LARGE INDUSTRIAL PLANT FOR FARMVILLE

Multi-Million Dollar Plant Slated Open In Early '58

DISCUSS PLANT—American Cyanamid and Formica officials and Farmville Economic Council Director discuss plans for a new Flakeboard plant to be built in Farmville. From left to right are: American Cyanamid President Kenneth C. Towe; Tommy Willis, Farmville Economic Council director; Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, head of American Cyanamid engineering and construction division and Curville J. Robinson, project manager for construction of the plant. The plant announcement was made in Farmville today. Construction Is Scheduled Start Soon As Possible

FARMVILLE—American Cyanamid Company today announced plans for a multi-million dollar plant here to produce 'flakeboard'.

The original investment is expected to be around $5,000,000. Plans for the plant were disclosed by Kenneth C. Towe, president of Cyanamid, at a noon luncheon at the Farmville County Club. Construction will begin as soon as possible on a 100-acre site southwest of Farmville and adjacent to the town limits. The plant is expected to be opened in early 1958 and will initially employ about 100 persons.

Towe's announcement was made to a group of more than 100 persons, including Governor Luther H. Hodges. Others in the group included representatives of state and local governments, industry and the press.

"This decision by American Cyanamid represents an act of confidence and faith in the future of Farmville, of Pitt County and of North Carolina," Gov. Hodges said in speaking at the luncheon.

"It means bringing to a basic source of material, our forestry products, a modern and productive industrial facility capable of producing a product for all America." The governor pointed out that there is a favorable climate for industry in North Carolina and a growing realization of the needs and opportunities for industrial development.

He said he had had an opportunity to talk at some length with Towe and to discuss with him in some detail the efforts of the Tax Study Commission to give North Carolina a modern and up-to-date set of tax laws which deal fairly and justly with all segments of our population and especially with industry.

The new facility will produce a form of high quality particle board, Towe said. He explained that flakeboard is a new product made of wood flakes produced from ordinary cord wood, pulp from wood or based slabs cut into suitable lengths and fed into machines which convert the wood into flakes of desired size and type. After screening and drying, the flakes are mixed with resin and waxed. The mixture is then processed under pressure at different temperatures to produce what Towe termed "a high quality board that is increasingly being used as an alternative to traditional lumber and plywood as an underlayment for Formica and other decorative and industrial laminates."

Cyanamid's president said the multi-million dollar plant would have an initial capacity of 40 million square feet of three-quarter-inch board. The original plant design, he added, embodies provisions for expansion.

The plant site lies between rail lines of the Atlantic Coast East Carolina and Norfolk Southern railroads. According to an architect's drawing the plant will include at least eight buildings, a wood yard and facilities for rail and motor transportation.

Towe said that market and raw material surveys and economic studies resulted in the decision to establish the plant in Farmville, after more than 20 other possible sites had been investigated. The studies involved accessibility to and availability of raw materials, he said, together with excellent transportation facilities to reach principal markets for flakeboard along the Eastern seaboard.

He also referred to the compact community atmosphere and other aspects of "governmental climate" in North Carolina and especially cited the state's "enlightened reforestation program which forecasts a permanent source of basic raw materials."

In referring to the matter of "community atmosphere", Towe especially mentioned the "helpful assistance and warmth of welcome" received from President R. E. Davenport, Jr., Director Thomas W. Willis and their associates in the Farmville Economic Council, a local industrial development organization.

The various factors involved, he observed, realistically satisfied the "arithmetic of economics" and "tipped the scales" in the selection of the Farmville site.

By way of background, Mr. Towe related that last April Formica, which he described as "the outstanding name in decorative and industrial laminates" became a part of American Cyanamid Company, and brought with it both an excellent management personnel and an extensive marketing organization for its existing product and for Cyanamid researches in related fields.

Among the forward-looking project under review by the Formica management at the time, he said, was construction of a plant to manufacture particle board which would be an alternative to traditional lumber and plywood as an underlayment for Formica and competitive laminates in counter tops, furniture and similar uses. The new flakeboard plant will be built by Cyanamid's Engineering and Construction Division, and operated by the Formica Division. When completed in early 1958, it will employ initially about 100 people, the majority drawn from the local area, the Cyanamid president said.

Saying that he hesitated "to indulge in prophecy", Towe emphasized, nevertheless, that the Farmville site was chosen and the plant will be designed "with the idea in mind that the growth in demand for Formica flakeboard will warrant a further increase in productive capacity."

"Whether that is one-five-or ten years away, I am sure none of us can safely predict," he added.

Mr. Towe noted that Cyanamid is now entering its 50th year of activity and that one of the men who was early to help shape its destiny was "North Carolina's giant of industry and philanthropy, James Buchanan Duke."

American Cyanamid Company, with headquarters in New York, was organized in 1907, with a single plant for the production of calcium cyanamide, a chemical fertilizer. Now one of the leading chemical companies in the nation, it operates more than 40 plants and laboratories here and abroad, producing and conducting research in a broad line of diversified items. These include pharmaceuticals, biologicals and antibiotics, plastics, organic and inorganic dyestuffs and pigments, acids and alums, explosives, fertilizers, insecticides and fumigants. Company sales in 1956 approximated $500,000,000.

Sees Slowdown For Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Gordon (D-Ill.) said today "developments at the last moment" are causing a slowdown in House Foreign Affairs Committee action on the Eisenhower Middle East resolution.

Gordon, the committee chairman, indicated hearings on the resolution may last through next week. That would be a week later than he previously planned. "Too many people are asking to testify," he said.

But Gordon said it is still possible that the House will pass the resolution by the end of January, a target date Secretary of State Dulles expressed hope for after a closed session with the committee yesterday.

Eisnhower has asked a four-point program including authority to use U.S. troops if necessary to help defend against Communist aggression any Middle Eastern nation which asks help. Military and economic aid to the area also would be authorized.

Meantime it was learned that a one-sentence substitute resolution omitting any mention of economic aid is being circulated among the committee's Democratic members.

The substitute says only: "The United States regards as vital to her interest the preservation of the independence and integrity of the states of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed forces to that end."

Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.), commenting that "it makes sense," said the substitute was sent to him by "a prominent American" whom he declined to identify further. He did not indicate what action the committee might take on it.

One Democratic member of the committee said "there is going to be to be economic aid to that area," but others said the aid proposals could be worked out later in separate legislation.

Two committee members said

Dulles and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made clear during secret testimony yesterday that the administration does not plan to spell out publicly just which countries would come under the resolution. Representatives Zablocki (D-Wis.) and Vorys (R-Ohio) said the two witnesses defined roughly the countries to be affected, but indicated a belief that a public "keep 'em guessing" stand might prove more effective in dampening any Communist plans to attack elsewhere.

Pros and cons reverberated over Rep. Wayne Hays' (D-Ohio) one-man walkout at the start of the committee session with Dulles yesterday. Hays protested closed hearings which, he said, exempted Dulles from answering embarrassing questions publicly but bound the congressmen to secrecy on what Dulles said.

V. M. Newton Jr., managing editor of the Tampa Tribune and chairman of the Freedom of Information committee of Sigma Delta Chi, a professional journalism fraternity, wired congratulations to Hays.

"The free American people, who pay all the bills of government, are entitled to all the facts and all the discussion by their public servants of Secretary of State Dulles' testimony" on the proposal, Newton said.

Gordon declined to discuss Hays' protest on grounds that he knew only what happened in executive session. But he did say the meeting was closed to the public because of reasons of national security.

He said that Dulles discussed a number of secret details, and that much of Radford's testimony on military aspects of the Middle East plan "was classified to secret and helped clarify a number of questions uppermost in the minds of committee members."

Copies of the action will be sent to the State Board of Public Instruction and New York school attorneys, who will cooperate in setting a calendar for the election.

The board also announced that bids for a new Negro school at Bruce will be opened January 15 at 2 p.m. The new 10-room structure will replace a six-teacher school at Falkland and also accept other students from the area.

Peak American Construction In 1956 Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans spent a record 44 1/4 billion dollars on construction in 1956, setting a new money peak for the 10th successive year.

The report was made today by the Commerce and Labor departments, which have predicted construction output will soar to a new 46 1/2-billion-dollar peak in 1957. In 1955 expenditures totaled just under 43 billion dollars—30 1/2 billions for private construction and $12,400,000,000 in public building.

The physical volume of new building in 1956 was 2 per cent below the unprecedented 1955 level. This indicated that construction dollars bought less, with costs being somewhat higher than in 1955.

Industrial construction passed the three-billion-dollar mark for the first time in history, but home building investment declined by 10 per cent, from 15 billion dollars to 13 1/2 billions.

The government report said housing mortgage demands had to compete increasingly in 1956 "with the heavy demands for funds from many other sectors of the economy."

"Even so," the report said, "the 13 1/2 billion dollars of new private housing put in place in 1956 was second only to the extraordinary volume of the previous year."

"The comparatively high level of home building in 1956 reflects in part the continuing pressure of a sustained demand for larger and better equipped homes, backed by rising incomes; a steadily increasing and highly mobile population; and accelerated rehabilitation of urban centers."

Virtually all categories of private construction activity gained in 1956 other than housing, farm construction and hospital building.

Happy Day For Farmville As Good Tidings Disclosed

By JIMMY ELLIS Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—It was a gray and misty day here this morning you could hardly tell it from the smiles on everybody's faces.

For today is the day that American Cyanamid Company announced the construction of a $5,000,000 Farmville plant for the production of Flakeboard.

The local people were happy over the prospects of a multimillion-dollar plant locally was indicated by the fact that Farmville Mayor Charles S. Edwards proclaimed today Towe-O'Connor Day in honor of Kenneth C. Towe, president of American Cyanamid and Dan J. O'Connor, president of Formica, a part of American Cyanamid.

"Whereas these fine gentlemen bring good tidings which our citizens shall strive to transform into continued and accelerated progress for them and those they represent, I, Charles S. Edwards, mayor of Farmville, in honor of these new friends and in order to make of this a day of importance which we hold this day do proclaim Tuesday, Jan. 9, 1957 Towe-O'Connor Day," the proclamation read.

This morning Mayor Edwards described the location of the Flakeboard plant here as "the event of the half century for Farmville."

"We are delighted to have so many distinguished guests in our fine town and we are pleased with the tidings they bring us. We are sure they will be happy in Farmville and know the facility they are bringing here will mean much to our town and Eastern North Carolina."

Tommy Willis, director of the Farmville Economic Council said: "We feel it's the beginning. If the rest of Eastern North Carolina would cooperate as Farmville has, its stock would be higher. We do appreciate the help we have received from surrounding towns and the county commissioners and others."

Jim Hockaday, editor of the Farmville Enterprise and local civic leader, stated: "It's fine. However, one plant won't be an industrial boom or cure all our ills. It should have a psychological advantage and at least eliminate the idea we cannot attract new business."

Ed Davenport, president of the Farmville Economic Council, said: "This is a red letter day that we have looked forward to for a long time. It represents a fulfillment of at least a part of our hopes."

American Cyanamid and Formica officials appeared happy in coming to Farmville.

Dan J. O'Connor, president of Formica, said the original investment in the plant will probably be around $5,000,000.

"However, it was not so much the investment as it was the output of the product," he declared this morning. "This will be the largest plant in the world for the production of Flakeboard. It will certainly draw labor and timber resources from this area and will be a distribution point for the eastern part of the United States."

O'Connor noted that a Flakeboard plant will go in operation in Everett, Washington next week. That plant was the pilot plant for the product.

O'Connor said that the plant manager will be Tom Canning who is now with the Cincinnati headquarters of Formica.

Sales manager will be Bill Grieves, also of the Cincinnati headquarters.

Canning will move to Farmville and Grieves will continue to live in Cincinnati and make his headquarters there.

O'Connor said other personnel will be selected in the future.

Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe head of American Cyanamid engineering and construction division, said this morning: "It is hoped we will break ground around the end of March. Construction will depend on the availability of materials and heavy equipment. We hope to have the plant ready to start operation in January, 1958."

Gen. McAuliffe will direct construction of the Farmville plant.

Dissatisfied

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dissatisfied with Southern hospitality, Laszlo Tabari, the Hungarian mile runner, and his coach, Mihali Igloi took a plane for New York today.

Tabari didn't like his hotel room, his meals at the University of Miami, or his training facilities, all of which were provided without charge.

"Here in Miami," he said through an interpreter, "people can't afford to give me place like I'm used to."

Under communism, he said, he and other star athletes were given "the best of everything" and he can't understand why American amateurism doesn't provide the same red carpet treatment.

Education Board Sets Wheels Turning For Chicod Bond Vote

Pitt County's Board of Education set into motion machinery for a $60,000 bond issue election for Chicod School District at its monthly meeting Monday.

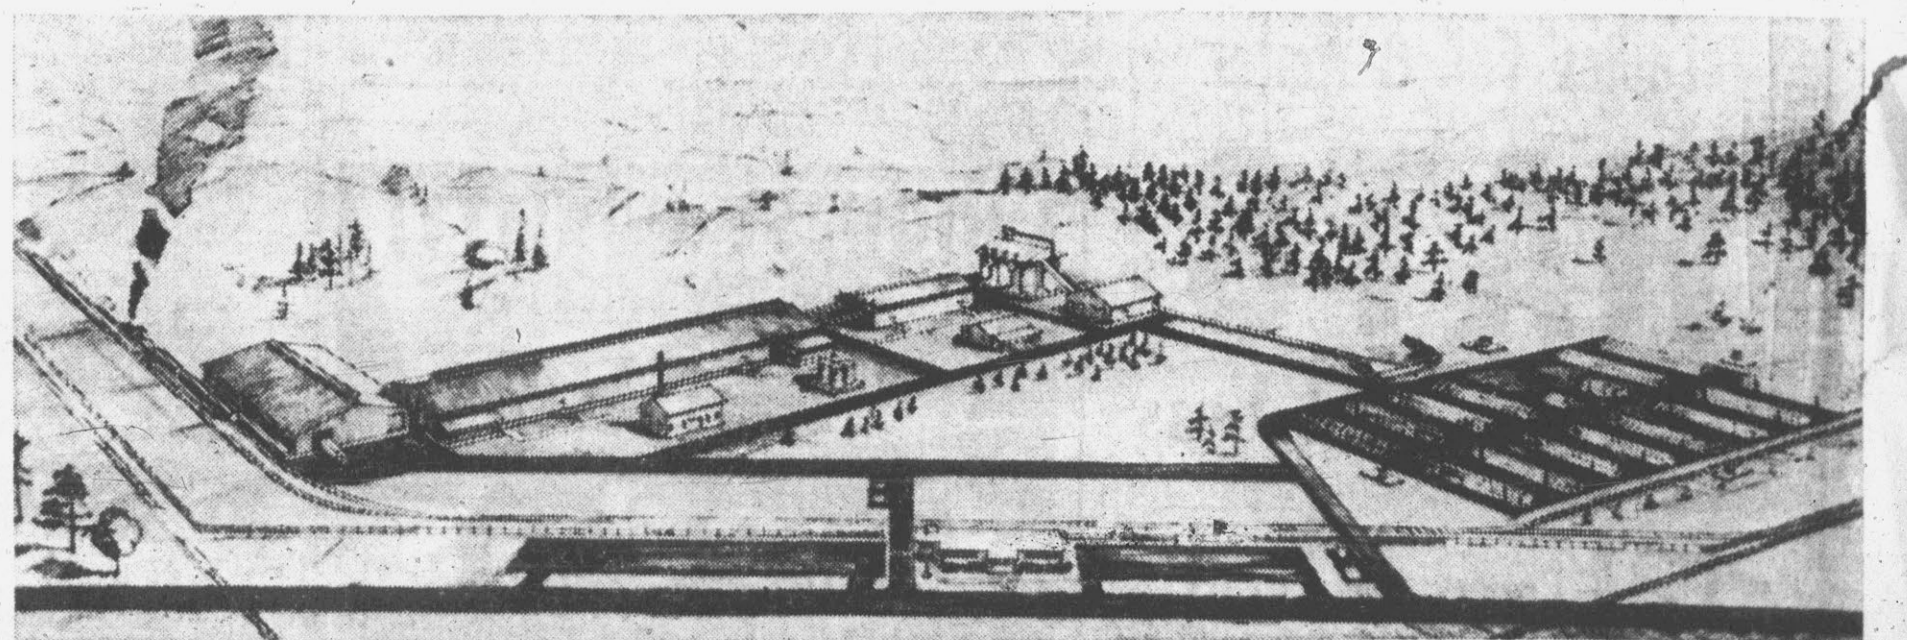

Action by the board was a formality that is necessary before a bond election can be called. They accepted a petition signed by a least 10 per cent of the qualified voters in the district asking that the election be called to vote on providing funds for improving and renovating school property. Action by the board did not constitute formation of a new school property. Action by the board did not constitute formation of a new school district but merely redefined boundaries of the present district.

Copies of the action will be sent to the State Board of Public Instruction and New York school attorneys, who will cooperate in setting a calendar for the election.

The board also announced that bids for a new Negro school at Bruce will be opened January 15 at 2 p.m. The new 10-room structure will replace a six-teacher school at Falkland and also accept other students from the area.

County Superintendent D.H. Conley was authorized to negotiate with contractors for interior painting of new gymnasiums at the Pitt County Training School and at Bethel School. The paint jobs had previously been removed from con-

NEW PLANT IN FARMVILLE—This is the architect's drawing of the new flakeboard plant to be constructed at Farmville by American Cyanamid Company. The plant, to be constructed on a 100-acre site, is expected to begin operations early in 1958 and will initially employ 100 people. Announcement of the location of the new multi-million dollar plant was made at noon today by President Kenneth C. Towe of American Cyanamid Company.

County Council Hears Farm-Home Speakers

Pitt Home Demonstration County Council members yesterday heard two key leaders discuss the farm-home development program.

Speaking to the council at its meeting yesterday afternoon in the Old Hospital building were Miss Pauline Gordon, farm and home specialist from N. C. State College, and Claude Goodman, Pitt farm and home director.

The program was described as an intensive, personalized approach being used to stimulate and educate individual farm families to better farm living.

Goodman noted that this is the beginning of the second year of the farm-home development program in Pitt County. As director he is now working with twenty-five families, giving them the benefit of an individual personalized approach to problems posed.

The local farm and home director stated that he hoped to add ten more families to the program this year.

The original twenty-five families were selected by careful screening in order to pick those who would most benefit from this approach, he said. They represent both tenants and landowners.

He described the program in a series of steps which included exploration of the individual families' hopes, their resources, utilization of their ability to choose for themselves and use family skills and a final evaluation.

The agents' role is to read, advise, help, plan and teach," he said.

Both speakers stressed the limitations of the program without the cooperation of the home.

It was pointed out that in Pitt County there is no full-time director from the home agent's staff and that services rendered by the program to the home thus far have been incidental.

Pitt Home Agent Lillie Little proposed to those home demonstration leaders present yesterday that they go back to their clubs, explain the program and submit the name of one family which would most benefit from this program.

From this number ten would be chosen. A home agent would be assigned to work with this limited number along with Goodman, in addition to her regular schedule.

"While small, this would be a good beginning," Mrs. Little said.

Pitt Farm Agent Sam Winchester pledged his support to the program, adding that he looked forward to the time when a full-time home agent would be assigned.

Other special guests recognized at yesterday's meeting included Mrs. Helen Hoskins, new home agent in Martin County, and Jimmy Lee, who spoke on behalf of the Polio Fund Drive this year.

Lee told the group that for the first time in Pitt County's history, it owed polio bills it could not pay. He attributed this deficit to the county's worst polio rate this past year.

He urged support of the drive now underway and asked for suggestions as to how it might be made more effective.

A report from various clubs on the Pitt County Progress program was given by Mrs. Lucy Allen. While not complete, Mrs. Allen listed the following activities being engaged in by individual clubs:

Fire Prevention Week activities, Plant A Tree Week, collection of litter along highways and other clean-up campaigns, efforts to get residents registered and to the polls, efforts to get children immunized with Salk vaccine.

Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, vice president, presided over the meeting. Devotional was given by Mrs. Allen.

During the business session, Mrs. J. Brantley Speight was elected district secretary upon the resignation of Mrs. Clifton Ellis.

The club also voted to accept the proposed budget submitted by the executive board.

Announcement was made of a leadership achievement award being offered for the first time in 1957.

Each club was asked to nominate an outstanding leader whose name will be submitted to the executive board. Two leaders will be picked from the district to receive silver trays. Score sheets will be furnished, Mrs. Little said.

Announcement was made of various district and county meetings.

It was also noted that Ayden, Bethel and Falkland club members will assist with helping locate persons eligible for Social Security benefits.

Tang Tze-chang, who became the youngest general in the Chinese army, broke with family tradition when he decided to become a soldier. He said for 40 generations his family had been classic scholars and he, as the eldest son, was to carry on the tradition. He was a brigadier general before many of the members of his family knew he had joined the army.

Now that his commission and his post as second in command of the Formosan forces are a thing of the past, Tang has settled down to paint in earnest. Of his change in fortune, he says: "I am lucky. Now I have all my time to paint."

Lining the walls of his small shop are many of his paintings which combine the characteristic delicacy of Chinese art with the keynote of his work. He says, "When something can be expressed with one stroke, why use two?"

Miss Copeland At Raleigh Conference

Sheppard Memorial Librarian Elizabeth Copeland is in Raleigh today for a one-day conference on school and public library relations.

The session was called by Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Miss Copeland was one of eight persons invited by Dr. Carroll to represent public libraries. Also invited are key school figures.

A LOOK AT PROGRAM—At yesterday's Pitt Home Demonstration County Council meeting, the three Pitt delegates to the North Carolina Home Demonstration United Nations Study Tour got together to look over the program of events scheduled for their New York trip. They are, left to right, Mrs. Dennis Hardy, Mrs. J. Brantley Speight and Mrs. Albert Bell. The three will leave Saturday from Raleigh to return January 17. (Reflector Staff Photo).

Three Pitt Women To Attend United Nations Study Tour

Three home demonstration club women from Pitt County leave Saturday morning for New York to take part in the fourth annual North Carolina Home Demonstration United Nations Study Tour.

They are Mrs. J. Brantley Speight of the Renston-Nobles club, Mrs. Dennis Hardy of the Bethel club and Mrs. Albert Bell of the Fountain club.

Purpose of the tour is to study the United Nations, its purpose, organization and policies, first hand.

Originally the tour was designed to teach home demonstration club women about the United Nations so that they could return home and help others to become actively interested in supporting it, and to help build strong, well-informed citizens in the rural communities in North Carolina.

Some of the events of the tour other than United Nations sessions include dining in foreign restaurants, visiting the Statue of Liberty, riding subways, a Radio City Music Hall performance and free time to see some of the Broadway plays.

Highlights of the United Nations sessions which will be attended by the women include speeches by Dr. Frank Graham, member of the Trusteeship Council of the United Nations, and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; a tour of the United Nations building; special lectures; and a concert by the United Nations Glee Club.

The group will leave from the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh by chartered bus for New York and will stay at the Taft Hotel. They will return January 17.

Women In The Church

By MARY FOWLER

The organizations of church women in practically all the major denominations of American Protestantism, as well as many agencies of Catholic and Jewish women, have been busy in recent weeks in providing winter clothing, food, medicine and other necessities for refugee families now in the United States from Europe, and also for similar families still in camps in various European countries. The campaigns of relief, which have been in progress for many years now, have taken a new upward interest because of the world-wide concern for the people of Hungary, especially for those who have fled that country in recent weeks. The outpouring of gifts from Protestant churches will reach its peak in the "One Great Hour of Sharing" program on Sunday, March 31. This day is being promoted by Church World Service, the relief arm of the National Council of Churches.

According to Statistician Albert C. Hoover, of the Methodist Church, Chicago, the (national) Woman's Society of Christian Service of that denomination now numbers 1,790,441 which is noted as a gain of about 23,000 members over the figures of a year ago. This makes the Methodist W.S.C.S. the largest, denominational group of church women in America, and probably the largest in the world. The Society is organized into 31,061 local societies in as many churches spread across the United States. Its national president is Mrs. J. Fount Tillman of Lewisburg, Tenn. During the past year, the local societies paid a total of $17,225,269 for work and services within their own parishes (such as furnishings for the parsonage, help for community need), and in addition $10,152,759 for missionary and other services "outside the local parish."

The Protestant churches of the United States, including the larger denominations and the so-called small sects, showing new vigor in attempting to "penetrate" the various republics of South America with the evangelical gospel, reports Mrs. Alice Goddard, director of the children's department of the National Council of Churches, U. S. A. Mrs. Goddard is spending three months in the Latin countries, making a study of the churches' services to the people through mission centers, hospitals, schools, local churches, etc.

HAMBURGERS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

Ingredients: 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 medium sized onion (finely diced), 1/2 pound mushrooms (caps and stems finely diced), 1 1/2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon soy sauce, pepper, 1-3 pounds ground chuck beef, salt.

Method: Melt butter, in a medium-sized skillet with a wide bottom, over moderately low heat. Add finely diced onion; cook slowly until golden-brown, stirring often 5 to 10 minutes. Add mushrooms and cook and stir several minutes; cover saucpan and cook very slowly about 10 minutes. (Use asbestos pad over heat unit if it can not be turned very low.) Stir in flour thoroughly; add milk all at once. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened and bubbly. Add soy sauce and pepper to taste. Cover and keep hot over very low heat. Form 4 large fairly thick patties from the meat; sprinkle with salt. Cook patties by preferred method, making sure they are well-browned on outside. Serve hot with mushroom sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Art Once A Hobby Has Become Bread-Winner

WASHINGTON—An art which was once a hobby has become a livelihood for a former Chinese general now living in Washington.

With all the patience and skill of the artisans once employed on his large estate in China to keep the family's art treasures in good repair, Tang Tze-chang is piecing together a new life for himself. "Many of China's generals have been painters," Tang told me in his recently opened objects d'art shop. "One thousand years ago," he continued, "to get a government position or a military appointment in China, a man had to paint a picture before he could get the job." The painting, Tang explained, was used as a test to show whether the applicant was in control of himself and wouldn't abuse his power.

Tang began painting and learning the craft at which he now makes a living—repairing art objects—when he was a small boy in China. He said young boys studied art to "keep them out of mischief" and as a "refining element" in their education.

Tang Tze-chang, who became the youngest general in the Chinese army, broke with family tradition when he decided to become a soldier. He said for 40 generations his family had been classic scholars and he, as the eldest son, was to carry on the tradition. He was a brigadier general before many of the members of his family knew he had joined the army.

Now that his commission and his post as second in command of the Formosan forces are a thing of the past, Tang has settled down to paint in earnest. Of his change in fortune, he says: "I am lucky. Now I have all my time to paint."

Lining the walls of his small shop are many of his paintings which combine the characteristic delicacy of Chinese art with the keynote of his work. He says, "When something can be expressed with one stroke, why use two?"

Humphrey's comments were made in a statement announcing he and a group of colleagues, both Democrats and Republicans, were introducing 12 civil rights bills federal by a measure to provide the highest protection of voting rights.

He called that provision "the key to all the rest of our human rights objectives."

The measures include the civil rights program advocated by President Eisenhower, introduced in the Senate Monday by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) and earlier in the House by Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.). The Eisenhower program also provides for court action to preserve voting and other rights, along with establishment of a civil rights division in the Justice Department and of a presidential committee to investigate civil rights.

Other Humphrey proposals would seek to end all discrimination in interstate transportation and employment, forbid poll taxes, penalize lynching and provide other protections which, Humphrey conceded, have been considered at numerous lengthy hearings without becoming law.

Sen. Scott (D-N.C.) said that opponents of such legislation had won the first round in the civil rights battle last week by defeating a move to hange Senate rule... but that "the 1957 war on the hot issue is far from over."

Dog Catcher's Job In Jeopardy

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — This city may lose its lady dog catcher if a court suit filed yesterday is successful.

An irate dog owner charged in Montgomery County court that Mrs. Jane Miller, 37, has been serving for two years illegally. Robert Guinee says the Borough Council never passed an ordinance providing for a dog catcher—they just upped and hired Mrs. Miller.

Officials are wondering if the suit is successful whether they will have to refund fines collected from over 100 owners.

Carrier and Ives prints, which once sold for six cents each, now bring as much as a thousand dollars from art collectors.

Sen. Humphrey Calls For Civil Rights Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called on the new 85th Congress today to assert "a claim on history" by passing "the most meaningful civil rights legislation in 80 years."

He said he held "high hope" that the lawmakers will do just that, declaring that after many years of defeat and frustration backers of civil rights measures now have "an excellent chance" of success.

The House passed the Eisenhower program last year, but the legislation was locked in the Senate. GOP leaders said after a White House conference yesterday that it was on their priority list for the present session.

Humphrey said in an interview that, in addition to the dozen civil rights bills, he also would introduce a resolution to declare one section of the Senate's anti-labor rule unconstitutional.

Under the rule, it takes the votes of 64 senators, or two thirds of the entire membership, to shut off a filibuster the use of prolonged, dilatory debate to talk legislation to death.

Evangelistic Mission To Begin This Sunday

An eight-day evangelistic mission begins at St. James Methodist Church in Greenville Sunday, January 13, at 11 a.m. Services will be held every night at 8 o'clock through January 20. The Rev. Dr. Gerald A. Foster is visiting minister for the week.

Michigan-born, Dr. Foster is vice president of Winona Lake School of Theology at Winona Lake, Indiana. Associated with the Ford Motor Company during his pre- and post-college days, he was educated at Taylor University and Asbury Theological Seminary. Graduate study followed at Princeton, Temple, Burton, and Iliff School of Theology in Denver, Colo. Both the minister and his wife were listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" in 1941.

After graduation from seminary, Foster served as associate minister of Grace Methodist Church in Detroit. He has done evangelistic work throughout the nation. In 1955 he left the pastorate of Algersgate Methodist Church in Wilmington, Del. to become vice president of the "Summer seminary" at Winona Lake. In this connection he has completed four missions abroad in Winona's "Flying Seminar" program, leading groups of ministers and other church leaders on tours of Middle Eastern Bible lands.

"Dr. Foster is a great preacher," declared St. James Minister J. Malloy Owen today, "and we invite the people of Greenville and Pitt County to share with us the privilege of hearing him." In addition to the eight evening services, Dr. Foster will preach every morning at 9:30 on Radio Station WGTO and every afternoon at 8 o'clock on WNCN-TV. Both the 11 a.m. and the 8 p.m. services at the church will be carried on radio on both of the next two Sundays, Mr. Owen announced.

Adjustment Is A Bit Difficult

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — Rep. Matias Chacon, Democratic floor leader of the state house of representatives, found it a bit difficult to adjust to the opening of the legislature. "If the court please..." he started, in addressing the chair. Speaker Donald Hallam, like Chacon an attorney, grinned and remarked understandingly: "It takes a few days."

Our Congratulations, Best Wishes

Announcement today by American Cyanamid Company that it will build a new multi-million dollar plant in Farmville is news of the best kind not only for Farmville, but for all of Pitt County.

It is a major stroke in the industrial development of the Farmville community, and we hope the first of several new major industries which will be located in Pitt County as the months pass. We cannot begin to estimate what the new plant will mean to Farmville and Pitt County from the economic standpoint. We are confident, however, that it will be a major factor in boosting the economy of that community, and in turn the economy of Pitt County.

The Reflector is confident American Cyanamid Company and its subsidiary corporations will be pleased with their experience with the new Farmville plant. We share with American Cyanamid's outstanding president Kenneth C. Towe the hope and expectation that the "growth in demand for Formica flakeboard will warrant a further increase in productive capacity" of the new plant.

Farmville is to be commended for the outstanding efforts its citizens have put forth in the past year to boost the economy of that community through industrial development. Had it not been for those efforts, the atmosphere toward industrial development created by the people of the town, and the ready cooperation American Cyanamid officials found in Farmville, there can be no doubt that the new plant would have gone to another of the 20-odd sites for the plant which were under consideration.

While all the citizens of Farmville have played a part in the town's being selected as the site for the plant, those who have been the moving force behind the Farmville Economic Council must receive a major portion of the credit for this bright new feather in Farmville's bonnet. Particularly would we mention Tom Willis, director of the Economic Council who returned to his native community to aid it in its industrial development, city officials and other leaders without whose interest and efforts the location of the new plant in Farmville would have been possible.

It is our sincere hope that this taste of success in attracting a new industrial plant in competition with countless other communities will spur Farmville to even greater efforts and greater success in boosting itself economically through industrial development. We also hope this success which Farmville has attained will prod other communities in Pitt, and indeed Pitt County as a whole to intensify its efforts toward economic development for the betterment of all its people.

The Reflector offers to Farmville its heartiest congratulations on the location of this new industrial plant in its community, and to American Cyanamid Company best wishes for a long pleasant and prosperous association with the people of Farmville and Pitt County.

Schools Show A Continuing Need

Greenville citizens should wait no longer to condition themselves to the fact that more money is going to have to be spent for school facilities in the city if physical plants are to keep pace with increased enrollment.

During the past decade, Greenville has constructed to new elementary schools, made major additions to three other schools and is in the process now of constructing a new high school which will be ready for use during the coming term. In spite of this ambitious construction program, enrollment increases have outstripped the capacity of new facilities which are being provided.

Comparatively speaking, Greenville's school students have been as adequately housed in classrooms in recent years as those throughout most of North Carolina. Indeed, for the most part, Greenville has more nearly kept its facilities growing to meet the demands of increased enrollment than other school systems. Even so, present conditions point up the fact that more facilities are needed now, and even those under construction will not fulfill the needs for many years in the future.

At the present time there are children in Greenville's school who are attending classes in hallways.

School libraries have been moved to hallways to make way for more classrooms, and in at least one instance facilities of a church are being used for a classroom. On top of these conditions, special education students are attending classes in inadequate buildings which were constructed as "temporary" units two decades ago.

When the new high school is put into use next September, it will appreciably alleviate the school housing problem which now exists. Not only will it accommodate more students than the present high school, but it will make possible the conversion of the present high school building into a junior high which in turn should relieve the classroom pressure on some elementary schools in the city's system.

Though these are major improvements, they will do little more than meet the current need for classrooms by the time they are completed. They will leave little room for taking care of the increase in enrollment which is expected to continue in Greenville's school system.

It is apparent, therefore, that additional classrooms will have to provide in the next few years to keep pace with enrollment. In view of the fact that two years is usually required from the time new construction is planned until it is ready for use, Greenville must begin now to plan for more classrooms for its public school system.

Greenville can justly be proud of the progress it has made in school construction in recent years. Yet it can ill afford at the present time to be content merely to sit back and admire that which has already been done.

Farm Program Still A Mess

By ELMER ROESSNER
There's no doubt that our agricultural program is a mess. There's also no doubt that we will keep muddling along with it until some genius comes up with a better plan.

The general idea of the farm program is to keep farm income up. It is based on the assumption that no nation can remain economically healthy if one large segment is impoverished. It may also be assumed that this is doubly true if the segment is the agricultural population.

Farm income benefits others besides farmers. It bestows prosperity on merchants who sell farm implements and fertilizers, auto makers and others.

It is not a simple program. The government buys some products when prices are low; it also loans money on some products, permitting the farmer to pay off the loan if prices rise or keep the money if they don't; it works out agreements to limit some production. The most recent wrinkle is the soil bank plan, whereby farmers are paid for taking certain acreage out of production.

MANY FAULTS
There are a lot of things, well, imperfect with the program.

One fact that seems unfair is that nonfarmers pay double to help the farmer. They, like the farmers, help put up the money to bolster prices when they pay taxes, and they pay again in higher food costs.

Again, high food costs increase the cost of living, and that serves as a basis for wage demands and provokes strikes and unrest. Another trouble is that some of the largest beneficiaries of farm payments are not working farmers, but corporations, some controlling vast land areas and paying fat and regular dividends.

Still another fault is that some of the surplus the government acquires competes with private enterprises. Much of it is given away or sold to foreign nations at a fraction of its worth. In most cases this does not compete with regular food exporters, because the nations that get the food could not buy it at regular prices. But a large part of the foodstuffs are turned over to states for use in their school lunch programs and in relief and welfare work.

In some instances, this food is passed out to people in moderate income brackets, as well as the impoverished. The Wall Street Journal reported a case in which a supermarket clerk, making a moderate wage, asked for time off so he could get his free food. In some states, this food is distributed to the unemployed, including strikers, thereby encouraging strikes and possibly lengthening them. Food given lunch programs often loses sales for private firms.

LAND BANK FAULTS
In many instances, it appears that farmers are taking their inferior land out of production to gain government payments. In some cases, farmers are said to have used government payments to buy more fertilizer for land not put in the land bank, thereby tending to increase, rather than decrease, total production.

Wide Diversity Of Activities

By LYNN NISBET

C&D — The quarterly meeting of the Board of Conservation and Development in Raleigh this week attracted further attention to the wide diversity of activities in which the State of North Carolina is engaged.

Discussions at the committee meetings and before the full board also made it clear that the State does not feel any obligation to function as a wet nurse to any particular group or section or any special industry.

One item on the agenda was the program for establishment of lodging and eating accommodations on the Blue Ridge Parkway. The plan is opposed by private business operating facilities adjacent to the Parkway. Main contacts outside the board was whether or not the National Park Service should hold a public hearing before putting the program into effect. The board had previously endorsed the idea of a public hearing, and it stood by that position — even though Governor Hodges, as presiding chairman, had some difficulty in holding discussion to the subject without rambling into policy details. The details will be threshed out at the hearing which almost certainly will be held in the western part of the state sometime this spring.

Much as the State through the C&D department is going to induce new industry to come into North Carolina, great care is taken not to show partiality for any community, any section or any kind of industry. The long time policy was reiterated, that North Carolina wants more business of all kinds, but it does not want the business firm which cannot stand on its own feet, pay its proper share — but no more than its proper — of taxes to support the services expected of State and local governments.

TRADE, NOT AID — The C&D promotional program might be described as "trade, not aid." Direct handouts in the form of tax concessions or outright grants of plant sites to industrial plants have been frowned upon in North Carolina, although other states have larded some prospects by this kind of bait.

The North-Carolina plan is to provide fair and equitable tax structures for both new and old industry. Hence the proposed rewriting of the revenue acts, with emphasis on the corporate income sections. Another important feature of the plan is for investment participation of local communities in business enterprises. Such as the provision of a site in exchange for stock, or on a lease-rental basis.

Then there is the quasi-public Business, Development Corporation which last year raised a million dollars capital stock for loans to firms on terms somewhat more lenient than regular bank credits. This corporation has already loaned nearly two million dollars, applications are pending for upwards of a million more, and three or four millions will be available as required to finance sound projects.

In lieu of direct monetary concessions the C&D folks propose to provide greater service than in the past to help communities and business men get together. For that purpose Paul Kelly, former chief of the commerce and industry division, is coming back from a year's leave of absence to set up an industrial section of the Kinston chamber of commerce and will devote his energies to finding and cataloguing potential sources of financial aid in the localities where industrial expansion is contemplated. This will enable communities to add to the listing of advantages like climate, available labor, plenty of water, and other physical attractions the important item of potential local capital where needed or desired.

TELL 'EM — Governor Hodges told the C&D board that he is sure his travels and personal contacts outside the North Carolina have paid handsome dividends. He is so thoroughly convinced of that he suggested that C&D Director W. P. Sanders, as well as top flight members of the departmental staff and members of the board, ought to make frequent visits to New York and other places where big business men are concentrated in order to tell them the story of North Carolina.

Not only that, but the Governor has all along insisted that the State governmental agencies ought to maintain better public relations with the taxpayers, in order to let the people who pay the bills know more about what is done with their money. This attitude is in direct contrast with that of the late Governor William Umstead, who frowned upon departmental "propaganda" and often referred to the public relations officers as "press agents."

In face of the increasing attention to official publicity about public business, the Governor and the C&D board are standing by the policy which has prevailed ever since the advertising division was established, that no State money should be spent to buy advertising space in any North Carolina newspaper. The Governor, however, voiced grateful appreciation for the fact that state papers last year contributed more than $100,000 worth of display advertising space, in addition to editorial and news column publicity, to the cause of promoting the welfare of North Carolina.

But, A Better Day Is Coming

by ALVIN TAYLOR

Finally Talked To Family

Well, Mrs. Sheila Sawyer (not spelled Sheila as in prior columns) has finally talked to her parents in England.

For those of you who don't know Jack Edwards initiated a search for Mrs. Sawyer after an English ham contacted him and asked that arrangements be made for Mrs. Sawyer to talk with her parents via the short wave radio.

Jack was unable to locate Mrs. Sawyer even though he phoned all the Sawyers in the phone book. He called to the newspaper and an appeal was issued through this column for information about Mrs. Sawyer. It turned out that virtually everybody knew Mrs. Sawyer but Jack and myself and a large number of persons phoned to give Jack her address.

Jack contacted her and Sunday morning contact with England was made.

We had a schedule at 1:30 time, 8:30 our time and he came in almost on the second," Jack declares.

The English ham, whose name is Cyril Greenland signed off long enough to go get Mrs. Sawyer's parents when he learned she was at the receiver in Greenville.

When he returned with Mrs. Sawyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hillman, Mrs. Sawyer, her husband, Charles, a maintenance mechanic at Dupont, and sons, Wayne, 5 and Frank, 6 all talked with them.

Incidentally the Hillmans live in Westbury, a town located in Wiltshire County.

Mrs. Sawyer said the contact was perfect with England. "I'm very happy and thrilled that I was able to talk to them," she said after the call was completed.

Mrs. Sawyer's parents knew nothing of the call Greenland remembered that Mrs. Sawyer had mentioned a ham named Jack Edwards in Greenville and he initiated the call in an attempt to locate him.

Other Editors Saying--- Agreement On Textiles

(Henderson Dispatch)

By comparison with former times, a new day indeed has dawned in United States dealings with other nations. It is one of leaning over backwards, sometimes even to our own detriment, to extend benefits to someone else.

For three months this country and Japan have been arguing over the amount of Japanese textile exports to the United States. Now an accord has been reached. A Tokyo newspaper says the settlement is not entirely satisfactory but the best that can be obtained at the present time.

American textile manufacturers have for a year or two been complaining of Japanese manufactured goods coming into this country and jeopardizing their market. They have appealed to the administration to do something to bring relief from this flood of merchandise, produced at wages only a fraction of what are paid here, and with which this country cannot successfully compete on that basis.

Promises have been made in Washington that something would be done to improve conditions. But instead of charting our own course and defending our own best interests, the government, in effect, approaches the Japanese with the request please to desist to some extent.

Time was when tariffs were imposed to keep cheap merchandise out of this country. And this is the first instance to our knowledge where negotiations have been carried on with a view to fixing a tariff on goods coming here from abroad.

One wonders what would have happened had the Japanese not "agreed" to limit their exports. Would the United States have merely looked the other way while foreign competition was in the process of wrecking one of the nation's greatest industries? That could be the logical deduction from what has happened in this instance.

This is a case where another nation has been allowed a voice in determining American domestic policy. Will it be the last or only the first of similar tactics to be followed in the future?

This agreement with Japan on its sale of cotton merchandise in the United States is appeasement pure and simple. Continuation of such a policy could in the end result in appeasing ourselves into serious economic difficulties. There is no disposition here to have this government assume the role of a bully toward any other nation, large or small. But by the same token we do not think it proper to be approaching a foreign government to ask if it what Americans may or may not do in the management of their purely internal affairs.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
WE MUST HAVE BOTH

It has often been said that there are two sides to the religious life—the believing side and the behaving side.

In the past, men stressed, to an incredible degree, the importance of the believing side. Witness the religious wars. Recall the Crusades in which millions of men participated, and in which hundreds of thousands died. Persecution has almost always arisen over matters of belief. One of the greatest sources of bloody conflict centuries ago was the Latin word "filioque." Does the Holy Spirit spring just from God the Father or from the Father and the Son—filioque meaning in Latin, "and the Son." Cities

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., TIMES: "With rain, snow, slush and road residues on the highway there is a continuous spray of film against windshields with resulting poor visibility. Courtesy on the highway could do much to reduce this hazard."

NEWPORT BEACH, CALIF., NEWS PRESS: "The Government Has No Money Except What It Takes From The People." That reads like a sage bit of wisdom which we might hope to find over the entrances of some of our government buildings in Washington, and which could be repeated on placards in every office of every federal government bureau."

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA. STAR: "There will always be the need for labor organizations. And more so, there will be the need for the assumption of economic responsibilities by the heads of labor."

Opinions In Brief

The almanac editorial: How many bald men have nicknames for their remaining hairs?

During the last election campaign President Eisenhower was quoted as remarking he had so few left he had names for them—"Helen, Edna, Ellen."

While the editors of the almanac hesitate to disagree with President Ike on a question of purely personal privilege, we question his wisdom in giving his dwindling hirsute sons girly feminine names, as the Weather Bureau does hurricanes.

After all, they have not gone with the wind. These thin grey faithful survivors have shown none of the fickleness often attributed to women. Do they not deserve a higher reward?

We ourselves are balding rapidly. Faced with the same problem as Ike, we are naming our few scattered hairs as the British do their warships: "Indomitable," "Courageous," "Repulse," "Indefatigable" and "Redoubtable."

We have even reserved a special name for the hair that makes the last lone stand. It will be called "Custer."

The almanac's annual don't-do-it-yourself hint: Many suburban husbands have written in to ask how they can keep from getting poison ivy while spring cleaning their acreage. There is only one sure way. Stay indoors yourself and hire your wife and children to do the work for you. They have more time to scratch and apply lotions.

Almanac long-range crop forecast: Strong winds on Capitol Hill should create record production of corn in Washington, D.C., area. Marked seasonal pickup in ham output in same vicinity. Also, despite heavy slaughter of lambs in last November's political harvest, no decrease in wool-gathering is foreseen.

Should Russia grab the Middle East's oil fields, it would force our European and other allies to depend almost exclusively on American and Latin-American production. That demand would deplete domestic resources at an alarming and dangerous rate. It would create chaos in the market, upsetting orderly marketing arrangements and boosting prices to millions of industrial and individual consumers.

More Rare Items

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The oddity almanac:

Do your eyelashes tell your character? Grace Downs, head of an air hostess and modeling school here, believes so. "If you have curved eyelashes," she says "you are a calm person; if your lashes are short and straight, you have a nervous temperament; if your lashes are thin at the outer corners, you are lazy."

Forestry Digest estimates that a single firestorm will destroy $6,000 worth of timber in its lifetime. Americans are getting more seashore conscious: New York public beaches served five million people in 1954, but in 20 years the number increased to 61 million annually.

Tips to hunters: Don't target shoot at objects in the water—your bullet may ricochet off the surface. Never leave a loaded gun leaning against a tree; your frisky dog may bump against it, knock off the safety, then step on the trigger and bag his master! Experts say proper care could avoid 95 per cent of all hunting accidents.

Stupefying statistics for the un-informed: It takes six to eight weeks to make one of those one-minute TV commercials many folks complain about — but only one to two weeks to put on the dramas between them. Americans use 500 billion matches a year, or nearly 3,000 a person. A fish called the eulachon is so oily that, if it is dried and a wick is stuck to it, it will burn like a candle. You could probably do the same thing with a whale, but it would take longer, and the neighbors might holler.

The almanac abroad: His own people are more of a long-range problem to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt than either the Suez Canal or the Suez Canal. The population increased 105 per cent between 1897 and 1949, but the land under cultivation increased only about 14 per cent. More than 96 per cent is desert. The population density along the Nile is 1,670 per square mile. Moslem pride in having large families makes difficult the task of curbing Egypt's birth rate, one of the highest in the world. Watch for further explosions.

Big Pre-Selling Job On New Policy

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Even isolationist critics of the Administration's new Middle East program concede that the White House has done a masterful job in pre-selling this dramatic adventure in world politics to Congress and the American public. Not even the eloquent Franklin D. Roosevelt matched the Eisenhower-Dulles performance.

The principal feature of their sales talks has been that the plan to resist a Russian invasion with military might is not a novel or hazardous extension of American commitments. According to this viewpoint, it is only a necessary and logical step in historic foreign policy.

Nor do the White House spokesmen rely entirely on Roosevelt-Truman interventions as precedents, although their forceful actions in severatic opposition. Instead, they cite the realities of the world situation as affected by certain Levantine nations' flirtations with the ruthless men of Moscow.

U.S. COMMITTED TO RESISTANCE OF REDS The United States, Eisenhower and Dulles contend, would have to fight a Communist invasion of that vital area, even if Congress denied the standby authority which the President seeks. It could not be blind or inactive to any hostile threat to the West's vast store of oil there.

Indeed, the United States already stands committed to resistance. Turkey is a member of NATO, and that agreement requires each nation to go to the aid of any member which is attacked wrongfully. And Red troops, as well as naval and air units, would have to violate Turkish neutrality and sovereignty in order to invade countries we aim to protect.

NATO would crack up overnight, if we failed to honor our guarantees to Ankara.

BAGHDAD PACT SUGGESTED BY DULLES Britain, Turkey and Iraq are members of the Baghdad Pact, an auxiliary of NATO. And, although the United States does not belong to this alliance, it was organized at the inspiration and suggestion of Secretary Dulles, with Ike's approval.

More importantly, it was set up as a northern barrier and buffer after Dulles had failed to persuade the Arabian states to form a league for defense against Russia. And the man who thwarted Dulles' efforts in this respect was Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

Should we stand aside from an attack on the Baghdad Pact members simply because we are not associated with this alliance, it would imperil relations between the United States and Britain even more seriously than our disagreement over the Egyptian and Suez Canal crisis.

Egypt Believed Planning Take Suez Dispute To UN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Egypt appeared planning today to put the Suez Canal dispute before the 80-nation U. N. General Assembly, where large blocs of countries support the Egyptian claim to sole control of the waterway.

Such a move was indicated by Abdel Kader Hatem, Egyptian information director, who declared his country will not negotiate directly, or indirectly with France and Britain on the future control of the canal.

"Egypt can only discuss the matter within the framework of the United Nations," Hatem said in a statement in Cairo.

If the question goes to the General Assembly, Egypt would count on support from the Asian and African countries and the Soviet bloc.

Hatem's announcement came as Israel was reported seeking U. N. assurances of free navigation for her ships through the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. Israel was said to be demanding this and a guarantee against a new Egyptian military buildup in the Sinai Desert before she withdraws her forces further from the Sinai AAzra.

Hatem's statement rejected a plan for U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to act as intermediary between Egypt and Britain and France on the canal issue.

"Egypt," Hatem declared, "cannot overlook what has been committed against her ports and territory and cannot resume talks with Britain and France in any form whatever — direct, or indirectly."

A U. S. Embassy spokesman in Cairo said Ambassador Raymond Hare would leave for Washington Saturday for talks with State Department officials, but he added the trip had been planned "for some time."

After Egyptian President Nasser nationalized the old Suez Canal Co. last July 26, his government asserted the operation of the canal must be wholly controlled by Egypt. It said any plan for international control would infringe on Egyptian sovereignty and that any international board set up for the canal could act only in an advisory capacity.

The problem of Israel's rights in the canal and the Red Sea Gulf of Aqaba provided the center for a round of diplomatic conferences here. Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli foreign minister, met with representatives of various countries to outline Israel's position before leaving for Jerusalem to report to her government.

Egypt has never permitted Israeli shipping to pass through the Suez, despite repeated U. N. recommendations and reminders that the 1888 convention called for the channel to be open to all shipping in war and peace.

Egypt also had fortified two small islands, Tiran and Sinafir at the Red Sea entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and had kept Israeli shipping out of the area for the last eight years. Opening of that route to Israeli ships was one of the major objectives in Israel's drive across the Sinai Peninsula.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman estimated U. N. forces now control about 60 per cent of the Sinai area, but Israeli units still hold firm control of two key points, El 'Arish and Sharm el Sheikh.

Hammarskjold was said to be pressing Israel to pull its forces back to the 1949 Palestine armistice lines as called for in resolutions of the General Assembly. A U. S. delegation spokesman backed that position.

The New York Times said French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau will go to Washington tomorrow night to ask the help of Secretary of State Dulles in negotiating a settlement of the canal question.

France was said to be increasingly disturbed about the outlook for a settlement unless the United States uses its influence.

Article On N. C. By Pierce In 'Holiday'

North Carolina's rediscovery of its past during the last decade receives emphasis in an article by Ovid Williams Pierce in the February issue of "Holiday" magazine. Mr. Pierce, novelist and short story writer, is now a faculty member of the department of English at East Carolina College.

North Carolina was long in being unified as a state, Mr. Pierce says. Diverse interests and backgrounds separated the Outer Banks, the Coastal Plain, the Piedmont, and the mountains for more than a century. During this period the East and the West, he states, had little in common; and North Carolina was deterred from becoming a unified Southern state.

From the Outer Banks to the mountains, he explains, a remarkable awakening of interest in the past has recently taken place in North Carolina. Restoration projects, such as those in New Bern and Winston-Salem; pageants based on the history and traditions of county groups with the purpose of recording history and legends are among evidences of the state's awakening to its past and its homogeneity in the present.

Illustrations include photographs picturing North Carolina scenes and various aspects of the life of the people.

The article is one of a series on the states published by "Holiday" over a period of several years under the title "State Portraits." Mr. Pierce's discussion of North Carolina is the second to appear in the magazine. A previous article by Jonathan Daniels of Raleigh was published about twelve years ago.

Mr. Pierce, author of the prize-winning novel "The Plantation," joined the East Carolina faculty last September. He teaches courses in literature and writing at the college and recently completed an extension course in creative writing for special students in Rocky Mount. A native of North Carolina, he spends most weekends at his home near Weldon.

Ambulance Call Ended In Wreck

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Responding to an emergency call, city ambulance driver James Elwood stopped his vehicle just short of the Pacific Electric Railway tracks, but the freight train clipped the overhanging ambulance fender, whirling the vehicle around and snapping off a crossing sign. The ambulance then was smashed into a power pole when struck by passing freight cars.

Elwood sustained a possible skull fracture and attendant Howard Morrison chest and lung injuries, broken ribs and a broken right leg.

Sees No Need To Halt Atom Tests

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Shields Warren, professor of pathology at Harvard and medical adviser to the Atomic Energy Commission, says recent measurements of radioactive fall-out indicate "tests of atomic weapons may be safely continued at the present rate for years."

In a lecture at the St. Louis University School of Medicine, Dr. Warren reported 250,000 measurements of radioactive fall-out have been made recently. "The levels of radioactive strontium at present attained from fall-out or industrial atomic wastes have not reached disturbing levels in air, water or soil," he said. "The levels of strontium 90 in foodstuffs and in animal or human bones have not reached levels that are capable of producing pathological effects."

No Intentions Of Seeing Mother

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Jennie Ann Lindstrom, 17, said yesterday she has no intention of going to New York next week for a reunion with her mother, actress Ingrid Bergman.

A freshman at the University of Colorado, Miss Lindstrom hasn't seen her mother in seven years. She is the daughter of Miss Bergman's former husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom. Her parents were divorced, and Miss Bergman married Italian film director Roberto Rossellini. Miss Bergman is flying from Europe Jan. 19 to receive an acting award from New York film critics. She will be in this country only 34 hours.

Phants Swamp Visiting Yellow Jackets By Seventeen Points

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor

Ranked to win by five points on their home court, Greenville's Phantoms whipped through a visiting Elizabeth City team furiously last night, swamping the Jackets by 17 markers, 68-51.

Coach Boley Farley's two-plate system kept a fresh, determined crew of Greenies on the floor throughout the ball game that was too much for the depthless visitors.

Greenville took a quick 4-0 lead after one minute of play and was never seriously threatened after that. The closest Elizabeth City came to tying the G-Men was a moment later when they chopped the lead to 3-4. From that point, the Phants pulled away and stayed just far enough in front not to be bothered.

Fearing, Hudson
Elizabeth City's Pete Fearing stung the nets for 22 points to take high scoring honors for both teams. Greenville's John Wesley Hudson, substitute guard, pushed in 16 to pace the winners. Others in the double figures were EC's Melvin Fowler with 12 and Greenville's Evans (11) and Noble (11).

The victory was GHS's second in conference play against one loss. For the visiting Jackets it was their sixth straight loss without a win and their third defeat in Northeastern play.

Beginning play in a frenzy of passing and shooting, the Phants pulled away from the Jackets after three minutes of play had elapsed, and managed to stay about four-to-five points better throughout the first quarter. At the end of that quarter, the locals were leading, 20-16.

Farley alternated his first two units constantly during the first two periods of action and often added and subtracted individuals at a dizzying pace. The substitution was definitely successful, for the Phants were the aggressors throughout the entire game and kept the ball moving at a hot pace. By halftime, the Phantom lead had advanced to 40-31. Fearing and Hooker came back in the early minutes of the second half to whittle the Green lead down to 37-40 before the locals could find the range. At the end of the third period, it was 48-41, a mere seven-point lead for Greenville.

Phants Pull Away
The final period was somewhat slowed down, as the locals posted 10 points and the visitors threw in eight. Coach Farley sent in his third team, completely fresh, cleaning off his bench. At the end, the score stood 68-51.

For the winners Steve Noble, Mack Roebuck and Peanut Nunn were leaders on the boards. The Phantoms were a shade taller than the Elizabeth City crew and made good use of their size in rebounding. Hudson, Dick Evans, Nobles and Wayne Edison scored well and kept the ball moving for the Phants.

Greenville has an open date Friday night.

NCAA Indicates No Plans To Soften Past Penalties

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. has indicated it doesn't plan to soften its penalties against member schools put on probation for infractions of the recruiting rules.

Walt Byers, executive director, said last night the 18-man NCAA Council hasn't discussed and does not plan to discuss any changes in its basic penalty structure.

The council has been meeting in connection with the NCAA's 51st convention, which opened today.

The Byers statement seemed to squelch the hopes of schools on probation in the Pacific Coast Conference that the ban on their participation in NCAA events might be softened.

The Pacific Coast Conference last week modified its own penalties against Washington, California, Southern Cal and UCLA, limiting their application to football.

But the schools still are barred from 27 postseason tournaments and other events either sponsored or blessed by the NCAA.

Coaches generally have joined in a plaint that basketball teams, tennis players, golf teams and track stars would not be penalized for recruiting violations by the football staff.

The NCAA's position has been that a school has "institutional responsibility" for all its athletic departments and all of them must bear the brunt of penalties.

The council lifted the probation which has barred Miami, Fla., University from NCAA events for two years.

It also confirmed the lifting of a wrist-slapping probation it had put on St. Louis University.

Rumoring about football coaching jobs was the main sport as athletic officials gathered for the convention.

The grapevine had it that Pete Elliott of Nebraska is ticketed to go to Washington, which recently lost Darrell Royal to Texas.

Bill Orwig, athletic director at Nebraska, said he was worried about the possibility of losing Elliott, who has been at Nebraska only a year after assisting Bud

Wilkinson at Oklahoma.

One rumor predicted Bill Jennings, another former Wilkinson assistant who went to Nebraska with Elliott, will be the next head coach at Nebraska.

Frank Broyles, assistant coach at Georgia Tech, was rumored to be the leading candidate to succeed Don Faurot, retiring at Missouri. But several others still figured in the Missouri rumors. Among them were Charles Moser of Abilene, Tex., High School and Phil Bengston, a former Faurot assistant now with the San Francisco 49ers.

Today's program included a football coaches' luncheon, with Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee getting the Coach-of-the-Year award and a speech by Morris Frank, Houston Chronicle columnist.

The rules committee of the American Football Coaches Assn. agreed to recommend to the NCAA rules committee some liberalization of the present regulations on substitutions. It reported it was satisfied on the whole with the present rules.

Tar Heels Have 12th Victory Tucked Away, Outlook Bright

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

Unbeaten North Carolina had its 12th college basketball victory neatly tucked away today and the road ahead appeared even smoother.

The Tar Heels, ranked second nationally, got past William and Mary last night. Despite the shackling of Lennie Rosenbluth, they finished strong to win 71-61. The Tar Heels and Kansas (11-0), alone boast unblemished records among the major schools.

North Carolina can point to its Atlantic Coast Conference games against Clemson Friday night and Virginia Saturday night. Neither figure to give much trouble.

There was one mild upset last night. Dayton's Flyers surprised 14th-ranked Canisius 65-58. In other games, Southern Methodist (No. 4) tripped Texas A & M 62-53 as big Jim Krebs registered 32 points to lead West Virginia (No. 18) to an 89-86 victory over Pittsburgh. And although Chet Chet Forte rang up 34 points, Princeton turned back Columbia 100-96 in overtime.

The North Carolina triumph was not an easy one. The Tar Heels trailed 25-26 at halftime but they hit for seven straight free throws to grab a lead they never relinquished. Rosenbluth, who had a 26.5 points a game average, managed only 10 points, eight via the free throw route.

Dayton's "iron men" put a zone defense to good advantage against Canisius. The Flyers, using the same five players throughout, hit with 49 per cent of their shots.

Hundley connected on 13 field goals and six free throws for West Virginia, which broke 69-69 deadlock with eight straight points late in the game.

In other league games, the Texas Longhorns, shooting at a 55 per cent clip, dumped Texas Christian 85-76 in the Southwest Conference and four foul shots in the final 50 seconds by Lee Marshall enabled Washington and Lee to nip the Citadel 72-69 in the Southern Conference.

Royal Must Beat Alma Mater For Texas Fans

By HAROLD V. RATELIFF
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Something has been said about University of Texas courage in hiring Darrell Royal as its football coach since his record of victories and losses isn't any better than that of the coach who is departing under alumni fire.

But something needs to be said about Royal's courage in taking the job under a five-year contract.

One of the hot spots of coaching is the University of Texas. A fellow can get into trouble with the alumni by losing a couple of games. He runs a greater risk here than most anywhere else because there are so many alumni.

Texas has been playing football for 63 years and Royal is the 25th coach. The turnover has been on an average of about every two and a half years. Eleven of the coaches lasted only one year each. The longest reign was that of D. X. Bibbe, who guided the Longhorns for 10 years. He was one of the few Texas coaches who ever quit without being asked.

Ed Price was the coach for six years before he finally resigned after some hectic seasons. He was three hung in effigy. Price had a record of 33 victories, 27 losses and 1 tie for another. His team won the only bowl game in which he directed it — the Cotton Bowl of 1953.

Along came Royal with a 17-13 record in three years as a head coach of college football. He had 6-4 records at Mississippi State two years and 5-5 at Washington. The University hired him with the admission that the first team he was to beat was Oklahoma. This is where the courage comes in on the part of Royal.

Oklahoma, if you didn't know, has won 40 straight games. It has beaten Texas eight of the last nine years. The last time a Longhorn team beat the Sooners was 1951 — when Price was coach.

But if anybody outside of Coach Bud Wilkinson himself should know the best way to beat Oklahoma it should be Royal.

Darrell was the star quarterback at Oklahoma for three years. His team lost to Texas his first year season — 1947 — but Royal-directed Sooners teams whipped Texas the next two years.

Regarding the Texas coaching job, Royal says, "I know it is a big challenge but it is also a tremendous opportunity."

He must have wanted to coach at Texas because indications are that he left Washington for Texas at less money.

Jayvees Emerge With First Win

Greenville High School's Jayvees picked up their first cage victory in seven tries last night, upsetting the Elizabeth City Baby Jackets, 38-30, here at GHS gym.

For Coach Bob Howell's crew, it was their only victory in Northeastern channels giving them a 1-3 mark against loop foes. Elizabeth City's Baby Jackets averaged one of the more powerful jayvee teams in the league, having defeated Kinston last week.

Merrill Bynum paced both teams in scoring, pumping in 15 big points for the young Phantoms. Teammates Ward and Garner added seven each to the cause. High man for the visitors was Etheridge with 12.

DeMarco Is Again Signed To Fight Gaspar Ortega

BOSTON (AP) — Former welterweight Champion Tony DeMarco, hopeful of avenging a pair of losses to Gaspar Ortega in New York, has signed to meet the Mexican Indian in another 10-round Feb. 9 at the Boston Garden.

The signing of DeMarco yesterday by Promoter Johnny Buckley of the Sharkey AA resulted in the kindling of a long-standing feud between Promoter Sam Silverman of the Callahan AC and the International Boxing Club.

Silverman, who has promoted all of DeMarco's Boston fights since the Boston slugger's preliminary days, charged that the IBC is trying "to put me out of business."

"They're mad at me because I wouldn't go along with them," Silverman said. "I wanted to run shows that I thought were best for Boston without their interference." DeMarco's signing by Buckley also caused a split between Tony's "adviser," Rip Valenti, and Silverman. Valenti and Silverman are former partners in the Callahan AC.

Valenti said the IBC didn't want Silverman to promote an Ortega-DeMarco rematch and he originally agreed to let the Sharkey AA promote the bout because "Tony needs to beat this guy to get in line for the winner of the Basilio and (Johnny) Saxton title fight a week from Friday."

The third bout between DeMarco and Ortega will not be telecast as were the first two in New York. There will be a $10 top on tickets, with each fighter receiving 27 1/2 per cent of the net gate.

Buckley said Ortega's manager, Jimmy Simpson, has agreed verbally to the fight and he is awaiting written confirmation. DeMarco signed the contract at the Massachusetts Boxing Commission offices.

Announcements By Recreation Director

The Greenville Recreation department made several important announcements today, concerning Pony League baseball, a 14-year-old kids' basketball program and Industrial League basketball.

Pony League
A meeting has been scheduled for tonight, Wednesday 9, of the Greenville Pony League. At this time, according to the recreation heads, it will be decided whether or not to continue Pony League ball. It has been suggested that boys, ages 13, 14 and 15, would derive more benefit from playing Teen-er baseball. This and other suggestions will be discussed tonight. The meeting will be held at the city hall. Parents are urged to be present.

Industrial Loop
The Industrial basketball league is practically ready to begin. Games are scheduled for January 14. The Recreation department, however, feels that there may be some men in town who might still wish to join a team. The league is made up only of Greenville men—not high school or college boys. All men interested should call 2355 and leave their name.

Giants Assign Young Prospects

NEW YORK (AP) — Two 19-year-old baseball prospects, signed by the New York Giants, have been assigned for 1957 to Danville, Va., of the Class B Carolina League.

They are Dave Brockman, left-handed pitcher from Covington, Ky., and Joe Trace Jr. of the Bronx, an outfielder.

Eppees Playing

The C. M. Eppees high school Bulldogs will open their home cage schedule for 1956-57 here tomorrow night against the New Bern quintet, at the Eppees gymnasium.

It will be a conference ball game and will begin at 7:30.

CHAPTER 22
Chad returned to his quarters after making a brief report to Colonel Randall about the Indian fight and was taking off his heavy jacket when Zack burst in.

"He knows the land and he acts about half-Indian himself. If you succeed, I'll see that your name is mentioned favorably to headquarters."

A favorable mention wouldn't help a dead man, Chad told himself. The thought occurred to him that perhaps Randall wanted him out of the way.

"Is that all, sir?" Chad asked grimly. "That's all. Start immediately! Those Indians won't wait for you all winter."

The trail of the Indians led Chad and his men downriver, skirting the edge of the cutbank on its left side. There was nothing very difficult about following the path.

Chad stepped in and closed the door behind him. He still had no idea what to expect. He said, "Yes, sir."

"After you left, I had a talk with Cullyberry." The words spilled out of Randall.

"You'll have to get him," Randall hurried on. "Until we get the other one, there'll be no end to our trouble."

"You can't send men out into this kind of weather, sir," Chad said.

"There weren't any Indians around," Randall said.

"I'm beginning to wonder about you. Just what kind of military service did you have during the war, anyway?"

Chad remained silent, his eyes on Randall.

"Don't think I want to send men out into this weather, Endicott," Randall seemed to become more excited with each passing second.

"I'm beginning to wonder about you. Just what kind of military service did you have during the war, anyway?"

Chad nodded, his mouth a straight line. Randall went on.

"Take a dozen men. I can't afford any more. The band that made the attack was not large and they won't expect any follow-up from us."

"Yes, sir," Chad said. "Take Cullyberry," Randall said.

Auto Industry's Assembly Lines Are Catching Up

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Auto motive Editor
DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry's assembly lines are catching up with current retail demand in some of the medium and high-medium price classes.

Reflecting the modest growth in dealer inventories, Saturday overtime is dropping off sharply. Currently, only Ford is scheduling Saturday operations.

There is some speculation in automotive circles whether there will be very much Saturday overtime work anywhere in the industry during February and early March.

This is despite the fact the industry has scheduled January-February-March car assemblies at more than 1,842,000, second only to the first quarter record of more than 2,129,000 produced in 1955. Production schedules, of course, are subject to change on short notice.

It is not much of a secret that retail demand during the last few weeks has not kept pace with the rush to the showrooms that marked the earlier weeks of the new model year.

Some industry analysts say higher price tags will force a considerable number of new car buyers from the high-medium to the low-medium price bracket and that the lower-price field will get a bigger share of the over-all market this year than it attracted in 1956.

This view has been expressed almost as often as the car makers have increased their suggested list prices. The most recent tabulation of new car sales — still not complete for the year — shows that Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth alone in the lower price field gained a larger slice of the 1956 market. Their share was 56.7 per cent compared with a little more than 52 per cent in 1955.

While final figures still are lacking, last year's total sales are certain to come to approximately six million. Production has been fixed at 5,802,000. The difference in assemblies and deliveries results from the fact the year started with something in excess of 800,000 new cars in dealers' stocks.

Judge Agrees To Pay A Quarter

MONTEGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Robert Bass was brought before Judge Eugene Loe in City Police Court on a charge of refusing to pay a $1.25 taxi fare. Loe learned the man was free under five-year probation so a conviction, even on a minor charge, would force him back to prison.

The taxi driver agreed to drop the charge if he were paid. Bass could find only a dollar in his pockets so the judge said: "It's O.K. I'll pay the quarter."

Woodpeckers are found throughout the world except Australia and Madagascar. Naturalists have been unable to explain why woodpeckers have not found their way to these two island countries.

Local Pupils Are Finalists In Scholarship Elimination

Scholarships valued at $3.5 million were one step closer for 7,500 of America's brightest high school seniors today, as the National Merit Scholarship Corporation announced the finalists in its 1957 competition.

The students named today outperformed 162,000 highly selected fellow competitors in a college aptitude examination given in 12,500 high schools on October 24.

Merit Scholarship Finalists from Greenville High School were Lois W. Eaton and Jerry M. Howell. Finalists from Ayden High School were Robert E. Gagnon, Johnnie M. Harrington, and Herbert R. Little.

The finalists now face a stiff three-hour College Board examination on January 12, plus intensive screening of their leadership and extracurricular records by a selection board.

In the final phase of the competition, the other accomplishments and the character of the competitors will be evaluated. About April 25, a fortunate 700 will become the Merit Scholars of 1957. The runners-up will each receive a Certificate of Merit, attesting to their high ability; and all colleges and universities will be notified, enabling these students to be considered for thousands of other awards and prizes.

The 700 Merit Scholars choose the colleges they wish to attend. The value of each scholarship varies with the financial need of the student, ranging upward from $100 per year (minimum honorarium) to $2,000 per year or more.

The colleges chosen by the Merit Scholars will receive supplemental unrestricted grants averaging $2,000 per scholarship over the four years) to help defray the actual cost of educating the students.

The Merit Scholarship Program is now in its second year. The students are supported in college by funds provided by business and industrial corporations, professional societies, and even individuals interested in helping students of high ability.

Today's 7,500 finalists represent one half of one per cent of 1957's high school graduating classes—the best in each state.

TWO-DUDS
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The script called for a 19-gun salute as George D. Clyde took the oath of office as Utah's 10th Governor. But only 18 bangs were heard. Red-faced Utah National Guard officials explained that a dud shell put one of the two howitzers being used for the salute out of action. They continued with the remaining gun, only to find that the 17th shell was another dud.

Cancer-Resistance Seen Among Healthy Persons

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP) — Healthy persons apparently have a natural resistance against cancer which is lost when the disease develops, two researchers reported today.

The indication comes from experiments in which cancer cells were injected under the skin of human volunteers, some healthy, and some dying of cancers.

The experiments — carried out without danger to the human volunteers — may yield clues to the mechanism by which normal tissues are changed to become malignant.

The work was described to a conference on viruses sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences in honor of the 65th birthday anniversary of Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Doctors Alice E. Moore and Chester Southam of the Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, New York, inoculated the volunteers both with true cancer cells, and also with once-normal cells which had been grown artificially in tissue culture. The normal cells had changed under culturing to resemble cancer cells. When cultured cells were injected under the skin of cancer patients, seven developed tumors.

Stolen Whiskey Tasted 'Burnt' Claim Samplers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two defendants were hauled into police court on charges of stealing $61.75 worth of liquor from a tavern, closed after a recent fire.

Police said the burglars drank seven fifths of whiskey on the spot. Frank Williams Jr., 33, and James Richardson, 35, admitted breaking into the place and were held in $3,000 bail each for grand jury action. Williams told the magistrate:

"We did go in that place, sir, and take some drinks but we didn't think anybody'd mind. We didn't think it was any good, sir."

"If it wasn't any good, why did you drink so much of it?" magistrate John A. Janetzke asked. "It tasted burnt, sir," Williams replied.

while three did not. Nodules appeared for a time in another three.

Then three healthy humans were inoculated with cultured cancer cells, and 14 with true cancer cells. No tumorous cells appeared in those give the cultured cells, but tumor cells did appear in four of the 14 receiving true cancer cells.

These nodules were removed without harm to the volunteers.

'Production' In Signing Report

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marie McDonald's signature is on a police crime report today, the law's summary of her account of being kidnaped from her Encino home and pushed out of a car on a desert highway 24 hours later.

Once again there was a Hollywood touch to the latest incident. The signing had some of the flourishes of a movie contract agreement ceremony.

Detectives took the report to the actress' home. She received them in her living room late yesterday. She wore a silver brocade Mandarin robe with jeweled collar, not to be confused with the robe she was wearing when she said she was kidnaped last Thursday night, nor the one she wore for a Hollywoodish, police-directed, filmed re-enactment at her home Monday.

She gestured with a long, gold cigarette holder. At her shoulder, studying the document, proof-reading it and making a few minor penciled corrections, was the watchful legal expert in criminal law, Atty. Jerry Giesler.

She signed, with Giesler's permission. Later she leafed through two large volumes of assorted pictures of 30 known criminals, pointing out facial characteristics of some similar to the physiognomies of the two men she said snatched her and let her go late Friday night, 150 miles away near Indio, Calif.

From her descriptions, police artist Ector Garcia is making up composit sketches supposed to look like the alleged kidnapers.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

WINDOW planting rising from the basement recreation room up to join planting on the dining terrace features this distinctive home. Sliding glass doors open from dining room to terrace. A center entrance foyer gives access to all parts of the house. Lavatory powder room is adjacent to foyer and kitchen. This is plan 7535AP by Herman York, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N.Y. The house covers 1,700 square feet exclusive of two-car garage, which figures separately in building estimates.

Closing Months Of 1956 Helped Profit Reports

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Larger sales volume in the final months of 1956 appear today to have pulled American business as a whole a little higher up on the profit trail.

First reports indicate that total earnings will once again set a new high mark, although the gain over the previous year will be small.

The margin of increase over 1955 dwindled steadily in each quarter of the year until in the summer months it approached the vanishing point. But fourth-quarter earnings after taxes appear to have been enough better to bring the year as a whole into the plus column once again.

Results are quite ragged, however, as between industries.

The largest oil company estimates its 1956 net profit will top 1955 by 13 per cent. The industry as a whole has thrived on increased demand for its products, swelled in the final weeks of the year by the Suez Canal crisis.

The Association of American Railroads, on the other hand, believes rail profits will trail by 6 per cent.

Reports of the nation's big banks pouring in show gains over the previous year ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. They made money on the increased volume of loans on which they got higher interest.

Reports of 59 utilities for the 12 months ending Nov. 30 show all but five bettering their 1955 earnings. Combined, earnings of the 59 increased 10 per cent.

Thirty industrial groups whose fiscal years ended before December had a harder time of it. Seven saw profits decline from a year ago, and two operated at a net loss. Combined, the 30 report 1956 profits of $173,539,042, an increase of 3.1 per cent over the $168,278,327 the same 30 made in 1955.

Credited with putting the brake on rising earnings for many companies is the increase in operating costs which in many cases has exceeded the hike in the prices of their products. Material and labor costs have been on the up-grade.

Adding up the industrials with off-balance fiscal years that have already reported, the utilities reporting as of November, and the estimate for the railroads, there are 219 corporations with combined earnings of $1,331,874,460, compared with $1,808,241,770 in 1955, or a gain of 1.3 per cent.

Many more industrial must report to give them the weight they should carry in the compilation. Reports for the calendar year won't be in full swing for another month.

But in the early, inconclusive reports may be found an indication of the profit trend. And that would seem to be a recovery in the final months from the summer slump but still a strikingly lower increase in profits than business enjoyed in 1955.

In that year of lower cost of operating, business profits rose 32 per cent over the previous 12 months.

TV To Develop Own Comedians

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—"Where is television going to get its new comedians?" a fellow asked the other day.

His argument ran that the medium is steadily destroying the old spawning grounds of those who make us laugh. Vaudeville is gone. Burlesque, as it once was, has ceased to exist in most places. Many small night clubs have closed their doors because of the competitive TV screen.

Where, then, do people discover a promising youngster who makes them laugh?

Well, in the first place, television with the aid of its parent, radio, has brought forth quite a few "new" comedians. How about Jonathan Winters, Jack Paar, Herb Shriner, Buddy Hackett, Ernie Kovacs, Sam Levenson, Johnny Carson? And how about Steve AL.

All these men have played clubs, but — unlike George Gobel, for example — they were not top-flight entertainment names when they entered the TV listings. All are relatively young. Some have not been favored with good luck on television thru. Far. Some undoubtedly are discouraged.

They shouldn't be. They forget how relatively young they are. They forget that a good comedian — or comedienne — has tremendous longevity.

Look at the years of trial and error experience that lie behind some of the better known television names: Bob Hope, Groucho Marx, Jackie Gleason, Phil Silvers, Lucille Ball, Bob Cummings, Robert Young, Burns and Allen, Jack Benny, Spring Byington, George Gobel.

We tend to forget that these people spent long years learning their art in vaudeville and burlesque, in night clubs and the movies. They are better known than the newcomers. But that does not mean they are innately better comedians than the newcomers.

A comedian, like every artist, has to establish himself. But we can't reopen vaudeville or bring back burlesque or start a chain of small night clubs for fledgling comedians. They must try their wings on television.

MIGs To Syria

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia was reported today to have delivered about a dozen MIG17 jet fighters to Syria within the past three days.

The shipment, according to diplomatic sources, was made by sea.

It was understood to be part of a 28-million-dollar deal the Syrians made with Russia some time ago. Syria previously has received some Soviet tanks, small arms, ammunition and armored cars.

Officials said the Russians apparently have adopted a practice of shipping direct to Syria instead of by way of Egypt. Many weapons bound for Syria were reported destroyed in Egypt during the Israeli-British-French attacks which began Oct. 29.

Officials saw no immediate serious danger in the arrival of late-model MIG fighters in Syria. They said few Syrians are capable of flying them. Training new pilots is expected to take some time.

Nazi's Slave-Laborers Will Receive $7 Million

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Some 4,000 persons who worked as slave laborers for the I. G. Farben chemical trust during World War II will receive a total of about 30 million marks ($7,140,000) under a settlement expected soon.

The liquidators of what was once Germany's biggest individual concern are about to sign an agreement with representatives of the Jewish Conference on Material Claims Against Germany, of New York.

I. G. Farben agreed to a settlement after a court recommendation last year. It will pay the lump sum to the Jewish conference, which in turn will pay claimants.

Around 2,000 former slave laborers have registered claims totaling $15,708,000. About 2,000 more are expected to report after the settlement.

The settlement was suggested by a State Supreme Court in Frankfurt after I. G. Farben appealed a lower court decision awarding $2,380 for slave labor compensation to Norbert Wollheim, New York City.

In 1943 the Nais killed Wollheim's wife and son. They put him to work in a synthetic rubber plant where Farben used 30,000 prisoners from the Auschwitz concentration camp across the road.

In offering a settlement, I. G. Farben officials emphasized that

Returned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government says 10 Hungarian refugees have been returned to Austria—eight of them for making false statements or misrepresentations to get into the United States. The other two asked to go back.

In making this information public yesterday, the immigration service declined to identify the 10, or to say whether communism or subversion was a factor in any of the cases.

Community Has Weekend Mayor

SILVERSTREET, S. C. (AP)—Silverstreet's population of about 150 apparently feels the community is small enough to get along with a "weekend" mayor.

Henry M. Havid fills the office only on Saturdays and Sundays when he stays at the old family home. The rest of the time he lives 65 miles away in Columbia where he holds a position with the South Carolina Employment Security Commission.

Swapped After Autos Collided

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Two Little Rock motorists driving black 1951 and 1952 model cars of the same make were involved in a minor collision here.

Police said that in the excitement that followed Mike Wright drove off in the car belonging to Leon Huey. Later both returned to the wreck scene to swap cars.

Alarming Note On Signal Box

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) Firemen answering an alarm from an outlying section here found no fire.

Tacked to the pole supporting the alarm box they found a sign, apparently fashioned by a child on heavy paper. It read:

"Save a fireman's life — Don't turn in false alarms."

LIGHT SWITCH
New light switches harmonize with the decor of a room.

Plain paper or wallpaper inserts slip behind the cover making it possible for the unit to blend with the background. Or paper inserts may be painted the exact color of the wall or drapery fabric switches may provide complete custom-color coordination.

The joys of untroubled living

A QUIET ROSE GARDEN... leisure to enjoy it. This mother can fully appreciate the feeling of independence that comes with having an income of her own.

She does not have to depend on her children for support at a time when they need their income the most. She has the privacy of her own home, where she can entertain her friends whenever she wishes. And all because an estate was carefully planned.

The fact is that in modern America estate planning by Trust Departments has become one of the fastest growing of all bank services. This trend prevails in our own area.

Why? Because estate planning helps the individual to help himself. He gets a clearer picture of his estate. Weak spots, if any, are pointed out. The tax situation is reviewed. And often, property is made more productive.

Wives and children appreciate the results of such thoughtful planning. They tell us so.

The time it takes to plan your estate for your future welfare and for that of your family will be repaid many times over. Come in soon with your attorney.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK — Steels were heavily traded early this afternoon as the stock market moved up slightly on average.

Gains among leading issues ran to around 3 points but there was a scattering of losses going to 1 or 2 points.

The market was somewhat mixed at the opening but a higher tendency became more pronounced, pushing the list to the upside.

A burst of activity hit the steels and the prices of U. S. Steel and Bethlehem gyrated momentarily. This movement ended with leading steels on the upside and nothing in the news to warrant the performance.

In the absence of outstanding news affecting prices, brokers said the market was being guided by technical considerations, mainly.

Some stocks see-sawed. U. S. Steel dropped on a block of 5,600 shares then recovered to regain the upside narrowly. American Telephone was down around a point but cut the loss to a small fraction.

Bethlehem Steel and Youngstown were ahead around 3 points. Wall Streeters said there was anticipation of good financial reports for 1956 as well as bullish prospects for 1957.

In a delayed opening, Missouri-Kansas - Texas preferred dropped 2 1/2, later shaving the loss to around 2. News that it had a new president and that a group of Chicago, Great Western shareholders have options to buy a big block of M-K-T common affected the stock.

Chance - Vought and Grumman were up well over a point. United Aircraft and Boeing about a point each and Douglas a major fraction. Aluminum Ltd. was ahead about 2.

Sugars resumed their rise with Frisco and South Puerto Rico Sugar both up a point or better.

Oils were narrowly mixed, rubber issues showed small losses and most leading chemicals were off a bit. General Motors and Chrysler made fractional gains.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $181.50, with the industrials up 60 cents, the rails up 50 cents and the utilities down 20 cents.

Find Dead Pilot Strapped In Seat

CHERRY POINT, N. C. — The search for a missing Navy jet pilot, lost since Sunday, ended yesterday when his crashed plane was found near the village of Atlantic on North Carolina's Outer Banks.

The body of the pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Joseph Neri of Chicago, was found strapped in the cockpit.

Two Marine Corps search planes from Cherry Point discovered the crash scene, ending an air search that covered more than 18,000 square miles covering Virginia and North Carolina.

A Marine helicopter brought the body here late yesterday. Mrs. Addie Neri, wife of the pilot, and a brother, Robby Neri, both of Chicago, had flown to nearby Stalling AFB at Kinston to await news of the search. When informed the body had been recovered, they came here and will return to Chicago with it.

A Navy spokesman said the engine and wings of the F9F Cougar jet were severely damaged in the crash, but that the fuselage and tail assembly were "fairly intact."

The plane was one of six Naval Reserve planes on a routine training flight from the Glenview (Ill.) Naval Air Station to Jacksonville, Fla. The flight leader reported he lost contact with Neri over Elkins, W. Va. Later, however, Neri reported he was running out of fuel and had experienced a "flame-out" (loss of power) and thought his position to be near Fayetteville.

Choice Posts Go To Third-Term N. C. Lawmakers

WASHINGTON — Two third term North Carolina representatives were given choice committee assignments yesterday.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC), dean of the delegation, announced that Rep. L. H. Fountain (D) was placed tee and Rep. Hugh Alexander (D) was assigned to the powerful Appropriations Committee.

Fountain left the Banking Committee and was put on the Government Operations Committee.

Other assignments for North Carolina congressmen, all new, include:

Rep. Lennon (D) — Merchant Marine and Fisheries.
Rep. Whitener (D) — Veterans Affairs and House Administration.
Rep. Kitchin (D) — Armed Services.
Rep. Scott (D) — Post Office and Civil Service.

Fear Freighter Is Storm Victim

LONDON — Shipping circles today posted "missing" after the name of the 7,124-ton British freighter Nordicstar, last heard from 13 days ago in the winter-whipped North Atlantic.

Fear was expressed that the ship may have foundered with her crew of 37 most of them Greeks.

Royal Air Force planes flew out soon after dawn, concentrating their search some 300 miles west of Land's End. Ships of all nationalities doubled lookouts and scanned the horizon for some trace of the Nordicstar.

Last Rites Set For Mrs. Ashby Bynum

FARMVILLE — Mrs. Martha Murphrey Bynum, 89, wife of the late Ashby C. Bynum of Farmville, R-1, died suddenly Tuesday night in Parrot Hospital, Kinston of a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. from the Farmville Christian Church conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Z. B. T. Cox. Interment will follow in the Forest Hills Cemetery of Farmville.

Mrs. Bynum was the oldest member of the Farmville Christian Church, having been a member for more than 60 years. She had been in declining health for a period of some three years. She was always active in the affairs of her church and community.

Surviving are one son; J. E. Bynum of Farmville; two sisters; Mrs. W. B. Carraway of Farmville, Miss Fannie Murphrey of Farmville; one brother; Roy C. Murphrey of Snow Hill; and five grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the church one hour prior to the service.

The Utilities Commission is using a new method of construction in building a distribution manhole for underground electrical circuits on Fifth St. between Five Points and Washington St.

Utilities Superintendent Leonard Bloxam told commission members that galvanized steel walls are being used in the construction project.

The large round steel device was assembled above ground and then dropped into the hole by crane. A concrete floor is then poured and the entire structure capped.

Until now the distribution centers have been built with concrete or brick walls.

The new type construction is being tried for the first anywhere, Bloxam said this morning.

He estimated that the use of galvanized steel walls will reduce construction time on such projects by 60 per cent.

Commissioners Hear Report

Commission members also approved last night the depositing of $10,000 in each of the city's banks. The commission had earlier approved depositing of $10,000 in First Federal Savings and Loan and Home Building and Loan.

They are awaiting legal opinions on depositing additional sums in the associations.

The funds being deposited came from the sale of Utilities lines in Craven County. Plans are to use the money for the construction of a sewage disposal plant at a later date.

Commissioners also heard Bloxam report on the progress of various electric, sewer and water projects and they heard Business Manager Larry Brown's monthly financial report.
