Rocket Tested In First Phase Of Satellite Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—Naval and civilian scientists blasted a Viking rocket... The rocket which carries the actual earth satellite into space will be a three-stage affair...

No Success In Neuse Search For Pitt Pair

Searchers today all but abandoned hopes of finding two Pitt County fishermen missing since Thursday evening in a Craven County fishing mishap... Dragging operations continued this morning in an effort to recover the bodies of Bonnie Lee Edwards and Coley Stanley...

Guerrillas Waging War On Russians

BUDAPEST (AP)—Definite word was brought today that bands of rebel guerrillas are waging hit-and-run warfare on Russian troops from mountain hideouts in southern Hungary... There have been numerous reports of continued fighting around the mining center of Pecs...

Condemned By Jury Of Fathers In Baby's Death

MINNEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A jury of 12 fathers last night condemned Angelo LaMarca to death in the electric chair for the kidnap-murder of 32-day-old Peter Weinberger... The jury found the swarthy auto mechanic guilty of kidnapping and first degree murder...

Says Sparks Set Off Fire, Blast

NEW YORK (AP)—Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh Jr. said Brooklyn's disastrous pier explosion was caused by acetylene torch sparks starting a fire which touched off 37,000 pounds of detonating fuses... Cavanaugh said last night sparks from the torches of ship riggers, making repairs on the roof of the big pier, fired burlap-wrapped foam rubber stored on the pier...

Big Parade Hails Santa In Grifton

GRIFTON—Santa Claus came to Grifton yesterday afternoon, in the biggest parade the town has ever seen... Santa rode in on one of the town's fire trucks, throwing out candy and bubble gum to children in a crowd estimated at 1,000... A first prize of $25 was awarded to the Christian Youth Fellowship for its float depicting the Nativity...

For The Record, Surplus Noted

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the record, the United States ended the fiscal year last June 30 with a surplus of $1,625,553,403.69... The Treasury Department announced the final figure yesterday, after taking into account belated reports of receipts and expenditures... The total was nearly 130 million dollars below that estimated last July, when the figure was put at $1,754,000,000...

Young Father Of Six Is Chosen Princeton Prexy

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—A quick-minded 37-year-old professor here is to be the new president of Princeton University... Harold W. Dodds, who has retired next June at age 67... The surprise choice of the assistant classics professor from Princeton's own ranks came after a year and a half of canvassing possible presidents among the nation's outstanding educators...

Four Arrests On Liquor Charges

Four Negro men were arrested by ABC officers this morning and charged with transportation and possession of non-tax-paid liquor... The four were identified by ABC officer J. M. Ward as Jesse James Stokes, Arthur Lee Battle, Greenville Rt. 5, and Larry Armwood, Greenville Rt. 5... They were released under bond to be tried in county court.

Fellow-Lawyer Praises Gilliland At Disbarment Hearings

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP)—A fellow lawyer today described James D. Gilliland as "honest, dependable, diligent"... Julius Banzet, judge of the Warren County Recorder's Court, testified as a hearing on disbarment proceedings against Gilliland entered its second day... Gilliland is accused of fraudulent conduct in handling two divorce cases, and of unethical conduct in a receivership matter...

Receives Annual Exchange Club Honor

'Golden Deeds' Award Is Accorded To Civic Worker

Mrs. J. T. Little, local civic worker, last night received the Exchange Club's third annual Book of Golden Deeds award... The award was presented by Ed Parkinson who described Mrs. Little as a person with whom the family comes first and when the members of the family are taken care of, the rest of her time is given to serving others in the community and the church... Mrs. Little is intensely interested in the work of the Red Cross and was awarded a Captain's pin during World War II...

Arms Smuggling By Egypt Reported

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP)—The British-French command said today it had found thousands of tons of rockets and ammunition being smuggled into Port Said... A British-French patrol found the ammunition hidden in fishing baskets being brought ashore by Egyptians in the western sector of the Port Said area... The boat reached the fringe of Lake Manzala before being intercepted. A spokesman said there were some arrests. He gave no other details...

That Explosion Was Dynamite In Land-Clearing

Greenville heard it, Washington heard it... The explosion, that is, the thing rattled windows in Greenville and brought a swarm of calls to Police and Fire Departments and to the Reflector... By night fall rumors had spread that two jets had collided and that other disasters had taken place... Police, however, attributed the big noise to stump clearing operations in which dynamite was used near Grimesland... Local police received their first call at 1 p.m. At 1:10 Washington police reported complaints of an explosion in that city. At 1:13 Greenville was asked to check in its east side of town... Finally at 1:15 Washington reported that the explosion came from the Herbert Mills farm near Grimesland where workmen were clearing tobacco beds...

CHAPTER 32
At six Perry set off toward the Shepley Arms. Casson followed and joined him in their corner of the saloon bar. The little man looked seedy. He was carelessly shaved. He had drunk half a double whisky.

ly fine as those which had gone before, he had a raincoat over his arm. Casson noted this and grinned wickedly to himself. He hoped and believed that Perry would evade his two followers.

CHAPTER 32
Perry made no comment. Suddenly he finished his drink, muttered good-night, and went.
Casson was at his window early next morning. There were Struts policemen in plain clothes, both reading newspapers, one at each end of the street. As they had been instructed, they made no attempt at concealment.
Perry appeared with his black shopping bag. Slowly, one of the policemen folded up his paper and followed. Peering obliquely up the street Casson saw the second constable give Perry a hard stare as the little man passed him. He too folded up his newspaper and followed.
Perry returned an hour later, walking fast, still followed. The two policemen settled down once more to their papers. They took it in turns to have lunch.
The same thing happened next day, with two different policemen. When Casson entered the Shepley Arms that evening, he saw Perry in his habitual corner, a half-pint before him on the table, his head in his hands, staring down at the floor. His head jerked up as Casson put down his own tankard.
"I say," Casson exclaimed, "you do look wretched. You ought to see a doctor. You'll be having a nervous breakdown next."

Guest Of Honor Dropped Dead
HOBOKEN, N. J. (AP)—The guest of honor at a testimonial dinner dropped dead last night as friends were giving him his finest hour.
Theodore Whelson, 65, of Teaneck had just taken his seat after acknowledging gifts from his employer and fellow employees when he collapsed and died from a cause not yet determined.
He was retiring after 42 years with the Alco Graprove Co. of Hoboken, which he served last as superintendent of research.

Fair Directors Meet Monday
The Pitt County Agricultural Fair directors will meet at Respass-James Barbecue House next Monday night at 7 o'clock.
The report of the year's operation will be considered and plans outlined for next year's fair.

WHEN I GROW UP...
Magical words these, "when I grow up"—full of promise, replete with confidence. What youngster hasn't uttered them?
This lad is no different. He looks into the future that will be his when he grows up, and the world is his oyster, intact with pearls.
This month he wants to be a fier. Next month he'll want to be an engineer, spanning bridges across great rivers and wide chasms. The month after that he'll see himself as a surgeon, scalpel poised between skilled fingers. And the month after that—who knows?
For youth is ever changing, ever restless. That's why it is so important that youth's naturally impulsive nature be held fast by an anchor that is good, firm and permanent. They need a faith that will sustain them whether they become doctors, fliers, or engineers. The Church provides this faith, this anchor.
THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pitt Medical Auxiliary Meets

The Pitt County Medical Auxiliary held its December meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Davis L. Moore. Twenty-one members were present. Mrs. John Wooten, Mrs. Earl Trevathan and Mrs. John Watters served as co-hostesses. The auxiliary donated $5.00 to the Greenville Nurses Club to defray expenses for their picture in the high school annual. Also, a one year subscription to the magazine Today's Health is being sent to the local high schools. Those attending the Second District Medical Auxiliary meeting last week in Morehead City were Mrs. A. M. Mumford, Mrs. M. P. Hoot, Mrs. F. P. Brooks and Mrs. Karl B. Pace. Mrs. Howard Gradis was elected president for the Second District for the coming year. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. A. M. Mumford and Mrs. S. R. Bartlett read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. R. D. Minges, after which the committee chairmen gave their reports. Mrs. Mumford then presented the by-laws which were drawn up by the executive committee and the auxiliary members discussed and adopted them. The business session concluded and a coffee hour followed. Mrs. W. I. Wooten assisted in the pouring and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

30 Years Ago Today

December 8, 1926 The Pitt County Medical Society held its regular monthly meeting Thursday night, when they observed "Ladies Night." The Rotary Club, where the meeting was held, was beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. An elegant turkey dinner was served. Dr. J. C. Greene, in his manner, gave the address of welcome to the ladies and Mrs. W. I. Wooten very graciously responded. After supper, all present engaged in playing bingo, for which toys were given as prizes and much merriment ensued.

Social Notes

Capt and Mrs. P. A. Dantel and daughters Sandra and Pamela arrived Thursday night from England to spend thirty days with Mrs. Daniel's mother, Mrs. Bessie Jones, at 702 W. Fifth St. Upon their return the Daniels will be stationed on Long Island, N. Y. City policeman Marvin Buck is a patient at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Judge and Mrs. William J. Bundy and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Rawlins of Tarboro left today for Fayetteville to attend the Red Cross of Constantine meeting. While there they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ramsey.

Bizet Suites On Program

Two suites by Bizet, including many of tunes that have made his "Carmen" one of the world's most popular operas, will be played tomorrow (Sunday) by the East Carolina Orchestra. The ensemble of fifty selected musicians from the campus and from various localities in Eastern North Carolina will appear in concert at 3:30 p.m. in the McGinnis auditorium. The program will be made up of selections chosen for their musical excellence and their appeal to audiences, according to Dr. Kenneth N. Cuthbert, director of the college department of music and conductor of the orchestra. The Carmen Suite No. 1 will be performed by the orchestra under the direction of Donald H. Hayes, guest conductor. Dr. Cuthbert will conduct the Carmen Suite No. 2. Included also on the program will be the tuneful Rosenkavalier Waltzes of Richard Strauss, a program of Christmas carols, and opera and oratorio arias by June Crews of Creedmoor, soprano, who is a senior at the college. The concert will be the annual performance of the orchestra presented during the first of the school year. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Mills Is Shower Honoree

Miss Jean Mills, bride-elect, was honored at a miscellaneous shower last evening by Mrs. Smith Worthington, 700 Cotanche Street. Guests were greeted by the hostess and honoree who was wearing a white mum corsage. Following games, refreshments were served in the den. Miss Margaret Anne Mellon poured punch while guests served themselves nuts, mints and chicken salad sandwiches from the appointed table covered with a pink linen cloth. Pyracantha berries and greenery were used throughout the house in decorations. Some fifteen guests attended, showering the bride-to-be with gifts of china, silver, crystal and other household items. Mrs. Worthington presented the honoree a gift of silver. Santa's Helper Due Here Sunday Santa's helper, "The Candy Man," will be at the Moose Lodge for the regular Sunday afternoon buffet Sunday. The event is held from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Santa's helper will supply, free of charge, all the cotton candy the children can eat, according to the announcement from the lodge. Also scheduled for the Sunday afternoon event is a cartoon film. Moose members, their families and guests are invited.

February Wedding Planned

MISS LUCIA CLAIRE HUTCHINSON is the daughter of Mrs. G. Reid Fuller Jr. of New Bern and Badgely H. Hutchinson of Lumberton. Her engagement to Elbert Sidney Peel Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peele of Williamston, is announced by her mother. The wedding is planned for February.

The Greenville Garden Club Busies Itself For Yule Show

Greenville Garden Club members are busying themselves for the opening of their Christmas show on Saturday of next week, according to the show chairmen. Doors of the Woman's Club will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Dec. 15 and on Dec. 16 from 2 to 6 p.m. All sales will be made on Saturday. This year a special feature of the show will be a shop where gifts and sweets may be purchased. Mrs. K. W. Cobb and Mrs. Sam Mitchell are serving as co-chairmen of the shop. The sweet shop will have cookies, candies and other tempting sweets for sale, according to its chairmen, Mrs. John Carrington and Mrs. J. B. Smith. Also featured will be Christmas arrangements, wreaths, swags and novelties of all kinds. An old fashioned Christmas theme with green, red and a touch of gold as the color motif will be used throughout as background. In the Rachel Maxwell Moore Auditorium, decorations of all kinds will be displayed with tables set up for different occasions. The table arrangements are being planned by Mrs. Hicks Corey.

Many beautiful and interesting wreaths are being worked out by Mrs. George Staples, according to the show chairmen. Mrs. R. V. Keel has charge of arrangements. The Junior Woman's Club with Mrs. R. D. Harrington Jr. as chairman is in charge of the package tables. The stairway will be decorated by Mrs. P. K. Andresen, Mrs. Hershel Williams and Mrs. John Shannhouse. The mantel will be decorated by Mrs. J. B. White, Mrs. J. B. Smith and Mrs. P. E. Wells. Mrs. Marie Clark, Mrs. Martin Swartz and Mrs. Howard Fuller will decorate the club exterior. Persons having greens to decorate for the show are requested to call Mrs. Vance Perkins, Mrs. Tige Gardner or Mrs. Lynwood Worthington, chairmen for the show. Masonic Notice There will be a short assembly of Hiram Council No. 18 Monday, Dec. 10, immediately following the meeting of the Chapter and Commandery. The purpose is election of officers for 1957. All Companions are urged to attend. W. Herman Nobles, Ill. Master Edward D. Austin, Recorder

HD Club Has Christmas Meeting

A profusion of Christmas decorations greeted members of the Red Banks Home Demonstration Club when they arrived at the club house for their December meeting. On the mantel were Christmas greens, lighted candles and a Santa Claus. Several Christmas arrangements were on display. One was a large red candle in a special holder with the Bible opened to the Christmas story marked by a red satin book mark. A book of white styrofoam with "Peace On Earth, Good Will To Men," in gold letters, rested on a white base with angels and gold leaves, made by Mrs. L. S. Hardee. A basket made from last year's Christmas cards held red berries from the woods. The large table arrangement was of pine and leaves in white with sprays of red Christmas balls and red candles. Soft Christmas music came from the record player as the thirty ladies present helped themselves to roast turkey with all the trimmings. Place cards were small walking canes in red and silver with matching ribbon and Christmas bells. The president, Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr., welcomed the guests and Mrs. Ruel Tyson gave the invocation. Following dinner each was asked to guess his secret pal and gifts were exchanged. With the gifts on the table in front of each one Mrs. R. B. Starling read the Christmas story, "Is Christmas Worth It?" Mrs. Starling also led in a game of Christmas shopping. Among the guests present were Mrs. Lillie Little, Miss Margaret Stevens, Mrs. Ruel Tyson and Mrs. Rosa Williams, all of Greenville. After goodbyes were said a few members held a short business session. Mrs. S. B. Tucker had charge of the decorations. Bridge Winners Named By Club At the regular meeting of the Faculty Duplicate Club Friday night, winners at North-South were Mrs. Agnes Barrett and Fitzhugh Dade with Miss Mary H. Greene and Dr. James H. Stewart second. In the East-West competition, Dr. and Mrs. Elmer Browning were high and second place went to Miss Lena C. Ellis and Miss Beatrice Chaney.

Fashions Modeled Yesterday By Junior Woman's Club Revive Memories Of Seniors

Junior Woman's Club members took their seniors on a nostalgic trip into the past yesterday with a fashion show featuring some gowns dating back to over a hundred years. The music played by Mrs. Robert Gilbert, the junior clubbers tripped out of old picture albums modeling high fashions of by-gone days. Mrs. James Davenport, Jr. was narrator for the show. In the photos above, left to right, are pictured first Mrs. Mac Stocks wearing a wedding suit of 1903. The outfit was worn at an 8 o'clock morning wedding. Afterwards the bridal party dashed madly off to catch a train for their New York wedding trip. The gown is grey and features a taffeta petticoat and accordin pleats. In the second photo little Miss Eva Harrington, wears a torso dress, examines the high topped shoes of Mrs. C. T. Fleming, Jr. The shoes feature spool heels. The third photo shows flappers Mrs. Ollie Bissett, Mrs. Gordon Goodman and Mrs. Quentin Avery, left to right. She is carrying a German prayer book and ostrich plumes used between 1850-1860. The fashion show yesterday was presented to the Greenville Woman's Club at their regular meeting at the club house. (Reflector Staff Photos).

'Dereliction' Alone Not To Blame

The Coast Guard's acceptance of at least a portion of the responsibility for the sea tragedy which cost the life of one North Carolinian and left another adrift on the Atlantic for 12 days suggests there is room for improvement of Coast Guard vigilance along the North Carolina Coast.

By its finding of "certain dereliction of duty" of the officer of the day at Oak Island Lifesaving Station on the day the drifting boat was reported, we assume the Coast Guard means reports of the drifting boat were not properly followed up.

Stations similar to the Oak Island station up and down the long Carolina coast probably get numerous reports of small craft in distress. We seriously doubt the Coast Guard sends out one of its boats on a search each time such a report is received. It is quite plain, however, that some better system should be devised for following up such reports. If the system now in effect is adequate so far as organization is concerned, perhaps there is need for greater diligence for following the prescribed plan when such reports are received.

So far as small pleasure craft are concerned, perhaps the Coast Guard could put to effective use helicopters that could be used either for rescue work or for patrol work in areas assigned to each of the stations scattered along the outer banks. An adequate patrol probably would have prevented the small boat of the two Laurinburg men drifting to sea on October 27. Such organized patrols could in the future save many lives along the Carolina coast where pleasure boating is bringing inexperienced boatmen by the thousands into potentially dangerous waters.

If the Coast Guard is to discharge its greater responsibilities cause by the sharp increase in small pleasure boats, it must be equipped to do the job. In recent years power boats capable of rescue work have replaced the oar-powered sea skiffs which were the main rescue unit of lifesaving stations for decades. Perhaps the time has now arrived when these stations' rescue equipment should be supplemented by helicopters.

It would be well for the House Committee investigating greater safety measures for small pleasure boats to consider more adequate patrol of coastal and inland waters.

Premature Shouts Of Glee Dampened

By LYNN NISBET
SALES TAX — The tax study commission has recommended repeal in its entirety of the present sales and use tax statutes, together with all related rules, regulations, interpretations and administrative practices. Before engaging in gleeful shouting over this repealer, the taxpayers are brought up short with the further recommendation that a new combination sales and use tax section be written that will add a million and a quarter dollars to the retail sales tax bill paid by North Carolinians.

Permanent repeal of the 1-20th of one percent tax on wholesale deals and specific exemption of certain optical goods from the tax reduces the net gain in revenue to an estimate $347,000. Very little of the proposed increases will fall directly upon the individual consumer. The increases will fall heaviest upon processors and service companies through change of the tax base from "an article of commerce" to "tangible personal property."

The commission in its report notes that when the sales tax was first enacted in 1933 there was no precedent or experience record in any state to serve as a guide. In his oral explanation of the new bill Chairman Brandon Hodges said that then the State was faced with the problem of survival. Now the problem is one of equitable distribution of the tax load for balanced development.

So it is that the $910,000 loss in revenue from repeal of the wholesale sales tax is largely compensated by levy of the gross receipts tax on wholesalers. The addition of $150,000 to the sales tax liability of laundries and dry cleaners is compensated by relieving them of all local privilege license taxes.

PRINTING — Changing the basic definition from "an article of commerce" to "tangible personal property" will result in making all printed material liable for the sales tax. Presently part of this type of merchandise is exempt by administrative policy. The commission reasoned that since most printed material was for advertising and part of it was taxable, there was sound basis for taxing it all. That will yield about half a million dollars, biggest item in the increased brackets. Similar reasoning applied to photographs, developed films and blue prints add a total of $225,000 revenue.

Laundries and dry cleaners are processors and not manufacturers, says the new act. Therefore sales of machinery and supplies to them should pay the sales tax. Same goes for paints sold to service stations and auto repair shops, advertising material bought by bottlers, paper used in printing plants operated by businesses for their own use, and sales of ready mixed asphalt. If restaurants must collect the sales tax on meals served, so should boarding houses, says the new law. Sales of supplies to commercial fishermen and to freezer lockers now exempt by administrative policy, should be taxed because these activities cannot properly be classed as manufacturing.

On the other hand, the commission held that since eye glasses ground to prescription are nontaxable, along with hearing aids and other quasi-medical items, there seems no reason to apply the sales tax to raw materials purchased by opticians and optometrists.

FUNERALS — Presently caskets and coffins selling for less than $100 are tax exempt. The commission found that modern practice makes it difficult to allocate the specific cost of the coffin in total funeral expenses. The new bill will apply the 3 percent sales tax to all funeral expenses in excess of $150.

FOODS — Besides applying the sales tax to boarding house meals as well as restaurant meals, new law would tax peanuts and popcorn sold in theatres, and good items dispensed through vending machines whether or not located in places where other foods are sold.

At the same time, the administrative exemption now accorded school lunches, sales in dining rooms operated by educational institutions and meals served by restaurants to their own employees are made statutory. So are sales by blind merchants and eye glasses ground to prescription.

Sales of newsprint to newspaper publishers and newspapers are specifically exempted from tax, but newspaper publishers are liable for the gross receipts occupational tax.

IMPACT — The total impact of these sales tax revisions is hard to evaluate. Relatively small percentage of the added taxes will be paid directly by the ultimate consumer. It is quite possible that the profit added to final retail price charged by processors due to the increased liability may result in the ultimate consumer paying more than the State receives.

The commission somewhat naively suggests that "such sweeping changes in the statute, regulations, interpretations, policies and practices will no doubt affect other items and transactions which may not presently be foreseen or anticipated."

The proposal is offered as a suitable framework into which can be built such further changes as from time to time may be required in order to maintain equity and provide for the State's fiscal needs.

Other Editors Are Saying.. Wanted: A Windmill Tilter

(The Charlotte News)
Raleigh observers took one look at the report of the Commission on Legislative Reapportionment. They found therein faint hopes that a reapportionment formula had been achieved which the rural bloc of the General Assembly would buy. On these hopes they blew the cold breath of Raleigh realism and quoth wisely: "It'll never happen."

To read what the commission had to say, citizens had to plow through lengthy obsequies reporters were saying over its report. The sadness made sense. There is nothing to suggest that the General Assembly will obey, after three ignoring, the constitutional mandate for reapportionment, nor that it will turn over to a reapportionment commission the power to do what it has refused to do.

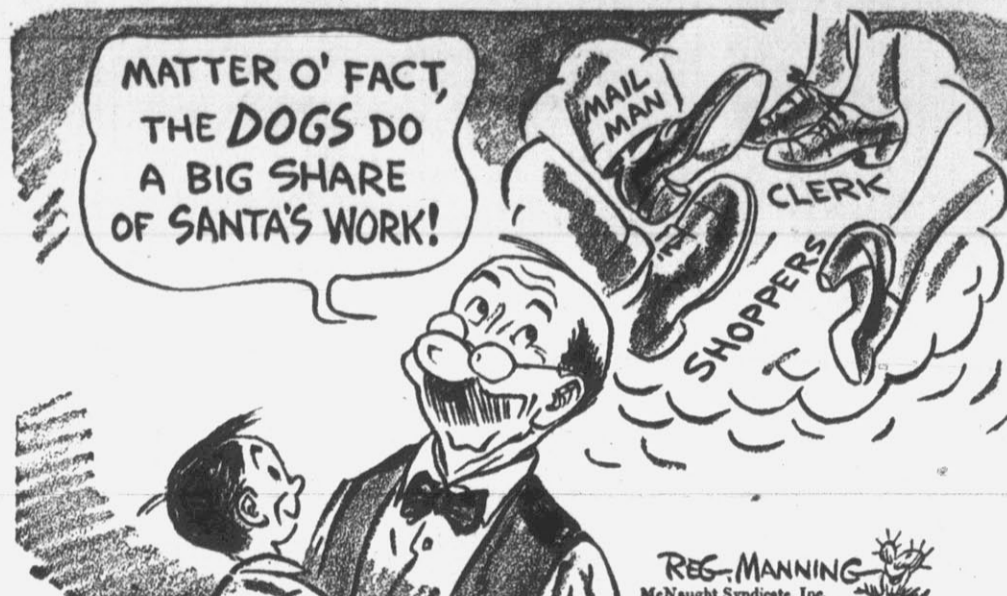

Realism has to explain obstacles. But in regard to reapportionment realism has become synonymous with defeatism. It is fashionable to discuss the subject in doom-laden tones, to be so wise over defeat of a democratic principle that one forgets to be angry. Denial of a solemn constitutional obligation by an assembly sworn to uphold it comes to be an accepted part of political sophistication. Urban areas must not be too insistent on their rights. The rural bloc might be peeved into retaliation on other matters. Let us be reasonable. If this is an accurate description of the prevailing mood, the only remedy is a massive dose of idealism—as determined as it might seem naive.

Gov. Hodges, who is backing sweeping mechanical changes in government, would be just the man to apply the needle. For whatever benefits accrue from streamlining of tax and educational systems will be something required in order to maintain equity and provide for the State's fiscal needs.

Reapportionment, it seems to us, would make a sound plank for every political platform in the state, particularly for those of young Democrats and Republicans. It would make a subject for discussion and action by civic and business groups. It would make an opportunity for freshening the tide of democracy in the Old North State. So long as the General Assembly denies the right of Tar Heels to proportional representation, that tide recedes. Let the under-represented areas of North Carolina be "reasonable." Let them demand unceasingly their constitutional rights. For to lose them is to lose all.

Beware The Average Driver

You might not know it but if you are an average driver you're a bum driver at best.

So you've never had a wreck? So what. Practically everything you do while under the wheel is wrong. You say I'm nuts? You're a very careful driver and you seldom make mistakes as you roll merrily along in your shiny new gas buggy?

Well, the Carolina Motor Club says that in the last 10,000 miles you drove, you made 25,000 errors. What's more they've got studies to back it up.

The tests involved 10,860 licensed drivers and over 50,000 miles of travel. All-in-all 143,695 errors were recorded. That is an average of 13 per driver and one every four-tenths of a mile.

And you thought you were a good driver!

What do you do wrong? Well, the most prevalent error involved the position of the hands on the steering wheel. Of each 100 drivers checked, observers recorded 140.5 instances of incorrect hand position. Included were such errors as resting hands on the steering wheel crossbar or gripping the wheel with both hands at the top or bottom. Other errors: poor turning technique, shifting gears while turning, poor use of gear shift.

You're a good driver? Ha, I'm afraid to get on the highways. Imagine facing somebody who's made 25,000 driving errors in 10,000 miles...

Santa Needs Extra Income

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody worries about Santa Clause—but he has his problems.

Right now he's playing the stock market in an effort to pile up enough cash to tide him over from one Christmas to another. "Even a jolly old saint likes to eat regularly," said Santa. "I sure wish I could get on a steady payroll. As it is my work is highly seasonal, only about two months out of the year."

"I can't get enough consecutive weeks of work to draw unemployment insurance. I had to go into the stock market. This year I hope to top the $3,000-a-year bracket."

Santa is Lucky S. Squire, a portly gentleman in his 50's with a genuine foot-long white beard. It's the real beard, he feels, that sets him apart from the phonies in the ho-ho-ho and red-stocking-cap industry.

"I gave up two other careers to take this one," said Squire, who is top man in his field and wants it clearly understood he is no bowery-type Kris Kringle. Squire, who was born in Hungary—and likes to pun, "I still am hungry"—has been a lay preacher, a physical therapist and a children's camp counselor.

About 10 years ago his moustache began to whiten and the camp kids started calling him Santa Claus.

"I decided I would be Santa Claus," recalled Squire. "It took me two years to grow the beard. Since then at least a million children have sat on my lap and told me what they wanted for Christmas. During the season I work sometimes from 7 a.m. to midnight. I've worked for a dozen department stores. I've been on calendars, greeting cards, in newspaper and magazine ads, beauty pageants, auto shows, radio, television."

Why don't you stick to one department store?

"Each move I made I bettered myself," said Squire, who is a stout 222 pounds—advocate of the free enterprise system.

"It is not too easy to be a Santa," he said. "The first and hardest thing to master is the merry ho-ho-ho! You have to be able to break out laughing without any provocation."

Squire has two fancy Santa outfits that cost him $150 apiece—the ermine is ermine," and two hard-work outfits that cost about $100 each—the ermine is rabbit.

How does Santa fare in the stock market?

"Pretty well," he admitted. "I am welcome any time of the year in Wall Street. They all want Santa's money."

"But for real dynamic action give me the commodity markets—particularly eggs or onions. I made $200 on eggs recently, that is, until the market went down again. I'm still holding on."

"I'm licensed to sell real estate or stocks myself. Do you know of anyone who would like to hire a good dynamic salesman, and wouldn't mind if he had a white beard?"

Santa is really worrying that, come Dec. 25, he'll be up a chimney—reading the wants ads, forgotten again.

Opinions In Brief

BENTON, TEXAS, RECORD CHRONICLE: "... in a long list of elections, where the government-in-business principle was the issue, sentiment against it, as expressed in the vote, has been overwhelming. Socialism is usually imposed on us from above—not by the vote of the people."

ROSENBERG, ORE. NEWS-REVIEW: "It takes difference of opinion, difference of policy and political theory to make good government. The best government is obtainable when the division between major schools of thought is nearly equal."

VESTA, MINN. VISION: "... of all the bad things that a few hunters do, the thing that makes farmers maddest, is shooting around and towards the farm buildings, and in the direction of livestock or human beings."

MANCHESTER, T. E. N. TIMES: "You can always spot a well-informed man when he talks—his views are the same as yours."

THE LIVING UNIVERSE
Why do so many people find it hard to believe in the persistence of life after death?

We get on the right track in our thinking on this subject when we remind ourselves that the universe in which we are placed is a living universe. We do not know whether any of the other planets are inhabited or not, but what we do know is that the planet on which we live teems with life, and the revealed work of God assures us that life is not confined to this world. God is a living God. Jesus Christ has ascended into heaven, there to continue a living existence. All through the Bible, we are assured that living beings surround us all the time, touching our lives and ministering to us in a variety of ways.

When we turn to the animate world, we discover that the life it possesses is self-perpetuating. God does not have to start the world growing again every spring; He has arranged for its growth to begin as the result of forces which He placed in the world at the beginning.

If life thus extends throughout this world — and seemingly throughout the universe — why do we doubt that personality, the highest thing we know, continues to exist when our physical careers end? Life persists — which means that we can assume that growth and glorification persist through all ages.

EDITOR'S ANSWER The most clear-cut answer to all these queries has been given in a letter to me from Donald M. Ewing, associate editor of the Shreveport (La.) Times. It tells us all the time, touching our lives and ministering to us in a variety of ways.

Suez Has Re-Routed Tourists

By ELMER ROEHSNER
There'll be record-breaking tourist treks to Caribbean islands, Mexico, Florida, California and Hawaii this winter.

The reason: Suez strife. Thousands of Americans who planned winter vacation on the Riviera, on the Balearics, on Capri or at other places in Europe are now madly switching reservations. The shortage of gas and oil indicates there'll be little motoring, and that many hotel rooms will be chilly on cold days.

Anti-American agitation in France and England also is having an influence. British gas station owners who put up signs saying they would not sell to Americans may have stimulated some of the aggressions and. At the same time, cost their country millions of dollars in travel revenue.

Tip: If you are planning a winter vacation in the Western Hemisphere, better button up all reservations — transportation as well as hotel accommodations — right away.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Here are some more look-aheads in business, based on analyses of developing trends:

There will be big post-Christmas bargains. Holiday buying is fulfilling earlier predictions of a new high total. But rises in sales are much harder to forecast than dips, hence many stores have built their Christmas inventories largely by guess. Therefore, they'll run short of many gift items before Christmas, and be stuck with many others. Prices of remainders will be cut sharply after Christmas. There may also be some price slashes in the week before Christmas, when stores spot slow-moving gift items.

There will be a rash of retail rises early next year. Many rises in commodity prices have not yet been reflected in retail prices. But as always — when retailers begin to replace current stocks they will pass along the increases. Among consumer products you can expect to pay more for are cocoa, sugar, candy, shortening, rubber products, woolen goods and hardware items.

COSTLIER COFFEE, CARPETS, TOBACCO

Hope for cheaper coffee is dim. While the Foreign Agricultural Service finds the current world crop 14 per cent above the prewar average, it is also 6 per cent lower than the 1955-56 crop.

A rise in carpet prices is in the cards. Manufacturers, pressed by higher costs, are studying an increase of about 3 per cent, which will be passed along to consumers.

The agricultural export outlook is promising. In times of crisis, such as at present, European nations tend to stock up on agricultural imports from the U.S. Buying is expected to be unusually heavy because European stocks are low now. U.S. Government experts are predicting a new export record this fiscal year. Here's a quick rundown on prospective sales abroad: Food grains, outlook optimistic; feed grains, exports to be 23; cotton, exports to be highest in 25 years; livestock and meat products, and tobacco, demand off slightly; fats and oils, demand strong; livestock and meat products, and dairy and poultry products, outlook favorable; fruits and vegetables, gains likely.

Bank earnings will set a new fourth-quarter record. Preliminary reports indicate this will be banks' most profitable October-December period. Earnings are so high it will pay many banks to write off all bad loans before the end of the year, and to realize losses on depreciated securities.

GRANDPA REPLACES SANTA, OLD PROMOTER DISCOVERS
"It's time we told the sweet little brats the truth," the Old Promoter remarked as he dropped in today. "It isn't Santa that brings presents. It's grandparents. The average set of parents doesn't have very much money to spend for toys and other gifts. Grandparents are often better fixed.

"As you can see from my rumpled clothing, I've been out Christmas shopping," he continued. "I can tell you by personal observation that manufacturers and the stores have wised up to the fact Grandpa has replaced Santa. It's the middle-aged, prosperous looking fellows like me that get all the attention in the toy departments these days. And for us they brought out all the expensive stuff. I wasn't shown anything under $4.98 all morning and most of the things they tried to sell me ran from $4.95 to $9.95.

Eisenhower Third Term Is Impossible

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Too many readers to identify, from Maine to Southern California, from Oregon to Florida, have written to ask if there is a possibility that President Eisenhower may run for a third term. Some have apparently never heard of the anti-third term amendment, which others wonder if it could be repealed for Ike's benefit.

Few mention the age and health factor that would influence him and the voters.

EDITOR'S ANSWER The most clear-cut answer to all these queries has been given in a letter to me from Donald M. Ewing, associate editor of the Shreveport (La.) Times. It tells us all the time, touching our lives and ministering to us in a variety of ways.

When we turn to the animate world, we discover that the life it possesses is self-perpetuating. God does not have to start the world growing again every spring; He has arranged for its growth to begin as the result of forces which He placed in the world at the beginning.

thirds in each branch of Congress, with Democrats voting against it? Would the states, with so many Democratic administrations (29 — Ed note), put it through to the necessary three-fourths favorable majority?

EGGHEADS' IDEA "This 'third term' talk has originated among the egg heads, the New Deal-Fair Deal press and radio demagogues, who launched the campaign in 1953 that Eisenhower would not seek a second term. No, this same group says 'hat he will seek a third term.'"

Referring to suggestions that Ike would lose political power and suffer a weakening of his leadership role because of the anti-third term prohibition, whereas he has actually become more influential and dominant since November 6, Mr. Ewing adds:

"Any President, on being re-elected during a period of world tension certainly is going to act boldly after election, especially when that re-election was by the second largest popular vote majority in history. There certainly is reason there to be bold, even arrogant and dictatorial in such matters." ALERT HOPFULS Further assurance that Ike will stay, but on January 20, 1961, is seen in the fact that several candidate hopefuls, whose names and ambitions are too well known to require repetition here, are already trying to line up support for themselves.

Columbia Prof Instituted A Jolly Saint Nick

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures
 A flowing white beard, twinkling eyes, cherry red nose and a round belly like a bowlful of jelly.

This right jolly old elf, of course, is our beloved Santa Claus. Almost any kid today could tell you that.

But, a little over a century ago, children went to bed on Christmas Eve without visions of sugar plums dancing in their heads or thoughts of eight tiny reindeer pulling a miniature sleigh full of toys.

The reason? Nobody could agree as to exactly what St. Nick looked like. That is, until Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, a professor at Columbia University in New York, wrote his now famous poem that starts: "Twas the Night Before Christmas..."

Up to that time St. Nicholas was anything a parent might wish to impose on his child—a figure tall or short, fat or thin, happy or stern.

But Dr. Moore changed all that with his portrait in words entitled "A Visit From Saint Nicholas."

Written for Own Children

He wrote it on Christmas Eve, 1822, for his own children. And it might have sunk into obscurity had not Harriet Butler heard it read at the Moore home. She was the daughter of the rector of St. Paul's Church in Troy, N.Y.

She asked permission to read it to the children of her father's parish. She also sent the poem, minus the author's name, to the editor of the Troy, N.Y., Sentinel. It appeared there for the first time on Dec. 23, 1823.

The editor, Orville Holley, wrote: "We do not know to whom we are indebted for the following description of that unwearied patron of children, that homely but delightful personification of parental kindness—Santa Claus, his costume and his equipage, as he goes about visiting the firesides of his happy land, laden with Christmas bounties, but from whomsoever it may have come, we give thanks for it."

Pictures Came Later
 It didn't appear with the author's name attached until 1837, when it came out in a book entitled "The New York Book of Poetry."

In 1930 the Sentinel employed a wood engraver named Mayron King to draw the first picture of Santa to go with their annual poem.

Cartoonist Thomas Nast's version of the red garbed, pipe smoking Santa first appeared in 1869.

From this beginning the Santa Claus we know today has spread all over the world. The poem has been translated into dozens of languages—creating everywhere the same picture of joy and generosity, the same feeling of unbounded goodwill represented in its final words: "Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night."

Christian Church Announcements

The Christian Women's Fellowship of the Christian Church will meet Monday evening at 8:00 in the ladies parlor with the executive board in charge of the program. The theme of the evening will be "Peace On Earth." Mrs. Plato Evans, president of the CWF, will preside and Mrs. D. S. Spain will have charge of the program.

The two Fireside Clubs will meet for the annual Christmas banquet on Tuesday evening, Dec. 11th, at 7:00 Mr. B. B. Sugg Jr. will be the master of ceremonies and Mrs. J. Ficklen Arthur and Mrs. L. E. Ward have arranged the program. Those desiring a banquet ticket must secure it by Sunday, Dec. 9.

The youth organizations of the church are having special meetings for this Sunday afternoon beginning at 4:30. David Blackwood will have charge of the program for the Chi-Rhos, CYP and DSP.

At the service Sunday morning the choir will sing an anthem by Mueller, entitled "Away In A Manger" with Bill Ellington taking the solo part. Since it is Universal Bible Sunday the pastor will preach on the words of Jesus where he said, "Thy Word is Truth."

The passages in the Bible that the world will be reading together this week are:

Dec. 9, Luke 8:1-21; Dec. 10,

Police Kindness Never Forgotten

REDDING, Calif. (AP)—Since 1933 Redding police have received an annual Christmas card from Phil Goldfaden, Long Branch, N.J.

"Back in 1933 as a hobo I'll never forget the kindness of your police and people and so I wish to send my thanks," this year's card said.

Chief Scott Linecum said no one remembered Goldfaden.

"But," Linecum commented, "in 1933 we put a lot of itinerants in the lockup so they wouldn't starve."

SUPERSTITIOUS BURGLAR
 HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The George Van Zandt returned from vacation to find a superstitious burglar had stolen six cue sticks and 16 pool balls, everything except the eight-ball.

The Research Triangle

NEW SCIENTIFIC HEART OF NORTH CAROLINA'S FORWARD MARCH

Dedicated men and women, at work with fantastically complicated instruments and simple test tubes, are shaping a brighter future for every North Carolinian. In the seclusion of great public institutions and in private laboratories from the Great Smokies to the Atlantic Ocean, they are creating the miracles of modern science. They are the brains, the flesh and blood, of the Research Triangle. Their work has already made every book, every article, about North Carolina's economy that was written even a year ago out of date. The Research Triangle is a new and dynamic North Carolina First. Every citizen owes it to himself to know what it is, and what it means to his and his State's future.

Seniors Staging Play Thursday

By ANNE HARRIS
Belvoir-Falkland Reporter

Seniors will present their class play, "Girls in Clover," next Thursday at 8 p.m. Admission will be 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

The three-act comedy takes place in the living room of the Albion farmhouse on a pleasant summer day. The cast includes Linda Garris as Mary Albion, owner of the farm; Barbara Baker as Phildora Riddle, the hired girl; Faye McLawhorn as Ellen Trask, director of Camp Happy Days; Joyce Jenkins as Roxana Nixon, counselor at the camp; Peggy Wallace as Mrs. Wither, Mary's unpleasant neighbor; Patricia Allen as Ivy Withers, Mrs. Wither's obnoxious daughter; Mary Emma Jones as Nannie Gillis, a neighbor; Glorice Langston as Agatha Dunbar, a bewildered, distinguished-looking aunt; and Joyce Waters, Edith Eastwood, Lois Whitley and Patsy Roberts as the girls of Camp Happy Days.

Mrs. Thelma Switzer is director of the play. She is also Senior Class advisor.

Christmas Spirit Is Permeating School

By BARBARA TAYLOR
Grifton School Reporter

The Christmas spirit is really catching hold of everyone in Grifton. Home rooms have been busy drawing names and exchanging ideas for holiday fun. Students, and faculty, too, have been busy for the past week planning for the Christmas parade which was staged yesterday afternoon. Included in the work was that of the cheerleaders who got their uniforms spotless for the ride in the convertible they were sporting.

Strong competition developed during the week between the FHA and FFA organizations over floats the clubs entered in the parade.

Music for the parade was rendered by the Grifton High School band.

Another group of busy people is the Home Economics students who have a Christmas Bazaar in full swing. The girls are selling stuffed animals, story book dolls, aprons and many other useful items.

The Grifton School Glee Club will make its first appearance of the season Tuesday night, December 1, at the regular P.T.A. meeting. The band will also participate, making the program the 1956 concert for the two organizations.

The organizations will present a program of holiday music. Members of the glee club will enter the auditorium carrying lighted candles and after their performance the band will play its numbers.

Mrs. June Carson is director of the band and Mrs. Alma W. Buck directs the glee club.

Linda Chauncet, a petite sophomore, was named "Miss FHA" during the week and selected to ride on the club float in the Christmas parade. In winning the honor, Linda defeated Gladys Smith, Jeannette Lewis and Brenda Rose. Decision to enter a float in the

Immanuel Baptist Announcements

The Christmas music programs at this season of the year are always inspiring. Members of the choir of Immanuel Baptist Church will present their program of Christmas music at the 11 o'clock worship hour Sunday morning, December 16. The program promises to be a very fine one and the public is cordially invited to share with the members of the church in this special message of Christmas.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock the pastor will preach on the subject, "The Opened Fountain," using as a text the quotation from Zechariah, "A fountain shall be opened to the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, for sin and uncleanness." The special music for the morning will be as follows: Prelude; "Yuletide Echoes" by Hodson; Offertory; "In Dulci Jubile"; Anthem; "The Snow Lay on the Ground" by Sawyer; and Postlude; "March of the Shepherds" by Mallard.

Recent improvements have been made in the Sunday School building, 214 West 8th Street, across the street from Immanuel Baptist Church making it more comfortable and adaptable for Sunday School purposes. The Young Adult Department, ages 25-34, of the Sunday School meets on the first floor. There are two classes for ladies taught by Mrs. Tyson Bilbro and Mrs. J. D. McGlohon; and two classes for men taught by Mr. William Wright and Mr. Leonard Bloxam. The second floor is used by the Intermediate Department of Sunday School. All people interested in Sunday School for these age groups are cordially invited to be present next Sunday morning at 9:45.

False Signal; No Distress Involved

Yesterday, a National Guard Colonel driving on Highway 264 stopped at the Moose Temple to inquire who was in distress.

No one was so far as anyone knew.

But the flag was flying upside down, a distress signal, remarked the colonel.

That "distressed" janitor George Whitfield, who hastily remedied the situation.

World War I Vets To Meet

Notes From The Halls Of GHS

By MARTHA PIERCE
Greenville High School Reporter

Report card gloom filled the halls of Greenville High School for some of the students this past week. The "death sentences" were given out after fifth period Wednesday. With only five seniors making the honor roll this marking period, many students almost wished they didn't have to go home that afternoon.

Junior Class rings arrived Friday afternoon and all the juniors were very excited.

Carol Tadlock had a slumber party last Friday night. Ginger Lang, Margaret Ruffin, Stuart Bost, and Marietta Northrop were the girls who came and had a ball talking and eating the night away.

Sara Smiley and Bib Bilbro and their families left for Philadelphia last Friday afternoon to see the Army-Navy football game.

Cases Heard In City Police Court

By CHESTER WALSH

At Friday's session of Police Court, Judge Charles H. Whedbee found Marcellus Harrington, Negro, guilty of assaulting a female and assault with a deadly weapon and gave him 30 days in jail on each charge.

The court gave him 30 days for assaulting Burnice Jenkins and ordered that he not visit the woman's home for six months and suspended sentence on payment of costs. For assault with a deadly weapon (knife), the court gave Harrington 30 days in jail (payment of $25, costs deducted and he is not to molest or harm Burnice or Vernie Mae Jenkins.

Hena A. Baker, 1010 Ward street, charged with driving a motor vehicle while drunk, had his case transferred to Superior Court for jury trial.

Jesse Lee Langley, 1215 Washington street, improper muffler $5 costs and capias.

James L. Everette, Negro, assault on a female, case not processed.

Priscilla Godley, Negro, 206 River Drive, was not guilty of assault.

No operator's license: Clarence W. Edwards, Negro, Rt. 5, city, case not processed. Lonnie Carr, Negro, Rt. 2, city, paid costs.

Drunk: Ida Boyd Negro, 604 Pamlico avenue, $10; Elmer Nichols, Summit street, $10; Sylvester King, Negro, Rt. 1, city, $10; Allie Mae Mullin, Wilson, $10; Charlie Atkinson, Negro, Rt. 3, city, $10; Arthur White, Negro, 1104 Jones street 30 days in jail or pay $15.

In the case of James E. Moore, Paotolis, who was charged with larceny of an automobile, Judge Whedbee dismissed the case and taxed the prosecuting witness, Jesse Spain, Negro, 602 Clark street, with court costs for mischievous and frivolous prosecution.

Prepare To Plan For Passion Play

The Passion Play Steering Committee will meet next Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church. Chairman Frank Steinbeck announced today.

The chairman said that every Protestant church in the county desiring to participate in the 1957 presentation is invited to send a representative.

Notices have been sent to those participating in the 1956 play by Mrs. Chester Walsh, secretary.

Last spring the play was presented on an interdenominational basis and the same plan is proposed for next year, Steinbeck said.

Plan Religious Emphasis Week

Religious Emphasis Week, an annual event of the winter quarter at East Carolina College, is now being planned by committees made up of 104 students and a number of faculty members. The 1957 observance is scheduled for February 3-7.

Ralph Lee Lamm, Wilson senior, heads the steering committee for Religious Emphasis Week. Other members represent the Inter-Religious Council, and organization composed of representatives from student religious organizations on the campus.

The campus of Oklahoma A&M College welcomes people who stop on the grass. They have planted 75 strains of grass to test which is the toughest grass to use on golf courses.

Young Students Get A Practical Application In Homemaking

Experience Added To 'Book Learning' In Extensive Field

By ANNETTE JACKSON
Reflector Woman's Editor

Can you tell the difference between a Chippendale and an Empire chair? A Cape Cod and Georgian house? Can you recognize the Scandinavian influence in furniture? Do you know in what field Daniela has distinguished herself? Mary Cassatt? Juliette Gordon Low? Do you know how to remove candle drippings from tablecloths? What percentage of a wage earner's total income should be put into savings or equity? When to send thank-you notes?

These questions were among the 150 asked high school senior girls through the nation on Tuesday in a search for the American homemaker of tomorrow.

Sponsored by a commercial concern, the search will yield a total of $106,000 in scholarships.

Winner From Each School
The girl with the highest test score in each school will be named Homemaker of Tomorrow for her school. She will receive an award pin designed by Trifari of New York and will have her test entered in competition for $1,500 and $500 scholarships which will be awarded each state winner and runner-up respectively.

The school of each state winner will be remembered with a complete set of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The 48 state winners and the representative from the District of Columbia will receive an expense-paid educational tour to Washington, D.C., Colonial Williamsburg, Va. and New York where on May 2 one of them will be announced at the 1957 All American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Her scholarship will be increased to $5,000. This year for the first time girls who rank second, third and fourth in the national final will receive $4,000 $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships respectively.

Forty-three home economics students at Belvoir-Falkland and Chicod high school, were among the 8,534 senior girls from this state taking the examination.

Each girl has had at least one year of home economics, most of them three years.

Cooking, Sewing Not Enough
As the sample questions suggest, these girls upon completion of their high school homemaking courses are expected to know much more than the cooking and sewing skills which are subject for merely embodied.

The curriculum required now includes in addition to the skilled areas an understanding of family relationships, family economics, home nursing courses, health and home safety, vocational fields open to women, child care, housing, and courses in special problems in foods.

The latter allows students to plan special menus, including party menus. In this unit they learn to plan, execute and enjoy parties.

The variety of subjects matter being taken up today by home economics classes reflects an increasing awareness of the many demands being made of the modern homemaker.

The modern, up-to-date facilities of home economics departments provide fertile ground for the serious student to take advantage of this "conditioning" for adult homemaker duties.

'Book Learning' Applied
A trip to the Belvoir-Falkland High School home economics cottage on a spring weekend will show the practical application of much of this "book learning."

There approximately five or six students spend the weekend, giving them an opportunity to go through a complete schedule of the average homemaker. The group begins the weekend with lunch on Friday. On Friday afternoon they make a trip to the grocery store, their only experience during the year for teacher-supervised buying.

Each girl is assigned specific tasks which are shifted about over the weekend. They include cooking, cleaning, washing, ironing, bed-making and, on the last night, entertaining.

The last meal is usually a dinner party when boy friends, school officials and parents are invited guests.

Cottage-Type Departments
The departments at both Belvoir-Falkland and Chicod are built on the cottage plan which features a complete home-unit.

Projects by the various groups have decorated the rooms from time to time.

Students are allowed to try their hands at painting, refinishing, making drapes, slip covers, and fashioning bed spreads and dressing table skirts in their efforts to learn and to make the cottages more home-like.

Much attention has been focused on the kitchen areas in the departments. In both the Belvoir-Falkland and Chicod schools, three complete kitchen units are equipped. Students learn how to operate both electric and gas stoves.

This Year Most Serious
The home economics teachers report the students apply themselves with added zeal to the third year's study.

They attribute this increased interest to their anticipation of homemaker responsibilities upon graduation since most third-year students are seniors.

Of the thirty-three students taking the tests at the two county high schools Tuesday, one was already married, two engaged with others having less definite plans as to their futures.

It was reported that of the total approximately twelve would go to college with possibly two majoring in home economics.

Differences in the three years of instruction appear to be better explained in terms of degree than kind, although some subject matter is introduced in the third year.

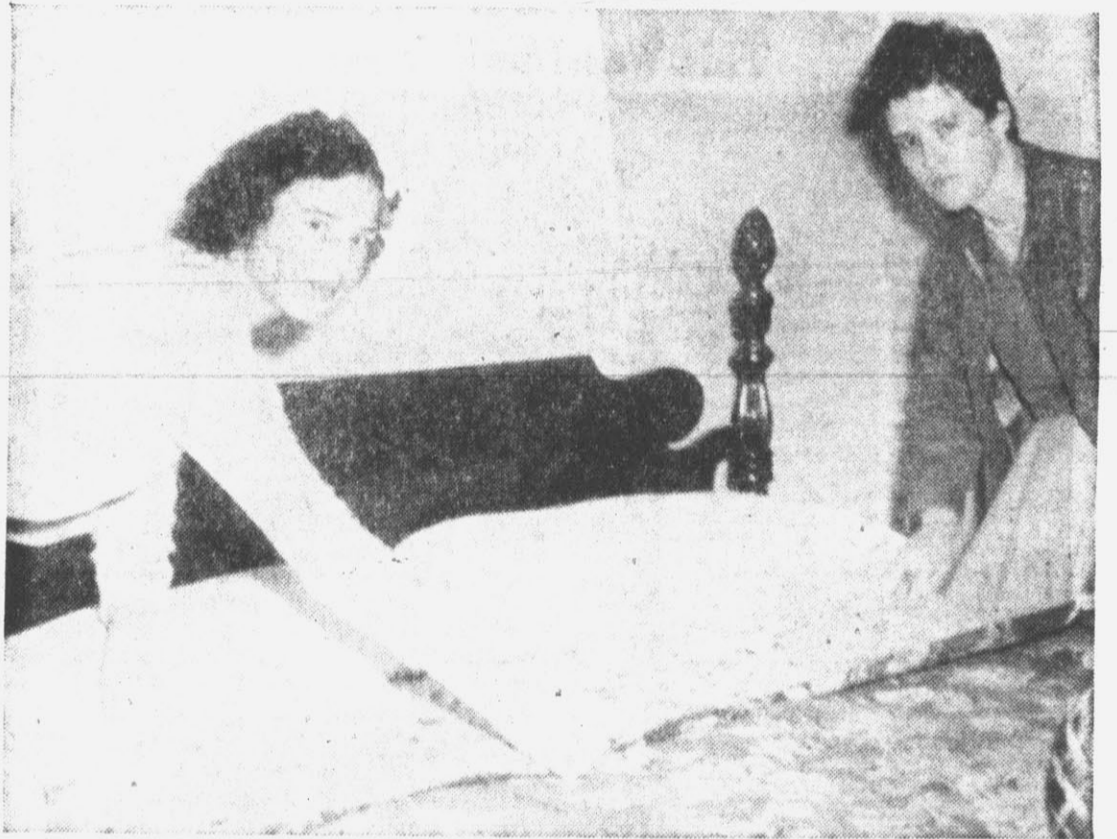

One home economics teacher explained it this way: child care is taught first year students from the baby sitter's point of view; the second year the child from 6 to 12 years of age is studied from the parent or teenage sister's viewpoint; in the third year course, the student studies the beginning of life with herself in the maternal role.

First-Hand Observations
Students last year were able to visit a nearby mother and watch her give baby its morning bath. At Chicod, students maintained a nursery during Parent-Teacher Association meetings, thus allowing Mama to attend while giving them an opportunity to study age differences from first-hand experience shifts, they may be far away from home economics students for teaching.

While formal classes in home economics come along and a required subject. Teachers report that in the first and second years students elect to take home economics "because today have just cause to take Mother's endorsement of and take home economics Mother tells them to." They return confidence in the home economics program is it is now taught in for the third year, according to Many of them realize that in classrooms is evidenced by the realization of their need for it.

Bride of Today Different
Many of them realize that in classrooms is evidenced by the realization of their need for it.

SELECTING RECIPT—Home Economics students Irene Harris (left) and Fay McLawhorn, seniors at Belvoir-Falkland High School, look over a receipt book to get ideas for new dishes. They are pictured in one of the three complete kitchen units in their home economics cottage. In the food unit which the girls study they take up nutrition, menu-making, marketing, and special problems in feeds in addition to food preparation and proper cleaning of kitchen.

HITS CLOSE—Third year home economics students approach their classwork from a more personal point of view, according to their teachers. Many of them realize the theoretical problems posed in textbooks will be faced by them the following year as they go out to take jobs, marry or go to college. The Chicod senior girls pictured above are being given a demonstration on wedding etiquette by their teacher, Mrs. Anne Hodges. They are, left to right, Mrs. Queenie Harris Cox, Peggy Mills, Mrs. Hodges, Betsy Spain and Joann Smith. In this unit they usually have a local minister in to talk to their class.

USSR Wins Its First Olympic Championship

Plenty Of Action In State This Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's Lennie Rosenbluth, fast establishing himself as the most dangerous scorer in this neck of the woods, will show his wares against Clemson when the two schools meet in Charlotte's Coliseum tonight.

In other major games tonight Penn State invades North Carolina State and Georgia is at South Carolina.

Rosenbluth scored 25 points against the McCrary semipro, a game that does not count in the Atlantic Coast Conference records, in the Tar Heels' first of the season, then backed that up with a 47-point effort against Furman for a new North Carolina scoring record.

Clemson will be out to break a four-year flinx against the Tar Heels. The last time Clemson beat North Carolina in basketball was in 1951 when both were members of the Southern Conference. Since then, the Tar Heels have beaten the Tigers eight times.

North Carolina State will be after its third straight win of the season against Penn State. Leading the Wolfpack will be Bob Seitz, 6-11, and John Richter, a 6-8 sophomore who led State with 24 points in a 97-85 victory over Pittsburgh. The Wolfpack topped Wake Forest in their last game 73-63 with Seitz high with 22 points.

South Carolina will be looking for its scoring punch tonight against Georgia. After trimming Wofford 99-55 in the Gamecocks' opener, the South Carolinians looked terrible in losing to Duke 76-104 Wednesday.

Last night Davidson opened its invasion of South Carolina with an 83-48 rubbing of the College of Charleston. Semi Mintz sparked the winners with 24 points. Dave Hollingsworth added 19 for the Wildcats.

Elon, led by forward Lee Atkinson with 27 points, overwhelmed Wofford 98-76. ACC took a close victory over Catawba in a North State game played at Wilson 69-68 after Darwin Williams dropped in two free throws with 45 seconds remaining.

Anthony Seeks Spieser Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Anthony is clamoring for a light heavyweight elimination bout with Chuck Spieser today and Gordon Wallace is protesting the official count that ruled him a knockout victim in 1:34 of the first round at Madison Square Garden.

"He was on his feet at nine," said Wallace's manager, Harry Sheppard, after last night's short-lived bout. "Randy Turpin also knocked him down in the first and he got up and knocked him out. I'd like to go to the commission to make a protest."

Any protest is not likely to get much consideration for the New York State Athletic Commission already has the report of Referee Barney Felix who said, "Wallace's knee was on the floor at the count of ten."

The crowd of 2,000 that paid $5,000 to see the national television bout booted the sudden ending because they felt short-changed. Wallace holds the British Empire light-heavy crown although he weighed only 164 to Anthony's 173 1/2.

Anthony's manager, Ernie Braca, said he wanted a match with Spieser, the winner to get a title shot at Archie Moore, the light heavy king.

MELBOURNE (AP)—Russia carried home its first unofficial team and gold medal Olympic championship today as the games ended with solemn ceremonies on a chill, damp afternoon following another Russian victory in the soccer finals.

As the Olympic scoreboard flashed, "Farewell and bon voyage 1956. Good luck, Rome 1960," American officials already were making plans for regaining world supremacy in Italy four years hence.

The final totals showed Russia clear cut winner in points, 722 to 593 for the United States and also in gold medals 37 to 32. The Russians also amassed more total medals, gold, silver and bronze, with 99 to the Americans' 74. No matter how it was scored, American point system or European, it was a Russian victory.

Although the U.S. showed a marked superiority in track and field, bettering its 1952 Helsinki showing with 15 gold medals in men's track and field and one in women's, Russia piled up huge chunks of points in 11 gold medals and 181 points in gymnastics and six gold medals in wrestling.

Eleven world records were set and 31 Olympic marks were broken in the sports carnival that started Nov. 22 and finally was concluded this dull day when the flame in the bronze Olympic torch was extinguished. American athletes set six of the world records with the men's 400-meter relay team in track, Mildred McDaniels of Atlanta in the women's high jump, George Breen of Buffalo in a trial heat of the 1,500-meter swimming event and weightlifter Charley Vinci of York, Pa., Isaac Berger of Brooklyn and Tommy Kono of Sacramento, Calif.

Russia's final triumph was a 1-0 decision over Yugoslavia in one of the roughest soccer matches of the tournament. Players on both sides were guilty of unnecessary foul tactics and personal feuds flared.

After this rough and ready scramble, another capacity crowd of over 100,000 settled down for the brief, but impressive closing ceremonies. The final day's attendance pushed the unofficial total over two million and appeared to have assured a small profit for the organizing committee.

A cold wind swept across the cricket oval as the flags of the 83 nations were carried into the stadium with Greece first and Australia, the host nation, last. An Australian carried a card with the name of each nation as a band played military marches.

In contrast to the impressive opening ceremony in which the full teams marched behind their flags, only about 1,500 athletes appeared at the closings. They did not march by teams but intermingled in a way the committee said would typify "friendly internationalization of sport."

There were few, if any, American athletes in the final parade of athletes at the closing ceremonies.

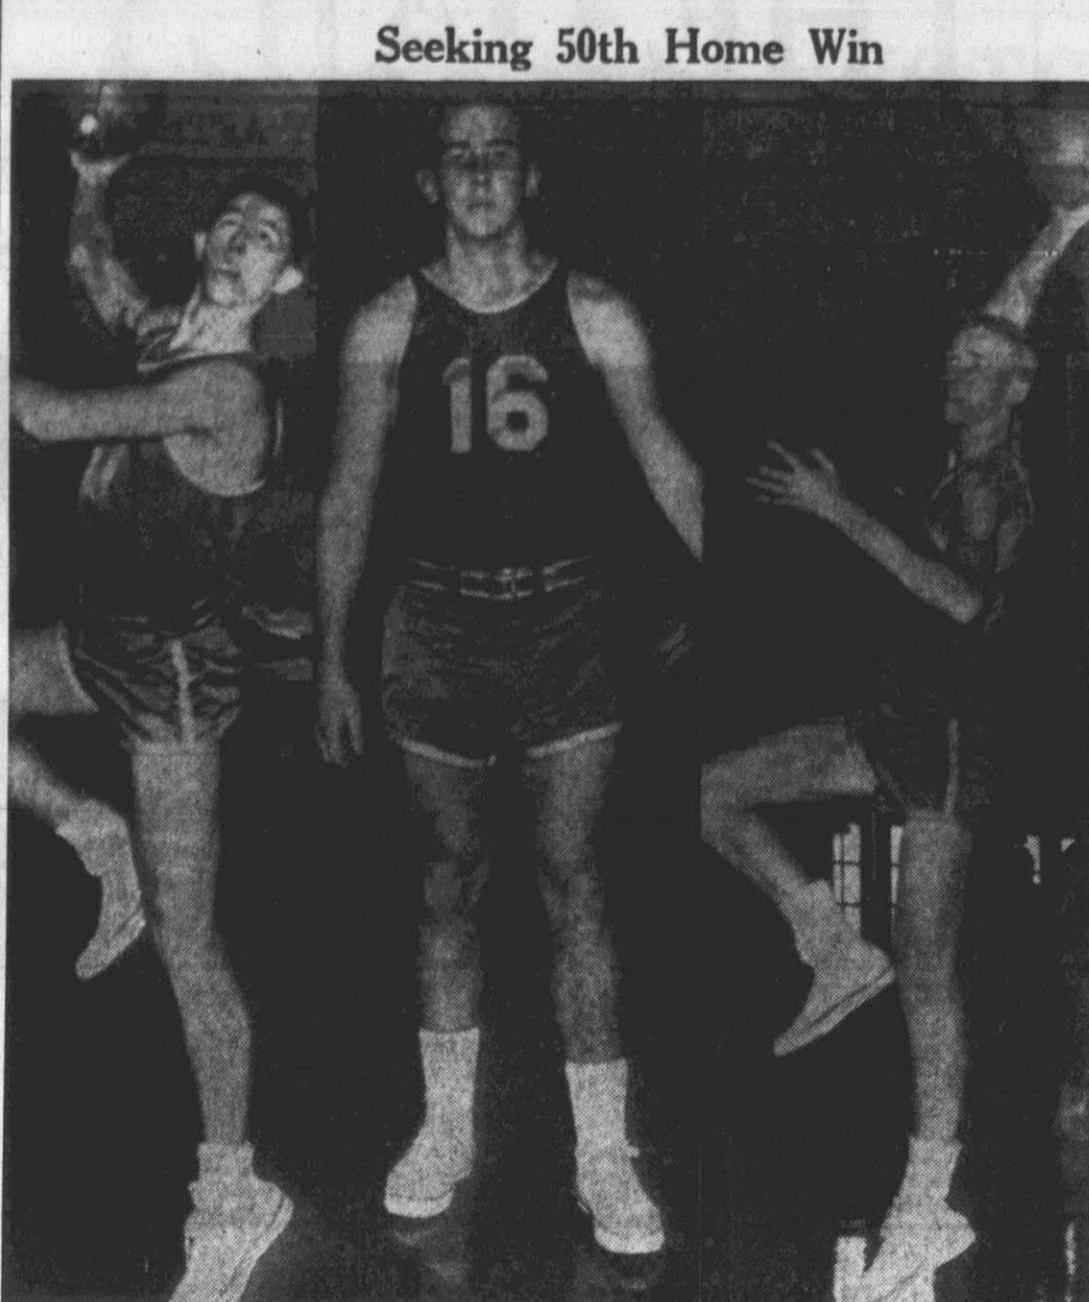

Brooklyn's Slate Released Today

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced their 1957 "at home" baseball schedule which calls for 37 night games, 30 in Ebbets Field and seven in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium.

Ebbets Field will be the scene of the Dodgers' first arclighter on April 24 with the New York Giants the opposition.

The Brooks will play the Pittsburgh Pirates in their home opener, Thursday, April 18, while Philadelphia will be the visiting team in the first game in Jersey City, April 22.

The make-up of the 90-night game schedule at Ebbets Field includes six with the Giants, Milwaukee and Chicago Cubs, five with Cincinnati's Redlegs, four with St. Louis, two with Philadelphia and one with the Pirates. Each of these teams plays an additional game under the lights at Jersey City.

AGAINST CATAWBA TONIGHT—When East Carolina's cagers take to the court tonight, seeking their 50th consecutive home-court victory against Catawba, Freddy James, Charlie Adams and Guy Mendenhall will be in the starting lineup. Don Harris and Nick Nichols round out the first unit of the favored Pirate quintet.

East Carolina's Pirate basketballers, undefeated in their first two starts of the season, will play host to the Catawba Indians tonight, at Memorial Gymnasium, and will be seeking their 50th consecutive victory on the home floor.

Catawba, possessing a fast club, is rated six-point underdogs to the defending North State regular-season champions tonight. The "Jinx" gym affords the Pirates that small luxury. The fact that EOC has defeated loop foe Gullford 73-60 and a highly-touted McCrary Eagles outfit 64-54 also gives the Bucs a few points edge in pre-game predictions.

East Carolina's first five have been playing extremely well in the two earlier games. Four of the starting five are veterans from last year's championship quintet, while one is playing his first season under Coach Howard Porter.

Don Harris, Nick Nichols, Guy Mendenhall and Freddy James, veterans, were the choice leaders of last year's outfit and are assuming the same role this winter. Charlie Adams, a sophomore transfer from UNC has snaggred the only open position, left vacant by the graduation of guard J. C. Thomas. All five starters are averaging in the double scoring figures.

Harris, a senior forward from Laurinburg, was an All-North State selection last season and the team's high scorer, with an average of over 18 points per game. This year, the 6-2 sharp-shooter has resumed the same position. He is now leading Buc scorers with 42

MORE LIKE SPRING
NEW YORK (AP)—Winter is only two weeks off but it seemed more like two months to New Yorkers basking in 66.9 degree temperatures yesterday — a record for the date. The old mark of 65.7 was set in 1951.

This Was Number 49

REBOUNDS HELP—When East Carolina downed the McCrary Eagles 64-54 Wednesday night, it marked the 49th consecutive home-court victory for the Bucs, over a three-year period. Good Pirate rebounding played an important part in that win. Shown above are EOC's Guy Mendenhall (22) and Don Harris (21) struggling with McCrary's Cliff Dwyer and an unidentified Eagle under the boards. 21 is McCrary's Smith Langdon. ACC Discusses Aid Grants, Moreland

By KEN ALYTA
GREENSBORO (AP)—The controversy surrounding North Carolina State's freshman basketball player Jackie Moreland was a step nearer solution today although just what the solution was or when it will be announced remained uncertain.

The Moreland case required a 2 1/2-hour meeting of Atlantic Coast Conference faculty athletic chairman in a closed session, running until shortly before midnight. It climaxed a 19-hour work day for the conference that saw Orange Bowl-bound Clemson and North Carolina's "Big Four" agree to set up their own grants-in-aid program when the three other ACC members remained firm in their opposition to the plan on a full-scale basis. The action came during the ACC's annual meeting.

As for the Moreland case, Dr. Charles E. Jordan of Duke, retiring president of the ACC, announced that the ACC had conducted an investigation into the matter as requested by N.C. State.

Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) against the school.

The NCAA charged that State was guilty of recruiting irregularities in the enrollment of Moreland and last month placed the school of probation for four years.

State was not represented at the meeting devoted to the Moreland case last night.

Jordan said that if any announcement concerning the findings of the conference group or the text of the statement sent to Boston today is to be made it must come from N.C. State.

Moreland, 6-8 freshman from Minden, La., and N.C. State have denied the NCAA charges. In his only appearance with the State charges brought by the National freshmen, on Thanksgiving night, Moreland scored 30 points against the varsity.

Moreland, State Asst. Basketball Coach Vic Bubas, Asst. Athletic Director Willis Casey and Harry Stewart of Raleigh, director of the Wolfpack Club, State College booster organization, appeared before the conference's executive committee during a four-hour closed session here Thursday night.

The split on the grants-in-aid matter was brought sharply into focus with dramatic suddenness during the recesses before the night's session.

Eddie Cameron, Duke athletic director, issued a statement on behalf of his institution, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, the University of North Carolina, and Clemson that said they would honor commitments beginning Feb. 1, the plan to be subject to approval from the school presidents.

The statement said that the five agreed "to respect the commitments of students who have signed their intention of accepting an athletic grant-in-aid."

The development followed a stirring plea at the afternoon session by North Carolina's retiring veteran chancellor, Robert B. House, that the conference "get back to consideration of the boys' own program without conference concern," and "get back to the supervision or sanction.

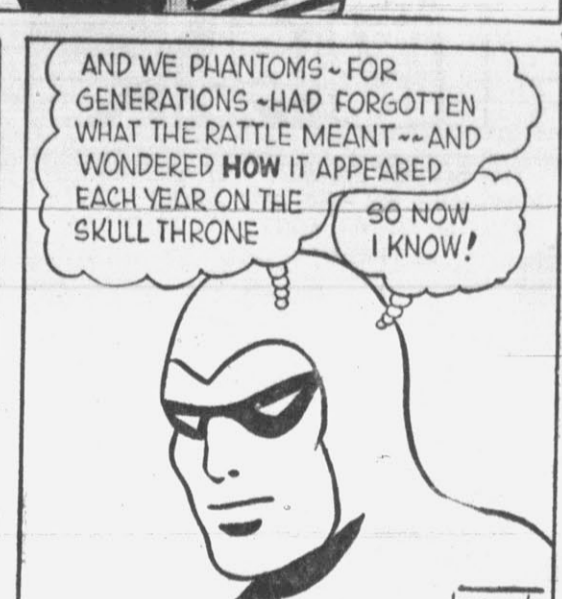

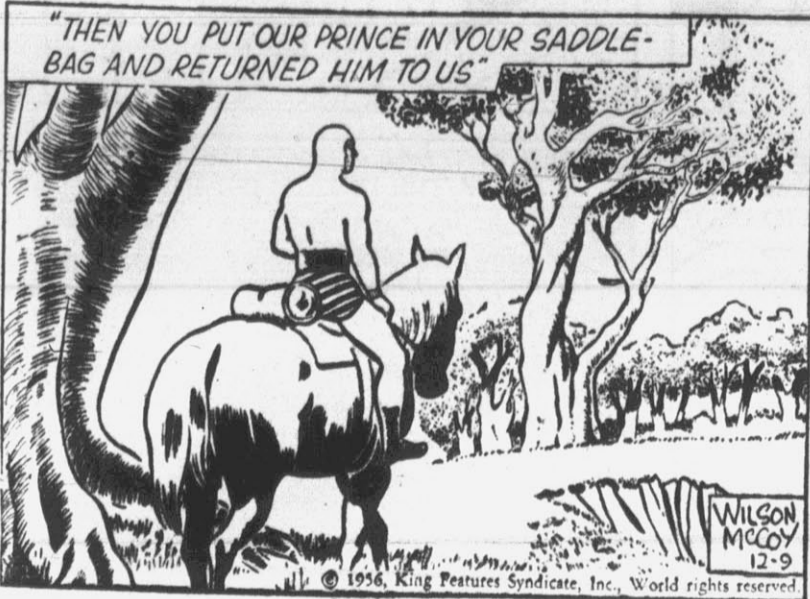

level of your prestige." He declared what he called "the recruiting racket all over the United States." He said he was not referring to any one school. "Not one of us has reason to look down our nose at anyone else," he declared in what he called his "farewell address" to the group.

Virginia, Maryland and South Carolina remained opposed to the athletic grants plan with the result that the five plans for establishing such a co-educ. program that had been drawn up by a special committee were tabled. This led to the action of Clemson and the four North Carolina conference members setting up their own program without conference supervision or sanction.

THE CHINESE WERE THE FIRST TO REALIZE THE VALUE OF FINGERPRINTING, OFTEN LEAVING THEIR THUMBPRINTS ON DOCUMENTS, PIECES OF ART, ETC.

WE ENTERED THIS CAVE EXPECTING TO FIND IVY AND HIS MOB, BUT INSTEAD WE FOUND FLATTOP'S BODY.

AND SO, CHIEF, TO LIZZ GOES THE CREDIT FOR ENDING THE CAREER OF THE INFAMOUS FLATTOP.

THIS IS A FANTASTIC OPERATION. THAT'S THE WAY IVY KEPT HIS ENGRAVER, RODNEY, PRISONER. HE WAS CHAINED TO A CHAIR THAT MOVED IN AND OUT OF HIS CELL ELECTRONICALLY.

I SEIZED THESE PLATES AND SOME OF THE PHONY MONEY AND HAD IT IN MY PURSE.

THE SECRET SERVICE BOYS WILL BE HERE ANY MINUTE. THEY'LL WANT THESE. AND WHAT'S MORE, THEY'LL WANT IVY.

IVY BE BACK SOON. HE GO ON HONEYMOON WITH NEW WIFE. HONEYMOON? WHAT? THAT DAME TOLD US SHE WAS KIDNAPED!

YOU MEAN THE LITTLE GIRL'S MOTHER? SURE! SHE SAID SHE WAS KIDNAPED, SHE LIED TO US.

WHILE IN TOWN, ACROSS THE STREET FROM THE POLICE STATION— A CAR'S BURNING UP! BETTER BLOCK OFF THE STREET. SOMEONE'S IN THE BACK SEAT.

AND WHILE ATTENTION IS ON THE FLAMING CAR—

FROM WHAT I READ IN THE PAPERS, I FIGURED I'D FIND YOU HERE.

THOSE SHARKS DIDN'T DO THE COMPLETE JOB YOU EXPECTED THEY WOULD! I'VE BEEN LOOKING FOR YOU.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

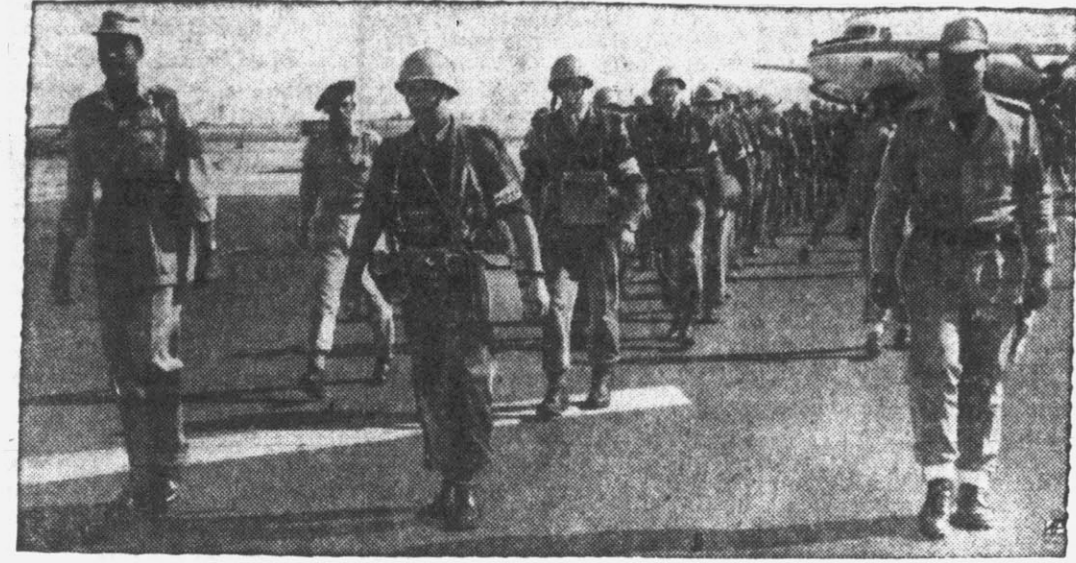

Star At 6, Retired At 13, Back On Job

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A star at 6, retired at 13, Luana Patten is making a comeback at 18. And doing right nicely, thanks.
Luana is the lovely Long Beach, Calif., lass who starred in Walt Disney films of a decade ago such as "Song of the South" and "So Dear to My Heart." She and Bobby Driscoll were the first human actors put under contract by Disney when he turned to live-action films.
For five years, she and Bobby went to school on the Disney lot, acted in films and toured the country to help sell them. She did some radio and TV, then came to a wise decision.
"I was getting by in my studies," she said, "but it was hard to break off from acting and go to my lessons. I figured the important thing was for me to get an education without any outside interference. Then if I still wanted to be an actress, I could come back to it."
So she left her career at 13 and went back to school. Last June she graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School in Long Beach and notified her agent she was ready to work. Within a matter of days, she was signed to star in "Rock, Pretty Baby" at Universal-International and "Johnny Tremain" at Disney's.
What's more, U-I liked her so much in "Rock" that her option was picked up and she was signed to a term contract. Now she's playing opposite Jack Mahoney in "Joe Dakota."
Of all the former child stars I have known, Luana is the most level-headed. She has an uncommon amount of common sense for a girl of 18, and I believe her return to a nonmovie life had much to do with that.
Most kids who grow up in the movie business are pawed and pampered so they never grow up

Holden Is New Boxoffice King

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—William Holden is the movies' new king of the box office, one of the rare times that an actor of his sort has won the coveted award.
Usually, the people who buy tickets applaud performances by such as Holden, Spencer Tracy and Fredric March but they make box office champions of famed screen personalities such as John Wayne, Martin and Lewis or a Shirley Temple.
In the trade, Holden is known more as an actor than as a personality. That means he has the knack of submerging his own personality into the role he portrays. The personalities of previous champions are so fixed in the public's mind that producers seldom let them deviate.
Holden started his climb into the select box office list two years ago when he won the Oscar for his performance of the war prisoner in "Stalag 17." The 33-year-old veteran of 17 years in the movies placed seventh in 1954 and fourth last year.
The rest of this year's list, based on a poll of theater men, included some familiar winners and four new ones. The runners-up follow, in this order: John Wayne, James Stewart, Burt Lancaster, Glenn Ford, Martin and Lewis, Gary Cooper, Marilyn Monroe, Kim Novak and Frank Sinatra.
It's the first time for Lancaster, Ford, Miss Novak and Sinatra.
Of the winners Holden could only say: "I hate to sound like a prize fighter but 'Gee, Mom, it was a tough fight and I'm glad I won.'"

UN May Be Seeing Start Of Permanent Police Unit

MARCHING TOWARD PERMANENCE? Danish soldiers move of the airfield at Abu Suweir, Egypt, wearing helmets and armbands identifying them as members of the U. N. Emergency Force. Men without helmets are members of Egyptian welcoming committee. Some U. N. diplomats believe the Middle East unit may prove to be the embryo of a permanent United Nations world police force.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The author of the following report is chief of The Associated Press Bureau at United Nations Headquarters in New York.

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Middle East crisis appears to have set the United Nations on the road toward a long-time goal—the creation of a permanent international police force.
A number of U. N. diplomats have hailed the establishment in November of the emergency Middle East force as an important step in this direction.
While all acknowledge the temporary nature of the unit now in Egypt, delegates like Brazil's Cyro de Freitas-Valle feel that the ice has been broken. He suggested action should be taken now to follow up the advance by asking all U. N. members to earmark military units which might be available to the world organization "on a permanent basis."
Freitas-Valle suggested that these units "could perhaps some day fly the flag of the United Nations together with their own national flag." The establishment of such a permanent force, he said, would create a greater respect for the United Nations.
Right Direction
Greek Prime Minister Constantinos Karamanlis described the establishment of the Middle East force "as a small step in the right direction."
And Ecuador's Jose Vicente Trujillo expressed the hope that the creation of the emergency force would lead to further studies which might lay the foundation for a permanent group.

Actually, the idea of a U. N. military force is as old as the U. N. charter and has been one of the most stubborn problems before the world organization.
The charter provides for use of U. N. military force by air, sea and land to maintain or restore international peace. It was under this provision, that the U. N. intervened in Korea in 1950 after the Communist attack on South Korea.
Narrow Base
This U. N. action, however, was an improvisation, which leaned heavily on the United States both for command and for fighting forces. Participation by other countries was little more than a token.
Former U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie proposed shortly before the outbreak of the Korean War that the General Assembly establish a U. N. legion which would be a truly international body operating under the U. N. flag.
The plan got some support, but failed to gain the necessary momentum. The United States later proposed that all members of the United Nations earmark specific units for possible use by the world organization, but this too was soon forgotten.

These forces were intended at least partly, for combat purposes, while the present U. N. Middle East force is strictly a police force. A permanent force could be limited to police duties or it might be given broader powers to enter combat, if necessary to maintain or restore peace.
Valuable Pattern
Delegates are agreed it would be much easier to establish a permanent force if it were patterned closely after the emergency force. The main characteristics of the unit now operating are:
1. It is primarily a police force, as opposed to a combat organization.
2. It is made up of units contributed by small nations.
3. It is balanced geographically.
4. It is completely controlled and directed by the United Nations.
5. It is not authorized to enter any territory without the consent of the parties concerned.

'Bagged' Ducks Frightened Away

GRANITE, Okla. (AP)—Osborne Hunt and J. B. Reser, happy over their bag of five ducks, laid them on the ground.
Just then, another flight came over and they started firing away. While they were trying for more birds, two of the "dead" ducks flew away.

Lost And Found His Automobile

TRUMANN, Ark. (AP)—Milford Davis could not find his automobile. He reported the car stolen.
Later that day Davis met auto dealer Bill Kinard and told him of the theft.
"Why your car is at my place," Kinard said, "You told me a couple of days ago to pick it up this morning and do some work on it."

Stretches Point In Parting Note

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Miss Majorie Smith, retiring after 46 years of teaching kindergarten, had this to say in a departing note:
"If parents wanted to do just one thing to make kindergarten teachers happy, they'd buy galoshes big enough for their children to put on and take off by themselves."

Rewards Pile Up In Bank Display

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Public Museum picked up a little cash when it staged an exhibit of five small mechanical banks at a new savings and loan company office.
After the exhibit closed it was discovered people had dropped pennies into all the banks to watch them work.
Total take was 16 cents.
Scottish kilts have usefulness other than clothing. When the belt is removed, the swirling plaid can be used as a blanket for sleeping.

Ticket Landing For Light Plane

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Patrolman Paul Ramsey couldn't believe his eyes when he saw the helicopter land on the street at Fountain Square. He asked the pilot what was going on. The pilot said he stopped to let off a couple of passengers while enroute to Tennessee. Patrolman Ramsey pondered a moment, then wrote a traffic ticket for the pilot.
He was double parked.

Church Willing Church

SPRING HILL, W. Va. (AP)—The Church of God congregation has built a church within a church. A brick structure was built over the old one without a service being missed.
