UN Delegates Voice Shock At Red Hungary's Locked Doors

Some See Justification Of Demands To Evict Communist Delegation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. delegates voiced shocked surprise today over Hungary's refusal to admit Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld Dec. 16. Some claimed it justified growing demands to throw out the Budapest delegation if it continues to flout U. N. authority.

"An affront to the secretary general and to the whole civilized world," declared U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. when told Budapest radio had announced the turnaround by pro-Soviet Premier Janos Kadar. The secretary general had offered to go to Budapest on the specified date to set up U. N. relief activities.

A U. N. spokesman said Hammarskjöld had received no official word up to last night from the Hungarian government about his proposed visit. Until such word came, he had no comment.

The reported refusal gave impetus to the move to revoke the Hungarian delegation's credentials if it does not accept other U. N. observers by Dec. 7. The Assembly fixed that deadline early yesterday when it adopted a U. S.-backed resolution calling again for entry of observers to make a general survey of conditions in the revolt-wracked country.

Some diplomats expressed puzzlement over Budapest's claims it had received no official request for Hammarskjöld's visit. Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath himself had suggested the date after consulting at length with Hammarskjöld.

Told about the broadcast, Horvath merely shrugged and said, "Apparently my government did not agree with me."

The Budapest announcement, picked up in Vienna news wires, is the closing stages of the much-delayed general debate in the Assembly, it said.

"An authorized source today issued the following statement to MTI (official Hungarian news agency) in connection with reports that Hammarskjöld is intending to visit Budapest on Dec. 16.

"Concerning the date of this visit, the Hungarian government retains its unchanged opinion expressed in its letter to the United Nations secretary general on Dec. 1. The secretary general is welcomed by the government at a later time which would be suitable to both parties.

"In view of the fact that the Hungarian government has not received an official request fixing the date for the proposed visit and in addition to the fact that the mentioned date is not suitable for the Hungarian government, it follows that the Hammarskjöld visit will not take place on Dec. 16."

Diplomats pointed out that Kadar did not close the door on a later visit by Hammarskjöld. They said this indicated the Red government wanted to clean up all signs of revolt before admitting visitors from the U. N.

Many diplomats congratulated themselves on having gone ahead with the vote for the 14-nation resolution calling on Hungary again to let in observers. The resolution passed 54-10, with only the nine Soviet bloc nations and Yugoslavia casting negative ballots.

Some delegates had argued that in view of Hammarskjöld's plans to visit Budapest in less than two weeks, it would be pointless to vote on the observer resolution.

Air-Sea Lift

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower's headquarters today announced plans for a massive air-and-sea-lift of Hungarian refugees to this country.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said that of the total of 21,500 refugees to be given asylum in the United States, the Air Force and the Navy will provide transportation for 15,000.

The remaining 6,500 will be brought here by an inter-governmental committee on European migration which has been in the picture from the start.

Referring to the Air Force and Navy operation planned, Hagerty said:

"We believe this will be the largest such operation in peacetime history."

The White House said most of the air-lift will be by Air Force and Navy aircraft through the Military Air Transportation Service. The ocean-lift will be by U. S. Navy Military Transportation Service.

About 10,000 Hungarian refugees from Soviet oppression will come to the United States aboard government planes and about 5,000 will travel by ship, Hagerty said.

"The air-lift will begin within the next few days at the rate of 200 a day," a White House statement said.

"The number will be progressively increased by about 100 a day until it reaches 500 a day. This should make possible the movement out of Austria of most of the refugees who are coming by air by about the end of the year or shortly thereafter."

The ocean transportation will be provided by three Navy ships subject to approval of the West German government. They will sail from Bremerhaven from New York.

Sec. Of Welfare Urges Emphasis On Salk Shots

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom challenged the nation's news media today to urge use of abundant polio vaccine with the same emphasis they used in covering the story of vaccine scarcity.

Folsom said in a speech prepared for a National Press Club audience:

"Children are just as susceptible to polio as they ever were—unless they are inoculated with vaccine."

"Today, supplies of the vaccine are plentiful for both children and young adults."

"But we have a new danger—the danger of public apathy."

"It is ironic that, in the face of such a dread disease, large quantities of antipolio vaccine are not being used. They are piled up in warehouses and sitting on drugstore shelves."

"Unless vaccine is promptly used, many persons will suffer paralysis or even death—next year—who could have been spared."

"When the vaccine was scarce and the government and manufacturers were desperately trying to increase the supply, the vaccine then was the subject of massive news and editorial attention."

"It is not in the nature of news—and the traditional role of public service by the press—to put today's situation with equal force before the American public?"

Folsom renewed an appeal for quick action by Congress to provide federal aid for school construction.

"There are grave deficiencies, accumulated over many past years," he said, "and we are facing the prospect of continued enrollment increases far beyond anything in this country before."

"Certainly the time is ripe, in fact overdue, for enactment of sound and effective federal aid to help build more classrooms for our public schools."

"And this means all of our children. We are hopeful that the complex problems of school integration will not undermine a school construction program designed to benefit children of all races."

"The serious problem of integration, I believe, should be considered separately—on a calm and reasoned basis, with mutual good will and deep respect for the orderly processes of law and justice."

Allied Traffic To Berlin Harassed

By Seymour Topping

BERLIN (AP)—Western officials today viewed Russia's clampdown on Allied road and rail traffic in and out of West Berlin as part of a general security alert throughout the Soviet satellite empire.

The Kremlin's nervousness over possible spread of independence fever from Hungary and Poland appeared behind demands for the right to search Allied trucks and trains for hidden persons.

Soviet army guard forced a U. S. Army truck convoy outward from Communist-encircled West Berlin yesterday to abandon its weekly run to West Germany.

The Russians insisted on searching the trucks and seeing identity documents.

The U. S. Army command in West Berlin ordered the convoy to turn back "rather than submit to investigations beyond those which have been in effect for many years."

Last week the Russians slapped restrictions on Allied rail traffic in and out of Berlin, forcing Russians exercise no control over air- and British out-bound train to traffic.

back and delaying U. S. military trains. American, British and French officials are negotiating with the Russians on the rail dispute.

West Berlin lies 110 miles inside Communist East Germany and its lifelines to West Germany consist of the highway, one railroad and three air corridors.

Russia guaranteed the Western Allies free access to West Berlin over these routes after the massive Allied airlift broke the Soviet land blockade imposed in 1948.

Communist uneasiness has been heightened recently by the wave of worker and student unrest sweeping the East German puppet state. The East Germans charge that Allied agents have been brought in to spur agitation which was touched off by events in Poland and Hungary.

Western officials deny the charges. In any case, they point out it would be foolish to bring in unauthorized persons on trains and trucks when they could come to West Berlin by air. The Russians exercise no control over air- and British out-bound train to traffic.

Vagrant Quizzed In Triple Slaying

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—A 30-year-old vagrant who says he is subject to blackout spells is being held by police for questioning about the killing of three Chicago schoolboys in October 1955.

The questioning of Richard Fred Ebert veered suddenly last night from routine queries about his vagrancy arrest to the shocking triple slaying when he kept repeating "That time I was in the woods," he reported Detective M. E. Brandenberger.

Asked what he meant, Ebert added: "The three boys in the woods, it was terrible the way they were killed," Brandenberger said.

Ebert was identified as a former metal worker and gardener from Aurora, Ill., 40 miles southwest of Chicago.

Although Chicago police have questioned thousands of persons since the slayings more than 13 months ago, they said they had no information about Ebert, and had no real clues to the killer or killers.

Brandenberger said Ebert, who was picked up on a vagrancy charge last night, told police he was subject to blackout spells and had been an inmate in mental institutions at Elgin, Ill., and Camarillo, Calif.

Newspaper files show that Chicago police said the principal clue in the case was the discovery of bits of heat resistant stainless steel in the fingernail scrapings of the Peterson boy. A Chicago police report also said that particles of earth used in making an insecticide and bits of bone meal, a fertilizer, were found in wounds in the Peterson boy's scalp.

50-Gallon Still Raided, Ruined

A 50-gallon distillery was destroyed by ABC officers near Alvin Road in Greenville Township yesterday afternoon.

Some 30 gallons of mash were destroyed along with the still. The unit was complete.

Officer J. M. Ward said the still did not appear to have been operated for some time.

Seven Tons Of Detonating Fuses Said On Pier

NEW YORK (AP)—A Connecticut firm says almost seven tons of detonating fuses—some of which officials contend may have caused the terrific blast during a B-29 Superfortress crash—were shipped "in strict conformity with all regulatory requirements."

The blaze and explosion last Monday killed 10 persons, injured 24 and caused damage estimated by city officials at 15 million dollars. A probe of the disaster continues—including the cause of the fire.

The Ensign Blackford Co. of S.bury, Conn., said last night it shipped 1,950 cases of "Primacord" fuses to its West Coast distributor.

Stoughton S. Ellsworth, a company vice president, said "Primacord" is designated by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a Class C or minimum-hazard explosive. He said the fuse also has been approved by the Federal Bureau of Aeronautics for shipment via air freight.

City Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh Jr., however, said yesterday that shipment of such a quantity of this material was of a "hazardous character."

Cavanaugh also said the bill of lading was not marked "explosive" and carried only the warning sign: "Store away from heat."

He added that no more than 1,000 pounds of explosive material may be stored here without notification to the Fire Department.

Robert W. Witherell, a top Fire Department official, says such fuses constitute a high explosive of a type banned from shipment here eight years ago.

Cavanaugh declined to say definitely that the fuses caused the blast on the Luckenbach Steamship Line pier. But he said experts had told him the amount on the pier could have caused it.

Ellsworth said the fuses would be explosive only when set off by an "outside force," adding, "If acetylene gas blew, it could be set off."

"It is not in the nature of news—and the traditional role of public service by the press—to put today's situation with equal force before the American public?"

Folsom renewed an appeal for quick action by Congress to provide federal aid for school construction.

"There are grave deficiencies, accumulated over many past years," he said, "and we are facing the prospect of continued enrollment increases far beyond anything in this country before."

"Certainly the time is ripe, in fact overdue, for enactment of sound and effective federal aid to help build more classrooms for our public schools."

"And this means all of our children. We are hopeful that the complex problems of school integration will not undermine a school construction program designed to benefit children of all races."

"The serious problem of integration, I believe, should be considered separately—on a calm and reasoned basis, with mutual good will and deep respect for the orderly processes of law and justice."

Sec. Of Welfare Urges Emphasis On Salk Shots

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom challenged the nation's news media today to urge use of abundant polio vaccine with the same emphasis they used in covering the story of vaccine scarcity.

Folsom said in a speech prepared for a National Press Club audience:

"Children are just as susceptible to polio as they ever were—unless they are inoculated with vaccine."

"Today, supplies of the vaccine are plentiful for both children and young adults."

"But we have a new danger—the danger of public apathy."

"It is ironic that, in the face of such a dread disease, large quantities of antipolio vaccine are not being used. They are piled up in warehouses and sitting on drugstore shelves."

"Unless vaccine is promptly used, many persons will suffer paralysis or even death—next year—who could have been spared."

"When the vaccine was scarce and the government and manufacturers were desperately trying to increase the supply, the vaccine then was the subject of massive news and editorial attention."

Christmas Decorations Reflect 'A Part Of You' Speaker Says

By ANN SINGLETON
Reflector Staff Writer

"Plan your Christmas decorations to include all members of the family. . . . It means so much to children to see their work displayed, but be sure and let the decoration ideas be a part of you," warned Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge, first vice-president of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc.

Mrs. Daughtridge of Rocky Mount spoke at a combined meeting of the Forest Hills Garden Club and Elmhurst Garden Club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Sutton, Forest Hills Drive.

In May Mrs. Daughtridge of Rocky Mount received a silver award in recognition of her outstanding work as Garden Club Director of District No. 10 for last year.

She has recently completed the last course to become a national accredited judge of flower shows.

Mrs. Sam Mitchell, Director of District No. 10 of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc., introduced the speaker. Mrs. Mitchell also displayed clever tree ornaments made from a half of an egg shell brightly colored, the inside of which featured miniature Christmas scenes.

"Carry a Theme . . ."

"Carry a theme throughout your house with decoration," advised Mrs. Daughtridge. She illustrated her point by using her home as an example.

"If you decide to use trees . . . then stick to trees as the main theme," she explained. With a little imagination, trees can be made from varied sizes of styrofoam placed on top of one another, held with bobbie pins, and decorated with balls, berries, net, or ribbon.

Another tree decor can be made from a piece of mesh wire cut in the shape of a tree. Through the loops berries, balls, or green cuttings can be pulled and held by small pieces of wire. She pointed out that this makes an unusually smart door arrangement.

A Topiary Tree is a new idea this year, she said. It's a gay little tree made with a styrofoam ball covered with multi-colored balls held up by a gold stem (or whatever color fits in with your theme) and held in a flower pot with plaster of Paris.

Anyone using greens this winter should first soak them in sugar water to help them retain their freshness, the speaker said. Another helpful hint she suggested is to place Christmas trees in a container of water, adding a tablespoon of sugar to a gallon of water. This will keep them from becoming dry and brittle.

Melt Crayons

To achieve a wide range of colors with your candle decorations, she suggested melting old candles with crayons.

Candles can be made in glasses, milk bottles, pans, or any container depending on the size you desire.

Tiny Christmas trees can even be made from tin cans! Mrs. Daughtridge showed an example of one that was cut first almost completely around the top and bottom of the can . . . then cut down the center . . . finally cut almost around all the way down. By pulling out each section a tree was formed on which miniature balls could be hung.

She displayed flowers made from pine cones cut off in the middle, ribbon looped, and egg shells.

To glamorize your fresh flowers, Mrs. Daughtridge said, "sprinkle glue over the tips, holding the flower pressed together, and then top with silver or gold dust."

Xmas Pineapple

A Christmas pineapple is a novel idea. Mrs. Daughtridge showed one she had made. She gilted the leaves slightly, placed a candle in the top of the pineapple, and stuck glittering, colored beads over the entire base.

The brilliant gold sunburst attracted a lot of interest. It can be made quite easily from any color foil, she pointed out.

A bell made from chicken wire, a Christmas tree made from an abandoned umbrella frame and clever ornaments made from marshmallows pierced with tooth picks and sprayed with gold were also displayed by Mrs. Daughtridge as examples of what you can do when you let your imagination wander.

In closing, she demonstrated with a piece of green and the many ways to dress up a door swag by using acorns dipped in paint or grape clusters with perhaps a big bow for brightness.

Mrs. Daughtridge was presented a gift of a flower frog by the two garden clubs.

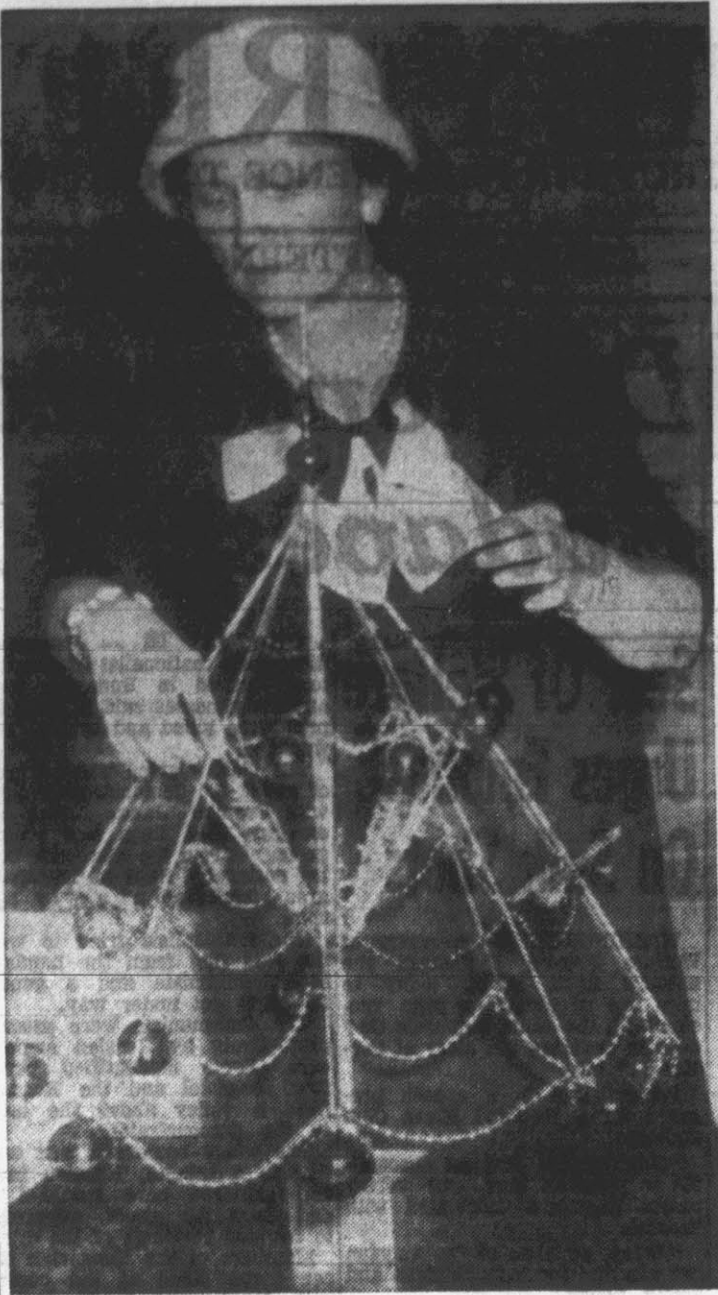

Other Business

Mrs. Charles Horne of the Forest Hills Club proposed the sale of the North Carolina Gardener Calendar by members of the club in order to raise money.

It was announced that the Elmhurst Garden Club would have its Christmas Party December 6 at the Silo. The Club's Yearbooks are now complete and were distributed at the close of Tuesday's meeting.

Soft drinks and homemade Christmas cookies were served the guests and members at the close of the meeting. Mrs. George L. Parker of Rocky Mount was the guest of Mrs. Daughtridge.

Christmas decorations were placed throughout the hostess' home.

GARDEN CLUB LEADER—Working with an ordinary umbrella frame, Mrs. Daughtridge created a novel Christmas decoration. She is the first vice-president of the Garden Clubs of North Carolina, Inc. She spoke on "Christmas Cheer" at a combined meeting of the Elmhurst Garden Club and Forest Hills Garden Club Tuesday afternoon.

Christmas Story Read For League

The Christmas Story from the Bible was presented at the monthly meeting of the Greenville Service League held Monday morning.

Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr. read the passage. She was introduced by Mrs. Ed Parkinson, program chairman.

The Service League Prayer for Christian Service was led by Mrs. Wesley Harvey, president and presiding officer.

Also featured on the program was Mrs. Boiey Farley's report on her "Day In The Army."

Mrs. Farley reviewed the day's activities at Fort Jackson and told how the Army working with and through the National Guard was trying to better meet the needs of boys during the training period.

During the business session various reports and requests were heard.

In Mrs. James T. Little's report as Coffee Shop Chairman, she pointed out the need felt by her and her committee for some time for some type of entertainment or amusement for children in the Negro pediatric ward.

It was pointed out that most of these children's parents work during the day, leaving the children alone except for floor nurses.

On the recommendation of the Coffee Shop committee and by approval of league members it was decided to purchase a record player and suitable records for this ward.

Mrs. Little stated that 92 tray favors were taken to the hospital Thanksgiving.

Holidays for Service League workers were announced to begin Dec. 15 and extend until Monday, Jan. 7. The members will assist with decorating the hospital at Christmas and for some parties for the hospital staff, it was noted.

A request was heard from Mrs. Ray Minges for books to take to Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point Dec. 14.

Mrs. C. W. Howard Jr. asked for volunteers to sell TB Seals at the Post Office Dec. 10-15.

Mrs. Carl Wade, Bloodmobile chairman, announced that the Bloodmobile would be in Greenville Thursday, Dec. 20, from 12 to 6 p.m. at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Workers were secured for this visit.

Mrs. Parkinson, finance chairman, reported a successful shrubbery sale and bridge tournament, both recent fund-raising activities of the league.

Announcement was also made that Service League Cook Books would be on sale at Overton's Market from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and at Brody's from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 8.

Mrs. Ercell Webb reported that two layettes had been delivered during November.

Mrs. W. S. Best, lending chest chairman, said one pair of crutches was in use.

The Emergency Charity Fund answered three calls during November, according to Mrs. Eugene West's report.

Hospital Bed Fund Chairman Mrs. Anne Lee Harder reported two children and one adult helped.

Notes of appreciation were heard from the Pitt County Girl Scout Council, thanking members for sending one girl to camp last summer and from the TB Association for members' help in preparing seals for mailing.

The next meeting of the league was announced by Mrs. Harvey for January 7.

Don't Lose Head When Buying From A Door-To-Door Salesman

"Be careful how you spend your money" is a statement heard many times and can mean a variety of things, but particularly, it can mean cautioning against buying from door-to-door salesmen who might leave false impressions.

According to Mamie Whisnant, extension home management specialist at State College, it has come to her attention that a group of North Carolina farm families were left with the impression that large electrical appliances, sold by a door-to-door salesman, would cost a certain amount of money.

In the end, however, they had paid more than $50 over the price quoted them by the salesman. Furthermore, they neglected to get copies of papers they had signed; also, the company would not agree to abide by the method of payment outlined by the salesman.

Miss Whisnant points out, however, that "because a few salesmen do leave false impressions doesn't mean they all do but this few can cause financial strain and heartbreak to a family who can least afford to lose their hard-earned money."

By way of caution, Miss Whisnant offers the following as suggestions for guarding against similar incidents:

Know that the company is licensed to sell in the state or community. Your local chamber of commerce might be able to tell you where you can get this information.

the product offered for sale is what you actually need.

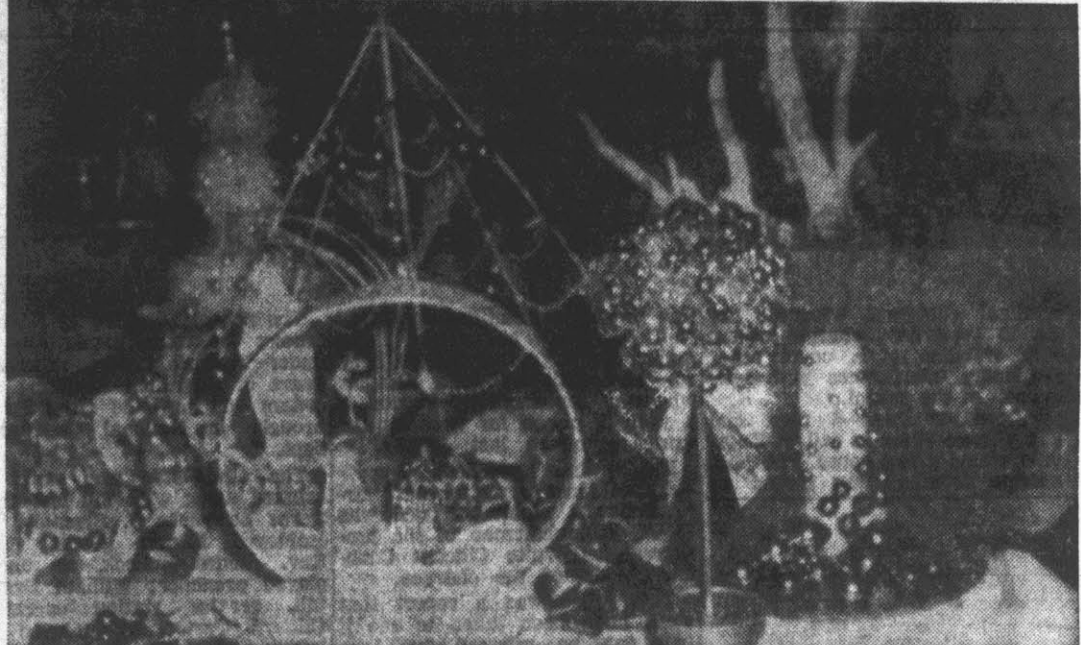

Guard against falling for good "lines" of salesmen as information they give may be misleading. Read carefully any paper or agreement and know what it says before signing anything and ask for duplicate copy of anything signed.

Find out about quality and reliability of manufacturer and salesman.

Compare makes, models, values and prices with similar products that would fill needs just as satisfactorily.

Guard against "impulsive buying." Think and analyze the situation rather than make quick decisions under high pressured salesmanship.

Miss Whisnant adds county and home agents will be glad to discuss such problems with interested persons should they arise.

1956 DECORATIONS—There is little of the "old fashion Christmas" in this year's elegant arrangements by Mrs. J. B. A. Daughtridge. Spanning new ideas are the Topiary Tree, r. corner, and the net and cellophane covered tree in the background to the left. Both of these were made with styrofoam balls—and a wealth of imagination. Social Notes

Mrs. D. L. Latham, 402 East Eighth Street, left yesterday morning from the Raleigh-Durham Airport for San Francisco and San Diego, Calif. to visit her daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. T. A. Parnell. Also visiting them is Carl Latham. Both he and Mrs. Latham will be inspecting the Parnells' new baby girl, Gina Ann. Grandmother Latham is expected back in Greenville in about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones P. Moss, 306 Eastern Street, and Mrs. Marshall Evans of Greenville attended the funeral in Chase City, Va. last Tuesday of Mr. Moss' brother, Robert B. Moss, who died last Sunday.

WCTU To Meet

The WCTU will meet with Mrs. Gladys Scoville, 405 Rotary Ave., Friday at 7:30 p.m. Assisting hostesses will be Misses Jennie and Addie Congleton. The Rev. W. M. Howard will be guest speaker. Friends and members are invited, according to the announcement.

Quick salad: drain canned green (snap) beans and mix with French dressing and some finely diced onion. Serve on salad greens.

Mrs. Cecil Garrenton was hostess to the auxiliary to the Pitt County Post of the American Legion on Wednesday afternoon at her home in Bethel. Fifteen members were present and a new member added. The president, Mrs. L. H. Bowling, presided. Several matters were brought up, but were postponed for a discussion on the Christmas box for the ward at Oteen. After the business session, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. V. A. Ward and Miss Margaret Garrenton, served coffee and sandwiches and homemade candies.

Library Rich With Holiday Hints

By SALLIE MANN

Sheppard Memorial Library Homemakers can find a host of holiday hints from books available at Sheppard Memorial Library.

Written for holiday entertaining is Charlotte Turgeon's book "Cooking For Christmas." She suggests menus for every occasion, ranging from the old-fashioned Christmas dinner to the sophisticated buffet.

For the cook also is a book by Carl Lakdan, "Gifts From Your Kitchen." This contains a wealth of recipes for every gift-giving occasion along with ideas for clever packaging.

The dollar-wise will be interested in "Peter Hunt's How-To-Do-It Book." A distinctive feature of this book is "Peter Hunt's Christmas," showing how to make Yuletide more decorative, more exciting and more fun for very little money.

Barbara Baer's "Christmas Make-It Book" is also available at your local library. This is an excellent guide for making gifts and decorations with easy-to-follow instructions.

Ideas for simple decorative projects for the amateur artist can be found in Ella L. Bolander's "Let's Make Our Own." Many good suggestions for making Christmas gifts and greeting cards are offered here.

Tired of unimaginative wrappings? "The Art of Wrapping Gifts" by Druella Lowrie contains a wealth of notions for making packages individual and amusing.

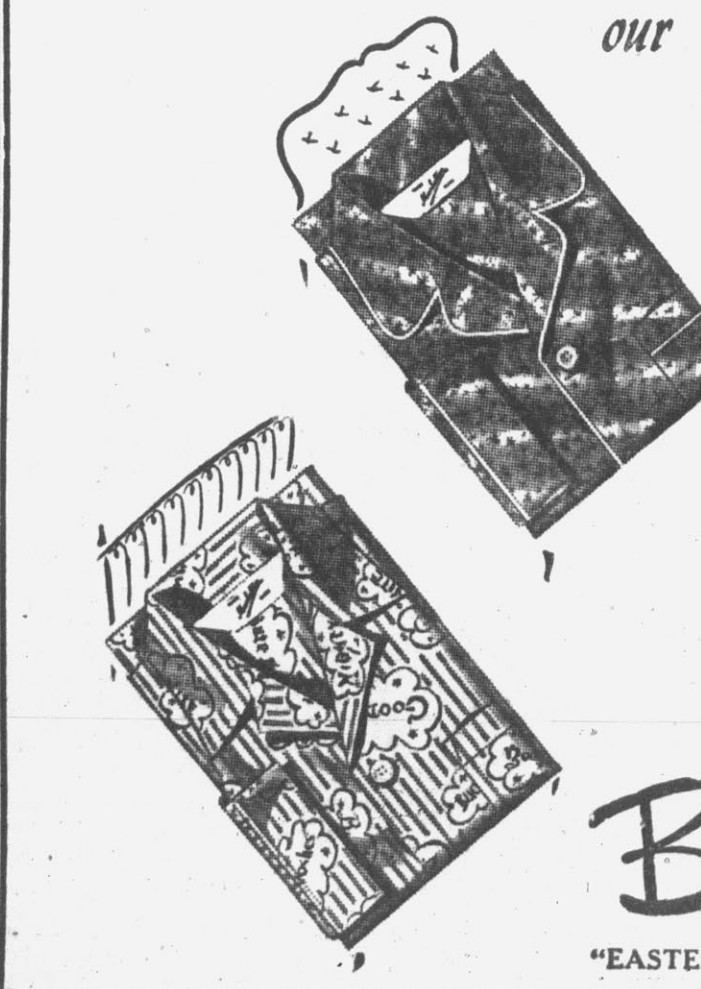

For the holiday hostess two outstanding books are available to Sheppard Memorial patrons. These include Marjorie W. Young's "Decorating For Joyful Occasions" and Patricia E. Roberts' "Party Decorations for Christmas and Other Occasions."

The former is a book of inside and outside decorations including floral arrangements for the holidays. The Roberts book contains ideas in addition to suggestions for holiday decorating the home for the entertainment.

JACK HORNER CENTERPIECE . . . Easily made for a youngster's Christmas party. Use paper paint bucket. Table bell arrangement is made with paper cups in dewdrop design. Candles may be struck in fruitcakes in squat paper cups. When the party is over, toss everything but the silverware in the incinerator.

Small Fry Should Be Included In Christmas Entertaining Too

AP Newsfeatures Writer
Everyone in the family entertains at Christmas. Why not the small fry? Encourage them to have their friends in during the holiday period. It shouldn't take too much out of Mom. Paper products—cups, plates and buckets—will keep dish-washing chores to the minimum. Toss everything including the table cloth into the incinerator when the party is over. An amusing centerpiece may be made with one of the large paper paint pails. Cover it with gold gift-wrap paper to make a Jack Horner pie container. The ribbon around the upper rim of the pail, tying large bow in front. Attach Christmas ornaments to the bow with ribbon or tiny wires. The ribbon around the lower edge of the paper paint pail. Decorate the ribbon with sequins, gluing them here and there with rubber cement.

Every child should have a favor and these may be tied to a long strip of ribbon that will run to each youngster's place setting.

A very pretty table decoration may be made in a jiffy with paper cups used around the edge of the table. Put two holes in the base of the cups to be used for jingle bells. Put ribbon through perforations and tie one bell in each cup. A knot may be made inside the cup to keep the bells in place. Use the same ribbon and tie two bells together. Put a large bow over the bells.

To attach the bell clusters stretch three strands of ribbon loosely from one end of the table to the other. Tie the clusters to loose ribbon at equal intervals, tacking or taping as you go along. Be sure each ribbon loop is of equal size.

Another idea is to put a small candle at each place setting. Line a squat paper cup (the kind that is normally used for ice cream or custard) with aluminum foil carrying the foil over the cup so that a collar is formed. Put a good thick slice of fruit cake in the cup and stick the candle in the middle of it. Light them up when the children sit down.

Little carolers may be made by combining different size paper cups. Use the small jigger cups for the upper part for the body, and larger cups for the lower part. Invert the cups, wire together and use your imagination in decorating. A jigger cup may also make a hat and face. Decorate with sequins for eyes and buttons and glitter dust for the mouth, applying with household cement. Absorbent cotton, transparent tape

Have you tried butternut squash? It's delicious mashed with butter or margarine, salt and pepper. Serve it with a pretty sprinkling of minced parsley.

Miss Crews To Be Soloist

Miss June Crews of Creedmoor, senior at East Carolina, will be soloist with the East Carolina Orchestra Sunday afternoon when the college-community ensemble will present its annual pre-Christmas concert at 3:30 in the McGinnis auditorium.

Miss Crews, a soprano, appeared last year as soloist in the East Carolina performance of Handel's "The Messiah" and has been chosen to sing this year in the 1956 performance of the oratorio.

She was a member during 1955-1956 of the Opera Workshop at the college and sang in productions by this group.

In "Oklahoma!" presented last spring at the college by the Student Government Association, she played Aunt Eller, one of the leading roles in the musical.

Progress Reports Highlight Meeting

Progress on the missionary work and on furnishing the new Williams' Orphanage Home at Falcon, N. C. was discussed at last night's meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church.

A letter was read from Miss Mavis Lee Oakley, church-sponsored missionary now in China, relative to the missionary program in existence there.

The auxiliary endorsed plans for the Christmas party scheduled for Dec. 19, among other items of business.

MISS CREWS . . . Featured Soloist

Presiding was Mrs. Lillie Lewis. The program was opened with Mrs. Dorothy Radford reading from the Bible.

Devotional was given by Mrs. Hilda Pollard. Special music was rendered by Mrs. Mattie Williams. The next meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was announced for Jan. 7.

Family Lunch: Stuffed baked potatoes with flaked salmon, tuna or crisp bits of cooked bacon added.

Add enough sugar and lemon juice to whipped cream to make salt and pepper to taste. Good sweet-and-sour; fold into thin strips with veal or beef.

Fishing Creek Sacrificed To Mill

Approval by the State Stream Sanitation Committee for the erection of a huge Kraft paper mill near New Bern has caught us with mixed feelings.

We are elated that the Stream Sanitation Committee gave the go-ahead for the project after determining that waste from the huge mill will not be detrimental to the Neuse River. It is with some reluctance, however, that we face realistically the fact that Matchelder's Creek—reputedly one of the finest bass and bream fishing creeks in the New Bern area—will be rendered uninhabitable for fish if plans for dumping the plant's waste into the stream are carried out.

Sacrifices always are necessary for progress. And in this case the New Bern area must sacrifice a creek for the new paper mill which will mean so much economically for all the people of Eastern North Carolina. In this area where streams and rivers are plentiful, the sacrifice of one small creek seems nil. Yet, if one by one we sacrifice all our small creeks to industrial development, Eastern North Carolina may one day in the future find itself without unpolluted streams and rivers as many highly industrialized areas today find themselves.

Less we be misunderstood, we say emphatically that Batchelder's Creek is a small sacrifice for this area to make in order to obtain a $50 million dollar industrial plant proposed by the Union Bag-Camp Paper Corporation. We are delighted they have selected Eastern North Carolina as the location for the proposed plant. We are likewise gratified by the fact that the Stream Sanitation Committee has been able to reach a workable solution to the problem of the plant's waste which will permit erection of the plant even though it means the pollution of one creek.

The several thousand jobs the plant will offer people of the area will far offset the loss of one creek.

Flow Of Christmas Cards Won't Be Halted

General Maxwell D. Taylor brought back to life Charles Dickens' Scrooge with his silly and uncalled for order that those under his command must refrain this year from the time honored and thoughtful custom of sending Christmas cards.

Whatever Gen. Taylor may personally think of the practice, it is not his prerogative to order those under his command to acknowledge or celebrate the Christmas season in a manner which suits his whims and fancies.

For every person who views Christmas cards with the apparent disdain of Gen. Taylor there are thousands of people to whom the custom means more than words can express. Christmas cards bring to millions every year the assurance they have not been forgotten by those whose friendship they cherish. Though the gaily colored cards flood post offices and mail boxes by the millions, most of them carry a heartfelt wish of the sender to the recipient. Even a general with all his stars hasn't in our opinion the authority to tell those under his command they shall not extend season's greetings to their friends via the mails.

It's a good bet that Gen. Taylor this year will receive more Christmas cards than ever before in his life. It's also a good bet he'll rue the day he sought to impose his own interpretation of the Christmas season to a group of people over whom he feels he has ultimate authority.

In the words of many, "nuts to the general."

We Still Like Girls To Look Like Girls

Even in the face of almost certain accusations of being old fashioned, we'll have to agree with a Wilkes-Barre, Pa. P. T. A. that trouser-like attire isn't proper for girls who are attending classes in the public schools.

We don't know that we can go so far as the P. T. A. and call such attire "unladylike".

As a matter of fact, from what little we've seen in the fashion magazines, it appears that jeans, slacks and the like are becoming the height in women's fashions. And one can't deny the fact that trousered ladies are much more in evidence now even in shopping areas than was the case a few years ago. We wouldn't be surprised if most of the teenage girls who want to wear jeans and slacks to school don't get the idea from their trousered mothers.

For our part at any rate, we much prefer that little girls look like girls when they go to school. When they look so pretty even in their school dresses, we can't imagine why they want to mimic the baggy pants boys who may sit next to them in the classroom.

to fishermen who frequently use it. The economic impact from the plant will be felt over an area much broader in scope than Craven County.

The situation does point up, however, the need for more rapid advancement in the classification of streams and rivers in this part of the state so far as sanitation is concerned. It emphasizes the need for reasonable regulations which will preserve so far as possible the unpolluted streams of this part of the state and at the same time will be of the nature which will encourage rather than discourage industrial development along the streams and rivers.

Water resources of Eastern North Carolina are among the most important assets this section has. If their potential is to be realized in promoting the economic and industrial growth, they must be adapted to changes which industrial development demands.

Hodge-Podge Of Tax Inequities Involved

By LYNN NISBET

PRIVILEGE TAXES — Taxes for the privilege of doing business have been levied in North Carolina since 1784. During the past 172 years there has developed a hodge-podge of inequities. Last year the tax yielded some $7 million to the State general fund, about two and a quarter million to the cities and towns and something like half a million to the counties.

To collect this relatively small yield the State issued 215,000 licenses, counties and municipalities another 300,000 or more. Many businesses paid taxes for the same purpose to all three levels of government. Despite this duplication and multiplicity of taxes, study developed the fact that there was wide discrepancy in rates paid by competing businesses, many firms paying no taxes at all under this schedule.

To remedy this situation the tax study commission has proposed an entirely new approach to the privilege tax problem. For the present method of flat fees for certain types of business, the levy based more on size of the town in which the business is located than on volume, the commission proposes a gross receipts and occupational tax.

Most significant provision is that no business will be required to pay the tax to more than one government level. This will be accomplished by giving the State the sole right to tax certain businesses, the cities sole right to levy on some and counties on others.

Generally there will be no State tax on retail trade, eating establishments and manufacturing; no local taxes on wholesale trade, services such as laundry and dry cleaning, bottlers, news, radio and TV broadcasting, and ice cream manufacturing. Counties may levy the tax only on business outside of incorporated cities and towns.

Selected phases of amusements are taxable by the State, others by local units. Contractors who have no jobs of $10,000 or above are taxed only at local level, the larger contractors only by the State. The objective is to give the State taxing authority over mobile businesses which operate over large areas, local government complete authority over those which have definite tax situs and operate only at one point.

All these taxes will be based on gross receipts, with varying maximum rates depending upon ratio of profit. It is estimated that the total number of licenses issued at all levels will be less than 100,000 as contrasted with the present half million. The total yield is expected to be about the same as at present, with the new plan being much simpler to administer and easier to understand.

INCREASES — The present tax on professions—lawyers, doctors, etc.—which has remained at $25 for many years will be upped to $50. Towns and cities will be authorized to levy $10 on each automobile instead of the present $1, and up to $25 on every taxicab. A brand new occupational tax is authorized, permitting cities to levy up to $10 a year upon every person earning salary or wages in the city, regardless of place of residence. It is suggested that those earning less than $2000 a year be exempt from this tax.

The automobile and occupational rates suggested are maximum, each municipality being free to fix lower rates if the financial condition permits. The avowed objective is to transfer a large part of the burden now borne by ad valorem taxes on property to other sources for supporting municipal services.

It is noted that communities which derive substantial revenue from utilities, ABC stores and other non-tax sources might not require as high levies in the gross receipts and occupational fields. Responsibility for fixing the rates within the prescribed maximum will rest upon the local governing bodies.

UNCHANGING — A number of present levies in the privilege tax schedule will not be changed as to application or rates, but the statutes will be revised to make their administration fit into the new plan. Most of these affect financial institutions such as pawnbrokers, security dealers, loan agencies, bondsmen, employment agencies, tobacco warehouses and certain co-operative associations.

IMPACT — It is impossible in one story to analyze the impact of the new tax schedule on any particular business. The report says: "In general large businesses (except in the largest cities) would pay a higher tax, small businesses would pay a lower tax. General merchandise activities would pay a higher tax because their existing taxes are very low. Automobile dealers (except the smaller dealers) would pay a higher tax because their taxes are now relatively low throughout the state. Small drug and grocery stores and service stations would get tax relief. Restaurants, taverns, restaurants would get some tax relief. Laundries and dry cleaning plants would pay much lower occupational taxes than the present license levies, but this saving is virtually wiped out by increased sales tax liability.

It is largely because tax relief in one bracket will be offset by increased liability in others. Governor Hodges insists the whole plan must be considered as a "package." That does not mean it should be swallowed without thorough study to make sure that in curing some recognized inequities greater injustices may be imposed upon some segments of the business economy.

Popular reaction to date accords with the commission's own confession that the proposals do not constitute a panacea for all the taxation problems.

Other Editors Are Saying... Hard Study The Answer

(The Wilson Times) When Dr. Purks, who heads the board of Higher Education of North Carolina emphasizes the need for "hard study, rather than for buildings, appropriations and the like, it is time to take a hard look at our educational system.

And when Dr. Arthur Bestor, president of the Council for Basic Education, says "We are less educated than 50 years ago," and that schools have lost their sense of purpose, a closer look at public education is needed.

Both Dr. Purks and Dr. Bestor agree that schools are undertaking many activities that aren't essential to education. And both are firm in their conviction that there is no substitute for the fundamental academic subjects of arithmetic, spelling, reading, writing, algebra, geometry, science, history, literature, languages and government.

Dr. Purks says that we are now paying for a quarter of century of neglect of "study of fundamentals, of drill in of curricula, of lowering of standards of attainment required for certificates, diploma, and degrees, and of reliance upon firm and growth of institutions rather than upon the substance of learning."

He thinks an adjustment in thinking is necessary if the real goal of education are to be attained. "We must rid ourselves of the thought that proficiency in education to youth, or even provide an education for youth." The emphasis is misplaced, for he thinks that the only thing money and institutions and teachers can do to help the cause is to provide opportunity for people to acquire education at a faster rate than they can acquire it without money and institutions and teachers. This, as he says, in turn is dependent upon the willingness of pupils and students to study.

He is not saying that we should not build schools, or provide qualified teachers, but that study is the necessary ingredient to education and all learning.

Dr. Purks thinks that the necessary money for education will be forthcoming. But what he is honestly worried over is the time that is required to acquire knowledge in the subjects named above.

He thinks that our boys and girls and young men and women of school or college age should devote 10 hours each week for 50 weeks in the year to study over and above hours of attendance in classes, and that adults should give four hours a week to study.

How To Lose $20,000---Fast

I saw a man lose $20,000 last night. No, mother, I am not playing poker again. I was watching television.

Herb Stempel, a student at City College of New York, has been a contestant on "Twenty-One" for about seven or eight weeks. Until last night he was winning $69,500. After last night he is winning $49,500.

The ex-G. I.'s opponent on the show was Charles Van Doren, a member of the famous American family of writers. Van Doren won the $20,000 Stempel lost.

Under rules of the game, the individual contestants attempt to get to 21 points as quickly as possible. In order to do so, they are given chances at questions ranging in value from one point to 11 points. The higher the point value, the more difficult the question—and some of the questions are real rip-snorters, checked for accuracy and degree of difficulty by the editorial board of Encyclopedia Britannica.

Stempel and Van Doren started out against each other last week, playing for $500 a point. They tied their first game so the ante went up $500 a point to $1,000. They tied again. In their first game last night they started playing for $1,500 a point and tied a third time. That pushed it up to $2,000 a point and when Van Doren elected to stop the game he had a 10-point advantage on Stempel. At two grand a point, that's a potful of cash, especially for a teacher, which is what Van Doren is and Stempel wants to be.

The program has an interesting aspect to it. It places a real value on knowledge. Perhaps it is at least a recognition that there is some kind of worth in knowing something beyond the ordinary.

A great mass of unrelated facts has little value to an individual. But when he can relate those facts (even to TV quiz shows) he has begun to make something of his learning. Even for those who don't make the quiz shows there is still a great value in knowledge.

There is a heap of living between tolerating a man's ideas and really understanding them.

California Wines In Paris

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
PARIS (AP) — It's not easy, but you can get California wine in Paris.

Two Americans found this out at the cost of much cajoling and several fistfuls of francs. They had read that Louis Vaudable, proprietor of Maxim's restaurant, told Los Angeles newsmen: "Of course, we have California wines in Paris—and they are excellent. It's simply that no one orders them."

Well, Vaudable is perhaps two-thirds right. A visit to Maxim's brought these results: At first the sommelier—wine steward—was rather definite. No, Maxim's had no California wine. In fact, Maxim's had no foreign wines. No Chianti. No

Spanish wines. No Portuguese wines. Well, yes, they did have a few German Rhine wines, but they were for German tourists, and even they usually would up with a Chablis or a good Bordeaux.

But what about Vaudable's statement? There was a hurried consultation, a long pause, a long absence and behold, there were two dusty bottles of California white—form Vaudable's own private collection, it seems.

One was a Livermore Valley Pinot Chardonnay 1945 from Alameda County. It was described as similar to a Montrachet or fine Burgundy.

The other was a Fountain Grove Pinot Blanc, also 1945, from Sonoma County. The Americans chose the Livermore Valley to go with the filet of sole.

Soon there was a crowd of waiters around the table. They were curious about this strange vintage. They were more curious about the people who might order it. Well, you know how Americans are. Would they have a sip? Curiosity was stronger than disdain.

"A little small," commented a sommelier as he tasted the Livermore '45. Another remarked that it seemed a trifle "flatter" than the French equivalent but that it was more agreeable when very cold. Another said that it seemed "lighter" than French white.

The boys were doing their level best to be polite. When it came time for red wine, the sommelier came up with a Louis Martini Napa Barbera 1942.

The headwaiter, Albert, came over to oversee this. Good color, he conceded, Albert bravely asserted that Maxim's had had California wine for years and had been serving it all the time to connoisseurs.

An assistant dropped tact. It wasn't bad, he said, taking a mouthful of Martini's Napa Valley, but why should anyone come all the way from the United States to drink California wine?

Opinions In Brief

BROOKVILLE, PA. AMERICAN: "A new long-range flood control program... to spot emergencies before they become acute and thus forestall disasters in chronically disabled areas, will save millions of dollars in property loss and alleviate human suffering."

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
SPIRITUAL CURE NEEDED

One of the most outstanding impulses in the human make-up is the feverish desire always to get a little more. The man who is money-mad is never satisfied regardless of how rich he becomes. Each new advance in fortune is only a plateau on which he may rest temporarily until he can go higher.

The world conquerors have demonstrated this characteristic in a devastating fashion. No matter how great their conquests, they were never satisfied to stop. Alexander the Great, Napoleon, Hitler and Stalin have all shown how apparently irresistible is the desire for extensive domination once a person falls under its power.

Jealous people are people who never have enough—enough preference, flattery, build-up in the eyes of their fellows. As long as there is one person in the world above them, they must tear him down. A normal circle of friends and admirers is never enough. They strive frantically for something beyond this.

All such dispositions, of course, indicate the presence in one's blood—and especially in one's soul—of a potent and devastating fever. It is natural for people to want to excel, but to excel at the expense of others is something beyond normal aspirations. People who continually want such advancement are sick—sick of mind and soul. What they need is not treatment but cure—spiritual cure for a spiritual disease.

Researchers Now Hold Political Stage

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON Now that the Presidential ballots have been counted officially, Democratic and Republican researchers have become the most important figures at respective Washington headquarters. They are studying the latest Census charts and economic statistics in order to forecast their 1958-1960 chances at the polls, and to plan responsive shifts in strategy.

Before discussing their tentative conclusions, a few generalizations on the political effect of population migration and growth, as well as income and labor changes, may be hazardous. Here are the major alterations of the future politico-economic map, which will affect future elections, although their full impact will not be felt until 1964 or after the next Census-tolls hence.

CENSUS CHARTS' STATISTICS Four groups, due to the yearly increase in their numbers, will gain political power, to wit:

The white collar workers, for the first time in history, now outnumber the so-called blue collar employees by 25,400,000 to 24,900,000, and the disparity is increasing every year with the mechanization of industry. The "whites" comprise professional people, the proprietors and managers, the clerical and sales staffs, and some service employees. The "blues" consist of craftsmen, operatives and laborers.

This decline, especially as it is expected to persist, could mean a diminution in the ballot-box influence of the unions. In order to offset this threat, the AFL-CIO is trying to organize many professional, managerial and clerical groups.

of course, this could be recorded as an advantage to the Republicans, for white collar voters are generally conservative.

WOMEN IN THE LEAD Another group whom the politicians must recognize more clearly and generously are the women, for there are now 1,381,000 more hers than him. In 1910, when the shift began, there were 106 males to every 100 females.

Recent expansions of the Social Security system reflect the legislators' consciousness and recognition of the old folks' growing numbers and influence. There are now 14,500,000 over 65, an increase of 2,500,000 since 1950. While they have increased by 18.3 per cent in six years, the average increase for the entire population has been only 11.2 per cent. We are growing old, Uncle Sam. But the largest gain was in the

Big Retail Sales Are Going Up

By ELMER ROFSNER
Personal income in the United States this year has been running far higher than ever before and retail sales in almost all lines have been up, up, up. Department store sales during the first nine months of the year were 4 to 5 per cent higher than in the same period last year, the Federal Reserve reports.

Which of the departments do you think showed the biggest gain:

- Jewelry,
- Furs, Gifts,
- Women's accessories,
- Records, sheet music and instruments,
- Or infants' wear?

Before we get to the Fed's answer, let's note that the high rate of income has definite effects on department store sales. For example, basement store gains were only 2 per cent, less than half of the main store increase.

LESS HOME SEWING

The income total is also reflected in the sale of piece goods. The national total was 2 per cent under the comparable period last year. There was a small rise in silks, velvets, synthetics and woolen yard goods, but it was more than offset by the decline in cotton goods. This suggests women are making fewer and buying more ready-made clothes.

If you guessed that the department showing the greatest gain was the record, sheet music and instruments one, you were right. The rise was 18 per cent. The silverware and jewelry departments gained 8 per cent largely because of an 8 per cent rise in fine jewelry and watches. Fur sales were up 8 per cent; gift shop sales up 7 per cent, and infants' wear, up 4 per cent. Other departments to show large gains, with their increases in percentage points, are: toilet articles, down 1 per cent; books and magazines, 3; fur hats, suits and dresses, 3; linoleum, 8 (rugs and carpets gained only 5); luggage, 8, and candy, 8.

The only departments other than piece goods to show losses are: silk and muslin underwear and slips, down 1 per cent; women's and misses' suits, down 2 per cent, and basement stores' aprons, housedresses and uniforms, down 1 per cent. All departments not cited held even or made gains up through 7 per cent.

WILMINGTON LEADS U.S.

In its survey by trading areas, the Fed reports that the largest department store gains in the country have been made in Wilmington, Del., where sales during the first nine months were 12 per cent above the 1955 mark. Next was the Duluth-Superior area, with a 10 per cent rise, and Topeka, with 9 per cent. Buffalo, Scranton, Erie, Nashville and Sacramento showed 8 per cent gains.

The only minus sings were from Lowell, Mass., Lexington, Ky., Toledo, and downtown Washington, each down 1 per cent; Kansas City and Providence, R.I., down 2 per cent, and downtown Los Angeles, down 4 per cent. In most of these areas, sales have perked up since the first of October.

CLUES TO TRENDS IN BUSINESS

There has been no increase in unionization of office workers since 1942, a survey by the National Office Management Association indicates.

The Appliance Manufacturers Association says that shipments of automatic gas water heaters during the first 10 months of the year set a new high mark of 2,443,000.

Of 174 companies polled by Mill & Factory, 41 per cent said "business will be better next year, 85 per cent said about the same 4 per cent said not as good... Output of corrugated paper board, used in making shipping containers, should rise 40 per cent by 1956, the Battelle Institute calculates.

Davey Tree men still climb trees, but the company is taking in $1,000,000 this year from contracts for controlling vegetation along rights of way.

More than half America's steelworkers own their own homes and 95 per cent have television sets, a survey by Opinion Research Corp. discloses.

SOCIAL SECURITY SAFE-GUARDS For women, the elderly and children, the most important issue appears to be "security" of way of life. More than half Security that it means—Social Security system reflect the legislators' consciousness and recognition of the old folks' growing numbers and influence. There are now 14,500,000 over 65, an increase of 2,500,000 since 1950. While they have increased by 18.3 per cent in six years, the average increase for the entire population has been only 11.2 per cent. We are growing old, Uncle Sam. But the largest gain was in the

Pitt's CD Rescue Truck To Be On Display

Pitt County's Civil Defense rescue truck, purchased with funds appropriated by various municipalities in the county, will be placed on display in each of the towns during the next three Saturdays.

This Saturday the Civil Defense truck, along with a rescue ambulance and other equipment, will be shown in Winterville, Ayden and Grifton. The Greenville Volunteer Rescue Squad will arrive in Winterville with the equipment at 1 o'clock. The truck will remain on display in Winterville for 30 minutes.

At 2:30 the truck will be placed on display in Ayden where it will remain until 3:45. The truck will move into Grifton at 4:00.

On Dec. 15 the truck will be placed on display at Falkland at 12:45. The truck will be moved to Farmville at 2:15 and to Fountain at 4 p.m.

The truck is to be placed on display in Grimesland at 1:30 p.m. Dec. 22. On that same day it will go on display in Bethel at 3:00 o'clock.

The rescue truck was purchased in 1955 after the Greenville Junior Chamber of Commerce contacted governing boards in each of the towns in the county and the county commissioners to request appropriations for the purchase of the rescue vehicle.

Appropriations which were approved by the governing bodies were as follows: Pitt County, $2,500; Greenville, $1,000; Farmville and Ayden, $250 each; Grifton, Grimesland, Winterville, Bethel, Fountain and Falkland, $100 each. With those appropriations plus donations by individuals the county was able to pay its share of the rescue truck cost. The Federal Government paid half the $9,000 purchase price of the vehicle.

After the purchase of the truck was assured the Greenville Jaycees president for 1955, Dr. Warren Aldridge, appointed a committee headed by Pete West to investigate the need for a rescue squad.

The first rescue squad meeting was held in the lecture hall at the fire station Nov. 23, 1955. Now the squad's 16 members meet each Wednesday night at the Fire Station. Officers of the group are Capt. Roy Hardee, Lt. Craven Hughes and 2nd Lt. Pete West and Stuart Savage.

Of the 16 rescue squad members four are full-time firemen who are assigned to the rescue trucks.

The squad members receive first aid instruction from Ray Martinez of the East Carolina College physical education department. The group has received the standard first aid course of 18 hours and the advanced course of 12 hours. The first instructors course of 15 hours was given by Mitchell Kirkland, general field representative for the American Red Cross.

Two members of the squad, Lyman Nethercutt of the Fire Department and Stuart Savage, attended the International Rescue and First Aid convention in Akron, Ohio for four days last month.

In addition to the Civil Defense rescue truck and the rescue ambulance, the squad also has a boat, motor and trailer for water rescue.

RESCUE EQUIPMENT—The Volunteer Rescue Squad will show their equipment at each of the various municipalities in the county during the next three Saturdays. The Civil Defense rescue truck, shown to the right above, was purchased with appropriations made by each town in the county last year.

Pitt Realtors Hear Address By State Chairman

North Carolina Realtors Board Chairman C. E. Phillips of Durham, guest speaker at a special supper meeting of the Pitt County Realtors' Board last night, reviewed the history of realtor boards and said "the Pitt County Realtors Board is one of the outstanding boards in North Carolina."

The speaker praised President Jack Wallace for outstanding work and the board's increasing influence.

Phillips also brought out that the State Realtors Board is trying to get the North Carolina General Assembly to set up a board to provide for requiring all real estate dealers to pass examinations in order to obtain licenses to practice in the state.

Guests last night included State Sen. Paul E. Jones of Farmville,

Walter Jones of Farmville and Frank M. Wooten, members of the House of Representatives. State Sen. Edward L. Owens of Plymouth and Harry Lewis of Greensboro and executive secretary of the North Carolina Realtors Board, President Jack Wallace presided.

Parley On U.S. Bases Stymied

MANILA (AP)—Talks on the expansion of U.S. military bases in the Philippines were suspended indefinitely today.

U.S. Minister Horace Smith told a session of the two nations' negotiators that the special American representative at the talks, Karl R. Bendetsen, and his advisers would leave tomorrow for Washington.

The four-month-old talks were stymied almost from the start on the issue of jurisdiction over criminal cases developing within U.S. military installations in the islands. A two-week recess was called because of that issue Sept. 24.

The Philippines contends its courts, not U.S. military courts, should have jurisdiction.

No indication was given when discussions might be resumed.

Vice President Carlos P. Garcia, head of the Philippine panel, and Sen. Emmanuel Pelaez, official Philippine spokesman, obviously were displeased with the U.S. decision to suspend the talks.

Smith said Bendetsen and his advisers were returning to Washington to review the entire situation with the U.S. government.

"There is no doubt in our minds that ultimately a satisfactory agreement will be reached," he added.

The negotiations were designed to settle American and Philippine differences over delimitation and jurisdiction in U.S. officials are anxious to expand the present bases and activate others, as provided in earlier agreement.

Some Filipino legislators also have been seeking action to reduce the period of leases from 99 to 25 years.

The United States now operates three major bases in the Philippines — Clark Air Force Base north of Manila, and Sangley and Subic Bay naval bases west of here. There are 23 U.S. base and installation sites scattered throughout the islands, but most are inactive.

CHAPTER 30
The next day, Perry turned up in the Shepley Arms as usual, but for the first time since Casson had known him, he looked tired. For a time he said nothing. Then casually he asked:
"Did you hear a row last night?"
"Row? No. Why?"
"A policeman woke me up about midnight and said he'd seen a burglar on my roof. He insisted on going into every room. I was most annoyed. He was a very inquisitive man."
"They're curious by nature," said Casson reassuringly. "They sniff anything to see whether it smells."
Perry finished his beer and got up to leave.
"If you're not busy tomorrow," said Casson, "it might interest you to come along with me. I'm going to Chiswick House to look at some William and Mary chairs."
"I don't think I will," Perry replied, rather ungraciously.
"I wish you would. I'd like your advice."
"Very well," he said. "Eleven tomorrow morning."
Casson went to Cane's for dinner and rang Strutt.
"Hello, hello," said Strutt. "Have you broken him?"
"Not yet. But the dramatic society was superb."
"What's up?"
"He and I are going to Chiswick House tomorrow morning. At eleven. That's the time for the next set of fireworks. The boys can pick us up in Burlington Lane or Chiswick Lane. And lay on the show for just after twelve."

Casson sat on for a long time in the dining-room of Cane's, brooding over the few moves still left in the game. He ordered a glass of brandy and took it into the deserted smoking-room. Lying back in a huge leather armchair, he realized that he had overlooked the essential point. He could soften Perry by fear. But the way to hang him was by conceit. In the end it must be the distortion in Perry's character that would wreck him; and Casson was now convinced that the strongest distortion in him was snobbishness allied to vanity. He wanted to see himself in print. He wanted to be a member of a club. Casson could help him to achieve one of those ambitions and the achievement would kill him.

For the second night running Perry lay awake. He lay rigidly on his back. His eyes were tight, closed, but his mind was whirling in a fixed circle. That police officer could only have wanted to see if there had really been a burglar. He looked too young and too innocent to conceal any other purpose. But why had he insisted in going all over the house?

Perry turned over on his side. He couldn't have forgotten anything in Macfarlane's flat? He had checked that there were no strings left in the mat where he had pulled it up against the door. Had one of the two pieces fallen out of his pocket? He remembered counting them when he got home. They were safe. He had checked on the handkerchief also. What else could there have been?
He switched on the light and took two aspirins. At all costs he must sleep. It was just a temporary fit of nerves. His stomach was upset. He would feel better tomorrow.

While they were walking up to Chiswick House the next morning Casson scrutinized him closely. Perry looked tired, but not as tired as he had done the day before. He seemed to be recovering balance. Which was all to the good. Every time you were knocked off poise you found it more difficult to regain.
Chiswick House was a stately grace. The galleries were cool in contrast to the summer warmth outside. Casson and Perry moved slowly through them, remarking on a high-backed, heavily carved chair, admiring a crystal and silver reliquary casket.
"Marvelous," said Perry, staring at the bright box.
There was something disgusting in this man gazing with such desire at a thing which had housed an object of adoration; gazing at it with mean and voracious greed. When they emerged, they strolled slowly up Burlington Lane. Casson stopped to light a cigarette and glanced backwards. Behind them were the two plainclothes policemen. One of them nodded slightly.
Casson and Perry strolled on. When they turned into Chiswick Lane, the policemen crossed the road and walked at a brisk pace up the opposite side. Out of the corner of his eye Casson saw them draw level. He looked at one another and crossed the road again. The taller of the two—Detective Sergeant Villers, Casson remembered—came straight up to them and addressed Casson.
"Excuse me, sir," he said. "I am a police officer." He held out his wallet to show the warrant-card. "I wonder if you and this other gentleman would care to help us?"
"I am always delighted to help the law," Casson replied pompously. "What do you wish us to do? Test the rope for an execution?"
Casson heard the faint intake of breath from Perry.
"No, sir," Villers replied. "We have an identification parade. We want to see if someone will recognize a suspect and we have to mix him up with a lot of innocent people so as to make the identification more certain. It's purely voluntary, of course."
"I don't think so," Perry began, but Casson broke in on him: "We should come with you, Officer," Casson replied.
Reluctantly Perry moved off with them. When the police officers had drawn ahead, Perry whispered to Casson: "I've got to get back for my meal, you know. You go along without me."
"Don't be a spoil-sport," Casson said loudly. "Besides, it's one's duty to help the police, you know."
Perry was quiet until they had come out into the Chiswick High Road and turned towards the police station. Then he pulled a watch out of his pocket and looked at it.
"I think I really must go home," he said firmly. "I've just remembered I left something in the oven."

"You can't go now, old man," said Casson. "They won't believe that yarn for a moment and they'll think you've got a guilty conscience. Come on. There's nothing to it."
They had only been in the waiting room of the police station for a minute when Superintendent Weldon came in.
"Much obliged to you gentlemen," he said. "We won't detain you long. If you'd be kind enough to line up with the other men in there, it'll all be over in a minute."
Perry begins to crack up as stark panic grips his mind. Be sure to read Chapter 31, in this newspaper tomorrow.

Horsepower Is At All-Time High
AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Walter Mitchell, research director of a power tool company, says that, although horses are few and far between on the nation's farms, horsepower is at an all-time high.
Since 1945 American farmers' total investment in vehicles and equipment has increased 300 per cent to more than $18 billion.
South Africa produced 510 million dollars worth of gold in 1955. Canada produced 159 million and the United States mined 66 million dollars worth of gold in the same time.

Eden's Job In Doubt, But Govm't Is Expected Win Confidence Vote

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Eden's government was expected to win a House of Commons vote tonight keeping it in office, but Britain's big newspapers split about even on Eden's chances of holding his own job.

Three nationally distributed dailies said Eden is finished and will have to make way for another Conservative prime minister to give the party a new lease on political life.

Three other papers thought Eden would hold on. One said maybe he could, and another — the Times of London — voiced no opinion.

As Commons went into the closing round of debate on the Suez invasion, the Conservatives closed ranks in preparation for the vote of confidence on the wisdom of the military venture and the current withdrawal from the Suez Canal zone.

A dozen or so Conservatives were expected to abstain in the voting, in silent disapproval of the withdrawal without insuring international control of the canal. With the government's overall majority at 59 votes, a minor rebellion would not force it to resign.

But criticism was rising in the Conservative ranks against Eden, resting in Jamaica from "severe overstrain" and due back in about 10 days. Some influential Conservatives were saying the Prime Minister would be under heavy pressure to resign soon after he gets back, making way for another Conservative to take over without a general election the party this time might lose.

Eden's continuing in office was opposed for a variety of reasons by varying groups in his own party. Some thought he should not have ordered the invasion of Egypt, or should not have kept the United States in the dark about his plans. One faction of diehards was bitter at the pullout leaving President Nasser in control of both Egypt and the canal. Many were concerned over the rift with the United States and the economic crisis ahead.

Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler was the likeliest man to become prime minister should Eden step out, but there was some feeling he was too closely identified with the decision to move against Egypt. Two dark horses mentioned were Colonial Secretary Alan Lennox-Boyd and Sir Winston Churchill's son-in-law Housing Minister Duncan Sandys. Both have remained outside the Suez controversy.

The newspapers lined up like this on Eden's future:

He is through: Daily Express (independent but generally a backer of the Conservatives) — "In the minds of many he has already ceased to be prime minister. Whatever happens in the next few weeks, he can never return to the House of Commons with his old authority."

News Chronicle (Liberal) — "Reports from Jamaica that the Prime Minister suffered another minor indisposition last week suggests that for health reasons alone — quite apart from other considerations — Sir Anthony Eden must retire."

(A dispatch from Jamaica yesterday said Eden suffered a slight indisposition — believed to be a stomach upset — Sunday night but had recovered.)

Daily Herald (voice of the opposition Labor party) — "This report from Jamaica whipped up speculation already running high that Sir Anthony, 60 next June, will not be able to continue for long as premier."

Eden will stay: Daily Sketch (Conservative) — "Well, it's no use condemning the leader if you haven't got a new one in the bag."

Daily Mail (Conservative) — "Sir Anthony Eden is still the man most likely to hold the Conservative party together."

Daily Telegraph (Conservative) — "Exaggerated reports of the strength of the (Conservative) rebels' are still being put about."

Maybe: Daily Mirror (independent, anti-Conservative) — "Britain must be made great again—whatever the name of the Prime Minister and whatever the party in power. On with the Job!"

Plans Group To Support Schools

DURHAM (AP) — Gov. Hodges, who wants local governmental units to play a bigger role in supporting the public school system, plans to name a State Citizens Committee for Better Schools.

The committee will find out "what the interest in schools is at local levels over the entire state," the governor revealed in a talk last night.

Hodges said the committee will make "a study of our school needs with particular reference to the financing and the responsibility of all of us at local levels as well as state levels."

Its findings, he stated, will be turned over to the 1959 legislature.

The governor told the division of superintendents of the N.C. Education Assn. that he plans to appoint the committee as soon as possible and then call a meeting to kick-off the campaign.

"There should be more and more local support" for the schools, Hodges asserted. "I believe the people of North Carolina at local levels will pay for schools and education."

"It is being proved now by local supplements, even though they run from $50 a year in the lowest case to upwards of $1,500 a year in the highest case." Local support, the governor added, "is our only help for the future not only of raising the necessary amount of money, but of keeping our character and our dignity, and of giving to the children more than they are now getting."

Sweet Potato Puree For N.C.

WILLISTON, N.C. (AP) — A sweet potato puree plant, the only one of its kind in the Southeast, went into production in this Carteret County town yesterday.

The $25,000 plant employs 16 persons and processes about 400 bushels of sweet potatoes daily into puree for baby foods, pies, souffles, puddings and similar dishes.

Fined $100 For Deserting Mail

GREENSBORO (AP) — A mail truck driver who deserted mail matter last July while enroute from Greensboro to Raleigh yesterday was fined $100 by Judge Johnson J. Hayes in federal court.

David Earl Davis, 31, of Burlington, pleaded guilty to voluntarily leaving the mail entrusted to him as a contract postal truck driver. After considerable trouble with his truck, Davis testified, he became "disgusted and quit."

Cadillac

Surpasses its Own Great Reputation!

You're looking at a mighty surprised man. Almost all of his adult life he has owned Cadillac cars. And so, when he came in to see and drive the new 1957 Cadillac, he thought he knew about what to expect. Well, here he is—barely under way in the city's traffic—and already he is learning the startling truth.

He is learning that nothing could prepare a man for the new "car of cars"—not even Cadillac ownership itself!

He suspected it, in fact, the instant he caught his first glimpse of this newest Cadillac creation. This was an entirely new kind of Cadillac beauty—brilliantly fresh in line and in contour.

And then he opened the door and swung into the driver's seat. On every side were new miracles of interior beauty and comfort and convenience.

And when he turned the key and put his foot on the accelerator, his sentiment grew to conviction. The car was incredibly nimble and quiet and smooth of ride.

Surprised, did we say? Well, just wait until he hits an open stretch of highway.

That great new engine is incredibly responsive. There is marvelous new balance and ease of motion. And the car is so easy to handle that it seems almost to know the road.

No question about it—this is the Cadillac that surpasses its own great reputation!

We suggest that you come in soon to see and drive this most surprising new Cadillac in fifty-four years. It's an experience you shouldn't postpone—and one you'll not soon forget.

Greenville Man Named To Board Of Nat'l Ass'n

David W. Hardee Jr., prominent Greenville business man and civic leader, was elected to the Board of Directors of the National Association for Mental Health for a three year term at the Annual Meeting of this organization held recently at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D.C. Hardee was one of the original founders and first treasurer of the Pitt County Mental Health Assn. and has been active in the N.C. Mental Health Assn. Also in attendance at the Annual Meeting of NAMH were Dr. Ray Minges, Charles D. Cobb, and Dr. Joseph Franzoni.

The three-day convention was keynoteed by Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., in an address stressing the fact that the American public is now taking over the fight against mental illness, once the concern of a small group of dedicated laymen, professional workers and government agencies. Dr. William C. Menninger, of the famed Menninger Clinic in Topeka, addressed the convention at its banquet last Saturday evening.

In general sessions and workshops on November 29 and 30, the conferees, including mental health association representatives, government officials, psychiatrists and other professional personnel, analyzed the objectives of the mental health association and plans to achieve them, concentrating on:

1. Establishing a well-organized mental health association in every community.
 2. Achieving adequate care and treatment of the hospitalized mentally ill.
 3. Establishing adequate community services for the mentally ill and handicapped and their families.
 4. Participating fully with other groups in promoting mental health.
- The final day of the convention was devoted to sessions on fund raising, public relations and research, and the annual banquet, featuring Dr. Menninger, and the first national presentation of a play, RETURN TO THINE OWN HOUSE.

Honor Roll Had But One Student

AYDEN—A tabulation of grades issued for the second report period in Ayden High School shows that one student, Senior Virginia Cavanaugh, made the Honor Roll and 30 others were placed on the Principal's List. Principal's List students included: Seniors: R. L. Collins, Betty Craft, Janette Loftin, Ann Long, Ann McGlohon, Sue Sutton, Betty Lou Tripp, Ikey Baldfree, Herb Little, Liddle Anderson, Brownie Harrington, Jessie McLawhorn, Henrietta Taylor, Jeannette Worthington and Anne York.

Santa Located Refugee Kids

CAMP KILMER, N.J. (AP)—Dozens of Hungarian children, uprooted in bewilderment from their homes only a few days ago, awoke today to find that the spirit of St. Nicholas lives around the world.

When they looked at their shoes polished so brightly in hope, they found a wonder of wonders — St. Nicholas had paid them a visit.

Even though they were thousands of miles from their homeland and living in an Army barracks, the old gent had found them.

He left them the traditional gifts: dolls, games, candy — and switches.

They were small gifts, in their tradition that says the big gifts come on Christmas Day, the small ones on Dec. 6 from St. Nicholas, whom Hungarian youngsters consider their special protector.

While the children were nestled all snug in their beds, volunteer workers from the Red Cross quietly delivered the packages last night to Hungarian refugee parents billeted here.

The gifts, all new, were donated by various organizations through the Red Cross.

The symbolic switches — an other part of the tradition that calls for the youngsters to shine their shoes and set them out for gifts — were "pulled off some trees around here," a Red Cross spokesman said.

North Carolina entered the Union on Nov. 21, 1789.

First Edition Is Found In Gift

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Rummaging through a box of books donated to Marquette University, librarians found a first edition pamphlet of Robert Frost's series of poems, "A Boy's Will."

William B. Ready, Marquette's head librarian, says only a few copies of the New England poet's pamphlet were printed. Ready estimates a single copy is worth about $250.

The first U.S. Post Office was opened in New York City on Nov. 28, 1783.

IN ANOTHER FIELD — Mickey Mantle, who won 1956 American League Most Valuable Player award, tries playing violin as musician Leon McAuliffe guides him in Tulsa, Okla.

NEW DIRECTOR — Arthur Larson, now undersecretary of labor, has been named by President Eisenhower to be the director of the United States Information Agency.

Juniors: Tommy Edwards, Brenda Davis, Wayland McLawhorn and Perry Watkins.

Sophomores: Barbara Gagnon, Freddie Skinner, Barry Moore, Francine Cannon, Joyce Jolly and Perry Ann Wood.

Freshmen: Frances Booth, Sandra Carter, Gloria Crawley, Ava Franks, Elizabeth Bennett and Sandra Sutton.

Slow Work Given A Speedy Driver

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police Chief John J. Obertz of Suburban Jennings gave a three-time speeding loser his choice of "sitting out" a 10-day jail sentence or working in the street department.

The speeder chose to work. His job: 10 days painting of "slow" signs for the police department.

Claims Cooking Skill Is All Bluff

SEATTLE (AP)—One of President Eisenhower's close relatives says he is "all bluff" about cooking.

that is. The relative is Mr. Edgar Eisenhower of Tacoma, Wash., the President's sister-in-law at whose home the President stayed while campaigning this fall.

"Being married to an Eisenhower," the sister-in-law told the Women's University Club yesterday, "I know the President's cooking is all bluff. He turns the knob on high, burns it to a crisp and that's all."

ARTISTIC FINE OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—After receiving his fifth parking ticket, an Oklahoma City motorist figured a way to avoid arrest and a fine—he thought.

Police arrested the driver after he changed his auto's license plate numbers with a paint brush.

Again To Head N.C. Committee

GREENSBORO (AP)—Dr. Clyde Milner, Guilford College president, again will head the North Carolina State Committee for selection of Rhodes scholars.

Selection committees in each state will meet Dec. 12 to conduct personal interviews with candidates designated by their respective college or university to compete for scholarships.

Secretary of the state committee this year is Dr. W. C. Davidson, dean of the Duke University school of medicine.

United States raisin production in 1955 went up 30 percent.

Pirates Ring Up 49th Consecutive Home Court Win

Defeat McCrary Eagles By 64-54

By BILLY ARNOLD
 Reflector Sports Editor

In their first Greenville game of the season, East Carolina Pirates walloped the semi-pro McCrary Eagles 64-54, last night, to ring up their 49th consecutive victory at Memorial gymnasium.

It was their second triumph of the season against no losses.

The Buccaneers notched seven quick points in the first few minutes of play before McCrary could score. The visiting squad then began hitting, but remained behind the Pirates throughout the contest.

Sparking the Eagle attack were a host of former college stars, including former North Carolina State All-American Sammy Ranzino, Jim Jordan, Cliff Dwyer and Smith Langdon. It was Langdon who kept the visitors in the game with frequent field goals when they were most needed.

Action Was Slow

Action from both teams ran slower than usual on an East Carolina court due to several reasons. Both teams moved the ball well but were having difficulty in hitting the basket in the early minutes of play. Another factor in the rather slow offensive pace of the game was the excellent defensive play by both East Carolina and the Eagles.

The halftime score was 26-23, in favor of East Carolina.

In the second half, the Pirates moved away by as much as 10 points ahead of the Eagles, on shots by All-Conference forward Don Harris and Nick Nichols.

McCrary cut down the Buc lead to only one point midway in the second half, 42-41. Smith Langdon and Cliff Dwyer, McCrary's big 6-10 former N.C. State star, paced the play during that time.

Turning Point

It was at this time that ECC Coach Howard Porter labeled the "turning point of the game." Guy Mendenhall, Pirate 6-6 center, closed in on Dwyer, outflung him on the boards and kept the bigger man from scoring. When they stopped Dwyer's output, Porter said, they won the game. Dwyer and ECC's Harris tied for high scoring honors with 17 points each.

Mendenhall, who paced the Buc rebounders last week against Guilford with 14, surpassed that mark last night, collecting 20. His board work was tops in the game. Nick Nichols came through with 14 and also scored 12 points.

Sophomore transfer Charlie Adams, playing his first season with the Pirates pumped in three consecutive jump shots at the 42-41 mark to push East Carolina out in front. From that point, ECC moved to a 10-point lead at the end of the game, winning 64-54.

Four East Carolina's starters hit in the double figures. Harris was high with 17; Adams had 15; Nichols collected 12; Mendenhall added 10. Guard Freddy James, who held Ranzino to seven points, collected eight.

Saturday night, East Carolina plays host to Catawba in a North State conference tilt, at Memorial gymnasium. They will be shooting for their 50th successive win on the home floor.

Aim Was Good, But Unfortunate

HENNESSEY, Okla. (AP) — Jack Doerer, a farmer near here, woke up in the middle of the night and through the moonlight he saw a badger looking him in the eye.

He got out his shotgun and fired through the window, then went back to bed to see his bag. He found holes in his wife's washtub.

ADAMS SCORES—Charlie Adams (16) pumps in a jump shot over the outstretched arms of center Cliff Dwyer at Memorial gymnasium. Adams, a sophomore transfer from UNC, playing a guard position for the Bucs, dumped in 15 points last night in ECC's 64-54 victory. (Reflector Photos by Billy Arnold).

MENDENHALL HOOKS—Guy Mendenhall, ECC's 6-6 center, hooks over the head of McCrary's gigantic Cliff Dwyer (16) for two Pirate points in last night's game at Memorial gym. Under the basket are Eagles Smith Langdon (21) and Jim Jordan (18). East Carolina won 64-53, to notch their 49th consecutive home court victory without a defeat.

Russian Athletes Build Up Their Lead In Olympics

MELBOURNE (AP) — Russian built up a virtually insurmountable lead over the United States tonight in the unofficial Olympic Games point standings with additional gold medals in gymnastics and greco-roman wrestling.

Starting the day 23 points behind the United States, the Russians rallied to go ahead 57 1/2 to 56 1/2 with five firsts and a tie for another gold medal compared to two second-place finishes by the Americans.

This was the first time America had failed to win an Olympics under its unofficial point scoring system.

However, Adolf Hitler's German government in 1936 came up with a German point standings showed the winner, but the American system had the U.S. ahead.

All Olympic point standings are figured on the basis of 10 for first, with five, four three, two and one for the remaining positions through sixth. Under the European system, a winner gets seven points and then 5-4-3-2-1. By that system the Russians went ahead yesterday.

It was a day of frustration for America which could get no better than two seconds and two thirds in the swimming and diving.

America lost the men's platform diving title for the first time since 1920 when Joaquin Capilla of Mexico won the event on the final dive to shade Gary Tobian of Los Angeles 152.44 to 152.41 points.

Australia continued to dominate the swimming events at the expense of the United States with its women's 400-meter relay team cracking the world record in a 4:17.1 performance. The American team was another 2.1 seconds back, also breaking the old world record.

Dawn Fraser, Faith Leach, Sandra Morgan and Lorraine Crapp gave the capacity crowd something to shout about as they came home ahead of the U.S. quartet of Sylvia Ruskus, Shelley Mann, Nancy Simons and Joan Rosazza.

Australian David Thiele set a new Olympic mark in beating his favored teammate, John Monckton in the 100-meter backstroke final, won by America in every Olympics but one since 1912.

Michaelis said he wasn't protesting Capilla's victory because he is "a fine guy and a fine diver. I don't want to impugn his victory in any way."

But he objected strenuously to what he called the practice of Hungarian and Russian judges of systematically marking down the American divers.

Michaelis, the Dartmouth College coach, said that he neither wanted nor expected to change tonight's results but that he hoped to work out a new system of selecting the judges.

Cherry Stricken By Tuberculosis

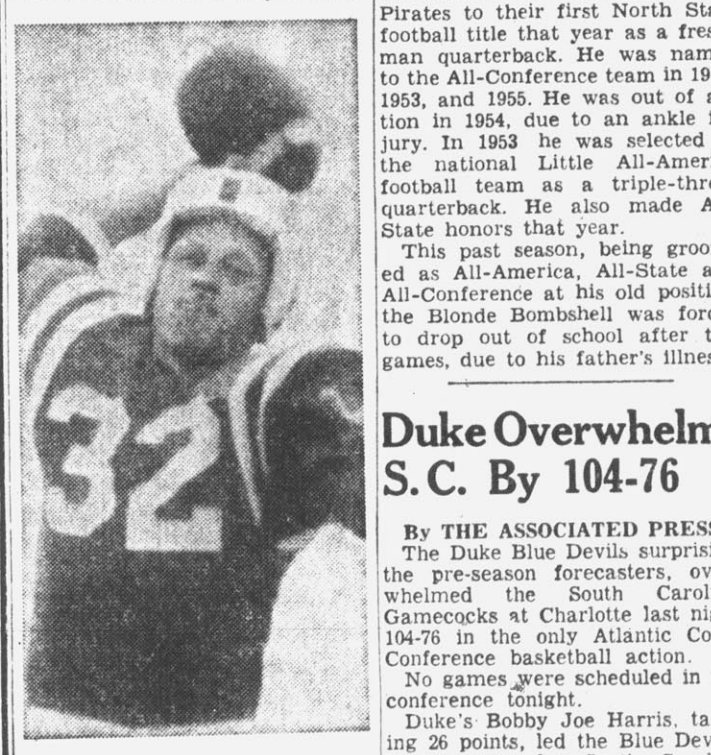

It was disclosed today that former East Carolina Little All-America footballer Dick Cherry is suffering from a mild case of tuberculosis.

Cherry, 22, was admitted to the Wilson Sanatorium early this week for rest and treatment. Reports from Washington, his home town, state that the former ECC quarterback's condition is only a "mild" case of the disease.

Cherry's father had contracted the disease earlier and had just been released from the Sanatorium two weeks before his son's case came to light. Mr. Cherry had been under treatment at the sanatorium for over a year.

A 5-9, 165 pound All-Stater at Washington, Cherry went to East Carolina in 1953 and guided the Pirates to their first North State football title that year as a freshman quarterback. He was named to the All-Conference team in 1952, 1953, and 1955. He was out of action in 1954, due to an ankle injury. In 1955 he was selected to the national Little All-America football team as a triple-threat quarterback. He also made All-State honors that year.

This past season, being groomed as All-America, All-State and All-Conference at his old position, the Blonde Bombshell was forced to drop out of school after two games, due to his father's illness.

Duke Overwhelms S.C. By 104-76

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 The Duke Blue Devils surprising the pre-season forecasters, overwhelmed the South Carolina Gamecocks at Charlotte last night 104-76 in the only Atlantic Coast Conference basketball action.

No games were scheduled in the conference tonight.

Duke's Bobby Joe Harris, tallying 26 points, led the Blue Devils. High scorer for South Carolina was Grady Wallace with 21 points.

Egg Producer Applies Profitable Mass-Production

PRODUCTION LINE—These chickens in their cage homes lay eggs which roll into the trough shown in front of the cages. The chickens spend their entire lives in their cages.

SELF SERVICE—Robert D. Tugwell is shown above as he places eggs in the self-service house along the roadside. Customers can then serve themselves when they visit Tugwell's farm on U. S. 264 bypass. (Photos by Bill Taylor).

By BILL TAYLOR

Robert D. Tugwell whose farm is located a half mile from Greenville on the U.S. 264 bypass started in the egg producing business in March, 1956.

Now he has 1,500 chickens on his farm producing more than 1,000 eggs per day.

It was five months from the time Tugwell laid the foundation for his chicken houses until the first eggs were produced but from that time on, production has been steady and profitable.

To maintain the present rate of production, Tugwell must keep around 1,300 hens. In addition he has around 200 pullets which have not started laying. He replaces about 150 chickens every 90 days and if a chicken fails to produce at least 20 eggs every month she is replaced after a trial period of 15 days.

Eggs are collected every afternoon from a tray under the cages. A record is kept of each hen that lays an egg by moving a clothes pin on a strand of wire. There are 31 strands of wire on each cage to represent the days in a month.

Once a day Tugwell feeds his chickens an average of 900 pounds of food a day. His layers are a Hybrid chicken produced in Dekalb, Mich. and shipped to this area. These chickens cost 60 cents each when they are a day old.

They are vaccinated against bronchitis and newcasel, both common diseases among chickens. They are also de-beaked before they are shipped. This is to prevent the fowl from injuring one another. The chickens are then placed in incubators on arrival and after eight weeks they are moved in an individual wire cage which is suspended four feet above the ground. The hens remain in this 10 by 15 inch cage until they stop producing.

Lights are turned on automatically at 3:30 in the morning and set to go off at 7:30 at night. Thus the hens live in light 14 hours each day.

Once a week the owner must clean out the food and water trays which are located at the end of each cage.

The barn must be cleaned once a year. Waste has a good market value as fertilizer and it has already been sold for the next two years.

After collecting, the eggs are carried to the grading room where they are graded as to weight and placed in cartons. These cartons are taken to a small house that is built beside the highway. Here self service is available for Tugwell's customers.

Tugwell said that many fishermen stop by to pick up eggs as they drive to the coast. One customer from Raleigh stops by every Sunday on his way home to get his week's supply of eggs.

On the New York market fresh cage eggs such as Tugwell's will bring five cents a dozen more than regular fresh eggs.

CHICKENS GET EGGS

POLK, Neb. (AP)—A three-year-old youngster here broke over 100 eggs by hitting them against the chicken house wall.

He told Mom: "The chickens hadn't had any breakfast and they wanted some."

Tractors Require Care For Winter

RALEIGH — The cooling system of your tractor needs special attention for operation during the cold winter months, says John Glover, State College Extension agricultural engineer.

Glover says a little attention at the right time may save a big repair bill. Cold weather can cause a split engine block or cracked radiator.

According to Glover, there are a few things a farmer can do to help prevent this costly mistake. First make sure that the radiator is cleaned with a chemical cleaner to get rid of rust, which clogs the narrow water passages in the radiator.

Then clean the radiator fins of all leaves and dirt to let air circulate more freely. This will prevent the radiator from getting too hot. Glover says if you find the hoses are worn or cracked, put on new ones. Before putting on the new hose, it is a good idea to clean the pipe connections and put a layer of nonhardening sealing compound around them.

Be sure the hose clamps are tight. If they are worn, Glover advises new ones in order to save time later.

Glover says, "Take a look at the thermostats to make sure they are in good operating condition." He says a good way to check is to put them in hot water of the same temperature as indicated on the thermostat. They should open quickly and smoothly. Then put under cool water and check for correct closing.

He says it's also a good idea to check the fan belt to be sure it's in place and in good working condition.

Here's what Glover says about the anti-freeze itself: The word "permanent" in a permanent type anti-freeze is somewhat misleading, since this anti-freeze is only intended for use during one season and is not intended for year after year use. He says if you have old anti-freeze that was used last winter, and even more so if the anti-freeze is still in your motor, the entire solution may be acid due to air and exhaust gasses seeping into the cooling system through minor leaks around the head gasket.

This may cause acids that will make the entire solution corrosive. Glover says a good wintering program for a cooling system not only protects the system from freezing each winter but removes and flushes out the rust and scale and prevents any further build-up during winter months. This will help prevent serious trouble next spring when the weather warms up and a heavy load is put on the cooling system.

The old saying, "If your old anti-freeze looks clean and all right, it is all right" is not true. If the rust-inhibiting chemicals are wearing out, it can cause rust, corrosion, and scale to form. They can be deposited inside the engine block and head which can cause expensive breakdown and repairs, states Glover.

Near-Million Acres In N. C. Small Grain

RALEIGH — Wheat, oats, barley and rye are grown on one-eighth of North Carolina's cultivated land annually, says A. D. Stuart, State College agronomy extension specialist. This amounts to nearly one million acres of grain planted in this state.

Stuart says small grains are basic ingredients for both livestock feed and food for people. Production costs of dairy and poultry products is closely associated with the cost of feeds made from small grain mixtures.

Both small grains and lespedeza, hay or seed, can be grown the same year. Small grains when grown in combination with lespedeza produce net incomes comparable to and sometimes in excess of corn, states Stuart. The labor required to produce an acre of small grains is low because small grain production in highly mechanized, requiring less labor than many other crops.

According to Stuart, small grains not only serve as a basic item for feed but also as a means to reduce erosion. This is possible because the well developed vegetative cover reduces the impact of rain on the soil. Also, according to Stuart, a thoroughly matted root system anchors the soil, slowing down water runoff.

Stuart says North Carolina farmers are not producing enough small grain to supply the state's food and feed needs. He points out that such a deficiency should provide a favorable market for growers of these crops.

Profitable production of small grains depends on high yields per acre since the fixed cost of such items as seed, seeding, and harvest remains about the same regardless of yield.

For additional information on small grain production in North Carolina, go by the local county agent's office and pick up a copy of "Soil Fertility and Cultural Practices in Small Grain Production," It's Extension Circular No. 399, prepared by W. H. Rankin, Research Associate Professor in Soil Fertility and A. D. Stuart, Agronomy Extension Specialist at North Carolina State College.

Chou 'Approves' Of U.S. Stand

MADRAS, India (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China today endorsed the position taken by the United States in the U.N. debate on the Egyptian conflict. He described it as "correct," but then said he was "more concerned" about two other questions of American policy in the Middle East.

"Is the United States trying to take over British and French positions in Egypt and does the United States still support the British and French idea of international control of the Suez Canal?" Chou asked.

He added that he supported the policy of the African-Asian nations on Egypt "for an immediate withdrawal of British-French forces, with the United Nations supervising their withdrawal and helping clean up the canal."

The smiling Chinese leader, obviously enjoying his trip through India as part of his seven-nation tour of Asia, expressed his views at his first press conference since he arrived in India Nov. 28.

Chou evaded a direct reply to a question about 10 Americans still in Chinese jails. Asked to comment on Indian Minister V.K. Krishna Menon's remark in New York that he would not be surprised to see the Americans released soon, the Chinese Premier replied:

"Mr. Menon always has optimistic hopes." Then he added, "Mr. Menon is a very good friend of ours in the work for world peace."

Miniature Volcano Devised By Pupils

By ANNETTE HUDSON
Stokes-Pactolus Reporter

Seventh grade students are making a study of Mexico and three students have constructed a miniature volcano to assist in the unit study.

Bruce Bland, Lester McKeel and Van VanDyke make the volcano from common clay which they got from back of the school. They placed a tin can in the center to represent the crater and to hold the ammonium dichromate, a chemical that activates their project.

When the ammonium dichromate is burned it sparks, smokes and produces a green ash material that spills over the side of the volcano and looks like lava pushing out. The little volcano really erupts and looks like a real volcano when the room is darkened.

The volcano was made to represent the fact that Mexico is a "land of volcanoes."

Electricity Will Make Wheels Roll

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union hopes to complete electrification of more than half its railroad routes by 1970 in a campaign to eliminate interruptions due to winter weather conditions.

Losses in freight traffic during winter run as high as 20 to 30 million tons annually, says a Soviet economic review. Most of this can be eliminated through use of electric locomotives "the capacity of which increase rather than drop in low temperatures," the review added.

FHA At Winterville Schedules 2 Events

By SANDRA HUNSUCKER
Winterville School Reporter

Future Homemakers of America will have their Christmas party December 13 and their Mother-Daughter Banquet February 14.

The party decisions were made at the November meeting of the club last Thursday in the home economics cottage. In other portions of the program, prizes were awarded to winners in a quiz on "Facts About FHA" conducted by advisor Miss Alya Ray Taylor and to members who have acquired the most FHA points this year. Lora Ellen Hill, Sue Ellen Hunsucker, Margaret Case and Dorothy Evans took first, second, third and fourth places, respectively.

Nothing can be more exciting than a surprise birthday party, and no one could have been more surprised and excited than Leroy Mills when he was honored by his parents at a surprise party. The occasion was his 16th birthday, and he and his guests enjoyed grilling, singing and games. Refreshments included sandwiches, cheese crackers, candies, nuts and soft drinks.

Cheerleaders are practicing after school almost every afternoon in an effort to brush up on their cheering techniques, learn new cheers and improve old cheers. Members of the cheering squad are Betty Jean Mobley, chief; Doris Dillingham; Sandra Hunsucker; Barbara Evans; and Connie Bowen.

A long waiting period has ended for members of the Junior Class.

The students have received their class rings. Rings this year have ruby sets and some students chose a "starfire" design, some a flat stone and others solid gold backs.

The end of the report period brought its usual number of happy students and some not-so-happy ones. Nine students were named to the Honor Roll after making all "A" grades in academic work and all "F" reports on conduct. Seventeen others were placed on the Principal's List for making at least half "A" grades, nothing less than "B" on the remainder of subjects and at least "S" on conduct reports.

Honor Roll students included Jimmie Runkle and Barbara Manning of the 11th grade; Richard Gorman, Mary Ann Worthington and Joyce Jones of the tenth grade; and William Crawley, Tommy Oglesby, Mack Worthington and Judith Mobley of the ninth grade.

Principal's List students included (12th grade) Frances Ray Gold, Betty Jean Mobley, Doris Crawley, Carolyn Evans and Peggy Craft; (11th grade) Margaret Case, Sandra Hunsucker, Dorothy Evans and Janet Allen; (10th grade) Shirley Churchill, Joyce Cox, Ken Moore, George Jackson and Willie J. McLawhorn; and (ninth grade) Sue Worthington, Brenda Wall and Thomas McLawhorn.

A program of Christmas music will be presented by the glee club and band next Monday at the December meeting of the PTA.

Members of the "Just Us Club" sponsored a Thanksgiving Dance at the Winterville Community Building. Thanksgiving colors of brown and orange were used throughout the building. Approximately 75 people attended the dance.

Planning Cut Support Prices On New Types

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department was reported today to be planning to cut 1957 support prices on some new types of cigarette tobacco said to be worthless by manufacturers.

That word came from a usually well-informed congressional source who said the action could be expected within a week. Manufacturers and others have expressed dissatisfaction — the latest round came earlier this week at a hearing before the House Tobacco Subcommittee — with relatively new "light and slick" grades of flue-cured tobacco.

They protested that the pale and slick grades were practically worthless for cigarette manufacture while at the same time were a big factor in the surplus flue-cured situation which has led to a 20 per cent acreage cut for 1957.

Reporting on testimony developed by the subcommittee, the full House Agriculture Committee yesterday recommended that the department put support prices for some of the new varieties "at zero or an amount so low" that their planting would be drastically reduced.

Criticism of the new flue-cured varieties has come from both domestic and foreign manufacturers. A year ago, German buyers complained about lack of flavor and aroma in new types of American flue-cured.

At that time J. B. Huston, president of Tobacco Associates, which promotes flue-cured export trade, suggested lower support prices for pale and slick grades of cigarette tobacco.

This week, E. A. Darr, president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., told the House subcommittee that the government should destroy 200 million pounds of the controversial flue-cured grades it holds under the price support program. Darr said this would ease the market situation for better grades of leaf.

May Take A Year To Normalize Oil

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A government oil official said today it may take a full year to restore normal oil transportation channels disrupted because of the Suez Canal crisis.

H. A. Stewart, director of the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas, told the Interstate Oil Compact Commission that although the Suez Canal may be cleared in six months, it may take a year to restore damaged pipelines to normal capacity.

Meantime, the United States is stepping up its domestic production both to meet its own needs and to help relieve a serious shortage in Europe.

"It would appear then," Stewart said in prepared remarks, "that we are looking at a foreign petroleum shortage which might be reduced greatly by the middle of next year and perhaps entirely corrected a year from now."

"Meanwhile, however, stocks of crude oil and products both here and abroad will be seriously depleted.

"Consequently, abnormal efforts must be made to rebuild these to a reasonable level and at the same time make maximum contributions to meet demands at home and abroad."

Stewart told the state oil officials the federal government does not plan to suggest to any state how it should handle its controls of production.

There are an estimated 1,400,000 gasolene pumps in United States service stations.

Ayden Chorus Plan
Christmas Concert

By JEANNETTE WORTHINGTON
Ayden High School Reporter

Members of the high school chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Rosa J. Little, are making final preparations for their annual Christmas Concert to be given on December 12, at 8 o'clock, in the high school auditorium.

ANNETTE

Solos, duets, recitations, and quartets will add variety to the concert. Santa Claus and Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer, will appear on the program. Candie lights, lovely evening gowns, and the traditional Christmas decorations, including the Christmas tree, will help to make this one of the outstanding performances of the school year. Everyone is invited.

The Ayden-Winterville Band, under the direction of Mr. Boyd Elliott, are practicing for the Christmas Band Concert to be given in the Winterville High School Auditorium on December 10, at 8 o'clock.

The following members of the Ayden Chapter of the National Forensic League attended a Student Congress in Greenville on Friday of last week: Brownie Harrington, Carl Nobles, Carol Lynn Caviear, Pattie McCay, Annette Dail, Wilbur Ormond, Bryan Little and Buddy Ross.

On Tuesday, December 4, Brownie Harrington, Jessie McLawhorn, Betty Lou Tripp, and Jeannette Worthington, were given the opportunity to find out just how well qualified they were to make homemaking a career.

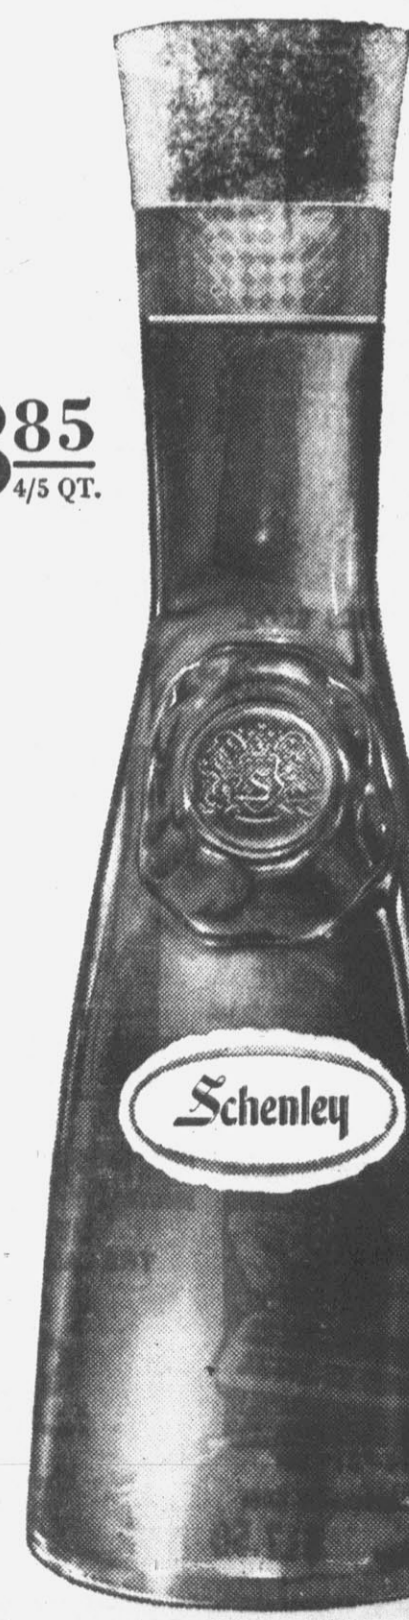

Under the direction of Mrs. Jo Ress, home economics teacher, they took the Homemaking of Tomorrow test along with about 300,000 other senior girls across the country. This contest sponsored by a national firm, offers a total of $108,000 in scholarships.

Melvin and Milton Worthington, students at Columbia Bible College in South Carolina, visited their parents at Peaceful Acres over the weekend.

Real Rare Steak Is Hard To Get

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — How does a professional muscle man keep in condition? Exercise and raw meat, says Mark A. Evans, a husky judo instructor. Well —

Sometimes Evans has trouble with waiters in restaurants. He says they can't believe he only wants a steak on the grill 5 to 10 seconds. Recently, weary of argument, he says he told a waiter: "Tell you what. Just bring the steak to the table. I've got a cigarette lighter and I'll do my own cooking."

Parking Space Treaty Of Peace

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A peaceful settlement has been reached between police and Charles W. Newton who wanted to reserve a parking space for himself.

Newton painted his own "no parking" sign in front of his beach area house. But police, finding Newton's car parked there, promptly ticketed it.

Police back tracked on the parking ticket but pointed out Newton painted the cur illegally. "I'll erase it," Newton said, "squaring things with the cops."

Grimesland School Report Cards Out

By IRENE CAYTON
Grimesland School Reporter

Report cards went home last week and 38 students in GHS made either Honor Roll or Principal's List.

Honor Roll students are: (third grade) Glenda Boyd, Johnnie Ennis, Kenneth Grimes, Glenda R. Hardee, Karl Hardee, Chris Hodges, Jimmie Little, Elaine Minton, Nancy Sauls, Ronald Taylor, Howard Hardee and Robert Mills; (fourth grade) Larry Gene Eiks, Sandra Payne, Carolyn Sumrell, DeLores Eiks, Billy Hardee and Sammy Hodges; (fifth grade) Lou Anna Hadcock, Kenneth Paramore, Linda Morgan, Marilyn Heath and Neida Hudson; (seventh grade) Mary Jo Mills, Laura Helen McDonald and Sandra Jackson; and (eighth grade) James B. Heath.

Principal's List students are: (third grade) Nancy Faye Hardee and Tim Mills; (fourth grade) Linda Williams and Charles Clarke; (ninth grade) Melissa Whichard; (tenth grade) Myrtle Baker and Sue Morgan; (eleventh grade) Faye Morgan, Sophia Clark, Shirley Singleton and Jerry Mills; and (twelfth grade) Joyce Whichard and Barbara Mills.

No one in high school made the Honor Roll.

Class reports have finally arrived, much to the relief of anxious members of the Junior Class.

Our Christmas program is rapidly developing under leadership of sponsors Mrs. Bettie Forrest and Miss Oma Bliss Lewis. The program this year will be in silhouette form with a narrator explaining each act. The chorus will be composed of students from the eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades.

Mrs. Beatrice Little, our sixth grade advisor, has been absent from school for the past several days due to illness. Her students are anxious to have her return.

Five new practice teachers have reported to GHS for work during the winter quarter. Peggy Brooks and Raye Winstead will work in the English Department, Shirley Gun and Faye Newton will work in the Commercial Department, and Richard Uzzele is in the Math Department.

Peggy Taylor, a senior, and Jean Davenport, a junior, celebrated their birthdays at separate parties November 21. Large groups of students attended both of the parties.

Mr. A. E. Saleed of the Science Department believes that science students will accomplish a great deal more in their work with the use of a new piece of equipment, a bioscope. With the instrument, students can look at something through the microscope and then have it focused on a screen.

Southwest's Angry Scars Of Long Drought Will Be Seen By President

By ROBERT E. FORD
DALLAS (AP) — President Eisenhower plans to visit the Southwest in January and he'll see farm-ranch drought scars no president ever witnessed.

Not in 700 years, say scientists, has it been so dry in some places. He also may, when he stops to talk to farm leaders, find bitterness aimed at the government.

Some farm experts claim federal drought relief has been too little and too late. And these experts say President Eisenhower is coming too late—he should have come in the summer and spring to see how brown the fields were then when they should have been green.

L. C. Carpenter, Missouri state commissioner of agriculture, is one of the bitter ones. He said the President will not learn much flying over Missouri.

"Of course, he might see a green golf course and be interested in that," said Carpenter.

Carpenter is angry because requests for federal aid for Missouri have not brought the results he thinks are needed.

A survey of drought states by The Associated Press today brought other such reports as these:

Colorado: Situation worse in some areas than the famous Dust Bowl days of the 1930s. "The drought has spread like cancer," a State Agriculture Department official says.

Utah: Worst drought in 20 years in southern half; some ranges described by State Agriculture Department officials as being "bare as a hardwood floor."

Arizona: University of Arizona scientists, inspecting tree rings, find it one of the worst droughts in 700 years; what grass can be found is bleached white.

Kansas: Many fields too dry to sow to wheat, and in many other fields seed did not sprout.

New Mexico: Only a light sprinkling of snow on the mountains, and reservoirs at all-time low; plains brown and bare.

Oklahoma: High winds sapping surface moisture and land so dry it faces possible wind erosion—dust storms. Many trees dying.

Texas: Cold, dry winds sapping what little moisture fell in early fall; all Texas' 254 counties except five have been designated drought disaster areas by the federal government.

The cost of the drought has been staggering. Take these examples:

Rans Freeland, secretary of the Kansas Board of Agriculture, reports this year's corn crop is 33,432,000 bushels, compared with a year average of 61,628,000. The wheat crop is 144,600,000 bushels compared with a 10-year average of 202,969,000. The grain sorghum harvest dropped from a 10-year average of 30,323,000 bushels to 21,968,000.

The Colorado Agriculture Department says the drought is the principal reason for a decline in the state's farm income from 603 million dollars in 1952 to 375 million this year.

Texas Agriculture Secretary John White estimates a loss to the state's farmers by drought at 2 1/2 billion in the last five years—750 million on this year alone.

In most states there are some local areas which have had a fortunate amount of rainfall.

But the experts say it will take lengthy rains, possibly for years to restore subsoil moisture to much of the land.

What is the government doing to help?

It has extended credit, established the soil bank, provided income tax relief, subsidized cattle feed purchases and a wad railroad—lower freight rates on feed.

The Export-Import Bank also has sought to help with a five-million-dollar loan to Mexico to purchase distressed cattle in the drought area, but this program has had no effect yet.

In addition, President Eisenhower signed into law last August a bill which will allow the government to contribute up to 80 per cent of the cost for farmers setting up new land practices and crop systems. It was such land practices which whipped the Dust Bowl.

What do farmers want?

In various meetings with Agriculture Department officials they have indicated they want more long-term credit, greater feed and hay subsidies with a simplified system of operations, and a possible subsidy on feed freight costs.

But in Missouri, Carpenter says if federal drought aid to that state is delayed until January, time of the President's planned visit, it will be too late to help. He said most farmers in southwest Missouri are out of feed now and buying grain. They'll have to buy hay and roughage by Jan. 1.

Will Give Their Reports On N.C. Restoration

RALEIGH (AP) — Reports of restoration projects will be given during today's meeting of the North Carolina Society for the Preservation of Antiquities.

Also holding sessions was the Roanoke Island Historical Assn., which produces the "Lost Colony" pageant at Manteo.

The meeting of the organizations continued the North Carolina annual culture week in which eight of the state's leading cultural societies are meeting.

Yesterday, Robert Lee Humber, president of the State Art Society, announced that during the past year the State Museum of Art received gifts valued at $186,303.

The society announced that its art purchase award winners are: George Bireline, N.C. State College School of Design faculty member, for his "Painting No. 10"; Edith London of the Duke University Art Department for "Provincetown Memories"; and Grove Robinson of Mars Hill for "Regional Landscape No. 5."

British railways employ a staff of 601,664 people.

Collective Leadership For Democratic Party

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaderless Democratic party is going to try a kind of collective leadership. The idea sounds reasonable. The question is: Will it work?

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler has invited 20 prominent party members — including Adlai Stevenson and former President Truman—to be advisers to the national committee's 11-man executive committee.

This is the intent: for the advisers to work with the committee in coordinating and advancing party programs and principles based on the 1956 Democratic platform—in short, a program for Democrats to put through Congress.

ward more active challenge to Eisenhower.

Johnson is also in disagreement with six Northern Democratic senators who have said they will move on Congress' opening day, Jan. 3, for a change in Senate rules to make it easier to stop filibusters.

Johnson's fellow Southerners — so long as the present rule on debate exists—can smash with a filibuster or the threat of one any attempt by Northern Democrats or Republicans to put through civil rights legislation.

Traffic Safety Council Votes Legislative Aims

RALEIGH (AP) — The governor's Traffic Safety Council unanimously voted yesterday to ask the 1957 General Assembly to pass:

A motor vehicle inspection program, a law to facilitate the use of chemical blood tests for drunk drivers, and an expanded program of driver training in public schools.

In a meeting with the council yesterday, Gov. Hodges stated "I certainly hope" the legislature will enact the inspection law and the chemical blood test legislation.

He told the council: "The close relationship between law violation and automobile accidents emphasizes the importance of an effective enforcement program."

The governor noted that Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt has requested funds for 100 additional state highway patrolmen. Hodges said he and the Advisory Budget Commission were considering the request.

Big Loser

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Monroe Mitchell, 39-year-old laborer, appealed a 60-day sentence imposed by a judge on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. A jury in the Court of Criminal Correction heard the case on appeal and sentenced Mitchell to a year in the city workhouse.

The mute swan really can make sounds. It hisses to call its young.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Steels increased their gains as the stock market rose in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Pivotal steels went ahead by around 3 points while key issues elsewhere in the list were up fractions to a point or so.

There were scattered losses, notably among oils where profit-taking held sway after their recent rise.

Brokers said the advance was a continuation of the technical recovery which began last week and that it was aided by a feeling that the Middle East and Hungarian situations would not bring about a major world emergency. At the same time, optimistic forecasts of leading business officials bolstered confidence.

The market was slightly higher from the start. The steels went far beyond their small initial gains and some were traded heavily.

Youngstown and Bethlehem Steel were up around 3 points apiece in active turnover while Lukens once again ended its rise, this time by well over 2.

U. S. Steel, wavered slightly to the plus and minus side. Republic Steel was up a fraction.

Royal Dutch was down around a point and Gulf Oil lost a fraction while Texas Co. eased slightly. Standard Oil (New Jersey) and Sinclair were firm.

Gains of a point or so were posted by stocks in various groups. Among them were Goodrich, United Aircraft, Boeing, Du Pont, Kennecott and Westinghouse.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon advanced 79 cents to $179.30 with the industrials up $1.20, the rails up 70 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

SHORT CIRCUIT — Firemen were called to the Jane's Shop around 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when an electric cord shorted. No damage resulted.

Near Panic By Troop Departure

PORT SAID, Egypt — Another batch of British and French forces left Port Said today. The growing pace of the troop withdrawals caused near panic among the city's European communities.

Task force headquarters said 1,853 set sail aboard the troopship Diwara for England. More than 2,000 left yesterday. Another troopship is being loaded for departure within the next day or two, and three more troopships are expected in port shortly.

The Italian and Greek consuls here sent urgent appeals to their governments for evacuation ship to take away jittery civilian families before the bulk of the British-French military force departs.

The sight of military truck convoys packed with troops and equipment streaming to the harbor was unnerving for European civilians who have been harassed by threats from Egyptians.

Yesterday Egyptians burned down a Woolworth store and ransacked a drugstore in defiance of a British-French move to force reopening of the city's shops and restore normal business activity.

Lt. Gen. Hugh Stockwell, commander of the British-French task force, has said he was prepared to assure the evacuation of several thousand European civilians if necessary.

Minstrel In Its Finale Tonight

A less-than-capacity audience saw the first of two regular performances of the 15th annual Kiwanis Minstrel last night in Austin Auditorium.

Using a "Show Boat" theme, the minstrel features a cast of more than 150 performers in new acts. The minstrel is produced by Ed Bloom with assistance from Mrs. Marie Smith Wallace.

The final performance of the minstrel is scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock in Austin Auditorium. Tickets are available from members of the Kiwanis Club and at the door.

IMPROVE INTERSECTION—State Highway Department work crews have recently improved the intersection of Evans St. Ext. and the U. S. 264 bypass. Traffic islands have been built and stop signs placed in the center of the road on Evans St. Ext. The intersection has been the scene of several serious traffic accidents. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Forgery Conviction In Superior Court

Conviction on a forgery charge in Superior Court yesterday has resulted in a sentence of 18 to 24 months for a 32-year-old white man.

John Wesley Hammon drew the sentence after entering a plea of guilty before Judge George M. Fountain. Judge Fountain is presiding over the special one-week criminal term of court which will end tomorrow.

Santa At Park

Santa Claus is coming to Elm St. Park. Recreation Director Gordon Goodman announced today that Santa will be at the park each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 4 o'clock until 5:30. St. Nick will make his first visit next Monday, Goodman said.

For the kids who can't make it during those hours, Santa will be at the park at least one night, according to the recreation director. In addition a mail box is to be set up at the park to receive letters to Santa.

Lights have been turned on the Christmas lane at the park. Scenes on the lane have been changed from those of last year, Goodman said.

Entrance Tests For 1967-58 Terms Readied

East Carolina College has announced the dates and places where entrance tests will be administered to students planning to enroll at the college for the 1957-1958 term. Results of the examinations will be used in helping to clear the admission of students to the college.

All those who plan to enroll as freshmen at East Carolina during the 1957-1958 term must take the tests, President John D. Messick of the college stated here today. Any high school senior who is already planning to enter East Carolina or who may decide later to attend the college should take the examinations as early as possible, he stated, because of limitations of dormitory and classroom facilities.

Students who wish to take the entrance tests should apply to Dr. Orval L. Phillips, Registrar, East Carolina College, for permission to do so. Application should be made at least ten days before the date scheduled for the examinations. Registration cards authorizing the student to take the tests may be obtained either from the principal of the school where the examinations will be given or from the office of the college registrar.

The tests include a psychological test; an English test, including a test in reading comprehension; and an algebra test. Dr. Hazel Taylor of the department of psychology, director of testing at East Carolina, and other members of the college faculty will be in charge of the program in the various centers where tests will be administered.

Testing will cover four and a half hours, divided into two periods extending from 9:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. The dates and places where students wishing to enter East Carolina may take the tests are as follows:

January 19—Austin auditorium, East Carolina College; January 26—Plymouth High School; February 2—Roanoke Rapids High School and Elizabeth City High School; February 16—Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh, and Senior High School, Greensboro; February 23—Jacksonville High School and Elizabethtown High School.

Several additional centers where the tests will be given during January and February, both in North Carolina and Virginia, will be announced later this month.

Christopher Columbus discovered Nicaragua in 1502 on his fourth voyage to the New World.

Firemen Stage Annual Supper — Greenville's paid and volunteer firemen held their annual Christmas supper last night. Firemen and their wives attended the supper.

Ralph Heidenreich introduced the entertainment at the supper. Dan Sutton rendered several piano selections and the Belfry Quartet sang several numbers.

The Rev. Robert Crawford, pastor of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church, spoke briefly to the group. City officials were guests.

Colored News — The Senior Choir of York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church will meet for rehearsal tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. N. W. Cherry, 1213 S. Greene Street.

The Bachelorettes Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Aiena Burby.

News items for the Colored News column on Saturday should be in the Daily Reflector office Friday.
