Dulles Sees Signs Soviet System Breaking Up; Adds Warning Of Rash Action

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today internal pressures behind the Iron Curtain may well topple Soviet communism and end the dangerous division of the globe.

He urged the foreign ministers of 15 Atlantic Pact countries assembled in conference here to use every form of moral pressure to assist these forces, which he said he has good reason to believe are undermining the Soviet system.

But the secretary, in a speech optimistic and almost religious in tone, warned that the threat of internal unrest might tempt Kremlin rulers to take some risks abroad as a diversion and thereby increase the threat of war.

Dulles, without directly mentioning British and French intervention in Egypt, denounced countries which deliberately resort to force as an instrument of national policy, even though they believe their cause to be just. He pleaded with all to maintain the United Nations and obey the moral principles of its charter.

If the countries of the world failed to do this, he declared, it would mean disaster. He said destruction of the U.N. or disregard of its principles would lead almost certainly to global war.

Dulles spoke at a closed session of NATO's Council of Ministers which was also addressed by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, Italian Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino and Norwegian Minister Halvard Lange.

The American statesman declared the Soviet Communist system is deteriorating and the power of its rulers disintegrating. He said this was seen in the lessening of the power of Communist parties in the free world, in satellite unrest and in internal pressures within the Soviet Union for more liberalization, intellectual freedom, personal security and personal enjoyment.

He asserted there was good reason to believe these forces would be irresistible in their over-all impact on the Soviet system, which through evolution might develop into something tolerable.

Dulles said Britain and France had obeyed U.N. decisions in the Middle East while the Russians flouted them in Hungary. He called this a double standard of morality.

No matter how impatient some countries might get with this situation, the secretary said, they should use restraint. Their example will increasingly grow in influence until Soviet despotism would find it impossible to go on living by standards which decent people despise, Dulles predicted.

If the West follows the course outlined, Dulles said, its cause will prevail and the dangerous division of the world will come to an end.

NATO officials gave the account of Dulles' speech.

Dulles, according to these sources, pointed to Soviet difficulties in controlling the satellites of Eastern Europe, and agreed with other ministers that Russia's position there now is more difficult than three or four years ago.

This meant, he continued, a great opportunity for NATO to assert its moral leadership. This Eastern European situation made it urgent for NATO countries to expand and bolster their cooperation in political and economic matters.

Nasser Ready For Port Said Trouble

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian sources say President Nasser will rush 2,000 Egyptian police to Port Said as soon as the British and French pull out to combat threats of trouble by the fanatic Moslem Brotherhood.

The Egyptian informants said the extremist Moslem organization, outlawed by the revolutionary government in 1954, hoped to embarrass Nasser's regime by harassing both the British-French withdrawal and the U.N. police force taking over occupation of the city at the northern end of the Suez Canal.

The guerrilla ambush of a British patrol yesterday was described as the opening move in the Brotherhood's campaign. One member of the eight-man Royal Scots patrol was wounded slightly by a grenade fragment.

Officials in Cairo promised the guerrilla activity would not be repeated and said underground warfare was "contrary to Egyptian government policy." They also said they knew nothing of a previous attempt to smuggle explosives and ammunition to the Egyptian underground in the Suez Canal gateway.

Egyptians in Port Said claim there are 10,000 members of the Moslem Brotherhood in the city. The secret organization once could bring down governments with riots and demonstrations. The revolutionary government executed many of its leaders.

Safe Landing By Lost Aviatix

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Jeanine Shoemaker, 24, of Durham had to make an emergency landing near Smithfield yesterday after she got lost on a flight from Charlotte to the Raleigh-Durham airport.

She was not injured and the plane suffered only minor damage.

After she became lost Mrs. Shoemaker circled Smithfield several times in the early evening darkness.

Lacy Simmons, a pilot with a small landing strip on his farm, realized the plane's predicament. He hopped into his pickup truck, caught the pilot's eye with the truck's spotlight, and guided her to the airstrip.

Good Neighbor Golfing Match

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A couple of ardent golfers — President Eisenhower and Canada's Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent — meet here today for a good neighbor match.

The 74-year-old Prime Minister was scheduled to arrive from Port Lauderdale, Fla., where he has been vacationing. After golfing with the President he will fly on to his home at Ottawa.

The President has been mixing work and vacation here at the Augusta National Golf Club since Nov. 26. Present indications are he will return to Washington Thursday.

Children Get A Good Impression

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Ten of William R. Thornton's children got a good impression of legal justice.

They accompanied their 56-year-old father, a tenant farmer, to court and heard him plead guilty to reckless driving.

County Judge J. M. Leer fined Thornton $10 and $11.50 costs.

But he suspended the fine and told the father to spend the money on the children for Christmas.

Massive Protest Strike Defies Red Regime; Guerrillas Fighting

BUDAPEST (AP) — Tens of thousands of Hungarian workers today launched a widespread protest strike in defiance of the puppet government of Premier Janos Kadar.

Transportation in Budapest was badly crippled, but the work stoppage did not appear to be 100 per cent effective. Some business activity apparently was continuing under the pressure of guns of the Hungarian police and Soviet troops.

But many workers did not report to their factories or sat idle when they reached their posts.

The call to strike was 48 hours beginning last midnight was issued by the Budapest Central Workers' Council to protest the "antipeoples, antiworkers activities" of the government.

It was not immediately known how effective the strike appeal had proved in the provinces, although there were reports that stoppages had started yesterday in some outlying towns.

The government again clamped down with a partial blackout on long distance telephone service outside the country.

The Kadar government replied to the general strike call with new repressive measures, including a decree of martial law, the arrests of some worker leaders and a decree dissolving the Central Workers' Council and its regional bodies.

Refugees crossing into Austria from Hungary said the strike appeared to be spreading over the country despite Kadar's martial law decree and possible Soviet reprisals.

Hungarians who left Budapest by train Monday said workers all along the route reported they had been alerted to the strike appeal. Austrian railway workers returning from the Hungarian border station of Hegyeshalom reported that work in that town was at a complete standstill. The stationmaster at Nickelsdorf said he also had been told that a train scheduled to arrive there from Hungary would not be running.

The government-controlled Budapest radio broadcast repeated appeals to workers not to join in the "attack against the people." It also urged coal miners to resume work to avoid "catastrophe" in the nation's hospitals.

The broadcast said Budapest hospitals have only a four-day supply of coal on hand and numerous hospitals in the country have only what they "can scrounge." It said 10,000 hospital patients were endangered.

Refugees reported that the reorganized security police under the Kadar government were carrying out mass arrests of workers' council members, despite protests and spontaneous strikes by workers in factories where the raids were made.

The strike call went out as reports of new heavy fighting mounted.

Accounts reaching Belgrade said the Hungarian countryside had been swept by outbreaks of partisan warfare in the past two days. They described Budapest itself as relatively calm but said the city was encircled by a steel ring of Soviet armor and guns.

The Belgrade reports said strong units of well-organized guerrilla fighters were operating in many parts of Hungary, with some of the strongest groups in the area surrounding the Yugoslav-Hungarian border.

Fighting of major proportions also was reported in and around Dunapentele, one of Hungary's chief steel-producing centers.

Tension was heightened by the slaying of 80 unarmed civilian demonstrators by Hungarian police at the mining town of Salgotarjan, in northern Hungary. Word of the massacre reached Budapest through a three-man miners' delegation which reported to the Central Workers' Council. They told Western correspondents Hungarian police fired repeatedly into a crowd of 10,000 "peacefully demonstrating" miners seeking the release of two of their leaders.

Anti-Soviet Riotings In Poland

WARSAW (AP) — A wild anti-Russian demonstration was reported today from the big Polish port city of Stettin. Demonstrators marched on the Soviet consulate, smashed windows and tried to break in.

Communist authorities finally called in troops and "workers' militia" club yielding strong-arm men—to disperse the crowd.

Official reports blamed the outburst on "drunken hooligans." But reliable sources in Stettin said it was the outcome of a planned demonstration by students and young factory workers against events in Hungary.

The demonstration started early last night and continued until midnight. Government papers reported several policemen were beaten up and an undisclosed number of demonstrators arrested.

Stettin, on the Oder River estuary 80 miles northeast of Berlin, was the major port of German Pomerania until Poland seized it after World War II. It reportedly was the scene of shooting—still unconfirmed—between Polish and Soviet troops during Poland's "October revolution" which culminated in Moscow's grant of considerable independence to the government of nationalist Communist Wladyslaw Gomulka.

The Warsaw paper Zwycie Warszawy said the riot started "when a gang of adventurers attacked and beat up a policeman who was escorting a troublesome drunkard." The paper gave this account of the disorders:

"Soon a large band of hooligans blocked Polish Army Street and smashed the windows of several buildings."

"The hooligans also beat up several policemen to the accompaniment of drunken singing and provocative shouting and tried to organize a demonstration."

"Some of the demonstrators managed to get through to the Soviet consulate, where they smashed windows and tried to enter the premises."

"These outbursts were ended by the City Committee of the Polish United Workers' (Communist) party, who called in the Stettin dockers, students and soldiers of local military units."

"They dispersed these hooligans who had run amuck. An energetic inquiry was immediately started."

"Those responsible for these provocative adventures will be punished, with all the severity of the law."

Hungarians Walk Out On United Nations Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Hungarian delegation today walked out of the General Assembly in protest against what it called U.N. interference in Hungary's internal affairs.

The surprise move came as the 79-nation Assembly debated a U.S.-sponsored move to condemn the Soviet Union for refusing to withdraw its armed forces from Hungary.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Imre Horvath led his delegation from the room after charging that some delegations, influenced by the United States, "have attempted to interfere in Hungary's domestic affairs."

"We reject these attempts and shall continue to do so in the future," he said.

Horvath told newsmen later he planned to leave tomorrow for Budapest.

In his statement to the Assembly he declared that the U.N. had offended the Hungarian delegation in a way inconsistent with the honor of the Hungarian people.

"Therefore," he said, "the Hungarian delegation will not participate in the work of the General Assembly as long as the present situation continues."

Asked by reporters whether he intended to boycott the entire session of the Assembly or just the Hungarian debate, Horvath said the boycott would continue as long as the Assembly debates the Hungarian situation.

Meanwhile, India and her three closest Asian allies pressed a new proposal to get Russian troops out of Hungary by sending U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to Moscow for negotiations.

Indian Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon was the prime mover behind the new plan as the 79-nation General Assembly continued its latest debate on the rebellion in Hungary.

Ceylon, Indonesia and Burma joined in sponsoring the Indian resolution urging that Hammarskjold be sent to Budapest, and Moscow if necessary, to seek Russian withdrawal from the battered satellite.

Some Western diplomats contended the Indian resolution lacked the teeth of a U.S. resolution already before the Assembly. Backed by 17 nations, it would condemn the Soviet Union sharply for Hungary's plight.

Others thought, however, that a proposal from Asian nations Russia has been wooing would gain more ground than any step by the West.

Menon refused to go along with condemnation of the Reds. Instead his resolution "deplores" that the Russians have made no move to get their troops out of Hungary.

As an alternative, Menon presented a series of amendments to the 17-power proposal to bring it into line with his own resolution. The amendments would have Hammarskjold open talks at the U.N. with both Russian and Hungarian representatives. If those failed to get results, he would be asked to try to visit the Russian capital to discuss a halt to Soviet intervention in Hungary and recognition of the rights of Hungary's citizens.

Report Six Industrial Projects Were Handled

The Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee has handled six projects since November 12, the Chamber's Board of Directors was told last night.

One of the projects was a manufacturing concern associated with the aircraft industry. Three manufacturers of wood products were in contact with the Industrial Committee.

The committee also provided an eastern North Carolina firm interested in expanding with special economic data concerning this area. It provided the State Department of Conservation and Development with information on the local airport and its facilities.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Willard Kyzer reported that response in the directors election has been good but there are still a large number of members who have not returned their ballots. He urged C of C members to return their ballots before the deadline—Dec 17 at 8 p.m.

Swelling Contributions for special Hungarian Relief received by the Pitt County Red Cross chapter have reached $445.

The local chapter is seeking $987 as its quota of the special nationwide Red Cross effort to raise funds for relief of Hungarian people.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, chairman of the Pitt County Red Cross Chapter, today urged local citizens to make their contributions as soon as possible.

"This is not only a means by which we can help the people of war-torn Hungary," Dr. Jenkins said, "it is also a means by which we can indicate our protest against the Russian brutality in Hungary."

Set Church Fires After Poor Box Robbery Attempts Failed

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (AP) — A 6-foot-2, 18-year-old AWOL soldier who "got mad" when he failed to pry open poor boxes has admitted setting three church fires, including the million-dollar blaze that destroyed St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Cambridge Saturday.

Pvt. Robert Whelan of nearby Somerville, former pupil at St. John's Parochial School, was quoted by police as saying he touched off the fire early Saturday by holding a big vigil candle to cassocks, surplices and other clothing in the sanctuary.

Failure to ransack offering boxes in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Boston's West End Sunday and at St. John the Evangelist Episcopal Church on Beacon Hill, Boston Nov. 19, also led Whelan to set those churches afire, Detective John F. Galligan said.

The fire at St. Joseph's caused damage estimated by the church at $2,500. Damage to St. John's was negligible, police said.

Whelan was booked last night on suspicion of breaking and entering in the nighttime and of arson, and was held for arraignment in Cambridge District Court.

Another man, a 26-year-old Boston art student, had been charged with arson yesterday in connection with the fire at St. Joseph's. He was committed to Boston Psychiatric Hospital for observation.

Over 300 Exhibitors At Fair Received Premiums

More than 300 exhibitors at the Pitt County Agricultural Fair held in October were paid premiums of $3,697.67, it was revealed at last night's annual meeting of the Fair Directors.

The Fair is owned and operated by the Ayden, Farmville, and Greenville posts of the American Legion.

The directors named the following representatives to the Executive Committee for the coming year: C. E. Hart of the Ayden Post; Dr. Paul E. Jones and C. S. Edwards of Farmville; Larry Averette, Lester E. Turnage, J. Howard Maje and Ford McIlwain of the Greenville Post.

Members of the Executive Committee met at the conclusion of the directors meeting and elected Ed Harris as president of the Fair.

Future Admissions Will Cost Cash

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stephen Nash, who says he killed five persons because "I'm as rotten as they make them," is refusing to make any more admissions unless officials pay off in cash.

"From now on, everything I say costs $50 a sentence. The price of confessions is $1,000," he told Kenneth Wells, Sacramento district attorney, yesterday. That was his way of refusing to say anything more about a Sacramento County hobo jungle killing he already had admitted.

Promising 'Lead' In Airliner Search

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Ground search parties prepared today to enter the rugged Mt. Silvertip area about 125 miles east of here to look for a Trans-Canada airliner missing with 62 occupants since Sunday night. Eight of the 59 passengers were Americans.

Search leaders said their "most promising lead" was a report of a "big blast" in the vicinity of 8,550-foot Mt. Silvertip. The report came from nine persons who were at a ski lodge on the Hope-Princeton highway north of the mountain.

People at the lodge said they heard the blast Sunday night soon after the four-engine North Star, Canadian version of the American DC4, radioed it was returning to Vancouver with an inboard motor disabled.

Air search in the Hope, B. C., area yesterday was fruitless.

The plane had taken off from Vancouver for Calgary and points east about an hour before the pilot, Capt. Allan Clark, 35, Montreal, reported the inboard motor on the left side had failed near Hope and he was turning back to Vancouver, some 100 miles away.

RCAF Squadron Leader G. L. Sheehan, in charge of the search, said it will be necessary to get into the area where the reported "blast" occurred before it snows again and added: "If we don't, we're beat."

Stolen Car Soon Found In Tarboro

A car stolen in Greenville around 7:30 last night was recovered by Tarboro police later in the evening.

The vehicle belongs to John Causey of 503 E. Third St. and it was stolen at S. G. Wilkerson Funeral Home.

Tarboro police arrested William Earl Joyner, Negro, of 210 Center St., Greenville with the vehicle. He was returned to Greenville on charges of larceny of an auto and driving a vehicle with no operator's license.

The 1956 station wagon was undamaged.

Bell Arthur 4-Hers Hold Regular Meet

At the Wednesday meeting of the Bell Arthur 4-H Junior Club the girls heard a demonstration on closets while the boys discussed poultry and taking soil samples.

Assistant Home Agent Margaret Stevens gave the girls pointers on how to keep their closets clean and orderly. She suggested that all clothes racks be turned in the same direction as a safety measure in case of fire.

Assistant Farm Agent Cecil Register showed the boys how to take soil samples.

Linwood Vandford, president, called the meeting to order. Sue Flake, secretary, read the minutes.

The club discussed plans for a Christmas party to take place December 17.

Chapel Hill—Plans for the University of North Carolina Student Alumni banquet and dance are now almost complete, according to officials of the Pitt County Club. J. B. James of Greenville will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Mr. James is president of the county chapter of the Alumni Association and is one of the most prominent lawyers in Eastern Carolina.

Program Presented DAR On Music And Literature

The Major Benjamin May Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met on December 8 at the Greenville Woman's Club with Miss Eunice McGee, Mrs. Sam White and Mrs. Travis Hooker as hostesses. The regent, Mrs. Howard Moye, presided.

A program on American Tradition and Customs which consisted of good music and literature was introduced by Miss McGee.

She presented Miss Carolyn Elam accompanied by George Perry of East Carolina College who sang several Christmas Carol solos and led the group in singing "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Miss McGee read the poem "Christmas Night in the Quarter" by the Southern poet Erwin Russell. Miss McGee then presented Richard Tomlinson, also of East Carolina College, in piano solo.

Thirty-three were present. Members and guests were welcomed by Miss McGee. After the D. A. R. Ritual, the devotional was given by Mrs. Herbert Hart, acting chaplain in the absence of Mrs. Joseph Batheeler. All in attendance pledged allegiance to the flag. The minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Elizabeth Lang, and then approved. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. John Pollard, treasurer. It was voted to pay the $119 lacked on the Jackie Willford scholarship out of the general treasury until this balance was contributed.

Reports were heard from the different committees. A box had been sent to Crossnore School, Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti reported that she had attended five district DAR meetings and two all-day Red Cross meetings. She urged members to get to her Christmas gifts for veterans.

A new member, Mrs. May Joyner Gates of Greenville, was welcomed into the chapter.

It was announced that the annual Greenville Garden Club Show would be held in Greenville on Saturday, December 15, at the Woman's Club from 10 a. m. till 10 p. m. and also on Sunday, the 16th from 2 p. m. until 6 p. m.

Members were urged to call on those shut-in and not well during the holidays.

A motion was entertained on an appeal for help for specific renovations at Crossnore School. It was voted to send a donation of $25.00.

All members were urged to pay their dues as soon as possible to the treasurer.

Guests were introduced, after which the group enjoyed a Christmas party course of refreshments. The club house was decorated in traditional Christmas colors.

Wesley Players Give Program At State Highway Dinner Meet

G. A. Taylor Jr., chairman of the Pitt-County Chapter of the NCSHEA, welcomed members and guests to the Christmas dinner meeting held at the State Highway garage last Friday evening.

Candy cane favors, along with greenery and red berries, made a very colorful table setting. A Christmas program, "And Mrs. Coward Fetes Bridge Clubbers"

GRIFTON—Mrs. John Coward was hostess on Friday night when she had as guests for bridge members of her contract club.

Three tables were placed for play in the living room where arrangements of red berries, white chrysanthemums and narcissi were used as decorations.

During the games the high scores were tallied by Mesdames Clifton Jackson and Bryan Davis among the club members and by the visitors, Mrs. Walter Patrick.

Others making up the tables were Mesdames Albert Tyson, Becky Worthington, Walter Murphy, David Parker, Paul Bradley, Wilbur Murphy, Roy Jackson, Roger Johnson and Miss Ruth E. Smith.

The hostess served pecan pie with whipped cream and coffee.

Bazaar Items To Be Sold Tomorrow

In the window of Sherwin-Williams Paint Company Wednesday there will be a display of bazaar articles for sale by the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Hand-crocheted dresses, dolls, crib sets and aprons are some of the suggested Christmas gifts to be placed on sale.

This was a service of interpretation, through reading and carols, of the meaning of Christmas. Those taking part were all East Carolina College students. They included: reader, Lloyd Bray; Madonna, Jane Carroll; chorus, June Goldston, chapter president; Ashland Mauldin, Virginia Blanford, Rachael Steinbeck, Gary Lewis, Dennis Price, Lewis Huff, Joe Stoll; accompanist, Ted Lee; technical director, Jack Cherry; and director, Pat Daniels. Sponsor and director was Miss Mamie J. Chandler.

Out-of-town guests included State President Ivan Hardesty, State Executive Secretary Otis M. Banks and Mrs. Banks; Editor of Roadways Magazine Miss Margaret Burk of Raleigh; and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Phillips of Durham.

Miss Joan Britty received the door prize.

Dr. Utterback Gives Program For JWC

The Junior Woman's Club enjoyed a Christmas program last Wednesday night given by Dr. Elizabeth Utterback of the East Carolina College English Department.

Dr. Utterback gave three Christmas readings, each entirely different in mood and style. The first, entitled "Row Come Christmas?" by Roarke Bradford, was a humorous and rather pathetic story of a simple preacher, telling of an erroneous, yet warmly satisfying and tender story of the beginning of Christmas with God, Baby Jesus, and Santa Clause all playing contributing roles.

Next was the classic, "The Juggler," by Anatole Floss, a tale of a juggler who became a monk and, wanting to honor Mary, performed his juggling act before her statue in the monastery. The other monks were at first horrified, but Mary acknowledged that the juggler had given of his best and a miracle resulted, according to the reading.

Dr. Utterback then read the well-known sermon of Dr. Peter Marshall on "Let's Keep Christmas" which contains the theme that in the Christmas celebrations the true spirit and meaning of Christmas should prevail.

Following the program a business meeting was held, during which Mrs. Quentin Avery read a letter from the Children's Home Society announcing a new state project for the Jr. Women's Clubs.

Because of the great need for case workers for the Society, the Jr.s are setting up a $1,200 scholarship for girls to be trained in this field. It was moved and passed that the Greenville Club contribute to this project.

Mrs. T. R. Jones announced that she had taken 58 Christmas gifts and 178 magazines to Caswell Training school this month. The club made plans for their Christmas Party on December 19 and completed plans for the style show to be given for the Senior Club on December 7.

The President, Mrs. R. D. Harrington, welcomed the new member, Mrs. Norman Dean, and guest, Mrs. William Crisp.

Mrs. Mack Stocks and Mrs. Paul A. Stokes were hostesses for the social hour.

Plans Made For Sending VA Gifts

GRIFTON—A special meeting of the VFW Woman's Auxiliary of the Gower-Sun-Well-Wiley Post was held on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. John Condon on Glenwood Ave.

Mrs. Condon presided at the business session. The buying of Christmas gifts for the veterans at Otter was discussed.

These will be wrapped and made ready for mailing at the regular meeting on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Don Casey. All members were urged to attend this next meeting at 7:30 Dec. 13.

PERFUME NOTE
When selecting perfume for a Christmas gift be sure you take the personality of the recipient to be into consideration. It wouldn't be a good idea to give your little old school teacher aunt an exotic scent or your baby sitter a powerful aroma. It's a good idea in questionable cases to choose light, floral odors.

BEWARE . . . of Diamond and Jewelry Bargains

There is usually a reason behind a so called "bargain," otherwise a merchant would not be forced to offer a special price inducement to make a sale. It is a logical assumption that the merchant could not sell for more, what he is now offering for less . . . as he is not motivated by charity, but by profit. Fine diamonds and jewelry, unlike seasonal, fashionable or perishable merchandise, have a comparatively constant demand and there isn't the necessity to unload them before the market is gone. Be duly skeptical about the "Slashed diamond values", half-price sales, wholesale discounts."

More Than Outward Signs Needed

Members of the Pactolus Ruritan Club have taken an active interest in highway safety in their home community which could well serve as an example for other organizations.

The Pactolus Ruritans, not satisfied with merely lending lip service to highway safety programs, have done something concrete to promote highway safety in their community. An outward indication is the huge safety sign erected at the intersection of highways 30 and 33 in Pactolus township. Probably of more significance is the fact that in Pactolus township this year up weaknesses in the program of instruction of various high schools. there have been no serious highway accidents so far this year. By contrast, in 1955 there were seven fatalities on roads in that township.

One sign, in all probability didn't make that much difference in the traffic record of that community. A great deal more than a sign was involved. It is our guess that Ruritans and other individuals in the Pactolus community have taken it upon themselves to promote highway safety. Apparently they have used their influence toward that end. Not only among people in their own community, but among other people with whom they have come in contact, they have sought to impress with the need for greater highway safety.

If all the many organizations in Pitt County would take the special interest in highway safety which has been exhibited in Pactolus through the Ruritan Club and individuals, Pitt's safety record would greatly improve. The crux of the highway safety program is impressing upon the individual driver his responsibility to contribute to safer travel. The greater the number of individuals and organizations who take an active part in this campaign, the sooner the highway record will improve.

Entrance Exams Mean A Better Evaluation

Entrance examinations for students who wish to enter East Carolina College is something new. It is a requirement which should enable the college to better standardize its course of instruction for freshmen, give admission priority to students who are best qualified scholastically and at the same time encourage scholastic endeavor on the part of high school students who look forward to attending East Carolina.

For several years now East Carolina has been forced for lack of housing facilities to turn down hundreds of applicants annually. Although applicants have been screened and their high school records evaluated, East Carolina, like other colleges, has accepted some students who have not been able to make the grade scholastically on the college level. While entrance exams will not eliminate this, the program should enable the college to more accurately evaluate the degree to which its applicants have advanced in high school work.

In addition to being of value to the college the entrance exam program should likewise be of benefit to high schools throughout this section of the state whose graduates attend East Carolina. The entrance exams might well prove an instrument which can point

Golden Deeds That Are Unlimited In Scope

Presentation of the Greenville Exchange Club Book of Golden Deeds to Mrs. James T. Little was recognition well deserved by a lady who has done a great deal over a period of years for the betterment of the Greenville community and its people.

Mrs. Little has invested more time and energy in service to the people of this community than we can measure. Her endeavors have not been confined to a few facets, but in a large measure have covered a broad scope of Greenville's community life.

Like other recipients of this coveted award presented annually by the Greenville Exchange Club, Mrs. Little has exemplified in her daily life the ideal of service to others with whom she has come in contact. Not only have her "golden deeds" been of lasting value to many people of the community, but by her example of service over a period of years she has inspired many other of Greenville's citizens who would be of greater service to humanity.

To Mrs. Little The Reflector extends its congratulations and its sincere appreciation for the contributions she has made toward developing Greenville into a better community in which to live.

Worth More To State Than It Has Ever Cost

The "Lost Colony" wasn't a financial loss this year for a change.

According to the figures the Colony and its related operations showed a profit of $4,921 for the past season not counting the 10 grand the state put into its coffers. And even if the pageant itself did operate at a loss, as The Reflector has previously said, it's still well worth the money the state puts into it.

One amazing thing about the "Lost Colony" is that the longer it runs the more popular it becomes. The drama has become one of the outstanding tourist attractions in North Carolina and each year draws to Roanoke Island and surrounding area literally thousands of tourists who would not otherwise visit there. This year attendance figures showed an increase of 7,000 over last year and ticket sales accounted for $25,000 more than the previous season.

Maybe the "Lost Colony" has finally reached the point where it will be self supporting. But if it hasn't, this greatest outdoor drama is worth far more to North Carolina even from a dollars and cents standpoint than it has cost the people of the state.

Reason For Higher Co-Op Power Cost

By LYNN NISBET
ELECTRICITY — Cooperative rural electric service is supposed to be on non-profit basis, while utility companies engage in the business only for the profit involved. Why then should the average costs of electricity from co-op lines be higher than from utilities?

The annual report of the N.C. Rural Electrification Authority makes no reference to costs, but nonetheless provides the answer. The average mile of co-op distribution line has just half as many customers as the utility line, about one-third the number of municipal lines and one-fourth the number on lines served by educational institutions.

As of last July 1 there were 30,284 miles of "hot" rural electric lines in North Carolina, serving 269,495 customers. The ratio of farm electrification reached 96.1 per cent, substantially above the national average. Of total line mileage membership corporations provided slightly more than half, 40,303 miles. Public utilities came next with 35,933 miles, followed by municipalities with 3,910 and educational institutions with 139 miles.

The institution lines (University at Chapel Hill, Appalachian College at Boone, Western Carolina at Cullowhee) report more than 19 customers per mile of line. Municipal rural lines have 12 1/2 customers per mile, public utilities nine, while REA lines report just about four and a half. Reason for this variance is that educational and municipal service is largely in densely populated suburban communities, utility lines are mainly in industrialized areas, while only REA reaches out into sparsely settled country.

DISTRIBUTION — Duke leads the utilities in lines and customers, with 15,516 miles serving 167,890 customers. Carolina is a close second with 15,500 miles and 130,064 customers. Vepco has 2,990 miles of rural lines in this state, and Nantahala has 1,308. Eleven other small utilities account for about 620 miles of lines. There are 37 membership corporations, ranging in size from the 10 miles on Ocracoke to 3,170 by Blue Ridge.

Fifty-eight municipalities have electric service extending beyond their corporate limits, ranging from a quarter mile by Walsenburg to 1,023 miles by Greenville. While towns all the way from Elizabeth City to Waynesville serve rural customers with electricity, the practice is most prevalent in the middle east.

Every one of the 100 counties has rural electric service. Robeson tops the list with 2,181 miles of line. Wake comes next with 1,775 followed by Johnston with 1,763. New Hanover and Dare are the baby counties, with 178 and 194 miles respectively.

The fact that 45 percent of all rural electric service is provided by private capital through public utilities companies indicates that these companies have not been as delinquent in meeting the need as some folks have charged. It also proves that rural electricity can be profitable when efficiently handled.

PYRAMID LOSSES — The proposed 20 percent cut in tobacco acreage in North Carolina will not result in one-fifth loss of revenue, but the impact on the economy, especially in the East, will be tremendous. Conservative estimates put the actual cash loss to tobacco growers at a minimum of $50 million.

That will easily pyramid into a fall-out of $300 to $500 million from the channels of trade, resulting in losses all along the line. Governor Hodges has said that the one million dollars in capital stock in the Business Development Corporation means an approximate ten million in ultimate loan values to small business. The depressing effect of capital taken out might not be as obvious as the boost of new money pumped in. The chain reaction is essentially the same. The tobacco grower takes the initial loss. That means he has less money to buy clothes and automobiles, new farm machinery and repair jobs around the house; less money for bus and train and plane tickets; fewer football games and picture shows. The vendors of merchandise and services lose the profits they would have made, meaning less spending money for them.

Fewer and smaller sales mean sales tax revenue for the State, just as reduced income means smaller income tax payments to both State and Federal governments.

The immediate problem is the almost desperate plight of the estimated 26,000 people who will be deprived of employment on the farms by reason of the acreage cut and stopped up mechanization. They are the first to feel the impact of the $50 million original loss. Temporary emergency measures are needed to relieve their situation.

Students of the whole problem are acutely conscious that no emergency treatment will cure the disease. They are also fully aware that Eastern Carolinians who have so long been wedded to one cash crop policy have stubbornly resisted change in the basic economy. The present condition did not come without ample warning. Even now confronted with a desperate emergency many farmers are hoping for a miracle to save them rather than face up to realities.

Other Editors Are Saying... A Question At Clinton, Tenn.

(The Raleigh Times)
Great complications have a way of reducing themselves to simple questions. This has happened in Clinton, Tenn.

The complications are more numerous than are apparent in the press' inadequate reporting of what is a major test of a region's wisdom and flexibility. The stimulus for fists that beat a minister escorting Negro students to a newly-integrated school flowed from a dress of a code drawn to meet a different circumstance in a different time.

The purpose of that code and the first Ku Klux Klan was to restore order and rule by the majority in a devastated region. It serves in Clinton now not to restore order, but to engender disorder, and not to carry out the wishes of the majority.

The minister, too, served an old code, as interpreted by his own conscience. For his code gave him no specific orders to befriending the five students harassed and threatened by their white fellows. He studied his beliefs and they took him out into a bristling arena of social conflict.

There is a code that dictates the attitudes of Clinton's new mayor and its school board. They do not like the Supreme Court decision which serves as the yeast in Clinton's social ferment. But above their personal desires they have placed the rule of law. Elected officials, they apparently reflect the opinion of the majority of Clinton's citizens. There is the tedious and delicate task of throwing a bridge from the past to the present of the South to a future that must be mastered by delicate social laboratory. Around adjustments in what is becoming their small community as in deed. To insure the future they must preserve through gradual change those qualities of order, integrity and law that are dearest to the largest and least vocal group—the majority.

The complications are great. Fear and old hatred activate mobs. Love and idealism lead a minister into their range. Practically and a sense of duty unbound by emotional ties to an old order prod public officials onto a shaky tightrope in search of means to conserve the basic principles of community life. The simple question that has been squeezed out by the complications is not whether the "southern way" will survive. It is: What is the southern way, and what will it be tomorrow?

Clinton's officials do not know the answer. But the town's new mayor has stated the principle that must be basic to any "new way" that does honor to the South. He said: "I am going to abide by the law, and expect everyone else to."

Two Prodigals Return

By JIMMY ELLIS

An Epic Loses To Iron Fist

I have been double-crossed. Don Schlenz, good old faithful friend Don, has plumb cut the ground out from under me. He was supposed to use his column today, giving me another day to work on a genuine masterpiece about a pressing civic problem. That masterpiece just won't see the light of day. Brother Schlenz, news editor and my lord-and-master in the news room, announced early today that he "ain't writing no column for today. This lousy weather has crossed me up and I ain't writing nothing about pretty weather when I'm about to freeze. You, Ellis, you young upstart, get to work and get a column to me in a hurry." "But, Don, I thought I could have another day to work on that little column I was talking about yesterday. I thought..." "That's the trouble with you, always trying to think. Get to work. That column had better be on my desk in five minutes." Shoot, even Ernest Hemingway or Ed Hirschberg would have trouble doing My Kind Of A Story in five minutes. So, I'm not going to write it. Sort of a "if we can't play with my loaded dice - I'm not - shooting craps-with-you" situation. Of course, I really don't mind doing the column for today. But, it is a tragedy that the one I had in mind just won't get written. It had a real message, something for the world in a troubled time. Oh, well. With this delay maybe I can expand it into a novel. But that would involve a new problem: A successful novel these days has to be full of sex. And I'm not that kind of writer.

Notebook On Life

The Better Buy In Diamonds

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The husbands of America may hate me for disclosing this, but—

Diamonds are a better buy this year than Santa Claus will probably find them for many a Christmas to come. Most of women's other necessities for a rich full life—coffee, brassieres, motor cars, and tooth-paste—are higher than they were 10 years ago. Diamonds are cheaper.

A 1/4 carat diamond that sold for $110 to $225 in 1946, during the postwar marriage surge, sells for $90 to $220 today. A one-carat diamond that ranged from $665 to $1,275 in 1946 can be had now for $545 to $1,175.

But not for long, an industry spokesman warns.

"This will be the last year for a long time in which diamond prices will be lower than they were in the top price year of 1946," said Albert Haase, president of the Jewelry Industry Council.

"The number of marriages is increasing again, and should continue rising until about 1975. And the demand is getting bigger in other ways. More diamonds are being used in wedding rings. Men, too, are again wearing more diamonds—in cufflinks, lodge rings and fraternal pins."

As a matter of fact diamonds were regarded as a man's best friend until about 500 years ago. The king of gems was reserved for the adornment of the male sex. Women were nothing but chattels, and to give them diamonds would have seemed as outlandish as to put a gold ring in a pig's nose.

The gal who changed this sensible way of life was named Agnes—Sorel, a brassy damsel in the court of King Charles VII, who rules France from 1422 to 1461. The bum!

Aggie had her eyes out for dopey Charley, but she was no prettier than a dozen other dames with the same idea. What could she do to charm him? Well, sir, she borrowed all the diamonds owned by her male relatives—and may they burn where they belong for going along with her skulduggery—took them to a jeweler and had him secretly make them into a necklace.

Then she put them around her throat over a low-necked dress, and walked into court. The courtiers stood ready to run their swords through this brazen jade who dared to wear diamonds. But first they looked at the King to see how he took it.

The simple-minded monarch stared, then, dazzled, smiled and beckoned Agnes to him. Aggie had won, and lived happily ever after, dipping her bread in the King's own gravy.

"From that date on," said Haase, "diamonds became a girl's best friend. Now 85 per cent is bought by men, but we all know who wears most of it."

Some other things you may not know about diamonds: Seventy-five per cent of the world's gem diamonds are sold to Uncle Sugarland. The average price for a diamond engagement ring is $211, the average size is 30 points—a carat has 100 points.

A survey in 1949 showed that over 30 per cent of married women under 30 had engagement rings—and 99 per cent of these were wearing them, even while doing house work.

Only 10 per cent of American diamonds are owned by men. Detective, for some reason, often like to wear diamond rings. About 2 per cent of diamonds

Strange Notions Debunked

By ELMER ROESSNER

There are three curious notions being bounced around these days. Let's take them apart and see if any has a hard core.

Notion No. 1: That the government has some magic way of getting money. Almost every day some distinguished person declares that costs of needed highways, housing, schools and colleges are too much for states and their subdivisions, so the Federal government must step in and do the job.

Federal money is already being used for highways and housing, so we know how the government gets the money. It levies taxes—income, corporation, excise, sales, customs and so on. With the exception of customs, states and subdivisions can levy and are levying exactly the same kinds of taxes and more besides. Unless Federal taxes are more pleasant to pay than state taxes—a doubtful assumption—passing the costs of schools, etc., on to the Federal government is of no real benefit.

Of course, the government could just print more money. But that would be pure inflation and, as such, a tax on savings, bonds, insurance, pensions, annuities and other fixed income. Eventually it would strangle most business.

SOAK SOMEBODY ELSE
Perhaps when people say the Federal government should build schools or other structures they really mean, "Let's hook people in other states into paying for our schools."

Federal taxes vary considerably by wealth and industry of the regions. New York, for instance, has 10 per cent of the national population and pays almost 20 per cent of all income and corporation taxes. Georgia, with a little more than 2 per cent of the population pays less than 1 per cent of those taxes.

There's another point to consider before demanding Federal cash for schools. When the Federal government helps states build roads by giving states some of the money it has already taxed away from their citizens, it dictates exactly how the roads are to be built. Of course, the Federal government would never think of telling states how to run their schools—or would it?

BANKS ONLY BENEFICIARIES?

Notion No. 2: Banks are the only ones to benefit from higher interest rates.

Banks benefit, of course. They get a higher return on their money. Gains on their capital have greatly increased. But gains on money they borrow, either from other banks or from depositors, are not so great because they pay more for it now.

Therefore, everyone can benefit from higher interest rates. All anyone has to do is to save some money. He can get almost twice as much interest on it as he could last year. And on some bond issues he could do even better, because the interest is sometimes tax-free.

Despite the rise in interest rates, the cost of living has gone up. But if higher interest rate slows down inflation—and most authorities agree that it does—then the cost of living would have gone up much more than it has. Thus, higher interest is saving everybody something.

DEPOSITS DON'T MULTIPLY

Notion No. 3: For every $1 in deposits, a bank can lend $6. This misconception of banking practice is persistent; a leading news magazine recently gave it fresh currency. Some people actually believe that if they deposit $1 in a bank, the bank can put the $1 in a Federal Reserve bank and borrow $6 for it. But banking doesn't work that way.

The source of the confusion is the fact that member banks must maintain reserves against deposits. Thus, against a deposit of $1 a bank must maintain a certain percentage in reserve and reserves have, at times, averaged one-sixth of deposits. Under those circumstances, it could lend about six times the amount of reserves but not six times the amount of the deposits.

Scratch Off That Tax Reduction Dream

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON Increased defense and foreign aid costs, as well as American liquidation of the Egyptian and Hungarian tragedies, have definitely killed the last faint chance of a tax reduction in the next Congress.

But President Eisenhower and Treasury Secretary Humphrey will have a difficult salesmanship task because of mounting Congressional indignation toward Britain, France and Israel.

Tentative estimates under discussion at Eisenhower's August conferences with Defense Secretary Wilson and Pentagon officials call for a military outlay of $40 billion, and approximately $4 billion, possibly more, to bolster a sagging industry and economy.

This $44 billion may not be mentioned as a flat figure in Ike's January budget message to Congress. But requests for supplemental appropriations before Congressional adjournment will bring the total expenditure to that figure.

BRITAIN'S WEAK FINANCIAL POSITION Britain's financial position is extremely weak, as revealed in London's request for deferment of interest on American and Canadian loans Europe generally will have to shell out about $50,000,000 a month for Western Hemisphere.

Even our efforts in Hungarian relief entail a strain on us, for the Military Air Transport Service estimates that it costs $480 for a round trip for each refugee. President Eisenhower has agreed to allow $1,500 to come to this country. And, of course, there are many other expenditures for food, military personnel, etc.

It is also believed that the U.S. will have to pay a large share of the cost of clearing the Suez Canal of such obstructions as sunken ships and collapsed bridges. The nations directly involved just do not have the resources for this task.

EFFECT OF INVASION OF EGYPT White House spokesmen recognize that the invasion of Egypt, especially as it served to offset the world's adverse reaction to Moscow's brutality in Budapest, has stirred ill feeling in Capitol Hill toward the prospective beneficiaries. But they will argue that this expenditure is an excellent investment from the standpoint of world relations and friendship.

It should help to dissipate Anglo-French anger at our lining up with Russia against them in the United Nations. It may ease their distress, which is real and widespread, over what they regard as the "national humiliation" they have suffered from us. It should contribute to patching up the almost shattered North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.S. ATTITUDE SHOWS UP RUSSIA American generosity, so the official attitude runs, will present a striking contrast to the Kremlin's Budapest barbarism and its trouble-making activities in the Middle East. It will win the increasingly important Afro-Asian bloc to our side, and that alignment now has a two thirds vote in the U.N., or enough to block transfer of major questions to the General Assembly for consideration.

The first indication of the Congressional reaction will come when President Eisenhower asks Capitol Hill sanction for deferring payment of interest by Great Britain in January. In view of growing criticism of the Eden-Mollet action, the remaining "isolationists," some of whom demand that we quit the U.N., or seek the expulsion of Russia, will make Ike's request the occasion for a field day on foreign affairs.

Then will come the real test of our future relations with our greatest Allies in two world conflicts, and Allies which we may need in another such crisis. That is the prevailing thought in Administration circles.

Blind Man Now Bridge Master

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—"There's great sportsmanship in it," says Dr. Arthur Dye, first blind man to become contract bridge life master.

The 60-year-old Charlotte osteopath who lost his vision at 17 in an accident says he has been playing bridge since the game was invented in 1925.

It is necessary to acquire 300 points in the American Contract Bridge League to become a life master. In New Orleans this week Dr. Dye did just that. The stocky champion says, "It's like finally arriving at a goal."

Dr. Dye plays with marked cards. He puts his own markings in Braille on the corners of the cards.

"But don't some opponents grow leery when your sensitive fingers pass over the cards in dealing?" he was asked.

"No indeed," explains Dr. Dye. "Cheating like that would be too obvious. They could see me feeling out the cards."

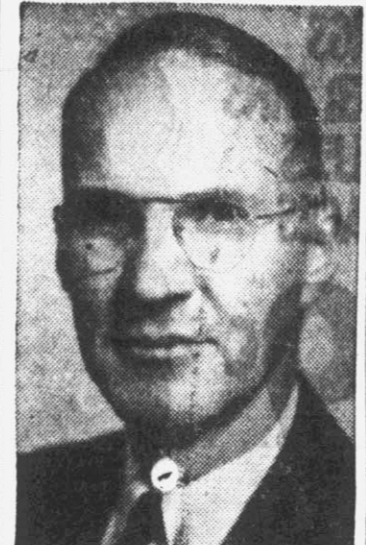

"I think the most wonderful thing about tournament playing," Dr. Dye says, "is that all the players, when he puts down a card, calls it for my benefit. I've played all over the eastern part of the United States and not a one has failed to do that. There's a wonderful sportsmanship in it."

Bermuda first minted its own coins in the early 1600's. Only about 10 genuine specimens are now believed in existence, all of which are of great value.

Burgiss Resigns Church Position

On December 10 the Rev. L. Grady Burgiss (above) of Greenville, offered his resignation as Associational Missionary of the South Roanoke Baptist Association, to become Associational Missionary of the Yadkin Baptist Association, effective January 31, 1957.

During the approximately six years Rev. Burgiss has served as Associational Missionary a total of 18 new churches have been organized, with all but one or two of them presently being on a full time basis. Also he has had a part in the orderly division of the Roanoke Baptist Association into the North Roanoke and the South Roanoke. The North Roanoke now has 53 churches, and the South Roanoke has 48 churches. When Mr. Burgiss began leading in the Association's program, of Primary Missions in April of 1951 the Roanoke had 22 churches. During the past six summers he has been in charge of 26 tent meetings, out of which ten of these new churches have arisen.

In addition to the program of tent work and the establishment of new churches Rev. Burgiss has made many religious surveys, both urban and rural, has assisted in the planning and erection of new buildings and the enlargement of others, and has participated in a program of general Associational advance.

Prior to becoming Missionary for the Roanoke Association he served as pastor of the Jacksonville First Baptist Church for six years, during which time he was also Moderator of the Wilmington Baptist Association, was a member of the State Convention's General Board, and a member of its Executive Committee.

Phants Are Host To Black Birds Tonight

Rocky Mount will bring a AAA squad into Greenville high school gymnasium tonight, rated a 14-point favorite over the locals.

Coach Bill Lundy, who is having the same kind of trouble at Rocky Mount as Coach Boley Farley is experiencing here, will have a slight edge in the ratings due to more height and a little more experience.

The Black Birds, who were one of the strongest teams in Eastern Class AAA ranks last season, are in the process of rebuilding their strength after many losses via graduation. Lundy will have Haywood Evans and Freddy Fulcher at forwards, David Harper and Jackie Williams at guards and Bobby Moore at center.

Green Uncertain Greenville's starters for tonight are much more uncertain. Last week, against Goldsboro, Coach Boley Farley started with Ed Wilkerson, Charlie Smith at forwards, Wayne Eidson and Mack Roebuck at guards and Joe Wingate at center. However, before the game was over, he had used every man on the Phantom bench, in search of the right combination.

More than likely, the same five boys will begin play tonight, except for possible changes at center. Showing up well in reserve spots were Steve Noble and Albert Crawford in the pivot slots. At guard positions, Wesley Hudson and Walker Lee Allen were impressive.

It is quite probable that Coach Farley will stick to his procedure of last week, in using heavy substitution throughout tonight's tilt. The records of the two teams battling here tonight are somewhat similar. Both have had their taste of defeat, even though it is early in the season. Rocky Mount has been beaten by the Atlantic Christian freshman team and by Kinston, last year's Class AA state champions.

Greenville's loss to Goldsboro last Tuesday, was a 71-47 affair. Tonight's game will begin at 8:00, with a jayvee game beginning at 6:30.

It's A Big Week For Pirate Cagers

By BILLY ARNOLD Reflector Sports Editor This week will be a big one for the Pirates of East Carolina.

With three wins beneath their belts (two of them being North State affairs), the Buccaneers have a shaky hold on the league's top spot along with Atlantic Christian. Both teams have recorded two league wins against no losses in their early games.

Tomorrow night, Coach Howard Porter's outfit will journey to High Point to meet their most dangerous foe yet — and Saturday will bring Lenoir Rhyne to Memorial gymnasium for an even more dangerous assignment. These are the games that will either compliment East Carolina's first place position, or tear it down completely.

Though the Pirates have compiled a pretty good away-from-home record during the past seasons, road games are always the toughest. High Point, according to Coach Porter, is the kind of team that plays hot and cold ball. "When they're hot, they can beat anybody," Porter mused recently.

The Panthers, with a 6-6 veteran named Powell at center and two good guards, Beauchot and Heugie, are a run-and-shoot type of ball club similar to the Pirates in style.

Saturday night, the Bucs will be at home again, playing host to Lenoir Rhyne, rated one of the North State's most promising and most dangerous clubs. East Carolina will be seeking their 51st victory on the home court.

The Bears will present the biggest threat yet to the phenomenal home-court streak the Pirates have compiled. Returning for his last season of play with Lenoir Rhyne will be Little All-America performer Raeford Wells, who assaulted the State and conference record books last year for a handful of new marks. He is a tall boy, standing approximately 6-6 and is one of the most accurate shots ever to perform in the North State.

With Wells back in the Bear lineup, along with a 6-7 freshman named Norman, veteran guard Walter Cornwell and an experienced group of sophomores and juniors, the Bears may come to Memorial gym rated the favorites. Much depends upon East Carolina's showing against High Point, and the Bears' showing against Atlantic Christian at Wilson, Friday night.

One of the most serious problems in the ECC camp early this week has been the question mark of veteran forward Nick Nichols. The 6-4 Leaksville junior suffered a dislocated shoulder Saturday night against Catawba. Porter stated yesterday that "The boy's shoulder is sore but he is able to play. The only trouble is that it could give way any minute." The coach said further that Nichols might not even make the trip to High Point if there is any indication that his injury is giving him trouble.

Bob Feller Reported Set To Retire Baseball Glove

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Feller, the Van Meter, Iowa, ploughboy who grew up to become the major league strikeout king and one of baseball's greatest of all pitchers, seems ready to retire from active service after 21 years with the Cleveland Indians.

A friend of Feller's advised the Associated Press today that the former fireballing right-hander, who turned 38 last month, had told him he had just about made up his mind to retire from the player ranks and accept an offer of a job in the Indians' front office.

Feller is now attending a meeting in New Orleans of the Baseball Players' Assn., of which he is president. He is expected to make his retirement announcement within a week or 10 days.

"Bob had his mind pretty well made up when I talked to him," Feller's friend declared. "At first he was determined to continue on the active list, if not with the Indians then with another big league club. Now I believe he is convinced he would be crazy to hang on."

Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg, who had offered the front office job to Feller from the former Indian ace who for the first time in his brilliant career last season failed to win a game after racking up 266 triumphs against 162 defeats.

"I certainly hope it's true," Greenberg declared. "I talked with him a month ago and he told me he would let me know when he made up his mind. I haven't heard from him since."

Feller, who won more games than any other hurler in Cleveland history despite 3 1/2 years' service with Uncle Sam, was used only four times as a starter last season, losing all four. The Indians decided they could no longer carry him on the active roster because of the presence of so many promising young pitchers who had to be given the chance.

Only two years ago, at the age of 36, Feller turned in a sparkling 13-3 record but slumped to 4-4 the following year. A six-time 20-game winner, Bob reached his peak in the 1939-41 seasons, winning 78 games in those three years. After his service discharge he came back to win 26 games in 1946.

Rapid Robert, as he was called, set numerous records but the ones he cherishes most are his three no-hitters, his dozen one-hitters, his 348 strikeouts in 1946 and his 18 strikeouts in one game (against the Tigers on Oct. 2, 1938). His lifetime total of 2,581 strikeouts in 3,828 innings is second only to that of Walter Johnson.

With Wilt, Kansas Is Ranked First In Nation

Grifton Wins 2 Against Chicod

Chicod invaded Grifton last night for a Pitt County double-header and came away with two severe losses to their credit.

The Grifton girls pulled ahead early in the opener to take an impressive 64-36 win, with Lou Rae Mewborn leading the way. She racked up 25 points.

In the boys game, the home team punched out a 71-43 victory. Bogey collected 23 points, and Craft added 10 to the margin for good measure. Jimmy Fornes got 17 for the losers.

Score by periods table for Chicod vs Grifton boys and girls games.

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ The Associated Press Kansas, spearheaded by seven-foot Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, tops the collegiate rankings in the first Associated Press basketball poll of the season.

The heralded sophomore averaged 45.5 points in the Jayhawkers' two victories at home over Northwestern and Marquette. The sports writers and sportscasters seemed so impressed by Chamberlain's varsity debut that 59 of the 108 participating in the balloting picked Kansas as No. 1.

Kansas accumulated 896 points with the standings figured on the basis of 10 points for first, 9 for second, etc. San Francisco, No. 1 team in the final AP poll the past two seasons, is runner-up with 675 points, including 18 firsts.

Kentucky, displaying another sophomore sensation in Johnny Cox, rolled up three straight victories to rank third in the listings with 514 points.

Louisville, National Invitational Tourney winner last March, is fourth with 403 points, two more than Southern Methodist, with 401. ... ending out the top 10 are North Carolina (No. 6), Illinois (No. 7), North Carolina State (No. 8), Alabama (No. 9) and Canisius (No. 10).

The top 10 teams with first-place votes in parenthesis: 1. Kansas (58) ... 2. San Francisco (18) ... 3. Kentucky (6) ... 4. Louisville (6) ... 5. Southern Methodist (3) ... 6. North Carolina (4) ... 7. Illinois ... 8. N. C. State (2) ... 9. Alabama ... 10. Canisius (4)

Head Grid Coach Johnny Sauer Of Citadel Resigns

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Head football coach Johnny Sauer of The Citadel has resigned, saying he was doing so "with much regret for personal reasons." The team had a 3-5-1 season.

The 31-year-old coach has completed two years of a five-year contract. The resignation is effective Dec. 31 and Sauer says he has "absolutely no idea" concerning his future plans.

Sauer came to the South Carolina state military college from the professional Los Angeles Rams, where he was an assistant, and promptly led the school to its best season in years, a 5-4 record.

After that season Gen. Mark Clark, president of The Citadel, expressed confidence in Sauer but cautioned it would be a year or two before The Citadel would take on big schools. Since then he has indicated The Citadel would try only to compete favorably in its Southern Conference.

Clark had predicted after 1955 that "1956 will produce an even more gratifying story."

Sauer, in his resignation memorandum to Clark, expressed "gratification for the full cooperation and support" he has received during his two years here.

Sauer was an assistant at the University of Florida and at West Plains before going with the Rams. His assistants this year were Hank Wilt, Al Davis, Harold Springer and Fred Monsoeoca.

College Singers Offer Yule Program Tonight

The College Singers of East Carolina College will give a program of Christmas music tonight (Tuesday) at 8:15 in Music Hall on the campus. The concert, directed by Dan E. Vornholt of the faculty, will include the story of the Nativity told in carols from many lands and other selections of the Christmas season.

Just One More Day, And Then

Ten students of music selected because of their talent as vocalists make up the ensemble. They are Margaret Griffin of Columbia, Douglas Brown of Rockingham, George Johnson of Robersonville, L. Lloyd of Morehead City, Barbara Harris of Beaufort, Jane Fuller of Greenville, Grace Miller of Farmville, Suzanne Fretz of Graham, Faye Ribenbark of Wallace, and Lawrence Grissom of Henderson.

A string ensemble, directed by Donald H. Hayes of the college music department will appear with the College Singers in their Christmas program tomorrow night. Included as members are Frances Hilburn of Raleigh, Henry Goodman of Dover, Thomas E. Lewis of Rocky Mount, and Kenneth K. Killebrew of Rocky Mount. This group will play a series of "Instrumental Meditations," with a vocal duet by Miss Harris and Miss Fuller.

SONORA, Calif. (AP)—Arthur Carlson, 56-year-old carpenter, had planned to work only one more day on the Tri-Dam project at the headwaters of the Stanislaus River. He went into a building at the bottom of the canyon for a drink yesterday morning. A boulder about 100 feet long and 30 feet wide, undermined by rains and freezing waters, suddenly slid 70 feet down the canyon wall and crushed the building. Carlson was killed.

CAKE PROBLEM PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Six-year-old Michael Sullivan will have a problem on his hands — and arms — when he tries to cut his birthday cake. Mike broke his left arm Oct. 20. On Sunday, Mike fell off a low fence bordering his yard. He broke his right arm.

Atlanta Teacher Group Will Quit

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Public School Teachers Assn. voted unanimously last night to withdraw from the American Federation of Teachers at the end of this year rather than admit Negroes to membership.

Announcement of the decision was made by Roger Derthick, association president and brother of Dr. Lawrence Derthick of Chattanooga, Tenn., who recently was appointed U.S. commissioner of education by President Eisenhower.

Derthick said the association unanimously adopted a resolution which will take the 1,833 members out of the national organization Dec. 31, 1956, and end a labor tieup which has existed since 1919.

The action came after both Atlanta Local No. 69 and Fulton County Local No. 183 were told by the American Federation of Teachers, an AFL-CIO affiliate, that they would have to integrate Negroes into their membership or stand expelled as of Dec. 31, 1957.

O. L. Wooten, president of the Fulton County local, said no action was anticipated by the members of his organization — about 500 — until after the 1957 summer convention of the American Federation of Teachers.

Farm And Small Business Income Tax Course Set Here Dec. 13-14

RALEIGH — The last in a series of four farm and small business income tax courses will be given Dec. 13-14 at Respass' Barbecue House in Greenville.

Among the topics for discussion are federal income tax with its requirements for filing and forms, gross income, deductible expenses, North Carolina State taxes social security, sales and exchanges, installment and deferred payment sales, net operating loss deductions, exemptions and credits, computation of tax, self employment tax, filing estimates, and a general review of tax problems.

The purpose of the course is to assist people in filing income tax returns, especially those who assist others.

The Greenville course will be conducted by the North Carolina State College Department of Agricultural Economics of the School of Agriculture. Co-sponsors are the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, the N.C. Department of Revenue, the N.C. Society of Accountants, the Social Security Administration, and

Organ Students To Be In Concert

Ten students of organ at East Carolina College will be presented in a concert Monday, December 17, at 8 p.m. in the Austin auditorium. Selections will include works by Bach, Purcell, Franck and other composers. The public is invited to attend.

Those who will appear on the program are pupils of George E.

Pursuit Became Hazardous Task

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Trooper R. L. Adkins, of the Florida highway patrol encountered road hazards when he chased a moonshine runner.

He said the fellow kept throwing five gallon tins of illegal whiskey in his path when he closed in.

The moonshiner escaped.

Made Her Final Christmastime Shopping Trip

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Rodie Parks, young mother of four, has made her final Christmas shopping trip.

She did it yesterday from an ambulance stretcher-bed in one of Asheville's biggest stores, which opened its door and had all its clerks in place 30 minutes earlier than usual.

Mrs. Parks, 33, has cancer. Doctors say she will not live until Christmas.

Knowing this, she told the sisters at St. Joseph's Hospital that she "would like once more to go shopping for the children and those I love."

She was carried to Ivey's in an ambulance and had the store all to herself.

Carried to every floor, she bought games and other gifts for her four youngsters, 3 to 12, and presents for family and friends.

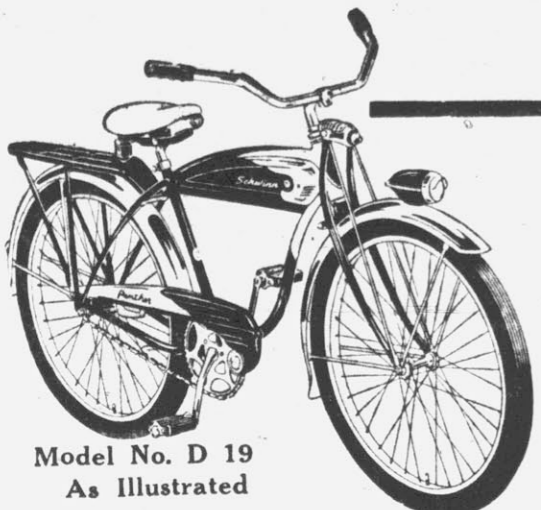

A clerk pinned a corsage on Mrs. Parks as she entered the store, carefully wrapped all her packages, then tore up the bill.

South Viet Nam Offers Money

NEW YORK (AP)—Tran Van Choung, Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States, has presented a check for $70,000 to the International Rescue Committee to help refugees from Communist oppression in Hungary.

Tran said the money came almost entirely from small individual contributions by the people of South Viet Nam.

CHAPTER 34
Casson took a taxi to Mrs. Gunn's. He sat by the window in his bedroom, chain smoking. His mind moved in a hot, narrow orbit of impatience. In a spasm of lucidity he recognized that the case exacted its price from the hunters as well as from the hunted.

The two plain-clothes policemen were at the station in the street. Then Perry came out. The policeman in Perry's rear made a signal with his hand. Casson leaned forward.

A black Wolseley car began to crawl down the street. As it approached Perry, it jerked to an abrupt stop by the curb and two plain-clothes men got out of the back.

They spoke to Perry. One of the officers nodded his head toward the car. Perry looked at the car, then back down the street. He stumbled into the car.

The doors slammed and it skidded away from the curb, accelerating rapidly down the street. The pick-up had been swift, discreet, and irresistibly efficient. Its psychological effect on the victim should have been considered.

Casson walked leisurely through the hot dusk to the Chiswick police station. He was no longer impatient.

In the station hall he met Bentley. The young constable was wearing a tweed coat and grey flannel trousers.

"By the way," said Casson, "what are you doing here in uniform? Have they put you into the C.I.D.?"

Bentley laughed a happy, healthy laugh.
"No, sir. I came in to see the fun."

Superintendent Weldon nodded to Casson.
"Strutt's with Perry."

Casson smoked half a cigarette before Strutt entered. He and Casson looked at each other in silence, each knowing what lay in the balance.

"Your turn," said Strutt.
"How is he?"
"Scared stiff. But sullen. Moaning for a lawyer." Strutt leered. "How long have we got him?"

"Till tomorrow."
"How did you pick him up?"
"No. Littering with intent. Being a suspicious person."
"And he goes tomorrow?"
"See here, Cass. If we don't get a confession by tomorrow morning we never will. By then he'll know the strength of our hand. He'll know we're bluffing. He'll know we can never pin it on him. He'll leave here a free and happy man, the little swine."

"Shall I go to him now?"
"As you wish."
Strutt nodded to the constable leaning against the door of a cell. He unlocked. Casson walked in. The door slammed behind him.

Perry stared at him in amazement. Color flooded into his face. His eyes lit up. Then the color ebbed and the line of the mouth sagged. The eyes went dull.

"What are you doing here?" he said, looking away. Casson sat down on the other of the two chairs.

"I saw them arrest you and I came to see what had happened. What have you done?"
"You came to help?" He turned eagerly.

"What's the matter?"
"You came to help. You must get me a lawyer. Policemen are afraid of lawyers. He must get me out of here."
"But what are you in for?"
"I don't know. Two policemen jumped out of a car and asked me if I was a man called John Bellamont or some name like that. When I said I wasn't, they said I'd have to prove it."

"But what was this Bellamont wanted for?"
"Burglary. They asked me all sorts of questions about my collection. How did I get it? Where did I get the money? They told me I needn't answer the questions if I didn't want to. And they always came back to the point about where I got the money."

"Casson lit a cigarette.
"Where did you?"
"I was looking down at his hands. His head jerked up. 'What?'
"Where did you get the money?"

"I told you. I have a private income."
"Oh, yes. Of course. So you did. I've always thought it an admirable joke." Casson went on, "for a humble employee of a bank to extract a thousands pounds from one of its directors."

Perry's face had gone ashen.
"I don't understand you," Perry was staring fixedly at Casson.
"Are you a policeman?" he asked and his voice sounded as

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!
New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription. Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatec.
Primatec opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves taut nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections. The secret is—Primatec combines 3 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose. So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms... get Primatec, at any drugstore. Only 98¢—money-back guarantee. ©1954, Whitehall Pharmaceutical Company.

How To Solve The Gift Problem

Right now you're probably "up to your ears" in Christmas shopping lists. I am, too, and I'll be your problem is the same as mine and everybody else's: how to buy the right gifts and stay within the holiday budget.

If that's your problem, here's an answer. Come in and look around our store for gift ideas. Almost everybody is interested in taking pictures, and chances are you'll find something exactly right for a great many people on your list.

For example, there's the new Brownie Holiday Flash Outfit, which includes the famous Brownie Holiday Flash Camera, matching flashholder, two rolls of Verichrome Pan Film, batteries, flash lamps, and instructions—all for only $9.95. This outfit is an ideal gift for the beginner.

We have many more new Brownie and Kodak camera outfits, still and movie, and dozens of other gift items. Bring in your list and let us help you with gift ideas. We're open every night from now till Christmas.

thought it was being twisted in his throat.

"Lord, no," Casson replied.
"But you are a journalist? Like you told me?"
"To some extent. Yes."
"Then you came here for a story?"
"Understanding dawn," Casson said. "I did come here for a story. I came for your story, John Perry."
"My—my story? I haven't got one."
"Shall we say, then, that I came for the story of Mr. Bagot?"
Perry rose to his feet and began walking up and down the cell. Casson let him walk for nearly a minute. Then he yawned and said: "Do stop it, my dear chap. You should like a prisoner in the condemned cell." Perry stopped abruptly, facing the door. Then he swung round, his undistinguished face suddenly made individual by a look of ferocity.
"Get out of here," he muttered. "I don't understand a word you're saying. You're mad. Go away."
Casson gazed at him.
"Do sit down," he said. "You'll find it more restful. I'll tell you a tale."
"Go away," Perry repeated. Go away."
"It's about you," said Casson. "Do you realize why you are here?"
"Of course I do. Of course I do. Those stupid men arrested me on suspicion of being a burglar. But they can't keep me here. They can't. They'll have to let me out in an hour and I'll sue them. It's wrongful arrest."
"You'll be here longer than an hour."
"I won't. They can't do it."
"Perhaps I had better explain," said Casson patiently. "You are not here by mistake. You are here because you have committed a murder."
Casson applies the final pressure in tomorrow's chapter of Small Venom.

Dream-car beauty, bigness and features...at a price you never dreamed possible!

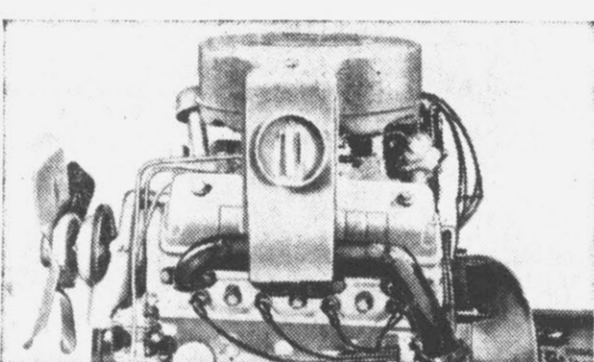

SLEEK NEW DREAM-CAR DESIGN REPLACES BULGES
Mercury introduces bold, clean-cut lines shared by no other car. Distinctive V-angle Tail-lights, dramatically different Jet-Flo Bumpers, sculptured rear deck and roof—here's styling that will influence the shape of cars for years to come.

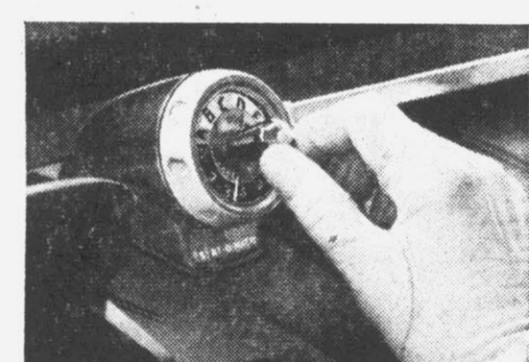

NEW KEYBOARD CONTROL SIMPLIFIES 6 OPERATIONS
THE BIG M's new keyboard is far more than a push-button transmission. It starts the engine—controls neutral, drive, low, and reverse—even releases Mercury's Toe-Set Parking Brake.

EXCLUSIVE FLOATING RIDE ABSORBS BUMPS
Mercury's great new Floating Ride combines the greatest bump-smothering features ever put between you and the road. Exclusive Full-Cushion Shock Absorbers, new swept-back ball-joint front suspension, and many more features found in no other car.

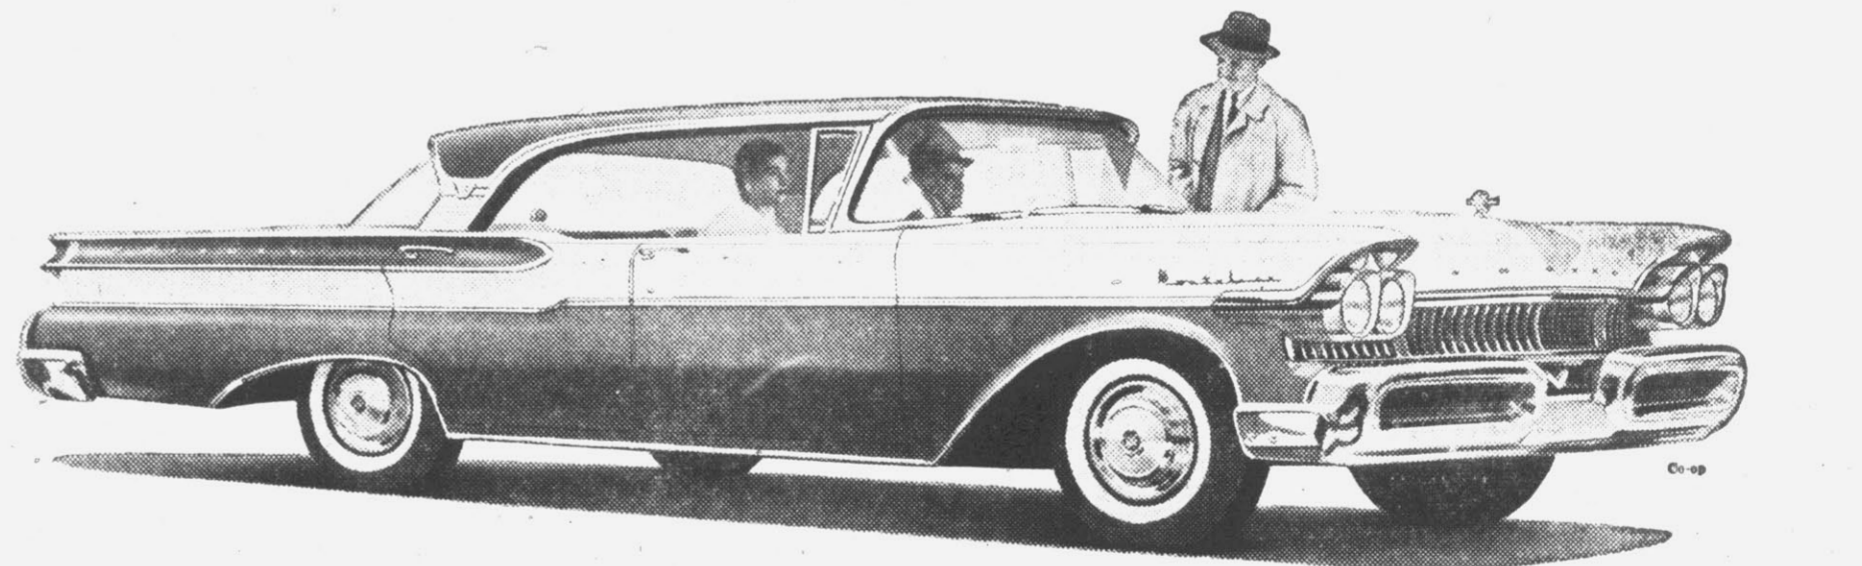

FAN SAVES HORSEPOWER OTHER CARS WASTE
A Power-Booster Fan, in the Montclair series, coasts when not needed for engine cooling (80% of the time). Not only do you get better performance, but engine sound is reduced. You get a far quieter ride.

POWER SEAT THAT "REMEMBERS" ENDS GUESSWORK
No need to hunt for your favorite seat adjustment. You dial it from the instrument panel. Every driver in your family has his "just right" setting.

BIGGEST SIZE INCREASE IN THE INDUSTRY...NO CROWDING
The new BIG M is bigger in every important dimension. More than 17½ feet long, over 6½ feet wide, with inches more leg room, headroom, and hip room—the most spacious Mercury ever built.

THE BIG M OUTDATES THEM ALL! No other car shares this look. No other offers you so much bigness and luxury at such a low price. No other offers you so much that's new—the features above only begin to tell the story. Mercury for '57 also introduces new Quadri-Beam headlamps*, for a new and better pattern of illumination. New Ball-Action steering makes handling easier than ever. New high-level cowl ventilation provides cleaner, fresher air. But there isn't room here to list everything. We invite you to stop in at our showroom and look over all the new features.

ALL-WEATHER AIR-CONDITIONING IS NO LONGER A LUXURY—IT IS A LOW-COST FEATURE WITH MERCURY'S NEW CLIMATE-MASTER SYSTEM

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Aircraft advanced in an otherwise lower stock market early this afternoon with trading fairly active.

Leading issues declined from fractions to around a point. Some scattered gains were made among various groups.

Mild profit-taking was continuing from late yesterday following the big advance of the previous week, brokers said. The turnover was less than yesterday's as prices reacted.

Aircraft continued their strength shown yesterday against the trend as anticipated increases in defense spending in the forthcoming budget were reflected in market sentiment.

Steels were mixed. Rails, oils and nonferrous metals edged down but utilities showed a slight bulge to the upside.

Glenn L. Martin went ahead around a point. United Aircraft and Lockheed major fractions. Boeing and Douglas Aircraft were up slightly.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube converted an early loss of around a point to an equivalent gain. Bethlehem Steel was down a point while Republic and U.S. Steel wavered.

Ford took a loss of a major fraction. General Motors, Chrysler and Studebaker-Packard showed little change.

Gulf Oil dipped more than a point. Royal Dutch and Texas Co. lost fractions. Sinclair was steady.

Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania Railroad dropped fractions as leading carriers showed a slightly easier tone. International Nickel, Du Pont, Dow Chemical and Union Carbide showed declines of a point or more.

Smaller losses were taken by Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, International Paper, U.S. Gypsum, Johns-Manville, Goodrich and Goodyear.

Montgomery Ward posted a small gain. A 10,500-share block of Raytheon was unchanged at 16 1/2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 60 cents at $180.90 with the industrials off $1.20, the rails off 20 cents and the utilities up 10 cents.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog markets were steady to mostly 25 lower today. Tops of 16.75 to 17.25 at Rocky Mount, 16.50 to 17.00 at Tarboro, 16.75 to 17.00 at Hillsboro, 16.75 at Castle Hayne and Goldsboro, 16.50 at Mount Olive, Micro, Elizabethtown, Shallotte, Newton Grove, Dunn, Bailey, Blackmans Crossroads, Whiteville, Clarkton, Tabor City, Siler City, Wingate, Mount Gilead, Kenly, Lumberton, Clinton, Fayetteville and R 1 H Square.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—N.C. fryers and broilers steady, farm price 16. 1-0-b plant 17 1/2 to 18 1/4, mostly 17 1/2; Raleigh eggs steady. A large 35 to 37; Asheville eggs steady, a large 36 to 38; Charlotte eggs steady, a large 37.

Each of the 72 Ionic columns of the United States Treasury Building in Washington, D.C. was cut from a single block of granite. The columns are 36 feet, nine inches in height and 12 feet, 6 1/2 inches in circumference.

Draws Long Prison Term On Armed Robbery Charge

Lacy C. Harris of Route 1, Tarboro, was yesterday sentenced to a term of 20-to-25 years in State Prison only a short while after a Grand Jury had returned a true bill against him on a charge of armed robbery.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Chester R. Morris, presiding over a one week criminal term of Superior Court. The case was one of many handled in the first session of the term.

Other judgments issued during the day included: Johnny Griffin, public drunkenness, not pros with leave; Edward Douglas Balance, manslaughter, not pros with leave; Clarence D. Pridden, public drunkenness and disorderly conduct, public drunkenness and possession of non-tax-paid whiskey, defendant called and failed to answer, judgment nisi, sci fa, and instant capias; Marvin Bottoms, false pretense and conspiracy, defendant called and failed to answer, judgment nisi, sci fa and instant capias; Dolly Mae Thigpen, false registration in a hotel, room and occupying same for immoral purposes, continued upon motion of defendant.

James Chapman, disposing of mortgaged property and fraud, defendant called and failed to answer; Albert Jones, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, defendant called and failed to answer, judgment nisi, sci fa, and instant capias; judgment nisi ordered stricken; Hubert Earl Ross, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, continued under former order.

Julian Taylor, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, alias capias ordered issued; Willie Arthur Teel, assault with a deadly weapon, instant capias ordered issued; Louis Green, assault with a deadly weapon, instant capias ordered issued; Nell Lee Wilson, assault with a deadly weapon, not pros with leave; Jasper Lee Johnson, driving under the influence, not pros with leave.

Theodore Roosevelt Jenkins, manslaughter, court directed a verdict of not guilty at close of State's first witness; Ezekiel Patterson, manslaughter, jury answered that defendant is incapable of pleading to the indictment by reason of his insanity; Lacy C. Harris, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, not pros; Marvin Bottoms, false pretense and conspiracy, court ordered instant capias and sci fa be stricken.

Last Rites Thursday For R. O. Lancaster

Mr. R. O. (Ross) Lancaster, 76, retired farmer, died at his home in Vanceboro at 10:10 Monday morning following several months' illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Vanceboro Christian Church at 2:30 Thursday by the pastor, Rev. Howard Quigley, assisted by Rev. John Gott, pastor of the Ayden Christian Church. Burial will be in the Epworth Cemetery.

The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home and will be carried to the church one hour prior to the services.

The family requests that no flowers be sent. Anyone who desires may send contributions in his memory to an orphanage.

Roscoe D. Lancaster spent most of his life in Riverside community near Grifton. For the past six years he had been living in Vanceboro. He was a member of the Vanceboro Christian Church.

He was married to Maggie J. Bland of the Epworth Community in 1904, and she died in 1930. Then he was married to Burness McIwean of New Bern in 1935, who survives. He is also survived by three sons and a daughter by his first marriage: R. Alton Lancaster of Hampton, Va., Commander J. Van Lancaster of the U. S. Navy, now stationed at Norfolk, Va.; Wade T. Lancaster of Winston-Salem, and Miss Julia A. Lancaster of Warwick, Va.—six grandchildren; a brother, Jim Gus Lancaster of New Bern; and two sisters, Mrs. Bertha L. Cox of Edenton and Mrs. Grover C. Cox of Kinston.

Decide ReWrite City Ordinance

Recreation Commission members last night decided to re-write the city ordinance creating the Recreation Commission to bring it up to date.

Recreation Director Gordon Goodman was asked by the commission to contact the North Carolina Recreation Commission for assistance on the project. The present ordinance was drawn up under the old Board of Aldermen and commissioners were told that the ordinance needs modernizing.

The new ordinance is expected to be ready for consideration by the commission at their January meeting.

are brought for hoarding. The largest sized diamond rings are in demand in Texas (now who'd have guessed that?), Oklahoma, California, Chicago and New York.

Office girls often are more insistent than hettresses in demanding a large diamond engagement ring, because it is a prestige symbol.

Rings exceeding 10 carats are rare, but film actress Elizabeth Taylor is realiable, reported to have a 30-carat engagement ring.

She was recently hospitalized for treatment of a strained back.

If you can afford only a tiny diamond engagement ring, give it to your girl in a cathedral.

“A cathedral is the best place to look at a diamond,” explained Haase. “The stained glass windows bring out all its hidden beauty.”

FARMVILLE—Farmville Kiwanis last night paid tribute to Dr. John M. Mewborn, local physician, civic leader, and president of the North Carolina Academy of General Practice.

The tribute was a surprise portion of the Kiwanis' regular weekly program which last night featured an address by Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni of the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic.

Dr. Mewborn's accomplishments were enumerated by Dr. M. P. Hoot, president of the Pitt County Medical Society. Dr. Hoot told the group, “When you name something good in this community, you name John Mewborn.”

Among Dr. Mewborn's accomplishments are Farmville's Distinguished Service Award in 1951, chairman of the Presbyterian Church's building committee in 1952, past president of the Rotary Club, past president of the Pitt County Medical Society and chairman of the building committee for the Farmville Boy Scout Hut.

Dr. Mewborn is a member of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts and is presently an elder in the Presbyterian Church where he is teacher of the Men's Bible Class. He was a member of the Farmville School Board for 17 years and is chairman of the Community Chest, the American Red Cross, a member of the Town Planning Board and a director of the Business Men's Club of Greenville.

Dr. Mewborn was also active in obtaining the Farmville athletic field and assisted in obtaining the gymnasium for H. B. Sugg Negro High School.

Dr. Hoot also pointed out that Dr. Mewborn has recently completed construction of a modern clinic in Farmville. Mrs. Mewborn is a nurse, assisting her husband, and their oldest daughter is presently in training as a nurse.

Kiwanis President Barney Bland presented Dr. Mewborn with a gift from the club.

In his remarks about the Mental Health Clinic, Dr. Franzoni pointed out that it is necessary to begin treatments of mental illness as soon as possible. He said the Pitt clinic had treated 298 patients from 24 counties in its ten months of operation as a part of reducing the number of persons having to be confined to mental hospitals.

Dr. Franzoni also said the clinic hopes to add a new team of psychiatrist, psychologist, and case worker to its staff within the near future.

Dr. Hoot also introduced Dr. Franzoni. C. D. Ward introduced Dr. Hoot and Lewis Allen arranged the program.

Colored News

The South Greenville Parent-Teacher Association will meet Wednesday night at 7:30. Committee reports are expected to be made that night.

The choir of Sycamore Chapel will rehearse tonight at 7:30.

HADDOCKS—A series of Parent-Teacher Association meetings have been held at Haddock School during the present term and the theme was “The Importance of Regular School Attendance.” President S. C. Mills introduced the theme and Principal C. M. Anderson briefly explained its advantages. Parents participated in the discussion and suggested continued regular attendance. They indicated that goal as favored for the school term. In addition to the regular program, safety and behavior films were shown by the fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Sarah Bradley. A social hour and refreshments followed.

The Gospel Chorus of Selbia Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will not meet Tuesday night for rehearsal because of a basketball game at C. M. Epps High School. The chorus will meet at the church Friday night at 7:30 for rehearsal.

The Matrons Social Civic Club will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock with Mrs. Annie L. Dupree, 1300 South Greene street.

Bell Arthur PTA Holds Meeting

BELL ARTHUR—The Bell Arthur Parent-Teacher Association at its November meeting presented a program in two parts. President Mrs. Ned Kinsaul presided. Carl Lee Sutton said the invocation.

The seventh, sixth, fifth and fourth grades, with Mervyn Joyner as narrator presented the first half of the program and sang Christmas carols.

The three lower grades presented the second half of the program and sang Christmas carols, with Deana Gladson closing the meeting with a prayer.

Mrs. Strickland's first grade and Mrs. Branch's second grade won the attendance prize. Principal Porter gave a report of the Hal-low'en carnival. Mrs. Clara Little gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Strickland's first grade won the prize for the P.T.A. membership drive.

Carl Knott of Greenville will attend the December 14th meeting at the school at 7 o'clock. He will give information about organizing a Boy Scout troop. All parents are invited.

Santa At Park In Afternoons

Santa Claus will be at Elm St. Park tomorrow afternoon from 4 until 5:30 and each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon until Christmas.

St. Nick will mount his big sleigh which sits in the center of the Christmas lane at the park.

A mail box has been set up on the Christmas lane in which kids may drop their letters to Santa in case they miss him during the regular hours.
