, Neb., was a well-beaten ninth. Ashenfelter failed to qualify in Tuesday's trials.

Jenkins, whose home is in Cambridge, Mass. and who has done his best running indoors, ignored a bitter, cold wind to win the 400 by a stride from Germany's Karl Haas, who's world record holder. Lou Jones of the United States was a disappointing fifth. Jenkins' time was :46.7, eight-fifths off the games' record.

It was the 12th gold medal scored by Uncle Sam's track and field squad and the cast for another former Indiana track and football star from Plainfield, N.J., and Johnson, a UCLA student from Kingsburg, Calif., pulled well ahead of the field in the first day of the decathlon competition.

With four of the day's five events completed, Campbell led with 3,642 points and Johnson was next with 3,475. Pole vault champion Bob Richards of La Verne, Calif., the third U.S. decathlon entry, was well down the list and waiting for his specialty tomorrow to move up.

Campbell, runnerup to Bob Matthis in the 1952 decathlon was brilliant — winning the 100 meter dash in 10.8, the shot put with 48 feet, 5 inches, and the high jump with 6-2. Johnson, who holds the world record in the 10-event test of all-around track and field ability, won the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, one inch, was second in the high jump, tied for second in the sprint, and took third in the shot put.

The long-awaited U.S.-Russian basketball meeting was close for only a half, at which time the Americans held only a 39-32 advantage. The fabulous Russell, used sparingly in the first half, took charge after the intermission and sparked the U.S. into a 29-7 burst in seven minutes that annihilated the Soviet threat.

Bud Jeangerard, former Colorado ace, chipped in with 14 points as the United States cagers swept unbeaten into the four-team final round, beginning Friday. Russia also advanced, despite the loss. So did Uruguay.

Meanwhile, U.S. swimmers, who will hold the main U.S. interest when the track and field portion of the games end Saturday, got off to a big start at the big glass-enclosed pool.

Georgia Patterson, an ex-Greenville student from Pineville, Ky., smashed the existing Olympic record in winning a trial heat in the men's 100 meter freestyle in :56.8. Dick Hanley of Evanston, Ill., and Michigan, and Bill Woolsey, a Hawaiian student at Indiana, also qualified for further trials.

Our lone qualifier in the women's 200-meter breaststroke was Mary Jane Sears, Chevy Chase, Md.

Farrell Chosen Tribe Manager

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pleasure teasing his face into an almost constant grin, Kerby Farrell emerged in public last night as the new manager of the Cleveland Indians.

So far as could be learned from the Indianapolis Indians, Farrell took the job with no definite understanding on either the length of his contract or his salary.

"All I wanted was the chance to manage a big league team, and this was it," said the 43-year-old native of Tennessee who piloted the Indianapolis Indians to baseball's Little World Series championship last fall. "I can't tell you how happy and thrilled I am to get it."

A common guess is that Farrell will get around $25,000 in his first year as the 16th manager in the American League history of the Indians.

His succession to Al Lopez, who quit the Indians last September and later was hired to manage the American League history of the Indians.

Belvoir Falkland Cagers Divide Twin Bill Honors

Belvoir-Falkland's boys won a 40-35 overtime victory last night to gain a split in a basketball doubleheader at South Edgecombe High School. South Edgecombe's girls won the first game, 49-45.

In the overtime contest, Bobby Harris, David Moore and John Tripp scored two points apiece to break up a 34-34 tie that had existed at the end of the regulation four quarters. Harris took B-F's scoring honors with ten points.

In the girls' game, the Eagles' Joan Parker scored 35 points but her Belvoir-Falkland team fell behind the balanced offense of South Edgecombe. Betty Gardner, Carolyn Dunn and Polly Pitt led the S-E scoring with 14, 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Farley Has No Returnees From His Basketball Champions Of Last Year

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
Coach Boley Farley, whose last year's Greenville Phantoms copied the Northeastern Conference cage title in a tie with Kinston, was making use of the proverbial crying towel in an interview early this week.

Facing an improved conference this season, Coach Farley will do so without a single returnee from the 1954-55 championship five. Only one letterman from the entire squad of last year is back.

In Farley's words, "I have four boys who saw some action last year, but only one of them received a letter—and he didn't actually play a great deal."

Gone from last season's top-flight crew are stalwarts Ike Riddick, Harold Edwards, Ray Hardee, Billy Johnson, Jerry Drum and Tommy Key Norris. These were the boys that did most of the playing for Greenville during that championship season.

With only nine days before the opening contest of the present season, Farley stated that there were 25 contestants for the team. "As of yet," he continued, "we do not know who will compose the first team. We haven't done much scrimmaging yet."

The one returning letterman of the Phantom staff is 6-2 center Joe Wingate. Although not having played the full extent of his high school eligibility, Wingate is now a senior and presumably playing his last year with the G-Men. It will also be his first year as a starter should he make Farley's first unit.

Three others who saw duty last year, but failed to make a letter, were Wayne Eldson, Charlie Smith and Mack Roebuck. Roebuck and Eldson were guards, Smith a forward. Others expected to form the varsity squad this season are Angus Duff, Bobby Edwards, Peanut Nunn, Bob Bilbro, Edwin Wilkerson, Billy Cox, Wesley Hudson, Steve Nobles, Steve Wilkerson and Walker Lee Allen.

Goldsboro Tuesday
Next Tuesday night, at the Greenville high school gymnasium, the Phantoms will play host to AAA Goldsboro, a team which is being hailed as one of the strongest in the Eastern AAA loop this season.

Reports from Goldsboro indicate that the visitors will bring to Greenville a fast, experienced and moderately tall outfit. The Earthquakes will have all five of their last year's starters back this winter, plus a group of newcomers that have shown promise.

Bill Moore, Sonny Aycock, Bobby Bizzell, Jerry Ellis and Dorsett Clement are the probable starters Tuesday night. Clement is a transfer from Fayetteville, where he averaged 14 points per game for the Fayetteville team, last year. Bizzell is the team's tallest man, standing 6-5.

ECC Swimmers Will Meet UNC

East Carolina's swimming team, under the leadership of Coach Raymond Martinez, will open its 1956-57 schedule Saturday night in Memorial Pool, against the University of North Carolina.

The Tarheels, ranked the fifth team in the nation last year, are very definitely in the big leagues, so far as swimming is concerned.

Reports from Chapel Hill state that the Blue and White swimmers will sport the best team in the history of the school during 1956-57.

Carolina will bring a squad to East Carolina that will include three All-America posters. Backstroke champion Charlie Krepp earned All-America honors with an amazing record last season. He held three world records at different occasions last winter.

East Carolina, which completed a 9-4 record last year, is entering its third season of water competition. The Carolina match will be the first of an 11-meet schedule.

Returning to boost the present outfit, are eight members of last season's winning crew. Harold McKee will do long distance work for the Bucs; Bob Sawyer, a sophomore who still holds a state high school swimming mark, will handle back-stroke duties for ECC; Jim Meads and Ted Gartman, imports from Virginia, will work in the sprints and butterfly events respectively; Steve Wilkerson, a Greenville boy, will maneuver in the middle distance events; two seniors, Dickie Denton and Frank Moore will work in the sprints and breast-stroke trials respectively; ECC's top diver, Ken Midyette, will also be back.

The meet will begin at 8:00, Saturday night, at the College gymnasium pool. No admission will be charged.

Newcombe Gets Another Tribute

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Newcombe was all set today to argue his case for a sizeable salary increase with Cy Young Memorial Award added to his National League's most valuable player prize.

The huge Brooklyn righthander, slated to hold a salary confab with Dodger Vice President E. J. Bavasi this afternoon, was honored for the second time in a little over a week yesterday when he became the first winner of the annual award given to the outstanding pitcher of both major leagues.

The latest accolade is awarded in the memory of Denton (Cy) Young, the immortal Hall of Fame pitcher who won an incredible total of 511 major league games.

Only last Nov. 20 Newcombe had been voted his league's MVP award, becoming the first pitcher to gain this honor since Jim Konstanty of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

Newcombe received 10 of the 16 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers' Assn. of America, consisting of representatives of each of the 16 big league clubs. Sal Maglie, Don's pitching mate with the Dodgers, was runner-up, just as he was in the MVP voting, with four votes. One vote each was given to southpaws Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Ed Ford of the New York Yankees.

The writers considered only Newcombe's regular season work, during which time he won 27 games while losing seven to become the Dodgers' biggest winner since Dazzy Vance turned in 28 triumphs in 1924.

Indiana's Coach Quits; Stadium Plans Continue

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana University today began looking for a new football coach and more talented football players — and went ahead with plans for a giant new stadium.

Bernie Crimmins, who left the backfield coaching job at Notre Dame to try to revive I.U. football, resigned yesterday after five losing seasons.

The red-haired Louisville Irishman, who shifted from backfield to guard on Notre Dame's undefeated 1941 team, said — in effect — that five years of being out-gunned and out-lucked at Indiana was enough. During that span he won 13 games and lost 32.

The 37-year-old father of five children said he had not future plans but that he was resigning in hope that "somebody else can get the ball to bouncing the right way."

Frank E. Allen, I.U. athletic director, went before the Indianapolis Downtown Quarterbacks Club, shortly after Crimmins resigned, and asserted that he was "not ready to quit."

Spieser Kayos Willi In Second

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Detroit's Chuck Spieser, the No. 1 challenger among the light heavyweights, knocked out Will Hoepner of Hamburg, Germany in the second round of their scheduled 10 rounder in the Milwaukee Arena last night. Spieser weighed 172 1/2, Hoepner 174.

The end came quick for the left handed swinging German once the rugged Spieser went to work. A right to the chin sprawled Hoepner for an eight count just after the second round got under way. The pair mixed it up in a brief feud, but then Spieser slashed him with hard and fast lefts and rights to put him down for the full count.

Injured Grigger In Coma 60 Days

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Richard Kadis, a 21-year-old Geneva College football lineman who has been unconscious since suffering a head injury in a game two months ago today, is still listed in critical condition at St. Francis Hospital.

"He hasn't responded at all," a hospital spokesman said.

Kadis collapsed following a game with Waynesburg College at Waynesburg, Pa., on Sept. 29.

State College Wants ACC To Fully Probe Moreland Charges

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina State College wants the Atlantic Coast Conference to make "an independent and complete investigation" of the Jackie Moreland basketball recruiting case.

State's position was disclosed by chancellor Carey H. Bostian at a special news conference yesterday.

At the same time it was learned that ACC commissioner Jim Weaver has ruled Moreland not eligible to play at State.

The basis for the disapproval of the boy's eligibility blank, Weaver said from his Greensboro office, "was that this office had accepted the findings of the NCAA."

The ACC meets Dec. 7 in Greensboro at which time State's review request will be acted on.

Moreland, a basketball star at the Minden, La., high school last season, is now enrolled as a freshman at State. Last week, in his only public appearance on the hardwood court since arriving here, he poured in 30 points

Belvoir Falkland Cagers Divide Twin Bill Honors

Belvoir-Falkland's boys won a 40-35 overtime victory last night to gain a split in a basketball doubleheader at South Edgecombe High School. South Edgecombe's girls won the first game, 49-45.

In the overtime contest, Bobby Harris, David Moore and John Tripp scored two points apiece to break up a 34-34 tie that had existed at the end of the regulation four quarters. Harris took B-F's scoring honors with ten points.

In the girls' game, the Eagles' Joan Parker scored 35 points but her Belvoir-Falkland team fell behind the balanced offense of South Edgecombe. Betty Gardner, Carolyn Dunn and Polly Pitt led the S-E scoring with 14, 13 and 12 points, respectively.

The boxes:

Girls Game

Farley Has No Returnees From His Basketball Champions Of Last Year

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
Coach Boley Farley, whose last year's Greenville Phantoms copied the Northeastern Conference cage title in a tie with Kinston, was making use of the proverbial crying towel in an interview early this week.

Facing an improved conference this season, Coach Farley will do so without a single returnee from the 1954-55 championship five. Only one letterman from the entire squad of last year is back.

In Farley's words, "I have four boys who saw some action last year, but only one of them received a letter—and he didn't actually play a great deal."

Gone from last season's top-flight crew are stalwarts Ike Riddick, Harold Edwards, Ray Hardee, Billy Johnson, Jerry Drum and Tommy Key Norris. These were the boys that did most of the playing for Greenville during that championship season.

With only nine days before the opening contest of the present season, Farley stated that there were 25 contestants for the team. "As of yet," he continued, "we do not know who will compose the first team. We haven't done much scrimmaging yet."

The one returning letterman of the Phantom staff is 6-2 center Joe Wingate. Although not having played the full extent of his high school eligibility, Wingate is now a senior and presumably playing his last year with the G-Men. It will also be his first year as a starter should he make Farley's first unit.

Three others who saw duty last year, but failed to make a letter, were Wayne Eldson, Charlie Smith and Mack Roebuck. Roebuck and Eldson were guards, Smith a forward. Others expected to form the varsity squad this season are Angus Duff, Bobby Edwards, Peanut Nunn, Bob Bilbro, Edwin Wilkerson, Billy Cox, Wesley Hudson, Steve Nobles, Steve Wilkerson and Walker Lee Allen.

Goldsboro Tuesday
Next Tuesday night, at the Greenville high school gymnasium, the Phantoms will play host to AAA Goldsboro, a team which is being hailed as one of the strongest in the Eastern AAA loop this season.

Reports from Goldsboro indicate that the visitors will bring to Greenville a fast, experienced and moderately tall outfit. The Earthquakes will have all five of their last year's starters back this winter, plus a group of newcomers that have shown promise.

Bill Moore, Sonny Aycock, Bobby Bizzell, Jerry Ellis and Dorsett Clement are the probable starters Tuesday night. Clement is a transfer from Fayetteville, where he averaged 14 points per game for the Fayetteville team, last year. Bizzell is the team's tallest man, standing 6-5.

Freshman Senators Have Near Predictable Outlook

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analysis
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Senate is like a college in some ways. Freshmen members are subject to mild hazing. They can get an education if they work at it. And you never can be sure when a crop of freshmen enrolls, which is the most likely to succeed.

The freshman class which signs up next January is, as usual, a mixed lot.

It numbers five Democrats and four Republicans. One of them, Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, consistently gets along well with Republicans; the Nation magazine, which disapproves of him, recently called him "more conservative" than the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Two of the "freshmen" are repeaters. Republicans John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Chapman Revere of West Virginia have taken the course before.

This is no Ivy League class. Some of the Senators elected Nov. 6 come from wealthy or socially prominent families, of course. Democrat Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, for instance, and Republican Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky.

Two are second generation Americans — Jacob K. Javits of New York, product of an overwhelmingly Jewish neighborhood on New York's East Side.

And there are a couple who were practically running for office in their cribs. Georgia's Herman Talmadge, a Democrat, naturally, and the handsome young Democrat from Idaho, Frank Church, step from families in which public office is a tradition.

Of the nine newcomers, that leaves only one unaccounted for — Democrat John Carroll of Colorado. He's a former House member, a lawyer, and a veteran of both world wars.

What can be expected of these Senate replacements? Well, President Eisenhower can expect firm support of his foreign policy from at least three Republicans: Cooper, until recently ambassador to India; Morton, a former assistant secretary of state under the present administration; and Javits, an all-out Ike man who has just carried an olive branch message from the President to Israel.

Javits, a Jew, won election even though he condemned the British-French-Israeli push into Egypt.

Revercomb? He campaigned as an Eisenhower backer. His reputation as a senator in the 1940s, however, was such that Thomas E. Dewey stirred up a storm by refusing to endorse Revercomb in one of Dewey's presidential campaigns.

As for the incoming Democrats:

Number Clark and Church among the many rising young men in the party. (What a free-for-all there's going to be for the Democrats' 1956 presidential nomination.) Carroll is a hard-working House graduate who refused to go along with Adlai Stevenson's ideas on stopping H-bomb tests and stopping the draft.

Talmadge? He figures to keep quiet for a while, then gradually let loose in the galling-snapping, fire-eating tradition of his father, "Old Gene." But with more restraint, better sureness of foot, more attention to the national scene.

Lausche? You try to predict what he will do. Ohio Democrats and Republicans alike have been trying to figure out Lausche for years.

Emotions Can Play Havoc With Usual Safe Driver

CHARLOTTE: A youthful driver recently became so infuriated at the failure of an oncoming motorist to dim his auto lights that he crashed head-on into the car, killing everyone in both cars except himself. He escaped with injuries.

"Why?" the young man was asked. From his hospital bed, he replied: "I wanted to teach the so-and-so to dim his lights when he sees a car coming toward him."

This is an extreme example of what emotions can do to a man or woman behind the wheel of an automobile. However, recent studies have revealed that many traffic accidents and a good deal of unsafe driving can be traced to emotional factors which operate, to a greater or lesser extent, in all of us.

Anxiety, fear, anger, hostility, impatience, resentment — any of these emotions can turn Dr. Jekyll into Mr. Hyde behind the wheel.

Tests conducted by the Eno Foundation for Highway Traffic Control revealed that more attention needs to be given to attitudes of drivers, and that a significant percentage of accidents repeaters are maladjusted or emotionally disturbed.

This does not refer to the obviously unsafe driver, such as the psychopath or alcoholic, but rather to those emotional disturbances and personality traits which affect the driving habits of large numbers of perfectly normal and generally law-abiding people.

Dr. R. H. Felix, Director, National Institute of Mental Health, points out that some of these disturbances are what might be called "acute" or short-term occurrences and they can usually be traced to specific cause — like the person who has received news of a death in the family, or who is worried about a seriously ill wife or husband or child, or has been unnerved by a frightening experience.

The safe practice, advises Dr. Felix, would be to avoid driving, if at all possible, until one has calmed down.

Some of us are able to recognize that we are upset when these things happen, he says, and therefore should take extra precautions or postpone driving for a few minutes until we regain our composure.

And others are able to keep anger, resentment, etc. from interfering with their driving habits.

But many drivers are unable to recognize or handle their emotions or they have personality traits which lead to dangerous driving habits.

Here are a few cases where emotion plays havoc with the driver:

The man who has just had an argument at home or at the office, and drives off in anger.

The teenager who has reluctantly been allowed to use the family car and drives off filled with resentment.

The persons who drive themselves too hard at work and play and are not comfortable behind the wheel unless forging ahead.

The man or woman who operates on a tight schedule and seldom allows enough time for travel.

Persons who like to control other people's activities.

Absent-minded persons who become so preoccupied that they literally forget they're driving.

The drivers with misplaced emotions, who constantly feel that other drivers are trying to take advantage of them.

In other words, people don't change character when they get behind the wheel, much as it may seem that they do. It's just that the little flaws and quirks become more manifest when the behavior of one person is magnified into the behavior of a few tons of steel moving in an irregular pattern at X miles an hour, declares, Dr. Felix.

Artist Denies He's A Businessman; Opposes Paying Municipal Tax

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thomas Hart Benton says an artist he is no businessman. He sent his attorney to the city division of revenue today to argue he point.

The city last week billed the famed painter for the $25 municipal occupation tax.

"Of course I don't object to helping out a city in need, especially one which offers such pleasant living and such varied entertainment," Benton wrote the Kansas City Star. "But I do think there is a principle involved."

"Art is a vocation. Its money returns are too erratic, too uncertain to be classified as those of a business. People practice art year after year with complete artistic success and never make a red cent out of it. Such devoted practice certainly should not be penalized."

"A rough future for art is ahead if artists must pay for the mere right to perform."

Curtis T. Thatcher, city commissioner of revenue, disagreed.

"As I interpret the ordinance," he said, "Benton is required to be licensed. He is carrying on a business enterprise like other people and should be taxed."

Thatcher said an assistant noticed a newspaper story which reported a $21,000 commission was awarded Benton for painting two murals for the St. Lawrence power and seaway development. Hence the tax bill.

Benton pointed out he does his painting in a barn located in an area not zoned for business position. Besides, he said, most of his financial transactions are handled in New York.

"I think the city hall should dig up a better excuse for getting dough out of me," he said.

FASHION NOTE
HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Where else but Hollywood could you see a sight like this: A pretty blonde in a white convertible seated next to a big black French poodle wearing a red beret.

Deliberate Opposition By Americans Charged

LONDON (AP)—The Americans are deliberately opposing British policies, deliberately wooing the Arabs, in order to kick us out of the Middle East and take our oil.

That argument is heard increasingly in British discussions of the Suez Canal dispute.

This attitude dominates the right-wing members of Prime Minister Eden's Conservative party. It also cuts across political boundaries. It can be heard on the official and man-in-the-street level.

Even those who oppose what they call "Eden's War in Egypt" ultimately come around to questioning America's motives.

The smell of oil pervades all arguments here.

Everyone is aware that Britain's industrial machine and standard of living depend on oil from the Middle East.

As a result there is suspicion of any move that could be interpreted as an American commercial victory at British expense. That is how American policy generally is being interpreted.

American officials say it was "psychologically natural" for the British, confused and increasingly insecure as their nation's influence dwindles, to seek a scapegoat.

The phrase "American oil lobby," is becoming common currency. It recalls the "China Lobby" description several years ago, when many Britons argued that American support of Nationalist China was leading the world to war.

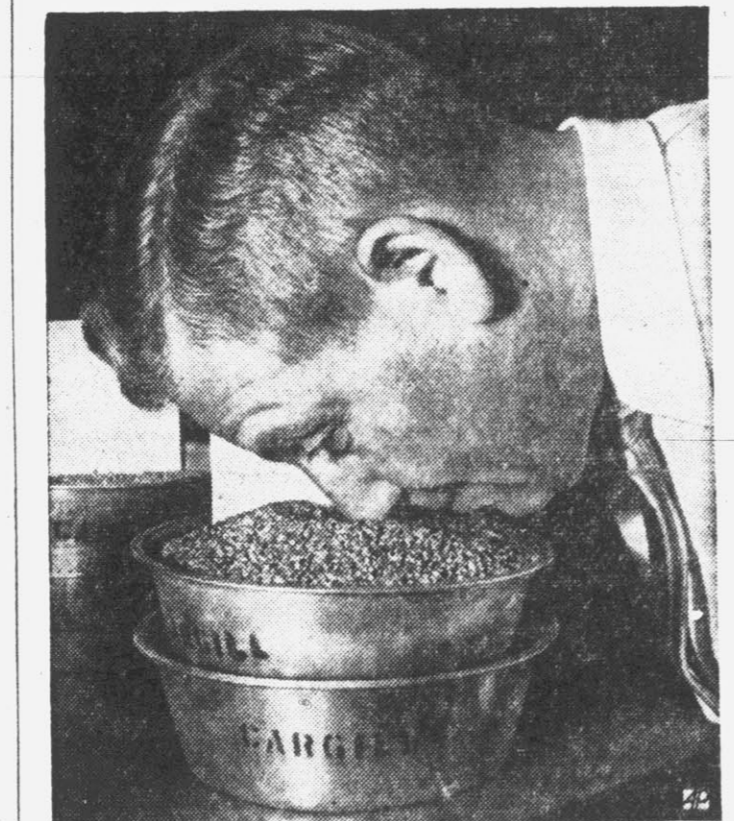

Stanley Evans, a Laborite, was forced to resign from the House of Commons because he supported Prime Minister Eden's Middle East policy. He said:

"The American State Department is the impregnable fortress of the American oil companies, and they see British Middle East oil growing to the stage when it might become competitive."

"The Americans have been engaged in two main struggles — one against communism and the other against the sterling area. And they have now made up their minds that the more important struggle is against the sterling area."

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Sweetheart Of GIs Is Back In Business

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Her many fans will be happy to know that Frances Langford is back in the business again.
 Many a former GI will remember sitting in a South Pacific jungle and listening to a tawny-haired charmer sing sentimental ballads in her throaty voice. To them, Frances Langford was their tangible connection with home.
 Now the wartime sweetheart of the GIs is coming back to show business after a year's absence. She dropped out after her marriage to Ralph Evinrude, the outboard motor king.
 Why has she come back? "Because I've been singing most of my life," she explained. "I'd be sort of lost without it."
 Her husband is very much in favor. "When you stop working, that's when you begin to stop living," he reasoned.
 Frances, who began singing for a Tampa radio station at 15 for $5 a week, will do some TV guest shots and is negotiating a film show of her own. She will cut an album for Capitol. And MGM is talking about filming her life story.
 "Only one thing worries me," she said. "Do they have to show everything?" She was assured that the subject of a filmlog can usually determine what is depicted.
 The more pleasure-loving in the audience will wonder that Frances wants to go back to work at all. The Evinrudes have elegant homes in Milwaukee and Florida. And when they travel, they go in style.
 They fly about the country in a DC3 that has all the comforts of home—and then some. The cabin is designed like a living room, with couches, a bar and TV set complete with six speakers so the sound can be audible in any part of the cabin.
 "We can usually follow a network show right across the country," Evinrude said. "When one channel fades out, we can turn to another in the next town and keep watching the same show."

 "Once we were rig' at the climax of an exciting movie," Frances added. "The picture started to fade, so Ralph told the pilot to go back and circle until the movie was over."

Churches Include Parking Plans

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Parking lots are becoming as important to church here as pews and cloak rooms.
 Bigger churches in the downtown area have outgrown their parking lot, and have had to buy expensive land for expansion. New churches mark plenty of parking space on the architect's plans.

Program Given Pactolus PTA

A Thanksgiving program of a play and songs was given by Mrs. Gill's room at the regular meeting of the Pactolus P.T.A. held in the school auditorium Monday night. The play was written by the students and they also made the costumes and arranged the scenery.

Mrs. Gill's sixth and seventh grades and Mrs. Briley's fourth and fifth grades won the cakes for the most parents in attendance at the meeting.

Mrs. Burce Hart, president, recognized Mrs. Noel Lee who requested donations of food and money for the serving of the Puritan supper at their December meeting. The proceeds of the supper are to go into the P.T.A. treasury.

Mrs. Walter Langley, chairman of the room representatives, requested the room representatives to meet with her at the school tonight at 7:00 p.m.

Mr. Morris, the principal, reported on the success of the Halloween carnival and explained the school's function during American Education Week. He announced that open house will be held at the next P.T.A. meeting December 17, and that a student honor roll will be published from onw on, beginning with the current report card.

Mexico To Have Radio Tube Plant

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A new factory is expected to be turning out radio tubes for the first time in Mexico sometime in the latter half of 1957.

After the building is completed, equipment must be installed and Mexican workers trained by expert cr-ws from the United States.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

For a girl who flunked her first high school photography course, Esther Bubley has come a long way.

Winner of several national photo contests which brought large cash prizes, she has also achieved distinction by winning distinguished photography awards in competition with other professional craftsmen. Her photos were well represented in the world-touring Family of Man exhibition organized by Edward Steichen and in other Museum of Modern Art exhibitions.

Now that she has come a long way, Esther is also prepared to go a long way . . . and at a moment's notice, I caught her between plane trips, having just returned from South America — or was it Asia or Zanzibar?

You have to pry the information out of Esther Bubley because for darkroom work.

Esther attended State Teachers College and then obtained a job as a photo-finisher. For ten dollars a week she developed amateur films, made contact prints and enlargements and washed them in huge drums. Her output was around 22,000 prints per week.

After a year at this instructive but financially unrewarding position, Esther decided it was time to get out of the darkroom. She enrolled in a photography course at the Minneapolis School of Art. Here she learned about view cameras, how to set up banks of lights for commercial and portrait photography. For personal pleasure, though, she got herself a 35mm camera and made unobtrusive pictures of people in natural light and unposed action.

With her photo diploma in one hand and her miniature camera in the other, Esther made the rounds of photo studios in Washington, D. C. and New York with little luck. She was consulting the bus schedules back to Wisconsin when a job in the National Archives in the micro-film department was offered to her. Soon she was busy photographing rare books, page by page.

Not too many books later came a transfer to the Office of War Information's photography department, then headed by Roy Stryker. Her informal personal pictures of people caught his fancy and she was promoted from a darkroom position to full-fledged photographer.

Mr. Stryker's success in organizing the government's documentary picture program led to offers in private industry. When he accepted a New York position with an oil company, he offered Esther photographic assignments around the country.

She accepted the photographed people in every section of the United States at work, at play and in their homes. These were human picture stories that suited her natural photographic instincts and personality.

Her technique was to sink into the background and become a silent observer of the life around her. She didn't direct the people or maneuver the situations. She didn't hide the camera and eventually people became accustomed to its presence.

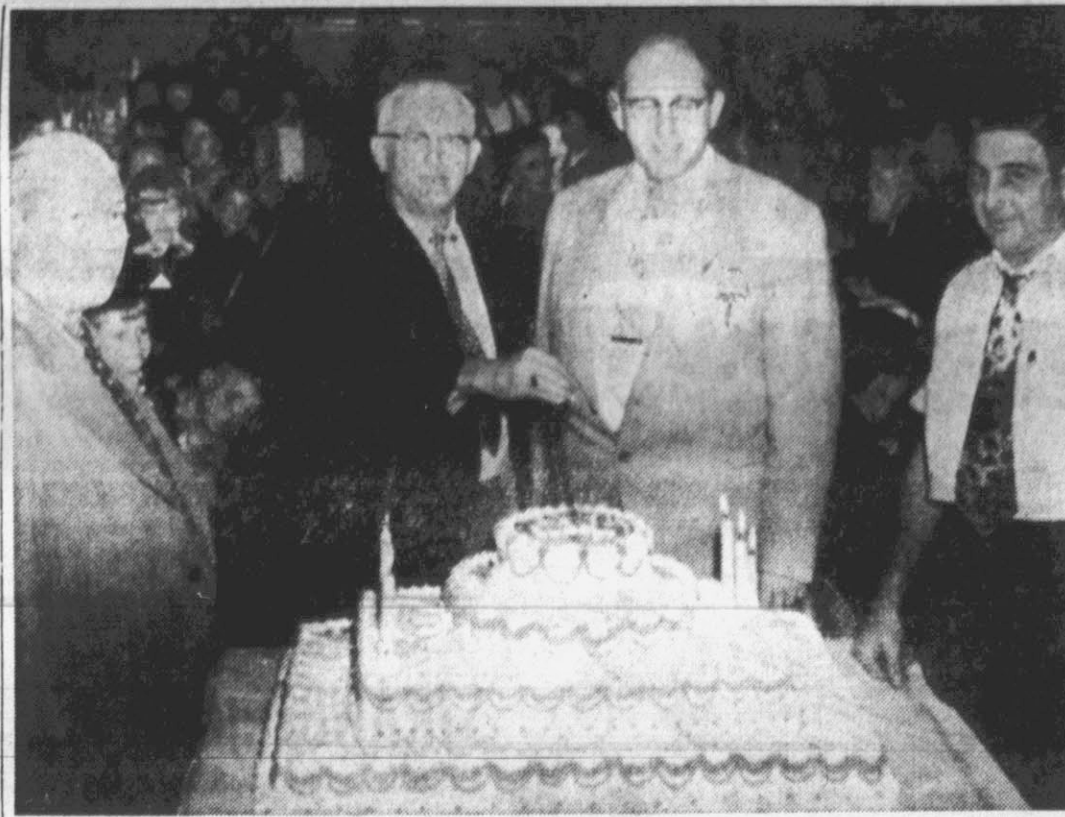

When she had become an accepted member of a family or group, she went to work, quietly and deftly. Her sensitive touch captured the natural emotions of people — joy and sadness, humor and melancholy, determination and despair.

When these pictures were circulated, her reputation and the number of photography awards brought her further magazine assignments. Her horizons broadened and soon her technique was tested in Europe, Asia and South America. This silent technique proved the best possible method of hurdlng the language barrier.

ANNIVERSARY—The local Moose Lodge Tuesday night celebrated its sixth anniversary with a barbecue supper for Moose members and their wives. A huge 100 pound birthday cake was served to 400 members and their families. Gov. Howard Gradis welcomed the group and a new Moose film "A Picture of You" was shown to the group. Shown in the above photo are J. E. Collins, Past Gov. J. J. Stauffer cutting cake; Gov. Gradis and Joseph Saad. (Photo by Lee Roland.)

By the time this appears in print, Esther Bubley will probably be off again on her current assignment: to cover all of Latin America for a photography magazine.

Cub Scouts Are Given Inspection

ANN ARBOR, Mich., (AP)—The transplanting of live, human teeth and their successful storage in "tooth banks" is the goal of a University of Michigan research team.

Dr. James K. Avery, project director, said if the study is successful it could lead, in certain cases, to elimination of artificial bridges for lost teeth.

"We know it is possible to transplant teeth in humans," he said. "It has been done successfully in selective cases of young adults by other members of our team. But there are still problems to be solved."

Year For Irish In New Mexico

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—1957 will be the year for the Irish in New Mexico.

The state's new license plates will be white with a glowing shamrock-kelly green trim. Motor Vehicle Commissioner John Wilkinson says there's talk of following the trend in modern cars toward new, different colors.

Sixty-Five Cases Set For Disposal By Superior Court

Sixty-five cases have been placed on the calendar for next week's special criminal term of Superior Court which opens Monday.

Judge George M. Fountain will be presiding judge for the term. Most of the cases placed on the calendar are for violations of motor vehicle and whiskey laws.

Soviet Medical Ranks Mushroom 23,000 Yearly

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Russia is producing doctors in great numbers, apparently in the hope of overwhelming disease with medical manpower.

By official account, the country has 330,000 doctors, about one for 600 persons. The United States has one for 700.

Some of the Russian medical leaders talk informally about a goal of a doctor for every hundred persons, a ratio they say would just about conquer disease in the country. They concede the Soviet Health Ministry will have the final word on numbers.

Dr. O. B. Kerbikov, head of the Second Medical Institute of Moscow, says it has a student body of 4,000 and graduates 600 doctors a year. He says the 80 medical schools in the country turn out about 23,000 graduates a year.

The United States has 81 medical schools graduating about 7,000 annually.

In Volkshheim, Germany a young couple wanting to get married must pass through a log in record time to prove they can work together in harmony.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — A burst of selling dragged the stock market down to its Oct. 1 low today but prices were improving, early this afternoon.

Brokers speculated on whether a technical selling climax similar to that which occurred on Oct. 1, though on a smaller scale, had occurred.

Losses in pivotal stocks ran to about three points while prices took their worst beating but the recovery some of these declines were erased entirely.

At the worst of the selling U. S. Steel was down nearly a point then recovered for a fractional gain. Royal Dutch lost two but shaved half of this. Lukens Steel dropped three points, then recovered to trade unchanged.

New York Shipbuilding, which has undergone profit-taking since its recent huge rise, was down more than three then, knocked 400 points off of this.

United Aircraft still showed a loss of nearly two as the session wore on.

Losses of around a point or so were shown by General Motors, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Boeing, Amcaconda, International Nickel, Union Carbide, Chesapeake & Ohio, United Airlines and U. S. Gypsum.

Kennecott Copper was down close to two. DuPont, off around two earlier, cut its loss to a fraction.

Youngstown, Philco and Allied Chemical posted small gains.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) — Hog markets were steady to 25 higher today. Tops of 15.50 to 16.00 at Tarboro, Enfield, Bethel, Kinston and Smithfield; 15.25 to 16.00 at Rocky Mount; 15.50 at Goldsboro, C. S. Hay; Rich Square, Clinton, Fayetteville, Lumberton, Mt. Cro, Elizabethtown, Mount Olive, Tabor City, Blackmans Crossroads, Dunn, Clarkton, Whiteville, Bailey and Newton Grove; 15.25 to 15.75 at New Bern, Benson and Nahama; 14.50 to 15.50 at Wint. Large 40 to 42; Ashville eggs steady; A large 43 to 45, mostly 43; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 41.

RALEIGH — (NCDA) — N. C. fryers and broilers, market unsettled, farm price 15 to 16, f.o.b. plant 16 1/2; Raleigh eggs steady. A large 40 to 42; Asheville eggs steady; A large 43 to 45, mostly 43; Charlotte eggs steady, A large 41.

Standing Firm Despite Unrest

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iraq's Premier Nuri Said is reported standing firm against a mounting campaign aimed at stirring up trouble in Iraq and discrediting his government. The controlling pro-Soviet army clique in Syria and the Egyptian government are believed sponsoring the campaign.

Khalil Ibrahim, Iraqi information director, declared the Premier has no intention of quitting his post or making changes in his Cabinet "for the time being."

The Baghdad military governor broadcast an appeal to the people urging them to be calm and not to yield to "subversive elements" which the government says are trying to incite widespread demonstrations.

Nuri's government denied reports that dozens of persons have been killed and wounded in Iraq's main cities. It reiterated that only two civilians were killed and some police and civilians wounded in a clash in the holy Moslem city of Najaf, in southwest Iraq.

Damascus radio declared 104 Iraqis were killed in four days of antigovernment demonstrations in Najaf. It asserted the "victims" of the police fire at their protest against Nuri's government and demanded support for Egypt.

ren of Farmville also are Green Bland scouts.

Chairman Duncan presided and welcomed guests, after the opening ceremony by the scouts from St. Paul Episcopal Church and the invocation by Dr. H. G. Haney of the Eighth Street Christian Church.

Wyatt Brown paid tribute to den mothers and presented a large number in attendance at the dinner. He was followed by Dr. Harry Billica whose tribute to unit leaders and assistants included the presentation of service certificates to the wives of these persons.

The Eagle Scouts and winners of God and Country awards were recognized by Dr. Robert Wilfong.

The recognition of Silver Beaver awards, nine in the Pitt district, was made by James Butler and a moment of silence was observed in tribute to the memory of the late F. C. Harding, a Silver Beaver award holder. Among the Silver Beavers present were Dr. Mesick, Sherman Parks, Wyatt Brown and H. Frank Steinbeck.

F. D. Duncan, retiring chairman, presented a statuette of a boy scout with his name engraved on a plate. This was a token of appreciation for his service for the past two years as district chairman.

Christian Church Youth To Convene In Kinston

About 500 high school age youth from the Christian Churches of the North Carolina will meet in Kinston tomorrow through Sunday to take part in the Second Annual State Youth Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches.

Convention headquarters will be at the Gordon Street Christian Church with George E. Downey, Director of Youth Work for the Christian Churches of the state, as convention director.

This year's convention will mark the first time that only high school age youth have been in attendance. In the past college age youth also have been included.

Retiring officers of the convention who will be replaced by the installation of new officers on the final day of the three-day convention, and Chandler Cox of Farmville, president; Miss Helen Nicholson, Raleigh, associate president, and Miss Alva Rose Hardison, Plymouth, secretary.

Principle speakers for the convention are H. Gray Russell, Indianapolis Ind., Director of Youth Missionary Activities of the National Youth Work Offices of the Christian Churches, and Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

Most of the sessions of the convention will be made up of discussions by young people in attendance based on the main convention theme, "Not My Will, But Thine."

Main item of business at the meeting will be the organization of "Volunteers' Fellowship," which will be made up of all youth in the Christian Churches of the state who have made plans to study to serve as ministers or Christian Education workers.

The "Volunteers' Fellowship" plan is part of an overall program to recruit 100 ministerial students from the Christian Churches of North Carolina by 1960. The plan was authorized by the 112th Annual Convention of the North Carolina Christian Churches held here recently.

Local Delegates

Youth from the Greenville Christian Church attending the conference are J. Roy Martin, Jr., Joyce Sutton, Judy Jolly, Millie Bowden, Silva Vincent, Polly Batts, Bobby Carroll, Sara Ewell, and David Blackwood.

A GOOD WORLD
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Some big boys roughed up 6-year-old Charles Johnson and took $2.50 he had collected while selling newspapers. Milton Burach of Phoenix heard about the robbery and sent police a $2.50 check to give to the lad so he'll know "it's a good world after all."

Ayden Seniors Busy On Their Class Play

By JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON
Ayden School Reporter

The students at Ayden High are back at work after the Thanksgiving holidays and perhaps the busiest group is the Senior Class. The following superlatives were chosen at the regular class meeting: Best Looking—Ann McGlohon and R. L. Collins; Best Dressed—Jeannette Worthington and Key Baldree; Cutest—Henrietta Taylor and Sonny Harrington; Best All Around—Ann Long and Lindy Dunn; Most Sincere—Brownie Harrington and George Stancill; Most Likely to Succeed—Anne York and Bobby Gagon; Wildest—Sandra Basden and Horton Jolly; Friendliest—Liddie Anderson and James Lynn; Most Athletic—Sue Sutton and Burt Tripp; Most Popular—Betty Craft and Betty Craft and Betty Craft; Most Dependable—Willis; and Best Personality—Henrietta Taylor and Burt Tripp.

JEANNETTE

Dress Rehearsal for the annual Senior Play, "Love Begins at Sixty-Five," on Tuesday night was a big success. This promises to be one of the best amateur productions ever staged at Ayden High. Mrs. C. C. Little is directing the play.

(Pete Lowell) (Lindy Dunn) and Angus McDonald (Horton Jolly) are the partially owned owners of the Sleeping Beauty Hotel. A favorite niece, Ester Lowell (Henrietta Taylor), shoulders the responsibilities and the old men find their leisure falls upon them. Pete, who keeps both in hot water with his "ideas," sends for a book entitled "Love Begins at Sixty-Five" and has it sent in Angus' name. Wayne Odell (Herb Little) and Judith Allen (Sandra Basden), handsome young policeman and attractive reporter on the local paper, impress the old men as an "awful purty pair" as do Ronald Carleton (Key Baldree) and Fawn Rollins (Bonny Rutledge), young doctor and nurse. The men don't overlook Fannie (Brownie Harrington), the hired girl, and Lester Hawkins (Ronnie Tripp), Fannie's backward boy friend. With the book as their guide, Pete and Angus proceed to turn the lives of the occupants topsy-turvy.

A variety of fake accidents and burglaries backfire and Pete finds himself nearly in the arms of amorous Abbie Piley (Ann Long).

To complicate things Pete and Angus pose as Wayne and Ronald and are frightened out of their wits by the blind dates Dotty (Annette Willoughby) and Joanne (Jeannette Worthington) arranged by Wayne and Ronald. So much action makes the young people conscious of one another and they decide to get together through their own methods. Thus "Love Begins at Sixty-Five" proves nothing save that love may begin at any age and surmount any obstacles.

The comedy by John Nash will be presented November 30 at eight p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Wednesday during Chapel period, Lindy Dunn who is president of the AHS Student Council, presented Miss Jones and Mr. Smith, student teachers in the Business department, and Mrs. Odham and Miss Evans, student teachers in the English department, with gifts.

Basketball practice is an important activity at AHS now. The Tornados are getting in shape for the first game in the Ayden High Gym on December 4, when they will be host to Robersonville.

The following cheerleaders will cheer the team to victory this season: Ann McGlohon, chief, Suzanne Taylor, Brenda Davis, Peggy Wingate, Pattie McCay, Julaine Cannon, and Annette Willoughby.

On Tuesday of this week, David Gagnon made all group pictures for the high school annual, "The Wheel." The Annual Staff spent part of the Thanksgiving holidays working on the first pages of the annual.

The third year Home Economics students, Betty Craft, Dorothy

Hart, Nancy Jackson, Doris Whaley, Shelby Dupree, Jessie McLawhorn, Liddle Anderson, and Evelyn Jones, entertained their mothers at a turkey dinner last Wednesday. The Home Economics cottage was decorated in the traditional Thanksgiving manner. Each guest was presented a yellow mum corsage.

The following members of the Ayden Chapter of the National Forensic League attended a forum at Belvoir-Falkland High School Monday night: Carol Lynn Caviler, Pattie McCay, Carl Nobles, Buddy Ross, George Stancill, Gwynn Merritt, Wilbur Ormond, and Bryan Little.

Tuesday is Stamp Day at Ayden High. The Future Business Leaders of AHS are sponsoring this School Savings Program. This program is to help develop skill in thrift and wise use of economic resources. The goals in this program are: to teach pupils to save; to teach skills and understanding in arithmetic, budgeting, and social studies; to teach responsibility, cooperation, and leadership; to teach citizenship and patriotism. There will also be awards given to each student who purchases a bond or stamps enough and converts them into a bond, a citation from the treasury department; to each homeroom that purchases $100 worth of stamps or bonds, a citation; and the homeroom in each department (primary, elementary, and high school) that purchases the most per week will get to keep a poster of honor award to good citizens for that week.
