supported President Eisenhower for re-election, and some Democrats have sought to strip him of his major committee posts.

John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts will continue as Democratic and Republican floor leaders, respectively.

Senate party meetings will be held tomorrow, with no leadership changes in prospect but with two vacancies to be filled.

While awaiting committee assignment recommendations, Congress will mark time and receive President Eisenhower's legislative proposals.

Even before that, Eisenhower will send or deliver to Congress a special message asking standby power to use American military might if necessary to curb Communist inroads in the Middle East.

Outlined yesterday to congressional leaders of both parties, the plan calls also for broader economic aid to the area, in the expected amount of 400 million dollars for a two-year period.

Dr. Humbert recommended that children be given first shots when they reach the six months age or as soon as other inoculations are completed.

The health director also noted a local reversal of the national trend in polio.

Betty Frances Sutton, Mr. Warren Are Wed

Miss Betty Frances Sutton and T. G. Warren were united in marriage December 23 in a candle-light ceremony at 4 p.m.

The Rev. N. D. Beaman of Snow Hill officiated at the double ring ceremony solemnized in Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Sutton of near Greenville and Mr. Warren is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Warren of Stokes.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Roy Page Gaskins, pianist, of near Greenville.

Miss Barbara Griffin of Ayden, soloist, rendered "O Promise Me," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a lace cap encrusted with seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid.

Miss Janie Smith of Greenville, aunt of the bride, was maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Curley Moore and Mrs. A. J. McLawhorn, all classmates of the bride.

Each wore matching waltz length gowns of pink, blue and shrimp with bouquets of blue, pink and yellow carnations.

Little Miss Brenda Sutton, sister of the bride, was flower girl and Ronnie Nett, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Clinton Warren of Washington, D. C. served his brother as best man.

Ushers were Walter Smith, cousin of the bride of near Greenville, and Ronald Warren, brother of the bridegroom of Stokes.

The bride's mother wore a charcoal suit with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was a purple throated orchid.

The bridal party received guests in the vestibule of the church after the ceremony.

For her wedding trip to Washington, D. C. Mrs. Warren changed to a Navy and white sheath dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid lifted from her prayer book.

Upon their return, the couple will make their home at Stokes.

Mrs. Warren was graduated from Chico High School and East Carolina College. She is presently on the faculty of Stokes-Pactolus High School.

Her husband graduated from Stokes-Pactolus High School and served in the Armed Forces for two years. He is now engaged in farming.

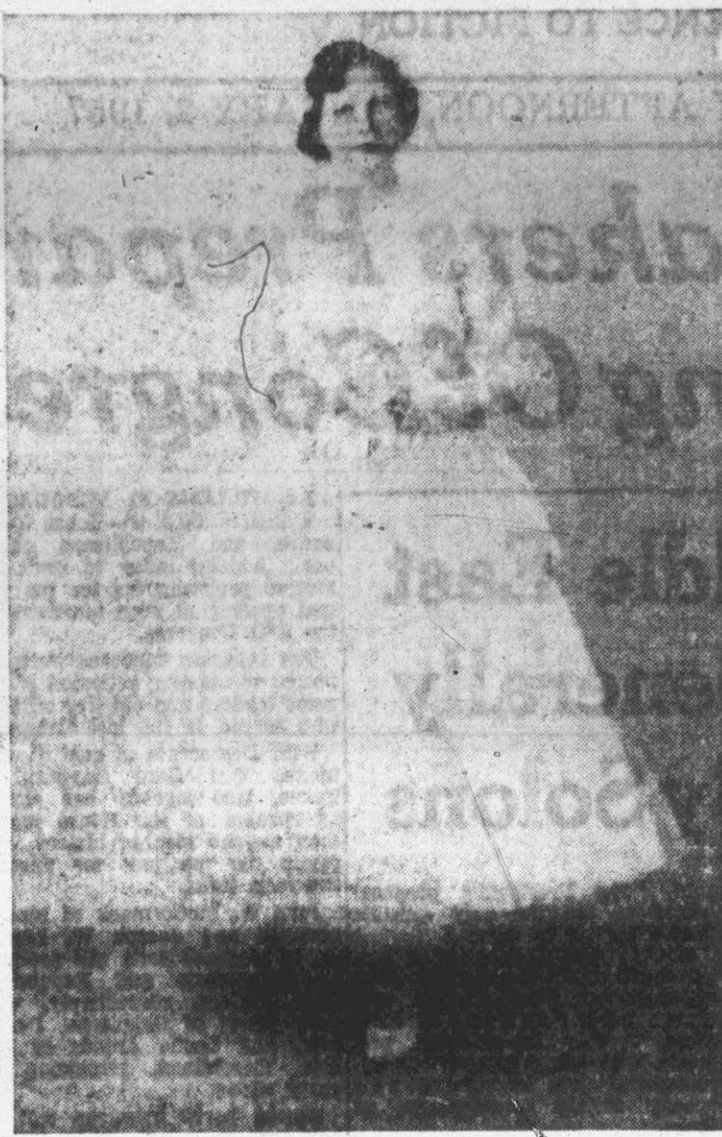

Cake Cutting Saturday
On Saturday evening following the Warren-Sutton wedding rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tripp entertained at a cake cutting at the Stanley home near Greenville.

Upon arrival the bride was presented a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Sutton and invited into the living room which was decorated in pink, green and white.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink. The center arrangement was of pink flowers and magnolia leaves with pink candles in silver candelabra.

Mrs. Shirley Mills, cousin of the bride, served the three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Norman Stanley and Mrs. Pete Nett served toasted pecans, cheese wafers, mints and punch to the 50 guests.

Dr. Eliot To Take On New Job At Sixty-Six

By ANNETTE DAVIS (For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON—All of Washington was sorry to see Dr. Martha M. Eliot resign her post as Chief of the Children's Bureau.

The merry, soft-spoken "career girl," at age 66, is taking on a new job. On January 1, she will become head of the Department of Maternal and Child Health at Harvard University's School of Public Health.

Except for two years service as assistant Director-General of the World Health Organization, Dr. Eliot has been with the Children's Bureau since 1924. She became its fourth chief in 1951.

Dr. Eliot joined the bureau to direct one of its early researches on the prevention and control of rickets in children. As a result of her work, millions of children have been swallowing cod liver oil ever since.

But she is perhaps best known for master-minding the biggest maternal care program ever undertaken by the federal government. This was during World War II when the government provided medical care to 1,500,000 GI wives and infants. For her work, Dr. Eliot won the Lasker award for "administrative achievement" in organizing and operating the program.

Dr. Eliot received her A. B. degree at Radcliffe in 1913 and her medical degree at Johns Hopkins in 1918. From her girlhood when she helped her father, a Unitarian minister, with his social work in the Boston slums, she has given herself single-heartedly to the welfare of children. It has been said that she has the rare ability to combine the scientific interest of the professional with the altruism of the devoted social worker.

In her letter of resignation to President Eisenhower, she said, "I know of no task more satisfying than public service."

It is felt that her deep interest in improving the training of public health workers influenced her to take the new appointment.

During her long tenure with the Children's Bureau, she has seen the nation's infant mortality rate drop from almost 100 out of every 1,000 live births to 27 out of 1,000.

Brazil Nuts Aid Everyday Dishes

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

BRAZIL NUTS, usually around the house at holiday time, can transform everyday fish fillets into a dish that's "good enough for company."

We stuffed the fillets with a nut-and-bread-crumbs combination, served them to supper guests, and had requests for the recipe. We find the fish rolls delicious both with and without the sauce garnish; guests who are strictly weight-watchers may shun it, but others will appreciate this adornment. Here's how we prepared the fish and garnish.

STUFFED FISH ROLLS
Ingredients: 1-4 cup butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons finely diced onion, 2 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs (crusts removed), 1/2 cup chopped (medium-fine) Brazil nuts, 1-3 cup finely diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons water, 4 large or 6 small fish fillets (about 2 pounds), sauce garnish (if desired).

Method: Melt butter in 9-inch or 10-inch skillet over low heat. Add onion and cook, stirring a few times, until wilted but not brown—about 5 minutes. Add bread crumbs, nuts, celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Sprinkle with water and mix lightly. Spread stuffing over each fillet; roll and place carefully in shallow baking dish—1 1/2 by 8 1/2 by 2 inches is a good size. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until fish is opaque through and flakes easily—about 30 minutes. Serve with sauce garnish if desired. Makes 4 servings. Note: Rolls may be skewered or tied with string if necessary to keep them together. Fillets of lemon sole are fine for this recipe. If you use 3 large fillets you can cut each fillet in half crosswise and have enough fish for 6 small rolls.

but here's a reminder. Cover unsalted nuts with cold water; bring to a boil; boil 3 to 5 minutes. Drain and cover with cold water for 1 minute. Then drain and crack. Most modern nut crackers are more efficient than the old-fashioned kind. With this method, the chances are that little of the nutmeat will cling to the shell. A pound of nuts-in-the-shell will give about 1 1/2 cups of nutmeats.

NUT KNOW-HOW
Nowadays most varieties of nuts—including Brazil—may be bought already shelled in food chains and specialty stores. If you shell Brazil nuts at home there are a couple of methods that help the job along. You may already know this one.

SANDWICH-SALAD LUNCH
One of our favorite luncheon sandwiches is made from bread and cheddar cheese browned in plenty of butter or margarine in a heavy skillet or on a griddle. A salad we like with this sandwich is a mixture of apple, celery, Brazil nuts and mayonnaise, plus romaine or water cress. This crunchy mixture is just right with the smooth toasted cheese.

VEGETABLE LIPT
When you want to dress up buttered snap beans to serve with poultry or meat, you'll find they're delightful sprinkled with browned-butter Brazil nuts. After you've cooked the beans—fresh or frozen, and cut in thin strips—drain them in a colander and keep them warm. Then, into the sautépan in which the beans were cooked, brown some

Absentee Votes Discarded In Deciding New Governor

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Two months after the election, the turbulent fight for the Rhode Island governorship has been settled by a State Supreme Court ruling that Democrat Dennis J. Roberts won re-election for a fourth term.

The court's ruling that Roberts had defeated Republican Christopher del Sesto came three hours after the time originally set for the inauguration of a new governor yesterday.

Roberts was sworn in later after del Sesto announced he would not appeal the court's decision.

The state's highest court threw out 4,994 absentee and shut-in ballots that had given del Sesto a 427-vote margin after all votes had been counted.

Roberts led by 207 votes in the count of ballots cast at the polling places.

When the absentee ballots put del Sesto in the lead, Roberts brought action before the court that some ballots were mailed by absentees and shut-ins before the Nov. 6 election day.

The court invalidated 4,994 absentee ballots. Three Democratic state representative candidates also were put into office by the court's decision.

In its 3-1 decision, the court said: "The majority of the court has agreed that, even assuming by extreme liberality there was in existence a valid statute giving the board of elections the right to count absentee and shut-in votes, so-called, such statute cannot constitutionally and legally be extended to authorize such civilian absentee and shut-in voters to cast their ballots on any day than election day, Nov. 6."

Even the dissenting Justice, Judge Harold A. Andrews, a Republican, conceded that the disputed ballots were cast unconstitutionally. He said he quarreled only with the timetable of the petition, which was brought after ballots had been counted.

The majority decision was returned by two judges who are registered as Democrats and one as a Republican.

Associate Justice Thomas H. Roberts, the governor's brother, disqualified himself.

Del Sesto said in a statement after the court's decision: "A divided court has decided the legal technicalities in the controversy over the election of a governor of Rhode Island. Under our judicial system we must abide by that decision."

"Even if a petition for rehearing, or an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court were possible, no further legal action will be taken by me. The legal phase of this matter has ended. The court did not, and of course could not pass upon the far more important phase of this matter—the ethical and moral principles involved."

Roberts said in a formal statement: "The Supreme Court has now spoken in unmistakable terms. In accordance with its decision, I am bound to assume the duties of governor for the next two years. This I shall do with all the energy I possess and I shall rededicate myself to the best interests of all the people of the state."

Shot Wife After She Refused Hang Herself

WAYNESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A bizarre tale of a farmer who allegedly tried to force his wife to hang herself, and being unsuccessful, then forced her to shoot herself, unfolded here yesterday.

A Haywood County man, Way Arrington was free under $2,500 bond pending trial in the January term of Superior Court here, opening Friday. He is charged on two counts of assault with intent to kill.

His wife testified at a hearing that the 44-year old farmer forced her to shoot herself after making her write a farewell note. Earlier, she said, he had tried to force her to hang herself on a rope which he had swung in a tobacco barn.

"He wanted her to take her life in this manner, she said, because he told her, 'I don't want your blood on my hands.'"

He had accused her of being unfaithful. He forced her to write a note saying she was an unfit mother.

The woman said she was wounded last Oct. 30 after her husband approached her in the kitchen of their home and said, "You are going to die this morning; we'll finish this thing in the tobacco barn."

In the barn, she said, she found that he had secured a rope to a rafter.

Mrs. Arrington said she pleaded with her husband and begged him to allow her to shoot herself instead, whereupon he pressed a pistol against her side and forced her to pull the trigger, she testified.

Old Gold Mines Will Be Reopened

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (AP)—Seventeen mines which in past years yielded 20 million dollars in gold will be reopened in the Cripple Creek-Victor, Colorado area.

J. Selby Young of Colorado Springs, head of the Beacon Hill mines firm, said the reopening operations were starting today.

The mines were bought from Thomas Copeland of Colorado Springs and James Knight of Chicago for approximately $50,000 and "the ore values could be fantastic," Young said.

East Shivers To Cold Blasts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The coldest weather of the winter season spread over wide areas of the eastern half of the nation today.

Below-zero temperatures were reported in northern Midwest areas and in sections of New England and northern New York.

The icy air dipped into the Southland, with readings around freezing in South Carolina, and westward across the northern sections of the Gulf states.

The biggest temperature drops, however, were from the middle Mississippi Valley eastward through the Middle Atlantic coastal states and New England. Readings ranged from 10 to 20 degrees, a drop of from 20 to 30 degrees compared with yesterday morning.

Below-zero temperatures were general in most of Minnesota and Wisconsin as well as in the snow-covered areas in the Northeast. It was 15 below zero at International Falls, Minn., and Lebanon, N. H. Icy gale winds whipped across Mt. Washington, N. H., adding to the frigid -27 temperature.

New York City reported the lowest reading of the winter season last night, 13.6 degrees. Chicago also had the lowest mark of the winter, 6 above.

The cold air was expected to continue moving southeastward during the day, dropping temperatures as far south as the Gulf Coast and northern Florida. Most clear weather prevailed in the cold belt.

March Of Dimes Is Missing $4

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The March of Dimes campaign here opened officially today — minus about $4 to a man with a pain.

A waitress at a restaurant, Miss Dolores Link, said a man who complained of a "neutric pain," came in last night and ordered a beer.

The man continued to complain and asked another customer to hand him the March of Dimes container, explaining he wanted to make a contribution. The waitress said when she looked again both complainer and container were gone. She estimated the loss.

Took 'Inventory' And Money, Too

DALLAS (AP)—A customer at a drive-in grocery last night was informed by the young man behind the counter that the store was not open for business and that he was "just taking inventory."

The inventory the young man took included all the money in the cash register. Inventoried but left locked up in a rear room were the store's two employees.

PERFUME FOR JAIL?

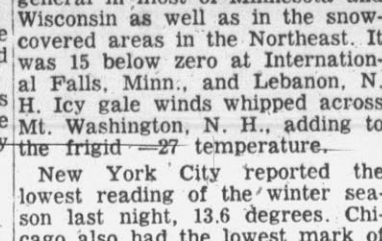

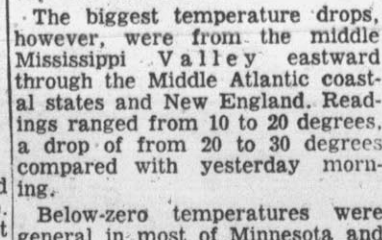

FLEMINGSBURG, Ky. (AP)—After the Fleming County grand jury inspected the jail, it made one recommendation:

"Use a milder deodorant that won't be so obnoxious to prisoners and visitors alike."

The "blind-slow worm" is neither blind, nor slow, nor a worm. It is a lizard, has bright eyes and can move quickly.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

A TWO-FAMILY house in modern style, this plan provides a two-bedroom apartment on the first floor and a complete one-bedroom apartment with its own living room, kitchen and bath upstairs. The exterior appearance is that of a single family house. This is plan H-480AP by the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,186 square feet, contains 31,033 cubic feet.

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany (AP)—Residents of the industrial rich Saarland last night celebrated their return to Germany with dazzling fireworks displays.

The 990-square-mile area became West Germany's 10th state at the start of the new year. As the red, black and gold flag of Germany was raised over public buildings, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer termed the return of the Saar an example of how Germans in the East and West some day may again be one nation.

Ship Sails On After Grounding

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—The Norwegian freighter Ragna Ringdal resumed her voyage after spending nearly 10 hours aground on the Atlantic coast, 15 miles north of Cape Charles. The 13,000-ton vessel freed herself on an incoming tide at 5:30 p.m. yesterday. She had reported her grounding at 7:40 a.m. The ship is en route from Rotterdam to Baltimore.

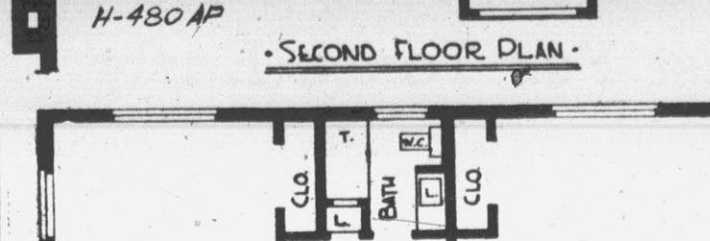

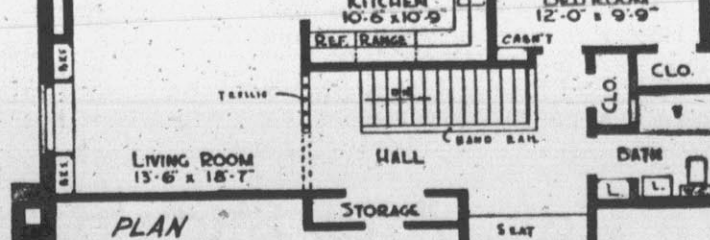

Shout Greeting To Emperor

TOKYO (AP)—More than 170,000 people streamed through the open gates of the imperial palace today to shout "Happy New Year" to Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako, who came out on a balcony nine times to return the greetings.

Millions of Japanese visited Shinto shrines and prayed for luck during 1957.

Fayetteville Has First 1957 Baby

Susan Denise Beiselle, making her debut into the world just seconds after 1957 began, has given to Fayetteville the honor of having the first new baby of the new year.

Soon after she was born, Timothy Roy Smith made his appearance, followed soon by his twin brother, Kenneth Ray Smith.

The 18th annual Iredell County Statesville baby derby was captured by Frank Thomas Gilliland, born at one minute after midnight.

There were many other future citizens throughout the state who followed the front runners. They include: Rebecca Anne Mayberry at Charlotte, Terri Renua Eilks at Wilmington, Joey Darlene Petty at Durham, Ronnie Wesley Luchie at Greensboro, and Tina Renee Baker at Charlotte.

Tina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Baker and their first child, Baker, usually a front-runner on the stock car circuits, had to settle for a fourth place in Charlotte's New Year's derby.

He cancelled out of the Tobacco Bowl races at Winston-Salem for the occasion.

At Winston-Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Garry became parents of a boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Roberts of Marshall became parents of a girl, the first born in Asheville.

Raleigh's first arrival was a girl to Mr. and Mrs. Mennie Parsons of Wake Forest.

Wilmington's first 1957 baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Willie Russ.

Escaped While Guards Slept

SHIMONOSEKI, Japan (AP)—A Japanese fishing ship captured by a South Korean gunboat returned to Japan today after escaping while its guards were sleeping off a New Year's Eve drunk.

The coast guard said the Daichi Chirodi Maru and its crew of 17 slipped out of Pusan Harbor before dawn New Year's Day.

South Korea has captured many Japanese ships on charges of crossing the Korean-proclaimed Rhee Line, which extends an average of 60 miles from the Korean coast.

The East Has Only Begun Its Growth

Glowing reports of industrial expansion in North Carolina during 1956 is sufficient to make citizens of the state sit up and take notice.

Particularly should the relative status of Eastern North Carolina in the overall state picture make people of this area take note of what is going on in the field of industrial development.

Over all of the Eastern Carolina area last year 37 new manufacturing plants were located. While this number of plants, the number of jobs they will create and their combined annual payroll are not to be sneezed at, comparative figures show just how far the East has to go to catch up with the pace of industrial development which is going on in the Piedmont section of our own state.

In the Piedmont section last year a total of 86 new manufacturing plants were established . . . more than twice as many as in the Coastal Plain, and more than the total number located in both the Eastern and Mountain regions of the state combined.

Judged by progress in new manufacturing plants located in past years, 1956 was a good year for the East with its 37 new plants. But compared with the manufacturing growth which the Piedmont enjoyed last year, the East has just begun its progress. This is particularly true when one considers that the East, almost virgin territory so far as industrial development is concerned, has considerably more in the way of untapped natural resources, water supplies and labor pools than does the Piedmont section of North Carolina.

The comparison points up clearly that the East, if it is to keep pace with development in North Carolina as a whole must give more attention to its own industrial development in 1957. For the state as a whole 1956 proved a banner year with a total of 147 new manufacturing plants and 154 major plant expansion programs which represent a total of more than $148 million. These new and expanded plants during 1956 likewise represent some 15,900 new industrial jobs for people of North Carolina and an annual payroll estimated at more than $44 million.

If the Eastern part of the state places sufficient emphasis upon its growing industrial development program, 1957 can bring considerably more results than the past year. This section of the state can narrow the broad margin by which its sister section, the Piedmont, leads in development of new industry and manufacturing. But the East cannot expect to boost its rate of industrial development without increasing its efforts to attract industry from other areas and create in its own communities home grown industry which ties in closely with its agricultural economy.

We Can, And Should, List For Taxes Early

With the coming of each new year comes the task of listing property for taxes. And as the end of January approaches each year lines of property owners who have delayed too long in listing property draw out before the listers' tables.

Each year county officials appeal to citizens to list their property early and avoid the last minute rush which usually develop. In the past few years Pitt citizens have been responding to the plea and the congestion during the final days of the listing period has improved.

This year the same appeal has gone out. Those who list their property as early as possible now that the listing period is open will find they save themselves considerable time and trouble. It also is a help to the county.

Able To Speak With Authority

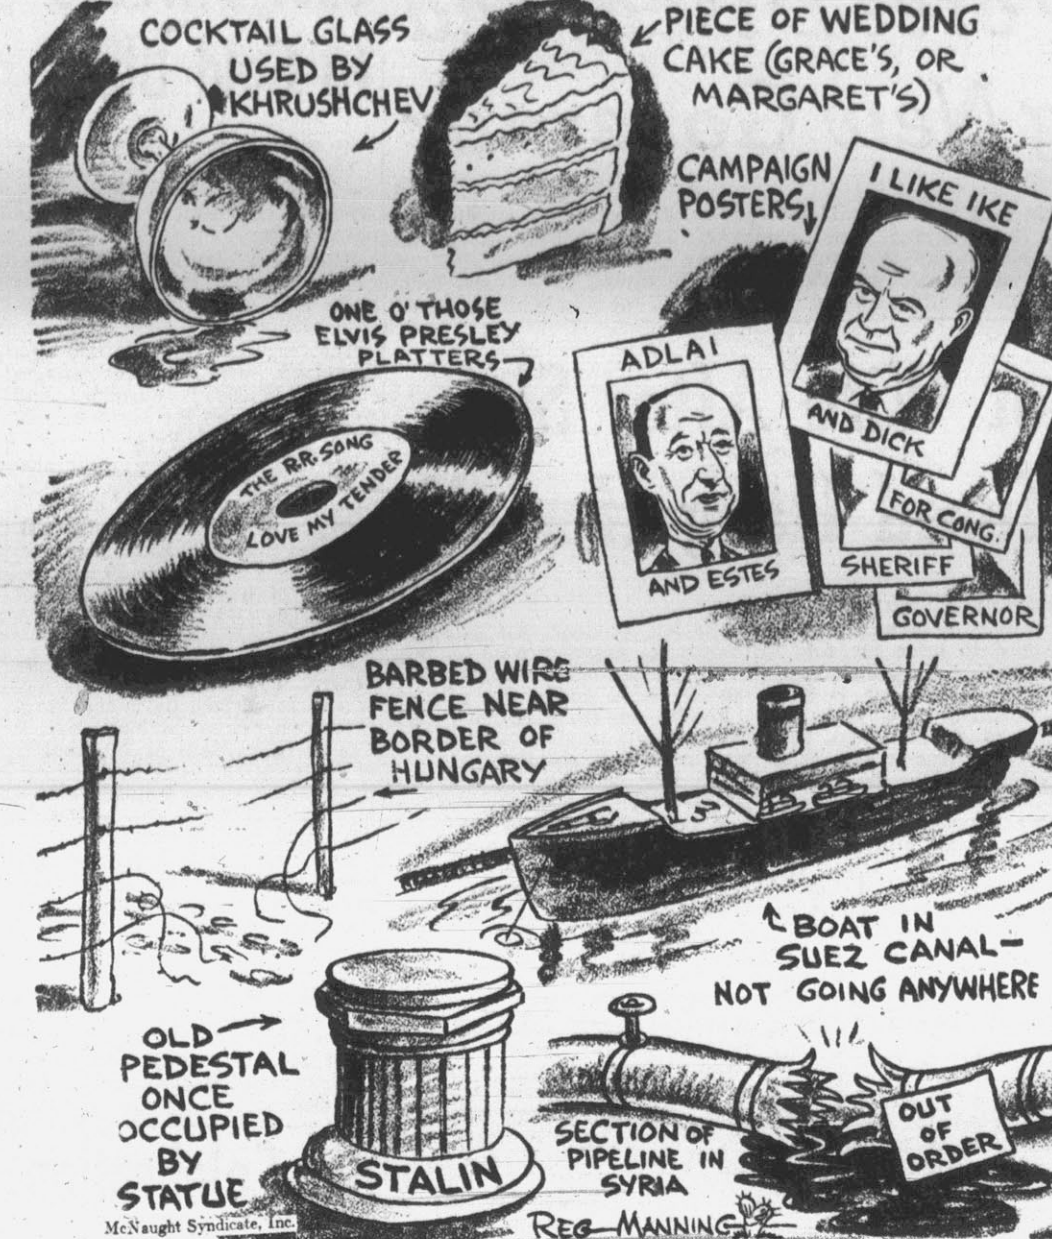

By LYNN NISBET
AUTHORITY — When the bill effectuating the reorganization of the Highway and Public Works Commission comes to the Senate floor there will be at least six members of that body in position to speak with authority on its merits.
Sen. Claude Currie of Durham served as chairman of the Public Roads committee in the 1955 Senate and as chairman of the special study commission which recommended changes in the organization set up. He is expected to introduce and manage the bill designed to put the recommendations into effect.
Sen. James Stikeleather of Buncombe was also a member of the recommending commission and will support it to the limit.
Sen. Henry W. Jordan of Randolph and Sen. Henry Grady Shelton of Edgecombe are former members of the highway commission, with knowledge of strong and weak points in the existing set-up gained from inside experience rather than outside study. Jordan had eight years on the commission, as division commissioner during the Cherry administration and as chairman under Governor Scott. Shelton had four years as division commissioner in the Scott administration.
Sen. John C. McBee of Mitchell was a member of the first State highway commission, appointed by Governor Morrison in 1921, which inaugurated statewide road building. That commission also included the fathers of Sen. Stikeleather and Rep. Kemp Doughton. Rufus A. Doughton later served as chairman by appointment of Governor Gardner.
Sen. F. J. Blythe of Mecklenburg has had no experience as highway official, but through his huge construction company has had intimate contact with administrative and engineering policies since inception of the roadbuilding program. He knows where these policies are strong and where they may be weak.

ATTITUDES — Sen. Jordan and Stikeleather are definitely "staked out." As authors of the reorganization proposal, they must support them. Sens. McBee and Blythe are not so positively committed. Because he is a Republican, McBee will not have substantial influence except for his own vote.
That puts the spotlight on Sens. Jordan and Shelton, both because of their recent experience as highway commissioners and because, if any general factional scraps develop between the so-called Hodges and Scott folks, they may be counted in the Scott corner. Dr. Jordan has demonstrated capacity for leadership and although a freshman in the legislature is expected to wield considerable influence.
In a telephone conversation with your reporter he commended the study commission for its thoroughness and sincerity, and said he recognized the need to keep government administration up to date. He has read the report with care, but before taking a position for or against any of the specific recommendations he wants to talk with members of the study group and others who had some part in the research upon which they are based, in order to get full knowledge of the background for proposed changes. He said he is not interested in change just for its own sake, in accepting or opposing any plan without understanding why it is recommended.
Historic and political circumstances have put Dr. Jordan in a key position in Senate debate on highway organization, as well as other controversial items coming before the next Legislature.

TRAVEL — Effort will be made between now and January 21, at the annual meeting of the Travel Council of North Carolina, Inc., on that date, to revive interest in a statewide organization to coordinate tourist promotion activities.
Although the travel and tourist trade in North Carolina constitutes the state's second most valuable "cash crop" representing a third of a billion dollars in business, its promotion has been along haphazard lines.
The Department of Conservation and Development, through its advertising division which includes a travel promotion section, represents the only statewide effort in this field. There are numerous regional and localized organizations. Outstanding among them are the Highlanders in the mountains and the South Beach Association, based at Wilmington. A relatively new Albermarle travel council is functioning in the northeast, and there are numerous groups devoted to promoting travel along specific highways — such as US 1, 17, and 301. Hotel and motel associations and special sections of chambers of commerce in the larger towns are working independently, and often competitively, to further their own interests.
Recognizing the need for coordinating these activities, Governor Hodges last year called a meeting of interested parties to consider forming a State Travel Council. As a result of that meeting the Council was organized and chartered as a non-stock non-profit enterprise.
Not much has been accomplished during its first year, because of divergent views and necessity to feel the way before launching big programs. The trial and error process has afforded more positive basis for activities. The January meeting, to which everybody concerned directly with serving travelers and tourists has been invited, will determine the future of the Council.

Thomas a Kempis, in his immortal book "The Imitation of Christ," gives us a good word with which to start the New Year. This is his answer to the question "How can I find spiritual peace in a troubled world?"
"Be thou loving and thankful to God for the least benefit that He giveth thee, and then shalt thou be the more apt and worthy to receive of Him greater benefits. Think the least gift that He giveth is great, and the most despicable things accept as special gifts and great tokens of love; for if the dignity of the Giver be well considered, no gift that He giveth will seem little. Odds And Ends Left From '56

Old News, Still Good News

"I see by the papers—" is one of the commonest expressions of the day, and has been for a long time.

Yesterday, in a moment of blissful idleness, I took a few minutes to peruse an old volume of Daily Reflectors dated October, 1926. The news of the day in those papers was just as fascinating as I presume it was when those pages were printed.

For instance: J. A. Honeycutt, 83, visited the tobacco market and reminisced he hadn't been in Greenville since 1864 when he was in Kirkman's Brigade, under Lee. At that time he says, Greenville was just a spot on the road compared to its size today (Oct. 1926). Mr. Honeycutt had his home in Wayne County, near the Johnston line.

Tobacco was selling under and over $30.00. East Carolina Teachers College opened for a new term with reservations for 700 young women and President

Robert Wright's report asked for money to increase accommodations so the school could accept a thousand students.

Tobaccoist J. M. McGowan was killed Oct. 2 when his car plunged into a ditch, and on that same night Motorcycle officer J. L. Nobles was in an accident which later proved fatal. He'd been on the police force here for five years.

Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" played at White's Theatre, one day only; O. L. Joyner denied rumors he'd been shot to death on the tobacco market; the county fair opened with "three times the agricultural exhibits ever shown at a fair in Eastern North Carolina" and there was a balloon ascension as an added attraction.

Oil seepage was found on the property of Mrs. Jack L. Westbrook, and for a few days the community was excited. Editorially, the paper warned not to go overboard on the prospects . . . and the big dream soon folded.

Wyatt L. Brown witnessed the arrival of Marie, Queen of Rumania, and her party at New York, and described it for The Reflector; and Chief of Police A. D. Gardner, of Fountain, found three sticks of dynamite wired under the hood of his car.

All these, and many more stories, made "news" in 1926. Strangely, they're just as interesting to read today.

Opinions In Brief

ELOY, ARIZONA, ENTERPRISE: "Pat, what's this I hear about ye joining up with the communists? Be ye daft, man? It's the truth, Mike. I signed up last week. The doctor told me I had but 10 days to live and 'tis better one 'o them communists die than a good Irishman."

GREENFIELD, IND., DAILY REPORTER: "The little horse jockey by the name of Billy Pearson who last year won on the $64,000 question on the subject of great art, became a champion and since has been on the 'Challenge' and won another $32,000 in that contest. Just an interesting sidelight — out of the last $32,000 he won, after taxes he only got to keep $2,000."

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., INDUSTRIAL PRESS: "We have always felt that the present pressure to bring the Federal Government into public school systems of the nation by the subterfuge of 'financial aid' would be the beginning of the end of our traditionally free system of education."

ATTENTION IS INVITED TO . . .
Hans J. Morgenthau, director of the University of Chicago Center for Study of American Foreign Policy. Because of its timely aspects, The Reflector is reprinting an article by Mr. Morgenthau which appeared in The New Republic magazine. Subject: "The Decline and Fall of American Foreign Policy." It will be carried in six parts.

Other Editors Saying--- Three Days Equal 1 Year

(Henderson Dispatch)

Somewhere in North Carolina a service station pump on next Thursday, January 3, will register the fraction of a gallon of gasoline that will bring to $908,000 the amount North Carolina motorists will have paid in gasoline taxes just since midnight of New Year's Eve. That's the calculation of S. Glimmer Sparger, secretary of the North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee, and represents as much money, in three days—that's right, three days—as the North Carolina State gasoline tax produced in a whole year following its enactment in 1921. There was no Federal gasoline tax then, nor until 1932.

Sparger went farther to say that the 7½-cent State gasoline tax is expected to take in $92.7 million this year. The Federal three-cent levy will then bring total motor fuel tax collections in this State alone to an estimated $129 million. Stated a little differently, it means that gas tax revenues are now being collected from North Carolina highway users at the rate of one million dollars every three days. That's as much in three days as the one-cent 1921 tax produced in a whole year.

The petroleum association executive said gas tax revenues are today running 160 times as much as in 1921, with only 9.5 times as many motor vehicles in use in the State. There is another thought in this connection, too, namely, that the combined State and Federal gas tax at 10½ cents a gallon is equivalent to a 48 percent sales tax on gasoline.

All this can be explained by the fact that government at all levels is costing more than ever before. Taxes on gasoline, tobacco, and other commodities are high, and out of proportion to other things that also pay. But the sum and substance of it all is that Tarheels and Americans are being taxed to support a welfare state.

And they are submitting to it without a whimper in the thought that somewhere along the line a lot of people are getting what they think is something for nothing, which is no more than paying through the nose. The time may come, some day, of course, when the people will rebel.

Decline & Fall Of U.S. Foreign Policy

Part I
By HANS J. MORGENTHAU (from The New Republic)
Whoever understands something about foreign policy and has a vision of the United States and Western civilization at heart must have witnessed the events of recent weeks with emotions whose sequence started with incredulity, passed through disappointment and indignation, and has come to a temporary rest in a sadness and a sorrow barely illumined by a glimmer of hope. What is so terrifying in these events is not that the United States and her principal allies have blundered and suffered a resounding defeat. Blunders and defeats one must take in one's stride; for in foreign policy you cannot always be lucky, always be wise.
What has shocked the sensibilities is the sudden awareness that these failures are the result of unconnected mistakes but of the revival within the government of the United States, of a philosophy which was obsolete as foundation for a rational foreign policy and unworthy of a great nation 30 years ago when it was in its first ascendancy. That philosophy holds that domestic policies are more important than foreign policy, that alliances, especially with European nations, are an expensive nuisance, that a great nation does not need to fuse its personality with its diplomacy and can afford to oscillate between the extremes of indiscriminate violence and indiscriminate peace; that the use of force can be minimized if not altogether avoided by the unilateral renunciation of its use, and that foreign policy must be judged not by the interests at stake and the power available for their support, but rather in terms of some abstract principle, such as resort to violence or violation of treaty obligations. In one word, it is the philosophy of isolationism, adapted to the conditions of the mid-Twentieth Century.

Some of us have been emphatic in the conviction that the United States had outgrown once and for all those glaring errors, and we were proud of the thoroughness, the speed, and the success with which the United States had adapted its thinking and its actions to the conditions of the postwar world. We did not deem it possible that the United States would ever again believe in, and act upon, those comfortable absurdities, because to do otherwise would have meant to despair of the common sense of the American people, of the sense of responsibility of their government, and of the future of the United States. For what was 30 years ago a laughable pastime without direct and drastic consequence for the United States has now become criminal folly putting in jeopardy the very existence of the United States. When we heard spokesmen for the government propound the legal and moral platitudes which had passed for foreign policy in the interwar period, we thought that this was the way in which the government—as all governments must—tried to make the stark facts of foreign policy palatable to the people. They were—so it seemed to us—the tinsel in the show window making the merchandise on the counter attractive to the customer. We were mistaken.

Light On Male Beards

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The Elvis Presley sideburns have become something of a badge of honor among the teen-age rock 'n' roll crowd.

It could be a lot worse. What if they grew old enough to grow handbarbeard mustaches—or honest beards?

Many of us red-blooded, clean-shaven elders who raise against the Presley-style sideburns forget the hirsute sins of our own youth.

If any balding grandpa will just thumb through the family album to a portrait of himself, when he was a dashing young "cakeater" in the flaming 1920s, what will he see? He will see a youthful caricature in side pants, a pork pie hat—and wearing sideburns. And if he's a foxy grandpa, he'll tear the picture out of the album so his grandkids never get to see how ridiculous he looked when young.

One man with a historical perspective is Meyer Shnitler, who may know as much about whiskers as anyone in America.

Shnitler, vice president in charge of research for the Gillette safety razor, has made a lifelike study of man's relations to his whiskers through the ages. Here is what he has to say about the new juvenile rage for sideburns:

"They apparently come into vogue during periods of unrest and especially in postwar eras.

"This whisker trim was named after Gen. Ambrose Burnside, a Civil War officer, whose colorful sideburns set a fad among young Union soldiers.

"What he was to them and Rudolph Valentino—remember his sideburns?—was to the youngsters in the 1920s, Elvis Presley is to the rock 'n' roll crowd today. "What'll happen? Why, they'll grow out the idea."

Shnitler, a tall, scholarly-looking scientist, bristles like a porcupine with statistics on whiskers. He believes that his firm is the only corporation in America that encourages its employees to whack off their whiskers on company time, so they can be used to test company products. About 20 per cent of the employees take him up on the offer.

Here are a few things Shnitler says is known about the 50 million American men who shave daily:

Each has about . . . 000 hairs in his beard, which grow a 50th of an inch every 24 hours. This means he figures, that U.S. men grow about 500,000 miles of beard every day.

If all this were on whisker, it would reach to the moon and back and if it were rolled into a single ball it would weigh 25,000 pounds.

Furthermore, if all the whiskers in just one man's 30,000 whiskers were confined to a single hair it would shoot up 42 feet in a day.

Naturally, a fellow can't tell one whisker to grow and the others not to. But why couldn't all the hermits who are mad at life simply lie down and let their beards grow out and strangle civilization?

Because, fortunately, their beards would grow only to a length of about 18 inches, then stop.

"A whisker grows that long in about three years when it reaches maturity, dies and falls out," explained Shnitler, "and another whisker starts growing to replace it."

Nature thinks of everything. Other whisker lore: A dry male whisker is about as tough as a copper wire. Color isn't as sure a sign of toughness as age.

Why don't men use chemicals to remove their beards the same as women do depilatories on their legs? Their faces are too sensitive for daily use of such preparations.

How much time does a man spend shaving? If he devotes five minutes a day to it five times a week, that's the time he's 20 and 60 he'll put in about 109 eight-hour days removing his facial foliage.

And women complain men never do anything for them!

These platitudes are the foreign policy of the United States. The counter is bare; that tinsel is all the store has to sell. Hence the alarm, the sadness, and the sorrow.
This evaporation of the foreign policy of the United States into an amorphous fog of irrelevant platitudes leaves the country with only two extreme choices, both incompatible with the national interest: retreat and violence, neither subject rational limitations. In place of the statesman's creative task to form out of the welter of conflicting interests supported by sovereign power a viable however precarious order on the foundations of balanced power, in place of that indispensable and noble task the government of the United States offers but three evasions: the refusal to use or threaten force except in response to somebody else's use or threat of it, the indiscriminate opposition to the use of force by others stigmatized as "aggression," the subordination of national policies to the United Nations.

TOUCH AND GO! This teen-age miss exuding a tackle was the subject of a picture story about a tomboy by Carroll Seghers II of Miami. He panned his 35mm. camera to get a little blur and thus a feeling of action. Shot in the shade on a sunny day, the exposure was 1-250 second at f-5.6 with Plus X film. It appears in the 1957 Photographic Annual.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures
The magic of light, by which all men see, made photography possible. Today, thanks to light, millions of pictures are snapped daily throughout the world. Only a minute percentage are great photographs which will endure for posterity. For better pictures, photographers must understand the nature of light better and be able to master it for creative purposes.

With that thought in mind, camera fans might well benefit from a careful study of the new 1957 Photographic Annual (published by Ziff-Davis, N.Y.). Using a new field their annual collection of outstanding photographs according to the principal light sources by which they were taken - daylight, artificial and available.

Ansels Adams is the authority who gives his views on natural light. It's the light we've known for ages - our world under sunlight, skylight and moonlight. However, the qualities of natural light and the interpretation of light in a photograph are a bit more complex than we usually think.

The 'mood' of light is paramount, says Adams. "To simulate reality, we must exercise considerable control in exposure and development of the negative and in making the final print as well. We must preserve the impressions not only what the eye sees but what the mind and heart feel when a picture is taken."

Artificial lighting starts with a private sun, the main light. But, unlike the sun, it is under your control. When it is very close to the lens with a minimum of shadows it can flatten out the subject. At a sharp angle so that its rays graze the surface, it emphasizes the subject's texture. Set high, the light will produce

Secondary lights can be used to soften shadows or when turned on the background can make the subject stand out. However, secondary shadows must be watched to avoid distracting cross shadows. Bouncing or reflecting light from a ceiling or wall gives a soft, delicate, almost shadowless effect. To some it has a disadvantage for the lighting lacks strength and character. This can be overcome by introducing one direct light source into a bounce-light setup, enough to give modeling but not enough to dominate. One photographer accomplished this by drilling a small hole in his flash reflector which faced the subject when the flash was aimed at the ceiling. A small amount of direct light escapes and hits the subject.

There is the danger of striving for too obvious effects with artificial lighting. It should be a tool used to emphasize the mood and carry the theme of a picture without drawing attention to itself. "A viewer should admire the finished work and not the way a photographer used his tools," Halsman concludes. Ed Feingersh is the authority and exponent on available light photography. It has reached its present peak of popularity due to the tremendous technical advances and availability of fast lenses, fast films and super developers. It requires minimum equipment on the part of the photographer and preserves the natural atmosphere of scenes. With less to fuss with, it leaves more time to concentrate on subject matter and the significant instant of shooting. The medium can be misused too, warns Feingersh. To many, the experience of taking pictures under lighting conditions that were considered impossible till now, is an exciting novelty. They limit their thinking about light to one question: "Will it give me an exposure?" Correctly used, it should contribute to the visual impact of the finished picture. One should use available light like an artist uses colors to make a painting, to establish mood and design. All three experts are in agreement that no matter what light is used, it can be adapted to creative photography by a photographer who stops to think before he presses the button.

Still Dazzling Sugar Ray Risks His Ring Title Tonight

Odds On Champion Dwindle

By MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the still dazzling but aging middleweight champion, makes the second defense of his third reign tonight as an underdog to Gene Fullmer, strong, willing, 25-year-old challenger from West Jordan, Utah.

Overnight backing for the sleek, 36-year-old titleholder dropped the odds from 8-5 to 10-1 and it even could be closer by the time they step into the Madison Square Garden ring for their once-postponed 15-rounder.

The scrap will be broadcast and telecast coast to coast by ABC at 10 p. m., EST.

The New York-Philadelphia area will be blacked out.

Win or lose, Robinson will get 47 1/2 per cent of the gate and $60,000 from the air receipts. Fullmer, desperate to get the crack at Robinson, agreed to take only 12 1/2 per cent of the gate and nothing from the radio-TV purse. Robinson in all will collect about $120,000 and Fullmer $16,000.

"That's okay with me," said Fullmer. "I want that title."

Two sensational workouts over the weekend brought the late support for the Harlem dandy. Robinson displayed his old-time power, fast combinations and pinpoint accuracy with his right hand. He was quick to take advantage of his sparman's mistakes.

"That's where Ray is best," commented Joe Louis after watching his buddy wind up his training. "He's quick to take advantage of a mistake and Fullmer makes plenty. Gene is strong and has to stay on top of Ray if he wants to win. But he tends to get wild and you can't do that often against Ray. Once is enough in most cases. I've got to pick Ray because of that."

A majority of the experts, however, lean to the thick-necked, muscular-armed, iron-jawed challenger because of his youth, vigor and drive. He never has been stopped in 40 pro bouts (37-3) and is a dedicated, superbly conditioned fighter with a zest for the sport. The general opinion is that Robinson must take Fullmer within five rounds to win.

Ready To Define 'All-Star' Game

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Board of Education may lay down a definition tomorrow of a high school "all-star" game.

A delegation from Anson County asked the board Dec. 6 for an interpretation of a regulation in the state athletic code which says that any student who has participated in an all-star game is ineligible to participate in that particular sport.

The board told the delegation it wanted to discuss the matter with its athletic committee.

For several years six county schools in Anson have held a week-long basketball tournament, with the winner meeting an all-star team chosen from the losing teams. An administrative ruling from the state held that some 18 to 20 youngsters who participated in the game last year were ineligible for basketball this season.

The state board held at its Dec. 6 meeting that the Anson players could go ahead and participate in basketball pending the board's ruling on the question of their eligibility.

ECC Cagers Face Three Tilts This Week

East Carolina swings back into action on the cage courts toward the end of this week, with two varsity games and a Jayvee tilt commanding attention on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Thursday night, the Pirate Jayvees invade Chowan College on the Chowan court, in search of their third victory in three starts. The Baby Buccaneers have downed Wilmington Junior College and Edwards Military Institute in the opening contests.

On Friday night, Coach Howard Porter's Pirates will tangle with Belmont Abbey in the first game at Memorial Gymnasium since the Bucs were beaten by Lenoir Rhyne on December 15. That loss to LR broke the Pirate home-court winning streak and marked the first loss on the local floor in 50 games.

Appalachian Next
Saturday night, the Bucs resume their North State play, moving to Appalachian for an important conference game. The ECC record at present is 4-2 overall and 2-2 against league opponents. They stumbled before High Point and Lenoir Rhyne early in the campaign and posted wins over Catawba and Guilford. In non-loop action, they dropped McCrarys and Pfeiffer. The Appalachian game is a must for the Bucs in order to stay in the race for the regular-season crown.

At Chowan, Thursday night, the ECC Jayvee lineup is uncertain. Several of the outstanding boys on the team in the first two victories have been called up for varsity competition.

Just before Christmas, Coach Earl Smith announced the roster as the following:
Durwood Huffman, F; C. Huffman, F; Stacey Wells, F; Frank Warren, F; Ed Lauster, F; Wallace Lewis, C; Joe Plaster, C; Ike Riddick, G; Dennis O'Brien, G; Maurice Everette, G; Waddell Solomons.

Should the ECC combination work well against the Abbey on Friday night, Coach Porter will undoubtedly use the same formation against Appalachian on the following night at Boone.

Tar Heels Rank 2nd In Basketball Polling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In a week when basketball tournaments were sprouting everywhere, Kansas, North Carolina and Kentucky maintained their 1, 2, 3 rankings in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Kansas, proving it could win even when Will Chamberlain was contained, took the Big Seven tournament; North Carolina, with Lonnie Rosenbluth leading the way, won the Dixie Classic; and Kentucky went on from a victory in its own invitation tournament to win the Sugar Bowl tourney.

In a tournament-inspired shuffling of other ratings, four of last week's leading teams dropped from the top 10 and some other well-regarded teams fell clear out of sight.

In a rather light ballot, 38 of 77 sports writers and broadcasters cast their first-place votes for Kansas and 25 put North Carolina on top. On the usual point basis of 10 for each first-place vote, 9 for second, etc., the Kansas Jayhawks received 686 points to 656 for Frank McGuire's Carolina Tar Heels. Kentucky drew only five votes for first but a comfortable third-place total of 492 points.

Southern Methodist, winner of the Southwest-Confederation tournament, moved up from sixth place to the fourth spot vacated by West Virginia, and Illinois and Louisville trailed along in this advance as the St. Louis Billikens also dropped out of the top 10. West Virginia took a couple of lickings in the Dixie Classic and St. Louis dropped three straight games last week, two of them in the Blue Grass Festival.

Duke and Oklahoma A&M also lost their top 10 ratings as a result of tournament performances. The Aggies merely slipped from 10th to 11th as Seattle surged up with a surprising victory in the All College Tournament at Oklahoma City. But Duke, soundly shellacked in the Dixie Classic, dropped out of sight.

The four newcomers to the top bracket were Iowa State, UCLA, Vanderbilt and Seattle, ranked from seventh to tenth.

The top 10 with first-place votes in parentheses:
1. Kansas (38) 636
2. North Carolina (25) 656
3. Kentucky (5) 492
4. SMU (1) 294
5. Illinois (1) 288
6. Louisville (1) 268
7. Iowa State (1) 203
8. UCLA 174
9. Vanderbilt 133
10. Seattle 125

The second 10, in order:
Oklahoma A & M, Tennessee, Manhattan, Western Kentucky, Canisius, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Wake Forest, West Virginia and Memphis State.

Baylor Upsets Tennessee To Pose As 1957 'Threat'

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Baylor Coach Sam Boyd, his 13-year-old Sugar Bowl victory over Tennessee damped by an unfortunate player squabble, warned the Southwest Conference today his Bears were the team to beat for the title next fall.

The 43-year-old Boyd, a stand-out end at Baylor in the 1930s, had reason to be optimistic the way his squad handled one of the year's top teams in the 23rd staging of the Sugar Bowl yesterday. Only 17 players on the 57-man square are seniors.

The sweetness of victory was bitter, since fullback Larry Hickman was ejected from the game for kicking Tennessee guard Bruce Burnham in the face during a third quarter hassle.

The injury sent Burnham to the hospital where he was treated for a slight concussion and facial lacerations. Hospital spokesmen said he was scheduled for release today "barring any complications."

Burnham would have also been ejected from the game since it was his personal foul which touched Del Shofner's punt on the five in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, danced back to the 12 but fumbled when tackled and Baylor Reuban Saage recovered on the 15. Four plays later and the Bears had the winning touchdown. Sub quarterback Buddy Humphrey went over from about a half-foot out.

Tennessee Coach Ken Wyatt offered no excuses, but rather he contended his Vols "played a great game. We just made too many mistakes."

The setback continued Tennessee's jinx in the Sugar Bowl. It marked the Volunteers' third setback against one victory in the New Orleans New Year's extravaganza. The game marked Baylor's debut in the Sugar Bowl.

Hickman spoke at the banquet for players, coaches and officials of the two schools and apologized for his part in the third period brawl.

"I couldn't be more sorry," he said, and asked Tennessee players present to find it in your hearts to forgive me.

Boyd sadly admitted that the triumph "was the first game I've ever won I can't be happy about." He was at a loss to explain Hickman's action and added he believed "the boy himself probably doesn't know why he did it."

But the incident could not detract from Baylor's magnificent team effort as the Bears handed Tennessee its first defeat since the final Associated Press poll of the season and entered the game as a 7 1/2-point favorite.

Baylor stepped into the lead in the second quarter on quarterback Bobby Jones' 12-yard pass to end Jerry Marcoate.

With All America halfback Johnny Majors putting life into the Tennessee attack, the Vols moved ahead in the third period. Majors swept around end from the one to the touchdown and Sammy Burklow booted the go-ahead conversion.

But Majors was also to figure in the game's pivotal play. He took Del Shofner's punt on the five in the early minutes of the fourth quarter, danced back to the 12 but fumbled when tackled and Baylor Reuban Saage recovered on the 15. Colorado Victory Is Sweet To Ward

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"I'd rather have won one like this, than to win 50 to 0," chortled Coach Dallas Ward after his Colorado Buffaloes snuffed out Clemson's last-gasp threat and wrapped up a 27-21 Orange Bowl football victory.

Ward referred to the seesaw battle that developed in the second half of yesterday's grid classic after Colorado had threatened to turn it into a rout in the first two periods.

And to the losing coach, Frank Howard, must go the credit for giving the 72,552 fans and a national television (CBS) audience a storybook thriller instead of a Colorado cakewalk.

Howard was thoroughly disgusted with his Tigers when they stumbled off the field at halftime, trailing the Buffs 20-0.

And he told them so, in no uncertain terms.

"I told 'em if they didn't get in there and play, I was gonna resign," Howard allowed around a big cud of chewing tobacco. "I meant it, too. I told 'em I didn't want to be associated with a bunch of boys who played like that."

Howard must have gotten through to his boys. They came back and clawed out two touchdowns in the third period and one early in the fourth for a temporary 21-20 lead.

Then quarterback Charlie Bussey made a call which may have cost Clemson the game. Earlier, an inside kickoff had worked—Clemson recovered it—and Bussey decided to try it again. The gamble backfired.

Colorado covered the short kickoff at the Buff 47 and John Bayuk, the 217-pound fullback, scored the winning touchdown.

Joel Wells, Clemson halfback, was the game's top rusher with 125 yards in 18 carries. He scored two touchdowns, one on a 58-yard spring off right tackle and the other on a three-yard smash.

Ward said the Buffaloes played "as good as we have all year" in the first half and "made as many mistakes as we have all year" in the second.

Bayuk, who netted 123 yards in 23 tries and scored twice on short plunges, was only one of the Colorado stars. Halfback Bob Stransky set up the second Buff touchdown with a 36-yard runback of an intercepted pass and killed Clemson's last threat in the closing moments with another interception. End Frank Clarke and halfback Howard Cook shared honors on the third TD. Clarke partially blocked a punt to set up and on the first play Cook streaked wide and went 26 yards to score.

TCU Triumphs In Cotton Bowl Thriller
DALLAS (AP)—Chuck Curtis' tremendous passing, Jim Brown's mighty running, clutch extra points by Harold Pollard and a blocked try by furious Chico Mendoza added up to one of the finest Cotton Bowl games yesterday as Texas Christian beat Syracuse 28-27.

The Horned Frogs were breaking a bowl drought that extended to five games, gaining vengeance for a one-point loss to Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl last year and vindicating themselves from the tag of "second rate" team.

Curtis, the Texas Christian quarterback, passed for 174 yards, completing 12 of 15 throws, had two scoring shots, ran for a touchdown and set up the fourth in the leading the Frogs to probably the most-needed triumph in their football history. Curtis was passing into defeat the team that had led the nation in pass-interceptions.

Pollard, subject to criticism in the past for failing to win games with his extra points—he was the victim last year when TCU lost to Mississippi 14-13—planted four conversions through the crossbars without the ball ever wavering.

Brown, the 222-pound Syracuse halfback who was All America during the regular season and the same in the Cotton Bowl yesterday, put on the greatest exhibition of carrying a football through sheer power that the big saucer ever saw.

Almost single-handed, the massive Negro star, slashed through and around the Texas Christian line for three touchdowns and kicked three extra points—only to see Mendoza's block of one of his conversion efforts prove to be a decisive point in the rip-roaring offensive game.

It wasn't a sellout for the first time in 16 years, with some 68,000 in the stands and 7,000 seats vacant—but it's a good bet that those who stayed away are kicking themselves today.

Syracuse, victim of the most crushing defeat in bowl history, a 61-6 debacle in the Orange Bowl in 1953, with Alabama as the villain—justified the faith of the Cotton Bowl in bringing it here to face TCU. The Orange played a great game and could have won as well as it lost.

Big Ten Continues Reign At Rose Bowl
By HERB WILHOIT
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Big Ten mastery over the Pacific Coast Conference in the Rose Bowl remained intact today, with Iowa's triumph over Oregon State, 35-19, before 97,126 New Year's Day fans.

The Hawkeyes outclassed the Beavers by land and by air to make 10 Big Ten victories to a lone PCC win since the interconference series began in 1947.

Southern California's 7-0 win over Wisconsin in 1953 was the only coast conference solace.

Iowa quarterback Ken Ploen was voted the outstanding player in yesterday's game, and well did he deserve it. The husky senior from Clinton, Iowa, produced a brilliant 49-yard touchdown run and passed 16 yards to end Jim Gibbons for another Hawkeye score. Altogether he completed 9 of 10 passes for 83 yards and rolled up 59 yards on the ground.

This was the first rematch in Rose Bowl history, Iowa having squeaked by Oregon State 14-13 during the regular season last October.

The outclassed Beavers wound up with 236 yards rushing and passing to Iowa's imposing total of 408 yards.

Oregon State's standout halfback, Joe Francis, strove mightily to keep the Beavers in the ball game. He completed 10 of 12 passes for 130 yards and one touchdown, and carried the ball 15 times for 73 net yards.

Ploen's 49-yarder started the scoring and Iowa's workhorse halfback Collins Hagler, made it 14-0 for the Hawkeyes with a 9-yard scoring run in the first quarter.

Hagler got another in the third period on the game's prettiest play. Ploen handed off to Ken Dobrino who handed to Hagler and the latter went 66 yards to score. Bill Happel contributed a five-yard touchdown run for Iowa and

City Councilmen Ban Radio Mike
GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Among the New Year's resolutions adopted here was one in which the city council resolved it would not permit further radio broadcasts of its meetings. The sponsor of the resolution said members had suffered from "mike fright" and fear they would make embarrassing grammatical errors.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Industrial issues fell early this afternoon, putting the stock market down on average as it began its 1957 career.

Leading stocks declined from fractions to around 2 points in moderate trading.

The market was slightly higher at the start in fairly active trading, then weakened with some issues showing sharp losses.

Some financial observers attributed the drop to a cashing-in of profits by traders who were disappointed by the small year-end advance and wanted to free themselves for selective opportunities later in the year.

Shipbuilding shares advanced against the general trend on prospect of capacity operation. Utility and railroad issues showed little change but were slightly easier.

Lukens Steel was down around a point after an initial rise of 2 1/2. Gulf Oil opened unchanged, dropped more than 4 points, then clipped the loss to 3.

Losses of around 2 points were taken by Boeing, Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown, United Aircraft, Zenith, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Du Pont.

Down around a point were General Motors, Chrysler, American Cyanamid, General Electric, Paramount, Illinois Central, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Royal Dutch and United Air Lines.

The trading pace speeded up as prices weakened, a bearish sign to market analysts.

On bright prospects for shipbuilding, Bath Iron Works was up more than 2. Newport News and American Shipbuilding kept gains of around a point.

Among fractional losers were American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central, Santa Fe, Sinclair and U.S. Rubber.

Small gains were posted by Ford, Sears, Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, International Telephone and American Can. International Nickel was up around a point and Caterpillar a fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down $1.20 to $180.30 with the industrials off $2.70, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities 20 cents.

Antarctic Gales Heavily Damage Navy Freighter

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—A great ice flow, driven by near-hurricane winds, slammed the U. S. Navy freighter Arneb against the coast of Antarctica's frozen Ross Sea New Year's Day.

An iceberg ripped a five-foot hole and a series of cracks in the Arneb's hull.

The powerful icebreaker Northwind crunched to the side of the stricken ship. Ice chunks bent one of the Northwind's propellers.

Today, both ships were trapped in the grinding ice pack, struggling to fight free.

Capt. Nels C. Johnson of the Arneb radioed that water was trickling through the cracked seams, but pumps had the flooding under control.

The jagged hole was above the waterline on the starboard side. The Arneb's crew mustered in the holds to shift the cargo and shore up the torn sides with timbers.

The Arneb's propeller and one engine were damaged.

The Northwind—one of the Coast Guard's most powerful icebreakers—was able to smash through ice many feet thick—apparently did not suffer structural damage.

But the pressure of the wind-driven ice was so great neither ship could maneuver.

The scene of the battle against ice and sea was near Cape Hallett at the northwest end of the Ross Sea, 500 miles north of this U. S. base. Capt. Johnson, of Alexandria, Va., sent this account by radio:

His ship was making its way toward the Knox Coast, 1,000 miles to the west, to establish a U. S. base for the International Geophysical Year.

The 100-square-mile ice flow came down on the Arneb swiftly, from across miles of open sea.

If the Northwind can clear a path, the Arneb will try to seek shelter inside Cape Hallett to make repairs.

The Ross ice shelf is a solid chunk of ice more than 1,000 feet thick, shaped like a triangle, each side 500 miles long. Last year the Navy tank er Nespelen was trapped by shifting ice in the same fashion and lost more than 100,000 gallons of aviation gasoline before icebreakers freed it.

If the Arneb, based at Davisville, R.I., is an attack cargo ship about 450 feet long, designed to carry heavy tanks and equipment into combat areas.

Refugee Center Population Rises

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP)—The first shipload of Hungarian refugees to reach America's shores swelled the population of this resettlement center to 6,291 today.

And another six planes were to land more of their countrymen at nearby McGuire Air Force Base today as Operation Safe Haven neared its end.

The military transport Gen. Le Roy Ellinger docked at Brooklyn yesterday with 1,747 Hungarian men, women and children aboard.

One of the children was only a few hours old, a son born to 24-year-old Gabriella Matusek as the ship rode at anchor in quarantine.

"I am happy beyond words," said the child's father, Harry, 26, a machinist.

"I don't care where I live as long as it's in the United States. I don't care what I do as long as I can do it in freedom and earn an honest living."

The parents named the child Leroy Ellinger Matusek. He had the added distinction of being brought into the world by an admiral, Rear Adm. Hubert Van Peenan, district medical officer.

"This is the first time in my 28 years in the Navy that I have delivered a baby at sea," Adm. Peenan said.

The vessel, a former Army troopship named after a West Point officer, is the first of three ships due to bring some 5,500 Hungarian refugees to the United States from Bremerhaven, Germany.

She docked 72 hours late after bucking heavy seas, winds and fog during a 12-day crossing. More than 12,000 dramamine pills for sea sickness were distributed to the passengers.

Bethel Board In Routine Meeting

BETHEL—The Town Board of Commissioners in regular session last night transacted routine business and discussed plans for the New Year. Mayor R. E. Riddick presided.

Members of the board are F. L. Blount Jr., M. L. James, Floyd Thomas and J. M. Butterworth. The board is still considering the appointment of a successor to R. L. Martin, who resigned recently to become a member of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Needed Scholar To Go To Press

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The New Haven Journal-Courier told in a page-one story today, how it had to consult a classical scholar at Yale before it could print today's edition.

The paper started its 191st year of publication today, and the question was how to write 191 in Roman numerals—the "classical style" CXCI or the "early Roman style" CLXXXI.

An editorial conference, assisted by the Yale expert, finally decided that today's edition ought to be labeled "Vol. CXCI, No. 1."

An office boy, so the story said, asked why not just use the Arabic numerals 191 and forget the whole thing.

He was told to shut up.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Approaching New High

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—The traffic death toll during the long New Year weekend appeared headed today for a new record for the holiday but far under the preholiday estimate of 490.

Traffic deaths since 6 p. m. (local time) Friday to last midnight totaled 403. In other accident deaths, 69 persons lost their lives in fires and 106 others were killed in other types of mishaps, for an over-all total of 574.

The weekend traffic toll was far below the 706 deaths on the nation's highways during the Christmas holiday period, which was a record for any holiday.

It compared with the New Year holiday record of 407 set in 1952-1953.

The combined total for the two holidays set a new high, with more than 1,100 traffic deaths. The old record was 973, set in 1955-56.

The National Safety Council, which last week had predicted 490 traffic deaths, lowered its figure during the holiday.

"The drivers and the traffic enforcement officers deserve a big vote of thanks from everybody for teaming up to hold down the toll," Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said in Chicago.

The council said major factors in the lower traffic toll during the New Year period compared with Christmas included less travel, better weather conditions and tougher law enforcement. It also said the heavy Christmas toll had a "sobering" effect and the problem of New Year drinking is recognized by both drivers and drivers and, to a great degree, they govern themselves accordingly.

Four states—Nebraska, Nevada, Utah and Vermont—reported no traffic fatalities during the New Year holiday period. States reporting most deaths were California, Texas, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois, each with 20 or more.

The council figures a traffic toll of 420 for a normal nonholiday weekend period at this time of the year. An Associated Press survey in a 102-hour nonholiday test period from 6 p. m. Dec. 14 to midnight Dec. 15 showed 500 traffic deaths.

Although final figures for 1956 are not available, traffic fatalities in the first 10 months averaged 107 a day, and statisticians have estimated the year's toll will hit a record 40,000.

In the three-day New Year holiday last year, there were 364 traffic deaths, 74 persons killed in fires and 75 others killed in various types of accidents, for an over-all total of 513.

Church Expansion Work Is Begun

Work on expansion of the sanctuary of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church has begun, the Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the church reported to the Methodist Men's Club last night.

Plans call for extending the length of the present sanctuary. Completion date for the $300,000 job has been set for December, 1957.

Jerry Howell, Greenville High School student, reported to the club on his trip to Alaska last summer. Howell told of his trip through British Columbia and Alberta. He illustrated his talk with color slides.

Wyatt Brown complimented the committee on arrangements for the ladies night held in December. Luther Moore reported that a gift had been sent to former assistant pastor of the church Robert W. McKenzie upon his recent marriage.

Joel Lawhon was in charge of the program last night.

Ex-Patrolman Begins Duties In Tax Office

Former State Highway Patrolman D. E. Perry of Bethel today began new duties with the Pitt County Tax Department.

He is filling a vacancy created November 6 when the Board of County Commissioners accepted the resignation of Henry L. Andrews. Perry will undergo a six-months trial period and will be considered for a permanent status when the trial period is ended. His resignation from the Highway Patrol became effective yesterday.

Perry had been with the Highway Patrol since September, 1947, and had been stationed at Bethel. He is a native of Bailey.

Perry will assist County Tax Supervisor Harold Allred. He was accepted for the job December 3 after the commissioners examined applications from nine men and heard Allred's recommendations.

One Day Late In Matching 1955

Pitt County's Register of Deeds office pulled exactly even with its 1955 marriage license issuing yesterday.

The office issued 516 licenses during the year to match its 1955 total. The 1956 work was completed yesterday when licenses were issued to Luther Harrell Barrington, Route 1, Grimesland, and Rebecca Undine Mills, Route 3, Greenville, a white couple, and Marion Tyson, West Hempstead, L.I., N.Y., and Mosella Taylor, Bronx, N.Y., a Negro couple.

December 31's activity also pushed December's total of licenses issued to 57. The number matched June's total but still fell short of the 65 issued in August, biggest month of the year for marrying. Thirty-seven of December's licenses were issued after December 16.

A driver was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way after two cars collided at the intersection of Eighth and Charles Sts. around 8:30 this morning.

Facing the charge is Kathleen Moore Hedgebeth, Negro, 1107 Douglas Ave. Operating the second car involved in the crash was Robert Lee Wolff of 603 E. Ninth St.

Damage to the two cars amounted to around $435. Investigating the accident was Ptl. M. E. Buck.

Mental Health Courses To Begin Next Tuesday

Short courses concerned with the recognition of mentally disturbed persons and the best ways of handling them will be offered by the Pitt County Mental Health Association in cooperation with Chief Gibbs of the Greenville Police Department at City Hall beginning next Tuesday night at 7:30 p. m.

These courses will be open to members of the police force, state patrolmen, jailers, the Sheriff's staff, and any other interested persons announced Charles D. Cobb, president of the Greenville Mental Health Association.

Cobb pointed out that the problem of the mentally disturbed person "is becoming an increasingly greater problem with police officers."

The various topics to be covered at the four sessions are: Jan. 8—"How you can tell when a person is mentally ill" and "How to handle a disturbed or violent person"—Mr. Paul Curtis, Psychiatric Social Worker, Pitt County Mental Health Clinic.

Jan. 10—"How to handle a distressed patient," "How to handle cases of illness or amnesia" and "The psychiatric personalities"—Dr. Frank Fuller, East Carolina College.

Jan. 17—"The sex offender" and "The police officer's personal problems"—Dr. Clinton Prewett, East Carolina College.

Jan. 22—"Alcoholism" and "Drug addiction"—speaker to be supplied by the State Bureau of Investigation.

Each evening class will last about two hours.

Patients Routed By Hospital Fire

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Patients were routed from Charity Hospital today by flames breaking out in the attic about 4:20 a. m.

Twenty-seven persons were removed first to the ground floor of the building and, finally, as water began to accumulate there, to the larger Chatham Memorial Hospital.

None suffered any injury during the transfer in the early morning chill.

Two firemen received cuts battling the blaze.

The fire was officially under control just before 8:30 a. m. Damage to the Negro hospital and its equipment was undetermined, but spokesmen said it would be considerable, especially from water.

Announce Hike In Newsprint Price

TORONTO (AP)—Abitibi Power & Paper Co., Ltd. today announced a general increase of $4 a ton in the price of newsprint effective March 1.

A company spokesman said a letter dated Dec. 31 has been sent to all Abitibi publisher-customers advising them of the increase.

The price rise, he said, is due to increased costs, including higher freight costs.

The letter was posted to all Abitibi's 250 regular newspaper customers in the United States and Canada. The increase would also affect smaller customers who make occasional purchases.

The last price increase came a year ago.

The spokesman said the price before the increase was $130 a ton delivered in New York and slightly lower in Canada. He declined to specify Canadian prices, saying they vary throughout the country according to freight rates.

APPROVE REQUEST

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Utilities Commission today approved a request of the General Waterworks Corp. of Philadelphia to acquire the Carolina Water Co. of Morehead City, Beaufort and Snow Hill.

Tallahassee Bus Line Suspended

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—The first violence in Tallahassee's long bus integration dispute prompted Gov. Leroy Collins to order temporary suspension of bus service yesterday.

Collins took the action under his emergency powers after a youth hurled rocks through the windows of a Negro leader's home and a Negro store was peppered with shotgun fire.

The Cities Transit Co. complied immediately with the ultimatum but the leader of the integration movement, the Rev. C. K. Steele, charged that events leading to the suspension were "concocted by the Florida White Citizens Council."

The suspension temporarily left Florida's capital city of some 42,000 population without a public transport system except for taxicabs.

Collins said temporary suspension of the buses was the only answer "in this emotionally charged atmosphere and in the face of threats and over acts of violence."

With segregation disputes in mind, a special session of the Florida Legislature last summer gave the governor emergency powers to take direct control of public facilities where riots and disorders were threatened. This was the first time Collins had exercised the broad powers.
