

SUEZ WITHDRAWAL SET WITHOUT DELAY

Gardner New Commission Chairman

British Announce Joint Decision

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer Pitt County Commissioners this morning named B. Alton Gardner of Chocod as their new chairman and unanimously accepted the application of D. E. Perry of Bethel for the vacant position in the county tax department.

Gardner will replace retiring chairman W. Jasper Smith of Bethel. Elected to serve with him as vice-chairman was Woodrow Wooten of Falkland, who was sworn in for a new term this morning. Also sworn in this morning was R. L. Martin of Bethel who will replace Smith as a member of the board.

Perry, a State Highway Patrolman, will report to the job January 1, 1957, for a six-month training period. His permanent status will be determined at the end of the training period. The vacancy occurred November 6 when the commissioners accepted the resignation of Henry L. Andrews, who had been assistant tax collector since October 25, 1931. Andrews had been suspended and offered his resignation October 30 when shortages were found in funds handled by Andrews. Andrews agreed to make a settlement of $8,850 with the county the day his resignation was accepted. Perry has been with the Highway Patrol since September, 1947, and has been stationed at Bethel. He is a native of Bailey and is a member of Bethel who is a teacher at Third Street School in Greenville. They have one son, David Delbert, 3.

The board also voted unanimously to authorize Allred to hire another woman to assist in office details. Allred was given authority to make final selection of the new worker. Among the reports accepted was one from county attorney W. W. Speight who told the group that the Mid-East Airport's application had been received by the Civil Aeronautics Administration and a ruling is expected around the first of the year. Speight, chairman of the airport commission, presented the application to the CAA's regional board in Fort Worth, Texas, and he said, "We have every reason to feel optimistic about acceptance of the application."

The Pitt-Greenville airport was reported in good condition with a small increase in receipts this year. The commissioners' airport committee also said that buildings on the airport property are in good shape. The board gave its approval to a beer license application by Mack Bunting after hearing reports from Sheriff Ruel Tyson and Allred. The board action was a routine matter and the Sheriff pointed out that actual granting of the license will be made by state officials when Bunting meets requirements of the state's licensing agency. A tax refund of $17.73 was authorized for Frank Taylor who had been penalized for late listing. Allred and Speight pointed out to the board that Taylor was a patient in a VA hospital at the time of the listing and unable to comply with regulations. Other tax releases were approved by the board and signed by Smith after hearing recommendations from Allred. Guaranty Bank and Trust Company and the State Bank were named as official depositories for county tax collections in another routine procedure. The naming of depositories is required by bonding companies dealing with the county. County Auditor H. Reginald Gray reported that the proposed union of Pitt and Greene county health departments is still under study. He said that he, commissioner Perkins and D. H. Conley had met with Dr. Walter C. Humbert and a committee appointed by Greene County commissioners to discuss the proposal since the last meeting of the commissioners. Board members also formally approved Christmas and New Year's holidays for county offices under provisions of an earlier resolution. Christmas holidays will include December 24, 25 and 26 and New Year's Day will be observed by closing on January 1. Other business during the morning session included acceptance of reports from various county agencies and drawing of a jury list for a January term of Superior Court.

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said today Britain and France have decided they can now withdraw their forces from Egypt "without delay." Lloyd told a tense session of the House of Commons the two governments "have instructed the allied commander in chief, Gen. (Sir Charles) Keightley, to seek agreement with the United Nations commander, Gen. E. L. M. Burns, on a timetable for the complete withdrawal, taking account of the military and practical problems involved."

"The French and British governments have come to the conclusion that withdrawal of their forces in the Port Said area can now be carried out without delay." Lloyd declared, amid opposition Laborite jeers: "Given good faith on all sides it can be carried out in a short time." Lloyd declared U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will promote negotiations as quickly as possible on three matters: 1. The six requirements set out in the U.N. Security Council resolution of Oct. 13 which would keep the Suez Canal out of national and international politics. 2. Talks in New York between Hammarskjold, Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi. Lloyd did not elaborate. Hammarskjold's proposed basis for negotiating a new regime for the Suez Canal, based on the six requirements of the Oct. 13 resolution. Lloyd added: "I believe we shall reach an agreement providing adequate guarantees that the six requirements will be met. Her Majesty's government of course adhere to their view as expressed in the resolution voted on by the Security Council on the 13th of October with regard to the 18-power proposals." The 18-power proposals were formulated in London soon after Egypt nationalized the canal and would set up a system for international control of the waterway. The Security Council on Oct. 13 unanimously accepted six principles for negotiations on Suez. They were: 1. Free and open transit through the canal without discrimination. 2. Respect for Egypt's sovereignty. 3. Insulation of the canal from the politics of any country. 4. Fixing of tolls to be decided by agreement between Egypt and the users. 5. A proportion of the dues to be allotted to development. 6. Disputes to be settled by arbitration. Lloyd did not lay down in his statement details of a time table for the complete withdrawal of the British-French forces.

Budapest Seethes With Rumors New Fighting Has Erupted Against Reds

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Budapest seethed with reports today of new fighting between Hungarian rebels and the Russian army in the countryside. The reports were spread word to mouth and were heard by Western diplomats. Sizeable bands of guerrilla freedom fighters were said to be battling from forests and hills both in northern and southern Hungary. Pecs, a center of Hungary's coal and uranium mines, was named as one of the chief redoubts of the rebel holdouts. Communications between Pecs and Budapest were broken.

Some rumors in the capital said shooting heard here yesterday was artillery fire on Hungarian attackers. Another rumor said Russians and Hungarians were fighting in the Buda section of the capital this morning. (The government controlled Budapest radio explained that the firing was an artillery salute at a burial ceremony for Russian soldiers killed in the rebellion.) None of these reports could be confirmed. Some of them apparently sprang from lack of confidence in the government controlled radio and newspaper. Budapest people displayed their disgust with the Communist party newspaper, Nepszabadsag, when they burned stacks of the paper in the streets yesterday. But many people still buy the paper because it is the only one to give information on the Olympic games. The Hungarians remain ardent sports fans despite their manifold troubles. The Budapest population appeared not to have needed calls to new strikes which were made through leaflets last week. Western correspondents visited the Csepel iron and steel works this morning and found chimneys smoking and production going on in haphazard fashion.

"We have to live and we can earn money by merely showing up at the plants," seemed to be the consensus of opinion. More street cars and buses were running. But the population's enmity toward the Soviet-imposed government of Communist Premier Janos Kadar was evidenced in many ways. An inscription chalked on the wall of a downtown public lavatory read: "None of the Communist party."

Local Home Heavily Damaged By Blaze Early This Morning

Fire heavily damaged a house at 604 Howell St. this morning. The early morning blaze followed a weekend during which local firemen answered three false alarms. The dwelling which caught fire was occupied by David L. Baker and his family. The house is owned by George Saad. Flames gutted one room of the dwelling destroying a bed and other furniture. The fire burned through an outside wall and fire fighters reported that they could see the flames as they neared the scene of the fire.

Baker, his wife and three children were able to escape from their burning dwelling without injury, firemen reported. The West End sub-station truck was first at the scene of the blaze. It was followed by two trucks from the main station. Firemen laid heavy hose line to the scene but the heavy line was not needed. The blaze was brought under control with high pressure lines from two trucks. Dense smoke filled the dwelling after the fire was brought under control and firemen were hampered in their efforts to move smoldering furniture from the dwelling by the smoke. The fire was reported around 1:50 a.m. this morning. Firemen remained at the scene until shortly before 3 o'clock. Early Sunday morning fire fighters answered three successive false alarms. The first came shortly after midnight. The alarm was turned in at the Willow and Library Sts. box. A short while later a second alarm came from a box at Sunset and Arlington Dr. The third false alarm came within an hour from a box in Elmhurst.

School Board Asks Federal Help For Integration Woes

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP)—The Anderson County School Board asked the federal government today for help in enforcing racial integration at Clinton High School. Otherwise, the board said, "it might become necessary to close" the school. The board acted in an extraordinary 7:30 a.m. session. In a letter to U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell the board declared: "The school board of Anderson County has conscientiously done all in its power to comply with the direction of the U.S. District Court in Knoxville, which ordered the integration last Jan. 4. This has been done, contrary to our convictions on the matter and in the face of constant criticism and harassment from our fellow citizens. The Anderson County School Board must know whether the Department of Justice intends to continue lack of enforcement of the federal court injunction (against interfering with integration). If so, it might become necessary to close the Clinton High School so long as we are under order to abolish segregation."

Ten Negro pupils remaining of a dozen admitted under federal court orders this year have stayed away from school since last Tuesday. They demanded the board give them assurance of their personal safety. They left school after rock and egg throwing incidents last Monday and Tuesday climaxed a series of acts of harassment by white pupils which had developed in recent weeks. The admission of the Negroes among 800 white pupils Aug. 27 was followed by a week of increasing crowds and disorders, climaxed by arrival of state troopers and National Guardsmen Labor Day weekend. No new trouble of consequence developed after the guard left, school officials said, until after John Kasper, 26, of Washington, D. C., was tried and acquitted on state charges growing out of his activities in stirring up opposition to the desegregation at school opening. Kasper has appealed a sentence of a year in prison for violation of an order by U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor prohibiting anybody from doing anything which might tend to cause interference with peaceful desegregation.

Reliable reports reaching Vienna, in Austria, said guerrillas in the Meesek Mountains and around Lake Balaton were attacking Soviet units nightly. The Russians were said to have sent one of their most energetic commanders to the region to track down the insurgents. In snow-flecked Budapest, thousands of Hungarians plodded wearily through the cemeteries, trying to identify their dead among the unclaimed bodies from the Soviet-crushed revolt. Hundreds of simple black wooden coffins, their lids open for identification purposes, were scattered about the graveyards. There has been no official disclosure of the number killed in the revolt. Estimates range from 20,000 to 50,000. Budapest radio, controlled by Premier Janos Kadar's Soviet-supported government, acknowledged that "almost 100,000 Hungarians have left the country for Austria." The number who have fled to Austria since Oct. 28 actually totals nearly 110,000. The radio tried to paint a grim picture of the refugees in Austria, describing them as living in pitiable conditions in concentration camps surrounded by barbed wire.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The Cuban army said rebel troops landed on Cuba's south coast and government forces were advancing on them early today. It said army planes had strafed an "enemy" band and scattered it, and that the navy had intercepted a yacht off the coast and found baggage believed to belong to Fidel Castro Ruz, a Cuban student leader who has been in exile in Mexico. A small-scale rebellion began Friday at Santiago de Cuba.

Hungary OKs A Later Visit UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Hungarian government today accepted the offer of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to visit Budapest but specified that the visit should be "at a later date appropriate for both parties." At the same time, the puppet Communist regime again rejected the demands of the General Assembly for the entry of U.N. observers into Hungary to investigate the situation there.

Pitt Red Cross Has $968 Quota

Pitt County has been assigned a quota of $968 for the special American Red Cross campaign to raise funds for aiding people in war torn Hungary. Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, spokesman for the local Red Cross chapter said today, "The tragic suffering of the people of Hungary has caused every American to want to send help. This help has gone from the American Red Cross and we have been joined by other Red Cross societies throughout the world in rushing medical supplies, food, blankets and other necessities to the stricken area." Jenkins pointed out that needs continue to mount in Hungary as well as among refugees who have escaped to Austria and other countries. "I know all of us will want to do all we can to help these suffering people," he said. Pitt County residents are urged to send contributions to the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 586, Greenville. "I feel certain that we shall be able to answer this challenge in the splendid manner in which we have in the past," Jenkins declared.

Six Injured As 2 Cars Collide Six people were injured Saturday night in a two-car collision at the intersection of highway 118 and the St. John's road. Investigating Patrolman R. P. Taylor said one of the automobiles, operated by Earl Van Mumford, 20, of Grifton Route 2, was stopped at a stop sign at the intersection when it was hit head-on by a car driven by Waldo Phillips, 31-year-old Negro of Grifton. Taylor charged Phillips with driving drunk, careless and reckless driving, speeding and no operator's license. After treatment for face and head lacerations, Phillips was lodged in Pitt County jail. Mumford was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of face and head lacerations. Donald M. Koons, 20, a passenger in Mumford's car, also was admitted to the hospital for injuries described by the patrolman as skull fractures and lacerations. Three passengers in the car driven by Phillips also were injured in the accident. They were Leslie Lee Cox, Negro of Grifton, face and head lacerations; Roosevelt Barrow, 32-year-old Negro of Grifton, minor head injury; and Woodrow Garris, 27-year-old Grifton Negro who received a fractured leg and lacerations.

Two Men Injured When Two Automobiles Collide

Two persons received injuries when the 1955 model vehicle in which they were riding crashed into the rear of a car on Tenth St. Saturday afternoon. The injured were identified by investigating officer K. E. Warren as Carlton Lee Adams of Greenville Rt. 2 who received head and facial injuries, and Morgan Fordham of 112 N. Summit St. who received head, face and chest injuries. Both men were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment following the crash. Warren reported that the car operated by Fordham crashed into the rear of a 1941 model car being driven by Herbert E. Floyd of Grimesland Rt. 1 on Tenth St. Floyd's car had stopped behind a vehicle being driven by Frank E. Parrott, Jr. of Creedmoor Rt. 1. Parrott had stopped to make a left turn. Damage to Parrott's Truck was estimated at $10. Floyd's car received approximately $100 damage. The vehicle in which Fordham and Adams were injured received an estimated $1,900 damage. Warren said investigation of the accident is incomplete.

Shower Honors Miss Jean Tyson

Miss Jean Tyson, December bride-elect, was honored at a floating miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Robert Shoe Friday night from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Hostesses were Miss Lina Crawford, Mrs. Ralph Tyson and Mrs. Shoe.

They presented the honoree with a white fuji mum corsage upon arrival.

Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Crawford and Miss Tyson. They were shown into the dining room where the table was laid with a white cutwork cloth upon which two silver candelabra with crystal sparklers were placed. The candelabra were tied with white ribbons and miniature wedding bells.

The centerpiece was of white mums and sprays of fern. On each side, narcissus filled the epergnettes.

Hostesses served nuts, potato chips, chicken salad and pimento cheese sandwiches, bridal cakes and punch.

Mrs. Shoe poured while Mrs. Ralph Tyson served bridal cakes. Mrs. Lloyd Ballance and Mrs. W. R. Tyson, mother of the bride-elect, assisted in serving.

Some fifty-five guests called during the evening to shower the honoree with bridal gifts. The hostesses presented her with an electric percolator.

Married Fifty Years

Arthur L. Woolard Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. Heber Fleming, G. H. Roebuck and Mr. E. L. Woolard held open house at their parents' home in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary November 25 from three to five in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolard were married Nov. 28, 1906 by the Rev. W. O. Winfield, Christian minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Roebuck greeted guests and then directed them to Mr. and Mrs. Woolard who received them informally. After congratulations and good wishes Ann Woolard invited the guests into the dining room where Mrs. Ed Woolard and Carol Fleming served cake, punch, nuts and mints.

Misses Jean Fleming and Helen Woolard presided over the register. Leon Fleming and George Roebuck showed the gifts and said goodbyes.

The home was decorated with arrangements of yellow fall flowers, brass candleholders and ivy. The dining room table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a green, gold and white threetered wedding cake.

Tweeds Acquire Party Manners

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
TIME WAS WHEN the mention of tweeds brought to mind visions of briar pipes, tramping over the moors and the bluff camaraderie of the horsy-set.

But tweeds have changed, along with the times, and nowadays some of the most feminine and elegant cocktail, dinner and theater outfits are made of British tweeds sheer as a whisper and light as a fluff of thistledown.

In a season notable for the return of elaborate formal fashions, some of the most dramatic are done in tweeds, alone or in combination with rich satins or brocades. Notable examples are Vera Maxwell's striking evening ensembles which combine tweed and silk brocade in tender or vivid colors. She does a full length mandarin evening coat in flame tweed lined in brocade to match the long sheath beneath. Another version is a short dinner ensemble in pale blue tweed and matching brocade, coat lined to match the dress.

Black tweed is another innovation of the season, used by Anthony Blotia as a strictly elegant theater coat lined and faced in white wool.

Other designers are employing tweeds in dressy separates such as an embroidered gray tweed skirt and cashmere sweater, or tweed coats trimmed with mutation mink.

Keep either a straight-edged knife or a small spatula in your kitchen for leveling off a cup (or fractions of a cup) when you are measuring dry ingredients.

Grademothers Endorse Chicod Band Program

At a meeting of the Chicod School's grademother's organization, the proposed school band was discussed and the group voted to endorse the program.

Plans are underway to further this program.

The organization met recently with Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, chairman, to discuss projects and problems of the school.

F. H. Hodges, principal, was present to speak on attendance, report cards and promotional policies of the school.

Also discussed were the school guidance program and school parties.

A meeting was planned to which all parents will be invited when they will work with teachers in helping solve some of the guidance problems.

The group endorsed a plan for two school parties per year. These parties, it was decided, should be used as teaching situations, using all parents of the group concerned. Christmas parties are scheduled for December 19.

Young Moderns

BY VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

A tape recorder may help you find your niche in the world. If the family can afford to pool their resources and get you one for Christmas, you may find that your voice is worth cultivating for the drama, opera or other enterprise.

Take charming Linda Babits, 15, whose rendition of a selection of classical works for the piano is being offered members of the "Tape of the Month Club," a New York organization which operates along the lines of a book club. She is billed as a "brilliant pianist."

It all started when Linda was ill seven years ago. She and her school teacher mother played a fun game of scales on the piano. That's when mother noticed that Linda had an aptitude for the instrument. Two years after her first lesson, Linda was featured in an all-star musical benefit at Madison Square Garden. At 10 Linda had distinction of being the youngest soloist to play a major concert with the U. S. Military Academy Band at West Point.

She has appeared at New York's Town Hall, and has been on radio and TV. On her "Tape of the Month" Linda plays works by Bach, Mozart, Chopin, Scarlatti and Carcassi. At the New York High Fidelity Show the Babits tape outsold all major symphony orchestras 3 to 1, according to a spokesman for the tape club.

Linda, who possesses that soulful look peculiar to gifted musicians, says that anyone who thinks she has talent should stick to her guns. If your mother and father do not encourage you, keep trying anyway. Finally you may convince them. She explains:

"I was very lucky that my mother not only discovered my talent but encouraged it. If parents cannot afford lessons there are many organizations that will help get you started."

Linda reminds us too that anything worthwhile is worth fighting for, and suggests that after-school jobs may help pay for the lessons. Says she:

"The important thing is to keep at it. Only practice can bring perfection. Whatever happens do not let people who do not understand music give you wrong advice."

If a tape recorder comes your way, play good tapes on it—those that help you follow the pattern of your own talent. Record the best from your own violin, piano, or harp and don't be afraid to criticize your own work. Someday you'll find a tape that you won't erase, and thereby, perhaps, will hang a story.

Not 'Desirable', But Imperative

North Carolinians during the next few months should give careful consideration to the new concepts of taxation which have been proposed by the special committee that has made recommendations for re-vamping the tax structure for the state.

For a long time it has been evident that North Carolina's tax laws needed a thorough revision. For decades they have been added to, amended, interpreted and in general have become almost hodge-podge. It is indeed time the state reorganized its tax structure if for no other reason but to clarify many matters which have become thoroughly confused over the years.

The new proposals, however, do a great deal more than that.

The recommended sweeping changes pointed at a more equitable distribution of the tax load. Included in the attempt for a more equitable distribution of the tax burden are considerations which the committee feels will make North Carolina more attractive to industry. Certainly this matter cannot be overlooked in an era when industrial development must be pushed forward by every sound means.

At the same time we cannot overlook the fact that proposed revisions in the tax structure would decrease state revenues almost nine million dollars at a time when almost every agency and facet of the state government is crying for additional funds with which to carry out its service to the people of North Carolina. Those who have made the exhaustive study of the state's tax structure point out that while their recommendations might indicate revenue losses on the basis of comparisons with previous years, these losses would be more than off-set by new tax revenues from industrial expansion which the new tax structure would foster. The people of North Carolina must recognize that the state has crossed the threshold of a new era. The state cannot expect an antiquated tax structure to fill its needs in this new era any more than it can expect antiquated machinery to compete with modern equipment in this age of mass production. A change in the present tax structure of the state therefore is not only desirable but imperative.

Of major importance at the moment is the question of whether the people of North Carolina will embrace the new concepts of taxation for the state which have been proposed? And, accepting the new concepts, will they follow the full package of recommendations which have been made?

The tax revisions will have a direct bearing upon every citizen of the state. It is of utmost importance, therefore, that the people give careful consideration to the recommendations before the matters are officially presented to the General Assembly.

Pupil Assignment Act To Be Tackled

By LYNN NISBET
SCHOOL LAWS — It has been regarded as certain that among the first business of the regular 1957 Legislature would be re-enactment of the statutes implementing the Pearsall Plan for Public School Administration. These acts were written into the law by the special session, to become effective upon ratification of the constitutional amendment submitted at the same time.

No serious question has been raised, but some doubt has been expressed about validity of legislation made contingent upon later action of the people. Re-enactment of the bills after the constitution had been amended will remove that question.

It now appears likely that the 1955 Pupil Assignment Act, which was materially amended at the 1956 special session, may be re-written in 1957 in an effort to meet conditions posed by decisions of the Federal courts.

BACKGROUND — When the U. S. Supreme Court, months after its desegregation decision in the Brown case, handed down an implementation decree granting time and discretion to the states in carrying out the desegregation "edict," newspapers throughout the country hailed the decree as containing some concessions to the Southern viewpoint.

The court, it was clear, wasn't going to attempt to ram its decision quickly down the throats of unwilling Southerners. There would be time in the south to think of ways and means.

Since that time the courts have been gradually defining what they mean by time and discretion, setting some of the limits on time and even in North Carolina, where controversy over the school decision has been kept out of the explosive areas into which other states allowed it to go, the courts are now beginning to define the time element.

It began to emerge in the U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals decision at Richmond, Va. in the McDowell County, North Carolina, case. North Carolina lawyers, studying the text of the court's opinion, find therein a very clear statement of the court to show that legalistic maneuvering for the sheer purpose of delay will not be allowed by the federal courts to impede Negro plaintiffs in securing constitutional rights. The evident hope of legislators who wrote North Carolina's 1955 pupil assignment act to send appeals from the rulings of local school boards to the state courts before plaintiffs could get them in federal district courts hasn't succeeded.

Negro plaintiffs in the McDowell County case argued they were entitled to federal action to force admission of several pupils to a school attended only by whites because the state's administrative remedy was obviously a dodge.

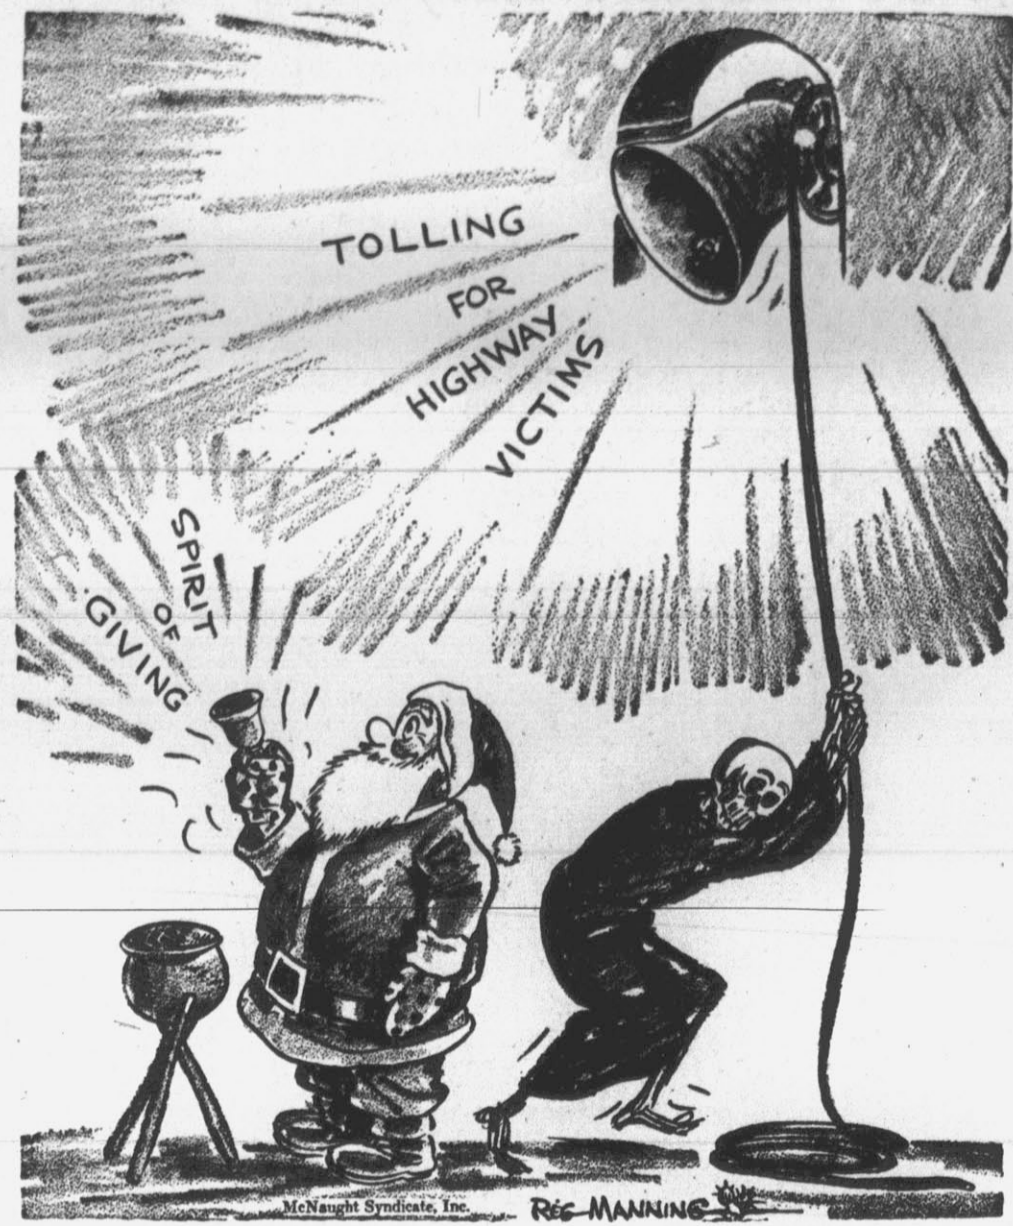

But the Fourth Circuit Court opinion declared: "It is argued the statute does not provide an adequate administrative remedy because it is said that it provides for appeal to the Superior and Supreme Courts of the state and that these courts in considering the proceedings for admission to a school term will become moot before they can be completed."

"It is clear, however, that the appeals to the courts which the statute provides are judicial, not administrative remedies and that after administrative remedies before school boards have been exhausted, judicial remedies for denial of constitutional rights may be pursued at once in the federal courts without pursuing state court remedies."

And the court held that while Negro students must be considered and not as a class when they go before a school board, there is nothing to preclude the federal courts in considering the rights of these individuals at the same time when the school board's actions get before the district court.

Whether North Carolina's lawmakers can amend the 1955 enrollment statute in a way to make it pass muster as a part of the administrative process of making school enrollment decisions remains to be seen. If that seems to be a possibility by the time the General Assembly gathers next February, there is little doubt that it will be attempted.

Some Returns From Tourism

By ELMER ROESSNER
Perhaps we can get back some of those billions of dollars we have been pouring into foreign countries. Maybe we can get wealthy foreigners to come here as tourists and throw money around the way Americans do in London, Havana and Paris.

America has largely overlooked a source of income carefully cultivated by other countries. It is tourism — the invisible export.

While Americans spend more than a billion dollars a year in foreign countries, foreigners spend only $600,000,000 a year here — and half of that is spent by Canadians, who are no more foreigners than are Texans.

Many foreigners are well-behaved for travel. Now that most areas have recovered economically, upper-class incomes are high and foreign taxes are often lower than ours.

TWO LINES OF ATTACK
The government is spending $800,000 a year to encourage foreign travel here. That's not much by Washington standards. It pays for an international travel division in the Department of Commerce. The sum compares with an estimated $1,000,000 a year the British spend here to attract American travelers. This pays off 100 to 1—the British promotions attract Americans who spend $100,000,000 a year in the tight little isles.

American resort and travel interests are now campaigning for an appropriation of at least $1,000,000 a year for government travel promotion. It's not much, but it could do more than maintain a bureau in Washington — such as a bit of glamor advertising overseas. Bills providing for such promotional funds are expected to be introduced into the next Congress.

Meanwhile, private enterprise is running ahead of the government. Pan American Airways and Simon & Schuster have published a 510-page guide book to the U. S., "New Horizons." It is now being placed on sale in English-speaking cities around the world. It will be followed by French, German, Italian and Spanish editions.

The guide tells what to see in these United States and covers a vast amount of useful travel information, including local customs, local liquor regulations, how much to tip, where to stop, where to have fun, where to find a broker or bookmaker, what climate to expect and what to buy.

HAZARDS OF PUBLISHING
It took a lot of courage to publish such a book. In a work of such scope, errors are inevitable. It was almost certain that, while the book was on the press, one or more hotels recommended would burn down and several night night clubs mentions would be taken over by sheriffs.

As expected, there have been some complaints. The most vigorous kick so far, says John Creedy, Pan Am executive, came from a Harvard grad. "You refer to Harvard campus," he wrote in high indignation. "Harvard does not have a campus. It has a yard!"

While exciting travel books and government programs may help, travel agents say one other step is even more important in encouraging travel-spending here. That is easing restrictions and cutting red tape for those who want to come here from foreign countries.

No nation this side of the Iron Curtain is harder to get into than the U. S., they say. Foreigners wishing to see the wonders of America, spending money all the while, must furnish so many documents and fingerprints that —offended and humiliated—many spend their vacations and money elsewhere. Radical changes in our methods of handling tourists could bring millions of dollars into the American economy, they contend.

No Slump Seen For Next Year

By ROGER BASSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Israel will withdraw from the Middle East situation. She has been warned that if there is a real war, she will probably be wiped out. If there is no trouble, it will be between Egypt, supported by Russia, and England, supported by France. France has probably lost the Arab countries. So it would be Egypt, supplied by munitions and air planes and so-called "volunteers" from Russia, against England, backed by France.

HOW EISENHOWER FEELS
Mr. Eisenhower knows the situation probably better than anyone else; he has spent a year in North Africa with the Arabs. We must count on a possible two- or three-year struggle — which probably means inflation. The United States will supply arms at least to England and possibly to Egypt. We would do that because we want to be on friendly terms with the Egyptians and Arabs.

Mr. Eisenhower is very much disappointed in both England and France. Not only did they not ask his advice, but they went ahead very contrary to his wishes. Mr. Eisenhower has also been disappointed in the way the Western Powers have failed in connection with NATO. He would not object to having these Western Powers — including England — get a good scare. Mr. Eisenhower was elected on the platform of Peace, Prosperity, and Progress. He will now either refuse to take any action or else will dump the problem in the lap of the United Nations. He certainly wishes to avoid another Korea.

PRICE OF GASOLINE
The oil interests have notified Washington that, on the basis solely of supply and demand, fuel oil and, indirectly, gasoline will move up 1/2¢ a month until oil is again coming from the Middle East. The Mid-East has pipeline and the most important one has already been blown up. England and France have already gone on a rationed basis for oil.

I think that the present uncertainty will drag on until the next Congressional elections. If it does, Eisenhower may think he can win Congress by just going to the people and telling them it is a choice between paying 10¢ a gallon more for oil or sending their boys to Europe, and that he will leave it to Congress. Therefore, he and his advisers feel the Republicans have a chance of getting control of both Houses in the next Congressional elections. With Eisenhower favoring free enterprise, he would very much hesitate to interfere with the natural flow of oil in either the East or West, but would leave the price to supply and demand.

THE DARDANELLES
The Middle East oil fields are the plum of the world until we get organized on nuclear energy. A month ago the land there in the world, Russia claims that it is not interested in the oil — that the only thing she will insist upon is the following: If the Suez is internationalized, the Panama Canal and the Dardanelles must also be internationalized. Russia insists that the Dardanelles and Panama be put on the same basis as Suez.

Egypt wants to represent the Arab world, but what is happening in Hungary should make the Arabs fear Russia and no longer trust her. The United States, therefore, stands a better chance of winning the Arab world. Eisenhower was over there for a year and he knows North Africa far better than does Eden or Mollet.

CONCLUSIONS
Under the above conditions, I now see no chance of a real slump next year (1957); but 1957 may be a leveling-off year. A big break may not occur, especially in view of all the pension funds and unemployment legislation, minimum wage laws, and the Employment Act of 1946. I still have faith in the Law of Action and Reaction; but when I developed the Babsonchart, we have been on a Gold Standard for many years. We had a natural ceiling and a natural floor. Hence, it was fairly easy then to make correct forecasts based on

Industrialization Is For The Farmer, Too

The squire of Haw River made an observation the other day which to a large degree has been overlooked by many North Carolinians.

He took the occasion of an address at Clinton to point out that farmers of North Carolina have just as great a stake in the industrial development of the state as do their cousins in the cities and towns.

Senator Scott called on farmers to take an active interest in the field of industrial development, pointing out they might develop new industries to process their own farm produce and likewise reap benefits from new industries which will bring in more people to purchase what is grown on the farms.

The need for industrial development has come to be recognized in North Carolina as a state-wide problem. The need for more industries and year-round pay-rolls is more acute in some areas than others, but it is generally evident that in the predominantly agricultural regions of the East new industry must be had if the economy is not to suffer. This section of the state has recognized for years that problems which confronted agriculture were not of interest only to those people who live on the farms. With the entire economic structure of the area tied for the most part to agriculture, problems pertaining to the farms were problems for the entire population.

Conversely, the day has arrived when agriculture alone cannot support the economy at a level the people of the area want. Not only is the matter of diversification of our agriculture of interest and importance to the people who live in cities and towns, but the matter of industrial development should be of interest to the people who live on the farms.

Farmers of North Carolina and particularly those of the Eastern part of the state can play a vital role in the industrial development of their section. Like Senator Scott, we would like to see the farmers take a greater active interest in the industrial development which will benefit all the people whether they live in rural or in urban areas.

Will You Forget One You Might Have Aided

There's still plenty of time for Christmas shopping, but it's not too early to begin thinking about the needy families of Pitt County who will be looking to their more fortunate neighbors for help at this Christmas season.

Civic Clubs, Sunday School classes, church groups and countless individuals in Pitt County each Christmas provide clothing, baskets of food and other Christmas gifts for needy families. Every effort is made to see that at Christmas every man, woman and child in the county is warm, well clothed and well fed at least for a few days. Despite the hundreds of Christmas baskets which are distributed at every Christmas season, some unfortunate individuals are forgotten. For them, Christmas is like any other day save what they feel in their hearts.

Will the forgotten family this Christmas be one you might have helped?

Other Editors Are Saying... Jobs Are Just Burned Out

(Hertford County Herald)
More than 2,000 good citizens from all over North Carolina took a day off last Wednesday to go to Raleigh to hear Governor Hodges, together with other outstanding leaders, deplore the annual waste of one of the state's most important industrial raw materials. This waste is the damage done to growing timber crops by forest fires. The annual loss is figured at thirty-five million dollars.

This staggering loss from forest fires can and should be reduced. North Carolina, a state with next to the lowest per capita income among the states of the nation, cannot afford this waste of one of its most important sources of income. We are too poor to permit the extravagance of burning our substance.

The purpose of the gathering of citizens in Raleigh was to impress upon them a sense of individual responsibility for aiding in forest fire prevention and the raw material for the state's lumber, papermaking, furniture and other industries using forest products. When growing timber is destroyed, whether mature stands or young growth, the entire state suffers loss, as well as the individual landowner whose property has gone up in smoke. There is a loss of jobs as well as property, for it is the timber that is produced from the forest acres that sustains the industries using forest products. Without the trees there are no jobs in the mills.

The greater part of the thirty-five million dollar annual waste from fire is preventable. Most forest fires, a fire set through negligence and carelessness. There are numerous laws on the books designed to fix responsibility upon individuals found guilty of such negligence that forest fires are started. The size of the annual fire loss and the importance of the timber crop to the agricultural and industrial economy of the state are sufficient to warrant strict enforcement of these laws. Enforcement officers need and deserve the assistance and cooperation of private citizens in the application of the laws pertaining to negligence in setting forest fires. A fire set through carelessness is as destructive and as much a loss as one set by a deliberate arsonist.

PURITANISM
The word "Puritanism" is a hateful word in modern life. Usually, it is associated with repression, bigotry, and more often than not, with hypocrisy. That Puritanism in the later stages of its development became sterile and corrupt, no one can deny. But most people do not realize that early Puritanism, beginning about 400 years ago, was a noble movement out of which grew democracy and a solid commitment to moral righteousness, which entered into the lives of millions of people and undergirded a few nations. The early Puritans gladly went to the stake for their beliefs. The men and women who landed on Plymouth Rock would probably not fit very well into modern life, but there could be no modern North America, with its free political institutions, had it not been for people such as these. The early Puritans were people who regarded their lives as a stewardship committed to them by God. They were here in the world only to serve God and do His will. Neither the lure of temptation nor the threat of punishment had any effect on these people.

We owe Puritanism more than we can ever repay. The fact that the movement changed for the worse with the passing of time should not render us blind to the marvelous contributions it made to human advancement.

Notebook On Life

Playing Santa Is A Science

By JOY MILLER
NEW YORK (AP)—There is more to being a street corner Santa Claus than wearing a red suit and beard and patting tots on the head.

It takes brotherly love, human charity and more Christian forbearance than you'd imagine. Then there's that business of cutting out garlic and onions so that the little lad who had tenderly confided his long for a bicycle won't be overcome when Santa advises him of the prospect.

The Volunteers of America, a national religious and social welfare organization which posts a hundred Santas in New York and a thousand across the country, has made a science out of playing Santa. But it's a science with a heart.

As Col. John F. McMahon, national executive secretary, explains their training program, the men meet a couple of hours a day for 14 days to discuss the do's and don'ts, and to see them demonstrated. The do's include attracting attention by waving to passersby and wishing them Merry Christmas, ringing their handbells loudly enough to be clearly heard, standing close to the chimney — into which the contributions are dropped — but not in front of it, keeping moustache and whiskers straight, being patient with little children.

The don'ts deal with not leaning on the chimney, visiting with friends while on duty, arguing, becoming over-familiar, obstructing traffic, smoking or eating or drinking while on duty. And no garlic or onions.

Col. McMahon — the Volunteers' officers have military titles — says the most important rule, probably, is not promising children that they'll get the gifts they ask for, but sending them away hopeful and happy.

"Many of the children who talk to the street corner Santas are poorer kids whose parents maybe can't afford what the children ask. If the Santas say "sure," you'll get it, sonny." There may be many disappointed youngsters on Christmas morning. I tell them to say something like, "Santa has lots of boys and girls to take care of, but he'll remember what you asked and if he can," the indirect approach."

Many of the Santas are old age pensioners. Col. McMahon says these men feel they want to do something for someone else at Christmas, since the rest of the year they have people looking out for them. The pay isn't much — at most $6.50 a day with meals.

Other Santas are poverty men who have made a pretty good rehabilitation in the Volunteers' shelter workshop program.

"Some have been on it for 10 years or more," says Col. McMahon. "Between Christmas and the next Thanksgiving, they

Unobtrusive Reminders Of U. S. Power

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — In an obvious warning to Russia, President Eisenhower has unobtrusively staged a demonstration of American military might and purpose in the wake of the Suez Canal crisis and Moscow's threat to send "volunteers" into the troubled area. Several seemingly unrelated maneuvers are designed to show the Kremlin that the United States is ready for war, if necessary, and to strengthen Allied and neutral.

Eisenhower has also acted to ascertain the accuracy of reports from Hungary and Poland that Russia's satellite troops are eager to desert to the West, and that even Red Army units are in a rebellious and discontented mood. There have been newspaper dispatches that invading Communist soldiers and local security forces would not fire on Budapest rebels, forcing the Kremlin to call on brutal Mongolians.

GENERAL DONOVAN SENT TO VIENNA Major General William J. Donovan has been rushed to Vienna by the White House to superintend the handling of Hungarian refugees, but that is regarded as only a "cover" assignment. "Wild Bill's" real task will be to question military and political experts from Hungary, and even from the Soviet itself, who are now in Austria. They can inform him on the satellites' attitude, if war should break, and of any morale breakdown among Moscow's occupation forces in Central Europe and the Balkans.

General Donovan is peculiarly equipped for this work. He headed the Office of Strategic Services during World War II, which co-operated with resistance movements in all these puppet countries. He served as a U. S. Observer in Southeastern Europe in 1940-1941, helping to organize anti-Falter underground cells. As an intimate acquaintance of key figures throughout this rebellious area, he is a one-man intelligence agency.

LAWYER-SOLDIER'S MAN IN Donovan will report to the Joint Chiefs of Staff after he has quizzed — the most reliable and firsthand informants on the Russian and satellite military potentialities and weaknesses. Besides refugees from the puppet regimes, there are former Moscow officials now in Vienna. They have furnished important data to Allen Dulles' Central Intelligence Agency.

"Wild Bill," however, has sources which even Dulles' agents and our diplomatic attaches cannot tap. The Congressional Medal of Honor winner for bravery on many World War I battlefields is our No. 1 "cloak and dagger" man, although the modest lawyer from Buffalo dislikes that description.

NORSTAD'S DEFENSE SURPRISE Other Eisenhower gestures are directed at Russia. In an interview with a weekly magazine, General Lauris Norstad, new SHAPE commander, revealed for the first time publicly that his forces would use atomic weapons in a defense of Western Europe, preparatory to a massive retaliatory attack on Russia.

He also admitted — and this is a surprise — that we would supply atomic warheads to SHAPE Allies who do not possess them, and none except Britain does. General Alfred M. Gruenther, retiring SHAPE head, has said that such a bombardment would "destroy" Russia. B-52 BOMBERS' LONG DISTANCE FLIGHT Almost simultaneously, the Pentagon announced that B-52 bombers had made successful, long-distance flights around Canada and the U. S. The communique noted that these planes, which can carry A and H bombs, could take off from British bases, fly over Russia, and land in Turkey.

A day after this announcement, it was decided that the Strategic Air Command, which developed the B-52, would have the exclusive assignment of long-range bombing of enemy territory. It was considered significant that Defense Secretary Wilson selected this particular time of crisis to settle the bitter, four-year controversy, between the Army and Air Force over this problem of bombing priority.

Driver Can't Forget Hitting That Child

I saw a flash of red color

By ROBERT H. SPIEGEL
DES-MOINES TRIBUNE WRITER

Don't read this if you have ever killed a child with your car. You won't need it.

Otherwise, you had better read every word.

This is for any motorist, more for the careless than the careful. And it is for every parent of a child who might dart into the street after a rolling ball... and never get it... or run to meet a friend on the other side of the street... and never reach him.

This is the story of a man whose car struck and killed a small child.

There is small comfort to the man because authorities called it "an accident." The little girl is dead.

The name of the driver isn't important. He suffered enough when the impersonal words in the newspaper spelled out what happened on that summer day two years ago.

It's enough to say he's a young business man nearing 30. He is married and has two children.

For the sake of anonymity he will be called Mr. Miller. This is the way he tells it.

Leaves Early

It was a clear, warm day. Miller usually left his office at the edge of town about 5 p.m. On this particular day he left early, shortly before 4 p.m.

(Since he has asked himself again and again... "why, why did I have to leave early that day?" Just a minute or two, or a few seconds either way, and it wouldn't have happened...)

Miller was driving on a smooth country road. There was no posted speed limit. Later he estimated he was driving about 45 miles an hour.

"I wasn't going anywhere in a hurry," he says. "I'd left work early. There was no rush.

"I saw this car coming toward me slowly. A door swung open on the side opposite the driver. I saw quite a few people in the car.

"I never actually saw the girl. I remember seeing a flash of red color. I heard the car hit something, then I saw children near the rear of the car that had stopped.

"I knew I had hit someone. Maybe it was their dog. But I knew it wasn't.

"I was so stunned I let the car coast a ways."

He felt detached from the event. He was there, but he wasn't.

Authorities pieced together the story. The man in the car that had stopped was bringing several youngsters home from school. The children got out of the car and apparently ran out from behind the car. A little girl was first. She ran in front of Miller's car.

"I ran back and saw her in the ditch. She was awfully close to the size of my own little girl."

The driver of the other car ran up. He carried a blanket. Miller put the little girl on the blanket and picked her up in his arms. Her eyes were closed. They started toward a hospital.

"All the time I tried to think that it was nothing more than a broken leg, nothing more. But I knew she was dead all the time.

Either dead or she was going to die.

"It was such a lost feeling."

At the hospital they took the small girl from Miller's arms. He looked at the crook of the arm where he had pillowed her head. The arm was soaked with blood. He hadn't noticed before.

Two or three minutes later a doctor came out and said the girl was dead.

Toughest Moment

The "toughest moment" Miller ever has experienced came a few minutes later when the parents of the girl arrived at the hospital. "I kept thinking, 'What if it had been my little girl.'"

That was two long years ago but the accident still lives with Miller.

"Even now when I drive down the street and see kids going across ahead of me... the impact is almost as great as the day of the accident.

"I drive so cautiously today that sometimes I think I look ridiculous, but I don't care."

One great fear rides with Miller: "It could happen to me again and I couldn't possibly go through it a second time."

He doesn't want to see a flash of red color again. And feel the cruel bump.

Juniors Preparing For Banquet, Dance

BY ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir - Falkland Reporter

Members of the Junior Class are busy working on their Junior-Senior Banquet and Dance which is scheduled for Friday, December 21.

The date represents a switch from traditional Spring dates for the event and the Juniors are anxious to make it a success. At the present time, finishing touches are being given to plans for decorations, menu, program and guests.

Next Friday has been selected as the date for the annual Homecoming celebration.

The basketball game with Bear Grass will be started at 7 p.m. in an effort to begin the Homecoming "Sock Hop" at 10 p.m. in the gymnasium.

A Homecoming Queen will be crowned and a special recognition will be given to other contestants sponsored by high school classes and clubs.

The school will be open to parents and other visitors throughout the day as a part of the celebration.

Approximately 40 National Forensic League students from Belvoir-Falkland, Ayden and Greenville high schools met at BFHS last Wednesday for a practice session. The practice included poetry and Bible readings, radio script and extemporaneous talks.

Scorers for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Willard Finch, Mr. R. B. Starling, Mr. O. H. Forrest, Miss Viola Brown and Miss Gladys Hathaway. After the practice the delegates were served refreshments in the teacher's lounge.

Nancy Baker celebrated her 16th birthday November 25 with a party and dance in the Falkland Community Building. Guests were from Fountain, Farmville, Belvoir, Greenville, Bethel and Stantonsburg and the dance included a get-acquainted game so that strangers might meet each other.

The building was decorated with pines and lighted by candles. Refreshments included the traditional cake, peanuts, potato chips, candy and lime ice. The honoree wore a winter-white dress with a rounded neck and empire skirt.

The dance was chaperoned by Nancy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Baker; her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Baker; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Norville; and Mrs. C. B. Joyner.

Twenty-three students have been named to the Honor Roll after completion of the latest six-weeks marking period which ended last Wednesday. Fourty-seven other students made the Principal's List.

Honor Roll members include the following:

Second grade: Carol Lewis. Fourth grade: Patsy Jo Teel. Fifth grade: Linda Ann Freeman. Sixth grade: Elizabeth Boyd, Brenda Laughinghouse, Harriette Turner and Waylon Whitley.

Seventh grade: Joyce Boyd, Linda Lou Clark and Pauline Flake. Eighth grade: Carolyn Harris and Betty Mae Harrell. Ninth grade: Ernest Lewis, Marie Harrell and Barbara Parker. Tenth grade: Gail Garris. Eleventh grade: Jean Flake, Sheila Wooten and Anne Harris. Twelfth grade: Joyce Jenkins, Peggy Wallace, Glorice Langston and Shelby James.

The Principal's List included the following:

Second grade: Marlene Sutton, Yvonne Pollard, Peggy Lou Harris, Marie Stalls and Williams

Gunfight Began In Oklahoma, Ended In Texas With Capture

SHAMROCK, Tex. (AP) — A gunfight which started in Oklahoma, killed a teen-age member of a posse and wounded two officers ended in the Texas Panhandle yesterday with the capture of a gunman dozing beside his dead half-brother.

James William Whiteard, 21, of Phoenix, Ariz., told officers he shot Junior Bard Myers, 32, to death in the dark, thinking Myers was part of the posse which surrounded them.

Victor Lee Stephens, 19, was killed in a gunfight Saturday at dusk while hunting for the pair on his father's ranch.

Texas Ranger Jim Faulk said Whiteard signed a statement saying he shot Myers when he blasted with a sawed-off shotgun at a figure in the brush.

Officers said Myers had numerous aliases and a long arrest record in the southwest and on the West Coast. They said Whiteard apparently had no record, but also went under the name of James Hunter.

The men were trapped near here Saturday night in a 1,200-acre area of scrubby brush on the ranch of J. B. Stephens, the slain youth's father.

Officers surrounded the area while planes dropped flares. Bloodhounds were flown in. At sunrise they led mounted officers to the pair.

Whiteard was sitting up dozing, an empty whisky bottle nearby. He did not resist.

Myers was lying about 30 yards away, his half-frozen body torn with shotgun slugs and his left arm broken.

A loaded shotgun and a high-powered rifle lay nearby.

The chase started Saturday at Texola, Okla., after the men's auto hit another car and sped from the scene.

Deputy Sheriff Marvin Skinner of Texola chased the car. They fired and nicked Skinner's chin. He radioed to Texas officers.

Deputy Sheriff Luke Nentley and Patrolman N. M. Nix of Shamrock sighted the car on a dirt farm road and gave chase.

The two men leaped from their car and started firing with a rifle and pistol. The officers left their car and fired back with shotguns.

The fugitives fled into the brushy pasture.

Nix was lightly wounded in the arm. Nentley's coat was torn by bullets but he wasn't hit.

Help was summoned and officers started into the brush. Young Stephens asked if he could come along. "I have a good rifle," he said.

"We were going up to a hedge-row with the Stephens boy out in front," Collingsworth County Sheriff John Rainey said. "I spotted one of the men hunched over hiding and told him to rise with his hands up. . . . The other gunman who was up front cut the boy down with a rifle.

"Then both men opened fire. . . . Shooting continued from both sides until total darkness fell."

Nearly 100 officers from Texas and Oklahoma surrounded the area during the night.

Officers said Myers was wanted for questioning about bank robberies at Dover, Ark., and Hearne, Tex., and for assault to murder.

No charges were filed immediately against Whiteard.

Teen-Age Polio Target Of Drive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Operation Teen-ager — aimed at cutting down the high incidence of polio among Arizona's youngsters — starts tomorrow with the first of a series of citywide mass vaccinations. It is the first such program in the nation.

Dr. Clarence G. Salsbury, state health commissioner, said some 5,000 students at Phoenix Union High School will be the first to receive the free shots. Later, some 15,000 youngsters at 23 schools in Phoenix and Maricopa County will be eligible to participate.

Free shots will be given to anyone from 6 months to 19 years, but the main objective is teen-agers.

More than 40 per cent of Arizona's polio cases last year were among teen-agers and young adults. A recent survey showed 75 per cent of the county's teen-agers had not received inoculations.

Cooperating in the program with the State Health Department and the Maricopa County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are city and county health departments, parent-teacher associations and private physicians.

"We've been working on this program for a long time," Salsbury said, "and we have enough vaccine for about a half-million inoculations."

Common Error For A Beginner

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A Los Angeles woman has been doing so well with her driving lessons that recently she and her husband bought a new car.

Yesterday, Nico Udine took his wife Nina out for another lesson. The car hit a dip in the road, climbed the hood of a parked auto and bounced onto the rear deck of another parked car.

No one was hurt. The Udines' shiny 1957 sedan, with only 1,012 miles on the speedometer, was wrecked.

Mrs. Udine, weeping, said she'd got her foot on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal.

TIDIEST BUILDINGS GREAT BROMLEY, England (AP) — Pubs are the tidiest buildings in Essex, says Brig.-Gen. J. T. Valzey, chairman of the country's "best-kept" village competition. "They are always tidy both in the buildings and the approaches. But many village halls stand in a jungle of weeds."

Reminds Hunters Of Fire Hazard

Pitt County Forest Ranger N.S. (Kid) Tyson today reminded hunters and others in woods at this time of the year to be careful about starting fires. "About 99 per cent of the forest fires in this county are man caused," he declared.

The records of the N.C. Department of Conservation and Development show that more forest fires occur on holidays and on the days preceding and following holidays.

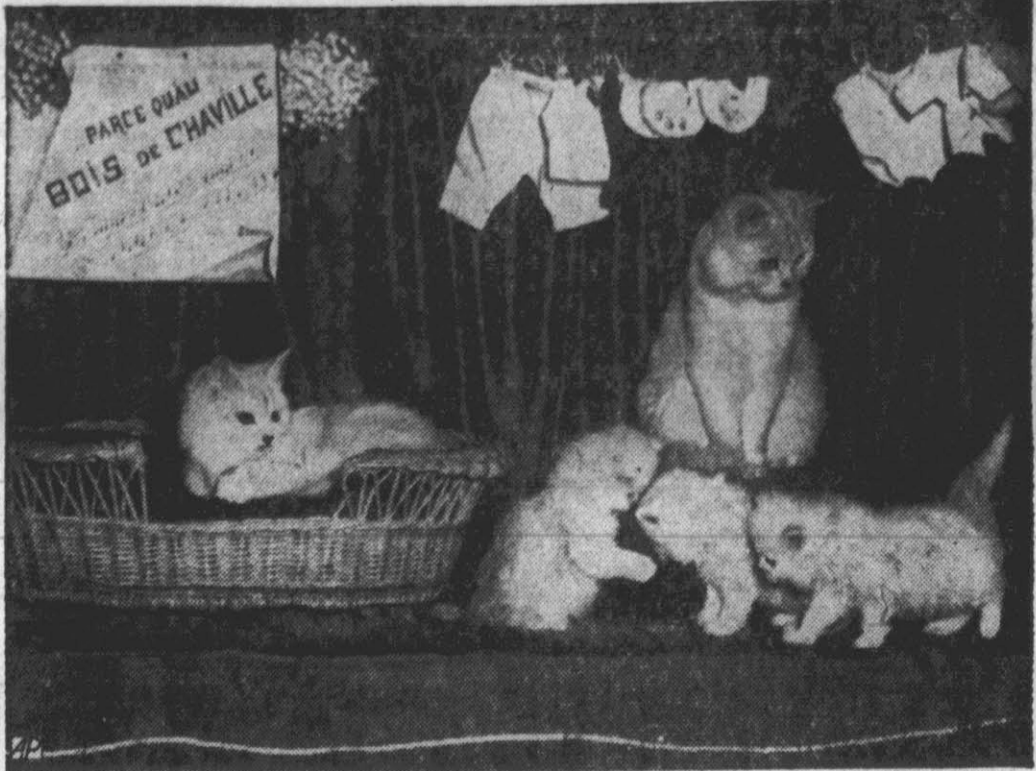

The forest ranger said many woods fires result from hunters smoking squirrels out of den trees.

There are state laws which provide fines and imprisonment for persons starting woods fires without taking necessary precautions to prevent the fires from spreading.

Hunters may contact County Forest Ranger Tyson at the telephone 6504 at the Forest Observation Tower near Greenville. Persons discovering a woods fire should promptly notify the Forest Tower.

Mrs. Hazel Manning, full-time observer for the Forestry Service, maintains daily observation looking for woods fires.

The forest ranger said prompt reporting of woods fires may save many acres of timber from burning and save much wildlife in the burning area.

Dr. Erwood Keister, faculty member of the department of music at East Carolina College, has accepted an invitation to direct a choral clinic at Mars Hill College, February 8 and 9.

The event will bring together student singers from twenty-five high schools in the western part of the state. Elwood Roberts of the Mars Hill music faculty is in charge of arrangements for the events.

Dr. Keister is well-known throughout North Carolina as music director of the "Lost Colony" last summer and as director of the East Carolina Choir, which for the past three years has toured this state, South Carolina, and Virginia

Phants Meet Goldsboro Tuesday Night

Conference Co-Champs Open Against AAA Club

Greenville high school, defending Northeastern Conference co-champions with Kinston, will open its 1956-57 basketball schedule here, tomorrow night, against the AAA Goldsboro Earthquakes, at the GHS gymnasium.

The Phantoms, with a squad of 25 young, mostly inexperienced boys, are in the midst of a rebuilding formation. Last season, with one of the most promising clubs in the school's history, the G-Men roared through the Northeastern Conference, losing only two games and claiming a championship tie with Kinston. In the playoff tournament, Kinston won out and went on to capture the state AA title.

This season, not a single first-stringer from the championship squad returns. Only three lettermen from the entire group will be back and Coach Boley Farley has stated that "neither of the three played much last year."

Wayne Eidson, Mack Roebuck and Joe Wingate, the "seventh," "eighth" and "ninth" men of last year's outfit, will be playing the roles of first unit performers tomorrow night. Eidson and Roebuck, both guards, are moderately short by modern basketball standards. Eidson stands 6 feet, while Roebuck is 6-1. Joe Wingate is the team's tallest man at center, standing 6-2.

Coach Farley, having put in long hours of drill work during the past few days as a means of preparation for the AAA Quakes is practically having to start from scratch. With only three lettermen returning, Farley must select two other starters from a list of inexperienced boys. Then, the Farley system of shoot-and-run basketball must be taught.

Goldsboro, a pre-season choice as a AAA powerhouse, welcomes back all of last season's starting performers, plus a crew of talented newcomers. The Quakes are reported tall and fast.

Expected to make a big splash this season is Dorsett Clement, a transfer from Fayetteville, who will handle first unit guard duties for the Quakes. Clement was outstanding for Fayetteville last year, averaging 14 points per game.

Bill Moore and Sonny Aycock will be the probable forwards with Bobby Bizzell (6-5) at center. Jerry Ellis, a fire-ball guard last season, will be at the guard opposite Clement.

Though Coach Boley Farley has not announced his starting lineup for tomorrow night, it is expected that Roebuck and Eidson will man the guard slots, Wingate or Steve Noble will work center, Charlie Smith and Bobby Edwards will handle forward duties.

The game will get underway at 8:00 Tuesday night.

N. C. Footballers Win Shrine Game

CHARLOTTE — North Carolina holds a 10-5 lead over South Carolina, with four ties, in their 20-year-old Shrine Bowl football series, but the Tar Heels' latest football victory came only after they survived a bad scare from a late-starting, fighting Palmetto team. North Carolina Head Coach Dave Harris and his staff breathed a sigh of relief when the 20-13 count on the scoreboard became final and the pressing Palmetto lads were finally beaten.

North Carolina rolled to a 20-0 lead early in the third period of Saturday's game before the usual 20,000 overflow crowd and seemed on the way to a one-sided victory. But the South Carolinians came back with two touchdowns and made it a dogfight down to the final whistle that saw a pass interception on the 15 cut short a desperate bid for the "ring" touchdown.

Greensboro tackle Bert Wilder was judged winner of the Lee Kirby trophy as outstanding player by a five-man committee of coaches. The game was packed with fumbles and long runs that had the crowd in an uproar and the coaches beside themselves.

The longest run of the day was a 90-yard sprint with a free ball by Florence guard Nathan Jolley. He scooped up an errant pitchout on a play that began on the South Carolina three, gathered it in on the 10 and went all the way for the game's final score.

Sidelights On Olympic Games At Melbourne

MELBOURNE — Pete Rademacher, the big Army lieutenant from Grandview, Wash., whose first-round knockout of Russian heavyweight Lev Mokhine provided one of the big thrills of the Olympic boxing finals, was told by doctors a few weeks ago to forget about fighting.

After competing in the Olympic trials in the United States, the 28-year-old heavyweight developed a blood clot in his right bicep. "In the hospital, the doctors told me to forget about the Games," he said. "They said I would have to lay off at least six months. But my arm improved and I decided to give it a go."

There is no doubt about the individual standouts of the Games. The honors go to Texas Bobby Morrow, the first sprinter since Jesse Owens in 1936 to win three gold medals; Vladimir Kouts, Russia's double winner 5,000 and 10,000 meter runs; and Betty Cuthbert, Australia's 18-year-old whiz, winner of three women's sprint medals.

Pretty Paula Jean Myers of Glendora, Calif., hopes to beat reigning queen Pat McCormick in the platform diving event Thursday by outshining her in her own specialties.

"In the free diving phase of the competition, Pat and I have chosen exactly the same dives," Paula Jean said. "I know that to beat her, I must be much better on every dive because in a close contest the vote always goes to the champion. But I think my chances are good."

Paul Anderson, the 310-pound Olympic and world weightlifting champion from Coconia, Ga., says he has had many attractive offers to become a professional wrestler. "I am sure I could go into the business and do well," said the world's strongest man, "but wrestling doesn't interest me, so I guess I will continue lifting weights."

Football Nears Postseason Play

By BOB HOOBING
The Associated Press
Clemson's selection for the Orange Bowl leaves only a belated windup game between Gator-bound Pittsburgh and unbeaten Miami (Fla.) before college football moves into its final postseason phase.

Pitt, looking forward to a rematch of last year's 7-0 Sugar Bowl loss to Georgia Tech, need not worry about the once-tied Hurricanes in their nationally televised meeting.

Whatever happens, the Panthers are signed for a Dec. 20 date with Tech in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

After a week postponement, the Atlantic Coast Conference chose its champion, Clemson, late yesterday to represent it against Colorado in the Orange Bowl. That left the major bowl picture as follows:
Rose — Iowa 8-1 vs. Oregon State 7-2-1.
Sugar — Tennessee 10-0 vs. Baylor (8-2).
Cotton — Syracuse (7-1) vs. Texas Christian (7-3).
Orange — Colorado (7-2-1) vs. Clemson (7-1-2).
Gator — Georgia Tech (9-1) vs. Pittsburgh 6-2-1.
Clemson got the nod to fill the last opening after defeating Furman 28-7.

Shooting That Counts

THESE KIND HELPED—Shots like this helped East Carolina's cagers jump off to a victory over Guilford, Saturday night, as the Buc opened their 1956-57 hoop season. Don Harris (above) senior forward led the team with 25 points, as the Pirates took a 73-60 win over the North State foes.

Topple Guilford By 73-60

GUILFORD COLLEGE — East Carolina's defending North State conference regular season champions jumped off to a good 1956-57 beginning, topping Guilford 73-60 here Saturday night in the opener for both teams.

Coach Howard Porter's crew opened play in typical ECC manner, firing away and running before the opposition could get over the shock. They racked up an 8-0 lead before Guilford could score. Minutes later, they had the Quakers behind 17-5.

Throughout the early minutes of play Guilford used a man-to-man defense. Finding that that was not stopping the Pirates attack, Coach Bob Shoof shifted his team into a zone, which cut the lead to 36-25 midway in the second quarter. By halftime, the score stood 40-29, in favor of the Buccaneers.

Harris, James, Adams
Pirate forward Don Harris, 6-2 senior from Laurinburg, came through as expected early in the game. Relying on a good fake and a variety of shots, Harris collected 25 points for the victory.

Against the zone in the second half, his output was cut to two free throws, however. Playing his first game in Pirate colors, freshman transfer Charlie Adams, from Cary scored 10 important points from his guard position in the first half of play.

Against the zone in the second half, his output was cut to two free throws, however. Playing his first game in Pirate colors, freshman transfer Charlie Adams, from Cary scored 10 important points from his guard position in the first half of play.

Mendenhall, a lanky 6-6 center, was the top rebound man for the Purple-and-Gold. He snared 14 from the boards and played a fine defensive game against 6-7 Guilford high man, Jim Burgess. Burgess collected 19 points, 14 of those in the second half. Mendenhall fouled out with nine minutes still left to play.

Accuracy Is Good
For their opening game, the Pirates' shooting accuracy was fairly good. They collected 26 out of 74 shots from the floor for a 34.2 average and racked up 84 per cent of their tries from the free throw line.

Harris, the game's high scorer, hit on nine of 17 from the floor. East Carolina will return to Memorial gymnasium Wednesday night for their first home trial of the season, against the professional McCrory Eagles. The Pirate home-court winning streak of 48 games will be at stake.

Barnes Is Top Pointmaker For ACC Season

GREENSBORO — Wake Forest fullback Bill Barnes is the Atlantic Coast Conference individual scoring champ for the 1956 season.

The ACC Statistical Bureau here announced that Barnes finished the season with 44 points, two better than his nearest competitor, halfback Ed Sutton of the University of North Carolina.

Barnes, named on the all-conference first team, scored seven touchdowns in 10 games and kicked two extra points for his total. He also ended the season as the conference's leading ground gainer.

Sutton scored seven touchdowns for his total and was followed by halfback Alex Hawkins of South Carolina with 41 points, scored on five touchdowns and 11 extra points.

U S Olympic Edge Is Rapidly Slipping

MELBOURNE — Olympic swimmers picked up where the track and field forces left off today to set four records — one a world mark by America's Shelley Mann in the women's 100-meter butterfly.

Australia won the only gold medal of the day, setting a world record in the men's 800-meter relay. The United States was second and Russia third, leaving the two giants at a virtual standstill in their battle for the unofficial team championship of the 1956 games.

With five points to Russia's four in the swimming relay, the Yanks have a 48 1/2-point edge, 468 to 419 1/2.

Kevin O'Halloran, John DeVitt, Murray Rose and Jon Henricks brought Australia the gold medal with a 3:23.6 clocking. The old world standard was 3:24.5 by Russia last month. The U.S. foursome of Rich Patterson, Pineville, Ky.; George Breen, Buffalo, N.Y.; Bill

North Staters' Basketball Gets Into Full Swing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North State Conference moves into its basketball season full blast this week with 16 games scheduled for the nine teams.

From early season play, East Carolina, Western Carolina, Elon and High Point have established themselves as contenders for the league championship, won last year by Elon in the annual North State tournament.

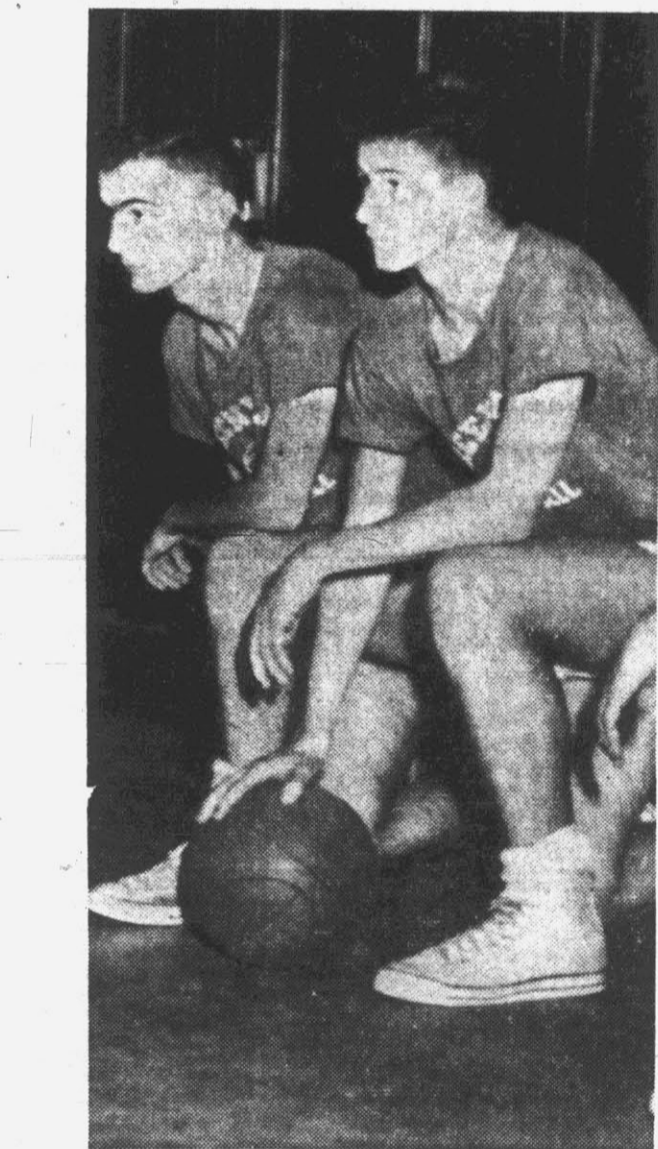

Two games tonight, Presbyterian at Atlantic Christian and Catawba at Davidson, kick off the heavy schedule. Only four conference tilts are set through the week. They are High Point at Guilford Thursday, Catawba at Atlantic Christian Friday, and Atlantic Christian at High Point, and Catawba at East Carolina on Saturday.

High Point, which already has played seven games, lost its first game of the season Saturday, bowing to Newberry 79-91.

Deer Has Dislike For Sportscars

WAKENA, Minn. (AP) — A large deer with a distaste for sports cars sent Joseph Christensen of Fargo, N.D., to the hospital for treatment. Christensen stopped his convertible when he saw the animal.

The deer charged the car with-out warning in a flying leap, tearing the fabric top, smashing the windshield and bending a door post. The driver was treated for cuts and bruises.

ECC Swimmers Take 55-30 Defeat From UNC

Swinging open the doors to visiting North Carolina in their first meet of the season, the East Carolina College swimmers took a 55-30 licking here Saturday night at the Memorial kym pool.

Before an overflow crowd of some 750 fans, the large University squad walked away with eight of the 10 events to make their opening meet a successful one.

Coach Ray Martinez' ECC tankmen opened action with an early 14-11 lead, when Jack Koebberling, Ted Gartman, Bob Sawyer and Dick Denton swam to a first place win in the 400-yard medley relay. The lead however, was slowly and steadily whittled down by the larger UNC outfit. The Buc were able to claim only one other first place.

Later in the meet, Bob Sawyer, Pirate veteran, came through to take first in the 200-yard backstroke event in 2:24.0.

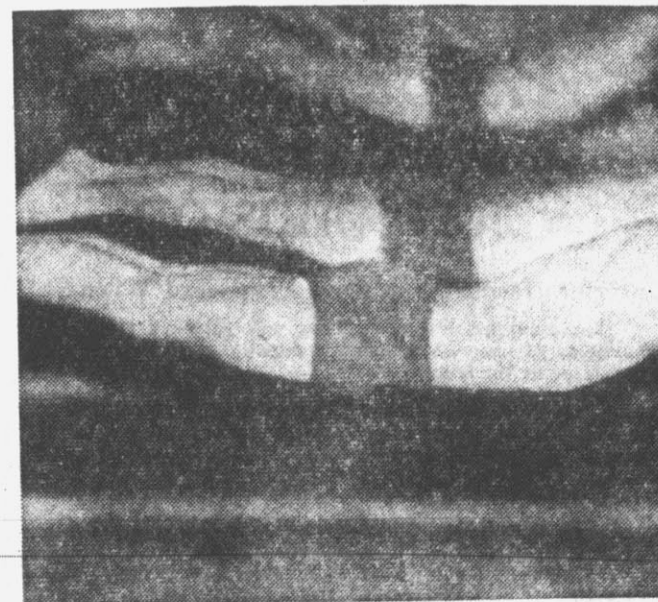

Carolina took the lead by virtue of wins in the 200 yard free style, the 50-yard free style, 100-yard free style, 440-yard free style, breast stroke and 400-yard free style relay.

Charlie Krepp, highly-touted UNC All-America performer, was absent from the meet, due to what was described as scholastic difficulties," by the team's coach, Ralph Casey.

Sen. George To Retain His Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today he has agreed to continue as President Eisenhower's personal representative to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

He said the job has been made more challenging by crises which, he said, nearly wrecked the Western defense alliance against communism.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, will end Jan. 3 a career of 34 years as a senator. He said he will shift then to a desk at the State Department.

Eisenhower named him to the NATO position, with an ambassador's rank, after George decided not to seek re-election.

Wanted To Hear Kentuckian Talk

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The nostalgic strains of "My Old Kentucky Home" apparently were too much for a New Yorker.

A man identifying himself as Emmett Francis O'Rourke telephoned the police station from New York, played a recording of the song and then asked to speak to "somebody in Kentucky."

Srutchboard operator Jean Baxter told him she, of course, was in Kentucky and asked whom he was calling.

"Just anybody in Kentucky," said the voice. "You'll do."

After six minutes of long distance music—and little else—the call was cut off.

Farmville Honor Roll For Period Released

BY BETTY SUE DAIL, Farmville School Reporter

Eleven Farmville High students have been named to the Honor Roll for the last report period.

In order to make the list, the students had to make "A" in each of their subjects and receive highest ratings on conduct. Students making the list included Marian Pickett of the 12th grade; George Cannon of the 11th grade; Richard Dunn, Nancy Moore and Gladys Beaman of the tenth grade; and Bobby Joyner, Elbert Mayo, Earl Tyson, Rod Williams, Lillian Dilda and Carolina Lewis of the ninth grade.

The Principal's List, composed of students who made "A" on at least half their subjects and nothing less than "B" on the remainder, included eight Seniors, two Juniors, five Sophomores and three Freshmen. The Seniors are Wade Mills, Gordon Lee, Ruby Flora, Mavis Hardee, Carolyn Harris, Peggy Mazingo, Jean Owens and Betty Phillips. James Henry Bundy and Wanda Bell were the Juniors and Garry Bergeron, Sylvia Cobb, Linda Dail, Hadley Morgan and Jackie Nolen were Sophomores on the list. Freshmen Howard Moyer, Shirley Ellis and Ann Palmer Hodges completed the list.

Fifteen Going To Baptist Congress

Fifteen East Carolina students will attend the Southern Baptist Student World Missions Congress in Nashville, Tennessee, December 27-30. They were selected from the 1106 Baptist students at the college to represent the Baptist Student Union because of such qualifications as leadership, scholarship, and loyalty to the purposes and activities of the BSU.

Gloria H. Blanton, director of the East Carolina Baptist Student Union, and Mrs. Ruth Garner, dormitory counselor at the college and faculty advisor of the denominational organization, will accompany the East Carolina students to Nashville.

Student delegates from East Carolina represent the four college classes and various major fields of instruction. They are Loretta

Dish-Smashing Demonstration

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Hundreds of University of Michigan students joined in a food-throwing, dish-smashing demonstration in dormitory dining halls last night in protest over meals.

Shouting "We want good food," the demonstrators, all male students, spattered plates of asparagus and vanilla pudding against the walls.

When officials closed food lines and cleared the rooms, the crowd continued the tumult outside. They rocked automobiles and threw snowballs at police.

The hubbub subsided after Walter B. Rea, dean of men, promised an investigation.

Dave Gumenick, 19, of Detroit, a student, said his schoolmates felt the quality of dormitory food has been deteriorating since school opened last September.

"They've been serving low-cost, starched meals that don't satisfy appetites," he said.

Gilbert P. Lutz, assistant business manager of university residence halls, said each dormitory has a food committee to handle food problems. He said there hadn't been any complaints until last night.

Last night's menu consisted of corned beef, Swiss cheese, asparagus, vanilla pudding and milk.

Estimates of the number taking part in the uproar ranged from 400 by school officials to 1,500 by police.

Gasoline Thieves Took 600 Gallons

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Gasoline thieves "filled 'er up." But police still are wondering just what it was they filled.

Six hundred gallons of gas—valued at $192—was taken from a parked tank truck belonging to Kentucky Consumers Oil Co.

A company mechanic—Ira Koller—said truck tracks and a hose were found near the parked tanker. He surmised the thieves hauled the gasoline away in drums.

Trucks parked overnight in Glacier National Park have to be fenced in. Favorite food of porcupines are synthetic rubber tires.

British Girl Fire-Eater Needs A Petrol Ration

By HAL R. COOPER
LONDON (AP) — The Ministry of Fuel and Power was presented today with a burning problem, name Miss Priscilla Birt, 18. She only wants a gasoline ration book, but her need is gastronomic not vehicular.

Because of that unpleasantness along the Suez Canal, which has cut off oil supplies from the Middle East, Britain is about to start doling out motor fuel in small rations, commencing Dec. 17.

Pretty Miss Birt tripped into the Chelsea post office last week to file her request for a book of coupons which would enable her to get a share.

The clerk asked her what kind of motor-driven vehicle she owns, and whether it is operated for business or pleasure.

Miss Birt replied that she does not own a vehicle, motor-driven or otherwise.

"Why, then, do you require a petrol ration?" demanded the clerk.

"I want to eat it," replied Miss Birt.

Pulling herself together, the clerk asked Miss Birt if she would care to amplify her explanation.

"Well," she said, "I am known professionally as Zahrat the Fire Eater and I am billed with Duff's Circus as the youngest fire eater in the business."

"The raw material for the act is about a turnbuckle of petrol for each performance. Without Petrol my whole career will, so to speak, go up in smoke."

"I only need the cheaper commercial grade," she added reassuringly. "The high test stuff tastes too much of lead. About three gallons a month would do."

The post office clerk went into a huddle with her superiors but it was plain that the Ministry of Fuel and Power had goofed. Nowhere in the petrol rationing plan was there any specific provision for fire eaters.

The post office people passed the back to the district fuel office with the observation, off the record, that while Miss Birt was well endowed in the chassis department it did not appear that she could qualify as a vehicle within the meaning of the regulations. No engine.

The district fuel officer got out from under by having Miss Birt fill in her application with "carriage or motor vehicle" crossed out and "fire eater" written in. Then he mailed it to the Ministry of Fuel and Power.

Could any offstage laughter be coming from Miss Birt's press agent?

Car, No Brakes, Spun Crazy On Down-Hill Race

WINDSOR, Conn. (AP) — Down the hill it came, hitting 70 or 75 miles an hour — a car gone crazy.

At the wheel, Cynthia Moran, 17, pounded furiously with her foot on the brake. Her 14-year-old brother David sat frozen in the front seat.

Crowds just a few blocks ahead were crossing Broad Street heading for church. Traffic Patrolman Robert Christensen was directing them across.

Something had happened to the car at the top of the hill. Suddenly the engine had roared up and the car spurred ahead.

Cynthia couldn't stop it. The brakes didn't hold. She couldn't get the gears into neutral. Nothing happened when she turned off the ignition.

She leaned on the horn and turned the car onto the center esplanade — a grassy strip dividing north-south lanes on Broad Street. Patrolman Christensen shouted at the crowds to get out of the way.

Cynthia came to the intersection and by then it was too late. The car jolted and spun around, then slammed into Albert Turgeon's car, coming the other way.

Cynthia and her brother jumped out. Turgeon, 67, jumped out of his car.

The cars, hooked bumper to bumper, began to move again — in a slow, crazy circle. Christensen hopped onto the car Cynthia had been driving and pulled the wires from the coil in the engine, stopping it.

Police said they believed the linkage between the gas pedal and the carburetor in Cynthia's car had stuck.

"She did a remarkable job of handling the car," they said.

Some Of Our School Pupils See Evil In Science World

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Do you think there's something wicked about scientists?

No? Well, some of our kids do. More than one high school kid out of 10, in fact.

Do you think scientists would throw you to the wolves if it was in their own self-interest?

More than one out of four high schools students seems to think so.

And then we wonder why Russia turns out more scientists each year than we do.

This is a problem that has been getting attention from the top levels of government lately. Since, according to the best available figures:

The Soviet Union produced 120,000 scientific workers and engineers from its universities this year. The United States turned out 70,000.

All told, Russia has some 890,000 specialists in this field today. This country has 760,000, more or less.

Who's winning the long-term race? Just look at the figures.

And you might recall that this is the age when wars, if there have to be wars, are won on drafting boards rather than on battlefields.

So? The Russians coax or club their kids into knowing how to design new weapons.

A trade organization called the Aircraft Industries of America soon will make public a survey suggesting — if you will permit a note of grim humor — that our young uns are growing up with more interest in the slide trombone than in the slide rules.

This survey, conducted by Purdue University, covered 15,000 high schoolers. Its main conclusion:

"Forty-five per cent believe their school background is too poor to permit them to choose science as a career."

"Thirty-five per cent believe that it is necessary to be a genius to become a good scientist."

"Thirty per cent believe that one cannot raise a normal family and be a scientist at the same time."

"Twenty-eight per cent do not believe scientists have time to enjoy life."

"Twenty-seven per cent think that scientists are willing to sacrifice the welfare of others to further their own interests.

"Twenty-five per cent think scientists as a group are more than a little 'odd.'"

"Fourteen per cent think there is something 'evil' about scientists."

"Nine per cent believe that you cannot be a scientist and be honest."

Makes you wonder, almost, whether we haven't slid back into the dark ages.

Shot To Death By Former GI

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A holdup man fleeing from a pawn shop with $227 in cash was shot to death by a man who learned how during World War II.

A. R. (Al) Stevens, 45-year-old ex-GI who clerks in the pawn shop told police he was an army sniper and learned how to shoot in the dark at Anzio, Italy.

Stevens felled the bandit, William George Bayes, 35, of Charleston, in a dark alley. Stevens said he shot in self defense when Bayes went for the revolver he had taken from the pawn shop.

Wounded Cougar Jumped Hunter

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Deer hunter Kirby Allen escaped with a scratched neck, torn coat and damaged gun stock when a wounded cougar jumped him.

Allen said he shot and wounded the big cat while hunting deer in the Wasatch mountains.

He stalked the cat for a short distance when it turned and tore into him, then fled.

"It was all over before I had a chance to get scared," said Allen.

A game warden advised him to leave wounded cougars alone.

CHAPTER 27
There was a pause. Casson gazed at Jean incredulously. "Thank you for disbelieving it," she replied. "Jim wouldn't. He accused me of going with other men. I thought he was joking. Then I got angry and refused to see him. He only said that provided I was guilty." She smiled sadly.

"Did he give you any reason for his accusations?" Casson asked, leaning forward.
"He said that I had been to the pictures with another man. He told me the day and the time. He was quite right. I went with Mrs. Oatley's nephew. He is a traveling salesman in locks and he used to know my family in Scotland. That's why I live here. I've been out several times with him. He's a nice, quiet man. When I told Jim that, he laughed."

"But did Jim see you both at the pictures?"
"No. A friend of his saw us."
"Who was the friend?" Casson leaned forward.
"I don't know. He wouldn't tell me. He said the friend regretted ever mentioning that he had seen me."

"Did he tell you any more?"
"He said he had been having lunch with this man in the city—it was a friend he quite often had lunch with, I believe—and Jim told him that he had seen him some days before with a lady. Jim had been coming back from his morning coffee and his friend was outside the bank with a lady who was a customer at the bank and Jim pulled his leg about rich lady customers lending him money. But his friend went as white as a sheet." Vividly Casson recollected Strutt's description from the police report of Perry and Macfarlane together in their city sandwich bar and all too clearly he understood what had happened.

He told Jim to mind his own business. Jim was quite hurt about it at the time but after a bit he saw how silly it all was.
"Did Jim tell you the name of his friend in the city?"
"No."
"Did he ever mention the name of Perry? John Henry Perry? Of Hammersmith?"
"No."
"Perry was the friend."
"You know him?"

"Yes, Perry is a blackmailer. And now I know exactly what happened. Perry used your Jim to give him information from the bank. Jim did not know that Perry was a criminal. All he knew was that Perry was an old member of the bank's staff. He saw no harm in gossiping to him. The rich lady customer was one of Perry's victims. I could tell you her name but I won't. Perry thought that if Jim told other people in the bank whom he had seen Perry with and if they got to hear ultimately that she had been blackmailed, they might suspect Perry of being the blackmailer."

"Perry followed you until you went out with another man. He told Jim that you were unfaithful. He worked him up to the state in which one might presume him to have committed suicide. Perry even got him to go to a doctor and get a sleeping draught. That draught put Jim to sleep while Perry turned on the gas. Perry murdered Jim."

"She was looking at him, deeply troubled."
"You are sure it—it happened like that?"
"Quite sure. I am sorry but I am quite sure."
"Then you will arrest him?"
Casson stood up.
"Miss Shaw," he said gravely, "we have no evidence on which to arrest him."
Her face was set.
"He died trusting me," she whispered.
"He did. He died thinking that you were unfaithful."
She looked up at him.
"But you will arrest him?"
"In time."

He stood up to go.
"I must ask you not to repeat this, Miss Shaw," he said. "It's very important that the murderer thinks he is safe."
"I am not likely to want to tell anybody," she replied and for the first time he heard desolation in her voice.
"Thank you, Miss Shaw," said Casson softly, and left her.
He drove to Savile Row at a dangerous speed. He ran up the stairs to Strutt's office and flung open the door.
"What's bitten you?" said Strutt.
"We're wrong," Casson replied. "Macfarlane was innocent. To his last moment he didn't know that Perry was a crook. Perry ruined his engagement and then killed him just in case he suspected. Just in case! We're so wrong that you ought to be fired and I ought to be shot."

"Sit down," said Strutt. When Casson told him the story. When he had finished the two men looked at each other.
"All right," he said. "All right. I'll get him. I'll have him followed every hour of the day and night."
"Yes," Casson interrupted. "That will help me."
"I don't want to help you," Strutt bawled. "Blast you, what do you think this is—the Salvation Army?"
Strutt's expression changed when he heard the tone of voice in which Casson said:
"I am going to frighten Perry into hanging himself."

John Perry leaned on the rail of Chiswick Mall and watched a river steamer sliding downstream toward Putney. With contempt he looked at the anonymous black figures of the people who packed the decks. Sizzling fools, he thought, as the sunlight glared on the water and intensified the sound of music from the boat. Sweaty fools, he thought! He had always loathed them. They were always busy, always talking, always making the same silly jokes.

And for all their loud talk, not one of them had killed a man. But he had. He, John Perry, had deliberately and carefully and successfully killed his man. It was true that some of them had killed Germans and Japs in the last war; but that was not heroic. They had killed under orders. They had killed because it was cowardly not to kill, killed because they were frightened. As he had always said, they were cowards at heart. Only he had dared to face the heaviest penalty that the state could devise. And he had dared it in order to guard his own private and personal ambitions. That was courage for you, real heroic courage, the sort that would have been appreciated by the Romans. That was the height of daring, to kill for what you believed to be beautiful.

Tomorrow, Perry gets a shock and Casson and Strutt plan a fear campaign.

NOTICE OF SALE
Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain Deed of Trust executed by Bullock Electric Company, Inc. to M. C. Paul, Trustee, dated January 4, 1950, and recorded in Book H-25, page 577, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County; and under and by virtue of the authority vested in the undersigned as substituted Trustee by instrument of writing dated the 19th day of November, 1956, and recorded in Book J29, page 28, in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in payment of indebtedness thereby secured and said Deed of Trust being subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness thereby secured having demanded a foreclosure therefor for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned substituted Trustee will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina at 12:00 noon on the 20th day of December, 1956, the following land conveyed in said Deed of Trust, the same lying and being in the town of Ayden, Pitt County, North Carolina and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the West side of Lee Street, 100 feet South-easterly from the Southwest intersection of Lee & Third Streets, being the Southeast corner of the F. S. Harris property, and running thence in a Westerly course along the Harris line, 77 feet to the Harrington line; thence Southerly course along the Harrington line 40 feet to an alley; thence in an Easterly course with the alley to Lee Street; thence with Lee Street and in a Northerly direction 40 feet to the beginning. Being the same property as conveyed this date to party of the first part.

This conveyance is made with the understanding that an alleyway on the west of the property ten feet wide and forty feet long is to be kept open at all times for public use.

Conveyed hereby is the interest of the party of the first part and to the party wall located on the Harris property.

But this sale will be made subject to a certain other Deed of Trust executed by Bullock Electric Company dated March 12, 1954 and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book R-27, page 29. Also this sale will be made subject to any and all unpaid County and Town taxes and municipal assessments.

The successful bidder shall be required at said sale to deposit with the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County the percentage of his bid as is provided by the General Statutes.

This is the 19th day of November, 1956.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Prices continued higher with steel and oil leading in lively stock market trading early this afternoon.

Key issues were ahead 1 to 4 points. The high-speed ticker tape lagged one minute behind in reporting floor transactions but caught abreast with the pace in four minutes.

A heavy accumulation of week-end orders followed Friday's rise. Secretary Dulles' optimistic statements about the Middle East and good prospects for the steel and oil industries are factors that brought gains throughout the entire list.

Brokers reported that the outlook for steel was brighter than ever and that the United States plan for aiding Europe with oil shipments spurred demand for leading oil shares.

In heavy turnover, Gulf Oil and Royal Dutch ran up around 4 points apiece. Texas Co., Sinclair and Standard Oil (New Jersey) gained around a point or better. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, which announced completion of a prolific exploratory oil and gas well, was ahead more than 3.

Bethlehem Steel kept around 2 of an early gain of close to 3 as it resumed its rise following last week's news of its 4-for-1 stock split proposal. Youngstown, involved with the contested merger plans with Bethlehem, was up around 2 at one time and kept a point of this. It is being talked about in terms of a stock split, also.

Lukens, U.S. Steel and Republic Steel were 1-point gainers. Chrysler went ahead well over a point. General Motors a major fraction.

Glenn L. Martin, United Aircraft and Boeing were all up a point or better.

Most leading rails were up fractions and Seaboard was up more than a point. Allegheny Corp. dropped a major fraction in active turnover resulting from its difficulties on a proposed security swap opposed by the SEC.

Coppers and aluminum rose. Beatrice Foods was up 4. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up $1.40 with the industrials up $2.30, the rails up $1.30 and the utilities up 10 cents.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — Hog prices steady to 50 higher. Women On Trial For Kidnaping

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Survival of a wealthy grandmother alone on the desert under 110-degree heat without food, water or clothing figures in the trial of two women starting today.

They are charged with kidnaping Mrs. Ruth E. Latham, 52, last Sept. 12 from her expensive San Diego home and attempting to bury her alive in Imperial County desert country east of here.

The defendants are Mrs. Beatrice Victoria Winn, 57, and Mrs. Lucille M. Whisenand, 36.

Mrs. Latham, associated in investment and real estate business with her husband George, said she pushed aside rocks which had been piled upon her in the shallow grave.

She had been beaten and stripped naked. She staggered and crawled five miles across the desert, shielding her body from the blazing sun with tumbledweed and other sparse growth, she said. It took her 24 hours.

A motorist discovered her crouching beside Highway 80 Sept. 14, about 20 miles west of El Centro.

Mrs. Winn is involved in a civil suit with the Lathams over control of a building supply concern of which she was formerly manager.

Worthington Makes Memorial Day Talk

State Utilities Commissioner S. O. Worthington of Greenville delivered the annual Memorial Day address at the Greenville Elks Lodge yesterday afternoon.

Twenty-four members of the lodge have died since it was organized in 1941. Members of their families and the public were invited to attend the service.

Participating lodge officials were Harry M. Brown, exalted ruler; Stuart Page, esteemed leading night; John Dickens, esteemed loyal knight; Roger A. Collins Jr., esteemed lecturing knight; Erskine Duff, exquire; "Scrap" Proctor, chaplain; and Arthur Smith, chaplain.

The speaker, in his tribute to the deceased members of the Elks Lodge, reviewed the history of the organization and its principles, "Charity, Justice, Brotherly Love and Fidelity." He quoted from the Elks Ritual the inscription, "We record the deeds of our brothers in the sands of time, and carve in marble his virtues."

Secretary P. W. Picklesimer called the roll of the departed Elks: A. L. Barrett, N. O. Warren, J. B. Lane Jr., John Flanagan, I. W. Netherland, L. B. Garris, Dail Laughinghouse Sr., C. B. Rowlette Jr., Charles F. Manning, Felix Scheller, Cecil C. Jones, C. L. Russ, Clem Garner, Bruce R. Baker, M. R. Long, Howard Sumrell, Earl E. Forbes, Tommy Sellers, I. S. Fleming, James S. Picklen, P. T. Anthony, Robert L. Mauney, Guy W. Smith and A. C. Tadlock.

A social hour followed the memorial exercises.

Barnhill Attends Club 'School'

John T. Barnhill of Greenville, lieutenant-governor of the Seventh Division of Carolinas Kiwanis District, presided over the training school for new club officials and committee chairmen in Kinston at the weekend. The new officials will take office in January.

Dr. John O. Raynolds of Greenville said the invocation and Greenville President J. Ed Waldrop announced the 1957 objectives of Kiwanis International.

Lt.-Gov. Henry H. Bullock of Kinston explained the duties of presidents and vice-presidents. Past Lt.-Gov. Jimmy Copeland of Wilmington outlined the duties of Kiwanis District Governor Sam D. Bundy of Farmville summarized the purposes of a Kiwanis club in a community.

Lt.-Gov. Barnhill welcomed the large number of Kiwanis officials present and pledged his best efforts to fulfill the duties of his office. He stressed the importance of committee chairmen making making prompt reports and inter-club visitations. Barnhill said the Seventh Kiwanis Division's goal in 1957 is one new club and four new members for each of the 10 clubs.

In addition to Barnhill and Waldrop, President-elect Charles E. Blair and Vice-President Dixie McGlohon of Greenville attended the Kinston meeting.

The Seventh Division delegates were luncheon guests of the Kinston Kiwanis Club at Hotel Kinston.

Chapter To Hold A Weekly Forum

A weekly forum on U. S. Foreign affairs has been arranged by the Greenville chapter of the League of Women Voters and will be presented each Friday afternoon over television station WNCN.

The telecast will begin at 1:15 p.m., immediately following W. E. Debnam's afternoon newscast. Nebnam will moderate the unheated discussions of U. S. foreign affairs and their possible future effects. The discussion group will include two of East Carolina College's faculty members and at least one member of the League of Women Voters.

A League committee named last week made arrangements for the TV program and also announced other plans in connection with the study of foreign affairs. Mrs. Charles Adams was selected to head a committee which will place a news map in Greenville's business district with up-to-date items pin-pointed for quick reference. The League is also planning several public forums in January to discuss foreign affairs and policy.

In announcing the projects, Mrs. Michael Luskin, president of the League, appealed to local civic organizations to take part in the foreign affairs discussions. Suggestions concerning the program can be made to either Mrs. Luskin of the TV station.

Service Fraternity Officers Are Chosen

W. Thomas Edison, Jr., of Jacksonville, N.C., heads a slate of officers recently elected as leaders of activities in the Delta Sigma Rho fraternity at East Carolina College. He will serve during the present school year as president of the service fraternity.

Delta Sigma Rho was organized on the campus during the fall quarter. With fifty men students as members, it is the largest of several similar local East Carolina fraternities which carry out programs of social events and projects for the improvement of student life on the campus.

Officers in addition to Edison are Delane Driver, Richmond, Va., vice president; John P. Hudson, Wadesboro, secretary; and Harry J. Archer, Portsmouth, Va., treasurer.

may be anywhere in the world — Alaska, Japan — but they'll show up for the last week of Santa school. It gives these men, usually without any family, a greater feeling of participating in Christmas. You can just see this feeling of wanting to do something for someone else.

Col. McMahon says the New York City contribution run about $30,000 each year. The money goes for the Volunteers' various Christmas assistance projects, including family food orders, 3,000 Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners served in the Bowery and boxes of clothing to families of men in prison.

Bonner Appears At Leaf Hearing

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner of the First Congressional District, testified today before the subcommittee on tobacco of the House Agriculture Committee.

Congressman Bonner left his home in Washington, N.C. yesterday to be on hand in the nation's capital when the committee of the House of Representatives considers tobacco acreage reductions which were announced several days ago by the Secretary of Agriculture.

At his hearings the committee will receive testimony relative to poundage as well as acreage control of tobacco production.

Ten On Pactolus School Honor Roll

PACTOLUS — Ten Pactolus School students have been named to the Honor Roll for the report period which ended last week.

The list includes Judy Dixon, Blanche Harris, Betty Lou Baker, Rosalie Bunting and Margaret Lee of the sixth grade; Carolyn Barnhill, Billie Frances Briley, Edith Erley and Dale Doward of the seventh grade; and Gene Peele of the eighth grade.

New Enlistees To Have Holiday

Army and Air Force recruiters in Greenville have received word that their departments are permitting Christmas leave for enlistees through the holiday period.

The leaves will be effective during the period December 15 through January 1. The absences must be requested, however, by personnel enlisting or re-enlisting for active duty. The leaves will not exceed 15 days and will not extend reporting dates to reception stations beyond January 7 for the Army and January 3 for the Air Force.

Shipments of recruits during the month will be scheduled so they will not arrive at reception stations on Christmas Day or New Year's Day. The program also applies to WAC and WAF personnel.

Local Woman Is Found Dead

Mrs. Lillian Hooker Wall, wife of Eccles Wall, was found dead at her home in Lakewood Pines Sunday morning around 10 o'clock.

Death was attributed to an overdose of sleeping pills. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. W. M. Howard Jr., assisted by the Rev. A. H. Campbell of Greenville. Burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery in Greenville.

Mrs. Wall, daughter of the late Seth T. and Lillie Peebles Hooker, was born in Greenville, and attended Greenville City Schools, also St. Mary's College and East Carolina College. She was a member of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Surviving are: her husband; a son, Dr. W. A. White Jr. of the U. S. Navy, now stationed at Charleston, S.C., and a daughter, Anne White of Greenville; a grandson; three brothers, F. Bruce and Seth D. Hooker of Greenville and Howard Hooker of Atlanta Ga.
