President Begins Tour Of Drought-Stricken States

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—President Eisenhower, starting a tour of the drought-seared Southwest, faced a call today from a Texas delegation for more liberal federal loans for relief of hard-hit farmers and ranchers.

Eisenhower scheduled a 22.6-mile automobile ride through the San Angelo countryside, an area that the Agriculture Department says is experiencing its worst parching in history.

After the tour the President flies to Woodward, Okla., and then to Clovis, N.M., for inspection of drought regions there. He will spend the night at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz., hold another breakfast parley there tomorrow morning, then take off for a look at conditions in two more states.

The Tuesday schedule calls for stops at Pueblo, Colo., Garden City, Kan., and Wichita, Kan. At Wichita, before heading back to Washington, Eisenhower will meet late in the afternoon with representatives from all the Great Plains states plagued by lack of rain and devastating wind erosion.

At that conference the President plans to speak briefly, probably to outline his views regarding possible new relief measures, after getting the recommendations of people from the region.

Eisenhower arrived in San Angelo last night after a six-hour flight from the nation's capital. Returning to his native Texas, he flashed a broad smile at Good-fellow Air Force Base as a crowd estimated at up to 10,000 persons gave him a rousing cheer.

The President was accompanied by two Cabinet officers, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of the Interior Seaton, and a staff of technical experts on the drought and relief measures.

As he stepped from his private plane into the floodlight glare, he was greeted by Texas Gov. Allan Shivers.

The President stayed overnight at the base. In advance of his arrival, the regional office of the Federal Small Business Administration sponsored a conference aimed at development of proposals for relief of drought-hit farmers and ranchers.

Any such measures would supplement the more than 350 million dollars in emergency aid made available by the Agriculture Department alone since 1953.

A group of Texas bankers and businessmen at the conference urged the federal government to grant more liberal and longer-term loans to hard-pressed farmers and ranchers. The consensus at the meeting was that farmers and ranchers will need two to four years to recover from the drought — after the rains come. Also on hand for presidential study was a Texas A&M survey saying drought conditions are "the worst in Texas history in terms of financial losses, necessary human adjustments, and deterioration of physical resources."

Big War Games Draw To A Close

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The first test of the Army's new type of airborne division with atomic striking power ends here today.

Observers said that if the four-day war games, called Operation Market II, is judged successful, more such divisions likely will be formed.

They would be "pentomic" divisions along the lines of the chief participant in the war games, the 187th Combat Group of the 101st Airborne Division of Ft. Campbell, Ky.

"Pentomic" means that the division is made up of five groups with atomic striking power. It has fewer men but greater firepower than old style airborne divisions. Its light equipment makes it highly mobile and capable of being completely airborne.

The 187th counterattacked a mock aggressor enemy force which presumably had invaded the southern United States last April. This force, composed of elements of the 82nd Airborne Division, based here, had advanced toward Washington before being contained on a line running through Virginia.

Observing the maneuvers were Gen. Willard G. Wyman, commander of ground troops in the continental United States, and military officials of Great Britain and British Commonwealth nations.

The war games opened Friday with the drop of 1,240 paratroopers from Flying Box Cars. Seven were hurt, but only one was hospitalized. Col. Melvin Zias, commander of the 187th, said the mass jump and the airdrop of 300 tons of weapons, vehicles and supplies were successful.

He also termed "highly successful" a hit-and-run helicopter strike yesterday on a simulated missile launching site held by aggressor

New Plan To Disarm By U. S.

Includes Ban On Stockpiling Nuclear Weapons and Space Missile Control

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States submitted to the U. N. today a new five-point disarmament plan which would include a ban on further stockpiling of nuclear weapons. It also calls for international control of space missiles.

The program would go into effect, however, only after an iron-clad system of controls and inspections has been established to guard against violations or evasions.

The plan was laid before the General Assembly's 80-nation political committee by Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., as that body opened its general debate on the disarmament problem.

The Western Powers, with the United States taking the lead, have been pushing for aerial reconnaissance to check on disarmament.

The Russians, until last Nov. 17, would agree to nothing stronger than ground inspection teams stationed at such key locations as airfields and road junctions. Then Soviet Premier Bulganin, in a letter to Eisenhower, said the Russians would consider applying aerial photographic inspection to disarmament in a belt 1,000 miles wide through Central Europe.

Lodge told the subcommittee's parent body, the 12-nation Disarmament Commission, Dec. 20 that the United States took "some hope" from this.

But Eisenhower, replying later to Bulganin's letter, said the Soviet Union apparently was still unwilling to agree to "aerial inspection of the centers of our military power."

Rules Death Due Natural Causes

A man found dead in his tiny home on Griffin St. yesterday afternoon died of natural causes, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled this morning.

The man was identified by police as Cecil Allen of 618 Griffin St. He was found yesterday afternoon on the floor of his little dwelling by W. R. Nobles of Greenville Rt. 1.

Nobles said he had come to visit Allen around 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. When he saw the body on the floor he went for help, Nobles said.

Officers who investigated found a quantity of blood on the floor and on Allen's face. Neighbors said he was last seen Friday.

Rouse said there were no signs of foul play. The blood apparently came from a break in the skin on his forehead, the coroner stated.

Allen had a severe case of asthma and death was apparently caused by heart failure, according to Rouse.

It was reported by doctors that Allen had been sent to Durham for treatment in a veteran's hospital last week but he was not admitted and was returned to his home.

Coroner Rouse said no inquest into the death will be held.

Dulles Says Mid-East Is 'Decisive' Testing Ground

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today the Middle East may present "the decisive test in the struggle between communism and freedom."

And he said, Communist leaders "will take every risk they dare to take" to win.

"I do not say that this is the last test, although it could well be the decisive test," Dulles told a joint session of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees.

"When the stakes are so great," he continued, "I do not believe the Congress of the United States should play, or wants to play, merely the role of an observer. It possesses assets, perhaps decisive assets, to throw into the struggle."

Dulles was before the senators, at an open hearing, to seek support for the administration's request for standby authority for President Eisenhower to use troops to counter any Soviet aggression in the Middle East.

Eisenhower also seeks authority for economic and military support for free nations in that area.

Last week, in testimony to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Dulles said the Middle East "is very likely to be lost" unless Congress gives the administration swiftly the special powers it has asked.

Repeating that to the senators, Dulles said: "It would be abhorrent and dangerous if that area were ruled by international communism." Yet that is the present danger.

Dulles said that Soviet ground, naval and air forces are stationed in the areas adjacent to the Middle East—in Bulgaria, the Black Sea, the Ukraine, the Caucasus and central Asia.

"These Soviet forces are of a size, and are so located, that they could be employed at any time with a minimum of warning," he went on. "This fact is nothing new. But today it takes on new implications."

"There has been a change in the possible deterrent role of certain Western European nations. Until recently they provided a serious deterrent to Communist aggression against the Middle East. But for a variety of reasons—psychological, financial and political—this no longer meets the needs."

Presumably, this was a reference to the weakened position of Britain and France in that part of the world.

Another new factor, Dulles added, "is evidence that the Communist rulers may now be thinking in terms of possible 'volunteer' operations in the Middle East, such as Chinese Communists perpetrated in Korea."

Dulles read a prepared statement in swift sentences as the senators listened intently.

There were 24 of the 30 members of the two committees present at the start of the session. They sat at big tables formed into a wide "U" in the Senate caucus room.

Dulles told the senators he believes this country can help Middle East nations "build up appropriate security forces of their own" without starting an arms race between the Arab states and Israel.

This is a question which has been raised by some Congress members.

"Limited local forces, well-equipped and loyal, are an essential ingredient of defense, particularly as against subversion," Dulles said.

The secretary said that Eisenhower's request for "greater facilities to provide financial assistance" in the area is "perhaps most important of all."

Just what these economic needs are, Dulles said, will be determined by a Middle East mission headed by James P. Richards of South Carolina. Richards, a Democrat, was chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the last Congress. He did not seek re-election. Rep. Gordon (D-Ill.) is chairman of the House committee in the new Congress.

President Eisenhower wants a standby authority to use U. S. armed forces to help any Middle East nation which asks such American aid against over-Communist aggression. He also has asked for authority for special military and economic assistance.

Varied congressional reaction points to possibly extensive debate in the House and, particularly, the Senate after their committees finish work on the proposed Middle East resolution. The House committee has scheduled another week of hearings. The Senate committee hearings may last two weeks or more.

But Dulles, in his secret testimony before the House group last week, said it would be "very regrettable" if the resolution does not get through Congress by the end of this month.

He said "it is our definite belief that this area is very likely to be lost" unless the United States moves in quickly with help for nations there.

"And if it is lost," he said, "it will be the greatest victory that the Soviet Communists could ever have gained because if they get this area they in effect will have gotten Western Europe without a war."

Support for Eisenhower's request came yesterday from former President Truman. In a statement issued at his home in Independence, Mo., Truman said, "Congress has no alternative but to go along with the President in this program to prevent the Russians from taking over the whole strategic Middle East. . . ."

Truman did not endorse the administration's resolution as it now is worded. He also voiced criticism of Eisenhower administration handling of Middle East policy.

British Cabinet Guided By 'Right'

LONDON (AP)—The right wing of the Conservative party emerged today with a dominant voice in the government of Britain in its new Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Widepread predictions that Macmillan's Cabinet appointments would toss a sop to British and foreign critics of former Prime Minister Eden's Suez military adventure failed to materialize.

The 18-man Cabinet announced today was made up largely of familiar faces. The new prime minister retained John Selwyn Lloyd, an architect of the Suez invasion, as foreign secretary.

It had been generally believed Lloyd was marked for dismissal because of the Suez venture's adverse diplomatic consequences.

Richard Austen Butler, Macmillan's chief rival for the prime ministership, was reappointed government leader in the House of Commons and lord privy seal and given the additional post of home secretary. Butler was one of the few top men in the Cabinet who was cool to Eden's Suez policies.

Another forthright supporter of the Suez campaign, Peter Thorneycroft, was promoted from president of the Board of Trade to the key post of chairman of the executive over Suez.

Macmillan dropped five of Eden's Cabinet ministers. One was Defense Minister Anthony Head, whose ministry carried out the Suez invasion.

The reappointment of Lloyd stirred up the greatest controversy.

The Liberal News-Chronicle said it would be "read as militant unrepentance over Suez."

The Laborite Daily Herald said Lloyd's reappointment is a slap at the Conservative party moderates "and at world opinion." It added: "His retention is a sign that there is to be no repentance, no apologies. It is the Premier's sop to the right-wingers. He may regret it."

The Times of London said of Lloyd's retention: "The Liberal News-Chronicle said it would be 'read as militant unrepentance over Suez.'"

The Laborite Daily Herald said Lloyd's reappointment is a slap at the Conservative party moderates "and at world opinion." It added: "His retention is a sign that there is to be no repentance, no apologies. It is the Premier's sop to the right-wingers. He may regret it."

as fully involved in the policy of the Suez intervention as Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, it can be looked on as an act of justice. But justice is not everything in politics. There will be the effect on . . . world opinion. It is not as if Mr. Selwyn Lloyd had been a conspicuously successful holder of his high office."

Lloyd, 52-year-old former Liverpool insurance lawyer, has held the Foreign Office post since December 1955. He was minister of state in the Foreign Office, Feb. 2, 1952, during Eden's last term as foreign secretary.

Many observers had expected Butler, regarded as the leader of the Conservative party's liberal faction, to replace Lloyd.

School Group To Convene Jan. 23

RALEIGH (AP)—A 30-member North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools will hold its first meeting here on Jan. 23.

The group has been named by Gov. Hodges to "arouse in each community the intelligence and will to improve our public schools."

Formation of the committee resulted from the governor's often-stated belief that stronger local school support is needed.

It will be headed by Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise. It will be assisted by a special advisory panel of educators, also appointed by the governor.

Three Negroes are among committee members. The group's work "will have nothing to do" with problems resulting from segregation decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court, according to Gov. Hodges.

"Membership of this committee is made up of laymen who have shown a deep interest in public education, and in the welfare of our children," the governor said. "They will be assisted by a distinguished group of educators representing all levels of education in the state."

Actor Bogart Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Humphrey Bogart, 56, died early today of cancer.

Operated on last March for cancer of the esophagus, Bogart was still optimistic about his illness as late as Saturday night. Then Sunday he lapsed into a coma from which he never revived.

His doctor, Dr. Maynard Bandman, said death came at the actor's home from a general spread of the original cancer.

Bogart, academy award winner, had been in some pain the last few weeks, but a recent nerve tissue operation had eased that somewhat. But he had steadily grown weaker and weaker.

The famed actor, born Christmas Day 1900, is survived by his wife, actress Lauren Bacall, two children, Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4.

Mrs. Bogart asked that no photographers visit the house this morning. She wanted the children to leave for school as usual.

The funeral will be held Wednesday or Thursday at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

She also asked that flowers be omitted and that money be sent instead to the American Cancer Society.

Bogart, the movies' favorite "tough guy" never would admit publicly that cancer would beat him.

"I'm a better man than I ever was," he told this reporter just a few weeks ago.

This, even after the state of his health had become the prime cocktail hour topic in the movie colony.

If Bogart knew he was going to die, he never let on to friends.

A New York newspaper recently printed that death was imminent and when other papers and wire services called to check it was Bogart himself who answered the phone with a caustic:

"What are the ghouls saying about me now?"

Although Bogart, on-screen and off, talked like a gangster he actually was Park Avenue born. His father was a physician and his mother a noted magazine illustrator.

Bogart himself had attended Andover Academy—one of the nation's finest prep schools. But he got into the theater early on Broadway. It was hard to imagine that Bogart was the originator of the famous line: "Tennis, anyone?"

Investigating were Deputies N. H. Byrd and Cecil Crandall.

Pactolus Store Robbed Sunday

Some 25 cartons of cigarettes, amounting $6 in nickels and a few pennies were reported missing from Dick Chauncey's store in Pactolus yesterday morning.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported that robbers entered the store by breaking open a front door. The theft was reported yesterday morning.

Investigating were Deputies N. H. Byrd and Cecil Crandall.

Where Mishap Cost Wilson Man's Life

Greenville Rescue Squad Member Stewart Savage points to the spot where squad members found the body of Ernest Edward Winstead of Wilson yesterday afternoon. The car had apparently rolled into the sand pit pond near Grimesland. Winstead died of exposure, Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled. (Reflector Photo by Alvin Taylor).

Wilson Man Dies Of Exposure As Auto Rolls Into Pitt Pond

GRIMESLAND—A Wilson man died from exposure near here yesterday morning when his car apparently rolled into a water-filled sand pit near the Tar River bridge.

The man was identified by the Sheriff's Department as Ernest Edward Winstead, 72 years old.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson reported that Winstead was found in the pond hanging on to his automobile around 8:30 yesterday morning by W. L. Barrett of Washington Rt. 3. Barrett went for help and Joe Mizelle who lives nearby came to the scene and swam out to the nearly submerged car.

Savage said the vehicle was approximately 25 to 30 feet from the bank.

Coroner Griffin H. Rouse ruled that Winstead died from exposure. He said no inquest will be held.

Winstead was a lifetime resident of Wilson and he had been retired for the past five years. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Martha Batts Winstead; two sons, Arthur E. of Wilson, Harvey L. of Farmville; three sisters, Mrs. A. L. Darden, Mrs. E. L. Wynn, Mrs. Hugh Eanes, all of Wilson; four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Thomas Selverton Funeral Home Monday at 3 p.m. and interment followed in Maplewood cemetery in Wilson.

Tax Listings Lag; Late Rush Period Is Expected

County tax listings are moving much slower than anticipated and conditions point to a rush period for listers during the last two weeks of January Tax Supervisor Harold Allred said today.

"Listings has slowed down considerably and started slowly this morning," Allred said. "However, there will be no extension of the listing period which will continue through January 31 and everyone who does not list taxes during the regular period will receive a ten per cent penalty," he added.

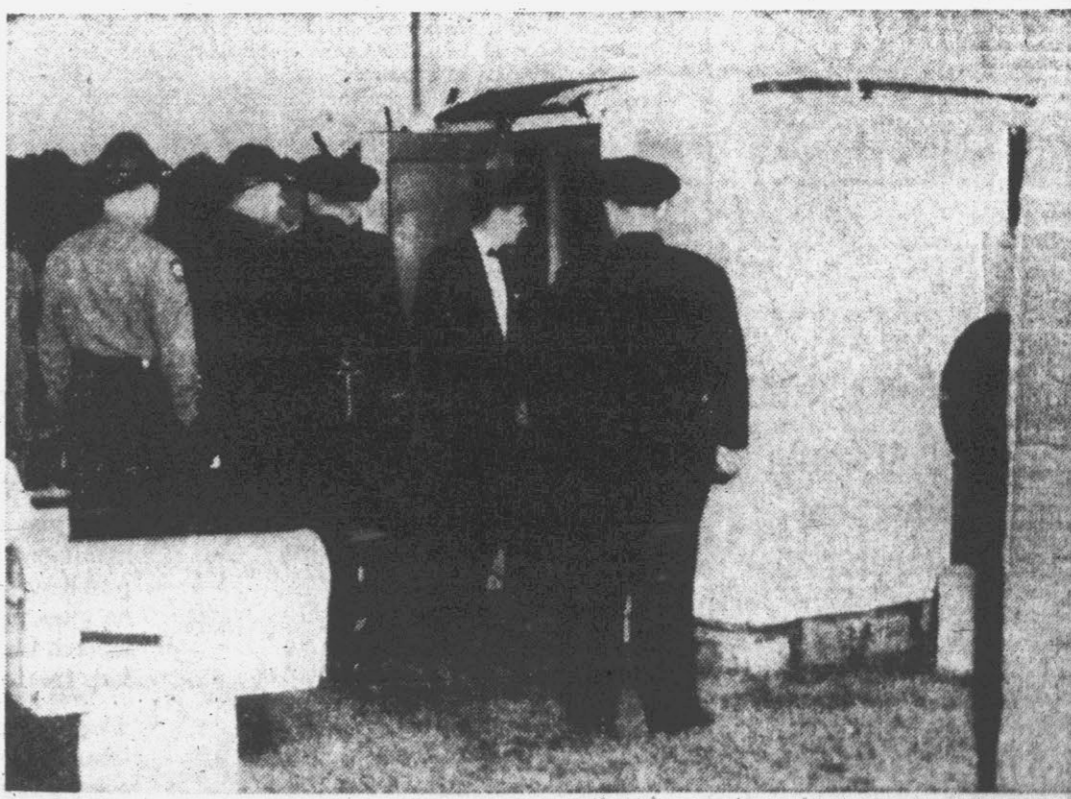

Allred expressed a particular disappointment at failure of Greenville township tax payers to take advantage of Friday night listing times. "We have not had the response on Friday nights we had anticipated and if tax payers don't take more interest the practice will not be continued," Allred said.

The Friday night listing periods were instituted this year to help persons unable to list during regular listing hours. The innovation was approved by Pitt County Commissioners on condition that it met with enough response to justify it.

The Tax Supervisor also said this morning that all automobiles will be checked at a later date to see that they are listed. Confidential statements from business firms will also be checked for accuracy with North Carolina internal revenue officials, Allred said.

Police Investigate Death Scene

Church Go-ers May See Selves

$15,000 AT STAKE—Barbara Pope, attired in a smart black dress with white piping, was again very much at ease before the cameras Tuesday night. She and her partner, Connie, will be trying for $15,000 on tomorrow night's show. The above picture was taken while the girls were talking to M. C. George De Witt during last week's show.

Everybody who attended services at the Methodist Church of Stokes Sunday, January 6, will be interested in watching "Name That Tune" Tuesday night at 7:30. Films were taken of the Sunday service and the open house at the parsonage which will be shown on this musical quiz show, with Mrs. Arnold Pope explaining the action and identifying her many friends. Arnold Pope has been in the front row cheering his wife on during the last two shows, but he won't be able to be there this

Ballards Church Women Plan For District Meeting

Plans were laid for the 1957 district conference of the Women of the Church of Albemarle Presbytery at the January meeting of the Women of the Ballards Presbyterian Church Wednesday. The Ballards church women will serve as hostesses for this meeting scheduled for January 24. The day's events will include registration at 10 a. m., a business meeting to be presided over by Mrs. C. F. Baucom, Albemarle District Chairman, and a buffet luncheon to be served immediately following. Some 125 delegates and guests are expected to be present for the Presbytery meet. Detailed plans and committee appointments were made by the Ballards church women at their Wednesday night meeting. Mrs. Dalton Williams, president, presided. The program on "Christian Relations" was led by Mrs. John Flanagan. Mrs. Preston Elks led the worship period entitled "Our Responsibility." The group noted a number of improvements in the church, including new cabinets installed in the church kitchen and new chalk and bulletin boards now in the study rooms.

"The fine fellowship and Christian relations" was also noted as accompanying the physical improvements in the church plant. Announcements of perfect attendance awards to be presented on January 13 was also made.

These awards for attendance in the Sunday School went to the following:

Edward Bailey, two years; Rachel Bailey, two years; Carolyn Bailey, two years; Ann Lloyd, five years; J. T. Oneal, five years; Linda Lloyd, six years; Wilma Lloyd, Carol Lloyd, Frances Oneal and Mrs. J. S. Elks, seven years; Douglas Joyner, eight years; and Lurae Worthington, Sunday School secretary, received her seventh year pin.

J. C. Corbett, Adult Bible Class teacher, received an award for 23 years of perfect attendance.

Mrs. Annie Flanagan was hostess to the church women. She served sandwiches, cake, nuts and coffee. Eleven members and one visitor were present.

The King's Daughters Have State President As Speaker

Mrs. Thomas W. Young of Durham, State President of the North Carolina Branch of the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons, was guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons held last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. A. W. Baker on Harding Street. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. J. Hicks Corey, Mrs. J. K. Spivey, Mrs. J. G. Lautares, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Miss Mamie Chandler and Mrs. Virginia Perkins. The meeting was opened with all members praying the prayer of the Order, after which the president, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, welcomed the honored guest and gave New Year's greetings to all members of the Circle. Mrs. Bowen then gave a New Year's devotional taken from the Silver Cross magazine. The Bible reading was taken from Matthew 17-20. The entire thought in the devotional was summed up with these words: "So I move right on not knowing—I would not if I might, I'd rather walk with God in the dark than walk alone in the light; I'd rather walk with Him by Faith, than walk alone by sight." Following the devotional the following reports were given by the various officers and committees: Mrs. E. W. Harvey, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and they were approved by the members. Mrs. C. B. Rowlette, treasurer, gave the financial report of the Circle. Miss Martha Lee Cowell, treasurer of the Building Fund, gave her report on the progress being made for the erection of a Home for the Aged here in Greenville. Mrs. Robert Henry, chairman of the Social Service Committee, gave a full report of the work that was accomplished by the Circle last month and the extra work done at Christmas time. The report showed that about 75 children were given toys which were given to the Circle to distribute for the Wesleyan Guild of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and the Kiwanis Club. In addition, money, food and coal were distributed to ten needy families in Greenville.

Mrs. Luther Moore, chairman of a vanilla committee, sent a report in that many bottles of vanilla had been sold during the past month. Mrs. Young spoke on the subject of "Founders Day." She stated that The Order of The King's Daughters and Sons was founded on January 13, 1886 in New York City by ten women. The Order grew to such proportions that in two years there were circles in every country of the world, she said. Today there are over 60,000 members. She explained that some of the countries had halted their work in the Order because of war. Mrs. Young closed her talk with the thought that "the Founders of our great Order never had any doubt in their mind that God was the real Founder."

Mrs. George Renfrow Jr., a member of the Circle, who now makes her home in Spartanburg, S. C., was present at the meeting.

Dr. Hirshberg Reviews Play

Dr. Edgar W. Hirshberg of East Carolina College spoke briefly to the Athenium Book Club members about the Broadway play "My Fair Lady."

The club met last Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W. Reid Perkins, 400 Summit Street. Records from the musicale "My Fair Lady" were enjoyed following Dr. Hirshberg's discussion. Pink was the keynote color throughout the house. The dining room table featured a pink carnation and an accacia centerpiece was flanked by pink bowls of colorful fruit. Books were exchanged before the meeting adjourned. Covers for the two course luncheon were laid for 20 guests. Serving fried oysters for lunch? Allow six to a serving.

Lend Help To March Of Dimes

Members of the Women of the Moose met at the Moose Lodge yesterday afternoon to address envelopes to be mailed for the March of Dimes campaign asking for donations. 3,500 envelopes were prepared to be mailed by the busy group.

Mrs. Spilman Reviews Book

Mrs. J. B. Spilman was speaker of the evening when Mrs. Leland Flanagan was hostess to the Semi-Centennial Book Club last Tuesday. Other guests were Mrs. Courtney Youngblood, Mrs. J. M. Horton and Mrs. Graham Jefferson. After a short business session, Mrs. Spilman reviewed the book "No Wings in The Manse" by Betty Frist.

It was the story of her life, first as a minister's daughter and then as a minister's wife. In those days religion was not considered old-fashioned as she believes so many homes regard it today and she told of the family altar and a stern father who believed in living by the scriptures.

The author being one of seven children, the book was filled with humor and ended with incidents concerning her own small children.

She pointed out, through the book, that living in a manse does not make people perfect but is very gratifying.

Mrs. Flanagan then invited the guests and members into her dining room for punch, cheese straws, salted nuts, chicken salad puffs and fruit bars. Books were exchanged and the meeting adjourned.

Conference Scheduled For City

Greenville Chapter No. 1308 held its regular meeting Thursday night at the Moose Temple with Senior Regent Mrs. Andy Carrigan presiding.

The Senior Regent again announced that the mid-winter conference would be held in Greenville January 27 at the Moose Temple.

A program was read to the chapter pertaining to the activities of the day. All co-workers and their friends are invited to attend.

Mrs. Leon Smith, Mooseheart chairman, thanked those who aided her committee at the New Year's dance. She reported the project as being a success.

The chapter voted to purchase emblems for the standing committee chairmen and two cases in which the emblems for the officers and chairmen would be kept. Ribbons of red, white and blue are being made for all escorts.

Special committee chairman Mrs. J. T. Cox announced that cards and flowers had been sent to all the sick.

Reporter Mrs. E. J. Dees read the minutes and all correspondence.

Mrs. Dees also presented a quarterly report to the chapter as of Dec. 31, 1956.

Following all other business the meeting closed in ritualistic form to meet again January 24.

Refreshments were served by the social service committee and the attendance prize was won by Miss Barbara Dall.

Mrs. Rogers Guest Speaker

Mrs. R. P. Rogers, president of District 15 of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, was guest speaker Tuesday night when the Jamesville Woman's Club and Williamston Woman's Club held a joint meeting in Jamesville.

Following two musical numbers Mrs. Rogers was introduced by Mrs. Edgar Brown, program chairman of the host club.

The speaker chose as her subject "May We Grow."

"We either grow or we deteriorate. Every individual has at least one talent and the way to grow is to use what we have," Mrs. Rogers declared.

Following her talk, Mrs. Rogers brought the clubs up to date on activities and requirements of the state. She urged clubs to submit reports on time and to plan now to attend the state convention to be held in High Point the first week in April.

At the end of the program, Mrs. Rogers was presented a gift and a social hour followed.

Dr. Adams Is Club Speaker

"Fringes of Culture" was Dr. Carl Adams' topic when he addressed members of the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

He gave interesting word derivations which explained the word culture and told of how many flowers and plants had beautiful stories woven about them with a delicious background part fancy and part truth.

He said this was another way for man's self expression other than through painting and music. "It is when our culture fails to satisfy we turn to the fringes of culture," he said. This he illustrated through the stories of "The Dogwood," "The Passion Flower" and "The Christmas Rose."

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Adams. For the occasion, the living room was decorated with arrangements of pink gladioli.

When the members assembled, the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ray Jones, served a salad course with cake and coffee.

Mrs. F. A. Bendall, president, presided over the business session.

Home Ec Girls On Rocky Mount Trip

By ANNETTE HUDSON
Stokes School Reporter

The third year Home Economics girls took a trip to Rocky Mount on January 8 to shop for material for a suit that they will make this year.

We are glad to welcome to Stokes - Pactolus: Betty Hodges, Titha Wynne, Frank House, Janet James, Linda Johnson, Douglas Hodges, Carlton James and Linda House.

Marshall Tripp, junior gave a New Year's Eve Dance for the entire high school in a barn at his home.

The barn was decorated in crepe paper and balloons. There were refreshments, dancing, and fun for all.

Henry Briley, Johnny Briley and Kirk Briley are busy feeding steers for the annual fat stock show which will be held in Greenville around the first part of April. These boys will compete against some 20 other boys in Pitt County.

The ninth grade boys have just finished their shop work for the year. Several useful projects were made including mail box post, hall trees, foot stools, etc.

The seniors had a Christmas party on December 28 in the school lunchroom. Refreshments were served by several of the students' mothers and was followed by dancing.

The tenth grade had a Christmas party at the Pactolus Community Center on December 21. Refreshments were served by several of the students' mothers. Games were then played such as passing oranges under the chin and lifesavers on a toothpick. This was followed by dancing.

Our Commerce teacher, Miss Betty Frances Sutton, returned to school after Christmas as Mrs. T. G. Warren.

Mohammed was born at Mecca, Arabia, in 570 A.D.

Students Of The Year Named At East Carolina

Five students at East Carolina College received honors as "Students of the Year" in the current issue of the "East Carolinian," weekly college newspaper. The choice, made by the staff of the paper, was based on the fact that during 1956-1957 those selected were "in the news" repeatedly as outstanding participants in extra-curricular activities on the campus.

Dock G. Smith of Princeton, president of the Student Government Association at the college, and Joan Melton of Albemarle, Miss North Carolina of 1956, and a student of music at the college during her 1955-1956 term, received from the "East Carolinian" top honors as outstanding students.

Others on the list and the areas in which they made their chief contributions to campus life are Bobby E. Hall of Erwin, president of the college Young Democrat's Club, campus politics; Alice Anne Horne of Tabor City, leading lady last spring in a student-faculty production of "Maebeth" and in productions by the East Carolina Playhouse, drama; June Crews of Creedmoor, soprano, soloist in campus presentations of "The Messiah" and with the East Carolina Orchestra, music; and Dick Cherry of Washington, East Carolina grid star, sports.

Yearbook Wins Superior Rating

East Carolina College's 1956 student yearbook, "The Buccaneer," has been awarded A or superior rating, by the National School Yearbook Association of Columbia, Mo., a service for college and high school yearbook staffs, according to an announcement just received by Dr. James Poindexter, faculty advisor of the editorial staff.

Only ten per cent, or fewer, of the top school and college annuals of the country receive the A score, the announcement states. Originality, completeness, journalistic quality and artistic format are the bases on which the books are judged.

Report Disorder In Bulgaria

ATHENS (AP) - A Salonika newspaper today reported disorders in Communist Bulgaria but there was no confirmation available. The paper said there were indications an uprising against the Communists might be brewing in the district of Siara Planika.

The report said about 100 Bulgarian officers joined a "patriotic" group of peasants and that during a recent strike three workers had been killed and about 20 injured in a clash with police.

Funeral Held For Mrs. W. J. Mitchell

Mrs. Beulah Adams Mitchell, 57, was instantly killed near Vanceboro Saturday morning at 11:15 when struck by a car while walking beside the highway.

Graveside services were held at the Epworth Methodist Church Cemetery Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by the Rev. Ellis Bedsworth, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church.

Mrs. Mitchell, daughter of the late Fenner and Matilda Bell Adams, was born and spent all her life in the Vanceboro community. She was married to W. J. Mitchell in 1919 and he died in 1947. She was a member of the Epworth Methodist Church and the Mollie Oak Home Demonstration Club.

Surviving are two sons, William Mitchell of Vanceboro and James A. Mitchell of near New Bern; four daughters, Mrs. Troy McCain of New Bern, Mrs. Harry McLawhorn of near Vanceboro, Miss Beulah M. Mitchell of the home and Mrs. Floyd Coates of near New Bern; and nine grandchildren.

Leave Them Alone To Learn Tasks

North Carolina's freshman Congressmen have drawn their committee assignments now and are falling into the fast congressional pace. During the next few months they will be busy learning a new way of life and getting accustomed to the complicated maze which is Congress.

This will be a trying period for the new Congressmen. How well they learn their first lessons in Washington will to a degree determine how well they will be able to serve not only those people they represent from North Carolina, but all the people of this nation.

During this early period in Congress, the folks back home can be of a great help to their new Congressmen . . . by leaving them alone.

We often look at members of Congress and wonder how they manage to get everything done that they are called on to do. Making laws for this great nation is a full time job for members of Congress. But realistically, it is only one of the many parts of the Congressman's job. His office in Washington becomes headquarters for every citizen from his district who visits the nation's capital. His time is that of his constituents, not merely for keeping abreast of proposed legislation, but for handling countless personal matters, introducing home folks to other officials they want to meet and a dozen and one other things.

On top of his multiplicity of duties in Washington, Too Many Are Lawyers

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. Now that the Senators and Representatives have become organized, we are able to make a rough analysis of their ability and training.

Probably the final solution will reflect a mixture of politics, statistical facts, and world economic conditions. This means that the solution of the problem will not be permanent, but will be a mere stopgap. This shows that cautious economists are needed in international affairs as well as in domestic affairs.

The custom of selecting our Ambassadors according to their wealth or their contributions to campaign funds is absolutely wicked. Such a policy may have been largely responsible for the fact that England and France acted without the knowledge of the United States or the United Nations. Ambassadors should be trained economists, which probably means career men. Representatives to the United Nations should be selected according to their knowledge of economics and their experience in deciding economic problems.

Individual, national, and international prosperity depends upon the recognition of the sanctity of contracts. No individual, corporation, or nation can prosper in the long run without an earnest endeavor to carry out its contracts. This is a fundamental matter in connection with the oil companies using the Suez Canal. Furthermore, a man does not need legal training in order to recognize the Ten Commandments. Honesty is not only the best policy, but it is the only policy upon which a reputation, or a business, or a nation can prosper and survive. No one nation should be allowed to interfere with the international trade vitally affecting all nations. A great need today is CONFIDENCE.

Of course, in discussing the sanctity of a contract, an individual, corporation, or nation is justified in knowing that the contract was not obtained dishonestly by misrepresentation, coercion, or bribery. It is possible that some contracts for drilling oil were obtained under rather unsavory conditions, but no such claims have been made in connection with the high-grade oil companies now suffering from the Suez dispute. Possibly it would have been better to have had the Suez Canal contract, when originally drawn, made subject to renegotiations similar to the renegotiations that the oil companies have already gone through. These Suez renegotiations could have been under the jurisdiction of a committee of accountants and economists approved by the World Court. The committee could employ an international and impartial lawyer, upon whom all parties would agree. Their decisions, however, should strengthen the importance of the sanctity of contracts and not undermine or impair same. In closing, let me say that my appeal in this column may not do any good but, as Congress is now organizing and as the Suez negotiations are in full operation, I do want my millions of readers to be thinking over this message.

The Congressman is expected to keep in close touch with his home district and its people's thoughts. He is called on to personally appear before countless groups back home and he is expected to be on his toes ready to jump at every invitation.

Obviously one man cannot do all these things and do them well—at least not until he learns how. Tar Heels would be doing themselves and their Congressmen a favor by giving both the veterans and the freshmen time to get settled in this new session of Congress before dumping upon them the usual avalanche of requests for this little thing and that.

Area Airport Dream Already A Big Factor

Mid-East Airport, thought still in the planning stages, was an important factor in the location of a new industry in Farmville.

Perhaps it is surprising to some that the very fact that an area airport is in the making in this vicinity had its influence in deciding the location of the new American Cyanamid plant. According to a company official who played a major role in determining the location of the new plant, the fact that an area airport is in the making in Eastern North Carolina was "a big factor among other factors" in locating the plant in Farmville.

If an area airport becomes an important factor in attracting industry to Eastern North Carolina even before it is a reality, how much greater a factor it will be in attracting industry when it becomes a reality.

Adequate air service is an increasingly important factor industry considers in locating new plants. The sooner Eastern North Carolina can acquire adequate air service, the sooner its industrial development will increase its pace.

It is time for the more than 15 local governments that have pledged themselves to this joint airport effort to move forward as rapidly as possible to make the airport a reality. Within a month—or six weeks at the latest—the necessary enabling act for the Airport Authority should be passed by the General Assembly. When that matter is taken care of, the local governments as a whole stand ready to put into motion subsequent steps necessary to begin work on the airport itself.

Those who have heretofore doubted the importance of the joint air facility as a powerful instrument for attracting industry need only to consider the importance it played in securing a new industry for Farmville, and lay aside their doubts.

Lots Of Advice For Educators

By LYNN NISBET
SCHOOL ADVICE — If the State Board of Education, the several county and city administrative boards, the superintendents, principals and teachers, do not do a good job of running the public schools it will not be for lack of advice.

In addition to these officially responsible agencies, there is the North Carolina Advisory Committee on Education, created by the General Assembly and commonly known as the "Pearl committee." It has no real authority, but has been given a large degree of responsibility and prestige. Its influence was potent enough to obtain enactment by the special session of its recommendations without changing more than half a dozen words in that many long bills.

Then there is the Committee of 100, composed of a representative from each of the counties, appointed by the State Association of School Boards. That committee is scheduled to meet in Chapel Hill within the next week or so to formulate advice for operating the schools.

Governor Hodges has announced appointment of a North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools, composed of some 30 men and women representing all races and economic strata. Also a smaller advisory committee of professional school personnel to guide the Citizens Committee in its deliberations.

There has been for a long time a loosely formed organization known as the United Forces for Education, composed of representatives of professional and lay groups, which has exerted considerable influence on appropriations for and management of public schools.

The Legislative Council, closely related to the Federation of Women's Clubs, puts priority on progressive school legislation. Besides these outside advisory committees the State Board of Education, charged by the constitution and statutes with final responsibility for school operation, has set up several advisory groups of its own to help with athletics, lunch rooms, text book adoption, and other activities.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THAT ONE NOTE
Soroyan, in one of his stories, tells of an old man who had a bass fiddle with one string. Sometimes he would sit for hours playing just one note. His wife was driven almost to distraction. "At least," she said, "you might move your fingers about as other players do." "My dear," he responded, "they move their fingers about hunting for the right note. I have found it!" Soroyan's success, as a writer, is largely due to his penetrating knowledge of human character. There are certain circumstances under which all of us play one note on one string, and smile complacently over the fact that we, or others may try to find the right note, we have found it.

Fanaticism grows out of such an attitude of mind. Hitler had found one note; so had Stalin. But these men are only big editions of the little mistakes you and I make every day. We can get so wrapped up in ourselves, and so concerned about our judgment, that we smile complacently when people challenge our judgments and say "I have found it." No figure of speech can be pressed too far. If we did not think we had found certain truths and found them with finality, we would be moral and intellectual weaklings. But it is one thing to hold a truth with conviction and quite another thing to hold it with complacency. Conviction stimulates growth; complacency condemns to intellectual death anyone who has it.

I Never Use The Main Gate

from The Tulsa Tribune

'Adjustment' vs. Happiness

One of the chief purposes of so-called "progressive" education, which we hope and trust has passed the flood-tide of its lunacy, has been to help the child "adjust" to its environment. Unhappiness in the tender years was universally ascribed to "mal-adjustment." Mothers of first-graders were not told whether their child was learning to read, but were assured he was making a "satisfactory adjustment."

Teachers colleges offered fancy courses in how to make children happy. If Little Willie proved a hellion the teacher was to search out obscure psychological blocks that might be motivating his unsocial behavior. The cruder technique of a swift wack to the pants as a means of deflating an anarchistic ego was, of course, not to be tolerated in this enlightened age.

A generation that had been subjected to the full force of these elaborate teaching theories arrived at fighting age about the time of the Korean war. And what were the results?

About one-third of the Americans captured by the Communists succumbed in greater or less measure to "collaboration," i.e. to doing things for their captors that were detrimental to their fellow prisoners. Coincidentally, about a third of the Americans died.

Among the several hundred Turkish prisoners, on the other hand, there was not a single case of collaboration. Everyone turned to help the sick and the injured. No one spied for special food allowances. And not a single Turkish prisoner died.

A Communist intelligence estimate of American soldiers, taken off the body of a dead Red officer, made the following unflattering points:

- 1. The American soldier fails to appreciate the meaning of discipline, traditions and objectives.
- 2. He unrealistically believes in America's inherent superiority and invincibility rather than understanding that these qualities are earned or proved.
- 3. His concepts of right and wrong are often hazy, and opportunism is not difficult for him.

Major W.E. Mayer Jr., a U.S. Army psychiatrist, made this comment on the Communist estimate: "Just being well-adjusted so that you can have a wonderful time in our comfortable country is not enough. Our education must be directed first and continuously at the goal of developing active, responsible, participating members of this free society."

Seymour St. John, headmaster of the Choate School, Wallingford, Conn., last month defined the difference between "soft" and "hard" education. Soft education, he said, is the pursuit of happiness through freedom from struggle, responsibility, and discipline. It is the philosophy of the report card that is silent where it cannot praise. It makes a fetish of security and adjustment.

Hard education, on the other hand, seeks no immediate goal of pleasure. Like the training period of a boxer it offers a period of sweat and exertion so that an ultimate goal can be reached. It is not afraid to flunk. It is less concerned with the obligations which the community has to the individual than it is with the obligations the individual has to the community. What "hard" education can deliver, says Doctor St. John, is a "working morality": "It cannot be over-emphasized that actually staying alive—as an individual and as a country—depends upon adherence to those basic principles of personal honesty, loyalty and belief in higher values than one's immediate welfare or immediate gain. The men in Korea who maintained their integrity, who survived and helped their brothers to survive, were men who had an active, working, meaningful moral code of their own."

Other Editors Saying--- A Salute To Juveniles

(Atlanta Constitution)
A high school girl who renders outstanding and unselfish service in her personal life and a boy who sets an example in sports, scholarship and religion have received Juvenile Decency awards in Albany.

Catherine Whis helps her mother, whose sight is impaired, run a concession stand. She does all the housework in the summer and most of it in the winter. She keeps up her school work, sings in the high school glee club and in the choir at church.

The boy, Milledge White Jr., is an officer in the Key Club, where leadership is the criterion, in the Beta Club, where scholarship counts. He plays football, baseball and basketball. He is a president of the young people's department at Sunday School. He is a Life Scout and a junior scoutmaster.

'Saint' Of Our Todays

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — If there is a saint now living on earth, many feel it is a gentle giant of the mind and heart who dwells deep in Africa and will be 82 years old today.

He is Albert Schweitzer, a strange multiple-genius who, following a mystic sense of self-dedication, left Europe in 1913 to found a hospital at Lambaréne in French Equatorial Africa.

Even then he was famous as a philosopher, theologian, historian, and world renowned organist. His work as a medical missionary added to his stature. So did his massive "Philosophy of Civilization," written, ironically, in a jungle clearing at night when his hospital chores were done.

But his ultimate immortality rests on the three-word creed he flung into the face of the most murderous generation the human race has produced, his insistence on a "reverence for life."

Dr. Schweitzer, famed among scholars, remained to the man in the street little more than a legendary figure in far off Africa. But in 1950 a group of leading artists, writers and musicians of 17 countries acclaimed Dr. Schweitzer as "The Man Of The Century." In 1952 he was awarded the Nobel award for peace.

Accepting the $3,200 prize, which he applied toward improving housing for 250 lepers in his hospital, the sturdy, buffalo-moustached doctor explained his philosophy in these words:

"You don't live in a world all your own. Your brothers are here, too."

Pilgrims of all kinds and from many lands have journeyed to visit this disturbingly kind philosopher who, instead of stepping on the ants at his feet, put down food for them.

What is he really like? The world will soon be able to see how he works and lives, in a biography filmed by Erica Anderson, a Vienna-born photographer, and produced by Jerome Hill, grandson of James J. Hill, the railway titan.

Mrs. Anderson got the idea of filming Dr. Schweitzer for posterity back in 1948. She wrote him. The suggestion of a movie of his life so shocked the modest missionary that it wasn't until three years later he let her visit the hospital.

It took another year to win permission to make the film, four more years to do the actual filming and overcome Dr. Schweitzer's wish that the film remain unshown until after his death.

"He gave way finally," said Mrs. Anderson, "only because he cannot bear to have anyone unhappy he knows of and can help."

"His veneration for life is such that rather than cut down a tree that is in the way he will have it transplanted. It even bothers him that as a physician he must destroy bacteria, even though he recognizes that higher forms of life take precedence."

"He lives with utmost simplicity. His favorite food is onion soup. He hasn't smoked since he was 25 nor does he take hard liquor. Once, while he was visiting America, a lady insisted, 'Oh, one cocktail in your life won't hurt you.' And he took the glass politely and said, 'Very well then — the only cocktail in my lifetime.'"

"Every morning he cleans the antelope pens himself. He believes in doing things with your own hands."

"He is, in a way, oddly old-fashioned. His mind is of this century but he dresses and looks like the last century."

"He doesn't like to ride in cars and never has been in an airplane. He has seen only three or four movies in his life."

"But he is aware of everything going on in the outside world. He writes, longhand, 30 to 40 letters every night. He has no secretary and won't let anyone reply to a letter for him. He dislikes telegrams."

"He likes particularly to keep in touch with young people and tell them that, instead of growing pessimistic as they age, they should grow into a deeper idealism."

"He travels third class, on (Continued on Page 8)

Moves To Isolate Egypt's Position

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has not waited for Congressional approval of his new Middle East policy to take the offensive against the Moscow-Cairo Axis, and to check Communist penetration of that area.

In several seemingly unrelated but concerted and deliberate thrusts, he has acted to isolate Egypt from her Arabian Allies, and to damage Russia before the bar of world opinion. He has also stepped up the strategy of weakening the satellites' ties with Moscow, especially in the economic field.

His aggressive course is based on diplomatic and newspaper dispatches. They report that the Polish and Hungarian revolts are symptomatic of distrust and discontent in all the puppet countries and within the Soviet itself. They inform Ike that Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser, although a hero to Arabian masses, has become extremely unpopular with his rulers.

KING SAUD'S WHITE HOUSE VISIT King Saud's visit to the White House late this month furnishes all illuminating revelation of behind-the-scenes turbulence in the Middle East, and of Ike's undercover operations. Nasser's nominal ally would not have accepted the invitation at this time, if he were in full accord with the Egyptian dictator.

Together with other Arabian rulers, King Saud will suffer severe financial losses from the blockade of the Suez Canal. His income from oil amounts to $238,000,000 a year. Iraq derives $189,200,000 annually from the same source, while Iran drags down $98,000,000 from only partial operation of the wells and refinery.

OIL MONEY FOR ARABS The total annual income enjoyed by the oil-producing area amounts to $1 billion a year. Nor does this figure include several hundred millions paid out for wages, purchases and internal improvements connected with petroleum production.

These governments have not yet felt the financial pinch because payment of oil royalties lag about six months behind delivery. But King Saud and his royal brethren will be running short of funds within a few months. They will blame Nasser if his intrigues prevent a prompt opening of the waterway.

LEBANON'S MALIK COMING HERE Another influential visitor on the White House calendar is Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon. A former Ambassador here, he was extremely popular in official and social circles. He has shown scant sympathy with Nasser's hate and defiance of the West.

According to advance diplomatic advices, King Saud and Malik favor the new Eisenhower Middle East policy. In fact, they may tell Ike that, if the United States will go further by joining the Baghdad Pact, they will become members of the alliance against Russia. Should they sign up, it would split the Egyptian coalition down the middle.

DESIGN IN IKE'S MOVE Other Eisenhower moves are designed to detach the most powerful Arab states from Nasser. Ike has strengthened himself in this area by his continued chillness toward Britain, France and Israel because of their surprise attack on Egypt. While still refusing to give audience to Prime Minister Eden, he will welcome King Saud and Malik. He has insisted that the Israelis withdraw from the Gaza Strip, not believing that they should profit from aggression. Instead of showing his predecessors' partiality toward Tel Aviv, he regards Israel as only another nation to be involved in a general Middle East settlement.

EFFY OF STRATEGY As a result of this strategy, the last-ditch and anti-West coalition in the Middle East may be reduced to three of the weakest and shakiest states — Egypt, Syria and Jordan. They will hardly provide a solid or dangerous beachhead for Russia in this turbulent sector.

Meanwhile, Washington is badgering and harassing Moscow at every turn. We have offered to sell food to hungry Poland. At our suggestion, the United Nations will question Hungarian refugees in that country. And this intervention in satellite affairs forces the Kremlin to anger the world by reverting to Stalin's policy of naked terrorism and subjugation.

CHAPTER 26
Chad Endicott realized he had been a fool to allow Isabella Randall to leave the fort.

He went directly to the stable and ordered one of the men to saddle a horse for him.

He caught the situation in a glance the moment he was through the gate.

Private Saunders was nearly abreast of Isabella, twisted around in his saddle and firing at the pursuing Indians.

The Indians were lured to their mounts, their heads along their animal's necks.

Behind him Chad heard the insistent clanging of the alarm inside the fort as someone beat furiously on the iron triangle which had been installed for this purpose.

It relieved him a little. If Isabella could keep coming, there would soon be a covering fire.

Chad was closing the distance now, and he could hear the steady crackle of gunfire as the men in the fort opened up.

The horse went down on one front knee, throwing Chad from the saddle.

Zack was trailing Isabella by at least fifty yards, with two Sioux closing in on him.

Instantly the Sioux swerved and bore down on Chad, swinging his rifle into firing position.

By now, the firing from the fort was a steady roar.

He patted her comfortingly, then tried to peel her arms from his neck, but this only made her sob more violently.

Chad nodded. "I think so. Just scared."

"So I see," Randall said unpleasantly, relieved enough over his wife's safety to think of other things.

She continued to cry, her back moving in great, shuddering sobs.

Randall grabbed her by the shoulders and shook her.

"Sergeant, see that Mrs. Anderson gets safely back to her quarters."

As they moved back up the slope to the fort, Randall turned to Chad.

There's more dark plotting against Chad on the homefront, too. Read Chapter 27 tomorrow.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP)—Losses by steel shares paced a stock market decline early this afternoon.

Pivotal issues dropped from fractions to around 3 points in active trading.

The market was mixed with a lower tendency at the start, then prices weakened gradually. Copper, oil and rails were other losers but most leading aircrafts stayed ahead.

Backgrounding the fall in steels was a report that demand for steel, although still large, is not as much as expected. A decline in steel scrap prices also was part of the picture. Buying of copper in Europe was reported as slow.

Technically, the market had to reckon with the fact that on Friday it failed to penetrate the September high, repeating its performance on three prior occasions. Reactions have always followed these failures to pierce the overhead barrier.

Bethlehem Steel worsened its early loss, falling more than 3. Youngstown was down around 3. U. S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin lost about 2 apiece while Crucible, Lukens and Republic Steel declined around a point or more.

Magma Copper dropped around 3. Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting were 1-point losers. Kennecott lost a fraction. International Nickel halved its early gain of around a point.

Gulf Oil dropped more than a point. Royal Dutch and Standard Oil (New Jersey) were fractional losers.

Leading rails showed a string of losses ranging from fractions to about a point. Losses of close to a point were taken by New York Central, Illinois Central and Union Pacific.

Grumman stepped ahead for a gain of more than a point. Boeing and Douglas established smaller gains. United Aircraft dropped a major fraction.

American Telephone continued higher by a small margin, Cuban American Sugar advanced as world sugar futures spurted again. Du Pont was down around 2 and most other chemicals shaded. U. S. Gypsum was off about a point. Airline issues were mostly easier.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Hog prices steady to mostly 25 higher. Tops of 16.50 to 17.25 at Hillsboro; 17.00 to 17.50 at Tarboro, Enfield, Pine Level, Smithfield, Dunn, Newton Grove, Mount Olive and Kinston; 16.75 to 17.50 at Rocky Mount, Bethel and New Bern; 16.75 to 17.25 at Castle Hayne, Benson and Nahantia; 16.50 to 17.00 at Tabor City; 17.25 at Rich Square, Fayetteville, Clinton, Mt. Cro, Elizabethtown, and Goldsboro; 17.00 at Lumberton, Bailey, Blackmans Crossroads, Whiteville, Spring Ho., and Clarkton; 16.75 at Wingate, Kenly, Shallotte, Siler City and Mount Gilead.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry markets: Fryers and broilers about steady, farm price mostly 16 with few at 17; f.o.b. plant 17 1/4 to 17 1/2.

Raleigh eggs steady following increase. A large 37; Durham eggs fully steady. A large 30-32; Asheville eggs steady. A large 35; Charlotte eggs unsettled. A large 35.

Represent Pitt Fair At Raleigh

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair is expected to be well represented at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Association of Fairs which meets at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh on Friday.

The business session of the association will begin at 9 o'clock Friday morning and the main topic will be state aid for agricultural fairs in North Carolina.

More than 200 are expected to attend the business meeting, and at the banquet in the Virginia Dare Ballroom at 7 o'clock that night it is expected that a capacity crowd will be on hand.

D. J. Whichard, Jr., of Greenville is a member of the Board of Directors of the N. C. Fair Association and Norman Y. Chambliss, manager of the Pitt County Fair is serving his second term as president.

It is expected that 25 or 30 persons from Greenville, Ayden and Farmville will attend the meeting and banquet.

Another Boosts Newspaper Cost

NEW YORK (AP)—Bowater Paper Co. said today it would raise the price of newsprint $4 a ton to $134, delivered in New York, effective March 1.

The increase is in line with those announced previously by Abitibi Paper & Paper Co. of Toronto, and Consolidated Paper Corp. and St. Lawrence Corp., both of Montreal.

Bowater supplies newsprint to daily newspapers in about 175 U. S. cities. Bowater Paper Co., New York, is sales representative for the company's mills at Calhoun, Tenn., and Corner Brook, Newfoundland.

In the letter to customers, August B. Meyer, president of the sales company, says the boost in price "is much less than the recent increases in our costs."

Meyer says the increase "is distasteful to us because we know you have very real problems in passing on your additional costs at the last thing in the world we want to do is add to your problems and burdens."

He also states that an increase was needed for Bowater to assure earnings that would support its expansion program.

The last general increase of $4 a ton brought the price of newsprint to $130 at the start of 1956. Printers' Ink magazine reports that the profit margins of U. S. newspapers "won't absorb the new price" of newsprint, "leaving three alternatives: step up ad volume, raise ad rates, increase single copy price."

The magazine says, "Look for increased single-copy prices from 5 cents to 7 cents to 10 cents, much as is now current on the West Coast."

In Washington, Sen. Potter (R-Mich.), has called for a congressional investigation of the newsprint industry, saying, "Skyrocketing prices are working a hardship on the American press and other users of newsprint."

Potter has asked the Senate Commerce Committee to conduct a hearing on the price hikes. The Federal Trade Commission also has been studying the situation.

Marriage Licenses

After three days of no business, the Register of Deeds marriage license section got back into business Friday by issuing three licenses.

One white couple, Jerry Lee Hancock of Winterville and Doris Faye Walston of Greenville, and two Negro couples Willie Frank Carmon, Route 1, Ayden, and Marynie Mae Barrett, Route 1, Greenville, and Willie Gray Joyner, Route 2, Farmville, and Louise Randolph, Route 1, Greenville, received the licenses.

Speaker

Dr. Paul Jones (above) of Farmville, state senator from Pitt County, will speak tonight at a meeting of the East Carolina College Chapter of the American Association of University Professors. His topic will be "What Can a College Faculty Expect from the 1957 North Carolina General Assembly?" The meeting will be held in Joyner Memorial Library at 8 p.m.

Chief Says He Has Theory On Kidnap Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police Chief William Parker says he has "a pretty solid theory" about the Marie McDonald kidnap case. But he's not talking — yet.

"I'm not yet in a position to express it," Parker said, of the progress of police investigation of the case he said:

"We're at the point now of trying to compile a specific list of variations between Miss McDonald's version when she was questioned in the hospital at Indio, and the version she gave before police movie cameras during her re-enactment of the case at her home."

The blonde actress disappeared from her home in suburban Pittsburg Jan. 3 and was found the next night on the desert near Indio.

She has stated that she would be willing to take a lie detector test, but her attorney, Jerry Giesler, said, "not if she listens to me. It's an insulting thing."

Arrested Six In Liquor Roundup Here Saturday

County ABC officers arrested six persons Saturday for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey and saw three of the defendants convicted in Recorder's Court this morning.

Jenolie Smith, 1917-B South Pitt Street; Oscar Cherry, 521 Sheppard Street; and Jesse Anderson, 611 Atlantic Avenue, were each fined $25, costs deducted, in lieu of 30-day jail sentences. All three are Negroes.

Still to be tried are Willie Fleming, 409-A Deck Street; Earline Gorham, 808-A Bancroft Street; and Sylvester Hopkins, McClellan Street. They also are Negroes.

In addition to the fines, the three defendants convicted this morning were ordered not to have in their possession any intoxicants for the next 12 months.

JUST SAMPLING

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A thief made off with 54 sample shoes from the automobile of salesman Blair Kash. But police Sgt. Joe Cartwright said "the shoes won't do the thief much good unless his right leg is cut off. The shoes were all for the left foot."

Wins Honor At Forensic Meet

Mary Ann Bryant, a Greenville High School Junior, was awarded the House of Representatives gavel Saturday for outstanding service as Speaker of the House for the final session of the 1956-1957 Carolina District National Forensic League Congress.

The award was made at the final session of the Congress in the North Carolina State Capitol in Raleigh. The two-day Congress began Friday morning with a joint session of the Senate and the House in the Capitol's Hall of the House and included four House legislative sessions.

Greenville delegates to the Congress included Senators Sandra Phillips and Joyce Sutton and Representatives Mary Ann Bryant, Martha Jane Pierce, Godfrey Oakley, Goldis Starling, Ann Green, Lona Davis, Beverley Dunn, Barbara Davis, Laurence Behr, Ann Briley and Buddy Murray. They were accompanied by Naomi Gibbs, a clerk; Leo Starling a page; and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Starling and Mrs. Carlos Murray, chaperones. Mr. Starling was a director of the Congress.

Drowning Death Is Ruled Suicide

AYDEN — The death of a Negro woman who apparently walked into a farm pond near here Saturday morning has been ruled suicide by Coroner Griffin H. Rouse.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Lottie Cannady, 42, of 403 Planter's St., Ayden.

Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said the woman was reported to have left home around 6:30 Saturday morning. Officers said they traced the woman's steps to the banks of a pond on the Robert Johnson farm, near Ayden. The tracks led into the water.

Sheriff Tyson said Mrs. Cannady's body was found in the pond around 11 o'clock Saturday morning. She had laid her coat on the bank, he reported.

The sheriff said Mrs. Cannady has been in bad health and under a doctor's care since September. Her husband was identified as Frank Cannady.

The death was investigated by Ayden police and Deputies Ralph Tyson and Duke Andrews.

Puppy Literally Left His Grave To Find Master

JASPER, Ga. (AP)—A collie puppy named Butch literally crawled out of the grave to return to the side of his 3-year-old master.

A neighbor's car hit Butch a couple of weeks ago. The neighbor shot the puppy to end his misery and then buried him in a shallow grave about five miles away.

Twelve days later Andrew Wallace, 3, and his father Sherman Wallace heard a scratching at the door and there was Butch, more dead than alive.

The puppy was rushed to an animal hospital at Gainesville about 40 miles northwest of this north Georgia town.

Dr. Carl A. Blunt said Butch had pneumonia, a fractured pelvis, right foreleg and right hindleg and a .22-caliber bullet wound through the cheekbone below the left eye.

Butch is over the pneumonia now and should be able to walk without a limp in about six months, the doctor said.

Death in the gas chamber is the penalty for murder in Arizona, California, Colorado, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Oregon and Wyoming.
