Turnage-Dowdy Vows Are Said

Greenville's Memorial Baptist Church was the scene of the marriage of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Dowdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland F. Hardee of Greenville, and Jack W. Turnage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Turnage of Farmville, at 10 a.m. on Thanksgiving Day.

The Rev. Percy Upchurch, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vows were spoken before an altar flanked by tall baskets of Oregon fern and white gladioli enclosed by tall seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Edgar Hirschberg and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, soloist, who sang "Thru The Years," "At Dawning" and the "Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beige, basket-weave wool suit featuring a mink collar. Her accessories were brown and she wore an orchid corsage.

Miss Sarah Taylor of Greenville was maid of honor and the only attendant. She wore a brown suit, beige accessories and yellow roses. Lester E. Turnage was his son's best man. Ushers were Lester E. Turnage Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Alfred L. Smith, both of Greenville; Horace Rose Jr. of Richmond, Va.; and Jay Flanagan of Jacksonville, Fla.

The mother of the bride wore a grey wool crepe suit with mauve blouse and gloves and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

The mother of the bridegroom selected for her son's wedding a Navy crepe dress with matching accessories. To this she added a mink cape and a corsage of pink roses.

Both of the bride's grandmothers were present for the wedding. They each wore black crepe dresses and their flowers were of white carnations.

Mrs. Turnage is a graduate of East Carolina College and is a faculty member of the Grifton schools.

Her husband attended East Carolina College and completed three years of duty in the United States Air Force. He is at present a representative of Occidental Life Insurance Company in Greenville. The couple left for a wedding trip to Washington, D. C. after which they will be at home in College View Apartments.

Cake Cutting
Following the wedding rehearsal Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland F. Hardee entertained at a cake cutting in the parlor of Memorial Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hardee greeted guests who were then received by the Rev. and Mrs. Upchurch, the bride couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hardee and Mr. and Mrs. Turnage.

Miss Esther Hardee directed guests to the punch table where Mrs. Darris Hill of Sunbury, sister of the bridegroom, served.

The bride's table was laid with a lace table cloth and an arrangement of pink carnations formed the centerpiece. A miniature bride and bridegroom completed the decorations.

Pink roses and pink carnations were used in decorating throughout.

The three tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Paul Batchelor. She was assisted by Misses Leslie Jones and Betty Jane Jackson.

Invited guests included the wedding party, out-of-town guests and a few close friends.

Other Pre-Nuptial Events
Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Smith were hosts on Saturday evening at their apartment honoring the bridal couple-elect prior to their wedding on Thursday at a "gadget shower."

The bride-elect was presented a corsage of white carnations on arrival.

Contests were conducted and prizes awarded for entertainment during the evening. Fall flowers and greenery were used in decorating throughout.

Refreshments of bride's delight, toasted nuts and coffee were served.

Invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Joe Goodson, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Goodson, Mr. and Mrs. Craven Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Don Carson and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Lee.

Mrs. Dowdy shared honors with Miss Lois Jolly when Mrs. Jimmy Lee was hostess at a Coca-Cola hour given in their honor at her home on Wednesday morning.

The honorees were presented white carnation corsages and hand painted vases. The hostess served soft drinks, cakes and nuts.

Engagement Announced

Miss Betty Frances Sutton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Sutton of Greenville, Route 2, who announce her engagement to T. G. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Warren of Stokes. The wedding will be December 23.

Seventeen-Year-Old Is Mom's Fiercest Critic Says Designer

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor
Mothers are riling under the criticism of today's brand of superior offspring may take comfort from the fact that all parents are in the same boat.

Adele Simpson of New York, who designs clothes for some of the world's best-dressed women, says it's easier to face a roomful of buyers from the country's top stores than to undergo the scrutiny of her 17-year-old daughter, Joan.

"I'm getting a positive inferiority complex," says the poised and perfectly accoutred Mrs. Simpson. "Just the other day Joan's father and I were planning to drive up to college and see her over the weekend. I telephoned Joan to tell her our plans, and she asked: 'But, mother, what are you wearing?'"

"I told her I hadn't given it much thought, and she replied in obvious distress, 'Oh, Mother, do be careful! I worry about you so. Please, Mother, don't overdo things!'"

"I haven't spent so much time selecting a costume in years. When we arrived, Joan inspected me anxiously, then relaxed and nodded a relieved 'okay.' But when we went indoors and I took off my coat she looked in horror at my tunic dress and gasped: 'But, mother! Your undershirt is showing!'"

It's a real triumph when a mother can win the approval of one of today's highly critical daughters of high school or college age.

They worry for fear mothers will wear too much makeup, or a too-extreme dress when they are introduced to boy friends. They supervise all details of housekeeping and table etiquette when planning to entertain young friends. Fathers, too, come in for keen inspection. A familiar wail is:

"Oh, Daddy! Do you have to wear that dull old suit? Why not a nice casual tweedy sports coat? And—Daddy—would you mind smoking your pipe? It's so much more distinguished than cigarettes!"

Parents may take comfort in the knowledge that this is a phase that passes. All of a sudden a supercilious and disapproving 17-year-old becomes a companionable and affectionate 18-year-old. And from then on things get better and better.

The amazed mother of five daughters said to me the other day: "I can't believe it! Since her wedding, Mary has been a sweet, charming companion. And now that the baby has come, she thinks I'm wonderful. I baby-sit." End adv for pms Tuesday Nov. 27

Dried Materials Program Topic At Club Meeting

The Past Matrons and Past Patrons of Greenville Chapter No. 149 O.E.S. met in November with Mrs. George Staples, Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale was assisting hostess.

Mrs. Staples, program chairman, led the group in repeating the 23rd Psalm and the Lord's Prayer. She read selections from "Life's Extras" by Rutledge.

The dried arrangements, used as decorations throughout the home, together with a basketful of dried flowers, pieces of shrubs, grasses, driftwood and moss, were the subject of her program.

She told, too, that the trips with friends to collect the fresh material is one of the rewarding phases of this very interesting hobby.

Later, guests were given paper and pencils and directed to identify from memory the things she had shown. Mrs. Uran Cox and John Carrington were awarded dried arrangements as winners.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Vivian Hines, Mrs. Thelma Joyner presided over a short business meeting.

During the social hour, homemade cake, coffee and nuts were served from the dining room table. Mrs. John Carrington, W. M. of Greenville Chapter, and George Staples were special guests.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Thelma Joyner on Feb. 23.

Practical Gifts Are Baby's Joy

If you could understand baby's gobbledygook, you'd find he's probably pleading: "For goodness sake tell Santa to put durable stuff in my stocking. Enough of these frilly bibs, breakable dishes and fragile toys. Let's be practical."

Baby has a point—especially when he is scolded for dropping his apple sauce on that beautiful applied bib that Granny made or for tossing a china cereal dish at the cat.

Why not keep him happy with a long plastic bib that may be washed off after the meal? Put a couple in his Christmas stocking to see him through a few months.

When it comes to his dinner or lunch ware, plastic is the answer. These dishes are not only practical but have baby-appeal. One set styled by Joan Luntz—cereal bowl, plate and cup of melamine—features Oopsl, a delightful clown, molded right into the plastic for a permanent smile at baby. It won't even fade or wash off in the dishwasher, another joy to busy Mom. The sturdy mug is designed so that chubby fingers can get a firm grip.

The lollipop set is fascinated with Mickey Mouse clubhouse designs on large dinner plate, mug and soup bowl, another plastic series. Mickey and his friends will help put any little shaver in the mood to finish his meal so that he can see the little clubhouse again.

Stainless steel is a practical answer to Junior's flatware. One new design by Gondorh Albertus is long enough so that the spoon will reach to the bottom of standard size baby food jars. The bowl of the spoon is small enough to put into the infant's mouth, however. A small pusher is the second piece in this set. The fork is the third.

The lovely thing about stainless steel is it requires no polishing, so is spanking clean for the infant's use after a soap and water bath. When selecting baby's Christmas gifts do not forget washable toys. Some of these may even be thrown in the washing machine.

BABY FAVORITE... Clown-decorated eating ware of melamine should please any little fellow — and his Mom.

NO PROCLAMATION
BALTIMORE (P) — Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin has turned down a request to proclaim Dec. 7 "Pearl Harbor Day" in Maryland. He said, "Governments must avoid keeping alive the fires of international hatred through successive generations." The request was made by Walter Heiskell, publisher of Life magazine.

To simmer a food, means to cook in liquid just below the boiling point. Bubbles should form slowly and break just below the surface of the liquid.

East Carolina Film Club will feature "Birth of the Nation" as its December program tomorrow at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the East Carolina College Library Auditorium.

Ceremony Marks End Of Training

A candlelight ceremony Wednesday evening at which jewel pins were presented each member of the Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha marked the end of the sixth-month training period for the local chapter.

Pins were presented by Mrs. Wesley Suit of Rocky Mount, sorority officer and instructor.

The chapter colors of blue and gold were used in decorations. The floral centerpiece was of gold chrysanthemums while blue streamers and tapers completed the color motif.

Following the ceremony held at the Silo Restaurant, husbands of the members joined them for dinner.

Miss Barbara Dall was initiated as a new member and Wesley Suit welcomed as an out-of-town guest.

Camera News

With hundreds of thousands of amateur photographers around the country, there are bound to be a number of inventive minds with bright new ideas about cameras and equipment. Many camera fans adapt the knowledge and experience gained in their normal fields of work to specific photographic use.

Where can these men turn to for a competent evaluation of their ideas so that the photographic industry might benefit and with assurance that the inventors are protected and eventually compensated?

The answer is nowhere. At present, pioneers who feel they have a worthwhile idea spend numberless hours and often a great deal of money building hand-tooled models before they realize they're up against a blank wall.

Major manufacturers are reluctant to discuss an outsider's ideas because of the danger of lawsuits. Most of them have research staffs here the very same ideas might be under investigation or in their pending schedule. Some manufacturers require a written release signed in advance before they will talk to an inventor or look at his idea.

Small companies are not likely to tool up for a new item—it's too expensive. Then there is the fear among inventors that small firms and much more liable to "adapt" their ideas to some degree without adequate compensation.

In many cases, the dilemma forces an inventor into the manufacturing business where the odds are greater that the venture will end in failure. Of course, if it turns out to be a success, then the rewards are proportionately higher.

One protection for inventors is that they can secure a patent from the U.S. Patent Office in Washington if their idea is original. But the process involved is time-consuming and sometimes very costly. Then, after a patent is finally granted, the invention is on public record with all construction details available. The manufacturing rights, however, are reserved for the inventor and again it is up to him to find a concern willing to put it into production.

The problem has come to my attention because two inventors have been up to see me in the past week and in the past few years at least half a dozen have written to me about their brainchildren.

Dr. Eugene Trachtman, an optometrist in Red Bank, N.J., has used his knowledge of optics to conceive and build both a camera to take pictures in a complete 360 degree circle and a projector that will show the results on a continuous circular screen.

Mr. Arthur Incledon of Queens Village, N.Y., is a draftsman for an engineering firm. He was issued a patent on a 35mm camera that will hold two rolls of film at the same time. Each roll of film can be loaded and exposed at any time. A camera could then shoot color or black-and-white as the occasion arises.

The idea for a circular photo has been tackled and solved before with varying degrees of success. Several national sporting events have been featured in Life magazine in the past year proving its practicality. It has many unique possibilities for military use and can be adapted for television in addition, Dr. Trachtman believes.

Early this year I wrote about a Japanese inventor who devised a camera to take still pictures in a 355 degree angle or just 5 degrees short of a complete circle. Dr. Trachtman's camera not only makes the complete circuit on film but can go around several times. It must be held over the photographer's head or he would appear in the picture. Panoramic scenes taken with the camera at several national sporting events have been featured in Life magazine in the past year proving its practicality. It has many unique possibilities for military use and can be adapted for television in addition, Dr. Trachtman believes.

"The camera may be unusual but it is the projector that is revolutionary," said Dr. Trachtman. "No other single projector can show a completely circular picture in perfect focus and without distortion at one time."

It can be adapted to widescreen movies and do a better job of showing motion pictures that resemble all that we see normally with our eyes, according to the inventor. It can be used to great advantage by the armed forces as a training device and for planning future strategy in military maneuvers.

With patents pending for both camera and projector, Dr. Trachtman has approached the major photo manufacturers without getting any reaction of positive interest.

Our other camera fan, Mr. Incledon, went through a similar period of years of planning, building, testing and trying to market his invention with an equal lack of success.

It is evident that neither inventor hit on an idea that could be developed for the mass photo market. Perhaps that accounts for their cool reception.

I think that the photographic industry ought to have an impartial, competent committee whose members represent every phase of the field and whose integrity is beyond question. They might meet twice or three times a year to consider new ideas. A quick evaluation could sort out those that had merit and those that were not worth while. After further development, if it needed it, an idea or device would be referred to responsible executives in a branch of the industry for specific application.

Such a committee could be made self-supporting through a small share in the successful ideas. With integrity as its watchword, such a plan could invite new ideas, provide just compensation for inventive minds and prove a benefit to all in photography.

Mrs. Everett Hostess To Club

ROBERSONVILLE—Mrs. Leo Everett was hostess to the Ex Libris Club Tuesday night at her home on Main Street.

Colorful fall flowers and red berries were used in decorations for the living room and the dining room.

Mrs. Paul Roberson presided over the brief business session.

The program chairman, Mrs. Claude T. Smith, made a talk on Ralph Waldo Emerson and Edmund Spenser and their contribution to literature.

She emphasized Spenser's greatest work, "Faerie Queene," also his poem, "Epithalamion," and Emerson's essay on "Self Reliance."

During the social hour which followed, sandwiches, cheese straws, pickles, date bars, cake and hot coffee were served to Mesdames Charlie Gray, Alton Rodgers, Pitt Roberson, Ottis Woodard, Glenn Norman, Jim Gray Sr., Leo Everett, Paul Roberson and Claude T. Smith.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Martha Dell Gray.

Prayer Series Begins Tonight

The Woman's Missionary Society of Hillsdale Baptist Church has announced a series of services marking this week of prayer for foreign missions.

Mrs. Billy Denton, prayer chairman, is in charge of the series. The first will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. G. Gibbs, Sunset Ave., with Mrs. N. L. Stott as leader.

The second will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the church with Mrs. Francis Dorey as leader.

Mrs. James Hill will be leader for the Thursday morning prayer session to be held at the church at 10 a. m.

The last in the series is scheduled for Friday at 8 p. m. at the church with Mrs. Denton as leader. At this service the Lottie Moon Christmas offering will be taken.

As Friday will be observed around the world as a day of prayer, the announcement adds the church will be open the entire day for worshippers to stop by at their convenience.

Encourage Your Child To Believe In Santa

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D. AP Newsfeatures
"There really isn't any Santa Claus, is there, Mommy?" asked 7-year-old Arlene. Mother was surprised at the question because before supper Arlene had laboriously printed out a letter to Santa Claus and it was now lying on the hearth in front of the fireplace.

"No, dearie," said Mother, pushing back the dark curls from the earnest little face. "Santa Claus is just a game we love to play."

"That's what I thought," said the child. "He is a nice game, and we're going to play him all ways, aren't we?"

Children just grow up to understand that Santa Claus is not a real man and the disillusionment comes slowly and painlessly when the child is mature enough to accept it.

Occasionally parents worry over telling children "what isn't so," lest the child lose faith in them when they discover "the truth."

The myth about Santa Claus isn't like a real falsehood. The spirit of the game behind Santa Claus is something that lasts throughout life—the kindly giving spirit that makes people enjoy making others happy. In early childhood this spirit is personified in the jolly fat old man with a big white beard and a red suit.

Later the personification slips away and just the spirit remains. Some children become interested in Santa Claus at about 2 although many 2-year-olds are a bit frightened by Santa Claus. But between 3 and 5 most children believe in him implicitly and are interested in every detail. These are the real Santa Claus years. The joy and excitement of Christmas are some of the most precious landmarks of childhood.

During these faith-in-Santa-Claus-years you need have little fear that the child will find out that the story is a myth. He loves the story and wants to believe. If he is told that Santa Claus is only a fairy tale he very likely will pay no attention. He won't "hear" what he doesn't want to know. To him Santa Claus is a very real person, who lives in a real house and likes oatmeal for breakfast. Riding through the sky with a team of reindeer is just as sensible as the aeroplanes he sees. The notion that these fantastic trips are for the purpose of making children all over the world happy is a lovely idea.

Encourage your child to believe in Santa Claus—play the game with him and through his joy and wiggles of pleasure all of you will absorb the real spirit of Christmas.

By the time your child is 6

he may begin to have some doubts about the reality of the Santa Claus myth but he will want to play the game just the same, but he may be 7, 8, or 9 before Santa Claus slips into outgrown beliefs of early childhood.

Ingredients: 2 cups large dry limas, 5 cups water, 1-3 pound cubed salt pork, salt, 1/2 cup catchup, 3-4 cup finely diced onion, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Method: Soak limas in water 5 to 6 hours or overnight. Bring slowly to boil. Add salt pork and boil gently until almost tender, 35 to 45 minutes. Taste and season with salt if needed. Put limas and 1 1/2 cups cooking liquid in casserole. Mix remaining ingredients and stir into limas. Put part of the salt pork on top. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 1 1/2 hours. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Note: If unsoaked limas are used, stir them into 2 quarts rapidly boiling water; boil gently 1 1/2 hours.

To Give Concert Here

A concert by pianist Gary Graffman (shown above) will open the East Carolina College Entertainment Series for the winter quarter Thursday night of this week. The young American artist, winner of outstanding prizes in music, has received high praise from critics as "one of this generation's most promising young artists," "a new and exciting pianist," and "a mature and dynamic concert artist." His program here will include works by Brahms, Schubert, Rachmaninoff, Liszt-Paganini, and others. The performance will begin at 8 p. m.

The regular monthly meeting of the Dorcas Class of Jarvis Memorial Sunday School met at the home of Mrs. Baker Monday night with Mrs. Baker, Miss Ella Sockwell and Mrs. W. A. Sellars hostesses for the evening. A most delightful evening was spent by about 30 of the class members playing games which caused much merriment. The Christmas decorations were greatly admired and the sparkling big tree was not merely an ornament as was discovered when the hostesses presented each member with an amusing little gift. The prizes won by the clever young ladies who held their own in several contests were very original—ask Mrs. Massey to let you show her little toy cannon if you want to make a fuss.—Reported ROBERSONVILLE—Pink chrysanthemums decorated the home of Mrs. Hattie Hardy on Broad Street Thursday evening when she entertained the Homemakers' Club.

The president, Mrs. Harvey Roberson, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock. Useful household hints were given in response to the roll call.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. W. T. Hurst, Mrs. W. L. Swindell and Mrs. Walter Roberson was appointed and requested to report on December 13.

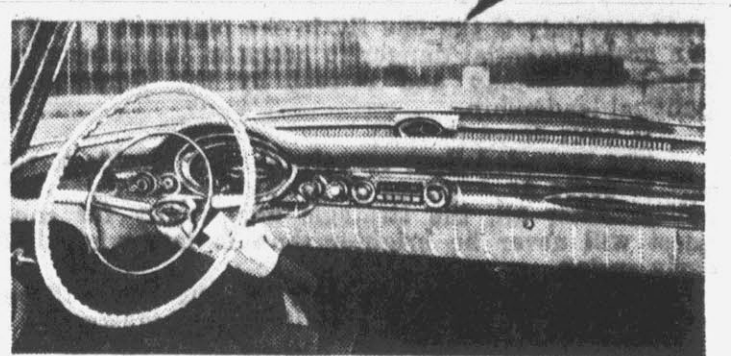

Names were then drawn for the exchange of presents at the Christmas party which will be at the home of Mrs. J. P. House.

It was voted to send gifts to three members who are unable to attend due to deaths or sickness in their families.

During the social hour, the hostess entertained with games and contests. Winners were Mesdames Mack Wynne and Stonewall Parker. The guessing box was captured by Mrs. Marie Johnson.

Mrs. Hardy, assisted by Miss Bailey, served block ice cream, salted peanuts and homemade lemon layer cake to thirteen members and two guests, Mrs. Nettie Parker and Miss Bailey.

Arrangements of fall flowers were used throughout the house. The members are continuing the study of the Southern States and Mrs. J. R. Daniels gave a talk on Oklahoma, nicknamed the "Sooner State" because in the illegal effort to get the best land some of the settlers crossed the border sooner than the official day when Oklahoma was opened for settlement on April 22, 1889. The hostess served a sweet course to a large number. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William H. Gray Sr.

New Continuity In Governing Body

Pitt Commissioners yesterday officially began a new year of their administration, and responsibility for the government of this county.

During the past two years the Board of Commissioners have done a commendable job of administering the county's government. Probably of most significance among their achievements is the reorganization which has been effected among the county's various departments in an effort to bring about a more efficient operation. While this has been carried on by the Commissioners quietly during the past two years, it has brought about a higher level of efficiency than appeared in the county's operation several years ago.

County taxpayers have not seen the results of this work in terms of reduced taxes, but they have, nevertheless, received benefits of the gradual increase in efficiency which has stretched tax dollars farther than otherwise would have been possible.

Stability of the Board's membership which has been achieved to an appreciable degree by the staggering of terms, should provide a degree of continuity which heretofore has been assured in the governing board of Pitt County. Two years ago this month the Board of County Commissioners was made up of five new men. There were no carry-over members of the board and consequently a high degree of continuity of action between the then new board and the board which had preceded it could not be achieved.

Such is not the case as a change is made this December. With one exception, the new board is composed of the same men who have administered the county's affairs for the past two years. The exception came about through the decision of Chairman W. Jasper Smith not to seek re-election and he has been replaced on the board by former Mayor R. L. Martin of Bethel.

Under the present arrangement which was instituted two years ago, each Commissioner is elected for a four-year term rather than a two-year term, and the terms of a maximum of three members will expire during a single year.

The present Board of Commissioners should find little difficulty in continuing efforts to bring about greater efficiency in the county's operation, and to continue other programs which have been initiated during the past two years.

An Empire Collapsing, But Dangers Persist

As recently as one year ago no one really thought the course of history would so quickly change. But today the signs are multiplying that we are witnessing the collapse of the Communist Empire.

Not only has the satellite system become unreliable allies of Russia, but they are now hotbeds of hatred for Russia. That isn't all!

Fence-sitting neutrals have been forced into expressions of dismay over Communist brutality and flagrant violations of the guideposts to peace. Pro-Russian rulers are so frightened that the true story of Hungary and the Kremlin Middle-East tactics are not told to their people; simply because the full story would spell the downfall of Soviet-leaning leadership.

Even in Russia the full facts of Hungary's revolt has not been told to the people.

We can only surmise that Russian leadership is so unsteady in its saddle that they cannot trust the reaction of their followers . . . the very people of Russia.

With the Kremlin itself on such uncertain ground, the only sure factor is the huge military machine. That certainly is the one fly in the ointment . . . the one great potential danger to peace in this interim of confusion, dismay and retreat by the Communist political leadership.

It boils down to this:

The wounded Bear conceivably may decide to resort to force as a means of salvaging past errors of policy. After all, the strategic opportunity for conquest will never be brighter than in late winter or early spring.

By that time West Europe's fuel shortage will be widely felt, fuel for transportation and industry . . . especially war industry . . . will be on short rations. The Suez Canal will, by then, be almost ready to resume the flow of vital crude oil which powers the great productive centers of West Europe, which powers the armies, navies and air fleets of West Europe.

It is also foreseeable that there will be considerable domestic political strife; brought on by the discomforts of winter and capitalization of any hardships by the political opposition to parties in power.

So, while the world watches in amazement at the downfall of an ideological empire, the dangers of catastrophe have not lessened.

Indeed, they are swelling like floodwaters against the dike of Reason and Hope.

How Pitt Can Help To Ease Their Sufferings

People of Pitt County, like most other Americans, find a tender spot in their hearts these days for the destitute people of Hungary and the thousands of Hungarian refugees who have fled their homes seeking safety in other nations.

Most people here, like those elsewhere, would like to lend a helping hand. Few of them can afford to bring a displaced Hungarian family to this county, or afford them with living quarters or a job and the other requisites set up by the federal government for Hungarian refugees.

Through the special fund-raising campaign of the American Red Cross, however, every Pitt Countian who really wants to can render at least some aid to the freedom loving Hungarians. From Pitt County the Red Cross has asked $968 in its special fund-raising program for Hungary. It is a small amount, to be sure, but it is nevertheless an important amount if food, clothing, medical supplies and other necessities are to be provided these people who so recently have seen their homes, their cities and in many instances all their belongings disappear before the rumble of Russian tanks and the shells from Russian guns.

All one needs to do to be of assistance to the people of Hungary is to mail a contribution to the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, P. O. Box 586, Greenville.

Intangibles Tax Is Still Big Problem

By LYNN NISBET

INTANGIBLES — The tax on intangibles has long been one of the most objectionable levies by North Carolina. It was the subject of special study by a subcommittee and was of great concern to the whole tax commission. Admittedly the proposed solution was not entirely satisfactory to any member of the group, but was deemed the best obtainable.

Chairman Brandon Hodges issued the following statement in connection with release of the report, which gives some idea of the problems confronting his commission:

Interest in the Intangibles Tax has been manifested from all parts of the State and from all economic levels. The commission had the benefit of the views of the Banking profession, Chambers of Commerce, the Department of Conservation and Development, representatives of industry and individuals outlining the detrimental effects of the levy. On the other hand, the commission also had the position of the counties and cities clearly presented to it by the associations representing these local units of our government showing that even though the net receipts from this source are a relatively small per cent of total revenues the immediate withdrawal of this source, if not replaced by the State, would cause a real shock to the General Fund budgets of these units.

The problem of the proper theoretical and practical method of handling this type of property and the income therefrom for tax purposes has been a live question in this State at least since 1868. The present classified property tax, with protective rates, was made possible by the 1936 Constitution to amend which was implemented by legislation in 1937. Many conscientiously conceived alternatives to the present method of taxing intangibles were presented to the Commission from a variety of responsible sources.

The various alternatives included the following: Repeal with a prohibition against taxation of this type of property by local units; repeal and return to the local level to be administered under the property tax machinery; retention on the present basis but reducing the rates to such an extent as to realize no material collections; retention but with gradual reduction of rates by successive sessions of the General Assembly to soften the fiscal shock on local units, to be soon followed by exemption; repeal of the present levy, but with local units being permitted to tax intangibles, or exempt them, at the option of each local unit. Other alternatives not specifically recommended include taxation of the income from intangibles at a special low surtax rate in lieu of property taxation and the use of stock transfer taxes and recordation taxes on notes.

To properly appraise the alternatives open to the Commission it was necessary to survey the legal as well as the fiscal angles of each possibility. On the fiscal score the same problem presented itself that was inherent in the consideration of all the tax schedules which could be classified as irritating. The loss of revenue would have to be made up by shifting the tax burden to other already burdened taxpayers because, if this loss were added to the other absolutely necessary changes, the necessary expenditure programs probably could not be maintained at the present level of quality and quantity. On the legal score it was found that the General Assembly is not granted the authority to exempt this class of property from taxation and it cannot permit local units to tax or exempt it at their option. On the question of reducing the rates the fiscal problem of the State replacing the revenue loss of the local units was met. To repeal the state administered tax would mean that the general property tax rates of the local units, which would not be desirable.

The nine members of the Commission represented all sections of the State and were a relatively sound cross section of the various economic segments of the economy and the people of the State. It is understandable that among the membership there was complete lack of agreement as to one theoretically and practically acceptable alternative solution to the problem. There is no disagreement that the intangibles tax is a property tax and that the present classification method provides a relatively protective rate for these uses of property. There is also no argument with the conclusion that if we have this tax statewide that it cannot be satisfactorily administered by the local units.

The Commission's recommendation for change in the intangibles Tax does not present a solution which is a panacea. It does cut out some unnecessary red tape. It does definitely urge that since the State itself does not levy a property tax that all of the net collections, rather than the present 80 per cent, should be returned to the local units since it is a tax in lieu of local general property levies. It also replaces some local revenues which are lost to local units in other suggestions of the Commission. It reflects the view and it should definitely get out of this area of taxation except for purely administrative purposes for the convenience of the local units. And last, but of great significance, it recognizes that a question of this importance should be submitted to the people. Therefore, it is recommended that the Legislature consider the advisability of presenting a constitutional amendment to the people.

Gotta Keep Eye On The Ball

The boxing game is all its detractors claim. It is brutal, cruel, and deadly.

Knowing this, I am nevertheless fascinated by this "sport" which pits skill against skill, stamina against stamina, courage against courage.

My father probably started it. He took me to the newspaper office one night long ago when Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney met in their second bout. The street was jammed, much as it has been here when tallying election returns. Somebody on the Orlando Morning Sentinel's staff read the wire account, round by round, to the waiting mob. I remember an "Extra" appeared before the crowd dispersed. It didn't mean a whole lot to me at the time, but the excitement was contagious.

In the years that followed we saw films of the big fights at the local theater, and listened through the static to an endless stream of fighters who briefly paraded through the limelight. A set of boxing gloves helped me early to learn the relative values of a jab, hook, right cross and uppercut.

Since television came our way, Wednesday and Friday nights have been of more than passing interest.

There was a considerable amount of anticipation involved last Friday evening; it would be my first viewing of a heavy-weight title match. Knobs were carefully turned to get the clearest possible picture; an ash-tray and matches were placed close at hand; the telephone was hidden away in an adjoining room; a cold drink was nearby to slake an expected thirst of 15 rounds duration.

I sat through endless introductions, then two rounds of indecisive action. Then there was a small distraction in the kitchen between rounds, but back in plenty of time to see the start of round three.

Rounds three and four passed quickly my scorecard had Patterson with a slight edge. But as to what happened in round five I don't really recall.

Floyd slipped, held up a glove to ward off an over-eagerness by Moore . . . got up and had his glove dusted, then for some reason I looked away. I may have gone again to the kitchen for a re-fill, but there was a roar and old Archie was on his hands and knees. He got up and was promptly pushed down again weeping on his feet, he once more faced the younger man, but the ref called off the slaughter.

Sunday night a network show included filmed shots of the knockout blow . . . and I missed that too.

You've got to be alert if you don't want to miss something.

HABITS

It is amazing how little attention most people give to the formation of habit.

Life can be adequately defined as a cluster of habits. We get into certain physical habits by which situations can be handled reflexively in an instant of danger if speed is of the essence. Eating becomes so much a habit that many people eat mechanically, and most people eat too much year by year, our growth largely consists in deepening and extending our habits. As soon as we have performed any act or allowed any thought to pass through our minds, the disposition to repeat the act or thought has been established. The more we repeat the act or thought, the easier does repetition become. We get at last to the place where repetition becomes practically imperative. One of life's most agonizing experiences is trying to break a habit once it has been established.

Since this is true, the wise person will be mighty careful about the habits which he allows to get started in his life. The slightest deviation from honesty can lead one far afield into larceny. The impure thought can ultimately lead to the ruin of reputation and life. One out of every ten drinkers ends as a problem drinker or an alcoholic.

Since life consists largely of a bundle of habits, it is up to us to see that the right habits are started and encouraged.

Other Editors Are Saying . . . Song For December

(Goldboro News-Argus)

We come now to December, the merriest month of the year despite any contrary description of May 19 that respect.

The sun comes up late and goes down early and darkness is over the face of the earth and winter is come and days so cold.

In the little towns the faces relax, smile more and grow tender. There is an air of expectancy, of hurry and bustle, of sharing and giving. The little ones are writing to Santa Claus and the parents find their joy in their plans for surprises all around. In the schools there are programs and in a day or so Christmas trees. The poor and the sick and the lame and the blind are remembered. Everyone takes care of his home. Baskets are filled. It is the Christmas season and Christmas time is sharing time.

A cross Tai Heelia the hog-killing fires are burning. The neighbors gather to work and to talk and to fraternize. There is fresh meat in great plenty for the smokehouse. The little ones are rendered and sausage to grind and season and the hams and shoulders to be made ready for smoking.

The color is fading from the woods and trees. Cold has done its work and brown leaves are underfoot across the landscape. The evergreens are the more noticeable because of the brown garment spread over the woods and nature prepares to sleep for a time, to store up her energy and her life after a season of repose.

The merry rush increases as the days advance and the children come back from college. The family is brought close and cozy in the snug little homes and in the big places and there is a sweetness to life and the Star of the East shines in the heart as well as in the sky.

Finally, the great day comes and the presents are shared and the caroling is done. The parties and the services over. For the young there remains the rush of holiday parties. For the older there is a let-down feeling and the great and lifted up feeling has ebbed. The year is ending, and in the night the wild bells ring out, the whistles blow, the auto horns honk and it is a New Year, a new calendar and a new hope.

Demo Liberals Press To Dump Dixie

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Democratic Party's only chance of successful survival lies in prompt adoption of an ultra-liberal program, especially on Civil Rights, even if it means the automatic loss of such historically loyal states in Dixie as Virginia, Florida, Louisiana and Texas.

That is the present belief of a small but increasing faction of Party leaders on Capitol Hill and within the Democratic National Committee, as expressed at the recent conference here of the party's executive board.

Their proposal favors favoring Democratic governors in the North, where they have won many influential states with the very policies advocated at the Washington meeting.

Their viewpoint is coldly practical, in their opinion. It is: Why alienate voters in electorally important states like New York (45), Pennsylvania (32), Massachusetts (16), New Jersey (16), Illinois (27), Michigan (20) and California (32), in order to hold a South which gave only 61 electoral votes to Adlai Stevenson. His 13 Missouri electoral tally is not credited to Dixie in this computation.

CAUSES OF DEMOCRATIC DEFEAT The liberal reformers attribute the extent of their November defeat to defections of the labor, racial, white-collar liberal and farm elements. And their analysis is traced directly in this analysis to the Southern bloc's conservative stand on these issues as well as to its control of major Congressional committees having jurisdiction over them.

The Northerners also charge that the Southerners sabotaged the Stevenson-Keafauver ticket in several states. They are extremely critical of Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's alleged failure to give it grassroots and organization support.

They note that Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia pottedshot a Southern-dominated Democratic Congress, while he did not lift a finger or his powerful voice for the Presidential slate.

In Kentucky, Governor A. B. Chandler deliberately snubbed Stevenson while honoring Ike with an official welcome.

They also point out that, for the first time, so-called liberal Democrats will have a majority of that Party's 49 members in the Upper Chamber. They count on reinforcement from three newcomers — Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Frank Church of Idaho and John Carroll of Colorado.

ARGUMENTS FOR LIBERALIZATION As a further argument for liberalization, they advance the fact that candidates of their political faith hold the governorships in many electorally influential states which voted for Ike-Harriman of New York, Fulco (elected November 6) of Massachusetts, Ribicoff of Connecticut, Meyers of New Jersey, Leader of Pennsylvania, Williams of Michigan, etc.

In planning for the 1960 campaign, when they will not have to face such a popular figure as Ike, the reformers suggest an altogether new strategy. In their opinion, it has a better chance of success than the course fixed by conservative Congressional (Southern) leaders.

HOPES PLACED ON LIBERAL PROGRAM They cling to the 61 Southern electoral ballots given to Stevenson as a hard Dixie core, and believe that Texas, Louisiana and the border states will return to the fold. With a liberal program, they insist that the Democrats can carry enough Northern, Middle West and Western states to ring up 300 electoral votes, with 266 necessary.

The states which they pinpoint as possibly Democratic are Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Oregon, Washington and California.

In a sense, their proposed strategy recalls the cry of 1861 moderates in the North-South conflict: "Let the errands sisters go!" Or the South make "up its mind whether it is to be Democratic or Republican!"

Suez Has Crippled Prosperity

By ELMER ROESSNER

The prosperity of the world has been diminished by events in the Middle East.

In the last half century, experience in America has demonstrated that prosperity, the standard of living, the economic well-being or whatever you choose to call it, depends on productivity. This has always been true but it has never been demonstrated as dramatically as it has been in the last fifty years.

In terms of goods, services, health and even luxury, families on relief today are better off than all but the richest were at the turn of the century. Indeed, in some ways they are better off than even the wealthiest.

This is the result of productivity, which is the physical output per man per day—or hour, minute or month if you choose. A typical automobile in 1906 cost a lot less than it does today. But it might represent two years work at 60 hours a week for a mechanic then. Today, it represents less than six months of 40-hour weeks and the car itself is many times faster, safer, more comfortable and more attractive.

PROFITABILITY IS SHARED.

The situation is the same in almost every industry. Because our machines and our techniques produce X times as much per man as machines and devices did 50 years ago, our standard of living is X times as high.

Furthermore, this increase in productivity tends to spill over into other economies. Because productivity results in surpluses, with the rest of the world. And because productivity in other nations has increased, we share in their surpluses.

It involves many things: more efficient machines, more efficient methods, more efficient transportation, better working conditions, better community health and workers' morale.

America's productivity, as indicated above, is only part of the world's productivity; we depend, to an extent, on others' output.

THE BIG SET-BACK

When armed warfare broke out in the Middle East—and, for that matter, in Hungary—productivity declined. Men and women were taken out of production and put to fighting, which meant that the average output per person declined. And in the case of Hungary, it meant a loss of production that almost all free men are glad to share.

But in Egypt, the productivity loss appears to be even greater. The Suez Canal was a tremendous advance in technology. In terms of world productivity, it may have been greater than the invention of the American assembly line.

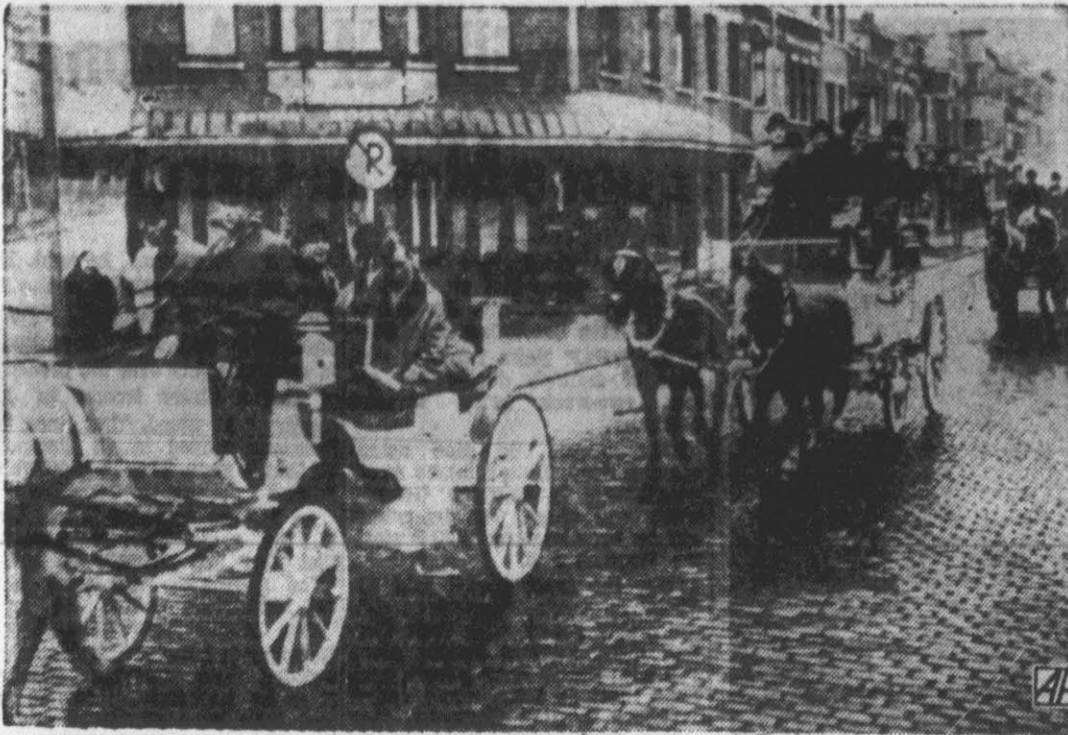

Now it's blocked and may be blocked for a long time. Coincidentally, oil pipelines have been ruptured. From now until some vague future date, billions of man hours will be spent guarding the canal and removing obstructions, and billions more will be spent taking cargoes around the Cape of Good Hope and on other longer routes.

A few industries are benefiting: Independent oil producers, ship builders and operators, plane and munition manufacturers and a few others. On the other hand, stocks have tumbled in Zurich, Amsterdam, London and Paris and things haven't been doing so well in Wall Street either. Gasoline is being rationed abroad, other shortages are developing on the continent and prices are rising here.

These phenomena are only symptomatic. What really matters is that warfare and blocking the canal has decreased world productivity per man and per hungry mouth. Even though some of us profit, immediately, in the end all of us will find our clothes are a little lighter per dollar and our meat a little thinner per hours of work.

Seventy-Two Finish Their College Work

Seventy-two East Carolina students completed their college work at the end of the fall quarter, according to an announcement by Registrar Orval L. Phillips. With other members of the graduating class of 1957, they will be granted degrees at the annual spring commencement exercises, scheduled for Sunday, May 19.

All of the fall-quarter graduates at East Carolina are North Carolinians except three, who come from Virginia and Pennsylvania. The 69 North Carolinians represent 40 counties in this state. Making up the total number included on Dr. Phillips' list are 40 women and 22 men.

Fifty-six of those completing their work at the end of the winter quarter are candidates for the bachelor of science degree, which is awarded in the field of teacher education.

Seven will receive the master of arts degree. One is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree.

Pitt County students who will receive degrees in May, are: M. A.—Jean M. Crane, Greenville; Peggy H. Barnhill, Greenville; Martha Conway Fliender, Greenville; Clarence C. Knotts, Jr., Greenville; B. S.—James W. Briley, Greenville; Alma C. Winslow Buck, Winterville; Marjorie Boyd Dunn, Winterville; Shirley Ann McLawhorn, Grimesland; Frank L. Moore, Farmville; Bruce Irvin Reynolds, Greenville; Sara Giles Davis, Greenville.

On Program

Johnnie and Jack and their Tennessee Mountain Boys will be in Greenville at Wright Auditorium tonight.

In addition to Johnnie and Jack tonight's show will feature Kitty Wells, who has been voted the number one female singer of folk songs for four consecutive years in all trade journals and magazines.

Johnnie and Jack, Kitty Wells and Roy Acuff and the Tennessee Mountain Boys have just completed an engagement at the Palace Theatre in New York City, playing to capacity crowds.

No Signs Yet Of Plan For Filling Mid-East Vacuum

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—If the Eisenhower administration has any plan or policy for filling the vacuum left in the Middle East by the pathetic performance of the British and French, it hasn't been seen or stated yet.

Yet a clearly stated policy, which can be a rallying point for the chaotic Arab world and at the same time is understood unmistakably by American allies and Russia, is needed unless the Middle East is to be left to drift.

The Russians would like to fill the vacuum. Fortunately, the Russians have given this country time to formulate a policy. Their barbarisms in Hungary were a warning to the Arabs what to expect if they became Soviet satellites.

Both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations had an opportunity in the postwar decade to make this country a rallying point for the people struggling out of colonialism by speaking out repeatedly against colonialism.

Neither administration did much of that although both opposed colonialism. In other circumstances both no doubt would have done more talking against it.

But this country needed its two principal allies, Britain and France, which, with the exception of Russia, are the biggest colonial powers. Apparently both administrations feared too much anti-colonial talk might wreck the alliance.

There is no clearer example of the lack of a thought-out policy in dealing with the Middle East than Secretary of State Dulles' handling of Egyptian President Nasser. First he hemmed and hawed on letting Nasser have arms. When Nasser then turned to the Communists for them, Dulles got busy on arranging a loan to Egypt to build a dam. In the end he refused the loan in such a way that he infuriated Nasser, who a few days later seized the Suez Canal.

The hope of the Truman and Eisenhower administrations was seeded to be that colonialism was withering away and that meanwhile American economic help to newly freed peoples would show them where the American heart was.

Things didn't work out that smoothly.

Those old imperialistic powers, the British and French, when frustrated by Nasser's seizure of the canal, acted like old imperialistic powers. They were bigger than Egypt so they attacked it.

But still this was only a specific policy to meet a specific situation. The French and British quit fighting and now promise to get out of Egypt. What does the United States do now?

MUTT WITH SAD OUTLOOK.—Pluto, a relentless bloodhound, looks sad and reluctant as he is called upon to track down fugitives from the Polk County jail at Dallas, Oregon, for the third time in two months. But just the same, Pluto went ahead hounded down one escaped prisoner in a strawberry patch. The dog is one of several bloodhounds owned by Norman Wilson, an employe of the State Forestry Department. Christmas Music Will Be Featured By Singers

Christmas music, including carols, anthems, and other numbers appropriate to the season, will make the program to be presented Tuesday, December 11, by the College Singers of East Carolina. The concert, open to the public, will take place at 8:15 in Music Hall on the campus.

A group of ten students of music selected because of their talent as vocalists, the College Singers will be led by their director Dan E. Vornholt of the college faculty. The ensemble will be accompanied by a string quartet under the direction of Donald H. Hayes of the faculty.

The program, arranged in five divisions, will include holiday greetings in song, the story of the birth of Jesus told in a series of carols from various lands, anthems in praise and adoration, compositions for string ensemble, and singing of carols and hymns by the College Singers and the audience.

Soloists who will appear on the program are Margaret Ann Griffin of Columbia, Douglas Brown of Rockingham, George Johnson of Oxford, William L. Lloyd of Morehead City, Barbara Harris of Beaufort, and Jane Fuller of Greenville.

Other members of the College Singers are Grace Miller of Farmville, Suzanne Fretz of Graham, Faye Rivenbark of Wallace, and Lawrence Grissom of Henderson.

Members of the string ensemble are Frances Eubanks of Raleigh, Henry Goodman of Dover, Thomas E. Lewis of Rocky Mount, and Kenneth K. Killebrew of Rocky Mount.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER, AP Real Estate Editor

A GLASS ROOF you can't see through — an install-it-yourself burglar alarm . . . new bricks that can be painted without hazards of peeling . . . a hammer that supplies and drives its own nails at a rate of 100 per minute are among the new inventions now on the market.

The glass roof in the form of porous sheets of fibrous glass and asphalt is hailed as a challenge to the ravages of sun, rain, snow and ice. It is boasted of as a product that won't blister, crack, split, peel or develop pinholes.

In roll form, this roofing is suited to flat tops as well as low pitched roofs. The manufacturers say that more than 6 million square feet of this roofing has been applied on big commercial structures to test its efficiency. On a built-up roof it forms a monolithic slab in which the asphalt seeps through the fibrous glass mat to form a single solid mass.

ONE FEATURE of the recent hardware show in New York's Coliseum was an automatic watchman burglar alarm designed for the do-it-yourself householder to install on any window or door, or combination of accessible openings. All you need in the way of tools is a screw-driver—maybe also scissors.

The alarm has a switch you can turn off when opening your own windows and doors to prevent startling the neighborhood. A pilot light shows whether the alarm is on or off. There also is a built-in thermostat to make the alarm sound in case of fire. This is set to react whenever temperature exceeds 140 degrees.

NEW BRICKS made of silica instead of clay have been developed to take and hold any kind of paint and eliminate the troubles of paint peeling because of mineral action. These bricks are intended for use both indoors and outside. They open a lot of possibilities in uses for fireplace and chimney facings.

SAVINGS up to $175 per house in home building are expected from a new hammer which supplies and drives its own nails upwards as well as downwards. Hous and Home, trade publication, says three different types of this hammer are now coming into the market and tests show they'll drive as many as 100 nails per minute.

These tools aren't for the home workshop, however. They are priced from $950 to $1,200 each. For ordinary pounding, we'll have to stick to the common hammer—whether it has a pretty plastic handle, chromium plate or inlaid gold initials in a hickory stock.

Wage 'War' On Liquor Traffic

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Holiday spirits can come high in Kansas if you cross the state line to buy them in Missouri.

A lot of Kansans along the state line do, Kansas estimates it lost $317,257 in tax revenue on such doings-on last year. Something is being done about it this holiday season.

Several teams of Kansas state agents are stationed on the Missouri side of the line, equipped with binoculars and radios.

They park near liquor stores, watch for Kansas license plates and tip off other officers by radio whenever they see a Kansan heading home with a large package.

If picked up with more than two quarts of liquor not bearing Kansas revenue stamps, the erring Jayhawker is taken to the nearest magistrate. The penalty is $10 to $50 and costs. The liquor is confiscated.

There wouldn't be any enforcement problem if Missouri liquor prices weren't more attractive, Kansas agents moan.

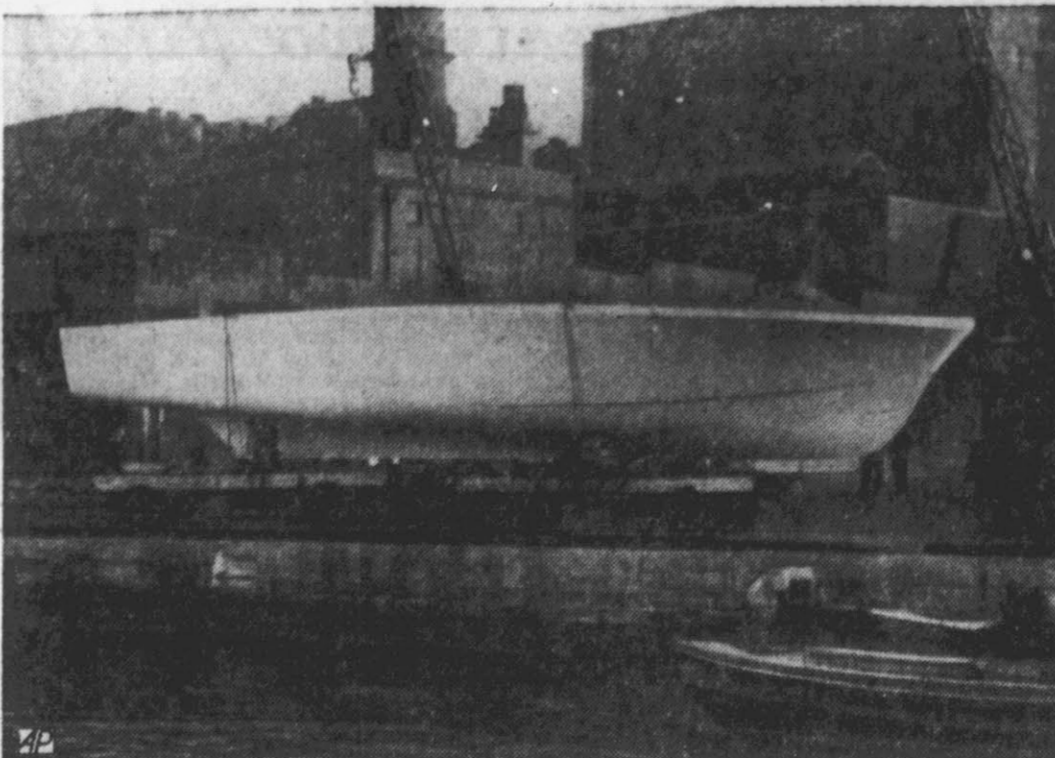

A fifth of good whisky can be bought in Missouri as much as $1 cheaper, chiefly due to tax differences and Kansas price-fixing laws.

Traffic Hazard On The Turnpike

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A Pennsylvanian said he liked the West Virginia Turnpike just fine, but it was the first time he had encountered horses and mules on a toll road.

Joseph Moore of Harrisburg, Pa. in a letter to the Charleston Gazette, said he almost ran into them on a foggy night near the Chelyan interchange.

He said a service station attendant told him the animals "belonged to a sawmill nearby."

FOR TROPICS — This 56-foot one-mold boat made of fiber glass for a Singapore firm is launched at Portsmouth, Eng. Its resistance to sea growths makes it ideal for tropical use.

Lengthy Docket Disposed Of In Recent Pitt Court

Edmondson, Oak City, guilty in absentia, $25, costs deducted, and clerk to hold license 10 days. John W. Taylor, Bath, case not prosessed with leave. Doris A. King, Pollocksville, guilty in absentia, fined $5 and costs. Joseph L. Everett, Greenville, case not prosessed with leave. Leon Holland, Elizabeth City, guilty in absentia, $25, costs deducted, and clerk to hold license 10 days.

Willie Everett, Negro, Tarboro, allowing an unlicensed person to operate a motor vehicle, $10 and costs.

James Howell Sr., address not stated, fined $10 and costs.

James H. DeLoatch, Negro, Tarboro, 30 days or $25 and costs.

No operator's license: Hubert J. Moye, Greenville, case continued.

James D. Cross, Negro, Commack, N. Y., (and operating truck without clearance lights), $10 and costs.

James Moore Jr., Chocowinity, fined $10 and costs for improper muffler. William H. Roach, Negro, Ayden, $10 fine and costs for improper brakes. Benjamin Woodward Jr., Cherry Point, case not prosessed with leave.

Driving under influence of intoxicating or narcotic drug: Cecil C. Riddick, four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $200 and costs and his driver's license was ordered revoked for three years.

Johnnie (None) Williams, Grimesland (second offense), and no operator's license and resisting arrest. Resisting arrest was not prosessed. For driving drunk, four months on the roads, suspended on payment of $200 and costs. And Williams is not to drive a motor vehicle in no event until issued proper driving license.

Fate Atkinson, Negro, Macchesfield, was found not guilty of driving drunk. He was adjudged guilty of careless and reckless driving and driving to the left of center, and was fined $25 and costs. The court recommended that his license be suspended for 10 days.

Larceny: Emma Louise Cox, address not stated, six months in jail, suspended on payment of $10 and costs and she is not to enter

M. O. Blount's store for two years. Lilly Mae Howard, address not stated, six months in jail, suspended on payment of costs and pay $14.85 to W. C. Whitehurst & Sons' store and not enter said store for two years.

Jesse Pilgreen, Pactolus, pleaded guilty of drunk and disorderly conduct, and was fined $25 and costs and he is not to violate any law for two years.

Worthless check: J. A. Butts, Nashville, two charges, and he pleaded guilty in both cases. The court gave him 60 days, suspended on payment of costs and checks on or before January 1, 1957. William Carraway, Second Street, Greenville, 12 days in jail. Thurman Stocks, Ayden, four months, suspended on payment of check and costs. He gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

Haywood Dail Mills, Blount's Creek, speeding 85 miles an hour, driving carelessly and recklessly and disregarding three stop signs. This case was consolidated with Case No. 20831 in which Mills was given six months for possession of non-tax paid whiskey for sale, suspended on payment of $500 and costs and he shall not violate any liquor law for two years. His driver's license was ordered revoked for 12 months.

Farmville GI Is Among Those Met In Germany

Specialist Third Class James C. Joyner of Farmville, stationed at Heidelberg, Germany, was one of the 61 North Carolinians interviewed by WPTF News Director Phil Ellis of Raleigh during his recent two-week swing through Germany.

Ellis covered, in nine actual working days, United States Army installations in fourteen German towns and cities. The interviews will be broadcast on WPTF starting December 8.

"For the most part," said the WPTF newsman, "American GI's are pretty happy with their German duty. They're getting along well with the German people, and while most of them would rather be home than in Germany, they prefer their present duty to any other foreign duty they could have."

The German people, reported Ellis, are extremely jittery over the present world situation. "That's natural," he said. "After all, they've been through two world wars in the last 40 years, and they are not anxious to have the experience again."

The attitude of the Germans toward the Americans, he said, has changed considerably since the Soviet actions in Hungary. "There apparently was some resentment in some quarters over the presence of United States troops in the country," he noted, "but since the Russians moved in on Hungary, all that is gone. They're glad we're there."

As for the scare of World War II, the radio newsman reported that they are virtually all gone. "The Germans, with their typical industrious nature, he said, "have rebuilt from ruins. Today Germany is a modern, well-stocked well-fed and thriving country. It is an impressive thing to see how they have recovered and at the same time have maintained a completely free and democratic government."

Green Phantoms Open Seasonal Play Tonight; Starters In Doubt

Oklahoma Is Again Voted Best

By ORLO ROBERTSON The Associated Press

Oklahoma's high-powered Sooners, winners of 40 straight games after chalking up 10 triumphs this season, have been acclaimed the Nation's No. 1 college football team for the second successive year.

In the final poll conducted by The Associated Press, 187 sports writers and broadcast gave the Sooners a total of 1,715 votes compared with 1,618 for the second-place Tennessee Volunteers, who are headed for the Sugar Bowl.

The Sooners, who retired the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C.S.C. Memorial Trophy, were placed first on 104 ballots. Tennessee received 48 first-place votes. The others were scattered among seven teams, topped by Iowa's 15 and Miami's 12.

The O'Donnell trophy, put into competition by Notre Dame in honor of the former president of the South Bend, Ind., university, now has been won three times by Oklahoma. The Sooners won their first leg on the trophy in 1950.

Iowa's Rose Bowl bound Hawkeyes, who had their best season since 1922 with an 8-1 record finished third. They compiled 1,270 points on the basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Georgia Tech, who'll meet Pitt in the Gator bowl, was right behind Iowa in fifth place with 1,211 votes. The Engineers were followed by Texas A&M with 1,070; Miami, 867; Michigan, 599; Syracuse, 406; Michigan State, 399; and Oregon State, 299.

Syracuse is headed for the Cotton Bowl and Oregon State for Rose Bowl.

McElhane To Receive Jacobs Blocking Honor

RALEIGH (AP)—Harold McElhane, Duke fullback, has been voted the most outstanding blocker among Atlantic Coast Conference football players in 1956.

The 197-pound Duke junior was selected to receive the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in a poll of writers, TV and radio men and college publicity agents in the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn.

McElhane polled 120 points on the basis of five points for a first place vote, three for second and one for third. He received a comfortable margin over Sam DeLuca, South Carolina tackle, who collected 73 points.

Sid DeLoatch, Duke tackle, wound up third in the balloting with 34 points.

Fifty members of the writers' association participated in the poll.

The Jacobs Blocking Trophy is awarded by William and Hugh Jacobs of Clinton, S.C., in memory of their father, the late William P. Jacobs.

Tonight is the opening night for the Phantoms of Greensville high school. The defending Northeastern conference co-champs play host to a highly-touted AAA Goldsboro outfit here, at the GHS gym, beginning at 8:00.

Coach Boley Farley, rebuilding at Greensville, yesterday stated that he still has not chosen his starting five for tonight's tilt. According to the greying mentor, it will be a matter of trial-and-error during the first few games until a satisfactory aggregation comes forth.

The Phantom squad has been whittled down to about 15 boys during the past week, from a group of 25 candidates. Only three lettermen returned from last year's championship club. Joe Wingate, Elizabethtown 84, Gettysburg 75 are the three veterans. Wingate may or may not have the inside track on center duties tonight. His height, as listed by the school now, is only 5 feet. Two others applying for the job are both taller: Albert Crawford, 6-3, and Steve Noble, 6-2, are newcomers who gained experience with the Phantom jayvee club last year.

Eldson and Roebuck probably have the starting guard slots taken care of for this opener anyway, however, Farley has not actually agreed to this. Farley would make no statements at all yesterday as to his starting five, except that "We just do not know yet."

Applying for the guard slots along with Eldson and Roebuck are Don Wilkerson, Walker Allen, Bob Bilbro and Wesley Hudson.

Forward candidates are many. Angus Duff, Peanut Nunn, Ed Wilkerson and Bobby Edwards seem to have priority.

Goldsboro, on the other hand, is not in the rebuilding stage, but is rather in a comfortable position of having all five of last year's starters returning. Reports from the AAA town have it that this may be Goldsboro's big season.

Bobby Blizzel, a 6-5 center, along with Jerry Ellis and Dorsett Clement at guards, are the probable top scorers on the visiting quintet. Forwards will be manned by another pair of experienced sharpshooters, Bill Moore and Sonny Aycock.

The contest tonight will be the opening tilt for both clubs this year and will not be a conference battle.

ECC Winning Streak Goes On Line Against McCrary

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina, possessor of one of the nation's longest home-court winning streaks will place that record on the line tomorrow night, as they play host to a well-regarded McCrary Eagles semi-professional club at Memorial Gymnasium.

Three years ago, in dedication ceremonies for the new college athletic building, the University of North Carolina was scheduled for a special contest to commemorate the opening of the gym. Sparked by Vince Grimaldi, Carolina overcame the Bucs and finally won out by 13 points.

Since that game, no other visiting club has been able to procure a victory against the Pirates in Memorial Gymnasium.

Coach Howard Porter's crews have sailed through three seasons, racking up two North State conference championships and 48 consecutive home wins since the Carolina battle.

McCrary is sharp. McCrary, a semi-pro outfit which consistently comes up with some of the South's finest former college stars, gave the Bucs their closest thing to a defeat in the gym last season. They led the Pirates throughout their second meeting in 1955-56, only to succumb by a mere smattering of points in the final moments.

This season, with such stars as former North Carolina State All-American Sammy Ranzino, Cliff Dwyer and Smith Langdon, the Eagles are rated strong again. Saturday night, they bowed to North Carolina, a team rated in national pre-season polls as the number 4 club in the country. They were beaten by only 14 points.

Ranzino, a dribble-demon who can shoot with the best of them, realized All-America honors several seasons ago while playing on State's championship ACC team which boasted such stars as Bobby Speight, Lee Terrell and others. He is ranked as one of State's all-time greats.

Dwyer is also from N.C.S. and Langdon is an old pro with the Eagles. It was Langdon who did so much damage against the Pirates last season.

ECC Improving Coach Porter has been working steadily this week to improve his club over the performance against Guilford last Saturday night. The Bucs stopped Guilford 73-60 easily, but were, of course, not as polished as the Fox would like. The performance was not a bad one for an opening-season tilt, but McCrary will undoubtedly be much stronger than the Quakers.

The probable starting lineup for ECC Wednesday night will be Don Harris and Nick Nichols at forwards, Freddy James and Charlie Adams at guards and Guy Mendenhall at center.

The game will begin at 8:00.

Another Gold Medal For U. S., But Soviets Gain

By TED SMITS

MELBOURNE (AP)—Mrs. Pat McCormick, trying for an unprecedented Olympic "double double," won the women's springboard diving for America's only gold medal today as Uncle Sam's precious point total melted under the pressure of Russian shooting victories.

Mrs. McCormick, 26-year-old Lakewood, Calif., housewife whose husband is the team's coach, easily defeated the 11 other finalists.

Pert little Jeanne Stunyo, a University of Detroit co-ed, from Gary, Ind., was second and Irene McDonald of Canada was third.

In 1952 at Helsinki, Mrs. McCormick won both the springboard and platform titles. The platform competition will be held later in the week.

Russia took gold medals in two shooting events and tallied 31 points with other placings to carve America's margin in the unofficial point totals. At the end of the day, the United States had 490 points to Russia's 452, a loss of 11 points. The U.S. has 29 gold medals to 20 for Russia.

Murray Rose, 17-year-old Australian blond, smashed the Olympic record in winning the men's 400-meter freestyle race in 4:27.3 with plenty to spare over Japan's Takeshi Yamanaka, America's only finalist, George Breen of Buffalo, N.Y., finished third behind Rose and the surprising 17-year-old Japanese high school boy.

With the exception of the women's diving, Breen was Uncle Sam's only point getter for the day with four for third place. However, his specialty is the 1,500-meter race in which he again will meet the handsome Australian.

Mrs. McCormick, mother of an infant daughter at home, climaxed her performance with a perfectly executed one-and-a-half backward somersault with a one-and-a-half twist to gain a whopping 17.4 points on her final dive. She finished with a total of 142.36 points. Miss Stunyo took second with 125.89.

America has a chance to pick up points in women's swimming tomorrow where a 1-2-3 sweep is a distinct possibility in the 100-meter butterfly event. Shelley Mann of Arlington, Va., beat the listed world's record for the best time in the trials. Nancy Jane Ramey of Mercer Island, Wash., and Mary Jane Sears of Chevy Chase, Md., could take second and third.

Find High Ratio Holding Jobs In Federal Offices

By WILBUR JENNINGS
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential committee reported today that Negroes comprise 23.4 per cent of the federal employees in five major cities, including this one.

Chairman Maxwell Abbell of President Eisenhower's Committee on Government Employment Policy, which compiled the figures, said the survey turned up two findings which he termed of particular significance.

"The first is that Negroes are employed by the federal government well above their ratio to the total population," Abbell said. "The second is that Negroes are by no means confined either to the menial jobs of the government or to the lower grades in the (civil service) Classification Act."

The ratio of Negroes to the total U. S. population is about 11 per cent.

Besides the capital, cities covered by the survey were Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Mobile, Ala.

The committee found that 43 per cent of the Negroes employed in the five cities held "Classification Act" or "white collar" jobs and 31 per cent held "wage board" or "blue collar" jobs paid on a per-day basis. The 26 per cent listed in "other" jobs included postal employees.

The survey showed that of all Negro federal workers in the five cities, 5 per cent were in supervisory jobs and had administrative direction over other employees.

The "white collar" civil service jobs are graded by number from 1 through 15, with 15 carrying the highest salary. Fifteen per cent of the Negroes employed in the five cities were found to be distributed from grades 5 through 15, as compared with 67 per cent of the whites in the same cities. Eighty-five per cent of the Negroes and 33 per cent of the white in the same cities were in grades through 4.

Almost Excused By Hungry Son

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A hungry 14-month-old son nearly got his father out of jury duty — but not quite.

William S. Pickett Jr. showed up in criminal court for jury duty, but didn't know where he was to serve because his son chewed the corner off his summons.

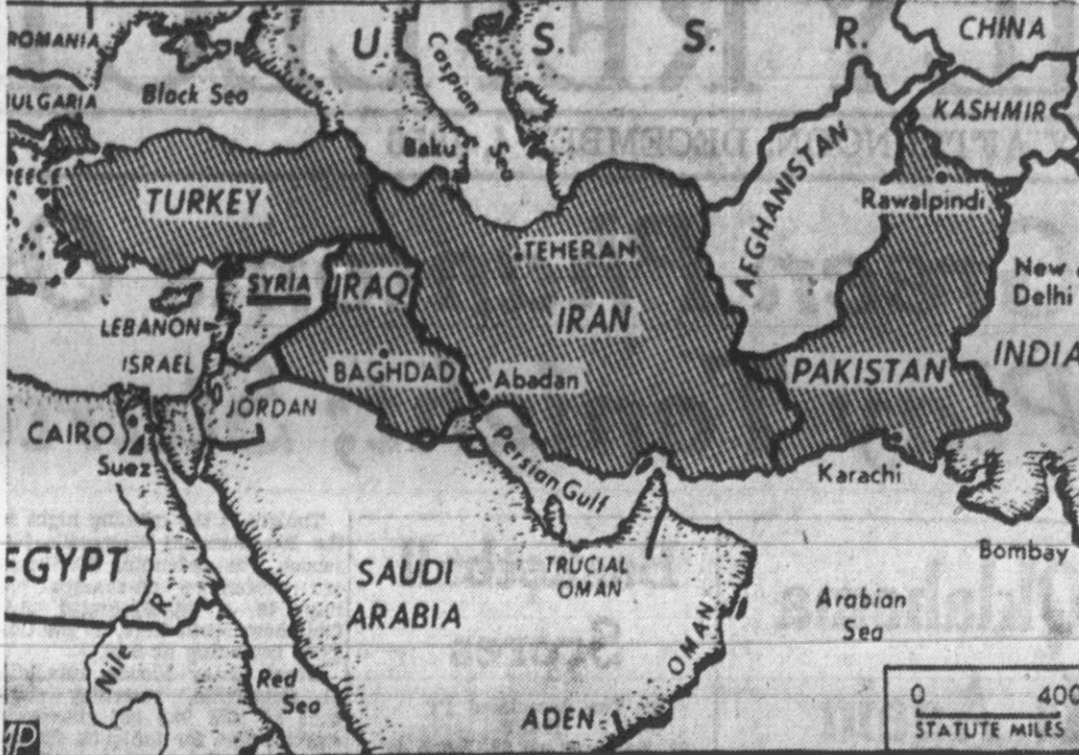

Judge Frank A. Ropke drafted Pickett for the grand jury anyway. He needed 12 men, only 11 showed up and Pickett was standing by.

Gave More Than Kiss To Spouse

BOSTON (AP)—A superior court judge has sentenced Mrs. Joan Witherspoon, 25, to a year in jail after she admitted it was more than a kiss that she gave her imprisoned husband.

Mrs. Witherspoon pleaded guilty to a charge she passed narcotics to her husband, Calvin, 27.

The husband was serving nine months on narcotics charges.

UN Delegates Said Split On Ousting Hungary

By TOM HOGE
 UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Non-Communist U. N. delegates were reported split today over whether to press for the ouster of Hungary's delegation to the General Assembly if the Budapest government persists in barring U. N. observers.

Some diplomats were said to feel the only way to get action from the Communists would be a concerted move to reject the Hungarians' credentials. Others feared such a step might create a dangerous precedent.

The expulsion move — brewing for the past week — gained momentum in the Assembly after Hungary repeated her refusal to admit U. N. observers. She opened the door only to the extent of agreeing to receive U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold "at a later date."

Cuban delegate Emilio Nunez-Portuondo quickly reiterated his demand that Hungary's delegation be expelled.

"They are no one," he declared.

to the Assembly. "They came here to hoodwink us."

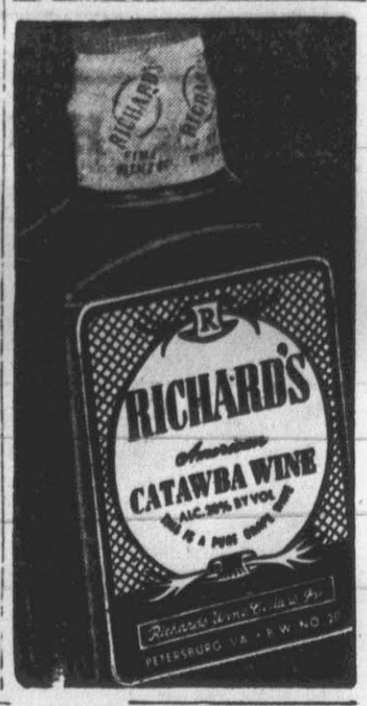

The United States — moving spirit behind a 14-nation resolution calling anew for admission of the observers — was reported giving the expulsion proposal close consideration. But informants said U. S. officials questioned whether such an unprecedented move could muster the two-thirds majority needed for passage in the 79-nation Assembly.

Asian nations, many of whom don't relish becoming embroiled in an East-West squabble, were said to be strongly opposed to expulsion even though they backed the U. S. stand on observers.

The Russians were reported ready to boycott any debate on Hungary if the assembly took such strong action as expulsion.

Pinza Is Felled By Heart Attack

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Singing star Ezio Pinza was felled yesterday by his second heart attack in three months.

The name of the 64-year-old basso was placed on the danger list at Greenwich Hospital shortly after he was admitted, but a hospital spokesman said this procedure was routine in such cases. His wife spent the night at the hospital.

Pinza, a Metropolitan Opera star before going on Broadway in "South Pacific" and "Fanny," said only last month he was ending his 37-year singing career and planned to take up acting.

Last August he suffered a heart attack at his summer home in Cervia, Italy, not far from his boyhood home in Ravenna.

It forced him to cancel his contract to appear in the play "A Ver; Special Baby."

Yesterday's attack caught him just before lunch in the dining room of his home in nearby Stamford, where he lives with his wife and three children, aged 5, 13, and 15.

"Clermont" began regular service in 1807. The first transatlantic steamer, "The Great Western," made its initial crossing in 1838.

Visiting Bear Is Shot And Killed

STODDARD, N.H. (AP)—A 300-pound bear that used to startle Stoddard residents with his escapades has been shot and killed.

He was bagged by Zigmund Starzynski, a Gardner, Mass., hunter.

Residents said they had seen the bear playfully romping after birds and stealing honey from trees where there were bees.

U. S. Said To Have Warned Syria No New Aggressions Will Be Tolerated

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Relevant Syrian sources say the United States has told Syria it will tolerate no more aggression in the Middle East.

American Ambassador James M. Moose was reported to have given that word to Premier Sabri Assal in a 90-minute interview, with the declaration covering moves against Syria or any other nation in the Middle East area.

The U.S. Embassy declined to comment on the report of the meeting. Assal told reporters Moose "explained to me the new United States policy toward the Middle East."

He said the ambassador also outlined America's "eagerness that all Middle Eastern countries should maintain their freedom and independence."

In a statement to the press, the Premier said: "We hope the international atmosphere is improved, but despite tranquilizing American announcements on the Middle East we must remain on the alert to face any possible future eventuality."

Soldiers carrying tommyguns remained on guard at public buildings in Damascus and hotels and other major buildings were still sandbagged. Volunteers of the "popular resistance organization" continued drilling on the city's outskirts.

Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel declared the Soviet Union is pouring jet fighters and bombers into Syria and said the Israeli air force must be strengthened.

Speaking at a defense bond rally in Tel Aviv, Ben-Gurion said, "We cannot be satisfied with the former strength of the Israeli air force when we hear about the flow of Soviet planes to Syria."

He said Russia had deliberately exaggerated the quantities of arms being shipped "to add to Israel's and the Western world's headaches—and because when the Syrian replenishing is completed, the Russians will again start supplying Egypt."

Another report of troop movements in the turbulent Middle East was denied at Ankara, Turkey. Acting Defense Minister Shemi Ergin termed "malicious" a report by the Soviet news agency Tass that two battalions of Turkish troops had been sent to Iraq at the request of Iraqi Premier Nuri Said.

"There has been no such request and no troops were dispatched to Iraq," Ergin asserted. "These reports are circulated with malicious aims. We also know that there is no situation in Iraq which she could not handle with her own troops."

Turkey and Iraq are members of the Baghdad Pact, along with Iran, Pakistan and Britain.

A Saudi Arabian official declared that his nation and other Arab countries do not want Russian intervention in the Middle East.

Sheik Mohamed Alireza, Saudi Arabia's minister of commerce, told reporters in Zurich, Switzerland, he had "just seen the plight of the Hungarian refugees in Austria and that is the best lesson anyone could want of what Soviet intervention means."

Alireza, in Switzerland for medical treatment, also said Saudi Arabia will be glad to resume the shipment of oil to Britain and France as soon as they complete withdrawal of their invasion forces from Egypt.

CHAPTER 28
The loud-voiced fools in the public-house would say that murder was a bad thing, which only showed that they could not think straight. What, after all, was the difference between Englishmen killing Germans in order to safeguard England and he, John Perry, killing Macfarlane in order to safeguard his own liberty? To the logical thinker there was no difference. And I am logical, said John Perry to himself. I have killed logically and I have got away with it. It's easy if you think it out.

And what a success it had been. It was a pity that he could not boast about it in some select circle. Perry shifted his position, taking the weight off the left foot with his painful blister. The river was now bare and white and he gazed at it vacantly, playing with the pleasurable anticipation of what he would buy next. Two hundred and fifty pounds he had got from that silly General's wife. A hundred and fifty of that would go toward his living expenses for the next six months, until after Christmas, by which time he would be ready for another coup. That left one hundred for something of marble or wood or, this time perhaps, of formula. It would be nice period—to put in the mantelpiece between the George II candlesticks. For a hundred pounds you could probably get quite a good one. If not he would have to dip into his reserves. He knew little about clocks, and wondered if a hundred pounds would be enough.

His stomach rumbled and, automatically, he reached for his watch. Time to eat. Ten minutes after midday. Perhaps he would open a tin of his favorite soft-roses.

He moved away from the rail on which he had been leaning. Then he jerked, as though hit by an electric current. His stomach felt icy cold and queasy. A uniformed policeman had turned the corner of the road behind him. Perry tried to control himself. It must have been the suddenness of it, he thought. It was ridiculous to be so upset at the sight of an ordinary, cloddish policeman. He Perry was above such fears. His killing, had been perfect and he had nothing to fear. He must get used to controlling himself.

He stayed in the sunlight for five minutes, then turned and walked sedately home. He no longer felt his previous enthusiasm for soft roses, and contented himself with bread and cheese, cocoa, and some pickles. While he ate he drew comfort from the meditations of Marcus Aurelius.

On the other side of Bickersteth Street, Casson was sitting in his bedroom, watching Perry's house. The camera and tripod had gone. It was now a matter of human calculation, his mind against another's, a gamble on psychological prediction. He was still unsure of the strength of Perry's mind and the extent of his self-control. How long would the game -- on -- "They never last out," Strutt had said the day before. "Never. They have't got the stamina." "But this one is different. He may have stamina."

Strutt expressed his view of Perry in two scornful words. "It's all arranged, then," Casson had said. "You leave the little man alone until I see how his mind is working. I'll play him along as a friend and gauge the texture of his fear. Then your boys'll start. Then we'll build the fear up. O.K."

"O.K. But don't be too long with your psychological researches." They had taken a police car and gone down to the Chiswick Police Station. Strutt had introduced Casson to the Superintendent, the C.I.D. Inspector, and his two plain-clothes Sergeants. After the plan of action had been discussed two young uniformed constables had been brought in. They had been briefed and only waited for the word to go.

Casson moved restlessly in his chair and once again picked up a worn newspaper cutting. For the fourth time he read through the report on the inquest. "Broken Romance," it was headed, and her name was mentioned. Miss Jean Shaw of Putney gave evidence that she and her fiancé had frequently quarrelled. He was of a jealous disposition, he had admitted. The coroner had thanked her for her evidence and had found the bare fact of death: "asphyxia from coal-gas poisoning." That was all.

When Strutt had been shown the report, he had rubbed his hands gleefully.

"That'll put her out of Perry's mind," he had said. "She's given her evidence which made the boy's death look like suicide and she's made Perry look innocent. He'll forget her. He'll think he is safe. The jolt will be twice as bitter when he finds out that he isn't safe at all."

Casson dropped the news cutting and kicked it under the table. At that moment Perry came out of his house, locked the door, and sauntered up the street. Casson followed. It was a dull walk. Perry went slowly down to Chiswick Mall and leaned on the rail. Casson was only intrigued because it seemed out of Perry's routine. Did it mean that he was restless? But in the Shepley Arms that evening he was the same as usual, prim, and reserved.

Casson, as a matter of course, took his pint over and joined Perry in his corner. They chatted in a desultory way, and Casson was interested to note that Perry accepted a sherry after his beer, and did not look at his watch to see if it were time for him to go home. Perry sipped his sherry, put the tall glass down carefully, wiped his mouth, and said: "Do you know anything about clocks?"

"Not much," Casson replied. "I had a friend who was a bit of an enthusiast. Why?"

"I thought of purchasing one—an old one, of course. My mantelpiece needs something to fill it. I proposed to go up to the West End of London tomorrow and look around for a clock. Would you care to accompany me?"

Casson paused. He must not be too accommodating. Then he replied casually: "I've got to finish an article tomorrow. But the next day's free for me. I think it would be rather amusing."

"I could make that convenient," said Perry. He fell silent. "Do you write articles about people?" he asked at length.

"Occasionally," Casson replied. "I should like to have an article written about me," Perry observed. "One of those profile ones."

Perry is the target in a war of nerves beginning here in tomorrow's installment.

Pet Parakeet's Feathers Taken

SEATTLE (AP) — An apartment prowler's target baffled Jack Hansen. He took all the feathers from Hansen's pet parakeet.

"And the feathers were left on the floor behind my desk," Hansen added. "Nothing else was touched. Who would do a thing like that?"

As for the parakeet, it wasn't talking.

BISSETTE'S

PICTURE TALK

By CHARLES BISSETTE

A Christmas Story

Christmas Day has become the climax to a whole season of happy plans, events, and activities. Of course, lots of folks enjoy taking pictures from morning to bed-time on December 25, but what about the weeks leading up to the great day?

There are dozens of wonderful picture possibilities—practically every day from now 'til Christmas. Here are just a few of the scenes very much worth recording on film: addressing cards, the youngsters writing their letters to Santa, the family wrapping gifts, the mailman bringing packages, the family decorating the tree, and many more. Combine snaps of these events with your Christmas Day shots, and you have a complete picture story of your holiday season.

Before you start, it's best to have your camera checked to be sure it's in good working order. Bring it in soon. There's no charge for the checkup. You might also make sure your flashholder has fresh batteries.

Here's hoping you have a wonderful picture-taking season. Don't hesitate to come in for any help you need. While you're here, look around and see what we have for your Christmas gift shopping.

YOU ENJOY INCREASED HEADROOM—made possible by recessing the floor within the frame, and by the unique, straight-line design of the roof. Mercury's outside height is a sleek, shoulder-high 4 feet 8 inches.

Texas-big all over! Far longer, wider! Bigger in every important dimension!

Here, by far, is the most spacious Mercury ever built. Even with 6 big passengers, there is no "hemmed in" feeling. There's move-around comfort for all.

BIGGEST SIZE INCREASE IN THE INDUSTRY—The new Mercury is over 17½ feet long, more than 6½ feet wide. Close to 2 tons big. The doors are much wider for easier entrance and exit. The passenger compartment alone is almost 9 feet long. Headroom has been generously increased. THE BIG M is family-car big—with much more leg room, shoulder room, and elbow room for all the family.

FAR GREATER VISION—You are surrounded with up to 4,122 square inches of glass—more glass area than a picture window 3 feet by 9 feet. The corner posts are so slim you scarcely know they're there.

DREAM-CAR STYLED—A new look shared by no other car. Clean-cut, lean, dynamic, it will influence the shape of cars for years to come.

BIGGEST VALUE INCREASE IN THE INDUSTRY—Never before has so much bigness and luxury cost so little. Check the price tags—and our easy terms—at our showroom. You will be amazed at how little more it costs down—and per month—for a big new Mercury than for the lowest priced cars.

YOU'LL SEE DREAM-CAR FEATURES WHEREVER YOU LOOK

- V-angle Tail-lights, Jet-Flo Bumpers, Color-keyed Rear Projectiles
- Merc-O-Matic Keyboard Control that outdates ordinary push-button transmissions
- Power seat that "remembers" your favorite driving position
- Power-Booster Fan, in Montclair series, saves power other cars waste
- Full-Cushion shock absorbers and 3 other bump-smothering advances give you Mercury's exclusive Floating Ride
- New 290-hp Turnpike Cruiser V-8 engine (optional), 255-hp Safety-Surge V-8 engine (standard)

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Selected gains were made in a mixed stock market early this afternoon.

Trading was quiet and profit-taking was evident after the big advance made by the list in the past two sessions.

Gains by pivotal stocks range from fractions to a point or more while losses were generally confined to a point.

Brokers said consolidation was natural after the big recent rise. At the same time, they reported that the current situation in the Middle East was more heartening to Wall Street and that the business and economic picture was good.

No immediate reaction was apparent to the news that Britain is asking the United States and Canada to waive interest and redemption payments due this month on postwar dollar loans.

Leading steels and motors took small losses but most pivotal oils were still posting gains.

Bethlehem Steel, which has leaped ahead for two days on its stock split news was down around a point. Youngstown was off a major fraction. Lukens and U.S. Steel eased.

Chrysler erased a 1-point loss. General Motors, Ford and Studebaker-Packard eased.

Gulf Oil was ahead more than a point. Texas Co. rose around a point or so. Royal Dutch advanced a major fraction. Superior Oil of California added 25 to its high price. Sinclair backed away fractionally.

There was little movement in either Penn-Texas or Fairbanks-Morse in the midst of the current squabbling between the two firms.

Most leading rails took small losses but Illinois Central rose a fraction. Santa Fe and Southern Pacific lost some ground.

United Aircraft, Boeing and Douglas rose more than a point each but Glenn L. Martin was off slightly.

Du Pont, Goodrich and Zenith were among the 1-point gainers. Smaller gains were made by Union Carbide, Goodyear, Caterpillar, Montgomery Ward, Commonwealth Edison, Kennecott Copper, Phelps Dodge, General Electric and International Paper.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $177.60 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails down 20 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Yuletide Wreath Plant Destroyed

NEW ALBANY, Pa. — A roaring fire in this tiny highway community destroyed a Christmas wreath plant and the 100-year-old town hall today. It sent hundreds of wreaths up in smoke and paralyzed the industrial life of most of New Albany's 500 citizens.

The flames leveled the main manufacturing plant of the Rynveldt Wreath Co., the firm's large storage barn and the steeped two-story town hall. All were wooden structures.

"She just blowed up and burned the plant down," said Henry Dustman, Rynveldt plant manager, who estimated company damage at $400,000.

Thirty-five persons in the building — most of them women — fled to the street, just off U.S. Route 220 in the heart of New Albany's two-block business district. Harry Kingsley, a paint worker, attempted vainly to smother the flames, and then ran, screaming the alarm.

Outside, flames punctuated by several minor explosions from paint drums were sending sparks into the air on a high wind. New Albany firemen found their new fire hose ablaze and saved it from more than roof damage. A number of other rooftops were scorched.

Eight volunteer fire departments from this rural northeastern Pennsylvania area near the New York state border sent about 150 men to the scene. By 1:30 a.m., the flames were under control.

One fireman was overcome by smoke and one woman fainted. Dustman said the exact cause of the fire had not been determined.

RALEIGH (N.C.A.) — Hog markets were mostly 25 higher today. Tops of 16.25 to 16.75 at Tarboro, Enfield and Kinston; 16.50 at Hillsboro; 15.75 to 16.50 at Rocky Mount; 15.75 to 16.25 at Bethel, Smithfield, Scotland Neck

Cars In Collision At Intersection

Approximately $500 damage resulted and one person received injuries when two vehicles collided at the intersection of Fifth, Altemarle and Elizabeth Sts. yesterday afternoon.

Drivers of the cars involved were identified by police as Mavis Evans Shackleford of 300 Church St., who received nose injuries in the crash, and Lonnie Carr, Negro of Greenville St. 2.

Carr was charged with operating a vehicle with no operator's license.

Investigating were Officers James Gurganus and C. E. Whitman.

W. M. Jones Funeral Set For Wednesday

MACLESFIELD — W. M. Jones, 87, retired farmer and merchant, died Monday at his home after several weeks' illness. Louis Henry Persons, Negro, Route 6, Greenville, failure to surrender license, nol. pros.; Leroy Jenkins Knight, Negro, 1309 West Third Street, Greenville, improper registration plates, nol. pros.; Charlie Joyner, Negro, worthless check, plea of guilty, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of costs and making restitution for check; West Bright, Negro, Route 2, Winterville, driving under the influence, plea of guilty, three months on the roads suspended upon payment of $100 fine and costs.

West Bright, Negro, Route 2, Winterville, carrying concealed weapon, nol. contendere, prayer for judgment continued upon payment of costs; Dalton W. Bailey, 411 Village Drive, Greenville, careless and reckless driving, plea of guilty, $25 fine and costs; Bernice Pedro Brown, Route 2, Greenville, driving drunk, plea of guilty, 30 days suspended upon payment of $100 fine and costs, and on good behavior for 12 months; Earl Colon Lewis, 913 Roanoke Avenue, Roanoke Rapids, driving drunk and careless and reckless driving, plea of guilty to charge of careless and reckless driving, 60 days suspended upon payment of $50 fine and costs, and on good behavior for 12 months.

Rotarians Hear Christmas Music

A program of Christmas music was presented at the Greenville Rotary Club meeting here last night by a trio from Greenville High School.

Under the direction of Miss Ona Shinder the trio, composed of Elizabeth White, Millie Bowden and Anne Parkinson sang several carols and other popular Christmas songs.

Following the musical program, J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, paid tribute to Miss Shinder for her work with Greenville High School students for more than 25 years.

Funeral Wednesday For J. F. Whitehurst

Mr. Joseph F. Whitehurst, 81, of Stokes, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital at 2:45 Tuesday morning. He had been critically ill for the past five weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Stokes Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. Arnold Pope and burial will be in the Bethel Cemetery. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mr. Whitehurst, son of the late John H. and Siffilia Carson Whitehurst, was born and reared near Stokes and was a farmer. He was married to Miss Mattie Bailey of the Stokes Community and she died December 28, 1955. He was a member of the Stokes Methodist Church.

Surviving are three sons: J. Henry (Peck) Whitehurst of Stokes, John D. Whitehurst of Lancaster, S. C., and Brandel A. Whitehurst of Stokes; three daughters: Mrs. Walter W. Fleming and Mrs. Dalton L. Vainwright of Greenville, and Mrs. Walter R. Tripp of Stokes; 8 grandchildren; and 7 great grandchildren.

Kiwanis Minstrel Opens Tonight

Carolyn Aycock of Pantego is one of several dancers in a sequence entitled "Green Door" which will be a part of the Kiwanis Minstrel. The minstrel, which have a "Show Boat" theme, opens tonight in Austin Auditorium for a three-day run. (Reflector Staff Photo).

The 15th annual Kiwanis Minstrel will open tonight at 8 o'clock with a special show for East Carolina College students.

Proceeds from the show will go into the Kiwanis Club's underprivileged children's fund. Regular performances are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday nights with tonight's show actually a dress rehearsal.

Produced by Eli Bloom with assistance from Mrs. Marie Smith Wallace, this year's "Show Boat" production will have more than 150 individual performances, songs, dances and new jokes. Performers are all local or college people who donate their service for the annual minstrel.

Past years have netted an average of $2,000 per year for the Kiwanis work with underprivileged children. Tickets are available from members of the Kiwanis Club and will also be available at the door.

CIVIL AIR PATROL TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

The Civil Air Patrol will celebrate the 15th anniversary of its founding at a banquet at the Greenville airport tonight at 8 o'clock. Capt. Walter Bunch, commander of the Greenville CAP unit, invites all cadets, senior members and friends to attend.

The Elks Choir will meet at the Elks Home on Bonner's Lane Wednesday night at 8 o'clock for rehearsal.

The Matrons' Social Civic Club will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Rosa Hinton, 103 Cotanche street. Mrs. Gertrude Latham, club president, at the last meeting, expressed appreciation for the generous response to the recent call for gifts to be sent to the Colored Orphanage at Oxford.

Mr. John A. Wells, 1598 West Fifth street, is improving after a surgical operation at Pitt Memorial Hospital.
