'FIGHT IF WE MUST' BUDGET UNVEILED TODAY Record Peacetime Outlay Of $71.8 Billions Sought

By WILLIAM O. VARN WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proposed to Congress a fight-if-we-must budget for next year, calling for a boost of more than two billion dollars in military spending and a record peacetime outlay of $71,800,000,000 in federal funds.

But once again he came out against any tax cuts, except for possible relief for small business involving "minimum loss of revenue." In obvious reference to stepped-up spending for defense, he said two of the major guidelines he used in drafting the financial blueprint were designed to assure: "Peace, justice and freedom for our own and other peoples; and "Powerful armed forces to deter and, if need be, to defeat aggression." "I am convinced," he said, "that the defense programs and funds for their support as recommended in this budget provide a wise and reasonable degree of protection for the nation." The budget message provided $45,300,000,000, or 63 per cent of expenditures, for national security. These include $38,031,000,000 for U.S. armed forces, $4,363,000,000 for economic and military foreign aid, and lesser amounts for atomic energy research and development, stockpiling of strategic goods, home civil defense and the U.S. Information Agency. Eisenhower forecast that with continuing prosperity the government would collect a record $73,699,000,000, permitting a surplus of $1,800,000,000 to be applied toward reduction of the massive national debt.

As a result, he said, it should not be necessary to ask again this year for an increase in the permanent 275-billion dollar debt limit, now temporarily raised to 278 billion. Eisenhower is able to bring off a surplus in the next fiscal year, it will be the third in a row for his administration — the first since 1928, 1929 and 1930. In fiscal 1956, ended last June 30, the government wound up $1,600,000,000 in the black. The President said he foresees a $1,700,000,000 surplus this year. That would be about a billion dollars more than was estimated last summer.

Eisenhower's spending request of $71,800,000,000 for the 1958 fiscal year compares with $65,865,000,000 he asked Congress for fiscal 1957 last January. However, that budget request was altered by Congress and spending for this fiscal year has been revised twice since.

In other main points, Eisenhower also said these things: 1. Predicted spending during this fiscal year will total $68,900,000,000 — about $200,000,000 less than he figured last August, and put government revenue at an unprecedented $7,600,000,000 — about $800,000,000 more than the August forecast.

of $7,360,000,000 would account for 10 per cent of all federal spending. He said spending for military public works at bases at home and abroad would be up about 14 per cent next year. He said the defense budget will aim to carry out the basic missions of the services, including "nuclear-air-retaliatory forces so strong that they will deter a potential aggressor from initiating an attack." He recommended atomic energy spending be raised by 380 million to $2,340,000,000. The $4,363,000,000 foreign aid figure he proposed — 256 million more than this year — includes half of the 400-million-dollar emergency fund he already has requested to give military-economic help to the Middle East during the next two years. Of the foreign aid total, $2,600,000,000 would be earmarked for military aid and the rest for economic aid. A record sum of $5,329,880,000 was recommended to aid farmers and for the Agriculture Department. This is a $178,215,000 increase. The total includes $1,253,000,000 for the soil bank program and $3,826,100,000 to help support farm prices and bolster farm incomes. Eisenhower renewed his request for funds to begin a program to help states with construction of schools to relieve crowded classrooms. He requested authority to obligate 451 million in funds with 185 million to be spent in the first year of the program. He suggested that the eventual $1,300,000,000 program should be completed in four years rather than the five he asked a year ago. That request failed of approval. The budget proposed a hike of 176 million in spending for veterans services and benefits to a total of $5,027,000,000. Eisenhower said a special message will be sent to Congress later outlining legislation as to veterans pensions.

Bids Totalling $97,312 On New Negro School Okayed

Members of the Pitt County Board of Education study bids for a new Negro elementary school at Bruce in a special meeting held yesterday. Board members and other persons who participated in the meeting include (left to right) C. W. Fleming of Grifton, W. F. Stokes of Stokes, chairman Joseph Moyer of Greenville, Earl Travathan of Fountain, Graham Quinn an architect, J. W. Griffith's staff, County Superintendent D. H. Conley and Supervisor Arthur Alford. Bids totalling $97,312 were accepted yesterday by the Pitt County Board of Education for construction of a new Negro elementary school at Bruce. State funds will be used for the project and bids accepted yesterday must be approved by the State Board of Education before construction can begin. The State Board is expected to make a ruling at its next meeting, February 7.

General contract for construction of the nine-classroom building went to East Carolina Construction Company of Dunn for $78,555. W. M. Wiggins of Wilson was low bidder for heating installation at $9,406. O'Neil Electric Company of Washington and Greenville was low in the bidding for the electrical contract at $3,198, and J. E. Provo of Wilson was low in the bidding for the plumbing contract at $6,153.

County Superintendent of Schools D. H. Conley said today that if the State Board approves the bids in February construction should be completed by October. The school will have a capacity of 350 students. The building will be of a fireproof design with a brick exterior, concrete block interior and concrete deck roof. Original plans called for nine classrooms and a library but when bids were opened yesterday board members recommended elimination of two classrooms and conversion of the library into two classrooms. Bids on the original plans exceeded available funds.

Hodges, Jr., was president during 1956.

Per Capita Cost Averages $416

WASHINGTON (AP) — The record federal peacetime spending in the next fiscal year is going to cost every man, woman and child in the country an average of $416 each. At the same time, each person's share of the all-time record revenue to be collected with amount to $427 each. The extra $11 each makes up the expected surplus for debt reduction. These figures represent increases per capita in spending and tax collections for the third straight year. The new budget sent to Congress by President Eisenhower calls for $71,800,000,000 in spending and collection of $73,600,000,000 in revenue in the 1958 fiscal year beginning next July 1. The Census Bureau estimates the population next Jan. 1 will be 172,500,000 persons. The population at this midpoint of the fiscal year is used by the government in figuring averages. The new average of $416 for spending will be $10 higher than the $406 for the revised estimates for the current fiscal period. It previously had moved up from $394 per person in fiscal 1955 to $399 in fiscal 1956. That means an overall jump of $22 per person in spending over the period 1955-1958. The share for each person in the amount of revenue collected has moved up even more sharply — $39 since fiscal 1955.

EXTENDED WEATHER FORECAST FOR N. C.

Temperatures will average 8 to 12 degrees below normal; generally cold with brief warming Thursday and again about Sunday. Precipitation should average about three-fourths of an inch, occurring Thursday night and Friday, again about Monday.

Toscanini Dies Of Stroke In New York Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Arturo Toscanini, famous orchestra conductor, died today. He was 90. Toscanini died at his home in Riverdale, the Bronx. His son, Walter, in announcing the death, said his father had suffered a stroke. The Italian conductor was hailed by many as "the greatest living conductor." He was lifted by chance from the orchestra pit as a cellist, to the podium. He was just 19 years old, at a performance of "Aida," when a Brazilian conductor quarreled with some of the Italian artists before the performance in Rio De Janeiro and refused to direct. Toscanini arrived late that evening, thankful that the turmoil enabled him to slip into his place unnoticed. The women in the chorus were fearful that they would be stranded far from home. One of them pointed to the late comer and shouted, "He will save us! He knows opera!" Fellow musicians handed Toscanini a baton. The audience at first jeered, shouted, and then sat in memory because he believed the score at the first page and never looked at it again, as he knew it by heart. Before the performance was concluded, those who mocked joined his side. The audience arose en masse and cheered. Low temperatures reported this morning were well below the 32-degree freezing mark. Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Raleigh all reported 22. Other readings: Hickory 26, Asheville and Charlotte 27, Wilmington 31 and New Bern 32. Lows tonight were expected to range from 6 to 12 in the mountains, 12 to 20 in the Piedmont and 15 to 20 near the coast. The Highway Patrol reported that U.S. 70 between Ridgeway and Old Fort had a one-inch layer of ice on its four lanes. South of Hendersonville a tractor-trailer truck jackknifed on ice and blocked 30 cars on N.C. 209.

End Of The Line For Contestants

Last night marked the end of a winning spree for Mrs. Arnold Pope and her partner, K. on 11 P. Prabhakarshana, who failed to "Name That Tune." But the two of them chalked up $2,000 on the nationally televised show last night, bringing their total winnings up to $12,000. This sum is to be divided between them. A feature of last night's program was the showing of movies filmed at the Stokes Methodist Church January 6 following an invitation to the nation extended by Mrs. Pope to her husband's church service. The Rev. Mr. Pope is pastor of the Stokes Methodist Church and a student at Duke University.

Plenty Of Ice But No Major Wrecks In Pitt

Icy weather gripped Pitt County yesterday and today but those who expected to find a blanket of white this morning were disappointed. Instead they found ice-covered trees, bushes, walks — a 1 bridge if they were driving on the highways. Snowfall which began in Pitt County yesterday afternoon gradually turned to a freezing rain during the late afternoon. The steady drizzle continued during the night and, with the temperature in the twenties, a coat of shimmering ice was built up over most of the county. No major wrecks were reported in the county by highway patrolmen but officials at the State Highway Commission office here said maintenance men were at work all through the night spreading sand on bridges and other dangerous spots on the roads. Fred Edwards, office engineer at the local office, reported that roads were in good condition at 11 o'clock this morning. The ice was melting this morning and "everything's in fine shape now," he declared. Edwards said most bridges iced up during the night. Roads remained in comparatively good shape but ice formed on some curves and on the edge of the pavement next to the shoulders. Warning signs and flares were placed along the approaches to all major bridges to remind motorists of the risky driving conditions on the ice-covered 1 dges. A below-freezing temperature of 26 degrees last night sent Pitt Countians to bed with extra blankets. From that low of the night the thermometer had moved up only one degree at 8 a.m. this morning. At that the temperature stood at 27 degrees. The highest temperature rose yesterday was to the 33 degree mark — one degree above freezing. Gilbert Grimesley, foreman at the Lower Coastal Plain Experiment Station, reported one-twelfth of an inch of rain and snowfall combined yesterday and last night. At noon today skies were still overcast and ice still clung to trees, rooftops and utilities lines.

Opportunity At Home Is Needed

How long will North Carolina continue to spend millions upon millions of dollars to educate its young people only to send them elsewhere at the completion of their formal education to expend their lives and talents?

Speaking recently in Farmville, Gov. Hodges referred to an outstanding industrialist, Kenneth C. Towe, president of American Cyanamid Company, as a "marvelous example of the outstanding talent which we have been furnishing other states and other regions in a most unselfish manner."

It is true that North Carolina is furnishing other regions with the talents of literally thousands of young people every year. Engineers graduating from the colleges and universities in this state quickly find themselves in plants far away from their native state. Young men with business skills are attracted to other states where opportunities seem to be greater than in North Carolina. Of the teachers graduated annually by our colleges and universities hundreds every year turn down jobs in North Carolina's public school to take positions in other states which pay their teachers higher salaries and provide better benefits than North Carolina.

But we need look elsewhere than just at the college graduates. What about the boy or girl who does not attend college, but must go to work after finishing high school? Among these also, we find an alarmingly large number who are seeking jobs in other states because of what appears to be greener pastures.

North Carolina and its individual communities need the talents and efforts of these fine young people. It looks to them to build for tomorrow finer communities, a higher economy and a better standard of living than the generation of today enjoys. And be assured these young people will do just that. The point is that many of them will be plowing their efforts into other states rather than their native state.

There is really only one answer to this problem, and in its simplest term that answer can be stated in one word: Opportunity.

North Carolina must give its young people greater opportunity here at home if they are to be expected to invest their lives and efforts in their native state or native communities.

It is indeed fortunate that the state today is offering its young people greater opportunities than ever before. But even the greater opportunities of today are insufficient to hold these youngsters at home. The state can not relax its efforts to provide its young people greater challenges in industry, in business, in agriculture, in teaching and in countless other fields of endeavor.

For decades North Carolina has been exporting its most valuable product, its most valuable asset: its talented young people.

The day has come when North Carolina should count carefully its loss and determine that now and in the future every possible effort will be put forth to create in communities throughout this state the kind of opportunity and challenge which will instill in these young people the desire to cast their lot in their native state.

Shows Soundness Of Financial Condition

Though the interest rate brought by the $275,000 Greenville bonds sold Tuesday is nothing to celebrate over compared with interest rates in past years, Greenville has little cause for complaint under today's circumstances.

Most people realize the cost of money has increased rapidly in the past few years. Today interest rates generally are much higher than was the case two or three years ago.

The 3.3227 per cent interest rate on the bonds approved late last year by voters of Greenville and sold Tuesday reflects the soundness of the city's financial condition and the regard with the city's financial condition is considered in the money market.

With An Eye To Public Relations

Asheville, W. W. Sutton of Goldsboro, Ray Wilkinson of Rocky Mount and Stuart J. Back of Concord.

FAIRS — An important item on the business agenda of the North Carolina Association of Agricultural Fairs at its Raleigh meeting Friday will be an effort to obtain more State aid for county and district fairs.

The 1949 legislative act which gave the State Department of Agriculture substantial control over the operations of local fairs also authorized State financial aid. As has been the case in many other instances, the lawmakers forgot (?) to make available any money for that purpose.

Sponsors and managers of local fairs contend that if the State is going to exercise veto power on many activities which might yield operation revenue as well as over the premium list, it is reasonable to expect some financial aid from the State treasury.

PRECEDENT — There is ample precedent for State help for local fairs. Norman Chambliss, president of the Fair Association, reports that 23 states have a policy of State aid. Amounts range from about $100,000 in Arkansas to several millions in California. In most of the states aid is limited to participation in premiums paid, but in some instances buildings and other facilities are provided. In several cases premium payments are restricted to exhibits produced in the state, or by citizens of the state. In some others there are no restrictions.

The North Carolina fair folks will accept strict rules for eligibility and careful supervision over expenditure of State funds. They do feel that since the State has assumed as much control as it has, it should go the next step and help make the licensed fairs successful.

HEADQUARTERS — Two main travel routes have administrative headquarters in Virginia, although most of the activity is in North Carolina. It would simplify administration and save money in the long run if headquarters of the Blue Ridge Parkway were moved from Roanoke to Asheville, and headquarters of the Norfolk Southern Railroad moved from Norfolk to Raleigh.

Main barrier for the Parkway move is governmental red tape. For the railroad offices the obstacle is considerable immediate cost to make the transfer. Even though it might pay dividends later the N-S management needs that money now to buy rolling stock.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
PLACE OF LOVE IN RELIGION
Most people do not realize the place which love holds in the Christian religion. The idea seems to persist that being a Christian means assenting to a certain creed. That such assent plays an important part in one's religious life, no one can deny. But it is not primary. Love, and love alone, is primary.

Talk About The Weather

Everybody's doing it, so I'm sitting a few feet away with volumes of tales about the Far East.

That is, talk about yesterday's little bit of snow, last night's whole lot of ice, and today's cold weather.

Personally, I like it. I'm in favor of cold weather when it's supposed to be cold and hot weather when it's supposed to be hot. I guess I might even lean a little bit toward cold weather because it's a great deal easier to get warm than it is to get cold.

Another reason the present weather pleased me is because it has at last called to mind a war story. It's rather difficult to hold forth these days without one, especially with Alvin Taylor time we got to New York City the chill breezes had chased me into more substantial clothing and I was beginning to wonder about the wisdom of asking for the Fort Slocum assignment.

The two months at Fort Slocum started innocently. We had nice weather for a couple of days and then some Yankee weatherman decided it was time to learn about really cold weather.

I snowed three times the first week I was at Fort Slocum. From then until May 9 it was simply a case of snow, freeze, thaw, snow, freeze, thaw, and so on. I was lucky to get out alive.

I saw baseball games played in weather more suited for ice hockey and suffered through cold snaps I thought were reserved for Fort Churchill, Canada, or International Falls, Minn.

One thing I don't believe I'll ever forget was a frozen lake we stumbled on in New Hampshire. I had never seen such before and I haven't since.

Of course, I haven't been out in the country today to inspect any frozen ponds. They might be frozen after last night.

Other Editors Saying--- Adenauer's H-Bomb Plan

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)
On the heels of tentative suggestions by President Eisenhower, looking toward international control of atomic weapons, comes a more specific proposal by West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer. Herr Adenauer, "at a crowded news conference" in Bonn, urged that a start be made by international agreement to outlaw thermo-nuclear weapons.

He suggests this as a "definitive" approach to the solving of major international disputes which have parliaments and the United Nations running around in circles, and getting nowhere.

Herr Adenauer offered no practical method by which H-bombs could be abolished. Nor did he suggest feasible controls. This would seem to leave us where we have been since Moscow, "got the bomb."

Actually, his suggestion, may commend itself as a first step toward outlawing of weapons which virtually outlaw themselves, because of their suicidal potential.

It might be argued, irrefutably, that an H-bomb differs from an A-bomb only in magnitude of destruction. But to reduce that magnitude would in itself be no small victory for humanity at large.

It would be comparable to reducing the legal speed limit of an automobile from 200 miles to 100 miles per hour, as a point of beginning from which to work to

"Also see by the paper that grasshoppers bring big money when they are served as food for high class cocktail parties. # Last King Alive

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — All the kings of what Westbrook Pegler so aptly called "the era of wonderful nonsense" are dead, dignified, or retired — except one.

At the edge of 67, Paul Whiteman, the original "King of Jazz," looks 20 years younger, still boils over with the tempestuous energy that made the 1920s one of history's most memorable decades.

Paul, who for a time at the old Hippodrome conducted his band atop a white horse (can Arturo Toscanini match this claim?), has put together a golden anniversary record album to celebrate his 50 years in music.

The album has taken many an aging jazz lover back to the spritetime of his life when Bix Beiderbecke, who died young, blew a trumpet as no man has since, and a young unknown called Bing Crosby was one of three "Rhythm Boys" and didn't have a racehorse to his name.

The rest of this piece is a monologue of memories and summaries by "Pops" Whiteman, who keeps the 1920's wrapped in his soul but remains as fresh as tomorrow.

"They didn't call it jazz when I started. They called it ragtime. I began on the viola in the Denver Symphony Orchestra in 1906 when I was 16. By 1919 I had my own orchestra and came East. "I had 9 pieces and I built the band up to 46, counting the stringers."

"Those were the years! In 1925 I grossed $600,000 — before taxes, thank the Lord!"

"They talk about the $125,000 party that Texas oil man just threw. Around 1924 our band played for a party for Clarence Mackay on Long Island that cost $465,000."

"He only had about 200 invited guests, but he built a model of the Versailles Gardens for the brawl. There were two acres of cut flowers and an orange of 50 live trees shipped up from Florida just for that one night."

"I got a $10,000 tip myself — not unusual in those days. When they threw a party then they weren't fooling."

"I remember a party in Philadelphia where they turned a hotel ballroom into a jungle full of real monkeys, cockatoos — and guests. At 3 o'clock in the morning, they blew 15 tons of rose petals over the dancers."

"Yes, I threw the first big concert in a jazz band. We introduced George Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue.' I also had the first jazz band in the Ziegfeld Follies, and took the first American jazz band to Europe. They were high years."

"What killed the big bands? Well, I quit myself. But what destroyed most of them was the bandleaders got fat-headed. Over a period of 10 years they taught the people to listen to singers instead of dancing."

"Guy Lombardo didn't. That's why he's still big. The others made the singers bigger than their bands."

"The greatest entertainer I ever knew? Bing Crosby, as of now. But Sinatra is fabulously generous. Do you know that guy's given away 26 Cadillacs to people he likes."

"I wouldn't write off this Elvis Presley too fast either. That guy is a symbol to a lot of kids with troubles — but he's got something in his neck, too, and it comes out."

"Talent is God-given, although a lot of performers don't bother to give God equal billing. A thousand guys can practice equally hard — but only one has the spark."

"What destroys many performers is that their head gets so big it gets in their own way. And as their head gets bigger, their heart gets smaller."

"That never happened to Bing. You notice he never has a bad word to say about anybody except himself. Perry Como is the same way."

Protests Over Tax Inequities

By ELMER ROESSNER
There is strong grass-roots sentiment for elimination of some of the more glaring inequities in Federal excise taxes.

This sentiment was apparent during the House Ways and Means Committee hearings late last year. President Eisenhower's appeal to Congress to maintain the present tax level has not changed the situation; those who want the inequities removed say it can be done without loss of total tax revenue.

Despite the Administration's position, trade associations and victims of many of the taxes are continuing their protests. This is not in vain. Several Representatives have indicated they will work to bring some order, sense and fairness to the excises.

MESS OF HIGH ORDER
Almost no one will challenge the statement that excise levies are a mishmash of punitive legislation, antiquated concepts, sentimentality, morality, restrictions, vote-winning favoritism, ignorance and hill-billyism.

That's what the boy says: hill-billyism.

Example: Still wines of more than 14 and less than 21 per cent alcohol are taxed 67 cents per wine gallon, while artificially carbonated wines are taxed $2.40 per wine gallon and those carbonated by nature are taxed $3.40 a wine gallon. The only available explanation is that sparkling wines are wicked—Diamond Jim Brady drank it out of chorus girls' slippers every night at Rector's — and should be discouraged with heavy taxes.

Another: Cricket bats are taxed; baseball bats aren't. Cricket is a game of the British, who burned down the White House.

Another: Pool tables are taxed; poker tables aren't. Bums hang around poolrooms; heman player.

THIS TRIP NECESSARY?
Taxes were laid on transportation to discourage travel during the way. They still do. The tax on footballs was lifted to benefit educational institutions, the tax on fountain pens, ball points and mechanical pencils continues. There's an excise on fishermen's flies and lures, none on live worms or grasshoppers.

There's a tax on electric and gas stoves but not on charcoal broilers. That may help keep people out in the fresh air. There's a tax on Sen-Sen, which is a cachou, but not on clorets, which aren't.

Many excises are taxes on progress: on fountain pens but not on straight pens; clocks but not on sundials; on autos but not on wagons; on electric dishwashers and washing machines, but not on pans-and-tubs; refrigerators but not on iceboxes; on light bulbs but not on candles or oil lamps; on power lawnmowers but not on hand mowers. Some of these, too, may stem from hill-billyism. A Congressman from the back country might have grave suspicions about lights one can't blow out.

Air coolers are taxed at 10 per cent, but air heaters at only 5. Almost all office machines carry the hefty 10 per cent rate, but almost no plant machines are levied upon.

There's a tax on horse and dog races but not on rat races.

While several Representatives have indicated they plan to support bills to eliminate some of the more ridiculous designs from the patch-work quilt of excises, there seems to be considerable underlying sentiment for solving the problem by applying a sales tax on all manufactured goods at the manufacturers' level.

This seems to be a "share the misery" proposal. The cure may be worse than the ailment. Sales taxes tend to inhibit some of the more ridiculous designs from the patch-work quilt of excises, there seems to be considerable underlying sentiment for solving the problem by applying a sales tax on all manufactured goods at the manufacturers' level.

ODDITIES AND ENDMENTS IN THE BUSINESS NEWS
Americans bought 590,000,000 of leather shoes last year, a new record. The Leather Industries of America reports. That's 3 1/2 pairs of shoes per person.

Farmers, who once bought less carpeting than their city cousins, are now buying more, much of it wall-to-wall carpeting, a Daniel Starch survey indicates.

Federal laws prohibit the use of dairy terms that may mislead consumers to think that oleomargarine is a dairy product, but the Federal Trade Commission has restored the use of the trade name "Creamo" to the Blanton Co., St. Louis, as long as the label clearly indicates the contents. The brand name is 52 years old.

Liberals Get Brush-Off In Congress

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON Republican and Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill have defied and repudiated the liberal wings of both major parties in organizing key committees for the current session.

They disregarded the known wishes of both the Eisenhower and the Stevenson-Truman factions.

Their selections vest control of committees dealing with social, economic and industrial problems in the hands of conservatives. They took special pains to deprive the White House or Democratic "outsiders" of dominant influence over such questions as taxes, appropriations, business and industry and finances generally.

Only in the field of foreign affairs did they fore-shadow approval of Ike's general policies.

Although they violated the sacred seniority and preference systems when it satisfied their purposes, they refused to ease the path for an Eisenhower Civil Rights program when they renamed Senator James O. Eastland of Mississippi to the Judiciary Committee. And no more than a handful protested against placing such as opponent of Civil Rights in this all-important post.

NEW DEALERS' ADVICE REJECTED
The Democrats snubbed National Chairman Paul M. Butler's abortive Advisory Committee with apparent deliberation. They emphasized again that the Rayburn-Johnson regime would take no advice from such New Dealers as Harry S. Truman, Adlai E. Stevenson or Eleanor Roosevelt.

In naming Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts to Foreign Affairs over Senator Estes Kefauver, who ardently sought this honor, they showed how they felt about their 1956 Vice Presidential candidate. They took this way of revealing their resentment against the New Deal-Fair Deal campaign waged by Stevenson and his running mate from Tennessee.

HONOR FRANK LAUSCHE
The Democrats honoring of Senator Frank J. Lausche, a rebellious conservative, also offended the liberals. They named the man who supported the late Senator

Taft, a Roosevelt-Truman hair-shirt, to such important committees as Banking and Currency and Interstate and Foreign Commerce. This is an unusual honor for a first-termer, and enables him to oppose advanced proposals on financial, agricultural and industrial matters.

The Republicans gave Ike no assistance in his plan to "liberalize" the GOP. They lodged anti-Administration men in key spots and hazed his most enthusiastic supporters, as well as Senators for whom he had made special efforts last November.

They placed Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana on the important Finance Committee, and named Senator Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia to the committee which "Joe" McCarthy used to smear the Administration-Government operations. Both men have been listed as non-co-operative by White House spokesmen. Ike himself mentioned Jenner as belonging to this group. Jenner is a Republican and an isolationist.

EISENHOWER LIBERALS GET

INNOCUOUS POSTS
Three Eisenhower liberals, including two who had served under him, were sent to the foot of the class. They are Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, and Senator Jacob K. Javits of New York.

Cooper was given a seat on the Labor and Public Welfare Committees, where few measures of significance will be considered at this session. Morton was assigned to the group handling housekeeping and administrative chores for the District of Columbia, a job which Senators try to duck, and to Public Works.

Javits was shipped to two of the least influential units — District of Columbia and Rules. None of these three Eisenhower liberals can help to advance the White House program or reorganize the Party from these innocuous positions.

In short, Congress has thrown down a challenge to the reformers and the revisionists in both major Parties, even though it means defiance of two occupants of the White House — Ike and Harry — and the Democrats' nominal leader, Adlai E. Stevenson.

Self-Financing Plans For TVA In Proposed Budget

By HAMILTON G. FARON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The future of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) was stapled firmly to a self-financing plan by President Eisenhower today.

His budget contained no recommendations for immediate appropriation of money for new construction by the vast power-producing agency.

Nor did it call for any new construction paid for with funds of the giant agency — unless and until Congress approves a plan for sale of TVA bonds to finance new power units.

The budget message said that subject to approval of the revenue-bond plan, authorization will be proposed later for spending 30 million dollars on a new generating unit at an existing plant. There was no indication of what existing plant would be suggested.

The net result is that a bitter scrap certainly is in the works on TVA.

The revenue-bond program ran into rough sailing at the last session of Congress and made almost no progress.

Originally proposed by a majority of the three-member TVA board, the bond selling plan bumped into administration opposition.

It was rewritten by the Budget Bureau to "bring it into conformity with" practices of other government agencies.

That brought a storm of protest from TVA supporters in Congress. Most of their fire was directed at the bureau's proposal that the secretary of the treasury would have to approve terms of bond sales, including dates of issuance, terms and interest rates.

That, objected the staunch TVA backers, would "hamstring" the agency and make the secretary of the treasury an ex-officio member of the TVA board.

The President's message made no recommendations on the form the proposed bond selling plan should take. It said merely this: "Legislation is recommended to authorize the TVA, subject to regular budgetary review, to finance new generating facilities by the sale of revenue bonds."

"After the Congress has acted upon this legislative proposal, the power requirements of the TVA will be re-examined."

Then it added that, without waiting for the proposed re-examination of power needs, authorization would be asked later in a supplemental budget for issuance of 30 millions in bonds to finance a new unit at an existing plant.

Actual appropriations proposed in the budget were more than doubled, going up from the $5,357,000 appropriated a year ago to a requested $1,732,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

To that amount, the budget said, would be added $12,681,000 from previous appropriations to provide a total of $27,463,000 in appropriated money for TVA.

In addition, the budget proposed a program financed from TVA funds — proceeds from the sale of power and fertilizer — amounting to $221,965,000. This provides a total spending program for the agency of $249,428,000 for the next fiscal year, to cover all expenses, operating costs, construction and replacement.

ECC Audience Hears Senator On Legislation

Dr. Paul Jones of Farmville, state senator from Pitt County, reviewing at East Carolina College Monday night some major problems which will face the 1957 General Assembly, gave emphasis to those dealing with public education in North Carolina.

Though the provision of adequate money to maintain schools and school programs is of great importance, he said, "There is more to this problem than lack of funds."

Dr. Jones spoke at the college under the auspices of the East Carolina chapter of the American Association of University Professors. An audience of members and guests included approximately 100 people. Dr. Edgar W. Hirschberg, chapter president, introduced Dr. Jones.

More imaginative thinking in education, improved methods of instruction, better use of facilities, and expansion of programs of vocational education are among problems demanding attention in the state at present, he said.

The General Assembly, in providing funds for public education, he said, will consider carefully the suggestion of Governor Hodges that localities within the state should share part of the growing financial burden of the schools.

The proposal, he said, advocates that beyond the minimum standards of education which it is the duty of the state to maintain, counties and cities should assume part of the cost.

In view of the rising cost of living, Dr. Jones continued, "A new look at the salaries of public school and college faculties must be taken." The General Assembly, he continued, has the duty of providing adequate funds for instructional staffs, for keeping teachers now employed and recruiting new talent.

A minimum increase of ten percent in appropriations for salaries, he stated as his opinion, seems likely to be approved by the General Assembly.

Other major questions which will demand the attention of the 1957 General Assembly, he said, deal with the Highway Department and taxation.

Methods of securing adequate personnel, especially engineers, for building and maintaining highways and the separation of the prison system from the Highway Department are major problems, he said.

In North Carolina methods of taxing businesses carrying on interstate commerce are now, he said, "unfair and grasping." Changes seem advisable, he stated, if North Carolina is to keep industries now operating in the state and to attract new industries to bolster the economy, especially in the Eastern counties.

Plan Lecture Series On Teacher Education And Religion At ECC

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, professor emeritus of geology at Harvard University and an internationally known scientist, author and speaker, will be presented at East Carolina College during February and March. Vice President Leo W. Jenkins of the college has announced.

Other speakers announced by Dr. Jenkins include Dr. Donald D. Koonce, of Wilmington, president of the North Carolina Medical Society; President John D. Messick of East Carolina College; Dr. Clinton R. Prewett and Dr. Judson White of the department of psychology, East Carolina College; and Dr. Joseph D. Franzoni, director of mental health services

Pitt County Health Department. The lectures, sponsored by the committee on religion and teacher education at the college, have been scheduled as part of the 1957 Golden Anniversary Programs marking the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of East Carolina. Each meeting will be held at 8:15 in the North Dining Room on the campus and will include a cafeteria-style dinner and a lecture. Those interested are invited to attend.

Lectures to be presented in February and March will deal with religion, the disciplines, and other aspects of daily life. A second series of talks which will begin the latter part of March and extend through April will be based on topics related to religion and aesthetics.

Officers Resume Night Patrols

A night patrol has been resumed by the Sheriff's and ABC departments, Sheriff Ruel W. Tyson said today.

Deputy Cecil Crandall and ABC officer Jack Russell will be on patrol during the night hours, the sheriff said.

Persons in the county needing assistance from the Sheriff's Department or ABC officers can call the County Jail, 2951, or the Greenville police station 3141, at night. The patrol car can be reached by radio.

Dr. Marshall To Lead Discussion

Dr. W. E. Marshall will lead the discussion tonight on "Communism As A World Religion" when men of the First Presbyterian Church meet at 6:45 o'clock.

Tonight's program is the first in a series on the struggle between Christianity and Communism.

The meeting will be held in the church fellowship hall. Supper will be served by Circle Five of which Mrs. Floyd Simmons is chairman.

"I bought a Deal"

Don't buy a "Deal." Going back for service and extra stops at gas stations soon offsets the apparent advantages.

Buy the automobile you want. If you want Command Performance in a car, "step on" a Studebaker or Packard and feel that supercharger go to work for you at any speed.

Enjoy Twin Traction with drive at both rear wheels on ice, in snow or mud.

Enjoy command stops with Studebaker-Packard's air-cooled brakes.

Enjoy the prestige of the car that is different.

"I bought a Studebaker-Packard"

Sheridan Cragun of Yakima, Washington, wanted sports car performance plus low gas consumption. He also wanted a car his family would enjoy. He got everything he wanted in a Studebaker. Here's the proof:

"A gas-slingy Studebaker Hawk, piloted by its proud owner, Sheridan Cragun of Yakima, Washington, topped all other cars competing in the Yakima Valley Sports Car Club Economy Run. The Hawk, equipped with automatic, earned its victory by attaining a phenomenal 52.8 miles per gallon (25.9 actual miles per gallon).

"Included in the Run were practically all makes of foreign sports cars.

"Competing cars began the test at Yakima and drove through Vantage, Wenatchee, Cle Elum via Blewett Pass and back again to Yakima. Cragun was accompanied on the Run by his wife and two children."

UNC Cagers 'Enthroned' After Crushing Wolfpack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No matter how North Carolina's terrific Tar Heels may rank nationally—they're top-notch in their own basketball-infected home state.

The frantic fans of Coach Frank McGuire's hoop scorers placed the Tar Heels on an imaginary throne after an 83-57 win over North Carolina State's Wolfpack last night.

The fans, unobjective as fans are, were not too willing to make allowances for missing John Richter, the Wolfpack's forward shooting star, suffering a sprained ankle.

But last night, the Tar Heels, hubbed by the fantastic Lennie Rosenbluth, clobbered Everett Case's perennially powerful Wolfpack on State's home floor. That, say the homefolks, did it. McGuire has really got it, Kansas and Kentucky notwithstanding.

The victory ran the Tar Heels' streak to 15-0 over-all and 6-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

In rolling over their arch rivals, the Tar Heels also successfully bucked the ACC's tag of "a home court league." It was one of only three games this season in which the visiting team has won a league game in the muscular loop.

A very good example was Virginia's surprising 76-73 victory over favored South Carolina at Charlottesville last night. The Gamecocks have the nation's second highest scorer in forward Grady Wallace. But his 23 points weren't enough to prevent Virginia from winning its first conference game in four starts on its home floor.

McGuire himself is one of the chief exponents of the theory of the home team having the distinct advantage. Only Monday the Brooklyn Irishman told his squad, ranked No. 2 behind Kansas in this week's Associated Press poll, that they could lose "gracefully" at Raleigh, and that a loss to North Carolina State wouldn't be a disgrace.

But a crowd of 12,200 in the Wolfpack's Memorial Coliseum saw the Tar Heels display their usual deadly accuracy from the free throw line. This, plus Rosenbluth's uncanny marksmanship from the floor, helped the Tar Heels pull away to a big advantage in a game that had been a nip-and-tuck affair from the beginning.

Rosenbluth whipped in 29 points, better than his 26.1 season's per game average, and Pete Brennan contributed 22. But it was the 43 points the Tar Heels scored from the free throw line that spelled the difference. They outscored the Wolfpack by but one field goal from the floor.

Wallace, a 6-4 senior from Mare Creek, Ky., almost brought his South Carolinians to victory against Virginia. An even dozen of his points came in the last 10 minutes. They brought the Gamecocks from behind a 56-68 deficit to a 71-70 lead with less than three minutes left.

But Wallace's effort wasn't enough as Jerry Cooper, Bob Hardy and Bill Miller pulled the game out of the fire with last minute scoring.

Elsewhere in North Carolina, last night, Western Carolina defeated Guilford 82-61 in a North State Conference game.

Bill Bowen shoved the Catawbas into a 2-0 lead as the game opened and the game's outcome never was in doubt. He wound up with 21 points, to claim high scoring honors.

Western Carolina will be at Appalachian tonight, while Elon will be at Atlantic Christian. Lenoir Rhyne will be at Catawba.

G-Men Going To Roanoke Rapids

ROANOKE RAPIDS — Tonight, the Greenville high school cagers tangle with Roanoke Rapids on the Yellow Jacket home court, and will go into the game with a four-point advantage, according to predictions.

On the strength of their 2-1 conference record, and the fact that Roanoke Rapids has been lounded heavily by both Washington and Kinston in their first two loop encounters, the Phantoms have been given a slight edge.

A victory tonight would give GHS a 3-1 mark and push them up a notch in the conference.

Coach Farley is expected to use Dick Evans and Peanut Nunn at starting forwards, Mack Roebuck and Wesley Hudson at starting guards and Steve Noble at center.

Others expected to see action will be Walker Allen, Billy Cox, Al Crawford, Joe Wingate, Wayne Eidson, Angus Duff, Bob Bilbro, and Charlie Smith.

The Phantom Jayvees are slated to meet the Roanoke Rapids Jayvees in a 6:30 preliminary contest. The varsity encounter will start at 8:00.

Pirates Tackle Guilford In Local Gym Tomorrow; Jayvees In Prelim Game

By BILLY ARNOLD
Reflector Sports Editor
Trying hard to retain their regular-season North State Conference crown, East Carolina College's cagers will tackle a visiting Guilford club in Memorial gymnasium tomorrow night in search of their fourth loop win of the year.

The Bucs will be rated a 12-point favorite over the visiting Quakers, although many observers think that ECC may be handed their second defeat in the "Jinx" gym history.

Guilford, having a rather rough season, fell before the Pirate onslaught in the first North State game of the season in December, 73-60. Since that time, the Quakers have been receiving a rough reception from all their foes and have been unable to rise no higher than sixth or seventh slot in the league standings.

However, the Quakers did push Atlantic Christian into an overtime last week, and gave the highly-touted Bulldogs a battle before finally losing out. Some observers think that a Pirate off-night and a Quaker on-night could possibly produce another upset in Memorial gymnasium.

Harris in shape?
The observers who see the possibility of an East Carolina loss, point to Don Harris' miserable performance against Elon Saturday night. The Bucs were dropped 77-59 for their third loop defeat of the season and Harris, the team's top scorer, contributed only two points. The Laurinburg senior's play is a lot like ECC play all together; they may be hot or they may be cold, and that makes for a very uncertain outlook.

Coach Howard Porter, who does not make excuses for his team, stated early in the season that regular-season—play this year would be a scramble for all teams involved. "We won the regular-season crown last year with three losses," he stated, "and I imagine it could be done this year by a team with as many as four defeats." The Fox said this way back in December, when he Bucs had a fresh 2-1 mark.

ACC, generally rated to be one of the top teams in the running, has already taken it on the chin three times also. High Point, the number two club, has been beaten once. Only Lenoir Rhyne is still undefeated, with a 5-0 record.

It should be noted here that regular-season play does not determine the Conference's championship club. The North State Tournament decides the loop title and regular-season play is all but dismissed when that tourney begins. For example, ECC grabbed the regular-season title last year with a 13-3 mark, but Elon captured the tourney and the Conference Championship.

Preliminary
The undefeated Pirate Jayvees will stage a preliminary contest tomorrow night against Durham high school. The game will pit the ECC club against one of the strongest AAA high school teams in the state.

Coach Earl Smith's Jayvees have won four straight games and are picked to take number five tomorrow night by only a slim margin. The game will begin at six o'clock.

Rosewall Evens Score, Whipping Pancho Gonzales
MELBOURNE (AP) — The Ken Rosewall - Pancho Gonzales tennis tour promises to be a thriller.

Gonzales, king of the pros, spoiled Rosewall's professional debut Monday night by beating the former Australian Davis Cup star.

Rosewall, who accepted a $65,000 contract last month from Promoter Jack Kramer, showed increased confidence in handling Gonzales' service. But the pro champion from Los Angeles was undismayed.

"Ken will have to do a lot better to stay with me on this 100-match tour," Gonzales said. "I didn't play my best and Ken was a lot stronger than in the first match. But I'm going to do much better and he will have to improve with me."

Drive To Settle Louis Tax Debt

CHICAGO (AP) — A one-shot attempt to settle former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis' income tax debt was started yesterday in the form of a three-week fund drive.

Headed by a pair of Norfolk, Neb., businessmen, the fund was chartered as a nonprofit organization in hopes of clearing Louis' 1 million dollars in back taxes and interest.

The fund was conceived last October by John Younghein and George Reeves Jr., both of Norfolk, because they "always were for the underdog."

Neither Younghein, commercial pilot who operates a charter flight service, nor Reeves, president of a Norfolk mortuary and a pipeline company, had ever seen the Brown Bomber fight.

Another former champion, Jack Dempsey, was named honorary chairman of the fund's board of directors. Dempsey readily accepted "to help my good friend, Joe Louis."

The campaign will include solicitation through personal, press radio and TV appeals.

In case the drive fails to achieve a tax settlement, money collected will be distributed to the needy aged. The fund's address is Post Office Box 1174, Chicago.

Berrios, Cadille In Ten-Rounder

BOSTON (AP) — Rugged Muel Berrios of Puerto Rico, a top-ranked contender for Sandy Saddler's featherweight title, meets stylish Gil Cadill in a scheduled 10-round bout tonight at Mechanics Building.

Berrios and Cadill will be making their New England debut. The bout will be telecast nationally (ABC) with Boston stations blacked out.

Cadill, one of the better fighters in Sid Flaherty's stable, has lost only five of 37 fights. He has defeated Willie Pep and Ike Chestnut.

100-Point Game Boast Deflated

OTIS, Kan. (AP) — The unbeaten Otis High School basketball team had boasted it would run up at least 100 points against Bison High last night.

Bison heard about it and started stalling as soon as it got its hands on the ball.

Final score: Otis 7, Bison 2.

Industrial Basketball League Will Begin Playing Here January 21

The Greenville Industrial Basketball League will begin play on January 21 in the local Armory, with games being played on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, the Recreation Department announced today.

A meeting will be held at Elm Street park Thursday night, January 17, to discuss the arrangements concerning the league. All players are asked to be present. The Recreation Department has asked that all clubs have a representative at the meeting.

At present, four teams are scheduled to participate in the program. One team may be an independent club, the Department announced today, since it has not as yet found a sponsor.

The clubs will be made up of local businessmen or any local citizens of that age bracket. No high school or college boys will participate in play.

The Department stated further that the armory is now open to the teams on Tuesday and Wednesday nights for practice. It will be heated.

WARNING!

BEWARE COUGHS THAT HANG ON FOLLOWING COLDS

A stubborn cough following a common cold may develop into chronic bronchitis — a condition far worse than the cold itself. Before it is too late relieve that cough with Creomulsion Cough Syrup right now. Creomulsion stops the tickle, comforts raw throat membranes, clears the breathing passages, fights the cause of irritation — quickly. It's safer, too, because it is free of narcotics or antihistamines. Don't let that cough break you down. Begin taking Creomulsion at once.

Air Defenses Of Britain Reduced In Economy Step

LONDON — Britain's shortage of fuel and money has forced cutbacks in its air defenses.

The Air Ministry said most units of the Royal Auxiliary Air Force were being disbanded. The auxiliaries are part-time fliers assigned the role of defense against low-level attack.

Active Week For Farmville Students

By BETTY SUE DAIL
Farmville School Reporter

Wade Mills called the monthly Future Farmers of America meeting to order, after which Jimmy Hinson read the minutes. Since there was no business the meeting was turned over to the F. F. A. String Band, consisting of Tommy Phillips, Donald Lawson, Donald Robinson, and Robert Killbrew. The meeting was then adjourned.

BETTY SUE DAIL, Farmville School Reporter.

The Future Teachers of America met with Mrs. Herbert Hart, advisor, January 9. Linda Mewborn, president, called the meeting to order; Faye Baker then read the minutes of the last meeting. There was no business. Mrs. Hart then discussed the qualities of the "Miss Representative Future Teacher."

Sue Dilda had as her guest during the holidays Alice Waters of Winterville and Francis Sullivan of Birmingham, Alabama.

Ann Pollard, a senior at Peace College, visited her parents during the holidays.

Jane Joyner spent the holidays with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Joyner. Jane, a former student of F. H. S., is enrolled at the Duke University School of Nursing.

Wilma Lloyd visited Dorothy Hart and Betty Craft of Ayden during the week-end.

The monthly meeting of the Future Business Leaders of America was called to order by the president, Dean Allen. Membership cards were distributed following the repeating of the Future Business Leaders of America Creed. The F. B. L. A. Forum was then given to each member. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. S. H. Aycock, Jr., one of the sponsors, who introduced the speaker Miss Easley of A. C. Monk and Company. Miss Easley spoke to the group concerning the award that will be given the outstanding business girl of the year. She answered questions as "What qualities must this girl possess?" "Who is eligible for the award?" along with several others. The meeting was then adjourned.

On Monday, January 8, notes concerning report cards were given to each student. Mr. Sam L. Bundy, principal, requested that parents come for the report cards. This will give parents an opportunity to meet the teachers and get a first hand report on the work that their children are doing. Parents whose last name began with A-K were to go Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock. Those whose last names began with L-Z were to go Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Back to work again. We began the last half of the 1956-57 school year with eagerness. There is a look of freshness and eagerness on the faces of the teachers as well as those of the students.

On Wednesday, January 9, Farmville 4-H Club held its regular meeting. The meeting was called to order by the president, Larry Dilda. Horace Corbett led the pledge to the American flag. After the devotional, given by Lil Dilda, the group sang songs. The minutes were read and approved. Miss Stevens' demonstration was on "Improved Home Lighting" and a demonstration on "Grading Eggs" was given by Mr. Register.
