

$120,380 Grant Awarded Farmville Sewerage Plan

FARMVILLE — Farmville town officials today began planning for use of a $120,380 grant from the federal government for construction of a sewerage treatment plant.

The grant is the first awarded to a North Carolina town since passage of a Water Pollution Control Act last July 9. Notification of the award was made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare through North Carolina Senator W. Kerr Scott yesterday.

The federal funds will be combined with local funds made available in a May 1955, bond issue for construction of the plant between Hollywood Cemetery and Little Contentnea Creek. According to terms of the application made by Farmville officials the contract for the job must be let within approximately 45 calendar days of the government's approval of the project.

According to Town Clerk Cleveland Paylor, Farmville's application for a grant of $127,000 was filed with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare on November 29. The application included preliminary plans, engineering findings and proposed costs of the plant. Action on the application was started as soon as the application was received.

"We did not get what we had anticipated," Paylor said, "but it is certainly a real help. Our figure was based on the percentage of help we had understood would be available and it was probably analyzed differently in Washington. We are certainly hopeful that the money will enable us to get to work quickly and we're going to advertise for bids as soon as possible."

The new advertisement for bids will be the second one the town has made. First bids were all rejected when contractors refused to accept the plans for the amount of money the town had available and the plans were sent back to engineers for modification. The modification proceedings were halted, however, when news of the availability of federal funds was noted and the town now hopes to be able to construct the plant as it was originally designed.

Local funds for the project will come from a $430,000 bond issue approved by Farmville voters on May 3, 1955. That bond issue included funds for the sewerage treatment plant and extension and enlargement of the sanitary sewer system in the town. A bid for the sewer system work has already been let and work is in progress on that project.

In the application for federal funds for the plant, the town noted that it had $297,500 available for the project. Estimated cost of the work will be $425,000 and Paylor said the town expects to be able to do the job with the local and federal funds it will have available.

Plans for the plant, one of the first in smaller towns in eastern North Carolina, began in 1953. They were discussed and formulated prior to the bond election and have been generally accepted by Farmville citizens, according to Paylor, on the basis that the plant is "necessary from a standpoint of health and sanitation."

In announcing the grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Senator Scott said yesterday, "This new pollution law, which set up a fund of 50 million dollars in federal money for grants to cities and towns, is the first real step the federal government has yet taken to come to grips with the pollution problem." He also pointed out that, under the law, cities and towns cannot receive more than one-third the total cost of the project in federal funds. The remainder has to come from state or local funds.

Go-Ahead Given To Gas Pipe Line

WASHINGTON — Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. of Houston, Tex., has been authorized by the Power Commission to bill 350 miles of natural gas pipe line at an estimated cost of $30,638,000.

The line, which was authorized yesterday, would increase Transcontinental's capacity by nearly 126 million cubic feet of gas daily for deliveries in nine states including the Carolinas.

Simultaneously, however, FPC Examiner Emory J. Woodall denied a request by Trans-Carolina Pipe Line Corp. of Raleigh, N. C., for authority to serve the tri-state Carolinas. Woodall said Trans-Carolina had failed to show its 22-million-dollar project would be practical.

The examiner said that competitive proposals by North Carolina Natural Gas Corp., Raleigh, and Carolina Pipeline Co., Greenville, S. C., which previously were authorized by their respective state regulatory boards, were "superior in areas of coverage and cost of service to the similar service proposed by Trans-Carolina."

Woodall also said that a conflict between Piedmont Natural Gas Co. of Charlotte, N. C., and the authorities of Chester, S. C., over service to Chester, and Great Falls, S. C., "must be resolved under the laws of South Carolina by negotiation or legal action."

"The present public convenience and necessity," Woodall said, "relates now to the only legally authorized medium of providing natural gas service, namely, Piedmont Natural and its proposed service of 60,000 cubic feet per day for Chester hence, that proposed service, the best now available, is approved."

"However, if and when the Chester authority becomes legally empowered to replace Piedmont Natural as the distributor of natural gas in Chester, public convenience and necessity will then require the proposed service to Chester of 1,332,000 feet per day and to Great Falls of 592,000 cubic feet per day."

The examiner's decision is subject to review by the full commission either upon appeal by any of the parties within 20 days of upon the commission's own motion. If no review is made, the decision will become final after 20 days.

Belk Store In Tarboro Robbed

TARBORO, N. C. — The safe of the Belk-Tyler department store was ripped open early today and several thousand dollars in Christmas shopping receipts taken.

L. E. Ferrell, manager of the store, declined to say how much was taken, but Police Chief Oley Leary said earlier that unofficial estimates had ranged as high as $7,000.

Ferrell said the loss was insured.

About a year ago the store's safe was broken into and about $5,000 taken.

Chief Leary said the safe was ripped open on one side by a metal cutter. Earlier he had expressed the opinion that it had been blown open.

Oley said the safe crackers apparently had removed some vials of tear gas from the safe and thrown them against the wall as they departed to hamper the investigation. How they gained admittance puzzled the chief. He said they may have hidden in the store before it closed.

Their departure was made through a freight elevator door on a side street. It was forced open from the inside.

Clarence Hayes, assistant manager of the store, said yesterday's Christmas shopping had resulted in the store's biggest day in its history.

The safe was located in a small enclosed office on the first floor of the three-story building.

Damage to Miss Tadlock's vehicle was estimated at $500. Damage to Rollins' car was around $1,900.

Police charged Miss Tadlock with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Nixon Preparing Refugee Report At Tour's End

SALZBURG, Austria — Vice President Nixon today entered the last phase of his field survey of the Hungarian refugee problem. Arriving in a snowstorm, he outlined plans to place a report in President Eisenhower's hands before the year end.

Nixon said he expects to have a meeting of the President's special committee on refugee problems next Wednesday or Thursday somewhere in the vicinity of Camp Kilmer, N. J., the principal reception center. This meeting will complete the investigation and the report will be placed in Eisenhower's hands before he meets with congressional leaders at the end of the month.

Eisenhower has promised Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab the United States will do everything in its power to help solve the problem created by the movement of refugees into Austria. A high official source said Wednesday Nixon believes the United States should admit more than the 21,500 it has agreed to receive.

The vice president is flying home via Iceland, where the big U.S. air base was a recent political issue.

Nixon came here from Vienna by special train. Following the pattern of his previous days in Austria, Nixon first shook hands with the Austrian officials gathered to greet him, then hurried over to talk with the groups of private citizens.

"Do you mind if I go over and meet some of your people?" he asked a local official.

In a moment, Nixon had shaken hands with about 20 persons.

Nixon's fondness for handshaking raised a question about his visit to Iceland Sunday. Someone asked if he would shake hands with Iceland's two leftist ministers: Communist Trade and Fisheries Minister Ludvig Josepsson and pro-Communist Health Minister Hannibal Waldmarsson.

U. S. Deputy Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, who accompanied Nixon on this trip, replied, saying: "Iceland recently reversed its demand that U. S. troops be withdrawn from the island. Washington made it clear that the Reykjavik government changed its mind after the Soviets smashed the Hungarian revolt.

Rep. Robert Wilson (R - Calif), who has been accompanying Nixon, said the reason for Nixon's scheduled six-hour stopover is: "Everybody goes through Iceland. Nobody stops there."

However, the brief visit was believed directly connected with the new arrangements to let the Americans stay in Iceland.

Nixon winds up his fact-finding tour of Hungarian refugee camps with a visit to several camps today in the Salzburg area and across the border in West Germany. The vice president says the United States must do more than it has done to help solve the refugee problem. He is expected to recommend to President Eisenhower that America take in more than the 21,500 refugees already approved.

Nixon today pleaded American help for refugees who fled East European Communist countries prior to the Hungarian revolt. He made the promise on a visit to the Glasenbach refugee camp five miles south of Salzburg. There are about 600 refugees at this camp, about 90 per cent of them Yugoslavs.

The Glasenbach refugees have been there three to five months. Austrian officials estimated there are 30,000 more of such refugees in other camps in the country.

From Salzburg Nixon was to go by train to Munich. There he was to confer with West German Finance Minister Fritz Schaefler on the problem of Hungarian refugees in that country. The Bonn government has promised to take one refugee for every 10 who escape from Hungary.

Nixon also was to watch the departure from Germany of a U.S. military airlift for refugees. He will greet the American colony in Munich early tonight and then attend a dinner to be given in his honor by Bavarian Minister President Wilhelm Hoegner.

UN Delegates On Their Ways Home

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Weary U. N. delegates headed home today for a Christmas recess after arguing into the night on troubles in the Middle East and other unfinished business.

The latest round on the Middle East ended on an uncertain note when Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold announced that Israel planned a partial withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula by Jan. 10, but that he could not say when all Israeli forces would be out of the area.

Hammarskjold spoke in reply to demands by Jordan and other Arab delegates as to how fast the Israelis were pulling out.

The Middle East dispute was revived when France brought fresh charges before the General Assembly that Egypt had mistreated and deported her nationals.

The Arabs quickly launched a full dress debate on the whole

Middle Eastern situation.

Hammarskjold and the United States had tried all week to head off the squabble.

Israel's Abba Eban added to the dispute by accusing Egypt of deporting Jews of various citizenship.

A parade of Arab speakers accused Britain and France of "collusion" with Israel in the invasion of Egypt.

Jordan charged the Israelis had perpetrated the "outrageous crime of genocide" during the attack on Egypt, and called on Hammarskjold to report as soon as possible on how far Israel has pulled back toward the 1949 armistice lines.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov jumped into the squabble, declaring the "three aggressors" were conducting a slander campaign the Assembly should reject.

U. S. delegate James J. Wadsworth made an 11th hour attempt to softpedal the controversy. He called for an end to "this phase of the dispute." He added however, that the United States has received information that foreign nationals have been mistreated in Egypt.

The Assembly approved over Soviet bloc objections an appropriation of the first 19 million dollars to pay for the U. N. emergency force. The vote was 62-8 with 7 abstentions.

A Soviet spokesman declared all expenses should be charged to the "aggressors" in Egypt.

Woolard will head the drive for associate members for Farm Bureau in Pitt County in the position.

Woolard said the drive for associate members will be conducted in each of the Pitt Communities. Included in the associate membership of the Farm Bureau are businessmen and others who are not directly connected with farming but who are interested in farm problems.

Ten committeemen will be assigned to direct canvassing of the county's communities.

Woolard announced that the drive will begin immediately after Christmas and will continue until around Jan. 15.

The county associate membership quota for this year is $5,000. Woolard has served as chairman of the committee for many years. Quotas by townships are as follows:

Carriers Sort Mail For Delivery

Peak Of The Yuletide Rush Is Behind Postal Workers

BY JIMMY ELLIS, Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's postal workers, behind the peak of their holiday work behind them, expect to be able to rest Christmas Day.

Despite the big drop in volume, city and rural carriers are still hauling big loads out of the Post Office each day. Business is still above normal and will probably continue to be above normal until sometime next week.

Flow of mail through the Post Office this week was stepped up by the addition of nine temporary workers, seven of whom helped route men and two of whom remained in the Post Office. Widespread Fog Blanket And Rain Hits Yule Traffic

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A widespread blanket of low fog and rain in much of the eastern half of the nation combined today to disrupt heavy pre-Christmas air and highway travel.

The dismal weather, which cut visibility in some areas to zero, created hazardous driving conditions. The heaviest traffic of the season was expected during the long holiday weekend.

At least 48 persons were killed in motor accidents since 6 p.m. yesterday. Safety experts estimated a record total of 669 during the Christmas holiday ending at midnight Tuesday.

Cancellation or delays in air travel brought a new rush of unclaimed reservations on trains. But many trains also were running behind schedule.

The heavy train loads and delays and cancellation of air flights also increased the travel on highways. The National Safety Council had estimated some 45 million cars would be on the highways during the holiday period.

The 1,000-mile-square mass of fog that blanketed the Midwest yesterday from Iowa to Pittsburgh moved slowly eastward to the east coast and during the night was stretched from Iowa and adjacent states into Ohio, Pennsylvania and east as New York and Miami.

southern New England

In New York, both Idlewild and La Guardia airports were shut down by midnight, with flights being diverted to Philadelphia and Washington, D. C. Hundreds of plane passengers were stranded.

Ferry service of the Lackawanna Railroad across the Hudson River also was suspended because of the fog. The Staten Island Ferry operated behind schedule.

All major air fields in Newark, N. J. were closed. Seven flights carrying Hungarian refugees scheduled to land at McGuire Air Force Base were rerouted. Speeds on all major toll roads were ordered reduced from 60 to 35 m.p.h.

Freezing drizzle slicked highways in parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. Elsewhere it was unseasonably warm. Record breaking temperatures were reported in parts of the mid-Atlantic states.

In Chicago, two of the city's three major airports were closed. Operations at Midway, the world's busiest commercial field, were about one-tenth normal.

An airway traffic control center in Chicago said air line traffic has been affected all the way west to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle and as far east as New York and Miami.

Brought Fire To Fire Station

Firemen didn't even have to leave home to extinguish a blaze yesterday.

A back seat in J. H. Harrell's auto caught fire. Harrell drove to the station and firemen extinguished the fire.

MONTREAL (AP) — This city had 330 traffic accidents within 12 hours yesterday, a police spokesman reported. He said drivers apparently "went crazy."

'My Fair Lady' Described For Chatham Club

"The musical, 'My Fair Lady' is a joyous experience, brimming with melody and laughter sending its audience into rapturous applause," declared Mrs. Emily Moye Hadley, special guest of the Chatham Book Club at its Christmas meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Carter Studdert, 1602 Beaumont Road.

Mrs. Studdert and Mrs. N. S. Beard, assisting hostess, welcomed the members upon arrival at the Studdert home, which was aglow with the warmth, peace and joy of the holiday season.

The mantel, the auxiliary tables in the living room, entrance hall and the dining room table were decorated with the Yuletide motif.

Mrs. Frank Bendall, president, gave a greeting to those present, dispensed with all business and turned the meeting over to the hostesses.

Mrs. Beard presented to the group Mrs. Emily Moye Hadley, who told of her experience seeing "My Fair Lady" this summer. The musical is George Bernard Shaw's play "Pygmalion" set to music.

The story of the musical is that of a Cockney flower girl whom an English professor transforms into an elegant lady by changing her diction.

Mrs. Hadley described in detail the main characters, all English: Julie Andrews, Rex Harrison and Stanley Hollowell. She showed many pictures of these characters, some in colors, some in black and white.

She gave a running account of the story, read portions of the script from "Pygmalion" and played several recordings: two of them were "I Could Dance All Night" and "Get Me To The Church On Time."

Styles have been influenced by "My Fair Lady" stated Mrs. Hadley, and she displayed numbers of pictures from the leading magazines to show some of these styles.

Mrs. Bryan Brown gave in detail the work of the emergency committee on the club's Christmas project, the care of an indigent family.

The hostesses served a congealed salad, cake, coffee and nuts. On each plate were favors suggestive of the Christmas season.

The president, Mrs. Bendall, played Santa Claus, giving out the gaily wrapped packages which the members had brought to exchange among themselves.

This provided a conversation piece and the group lingered to unwrap and to exclaim over the many household and personal gifts that each one had received.

Books were exchanged and the last club meeting of 1956 closed.

Chicod Club Has Christmas Party

The Chicod Junior 4-H Club held its Christmas party in the school lunchroom Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Dancing and games were enjoyed followed by refreshments of cold drinks, potato chips, Christmas candy, sandwiches and cheese crackers.

In charge of preparing and serving refreshments were Dot Person, Jackie Verline Dixon, Brenda Everett and Mary Latham Smith.

Assisting them in serving were Barbara Harris and Pansy Jones. "Winter Wonderland" was sung by Betsy Smith and Carolyn Miller.

Special guests for the party were Miss Margaret Stevens and Cecil Register of the county farm and home offices.

Timothy Club Has Christmas Meeting

The Timothy Home Demonstration Club held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. Paulette Wall.

Yule Party Given By Wootens

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Wooten were hosts to some sixty-five guests at a Christmas open house Thursday evening.

Receiving at the door were the hosts and Mrs. Ed Warren.

In the hall was a brilliantly lighted tree, setting the scene for the festive occasion.

The stairway was entwined with pine and holly tied with red Christmas balls.

An all pink motif was carried out in the living room where a Christmas tree caught the spotlight. The mantel featured two large angels in a Yuletide arrangement. On the coffee table was a Madonna nestled in angel hair with silver and pink balls. Guests entered the dining room through the doorway over which a Christmas bell tied with mistletoe and red ribbons hung.

Pouring Christmas punch was Mrs. Nannie Hearne from the refreshment table laid in green and holding a miniature Christmas tree with multi-colored lights.

Assisting in serving cheese wafers, ham biscuits, fruit cake squares, green party sandwiches, salted nuts and festive cookies were Mrs. Olive Morrill and Mrs. Stella Parker.

Five-branched candelabra holding red burning tapers flanked the gleaming silver service on the buffet. The guest list included those from Greenville, Farmville, Stanfordsburg, Pinetops and Bethel.

Young People Have Program Practice

FOUNTAIN—The Young People of Fountain Presbyterian Church met Monday night at the church to practice their Christmas program which will be given on December 23 at 4:30 in the afternoon in the church.

After they practiced, Mrs. R. L. Peele and Mrs. Calvin Stokes served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Carter Smith and Mrs. Philip Cory are in charge of the program. The public is invited to attend this Christmas program.

Precedence Should Go To Pitt Plan

An area organization to promote industrial development in a portion of Eastern North Carolina could contribute to economic growth of the section and aid in acquainting other parts of the nation with the potential this section offers.

Such an organization, however, could not at present be the answer to all the needs of all the counties for developing better industrial development programs of their own.

A county-wide industrial development organization, supported by special tax funds, has been proposed for Pitt County. Pitt County desperately needs such a program if it is to keep pace with economic growth being enjoyed by other parts of the state. Supported by revenues from the proposed special levy which would not exceed three cents per $100 valuation on property in Pitt, an adequate program could be provided. As results of the industrial development brings more plants to this county, the total revenue for the program would be increased by virtue of greater return from the same levy.

By no stretch of the imagination, however, could a regional organization, such as the one proposed for 11 counties in this area, offer Pitt the same advantages it can expect from its own countywide program. As a supplement to a county-wide program, the area program could offer auxiliary service which would be of value. As a substitute for a county-wide program, however, the area proposition is hardly worth consideration.

While The Reflector is anxious for Eastern North Carolina to explore every possible avenue for developing industry in this area, we are convinced that Pitt should establish its own county-wide industrial program before it becomes involved in an area-wide program. We question the wisdom of Pitt County dividing its attention by trying to work out its own program and establishing an area program simultaneously. It would certainly be unwise for the county to forego its own program and become a part of an area program.

Recommendations made to the County Commissioners for a county-wide tax supported industrial development program for Pitt are indeed sound. Thinking people have long since recognized the fact that efforts must be put forth to bring a more diversified and more stable economy for Pitt County. Recommendations of the special committee appointed by the Commissioners point the way for concrete steps in that direction.

Reasons advanced for the creation of a new State Department of Administration, which would have charge of nearly all of the "housekeeping" functions of State government. The director of this department would be appointed by the report to the Governor, and nearly every other department head would report to him.

The commission found nothing basically wrong with the operations of the 25 occupational and professional examining and licensing boards, but recommended stricter accounting, more thorough auditing and much greater publicity of licensing board activities. In this respect the current study commission offers more reasonable solution than a previous group which could suggest nothing better than a sort of super board to license licensing boards.

The examining and licensing boards have authority only over the professions and trades with which they deal. Their relationship to the public is indirect, and public redress of relief must be obtained through the courts. The proposed Department of Administration would directly affect only the operations of government agencies.

The Building Code Council, the agencies charged with inspection of foods, insecticides, pesticides, etc., deal directly with the public. So do the several agencies with authority over water resources. It is natural that there should be more public interest in recommendations affecting these agencies.

BUILDINGS—The commission found that presently 13 State agencies have some authority over building regulations. It is recommended that most of this authority be centered in an enlarged Building Code Council, which would have broader based public membership. An interesting suggestion is that the Assistant Director of the Budget will be an ex-officio member of the Council.

Up to now the Budget Bureau has exercised almost full control over State government activities, including plans for the construction of State buildings. The Budget Bureau as such has had nothing to do with municipal affairs or private enterprise. Addition of the assistant director of the Building Code Council will give the Budget Bureau, which is an adjunct of the Governor's office, a voice in all matters affecting buildings anywhere in the state, whether financed by local tax time and money required to train for their subjects. It certainly takes more time, effort and money to become a science, math or English teacher than it does to become equipped to teach some of the electives, commonly called "crip" courses, or courses requiring less study on the part of both teacher and student.

And what of the future of science and math teachers? As it is now set-up, the pay reaches its top level after 13 years. And no further increases can be expected. It is fine to have grants for science. And by making it practically possible, it is hoped many will take advantage of the opportunities offered. But this is not going to solve the problem. And it will never be solved as long as the public school pay schedule follows the present plan.

And the teacher shortage will never be solved as long as there is no incentive for those who make an extra effort. The present state pay plan is not solving the problem. So the time has come to look elsewhere for the solution.

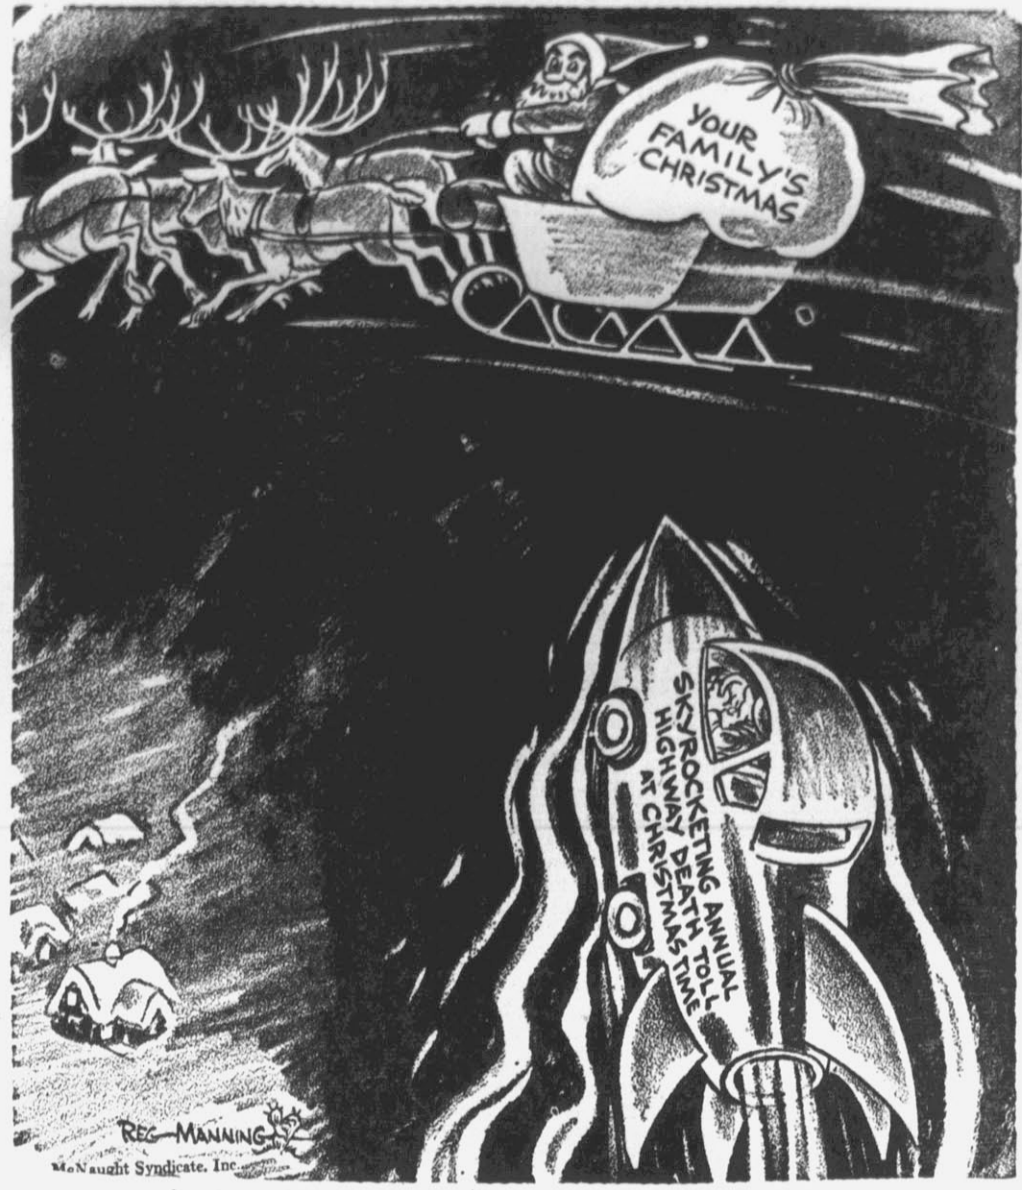

More Centralized Control Seems Goal

By LYNN NISBET REORGANIZATION—Recommendations accompanying the seven reports so far issued by the Commission on Reorganization of authority and concentration of control in a few agencies.

Perhaps the most far reaching suggestion is for the creation of a new State Department of Agriculture, which would have charge of nearly all of the "housekeeping" functions of State government. The director of this department would be appointed by the report to the Governor, and nearly every other department head would report to him.

The anomalous position of the board in North Carolina government has often been noted here. The proposed enlargement of powers makes the situation more acute.

Babysitters Have A School

By AL OICKLE (Of the Greenfield, Mass. Recorder-Gazette). More than 200 school-girls and a few boys and middle aged women — have "graduated" this winter from this town's school for babysitters.

Strength for the Day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS A traveler was showing pictures he had taken on a trip to Asia. Huge blocks of stone were strewn over a wide area. Only a year before the pictures were taken, a great earthquake had peeled layers of rock off the cliff and cast them all over the adjacent country.

Considering Plans To Ease Tensions

By RAY TUCKER WASHINGTON—Tentative plans for resolving the tensions which have gripped the world since the Russian troops from all its satellites, while the Allies pull out of Western Germany, Germany would be united, but would remain part of the disarmament and neutralized buffer zone.

They're still fresh in the memory of many men. But the "big one" always involves the time when all the family was together and there were so many friends who brightened the holiday. Remember? Of course you do.

ON SUPPLY AND DEMAND

6. That we can "let the law of supply and demand take over." The debunking: "Actually, there is no general law of supply and demand which can 'take over.' Under conditions of monopoly, the law of supply and demand will act in one way. Under conditions of free competition, it will act in another. The law of supply and demand is not axiomatic, but merely a description of a set of economic relationships. To say that such a law should take over doesn't mean a thing."

HOPES FOR ORIENT

The Far East: Communist China's request for admission to the United Nations will be honored eventually, with the United States not voting. In return, Mao Tse-tung will recognize Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa regime, and terminate aggression southward.

Our family's Christmas was largely celebrated on Christmas Eve, and December 25 was devoted usually to enjoying a great aura of contentment. The tree, late snacks and gifts were all part of Christmas Eve; mainly, I suppose, because we are an impatient crowd. Anyway, that was the way it was and the excitement was something electric, noisy and satisfying.

THE DEBUNKING

1. That the economy can "move sideways." The debunking: "The economy does not literally move in any direction except on a graph. It might expand, remain static, become inflated and, in some unusual circumstances, contract. But what it might be doing when it is moving sideways escapes us entirely."

THE DEBUNKING

2. That the government can "soak up excess purchasing power." The debunking: "What government manages to absorb must either be spent anyway, or released at some future date. It is obviously nonsense to apply a pat phrase to describe a myriad series of economic forces and consequences."

Economic Cliches Debunked

By ELMER ROESSNER Nine economic cliches are identified and debunked by Haig Babian, director of the New York University Institute of Economic Affairs, and Martin Kessler, economics writer.

In the Institute's magazine Challenge, they state that in economics "meaningless jargon often camouflages good ideas and high-sounding platitudes dignify nonsensical notions."

2. That the government can "soak up excess purchasing power." The debunking: "What government manages to absorb must either be spent anyway, or released at some future date. It is obviously nonsense to apply a pat phrase to describe a myriad series of economic forces and consequences."

3. That a nation, like a family, cannot "live beyond its means." The debunking: "A family cannot live beyond its means for long. A nation, however, is not really like a family and most industrialized countries of the world have been living quite comfortably for a long time with an ever-expanding national debt."

4. That we do not have to worry about the national debt because "we owe it to ourselves." The debunking: "It is not true that the people who own the debt are the same people who owe it. To say that we owe the debt to ourselves is incorrect if we talk about 'we' as individuals and irrelevant if we talk of 'we' as a nation."

5. That stocks must eventually decline because "what goes up must come down." The debunking: "Because we observe the law of gravity at work in the physical world, we assume that such an inexorable law must hold true in the world of finance as well. Actually, economic indicators are not like a bouncing ball. Production, income and prices have been rising in the Western world for the last 500 years."

6. That we can "let the law of supply and demand take over." The debunking: "Actually, there is no general law of supply and demand which can 'take over.' Under conditions of monopoly, the law of supply and demand will act in one way. Under conditions of free competition, it will act in another. The law of supply and demand is not axiomatic, but merely a description of a set of economic relationships. To say that such a law should take over doesn't mean a thing."

7. That a free and democratic society is necessarily more successful in production of material goods than one which is regimented and authoritarian. The debunking: "It underrates the tremendous progress the Soviet Union has made in technology and in the capacity to produce the wherewithal to wage war. We cannot be blind to the fact that economic strength can be gained in an environment of political and social captivity."

8. That there is something wrong with government "planning." The debunking: "There is nothing wrong with government planning as such. What critics object to is not that the government is operating on an economic plan but that there are areas of economic endeavor which, in a society of our set of social and political values, must be kept outside the ken of government planning."

9. That "profit" is a dirty word. The debunking: "No business can stay alive and provide jobs and income if it does not make a profit. Our continued prosperity depends in part on the incentives offered to capital to invest in economic growth."

Other Editors Are Saying... In Line With The Need (The Wilson Times) The news release from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, of the science teachers and college chemists, teachers, is in line with the recognized fact that this country is falling behind in this field. There is no doubt, but what some incentive will have to be provided to make it worth while to go to the extra expense and work to specialize in these fields. The grants are substantial and will more than compensate for the time the teachers are studying. But will they come back to the high schools for which they were trained? There is no incentive to compensate for the extra time and effort they have given the subjects. This is the real question. And the answer is yet to be found. For these trained scientists and mathematicians can receive more compensation from industry than they can teaching. This is the weak spot in the pay schedule set up by the state for teachers. The Daily Times contends that the teacher shortage will never be solved until teachers are paid according to their skills and the amount of earth begins shaking under his feet, then all vestige of self-control vanishes. Here is something terrifying to experience. When the foundations are shaken, all is shaken. The winds may blow and the floods rage, but this is only the intensification of the familiar. But when the ground begins shaking beneath us—this is something which has about it the horror of the original chaos. Let us face the fact that we are living in an age when the moral life of the world is being shaken. Family life is experiencing earthquake. So are all our social relationships, so international life. In these fields the shaking is basic, primordial, worse even than the shaking of the ground beneath our feet. Russia has taken a small step in this direction already in Poland, Austria and Finland, and it may yet make the same arrangement with Hungary. Evacuation of West Germany might persuade the Kremlin to speed up a similar process. Anyway, this joint arrangement has been discussed so seriously that Konrad Adenauer, West German Chancellor, is seeking an audience with President Eisenhower to learn his reaction to the proposal. WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED OF NEHRU The Middle East: Eisenhower will work on the na-table between you and the attacker and, if possible, break a window to attract aid." A 20-question test concluded the course but it was only one of three factors used in awarding "graduation" certificates. The pupils' attitude and participation were also scored. A special manual was given each student, featuring "The Baby Sitters' Pledge." Mimeographing, printing and a few minor expenses were involved but the entire project was put over for less than $100. Billings said. Response from other areas has been overwhelming. Billings spent three days in Duques County last spring setting up a course from which 165 in the five towns of Martha's Vineyard graduated. Commented Edith P. Morris of the Duques Extension Service, sponsors with the PTA, Girl Scouts, 4-H and police and fire departments: "Proof of the success of the project is shown by people who have hired the girls who took the course, calling to express their satisfaction with the way the girls are fulfilling their duties." Chief John E. Koefe of the Rockingham, Vt. fire department thought the program a "wonderful idea," and had Billings up for a first hand briefing prior to last May's course there. Inquiries have come from Peabody, Ashfield, West Springfield, Charlestown and Orange. In fact, the latter's fire chief, J. Arthur MacKnight, attended this year's course and took notes so he can institute a similar program in his town. Greenfield's baby-sitting school is attended primarily by young girls, the average age being 13. But this year's enrollment included two middle-aged women and six boys, which should prove how popular the course is.

Silent River by WAYNE ROBERTS

SYNOPSIS Lieutenant Chad Endicott, a Civil War veteran, is irked when he is ordered from St. Louis to establish an Army post in hostile Dakota Territory. For he must leave his fiancée, Elizabeth Tipton, and postpone their marriage for at least a year. Before he leaves, Chad warns Alvin Stiner, a wealthy trader and his rival for Elizabeth, to respect her engagement or he will kill him when he returns. Myra, fun-loving wife of Major Otto Grunwald, is in love with Stiner, and although she knows he prefers Elizabeth, she helps him plot against Chad. Meanwhile, Chad sails up the treacherous Missouri river with an infantry company commanded by Colonel Randall, who is bringing his beautiful Spanish wife, Isabella. Chad doubts Randall's ability as a leader. As the river boat makes its way slowly upriver to Indian territory, Zack Cumberly, a weather-beaten scout for the Army, tells Chad what to expect from the warlike Sioux. Chad, in St. Louis, Stiner, after a reasonable win, starts his campaign to win Elizabeth.

CHAPTER 8 When Stiner dropped in at the Tipton house that evening, it was the General who let him in. He said, "It's good to see you, Alvin." He offered his hand, then closed the door behind Stiner, adding, "Nero drove Elizabeth over to the Grunwalds for the evening. Hungry for woman talk, I guess. She's stayed close to home since Chad left, too close."

Tipton led the way along the hall to his study in the rear of the house. Stiner had never been here before, and his first thought was that the room fitted the General, with its walnut secretary and black leather chairs and rows of books that ran almost to the ceiling. Most of them were weighty volumes dealing with military strategy or problems of supply, probably gathered over the thirty-odd years that had passed since Tipton had finished at West Point. He noticed how frail Tipton had become, and the thought occurred to him that the General might not live through the winter. He considered the implications of that happening, and decided it would be a stroke of luck if he died. Too much to expect, but still a possibility that must be considered.

"I didn't really have anything to see you about," Stiner said. "No business, I mean. I just wanted to visit."

"I'm glad you did," Tipton lit his cigar. "From what I hear, I guess you have enough business to keep you busy. You know, Alvin, sometimes I envy you the talent you have for piling the dollars up, but there are times when you seem a little cold-blooded."

"It comes from pain, the dollars up," Stiner paused a moment as if thinking about it. "It's a funny thing, General. I suppose the first thing a young man wants is to see what he can do about the dollars; then if he's successful, he finds there isn't much real satisfaction in piling them up."

"You should be married, Alvin," Tipton stretched his legs in front of him. "My wife died during the war. I was in Georgia when it happened, with Sherman. I didn't hear for months until the mail caught up with us."

Tot Endangered A Second Time
CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—Nanette Baldridge, 5, who lost both arms after an accident last year, was in critical condition today for the second time in her short life.
Nanette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baldridge, who live on a farm near Portales, was wounded in the head yesterday when a .22 rifle discharged accidentally. She was visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Baldridge, on their farm. The grandfather placed her in his pickup truck and was about to drive off when the rifle, on a rack behind the seat, discharged. The bullet ricocheted, striking Nanette.

Boy—I can hardly wait!
I've got my stocking hung by the chimney with plenty of care, and Christmas morning it'll be bursting full of all sorts of good things. There'll be a candy cane sticking out of the top... there always is... and a walnut stuffed way down in the tip of the toe.
And then... the tree! I don't think there's a prettier sight on earth than a Christmas tree. And all those presents underneath it, wrapped up in bright colors and tied with ribbons.
Then Mom and Dad and my sister Ellen and I will get dressed, and we'll go to Church. That's one of the best parts of Christmas. For Mom and Dad always say that Christmas is the celebration of Christ's birthday. I love the music in our Church at Christmas—"Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and all the other carols. When I hear them, I feel all filled up with joy, and I know why our minister says that Christmas is the happiest day of the whole year.
Boy—I can hardly wait! And I just hope that your Christmas is going to be as merry as ours!

At the regular meeting of the Exchange Club of Greenville last night Sam Seawell and his Christmas Cheer Committee announced they would deliver baskets Sunday afternoon.

A Simple, Pretty Package

BY ANNE SINGLETON
Reflector Staff Writer

More and more people are taking advantage of the free gift wrapping that the stores in Greenville are offering their customers at Christmas time.

Most of the 1956 shoppers are constantly in a rush and, therefore, are glad to turn the gift wrapping chore over to the stores.

Packages wrapped by the experienced gift wrappers also have a professional touch to them.

The bows on Brody's packages would be hard to create by hand . . . they have a special bow tying machine at the store. This unique machine can make the different fullnesses, depending on the size package that is being wrapped.

"You definitely need a lot of patience to wrap a neat package," explained Ann Moore one of the gift wrappers at Brody's this year.

What is the secret of a well-wrapped package?

"Use good taste," was Ann's quick answer.

"Use corresponding ribbon and paper," she also suggested.

"A real fussy package distracts . . . but a simple, but pretty package goes along with the spirit of Christmas."

After having a package gift wrapped at the store many people still want to give it a personal touch.

Why not dress your packages up with clever Christmas decorations that can be purchased at any of the dime stores?

These next few days . . . one full shopping day until Christmas . . . many people will be hurrying to finish their shopping.

Isn't it a wonderful service to have these last minute packages wrapped for you?

FIRST STEP—Ann Moore demonstrates the four steps necessary in wrapping a neat package. First she assembles her paper, box, ribbon, and tape and judges the exact amount of paper she will need to wrap the package.

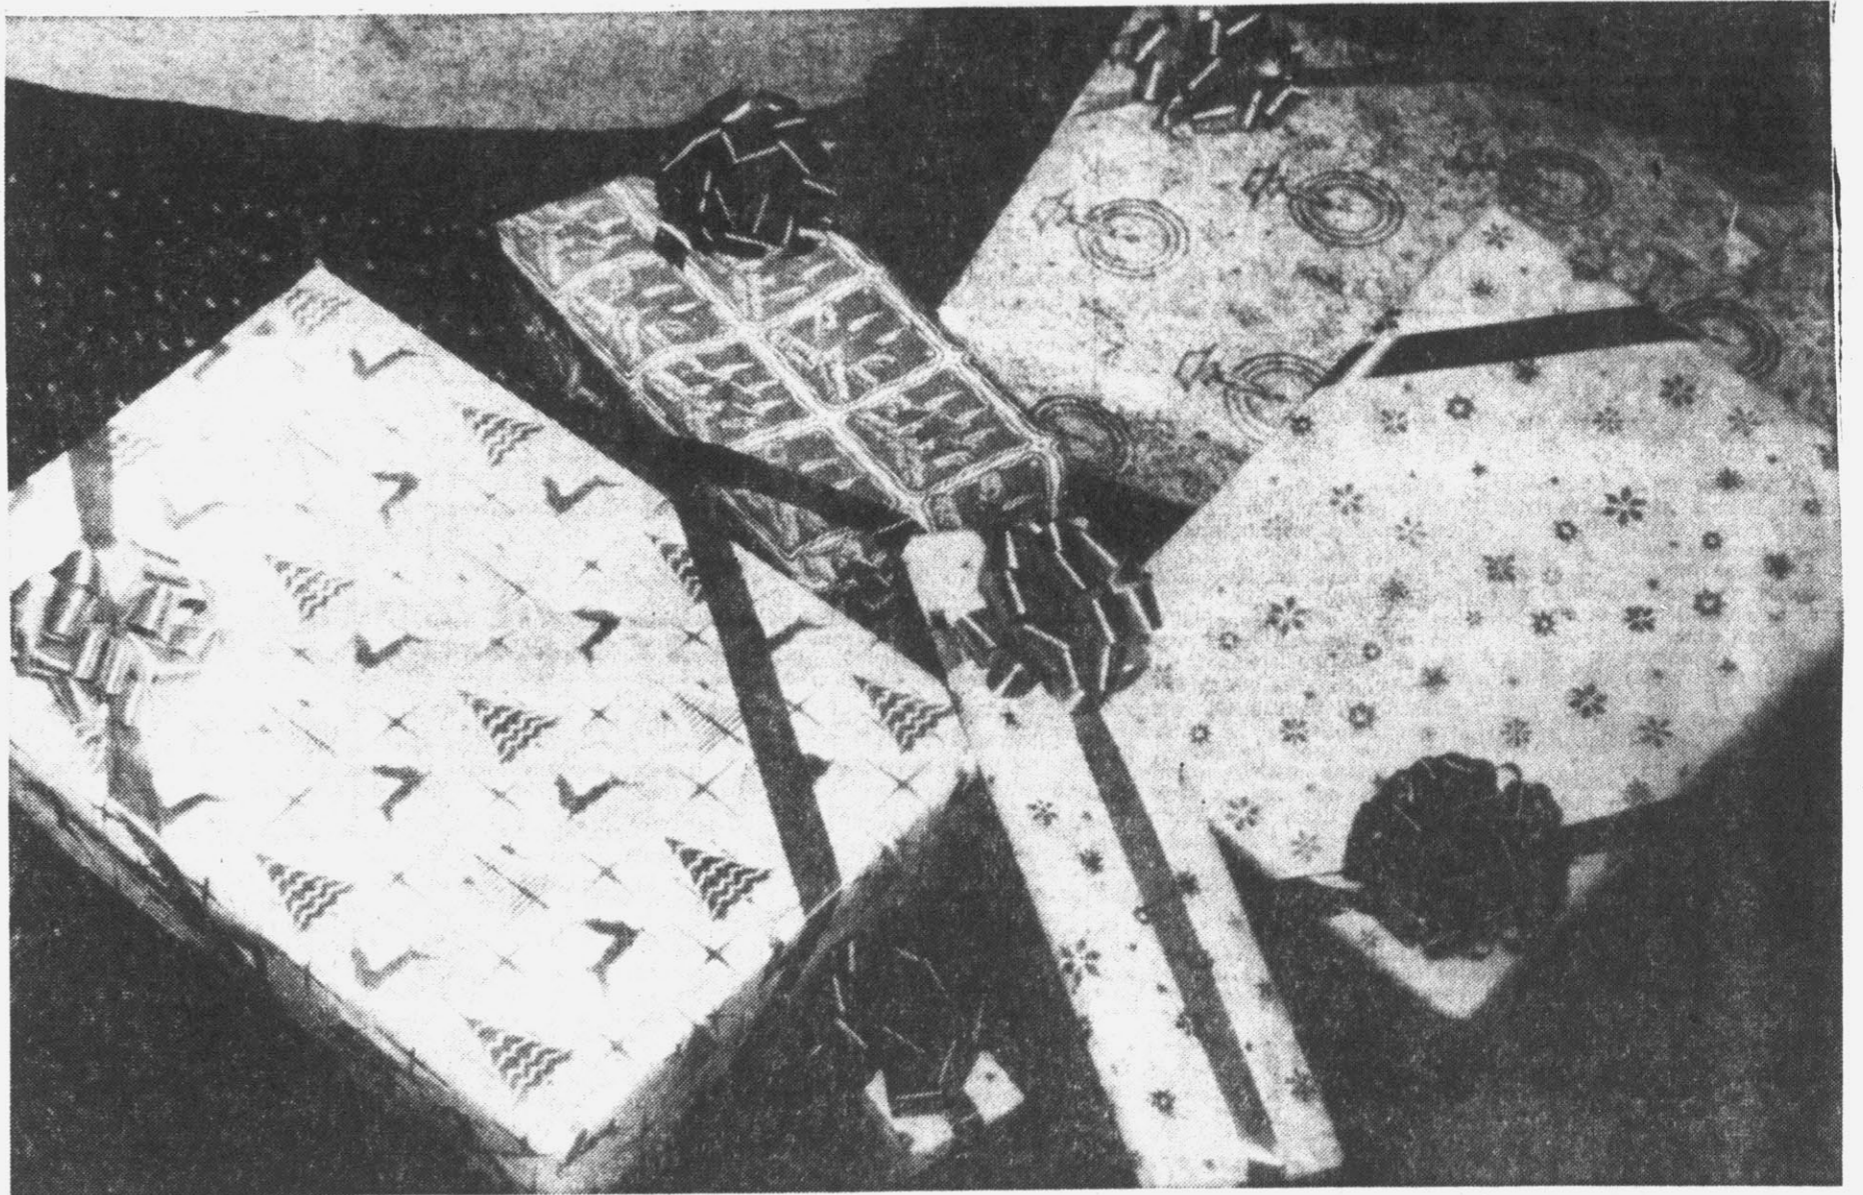

THIRD STEP—The bow is usually the biggest problem with amateur gift wrappers. Ann takes great care to see that the ribbon is tied tightly and not twisted. Often a piece of tape will keep the ribbon from slipping when it is wrapped in this particular style.

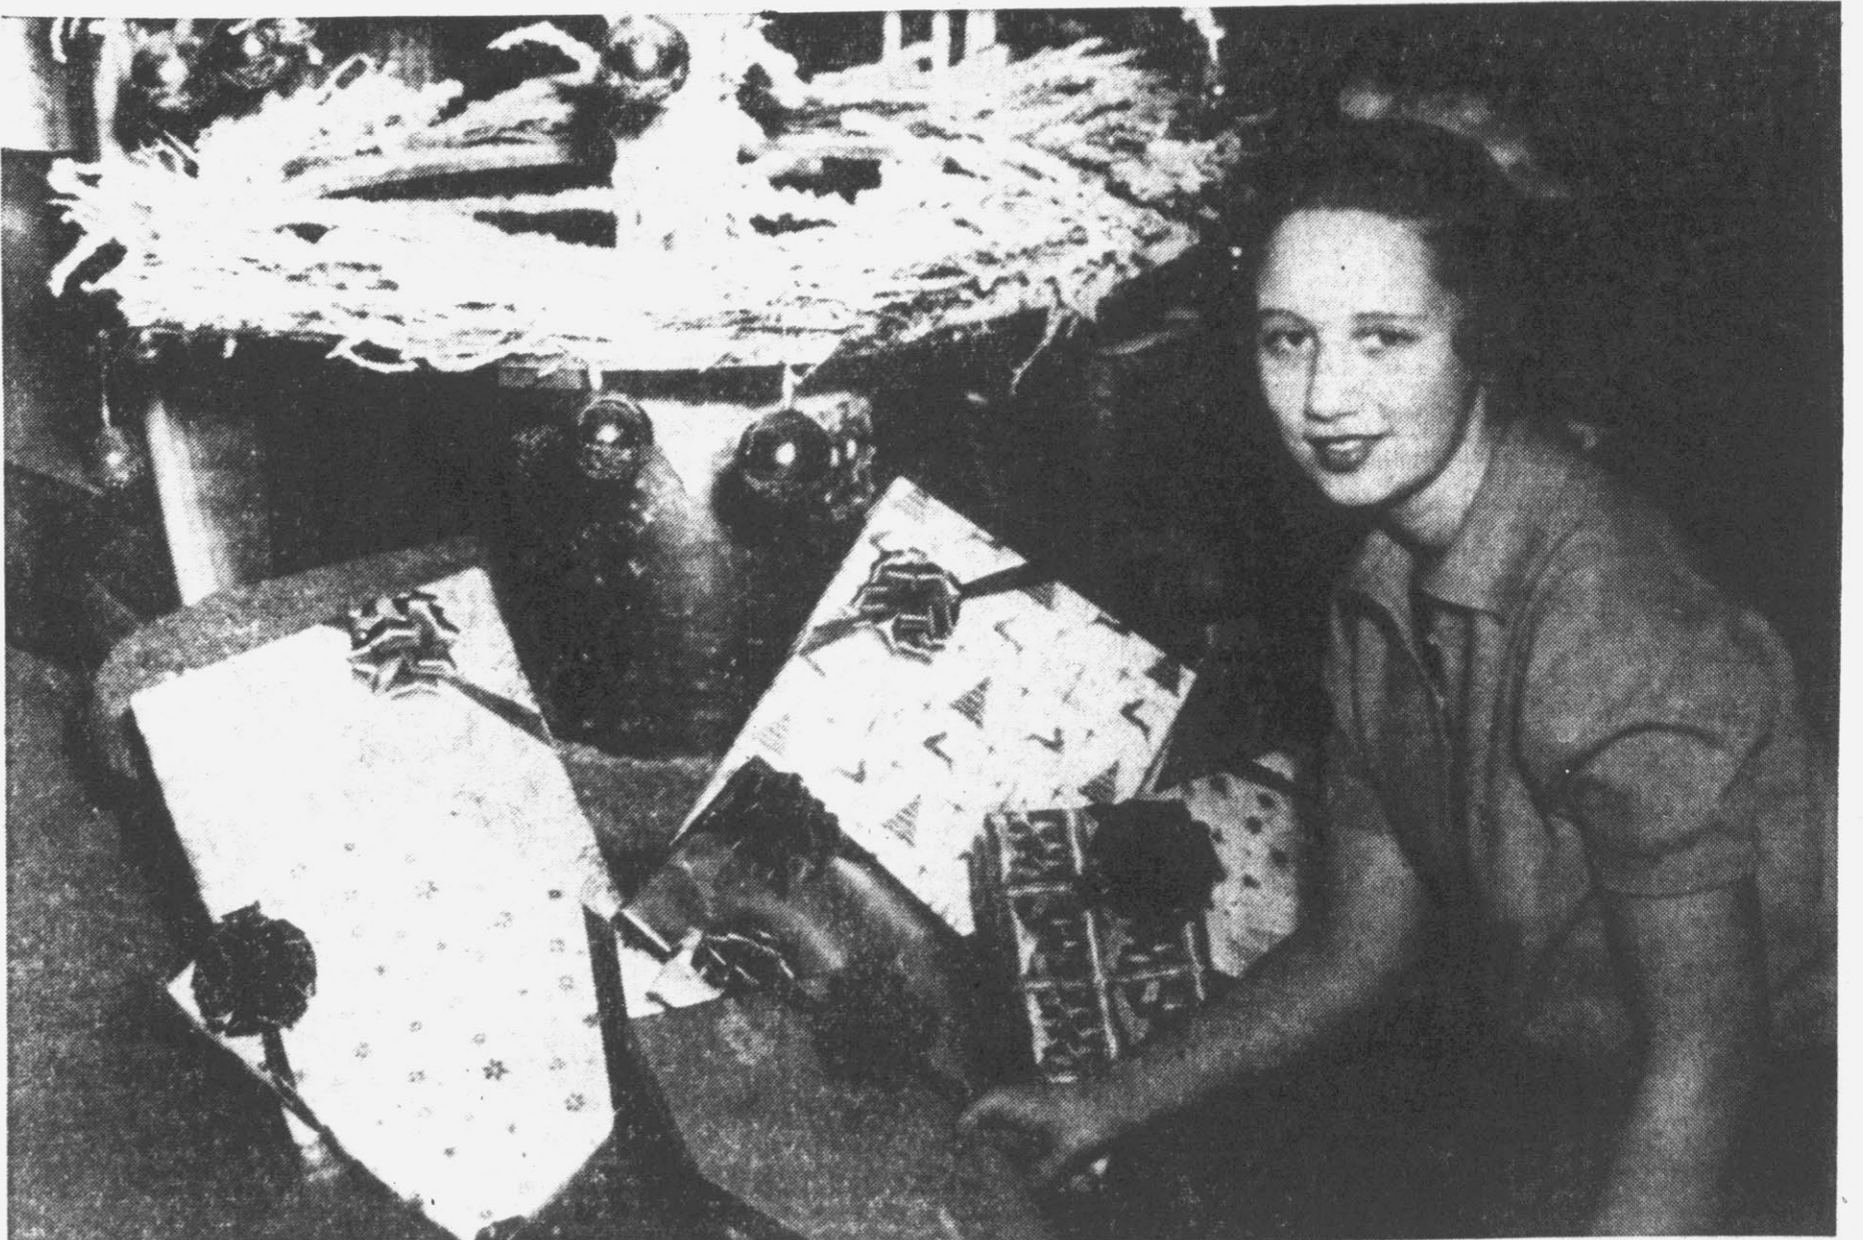

FOURTH STEP—Patience and care must be observed in placing the bow and making it stand at the right angle. Although there is a machine at Brody's that ties the bows, Ann still has to pull the individual loops apart.

SECOND STEP—After she has centered the paper and neatly covered the package she puts the tape on securely.

GAY ARRAY—These are but a few of the hundreds of packages that have been wrapped at the store this year. They offer a wide variety of paper and ribbon combinations.

UNDER THE TREE—Who wouldn't be proud to have these packages under their Christmas tree this year? By following the four easy steps and with a "great deal of patience" anyone can wrap gay, lovely packages. (Photos by Anne Singleton).

East Carolina Trounces Piedmont 112-62 In Final

They Paced Bucs To 112-62 Triumph Yesterday

Porter's New Combo Could Be Permanent

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. — With another of his recent weird line-ups, Coach Howard Porter's East Carolina Pirates swamped Piedmont 112-62 in the final round of the Parris Island Invitational Tourney yesterday to gain seventh place in the tournament standings. The victory was ECC's only triumph in the three-day affair at the Marine Base, and ironically enough, was the most decisive win of the whole tournament. The Greenville team stung the nets for a red-hot 56% of its shots and worked the ball well.

Two Top Scorers
Tim Smothers and Guy Mendenhall grabbed top scoring honors for the Bucs yesterday with 18 points each. Smothers was working at center and Mendenhall was carrying out his first assignment as a guard.

Coach Porter disclosed today that he was "pleased" at his team's development as a combination during the trip. By way of record, the Bucs split even in away games, winning two and losing two. They defeated Pfeiffer the day before the Parris Island tourney began, and went on to win one of three games there.

"We knew we were not right when we left," Porter told reporters today. "Our main objective on the trip was to find our best combination. We knew we had to settle down and find out what we were doing wrong, how we could improve and what our best combination would be."

Yesterday's combination must have been just what the doctor ordered. The Fox had Guy Mendenhall and Harold Ingram running at guards, Tim Smothers at center, Nick Nichols and Don Harris at forwards. Mendenhall was a regular center before the Christmas holidays and Ingram was a substitute guard. Smothers, a substitute center, hadn't even seen action with the Bucs until the Pfeiffer game.

Whole Team Scored
Every man on the ECC roster scored against Piedmont. Nick Nichols, who turned in top performances throughout the whole road trip, gunned in 17. Substitute guards Freddy James and Charlie Adams collected 14 and 11 respectively and Don Harris netted 10. Wallace Lewis, Joe Plaster, Marion Hales and Roy Dennis also entered the scoring column.

"We may keep the lineup as it was against Piedmont," Coach Porter said today. "It depends on how we work against better teams."

With the new combination, the Pirates' brand of ball is somewhat different from the race-horse style of play that haunted the ECC camp earlier this season. "The attack is better balanced," Porter commented. "We can run and play pattern ball, too. Our play seems to roll a little better."

The Bucs have a 4-2 mark thus far this season, excluding the tournament play. Their record in North State play rests at 2-2.

TIM SMOTHERS—A 6-5, 210 pound sophomore from Betenham, N. C., Smothers played his first starting role as Pirate starting center yesterday at Parris Island, and scored 18 points to pace the Bucs in their 112-62 win over Piedmont. Smothers was not even listed on the varsity roster four games ago, but Coach Howard Porter has possible plans for him at a regular post now.

GUY MENDENHALL—This lanky 6-6 junior from Cary, N. C., who dumped in 18 points also against Piedmont yesterday, has been a regular on the East Carolina team for three seasons. In the Piedmont victory, Guy played his first game as a guard and did so well that Porter has indicated a possibility that it will be his regular position for the rest of the 1956-57 basketball campaign.

Ortega Wants A Title Fight Now

NEW YORK (AP)—On the strength of two victories over ex-champ Tony DeMarco, who is ranked 1-2 among the welterweight challengers, Mexico's Gaspar Ortega wants a title shot at the winner of the Jan. 18 match at Cleveland between Carmen Basilio and Johnny Saxton.

"We want Basilio—or Saxton if he beats him—and nobody else," said Manager Jimmy Stinson last night after Ortega had won his second split decision over DeMarco. "We beat the top contender, now we want the champion."

DeMarco was rated No. 1 behind Basilio in the latest National Boxing Assn. rankings and No. 2 in Ring Magazine. Ortega was No. 4 in both rating systems.

The preholiday scrap, witnessed by about 2,500 fans paying about $6,000, was a grueling battle all through the 10 rounds, one of the best fights of the year in Madison Square Garden.

Ortega, a lanky gent from Tijuana, Mexico, beat DeMarco Nov. 23, by fighting him, not boxing, and he repeated the same way. The Mexican almost finished off Tony in the first round when he drove him through the ropes with a flurry of punches, ending with a right uppercut. Ortega weighed 148, DeMarco 146 1/2 pounds.

New York's supplementary point system had to be called in to get a winner in this contest. Two officials had it even in rounds but gave Ortega the edge on points. Referee Mark Conn scored 4-4-2 with Ortega a 7-5 edge in points and Judge Joe Agnello had it 5-5.

Judge Leo Birnbaum tabbed DeMarco by a 6-4 edge.

The AP card was 4-4-2 with Ortega on top 6-5 in points. A ring-side poll of eight boxing writers showed a 4-4 split.

New York scoring normally is by rounds. If they are even, points are used. The winner gets from one to four points per round and the loser none. The knockdown scored by Ortega in the first round proved his victory margin.

NAIA Bowl Will Be On TV Today

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Two small college football teams got their chance to show off before the nation today in the first annual Aluminum Bowl game here.

At stake in the nationally televised (CBS) game between undefeated Montana State of Bozeman, Mont., and St. Joseph's College of Rensselaer, Ind., was the small college national football championship.

Kickoff time for the contest, sponsored by the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics, was 1 p.m. (CST). Pre-game crowd estimates ranged from 15,000 to 20,000.

Barbara Banks, Miss Arkansas, was scheduled to wear a dress made of aluminum fabric during the elaborate halftime ceremonies.

NBA Backs Texas In "Fix" Action

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—The National Boxing Assn. says it will back Texas and California in their investigation of the alleged Texas fight fix attempt and will suspend the two fighters involved for the same length of time that Texas has done.

NBA Commissioner Abe J. Greene said yesterday that the NBA would hand out 30-day to three-month suspensions to Art Aragon and Dick Goldstein, California welterweights.

The pair were scheduled to fight in San Antonio but Aragon said he was sick. Goldstein alleged his opponent offered him money to lose the bout.

After a phone conversation with Greene, NBA President Floyd Stevens in Detroit asked the Texas and California boxing commissions for full information of the alleged fix attempt.

Greene said that if reports from Texas are true, the persons behind alleged fix attempt are in California and added: "We're confident that under the new get tough policy in California, the commissions there will ferret out the complete conspiracy and bar all the participants."

The commissioner also said, "Texas will undoubtedly welcome support from the NBA if more conclusive proof is offered that there was a definite attempt at a fix. The only way to stop fixes is to stop fixers for all time."

He said that the national suspension was to be made pending the outcome of a more complete investigation.

Stevens said earlier, "If the investigations substantiate the initial charges, we will ask the suspension of both fighters for life."

White Sox Will Be Guided By A Woman

CHICAGO (AP)—The balance of power in the Chicago White Sox baseball system will remain in the hands of a woman.

According to Mrs. Grace Reidy Comiskey's will, filed in probate court yesterday, control of the team goes to a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy C. Rigney, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Mrs. Comiskey, president of the club since 1941, died Dec. 10 and named Mrs. Rigney executor of the will. By virtue of a specific bequest, Mrs. Rigney received 500 shares of stock which Roy Egan, the team's legal advisor, said, "is a personal, confidential family matter."

The rest of Mrs. Comiskey's 3,652 shares were divided equally between Charles, an only son, and Mrs. Rigney.

When the 31-year-old Chuck becomes 35, he will hold 3,475 shares while his sister now has 3,975 of the 7,540 total.

Comiskey and his brother-in-law, John Rigney, currently are vice presidents of the team. Dorothy and Chuck, out of deference to their mother's memory, will keep the club presidency vacant for at least one year.

It was announced that Comiskey and Rigney will run the club under joint direction.

Mrs. Comiskey became president of the White Sox after the club nearly crashed financially following the death of her husband, Louis, in 1939.

Mrs. Comiskey and her son had several squabbles in the last five years. In 1952, she accepted his resignation in a tiff over salary and prestige.

After a brief career as a radio executive, Chuck returned as vice president in 1954 and his salary was doubled at his mother's suggestion.

In several clashes between Chuck and former Sox General Manager Frank Lane, Mrs. Comiskey sided with Lane.

Dick Garibaldi, 225-pound 6 foot 4 athlete, is playing basketball at Santa Clara after two years in the service.

Beavers May Be Hardest Workers In Bowl History

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Oregon State College's workouts for the Rose Bowl game against Iowa are in full swing and the Beavers, under the watchful eye of coach Tommy Prothro, are beginning to look like the hardest working team ever to play in the Jan. 1 contest.

Prothro is driving his players hard in twice-a-day scrimmages. Three players have been cracked up by the hard going, all of them reserves. But apparently the OSC coaching staff wants to get the players rizzor sharp. Oregon State has two drills scheduled today and two Sunday.

The all-out effort was a change of Prothro's announced plans. Only yesterday he pleaded that a lack of reserve strength would force him to avoid heavy workouts.

Iowa will skip Sunday drills over in East Los Angeles. Coach Forest Evashevski says he has been holding controlled scrimmages and would like to have one all-out, "but to tell the truth, we aren't ready for that kind just yet and I don't want to risk injuries."

On the Oregon State side, vigorous workouts have injured Terry Salisbury, a tackle, who hurt his shoulder; Chuck Reich, left end, knee injury; and Carl Maxwell, another lineman, ankle sprain.

The Beavers, reports from their quarters indicate, are in full agreement with the coaches that they need a double scrimmage session Sunday.

Iowa's Evashevski says his boys make their own rules on conditioning.

"Before we came out here they noted on an 11 o'clock curfew. When we have our sprints I leave it up to them how much they need to run."

Wallace And Rosenbluth Waging Hot Scoring Race

By The Associated Press
Two of the nation's leading scorers, South Carolina's Grady Wallace and North Carolina's Len Rosenbluth, are waging their own battle to set the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring pace.

Rosenbluth, the nation's No. 3 scorer with a 29.5 average in the last tabulations, pumped in 30 points last night as the Tar Heels whacked Dartmouth 89-61 in the Boston Holiday Tournament.

Wallace, a top scorer last year and showing even more promise this year as South Carolina shows signs of becoming a top-notch basketball power, blistered the nets for 54 points as the Gamecocks defeated Georgia 96-81.

The 6-4 senior from Mare Creek, Ky., had an average of 26.6 points per game in the latest ratings. But he got 37 points against Georgia Tech Thursday night, while Rosenbluth was held to only nine points against New York University.

Rosenbluth's 30 points made him the highest scorer ever to wear a Tar Heel uniform. He now has scored 1,333 points during his varsity career of a little over two full seasons. The previous career mark for the school was 1,322 by Al Lifson, fashioned over a four-year span.

Wallace's 54-point spurge against Georgia also was the highest one-game total for any major college performer this season. Only Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain's 52 points in Kansas' opener against Northwestern comes close to the Gamecock's total.

Furthermore, Wallace could have easily broken the ACC record of 55 points and 22 field goals set by North Carolina State's Ron Shavlick against William and Mary in 1955. But South Carolina coaches said they told the boys to go easy on feeding their star in the last minute.

"We don't play for records," said Head Coach Frank Johnson. "Actually, we didn't know he was that close."

Red Lawson, the Georgia coach, called Wallace "the greatest offensive player I've ever seen."

Wallace has shown signs of breaking loose several times this season. He pumped in 35 points against North Carolina on Dec. 15, and had 30 against Georgia when the two teams met on Dec. 8. North Carolina State held him to his lowest total of the season, 14 points on Dec. 12.

Undeclared West Virginia, the pride of the Southern Conference, tries for its eighth basketball victory tonight with N.C. State furnishing the opposition in a battle of nationally ranked powers at Morgantown.

For West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus, the most encouraging fact is the game will be played on West Virginia's home court—a setting in which the Mountaineers' best teams have been all but invincible.

West Virginia's only victory over State in five previous collisions came at Morgantown in 1948, when the Mounties prevailed 68-64. State won 64-52 in the first meeting of the clubs in the 1947 National Invitation Tournament. The Wolfpack won by 49-36 in 1949, by 85-80 in 1953 in the Southern Conference Tournament and by 92-71 last year, each time in Raleigh.

West Virginia was No. 8 in this week's Associated Press poll, with N.C. State No. 19.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—All is not war and grimness on the Rose Bowl front this year.

Oregon State's coach, Tommy Prothro, was calling into the press room from Santa Monica with a loud speaker telephonic report of the day's activities as sports writers asked the questions.

Without benefit of identification, Iowa's coach, Forest Evashevski, took over the phone and in mock seriousness inquired: "Tommy, what type defense are you going to use?"

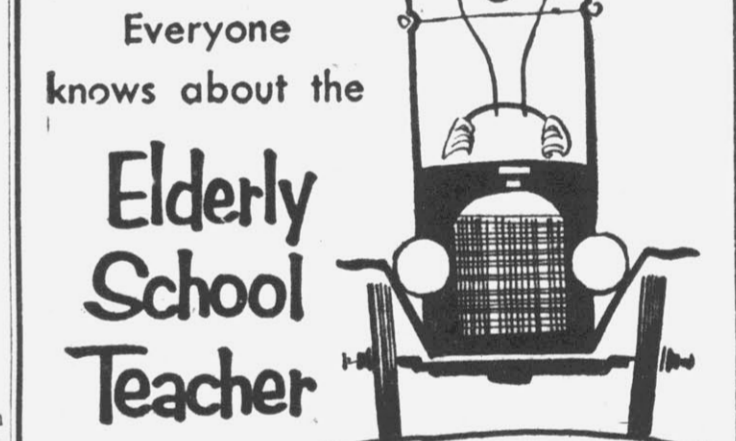

Obviously recognizing Evy's voice, and without a pause, Prothro just as seriously replied: "We will use an 11-6-3 defense."

Elsewhere among the ranked powers, North Carolina, No. 3, made it 7-0 with an 89-61 decision over Dartmouth as Len Rosenbluth canned 30 points for an all-time Tarheel scoring record. And San Francisco, rated No. 2 off its 60-game winning streak which was officially ended by Illinois Monday, stopped a three-game slump with a 56-53 victory over Little Washington of St. Louis.

In the Cincinnati Invitational, Connie Dierking, a 6-9 center, scored 26 points as Cincinnati beat George Washington 89-68. Cincy now meets Fordham, which swamped Miami (Ohio) 67-60 on a second half drive and Jim Cunningham's 31 points, for the title tonight.

Colorado remained unbeaten with a 65-53 victory over Washington, but Missouri, another Big Seven member, was clipped 77-54 by UCLA. Harvard was handed its first defeat 66-60 by Northwestern which hadn't won before. Wyoming also claimed its first victory, trouncing Omaha 68-63.

Brigham Young whipped Bowling Green 73-56; Southern Califor-

PTA Safety Council Voices Call For Preventive Steps

Activated by the two fatal wrecks at railroad crossings that have recently occurred in Pitt County, the Elmhurst School PTA Safety Council held an emergency meeting on Wednesday evening at the home of its Acting Chairman, Frank Steinbeck. The immediate purpose of the meeting was to get early action on the part of railroad, City and State authorities concerning the perilous situation that now exists for the children of Elmhurst School, most of whom must traverse one of two inadequately marked crossings of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad tracks which pass within a few yards of the school property.

The Council decided to submit directly to the City Council, at its next meeting, the following proposals:

1. That an urgent request be sent to the Norfolk and Southern Railroad to erect adequate train approach signals at the crossings near the corner of Elm and 14th Streets and at West Barkley Street.
2. That Singlames be stationed at these crossings immediately, pending action concerning the requested train approach signals.

3. That the Railroad be informed that, in the opinion of most observers, trains passing these crossings are now going too fast, and that they be compelled to reduce speed to 20 miles per hour going through this area, as prescribed by law within railroad limits. The Committee also voted to request the Norfolk and Southern Railroad to include this area in the Greenville yard limit, so that this rule would be enforced.
4. That a policeman be stationed at the corner at 14th and Elm Streets, as well as at Barkley and 14th, to control traffic during the hours when children are going to and from school. The Committee also observed that the 15 m.p.h. limit imposed by the blinker lights now on 14th Street was not being complied with by many drivers, and suggested that any drivers detected violating this limit should be apprehended by the police and punished as speed law offenders.

A vote of thanks was extended by the Council to the City authorities for their efforts made so far to improve the situation near the

Cite Two-Point Plan To Rebuild N. C. Game Crop

DURHAM (AP)— A two-point plan to rebuild North Carolina's dwindling game supply—particularly the quail crop—was suggested today by Dr. W. Rance Stanford, Durham physician and long a leader in the wildlife conservation movement in the state.

In a letter to Clyde P. Patton, executive secretary of the Wildlife Resources Commission, Stanford pointed to the causes contributing to the dwindling game supply. He suggested a plan to remedy the situation.

Referring to quail as a "crop," he proposed (1) that the farmer be taught to raise quail as a crop and (2) that the state make it worth his while to do so.

"There are many things that have caused our gradually dwindling game supply," he said.

"One of the fundamental things has been modern farming. I am going to use quail as an example of the game we are trying to preserve.

"Modern farming has pushed the cover back and, as every hunter knows, the quail goes back with the cover. It has to do this for self-preservation, and as the cover goes back the food becomes less and naturally a less number of quails survive.

"In addition to this, and possibly luckily for the birds, they are less available to the hunter. So as this process goes on, hunting becomes poorer, both because of the scarcity of the birds and because of the type of cover that these birds have to use.

"Since modern farming is the fundamental cause of our difficulty, would this not seem to be the place to start in correcting it? We can't bring back patch farming, but our game experts know ways of correcting this situation without upsetting our farming in any way. So let's do it that way. Let's work out a uniform program.

"Let's let the Wildlife Resources Commission, together with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Division get on this problem and work it out. The extension division, the same group that has taught the farmers modern farming, would be a natural group to help with this program.

"Quail is a crop and since it is a crop we must teach the farmer how to raise it—and must make it worth his while to do so.

"There are many ways in which the farmer could be remunerated. Pennsylvania has done it by seeing that the program improves the farmer's farming. I would not attempt to solve this last problem. I think the governor should appoint a committee to work it out.

"If we could do something about this situation, it would be a wonderful Christmas gift to our sons, our son's sons and all future sons and, if we move fast enough, a few fathers might be benefited, too," he said.

Delighted, Until Bills Arrived

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)— A deliveryman brought automobile dealer Emmett A. Darby 74 cooked steaks yesterday.

Darby was overwhelmed by the kindness he didn't expect. Then another 74 orders of fried chicken were delivered.

A third truck brought a load of flowers to the agency.

The deliverymen presented their bills. Police are still seeking the prankster.

Doctors Allowed Boy To Peek

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)— David Stephens, 6, has been wearing bandages on his eyes for six weeks but the doctors granted a Christmas wish—he got a quick peek at Santa Claus.

The doctors permitted removal of the bandages the other day when Santa Claus came to visit, bringing a guitar for David. Next day the boy underwent a second operation for correction of detached retinas.

The doctors said it is possible, if all goes well, that the bandages can be removed by Christmas.
